

Area Businesses Count Losses Due to Detroit Riots

Downs Hit Hardest, Also City, Bars, Liquor Dealers

Forgetting other factors and looking just at the profit and loss ledgers, the rioting in Detroit last week left an imprint on area business that will be recalled for many years.

It will stand out in red ink. Because of panic buying some businesses experienced exceptional sales that accounted for gains. But these were far outweighed by the losses. Conservative estimates, made by contacting representative businesses throughout the area, reveal losses in gross volume totaling more than $1,300,000.

The gains, reported mostly by food stores and gasoline stations, total about $30,000.

None of the statistics takes into account the loss of employment by individuals, or the cost of maintaining the same employment level in some instances despite curtailment or sharp reduction in business.

Hardest hit locally was Northville Downs. Four nights without racing (Monday through Thursday) represented a loss of $1 million in mutual handle.

Friday and Saturday evenings were down at least $150,000 each due to curfew restrictions still enforced in Detroit.

Other losses at the track included: admissions, $20,000; concessions, $20,000; parking, $3,000.

Because the city of Northville receives 1% of the mutual handle in the form of rebates from the state of Michigan, the dip in Downs' revenues hits directly at the city budget.

The local harness track had already lost one night on racing earlier in the season due to a rain storm cutting the total number of nights run during the current season (which ended last night) from 54 scheduled to 49 actual.

It is estimated that curtailment of racing on four nights and the slowdown because of the Detroit curfew Friday and Saturday cost the city $12,000 in tax returns. Add another $2,800 for the night lost to rain and the city will be nearly $15,000 short.

Actually, it appears that the city will receive about $25,000 less than the $170,000 anticipated in the current budget. In addition to the loss of five nights, the average nightly handle is $282,500. The city had optimistically figured the handle at more than $300,000 in its budget projections.

The situation is certain to cause some concern at the council level. A $30,000 deficit is already being carried over from last year and must be made up in the current budget.

The volume of business lost through the liquor ban amounted to approximately $20,000 in Northville, $10,500 in Novi and $4,500 in Wixom for a grand total of $35,000. Northville's three car dealerships estimated that business was down some $65,000 due to the riots.

Northville Coach Lines lost a reported $3,800 through curtailment of regular and charter bus runs, including cancellation of Friday night's planned pickup of The Monkees, a popular rock combo. Their scheduled appearance in Detroit was scrapped due to the riots.

A large union picnic slated to be held last weekend at Walled Lake Amusement park was cancelled as a precautionary measure. A loss of $8,000 was reported.

Gasoline sales skyrocketed, however, with Northville stations realizing an estimated $7,500 in increased gross sales, while Novi and Wixom stations put an additional $11,000 in the till. Grocers likewise showed significant gains, with Northville food merchants pocketing $11,000 more in gross sales and Novi and Wixom merchants, $1,000.

Car sales, new and used, slowed to a standstill at two of Northville's three dealerships. Rathburn Chevrolet reported the biggest drop — a whopping $30,000 in gross sales — as no new sales were made during the week. Two new cars were sold, the result,

Says Young Seminarian

New Hope Arises from Tragedy

Forty are known dead, hundreds injured, about two thousand jailed and a 169-block area reduced to rubble by looters and arsonists during a week of violence in Detroit.

Miraculously, a new hope has risen out of this tragedy according to Jim Levine, now a student in his third year at St. John's Seminary on Five Mile road.

"The people are hopeful as never before," Levine said. "They're optimistic about the future. They anticipate a tremendous rebirth. It took something this violent to bring this about. "There is suffering now, yes, but before the riots there was suffering too — only quietly. The violence is not justified. It's evil. But above this something good will come."

These are the impressions Jim gathered through talking with the people, primarily Negroes, who lived on 12th street at the core of the past week's civil disturbance. He talked with the dispossessed, the homeless after he had delivered a truck load of relief goods Wednesday from Our Lady of Victory church in Northville, the rectory to which Jim has been assigned. The Negroes and whites Jim talked with were more than faces in a crowd, they were friends with whom he lived last summer in a squalid, crime-ridden section around 12th and Seward streets.

"I talked to two prostitutes who were friends of mine, to mothers with large families of six and eight children," the youth studying for the priesthood said. "They don't feel too badly about their loss. They are hopeful that the area will be rebuilt and won't ever be the same as far as crime is concerned. "This will be a rallying point for the people to gather together, to rebuild," he gushed. "They have never been united before. Now, tragedy may have done it."

Conditions under which the deprived lived are well known, yet understandably unreal to those living in the suburbs of Detroit. They were unreal to Jim, too, even though he was born and raised in Detroit and lived next to Negroes.

IF IT'S NEWS...AND IT HAPPENS IN NORTHVILLE...YOU CAN READ IT IN THE RECORD

Vol. 98, No. 12, 18 Pages, Two Sections • Northville, Michigan—Thursday, August 3, 1967 • 10¢ Per Copy, $4 Per Year In Advance

END IN SIGHT—Revised scheduling calls for the opening of Detroit's vocational and pre-vocational training program at Maybury Sanatorium by mid-September, with possibly a small-scale recreational program during the latter part of this month. Some 85 apprentice carpenters are rapidly completing extensive interior remodeling of a vacant complex that once housed tubercular children. According to Frank Rozak, acting general manager of the Maybury project, delays caused by vandalism during the summer months has been minimal and "probably about two days of work" were lost because of last week's riot in Detroit.

Novi Rezoning Faces Legal Test

Amid charges of "premature," final action on a key piece of property in Novi was tabled until the next meeting of the village council on August 7, when a legal description of the proposed I-96 interchange at Eight Mile and Haggerty roads is expected to be submitted.

That was the only obstacle in the end stopping the council from rezoning the William Walker property at Monday's public hearing before the council and planning commission.

Located in the northwest corner of the intersection of Eight Mile and Haggerty roads, the property — about 100 acres — is bounded by Farmington on the east, Livonia on the southeast and Northville on the south side of Eight Mile road.

A multi-million dollar combination shopping center, professional village, motel and apartment complex is proposed for the vital land. Waldemar Johnson, village planning consultant, advised however that the proposed development would be "a secondary shopping center," unlike Northland.

Submitting the request for rezoning from small farm to central business and multiple were Richard Gabel, an independent developer, and Mr. and Mrs. William Walker, owners of the two adjoining parcels.

Need of a legal description for publication prompted the council to adjourn the public hearing. The vote was 4-1, with Councilman Leo Harwood objecting strenuously to delay to accommodate the state highway department.

In a formal letter, the department requested that no action be taken until final design plans for the proposed interchange are completed. Supporting this request was a highway department representative, Stephen Kessler, who attended Monday's hearing.

He asked that 12 acres on the southeast fringe facing Haggerty road be reserved for interchange development. Construction is expected to begin in 1969.

Taking issue with Kessler and the highway department was Harwood, who decried the department's practice of asking a property owner to hold land in abeyance while the state firmed up purchase plans. Not only did it cost the land owner tax or other monies, there also was no certainty that the highway department would purchase the land, Harwood said.

Opposing immediate rezoning and development was Allen E. Schwartz, chairman of the board of Federal Department stores, who owns 155 acres abutting the Walker property on the north. He said he and other interested parties were prepared to initiate legal action if the proposed zoning change gained approval.

Specifically, he said he represented family interests that included Nate Shaper, chairman of the board of Cunningham Drug stores, who owns 80 acres to the northwest in Novi and 80 acres south across Eight Mile road in Northville township, and Jason Honigman, chairman of the board of Allied Food Products (Wrigley and Packer supermarkets), who is part owner of adjacent land.

Unification Study Wins Financial OK

It's full steam ahead now following the Northville township board's agreement Tuesday evening to share half the cost of a unification feasibility study of the city and township.

The city council decided a week ago to bear its half of the estimated $2,500 to $5,000 cost of the project, which is expected to take about four months to complete.

With both municipalities having agreed to underwrite the project, it's up to Donald M. Oakes, who will direct the study, to start working. Oakes was recommended by a five-member steering committee appointed by the city council and the township board.

Township approval was unanimous, following explanations by Trustees Bernard Baldwin and Gunnar Stromberg, both of whom were members of the five-member committee along with City Councilman Del Black and Wallace Nichols and Donald B. Lawrence of the Northville Area Economic Development committee.

When Supervisor R. D. Merriam asked if the proposal should be placed on the table since "no direct notification of cost" had been received, Baldwin quickly advised that "we ought to discuss it here today."

Baldwin added that the $2,500 to $5,000 estimate included in a letter from Oakes to the board "are the figures he gave us (committee) — on a 50-50 basis." The value of the study, he said, warranted the expenditure of the money. And, he noted, that because Oakes has been involved in a study of the township for a major developer, some of the data already collected is available to him, thus possibly holding down the total cost.

Pointing out that a great deal of data such as financing, bonding capacity, tax base, etc., will come out of the study, he emphasized that the study "regardless of the outcome will be of value to the township." It's value will be in the information that it discloses, he suggested, even though the "end result" (recommendation for or against unification) may be "repugnant" to either the township or the city.

Stromberg sought to allay misgivings of Treasurer Alex Lawrence over Oakes' qualifications. The trustee said he was impressed by Oakes following contacts with him, leading him to conclude, "He is a very, very qualified man."

Considered an expert in the field of municipal finance, Oakes has served as city manager of Alpena and Grand Rapids. It was his Grand Rapids job that worried Lawrence, who wondered aloud if Oakes hadn't been involved in Grand Rapids' "robbing" (annexation) of a vital portion of neighboring Wyoming. "The Township association opposed that mess...and I just don't like highway robbery."

Oakes came highly recommended to the joint city-township committee that interviewed him two weeks ago. A professional management consultant from Grand Rapids, he has worked on more than 80 studies in various Michigan communities including Farmington township and Bloomfield Hills.

In addition, he has also served as a consultant to Vilcan-Leman, Northville township's planning consultants, and Thompson-Brown company, area land developers.

Township Eyes New Quarters

The old library building, which has been serving as temporary school administrative offices, may get a new tenant before the year is out.

Officials of Northville township, owner of half of the building located on Wing street in the city, will take a look at the interior soon to determine if it is suitable for township offices. The city owns the other half.

In a report to the township board Tuesday night, Supervisor R.D. Merriam suggested the building might be adequate and considerably more accommodating than the present cramped township hall on Franklin road.

School officials plan to vacate the old library upon completion of the new junior high school and probably move into rooms of the present junior high school.

A school suggestion that the township consider renting rooms in the old junior high school received a cold shoulder from Merriam, who said the classrooms did not lend themselves to township departmental business.

WATER MAIN—A half-mile long water line from the King's Mills housing complex on Northville road west to Sheldon road is just days away from completion, a township engineering spokesman said Tuesday. One of the township's engineering inspectors looks over one of two pits under construction at Sheldon where the 24-inch line will tie into the Detroit 24-inch main running along the north-south road. The water line, financed by the developer of King's Mills, will serve the development and adjoining property.

Exchange Vows at Holy Cross

Mr. and Mrs. William Patrick Templeton are honeymooning in northern Michigan following their July 15 wedding at Holy Cross Episcopal Mission church at Novi.

Mrs. Templeton is the former Carolyn Sue Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Patterson of Peer road. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Burch Templeton of Howell formerly of Northville.

John J. Fricke, vicar of the mission church, performed the double ring morning ceremony before the altar decorated with large white mums.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a princess A line gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza over taffeta. The gown featured a fitted bodice with crescent neckline and traditional long sleeves. A Dior bow adorned the Chapel length detachable panel train of silk organza over taffeta. Her full finger-tip length veil of silk illusion was secured by a cap of illusion leaves with sprays of glitter beads.

Her cascade bouquet of stephanotis and white roses was centered with a matching corsage.

Maid of honor was Nancy Ann Patterson, sister of the bride. Her floor length gown was mint green flowered organza over a lace sheath. She wore matching accessories and carried a bouquet of yellow fugi mums with miniature white carnations.

Susan Templeton, twin sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown identical to that of the maid of honor.

John Dennis Templeton served his brother as best man. Ushers were Robert Steeper of Northville, Dale Deditch of Kalamazoo and David Chabut of Northville.

Soloist was John Hyde of Northville. He was accompanied by organist William Hughes.

Mrs. Patterson, mother of the bride, wore a peach lace dress with beige accessories. Her corsage was of coral carnations and roses.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Templeton, was dressed in a pale blue suit with matching accessories and wore a corsage of pale blue tipped carnations and roses.

Following the nuptials a reception dinner was held at Jimmy's Restaurant for the more than 100 guests from Michigan and out-of-state.

The bride's table was decorated with white gladioli, yellow and white fugi mums and carnations and white tapers. Mrs. S. F. Kravetz and Mrs. George H. Thurber cut the wedding cake.

The bride's going away attire was a red print A line sheath with white accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in New Hudson for a month, after which they will live in Kalamazoo where the groom is attending Western Michigan University. Mrs. Templeton is a 1963 graduate of South Lyon High school. She graduated from Cleary college in Ypsilanti and is presently employed as a medical secretary at University hospital.

The former Miss Patterson was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous bridal shower June 30, at the home of Mrs. S. F. Kravetz, 9340 Peer road. Mrs. Herb Thurber was co-hostess.

Fifteen guests were served a buffet dinner from a table centered with a miniature bride and groom and a lovely flower arrangement.

Musicians Back Home After European Tour

Musical Youth International, which includes three students from Northville, arrived home at Metropolitan airport Saturday after a triumphant European concert tour under the People-to-People program.

Local participants were Sue Jones, Jane Jerome and Gary Becker.

One thousand homes in England, Wales and Germany opened their doors to the 100 teenage ambassadors from 51 different high schools of Michigan and Ohio. In eight cities, schools and colleges planned social and musical exchange programs. MYI presented 35 full concerts in the 37-day European tour, in concert halls, cathedrals, schools, town squares and international youth camps.

The MYI pilgrimage to the grave of Zoltan Kodaly opened the hearts of Hungary to the people of Mid-America. Miss Mary Ellen Lewis presented the eulogy. Miss Ginger Sue Hulet of Hutchinson, Kansas and Miss Carolyn Anderson of Ypsilanti laid floral sprays, and Dr. Lester McCoy, musical director of MYI, conducted the group in Dr. Haydn Morgan's setting of "Instrument of Thy Peace".

At a public reception in Vienna town hall the mayor presented a citation to Dr. McCoy for his outstanding success in sponsoring a touring group of talented teenagers who have reached such musical proficiency and personal discipline.

Typical headlines in three newspapers of cities visited are "American Teen-Age Ambassadors Make Friends for U.S.," "MYI Reached Hearts of Wales," "Musical Standards of MYI Professional."

about WOMEN

Fall Flower Show Grows in Summer

The summer months are filled with activity for members of the Northville branch, Woman's Farm and Garden association as they prepare for their flower show, Flowers Internationale, which will welcome the new fall season September 16.

The committees are hard at work on their various projects for the show.

Mrs. William Switzer, staging chairman, and her committee are planning an international flower scene to decorate the entrance and lobby of the community building the day of the show.

A conservation section featuring a Michigan wildlife and wild flower scene is being prepared by Miss Betty LeMaster, conservation chairman, with the assistance of Mrs. Helen Whipple.

A French cafe tea room, which Mrs. Reuben Jensen is planning, will serve refreshments to guests attending the show.

Special projects chairman, Mrs. John Begle, is at work on the dried flowers and dried flower basket arrangements that will be sold in a special flower shop.

Other garden club members are arranging demonstrations of various folk crafts, such as quilting, rug-braiding, needlework and decoupage, which will be presented during the show.

Mrs. Frank Whitmyer has invited several graduate judges of the Michigan division to exhibit arrangements for display.

Several exhibits depicting the various projects and fields of works of the Northville club are also being prepared.

While work continues behind-the-scenes, the club encourages prospective entrants to begin preparations for their entries. The public is invited to enter floral arrangements, table settings, prize specimens of flowers, vegetables and fruits, and house plants.

This week the club offers tips on preserving flowers for use in arrangements:

To begin with, choose "show type" varieties of flowers. The texture should be smooth and heavy, the color clear and sharp. Preferably after 4 p.m. or before 10 a.m. cut the stem on a slant with a sharp knife. Have the stem as long as possible.

If flowers are damp, stand them in an empty container and let dry before packing. Do NOT put stems in water before placing in a plastic bag.

Place flower heads together with stems in line, flat on a table so all face upward, and then slip a rubber band gently around stems up to the flowers' heads. Cut another rubber band around the bottom of the stems to keep them straight.

Place flowers in the bag head first, leaving room to place another rubber band tightly around the bottom of the bag to keep air out. Place the bag flat on a shelf in the refrigerator, seeing that the bag does not touch the side of the refrigerator. Do not put in the hydrator.

The day before using the flowers, remove them from the bag, cut one-half inch from the end of the stems and place in tepid (90-100 degrees) water at least six inches deep. Put in cool place out of the sun and drafts and let stand until ready to use.

Flowers will keep in plastic bags from four to six weeks and last two or three days when removed from the bags.

HEART RISKS & YOU

Dig Your Own Grave... With Your Knife and Fork

One of the more universal of the heart attack risk factors in America is obesity.

Nothing in this well-fed United States today seems to be quite so common as being more or less overweight--rich and poor, men and women, employed and unemployed, even children.

As a coronary risk factor--this being a habit or medical condition associated with an increased risk of heart attack--the newest studies have shown that obesity is not so important as cigarette smoking, lack of exercise, high blood pressure and high cholesterol blood level. It is not nearly as important as your sex; men get at least six times as many heart attacks as women.

Obesity, however, has its own serious health hazards. In itself it increases an individual's risk of diabetes, high blood pressure and gallbladder, kidney and liver diseases, says the Michigan Heart Association.

In recent years, definitions of obesity have become complex. Some people have bigger bones and more muscle than others; proper weights--there is no such thing as a normal weight--can vary widely for men and women of the same height.

Obesity has only one essential cause, says the association, a Michigan United Fund Agency. And that is regularly eating more calories than are consumed by exertion.

In the United States, tasty food, rich with fats is highly available, abundant and comparatively inexpensive. On the other hand, the jobs and the ways of life which call for intense physical exertion have been almost ended by mechanization.

There is the vicious circle of obesity. The heavier a man gets, the less he exerts himself; the less he exerts himself the heavier he gets; this continues until his doctor or his wife or his mother--somebody who cares--convinces him the chances are good he is on a short road to illness or death.

For persons who need more ammunition to motivate a friend or relative, the Michigan Heart Association, 13100 Puritan, or its regional offices and centers have a number of free booklets on obesity available on request.

How much fat in the body is too much? For men, fat in excess of 30 percent of the total body weight is considered too much for good health; for women, 35 percent.

In addition to a better chance for good health, keeping your weight down offers a double bonus: You feel better. You look better.

Because half the body fat is stored under the skin, researchers now pinch the skin on six parts of the body, caliper the thickness, and the average is a determination of fatness.

An easier but more approximate way to determine obesity is to use the individual's weight at a time of good physical condition during his early 20s. An increase over this figure is obesity; nobody grows after the early 20s.

Our Legislators Report...

Esch...

The Detroit riot and other similarly deplorable uprisings throughout the country have caused me, and I'm sure most people, a great deal of concern. There's no doubt that they pose a great threat to the continued existence of our form of government. While the causes are not always clear and solutions difficult to find, I have arrived at some conclusions and have joined other Members of Congress in introducing several measures which hopefully will help to avoid such disasters in the future.

Many of the riots across the nation have had definite racial overtones; something which the Detroit situation seemed to lack. I tend to agree with the police officer who described what happened there as a "riot of thieves." Under the circumstances, whatever force necessary should be used to bring the uprising to an immediate end.

When such disturbances occur all officials — federal, state and local — must first act quickly to suppress violence and restore public order. I have joined with a number of other Congressmen in introducing the Riot Prevention and Control Act which would provide $300 million to strengthen the capability of local police forces to deal with civil disorders. Grants would be used by local agencies to organize, train and equip themselves to prevent or control rioting.

Another concern of equal magnitude is for the innocent victims of violence. At this writing, thousands of persons are homeless and food is scarce. We have requested that Detroit be designated a disaster area and be made eligible for emergency federal assistance similar to that made available to victims of natural disasters. In the meantime, I am supporting the efforts of numerous volunteer groups in Detroit.

Kuhn...

As a result of the nation's worst riot, I am requesting a full scale Senate investigation. It is unbelievable and shocking to find that a city such as Detroit, rated with the highest standard of racial rapport and harmony, can become, in a few short hours, captive of a hard core criminal group causing massive damage and destruction, of over $300 millions in public and private property, let alone the hundreds of injuries and many deaths that have already been reported.

The people of Michigan need answers to the following problems:

1) Lack of leadership and action — by local political leaders. A quick end to the rioting and looting was possible all day Sunday had they chosen to employ a "get tough" policy. On the contrary, the situation was treated lightly from the police enforcement standpoint and rapidly deteriorated until it was completely out of control necessitating the use of State Police, National Guard, and eventually federal troops.

2) It is essential to determine whether or not there were any known agitators or outside influence involved in the rioting.

3) Why was the news suppressed for more than twelve hours before the public was informed of the tragic events? Is it not the public's right to know of such civil unrest, for its own personal safety and welfare? More than 1-1/2 million citizens were placed in jeopardy during this period. In addition, thousands of Tiger fans — leaving the stadium — were unaware of the tragic events taking place as they proceeded to their homes. Even when the news silence was finally broken, it was minimized as a minor civil disturbance as late as 11:00 p.m. Sunday night.

4) Lastly, I, personally, believe there is a great need for an agonizing appraisal of both our national and state policies as to how best to cope with this entire civil rights situation. It has been abundantly clear to me, for some time now, that our present policies have not been effective and need considerable revision.

McDonald...

In the wake of all the riots that have taken place, it is time for the Congress to investigate the causes of these civil disorders to see what action must be taken to end them once and for all.

For anyone to say that the problems of the Negro have been ignored is to suggest that the speaker has neither kept abreast of the multitude of progressive laws enacted by the Congress in the past few years. Further, it suggests that he has not visited Michigan, a state that has bent over backwards to do all that can be done to eliminate job discrimination and provide for better housing and educational facilities.

No one denies that other cities may have a long road to travel before they begin to match the progress made by Detroit, but there is evidence to suggest that all cities have made a start. And no one can expect miracles overnight.

My own feeling is that the majority of these riots are caused by hoodlums, hatemongers traveling from city to city inciting insurrection. I have read reports indicating known gangsters from other cities were found in Newark and the Minority Leader, Jerry Ford, reported that 20 carloads of agitators from other cities were found in Grand Rapids.

And I concur with the President wholeheartedly when he says, "Pillage, looting, murder, and arson have nothing to do with civil rights. They are criminal conduct."

Schmidt...

House Speaker Robert E. Waldron has appointed the three House members to a special joint committee on School Construction in Michigan.

Named chairman of the special interim committee was Republican Representative Louis E. Schmidt of Northville.

The other House members who will join with three Senators to make the survey of school construction are Representatives John Bennett (D-Detroit) and Loren D. Anderson (R-Pontiac).

The concurrent resolution (HCR 49) establishing the special committee, notes that school building costs seem to be rising at an alarming rate in comparison with the cost of other types of construction. The committee will probe the situation to see if a great disparity exists and whether taxpayers money is being squandered by over-priced construction on educational facilities.

Schoolcraft Plans Vocational Center

A new dimension may soon be added to vocational education in the Schoolcraft College district if exploratory spadework already underway by college administrators and trustees bears fruit.

The idea that could become a reality is the development of a college-based area vocational center which would provide a wide range of career oriented programs that normally are beyond the practicable capabilities of individual high school units within the college district.

Schoolcraft College officials first expressed interest in establishing such a center in the early days of the college. The idea was temporarily shelved during the period when the college was actually being built and while its academic and technical programs were being developed.

Interest was revived earlier this year as implementation of the Schoolcraft college-level vocational education program was completed in the new technical-vocational building.

The Michigan Legislature early recognized the role of the community college as an area vocational center and, as recently as last year, in the Community College Act of 1966, defined a community college as "an educational institution providing, primarily for all persons above the twelfth grade level and primarily those within commuting distance, collegiate and noncollegiate education including area vocational-technical education programs."

The Act further defined an area vocational-education program as one designed to provide training in employable skills to: 1) those who have completed or who have left high school and who are in need of training to enter the labor market, 2) employed persons who need training for better jobs, and 3) high school students.

The Legislature went one step further by defining the word "area" to mean the geographic territory of the college district.

In recent months Schoolcraft President Dr. Eric J. Bradner and other administrators including Vice-President for Instruction John H. Brinn and Dean of Technical-Vocational Instruction Jon P. Adams, have reopened discussions on an area center with school superintendents and high school principals from the five public school districts comprising the college district: Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth and Northville.

Earlier this month, trustees of the college heard from Dean Adams a report which outlined the concept of the area vocational center and which structured in broad terms the educational programs such a center would offer, how it might be organized, enrollment estimates and tentative unit costs for construction and operations.

At the same time, Dr. Bradner informed trustees he intends to pursue the matter with school district superintendents. Trustees, too, agreed to take an in-depth look at the idea early in the fall.

What is an area vocational center?

In his report to the trustees, Dean Adams explained that such a center at Schoolcraft would supplement, rather than replace, existing vocational programs of area high schools.

"The concept of the area center," Adams said, "emphasizes cooperative arrangements between the school districts in which they jointly provide specialized education for their students on a part-day basis. Programs offered at the center would be those which could not be adequately supported due to lack of sufficient enrollment or financial resources."

High school students attending the area center, Adams explained, would retain their identity with their own high schools and would graduate from them.

The dean cited these advantages of the area center: specialized training opportunities to a greater number of persons than is possible in smaller schools serving individual areas; a greater range of curriculum offerings, and thus a wider choice of occupational training; sufficient enrollment to fill classes which would not ordinarily be filled in the local high schools.

In addition, Adams said, the area center would: provide a broader tax base for financing, avoid duplication of high cost equipment, programs and services, and would make possible a broader administrative base and more comprehensive auxiliary services.

Furthermore, the dean explained, the center would permit employment of teachers who are specialists in various occupational areas.

In his report, Adams stressed the need for maximum cooperation and definition of programs between the high schools, the area center, and the college in order to assure quality vocational education at all levels.

With the development of an area vocational center, Adams said, the high school would retain all of its generally accepted responsibilities for each student and would provide the best possible program in general exploratory career education in such areas as practical arts, industrial arts, general business, general agriculture and home economics.

The area center would concentrate on specific occupational preparation with programs which 11th and 12th graders from area high schools attend at the area center.

The college would continue to provide its college level program of highly sophisticated technical education as the next step up the occupational preparation scale.

A number of questions must be resolved before the area center can be developed.

Trustees have already raised a number of these in the preliminary talks. These are questions that relate to the need for such a center, how the center will fit into both long-range and shorter-term development plans for the college, where the center would be built, and the coordination of plans between the college on the one hand and the five public school districts on the other.

Not the least of these questions is: Where will the money come from?

Seek Bids On Building

Schoolcraft college has asked for construction bids for its proposed physical education plant.

The action coincided with a trustee decision late last spring to seek bids on the building as soon as the college was assured of state matching funds.

Bradner told trustees that building plans and bidding specifications have been completed by the firm of Eberle M. Smith Associates, Inc., project architect.

GMI Awards Degree To Louis B. Ottolini

Louis B. Ottolini of Novi was graduated from General Motors Institute during graduation exercises Friday evening in Flint.

A resident at 25600 Seeley road and an affiliate with the Hydra-Matic Division in Ypsilanti, he received a mechanical engineering degree.

Giving the commencement address was Dr. Everett N. Case, president of the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation. He was introduced by Edward D. Rollett, executive vice-president of General Motors and chairman of the GMI board of regents.

A total of 409 bachelor degrees in mechanical, industrial and electrical engineering were granted. Sixty-four General Motors Overseas scholarship students received certificates for having completed a special two-year cooperative program and approximately 300 graduates of the Class of '57 received ten-year graduate keys in recognition of high performance on the job that has warranted recommendations by their divisions for the honor.

The ceremonies marked the 40th commencement for General Motors Institute, an accredited college providing General Motors with about 25-percent of its engineers.

The GMI student body of 2,900 is made up of top-flight high school graduates selected by GM units for appointment to cooperative programs in either mechanical, industrial or electrical engineering.

For the first four years, students alternate between periods of academic instruction in the classrooms and laboratories of GMI and coordinated work experience at their GM units. Qualification for a bachelor's degree requires successful completion of a fifth-year phase of the program provided to meet the varying needs and situations of the students and the sponsoring units.

Of the nearly 8,000 graduates of GMI, about two-thirds have remained with General Motors.

Band to Play At State Fair

The Northville high school band, directed by Robert Williams, will participate in a musical program at the 118th Michigan State Fair to be held in Detroit August 25 through September 4, according to Cleighton Melin, director of entertainment.

The 120 member band will put on a half-hour concert in the music shell at 1:30 p.m. on Monday, September 4. Members of the band will be guests of the State Fair authority at many of the fair's attractions and will be given a guest card to one of the food concessions on the grounds.

Dogged Determination Pays Off

Once upon a time, when college football was in its adolescence, making the grade as a member of a Big Ten team without an invitation to practice was conceivable, even likely.

But the odds in the 1970's are great indeed.

Putting it mildly, college football has undergone Promethean changes, primarily since WWII. Precocious prep stars with scholarship handouts dominate the sport that spawned George Cipp and Whitey Wister, two of a fading many who wandered unnoticed onto practice fields and emerged football greats.

The odds are even greater against a youth who does not possess that unerring arm, that speed to burn, that beehive size or wonderful pair of hands—the young man, in other words, who simply has a burning desire to make the team.

Yet it can be done, as Northville's Mike Turnbull is proving. Not at Indiana, low team on the Big 10 totem pole, but on the East Lansing campus, home of the Michigan State Spartans, where football is truly big time.

A sophomore at State, Mike is one of three "unknowns" who were invited back to fall varsity practice, along with about 60 veterans and hot freshmen prospects.

Nothing came gratis. Mike made the Spartan home team through dogged determination — and as a linebacker, rather than at a more familiar and preferred defensive halfback spot or as State's mad-dog rover.

"I had a chance to attend Eastern Michigan or Central Michigan on a football scholarship," the rugged youth said, "but I wanted to see if I could make it in Big Ten ball. So I went to State."

Call your Citizens Man Northville Insurance Center

160 E. Main 349-1122

He was one of 60 freshmen, most of whom were on scholarship and had lengthy prep football notices. They only played two games, against Notre Dame and Indiana, and Mike barely saw action — the last quarter of the Indiana game.

Yet, Mike was one of approximately 25 freshmen to survive the spring varsity cut. "That's what's surprising," he said. "A lot of guys on scholarship didn't make it. I followed a winter weight program and these guys didn't work quite as hard. They thought they had it made. That's why it was possible for me to pass them up."

For Mike who has driven himself uncompromisingly, their attitudes were strange. "They thought they couldn't be cut because they were on scholarship. Most of them just cut themselves. They'd either miss two practices and be automatically cut or since we had an abundance of backs, some got discouraged."

For Mike, spring varsity practice meant renewal of an old acquaintance with ex Northville high school teammate, Jim Juday, brother of former varsity Spartan quarterback, Steve. A redshirt because of injuries, Jim played second string, defensive end last spring. "It was funny," Mike mused "when I was playing high school ball, he was a senior and I was a freshman. Now, I guess, he's classified as a sophomore the same as me."

For those who know the 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Turnbull, his Horatio Alger fete did not come as a complete surprise. Now a robust 190 pounds, Mike has always been a study in determination.

When he graduated from high school, he left a respectable, but not sensational athletic career behind him. His accomplishments — two letters in baseball and basketball and three in football — were the result of hard work, not the outgrowth of innate ability.

Clearly, football was his forte, the one sport in which he reveled and still does. "I have a lot of fun playing," he confides. As a high school defensive halfback and an occasional halfback-fullback, he was overshadowed by End Jerry Inslund, an all-state choice and now a split end at Kentucky, and to a lesser extent, by End Steve Evans, now pitching at the University of Michigan, and Quarterback Tom Baughman.

The 1965-66 Mustangs were an airborne team, running only to keep the defense loose. When the light running attack met resistance, Coach Ron Horwath called on Turnbull, who plowed over left tackle, dragging tacklers like an angered bull.

But it was on defense that Mike really excelled. From his halfback spot, he directed the Northville defense, bolstered nervous rookies playing in front of him, and ranged up and down the field, either chasing halfbacks who squirted through the line or chasing receivers.

His was a hard-nosed brand of ball. Caution was left in the locker room as he met runners head-on or crashed angling blockers to the side. The stamp of determination was written on every effort.

Nothing has changed. An invitation to join the Spartans is no assurance to Mike that he will stick. Quite the contrary — it's incentive to try harder.

At State, he was one of few willing to sacrifice four hours each day for practice, despite the fact he was getting no financial assistance. Still, he maintained a B average. While on vacation, he follows the same grueling schedule, pushing himself to the nth degree.

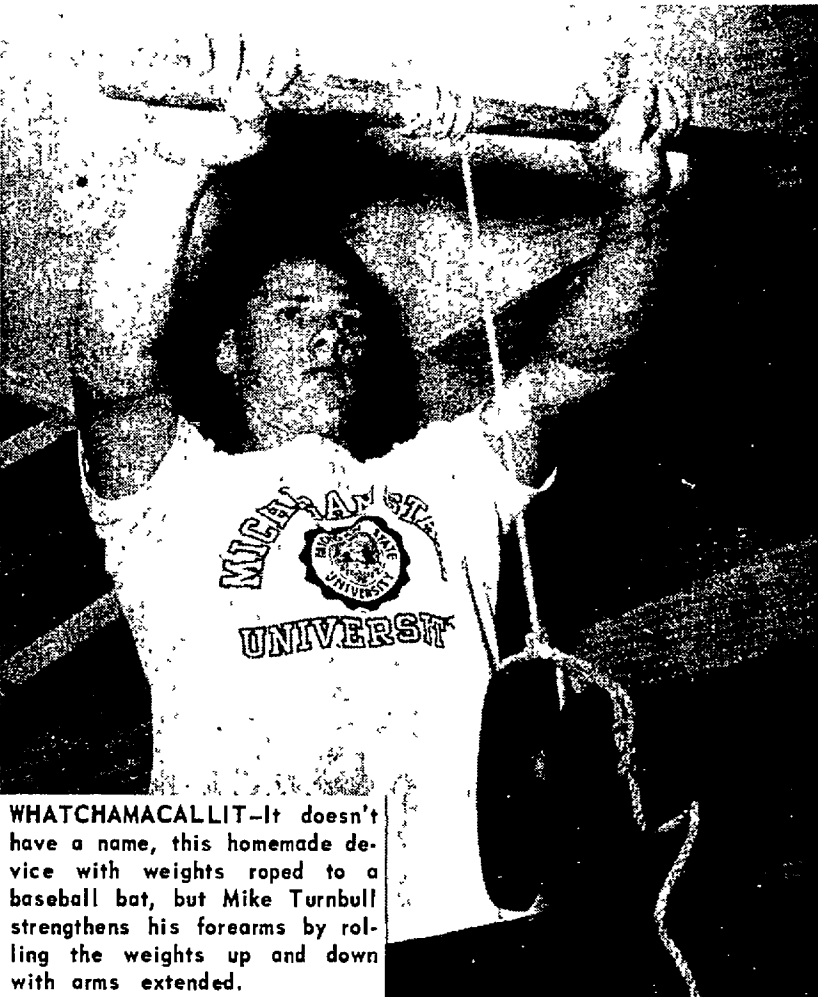

He works from 3 to 11:30 p.m. at Dunn Steel in Plymouth, doing "all menial tasks" for conditioning purposes. After work, when most people are climbing into bed, Mike's summer program begins in earnest. First, he lifts weights for one hour in the basement, then he runs for one hour.

"It all helps a lot," Mike said, "the work and the exercising. I've got a course mapped out that I run each night. I think people think I'm crazy, running around at that hour."

Normally, Mike gets up at 10 a.m. What does he do whenever possible? Exercise, naturally. "I'm trying to get up earlier," he said, "so I can be sure of getting a work out."

Mike's goals: to make the traveling squad, then, when the opportunity presents itself, to earn a starting job on the Michigan State Spartans.

WHATCHAMACALLIT — It doesn't have a name, this homemade device with weights roped to a baseball bat, but Mike Turnbull strengthens his forearms by rolling the weights up and down with arms extended.

Eyes State Tournament

Phil's Pure Cops 'E' Title

Phil's Pure wrapped up the Western Wayne county class E championship this week, thus earning a berth in the state tournament which is scheduled to get under way soon, probably in Jackson.

Phil's won the flag in convincing fashion, tacking up an 11-0 record. Every other team in the league has three or more — losses.

The flag clincher came against University Litho, the team Coach Dave Jerome called the strongest challenger. Phil's beat Litho, 6-0, as Pitcher Fred Holdsworth hurled a two hitter and Litho literally booted the game away.

Holdsworth struck out 15 to give him 70 for the season and an unbelievable 0.16 ERA. He gave up only 13 hits while winning six games.

Northville had only seven hits but made the most of Litho's lapses in the field. In the first inning, for instance, Litho committed five errors which boosted Phil's into a three-run first-inning lead.

Charlie Fox's line single to center then scored Brian Jones, who had doubled, and Ron Hubbard, who had walked, to give Phil's an insurmountable 5-0 lead in the third inning.

Phil's lousy hitters had a banner day at the plate in a 9-3 victory over the Plymouth Jaycees.

Leading the hitters was Holdsworth who stroked three hits in four trips. Kevin Valade had 2 for 3, Brian Myers had 2 for 4 and Jones had 2 for 5. Bruce Griggs and Rich Adams combined on the mound, limiting the Jaycees to three hits. Griggs struck out three and didn't give up a run; Adams was touched for all three hits and three runs.

Leading 5-3 entering the sixth frame, Phil's came up with four big runs to salt the game away and to ensure an undefeated league season.

Robust hitting and the sterling pitching of Holdsworth paced Phil's to the title. Eight of nine regulars batted over .300.

Shortstop Adams posted the highest average, .384. Following him were Hubbard and Valade, both at .360, Myers with .375, Coe and Jones with .323, Holdsworth with .305, Larry Bogart with .300 and Terry Mills with .270. Holdsworth scored the most runs, 17; Adams had the most hits, 15, and the most stolen bases, 10.

Giving Phil's an easy path to the championship was Spagy T-Birds, who committed 10 errors in losing a 9-2 decision to DiPonio. That was the Birds third loss of the season.

Angels Fly High, Down Dodgers, 4-2

The Angels are flying in the Knot-hole baseball loop as if they had wings.

They took over sole possession of first place by winning twice within the past week, giving them a one-half game edge over the Dodgers.

Actually, the Angels took over first place the hard way, beating the Dodgers, 4-2.

The Angels scored all their runs in the third inning, when usually reliable Rick Rushlow walked-three and hit a batter and Bob Cummings added a hit.

The Dodgers were held in check until the final inning, when John Jerome drove across two runs with a hit.

In what shaped up as a battle for second place, however, the Dodgers beat the Clippers, 4-2. Three errors scored three runs in the first inning for the Dodgers. Rushlow's double accounted for the fourth run.

Walks scored the Clippers' two runs.

Hottest team in the Knothole baseball circuit, the Athletics, posted their third consecutive victory to even their record at 4-4.

John Marshall hurled the Athletics to a 2-0 victory over the Giants in the only game the A's played during the week.

Coldest team is the Yankees, who dropped their fourth and fifth games in a row.

Cary Eaker of the Giants held the Yankees to one hit as the Giants recorded a 4-0 victory. Gregg Mack had a single for the Giants, who tallied most of their runs on walks.

The lengthening shadow of the Cubs settled over the Knothole softball league last week.

They increased their league lead to two games by winning twice, and have yet to suffer a loss. Only a tie mars their record, and that was avenged.

Take the Cubs first victory, a 14-1 trouncing of the Lions.

Pitcher Don Funk gave up only one hit, while teammates Steve Klechner, Kurt Stevens and Steve Bell had a field day at the plate.

Rising to the occasion, the Cubs then beat the Panthers, 4-2, to avenge an earlier tie with the Panthers.

In the first inning, Klechner, Funk and Stevens had successive singles to score the Cubs' initial two runs. In the fifth the Cubs scored on three walks and a fielder's choice, and then scored their final run as Klechner singled and Stevens and Bell singled him home.

Funk, however, outshone all other players as he gave up only one hit and struck out 21 batters. Kurt Mack's single and an error scored both of the Panthers' runs.

The Panthers set the stage for the showdown battle earlier in the week by blanking the Tigers, 7-0. Dave Hecker got credit for the victory.

Like their big league namesakes, the Tigers are having their troubles. They split two games, making it four losses in the last five games.

They beat the last-place Lions, 3-0, with Bill Gribble and Ty Cole scoring two early runs to clinch the victory. Chris Sylvain and Dave Lemmon had two hits apiece for the Lions.

Ken Chio hurled the Rams to a 12-0 victory over the Cougars. Keith Nolte's lead-off single spoiled Chio's bid for a no hitter.

Ken Skelly then pitched the Cougars to a 9-1 victory over the Colts.

Hartner Loses By A Stroke At Salem Hills

Timo Kilpalainen of Farmington opened with another early birdie barrage Saturday and then weathered a closing charge by Northville's Ray Hartner to Western Wayne Golf Association's individual medal tournament at Salem Hills Golf Club by a single stroke, 144-145.

Both players shot one-under-par. 71s of 71's for the closing day of the 36-hole event. Kilpalainen entered the final day with a 73-74 edge over Hartner posted in the opening round.

Kilpalainen birdied three of the first five holes going out in 34 and collected two more birdies on the first four holes of the back nine, finishing in 37. Hartner went out in 37 with no birdies, but knocked in three while closing in 34.

The final flourish gave Kilpalainen, a 20-year-old junior and golf team member at Western Michigan, a total of 10 birdies in 36 holes. Hartner had seven.

Third place in the championship flight went to Robert Horste of Belleville who knocked in an eagle deuce on the 370-yard par 4 No. 8 hole enroute to 77-76-153. Roger Turner of Westland shot 80-77-157 for fourth a stroke ahead of Charles Tarver of Garden City, who soared to 83 Saturday after an opening 75.

Bob Weibel, formerly of Westland and now playing out of Dearborn, captured honors in the Alternate flight with 85-78-163, three strokes ahead of Dave Auchard of Inkster, 86-80-166. Don Engel of Westland was third at 86-82-168.

WWGA's next event will be a two-day two-man bestball on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 19-20. A one-day two-man bestball is tentatively booked Saturday, Aug. 26. Both events will be at Salem Hills.

Meantime, golfers who live or work in Wayne, Westland or Inkster will take over Salem's tees at 2 p.m. this Saturday and next (Aug. 5-12) for annual city championships. Entries are being taken at Rec departments.

Wixom Boy Gets All-Star Berth

Among those selected to play on the Walled Lake Little League All-Star team, which advanced farther in the tournament this year than in the previous eight years, was Wixom's Mike Nissen.

The Walled Lake All-Stars were finally eliminated by Southfield, 5-4, a game in which Nissen sparked a three-run rally that barely fell short. Nissen doubled in the fifth inning to score a run.

Losing pitcher was Tom Rapp, who teamed up with Nissen in Walled Lake's opening game victory, 10-0, over Birmingham at the Wixom diamond. The Walled Lake All-Stars posted a 5-4 victory over North Farmington-West Bloomfield, 5-4, also at Wixom. Nissen had one for three.

On the basis of fine play during the season, Nissen was selected as the all-star catcher. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nissen.

I-96 Project Complete at Park

Completion of the $1.3 million bridge and widening project on I-96 Freeway over the Huron River and Kensington road at Kensington Metropolitan Park north of South Lyon was reported by the State Highway Commission.

The project, started last August, includes 1 3/4-miles of median barrier and one mile of reflective screening to eliminate headlight glare, at a cost of $75,000. It completes the addition of a third lane on both east-bound and westbound I-96 between US-23 near Brighton and I-696 at Novi.

Investment in the 16-miles of freeway between US-23 and I-696 now totals more than $15 million.

Farmington-Brighton Freeway construction began 12 years ago when US-16 serving the area was labeled one of the state's worst traffic arteries.

Heavy weekend traffic bound for the Kensington and other nearby recreation areas and industrial traffic from the Wixom area generate pronounced fluctuations in traffic loads.

At the juncture with I-696 near Novi, average daily traffic counts have nearly doubled in the last decade (from 16,000 to 31,000) and at US-23 there has been a 50 percent increase (from 12,000 to 18,000).

Tops in Novi

Flynn Wraps Up Little League Title

Flynn Modernization is the newly proclaimed champion of the Novi Little League.

Flynn wrapped the title up with a flourish by beating the second place Jayhawks, 11-2, last Thursday. That gave Flynn a 17-3 mark.

Although the Jayhawks have two make-up games to play, they have no mathematical chance of catching Flynn. Right now the best they can do is post a 14-6 record, which would still leave them three games off the pace.

Helping Flynn along was the sudden resurgence of the Rexall Pillers, who whipped the Jayhawks and Novi Party Store during the past week, putting them in contention with B-V Construction for third place. B-V has one make-up game scheduled, while the Pillers have two.

Actually, the Jayhawks' chances of catching Flynn were remote at best entering last week's play. In fact, the Jayhawks have been sliding ever since the third week of play when Flynn whipped them and took over first place, never to relinquish it.

Powered by nine runs in the first inning, Flynn first waltzed to a 21-6 victory over hapless Paragon last week as Roger Provo picked up his third pitching triumph of the season without defeat and Tom Ritter led the attack with two doubles.

Over all, Flynn rapped off 19 hits, with Steve Jacques, Gary Colton, Tim Assemany, Provo and Eddie Jacques getting doubles.

Pat Boyer of Paragon, however, grabbed game honors with a home run over the fence with one man aboard. Tom Shillito and Kevin Hartshorne both clubbed doubles for Paragon.

Things went like clockwork for Flynn in its victory over the Jayhawks as Steve Jacques belted a fence-clearing home run with one on base in the first inning. Pitcher Colton spaced seven hits and Flynn executed two doubles plays.

Colton also had a double, as did teammate Provo. John Pantalone, Joe LaFleche and Ron Frisbee each doubled for the Jayhawks.

With the win, Flynn won the series with the Jayhawks, 3-1.

Paced by star pitcher Dave Brown, Rexall made its bid for third place by dumping two opponents. Brown gave up only seven hits to the Jayhawks and helped his own cause with a double. Jim Cook spanked two doubles for Rexall.

Mark Buman, Jim Van Wagner, David Ward and Randy McGarry each had a double for the Jayhawks, who had difficulty hitting Brown in the clutch.

Earlier, Rexall had a banner day at the plate and beat Novi Party Store, 19-6. The Pillers had 16 hits.

CITY OF WIXOM ORDINANCE #34-A25

Jim Christenson led a parade of hitters with a solo home run over the fence and a double. Jerry Primeau, Roger Pelchat (the winning pitcher), and Brown each had two doubles.

Joe Campbell sparked the Party Store attack by slamming a two-run homer over the fence and a double. Larry Taylor had two doubles.

B-V showed no signs of weakening, however, as it buried Paragon 21-2, and edged Novi Party Store, 9-6.

Ken Cookson had a field day against Paragon as he belted two doubles and a triple. Behind him for B-V came Doug Reeves and Dan Rowley, each with a double. Bob Taucher was the winning pitcher.

Boyer had a triple for Paragon. Five runs in the fourth inning, two in the fifth and one in the sixth inning handed B-V a victory over Party Store. Reeves got credit for the win, although he did give up 10 hits, one more than his teammates collected.

Swinging with vengeance, Taucher slugged two doubles and a triple, while teammate Dave Winkler had two doubles and Reeves and Glen Kundrick had a double apiece.

Taylor had two doubles for Party Store and Ron Buck and Campbell had doubles.

In the only other game played last week, the Jayhawks squeezed by lowly Paragon, 18-17, by scoring two runs in an extra inning (the seventh). It was a hitters' free-for-all as a total of 31 hits sprayed over the park behind the Novi school.

Pantalone led the Jayhawks with two triples and two doubles, while Van Wagner had a double and triple, Frisbee, two doubles and McGarry, a double. Shillito once again led Paragon. He had an inside-the-park home run, a triple and a double. Boyer also had an inside-the-park homer and Craig Love had a double.

Dave Link was the winning pitcher. In a game played previously, Brown turned in a sterling mound performance as he struck out 10 of the 14 Pillers he faced in a game called at the end of three and one-half innings because of darkness. Brown didn't give up a hit.

John Pantalone was erroneously credited with getting a ninth-inning hit in the all-star game between Novi and Holly. That was Dave Winkler who got the single in the last inning.

Businesses Count Losses

A restaurant serving liquor, Saratoga Farms lost more on food than liquor. Prepared food sales were cut as $14 and $15 worth of groceries.

While most Wayne and Oakland county package liquor stores and bar owners were smarting under the financial pinch, an unusual condition arose at a little Seven Mile road grocery, located in Washtenaw county. It had Owner William Jackson beaming.

His Trading Post did a landslide beer and wine business. Despite the fact that he was forced to close at 10 p.m. Tuesday night and didn't open until noon Friday, Jackson said he sold 2,500 cases of beer last week. "It's the best week The Trading Post has ever had," he said.

A similar comment was evoked from Bill Asher, owner of Asher Pure in Northville, who stated, "It (Monday) was the biggest day for gas sales I have ever had in 16 years." He was no exception, however, as area gas stations profited from gas rationing imposed east of Telegraph road.

Gross gasoline sales over normal range from as low as $100 per day to as high as $1,000, or a 65% increase. Asher reported increased sales of $500 to $600 on banner Monday and a total additional take through Thursday of about $1,800.

At the intersection of I-96 expressway and Novi road, five service stations reported significant increased gas sales. The largest was about $500 per day.

Generally, the gasoline buying trend was reported similar by each station contacted. Monday and Tuesday were highwater marks, with sales falling off gradually through Saturday with the lifting of Detroit restrictions. Les Ward of Ward's Service in Novi said the additional $100 margin per day did not abate through Saturday, due to motorists inquiring where they might purchase liquor and buying gas in the process.

City Service Gas near Walled Lake reported people trying to buy gasoline in cans — for boats. Workers unable to work sought relaxation on the lake, but restrictions prevented sale of gas in cans.

Not all gasoline stations prospered. Ask Horace Dugas, owner of Jake's Willowbrook Gulf. "We're too far out of the way (on 10 Mile road) so it didn't do us a bit of good."

Panic buying hit Northville's two supermarkets, A&P and Kroger's, Ed Barnes, manager of Kroger's, said his store ran out of milk and bread by noon Monday, and grocery sales Monday and Tuesday were up $5,000. Manager Don Duval said A&P's sales of all items rose substantially, but declined to give an estimate of gross additional intake.

With delivered bread in short supply, Leone's Bakery of Northville baked three times as much bread Tuesday — 300 loaves — and easily sold every one. In fact, Mrs. Al Leone reported the shelves were empty every day the past week through Thursday as buyers came from throughout the west Detroit metropolitan area.

Thomas Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Wright, 40241 Fairway, this summer attended one of the six week-long orientation sessions conducted by Northwood Institute on its Midland campus for students who will begin their college career with the fall term on September 11.

During their stay on the campus the students studied a special psychology course, "Introduction to College Studies." Material covered included a survey of good study habits, use of the library, objectives and philosophy of Northwood, and use of the college counseling services. Each student also conferred at length with his counselor, discussed his career objectives and took placement tests.

Thomas plans to major in advertising at Northwood.

These are some of the people Jim talked with on his first trip with relief goods last week back to the ghetto. Not even a harrowing escape from snipers' bullets could jar his enthusiasm for his downtrodden friends.

"We had stopped to unload the truck (filled with goods donated by OLV), and bullets started whizzing around us," he said. He took refuge in the Store Front Baptist church nearby and watched as police, national guardsmen and paratroopers surrounded the building where three snipers were dug in.

Helicopters swooped low over the building, snipers and law enforcement officers exchanged heavy fire, and two tanks rumbled up and down the street. "They went up and down constantly to create an atmosphere of tension and fear," Jim said, "the whole earth shook."

Two hours later, the snipers were routed out. One Negro was wounded. Another Negro and a white youth were uninjured. "They were young boys, 19 or in their early 20's," Jim stated. "Their eyes were glazed, they looked high, like so many I've seen on narcotics."

"But the people are hopeful . . ."

Municipal Court

Eleven persons were arraigned before Judge Philip Ogilvie in Northville Municipal court Monday on charges of violating the curfew imposed last week because of Detroit riots.

All fines against the violators were suspended, but Ogilvie did slap them with costs.

Court costs of $25 were levied against Daniel L. Cobb, 438 Yerkes street. He was ticketed on July 26 on North Center street, as was Harry Sanders, 504 North Center street, who paid $10 costs.

Eugene C. Karrer, 47000 South Chidwiden, paid $25 costs for an infraction on Horton street.

Donald A. Campbell, 411 Horton street, paid $20 costs for a violation that took place July 26 on Rayson street.

Barbara K. Croteau of Plymouth paid $10 costs, while no costs were levied on John Willis, Jr., 310 West Dunlap, and Diane J. Horie of Livonia. They were cited on West Main street near Griswold on July 26.

John R. Cook and Gerald A. Gotthard, both of Plymouth, each paid a $10 fine for being out after hours on the Seven Mile road cut-off.

A similar fine of $10 was levied against John H. McClory of Livonia and Ronald E. Ylitalo of Farmington, both of whom were ticketed on Eight Mile road west of Center street.

Theodore J. Zebrowski, 350 E. Cady street, was fined $55 for being disorderly (disturbing the peace) at the Clark gas station on East Main street.

Michael Byrnes of Livonia pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly and paid a $55 fine.

Edward A. Vallad, 19, of Pontiac was fined $55 for having liquor in his possession July 21 at Northville Downs raceway.

For having no operator's license in his possession on East Main street, William E. Pearson paid a $25 fine.

Fine against Homer Couch of Ypsilanti was suspended, but Judge Ogilvie ordered him to pay $30 costs for having liquor in his possession at Northville Downs. Couch is 19.

William P. Marshall, 335 Linden street, was found guilty of speeding 55 miles per hour in a 35 zone on South Main street and was ordered to pay a $10 fine and $5 costs.

Christopher P. Dulas, 623 Fairbrook, was fined $5 for failing to have license plates displayed on his car.

Oswald J. Beaupre, Detroit, was found not guilty of being drunk and disorderly.

Novi Justice Court

An 18-year-old Brighton youth was arraigned before Novi Justice Emery Jacques Tuesday and was slapped with a stiff fine for breaking two large plate glass windows — valued at $100 — at Novi high school Saturday.

Stephen Ray pleaded guilty to malicious destruction of property. He was fined $50 and $15 costs and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. The prison sentence, to begin August 29, will not have to be served providing the fine is paid and restitution made.

Apprehension of the youth was made possible through the alert efforts of a local resident. Police suspect two other boys of participating in the incident.

Four speeders were arraigned in Novi Justice court last week.

Louis A. Willard of Milford pleaded guilty to speeding 80 miles per hour in a 55 zone on Grand River and paid a $50 fine.

Albert J. Chylia of Walled Lake, cited for speeding 60 in a 40 zone on Novi road, was fined $20.

Likewise fined $20 was Paul Graybill, Jr. of Farmington, who pleaded guilty to speeding 35 in a 25 zone September 22, 1962.

Theodore Mrozek of Livonia was also fined $20 for speeding 70 in a 55 zone on Grand River.

Dee Herrod of Pullman, ticketed for driving a car with a defective exhaust on East Lake drive, was fined $30 on the charge.

To accommodate new applicants, the Central Admissions Office at 2480 Opdyke Road, Bloomfield Hills, will be open Monday through Saturday during July and August, Fox said.

Office hours are Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. and 6 p.m.-9 p.m.; Friday, 8 a.m.-5 p.m.; and Saturday, 9 a.m.-12 Noon.

Postpone Trial On Novi Cityhood

A circuit court trial on the proposed annexation of the village of Novi has been postponed until Monday afternoon, C. A. Smith, chairman of the Novi City incorporation committee revealed this week.

Originally scheduled for last Thursday, the trial was postponed by Judge William Beer because he had not had time to review briefs presented by attorneys for the township and the incorporation committee.

Judge Beer said the briefs were filed too late for him to review prior to the trial last Thursday.

The Orchard Hills Baptist church, 23455 Novi road, took occupancy of their new church building recently.

Since last July the congregation has been meeting in a temporary, factory-built church building at the same address.

The Orchard Hills Baptist church is strategically located on a five acre site of land on Novi road between Nine and Ten Mile roads.

Those without a church home are cordially invited to visit the new facilities. Regular Sunday services are as follows: Sunday School, 10 a.m., for all ages from birth through and including adults; Morning worship, 11 a.m.; Training Union, 6 p.m., (all ages); and Evening Worship, 7 p.m. Child care is provided for all services both morning and evening.

Gas Stolen From Trucks

Approximately 210 gallons of gasoline valued at $80, was stolen from Fendt Transit Mix trucks parked at the plant site off Flint street in Novi.

The larceny took place between 6 p.m. July 22 and 6 a.m. July 24. The gasoline was apparently siphoned out of four trucks.

Two Northville churches served as collection and delivery centers for area residents wishing to contribute food to persons left homeless by the rioting in Detroit. Contributions paid for the 400 half-gallons of milk that was delivered from Our Lady of Victory church to St. Agnes church on 12th street by Seminarian Jim Levine (center above), who was assisted by (l. to r.) Seminarian Bob Ruedisueli, John McGuire, Jim Lufts and Jim McGuire. Foodstuffs are being packed below by Presbyterian youngsters under the direction of the Reverend Timothy Johnson (left standing) and Mrs. Gladys Weiss (right). The youngsters are (l. to r.) Rick Myers, Bob Beason, Janet Funk, Bud Rathert, Mike Horner, Gary Davis and Sue Wisner.

New Hope Arises

"I lived in a mixed neighborhood in Detroit," Jim recalled, "near Grand Boulevard and Lafayette. Many Negroes were my good friends. Even then I was just vaguely aware of their plight."

Full awareness came last summer when Jim decided, along with a friend, that during his last free summer he would rent an apartment in Detroit's slum area. "I felt the church was removed from grass roots," the exuberant youth said. "I wanted to make its presence felt in this slum area."

He lived in a two-room, "furnished" flat, and paid the same exorbitant food prices as the poor. A bed Jim described as consisting of "a huge old cut-up double mattress on slats" nearly took up all space in the bedroom. In the other room, there was a kitchen table with three legs, one chair and a moth-eaten couch with no back. Rent: $85 a month for a "completely" furnished apartment.

"Two screens were out," he said, "and two windows were broken. Bugs came through the broken windows, roaches crawled the floor." Jim was lucky, for the rats were only on the first floor. The landlord, Jim said, was the owner of the St. Regis hotel, "Detroit's most lavish."

"It wasn't so bad for us," Jim explained. "Large families living in the same, two-room apartments were the ones who really suffered. The older kids would be forced to play on the streets at night because their younger brothers and sisters were sleeping in the only bed. Then the older ones would sleep in the day." HIGH HOPES of stardom in harness racing led to this colt's birth. Right now the two to three-month-old Standardbred is more interested in its mother's protection and keeping a wary eye on the photographer. He's one of 52 colts sired at the Downing Stock Farm, 8249 Seven Mile road, Salem township, this year. His sire could be Knox Hanover, or one of six other proven stallions owned by Burrell and James Downing. (See story on page 5.)

from the PASTOR'S STUDY

John J. Fricke, Vicar
Holy Cross Episcopal Mission, Novi

The clergy get a little weary when they hear laymen talk as if they (the clergy) were the only ministers our Lord has to do His work in the world. Too many laymen want to "pass the buck", as it were. So let us think now about the Ministry... your's and mine.

Our Church holds that the ministerial Priesthood is not man's creation, but is the gift of God. Our Lord said to the Twelve Apostles just before His Ascension: As the Father hath sent me, even so send I you."

The Sacred Ministry is really a continuation of our Lord's own Ministry. St. Paul expressed it thus: "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself... and hath given unto us the ministry of Reconciliation. Now, then, we are ambassadors for Christ, God making His appeal through us."

The Priest has a double role; his task is both the humblest and the highest for he is both a senior and a junior officer. He is a minister and a Steward. He is the servant of his people. He mediates God's Love and God's concern for all the needs of man. Our Lord came as such a Servant. But the Minister is also a Steward... a guardian of the Gospel, one whose function is to teach and preach the Good news.

But above all, the Priest is an intercessor who prays continually for his people... for the man who has just come out of prison, for his young people away at college, for a young mother who has just borne her first child, the man who faces great trials and temptations in his work.

Too often the Minister or Priest gets diverted from his primary task and becomes merely an administrator. Sometimes all the help he gets from his laymen is criticism for not doing things exactly as the layman thinks he should, or as his predecessor is reported to have done it. But this is actually a direct evasion of responsibility on the part of the layman. It demonstrates an altogether distorted view of the ministry itself.

So now we come naturally to this other conception of the Ministry which involves laymen as well as the clergy. The laity do not merely assist the clergy in their ministry. What we must see is that it is not the clergy alone who exercise the ministry of the Gospel... the truth is exactly the opposite. The job of the clergy is to assist the laity and help them both to see and to carry out their own ministry and this ministry is to the world outside of the Church itself. Ask yourself, for example, how many people have you brought to the Church during the last year?

A World Council Committee on the laity recently put it this way:

"Hence it follows... that it is not minister alone who carries out the ministry of Christ in the world, but the whole people of God, the laos, bound to the world by the links of everyday life. The importance of the layman lies in his role in the battle for faith, hope, and charity which the Church is waging in the world. Where is the Church's front? Where is this fight? Does the front not go right through the place you yourself occupy? Can one not say that the Church succeeds or fails in its ministry according to whether or not something is happening in the name of Jesus Christ in your sector of activities of this world? The problem for the layman, therefore, does not consist in seeking how to assist his pastor in his ministry, but how to find, in the life of the parish, the help and resources which he needs in order to fight and stand up to the battle in his sector..."

What this says to us is that we cannot turn the ministry over to the clergy and forget it. We need to ask: how many of us are facing life's demands and decisions in the Spirit of the Lord Jesus Christ, and translating our faith into the language of everyday life? There are four great areas of concern which are like concentric circles: the altar where we dedicate ourselves again and again to our Lord; our homes where we try to live the Christian Family Life God intends; our work where we try to practice on week days what we preach about on Sunday; and the society in which we live where we try to make this a Christian nation.

Here is where our layman must find his ministry. The Church, with its great services and its fellowship, is really a training camp where we learn to fight as good soldiers of Christ, using His weapons of Faith, and Hope and Charity. At each service the clergy send you forth for such a warfare. Come back again and again as fired warriors seeking new grace for new victories in Christ's Name!

"Go forth into the world in peace. Be of good courage; Hold fast to that which is good; render to no man evil for evil; Strengthen the fainthearted, support the weak; help the afflicted, honor all men; Love and serve the Lord, rejoicing in the Power of the Holy Spirit. And the Blessing of God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost be with you always."

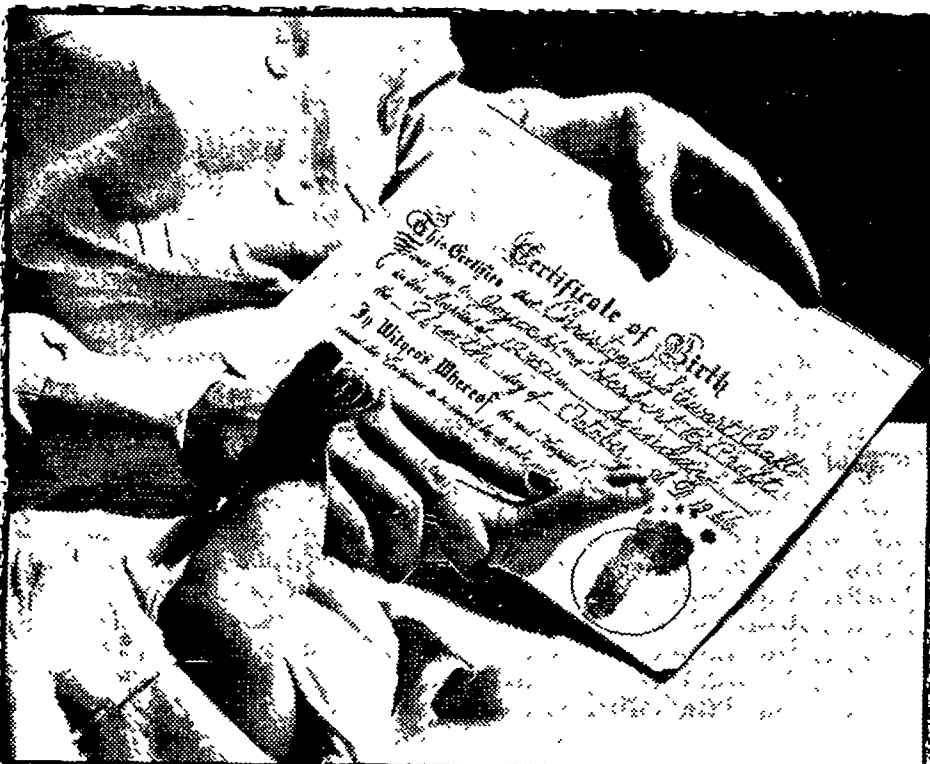

Under a certain degree of duress, he has now signed his first legal document. And, though he doesn't look much different from all of his tiny neighbors in the nursery, the world knows WHO he is.

But the world cannot know—nor can we, his parents—WHAT he will become!

A man of character—loyal, trustworthy, courageous? A leader—strong, capable, resolute? A friend to many—kind, unselfish, understanding?

Identification is so easy to establish. But character is the product of careful moral and spiritual training. The religious atmosphere of our home, the earnest participation of our family in the worship and life of the Church—these will determine our son's destiny... the path in which his footprints will be known.

The Signature of Our Son

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

News Around Schoolcraft

A new course to provide basic technical information to building inspection bureau personnel has been announced by Schoolcraft College Dean of Technical-Vocational Instruction Jon P. Adams.

The 16-week course, titled Introduction to Building Inspection, will be offered in the fall term starting August 31. The class will meet three hours weekly, from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. on Tuesday nights in Room T-300.

Adams said the course is believed to be the only one of its kind being offered in Michigan, and is one of only two or three being offered in the nation.

The course is designed to provide instruction in the history, legal origin and purpose, and implications of building codes, basic understanding of building code organization and interpretation, and in the organization, operation and responsibilities of a building inspection bureau.

The course was developed as the result of the interest among building officials from area communities in providing an in-service educational program for their personnel. Employment in an inspection bureau is a requirement for admission to the course.

"The regulation of building construction to provide safety standards for public and private use is a highly specialized field," Adams said. "Under normal conditions, this particular activity is not readily adaptable to pre-entry training. As a result, individuals employed in building inspection offices generally have educational and experience backgrounds in the building industry, but lack specific training in applying and adapting this background to the area of government control of building construction as provided by building codes."

A group of building officials from nearby communities participated in the development of the introductory course. They included Frank Kerby, chief building official at Livonia; Clayton L. Deibel, director of the Dept. of building and Safety Engineering at Southfield; Earl Little, Deibel's aide; and Richard Schlosser, chief building official at Troy.

Working with these professionals were Adams, his assistant Joseph A. Borgen; and Fred Stefanski, director of the evening program at Schoolcraft, who will have direct responsibility for administering the course.

SAFETY-MINDED HOMEOWNERS...

make sure that heating systems are in good condition and that electrical circuits are not overloaded. They practice good housekeeping too, so that fires can't find a place to start.

SAVINGS-MINDED HOMEOWNERS...

recognize the value of a State Farm Homeowners Policy... the low-cost, package policy that provides all the protection most homeowners will ever need for home and belongings... plus protection for themselves in case of lawsuits. If you're savings-minded, but need big protection too, ask me about a State Farm Homeowners Policy.

George Lockhart Heads Piano Technicians Guild

George Lockhart of 618 Orchard attended the 10th annual convention of the Piano Technicians Guild held in Detroit last week. He is president of the Detroit chapter for the second time and was previously national president from 1955-57.

The four-day international convention was hosted by Detroit for the third time in 30 years. Last year it was held in Miami, and previously has been held in cities throughout the country, including San Francisco, Boston, Houston and Chicago.

Next year the guild will convene in Canada.

Lockhart was among 551 conventioners and their wives at this year's convention. There were 420 people in all attending the classes.

In selecting the topics for the classes, there were 48 different topics considered. The most popular 16 were selected, and instructors contacted all over the United States.

Each delegate was able to attend six of the classes during the convention.

Preparation for each year's convention involves an entire year of work and organization.

The guild is a world-wide organization designed to provide members with information concerning all the latest developments in their field, and to provide the opportunity for the craftsmen to sharpen their skills in piano tuning and repairing.

7 Stallions Sire 52 Colts On Downing Stock Farm

A winning trotter or pacer is both made and born, one concludes after chatting with Mrs. Burrell Downing, bookkeeper and enthusiastic helpmeet at the Downing Stock Farm at 8249 Seven Mile road.

"Sometimes a trotter will be thrown by a pacing mare mated to a pacing stallion," she said, although the odds are against it.

She was drawing upon seven years of experience gained with her husband and their son Jim in operating a Standardbred horse breeding farm for a living. The men were putting up hay when the reporter arrived.

Birth was given to 52 colts on their farm this spring. A small percentage of these may someday become top money winners at parimutuel tracks like Northville Downs when they are three, four or five years old.

A few will show makings of stardom in their second and third years, sweeping around the fair circuit tracks.

The Downings try to take care of the heritage factor that makes a winner. Professional trainers must take over from there.

Owning a seven-stallion stable headed by such impressive names as Knox Hanover and Elby Hanover gives them an excellent chance.

Knox Hanover, now 17 years old, has thrown six of the best pacers since his own heyday as a Michigan Champion.

General Knox, Major Knox, Iona Bay, Lover Girlnik, Knox Pride and Knox Ensign are his offspring.

Lover Girlnik, the leading filly in a game dominated by stallions, recently gained distinction by running second to the Michigan record-holder. That record: 1:58 minutes for the mile.

Elby Hanover is an equally distinctive sire and counts among his children the champion trotting colts of the past three years. Bonny Fortune is among his brood.

These are the two most popular studs on the Downing farm, naturally. But Jarvis Hanover, Specialty, Fenalla Hal, Major Goose and Cattle King draw owners of top ranking mares, also.

The Downings own only 40 brood mares of their own, but stabled and bred 200 this year. In addition they have 16 filly yearlings and eight stud colts growing into prime on the farm.

Horses are brought from all over the country to be matched to the Downing stallions, said Mrs. Downing. Usually they are mares that have raced and have good records and ancestry.

The owners will be hoping for another exceptional racer. And they will not be light hopes. The owner will be paying out between $3,000 and $3,500 before it ever wins a purse, counting stud fees, boarding, care, upkeep and training.

Between $600 and $1,200 of this could be spent with the breeder. Knox Hanover, for instance, commands a $500 stud fee. Then there is a $2 per day boarding fee, veterinarian and other service fees. The average stay at Downing's is 45 days, but some owners leave their mare year-around.

Knox was bred to 85 mares this year. Elby, who thus far has been getting a $400 fee is used for 40 to 50 each year. Each of the other stallions breed 15 to 30 mares yearly. "It depends a lot on popularity," said Mrs. Downing. "Some owners have an affection for the Hanover name, for instance, and won't use the others despite their impressive records."

The Downings started in horse breeding with one stallion after giving up dairy cattle raising. Soon after, a sick friend made Knox and Elby available to them, and they have been expanding ever since.

Son Jim and his family almost deserted the farm in favor of a selling career but came back to take a strong hand.

Their son-in-law Clyde Snook owns, trains and drives a stable of horses, including Downs favorites Impoway and Eldor.

"We never bet on the races, although we keep a box at Northville Downs," said Mrs. Downing. "But we like to watch our colts develop and often go to the fairs to see them run as two-year-olds."

In case you didn't know, a pacer runs with both legs on the same side moving forward and backward in unison; a trotter runs with a front leg and an opposite hind leg in unison.

Trotters are driven with loops hanging from the harness and joined between legs "to help them keep their timing." Discovering that a "born" pacer is actually a trotter is up to the trainer, as is discovering their race psychology.

"Every once in a while we see a colt that is from a pacer's rambling across the field at a high trot," Mrs. Downing pointed out. Occasionally one of them becomes a winner."

TV Singers To Perform At Salem

Music joins the expanding market of exports from Free China as the Taiwan Television Singers extend their tour to Salem next week. Overseas Radio, Inc. has sponsored the award-winning musical group on Taiwan TV since December 1962.

This is their first nation-wide tour of America. The group can be heard August 11, at 8 p.m., at The Salem Bible church, 9481 West Six Mile road. The public is invited to attend.

The Overseas Radio Ministry was started in 1952 by Doris Brougham who was forced out of China by the Communists after only two years of missionary service on the mainland. Moving to Formosa, now Taiwan, she realized the importance of training the Chinese to help their own people. Today ORI numbers 50 Chinese Nationals on its staff.

Never losing her missionary heart, Miss Brougham believes that a "Personal Introduction to Jesus Christ" is the greatest gift she can bring to the people of the Orient. ORI uses every possible means to communicate the eternal message of God's love to the people of Free China, and to the thousands who listen to their broadcasts from behind the Bamboo Curtain.

Overseas Radio's present schedule includes a weekly telecast over Taiwan's two TV channels; a correspondence school with 30,000 students enrolled; a Saturday night Youth Rally; a counselling service by mail; personal appearances by the staff throughout the island; concert tours - domestic and foreign - by the Taiwan Television Singers; a developing record business; and initial ventures into the allied field of audio-visual production. Their radio programs include tentypes of broadcasts.

The Taiwan Television Singers consists of seven young Chinese Christians, who are capable musicians and knowledgeable Christians. They have produced three LP albums, the latest of the Word label. All of the members have studied and performed in their own country; several have attended college in the United States.

SPEAKING

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

This week for a change of pace we'll dish up some selected short subjects.

Like the riots in Detroit. Everyone has an opinion: it was organized, it wasn't; it was the have-nots taking from the haves; it was a race riot, it wasn't; it was communist inspired, it was just hoodlumism abetted by soft law enforcement.

For certain it was a revolt against law and order, whether premeditated or not. And the major participants demonstrated that they held little regard for law and order.

There are, of course, many underlying factors . . . deplorable living conditions, poverty, inequities . . . still lawlessness and violence cannot be tolerated.

Yet in Detroit we have seen and read of instances where such action was defended, if not advocated, by a revenge-bent philosophy.

There is no intent here to provide answers to the problems that plague our society and give vent to such outbreaks.

But strict law enforcement and obedience thereto are basic requirements to making this so-called civilized society we live in work.

And anyone who goes around speaking at the law or demanding special privileges is just kidding himself if he thinks this attitude doesn't filter down to others, either younger or less influential.

There are far too many examples of double standards, and condoned and even idolized law breakers.

Frequently, it appears that public opinion is against the law enforcement agency and in support of individual who can pull off a swindle.

To some minds it might be difficult to recognize the difference between running a red light, taking a bribe, cheating on your income tax or personal property reports, fixing a ticket or breaking a window and stealing a television set.

There's a judge in Helena, Montana named Lester Loble. He appeared on a personal-interview television variety show last week. He talked about juvenile crime and how a new law and the press has helped reduce it.

It's down some 47 per cent in Helena, while in other parts of the country it's up more than 30 per cent.

When he was first elected to the bench in Helena, he was surprised to find that the city had a high rate of juvenile crime and that many of the offenders were repeaters. Helena, he said, was described as a "little Chicago".

So he contacted J. Edgar Hoover to find out what was wrong in Helena. "Nothing, it's just like most other cities", said the FBI director. The biggest reason for juvenile crime, they determined, was lack of parental control, or attention.

"The parents of juvenile delinquents aren't running a home, they're running a boarding house", said the outspoken judge.

With some advice from Hoover Judge Loble drafted legislation that was to become known as the "Loble law" and it was passed in the state of Montana.

When a juvenile commits a felony in Montana, the Loble law calls for open court trial "with full press coverage and the parents in the front row", explained Judge Loble.

"The parents can't take the heat", exclaimed the judge. "Suddenly, they want to know what the kid's doing and where he's going . . . they don't want their name in the paper".

Mrs. Wynn Wakenhut gave me a copy of a most interesting and unique advertisement that appeared in a trade magazine recently and was sponsored by Warner & Swasey, manufacturers of precision machinery in Cleveland.

It was entitled "I didn't have a very happy childhood, either" and it had this to say:

But nobody worried very much about it. I was too busy, I guess - cutting lawns, shoveling snow, running errands, delivering packages for 10 cents selling newspapers, doing housework for my mother, and going to school. I passed my grades, too; if I hadn't, I'd have had the hide strapped off me.

No one concerned himself about my amusements, either. What fun we had, we made. But if we did any damage like breaking a window in a ball game, we paid for it by working it out.

We never heard these modern phrases like "standard of living", "subsistence level", "minimum requirements". Our standard of living was whatever my father (and after I was about 12, my father and I) earned. I don't suppose people "understood" me and if I had said so, my mother would have asked, "Why should they?" And certainly no one ever gave a thought to my "problems". They were mine, weren't they? Mine to solve. Why should I expect anyone else to bother?

If my father was laid off, we stopped spending on anything but food, and a lot less of that. My dad spent every waking hour looking for work - any work. We lived on savings and when they were gone, we moved in with relatives. If there had been no relatives, when every penny and every salable asset was gone, we would have gone to the only place left - the County Poor House - but that would have been an admission that we couldn't take care of ourselves.

You'll notice in this true story of a typical American family of a few years back, I'm not talking about privileges nor happiness. I guess we didn't have much. But we had something that was infinitely more important, infinitely more rewarding - we had self-respect, because whatever we had, however little it was, we earned.

It seems to me that is why America is the strong nation it is today - and it will stay strong only as long as there are enough Americans more interested in earning than getting.

The Land of Plenty

A LOOSE LEAF

By ROLLY PETERSON

Anyone familiar with Greenfield Village would have known what to expect. I did. And yet a pleasant surprise was awaiting me at the renowned Dearborn site, famous for its historical lore, artifacts and quaint memorabilia. The Greenfield Village Players were indeed a good group and their interpretation of Tom Taylor's "Our American Cousin" exceedingly entertaining.

Perhaps this approach is a bit low key, but that's the way it was. An evening thoroughly steeped in the good old days, one that quickens nostalgia for a simpler life. The fact that I was riding toward the city - before the riots - in the summer time, was the only bit of apprehension I had. It was a bit muggy and on evenings like this, sane people head in the opposite direction for a country respite.

Consider me crazy, then, along with the capacity audience on hand, and let's get on with it.

Parking was easily found around the verdant island smack dab in front of a string of buildings nestled in the still trees. Score one. Lanterns glowed wanly in the fading daylight, the very lanterns Assistant Producer Pat Casey said I couldn't miss in front of the Gas Light theatre. The tickets weren't waiting for me at the box office. I was referred to the mustachioed man collecting tickets at the door. It was an unlikely position for Dr. Joseph French, manager of theatre arts, but he quietly obliged me, no questions asked. Score two.

Inside the quaint, proscenium theatre with four gleaming chandeliers, girls in 19th century dresses smiled pleasantly and passed out long billboard programs as in the old days (I guess). No one directed me to my seat, for no one had to. None of the seats are reserved. Since I was late - not because it's fashionable - because of disregard for time, the back three rows were the best seats left in the house.

On the stage, antique advertisements and theatre rules were painted crudely on the drop screen, enough reading to amuse the spectator and sufficiently whet his appetite for more romantic notions. Finally, the play.

Written in pre Civil War times, "Our American Cousin" was hardly new in approach or content. Archaic or trite might better describe it, this American melodrama which was Abraham Lincoln's favorite and the one he was watching when assassinated by John Wilkes Booth.

Basically, the story tells of an unschooled, rather boorish American frontiersman whose generosity and honesty win over his delicate, effeebled English cousins. Not only does he expose the black capped scoundrel exploiting his cousins, he also wins the love of a destitute dairy maid, herself an innocent child of nature victimized by circumstance.

Despite the lack of any essential relationship to our times, Tom Taylor's play does present a challenge. The Greenfield Village Players handle it with élan. What could have been corny, they made charming and interesting. With the ease felt normally on a lazy summer stroll, the actors by and large fit compellingly into their roles.

Paramount among this fine troupe of school teachers and students were Robert Jones as Asa Trenchard, the disarming American, Robert Bryson as Lord Dundreary, the senile, forgetful gentleman, Rachel Dann as Florence Trenchard, the young female head of the Trenchard home, and Charles Wilson as Wickens, the debilitated tutor.

No less interesting than the play itself were the vaudevilian interludes between scenes with various actors singing thematic but simplistic ditties and acting out symbolic vignettes, and the intermission in the court yard, where the audience drank lemonade while the players serenaded with songs of old.

This is the fare the Greenfield Village Players offer throughout the summer until September 15 - a rotating series of American plays. Besides "Our American Cousin," they include "Under the Gaslight," written in the late 1800's by Augustine Daly, and "The Henrietta" and "Shenandoah", both written around the turn of the 19th century by Bronson Howard.

It's an enchanting visit to our American past.

EDITOR'S NOTE-The following letter was written by a grateful ex-foreign exchange student. The German youth, affectionately known as "Charley" when he was in Northville, took part in the first of the "Youth for Understanding" programs in 1951. He divided his stay in Northville, six months with the Elmer Wilson family and six months with the Thomas R. Carrington family. When "Charley" returned to the U.S. permanently, around 1959, he again resided with the Carringtons for several months.

Dear Friends:

On August 6, 1967, The University of Michigan will hold its summer commencement exercises. I will receive the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. This most significant day in my life would not have been possible without you, the dozens of employers, teachers, and friends who encouraged my academic career. The first Sunday in August is your day as much as it is mine. I would like to assure you with this letter that I have a special place in my heart and memory for you.

You are the ones who let me wash dishes in your restaurant, clean bee frames, work as a janitor, a sewing room helper, potato peeler. Others employed me as departmental assistant, substitute teacher, teaching fellow, community planner, railroad ticket agent, etc. All of my teachers deserve a special place on this honor roll. I am deeply grateful for the hard labors of my doctoral committee.

Thanks are due all the citizens of Washtenaw county and their employees in helping me gather information for my dissertation entitled, "Internal and External Factors Determining Past and Future Land Use and Settlement Patterns of Washtenaw County, Michigan."

This great day in my life is dedicated to the citizens of Northville, Michigan, the town which first gave me a home as an exchange student and then made me welcome to the new world when I arrived as an immigrant nine years ago. The man who merits a special place on this day, Thomas R. Carrington, I am sad to say, is not with us to witness the culmination of his dedication and labor in bringing a "son" to the United States.

Two years ago, Texas Technological College at Lubbock, a university of more than 17,000 enrollment, placed a trust in me to initiate geography as an academic discipline. I promise you that I will faithfully carry out my chosen life's work as a teacher here or wherever I should be called. The State Department and Rotary International Program which first brought me to these shores was called "Youth for Understanding." Toward this goal I shall continue to work.

I am ever in your debt.

Say 'Thanks' To Volunteers

To the Editor:

The disheartening incidents in Detroit last week directly affected many lives miles away from the scene of the crimes.

An emergency arose in Northville when more than half of the child care personnel at Plymouth State Home and Training School were unable to report for duty on the various shifts. To feed and care for twelve hundred mentally retarded residents with a minimum number of "stranded" and tired employees always creates a critical period.

During this emergency, the residents of Northville and the surrounding area responded so tremendously that our children did not experience any delay in meeting their needs.

In behalf of the Department of Mental Health, the staff at Plymouth State Home, our children and their parents, I extend my warm, sincere thanks to the hundreds of volunteers who helped, directly or indirectly, to make this "trying" time a relatively peaceful one. It is most inspiring to see the great numbers of people who are concerned for others, people who truly care.

Again, my deepest thanks for your extremely valuable services. I only wish it were possible to thank every volunteer individually.

STRICTLY FRESH

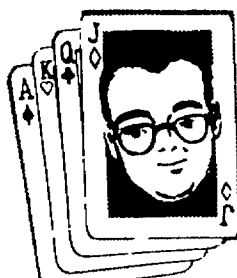

If you think the clinging vine type of gal has disappeared, you just haven't noticed the motorcycles roaring around town.

Nothing to worry about? Try this: What's coming after automation?

Young children differ from adults in that the kids' instinct is to give honest answers to questions.

A doctor says that two or three ounces of alcohol at bedtime can bring relief to insomniacs. At least they'll go to sleep in good spirits.

"Oh, sure, mister, I got sum . . . see, perch . . . four of 'em."

"Got 'em here, huh? No foolin'?"

"Mind if I join you?"

"Naw, mister, you try it, too."

It had Norman Rockwell's sweet taste of innocence. But before the day was out, a bitter frustration had taken over the river bank.

The man in the blue sweater sat down beside the boy on the edge of the river dock and surveyed the string of fish.

"Whatcha usin'?"

"Worms. Better than minnies. Want sum?"

"Thanks, young fellah, what's your name?"

Top of the Deck

"Phillip . . . No, not that way. Ya gotta hook 'em a couple a times so he don't wiggle off. Like this . . ."

So the man in a blue sweater and his little companion sat in the Upper Peninsula sun, fishing and talking. Their conversation drifted in easily put-together pieces across the river to the opposite bank where my boys and I watched bobbers tug against the swift, brown water racing for Lake Superior.

It was the kind of day you watched boats and bobbers and counted waves and skipped stones and listened and did little real fishing. Oddly, the hours past quickly.

Across the river the man in the blue sweater was no longer a stranger and the boy was no longer just a barefooted kid. They were pals now, talking about the man's grandchildren at home in Ohio and about the boy's family there in a little park town called Brimley.

A pause came into their conversation and the boy stood up, probably to pull up a second pole a short distance away. As he turned, his foot caught the edge of a raised board and he pitched over the dock's edge and into the deep water below.

The splash was loud and terrifying on our side of the river. There was no cry. Just the splash and the boy was gone.

A second passed, maybe, but no more than two and there was another splash. It was the man. Feet first. Shoes, clothes and glasses.

Our poles were still in our hands when the boy shot up out of the water wrapped in the arms of the blue sweater and in an instant he was plunked onto the dock. The man, treading water against the current, grabbed the edge and hoisted himself up after several unsuccessful attempts.

They stood there dripping and shaking and looking at each other - the man and the boy who were no longer strangers - and neither spoke. Finally, the boy stepped forward, reached out his hand and said, "Thank you, mister."

And they shook hands.

Then they were laughing and crying and pawing each other.

Eventually, the boy said, "I'd better go tell my mother," and he turned to leave.

"Hey, Phil, don't forget your fish."

"You keep 'em."

The man who was squeezing out a blue sweater and the spectators across the river watched the boy climb the bank, cross the bridge and disappear behind us, presumably down the road toward home.

It could have been a fitting climax to a pleasant day on the river bank but for a few more overheard words. They came down from up over our heads from the steps of the bar, drifting to the man on the opposite bank, and shattering an illusion - the half-expected scene in which the crying mother offers the stranger her thanks.

But instead, from up over our heads, came:

"I told ya to stay away from the water, — — — didn't I. (Slap) Well, just wait 'til your ol' man hears about this. (Slap) — — — You'll wish you'd never seen the river. Now git."

"But Ma, that man down there jumped in . . ."

"Git, I said, and don't sass me again."

So the man squeezed out his blue sweater and sloshed up to his car and we packed up our poles and left. The pleasant river was bitter now, full of frustration.

Back at the camp tent my wife listened to our story and then handed me the newspaper. Bitterness and frustration, we read, had taken over another river bank.

Going, Going...Gone: Asparagus to Mattress Hair

LANSING — A million dollars or more of state salvage and surplus items are sold each year by the Purchasing Division, Michigan Department of Administration.

According to director Philip H. Anderson, everything from asparagus to mattress hair has been sold to private consumers through the state's method of auction — bid selling. Sales of unwanted state merchandise are handled by Douglas Dodge.

In 1966, Dodge sold about $1.2 million worth of salvage and surplus equipment including 1,500 vehicles and about 9,600 used tires.

Roger Babson

Every agency in the state must follow an outlined procedure when disposing of unwanted or worn-out items.

ITEMS ARE listed on regulation forms and submitted to Dodge. A compiled list is then circulated to all state agencies and institutions. Items on the list needed by other agencies are simply transferred.

Merchandise not spoken for is then listed for public disposal.

It is Dodge's responsibility to find buyers for the merchandise and get the best price. Some items merit personal trackdown of potential customers.

For example, Dodge recently "acquired" 100 acres of asparagus. Inmates at Southern Michigan Prison grew the vegetable for their own canning factory. But the cannery is going out of business so the job of selling asparagus became Dodge's.

A call to the Department of Agriculture gave Dodge a list of commercial canneries. The product was quickly sold.

"That was an easy one," he said. A tougher problem currently facing him is disposition of "approach ramps" used when auto's were driven aboard the Straits of Mackinac ferry boats.

INVITATIONS to bid are mailed to possible buyers on most items. Vehicles are sold at auction only to licensed dealers. Bids may be submitted either on specific items or on a collective basis.

If the item's value is so small it is not considered worthy of listing, an authorization for agency disposal may be issued.

The agency itself will then solicit three bids and sell to the highest bidder.

If the item cannot be sold, it is destroyed and then sold for scrap.

Very few items are unsalable, Dodge maintains. Most scrap is obtained from highway department cleanup crews or from waste of institutional "factories" which manufacture metal products.

Many unusual items are among the hundreds of thousands sold each year. Anything of value is listed for disposal. Bones and animal grease, by-products of state slaughtering, are sold to commercial processors. A team of horses, pastured at a state hospital, was recently sold. Airplanes from the Conservation and Highway Departments are put up for bids.

Fire towers, snow-mobles, telephone lines, office machines and furniture, outboard motors and boats, chainsaws, farm equipment, marine equipment, industrial machines and tools, chemicals, and even small auto parts are included in the "Availability Circular of Surplus and Salvage Property" published by the department.

There is no set date for auctions and specific items are obtainable only on an "available now" basis. However, the department tries to notify people looking for specific items when those items are available for bids.

All items are sold on a "where is — as is" basis. Inquiries should be sent to the Purchasing Division, Department of Administration, Surplus and Salvage, Lewis Cass Building, Lansing 48913.

MICHIGAN slipped to seventh place among the 50 states in personal income. In April, 1966, the state was sixth with total personal income at $2,197.1 million. By April of this year, Michigan had only a 1.7% increase, to $2,233.7 million. The nation, as a whole, enjoyed a 6.6% gain.

Texas, which followed Michigan in 1966, moved ahead considerably with personal income in April, 1967, of $2,465.7 million; an increase of 13.8% in one year.

The six states, in order of highest personal income, are: California, New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Texas.

'Home War' Damages U.S. Image

BABSON PARK, Mass. Imagine headlines in U.S. papers telling rebellion in Leningrad; others reporting widespread looting and arson in Novosibirsk; still more giving accounts of snipers atop the new apartments in Kiev holding troops and police at bay. Quite likely many of us would feel that the Communist hierarchy was in deep trouble; the Soviet "rebellion" might cause a letup in Russian shipments of arms to North Vietnam. Undoubtedly such a Russian uprising would be viewed here as a help to our efforts in Southeast Asia.

But it is the U.S. that is wracked with insurrection, arson, and looting. Damage to physical properties is counted in the hundreds of millions. Destruction of human values defies assessment. Buildings can be repaired and rebuilt. Looted inventories can be replaced. Who is there, however, to heal the burned-out souls of the looters, or to cool the hatreds of the antagonists?

And our "home war" is doing even greater damage to the foreign image of this country. Openly our allies are asking: "Can he who is incapable of keeping order in his own house be expected to restore peace to a jungle area where brother is spitted against brother?" If this is the attitude in the Free World, surely each outburst of violence here brings great comfort to the Soviets. To them it is proof that their grueling efforts to bolster Hanoi have not been in vain.

It is widely heard today that the U.S. is "overextended" throughout the world. The implication is that we should be less aggressive in trying to maintain peace . . . that we should "pull in our horns". It is recommended by one school of international thought that we should draw the line as to what parts of the earth we would defend and what sections we would be willing to "let drop".

Recently, it has been touch and go whether the Administration should call up the reserves to increase pressure on the Viet Cong. Widespread use of the National Guard to contain mass violence in our cities, however, has led to even stronger demands that we keep our reserves at home. Pleas are made not to let the "home front" go unprotected. These developments point up one of the greatest lessons of history: It is not by war alone that nations are beaten and civilizations destroyed; it is the weakness within, the rot at the core, that paves the road to downfall.

OUR INSURRECTIONS at home have started a new pack in full hue and cry. It is another form of isolationism . . . only this time the desire is not to isolate ourselves from the far corners and responsibilities of the world, but from the trackless wastes of space. This, of course, is not new. Many before have questioned the rewards to be gained by putting a man on the moon.

Now the twist is a little different. Sickened by instances of oppressive poverty in parts of our large cities and aroused by appalling destruction in the riot-torn areas, questioning of the space program and its costs is becoming more general and more intense. The issue: Why not spend $50 billion for new housing for the poor on earth instead of on the moon?

In our hearts, we know the solution does not lie in pulling out of the far corners of either the earth or space. Nor will the furnishing of greater material comforts assure freedom from insurrection. Gifts will not bring peace at home any more than foreign aid has abroad. Surely, every effort should be made to correct the conditions that cause rebellion.

But it will not be done "by bread alone." Before reconstruction can take over, order will have to replace chaos . . . not only on the streets, but also in the mind. In recent years our judicial system has moved so powerfully to protect the accused that the victim has been all but abandoned. Never in the history of the world has such a high value been placed on human life . . . and so low a value on the soul. Never such emphasis on the rights of a minority, benign or antagonistic. Never so great an upgrading of "tolerance" toward those who flout the laws of man and God.

OUT OF THE PAST

One Year Ago...

...Keenly contested races on the Republican ticket in Northville township attracted 49 per cent of the township's registered voters to the primary polls Tuesday. The ticket backed by incumbent Supervisor R. D. Merrlam won handily.

...Incumbent Novi Township Supervisor Hadley Backert clinched another two-year term in Tuesday's primary election and thus spoiled his opponent's, Leo Harwood, bid to hold township and village posts at the same time.

...A 19-year-old Northville boy, Jim Weidner, suffered a fractured vertebra in his neck as the result of a diving accident in a pool in his home.

...Detroit water was inching its way into Northville. Installation of a line from the Detroit main at North Center street and Baseline road to the city tower is presently underway.

...Nine-year-old Dale Schwarz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denis Schwarz of 48220 Rushwood Lane, won a role in the musical "Oliver", opening at the Northland Playhouse. In all, 296 local boys, and a few girls, tried out for the four roles as fellow pickpockets and youthful companions of Oliver, the play's hero.

Five Years Ago...

...A fire which threatened a downtown Northville store, Lila's Flowers and Gift Shop, was quickly brought under control by the Northville fire department Monday evening. The flower shop had all but completed its move to a new location on Main street before the fire broke out.
