

Residents Rate Community in Jaycee Survey

Five hundred and thirty Northville residents out of 1,725 polled responded to a Jaycee-sponsored community survey and their answers were turned over last week to the city council. Each of the replies were tabulated and, in many cases, additional personal comments included so that the completed reports added up to several pounds of paper when turned over to the council by Jaycee Charles Ely, Jr.

Two questionnaires were sent to each resident.

One asked the citizen to rate either excellent, good, average, below average or poor the following:

Water pressure, garbage collection, postal service, fire protection, law enforcement and police protection, local courts, hospital services, public transportation to other communities, public works department (street maintenance, street and sidewalk snow removal), parks and recreation, restaurants, hotels-motels, service and repair facilities (cars, appliances), public restrooms in business district, community planning and development program, general appearance of the residential and business districts. Comments were invited on ratings of below average or poor.

The second questionnaire concerned itself mostly with the business district and called for "yes" and "no" answers. It called for, and frequently received, additional comments.

The business district questions included: is ample parking included?, are parking facilities in close proximity to the stores in which you shop?, are parking areas well lighted?, do parking facilities prevent or discourage you from shopping in Northville?, is variety of stores enough to meet shopping needs?, do stores provide enough quality merchandise?, is merchandise competitively priced?, is business community courteous, polite, willing to assist?, what per cent of shopping except food staples do you do outside of Northville and why?, do you feel traffic pattern in business district could or should be improved?, are traffic signals and signs adequate?, are you in favor of the present plan as proposed by planning commission for improvement of the central business district?, who should be responsible for providing recreational opportunities—school district, city, private individuals or combination?, do you feel civic organizations are fulfilling their obligations to the community?

The Jaycees' total tally revealed that:

79 per cent think parking is adequate in the business district; 92 per cent say they're close enough to stores; 59 per cent agree parking lots are well lighted; and 65 per cent said parking facilities didn't discourage them from shopping locally; 63 per cent said there wasn't enough variety of stores; 59 per cent said enough quality wasn't provided; 52 per cent said merchandise was competitively priced; and 94 per cent said merchants were courteous; 29 per cent said they do between 90 and 100 per cent of their shopping (except for food) outside Northville, while only 28 per cent said they did more than 50 per cent of their shopping locally; 59 per cent would improve the business district traffic pattern; 75 per cent said traffic signs and signals are adequate; only about one fourth of replies answered the question on the central business district plan and 56 per cent of them opposed it; 41 per cent thought the city should be responsible for providing recreational facilities, while 27 per cent thought it should be a combined community effort.

Ratings of community facilities and services turned up "public restrooms in the business district" as the lowest rated item. It received 245 "poor" ratings. Most noted that "there are none, except at bars or gas stations".

Second most criticized facility was hotel or motel. Many remarked that they had to send guests out of town for accommodations, others said such facilities shouldn't be expected in a small town.

Snow removal from sidewalks received the next most "poor" ratings, but many indicated it should be the responsibility of the individual and not the city, but that the city should enforce its ordinances requiring cleaned sidewalks.

Public transportation to other communities received 188 poor ratings, next most on the list, then came hospital service with 152, restaurants with 132, repair service for utilities and appliances with 109, followed by snow removal from streets (96), maintenance of streets (94) and community development and planning (90).

Postal service received the most "excellent" ratings with 114, while garbage collection was given 113, parks and recreation areas 105 and water pressure, 79.

Personal comments ranged from scorching to praiseworthy, depending largely on personal experiences.

$1.9 Million Budget OK'd

Northville board of education Monday night unanimously approved a 1967-8 budget presented by Raymond Spear, acting superintendent, and Earl Busard, business manager, for $1,913,406.

The new budget represents an increase of $283,842 over the 1966-7 expenditures of $1,629,564.

Greatest area of increase is in the instructional field with $1,397,264 representing an increase of $260,285. Teacher salary scales have been increased $186,180; library book funds are increased $5,552 to $15,700; and the special education allocation was raised from $15,096 to $71,520.

The budget for transportation services was increased a little more than $10,000 to $82,812 with school plant operation funds being increased about $20,000 to $195,230. Health services were increased from $468 to $800. Administration costs indicated a decrease from $103,882 to $97,995, which Busard explained reflected the fact that the salary of former superintendent Alex Nelson was considered an expenditure of the previous year when action was taken to pay off his contract.

During the public hearing, Spear explained in answers to questions from the floor that the present junior high school will be converted temporarily to house administrative offices on the second floor, provide Main street elementary expansion on the first and be central receiving and maintenance headquarters in the basement. He stressed that if in the future the space were needed for classrooms again, it could be reconverted.

The board, in other action, entered into a lease agreement with the Cavern teen club for the lunchroom area of the junior high building. It returned to Spear for further elaboration a proposed board policy on requirements for education specialist degrees or equivalents.

It approved by a 4-2 vote purchase of a Roneo duplicating machine at $819. It also approved purchase of Remington Rand typewriters for the high school at a cost not to exceed $14,820, and a language learning laboratory at $15,846. Board secretary Glenn Deibert opposed each of the expenditures on the basis of his belief that all should be awarded on open bids.

For the same reason he opposed a contract passed by the board authorizing Ritchie Brothers laundry to provide towel and uniform service to the schools for a two year period at a cost of five cents a towel, with uniforms on a per pound basis. The decision, which will take the school district out of the laundry business, will cost the district only about $100, Spear said, as $4 per pupil towel fees will cover costs.

Primarily because it was not in the new budget the request for a contribution of approximately $550 to participate in the Northwestern child guidance clinic was rejected. The question was re-opened at the close of the meeting at the request of board member James Kipfer who felt the district would benefit from the services of the clinic's psychologist, who would be available three hours every other week.

Spear pointed out the item was not included in the budget as it was not among last year's expenditures, although the board had last year approved participation. Spear was requested to research the minutes to see that the approval had been made as board members felt they had a "moral obligation" to fulfill any such commitment.

The board went into private session to discuss administrative salary recommendations.

No Decision On Name

Still undecided at Monday night's board of education meeting was the name for the new Northville junior high school.

A motion by Stanley Johnston and Andrew Orphan, the committee named by Board President Eugene Cook to suggest a name for the school, was tabled at the request of board member James Kipfer. He asked that the entire board review names suggested and make a decision.

Johnston and Orphan's recommendation was that the new school be named Northville Junior High school and that the building be dedicated to Mrs. Ida B. Cooke in honor of her many years of devoted service to the Northville public schools, and that an appropriate plaque be installed so indicating.

In requesting the delay, Kipfer questioned the board's announced policy, determined at the time of the naming of Moraine elementary school, against naming schools for individuals. He cited Amerman elementary school, named for retired Superintendent Russell Amerman, as a precedent.

In naming Moraine elementary school, the board took geological note of the Moraine ridge terrain of the area. Similar geographic names, including the "wind hill" designation for the Taft road area were considered by Johnston and Orphan.

Former pupils and friends of Mrs. Cooke, who lives in the area in retirement, have presented petitions to the board to name the school the Ida B. Cooke junior high school.

In agreeing to Kipfer's request, Johnston observed to Orphan: "Andrew, he's saying this really isn't such a hot name after all!"

Cady 'No Parking' Missed

The Record left out one of the newly-adopted parking restrictions passed by the city council and reported last week.

It is the removal of all parking on either side of Cady street between Wing and Church streets. Parking is presently permitted on the south side of Cady street only.

Other parking and traffic changes recommended either by the parking authority or police department and approved last week by the council include:

Citizen Group Prods Council to 'Take Action'

Politely but firmly a council-appointed citizens' study committee told the Northville city council Monday night to make a decision or lose its committee.

Eleven members of the Citizens' Advisory Committee attended the joint session that it had requested. The group had completed first steps of its study February 20 and had reported its recommendations on a proposed north-south route and a circle drive in the business district at that time.

Newly elected committee president, Reverend Lloyd Brasure, told the council that "you won't have a committee if you sit much longer. Attendance is lagging... the committee is frustrated".

Specifically, the council had asked the citizens' group to look at possible north-south routes, recommend the most suitable, and to consider the feasibility of a circle drive in the business district as proposed in the master plan.

It is the position of both the committee and council that master plan proposals for a circle drive in the business district depend upon providing a north-south route.

If the council approves the committee recommendations, the citizens will turn their attention to gaining county support, means of financing and implementing the project.

Only three members of the council attended the meeting—Mayor A. M. Allen and Councilmen Del Black and Wallace Nichols. Councilmembers Charles Lapham and Beatrice Carlson were absent.

In general the council, as well as the city manager, agreed with the citizens that the council had been "slow" in responding to the recommendations.

Mayor Allen promised that action would be taken at the October 2 meeting of the council. "I can't promise approval, but I'm reasonably certain we'll go along with your recommendation", the mayor stated.

In its February 20 report the committee had proposed the so-called "blue route" for north-south traffic. This route would follow along the west side of the C & O railroad and provide a by-pass traffic route from Novi road to South Main street. It was one of four routes considered by the committee.

The "blue" route would follow the tracks and intersect with South Main street at the Old Spring site. Its cost is estimated at $1,740,000.

A proposed "red" route follows the same course as the blue route at the northern end but uses the Griswold street right of way at the southern end. Its estimated cost is $960,000.

The committee rejected the red route chiefly because of traffic problems at the Griswold-Main street intersection.

Outlook Brightens For Wing Extension

Extending Wing street through to Hines drive moved a step nearer reality this week.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff reported that a Tuesday morning meeting with Oscar Gunderson, chief engineer for the Wayne county road commission, had resulted in "tentative approval" of the proposed cut-through of Wing.

Mayor A. M. Allen and Manager Ollendorff met with Gunderson. Previously, the county had been reluctant to approve any plan to cut a new road into Hines drive. The specific engineering of the road still must be okayed, and a request for a parcel of park property section.

The committee suggested that the city council order engineering "without delay". Secondly, it recommended to the council that Wayne county be contacted "to determine if the Main and Center street intersection can be closed to permit a circle drive".

Kenneth Rathert, past committee president, told the council that it was not necessarily recommending closing of the streets, but thought it was important to determine whether it was possible.

The council admitted it had not checked with the county on the possible closing of Center street, whereupon a committee member noted that the entire feasibility of the master plan for the central business district (CBD) depended upon this determination.

Another committee member, Essie Nirider, urged the council to make a determination on the CBD. "Lack of a decision has put the brake on all progress downtown", he stated.

It was suggested by the citizens' committee that the council consider zoning the defined business district all CBD, rather than distinguishing between buildings and parking and zoning some areas CBP (parking).

Councilman Black said he had once held that same opinion, but "now I'm leaning towards zoning CBD and CBP because value-wise I think there's no difference between building and parking sites in the business district".

The council promised to act on committee recommendations and the committee promised to "go back to work" when given direction by the council.

Members of the citizens' advisory committee attending Monday night's meeting in addition to Reverend Brasure, Rathert and Nirider were A. R. Clarke, vice chairman, Art Adams, Mrs. William Bake, George Clark, Robert Hart, Robert Horner, Harry Wagenschutz and Mrs. David Schoultz, secretary.

125,000 Population

Novi Faces Explosion

No matter how you look at it, there's a population boom in Novi's future.

At least that's the view of Novi planners, who Monday night authored a master plan that foresees a "filled up" capacity of nearly 125,000 people.

Even if you ignore the swell of major developments and movement of people to this area, continuation of the growth rate experienced alone, explained Planning Chairman Kalin Johnson, indicates Novi will have a population of 14,000 by 1980.

Planners don't envision just 14,000, however. They predict a population of some 21,000 people by 1980 — nearly 15,000 more than shown by the 1960 census.

Beyond 1980, the planners say they cannot predict population trends accurately. Nevertheless, a population projection graph within the master plan book points to a possible population of nearly 40,000 by 1990, nearly 60,000 by the year 2000, and a "fill up" or 125,000 people shortly after 2020.

That ultimate population is still a long way off, but planners aren't waiting for it to happen. They're setting the stage now with the master plan adopted Monday, they point out.

In fact, the master plan, by proposing residential neighborhood units and their sizes, the amount of industry and commercial development, actually establishes the population size that planners contend is best suited for the community.

The plan divides the community into 36 neighborhood units, varying in size and shape depending upon boundaries such as major highways, topography, railroads, etc. Populations of each, the plan suggests should be between 2,000 and 5,000 persons — a size that can support an elementary school.

On the basis of these 36 units, the plan suggests an ultimate population capable of supporting 34 elementary schools in addition to the two already serving the community.

Johnson emphasizes that it is not the intention of the planning board, through its master plan, "to tell" school officials where to build. Rather, he says, the plan indicates to officials where population centers may develop.

However, because four school districts exist within the Novi boundaries, establishment of the neighborhood districts could pose problems where a single unit may be served by more than one district. With this in mind, planners suggest that school boards periodically review their boundaries "with the objective in mind of creating desirable neighborhoods with the resulting economy in physical facilities."

Projected figures show an ultimate population of 52,021 children in Novi, with 21,630 in the K-6 bracket, 5,899 in the 7-9 grade level, and 5,244 in the 10-12 grade level.

In addition to the elementary schools, the plan projects an ultimate need for two high schools and six junior high schools. One of the latter is seen as being needed in the southwest corner of the village, within the Northville school district. One of the high schools and one of the junior highs is seen for the northeast section of the community

The Northern Lites Family Living study group will meet at the home of Mrs. Harold Seden, 402 Randolph street on Monday, October 2 at 7:30 p.m.

Co-hostess is Mrs. Harold Marks. Any woman interested in learning about an informal "Out of School" educational program in family living is invited to a tea to be held at the Plymouth Credit Union building, 500 South Harvey street on Tuesday, October 10 from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Ollendorff, who lives at 444 East is typical of the "at home" mothers the auxiliary hopes to have display the wordless signs which will mean immediate help for any child who is lost, injured or being bullied. Sign-up sheets will be sent home from the elementary and junior high schools next week for mothers to volunteer for the project, which has been approved by local school administrators and pastors.

News Around Northville

Several Northville friends of the Reverend and Mrs. Harry Lord attended a golden wedding celebration in their honor Sunday at the First Methodist church of Pontiac. Now retired, Reverend Lord was minister of the Northville Methodist church during the 1940's.

While the Lord family lived in Northville, their only child, Laura Marie, was graduated from Northville high school and was class valedictorian. Now Mrs. Dale Marr of Royal Oak, she assisted at the party for her parents. Guests could trace highlights of the couple's 50 years together in a series of newspaper clippings saved and displayed at the reception.

Mrs. C. Lemieux of Tilbury, Ontario, Canada is visiting her sister Mrs. Jim Spagnuolo after spending two months in Denver, Colorado visiting relatives.

A change in meeting place for the autumn luncheon scheduled by King's Daughters is announced. Members will meet at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, October 3, at the home of Mrs. Arthur Junod, 223 High street, instead of the home of Mrs. Hugh Babbitt.

By JEAN DAY

SEVENTY-FIVE years ago deer were feeding in the back yards of Northville homes on Main street — an observation duly noted in the annals of the Northville Woman's club.

As the club opens its diamond jubilee year in October, records from 1892 and other early years have been researched by Mrs. Charles Yahne to provide glimpses of Historical Northville.

These will be presented for members and guests at the opening luncheon to be held at 12:30 p.m.

Friday, October 6, at Meadowbrook country club. In preparing a program culled from early papers presented by members, who often walked from mile-road farms to meetings, Mrs. Yahne is being assisted by Mrs. E. A. Chapman, Mrs. E. M. Starkweather and Mrs. A. J. Verschaeve.

Around the turn of the century, Mrs. Yahne notes, "courageous" members were expected to prepare and present two papers a year.

Mrs. E. V. Ellison, club president, who officially will open the jubilee year at the luncheon, notes that the club is one of the oldest in the area. It was formed just about two years after the federation of women's clubs itself came into being.

Reservations for the jubilee luncheon at Meadowbrook are being taken by Mrs. Robert Shafer who stresses that this year the absolute deadline for reservations is Saturday.

NORTHVILLE NEWCOMERS club began its fall season this month with a welcoming coffee September 20 at the home of Mrs. Daniel Swayne, 18321 Larch. Club President Mrs. Halton Axtell welcomed the 75 members and guests attending and announced a Halloween party to be held October 28 at Silverbrook riding stables.

After a hayride, couples will return to the stables for refreshments and conversation. The club planning committee has found these couple events have become so popular that they no longer can be held in homes; so the couple events will be "fun" outings of hayrides, bowling parties and dances.

Interest groups for needlecraft, bridge and Christmas decorations are being formed. Any newcomer in the area interested in the group's activities is invited to call Mrs. Axtell.

A NEWCOMER in Edenderry subdivision, Mrs. William Farrington, was introduced to her neighbors Tuesday morning at a coffee given by Mrs. Blake Couse at her home on Larch road. Mrs. Couse admits that even she was surprised when she invited all her subdivision neighbors to find that the winding, hillside roads now contain homes of three dozen families.

The Farringtons, who bought the James Peltons' French provincial home on Larch, moved here from Grosse Pointe. They have a daughter, Kathy, at Michigan State university, and three sons, William and Stanley, who are married, and Bob.

WESTERN WAYNE county Torch Drive unit chairman, Mrs. Arthur Hemepe of West Fomer court began meeting Tuesday with 40 key leaders in 29 communities to see that 8,000 workers will be available for the TD kick-off October 17.

Mrs. Hemepe says that from now until the campaign is over she will be working daily at the TD Dearborn office. The Hemepe returned last weekend from their annual fall outing at Greenbriar.

A COOKOUT for the Wayne II district Republican statutory committee, their wives and husbands is being hosted tonight by Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Weber at their Woodhill road home. He is chairman of the Wayne county portion of the Second Congressional district, which includes Northville township.

With early fall evenings on the crisp side, Mrs. Weber says they'll undoubtedly "cook out and eat in." The Webers and Mrs. Robert Arlen were among party leaders attending a biennial leadership conference on Mackinac Island last weekend.

SCARECROWS and other harvest season decorations will carry out the fall theme of the benefit card party being planned by Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory church for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, October 10, at the church.

Working with Mrs. F. F. Ishac, general chairman, are the following committee chairmen: Mrs. Charles McDonald, tickets; Mrs. Al Korte, refreshments; Mrs. Robert Isom, decorations; Mrs. Andrew Pelto, bake sale; Mrs. Paul Rellick, fruit cake sale; Mrs. Donald McDonald, Mrs. Sam Kunst, Mrs. Richard Marrone, Mrs. Leonard Arquette, Mrs. Donald Gribble and Mrs. Kenneth Khio, general arrangements.

Tickets at $1.50 are available now from Mrs. McDonald, 349-2589, and OLV League members, and will be sold at the door.

BUTTONS of yesteryear were artistic creations, carefully made of pewter, golden brass, bone and china, members and guests of Northville's Baseline chapter of Questers learned Monday as Mrs. Howard F. Meyer, Jr., displayed her mother-in-law's varied collection. Mrs. Meyer proved that today the painted china buttons and tiny "calico" buttons can be decorative accessories as she exhibited the collection mounted on velvet in old walnut frames.

Buttons with tiny metal rosebud decorations and miniature velvet crosses (that used to be scented with perfume) will be displayed for Vintage Home tour goes at the home of Mrs. Howard F. Meyer, Sr., next Thursday.

The Meyer home on Eight Mile road is one of five homes to be open on the tour sponsored by the women's association of Northville Presbyterian church from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tickets at $1.50 are available from Mrs. Robert Bretz, and her committee and will be sold at the church Thursday. The antique sale in conjunction with the tour will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Froelich, 369 Maplewood, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dessert and coffee and baked goods will be sold at the church.

Luncheon will be served at St. Paul's Lutheran church from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. during the tour as Lutheran women cooperate in this first-time venture. Groups are asked to make reservation with Mrs. E. O. Weber, 349-9971. Luncheon will be $1.25.

FARMINGTON MUSICAL, a growing group of women actively interested in music, began its third season with a luncheon meeting Wednesday at the home of this year's president, Mrs. Edwin A. Savelly, Tamerlane road, Birmingham. Attending from Northville were Mrs. James Allen and Mrs. Theodore Slabey. While located in Farmington, the group is drawing musicians from surrounding areas and welcomes interested women. Mrs. Slabey reports. It meets monthly for musical programs and has a hospital committee serving Plymouth State Home and Training school.

Couple Pledges Vows In Candlelight Rites

Mrs. Kim Karl Acker

Marthann Louise Hanert became the bride of Kim Karl Acker at a candlelight ceremony, held in the Holy Trinity Lutheran church, Livonia, at 8 p.m. on August 26. Pastor Ronald C. Starenko officiated at the nuptials.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanert of 8304 Evergreen road, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Marjorie Acker of Garden City and Mr. Harleth Acker of Brighton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of heavy white crepe, classic in its simplicity, with touches of Venise lace edging the above-elbow sleeves and at the waistline. A chapel length panel train and scoop neck were other features of the gown. Cultured pearls, a gift of the groom, encircled her neck, and she carried an arrangement of stephanotis and baby's breath, centered with a gentian-throated white orchid. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was attached to a headpiece fashioned of satin and crystals.

The maid of honor was Miss Carolyn Hunt of New York City and bridesmaids were Mrs. Terence Wansac, Mrs. Kent Hanert and Mrs. Frederick Hanert. The latter two young ladies are sisters-in-law of the bride and Miss Hunt and Mrs. Wansac have been friends of the bride since kindergarten days. The bridesmaids were all gowned alike in aqua georgette over taffeta, with long, puffed sleeves, A-line skirts and scoop neck. They carried arrangements of pink carnations and sweetheart rosebuds, centered with rubrum lilies. Preceding the bride down the aisle and scattering rose petals in her path were her two small nieces, Kendra Lee Hanert, six, and Lisa Kay Hanert, four. They wore pale pink georgette frocks and carried baskets filled with pink, aqua and white flowers.

Attending his brother as best man was Curtis C. Acker, on leave from the U. S. Navy. The groom's other attendants were Michael O'Hara, Kent Hanert and Frederick Hanert.

Richard Schaw a lifetime friend of the bride and her family, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride's mother chose a gown of delicate beige lace over a beige crepe sheath, with which she wore mint green hat, shoes and bag. Pinned to her bag was a corsage of cream-colored sweetheart rosebuds. The groom's mother was garbed in mint green brocade, her coat buttoning over a matching sheath. Her shoulder corsage was fashioned of green cymbidium orchids. The bride's maternal grandmother was in pink, with a corsage of rose-colored gladioli.

A reception was held at the Idylwyld Golf and Country Club, after which the couple left for a honeymoon tour of several Eastern states. The bride wore a three-piece apricot colored butte knit suit. Upon their return, they will be at home at Cornell Court in Ypsilanti, while the groom completes his studies at Eastern Michigan University.

Newlyweds Honeymoon In Massachusetts Area

Newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Andrew G. Rubus now are making their home in the Dearborn area following a wedding trip to Cape Cod and Massachusetts. The new Mrs. Rubus is the former Mary R. Miller, daughter of Mrs. Katherine Davis, 43100 Eleven Mile road, Novi, and William A. Miller, 439 Chester court, South Lyon.

The couple exchanged vows in a 6 o'clock ceremony August 11 at Sacred Heart Parish in Dearborn. Wearing a chiffon gown adorned with lace embroidery, the bride was given in marriage by her father at an altar decorated with vases of white gladioli and mums. A petal crown held her nylon veil and she carried white roses.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Theodore G. Kletzka, was matron of honor. Mrs. Joseph Rubus was bridesmaid. Both wore yellow and white taffeta cage gowns and carried yellow and white daisies.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Rubus, 23906 Lloyd court, Dearborn, asked Joseph Rubus to be his best man. Ushers were Theodore G. Kletzka, Vern Davis, Robert McKinley and Rodney Rubus.

For the ceremony and reception following at the MEA hall in Dearborn the bride's mother wore a pink crepe sheath with silver accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose melon chiffon with bone accessories. Both wore corsages of pink roses and white carnations.

For her wedding trip east the bride, a 1961 Northville high graduate, wore a green linen costume. The bridegroom, a 1961 Dearborn high graduate, served with the U.S. Air Force.

Michael D. Williams Claims Saginaw Bride

Michael D. Williams claimed Judith Anne Purdy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. George Purdy of Saginaw, as his bride in an afternoon ceremony in that city last Saturday.

The bridegroom is the son of Raymond O. Williams, 48865 Stratford court, and the late Mrs. Williams. The wedding was at Saginaw First Presbyterian church with the Reverend Herbert Schroeder officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of ivory crepe trimmed with ivory re-embroidered Alencon lace, which also edged her mantilla veil. She carried a cascade of ivory carnations, miniature orange roses and ivy.

The bridegroom's sisters, Sue and Nancy Williams, were honor maid and bridesmaid, respectively, in dark olive crepe sheath gowns fashioned with smocked sleeves. They wore matching floral headpieces and carried bronze and pale yellow mums.

The bridegroom's brother, Jerry Williams, was best man. Ushers were Sam Purdy, the bride's brother, and Tim Hayes of Petoskey.

A reception for 120 guests followed in the church social hall.

After a wedding trip in Northern Michigan the newlyweds will make their home at Fort Carson, Colorado, where the bridegroom is stationed with the U.S. Army. A second lieutenant, he is an alumni of Northwestern Michigan college. The bride is a University of Michigan graduate and did graduate work at Michigan State university.

City Orders Two New Police Cars

The Northville city council approved the purchase of two new police cars Monday night, a Ford and a Pontiac. In its original motion the council gave approval to City Manager Frank Ollendorff's recommendation that two Pontiacs be purchased from Red Holman Pontiac company of Wayne. But later in the council session it was determined that John Mach Ford of Northville had submitted a lower bid for one car, but had failed to bid on a second car requested.

The council then rescinded its first action, awarded the bid for one of the cars to Mach and the second to Holman.

Normally, Northville purchases one police car at a time, approximately each six months. The police chief and city manager reported to the council that both cars needed replacing.

The council received the following bids: Rathbun Chevrolet of Northville, car number one - (with trade in of 1966 police car) $2,153; car number two - (with trade in of 1967 police car) $1,653; John Mach Ford of Northville, car number one - $1,786.44; (bid for car number two overlooked by dealer, not bid); G. E. Miller of Northville, Dodge Polara, No. 1 - $2,600, No. 2, $2,160; Dodge Coronet, No. 1, $2,380, No. 2, $1,940; Holman Pontiac of Wayne, Catalina, car No. 1, $1,911, car No. 2, $1,511.

Delivery within 45 days was promised by the Pontiac bid, while Ford made no delivery promise because of the auto strike.

College Foundation Elects New Officers

Kenneth Hulsing, industrialist and Plymouth civic leader, was elected president of the Schoolcraft College Foundation at the organization's annual meeting on Thursday night, September 21 at the college.

Hulsing succeeds Northville attorney Clifton D. Hill, who served as first president of the Foundation which was organized last year as a citizen's group to provide financial assistance to the college.

Hulsing's election was the only change in the roster of Foundation officers for the year.

Re-elected by trustees to serve during the coming year were: Charles E. Lowe, Garden City attorney, and Philip R. Ogilvie, Northville attorney, vice presidents; George L. Clark, Northville, secretary; Gordon R. Ramsey, Plymouth, treasurer; and Robert K. Barbour, Plymouth, assistant treasurer.

Officers were elected after the annual election of trustees.

Trustees elected for a three-year term were Hulsing, Hill, Clark, Schoolcraft College President Dr. Eric J. Bradner, George Bauer, Plymouth; Robert Freydl, Northville; Mrs. Arlyne R. Kuegler, Northville; and Jan Reef, Northville.

Elected to a two-year term were William R. Keith, Garden City; Alex M. Lawrence, Northville; Mrs. Eunice L. Switzer, Northville; James P. Thomas, Livonia; and Wilson D. Tyler, Northville.

Named to a one-year term were

Lowe, Ogilvie, Barbour, Ramsey, Harold Bittner, Northville; Mrs. Alex Nelson, Northville; and John Santieu Jr., Garden City.

Hulsing said vacancies on the board of trustees will be filled by appointment of the trustees at the October meeting.

The Foundation was organized to provide a source of endowment funds for the college to be used primarily for student financial assistance and to raise a portion of the local share of the cost of a fine arts building and cultural center on the campus.

Justice Court

Traffic violations headed the docket of Novi Justice of Peace Emery Jacques this past week.

John E. Patterson of 319 Elm Court received the most severe fines - one for driving a vehicle with a defective exhaust in the area of South Lake and West Lake drives on September 13, and the other for driving without an operator's license, which had been revoked.

He was fined $15 on the first offense, and sentenced to five days in jail, fined $35 and $15 court costs for the latter. He was to receive an additional 30 days in jail should he fail to pay the fine.

Fined $35 and $15 costs for reckless driving on Novi road and South Lake Drive September 15 was Dale D. Larzelere of 1201 South Lake Drive. He was given an alternate of five days in jail.

A similar fine was handed down to Thomas R. Bogart, 46638 West Main street, Northville, who was charged with reckless driving on Novi road August 30.

Two motorists were found guilty of driving violations upon trial before Justice Jacques. Samuel McQueen of 40995 Grand River was sentenced to pay $25 fine and $10 court costs or serve five days in jail for drag racing on Novi road August 27, and John D. Miller of Farmington received a $10 fine and $5 court cost assessment for disregarding a traffic signal at 12 Mile and Novi roads on September 13.

Daniel G. Schmiedlen of Milford was fined $20 for operating a car with a defective exhaust on Grand River east of Beck on August 22, and William A. Weiss of Ann Arbor was ordered to pay a $25 fine for speeding 80 miles per hour in a 55 MPH zone on 10 Mile road August 21.

Three persons, all Novi residents, were each fined $5 for using firearms in the village in violation of the ordinance. They were Earl Devereux of 40670 Ten Mile road, Thomas E. Zielinski, 25915 Clark street, and Norman D. Howard, Jr. of 39515 Burton Drive.

Car Hits Tree, Driver Hurt

A Livonia motorist suffered cuts and bruises early Saturday morning when his car swerved from Beck road and smashed into a tree north of 10 Mile road.

Treated at Botsford General Hospital was Donald I. Thompson, who told police he lost control of the vehicle while driving north on Beck. The car traveled about 90 feet along the shoulder of the road before striking the tree, Novi police said.

A major traffic tie-up on the I-96 expressway resulted last week Wednesday morning when a truck hauling steel crashed into the rear of a cattle truck west of Novi road.

Robert Serenberg of Detroit, driver of the truck that rammed into the rear of the other, was treated at Botsford General hospital.

The other driver was Raymond Whitaker of Ithica.

According to Novi police, who assisted State Troopers in policing the accident that backed traffic up for a half mile or more, the impact of the collision split open the fuel tanks of one truck and threatened to set fire to one or both vehicles.

A Novi fire truck was raced to the scene to wash away the gasoline and oil.

Touch Football Plan Ready for Action

How about a good game of touch football?

If you're a boy or a good, healthy male adult you can do just that by reporting to Ford Field this weekend, Recreation Director Robert Prom revealed Monday.

Prom, who has been digging hard for volunteer officials for touch football programs for boys and men this fall, said the programs will go ahead even though few are volunteering to help officiate.

"If you got a few hours to spare, we sure could use you," he emphasized.

Meanwhile, preliminary plans call for formation of four separate programs one for boys in grades four and five, another for junior high school age boys in grades six, seven and eight, one for high school age boys, and still another for men.

Interested persons are asked to report to Ford Field at these times: Elementary 9 a.m. Saturday; JH, 10:30 a.m. Saturday; high school, 1 p.m. Saturday; and adults, 12:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Prom reminded area residents that volunteers also are needed to help supervise the department's proposed gun handling and target shooting program. Interested persons are asked to call him at his home, 349-2287.

Punt 'n Kick Registration For Boys, 8-13, Underway

Boys age 8 through 13 in the Northville area can now register for the seventh annual Punt, Pass & Kick Competition. Trophies and trips will be awarded to football-minded youths for skills in punting, passing and place-kicking.

Headquarters for registration in Northville is John Mach Ford, 550 West Seven Mile road, where entries will be accepted through October 6. Entrants must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. There is no charge as the entire competition is absolutely free to all entrants and all equipment such as footballs and kicking tees are provided. No body contact is involved in PP&K competitions.

When they register, boys receive a free booklet of competition tips written by Green Bay's star passer, Bart Starr, the Baltimore Colts' punting specialist, Dave Lee, and Los Angeles Rams' place-kicking leader for 1966, Bruce Gossett. The booklet includes exercises for better physical fitness oriented to boys of PP&K's competition ages.

In addition to the booklet each registrant receives an attractive PP&K lapel pin.

The basic principle of PP&K underlines fairness in competition to give every boy an equal chance to win, pitting contestants only against those their own age. Points are awarded for each foot of distance the ball travels on the fly, with points subtracted for each foot the ball lands to right or left of a center line.

Eighteen handsome trophies will be awarded locally by John Mach Ford to the top competitors. Gold trophies go to first place finishers, silver to second and bronze to third, with first place winners going on for further competition in Zone contests.

Winners of Zone competitions will receive trophies and runners up are awarded certificates. Zone winners move to District competitions where 228 District champions will be awarded trophies and go on to compete for Area championships. Area champs travel to division events in NFL stadiums in San Francisco or Philadelphia where twelve finalists are chosen - six from the NFL Eastern division and six from the NFL Western division.

The twelve division winners go, with both parents, on a "Tour of Champions" to Washington, D.C., and then to the Orange Bowl in Miami, Florida.

Juday Fires 3 TD Passes

Passing for three touchdowns and running for another, Northville's Steve Juday led the Ypsilanti Vikings to a rousing 34-0 shutout over the Detroit Steelers Saturday at Willow Run.

The Vikings remain locked in a three-way tie for the Midwest Football League title. The Michigan Arrows trumped the Pontiac Firebirds, 37-7, while Flint squeaked by Lansing, 8-0.

In completing 17 of 27 passes, Juday picked up 300 yards in the air. The quarterback, former MSU All-American, also streaked into the end zone from 10 yards out with another Vikings tally.

The Ypsilanti semi-pro eleven will take on the red-hot Flint Arrows at Mt. Clemens this Saturday night. The game will be broadcast over Station WOIA FM, 102.9 on the dial.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

The Village of Novi will accept sealed bids for Workman's Compensation, and General Comprehensive Liability Insurance including its fleet of vehicles, until 5 o'clock P.M., on October 16, 1967, at the office of the Village Clerk, Village Hall, 25850 Novi Road, Novi, Michigan. Specifications may be obtained from the Village Clerk.

The Village of Novi reserves the right to accept or reject any and all bids.

Growing for Win Tomorrow

Bulldogs Invade Northville

Calendar

Thursday, September 28
Northville Frosh football, at Pierce, 4 p.m.
Northville JH football, here with Plymouth East, 4 p.m.
Friday, September 29
Northville Varsity football, here with Brighton, 8 p.m.
Novi's varsity football game with Emmanuel Christian has been cancelled.
Tuesday, October 3
Northville JV football, at Brighton, 7 p.m.
Northville Cross Country, here with Belleville, 4 p.m.
Wednesday, October 4
Northville JH football, here with Clarenceville, 4 p.m.

The Bulldogs of Brighton, still growing over their 38-13 defeat at the hands of West Bloomfield, will invade Northville tomorrow night in what promises to be a battle between two clubs determined to correct league opening losses.

Coach Alex Klukach's eleven, upset as much by their poor showing as by their narrow one-point loss to Holly, will be shooting the works as they attempt to show fans they're better than last week's statistics might indicate.

The Mustangs will be performing on home ground -- the same place they kicked off the season with a determined pitch to knock off arch-rival Plymouth. Northville lost that opener but it played well enough to threaten the Rocks right down to the wire.

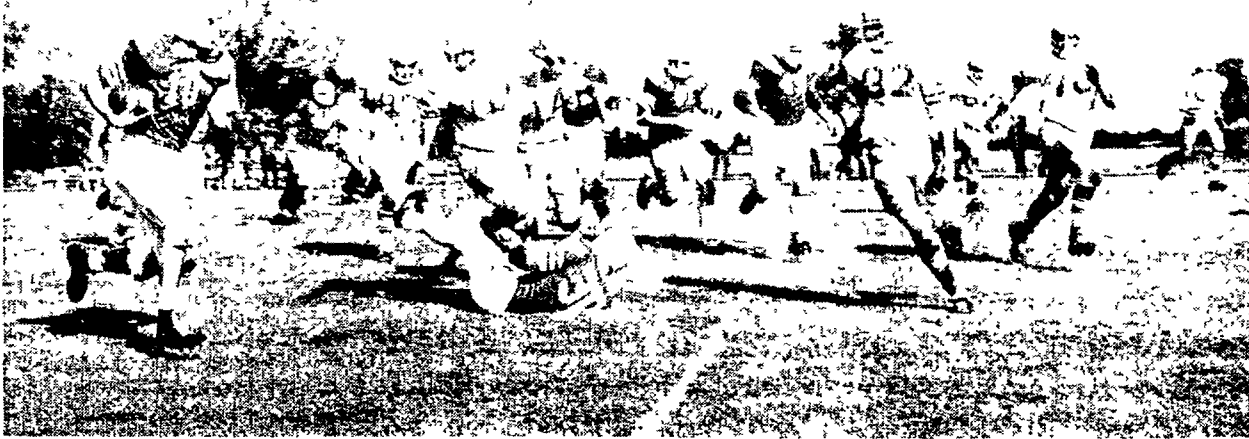

Neither team can afford to lose tomorrow. Both found hope, despite their losses Friday, in the fact that defending champion Bloomfield Hills was upset by Clarkston and Clarenceville's rugged eleven was clipped by Milford. But another loss tomorrow would put them in position from which recovery might be too difficult to achieve.

For Northville, tomorrow's contest will have a double significance. The local eleven still remembers last year's 18-12 loss to the Bulldogs, who hadn't won over the Mustangs in 15 years. In fact, it was the first Brighton victory over Northville since the W-O League was formed in 1951.

That loss to Brighton evened the Mustangs' conference record at 1-1.

WHITMORE GALLOP—Bob Grimston, Whitmore Lake quarterback, races around end as three husky Lev Tafraian (70). Novi lost the game, their first on a recently completed gridiron, 34-7.

Extra-Point Kick Does It

Bronchos Sock Mustangs

Holly shoved 'em backwards 58 yards.

Combine a figure like that with a gain of only 86 yards on the ground and you come up with 28 yards net rushing—hardly the kind of statistics to write home about.

But those are the figures Northville carved out of the gridiron slate last Friday night in dropping a 7-6 contest to the Bronchos at Holly. And if you subtract the number of yards lost by penalties, the Mustangs sculptured a minus seven yards on the ground in four quarters of football.

Coming on the heels of the Mustangs' superb showing against Plymouth, Friday's Wayne-Oakland league opener by Northville was a poor showing by a good team -- no matter how hard you hunt for excuses or manipulate the statistics.

Yet, neither can Holly's victory be discredited. Coach Elmer Rose's eleven may not be the best in the league, but the Bronchos were tops Friday, repeatedly upsetting Northville's air and ground attack while at least maintaining an operative offense of their own.

Coach Alex Klukach sought no excuses in losing the contest, but he was quick to point out that "we've got a good bunch of players who play well. They proved that against Plymouth. They've just got to regain their confidence and come back stronger than ever.

"The race is still wide open and we've got plenty of time to get in there and demonstrate a good brand of ball."

The turning point Friday appeared to come early in the second quarter when, after the Mustangs had grabbed a first-quarter touchdown and just barely missed the extra point, Holly unleashed a blitz that crumpled Northville's offensive line and clogged the backfield machinery. Harassed almost continually from that point on, Northville's backs had little running or throwing room.

In one series of plays, Northville back-peddled from the Holly 44 to its own 28.

Fortunately, the Mustangs' defense and the clock combined to prevent Holly from scoring before the half. Camped on the Northville 6, in the final series of plays that carried them from their own 28 yard-line, the Bronchos attempted a third-down running play that fizzled as time ran out.

The Mustangs' lone TD came on the heels of a Holly fumble deep in its own territory shortly after the opening kick. Holly had taken the kick on the 10 and moved the ball to the 20. Two off-tackle punches pushed the ball forward only three yards, and on the third Northville pounced on the loose ball.

Two Northville thrusts managed to push the ball forward only one yard. But then, in the first pass play of the game, Quarterback Joe Andrews fired to End Greg Carr who carried to the 10 and a first-and-goal-to-go situation.

On the first play, Northville fell back two yards. Then two passes went awry. But on the final play, Barry Deal sped around the left end and into the end zone for the six points. Rick Sockow's boot split the uprights but smashed into the crossbar and dropped short.

In the opening minutes of the second half, Holly gave up a 15-yard drive to Northville before intercepting a pass from Andrews to Dennis Matthews. On the first play from scrimmage, Holly's little but productive halfback, Tom Hayes, smashed through the line and scampered 33 yards up the center of the field for the tying score. Hayes also added the point-winning boot.

The Mustangs bounced back with a 23-yard drive to the Holly 45. But the Bronchos smashed through the line, smothered Andrews and the threat, and the Mustangs were forced into a punting situation on their own 44.

With the opening of the final quarter, after putting together a short ground gainer and a completed pass to Carr, Northville fumbled in a first-down situation on Holly's 42. The Bronchos took possession on Northville's 49 and pushed to the 35 before running out of gas.

A few minutes later Northville was back in Holly territory after recovering a Broncho fumble. But the offense barely moved forward before Holly took over on a futile fourth-down pass.

Then, with less than three minutes to play, Northville began its last desperate drive to upset the upset. Andrews grabbed the punt on the 30, managing to push forward only two yards before Holly's victory-bent defenders hit him. And two ground gainers, one by Deal and the other by Andrews, carried Northville to its 45.

Now, with less than two minutes to play, the Mustangs were ready for the bomb. Two long ones went wide of the mark. But the third, on fourth down, hit Bob Hubbard just over the center and the Northville end carried to the Holly 35 for a first down.

A pass to Matthews failed, and the Mustangs tried another quick one over center that missed. Once again Holly ripped through the line to toss its opponent for a loss -- this one for six yards. Finally, a fourth-down pass went for naught, and Holly took possession, eating up the time and savoring the one-point triumph.

COMPLETION -- End Greg Carr reaches over his shoulder for a pass on the second play in the fourth quarter at Holly. His catch gave the Mustangs first-and-10, but on the very next play Holly gobbled up a fumble and nipped another Northville threat.

Novi Master Plan

within what is now part of the Walled Lake district.

Concerning commercial development, the plan envisions an ultimate need of 444 acres of commercial property. This includes 100 acres for a regional center, 126 acres for neighborhood shopping centers, 118 acres for general commercial development, and 100 acres for commercial development along thoroughfares.

The commercial plan map, while not meant to specify exact locations, shows the regional shopping center near Novi road, between the expressway and 12 Mile road. The civic and business center is seen as being near Novi and old Grand River roads. Three neighborhood shopping centers are seen on Nine Mile road, three on 10 Mile, one on Eleven Mile road, four on Grand River, two on 12 Mile, three on 13 Mile, and two on either side of Walled Lake.

Industrial patterns within the plan generally follow either side of the railroad, from the southern boundary to near the northern boundary, and between the expressway and old Grand River from Haggerty on the east to Beck on the west. Some industrial development is planned along the south side of old Grand River as well, and along the south side of 12 Mile road from Napier to half-way between Wixom and Beck roads.

Research and engineering developments are seen adjacent to sections of the industrial park, serving as a "buffer" between manufacturing and residential areas.

The thoroughfares and streets plan provides for an expressway (I-96), a major arterial controlled access highway (proposed highway along Haggerty now in the works), and a number of basic arterial inter-county roads (generally following the existing mile roads), county secondary roads (many of which do not yet exist), and a string of parkways.

One non-existent secondary road-way as seen in the plan, for example, runs north from Center street at Nine Mile and eventually ties into Clark street near Grand River.

Parks and parkways are seen generally as along streams or low areas and around Walled Lake. Some dozen neighborhood parks are envisioned. In addition, the plan calls for a large number of playgrounds (utilizing proposed school sites) and a scattering of playfields.

Finally, the master plan sees eventual need for 10 fire stations, one police station, three DPW centers, four libraries, and a municipal center.

Commercial Permit Sought

Salem Airport Hassle Revived

One of the hottest issues to flare up in Salem township last year will be revived on October 10 before the township board of appeals.

The controversy rages around Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Shoebridge's plans to convert their private airport on Six Mile road (just west of Chubb road) into a commercial enterprise. Specifically, the Shoebridges are seeking a conditional zoning permit to operate a commercial airport.

They made the same appeal in September of 1966, but the appeals board denied the request on the heels of a barrage of protests from residents living in the vicinity of the airport. Approached again during the summer, the board declined to review the application because no new evidence was presented.

Originally, four basic reasons were cited for denying the permit: the threat to safety imposed by inexperienced trainees flying aircraft, anticipated noise, possible deflation of nearby property values and lack of township control.

With renewed hope and added support, the Shoebridges await the October 10 appearance before the board. They earnestly feel the tide of opposition will be turned to that of acceptance, that people will come to realize that a commercial airport would be a boon to the community.

"When my husband first approached the board," Mrs. Shoebridge said, "we had no idea that there would be such stiff opposition. He was unprepared to answer questions because of lack of information." Now, however, Shoebridge has documented his case and canvassed Salem residents to explain the situation and to obtain about 250 signatures approving of the commercial operation.

"There was very little opposition in his personal contact," Mrs. Shoebridge stated. "A lot of it was educating people to the air age."

Actually, commercial airport status would mean more stringent regulations than presently apply to private airports and hence, bring about safer conditions, Mrs. Shoebridge explained.

Under present regulations, she continued, student pilots are not supposed to land on the Shoebridges' field, but they have. "We have tried to discourage them, but they still do it occasionally. We have reported the ones we could identify. Most people assume planes flying in this area are from our airport."

Under commercial regulations, the Shoebridges say they would have more control over all pilots, daredevils and students. Without clearance, pilots would not be permitted to enter the field's flight pattern, which covers a five-mile radius of the field. Violators would be reported to the Federal Aviation commission for revocation of license and other punitive penalties.

Mrs. Shoebridge doesn't feel noise is a factor, primarily because the planes will be small and make virtually no noise. "Trains on the railroad track (just down from the airport) make much more noise than our planes," she said.

Although the Shoebridges are contemplating expansion of their present facilities, she said the aircraft would remain small, generally the size of their present two aircraft. "They'll be mainly single-engine and small two-engine aircraft."

Regarding deflation of nearby property values, the Shoebridges have a statement from the Michigan Aviation commission (MAC), the Michigan regulatory body, proclaiming that in no instance has an airport been detrimental to a community.

Indeed, the MAC says that industrial and commercial property values increase, that property owners' insurance does not increase and that surrounding residential property values are not affected.

In Mrs. Shoebridge's opinion, the township would have power to regulate the operation of a commercial airport.

School Adopts 'Open' Lunches

An open lunchroom was adopted Monday by Northville board of education with walking students to be permitted to remain at school on a nominal fee basis.

At the recommendation of Acting Superintendent Raymond Spear, the board changed its policy for Amerman school, where all children are walking pupils, to allow children to eat at school if parents wish.

The policy, which will apply to walking students at Moraine and Main Street schools also, is that youngsters who stay regularly at school for lunch will be charged 50 cents a week. Those who eat at school occasionally will pay 15 cents each day.

As the policy was adopted board vice-president Stanley Johnston observed that he could predict a heavy lunchroom load on "get-your-hair done Fridays and during the Christmas shopping spree."

St. John's Seminary Slates Open House

St. John's Provincial Seminary, where young men in Michigan become priests, will hold its annual open house on Sunday, October 8, from 1 to 5 p.m.

The students and the faculty will be on hand to show guests the interior furnishings of all the buildings. They feel that the Catholic people of Michigan, who built and furnished the buildings, should see them.

Located in the Northwest corner of Wayne county, at the junction of Five Mile and Sheldon roads, the seminary is maintained by all five Roman Catholic Dioceses of Michigan: Detroit, Grand Rapids, Marquette, Lansing and Saginaw.

The open house is also an opportunity for faculty and students to meet their neighbors, for many residents of the area drive past wondering what kind of place it is. "This is their chance to find out what inside," officials emphasize.

Nobody 'Named the Face'

We're sorry, sure, that no one was able to identify The Record's first "mystery face" and win a free dinner for two at one of the restaurants in our "Dine Out" column, but we're more concerned about those reports that supporters were going uncooked, children were being neglected, husbands were reporting to work late, and townspeople were walking about the community staring at neighbors. Now that the secret's out, we'll be sure to hear those familiar words, "Oh, I knew who it was" or "Why didn't I guess that?" Actually, most I guessed Mr. Clarke's hair, but not a single person turned in the correct identification of the other three parts of the face. Among those persons named most frequently were Mayor A. M. Allen, Judge Philip Ogilvie, Councilman Delbert Black and Businessman Essie Nirider. We may try it again. Better luck next time.

Reverend James Andrews
Full Salvation Union

Gal. 5:25 "If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit."

For over 1900 years the Holy Spirit has been poured out upon all flesh, Sons and daughters have prophesied... And many other manifestations of the Spirit have been given to "profit with all."

Many have lived in the Spirit during this time without fully realizing it. Others have known in varying degrees that they have truly been living in the Spirit and because of this have been begotten again unto a lively hope; for the same Spirit that raised up Jesus from the dead has also quickened their mortal bodies.

Until the Man-child is born he cannot walk in the Spirit but must be content to live in the Spirit. But as soon as he is born he will begin to walk in the Spirit.

This means that all of God's elect should now begin to make effort to walk in the Spirit. They should not insist on continuing to live in the Spirit when it is God's will for them to walk in the Spirit.

To live in the Spirit means that God is moving in and through us to will and do of His good pleasure.

To walk in the Spirit means that we have awakened to the will of God and are now doing it-"Doers of the word, not hearers only."

For 1900 years the Spirit of God has been overshadowing the Church which is His Body even as the Holy Ghost overshadowed the Virgin Mary. A "holy thing" has been begotten in the Church even as in Mary. And now the time has come for that "holy thing" to be born or made manifest.

The manner in which it is made manifest is for those of God's elect who have been living in the Spirit to begin now to walk in the Spirit.

To do this one must walk into "Full Salvation Union" by consciously recognizing that "This is it," that This is the will of God!

Why not? Why do you object to being gathered together in "one." If this is ever to take place in factual reality it must begin sometime and at some place. What is wrong with "now" and "here"?

God demands that every individual and every group who have lived in the Spirit must now walk in the Spirit by treating with proper respect the Full Salvation Union as begun in 1934.

Those who do not will be gathered into bundles (religious groups) and burned. They will have no part in the first resurrection. But anyone who gives even "a glass of cold water" (i.e. has proper respect) shall not lose his reward.

A step in the right direction would be to write, come or call:

Living in a Vintage Home

It's a Mixture of Love and Work

Country Atmosphere Inside City

Chairs Match Antique Settee

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the fourth of a series of articles on the five Vintage Homes which will be visited Thursday, October 5 during a tour sponsored by the Women's Association of the Northville Presbyterian Church.

Living in a vintage home is both exciting and comfortable, particularly in one as luxurious as the George W. Kohs home, but it also means plenty of time-consuming, hard work.

And the task, though thoroughly enjoyed by the Kohs family, is challenging, too, since the owners must temper their own urges to make it more beautiful and comfortable through improvements with the ever-present responsibility of maintaining the home's historical elegance.

"Without the help of our sons," explains Mrs. Kohs, "the job of repairing and maintaining the house and grounds over the years would have been almost an impossibility."

The Kohs moved into the home at 473 West Cady street some 22 years ago. Neither the house nor the grounds were in fine enough condition to satisfy this family, and immediately they set to work enhancing the structure that had begun to succumb to age. Today the beautifully kept home belies its age of 100 years or more.

The site on which the home stands can be traced back to 1826 when 180 acres of land were deeded to Ira Rice. The land grant was signed by President John Adams. Hiram Robinson purchased the property in 1830. He died shortly thereafter and in 1834 his wife, Julia A. Robinson became the owner. Eventually, the parcel of land was divided among relatives.

Early papers in the Kohs possession mention a barn on the property, but nothing of the home, which the present owners suspect was built by a member of the Ambler family. Best estimates place the house's birth at from 115 to 135 years ago, although the original structure probably was considerably smaller than the present building.

The original part of the house probably included four rooms upstairs and four down, says Mrs. Kohs, who will serve as hostess for the tour of her home on October 5. The original stairway to the second floor has been closed off, and a strikingly beautiful new one installed. It's white woodwork, together with an antique clock at the top of the stairway, is especially attractive.

One of the most pleasant additions made to the home by the Kohs is the country kitchen, which is part of the barn that is attached to the home. From the kitchen proper guests step down into a large, paneled dining area featuring a warm fireplace.

In remodeling part of the barn for living quarters, the Kohs discovered an old bill of sales in the wall. "I don't know how old it is," Mrs. Kohs laughs, "but it mentioned the sale of pigs." Some day, the owners hope to convert the remainder of the barn into a recreation-hobby area.

Actually, the word "barn" today is a misnomer, since its exterior decoration gives it the appearance of part of the house.

The formal dining room features still another fireplace, but this one probably was built with the house.

Louvered doors have replaced the old interior doors, but in conceding this modern improvement Mrs. Kohs still managed to maintain a semblance of Victorian decor by having egg-shaped crystal doorknobs installed on them. The doorknobs are from an old home that once served as a USO on Grosse Isle.

Another example of the Kohs' determination to maintain the home's original elegance was their insistence that the aluminum siding put on the house retain the original appearance of the wood siding. This meant a special aluminum siding that disguises tell-tale corner joints.

In furnishing this lovely home, Mrs. Kohs has combined period antiques with Indian decor with a very pleasing effect. Among the pieces of special interest is a roll-top writing desk with glass cabinet that once was owned by Mr. Kohs' grandfather, a settee with two matching chairs "resurrected" from the attic of Mr. Kohs' parents, and a marble top table that once belonged to Mrs. Kohs' mother.

Like the house itself, the grounds also retain the period atmosphere. Framed by large shade trees, the house looks out over a large side lawn decorated with pretty flower gardens and a large backyard that is really an apple orchard. The 2.1-acre parcel is one of the largest home sites inside the city limits.

News Around Schoolcraft

Tuition increases of $1 per credit hour for resident students and $2 per credit hour for non-residents, effective with the winter semester starting next January 4, were approved by Trustees of Schoolcraft College at their regular meeting Wednesday night, September 20.

The vote was 5-2. Voting for the tuition boost were Trustees Harold Fischer, Plymouth; Sam Hudson, at-large; L. Clarke Oldenburg, Garden City; Jane K. Moehle, at-large; and Bertram Secord, Northville. Voting against were James Boswell, Livonia; and Dr. George Martin, at-large. Paul Mutnick, Clarenceville, was absent from the meeting.

The tuition increase will raise approximately $56,000 in new revenue, Vice President for Business Affairs W. Kenneth Lindner told trustees.

Faced with a $65,000 budget deficit for 1967-68 — largely as the result of salary and fringe benefit increases resulting from negotiations — college officials had recommended tuition hikes of $1 and $1.50 as a means of raising a portion of the new revenue needed to balance the budget.

Trustees instructed Schoolcraft President Dr. Eric J. Bradner to cover the balance of $9,000 of the deficit by making necessary adjustments in the $2,599,776 operating budget adopted by the board earlier this year.

The increase raises tuition from the present $8 per credit hour to $9 for students who live in the college district, and from $12 an hour to $14 for non-residents.

To the average full-time student carrying 15 hours of work a semester, the new rates will mean a jump from the present $240 a year in tuition to $270 for residents, and from $360 to $420 for non-residents.

The increases did not affect a 50 cent per credit-hour student activity fee, which will remain the same. Schoolcraft students pay no other charges than tuition and the activity fee.

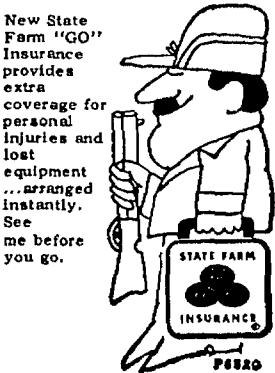

In raising tuition rates which had remained pegged at $8 and $12 since the college opened in 1964, trustees followed what has become a state-wide pattern in higher education this year as more and more colleges feel the pinch of higher operating costs.

Schoolcraft College Student Senate, student governing body, has presented the college with $486 to help pay the cost of a set of outdoor bleachers for spectators at college soccer matches.

Purchase of the bleachers was triggered when Merri Bowl Lanes gave the college a $200 gift for that purpose. The balance of the total cost of $730 will be taken from the college athletic account.

The bleachers provide seating for 200 persons and have been erected along the east sideline of the temporary soccer field on the campus along Haggerty road.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

A Record page one story this week reports the results of a community survey undertaken by the Northville Jaycees.

As a project it deserves high praise. Both the Jaycees and the citizens who cooperated by returning questionnaires should be commended (a 31 per cent return was recorded).

Two sheets of questions were sent out to 1725 residents in all sections of the community. One sheet called for a rating of community services and facilities; the second concerned itself chiefly with the business district - parking, traffic, shopping facilities and community recreation.

All of the answers were tabulated and, in addition, many of the citizens polled took time to elaborate. In their tabulation the Jaycees attempted to capsule all opinions. But they included the full text of all answers in the reports turned over to the council.

The pile of papers weighs several pounds and takes hours to read and evaluate.

The project, which had the support and encouragement of the city council, will fall short of success unless something happens now that the Jaycees have deposited the paperwork in the laps of the council.

Too frequently citizen reports and recommendations receive a proper "well done", but little serious consideration or subsequent action. Such reports frequently become dust-gatherers.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff has indicated this won't happen with the Jaycee survey. He's read it thoroughly and intends to make a report of the findings to the council.

Lengthy as it is, the full survey - especially written comments - should be reviewed by each councilmember.

On the whole, the comments are constructive. Some, of course, are completely negative, others perhaps overly complimentary; in between, however, there runs a pattern designed by repetition that can be classified as public opinion.

From it a small action committee (appointed by the council and having Jaycee representation) could easily recommend priorities for initiating the most practical suggestions or correcting the most glaring problems.

In some instances a wait for committee action is not necessary. Manager Ollendorff noted that water pressure complaints were recorded by some residents. He'll check these out and determine the cause immediately.

Certainly, the Jaycees deserve "thanks" for their community self-appraisal survey. But in addition they should be given the further assignment of helping to do something with the survey.

Final touches are being made to a report by the city manager and Recreation Director Bob Prom for use of the fish hatchery property. After council approval it will be forwarded to the proper federal agency for consideration of the city's bid to acquire the property and buildings on the south side of Seven Mile road.

Meanwhile, the property still belongs to the federal government.

Police Chief Sam Elkins thinks it's important for area parents and youngsters to be aware of this.

Instances of vandalism - breaking windows, entering the building, etc., - will be reported to federal authorities for disposition.

As everyone knows, it isn't easy to beat a federal rap.

State Farm Agent Paul Folino says they're "standing in line" to live in Northville. Paul reports that a new-comer family had been waiting all summer to find a home to purchase in Northville. "While they looked for a house here they purchased a house trailer and camped in various parks", Folino stated.

"Put on a few pounds," she exclaimed. "Just what are those rolls around your middle? Money belts?"

That remark was uncalled for, and after I unloaded a few appropriate rejoinders I rang up one of the old grads who shared with me the "black sheep" role at Ann Arbor.

Yah, that's right, I got this letter asking me to come over for the reunion. Didn't you get one?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is part of a letter written to this newspaper by Mrs. Roger F. Soucy, who with her husband and five children, left Northville this past summer to live two years in Africa where Mr. Soucy is serving as a U.S. sponsored teacher. Here he records first impressions of Africa.

During the last two weeks of classes, we could sense a growing tension and unrest. All the members, having heard so much of East Africa, were getting more eager to get at this great opportunity and task awaiting us. Finally after more preparations, the day arrived for our departure.

We left the apartment about 1 p.m., aboard five buses, for Kennedy International Airport. This was August 17. We were due to leave, to take-off, at 4 p.m. We waited, 35 tutors, 26 wives and approximately 70 children, for three hours until we finally flew at 7 p.m.

As we flew East we were constantly losing time. So, while the whole flight was 22 hours long, we passed 29 hours, local time to local time. We flew from New York to Dakar, Senegal to Robertsfield, Liberia to Entebbe, Uganda to Dar-es-Salaam, Tanzania to Nairobi, Kenya. By the time we arrived at Nairobi all the Kenya families were acting like sleep-walkers - about 12:30 in the morning, Friday the 19th.

We spent three days at a hotel in Nairobi, resting. The tutors had some meetings with the Minister of Education. The families roamed around the city trying not to get lost. One afternoon we went to the Nairobi Game Park as guests of the Minister of Education.

We went in a large school bus on dirt roads in the park. Every now and again we would see some animal off in the field and the guide would point out in that direction. The driver would shift gears and drive off into the field, bumping and jogging along. We were able to get within 20 feet to 30 feet away from ostriches, gazelles, wildebeest and zebra. As long as the people inside the bus were almost silent, we could go very close. The giraffes we saw turned tail and walked away at about 40 feet to 50 feet.

We were extremely fortunate on this our first trip, to see a pride of lions sitting under a tree and in some bushes. Again we drove to within 50 feet of the group. They were all very calmly resting there until someone in another car made a loud noise. Then three of the lions started and walked away a bit, but not far. We saw why they were reluctant to move off when one big male lifted, in his mouth, what looked like the well eaten rib cage of an animal about the size of a large gazelle or small zebra. There was no fur that we could see so there was no telling for sure. I was completely awed at the sights we saw that day. Here we were, driving through the fields very close to animals that we usually see behind bars or in back of a large moat at the zoo. The animals were paying so little attention to us that we may as well not have been there. It made me feel a little like an intruder, but not a very important one.

After our stay at the hotel in Nairobi, we moved people and parcels to the "compound" at Kenyatta College. At least six families did. Four families were bound for other teacher training colleges "up country". They stayed on for a couple more days. At Kenyatta, as we came to each house, we erupted from the bus to carry that particular family's goods into their house. Lined up in front of each house was from 6 to 12 Africans waiting to be hired as houseboys, shamba workers or any little thing your heart desired, I guess. Most knew only a few words of English and few were hired that day. The second day most families hired someone just so they could stop answering the door. So far I'd say that our houseboy, a man of 32, is a very hard worker, very willing to please, and puts me to shame as far as keeping at the housework is concerned. He washes, irons, cleans and waxes the floors, washes dishes, windows and then keeps busy in the house or yard. So far he has done no cooking and I think I'll continue doing it. I have to do something. I have made curtains for all but two windows.

The houses that we live in here at Kenyatta are mostly duplexes, one floor, no basements. We live in a three bedroom house. There are some two bedrooms. We have a fair sized kitchen and a living-dining room. There is a bathroom arrangement that we like very much. One very small room has the toilet and another larger room has the bathtub and sink. We have a small back yard and at the rear of the yard servant's quarters are provided. (It seems that every house has a servant or two.) The back yard has grass, a Flame tree, a Pepper tree, some Frangipani (spelled phonetically) bushes, and several tomato plants. Other than that we haven't added anything new since we arrived.

The money used here is pounds, shillings and cents. In Kenya 1 pound equals 20 shillings; 1 pound equals $2.80 American money; 1 shilling equals 100 cents; 1 shilling equals $0.14 American; and 1 cent equals $0.014 American.

Most business is done using shillings, only very expensive items are sold in pounds. By the time I write again I will try to get together a list of some items - both expensive and inexpensive - as comparing prices. As a general rule, manufactured goods are more expensive since most are imported. Most local goods are reasonably priced. Fruits and vegetables are quite inexpensive - except apples, which I miss very much. Instead we have been eating much pineapple. Here in Nairobi I pay one shilling for a large, luscious pineapple.

Now I think that I have rambled on long enough. There will be more to tell another time when we have had more East African adventures. Until the next episode our address will be:

joining hands with the play, "Pantagleize," written by Michel de Ghelderode.

But this wedding was hardly harmonious, not if harmony implies a lack of discordant noise as it usually does. "Pantagleize" was a raucous, garish affair that shocked the senses and at the same time struck the funny bone. This was the way it was at the Lydia Mendelssohn theatre on the University of Michigan campus.

For Pantagleize, although written in 1929, is more than avant garde theatre; it is theatrical. There is a combining of categorical types. There is music to suggest a musical, pathos to suggest drama, incongruity to suggest comedy, movement to suggest a puppet show, and blatant sound effects to suggest a modernistic recording studio.

Despite the disparate elements, the play came off as a whole, thanks to the APA players and deGhelderode. Like other avant garde plays, Pantagleize is more thematic than narrative. The pieces do not fit nicely together. Rather, various play elements echo the same theme. Put simply, it is protest. Always, there is protest, sometimes subtle, more often loud, but nonetheless caustic.

de Ghelderode. Who's he, you ask. A Belgian playwright whose plays are seldom performed in this country, one who fashioned his searing dramas after Peter Brueghel's paintings, which are quaintly rustic, yet starkly cold with biting satire. This was Pantagleize, to a 'T', despite the fact that it is quite unlike de Ghelderode's other plays.

Basically, the story centers around Pantagleize, the innocent who has reached the crucial age of 40. He looks back over his life, wondering still what is his destiny. The day we see him - May 1 - is an extraordinary day. It is Pantagleize day of destiny, when, through pure chance he distinguishes himself by simply uttering the words, "What a lovely day."

The statement touches off a revolution and brings Pantagleize fame, but also death before a firing squad. Ellis Rabb, prime mover of the APA company, stirs the imagination with his performance as Pantagleize, the soft spoken, obtuse, yet charming victim of a cancerous society.

Pantagleize's right hand man is Bamboola, played by Reuben Green. Green brings to the part a show of theatrics as he whirls through the antics of a not-quite-civilized African, who clings to the mystic ritual of the tribe. He worships the sun, and appropriately on this day, May 1, the day of the revolution, there is an eclipse that symbolizes the darkness of men's intentions and the beginning of the revolution.

Pantagleize and Bamboola are grotesques, persons distorted to represent types in our society, rather than characters in the usual mold. Most distinctive of the lot is Joseph Bird as the General, who plays to the hilt de Ghelderode's conception of the military man as a bungling buffoon addicted to blind militarism.

Perhaps the most startling aspect of the play is the setting, and particularly, a magnificent wall of newspapers in the background. The newspapers serve as a sardonic reminder that society, man, is addicted to ephemeral things, the happenings, if you please. They are recurring, but never entirely productive of anything that would make man better for having read them. His nature remains the same and we plod through life making the same mistakes, looking for the better life that will never come.

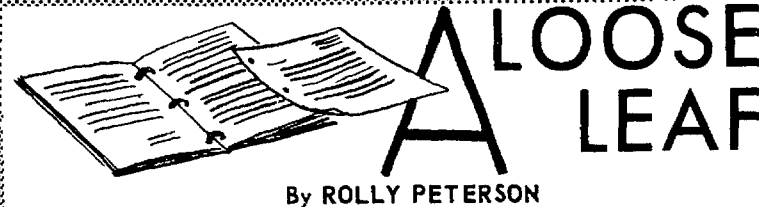

Pantagleize, as played by Rabb, is the one sincere, honest individual, the hope for a better life. But he is beyond the pale of a degenerated society. This is the message the APA makes indelibly clear in an auspicious first play of the season that can be seen through October 1.

Complete theatre, it's called, when the play and players mate happily on stage. Such a marriage came to pass last week when the APA Repertory actors opened their 1967-68 season by

The first thing a new dieter learns is that what's good to eat is bad.

The trouble with a person who has the gift of gab is that he never wraps it up.

An optimist is a husband who lets his wife speak first and expects his turn will come.

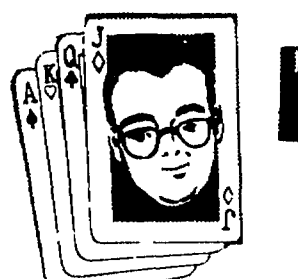

The safest remark to make when a proud father shows photos of his new offspring is, "Now, there's a baby!"

Memory dims with age, which is why old folks forget how silly they were in their teens.

The main curse of drinking is that it makes so many drinkers think they can sing.

Men's clothing prices are up, which doesn't suit dad at all.

I wouldn't believe it yet if the letter wasn't resting on my desk, right there in black and white to remind me: my alma mater over in Ann Arbor actually wants me to come back for a reunion.

"Imagine, just imagine," I told my wife, "those same guys who smothered me with work, who chuckled when I faltered, and who finally but reluctantly handed me a diploma now want me to return and mingle with fellow grads and reminisce over 'the good ol' days.'"

She laughed, too, recalling how anxious they were to get rid of me. "Ten years can do a lot to dull their memory," she reasoned. "You aren't thinking of going, are you?" she asked. "It won't be the same you know. Everyone will be fat and bald and different."

Yah, that's right, I got this letter asking me to come over for the reunion. Didn't you get one?

"They wouldn't dare send one. Besides, they don't know where I live. It takes a couple years for one of their alumni requests for donations to catch up to me. Don't tell me you're going? Wave the banners and warble the old chants?"

Well, I thought it might be nice to meet the old gang and maybe tip a few.

"Why, you old Babbitt, you. I never figured they'd take you in like that. What's happened to the old camarade, 'all for one and nothing for them.' Didya forget the grilling they gave us for driving that wreck of yours through the Diagonal?"

Oh, I said, not wanting to admit I'd forgotten. We had it coming. We might have collapsed the Engineering Arch, ruined forever that beautiful girl-watching perch.

"You're getting old, buddy, really senile. Bet you're fat, too."

Twice in one day. Three times you're out, so I rang off telling him I didn't think I'd go.

But the letter kept nagging me, forcing me to dig out some Ann Arbor pictures of years past. Yep, there I was, my ol' Chevy and the Diagonal. Beautiful. They were great days, I thought. Imagine, they want me to come back. Wouldn't it be nice....and I dozed off.

"Daddy," one of my flock shouted me to my senses, "is that you?" She pointed to the wreck and me. Yes, dear, that's me.

"Boy, you sure were skinny."

Three strikes and you're out. I fanned. There'll be no reunion this year, that's for sure.

It's a "Cashless" Society

BABSON PARK, Mass. Proof of our speedy progress toward a "cashless" society may be found in the fact that an estimated 200 million credit cards are now outstanding in this country. But the thing a tremendous number of people fail to understand is that these small rectangular tokens, as they more and more take the place of cash, should be cared for as carefully as if they were actual money.

When credit cards were in their infancy, most people considered them a "convenience" which had the flavor of a gadget. They had their first big surge in the service-station industry, and even today about half the cards outstanding have been issued by oil companies. Incredible numbers of such cards are misappropriated by relatives or acquaintances, or stolen by strangers. That is why oil firms keep insisting that registration numbers be noted on all charge tabs.

Analysts of the credit scene expect that during 1967 a huge 10% of circulating cards will be lost or stolen, and that the resulting fraudulent usage may well go as high as $40 million. The sad part is that card holders who are very careful with their pocket cash are almost perversely careless about their credit identifications. This makes it easy for the dishonest...so freely are the cards accepted in return for cash, goods, and services.

Since, after all, the trend toward a cashless consumer economy is becoming stronger all the time, moves are being made to face the realities of this fact. Issuers of credit cards would like to see laws passed that would establish clear-cut punishment for those misusing these commercial instruments of trade. Also sought are measures that would hold down the liability of victims whose cards are stolen and used.

CARD HOLDERS must realize that losing their cards can cost them a lot of money. The responsibility of stolen-card usage has been shunted through many courts, and some of the victimized have been hard hit. To protect the innocent, a number of states have passed laws that place a ceiling on the amount of liability that can be charged against a person whose stolen card has been used to run up bills on his accounts. Illinois recently put a $75 top on such responsibility, with the proviso—as in most other instances—that the issuing firm be immediately notified if a card is lost, stolen, or even misplaced.

There are operating nowadays, especially in some of the larger cities, gangs specializing in the theft and counterfeiting of cards. These hoodlums — if not the general buying public — are fully aware of the fact that the plastic counters are to an increasing degree the equivalent of cash...and big cash, at that. Some of the issuing concerns are trying to fight these rings and other misappropriators in a variety of ways. Diners' Club, for example, has requested that any establishment asked to honor one of its cards for as much as $50 call its New York office for a check on the customer's credit rating and identification. If the establishment ignores this stipulation, it is held liable for any loss.

Holders of credit cards will be wise to keep careful tabs on them, and to notify the issuer immediately if one disappears. Even though a credit-card holder may be entirely unaware of any misuse of his charge tab, and hence innocent, he can become involved in legal entanglements that are embarrassing in time and money. American Express predicts that some 46,000 of its 2 million cards will be lost this year alone, and that many victims will not find out about their loss until they are billed for merchandise or services they knew nothing about. Hence, once again, let consumers realize that their credit cards are exactly as valuable as cash, and they should be protected as cautiously.

Citizens Combat Pollution

LANSING—Debris. Pollution. Stagnation. Stench. These steps rapidly turn beautiful inland lakes and rivers into smelly, unsightly eyesores. Communities once proud of their attractive waterfronts now see all sorts of rubbish crowd out green and wooded shoreline. Sparkling blue water becomes sluggish and brown.

But forward-looking communities can deal with such conditions. Public-spirited citizens can restore and maintain original beauty through community cooperation.

The city of Owosso, using local volunteer labor, has completed now its second annual cleanup of 3 1/2 miles of Shiawassee River shoreline.

An editorial in the Owosso Argus-Press on May 7, 1965, pointed out that the city's "Cleanup Week" might include improving the appearance of the Shiawassee River.

Nothing was done that year, but in July of 1966 the Shiawassee River association proposed a community-wide river cleanup. The city proclaimed July 30-31 Owosso "River Days" and under the leadership of local attorney James S. Minor, citizens rolled up their sleeves.

Businesses and the Argus-Press promoted the project throughout the month, and more than 500 persons turned out to restore charm and cleanliness to the river and shoreline.

The city supplied a bulldozer to deepen the river and level riverbed "humps." City and privately-owned trucks were used to haul away junk and debris. Refreshments and food were furnished to workers by residents living along the river. Teenage workers outnumbered adults. Crews cleared more than a mile of riverbank as the first step toward building a riverside walkway from the east city limits to downtown.

Participation was strong again this year. Following last year's turnout there was speculation that citizens would lose interest in future cleanups. However, about 150 people showed up August 12-13 to continue the improvement program.

"We had fewer people this year, but we didn't need as many," Minor commented. "We got twice as much junk from the river last year, and it appears that Owosso residents have learned not to use the river as a dumping ground."

The city has increased enforcement of anti-litter laws. Police and residents have become highly sensitive to offenders throwing trash into the water. Benefits of waterfront improvement are numerous. Restoration of natural beauty, water conservation, increased property values and expansion of community park and recreation facilities can result.

Resort owners along Lake Michigan can expect next year's alewife problem to be as bad as this year, according to Dr. Wayne Tody, chief of the Michigan Fishery Division, Department of Conservation.

In 1967, miles of sandy beaches were covered with dead alewife, an almost useless fish about the size of herring.

Most effective control over exploding alewife population is introducing millions of coho smelts (Pacific salmon) to the Great Lakes. Salmon find alewife tasty meals upon which to multiply, Dr. Tody points out.

However, at the rate Michigan is producing the smelts control may never be reached. Three to four million smelts can be hatched each year under present facilities, he notes.

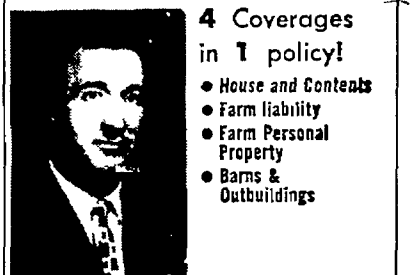

Long-term goals call for 45 million smelts; 30 million from hatcheries and 15 million from natural hatching in Michigan streams.

The problem is financing. Some Federal funds are available on a match-money basis, but the entire project is estimated at $29,500,000. The lion's share would have to be financed with state monies since there is a ceiling on Federal participation.

If financing were made available this fiscal year, it would still be 1975 before full effects of the project would be felt, Dr. Tody said.

The solution to the problem rests with the people. Legislators respond to constituents. If the people wish to eliminate alewife littering beaches, clogging water intake lines and depressing more desirable species of fish, they must make their wishes known.

Watershed Group Discusses Goals

The Huron River Watershed council met Thursday in Ann Arbor to discuss water use and resource management goals for the Huron River watershed.

Goals of the council pertain to waste water disposal, storm water run-off and surface drainage, community water supply, recreation, irrigation and industrial water use, conservation of natural resources and wildlife, flooding and low flows, flood plain control and water quality standards.

Local area representatives include:

Wixom — R. W. Lahti, and Howard Coe, alternate.

South Lyon — Robert Pollock, and Anna Snell, alternate.

Green Oak — Louis Driver.

Northfield — Peter S. Kelley, and George Armstrong, alternate.

The council is composed of representatives of those counties, cities, villages and townships within the watershed that wish to join.

The city supplied a bulldozer to deepen the river and level riverbed "humps." City and privately-owned trucks were used to haul away junk and debris. Refreshments and food were furnished to workers by residents living along the river. Teenage workers outnumbered adults. Crews cleared more than a mile of riverbank as the first step toward building a riverside walkway from the east city limits to downtown.

Participation was strong again this year. Following last year's turnout there was speculation that citizens would lose interest in future cleanups. However, about 150 people showed up August 12-13 to continue the improvement program.

"We had fewer people this year, but we didn't need as many," Minor commented. "We got twice as much junk from the river last year, and it appears that Owosso residents have learned not to use the river as a dumping ground."

The city has increased enforcement of anti-litter laws. Police and residents have become highly sensitive to offenders throwing trash into the water. Benefits of waterfront improvement are numerous. Restoration of natural beauty, water conservation, increased

Can You Top These?

MONSTERS—First there was that giant lily last week, now this week the Record-News photographer had to sneak up on two more home-grown monsters. "It's a regular man-eater," laughs Mrs. George Whitesell, 16931 Franklin road, in describing this single tomato plant in her back yard that has lost a few branches because her children use it as a hiding place. And over at Perry Allen's place, 8639 Napier, a back-breaking pumpkin, one of the "smaller ones" in a patch, tipped the bathroom scales at nearly 150-pounds. There's no use weighing one of the bigger ones, he explained as he staggered to get this one on the scales. "I absolutely refuse to snap another picture until I've got more insurance," our photographer asserts. "Why, can you imagine the size of the worms that must feed on those monsters?"

ZIP Kits on The Way

Northville letter carriers have started delivery of 3,000 ZIP-A-LIST kits to every householder in the area.

Postmaster John Steimel urges all residents to use the postal cards contained in the kits to obtain the ZIP Codes needed for addresses in their personal mailing lists. Each household will receive eight cards with spaces for the addresses to be "zipped" by the post office and for the return address.

No postage is needed, Postmaster Steimel said.

The project is part of Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien's program to make ZIP Codes more accessible to the mailing public and thereby increase the use of the codes in mailing addresses.

In addition to the kit, which is folded like a closed accordion, a separate card is being delivered to remind residents of the local ZIP Code number.

The Lee Sizemores

Salem Couple Feted as Foster Parents

"The only unhappy moments are when we have to say good-bye, and even then we're glad for the children because they are being adopted," Lee Sizemore of Salem was speaking of the three years that he and his wife, Evelyn, have been foster parents for Michigan Children's Aid.

The Sizemores were selected as Foster Parents of the Year by the society in Ann Arbor. They were presented with a plaque and certificate in recognition of their service to children at a picnic at the Dexter Huron park on Sunday.

"It was all a big surprise to us," Mrs. Sizemore beamed. "I had wondered why the society made such a point of being sure we were going to be there, but I never thought of this."

She said she and her husband had cared for seven or eight children since becoming licensed foster parents in 1963. Presently, they are caring for a four-year-old blind boy who has lived with them since he was 14 months old.

What's the Sizemore's motive, especially in view of the fact they have five children, age 13 to 19, of their own? Love. "My wife had worked for nine years as a nurse's aid at the Northville State hospital and had seen so many little ones in need of care that she just wanted to help in this way and so did I."

An employee of Chrysler corporation since 1942, Sizemore is also pastor of the Bethlehem Temple church, which he helped to build five years ago about a half block from the Sizemore home.

The Sizemores, who have lived in Salem since 1946, have taken an active part in community activities. Mrs. Sizemore was elected secretary of the Sayre PT-A last spring but resigned because of an injury incurred in a automobile accident.

The foster children come from diverse cultural backgrounds and are prepared by the Salem couple for placement in adoptive homes.

"It seems we seldom have them more than a few months before they are adopted," Sizemore remarked with a mixture of pleasure and sadness.
