

Youths Beat, Abduct Novi Officer

Five South Lyon youths kidnapped a Novi police officer Tuesday afternoon and held him captive at gunpoint until a South Lyon officer and state police officers finally seized the weapon.

A SHAKEN Bob Starnes is lowered onto an ambulance stretcher immediately following his release. That's Fred Casterline (foreground).

Novi Officer Robert Starnes, who was overwhelmed by the five youths when he stopped them in their red convertible as they threw beer bottles out of the car, was taken to St. Mary hospital, Livonia.

After treatment for multiple cuts and bruises, Starnes was released and returned to duty. Starnes told this newspaper Tuesday night, "There's no doubt in my mind they had no intentions of letting me go. They would have killed me."

Charged with kidnapping are Giles Carl Askins, 19, and Floyd Kirkendall and William J. Jobe, both 17. They were arraigned at 1:35 a.m. Wednesday before Novi Justice of the Peace Emery Jacques, who set bail on Askins at $50,000 and $25,000 apiece on Kirkendall and Jobe.

Examination of the trio is set for 1 p.m. on August 8 in Justice Jacques' court room. Unable to post bond, Askins, Kirkendall and Jobe were remanded to the Oakland county jail.

Attempts will be made, it was reported, to secure a waiver on the juveniles aged 15 and 16 so that they may be tried as adults for kidnapping.

They were sent to the Oakland County Youth Home, pending developments.

South Lyon Patrolman Donald Fletcher and Detective Paul Palmer and Trooper Eugene Nichols from the Brighton State Police post disarmed Askins, who was holding the weapon at Starnes' head.

The Leonard Montgomery family, including the mother and father, watched in their front yard at Nine Mile near Currie road in Lyon township as the officers talked with the gun-wielding youth.

The alertness of a Novi resident led to the eventual capture of the youths. Cecil Smallwood of Ten Mile road witnessed the beating and carrying away of Starnes by the youths. Smallwood quickly reported the incident to police and the dragnet was out.

Starnes said the "fuse" that touched off the afternoon of terror was when he phoned into the station to have the convertible towed away. It infuriated them, he said, especially Askins.

The youths took Starnes' gun, a 45-caliber revolver, and his blackjack, and on the wild, five-mile ride to the Montgomery home, struck blows over his body with the gun, blackjack and fists.

While continually threatening to kill him, Starnes told this newspaper, Askins fired three shots close to the Novi officer. Distinct powder burns on Starnes' uniform shirt attest to the closeness of the shots.

About 50 police cars from as far away as West Bloomfield and the City of Brighton, and a Westland police helicopter combed the area and cordoned it off in case of attempted escape. Thrillseeking spectators stood aside their cars parked along the road.

Detective Palmer was the man who made the move that successfully disarmed Askins. He said he grabbed Askins' gun hand when he momentarily pointed the gun away from Starnes' head and relaxed.

Fletcher dived over the sprawled men, and while Palmer held the

The Northville Record

IF IT'S NEWS...AND IT HAPPENS IN NORTHVILLE...YOU CAN READ IT IN THE RECORD

Vol. 99, No. 12, 30 Pages, Two Sections • Northville, Michigan — Thursday, August 1, 1968 • 10¢ Per Copy, $4 Per Year In Advance

At Tuesday's Primary Long Ballot Awaits Voters

Whew! That's about the best way to describe the ballot that will greet Northville-Nowi-Wixom area electors when they go to the polls for Tuesday's primary election.

Dubbed a "wallpaper" election by both state and county elections officials because of the large number of partisan and non-partisan candidates and a host of county propositions, the primary is the "warm-up" for the November Presidential election.

The fact that the primary is being held at all is just short of amazing this year because of the court battles that delayed printing of the ballots. For a time elections officials were betting it would have to be postponed.

Polls will open at 7 a.m., close at 8 p.m. In the city of Northville, voters will cast their ballots at the city hall council chambers (Precinct 1), city hall lower level (Precinct 2), and Amerman School (Precinct 3); in Northville Township at the old junior high school on Main Street (Precincts 1 and 2); in Novi at the township hall (Precinct 1) and the community building (Precinct 2); and in Wixom at the city hall.

Voters are reminded that split ticket voting is not permissible. If a voter votes for candidates on more than one party his ballot will be rejected.

While no local municipal offices are up for election, voters for the first time will be picking district candidates. These, for the newly reorganized county boards of supervisors and the district court system, are expected to generate the most interest.

Several of the candidates for these offices are from this threecommunity area.

In Northville, City Municipal Judge Philip Ogilvie and Allen C. Ingle will be up to gain the nomination for district judge, while in Wixom two residents are seeking their party's nomination for district supervisor of Oakland County. They are Lew Coy and Wixom Councilman Ray Lahti. Lahti, however, is opposed for the Democratic nomination.

In Salem Township, the present township supervisor, Floyd Taylor, and Wilfred C. Hammond, also a Salem resident, are seeking the Republican nomination for District Supervisor.

All posts—including the seats on the boards of supervisors—are partisan except those for judges. Winners Tuesday will represent their respective parties in the November election. Top vote-getting judges will compete in November, too.

Following are the candidates by communities:

In Northville

(Wayne County section of the city and the Township of Northville).

District Supervisor—Democrats: James Carroll, Vernon Foster, Donald E. Friedrichs, Gerald K. O'Brien, and Arch E. Vallier; Republicans: Albert P. Ayotte, Hazel Jones, Joseph C. Keane, Edward G. Milligan, Carl Pursell, and Henry R. Sladek.

State Representative—Democrats: John T. McDonald and Marvin R. Stempien; Republicans: Neil C. Hall and Incumbent Louis E. Schmidt.

Northville city residents living in Oakland County will vote for the same candidates as do voters in Novi and Wixom except in the case of District Judge.

In Novi-Wixom

District Supervisor—Democrats: Ray W. Lahti; Republicans: Clifford K. Cottrell, Lew Coy, and Marshall Taylor.

State Representative—Democrats: Earl St. Aubin and William E. Todd; Republicans: N. Paul Forsberg and Incumbent Clifford Smart.

In Salem

District Supervisor—Democrats: Elaine Rice and John Starwas; Republicans: Wilfred Hammond and Floyd Taylor.

State Representative—Democrats: Steve Becher and James M. Cregar; Republicans: Incumbent Roy Smith.

In the races for district judge, voters of Northville Township and both the Oakland and Wayne County sections of the city will make their selections from these candidates:

Dunbar Davis, Robert E. Greenstein, Thomas H. Healy, Allen C. Ingle, and Philip R. Ogilvie.

Novi and Wixom voters will pick from Martin Boyle, C. H. Letzring, and John C. Weick.

There is no primary contest for District Judge in Salem Township.

Candidates for United States Congress, in the 19th District (includes all of the City of Northville, Novi and Wixom) are: Gary R. Frink and Ron Mardiros, Democrats; and Incumbent Jack McDonald, unopposed Republican. In the Second District (including Northville and Salem Townships), candidates are A. Jerome Depont, John McDermott, and Weston Vivian, Democrats; and Incumbent Marvin Esch, unopposed Republican.

Board Calls Meeting For $100,000 Cutback

There was mixed reaction on the Northville board of education Monday night when a regular session was interrupted by the announcement that the board's two-mill request had met its second defeat.

But one attitude predominated. There will not be a "third attempt". The board's next action will take place Monday night when a special meeting has been called to decide where to trim $100,000 — the amount two mills would have raised in operating revenues — from the 1968-69 budget.

Several specific cuts were immediately noted.

"It (the millage loss) will affect a minimum of 10 teachers tomorrow", Superintendent Ray Spear told the board. Four new teachers signed contracts contingent upon the millage passing. Spear said they would be informed that they cannot work in Northville next year.

Six other teachers, regulars on the staff, will be moved from such activities as counseling, elementary physical education and music back to classroom assignments. "If they don't like the changes, they'll just have to look elsewhere for jobs," Spear pointed out.

Miss Florence Panattoni,

curriculum coordinator for the Northville public school system, expressed regret at the loss of the new teachers, provisionally hired. "They were excellent people ... this is a new experience for Northville," she lamented.

Other reactions from board members and administrators nearly led to vehement argument. Some advocated "cuts so they'll feel the pain." Others were more moderate and insisted that cut-backs should be evenly distributed throughout the entire school program "so that we're still offering a well-rounded program."

"We've had no mandate to scuttle the system," argued Board Member Glenn Deibert.

Superintendent Spear wondered

about how the public would accept cuts in the varsity football program compared to elementary music. "We can continue a football program so 2,000 parents can sit in the stands and watch. But where were they at the election?" he asked.

Boardmembers Andrew Orphan and Deibert proposed not opening the pool. Others argued that the facility should be operated, but that any activities outside a basic school program in swimming would have to be paid through fees covering all expenses.

The board also got caught up in an argument involving youngsters of persons living on tax-free property. The school system does not receive tuition from these students, only state-aid. Board Member Richard Martin favors taking the issue to court.

It was also noted that there will be "less in the kitty" for teacher negotiations and it was flatly predicted that the predicament will lead to a teacher strike locally and delay in opening of schools.

Transportation services are also certain to be cut. Main road service with no "door-to-door" pick-ups within subdivisions will be the new order.

The board agreed that Superintendent Spear should come up with cut-back recommendations for their review and approval.

Next Monday, 8 p.m. at the board of education offices, public welcome, says the board.

'Second Time Around'

720 NO-667 YES

Upon learning that its second attempt to pass a two-mill levy for operating funds had failed, the Northville board of education called for a special meeting next Monday to determine "how and where to trim $100,000 out of the budget".

While the July 29 vote topped the June 10 turn-out by about eight per cent, the board's hoped-for increase in "YES" votes did not materialize.

Instead Monday voters registered 720 NO votes to 667 YES votes. In June the tally was 484-470.

The voting percentage Monday was 28.28 per cent of the total qualified electorate, while in June the turn-out was 20.04 per cent.

Saturday's Sidewalk Day

Motorists may find it a little confusing driving around Northville's business district Saturday, but pedestrians — especially shoppers — will enjoy plenty of room to browse without traffic worries.

Nearly 40 retailers, organizations, artists, etc., will be displaying their wares for sale on the streets and sidewalks from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. as the Retail Merchants Association conducts its annual Sidewalk Sale.

Both Main and Center streets will be closed to vehicular traffic so that shoppers may roam freely. Main will be closed from Center to Hutton and Center street from Main to Dunlap.

Sale Chairman Charles Lapham said that already this year's participation tops any previous year, but he noted that there's still space on the streets and sidewalks for rent. Any merchant or organization wishing to take part in the day-long event can reserve space by calling Lapham at 349-3677.

Traditionally, the sidewalk sale affords the thrifty shopper the opportunity to make real dollar-saving buys on summer merchandise, while the merchant is happy to clear his shelves to make room for new fall selections.

For specific "Sidewalk Sale buys, see pages 4-A, 5-A.

Those participating in the sale include: Old Mill Restaurant, Hugh Jarvis Gifts, Lapham's Men's Shop, Freydl's Men's and Women's Shops, Gungel Drugs, Noder's Jewellery, Little People's Shoppe, Lila's Flowers & Gifts, Stone's Gamble Store, D & C

Store, Brader's Department Store, Del's Shoes, Schrader's Home Furnishings, The Spinning Wheel, The Northville Record, Northville Hardware.

Leone's Hardware, Hartley-Powers Gallery, The Littlest Gallery, Northville Antiques, Stone Cellar Antiques, Village Pump Antiques, The Barn Door Antiques, Mothers Club, Girl Scout Troop No. 222, Ollie Nan Smith, Mrs. Donald Van Ingen, Methodist Church Women's Society, Northville Jaycees, Order of Eastern Star, Kate Edgerton, William Case, Diane Mitchell, Marjorie Kulifay, Lion Water Softener, Monson Trailer Parts, G. E. Miller Sales & Service.

In case of postponement due to heavy rains, the sale will be held on the following Saturday, August 10.

Best Season Ever Closes for Downs

Northville Downs closed its 54-night Silver Anniversary season last night a twenty-to-one favorite to set a new record for mutual handle.

Through last Saturday, the 52nd night of racing this year, the local harness track had taken in a total of $16,004,853. The average nightly handle has been $313,820, compared to the record high mutual handle average set in 1966 of $292,896.

Attendance through last Saturday hit a total of 219,154. While betting is up 11.1 per cent over last year, attendance shows a modest increase of 3.3 per cent.

Last Friday night 5,006 fans bet $375,642, while on Saturday 5,500 wagered $353,664.

The big Downs' season will give the city's treasury a boost. Rebates from the state's cut of the track mutual handle should produce some $175,000 for the city.

Sandrock-Claeys Vows Repeated

Sheila Sandrock and Gilbert Claeys recited their wedding vows at a ceremony in the Martha-Mary Chapel, Greenfield Village, before an altar decorated with white mums, gladioli, and palms.

The double ring ceremony was read by The Reverend Harold Pailthorpe of Mt. Hope Methodist Church, Detroit.

Miss Mary Jo Lindsey of Detroit and New York sang two solos, "And This Is My Beloved" and "Panus Angelicus". The Bridal March from Lohengrin was used for the processional and the bridal party left the church to the music of "Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell.

Given in marriage by her father, Walter Sandrock of Northville, the bride wore a white linen gown with an A-line silhouette. Venese lace banded the portrait neckline, short sleeves, hem and chapel train. Her flowers were cascading white roses, stephanotis and spring rye.

For her matron of honor, the bride chose her sister-in-law, whose gown was a jewel pink A-line silhouette with a center back panel falling from a square neckline. Wearing identical dresses in blush pink, the bridesmaids were Miss Jeanne Garrod of Northville, Miss Sue Fox of Florida, Miss Martha Jossman of Southfield, and Miss Marianne Vaubel of Pennsylvania, all former classmates of the bride. Bouquets for the attendants were pink sweetheart roses surrounded by lavender and purple asters and starflowers.

Mother of the bride, Mrs. Coy Sandrock of Livonia, wore a beaded yoked pink chiffon A-line dress with matching accessories and flowers. The groom's mother, Mrs. Anthony Carnegie wore a frock of aqua linen with a pink corsage.

Alex Klimoff of New Haven, Connecticut, was best man, and ushers were Grove Sandrock, brother of the bride, Jim Keating of Kalamazoo, Jim Socklowski and Paul Schultz of Detroit.

A former Northville High School student, the bride is a recent graduate of Western Michigan University, where she was a member of Sigma Kappa sorority and Mortar Board, and was elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Carnegie of Detroit, is a Michigan State University graduate and is a teacher at Waterford-Kettering High School at Drayton Plains.

Following a dinner and reception for 100 guests at a restaurant in Plymouth, the couple left for a trip to Gatlinburg, Tennessee. They will make their home in Detroit.

The Wills' Family

They Like Alaska

Alaskans Jerre and Margie Wills, formerly of Northville, write their friends that they're thankful "to be raising their children up here," away from the danger of riots and assassinations that they read about "in the States."

This in spite of the fact that Margie shot a black bear 30 feet from her young son Eric! This is all in a day's vacation, apparently, for the Wills family was at the time enjoying "the nicest vacation we've been on - the beauty of the place cannot be told..."

The couple, who left with the "Michigan 59ers" to make their home in the new state, had filed claim to the lovely spot two years ago and had gone there to start work on a cabin. A requirement of owning the homestead land is that they have liveable houses on it. They plan to build more later on, Marge told the Perry Taylors of Northville in a June letter.

Building this one meant spending their vacation felling trees, cutting them up, and serving as "horses" to haul them to the building site.

The trip from their home in Kasilof took them first 80 miles to Homer where they took a plane. They flew at an altitude of 5000 feet and crossed the inlet, the great mountains, and the glaciers - to a mountain-fed lake that looked like "a giant emerald" thier destination. They had selected a cove at 2,400-foot elevation for their homestead.

They built a 12x20-foot cabin during the 10 days and installed one window which was brought over on the plane that picked them up.

They were toughened to such privations as dwindling food supplies, on the trip, of fishing to supplement short rations, and getting blisters and backaches from the hard work.

After all they had taken a lone route away from the friends who came to Alaska with them and set up housekeeping in their trailer on 130 acres at Kasilof, on Kenai Peninsula nine years before.

They had built four walls and a roof and eventually even got a luxury: electricity. They rebuilt it when it burned. They survived wet springs, icy winters, weeks without seeing another soul - and loved it. Judging from this recent letter, this is still their sentiment about Alaska.

★ For the First time, the voters and taxpayers of Wayne County will have an opportunity to elect their representative to the Board of Supervisors on a direct basis. Instead of a 130 man Board, the decisions for your $125 million dollar budget will be made by 26 directly elected officials.

NORTHVILLE

This magnificent home is an executive's dream come true. It has absolutely everything! Reproduction costs at today's prices in this area would be in excess of $200,000. Only the best of materials were used and the craftsmen were superior in their field. A single story ranch type, with over 3,000 feet of luxury living situated on one of the most beautiful wooded lots in Northville. The master bedroom has a complete bath, and there are three full baths plus another half bath. There are two natural fireplaces, a country size kitchen with all the built-ins. A three-car garage attached with electric eye opener. Two patios with natural slate. The roof is masonry built for a lifetime. The rec. room has a circular wet bar. It would take a full page to describe this home completely so for the most discriminating buyer, my advice is to call for an appointment and see for yourself.

Here's How Judges Rate Livestock

You can spend hours or days at the Michigan State Fair studying the types and breeds of livestock. Here are a few pointers for the uninitiated on how they are judged. Dairy cattle: Dairy cattle are leaner than beef stock, they have less thickness of body, a more slender neck and narrower thighs to give more room for the udder. Judges demand a capacious middle that will handle a lot of hay, a strong level topline and a closely earned level udder that shrinks completely when milked out. Beef cattle: These are blocky, broad-backed animals, built like a box, with a good set of strong short legs to carry the heavy body. They are usually shown "conditioned" which means fattened to give the loin its marbling and the rib roast its juiciness. Estimating the amount and quality of muscle or lean meat is what the judge is doing when he places his hands across the loin or fingers down the ribs. Swine: A Champion has an arched and well-muscled back, meaty loin, long, deep and bulging ham, strong straight legs with strong pasterns. One of the interesting entry rules is that boars over one year must have had their tusks removed before being admitted to the fairgrounds. Sheep: The judge must evaluate both meat and fiber. The wool is parted at the shoulder, that's the finest fleece, the coarsest being on the rump. Fleece on the rib is judged as average for crimp, length and brightness. For a healthy sheep, the skin must be pink. Meat quality is judged by a slap with the open hand along the back, loin and between the hind legs to estimate how good the leg of lamb is because it is the most valuable cut in the sheep. E. J. "Jeff" Kerns, State Fair general manager, points out that many hours of hard work by the breeders are behind the showing of their animals. Usually from six to eight weeks is required to get an animal properly "fitted". The Michigan State Fair opens Friday, August 23, and continues through September 2, Labor Day.

Court Ruling to Decide Teachers' 'Agency Shop'

A pending Macomb County Circuit Court decision may well pave the way for rapid settlement of teacher-school district contract agreements. The litigation centers around the agency shop or professional responsibility clauses in teacher contracts, according to Richard Gray, Michigan Education Association Metro Area Center Director for Wayne County. "Many of our still unsettled teacher units in the County are negotiating to include such provisions in their 1968-69 contracts. Association efforts, however, are in some cases still being met with resistance from the various school boards," Gray said. "As a result," he continued, "we still don't have agreements for Fall. Some imply it to be illegal, while others maintain the provision is an economic issue. We view it as neither," he continued. The test case was newly instigated in Macomb County by James Clampitt, a teacher in the Warren Consolidated School District. Testimony in the case has been taken under advisement by Judge Walter P. Cynar. Clampitt was dismissed from his teaching post in the Warren system at the end of the school year after declining to authorize a salary deduction equivalent to the dues and assessments of the Warren Education Association. The 1967-68 contract between the Association and the School District states the teacher's services shall be discontinued at the end of the school year if the authorization is not signed within 30 days following commencement of employment. Clampitt contends the Michigan Tenure Act prohibits his discharge, but, admittedly, defied the agency shop provision of the agreement. "The Tenure Act expressly permits the dismissal of an employee for reasonable and just causes," Gray explained. "Charges must be made in writing and the teacher is entitled to a hearing, if requested," he continued. The agency shop provision has not yet been considered by the Michigan Tenure Commission. Gray said one case had been scheduled for this summer, but was dropped before being heard. It is expected that the case of a Saginaw area teacher, appealing the contract provision, will be aired before the Commission at a later date. "Other professions have similar requirements, but as public employees, we must negotiate the provision into the contract with the school districts," Gray commented. "We have long felt that such contract language is necessary to assure all teachers, who are beneficiaries of local negotiations, to adequately share the respective costs of same to the local, state and national organizations," he said.

THINK FRANK DEMOCRAT FOR CONGRESS ON VIETNAM... "We have fulfilled our commitment to the South Vietnamese people and their cessation of governments. "We cannot defeat communism for them — they must defeat it themselves "By allowing the Vietnamese to conduct pacification and assume a greater portion of the war, we can minimize the loss of American lives. "I support our efforts at the Paris peace table but recommend a new approach to Asian nationalism. "From all I have been able to learn during my years in Washington, we are in Vietnam to build a bulwark against Chinese expansionism. "This is insufficient reason to warrant the continued expense of $40 billion each year and even more important, the lives of nearly 200 young Americans each week!" Pd. Pol. Adv.

Two Part Story With Sad Ending

EDITOR'S NOTE - The following story on Patrolman Dale Gross and his dog, Rusty, was written last week. The dog was killed Monday.

Dale Gross, 24, patrolman on the Novi police force, became so enamored with the proficiency of the Chuck Art school for training police dogs and policemen to work together that after completion of the school, he designed a badge that would be worn by all graduates to designate their accomplishment.

The badge was adopted and is worn now on the uniforms of all those who graduate - which means not only Michigan policemen, but those from all over this country. Only about one man out of 10 who enrolls finishes the school and gets his dog.

In addition to the words "Police Canine Corps," Gross included on the badge the significant "Semper Fidelis - always faithful."

Police dogs, such as Gross' Rusty, are faithful to one man only - and will protect him with their lives - but they will never work with another. Gross paid for his own dog and training; Rusty lives with him and his wife. Mrs. Gross is the best-protected woman in the area! Rusty will follow simple commands from her; he "is sociable" if he is told a visitor is a friend. "He plays like a pup at home," Gross says, "but he responds immediately to any command I give him."

Gross attended school for five months, seven days a week, before he was ready to team up in police work with Rusty. "There's so much love passes between man and dog in that time," he says, "if there wasn't, the dog wouldn't work. A police dog will track only for his master. He can be trained to obey other commands from someone else, but he has to love you to track for you."

There's no question about the love Gross has in return for his dog - nor of the enthusiasm he has for the police dogs in general. "They figure they take the place of five men," he said.

In the 10 months that Gross has had his 20-month-old dog, he has made 27 arrests with him; 16 men were apprehended at one time a short while ago. The most recent feat was the recovery of three felons last week who escaped from the Detroit House of Correction.

Rusty helped apprehend a bank robber at Redford last spring, too, but all his work is not necessarily with dangerous criminals: "He sobers up a lot of drunks!" Gross quips, "I put them in the back seat with Rusty and don't hear another thing out of them!" Rusty wouldn't hurt anyone without a command from Gross - but the drunks aren't sure.

There are a couple of exceptions to this rule. If Gross is attacked or gets in a fight, Rusty will fly through the open window of his station wagon to his side. Or if someone points a gun at him, Rusty responds without command. He is trained not to kill, but to hold. And with 780 pounds of jaw pressure, holding is pretty effective!

Rusty has tracked a lost child - and escapees from Boys Training School - and he's scared a running thief into dropping some mink stoles.

Because Gross attended the school in Plymouth, any number of dogs are on call to the Novi police. In case of riot or other mass unruliness, simply a call to Chuck Art for more men and dogs, and they are on their way. Art comes from four generations of dog trainers. He takes a long time to match up the personality of the dog with that of the man before he pairs them as a team, Gross explains and trains them together.

Once they're paired, it's "til death do us part", they're always faithful.

By Alice Bingner

The extreme love of a dog for his master brought death to a remarkable German Shepherd only two days after the "team" of Dale Gross and Rusty had been interviewed and photographed by The Record-News.

Dale is a midnight patrolman on the Novi police force. Friday his vacation started, but Dale was eager to tell this reporter of the dog he loved so much so he stayed several hours after his shift ended and his vacation time began first to talk about, and to pose with, his inseparable "partner".

Dale and his wife were going fishing in Kentucky; they had never been separated from Rusty since Dale brought him home from the Charles Art dog training school in Salem Township some 10 months ago. Naturally, the only place Dale would dare leave Rusty, where he would feel at home, was back at the training school. As soon as Rusty had this picture taken, Dale drove him there.

Two nights later Rusty was dead. Dale, on vacation, doesn't know it yet.

Rusty had missed Dale passionately, had cried and carried on and been given special attention by the trainer, until finally it appeared Sunday that Rusty might have calmed down just a little.

Then Trainer Chuck Art was to discover something that had never occurred in the many-generation of dog training in the Art family.

Rusty's powerful jaws had chewed through a steel rod on the heavy-duty cyclone fence around his individual pen and severed enough links of the almost indestructible chain fence so that he could squeeze his 90-pound body through it.

Rusty fled up North Territorial Road, stopping at every house looking for his master.

At one house Rusty was shot.

Art's 14-year-old nephew, Robert Gardner, a visitor at the kennels, had immediately taken off in pursuit of the valuable animal. About a half-mile from the training school, Robert heard a shot. Rusty came limping from the backyard toward the road. Two motorists stopped their cars to block traffic to protect Rusty while Robert ran for help.

Rusty was taken to a veterinarian in Plymouth, where he died.

Washtenaw Sheriff's department is investigating; they talked to a 17-year-old boy and his parents who live at the house where Rusty was found.

The heartbreaking task of telling Dale remains for Chuck Art next week.

Rams-Cougars Wrap-Up Softball in Title Game

The league-leading Rams will take on the second-place Cougars in what should be a tense wind-up to the knothole softball season.

Both teams are much improved since their first meeting when the Rams squeaked by 2-0. In their last seven contests, the Rams have scored 78 runs against five for their opponents, with a minimum of 13 runs in every game since their first two. The Cougars, with two shut-outs to their credit, have scored 65 runs against 19.

Leading the Rams will be Captain-and-pitcher Dave Heckerl, second baseman Don Dales, and Kurt "Turtle" Stevens, (probably the fastest man in the league). All average approximately three hits a game, making the Rams the only team in the league which every member can be expected to get a hit. The Ram's infield is the league's best, but the Cougars are close behind. Their second baseman, Jim Wright is the top glove man in the league.

Andy Gellner, on first, knows baseball well but the Cougars' real strength comes from pitcher Dennis Singleton, whose brilliant pitching and fielding rival's Wright's. Singleton is also hitting sparkplug of the team.

Pete Wright, no relation to Jim, adds another big bat to the awesome list of Cougar sluggers who have scored over ten runs in at least four games.

Due to the recent rainy spell the Rams have played fewer games. If they lose the last game, all others will be made up.

The rain also caused the cancellation of other games so that only three games were played last week.

It was Cougars 7 and Pumas 4 as the Cougars tuned up for their game with the Rams. The Pumas got off to a decent start with two runs on in the first on Peter Cartwright's single. But a six-run third ended all Puma hopes. Although the Cougars relied heavily on walks, they won easily with Ron Angell and Kevin Corcoran grabbing two hits each. Corcoran's second was a two-run homer

The fourth place Lions gave the Tigers quite a scare, but in the end they came around beating the Lions 6-3. The Tigers scored two early but had to come from behind when the Lions forged ahead 3-2 on singles by Brian Snelgrove and Duane Reeves. With two outs in the closing inning, Chris Chio broke a tired score with a long single that scored three runs.

With four runs in the first inning, the fifth place Panthers were too much for the Cubs. Although the Cubs had their largest hit output of the season, the cubs still couldn't quite push the runs across. Walt Carter and Mark Van Ingen led the hitters with Mike Koziara and Raymond Allen high scorers of the attack.

Knothole Hardball

Dodgers Nip Astros, 5-4

Knothole Hardball standings stayed pretty much the same this week with the only unexpected win coming when the Dodgers upped the Astros 5-4.

The Northville Record Dodgers finally made the win column in their game against the Northville Realty Astros. The game was a draw at the beginning of the ninth when Steve French singled Rick Norton home in the last inning for the winning margin. The Astros scored all their runs in the second inning-when walks loaded the bases and Steve Krausse hit a bases-loaded triple. He followed Cary Eaker who had singled one home earlier. The Dodgers pushed across runs in every inning but one, with Bob Wright having two hits.

The VFW Giants increased their lead in the hardball standings by trouncing the Twins 16-0. They controlled almost the entire game, allowing the Twins only one mustered hit. Dave Schronce commanded the mound with Ed Hosbach and Dave Wilson scoring at bat. Each had a single and an extra base blast. In the last two games, the VFW Giants are heavily favored to win.

After dropping one to the league-leaders, the Yanks got back on the winning track, beating the Angels 5-1. The Bombers pumped off a two run lead when Joe Watson singled in two runs. Then Robbie Clark and Tim Eis hit doubles followed with a single by Jim Curl.

It was 12-9 in the final outcome when the fourth place Indians came up from behind to trip the Spagy Giants. The Indians scored three in their first when singles by Jim Shoner and Kevin O'Brien preceded four consecutive walks. But the Giants came back with four of their own and then added another four in the second, all resulting from walks.

The Indians then settled their pitching and the hitters took control of the game. The Indians scored seven in the big fifth inning following two set-offs in the fourth. O'Brien, Humble, and Verner had two RBIs each with Humble at three hits and O'Brien at two for the victors.

A lack of control by the Del's Shoes Twins pitchers let the Giants move for a third sure victory. In the beginning of the first, walks loaded the bases when another walk forced in a homer. Bruce Turner singled in a couple more with other singles by Steve Gurney and Joe Murray. They each brought in two more as Gurney went on for two singles. Eric Lampella scored three times.

By another margin of 5-1, the Yankees won their second game of the week. Jim Curl edged the scoring with a triple which brought in two in the first, then went on to score himself. The final two were scored for the Yanks with a key dropped third strike.

Novi Results

The Birmingham Nationals wiped out the Novi Little Leaguers in a 5-0 decision Tuesday evening, July 23

In the first inning a double by Gordon Anderson brought in the first two runs of the game, ending the inning with a 2-0 score.

The second inning saw no runs and no hits for either team.

In the third inning the Nationals had two men walk. Singles by David Smith and Tom Ganiard brought these two men in, making the score 4-0.

Tim Assemany singled in the fourth inning for Novi, but was put out at second base. Leadoff man Paul Seclst doubled for the Nationals in the fifth inning, stole third and came in home when Gordon Anderson grounded out. Seclst's run tallied the final score of 5-0 in favor of the Birmingham Nationals.

Call Goes Out For Athletes

Athletic Director Bob Kucher this week reminded all boys in grades seven through twelve of Northville public schools who are planning on playing on a fall athletic team to pick up their physical exam card at their earliest convenience.

Cards will be available at the high school office from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Football practice for grades 9-11 will begin Monday, August 26. Football equipment will be distributed on Friday, August 23 with varsity letterwinners at 9 a.m. and all other players at 11 a.m. No player will be issued equipment nor allowed to practice without a physical exam in accordance with school and state rules.

Junior high school football and high school cross-country will begin the first week of classes.

'Lanes' Tops Teams In Men's Softball

The Northville Lanes copped first place in the final standings of the Men's Softball League. The Lanes wrapped up their title with an 11-3 win over the Jaycees. A run in the first made it easy from there on in.

In the last of the regular scheduled games, Perkins beat Pyles 6-5 by pushing two runs in the last inning. Dick Davis lead the winners with two triples and a double.

More action was seen in make-up games when the Northville Lanes beat the Plymouth State Home 19-8. The Lanes out did themselves this time with a ten-hit, ten-run fourth inning. Ray Allen and Joe Humphries were high scorers for the winners. Then the Perkins smashed Metatall 15-7. The winners went wild when Dick Davis hit a three-run homer. Earl Handley of the Perkins also hit a home run.

In other league action, Pyles beat Laphams 4-1, drawing both in a tie for fourth place. Degun Kolb led the scoring with a double and a home run for Pyles. Then the Laphams beat the Jaycees 5-3 when Don Thomson hit a home run, and there was a single for Laphams.

kidnapper's gun hand, Fletcher wrested the gun away.

Immediately, a host of policemen waiting in the wooded road, some with police dogs, swarmed on the three youths standing in the Montgomery's front yard. The hunt then commenced for the two who had fled into the woods behind the Montgomery home before police arrived.

One youth was captured at about 6:15 p.m. within the chained-off area, bounded by Nine, Ten Mile, Currie and Griswold roads. Around 7 p.m. the last youth was taken into custody.

All five kidnapers were brought to the Novi police station.

Miraculously, no one was shot. Bands of policemen armed with pistols, automatic weapons and shotguns combed the wooded area and walked the dusty roads.

Starnes was on patrol when he got a call sending him to the 10 Mile road-Willowbrook subdivision area in Novi. It was reported five youths were riding in a convertible back and forth over 10 Mile road and throwing beer bottles out of the car.

Starnes stopped the quintet, but they suddenly jumped him. They reportedly beat the Novi officer and dragged him into the car. An all-points bulletin was sent over the police network.

Northville officers, including Sergeant Charles Martin, Phil Young and Roger Beukema, then spotted the car on Nine Mile road, just west of Napier road.

The officers pulled their patrol car to a halt as they were turning it around, Martin said. One youth carrying a pistol jumped out of the convertible and pushed Starnes ahead of him.

Martin said the young man kicked

Starnes in both legs, and then kicked the Novi policeman as he crumpled to the road. The Northville sergeant said he raised his pistol and pointed at the youth, ready to fire, but lowered it when the youth pointed the gun to Starnes' head and said he'd blow Starnes' head off.

When the Northville policemen were told to clear out, they drove off Nine Mile road out of sight and permitted the red convertible to pass. Meanwhile, they radioed sighting the abductors.

With police cars flooding the area, the fleeing quintet was next spotted at the Montgomery home. Askins held the gun to Starnes' head, holding police at bay.

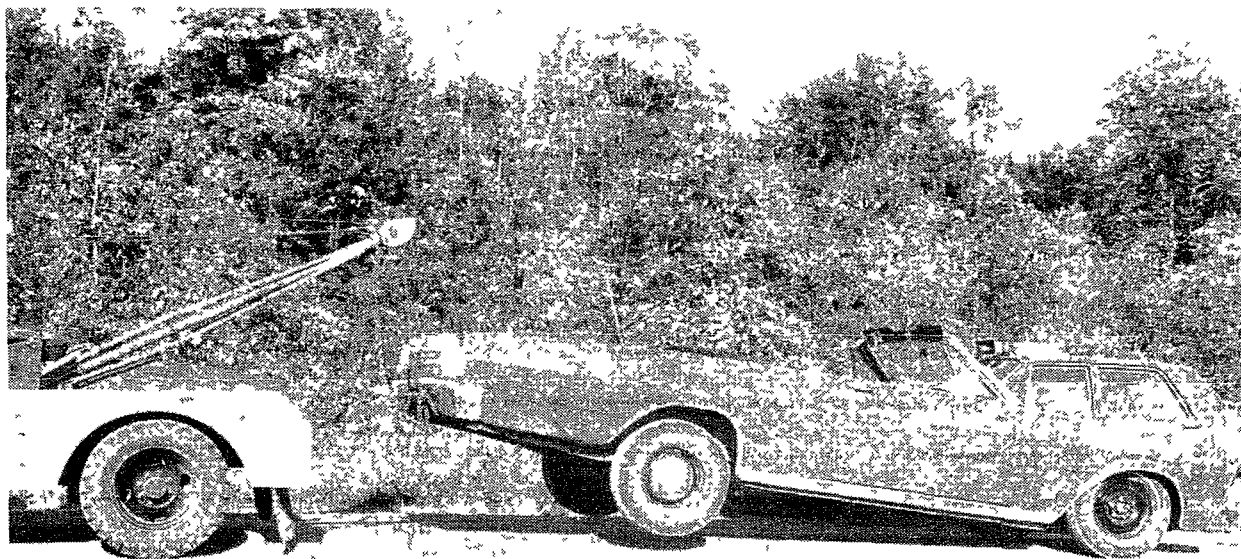

When Fletcher arrived, the kidnapers granted permission to come forward with the state police officers — weaponless — to talk. Policemen then played a waiting game until Detective Palmer made his move.

South Lyon Officer's Not Big, But Responds to Tall Order

By most standards, Donald Fletcher isn't a big man. He only stands about 5'8" and weighs about 165 pounds.

But the South Lyon policeman stood tall Tuesday afternoon.

He, along with Detective Paul Palmer and Trooper Eugene Nichols of the Brighton State Police post, talked coolly with the young gunman who held a 45 revolver at the head of Novi Patrolman Robert Starnes for about one hour.

And the two men, given a sudden opening when the gunman let down his guard, pounced on him and disarmed him without a shot being fired.

"It was all over in seconds," Fletcher said. Yet, for approximately 60 long minutes he and Palmer talked calmly to the man behind the gun.

"As long as we kept talking," the South Lyon officer said, "we knew we could prevent anything drastic from happening." So the police officers talked quietly and firmly.

It was Fletcher who suggested that he talk unarmed with the kidnapers. Why? "I knew the subjects," Fletcher stated. He explained that they had had previous scrapes with the law, but none serious.

But Tuesday's kidnapping was something different. "The subject was definitely capable of squeezing the trigger. We'd make some headway, then he'd get erratic, so we had to be careful not to excite him."

Starnes was sitting on a rock by a tree in front of the Leonard Montgomery home on Nine Mile road. Askins had one arm gripped tightly about Starnes' neck and pointed the gun at the officer's head with his other arm.

"He was squatting by the tree," Fletcher said of the gunman. "We were about three feet in front of Starnes." Fletcher said two other accused kidnapers were standing about five feet in back of the talking officers. (Two had fled into the woods before police arrived.)

What of Starnes? "He was very professional about it," the soft-spoken South Lyon officer said. "He didn't break down. He accepted the situation as well as any man in the world could."

Perhaps the strategem that led to the safe recovery of Starnes and apprehension of the youths was the agreement struck between the gunman and the officers as their talks began.

Fletcher said the young gunman agreed to point the pistol at the ground if the officers promised not to jump him.

Nevertheless, Fletcher said, it was impossible to jump the gunman until the right opportunity presented itself. Furthermore, Fletcher said "he would get hostile and cock the gun, so we had to soft-soap him."

What of Fletcher? How did he feel? "I was optimistic all the while. I wasn't afraid, perhaps because I knew the subjects. They weren't mad at me."

"I've had closer calls," he volunteered, "but I wouldn't want to go through that again."

Here's Propositions, County Candidates on Tuesday Ballot

Proposed amendments to the State Constitution, together with a tax proposal, will appear on the ballots of Oakland and Wayne County voters Tuesday.

All voters—no matter where they live in Michigan—will vote on the constitutional amendments.

In Wayne County, voters will get a crack at a proposal to renew a one-mill levy for operation of county services for five years (1970 through 1974).

County officials have stressed the importance of this proposition's passage, pointing out that its failure will result in the curtailment of services—including the cutting of services of the Wayne County Children's Development Center.

Receiving similar endorsement of county road officials in Oakland County but not so unanimous approval of municipalities (Northville and Novi endorsed it, Wixom did not) will be a proposal to levy one-mill for the specific purpose of financing road work within Oakland County.

Stressed by Oakland county officials is the fact all tax monies raised in the various communities of Oakland Counties will be used for improving roads in the communities where they are raised.

Frazer Staman, former supervisor of Novi Township and now chairman of the Oakland County Road Commission, also has explained that the money need not necessarily be used for county roads only—but that the local government agencies can suggest it be used on non-county roads within the local communities.

Purpose of the proposed constitutional amendments.

1. To establish a judicial tenure commission consisting of judges, lawyers and laymen, and to authorize the Supreme Court upon the recommendation of this commission to censure, suspend, remove, or retire a judge convicted of a felony, or guilty of misconduct, or having a physical or mental disability that prevents the performance of his judicial duties.

2. Create a seven-member commission appointed by the governor, authorize this commission to determine salaries and expense allowances of the governor, lieutenant governor, justices of the supreme court and members of the legislature; and permit the legislature, by a two-thirds vote of each house, to reject the salaries and expense allowances set by this commission.

Paragon Bridge & Steel Company... Now a division of Portec, Inc.

Portec, Inc. Buys Paragon of Novi

A Chicago firm has purchased Paragon Bridge and Steel Company of Novi and its Ashley division corporation in Ashley, Michigan.

Portec, Inc., formerly Poor and Company, announced an agreement to purchase the well-known Novi steel-fabricating firm for cash.

The Portec announcement stated that Paragon will become a division of Portec, Inc., without change in management. Gilbert T. Innes, president of Paragon, will continue in charge of the Novi firm as general manager.

Portec, Inc., for 41 years on the New York Stock Exchange, had seven divisions before adding Paragon. Portec companies are manufacturers of pit, quarry and crushing equipment for the road construction and mining industries, producers of railway products and shipping systems equipment, and of steel forgings, ferrous castings and specialty belting for industrial users.

Paragon specializes in the manufacture of auto shipping racks, auto frame equipment, auto parts racks, and the fabrication and erection of structural steel.

The Novi firm has enjoyed an expanding success in its 21-year history. Organized in 1947 as the Paragon Construction contracting company engaging in general contracting work, it grew into a steel fabrication business and in 1954 construction of the first section of its present plant was completed on a 45-acre site. Driving force and president of the Paragon company was Frank DePodesta, now deceased. Innes served as executive vice president and secretary of the "Paragon team", while other members were: Paul DePodesta, vice president, equipment; Evan Barnabo, vice president, plant manager; Art DePodesta, vice president, field erection; and John DePodesta, vice president, sales.

The company added several additions to its Novi facility, opened a subsidiary in Ashley, and became one of the largest fabricating shops in Michigan.

One of the company's best-known products is the tri-level automobile rack for railroad cars.

Old Fish Hatchery Building...Worth Saving?

Earlier this year the city of Northville purchased the 13-acre fish hatchery property on Seven Mile road from the federal government for $16,375, half its appraised value.

Plans for use of the area have been submitted to the city council by the city manager and director of community recreation. These plans include a recommendation to raze the huge fish hatchery building, saving the basement level only for handball, archery, rifle range, etc.

Although the council unanimously adopted this plan when the purchase request was made last October, some members are now having second thoughts. Councilwoman Beatrice Carlson, for example, wrote a "letter to the editor" last week stating she believed that the building to be "too valuable to be destroyed". Her letter suggested that "there are strong young arms and backs and imagination among our youth that could have a part in making this sad, dejected, 'lonesome' building live again".

Mayor A. M. Allen and Councilman Wallace Nichols have also indicated a new interest in saving the building.

This week Manager Frank Ollendorff issued a memo to councilmembers reiterating his recommendation, stating his reasons and urging an early decision "due to the potentially dangerous condition at present".

The manager's memo noted that immediate action is needed either to improve or remove the building and he said this decision should be based on need and suitability of the facility. He noted that the federal government had placed no value on the buildings on the site. His report reviews an earlier study by the University of Michigan in cooperation with the Northville school district. The study, taken to determine possible educational use of the building, placed a price of $6,000 per room for restoration for normal purposes. When Wayne State University was interested in obtaining the site and buildings, their report termed the restoration of the building "too costly". These reports show all walls and ceilings cracked or worse, need for rewiring, replumbing, redecorating, replastering, new windows, new stairs, new roof, new ceilings, new fixtures, revision of heat-distribution system, insulation, fireproofing, sprinkler system.

Either due to location or its general construction, the manager further reports that the building is unsuited for any need now presently known. He concludes his report with these recommendations:

- 1 - I recommend that the building be razed by the Volunteer Fire Department immediately following the close of the track season, with special care to the nearby trees and adjoining building.
- 2 - A day be set aside for those who wish to claim any part of the remaining fixtures and contents.
- 3 - The Council review the Recreation Director's plan and request to save the lower level. The restoration of this portion of the building should be done with sound proofing materials and improved placement of supports to allow for proper use, rewiring and plumbing. I suggest hiring an architect for this purpose.

A Record reporter and photographer visited the old fish hatchery building last week. The pictures and following story reveal what they saw.

Ugliness is what once was the U.S. Fisheries Experimental Station on Seven Mile Road.

Ugliness that comes from carelessness from leaving the old building vulnerable to vandals.

And vandals have done their share to destroy what might have had historical significance. There are rooms where the plaster is cracked, or the floors are wavy, that may have fallen victim of old age - but neglect and deliberate destruction have taken the largest toll.

One room upstairs has both windows in tact. There seems to be no particular reason for the oversight. It's understandable that the front rooms downstairs are relatively free of broken glass; the police traveling by might be cognizant of noisy activity in here. As an alternative, vandals have paved one of these rooms with forms and pamphlets they've pulled out of the file cabinets. Far be it from them to leave it untouched! In two bathrooms they've smashed the toilets. They saved the non-working equipment for their use in the third bathroom.

In the kitchens they've bashed in the plaster. The "blood" in the sink and on the walls of one of the kitchens luckily is only splattered catsup. The split rungs from the now extinct stair bannisters look menacing enough to be daggers for battle. Scattered in almost every room, some are broken to the size of kindling.

Speaking of kindling, someone started a fire in one of the upper front rooms at some time. Ashes of magazines and charred insulation lay on the floor beside a mattress - the only "furniture" left in the place, (except for an oversized desk that would take a derrick to cart off.)

Ceilings are water marked, and water stands on the floor next to a broken window in one of the upper rooms.

There's one toggle switch left on a wall: the arms that turn the light on and off are broken; the thieves were discriminating ones.

The cement porch in front is in fine condition, as are the brick pillars holding it up. This seems to have been the only indestructible area - or perhaps it was just in too full view of passers-by to be attacked.

Whether it was vandals or nature that caused the water to run in the basement is beside the point. More to the point who pays the water bills for the waste that runs down the drain?

WILLIAM J. HAYWARD

Perkins Appoints Hayward

William J. Hayward has been appointed director of engineering for Perkins Engines Inc., of Wixom and Perkins Engines Canada Limited, of Toronto. He succeeds Robert C. Schmidt who resigned recently to launch his own business.

The appointment was announced by Geoffrey E. Smith, board chairman and chief executive officer of the two companies. Both firms are affiliates of Britain's Perkins Engines Group, world's largest manufacturer of diesel engines. Hayward has been manager of the project development group in the Perkins engineering department in Peterborough, England.

His new appointment "constitutes further evidence that Perkins is determined to fulfill its position in the forefront of the North American diesel engine industry," Mr. Smith declared. "Under Bill Hayward's direction, we are expanding our North American applications engineering staff and increasing our facilities to undertake sophisticated engineering assignments and contribute to Perkins' world-wide product development programs".

A fellow in Britain's Institution of Mechanical Engineers, Mr. Hayward joined Perkins in 1955 as an engine designer and was appointed advance projects engineer three years later. In 1963 he became head of Perkins' experimental department. He became manager of the project development group a year ago. Prior to joining Perkins he was director of engine design for Jaguar Cars Limited. Hayward will be based at Perkins' U.S. headquarters in Wixom.

Out of THE PAST

FIVE YEARS AGO...

The community's new Cady Street scout-recreation building is now open and busy with activity.

One of 15 mobile immunization clinics planned by the Wayne County Health Department were to be held in Northville for both adults and children, offering polio protection with a painless hypodermic gun.

Saturday was termed license day for Northville's young bicyclists. Besides receiving new licenses from the police Department, each bike was to be given a safety check by members of the Northville Optimist Club.

Chances of completing Novi's first sanitary sewer system before fall grew slim as the Oakland county DPW initiated condemnation proceedings against 11 property owners.

Angie's Angels increased their lead in the Men's Softball League with an 8 to 0 victory over second place Northville Lab.

TEN YEARS AGO...

Work on the $1,500,000 Eight Mile cutoff across the northern part of Northville was scheduled to start in 1958, John Hults, engineer for high-ways for the Wayne county road commission said.

City councilmen met briefly to give final approval to the D&R building company's Yerkes Estates number two. The platform provided for 42 new homes in the subdivision located at Baseline and Novi Streets.

Members of Northville's board of appeals scheduled a check of the proposed First Baptist church addition before ruling on the church's request for a building permit. Request to build up to four feet of the sidewalk was changed by the church to 17 feet. Under zoning regulations, 1 25-foot setback had to be maintained.

The resignation of H Adrian Willis from the Northville school board created a vacancy. Willis moved for business reasons.

Arthur J Heslop was named as the new president of the Novi board of education.

Officials of Warren Products company were still studying the possibilities of appealing the court decision upholding the annexation of 220 acres in Novi by Northville.

TWENTY YEARS AGO...

A search in Northville for Butch Elm disease was completed on July 30. Representatives of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, aided by John Miller, of the Green Ridge Nursery, were conducting the survey as part of a state wide attempt to stop the disease in communities before it can become firmly rooted.

The town clock, atop the First Methodist Church was back in action again after a long, long rest, during which most townsmen had lost the habit of glancing skyward for the time.

The Northville baseball team survived the first round of Inter-County league playoffs Sunday by nipping River Rouge, 6 to 5, in the eleventh inning in a game at Cass Benton Park.

Sterling Eaton, publisher of the Plymouth Mail, was appointed general chairman of the St. Mary Hospital building fund. The campaign will be conducted in the area of Livonia, Farmington, Northville, Plymouth, and Redford.

TWENTY YEARS AGO...

The Northville schools maintenance staff was working on the remodeling and redecorating of the school building in preparation for the opening of school September 7.

Earl F. Clark of High street was appointed to the Northville school board filling the vacancy created by the death of William H. Cansfield, board president.

The enterprising Northville Rotary Club, under the leadership of Roy Elliot, put on one of the best horse shows seen in Michigan.

Village President C. E. Langfield appointed the following men to the Northville planning commission: Preston Fuller, George Stalker, Carl Ely, Charles Murphy, Tom Carrington, Ernest J. Willis, Forrest Doren and Harry Wagenschutz.

Fifty people donated a total of 47 pints of blood at the Blood Bank drive in Northville's Veterans Memorial hall last Thursday afternoon, Red Cross Chairman George Locke announced.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO...

Roy G. Clark, who made regular rural mail deliveries out of the Northville post office for 37 years, was to make his last rural route delivery Saturday, July 31. He was retiring after many years of faithful service.

The second of the four band concerts scheduled by the school band, to be presented at the village hall park, under the direction of Mr. Leslie G. Lee, were to be held August 3 at 8 p.m.

Rev Green, pastor of Mr. Olivet church, Dearborn, who conducts a Christian Work Camp west of South Lyon, was the guest speaker at the Exchange Club luncheon. Mr. Greer told of his work in bringing city children to the farm and acquainting them with the work of raising food, crops, livestock and poultry.

Plans for the Northville Wayne County Fair were going on, with the superintendents of the various departments forming their committees and laying extensive plans for entries exhibits and entertainment features.

Mrs. E. H. Wood was elected the new chairman of the Northville Red Cross. She filled a vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Eber Ward Lester.

OAKLAND COUNTY TREASURER'S OFFICE JAMES E. SEETERLIN, Treasurer

He Gets his Kicks Shoeing Horses

Like most accomplishments, being a blacksmith is doing what comes naturally for some—and for others it's making it the hard way.

R. E. Hittesdorf, for instance, "never had a job" in his life. What he does for a living, he does for kicks.

Literally, sometimes. "I guess I started as a blacksmith when I was about 10 years old; I used to follow my grandfather around at county fairs. I have got kicked a few times since then," he says matter-of-factly, "but just a few bruises; nothing serious."

Would he trade positions with a white collar executive in an air-conditioned office? Not "Red"! He says with conviction: "This is it."

A Milford resident, "Red" follows the horses from Northville Downs to Wolverine to Hazel Park tracks during the summer. Then he takes a couple months to visit his family in California and his wife's folks in New York before he comes back to Northville for the winter's work.

Some 300 horses are quartered at the Downs for training all the time, he explained, and since 1958 this is where "Red", too, has been quartered, so to speak.

Other than five years he served in the Marine Corps, he's never worked at another job in all his life, and he hopes he'll never have to. A union member, he "puts in eight hours a day," however, "I'm my own boss and if I want to close the door I can," he says.

What is so much better about being your own boss as a blacksmith, rather than as a milkman or a haberdasher? Considerable, according to "Red." He explains this simply, in a few words that speak volumes for how he feels about his chosen field, "In this business most people are just born to it."

There are various kinds of shoers—those for saddle horses "which are all pretty much alike"; those for thoroughbreds, which comprise about 250 of the 360 shoers unionized in the United States and Canada. They go to the barns to shoe. And then there are those like "Red" who shoe in their shop. They are a vanishing breed; only about 100 are left.

Among the 100 is Ken Rodwell of Walled Lake.

Ken always liked horses, and showed them long before he shod them.

He'd been an Allen Park policeman for four years when he decided to throw in his badge four years ago and try to get into a field he'd had his eye on for many years: horses. He found it wasn't easy.

Although there are a limited number of blacksmiths so much more demand than there is supply that the tradesman calls the shots in this business—it's a trade you don't pick up in a few hours, and there aren't many teachers.

Ken took an apprenticeship from a retired blacksmith in Illinois, the only one he was able to find who would teach him. It took him a year at no pay to learn the trade, but like old-timer Red Hittesdorf, he finds it a terrific way to make his living. He likes the people he meets, the horses he works on, the fact that he's an independent worker. It took him another year before the union let him work on the tracks shoeing harness horses.

Harness horses aren't as temperamental as thoroughbreds (nor as blacksmiths, a lot of trainers are likely to tell you). It's a little like the difference between a permissively-raised child and a disciplined one. Harness horses have been trained to follow orders, Ken says, while thoroughbreds are let loose, so to speak. "If a harness horse didn't want to be shod, he'd just walk off with my tent and the works—he's strong enough," Ken says "but he knows what he's here for, and he stands and let's you work on him."

Ken works in a tent set up as a shop because the local facilities have one more blacksmith than blacksmith's shops. It's a little unusual, but with the sides rolled up "it's air-conditioned" and it serves the purpose.

There are some 700 horses at Northville Downs and nine blacksmiths, which is about two over par, so Ken spends some of his time going out to shoe saddle horses. "There are never enough shoers for them," he says, "some owners have to wait a month for service in the summer. Nobody wants to go in to this trade any more."

Ken has accumulated some dramatic tales in his three years on the race track scene. There's the country boy who bought a horse for $200; with no prior knowledge of racing or training, he went to work. The horse was so naive Ken had to let him graze in order to shoe him. In four months, the horse and boy gained $16,000 together.

Another horse looked like a good bet for the man who bought it and brought it to Ken for shoeing. The new owner made some quick money with it and decided the horse was good enough to sell at a nice little profit. There must have been a personality conflict between the new owner and his acquisition because the horse never ran a race well again.

A favorite of Ken's is the tale of the old horse that was coming up for his last season before retirement. His trainer took him to Red, next door to Ken, for a new set of shoes, and then he took him out on the track for a job.

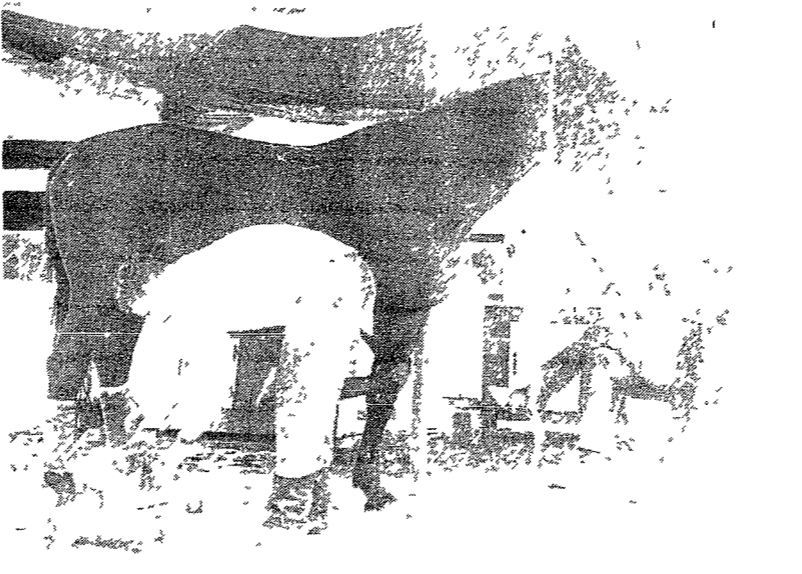

The horse trotted around the track in pretty good shape. But he seemed to know he wasn't what he used to be. He reached the grandstand spot: the finish line. There the old hero dropped dead.

It's not extremely rare on some of the tracks for a blacksmith to shoe a horse that costs more than $100,000. Ken shod one that was racing his first race, he'd cost $90,000. Some of these modern steeds fly more miles from track to track in a few days that some of us fly in a lifetime.

Meanwhile, back at the forge and the anvil, blacksmiths like Red and Ken ply their trade on the same oldtime equipment that has been used since the Village Smithy of poetic fame.

BLACKSMITH'S BLOOD — "Most people in this business are born to it," R. E. Hittesdorf, one of nine blacksmiths at Northville Downs says, a little proudly. "Red" was almost born to it; he began being a blacksmith when he was 10 years old, following grandfather at the county fairs.

TENT SHOP — Ken Rodwell of Walled Lake in his "air-conditioned" blacksmith's shop at the Northville Downs shoes "Dan", a 900-pound, patient harness horse.

Detroit Edison Seeks Rate Hike

The Detroit Edison Company has petitioned the Michigan Public Service Commission for the first increase in the company's electric rates since 1949.

The petition specifies no dollar amount for the increase but requests the Commission to review the present rates and establish increases to compensate for rising costs.

However, the petition asks for an immediate surcharge of 2 per cent on all customer bills rendered after August 31, 1968 to provide for increases in Federal income taxes.

Edison Chairman Walker L. Cisler said the request is necessitated by increases in many expenses including the 10 per cent surcharge recently enacted by Congress, state and city income taxes as well as property taxes, the cost of borrowed money required for the expansion of electric power facilities and operating expenses such as wages, materials and supplies.

Mr. Cisler noted that the company had carried on the business without increasing rates for more than 19 years and had actually reduced rates 17 times in the interim.

Now you get 5% annual interest guaranteed for 4 years. And 7 other benefits.

1. Maximum Interest Guaranteed.

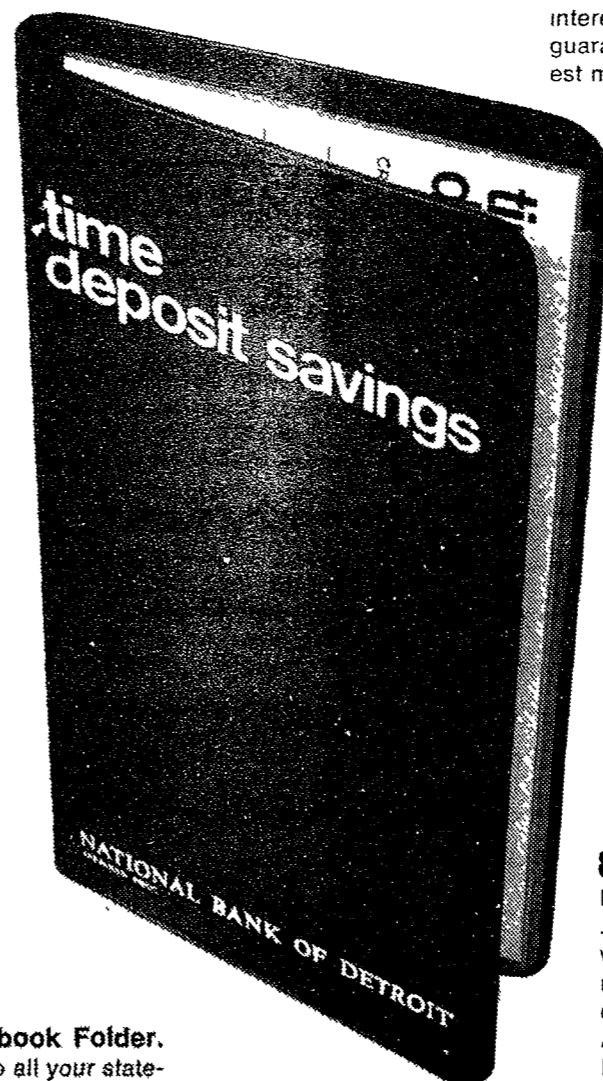

NBD guarantees you'll earn 5% annual interest for 4 years. By continuous compounding, your money will actually earn the equivalent of more than 5 1/2% annually.

2. Continuous Compounding.

Since 5% is the maximum annual interest rate permitted by law, we couldn't change that. But we could increase the number of times the interest is compounded. We did. We guarantee to compound your interest minute by minute.

3. Convenient Withdrawal.

Any money that has been on deposit at least 90 days (the legally required limit) may be withdrawn. You can take it out during the first ten days of each calendar quarter without notice. Or at any time with the usual 3-month written notice. Any money withdrawn will have earned maximum interest right to the time you take it out.

4. Add to Your Account.

You can open a Time Deposit with $1,000 or more. Then you can add to it in increments of $100 or more. Even arrange automatic transfer from your checking account. If you start with $1,000 and add $100 every month, for example, you'll have $6,423.95 at maturity.

6. Income Tax Statement.

You get a convenient year-end Income Tax Statement showing the total amount of interest earned during the year.

8. Security and Convenience of NBD.

NBD is one of the largest banks in the country. One reason we can guarantee your money will earn what we say it will earn. And to make it convenient for you, we have nearly 100 offices throughout the metropolitan area. Ask about guaranteed Time Deposits at the National Bank of Detroit.

7. Handy Passbook Folder.

Now you can keep all your statements, deposit and withdrawal slips and Income Tax Statement together in this compact passbook-type folder.

'Give A Damn' Goes on TV

More than 19 months of intensive planning, tons of delicate electronic equipment and a news and production team of more than 750 persons are among the elements that will be needed to enable CBS and WJBK-TV coverage of the events at the Republican National Convention in Miami, Florida, starting August 5. TV2 will begin televising gavel-to-gavel coverage Monday starting at 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. and then each night of the convention from 7:30 p.m. to conclusion and whenever news breaks.

CBS News will place a 25 man team of correspondents in Miami ... the largest lineup ever to cover a Presidential convention. Walter Cronkite will serve as anchorman with a distinguished group of respected and honored. CBS reporters assisting: Eric Sevareid, Harry Reasoner, Roger Mudd, Mike Wallace, Charles Kuralt and many, many more. To round out its coverage, CBS News will have two well-known consultants in attendance: Theodore White (Pulitzer Prize winner and best-selling author for his "The Making of the President 1960, and 1964") and Art Buchwald, the nation's leading and most widely-read political satirist.

Convention Starts Monday

The Merv Griffin Show on Tuesday, August 6, at 9 a.m. in color on WJBK-TV2, will be presented from the corner of 115th Street and Fifth Avenue in Harlem. The program is produced in this unusual setting as a show of support for Mayor John Lindsay's "Give A Damn" campaign to help the young people in the ghettos.

Many international stars will interrupt their busy schedules to fly in and appear on the program. Actor Burt Lancaster is coming from Hollywood just for the occasion; gospel singer Mahalia Jackson will be in from Chicago; and soul singer James Brown is bringing his entire troupe to perform. Other people appearing and performing with Merv Griffin and Mayor Lindsay will be Muhammed Ali; comedians Godfrey Cambridge and Slappy White; singers Gladys Knight and the Pips, Spanky and Our Gang, and Joe Tex and his band; plus an Afro Fashion Show. In addition, Arthur Treacher, Mort Lindsey and the orchestra will participate in the show.

For Supervisors

High Salaries Concern Sladek

Henry R. Sladek, candidate for County Supervisor today decried the potential expense to the taxpayers in Wayne County which could result from the election of self-serving, self-interested nominees for Supervisor in the August 6 primary. Sladek suggested a part-time Board of Supervisors with salary and compensation set by the state legislature. "Although the legislature has provided by law for the setting of salaries by the newly elected Board, I feel that this is a dangerous and unjustified step at this time. I think the legislature should 'reassess' their position on this matter and give us some new salary guide lines before the General Election in November. House Majority Leader, Robert Waldron, in my conversation with him, stated he felt there was still a possibility that salary guidelines could be set for the new Wayne County supervisors in this legislative session and an attempt would be made to do so.

Sladek restated his concept of the office of Supervisor for which he is a candidate running for the Republican nomination from the 26th District. "More important than salaries and expenses for the new members is the effective organization of a governmental body capable of serving Wayne County. In my opinion, the new Board of Supervisors will see no experience on which to justify large salaries by making this job a full time one." The present County Board now meets on the average of only 15 times a year.

Sladek said, "The current annual overhead for the present 135 member board is about $60,000 and there is talk that some candidates for supervisor want to set salaries as high as $20,000."

He continued, "If this is done, the annual expense for salaries alone will be over one-half million dollars... quite a jump from the present $60,000."

"I believe that an informed and concerned public can prevent the election of candidates who seek public jobs for personal gains."

Dupont, Vivian Hit Record of Congress

Wes Vivian, Democratic candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives from the Second Congressional District, met with area residents this week. In discussing his reasons for wishing to regain the seat he held from 1965 to 1967, Vivian said.

"In spite of the rising turmoil in our nation, the conservative Republicans and Democrats, who presently rule the roost in Washington, continue to speak against change and to scoff at or ignore and financially starve programs designed to resolve constructively our basic economic and social problems."

Vivian went on to point out, "The Republican Congressman now representing this District has lent his voice to this negative coalition on a number of occasions. He is entangled by the party leadership. Until the hold of the coalition is broken, we can anticipate little more than continued obstruction, inaction, and irresponsiveness."

"What can be done?" Vivian asked. "In only a few dozen Districts in this nation is there some reasonable chance that a change can occur. Ours is a 'swing' District, as shown by my election in 1964 and the present incumbent's in 1966, both by narrow margins. The differences between the two Congresses is enormous. The 89th Congress, in which I was privileged to serve, gained wide-spread recognition for the passage of historic domestic legislation. The 90th Congress has failed to come to grips with our domestic problems. It has acted expeditiously only after disorders, assassinations, and international crises. We cannot afford to undergo another two years of this negativism."

Vivian concluded, "I hope our District's voters will give me a chance to work in Congress once again to promote constructive change and to seek viable solutions for the difficulties which face us."

Kuhn Hits Trend To Permissiveness

Last night Richard D. Kuhn, prominent Pontiac Attorney and Candidate for the office of Prosecuting Attorney, spoke before a group of interested citizens at the Supervisor's Auditorium in Pontiac. The meeting to meet the candidates was sponsored by several of the area's Republican Women's Clubs.

Mr. Kuhn briefly related his active 17 years working for the growth of sound Republicanism and then discussed the recent observations by Dr. Billy Graham concerning the serious moral decline taking place in our country today. Kuhn went on to say his decision to run for this office was to allow him to direct his known reputation as a "fighter FOR the people" against the trend towards "permissiveness" and the toleration of "lawlessness" which he believes to be responsible for the decline. "Law and order must be placed above politics," he added. "Marijuana and other narcotics are far to easily available to our high school students." Kuhn observed, "The sellers and pushers of these illegal and character-destroying drugs MUST be dealt with more severely."

"Lawlessness will not be tolerated.

Our homes, churches, businesses and streets must be made safe for our families," Kuhn concluded.

Mardiros Likes McCarthy Best

The McCarthy for president movement is making another drive in its efforts to waver the pro-Humphrey delegates. Their present forces are aimed on petitions which are being circulated among all persons who will be registered voters in the up-coming Presidential elections.

The petitions will be used as a symbol of public support at the national Democratic convention. Also the petitions will be presented to the four delegates from the 19 district, (this area), all now leaning towards Vice President Humphrey.

Another goal in the McCarthy camp is the election of Ron Mardiros to the U.S. Congress. Mardiros has pledged his support to McCarthy and it is felt that his election would have some influence on the convention delegates.

Ogilvie Lauds Probation Department

Speaking before the Holiday Pack Home Owners Association in Canton township Northville Municipal Judge Philip R. Ogilvie called the establishment of a probation department "an essential adjunct" to the new district court.

Ogilvie is a candidate for the 35th district court which will serve the townships of Northville, Plymouth and Canton and the cities of Northville and Plymouth.

The Northville judge noted that from his own experience in establishment of a probation department in his own municipal court that he had found "even greater needs and uses than anticipated."

Originally, the probation department was set up primarily to help the court in handling minors (age 17 to 21). But the department has a record of helping persons up to age 64. Judge Ogilvie noted that "excellent investigative work of the department and the enlistment of sufficient volunteer sponsors have made it possible to assign a sponsor to each probationer."

In many instances cases have come before his court by reason of domestic trouble or chronic alcoholism, Judge Ogilvie points out. In these cases the probation department has been successful in helping the probationer solve the problems. And, in many cases, said Judge Ogilvie, valuable assistance has been obtained from such agencies as "Alcoholics Anonymous" and the out-patient department of Northville State Hospital.

In handling the youths who have come before the court the sponsors have been equipped with a good history of the youth's background and have therefore been able to work with parents in getting to the root of the young probationer's problem.

Judge Ogilvie emphasized that he was "most pleased" with the results of the department, which has offered probation to first offenders who wish to come under its program, providing the probation officer determines that the person deserves this chance.

He noted that probation was not always easy. It frequently includes a curfew, getting a job and not violating any ordinance or statute. Many times the probationer is assigned to a work detail, like mowing lawns in the municipal cemetery, street-cleaning, etc., and in addition to doing the work must pay $12 per day of work to cover the costs of supervision and running the department.

Following satisfactory completion of the voluntary probation the chief probation officer then recommends dismissal of the original charge, which is usually "minor in possession", disorderly person, fighting, etc., and the result is that the probationer does not have a record that might adversely affect chances of enrolling in college or obtaining a job, Judge Ogilvie pointed out.

Judge Ogilvie also told his Canton audience that he has established a policy in his own court that in the case of a minor living at home it is necessary that one or more of his parents appear with him in court. "Without this requirement either parents never learn of the charge against their child, or the circumstances described to them are considerably different than actually incurred."

Judge Ogilvie concluded by noting that the new district court will see a large increase in civil cases because of jurisdiction of the court being set at $3,000, compared to $300 to $500 in justice of the peace courts and $1,500 in municipal courts.

Healy Likes it, Too...

A counseling system to help youthful offenders before they become involved in serious trouble was called for Wednesday by Thomas H. Healy, candidate for district judge in the Plymouth, Northville and Canton Communities.

Healy went on record for a counseling or probation department in Wednesday evening remarks to the Plymouth YMCA Board of Directors.

The Y's comments came after newly-elected Y-president Thomas R. Workman reviewed the Y's agenda for the coming year and noted a need for increased guidance and counseling activities for local young people in trouble.

Workman pointed out that the Y had established a cooperative arrangement with former Plymouth Municipal Judge Draugelis and, on a voluntary basis, was able to provide satisfactory guidance to young people referred by the judge. However, Draugelis' successor did not continue the program.

"I definitely would support a local counseling and guidance effort," Healy said.

Under the District Court Act, Healy pointed out, a probation department can be established by agreement of the district judge and the local governing body.

Healy said he was not opposed to jail sentences or stiff fines for serious offenses. "I realize that these are necessary and important sanctions," he said.

"But, I feel that, particularly in cases of young first offenders, there should be the opportunity for a probation program which includes guidance and counseling."

Under the present court system, Healy pointed out, there is no professional guidance available to youths convicted of misdemeanors.

"By the time a person becomes involved in a circuit court felony," he continued, "in all probability he has already served time in jail for misdemeanors."

"We should attempt to solve the problem at the misdemeanor level before it reaches felony proportions."

"Counseling and guidance within the community is one of the best approaches," Healy concluded.

But Ingle Doubts That It's Legal

Allen C. Ingle, candidate for District Judge from the 35th District, voices his objection to the voluntary probation system practiced in this area, calling it "in part... contrary to law", he said. "It is contrary to our form of government for the judiciary to usurp the power of the legislature."

Ingle said, "With the rising crime rate, I do not believe we should tell everyone that the first time you get caught, we won't prosecute if you go on volunteer probation. It is the function of the Courts to deter crime, not encourage it..." He points out that a person who is caught in a district where the voluntary probation system provides that a first-offender will not have a record if he volunteers to go on probation, has an unfair advantage over another who may be his neighbor but who gets caught in a district where there is no such system.

It is then clear that one youth has no record while the other youth does, according to Ingle, who says, "I fail to see how this can follow the general principle of equal rights under the law." Ingle feels "it should be made clear to all that even on a first offense you can go to jail. I am sure that many will think more than once before they would commit a crime if they knew this," he pointed out. He believes that voluntary probation "is not authorized by law and in my opinion a Judge violates his oath of office by such a system."

TROGLODYTES

What's Coming Up

DARYL HOLLOWAN

Well, here we are once again. As you may have determined for yourself already, this is yet another issue featuring yet another Troglodytes column.

This week Troglodytes dwells upon some of the scheduled entertainment for the month of August at The Cavern and The Cavern Coffee House.

I have in my possession, and will reveal to the reading public within the next few lines, a partial listing of the groups to be playing at either The Cavern or The Cavern Coffee House - performances which have been scheduled upon request by a handful (or in most cases) more Cavern patrons.

This partial listing which I am referring to includes The Jagged Edge, The Pack, The Third Power, Nirvana, The Children, The Uninhibited Orangoutang, The Wha?, and The Frost.

From this list we find that Friday The Cavern hosts a return engagement featuring Nirvana and a group by name of The Children - both performing through popular demand of Cavern patrons.

The following Monday, August 5, The Cavern Coffee House alters its performing atmosphere a bit when The Uninhibited Orangoutang is scheduled to do a special feature for the amusement of themselves and Cavern Coffee House patrons.

A bit more light will be cast on The Uninhibited Orangoutang following a rundown on the two groups appearing at The Cavern.

As was stated earlier, both Nirvana and The Children were asked to appear at The Cavern due to their receptions when they last performed at The Cavern.

Nirvana is a Canadian group from Windsor which has been making it big in the area. They are credited with playing in a Vanilla Fudge Concert, and ironically possess a Vanilla Fudge Sound.

I was impressed with their past performance June 14 at The Cavern - they had a good sound which most of the Cavern patrons seemed to really enjoy listening and dancing to.

As for The Children and their appearance last May, they too were well received by Cavern patrons. I don't recall a heck of a lot about this group, but I'm almost certain they played a lot of danceable heavy rock etc. Oh well, you win a few and try to forget the mistakes.

However, from recalling their past performances, this Friday's bash at $1.00 members, $1.50 non-members is a sure shot for those of you who like some of the sounds of WABX (Nirvana), and heavy rock (The Children) - providing that neither have changed style.

Now, turning to The Cavern Coffee House for the Troglodytes closing commentary, I'll dwell a moment on the group titled The Uninhibited Orangoutang which will debut at The Cavern Coffee House Monday between the hours of 8 and 11.

As it stands at this writing, The Uninhibited Orangoutang is comprised of six members and an equipment manager who are staging the show as a type of takeoff on the countless groups which spring up almost overnight.

You might say it's a type of farcical show which at times pokes fun at some of the groups, but does it in a unique way with "instruments of the same calibre."

There's only two standard instruments employed by The Uninhibited Orangoutang - a guitar and a tambourine - unless you choose to consider a homemade drum set as standard equipment.

The Uninhibited Orangoutang, according to inside source information, plans to perform two sets. The first is intended to be a "Top 40" performance, whereas, the second is scheduled to be their own brand of "Underground Sound" in contrast to the first set.

Members can't miss because it's free of charge, and non-members shell out a mere token of 50 cents when The Cavern Coffee House Presents on Monday, August 5, "The Uninhibited Orangoutang Goes Ape - Parts One and Two."

Rocky Shows Gains

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller entered the final pre-convention phase of his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination this week, buoyed by polls that showed only he among the members of the GOP could beat Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

In a month's time, Governor Rockefeller has shown a net gain of seven percentage points over Mr.

Third Oldest Food Chain

It's Kroger's 85th Year

Kroger stores in this area are celebrating the 85th anniversary of the founding of the retail food company during the next four weeks.

The history of the nation's third largest food chain reads like a Horatio Alger story and can be labeled "Only In America."

The first tiny Kroger grocery was opened by B. H. Kroger, son of a German immigrant, near the river front in Cincinnati. The total investment was $722. Kroger was 23, and had already been working for 10 years. And he was willing to work harder than anyone else to achieve his dream.

He had something else going for him, too, notes H. A. Gifford, vice president of the Detroit Division of The Kroger Co., which operates stores in this area. "Mr. Kroger's mother always told him," says Mr. Gifford, "Be More Particular Than Your Most Particular Customer - and you'll please them all." He adopted the slogan as his policy, a policy still maintained by Kroger today.

The present Kroger Food Foundation, which is the organization responsible for quality control of Kroger products, was an outgrowth of Mr. Kroger's own informal testing in that first store.

He blended and roasted coffee and tea in the back room of his first store, but he tested each lot personally to be sure it was the flavor his customers wanted.

He would also open cans of fruits and vegetables, examine the contents, smell and taste before he would buy. His attitude was unheard of back in the days when the rule was "Buyer Beware." But he felt it was important. And so did his customers.

Mr. Kroger believed in selling food at low prices, too, relying on a small profit on a lot of sales rather than the then-prevailing method of depending on selling a few items at a high profit.

Today's food store takes a small profit on a lot of sales for granted, making just about a penny net profit on a dollar of sales. But "Way back then," the idea was revolutionary.

Other developments taken for granted in today's retailing world were pioneered by Mr. Kroger.

-He was the first grocer to bake his own bread to supply his customers

Humphrey in the influential Harris Survey. Governor Rockefeller now leads Mr. Humphrey by three percentage points, while Richard M. Nixon trails the most probable Democratic nominee by two percentage points.

-He was the first to combine meat markets and grocery stores under one roof, a development which foresaw today's supermarkets and "one stop shopping."

-He was among the first grocers in the country to use newspaper display ads on a regular basis to tell people about the values available at B. H. Kroger's stores.

That first small Kroger store could be tucked into a corner of a modern Kroger supermarket. Instead of a few hundred items, stores now carry upwards of 7,000. And most of those 7,000 items were unheard of in Barney Kroger's day.

Today that one tiny store has grown to 1,486 supermarkets in 24 states. And now the company is owned by 53,000 shareowners, who live in every state and in several foreign countries.

But, says Mr. Gifford, one thing remains the same. Kroger stores of 1968 still believe that shoppers want value for their money, just as did the thrifty German Hausfraus of Cincinnati in 1883.

"That is why," he says, "that in addition to reasonable prices, insistence on quality control and cleanliness is high at Kroger. So, too, is friendliness and courtesy to customers. These are, after all, the people who have made possible the progress of Kroger during the past 85 years."

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Area voters will make the final decision on a number of propositions in next Tuesday's primary, while in the case of various national, state, county and judicial races they'll be setting the stage for contests in next fall's presidential election.

The ballot is a long one and even for the rare, fully-informed voter the voting process will be slow.

This edition carries a rundown of all the propositions and candidates that should at least help the voter to become familiarized with what he will see when he draws the curtain and looks at the crowded ballot in the booth.

In addition the following recommendations are made to area voters based on conclusions made either through personal contact or staff discussions on issues and candidates.

For district judge in the Northville, Plymouth, Canton district we endorse Northville Municipal Judge Philip R. Ogilvie.

We believe the challenge of organization of this new court system demands a judge of proven experience and ability. Judge Ogilvie, in our opinion, best meets these qualifications.

In the race to nominate a candidate for supervisor in Wayne county's 26th district (Northville, Plymouth, Livonia) we like Carl Pursell on the Republican side and Arch Vallier on the Democratic slate.

They're both from Plymouth and their abilities well known to me. Either would serve this district well and, in my opinion, Northville would be best represented on the county board if Pursell or Vallier eventually won out in November.

In the 27th district (Oakland county) there are three Republican candidates and an unopposed Democrat. We have no favorite among the Republicans, but the qualifications of Democrat Ray W. Lahit are well known to us through his service on the Wixom city council and the Oakland county board of supervisors. He's well qualified and would make an excellent county supervisor to represent Novi and Wixom.

For state representative we endorse: 60th district (Oakland county portion of city of Northville, Novi and Wixom), Republican Incumbent Clifford Smart; 35th district (city and township of Northville), Republican Incumbent Louis E. Schmidt and Democrat Marvin Stempien.

On the ballot propositions we urge Wayne county residents to vote to renew a one-mill levy for operation of county services. The city council has endorsed the request and, while the township board took no action, Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg, who serves on the county board, has stated that he strongly supports it.

We urge Oakland county residents to vote "YES" on the one-mill request for road improvement. The program is badly needed and the Northville, Novi, Wixom area will derive direct benefit. If the frequently-heard complaints on road conditions are to be answered, the taxpayer in Oakland county must help provide the money.

The proposal calls for a one-mill levy for five years and would provide about $3½ million annually for road work.

Last week a full-page advertisement appeared in The Record supporting the passage of the Northville school district's proposed two-mill levy for additional operating funds.

A number of interested local citizens worked very hard to collect dollars to pay for the advertisement and names to publish for endorsement purposes.

One of these workers was Gladys Evans. She may have collected more names and dollars than any other worker, thanks to assists from some of her fellow Mothers' Club members.

Bright and early last Thursday morning Mrs. Evans stopped at The Record office and asked to see me. Anyone who knows the blond and vivacious Mrs. Evans can appreciate that such a visit isn't a bad way to start any day.

But as I approached her at our office counter I sensed that this day might be an exception. The normal sparkle in her eyes seemed a wee bit sharper...more, perhaps, like fire.

And when she said that none of the names she had collected as endorsements had appeared in the full page advertisement, I knew that my perceptiveness was functioning with deadly accuracy.

We still haven't found that list of names. Fortunately, Mrs. Evans had a copy and we were able to contact each person and return their dollars.

Her graciousness in accepting our apology was about the only satisfying part of the whole experience.

Coincidentally, a page one story in the same edition last week warned area residents about "con games". And it occurred to Mrs. Evans that someone might think twice about her collecting dollars for endorsements that are never published.

Let all know here and now, Gladys Evans is not a con artist; The Record simply goofed.

As the name "The Incident" implies, it is an adventure movie, one that focuses on action and builds neatly to a climax. When all of its suspenseful parts have been put together, the audience is drained of nervous energy and happy to relax in the comfort of resolution. At least it should happen that way. But contrary to those cliches that commonly accompany a movie, such as "a powerful film ... taut disturbing drama ... builds the tension to an almost unbearable pitch," "Incident" suffers from too much exposure. It would have been better had Director Larry

Pierce chopped and chopped and chopped. Most readers will find they're thoroughly familiar with the story that "Incident" tells. It involves public apathy in the face of violence and was first seen on television some four years ago. It was a one-hour drama at that time, a compact drama stripped of fatty excesses. It had the lean, hungry and vicious look of a well honed story. The television production picked up the separate strands of people's lives — briefly — on the platform as they awaited a New York City subway train. Glimpses of their lives were fragmentary, but substantial enough to flesh out the story.

There was a nagging, pretentious wife whose husband had never lived up to expectations; the worrisome husband, cradling a child, and his wife going home late from a party; an old man who railed against the ungrateful, young generation; a young girl who fended off her greasy boy friend's public advances; the two young soldiers home on leave; the contrite alcoholic, the bum and a homosexual.

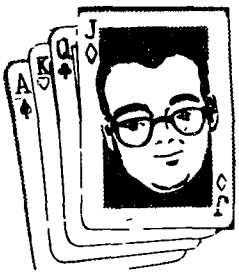

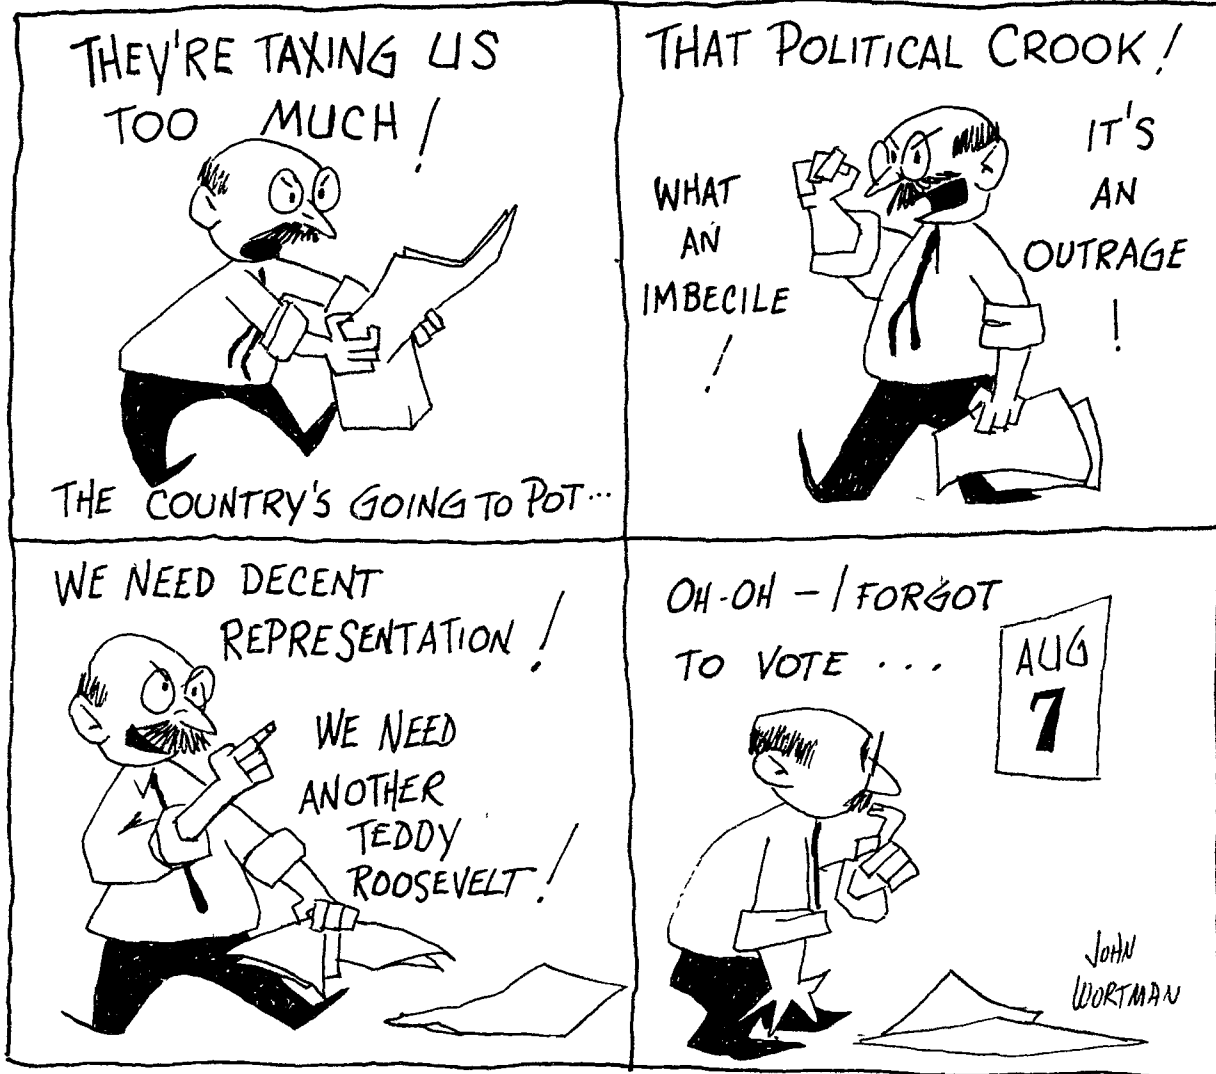

Joining this motley, yet representative crew are two young psychopaths, crazed by alcohol. They turn what would have been a dank ride through dingy New York night into a reign of terror. The subway car becomes a hellish prison.

Non-involvement is the theme. While the two young punks rough up and humiliate the passengers one by one, fellow passengers sit quietly on their complacency, hoping the problem will go away.

While the TV version accelerated to a close, the movie sputters along. The problem evidently arises from transition to a movie, which, the producers concurred, must be more than 50 minutes long. So lives are picked up earlier in an attempt to give form to the past.

Also in an attempt to make the movie contemporary, it is given civil rights overtones. A belligerent Negro boards the train with his passive wife. But they only clutter an already cumbersome story.

The adaptation falls flat, despite some strong acting and the imaginative use of the camera. The taut string of drama is snapped.

Top of the Deck

by JACK W. HOFFMAN

On vacation for two weeks, Jack Hoffman is camping in Northern Ontario with his two sons. Following is a column he wrote 10 years ago upon seeing his first harness race at the Northville Downs. He was staked to $10 by the publisher with the understanding he would share the profits.

"Passes," I mumbled pompously while waving my complimentary tickets at the gate. "No, no, not this gate," came the impatient reply. "You'll have to go through at the other end."

"Oh, oh, thank you," I said, pushing my wife who had developed a reddish complexion and a colorful vocabulary, back through the turnstile.

Once inside we bought a program. Pretty reasonable — only 25-cents.

We followed the crowd forward until it fanned out at the track fence. Then, not wanting to be conspicuous, we sidled up next to a fellow half buried in a racing program and started talking about the horses out on the track.

"Don't you think that pacer is too small to carry the driver?" I asked my friend.

He came up out of his program long enough to sting me with his eyes and then mumble something about a "trotter" as he shuffled off down the aisle.

"Strange people these racing enthusiasts," I said turning to my wife. But she was too busy trying to figure out how a driver could see with the horse's tail tickling his face.

Once we had jotted down the vital statistics — fat and skinny drivers, brown and grey horses — we took seats in the grandstand.

Looking over the program we came up with our first two "picks". Number 2, Pastime Bob, was our favorite in the first race (a neighbor had told us he was a sure winner). My wife picked Number 2, Captain Rebel, in the second because she had just finished reading "a good book" with the same title.

Then off to the "place" $2 ticket window. Flushed with inexperience, I blurted out, "I'll take Number 2 in the first and Number 2 in the second."

"You can't do that, bud. You can bet on only one race at a time."

"Okay, I'll bet on one — I mean Number 2 in the first race."

But I was too late. He had already punched Number 1, Josedale Fair Lady. His cigar smoke fumed as I made an embarrassed plea for a change. "Sorry, can't do."

After telling my wife about the blunder — "the fellow at the window just didn't know what he was doing" — we turned to the track. Then Lady Luck smiled on my ignorance by pushing Josedale Fair Lady across the finish line first.

"We won," screamed my wife echoing my sentiments.

In my most blase' step I strode to the cashier's window to pick up $5.40 — first payment on that "dream trip".

Captain Rebel put us on top of the world and half over the head of the poor chap in front of us. Another "show" ticket doubling our money was cashed.

We lost the third race. The driver was just too fat; his little horse obviously didn't have the strength to pull both sulky and driver, my wife commented while subtracting our losses.

Elby Hanover was a "cinch" to win the fourth race. Red Ross was the driver — same fellow who rode to victory in the second race. Besides, my wife pointed out that according to the program Elby carried an alias that matched my brother's name.

So sure was I of Elby that I bought our first $2 ticket to win.

We wanted to stone the judges when they handed Elby third in a very close race.

Our place bet lost in the fifth. The neighbor's tip apparently didn't come from the horse's mouth.

After a step by step review of the mistakes leading to our downfall, we hit upon the key: after buying the first two winning tickets at the same window and from the same cigar smoking seller, I foolishly had switched windows.

Sure enough, the cigar smoker puffed up another winner in the sixth and our dream trip came back into view.

We picked Vick's Jet in the seventh. Red Ross, obviously a veteran, was the driver — and the owners were from my home town. Vick's Jet trotted home first.

With only four horses running in the eighth and while our luck was running high, we decided to pick a winner. Studying the statistics, we noted that Number 3, Rip's Boy, was driven by Harold Snodgrass. Both names were impressive.

But Snodgrass could only whip Rip's Boy into fourth place and we lost again.

Now we had only one last chance to win "big money"; we had to pick a winner. Sky Boy, owned by Mrs. Delores Doren of Northville, certainly must know the track.

After placing our bet, we lined up with the racers to the parking lot and waited for the finish. As Sky Boy zoomed in fourth, we zoomed out first.

The announcer was still calling out the racing results as we reached the car and my banking executive made her announcement: "We lost 20 cents."

More Cities Turning to Income Tax for Revenue

LANSING—Demands for more city services have forced nine Michigan municipalities to adopt a city income tax. Other cities are sure to follow suit. The income levy has been found to be an effective means to raise needed revenue without adding burden to property taxes.

Taxation of income by local government, although not used in Michigan until Detroit's adoption of 1962, actually began in 1939 in the District of Columbia, notes Avon M. Dreyer, Professor of Economics at Central Michigan University. By the end of 1967, some 171 cities in eight states had begun to levy income taxes.

Uniformity of a sort was provided by the 1964 City Income Tax Act. The legislation permits municipalities to levy a flat rate one percent tax on residents and one-half percent on non-residents working within the city limits. Other provisions deal with business and industry profits. The act was deemed necessary to prevent a wide variation in bases and rates and to control maximum rates established by cities.

Cities have found the income tax somewhat difficult to administer. Critics charge that it is an "upside down income tax," based on the inability to avoid rather than the ability to pay. While it is comparatively easy to determine city residents, enforcing the tax on "outsiders" can be difficult.

Non-resident taxpayers must pay only that portion of wages earned within the city. Employees hired on a contract basis, or those with more than one place of employment present difficult problems. Rentors who work outside of the city present other problems. Statistics on the amount of non-taxable insurance, annuity, and retirement income are not readily available. Corporate profit figures are not published on a local basis.

These problems and others make the city income tax costly as well as difficult to collect. A study of Mt Pleasant in 1966 indicated that the collection cost would run as high as 13 percent, a direct reflection of the need to establish a separate tax office, staffed by competent personnel.

THE BLOW OF a city income tax may be softened by two factors: a reduction in property taxes, and a legal deduction against both state and federal income taxes.

Any property tax reduction depends upon the action of city government when the income tax is adopted. A substantial reduction was granted to Lansing residents, but the tax expert cautions that a city adopting the tax probably does so to wipe out deficits or increase service. In most instances, it is the school rather than the city which accounts for the major burden on property.

Dreyer notes that city tax reduces the taxable income for state and federal purposes. For example, a married man with two children who earns $10,000 a year and is taxed $76 at the city level would find his state and federal income taxes reduced by $29.66. The "real" cost of the city tax would be $46.34.

The tax is not a popular one, and ten percent of the voters can bring it back for voter reconsideration. Dreyer reminds that the tax is one of the very few ways cities can meet demands for more services with present revenue.

JUDGES IN Michigan are among the highest paid in the nation, according to the American Judicature Society. A comparison indicates that Michigan Supreme Court Justices, who receive $35,000 per year, are the fourth highest paid in the nation. New York pays $39,500; Pennsylvania and Illinois pay $37,500. All four states have seven high court judges. Michigan had eight until Justice Theodore Souris resigned earlier this year.

"Average salary" for state supreme court justices is $24,640. The lowest pay is in Wyoming, Utah and Oklahoma. Judges there receive $16,500 per year. Compensation for "intermediate" Appellate Court judges shows the same variation: New York, $33,500 to $40,000; Pennsylvania, $35,500; Illinois, $35,000; Michigan, $32,500. Arizona and New Mexico pay the least, $18,500 per year. The average salary across all states is $27,118.

Parking Problems Plague Small Town Businesses

WELLESLEY HILLS, Massachusetts—Postwar economic and population growth is being increasingly felt in smaller cities, county seats, local commercial centers, and more and more towns—especially college towns. The acute parking crisis of the bigger cities has reached out to these smaller communities and frustrations are mounting.

The business potential of any given community—and its ability to support various types of service companies and retail operations—is dependent on a number of factors. Among these are population, personal income, the presence or absence of industry, the relative position of the area as a commercial center, and educational and cultural advantages.

Still another factor that carries weight is the performance of business, both per se and relative to the national average. Equally significant, and mounting in importance, is the provision made for parking in—or easily accessible to—downtown areas.

OF COURSE each town is unique, hence presents unique opportunities and challenges to businessmen, particularly retailers. But one thing they all have now pretty much in common is congestion in their central business districts. Quite often this congestion is compounded because heavily traveled interstate highways slice right through the business section. Most towns would like to profit more from this through traffic, but their efforts to corral these tourist dollars are stymied by lack of parking facilities.

Another problem more common to smaller towns than to the big cities is the limited area of their central business districts and the fact that they usually abut residential areas. Under such circumstances, extension of off-street parking is often successfully blocked by strictly enforced zoning regulations.

SURPRISINGLY enough, there are still quite a few towns in the U.S. which have steadfastly resisted the intrusion of parking meters. Perhaps the reality of freedom is more highly prized in small communities than in large, for undeniably the small-town citizen has proved to be more vocal in his objection to paying for a parking privilege presently available free of charge.

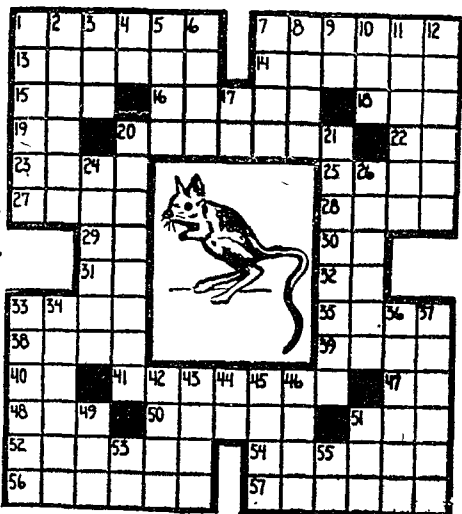

However, there's reason to believe that resistance to parking meters in small towns is met more from merchants, their employees, and other downtown workers than from those who come to shop. On the whole, parking meters are a step in the right direction...if enforcement is such that everybody gets a fair shake. Naturally customers will be irked if, when they arrive to shop, they find all metered parking space habitually taken up by those who work in the area and who "hog" that space, either by the expedient of continuously feeding the meters, or by just ignoring them altogether in the expectation that enforcement will be spotty.

In case after case, the big cities of America have failed to keep pace with their parking problems, even though they have spent millions of dollars preparing parking lots and/or high-rise garages. As a result, city traffic congestion has increased, parking is still at a premium, and much tax-producing property has been taken off the tax rolls to provide the parking facilities.

Can the towns do any better? If so, how? Many ideas have been advanced. Combinations of parking meters and off-street parking have been tried. In some places metered parking has been limited to a half hour, or even to 12 or 15 minutes. Where feasible, one of the best solutions is to provide ample parking facilities at the edge of town where land is less valuable. Ban parking in the central business area or limit it to one half hour or less. Then provide frequent bus service to and from the edge-of-town parking lots, either at a nominal fare or as a service subsidized by the merchants.

DON'T LET THE CAR(T) BEFORE THE HORSE—not at Northville, corner of Sheldon and Seven Mile Road—not during the two-month racing season. This may be the only spot in Michigan where the old rule about horses taking preference over cars is still a reality. Stopping traffic by controlling the light, is an auxiliary city police (technically, he's paid by Northville Downs) who, when he sees a horse and driver coming from the winter barns across the highway or going there from the track behind him, puts the red light on for cars from all directions. Not until the horse is safely across, does he release first one line of traffic and then the other. Donly Young, one of the auxiliary police who is a guard at the gate to the barns, estimates that some 50 horses make the crossing every day, either for practice between 6 a.m. and 1 p.m., or for the race from 5 p.m. on at night. Once in a while, a car driver refuses to abide by the traffic regulation because he resents playing second fiddle to a horse and sulky, Young says, but considering the value of the animals—and their temperamental nature when confronted with automobiles—this seems like a risky way to buck the system.
