Extension Plans For Wing Street Hike Track Project

Construction of a $1 1/2-million dollar, tri-level clubhouse at Northville Downs moved a step closer to reality Monday night as the city council reviewed preliminary plans for extension of Wing street south to Hines drive.

Downs' Executive Manager John Carlo said construction of the facility would "begin immediately if we receive assurances that the city is going through with the road".

Carlo requested the Wing street extension to permit diversion of traffic off Center street during busy hours at the track. The proposed clubhouse would be located in the present bleacher area at the track's first turn near Center street. A valet parking service for clubhouse users would be provided in the lot area directly across Center street from the track.

Without an alternate route around Center street during busy evening track hours, Carlo contends the construction of the clubhouse would not be practical. He predicts that the new facility will boost the nightly mutual handle by $50,000 which amounts to $500 nightly in tax rebates to the city.

Under the proposed agreement with the city the Downs would provide all the property for the road right-of-way, except a 50-foot slice of park property to the west which must be obtained from Wayne county.

The city would pay for the cost of construction of the road, estimated at $45,000.

Plans submitted by Engineer Harold Penn called for 100-foot right-of-way, which would require removal of two houses. It's possible, he noted, that by reducing the right-of-way at least one of the houses (coincidentally, owned by Councilwoman Beatrice Carlson) could be saved.

Next step for the city will be to review the proposal with county road commission officials. The project has been aired previously and Mayor A. M. Allen has expressed confidence that county cooperation can be obtained.

The Wing street extension would connect with Hines drive about 400 feet west of the present Sheldon road-Hines drive intersection.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff said it was possible the city would begin the project next spring. Carlo said the clubhouse construction would begin this fall — with proper assurances — and be ready for use during the 1969 racing meet.

The clubhouse plans call for general admission at the lower level and dining and lounge areas on the upper levels. Carlo said elevated dining boxes overlooking the track would be included.

Bus Area Planned At High School

Preliminary planning for a bus compound to be located at the southwest corner of the high school athletic fields is underway today following last week's go-ahead signal by the board of education.

The compound means that earlier plans for a bus garage have been shelved — at least for the time-being.

According to school administrators, cost of backtopping, lighting, installation of electric heaters, and fencing for an area approximately 120 x 200 feet is estimated at $10,000.

Architectural estimates for construction of a four-stall garage with electronic doors were more than $100,000, administrators reported, leading them to recommend that the garage priority be eliminated and the compound suggestion be pursued.

A $100,000 garage investment is greater than the total worth of the outlay for the buses themselves, board members were told. Wiser use of this money for educational purposes can be found, they concluded, particularly after they learned that John Mach Ford has volunteered its facilities after regular working hours for general maintenance of buses.

Furthermore, with approval of the recent bus purchase-leasing plan, future buses will be replaced sooner therefore reducing the cost of maintenance, they were told.

Since last week's meeting, bus drivers met with administrators and agreed to the compound suggestion. "They agreed that the priority should be placed on education even though it might work an inconvenience for them," Business Manager Earl Bussard said.

Although the bus garage plan has been shelved, a suggestion by Bussard that the school district join with the city in developing a single facility for use by both governing bodies is still under consideration.

Actually, the bus compound is part of an over-all plan that includes a new bus route for dispatching students at the high school and at the new junior high school. Under this proposed plan, buses will enter the drive into the athletic field north of the Eight Mile cutoff, dispatch high school students at the overhead walkway, and then continue on along the drive parallel to Eight Mile to the compound or to a proposed adjacent sidewalk leading to the new junior high school. Buses may exit at the existing drive on Taft.

According to Bussard, by dispatching students at these two points the bus tie-ups at the high school itself will be avoided and minimum use of Taft road will be necessary.

The latter suggestion is considered essential because the city plans no surfacing of Taft nor parallel sidewalks for several years, he said. A letter from the city to the school pointed this out.

Also being considered is a sidewalk from the athletic field drive to the new junior high school and a sidewalk from the west end of Larry drive in Northville Heights to the junior high. The latter sidewalk would be used by walking students from Northville Heights and Village Green subdivisions.

In commenting on the various sidewalk proposals suggested by Junior High Principal Donald VanIngen, Trustee James Kipfer said "in the long run" a sidewalk from the high school to the new junior high school may be an important one. Such a walkway, besides being used by students living south of Eight Mile road, could be used by junior high students using the new high school swimming pool. He envisioned the sidewalks in the senior-junior high-American area as similar to those on a college campus.

Van Ingen, who outlined distances students might have to travel to the new junior high, expressed a hope that as many students as possible walk to the new facility. The fewer students who must be bussed, he said, the fewer the problems.

Stempien Named City Attorney

A former state representative was named Northville city attorney Monday night succeeding Phillip Ogilvie, who becomes municipal judge July 1.

Marvin R. Stempien, Democratic representative from 1964-66 in the 35th legislative district, was the unanimous choice of the Northville council.

A practicing attorney with offices on Plymouth road in Livonia, Stempien represented the Northville-Livonia area in the state legislature and served as chairman of the House Apportionment Committee and as a member of the committees on judiciary, education and state prisons.

He was defeated for re-election last fall by Republican Louis Schmidt.

Stempien will take over his new post officially July 1, but the council does not meet until July 17. The July 3 session was cancelled because of the holiday.

A native of Detroit, Stempien is a graduate of the University of Detroit high school and the University of Michigan. He also was graduated from the Detroit College of Law and Walsh Institute of Accountancy.

Stempien, 34, is married and lives with his wife, Corinne, and four daughters at 32321 Maryland in Livonia.

Judge Swainson To Give Ogilvie Oath of Office

Northville's new municipal judge will be sworn in officially Monday night by an ex-governor of Michigan.

The Honorable John B. Swainson, now a Wayne county circuit judge, will perform the swearing-in ceremonies for Phillip R. Ogilvie.

Ogilvie does not take office until July 1. He has been Northville's city attorney since incorporation in 1955 and previously served as village attorney.

The ceremonies are scheduled for 8 p.m. at the council chambers.

Ford Calls Off Building Plans

The Ford Motor Company informed the Northville city council this week that plans to enlarge its local valve plant "have been cancelled for the time being".

Northville's board of appeals granted the company a variance last December so that it might expand the building at the Main street front to provide space for a new plating process needed to lengthen the life of the valves made necessary by the company's new extended warranty program.

In a letter read to the council Monday night a company spokesman said the delay was decided upon to provide "more time for proper testing and evaluating of the proposed process".

School Ponders Millage Election

Operating Fund Shortage Feared

Possibility that electors may be asked to decide an additional two-mill levy request for operation of Northville schools turned toward probability Monday night as board members—including those two who will take office in July—reviewed the preliminary 1967-68 budget in a work session that lasted 4 1/2 hours.

Another meeting was slated Wednesday night — this one to shave as much from the budget as possible and to determine, perhaps, if the board should next Monday night take formal action on a millage increase request. Based upon discussions Monday such an increase probably would be tied to teacher salary increases since this is the area in which the preliminary budget — pegged now at approximately $1.8 million — falls short.

The proposed outlay presently shows an excess of a little over $50,000, but it does not include any new increases that will come out of the teacher contract negotiations nor does it include a revised recommendation for additional teachers as proposed by Assistant Superintendent Raymond Spear. (See page 8-A). Teacher salary increases probably will cost more than $50,000 according to Spear.

The preliminary budget does provide, Spear explained, normal increments in teacher salaries.

Still to be decided are salaries of other school personnel and additions to the staff such as custodians.

Concerning an earlier reported accumulated deficit of nearly $80,000 Business Manager Earl Bussard said this estimate is far greater than what the actual figure may be going into the new fiscal year since much of it represents monies in accounts still to be received. He suggested that, at least on paper, the deficit may be entirely cleaned up.

In asking the board for a decision on a possible millage hike, Assistant Superintendent Spear reminded members that they are battling a time element. Election machinery, he said, must be set into motion within the next month in order for an election to take place in late August. And a late August election is necessary if any additional voted millage is to be spread on the December tax rolls.

A 2-mill increase, which would bring in about $52,000, would boost the total Northville millage level to 34.9. The current levy is composed of 7 mills for building debt retirement and 25.9 mills for operation of the schools.

Effective November 1

City Bans All-Night On-Street Parking

All night parking on Northville's city streets was banned by the city council Monday night. The action becomes effective November 1.

Specifically, the council voted to prohibit on-street parking between the hours of 2:30 a.m. and 7:00 a.m. on all streets, both in commercial and residential areas.

The action was taken to permit city work crews to conduct snow removal and street-cleaning operations without obstacles. It was also noted that clearing of these streets at night contributed to the safety of citizens.

It marks the second time that the Northville council has undertaken to ban all-night street parking. Some three years ago the effort blew-up in the face of citizen protests. It was attempted later in an area restricted to the commercial area, but with little success.

The council noted that many neighboring communities have similar ordinances.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff was directed to have signs posted at all entrances to the city noting that parking is prohibited on city streets between the 2:30-7 a.m. hours.

"We know there will be some hardship cases where exceptions will have to be granted", said Mayor A. M. Allen. "But by taking the action now and giving citizens more than four months to prepare they ought to be able to find someplace to park their cars at night".

The council asked the manager to prepare notices for distribution to all residents.

School Building

Summer Hours Set

New summer hours for all Northville school buildings, including the central office, were announced this week by Assistant Superintendent Raymond Spear.

Hours will be 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday, he said, and 8 a.m. to noon on Friday.

World War I Pilot Recalls Life with Rickenbacker, Doolittle, etc.

'We were an Odd Bunch . . . Flying Up There Like Kings'

They called 'em the Quiet Birdmen; the swashbucklers of the skies.

Birdmen ... swashbucklers, perhaps. But quiet, never. For the noisy, flaming Coffins they flew rounded the world over, sparking a burgeoning fascination in aviation back when air conditioning was a synonym for open cockpits.

A half-century older and grounded by pains of past mishaps, Ray "Poppa" Collins, 73, flew back into history this week as he recalled those early, pioneering years from his little Northville township home — just a mile or so from where Eddie Stinson, who was one of his closest friends, also played a role in shaping the world of air travel.

He was a friend or close acquaintance of dozens of air pioneers. He splits their names out like a machine gun — names like Orville Wright, Roscoe Turner, Frank Hawks, Ralph Royce, Arthur Goebel, Billie Street, Lon Yancey, Roger Williams, Sir Hubert Wilkins, Jack Harding, Billie Mitchell, Eddie Rickenbacker, Billie Brock, Jimmy Doolittle, Richard Byrd, Charles "Slim" Lindberg, Clarence Chamberlain, Amelia Earhart, and many more.

Hedge-hopping over the years, Collins landed briefly in 1917, the year when he and a handful of other young men headed for a dandelion covered pasture in Wichita Falls, Texas — capitol of the United States' military air schools.

"Imagine, just imagine," he said, "back then the country had only eight military pilots and there were only a dozen or so experienced civilian pilots."

Collins had volunteered — the first to do so from Detroit ... to become a military pilot, which meant six months of rigorous schooling ("they stuffed the equivalent of two years of West Point into six months") at Ohio State university. Of his university class of 100, only 29 were graduated and sent to Wichita Falls where they were to learn "the ins and outs of flying wood, strap iron and balling wire."

Handsome "Hap" Arnold, a first lieutenant at the time, was commander of the field dotted with tiny hangars. His young recruits, Collins included, were training in what was then called the aviation section of the Signal Corps. The Army Air Corps and United States Air Force handles had not yet appeared.

Collins' instructor was a pioneer by the name of Ed Musick, who years later became chief pilot for Pan American. They chafed on "the crazy Standard with an 80-horsepower Curtiss motor" and had their main course on the 80-horsepower Curtiss Jenny, the most famous of all of the training planes of World War I.

One of his young classmates was named Hubert Call. He was killed during one of his training flights and, as was the custom in those early days, the then unnamed field was designated Call Field. "Why no one else was killed is a real mystery considering the hours we spent in the air. We had about 25 hours of flight training. Well, get this: there wasn't a pilot during World War II who didn't have a minimum of 350 hours in the air."

Selected for special training following graduation at Call Field, Collins was sent to Dayton for the next 30 days. Then with 18 more hours in the air, he was returned to Call to become an instructor!

"After another 50 hours, they appointed us either as observation pilots with the deHavilland, the American built version of England's "DH-4", or as pursuit pilots. I wanted a pursuit — a single seater, so after a short course at Dayton I went to France."

It was in France where he first met Rickenbacker and a friendship developed that continues today. "Rick was commander of the 94th squadron, I was in the 17th. Of course, he was the Ace of Aces. My three kills were peanuts to his 24. But it was better than nothing.

"I still get a letter from him now and then, and a couple of weeks ago he called me on my birthday. Back when he headed the Indianapolis Speedway he'd always reserve a box for me."

Collins flew both the Naiprot and the Spad, streamline little gems that did commendable jobs against the German's superior planes.

"I guess we were an odd bunch. Leather helmets, scarves, the whole works, flying around up there like kings. We'd

Pamela Kay Married In Outdoor Ceremony

Pamela Lee Kay, daughter of a former Northville elementary principal, became the bride of Charles B. Rosenberg in a Saturday afternoon ceremony on the Lakeside lawn of Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The new Mrs. Rosenberg is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Kay of Grosse Pointe, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Rosenberg of East Tawas. For her wedding, the bride chose a silk organza and eyelet gown with a full-length mantilla train of the same material. She carried a variety bouquet of white garden flowers, garnished with white velvet to the hemline.

Serving as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Cynthia Ann. Joanne Rosenberg, sister of the bridegroom, was the bridesmaid, Michelle Rosenberg, another sister, was a junior bridesmaid, and Terry Kay, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl.

The bridesmaids wore white embroidered net over silk organza and carried bouquets of multi-colored summer flowers.

Mr. Charles Armstrong was the best man, and serving as ushers were George Lewis and John Baldwin. The string trio from the Detroit Symphony provided the music during the wedding and the reception that followed.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kay wore a yellow pleated chiffon dress, and the bridegroom's mother wore a bone colored linen dress with a matching coat.

The newlyweds left later for a honeymoon trip to New Orleans, Louisiana. Upon their return they will live in Livonia.

In Our Town

By JEAN DAY

SUMMER BEGINS the undercover season for most Northville club groups. While membership meetings officially are recessed until fall, board members and program committees are planning over ice tea or coffee.

Northville Woman's club program committee has been working steadily to plan a special Jubilee Year which will begin with a luncheon at Meadowbrook Country club on June 6. Arrangements for this program to open the club's 75th year are under chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Yahn. Assisting are Mrs. E. M. Starkweather, Mrs. C. Harold Bloom, Mrs. H. F. Wagenschutz and Mrs. A. J. Verschaeve. Mrs. Starkweather, Mrs. Bloom and Mrs. Wagenschutz all are life members of the club who have 25 consecutive years of memories to draw upon.

NEW MOTHERS' club president Mrs. Donald Hannabarger convened her new board early this month and has committee appointments made. Part of her efficiency, she claims, is due to the fact that her husband has been on a business trip to Santiago, Chile, Venezuela, Buenos Aires, Lima and Mexico City. When he returns this week, SHE wants to be ready to make vacation plans.

NEWCOMERS NIGHT at Northville Downs tonight is a summer bonus meeting for club members that was a spur-of-the-moment inspiration. Mrs. Halton Axtell expects about 50 couples to attend, many of whom will be visiting the track for the first time. They have box seats reserved.

Mrs. Axtell, club president, says the response has been so good that this may become a yearly addition to the club's schedule.

A EUROPEAN TRIP was an early-season vacation for Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rathert of Maplewood avenue. They are just back from a flying trip to England, Germany and Switzerland.

With Mr. Rathert's 81-year-old father and brother of St. Louis, Missouri, they spent most of their time in Germany, taking the steamer up the Rhine and visiting Heidelberg, Frankfurt and Oberammergau.

In addition to visiting distant relatives, the Ratherts had the pleasure of visiting in half a dozen homes in England and Germany, including those of families Ken met while in World War II service in England and Germany. He was in Germany until 1946 with the military government.

BOTH DAUGHTERS of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Entz of Beck road will be going abroad this summer on travel and study programs.

Sue, a junior at Albion college, is to leave for Tokyo June 30 to be gone for 14 months to 2 years. She is one of two exchange students from Albion participating in the program, which will begin with a "vacation" in the mountains at the Japanese language center.

In seminar sessions Sue will be studying Eastern art, religions, politics and theology. She also plans to take course in Japanese music, judo and karate. She will be speaking and writing in Japanese. She also expects to visit Korea.

In addition to finishing her spring term studies at Albion and preparing for her overseas trip, Mrs. Entz reports, Sue has managed to find time to become a member of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, DAR.

Sue's sister, Patty, who will be a Northville high school junior this fall, will be among area students on an American Institute for Foreign Study program tour. The group will study and tour during July and August with headquarters being University of Durham in England.

JANE JEROME, Gary Becker and Sue Jones also are Europe-bound Northville students. They are to leave Friday to spend three weeks with the Musical Youth International group which includes a 50-piece band and a 150-voice chorus. They will appear in five English cities, in Wales, Vienna, Budapest, Innsbruck and in Western Germany. As part of the people-to-people tour program the youngsters will live with local families in each place.

(Current interest in travel makes more amusing the clipping culled by Councilwoman Beatrice Carlson from Original School Geography written by Judah Morse, father of S. B. Morse, dated October 28, 1784: "Since geography is a species of composition, which, of all others, is most liable to error, as it depends in great measure on the testimony of others ... the author thinks proper to request his readers to favor him with friendly remarks and criticisms as well as every information which may tend to make this book extensively useful."

IN OUR TOWN now recesses until fall as Laurie, Robin and I leave for Montreal and Expo '67. We do plan to write a Days'-eye view of the fabulous fair.

During the summer Nancy Slattery, now home from her Michigan State University studies, will be at The Record office on a part-time basis to take women's, club, travel and student news. This will be her third summer at the paper. She also is enrolling for summer classes at Schoolcraft college.

She will welcome your calls at 349-1700. Happy vacationing!

3 Girls Leave On European Exchange Trip

Three local girls left this week for a summer in Europe under the Youth for Understanding exchange program. Janet Ogilvie and Donna Tymensky left Sunday for Holland, while Karen Stefanski departed Monday for Sweden.

Janet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ogilvie of 525 Linden Court, will be living in Venhuizen, Holland with Mr. and Mrs. Rikultter and their three children. Her plans include vacationing with the Rikultters on an island in the North Sea for two weeks, taking other trips around the country and bicycling with the youth hosting program.

One of her Dutch sisters will be coming to the United States in August as an exchange student in Clarkston. Janet will be a senior at Northville high school this fall.

Donna Tymensky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tymensky of 26020 Whipple, Novi, will also be living with a Dutch family, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Miltenburg and their nine children, in Dordrecht, Holland.

Her tentative plans include bicycling, camping along the ocean with her family, and perhaps visiting Belgium and Germany later this summer.

Donna graduated this June from Northville high and will begin her freshman year at Central Michigan this fall.

Karen Stefanski, daughter of the Fred Stefanskis of 840 Carpenter, will be living in Kvanum, Sweden with Mr. and Mrs. Tjernberg and their three children, Christina, 16, Yeva, 13, and Ian, 9. Christina will be an exchange student to Belleville this fall.

Karen's plans include visits to Stockholm, and trips around the country. She will be a senior at Northville high this fall.

All three girls will return from Europe August 19.

The Youth for Understanding program is one of five exchange programs in the United States sponsored by the State Department. Its home office is in Ann Arbor.

The program was originated 16 years ago by the Ann Arbor and Michigan Council of Churches under the direction of Mrs. Rachel Andresen. Mrs. Andresen still directs the project, which will send 1800 students abroad this summer.

In exchange, students from Europe, South America, Japan and the Philippines will be coming to America in August to stay for the school year and live with American families.

Students are selected for the program on the basis of scholarship, leadership and adaptability, and must be recommended by their school and minister.

The basis of the program is the belief that the best way to learn about a country is to live with a family in that country and live as they do.

Class of '51 Plans Reunion

Plans for a reunion of the Northville high school graduating class of 1951 were announced this week.

The reunion party will be held at the Thunderbird Inn on August 29, representing the first reunion of the class since the death of a classmate, James Whipple, in 1955.

Members of the planning committee are:

Martha Chappell Bingley, Delores Bell Jennings, Hazel Hammond Wright, Gene Maloney and Robert Prom.

Although the class of 1951 was a relatively small one, the committee revealed that it has been unable to obtain the addresses of Geraldine Shamee, Bonnie Hannah and David Hazlett. Anyone having information concerning these three persons is asked to call Martha Bingley at FI 9-0763.

A fun-filled program is being planned, and responses have been enthusiastic, the committee said, noting that other graduates of Northville who may wish to visit with the class of 1951 may attend the reunion.

Mrs. Hartmann says the project was entirely her son's own idea. In fact, she said he went ahead and did it without telling anyone of his plans. His mother thought he was at a neighbor's house at the time raking their lawn.

Billy often rakes lawns to earn money toward the color television he dreams of buying.

This was one job he did for free, however, as his personal contribution to Northville's annual beautification campaign, sponsored by the Beautification commission.

The commission, headed by Mrs. Beatrice Carlson, appreciated his efforts so much they invited him to be

Northville's Doug Swiss Signs Tiger Contract

IT'S OFFICIAL—Northville's Doug Swiss puts his name on the dotted line Thursday morning at The Northville Record, while (r-l) Bob Kucher, Northville high school baseball coach, Lou D'Annunzio, supervisor of midwest scouting for the Detroit Tigers, and Frank Swiss, Doug's dad, look on.

The professional baseball career of Douglas Dean Swiss began around 9:45 Thursday morning with the signing of a contract with the Detroit Tigers.

The contract gives Doug a free education at the University of Michigan, an undisclosed bonus, and a trip to the Erie, Pennsylvania, Tigers, a class A club for talented rookies in the New York-Pennsylvania circuit.

"He's got a bank account of his own," said his father, Frank Swiss, beaming with parental pride. The money was nice, he beamed—but it was hardly the point.

For the senior Swiss and his quiet-spoken son, fresh out of high school, this was a dream come true. "That's all I wanted to be," the young man with the iron handshake said later, "a professional ball player."

When his 17-year romance with baseball began escapes Doug, but it was love at first sight. "When I was born," Doug ventured at first, tongue-in-cheek, adding, "as long as I can remember I played and loved baseball."

The matchmaker was his father, backed solidly by his mother, and the story is not unlike Bob Feller's. The romance began in the Swiss' back yard on Ridge road, where the elder Swiss built a baseball diamond, complete with back stop and brick bases, for his young sons, Tom and Doug.

Even then, physically, the boys showed signs of resembling their father—robust and strong. Young as they were, no softball for them. It was hard ball day in, day out, weather permitting. Tom was good, but Doug was precocious.

At the age of five, the youngest Swiss made his debut in organized ball. Always, Doug was one of the youngest boys on the Northville recreation league teams and one of the best. He rose steadily, improving each year.

Health and size were on Doug's side. "I was 6' and 170 pounds when I entered the ninth grade," the muscular youth said. Now, he's 6'11" and 190 pounds, the physical attributes of a catcher.

That's not all Doug had going for him. There was something like innate talent and fiery determination. To hear Doug tell it, however, good coaching was instrumental in his development, and he began ticking off the list of coaches:

His father, to begin with; Jim LaRue, once a hotshot catcher who coached Doug in the class E recreation league; Ken Conley and Stan Johnston, both ex-directors of the Northville recreation program; Bob Kucher, high school baseball coach, and finally, Lou D'Annunzio, the Tiger scout who signed and has known Doug since his sophomore year in high school.

"He's young, inexperienced, but he's got the desire," said D'Annunzio, the small, thin-haired, grey-topped Tiger scout, who has signed, to name a few, Milt Pappas, Hal Newhouser and Bill Freehan, and whose baseball and scouting exploits are legendary.

Desire. That's the key, D'Annunzio affirmed. "He's got it," he intoned, nodding toward Doug in The Northville Record office.

As for Doug, he stood by, nervous obviously anxious to get started. "I can hardly wait to get going," he piped up. He left Friday for Erie, P.A., to continue his romance.

Older brother Tom went on to become a three-sport star at Northville high school and a pitcher at Michigan State university, where he recently graduated with a bachelor of science degree. He has accepted a job teaching at Otto junior high school in Lansing.

70 Enjoy Mystery Bus Trip

Approximately 70 members and friends of the Northville Senior Citizens club, sponsored by the local recreation department, enjoyed a mystery bus trip on Tuesday morning.

Details of the trip were not revealed until after the publication deadline, but a club spokesman said the trip would last 1 1/2 hours, including a luncheon.

Club chairman of the trip was Lee Eaton, and Recreation Department Director Robert Prom made arrangements. Two school buses, which are loaned to the recreation department for the summer, were used.

Last week, the board of education approved the bus loaning arrangement, as it has in past years, with the provision that the recreation department provide the drivers and the fuel.

Events Added To Rec Program

Two new activities have been added to the Northville Recreation summer program and a new site has been chosen for swimming, Director Robert Prom announced this week.

Cheerleading and baton twirling instruction will be offered, beginning next week at the Scout-Recreation building on Cady street.

Instructed by Marla Lipa and Luanne Godfrey, veteran high school cheerleaders, cheerleading will be held each Tuesday from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Sandra Bongiovanni, high school drum major, will instruct baton twirling each Wednesday from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Swimming will be held at Island Lake, a mile and one-half northwest of Kensington Park, where swimming was originally scheduled.

Area Students Attend CMU Music Camp

Six area students are participating in Central Michigan university's annual high school music camp which began Sunday. They are James Wachtel, Leonard Beadle, Carol Bruce, Debbie Kuckick, Beth Newbegin and Greg Sonnanstine.

The two-week camp offers concentrated study and performance in band, orchestra and chorus for 250 outstanding Michigan high school musicians. A camp staff of 27 members will be directed by Dr. Rex Hewlett, a member of the Central Michigan music faculty.

The staff is composed of Central Michigan faculty members, guest staff members, high school music teachers, symphony musicians and advanced university music students.

Students attend music theory and literature classes and take private lessons. Daily rehearsals culminate in concerts by the two bands, orchestra and chorus.

NOVI A.D.—John Osborne, football and baseball coach, was recently appointed Novi high school's first athletic director. Married, the 28-year-old physical education teacher was an eight-letter man at his alma mater, Alma College. When only a junior pitcher, he was named to the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic association all-star team. As a football end, he played on the same Alma team as the Detroit Tiger's Jim Northrup.

Jayhawks Win On Clutch Homer

A clutch home run with two men aboard handed Flynn Modernization a 5-4 victory over the Mobarak Jayhawks last Thursday and put Flynn on the top of the Novi Little League race. Gary Colton was the man of the hour as he belted the ball over the fence for three runs that brought Flynn back from a 4-2 deficit.

Flynn now has a 7-1 mark and the Jayhawks, a 6-1 record. That evens the series between the two top title contenders at one game apiece.

Pitcher Jim Assemany picked up the win, while Tom Ritter had two doubles for Flynn. Randy McGarry and David Ward had doubles for the Jayhawks.

Pitcher Steve Jacques hurled Flynn to a 19-0 victory over Paragon last week Monday. He gave up only five hits, including a double by Glen Gault and two singles by Tom Shillito.

Assemany and Roger Provo paced the Flynn Attack with a triple and double apiece. Colton had two doubles and Tom Ritter and Kim Smith, a double apiece.

Kevin LaFleche spanked two doubles and got credit for a 20-10 victory last week Wednesday over the Novi Party Store. LaFleche gave up six hits, with Gary Carmichael getting two doubles.

The Jayhawks, on the other hand, rapped 21 hits, including Ron Frisbee's triple and John Pantalone's, Joe LaFleche's, Jim Van Wagner's and Mark Buman's doubles.

The Rexall Pillers came up with five runs in the sixth and final inning against B-V Construction to post an 18-17 victory, enabling the Pillers to eventually tie B-V for second place.

Both teams are 4-4. Dave Brown led the Piller 14-hit attack with two doubles and a triple, while Jim Christensen had two doubles, Jim Cook, a triple and double, Terry Butler, a triple and Eric Hanson, a double.

Bill Pierce topped B-V with a double and triple; Dave Winkler had two doubles; Dan Rowley and Bob Taucher had a triple each, and Dale Smith and Ken Cookson had doubles.

B-V then posted its win of the week, a 13-11 victory over Novi Party Store. Once again a five-run last-inning outburst turned the trick.

Taucher lined out two doubles and Doug Reeves and Dale Smith each had a double. Winkler was the winning pitcher.

Pacing Party Store Gary Collins with a triple and Ron Buck and Joe Campbell with doubles.

The previous week, B-V got sterling pitching from Winkler to post a 3-0 win over Novi Party Store. Winkler gave up only five hits, three by Ron Buck and a double by Larry Taylor.

Winkler helped his own cause with two doubles. Smith and Pierce got a double each.

The Pillers stayed abreast of B-V by edging the Paragon Steelers, 7-5, by scoring all of their runs in a three and a four-run inning.

Roger Pelchat picked up the pitching victory. Backing him with solid hitting were Christenson, Hanson and Mike Butler, each with doubles.

Paragon's Kevin Hartshorne, however, led all hitters with two doubles. Shillito and Pat Boyer had doubles. Rexall barely staved off the Steelers again on June 5, but had enough to post a 16-12 victory. The Steelers scored six runs in the last inning to make it close.

A triple play highlighted the Rexall win.

Hanson, Dale Brown, Pelchat and Christenson had doubles in a winning cause as Pitcher Joe Green got credit for the victory.

5 Boy Staters Win Elections

Several Northville and Novi boys were elected to offices during the American Legion's 30th annual Wolverine Boy's State held in East Lansing this past week.

Northville boys elected were Tom Durham, city councilman of Tyler City; Rick Suckow, city councilman of Jackson; Kevin Barnes, county road commissioner; and John Brevick, city board of supervisors member.

Thom Holmes of Novi was elected city councilman of Cleveland City.

Twenty local boys in all attended Boy's State this year. They were sponsored by the Lloyd H. Green American Legion post of Northville and various local organizations.

The boys were grouped in 24 cities. The cities then composed counties, which in turn composed the state. Officers from state governor down to city officials were elected in conventions.

The week's activities were designed to acquaint the boys with the workings of government and political parties.

At Downs

Sonny Fortune Tops Invitational

Sonny Fortune, the brilliant Michigan two-year-old trotting champion of last year who is the favorite to win the three-year-old crown this year, has ambitions of registering his fourth victory in eight starts in Friday's $3,000 Invitational Trot at Northville Downs.

The trot is one of two Invitationals planned by racing secretary Harry Peterson over the weekend. He will have the track's top trotters on display Friday and then the fastest pacers on Saturday.

Saturday's pace matches such stand-outs as Victory's Horn, Knoxon, General Knox, Way To Go and Vesta's Boy Len. Meanwhile, Sonny Fortune is slated to clash with such speedy ones as: Dude's Sally, True Valley, Darling Dude, Winter Hanover, El Darno, Grand Grady and Good Pals Billy.

Business at the Northville track continues to trail last year's pace. Average nightly handle to date is $269,939 compared to $300,398 over the first 15 nights in 1966.

Despite rain that closed the Toledo track and called off the Detroit Tigers' doubleheader the Downs recorded a handle of $260,000 Friday evening. Betting bounced back to $380,219 Saturday night, which was also rainy.

Both mutual handle and attendance are down about 13 per cent this year.

She Fires 99 To Lead Flight

Myrna Hartner of Northville fired a 99 to win the first flight low gross of the Women's Suburban Golf association Friday at Carlton Glen country club.

Jane Todd of Plymouth shot a 95 to take low gross in the championship flight, and Skip Gardner of Dearborn had an 87 for low net score.

Others posting best scores in respective categories were Dorothy Wingerson of Dearborn, an 89 for low net in the first flight; Mildred Claus of Southgate, a 114 for low gross in the second flight; Rose Chormann, also of Southgate, a 90 for low net in the second flight.

Jazz Band Eyes Sunday Concert

The Northville high school Jazz Band, under the direction of Robert Williams, will give three performances at the art festival Sunday at the Highland Lakes campus of Oakland Community College in Union Lake. Their shows will be at 1, 2 and 3 p.m.

Twenty students will play in the concerts.

The art festival, featuring displays and demonstrations of pottery, flower arranging and a giant art exhibit, will be held from noon until 6 p.m.

The jazz band was busy last week, playing at the Cougar soccer game in Detroit Wednesday night and at Bob-Lo Friday. They are now making further plans for the summer months.

Request Hits 16

More Teachers Sought by Spear

With all but one of the 12 authorized additional teachers sewed up, Assistant Superintendent Raymond Spear is seeking authorization to hire four more.

A recommendation calling for the hiring of elementary teachers for art, library, physical education and music was introduced to the board of education at its budget work session Monday night.

As of last week, the board had certified 11 of the 12 teachers it had earlier authorized, leaving Spear with four vacancies to fill. These included the remaining one new unfilled position and three replacements at the junior high school level.

Originally, Spear recommended the hiring of 21 1/2 additional teachers to next year's staff but because of financial limitations the board trimmed the request to 12 and asked Spear to re-evaluate the remainder of his recommendation.

The latest request for four more new teachers is a result of that re-evaluation. If the board approves these four, the total teaching staff next fall will stand at 138, compared to 123 this past school year. Last year the board approved 19 new teaching positions.

Spear noted Monday that the additional teachers hired last year together with the new ones for next fall represent a far greater proportionate increase than the pupil increase, permitting an "improved" pupil-teacher ratio and an expanded curriculum. He predicted most classes next year would fall within the 20 to 25 range.

The most recent certified teachers, approved last week, include three additions to the staff. Trustee Richard Martin, who had previously voted "no" on certification of additional teachers because of the uncertainty of available monies, changed his tactics somewhat last week and abstained from voting on the latest certifications.

The additional staff members are Ann Haase of Plymouth, who will teach at the elementary level; Larry Krabill of Otter Lake, junior high school; and Mrs. Frances Chambers of Romulus, high school.

Newly certified replacements are Alta Olson of Plymouth, high school; Harold Hooten of Ypsilanti, junior high school; Barbara LeBoeuf of Ann Arbor, high school; and Mrs. June Emerson of Plymouth, visiting teacher.

In other board action last week, a new bidding procedure was approved, calling for the opening of bids prior to regular board of education meetings - except in those cases where bids involve bonded district monies.

Under this arrangement, bids may be opened at the central offices in the presence of a board member, an administrator and a disinterested citizen. The new arrangement is expected to speed up the bidding procedure as well as public board meetings.

Recommendations, together with an outline of all bids, will continue to come before the board at public meetings for an official vote.

Concerning bids, the board also awarded a contract - not to exceed $14,527.50 - to Howard & Smith of Royal Oak for electronic equipment for the new vocational wing at the high school. Technical Education and Manufacturing, Inc. submitted a bid but failed to meet the board's specifications. About half of the $14,000 outlay is expected to be recouped through the National Defense Education Act (NDEA) federal aid.

A contract also was awarded to John Mach Ford for five school bus chassis at $3,503 each. These chassis will become part of the new bus purchase-lease program recently approved by the board. Mach was not the low bidder since Leo Cathoun Ford of Plymouth came in with a bid of $3,440. However, it was decided to award the bid to the local dealer because of closer servicing.

Approved also was a cooperative purchasing plan, in which the city and the school district will jointly bid and purchase office supplies, sand, etc., in order to obtain these items at the lowest possible cost.

A similar cooperative bid procedure with the Wayne county school business officials led the board to approve a low bid for paper as secured by that group, which represents districts throughout the county.

In still other business, the board officially accepted a gift of $500 from Conrad E. Langfield to the high school band; took under advisement a suggestion by Kate Edgerton that the southeast corner of the Junior high property be "beautified" by planting of flowers; waved a textbook policy in approving adoption of five new textbooks for next fall; accepted the resignation of Robert Powell, teacher and coach; ratified Dr. Carolyn Pratt as psychologist again next fall; and approved payment of bills totaling $874,385.

Council OK's Fee Increases

A lengthy agenda that included a public hearing on nine amendments for fee changes kept the Northville city council busy until nearly midnight Monday.

Six of the fee increases were approved, three others were postponed for further consideration until a special meeting Monday night.

Approved were a business registration fee, license fee increases, restaurant license increase, dog license fees and fines for stray dogs, bicycle license fees and a rate increase for sewer service and water taps.

Only the latter measure brought opposition from the audience, Sidney Frid, 865 Grace, contended that the increase was too large and that a minimum charge should not be made. He said it would cause hardship on smaller water users.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff pointed out that without a minimum charge the revenues wouldn't pay for the service. Mayor A. M. Allen noted that at the increased rate the minimum charge for water and sewer service was under $2 per month.

Action on a peddler's fee was postponed until a proper definition of "peddler" could be determined. Certain building and water connection fee increases were also delayed until Monday's meeting.

Five bids for group life insurance for fulltime city employees were received. Awarding will be made after review of the bids by the city manager and employee representatives.

A public hearing was set for July 17 for rezoning of several lots in the Pennell-Butler area from R-2 to R-1.

The council also approved a new contract agreement with Engineer Harold Penn.

Girl Badly Cut By Glass Door

The legs of a five-year-old California girl visiting her sister in Novi were cut severely Monday when she went through a sliding glass door leading to a patio.

Barbara Haryne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Haryne of Imi, California, was taken to St. Mary hospital, Livonia, where she was treated and released.

The Harynes were visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Tobel, 25671 Strathaven. Police said Barbara, thinking the door was open, ran into the glass door.

Municipal Court

A full load of cases greeted Judge John C. Seiler, visiting judge from the city of Wayne, who presided in Northville Municipal court Tuesday. Recently appointed Philip Ogilvie is scheduled to take over as judge July 1.

The case against eight local youths charged with being involved in a April 22 beer party at 22a Church street was dismissed upon the recommendation of the complainant officer and Ogilvie, who is now city attorney. The reason: the officer vouched for the youths' good behavior since the incident.

A Detroit man, Jack Brumbelow, was fined $150 on the added count of reckless driving on Eight Mile road. He pleaded guilty.

Cited for reckless driving, Lloyd A. Cusson, 18, of 48905 Nine Mile road, was fined $50 and given a provisional 60-day jail sentence. If the fine is paid and if Cusson reveals where he purchased beer found in the car the jail sentence will be dropped. The driving infraction took place on West Cady, Rogers street and Seven Mile road.

Five Detroit men were fined $30 for being drunk and disorderly at Northville Downs. They were Stanley A. Kalinowski, Delmer Jacobs, John W. Sherman, Sylvester F. Sosnoski and Peter W. Palmisano. They were cited for the same infraction between June 9 and 13. All pleaded guilty, except Palmisano, who was found guilty.

William D. Reeves of Pontiac and Thomas Meehan of Detroit both pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly at Northville Downs and paid $30 fines.

The same fine was levied on Alexander Strachan, 620 Horton street for being drunk and disorderly on June 11 at Paul's restaurant, corner of Dunlap and Center streets.

Judge Seiler found Lynne H. Hull, 2025 Lamella, Wixom, guilty of speeding 40 miles per hour in a 25 zone on South Main street. Hull was fined $15 and $5 costs.

For also speeding 40 in a 25 zone, John H. Robinson of Farmington was fined $15. Found guilty, Robinson was detected speeding on North Center street and Seven Mile road. Four youths pleaded guilty of having liquor in their possession at the Clark gas station, 10th Main street. They were cited June 10.

Victor P. Tomlan, 20, of Westland, Pamela D. Draffen, 19, of Inkster and Martin J. Wrybkowski, 18, of Garden City, paid $10 fines apiece. Fine against Donna Wrybkowski, 18, also of Garden City, was suspended.

A verdict of not guilty was reached in the cases of Gerald J. Schmitz and Timothy G. Ford.

Schmitz, 18745 Ridge road, stood mute at arraignment May 28 on the charge of being a disorderly person (disturbing the peace) at 211 East Cady street, and was tried Tuesday.

Ford, Dearborn Heights, pleaded not guilty to careless driving March 22 on Eight Mile road between Novi road and Center street.

Rev. R. A. Mitchinson
New Hudson Methodist Church

Someone has said, "The best argument for Christianity is a Christian." Recognizing that as Christians many of us are in different stages of growth in the Christian life, this statement need not always be true. Yet, when individuals have taken the faith seriously and lived it for many years, their very lives influence and guide others without them ever speaking. I, personally, agree with the statement "I'd rather see a sermon than hear one."

It might be well to take a look at the man of faith as compared to those who lack faith. Many points of interest can be seen between the man of faith and those who live without faith in God. People of faith have certain poise and peace about them, and in face of trouble and death stand steady and unafraid. They do not allow bitterness to engulf them. If you don't believe this, take a look at people who are genuinely Christian ... and who have had their tragedies and disappointments to bear.

Those who live without faith in God are quite all right, or so they would have you think until tragedy strikes. Then you hear the shouts of bitterness and despair which come when there is nowhere to turn. Many of these people denounce the church and the Christian faith, all their lives, but for some strange reason, a clergyman always walks on ahead of them to the grave.

Love and concern are marks of a Christian. Without counting the cost, people who have a living faith move out into the pain and suffering of the world. They possess an outgoing love which demands that they do something about the sad plight of other people. On the other hand, people who have no faith in God are insensitive to the needs of others. In fact, they quite often turn their backs on people that are crying for help. Let a lad break a law or a girl get in trouble and for the most part there is no redemptive attitude on the part of those who have no faith in God. They merely stand on the sidelines and condemn. If approached to help, they turn a deaf ear. Or occasionally they might shrug their shoulders and exclaim flippantly, "It happens in the best of families."

When a man lives by faith he has a message to proclaim. It may be through what he says or through the way that he lives. In short, these people are able to point to a sustaining power outside themselves. They are able to remind others of the abundant love of God experienced in their own lives through a consciousness of past sins forgiven. They can proclaim that the way of Jesus Christ works, because they dared to follow. Men who lack faith have nothing constructive to offer to those who have been broken and defeated by the circumstances of life. They are not able to point to any strength outside themselves. They have no sense of their own shortcomings and feel that they are self-sufficient.

So the best argument for Christianity is a Christian. We are called into this life for a purpose. This purpose is made clear through Jesus Christ. We go forth to address ourselves to persons; to those who are lonely, afraid, sick - persons in need. Men everywhere seek courage and wholeness and meaning for their lives. The Christian's responsibility, above all, is to express the love of God, which takes in even the unlovable, you and me.

Goodwill Pickup

Goodwill trucks collect household discards of clothing, shoes, hats, toys, most types of furniture and other household discards. To arrange for a Goodwill Industries truck pickup, ask the operator for toll-free Enterprise 7002.

ON AN EVEN KEEL

Young Stan learned to row this summer. It was hard work but he didn't complain about the blisters. He was a captain in control of his ship, and very proud of his new position!

Being in control is often hard work, even for adults. Many people wish they could control their tempers, or perhaps curtail bad habits, but they fail to find within themselves the strength of will that would help them.

When problems are too big for us, that's the time to ask God for assistance. We are His children and He knows all our weaknesses. Through church attendance and prayer, we can be guided to a more serene approach to daily life. We will find His presence a constant support as we begin to take pride in our new possession . . . self control.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Ray 'Poppa' Collins Pioneer Flyer Recalls Past

wave to a German pilot as we pass by and then try to drill in on his tail before he'd pull back his hand. Parachutes? We didn't know what they were."

After the war and with the rank of captain, Collins trained pilots out of Selfridge. It was here that he had his only serious accident in more than 10,000 hours in the air. With a student at the controls of his Curtiss on April 8, 1924, the plane went down in a "flat spin" when the student fainted and his foot slipped under the rudder bar. Only the fact that it was spring and the field was covered with mud saved their lives. Even so, the student broke both his legs and Collins suffered a skull fracture and was unconscious for 14 days.

Two years later Collins retired from active military service to accept a position as director of the aviation department of the Union Trust company of Detroit - "a sort of public relations job with the bank."

When Collins arrived at Ford Airport (now part of Greenfield Village) with the bank's first plane, he was greeted by the bank president, Frank W. Blair, Rickenbacker, Detroit's flying-record holder William Brock, who piloted the "Pride of Detroit" in its world flight, and Edward Schlee.

"Mr. Blair did more for aviation than most other Michigan men. His interest showed the country that airplanes were important, not only as a sport but as a commercial enterprise. But that grand old man, Bill Mayo (Ford engineer), was right beside him."

Blair loaned Collins to the Ford Motor company where he became referee and later manager of the world-famous National Air Tours that gave the nation's airplane manufacturers a chance to "show their stuff" in competing for the Edsel Ford trophy. It was in this capacity that his close friendship with Stinson developed. It was here too that he became acquainted with the speed kings and record flight pilots of the world.

Stinson, who manufactured his record-breaking aircraft at Northville, flew one of his own planes in winning the 1927 National Air Tour sponsored by Ford and directed by Collins.

"About three months before each tour, I'd take a plane across the country on what we called Pathfinder flights, landing on little air fields and even in a farmer's pasture. I'd ask if they had room for planes and a gasoline truck, put it on the map and take off for the next. If the Tours did nothing else, they helped develop airports across the country. But, of course, they did a lot for the manufacturers in trying out new gadgets."

While with the bank and the Ford Tours, Collins teamed up with other famous pilots in lecturing on aviation throughout the country. His nine or 10 scrapbooks are stuffed with articles and pictures concerning these talks. Throughout them his name is linked with the "real greats" of early aviation.

"With new airstrips popping up everywhere he was in constant demand in the United States and Canada as a dedication speaker. At Port Huron, for example, he was greeted by song in 1928 as he stepped from his plane:

"We're for you Collins, Yes Brother Collins, That's why we welcome you into our den today. We know you're game - in an aeroplane, and as a speaker we have confidence you're just the same. We want from you, just what to do, as an aeronautic man we know your fame. We want the world to know that we're not so slow - for a LANDING FIELD in Port Huron is our aim."

His assistance in lending professionalism to aviation led to his appointments as chairman of the Michigan Aviation School Advisory Committee, which included Rickenbacker and E. E. Kramp, and later as the state's first director of the Michigan Aeronautics commission, and a chief officer of the Aero Club of Michigan.

Throughout his career Collins maintained an interest in the Air Force, serving for many years as the deputy chief of the production division of the Detroit Air Procurement district. He retired from this post and other aviation activities in 1958.

He moved to Northville nearly 20 years ago, father of two children and grandfather of modern air travel.

Today he lives alone with his wife in a home stuffed with momentos of the past. One wall of the living room is covered with personally autographed pictures of the early pioneers.

But his most-prized possession is a half-century old globe on which are traced the routes of pilots in setting early flight records. And each of them is autographed by the men who set them, including Orville Wright who with his brother made history at a place called Kitty Hawk.

READY TO TAKEOFF—Captain Gale Breen, who later became a major general in World War II, and Ray Collins (left) pose just before taking off from Great Falls, Montana during the 1927 National Air Tour.

BANK PLANE—Shown beside the plane used for publicity purposes by the Union Trust company for which Ray Collins worked are Collins (right) and Detroit's Billy Brock, world-famous air record holder of his day, in the Ford hanger of Ford Airport on October 12, 1926.

AUTOGRAPHED GLOBE—On October 20, 1928, Ray Collins presented his autographed globe (see picture, Page 1) to Frank Blair, president of Union Trust. Following Mr. Blair's death the highly prized globe was returned to Collins.

Debaters Eye EMU Institute

Forty-two beginning debaters will attend the second annual High School Forensic Institute to be held on the Eastern Michigan University campus here from June 25 through July 8.

The 23 boys and 19 girls are coming from 23 schools. Most of the students live in Michigan but there are three from Ohio and two from Indiana. Christie Becker of 543 Du-buar is one of the girls who will attend.

Purpose of the Institute is to develop increased proficiency in high school debate by combining objective investigation with critical evaluation. Emphasis will be on understanding the debate process, locating the issues, building the case and planning for rebuttal. There will be instruction sessions each morning and workshops each afternoon.

The program will be built around the 1967-68 national high school debate topic - "Resolved: That Congress should establish uniform regulations to control criminal investigation procedures."

The group will live and eat at Goddard Residence Hall. Instruction and workshops will be in the new Quirk Speech and Dramatic Arts Building.

Roger Palmer To Head GA&M

Roger S. Palmer, C.L.U., has been elected president of the Detroit General Agents and Managers association.

The annual election was held at the Hillcrest Country Club on May 23.

Other newly elected officers are John Farwella, vice-president; Stuart Goldsmith, treasurer; and Watson Stewart, secretary.

Palmer lives with his wife, Rosemary, and two children at 41310 Llor-rac Lane. He is district manager for the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company.

$100 Outboard Stolen in Novi

An outboard motor, valued at $100, and a $5 gasoline can were stolen June 10 from a boat moored at Walled Lake.

The owner, Bill Townsend, 351 South Lake drive, told Novi police the chain locking the outboard to the boat was broken.

Back to common sense.

Back to a Volkswagen . . . the common sense car that's simply comfortable and economical. When you consider the high cost of horsepower, power brakes, power steering, power windows, premium gasoline, anti-freeze and all the related maintenance and repair that you can expect from most of today's cars, you'll conclude that driving a Volkswagen is just plain common sense. The price of a new Volkswagen is low, yet, it is well built and reliable. It's small and easy to park. It gets about 27 miles to the gallon of regular gas and averages 40,000 miles on original tires. You never pay for anti-freeze, radiator repairs or water hoses because a VW is air-cooled. Parts are readily available and inexpensive because Volkswagens don't change much from year to year and many are interchangeable. Look around. You'll see that Volkswagens are really quite common . . . because they make a lot of sense. So, with new car price increases just around the corner, it makes even more sense to get your VW right now. Come in and see us, we've got a lot in common. We'll save one for you.

William White, 17, of 1910 Austin drive, and Donald A. Needham, 18, of 41066 McMahon were fined $50 and sentenced to five days in the Oakland county jail.

Police said they apprehended Kehr, Masengill, Rehr and White alongside two cars parked at the front of the barn. A 16-year-old Detroit youth was nabbed trying to hide in the trunk of one of the cars, police reported.

Four girls' purses found in the cars set police off on a two-hour search of the area. They discovered Needham and two 15-year-old Northville girls hiding in the brush alongside Beck road. Later, Alexander and a 16-year-old Walled Lake girl were cited after a parent drove them to the police station, according to police.

News Around Schoolcraft

Plantist William Doppman, who will open the Schoolcraft college summer concert series on Wednesday evening, July 5, is no stranger to musical audiences in Michigan, especially those in the southeast corner of the state.

The 33-year-old pianist has performed on several occasions with the Detroit Symphony, and, prior to his "arriving" as a concert artist, was soloist with the Plymouth Symphony.

In his Schoolcraft appearance, Doppman will renew his acquaintance with Wayne Dunlap, conductor of the Plymouth orchestra and director of the Schoolcraft summer music school and festival.

Doppman had already won four summer scholarships to the National Music camp at Interlochen when he entered the University of Michigan school of music to study piano with Benning Dexter and composition with Ross Lee Finney.

During his sophomore year at U. of M., he won two national competitions for soloists: the 1954 Naumberg Foundation and the 1954 Michaels Memorial Awards.

In his July 5 appearance at the open-air concert at Schoolcraft, Doppman will play the Mozart A Major Concerto. Orchestral works on the program are Handel's Music for the Royal Fireworks; Kleine Kammer for five wind instruments by Paul Hindemith; and Haydn's Symphony No. 88 in G Major.

In all four court concerts, the Festival will feature works by Haydn and Hindemith.

Concert time is 8:30 p.m. Tickets at $1.50 for adults and $1 for children and students will be sold at the door. In the event of rain, the performance will be moved into the Lois L. Waterman Campus Center.

Those attending from here include Perry P. Taylor (his wife, Mrs. Moore's sister, was unable to attend), Gordon Hubbert, Mrs. A. M. Allen and Glenn Salow.

The week prior to the graduation ceremony was filled with festivities typical of this season, including a field day, a day of picnicking, faculty-student sports competition, and a formal ball and the selection of a Graduation Ball Queen.

The graduates heard a speech by Vice Admiral Robert B. Pirie, now retired, and took part in a colorful awards and review ceremony in which they were reviewed by Captain John P. Kane, commanding officer of the Service School Command in Bainbridge.

Joseph DeRosie, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore DeRosie, 24744 Taft road, enlisted in the United States Navy for four years last week.

The 1967 graduate of Northville high school left almost immediately for boot training at Great Lakes, Illinois.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

It looks like a long, hot summer for members of the teacher contract negotiating teams in Northville.

Tomorrow night they'll meet to attempt to settle a dispute that consumed all the time at last week's session - when to meet during the summer.

The teachers proposed eight dates that included four Sundays. The district team balked at Sunday meetings and offered a list of 22 June-July weekdays.

A short debate followed on why Sundays were taboo, if everyday isn't family day and whether meetings can't be scheduled before or after the church hour.

To an outside observer the teams appear to be about as close to agreement as the Israelis and the Arabs. They're not quite as hostile, however. It's more like the Mayor Cavanagh-Mary Beck relationship.

In any negotiation matter there's a great deal of early jockeying for position. It takes time too for both sides to get down to serious bartering.

But if there's such a thing as being "on schedule" in teacher contract negotiations, it would have to be admitted that Northville is behind.

Last year (the first time state law permitted teacher bargaining) talks got underway in November and agreement was finally reached August 29.

Probably because it was assumed that anything is easier the second time you do it, serious talks were three months later in opening this year.

On August 29 new teachers report for orientation. A week later classes begin.

Negotiators must now accomplish in 2 1/2-months what required four times as long last year. And it doesn't even look as though they have the advantage of a running start.

The picture has been painted here bleaker than it is. Some progress has been made. Some non-economic matters have been settled. But many more remain to be pounded out, letter-by-letter and sentence-by-sentence. At the rate of last week's meeting, when the only agreement was that another meeting should be held, school bells will be ringing in Northville before salary discussions get to the bargaining table.

One of the deterrents to money talk is the amount available. No one knows this figure for sure. The state aid formula is tied to the tax package, which still hasn't come out of the legislature.

It's a waiting game: teacher representatives want as big a slice as possible from a cake of unknown size; administrators want to know that there will be a little cake left over to feed the entire family throughout the year.

The school board is left in the difficult position of approving a budget without full knowledge of either income or expenditures.

The whole procedure is a poor way to run a railroad and someday, because of the strain placed on teacher-administrator-board member-student and taxpayer, the system will be changed. It's inevitable.

Meanwhile, a responsibility that should not be taken lightly rests upon the shoulders of negotiators for teachers and district alike.

Negotiations are a serious business that should be concluded as orderly and rapidly as possible. The stakes are more than another dollar in a paycheck or a mill saved for a taxpayer.

Involved is the most important project conducted in any community - the education of our children.

Straight talk should replace stalling and the ingredients for an agreement should be out on the table well before the call to classes.

The sudden revelation that a deadlock exists on the eve of a new school term is a poor way to win public support or understanding.

It is hoped that Northville negotiators will work towards an agreement that will extend more than one year and that can be accepted and supported by the taxpayers of the district.

Bargaining effort can then be diverted to new and improved programs of education.

BY JACK W. HOFFMAN

He hopped from his bug of a car, poked his flashlight into my face and asked: "Are you all right, friend?"

What's a guy to say? I'd just extracted myself from an upside down truck and was standing next to its exposed belly wondering where Lowell Thomas' voice was coming from.

"Oh, it's the truck radio ... still playing," I said.

"What's that?" "The news broadcast," I said, becoming a little irritated. "I couldn't figure out how Lowell Thomas got out here."

By now the Good Samaritan was sure he was playing with dynamite. "Let me take a look at your head. You probably got a good crack."

"No, no, I'm okay. But what happened to the horse. Is he hurt?"

"What horse? What you talking about, friend? There's nothing out here. Just you and the truck."

"You don't understand. I was driving along and this horse jumped out in front of me. I hit him. No, I think I hit two of 'em. The truck skidded, hit the culvert and flipped over."

He played the light up and down the ditches a minute or two and then shot it back at me. "There's no horses around here, friend. Sure you didn't have a drink or two?"

What's the use, I thought. He'll never believe me.

"Look, I hit a horse. That's right. How about walking down to that farmhouse with me. I'll talk to the farmer. He's probably the owner."

He declined my invitation, saddled up and departed while I jogged the quarter mile to the lighted house.

I knocked several times. No response. A few more times but still no answer. I switched from knuckles to fist and then added emphasis with a toe. Reply was instantaneous.

"Little boy," I said, "can I speak to your father? I think I hit one of your horses."

"He knows it. He's outside now looking for him."

I spotted the farmer beside the barn. He spotted me too and retreated around the corner. I followed, caught a glimpse of a shotgun or rifle in his hand and quickly decided neither of us had much to say to each other.

Turning around, I smacked into a giant of a man behind me. I nearly dropped my pants. He wasn't much steadier.

By ROLLY PETERSON

The little boy was really nondescript. Dressed in rags, his thin arms poked helplessly out of sweater sleeves, while his tussled hair ranged down around his eyes. He looked furtively at the men ringed around him, gapping. After studying the little boy, about five or six years old, one of the gaunt figures exclaimed: "Why, he's a little human being."

This was an ordinary circumstance. This was Buchenwald, one of the Nazi hell pits, where 50,000 scarecrow inmates, subjected to the usual Nazi cruelties, scratched for life like Wolves obeying survival of the fittest. This was the movie, "Naked Among the Wolves," a foreign export with English subtitles, a splendid semi-documentary of fact and fiction, a fabric of realistic and romantic threads.

Life in Buchenwald was mechanical, cold, brought on by years of privation and disregard for life. At last, hope flickered as the Americans and Russians pinched the Nazis into an ever tightening circle. The long travail would soon be over, just play it safe, steer clear of trouble.

The boy changed all that. The little Jew brat, as he was called, was to test the men's humanity and trigger a series of reprisals. He had escaped the Auschwitz ovens, where his parents had perished. His saviour was a grubby faced prisoner, old and enfeebled, who had packed the child into a suitcase and brought him to Buchenwald, a less inhumane camp.

Would the boy be thrown to the Nazi wolves, or would a spark of human decency preserve his life?

When the boy was discovered, a power struggle ensued between the camp "organization" made up of inmates, and their Nazi masters. Hofel, leader of barracks 64 where the boy was first concealed, protected the youth, as did Jankowski, a sympathetic, Polish inmate. They endured torture. But eventually, the string of secrecy would be broken, the boy found and put to death by the Nazis.

An inmate cracked under threat of death when freedom was just a few weeks away. The boy had been taken to barracks 61, he said, where diseased captives were kept. The Nazis rifled the barracks; no boy was to be found. Someone had spirited him away to a secret hiding place, unknown to even the inmates and confidants of the organization.

Through it all, the boy had become more than a child, a helpless human being. He had become a cause, reassurance to the inmates that ideals did exist, that they had not lost sight of their humanity. He was a congealing force, a figure to rally around. Their saviour.

"Naked" has no super stars, no gadgetry, no blaring headlines or triumphant color. Subdued in forlorn greys, the movie is typical of European productions, simply and wistfully done. Just a trace in history's sands, perhaps, but an appealing story of men's fortitude, their dignity under duress.

Better Late Than Never

Our Legislators Report

Esch...

There are some welcome signs of late that Washington may slowly be headed toward fiscal responsibility. The voice of the people way last November calling for sound spending policies is finally beginning to be heard and reflected in our nation's capitol.

Most significant of recent steps in this direction was the refusal of the House to raise the national debt ceiling, as requested by the President, for the second time this year. This time he asked for an increase of $29 billion bringing our total national debt to an all time high of $385 billion. The House defeated this request by a vote of 197-211 - a vote which reflected the concern of both parties and all philosophies over the continual lack of fiscal integrity in national spending practices. My own vote was with this new majority against the increase.

This action did not come as a complete surprise. Actually it was preceded by several cuts in the President's budget - the total reductions now amount to nearly $2 billion. There has been a real failure on the part of the White House to recognize these growing economy trends and to realize the fiscal mood of Congress and the people.

The reasons given for raising the national debt ceiling basically revolved around the costly war in Vietnam. To the contrary, however, two-thirds of the increase in federal expenditures in the last three years are accounted for by non-defense spending. And of the projected increase from 1966 to 1968 over half is to be in non-defense programs. In the light of these facts, it is just not honest to blame the need for increased indebtedness entirely on the war.

What we need is an intelligent recognition that you cannot have both guns and butter at the same time. And as long as we are involved to such a great extent in Vietnam, we must be more frugal here at home. However, we must also recognize that some non-defense spending is necessary and that a structure should be developed so that after the war we can begin to rechannel expenditures for needed domestic improvement. While the defeat of the debt increase is indeed significant and may indicate a welcome trend, it does not represent the type of over-all fiscal reform needed in Washington. Hard facts and realistic projections of future spending must be made. If we are to avoid a runaway economy with higher prices and increased taxes, we must use restraint in federal spending and immediately develop expenditure priorities.

McDonald...

What to do about crime in our streets is the number one domestic issue before the Congress these days.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation reports that there was an 11% increase in serious crimes in 1966 over 1965. Serious crimes include murder, up 9%; aggravated assault and forcible rape, up 10%; and, robbery, up 14%. The situation, almost daily, becomes more serious.

On the other side of the coin, the weapons to fight crime are becoming less permissible with each new court decision. The police can no longer "stop and frisk" suspicious characters. Any evidence obtained through questioning may be ruled inadmissible. And now, the Supreme Court has ruled out wiretapping - at least in any broadscale use.

I fully realize the need to protect the constitutional rights of all citizens. Each person is innocent until proven guilty beyond a shadow of a doubt. But, the innocent person should be able to walk safely even when he is in the shadows. And to assure that kind of protection, something should be done.

The Attorney General tells us that "wiretapping is not necessary to catch criminals." Most State Attorney Generals and big city District Attorneys disagree. My own view is that the answer lies somewhere in between the difference of opinion.

What is needed, in my opinion, is some legislation which would narrowly define the use of wiretapping in instances where there is sufficient reason to believe criminal activities are taking place. Legislation to this effect has been introduced in the House of Representatives and I hope that it will obtain a fair hearing.

While we are engaged in preserving freedom abroad, we must also escalate the war against the criminal community at home to assure safety for our citizens. It's time we returned to the prosecutor some of the tools of modern criminal warfare that have been stripped by recent court decisions.

Schmidt...

Area communities were one step closer to establishment of an inter-municipal police authority this week following passage last week of Senate Bill 150, according to Senator George Kuhn and Representative Louis Schmidt.

Representative Schmidt was instrumental in placing the amendment on a bill providing establishing legislation permitting adjacent communities to establish a joint police agency.

The bill, which has already been passed by the House, goes now to the governor for his signature.

The enabling legislation was requested by officials of Northville, Plymouth and Canton during a recent conference at Schoolcraft college.

State Representative Louis E. Schmidt has been appointed a member of a special committee to study the use of grants and research funds by state supported colleges and universities.

The appointment was made by House Speaker Robert E. Waldron.

The House also approved a bill (SB 630) which provides for a limit of three attempts to pass a millage proposal for establishing a community college district and includes proposals for community college districts in Wayne county. Senate and House differences over the Wayne County Community college issue will probably send the measure to a conference committee.

Among the many resolutions submitted last week in the House were two measures asking a probe of the operational procedures of the Michigan Civil Rights commission. Based on the contention that the commission is considering a person "guilty until proven innocent" the resolution asks for a special House committee to study the alleged procedures and requests an investigation into the procedures of the commission by the attorney general.

The Senate last week shelved, and then revived, a trio of House bills designed to promote cooperation among local governmental units.

The bills had been sent back to the Senate Municipalities Committee where they would have been dead for the session. At the last minute, however, the Senate reconsidered the action by a razor-thin one vote margin.

Law Permits Election by Computer

WHEN WILL you vote electronically? Several workable systems exist. The law has been changed to utilize the advantages; all it takes is the decision by your local voting authority.

Small, electronic voting devices can replace the conventional voting machine. A computer card is positioned in a voting "booklet" and voters read the booklet much as they do items on a voting machine. Votes are cast by punching the card in each appropriate square. Punches are made either with a sharp stylus or, depending on the model, by pushing a button.

After the polls close, election inspectors seal the "ballots" in a container and deliver them to a central computing center for tabulation. This system is already in general use in nine states and has been used successfully by Midland, Michigan in that city's last four elections.

LEGISLATION to allow Michigan communities to adopt electronic voting was sponsored in 1965 by Rep. Russell H. Strange, (R-Mt. Pleasant) chairman of the House Elections Committee. Strange has made an extensive study into the system and is convinced that it is a superior method for many communities, especially those which are growing rapidly.

Strange, Rep. Philip D. Pittenger (R-Lansing), a member of the elections committee, and Bernard Apol, state deputy director of elections from the Secretary of State's office, closely observed the Midland system.

The advantages of such a process are in savings of time and money. The electronic voting devices sell for under $200. Conventional voting machines cost almost $2,000. Storage costs are exceedingly small when compared to voting machines. Midland's city clerk said that 80 electronic recorders can be stored in the space needed for one voting machine. Because of its low cost and ease of handling, more polling stations can be set up. This eliminates long lines of voters. Costs of moving and setting up the device are practically nil.

The computer gives vote tallies quickly. In Midland, for example, 12,000 ballots were tallied in 16 minutes. And people like the system. A random sampling of 160 voters who used the device in Midland showed only one person dissatisfied.

Widespread use of the electronic method probably won't take place until after the 1968 Presidential election. Most municipalities would rather introduce a new system of voting during local elections with smaller turnouts.

Will your community make the conversion? Ask your local election officials.

MICHIGAN LEADS the nation in two important programs of treating the mentally retarded: specialized training of "trainable retarded" people for employment by private industry and the establishment of "day care centers" for the severely mentally retarded.

Almost 300 people have been placed in a wide variety of jobs throughout the state during the first 20 months of the trainable retarded program. Jobs vary in scope according to the capacity of the handicapped. It has been found that performance in some jobs exceeds that of the non-retarded.

According to Dr. V. A. Stehman, acting director of the Department of Mental Health, the major problem confronting such a program is finding suitable housing for retarded within the communities. Jobs are plentiful.

"To help adjust to life away from an institution, the retarded person needs a place to stay that includes supervision, guidance and someone to talk to," say department officials.

The "ideal situation" is a home where two to eight retarded people live with an older couple capable of providing supervision. Approved homes are leased by the department with payments based upon the number of beds available. Each house must pass inspection by local fire and health inspectors and social workers from the department.

There are currently 18 homes, in ten Michigan cities, which serve as residences for persons participating in the program.

DAY CARE CENTERS ease the load of mental institutions and bring treatment to more of the state's severely mentally retarded. During 1963-64, only 12 children attended one day care center. By July 1 of this year, more than 900 retarded children will be enrolled in 37 day care centers throughout the state.

Under day care programs, children live at home and spend the day at the center. This system allows maximum treatment and development of skills to more children but keeps costs to a minimum.

More use is being made of outpatient facilities and community clinics in treating mentally retarded adults. Improvements and increased service in the fields of mental illness and community health services have also developed.

Dr. William H. Anderson, Columbia, Missouri, is the new director of the department succeeding Dr. Robert A. Kimmich. Kimmich resigned last November after serving for 2 1/2 years. He assumes his responsibilities July 1.

Farm Land Price Hike Seen

BABSON PARK, Mass. - Prices for farm land are still trending up. The question is: Will they continue to rise—and, if so, how fast? At this writing, the odds favor higher quotes on average, but no sharp boosts from current levels.

For the nation as a whole, demand for farm land continues fairly strong, buttressed by rising food needs here and abroad as well as by the trend toward larger, highly mechanized farms. Although the national birth rate has declined considerably in very recent years, the number of people reaching marriageable age is rising rapidly. Hence, although the current tendency is toward smaller families, there will be a greater number of families and our population will continue to grow.

Perhaps the most important bullish factor in the farm land picture is the limited availability of such land. During the past 20 years, there has been a tremendous outpouring of our people from urban areas to the outer suburbs. Industry, too, has moved from the inner cities and their immediate environs to establish itself in what were once rural areas devoted chiefly to farming. Farm land has also been encroached upon by expanding highways, and the end of this is not yet in sight. As farm acreage becomes further compressed — other things being equal — the line of least price resistance ought to be up.

HOWEVER, in business as in life,

"other things" are not always equal and so it is necessary to examine the other side of the coin. Most observers agree that farm land values—though seemingly well supported at present — would give ground in time of general economic recession. We also believe that, in the next year or two, the uptrend in prices of and demand for agricultural real estate will be slowed appreciably because of rising taxes and other costs, the likelihood of smaller capital gains, and the probability that crop yields may not continue to increase at recent rates.

Of course, you can expect sporadic weakening of farm land values in selected areas, either because of local economic conditions or because the land itself is of poor quality. And from time to time there will still be distress sales of farm property, occasioned by the effect of sharp competition or by uncontrollable circumstances.

TIME was when prices of farm land moved up or down pretty much in sympathy with changing trends in farm income — the land price movements usually lagging a bit behind changes in income. But the steady whittling away of farm acreage and the move toward larger, more efficient production units has changed all that so that today farm land prices are not tied so closely to farm income.

No matter what happens to farmers' income in the next couple of years, agricultural land prices should be at least well maintained. And the probability is that we shall see a gentle upswing, reflecting the steadily dwindling supply of such land and the continuing trend toward larger farms.

This does not mean that all who are now farming will profit if they hold their land. It does mean, however, that in the long run you should sit tight... If you now have a going farm operation, sufficiently large to permit you to make profitable use of modern mechanized equipment, and if you are in good health and happy on the land.

Those who no longer feel equal to the still harsh demands of farm management and large-scale soil tilling might consider leasing the bulk of their land. Demand for long-term farm leases on a cash basis is expanding rapidly. Such cash leases can provide the landlord a steady income that will not vary with the management ability of the renter or with the vagaries of the weather.
