HOUSE GUTTED - Still tasting smoke from a series of grass fires this past week, Northville firemen joined the Salem department Tuesday morning in battling a blaze that gutted a 10-room frame farmhouse at 53853 West Eight Mile road just west of Chubb. The lone occupant of the house, owned by Lynn Hicks, was away at work when the fire started—apparently sparked by a defective heating stove.

Retirement Village Zoning Switched Again

Township Pulls Double Reverse

The end was written Tuesday night to what must be the longest chapter in the history of rezoning actions taken by Northville township.

Like all good stories it had a surprise ending. A new twist was added, actually the completion of a "double reverse".

By a 3-2 vote the Northville township board over-ruled a recommendation by the planning commission to change the zoning designation of a Seven Mile road parcel from the now, non-existent RM zoning to RM-2.

Instead the board rezoned the site RM-1, a designation that permits one and two-level multiple dwellings but is more restrictive in the number of units permitted per acre than the old RM and new RM-2 classifications.

Specifically, the property is part of a parcel owned by Dr. W. E. Gizynski on Seven Mile road near Marilyn where a professional office-nursing home-retirement village complex is planned. The portion rezoned RM-1 would contain the retirement village units.

The development has been on and off the agendas of the township board and planning commission for more than two years. It reached what appeared to be its climax last March when the planning commission recommended holding up RM zoning until a new designation (now RM-1) could be established to provide for such developments.

At that time the township board reversed the recommendation of its planning commission and granted the RM zoning.

Since then the planners have adopted RM-1 and RM-2 zoning designations. The latter is identical to the old RM, while RM-1 is more restrictive.

In recent months the planners have held new public hearings considering both RM-1 and RM-2 zoning for the site. Attorney James Littell, representing the developer, has stated that the RM-2 zoning is needed to make the project economically feasible.

Tuesday night the board took an action that was opposite of their reversal of last spring. At that time the board granted multiple zoning against the wishes of planners; this week the board took a position more restrictive than recommended by planners.

Trustees Thomas Armstrong and Bernard Baldwin argued against the RM-2 recommendation. Baldwin is a member of the planning commission, but he was absent when that body took its latest action. Surprisingly, they were joined by Treasurer A. M. Lawrence in passing the RM-1 zoning. Clerk Eleanor Hammond and Trustee Gumar Stromberg dissented. Supervisor R. D. Merriam votes only in case of ties. Continued on Page 8-A

Hail Hastings

Hastings, a community about the size of Northville and located north of Battle Creek and west of Lansing, will exchange mayors with Northville in this year's Michigan Week celebration.

Announcement of the draw was made by Clerk Martha Milne Monday night.

Gain Lansing Hearing Today

School Seeks Credit For Tax-Free Land

A unique proposal asking for credit on tax-free property in Northville township, which could mean up to $150,000 more in state aid for Northville school district, will be presented to state lawmakers this afternoon.

Northville school administrators are scheduled to present the proposal to the House of Representatives education committee at a Lansing hearing at 3 p.m.

Officials of the Wayne county school district voiced interest in the proposal Tuesday and offered assistance in engineering an amendment to the state aid bill to incorporate the proposal, which they called "first of its kind" suggested in Michigan.

Northville's Representative Louis Schmidt when asked for help Tuesday afternoon immediately arranged for the hearing. Clifford Smart, who represents that portion of Northville in Oakland county, is chairman of the House education committee.

Basically, the proposal suggests that the state aid formula, upon which aid to Northville and other districts in Michigan is based, be amended so that those districts—like Northville—are not "penalized" for federal, state, county and city tax-free property.

It asks that the state aid formula involving "deductible millage" be multiplied by the state equalized valuation of the district only after the SEV is reduced by the amount of the equalized valuation of non-taxable property.

According to Business Manager Earl Busard, who came up with the proposal, and Superintendent Raymond Spear, nearly 30-percent of Northville township property is non-taxable since it houses state, county or City of Detroit institutions. They estimate the equalized valuation of these properties at between $20 and $30 million.

"If you include non-taxable properties," they point out, "the school district's SEV would be closer to $70 million. Without it, we estimate the district's valuation this year will be about $48 million—about $5 million more than last year."

Based on the estimated $5-million increase and despite a projected increase in student enrollment, the existing state aid "penalty clause" would result in about $10,000 less than was received in state aid this year.

"It's unfair. Employees living on tax-free property send their children to our schools, yet we receive no property tax support from the institutions for which they work. And when the SEV is increased, we lose state aid."

They said about 30 children of people living on or working at these institutions attend Northville schools.

Under the present state aid formula and based upon an estimated $48 SEV, the district would receive $556,280 next year in state aid. It received $567,150 this year.

Thirteen Seek 3 Novi Seats

Thirteen candidates, including two incumbents, will seek three council seats in the Novi village election Monday.

Contestants include Village President Philip Anderson, a councilman since the community's incorporation in 1958, and recently appointed Councilman Raymond Evans, and two former council members, Miss Eugenie Choquet and Donald Young.

Councilman Donald Fuller is not seeking re-election.

Other candidates are: James Cherfoli, William Duey, Olen Green, Gilbert Henderson, Robert Ollis, Dave Pink, Edwin Presnell, Richard Ratcliffe, and C. A. Smith.

Youths to Report Job Experiences

Five Northville high school young people will report on their vocational work experiences at the Northville high school P-TA program at 8 p.m. tonight in the high school cafeteria.

John Hyde, co-op coordinator for vocational work experience for the high school, will conduct the program.

Participating members who will speak are Debbie Dailey, dental office employee in Plymouth for Dr. Gary Hall; Claire Wilson, employee in Northville City Manager Frank Ollendorff's office; Nancy Davis, employee in Ken Rathert's insurance office; Mike Schuitz, assistant to chef at Edgewood country club, Commerce Lake; and Randy Burnett, employee at Freydl's men's clothing store.

There will be a question-and-answer period at the completion of the program. Refreshments will be served afterward.

John G. Harper, P-TA president, urges all parents of high school students to hear this program.

Novi Youth Drops Dead On Cage Court

"A tremendously positive leader at school, he always gave 110-percent of himself."

Those were the words of Novi High School Principal Gerald Hartman Tuesday as he described 16-year-old Pat Haley, who collapsed and died on Novi's gymnasium floor during basketball practice late Monday afternoon.

Head Coach James Ladd and Hartman administered first aid on the scene, but the boy—class president for the past three years—was pronounced dead minutes later by Dr. Lyle Fettig, acting for the County Coroner's office.

An autopsy was to be performed Tuesday.

"The boys were running through some plays," said Superintendent Tom Dale. He fell down, but got right back up and then collapsed a short time later."

Pat was practicing with other members of the varsity team in preparation for tomorrow's tournament game at Eastern Michigan university. According to Novi police, the boy apparently had been working out with weights in the past weeks and that and other strenuous activity may have caused his collapse.

Classes were to be dismissed today (Thursday) to permit teachers and students to attend funeral services at Our Lady of Victory Church, Northville, beginning at 11 a.m. Rosary was said at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday evening. Burial will be in Oakland Hills cemetery, Novi.

The high school flag was lowered to half-mast Tuesday, and students and teachers paused for a minute of silent prayer after Gary Boyer, a fellow student, announced the boy's death to the student body.

Pat's family had just moved from Novi to Southfield, and he hoped to remain here with another family in order to graduate with Novi's first senior class next year.

He helped his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Haley, move Friday from 44992 Grand River to 28777 Marshall in Southfield. Besides his parents, he is survived by sisters Kathleen 18, Kellie 12, Kerrie 9, Colleen 7 and Mary Maureen 4, and brother Michael 19.

In addition to being class president during his junior, sophomore and freshman years, Pat participated in football, basketball and baseball, was a member of the science and French clubs, and took part in the school play this past fall.

At the age of 12, Pat served as a page boy for the Michigan State Legislature. He spent most of each week at Lansing, traveling home on weekends, but still managing to maintain nearly an all-A average at Novi.

He was one of 10 boys in the state selected to serve in the capitol. And when at Lansing, he was popular, earning the title, "Haley's Comet", from lawmakers.

Pallbearers for today's funeral, arranged by Harbin's Funeral Home of Novi, will be six fellow students: Gary Boyer, Lev Tafrahan, John VanWagoner, Bill Bailey, Lee Snow and Paul Faulkner.

City Budget Analysis

It's Time for Hard Look

After its brief regular meeting Monday night the Northville city council excused the public and press and huddled behind closed doors reportedly to discuss several subjects, including:

- 1-The budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1;
- 2-Special assessment procedures;
- 3-Police pay requests.

Actually, the subjects are closely allied. The amount of money needed in the general fund for street improvements or salaries depends directly upon what percentage of an improvement is assessed against abutting property owners.

Right now the city is entangled in a dual policy of 100 per cent assessment in "new" city areas and 25 per cent in "old" areas.

There's good reason to believe that this council will toss out the double-standard policy and come up with a compromise that treats all property owners alike, regardless of the section in which they reside.

But the real concern for the present council would seem to be its handling of the 1968-69 budget.

Whether they like to admit it or not, the city's budget-makers (the manager and councilmembers) have bungled the last two budgets.

They can point to a number of excuses, like lost track revenues, a strike that prolonged improvements and estimates that fell short of actual costs of improvements.

But the test of a well-planned budget is its ability to meet such challenges and provide a contingency fund that may be used for secondary needs, if primary projects are completed within estimates.

Instead, the city of Northville has struggled through its most austere program of spending for two consecutive years. Yet despite cutbacks, that sometimes placed the council in the position of a man who had just ordered a dollar lunch and discovered he had 99 cents in his pocket, the city has been forced to borrow money for two years in order to meet even its austere program obligations.

Notably, it's the first time in the 12-year history of the city that it has found itself broke—forced to spend next year's income.

The fact that it has happened twice in a row should signal a warning to councilmembers. It's difficult to play catch-up.

It's a safe bet that the present council will treat budget study sessions less casually than in the past. Certainly, there won't be boasting of a reduced millage rate in any pre-budget public announcements.

More likely, the 9.25 millage rate will be increased a mill or two and the estimated income from parimutuel betting at Northville Downs will be more conservative.

More for Dollar In 4-Quarter Year

EDITOR'S NOTE - Following is the fifth of a series of articles on the year-round school concept, which currently is receiving a good deal of attention in Michigan as school districts face critical financial problems that ultimately can affect the education of children.

While the four-quarter, year-round school calendar is frequently discussed as a means of financial efficiency, it often is mentioned as promising a means of actual cost reduction.

Reports and studies on the plan draw a complicated picture that grows more intricate when the many great socio-economic differences among local school districts are considered.

A loose outline of main points in current discussions can be drawn. Several districts on the calendar earlier in this century dropped it for economy reasons during the depression.

Supporters argue that conditions today are so vastly different that the 1930's offer no valid base for reference. The contention is that during severe social trauma, such as the depression, or World War Two, long range goals such as improvement of plants, programs and instruction are dropped in favor of the immediate, pressing objective of survival.

They suggest that when the first Sputnik soared into space the concern and interest about schools and education in America soared with it. Resulting and continuing efforts to improve the schools, along with increasing numbers of school-age children force the discussion into these ground rules: Not are we going to spend more, we are, but how can we get the highest quality school experience for the smallest increase in expenditures?

For example, several reports on the four-quarter calendar make the assumption that teachers' salaries are going to go higher, that our own needs and desires will be an influence in changing teaching into a full-time profession with financial rewards to attract and hold more persons having higher and special abilities.

The four-quarter calendar is then described as having financial advantages in getting more out of the additional dollars that will be spent.

One report by the U.S. Bureau of Census includes the following figures that indicate a well-established trend to support the argument the nation is and will continue to spend more for education.

Fiscal Year	Total Public School Expenditures In Constant 1960 Dollars
	Per Pupil	Per Capita
1920	$98.80	$15.28
1940	222.37	$37.68
1950	321.16	$48.72
1960	472.17	$87.07

Considering that salaries for teachers comprise the lion's share of operating budgets, and that the great rise in teachers' salaries came after 1960, it is safe to assume that the trend continues.

One report from the Business Research center at the University of Toledo states that a four-quarter year-round calendar provides a 10-percent savings in costs for teacher salaries while granting 20-percent increase in teachers' salaries. The reduction is accomplished through having fewer, higher paid teachers who teach all four quarters. Only 75% of the total student enrollment attends school during any one quarter, which permits reducing the teaching staff by 25%, according to the report.

Teachers' Contracts	Number of Teachers	Average Salary	Total Payroll
Traditional	100	$6,000	$600,000
Four-Quarter	75	$7,200	$540,000

The same report suggests a four-quarter year-round calendar that retains close ties with the present calendar, by keeping schools closed during the month of July to protect the summer vacation period.

Quarter	Start	Finish

2	Oct. 24	Jan. 22

Town Hall Talk Scheduled Today

Cindy Adams

Cindy Adams, who has achieved success as a writer, actress and model, will discuss "Woman's Role - East and West" in the fourth Northville Town Hall lecture of the current season at 11 a.m. Thursday, March 21, at the P & A Theatre.

Presently an American Broadcasting company correspondent, Mrs. Adams gained reputation as a writer after interviewing President Sukarno and being invited to write the now-famous "Sukarno, An Autobiography as told to Cindy Adams." She revisited Indonesia in 1966 to gather additional material for a second book.

The only woman speaker on the 1967-8 TH series, the vivacious Mrs. Adams' appearance at the lecture and celebrity luncheon following has been anticipated as a highlight of the season. The luncheon again this month will be held at the Mayflower house in Plymouth.

Luncheon reservations must be sent to Northville Town Hall, Box 93, not later than March 15. Mrs. Duane Butler, luncheon chairman, reminds ticket holders. Last month's luncheon was a sell-out, she adds, suggesting that anyone interested in attending should send her check for $3.75 now.

Mrs. Adams, before turning to a fulltime writing career in 1957, was a model, winning 57 beauty titles and appearing on the front covers of several leading magazines. Following a Broadway debut with Bert Lahr, she also appeared in a number of movies and on her own local radio show.

A world traveler, she has interviewed the Empress of Iran, Prime Minister Nehru, Soroya, the king and queen of Thailand and, in the United States, President Eisenhower, Adlai Stevenson, John Wayne and Richard Burton. It was in 1961 on a cultural exchange unit trip to Southeast Asia that Cindy Adams first met and interviewed Sukarno.

Mrs. Adams is married to comedian-author-toastmaster Joey Adams. She is the Cindy of his bestseller, "Cindy and I."

Plan Luncheon

The Farmington Alumnae association and the Detroit-Dearborn chapter of Delta Gamma will be co-hostesses for the annual founder's day luncheon to be held at noon Saturday, March 16, in the Mayflower hotel, Plymouth. Mrs. Jane Greenawalt, a member of the Oakland university continuum center speakers' bureau, will speak on "The Changing Role of Women."

All Delta Gammas in the area are invited, with reservations to be made by March 9 with Mrs. Richard Boyesen, 16412 Ronnie Lane, Livonia.

For the wedding and reception following for 315 guests at Roma Hall the bride's mother wore a beige silk shantung dress and coat costume with pink accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a pale green silk shantung dress with matching jacket and accessories.

For a wedding trip to Pompano Beach, Florida, the bride changed to an apple-green dress and avocado coat.

The newlyweds now are making their home in Ypsilanti.

By JEAN DAY

GARDEN CLUB members are hoping that spring will arrive about 10 days early as a sunny day next Monday will enhance the planned outing to the University of Michigan greenhouses at the botanical gardens at Dixboro.

Members of the Northville branch, Women's National Farm and Garden association, will board a charter bus at 9:30 a.m. in the Kroger parking lot.

This is a guest day outing with members asked to make reservations for themselves and their guests with Mrs. C. W. Whittlesey, 349-1825.

Dr. Warren Wagner, Jr., director of the botanical gardens, will speak to the visitors, who also will tour the University's facilities. The present botanical gardens were moved from 40 acres near Stadium boulevard in Ann Arbor in 1961, and the buildings - designed by the famed Alden B. Dow - were completed in 1966.

Mrs. Orson Atchinson, publicity chairman, reminds members to bring a lunch - coffee and dessert will be provided.

METHODIST WOMEN will celebrate the first day of spring, appropriately, with a benefit luncheon and hat show. Planned by the Wesleyan Service guild and the WSCS, the event also is to feature spring shifts, jewelry and accessories.

The luncheon will be at noon on March 20 at the Northville Methodist church. All women of the community are invited as proceeds will benefit the Northville State hospital chapel fund. Tickets are available at $1.75 from Methodist women or the church office.

Mrs. Warren Fittery, WSCS president, has issued a special invitation to area women to help the hospital project "easily". All hats in the show will be $4.95. This project is under the direction of the Wesleyan Service guild which has sponsored a hat show successfully before. Mrs. Charles Skene is in charge of luncheon arrangements.

The monthly WSCS program will be held next Tuesday at the church, with chapel moments at noon by Mrs. A. Russell Clarke preceding the luncheon at 12:30 p.m. served by the Bertha Neal circle.

A book review by Miss Ione Palmer, "History of Methodism in Michigan," will be the program. Mrs. Richard Somers is in charge of devotions.

OVERTURE TO OPERA committee members will meet March 14 with their chairman, Mrs. Donald Ware, at her apartment at 239 Hutton to finalize details of the April 6 performance in Northville high school auditorium.

The Wares are just back from a trip west. After a week of too-cool weather in Phoenix, Arizona, they continued to Glendale, California, to visit friends. They also toured Disneyland and Knott's Berry Farm before going south to San Diego.

Mrs. Harold Wright, publicity chairman for the first Overture presentation in Northville, reports that ticket sales have been "very brisk" for the Afterglow party to follow at Meadowbrook country club. With only one-fourth as many Afterglow tickets as Overture tickets available, she urges anyone interested in attending both events to buy tickets now. Mrs. Ben Zayit is in charge of ticket sales. Overture tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for students, including collegians. The Afterglow champagne party is $5.

Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm and Marineland were a few of the famed California tourist attractions visited by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin C. Cross, 42435 Five Mile road, who flew to Los Angeles where they were met by relatives two weeks ago.

They also visited Las Vegas for several days, returning to Glendale before flying home this week.

The George Zerbels returned Sunday to their home on Dunlap street after vacationing in the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico. While they visited St. John, St. Thomas and St. Croix, Mrs. Zerbels reports their favorite spot was Great Tree Bay at St. Croix where they "just rested - with 85 degree temperatures and trade-wind breezes, it was ideal." The Zerbels also learned to snorkel on their vacation.

A STANDING OVATION was accorded Northville musician-composer Mrs. Theodore Slaby, whose original works were performed in a one-woman program for the Farmington Musicale at St. John Lutheran church in Farmington last month.

Friends and guests from the Birmingham, Royal Oak and Tuesday Musicale groups swelled the attendance to 150. The Farmington group is composed of 28 members; so Mrs. Slaby reports the attendance and reception were "beyond all expectations."

Especially lauded for its "contemporary and fresh approach" was her cantata, "The Creation."

The Farmington public schools have asked to present a taped program of the event to the music classes. In addition, requests are coming to the mother-of-three for special religious works for area churches.

Next Sunday the full choir of St. John's Lutheran church will present "Come Bless the Lord," written by Mrs. Slaby from the 134th Psalm. The church council also has officially commissioned her to write an anthem and hymn for its 10th anniversary observance next November. Holy Cross Lutheran church in Warren has requested special sacred music for April 21 services.

Beauty Abounds in Southern Appalachians

Travelogue Film To Boost Camping

Camping in the great outdoors is the theme of the adventure in the Southern Appalachians to be presented by LeRoy Crooks in the next-to-last Rotary travelogue in the 1967-8 series. "Appalachian Trails" will be shown at 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 13, in the Northville high school auditorium.

Crooks, a professional photographer and commercial film producer, will show scenes from the historic Shenandoah National park down the scenic Blue Ridge parkway. From mile-high vantage points his films record panoramas of autumn foliage. From the Blue Ridge Parkway he shows Happy Valley and Grandfather Mountain.

The trip continues through North and South Carolina with spectacular film of the rhododendron in bloom. Before serving as a specialist photographer with the photo branch of the Office of Strategic Services in World War II, Crooks already was known for his travelogues. Afterward he entered the commercial film field.

Richard Lyon, Rotary travelogue chairman, said that individual tickets for the program will be sold at the door for $1.50. Members with season tickets may use any unused portions to bring guests.

About 400 Northville-area Girl Scouts will mark the beginning of Girl Scout Week, March 10-16, with their annual scout birthday party from 1 to 4 p.m. this Saturday in the old community building gymnasium on Main street.

To carry out the international theme of Girl Scout Week the party program will include international songs and dances performed by the 14 troops. Refreshment tables also will have an international flavor.

The birthday celebration annually marks the date that Juliette Low returned from England and met with friends to form the beginning of the American scouting movement. This incident will be depicted in a skit on the program to be presented by adults in scouting.

Also marking Girl Scout Week will be windows of 15 local merchants which will be decorated to carry out the international theme.

Girl Scout Sunday, March 10, will be observed in local churches with scouts wearing their uniforms to designated services and sitting together.

At St. Paul's Lutheran church scouts are to meet in the pastor's office before the 10:30 a.m. service.

At Northville First Presbyterian church they are to gather in the vestibule before the 9:30 a.m. service.

Our Lady of Victory scouts are to sit together in an area roped off for them at 8:30 a.m. Mass.

Scouts at Northville First Methodist church may attend either service, meeting at the entrance to sit together.

Girl Scouts also are invited to attend services at the Baptist church in uniform at 11 a.m.

The annual Northville Girl Scout cookie sale, which began March 1, will continue through Girl Scout Week. Scouts are taking orders to be delivered in April.

about Women and the family

Shadbush Trees Offer Early Blooms

Spring will "bloom" a little earlier for you if your yard contains a native shadbush tree, Gurdon K. Dennis, district extension horticultural agent, told members and guests of the Northville branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden association meeting.

He showed slides of the white-flowering tree for which a local subdivision is named and recommended it as a welcome early-spring sight. It tolerates heavy, wet soil and has a good shape, he added.

Illustrating his recommendations with slides, the speaker listed "sophisticated selections" for home gardeners to consider:

Flowering hawthorne boasts small, white flowers; a good selection for low single-level homes. Winter King variety

Japanese red maple stays red throughout the growing season.

Autumn Flame is a new red maple with bright red, fall leaf color. It is dense with a good shape.

Seedless ash trees, Dennis mentioned, can be attractive with varieties such as Golden Desert having leaves that turn gold by July. Gold Cloud, he added, is a seedless type that is a rapid grower with golden leaves that remain late in the fall.

Also for color, he cited the Ruby Lace locust tree, seedless and thornless, with bronze new growth and ruby red leaves later.

Among the lindens, Dennis showed the Greenspire variety with its oval, almost Christmas tree form.

For an area where tree shape is important he suggested the ginkgo trees. Dennis showed a slide-picture of a pink-flowered horsechestnut tree for "something different" but did not recommend the species unless they were sterile, as the tree pictured, as the fruit has become a troublesome weapon among the young.

News Around Northville

Members of the winter pledge class of Delta Zeta sorority at Western Michigan university include Barbara Bogart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bogart of 46638 Main. Miss Bogart is a freshman at WMU and Vice-President of the pledge class.

Mrs. Oscar Hammond returned to her home at 511 North Center street last Wednesday after a three-week vacation in Florida where she visited friends. She was in Fort Lauderdale, Fort Myers, Leesburg and Largo.

Bea Appreciates Valentine

To the Editor:
Where but in Northville would a person be given a valentine through the press and the generosity of business men as I was given this past Valentine's Day. Thanks, I have a deep affection for you too.

It was a proud and privileged moment when I walked across the stage in the ballroom of the Statler Hilton Hotel in Washington, D.C., before 600 representatives from every state in the union, stop before a mike and hear the director of the National Beautification program say, "Councilwoman from Northville, Michigan receiving the Distinguished Achievement Award for her city." Yes, this is your award, citizens of Northville, for your efforts in making this a wonderful place to live.

Two hundred thirteen cities sent in entries (scrap books) of the results of their Beautification program, - eight cities in Michigan received awards. The conference lasted two days. I attended the forums for cities under 25,000 population, learning trade secrets and hearing about activities which made them best in 1967.

The award and the scrap books may be seen at the city hall and the commission would be pleased to have you look through them.

Thanks again for the Valentine.

Bea
(Councilwoman Mrs. Beatrice Carlson)

Woman Dies Riding Horse

A Westland woman, Mrs. Janice Boynton, 26, died early Thursday evening after apparently going into convulsions and falling off a horse while riding at the H. E. Earehart farm, 9666 Chubb road, Salem.

Washtenaw county sheriff's officers and Casterline Funeral home ambulance drivers were unable to revive her.

Court Delays Rape Hearing

The examination of Dennis Brandenburg, 411 East Main street, charged two weeks ago with raping a 19-year-old Plymouth woman, was adjourned in Northville municipal court Monday afternoon after testimony by one witness was heard by Municipal Judge Philip Ogilvie.

Adjournment to 1:30 p.m., March 18, was to allow further testimony from witnesses for both parties.

Homeowners Plan Meeting

An open meeting to which southern Oakland county residents are especially invited will be held by the Oakland County Homeowners and Taxpayers association at 8 p.m. March 12 in the Pontiac Northern High school little theater.

The association was formed in 1962 to fight the purchase of Allen airport by Oakland county in Orion township. The association is continuing to watch expenditures for the airport as well as in other county areas.

Delay Formation

Plans for formation of a Novi Athletic Boosters club have been postponed for two or three weeks, LaVerne DeWard announced Tuesday.

"We're shocked by the death of young Pat Haley," he said. "We'll just hold everything off until later in the month."

Civil Disorders Commission Reports to LBJ, Wings Trade, Bachelors Celebrate Leap Day

With the daily newspaper strike in Detroit now more than 100 days old and few signs of settlement, the "Friendly Free Press" and "What in the World's Going On?" publications are fading slowly from memory.

To satisfy their daily reading appetite many metropolitan area residents are paying 50 cents for a Sunday edition of a Chicago newspaper, or 15 cents for a daily Toledo newspaper.

Magazines are also doing better at the newsstand, as are the weekly editions of The Northville Record and Novi News.

As a special service to bring readers somewhat up-to-date on what's going on outstate, out-of-state and around the world, here's a review of some of the happenings (for TV listings, see page 7-B).

WASHINGTON - A presidential commission on civil disorders calls for compassionate, massive and sustained efforts, costing perhaps more money than the Vietnam war, to end destruction and bitterness wrought by racial disorders in America's cities. "If we are heedless, none of us shall escape the consequences," says the report, which further states: America is moving into black and white - and unequal - societies and condemns white racism as the cause; programs to create 2 million new jobs and 6 million housing units needed; additional taxes should be imposed to finance the new program; police plans to acquire weapons are designed to destroy rather than control cities, more Negro policemen should be recruited; better schools needed in slums, segregation, racial discrimination in all schools should be wiped out, more college aid and adult education needed.

WASHINGTON - By a bare two-thirds majority (65-32) the U.S. Senate agreed Monday to halt civil rights debate clearing the way for action on open housing and federal protection for Negroes and civil rights workers. Both Michigan senators, Hart (D) and Griffin (R) voted with the majority for cloture. Senators are now working on some 90 amendments to the bipartisan bill designed to reduce housing barriers in stages: stage one would become effective upon passage and would bar discrimination in the sale or rental of federally-owned housing; stage two, effective December 31 would bar discrimination in multi-unit housing such as apartments and real estate developments, however owner-occupied dwellings of four units and less would be excluded; stage three, effective January 1, 1970, would bar discrimination in single-family, owner-occupied houses sold through real estate brokers or other agents. If the owner sells the home himself, without aid of a broker, the owner could discriminate.

The original open-housing legislation would have banned discrimination in the sale or rental of an estimated 97 per cent of the nation's housing; the compromise bill cuts back coverage to about 70 per cent. But opponents of the bill maintain that any open-housing legislation is an unconstitutional invasion of private property rights.

North Korea said this week that the crew of the USS Pueblo had signed an open letter to President Johnson calling for admittance to spying in North Korean waters and to "sincerely apologize".

The Detroit Red Wings completed a six-man swap with the Toronto Maple Leafs. The Wings gave Norm Ullman, Paul Henderson and Floyd Smith for Frank Mahovlich, Peter Stankowski and Gary Unger. The Wings also acquired rights to veteran defenseman Carl Brewer, now an amateur, and sold Doug Barrie, a minor league defenseman, to the Leafs.

In the first prizefight at the new Madison Square Garden in New York City Monday night Italy's Nino Benvenuti regained his middleweight title from Emile Griffith and Joe Frazier defeated Grand Rapids' Buster Mathis for the heavyweight title of the world, as recognized in the states of New York, Massachusetts, Maine and Illinois.

While some 1,100 teachers ended their brief strike in San Francisco Monday, a statewide teacher walkout continued in Florida reaching three weeks, as well as Pittsburgh, Pa., and Wellesley, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis.

ON THE LIGHTER SIDE 29 bachelors hosted 29 single girls, chosen from 10,000 applicants, at a February 29 Leap Year Day party in Miami.

A Huntington, W. Va., patrolman was being asked to "reconsider his actions" after he had ticketed a meter maid for obstructing traffic; driving through a safety zone, and leaving a motor vehicle unattended while she was performing her duties. The Mayor of Huntington called the patrolman's actions "ridiculous and childish" and said he understood the policeman had received an overtime parking ticket from one of the meter maids last week.

In Green Bay, Wisconsin two university instructors were trying to figure out what to do with a 24-room school building, complete with library and gymnasium, they purchased unintentionally for $5,651. The pair bid on an abandoned school building, but somehow the legal descriptions were mixed and they actually purchased a school building currently being used and valued at $750,000. The city attorney caught the error and called the professors requesting "a swap". Instead the professors told the attorney he could "inform the school board they could continue using it". The attorney didn't laugh.

Township Pulls Double Reverse On Planners

tee James Teilmann was absent Tuesday night.

Treasurer Lawrence was one of the board members supporting RM zoning and reversing the planners last year.

Meanwhile, citizen objections to any multiple zoning in the area have been strong. Baldwin pointed out that the site adjoins single family residences. "It should be a transition to low density multiples, rather than our highest density," he maintained.

Armstrong was the strongest critic of the RM-2 zoning. He made the recommendation to reverse the planners and declined to go along with a suggestion by Supervisor Merriam that the matter be tossed back to the planning commission (for the third time). "Littell has led us down a garden path," Armstrong declared. He was supported by Baldwin in his contention that RM zoning was originally granted only to assist the developer in acquiring immediate financing, and that Littell had stated he would be willing to accept a more restrictive zoning for the retirement-type development, if such a designation existed.

The board changed the designation of all other RM parcels in the township to RM-2, as recommended by planners.

Meet the Novi Council Candidates WE Manager To End Career

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are biographical sketches and answers to two specific questions of 12 of the 13 candidates for Novi village council. Olen Green could not be contacted for his biography and answers. The questions asked were: (1) Do you favor city incorporation of Novi? Why? (2) What can you do for Novi as a councilman?

Philip Anderson

Age 69, widower, Novi resident since 1910, incumbent council president, member of Farm Bureau, Board of Commerce, Rotary club, Masons, Presbyterian Church Men's club, lives at 50250 West Eight Mile road.

1. Yes, Working with two governments, township and village, is awkward and bad in many respects. The village is vulnerable on both sides to annexation by other communities.

2. A councilman since incorporation of the village in 1958, I also helped draw up the village charter. I have done my best for Novi at all times and will continue to do so. I have seen a lot of changes, such as sewers and city water, which helped Novi develop as fast as it has. We need more industry to build a larger tax base as our schools are in need of more money, and I definitely favor Novi becoming a city.

James Cherfoli

Age 28, four-year Novi resident, married, one child, Redford high school and Michigan State university, account executive R.L. Polk company, member board of directors Novi Jaycees, and director Willowbrook Community Association, lives at 24066 Glen Ridge court.

1. Yes, I favor city incorporation for Novi for essentially one reason: boundary protection. Under city government we have the ability to prevent annexation of any portion of Novi by neighboring communities. As a city we can protect vital industrial areas, which provide a large share of our tax dollars. Our present form of government cannot provide the adequate protection needed. Cityhood will.

2. Not denying the wisdom of age, I feel our present council needs the energy, creativity, and forward thinking which can only be supplied by young men. I am young, energetic, and fond of our community. I see potential which is here to be developed. I have been disappointed because it hasn't. As Novi grows in population, a demand for progressive thinking in our government becomes increasingly important. Being young, I feel I understand the concern of young families in our community for the future and will represent their views on the council.

Miss Eugenie Choquet

Age 50, Novi resident past 20 years, property owner since 1930, self-employed property manager, Novi councilwoman 1960-62, past secretary Novi planning board and youth protective committee, present coordinator Novi Civil Defense, lives at 727 South Lake drive.

1. No, Not at this time. A popular belief is that city incorporation would automatically bring garbage collection and other services without an increase in taxes. This is not what has happened in Walled Lake and other communities around us. If additional services are provided, taxpayers will have to provide the money to pay for them.

2. I would work to better use available money for departments and services to improve existing problem areas. For example, in some poorly lighted areas where law enforcement is difficult adding street lights would be a big benefit. Our streets and roads also need and deserve better treatment in making budget decisions.

William Duey

Age 35, two-year Novi resident, married, four children, Henry Ford Trade school and Wayne State university, superintendent of Freeland Gage Shop, vice-chairman board of appeals, member sewer ordinances study committee, trustee Connemara Subdivision Civic association, lives at 45385 Nine Mile road.

1. No, At this point I feel that Novi's small population would be hard pressed to support all of the functions that a city would entail. The leadership required to run one of the largest cities in Michigan, by area, has not yet been established.

2. As I am just an average homeowner I will listen to and govern with careful consideration the needs of others like myself in the village of Novi.

Raymond Evans

Age 41, eight year resident of Novi, married, two children, Cass Technical high school and Lawrence Institute of Technology, manager of engineering for Gulf and Western Industries, incumbent councilman, planning board member three years, member Northville-Novi Area Economic Development committee, former board chairman Echo Valley Civic association, lives at 23750 Heartwood drive.

1. Though I believe we are premature in seeking cityhood with the large amount of undeveloped village land, I support city incorporation to protect our present and future industrial tax base from annexation by surrounding communities. If Novi becomes a city, it will be the duty of every official to dedicate himself to maintain present village millage until a larger tax base has developed.

2. Every citizen has a responsibility to serve his community in whatever capacity his talents are best suited. With four years experience as a public official, and 15 years as an official for a private company, I hope I can help develop Novi into the community we all would be proud to live in. Above all, I think I could interpret the will of the people and so vote their wishes in all matters concerning the village.

Gilbert Henderson

Age 32, Novi resident for a year-and-a-half, Lapeer high school, BS degree from Michigan State university, MA from University of Michigan, assistant principal at East junior high, Farmington, with wife and four children, lives at 41812 Quince.

1. First of all, the issue will be decided by voters. As an individual, however, I will have to vote in favor. This is necessary to provide one form of government for efficiency and economy, to encourage coordinated growth for the area and prevent annexation of Novi by other cities.

2. I can provide hard-working objective leadership in the policy-making role of the council. This will be carried out with a high degree of ethical behavior on my part.

Robert Ollis

Age 32, a five-year resident of Novi, was graduated from Walled Lake high school, salesman with Smith Lumber company, with wife and four children lives at 40329 Eleven Mile road.

1. Open minded - would depend on the type of city Novi would be eligible for. If it would keep territory intact and only if it would gain benefits, would I be for cityhood.

2. With hard work and being open minded and conscientious citizen with no personal interests, such as in rezoning. We have a master plan for Novi; I would like to see us stick with it. If you aren't going to use the plan that many people have spent much work on and carry it out, then it should be abandoned, not changed all the time by personal requests.

Age 33, two year Novi resident, married, three children, attended Central and Cass Technical high schools, night and extension studies Wayne State university, self-employed residential home builder, lives at 49680 West Eight Mile road.

1. Yes - on information available now. It would help to keep boundaries as they are. Otherwise important tax-producing areas could be annexed by other communities. Also, we now have a double-tax being served by two governmental units - township and village. We should have more efficiency in spending with only one unit of government. There might be disadvantages. I plan thorough study-research efforts to satisfy questions I have.

2. I believe my experience as a builder, helping to build other communities and working with many other local governments, will allow me to help Novi during the present building and growth period, which I believe will continue.

Edwin Presnell

Age 46, nine-year Novi resident, married, two children, grew up and attended schools in North Carolina, formerly a patternmaker, now operates real estate business in Novi, chairman of finance committee for city incorporation.

1. Yes, To keep the boundaries of Novi from the encroachment of adjoining communities, this is a must in order to have a balanced industrial and residential community. Industry in one of the adjoining communities pays 85 percent of school taxes. Industry has always been very reluctant to locate in an area with dual government. Contrary to the belief of a few people that cityhood would raise taxes, the charter that the residents vote on and accept, limits the millage that the city could levy on the taxpayer.

2. Being in the real estate business with the knowledge of how to develop a balanced and compatible community, I feel I would be a benefit to all of Novi and not just one particular area. To represent the residents of Novi in their best interest, and not cater to outside investors which often reap all they can from a municipality and leave the burden to the residents. Incidentally, outside investors now own over 60 percent of the undeveloped property in Novi. These are just a few of the current problems facing Novi at present. Proper police protection, ordinance to control development, recreation for youth, better roads, shopping center, communications to all departments in village government. With my business in Novi, I would be available at all times to help accomplish this endeavor.

Richard Ratcliffe

Age 44, married with five children, one of whom is serving in the Army in Japan, resident of Novi 15 years, born and raised in Detroit, Northwestern high school and Detroit building trades school, employed as technician for General Electric, WWII veteran, lives at 46730 12 Mile road.

1. City incorporation has its advantages and disadvantages, but must ultimately be the decision of the voters.

2. As a councilman I will try to represent all the people of Novi and to establish better communications between the council and the public. I would strive towards a better understanding and a better working relationship between the village and township governments. Being a resident of this area for the past 15 years, I believe I have an awareness of the problems which face the community.

C. A. Smith

Age 75, a Novi resident for 15 years, chairman of the committee for Cityhood of Novi, past president of Northville Rotary club and Northville Economic Development corporation, now semi-retired he formerly owned Smith Products and now is in real estate development, attended

GM Previews Science Progress

Local students looked into the future when General Motors "Previews of Progress" science show appeared at Northville Junior and Senior high schools yesterday (Wednesday).

The non-commercial show, according to General Motors President Edward N. Cole, "seeks to inspire more student interest in science and engineering careers to provide the trained talent America needs to keep pace with the promise of the future."

Previews demonstrations depict work being done today in America's research laboratories and point out the contributions of research to modern living. A two-man team narrates the live show in non-technical language. Featured in the show were several energy conversion demonstrations - gas turbine engines, fuel cells and solar cells.

Another sequence, based on information obtained over the years in GM automotive safety engineering tests, emphasized the importance of wearing seat belts when driving or riding in an automobile.

Farmington high school and Carelton college, both in Missouri, has four grown children and lives with his wife at 43643 West Nine Mile road.

1. Yes, If Novi is not changed from the village form of government to city, Novi will be liquidated, as such. We're fighting to the limit to preserve Novi as it is.

2. I would like to work aggressively toward the first City of Novi government, setting up an economic, progressive plan. I could and would take the time needed to devote to Novi government.

Donald Young, Jr.

Age 43, former councilman (1962-6), BA degree, engineering, MA degree, business administration, in finance with Ford Motor company, with wife and two children lives at 43775 West Nine Mile road.

1. Neither strongly for or against. I can see advantages and disadvantages in each but feel that with city services taxes will go up and we must learn to live within our income. Prefer not to have cityhood at this time as Novi is a geographic sandwich between Northville, Walled Lake and Wixom without a center.

2. I have had a good deal of experience and familiarity with the problems involved. Major job is controlling tax levels and use of village funds to go as far as possible. We must plan for orderly development. Improvements for general use roads should be paid for by the entire community.

Competition Underway In High School Debating

The Northville high school spring forensic program is underway, headed by Mrs. Frances Chambers and Miss Barbara LeBoeuf.

Approximately 80 students have tested their talents in one or more categories ranging from oratorical speaking to interpretive reading.

The categories are declamations, extemporaneous speaking, humorous interpretive reading, multiple reading, oratory, radio, and serious interpretive reading.

Declamations, extemporaneous speaking, oratory, and radio are four types of specialized areas of public speaking.

The three types of reading categories are also specialized areas of communicating passages from a book to an audience with the proper mood and emotion.

The school contest finalists will be determined March 8 for declamations (2), serious interpretive readings (2), and humorous interpretive readings (2).

Oratorical finalists (2) and extemporaneous speaking finalists (two boys and two girls) will be chosen March 11.

The radio finalists (Gary Becker and Bill Yerkes), and the multiple reading group (Alice in Wonderland), were chosen last month.

The district contest for each category will be held in Ypsilanti between the dates of March 14 and March 23.

School Library Gets New Look

4 to Represent Northville at 'UN'

Four Model United Nations delegates from Northville high school have been invited to attend the National Invitational Model General assembly April 18, 19, 20 and 21 to be held on the Georgetown university campus in Washington, D.C.

"As it stands right now," states Ghana Delegation Chairman L. Paul Cherne, "Scott Francis Bergo, Gary Robert Becker, Michael Kenneth Conley, and Leo Paul Cherne of the Ghana delegation of the University of Detroit MUN program are planning to go - along with Robert Trew Shafer who will be the delegation photographer."

How did this all come about? Here's the story as related by L. Paul:

"The NIMGA sent us a letter late. We called Washington and got in touch with the Georgetown university campus. We expressed our concern and our want to belong to this program."

"That was a couple of months ago. In the meantime we had forgotten about it. A letter finally came saying that we had been accepted to the NIMGA."

"As of right now, we have not been assigned a country or received the issues which will be discussed. However, the wheels are in motion and in the short future we will be feverishly working in our studies.

"The NIMGA is a national organization consisting of high school students throughout the United States. A limited number comes from each state."

"Approximately 500 of these students meet together as a United Nations General Assembly."

"This is the fifth year Georgetown university has been in charge of the program."

The four NHS seniors and sophomore photographer will be travelling to Washington and residing in the area for the weekend, along with 500 of America's top high school students.

As for the present, the NHS delegations of Ghana, Iraq, and Niger have been working very hard during the past month in preparation for the University of Detroit MUN General assembly to be held next weekend - March 15, 16, and 17.

The important world issues under discussion at this year's MUN general assembly are the Middle East crisis, Red China's admission to the United Nations, refugee problems, Portuguese territories in Africa, and the question of friendly legal relations.

Amerman Classes Battle for Honors

Amerman elementary school teachers have incorporated an "all-school contest" in the attempt to both stress and reward students for citizenship.

Former Principal Mr. Robert Stafford originated the idea a couple of weeks before the beginning of the second semester.

The contest is held in two categories: One in the lower "L" hall, or first through third grades; and the other is held in the upper "L" hall, or fourth and fifth grades.

The lower "L" contest is held every two weeks, and the upper "L" contest is held once every month. The winners receive a large felt banner displaying a yellow letter "A" on a blue background inscribed with the words "citizenship" and "Amerman".

The citizenship contest committee is comprised of Miss Linda Edgerton, library teacher; Mrs. Phyllis Hinkel, music teacher; and Mrs. Barbara Marion, art teacher who constructed the banners. Each teaches a "special" class which students attend once a week.

The contest is run on a point system ranging from an excellent "5" to a very poor rating of "1". High score wins.

Each class carries a sheet to these classes to be graded for a period of one week. The classes and their members are graded on their conduct in these classes, their behavior on the playground, and their behavior to and from school.

To give each class an equal chance, a certificate will be awarded each time to the class scoring the most points; whereas, the banner will be garnered by the class showing the most improvement since the previous contest.

As to the success of the contest, committee member Miss Linda Edgerton states, "I think it's working. I've noticed a difference, and they're pretty honest with themselves on what they've earned."

Scott Bergo Cops Tourney Berth

Scott Bergo, Northville's 17-year-old judo devotee has earned a place on the regional team that will compete in the national tournament in Sacramento, California, May 3-4.

Competing in the open division in the regional tournament held in Detroit last Sunday, Bergo made his way past five opponents to gain a place on the six-man regional team that will compete for national A.A.U. championships in California.

First Sub Success

The first recorded instance of a submarine sinking a warship occurred in 1864, during the Civil War, when a hand-propelled submersible of the Confederate navy sank the Housatonic, a federal vessel that was blockading Charleston harbor.

Allen Queen

Cleopatra was not an Egyptian but the last of the Ptolemies, Greek rulers of Egypt.

The Northville high school library has not only moved to a new location, but it has acquired a new name as well. It's now referred to as the instructional materials center.

Just what is an instructional materials center? According to NHS Librarian Mrs. Marion Sullivan "It includes all of the audio-visual materials in the school as well as 8,500 books."

One of the most significant audio-visual aids are the carrels. Mrs. Sullivan defines carrels as "Small enclosed private study desks for individual students."

The carrels are essentially listening and language carrels. There are four rooms with two carrels each for recording purposes, and there are 32 listening carrels in the main library area equipped with tape equipment for listening to a variety of tapes.

Mrs. Sullivan pointed out that "We have ordered over $350,000 worth of tape on English, history and social studies."

The main reason for enlarging the library was, according to Mrs. Sullivan, due to the fact that "We were desperate for office space, working space, and storage space."

The entire instructional materials center includes a student typing room, library work room, magazine storage room for issues dating the past five years, a faculty room, another storage room, a librarians' office, and an audio-visual storage room.

Student librarian Kathy Jarvis says, "I like to work in the new instructional materials center because it's larger than the old library, which makes it more suitable to work in."

Mrs. Sullivan pointed out that, "We're enlarging the library student staff. We'll be recruiting assistance for audio-visual materials."

There are currently 32 student librarians under the supervision of Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Ruth Haynes, the library secretary.

Library club officers include Dan Osaer, president; Daryl Herter, vice-president; Sara Lindberg, secretary; and Diane Holdsworth, treasurer.

Dan Bennett, Jim Castillo, David Reynders, Paul Tabor, and Mark Wiley assist with the caring for and operation of the audio-visual equipment.

"The new equipment in the center is just one of the examples of the instructional aids to be made available to the students and teachers," says Mark Wiley.

Dave Reynders, another student in charge of audio-visual materials, commented that "The students should enjoy the instructional materials available to them if they'll let other students enjoy them also."

"In other words, if you break them, man it's your responsibility."

There are also duplicating machines available for teacher and student use. "We like to have students using duplicating machines," states Mrs. Sullivan.

Provisions have also been made for future expansion, by allowing extra room space and shelf space throughout the instructional materials center.

Yet, one question has been posed by student Chuck Munn regarding the center:

"What's with the fancy name? The next thing you know they'll start calling janitors custodial engineers."

'Soul' Group To Play Here

The month of March will serve as a happening at The Cavern, where three dances are on tap for teen entertainment.

The Amboy Dukes and The Apostles appear on stage this Saturday night with their separate styles.

"Baby Please Don't Go" is the high flying single by the six-man Amboy Dukes which has been high in the charts along with their hit album in such cities as Boston, Chicago, and Cleveland.

The three-man group which goes by name of The Apostles is essentially a soul group of wide-spread popularity. In the past they've released a soul oriented rendition of The Kinds "Tired of Waiting."

The Rationals head the bill March 23 accompanied by The Apple Corps, a Plymouth Band making its debut.

The Rationals, Michigan's number one band according to WKMR's popularity poll of Michigan groups, is comprised of four members who ride on the fame of their past hit "Respect" and their current hit titled "I Need You."

Both songs can be heard Tuesdays and Thursdays on The Morning Ride Radio Shows featured at Northville high school before morning classes begin each weekday morning.

The Apple Corps makes its debut since forming itself from the former rock groups known as The Phyre, The Museum, and The Southampton Rowe.

Both dances will cost $1.50 for members, and $2 for non-members.

March 30 will feature a proposed Battle of the Bands, but band contestants haven't been named as yet.

Cavern officials are also keeping the club room patrons in mind. More tables and dimmed lights should be installed in the room by the time the doors open for this Saturday's Cavern bash.

Dan Conklin Cops Regional Crown

4 Win State Wrestling Berths

Dan Conklin, the Mustang's fine senior wrestler, won four straight matches and the heavyweight championship to lead his teammates to a third-place finish in team standings at the regional tournaments at Flat Rock last weekend.

Conklin will be joined at the state tournament this Friday and Saturday by Marty Richardson, John Tam, and Bob Baber, who earned advancement by winning second place medals at the regional.

Flat Rock won the team trophy with 119 points. Clarenceville finished second with 81, followed by the Mustangs with 74.

Conklin, Richardson, Tam and Baber all won their first three matches to qualify for the state tournament and to compete for individual titles for the 16-team regional tourney.

Conklin pinned the first three men he faced, the first in 2:33, the second in .18, and the third in .53. He wrestled the full six minutes in the championship match to take the crown with a 5-4 decision over a Flat Rock man.

Marty Richardson had little trouble turning back his first three opponents, then met once again with a familiar foe, Ray Wehner of Clarenceville. Wehner took the 127 title match with a 5-0 decision.

John Tam (120) after three straight wins, lost the title match to one of Flat Rock's wrestling Lobotto's by a close 2-1 decision.

Bob Baber (112) earned his way to the state meet, winning his first three matches, before losing the title match to a Grosse Ile wrestler.

Coach Jack Townsley's crew came close to matching the size of the five men delegation he took to the state last year. Curt Olewnik (133) won his first two matches and was leading in the crucial third match but dropped a 7-6 decision.

In addition to Olewnik's third place finish, the Mustangs picked up bonus team points with a fourth place finish by Don Sass in the 138 pound competition.

Rick Suckow (145) and Brad Conklin (165) also won early matches to help the Mustangs team point standing.

Northville Colts - Junior Varsity Champions Again

Mustangs Win Big But Finish Second

When the Mustangs took the court here Thursday night against Clarenceville in the season finale, the last opportunity for a piece of the Wayne-Oakland league title had already crumbled.

But you'd never have guessed it as the local five raced, jumped and shot its way to a 96-68 triumph over the Trojans.

West Bloomfield, playing second fiddle to Northville through much of the season, wrapped up the championship the night before by romping past Clarkston. Had the Lakers lost Northville might be sharing the title today.

But that's the way it goes, Coach Dave Longridge said philosophically. "We played a good brand of ball all season ... kept it exciting. The boys played well, a few mediocre games, and probably only one bad one (a tournament game with Highland Park)."

He pegged two overtime losses - one at Milford and another at Clarkston - as the difference between a championship and a second-place finish. "Those two made the difference."

The Mustangs finished the season with an 11-3 record, while first-place West Bloomfield wrapped it up with a 12-2 finish.

Clarenceville, which lost its district tournament opener Tuesday, simply couldn't match Northville's offensive attack last Thursday. The Mustangs quickly built themselves a 24-14 first quarter lead, tacked on 25 more points by the half, and then nearly cut down the net with their rapid-fire, 29-point blitz in the third quarter.

The Mustangs' secondary managed things in the final quarter, coming up with a respectable but relatively chilly 18 points.

Clarenceville scored 14 in the first, 19 in the second and 11 in the third quarters.

Northville had nearly twice the number of field goals, 40 to 23, but took the short end of the battle at the free throw line - 16 to 22.

Randy Pohlman, season scoring leader, took top billing again Tuesday, firing 20 points. Two other Mustangs, however, came close to the 20 point mark. Joe Andrew and Ken Boerger each hit 18.

But Bob Duman, Clarenceville's ace, led everyone with 31 points - most of them coming in the final two quarters.

REGIONAL WINNERS - Four of Northville Coach Jack Townsley's (back row) wrestlers battled their way into state competition last week by taking key points in the regional tournament at Flat Rock.

Dan Conklin (seated next to Townsley) won four straight matches and the heavyweight championship. The others are (l to r) John Tam, Bob Baber, and Marty Richardson.

Colts Claim 3rd Straight Cage Crown

All 13 men on the JV squad saw action as the Colts sewed up the JV league title with an easy 69-41 win over Clarenceville last Thursday night.

Eleven men scored as the Colts coasted while closing the season. Finishing in front in league play with a 12-2 record, the JV's made it three years in a row coach Bob Kucher's Colts have led the league.

The Colts stand 36-6 in the league for the three years.

Two losses this year included a one point deficit at Brighton, in overtime, and defeat by a three-point margin at West Bloomfield.

"After those two, we began to concentrate on defense," Kucher said.

The defensive drills paid off, as the Colts came on with an aggressive press and won the next eight games to finish with 14-4 record.

Looking back on the season, Kucher said that the team's success came from team play in which the players performed as a unit.

"And not only in scoring. We did have a good balance in scoring, so the opponents couldn't concentrate on one man. But we also had boys who had special jobs on defense and others who made special contributions in rebounding and setting up plays. The key to our season was the way each of these boys did his job."

The balanced scoring and smothering defense showed well in the Clarenceville game.

Ron Hubbard was high point man with 21. Hubbard and other members of the first unit played only during the first and third quarters. The remaining 48 points were spread over 10 men.

Wildcats Drop Final Squeaker

Novi's young high school basketball team ended its season last week on the same note as it was launched earlier this winter - with a disappointing loss.

Leading by six points at the half last week, the Wildcats slipped behind in the third quarter and then lost, 71-68.

Sandwiched between the opening and closing defeats were 13 other losses to league and non-league teams. Bright spots included victories over Roper (64-47), Grass Lake (57-52), and Michigan School for Deaf (76-37).

Novi Cagers, playing at Pinckney, jumped off to an 18-13 first quarter lead and then blistered the net with 23 points in the second stanza. Pinckney also came up with a red-hot second quarter, just one-point off the Wildcats' pace.

In the crucial third period, Pinckney picked up where it left off in the second stanza by pushing nine field goals and four free shots through the net while holding Novi to its weakest attack of the evening - 11 points.

Down, then, by five points going into the final period, Novi whittled away at the opponents lead but by the whistle the Wildcats were still three points away from a tie and four points from a victory.

Pinckney popped in one more field goal and a single more free shot than did its opponent. The field goal edge was 28 to 27, while the advantage at the free shot line was 15 to 14. Novi came up with a better free shot percentage however, making good its 14 points on 22 shots for 64-percent while Pinckney made its 15 points on 24 tries for 63-percent.

Jon VanWagner turned in his hottest night of the season, scoring 30 points to lead both squads. Joe Pine, with 20 points, was high for Pinckney.

Novi's junior varsity five lost its encounter with Pinckney by an even thinner margin than the varsity, 62-60.

The Novi cagers fought desperately after taking 21-13 first quarter and a 36-27 half time deficits to push within five points of Pinckney going into the final stanza.

In that all-important final quarter,

Novi came up with 21 points but fell short of victory as Pinckney racked up 18 points.

Both teams turned in 10 points at the free throw line, but Pinckney had the edge in field goals, 26 to 25.

Doug Schott, came close to duplicating the varsity's Jon VanWagner, by scoring 25 points - highest of both squads.

The loss at Pinckney gave the junior varsity quintet a season record of seven wins and 11 losses. Victories were posted over Whitmore Lake (twice), Annapolis, Roper, Roosevelt, Boyssville, and Michigan School for Deaf.

Novi Tourney 'Up to Boys'

Whether Novi's basketball team goes ahead with plans for tournament competition tomorrow is "up to the boys", High School Principal Gerald Hartman said Tuesday afternoon.

"Jim (Coach Jim Ladd) and the players are really broken up over his (Pat Haley's) death, so I just don't know what they'll do."

Should Novi compete, the team will meet either Roosevelt or St. Mary at the Eastern Michigan university field-house beginning at 7 p.m. Winner of that game is scheduled to play Saturday night, beginning at 7 p.m. with St. Thomas, Hartland or St. John for the championship.

Just A Guess

If you can believe the odds-makers, Northville will clash with Lutheran West tomorrow night at 8 p.m. for the district B tournament title at Clarenceville.

Northville, which drew a first-round bye, must have beaten Riverside yesterday (Wednesday) and Lutheran West must get past Annapolis tonight for the two teams to play in the championship round. Host Clarenceville lost its opener Tuesday to Riverside.

 NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN

Why Choose A 35mm Camera?
 Because a 35mm is the most convenient of all types of better cameras. It is light weight, easy to use and is the most practical size for color slides.

Why A Single Lens Reflex?
 This is the most popular type of 35mm camera because you focus and compose through the taking lens and record on film exactly what you see.

Why A Behind The Lens Spot Meter?
 First you need a meter to give you a perfectly exposed picture. A behind the lens meter measures the light as it comes through the lens, and this is the light the film sees. A professional photographer uses a spot meter to measure the exposure for the most important part of the picture. If you are photographing a girl on the beach, you're more interested in her than in the sand or water. A spot meter gives you the necessary control over the ultimate results.

Why Automatic Exposure And Manual Over-Ride?
 When the aperture ring is set to Automatic ("A" position) you pre-select a shutter speed, then the meter automatically sets the correct aperture. This is a marvelous convenience for most shooting. If however, you want to manually change the exposure (for special effects), the aperture ring is moved from the "A" position and the aperture setting of your choice is selected.

Why an F 2.8 Lens?
 It's very convenient to have a camera with a lens fast enough to permit shooting at night or on location where there is little available light. The mamiya/sekor F 2.8 lens provides this convenience.

At Eight Mile and Taft Public Hearing Snag Delays Plat OK of Housing Complex

Action on the preliminary plat for a portion of the Thompson-Brown development at Taft and Eight Mile roads was tabled Tuesday night by the city planning commission until a March 19 public hearing on a related unit development plan permit. Planners hoped to take action on the preliminary plat this week, but because public hearing notice for the unit development permit had not been published previously it was tabled.

The preliminary plat, which covers Thompson-Brown's property on the south side of Eight Mile road, is part of the firm's total unit development plan for single-family and multiple housing on both sides of Eight Mile at Taft and on the east side of Taft just north of the Ida B. Cooke junior high school.

In reviewing the plat Tuesday, officials of Thompson-Brown pointed out that the development south of Eight Mile road - which is to be developed first - calls for 60 single-family lots, minimum size lots was pegged at 92 x 120-feet, with most lots running considerably larger.

Homes with an estimated $40,000 value will be built south of Eight Mile, it was pointed out. Plans call for 27-foot wide concrete streets, curbs and three asphalt walkways to a 4.7-acre park. The park is to be maintained by a homeowners' association. Association membership will be a requirement for home purchase.

Estimated value of each apartment unit was placed at $15,000-plus.

Robert Carey, president of Thompson-Brown, said the total development, based upon a formula used by the Northville school district, would produce 145 children in grades kindergarten through six. He noted that the plan here in the city, unlike Thompson-Brown's proposed township development on Six Mile road, makes no provision for a school site.

Construction of model homes on the south side of Eight Mile road is expected to begin yet this year for showing early in 1969, Carey said. Street construction and site development in this area is expected to start earlier.

Engineering to Start On Taft Road Paving

An okay to go ahead on engineering for paving of Taft road from Eight Mile to the city limits was given by the Northville city council Monday night. The council still hasn't decided how much to assess private property owners on the street for the improvement, but it expects to collect 100 per cent for the frontage owned by the school district and Thompson-Brown company, a land development firm.

In making its motion to proceed with engineering the council asked City Manager Frank Ollendorff to "firm up" an agreement with the school district. Hopefully, the council looks for the school board to remove a conditional clause from its previous statement regarding the city's method of assessing private property owners.

The manager also expects to make a contractual agreement with Thompson-Brown for payment of its share.

Plans call for the paving to be completed this summer.

In other business in a brief two-hour session the council postponed any action on a county report that the bridge leading to Rural Hill cemetery is unsafe and requires repairs. Several years ago the city engineer reported that some $32,000 would be required to put the bridge in proper condition.

Approval of an SDM (beer and wine) package license application for Convenient Food Mart, Novi road at Allen drive, was passed 3-2 by the council. Councilmembers Del Black and Beatrice Carlson opposed the application.

The council approved a sanitary sewer district for levying special fees on tap charges so that a payback program may be arranged with the school district for the sewer installed to serve the new junior high school. Abutting property owners using the school line will pay an additional tap charge that will go to the school district to offset its cost of installing the line.

An April 1 public hearing will be held for an amendment to the subdivision ordinance setting standards for dividing a single platted lot into two, three or four smaller lots.

And finally, the council directed the city attorney to relay Northville's objections to proposed state legislation that would legalize dog racing and eliminate mutual betting rebates to cities in which tracks (dog or horse) are located.

SIGN OF SPRING-Sure sign that spring's just around the corner is the flurry of grass fires that have hit the Northville-Novu area in the past couple weeks. Firemen from the two communities have fought more than a dozen such fires in the dying winter. Officials remind citizens that burning grass without authorization - and even then such fires can result in fines when not supervised properly.

Here Northville firemen battle a blaze that destroyed dozens of pine trees and shrubs west of Northville State Hospital Monday afternoon.

Durand OKs Year-Round School Plan

Durand school district, which has a student population of 3,057, announced late last week that it will inaugurate a year-round school program beginning with the 1969 school year.

The decision means Durand will be the first school system in Michigan to adopt such a program since the early 1930s.

According to Durand's superintendent, John Koczman, pupils will be required to attend only the 180 days of school required under the current system. Vacations will be staggered to allow smooth operation of the plan, he said.

Koczman said the specific kind of year-round program has not yet been decided. Possibilities include an 11-month operation, a quarterly system, trimester operation or "staggering-type plan" involving a complex system of classes.

The superintendent lists advantages of the full-year plan as full use of buildings and facilities, options for teachers to work 12 months instead of the 10 currently worked, incorporation of curriculum innovations, and a delay of about three years in the need for any new bond issues for school construction.

Disadvantages, he said, would be in coordinating vacation times of a number of children from one family, coordinating vacation times for masses of pupils, and in increased salaries and higher operating costs.

Durand has eight buildings, including a high school, junior high and six elementary schools. Its budget runs more than $1 million for operation. Its student population is expected to increase by about 100 pupils per year for the next few years.

In Ann Arbor, where a school board member has proposed a year-round program for that district, three public hearings on the program were urged by the acting superintendent.

Specifically, Trustee William Godfrey has suggested a quarterly year-round plan, with one-quarter of the student body on vacation at all times. He suggests that the teachers' salaries be increased in line with year-round teaching positions.

Under the teacher contract, the current MA master schedule of $11,070 for teaching 180 days would be increased to $14,760 for teaching 240 days, he said.

from the Pastor's Study

Reverend Arthur V. Norris
Willowbrook Community E. U. B. Church

Doubt is a heckling experience from which none of us are entirely free; it is a matter of being human. When we are harassed by doubts, how do we handle them. It is possible to stifle doubt, to drive them from the conscious to the subconscious. We can reelected from faith. We are not able to believe anything. Everything must be questioned. Doubt with a capital "D" pervades our life. Or we can express both our doubt and our faith. In this response doubt honestly expressed and honestly faced can deepen and mature our faith.

In Mark 9:14-29 we see the disciples in difficulty because of their little faith. Jesus confronts them with their faithlessness and then asks that the boy who needs healing be brought to him. The father earnestly seeks help. And Christ says to him, "All things are possible to him who believes." Immediately the father of the child cries out, "I believe; help my unbelief!"

A strong faith is the result of a disciplined Christian life. There is a certain amount of work involved in facing doubts and questions concerning our faith. We must step out on faith, the first step of believing. Then we have to ask, as did this father, for God's help to strengthen this faith.

Perhaps our refusal to face honest questions is like the king who did not have to work. It seemed that this king developed a disease which no one could diagnose or cure. Life had no meaning for him. He didn't enjoy his food and he couldn't sleep. Finally, the king offered half his kingdom to anyone who could heal him. All the skilled men in the kingdom examined him, but could not find the cause of the sickness. One day there came to the palace a beggar who claimed he could do what none of the skilled physicians could do. He had a magic bed, he claimed, and, if the king slept on it, he would be cured. "Fine," said the king; he would try anything. "Bring it on!" But the beggar said that the magic of the bed would be lost if it were moved, and though it was some distance away, the king would have to come to it.

That night, with the king following, they set out to the place where the bed was and they walked a long time. The beggar led the way up a mountain, down a steep trail, and through a valley. At last, they arrived at a small hut. The king stretched out and went to sleep. The next morning he felt fine and after following this procedure for several nights, he confessed that he was cured.

The sparkle of faith comes from hard work. One cannot take his ease like the king and expect to have a live and healthy faith. Likewise, overcoming doubt involves work. In honestly facing up to our doubts we cling to the faith that we have. When we say "I believe," we choose the way of faith. Faith has a way of overcoming doubt if we act on the faith that we have. Let us be willing to do the necessary work. Let us stay with our doubts until they have yielded a rich harvest of faith. Let us not homestead on our doubts, but launch out on the faith that we have.

Dear Pat...

I know it has been a long time since I've written. As you can imagine, I've been very busy getting settled here. Everyone has been wonderful, and what an experience it is teaching these first grade children! It's a real thrill to watch them as they learn to read. I've already met some wonderful people, both here at school and in church...

So she writes her letter, and although "it has been a long time..." these words will stretch across the miles and the fibres of this friendship will be as strong as ever.

If you were never to write a letter you would lose touch with people who mean a great deal to you. By the same token, if you never were to go to church, you would fail to keep the fabric of your faith woven tight and strong. True, you might still believe firmly in God, but the affirmation and continued growth of this faith requires worship in His presence and in His house.

Thinking about a friend isn't the same thing as writing a letter to him -- wanting to be in that person's presence. Believing in God isn't the same as professing that belief by attending church regularly.

Dial direct and let the savings roll in.

If you'd like to save some money, you'll be interested in Direct Distance Dialing. It's a more economical way to call Long Distance because direct dialed calls are all Station-to-Station instead of Person to Person.

It's easy, too. Just dial "11", then the Area Code, if it's different from your own, and the number you want. For an idea of how much you can save, here's an example. A 3-minute Person-to-Person call between Detroit and Chicago costs $1.30 at the day rate. Dial direct and the cost is only 85¢.

So whenever you're reasonably sure the party you're calling will be there, dial direct and let the savings roll in!

Hits Loitering Near Schools

Northville Police Chief Samuel Elkins, along with all other Wayne county police chiefs, has been asked by Probate Judge James H. Lincoln to take more "forceful" action against juveniles who loiter in and around schools, in which they are not enrolled, during school hours.

Specifically, Judge Lincoln requested that the following juveniles be taken to the Wayne county youth home immediately:

1. All juveniles found loitering or causing a disturbance within a school, if they are not enrolled in the school in which the violation occurs.

2. Minor violations in the vicinity of a school may be handled by an ordinance violation ticket without bringing the juvenile to the youth home.

If the violation is severe, or the offender a known repeater, he should be brought to the youth home forthwith even though the violation occurs outside the building. (Police should use their judgment if violation is in the vicinity of a school.)

"With the help of the police and school officials," declared Judge Lincoln, "The court intends to let every juvenile know that if he is not enrolled in a school, and has no business in a school, that arrest will automatically result in conveyance to the Wayne county youth home."

Copies of Judge Lincoln's request were asked to be posted on school bulletin boards.

Meet Eugenie Choquet

CANDIDATE FOR NOVI VILLAGE COUNCIL

(Clip here and take with you to the polls.)

I am Eugenie Choquet. I would like to represent you again as Councilman.

I've lived in Novi for 20 years and have been a property owner in Novi for 30 years. Ladies and Gentlemen, I regret that I do not have the top brains of some corporation to help me woo your vote with honey words as some of my opponents have nor do I have the talented artists to put a brochure together with a lot of fancy words and fancy do-dads that promise much and deliver nothing.

I had the honor to serve you on the only Council that gave you the tax-payer something for your tax dollar...without additional shelling out of your pocket of your hard earned dollar...you got your roads chlorided and we resurfaced another road with asphalt...more could have been done but no one followed up the program after I left the Council due to terminal illness at home. The new Council felt...if you want something "Pay for it".

I've heard rumors that women should not be in politics, why not, don't women have brains to exist in a man's world? Does one have to be an expert pencil pusher to pay over $20,000 of your tax dollars for a water system which Paul Le Bost personally offered to the township and Village for Nothing...yep, they sure paid through the nose for it, now what was that about a woman in politics surely no woman would spend your tax dollars for something they could have for nothing, but this Council sat on their haunches so long they had to buy the water system from the Paul Le Bost Estate.

The people of Novi have received no new services in return for their tax dollars except raises in evaluation therefore higher taxes.

Street lights could have been installed in subdivisions and problem areas so that the women and children could be safe to be on their own streets and this in turn would help the police department in their law enforcement.

I've served as secretary of the planning board for two years for the constructive development of Novi and it is only at long last that they decided to replace the horse and buggy thinking of the past consultant.

Dumps and the stench of dumping areas close to subdivisions do not reflect the best thinking for the constructive development of Novi...we should not be considered the dumping area for the city of Detroit or any other area.

One Department should not be favored overwhelmingly over another as one without the other is helpless and all are important to the growth of Novi.

Our D.P.W. needs strengthening...at one time only two employees were working for our D.P.W., considering their low man power they did as well as they could but with additional consideration they could do much better on all the roads of Novi.

You will hear of how nice it is that Novi is in the black, swell but it was already in the black when I left the second Council in 1962...for even if we went to a dozen meetings per month we voted to only accept pay for one meeting and the saving of the $10 dollars per meeting was passed on to the Village...this was decided because we were so much in the red from the first Council tenure in office...and a manager.

You may be sure—as must be evident by this message—that I shall speak my mind openly and frankly where the welfare of our community is concerned. I owe no group any patronage...nor am I lightened with any other candidate.

Whether you honor me with your vote, that is of course up to you, but please do yourself the honor of voting March 11.

With the interests of the college uppermost in mind, the faculty and the administration of Schoolcraft college have pledged, by a mutual show of faith expressed in open assembly, to work together at all levels for a speedy and satisfactory resolution of differences.

Specifically in the instance of six probationary instructors who were notified their contracts would not be renewed, the faculty has agreed to withdraw all prior demands it has made of the administration for a remedy, and the administration has agreed to offer probationary contracts to the six instructors for the 1968-69 academic year.

The faculty and administration further have agreed that, to demonstrate a mutual dedication to the principles and purposes of the college, this statement be prepared and issued as a joint expression of faith and respect of one toward the other.

Poet Philip Levine, a former Detroit resident now an associate professor of English at Fresno State college, will be at Schoolcraft college Monday, March 11, for a speaking engagement and a poetry reading on the college's winter term Humanities Series.

Levine will speak in the college library at 3 p.m., and will read from his poems at 8 p.m. Both appearances are open to the public without charge.

Levine did both undergraduate and graduate work at Wayne State University and later attended the Writers' Workshop at the University of Iowa. He was poet in residence at Stanford university and has been at Fresno since 1958.

The author of two collections of poetry, Levine has written for many magazines, including Antioch Review, Kayak, Harper's, New York Review of Books, The New Yorker, Paris Review, and Poetry.

His poems have appeared in several anthologies and with Henri Coulette, edited the anthology, "Characters and Crisis."

Piccolo Opera company of Detroit will present two one-act comic operas at Schoolcraft college on Friday evening, March 15.

The program, open to the public at no charge, will be in the Lois L. Waterman Campus center at 8 p.m. Opera fare for the evening will be Martin Kalmanoff's "A Quiet Game of Cribble," and Carl Maria Von Weber's "Abu Hassan."

Kalmanoff's satirical commentary on the living conditions of modern man will feature Warren Jaworski as the Commentator and Marjorie Gordon and Jonathan Swift as the Husband and wife.

Miss Gordon and Jaworski will return for "Abu Hassan," which also features Robert Angus in the title role, Raymond Sharp and Esther Frank.

The opera, with libretto by James L. Limbacher, is the story of Abu, gardener to the Caliph of Baghdad.

SPEAKING

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

At least four of the seven days of a golfing vacation at Pinehurst, North Carolina were sunny and pleasant. Now the fight with impatience for spring to move northward.

Because it was raining Thursday morning we left a day earlier than planned. Until then we had managed a minimum of 27-holes per day, an exercise that reduces the speed of an over-forty foursome to a slow, stiff-legged walk.

So it was with some relief that three of us, Mike Sonk, Bill McAllister and myself, looked forward to a leisurely motor trip home.

We hadn't reckoned with snow at Fancy Gap!

From Winston-Salem, N. C., to Charleston, West Virginia is a distance of about 225 miles. We made it in 10 hours.

A wet snow covered the narrow, winding mountain road beginning at Mt. Airy, N. C., and continued to plague us all the way to Charleston. We calculated that road crews spread about a pound-and-a-half of sand over the entire distance and that plow operators figured it would melt tomorrow so why bother.

The so-called West Virginia turnpike is a 90-mile stretch of three-lane, undivided highway with two-way traffic. It costs motorists $2.50 for the privilege of driving the length, a scenic night ride uninterrupted by the sight of ugly snow-removal vehicles.

But the drive did manage to bring nerves into tune with over-golfed muscles. Both were taunted by the time we checked into a Charleston motel.

Not complaining, mind you, if time and finances would permit, the green fairways below would be incentive enough to tackle a snow-filled Fancy Gap again.

The House of Representatives in Lansing managed to muster one more vote than needed for two-thirds passage of the new district court plan for Michigan.

It does include an amendment that had been urged by the Northville city council, however. The amendment was offered by Representative Louis Schmidt and provides that district courts may have their own probation departments.

Northville recently established its own probation department and the council was fearful that it might be forced to drop the project January 1, 1969, just when it would be nicely organized.

Another Northville recommendation that a city be given the option of maintaining its own municipal court failed to gain favor in the House measure.

But the Senate version of the district court plan does contain this provision.

Under the House plan Northville city and township will be in court district serving the city and township of Plymouth and Canton township.

We still believe that a system of municipal courts, built upon those already in existence, would be the most logical intermediary step for the legislature to take in revising the state's court system.

There's no question that such a program would save thousands of dollars, at both the state and local level. The only objection to continuation of municipal courts that we have heard is that they do not employ fulltime judges.

But municipal courts employ only attorneys and do not pay by the fee system, thereby overcoming two of the main objections to most justice courts.

Until a better system could be devised, the granting of authority of areas to expand their municipal court jurisdiction (such as in the city and township of Northville), or for small communities now served by justice courts to ban together and form municipal courts, would seem far more orderly and convenient.

Local Court Countdown

A LOOSE LEAF

By ROLLY PETERSON

The draft protestors are getting headlines these days, so it came as no small surprise to find a book on the rack in the local drug store that would put General Lewis B. Hershey into ecstasies. The title: 'Draftee's Confidential Guide: How to get along in the Army.'

My immediate thought was that the federal government had launched a new counter-offensive, proclaiming in starchy military language the tried and true virtues of Army life. After all, the cover was olive drab, an indication of what could be expected inside.

But no. The book's written by three former servicemen, Alan Levy, Bernard Krisher and James Cox, who, incidentally, have no ostensible connection with the U. S. Department of Defense. They hit upon the idea of writing the book shortly before being inducted in the Army, and shortly thereafter, the need was manifest.

"When we called the induction station, the only help we received was: 'A soldier travels light.' So we showed up with nothing - and had to buy everything we needed," the authors state.

The language is snappier than your former first sergeant's crisp salute, and there's a heavy smattering of good humor. For, as most veterans will attest - even in war time - humor is the only ingredient that makes the Army palatable. It's either that, or an olive drab existence.

So much for the analysis. Now, let's get down to brass tacks, that is, what the three gentlemen have to say about the Army, from Greetings and Warnings and Basic Training to a special section, tossed in to update the original book, on Vietnam.

On the way to the reception center - "The bus rumbles along the highway and, after the initial shouting and whistling at any female under 60, the passengers subside into thoughtful silence."

Small comfort - "Remember these things as you face basic: More than 15,000,000 Americans went through basic training and survived. The Army takes every precaution against accidents and fatalities. If you're ill you'll get the best medical care. It's only eight weeks - 16 if you're not so lucky and become an infantryman. Finally, if you have a sense of humor, it'll be worth plenty of laughs."

Anecdote about basic - "At formation this morning Sergeant B made us hold our rifles above our heads for 10 minutes. Then we had to lift them up with one hand and hold them for another five minutes. It seemed like hours. He looked at us and said: 'I know what you're thinking of me. You're calling me all sorts of names. I'm not running a popularity contest, so I don't give a damn what you think. And whatever you're thinking - gentlemen - the same to you!'"

Another anecdote - "At formation last night, we were asked if we wanted to see a football game. Not a hard was raised. Most of us were very tired after a long day of training and wanted to get some sleep. But the company commander decided it would boost our morale to see the game so we double-timed to the stadium and then back. We finally went to bed at midnight. Reveille was at 4:30 this morning, as usual."

Still another anecdote: "We began bayonet training yesterday. Whenever we practice with the weapon we have to shout, 'Kill ... Kill... Kill.' The instructor said anyone who didn't want to say 'Kill' could say 'Lollypop.' No one did."

Sage advice - "Don't stay in the barracks during off-duty hours, or you may be picked for a detail. The library is one place they'll never find you."

Discomforting thought on Vietnam - "For amusement, movies are shown outdoors under the stars - depending upon local conditions. Snipers are sometimes attracted to theatersgoers by the light of the silvery screen."

Gross understatement - "Life in the barracks is not very bright at best. Even if a man is working at some fairly interesting, occupation, the thought of returning to the barracks in the evening is distasteful."

Chance, you bet - "The Army has meant terrific hardship for some married couples, a blissful existence for others. What would it mean for you? That depends partly on you and your bride, and partly on chance."

Lawmaker Opposes 'Private' Aid

To the Editor:

A great deal of paper and many words have been used relative to non-public schools and public funds. Quite often the remarks start with the philosophies of "separation of church and state" and "child-welfare". We must, however, not allow our thinking to be concerned only about these concepts, in their limited scope, but rather give some thought to other aspects equally as important and in some respects over shadowing the "first blush" of each concept.

America established free public schools to assure ALL children the opportunity for learning experiences. Permitted too were private or non-public schools as a part of the democratic principle. What is the fate of the free public schools if State funds are diverted to non-public schools? Would we have the establishment of many new private or religious schools because funds would be available? Would we encourage the "prep-school" at the expense of general education for all? Would we provide for a means of disenfranchising the poor, the needy, the handicapped, and the disadvantaged, in other words would we be providing a class of schools for the socio-economic middle and upper classes who so desire? Would we be providing present and new non-public tax-supported schools which as has been stated could be based upon "the isolation of children on racial, ethnic, religious, economic or social criteria?"

My basic concepts relative to non-public schools have always been that right exists, and choice should be available. I cannot rid myself of the belief that the financial responsibility for non-public education is that of those, who because of Constitutional rights, elect to send their children to private or sectarian schools. I cannot justify to myself or anyone else that it is incumbent upon me as a taxpayer, when public education is available, to support a movement that in effect would assist financially a parent or guardian in making a choice of sending a child to a private or religious oriented school. Wouldn't it be somewhat ironic if the State would be supporting religious schools, oriented to its philosophies and doctrines, while at the same time the public schools are not even permitted to take a few minutes each day for prayer? I have received mixed reactions from some who never had children in non-public schools, and from parents of youngsters in parochial schools. From the letters from parents who have had children in non-public schools may I quote: "It is realized that many parents who send children to private schools do so at a great sacrifice. However, they do so by their own

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

"freedom of choice" which is the crux of the entire question. Do we stop at $50,000? If a law were passed how long before the first suit to increase it to $100,000 maybe $500,000?" "If I choose to do or want something of a private matter I pay for it as an extra or do with out it."

There is also the entire area of control. With funds comes control. I can see absolutely no reason for funds to an agency of existing government without legislative controls. Are private or church related schools willing to give up control of these schools? Should private or sectarian schools

Fallacy in 'Separate' Talk

To the Editor: There is a great deal of argument going on over the question of "public" aid to private education.

The private schools argue that they are entitled to aid since the courses taught and facilities provided must meet government standards. They also plead economic need which, in the end, will probably carry the day since we are a need oriented, instead of value directed society. Why should one group of needy receive and another be denied? Especially if they are noisy needy.

The opponents argue that giving "public" funds to private schools would violate the Constitutional dictum of "separation of church and state."

It should be noted however, that the Constitution does not refer to separation of church and state. The First Amendment states in part, "Congress shall make no laws respecting an establishment of Religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof...." "The intent of this amendment was prevention of a state religion such as the founders had seen and experienced in Europe. They realized that a state religion in combination with a Government which allowed men to live as a privilege, not a right, soon had man by the throat. Incidentally, if the question is actually one of "separation of Church and State" wouldn't it be proper to impose the same taxes on Church properties and profits as are imposed on individuals?"

The real questions however can be stated as follows:

Does private education of all kinds exist as a right or only by government permission? Does the government have the right to forcibly remove children from the home and impose its own educational dictates on them while, at the same time forcing the parents to pay taxes to support some bureaucrat's favorite educational whim? Are some people entitled to an educational whim? Are some people entitled to an education (job, home, income, medical care) at the involuntary expense of other people?

The founders of the U.S. were familiar with governmental educational programs in Europe. They realized that when government controls money, it also controls what is taught and that always came to be the supremacy of the State or the majority in subjugation of the individual. For this reason they, deliberately left any mention of educa-

'Gravel Pits Retard Growth'

To the Editor:

The prospect of large subdivision development, North and South of Eight Mile road, at Taft road and the efforts of Northville to acquire the Maybury Sanatorium land, for subdividing and schools, could be very encouraging and gratifying to land owners in the Village of Novi, in this area, if it were not for the discouraging expansion of gravel and refuse fill operations.

The original grant of a permit to gravel and refuse fill contractors on the Anderson farm and later expanded, in spite of organized opposition from nearby taxpayers, is further aggravated by new permits on adjacent farm lands. This activity will retard the development of southwest Novi for years and represents a large loss of future tax base to the village.

It is ever thus: Many must lose so a few can gain.

Motto: Vote for those who have in mind, the best interests of the entire Village of Novi.

Ervin A. Sedlow Sr.

become, by an indirect method, a recipient of State funds then their entire operation should be subject to State control regarding curriculum, hours, staff, pupil-service areas, pupil disciplines, acceptance, suspension and or expulsion of pupils, teacher tenure, and selection of pupils. In view of the real basic issues involved, what could conceivably be the end of the non-public schools, and a change in the total concept of what is free public education, I could not conscientiously support a proposal which would assist in the underwriting of such programs. Louis E. Schmidt State Representative 35th District tional systems out of the constitution. And when it is remembered that this document was written in such a way as to allow citizens all actions not specifically prohibited so long as the same rights of others were not violated and government was allowed only those actions specifically permitted, it is not hard to see why a reference to education was left out.

If it is determined that private education exists by permission and not by right then government can withdraw that permission at any time. It can do so either by edict or indirectly by making economic existence impossible.

The question is the right to choose the education we want for our children. If we have it but cannot do away with the immorality of education of some at the expense of many imposed by force and not left to free choice, then we can only hope for a flickering sense of justice on the part of those controlling the money. If they have it they will give private education a temporary reprieve by returning the money taken from its supporters instead of telling them, "If you don't want to use the public schools, pay extra. This is a free country but you don't have a choice."

If they (the money dispensers) don't return these funds, then let's admit we aren't free to choose and let private education die as have all of our other human rights in the name of the new rights.

The right to an education, the right to a decent home, the right to a decent job, the right to medical care, the right to job security, the right to retirement income.

When your right to your life and property are taken from you in the name of these new rights you might remember that Nazi Germany was built on exactly these principles as is Russia. Scott F. Krause

"Oh, you're just a sore loser. Forget it, he's through," said my wife, turning then to other pursuits. "You didn't put the new plates on my car and I had to do it in the icy cold."

"Phooey with the plates," I barked, "that's woman's work. This Romney stuff is more important."

She's right, though, I am a sore loser. Romney's withdrawal from the Presidential race was a slap in the face. Here I was all set to support a Republican candidate for President and he drops out.

That leaves me with Johnson, Nixon and Lurlene's husband.

About the same kind of choice I had in 1964: Eeenie-meenie.

"He doesn't have it upstairs... he's alright for Governor but not for President ... he's too honest ... he's too egotistic," went the comments in both Republican and Democratic circles.

Perhaps. But in my book he was a winner. He had Democratic votes that the "new" Nixon does not have. He would have lost far fewer Republican votes than Johnson would have won.

That's the pity of it all," I said as she scorched another one of my colliers. "Romney was a winner and the Republican machine puts its money on a loser."

"Would you check the cord on this iron? I think it has a short."

"Quit changing the subject! Given Nixon and Johnson, who are you going to pick?"

"What happened to Governor Wallace?"

"Nothing happened to him, He's still wearing his bedsheet for all I know. Get back to the question: who are you going to pick?"

"Did you know that Mr. Nixon's daughter is going to marry President Eisenhower's grandson? She's a pretty girl, isn't she?"

"My gosh, woman, don't tell me you'll vote for the family again."

"Stop screaming at me. I've got work to do. Go read the new magazine; it's got a story on ESP."

I would have tried talking to the dog again (it's become a regular habit during the newspaper strike), but she cares even less about politics, and lately she's been walking out of the room whenever I get down to serious talk. I can't tell if she's bored, a bigot, or just in heat.

Anyway, it was fortunate I didn't strike up the conversation because the article on ESP was great. But even more interesting was another article - a coincidental study in ESP by Stewart Alsop. It was written days before Governor Romney withdrew. Sample these paragraphs:

"It can be entertaining, and even rather instructive, to imagine future events in terms of headlines. One very likely headline is the following, on March 13: 'Nixon Wins Easily in New Hampshire; Romney Concedes Early'.

"If the names in the above headline are reversed, it will be just about the biggest political upset since Harry Truman's victory in 1948. Now consider another headline: 'Romney Withdraws from Race, Vows Support for Rocky'.

"Richard Nixon, among others, believes that Romney, a stubborn fellow, will stay in the race even after a clobbering in New Hampshire. But Nixon's wish may well be father to the thought. Romney has already talked with Rockefeller about the possibility of withdrawing in Rockefeller's favor."

Excited, I raced back to the ironing board. "Hey, did you read this? Republicans might pick a winner, anyway, and give me a real choice."

"Who is Alsop?"

"A newspaperman."

"I'll bet he fixes his wife's iron."

I can't even win in my own house.

Non-College Bound Grads Neglected

LANSING - Benefits of college training are stressed so heavily that many high school students feel that a college program is the only road to success.

This is unfortunate, says Ellis S. Hammond, Michigan State educator, who believes such reasoning works hardships on both student and society.

trades carry a higher wage scale than what college graduates can command.

OVEREMPHASIS of college education and a neglect of students who are not college-bound is a practice of our present way of life, charges Hammond.

A series of booklets, of which Hammond is a co-author, supplies specific information to help students who do not want to go to college, as well as to those who do.

Referred to as "COGS," the Career Opportunity Guides are available for a dollar per copy. "COG No. 1" is designed for the student interested in something besides college training. It includes lists of wages and salaries. These show that some trades pay as much as $3,950 more than degree jobs for beginners.

Another "COG," soon to be published, deals with apprenticeship programs.

EFFECTIVE distribution for "COGS" is a problem and a disappointment for those who produced them. They thought schools would be anxious to have several copies available for use by their students and that parents would buy copies so they could have the information permanently. They were wrong.

"COGS" have received superficial approval, but school counselors, for the most part, have shown no great desire to use the publications to help students who are not college-oriented.

LABOR and management give lots of encouragement to the "COG" ideas, but little support. Nor have civic groups which, it seems to the "COG" publishers, ought to be anxious to help.

So the educators are left with what seems to them valuable information to parents and young people and are at a loss to get it into their hands.

TAX REPEALS and some hard looks at the entire tax situation in Michigan may be in the offing if Sen. Harry A. DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, has his way. DeMaso, chairman of the State Senate Taxation Committee, says his committee hopes to find ways to eliminate "inequitable taxes" now levied against individuals as well as businessmen.

As desirable as this idea may be, the Senator found the going rough when he sought repeal of the first "inequitable tax," the so-called "chain store tax." The tax was passed 35 years ago in an attempt to protect small store owners from growing chain store operations.

DeMaso said it is not really a tax, but a fee charged to chain store operators for the privilege of doing business. He contended the tax has not proven successful and serves no purpose.

DEMOCRATS blistered DeMaso with accusations that the measure was designed to give a break to "big business." Tax repeals should benefit those who need it most, they charged. DeMaso retorted that the Democrats were admitting the tax was inequitable and were merely saying, "let's keep it on because it's against business."

The measure finally passed amid name calling and party clashes. Observers view the collision as an indication of things to come, perhaps with the moral: taxes are easier passed than repealed.

Prosperity Helps Boost Medical Cost; Hospitals Target of Harsh Criticism

BABSON PARK, Massachusetts - In 1965, the total health bill for all Americans was triple that for 1950 and rose from 4 1/2 percent to 6 percent of Gross National Product. Since then, medical costs have continued to climb at a pace which is causing growing concern nationwide.

Of course, it must be realized that a sizable part of the increase in total dollar cost of medical care arises from the fact that we have many more millions of people to care for than was the case in 1950. In that year, our population was 150 million. By 1965 this had jumped to 190 million. And we have now passed the 200-million mark.

Such a huge increment has in itself been sufficient to tax our medical facilities even though we have been expanding these at a consistently fast pace. But during the period under review we have also enjoyed unprecedented economic growth featured by high employment, climbing wages, and greatly expanded total personal income. This prosperity has made it possible for ever larger numbers of our people to attend to their medical needs than ever before.

This was the situation when Medicare became operative less than two years ago. During that program's initial year of operation, 4.4 million of our senior citizens entered hospitals and the Social Security system paid $2.5 billion for their hospital care - and more than $3 billion for their combined hospital and supplementary medical insurance benefits. During the first full year of the health-insurance program, 12 million people (66 percent of all those eligible) used these covered medical services.

While hospitals and doctors were still striving to adjust to - and keep abreast of - the increasing flow of patients, they were challenged by Medicaid - the state-administered federal-aid program which pays the medical costs of the medically indigent. While Medicare's benefits are restricted to the aged, Medicaid's can be obtained by people of any age who can qualify as "medically indigent." In Medicaid's first year of operation, federal payments to New York State alone under the program were higher than the total dollar amount budgeted for Medicaid in the entire country.

AS CONTROVERSY over the rapid and continuing rise in medical expenses threatens to boil over, hospitals - which account for the lion's share of the rise - are the target of harsh criticism. During the past several years - and especially during the past three - hospital costs have literally skyrocketed, and it is estimated that in the decade ending 1975 they will at least double while the over-all consumer price index may move up only 20 percent.

nurses and other employees now command considerably higher salaries than they did a few years back. In manufacturing, salaries and wages represent about two-fifths of total costs, but in hospital operation those items represent a whopping two-thirds. Another cost factor over which hospitals have only incomplete and generally inadequate control is the recompense for their care of the poor...for in most instances this is dictated by state agencies. Yet it is obvious that cost efficiency must receive a far higher priority in hospitals if socialized medicine is to be avoided.

So far, physicians' fees have not risen as fast as hospital costs, but they are moving up smartly and now show signs of leaping. Last year, we are told by an informed observer, the net earnings of the average physician came close to $35,000. And during the first 16 months of Medicaid's operations in California, 1200 doctors in that state received average payments of $70,000 apiece for treating Medicaid patients alone.

Is it any wonder the average layman feels he is being overcharged - both as a paying patient and as a taxpayer?

Eyes Zone Competition Gary Becker Wins District Contest

Gary Becker of Northville won first-place in the American Legion's district oratorical contest Friday night in Livonia and, in doing so, earned a position in zone competition slated for Sunday afternoon.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Becker, 543 Dubur street, Gary who represents the Lloyd H. Green Post 147 of Northville, will compete Sunday against winners of the sixth, seventh, eighth and 18th American Legion districts.

Competition will get underway at 4 p.m. in Royal Oak.

Should he win at Royal Oak, the Northville high school student will compete in the American Legion's state contest at Farmington on Saturday, March 16.

Gary earned his position in the 17th district competition in Livonia last Friday by winning the Northville contest.

Why Probation?

It Deters Criminal Repeaters

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following article is the second written by Dennis R. Dildy, new appointed chief probation officer of the Northville Municipal Court.

After a court finds any defendant guilty of breaking the law that falls in the jurisdiction of the Northville municipal court, the judge may refer the case to the probation department for one or more of its services.

Two of the main services of the department are: to initiate a pre-sentence investigation of the offender in order to give the judge background facts upon which to pass sentence; and to work with individuals who actually have been placed on probation as opposed to the sentence, fine, or imprisonment as specified by law.

Why probation?

It is not hard to see that most people do not understand the importance of probation in this surrounding area. Just last week as a previous article was explaining the meaning of probation, a survey reported by State Representative Louis E. Schmidt of the 35th district reported that majority opinions ran against the use of probation and parole by judges for convicted criminals.

If this survey is accurate as an indicator of majority public opinion it is indeed unfortunate, since such opinion must be based upon a lack of public knowledge as to what probation and parole systems do.

Perhaps, this lack of information is due to the fact that only 5 percent of all lower courts in the nation have any probation program whatsoever, and only a fraction of these are effective for rehabilitation.

The Royal Oak probation department is one of the exceptions, so exceptional that the federal government has for sometime now spread the philosophy to other communities.

Obviously, since a parole system is designed to have an imprisoned offender adjust back into the community after he has served his sentence as deemed appropriate by legal officials, it would appear that a community that does not want them counseled during a specified time after their return to the community is asking for repeat violations.

Probation has demonstrated in communities such as Royal Oak that 94 percent of all probationers are successful in following the terms of their probation, and that a majority of offenders placed on probation with adequate supervision are less likely to again become involved with the law as compared to equal numbers, who instead are sent to jail, and who do again become involved with the law.

Indeed, Royal Oak is now the model for Northville's probation department, as it has been for Livonia and numerous other courts in the country. This model is one of effectiveness, made possible only by the volunteer sponsors, who serve on a one-to-one basis with probationers. Should Northville fail to attract a host of volunteer sponsors, then it, too, will become one of the ineffective probation departments of the land, owing to a lack of personnel and money needed to adequately cover the case load.

How are volunteer sponsors chosen? Upon application as a volunteer probation sponsor. The judge and chief probation officer will check for sincerity and stability of character in regard to the work required of the person applying.

When an applicant is accepted, he will receive an orientation as to the general nature of his work. When assigned a probationer, he will be expected to meet with the probationer at least once a month in person for at least one hour. The volunteer should be available at any time for the probationer to contact him in time of need.

The chief probation officer and the court will be available at all times for the volunteer to receive advice in the handling of his case.

Once a month the chief probation officer will contact the volunteer for a brief oral report as well as submission of a brief form showing the progress of his probationer.

As much as possible, the volunteer will receive the type of probationer with which he or she can best work. During a leave or sickness of the volunteer, another person will be temporarily assigned to the case. When a volunteer's client is taken off probation, the volunteer will receive a "rest period" before a new assignment is made.

The Royal Oak probation department summarizes the volunteer's job as being "a friend of the probationer. He must, as his friend, serve in the same capacity as he does to his other friends. He is sensitive to his needs, sympathetic to his problems, helpful wherever he can be in solving these problems, concerned with his well-being, etc. The volunteer must show this by his words and by his conduct. He should remember that some of the probationers have deep problems which will not be solved quickly. Their problems are many and they need a friend, not a lecturer or a preacher. By being a good friend, you can do a lot."

Year-Round School

In addition to savings accomplished through using fewer teachers who are paid more for teaching a longer annual schedule, the Toledo report suggests that savings are also possible in districts having major pupil transportation services. As with the teachers, fewer buses would be needed if enrollment was reduced 25%. While noting that fewer buses would be in service longer each year, the report comments that significantly less capital would be tied up in buses and that there might be advantages in steady and efficient utilization of mechanics and drivers if a bus operation is maintained on an 11-month basis.

Another topic that requires detailed study is concerned with the depreciation and replacement costs associated with vehicle maintenance when the equipment is not in use for extended periods.

The area appearing most promising as offering financial advantages is the area of land and buildings for increasing enrollments, coupled with the cost a district pays for "renting" money from the bond market.

Districts facing a serious overcrowding or a rapidly increasing enrollment might find economies where a district with a more static population condition might find the four-quarter calendar highly expensive. One member of the Ann Arbor board of education is recommending the four-quarter calendar and claiming that for that district the effect would be the same as about $18 million in new buildings.

This much is certain about the four-quarter calendar: It is going to come under exhaustive examination in many districts. A few attempts to introduce the schedule will probably be made in Michigan next year.

If it offers any financial advantages which become evident through actual practice, it probably will be adopted on a wide scale. Here are the alternatives as described in the University of Toledo's report:

— Pay the higher taxes necessary to support a good quality public school system using the traditional year.

— Accept deficiencies in public school programs employing the traditional year.

— Accept the personal inconveniences associated with the flexible (four quarter, year 'round) system.

(Editor's Note: Next week's newspaper will conclude its year 'round series by asking readers to give their initial reactions to a number of questions concerning a year 'round program. Results of the survey will be published later and passed on to the newly formed citizens year 'round study committee in Northville. The citizens' committee plans to conduct a survey of its own later this year after its study is near an end.)

Northville Township Board Minutes

February 6, — Northville township hall, 107 S. Wing. Meeting called to order at 8:10 p.m.

Present: Supervisor Merriam, Clerk Hammond, Treasurer Lawrence, Trustees: Armstrong, Tellam, Consultants: Attorney Ashton, Engineer Mosher. Absent: Trustees: Baldwin, Stromberg. Also present: 7 township residents, Planning Commissioner Klein, Thompson-Brown representative. Minutes of township board meetings of January 2 and 9, 1968 approved.

Treasurer's report for January 1968 read and accepted. Office Receipts and Bills Payable for the township and for the Water & Sewer Department for January were reviewed. Armstrong moved that all current bills be paid, seconded by Tellam. The Clerk's quarterly budget report was read and accepted, as was the Building Department report.

Planning Commission minutes of December 28, 1967 and of January 10 and 30, 1968 and Water & Sewer Commission minutes of January 12 and 24, 1968 were received.

Correspondence

1. Bradner road sewer taps — In a letter from Thompson-Brown Co., they agreed to put in six inch leads for any or all of the eleven parcels across from their property on Bradner road, at a price not to exceed $500 per lead. It is the recommendation of our attorney that we prepare a document which will be presented to the people who are interested in these sewer leads. It is the recommendation of the Water & Sewer Commission that the Township Board O.K. the payment for these taps out of the Water & Sewer Fund, to be reimbursed in five annual installments by the owners. There is no obligation to the property owner to accept. A "T" opening will be placed opposite each parcel of land. The offer will be kept open until March 1, 1968. Tellam moved that the board assume payment for the sewer taps, advanced from the Water & Sewer Funds, not to exceed $4500.00, and that the Supervisor be authorized to accept the agreements. Seconded by Armstrong. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

2. Plymouth School District Adult Education and Recreation Commission — As requested in the letter from Plymouth, an appointment has been made to this commission, from the area of the Township in which the Plymouth School District is located. Mr. William Smith has accepted the appointment.

3. Maybury Sanatorium property disposition — The Northville Board of Education is investigating the future use of the Maybury property. They are urging the City of Detroit to inform them of their intentions. If it is to be residential, future schools will have to be planned. As the letter is very long, a copy will be sent to each Bd. Member.

4. Vacation of Fonner Road — Clerk Hammond read a letter to the Wayne County Road Commission from Thompson Brown Co. In order to develop their new subdivision in that area, it would appear to be well to vacate this section of Fonner road which was platted but never built, and residents use a road which is at the front of their property. The vacated land would revert to the adjacent lot owners.

Old Business — 1. Action on the Detroit Edison Franchise Election was postponed to the March meeting. Tentatively the election date has been set for April 29, 1968.

2. Regarding a water line to the State Hospital, Mr. Merriam stated that he had spoken with Mr. Hodges, the Assistant Director of the State Dept. of Mental Health, that the contract has been signed, and must now have a routine approval of the Administration Board in Lansing.

3. Armstrong presented a drawing of the proposed sign to be erected for the Township by the Oasis Company. It must now be submitted to the Wayne County Road Commission for approval. Tellam moved that the Township Board approve the sign as described, seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

4. Mr. Ashton spoke about the disposition of the Lapham Mobile Home court case. Judge George Martin returned a decision prohibiting the building of the trailer court, and he felt that it would be worthwhile for the members of the board to read the complete decision as recorded. It supports our whole new Master Plan for the Township zoning.

New Business — 1. We now have three ordinances for our Township Police officer, Ronald Nisun, to enforce: the Dog Ordinance, the No Hunting and the Trash Ordinances. Mr. Merriam recommended that Mr. Nisun's term of office be extended to March 1, 1969. Mr. Tellam so moved, seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

2. Settlement Day meeting this year has been set for March 19, 1968.

3. The Recreation Commission budget was presented. It is higher than formerly because of a rise in salaries and costs, and the purchase of necessary new equipment. Township participation has dropped, although it is expected to go up next year after the completion of the new high school pool. Merriam will discuss a change in our share of the costs, with the city.

4. There has been a request for assured sewer taps, from Thompson-Brown Co. Greenspan and Gysynski will also need more taps, so that we will probably be short over 400 units within the next few years. We are investigating the possibility of securing other sewer capacity, up to $50,000 worth of taps. Ways of financing these taps are going to be studied, also.

5. Tellam moved that the Clerk and Supervisor be permitted to sign the contract with the Wayne County Road Commission for dusting the township roads in 1968, seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

Appointment — Armstrong notified us that Mrs. Laura Kerr has indicated a willingness to serve on the Library Commission.

A letter from Mr. Carey of Thompson-Brown indicated that the new Plat Act changes the provision dealing with the sub-dividing of a plat lot. Tellam moved that the letter from Mr. Robert Carey, dated January 29, 1968, dealing with Section 263 of the new Plat Act, be referred to our attorney and the Planning Commission for study and recommendation, with a note to Mr. Carey advising him of our action. Mr. Lawrence seconded. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

Mr. Russell presented plans for improvements which include the installation of water mains on Northville City property which abuts the township boundaries on the West and South. They have ideas with regard to the extension of water into the township at this point. Tellam moved that the township have engineer Mosher look into this matter and give us a report, and that our supervisor, attorney, and engineer proceed with preliminary negotiations toward arrangements with the city of Northville and the Detroit Water Board. Seconded by Armstrong. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

Meeting adjourned at 10:05 p.m. Respectfully submitted, Eleanor W. Hammond, Clerk
