A letter from the State Department of Education threatening the Northville School District with possible loss of state aid if students from tax-exempt property are not admitted to the school system met with disfavor from board members Monday night.

Richard Martin, acting as president in the absence of Robert Froelich, was opposed to the wording of the state's letter because of its "do it or lose state aid" attitude.

Trustee Glenn Deibert said the letter threatened that if 23 students from tax-exempt property were not admitted, 3,000 students could be affected.

"This type of threat is not appreciated by me," Deibert commented. His opinion was echoed by Martin.

Dr. Orlo Robinson said he was in

School Days Draw Near

The opening of the 1969-70 school year is just three weeks away for Northville Public Schools' students.

Superintendent Raymond E. Spear today announced that families moving into Northville with school-age children should contact the officials immediately. Registration information may be obtained by calling the schools through the main switchboard number, 349-3400.

All children who have reached their fifth birthday on or before December 1, 1969, are required by state law to attend kindergarten.

Kindergarten children and all students entering a Michigan school for the first time must have a complete health exam as directed by state law. Students must have proof of physical exam, dental checkup, TB test and immunizations.

Forms for the health exam were received last spring at the kindergarten orientation program or may be obtained by calling 349-3400.

Parents of elementary students who are registered will be notified of room assignments by postcard prior to Labor Day.

agreement but "if it jeopardizes students, we can't deny them admission."

Andrew Orphan said he would like to see the board take the matter to court. He said the threat was discrimination against the Northville School District.

Dr. Robinson was in favor of a legal test but wants assurance that school will open.

Superintendent Raymond E. Spear and Earl Busard, business manager, told the board members that if the state withheld aid, the district could operate to June, 1970, by paying the teachers' salaries but no other bills.

At the request of the board, the matter was tabled to the next meeting, August 25, when Froelich, Stanley Johnston and Eugene Cook are also expected to be present.

The board authorized Spear to ask for cost estimate of sealcoating old Base Line Road. Martin said it would be a "hazard and a mistake not to improve the road." The city has sent a letter to the board stating they were reluctant to maintain the road.

Approval was given to a resolution establishing the 34.9 tax levy on district property for 1969.

Action on the school district budget for the 1969-70 school year was tabled until August 25.

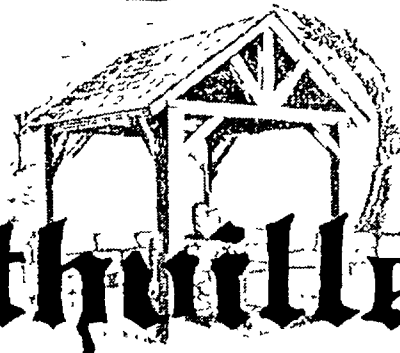

Authorization was given to the administrators to apply for a loan of $510,000 based on anticipated tax collections. The loan will enable the school to operate until all taxes have been paid.

Approval was also given to continue the Title I ESEA project for the coming school year. The program is designed to help students in the elementary grades work up to and beyond their capacity.

Miss Florence Panattoni, curriculum coordinator, told the board the project was a complete success during the past school year.

Contracts were approved for six new teachers. Two resignations, submitted by Mrs. Judith Hendrien and Richard Willing, were accepted.

Approval was given to revised job specifications of the athletic director. He will no longer be in charge of the girls' athletic program, cheerleaders and other non-athletic activities.

Board Slaps Down Citizen's Report

Township Police Fight Triggers Resignation

A five-hour-long session that must rank as the most explosive, argumentative and unruly board meeting ever conducted in the modern history of Northville township saw the following happen Tuesday night:

— the abrupt resignation of a trustee who walked out midway through the meeting;

Township Ponders Maybury Proposal

The Northville township board will decide tonight (Thursday) at a special meeting whether or not it wants to enter into an agreement with the city of Northville, and possibly the board of education, to form an authority to purchase a portion of the 900-acre Maybury Sanatorium property.

The township board learned Tuesday night from City Manager Frank Ollendorff that the city council had determined that it desires 220 acres for open space and recreation purposes. He explained to the board that the deadline for informing the city of Detroit was drawing near, thus the city intended to submit its proposal while hoping the township might also take part and increase the number of acres purchased for community park use.

Monday night a short-handed board of education (four of seven members) instructed Superintendent Raymond Spear to draft a resolution approving participation in the joint authority. The board has indicated it requires from 60 to 70 acres.

It is not known, however, whether the total board will vote in favor of the resolution at its next meeting.

Meanwhile, Trustee Bernard Baldwin made a strong appeal for township participation with the city.

He noted the future need of recreation and open space sites for communities and pointed out the township now has none. "It would be an unfortunate set of circumstances if the city went ahead alone... we would be ignoring our responsibilities if we don't at least explore the possibilities of purchase."

Attorney John Ashton informed the board that it can enter into an authority and raise millage for such acquisitions. And in answer to a question from Trustee Richard Mitchell the attorney said the park could be reserved for community resident use alone.

Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg told the board that Sheldon Hayes, owner of asphalt and mining operations, had offered to buy property and give 200 acres to the township "if he could make a lake on the property."

Trustee Thomas Armstrong asked the supervisor if this would mean "gravel mining" and the supervisor replied it would "...for about eight years."

Trustee Mitchell indicated he would not want to take any action without a public hearing on the matter.

— the flat rejection of a report made by a board-appointed citizens' committee on police protection;

— the adoption of the state uniform traffic code to expand the authority of the township's one-man, 40-hour-per-week police officer beyond local ordinances on hunting, dogs and rubbish to include traffic violations;

— indecisive discussion concerning the township's role in the proposed formation of a city-township authority to purchase a portion of the 900-acre Maybury tract from the city of Detroit for open space and recreation purposes;

— acceptance of some 400 signatures on petitions calling for an election seeking to rescind industrial and business zoning recently adopted along Haggerty road near Five and Six Mile roads;

— adjournment of the meeting until Thursday (tonight) to complete unfinished agenda business and reach a decision on the Maybury property purchase.

The board's handling of the report made by the police protection study committee and presented by Chairman Eugene Guido prompted the resignation of Trustee Thomas Armstrong.

When the board voted 4-2 to "accept and file" — rather than meet with the citizens' committee to discuss its proposals as requested by Chairman Guido — Armstrong stood up and announced to Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg "...that's it, I resign." The stunned board made no comment as Armstrong strode from the room.

The vote to take no action on the study committee's report clearly indicated the board's rejection of its proposals. Trustees Richard Mitchell and Joseph Straub were the most vocal in their opposition. They received support from Treasurer Alex Lawrence and Clerk Eleanor Hammond.

Supervisor Stromberg remained silent during most of the discussion and did not vote. Trustee Bernard Baldwin voted with Armstrong against rejection.

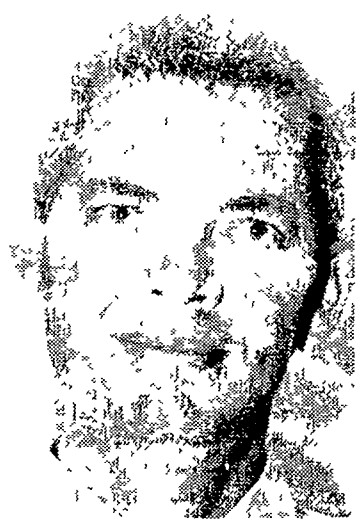

Specifically, the nine-member study committee report recommended the following:

"The committee findings reveal a continuing increase in crime and projects an escalating rate of increase resulting from the projected rapid growth of the community."

"The need for police protection is more acute today than it was three years ago."

"The only satisfactory police protection for the needs indicated would be providing round-the-clock service seven days a week."

"Police protection for the Township would be most advantageously arranged through the City of Northville."

Appointed by the board along with Guido to make the police protection study were Trustee Mitchell, R. F. Endress, F. Hembrey, J. L. Nowka, J. Stasiuk, W. D. Tyler, E. O. Weber and Mrs. Constance Wilson.

Chairman Guido announced the report had been adopted by a 7-2 vote of the study committee. He said that Mitchell and Stasiuk had voted negatively, but not because of disagreement with the content of the report. Guido said they indicated that the need for fulltime police protection was still two years away.

Actually, the police protection report was supplemental to a report made three years ago by a committee also headed by Guido and containing many of the same members. It was updated following recent board arguments concerning township police needs — and following appointment by the board (on a split vote) of a 40-hour-per-week officer at a salary of $9,500. The report (which will be published in full in next week's edition of The Record) indicated its information had been gathered through meetings with expert police witnesses including Sheriff Roman Gribbs of Wayne county and Northville Police Chief Samuel Elkins.

The report did criticize the board for failing to act on the committee's first study and for employing an officer during the course of its second study. "In short, it would appear that if study results do not fulfill your preconceived

City Seeks to Purchase 220 Acres at Maybury

The city council, acting upon the recommendation of the Northville Ad Hoc Park and Open Space Study Committee, will vote to purchase approximately 220 acres of Maybury Sanatorium property next Monday night.

All members of the council individually indicated enthusiastic approval of the committee's report Thursday night and are prepared to formally vote to negotiate purchase.

While the council may yet enter into a joint purchase with the township and the school district, it is prepared to negotiate a purchase with or without either of the two other bodies.

The recommendation, which carried the endorsement of the entire committee, suggests establishment of a building authority to purchase and develop the property for recreation purposes. It was introduced to the council by Committee Chairman John Canterbury, following a parks and recreation status report by Robert Prom and a detailed description of the Maybury property by Wes Henrikson. Other members of the committee are: Mrs. Edna Johnson, Mrs. Stuart Campbell, Mrs. Charles Ely, John Buckland, Joe Kluesner, Robert Cole, E. C. Welch, and Stanley Johnston.

Specifically, the committee suggests purchase of approximately 220 acres lying between Seven and Eight Mile Roads adjacent to Beck Roads. It includes a number of large brick buildings.

"In our opinion," said Canterbury, "it would no doubt be desirable for the township, the school board and the city jointly to purchase a major share of this property for present and future needs. If on a timely basis this does not prove practical, we believe that the city alone ought to pursue the objective of acquiring approximately 220 acres of this land. A substantial case can be made that such acreage is required right now with the present population and needs of the City of Northville. Probably such acreage represents less than our long term needs at a projected population of 9,200."

Later, during the discussion of the recommendation and reports, Canterbury quipped that since purchase of the property for recreation based on an ultimate population of 9,200 can be justified, it would seem obvious that the township, with an ultimate population of 47,000, can also justify purchase of property for recreation.

However, he repeatedly stressed the importance of speedy action by the council and urged that it not waiver in the hope that perhaps the township may eventually want to purchase property or join with the city in the purchase.

"I believe that our studies and common sense judgment," continued Canterbury, "indicate that public ownership of at least some of this property is highly desirable. The more difficult questions are those of feasibility."

"Committee discussions have indicated that some of the possible uses of this land (for example, part of it for a golf course) might well provide enough revenue to make the acquisition of the land, as well as development costs, self-liquidating."

Petitions Seek Township Election

Industrial Zoning Challenged

Industrial and business zoning along Haggerty road near Five and Six Mile roads adopted by the Northville township board on July 8 appears headed for the voting booth.

Petitions calling for an election to rescind the zoning were submitted to the board Tuesday night.

Strong objections were registered on the rezoning at public hearings from residents of the area, both in Northville and Plymouth township.

It is located along the route of the proposed new expressway, which was the strongest argument by planners for the rezoning.

Clerk Eleanor Hammond said that more than 400 signatures accompanied the petitions. Her office is in the process of validating the signatures.

Township Attorney John Ashton said that the number of signatures must equal 15 per cent of the number of persons owning property in the township.

If the number is sufficient, a special election may be called or the issue may appear on the ballot at the next regular election, August 1970.

Meanwhile, the new industrial and commercial zoning applies.

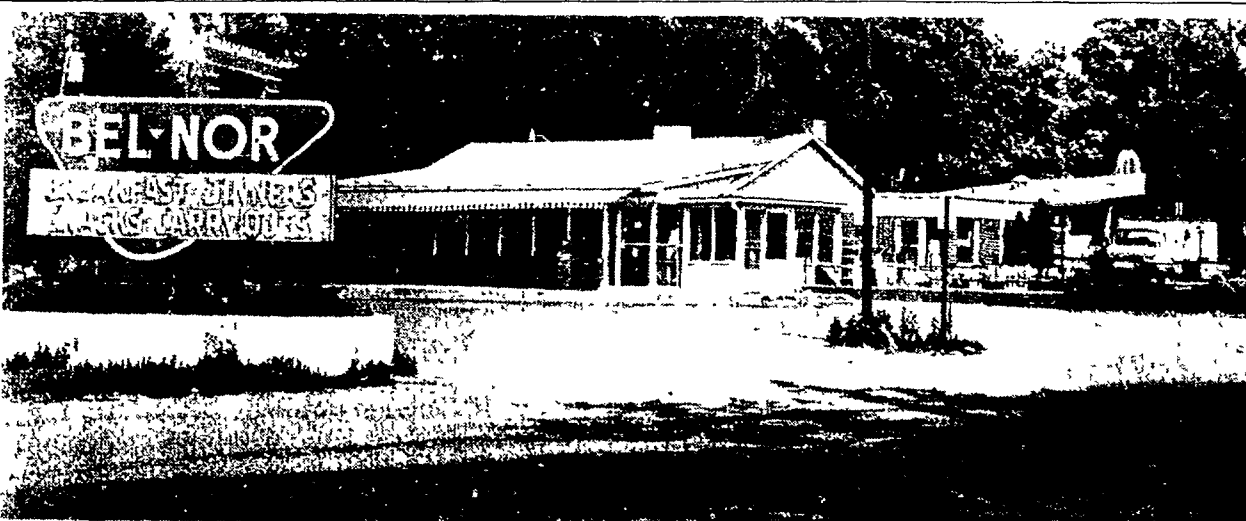

In other business Tuesday night the board:

— approved advertising for bids jointly with the city for a new fire truck, estimated to cost $32,000. Treasurer Alex Lawrence proposed that the township should buy the equipment alone but keep it at the city fire station and permit the city to use it. Trustee Mitchell supported the idea. Trustee Baldwin questioned the financial wisdom of spending twice as much to buy the equipment and paying twice as much for maintenance. He noted that it had been the intention of the board, as in the past, to share the cost of equipment with the city. He expressed surprise at Lawrence's proposal. The board majority supported Baldwin's position and the vote was unanimous to accept specifications as presented by City Manager Frank Ollendorff on behalf of the fire department.

— Accepted a low bid of $1,020 to paint the outside of the township hall.

— Approved a contract with Meadowbrook Country Club granting the township a 30-foot easement across the golf course from Eight to Seven Mile road for the purpose of installing a water line. The club will be given a 12-inch leader water main at its entrance in exchange for the easement.

CLOSED — Bel Nor Drive-In restaurant, a popular eating spot for area residents for the past 12 years, closed last week. Owner Mrs. Walter Belasco announced that the Northville-Seven Mile road corner had been leased to Shell Oil Company and that a station will be erected on the site. Oil company officials are now awaiting approval of their building plans by the city's board of appeals.

The board meets September 2. The station will be one of the company's new ranch-style models. Mrs. Belasco blamed "the help situation" for her decision to discontinue the restaurant. She said that she had retained 75 feet frontage next to the Good Time Party Store and planned to move the Bel Nor building to that lot and "probably convert it into offices".

Grand Rapids Girl, David Jerome Wed

An afternoon service in Grand Rapids, Michigan united in marriage Kathleen A. Schmidt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Schmidt of Grand Rapids, and David E. Jerome, son of the Rev. and Mrs. George P. Jerome of 743 Horton Street in Northville on August 9.

The couple was married in the Eastminster Presbyterian Church. The Rev. George Jerome, father of the groom, and Rev. Edward Brigham officiated before an altar banked with pink and white flowers.

The use of music gave a unique flavor to the wedding ceremony. Before the service, Mrs. James Ingle sang "The Wedding Hymn" from "Ptolomy by Handel." The bridesmaids entered to "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," a flute and organ duet, and the bride and her father entered to Purcell's Trumpet Voluntary. During the service "The Lord's Prayer" was played on the flute with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Allen Brundage. The entire wedding party left the sanctuary to the strains of "The Trumpet Shall Sound" from Handel's "Messiah."

For the ceremony the bride wore her mother's wedding gown with the addition of imported Belgian lace. The original dress of ivory illusion was modeled after a Molyneux design remodeled to a Victorian style. The veil was held by a satin bow, also trimmed with lace, and fell to a train. The bride carried a round bouquet of white stephanotis. The maid of honor was Jane Jerome and the matron of honor was Mrs. John Possett. They wore pale pink victorian dresses with leg-of-mutton sleeves. Their slightly gathered skirts fell from pink satin sashes and they carried pink glanilla nosegays.

Other bridesmaids included Colette Volkema, Diane Horstmanhof, Connie Brigham and Joan Cates. The junior bridesmaid was Nancy Jerome. All were dressed in outfits similar to the honor attendants.

Serving as best man was Mr. Philip Jerome, brother of the groom. Ushers were Tyrell Schmidt and Brian Schmidt, brothers of the bride, and Larry Angove, Eric Peterson and Dick Ertell. Junior usher was John Jerome, brother of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Schmidt chose a banana colored coat-style dress with tapestry shoes and purse. The mother of the bridegroom wore a raspberry-colored dress with beaded detail.

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony.

For a wedding trip to Miami and Ft. Lauderdale, the bride wore a pale blue sleeveless dress. She is a graduate of Alma College and the bridegroom graduated from the College of Wooster. He also attended the University of Michigan Law School.

The couple will make their new home in Arlington, Virginia.

Two Area Women Head Torch Drive

A Northville homemaker and another from South Lyon have been appointed division chairmen for the Oakland residential campaign of the 1969 Torch Drive.

They are Mrs. Bernard Roland Adams, of 41280 Llewellyn Court, Northville, and Mrs. Francis R. Clements, 26777 Pontiac Trail, South Lyon.

They will begin immediately to recruit the many volunteers needed to conduct the house-to-house canvass during the 21st annual United Foundation campaign.

Scheduled for Oct. 14 through Nov. 6, the drive will seek funds to underwrite operating costs of nearly 200 health and community services in the Oakland, Macomb and Wayne area.

The residential campaign annually brings in more than $1 million of the Torch Drive total and provides every household in the three-county area with information about the UF and its services.

It also offers housewives, the retired and the self-employed - all those not contacted at work - an opportunity to make their contributions.

Wife of the vice president of Parkside Building & Cement Co., Mrs. Adams was a Torch Drive doorbell ringer from 1964 through 1966, an area chairman in 1967 and a neighborhood chairman last year.

"The support the UF has given the Southern Oakland Girl Scouts prompted me to become a Torch Drive worker," Mrs. Adams said.

She has served as a Scout leader, day camp director, troop services director and a member of the council's board of directors.

Mrs. Adams is active in Redford Baptist Church, the Women's Missionary Society and a circle group. She has served as church day camp director.

The Adams family includes Terry, 14; Jeanne, 12, and Jeff, 8.

A neighborhood worker in earlier Torch Drives, Mrs. Clements attended business college in Evansville, Ind. She is a member of St. Joseph Altar Society and the Detroit Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women.

Her husband is a milk route owner with Twin Pines Farm Dairy. They have four children.

Mrs. Pat Bingham of 41138 Marlson, Novi, announces the engagement of her daughter, Gay Ann, to Randy Pohlman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pohlman of 41119 McMahon Circle in Novi. She is also the daughter of Donald Bingham, Walled Lake.

"Weaning and Human Development" Local Psychiatrist Authors Unique Book on Infancy

It probably will never be made into a movie, admits the Northville author, but critics nevertheless are calling Dr. Gordon R. Forrer's recently published book a major scientific contribution.

Surprisingly, "Weaning and Human Development" is a pioneering work - the only book ever written that concentrates on the peculiarities in infants during the first months of life.

Dr. Forrer, former clinical director of Northville State Hospital who has been in the private practice of psychiatry for the past nine years, has brushed aside the conventional definition of weaning as a shift from liquid to solid food and instead zeroes in on the infant in the process of maturation.

The interpretation of infant phenomena opens a whole new world of understanding, offering for the first time, for example, an explanation of the origin of orgasm.

The author states that "the book calls attention to a phase of development about which much remains to be learned."

While "Weaning and Human Development" is a simplification of heretofore mysterious human behavior and development, the book is neither critical or destructive of what has gone before except for its correction of the "death instinct."

From the therapeutic standpoint, its conception of modern "mental diseases" as being no more than varying degrees of maturational failure clarifies in one stroke what previously had been thought of as complex diseases that only multiple theoretical causes seemed applicable.

Currently popular theories regarding homosexuality are antiquated by Dr. Forrer's book. His explanation of homosexuality is likely to amaze the reader expecting a complex theory but who finds instead a simple, logically sound interpretation.

Dr. Forrer, who lives at 46995 Main Street, draws upon a wide professional background in writing this his first book. After a tour of duty with the Army as an instructor in neuropsychiatry, he served six years at Northville State Hospital. Since 1960 he has been in private practice.

His first professional paper, presenting a new and daring technique in somatic therapy, was written in 1952 before he had even completed his psychiatric residency training. He succeeded in developing a therapy as effective as Insulin Coma which at the same time was far less expensive and simpler to administer.

His novel use of toxic doses of Atropine Sulfate provided a technological breakthrough in the employment of coma for the therapy of psychoses.

His most recent papers include "The Psychoanalysis of Hallucination" and "The Psychoanalytic Theory of Placebo." The former when read before The American Psychiatric Association was accorded the rare observation, "it has the ring of a classic."

The Northville author's three-dozen-plus papers reflect his persistent energies directed toward the discovery of causes of the unexplained - the platform from which sick people can be effectively treated.

Paper Sets Policy On Weddings

Effective immediately no wedding story or picture will be published in this newspaper more than 15 days after the wedding date. After the deadline only a brief announcement of the wedding - without a picture - will be used.

Color pictures submitted for either a wedding or an engagement will not be used. Similarly, poloroid snapshots will not be used unless the quality of the print is exceptionally good.

As has been this newspaper's past practice, no charge will be made for publishing wedding stories, engagements and pictures.

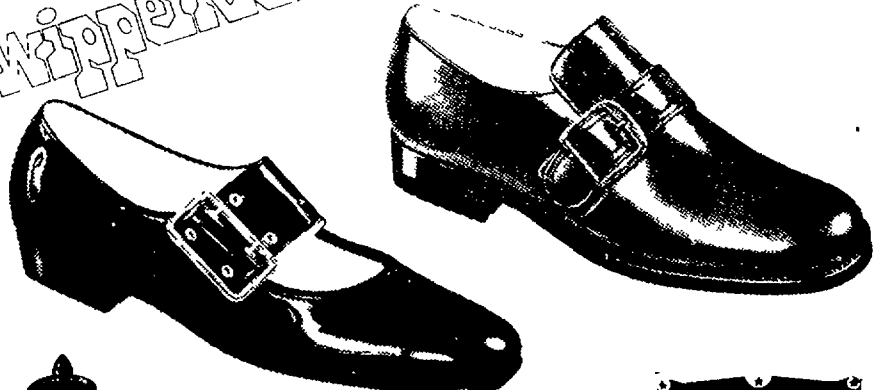

A bride or her parents are urged to obtain a wedding form at the newspaper office well in advance of the wedding and to return it to the newspaper either before or immediately after the wedding. The information must be typed or printed legibly. Wedding or engagement information will not be accepted by telephone.

Presbyterian Youths Work At Tennessee Mission

Twenty-four young adults made a little history of their own helping construct a historical museum at Sunset Gap Community Center near Newport, Tennessee.

Sponsored jointly by the First Presbyterian Church in Northville and the Board of National Missions of the United Presbyterian Church, the group lived and worked at a mountain mission station near Newport for one week in August.

A 100-year-old log cabin was taken apart, transported three miles to Sunset Gap Community Center and re-assembled on a new foundation. The cabin will be used as an area historical museum.

Members participating in the project said it gave them an opportunity to see the work of missions supported by the Northville First Presbyterian Church.

The group, returning last Saturday, included Judy Bogart, Leslie Brasure, Nancy Chadwick, Barbara Cuppett, Roberta Day, Karen Dyke, Sue Forrer, Sue Froelich, Martha Gazlay, Tom Grieves, Ed Hammond, Dianne Harper, Jan and Leigh Heffner, Sarah Horner, Gretchen Johnson, Allison Lamb, Ralph Luckett, Cindy MacCurdy, Richard Moore, Jim Penn, Elma Sarto, Richard Sechler and Dave Wright.

Adult advisers were Mrs. William Dyke, Mrs. Phillip Nauman, Ole Sarto, Mike Horner and the Rev. Timothy Johnson.

Mixed-Up Magnolia

For the second year in a row April's busting out all over again in August.

A magnolia tree, owned by Mrs. Earl Hicks of 23685 Ripple Creek Road, is blooming now the second time this summer.

It marks the fourth time in two years that the tree has exploded with flowers. Normally, a magnolia tree blooms once each year in April, but this one insists on a repeat performance in August.

"We call her a she," explained Mrs. Hicks, "because the poor thing is always giving birth."

The Hicks' first noticed the mutation last fall when the seven-year-old tree produced 10 extra pink blossoms. This spring "she" had more than 100 flowers and now has sprouted 28 more.

Although the productions are beautiful, her owners fear that the added work is killing the tree. Her limbs are beginning to droop and her bottom leaves are dried and curling. In an attempt to revive her, they've trimmed her top branches and fed her roots with, of all things, Miracle Grow.

Troop 731 Scouts Back from Brighton

Seven scouts were awarded badges during the encampment. They include Steve Hazlett, four merit badges and Eagle rank; Bryn Hartshorne, six badges and life rank; Kevin Hartshorne, six badges and star rank; Kevin Pelto, five badges; Bob Blomhoff, three badges and star rank; Greg Pelto, three badges and star rank and Steve Butler, star rank.

GOP Picnic

The Nineteenth Congressional District Republican Committee will sponsor a gala picnic and barbecue at the John F. Ivory Farms, on Cooley Lake Rd., Commerce Township, Sunday, August 24th.

The picnic will offer swimming, games and races for children and a water safety show put on by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. All of Oakland County's Republican State Senators and Representatives will be on hand to greet their constituents and Governor Milliken and Congressman Jack McDonald are expected.

The public is invited to attend. Tickets are available from Republican Headquarters in Birmingham and can be obtained by calling 646-8414.

HAPPY HUNGER HIKERS - Although their feet were weary, this group of "hunger hikers" could smile Sunday knowing they were raising money for hungry people in our nation and the world. Altogether 29 young "hikers" joined in the project sponsored by St. Paul's Lutheran Church Walther League. Lynn Rathert organized the hike and each participant was responsible to obtain a "sponsor" to pay the hiker a pledge per mile hiked. The youngsters collected $1,008.90 with 14 walking 20 miles, two a distance of 16 miles and 13 trekked 11 miles. The youngsters walked from St. Paul's church to Nankin Mills, following a route along Hines Drive. Pastor Charles Boerger joined in the hike, starting the Sunday afternoon project with a prayer. City Manager Frank Ollendorff (who didn't hike) wished the young hikers well on behalf of the city council as they set-off on their "hike for the hungry."

Board OK's Amerman Plan

With exactly a quota of four trustees present, Northville Public Schools' Board of Education Monday gave approval to the preliminary drawings of the Amerman School addition.

Discussion concerned the proposed multi-purpose room. The plan approved Monday was a 2,952 square foot room with 18 foot ceilings.

Trustee Andrew Orphan voiced doubt that the proposed room was needed at Amerman. Orphan felt the existing multi-purpose room was adequate for student assemblies and physical education classes.

Superintendent Raymond E. Spear told the board that a new multi-purpose room was needed to accommodate the 700 capacity enrollment of the school in the future. Many of the activities that make up an elementary school physical education program could not be carried out in the existing room, according to Spear.

Amerman presently accommodates 480 pupils.

The board passed the motion to approve the plans, including construction of a new multi-purpose room, by a vote of 4-0. Trustees Stanley Johnston, Eugene Cook and Robert Froelich were absent.

Orphan said he thought the new room was not needed but he voted for the measure. He said he did not want to be the one who held up the plans and, that if the absent board members had attended the meeting, he would have been over-ruled by their "yes" votes.

Down from Last Year

Attendance at Parks Lags

Only one of the four major parks of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority had increased attendance during the month of July this year compared to the record-breaking patronage of the comparable month of 1968.

Lower Huron Metropolitan Park near Belleville had a slight increase in visitor patronage with over 262,400 in July of 1969 compared to 250,000 persons for July of 1968. However, both figures are below the high of 348,300 persons set in July of 1961.

Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford had over 442,000 visitors in July this year, a decrease from the record 490,000 persons visiting the park in July of 1968.

Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens had 406,400 persons in July of 1969 compared to the record 449,700 visitors coming to the park in July of 1968.

Stony Creek Metropolitan Park near Utica had over 348,800 visitors in July of 1969 compared to the record 382,000 visitors using the park in July of 1968.

Over 61,730 persons visited the three HCMA parks in Washtenaw County during July of this year, with 27,800 at Hudson Mills; 15,400 at Dexter-Huron and 18,530 at Delhi Metropolitan Parks. There are no comparative figures for these three parks located along the Huron River northwest of Ann Arbor.

The decline in HCMA park attendance is attributed to several rainy weekends although week-day use was aided by a hot streak of weather for about 8 to 10 days early in the month.

Area Slated For Survey

A sample of residents in this area will be included in a nation-wide survey of employment and unemployment to be conducted next week by the U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census, according to Hobert A. Yerkey, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Detroit.

The survey is made each month for the U.S. Department of Labor to determine the number of persons with jobs, the number looking for jobs, and the monthly unemployment rate. The survey furnishes a basic measure of the Nation's economic health.

Information obtained in the survey can be used only to determine statistical totals, and facts about each person and family are kept completely confidential.

Capt. Bosak Directs Missile Launching

LOMPOC, Calif.— Captain Frank H. Bosak, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Bosak, Sr. of 43000 Nine Mile Road, Northville, recently helped launch a U. S. Air Force Minuteman II intercontinental ballistic missile from Vandenberg AFB, Calif.

Captain Bosak was the commander of the Francis E. Warren AFB, Wyo., missile combat crew which fired the missile.

The launch was one in a series of operational testing launches conducted by the Strategic Air Command (SAC). The missile, selected at random from those on alert at Francis E. Warren, was transported—with its maintenance and launch crews—to Vandenberg.

The crews operated from the Vandenberg control center where they monitored the missile in an alert status. When the launch message was received from SAC headquarters, the crews reacted, launching the missile as they would from their home base in a combat operation.

Captain Bosak was commissioned in 1966 upon completion of Officers Training School at Lackland AFB, Tex.

A 1960 graduate of Northville High School, he earned his B.S. degree in 1964 from Eastern Michigan University.

His wife, Susan, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon F. Hubbert of 512 Hingham Lane, Schaumburg, Ill.

Captain Frank H. Bosak, Jr.

Plattsburgh, N.Y.—Elwyn J. Kaake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn R. Kaake of 46234 Fonner Court W, is participating in a U.S. Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (AFROTC) field training encampment at Plattsburgh AFB, N.Y.

During the encampment, cadets become familiar with the life and activities on Air Force bases and can examine career opportunities in which they might wish to serve as officers.

Other highlights include survival training, aircraft and aircrew indoctrination, small arms training and visits to other Air Force bases.

Cadet Kaake, a 1966 graduate of Northville High School where he was a member of the National Honor Society, is a member of the AFROTC unit at Michigan State University.

His wife, Catherine, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Beard of 41261 Eight Mile Road.

They Complete Peace Corps Assignment

Slated to return next Saturday from a Peace Corps assignment in Western Samoa are Mr. and Mrs. James R. Morris.

Jim is a 1962 graduate of Northville High School and a graduate of the University of Michigan. His wife, the former Carolyn Bates, received her degree from Boston University. The couple met during their Peace Corps training at Molokai in Hawaii. They were married in Apai, Western Samoa and spent their honeymoon in the Fiji Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris will make their home in the Northville-Farmington area. Jim will teach in the Detroit inner-city area, while Mrs. Morris will be completing her studies for a master's degree at Wayne State University.

Cherry Point, North Carolina - Marine Corporal Richard E. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Mitchell of 50286 W. Seven Mile Road, and husband of the former Miss Barbara J. Varhol of 20095 Shadyside, Livonia, was awarded the Combat Action Ribbon at the Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point.

The newly created ribbon is awarded to a member of the armed forces who actively participates in combat action or is directly endangered by combat action.

He is serving with Marine All Weather Attack Squadron 202, Second Marine Aircraft Wing.

His squadron trains pilots and bombardier/navigationers to operate the A-6A Intruder, an all-weather attack aircraft.

SPEAKING

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

It can't be a sign of increasing age. For as long as I can remember August has been one of my very unfavorable months. March is best.

As summer disappears into September it always seems that the good times have passed for another year. In March they lie just ahead.

Probably this reflects the times of which I am a product - when vacations came only in the summertime; when winter was wearing heavy clothes, shoveling snow, trudging to and from school and breathing Vicks Vapo Rub all night long.

But even as I lament the passing of summer a surge of releases stacked on my desk reveal that at mid-August there are still plenty of opportunities for "family good times" nearby.

So why not a one or two-day "mini-vacation" with your family before applying the Vicks again?

For example:

- During the next two weeks the Manistee Area Chamber of Commerce is conducting the Michigan Salmon Derby. There are two separate contests for anglers climaxed by a three-day derby over Labor Day weekend. Prizes for the biggest salmon caught include a $1,000 savings bond, a week's vacation for two to Florida, fishing tackle, etc.

For the younger set that enjoys dancing the Glenn Miller orchestra will appear at Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens Sunday beginning at 8:30 p.m. at the open-air dance pavilion.

- For those who enjoy their music on the classical side Julius Rudel, director of the New York City Opera, will guest conduct the Detroit Symphony Orchestra concerts at Meadow Brook Festival beginning this evening through Sunday. Violinist Michael Rabin will be soloist for the four performances.

- Like the Big Band Sound? The Eddie Santini Show presents a blend of the music of Dorsey, Miller, Flanagan, Basie and Alpert at Orchard Ridge Amphitheatre at Oakland Community College just south of I-696 on Orchard Lake road. This under-the-stars concert begins at 8 p.m. Sunday and is free of charge. Sunday, August 24 Father Tom Vaughn will be featured.

- Lest we forget, Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village continue to offer fine family entertainment. The American Drama Festival is currently underway with performances at 8:30 p.m. in the Henry Ford Museum Theater. Coming up are: Shenandoah, August 18 and 22; Davy Crockett, August 19 and 23; A Trip to Chinatown, August 20; Horizon, August 21. And there's always the horse-drawn carriage tours of Greenfield Village, seven days a week. For a nominal fee you can choose to ride in a pony cart, hay wagon or Model T.

- On tap very soon, of course, is the Michigan State Fair. It opens Friday, August 22 and runs through Monday, September 1. Monday, August 25 is Old Timers Day and Tuesday, August 26 is Children's Day.

A traveller stopped and asked a native, what's the name of this town? "That depends," came the reply. "On what," asked the traveller.

"On whether or not you live in this run-down, crumby place ... or whether you're a tourist attracted here by its picturesque charm and quaint scenery."

Happy vacationing.

Babson' Report

Private Planes Dominate Skies

BABSON'S REPORTS, Wellesley Hills, Mass. - The Business/Private Aircraft Industry known to the trade as General Aviation - has more planes in the air, uses more air facilities, serves more places, and logs more hours than all the major airlines together. The rapid growth in the number of certified private pilots and students in training and the boom in flying clubs indicate the strong long-term potential for the industry, paced by a swing toward fleets of company-owned planes and a new trend to air-taxi-commuter line operators.

In 1968 the three leaders - Beech, Cessna, and Piper - recorded strong advances, and a well regarded aerospace marketing research firm, DMS Inc., forecasts that by 1973 there will be a 47% gain in unit sales of small planes over the number produced in 1967. Over 85% of annual unit sales and 80% of dollar volume are generated by the "Big Three". Of these, the Research Staff of Babson's Reports currently favors purchase of the common stock of Cessna Aircraft for near-term appreciation and growth. We maintain a hold position on Beech Aircraft. Piper is being wooed by Chris-Craft and Bangor Punta, with the outcome not yet resolved.

The common stock of Narco Scientific Industries is recommended for appreciation and long-term growth. This company is a leading producer of avionics (electronic) equipment for small aircraft.

CURRENTLY representing a minor portion of total general aviation sales is the so-called third-level airlines or "air-taxis" market, representing those air taxi operators offering scheduled flights in areas not served by the regional and national airlines. These "air taxis" increased from 12 in 1964 to 270 last year; a 69% gain in passenger traffic was recorded for 1967 compared to a 22% gain for all scheduled domestic airlines. By designing new aircraft, both for passenger and cargo operations, the "Big Three" are assured of a substantial share of this market.

Since 80% of new manufacturing plant facilities are located in areas not served directly by commercial carriers, the demand for company-owned planes is creating general aviation's largest market. Only 10% of this market's potential of 400,000 businesses that could profitably use one or more aircraft has been penetrated.

Key indicators of the growth of this market are the 50% increase in the number of student pilot certificates from 1964 to 1967 and the rise in the number of flying clubs to 2,500 operating 3,500 aircraft. The manufacturers help foster this growth by offering inexpensive instruction and assistance in financing purchases of new aircraft through a substantial dealership network.

MANUFACTURERS of private planes have enjoyed a good but variable upward trend in the number of aircraft sold. However, over the past decade a shift to higher priced and more versatile planes by both flying enthusiasts and corporations has resulted in a faster and more even pace for revenues. This trend is expected to continue in the future as shipments rise. More extensive dealer-distributor organizations and plans for closely coordinated factory branches should also favor an acceleration of growth over the long term.

A cessation of the Vietnam conflagration would, in our opinion, also contribute importantly to the future prospects. More commercial business would be sought by many companies to replace government business; this would require more business aircraft travel. Finally, the strong and expanding export market (20% of sales) is growing at a faster rate than the domestic market. U. S. producers have a definite edge over foreign manufacturers, and this is expected to widen in the next decade.

ONE YEAR AGO ...

... Slicing the school curriculum, which neither board members nor a majority of a capacity crowd liked, nevertheless became a reality Monday in the wake of the recent second defeat of the controversial two-mill proposition. The Northville Board of Education voted unanimously to trim its proposed budget even though citizens at the same meeting successfully petitioned for a third election.

Top of the Deck

by JACK W. HOFFMAN

NOTE - Jack Hoffman is vacationing in Canada again, a replay no doubt of his experiences last year. Following is a column published after his previous adventure.

"What's that?" they chorused as the heavenly aroma wafted from the big black pot and romanced the pines and birches. "That, my boys, is a 'hobo's delight'. It's the kind of stuff woodsmen would wrestle bears for. Wipe the grease off your tins and get ready for the best meal of your lives."

They immediately went into a huddle, whispering something obviously not intended for my ears.

Finally one of them volunteered, "Daddy, we're not really hungry yet. Couldn't we just have a peanut butter sandwich?"

I'm an understanding, compassionate father, so I handled this situation with diplomacy. "Shut up, and hand ... ur tins. You had peanut butter for breakfast, peanut butter for lunch, but now you're going to eat a real meal!"

This second day in the woods had started early - and suddenly when our daily visitor, the bear, nuzzled the side of our tent and sent the dog into a frenzy of action as she tried to burrow into my sleeping bag.

"Get outside and guard us," I shouted, trying to unzip the zipper in the damp darkness. "Stupid dog, zipper, bear," I mumbled. "If the bear eats me he'll have to chew through this confounded bag. Get off my face, you crazy dog. Can't you see I'm trying to get it unzipped?"

Winded, I relaxed and counted to ten. At nine, the bundle next to me stirred and the kid inside whispered, "Daddy, you're snoring. You keep waking me up."

That did it! With renewed vigor I tackled the zipper, ripping it from its track. As I crawled out, the dog crawled in.

Unsheathing my knife, I stuck the blade out the door of the tent before stepping outside. Don't ask me why. Just precautionary. Maybe I figured that the first thing to come out of the tent was on some critter's breakfast menu. Or maybe I figured it would signal anything outside that the guy inside was mean, real mean.

Anyway, when nothing chomped on the gleaming metal I staggered out, knife in one hand, an ax in the other.

I must have been terrifying because the "bear" - a weak-kneed ground squirrel - stuck his foot in the coffee pot spout and toppled the contents into the camp stove in his desperate flight to escape.

Waving my weapons and sucking in new confidence, I surveyed the campsite. Sure now that the bear was not about, I walked down to the lake's edge where the day before the boys had built an icebox of rocks. In it we had stored our eggs and other refrigerated foodstuffs.

The icebox lacked one thing: a cover. A weasle had discovered the shortsightedness. He was standing on the rocks when I arrived. Egg dripping from its toothy mouth, he eyed me as an unwanted guest for dinner. Like a warhawking Comanche, I heaved the ax at him scalping what remained of the eggs and splintering the ax handle.

Now, reduced to a knife, egg shells and an empty coffee pot, I started breakfast just as the showers came. I've always wondered how woodsmen built fires in the rain. Now I know: they don't. So when the boys wiped the sleep out of their eyes and asked, "What's for breakfast?" I shoved peanut butter sandwiches at them.

Same thing for lunch.

But now the rain had stopped and I'd whipped up a hot meal - the second since arriving at our wilderness home. And they had the nerve to suggest peanut butter.

"I wish mama was here," said one. "I do, too," said the other.

"Okay, okay. Starve if you like. Eat your peanut butter. But the dog and I are gonna eat this good stuff." The dog wagged her tail. The boys made their sandwiches and left for the lake. "You get half," I told the dog, shoveling out a big portion of 'hobo's delight'. "But no more. I get the rest." She sniffed at it, her tail stopped wagging, and then she, too, left for the lake.

"Daddy, you must have really been hungry," one of the boys said as I arrived. "You ate the hobo stuff and now you're eating a sandwich."

"You betcha," I said, "but I left a little bit for the bear."

Later, after an evening of fishing we returned to the tent. Stupid bear hadn't touched his 'hobo's delight' either - but he'd finished off the peanut butter.

DeHoCo Inmates Know "Triple-O" Means Big Trouble

Editor's Note: Following is the final article of a three-part series, written by Reporter Sally Burke, about Michigan's only prison for women - the Detroit House of Correction.

A prison, just like any other institution, must discipline its members. The Detroit House of Correction is no exception.

Mrs. Elenore Kent, director of the women's division, is responsible for the entire operation of her division. She sees that the institution runs smoothly and is in charge of the staff of 63 custodial workers, vocational, treatment and educational personnel.

Mrs. Kent explained the inmates are disciplined on one of two levels when they break an institutional rule. They receive either minor or major discipline.

Infractions of rules send a woman before the disciplinary board which decided on the proper type of discipline. The board consists of the deputy superintendent, Mrs. Kent and one matron.

If the inmate is put in "reflection," minor discipline, she will be locked in her room for two or three nights during what would otherwise be free time.

If major discipline is required, the inmate will be put in the detention cottage. Here the inmate will be locked in her room 24 hours a day for the recommended period.

The room contains only a bed. Wire screens are placed on windows and around lights and anything the inmate might be tempted to break. Meals are served in each room and all grounds, social and work privileges are denied.

"Triple - O" as the major discipline is called, houses inmates who refuse to work, try to escape, are agitators, uncontrollable homosexuals, group corruptors, exhibit extraordinary or "way-out" behavior.

"Triple - O" is used for inmates who are suspected of plotting escape. The inmate's mail is read for possible clues to her behavior. Mrs. Kent recalled when three inmates were suspected of plotting escape. The plan was learned through rumors circulating on the grounds.

When the women were placed in "Triple - O"; all three denied the charge. In reading the out-going mail, one inmate admitted trying to escape with two others and getting caught.

Escape plans tried are not new, and only about three women make it over the 10-foot high cyclone fence each year. The mistake most inmates make is trying to escape with another.

"The only ones who ever make it are alone and have told no one of their plans. Get two or more and the rumors reach the administration," one of the assistants said.

The most recent escape occurred in mid-July when one inmate from "Triple - O" escaped. In three minutes she was out of her cottage and over the fence. Officials at DeHoCo felt she must have had outside help to get over the fence in that length of time.

On the other side of the picture, a separate cottage has been set aside for those women capable of trust. Katherine H. Campbell Honor Cottage houses 34 women who run the cottage themselves.

The cottage has no matron, is not locked and elects a board of five from among the residents to govern the cottage.

The rooms in the honor cottage are neater than other cottages since the women clean their own rooms rather than having the cleaning detail do it. Much more thought is given to the individual decorating scheme, too.

When asked about illegal traffic within the institution, Mrs. Kent said there is some going on, but "it is hard to detect other than by rumor."

There is no proven narcotic traffic, but it is suspected, according to Mrs. Kent. "Some (narcotics) may be from sympathetic personnel or a 'slip' in the medical department."

Homosexuality is also hard to prove. "The only way we can tell," she said, "is when two girls fight over a third. That's a pretty good indication."

Many of the inmates hold a grudge against the staff, though they do not show it. To the inmates, the staff represents the society that placed them in prison.

Though the women have developed their own closed system based on inmate loyalty within DeHoCo, all inmates are not free to "join."

Mrs. Kent said women who are convicted of child neglect, child abuse or murdering a child have a very hard time adjusting.

She recalled one woman serving a life sentence at DeHoCo had put arsenic in her child's milk, killing her. "The other inmates hate her, really hate her, for what she did," she commented.

Crimes against children are seen as "taboo" by other inmates, while the same crime against a spouse or friend may not be.

One of the inmates convicted of prostitution had the habit of stripping and running around the grounds "in the buff."

Though the files of inmate information were once closed to the staff, they are now open. In certain cases "it helps to know why a person was sentenced. The matrons may read the cards," Mrs. Kent said, "but let's not abuse it."

To her, all crimes are alike. Mrs. Kent prefers not to be able to look at a woman and know what she did. In this way she reduces the chance of treating different criminals differently.

She tries to be fair and impartial to all women. In return, the inmates are friendly towards her. Most of the woman she knows by first name. There are no numbers.

When asked what prison life does to a marriage, Mrs. Kent said few women are divorced while in DeHoCo. Usually they have been divorced before they come in and nine times out of ten, the husband has been involved in the crime, too.

The inmates are treated well at DeHoCo and because of the availability of medical facilities, no women have died from illness. If there is a serious illness, the inmate will be taken to Detroit General. There have been instances, though, where patients have died of heart failure and old age.

Most of the women serve out their entire sentence with "time off for good behavior" reducing some sentences by as much as half.

"After the 'lifers' get out," Mrs. Kent said, "they usually don't live too long." She told of one woman who, after serving a 20 year sentence for murdering her husband, was released at the age of 77. She lived for two years. Another woman, released when she was 60, is still living after five years.

"On the average they live about a year or two. They don't get out when they're very young in the first place," she said, "and prison life is hard."

Of those women committed to DeHoCo for sentences other than life, about one out of every two released will return to DeHoCo at least one more time. Some are perpetual repeaters.

Many of the women find it very hard to be accepted in the outside community. It's hard to find people willing to help them.

"People tend to forget they will be their neighbors some day," Mrs. Kent commented.

She does feel DeHoCo has "done wonderfully well in the last few years. We have advanced more rapidly than I ever thought we would."

Bell Hushed . . . Momentarily

Contractors during the last week began demolition of the First Presbyterian Church sanctuary on Main Street with removal of the huge bell drawing spectators on a sunny afternoon.

Officials report that the bell will be installed in a new steeple being built on the new sanctuary.

The bell, larger than many of the youngsters watching it be removed Monday, will be electrically operated in its new location, according to church officials.

Contractors began demolition late last week preceding dismantling the bell from its mounting Monday.

City Seeks Maybury Purchase

However, we have not made our recommendation dependent upon such a premise. Questions regarding exact usage, development costs, timing, anticipated revenues, etc., will require weeks and perhaps months of detailed study.

"Bearing in mind the many alternate uses for this property, we are suggesting that the council consider first the acquisition of approximately 220 acres of this land. We estimate the cost of the land only might be about $660,000. We have assumed that such a purchase would be financed by some method of bonding.

"For the present, especially in view of timing considerations, the use of revenue bonds does not appear to be practical. General obligation bonds might be desirable except, of course, that timing considerations, including the necessity for an election, might be an obvious disadvantage. Highly recommended for exploration is a third method - that of forming a building authority which could issue bonds, though perhaps at a slightly higher rate of interest than for general obligation bonds. A building authority apparently provides great flexibility since, for example, such a device might facilitate the joint purchase of property with the township and/or the school board. Also, this same authority might be an appropriate vehicle to later be responsible for financing the development costs of this property.

"The city manager has made a rough estimate that approximately 220 acres of this property might be purchased through the sale of bonds at an annual cost of $55,000 to $60,000 over a 20-year period. Another generalization regarding such costs is that the city could acquire 220 or more acres at a cost of perhaps less than 2 mills a year for 20 years. It is NOT suggested, however, by this committee that all or even perhaps any of the cost of acquiring the property be financed through additional taxation. As far as the committee knows it might well be possible, under current assessment ratios, tax levies, and the apparently increasing return from parimutuel betting, for the city to finance this purchase without additional millage."

Concluding, the committee chairman said, "This is an unusual situation which we believe requires expeditious and definitive action. Today's opportunity may never present itself again."

Asked by Mayor A. M. Allen if the committee had based any part of its recommendation upon the likelihood that purchase may be justified in the savings to the school system, which would not have to provide classrooms for the children that a housing development on 220 acres would require, Canterbury said his committee had taken only the "positive approach."

The recommendation, he emphasized, is based solely upon recreational land need and is not a defensive measure.

However, he conceded that a good case could be made for this approach and that his committee, if the council desires, will obtain data to substantiate it.

According to Henrikson's report, the property includes a number of large brick buildings to which all services (water, sewer and electricity) are already available but it excludes Maybury residential homes located off Eight Mile and Beck roads.

The property desired is heavily wooded, contains a flowing spring which could be used to flood low swampy areas if a swimming or fishing lake is desired, is easily accessible from Beck, Seven and Eight Mile roads, contains roads and drives that are in good condition, and is inhabited by a variety of wildlife.

The brick buildings could be utilized for practically all of the recreational needs for the ultimate city population with a minimal of improvement, he said. Also on the property are a number of children's cottages, which have been unused for many years. One of these, he suggested, could be turned into a clubhouse if development of a golf course is desired.

Concerning the golf course proposal, however, Canterbury emphasized that it is just one of many suggested uses for the property. The committee's recommendation, he said, suggests no specific use - but only recognizes the value of the property for general recreational use.

Fight Triggers Resignation

notions, they are exercises in futility and the time and energies of your appointees have been a completely wasted effort", the report concluded.

Trustee Straub was particularly critical of the report and called it "one-sided".

The meeting deteriorated into a shouting match on several occasions with citizens as well as board members getting into the verbal fray.

Trustee Baldwin attempted to persuade the board to accept the report and agree to meet with the committee, as requested, to evaluate its recommendations. "We asked for the report; now we ought to evaluate it, then sit down with the committee and make a decision. We shouldn't tear it apart," said Baldwin.

Straub insisted that there were remarks in the report to which he took exception. "I've got questions and I'm going to ask them," he added. He noted that the township now has sheriff and state police protection in addition to its own officer; he wondered "what we will get for the $77,000" (cost of fulltime city police protection per year); in reference to criticism of the township's $9,500-per-year officer he noted that the township could hire "three dogcatchers for $28,000 per year"; and he wondered what would happen to the township police car if a contract were entered into with the city.

Mitchell said he didn't think the additional police protection was needed at this time. He also noted that the township could use the money better for improved fire protection. Mitchell termed the study "political and biased", which Guido denied and declared that the appointment of the police officer had been totally political and without competitive applications.

Confusion reigned at several points in the discussion with citizens in the audience adding their thoughts to board arguments. Finally, Trustee Mitchell moved to "accept and file" the report. Trustee Straub asked "what does accept and file mean"? Someone in the audience replied: "throw away".

The board then voted 4-2 in favor of Mitchell's motion with Clerk Hammond explaining that she did not think it was the right time to expand police protection "and we don't have enough money".

At this point Trustee Armstrong announced he was quitting. Officially, however, such resignations must be given board acceptance and no board action was taken.

Ironically, Trustee Baldwin gained board support to a motion that he termed "the height of hypocrisy" when he called for a resolution "commending the police study committee for its time and diligence".

Metro Study Evolves From Humble Start

In 1963, Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh appointed a special Mayor's Metropolitan Transportation Study Committee.

In July, 1965, TALUS (Detroit Regional Transportation and Land Use Study) began to function as an outgrowth of recommendations of the special committee.

TALUS initially was a special project of the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission. In January, 1968 the functions of the commission were assumed by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG). Thus TALUS is now a special project of the planning division of SEMCOG.

The geographical area covered by the study includes the 4,450 square miles within the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne. The participating agencies are the road commissions and the boards of supervisors of the seven counties, the City of Detroit, the Michigan Department of State Highways, the U. S. Department of Transportation (Bureau of Public Roads) and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Support also has been received from the Ford Motor Company which has made computer services available to TALUS and from Metropolitan Fund, Inc..

A study design concurred in by participating governmental agencies in 1965 forecast a $3.6 million expenditure for a 3 1/2 year study. Subsequent amendments in response to changing needs and rising costs extended the time span to 4 1/2 years and the total cost to $5 million.

The study design called for five phases: Inventory and data collection; analysis and model development; plan formulation and testing; plan review and adoption; plan implementation.

It further provided for an administrative committee comprised of representatives from interested and participating governmental agencies to serve as the policy body for the project; and for top level technicians from a number of agencies to work with and advise the TALUS Director and his staff.

During the course of the study, 26 persons have served on the TALUS administrative committee. For most of the period, the committee was comprised of 12 members. In recent months, there have been 15 members.

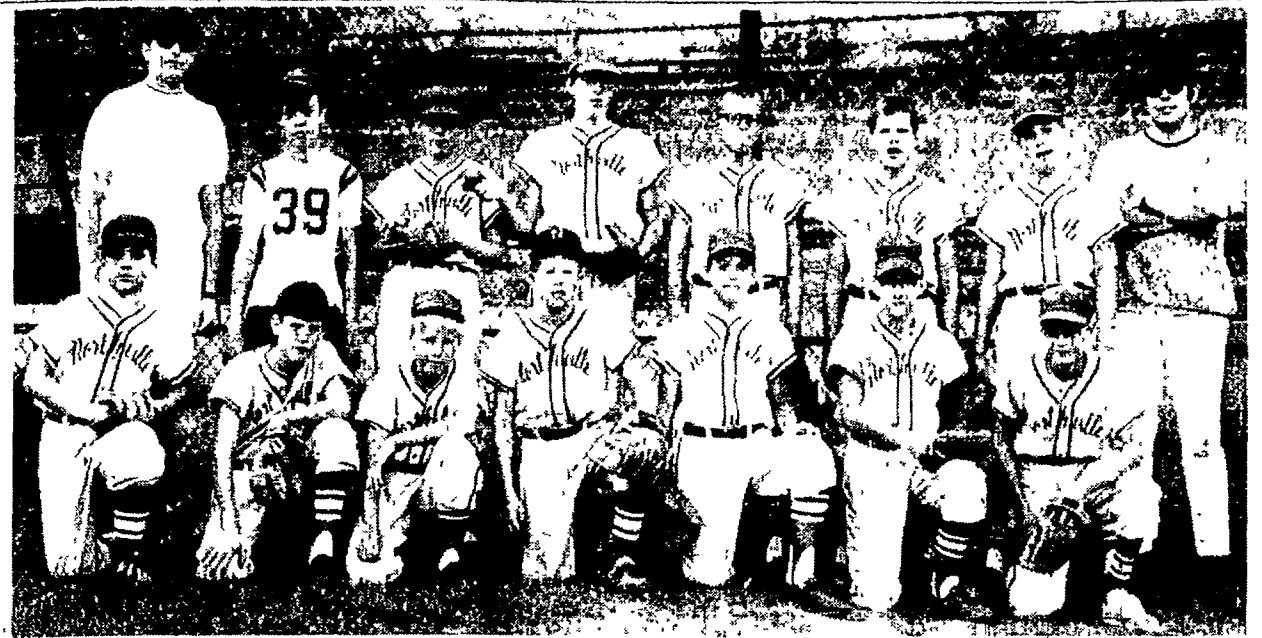

Throughout the study, the TALUS Administrative Committee has been chaired by R. J. Alexander, presently superintendent of the Oakland County Department of Public Works. When named to head the TALUS Administrative committee in 1965, Alexander was mayor of Oak Park and chairman of the Detroit Metropolitan Area Regional Planning Commission. He presently is chairman of the Advisory Council of Regional Planning to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

Irving J. Rubin has been director of TALUS since its inception.

During the next several months, TALUS will conduct a series of informal presentations of the Preliminary Plan to groups of public officials and private citizens throughout the region, as well as a series of eight "Preliminary Plan Hearings", one each in the seven counties of the TALUS region and the City of Detroit. These meetings will provide opportunity for a broad cross-section of people and interests in the region to view the Plan and respond, comment and suggest modifications.

The "input" from the meetings, together with additional detailed testing of land use and transportation networks, will result in refinement and modification of the preliminary plan into a "Final" 1990 Plan which is scheduled for completion by the end of the year.

Upon completion of the "Final Plan", it will be recommended to the TALUS Administrative Committee and to the SEMCOG Executive Committee for adoption. This will undoubtedly be followed by another series of meetings and hearings prior to adoption of the Plan by SEMCOG.

NORTHVILLE RECREATION, one of three entries in the Class F Baseball League deadlocked for an Inner-City Tourney invitation, defeated Casterline Braves on Saturday, 3-2, to advance to the title. Casterline earlier Saturday had defeated Eagles, 5-4, while Northville Recreation had drawn a bye to the finals. Members of Northville Recreation include (front, left to right) Paul Foster, Jan Dingwall, Bill White, Kevin O'Brien, Ed Kritch, Bill Pettit and Larry Ojinski. In the back row, Coach Dave Johnson, Jamie Moore, Ed Panlanski, Mick Castillo, Bill McDonald, John Boland, Cary Eaker and Coach Marv Wittig. The Northville entry was eliminated from the Inner-City Tourney by East Detroit on Monday, 9-0.

Junior Football Co-op Slate Schedules 'Family Night'

The Northville Junior Football League's annual Family Night will be August 21 at the First Methodist Church, according to a league spokesman.

A parent or guardian must accompany a prospective player at the session in order for the youngster to be eligible to receive his equipment, the official emphasized.

Vacancies still exist in the nine-year-old division, the spokesman said.

The league is scheduled to begin practices on August 25.

Youngsters Attend Indian Exhibition

Two area young people were among those to attend the Indian powwow and picnic Sunday in Hastings, Michigan, sponsored by the Michigan Society of Children of the American Revolution (CAR). They are Mimi Merwin, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Merwin of 43461 Cottisford and Larry Willoughby, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Willoughby of Plymouth.

They visited the Carlton Indian museum on the old Indian homestead and viewed an Indian Dance exhibition sponsored by the Grand River Indian Association. Michigan Indian tribes, along with several from out of state, presented their own dance competition which featured the Indian partridge and two step dances.

The youngsters are both members of the Plymouth Corners Society, the local branch of the Children of the American Revolution. Larry is president and Mimi is first vice president of the Michigan state society of the CAR.

Ten Competing In 4-H Event

Ten members of the Double 'N' Riders 4-H Club of Northville are competing this week at the Wayne County 4-H Fair in Belleville. The program began Tuesday and runs through Sunday.

Winners in county competition advance to the State 4-H Fair held at East Lansing later in the month.

And the Tent Show Comes Down

"When the show came to town, that was it. That was all the entertainment you would want for a year," said the balding man in his fifties as his mind flitted back through the years.

But this was 1969, August 1 to be exact, and conditions were considerably different. "People don't have time for this type of family entertainment anymore," he stated, jumping into the present as he sat inside the big tent.

"We're living in a different age," he continued. "Things have changed and we'll have to change with them. I'm not sure. It's simply times are changing."

The man speaking was Harold Rosier, owner of the Rosier Players Inc. There was a certain sadness that clung to the air as one of the flaps quivered in the noon-day breeze. It wasn't noticeable in the man's face, but the sadness was there nevertheless.

Rosier had just decided that the last tent show this side of the Mississippi was pulling up stakes, that he, after 35 years in with stock companies, was calling it quits. When the curtain comes down on Saturday night, August 9, the Rosier Players will be no more.

"It's simply not financially possible to continue," Rosier said. "I intended to run through 1973 because that would be the 75th anniversary of the show."

But the show was in miserable financial shape, although Rosier, who lives with his wife Waunetta in Jackson, was hardly hurting for money. "I am paying $200 to $300 out of my pocket every week," he explained, ever since the Rosier Players opened the 1969 summer season.

It was a distressing reversal for the invertebrate showman. Last year, for instance, the first year the tent show appeared at History Town, attendance wasn't bad and money was tinkling through the till. "I expected to double business this year," the owner said, sitting upright in his folding chair.

But attendance unexpectedly tailed off, as it has throughout Michigan for stock companies. "The other night," Rosier continued, "there were only 17 people in the audience. That's not good. It's bad for acting, too. You kind of catch your cue from the audience. But the people just sat there self-consciously, afraid to laugh at the funny parts."

Television was named by Rosier as the prime culprit. "TV has done more to hurt show business than anything else," he stated. "Going to the moon is something. It's spectacular. But TV also burns up talent. Writers have only three or five good works during a lifetime, but for TV they have to turn them out week after week."

Despite the slack business this year after last year's signs of optimism, the decline in his tent show's popularity hasn't been surprising. Stock companies and live shows have been going down his since the 1930's when he first became an actor.

First it was movies, Rosier said. "Local theatres would get the city fathers to charge an exorbitant license fee to touring companies like mine." Still, there were six tent shows in Michigan in 1934, 400 in America.

After World War II, the slide was swift and other companies dropped by the wayside, victims of progress. Guilds gained a strangle hold on local opera houses, rental prices and attendance dwindled to further restrict the options open to Rosier.

Then came television and the odds became insurmountable. To Rosier, it was just a question of time until he was forced to close. Last week, that reality came.

But Rosier and his wife, Waunetta, who were married in 1935, a year after he entered show business, weren't maudlin. Sad perhaps, but not maudlin they do have their memories of a rich past.

Rosier recalls his first days as a member of the Henderson Stock Company in Mason with the same clarity that most people can remember yesterday. A part with a stock company was treasured employment during the depression years.

Richard Henderson, who founded the stock company in 1898, viewed a high school play in Mason in 1934 and shortly thereafter asked the then young Rosier to join the company. Rosier, as Henderson was to learn, was also "a chalk artist." He could make chalk drawings with amazing swiftness.

Shortly after being hired in September of 1934, Rosier became a regular member of the Henderson cast. "It was stock in its purest form," Rosier said. "We split the money every week. It was actually put in an envelope, pennies and dimes and quarters, then divided up equally among the owner and the employees. "A good actor got $18 a week," he explained. "You could get board and room for $8. Fifteen dollars was the average pay in those days."

What was Rosier making? After a short time, while still an actor, for Henderson, he earned from $175 to $200 a week. "It may not seem like so much today," Rosier said. "Back then it was a lot."

The Henderson group would tour Michigan and neighboring states, making one week stands in smaller communities, such as Howell and Brighton, Northville and South Lyon. "We were wined and dined," the thespian said. "People would treat us to dinner and invite us to parties." With some timidity, Rosier recalled how one youngster just wanted to touch him to say he had touched Harold Rosier.

In 1938, Rosier purchased the stock company from Henderson and retained Mason as the home base. The then new Rosier Players would tour as far as Illinois. Later, the troop went on a two-week jaunt to Florida.

The money was still good. "We'd be assured 500 to 800 people would come out each night. Over 1,000 people in the audience wasn't uncommon."

Lately, however, the Rosiers haven't traveled in the winter time, what with attendance falling off and business declining. They would play at school assemblies and do some club work.

"I never thought I'd be the last," Rosier stated, after a sortie into the past.

Now, he'll return to what he considers his home town, Jackson. "A couple of universities have talked to us. They have made offers to take over the tent show as a museum."

Have Uniforms, Will Travel: Need Players for Kicks

WANTED: Boys or young men who enjoy doing things as a team, who like the speed of, say, basketball, and the contact of, say, football. Size not important. Opportunity for advancement. Contact Bob Prom at 349-0203.

If Bob Prom hadn't spent all his department's funds this summer on crepe paper and baby turtles (amongst a variety of other things), right now he might be inclined to run the above classified elsewhere in this edition where it would come under the scrutiny of more than 30,000 readers.

HOWEVER, since the Northville City-Township Recreation Department is not unlike other recreation departments this time of year (no mon for fun).

AND, since their cause is considered a worthy one,

THEREFORE, I shall herewith all those words to be printed and read by those whose eyes wonder upon these columns (a readership total also estimated in the 30's).

Actually, Prom's predicament is an enviable one.

It seems that Jan Reef has kicked-in (to use the most appropriate terminology) a bunch of new uniforms for Prom to use in fielding a soccer team. But uniforms don't make the team.

Now Prom, rather than being confronted with having players but no sponsor, has a sponsor and no players although he's convinced there's a number of people out there in Northville who would enjoy playing or watching the sport.

And regardless of what the Detroit Cougars say, I've got to agree with him.

But the situation is pretty ironic in that how many times can you approach a recreation director and say: "Hey, I'd like to play soccer."

And the next day you find yourself on the field with a team.

Too often a recreation director has a "h-m-m" and "haw" and delay for more time hoping for more money to work with or hoping that if he can't get the dough, time will cause the interest to wane.

"Right now our problem is getting a group interested in the program," Prom observes. "We could begin with a team of any age group just to establish the sport here and then eventually expand the program for other ages."

But many people are unfamiliar with hockey and so, just like reading a blind advertisement, they tend to shy away on the premise that they need not pursue something they know nothing about.

In reality, if you've ever played hockey or basketball or football or chased girls, you know something about soccer. It's kind of fast and kind of rough and you can be kind of small and fast or kind of big and rough and succeed or you can be small and tough or big and fast or small and big or--

It's a good game for which if you're game, contact Prom (and tell him you read it in--).

*****

Final standings for the Livonia Free Press League were released late last week telling you pretty much what you already know.

One problem with the league, and also with too many other leagues, is the inability to provide information on time for use in newspapers. The publicity naturally builds interest and, contrarily, the lack of publicity builds disinterest.

We're anxious here for next summer to organize a complete coverage program for summer sports so if you will be involved, keep it in mind and be looking forward to a meeting on the subject next spring.

Getting back to the Free Press League standings: first-Redford (15-3), second-Reef Manufacturing (12-7), third-Cardinal Decorating (11-7), fourth-Nankin Interns (8-11) and fifth-Darin Construction and Howard Keating Realtors (both at 5-14).

And here's an early prediction: next summer at this time the Free Press League standings will declare Reef as champion and if you don't agree, I guess you'll just have to wait and see.

Northville Lanes Beats Stars, 14-9

Champion Northville Lanes proved itself to be better than the best of the rest in the Men's Slow-Pitch League First Annual All Stars-Champ Game on Friday winning the contest, 14-9, before approximately 200 people at Ford Field.

Lanes, defending league champion, had claimed the 1969 title after winning its first 12 games without a defeat. Northville

Drug-Casterline finished runners-up.

In a home-run derby co-sponsored by the Northville City-Township Recreation Department and The Record and preceding the game, Parker Electric's Jim Bishop placed first swatting two of his first three attempts out of the park.

Ken Kujala and Marv Fodor, both of Northville Lanes, were second and third, respectively, while teammate Joe Humphries was fourth.

Lanes scored half of its run total in the first inning and led throughout the contest. The champs added a single run in the fourth, scored twice in the fifth, three times in the eighth and once in the ninth.

Five players homered during the game with Fodor and Jeff Smith each hitting one for Lanes while Hal Axtell (Drug-Casterline), Ed Mandiyara (Erie Trailer) and Ken McDermott (Plymouth State Home) had four-baggers for the stars.

Northville Lumber's Jeff Crawford defensively made the play of the game with a diving catch for the All-Stars late in the game.

The contest concluded the season for the league.

Men's slow-pitch League Champion Northville Lanes also dominated honors preceding Friday's All-Star-Champs game at Ford Field as Northville City-Township Recreation Department Director Robert Prom (above center) made a presentation of the championship trophy to Lanes' player-manager Don Salsbury (left). Dr. Dale Kiser, of Northville Drug-Casterline, was awarded the runner-up trophy. In other activity before the game began, Parker Electric's Jim Bishop (below center) placed first in the home run derby sponsored by the department and The Record. But the Lanes' Ken Kujala (left) was second and teammate Marv Fodor third. Northville Lanes also won the game.

Playoffs Conclude Sport Instructions

Competition was held last week by the Northville City-Township Recreation Department concluding instruction in tennis, archery and golf. Also, a group of about 50 youngsters and 10 adults departed Sunday for an Au Sable River canoe trip climaxing a course in canoe instruction.

Gary Putrow defeated Bob Berkins, 6-1, to claim first place in the boys' division of tennis competition while Cathy Mapes edged Debbie Guard, 6-4, in for the girls' title. The seven-month session of tennis lessons was directed by Mark Gazlay and Rick Jameson.

In the archery finals, Steve Rinaldi was first in the 11-years-old and under division while Bruce Turner was second and Ronnie Turner third. Tom Marzonia won top honors in the 12-and-over class with Steve Krause second and Frank Knott third.

Jameson was instruction instructor in the archery program which had 20 participants.

A golf tourney was also held at Brooklane Golf Course last week concluding seven weeks of instruction. First place in the beginners' division was won by Brian Peltó (with a 56) while Dana Fieldman (58) was second and Brian Prom (60) third.

Robbie Clark claimed the advanced division title with a 43 while Jim Dales (46) was second and Bruce Grieves and Rick McCarthy tied for third at 51.

David Adair directed the golf program.

Adair also supervised the canoe trip which was scheduled to conclude this week Tuesday.

Resident Hits Ace at Course

Using a five-iron, Northville's Frank Bongiovanni aced Number Eleven at Burroughs Farms Golf Course in league competition last week Tuesday. The hole is a 170-yarder.

Bongiovanni, of 501 Carpenter Street, was playing with Les Amsinger, George James and Frank Kirkpatrick.

He is a foreman in plastics at Burroughs Corporation.

'Cats Reminded On Exam Date

Football candidates for the 1969 season at Novi High School are reminded by Wildcat Head Football Coach John Osborne that physical examinations will be given today (Thursday) at the gymnasium.

Equipment will be issued later this month, Osborne said, before two-a-day practices begin August 25.

The Wildcats are slated to launch their eight-game schedule on September 12 with Hartland at home.

Pieces Falling in Place For Novi Grid Opener

All apparent obstacles have been resolved and yes, Novi High School sports fans, the Wildcats will play their opener with Hartland on September 12 as scheduled. And there'll be lights.

Athletic Director-Head Football Coach John Osborne today had to worry just about the things that worry most athletic directors and football coaches after learning:

A master contract has tentatively been approved eliminating the possibility that Novi Community Schools (and the football season) will not open as scheduled.

A millage issue proposed for Hartland Community Schools passed last week eliminating the possibility that Hartland - the Wildcats' home opener - would have to cutback extra-curricular activity immediately causing its grid schedule to be scrapped.

And agreement has been reached with Detroit Edison for a permanent electrical connection at the high school football field assuring Osborne that he can host home encounters at night rather than having to re-schedule them for afternoons.

The Novi Education Association and the Board of Education is expected to ratify its contract this week after negotiations were completed Friday, less than a month before school is slated to begin. Without a contract agreement, Osborne might have been forced to delay the start of practices and if a settlement hadn't been reached by early September, the opening of school also would have been delayed.

And if the contract hadn't been settled by September 12, the opener would have had to be cancelled.

Hartland, one of two opponents who defeated the Wildcats last season, was threatened with having to sacrifice athletics in 1969-70 if its millage request wasn't approved. However, citizens passed the proposal by a narrow 64-vote margin.

Last season a majority of the Wildcat games had to be scheduled for afternoons because of the lack of a permanent electrical arrangement with Edison. Officials incorporated large generators in order to provide power for the two night games while the remainder was played during daylight hours.

A resident at the Lutheran Home in South Lyon since 1966, Mrs. Huegel can boast of eight children, 11 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren. Three of her grandchildren live in Northville. They are Mrs. Fred Balko, Mrs. Fred Casterline and Julius Sauner.

Police Make Arrest In Gun Theft Here

Working around the clock, Sergeant Richard Martin and Patrolman Ronald Wankowicz apprehended a man in connection with a theft of ten rifles and six hand guns from Northville Hardware within 24 hours of the burglary.

Police arrested Steve Gallentine, 21, of 350 E. Cady Street, last Thursday. He was charged with larceny from a building and released on $1,000 bond after arraignment.

The guns and $100 in bills and coin were recovered by police. The weapons valued in excess of $1,500 have been identified by Claude Smith, owner of the store, as those taken August 6 during a break-in at 3 a.m.

After following leads, police obtained a felony warrant charging Gallentine with the crime. Examination has been set for today (Thursday) in 35th District Court here.

Police News Round-Up

An eight-year-old Northville boy underwent plastic surgery at St. Joseph's Hospital, Ann Arbor, after he was bitten by a dog, last week.

Vincent Till, 321 Debra Lane, was transferred to the hospital after being treated last Thursday at Atchison Clinic for multi-facial lacerations.

Till was bitten by a dog owned by Paul Hunt, 344 Debra Lane, while he was playing at Hunt's home. No tickets were issued.

Last week police investigated a break-in at the Harry Weiser residence, 589 Langfield Street. Pry marks were found on the walk-in door to the garage.

A battery operated megaphone worth $50 and two coolers worth $30 each were reportedly taken between August 1 and 4.

During routine patrol last week Wednesday, police spotted an indentation in the door of the Northville Drug Company, 134 East Main. Investigations revealed a slug from a .38 caliber weapon could have been the cause.

Kaye Wick, 9267 Tower Road, reported the loss of a green diaper bag August 7. The bag and contents are valued at $14.

Frank Politz, 820 Spring Street, reported damage to his fence when a vehicle backed into it. The date of the incident remains under investigation.

Police investigated three reports of theft Monday.

Materials and tools valued at more than $525 were taken from a construction site at Northville Downs. Unknown persons sawed the locks off two tool boxes to get at the equipment.

A television set and a radio were stolen from the home of Margaret McIntyre, 424 North Center Street. Total value of the goods was $185.

The Northville Swim Club reported three radios missing. A spokesman for the club speculated someone hid at the club until the doors were locked since there were no signs of forced entry.

Now League Serves to Enlighten Voters

Women Fought 72 Years for Suffrage

EDITOR'S NOTE - This is the first of a two-part article on the history of the League of Women Voters. The organization formed a Northville-Plymouth chapter recently and will soon launch a membership and fund-raising campaign.

From Seneca Falls, N.Y., to Northville in 121 years may not set a new speed record, but the time is historically important.

Seneca Falls was the site of the first woman's rights convention held in 1848. In 1969, Northville became home base for one of 1250 leagues of the League of Women Voters.

Today women often take the right to vote for granted, but it took 72 years of battling with the men to make the woman suffrage amendment part of the Federal Constitution.

It is hard to imagine that in 1872 Susan B. Anthony was fined $100 by the Federal Government because she registered and voted.

But this is only one example that spearheaded the drive by women to secure passage of an amendment giving them the right to vote.

In 1920 the amendment was added to the Constitution. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, urged the women to form a League of Women Voters (LWV).

The transition from one organization to the other was made at a convention in 1920.

Though there were no marches down Main Street, the formation of the Northville-Plymouth provisional league is no less a milestone.

In December, 1968, 15 women had hopes of forming a league in the Northville-Plymouth area. By February, 1969, the league had been given provisional status and membership had grown to 66.

Today there are 86 women in the league.

The Northville-Plymouth league will remain on provisional status for a period of one to two years. In March, 1970, the league hopes to be given regular status.

During this provisional period the women must learn where the national league stands on current issues, the regulations and procedures that have been set down.

A provisional league must also complete a "Know Your Town" study of government, education and recreation. The study will then be submitted to the national league for approval.

An often asked question is "Just what does the League of Women Voters do?"

The main objective of LWV is achievement of a more responsible and responsive society. The league is organized on local, state and national levels.

Specific goals of LWV are:

Help resolve the growing problems of cities, increase political effectiveness of the citizen in the ghetto and remove the ghetto itself.

Make citizens of this country aware of our responsibilities for international cooperation and to share with citizens of the world processes and techniques for strengthening an open society.

Increase citizens' ability to work for improved management of resources.

Revitalize and strengthen state and local governments.

Supply non-partisan information on candidates, increase the number of those registering and voting and encourage active party participation.

LWV is the only lobbyist group representing the public at large with no partisan interest. There is no comparable men's organization.

It is the policy of LWV never to support a candidate or a party, rather members will work to support an issue or a bill.

Before a league takes "pro" or "con" action on an issue, extensive studies must be made of all sides of the question. All the information is taken into consideration, with the members voting and forming a consensus.

On a national issue such as revision of the electoral college, each league in the United States will be asked to participate in the formation of a consensus. On a local issue such as school construction, a local league will form a consensus.

After approval by state or national, depending on the topic, a league will then work in support of the consensus, be it local, state or national issues.

LWV works to get an issue on the ballot, if that is required. Current topics are studied before the crises stage is reached.

Consensus items are followed until the problem is solved or no longer relevant.

LWV has observers at all three levels of government. Often local leagues will inherit problems from state or national levels but the reverse may happen, too.

A provisional league, such as that found in Northville, may take action in the name of LWV only on a topic that is a continuing issue studied and approved by the state or national league. This permission would be given only after members have made an adequate study of the issue on their own.

In conjunction with the "Know Your Town" study, the Northville LWV members are attending city council and school board meetings, learning how the local government works while keeping the public's interests in mind.

NEXT WEEK: The League of Women Voters in action in Northville.

IT ALL STARTED HERE - Dr. Anna Shaw and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt are shown leading the 20,000 women who marched for suffrage down New York's Fifth Avenue in 1918. Shortly after the 19th Amendment was ratified giving women the right to vote in 1920, the League of Women Voters was organized. It replaced the National American Woman Suffrage Association.

Predictions ran the gamut, from optimistic forecasts of continuing success to prophecies of eventual doom. Now, some 20 years after television began its revolutionary invasion of the airways, radio still is with us and going strong. But with significant differences.

No longer does radio serve a complete menu of drama. Mystery and suspense shows and variety shows that provided evening entertainment have been canned. The afternoon soap opera, formerly a radio standard, has been ditched. And except for an occasional special, or a brief excursion into the past, drama is no longer left to the imagination.

Lengthy shows that originated from the network have largely been abandoned and the local radio station—whether it's Detroit's WJR or Livingston County's WHMI—has been left to chart its own course with programs that originate locally.

The emphasis is on music and more music, news and talk shows, interspersed with "on-the-spot," instant coverage from the network. There are exceptions, of course, such as WJR that has the talent to produce its own quality shows of some length. But the programs, even then, are carefully scheduled in light of television viewing habits.

Television, simply, has taken over the home, more so during the night than the day. Prime time viewing is at night when the family is together around the television set to watch their favorite programs. It's a sedentary audience. Admittedly, radio can hardly compete—in the home—when the sun goes down.

But ours is hardly a society anchored at home, even at night. And this is where radio plays a heavy part in people's lives. When man is on the move, which is often, radio is at hand. Prime time for radio, in fact, is while man is in transit, going to or from work, the grocery store or the beach.

Music, sprinkled with news and comments about the human condition, are man's fare as he flicks on his car radio. The ride might be 10 to 90 minutes short or long, just enough time to engage the mind in passing things which can be quickly terminated.

At the beach, in the yard, at the office (in the home, too, for the busy housewife), radio is the companion which can be turned on or off as the occasion demands, on quick order. Unlike television, radio is not all-consuming, demanding complete attention. It grabs an ear, but the hand and eye are busy.

The invention of the transistor along with our commuter life, has enabled radio to remain a viable form of entertainment, despite the challenge of television. Every place that man goes, radio can, and usually does, go.

Study Emphasizes Means of Travel

A $3 billion build-up of transportation facilities by 1990 to accommodate a doubling of person trips and a near trebling of daily vehicle miles of travel in Southeast Michigan was proposed this past week by TALUS (Detroit Regional Transportation and Land Use Study).

Integral in the proposed system is a $1.1 billion 81-mile rapid transit system coordinated with a swift-moving fleet of 1,000 new buses, and a $2 billion expansion of freeways and highways.

The transportation proposals are part of "Growth Change -- and a Choice for 1990," the TALUS 1990 Preliminary Plan for Southeast Michigan submitted by Irving J. Rubin, TALUS director, to the TALUS Administrative Committee.

TALUS is a 4½ year, $5 million special project of the Planning Division of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

TALUS forecasts a 57-percent increase in population (from 4.4 million in 1965 to 6.9 million in 1990) accompanied by a 66-percent increase in jobs, and a trebling of total household income.

The 1990 Preliminary Plan for Southeast Michigan will be presented to public officials and citizens throughout the region between September and November in order to hear suggestions for amendment before the plan is finalized in December, Rubin said.

Included will be "Preliminary Plan Hearings" in each of the seven counties (Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, St. Clair, Washtenaw and Wayne) and the City of Detroit. County and/or local officials will be asked to sponsor these, he said.

In addition, the plan will be presented at meetings of public officials, county supervisors, councilmen, planning commissioners, etc. - and to citizens groups such as service clubs, P.T.A.'s and community organizations.

The Preliminary Plan suggests a priority for rapid transit line construction in three stages and recommends Priority I and Priority II construction be completed by 1990.

The four Priority I rapid transit lines proposed would radiate out from Downtown Detroit to Dearborn, to Northwest Detroit, to Pontiac and to Warren.

Priority II construction would extend the other three lines as follows: - The Dearborn line would be extended westerly along Michigan Avenue to Middlebelt Road, then south to the Detroit Metropolitan Airport (11.5 miles).

A Downriver extension of the Dearborn line would be built from the Ford Rouge plant southwest to Southfield Road in Lincoln Park (4.1 miles).

- The Northwest Detroit line would be extended west through Redford Township to Merriman Road in Livonia (7 miles).

The Warren line would be extended north to 14-Mile Road the boundary of Warren and Sterling Heights (4 Miles).

In addition, TALUS proposes that after 1990 the rapid transit system be bolstered by building:

A Crosstown Connector (17.7 miles) from the Ford Rouge Plant northeast to Tiresman-Grand Boulevard corridor, along Grand Boulevard easterly to Harper, then northeasterly

When Northville's Charles Weathered smiles these days his grin is about as wide as the gulf between earth and moon.

And no wonder. Two of the fantastically successful instruments placed on the moon by the astronauts of Apollo 11 represent the sweat and genius of Bendix Aerospace engineers under his direction.

Just returned to his Northville Estates home from Houston where he spent a month "talking" to the instruments on the lunar surface, Weathered is as proud as a new father as he discusses the performance of the

Head in the Clouds

'I've seen probably two dozen launches at the Cape but none of them affected me the way this one did. . . that was a special feeling.'

seismometer and the laser reflector designed and built by his team of Bendix experts.

Mrs. Weathered, justifiably proud of her husband, is equally excited. So, too, are their four children.

"I just can't explain it," she said, "it's a great feeling."

She shared the excitement and the tense apprehensions of her husband as the two first watched the launching of Apollo 11 at Cape Kennedy and then flew immediately to NASA's command station at Houston to await completion of the flight to the moon.

The 40-year-old director of the ALSEP-EASEP programs is just now experiencing the full impact of what's happened. That's because while at Houston there wasn't much chance to savor euphoric moments. He was too busy following progress of the flight and later giving orders to the two instruments on the moon.

For Weathered the performance of the instruments was as significant as the first moon step. Recalling his reactions during those first minutes on the moon, Weathered said: "Our concern was whether or not they (astronauts) would have time to put out our instruments. They had a number of other jobs to do first . . . and they were running about 25 minutes behind schedule.

So as tension built up, "we urged them through NASA control to get on with the remaining (jobs). And, of course, you'll remember they had a little problem with the leveling device on the seismometer so I suggested they 'eye-ball' it, which they did and did so well that later when it was reinspected it was working and showed the seismometer was indeed level."

Within four minutes of deployment of the seismometer, Weathered, who easily remembers the exact time - 12:40 a.m., informed NASA that the first signal had been received.

"I've seen probably two dozen launches at the Cape but none of them affected me the way this one did," he said. "And when the astronauts reported they had the experiments deployed and the first signal came in a moment later, that was a special feeling."

When the seismometer's radio sent back its first hello, the earthbound engineers sent back three signals turning on its sensitive measuring device.

"Everything was working fine and the temperatures were following the predictive curve until shortly after lift-off we saw a more rapid rise in temperature than what we had anticipated. On the other hand we had designed this equipment to work in much more severe environment than we had anticipated it to work in. We had selected components to withstand 230-degrees even though we planned it to work at 140-degrees. So we knew we had some margin, and we were pretty confident it would survive and it did. It got up close to 200 degrees at high noon on the moon and it worked perfectly. We shut it off Sunday morning (August 3) because we had just reached the point that we had about 15 minutes left before the sun set. We could actually see the power outlet on the panels decline as the sun disappeared."

According to Weathered, there is "a chance" that the seismometer will spark to life when the sun rises again next week on the moon (the instrument is powered by sunlight) even though it was designed to work only during the first lunar day period.

"If it does work (its components will have to withstand temperatures of minus 250-degrees during the night period) that will be sort of a plus."

The laser reflector has been equally successful. Pencil-thin beams of light originating from earth were bounced off the laser reflector on the moon and returned to earth. Weathered indicated that scientists using the beam for measuring will eventually be able to determine the distance from earth to the laser reflector within six-inches accuracy.

"In addition to being such a significant engineering achievement," he continued, "this mission will produce a fantastic amount of scientific information. We've just scratched the surface with the analysis so far.

"For example, the principal investigator, Dr. Gary Latham, has detected three major seismic events like earthquakes . . . Starting about Friday at noon through Sunday of the first week of operation there were 14 other events that they were able to identify as landslides - rocks rolling down crater walls.

"We also were able to watch the astronauts movements very clearly on the surface of the moon with the seismometer. And when he started climbing back up into the (landing craft) and his foot hit that first rung, boy, that needle really registered."

With the information already received, he said, it has been determined that the 'moon is certainly not a dead planet,' thus confirming suspicions of some scientists.

Even as Weathered and his team bask in the afterglow of this first moon

To 'Sexuate' or Not?

Rev. Arnold B. Cook
First Baptist Church of Novi

The question of sex-education has produced parental panic across America, and rightly so, for parents well know that such mixed class education (?) will lead to stimulation, and stimulation to experimentation. Psychiatrist Melvin Ansell lends professional weight to this argument by saying, "It (sex-education) catapults the child into advanced sexual information; it perverts the child—if you turn into an obstetrician at eight years of age, you have developed a fixation—I think it is creating more perverts than were ever created before."

Education Council of the U.S.), a recently formed organization which is promoting sex education in the public schools, on the pretext that such a program will "improve society."

We are not questioning the fact that society needs improving, but we do challenge the idea that teaching five year old children the entire story of sex will help to achieve this goal. When asked whether or not sex education would reduce promiscuous sex experience, illegitimate births and venereal disease, Dr. Lester A. Kirkendall, prominent in SIECUS, replied, "we have no way of knowing that sex education will solve any such problems." Against the parental outrage and objection to sex education Dr. Kirkendall has advised: Just sneak it (sex education) in as an experimental course and see how people react. Don't say you are going to start a sex education course—say that you are going to enrich and expand (the curriculum). Anaheim Bulletin—December 18, 1969.

Commenting in American Opinion magazine, Gary Allen said, "The sex educators are turning sex into a game and children into guinea pigs. Children are taught that in sex you take what you want (and are told what you need). SIECUS advocates 'responsible sexuality' (or 'situation ethics') which means that whatever sex act you feel the urge to do with any person at any time is all right if you have a consenting and responsible partner."

Personally, I feel that the federal government, the public educators, Mary Calderone and all other sexucators would do well to leave this sensitive and morally responsible matter to the morally responsible parent.

"Perfect" Rose

Look closely at a so-called perfect rose! Scan the petals; you will find they are far from perfect. But uneven shapes, blemishes or misshapen stems will not spoil the delicate color, rich fragrance and sheer beauty of the total flower.

How clearly a rose illustrates that nothing in life is truly perfect! But, rather than discourage us, this should give us fresh confidence and strength.

God did not make the rose perfect—nor did He make us perfect. Yet He thinks none the less of us for our faults and blemishes. In His eyes we always have another chance. But it is up to us to take it.

Start by going to the church of your choice next Sunday.

Property Taxes Up 99 Per Cent in Past Decade

LANSING — Anyone wondering why Michigan property owners have been complaining about their property taxes? The questions are answered by figures which came out of the state Treasurer's office.

The records show property tax payments for 1969 reached the $1.5 billion mark this year. That's a jump of 14.46 per cent over last year alone.

And the department says property tax collections have risen 99 per cent over the past 10 years.

The figures also show schools, which are receiving more and more state money every year, also taking a bigger bite of the property tax revenues.

In 1967, 56.34 per cent of all property tax collections in the state went for schools. That figure jumped to 58.23 per cent last year and to 60.94 per cent this year. The percentage of the tax received by cities, counties, townships and villages was down slightly at the same time.

SOARING property taxes received a great deal of attention in the hearings held earlier this year by the Governor's Commission on Educational Reform.

Witness after witness said the state must come up with a different source for school finances. The source most often mentioned was the state income tax.

The Governor himself has said the state role in education "must be stronger and much more vital" than it is now. This presumably would include more state support for schools than ever before.

Michigan already leads most states in the percentage of school money which comes from the state.

A recent survey by the National Education Association showed that only 52.6 percent of school funding in Michigan comes from local sources. This compares with 69.2 per cent in Wisconsin, 66.7 per cent in Illinois and 64.9 per cent in Ohio.

THE SECRETARY of State's office is suspending drivers licenses at a rate nearly double that of a year ago.

Secretary of State James M. Hare says the hike is the result of a new law which requires suspensions of drivers licenses belonging to persons who do not take care of tickets they receive for driving offenses.

In all of 1968, Hare's office suspended or revoked a total of 60,520 drivers licenses for various periods of time. By the end of the first six months of this year, his office already had lifted 51,000 licenses for varying times.

Hare said the new law is responsible for 17,000 of the suspensions and added, "The pace is picking up."

That much-maligned group in the driving public, the 25 and under category, has received another damaging report from the Michigan State Police.

Drivers under 25 make up 21 per cent of the driving public. Yet last year, police records show, they accounted for 38 per cent of all drivers involved in accidents. The same group accounted for 36 per cent of all drivers involved in fatal crashes.

Records also show youthful drivers are the most frequent victims of traffic death. Of the 2,388 persons who died on Michigan streets and highways last year, 770 of them were in the 15-24 age group.

"Although they may seem to be unduly criticized, the available facts establish young drivers under 25 years of age as an extraordinary high risk group," said State Police Director Fredrick E. Davids.

"IF THE ONLY assets required for safe driving were skills, reflexes and automotive knowledge, the average young driver could teach his elders," Davids said. "Instead, young drivers seem to provide proof that one's life style and driving style are inseparable. Since youth is a time of impulse, testing and competition, that stage of driving and its consequences are increasingly tragic on both the state and national scale."

Among other facts included in the report was the statistic that 81 per cent of all bicycle deaths occur to children under the age of 15.

IT TOOK 48 years to accomplish it, but North Carolina has finally imposed a cigarette tax, making it the 50th state to do so.

Iowa was the first state to impose such a tax back in 1921. The other states have fallen in line one by one until North Carolina was the lone holdout.

But rising expenses finally forced the lawmakers there to turn to tobacco for money, and they levied a two cents per pack tax.

Michigan levies a tax of seven cents per pack.

Detroit, Benny Parsons will be among several ARCA (Automobile Racing Club of America) drivers invited to compete in the August 17th Yankee 600 at Michigan International Speedway.

John Marcum, president of the Toledo based sanctioning body has given permission to a number of his top New Car Division drivers to compete in the NASCAR Grand National 600 mile event at the Irish Hills facility.

Parsons, the 1968 ARCA National Champion - and current point leader for 1969, placed seventh in the 1969 Daytona 500 and was picked as "Rookie of the 500". The Southern-born Detroit resident will be driving a 1969 Ford Torino and is expected to be right up with the front-runners on the 17th.

Two other Michigan residents will also compete in the Yankee 600. Iggy Katona of Willis, Michigan - six time former ARCA National Champion will be driving a 1969-Dodge; Ron Grana from Farmington, Michigan will compete in a 1969 Ford, entered by his father.

Katona has more than 200 feature wins in his career and has driven more racing miles in competition than any

Bendix equipment for Apollo 13 was shipped to Cape Kennedy "just three weeks ago," explained Weathered, "and at the same time we're working on the packages for Apollo 15 and testing the one for Apollo 14. I've got a crew down at the Cape right now that is running some of the inspections and check-outs on this equipment."

Meanwhile, too, Bendix engineers continue their work on a moon vehicle that may some day - perhaps within two years - carry astronauts across the moon's surface.

But even for Weathered, who daily lives the exciting life of moon exploration, the television picture of the first astronauts on the moon seemed as "unreal" as it did for his wife and the rest of the world.

"It's amazing, just amazing," he said echoing sentiments heard throughout the world.

Saturday night at Toledo Speedway in the 100 lap ARCA National Championship race.

Tickets for the August 17th Yankee 600 are available from this news paper office as well as the MIS site ticket office and the MIS Detroit office Already loaded aboard Apollo 12 are the testing instruments Bendix will send with the next flight. Its part of the more complex ALSEP (Apollo Lunar Surface Experiments Package) program. Whereas EASEP (Early Apollo Scientific Experiments Package) placed just two instruments in the first moon landing, this second program will include a number of additional instruments requiring astronauts one and one-half hours to deploy. The ALSEP system is designed to return lunar scientific data to the earth for as long as one year after the astronauts' departure.
