

Community Creaks Under Cracking Crust

It wasn't so deep, but, oh my achin' back, was it heavy!

That's the kind of snowfall that hit the Northville-Novi area Thursday and Friday — not much more than ankle deep, but heavy enough to collapse buildings, clog roads, disrupt mail delivery, and generally create disorder where only days earlier residents enjoyed spring-like weather.

United States weathermen say this area received about five-inches of the white stuff. But they point out that because it was the "soaking, crusty" kind, it weighed as much as 19 inches (or more) of the fluffy kind.

It's weight was put at 8 1/2 pounds per cubic foot, just right for breaking shovel handles and torturing muscles.

Working around the clock, department of public works crews in the city of Northville, Novi and Wixom had major thoroughfares open early.

Two trucks were out from 1 to 9 p.m. Friday salting Northville streets. At 1 a.m. all DPW employees (eight of 'em) were back on the job, plowing throughout the night and the remainder of Friday.

By 8 a.m. Friday, all but two streets in the city had been plowed at least once. Scott was inadvertently missed, and Linden Court couldn't be plowed because of cars parked there, according to City Manager Frank Ollendorff.

Business district streets were the first to be plowed.

Many streets were plowed again

Friday; snow on others was pushed closer to the curb. By the end of the day most streets had been plowed at least three times.

Workers finally went home at 4 p.m. Friday, returning at midnight. They worked until 1 p.m. Saturday.

A bulldozer was used to clear the Presbyterian church parking lot to permit parking for the Walter Couse funeral.

Saturday afternoon one plow was back in action, pushing back drifting snow in Northville Estates and Northville Heights subdivisions.

Also on Saturday and again Monday, DPW crews used trucks and loader equipment to haul away snow accumulated in the business district. Mountains of snow were dumped down the slopes to the Rouge River and in the city-township dump property.

Biggest problem encountered by DPW workmen was cars blocking streets and parking lots.

Major complaints, City DPW Superintendent Herman Hartner said, were

Record Publications Win State Laurels

The Northville Record-Novi News and South Lyon Herald publications were major winners in the annual Michigan Press Association contest for 1966.

Awards were announced at the 99th annual convention of the Michigan Press Association at East Lansing last weekend.

In six categories judged The Record-Novi won two first places and a second place. The Herald won two firsts and a third place in its circulation class.

The Herald was also judged the best weekly newspaper in its circulation class (2,500) in the state and was awarded the top general excellence award.

First place honors went to The Record in two of the most important categories: news reporting and use of pictures. In both instances The Record tied for top honors in these categories with the East Lansing Towne Courier (for news reporting) and the Sebewing Blade Crescent (use of pictures).

Judges chose three different issues from 1966 to determine news reporting winners. Their decisions were based on community-wide importance, timeliness, style of writing in relation to the subject, skill in organizing material, depth of research, and impact of headline and lead paragraph.

Use of pictures was judged on reader interest of the illustration, press-work excellence, quality of photograph, use of make-up, relevancy to news stories and number.

The Record won its second place award for best advertising idea of the year. The entry submitted by The Record was an eight-page tabloid section employing the use of four colors which was produced for the John Mach Ford Agency to promote an open house introduction of new agency facilities.

Judging the contest were newspaper publishers from Florida, Iowa, Nebraska, Ohio and Texas as well as executives from five major advertising agencies.

'New Idea' Group To Meet Tonight

A public meeting will be held at eight o'clock tonight (Thursday) at city hall by a newly-formed citizens' group seeking to provide "constructive alternatives" to the planning commission's proposed central business district plan.

Ed Welch has been named chairman. The organizational meeting two weeks ago was attended by 15 citizens. Any other interested citizens are invited to attend and join in the effort.

Publicity Slapped

100 Attend 'Drug' Assembly

Despite Thursday night's snow-storm, an estimated 100 parents turned out for a special community program sparked by the recent disclosure that several students had used illegal drugs here.

Called by Superintendent of Schools Alex Nelson, the unprecedented meeting was aimed at "clearing up" questions of parents concerning use of barbituric capsules by students.

In a nutshell, here's what happened: — A film, called "Youth in a Fix", which emphasized the harmful effects of narcotics and heroin by portraying scenes involving New York youths, was presented.

— A representative of Teen Challenge, a non-denominational religious organization that sponsored the film, urged parents to provide their children with the religious environment that prevents unlawful activities.

— A show of hands indicated that parents present favored the showing of the film to all junior and senior high schoolers, even though a majority of students were neither directly nor indirectly involved in the incident.

— Parents were given an opportunity to quiz school and police officials concerning the barbituric episode.

— News media in general and The Record in particular came under fire for "blowing up" the barbituric story.

— Parents were told that plans are underway for formation of a youth protective agency here under the auspices

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Record, which normally is published Wednesday afternoon with a Thursday dateline, went to press one-day early and was on the streets one day early—not three—last week because we wanted our readers to have the earliest, fullest and most factual report possible. And to ensure the accuracy and the fairness of this report, The Record—contrary to standard newspaper practice—reviewed each story with both local and federal police authorities after they had been written and prior to their publication. For those who criticize the police department for "giving out" information concerning this case, we point out that it became a matter of public record with the filing of a petition in the Oakland county probate court. Finally, in reference to the charge of "amateurish...stupid" reporting, we refer to the Michigan Press Association's opinion of the level of news reporting by The Record—first place in the state for 1966.

of the Oakland county probate court.

— Police Chief Samuel Elkins asserted that there is no evidence to indicate any widespread use of narcotics here and, furthermore, he believes use of illegal drugs by students has been stopped.

— Parents were invited to contact school administrators if they have any suggestions on how incidents of this kind can be prevented.

The film shown to the parents is the same one that was viewed earlier by a dozen or more boys directly involved in the barbituric incident. Its purpose was to discourage the use of drugs and narcotics by emphasizing their harmful effects. While the film concentrated primarily upon the use of Heroin, the message was nevertheless meaningful locally, officials noted.

At the suggestion of one parent, Superintendent Nelson indicated that the film may be shown to all junior and senior high schoolers.

When it became apparent that a few parents objected to it being shown to junior high school students, he said that should the film be shown at this level, parents would have an opportunity to have their children excused from seeing it.

A parent suggested that the film's showing at the junior high level is appropriate since junior high school stu-

City Halts Sidewalk Snow Removal Service

Last week's wet and heavy snowfall did more than stall traffic — it knocked the city right out of the sidewalk snow removal business.

Discouraged over the results of its program to clear snow from all city sidewalks, the council voted 3-2 Monday night to terminate its agreement with a private contractor and to inform citizens that the city will no longer assume the responsibility of removing sidewalk snow.

The motion was made by Mayor A. M. Allen and supported by Councilmen Del Black and Wallace Nichols.

Councilmembers John Canterbury and Beatrice Carlson opposed the action.

Meeting in special session Monday night the council heard Manager Frank Ollendorff recommend that the $5,500-a-year contract with Robert Cole for sidewalk snow-removal service be terminated on the basis that "the terms of the contract have not been met".

The manager suggested that the city either discontinue the service or find another method to perform it.

Cole has been paid $2,500 for services performed to date this year. The council indicated by its action that it would not make any further payments.

This is the third year that the city has provided free snow removal service for sidewalks. A rash of complaints that the work was not being properly done led to a meeting between Cole and the council Monday, January 9. At that session Mayor Allen and Councilmen Black and Canterbury were highly critical of Cole's performance and said "dozens of complaints" had been received.

Cole blamed unusually heavy snows followed by freezing rains that made it impossible for sweepers to remove the snow. He insisted that he and his crew had made strong efforts to perform.

Monday night Cole again defended his efforts. He said he had used two sweepers from 4 p.m. until 1 a.m. Thursday in the Dunlap street and Orchard drive areas.

The city manager's report did not agree with Cole's claims. The manager said that Cole had been unavailable until 4:30 and that the snow removal should have started sooner. Cole and Councilman Black squared off in argument as the councilman accused Cole of showing "complete lack of effort and indifference to getting the job done".

Cole defended his efforts and retorted that "I wouldn't lie to the council".

While all councilmembers sought the same objective, they did not agree on solution. Councilman Canterbury insisted that the question should be "whether or not reasonable effort was shown on the contractor's part" and not whether his equipment was adequate.

Mayor Allen and Councilman Black agreed with the manager that there had been a failure on the part of the contractor to perform.

Councilwoman Carlson stated that "I've always questioned the type of equipment, not the willingness of the man. Brushes can't remove heavy snow like this".

Councilman Canterbury said he knew of cases where there were no problems of ice or heavy snow when the job had not been performed properly. But Canterbury was cautious about cancelling the contract or terminating the service. He has been the strongest advocate of snow-removal service on the council.

Canterbury suggested "waiting a few days to reach an agreement".

It later developed that the city manager and Public Works Director Herman Hartner had tested a tank-type plow that would remove the heavy snow. They reported that they had cleaned sidewalks Monday with the new equipment. (Under the agreement with Cole the city cleans one-fourth of the city's walks. The manager admitted that city forces were unable to clear walks with their equipment, too. But with the new "tank" the city forces cleaned their quarter plus about half of Cole's area on Monday).

Cole proposed to the city that they try the new equipment during February and with-hold $1,000. If the trial was successful, he said he would withdraw from the agreement; if not, he would resume the contract for the rest of the year for the remaining $2,000.

While Councilmembers Canterbury and Carlson seemed to approve of this approach, Mayor Allen was reluctant. He told Cole, "you know you could have done a better job if you had tried harder".

The mayor said it would be his recommendation to "get out of the snow removal business, at least for this year, and give the job back to the property owner". He moved to cancel the contract and discontinue the service. He was supported by Black and was joined by Nichols in the voting.

DPW Superintendent Hartner told the council "you'll never get the walks clean unless you have more equipment — both plows and brushes". Hartner pointed to other problems with the job, such as damaged fences, boulders, trees, lawns, etc.

The snowplow that had performed Monday on the sidewalks costs $5,600, the manager reported, but could be leased for one month for $500. Manager Ollendorff favored a one month trial with the new equipment.

In other business Monday night the council accepted a lone bid for $60,000 in tax anticipation notes from Manufacturers National Bank at an interest rate of 3.64 per cent. The notes mature September 1.

Installation of new street lights along Center street from Dunlap to Baseline was approved along with the installation of 24 of the mercury-vapor bulb type lights in the business district. Installation cost is free, but total rates will go up about $75 monthly.

City Council Petitions Ready

Petitions for candidates for the Northville city council are now available at the office of the city clerk.

Terms of three of the five members of the city council expire and will be up for election on the April 3 ballot.

They include Mayor A. M. Allen and Councilmen John Canterbury and Wallace Nichols. The mayor serves a two-year term, while councilmembers serve for four years. Other members of the council not facing election this year are Del Black and Mrs. Beatrice Carlson.

Petitions cannot be filed before February 1 or later than February 28. They must include signatures of at least 50, but not more than 75, registered voters.

Dewey Gardner Buys Lila's

The sale of Lila's Flower & Gift Shop from Mrs. Lilla Collins to Dewey Gardner was announced this week.

The new owner, who has been associated with the firm almost since it opened in 1956, said there would be "no changes, except ownership". Mrs. Collins will continue to work with Gardner and others presently employed.

Mrs. Collins opened the floral and gift shop August 10, 1956 on North Center street and moved around the corner to larger quarters at 115 East Main street in 1962.

Gardner, who is 27, began working for Lila's in 1957, the year he graduated from Northville high school. Later he attended Wayne State University, Eastern Michigan university and the University of Alaska, where he received his degree in music education. He taught music for one year at the University of Alaska. Gardner is also minister of music at the First Baptist church. He teaches piano and organ and will continue to teach advanced students during evening hours.

Gardner is a lifelong resident of Northville and now lives at 850 North Center street.

DAR Emphasizes Study of History

In cooperation with the Sarah Ann Cochran DAR chapter area community leaders have issued proclamations noting that February is American History Month.

Sponsored annually by the Daughters of the American Revolution since 1955, the proclamation urges public, parochial and private schools and community organizations to emphasize the study of American history during this celebration month which contains the birth dates of the first and the 16th Presidents of the United States.

"The facts of written history refute the theory that indifference and ignorance can replace patriotism", the proclamation reads. "Let us all contribute to the growth of our American heritage and develop finer citizens for future generations."

In addition to stressing the importance of the study of American history, the Sarah Ann Chapter will announce the winners of its annual history essay contest in local parochial and public schools later this month.

Students this year were asked to write their essays on United States naval battles. The contest was open to fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth graders of Plymouth and Northville high schools.

The local area DAR chapter also has issued announcements concerning American History Month, and is putting up special displays in the Novi, Northville and Plymouth libraries.

American History Month became an official national month of celebration with the adoption of a joint resolution of both the United States Senate and House of Representatives last year.

They are Penny Thomas (seated), president; Ellen Klein, vice president; Kathy Miller, secretary; and Betty Klein, treasurer. Each of the 14 Scouts is saving her money for the trip and will be credited with every ticket she sells at $1 for the benefit. Ticket information may be secured by calling Mrs. Leonard Klein at 349-4333. The card party will be held at the scout-recreation building on February 13 from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

In Our Town

By JEAN DAY

WHILE Helen (Mrs. W. E.) McCarthy's first-hand knowledge of Northville only goes back to 1929, she will trace our town's history from its first settlers when she talks to the Northville Woman's club at 2 p.m. Friday at the Presbyterian church.

Her slide-talk, "A Glimpse of Early Northville," evolved from her participation in a three-week workshop at Michigan State college during the summer of 1965. An elementary school teacher at Main street school, Mrs. McCarthy also has been utilizing the workshop study to teach local history to her third graders.

Mrs. McCarthy has taught here for 18 years — with an intermission for her two children. While the McCarthys now live on West Main street, Mrs. McCarthy once made her home on Dunlap street in the house that now is the American Legion Hall. She thinks it was this association that first kindled her interest in Historic Northville. Her family also has early Michigan roots as her grandfather came to the state in 1843.

Mrs. McCarthy is a member of the Northville Historical society and has promised to repeat her talk for that group. She will be introduced Friday by Mrs. Hiram Pacific, program chairman for the day.

ANOTHER PROJECT of Helen McCarthy's third grade, coincidentally, is reported this week. Feeling that children in our affluent society should know how — and want — to give graciously, she encouraged minimal ten-cent gifts for the Christmas time gift exchange at school. The remainder that the children would have spent otherwise was donated to three class projects: CARE, HOPE and a Bethlehem orphanage.

The donation to Project HOPE was given to Dale Larson, HOPE volunteer, who spoke and showed films of the mercy ship's mission to Peru, at the January Woman's Society of Christian Service luncheon meeting at Northville Methodist Church.

PROJECT HOPE also is richer by $100 — and fifty cents — as a result of the offering at the Northville program. Mrs. Douglas Bolton, WSCS president, reports this week that "this free-will offering for HOPE (It stands for 'Health Opportunity for People Everywhere') has been sent to Detroit headquarters. She will make this report officially at the executive WSCS session at the Methodist church at 9:30 a.m. next Tuesday.

The following Tuesday, February 14, will be a WSCS Valentine luncheon at the church with Ethel Seeley circle as hostess. The program is to be a follow up on the Sunday evening mission studies. Mrs. Fay Waldren, chairman on the church commission on missions, will be in charge.

TOWN HALL'S third program of the 1966-7 series will bring Vincent Price to Northville to speak on "The Enjoyment of Great Art" at 11 a.m. next Thursday, February 9, at the P and A theatre.

"I think most people are looking forward to this as their program of the year," commented TH President Mrs. Robert Brueck last week as she indicated the great interest being shown in this world-famous actor-collector's appearance here.

Oakland Scouts Eye Cookie Sale

Smiling Girl Scouts began offering their five varieties of cookies to their Southern Oakland County customers as the annual sales get under way Friday, to support the Council services.

Part of the proceeds will be used to expand the camping opportunities for Girl Scouts of Southern Oakland county. In addition, the Southern Oakland Council will next year present a new structure plan which will call for more professional help to troop leaders and girls. The added revenue will implement these services.

Two of the district chairmen will be serving for the fourth consecutive year. They are Mrs. John L. Soudy, for Farmington-Novl, and Mrs. Bernard Hibbard, for the Royal Oak area where package sales last year equaled half the population.

In Novi, the neighborhood chairman is Mrs. Patrick Alexander, 24121 Ripple Creek drive.

ers who plan to attend the celebrity luncheon following at the Mayflower meeting house in Plymouth that reservations must be prepaid by this Friday. They should be sent to Northville Town Hall, Box 93.

SEVENTY Northville-area "women who care" — about becoming slim-and-trim for spring — signed up for the series of exercise classes and volleyball being held Monday nights at 8 p.m. in the junior high boys' gymnasium.

This record number turned out for the second session of the winter exercise series under sponsorship of the Northville recreation program. Again this winter Mrs. Pat Kollen of South-Lyon is instructor. A gym teacher at Bentley school in Livonia, Mrs. Kollen serves there as synchronized swimming coach.

TICKETS ARE available now for the Northville appearance of the award-winning University of Michigan's men's glee club at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 9, at Northville high school. Mrs. Donald Hannabarger, general chairman for the Northville Mothers' club project, announced that tickets have been distributed to all club members by Mrs. William Wiley, ticket chairman.

"Tickets should go fast," commented Mrs. Bernard Bach after hearing a solo group, "The Friars, from within the 90-member glee club perform last weekend. The Friars specialize in lively-and-fun songs that appeal both to children and adults. They performed last Saturday evening at the winter reunion dinner of Camp Michigan alumni.

The glee club can appear in a community no more than once every two years; so this will be a treat not often available.

NEWCOMERS' SOCIAL plans for the remainder of the club year were formed at the winter luncheon held January 26 at Topinka's country house. Mrs. Kingsley Purton, president, reports that 32 members and guests braved snowy weather to attend. The group especially welcomed Mrs. Earle McIntosh, immediate past president, and four guests.

Arrangements for a February couples' bowling party were to be completed at an officers' meeting Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Robert Kucher.

An estimated 30 robins, seemingly undaunted by the blanket of snow covering the ground, chirped happily in apple trees on the property while eating fruit still clinging to the naked limbs.

AAUW to Present Play for Children

A Northville woman will direct a play sponsored by the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) later this month. She is Mrs. Jack Maas, 1068 Grace Court, one of several Northville women associated with the AAUW.

The play, "The Princess and The Pea", a fairy tale by Hans Christian Andersen, will be presented at 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. at the Plymouth High school auditorium on Saturday, February 18.

The play was rewritten for this production by members of the AAUW drama study group.

Assisting Mrs. Maas will be Mrs. Richard Fritz, producer, and Mrs. John Campbell, business manager. Mrs. Fritz is the chairman of the set design committee which includes Mrs. John O'Reilly, Mrs. Robert Messerly, Mrs. J. M. Hopkins, Mrs. Robert Dwyer, and Mrs. Joseph Faber.

The costumes are being made under the direction of Mrs. James Knowles. Working with her are Mrs. James McKeon, Mrs. T. F. Deveraux, Mrs. Richard Klugalter, Mrs. David Strang, Mrs. Elmer Totten, Mrs. John Campbell, Mrs. Frank Waldecker, Mrs. Albert Rogers, Mrs. Clifford Smith, Mrs. Robert Rowland, and Mrs. Robert Messerly.

Mrs. James Smith is in charge of the music and Miss Patricia Dorrian is in charge of lighting. The properties are being taken care of by Mrs. Sanford Burr, and the make-up is headed by Mrs. Richard Dougherty.

Co-chairmen of the ticket sales are Mrs. Conrad Krankel and Mrs. Richard Doherty. Mrs. William King is chairman of the ushers, and working on the publicity are Mrs. John O'Reilly and Mrs. William Riley.

This is the seventh annual presentation by the Plymouth branch of the AAUW in an effort to provide live drama for the children of the area. Tickets have always been sold out early for past performances so Northville residents are urged to purchase them early when they go on sale here and in Plymouth on February 8. Tickets may also be purchased by calling Mrs. Krankel at 453-4454, Mrs. Doherty at 453-2626, or Mrs. Campbell at 427-8941.

Cash-Taulbee

St. Paul's Lutheran church, Northville, was the setting Friday, January 27, for the wedding of Suzanne Cash and Alvis Ray Taulbee. The candlelight, double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Boerger before an altar decorated with bouquets of white mums, carnations, and gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Cash, 56555 Eleven Mile road, Lyon township. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Taulbee, 685 Center Ridge, South Lyon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie and lace, designed with a scalloped neckline, long sleeves, and a chapel train. Her shoulder length veil was secured by a headpiece of pearls and lace. The bridal bouquet was of white carnations centered with an orchid corsage.

Miss Eunice Thurman was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were: Anita Green; Donna and Janet Fletcher, cousins of the bride; and Pam Taulbee, sister of the groom.

All of the attendants were similarly attired in red velvet, floor-length gowns with fitted bodice and bell shaped skirts. They wore long white gloves and carried bouquets of pale pink carnations. Their short veils of net fell from circlets of red velvet.

Clarence Taulbee was his brother's best man. Ushers were: James H. Cash, Jr., brother of the groom; Darrell Cash, cousin of the groom; Jim Bruner and Edward Beckstein.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 130 guests was held in the church dining room. The five tier wedding cake was made and decorated by the bride's cousin, Mrs. Roy Cash. Mrs. John Noel, Jr., cousin of the bride, served the cake.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cash chose a dress of pale green brocade with darker green accessories. Mrs. Taulbee wore pale blue brocade with matching accessories. Both mothers wore cymbidium orchid corsages.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Matilda Haack, wore beige lace with a pink carnation corsage.

The new Mrs. Taulbee wore a pale green wool suit with black accessories for her going away ensemble.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of South Lyon High school. Her husband graduated from South Lyon in 1963 and is attending Eastern Michigan University. He is presently doing practice teaching in Wayne and will graduate from EMU in June.

Mumford-Riley

Following a Christmas holiday wedding and a wedding trip to Northern Michigan, Private James E. Riley of Northville returned to Fort Gordon, Georgia where he is enrolled in the Army's radio and teletype school, and his bride, the former Janice M. Mumford, returned to her home in Westland.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. Stanley and Mrs. Mumford of Westland, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ward Riley of 717 Grace street.

Married at St. Damian Catholic church in Westland, which was decorated with red and white poinsettias, holiday holly and greens. Father Lawrence Doyle officiated at the double-ring, candlelight ceremony.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Ward Mumford of Cornwall, New York, the bride wore an empire style gown featuring an A-line design, floor-length low luster satin, chapel length train, long sleeves, and bateau neckline. Lace decorated the train, neck and tip of the sleeves.

Her headpiece featured a crystal crown accented with seed pearls, and an elbow length illusion veil. She carried 25 sweetheart roses and a white Bible.

Gail Gennara of Livonia, a cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a floor-length, sleeveless gown with an empire waist, A-line skirt of red chiffon velvet together with elbow length white gloves. Her headpiece was red velvet rose with a layer of red and white veiling. She carried a single white rose.

Bridesmaids were Patricia Riley of

Kings Daughters To Meet Tuesday

The Kings Daughters will meet Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Alice Junod, 223 High street.

Schlieff-Riddle

Cheri Lynn Schlieff, formerly of Northville, and William H. Riddle of Ann Arbor were married Saturday evening, January 21 at the First Baptist Church in Ypsilanti. The Rev. William Bingham officiated.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Schlieff of Ypsilanti, lived here last year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Schlieff, 43540 West Six Mile road.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Riddle of Kingsport, Tennessee.

For her wedding, the bride wore a floor-length, silk organza gown, flowing train, inset with lace at the neckline, along the bottom of the gown and covering the train. The headpiece featured an organza bow with an overlay of crystals and pearls and a shoulder length veil. She carried a nosegay bouquet of white roses.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Rudy Rose of Ypsilanti. Bridesmaids were Susan Schlieff of Northville, a niece of the bride, and Judy Horn of Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Rose wore a floor length gown of gold velvet with an empire waist line, and she carried white roses and mums in a snowball bouquet together with gold velvet streamers.

The bridesmaids wore the same style gowns in green velvet, and they carried yellow mums in a snowball with matching streamers. Their headpieces featured large velvet roses with veils that matched their gowns.

Gary Anderegg of Ann Arbor was the best man, and Victor Botchen of Ann Arbor, and Richard Riddle of Sault St. Marie were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a light blue lace, two-piece dress, and the bridegroom's mother wore a medium blue crepe dress. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow sweetheart roses.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the church social home. For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a dark green dress with green accessories and a corsage of white roses.

A graduate of Ypsilanti high school, the bride attended Patricia Stevens Career college in Chicago, Illinois and presently is employed at the Ann Arbor Bank. The bridegroom was educated at Pinkerton Academy in Derry, New Hampshire and now is employed by Montgomery Ward in Arborland.

Walter L. Couse

Continued from Page One drive in Edenderry subdivision. The development of some 66 homesites was undertaken by Mr. Couse in 1964 on 64 acres surrounding the Couse home. It was a project that both Mr. and Mrs. Couse had taken particular interest and has virtually reached completion with only three homesites remaining. Although Mr. Couse directed the development of Edenderry, his general contracting firm is involved in school, church, commercial and industrial building. He founded the Walter L. Couse & Co. general contracting and engineering firm of Detroit in 1933. The firm has engineered and constructed buildings throughout the United States. Northville high school was constructed by the Couse company in 1958. St. Paul's Lutheran church was also constructed by the Couse company. Another structure constructed by the Couse firm which is familiar to many area residents is the newly completed, gold-domed St. John's Armenian church, visible from the Detroit bound lane of I-696 expressway. Under Mr. Couse's presidency the Engineering Society of Detroit became the largest of its type in the world. During his term 1964-1965 it gained 3,000 new members. The society underwent a re-awakening greatly enlarging the scope of its activities as well as undergoing complete refurbishing of the building and facilities. It now is compared with the DAC in food and decor. Mr. Couse attended Wayne State University and was graduated from the University of Michigan Engineering college in 1924. He was employed by various engineering and construction firms before establishing his own firm.

He was active in many areas and was a past national president of the Associated General Contractors of America, and also of the local chapter. He was past president of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce, the Engineering Society of Detroit, the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, a trustee of the Detroit Institute of Technology, and a member of the Economic Club of Detroit. He was a member of the American Standards committee, American Academy of Sciences. He was a member of Governor Romney's first Construction Safety Commission. He held memberships in Meadowbrook Country Club, Optimist Club, Oriental Lodge F. & A.M., and Detroit Athletic Club. Mr. Couse received honorary awards from both Wayne State University and the University of Michigan. He was a member of Tau Beta Pi and Chi Epsilon, honorary engineering societies, and was awarded an honorary membership in the Detroit Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. For many years he has been an elder of the First Presbyterian church of Northville. He is survived by his wife Georgiana, a son Blake T., and daughter Elsa of Northville, and daughter Mrs. George Hipps of Honolulu, Hawaii, and four grandchildren; also a brother Crew of Birmingham and a sister, Mrs. Paul Wottring of Waller, Texas. Memorials may be made to the Living Memorial Fund at the First Presbyterian church of Northville, or the Michigan Kidney Foundation, Inc., 116 North Adams, Ypsilanti. Funeral services were held at the First Presbyterian church, and arrangements by Ebert Funeral Home. Internment was at Glen Eden Memorial Park, Livonia.

Assembly Continued from Page One dents "seemed to know about" the barbital incident several days before most adults learned about it. Wilfred Becker, president of the board of education, contended that "too often" parents are unwilling to back up officials in taking positive action. Becker emphasized the seriousness of the current drug and marijuana fad by young people nationally by noting that some Wayne State university students are presently circulating petitions calling for the legalization of marijuana. Upon reviewing the recent use of barbital capsules here, Police Chief Elkins emphasized that the situation has been cleared up, that there is no evidence that any "pushers" are selling in this area, that Northville has no narcotics problem, and he noted that students here did not "manufacture" barbital capsules but rather had placed illegally purchased barbital powder in capsules. One parent was particularly angered that an incident of this kind, involving relatively few students as compared to the number more regularly involved in drinking alcoholic beverages, had been given "sensational" treatment by the news media—particularly in The Record. While contending that the incident wasn't something that should be covered up, he nevertheless adamantly opposed the treatment given to it by the press and suggested that the police had gone overboard in discussing it with reporters. He charged that The Record had created a feeling of hysteria by its stories and by publishing "three days" in advance of its normal publication date, that most of its reports were wrong—and he could prove it—and that the manner in which it was brought out was "amateurish" and "very stupid." His remarks, together with a forthright admission that his son had been involved and a declaration that his son would be adequately reprimanded, drew a round of applause.

Cagers Lose, 61-59, at Foul Line; Upset Jolt Dims Title Chances

Unless Clarkston becomes extremely charitable, there will be no tomorrow in the Wayne-Oakland Conference for Northville, not after Northville lost 61-59 at Clarenceville Saturday night.

Fifteen feet, not two points, was the margin of defeat. That's the distance from the free throw line to the basket which Northville simply couldn't negotiate.

Time after time after time — 35 by actual count — Northville stepped to the free throw line and time after time, the ball evaded the basket. Sixteen times, to be exact.

To Coach Dave Longridge, free throws were even more crucial than the statistics reveal. After four minutes of the second half, the bonus rule was in effect, yet Northville couldn't cash in on the first free throw that would have meant an extra charity toss. In light of this fact, Longridge figures Northville shot 19 for 50.

Those figures are disheartening enough, but a closer look at the league standings, with only six games remaining for each team in the W-O, spell m-i-r-a-c-l-e if Northville is to win the title.

Clarkston, undefeated and going strong, has an 8-0 league mark, while Northville, the closest pursuer, has a 6-2 record. If Northville wins the return clash with Clarkston and wins the rest of its games, some other league team must still beat Clarkston to enable Northville to tie for the title. Odds, heavy odds, are against it.

Free throws stand out as the Achilles heel, the weakness that shot the Mustangs down at Clarenceville, but that wasn't the whole story of the game. There was something like an aroused Clarenceville basketball team that simply wouldn't let Northville off the hook.

Trailing by as many as eight points, Northville suddenly came to life in the fourth period, fired up by the play of Forward Glenn Deibert. Three times he cut the margin to three points by scoring on a driving layup, a dog shot and a rebound.

Then the wiry 6'1" senior put on a show of determination by driving half court between two men and whipping the ball through the net. Fouled on the play, Deibert converted the free throw to tie the game at 48-all with 3:44 left in the game.

It looked like Northville would pull this one out of the fire. But Clarenceville, which hadn't beaten Northville since 1964, was thirsting for victory and simply wouldn't quit.

Guard Chuck Watkins drove the baseline to once again put Clarenceville ahead, 50-48. Guard Ken Boerger, who continues to improve with every game, succeeded where his teammates failed. He converted two free throws to tie the score at 50-50.

Then, Mark Dievendorf, a senior transfer student from New York, dazzled the home fans with the first of three uncanny long shots. He arched a 30 footer through the net, sending Clarenceville ahead, 52-50.

Forward Jim Zayti, who had one of his poorest nights in a Northville uniform, returned to form momentarily by driving the key for a layup. Clarenceville countered with a free throw, but Jim Peterson, who also had a miserable night, banked the ball through the hoop from 10 feet to give Northville its last lead at 54-53.

But there was that man again, Dievendorf. He hit another 30-footer from the same spot on the floor and Center Ron Ray, a 6'2" brute on the boards for Clarenceville all night, converted two free throws to shoot the Trojans into a 57-54 lead.

Zayti then hit a free throw, but missed the bonus. Dievendorf did it again, arching in a soft 30-footer to give Clarenceville a 59-55 lead with only seconds remaining in the clock.

Boerger, however, gave Northville life once more by intercepting a pass and driving the baseline for a bucket.

It closed the gap to two points.

In their anxiety to press in Clarenceville's back court, Northville left Forward John Thompson free under the basket and he quickly received a pass and bagged the easy shot. Clarenceville led, 61-57, and only 16 seconds remained.

Boerger leaped high and flipped the ball through the net from the left side of the key to shave the margin to 61-59 with four seconds left. Northville called time out with two seconds remaining, but Clarenceville successfully ran out the clock by freezing the ball on the in-bounds play.

It was a grim night for Northville. It's two top scorers, Captain Zayti and Peterson, scored 10 and eight points, respectively. Forward Nelson Hyatt, who kept Northville in the game in the early stages, scored 11 points, but his effectiveness on the boards was reduced to a minimum as Clarenceville boxed him out.

Deibert and Boerger were the spark-plugs. Deibert scored 13 points, most of them in the closing moments, and he hauled down his share of rebounds. Boerger, in addition to 10 points (most of them in the fourth quarter), played a hustling game.

But it was Northville's miserable performance at the foul stripe that sealed their fate.

Friday night's game with Milford was postponed due to impassable roads and the snow storm. The game will be re-scheduled.

Northville will travel to Brighton tomorrow night to play the Bulldogs on their new court. The game is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

STREAKING GUARD—Guard Joe Andrews streaks for the basket in Saturday's game at Clarenceville. It was one of the few times that Northville made the break. Center

Jim Peterson stands in ideal position to take a pass from Andrews who beat his man but missed the shot.

Wrestling Coach Sees W-O Tourney

Saturday's scheduled wrestling match between four league schools at Northville high school is billed simply as a quadrangular, but Coach Jack Townsley, the man responsible for making arrangements, hopes it will be a milestone.

"We hope it will be a forerunner of a league tournament to be held for the first time next year," the Northville coach said. Northville will host Clarkston, Clarenceville and Bloomfield Hills.

Significantly, all three visiting schools, according to Townsley, have indicated a willingness to hold a tournament next year that will establish wrestling as a league sport and determine the champion of the Wayne-Oakland Conference.

Preliminaries at 3 p.m. will kick off Saturday's quadrangular. Consolation finals will be held at 6:30 p.m. and the finals at 8 p.m., Townsley announced.

The W-O could field some of the strongest wrestling teams in the state. Perhaps its strongest team at least on the basis of this year's record, would be Clarenceville.

"They're the best class B team in this part of the state, maybe the best in the whole state. Not many class A schools could beat them," Townsley stated.

He ought to know. Clarenceville, which had won 22 consecutive dual meets, made it 23 by dumping Northville's strongest wrestling team of all time, 24-19, on January 19.

"They had one boy out with illness," Townsley said. "That made it close. And if it weren't for one questionable decision," Townsley added, the outcome might have been different.

After the first three matches, Clarenceville and Northville were running head and head. Northville's Dave Grondin, 95 pounds, was pinned, but Chuck Keegan, 103, evened the score at 5-5 by pinning his man. Then Bob Baber, 112, fought his man to a draw and the score was tied at 7-7.

Then came the "feature bout" of the night with two undefeated wrestlers squaring off. Northville's Marty Richardson, 120, completely outscraped Don Ylatalo of Clarenceville to carry off a lopsided decision.

In a "disputed decision," Kurt Olewnik, 127, lost, and Don Sess, 133, also lost a decision to put Clarenceville back out front, 13-10.

Dale Ashby, Northville's only other undefeated wrestler, then hooked up with Carl Watkins, another undefeated wrestler from Clarenceville. Ashby won on riding time to remain undefeated and to tie the score at 13-13.

Three straight victories, one of them a pin, enabled Clarenceville to mount an insurmountable 24-13 lead with only two matches left. Rick Suckow, 145, and David D'Haene, 154, lost decisions and Al Earehart, 165, was pinned.

"D'Haene is only a ninth grader and it was his first match," Townsley said, "but he wouldn't be pinned. He was beat pretty badly (he was on his back most of the time), but he showed tremendous courage."

Northville salvaged respectability in the last two matches when Bob Beason, 180, and Heavyweight Dan Conklin both won by decision.

Flat Rock, a perennial strong contender in state wrestling circles, provided that the Rocks are as good as their reputation. They beat Northville, 35-11, the biggest margin pinned on Northville this year.

Northville won only three matches, one by forfeit, and one of its two undefeated wrestlers, Ashby, dropped his first match. Winner of nine in a row entering last Thursday's clash with Flat Rock, Ashby, 145 pounds, simply wasn't up to snuff as he lost 2-1.

Richardson, at 120 pounds, had to go the limit to whip his opponent who was also unbeaten. Richardson won, 6-5, for his 10th win in a row and avenged last year's loss to the same opponent.

Grondin, 95 pounds, won by decision and Baber, 112, won by forfeit for the only other Northville points.

Northville was scheduled to host Redford Union, another powerhouse, last Tuesday.

Police Avert Teenage 'Rumble'

A potential "rumble" involving as many as 80 teenagers from high schools in Northville and Livonia was averted Tuesday afternoon when police broke up milling students and charged 27 of them, including 11 juveniles, with disorderly conduct.

Unseasonably warm weather and the fact that local high school students were dismissed from school because of semester examinations contributed to the "potentially explosive situation," police said.

One youth, David A. Wilder, 18, of 615 Grace street pleaded guilty at his arraignment January 21 to being disorderly and admitted "looking for a fight." He was ordered to pay a $55 fine or serve 10 days in jail.

Donald J. Govan, 17, of Livonia was found guilty during his trial Monday on a charge of using profane language. In addition to being fined $55, he was ordered to write a 1,000-word theme on "What he learned as a result of the incident in which he was involved" and submit it within 30 days under conditions of probation to the Northville

Municipal court or serve 30 days. Trial of 16 youths, nine from Northville, was adjourned Monday morning and will be continued Saturday morning. All 16 youths, charged with disorderly conduct, pleaded innocent at their arraignment January 21 and during their trial Monday.

Violations citing 11 juveniles (youths 16 and under) for disorderly conduct were filed in Wayne County Juvenile Court. All 11 juveniles are from Livonia.

During the hectic two hours around noon, a policeman's car was hit in a rundown of two cars driven by teenagers reportedly attempting to avoid police capture. One youthful driver was ticketed for failing to have his sports car under control. The front end of his sports car was smashed in the three-car accident.

Actually, there were signs on Monday, the day before the outbreak, that trouble between Livonia and Northville students was brewing. Several car loads of what a source identified as Livonia students were seen cruising around Northville high school on Monday while Northville students were still in school.

A citizen complaint at 11:47 a.m. Tuesday that six youths were drinking beer while riding on South Main street in a convertible was the first report of teenage unrest that snowballed to include profane language, stopping of a woman motorist, reported fights, taunting of police and littering of streets, it was reported.

As Mrs. Robert Moe was driving east on Baseline road around 12:40 p.m., she said she suddenly came upon a large group of boys standing in the road alongside their cars and blocking Baseline traffic. She said she honked her horn and proceeded slowly through them. They parted reluctantly and "said all kinds of nasty things. I was shook up," she said.

Patrolman Roger Beukema said he saw 50 or 60 youths walking up the hill to the high school. Another 30 youths were standing on Baseline road near Center street, he said.

Beukema called for assistance and Sergeants Louis Westfall and David LaFond and Patrolman Lawrence Towne responded immediately. After telling the boys to disperse, Beukema said, the youths got into their cars and began driving pell-mell.

One of them, Govan, was ticketed by Beukema for improper positioning of a passenger. Steven J. Hope, 17, of Livonia, was halfway out of the sports car as it was moving, the patrolman said. When Hope used abusive language in public, police said he was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

Sergeants Westfall and LaFond then pursued the speeding vehicles. In order to stop two cars, Sergeant Westfall said he blocked Grace street by parking in the middle of the road between parked cars on both sides. Emergency lights on Westfall's car were flashing.

Paul K. Bolyard, 17, of Livonia told police he spotted the officer's car coming at him and pulled to the curb. Govan, however, was unable to stop in time and his car smashed into the rear end of Bolyard's car, pushing it, in turn, into Westfall's car, according to reports.

Govan was ticketed for failing to have his car under control. He stated he was driving two car lengths behind the car in front of him but didn't see it stop.

Meanwhile, a rash of calls from citizens living in the area flooded the police station, reporting the large group of boys congregating in the vicinity of Grace street, police said.

Additional policemen then arrived on the scene, including Chief Samuel Elkins. He said they told the boys, who had re-grouped, to disperse and leave town. They left the scene, police reported.

Several vehicles containing Northville high school students then drove up, police said, and the local students were also told to clear the area.

At about 12:45 p.m., Chief Elkins and Patrolmen Towne and Earl Van Cise, riding in a patrol car, spotted the same Livonia group on Center street and blocking the sidewalk with a motor scooter in front of C. R. Ely and Sons Coal and Fuel Oil company. They were asked to leave and departed, the chief said.

Citizens next phoned police about youths ganging up on Dunlap street and this time, citizens said they were fighting in the Kroger parking lot. Chief Elkins said he thought Livonia and Northville students were involved.

The entire group, now consisting of Northville and Livonia students, was placed under arrest and charged with being disorderly, it was reported. Every available police officer was summoned to the scene at about 1:45 p.m. and the boys were loaded into two police cars and private cars of police officers, the report said.

"There's some question about our responsibility for students involved in incidents outside of school property," Fred Holdsworth, Northville high school principal, said. "We'll have to define this."

Youth's Car Hits School Bus Here

While Northville police were dealing with teenage unrest Tuesday afternoon, a car driven by a 19-year-old Northville youth crashed into the rear of a school bus on East street.

Two of the 15 children riding the bus were reported to have suffered minor pains.

Gerald M. LaRoque, 257 Hutton street, was charged with drunk and disorderly conduct and failure to stop in the assured clear distance, causing a personal injury and property damage accident.

Arrested later, LaRoque stood mute on both counts. He was released on $100 bond until his trial. It was originally scheduled for last Monday, but was adjourned until some future date.

The accident was reported at 2:10 p.m. Police investigated and found that LaRoque was driving south on East street and slammed into the rear end of the bus, driven by Mrs. LuVerne Imsland, 19880 Fry road.

Mrs. Imsland told police that she had stopped the bus while waiting for a Novi bus to turn the corner when the collision occurred.

Women Plan Joint Prayer Service Here

An invitation has gone out to women throughout the area to attend the Annual World Day of Prayer slated here on Friday, February 10.

To be held at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville beginning at 1 p.m., the special service will include participants from the Presbyterian Church of Northville, and the Willowbrook Community Church.

United Church Women chairmen of these churches are Mrs. L. M. Eaton, Mrs. Paul Beard and Mrs. Leon Blackburn, respectively.

Observed here annually for approximately 40 years, the service was originally sponsored by the Northville Women's Club and was held in the club home—the old library building now occupied by the school administrative offices.

The Women's Club programs were arranged to tie in with the World Day of Prayer service. Now the service is sponsored by the United Church Women of Michigan.

Nursery care will be provided for children of mothers who wish to attend.

While participants in the service are from the three area churches, attendance is open to all women of the community.

Teen Dance Set Saturday

Aside from the entertainment, there'll be something special about Saturday night's dance at the junior high school boys' gymnasium. It will mark the birth of "The Cavern" one year ago Saturday.

Feature band for the dance, which will be held from 8 to 11:30 p.m., will be the "Wanted," the same group that appeared with "The Shy Guys" at the Christmas dance.

Through popular demand, Larry and John will deejay the next few dances. Already lined up for "The Cavern's" March 4 dance are "The Landeers," Detroit's number five group.

Principal Without A School

Milton R. Jacobi, Northville's principal without a school, had mixed reactions this week as workmen, custodians, teachers and he worked frantically to get ready for the opening of Moreane Elementary school located on Eight Mile road, west of Taft. It's been just about one year since snowstorm forced still another postponement—until tomorrow.

proposed new elementary school. Delays in construction kept him and his students out of the building for months beyond its originally planned opening. Then, with a major portion of building finally slated to be opened this past Monday, last weekend's heavy snowstorm forced still another postponement—until tomorrow.

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

Rev. S. D. Kinde
First Methodist Church of Northville

The week of Jan. 29 to Feb. 5th is Youth Week in many churches and will be celebrated by focusing attention on the young people of the community. Northville has several hundred of the finest young people to be found anywhere. They are well groomed, polite, hard working in school, well read, informed on just about everything from the war in Vietnam to our National Space Program. These young people have high moral standards and can be trusted to do the right things.

Some of us contact them through the churches where they sing in choirs or play musical instruments, lead in worship through Sunday evening fellowships, assist in formal worship as acolytes, altar boys, deacons, readers of the Scripture, ushers, etc.

Not long ago I watched thirty of these youth working in an all day car wash to raise money for a benevolent cause to which they were dedicated. In the fall this group went to a local fruit farm and picked up bushels of apples for a "Children's Home" in Redford. Recently an area downtown was raked, swept, and cleaned up to help beautify the community. This work was done by a Boy Scout who worked without pay and with little thanks. It is good to see young people giving their time and energy to meet a need right where we live.

Once in a while we find a young person who needs guidance and direction to keep him from wrong doing. We are not unaware of the pranks of a few youth who bring upon themselves and their companions the old title "bad apples." A bad apple can rot the others or the pollution will run through the bushel. This community is quick to help young people solve their problems and find a better way of life. Law officers, teachers, clergy, parents, and a host of others have held meetings in a quest for information on how to curb problems involving youth. Have you attended such a meeting? Have you identified yourself with some cause on behalf of young people? Do your honest criticisms of youth grow out of an interest in them? How much time do you give to youth programs in this city?

If you are a parent with teen-age children do you spend time sharing in their interests? Do you praise them for the constructive and worthwhile things they do? Do they count you as a friend as well as a parent? Are you their No. 1 counselor and confidant? When report cards are sent home do you note the positive growth indicated therein and praise your child for this indication of progress? Does your child know through experience the meaning of parental love?

What about other young people? Are they welcomed into your home? Are you ready to share your time with, and listen too, youth? Are you able to remember that for every misguided youth there are hundreds whose lives deserve nothing but praise? It is a long, long road from a boy to a man or from a girl to a woman. It may take patience as we stand by and see youth growing slowly toward maturity.

Recently I read of a "young at heart" club for Senior Citizens. This would lead me to believe that there is something as a whole in teen agers that even the old timers would like to emulate. And it is this "something" that needs to be called to the attention of adults as they look at the youth of this town.

It is written in Scripture "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." The children of today are the product of the training we adults are giving, or have given in the past.

The youth of today deserve the best we adults have to offer them.

A MATTER OF VIEWPOINT

What is as thrilling to a child as winter—and a nice fresh snow? But for an adult, shopping or working in winter weather, nothing is more miserable. This goes for so many things. What looks good to one person looks terrible to another. What one person enjoys doing, another dislikes. What agrees with one disagrees with another.

There is nothing wrong with this. We have a right to our individual likes and dislikes, to our individual opinions. We also have the right to know the basic things in life, the truths that apply to everyone. These are the foundation blocks upon which all else is built. This is the kind of knowledge given to us by the Church.

If you have been thinking that church-goers are conformists—people who believe what they are told and let it go at that—then you've been making a mistake. Because a group of houses are built upon the same firm ground does not mean that each house cannot be separate unto itself. Because a man goes to church does not mean that he is one of a mold. Try it, and see.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Youths Attend Seminar

Four Methodist youths left Northville Sunday for New York City and Washington, D.C. to attend the World Peace and International Affairs Seminar sponsored by the Detroit Annual Conference of the Methodist Church. Those sent from the First Methodist Church here joined with 70 others from Michigan and left by plane from the Metropolitan Airport, Detroit. They were: James Marks, Margaret Godley, Douglas Waldron, and Chris Becker. More than $400 was raised to send the delegation with gifts given by The Women's Society of Christian Service, the Wesleyan Service Guild, the Commission on Christian Social Concerns, the Methodist Youth Fellowship Sr. High Group and the Commission on Education (Church School). While in New York the group will attend services and dine in Christ Church and will visit the United Nations building where they will meet with delegates from several nations including Russia. During the week they will go by train to Washington and will visit the Capitol, the White House, several embassies, the National Museum, and Historical Shrines. They will return to Metropolitan Airport Friday at 7:30.

Modernizing?
New Heating System?

Decisions.
Decisions.
Decisions.

(May we help you with an important one?)

Your choice of a heating system is one you'll live with for a long time. So, naturally, you'll want to make sure you get a system that won't cost too much to own. That's where our new electric heat guarantee comes in. Here's how it works: We'll see that you get a written estimate of heating costs—before you buy. Then, your monthly bills may be less, but they won't be one cent higher than the estimate. We guarantee it. If the installation needs adjustments to meet the guaranteed cost figure, we'll see that it's done. And if at the end of three complete, consecutive heating seasons the system is still not operating within our estimate, we'll remove it and refund your money. Before you make any more important modernizing decisions, get the facts on modern electric heat. You can't lose!

FIREMEN TO RESCUE - Toby, an obviously important cat by virtue of the fact that he has six toes on each front paw, was plucked from a tree top near the home of his master, 12-year-old Mary Higgins of 46180 West Main street, Wednesday afternoon after two harrowing days at the dizzy height of some 35 feet. Apparently frightened into the tree Monday night, Toby clung to a branch afraid or unable to climb down.

For two days he cried for help, growing noticeably weaker particularly after last week Tuesday's sleet storm. No amount of coaxing would help. Finally, in desperation, the Higgins family turned to the Northville fire department for assistance. Safely on the ground after the rescue, Toby purred his thanks and stretched his four legs and 22 toes, convinced that trees are for the birds!

Pam Smith Tops in District

Debaters Qualify for Regionals

It's on to the regionals for the Northville debaters. They won five of six debates January 21 at Belleville to qualify for the regionals, which will be held February 18 at Belleville. Members of the team are Glenn Delbert and Pam Smith (affirmative) and Kathy Erwin and Cris Becker (negative). Another distinction came Northville's way when Pam Smith was singled out as the outstanding debater in the district tournament. She, along with 19 other top debaters chosen from the districts, will vie for the honor of top debater in the state. The field will be narrowed down to three during eliminations at a dinner to be held at the Sheridon Cadillac hotel in Detroit on April 27 and 28. The 20 debaters will be guests for two days of the sponsoring Detroit Free Press. Final competition for the top scholarship award of $1300 will be held later at the University of Michigan. Second and third place winners will receive $900 and $600 respectively. To win the individual honor, Pam dethroned last year's top district debater from Belleville. She finished fourth in the running against debaters from such districts as Livonia, Allen Park and Lincoln Park. Only Belleville, last year's state team champions, topped Northville's 5-1 district record. Belleville won all six of its debates. If Northville gets by the regionals, it will mark the eighth time that the local debaters have gained the quarter-finals under the direction of Miss Florence Panatton, debate coach. Northville has reached the semi-finals three times.

Linda Johnson, a junior at Northville high school, was inadvertently omitted from the list of new members inducted into the National Honor society. She was indeed one of 38 honored during ceremonies held in the high school auditorium on January 20.

2 Novi Residents Get EMU Degrees

Two Novi residents were among the 585 students who were awarded degrees at mid-winter commencement exercises January 22 at Eastern Michigan university in Ypsilanti. They are Clayton R. Graham, who received a special in arts in education degree, and Veronica A. Piertron, who received a bachelor science degree and an elementary provisional teaching certificate.

Card Expression
The expression "left in the lurch" comes from the card game of cribbage in which a player is left in the lurch, or "lurched," if he fails to reach the halfway mark on the cribbage board before his opponent wins.

Schmidt Named Chairman Of State House Committee

Northville's representative in the State House of Representatives, Louis Schmidt, has been named chairman of the colleges and universities committee.

This appointment, together with his appointment to the education, labor and civil rights committee, was announced by House Speaker Robert E. Waldron.

Schmidt, who received his bachelor's from Central Michigan, his master's from the University of Michigan - with additional graduate work at Wayne State and Michigan State, emphasized that he is aware of the community college needs having served on various committees in the early stages of the development of Schoolcraft college. In addition to serving as superintendent of the Clarenceville school district, he served for years on a special committee of school administrators working with Schoolcraft President Dr. Bradner.

Schmidt said he is concerned with the advanced education of the rapidly growing college-age group and others interested in terminal courses.

Consideration must be given to bringing facilities closer to the people, who would then be in a better position to use the facilities and reduce the individual's cost of acquiring training beyond high school, he said.

WHAT IF THE GOVERNMENT RAN THE CAR BUSINESS?

Well, they do in some places. Russia for instance. It is about 50 years since Russia became Communist. That was in 1917. Today, Russia's production of automobiles for an entire year is about equivalent to the production of the U. S., as example, for one week. The U. S. IMPORTS more cars per year from Europe than Russia produces. The comparison is not exactly fair though. The Russian Moskovitch compares with an American car like our low-priced models compare with a top-of-the-line luxury limousine. Northville drivers please note - Russian drivers carry kits of tools because service in garages is unknown in our terms. Gas stations are so rare their location is part of the planning of a trip. It takes a Russian worker FOUR years salary to buy a Russian car. There is tremendous government pressure these days on our car industry to produce a safer car. All to the good. Only 10% of accidents are due to car failure though. Ninety percent are due to human and other faults. A given amount of money today will buy more car than in 1959, for instance - despite inflation. Our wealth, in part, accounts for our traffic and safety problems. The system of manufacturers and dealers who earn repeat business through customer satisfaction is still the best source of solution to a problem their efficiency created.

News About Schoolcraft

Schoolcraft College President Eric J. Bradner, and Harold E. Fischer, Plymouth, chairman of the college Board of Trustees, and Mrs. Jane K. Moehle, Plymouth, board vice-chairman, attended the fourth annual Community College Trustee-President's Conference at Jefferson City, Missouri, January 25-27.

Dr. Bradner and Fischer were among the program speakers during the three-day conference sponsored by the Midwest Community College Leadership Program in cooperation with the University of Michigan Extension Service. The leadership program is supported in part by a grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation.

Dr. Bradner spoke on "The Role of the Community College President," at a Thursday morning session (January 26) and was one of two consultants at a seminar for college administrators Thursday afternoon.

Fischer, who is president of the recently organized Michigan Assn. of Community College Boards, discussed the role and function of that organization at a general meeting Thursday afternoon.

The conference, attended by administrators and trustees of two-year colleges throughout the midwest, is one of two being sponsored by the leadership program during the early part of 1967. A second meeting is scheduled for Albuquerque, N.M., late in March.

"Haricot", a one-act play written by members of the Schoolcraft College Masque Players, student drama group, will be presented at the First Methodist church, Plymouth, at 6:30 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 5. Ralph B. Kelley, chairman of the English and Speech Division at the college, is director.

The second annual Schoolcraft College small business management seminar for owners and managers will begin Monday night, Fred Stefanski, director of the evening college, has announced.

Seminar sessions will be held weekly from 7 to 9:30 p.m. on Mondays in the faculty dining room in the Waterman Campus Center. Fee for the 10-week course is $40.

The seminar is offered by Schoolcraft College in cooperation with the Small Business Administration, and chambers of commerce of Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth.

John Farsakian, marketing analyst for the Ford Motor Co., and an instructor at Wayne State University and Eastern Michigan University, is coordinator of the course. Participants completing the seminar will receive certificates of completion from the college and the SBA.

Individual seminar sessions will deal with the role of economics in small business management, effective management, legal problems, personnel advertising and promotion, community growth, long- and short-term financing, record keeping, taxation, and creating a favorable image in the community.

Seminar leaders will be Orville B. Lefko, CPA, Detroit; James Weidig, personnel research consultant, Ford Motor company; Jesse H. Butler, SBA, assistant legal counsel, Detroit; Thaddeus J. Winarski, Detroit bank executive; Ronald Kluth, partner in a Plymouth business service; Jack Heggarty and J. J. Jefferies, members of a Detroit CPA firm; William A. Parmalee, Niles department store operator; Richard Warfel, manager of the Detroit office, Michigan Department of Commerce; Plymouth Mayor James Houk, and Farsakian.

Brochures describing the seminar are available at chambers of commerce in the four communities and at the college. Additional details may be had by calling Stefanski at the college; 591-6400, extension 302.

Seek Gas Tax, License Fee Hike

LANSING — While Michigan legislators are being asked to consider tax reform, including the reduction of some present state levies, Highway Department officials are seeking a hike in two revenue sources which affect their operations.

One is the state gasoline tax, which now stands at 6 cents per gallon. The other is the vehicle registration fee, more commonly regarded as the price of license plates. The latter fee is now imposed on the basis of 35 cents per hundred pounds weight of the vehicle.

A one-cent increase in the gas tax is being sought. Officials say they need only a "moderate" increase in the license plate fee but that both sources of additional revenue are urgently needed.

"Until about a year ago, we had the funds necessary to keep pace with our minimum highway needs," Highway Director Howard E. Hill notes. "We are no longer in this favorable situation."

MICHIGAN'S RATE of growth and the corresponding increase in the number of vehicles traveling the roadways are "radically outstripping" the ability of state, county and city highway units to provide and maintain adequate highways, contends Hill.

Without the proposed increases in both taxes, of which the bulk of the income goes back into highway construction and maintenance, Hill says many road building projects already planned will have to be delayed.

As part of its push for increased revenue to maintain Michigan's leadership in the field of highway construction and modernization, the department has taken to the use of stogans.

Most news releases emanating from the department now end with a good saying such as, "It costs more to use bad roads than to build good roads," or "Better living through better roads."

MANY THOUSANDS of Michigan residents stand in danger of losing their voting rights this year if they do not take a minute of their time.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose office administers the election law, estimates 10 per cent or better of Michigan's registered voters have not exercised the franchise in the past two years.

State law now requires local clerks to go through the voting rolls and remove the names of those who have not voted in the two previous years.

Another provision of the law requires the clerk to notify those being purged from the voting roll and supply a return card with which the resident can indicate his desire to remain registered.

Thus, any resident who wants to remain on the roll books can do so just by returning the card to the local election office. Failure to do this results in removal of the registration and the resident must sign up anew, in person, to get back on the list in the future.

Technically the cards were to be mailed in December with specific instructions to the errant voters that the returns were valid for only 30 days.

A number of city and township clerks indicated, however, that they would accept return cards beyond the 30-day period.

Since initial registration must be done in person, it would appear that people really interested in maintaining this important privilege would find the few minutes required to renew the registration in this convenient manner.

More important, an individual can maintain the voting right indefinitely by expressing his desires at the polls at least every two years. Receipt of one of these registration removal notices should serve as a reminder of the importance of being a responsible citizen.

SHARP INCREASES have been noted in legislative activity in Michigan during the past eight or 10 years and now a nationwide survey confirms that this has been the trend throughout the country.

Michigan still outdistances most states, however, in the length of its sessions. Our state is one of a very small number in which lawmakers consider their job almost a full-time one. In several recent years the sessions have run six months or more.

Just 10 years ago Michigan was one of only 10 states which held annual sessions. This figure has now jumped to 22.

Most states which hold sessions only once in the biennium do so during the odd numbered year, however, so 47 legislatures will be meeting this year. Just as the number of states finding a need for annual meetings has increased, so has the volume of activity during these sessions.

In 1955, a national legislative survey shows about 83,000 pieces of legislation were introduced in the various states. Some 26,000 of these became new laws.

This year the prediction is that the various lawmakers in the 47 states meeting will introduce for consideration about 100,000 proposals, of which 30,000 or more will become laws.

'Surcharge' Battle Underway

BABSON PARK, Mass. — The great debate is in full swing in Washington. President Johnson has asked for a hike in corporate and individual income taxes. He calls the proposed increase a 6% "surcharge." This will be levied on the tax itself, figured at prevailing rates — and will be added at the end of the form. Hence, as the President intends, the new tax can be easily removed as soon as the emergency in Vietnam is over.

A storm of charges and counter charges has been stirred up by Mr. Johnson's recommendation. Criticism is not aimed at the kind of tax. First, the amount — around $5 billion — is not very heavy in relation to a nearly $800-billion economy ... nor contrasted with a budget close to $135 billion. Second, the low-income citizen can hardly get excited; for it is intended that a family with two children have $5,000 taxable income exempted.

The big battle is between economists and would-be economists. One camp holds that the private area of our economy is already in a recession (they say this is obscured by the tremendous surge in arms production). In the opposite corner are the anti-inflation forces (they maintain that the federal budget is already out of whack and any further bulge in the deficit will start inflationary fires raging again.)

AS YOU MAY guess, such a brawl among the intellectuals is a made-to-order opportunity for our politicians in the Capital. And they have jumped in with both feet. Republicans and some conservative Democrats are demanding that no tax change be considered until the President's spending proposals have been gone over with a fine-tooth comb. Their cry: Cut spending to balance the budget!

Across the aisle, however, the banners of the Great Society have been raised. Despite defections at the conservative fringes, there is a hard core of determination. It is emphasized that the United States is strong enough to meet its commitments both at home and abroad. Surely — the Democratic argument runs — we are not going to abandon the underprivileged and the needy when the country is spending less than 9% of its annual Gross National Product on total defense.

THROUGH THE smoke of battle only one signpost can be seen. It points to a delay of months before any final decision on a taxboost may be reached by the Congress. Working on the side of procrastination is the Democratic conviction that the Republicans will be able to cut only tiny slices from the overstuffed Administration budget. They are confident that, although the opposition may be strong enough to obstruct, they certainly do not have the power to launch a successful attack.

Then, too, those with an eye on what the economists are saying are quite happy to adopt a wait-and-see policy for the next few months. This applies to both Republicans and Democrats. They feel that by late spring or early summer more will be known about the health and well-being of our business body. Then will be time enough to take the unpleasant action.

RIGHT NOW the odds favor some kind of "surcharge" tax this year. But the decision is not for the U.S.A. alone to make. All the hue and cry about the health of the private sector of the economy may make good headlines. Surely, however, no one expects that the nation is going to slip far into recession in the next six months if the war continues in Southeast Asia. Hence, if Ho Chi Minh is still avoiding truce talks by midsummer, the country will undoubtedly have higher taxes by year end.

Yet, it must not be forgotten that there is another side to the coin ... hopefully a brighter one. Should Hanoi decide before autumn that talking could be more profitable than fighting, we freely predict that the 90th Congress would not vote for a bigger tax bite. That is why we say that war is the key to a tax or no.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

The 99th annual convention of the Michigan Press Association was held last weekend in Kellogg Center at East Lansing.

The months of meticulous planning by MPA Secretary Elmer White were blown out by the snow storm that hit Lansing Thursday afternoon. It nearly cancelled the whole show.

I arrived Thursday afternoon to attend a pre-convention meeting of the board of directors. Friday morning it looked as if someone had taken a huge sheet and spread it over Kellogg Center's parking lot. No one arrived at or left the Center until evening.

None of the speakers for Friday programs was on hand. There were 67 persons seated in the huge Big Ten dining room which had been prepared for nearly 500 reservations for noon and evening meals.

Saturday the attendance topped 100, when more than 600 had been expected.

The state of mutual helplessness seemed to create a mood of giddy-ness that made each of the impromptu speakers master comedians.

Probably one of the biggest crises was the cancellation of the annual "hospitality party" given by suppliers at the Pick Motel in East Lansing. A trio of hearty volunteers trekked on foot from Kellogg to the distant motel in an attempt to rescue some of the marooned refreshments.

Friday evening a handful of brave souls arrived from points throughout the state. Among them were Jack Hoffman, Bob Blough, John Harrington and Dennis Pajot from our Record-News and Herald newspapers.

They had started out at 9 a.m. Friday and pulled into Kellogg Center 12 hours later. They insisted that they had been marooned at the "Bucket Bar" in Williamston for eight hours.

Williamston, they said, looked like a Mardi Gras city. Its population swelled to double its normal size as stores, restaurants and bars were filled to overflowing by stranded motorists and curious natives.

There was a rumor that Williamston snow plows were purposely blocking all exits to prolong the business boom.

Readers Speak

Police, Press Praised

To the Editor: The widespread publicity given the use of illegal drugs in our community recently seemed to be of considerable concern to some parents attending the Thursday night meeting at the High school.

"Parents whose children were unwittingly involved", would you not have been grateful for an opportunity to caution your youngsters and avoid all the anxiety of the past week?

If the publicity indirectly keeps just ONE student somewhere from traveling the tragic road of drugs and narcotics, hasn't it been worthwhile?

It would seem rather that this was a matter of public service. We commend Chief Elkins for answering the questions of the press candidly, - and particularly THE NORTHVILLE RECORD for its complete and extensive coverage of the facts. Hushing this up would have created conjecture way out of proportion, caused chaos and hampered investigations.

We will as a community really be judged on the decisiveness of the final action our School Board and Administration take in this matter. Mr. & Mrs. John Moorhead

Meanwhile, MSU students were being caught up in the revelry of the occasion. All facilities on campus were closed for the first time in the history of the institution. For fun students were jumping out of first, second and third floor windows into huge snow banks. About a dozen students were hospitalized - 10 with broken legs, one boy with two broken legs.

By Saturday night it was possible to drive from East Lansing to Lansing - but few businesses were open and there were no roads open out of town.

Snow removal operations began in the parking lots at Kellogg Center Saturday night and by Sunday morning we were able to locate and dig out my car. The expressways outside Lansing were still slippery and lined with abandoned trucks and cars. The streets looked like tunnels lined with 10-foot-high walls of snow.

The 99th MPA convention was one of the poorest attended, but it will go down in history as the best remembered. And even without planned programs and professional speakers there was an exchange of problems and ideas between fellow newsmen that made the sessions worthwhile and meaningful.

But let's hope it happens only once every 100 years.

It is interesting to note that James O'Neil, newly elected member of the State Board of Education, urged year-around operation of elementary and secondary schools in an address before the Plymouth Republican Women's club last week.

Two weeks ago George E. Mills of the U of M's bureau of school services told Northville school board members and administrators that the "idea is a good one that will never work". He said he had gained national recognition for advocating year-around use of schools as Dearborn's superintendent many years ago.

The idea flopped the test of practicality, he said, as soon as parents learned that some of their youngsters might not have a summer vacation.

More Go in Snow

After experiencing several severe snow storms within the last few years where even police vehicles are paralyzed, it would seem to me a good idea for Novi and other police departments to purchase at least one snowmobile. This should have some sort of an extension on the rear large enough to carry a stretcher. As you may recall a Novi resident collapsed on 10 Mile road during our snow storm two years ago, and all vehicles were unable to reach him for several hours - which resulted in his death.

I am therefore recommending to the Novi Common Council to approve the purchase of at least one snowmobile to be used to reach people where other vehicles are unable to go under such storm conditions, and convey the sick and injured to a point of an ambulance or other care.

I believe most people know what a snowmobile is (it's a motorized vehicle that travels on skis).

The Old Home Movie Bit

A LOOSE LEAF

By ROLLY PETERSON

A shaft of pure imagination, the movie, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," flies straight to its mark, the funny bone, and tickles the marrow.

The book of the same name, written by Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart, gave rise to the play (a smash hit) and now brightens the screen during a hilarious hour and 30 minutes.

From the incongruous circumstances to the characters themselves, this movie has a little bit of everything, just as the thematic song, "Something for Everyone, a Comedy Tonight," proclaims. It's a spicy spoof on things fantastic, gigantic, romantic, pedantic, rhythmic and most surely, classic, like the venerated Roman civilization where the action takes place.

The story is framed upon the traditional picture of romance, the love of Hero (our hero) for a fair virgin from Crete. But she has been purchased by Glorlanus, captain of the conquering Roman legions, from Marcus Licus, "a common flesh peddler" of uncommonly beautiful women. Glorlanus must be outwitted, indeed, outflanked. What happens is pure mayhem.

Enter our hero, who is seeking a sleeping potion so he may carry his love away. He needs an ingredient, one not easily come by, no herb or mineral. He needs mare sweat. And he gets it, after some travail, only to have it swallowed by unwitting, but thirsty knaves.

Enter the inflated Roman legions, Quo Vadis revisited, with their glorious captain leading the way astride a magnificent steed. Citizens throng to greet them, with garlands. No. Garbage. And those equally magnificent legions in the front rank, triumphantly beating their drums, fall like the Roman Empire, over their splendid kettles.

Just as the legions march, stumbling and fumbling, so the story nimbly prances on, twisting and turning, a wild bacchanal, an orgy of laughter, racing to the classic ending, "the chase," on chariots, no less.

To accomplish the farce, there is the story of course. But there is also Director Richard Lester, a jester at heart. He finds imaginative ways to create things inconceivable. Farce, to him, is distortion. He makes his characters caricatures, grotesques, first through the scope and sweep of the tricky camera.

Figures are suspended in air, frozen in ludicrous relief. Faces - noses, follicles and tongues - necks and figures are exaggerated beyond proportion. The camera is slowed or speeded up, as the director demands, to produce the desired effect, that of accentuating the ludicrous.

The second source of humor at Lester's command is a rich mixture of comic characters. Through facial expression, and this through judicious choice of actors, Lester has made a classic film of fun.

With a name like Zero Mostel, what else but unrelenting humor would you expect? He's a rollicking butterball, a modern day Falstaff, who fairly thrives on his role as Sualus, the slave who connives for his freedom. It's the same role that Mostel made famous on Broadway. His flaccid, rubber face swiftly changes from exaltation to chagrin, but always a glint of mirth lingers.

Mostel is one of those unique characters who provoke laughter by simply being. In motion, especially as Sualus, Mostel is a high priest of mirth.

His soul mate in this flick is Phil Silvers (Sargeant Bilko of the TV series) whose appearance alone, like Mostel's, provokes laughter. Silvers is Licus, a flesh peddler who also panders buffoonery with abandon.

Mostel and Silvers, together with a full array of lovelies and the sad sack, Buster Keaton, lead us to the undeniable conclusion that life is a comedy.

She settled back in her chair, reflected for a moment and then chirped: "I'm just tired of living out of a suitcase."

I was fishing for reasons why a prominent concert organist was giving up the glamor of performing before audiences throughout the world for the seemingly mundane role as a music therapist for mental patients. Her answer wasn't a flippant one, just realistic.

Across the desk from me was an attractive young woman, by name of Dorothy Layman, who recently joined the staff of the Northville State Hospital and who has but one more engagement - that in Dublin, Ireland - before she completely severs herself from the concert world.

Miss Layman - or Dr. Layman if you wish, since she holds a doctorate in music from the University of Western Ontario - had been reluctant to speak at first because of a driving determination to wall up the past and concentrate on her new career. For no better explanation at hand, I'd guess she's experiencing something like those withdrawal symptoms that you and I had when we resolved never to smoke again; even the mention of a cigaret hurt.

So we skirted the subject awhile, concentrating instead upon her reasons for choosing music therapy. Back 10 years ago when she was working for her master's at Michigan State university Miss Layman read something about this field, which at that time was still in its infancy. Even today, only eight colleges offer degrees in music therapy. Because the field was so young and untried, her instructors persuaded her to take her talents into the concert world.

But Miss Layman tucked the therapy idea away and periodically it came back to haunt her, especially upon seeing "the suffering in the world" during her wide travels.

Besides this general feeling of compassion for mankind, she had come to realize after 10 years of concert work that the professional life-span of artists - especially for women - is a short one. With the first grey hair, she explained, the number of bookings begin to dwindle. "Not so much for men, but for women... age, usually spells the end."

But she's still young. Her decision to give it up was an unpopular one. As had happened throughout her schooling, instructors and music buffs "pushed ... insisted. They can tell a good, convincing story, even using religion as reasons for continuing."

Only her parents were happy. For them it meant that at last their "Dorothy would finally settle down, maybe marry, and stay close to home."

So 10 years after receiving her doctorate, Miss Layman returned to Michigan State university where only recently she received her bachelor's in music therapy after a six-months "internship" at the world-famous Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kansas.

Concert commitments, however, continued to hound her. Last Thanksgiving it was a tour in Belgium. At Christmas she was in Russia where she performed in Moscow, Rostov, and Vilma. As I said at the outset, she has but one more engagement before it ends for good.

Looking back over the past 10 years, she does not regret that she chose the concert field. Pleasant memories outweigh the unpleasant ones - like winning France's coveted Caesar Franck award. It had sparked a personal friendship with Premier Charles DeGaulle and led to her being given an honorary citizenship of that country.

One of the most interesting aspects of Miss Layman's musical background is the fact that she did not begin elementary piano lessons until her senior year in a Detroit high school at the urging of a boyfriend.

Her training came so late that Wayne State university would not accept her in its music program. So instead she picked up an associate degree from the University of Toronto and a Bachelor's at the University of Detroit where she took basic music through the Detroit Institute of Arts. While working towards her graduate degrees she studied at Paris and Belgium.

So it is with all this training and professional background that Miss Layman comes to Northville State Hospital, full of enthusiasm and bent on making a career of helping men, women and children, some of whom may never have held a musical instrument let alone play one.
