

Will Millage Loss Hurt High School Rating?

Loss of extra curricular activities in the Northville school system could conceivably have a detrimental affect upon Northville's standing with the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

That's the word from James Hay, assistant chairman of the Michigan committee for North Central at the University of Michigan. He said extra-curricular activities are definitely considered by North Central as an integral part of school's program.

However, Hay indicated it is unlikely that Northville would lose its accreditation immediately even if the cuts are deemed serious by North Central's National board.

"Chances are Northville would be placed on a 'warning' list before being dropped," he said. "Usually a school is given a year before it is dropped."

He declined to comment on the seriousness of the cuts in the Northville system, pointing out that his organization must await the official annual report of the high school principal. "All I know about the situation there is what I've read in the newspapers," he said.

If the association decides, after reviewing the report, that the situation in Northville is indeed as serious as some local administrators have stated, the matter will be taken up by the national board which makes the final determination.

One of the requirements for accreditation, Hay pointed out, "is adequate community support" which he defined in part as its financial contribution to education.

At any rate, the initial action of the board probably would mean no more than a "warning." Such a warning gives notice to the school system concerned that its program is inadequate and that corrections should be made within a year.

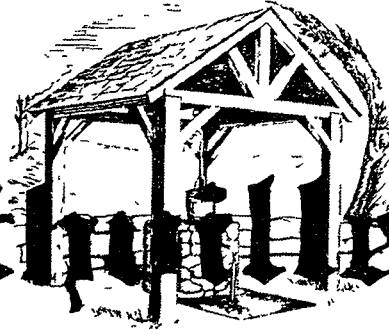

Sometimes, he added, an extra year to make corrections is given to the school system.

The annual report of the principal, which must include a review of the current school program, is due in mid-November, Hay explained. Any action by the national board, if deemed necessary, would occur in the spring before graduation.

Hay admitted that accreditation by North Central does not mean that its high school students are assured easy entrance to the nation's colleges and universities. It does, however, have some bearing — especially for Michigan graduates planning to attend colleges in other states.

Northville has been accredited by North Central since 1940, Hay's records showed.

Third Straight Defeat

Bigger Vote Attracts More No's, 1332-1093

It's all over but the Monday morning quarterbacking — and there's plenty of that.

The controversial proposal to hike Northville school taxes by two mills was defeated for the third consecutive time Saturday in the largest turnout of voters in the history of the community.

Defeat — 1,332 to 1,093 — was greater than in the previous two elections. In June the measure went down by a scant 14 votes, 484 to 470, and then in July the margin ballooned to 53 as voters axed it 720 to 667.

There's little likelihood that a school millage proposal will be put to the voters here before the next regular election in June.

Even if it were and if voters suddenly had a change of position — which isn't likely — it would be too late to raise money for the 1968-69 school budget. Millage rates were fixed this past weekend and cannot now be changed before the spreading of the tax rolls by the municipalities making up the Northville School District.

Thus, winter tax collections for schools here will be based upon a total levy of 32.9 mills — the same as last year. The defeated proposal would have increased this total to 34.9.

Saturday's turnout represented about 48-percent of the registered voters of the school district, officials said. Thirty-one of the ballots were spoiled by improper marking, including 19 would-be "yes" votes. Two voters, one who had rushed back home from Lake St. Clair, arrived too late to cast their votes before the 8 p.m. deadline.

Because of the record turnout, millage boosters had mistakenly predicted a victory earlier Saturday. Many of the voters who they urged to go to the polls late in the day, however, apparently cast "no" votes, they admitted as the count was made.

"Maybe this will put a stop to this horse-play (repeated elections) and make the school start living within its means," declared one of the opponents of the measure election night.

Numerous other reasons were advanced for the millage proposition's defeat. Among these were:

—Public distrust of "conflicting" school board financial disclosures.

—Resentment of the recent teachers' strike and the resulting salary schedule.

—General property owner revolt against spiraling taxes and a backlash from recent hikes in Northville Township assessments.

—A growing dissatisfaction with school program "extras" instead of concentration of the "three R's".

—Student and parental problems with individual teachers.

—Public apathy.

—Growing anti-youth sentiment sweeping the country as a result of youths engaging in public protests such as at Chicago.

—Lack of support from the board of education for a millage issue it publicly deemed an "absolute necessity" and, reportedly, even privately expressed anti-millage comments by one or two board members.

—Public antagonism sparked by a pro-millage paid advertisement signed by some non-resident teachers.

Whatever the reasons, the result was decisive. School officials have little choice but to trim its proposed budget still more. And if the board of education sticks to its earlier decision, none of the extra-curricular activities pared from the program can nor will be re-instated.

The board was slated to wrestle with the budget yesterday (Wednesday) in a special meeting to trim enough money from the budget to make up for an estimated $30,000 deficit resulting from teacher salary and fringe benefit increases that were not anticipated in the budget.

A related financial dispute not yet resolved going into Wednesday's meeting was Trustee Richard Martin's assertion last week that he will never approve a deficit budget.

Furthermore, that the board can even consider further budget cuts at this point — in view of previous statements that the budget was already sliced to the bone — is likely to cement public skepticism.

All of which is likely to create disagreement among board members themselves. Until now, the present board has appeared to be unified in most of its public deliberations. If members have engaged in heated debates, as one board member has stated, such debates have been behind closed doors.

How School Taxes Compare in Area

How does Northville, which turned down a two-mill increase proposal Saturday, compare to neighboring school districts in total school millage levies?

Comparing millage levies of school districts is like comparing apples with bananas; it can't be done. To be fair, the state equalized valuations (SEV) of the districts must be taken into account.

For example: one mill in the Plymouth school district raises $188,000 dollars based upon its SEV of $188,112,651. One mill in Northville, which has an SEV of $49,983,910, raises just about $50,000.

In Livonia a mill raises $545,000; in Farmington, $205,000; in Walled Lake, $128,000; and in South Lyon, $30,000.

Northville's total school millage, including both operation and debt retirement, is 32.9 (or $32.90 per $1,000 of assessed valuation). Neighboring school districts levy comparable millages. In Plymouth, the total is 31.15; in Livonia, 33.97; in Farmington, 34.5; in Walled Lake, 30.30; and in South Lyon, 34.62.

Of Northville's 32.9 mills, seven are for debt retirement and the remainder for operation of the school system. The seven mills raise taxes to pay off bonds for voted construction of Amerman Elementary and renovation of the old junior high school in 1957, construction of the high school in 1959; and construction of the swimming pool, Ida B. Cooke Junior High School, Moraine Elementary School, and the addition to the high school.

Of the 25.9 mills for operation, 8.9 are allocated by the county and 17 were voted by the citizens of the district in 1966. All 17 are voted through 1971.

Guess Who Won The Game

LIKE THE Pennar winning Tigers, Northville's football team had good reason for their jubilation as they boarded the bus for their trip home Friday night. After two straight defeats at the hands of arch-rival Plymouth, the Mustangs opened the 1968 season with a 20-13 victory over the Rocks. See sports page for details and more pictures.

Citizens Don't Like Street Plan

Despite objections from several residents of Maplewood, Northville's city council took the first step in special assessment procedures to cut a new Carpenter street into the block bounded by Maplewood, Hill, Novi and Grace.

Specifically, five residents were on hand to protest the council's preference of cutting the street through from Maplewood, rather than from Hill street.

As it now stands, it appears that Mayor A. M. Allen, Councilmen Del Black and Wallace Nichols believe that the street should be extended southward from Maplewood to a cul-de-sac. Councilwoman Beatrice Carlson says she prefers extending the street all the way from Hill to Maplewood. Councilman Charles Lapham would extend Carpenter Street northward from Hill to a cul-de-sac.

By its action Monday night the council adopted a resolution calling for the improvement. Still up for decision at a subsequent public hearing is the exact route of the improvement.

The question came before council upon petition of a property owner in the area, Ivan Berdan. Although never constructed, Carpenter street is shown platted through since the 1920's.

Mrs. William Crump reiterated opposition to the plan outlined by her husband in previous council sessions. The council explained that a plan submitted by Crump calling for a street to be cut into the interior of the block from Grace could not be legally accomplished. The street right-of-way as plotted extends north and south between Hill and Maplewood.

Robert Froelich and James Knox also expressed objections to the extension from Maplewood. They maintained the Maplewood approach would require a deeper cut and result in a steeper grade for the road. Froelich also pointed to traffic and drainage problems.

Manager Frank Ollendorff said engineering studies show little difference in grade and a slight saving in cost coming from Maplewood. Councilman Del Black, who had earlier favored a cut-through from Hill, said he's now convinced that the large number of utilities in Hill street would create problems and possibly cause damage.

In other business Monday night the council gave the manager the

Oil Company Suit on Tap

The city of Northville and the Pure Oil division of Union Oil company will square off in circuit court, "probably in November or December", City Attorney Marvin Stempien reported to the city council Monday night.

Suit was filed against the city by the oil company after the city planning commission denied the company's request for rezoning to permit modernization and expansion of the Pure Oil station at Main and Wing streets. The oil company holds an option to purchase the 107-foot-long Main street building extending eastward from the station. The building site is now zoned C-2, general commercial. C-1 zoning is required for service stations.

At hearings held on the rezoning planners denied the request on the basis that service stations are not permitted within the central business district under the new master plan and that the site is needed for commercial development of the downtown shopping area.

Attorney Stempien told the council that a preliminary hearing held in Wayne county circuit court determined that trial of the case is necessary.

Rites Held for Dr. Hagge, 46

Dr. Donald Rinehart Hagge, 46, chief of surgery at St. Mary Hospital and past president of the Michigan Archaeological Society, died last Friday at his home, 18126 Shadbrook, of a heart attack.

A memorial service was to be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Northville First Presbyterian Church with the Reverend Lloyd Brasure officiating. He also presided at private graveside services at Woodlawn Cemetery Monday. Dr. Hagge lay in state at Casterline Funeral Home Sunday afternoon and evening when a steady stream of hundreds of friends, physicians, associates and nursing sisters at St. Mary paid their respects.

Although Dr. Hagge and his family had been Northville residents for only a little more than three years, they had become active in the community. With an infectious enthusiasm for his hobby of archaeology, Dr. Hagge helped plan a third-grade project at Main Street Elementary School and spoke to the children about the possibilities in Michigan.

Dr. Hagge's interest in archaeology was stirred while he was recuperating from a coronary attack seven years ago. He revived a boyhood interest begun in Iowa and took courses at the University of Michigan. His specific interest was disease in prehistoric man. He authored a book on paleopathology.

During the summer the Hagges toured the West, studying Pueblo pottery and artifacts. Last week Dr. Hagge discovered a large number of Indian skeletons while digging in the Saginaw area.

Former chief of staff at St. Mary Hospital, Dr. Hagge practiced privately, maintaining an office in Livonia. He was a member of the American Medical Society, Michigan Medical Society, American College of Surgeons and was a veteran of World War II. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Royal Oak.

He was born in Beaver, Iowa, June 23, 1922, to William C. and Olive (Rinehart) Hagge.

In addition to his wife, Rosemary, he leaves two sons, Donald R., Jr., of Plymouth and Michael at home; two daughters, Molly and Jill; his mother of Jefferson, Iowa; a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Bullard of Jefferson; a brother, Wayne of Renwick, Iowa; and a grandson, Donald R. Hagge III, of Plymouth.

M STARTER—Big Jerry Imsland, ex-Northville high school All-Stater, has won the starting assignment at split end for the University of Michigan's season opener against California in Ann Arbor Saturday. Imsland graduated from Northville in 1965, spent his freshman year at the University of Kentucky, transferred to the U of M last year and had to sit out one football season. This is his first game as a Wolverine. The glue-fingered Imsland has won the praise of his M coaches both as a pass-catcher and a blocker.

Canadian highlights included stops at Echo Valley and Santa's workshop at Bracebridge, Ontario. They returned via the Mackinac bridge, traveling down the Lake Michigan shore.

At home they found their two dogs, three canaries and cat well-cared for by their young neighbor, Mary Hommer.

In Our Town

By JEAN DAY

SCHOOL KEEPS — and Our Town's organizations are accelerating into high gear for what promises to be an exciting fall season with much that is new. Among the "firsts" are two state meetings to be held here with Northville's Base Line Chapter of Quarters and the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association as hostesses.

"An Asterisk of Art" will open the 76th year of the Northville Woman's Club as members visit the Detroit Institute of Arts for a luncheon tour October 4. This will be the first out-of-town meeting in the club's recent history, but in years past the club has held meetings in Ann Arbor and Dearborn as the clubwomen widened intellectual and cultural horizons.

Mrs. William Switzer, program chairman for the day, explains that club members and guests will have luncheon first in the Rivera Court before a general tour of the Art Institute with special guides to be provided for each group of 25 women. Since this the deadline for reservations, she suggests that members intending to make them telephone Mrs. Robert Shafer immediately. Mrs. Donald Schwendemann and her committee will make transportation arrangements.

Mrs. Blake Couse, new president, will preside at the brief meeting at which past presidents traditionally are honored.

THE NORTHVILLE BRANCH of the woman's National Farm and Garden Association also is claiming the services of efficient Eunice Switzer who is that organization's program chairman for the year. Next meeting of the branch is scheduled for October 14 at the Presbyterian Church when witty Mrs. Roy Jensen of Detroit will be guest speaker.

Branch members also are busy with arrangements for a meeting of the state council for which they will be hostesses October 24. The day will begin with a morning coffee and meeting at the Presbyterian church followed by luncheon at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Last week, of course, the branch entertained 38 delegates from throughout the world at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. William Walker. Members of the Associated Countrywomen of the World, the guests had been attending a world convention in East Lansing.

Mrs. William Slattery, local past president and presently both a state and national officer, attended the convention as a delegate.

Some of the overseas visitors she met at the convention also met another member of the Slattery family as they toured Greenfield Village. Nanci Slattery was their tour guide, a summer position she has just completed before returning to studies at Michigan State University.

BASE LINE QUESTERS will be finalizing plans for hosting the state meeting when the group holds its first fall meeting at 1 p.m. Monday at the Timberlane home of Mrs. William Crump. A special guest will be Mrs. Charles Walker, state president.

The state meeting and luncheon will be October 16 at Meadowbrook Country Club. Appropriately, the theme will be "Victoriana."

THE SECOND ANNUAL home tour under sponsorship of the Presbyterian Women's Association this year is being held on a Saturday — October 5 — by popular request. Also being repeated are the successful luncheon (with the women of St. Paul's Lutheran Church again cooperating), the country kitchen sale at the Presbyterian church and the antiques-and-things flea market at the Maplewood Street home of Mrs. Robert Froelich.

This year's flea market should be even more enticing than the first as, Nan Froelich again assumed chairmanship to use the experience gained. The market gives everyone a chance to contribute to a good cause (last year's home tour and sale proceeds were donated to the chapel fund at Northville State Hospital).

donations are invited from the community for the flea market with owners receiving all but 20 per cent of the sale price. Anyone with items to sell is asked to contact Mrs. Froelich.

TOWN HALL ANNOUNCEMENT that Kitty Carlisle will open Northville's 1968-9 series October 17 is an exciting one — for the panelist of CBS-TV's "To Tell The Truth" has a reputation for wit, intelligence and charm. In addition to experiences as a movie, stage, nightclub and television star and even as an opera singer at the Metropolitan, Miss Carlisle can draw upon memories of her marriage to the late playwright-director Moss Hart as she talks about "First Person Singular."

As Town Hall enters its eighth season under sponsorship of Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church, it is expanding to new-and-larger quarters of Northville High School auditorium.

For this reason there still are some tickets available for the upcoming series, Mrs. Robert Lang, chairman, announced this week. Because the series has been a sell-out, the TH committee has been able to keep the series price at $10. Anyone interested in tickets or information may call Mrs. Lang, 349-2893.

An Invitation To Fashion

An invitation to all women of the area to attend a fashion show-luncheon being given by the Detroit Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women of Western Wayne Deanery Tuesday, September 24, at Raleigh House, Telegraph Road at Ten Mile, is extended by Mrs. Donald J. Lane, Our Lady of Victory parish representative.

A six-course "dinner type" luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m., preceded by cocktails at 11:30 a.m. The fashions will be shown by Fisher's Woman's Apparel Shop of Lincoln Park. There also will be prizes.

Anyone interested in tickets, which are $5.50 for the luncheon and show, may call Mrs. Lane, 349-5769.

Clear Trays at Kroger

New Look in Meat Packaging

The mystery of meat shopping will be eliminated by The Kroger Company here this week. The supermarket chain is introducing new, clear, plastic meat trays for the packaging of fresh, red meat and poultry at the company's local supermarkets.

It is the first time a supermarket has adopted this newest development in meat packaging material in the Northville area.

The trays, developed by Monsanto Company, enable consumers to get a clear view of the entire product at a single glance, eliminating the poking, prodding and sheer guesswork traditionally associated with buying packaged cuts of meat.

H. A. Gifford, division vice president of Kroger, said, "Our introduction of the clear meat tray is in keeping with our desire to serve our customers better at no cost to them. For the first time, shoppers at Kroger's will be able to examine an entire cut of meat to determine the quality, bone and fat content before purchasing the meat."

He stated that the clear, plastic trays also allow the housewife to place the prepackaged meat directly into the freezer without rewrapping or labeling. The meat, even if frozen, will not stick to the tray. The meat separates cleanly and easily from the clear container.

In addition, the trays will prevent absorption of the precious juices and retention of foreign odor or taste, according to Gifford.

Consumers have already shown a preference for the plastic meat trays. Monsanto conducted a number of surveys which illustrate this fact.

In one survey, over 80 per cent of the housewives who were interviewed liked the meat packaged in the clear tray better than identical meat packaged in other meat trays. Four out of five women stated that the meat was better protected in the plastic tray than in conventional trays. Two out of three women who normally would not freeze meat would freeze it in the plastic trays, according to the survey.

Patricia Ann Burden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Burden of Northville, formerly of South Lyon, received her R.N. September 12. She was a member of the June 16th graduating class of the Mercy School of Nursing of Detroit. This was the last class to be graduated from the three-year program.

Miss Burden has been employed at Hawthorn Center at Northville since July.

Another survey conducted by Survey Research Services of San Francisco turned up the fact that four out of five housewives would prefer to buy their meat in a store using clear, plastic trays.

The survey indicated that 82 per cent of the housewives questioned would shop at a supermarket featuring the clear trays, if the distance to each of the two supermarkets was the same.

Results also showed that the housewives believe the clear trays enhance the appearance of fresh, red meat. Fifty-nine per cent of the housewives surveyed stated that they believed the cuts of meat packaged in the clear trays were of better quality than those packaged in conventional meat trays.

In this section of the survey, housewives were asked to judge only the meat. Identical cuts of steak and roasts were used in the study.

Marjorie Marque Eyes Olympics

Will a Novi girl represent the United States in the next Winter Olympics in 1972?

There's a pretty good chance that Marjorie Marque, daughter of the Gerald Marques of 24030 Glen Ridge Court in Willowbrook, will do just that — in figure skating.

She's got the talent and the determination to do it.

Last summer, for example, she bounced back from a serious illness that sidelined her for almost a year and nearly ended her budding skating ambitions altogether and quickly earned a gold medal at Lake Placid, New York.

The gold medal is the highest non-competitive award a skater can receive. And it qualified the pretty Novi senior for the national qualification round at Fort Wayne, Indiana in December. If she makes it there, she'll go on to the nationals in January. And success in the nationals is essential if a skater has aspirations for the Olympics.

To win the gold medal, Marjorie was required to pass eight difficult figure and free skating tests. In the eighth and most difficult test, the figure skater must show grace and precision; she is also judged on interpretation of music and the difficulty of the program.

Achievement that really separates Marjorie from everyday skaters is the double lutz, a backward jump with two revolutions of the body before her skates return to the ice. The triple lutz — three revolutions — is almost solely reserved for men, but Marjorie has added it to her repertoire, a bid plus for a young woman at the age of 17.

Marjorie's coach is proud of her accomplishment, too. He's Ronald Ludington, a former Olympic medalist and a nationally renowned coach of top dance teams in ice and roller skating. But Marjorie is his first gold medalist in individual figure skating.

A member of the Detroit Skating Club, which has produced Tim Wood (silver medalist at the recent Winter Olympics in Grenoble and a national champion) and Duane Maki (recently deserted to Sweden rather than serve in the U.S. Army), Marjorie has to operate under a tight schedule. She must work into one of 16 available skating rinks open to about 100 skaters to practice, so she has to dash from Novi High School directly to the rink.

Skating practice, while extremely important to success, must allow study time since she must maintain high grades on her college preparatory schedule if she is to be accepted at Michigan State next year.

State was one of her summer practice areas this past summer (as was Lake Placid) and it will serve that purpose again next summer. At Demonstration Hall on campus, she practiced at 45 to 50 minute intervals from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. in preparation for her test at Lake Placid.

If that rigorous schedule doesn't sound busy enough, consider the fact that Marjorie also is an accomplished musician, playing the French horn in high school and in the Southfield Junior Symphony Orchestra. She also picked up the cello this summer in East Lansing.

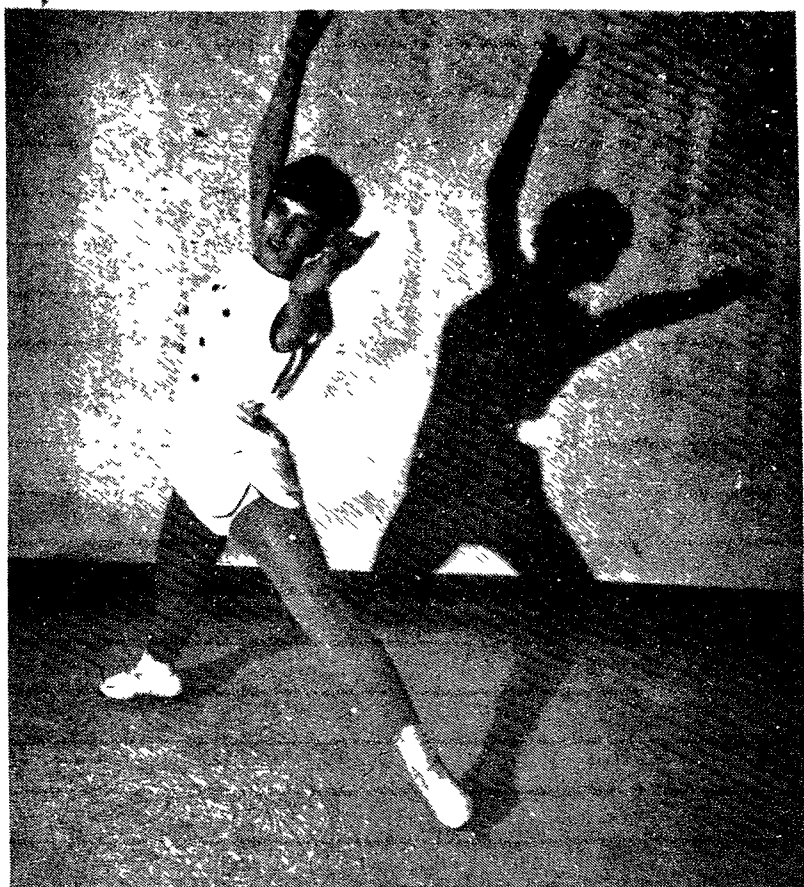

Although the competition is tough, she may decide to become a music major at college.

In case you're interested in following the figure skating path, dedication, innate ability and iron discipline are not all that is required. You've got to be prepared to spend money, too. Boots for the figure skates run $120 a pair (she must have two pair) and practice costs from $6 to $7.50 per half hour.

Area residents may get a chance to see Marjorie on television later this fall. While she was practicing at Lake Placid, a video tape was made. She says there is no way of knowing if she'll appear on the tape, however.

Meanwhile, practice goes on with the future Olympics hopes riding on her flashing skates.

Holland in Spring Opens Travelogue

An unusual three-screen program will take Northville Rotary Club Travel and Adventure Series ticket holders to Holland as the travel series opens its eighth year at 8 p.m. Wednesday, October 23, in the Northville high school auditorium.

"Spring Captures Holland" will be presented by Robert Brouwer who uses several projectors and stereo music. The Keukenhof Gardens, showcase of Dutch bulb growers, fishing villages and canal towns are included in the tour.

Tickets for the series of six programs are available at $6 from any Rotarian, from Northville Camera Shop and from Manufacturers National Bank. Rotarian Robert Webber pointed out that ticket holders may use all six admissions for one presentation, if desired. Single admissions at the door are $1.50 and 50 cents for students.

Other programs in the series will be "Adventures in Switzerland" by Dick Reddy, tracing the adventures of Mark Twain on balloon flights, sleigh rides and flights over the Alps, November 21; "Windjammer to Australia" by Art Erickson on the famous brigantine Yankee, January 15, 1969; "The Canadian Far West" by Don Cooper journeying from the western prairies to the sea, February 13; "The Atlantic Coast" by James Forshee, ranging from Washington, D. C. and New York to Williamsburg and Parris Island, North Carolina, March 12, and "Wings to the Bahamas" by James W. Metcalf, flying to the 800 exotic tropical islands, April 10.

While armchair travelers share the varied and colorful adventures, they will be helping the local Rotary continue its community projects.

Kings Mill Shows 'The Longest Day'

A new theatre program is premiering at Kings Mill this weekend with a CinemaScope production, "The Longest Day," to be presented at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the main lounge of the Townehouse. Tickets will be available at the door.

Kings Mill Mothers' Club was to be activated for the fall season Wednesday.

Mrs. Harry Odle has accepted chairmanship of the newly organized Kings Mill Women's Club which met Monday. Members displayed their hobby and craft collections.

Dog, Patrolman Catch Escapee

Joe the police dog and his master, Patrolman Roger Beukema, made short work of a search for an escapee from Detroit House of Correction Monday night.

Ronnie Wamsley, 22, of Inkster, was apprehended behind the old fish hatchery and turned over to the sheriff's office in Wayne County. He was at large for only a few hours.

Novi Youth Tops Singers

SINGER DALE EVANS AND TROPHY

Seventeen-year-old Dale Evans of Novi won out over 33 other male singers to capture the Best Male Artist title in the second annual Michigan Country Music Convention Sunday at Onsted, Michigan.

Entering competition for the first time, Dale, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Evans, 26867 Beck, sang in the two-day event against almost all-adult singers. A 10th grader in Novi high school, Dale plays the tuba in the band but has never had voice lessons.

His impressive Buck Owens trophy was presented to him by Ralph Embry, Nashville country music star, who flew in for the event. The contest was sponsored by Paul Wade, editor of Music City News, and Al "Flat Top" Daily.

Dale sang "Distant Drums" and "He'll Have to Go." While the young singer often informally accompanies himself on the guitar, at the competition he sang with official background musicians. He also can play the bass fiddle, his mother adds.

Mrs. Evans entered the competition for female singers but did not win.

The entire Evans family has musical interests with Dale's 15-year-old brother Kyle playing the guitar and 13-year-old sister Wilma, the organ.

A little of him can be found in each individual touched by the hope he sparked for a better America. LIGHT-O-BIKE—An enthusiastic turnout of youngsters who took advantage of the special licensing program sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012 Saturday. Besides issuing licenses for bicycles, the VFW passed out special reflection tape for bike safety. In addition, two youngsters won free bicycles donated by the post to a boy and a girl whose name was drawn from a box containing names of youngsters who got their bikes licensed. On hand for the afternoon drawing was Councilwoman Beatrice Carlson (below). The winners were Rickie Marrone of 393 Welch and Anne Bongiovanni, 232 South Center. Above, Dave Catton of the VFW fixes the safety tape to the bike of Diana Davis, 112 Walnut.

Visiting Municipal Court Judge Dunbar Davis of Plymouth resided at Northville Municipal Court last Thursday.

Among the twelve cases he heard were six escapees he returned to Detroit House of Correction for varying amounts of time.

Those receiving 30 day sentences were Rudolph Gonzales, address unknown, who escaped on May 21, 1967 and James Scott of Detroit, escapee of July 23.

Frederick L. Cain of Imlay City escaped on August 23 and was returned for 25 days, as were Earl McKenzie of Detroit (July 30) and Robert L. Miller of Lincoln Park (July 21). Receiving 20 days was Edward S. Brooks of Detroit who had escaped August 23. All entered guilty pleas.

The others fined or sentenced by Judge Davis were guilty either of drinking too much or of not being very careful drivers.

Driving violators included Edward T. McDaniel of South Lyon who answered two charges. Fined $25 or five days on each charge, he paid the $50 for speeding involving a property damage accident and disobeying a stop sign. Both violations occurred on Northbound Hutton at Rayson.

Another driving violation was that of Lawrence L. Burhans of Pontiac who pleaded guilty to careless driving on Sheldon Road and paid $35 fine and $15 costs in lieu of seven days.

Duane R. Busch of 111-113 West

Main stood mute when arraigned on May 26 for driving with a revoked license on Main street and a plea of innocent was entered for him. Judge

Davis dismissed the charge, but found him guilty of added count of no operator's license on person and Busch paid fine of $25.

Gerald A. Page, vagrant, pleaded guilty to being disorderly, drunk, on September 10 at Ford Property Park on East Main Street. He is serving 10 days at Detroit House of Correction rather than pay $50 fine and $5 costs.

Two others stood mute when arraigned and had pleas of innocent entered for them when they appeared before the judge.

Gerald R. Minthorn of 19254 Gerald had charge of driving under the influence of alcoholic beverages on southbound Hutton dismissed, but paid $100 in lieu of 10 days on an added charge of driving while his vision was impaired.

Charged with being disorderly, drunk, at Northville Downs on July 3, Donald W. Martin of 500 Griswold Street had this charge dismissed, but was assessed $20 court costs.

FACT-FINDING—Factfinder George Roumell, Jr. (center) had just opened his first session on an optimistic note when the photographer shot this picture. Several hours later, neither Northville teachers nor the board of education negotiators had budged and the meeting broke up without a settlement. Later, however, Roumell came back with his recommendations that ultimately led to settlement. A board meeting was held yesterday to discuss implementation of the teacher settlement.

Dr. Samenov Joins Northville State

Stanton Samenov, Ph.D., formerly associated with the adolescent psychology service at the University of Michigan in a post-doctoral project, has been named the chief psychologist of the young adult unit at Northville State Hospital.

Dr. Samenov received his B.A. Degree, with a major in psychology, from Yale University in 1963 and his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in April of 1968.

"Our hospital's young adult unit, now two years in operation," commented M. Kemil Gokner, M.D., unit director, "serves patients ranging in age from seventeen to twenty-one. Dr. Samenov's contribution to our 60-bed unit indeed will prove to be invaluable."

Dr. Samenov is a resident of Ann Arbor.

Fifty members of the Michigan Therapeutic Recreation Society will convene at Northville State Hospital today (Thursday) for a statewide meeting.

A new film produced by the University of Michigan, "Boxing in the Treatment of Emotionally Disturbed Adolescent Boys", will be shown with a discussion led by Arden Kersey, chief recreational therapist of the Adolescent Service, Neuro-psychiatric Institute, University of Michigan Medical staff.

A team of psychiatric specialists, headed by Fulvo Ferrari, M.D., will hold a panel discussion on "Discharge Techniques" at the morning session. Rama Sharma, president of Michigan Therapeutic Recreation Society, will conduct the business meeting.

Deadline Near for Applicants To U.S. Military Academies

To qualify for appointment to one of the service academies, an applicant must be a resident of the State of Michigan, unmarried and a U.S. citizen. He must be at least 17 years old but not yet 22 on July 1, 1969.

Applicants are asked to notify Senator Griffin of their interest by writing him in care of the Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Each applicant will be asked to complete and return an application form, together with other enclosures indicated on the form.

To assist the Senator in the selection process, each candidate is requested to take the preliminary screening examination on Saturday, October 5, in a Post Office or other designated building near his home.

The test is administered and graded by the Civil Service Commission. Each applicant will be notified of the test location.

"Service Academy appointments are made on the basis of demonstrated qualities of scholarship, leadership, physical stamina and moral character," Senator Griffin said.

"In an effort to insure that appointments go to the most qualified candidates," he said, "I use the competitive method of appointment."

"Under this procedure, after the Civil Service examination scores are available, an allotted number of candidates for each academy are designated to take the entrance examinations for that academy. This designation will now occur in December, a month earlier than in the past."

"On the basis of entrance examination scores, physical examination results, high school records and recommendations, the academy selection board then makes the final appointment in the spring."

Senator Griffin said he has already received 375 applications for next year's appointments.

Michigan high school students seeking appointment to one of the U.S. military academies should apply to their senators or congressmen no later than Sunday, September 22, U.S. Senator Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich) announced this week.

Reason for the new deadline, Griffin said, was due to the Navy Academy's request that nominations be submitted a month earlier than previous years.

Out of THE PAST

FIVE YEARS AGO...

Football fireworks lit up the sky on the high school field when the Northville gridders opened up the season against arch rival Plymouth.

With the theme of "World Understanding Through Travelogues" the Rotary Club announced the line-up for its third annual "World Travel Series" presentation. Six programs were scheduled with Bathie Stuart speaking on "Away to the South Seas", James Forshee on "The Canadian Rockies", Romain Wilhelmsen on "South American Adventure", John Weld on "Beirut to Baghdad", Russ Porter on "Belgium of the Masters" and James Metcalf on "Wings to Wonderland".

Friday the 13th was a lucky day for shoppers in Northville. On Saturday the 14th the bargains were even better, more plentiful and much easier to find. They were on the sidewalks. The two-day "sell-a-bration" was designed to help the merchants clean their shelves of many leftovers while giving the customer honest-to-goodness bargains in good merchandise.

The Northville township board of appeals received a request from the S. G. Hayes Land Development company to deposit rubbish in three specific areas in the 325-acre Manning and Locklin gravel pit land between Seven and Eight Mile roads. The request asked permission to conduct a landfill operation so that the area could be developed into homesites.

TEN YEARS AGO...

A special citation for photo presentation of Michigan Week activities was won by The Northville Record. Announcement came from Tony Spina, chief photographer to The Detroit Free Press and chairman of the Michigan Week News-Photo committee.

Northville school administrators faced up to a serious realization and found themselves on the brink of plunging into another building program.

When Larry Hill and Bob Van Hellemont gazed at the moon, chances were that they were counting craters or checking out an ice cap. Larry and Bob gazed at the distant satellite through a telescope they made themselves as part of a science project in school. They were students in Miss Gertrude Martin's sixth grade class when they built this instrument, nearly as sharp as University of Michigan's on a hilltop in Ann Arbor.

Northville, along with Plymouth, Wayne, Redford Union, Redford and South Lyon will continue the Wayne County Training School education program.

Two Northville ladies were winners in the 109th Michigan State Fair food contest, described as having a record entry and the keenest competition for top prizes in years. Mrs. Dona A. Clinansmith of Curtis road won a fourth prize for her bean pickles. Mrs. Fred W. Cobb of Beck road made a clean sweep with three firsts, three seconds, two thirds, and two fourth prizes.

greenlight on experimental maintenance work on some 5300 feet of East Chigwidden Drive in Northville Estates. For an estimated expenditure of $2,000 the manager said existing asphalt of the pock-marked road could be "ground-up, respread and primed" into a smoother-surface that could be later seal-coated. The council agreed that the subdivision roads need maintenance and that the process described should be tried for possible expanded use.

City Favors More Unification Study

For its part the Northville city council hopes the joint city-township unification study steering committee will re-convene for further study.

Specifically, the council voted Monday night in favor of further study of questions asked at two public hearings held on unification and to investigate methods of undertaking unification.

The original study determined that unification was feasible.

Councilman Del Black, who served as chairman of the steering committee, told the council that "I hope the day will come that the public has an opportunity to vote on the question rather than letting it die at the council table."

Black indicated that, as chairman, he would call for another meeting of the steering committee and he expressed the hope that the township agree to further study.

Willowbrook Elects Brinker

Bill Brinker is the new president of the Willowbrook Community Association.

Among other officers selected in the association's annual election and business meeting were Vice President Norm Schollett, Secretary Lisabeth Berry, Treasurer Evelyn Natzel and directors for each of the three subdivisions.

The directors were Bob Macomber and Otto Natzel of No. 1, Denis Berry, Chuck Collins and Bob Sale of No. 2 and Jim Cherfoli and Jerry Lafaive of No. 3.

Big event coming up is an adult dinner dance tentatively scheduled for Saturday, December 7. Plans also are under way for a children's Christmas party for all children of the three subdivisions.

Proposed constitutional amendments were accepted by the association.

A preliminary plat for Lexington Commons North was approved by the council. It is a 100-home portion of the

Thompson-Brown company's development on Taft at Eight Mile

Road. Specifically, Lexington Commons North extends on both sides of Taft road, with 48 homesites north of the junior high school on the east side of Taft and 52 homesites platted for the west side with a park area along the southern boundary. Another parcel of the development will be multiple dwelling units south of the park and just north of Eight Mile. South of Eight Mile road at the Taft intersection will be another development of single family homes, also a part of the Lexington Commons subdivision.

Until drainage problems can be jointly settled with Oakland county and the village of Novi the council reminded Thompson-Brown representatives that final approval of the plat cannot be granted.

Area Youth Competes In Tractor Competition

David Schwark, a 16-year-old farm youth from Ovid, Clinton County, was named Michigan champion tractor operator at the State 4-H Club Show held on the Campus of Michigan State University, East Lansing.

Winning second place Thursday was Dennis Harris, Route 1, Edwardsburg, Cass County, and in third was Jack Middleton, Lake Orion, Oakland County.

Each of the 12 contestants had won similar contests in their home counties and each of them drove the difficult course at the University in East Lansing Thursday. One of the 12 was Richard Cort, 6864 Six Mile Road, representing Washtenaw County.

The junior tractor operators' contest is one of the events of the 4-H Petroleum Power program, which is sponsored in 40 states by a grant from the American Oil Foundation. In addition to tractor maintenance and operation, the national program teaches young people maintenance and safe operation of smaller engines such as those found on lawn mowers.

Walled Lake Out to Attract $100 Million Sports Stadium

With a feasibility and design team focusing its attention on the most likely sites for a giant, all-purpose metropolitan stadium complex, Walled Lake is putting its best foot forward.

Walled Lake officials, community citizens and other supporting communities are daily boasting Walled Lake's location in hopes of attracting the proposed $100 million stadium which reportedly would be the world's largest.

Once erected, the stadium would be used by the Detroit Tigers, Lions, Cougars, and other professional sports teams, as well as for concerts, conventions, circuses, and many other functions.

The Metro-Dome reportedly would be on the order of the Houston Astrodome, only larger and more plush.

Indications are that Walled Lake is attracting more and more attention of the feasibility and design team. But to further boost the local community, a Metro-Dome Athletic Club is being formed in Walled Lake to accept tentative membership applications.

A $100-a-plate dinner was slated to take place in Walled Lake yesterday.

City Manager Royce Downey points out that there are more potential spectators within 80 minutes driving time of Walled Lake than Dallas, Boston, Pittsburgh, Buffalo or Atlanta. For every 100 fans within 80 minutes of a site here, the Walled Lake official claims, Denver has only 19, Miami 27 and Green Bay only 15.

"The growth pattern of Walled Lake and its influence area has been continuous since 1825," he declares. "It has now reached a population of 50,000 which comprises approximately 100 square miles served by, and oriented to the Walled Lake mailing address, Walled Lake School System, and the Walled Lake Telephone exchange.

"Walled Lake has emerged as the center of population density exceeding 6,750,000 and will continue to evolve as the center of population growth for the next twenty-five years, due to the availability of unincumbered land. All of our planning studies and population projections reveal that Walled Lake will be the center of population radius containing in excess of eight million persons by 1990."

Bruno Leon, dean of the school of architecture at the University of Detroit, and Thomas W. Gardner, coordinating secretary for the feasibility and design team note the following as site determination criteria: population growth patterns, transportation, land areas, expansion potentials, social factors, utilities, and potentials for multi-purpose utilization.

Upon completion of various community presentations, a site determination is expected, followed by a study of financing, design and other stadium construction requirements.

Gardner points out that the plans call for the stadium complex to be privately financed, possibly through revenue bonds. He points out that all of the country's major cities have or are planning new stadiums and that the greater Michigan megalopolis had a more urgent need than most of the other cities.

Michigan's Metro Dome will dwarf Houston's Astrodome by comparison, according to Leo Kousin, chairman of the Metro-Dome Athletic Club. Present plans call for a total of up to 100,000 for regular football and post season games.

Spokesman for the club and the city say there will be adequate land area available for a future Olympic site and such other national or international events as may be attracted by the Metro-Dome, all-weather stadium.

CRUSHED— A truck carrying a huge grader couldn't quite make it up the Center Street hill at Main Street in Northville Monday noon. It backed into a parked car owned by Dayton Deal, crushing the side of the vehicle.

Penalties, Plus Second Quarter Spell Doom for Novi, 18-13

HARTLAND — Unleashing a three-touchdown attack in the second quarter, the Eagles snapped an 18-13 victory here over the Novi Wildcats in the season opener.

It was no easy victory for the Eagles, however, as Novi's eleven grabbed a 7-0 lead in the first quarter and then bounced back late in the third quarter to slice their opponent's lead to five points in a sustained 75-yard drive.

Playing with its first senior class in history, Novi displayed a superior ground attack against the more experienced Hartland team. But repeated penalties and a surprise Hartland interception upset any plans the Wildcats may have had for a season opening victory.

The Wildcats netted 150 yards on the ground to Hartland's 126. They were nicked for 93 penalty yards, however, which completely erased their rushing advantage. Hartland lost only 10 yards by penalties.

In the air Novi completed three of its 11 passes for 51 yards, while Hartland picked up 69 yards by completing three of seven passes. Both teams lost the ball once through interception, but Novi's loss proved fatal as the Eagles turned their ball-hawking into a winning touchdown.

Novi stunned its over-confident opponents with their first crack at offense. Mixing up a series of passing and ground plays, the Wildcats launched a drive on the 46 and advanced to the Hartland 29 — despite two damaging penalties. On fourth down Gary Boyer uncorked a long looper to his brother, Tom, for a first down at the four. Then, on first play from scrimmage, Jon van Wagner smashed through right end for the first score of the game.

In the opening minutes of the second quarter, the Eagles carried the ball from their own 45 into the end zone in eight plays. Two were by passes as Quarterback Mike Banfield hit first Halfback Doug Dalton, then end Larry Cook, before driving around the right end and into the end zone for the final nine yards.

The extra point attempt failed, however, and Novi clung to a one-point, 7-6 lead.

Just four plays later, Hartland's agile quarterback took to the air again, this time firing to Halfback Mike Callaghan in a play that carried from Hartland's 36 to Novi's 10.

Hartland cracked over right tackle and pushed to the five before a Novi penalty stretched scrimmage to the two-yard line where Dalton took a handoff and smashed through right tackle for the touchdown.

Once again PAT failed and Hartland now led, 12-7.

With 2:23 minutes remaining before the intermission and on the first play from scrimmage following the kickoff Quarterback Gary Boyer fired a wobbly pass to Van Wagner, but Banfield picked it off and galloped until he was hauled down at the one-yard line.

At that point Novi's defense rose up and nearly stopped the threat. But on fourth down at the two, Banfield again sliced through right tackle. And again the kick was no good.

Still within reach of the Eagles, Novi took the kick on the 25 to start the third quarter and ground out 36 yards before Van Wagner fumbled and Hartland's Tackle Rick Poznanski grabbed the loose ball.

Van Wagner came close to wiping out the fumble moments later by intercepting a pass that was partially blocked by one of Novi's defensive backs. But a 15-yard roughing the passer penalty marred his effort and Hartland pushed the ball to the Novi 39 before punting to the Novi 25.

From that point on to the touchdown there was no stopping the fired up Wildcats. Novi pushed upfield, picking up four first downs along the way, and at the 21 Gary Boyer raced into the right flat and fired a delayed pass to Rick Hill who scampered in for the touchdown just inside the fourth quarter.

SPORTS

RACING around left end for 15 yards and a first down, Jon Van Wagner carries the ball for the 22nd time in Friday's contest at Hartland. Van Wagner accounted for more than 100 yards rushing in the rough 'n tumble game.

Coach to Cut Down On Two-Way Play

Disappointed but hopeful, Novi's Coach John Osborne plans some strategy changes in tomorrow's home opener against Livonia Churchill.

"It was pretty obvious to me that our boys can't play both offense and defense and remain strong throughout," observed the coach following last week's loss at Hartland.

It's too much to expect from them, he said pointing out that he will attempt tomorrow afternoon to utilize some kind of platoon system — both on offense and defense.

In addition Osborne plans to make some adjustments in his squad's aerial attack.

Last week Quarterback Gary Boyer missed but two plays in the entire game, and Jon Van Wagner carried the ball 22 times. The two exhausted backs, big cogs in Novi's offense and defense, simply lacked the steam they exhibited at the outset of the contest, said Osborne.

But in his attempt to provide some rest for these two and other over-worked players, Osborne has his hands filled. Both Boyer and Van Wagner are essential parts of the offense. Cutting down their playing time may hurt. That plus the fact that Novi doesn't have many players to begin with will make free substitution difficult.

Also sure to hurt may be the loss of sophomore Tom Boyer, a stellar pass receiver who injured his wrist early in last week's game. Broken or sprained, the wrist injury will mean one less "excellent" player.

How Novi will fare against Livonia, a new high school team, remains to be seen. Livonia will be playing its first game tomorrow and Coach Ken Kaestner, who lives at 941 Novi Street in Northville, will field a young, untried squad.

Conceding that Novi has plenty of football know-how to offer, Kaestner nevertheless notes that his boys "will be up" for Friday's contest — first of only two varsity encounters for them all season.

Kaestner, who moved from Brighton High School to Churchill, cautions Novi: "It won't be a breather."

Churchill players to watch in the Wildcats' home opener, says Kaestner, are Tackle Mickey Gooding, Guard Mike Wehby, and three backs, Jerry Oljace at quarterback, John Cerritani at fullback and Tailback Evan Smith. Gary Warner, his coach says, is another fine lineman.

Wixom All Set For Decathlon

To participate, children must be there by their group's starting time.

Northville Off to Winning Start With 20-13 Victory at Plymouth

PLYMOUTH — With time running out and the score knotted, Northville uncorked a fourth-down touchdown dive from the one to snatch a 20-13 victory from arch-rival Plymouth here in the season opener Friday night before a capacity crowd.

The slim seven-point margin was hardly indicative, however, of the bruising battle by the Mustangs who were bent on avenging two straight defeats at the hands of the Class "A"

Rocks.

But for two exceptionally fine Plymouth backs — hard-to-stop Bob Thornbladh and fleet-footed Bill Tobey — the final score might have been a lopsided extension of the Mustangs' 13-0 halftime lead because the Rocks simply were no match for the fired up, determined Northville eleven.

Nevertheless, Plymouth pushed Northville to the wire in the annual non-league classic.

Midway through the fourth quarter, the Rocks tied the score at 13-13. And then, after taking a Northville punt, the Rocks appeared on their way to salvaging a tie. But the booming punt forced them deep inside their own territory and Plymouth took to the air only to have Bernard Bach pick off another of Bruce Bauman's errant passes.

Bach galloped to the eight-yard line before Plymouth pulled him down. Four plays later Pat Cayley dove into the end zone from the one and then added the conversion to make it 20-13 with time all but gone.

Still another interception by Northville at the wire ended what might have been Plymouth's last threat. The first half was almost all Northville.

Vasil Tupurkovski's (exchange student from Yugoslavia) kickoff was taken by Terry Mills to the Northville 28, but a clip put it on the 13 to open the game. Unable to move the ball, the Mustangs began an interchange of punts that finally put the ball on the Rocks' 36, first and ten Northville, with less than three minutes left in the first quarter.

The next play was one of the most exciting of the game. Quarterback Stan Nirider sent two men down the middle, with the short man picking up most of the Plymouth defensive coverage. With Terry Mills wide open, Nirider dropped a picture pass into his hands and Mills scampered into the end zone untouched. Cayley's conversion attempt sailed wide to the right.

With the score 6-0, Northville found itself hard pressed at the quarter's end. Plymouth had a first and ten on the Mustangs' 34.

Two plays into the second quarter, however, Barry Deal fell on a fumble by Quarterback Bauman caused by the hard-charging Northville defensive line.

The Mustangs moved the ball rapidly goalward following this break until Jeri Latham stopped the drive on his own two by intercepting a Nirider pass. Key plays in this long drive were an 11 yard run on a draw play by Deal, set up by a fine fake by Nirider and an exciting 10-yard pass play on fourth down from Nirider to Deal.

The Rocks then moved to their 40 on Northville penalties only to lose the first of six passes picked off by Northville. Nirider accounted for three of these six.

Nirider's arm then took Northville to the one where Deal plunged over to make it 12-0 Mustangs. The conversion was an alert play by Cayley who caught a bad pass from center and ran around the right side to score. The two key passes in this drive were caught by Mills for 12 yards and Fred Holdsworth for 24 and a first down on the Rocks' four.

The second half opened with the Rocks making a game effort to erase the deficit. Tobey took Marc Sheffer's kickoff 22 yards to Plymouth's 32. Running outside, the Rocks moved quickly to the Mustangs' 17. Big gainers were reeled off by Tobey, Thornbladh, and Walter Lee. But Nirider's deft hands stopped the drive on the six with his second interception.

Any thought of another Mustang touchdown drive was quickly thwarted as Latham picked off his second Nirider aerial moments later and gave the Rocks a first down on the Northville 32.

Having found on the previous series of downs that they could move to the outside, the Rocks scampered to the two, where Tobey pushed over for the first Plymouth touchdown. The PAT attempt was blocked, chiefly by Nirider and Deal.

Northville came back swiftly. Cayley carried Tupurkovski's kickoff 27 yards to the Mustangs' 47. Keyed by a hard drive by Cayley, Northville moved to the Plymouth 31 only to have Craig MacDermid fumble after a good gainer and Thornbladh, as rugged on defense as on offense, recovered it.

In the fourth quarter, after an exchange of the football (a punt by Bauman and a fumble by Deal), the Plymouth touchdown express rolled at its formidable best with Thornbladh making the run of the night as he carried a couple of Mustang defenders with him 22 yards to the Northville four. Four plays later Bauman swept around the right side to score. Thornbladh followed Bauman's route to knot the score at 13-13.

but Northville sports a bigger team.

Klukach expects a good ball game, but he cautions his players to watch out for Mott's split end who "makes an average quarterback look like a good passer."

Mustangs are apt to see all year.

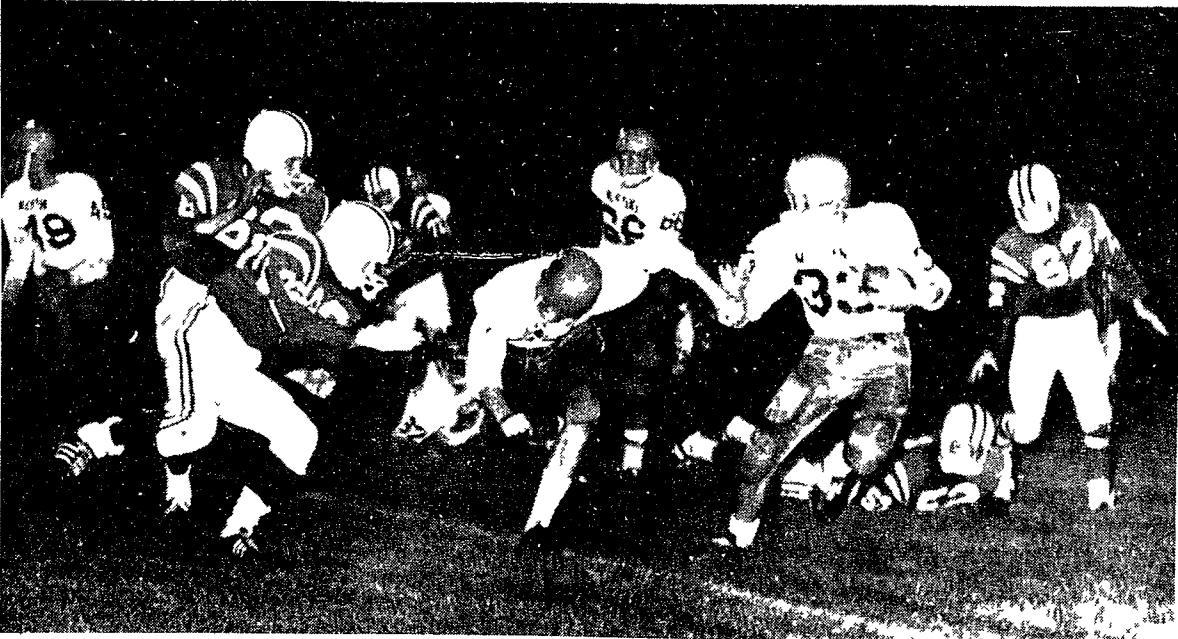

Waterford Mott is a new school and Klukach has had to size them up only through their opening loss to Clio, 34-7, last week. Mott has about the same size line, led by a fine split end,

Mustangs Healthy, Ready for Mott

Coach Alex Klukach was pleased to list a clean bill of health for his charges following his Mustangs' "very satisfying" victory over arch-rival Plymouth Friday night.

"We're going into this week's game with Waterford Mott carrying just minor aches and bruises," the coach told the Record.

Klukach also sorted out a handful of players for special praise. Barry Deal played an outstanding game, he said, leading the ground gainers with 81 yards and playing equally well on defense. Other boys who did very well in both aspects of the game were Pat Cayley, Fred Ilicks and Stan Nirider, he said.

All-in-all it was a great team effort as shown by the alert pass interceptions and pursuit on defense, according to Klukach, who agreed that it took good defense to slow down the Rocks' Bob Thornbladh — as good a boy as any the Northville area tennis players have met with some success over the summer in tournament play.

In the Pontiac Open Tournament played at Oakland University, Bob Neff and Ian Wilson were beaten in the men's finals in doubles. Neff defeated Wilson for the over 35 singles championship. Also playing at Pontiac were former Northville High and Clemson University players Tom Long and Dick Ornekian.

In the Ypsilanti Tournament at Eastern Michigan University, the R. Neff-I. Wilson team won the doubles. Others in the Northville delegation were defeated in the semi-finals in doubles. The other teams included Bob Marzec—Dan Boland and Cliff Bunker Bob Kesler.

PASTOR SAYS GOODBYE — Reverend Robert Spradling, pictured here before his church, the First Baptist of Northville, bids a fond farewell Sunday when he departs for Bible Center Church in Charleston, West Virginia. Reverend and Mrs. Spradling, who have two daughters, Cynthia and Cheryl, both hail from West Virginia. A minister here since 1962, Reverend Spradling will preach his last sermon in Northville Sunday. Although he is anxiously awaiting expanded ministry in Charleston, he and his family leave with regret, pointing out that the people they have met here "are the finest I've ever known." No replacement has yet been named for his Northville post.

Football Quiz Offers Cash

Drag out those crystal balls.

It doesn't cost a cent to play. There's just a few simple rules to follow.

Grab a piece of paper, jot down the names of the sponsoring local merchants opposite the teams you think will win, predict the final score of the Detroit Lion ball game — and you could be a winner.

Make sure your entry is postmarked before 5 p.m. Friday preceding the ball games, or submit them in person at our office. Only one entry per person please.

The contest will run for 10 consecutive weeks in this newspaper, and the winner of each weekly contest will receive $10. Second place winner will receive $5, and the third place winner, $3.

In the event of a tie for first place, the winners will split first and second place money. If there's a tie for second the winners will divide second and third place money. A third place deadlock will mean $1.50 apiece for the winners.

Results will be published the following week in this newspaper, as well as being posted on our office door on Monday following the games.

Loon Lake School To Open Soon

Walled Lake School district officials still hope to open the new elementary school in Wixom before October, Superintendent George Garver told The Novi News Tuesday.

Originally slated for opening two weeks ago, Loon Lake Elementary School's completion was delayed because of unfortunate building trades strikes, Garver said.

Meanwhile, youngsters who will be attending Loon Lake are being bused to other elementary schools within the district. They are temporarily attending shortened classes.

Hours are 4 p.m. until midnight Monday through Thursday, 4 p.m. until 2 a.m. Friday and Saturday, and noon until midnight Sunday.

commission — in the November 5 general election.

Partisan nomination of two charter commission candidates from each of 35 districts will be on the ballot in tandem with a question asking the voters if they wish to establish a commission to draw up a county home rule charter.

If a majority votes against establishing a charter commission, the nomination of commission candidates will be void. But if the vote is in favor of a charter commission, a run-off election to select the commissioners is likely to be held early next year.

The county home rule question was put on the ballot by the County Board of Supervisors to evaluate the Michigan County Home Rule Act of 1966 to determine whether home rule could improve Wayne County government.

The Committee of 99 concluded that significant improvements are possible under the state home rule act, and recommended that the Board of Supervisors put the home rule question before the voters "as soon as practicable."

Home rule would give the voters of Wayne County greater latitude than they have now to determine the structure and functions of their county government, within the limits of the state home rule act. At present, virtually all aspects of county government are determined by the State Legislature.

Adoption of county home rule would have no effect on local governments within the county.

Under the home rule act, the charter could establish a legislative body (county commission) of 5 to 35 members elected from equal population districts on partisan basis. The home rule act also provides for an elected county executive, a "county mayor," a post that does not exist at present.

Home rule, according to the Committee of 99, would also give the county greater latitude in service arrangements with local communities and in revamping what was described as a "maze" of county boards and commissions.

The 35 districts for the charter commission were drawn by the same special five-member Apportionment Commission which drew the districts for the 26-district Board of Supervisors, which will be elected November 5 and take office January 1.

The Apportionment Commission consisted of three elected county officials — the Clerk, Prosecuting Attorney and Treasurer — and the county chairmen of the Democratic and Republican parties.

The commission adopted the 35-district plan for the charter commission at the suggestion of the present Board of Supervisors. Members of the county board from outside Detroit came up with the plan after expressing disappointment with the commission's 26-district plan for the new Board of Supervisors.

Rev. Fred Trachsel
Orchard Hills Baptist Church

Can you imagine 25 million people involved in a cooperative effort to witness for Christ? This is precisely what the Crusade of the Americas is all about. Yes, 25 million Baptists are on the move in the most ambitious evangelistic crusade in their history. Participating in the Crusade are 38 or more Baptist bodies in 28 or more countries in North, Central, and South America, including some in the Caribbean Islands. Additional groups are joining the Crusade as it gains momentum.

The Crusade is a coordinated effort with a major thrust in personal witnessing and mass evangelism climaxing in 1969, followed by a year of follow-through in 1970.

This Western Hemisphere Crusade was born out of a two-year evangelism campaign of Brazilian Baptists which concluded in 1965. During this campaign there were over 100,000 who found Christ as Saviour. Brazilian pastor, Rubens Lopes, Director of the crusade, challenged Baptists to consider a hemisphere-wide crusade. His proposal was heartily accepted, and the proper organization was set in motion immediately. Preliminary strategy indicates this to be the most massive and comprehensive evangelistic thrust ever attempted by Christians of any age.

From the southern tip of South America to Kiana, Alaska, far above the Arctic Circle, Baptists will be uniting under the Crusade theme, "Christ the Only Hope." It lifts up an alternative to the unsaved person and asks, which will you choose, life or death? If the Crusade theme is a statement of historical fact that Christ is the only hope for every individual in this fantastic age; and if that theme voices the only effective alternative for the ills of the Americas; and if the Gospel of Christ is indeed relevant and relevant to men in a hemisphere in revolution; then the Crusade of the Americas is of surpassing importance!

Five hundred new churches are being planned to be organized in North America as a result of such a Crusade. Nation-wide television will be used to support this evangelistic thrust in 1969. Prayer partners between individuals, groups, and churches among the Western Hemisphere is being set in motion now. This is the greatest emphasis on prayer that has ever preceded an evangelistic thrust. Simultaneous Revivals will blanket North America in the spring of 1969 in deference to the Crusade of the Americas does.

This does seem to be a tremendous mobilization to help reach the mushrooming population for Christ. Even before the consummation of this great Crusade is in sight there are some concerned Christians who are already considering the possibility of a World Crusade in the 70's!

Wixom Plans Autumn Revival

Wixom First Baptist Church will hold a week of Autumn Revival Services, September 22-29, with the Reverend J. Ronald MacDonald of Spring Lake as the speaker.

At nightly services at 7:30 p.m. Reverend MacDonald will be presenting "Sermons in Song." He also will be showing color slides of his recent trip this year to the Holy Land. Special music will be featured each evening and a nursery will be provided. Sunday services will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The revival series is part of the celebration of the 130th year of the church's existence. It begins on the day of the dedication of the new $150,000 educational unit.

Reverend MacDonald, pastored churches in Chicago, St. Paul, Flint and now Spring Lake during the past 22 years. He and his wife recently were appointed missionaries to Naples, Italy, under the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission Society. He will be seeking to organize and pastor a church for the English-speaking NATO Navy personnel and their families numbering about 10,000 who are stationed in Naples.

Reverend MacDonald is a graduate of Bob Jones University in Greenville, South Carolina, and also attended Northern Baptist Theological Seminary in Chicago as well as Bethel Baptist Seminary in St. Paul, and the Central Baptist Seminary in Minneapolis.

THE LAND AND THE PEOPLE

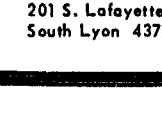

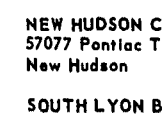

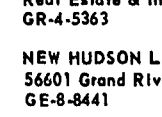

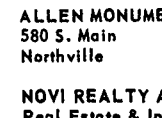

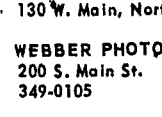

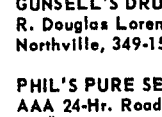

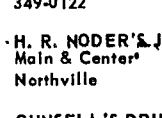

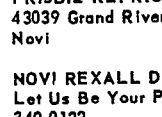

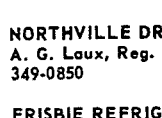

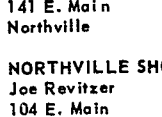

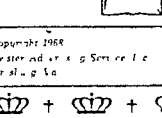

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

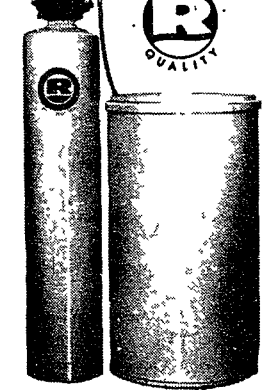

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
The Church is the greatest blessing on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

TROGLODYTES

Young Columnist Off To College

By DARYL HOLLOMAN

Yes, my friends... this is the closing chapter.

By the time this issue reaches print, let alone subscribers and consumers, I'll be firmly entrenched in classes at Central Michigan University in quest of a journalism degree.

However, I did take the time before I left to impart this closing message to you, my readership... left it behind for you to digest and contemplate.

The Cavern has come a long way since it was conceived and born from the efforts of a handful of Northville teens, aided by a Mothers' Club which believed such a club would be an asset to Northville and its youth.

There's been quite a lot of opposition to The Cavern... and I haven't been a bit surprised.

After all, The Cavern does expose its Northville patrons to the outside world... exposes them to the outside world each time a non-member enters the premises.

It doesn't phase me one bit that some of the opposing forces to The Cavern don't allow their offspring to attend Cavern functions... they feel their children must be shielded in the protective custody of the parent... a protective custody which places the child in an enclosed environment apart from the outside world in which teens and adults thrive.

Ah, but tis a pity! These parents forget ... or ignore... the fact that soon their sons and daughters will be leaving them... striking out on their own to shape their own future.

These are the parents who hinder their own offspring's development!

They must realize that their children will step past the threshold to the outside world with countless others from across the nation and the world... and too, they must realize that functions such as The Cavern serve as stepping stones to this threshold in that their teens can mingle with teens of other communities holding similar interests.

This is why I'm convinced that The Cavern should be supported by the community, and not cast aside as so much "waste"... or does it ignore the fact that the Cavern is a charity organization which aids such worthwhile organizations as ALSAC and The March of Dimes?

The Cavern is also greatly appreciative as to the aid given by the following adults and adult organizations:

Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Forrer — Dr. Forrer for his help with the clubroom construction, and Mrs. Forrer for her role as advisor.

The Mothers' Club — for the pool table and the time and effort donated to The Cavern by many of the mothers.

Northville Public Schools' Business Manager Mr. Earl Busard and Superintendent of Schools Mr. Raymond Spear — for "bending over backwards" to help The Cavern.

Mr. John Northup — receives a special thanks for advising, supervising, and participating in the construction during the redecoration of The Cavern Club Room.

Mr. Robert Miller — for overhauling the plumbing in the girls' lavatory free of charge.

Mrs. William Secord — for donating her time as The Cavern's financial consultant.

Mr. Frank Angle — for his help during the negotiating sessions with the union.

Mr. Bernie Bach — for wallpapering the ceiling in the girls' lavatory.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Cuppet — for donating the furniture in the recently redecorated Directors' Room.

Mrs. William Davis — for aiding in the redecoration of the girls' lavatory.

Police Chief Samuel Elkins and the Northville Police Department — for supporting The Cavern.

Mrs. H. O. Evans — for her help in cleaning the refreshment stand and aiding in floor mopping prior to dances.

Mrs. Fred Hartt — who helped with the window staining.

Mr. and Mrs. Kalin Johnson — Mr. Johnson for constructing the coat racks, and Mrs. Johnson for her help in painting the club room and affixing leather to Cavern table tops.

The Womens' Club — for donating a piano to The Cavern.

Mrs. Harold Wright — for her help in purchasing goods for The Cavern, and also for affixing leather to club room tables.

I extend a personal note of appreciation to Mr. William Sliger, Mr. Jack Hoffman, and The Northville Record for newspaper publicity regarding The Cavern — not to mention their permitting me to further my journalistic experience by writing Trogodytes during the summer.

The Cavern also thanks the adults who donated their time to chaperoning at Cavern functions... to these people and any I may have overlooked, The Cavern again thanks you!

And now, providing my column isn't cut due to space limitations, here's a brief rundown on the groups as tentatively scheduled for the upcoming September 28 Cavern Bash:

1. The Stuart Avery Assemblage, a six man group, heads the bill with its sixth appearance at The Cavern by popular demand.

2. Thunder, a four man group which formerly went by the name of The Children, makes its third appearance at The Cavern by popular demand.

3. The Wilson Mower Pursuit, a five man band, is starting to make it big in the area, and intend to show Cavern patrons why during their second appearance at The Cavern.

4. A light show by the ever-popular Nova Express, making its third Cavern appearance, rounds out The Change of Pace Bash at The Cavern, September 28.

THE END... for now.

PVT. HOWARD L. HEACH

PVT. GARY L. MOORMAN

San Diego — Marine Privates Howard L. Heach Jr., 19, son of Mr. Howard L. Heach Sr. of 1424 Wren Lane, and Gary L. Moorman, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moorman of 2970 Potter Road were graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

They will now undergo from two to four weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to their first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-caliber pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects, hygiene, first aid and sanitation, and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marines' recruit education and prepare them to join the Marine combat forces.

News was received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Baughman of Nine Mile Road, of the return from Vietnam of CW-2 Lynn D. Baughman.

Warrant Officer Baughman returned on August 29 from duty as helicopter pilot with the 1st Infantry Division after a year of service there.

The pilot received the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry and The Air Medal, V Device.

He has been reassigned to Fort Rucker, Alabama.

Ft. Knox, Kentucky — Army Private Robert J. Regenhardt Jr. and Lloyd A. Cusson is assigned to Company B, 12th Battalion, 3rd Brigade, here in the United States Army Training Center, Armor (USATCA).

They will spend the next two months learning the fundamental skills of the soldier in today's modern, action Army — firing live ammunition under simulated combat situations, learning protective measures and first-aid for chemical, biological and radiological attacks, as well as being schooled in the use of modern arms.

Interspaced with constant emphasis of proper physical conditioning, diet, rest and health habits, will be ample opportunity to utilize USATCS's many and varied recreational and religious facilities.

Following the completion of basic training, Private Regenhardt, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Regenhardt Sr. of 44428 Cottisford, and Private Cusson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cusson of 48905 West Nine Mile Road, will receive at least an additional eight weeks of either advanced instruction or on-the-job training to qualify them in a specialized military skill.

FBI Arrests Gas Station Operator Here

If you're going to handle stolen guns, make sure they aren't stolen in another state. Service station owner Jerry Cole is under investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) allegedly for having sold firearms stolen in an interstate shipment.

Cole also is at odds with the Novi police, Chief Lee BeGole and Detective Sergeant Dick Faulkner revealed this week.

His service station, located at I-96 and Novi Road, has been doing a great deal of business with credit card holders who haven't stopped there in months, they point out. He apparently has been dealing in stolen credit cards for some time, they add.

Novi police also have him under investigation for theft of license plates not registered to his name as well as possession of unregistered firearms.

Separating Jeffrey dogs is, at best, not a safe practice, Jeffrey Larzelere, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Larzelere of 148 Henning, learned this week. Several bites were the result of his painful lesson.

Jeffrey was treated at Walled Lake Medical Center, Police said for bites inflicted by one or both of two dogs, a German Shepherd and a mixed breed.

The breaking and entering of a school bus at Novi Elementary School is under investigation this week. A fire extinguisher (recovered), flashlights, and miscellaneous objects, were stolen from the bus on September 12, Novi police said.

Novi Justice Court

A felony and a high misdemeanor highlighted Justice of Peace Emery Jacques' justice court activities in a day-long session, Thursday, September 12.

James Schwerin of 26458 Novi road is being held on a $10,000 bond in Oakland County Jail awaiting arraignment on September 24 before Oakland Circuit Court Judge Phillip Pratt. He is charged with theft from the Marathon gas station at 26909 Novi Road and I-96.

Arrest for a second time by Novi police for driving while license was revoked, suspended or denied and a string of 15 arrests elsewhere, brought James D. Yorch of Detroit before Justice Jacques. He waived examination and was bound over to Circuit Court of Oakland County to stand trial before Judge Robert L. Templin on September 27 for this high misdemeanor.

A string of arrests also highlighted one of numerous cases of less serious nature handled by Justice Jacques.

The arrest string has cost Donald H. McIntyre of Farmington a total of $95, and includes minor in possession, unsafe start, excessive noise, passing on right and noisy exhaust. These five arrests occurred on five separate dates since August 3, 1967.

Anthony P. Olvich of 26975 Novi Road pleaded guilty to a charge of passing no account checks and paid $10 fine and $5 costs in lieu of 10 days in jail.

Driving with one headlight was costly to Loren D. Hoffman of 48361 Pontiac Trail, Wixom. When he was stopped on South Lake Street at Buffington, the officer also learned he was driving with a revoked license. His guilty plea brought $100 fine and five days, or 30 days. He paid the fine and has served the five days.

Speeding 75 MPH in a 55 MPH zone cost $10 and $10 costs for Jerry A. Burke of Livonia following his guilty plea to this charge.

George E. Clarkson of Farmington pleaded guilty of driving with no tail lights on his trailer when he was stopped at Novi Road and Grand River. It cost him $15.

Speeding 75 MPH in a 55 MPH zone was expensive for Gerald W. Oneski of Detroit who was caught at Novi Road and 10 Mile. The guilty plea cost $40.

A $30 fine was levied against Nelson M. Mercado of Wayne who was caught driving 70 in a 50 MPH zone on Novi Road south of 10 Mile. He also pleaded guilty.

Kenneth V. Falconberry of 42486 13 Mile forfeited his bond for no operator's license on person and paid $50.

Also fined for bond forfeiture was Everitt J. Fox of Jackson, Kentucky, who had been held for assault and battery.

It was $75 or 5 days, suspended because he was in service and had to return to his post, for Robert L. Grewing of Detroit. He had entered a plea of guilty to driving on a revoked license.

Henry Sispera of Warren was caught driving while his vision was

News Around Schoolcraft

Counseling test dates for students seeking admission to Schoolcraft College have been announced by Director of Admissions Barbara Geil.

Four test dates have been scheduled for students seeking admission as early as the winter semester starting January 6, and four other dates have been scheduled for those seeking admission as early as the 1969 spring session starting May 5.

No one is accepted to the college as a matriculated student until he has taken the college's counseling tests, Miss Geil said.

Test dates in advance of the winter semester are: Saturday, October 12, at 8 a.m.; Saturday, November 23, at 8 a.m.; Tuesday, November 5 at 7 p.m.; and Wednesday, December 11, at 7 p.m.

Test dates in advance of the spring session are: Saturday, February 22, at 8 a.m.; Saturday, March 29, at 8 a.m.; Wednesday, March 12, at 7 p.m.; and Tuesday, April 8, at 7 p.m.

Applicants are asked to reserve a date of their choice, and are advised to take the test at the earliest possible date, according to Miss Geil. The tests are given in the Lois L. Waterman Campus Center on campus.

John R. Webber, director of counseling at Schoolcraft college, has been elected president of the Michigan Personnel and Guidance Association for the 1968-69 academic year.

MPGA, with a membership of 1,400 guidance and personnel workers in the state, is a branch of the American Personnel and Guidance Assn., which has a national membership of more than 27,000.

A graduate of Wayne State University, Webber earned his masters degree at the University of Michigan and with his wife and two children lives in Farmington Township. He has been on the staff of the Office of Student Affairs at Schoolcraft for four years and has 12 years of background and experience in guidance and personnel work.

There are no ivory towers where theory stands aloof from practical application for the 400-plus skilled trades apprentices enrolled in the related instruction program at Schoolcraft College.

When these young men enter a college classroom at the end of a day's work in an area plant, the practical know-how of the shop floor is waiting for them.

That all-important know-how is represented by a faculty whose combined industrial experience total 206 years.

Nearly three-fourths of the instructors in the Schoolcraft program have put in — just like the boys they come to teach — a regular day's work in some industrial activity before reporting to class.

That's Happy Acres

Happiness is an Old Home

by Mary Ellen Kelly

When 30 or 40 people all come home for Christmas dinner every year by choice one can easily surmise that home is a happy place.

The home in question is just that, aptly named Happy Acres, and it is and has been the homestead of the William B. Walkers for 34 years. Located off of Eight Mile Road, just outside of Northville, Happy Acres is a part of the Presbyterian Women's Association Homes Tour of 1968 and will be open to the public on October 5th.

After you've strolled through Happy Acres you'll probably want to have Christmas dinner there, too. For the rambling white homestead is a container of history, tradition and innovation.

Mrs. Walker has mixed her furniture periods, colors and overall decor with a flavor that is cozy yet grand, awesome yet natural. Nature is the key to the flavor, for the house sits somewhere within the confines of 105 acres and the view from any and every window, any season of the year, seems to take your breath first then overflows into the house itself becoming a part of the atmosphere and charm.

The living room offers separate groupings, each with a Victorian sofa as its major accommodation. One of these is reputed to have arrived on the Mayflower and retains its original damask. Here and there within the room you'll see a lovely Victorian marble-topped oval table, Mr. Walker's pride: a mahogany grand Maison Hamlin reproducer, and Mrs. Walker's stately grandfather clock in the corner.

In the den or sitting room — Mrs. Walker calls it "My husband's room, he loves it" — one finds all the ingredients of comfort. Again with a combination of dropleaf table, early original fireplace, needlepoint footstool ... all in juxtaposition with the latest look in television.

This sitting room has been extended, as have many others in the house. What once were screened porches have now become part of windowed rooms. Where more space was needed and no porch available the walls have moved accommodatingly.

The dining room is proof in point. Here a cheerful colonial block print carpet is plush foundation for that magic Christmas dinner and many others. Two large fruitwood tables flanked by matching servers, hutches and buffets lend themselves to the cheer. Over and above all two great crystal chandeliers with shining prisms add their glow to the festivities.

Mr. Walker's love of autumn reds abound in his upstairs bedroom and den... a sanctuary where you'll find the contour of the house much in evidence. Matching patterns of autumn tones cover the walls and beds and are repeated in blues and greens in Mrs. Walker's bedroom and elegantly long and spacious sitting room. These quarters, along with the upstairs guest room and nursery are punctuated with the past in dressers, desks, even an old Victorian shaving stand, yet tempered with the functionality of the present.

Mrs. Walker, known especially for her interest in gardening, has filled the one window wall of the relatively new family room with all manner of greens. Taking their sun from the south... the plants are part of a bright, gay feeling of new-old Americana. Richly paneled walls and a well-equipped refreshment corner stand ready to play host to games and recreation for all ages.

There is so much to see: spool beds of old, an antique globe of the world, the completely modern kitchen with the comfort and feeling of another time. So much to learn: the history of the house dates back to around 1835 and includes owners with Northville names such as Yerkes, Cochran and Beard. It has changed owners many times, but since 1934 it's been the very lively William Walker household... where out of every window, as far as the eye can see, stretch the beautiful gardens and rolling lawn of Happy Acres, home away from home for an obviously very happy family.

MANY WAYS TO OPEN SAVINGS ACCOUNTS

There are many ways to open an insured savings account at First Federal Savings & Loan.

Owners of insured savings accounts at First Federal are not only individuals, but also corporations, clubs, attorneys representing clients, to name a few. Municipal funds can also be invested at First Federal.

Different ways to own a savings account are:

Minor Account — Children who are old enough to sign (not print) their names for identification purposes can be account holders.

Individual Ownership — This account is in the name of the individual alone and is solely his during his lifetime.

Joint Tenancy — Ownership with right of Survivorship — Two or more persons may hold this account. The most common arrangement is husband and wife or husband and wife and children. Each party has full power to withdraw.

Tenancy in Common Ownership — Ownership is in the names of all parties on the account in equal proportion unless stated. All signatures are required for withdrawal.

Individual Trust Ownership — Insured accounts have a relationship between grantor (settlor) and beneficiary of spouse, child or grandchild.

Sole Proprietor Ownership — A person may hold ownership to an account in the name of a business. The account then becomes part of the assets of the business.

Partnership Ownership — A partnership may hold an account in the name of the partnership. Withdrawal authority is designated in the declaration of partnership.

Corporation Ownership — A corporation may be authorized to hold ownership in the name of the corporation. A resolution is signed designating those persons authorized to withdraw funds. Pension funds, building funds, reserve funds, investment funds, are typical types of accounts that corporations might invest.

Fiduciary Ownership — As a court appointed guardian, executor, etc., a person or attorney may hold funds for another person or persons.

Organization Ownership — Societies, clubs, lodges, labor unions, churches, church groups, charitable organizations may hold account ownership. By resolution, the organization designates those authorized to withdraw funds.

Government or Government Agency Ownership Accounts may be held by any public unit — the federal or state government, any county, city, village, township, school district, special road district, fire protection district, housing authority or any other subdivision of the federal or state government where the laws permit.

Virtually everyone in the community can own an insured savings account at First Federal.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

It was not surprising to members of the city-township unification study that the majority of the citizens attending the township-sponsored information hearing were opposed to the idea.

Yet, in general, the committee was pleased at the outcome of the meeting.

Purpose of the study in the first place was to determine the feasibility, not desirability, of unification. The public meetings following the year-long study were designed to inform the public of the committee's findings and answer questions.

There were many questions from township residents and most related directly to the cost.

A popular attitude was that the estimated seven mill levy places the burden on the township because it represents a six mill hike in the township and a six-mill reduction in the city.

Closer inspection, however, should clear up this point.

Under consideration in Northville is not the formation of a new city, but the expansion of an old. Many facilities that would normally be required already exist and therefore do not need duplication. These include a city hall, jail, fire department, police department, administrative staff and offices, etc.

A city the size of Northville cannot operate at peak efficiency because it needs physical facilities that could serve far more people with little more, if any, capital outlay.

And when the addition of such an area, like Northville township, is considered, savings are immediately evident. Add to the efficiency quotient the doubling in tax base and you have a millage roughly equal to half the levy now existing in the city producing tax revenues equal to, or exceeding, those now collected.

There should be no surprise at the city levy going down and the township's up under unification... the surprise is that the levy is as low as seven.

Next most important consideration, so far as township residents were concerned, was the need for additional services. Time will best answer this question. As urbanization continues, township taxpayers must decide what services are desired and what they are worth.

The study revealed that police protection alone equal to the city's present department would cost township taxpayers 7.85 mills, if undertaken separately rather than through unification.

It was suggested that more cost comparisons should be developed for other services that might be desired.

At any rate, it appears that the unification study committee will not die... at least not immediately. The suggestion has been made that the steering committee review all questions posed at the public hearing and further outline various methods of accomplishing unification.

Eventually, the question of the future status of the community rests with the voters... in both the city and township.

It's interesting to note that "unification", the union of an existing city and its neighboring township, has never been accomplished in the history of Michigan.

There have been "annexations" and there have been total incorporations (such as Livonia). But "unity" in the strictest form as provided by state law has never passed the study stage (at least in research reported by the local consultant).

The steering committee's continued study will reveal why annexation, rather than unification, has been the rule. It will also point to certain advantages under the provisions of unification.

When all these are known, an informed citizenry may ask for a vote on the question.

Ex-Resident Still Proud, but Saddened

To the Editor:

You have never heard from me before. Perhaps you never will again. My objective for writing is not entirely clear even to myself. However, being a former Northville resident during the all important formative years of school, I have a compelling desire to communicate with the voting citizens of Northville in regard to the recent millage defeat, as the voice and power of voting is not available to me. I will endeavor to let you know what the recent millage proposal defeat means to at least one former Northville student.

Former teachers of mine at Northville would probably regard me as an average student, an average high school athlete, but one who never showed much interest or desire in other areas. However, being able to say that I'm from Northville, went to school at Northville, represented Northville on the athletic field and other ways, has always filled me with pride. More than likely, this feeling is still strong within my former classmates, as it is with me. There may be doubts being raised on this feeling of loyalty and pride, due to what many consider to be a deterioration of our youth (long hair, hippies, etc.) in Northville and throughout the country. There are many who complain about the condition of national, state and local affairs, in regards to politics, civic and social conditions; but there are few who are concerned enough to take action.

What does all of this have to do with Northville? Well, for those who are unaware, Northville has become the epitome and classic example of this attitude of indifference.

Like most of you though, I don't have a simple answer or easy way out, but I would like to offer a suggestion for what it's worth. Instead of just complaining, coordinate and communicate your thoughts and ideas. If you're concerned about school expenditures, or excessive taxes, investigate and work with your fellow citizens to come up with an answer. Equally important, and so much easier, make your opinions heard by voting.

I question how many citizens failed to vote because their indifference would not let them take a few minutes to drive into town to vote, not only those without school age children, but those that should be most concerned — those with children. My suggestions are by no means unique or novel. They've been repeated many times. It's being done by some citizens now. Once again, however, they are only a small minority and can not be expected to perform miracles for the majority.

The sad result of what is happening to the Northville Public School system is not going to affect me directly (at this time) or my parents, or their friends. At least not tomorrow, or next week, but maybe sometime this school year, or in years to come. The undeniable benefits derived from sports, clubs, activities, etc. were not forbidden to me or my classmates, my brother and his classmates or my parents and their classmates. By taking a serious inspection of conditions as they exist today, wouldn't you agree that one of the primary reasons is because of the indifferent and selfish attitude of the citizens, regardless of age, number of children and income?

As I said previously, I don't have the answers. It's only because of my pride in Northville and what the city has meant to me and my family that I endeavored to communicate my feelings. In my opinion Northville's school system did an excellent job in preparing me for college, not only academically, but also the intangible benefits derived from sports and other activities. Can anyone honestly say that to not make available these important educational activities in question, that have been available to all Northville students in the past, would be a most selfish and unjustifiable act on the part of the citizens of Northville?

My opinions have been formed by talking with friends, relatives and by reading the Record. Perhaps someday I can do more than just sound off by writing a letter. This attempt to show my reaction to the millage defeat may, in the jargon of the athlete make me sound like a "hot dog". However, I want to make it very clear, I wrote this letter out of respect for a wonderful city. One that has many fine people fully capable of resolving the unfortunate school problems as they exist today.

Election Spells Loss

To the Editor:

There were no winners in last Saturday's millage election, only losers. The loss to boys and girls, about which the majority knew little and cared less, may in the final analysis become secondary. The scars and trauma to the educational system in Northville will be around for a long while. The damage done is irretrievable.

The real loser is Northville, the community. The gleeful short sighted reactionaries may find their joyful chorus of "No's" turning to something less. Particularly those "fat cats" who stand to profit from local business and local land values. Incidentally it was the "fat cats", not the older people in the true stress from higher taxes and fixed incomes, who failed this town. Those who wear the tight shoe know who they are and they must wear it.

The only thing of substance this town really had going for it was its school system, with a deserved good reputation, and a few hills to break the monotony. Oh yes! the people were said to be "good conservative Christian folk" and solid supporters of the good school system. Most of that is changed. About the only thing left is the hills.

For some eight hours last Saturday I watched faces coming and leaving the polls. There was little enthusiasm and much grimness. Hostile and vindictive masks were much in evidence. The adult world was doing its hatchet job. Alienated youth was becoming more alienated.

While this was going on the victims, the kids, were out working and pleading for their cause. Only they didn't have a voice. One day soon, this too will change and youth will be served.

Talk about the moral crises, the generation gap, the missing values so dear to older generations, the militancy of youth, "We ain't seen nothin' yet" Last Saturday 1320 voters added a little more grease to the skids.

Sincerely
James F. Kipfer

Here's Bouquet for Youths

To the Editor:

Thoreau, was quoted as saying, "each man can interpret another's experience only by his own."

This was the feeling of many as the election results were released late on the evening of Saturday, September 14. Many man hours had been expended by a host of interested Northville citizens.

We wish to publicly acknowledge

Asks Donation

To the Editor:

With regards to the recent millage defeat and consequent cancelling of essential school activities, I would like to suggest that people who consider this most unfortunate for our children, as I do, could voluntarily send the money they would have paid in taxes to the school board.

This could amount to $10,000 allowing $20 for every house, and two votes per home from the 1000 who voted for the millage.

This would give all of us the feeling of doing something unique, voluntary taxation for our schools, teachers, but more important for our children.

Stan Butterworth

all the help extended by so many and thank all those who gave of their time so willingly. A special note of thanks is extended to the hundreds of young people who organized and directed a grass root campaign that touched every household in our school district.

With young Americans such as Stacy Evans, Cris Becker, Dave Poppe, Pat Cayley and many others leading the way we can be sure that our country's principles will be carried on with vigor and dispatch. We are all disappointed with the results of our efforts but can take solace in the fact that we discharged our responsibilities as we saw them.

All of our supporters were wonderful but our young people were magnificent.

Millage Committee

Still Back Kids

An Open Letter to the Kids of Northville:

I know that you feel the voters of Northville School District have let you down for the third time, but remember this, there are still a lot of adults in Northville who believe "children are our most important product!"

Sincerely,
An Old Northville Taxpayer

By ROLLY PETERSON

Who is the real Vince Lombardi? That was the question before Sunday night's hour-long special on the now legendary Packer coach, and that's still the $64,000 question. And chances are there'll never be an answer on TV.

For months CBS ballyhooed its special on Lombardi, promising that at last the riddle of Lombardi would be solved and the real man would emerge from the shadows of legend. But he didn't.

For the simple truth may be that Vincent Thomas Lombardi is beyond normal, human understanding. He has reached proportions of the giant killer, of Daniel Webster, of Caesar. Already he has been immortalized and the task of reducing him to a one-hour special — and doing it justice — is impossible.

This, primarily, and among other reasons, is why the CBS special failed. It was a mere replay of the Lombardi motions, without any substantial analysis of the man as a man, without any continuous weaving of his life fabric.

What surfaced Sunday night is what was apparent to football fans to begin with. As George Cantor once put it, "He (Lombardi) is a martinet. He is a relentless, often cruel, taskmaster who can drive his players to more than the maximum effort. He is a despot in cleats."

The words were all there Sunday night: "Nothing less than the best." "Run to win." "Pride and dignity." "Hates to Lose." "No game without meaning."

Wonderful. But what happened to the real Vincent Lombardi? I lost him somewhere in the explosive succession of football plays which showed the Packers annihilating opponent after opponent, like a relentless hurricane bent on destruction. Somewhere in that photographic madness was Lombardi.

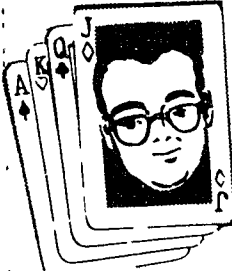

The special I saw, in technique at least, was no different than the half-hour specials the NFL produces to graphically illustrate the malevolence of the sport. And in this sense, the Lombardi special was no more than a pathologic tribute to the NFL.

What happened, also, to the Super Bowl games? and the rising American Football League? Rather than focus on the Packers' victories over Kansas City and Oakland, the special chose to highlight Green Bay's quest for three consecutive NFL championships. As if the Super Bowl never existed.

Perhaps three consecutive NFL championships was the greater achievement, something no other coach or team had accomplished. But to a man like Lombardi, who obviously has a demonic drive to win, the Super Bowl would at least represent a new challenge and one that he would feel compelled to conquer.

Maybe these are small discrepancies. But in a special that portends to tell the life of Lombardi, to probe his innards to see what stuff he's made of, these small discrepancies take on the dimensions of serious flaws.

From a newspaperman's mailbag:
JAMES THURBER once served as a rewrite man for the Post during his youth, Columnist Bennett Cerf recalled recently.

The Post's editor had a mania for short lead sentences and frequently lectured Thurber on the subject. Thurber finally ran this lead on a page one story:

"Dead.
"That's what killer Joe Coochum was when police found him in an alley yesterday."

IF CATS really do have nine lives, the wild Canadian lynx, once listed as extinct in Michigan, is a good example.

During the past decade hunters have taken enough of these animals in Michigan to prove conclusively that the lynx has risen from the dead, reports WSU Biologist William Prychodko.

CHESTER ZAWISLAK, director of the state income tax division, took a newspaper mistake in stride.

The newspaper erred in giving out the conservation department's telephone number so outdoorsmen could fire off their complaints about the state's proposed angling seasons.

Said Zawislak, up to his ears in phone calls, "We can't do anything for the fisherman and taxes are out of season."

WAYNE EAGLE columnist Rosemary Kozielski, who wears her hair shorter than those she defends, climbed up on the soapbox last week and declared:

"The next time somebody with a spray deodorant mentality starts bugging me, I'm going to tell them about the greatest bearded, peace-loving, sandaled, long-haired kook of all times — Jesus of Nazareth."

WHAT STARTED out as a rat bill has turned into a smelly piece of paper flyspecked with governmental boondoggle.

Today, 12 months after the Great Rat Debate in Congress and after the House reversed itself to approve $40 million for rat control, not a penny — Governor Wallace's popular expression notwithstanding — has been shoved down a rat hole.

All of which leads some to speculate that a polecat eradicator might be in order.

SCRAPPIEST PEOPLE in the world are Americans, charges William S. Foster, editor of the American City Magazine.

Addressing urban officials at Moline, Illinois, he asked:

"I would like to know what it is that people in these United States require you to pick up and dispose of four to four and one-half pounds of material a day, whereas the Europeans will throw away less than half this amount."

SURE SIGN that times are changing is the public's way of testing new cars in the nation's showrooms.

In the good old days, a would-be buyer found it necessary to kick the tires to test the car's soundness. Presumably, if the car did not cave in it was sound.

Today, however, this testing technique has been replaced by the door slammer. If the door doesn't fall off its hinges or rattle the salesman, it's worth the down-payment.

SOMEONE GOOFED. Encyclopedia Britannica's latest edition contains 36-million words on 28,000 pages — a giant increase over the first edition back in 1768 that contained three million words in three volumes.

Despite the gigantic increase in verbiage, missing from the latest edition is the cure for baldness — rubbing the head with a freshly cut onion "until it be red and itch" — that appeared in the first.

Too Many Voters Missing Propositions on Machines

LANSING — How to draw attention to special propositions on voting machines is a problem which plagues Bernard Apol, state director of elections.

Five state proposals will be on the November ballot, and local propositions in many communities will increase the number. Apol is concerned that many voters will not be aware of the referendums "hidden" in the maze of office seekers. It is a well-founded fear.

AN IN-DEPTH study of the 1961 Spring Election conducted by Apol showed a significant difference in behavior of voters using paper ballots than those using machines. Almost 18 percent of those casting ballots by machine did not vote on the new Constitution proposal. For those voting by paper ballot, the number was only 2.6 percent. Although many factors could have affected the machine-voter drop-off, Apol believes that many voters simply did not notice the proposal on the voting machines.

"When someone votes by paper ballot," Apol says, "he looks at each ballot individually. Whether or not he chooses to vote on each proposal is immaterial. At least we are pretty well assured he has seen the questions." When using a machine, Apol points out, the voter may not be aware of the propositions placed near the top of the ballot, close to the instructions.

THE AUGUST Primary Election showed the same trend in voter drop-off, although some improvement has been made since 1963.

Rep. Russell Strange (R-Mt. Pleasant), chairman of the House Elections Committee, says, "This has been a matter of growing concern during the 12 years I have served on the elections committee. I have been involved in five Legislative recounts and have noted the voter drop-off on propositions, particularly in Presidential elections."

Both Strange and Apol feel a study is needed, following the November election to determine the best way to deal with the problem. Strange notes that many Legislators share his concern. Rep. Louis Schmidt (R-Livonia) has requested a joint study be conducted by the House Elections Committee and Apol's office.

VARIOUS METHODS to draw attention to propositions on voting machines have been tried, says Apol, but no one solution seems best.

A multi-color face of red, white and blue seems to be most effective

Not only does the method have patriotic implications, the "vote the red, white and blue" slogan helps voters remember to complete their ballots before pulling the machine release lever. Under this system all propositions are printed on a red background, partisan offices are printed on a white background and non-partisan offices on a blue background.

Strange believes the method will probably be made mandatory. He notes that local voting precincts are now permitted to use the strips but many do not. "Depending on the results of our study, there is a good chance the 'red, white and blue' designation for propositions, partisan and non-partisan questions will be adopted as a standard."

A numbering system was also used on an experimental basis but many of the county clerks ran into complaints, says Apol. The system used oversize numbers to designate steps for the voter to follow when casting his ballot. Arrows pointed to questions which corresponded to the numbers. Some candidates complained that the numbers pointed to their opponents' names, and many complained that the arrows pointed to "yes" or "no" on proposals, thus influencing voter decisions.

PRINTED INSTRUCTIONS and verbal reminders have been used in some communities, and a facsimile of the face of the voting machine must be posted outside of voting booths.

Mechanical innovations may be in the offing. Apol has written to manufacturers of voting machines asking that they investigate installation of special lights or lock-releases to assure complete scrutiny of the ballot.

Since approximately 87 percent of all voters in Michigan use machines to cast their ballots, it is important that an effective solution be found.

Businesses Increase Despite Red Tape

WELLESLEY HILLS, Massachusetts — Despite the fact that our free enterprise system is fettered by heavier taxes and more government regulations than ever before, interest in starting new businesses still runs high. Last year, new business incorporations in the United States totaled 206,000 plus. Add to these the number of unincorporated new businesses started and you reach a formidable figure.

Many returning servicemen are seriously exploring the possibilities of going into business for themselves. They seek advice from friends and relatives, from former teachers, and sometimes from businessmen in their home communities. Less frequently do they address their queries to those in the best position to counsel them: Bankers, chamber of commerce officials, and business analysts.

Opportunities still abound in the United States, but a good deal more than hard work is needed to take advantage of them. Veterans and others desiring to enter business as proprietors must be adequately financed, know well the field in which they plan to operate, and be prepared psychologically as well as financially to endure disappointments and setbacks (including bankruptcy). There is no easy road to success, and the business mortality rate is heavy.

MOST BUSINESS counselors caution against returning veterans starting new businesses immediately, even in cases where they appear well financed and well acquainted with the field. One obvious reason is that most returning servicemen have been away from civilian pursuits for two, three, or more years and are out of touch with what is going on businesswise in the nation or even in their own communities. They need time to get their feet on the ground and to think their plans through. Also, many of them have had no prior business experience.

But perhaps the biggest stumbling block is the high start-up cost in most businesses. Even with all other signals "go", individuals starting businesses today soon discover how quickly these costs can eat up what seemed initially to be ample capital funds.

Broadly speaking, even the well-heeled veteran who is apparently able to finance a new business venture without taking on an unrealistically heavy debt burden would do better to spend two years at a school of business administration or as an employee in his chosen line. And then he might be smarter to buy an existing business at a reasonable price than to start one from scratch.

EVERY YEAR, successful though small family businesses are put up for sale because of the retirement or death of their owners. Often survivors need to get their money out fast to pay death taxes or satisfy other obligations. Hence bargains are by no means rare, though you must scout for them. As a rule of thumb, beware of paying as much as ten times the average annual net earnings after taxes for a going business. Aim to pay closer to five times annual net, and then only if you are satisfied as to location, competition, and the general character and condition of the business.

Anyone seriously bent on buying an existing business should go about it systematically. First, read your own local newspaper thoroughly — news, editorials, and advertisements. Then learn about conditions and opportunities in other cities in which you might like to locate by studying their newspapers just as carefully.

Search patiently, and try to improve your cash position while waiting.

Volkswagen leaps into the present.

With a fully automatic transmission.

If you bet a friend we never would, we almost didn't.

10 years ago the decision was made. To design a fully automatic transmission. The kind you put in drive and forget.

Our aim was to make things easy, but for us changes aren't easy to make.

Especially in this case. There were certain things we just didn't want to lose.

Like horsepower, and our reputation for being economical.

What we've ended up with is a 3-speed automatic transmission that's pure Volkswagen—designed from scratch to get the most out of the VW with the least expenditure of effort.

It has the fewest moving parts.

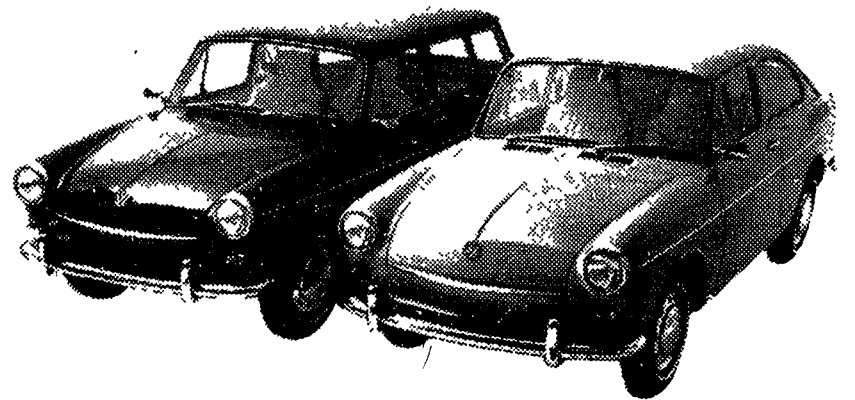

It's the lightest per horsepower output. And it's incredibly sensitive. (A model airplane engine is powerful enough to turn it.)

So come see how far Volkswagen has come.

The Squareback and Fastback. Both have disk brakes, an electronically controlled fuel injection system, and now, a fully automatic transmission.

If you're interested, it's available as an option on our '69 models.

If you're not interested, we sure went to a lot of trouble for nothing.
