

City Charter Goes to Novi Voters February 18

Six months of work came to a close Thursday night when the Novi City Charter Commission wrapped up the proposed charter, deciding to put it up to the voters on Tuesday, February 18 — final step in establishment of the city.

Signing of the proposed charter was delayed until Monday so that all nine commissioners could be present. It is to be sent immediately to Lansing for state approval prior to the election.

Registered village electors, who last May voted 694-498 to incorporate the village as a city, must now approve or disapprove the charter that is to guide the new city.

Although writing of the document sparked extensive debates and arguments among commission members during the six months, commissioners were in accord in giving the entire document their stamp of approval.

Major decisions that prompted considerable debate included:

—Establishment of a city manager type of government as opposed to suggestions that Novi adopt the strong mayor concept.

—Election of council and mayor at large rather than adoption of a suggestion that at least some council members be elected by districts or wards.

—Election of a mayor to two-year terms by the people rather than having the council elect the mayor from the council as is now the practice in the village. The elected mayor is to be considered part of the seven member council and hold no veto powers.

—Elimination of the position of public safety director except as may be provided by ordinance, and in this event such director is to report directly to the city manager, who is to have hiring and firing powers over the police and fire chiefs after consultation with the council.

—Establishment of a maximum charter limitation of 6½ mills for general operation of the new city (presently, the village limitation is 5 mills), plus charter provision that the council may levy up to 1 mill for exclusive operation of the public library (presently, the township operates the library with a voted ½ mill). Boundaries of the proposed new city encompasses all of the village — but not Novi property that lies within the Township of Novi but not within the village. Part of Brookland Farms subdivision and several pieces of farmland along the northern and southern boundaries of Novi are examples of the latter.

If the charter is approved and the city becomes a reality, these small township areas would be locked out of the new city. They contain an estimated 90 residents.

These township properties either did not vote to come into the Village of Novi at the time of incorporation or they sought and won disconnection from the village since incorporation.

If the charter is approved and the city becomes a reality, these small, widely separated township areas would face the next to impossible task of governing themselves, providing their own police and fire protection, assessing their own taxes, etc.

Some attorneys have commented that these sections may be either forced to join the new city or one of the adjoining municipalities.

At any rate, with incorporation none of the present township officials would be able to continue in office since none of them live on the property in these isolated township areas. In addition to voting on the charter itself, voters at the same time will be choosing the first city council and mayor. For the first term, the three council candidates receiving the greatest number of votes will serve until March of 1972. The first elected mayor and the three other council candidates with the next highest number of votes would serve until March of 1970. Thereafter, all councilmen would be elected to four year terms, the mayor for two years.

Church Services Tonight Usher In Thanksgiving

Two union Thanksgiving worship services, one involving both Catholics and Protestants, are among those scheduled by area churches as they give thanks for the blessings of God.

In Northville, the traditional Thanksgiving service of Methodists and Presbyterians will be held at the First United Methodist Church tonight (Wednesday) beginning at 8 p.m.

Rev. Timothy C. Johnson, assistant Presbyterian minister, will deliver the sermon, while Methodist Minister G. C. Brantsner will conduct the worship service. The Methodist Senior choir will sing.

Rev. Lloyd Brasure of the Presbyterian Church also delivered his sermon on a Thanksgiving theme Sunday and the Youth Bell Ringers provided music.

The Rev. David Strang, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Epiphany of Northville, has announced that members of his congregation will take part with both Catholics and Protestants in an ecumenical service at the St. John's Episcopal Church of Plymouth tonight at 7 p.m.

Presenting the Thanksgiving message will be the Rev. Paul Cargo, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth and formerly of Northville.

Rev. Robert S. Shank, Jr., assistant pastor at St. John's, adds that his church will observe Holy Communion at 10 a.m. Thanksgiving Day.

"Giving Thanks Always", taken from Ephesians 5:20, is the topic of the sermon to be delivered by the Rev. Charles Boerger, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of Northville, tonight at 7:30 p.m. and tomorrow morning at 10:30 a.m.

The regular Thursday night service will be held at Calvary Missionary Baptist church beginning at 7 p.m., according to Pastor J. L. Partin.

The regular Sunday service was presented at Orchard Hills Baptist church. Rev. Fred Trachsel's sermon involved a Thanksgiving theme.

A Thanksgiving Mass will be said at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Victory Catholic church, according to the Rev. Father John Wittstock, pastor. A special collection by the St. Vincent de Paul Society to help the poor and needy of the parish will be held as well as a clothing collection for overseas. Fr. Wittstock adds that children marched around the church Sunday with their homemade placards to emphasize thanking God on Thanksgiving day.

While mother's Thanksgiving turkey is roasting at home, the junior and senior high youth groups of Willowbrook Community United Methodist church will present an 8:30 a.m. Thanksgiving breakfast at the church. Besides sponsoring the breakfast, according to the Rev. A. V. Morris, pastor, the youth also will conduct a short worship service.

Younger churchgoers got into the picture Sunday, according to Rev.

Morris, as the Juniors choral group (4th through 6th graders) sang at morning worship and the primary boys and girls prepared a Thanksgiving basket.

A Thanksgiving harvest supper, followed by a Thanksgiving praise and prayer service is planned tonight at the First Baptist church of Wixom beginning at 6:30 p.m., says the Rev.

LEANNE STEEPER

Santa's Due Here Friday

Santa (or one of his helper stand-ins) will take up residence in a new location in Northville when he arrives Friday to hear children's Christmas wishes.

He and his miniature workshop will be housed in a mobile home to be located in the Main Street parking lot. Perhaps taking a leaf from the use of trailers — or "mobile home" — at the political conventions Northville Retail Merchants Association of the Chamber of Commerce decided this year to bring Santa and his workshop right into the downtown area.

Dewey Gardner, president, points out that the 10 by 50-foot mobile home will have more space than last year's workshop in the American Legion home. It is divided into two rooms, with youngsters first visiting the animated workshop before continuing to the second for a personal talk with Santa Claus.

Santa's hours Friday will be 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. and 3 to 9 p.m. Saturdays he will be on hand from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. Beginning December 16 he will be in his workshop from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. and from 6 to 9 p.m. daily.

Most of the merchants, according to Gardner, are planning to be open until 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday until Christmas beginning next Monday.

'69 Junior Miss: Leanne Steeper

Leanne Steeper was crowned Northville's Junior Miss of 1969, succeeding Pam Smith, in the annual Jaycee pageant at the Northville High School auditorium Saturday night.

The lively, active 17-year-old senior is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Steeper of 19320 Marilyn. She actually will not be 17 until tomorrow — Thanksgiving Day.

After excellent rendition of "Sunrise, Sunset", there was little doubt of Miss Steeper's claim to the crown, which was presented her by faculty chairman, Miss Barbara LeBoeuf, herself a former Junior Miss from the Upper Peninsula.

Miss Steeper also performed well in the two group numbers and answered the question "What would you do if the boy you are dating tells you he is going to burn his draft card?" asked by Master of Ceremonies Robert Chapel by saying, "My first reaction would be shock. Then I would try to point out his error in judgment and talk him out of doing a thing he would later regret."

Named first runner-up was Pam Witzke who performed at the organ original renditions of "Mission, Impossible" and "Walk, Don't Run" and answered Chapel's question of what she felt her Thanksgiving blessings in the present day were by saying "Being alive and well and being a senior about to embark into the world."

Second runner-up was Sandy Schwendemann, who told Chapel that teenagers have been receiving too much unfavorable publicity in newspapers and that they are doing many constructive things. She illustrated her point by giving specific examples of how teens show their awareness to society. She performed a pom-pom routine to the tune of "A Kind of a Hush."

The other five finalists were Vicki Elkins, Linda Gotts, Sandy Hinkle, Mary Lorenz and Rosemary Van Fossen.

The pageant itself was extremely well executed and highlighted by the performances of Northville High School Jazz Band, led and joined by Director Robert Williams.

Judges were Paul Hunt, dean of Washtenaw Community College in Ann Arbor, Miss Jen Pike, director of student activities of Schoolcraft College and Northville City Manager Frank Ollendorff.

Judging was on the basis of 50 percent for school achievement and mental ability, 15 per cent on poise and appearance, 20 per cent on the creative and performing arts segment, and 15 per cent on youth fitness.

The eight finalists typified the charm, beauty, and awareness of today's youth. They all earned "A's" in youth fitness when they performed the chorus line production of "Cabaret". They also performed a Thanksgiving tribute as a group finale, performing "Born Free" and "America".

Leanne's victory earned her a Board of Regents scholarship to Eastern Michigan University and the right to compete at Redford Township in the December metropolitan competition.

District Judge-Elect Dunbar Davis announced this week that Dennis R. Dildy, Northville's chief probation officer, will be director of probation for the newly-created district court.

The appointment marked the first official action taken by Judge Davis, who was elected this month and will assume January 1 the responsibilities of presiding over the first district court serving the cities of Northville and Plymouth and the townships of Northville, Plymouth and Canton.

Dildy, a 25-year-old special education instructor at Hawthorn Center, has directed the Northville municipal court probation department since its creation last February. He has won high praise from Judge Philip Ogilvie and volunteer probation officers working with him.

Like his present assignment, the new post will be a part-time job. Judge Davis says he expects Dildy to help organize departments in Plymouth, Northville, and possibly Canton, similar to the department now existing in Northville. Each community will have its own director and volunteers from its own area.

Judge Davis said that he had conducted long discussions with Dildy and "was most impressed" by his ideas and accomplishments thus far in Northville. The Judge indicated that he would join with Dildy in reviewing possible candidates for chief probation officer for each department.

Dildy announced that the Northville probation department will meet next Thursday (December 5) at 8 p.m. at the city hall and he urged all volunteers and interested citizens to attend.

New Sanctuary Approved

At a special congregational meeting Sunday night Northville First Presbyterian Church congregation voted by 99 to 29 to proceed with architectural plans for a new sanctuary which will accommodate 400 worshippers, and to make financial plans.

Decision to proceed with plans for the new sanctuary, which preliminary estimates indicate will cost about $224,000, was made after a report from the architect, William P. Lindhout, indicated that costs to repair the present sanctuary without any enlargement would run $50,000 to $80,000.

Originally the study committee was appointed to explore the feasibility of adding to the front of the sanctuary after studying city and school population growth projections for the community.

The study, J.R. Jackson, chairman of the church building committee, reported, showed it would not be feasible to add on to the present sanctuary, as it now is resting upon portions of three foundations that would not be adequate for expansion. When roofers sealed off leaks to the organ chamber last year, they stated they would be able to make no further repairs. Lindhout stated in his report that the present tower must be removed as the roof is sagging badly at the perimeter.

The new plan would reverse the sanctuary, create a narthex with parking lot and/or Church street entrances and improve the church traffic pattern.

The present sanctuary now has seating for 250, including the choir area, and expands with folding chairs to 50 or 100 more. The proposed expansion would provide pew seating for 400 plus choir space.

In announcing the congregational action, the Reverend Lloyd Brasure, pastor, pointed out that this will be the church's "new venture in serving the world of tomorrow."

He anticipates that the $224,000 cost without pews, etc. — or close to $300,000 total — will be raised in a three-year pledge program and an additional 12 year long-range pay-off program which will include church newcomers during those years. He said he hopes the three-year pledge program will raise $125,000 to $150,000.

The new plan was submitted to the Northville Planning Commission last week for site and plan approval. The board ruled on a technicality that it does not comply with parking requirements but suggested it be taken to the board of appeals where it will recommend a variance. It is expected the hearing will be next month.

Reverend Brasure added that the church has written permission from the A&P store and from John Carlo to use adjacent lots, when businesses are closed, that provide 70 additional parking places.

The new sanctuary plan retains the center aisle of the church, provides additional room in the choir area, space for coats in the narthex as well as a pastor's and a general office in the new narthex.

While the church dates from 1849, it is pointed out that the only portion of the original structure still standing is the wall behind the reredos and a 10-15 foot section of the east wall.

Major additions in 1913 and 1922 widened the building and included the present front porch and wood columns. The organ and balcony were added in 1922, the fellowship hall in 1930, the concrete flooring and basement of the sanctuary in 1954 and the Christian education building in 1964. The mortgage for the latter was retired in the spring of this year.

With respect to the historical portions of the church cherished by many members of years' standing, Reverend Brasure says he intends that "significant portions will long be with us as the church intends to retain the present reredos, Communion table, lecterns and memorial plaques of the windows." The baptismal font and the organ also will be retained.

The present leaded glass windows do leak, the minister said, so that the memorial tributes will be saved and contained in a new window.

Changes in the proposed sketches, made Sunday, include removal of portico windows and scale of the porticoes themselves will be reduced.

Reverend Brasure stated he was pleased that 130 members of the congregation attended Sunday night's meeting and viewed the plans.

WEST ELEVATION

SIDE ENTRANCES—The proposed new Presbyterian sanctuary will feature entrances on the Church Street and Municipal Parking Lot sides.

The front of the sanctuary, to be located nearer to Main Street, will no longer have an entrance.

Naval Lieutenant Takes Local Bride

Lt. and Mrs. Norman E. Gates (the former Donna Tait) are residing in Inglewood, California following their marriage October 5, at the Strickland Baptist Church in Mt. Pleasant.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gates of Mt. Pleasant and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Tait of 22200 Currie Road, Northville were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony performed by the Baptist Church

Pastor John Crabbe.

The church was decorated with candelabra and bouquets of mums and daisies. Sally Schuster of South Lyon was the organist and the soloist was Cathy Mitchell, a roommate of the bride, and the first blind student to live on the campus of Central Michigan University with her leader dog.

Gowned in traditional white organza featuring an embroidered scalloped neckline, the bride was lovely as she approached the altar on her father's arm. She wore a fingertip-length veil and carried a bouquet of large white mums and yellow daisies.

Mrs. Jess (Nancy) Grimm, was her sister's matron of honor. Her gown was apricot organza, embroidered in daisy trim.

The flower girl, also dressed in apricot organza, was Debbie Gates. Sandy Cornell and Peggy Fitzpatrick were the bridesmaids, wearing yellow organza with daisy trim. All of the attendants carried baskets of yellow mums and bronze daisies.

Eric Smith was best man and George Moreno and Dave Tettaton served as ushers.

Mrs. Tait chose grey crepe with red accessories for her daughter's wedding. The groom's mother, Mrs. Gates, wore a beige suit with brown accessories.

For their wedding trip to Macinac Island and California, the new Mrs. Gates chose a navy suit and red accessories. She is a graduate of South Lyon High School and Central Michigan University. Her husband is a graduate of Michigan State University and is stationed at the Air Missile Station at Inglewood.

Mrs. Leo Sheehan, 19577 Clement Road, announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Leslie Ann, to William W. Westbrook, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Westbrook of Metairie, Louisiana.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University and the University of Michigan. Her fiancé is an alumnus of Georgia Institute of Technology.

Their holiday-season wedding will be December 21.

NANCY ELAINE ESCH

Mrs. and Mrs. Herman E. Esch of Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Elaine, to Dennis John Niles, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John C. Niles of Livonia.

The bride-elect is a 1966 graduate of Plymouth High School and is a junior at Eastern Michigan University. Her fiancé is a 1964 graduate of Bentley High School and will be graduated from Michigan State University in December.

Hope Not Dope

Prescribes Cure for Fear

An infusion of "hope" was given in liberal dosage to the large turnout of Northville Town Hall members Thursday by Dr. Lester L. Coleman, leading New York ear, nose and throat specialist and syndicated writer and lecturer.

With a charming "podium manner" that suggested an incomparable bedside one, Dr. Coleman sprinkled his talk with anecdotes from his personal practice and family life, all elaborating his main theme — that fear and anxieties can be faced and replaced with hope.

"Have you ever seen a single day without problems, large or small?" he asked, adding that "even tiny things can throw you for a loop when your emotional threshold is down."

The cure, prescribed by Dr. Coleman, is to "come face to face with fear — not live with it."

"Mistakes are made by all of us," he continued, "extricate yourself from them and don't make the same one again."

"Above all, live with a feeling of joy."

Expressing a feeling of sadness at seeing young people 19 or 20 years old taking a job for the security of "fringe benefits at retirement," the speaker agreed "We all think we want peace of mind and security and many think these can be acquired with money, stocks and bonds, but hope, the essence of security, has to lie within."

"There is no chronological age that does not carry hope," Dr. Coleman declared, but made one definite exception when he was questioned later at the celebrity luncheon about young people using drugs.

"This is completely terrifying to me," he stated, "and when they're on heroin, you can write them completely off the books."

Marijuana, he continued, is dangerous because, while not addictive, it "lives in the social atmosphere" of other drugs.

(The drug question may have been addressed to the speaker as there have been reports from time to time that drug use is prevalent in the area and only last week another alarming report of its rising use among young people caused the scheduling of a parent forum to be held December 11 at the South Lyon High School.)

The best protection for your child, Dr. Coleman declared emphatically, is "to know where your kid is — all the time."

Then, he advised, "if you suspect marijuana or suspect anything, scream until something is done. These kids need help."

"I feel a sense of absolute hopelessness once they're there," he continued, pointing out that this has been proved to be as high as a $90-dollar-a-day habit for some young people who turn to stealing — anything they can get their hands on — for the money.

"I really think those selling the drugs should get the death penalty. Right now," he said bitterly, "many are tracked down — and nothing happens. Parents need to make themselves heard."

Basically, Dr. Coleman asserted, today's young people — "the alert, alive youngsters I see in school corridors as I lecture" — are the hope for the future.

While intensely concerned with their drug problem, Dr. Coleman declared, "I am not concerned with the length of their hair — they'll cut it off."

Of other fears, he commented, "I think we like to feel we're living in an age of anxiety." Anxiety today is no greater than in other eras, the past president of the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine said.

"Large organizations have learned to 'extract' the additional dollars by 'making' people fully aware of anxieties," he accused, illustrating this threat with the example of posters telling that "one out of five people are dying of cancer."

"Every day I see people who feel 'Well, I've managed to get through another day' — You've no idea the number of people who spend their lives not living their lives, but dying their lives."

"I'm bored with the vast group of diet watchers or smokers."

Dr. Coleman, on smoking, stated: "It is undeniable that there is a distinct relationship between lung cancer and tobacco; it is a calculated risk that those who smoke take. However, I've seen many people who 'cheat' for 50 years and then die of something else."

TOWN HALL ESCORTS—Mrs. Nelson Hyatt and Mrs. Donald Ware, right, officially escort Dr. Lester Coleman, second speaker of the Northville Town Hall 1968-9 series, as he spoke Thursday in the high school auditorium.

In Our Town

AFTER THANKSGIVING it's a mere flip of the calendar into December and the Christmas season.

One of the first holiday season events next month is the December 6 meeting of Northville Woman's Club. Miss Virginia Papson, assistant fashion coordinator of the J. L. Hudson Company, is to discuss upcoming fashion trends.

"In New York they're already thinking spring," Miss Papson, who just returned from a fashion survey trip there last week, reports. New fabrics, colors and lines will be included in her report. She promises to bring with her paraphernalia of the fashion business — color wheels, swatches and sketches — to illustrate "what's ahead."

She also will trace the last 10 years of fashion trends that have brought women to mini-skirts and block-toed shoes. Miss Papson, who also is assistant to Hudson fashion director Madelyn Coe, joined the company a year ago, coming from the Sterling-Lindner store in Cleveland.

Following the program, which is a guest day one, tea will be served by Mrs. Theodore Heckler and her committee.

Incidentally, the table for the November 15 meeting was created by Mrs. William Bake who carried out an autumn theme with a handmade wreath of starflowers and strawflowers encircling a large Williamsburg hurricane chimney holding a carnival amber glass holder and candle. The arrangement was centered on her delicate hand-embroidered organdy cloth. (Mrs. Bake confesses that she collects lovely cloths — "They're my weakness.")

TRADITIONAL PARTIES are on the schedule at Meadowbrook Country Club. Teen-age youngsters will have their own "thing," a Snowball Buffet dance December 27. This includes members' teens from 13 through 19. The children's Christmas party is to be December 15.

For adults is the Christmas dinner-dance December 21 and the New Year's Eve one December 31. Final buffet of the winter season is to be December 11. The club's famous Sportsman's Night is set for January 10.

At the club's annual meeting following dinner last Thursday James E. Littell, Detroit attorney and Northville resident of West

Seven Mile Road, retired as club president.

ROTARY'S second travelogue presentation of the season last Thursday night in Northville high school auditorium must be considered exceptional, even in the travel field. Using the framework of Mark Twain's "A Tramp Abroad," Dick Reddy presented a picturesque view of Switzerland as he retraced the famous humorist's "walking tour" through the Alpine country.

Reddy quoted Twain's passages directly. A native of Texas with a southern drawl, his delivery created the illusion that the audience actually was with Twain in 1878. For the accompanying films, he had avoided taking cars and telephone wires to carry out the "backflash." He was welcomed back to the Rotary series by Robert Webber, program chairman.

THOSE QUESTIONS at the celebrity luncheon following Northville Town Hall often prove as provocative as the talk preceding. Such was the case last week as Dr. Lester Coleman reassured insomniacs.

"A great many people think they have to be asleep when they really don't," he observed, advising "If you can't sleep, get up and read... but don't take lack of sleep as a threat and do take pills if you think you need them."

On fear of flying, he said: "My wife prepares herself with a couple of drinks... learn more about the workings of a plane, how they stay up... but if it's a real hang-up, don't fly, use other transportation."

Strongly critical of hospital procedures in admitting children and preparing them for surgery, Dr. Coleman advised young mothers that they should insist upon staying with their child until the operation and should remain afterward — and "it is essential to tell the child the total truth."

"When a child understands that what is happening is not punitive but is done with love the experience is a growth one rather than traumatic."

So strongly does he feel about youngsters being "abandoned in a strange antiseptic surrounding, even strapped to a stretcher" that Dr. Coleman has co-authored (with his wife) a book for preparing children. It's titled, "A Visit to the Hospital."

Coop Nursery Groups To Meet Monday

All mothers of children in the Northville Cooperative Nursery — both the Tuesday-Thursday and the Monday-Wednesday-Friday groups — will meet at 8 p.m. Monday, December 2, at The Cavern in a joint monthly meeting.

"What Do You Think?" will be the program presentation of worship reports with group discussion led by Mrs. Douglas Smith, program moderator.

There will be a turkey raffle drawing.

Officers are Mrs. Dale Kiser, president; Mrs. Steven Orban, vice-president; Mrs. John Ehrl, secretary; Mrs. Charles Sorenson, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Discher, membership chairman.

Mothers interested in enrolling youngsters or in having more information about the nursery play programs are asked to call Mrs. Discher, 474-8766.

Mispah Circle To Hold Tea

Annual Christmas tea of the Mispah Circle of King's Daughters will be held at the West Main Street home of Mrs. Harold Bloom at 2 p.m. Tuesday, December 3.

Dean Lidgard, director of the University of Michigan Hospital school, will be present to tell about the work being done there. The circle helps the school as one of its projects. Members are asked to bring unwrapped gifts with wrappings for children at the hospital.

Area Cooks Tune Up for Big Day

How would you like to cook Thanksgiving dinner for a 1,000 — or a few hundred — or even 50 guests?

Thanksgiving dinners are being prepared in these quantities in Northville this week as about 1,000 Northville junior and senior high school students feast today on traditional turkey with all the trimmings.

Tuesday, Northville Senior Citizens gathered in the fellowship hall of Northville Presbyterian Church for turkey dinner. Their four turkeys were stuffed and roasted by three members — and by young Mrs. Robert Prom, wife of the Northville Recreation Director planning the feast.

On Thanksgiving Day, Meadowbrook Country Club will serve old-fashioned roast turkey dinner, with a complete turkey for each table if desired, as families gather for the traditional feast but "letting the club do the cooking." Manager Jim Cornelius last week reported he already had 130 reservations.

Mrs. Marie Knapp, dietitian for Northville junior and senior highs, again planned a complete feast with 40 turkeys roasted and stuffed with tasty dressing.

Although prepared on large scale, the dressing recipe could be duplicated in any home. School cooks used 60 loaves of day-old bread, combined with onions and celery (which have been sautéed in butter), sage and other seasonings and pieces of neck meat and giblets.

Mrs. Knapp explains that the turkey necks and giblets have been saved from turkey served earlier in the school year to use now.

For the traditional molded salad, apples, cranberries and oranges were ground right in the school kitchens. Completing the dinners are homemade rolls, asparagus or squash, sweet potatoes (candied at the junior high and mashed at the senior), and pumpkin pie.

With the expertise of many years' experience Northville Senior Citizens volunteered to cook turkeys provided through the Northville Recreation Association. Mrs. John Blackburn, Mrs. Wilbur Johnston and Mrs. E. M. Bogart cooked the birds in their own kitchens and brought them to the Thanksgiving party.

Mrs. Blackburn made her own stuffing, but used a package of prepared dressing cubes as well as a loaf of bread she cubed. She added onion and celery and seasonings "by taste and experience."

Because the stuffing that keeps a cooking bird moist also is part of the traditional treat, almost every cook has her own favorite.

A recipe that includes nuts is featured in the cook book of Northville First Methodist Church, compiled in 1967. It belongs to Mrs. S. J. Barrow.

STUFFING FOR TURKEY

2 pkgs. bread crumbs
1/2 c. water
1/2 lb. butter
1 large onion (chopped)
pepper and salt
3 stalks celery (chopped)
2 eggs
1 tsp. poultry seasoning
1 c. Macadamia nuts or pecans

Melt butter, add onions and celery, simmer until soft. Add salt, pepper, bread crumbs, beaten eggs, poultry seasoning, nuts and water to right consistency.

A recipe for the favorite cranberry-apple molded salad by Mrs. Kenneth E. Cockin also is included in the church cook book.

CRANBERRY-APPLE MOLDED SALAD

2 c. cranberries
1 c. water

Cook gently until skins break. Rub through sieve. Add to pulp, 1 c. sugar.

Boil slowly 5 min. Remove from heat. Soften 1 envelope unflavored gelatin in 2 tbsp. cold water. Blend into hot cranberry mixture. Cool until mixture begins to thicken. Add 1/2 c. diced apple and 1/2 c. diced celery. Pour into oiled mold and chill. Serve on salad greens.

READYING THE BIRD—Mrs. John W. Blackburn, 456 Orchard Drive, slides into the oven the turkey she stuffed and roasted for Northville Senior Citizens' Thanksgiving Feast Tuesday night at Northville Presbyterian Church. She was one of four homemakers cooking a turkey for the dinner. Stuffings may vary, but the main course is almost universal as area families sit down to Thanksgiving dinner Thursday.

News Around Northville

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Dresselhouse of Smock Road entertained at a birthday dinner last Tuesday in honor of their son, David, who was celebrating his first birthday.

Guests were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Van Atta and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dresselhouse; Bob Dresselhouse; Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Bryce and Fred; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nester and Douglas; and Mr. and Mrs. William Chizmar and Billie.

All Northville Girl Scouts, except Brownies, are invited to register this week to participate in a swimming program at the Northville High School.

Flea Market Goes Historical Here

Plans were set into motion this week for a First in '69 Flea Market to be sponsored by the Northville Historical Society.

Individuals and organizations of the community are asked to circle Saturday, January 11 on their calendars — date of the first trash 'n' treasure sale of 1969.

The sale will be held in the social hall of the Presbyterian Church from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Coffee and refreshments will be served.

No general admission will be charged, but a $6.50 charge will be made for each of 15 booths to be operated by interested sellers. Persons wishing to sell at a booth are asked to call Mrs. Jack Scantlin, 349-3006, flea market chairman.

A feature of the market will be the booth of the historical society which is to contain antiques donated by Friends of the Northville Historical Society.

The committee explained that while many area residents have been interested in the work of the historical society but have not felt they could participate, they will have an opportunity to do so with a donation of "something old." The donation will place their names on the Friends of the Northville Historical Society list.

VFW Auxiliary To Pack Gifts

Boxes for servicemen in Vietnam will be packed by women of the Northville VFW Post 4012 auxiliary, assisted by other auxiliary members from the VFW Fourth District, at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the VFW hall.

Auxiliary members expect to pack about 75 boxes which will go to servicemen from throughout the Fourth District, which includes Allen Park, Trenton, Westland, Redford, part of Livonia and Northville. Mrs. Jane Stevens of Detroit, district junior vice-president, will be present.

Mrs. Dorothy Widmaier, of the Post 4012 Auxiliary, adds that many "thank you" letters are received after boxes are mailed and that auxiliary members answer each individually. The boxes, she said, contain "treats" such as canned meat as well as stationery and film.

Schoolcraft College

One of the major projects identified in the 1969-70 capital outlay budget of Schoolcraft Community College is a Master Plan.

According to college officials, the plan will show future building needs, and locations would be projected for development of the Haggerty Road campus.

The college is asking the state to fund the entire estimated $35,000 cost of the Master Plan which is required for eligibility for future state participation in construction funding.

Other projects listed by the college for the 1969-70 request year are:

1. Physical Education Building: The college is requesting the state to make a final appropriation of $563,900 to complete payment of a total commitment of $1,178,500 as the state share of the project. The college also asks for another $134,114 from the state for its share of the difference between the actual construction cost and the pre-bidding estimate on which the state's commitment was based.

2. Campus Service Building: The college estimates construction costs of a long-planned addition to the present service building at $815,626, and is asking the state to fund up to half of that amount, or nearly $408,000. However, the state has traditionally assigned a second-line priority to non-instructional projects of this nature. But, the state has appropriated planning money for the project. As a non-instructional facility, the building would not be eligible for a federal construction grant.

3. Fine Arts Building: A request for $15,000 in planning money is pending in current state legislation. The college estimates construction costs of $4,000,000 and is asking the state to pay half of that in two annual installments of $1,000,000 each in 1969-70 and 1970-71. The college will seek federal assistance on this project under the Higher Education Facilities Act. A federal grant could amount to as much as 40 percent of the total project cost, reducing the state and college shares to 30 percent each.

New projects listed for funding in 1969-70 are:

1. Master Plan: $35,000 is estimated, of which the state would pay the entire amount.

2. Outdoor Physical Education Facilities: The college estimates the cost of physical education and recreation fields at $250,000. This project, like the service building, could be assigned a second-line funding priority by the state, which would require the college to underwrite all or most of the cost.

A final project listed for 1969-70 is a major addition to the existing greenhouse used in the biology and botany programs. Estimated by the college at $80,000 total project cost, the state would provide half, or $40,000.

Three other projects are listed in the long-range request to start in 1970-71. These are two instructional buildings, estimated at $1,750,000 each; and enlargement of the culinary arts laboratory, estimated to cost $125,000.

All of the money for the culinary arts projects is requested for the 1970-71 appropriation year. Funds for the instructional buildings are spread over three years: $15,000 for each building for planning in 1970-71; construction funds of $1,000,000 for each building in 1971-72; and the balance of construction costs of $735,000 for each building in 1972-73.

Both instructional buildings and the culinary arts project would be eligible for federal funds, which if approved, would — as with the Fine Arts building — reduce the state and college shares of the project cost.

Lindner said the instructional buildings have not yet been put in a priority sequence by the college but would be selected from among such identified facilities needs as a health professions building, a faculty office building, a major library addition, and an area vocational center.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Next week property owners will begin receiving greetings in the form of tax notices, commonly referred to as "winter taxes". They represent the money that we spend to support our township and county governments, and our local and community college school systems.

The giant share of the tax levy goes to the local schools. (In the Wayne County portion of the City of Northville, for example, the total levy is $42.16 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation. Public schools get $32.90 of this for operating funds and building debts.)

At any rate — and despite its huge bite of the winter tax dollar — public schools in Northville are still caught in a financial squeeze.

This condition was emphasized in a letter from school Business Manager Earl Busard which appealed to the city and township tax collecting agents to turn over tax monies to the schools as soon as possible.

Early collections help school systems by reducing the amount of money that must be borrowed to meet start-up costs. Not only do the funds cut interest fees, but if the early in-take is substantial the school system can actually gain dollars through interest on short-term investments.

Really, school officials are appealing to taxpayers as well as collectors.

They'd like us to "do our winter tax paying early" this year. And then they'd like the city and township treasurers to release the funds immediately.

Not as bad as a tax hike, is it?

That old bogey-man "equalization factor" is returning to the city of Northville next year.

County tax officials have indicated that township assessments — reappraised just last year — are still in line and reflect 50 per cent of market value.

But it's been three years since the city has updated its assessments — and we're living in an area where sale charts show that property values have increased sharply during that period.

Property sale statistics show, for example, that assessments in the Oakland County portion of the city must now be multiplied by the factor 1.25 to bring them up to 50 per cent of market value.

In the Wayne County portion of the city it's estimated that the 1969 factor will be 1.17.

To the city taxpayer this means that his current property assessment — which he can determine on his tax bill when it arrives next week — will be multiplied by either 1.25 or 1.17 next year when summer and winter taxes are levied for 1969.

If the new assessment seems too high — over half the present value of the property — the taxpayer may appeal to the board of review next March.

For the present it's your only recourse — and a fair one. But in another year or two, if the city factor continues to climb, all assessments must again be reviewed and raised on an individual basis to the 50 per cent level.

"Equalization factors" are misnomers. Actually, they create extreme inequities between taxpayers as the factor becomes higher and assessing more out-dated.

DEARBORN HEIGHTS

"I felt like I was all alone, like I was skating on a cloud." And the solitary figure, with bird-like grace, swooped and glided noiselessly as only she can skate. Thus began the one-hour special Sunday night, entitled, "Here's Peggy Fleming."

It wasn't the Olympic gold medal winner's first appearance on television, for she had dazzled viewers with her skating finesse and expert form many times in competing for world championships. But it was the first time that the camera had attempted to uncover Peggy Fleming, the person.

Sadly, the portrait never came off. Forging itself through the gossamer story was the hard nugget of reality: that here was Hollywood attempting to make Peggy Fleming the darling of America, another Shirley Temple and Ingrid Bergman rolled into one.

Few artistic stones were left unturned.

The camera darted in and out, over and around the skating phenomena, Miss Fleming. But what was gained in camera artistry was disconcertingly lost on the life of Miss Fleming or any authentic attempt to convey a cohesive impression. The camera, at times, seemed to have an existence of itself, apart from the subject.

Too few times did the camera settle on Miss Fleming — and stay there. It seemed like sacrilege of sorts. Here was the best skater in the world, technically and artistically. People wanted to see what she does so well. Yet, with rare exception did the camera play a complimentary role to Miss Fleming's skating.

Miss Fleming was the focal point; this was her hour. Yet, in the true tradition of variety shows, she shared the spotlight with a host of stars: Richard Harris (whom she admires), Spanky and Our Gang (whom she identifies with), and Gene Kelly (whom she also admires — "I wanted to be a dancer").

What inspired admiration of Harris was his role in Camelot, his ability, according to Miss Fleming, to sing with convincing emotion. Undoubtedly, Mr. Harris is a talented young man. His rendition of "How to Handle a Woman," with Miss Fleming skating the part of the feminine mystique, was as compelling as it was mellifluous.

And his interpretation of "The Yard Went on Forever," graphically illustrated by pictures of the ravages of war and bigotry, conveyed the poignant message of women and children suffering. But, where the first song had some relevance, the second was a solo, unrelated effort.

Spanky and Our Gang also took off on solos, which, in themselves, were tastefully framed. But they, too, consumed time that would have better been spent focusing on the artistry of Miss Fleming.

Gene Kelly's appearance was pure show biz. He took to the ice with Miss Fleming, perhaps to show his versatility, but when all was said and done, the put-on was distinctly clear.

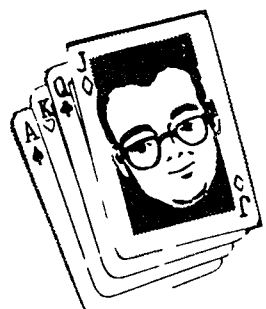

Not all was lost, despite the drawbacks. The most sterling moment came when Miss Fleming, dressed in op clothing, grooved her way through a modern rock number. Here, in essence, was artistry combined with talent to the best possible advantage. Unfortunately, these moments were all too few.

I'd heard and read about the book often in the past but probably because I feared its contents might spoil the treasures of my memory I didn't read "The Situation in Flushing" until accidentally stumbling across it on top of a pile of public library books dragged home by members of my family.

Far from spoiling things, Author Edmund G. Love rekindles memories of the little town of Flushing — now, unfortunately sprawling with subdivisions and infested with Flint commuters — even though his story predates my youth by a generation.

So vividly real is his reminiscing that many of the characters and places strike an amazing resemblance to the people and places there I remember. Flushing, it seemed to me upon completing the book, had changed remarkably little from the early years of the 20th Century to the Thirties and Forties.

Flushing is not my hometown. But it was my home away from home. I spent summers on a farm there, nearly drowned in its famous "keep out" slate pits, picnicked in the vastly changed public park, visited my first lumber yard and rode my first workhorse there, and enjoyed the friendship of many of the people who call it their hometown.

Until now, I could tell a story about a visit to a Flushing doctor's office and a few would believe me. Read the humorous, nostalgic work of Edmund Love and you'll see that a doctor could indeed yank out the tonsils of a 14-year-old boy in a fifteen minute exercise in his office and then talk the mother into letting the boy drive home the family's '36 Chevy as reward for not squirming.

The author's 64-year-old grandfather, one of the colorful men who made the community tick more than a half-century ago, wasn't a physician but he could have been the doctor I remember.

His leg infected with gangrene and finally removed, Grandfather demanded a cigar immediately after the operation. He smoked it down to a stub and then "put the butt in the ashtray, threw back the covers and swung his legs, including the heavily bandaged stump, to the side. 'Now let's get the hell out of here!'"

Or, maybe, it was the understanding physician such as Love knew by name of Dr. McKenna, who wrote a note to the author's teacher asking that he be "allowed to go to the bathroom as often as I wanted (on either one or two fingers)" just so Love could sneak off to watch the trains he loved come and go.

The book contains surprises, too, Flushing, as I remember it, was as white-laced as any rural town in Michigan and, for that matter, still is. Yet, out of the book comes word that one of the community's early presidents was the son of a slave couple. Joe Gage was his name, and he died at 89.

Two years before Gage died Flushing staged a gigantic tribute in his honor. As the biggest homecoming crowd in the town's history listened, the aging Negro observed:

"I don't know what I've done to deserve all this. I don't think I do deserve it. I've lived a long life and most of it's been a happy life, especially the part of it I've lived in this town. If I had it to do all over again, I'd like to change only one thing. I'd like to be born with a white skin. I just keep wondering what it would have been like. I'm not finding fault. I'm just curious. But if I couldn't change it, and if I had it to do all over, I'd make tracks for this place just as fast as I could. God bless you, every one."

Two years later he died, in 1956 — the year I graduated from college, and I'd never heard a single Flushing resident mention his name during the years I knew the town.

There are numerous "old fashion" but successful cures for society's ills in the book, however. Senior Love's razor strap was one of them.

"Shortly before my fifth birthday, "writes the author, "I started stealing small change from my mother's purse. The day my father found out about it is one I shall never forget as long as I live. I was soundly whipped, stripped of all my privileges, and threatened with fifteen years in the county jail. It was a terrifying few hours, I can tell you. The punishment worked. I may not be the most honest man since Abraham Lincoln, but I don't think I've stolen anything from women's purses since I was five years old."

Many of the houses and places I remember still exist, and even those that Author Love remembered in his book still hold glimpses of the past.

Now a resident of New York, a place that has a monthly birth-rate greater than the total population of Flushing, Love misses his hometown, but most of all he misses the people... "They're all up in the cemetery."

"The Situation in Flushing" is a Love-story of a hometown that everyone remembers.

Dems Battle for Key Posts

LANSING—A dogged struggle for key leadership posts in the Democrat-controlled 1969 Michigan House of Representatives is shaping up among lawmakers.

At least three Democrats have announced plans to seek the coveted speaker's chair when the session convenes in January. They are Reps. George F. Montgomery of Detroit, William A. Ryan of Detroit and Albert Horrigan of Flint.

Ryan, a six-term legislator, is considered the front-runner at this juncture. He is currently floor minority leader and has influential friends among house Republicans.

Traditionally the majority party settles on a speaker in a party caucus, and the decision is automatically approved on the floor.

But Horrigan has vowed to force the issue from the caucus onto the floor for a winner-take-all showdown this go-round. He says he will not abide by the decision of the Democratic caucus, unless he is tapped.

MONTGOMERY said he would pursue his candidacy within the caucus, and would make no attempt to organize a slate of candidates for other leadership posts.

"I feel it is vital that the members of the Democratic Caucus have a choice between a continuation of the lackluster and uninspired leadership of the past two years, and new leadership attuned to the problems of the 1970s," Montgomery said.

"I feel that I am capable of meeting the challenge of organizing and managing the House of Representatives with the narrow 57-53 vote majority the people have given us in the Nov. 5 election."

Ryan said the only way Horrigan could be elected speaker on the floor would be through sizable support from Republicans as well as dissident Democrats.

"And I don't think the Republicans will go along with this plan of his," Ryan said. "They would be crazy to go against the Democratic caucus and take on the responsibility of the house."

AGREEMENT with that statement came from present House Speaker Robert Waldron, Grosse Pointe Republican. He said the GOP "positively will not interfere with the Democrats' choice for speaker."

Waldron said he will be a candidate for house minority leader in the next session. He said Republicans will also select an assistant minority leader, minority floor leader, assistant minority floor leader, caucus chairman, and assistant caucus chairman.

In the election wake, Gov. George Romney quickly squelched speculation that he may call a special session of the legislature yet this year to push through some pet legislation before losing his Republican majority in the house.

Romney said: "Barring some unforeseeable development, I have determined that such a special session should not be called."

Republican legislative leaders concurred.

THE STATE HIGHWAY Commission has requested that 600 miles of Michigan roadway be added to the national system of interstate and defense highways.

Director Henrik E. Stafseth said the Federal Government plans to authorize 1,500 more miles of interstate highway under provisions of a federal act. Michigan now has 1,085.2 interstate miles.

The Michigan request includes about 520 miles of proposed freeway, which, if approved, would qualify for 90 per cent federal financial aid. Stafseth said the remaining 80 miles are already built or under construction. They would come in for 50 per cent federal backing.

Government approval of the petition would not mean construction could start immediately, Stafseth said.

"We fully intend to honor our commitments for completing the present authorized interstate system," he said. "This means it will be 1975 at least before new interstate projects can be handled in the program."

Additionally, he said, the commission doesn't expect all of the requested mileage to be approved.

"With only 1,500 miles authorized nationally our request is more than our proportionate share," Stafseth said.

Food Industry's Good Investment

WELLESLEY HILLS, Massachusetts — Expenditures for food in the U.S. this year will total $101-billion, up 6% over 1967. Of course half of this increase will be due to higher prices, with the total amount of food purchased rising but moderately. The balance of the gain in food spending will come from consumer preference for more expensive foods or for those with more marketing services added.

There are several factors which recommend the food industry to prospective investors. For one thing, the industry's growth has been steadier than most. This reflects population and income gains as well as changing patterns of living which have sparked the rapid and wide acceptance of the so-called convenience foods.

A second plus for the food companies generally is their low price earnings ratios. In most instances, these ratios are attractively low, thus leaving plenty of room for growth. Still another favorable factor is the reasonable labor costs. Except in baking, salaries and wages paid account for a smaller percentage of net sales than in industries such as building, chemicals, electrical products, and industrial machinery.

IN RECENT YEARS, food manufacturers and processors have made great strides in offsetting the adverse effects of highly cyclical markets. In some cases, this has been achieved through vertical integration. More often, it has been accomplished through a steady and generally orderly trend toward diversification.

Baking companies, whose profit margins have been among the lowest in the industry, are moving with increasing rapidity into convenience foods and/or institutional food services. Meanwhile, the dairy companies and the makers of processed foods are seeking broader markets for their products by expanding into such areas as delicatessens, restaurants, and drug and health items. Without question, the largest growth area in the industry is in packaged, convenience foods. Nearly every large food company either is already directly represented in this field or is making plans for such representation.

IN ADDITION, food makers are seeking broader markets for their products by setting up processing and distributing facilities in foreign countries. During the past decade, vast new markets for U.S. food companies have opened up in Western Europe. Others are in the process of opening up in Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

The opportunities inherent in this expansion are nothing short of tremendous. Alert food managements have already shown appreciation of this by investing in ways calculated to take maximum advantage of foreign resources in materials and labor as well as for foreign markets. American food know-how and know-why, if properly exercised on a world-wide scale, could obtain for this industry a measure of prosperity far exceeding anything yet experienced.

We are convinced the food industry has plenty of long-term investment potential for those in a patient frame of mind. The following companies offer good growth prospects over the longer term:

CAMPBELL SOUP. Although earnings this fiscal year will be hurt by strikes and higher costs, Campbell's long-term record of excellent sales and earnings suggests an early snapback in profits.

KNUDSEN CORP. A leading dairy in the fast-growing Southern California market, commencing to diversify. The strong capital position is enhanced by valuable real estate holdings in downtown Los Angeles.

NATIONAL BISCUIT CO. This leading cracker and cookie baker also produces specialty mixes, frozen items, and pet foods. Foreign subsidiaries account for 20% of sales. High start-up costs interrupted the earnings uptrend this year, but 1969 prospects are good.

Rev. Guenther C. Branstner
First Methodist Church of Northville

The trouble with Thanksgiving is:

...we're so busy with family, football, and food that the usual Thanksgiving service has to be moved to Wednesday evening. This is typical of most communities. It is true in ours.

...we're so logy with too much to eat that Thanksgiving afternoon tends to be a drowsy semi-coma. The football game keeps us awake, but barely. It is brain battling stomach, and stomach seems to be winning.

...we're so smothered with cliches. Remember Herb Black's great cartoon of years ago? A well-fed, elegantly dressed group of citizens are about to sit down at the Thanksgiving table. In the background are sketched a sampling of the gaunt, hungry faces of the world's miserable millions. One matron, with a patronizing smile says, "Shall we return thanks?" What a question!

The wonderful thing about Thanksgiving is that we have so much for which to be grateful. But abundance is the wrong springboard for thanksgiving. If our gratitude is to be in proportion to our blessings then the wealthy man should be most grateful of all. Can a Christian accept this kind of logic? Or is this smugness masquerading as gratitude? "We've so much to be thankful for", is not necessarily thanksgiving at all. It sounds more like a sigh of relief.

The truly grateful man... what is he like? Perhaps Abraham Lincoln can offer us an insight:

The roots of Christian gratitude are not in abundance and wealth. If so, a man who simply "gets by" has no proper grounds for thanksgiving. Is gratitude impossible for Christians in so-called poor countries?

"We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace and prosperity; we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has ever grown. But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us, in peace, and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us, and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior virtue and wisdom of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us. It behooves us to humble ourselves before the offended Power, to confess our national sins, and to pray for clemency and forgiveness."

Thanksgiving is gratitude for life itself. Thanksgiving is to accept the possibilities of zestful purpose in using our days. It expresses itself in the stewardship of all things. Only in Jesus Christ do we see the infinite possibilities of such stewardship.

What do you propose to do about it?

To Be Thankful

It used to be that a picture like this could only mean harvest time—big orange pumpkins, shiny red apples, colorful stalks of Indian corn. And, of course, a turkey in the pantry.

But what about today? You can buy apples almost any time. Pumpkins are available in a can twelve months of the year. And you can buy a frozen turkey as easily in July as in November.

We Americans take for granted what was a real treat in our parent's time. But in the midst of this material plenty, there is danger of spiritual famine. To keep the proper perspective, to appreciate the gifts of life to the fullest we need the Church and the story it has to tell us.

Maybe you can't be a pioneer—a Pilgrim. But you can follow your forefathers' example at Plymouth that first November. You can utter genuine thanks in the church of your choice.

9-Mile Owner Says

650 Acre Sale Unfounded

Reports that sale of most of the undeveloped farm land between Nine and 10 Mile roads, from Taft east to Brookland Farms, is imminent apparently have no substance.

At least that is the word from one of the principal property owners, William Roskelly. "There is absolutely nothing to it," he told this newspaper Friday.

An unconfirmed report had some 600-acres of property being sold to the Detroit Citizens Development Authority, a non-profit developer of low-cost or moderate-cost housing. Chairman of the authority is Walter P. Reuther.

Edward Robinson, executive director of the authority, said purchase of the property is unlikely — although he said purchase has been considered. "Talk about something that isn't likely just gets people all stirred up over nothing," he said.

Asked if the authority has considered purchases of Maybury Sanatorium property, Robinson replied, "No, we haven't."

The authority, made up of "prominent people" in the Detroit area, gained national attention recently with the erection of the first of 1,000 prefabricated low-cost homes in Detroit. The houses are built in Fort Wayne, Indiana by the Peerless Manufacturing Company and transported to Detroit for quick erection.

The houses reportedly range in size from one to four bedrooms and in cost from $5,700 to $13,000.

Robinson explained that the authority's purpose is simply to purchase property and to plan needed "low-cost, moderate" housing in the metropolitan area.

Although Roskelly emphatically denied that property is being sold to the authority "or anyone else", he did confirm that he and Marc Alan, individually, collectively or under corporate arrangements now own an estimated 650 acres of property in the Nine Mile-Taft Road area.

Except for Brookland Farms, these men and their firms now own most of the remainder of the Nine Mile to 10 Mile to Taft Road property, he said. In addition, it owns 120 acres of property east of Beck Road and south of 10 Mile, some 100 acres near 11 Mile Road, and 145 acres just west of Taft, north of Nine Mile.

Asked if his company had given up plans for development of nearly 140-acres of property on the north side of Nine Mile Road near Center Street following its failure to gain approval from the Novi Planning Board, Roskelly said that these plans are now being adjusted to satisfy citizen and officials' demands for larger lot sizes.

A proposal for a combination of homes, commercial and apartment development earlier this year ran into a storm of protest — primarily because of proposed 50-foot lot sizes for the houses. Actually, the zoning of approximately 60 of the 140 acres already provides for 60-foot lots.

Roskelly said his firm recognizes that development of 60-foot lots would only antagonize "the neighbors" and create opposition to later proposals it might suggest. With that in mind, he said plans for a development of larger size lots is now on the drawing boards.

It was from the Roskelly-Alan land holders that the Northville School District had received a promise of a 10-acre school site on the north side of Nine Mile Road, opposite Connemara subdivision.

Top GOP Post to Go To Northville Man

A young Northville man is a sure bet to take over the reigns of the Michigan Republican Party next February.

Thirty-six year old William F. McLaughlin, 592 Reed, received the endorsement for the coveted state chairmanship by top GOP leaders last week Wednesday in a leadership conference at Lansing.

"I'm very pleased with the support," McLaughlin told this newspaper. "It should be an interesting two years."

If elected — and there's little to indicate he won't — McLaughlin will be one of the youngest, if not the youngest, ever to hold the Michigan GOP position in history.

McLaughlin received the plaudits and endorsement of Governor George Romney, Lieutenant Governor William Milliken, Senator Robert Griffin, and Representative Elford Cederberg, who voiced opinions of Michigan's 12 GOP congressmen.

Some of the greatest praise came from Mrs. Elly Peterson, outgoing state chairman with whom McLaughlin has been serving since 1966. She said he has done a "conspicuously good job" while performing behind the scenes.

She said GOP leaders still strongly recommend McLaughlin's election, although she did not rule out another person running for the post.

McLaughlin, who presently is both vice-chairman and executive director of the state GOP, said he had not been actively campaigning for the post but that he had "let it be known that I was interested."

He said the only woman presently seeking the vice-chairman's post is Margaret Ann Reicker of Midland. McLaughlin, who said Mrs. Reicker "would be a fine choice", indicated he probably will appoint someone to the executive director's position upon his election.

A native of Syracuse, New York, McLaughlin moved to St. Clair Shores in 1951, almost immediately involving himself in local and Macomb County Republican politics. In 1960 he formed the Young Republican Club of Macomb County and in 1962 ran unsuccessfully for the state legislature. He soon became chairman of the Macomb County Republican Party and in 1964 did advance work for Governor Romney's election campaign.

Mrs. Peterson, who has been elected to the full-time position of national committeewoman for the GOP, named McLaughlin executive director two months after she took the top post in 1965. That same year he was elected vice-chairman of the party, and in 1967 was re-elected.

Prior to assuming full time posts with the state GOP, McLaughlin worked in publicity and advertising for Cinerama. He moved to Northville in September, 1965. Married with three children, his wife, Janet, is expecting another child soon.

Human Limb Found By Hunting Party

A hunting trip to the Porcupine Mountains near Ontonagon in the upper peninsula by a group of Salem Township hunters and their friends took a gruesome turn when one of the party found some human bones in the wilderness area.

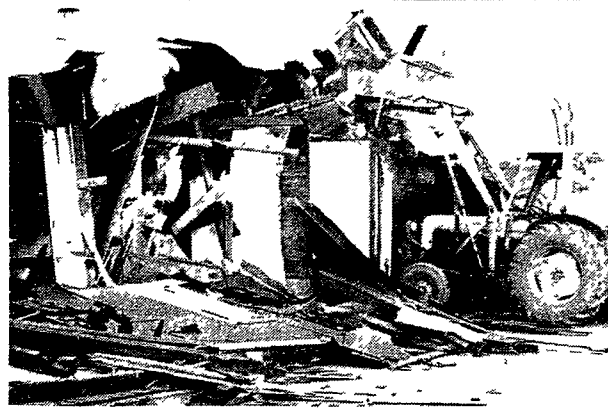

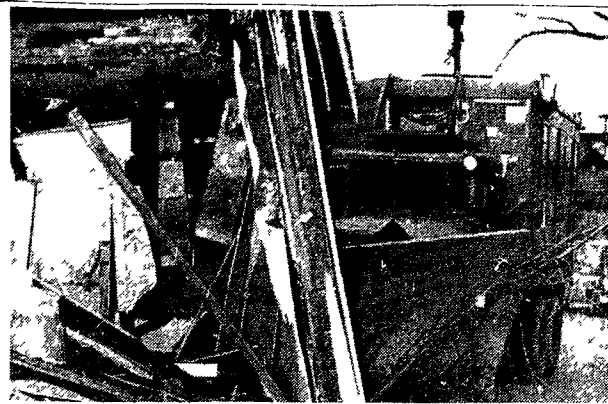

Jim Tomlinson of Westland discovered first a man's high shoe with a leg bone still in it. A few feet away the other shoe was found along with some scattered bones. Both shoes bore animal teeth marks.

Tomlinson and other hunters in the party, Ferman Rohraff, Kenneth Rich, Charlie Cole, Bob Bulmon, all of Salem; Darrell Bulmon of South Lyon and Dave Schultz of Northville, gathered up the bones and reported the discovery to the local police.

Identification of the bones is now being attempted at the U-M in Ann Arbor.

According to an Ontonagon County party, two possibilities have been turned up in the police missing persons files. They are a 19-year old University of Wisconsin student whose car was found in the area in April, and an older man from Bergland missing since June following a light plane crash in the area. As yet there is no indication whether the man died of natural causes, exposure, or by animal attack.

The Salem hunters who hunt in the far northern area every year did not return with only bare bones. They have five nice deer to show for their marksmanship.

LANDMARK RAZED — The long narrow apartment building behind Del's Shoe Store and purchased by the city for parking lot purposes was razed last week in about a half hour by city employees. The men used a bulldozer, backhoe and a surplus Army truck with plow blade in demolishing the building.

Two Injured In Crash Here

Two persons were injured, one of them hospitalized, in an accident on East Main Street between Park Place and the city spring Thursday afternoon.

Joan E. Morgan of 366 Welch, who was hospitalized at St. Mary, was driving east on Main when Bruce V. Brown of Westland, who was westbound, apparently swerved into her path. The head-on collision demolished both cars.

Brown was examined and given a blood test at Wayne County General Hospital, the charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. The blood test was sent on to Lansing.

Mustangs Clash With Lions In Season Opener Tuesday

Although the Mustangs share their new coach's desire to snatch the 1968-69 Wayne-Oakland League crown in his first season at the helm their immediate aim is getting past the non-league opener Tuesday at South Lyon.

"Every game's important," says Coach Bob Kucher, who last year was the junior varsity mentor and who since has become both the varsity basketball coach and athletic director. "Certainly South Lyon's no exception."

Reports that South Lyon will field a "thin squad with little initial depth" are taken with a grain of salt by Kucher, who insisted the Lions cannot be taken lightly.

The Mustangs, who last year finished second (12-2) to West Bloomfield — the favorite to repeat again this season — are relatively inexperienced this season although Coach Kucher appraises the quintet as having "good balance" in scoring, rebounding and defense.

The first nine of last season's starters were lost through graduation, noted Kucher. Fortunately, several of last year's junior varsity quintet, one of the finest in the school's history, boost the Mustangs' prospects.

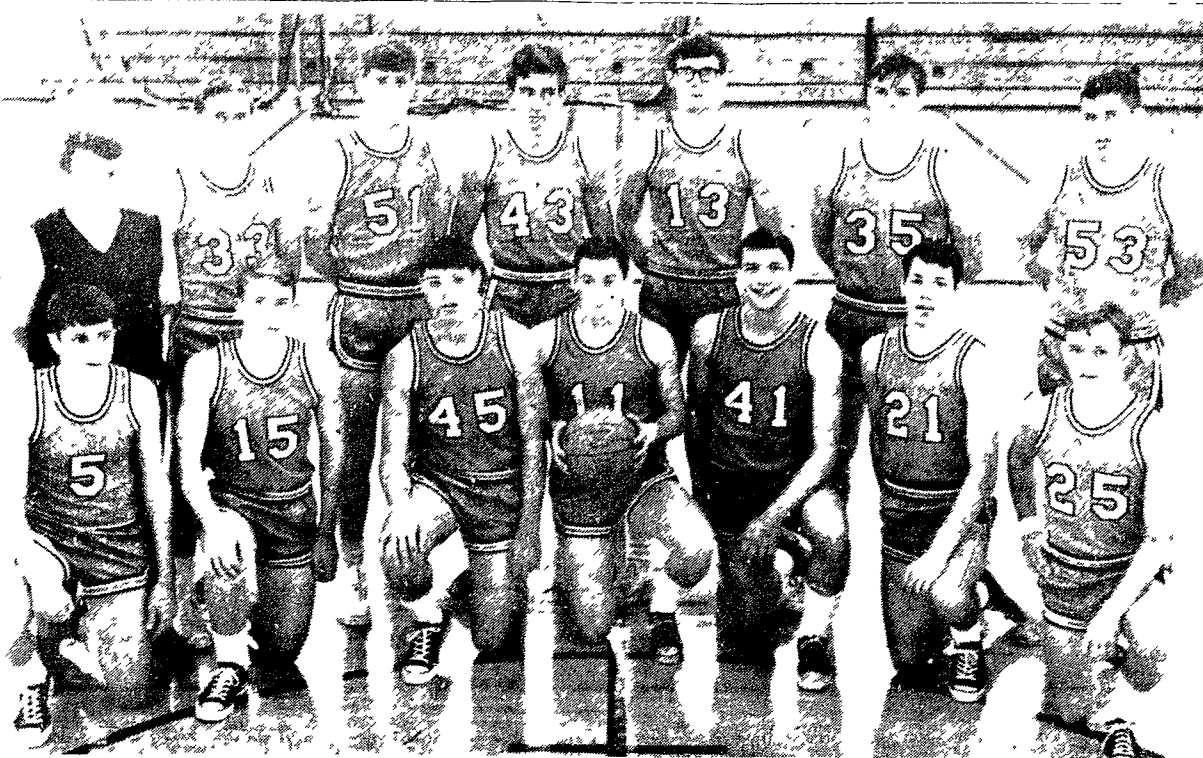

"We won't be too tall," observed the coach, "but we'll be quick and I figure these fellows will get up on the boards despite the lack of height. They're a scrappy bunch and they certainly don't lack desire."

Back from last year's squad will be Center Craig Turnbull (6'2"), Forward Stan Nirider (6') and Guard-Forward Jeff Taylor (6'1"). Other returning lettermen include Forward Barry Deal, Center Greg Marshall, and Forward Dan Condon. They'll be joined by last season's JV's, Rich Adams, Fred Holdsworth, Ron Hubbard, Terry Mills, Jim Penrod, Marc Sheffer, and Dave Johnston.

South Lyon is building most of its hopes around Dave Brandon, a 6'1½" forward-guard who last season as a sophomore was the team's second highest scorer and is rated by some as being as quick as Nirider, the Mustangs' exceptionally quick guard.

Senior Center Ed Canfield (6'3") is especially good on the boards, and Sophomore Glenn Wiseman, who figures to be a good, rugged player with plenty of potential will play a forward. Last year he was a top scorer with the junior varsity quintet, moving up to the varsity for tournament competition.

Among other players are: Brad Lloyd (good dribbler and ball handler); Fred Green (squad's best dribbler); Mark Hardesty (good shot); Larry Boyles (back up forward, high scorer as JV); Gary Miller (forward, center).

Coach Anxious for Battle

Novi Cagers Bigger, Meaner

A bigger, meaner pack of Wildcats will be scratching the hardwood this year when Novi's varsity quintet clashes with Hartland in the season opener December 7.

There are a number of good reasons why Coach Jim Ladd is anxious to send his young scrappers to battle. Most important of these, of course, is the fact that the Wildcats boasts a senior contingent that includes eight returning lettermen. The addition of a senior class and the added experience was a big asset in Novi's vastly improved football squad, and Ladd is hopeful of the same kind of results on the basketball court.

Another important factor in any opening high school contest is the familiarity with the surroundings. And Novi will be playing in its own gymnasium.

Then there's a little matter about revenge. Fans will recall that it was Hartland that defeated the Wildcats in the football opener this year — a loss that was not repeated until the final game of the season. Many of Novi's cagers were members of the football squad that suffered the opening defeat and they'd like nothing better than to de-feather the Eagles.

Actually, Ladd's squad wouldn't have to win many games to better the 1967-68 season. Last year the Wildcats suffered 11 defeats in 13 starts in the Lakeland C Conference. Overall, they finished the season with 3-16.

But the Novi coach won't be satisfied with just bettering last year's record. Playing as an independent this season, the Wildcats will play 14 regular season games — including a historic one against Northville on December 17. (Until this year, some of Northville's stellar athletes hailed from Novi).

His fingers crossed, the Novi coach is pointing to a fast break offense and pressure defense. "Hartland won't be a snap even though they didn't have much last year. Most of their juniors are back so I imagine they'll be improved considerably."

Leading the way this season will be 6'1" senior center Jon VanWagner, who as a junior led the team in scoring with 310 points. He hauled down 184 rebounds last year.

Lee Snow, 6'3" forward (team's tallest and huskiest member) followed VanWagner in points with 197 and is determined to improve this output, while Gary Boyer, a speedy 5'9" guard, is equally determined to better his 140-point mark.

Defensive ace, Don Maki, and Boyer's brother, Tom, are expected to round out the starting five.

"Seniors Ken Osborn, David Bingham, and Doug Keith should give plenty of competition to these boys for a place on the starting five and give us a strong bench," said Ladd.

With 23 boys out for the squad, Ladd said he probably will cut in to 15 today. Two of them will be sent to the junior varsity.

SPORTS

JV Fives, Frosh Aim for Success

With high school basketball due to get into full swing next week, junior varsity and freshman mentors are readying their charges just as are the varsity coaches.

Omar Harrison (Northville Jayvee), Dennis Palmer (Colts Frosh) and Milan Obrenovich (Novi Jayvee) are trying to mold their boys into working units with varying degrees of success and hopes for the coming season.

Best endowed in the front line appears to be Harrison, whose forces will be led by 6'5" Kerry Cushing at center and 6'1" Bernie Bach at a forward, both capable of playing on some area varsities, according to some observers. Harrison also will have a strong rebounder, 6'2" Steve Utley, to go with this tandem up front.

Obrenovich has quantity but not experience as he finds 25 boys, 18 of them freshmen, practicing to make the squad. As Novi has no freshman program, he hopes to keep all 25 on the team to give them needed experience. As it shapes up now, he plans to start Freshman Bob Tyler at a guard, with Sophomores Tom VanWagner and Bob Vivian at the forwards, Brad Burnham at center and Doug Osborn at the other guard. Steve Bosak and Bob Cliff have some experience and Kevin Hesse will help out behind the front five.

An inexperienced squad answered Palmer's call, but he has sorted out potential starters in strong rebounder Todd Hannert (6'2") at center, transfer Bob Kirt and high scoring Brad Cole at the forwards, and good ball-handlers Bill Andrews and John Hubbard at the guards. Evans, Guider and Van Dries are expected to form a supporting nucleus.

Each of the coaches stressed hopes for a good season, but felt experience would determine success. Harrison has a fine front trio, but lacks depth there. He feels his team has good potential, and pointed to a wealth of good but inexperienced guards in Rick Sechler, John Stuyvenburg, Kurt Suckow, Paul Condon and Dave Martin as keys, as well as strong rebounder but fundamentally inexperienced 6'3" Jim Darnell to back up his strong forward wall.

At Novi, Obrenovich is trying hard on fundamentals and is working to develop a winning mental attitude to offset green aspect of his boys. Van Wagner appears to be the team leader and a key to success. Obrenovich would like to see the junior high program picked up again, too, as he feels that in the past helped his present sophomores, but the other boys will hurt for the present lack of such a program.

Last Grid Contest Slated This Week

Farmington, Livonia and Plymouth residents, in that order, laid claim to the prizes in the weekly football contest sponsored by The Northville Record-Nov News and cooperating local businesses.

Football fans still hoping for a crack at the prizes are reminded that time's running out. This week will mark the close of the 1968 contest season, so turn to Page 9-A and pick your winners immediately.

Winning last week's $10 first prize was Joseph Szabo of 20841 Metroview, a Farmington resident who missed only two games — both ties.

Judges marked everyone wrong for those tie games between Yale and Harvard (29-29) and Detroit and New Orleans (29-29). The pro game score, however, was used in determining the second and third place winners. No one was marked wrong for the Georgia-Georgia Tech game — it won't be played until this Saturday.

Winning second place was Larry Nelson of 37785 St. Martins, Livonia, and third place went to Craig Hoffman, 42809 Parkhurst, member of the Plymouth family that has been making a habit of winning. Both came up with three mistakes, with Larry taking the edge on a closer guess of the Detroit-New Orleans 20-20 tie.

It was about an even choice between Ohio State and Michigan but chances are few would have guessed Ohio's whopping 50-14 win.

Among the other difficult ones for contestants were Iowa over Illinois, 37-13, and Oregon State over Oregon, 41-19.

Junior Football Group To Elect 18 Directors

The annual meeting of the Northville Junior Football Association will be held Wednesday, December 4 beginning at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church.

Purpose of the meeting is to elect 18 members to the association's board of directors for the year of 1969. Only those members who have received registration cards for 1968 are eligible to vote. Although the card is a family membership only one vote is permitted per family.

At a meeting on October 31, names of 29 persons — including 11 incumbents — were placed in nomination, according to Association Secretary H. W. Price.

In addition to the election, the meeting is also the time for turning in

Municipal Court

Judge Philip Ogilvie of Northville Municipal Court heard a felonious assault case and returned four escapees to Detroit House of Correction last week Monday.

Donald A. McIntyre of 424 North Center Street had been charged with felonious assault by his wife when he allegedly poured hot water on her on October 17. McIntyre stood mute before Judge Ogilvie at arraignment on the following day, and a plea of innocent was entered for him and hearing was set for last Monday.

At the hearing, Mrs. McIntyre requested that the charges against her husband be dropped, and Judge Ogilvie dismissed the case.

All four House of Correction escapees pleaded guilty when they appeared before Judge Ogilvie and he returned them for the following terms: Jerry S. Hollars of Detroit — 30 days; Charles Ashbrook of Austintown, Ohio — 15 days; Gregory Savage of Westland — 15 days; and Claude Priddy of Detroit — six days.

On regular court day Thursday, Judge Ogilvie also was faced with a number of cases. The first three listed appeared after warrants had been served on them for failure to appear.

Maude A. Huff of Plymouth pleaded guilty to not having paid several parking tickets. She paid a total fine and costs (including the tickets) of $56.

Linda R. Halfacre of Farmington pleaded guilty on two counts, one of improper plates, the other of defective brakes, and paid $25 and $2.50 costs on each count.

The other warrant was served on Ronald A. Boles of Livonia who pleaded guilty to driving a motorcycle without a helmet and paid $25 and $2.50 costs.

A plea of guilty was entered by Leonard F. King III of Plymouth to contributing to the delinquency of minors. He paid $40 and $14 costs in lieu of 10 days in jail.

Pleading guilty to driving while his ability was impaired cost Gary R. Kay of 52475 Nine Mile Road $100 which he paid in lieu of 20 days in jail.

On the same count, Alfred R. Mills of Belleville paid the same fine rather than undergo the same period of incarceration.

Bradley K. Merna of Farmington was assessed $10 following his guilty plea to driving with improper plates.

Entering a guilty plea to driving with defective exhaust brought a $10 fine to Jonathan W. Melvin of 9741 Seven Mile Road.

Rudolph and Gloria Mayer of 47016 Elmsmere Drive appeared on a charge of having an unfenced swimming pool, had their fine suspended, but paid $10 court costs.

Cavern Awarded Funds For Part-Time Advisor

United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit announced Thursday that it has granted funds to Northville's Teen-Age Club, The Cavern, to hire a paid, part-time advisor for approximately 20 hours a week for a one-year period.

The adult board of the Cavern, which is sponsored by Northville Mothers' Club, has been advertising for an adult advisor for the past month when it first was known that money would be available from the UFC.

As a result of inquiries to the newspaper ad, Mrs. Harold Wright reports, several people have been sent job descriptions. Anyone else interested in the position is asked to call her, 349-1276, or Mrs. H. O. Evans, 349-1474, as soon as possible.

Interviews will be held next week and by the first of the year, the Cavern will begin operating with the new advisor.

Since the Cavern's beginning in 1965, Mrs. Gordon Forrer, a member of Northville Mother's Club, has acted as a volunteer adult advisor. Under her guidance the teens secured a lease for their present quarters in the former community building on West Main Street from the Northville School District. They have redecorated it for their clubroom.

When Mrs. Forrer asked to be relieved of her responsibility, a plan was begun to find a paid advisor, but first necessary funds had to be secured. United Foundation was contacted first and the request was referred to United Community Services, the dispensing agency for U.F. funds.

After several meetings between members of the adult and teen boards and George I. S. Corcoran, director of Western Wayne Planning Division, United Community Services, and after a special presentation to the volunteer board of the Western Wayne Planning Division, U.C.S., it was decided that they would endorse the request, with five conditions, including the stipulation that a feasible plan be developed to continue financial support for the Cavern.

A plan to develop continuing financial support for the Cavern will be initiated after the first of the year. It will include encouraging interested citizens to become patrons or boosters for the Cavern with donations, the committee said.

Other conditions of the grant are: —The duration of the U.S.C. support be understood by all parties to be for one year only.

—The Cavern will submit a proposed budget for 1969.

—A job description of the position of adult advisor be developed.

—Terms of the agreement meet with the approval of a committee of the Western Wayne Planning Division.

The committee's ad a month ago for the adult advisor, therefore, was the culmination of several months' work by the adult board of the Cavern. The committee, in announcing the grant, said it feels it will be able to hire a suitable person and pay an adequate salary through the generosity of U.C.S.

In the Novi High School fireworks case, David Aidama of 27700 Novi Road pleaded guilty before Judge Jacques on Thursday and paid a $15 fine and was placed on six months probation.

On Wednesday, November 13, Martin L. Williams of Farmington appeared before Justice Jacques and entered a plea of guilty to the charge of careless driving and paid a $25 fine.

Meetings at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. with a Thanksgiving potluck dinner at 5:30 p.m. sandwiched between them will take place tomorrow at the Full Salvation Union, according to the Rev. James F. Andrews. Rev. Andrews adds that he expects a number of out-of-town guests.

Thanksgiving in music and recitations highlighted the program presented by the children of the Salem Christian Congregational Church during the Sunday School hour last Sunday. The Thanksgiving message was delivered by the Rev. Gary Herne.

Also delivering his Thanksgiving sermon on Sunday was the Rev. Rex Dye at the Salem Baptist church.

A special Thanksgiving message by the Rev. Ivan Speight and the anthem, "Ge Gather Together" by the adult choir will be a part of the regular Wednesday evening prayer meeting at the Salem Bible church tonight.
