Besides, it gives a youngster like Wayne Tarrow time to nap a little in the noon-day sun while teasing carp, bullheads, and an occasional trout.

District Court Still on Trial

Four months have passed since the Michigan District Court was officially went into operation on January 1. Opinion of the new court ranged from blind confidence in its immediate success to flat disenchantment and the hope that this "new fangled" system would soon fail and expose itself as the hoax it was.

To date, neither expectation has materialized. Comments of three district court judges — Judge Dunbar Davis of Wayne County, Judge Martin Boyle of Oakland County and Judge Bert Hensick of Livingston County — attest to as much.

To a large extent, the current success or failure of any one district court operation in "this transition period" depends on the legacy the presiding judge inherited, the number of qualified people who assumed jobs in the court; the extent of the case backlog and the appropriateness of court facilities.

There are other variables, too, such as the cooperation a district court receives from law enforcement authorities and other citizens, the geographical location of the court and, of course, the competence of the presiding judge as administrator.

One of the best district courts operations is that of Judge Davis — the 35th district with its seat in Plymouth. It's working "very well," Judge Davis said of his court, but he was quick to point out the advantages which he enjoys that other, usually more rural courts don't.

"I've been fortunate to have trained clerks from Northville and Plymouth," he said. "This has made the transition from the justice courts and small municipal courts quite easy."

Presently, his court staff includes three clerks, a court reporter, bookkeeper and three parttime people in the probation department.

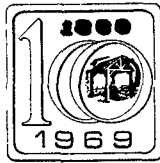

Judge Davis also lauded the "very good facilities" in his district, and especially those in Plymouth, which he

Curtain Opens On 'Oliver'

Playing nightly, beginning at 8 p.m., through Saturday at the high school auditorium, the performances feature an all-school cast under the direction of Donald Valentine and Robert Chapel.

Tickets for the remaining performances are still available, especially for tonight's curtain raiser, at the school or at the door before each performance.

City, Township Slate Key Public Hearings

Citizen involvement will take the spotlight next week as the city and township of Northville hold several separate public hearings involving township rezoning, city public improvement, and the central business district plan.

The public improvement hearing is slated for 8 p.m. Monday at the city hall before the city council; the CBD hearing before the city planning commission will take place at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the city hall; and the rezoning hearing before the township planning commission is set for 8 p.m. Tuesday at the township hall.

Northville city's proposed five-year improvement program, first recommended by the city manager and since endorsed in principle by the council, covers a wide number of suggested improvements, ranging from water and sewer installation to park development.

Other projects include street paving and repaving; new streets; tree planting and street lighting; buildings, major equipment, and bridges; storm drainage; sidewalks; housing study; and parking improvements.

Among others, specific projects include provisions for a circular drive around the central business district; extension of Griswold and Wing streets; a study of low-income housing needs for senior citizens; and acquisition of land for parks and recreation.

City's share of the cost for this five-year program has been put at $1,330,000 plus and $80,000 per year pay-off of proposed bond issues over an additional 15 year period. These figures do not include possible state and federal funds or special assessments and private developers' contributions.

While bond issues will be needed to guarantee loans for the projects of the five-year plan, City Manager Frank Ollendorff has suggested that the program could be financed by pledging a portion of the returns from pari-mutuel betting at Northville Downs.

At most, Ollendorff sees a levy of two mills in tax dollars.

The township hearings Tuesday will consider the requests of Bert L. Smokler Company for rezoning of 44 acres on the Southwest corner of Franklin and Bradner roads from R-4 (single family dwellings) to RM-1 (multiple dwellings) to permit construction of 265 townhouses; and of Ross Northrop to rezone 11 acres from R-2 to RM-1 to permit construction of 10 townhouses containing some 60 dwelling units on Sheldon road between the Wayne County Child Development Center and the Northrop-owned Brooklane golf course.

Another rezoning item on the agenda seeks rezoning of a one-acre lot from R-4 to RM-1 at First and Meade to allow construction of a three-family dwelling.

The multiple-dwelling rezoning request represents the first since citizens voiced their opposition to additional apartment developments at the annual township meeting.

Although a resolution offered for adoption at that meeting was ruled out of order and not binding on planners, willing to offer the township. The committee, chairmaned by Eugene Guido, was recently expanded by two members — Township Trustee Richard Mitchell and Wilson Tyler. In addition, two replacements have been named, with James Nowka replacing Hugh MacKay and Jack Stasiuk replacing H. O. Evans. Other members include Mrs. Constance Wilson, F. W. Hembrey, Richard Endress and E. O. Weber.

citizens nevertheless by a nearly unanimous vote went on record as opposing all new multiple rezoning in the township.

Township citizens said the vote, though perhaps not binding, reflected the public feeling. They indicated their concern with the future population density of the township, noting that the township's master plans calls for some 1,040 multiple dwelling units and that the total ready approved exceeds 2,000.

Airing of the CBD plan actually represents two public hearings to be held the same night by the city planning commission. One will consider the establishment of the CBD area and the other will define the CBP (parking) area within the CBD.

The first hearing is not expected to cause much controversy. CBD zoning is more liberal than the existing C-2 zoning within the business district in that it permits barber shops, beauty parlors and several other personal-service type businesses that are not permitted under the present C-2 zoning.

But CBP zoning is another matter. In an attempt to remove many of the objections posted at a hearing held on CBD-CBP rezoning in January, 1967, the planners decided to omit from rezoning at this time the two blocks south of Cady Street which lie in the proposed CBD area.

This area, with the exception of the track, is zoned residential.

Resume Police Study

A reconvened meeting of the Northville Township police study committee was held last night (Wednesday) in a move to update the committee's original report and recommendations to the township board.

Wayne County Sheriff Roman Gribbs and Northville Police Chief Samuel Elkins were scheduled to be on hand to answer questions as to the police service their agencies would be

To Four Buildings

Board Eyes School Additions

As remodeling of the community building for administrative offices gets underway today, planning for additions to four Northville schools moves into the pre-preliminary drawing stage.

With committee suggestions concerning additions at Moraine

Elementary and Ida B. Cooke Junior High already in the hands of the architect, the Northville Board of Education Monday night authorized submission of similar suggestions concerning the high school and Amerman Elementary to the architect.

Initial drawings, said Superintendent Raymond Spear, will incorporate as many of the committee suggestions as possible even though the board has yet to decide the total number of classrooms, their sizes, and their locations at each school.

Although the architect has yet to study the feasibility of committee suggestions and to estimate their costs, Spear told The Record Monday that the total proposed building program could involve more than 40 new classrooms representing a cost of from $1.5 million to $2 million.

"It's still too early to say definitely what these costs will be because it hasn't been decided how many classrooms will be built," Spear said. "We'll take a look at the architects pre-preliminary drawings and go from there."

Certain, however, is that a building proposal will be put to the voters next fall — probably in November.

It was apparent from discussion at Monday's meeting that recommendations of the committees, made up of school officials and citizens, call for more classrooms than the board originally anticipated.

At the high school, for example, the board had estimated a need for 16 classrooms, with 12 of these located in a new two-story unit situated at the southeast corner of the present high school complex. The committee, however, has noted that enlargement of the school would further overtax locker room facilities and therefore it recommended expansion of these facilities. In addition, it suggested 18 classrooms instead of 16.

Some of these classrooms, it has been suggested, could be included without a great deal of additional expense by utilizing among other areas the patio on the east wing.

Furthermore, it has been suggested that with utilization of court area, some of the window corridors, which have caused heating and ventilation problems over the years, would be eliminated.

These high school additions are premised on a total student enrollment of 1,400 to 1,500.

Board Vice-President Robert Froelich voiced objection to this "big" high school concept. "Anything over 1,000," he said, "is a big high school." And bigness, he suggested, is not the answer to good education.

Furthermore, Froelich commented that placement of new classrooms wherever an open space occurs leads to a conglomeration. He favored, he said, additions that either carry out the original grouping concept built into the school or at least show some semblance of an orderly plan. Positioning, he said, should take into consideration student traffic patterns.

You can place a fast-working, result-producing want ad in The Argus-Record-Herald and News simply by calling 229-9500, 437-2011 or 349-1700.

But remember to do it before 5 p.m. Monday.

CAMPAIGN UNDERWAY — City-wide trash pickup this week kicked off the month-long clean-up, fix-up, paint-up campaign sponsored by Northville's Beautification Commission. Residents of the community really put their shoulders to the trash project — so much so report city officials that department of public works personnel were unable to complete the pickup Monday as anticipated. Workers were still picking up trash Wednesday and it appeared they might still be at it through Friday. While the campaign will continue through May, commission officials hope much of the cleaning, painting and fixin' is completed by Civic Pride Day — kickoff for Michigan Week May 17.

Around Northville

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Turnbull, 350 Eaton Drive, are home from a two-week vacation in Hawaii where their headquarters were the new Rainbow Towers of the Hilton Hotel.

Accompanying them were Mrs. Turnbull's sister and her husband, the Don Sondermans of Detroit and formerly of Northville. Commenting that the colorful islands were even "beyond expectations," Mrs. Turnbull said the foursome visited the outer islands and did a great deal of walking during their stay.

They spent two days in San Francisco enroute home.

Members of the Northville Board of Education secretarial staff marked Mrs. Mary Ann Anderson's last day as secretary to Earl Busard, school business manager, with luncheon last Friday at Lofy's in Plymouth. She was leaving for other employment.

By coincidence, two great-nephews of Jim Spagnulolo, 113 East Main Street, entered civic service as city councilmen at the same time. Last Monday Paul F. Folino was sworn in as a Northville City councilman and in Fenton, Michigan, another great-nephew, Albert Turco, began his service in that community.

American Legion Auxiliary to Post 147 has advanced its May meeting date at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 6, at the Legion Home when all chairmen are asked to bring annual report forms to be sent in to Legion departments.

It was moved a week ahead to avoid conflict with the May 9 district meeting in Livonia.

Auditions for the Detroit Madrigal Club chorus are to be held at 8 p.m. Monday at the Covenant Baptist Church. Any interested women in the area are invited to call Mrs. Kent Mathes, 476-4421, or Mrs. Roger Belanger, 474-7098, for additional information.

Gary Becker of 543 Dubuar, a graduate of Northville High School, was recently admitted to the honors program at Wayne State University.

'Our Town' Theme Picked for Carnival

"Our Town" is the theme for the annual PTA carnival to be held Friday, May 23, at Northville High School where a patriotic red, white and blue color scheme will be carried out in posters and decorations.

The carnival is expanding to larger facilities at the high school this year, moving from the Cooke Junior High setting of last year. The high school football field will be used for parking.

This year's carnival has five chairmen planning to continue traditional midways and booths as well as the spaghetti dinner in the school cafeteria. They are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Al Pfeleka and Mrs. John Heckerl.

A new feature will be a display of children's art work depicting scenes of Northville, to be shown throughout the high school.

Committees and chairmen for the carnival include senior midway (junior and senior high), Ted Westphal and Bill Heffner; junior midway (Main Street and Amerman elementaries), Bruce Griggs and Ted Heckler; special events, Howard Meyer, Earl Westnick; outside activities, Marty Rinehart and Pete Lindholm, door prizes, Brenda Laux; inventory, Bob Massel; tickets, Earl Busard, publicity, Mrs. William Hopping; decorations, Mrs. John Moorhead; and treasurer, Dave Biery.

Moraine elementary will be in charge of the dinner this year with a committee headed by Mrs. William Bates.

In Our Town

By JEAN DAY

"PLACES TO GO and Things To See in Northville and Surrounding Areas" is the title of a new book now on the presses that could become as useful locally as the telephone book.

It is the work of Northville Newcomers' Club members who have compiled, checked and rechecked information — which ranges from names of officers of local organizations to sports-of-the-area, trips to take and places to browse. There's even a section marked, intriguingly, "secret places."

The book will make its debut at the Our Lady of Victory flea market to be held May 17 on the church grounds and will sell for $1.50.

Newcomers themselves will be able to inspect it at a May membership coffee Thursday, May 22 at King's Mill.

Appropriately, it is going on sale during the Michigan Week — Mrs. William Slattery, Michigan Week chairman, invited the club to display the book at the tea in which all women's organizations will be participating Wednesday, May 21. Newcomers, incidentally, already had volunteered to be responsible for the refreshment table at the tea, which officially will honor Mrs. Beatrice Carlson, retired Northville councilwoman and beautification worker.

(Mrs. Slattery stresses that every woman in the community is invited to attend the event at Northville Presbyterian Church.)

Back to "Places To Go, etc.," the book was started by Mrs. Joseph Petro with Mrs. J. Cecil Morin taking over as a new little Petro was due. A resident of Northville for only three months and an English transplant, Mrs. Morin admits she tried to double check every detail as "everything was new" to her.

NORTHVILLE Women's Club President Mrs. Blake Couse thanked her officers and committee chairmen of the past year and welcomed her new board and chairmen at a luncheon Wednesday at her Lough Drive home.

Committee chairman for 1969-70 are Mrs. William Bake, social; Mrs. George Weiss, scholarship; Mrs. Charles Yahne, nominating; Mrs. Richard Lyon, reservation and transportation; Mrs. George Jerome, music; Mrs. William Switzler, program; Mrs. Charles Fountain, press; Mrs. C. H. Bryan, civic improvement and federation; Mrs. E. O. Weber, house-welcoming; Mrs. C. C. Teasel, flowers; and Mrs. H. A. Boyden, membership. Mrs. Boyden has served the club efficiently in this capacity for many years and has accepted the position for the coming year.

ANNUAL MEETING of the Northville State Hospital Auxiliary is being held at 10 a.m. today at the hospital. As Mrs. Levi

Eaton aptly states, "This truly is a working organization," for many members have worked faithfully for many years.

Alice Eaton herself is an example of the auxiliary's "dedicated ones," as she has consented to serve another term as president. (Last week her on-the-scene volunteer activities included work at the Presbyterian rummage sale.)

Hospital auxiliary members are quick to point out that they have no social activities, as do many hospital groups, but channel all efforts into such projects as the gift shop which operates six days a week and helping in the achievement of the newly opened hospital chapel.

The auxiliary's cart service to the wards was phased out a year ago as patient-operated stands have been instituted in a self-help program preparing patients for returning to their homes and communities. While the amount to be done can be frustrating, the satisfactions of such service are great, the volunteers say. They welcome any helping hands interested in this kind of effort.

Elected with Mrs. Eaton today are Mrs. James Sugrue, Jr., first vice-president; Mrs. Robert Nesbitt, second vice-president; Mrs. Elwyn Kaake, recording secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Vickery, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Richard A. Stuber, auxiliary treasurer; Mrs. Charles Brosius, gift shop treasurer.

Continuing standing committee include Jack Blackburn, tour guide; Mrs. C. C. Teasel, volunteer hours; Mrs. Percy Angove, books; Mrs. C. E. Ratliff, cards; and Mrs. Bernard Baldwin, candy.

THE PRESBYTERIAN Women's Association sale last Friday and Saturday netted $525. Mrs. William Dyke, association president, announced. Clothing not sold was being donated to Appalachia and to other church groups, including the Salvation Army. Unsold purses, however, went to patients at Northville State Hospital.

Annual tea of the Presbyterian Women's Association has been advanced from June to May 14 this year and will be held at the church. No meeting is planned for June.

Members expect to be busy throughout the summer, however, with plans for the third annual home tour in September. It has been decided that this year's proceeds will be donated for Presbyterian mission work.

A new feature of this year's tour will be a Christmas booth which will be at the church, together with the bake sale booth. Mrs. Dyke and a committee of arts and crafts workers already are making items to stock it.

Florida Trip Follows Midland Rites

A wedding trip to Florida followed afternoon rites April 19 at Sanford Methodist Church near Midland, in which Donald Coleman of Novi claimed Patricia Anne Sasse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Sasse, Sr., of Coleman, as his bride. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Coleman, 25615 Clark Street.

The bride's gown of imported organza was fashioned on Empire lines with a bodice of Chantilly lace embroidered with tiny seed pearls. It had a portrait neckline and short, scalloped sleeves. A double band of scalloped lace edged the floor-length, A-line skirt.

Her chapel-length wattle train was detachable. A chignon-style crown of crystals, lace and pearls secured her bouffant English illusion veil of elbow-length. She carried a cascade arrangement of yellow roses and white carnations.

In the ceremony, at which the Reverend Dale Ward officiated, Mrs. Thomas Spencer was matron of honor for her sister, Mrs. Dennis Vannest of Gladwin, Mrs. Vaughn Murray and Miss Eva Lewis were bridesmaids.

Their gowns of Nile green chiffon had fitted bodices trimmed with tiny buttons, lace collars and wrist-length sleeves. The long skirts were moderately flared. Matching bows held shoulder-length veils. The honor attendant carried yellow and white fugi mums and the bridesmaids, all-yellow arrangements.

Sue Foreman, niece of the bride, was flower girl in a white nylon dress with long sleeves and a full skirt, its waistline marked by a Nile green cummerbund. Glenn Sasse, the bride's cousin, carried the rings.

The bridegroom's brother, Gerald, of Novi, was best man. Other attendants were Ronald Slobor, Detroit, John Hykal, Novi and Thomas Spencer, Coleman. The bride's sister, Mrs. Donald Foreman, sang traditional selections. Mrs. Ross Archer was organist.

Luncheon was served immediately following the ceremony in the dining room of the Midland Community Center.

The bride, a graduate of Coleman High School, attended Central Michigan University and was graduated from Data Aids IBM School and now is secretary for Consulting Services, Inc., Northville. Her husband, a Northville High School graduate, is a machinist at Valcomatic Products, Walled Lake.

They are making their home in Novi.

Vietnam Veteran Takes Wife

A honeymoon in the Bahamas followed the candlelight ceremony in which Margaret Ann McKeever became the bride of Michael James Sissem March 14 in Our Lady of Victory Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Leo J. McKeever, 1027 Allen Drive, and the late Mr. McKeever. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Sissem, 319 Ely Drive. He returned February 26 from a year's tour of duty in Viet Nam and currently is serving an additional six months there with the U. S. Army.

The bride's brother, Paul McKeever of Plymouth, gave her in marriage. She wore a floor-length, hoop skirted gown of Alencon lace. Its tiered skirt extended into a chapel train. Seed pearls adorned her tiny Camelot hat which held a cathedral-length French illusion veil bordered in lace.

She carried a bouquet of white miniature carnations, sweetheart roses, ivy and white rosary beads.

Carolyn McKeever, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Barbara Fagan and Kathleen McKeever, another sister. Flower girl was Tracy Weatherford of Farmington.

All wore identical, long, sheath gowns of multi-colored floral chiffon over peach taffeta. A half sash of peach and green satin marked the Empire waistline, allowing the back of the gown to flow freely. They wore bittersweet horsehair picture hats and carried garden baskets of orange and yellow sweetheart roses and assorted garden flowers interspersed with ivy.

Ronald Jones of Brighton was best man. Pat and Tom Sissem, brothers of the bridegroom, ushered. His cousin, Arthur McLaughlin, was ring bearer.

For the wedding and reception following at the VFW hall for about 250 guests from Northville, Detroit, Lansing, Harrison, Farmington, Plymouth and Toledo, the bride's mother wore a floor-length A-line gown of champagne chiffon over taffeta. The bridegroom's mother wore a long gown of robin's egg blue sheer wool with matching sleeveless coat. Both wore corsages of carnations and sweetheart roses.

TH to Share Profits Again

Again this year Northville Town Hall is sharing a portion of its profits with community organizations. The awards committee of Town Hall is to meet later this month to consider requests from area organizations.

Any organization with a worth-while cause for which funds are needed is requested to write to Northville Town Hall Awards Committee, giving its need and the amount requested. Letters should be sent to Mrs. Harry Wagenschutz, 341 Beal Street. Mrs. Wagenschutz, 349-2976, may be contacted for additional information. Only non-profit organizations are eligible.

The committee urges organizations to make their requests as soon as possible. They must be in before June 7.

Town Hall also reminds residents of the Northville-Plymouth-Farmington areas that tickets now are on sale for the 1969-70 season.

She'll Compete With Singers

Competing with the South Oakland County Suburbanette Chapter of Sweet Adelines in the 14th annual chorus competition at Jack Tar Hotel in Lansing May 8 will be Mrs. Dale Henry of 41038 Malott Drive.

Ardis sings tenor and has also served as timekeeper on the judge's panel.

The S.O.C. chorus has won first place consistently in competition with 25 other chapters choruses from Michigan, Ohio and Ontario, when around 1300 other barbershop singers compete. It is part of the national organization of over 22,000 members and is directed by Mrs. William Greene of Farmington.

coffee — and it's all part of the new Jaycette on-the-scene service project at Northville State Hospital.

The project was begun last month as three couples visited the Fieldbrook unit at the hospital to play cards and games with the patients who are recently admitted adults from the surrounding areas. In this unit the average patient's stay is about six weeks, notes Mrs. Ronald Hellier, co-chairman of the project with Mrs. John Buckland.

Because their stay is short, she explains, it is important that patients keep in contact with the community — and this is what the project is designed to help in doing. The Jaycettes have committed themselves to the project for a year.

In their long-range plans, Jaycettes hope later to bring patients to outside community social activities.

The first party, attended by Mrs. Hellier and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hilton and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zillich, went "very well," they reported, with time "really flying by."

Three or four couples plan to host such parties on the third Friday of each month with the next scheduled for May 16.

'BUD' GUEST

'Bud' Guest To Speak Here

Edgar A. "Bud" Guest, Jr. will be guest speaker at a Ladies Night program of the Presbyterian Men's Club of Northville Thursday, May 8.

The dinner program will get underway at 6:30 p.m. in the social hall of the Presbyterian Church.

coffee — and it's all part of the new Jaycette on-the-scene service project at Northville State Hospital.

The project was begun last month as three couples visited the Fieldbrook unit at the hospital to play cards and games with the patients who are recently admitted adults from the surrounding areas. In this unit the average patient's stay is about six weeks, notes Mrs. Ronald Hellier, co-chairman of the project with Mrs. John Buckland.

Because their stay is short, she explains, it is important that patients keep in contact with the community — and this is what the project is designed to help in doing. The Jaycettes have committed themselves to the project for a year.

In their long-range plans, Jaycettes hope later to bring patients to outside community social activities.

The first party, attended by Mrs. Hellier and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hilton and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zillich, went "very well," they reported, with time "really flying by."

Three or four couples plan to host such parties on the third Friday of each month with the next scheduled for May 16.

In other action, the board adopted a resolution lauding three retiring teachers for their years of dedicated service to the Northville school system. They are Mrs. Helen Bradshaw, Mrs. Myrtle Funk and Alvin Skow.

The board also voted to request the city of Northville to adopt a traffic ordinance regulating parking and speed on school property within the city. With such an ordinance, authorized by state law, violating motorists — adults and students — may be ticketed by city police.

Board Treasurer Andrew Orphan also asked the administration to begin preparation of a board policy providing for the suspension of student driving privileges when students are found guilty of driving violations on school property.

A request from the Northwestern Child Guidance Clinic for financial support was tabled by the board pending assurance that the Northville school system may receive services

Concerning the year-round study, Spear reported that state officials in conferring with local administrators offered no additional requirements in using grant monies for the study. The state, said Spear, did request early recommendations concerning year-round program so that enabling legislation can be put into the legislative hopper next year.

Finally, the board learned that an application for federal monies to decided, shall not exceed $1,070.

The annual school census is to be discontinued as a result of Superintendent Raymond Spear's recommendation and resulting board action. Spear noted that the survey to be taken this summer in connection with the year-round school study will provide more than enough census data for the school without paying for the regular census. Recent legislation permits schools to drop the annual census if it chooses to do so.

Brown, (with tree), and Post Adviser Howard Wright. Trees will be sold beginning at 9 a.m. at the American Legion Home. They're $2.50 — and Northville's official tree.

Tickets Going Fast For Sports Banquet

"Tickets are going fast — so don't wait until the last minute," remind officials of the Northville Boosters Club which will sponsor the second annual All Sports Banquet Wednesday, May 14.

Limited space in the high school cafeteria means only a limited number of tickets for the dinner are available. The NBC points out. Interested persons are asked to call 349-5816 for reservations.

However, it is noted that persons not attending the dinner may nevertheless attend the banquet program itself, which will get underway at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Highlighting the event will be guest speaker "Bump" Elliott, former head football coach at the University of Michigan. Master of ceremonies again this year will be Andy Bertoni of Northville, and sharing the limelight will be Jim Peterson, last year's Athlete of The Year.

Novi Stages Surprise Mustangs Finish 4th in Relays

With the top field and track stars of 17 Class B schools competing in Saturday's Clarenceville Relays, Cranbrook upset favorite Ecorse in winning the event by a score of 76 to 70.

Bloomfield Lahser took third with 48 points, followed by Northville in fourth with 27.

In a surprisingly strong showing, Class C Novi came up with 18 points — despite the fact that two of its top athletes, Jon Van Wagner and Ken Osborn, were out of action because of injuries.

South Lyon and Brighton finished well off the pace with 6 and 4 points, respectively.

The Mustangs took a second, three thirds, and a fifth in racking up their 27 points. Novi, the only Class C school competing, grabbed a first, two thirds and a fifth. The Lions garnered a second and a fourth, while the Bulldogs settled for two fifth-places.

Northville's best showing came in the four-mile relay where Richard Lamp, Rick Bell, Phil Kennedy and Paul Bedford teamed up for a second-place. It was Kennedy who came from behind to put Northville in the lead during the third leg, but Bedford came up with the best mile time: 4:42. Kennedy and Bedford are co-captains of the Northville thinclads.

Cranbrook won the event handily. In the sprint medley, Bedford, John Stuyvenberg, Glen Heffner and Greg Marshall turned in a time of 3:43 to grab third behind Ecorse and Lahser.

Stuyvenberg came up with a leap of 21' 7" — the best Class B showing — but it was Novi, with the three fine marks of Gary Boyer (19' 8") John Davey (19' 6") and Don Maki (19' 4"), that came up with the big first place. Backing up Stuyvenberg were Bedford (18' 1 3/4") and Bob Froelich, who had been jumping only two days (18' 1"). The combined Northville effort was worth third place.

Stuyvenberg turned in his best time of the season in gaining fifth place in the 100 yard dash with a time of 10.35.

Fred Hicks, who turned in a put of 49-feet plus, teamed up with Brian Myers and Richard Ruland as Northville claimed a third behind Cranbrook and DeLeSalle. Close behind, in fourth, was South Lyon's Larry Janes, Leon Lusk and Darrell Mayard.

Jim Riordan, South Lyon's super star in the high hurdles, took second in this event at Clarenceville to round out the Lions' scoring.

In two open events, Novi athletes were standouts. Mark Earl placed third in the two-mile run with a time of 10:35.5, while Dan McGarry took third in the mile run, setting a new Novi school mark of 4:55.

In the 880 relay, the Wildcats won its heat but finished fifth in the overall time with a new school mark of 1:35.6. Novi posted two other school records even though they failed to pick up points for the Wildcats at Clarenceville. Doug Keith took over the shot record from his arch team rival, Dicon Tafalian, by putting 43' 4", and Tom Boyer, Larry Eggleston (a freshman), Steve Pomeroy and Rick Hill came in with a new mile relay mark of 3:41.2.

Northville Coach Ralph Redmond was pleased with his squad's overall performance even though the team did not do as well as hoped. "Our younger fellows are really starting to go," he said. "The only real disappointment," he added, "was in the shuttle relays. We could have taken it, but Jeff Dawson hurt himself in a silly motorcycle scramble the night before, so we had to substitute a youngster who was untried. Jeff, more than hurting himself, hurt his teammates." Northville's two mile relay squad, although it finished sixth, showed plenty of promise beneath the legs of Steve Kaake, Brad Cole, David Wright and Brian Dyke, said Redmond.

NOVI SPEEDSTERS PASS BATON IN CLARENCEVILLE RELAYS

Wildcats Nip Lions, 65-53

A close finish that could have been closer highlighted Novi's first visit to South Lyon's new track.

Novi's Wildcats led by seven points going into the final event of the day — the mile relay — and loss would have meant only a two-point win. They won the event and the meet, 65-53.

Easiest wins for the Wildcats were recorded in the two mile run where Doug Earl came within a few yards of lapping the entire field and in the pole vault where limping Ken Osborn went nine feet without removing his sweatshirt.

Earl's time of 10:23.5 brought him home 400 yards ahead of George Berz who gave the Lions a second. No one came near Osborn's 9' 3" effort and he went on without competition to reach 10 feet.

Jim Riordan of the Lions and Tom Boyer of the Wildcats were the only doubler winners as Novi garnered eight firsts to the host's six. Boyer took the 220 (24.5 seconds) and the 880 (2:08.5) while Riordan won the high (15.6) and low hurdles (22.5).

The two squads traded relay success as Novi won the mile in a time of 3:43.7 and South Lyon ran the 880 in 1:36.6.

Individual field event winners in addition to Osborn included John Davey in the Long Jump for Novi (19' 5 1/2") and Larry Janes in the shot put (45' 4 3/4") and Mark Saincome in the high jump (6' 2") for the Lions.

Rick Hill won the 440 for the Wildcats at 53.9 while young Dan McGarry was taking the mile in 4:58.5

BB-Guns on Target

The first annual BB-gun city championship tournament, sponsored by the Northville Jaycees, will be held at Ford Field Saturday morning.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. for youths between the ages of 7 and 14. Contestants will compete for a chance to represent the city in state competition and, possibly, in the international BB-gun championships.

The event represents completion of several weeks of coordinating shooting under the Northville Recreation Department's shooting safety program.

According to Jaycee officials, the range will be arranged much like those used for NRA rifle competition. However, youngsters will fire at targets from 15-feet — a distance that is the equivalent of 50 feet in 22-caliber rifle competition.

Milford Wins in Seventh Near Perfect Ball and Then . . . .

Northville's stellar two-man pitching sensation continued to dominate baseball action this past week as the Mustangs posted two more victories while dropping a heart-breaker.

In losing Thursday — a 4-3 decision at the hands of Oakland County's top ranked nine, Milford — Northville saw one of the finest pitching performances of the season go down the drain.

Ace Hurler Fred Holdsworth, working on a one-hitter going into the final inning, had pitched perfect ball after giving up an opening inning homer. Since that first inning he had held Milford hitless, refusing to allow a single Redskin to reach base. Northville led at this point 3-1.

But when Mark Giegler, Milford's best hitter and one of the most formidable sluggers in the league stepped to the plate in the seventh, Holdsworth lapsed just long enough for the batter to slash a single to right center.

Then later, with a runner at first and third, Stan Nirider fielded a grounder and fired a shot to the plate to cut off the runner. In the ensuing run-down, Pat Cayley rifled a perfect strike towards third only to have the ball bounce off the helmet of the runner into the outfield. Two runs scored — and that was it.

The Mustangs scored all three of their runs in the bottom half of the first. Nirider singled, stole second, and then after two were out, Cayley singled driving home Nirider. Jeff Taylor added a single, which together with a fielding error, scored Cayley from first. Holdsworth then slugged one to the outfield where it was dropped by the centerfielder, allowing Taylor to score.

In losing the heart-breaker, Holdsworth gave up four hits — three in that last inning — struck out 11 and walked none. His teammates collected four hits.

Northville had its best day at the plate Saturday in defeating Bloomfield Hills, 6-3, at Bloomfield. While the Mustangs were piling up 10 hits, the other half of Northville's pitching duet, Jeff Taylor, was fanning 12 batters, walking two and giving up five hits.

The Mustangs opened the game with three quick runs, added two more in the fourth, and notched a single tally in the seventh.

Nirider opened the attack in the first with a double that came within an eyeball of being a round-tripper. The ball sailed over the left center fence, but the umpire ruled that it had bounced over the fence, thus holding Nirider to second. Nirider advanced to third however on a fly ball and scored in a play at the plate when Barry Deal hit an infield grounder. Cayley walked and successive singles by Taylor and Rich Adams pushed across two more runs.

Kim Marburger and Nirider walked in the fourth, and Deal singled home two more runs.

In the final frame Cayley and Taylor each singled, and Adams smashed a double down the left field line, scoring Cayley.

*****

Back on the mound again Monday night, Holdsworth made good his one-hitter by blanking Clarkston 2-0 while his teammates were pounding out seven hits. He fanned 12 and walked one.

His effort gave him a .430 earned run average (just two runs in 33 innings). Taylor has given up six earned runs in 42 innings.

Coach Dick Willing, full of praises for his two hurlers, also was pleased with his squad's hitting attack in the last two games. "We looked .333 in those two games and it looks like — I hope — that we're finally coming out of our hitting slump."

Northville iced its victory over the Wolves in the fifth inning. Marburger singled, stole second, Craig Turnbull walked, and Nirider singled to load the bases. Marburger streaked home on a wild pitch and Terry Mills singled home the second run to wrap up the scoring.

Thinclads Upset Lakers

In back to back victories last week, Northville's thinclads stunned the defending champion Lakers 62-55 Tuesday, and then crushed another Wayne-Oakland League rival — Clarkston — by winning 10 out of 14 firsts on Thursday.

"It was our best effort of the season," said Coach Ralph Redmond in commenting on the upset over West Bloomfield. "They came in with a team made up mostly of seniors — ready to paste our boys — but our kids were

Tryouts Near For Class F

Sure sign that summer's just around the corner is wrapped up in an announcement this week by Recreation Director Robert Prom that tryouts for Class F baseball will be held Saturday morning.

All boys who will be 12 years old before September 1 and who will not have reached their 14th birthdays prior to September 1 are invited to attend the tryouts at Diamond No. 1 in Cass Benton Park beginning at 9 a.m., Prom said.

The director also urged all men interested in playing slo-pitch softball this summer to call him at 349-2287 so that scheduling can begin.

For the first time in a number of years the department plans to sponsor a Class A men's hardball program, Prom revealed. All interested men, 20 years old or older, who wish to participate are asked to call Prom or Chris Holman, 349-2860.

Concerning tryouts and practices for other summer ball programs, Prom indicated that these will be announced later this month.

Suspect Faces Trial For Assault Here

City Planning Commissioner George Clark, 63, suffered a severe head cut last week Wednesday when an assailant struck him while he was in the back room of Northville Realty, 160 East Main Street.

Charged with assault and battery and facing trial next Tuesday is John B. Hinman, 21, of 402 Yerkes Street.

According to witnesses, Hinman entered the realty office, formerly owned by Clark, shortly after 11 a.m. and asked to see Clark.

Hinman went into the back room of the office and employees heard a disturbance.

Rose Marie Moulds, a secretary at the company, rushed to the room where she said she saw Hinman attack Clark. Witnesses said they heard Hinman tell Clark he "would learn to intimidate his mother." He then fled the scene, they said.

When police arrived, Clark was bleeding from his left ear, with blood over the entire left side of his face. He was treated and released.

Meanwhile, Hinman was turned over to Northville police by his Plymouth attorney. He was arraigned the same day, pleading innocent.

OBITUARIES

JOHN G. TURCO

Funeral services for John G. Turco, 73, a former Northville resident, were held in Fenton Tuesday at St. John Catholic Church. He was a Fenton tavern owner for several years.

Born in Consenza, Italy, July 24, 1895, Mr. Turco married the former Virginia Martino of Northville and moved to Fenton a year later, about 1922. He died Saturday after an illness of a year-and-a-half.

The Reverend Father John P. Fackler officiated at the services. Burial was in St. John Cemetery. Rosary was recited Monday.

Mr. Turco first operated a fruit, candy and ice cream business in Fenton before opening John's Tavern, which was closed when he retired in 1960.

He was the father of Albert P. Turco, recently re-elected to the Fenton City Council.

He also leaves his wife, another son, Robert, New York City; two daughters, Mrs. Louise Ongton and Miss Marie Turco, both of Fenton, a sister in Italy, and three grandchildren.

Pre-School Meet Set

Parents of children in the Northville school district who will reach their fifth birthday on or before December 1 are invited to attend the annual kindergarten registration meeting in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. next Thursday, May 8. (These are children who were born before or on December 1, 1964.)

Letters have been sent to all known parents of youngsters, but new parents in the community and those not contacted are asked to attend also.

Registration forms included in the letters are to be completed and returned. Parents also must present proof of the child's birth date to register him.

Health forms, emergency forms and useful information will be distributed at the registration meeting next week. Visitation Day, when children who will enter kindergarten this fall spend time in the classroom, and the Northville screening program will be discussed by the elementary principals and kindergarten teachers.

In urging parents to attend the registration, school officials say the meeting will be as brief and informative as possible. They ask that children not be brought to the meeting as they will be welcomed on Visitation Day, but both mothers and fathers are invited.

Children not officially enrolled on registration night must be enrolled at one of the school offices prior to September.

Jeanette M. Gensley

She's Named Merit Scholar

Jeanette M. Gensley, an honor student in the 1969 Northville High School graduating class, was named a Merit Scholarship winner to Oakland University Wednesday as the National Merit Scholarship Corporation awarded this year's scholarships to "over 3000 of the nation's ablest high school seniors."

Northville's winner is one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Gensley, 48540 Northview. She plans to major in foreign languages at Oakland University.

She is president of the school's National Honor Society chapter, Elks' leadership award winner, first place winner of the Voice of Democracy Award, Veterans' of Foreign Wars contest winner, a varsity debater (league champions and state semi-finalists), awards chairman of the Girls' Athletic League and member of Forensics and Thespians.

All of the Merit scholars were chosen from among the 15,000 students who became finalists. Finalists are those who scored in about the upper half of one per cent of the graduating seniors in their state in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, who confirmed this performance on a second test and received the endorsement of their schools.

Miss Gensley's Merit award was one of the about 2,000 awards which are four-year scholarships, providing between $400 and $6,000 each ($100 to $1,500 a year.) Colleges sponsored about 600 of these four-year awards, selecting their winners from among finalists choosing to attend each sponsoring college.

District Court Still on Trial

2nd division of the 52nd District Court was working. "We're not in full swing yet." But Judge Boyle did say he was "very satisfied" and that the court operation was "going as well as expected."

"We're in the training process, as well as the operative process," he stated. Our efficiency will have to improve."

"We've got a big backlog under control, but it's still there," he added, pointing to the fact that approximate court receipts have steadily increased, from $5,500 in January, to $8,000 in February and $13,000 in March.

The "Big backlog" included about 3,000 traffic and criminal cases or files and about 4,000 civil cases.

Court personnel, which includes two deputy clerks and one newly authorized, a court officer and a recorder-secretary, were not trained, Boyle stated. This, too, has made the transition to the new district court with its seat at Walled Lake more difficult.

Like Boyle, Judge Hensick of the 53rd district which serves all of Livingston County, inherited a big backlog and largely untrained administrative people. Personnel include four magistrates, four clerks of the court and a personal secretary, and he said he'll probably seek another clerk this summer.

"We're extremely active," Judge Hensick said of his court. "We're getting the job done, but there's more work than I can handle." Located in the Howell court house annex basement, the district court seat is not appropriate, Hensick said.

One of the biggest drawbacks he sees to the operation of his court is the fact that the four magistrates, including the one attorney-magistrate, may accept a plea of guilty on any misdemeanor, yet they cannot sentence the admitted lawbreaker. Judge Hensick said the magistrates may only announce sentence in motor violation cases.

"There's also the question of whether magistrates can arraign people charged with felonies," he stated. "I say 'yes.' Some district judges say 'no.'"

Judge Hensick, like Judges Davis and Boyle, concurs that some of the present statutes governing the operation of the district courts will have to be changed, if the district courts are to operate more effectively.

Saying "I'll never catch up" on the backlog, Hensick explained: "I think Livingston County is on the borderline of the type of area which should have two district judges, instead of one district court." Each district court was to serve 50,000 and Judge Nesick said his district, at the time of re-organization, was near this figure.

Despite the varying difficulties the three judges are having, they agree wholeheartedly on one point: that the persons who appear before them are getting a fairer shake than under the old set-up of justice courts and small municipal courts.

As Judge Hensick put it, "barnyard justice" has been eliminated primarily through adoption of a uniform fine schedule for traffic violations. Centralization in one authority and the fact that the judges are schooled in law also have contributed substantially to improved administration of justice.

Watercress Cattle Roundup, Nears

It seems strangely out of place in this late 20th Century year but the annual spring roundup and cattle drive is about to begin in Salem Township.

It's a roundup and drive with a modern twist.

Early this month 160 Black Angus will be cut from a 350-head herd and loaded aboard trucks for a 150-mile "drive" to pasture in Northern Michigan. Then, come next fall, the calf crop is weaned and loaded for the return for a year's feeding before marketing. They, like the brood cows, are returned to Salem's Watercress Farms, owned by Edward Porath.

Although raising beef cattle and purebred Hampshire hogs is not as demanding as the 125-head dairy herd on a second Porath farm, it's nevertheless a tough job.

"Nowadays," says Donald McKarns, who has managed Watercress for the better part of his working life, "the cattle and hog farmer must be a breeder, a doctor, a land manager and a businessman all in one. My grandfather used to do it with a wagon load of corn and a scoop shovel back in Ohio."

His thumb bandaged and aching from accidentally raming a needle through it while giving an animal a shot of antibiotics two weeks ago, McKarns says that farm animals today are far more susceptible to disease than when his grandfather operated his farm.

"Year after year, limited by space, you raise them on the same land and in the same buildings. What can you expect? The ground becomes polluted, and no matter how careful you are you can't seem to lick it."

Even in the farm's ultra-modern farrowing house — perhaps the only one of its kind in the Midwest — where sows and their young are kept in clean, individual pens and under constant temperature, disease exists, he says. "It's a constant battle."

Lack of space, the death knell of many a cattle farm, "hurts the farmer as much as anything," he explains. "There just isn't enough pasture land available anymore. It's too expensive," he explains, pointing out that much of Watercress land must be put into corn and hay to supply food for the farm stock. The farm has 250-acres in corn, and feeds up to 20,000 bales of hay annually. "That doesn't leave much room for grazing."

Faced with the need for more pasture or failure, Porath and his manager turned to the unique practice of transporting the cattle to two large ranches near Clare for the summer.

Strangely reminiscent of the roundups and drives of the west, this practice has other similar stamps.

On the larger northern Michigan

For College Board

Dildy Announces Candidacy

Dennis Dildy of Northville announced his candidacy this week for an at-large post on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

A teacher at Hawthorn Center in Northville Township, Dildy, 26, is a part-time probation director within the 35th District Court serving Northville, Plymouth and Canton Township.

He is married and has two children. They live at 429 Lake Street.

He received two degrees from the University of Michigan and has certificates for teaching regular elementary school and for special education with mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed children through high school.

Dildy also has received three summers of study and field-work at the University of Michigan Fresh Air Camp for disturbed and delinquent children, where he served as a counselor and on the supervising staff.

In announcing his candidacy, Dildy said he was interested in serving on the board to:

To perform regular duties required, demanded and suggested; promote expansion of a variety of courses at the college prep level as well as expansion, in so far as finances permit, vocational and technical training programs; aid the college in retaining and requiring the finest faculty; and to open and clarify communications between faculty, students, administration and the board as well as the community.

"Despite some minor difficulties that have arisen at Schoolcraft in the last few years," said Dildy, "controversy properly handled, can always lead to good resolutions of grievances on the part of all concerned."

He said students have a great potential and should be listened to rather than condemned as a whole society.

"This does not mean," he added, "that (I) would tolerate illegal behavior on the part of anyone, but, rather, that such behavior would be unnecessary and inappropriate, provided all school officials met conflicts as an alert, open-minded, reasonable and responsible administration and board."

Youths Face Trial For Novi Kidnapping

Two youths, charged with kidnapping a retired Novi school teacher last February, stood mute upon arraignment before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge James Thornburn Thursday.

They are Kenneth W. Owens, 17, of Ionia, and James M. Fraser, 16, Detroit.

No trial date has been set, however.

The pair was arrested after escaping from Whitmore Lake boys training school. During their short-lived freedom, the youths were apprehended by Wixom police after they allegedly kidnapped Mrs. Ottilia H. Thompson, 45000 West Drive.

They face charges of kidnapping, armed robbery of Mrs. Thompson and unlawfully driving away an automobile.

Fraser, who has been in and out of the youth home several times but who escaped a waiver requested by Detroit police in the past to try him as an adult, will stand trial in adult court on the three new charges. The "adult" waiver ruling was handed down March 28 by Judge Arthur Moore.

*****

Also awaiting trial in Oakland County Circuit Court is Willard Spencer, 22 of Milford, who is charged with car theft and attempting a get-away. He stood mute upon arraignment on March 28 and was ordered to stand trial. No date has been set.

Spencer was arrested March 9 after he led police officers from Novi, Wixom, Walled Lake and Wolverine Lake on a chase at speeds of up to 90 MPH before they managed to force him to a stop on I-96 near South Hill Road.

Novi Court

A Plymouth woman was fined $50 in the district court serving Novi and Wixom Thursday on a charge of driving while her ability was impaired. She had been ticketed by Novi police on Novi Road near the C&O Railroad crossing on April 6.

Three other motorists paid fines for driving violations dating back as far as March, 1966.

Frederick T. Coleman of Detroit was fined $15 for operating a vehicle with a defective exhaust back on March 27, 1966; Marvin W. Campbell of Ann Arbor was fined $15 for driving a defective vehicle back on June 26, 1966; and Marilyn K. Hopkins, 19320 Gerald Avenue, was fined $20 for speeding 40 MPH in a 30 MPH zone on East Lake Drive on September 27, 1967.

Watercress Farm Cattle Roundup, Drive Nears

ranch, horses are used to round up the cattle. And, adds McKarns, cattle rustlin' isn't dead. "We don't have a heck of a lot of trouble but once and while one of our animals turns up missing. It would be a lot worse, I guess, if we left them up there during the deer season. But we make sure they're back before the shooting starts."

The farm manager grows a little nostalgic when he talks about the 400-acre Salem farm. For him, an earlier more colorful era of the farm was more exciting than today's successful enterprise.

"Sure I'm happy here," he says. "I'm proud of Watercress. But years ago when our business was raising and showing the finest Belgian Draft Horses in the nation — that's when I was happiest."

In recalling that earlier period while flipping through old pictures, McKarns turned back the pages — past those days not so long ago when Quarterhorses filled Watercress stables and grazed on its land along Six Mile Road — to the animals that triggered its operation.

Its founder, the late Julius Porath, an enterprising emigrant built himself a fortune by hard work and keen business mind a half-century ago. It was he who graded streets, dug sewers and poured ribbons of concrete throughout the city of Detroit back in the day when the animal meant horsepower. His Detroit stable of Belgians was the largest in that city and it was these animals that literally pulled his excavating business to the top.

When mechanical horsepower took the reins, Porath continued to raise Belgians — but now for show. He purchased the Salem farm and became a breeder, continuing to raise the animals that he'd come to love while they were flexing their muscles on the streets of Detroit.

A young young man, then only recently graduated from Michigan State College where his wife also graduated the same year, McKarns was "loaned" from the college farm to Watercress not long after it was started.

"It was during the Depression years," he recalls, "and I came for a couple weeks but never left. Don't forget, those were tough times and work was scarce. So I stayed."

Any kind of job would have satisfied the young agriculture major, but in this case McKarns landed the best. He had grown up on a farm where teams of Belgians worked the fields and he, like Porath, loved these hulking giants.

During those early years, Watercress became the showplace of the Midwest and its magnificent animals captured prize after prize. By 1940, McKarns became the farm manager and the man responsible for showing Porath's Belgians in showings across the country.

Early in the Forties, however, Porath sensed the passing era of the draft horse — for show and work — so his avocation turned to a second farm, also called Watercress and located on Six Mile Road two miles west, where he transferred his foundation herd of Brown Swiss dairy cows from the Belgian farm. Today that farm continues to thrive and boasts the oldest Brown Swiss stock and one of the largest herds in Michigan.

Eventually the Belgians that had gained fame for Salem and Watercress were sold off. Some of its Belgian line, incidentally, can be traced to the prize-winning Belgians now at Meadow Brook Farms west of Howell.

After his father's death, Edward Porath turned his attention to Quarterhorses. And just as the senior Porath had insisted on excellence in Belgians so too the younger owner demanded excellence in this new breed.

Within years Watercress was again attracting nationwide attention with the smaller but powerful horse that made cow punching an art. The farm's now unused, silent trophy room, filled with ribbons and trophies, attests to the farm's success with the Quarterhorse.

Six years ago Watercress began phasing out the Quarterhorse and the breeding and raising of beef cattle took its place. Today, except for the trophy room, a training corral, and the stables (now housing hogs) there's little evidence remaining of either the Quarterhorse or Belgian eras.

Instead large herds of cattle and hogs are making the new name for Watercress.

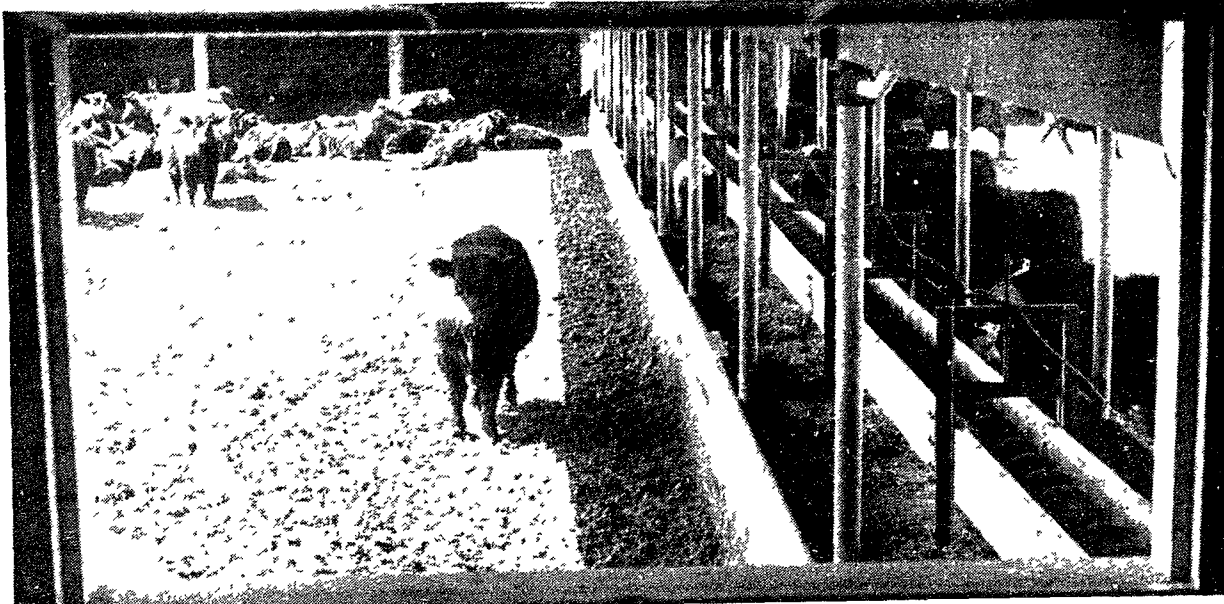

What's been the key to the farm's success over the years?

McKarns hardly hesitates. "Uniformity... the best breeding stock."

Mr. Porath never liked a conglomeration."

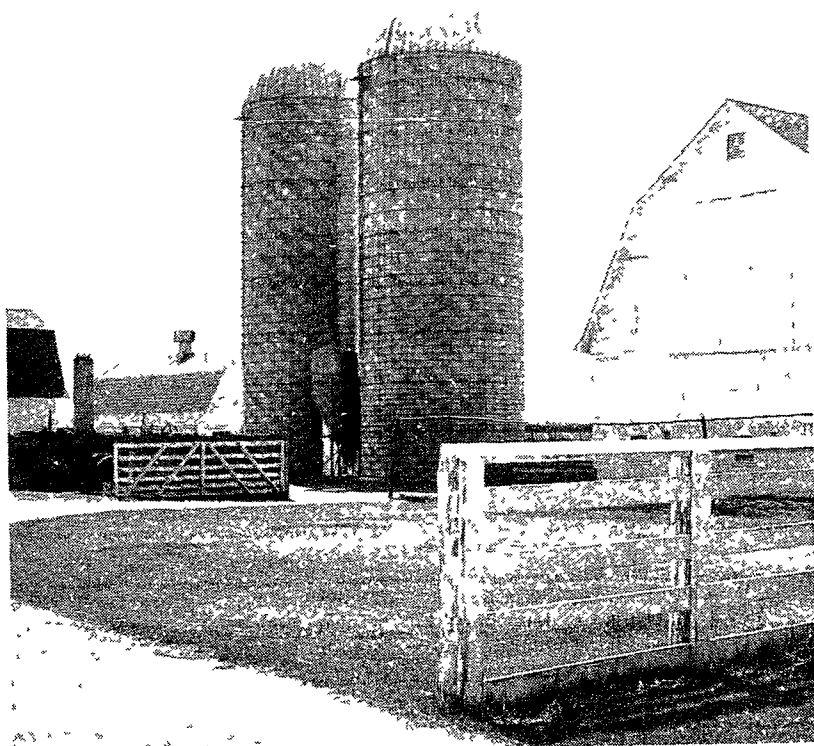

"But what's so uniform about cattle and hogs?"

"Oh, that. The hogs are my doing. I don't have the Belgians anymore, something I could really put my heart into," he says wistfully, "so if you're going to work your tail off you might as well have something special you really like."

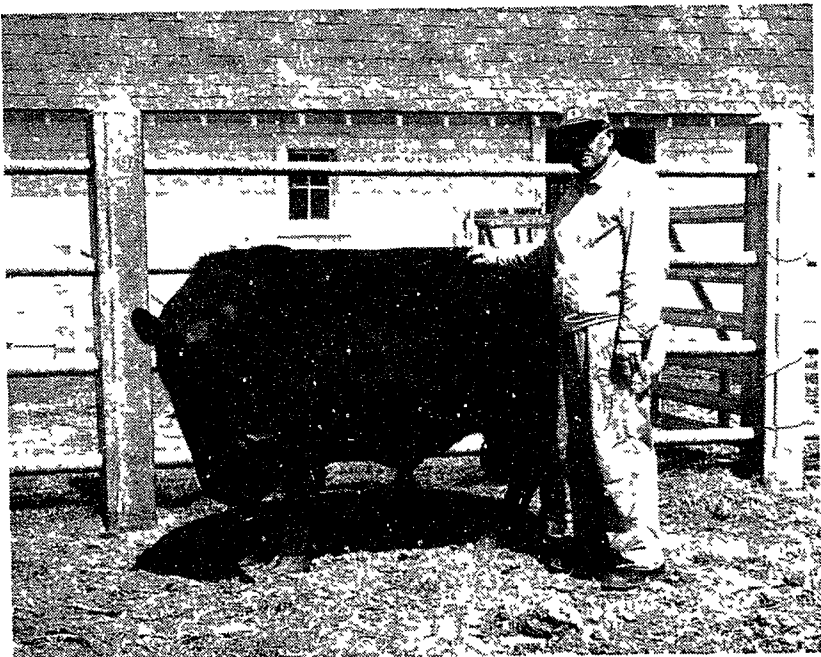

FEED LOT — Seen from the window of a silo complex, the Watercress Farm feed yard features a concrete floor, shelter sheds, covered feed bunk, and an electrically operated feed auger.

WATERCRESS — Business has changed from horses to cattle and hogs, but Watercress Farm still commands the respect of farm specialists throughout the Midwest.

BEST STOCK — One of the big reasons why Watercress has remained tops in whatever kind of animals it has raised, explains Farm Manager Donald McKarn, is that owner Edward Porath has insisted on the best breeding stock available.

127 HUTTON - NORTHVILLE

A BRISK SCHEDULE doesn't prevent Northern Michigan University president John X. Jamrich (second from right) from taking time to discuss today's issues in higher education with students. Dr. Jamrich, who recently inaugurated an "open office" policy on alternate weeks for faculty and students, is shown here after a discussion with three students who rank in the upper one percent of their respective classes. They are (from left): John Litsenberger, Northville, a senior industrial education major; Edward Reid, Genesee, a junior social service major; and James King, Marquette, a senior industrial education major.

For College Board

Dildy Announces Candidacy

Dennis Dildy of Northville announced his candidacy this week for an at-large post on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

A teacher at Hawthorn Center in Northville Township, Dildy, 26, is a part-time probation director within the 35th District Court serving Northville, Plymouth and Canton Township.

He is married and has two children. They live at 429 Lake Street. He received two degrees from the University of Michigan and has certificates for teaching regular elementary school and for special education with mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed children through high school.

Dildy also has received three summers of study and field-work at the University of Michigan Fresh Air Camp for disturbed and delinquent children, where he served as a counselor and on the supervising staff.

In announcing his candidacy, Dildy said he was interested in serving on the board to:

To perform regular duties required, demanded and suggested; promote expansion of a variety of courses at the college prep level as well as expansion, in so far as finances permit, vocational and technical training programs; aid the college in retaining and requiring the finest faculty; and to open and clarify communications between faculty, students, administration and the board as well as the community.

"Despite some minor difficulties that have arisen at Schoolcraft in the last few years," said Dildy, "controversy properly handled, can always lead to good resolutions of grievances on the part of all concerned."

He said students have a great potential and should be listened to rather than condemned as a whole society.

"This does not mean," he added, "that (I) would tolerate illegal behavior on the part of anyone, but, rather, that such behavior would be unnecessary and inappropriate, provided all school officials met conflicts as an alert, open-minded, reasonable and responsible administration and board."

Youths Face Trial For Novi Kidnapping

Two youths, charged with kidnapping a retired Novi school teacher last February, stood mute upon arraignment before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge James Thornburn Thursday.

They are Kenneth W. Owens, 17, of Ionia, and James M. Fraser, 16, of Detroit.

No trial date has been set, however.

The pair was arrested after escaping from Whitmore Lake boys training school. During their short-lived freedom, the youths were apprehended by Wixom police after they allegedly kidnapped Mrs. Otilia H. Thompson, 45000 West Drive.

They face charges of kidnapping, armed robbery of Mrs. Thompson and unlawfully driving away an automobile.

Fraser, who has been in and out of the youth home several times but who escaped a waiver requested by Detroit police in the past to try him as an adult, will stand trial in adult court on the three new charges. The "adult" waiver ruling was handed down March 28 by Judge Arthur Moore.

*****

Also awaiting trial in Oakland County Circuit Court is Willard Spencer, 22 of Milford, who is charged with car theft and attempting a get-away. He stood mute upon arraignment on March 28 and was ordered to stand trial. No date has been set.

Spencer was arrested March 9 after he led police officers from Novi, Wixom, Walled Lake and Wolverine Lake on a chase at speeds of up to 90 MPH before they managed to force him to a stop on I-96 near South Hill Road.

Novi Court

A Plymouth woman was fined $50 in the district court serving Novi and Wixom Thursday on a charge of driving while her ability was impaired. She had been ticketed by Novi police on Novi Road near the C&O Railroad crossing on April 6.

Three other motorists paid fines for driving violations dating back as far as March, 1966.

Frederick T. Coleman of Detroit was fined $15 for operating a vehicle with a defective exhaust back on March 27, 1966; Marvin W. Campbell of Ann Arbor was fined $15 for driving a defective vehicle back on June 26, 1966; and Marilyn K. Hopkins, 19320 Gerald Avenue, was fined $20 for speeding 40 MPH in a 30 MPH zone on East Lake Drive on September 27, 1967.

Land Plan Approved By TALUS

The Administrative Committee of TALUS (Detroit Regional Transportation and Land Use Study) has approved a Preliminary 1990 Land Use Plan for the seven counties of Southeast Michigan.

The proposed plan will be subject to further modification as other elements, such as a highway network, mass transportation system, and housing, are developed by the staff of TALUS, R. J. Alexander, TALUS Administrative Committee chairman, said.

The Administrative Committee had delayed approval of the TALUS staff land use recommendations for one week pending review and approval by a team of technicians from various governmental units.

The Preliminary 1990 Land Use Plan calls for increasing the amount of developed land in Southeast Michigan from 977 square miles in 1965 to between 1,527 and 1,627 square miles in 1990.

An increase in population from 4.4 million to 6.9 million in the 25-year span is anticipated. The plan proposes development of five major and nine minor suburban cities and massive redevelopment in the older sections of the City of Detroit.

TALUS is a special project of the Planning Division of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

Income Tax Under Glass At Conclave

A "Review of Recent City Experience with the Local Income Tax" will be the initial topic of discussion at the Michigan Municipal League's "Workshop On The City Income Tax" to be held at the Capital Park Hotel in Lansing next Wednesday afternoon. Attending this special one-day workshop will be mayors, village presidents, councilmen and other elected and administrative officials from cities and villages throughout Michigan.

Speakers at this initial session starting at 1:30 p.m. will be A. L. Warren, director, Income Tax Division, City of Detroit; Edward H. Potthoff, Jr., city manager, City of Saginaw; and Arnold B. Whitney, city manager, City of Lapeer. Items of topical interest concerning the local income tax which these officials will discuss include how the tax has been approved by the electorate, the financial impact of the city income tax; how it can be tied to a reduction in the property tax millage; and why the local income tax is felt to be more equitable than the property tax.

Another feature of the workshop will be the question and answer round table sessions, chaired by officials from the 11 Michigan "income tax cities".

The Model

"Now I'm big—with a hat like Mommy's!" Amy was really full of herself when we went shopping yesterday.

I was amused, too, as I watched her imitate her mother on the way to church the next day. She really had that walk down to a "T."

I'm glad her mother is her model. She couldn't have a better one. Mary's love of God is reflected in everything she does. Her happiness in serving God and His church is contagious. I should know!

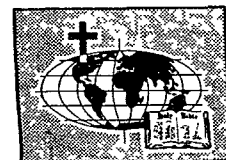

When we were married, I was a sometime church-goer. Now, I teach Sunday School, sing in the choir and am chairman of the building committee. I find it deeply satisfying to know that my church needs me.

Every church needs the dedicated effort of its members. Experience the joy of serving God.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Fund drives can become pesky things. Conversely, however, they can be very worthwhile.

Such is the case with an appeal that gets underway today and extends through the month of May.

Adult supporters of The Cavern, Northville's popular teen club, hope to raise $6,000 to help finance The Cavern's move to new club headquarters and to provide funds for an advisor's salary through 1970.

During its first three years The Cavern was self-sustaining. Thanks to the efforts of the Mothers Club, and particularly Mrs. Gordon Forrer, the club grew from an idea to the center of social activity for area youngsters.

Any adult who has ever served as chaperon at one of the Cavern dances can attest to the fun it provides for teens. Despite the pulsating tones of the amplified music (?) that tend to deafen over-40 eardrums, The Cavern dances are fun-affairs for kids.

(Yes, there have been disturbances at The Cavern. But the fun-spoilers are in the minority and auxiliary police in addition to adult chaperons are on hand to bring such incidents under prompt control).

Right now The Cavern is faced with some extra-ordinary problems. It must vacate its old quarters in the community building to make way for board of education offices. An unused area in the basement of the old junior high school is being converted into clubrooms, while dances will be held in the old junior high school gym.

And the responsibilities of club advisor have been assumed by a popular friend of the teens, the Reverend Tim Johnson.

While the teen club manages to meet its normal expenses — rent, cost of bands, etc. — the move, remodeling and salary for an advisor must be raised through contributions.

Cavern youngsters have done their share in helping raise funds for other causes—like the March of Dimes, sponsoring a Christmas party for local children, donating money to help a burned-out teen club in Detroit, providing baby-sitting services on election day.

Now The Cavern needs help.

An adult committee is sending out letters to parents of teenage youngsters and to other persons interested in promoting such worthwhile facilities.

They're asking that donations be sent to The Cavern, Inc., Box 185, Northville 48167.

Like I said, fund drives can be pesky things.

But where else can you spend five or ten dollars and receive more visible dividends.

And think of the audible returns...just drop by The Cavern on a dance night.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

FROM LANSING AND WASHINGTON

Senate passage of a bill to prohibit convicted felons from becoming police officers was praised this week by Senator GEORGE W. KUHN (R-West Bloomfield).

"Police work is such a sensitive and responsible occupation that it should not be entrusted to convicted felons," said Kuhn, who introduced the bill passed by a 30 to 12 Senate vote.

"There are plenty of other jobs available for persons who have been convicted of violation of major laws. Michigan cannot afford to put ex-criminals into a position that would endanger the safety of our society."

"At present, with the charge of 'police brutality' being constantly raised by minority groups, we must be careful to upgrade, rather than downgrade, our police departments."

In a move designed to give towns and township a voice in intergovernmental relations, U. S. Senator ROBERT P. GRIFFIN (R-Michigan) has introduced legislation to add their representatives to a federal advisory board.

Griffin's proposal would add two delegates for towns and townships to the 26-member commission, which now represents the executive branch, the two houses of Congress, governors, state legislatures and city and county government. Under the bill, the President would appoint two township representatives from among four names submitted by the National Association of Town and Township Officials.

GORDON ROCKWELL (R-Mt. Morris), pointing to a powerful school lobby that is trying to add millions to an already substantial outlay for education.

Rockwell quoted Governor William Milliken, who pointed out, "Despite the massive amounts of money spent for education, some Michigan school districts face financial disaster." There is growing realization, the Michigan Senator said, that money alone will not solve all the problems in education. We need reform.

THOMAS G. SHARPE, state representative from the 51st district, lashed out again at the State Bar of Michigan this week, saying: "As sincere as these gentlemen may be, I think the record speaks for itself. Any granting of a privilege implies an accompanying responsibility, and the State Bar of Michigan has accepted and jealously guarded the self-policing privilege while failing completely to live up to the self-policing responsibility."

Homeowners Slap Oakland Spending

To the Editor:
Following is an excerpt of a statement made by George H. Williams, president of the Oakland County Homeowners & Taxpayers Association, at the public hearing on the tentative Oakland County budget. It may be of interest to your readers:

County spending in the last five years has been scandalous. The courthouse gang has taken complete advantage of the 50-percent property valuation, greedily latching onto millions of dollars of tax money with complete indifference to the increased burden on the taxpayers. They increased their spending 60-percent or over $9.5 million since 1964. The record makes it clear: The county spenders will take every tax dollar they can squeeze out of the taxpayer and cry for more. And what hurts even more is the way they spend our money: buildings to house machinery, and airports to serve 10-percent of the people while the taxpayers' needs go wanting.

In September, 1968, when the Board of Supervisors found that our prediction of a $3 million surplus was imminent and accurate, they pushed through an emergency spending program of over $3 million for buildings, and at the same time they knew that they would be needing a new jail for which they had, in fact, resolved earlier to use this surplus. Had this surplus been used for the jail, it would have saved the taxpayers untold millions in interest payments.

It is our recommendation that the county budget be reduced to $26,500,000. This is $6.5 million more than was spent in 1968 and $1 million more than the 1969 budget. At 26.5 million budget is not a retrenching program. It simply means holding the line.

We further recommend that the property tax millage requested be reduced from 5.28 mills to 4.5 mills... This will give the county $18 million in property taxes, approximately, the same as was levied in 1969. More important, however, it will provide over $5 million for the schools in the county. Maybe then we will not be forced to vote extra millage for the schools.

Says Spock In New Left

To the Editor:

They have the same objectives:
1. Destroy the morals of American youth.
2. Create riots and dissent.
3. Destroy our will to resist.

This is what's happening today. It was advocated by Karl Marx 100 years ago.

We are fighting the same enemy in Vietnam as the one who shot down and killed a Northville boy last week.

We have a choice of either standing up and being counted as Americans or submitting to Spock and his comrades.

Readers are reminded that the policy is to publish only those letters that carry the writers' signatures — even though the newspaper, upon request, will withhold publication of the names. It is not enough to type a signature — it must be handwritten. # Why Municipal Bonds Attract Investors

WELLESLEY HILLS, Massachusetts — Having recently completed their annual accounting with state and federal tax agencies, investors are most conscious of taxes and their effect on income. The higher-bracket taxpayer is particularly aware of the tax bite and consequently should seek out opportunities that will allow him to retain more of his investment income. Some will look at oil ventures and cattle ranches, which, while providing high expense deductions, could prove to be too risky for most investors. It is at this point that consideration should be given to tax-exempt municipal bonds.

Issued by cities, towns, and other local governmental bodies, "municipals" provide the funds to carry out major municipal projects. (One may also include in this group municipal industrial development bonds, issued to finance commercial ventures within a community). Income from such bonds has been exempt from federal income taxes and also, in some instances, from income taxes of the issuing state. Hence they bear a coupon rate lower than corporate issues.

A word about "yield." Prices for bonds are usually quoted in terms of yield to maturity, which is a reflection of coupon rate and the length of time the bond has to run to maturity. This also translates into a dollar price for the bonds. (Dollar price runs counter to yield — as price declines, yield rises.) A bond priced below par will have a yield to maturity higher than its coupon. Also, if held to maturity, a portion of the proceeds could represent a capital gain. Recently the average corporate bond yield, as expressed by Moody's averages, was 7.21 percent. On the same date the average yield on municipal bonds was 5.28 percent. This latter rate would, in itself, seem highly favorable — tax exempt! But the advantage is even greater for the higher-bracket taxpayer, as the following table illustrates:

Yields on Tax-Free Bonds	Income for Various Tax Brackets	Equivalent Yields on Taxable Bonds
2.50%	3.44%	4.30%
2.75%	4.30%	4.55%

An investor in a 50 percent tax bracket holding a municipal bond bearing a 4 percent coupon receives the equivalent of an 8 percent return on a taxable bond.

With the great number of state and municipal subdivisions in existence, there is obviously a wide choice of municipal bonds available. However, in selecting an issue we must look beyond the purpose of the issue, or even the yield. While most municipal bodies probably will not default on their bonds, this has happened. A measure of the quality of a bond may be found in its rating — usually Moody's — from highest AAA to the seldom seen C. These ratings are essentially an evaluation of the issuing body, based on a variety of factors, roughly comparable to an individual's credit rating.

As might be expected, the better-rated issues will command higher prices (and produce lower yields) than those of lesser quality. This is also true of the bonds of a large, well-known community, as compared with those of a small community; the bonds of the lesser-known issuer will be less marketable, especially in small or odd lots. In this situation it is possible for an investor to find himself forced to hold bonds to maturity because there is no ready market at realistic prices.

Tax-exempt bond investments, perhaps more than other types of investment, must be personalized. But we offer, as suggestions, a few issues which look attractive to the Babson's Reports staff. First is the Illinois Toll 4 3/4's of 1998, yielding 5.05 percent to maturity. Second is the Fairfax County, Va. Water Authority 5's of 2007, yielding 5.22 percent. Also, we like the Austin, Texas School District 4.90 percent of 1991, yielding 5.25 percent.

Millikens Stay in Apartment Until Mansion's Debt Free

LANSING — That marvelous mansion on the banks of the Grand River in Lansing remains unoccupied by Gov. William G. Milliken because the motorized drapes, antique chairs and hideaway bar inside are proving a bit too rich for political philanthropists.

Milliken and his wife Helen refuse to move from their two-bedroom apartment in East Lansing to the posh "Governor's Residence" until the $250,000 fund drive to purchase furnishings is successful.

Reportedly, the campaign, headed by a committee of former governors, is $100,000 short. Plans to obtain $25,000 pledges from select industrialists have been scrapped.

THE GOAL should be met soon, said Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, after foundations and other organizations interested in contributing hold their meetings.

"The delay is only temporary," assured Lockwood. "We'll get the money by the end of May, and the Governor can move in then."

The Millikens and their family cat have been on standby for two months now. Initially the delay was attributed to confusion over deed restrictions, but that was cleared up by the Attorney General March 18.

THE FUND-RAISING snag has caused the Governor minor embarrassment. For the past month he has been telling his weekly news conference he expected to move "any day now."

The mansion, valued at $500,000, was donated to the state by Lansing trucking executive Howard Sober. But the gift included a provision the state would pay for the furnishings, many of them priceless antiques.

If the Millikens ever move in, they won't need to lift a finger. The home is loaded with electronic gadgets such as motor-driven drapes and a bar that pops from a wall at the push of a button.

There are 13 rooms, servants' quarters, five bathrooms and a four-car garage. Custom-made sofas flank the marble fireplace in a massive sunken living room.

NEXT YEAR'S state Supreme Court elections will determine if the Democrats or Republicans benefit from Legislative redistricting in 1971.

That's the prediction of Justice Eugene F. Black, who is not up for re-election.

Presently the court is comprised of four Democrats and three Republicans, though members are technically elected on a nonpartisan basis. The terms of two GOP members expire in 1971.

Black predicted the court will ultimately redistrict the legislature because of a deadlock within the apportionment commission following the 1970 federal population census.

"WE ARE APT to see a partisan-divided Supreme Court deciding in 1971 whether the Legislature shall be elected for the next 10 years according to a strictly one-sided Democratic plan, or a strictly one-sided Republican plan of legislature apportionment," Black said. The Justice proposed the Legislature change procedures for nominating court candidates at party conventions, and make the selection process purely nonpartisan.

AS AN ALTERNATIVE, he suggested the parties nominate candidates "willing to commit themselves to an open presentation" of their views on criminal justice and other key issues.

"Michigan needs such a Supreme Court contest," Black said. "We then could have a campaign turning upon a really genuine as well as publicly critical issue — not one of those fake issues like last year when each candidate went about the state saying only: 'Don't you like me better than the other candidates?'"

A PAGE ABOUT PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

By ROLLY PETERSON

"Hell in the Pacific" is one of the most unusual films to come out of the second world war, primarily because there are no bloody battle scenes where men die by the score, nor do the good guys win, whoever they are.

"Hell" simply, yet dramatically with the suddenness of a cold Spring shower, blows to smitherines the idea that in war anybody is a winner. What it does make emphatically clear is that everybody is the loser.

The simplicity of the story can't be overstated. Two soldiers — one a Japanese, one an American — are marooned on a Pacific island. They should be, so the history books tell us, the worst of enemies; they are, so the movie goes, the worst of enemies.

Both men are capable of being killers as the opening scenes attest. They spend sleepless nights and apply their own techniques of psychological warfare as they stalk each other. But when the knives are drawn and the jugular is bared, no blood flows.

Somehow — and it's never really explained — humanity creeps into both men. Maybe the absence of guns, which can kill a man at a safe distance, is at least a partial explanation. Maybe it's the distance from battle and homeland that mitigates the thirst for blood. Whatever, neither man can draw blood.

"Hell" would have been corny if the antagonists — the American and the Japanese — had embraced each other as shining examples of the brotherhood of man, forgotten the war and lived happily ever after.

They become close only because they must survive, and there is no urgent need to spill blood. But they never become bosom buddies. Always there remains a suspicious distance between them, even til the last, despite the rigors they survive together.

The senselessness of war explodes to life in the final scene.

The two men have crossed the Pacific to escape the boredom of their island. The island they reach, however, has been decimated by war. The muffled sound of distant guns can be heard as the two survivors search a deserted war-torn city.

The antagonists, left to themselves, shave, smoke and drink alcohol with ritualistic ease. The distant guns and a Life magazine with graphic war scenes penetrate their veil of friendship, putting the two men at odds. The crackle of a descending shell momentarily warns of death; then it comes.

Giving the story its dramatic force are the only two characters in the movie: Lee Marvin and Toshio Mifune. There is no grand action on a spectacular scale, only the action that comes with the superb acting of these two men.

And mind you, not a word is spoken between them. For one can speak only English and the other, only Japanese. Nevertheless, both characters are definable and their motives palpable — high proof of both men's abilities.

from the Pastor's Study

Rev. Guenther C. Branstner
First Methodist Church of Northville

Once upon a time there was a man who came to a certain point in life, and his boss said, "You must retire." So the company gave him a dinner, a watch, and a set of golf clubs to go with his pension. Everybody seemed to laugh a lot and have fun. And, he was retired.

And it came to pass that he was mightily bored. He cut the grass. He painted the porch. He took down the storm windows and put up the screens. Being a true sport, he even went to the supermarket.

He did not lack for money. He had been thrifty, worked hard, and all that. He had enough and it seemed good.

He was in reasonable health, for he had taken care of his body. He had exercised, eaten with some moderation, and his weight and cholesterol were maintained at happy levels.

He now had more time than ever before. One day, for want of something better to do, he went, quite alone, for a long walk. He was soon at the outskirts of town and his idle wandering took him by the quiet hillside cemetery. He thought to himself, "It would be a lot more unusual if it were a noisy hillside cemetery." He laughed at his own puckish humor, aware that it teetered on the edge of happy irreverence. He walked on, more slowly now, as the gray presence of the cemetery shadowed the greenness of spring. After all, he was an honest man. He prided himself on that, and he had made a number of trips this way in the tidy decency of funeral processions. That old bit about death and taxes pattered across a corner of his mind.

"Really now, no reason to get grim about this," he mused. So he did the bold thing, turned back, and took the little shortcut up among the tombstones. Epitaphs are always interesting. This one: "Rest in peace." Not very imaginative. Over here: "Together at last." Hmm, wonder how they got along down here? "Asleep in Jesus." Wonder what that means?

His personal favorite was Robert Frost's own epitaph, found in one of his poems. "I had a lover's quarrel with this world, where could he start? At city hall? The school? At Rotary? Maybe down at some church? Of course, he didn't attend church because he knew for a fact that some of the people were hypocrites. Quite suddenly, without his understanding where it came from, an alien idea surfaced in his mind. Wasn't it just possible there might be some hypocrites at the city hall, downtown, even over at the school? The rather abrupt perception of his own density brought an unpleasant twinge. A good thing he still had that sense of humor!

He was a little tired now, the natural price tag of all that walking and thinking. He headed home. Might be a good idea to drop around the corner next Sunday and see what's going on at the church these days. With all those hypocrites they wouldn't notice one more! He almost laughed out loud when the full impact of his thought struck home. Gored on the horns of his own sense of humor. The ultimate in humbling experience....

"A lover's quarrel with the world." What intriguing possibilities! And up from some remote portion of his sub-conscious echoed familiar words. "God is Love." Sunday School was a long way behind him, but he knew that was where he had heard it ... or, was it that little motto on the wall, somewhere in the dim past? Well, no matter. The idea came thru clear and strong.

He was on the front porch now. He was home again.

Herald's Herald

By MARILYN HERALD

If you're looking for comedy relief this week, don't stop here. This week's column is more apt to produce headache number 483 than provide a laugh.

The question is, are you a doer or a griper? How many times in the past year have you complained vocally and at length to your neighbors, friends and passers-by on school problems, township inadequacies and/or the city's weaknesses? Once, ten times, — not at all? If you're human and honest, I'll bet you've joined in a gripe session several times.

Now for the other side of the fence. How many times in the past year have you attended a school board meeting or the monthly meeting of your local municipality? Once, twice — not at all? Again, if you're human and honest, you will probably have to admit a failure to show interest in how the governing bodies function.

If my job didn't require periodic attendance at these meetings, I would probably be paddling the same canoe.

Maybe you feel that attending public meetings is for the elected representatives of the people or for the guy down the street who has an "axe to grind".

Public meetings are for everyone. You may not have an opportunity to express an opinion, but you surely will have the chance to form one. And next time there is an election, be it for millage or to elect officials, you will have a pretty comprehensive idea of what is needed and who might best accomplish it.

Only at an annual meeting or a budget hearing does the average citizen have a vote in the decisions reached. Sadly, many of these meetings are poorly attended — would you believe one average citizen, maybe even six, seldom more than 12 take the time to be present for these hearings?

Wherever you live — South Lyon, Northville, Brighton, Novi — you will be asked to elect school board officials in June. Are you prepared?

Do you make an honest effort to know what the school problems are and how they are being handled? Do you attend when a "meet your candidates" night is held? Or are you content to take someone else's word for who will do the best job when it really counts?

Remember it is your kids — and mine — who are or aren't getting an education. Remember you and I are the ones who are paying the taxes.

When it comes to the city or the township, it's your car — and mine — that's taking a beating if the roads aren't kept up. It may be your street that needs a sidewalk, street lights — the drains fixed.

And it is your pocketbook — and mine — that hurts when industry isn't encouraged and zoning provided so that a higher tax base can be attained.

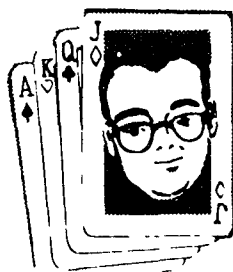

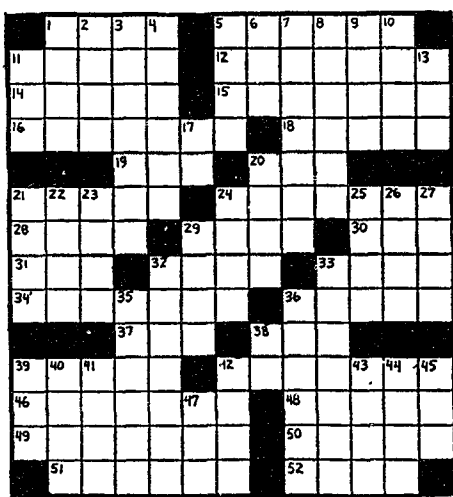

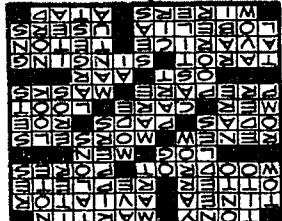

It's your community that is growing right out of its blue jeans and into big city clothes. If you don't show an interest now, you may find it has outgrown you too.

WEEKLY CROSSWORD

Here's the Answer

Top

the

by JACK W. HOFFMAN

Cars just naturally hate me — but this emotional display certainly is not a one sided affair.

Our mutual admiration grows out of the hypothesis that if there is a loose nut to be found it will show up inside the automobile that inhabits our oil-slick driveway. Admittedly, we are both stubborn and inconsiderate and we eat too much.

But for all my faults I can say with honesty that I have never purposely tried to injure my horseless carriage — a claim the car cannot make. During our "three-year acquaintance I have been pummeled, skinned and burned by this bundle of tin. And the physical abuse has been compounded by a ruthless mental torture, not to mention the resulting loss of hard-earned money.

My car has been in the garage so often the mechanic wants to charge rent. They long ago cut up the warranty and used it for a gasket. The car has undergone surgery so many times it doesn't have an organ it can call its own. I don't dare drive past a junk yard anymore because, just like the salmon, its homing instinct automatically touches off the turning signal.

Whenever it goes to the operating table, specialists gather just to inspect the latest mechanical phenomenon and to trade greasy diagnoses.

It has been suggested by a man wiser than myself that the inspector who watched my car come off the final assembly line had a seeing-eye dog.

You can be sure of one thing: if the manufacturer ever sends me one of those registered letters saying a washer needs replacing to ensure my safety I'm going to take the washer and give them the car.

*****

But the feeling's mutual, as I said before.

Frankly, I've abused the car, too, although mine are sins of omission. It's not that I don't want to care for the car — it's just that my mechanical skills are all used up in trimming my nails.

I can spend a half-hour just getting the hood up. And then when it's open, wow! It's like looking at the inside of an Appaloosa at lunchtime: all that horsepower wrapped up in pulsating intestines and belching gadgets that defy prodding.

The standard procedure in checking under the hood is to wiggle a few wires and to inspect the dip stick. Anything beyond that, such as removing the air filter or whatever you call it, is a major operation. Once, regrettably, I tried adjusting the generator in an effort to tighten the fan belt only to have my best gravity stained tie chewed up and my neck throttled.

Same thing under the dashboard. Just getting into a position to replace a fuse is difficult. My legs draped over the back of the seat, my head resting on the clutch pedal, a flashlight in my mouth, I'm usually three-quarters into a coma before I've found the fuse box. Fuse box — that's a laugh. You've got to have wires for fingers to get into the confounded thing.

*****

For the smart alecks who suggest I ought to have an expert check it, let me point out that if you don't know what to tell him to look for — and you don't know what they call it even if you know the trouble — what do you say?

I know, and I say it: "Give me a dollar's worth and clean the windshield, please."

Clean-up Drive Underway

Northville's annual spring clean-up campaign, which will continue through the month of May, got off to a rousing start this past week with local organizations joining with the city in general beautification projects.

On Saturday, as part of an annual club activity, members of Northville's family camping and hiking club, the Tumble Weeds, cleaned the roadside and boulevard along South Main Street (right). Before they had finished several truckloads of trash had been hauled off to the dump.

Also on Saturday members of the Lyon 4-H Club (left), with members from Northville as well as South Lyon, cleaned the roadside along Nine Mile between Currie and Napier roads.

Tons of trash were picked up here on Monday as the city, through its department of public works, conducted its annual trash pickup throughout the community.

Meanwhile, Northville's Beautification Commission has encouraged other organizations of the community to sponsor similar clean-up projects in an effort to get Northville ready for the Michigan Week kickoff — Community Pride Day — on Saturday, May 19.

Bids Sought For I-96 Work

A long winter of discontent for Michigan's highway program ends May 7 when the Department of State Highways takes bids on 42 construction and maintenance projects costing an estimated $34.1 million.

The estimated dollar volume qualifies the letting as the second largest ever conducted by the department. The largest was $42 million on December 7, 1960, when bids were taken for construction on a half-dozen freeways.

Locally, the only project anticipated in the bidding procedure is for roadside mowing along Interstate 96. Estimated cost of mowing 828 acres along the expressway between the Livingston-Oakland County line and Farmington Township is put at $5,000, with completion set for September 15.

Roadside mowing along Interstate 696 from Novi and Southfield, involving 540 acres, is expected to cost $5,000.
