Senior Girls Vie For 'Junior Miss'

A dozen high school girls will compete for the coveted Junior Miss title here Saturday in the first of an annual pageant sponsored by the Northville Jaycees.

The colorful pageant will be held in the high school auditorium beginning at Contestants - all seniors - include (in order of their appearance) Lynn Elkins, Prudence Hartt, Connie Bannan. Mary Horsfall, Narda Foreman, Susan Schlief, Penny Thomas, Lynn McCormick, Lynn Susan Tiilikka, Susan Marie Yoder, Caroline Bea Collacottand.Connie Cook.

The spotlight will play on each of the girls as they present personalized programs aimed at winning the vote of judges, who also will determine the winner by her poise and appearance in an on-stage interview.

The winning girl will receive a $200 scholarship awardfrom Rathburn Chevrolet and automatically become eligible to represent Northville in the state Junior Miss Pageant at Pontiac late in January. Should she win again at Pontiac, she'll receive a $1,000 scholarship and travel to Mobile, Alabama to represent Michigan in the National

At Mobile, the winner will receive up to $10,000 in scholarship money together with an adventure filled year of traveling throughout the United

In addition to the $200 first prize here, a $50 savings bond will go to the first runner-up and a $25 savings bond to the next runner-up. All girls will receive a special gift plus a photo album of the pageant.

Contestants will be judged upon scholastic achievement, personality, poise and appearance, youth fitness, and creative and performing arts.

The local pageant format calls for a musical prelude, with an organ presentation by Helene Christian, a parade of the contestants, introduction of the judges, explanation of pageant rules, the poise and appearance judging, and the individual performances.

Other features will include a song medley by the J.C. 3.

Master of ceremonies for the twohour event will be Terry LaRue. Judges include Pamela Stopper, dance instructor; Robert Smith, Detroit Metro sales manager for the Gulf Oil corporation; and Robert Pageant, Jaycee state vicepresident.

Jaycee officials emphasize that the Junior Miss Pageant is not a beauty contest and bathing suit competition is not allowed, "It's simply a program to recognize and honor outstanding high school senior girls in our community."

According to Pageant Chairman Richard Kernozek, more than 20 girls asked to become contestants but the number was necessarily limited to 12. "All of the girls who were not selected as finalists were exceptional students and we were thrilled with their enthusiasm. It was really tough to eliminate them.

"The fact that we received more applicance than cities much larger in size is a tribute to Northville high school."

Kernozek also praised Northville merchants for their cooperation in supporting this first local pageant.

Assisting Kernozek on the Jaycee pageant committee are Orville Beemer, club president, Charles Ely Jr., Richard Norton, Joseph Kluesner, and James McCarthy.

Pass the Bear

Contrary to what you may have heard, Northville area men need not wear their teeth Saturday night.

Chers for the American Legion Lloyd H. Green Post 147 will be using their famous but secret recipe in preparing meats for the annual Hunters' Dinner at the Legion Hall beginning at 6:30

"We'll be using a special tenderizing recipe passed down to us from the dark ages," they promise. "So tender in fact that you can leave your teeth at home."

According to Howard Wright, chairman of the stag event, this year's menu will feature bear, venison, moose, and squirrel - all guaranteed to please any palate. A program also is planned.

'Nice Kids' Get Their Kicks Destroying Maybury Building

"They're the nicest kids you'd ever want to meet. They can lie with the sweetest face you ever saw. Boys and girls. They're neatly dressed. A few are ruffians, but most are quite respectable.

"Some come with big chains, some with bats. Most of them come out in new, shiny cars. Sometimes they throw full beer bottles through the windows. They've broken thousands. Sometimes they leave full bottles.

"They break windows faster than we can board them up. The state police and sheriff's department have thrown up their hands. We patrol, but life is more valuable than property.

So said Frank Markowski, business manager of Maybury Sanatorium. He was speaking of the 400 children who have been caught during the last three years as they descended on the deserted rehabilitation building on sanatorium property in "search of a party." Others have escaped.

Damage to the rehabilitation building is estimated roughly at $20,000.

Two guards are always on duty on sanatorium grounds, located between Beck and Napier roads on the east and west, and Eight and Seven Mile roads on the north and south, Markowski said. But with 862 acres to patrol, he added, the job is monumental.

Furthermore, the isolation of the rehabilitation building poses a security hardship, Markowski stated. Vacated in 1963, the building is located about eight city blocks from the main complex to the west, where guards must concentrate to safeguard patients and employees.

Road blocks and signs have been erected, but vandals persist in tearing them down, Markowski said. They park their cars on Beck and Seven Mile roads, the business manager said, even though signs specifically say "no parking," and walk about a quarter of a mile to the building in summer or winter.

Very few come from Northville, Markowski stated. Most of them are from surrounding communities, where

Township OK's Apartments

Approval for rezoning 19 acres on Five Mile road from single family residential to multiple dwelling classification was handed down by the Northville township board Tuesday night.

The decision was based upon the recommendation of the planning commission, which together with the board fielded a barrage of citizenry complaints at a joint meeting on this matter last month.

In other board action, another effort by the supervisor to appoint Treasurer Alex Lawrence manager of the water and sewer department was scuttled, and board members heard a proposal calling for development of Waterford lake off Six Mile road as a sanitary landfill.

Incorporated with the board's vote granting the zoning change of the Five Mile property were the reasons backing the change given by the planners.

These reasons, as spelled out by Trustee Bernard Baldwin who also serves on the commission, include: 1-The area in question lies adjacent to property which is business in char-

2-It fronts on a major thoroughfare (Five Mile), which ultimately will lead into a north-south expressway.

3-It is adjacent to a church, which is non-residential in character. 4-Multiple dwelling classification will not adverselv af ect the welfare or safety of the citizens of the area.

Request for the rezoning was made by the Fred Greenspan Building company, which proposes to construct an apartment development containing some 275 units. The parcel fronts on Five Mile road and is adjacent to the eastern boundary of the Lutheran church property. It connects to Greenspanowned land totaling 130 acres which extends along Bradner road. A development of single family homes is proposed for this remaining area.

A proposal by Thomas Healy, attorney for opponents of the zoning change, that a greenbelt between the multiple dwellings and adjacent residences, apparently is assured under the zoning ordinance.

Baldwin pointed out that the ordinance requires a greenbelt between offstreet parking areas and residential areas. And since Greenspan plans to construct parking areas along the perimeter of the property a greenbelt would be a necessity, he said.

Furthermore, the trustee noted that the developer's site plans indicate a 10-foot corridor for just such a greenbelt. ******

Supervisor R. D. Merriam's reattempt to have Lawrence appointed manager of the sewer and water department ran into a snag with opposition by Baldwin and Trustee James Tellam, Baldwin reminded Merriam that at previous annual meetings the board had stated repeatedly that the treasurer's post was a full time job. To say now that Lawrence could do both jobs would be a sign of "not leveling with the people," he said.

Merriam, who had hoped for unanimous approval of the appointment, withdrew his request, dropping the matter in the laps of his opponents. He suggested that they come up with an alternate proposal for handling what he said would become an important, greatly expanded workload with the advent of apartments and subdivisions'in the township.

Of the seven general contractors bidding on the high school addition, C. H. Reisdorf & Sons submitted the lowest bid at $579,000. The next lowest was J. V. Moriarty at $595,643. The high bid came in at $738,352.

Although Reisdorf was the low bider, the company conditioned its bid upon a completion date of February 1968 - instead of the September 1967 date agreed upon by all other bidders.

$11,005. There were three bidders on this equipment. Only Class Rooms, Inc. bid on library equipment, submitting a figure of $11,810. All of the bids were referred by the board to the architect for review and recommendation. The architect stated earlier that the swimming pool was lumped together with the other high school addition projects to assure a better total bid price. However, he indicated that the winning contractor will be asked to furnish a break-down of these costs for bookkeeping purposes since $500,000 was specifically earmarked for the pool.

Besides the swimming pool, additions will include three academic classrooms, two science laboratories, a two teaching-station shop, a new resource center (library) and locker rooms for Construction of the additions, particularly the new library, are to be scheduled so as not to interfere with classroom instruction.

School officials are hopeful that construction will get underway in January. If so, three separate building programs will be in the works. Construction of Moraine elementary is nearing completion, and work on the junior high school reportedly is "ahead of schedule".

Conley to Leave Recreation Post

The man whose name has become synonomous with the Northville Recreation department, Ken Conley, has submitted his resignation as director, effective December 31.

Made before the Northville Recreation committee, a joint township-city body, the announcement brings to an end Conley's 13-year association with the department, seven as director.

His resignation, rumored since last summer, means the search for a replacement for the $4,000 a year, parttime job of director will begin immediately. Responsible for selecting a successor will be R. D. Merriam, chairman of the Northville Recreation Committee, and members Stan Johnston, Al Jones, Del Black and Ed Welch.

"I hate to leave the job," Conley said, "but I can't handle the combined teaching and recreation load," Conley is a mathematics teacher at Oak Park high school.

According to Conley, the job as director demands about 1300 to 1500 hours per year, "I'd take as much paper work home with me as I could," he stated, "so I could see my family." In addition, Conley says he also works 2500 hours per year as a teacher.

Since Conley has assumed duties as director, the department has doubled in size. Seven years ago, Conley said, 500 to 600 people participated in the program, now there are about 1100. There has been a corresponding rise in the number of part time employees - from 12 to 32.

Guided by Conley, they supervised the growing recreation program. The graying, bespectacled director has added swimming instruction, canoeing and the AuSable river canoe trip, nature hikes, activities for senior citizens and women's gym classes to the program, plus sponsorship of the Northville Players and TOPS.

Conley's successor will have more time for recreation supervision, thanks to a move presently contemplated. The city will take over bookkeeping functions on January 1, City Manager Frank Ollendorf said, "We can do it more efficiently and it will give the recreation director more time to devote to purely recreation duties," Conley predicted that the new administrative procedure will save 400 hours of the director's time.

Conley pointed out, however, that the director will still be responsible for budgeting, making out schedules, hiring, supervision of programs, public relations ("the biggest burden"), registration, assignment of personnel and the making of reservations.

If proposed plans for expansion of the program are implemented, Conley stated, the directorship will possibly become a full time job.

Tax Notice Greetings Due in City, Township

Along with the ice and rain, residents of Northville township are faced with tax bills this week.

According to Treasurer Alex Lawrence, the majority of tax bills have been mailed to township property owners. The tax roll totals $750,832.56, including $570,050.32 of real property and $180,782.24 of personal property.

School and county tax bills for city residents are expected to go out sometime next week.

Taxes are payable in the city through February 14 without penalty. From that date until the end of February, taxes are payable with a 4% penalty.

Township taxpayers have until February 28 to pay without penalty.

After February, delinquent tax bills are turned over to the county for collection. The county assesses an additional 1/2% penalty per month plus

According to Lawrence, some tax bills have not yet reached taxpayers because of changes in property owner-

"This delay could be avoided," he said, "if individuals and real estate salesmen informed the township whenever a change of ownership occurs. Without this information, tax bills go out to the original owner causing confusion and delay."

the gift-giving season that Northville's Jaycettes have launched upon a search for an outstanding young woman in our area to be honored. Jaycettes are asking for nominations from local organizations with young women between 21 and 36 years old. The Northville Jaycettes, she says, are seeking a young woman who is active in civic and community affairs, who is more than just a "joiner" and has made contributions to her community.

The winner will be honored locally and her name will be sent to Ann Arbor after the December 19 local deadline. She then will compete in an area contest with that winner going on to statewide finals. The state winner will be honored at a state luncheonat Wyoming, Michigan, near Grand Rapids, in February.

MRS. NORTON stresses that the state Jaycee auxiliary and the local Jaycettes do not propose to honor "the committee woman who dashes about and neglects her home but rather the young woman who enriches her home, her family and community with significant contributions." The local group, she says, hopes to find an outstanding young woman who, perhaps, is active in volunteer activities like scouting, nursery school and PTA.

. She asks that nominations be made to her at her home, 325 Ely drive, as soon as possible. Co-sponsor of the contest with the Michigan auxiliary is Simplicity patterns.

It is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, and from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Ideal for sledding and tobogganning are the hilly slopes at the winter sports area which has enclosed warming shelter with fireplace and tables. There are four toboggan tracks and a separate area for sledding. The area is open from 8 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

citizens' committee as proposed by the Northville Area Economic Development Committee will begininearnest next Wednesday evening, December 14.

An initial meeting was held last week. Representatives appointed to a steering committee by the city, township, school board and chamber of commerce decided representation on the steering committee should be expanded to include Novi.

An invitation was extended to the Novi village council to name two representatives and Monday night the council selected Village Manager Harold Ackley and Raymond Evans, chairman of the village planning commission.

Earlier this fall the Economic Development committee called upon the city, township, chamber and school board to take part in the formation of a broad citizens' committee to make an objective, unbiased study of "needed services and possible future governmental structural changes in the area to better and more economically serve the increasing population".

The bodies responded by appointing Supervisor R. D. Merriam and Bernard Baldwin from Northville township; Mayor A. M. Allen and Planning Chairman George Zerbel from the city; John Carlo and C. A. Hoffman from the chamber; and Donald Lawrence and Robert Froelich from the board of educa-

Lawrence, who is also president of the development committee, chairmaned the initial meeting last week and outlined the need for community-wide planning. At the suggestion of Zerbel the steering committee decided to seek Novi representation because of the school district over-lapping and the cooperation in planning required by its proximity.

It was proposed by Baldwin that the first business of the steering committee should be to define its objectives, outlining possible areas for improvement by cooperative effort and then set out to establish a representative committee of citizens.

Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting will be held in the conference room of Manufacturers National Bank in Northville.

rumor of "a haunted building" is conveyed through the high school grape vine.

"All this stems from lack of parental control," Markowski said. "I'd sure like to nail the parents for being so permissive."

To curtail the vandalism, Markowski said he is appealing to the parents. "If the sheriff's department finds a car illegally parked on Beck road, they'll impound the car and the parents are called," he said.

There's reason for official alarm. "We fear that someone will be injured killed," Markowski declared. "We're also trying to impress the kids with the contagious habit of tubercular germs. They're exposing themselves."

Since its evacuation, the brick structure, actually a complex in itself with three wings and an addition on the north side, has been ravaged by time as well as by malicious youngsters. Without heat, paint has peeled from the ceiling and walls, plaster patches have fallen to the floor.

Cost of reclaiming the building for occupancy is now pegged at about $200,000. At the time it was vacated, cost of renovating the building would have been approximately $50,000, Markowski declared.

The city of Detroit, which owns Maybury sanatorium property and buildings, has not officially declared what disposition it will make of the building or some 500 to 600 acres of land surrounding the main complex.

Governor George Romney had once suggested that the building be used as a half-way house for delinquent or indigent boys, but the plan has long since been scrapped. "The cost of staffing it as a half-way house or work area for training programs is prohibitive," Markowski stated. "We've been trying to interest the city in converting it into a club house and the grounds into a golf course," Markowski said. No action apparently has been taken on the proposal, it was reported.

Meanwhile, the building is being destroyed by time and fun-seeking teen-

Surprise Trojan's, 63-47

Mustangs Play Over Mistakes

the Northville Mustangs ran to a surprising 63-47 victory over visiting Clarenceville last Friday night.

With an all-veteran team returning, Clarenceville was conceded the pre-game edge. But a bristling defense and a plucky offense proved too much for the lumbering Trojans.

The win enabled Northville to climb into a first place tie with Holly and preseason favorites, Bloomfield Hills and Clarkston, in the Wayne-Oakland Conference. All team's are 1-0. Bloomfield edged Milford, Northville's next opponent, 73-66, Clarkston whipped West Bloomfield, 78-58, and Holly trounced Brighton, 54-30.

It was the second win in a row for the young Mustangs, who took a marked stride toward improvement against Clarenceville. "We looked better than we did against South Lyon," Coach Dave Longridge said. "We played a faster game and rebounded better."

Although Northville won by a decided margin, the game was anything but a run-away. Northville had to fight off

Matmen Upset Farmington In Initial Match

Northville's matmen rubbed out many painful memories of the frustration of seasons past last Friday by whipping perennially strong Farmington, 26-24, in the first match of the 1966-67 season

Heavyweight Dan Conklin provided the margin of victory as he pinned his man in just 55 seconds. Up to that point, Northville was trailing by three points.

"It's the first time in the history of the school, I think, that we've beaten Farmington, a class A school," Coach Jack Townsley said elatedly. 'It was really a team victory.' Northville jumped off to an early,

16-6 lead, wracking up points in the lighter weights where the Mustangs were supposed to be strong. Farmington came back in the heavier classes to go ahead and set the stage for Conklin's dramatic win. Dave Grondin, 95 pounds, won by forfett, Bob Baber at 112 pounds took a decision and Marty Richardson "did everything but butcher his man, taking a 14-2 decision. Chuck Keegan at 103 pounds dropped a decisionas Northville raced to a 11-3 lead.

Tom Wright lost a 3-0 decision, but Curt Olewnik, 133 pounds, pinned his man in one minute of the second period to give Northville its first 10point lead at 16-6.

Normally a 127 pounder. Don Sasse went out of his weight into the 138 class and was pinned. Dale Ashbey, last year's "hard luck wrestler," made up ground by pinning his man in one minute and re-established Northville's

As expected, Farmington came to life in the heavier weights. Unable to field a man at 154 pounds, Northville forfeited. Bob Beason at 165 lost by decision, and Rick Hammond, in his first varsity match and wrestling out of his weight class, was pinned. Behind 24-21, Northville then won on Conklin's pin. "It was a big thrill," Townsley glowed. "Last year they beat us 39-8."

Men's Basketball Slated for Tonight

Men's recreation basketball will begin today at 7:30 p.m. in the junior high school boys' gym and will be held each Thursday night until April, Ken Conley, recreation director, announced this

Only those senior boys who do not intend to participate in any further high school sport are invited to attend, Conley said.

Jayvees Post Second Victory

New faces dot the lineup, but the Northville Jayvees are playing the same brand of basketball they did last year when they posted a 15-3 record. Coach Bob Kucher's cagers are applying their zone press, forcing mistakes and bagging break away buckets. Right now they're 2-0, having polished off Clarenceville, 73-35, last Friday night after beating South Lyon.

The Colts jumped to a 24-6 lead at the end of the first quarter, then slacked off and still mounted the score. They hit 58 per cent of their shots (33 of 61). Guard Jeff Taylor paced the attack with 20 points, hitting on 11 of 12 shots from the field. Greg Carr had 15, Ralph Robinson 13, Craig Turnbull nine and Stan Nirider six points.

a early third quarter threat, and it took a technical foul in the fourth quarter to spark the final winning surge.

Time and again the green Mustangs. scrapping all the way, built up substantial margins, only to fail to pull safely ahead until the final stanza. Northville led by eight points in the first quarter, 10 in the second, six in the third, and finally, 16 in the final

The only veteran on the team, Jim Zayti, led the local scorers by netting 21 points. He converted 13 of 15 free throws, almost half of Northville's 27 points garnered at the foul line. In fact, the Mustangs won it at the foul stripe. Both teams fired in 18 field goals.

Leading the improved rebounding was Center Jim Peterson. He grabbed 18 caroms and also contributed 13 points, six of them on three consecutive field goals in the first quarter which gave Northville a 16-7 advantage. Northville jumped to a 22-14 first quarter lead, primarily byforcing mistakes with its all-court press. Peterson led the early surge with 10 points on four field goals and two free throws. Five times the Mustangs missed clear shots from within the freethrow circle.

Play was ragged in the second period as Northville held doggedly to a 10point margin. But Clarenceville tallied two successive baskets in the closing moments, one on an interception at the buzzer, to close the margin at halftime Clarenceville maintained its zone and put on a press of its own at the outset of the second half. It paid off. The Trojans tied the game at 34-34 and the outcome of the game hung precariously on the next score.

In the clutch Zayti came through. He tallied a three-pointer, flipping the ball in from the pivot and converting the subsequent free throw. Moments later, Zayti converted another free throw to give Northville the impetus it needed to gain a 46-40 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Clinging tenaciously to a 52-44 lead midway through the fourth quarter, Northville got the break that broke the game open. A foul was called on Clarenceville, and when the Trojans objected too much, a technical was assess-

Mathews converted a free throw as did Zayti, putting Northville ahead, 54-44. Mathews then hit on a long set shot on the in-bounds play and Northville led, 56-44.

In desperation, Clarenceville disbanded its zone and came out in an allcourt press. Zayti swiped the ball twice, bagging a layup and converting two free throws, and Guard Joe Andrews stole the ball once for a break away field goal to make the final margin decisive.

Once again Northville will take on veteran laden team Friday, traveling to Milford to play the Redskins. Prime movers in their attack are Jim Skinner and Bill Hill, both of whom reach between 6'2" and 6'3"- and Bob McFarland, a play making guard.

RECOGNITION NIGHT-Master of Ceremonies Judge Charles McDonald is pictured addressing the audience at the city of Northville's annual Civic Recognition Banquet held last Thursday evening at the First Presbyterian church. Also at the speakers' table are: (1 to r) City Manager Frank Ollendorff, Councilman Fred Kester, Councilman Del Black, who served as program chairman, Mayor A. M. Allen, Congressman-Elect Jack McDonald, Township Supervisor R. D. Merriam and Councilwoman Beatrice Carlson. Congressman McDonald (no relation to the judge) called for an "end to false prosperity and controlled destiny". He said that he opposed the philosophy of "take from the haves and give to the have nots". Saying that he hopes the 90th congress can find a better way, McDonald proposed enlisting the aid of industry in the campaign against poverty, citing possible tax credits for re-training programs. He also called for a broader plan of sharing federal tax dollars with state and local governments for their use without strings. 'The federal government should only do for the people what their own state and local governments cannot do for them better," McDonald concluded.

Township Planners Study Draft of 345-Home Site

A subdivision study plan providing for 345 homes on the south side of Six Mile road adjacent to Bradner was introduced to the Northville township planning commission last week by the Thompson-Brown company.

The plan covers a 165-acre site on the Haass property, which has come up for discussion several times in recent weeks at meetings of the Northville board of education.

A 10-acre site in the southwest corner of the property — not included in the subdivision itself — has been set aside for a "proposed" elementary school. However, the property has not been purchased by the school system and board officials have indicated publicly that the asking price of $50,000 is too high.

Rerouting of Bradner road at Six Mile has been modified in the plan since the school board indicated that it did not care to purchase the northwest corner of the property. This area now provides for 11 home sites on the west side of the proposed rerouted Bradner and 11 bordering on the east side.

As yet unplatted, the proposed subdivision - called Northville Commonsfeatures a common or park area that winds through the property, complementing the natural terrainandabutting 113 of the 354 home sites. The common encompasses nearly 26 acres. It provides for walkways throughout.

Many of the lots are located along spur drives leading into cul-de-sacs. One entrance drive is shown off Six Mile road, two off Bradner on the east and one off Bradner on the west in the northwest corner.

In revealing the plan to planners, representatives of Thompson-Brown showed several overlay drawings fixing the location of proposed drains, water and sewer lines, and direction of flow.

According to officials, the northwest corner of the subdivision will be developed first. No indication was made last week as to the type of homes to be built in the subdivision, although in discussions with the board of education earlier, Company President Robert Carey said the homes would be in the $30,000 and up class.

The planners took the plan under advisement and referred it to the township's engineer and planning consul-

Actually, proposed Northville Commons is but a part of an even larger proposed subdivision complex that Thompson-Brown is planning on both sides of Six Mile road. Long-range plans call for approximately 700 to 900 homes to be built in stages during the Thompson-Brown also plans a multimillion dollar subdivision of some 175 homes and 250 apartment dwellings at the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Taft road, and it has already started construction of model homes in what is called Meadowbrook Lake subdivision at the northwest corner of Nine Mile and Meadowbrook roads in Novi.

Site plans for still another development - a shopping center - also were presented to township planners last week. Making the presentation was Alfred Serpa, president and owner of the Quik Pik Food Stores chain, who said the center would be located at the northwest corner of Five Mile and Mar-

Featuring Country-French architecture, the five-store center will contain one of the firm's own Quik Pik service stores which sell grocery items except for fresh meat. The remaining facilities may include a hardware, beauty shop and a barber shop.

Front of the 125 x 50-foot building will be of brick with an overhanging cedar shake roof. Two entrance drives will be located off Marilyn and one initially off Five Mile with the addition of a second later.

If approval is given by the township, Serpa said construction of the facility will begin in February - although he said he first must obtain a beer and wine permit.

In other commission matters, a public hearing was set for December 27 on a proposed zoning amendment providing for the establishment of fees for review of plans. Also, the commission delayed recommending approval to the township board of the revised subdivision rules and regulations pending review of a number of questions raised by Carey of Thompson-Brown regarding the document.

Do electric dryers really cost less to buy? Do you really get no-charge service?

Do kids like ice cream?

The answer, of course, is a rousing YES! Model for model, electric dryers cost up to $20 less than gas dryers. And every electric dryer is backed by Edison's No-Charge repair service. No charge for any electrical parts. No charge for labor. Edison is the only utility company in this area that offers no-charge repair service.

Can you get this kind of worry-free assurance with a gas dryer? Sure—with a manufacturer's repair service policy. But it will cost you up to $120 over the first five years of operation alone!

One thing more. Edison's No-Charge repair service applies even if you don't buy your dryer from Edison — so long as the dryer is electric and you get your electricity from Edison. And if you buy now from a participating dealer, the low price you pay includes the cost of wiring, if any's needed. So when you add it up, an electric dryer can save you up to $140 in just a few years. That can EDISON keep the kids in ice cream a good long time.

to react in the event of a nuclear disaster. The second class is in radiological monitoring.

Directing last week's four hour drama was Eugene Guido of Northville, who heads up the Wayne county CD headquarters. Observing the class was Herbert Lees of the state CD office.

"We want these people to get a first-hand experience in shelter living," explained Guido. "So we assigned them specific jobs and locked them in the shelter with standard survival sup-

Inside, the staffers' only connection with the "outside" is by telephone and radio to a CD official stationed in another room.

During the four hours they learned to cope with a number of emergency situations, one of them being the fire a real one. They also had to take care of two "sick" women, the other with "claustrophobia."

They learn too the proper useage of survival biscuits, water, medical supplies, radiation detection equipment and portable toilets, all of which are stored permanently in the 15 shelters at the hospital.

According to Guido, the 15 shelters have a total capacity of 12,000 people. An estimated $40,000 worth CD survival equipment, enough to serve that number of people for a two-week period, are stored in the shelters.

Graduates of the course, he explained, are equipped to manage the people who would during a nuclear attack, live in the shelters.

WHO SELLS CARS FOR THE LOWEST PRICE?

Well, if you can believe their advertising, some dealers sell them for "below cost." And you con't get much lower than that. The only trouble is that this kind of advertising is usually double talk that doesn't really mean what it says. But it does get results. If nothing else, it gives the dealer a "low price image" in the customer's mind. After that, selling him is much

The only one it doesn't work for is the customer, who invariably ends up paying more in the end due to insufficient or no predelivery service, hidden extras and meaningless promises.

If a dealer sold his cars at below cost, or even at cost, other dealers would beat a path to his door. Incidentally, he would also soon be bankrupt.

A solution to his problem is suggested by an advertisement of a Japanese used car dealer: "We pay highest prices for cars we buy. We get lowest prices for cars we sell. How we stay in business? We lucky."

National profit averages on sales for dealers, including Northville is less than 2 cents at he dellar. This low floure comes from healthy compatition. A guality dealer will still register.

on the dollar. This low figure comes from healthy competition. A quality dealer will still render good service with honest dealings while he meets the competition. His low price is more real than an image. See you next week.

Driver Injured

In Novi

A 43-year-old Farmington man was seriously injured November 30 when the car he was driving crashed into the rear end of a car reportedly moving slowly on the expressway in Novi.

andy D. Carter was taken to Botsford General hospital, Farmington, where his condition was reported as doing well last Friday.

Both Carter and Elaine G. Watford, 39, of Pleasant Ridge were traveling west on I-96 between 12 Mile and Beck roads when the accident occurred around 5:45

Miss Watford told state police that she was slowing down because she became confused about directions. After skidding 115 feet, state police said, Carter's car slammed into Miss Waterford's car from behind. She was cited for violating the minimum speed limit of 45 miles per hour.

Population Boom Could Destroy Nation

BABSON PARK, Mass.-Spectacular postwar increases in our population and Gross National Product are creating great new problems to plague us. We have entered a technological age largely undreamed of as recently as 25 years ago. The question is: Will we be able to keep up with our growth, - or will it destroy us as a nation?

During the past 20 years, our population has climbed 41%. In the same interval - that is since 1946 - personal incomes in the United States have soared 225%. Even allowing for the steady erosion in the dollar's buying power which occurred in the past two decades, we are today far, far better off incomewise than in 1946.

Our nation is also stronger economically than in the first year after the end of World War II. Our Gross National Product is now within a whisker of 740 billion a year, -up255% from 1946. This is truly impressive evidence of our success in developing improved techniques leading to a more productive use of the vast resources of our country.

Though still playing second fiddle to Russia in the space race, we have nevertheless chalked up our own impressive list of space firsts and have invented many devices and techniques which the Soviets are still striving to duplicate. In an unbelievably wide variety of fields, we have encouraged thousands of inventors who have enriched our country and the world with their ideas. We have also been singularly adroit in putting these inventions to productive purpose.

What we have done, we can do again. America can remain in the fore-front in the invention of new products and new methods of production. Additional ways will be found to make those new products and new production methods useful in advancing the American way of life. But such further progress is surely dependent upon our ability to prove true to that American way of life which was built on the idea of free enterprise.

ONE WAY to preserve our heritage of free enterprise and to assure our continued progress and prosperity is to make certain that our laws, our federal, state, and local tax structures, and our over-all management-labor relations are such as to encourage - not discourage - inventors and businessmen to risk their time, their talents, and their capital.

Now nearly 200 million people strong, we must plan toward the day when - despite our slowing birth ratewe shall have 240 million or more. Growth of our potential domestic market is practically assured. We have proved we can develop technique or 'know-how" and we have proved that such development is the key to increased productivity and to prosperity itself. But do we fully realizé that new techniques to keep up with our growth will come only from men urged on by the prospect of profit and backed financially by investors risking their capital because they have reasonable hope of making a net gain?

If there is one single trait this nation stands more in need of than any other it is fiscal responsibility. As individuals we need to be resold on the idea of living within our means, of jealously guarding our credit ratings, and of helping to provide for our own futures. As a nation, we need to be reminded that public funds are a public trust and that public expenditures and public receipts ought to be in longterm balance.

At all levels of government, there is need for sounder, better rounded, better co-ordinated public service programs and tax policies. Right now, we are wasting billions of dollars in ill-timed ill-planned projects, in careless and inefficient public administration, and in the management and funding of public

Survey Shows Trade Classes Inching Ahead

A vocational education survey of all the high schools outside of the City of Detroit (42 public high schools of Wayne County) revealed that progress in the field of vocational educatin was inching ahead slowly.

Douglas M. Selby, consultant, conducted the survey this fall with the assistance of the 11 directors of vocational education in the Wayne County Intermediate School District. Where the school district did not have a director of vocational education, Selby obtained his survey information from the high school principal.

The survey used requested information relative to trade and industrial education, business education, home economics, cooperative education and the service occupations classes now being offered in Wayne county.

A quick summary was given of each division in Selby's report.

- Trade and Industrial Education: 61 classes representing only 11 different trade choices for more than 21,000 boys; and 22 high schools in Wayne county have no trade preparatory

- Business Education: All high schools have business education classes: and 50 percent have no state reimbursed classes in vocational business. - Home Economics: Offered in all schools.

 Cooperative Education: Offered in 30 of the 42 high schools surveyed; and 1,900 students attend high school on a part-time basis and work in a chosen occupation during part of the day.

- Service Occupations: Should have great growth in decade ahead; only 8 schools presently are doing anything in this area.

It would appear from this latest survey that some progress, though slight has been made in the past five years (1961-66). However, the final conclusions were drawn on the basis of information received:

- Present number of trade classes 61, although it has grown during the last five years from 15, is still too inadequate to meet the overwhelming numbers of youth that need such curricular offerings today.

- High schools should offer a wide range of vocational classes to more adequately meet the total needs of students.

Fiscal Reform Tops P-TA Conference

Fiscal reform to free Michigan's public schools of recurring emergency financial crises and to assure adequate and fairly distributed support of Michigan's growing educational needs, will be the subject of a State-wide conference of parent-teacher organizations, businessmen, educators, public officials and representatives of dozens of citizens' groups at Cobo Hall Decem-

"We intend to keep our promise to the people of Detroit and to the State Legislature to take the panic out of school financing," Mrs. Jane Tate, president of the Detroit Council of Parent Teachers Associations, said, in announcing the conference.

The large two story house, located on property owned by the city and slated to become a parking lot on Dunlap near Hutton, was moved this past week to Rogers street. The house was sold to Mrs. Louise Older, who was the lone bidder at $115. According to the mover, C. P. Myers, the house and moving equipment weighed more than 75tons. In the picture at the top right, the house has just left its foundation, and moves west on Hutton to Center (middle right). As seen through the rear window of a police car, (bottom right), the house has made its turn off Wing and heads west on Main street as a group of Main street kindergartners watch the parade. Above, workmen move one of many wires that blocked movement of the house.

State Education Demands Increase Alarmingly

LANSING — Demands upon education at all levels are increasing at an alarmingly high rate and give no indication of slowing down in this world of rapid change.

"The school building is becoming the focal point of the community," says Superintendent of Public Instruction Ira Polley. "It may be the domain of the youngster during the day but it becomes, in the evening, a center of continuing study for mother and dad, a forum for discussing community problems, and a training center for acquiring new skills."

This change has occurred, Polley notes, with the realization that a fixed amount of knowledge and one set of skills is no longer always sufficient for

Combined with this trend toward continuing education, Michigan and other states now find themselves challenged to take over some of the moral and social guidance of young people, tasks once reserved for the family or community.

Then there is the demand to serve the gifted and the mentally handicapped; the wealthy and the poverty-stricken;

the physically normal and the physically handicapped.

Polley contends the teachers in Michigan schools are ready to meet these various demands but that community members must reciprocate with financial support for the kinds of programs these demands dictate.

"Education in the breadth and depth necessary to give Michigan residents full opportunity for self-development and fulfillment will require a greater investment, than we have previously been willing to make in dollars and effort, but such an investment is within our means.

"The one thing we cannot afford is the appalling toll of ignorance," contends the education chief. "Ignorance is a negative influence that can only empty our minds and our packethooks."

empty our minds and our pocketbooks."

USE OF COMPUTERS as teaching machines is seen as one part of the answer of meeting these increasing demands on education.

In some parts of the country, 'talking computers' are being used already in experiments to teach reading at the earliest levels of education.

In Michigan, researchin this field is being concentrated at the university level but researchers believe it can be adapted for use at all levels.

A MAJOR RESEARCH project under way in cooperation among the state's Big Three universities is geared to the two extremes of learning: the students ready for advanced work and those requiring remedial help.

Teachers usually are prepared to deal with the average needs of the student body, but time demands have frequently limited the attention available to extremely fast or extremely slow learners.

Researchers emphasize computers can never replace teacher-student contacts, but, rather, can supplement these with individual attention, although on an impersonal basis.

Use of computers which can lecture to students aloud, ask questions and receive typed or electronically marked answers marks a revolution in the education process, no doubt.

Dr. Frank Marzocco, director of Michigan State University's Human Learning Research Institute, argues that computers will not, however, dehumanize education.

"Behind every computer there is a real professor," he notes.

Equal employment laws enacted recently had nothing to do with it, but Michigan's State Police will soon be a co-educational force.

Gears started moving this Fall to add two women to the force, primarily to deal with community relations and juvenile case work.

Appealing as the jobs might sound, at salaries ranging from $6,300 to nearly $9,000 annually, policewomen are difficult to find.

COLLEGE EDUCATION is required for police work by women in most jurisdictions, including the new state posts.

Dedication to hard, sometimes mentally frustrating work also comes in handy. Police departments which have employed women in the past note it is difficult to keep the female contingency up to full force.

State Police administrators are hoping the relatively good pay, rather liberal age and education specifications, and a stipulation that either married

for The Record

A merchant commented the other evening that "pretty soon Northville's business district will be just one big parking lot with no stores".

The inference was to the council's program of land purchases within the central business district and conversion of the sites into offstreet parking

It takes some explaining ... and then patience.

It's true that several choice parcels of property within the business district have been purchased either by the Economic Development Corporation or the city and converted into parking areas. Gone is the old house that once stood on Main street directly across the street from the bank. In its place is a paved, unmetered shoppers' parking lot.

The tenement-type apartment that stood next to the former John Mach auto agency building on Main street has also disappeared, along with the auto agency. Directly across the street one of the oldest buildings in the community once stood. Its second-story porch hung over the sidewalk in a style reminiscent of the Old West. Wing street, Dunlap and the alley between Main and Cady have also seen buildings removed and other improvements made to provide both parking and rearbuilding access for vehicles, and cus-

A complete accounting of the acquisitions could very well reveal that for its size the city of Northville ranks among the nation's leaders in assisting its business district.

A small percentage of the expenditure has come from contributions from a limited number of businessmen,

It is the avowed intention of the city and the members of the non-profit economic development group that these sites be preserved for business development. Some of the sites - such as the Main street lot, for example-could become commercial building sites. The other sites would then be available to provide offstreet parking which is needed, and required by ordinance, to serve the new commercial buildings.

Based upon future (10 to 15 years) population projections, Northville's central business district area is extremely limited.

The foresight of the city's leaders in acquiring and preserving sites as they become available and attempting to direct development so that it is most beneficial and customer-attracting should be lauded, not criticized.

I recall being told 10 years ago, as a newcomer to Northville, what might have been if only "they" (a term used to define the rascals running the government) had used better judgment in planning for the future.

Now the rascals are trying. Let's give them credit.

I waited for that penetrating stare most of us imagine hypnotists possess, but it never came. Instead, this guy started tossing bouquets my way, all the while winning my confidence.

So by the time he said I was getting sleepy my eyelids snapped shut like

He counted backwards intent on pushing me into a "deeper sleep". It couldn't have been too deep because I kept hearing some guy hacking, chairs squeaking and mumbling out in the hall. But he assured me that I was indeed sleeping, letting me know that my arm was stiff, my hand numb.

Sure, my arm was held out straight and didn't drop. But only because I didn't want to embarrass him or myself by dropping it. And when he pinched my hand, it felt like a pinch.

Flushed with success, he gave me a post-hypnotic suggestion. "When you wake up and I ask you to count to 10, you will say, 'one, three, five, seven, nine, ten'," He repeated the instruction a couple of times and I tried memorizing the sequence. I wanted, for some reason or another, to follow the instruction correctly.

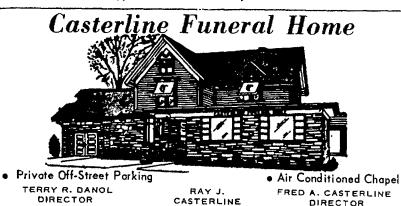

It might have worked too but for his mumbo-jumbo in waking me. He counted backwards again, erasing from my mind the order of the numbers I was to re-

"Ah ... ah... not everyone can take a suggestion," he said rather embarrassingly and quickly excused himself. He had an engagement elsewhereprobably a refresher course in hypnocism. I felt kinda sorry for him.

Later, Herb reminded me (innocently I think) that only morons cannot be hypnotized. And my wife, hearing of my experience, added her usual morale booster: "Never could do anything right, could you?'

Tennessee Williams' play, "Camino Real," stays wisely on the shelf of most directors. Few are brave or knowledgeable enough to face its elusive elements. But Professor James Coakley took on the challenge and directed a full array of University of Michigan Players in producing a dramatic coup. They wrested light from darkness, Coakley indeed took on an imposing task. But he adeptly directed dance and the movement of characters, interpreted the poetic nuances of William's nonrealistic dialogue, and cast the characters to near perfection.

Perhaps his most brilliant stroke was appropriately interpreting Williams' message. By far the most inscrutable of Williams' plays, Camino Real is an expression of the playwright's mind, a peculiar vision of the world wherein illusion and reality tend to blur.

The town, Camino Real, where the play takes place, undoubtedly suggests Dante's inferno. It is a sterile, isolated village where values are distorted. The denizens seem mere shadows, grotesque images, doomed to eternal woe.

But Camino Real, as Coakley interprets it, is more than hell, its inhabitants more than mere shadows. Camino Real is our town in the future, a place in which everyone is estranged. There is no communication. We are its tortured citizens; we see our society come to its inevitable end.

All is not despair however. Williams makes it emphatically clear, and Coakley likewise, that man can be saved. While immersed in reality, he must retain a romantic vision, an unassailable faith in something that rises above his existence.

Don Quixote, whose appearance launches the play and sets the theme, is one of Williams' heroes. Quixote, as legend has it, makes dreams become reality. Lord Byron, who is also in Williams' hell, is another romantic figure, a man who says, "Make voyages. Attempt them. There's nothing else." And he promptly leaves the hell of Camino Real, as does Quixote eventualbraving the unknown surrounding it.

These legendary, fictional characters give the play depth and perspective. Primarily, the play is made a comment on our times, however, through the inclusion of archetypal characters. We see ourselves or bits of ourselves in other characters in the play. They are types from our society. There's Kilroy, the All-American boy; Lord and Lady Mulligan, the shallow, monied socialites; the Baron, a homo-sexual; Gutman, the profiteer hotel keeper and host of hell; A. Ratt, the sly, depraved hipster; Gypsy, the sardonic fortune teller; the Loan Shark, the exploiter, and a host of others.

To find successful performances of plays involving few characters, while not commonplace, is not uncommon. But to see a play with the dimensions of Williams' Camino Real competently staged on the university level is rare indeed. A panorama of strong

UN Official Refutes UNICEF 'Red' Label

To the Editor:

On November 10 a reader, Mr. Richard C. Heslip, claimed quite erroneously that the Nobel Peace Prizewinning United Nations Children's Fund is Communist-controlled.

The UNICEF Executive Board meets annually. Its functions are to set policy, consider, requests, allocate aid, evaluate results, and establish the administrative budget of UNICEF. Recommendations for allocations are made by the Executive Director. All decisions are made by majority vote.

The 1966 members of the Executive Board (elected by the UN Economic and Social Council) are: Afghanistan, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, China (Nationalist), Ecuador, Ethiopia, Federal Republic of Germany, France, India, Israel, Morocco, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Poland, Senegal, Sweden, Switzerland, Thailand, Tunisia, Turkey, U.S.S.R., United Arab Republic, U.K. of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, U.S.A., and Yugoslavia.

The Executive Board elects its own officers. The Chairmen of the Board, who preside over meetings but traditionally do not vote, have come from the following countries: Poland, Canada, Switzerland, India, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand, Mexico and Israel.

Mr. Heslip might also be interested by the following: 1) UNICEF's aid is NOT given in the form of cash, except for the stipends of nurses, midwives and other local personnel while they are in training,

2) From 1951 through May, 1966,

UNICEF's allocations to help the children of Communist countries amounted to 2.36 per cent of its total worldwide allocations.

3) UNICEF is currently aiding millions of needy children and mothers through more than 500 long-range programs in over 100 countries, with an annual budget equivalent to what is spent on world armament in two hours of one day,

Dear Mr. Sliger:

It is most certain that the passing of our friend Harold Hartley has taken from the community a man we needed to have around. His life was living testimony of verities too often forgotten or neglected.

I am moved to let you know that I very much appreciated the interpretative account of his life and achievement included in the current issue of the paper. The tribute paid to him in the column which appears over your name was deserved and very much in order. Thank you for expressing it so adequately.

Del's Shoes' Success Formula: Giving Customers What They Want

By BILL SLIGER

In terms of years Del's Shoes of Northville must be classified as an infant. But its "pablum" is composed of a formula which has produced phenominal growth.

The formula is hard work and "giving the people what they want".

The hardwork has come from Del and Ila Black, the young husband and wife team that has inspired an enthusiastic crew to join with them in "giving the customer what he wants."

Physically, the store size has doubled since it was opened in 1963 and business has tripled. Quantity, quality, variety and selection have all been expanded. Del's Shoes is well on its way to becoming what its owner has set as his goal: the finest, most complete store for men's, women's and children's shoes in the entire metropolitan area.

The goal-setter is Del a 35-year-old Black, atom-fired hustler who gives absolutely no thought to the past or present. He's interested only in the future.

Fortunately for Del, Ila's around to take care of the routine and make the present do until the future comes around.

"Hustler" isn't really a proper description, at least not in the modern terminology of the word. "Ambitious", "energetic" and "conscientious" would be better words, for Del would never "hustle" anyone.

A hometown Northville boy with extreme community pride, Del has always been in business of some kind or another. His parents owned and operated Black's White House for many years, a local restaurant famous throughout the area for its smorgasbords. All five of the Black boys worked in the White House.

While his brothers movéd elsewhere to earn their fortunes, Del chose to stay in Northville. One of his brothers is teaching at a college in California, two others are in the designing and engineering department of Fisher Body, while the fourth is the superintendent of a golf course in Illinois.

While he was in high school, Del worked as a clerk at Gladstone's Shoe Store in Northville. Gladstone's closed its doors because of slow business in Northville.

Later Del was to become a general contractor. He built and sold several ing ahead to 1966 and homes in Northville, among 1970 when "Del's Shoes" them his own at 896 Carpenter.

interest His switched to the milk business and for awhile he was foreman of the Guernsey Farms Dairy plant. Later he moved on to the by-product and pasteurizing department of Twin Pines. Finally, in 1956, he became the owner of a Twin Pines milk route in Detroit. He built this up, sold it and bought the Northville franchise for Twin Pines. Between 1960 and 1963 he increased the route from 400 daily units to 2,400.

In 1963 Del sold his milk route and returned to the business in which he had worked as a youngster. Many older heads advised Del that a shoe store couldn't operate successfully in Northville. But Del wasn't thinking of 1963; he was lookwould be a prosperous reality.

Just as he plunged into business for himself at a young age, Del assumed personal responsibilities earlier than most. Del and Ila were married in 1951 while both were still in high school. Del graduated in 1951 and Ila a year later. Both worked and 1 1/2-years later their first son, Mark, was born. Their daughter, Diana, is 13 and Dan is the youngest, 10.

There's more to life than just business for Del and Ila. He's a city councilman, president of the junior high school PTA, and an active member of the First Baptist church. Both Del and Ila teach Sunday school and Ila also has the junior young people's group. And three Blacks - Del, Ila and Mark - sing in the church choir.

Northville's been good to Del Black, and in return, Del Black has been good to and for his com-

At the ripe old age of 35 he's probably ready to settle down and enjoy his success.

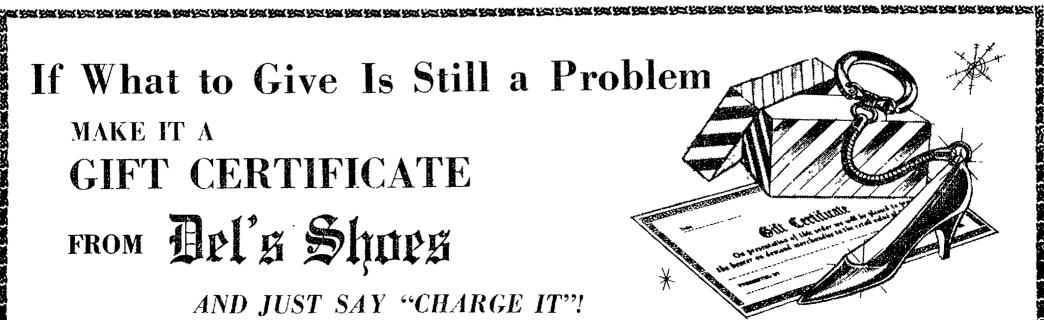

"One of these days I'm going to buy that building next door from Rube Peterson'', Del was saying the other day. "Don't you think that would be a good idea build an addition? Or maybe I should just move to a new location. What do you think?"

He was asking one of the businessmen who had advised him against opening a shoe store in Northville.

"If I were you, Del, I'd take it easy.....'. The words trailed off as Del went outside to take another look at the building next door.
