McDonald, Frink Lock Horns over Vietnam

McDonald....

Booming himself as representing the "fresh" approach to government, Republican Congressman Jack McDonald credits his opponent with offering a rehash of concepts developed in the 1930s.

Noting that Democrats have been in control of Congress for 33 of the last 36 years, the 19th District candidate for re-election suggests voters are dissatisfied with high interest rates, crime in the streets, the international situation, and the shrinking dollar and hence are not going to elect a man who is tied to the Democratic bureaucracy of the past.

In his two years as a freshman congressman, McDonald says he has brought new ideas to Congress and supported many others.

Area Voter Registrations Up Sharply

harboring about the 1968 Presidential election holding little voter interest forget it.

Municipal officials thoughout the area report giant increases in registrations since the primary - and much of the jump coming within recent weeks.

In Plymouth Township, for example, an estimated 1,000 persons registered/during the final three days before the October 4 deadline.

Similarly, offices in Northville, Novi and Wixom were "swamped" with new registrations since the primary.

Although local officials see no particular reason for the increases other than the fact that citizens normally take greater interest in government just prior to a Presidential election, some political pundits here and elsewhere see a substantial number of the new electors as supporters of Governor George Wallace - the third party candidate.

Others, however, credit the increases to efforts of the Democrats and Republicans at the county and state levels to "get out the votes"

In Novi, where both township and village officials were "so swamped" with recent registrations, the final tally has not yet been determined. On the final day, citizens were lined up "practically all the time" to register with the township. So many registered, in fact, that the township had to obtain additional registration forms from the

An estimated 750 persons were registered in Novi between the primary election and the October 4 deadline, according to Village Clerk Mrs. Mabel Ash, who pegged the total registration at a record high of more than 3,000.

Registrations are up 17-percent in the City of Northville, according to Clerk Mrs. Martha Milne, from a total of 2,555 on July 5 to 2,998 on October 4.

On the final day, reported Mrs. Milne, a total of 117 persons registered to reach the record 2,998. The increases by precincts were: From 824 to 959 in Precinct 1; from 716 to 830 in Precinct 2; and 1,015 to 1,209 in Precinct 3.

Mrs., Milne said she "would guess" that the 17-percent increase "isn't too far off the normal increase in registration here during a Presidential campaign year."

Likewise, Northville Township Clerk Mrs. Elly Hammond suggested that the estimated 300 increase in registrations there is due primarily to normal voter-interest in a Presidential election. She estimated the fotal registrations in the township now as "well over 2,000".

In Wixom registrations climbed only 99 since the primary - but that represents "a tremendous amount", said Deputy Clerk Donna Thorsberg. That increase is slightly more than 10-percent of the total, she said, noting that registration since July climbed from 732 to 831.

prove that," he says. "I think I can give a fresh outlook to Congress that my opponent could not give.'

McDonald labels himself a "fiscal conservative and a human liberal."

He is a conservative, the congressman explains, "because I don't think the government should be in every business, don't think the government can better spend the fruits of the labor of the individual than can the individual, and therefore, I am a bit tight with the purse strings - especially on programs I don't think are to the Continued on Page 6-B

Slapping Richard Nixon for failure to speak out on one of "the most vitally important issues in this campaign - Vietnam," Gary Frink, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 19th District, calls for United States withdrawal from Vietnam.

Frink links his opponent with the "Nixon ruse" to avoid campaign injury. Specifically, he charges that his opponent "hasn't gotten involved in (major issues). He's played it a la Bill Broomfield - keep your head down and stay out of as much controversy as possible... mail a great deal. Jack has sent tons of junk mail into the district, none of it which relates to the 19th District. It's all canned mailings that are done by the Republican House campaign committee."

Referring to Nixon's "refusal" to discuss Vietnam because his comments might damage the Paris peace talks, Frink angrily denounces Nixon for manufacturing an escape.

His argument, says Frink, is "total nonsense. It's just a ruse - a clever, slick Nixon scheme to keep from talking about the issues. If we're not going to discuss Vietnam in this campaign what the hell are we going to discuss; There are two or three bedrock issues in this campaign and for a presidential candidate to hide behind it and say 'I won't discuss the issues', oh, that's disgraceful.....

School Board Approves Pared but Balanced Budget

With but a handful of citizens present Monday night, the Northville Board of Education adopted the controversial 1968-69 budget calling for a total outlay of $2,068,785.

It won approval of all board members except Trustee Glenn E. Deibert, who voted no because he contends the budget has been trimmed so much it injures the school system and does a "disservice.' to the district.

The approved budget represents a reduction of approximately $125,000 from the tentative general fund of $2,193,000 considered by the board last spring.

When pressed by board members on whether or not the budget represents a deficit, Superintendent' Raymond Spear and Business Manager Earl Busard assured members the budget contains sufficient funds to cover all "foreseen" expenses.

They reminded the board that a moratorium on all non-vitally essential expenditures will continue until January when a review of the budget should indicate "more accurately how things are going.'

During a discussion of the maintenance outlay. Trustee Richard Martin noted it is insufficient and would "eat up our facility." Eventually, this year's savings will have to be made up later. Specifically, he noted that the capital outlay was pegged at only a $1,000, which Busard said should really be about $45,000.

Ordinary maintenance, said Busard, 1s possible with this budget but he admitted that an unexpected major expenditure, such as a new boiler, would create a financial problem.

Biggest share of the budget cost is for instruction - $1,531,224 or 74.01 percent of the total. Cost of the new salary scales for instruction personnel is pegged at $162,000 over the base rate that would have been paid the same reduced staff at the 1967-68 rates, according to Spear. The total budget for teacher salaries is $1,238,590, not counting a budgeted $27,500 for substitute teachers.

Salaries for principals in the budget total $103,800.

Other costs in the instruction outlay include curriculum development direction, $14,800; clerical assistance, $51,974; instructional material, $65,060; and other instructional costs (such as lunchroom supervision, crossing guards, etc.) $29,500.

Other major categories and budgeted expenses are:

Administration, $88,205; coordinate activities, $1,725; pupil transportation, $80,893; operation of plant, $222,280; maintenance, $64,958; fixed charges, $68,600; capital outlay, $1,000; student services, $7,000; and other expenditures (turtion of special education students attending classes elsewhere), $2,000.

The debt retirement fund is pegged at $404,546, and the building and site fund at $232,288.

Local revenue - including taxes, tuition, book fees, etc. - are expected to produce $1,350,162, while state and local revenue is pegged at $718,623.

Under the new proposal of operation it is hoped that costs can be reduced to about $7,000 annually.

maximum hikes were substantially greater than in the previous school year, it was noted.

Concerning teacher resignations, Spear said that 26 of the 40 were females, 14 males. They represented an average service to the district of four years, a median service of two years.

He said 57.5 percent of the resignations were at the secondary level, 30 percent at the elementary

One Week, $4,748 To Go for NPSD

That's the word from officials of the Northville Public Schools Donation (NPSD) campaign as collections soared past the 75-percent mark Monday.

Collections totalled $14,435.34 by Monday or about $100 more than was needed by Tuesday's second deadline.

permission to raise the money through donations, the board agreed and put a price tag on the activities. A bank account was established, with three deadlines - the first being October 1 by which time $4,796 had to be raised.

None of the money goes to the school unless the grand total is reached. If the campaign falls short the money is to be returned to the donors, minus a small amount for conducting the campaign, NPSD officials have explained.

In reporting the latest collection total, officials expressed "appreciation to all those who have given the support necessary to attain the first and second plateaus.'

Emphasizing that success depends upon "a total community effort" they urged others to give whatever they can. "If each householder will contribute our goal for the activities will be realized," they said.

"Let's all get on the bandwagon and unite our community. If you can support this cause don't hesitate because the deadline's just around the corner.'

Officials said student support is gaining momentum (the junior high school student body contributed $1,500), and teacher contributions and help from parent-teacher groups "have been very helpful."

Donations, which are tax deductible, may be made at Lapham's Men's Shop, 120 East Main Street, Dayton Deal's office, 103 South Center Street, or by mail to NPSD, Box 1968. Checks should be made out simply to

"There was a time when both of us, I guess, despaired," explained Mrs. Wallis who gave up one of her kidneys that her daughter might live. "But now, well, Cathy and I hope constantly that she'll be pretty again.

Despite the tragedy that marred their lives, the Wallis family isn't bitter. They prefer to devote their time to helping the Michigan Kidney Foundation which during the past years has helped them so much. She estimated that surgery, hospitals, and drugs have cost about $70,000.

In a poignant letter to the city council last week, Mrs. Wallis asked for and received permission to sell Halloween candy door-to-door to raise money for the Foundation. But even before she began selling in the area of her home at 506 Griswold her friends bought up the initial supply and now she's been forced to ask the Foundation for more.

"I'm not even sure I can get any more candy before Halloween," she said, "but maybe some people would still like to help the Foundation. If they do they should call Mr. Reed (David) at 971-2800 in Ann Arbor."

A divorcee, Mrs. Wallis moved to Northville just a few weeks ago. She is now working as a clerk at the city hall. Living here with her are Cathy and a son, 10-year-old Eric. Another son, Paul is a Marine serving in Vietnam.

It was less than two years ago - on Cathy's 13th birthday - that the pretty girl's life began to change, and change rapidly. She developed a strept infection but because she didn't want to postpone a pajama party on her birthday she kept the illness to herself. Within weeks, Cathy's body began to swell and doctors diagnosed the Continued on Page 12-A

Novi Girl Marries Peace Corps Official

In a garden ceremony Sunday afternoon LonnaDee Pelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Pelton, Clark Street, Novi, became the bride of Michael Bloom of Panama.

The bridegroom, who has been serving as Panama Peace Corps director, is the son of the Morton Blooms of Toms River, New Jersey.

Escorted by her father, the bride walked across spacious, sloping lawns to a glen at the Rochester home of her sister and brother-in-law, the Gordon Frieses, to pledge her vows in a double-ring ceremony at which the Reverend Stanley Stefancic of the Birmingham Unitarian Church officiated. In his marriage text he used appropriate quotes from Shakespeare, Kahlil Gibran and Bertrand Russell.

The bride's sleeveless, street-length dress was a fitted sheath, its hemline edged with a heavy, wide lace band. It was topped by an overdress of Relatives and friends attended from Finland, Panama, Germany, British Columbia, Bolivia and Japan joined with others from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Texas, Ohio, Illinois, Wisonsi, New York, Massachusetts, Kansas, Iowa, Missouri and from Michigan cities. Prior to the ceremony several were house guests of the bride. Among those attending the wedding from Novi were the James Mitchells, John Audretsches and Dr. and Mrs. Richard Henderson.

After a wedding trip to the ocean side in New Jersey and a tour of New England, the newlyweds will return to Panama to make their home until the bridegroom completes his term with the Peace Corps in January. Then they plan a year's visit to Europe.

CHANGING the letter "A" to "E" officially created a new Women's Society for Christian Service at Northville First United Methodist Church last Tuesday.

The October 8th meeting was another historic moment in local Methodist church history as the church women signed the charter forming a new women's organization in conformity with the unification of the Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren churches as the United Methodist Visible recognition of the new organization lies in the change from the former Woman's Society for Christian Service to the use of the plural, women, signifying a broader scope.

It was a day that recalled another charter signing in 1940 when the Northville WSCS came into being as a result of the consolidation of the Ladies Aid Society and the home and foreign missionary societies.

More than 20 of the women who signed last Tuesday's charter wore blue-and-gold ribbons signifying that they also had signed the 1940 charter.

Officers at the September 19, 1940, charter signing who also signed last week included Mrs. O. F. Reng, who was first vice-president; Mrs. W. A. Liebetrau, first recording secretary; Mrs. E. M. Bogart, first corresponding secretary; Mrs. William B. Walker, Jr., first treasurer. Others were Mrs. William Cansfield, first secretary for student work, and Mrs. Robert Bechtel (who was then Mrs. Arthur Gotts), secretary for supplies. Mrs. Reng gave a history of the original WSCS.

Fifty-five members signed the new charter and were presented with new charter cards by Mrs. Warren Fittery, WSCS president.

Mrs. Douglas Bolton, who was in charge of arrangements for the charter meeting, adds that church women will have an opportunity to sign the new document as charter members through the end of December. Mrs. John Angell, chairman of the day, called upon Mrs. Harold Marks for a history of the Evangelical United Brethren church and Mrs. Merritt Meaker for the meditation. She used the four main ingredients of a loaf of bread to symbolize the bread of Miss B. Ione Palmer, a 1940 charter member, gave chapel moments. Mrs. Richard Somers played the organ.

Mrs. Bolton pointed out that the charter ceremony was not a consolidation of the Methodist WSCS with groups in other churches, but it rather creates a uniformity of structure which former EUB church women also will be adopting.

Men's Club members will ; serve pancakes, sausages and applesauce before the annual homecoming parade and game with Milford. Tickets are available from club members or the church office at $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for students.

OVERTURE TO OPERA which premiered in Northville last spring gives promise of becoming an annual tradition. Last season's success almost assures a repeat, according to Mrs. Ernest J. Shave, our community's long-time member of Detroit Grand Opera Association.

"We are definitely planning to bring Overture to Northville next spring," she said this week as announcement was made of the seven operas the Metropolitan Opera Company will present in Detroit next May. She adds that she is hoping to have the same committee members work with her and Mrs. Donald Ware next

There is no doubt, she commented, that the Overture players would like to return to Northville as their reception was overwhelmingly warm and enthusiastic with the after glow a "fun" evening for both the audience and performers.

Announce Engagements

BARBARA COSTA

From Vineland, New Jersey, comes announcement of the engagement of Miss Barbara Costa to John Badalutz, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Badalutz, former Northville residents now living in Plymouth. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Costa of Vineland.

She is a 1965 graduate of Vineland High School and is serving as a full-time minister of Jehovah's Witnesses in Brooklyn, New York. Her fiance, a Northville High School graduate, is a member of "Watchtower" world headquarters staff in Brooklyn.

A late 1969 wedding is planned.

The engagement of Miss Beverly Claire Stone to Robert Davidson Lowden is announced this week by her parents, Mr., and Mrs. Roy P. Stone, former Northville residents now making their home in Largo, Florida. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Stanley Lowden of Needham, Massachusetts.

The bride-elect, who now lives in Boston, was graduated from Bentley High School in Livonia in 1957 and from the University of Michigan in 1961. Her father owns the Northville Stone's Gamble Store, which he operated for many years and which his son. Gerald, now operates.

Mr. Lowden is a 1959 graduate of Williams College where he was affiliated with Delta Upsilon Fraternity, University Club of Boston and Longwood Cricket Club. He is an actuary with John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, as is his fiancee.

A March, 1969, date has been set for the wedding.

Is Charlie Still Waiting?

"Charlie Brown of Peanuts fame is still waiting to see the Great Pumpkin — will he?"

New residents of the area are especially invited to come to find out at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, October 26, at the home of Newcomers Club members Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Gans, 40123 Six Mile Road.

An open invitation to new families of the area is extended by the club. New couples may participate in the Annual Watch by mailing their reservations and a $4 check to Mrs. Dan Conley, 528 Reed, or Mrs. Peter Lindholm, 525 Langfield, by October 23.

"Put on a bewitching costume and come to the Great Party," invites the club.

Cuts Towel Contract

School Sets Fees For Pool, Games

Swimming pool fees, changes in athletic admission fees, and cancellation of a laundry service contract were approved by the Northville Board of Education Monday

Following up a previous decision to permit use of the new high school pool by community groups, the board set the following hourly rates which reportedly will cover all costs to the school system:

Weekdays - groups of one to 25 swimmers, $12.50 per hour; for 26 to 50 swimmers, $18 per hour; and for 50 swimmers, $18 per hour plus additional charges for needed lifeguard personnel.

Weekends and holidays - groups of one to 25, $18 per hour; 26 to 50, $23.50 per hour; over 50, $23.50 per hour plus additional personnel needs.

Admission fees to athletic events were changed in three major ways:

Youngsters, ages 12 and under, attending major athletic events without their parents will pay the adult ticket price of $1. This change was made, it was explained, to discourage unsupervised children from attending these events.

-Charges of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children are to be made for junior high school basketball, which previously have been free.

-Charges of 50-cents and 25-cents are to be made at high school track and baseball games, which previously were

The board also agreed to cancel its laundry contract with the Ritchie Brothers Launderers-Cleaners, Inc. The move was made because the district cannot guarantee the company the amount of work it previously estimated would result from swimming pool use.

Ritchie Brothers reportedly had submitted a low bid for laundering towels and athletic equipment because of the volume the school expected in towels. Failure to open the swimming pool at mid-year resulted in a significant drop in this volume, officials

Board members expressed regrets in view of the fact that the Northville company had expanded its facilities here in anticipation of the work.

To reduce its costs the school is now using paper towels in its shower rooms. Discussing this subject Monday, Superintendent Raymond Spear

Bake Sale May Go to Sidewalk

If Indian Summer weather continues, Northville King's Daughters will hold their bake sale on the sidewalk this Friday in front of the Northville Pizzeria. Beginning at 10 a.m. coffee, donuts and cookies will be served. Sale baked goods will include cakes, pies, breads and sweet rolls.

In event of poor weather the sale will be held inside the pizzeria, a new location for the King's Daughters annual event. It is under the direction of Mrs. Richard Somers, Mrs. Harold Marks and Mrs. Douglas Bolton, of the ways and means committee.

Local Grid Picks Upset Contestants

Over confidence in Northville and too little confidence in Novi proved to be the downfall of most entries in last week's football contest conducted by The Northville Record-Novi News.

Even two of the three winning entries guessed wrong on at least one of these games

Taking first place and the $10 prize was Charles A. Bond of 1227 East Lake Drive, Novi. He mussed just three games, picking Northville over Clarkston, California over Army and Washington over Oregon.

Second place money went to Brad Cole of 356 Fairbrook, who really had his crystal ball working - he correctly guessed Detroit winning over Chicago by a score of 28-10. He missed four games, however, as did third place winner Kathryn Byrne of 860 Spring

Brad correctly picked Clarkston and Novi to win, but Kathryn missed both games

Most entries correctly picked Michigan over Michigan State, but they really missed the boat on Ohio State's upset win over Purdue.

The other two big contest upsets were Army's victory over California and Air Force over Navy.

Even if you're not one of the lucky winners this week, you've got another chance to win first, second and third place money next week. See contest rules on Page 8-B.

Northville Men Dine with Tigers

"I'll betcha five I'll catch it," laughed the guy who netted the pop-up that turned Michigan into a frothy sea of happiness Thursday.

Bill Freehan couldn't find any takers as he watched the televised replay of the last-out catch that gave the Detroit Tigers the first world championship since 1935 when Florence Orr and Mazzie Markham, two Northville clerks, were swept up in a crowd of crazy worshipers of Goose

Charles Lapham and Chuck Parton, the two Northville clothiers who witnessed the postgame hilarity of Freehan and his jubilant Bengal stablemates, sat in stunned silence.

For Florence and Mazzie, the 1968 championship took them back to their adventure in Detroit 33 years ago just after Goslin drove in the winning run in the ninth inning of the deciding 1935 World Series game.

And for the two Chucks, well, to be closeted in a restaurant with the Tigers while the whole world searched wildly for them "was unbehevable, simply unbehevable."

The two men had been in Detroit on a buying trip for Lapham's Men's Wear and on their way home decided to stop for a bite to eat. They missed their turnoff and ended up "by chance" at the Holiday Inn near Telegraph and I-696 about 10 p.m. Thursday.

Inside the restaurant were two other couples. Unable to get anyone to wait on them they walked to the lobby passing a big tall fellow wearing a grin and asking a waitress for a table for 20. Suddenly, they found themselves locked out of the dining room.

They banged on the door, demanding service whereupon the manager showed up Explaining that they had been inside, were unable to get anyone to wait on them, and were now locked out, Lapham and Parton were allowed to re-enter.

By now, the dining room was empty of everyone but the two Northvillites.

Then the tall, grinning fellow reappeared - it was Al Kaline and his pretty wife. He was followed by a dozen other Tigers and their wives, including the World Series hero, Mickey Lolich.

"We couldn't believe it," said Lapham. "It had to be a mirage because we'd just heard minutes before on our car radio that the players' buses were being mobbed enroute to town from the airport. But there they were, sitting around the table next to ours."

The players were delirously happy, recalled Lapham, "but not very bosterous. They looked a little tired.

"But ever so often some of them would get up and run to the television set in the bar and watch replays of the afternoon's championship game. When they showed the last out pop-up, Freehan bet the others he'd catch it.'

"Actually, they didn't eat a dinner," said Parton. "They just sat there talking and quietly enjoying ate shrimp and pretzels."

Lapham continued: "Mickey Lolich came in and told fellow players that he'd taken a plane from Willow Run to Detroit City Airport, followed or took a state police escort to a nearby used-car lot where he was given a car. Then he drove to the restaurant.

"We didn't know it but the Tigers - at least some of them - had been staying at the Holiday Inn during the Series garnes in Detroit."

Other Tigers recognized by the two Northville men were Dick McAuliffe and Joe Sparma. They had a brief conversation with Kaline and talked at length with Sparma.

Parton said he felt out of place asking Kaline to autograph his son's picture "because they had tried to get someplace where they wouldn't be bothered, but he signed it anyway. And Sparma was really friendly.' By the time Lapham and Parton left, fans had gathered at the door of the Inn hoping to catch a glimpse of the Tigers. "They saw us and asked, 'Are you anybody important?'," said Lapham.

Tigers' Bite Hurts Local Bird's Ego

Not everyone was jubilant Thursday afternoon.

Take Bob Kucher, Northville's athletic director, for example.

Bob's a Cardinal fan, which isn't too surprising when you consider the fact that he's a scout for the St. Louis ballclub.

One of those lucky guys who had tickets for all of the Series games. Kucher saw only those played in Detroit. He gave away his St. Louis tickets to his parents.

His reaction to Thursday's championship game "Well, I guess if the Cards had to lose to somebody it might as well have been the Tigers I've got some friends with that organization, too' Kucher said he received dozens of telephone calls from "sympathetic" friends "who gave me some good natured rubbing.

Friday morning, the blackboard in Kucher's geography room was plastered with notes about the big Tiger victory When he pulled down the wall map, "all kinds of stuff floated out pictures of Tigers, dead Cardinals, etc."

"In a way maybe it was better that the Tigers won. I can live with the ribbing but can you imagine how I'd be treated if the Cardinals had won it?"

Not everyone in the Kucher home is a Cardinal fan His five-year-old son was rooting for the Tigers

Said Kucher: "He's too young to know who puts the bread and butter and the Budweiser on the table."

"Maybe we weren't much before we went in but we WERE important on the way out."

Both Mazzie and Florence, who together had been in Detroit on the day the Tigers last won the Series, saw parts of Thursday's championship game and "flipped" with the millions of other Tiger fans. Neither was in Detroit last Thursday but what they saw and heard on television made that day in 1935 look like a quiet picnic.

"They put out the banners, horns were honking, and the confetti rained down from the buildings but, oh, nothing like this year."

Florence, who clerks at Stone's Gambles store, dug out old Detroit Times clippings she'd saved showing and discussing the jubilant crowds and players following the '35 championship game. In them, the late John C. Manning writes of the thrilling ninth-inning hit off the bat of Goslin that brought in Mickey Cochrane with the winning run.

Mazzie, who clerks at Brader's Department Store, was at the hair dresser during last week's game. "I was under the dryer when the screaming started," she said. "When I asked what happened one of the women said, 'they got Brock at second.'

"That was almost as exciting as winning - but not quite."

NPSD to Get Rotary Funds

Proceeds from the Rotary travelogue series, which opens next Wednesday with "Spring Captures Holland," will be donated to the N.P.S.D., the club announced this

The Northville Rotary annually donates profits from the travel programs to a worthy local cause, and this year has selected the Northville schools activities fund.

Robert Brouwer will narrate the unusual Dutch travel film which utilizes three screens, several projectors and background hi-fidelity music. It will be presented at 8 p.m Wednesday in the Northville High School auditorium.

Are Names, Ballots Right?

Election Poses Big Problems

Ever stop to think what goes into getting the right ballots to the right precincts, the right names on the proper voting machines?

A lot. Take Wayne County, Michigan's most populous with more than 2½-million citizens. Elections officials there had nearly 4,000 names to juggle in the 1966 election, most of them precinct delegates whose names generally aren't well-known even in their own backyards.

But Wayne County elections director Joseph Martina didn't have a single complaint about a misspelled name and all the candidates were on the proper ballot in the proper precinct... and there are nearly 1,800 precincts in Wayne County.

In the August primary this year there were 112 Republican and 112 Democrat combinations, a number shaved considerably for the general election.

The numerous combinations are necessary because of our representative form of government.

There's one congressman for approximately 410,000 citizens, one state senator for 206,000 people and a state representative for 71,000 persons. So Wayne has all or parts of seven congressional districts, all of 11 and part of three other state senate districts and 38 state representative districts.

In addition, there are 26 districts that elect members to the county board of supervisors plus the various cities and townships which elect councilmen, mayors, and other officers.

And, boundary lines go ever which-way.

Often there is the complaint that voters know their United States senators and congressman but they don't know their state legislators. It's understandable, though, when you try to keep track of all the districts you're in and try to decipher some of the small maps that circulate at election time. And it's particularly difficult when you live in a large metropolitan area where your state legislators get relatively little newspaper publicity. You live in, say, the first congressional, eighth state senate and 20th state representative districts. You also have a ward number and a precuict

The chance of error is much greater in Wayne County because of its size. There are 1,770 precincts in Wayne, and the printing press has to be stopped that many times to insert the names of the various precinct delegates.

"Back in the days when we had all paper ballots we ran the presses around the clock," Wayne County elections director Martina said. "It's still a long job, but everyone in the county has switched to machines now except Hamtramck so the process has been speeded up considerably," Martina said.

Nevertheless, it takes the City of Detroit some three weeks to set up its 3,000-plus machines for an election.

number. It begins to sound like a bingo

It's more like a jigsaw puzzle, though, to the elections officials.

While they begin planning far ahead for an election, the final push can't start until the filing deadline for candidates which was June 18 for the August primary. As soon as the names were in they were rushed to the printer.

A proof copy of the ballot is sent to each candidate so that he can check the spelling. Once, in Muskegon, a state senator called state elections headquarters in Lansing and wondered why he hadn't received a proof.

It seems his name was omitted from the ballot. The error was corrected quickly.

Revenues Increase From Gas, Licenses

LANSING - State gasoline taxes and license plate fees produced a record $309.9 million for Michigan's Motor Vehicle Highway Fund in the fiscal year that ended June 30, an increase of 9.6 percent, the Department of State Highways announced.

Henrik E. Strafseth, state highway director, said the increase is due in part to a hike from six to seven cents a gallon in the state gas tax, effective last January 1, part of the "Good Roads" tax package enacted by the Legislature last year.

The other revenue producing part of the tax package, restoring motor vehicle weight taxes to the pre-depression level, won't take effect until October 1 and November 15 when new commercial and passenger plates are placed on sale.

Stafseth said the gas tax produced $219.7 million in the fiscal year, up 12.5 percent, while license plate fees totaled $85.6 million, an increase of 3.6 percent. Miscellaneous revenue amounted to $4.5 million, up 2.8

Collection costs totaled $7.2 million, up less than one percent. The State Waterways Commission's share jumped 122.3 percent to $2.1 million, mostly a result of a tax package provision boosting the Commission's share of the gas tax from 5 to 1.5 percent on January 1.

The percentage of increase for municipalities was greater in proportion to that for the state and counties, again a result of the tax package which hiked the municipal share from 18 to 20 percent on January 1 and reduced the state and county portions from 47 and 35 percent, respectively, to 46 and 34 percent.

Amounts of $2 million or more were received by eight counties, one more than in the previous fiscal year, including Wayne, $19.4 million. Oakland, $6.7 million; Kent, $4.4 million, Genesee and Macomb, $3.9 million each; Saginaw, $2.4 million; Ingham, $2.3 million; and Berrien, $2 million.

In this area, the city of Northville received $42,550, compared to $38,117 last year; the village of Novi, $87,828 this year compared to $79,549 last year, the city of South Lyon, $17,676 compared to $16,007, and Wixom, $26,833, compared to $24,809 last year.

didn't even know she was married"

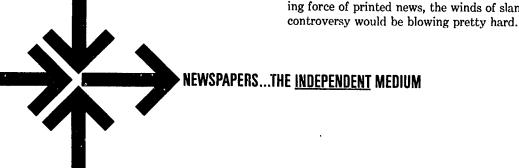

Well, she's married all right. You could have read about it a year ago on page six. Her wedding announcement was printed in the same newspaper that recorded her parents' wedding, her birth, her graduation, and now the beginning of another generation.

When each of these events took place they were duly noted and set down in permanent print in the continuing record of your community. From birth and death announcements to chronicling the mighty events of war and peace, newspapers have been printing the facts in America since pre-Colonial times. And if you believe that "printing the facts" is easy, you should sit in an editor's chair, sometime.

If it's in print it stays there. It can be checked and double-checked. It forms a permanent record. It's not chatter in the air, loose talk "... whose edge is sharper than the sword, whose tongue outvenoms all the worms of Nile, whose breath rides on the posting winds . . . ," as Shakespeare put it.

You may take this service lightly. You should live, then, in a community without a newspaper. You would probably find that, without the modifying force of printed news, the winds of slander and

Municipal Court

This past week was a busy one as usual for Judge Philip Ogilvie and the Northville Municipal Court.

One three day jail sentence was meted out. William J. Bennett of Union Lake faced two charges, driving while his license was revoked and minor in possession of beer. When he was arraigned on September 27, Bennett Stood mute and had an innocent plea entered for him. When he changed his plea to guilty before Judge Ogilvie last Thursday, he was given a three day sentence and fined $50 on the first charge and had the second charge dropped upon induction into the US Army.

On Tuesday Judge Ogilvie suspended fine, but exacted $25 costs in lieu of 5 days of Gerald R. Sieloff of 401 Yerkes for uttering and publishing an insufficient funds check.

Judge Ogilvie on Wednesday fined Lloyd W. Murray of 41180 West Seven Mile $20 and $10 costs or six days and $2 costs for being a disorderly person for being drunk at Main and Center Streets

A number of cases were heard before Judge Ogilvie on Thursday, his regular court day, in addition to the first one mentioned above.

James A. Nelson of Detroit pleaded guilty to having improper license plates and paid a $5 fine.

Herman Gersch of Flint stood mute and had an innocent plea entered for him on the charge of being disorderly by using profane language at Northville Downs upon arraignment

June 14. His plea was changed to guilty Thursday and he paid $100 in lieu of 20 days and $10 costs.

Innocent pleas for two men driving under the influence of liquor were changed to guilty of the added charge of driving while ability was impaired with the initial charge dismissed. Each paid a $100 fine in lieu of 20 days in jail. The two were Robert Myles of Livonia and James E. Gregory of East

Driving under the influence of liquor was also the charge against William D. Yerkes of 504 West Dunlap Street. Yerkes entered a plea of innocent on June 20. After seven adjournments, court agreed to drop the charges if the defendant enlists in the Navy, as he plans to do. They will be reinstated if he fails to carry through, however.

Pleading guilty to being a disorderly person by being drunk on West Main Street between Wing and Cady cost Ralph Garrett of 111 South Wing a $50 fine in lieu of 10 days and $5 costs.

Arlene F. Stabenau of 19911 Woodhill Road pleaded innocent on September 26 to going 50 in a 35 MPH zone on southbound South Main Street between Beal and 7-Mile. She was found guilty of going 45 in that zone and was assessed a fine of $10.

Picked up by Northville police Sunday for driving under the influence of liquor and for improper license plates, Gerald T. Bowden of Detroit pleaded guilty to both counts before Municipal Court Judge Philip Ogilvie on Monday.

Bowden was assessed $100 or 20 days and his license revoked for 90 days on the first count and $10 or two days on the second. He was committed to Detroit House of Correction in lieu of paying the fines.

Young Man Jailed for Theft

Christopher Jones, 22, of Union Lake, commandeered Michael Bowers, 1537 West Lake Drive and his vehicle and drove to Lansing after having taken $59 from Bowers by force.

Jones appeared before Circuit Court Judge William Beasley Monday at Oakland County Circuit Court. Beasley dismissed the first charge of feloniously stealing from a person and Jones pleaded guilty to a second charge of simple larceny. He is serving 90 days in Oakland County Jail as a result.

Jack Watson, 21, of Farmington was apparently beaten and robbed by a group of five alleged Mexicans and dumped in front of the home of Ray Warren at 27629 Haggerty Road Saturday night. When the Warrens awoke (he is the president of the Novi Chamber of Commerce) they found Watson passed out on their couch in the front room. Police and Harbin's ambulance were called and Watson was taken to Botsford Hospital where it was ascertained that he had suffered a broken jaw.

Ted Second, 1199 South Lake Drive, reports that someone broke into his home with vandalism as the only goal. The person or persons involved apparently enjoyed television, the bathroom facilities (which were left in poor condition) and Mr. Second's beer before they left. Police are investigating.

Jack Lambeth, 41089 Malott, reports the breaking and entering and larceny of several items from his locked car which was parked at Willowbrook Grocery, 41390 Ten Mile Road. Police have no leads at present.

Vandals damaged a number of mailboxes by throwing pumpkins at them along Nine Mile Road Sunday night. Fred Burnhart, 46644 Nine Mile reported the damage as his mailbox was one of those damaged. Police remind pranksters that this is a federal offense.

Nothing was taken from the toolshed of Nelson Proper at 1331 East Lake Drive when it was broken into Sunday night.

Teddy C. Agar is being held in Oakland County Jail for Circuit Court on the charge of breaking and entering.

Agar is being held on $2,500 bond while awaiting arraignment before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Phillip Pratt on October 24.

Agar had the lesser charge of conspiring to commit breaking and entering dropped against him as a result of the hearing last Thursday before Justice of Peace Emery Jacques.

On Bus Violators School Seeks Crackdown

Fifteen traffic violations endangering school buses have prompted the Northville School District to seek special cooperation of the Novi Police Department.

In a letter to Police Chief Lee BeGole, Northville's business manager. Earl Busard, outlined the violations and where they occurred and then made this comment:

"It appears that the Northville area needs an educational program pointing out the illegality of a vehicle passing a stopped school bus loading and unloading passengers, with flashers on.

"We would greatly appreciate, in the interest of the safety of our children, any campaign you can institute. We must protect our children to the full extent of the law."

During a 10-day period, said Busard, 15 violations were reported. Areas of special concern, he said, include: -Novi Road between Ten Mile and Eight Mile Roads, five incidents in 10 days.

-Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile Roads, a minimum of five violations were observed.

-Seven Mile Road between Seven Mile and Meadowbrook Roads and Seven Mile and Marilyn, at least four violations occurred.

Copies of the letter also were sent to the police departments of Northville and Livonia.

Wolves Nip Mustangs in Upset

CLARKSTON - Take a team that hasn't won a game all season long - a team that's tired of playing doormat, mix in the fact that it's playing before a huge homecoming crowd, and you've got trouble.

And trouble's spelled with a capital U - in this case a 13-6 upset victory over the Northville Mustangs here Friday night.

Nothing Northville could do including a late clicking attack - was good enough to tame the fired-up Wolves who grabbed an early lead and hung on to claim its first Wayne-Oakland triumph of the season.

The Mustang loss - second in a row – leaves the Northville eleven (1-2) in a two-way tie for fourth place with the new W-O contestant, Waterford Kettering. Clarkston is in fifth place, just a game in front of the cellar dwelling Bulldogs of Brighton.

West Bloomfield kept its streak of victories intact and remained on top of the W-O conference with a 39-20 triumph over Kettering. The Lakers now boast a 4-0 record, a full game over Milford and Bloomfield Andover tied for second with 3-1 records. Alone in third place with a 2-2 record is Clarenceville, the league's darkhorse.

Down by seven points as the seconds chipped away at the clock with less than a minute to play, the Mustangs moved to the Clarenceville 27 and appeared well on its way to scoring its second TD. But with first down and 27 yards to go, Northville passed right into the hands of the opponents and the interception smothered the last

The Wolves scored their first TD on their first series after forcing Northville to punt from its own 35. Moving forward on the ground, coupled with an important 32-yard pass play, Clarkston picked up a first down on the Northville four, inched to the one, and then Jeff Keyser punched his way over for the tally. Clarkston kept to the ground in adding the extra

Early in the second quarter, Clarkston again launched a successful drive that was temporarily halted by a Mustang recovery of one of its fumbles.

Starting on the Northville 45, the Wolves picked up a first down at the 34 and another at the 19 where Northville's Brian Myers jumped on a Clarkston fumble But two plays later Clarkston regained possession on a Northville fumble and resumed its march to the goal line. At the five,

Keyser rifled a pass to Bob Palladino for the TD. The extra point run attempt was stopped cold Northville took to the air in the third quarter, with End Fied Holdsworth snatching three passes. But at the Clarkston 15, the Wolves defense speared a Northville pass into the endzone to stop the threat.

With the start of the fourth quarter, Holdsworth made a superlative catch for a 33-yard gain but a penalty nullified the catch and Northville was forced to punt Minutes later Northville's Halfback Dave Coe came up with a beautiful catch for a big gainer but once again the drive was stopped.

Then with less than three minutes to play, Holdsworth hauled down another pass at the 12 yard line Three plays later, Richard Adams plunged over from the one for Northville's lone score. The extra point kick hit the upright and fell short.

It was at this point, with 1 45 left on the clock, that Northville purposely kicked short and fell on the ball near the 50-yard line. But the subsequent desperate drive was halted by the interception

BLOOMFIELD HILLS - The Knights marched through the Wildcats at will as they chalked up a quick touchdown here Friday afternoon.

But Novi's Wildcats found this just the tonic they needed to get them started. Three quarters after they had scored, the Bloomfield Hills Lahser squad wished it had never scheduled Novi, as they fell before the Wildcats' power, 26-7.

The ease with which Lahser moved the ball to their touchdown did not daunt the Wildcats. Unable to penetrate the rugged Knights' defensive line, Gary Boyer took to the air and hit paydirt by reaching his brother Tom on a four yarder. Jon Van Wagner was wide left on the PAT attempt and Novi trailed 7-6 at the half.

Someone failed to feed the 'Cats at halftime so they were plenty hungry when they returned to the field.

The play moved back and forth over the gridiron, but it inched toward the Lahser end as the Novi gridders eared the more fourth down and eight, star runner and punter Jeff Kezlarıan dropped back to cause as kidney disease. One kidney, they said, had been destroyed at birth and now the other was failing rapidly.

"It happened so fast. I just couldn't believe it. All those medical terms... I didn't know what they meant. I was frightened, so was Cathy. Then I called the Kidney Foundation. Believe me, warmth and understanding from someone familiar with your problem is a real blessing."

Doctors gave the mother a choice: either her daughter had to have a kidney transplant or live the remainder of her life on a kidney machine.

"For me it wasn't a choice. I wanted my daughter to be normal again."

The mother volunteered her own kidney and after weeks of testing and with funds contributed by friends, relatives "and people I didn't even know" she and her daughter went to a Cleveland hospital for the transplant

There Cathy grew steadily worse, living from day to day on the kidney machine. But her mental health was even more alarming. She became so despondent that doctors were unable to operate. "She just lost her will to live," recalled the mother. Poisons in her body had swelled her weight from 125 pounds to 185.

After three months, mother and daughter returned to Detroit. By now her weight had shrunk to 70 pounds. At home and among friends and relatives, Cathy suddenly regained a spark of her former vitality even though she could not remember Cleveland at all.

But because no kidney machines were available for several weeks, Mrs. Wallis grew frantic. Her daughter was dying and there seemed to be no solution. Fortunately, through her sister, who is a nun at Grand Rapids, and her doctor Cathy was taken to that city where a machine was made

Doctors at Grand Rapids were amazed the little girl had survived so long without a kidney machine. There, following surgery for infections and a bout with pneumonia, she began to

"By January she was walking again and was mentally well. She had lost all her hair but was beginning to look like the little girl we knew a few months before," said Mrs. Wallis.

Hoping Cathy was now ready for the transplant, Mrs. Wallis took her daughter to Ann Arbor, bought her a new suit of clothes and a pretty wig ("it made her smile for the first time"), and left her in the hands of a University research staff.

When doctors were sure Cathy was mentally and physically ready the transplant was performed "in about

Mrs. Wallis, explaining that the transplant did not affect her own health, said the operation "seemed so simple after all Cathy had gone through.'

But for weeks the new kidney failed to function and both mother and daughter grew alarmed. Once again her daughter began to lose hope. Then, "just when everything seemed so bad a nurse gave me the good news: the kidney was beginning to work."

To ensure that her body would not reject the kidney, Cathy was given large quantities of expensive drugs that she still receives today. While they did the job, they also changed her pretty features. "Her face and neck puffed way up, her eyes became hollows. she just looked terrible. It made her feel so

When Cathy was released from the hospital and began school here this fall she was naturally self-conscious. "When some of the kids made fun of her, she'd cry at night and I thought we were headed for the same thing at Cleveland again." So Cathy was removed from school and presently receives her schooling from a visiting teacher.

She's physically well now, explained Mrs. Wallis, and can do many of the things that a girl her age can do.

"But best of all," said the mother, "Cathy hasn't given up hope. She's still my lovely daughter, and someday... soon... Cathy's going to smile when she looks in the mirror.'

level, and 12.5 were in the special services area.

"With all positions filled, we have 38 new teachers for 1968-69," he reported. "This represents 28-percent of our staff."

The newly employed teachers have an average of two years experience. Median service of these 38 was pegged at one year. He said 53 percent of the newly employed teachers have had previous teaching experience, while the remainder have none.

There are a total of 137 teachers in the system now, including a new one approved for hiring Monday night. Mrs. Naomi Poe of Farmington was hired to replace James Hudson for the remainder of the year at a salary of $6,717.78.

Spear listed the following reasons for the 40 teachers leaving the system: Thirteen because their husbands moved; five maternity; three

Kappa Delta Goes Creative

The home of Mrs. Harry Hayward, 14510 Fairway Drive, Livonia, will be the scene of the monthly meeting of Northwest Suburban Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta at 8:30 p.m. on Monday, October 21, with Mrs. Robert Williams as co-hostess.

Originality and creative aptitude will be in demand as the women will make Christmas stockings and favors to send to Kappa Delta's national philanthropy, which is the Crippled Children's Hospital, Richmond, Virginia.

The sorority's national Founders' Day tribute, celebrating seventy-one years of activity since its start, will be celebrated locally at a Founders' Day luncheon on October 26 at the Detroit Art Institute, to which members of all metropolitan KD groups are invited.

Kappa Delta alumnae who have not been contacted, or are new in the areas of Plymouth, Northville, Garden City, Farmington, Livonia, Redford Township and northwest Detroit, are encouraged to call Mrs. James Frederick, president, at 474-7649, or Mrs. Glenn Hunter, 537-2547. The association meets on the third Monday of each month.

RESOLUTION CITY OF NORTHVILLE

The Northville City Council, at its regular meeting of October 7th, 1968, adopted the following resolution:

WHEREAS, the water pollution problem in Michigan is growing more critical and, with our expanding population, will continually increase in magnitude, and

WHEREAS, the Governor recommended and Legislature enacted in 1968 a program designed to achieve the goal of water pollution control in Michigan by 1980, and

WHEREAS, the key element in this program is the approval by the electorate at the November, 1968 general election of the proposed No. 335 million State bond issue to finance the State's share of the cost of achieving this goal, and

WHEREAS, the proposed State bond issue also includes pre-financing a portion of the Federal share of the program and includes financing of loans to local units of government, and

WHEREAS, the achievement of the goal of water pollution control in Michigan is in the best interest of all cities and villages; NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, That the City of Northville, in Convention assembled this 19th day of September, 1968, urges all citizens to vote "YES" on the question of the $335 million water pollution control bond issue at the November General

Pastor Speaks on Bible Week

"The tensions of our times and the day-to-day demands of our furiously stirring world require a reservoir of spiritual strength and renewal both for survival and meaningful living," Fred Trachsel minister of Orchard Hills Baptist Church said this week in urging citizens of the area to participate in National Bible Week, October 20 to 28 and Worldwide Bible Reading which continues until Thanksgiving.

"It was this deep sense of urgency that motivated businessmen to create the Laymen's National Committee, Inc., which will join forces with the American Bible Society this year in publicizing Worldwide Bible Reading."

Worldwide Bible Reading was born in the travail of Guadalcanal 24 years ago. "I am writing you, Mom," said a lonely Marine, "to ask that you read with me a chapter each day. I have been reading my New Testament which the chaplain gave me from the American Bible Society..."

This year will mark the 151st anniversary of the Society's donation and distribution of Scriptures to the military, which began with a gift of 65 Bibles to the crewmen of the USS John Adams in 1817.

"A 'family' of Bible readers has created a spiritual bond by reading the same selections each day during Worldwide Bible Reading," said Fred Trachsel "when millions pause and turn toward their Creator." More than 300 million free bookmarks with daily selections have been distributed by the ABS since 1943.

Pastor Trachsel said the Church Plans Adult Classes

The first evangelistic program in the history of Spirit Lutheran Church, will culminate with a six week adult study and discussion Wednesday, October 23.

Classes will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the church, 34563 West Seven Mile Road, Livonia.

According to the discussion leader, Pastor William D. Wolfe, "our purpose is to help adult people think through carefully the meaning of the Christian faith and the help make Christianity more relevant to all who participate."

The program will offer adults an opportunity to discuss informally the fundamentals of Christian opportunity to ask questions and express their thoughts as they wish, he said.

A. A. Enders, evangelism committee chairman, noting that Spirit Lutheran has a number of members in this area, there is no obligation on the part of persons wishing to attend the classes to become members of the church. Persons wishing to enroll or obtain additional information are asked to call Pastor Wolfe at 476-3818 or 591-6565.

bookmarks are offered this year through Orchard Hills Baptist Church and the public library in Northville.

Are You Living In Present?

How a better understanding of eternity can help us to happier and more meaningful daily living will be the theme of a Christian Science lecture to be given in Plymouth, Friday, October

Josephine H. Carver, C.S.B., of Boston will speak in First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1100 North Ann Arbor Trail at 8:00 p.m. Her lecture is titled "Are You Living in the Present?" It is free and open to the public.

Mrs. Carver, who has been active in the Christian Science healing ministry for many years, is now on tour as a member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

A graduate of Occidental College in Los Angeles, she also holds a degree from Columbia University,

FIVE YEARS AGO...

... Northville was preparing to meet Milford in the homecoming game. Presbyterian Men's Club was preparing for it by having a pancake supper just prior to the game at the church fellowship hall.

...Nila Magidoff was substituted at the last moment for actor Walter Slezak at the Northville Town Hall series opener. Miss Magidoff, who was originally scheduled for later in the season, spoke on returning to her native Russia as an American tourist.

...Petitions seeking the removal of the, early morning and afternoon parking ban between Main and Dunlap were at odds with a report on traffic survey results submitted by the city manager which indicated that an extension of the hours included in the ban was the proper direction in which annual Employees Recognition Dinner sponsored by the City of Northville. Councilman Fred Kester was chairman with Attorney Clifton Hill as master of ceremonies and Wayne County Circuit Judge John Wise as principle speaker.

TEN YEARS AGO...

...Scores of volunteers rang doorbells as the Northville 1958 United Foundation Torch Drive began. Assisted by about 100 women, Mrs. William Cansfield handled the women's residential and small business solicitation.

Other key Northville people in the 58 drive were Alvin Skow, John Robertson, Bruce Turnbull, Mrs. Charles Hall, Miss Ruth Knapp, Mrs. R. G. Nelson and Mrs. Marshall Huff.

..School Superintendent Russell H. Amerman took a dim view of possibilities for building a new elementary school under Northville's present $3 million bond-vote agreement in a report to the school

Economical use of the funds had left $640,000 with which to build a new elementary school if the public could give permission for this use of the money, Amerman pointed out.

...The Record had to make corrections in a large number of school bonds for Manufacturers National Bank whén the original printer, Glenn Cummings of Plymouth, lost his plant due to a sudden fire.

...Fifty prize photographs were on display in the Northville community building. The display was to include two photos by Harold Hartley, a Northville High School junior, which won awards for him in Kodak's annual

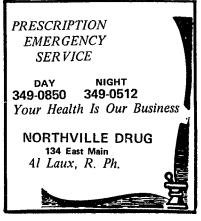

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO...

...Senator Homer Ferguson and Representative Charles Oakman, prominent Michigan political figures, spoke before Northville service clubs as part of the Village's observance of United Nations Week.

...Northville Police Chief Joe Denton announced the opening of a state and local traffic safety campaign aimed at reducing accidents to pedestrians.

...A total of 154 children assembled at the Northville Elementary School to receive toxoid shots and vaccinations. Miss Ruth Knapp, R.N., school nurse administered the shots with the assistance of Mrs. William Weidner, Mrs. James Cowie, Mrs. Lawrence Hilts and Mrs. M. J. Willing.

...Northville High School had ten candidates to choose from as they selected a Homecoming queen for the big game against Center Line.

...Perry Hayden, the "Quaker Miller" of Tecumseh, Michigan, who planted a cubic inch of wheat in 1940 that fed thousands of starving people in Europe in 1946, and with Henry Ford thus staged the most dramatic tithing experiment in history, was the speaker and showed his color sound movie "God Is My Landlord" at the Presbyterian Church House.

... The Mustangs won their third straight game of the season, defeating Holly 24-7.

...The Methodist Young Adult Group received a picture from Abo, Finland, in thanks for their relief project for that city.

Group President Andy Orphan was assisted in the project by Mrs. Glenn

...Jimmy Creed set a new track record for the mile at Northville Downs by covering the distance in 2:03-3/5.

...The Northville Recreation Committee announced that memberships in the fall and winter hobby classes were still open to citizens of the community.

Walter L. Couse of West Seven Mile Road was appointed by Senator Homer Capehart of Indiana to serve on the Advisory Council of the Senate Committée on Trade Policies.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGONorthville oversubscribed the Third War Loan by 36 per cent thanks to the efforts of the "E" Bond Fathers.

... The Detroit Symphony Orchestra of 80 musicians, led by Ilya Schkolnik, played a good-will concert in the Northville High School auditorium. Local arrangements were completed with American Federation of Musicians President James C. Petrillo by Jack Ferentz, president of the Detroit Federation, Northville Mayor Perrin and Leslie G. Lee of the high school.

...Fred A. Casterline and his father, Ray J., were considered great benefactors for deeding the Neal property to the Legion for the new Veterans' Memorial Hall.

...Having lost 6-0 in each of their first two games, (with Keego Harbor and Milford,), the Mustangs prepared to meet Redford Union here.

...Ted Hall, National president of the Exchanges Clubs, was the guest speaker at the joint meeting of the Exchange and Rotary.

...The University of Michigan Alumni Club held their annual meeting and banquet in honor of 1943 Northville graduates entering the University at the Presbyterian Church.

Club president Jack Blackburn introduced the guest speaker, University Professor Wesley H. Maurer.

...Division Manager David L. Brown urged Consumers Power Company gas customers to cooperate with the War production Board's program of eliminating waste and unnecessary use of gas. THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO...

...Dr. Henry Stuart Willis, laboratory head, succeeded Dr. Bruce H. Douglas as medical director of the Maybury Sanatorium.

...The Northville High School and community band received praise at the Republican rally which was held at ...Rumors that the Gordon Baking Company plant on East Base Line Road had been sold and would become a distillery were confirmed.

... A discussion of the water supply improvements that were planned for Northville if the community received its proposed $21,000 loan from the federal government was given by Village Attorney F. J. Cochran at the Methodist church house.

...Miss Irene Fennell took over the ownership of Sessions Hospital when she bought the building from Mrs. Ed

...William and Roy Booth reported that the golf course they were building on their farm was nearing completion. July 4, 1934 was the target date for the official opening.

Ken M. Smith Receives Post At Kensington

A member of the purchasing department staff of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has been promoted to assistant pank superintendent at Kensington Metropolitan Park near New Hudson.

He is Kenneth M. Smith, who was graduated from Michigan State University in 1954 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in business administration and who has been a Buyer with the Authority since 1964.

This was announced this week by Kenneth L. Hallenbeck, director of the Authority, which has a chain of eight parks throughout the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne.

Smith, who was graduated from Milford High School in 1949, previously worked at Kensington Park as a lifeguard during the summers of 1951 through 1953. Before joining the Authority, he worked in the sales departments of the Standard Oil Company headquarters in Detroit and the Atlantic Refining Company in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

He is a member of the American Park and Recreation Society, a national professional group with headquarters in Washington, D.C. In March of 1968 he was elected to a three-year term as a member of the Board of Regents of the Revenue Sources Management School, an extension service of North Carolina State University and affiliated with the National Parks and Recreation Association. For three years he also attended the Revenue Sources Management School held at Oglebay Park in Wheeling, West Virginia.

In March he was elected to his second two-year term on the Romeo Village Council and was appointed Council Representative on the Romeo Planning Commission.

During the last four years, Smith has worked at the Authority's headquarters in Detroit, but expects to move into the Milford area in the near

WHEN IT'S TIME TO ACT

You can't cut corners when it comes to Auto Insurance. You need the most protection you can get for your money. We see that you get the financial protection you need.

Lee Sun Hee of Seoul, Korea has been financially adopted by the student council through the Foster Parents Plan, Inc. of New York City.

The Foster Parents responsibility is financial, not legal and the child grows up within his own family.

The $16 a month (or $192 a year) contributed by the Foster Parent through PLAN for a minimum of one year, provides a monthly cast grant, supplementary new clothing and household goods carefully selected to meet the needs in each area.

In addition PLAN offers medical care when called for, primary school education and in some cases vocational training. The family receives guidance and counseling from the North American Director and a staff of trained local case workers.

Little Sun Hee has a sister and three brothers. Her widowed mother has little education or specialized training and she can earn no more than 37-cents a day. She is employed as an embroiderer of pillows.

Lee Sun's father died of a severe hemorrhage in 1963.

Following her husband's death, Mrs. Hee had so little money that her family was near starvation. Now, with a job, she still has very little and the children often do not have enough to

The family's home is a rented room, small and dark, even at noon.

Sun Hee is a first grader, loves school and, according to Foster Parents officials, she does her lessons faithfully and says she wants to be a school teacher.

State Approves Novi Tax Notes

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, Chairman of the Municipal Finance Commission, this week announced that the Commission approved $200,000 for Tax Anticipation Notes for Novi Community School District.

Attorney General Kelley said, "The proceeds from the sale of these notes are to be dated October 16, 1968; are to be due April 30, 1969; and will carry a maximum interest rate of 4 percent."

county and City of Detroit institutions have been billed for tuition of students in the Northville school system who reside on property of these governing Total tuition of these students was billed at $13,890.36.

Copies of the extraordinary billings, together with an explaining letter, was sent to Governor George Romney. Specifically, the billings include:

City of Detroit - A total of $4,241.94 for eight students attending Northville schools from the Maybury Sanatorium property. City of Detroit - A total of $1,598.16 for three students living on Detroit House of Correction property.

Wayne County Board of Supervisors - A total of $1,075.35 for two students hving on the Wayne County Child Development Center

State Department of Health - A total of $6,974.91 for 13 students living on the property of the Northville State Hospital property.

Billing of these governmental agencies was authorized several weeks ago by the Northville Board of Education, which has repeatedly voiced concern that Northville provides the education of these children without benefit of either tax dollars or tuition.

The letter to the governor read in

"The Northville Public Schools, has many times, pleaded without avail, their case for relief of our taxpayers due to the large amount of non-taxed developed land within our District, best interest to the people in this country.

McDonald, Frink Lock Horns over Vietnam

"When I say I am a 'human liberal', I mean I think everyone has the right to compete for jobs, everyone has the right to compete for housing, everyone has a right to live as they please. And in matters pertaining to civil rights, to matters pertaining to human rights, I am a liberal."

On specific issues, McDonald says

—sees no particular benefit resulting from the halting of all bombing in Vietnam, and that if peace efforts fail in Paris he would favor stronger military effort to force North Vietnam to negotiate positively.

-favors lowering of the voting age qualification of all citizens.

-favors immediate overhauling of the electoral college process.

—believes those who are quick to attach racial overtones to crime laws generally are those who live in the suburbs and who fail to realize that most of the crimes in the ghettos are committed against the Negro who needs protection.

-sees no threat to his own candidacy by Governor Wallace, with whom he disagrees.

-supports Richard Nixon although he originally pushed for the nomination of Governor Romney and later Governor Rockefeller.

On Vietnam he says:

"I think this country has to decide very soon whether or not they feel the present negotiations in Paris are going to reach any successful conclusion, and if not, I think then they have to make the decision as to whether or not they feel that accelerating the military action would help bring better response at the conference table or whether they have completed their activities there and should remove the troops."

Pointing out that he has called for Congressional re-evaluation of the matter, he says he personally believes at this point, based upon present information, that the United States should "apply stronger military pressure in order to bring them to the conference table."

This position, says McDonald, is similar to that of Nixon, who he contends has been far more explicit on the subject than has Vice-President Humphrey.

"Mr. Nixon feels as I do that the best way is a political solution, but I think as he does that the ground work has to be laid for that political solution. It appears as though the bombing halt — partial bombing halt — has enabled the North Vietnamese to greatly strengthen their forces and the forces of the VietCong in the South and that it hasn't done any good as far as we know to bring any successful change in the attitude of the North Vietnamese at the conference table in Paris."

His position, he explains, is that of the military, of the South Vietnamse government, and of almost everyone "except perhaps with the politician or those who feel we shouldn't be involved there at all", namely that secession of all bombing would be of little value.

Concerning the argument that Nixon is hiding behind the peace talks to avoid speaking out on Vietnam, McDonald strongly refutes it, pointing out that Nixon has been far more positive on the subject than the wavering vice president. However, he wavering vice president. However, he suggests that it would be unwise for Nixon to tip his hand to the enemy (North Vietnam) to dispel criticism by Democrats.

Although McDonald says he first supported Governor Romney and then Governor Rockefeller for the presidency, he is "very satisfied with our nominee, Richard Nixon." In retrospect, says McDonald, he may have been wrong in supporting Rockefeller because "I don't think he could have welded the party together as well as Richard Nixon has. I think Nixon has done a tremendous job in weldingthe Republican party together, and I think for the good of the two-party system it is terribly important to have strong parties. The Democratic party, under Hubert Humphrey, has been unable to be welded together."

Concerning Governor Wallace, the congressman contends Wallace poses a far greater threat to the Democratic Party than it does to the Republican Party. "I think probably the majority of votes that will be cast for Governor Wallace will be cast by people who ordinarily would vote on the Democratic column, and in many cases, perhaps, they haven't been voting in the right column because they haven't believed in the policies of the Democratic party. The Wallace candidacy, then, gives them a chance to strike out, or gives them a chance to rebel, a chance to demonstrate that they are not happy with the programs and policies of the Democratic Party... Asked to comment on Wallace, McDonald says "I support Mr. Nixon. I don't think that Mr. Wallace is qualified to be the president. I don't think he has had the experience. And I haven't as yet heard him talk about any solutions to the problems. I've heard him point up all the problems — and we have our share in this country and I think he's done a marvelous job with that — but I haven't heard him espouse to any extent the solutions of the problems."

The single most important issue in this campaign, says the congressman, is "crime in the streets." He points to the "permissiveness" in the nation's society as generally being the root cause in the increase of crime. And this permissiveness starts at the family level.

Furthermore, the "attitude generally of elected officials—particularly of judges from the local level to the state judges and the federal judges— in their feeling or compassion for the criminal... "Is a cause, he contends. Specifically, he points to the "granting of pardons to far too many people who, in the largest majority of the times, are returned to prison for committing more crime.

"A lot of people blame our crime on the Supreme Court or a great deal of it. I think that some blame does rest there. However, I think probably more of the blame comes right down to the family or the individual and to our local court."

Recent legislation aimed at providing money for police training helps tackle the problem, McDonald contends. But he suggests further that "new laws could be passed that are concerned with the heart of the crime problem - organized crime - and then from the top filtering down to the crime on the streets. By that I mean stronger laws giving the federal officers authority to enter places and secure evidence without a warrant when they think that this evidence may be destroyed because of a time lapse. In narcotics cases it would mean they could have better control over narcotics and it's proven that much of the crime on the streets is caused by people who are trying to get money to buy narcotics - especially in our big cities. So giving the federal government this power would help, and I've introduced a bill, by the way, that would do that.

"I also introduced a bill that would allow federal agents to stop automobiles on the highway, if they were suspect of being stolen and suspect of being carried across state line, for the purpose of checking the serial number and the motor number of the vehicles... In the past eight or ten years the traffic across state lines of stolen cars is greatly on the increase... I think around 250-percent increase. "Organized crime has been successful to some extent because they have been able to take the profit from illegal operations... and putting this money then into legitimate business operations... So we've introduced a bill that would make it a federal offense to use money to develop legitimate business... with ill-gotten gains.'

"...Federal legislation that gives the police department more power is essential.

"And one final thing I think that would help is legislation... that would spell out in detail the powers of the federal, state and local officer concerned with the admission of evidence in the courtroom.

Combatting crime, asserts McDonald, is absolutely not a slap at the Negro. "The majority of the crime in the cities of America is committed against Negroes. They live in the highest crime areas. They are the ones who are taking the brunt of the crime on the street. In most cases, it's the black person who is unable to walk the streets at night because he happens to live in an area that is very dangerous. Many crimes are committed by black people, but a majority of those are committed against black people. And people living in these dangerous areas are more interested in protection.

"I think it's about time that some people who criticize from the suburbs spend a little time in the cities and find out what the situation really is. I think we get more criticism for using the term 'law and order' from the do-gooder in the white suburbs than we get from the people who need the help in the black ghettos."

McDonald favors more federal aid to education, but he qualifies the method of support. "I think federal funds should not come back in the way of categoric grants as they are now, but should be distributed as block grants to the states and to the local districts — Making certain that the money that is collected from all of the people is used for all of the people.

"In the state of Michigan I think it would be far better to have federal money come to the state and local communities for whatever purpose they think necessary..."

Similarly, McDonald contends the government wrongly allocates federal monies for specific projects. He cites an example a grant given Redford Township when he was supervisor.

"There was a slackening of the economy and money was given to an accelerated public works program. Money was made available on a 50-50 matching basis for local communities to build such things as a fire hall. I made application to Washington and built a fire hall, paid 50-percent of the cost and the federal government paid 50-percent because the money was there. So what did I do? I looked all over my community to find a situation that would fit a program in Washington. I spent 50-percent of the cost of that fire hall at a time when I should have been spending the money for more firemen. But I couldn't let this 'good deal' go by to get the federal

"I think in education and in all other areas we find the came situation — categorical grants. That's the way the federal government dispurses money to the states. So every state, every city, and every township and every county attempts to find the situation in their area that fits into a federal pigeon hole somewhere so that they can get money from the federal government.

"The solution to that is, I think, federal revenue sharing where the federal government does one of two things: they either share part of the federal taxes collected with the state and the states in turn with the local communities, or they give a direct tax credit to the individual for the amount of money that they pay in specific state taxes...

"Then you're giving the local communities and the states an opportunity to raise money. So you do away with these categorical programs and you allow the local communities and the states to spend the money the way they think it should best be spent — within some guidelines. One important guideline is that the money is spent for all of the people and collected from all the people."

Hitting hard at his opponent's "inexperience," McDonald emphasizes his own role, pointing out that his past 10 years have been dedicated to government.

Republican Party together."

McDonald stands on this issue because we haven't heard. Jack hasn't said anything."

What about his own stand on Vietnam?

"I believe our posture in Southeast Asia and in Vietnam is untenable. My four years in Washington has convinced me that we're not there to save South Vietnam for the freedom loving South Vietnamese people. We're there because we are trying to contain Red China, a nation of 700 million people, on her own mainland, 10,000 miles from home with an expeditionary force of 540,000 men. I don't believe that is a tenable position for us to be in. I don't think we can win it short of nuclear weapons - which I don't advocate - or short of blowing North Vietnam off the face of the map, which I am convinced would get us into war with China.

"We're also dealing with probably one of the most corrupt — if not the most corrupt — governments now in existence. The war has become Americanized — we're fighting-it.

"I think we should go with the peace talks, stay with them, but if it comes to that point where eyerybody in America knows the peace talks are over and it's either escalate and literally destroy North Vietnam — and I'm convinced that's the only way we're going to win it and I'm convinced if the talks fail it's going to be a win or get out philosophy — or those people are going to hold sway... When it comes to that point the thing has got to be de-Americanized and we've got to support them if they want to keep fighting but we've got to get out of there

"Slowly de-Americanize the war — slowly turn the war over to them."

Frink s'ays he supports Vice-President Humphrey's proposal to end all bombing in Vietnam but that he sees little hope that this step would lead to peace since most of the bombing has already stopped.

He refutes the argument that the United States must remain there to "save face". "I think a great nation can admit to itself that it made a mistake. Look at DeGaulle. Look at what DeGaulle did in Algeria. Talk about vital interests. Algeria was a state of France. Their people had been there for 200 years, and there were how many, 400,000 Frenchmen in the Algeria? And he just one day said, 'it's untenable'. That's it. It's over. Their own state - it's just like us taking Michigan or Alaska after 200 years and just cutting it loose. And yet France has survived and DeGaulle has survived. And the world hasn't changed; there's been no great loss of face."

Concerning Humphrey, Frink says that prior to the election he "preferred to run with McCarthy but I would like to see Hubert Humphrey president."

"I don't really go with some of my friends who say Hubert Humphrey is a totally changed man in those four years, and that the Hubert Humphrey administration would simply be a continuation of L. B. Johnson. I don't believe that at all. Humphrey was out of touch with a lot of what was going on, was trapped by war, and had alienated support that would have naturally been his because of his support for the president."

Humphrey, he insists, is the same man who while in the Senate and earlier fought for those things that both parties today espouse.

On the political spectrum, Frink places himself "a little left of center and (McDonald) is very far right. He has an 81 ACA record. I'll put it into context for you. Strom Thurmond has a 100, Jack McDonald has 81, Martha Griffiths has 15, and Jim O'Hare has 4."

"I think I can give a fresh outlook to Congress that my

the issues', oh, that's disgraceful."

The Democratic candidate admits that Governor Wallace has a substantial number of votes in the 19th District. "There's no question in my mind that the voters who vote for Wallace this time are traditional Democratic votes. OK? So on that basis the Democrats lose. But I'm also convinced that in the 1968 presidential year they would be voting for Nixon because Nixon is closer to their view on the race thing and that's their big thing.

"There have been no anti-Negro presidential candidates around for a long time, so these people have been waiting for this guy (Wallace). And I think that they would have — though they were traditional Democrats — if there hadn't been a Wallace they would have gone to Nixon, who is playing the racial game in a much more sophisticated way.

"Governor Wallace is a bright, clever guy who is pandering on some real fears of the American people. I am convinced that his campaign is anti-Negro, purely and simply."

Concerning the crime issue, Frink points to the number of crimes committed by youth. "Fifty percent of all people arrested in the United States for major crimes are between the ages of 11 and 17. Now think of that one for a minute. I think that would be indicative of a break down in the family in the city and that could be traced back, maybe, partially to our welfare programs which I believe have to be revised and changed.

It also speaks very poorly of our treatment of these young people once we have them under custody. Our reformatories really don't come near what should be done to provide psychological help, rehabilitative training, so that when you have them you're just not making harder criminals... but that you really try, as much as humanly possible with our knowledge of behavior science, to change these kids so that when they go back out on the streets they don't continue in this criminal behavior.

"That's something the Federal government can do, certainly, in addition to helping train police and providing salary incentives for police.

"Also 50-percent of the juvenile judges in this country don't have law degrees which doesn't speak very highly for our thrust and focus on this particular part of the crime problem."

How would he change the welfare system?

"I think there has to be much more emphasis put on jobs - training people on the job much in the way of the General Motors, Ford and Chrysler programs. Taking the hardcore unemployed and doing whatever is necessary - holding their hand, psychological help, really staying with 'em - because you're taking people essentially who have never been in the middle class, never been on the money economy - guys, let's face it, who are hustlers. That's what you mean by the hard-core unemployed. You're talking about a guy who lives off the street, who never has had to be regulated, disciplined.

"I think it is the proper role of the government to subsidize corporations to provide these people the training. I think this is better than our old system of setting up training programs and then sending them to X corporation where they have to be trained over again...

"There are always going to be the infirmed, the incompetent, the aged who need help. Through our present welfare system we are spending 4 to 5 billion dollars a year much of which is going to administrative costs because the income is linked to the social work and the social worker. I think it is better to give money directly to those which society deems should receive income maintenance....

"The social worker now is less effective because so much of their time is spent dealing with these forms that are involved with the income maintenance system. So I don't know—if you want to call it negative income tax or whatever, but get the money to them directly and let them spend it on the economy.

"Since we've had the ADC system I think it has been largely a failure. This business of giving money to a woman for her children and then forcing a man out of the home..." is wrong.

While advocating changes, Frink disagrees with Republicans who advocate scrapping whole programs to save money.

"Where are we going to make all these vast savings? I'm for making government more efficient... sure as large as the federal government is, it's going to be inefficient in certain spots and money can be saved by making it more efficient. But I just don't truck with this business that we can save vast sums of money by chopping away at the social program. Where's it going to be? Education?"

Frink sees the urban problems as the biggest facing the nation. "The deterioration of the city as a viable healthful place for people to live... is a prime issue."

He says also that the nation's tax structure must be reformed. "The 27-percent depletion is one, the way whereby wealthy citizens can transfer appreciations in property, etc. We've got to make our tax system much more equitable than it now is, as it is largely falling on the wage earner now."

In/ this area he criticizes his opponent for saying and going two different things. "Mr. McDonald wrote a newsletter to 150,000 people and stated that he was against the surfax and then he voted for it. I don't think that's playing the game fairly. On the facts as I had them I probably would have voted for the surfax but I wouldn't have written a letter to the people telling them I wouldn't vote for it. Again, that's another misuse of this junk mail."

On the subject of federal aid to education, Frink says he is uncertain as to what greater role the federal government might play in this area. However, he "would consider a system whereby we could get hunks of federal money into states for education. When you talk about playing a big role then it sounds like this business of controlling education through the federal government. I don't mean that. I'm talking about the 'block grant' idea - the federal government giving money in chunks rather than in categorical granting. The elementary and secondary education bill now is a categorical grant program... they'll give you money for experimentation, new teaching ideas, for certain equipment but they won't give you money for buildings, for salaries, etc.

"I would consider (block grants) instead. I'm not advocating it. I would prefer that income for schools — for local public education schools — be derived from state and local level."

He says he is unconvinced that state and local level financing methods have as yet been sufficiently explored to give the federal government the green light to "jump in".

"There is no question that as you talk to people and as you analyze this thing that the property tax on the local level has gone about as far as it can in supporting education. Some advocate and I tend to agree that we've got to look into financing of education on a state-wide basis out of general revenue. In the state now that would mean largely, through our state income tax. It also would rectify some of the inequities in education offered in various school districts."

The nation's draft law, says Frink, must be reformed but he admits that his thoughts in this area are not yet formalized. "I've been saying that there ought to be a lottery at age 19. But I'm thinking now that maybe we ought to register the kids at 17 and have the lottery then, making them - those whose lots are drawn - subject to the draft for a year at age 19. That would mean that all the kids who are not subject would know at age 17 that they were not going to be subject to the draft without a major war. They would be able to plan at age 17 their university career, training, job or whatever.

"I'm for the lottery concept."

The present draft law is unfair, he contends. "If you are fortunate enough to be accepted by the university, or Schoolcraft College to further your education, in years past you've been able to avoid the draft. I know. I was in law school with many guys who were there purely and simply because it

In Livonia

Battle Rages Over GOP Office

Republican headquarters in Livonia is raging this week following a Circuit Court retaining order issued October 4.

Marvin R. Stempien has focused attention on the party headquarters of Louis Schmidt, Stempien's opponent in the heated race for State Representative in the Livonia-Northville district.

The Five Mile Road headquarters building in which Schmidt is located is allegedly being illegally occupied in violation of the restraining order of Circuit Court Judge Edward S. Piggins.

The hangup is that the owner of the building, John Hubert, offered Stempien office space in the building but the present leasee, H. & R. Block, had sub-let the offices to Schmidt as a campaign headquarters.

Hubert reportedly had stipulated in the lease that Block obtain his. written permission before any sub-letting of the offices. He was never consulted and did not authorize the sub-letting, said Hubert.

Stempien charged that Schmidt has ignored the court order and is continuing use of the office.

Steve Polgar, who has been retained by Livonia Republicans, has advised the party to "sit tight and carry

Meanwhile, a show cause hearing is to be held tomorrow (Friday) in court.

"There's been a lot of talk, and I mean mere talk, by Schmidt about law and order. If this is an example of how much laws, even as small as this one, mean to Schmidt, I think the people of Livonia and Northville should be made very much aware of his attitude," Stempien said.

'To take the attitude that this particular legal order is relatively unimportant and can be ignored, reflects the lack of sincerity behind Schmidt's law and order claims, Stempien said.

Schmidt, on the other hand, labeled the issue a "political gimmick."

The Democratic challenger illustrated further examples of how he says the Schmidt team has "flaunted the law: Carl Purcel (Republican candidate for supervisor from Plymouth), a running mate of Schmidt's, has placed signs throughout the area directly on city and county right-of-ways, a direct violation of local ordinances."

College Slates GOP Address

Congressman Jack McDonald will speak on "1968: Political Prosepct" at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Thursday, October 17, as a guest lecturer on the Schoolcraft College fall term lecture

The 19th District Republican, who is seeking re-election to Congress on November 5, will speak in the Liberal Arts Building theater. Both speaking appearances are open to the public.

McDonald's Democratic opponent. Gary Frink, was a speaker at Schoolcraft last week.

John Lindsay Boosts Esch

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay will be in Ann Arbor on Friday, October 25, to boost the campaign of Republican Congressman Marvin Esch of the 2nd Congressional District.

Republican State Chairman Elly M. Peterson and Lieutenant Governor William G. Milliken, for two rallies in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area.

He will be present, along with

Judge Davis Speaks Here

Plymouth Municipal Judge Dunbar Davis, candidate for judge of the new District Court, addressed the probation counselors last week at a meeting held by the Northville Probation

Judge Davis who has served as visiting judge in Judge Philip Ogilvie's Northville court expressed his appreciation for "the outstanding work being done by his probation department under the direction of Probation Officer Dennis Dıldy," and stated his intention to continue with their program in the new District Court, if elected.

At the meeting of the Northville group, Judge Davis reported on the series of meetings, held under the direction of Circuit Court Judge Horace W. Gilmore, which he attended with other municipal judges for the purpose of establishing a qualified volunteer citizens probation system for suburban communities, similar to the Northville plan.

Judge Davis stated that at the last meeting with the Circuit Court Committee he was accompanied by the Rev. Ronald Phelps, chairman of the Plymouth Ministerial Association, Rodney Cannon, youth officer of the Plymouth Police Department, and Bob Waters of the Plymouth YMCA, who have expressed a desire to work in this type of program.

Oakland County Democrats Refute Statements of Todd

The Oakland County Democratic Committee, angered by statements made by Democratic candidate William E. Todd in a taped interview conducted by this newspaper, has released a statement refuting some of Todd's contentions.

Todd seeks the 60th District office of Republican Representative Clifford Smart of Walled Lake.

Following is the statement issued this week by George Googasian, chairman of the Oakland County Democratic Party and authorized by the Oakland County Democratic Committee:

The members of the Oakland County Democratic Committee wish to publicly disassociate themselves from certain statements of William E. Todd, Democratic candidate for the office of State Representative from the 60th District, as reported in the October 3rd. issue of The Northville Record-Novi News-South Lyon

Mr. Todd's statement that "there is a difference in smell" between Negroes and whites, but that "this don't make them inferior," is not only false, but tasteless and objectionable to all those citizens of both political parties who have worked so diligently for equality for all Americans.

We also regret Mr. Todd's statement that he doesn't "see anything wrong with the John Birch Society.

We believe the political extremism represented by the philosophy of the Society, which was condemned at the 1964 Democratic National Convention, to be a definite danger to the American

Finally, Mr. Todd asserted that he has "the Democratic support of (his) district as a Wallace supporter," and claimed the support of $\hat{73}$ per cent of the district electorate for Wallace. (Mr. Todd claimed that he, as a Wallace backer, had 73-percent of the district electorate. Ed.)

His estimates are in clear disagreement with several others made by reputable poll-takers, including the Detroit News, which place Mr. Wallace's support at about 20 percent of the state electorate.

We believe Mr. Todd's estimates to be highly inaccurate.

His support for Mr. Wallace is not shared by other Democratic candidates for office in this area.

Nor is it, we believe, shared by a majority of Democratic club members or union members, as Mr. Todd claims.

The Oakland County Democratic Committee, and the great majority of Democrats throughout Oakland County, enthusiastically support the candidacy of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Presidency of the United States.

OFFICIAL NOTICE OF SALE

$200,000.00 NOVI COMMUNITY SCHOOL DISTRICT

County of Oakland STATE OF MICHIGAN

TAX ANTICIPATION NOTES

Sealed bids for the purchase of tax anticipation notes of Novi Community School District, County of Oakland, Michigan, of the par value of $200,000.00 will be received by the undersigned at the 25549 Taft Road, Novi, Michigan, until 8:00 o'clock, P.M., EDT, on the 23rd day of October, 1968, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

The notes will be dated October 16, 1968, will mature April 30, 1969, and will bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 4% per annum. Both principal and interest will be payable at a bank or trust company located in the State of Michigan to be designated by the original purchaser of the notes which paying agent qualifies as such under the Statutes of the State of Michigan or of the Federal Government, subject to the approval of the school district. Denominations and form of notes to be at the option of the purchaser. Accrued interest to date of delivery of such notes must be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

The notes shall be subject to redemption in direct numerical order at par and accrued interest on the first day of any month prior to maturity upon 30 days' notice served by registered mail upon the known holder or holders thereof, or published in a newspaper or publication circulated in the State of Michigan which carries as a part of its regular service notices of the sale of municipal bonds and notes.

For the purpose of awarding the notes the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the notes from November 1, 1968, to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium. The notes will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest interest cost to the municipality. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the notes or at a price less than their par value will be considered.

The loan is in anticipation of the Operating Tax due and payable December 1, 1968.

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of 2% of the par value of the notes, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the notes. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of the purchaser's attorney approving the legality of the notes, to be secured at the purchaser's expense. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids. Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Notes"

Northville Township Board Minutes

Minutes of October 1, 1968 107 Wing Street

Meeting called to order at 8:10 p.m. by Supervisor Stromberg.

Present: Supervisor Stromberg, Clerk Hammond, Treasurer Lawrence, Trustees: Armstrong, Baldwin, Straub, Tellam, Consultants: Attorney Ashton and Engineer Mosher, Visitors and Press: 7, plus 4 representatives of Boron Oil Co. and Roanoke Hills Subdivision.

Minutes of Township Board Meetings of September 3 and 19, 1968 were approved as presented.

Treasurer's report for September, 1968 was approved. Both Baldwin and Stromberg expressed the feeling that the Board should start to set aside money to upgrade our fire protection. Possibly a committee should be set up to study into it.

Baldwin moved that the current Township bills be paid as submitted, seconded by Armstrong. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

Baldwin moved that the Planning Commission minutes of September 24, 1968 be accepted and filed, seconded by Tellam. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

The Appeal Board minutes of September 18, 1968 and the Water & Sewer Commission minutes of September 6, 1968 were accepted.

CORRESPONDENCE

1. Lapham vs. Township: Armstrong moved that the letter of September 23, 1968 from Draugelis & Ashton be accepted and filed. It stated that the Lapham Re-appeal had again been denied. Second by Tellam. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

2. Joint meeting - Planning Commission and Township Board: In a letter of October 1, 1968 the Township Planning Commission requested that the Township Board hold a joint meeting with the Commission and the Township Consultants at 8:00 p.m. on October 24, 1968. Tellam so moved, seconded by Baldwin. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

3. Traffic violations (School bus): Moved by Tellam and supported by Armstrong that Supervisor Stromberg talk with the County Road Commission and request signs be placed in strategic spots about the Township reminding the populace to stop when school buses stop. Ayes: All. Motion carried.

4. Bradner Rd. Assessment: Tellam moved that the letter of September 26, 1968 from the County Road Commission be accepted and filed, seconded by Straub. Ayes: All. Motion for The Record

There's probably no ingredient more important than "timing" to the success or failure of any undertaking. If it's just right, you're a hero; but if it's off...

It's true in sports, in politics and business.

A good hitter goes into a slump when his timing's off. A pitcher depends on good timing for proper release of the ball and hitting the corners of the plate.

And timing can make or break a politician - witness the careers of Romney, Nixon, LBJ, and the latest to prove his campaign is tuned to the times, George Wallace.

In business Ford Motor Company and American Motors can point to the Mustang and Rambler as products of good timing. But Ford would just as soon forget the Edsel.

Right now the city of Northville is a little bit worried about its timing.

Probably more than any other city of its size, Northville has taken the initiative in property acquisition in the business district. The long-range objective of the council is the redevelopment of the property into tax-rendering commercial enterprises.

Right now the city owns good-sized parcels of land in each of the four main blocks within the central business district. The latest acquisition was the Peterson property near the center of Main street between Center and Hutton and extending nearly to Dunlap.

Most of the acquisitions have been made by the city council, although the non-profit Northville Area Economic Development Committee has played a major role in several instances.

With the ink hardly dry on the last purchase the council is now faced with another opportunity... the Methodist church property.

Under its recently-adopted CBD plan the council projects the use of the church property for parking and commercial development.

Ideally, the council would hope that the Methodists could sell their 29,000 square feet within the central business district to a Commercial developer.

But, unfortunately, the "timing" may not yet be right.

How long will it be, many councilmen ask, before there will be 'brick and mortar' evidence of the city's wisdom in acquiring a central business district property?

Some councilmembers are becoming uneasy about acquisitions that are not followed by development.

Naturally, their biggest fear is taxpayer criticism of the use of their tax monies. Only time will tell whether our council has acted with keen foresight and wisdom, or has been the victim of poor timing. Those with greatest confidence in the future development of our business district would advocate the purchase of more property. And they encourage a greater emphasis on a campaign to sell the package they are acquiring.

They see the program as a "do-it-yourself" urban renewal project without federal funds or strings, without massive destruction of existing buildings and with the potential rewards of new business, taxbase and personal satisfaction of accomplishment.

Most of all, perhaps, the council needs reaction - from riprivate citizens and businessmen. Be it criticism or encouragement, response removes the feeling of sitting in a vacuum or being trapped « in a lull before a storm.

Clearly, the council's path has been built upon good intentions – but there's a saying about that, too.

Why don't you take the time to let your opinion be known on the city's continuing effort to convert deteriorating or residential property within the CBD into new commercial sites?

Sees Danger in Adult Drug Use Talk

As one who has had legal and profesional contact with drug abusers as well as meeting with former drug addicts on a weekly basis, I would like to relate my sincere interest in your editorial of last week, October 10, on drug abuse.

Readers Speak

I assume that such an editorial was written as an honest and valid indictment, stating the need of this community to face drug abuse and related problems. It is on this assumption that I regret the lack of reference to the public meeting presented by the Northville Probation Department on drug problems, presented by two residents of Synanon House in Detroit.

For those who are not aware. Synanon for drug addicts or potential drug users, is roughly equivalent to alcoholic lay groups for alcoholics. At the meeting here in Northville, where the Synanon members spoke, they presented a comprehensive summary of the problems leading to, through and out of drug use. The bulk of the meeting consisted of audience participation in a question and answer session with the two member panel from Synanon responding directly to the audience.

While the public and press had been invited to this probation officer's meeting, only the probation officers, three other adults and 10 teenagers outside the probation department, attended the meeting. It seems ironic that youth in this community are apparently anxious to receive educational programs on drugs, while adults in this community only make conversation about the problem, rather than taking advantage of what has already recently been initiated. Unfortunately, it would appear that many parents who appear disinterested now, are the last to know when their own child has experimented with

There is another danger of a different sort in the parent, who is, perhaps, overaware of the problem and tends to either distort or misrepresent the facts of drug abuse - namely, threating the youth as a common criminal should be experiment, tends to drive the youth further into the mire out of resisting rebellion.

The use of drugs is a vicious and demeaning way of escape. However, myths or misrepresentations used by adults, in confronting youth with the problem, only limit us in convincing them of the dangers, due to our own naivete'. A whole book could be written on the myths of prevention and rehabilitation of drug users, but a few examples can suffice.

1. It is a bad argument to tell youth a one sided argument, without discussing the other side of the coin. Such arguing only convinces a youth that you don't know what you're talking about or that, to say the least, you are extremely prejudice. For example, the Record Editorial offered the 'fact' that 79 percent of addicts began with marijuana. It is to be noted that this is not the same as saying 74 percent of all marijuana users became hard addicts, and yet most parents will argue this way. The concerned youth knows better. He knows the statistical difference and resents the erroneous implication. Likewise, if there were no such drugs such as the euphoric marijuana, this does not mean those 74 percent would not have reached hard drugs anyway.

Such consideration does not suggest that we should not warn youth about the possibilities, we should! Drugs are illegal. Despite what youth may think they can get out of using them, drugs will lead to stealing to support the habit more drugs, jail, blackmail and alienation of friends.

But while on drugs, an addict does not worry about all that. There are those, such as Synanon members, who Finally, it would seem that the real question for this community, would be attention to: "What causes our well to do youth, to turn to drugs for kicks?" It is well known that doctors have an occupational hazard of becoming drug addicts, more than any other occupation. Availibility and pressure are two important factors for this. Add who are to it boredom or parents too egotistical to really give time to their youth, and you have drug experimenting youth. I have yet to see many adults really concerned about drug use. A typical comment by parents of drug addicts used to be: "Not, my son, it can never happen here to me and mine." Perhaps the day we see at least as many adults at a meeting on drug use, as we saw teenagers, will be the day adults here are finally catching up with their sons and daughters.

It's not exactly a new book (1967), but Carl Benhase's "Ohio High School Football" has got to be an eye opener for everyone, with the possible exception of those who are thoroughly familiar with Ohio high school football.

The book is designed to serve as a guidepost for coaches who are wondering what makes a winner. And after reading Benhase's book, there should be little doubt in anyone's mind as to what must be done. The problem is doing it.

There must be a complege football program, Benhase contends. Local situations will dictate, but basically this means involvement of the whole community in the football program parents, students, players and coaches.

The program isn't limited to the football season or the three-week pre-season drills either. It's a year-round job of planning and preparing by coaches, parents and players in a concerted effort tomold a winner.

For coaches it means mapping out training schedules to the 4 nth degree, reviewing the previous year's performance, assessing the talent on hand, encouraging physical fitness and academic excellence, building community good will, and generally, promoting the school's football image.

For the parents, it means encouraging their sons and daughters to participate in the program, either as players, bandsmen, cheerleaders or boosters, and in this way, acting as boosters,

For players, it means rigorous physical conditioning, top classroom performance, single-minded devotion to a task at hand, working in close harmony with others, mental discipline, good attitude, and a drive to excel. The examples he cites give validity to Benhase's case. There's

Paul Brown and his unbelievable record at Massillon, Tony Mason, now in charge of the University of Michigan's offense, and his phenominal record in Niles-McKinley High School, ad infinitum. The most fantastic story is that of Massillon Washington High;

School, referred to as the high school football capital of the world, where winning is a tradition and a way of life for the whole community of 35,000 persons. There Paul Brown had a 33-game winning streak, Chuck

Mather from 1948 to 1953 won the state championship every year and posted a 57-3-0 record. From 1937 to 1942, the Massillon Tigers were undefeated in 52 consecutive games. Benhase put it mildly: "To produce a winner year after year there must be created a conducive environment for football." There are four active citizen clubs boosting football; there is a 21,000 seat $\frac{\circ}{3}$ stadium, a \$60,000 per year budget; 100,000 paid spectators every year, and a high school wing devoted to football alone.

Football proceeds help to support the yearbook, band, camera club, choir, chapel programs, audio-visual club, school paper, drama, student council, intramural program, speech and debate teams, basketball, swimming, wrestling, spring sports and the junior high school athletic programs.

"There is a philosophy," Benhase states, "that one (football) complements and supplements the other (academics), and the objective is to have a fine educational system and a fine athletic program." This, from the people of labor-class families.

A mania? Out of proportion? Perhaps. But as Benhase emphasizes, this is one way to produce a winner, a team behind which the entire town can congeal into a community that works for the common good.

Who would doubt what a winner can do for a community after the Tigers won the 1968 World Series?

That NASA spends millions on research is not Szczepanski's beef. It's the agency's stubborn refusal to listen to the suggestion of a little firm like International Diamond Tool Company.

While NASA was spending its millions on research, Szczepanski was already demonstrating a successful method of dry diamond drilling. And he was doing it just two blocks away from NASA headquarters in Washington, D. C.

He had been commissioned to drill 6,000 holes through solid concrete, granite and steel in the Cannon House Office Building where congressmen were having their offices remodeled. Romney's Budget Message: 'Hold The Line'

LANSING - "Hold the line" is the budget message from Gov. George Romney to state government agency heads as they begin fashioning their spending requests for the 1969 legislature.

Romney says times could get tough, what with the constant threat of inflation, and he's not about to ask for higher taxes next year.

"We must have prudent planning and a tight budget," the governor said. "There will be little or no room for new programs and major expansions of existing programs."

THE ADMINISTRATORS get the message, but some don't like it and are trying to convince Romney's budgetwriters they need more money.

First to receive public criticism was the governor's proposed "target" figure of $812.4 million for state school aid in fiscal 1969-70. This is a $34 million boost over this year's estimated total.

Dr. Ira Polley, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, says the figure is $27.7 million short of maintaining the state's present share of 45 per cent of school costs. This means, he adds, that local districts will be required to increase their financial support for schools by $61.8 million, necessitating an average 2.5 millage boost, or cut back educational programs.

"Such an increase (in millage) is unrealistic in light of recent voter reaction to requests for millage approval," Polley contends.

Meanwhile, State Budget Director Glenn Allen is stressing that the proposed "target" figures are only tentative and are subject to revision. "They're only work sheets. They're not final figures — they're a point from which to start," he says.

But on the other hand, he continues, "the point is to tell them (administrators) there isn't enough money for a lot of new programs. We don't shut them out completely but we make it pretty clear to them that they're just wasting their time."

OTHER EXAMPLES of Romney's "hold the line" budget plan:

State colleges and universities, which this year asked for $300 million and got $226.6 million, have been collectively assigned a "target" figure of $240.3 million.

The Mental Health Department, recipient of $916 million on budget increase this year, would receive about $6 million more next year.

The Department of Public Health, with a current budget of $19.3 million compared with the $20.8 million it requested, would get an increase of only $485,061.

BUDGET infighting wasn't cooled by the governor's report that the state treasury surplus at the start of the current fiscal year was nearly $56 million, nearly twice the amount forecast last January.

Romney warned the extra funds could be gobbled up in a hurry by steadily increasing costs of existing government programs and a reduction in federal matching money.

"It could quickly disappear if business activity declined," he said. "It would be entirely absorbed if, as part of the federal government economy move, grants to states were reduced.

The governor said the surplus resulted chiefly from management effiencies in government, larger-than-expected revenue collections and aggressive investment policies by State Treasurer Allison SURPRISE is the reaction of state officials to the disclosure that proposition No. 1 on the Nov. 5 ballot could bring a graduated income tax to cities as well as the state.

In placing the item before voters, the legislature thought it had restricted the controversial issue to the state

The state and cities with income tax laws now use a flat or fixed rate. The people must approve before a "sliding scale" can be used to figure how much each taxpayer owes his government.

Romney says he's against a graduated tax. He maintains the federal government has pre-empted that form of taxation and the state should leave well enough alone.

Concern whether the proposal is self-enacting or not was also voiced by the governor. He's asked Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley to clear up the matter.

"The people have a right to know this," Romney said.

If Kelley rules it is not self-enacting, the legislature would have to implement the graduated tax provision efore revenues could be collected on this basis. This undoubtedly would trigger a stirring debate over the merits of graduated versus fixed rate taxing.

They are David Baldwin, Q.M.S.A., and William Beadle, C.S.3. Both are graduates of Northville High School, David having received his diploma in 1967 and William in 1961.

The USS Maury is under the command of Captain D. W. Monson. It left on a tour of duty in Vietnam on March 29, surveying the coastal lines and waters of the southeast portion of Vietnam.

By September the ship had logged 12,000 survey miles of coastal waters besides numerous trips to ports in the Southeast.

Both of the local servicemen serving aboard the ship are due to return to their homeport in Pearl Harbor sometime this month.

Specialist 5 Jerome L. Burns, a 1965 graduate of Northville High School, was one of five men selected to send TDY to Bankok, Thailand for seven days starting October 9.

Purpose of the assignment is to help with the internal organization of the new military units the United States has in Thailand.

Specialist Burns, serving with the Fifth SFGA, has been in Vietnam since November of 1967. He was with the S.F. of the 101st Airborn Division stationed at Bien Hoa - about 25 miles from Saigon, later being transferred to the Fifth SFGA at NHA Training in South Vietnam on July 1 of this year.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burns of Southfield. His address is: RA 16-929-869, HHC, Fifth SFGA, First SF, UPO, San Francisco, Calıfornia, APO 96240.

Private Leon T. Wall is assigned to Company E, 11 Battalion, 3 Brigade, here in the United States Army Training Center, Armor (USATCA).

He will spend the next two months learning the fundamental skills of the soldier in today's modern, action Army firing live ammunition under simulated combat situations, learning protective measures and first-aid for chemical, biological and radiological attacks, as well as being schooled in the use of modern arms.

Following the completion of basic training, Private Wall, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon T. Wall of Northville, will receive at least an additional eight weeks of either advanced instruction or on-the-job training to qualify him in a specialized military skill.

the Wayne County Board of Supervisors for a year, being elected to many governmental agencies and organizations over many years - the metropolitan fund and the intercounty supervisors - and having served in Congress for two years" are examples of his experience that he believes makes him more qualified for office than his opponent.

As a freshman congressman he takes special pride in his role on the Congressional Public Works Committee, especially as it concerns highway safety.

Hearings were held on one of his bills and, although it wasn't past, many of the recommendations in the bill were picked up by the department of transportation and the bureau of public roads and incorporated in a directive to all state highway departments in the

"As of last spring all signs on all new Federal highways have to be break-away signs, all guard rails have to be buried in the ground, etc." all of which were part of his highway safety

He emphasizes that his efforts in this field are vitally important, pointing out that while 25,000 lives have been lost in Vietnam during the past 31/2 year over 50,000 lives were lost on United States highways this past year alone.

Another area that concerns him today is the upcoming 1970 census. A former census official himself, McDonald challenges the bureau's intention of demanding answers to unnecessary questions in the forthcoming census.

He is proposing a bill now that would prohibit the census bureau from making answering of non-basic questions mandatory. "We hope not to keep the census bureau from asking its 200 questions they intend to ask this year - that's not the purpose - the purpose is to make those questions non-mandatory in nature."

would keep them in school until they were 26. Now that's not fair. It puts a burden upon people who are not able to go to the university, and I think we should have a system which is... if they draw your lot you go. I think it's just as bad for a non-university graduate to die in Vietnam as a university student."

Frink says the death knell has been sounded for the electoral college process. "It will be changed and I'll be in there working to eliminate it," he asserts. In its place Frink would simply have states certify their votes "and that's it."

But he is against the "direct presidential primary because I am convinced it would destroy the party system in this country, and parties have a good element of responsibility in them and I think our political system would be weaker."

Frink says he is better qualified for office than his opponent "by education, by interest and by experience.

Noting that he worked his way through undergraduate school and then through law school, he emphasizes that following law school he "went to Washington and was a speech writer in the White House for awhile, legal assistant in the Department of Commerce, was Wes Vivian's legislative assistant for two years... for two years I ran a committee on the House side... was special counsel ... on environmental health.

"I took a lot out of the system and this is my oppórtunity to put it back."
