Trustee Thomas D. Armstrong's letter of resignation to the Northville township board was brief and to the point, but in a letter to The Record and "Voters of Northville Township" Armstrong suggests starting "recall petitions for unqualified members of the board".

The trustee quit the board abruptly during a regular session Tuesday, August 12 after the board had voted 4-2 "to accept and file" a citizens' committee report on township police protection. Only Armstrong and Trustee Bernard Baldwin opposed the action, preferring instead to grant the study committee its request for a meeting with the board to discuss the proposals within the study report.

In his letter to The Record and voters (printed in full on page 9-A) Armstrong states "I do not want to be part of this type of local government, and I am sure that I will be able to do more for our township by being an interested citizen, starting recall petitions for unqualified members of the board and starting a referendum to put before the voters this police matter". He added that he was "sorry for leaving Mr. Baldwin as the only person on the board to fight this group".

In his letter to the board, read at a special meeting called Thursday night to discuss the Maybury property purchase (see story on this page),

Enrollment Tops 3,000

Armstrong was brief. He said he found it impossible to continue on the board as the result of board action taken on the police protection study report.

Township Attorney John Ashton informed the board that only the signed letter was required to make the resignation official. However, the board, on a motion by Clerk Eleanor Hammond, voted to send Armstrong a letter of appreciation.

"Up until now he has been a very faithful board member and has served the community well. I'm sorry he took this action and feel that, if he felt so strongly about the police matter, he would have been more effective by remaining on the board. Anyway, I would move to write him a letter of appreciation and regret," said Clerk Hammond.

The attorney informed the board that it has 45 days to name a replacement for Armstrong. The appointee will serve until the next general election, November 1970.

Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg suggested that the board should choose the new trustee from the planning commission "because of their knowledge and keen interest" in township affairs.

It was agreed that board members would consider possible appointees with the probability that the interim trustee would be named at the September 9 board meeting.

At Maybury

City-Township-School Eye 500-Acre Tract

The city and township, and possibly the school district, have agreed to form a building authority for the purpose of purchasing up to 500 acres of Maybury Sanitorium property from the city of Detroit for future community recreational and school

Representatives of the three Northville bodies were scheduled to meet with Detroit officials Wednesday morning and bonding attorneys in the afternoon to outline the specific site desired and start incorporation proceedings for formation of the joint building authority.

By a 4-2 vote the township board decided last Thursday night to join with the city in the formation of an authority to make a bid for a portion of the 900-acre sanitorium property which Detroit has decided to sell to balance its budget.

Monday night the city council made its previously proposed authority motion official by a unanimous vote of the council.

And last week the board of education indicated it will vote on a motion favoring participation in the authority at its next meeting when all board members are expected to be present.

Together, the city, and township will seek to purchase approximately 450 acres. The school board requires 60 acres for future school sites

Even though the community governmental groups have joined together in the proposal to acquire half. of the wooded, hilly Maybury property, there is no assurance that the purchase will be realized

But Detroit's common council has indicated it needs the $3 million it believes the no-longer-used Maybury facility will bring. And Detroit Controller Bernard Klein has encouraged local officials to bid for whatever portion they desire.

While the Detroit council must make the final decision on whether to sell and to whom, it is Klein's contention that if the community of Northville wishes to acquire part of the land for recreational purposes the council would be inclined to waive bids

so long as the price is within reason - and perhaps grant some concessions in its asking price

In their meeting with Klein Wednesday the Northville officials planned to indicate exactly what portion of the site they desired. Their preference would be the easterly most 466 acres bounded by Beck on the east and Seven and Eight Mile roads on the south and north. If Detroit would accept the city-township proposal, this 465 acres would be reduced to 443 acres by eliminating several houses on Beck and on Eight Mile near Beck, as well as the recently-used children-unit building that is located in the center of the property and on the western edge of the parcel desired by the city-township.

Local officials believe that Detroit may wish to sell the houses to doctors or other city employees now residing in the homes. If the school district joins the authority, the desired 443 acres would be increased to some 500 acres to provide for school sites. The land is now zoned for low density single family dwellings. It is probable that the purchaser of the remaining 400 acres would subdivide the property, although there have been other suggestions, such as industrial development.

The school board has determined that it would be less expensive to taxpayers if the land remained undeveloped, employing the cost of providing school facilities for the potential residential capacity.

This argument came into the discussion at both the city and township meetings. But chiefly the officials supporting the action did so because of their conviction that open space areas are a diminishing product and that the community may never have another opportunity to preserve such a choice site.

Neither the council or the township board approved the proposed Continued on Page 13-A

While youngsters cling to the final days of vacation, administrators and maintenance personnel are stepping up their preparation for the opening of the 1969-70 school year. Northville public schools and St. Paul's Lutheran School will open for a full day of classes September 4, while Our Lady of Victory Catholic School plans two half-day sessions beginning the same date.

When school doors open, Northville's five public schools will be bulging at the seams. Officials expect an enrollment of nearly 3,050, a 315 increase over last year's September enrollment of 2,735. Also, Our Lady of Victory reports an anticipated enrollment of 280 students and St.

Paul's expects approximately 60. Both public and parochial school administrators are now on the job and offices are open for last minut, school registration. Parents of new students are urged to contact the schools as soon as possible to make appointments so entrance procedures can be from Ida B. Cooke Junior, High to the old junior high which until this summer served partially as the board offices. The latter have been moved into remodeled quarters in the former community building.

The old junior high building is being pressed into service to relieve crowded conditions in the new Cooke junior high.

High school orientation for freshmen and new students is slated for Monday, August 25 at 10 a.m. in the auditorium. The program will include an official welcome, an explanation of high school procedures and a tour of the school. Parents are welcome to attend.

Greeting the record number of students will be an enlarged staff of instructors. School officials report that all teaching positions have been filled with the hiring of 29 replacement and six new teachers, thus boosting the total to an ail-time new high of 137 full time instructors.

Northville public schools' first full day schedule will operate just as in past years. Secondary schools will be in session from 8 a.m. to 2:40 p.m and elementary schools from 8:45 to 3:30 p.m. St. Paul's school hours will be from 8:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and OLV will operate between 8:40 a.m and 3

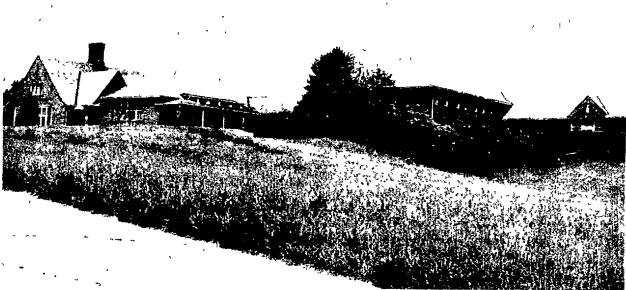

Presently there are 14 public school buses ready to go for both the elementary and the secondary runs Parochial school students will ride buses on the elementary run.

Major change in bus scheduling, report officials, is the plan to pick up and drop off students inside major subdivisions.

While classes will reopen for a traditional school year next month, investigation into the possibility of launching some kind of year-round school program moves into the stretch. Officials plan soon to start a door-to-door personal survey conducted by a professional public relations firm.

Meanwhile, the school board is wrestling with the knotty problem of whether or not to admit non-tuition paying students who live on property within the school district that is not taxed. Typical of these is the Wayne County Child Development Center.

Originally, the board voted to bar all such students unless they pay tuition. However, recently the board learned of a threat by the State Department of Education to cut off all state aid unless the students are admitted without payment of tuition.

Parkins, Rogers is headed up by Maurice F. Parkins and Brandon M Rogers who formed the company in 1958. The firm provides comprehensive planning, urban development and planning implementation services at state. county, city, village and township levels throughout the state and midwest area.

In other business Monday night the council confirmed assessment rolls for paving of North Center street from South Ely drive to the city limits and on Hill street. Both measures passed by 4-1 votes with Councilman Paul Folino, who opposes the 75 percent assessment policy, voting negatively.

Also approved with some changes was a program for replacement and repair of sidewalk on some 50

Who says all women are bad

Mrs. Joseph Rajsigl, 1005 North Center Street, is proof of the contrary.

Mrs. Rajsigl has been selected as one of five drivers to compete for the title of Detroit's Good Driver of 1969 on Tuesday.

Two weeks ago she was stopped in Detroit by a two-man team from the Detroit Police Department's Traffic Safety Bureau. The officers had been following her for some time, watching her driving.

Driving for 13 years and a total of 156,000 miles, Mrs. Rajsigl has a perfect record. Of the five drivers selected, there are three men and two women with a total of 102 years and 1,500,000 miles of driving without any accidents. dents.

Mrs. Rajsigl competed in the finals

Tuesday at Ford Civic Auditorium. With Dr. Robert Nolan, professor of drivers' education at Michigan State University riding in the car, she covered a ten mile course over streets and freeways in Detroit.

The winner will receive a $100 bond with $50 bond going to the second place driver. Runners-up will receive $25 bonds.

In the proposed year-round school program, the year would be divided into quarters, with each student attending school for three consecutive quarters. At any given time, only 75-percent of the total enrollment would be in school.

Promoters of the study claim the year-round school would reduce construction needs by one-quarter, too. If a system regularly enrolls 4,000 students, with the four-quarter plan classrooms would be needed only for the 3,000 that would be enrolled in any one quarter.

The most drastic change is that some students and their teachers would be in school for the summer quarter This summer quarter would be attended by the one of every four students who is on vacation during the fall, winter or spring quarter.

Those skeptical of the feasibility of the plan need only to look at colleges and universities. Teachers and students are on the campuses year-round, proponents point out.

It is the summer quarter that most studies so far completed regard as the barrier to serious consideration of the year-round operation.

The vacation, that American institution, is most often taken during the summer months. Families want to take a vacation as a family, together But today, increased vacations are taken during the winter months to Florida or to the ski areas.

Plymouth Plans 14th Festival

A small clucken barbecue-corn roast of 14 years ago that attracted less than 125, mostly members of the Plymouth Rotary Club, has mushroomed through the years into the greatest community wide program in southeastern Michigan with more than 100,000 expected for this year's 14th renewal.

The event is the Plymouth Fall Festival, a four-day and night affair, which starts on Thursday, September 4 and climaxes with the Rotary Club chicken barbecue on Sunday, September 7.

Chairman Ron Coosaia and Business Manager Tony Flum, who, guide the executive committee, predict that the 1969 Festival will be the biggest ever.

This year's renewal opens on Thursday, September 4, with the old fashioned German sauerkraut dinner served by the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club Friday, the Lions Club will present a fish dinner at noon and in the evening; Saturday, the Kiwanis Club will have a pancake festival from 7 a.m to 6 p.m. and the Jaycees will have a beef rib dinner from 6 to 9 p.m., and the big climax on Sunday, September 7, TREASURE FROM ALOFT - The astronauts have returned but there is still excitement from space. Courtney, 10, and William Lusk, 113, found the radiosonde they are holding Friday noon. They spotted the orange parachute in a tree on Nine Mile Road between Napier and Chubb roads. Following a string attached to the chute, they discovered a battery unit. The radiosonde, sent from Flint, is carried aloft by a balloon and transmits information on atmospheric temperature, pressure and humidity. After returning it to the Northville Post Office, Courtney reported this is only the second radiosonde turned in during the last five years. Are the boys eager to become scientists now? "Nope," was the answer they gave. Courtney and William are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lusk, 302 Pennell.

Dress Regulations Face Restyling

by Prudence Hartt

"Has the day finally arrived for old Joe High School to doff his letterman sweater in favor of cut-offs, necklaces and shoulder-length curls?"

"No, and it probably never will," answered four upper classmen who posed the question this past week.

The students are members of the Northville High School student body which has been instrumental in formulating and attempting to influence a new student dress code for the high school. Last May through result of their efforts the matter was brought before the school board, which has agreed to meet with them later this month in an attempt to resolve the

Although their own dress is not extreme or uncommon, they insist that dress should represent a totally individual expression of the student. "This is the way that most high school students prefer to dress," they explain, adding that only a few feel the need to expréss themselves in "weird or freaky costumes."

. The four students are representative of several facets of high school life, including sports, and student government. Main spokesman for the group is Mike Fitzpatrick, a senior who is the newly elected mayor of the student council. Others in the group include junior Rick Sechler, a member of the basketball squad who also is on the debate team; Janet Greiger, a senior who is the newly-elected student council secretary; and Bruce Grysiewicz, a June graduate who will enter Michigan State University this fall.

They are members of an informal student group who have been working since winter to revise and clarify terms of the student dress code. To replace the present code of "well-groomed, neat and clean," the students have formulated a code leaving taste up to the individual and his parents, providing it is not in conflict with state laws. It prohibits only "transparent clothing, bathing suits, pajamas and costumes, clothing with obscene phrases.'

The code question arose, they explained, because of some confusion resulting from the "ambiguous wording" of the present code. Also, there was some concern when students asked permission to grow mustaches, which the student council contended should be allowed, but the administration declined to grant permission.

Last winter the group sponsored a referendum among high school students to gauge student opinion. When the votes were tabulated, it was discovered that about 600 out of 850 students felt the dress code should be liberalized and clarified. In a later petition drive, about the same number of students signed a document asking for a revision of the code. "It's mainly a matter of comfort and common sense," according to Rick, who added that many girls prefer to wear slacks in the winter while in summer most "guys prefer to wear sandals or at least go without socks." Also, most boys believe thay should be free to grow beards and mustaches, since they are not indecent and since several teachers have them, he said.

"The whole idea of strictly regulated dress is contrary to the aims of modern education," continued Bruce. "Most schools attempt to make a creative atmosphere in a culture of diversity and free thinking. Uniformity. is needed solely to identify with group loyalty, such as in an athletic team or the army.

All four students emphasized that social and academic divisions, which were prevalent in high school in the past, have largely disappeared. Students no longer dress to identify with a certain group but rather in most cases the individual has enlarged his circle of ; friends to include people with a wide, range of backgrounds and interests, they noted.

The high school "hero" also has been altered drastically just within the last couple of years. "Whereas before, the athletes were considered the school leaders, now-a-days students tend to look up more to the people who are actively involved in solving social and political problems." As Rick put it, 'Next fall I have to decide between basketball and debate. I imagine I'll choose debate."

The students admitted that teachers have regulations to govern their own appearance. However, they noted that teacher's are free to change their occupation, while students have little choice in the decision of whether or not to attend school. Society, they pointed out, has made an education a prerequisite for leading a productive and useful life.

In answer to the question of whether or not casual attire might affect scholastic achievement, the students cited a liberalized dress code which has been adopted both by West Bloomfield, High School and Groves High School in Birmingham. In conversations with the principals of these schools, they were told that there was no change in scholarship despite, "freer" dress regulations.

"Every school in our league is considering some revision of their dress policy," Mike pointed out. He added that although objectives were different in each school, the trend definitely is toward liberalization. "It has to come sooner or later," he said.

Among the students themselves there seems to be little division over the need for reform, with an overwhelming number indicating desire for, a new policy. "The school isn't exactly divided into two camps," Rick explained. Most of the people opposing the change itake a fairly apathetic attitude. They either feel that/ the administration, should make the decisions; on relie they, don't trust themselves to dress correctly.

"They say, "what if someone came to school in a bathing suit ... I mean I would if I could'." "Well if they can't

The four said most high school students have three different opinions about the dress code: Either they dislike, the present one, and are working to change it, or they dislike the present one but believe it will never be revised, or they think these matters should be the decision of the administration:,

Working through the student council and the principal's office, Mike stated, the students have gone through all of the proper channels in trying to influence a code change." "But sometimes the proper channels are hard to find."

Many adults, the students pointed out, seem to classify us as campus radicals simply because we want a change. "One lady at a board meeting even asked me if I was a member of the SDS," Rick said.

Although many teens have met SDS members in Ann Arbor or other places, the student spokesmen believe there is no SDS chapter at the high school. Student opinion is "very negative" toward such extreme radical organizations.

. . . Or Short Skirts?

Mike said he believes that in high school the dress of students is strongly censored by their peers. Teenagers are especially sensitive to social acceptance, he explained. If someone comes to school in offensive attire, he is quick to recognize the disgust of his classmates. He cited one student' who came to Birmingham's Groves High School dressed in a Santa Claus costume. Student reaction was so strong that he went home to change his clothes at noon.

Where high school guests are concerned, the four students said there should be no stipulations on dress. Referring to the White Panthers who visited the high school last winter; they explained that these guests' were brought to high school as part of a learning experience, but they were not necessarily accepted by teenagers! By hearing the Panthers students gained a better understanding of a controversial segment of society, yet hardly anyone was impressed with the radical organization, they said. 4 till ing in-Most, teachers, hthey continued, share their desire for a revised code. At a recent faculty meeting which he attended, Rick said the matter of the code was brought up. In several straw votes that followed, more than half of the teachers voted for some type of change:

The school board, too, they believe, has recognized, the need for some form of revision. In answer to one board member's suggestion that a new 'code 'should 'list permissable articles of clothing, the students countered with a request that the code name those articles of clothing which are not appropriate

They further stated their; belief that the controversial dress policy is not so much the result, of the generation gap as a gulf between liberal and conservative elements. "It's a case of logic versus fear and excited reaction" Bruce explained.

Superinterdent Raymon'd" Spear has asked a committee of 27'to meet and resolve the issue of the dress code The committee is on Monday. composed of two board members, three administrators, three faculty members, eight students and eleven

If the matter is not resolved to their satisfaction, the students say they will continue to press for, revision through the same legalized channels. They are confident, however, that eventually a liberalization of some sort will evolve. "Times are changing, and the new trends point toward, more freedom and self determination for the student."

Schoolcraft Cites Record Enrollment

Schoolcraft College authorities continue to look for a record enrollment when the two-year college opens its sixth full year of operation on Tuesday, but they are making cautious estimates of just what the enrollment will be.

"We based our planning on an enrollment of close to 5,400," said Vice-President for Student Affairs Edward V. McNally. "But we will not really know what our total will be until after registration books have closed on evening college and apprenticeship programs.

"Our freshman admissions rate has been holding close to projections, but there is no way for us to know at this time what our enrollment will be among returning students. Evening college and apprenticeship students are also a definite factor in what our final enrollment will be," McNally said.

The college has experienced a steady growth in enrollment during the past five years when the student body soared from an opening year figure of 2,018 in 1964 to 4,660 last fall. The annual jump has varied between 500 " and 700 students, about a 25 to 30 percent increase each year.

Here's Police Study Rejected by Township

EDITOR'S NOTE - Following is the complete supplemental report on police protection as compiled by a citizens' study committee appointed by the Northville township board. It was submitted to the board last week and broadened a split within the board when, by a 4-2 vote, the board decided to "accept and file" the report but refused an invitation to meet with the committee to discuss its content further. The action so enraged Trustee Thomas Armstrong that he resigned and walked out of the board meeting. Later in the meeting, by a 4-1 vote, the board expanded the duties and authority of its 40-hour-per-week officer by adopting the state uniform traffic code. The action will permit the township police officer to issue traffic violation tickets as well as enforce such existing township ordinances prohibiting hunting, littering and stray

The Northville Township Police Protection Study Committee, as requested, reconvened to update its findings and recommendations of May 2, 1966. In summary:

The committee findings reveal a continuing increase in crime and projects an escalating rate of increase resulting from the projected rapid growth of the community.

The need for police protection is more acute today than it was three years ago.

- The only satisfactory police protection for the needs indicated would be one providing round-the-clock service seven days

- Police protection for the Township would be most advantageously arranged through the City of Northville.

Details of this supplemental report and rationale for the recommendations are contained in paragraphs which follow.

INTRODUCTION

Approximately three years ago the Township Board commissioned a Citizen's Committee to study the incidence and potential of crime in Northville Township. That study concerned itself with the nature and trend of crime in the area, the police protection that was then, being. provided and what if any, additional protection was needed. It further concerned itself with how the township might provide any additional police protection. Results of that study committee were submitted to the Township Trustees on May 2, 1966.

Recently the Township Board, appointed a "police officer" to enforce local ordinances, The ordinances currently adopted by the township' cover trash, dogs and hunting. As'a result of this action the committee was somewhat preempted in its purpose to update the 1966 study. However the committee continued its activities to the conclusions of this supplemental report.

THE COMMITTEE

The committee which was requested to update the 1966 report was comprised in the main of those who previously served on the committee. Several replacements were appointed to replace those who have moved or who are unable to serve. The committee seemingly represents a cross section of the community,

SCOPE OF INVESTIGATION

The committee met on several occasions. First to review the earlier report and to assess the changing conditions. Next, meetings were held with Sheriff Roman Gribbs of Wayne County and with Chief Sam Elkins of the Northville Police Department. Subsequently, the committee discussed the additional information gathered and the comments and reflections of the expert police witnesses. The discussions with the law enforcement agents centered around their assessment of police needs in the area and possible ways to meet them. FINDINGS

There is full agreement among the committee members that the need for police protection is imminent. Although the community does not have a serious "crime in the streets" problem, the community is experiencing some degree of trespassing resulting from unauthorized circulation of public institution inmates. A rapidly increasing 'population has brought about, and will continue to bring about, an increasing number of "police problems" - speeding, accidents, personal affairs, etc. All indications are that the need for police protection is greater today than it was in 1966 For example, statistics concerning the services rendered to Northville by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, 1964-1968, reflect an almost 100% increase over the 5-year period from 1,125 complaints to 2,215. The need for police protection is now evident, but it will be greatly accentuated with the influx of residents to the community.

If The need appears to be for 24 hour - 71 days per week service. The 24 hour - 7 days per week requirement is predicated on the fact that crime occurs at all hours and on all days of the week. It does, however, appear to be more prevalent during the dark hours. The police authorities with around-the-clock protection. Neither of the expert witnesses recommends the institution of a one man police force. They were of the opinion that this would leave 'thecitizens with a false sense of security, that it would be of doubtful value for daylight hours, and that there is the likelihood of greater liability for false arrest. There is also the question of whether a one man police force to enforce three minor ordinances is sound economics.

(As a matter of information 'the committee investigated practices in terms of starting salaries in surrounding communities and found that 'the starting salary for police officers in communities of approximate size of Northville range between $5,200 and $8,000. The City starts its patrolmen at $7,020 and they progress in three years to $8,710. The Township should take precautions not to compensate any police officer greatly in excess of that amount - as a matter of sound business practiće.)

It was also learned that both the county and city police agencies are very scrupulous in the selection of police officers to avoid the charges of favoritism in hiring. Every effort, ismade to assure that selection, on the basis of qualification, is determined by tests, interviews and the use of a selection committee.

In response to the question posed, to both the city and county law enforcement agents as to whether or not they would be willing and able to provide police protection to the township, both indicated they would under certain circumstances - subject, of course, to the approval of their governing bodies, Sheriff Gribbs expressed a strong desire to provide anywhere from one patrolman for one shift to two men around the clock -or more if requested. Similarly, the city expressed some willingness to enter into a contract to provide 24 hour, 7,7 days per week protection. The city, however, was unwilling to provide ones man service on a 40 hour week.

Cost restimates of the itwo agencies 4 'indicate that the city would be able to # provide 24 hour - 7 day service at about one-half the cost of County. This cost differential is largely about one-half the cost of Wayne attributable to two principal reasons. Wayne County Road Patrol cars havetwo men in them during the dark hours whereas the city has one patrolman in a car. Secondly, the salary scale for Wayne County patrolmen is significantly higher than Northville policemen. Both agencies offer the benefits of central dispatching, training of new officers, certain central services, an orderly procedure for the selection of new police cadets and replacements in the event of illness or vacations, supervision and back-up patrolmen in the event of a more serious disturbance.

RECOMMENDATION'

The committee recommends that the Township enter into a contract for full time police protection with the City of Northville at its earliest opportunity. Such a contract would have a number of advantages including:

- Less expense than either contracting with Wayne County or providing its own police force - for a comparable degree of police protection.

- The City and Township have much common interest - in the community and its citizens - with the result that local law enforcement officers have relevance for juveniles and this should act as a deterrent to crime.

- The Township already has a wholly satisfactory cooperative arrangement with the City on fire protection and the extension of that to police protection seems logical.

- The expansion of the City police force will permit it to become of a size sufficient to be more fully "professional."

WAYS AND MEANS

The cost of the recommended police protection contract with the City of Northville is projected to be $77.000. Although the Study Committee does not wish to inject itself into the province of the Trustees - by suggesting ways, to finance this urgently inqeded, police protection several comments may be in order.

- The growing community and revalued property is providing significant additional revenue each year. As reported at the Township Annual Meeting the additional revenue expected in 1969 over 1968 would be. enough to cover approximately one-half of the cost of the recommended, police protection contract with the City.

- The local enforcement of the state uniform traffic code could result in added revenues for the Township by Court assignment of part of the fines

- The community will continue to grow and thus add to the State Equalized Valuation. The increased population will result in additional sales and incomes tax diversion. These then should make possible much of the required added funding of a full time

- It is probable that there are federal funds available for special programs to assist the Township in its police protection effort.

 It may be desirable to defer or curtail other budget expenditures in order to provide essential police protection.

OTHER COMMENTS Several other comments related to this study appear appropriate

- There was some feeling among a few Committee members that the Township Board should consider the Wayne County Road Patrol as the agency with which to contract. The advantages were thought to be:

- greater flexibility in expanding contracting the service as the Trustees may see fit to act

-more professionalization with a large police force additional back-up manpower...

The loss of local commonality of interest and higher cost make this a secondary alternative - but preferable to initiating a Township Police Department.

The Committee encourages the exploration by the Board of the establishment of a Public Service Commission to encompass the same geographical area as the new District Court.

The Committee wishes to express its regret that the Township Trustees (though split) saw fit to take action on this matter, by thiring a police officer, before the Committee completed its 'deliberation's. It is questioned whether cettain "contingencies" were considered by those Trustees favoring this action. For example, the public can be and is probably misled by the

Campus Expansion Highlights Schoolcraft's Sixth Opening

One building nears completion, ground has been broken for another and several other buildings are in various stages of planning as campus expansion and growth at Schoolcraft College continues on the eye of the start of the community college's sixth year of operation.

Moving along on a schedule that calls for completion early in 1970 is the college's 94,000-square-foot physical education plant. Being built under contracts totaling $2,700,000 the facility will enable the college to conduct its physical education, recreation and varsity athletic programs under one roof on campus for the first time in the institution's history.

The plant will include a main gymnasium capable of seating 2,500 persons in retractable bleachers and additional hundreds in portable seating on the main floor; an auxiliary gymnasium, a swimming pool and diving area for which spectator seating is provided for 400 persons; a rehabilitative exercise room; handball courts, classrooms and faculty office

The facility is going up along what is now the eastern edge of the campus and will form the fourth side of a quadrangle already enclosed on three sides on the Forum, the Library and the Liberal Arts Building.

Ground was broken during the week of August 10 on a 30,000-square-foot addition to the campus service center, located at the north end of the campus. When completed by late 1970, the facility will include maintenance shop areas, garaging for college vehicles, warehousing and storage, a new print

Present plans provide for an early completion of the bookstore in order that the present store, located in the lower level of the Lois L. Waterman Campus Center can be vacated to facilitate a remodeling project

The service building expansion is being constructed under contracts' totaling $808,000. The project calls for building two long wings to the original square core structure erected in 1964; and which has served as warehouse;" receiving dock, and maintenance area since that time.

Projected buildings for the 150-acre campus on Haggerty Road include an Arts Center to provide instruction space for music, art, speech, and drama, a 2,000-seat music hall, and a small theater.

Architects are presently at work' on preliminary plans for the Center which will be let for construction on a phased basis, in which the instruction areas will be built first. Site for the proposed building is in the northeast corner of the campus adjacent to a 1,200-car paved, lighted parking lot which will accommodate audiences for the proposed music hall and theater.

Other buildings to which college authorities are devoting planning time include classroom structures for business education and health careers, and a faculty office building.

The college has financed its buildings over the years through a series of bond issues. Four issues have been sold to date. They were for $2,435,000 in 1962, to provide local funds for the first four buildings on campus; $1,250,000 in 1964; $3,000,000 in 1966 and a $3,700,000 issue sold in 1968.

Proceeds of the last issue were earmarked for completion of the physical education plant, the service center, the Arts Center, and other classroom buildings.

SPEAKING

for The Record

No reporter worth his salt could have attended the August 12 meeting of the Northyille township board without later committing to writing his impressions.

They might have been written immediately - at 2 a.m. following the five-hour session and in time for the morning publication.

But he might have regretted some of the things he would have written, even though they were true. And he wouldn't have given the participants time to reappraise their actions and perhaps find new meanings that might make the whole debacle seem sane.

A week later there has been time for mellowing, for explanations and for meditation.

And the conclusion is that for pure prejudice, total inobjectivity, and uncontrolled procedure there have been few meetings that could top the August 12 Northville township board of trustees session.

The conduct would have sent H.M. Robert, author of "Rules of Order" back to the drawing board.

Though it was described by one citizen attending a meeting for the first time as "better than Laugh-In", the tragic truth is that from such meetings come decisions that govern the destiny of our community.

I would hope that our elected officials would not again permit themselves to be mesmerized into such a performance.

And it would be interesting to hear any argument that could support the board's reasoning for refusing to accept a citizen's committee request to meet and discuss a report it had just presented - a report that the board had asked the citizens' committee to undertake in the spirit of citizen participation in government.

One wonders how many citizens might decline future appeals for help in the face of such treatment.

The content of the report has no relevance to the board action. If it did not meet with the majority approval, this could have been determined at the joint board-committee meeting and the report forever forgotten.

The sad truth is that the board took its action for the single reason that the report concluded the city of Northville could best provide police protection for the township under contractural

Is there anyone familiar with the membership on the township board who doubts for a second that the report would have been greeted with open arms if it had suggested contracting with the Wayne County Sheriff's department?

That those members who hold such deep prejudices against their neighboring community could influence the majority to take such action should be cause for alarm.

Carried to its ridiculous end such emotion promoted one board official to suggest that the township purchase a $32,000 fire engine alone - and permit the city to use it - instead of sharing the cost and saving taxpayers $16,000, as has been the procedure for many years.

Fortunately, disdain for the city did not run as deeply as $16,000 in the minds of the board majority.

It becomes increasingly difficult for this reporter to bear witness to action prompted by emotion rather than studied, objective conclusion.

Consequently, I fear a "counter-prejudice" arises that threatens to fog the objectivity that should control the opinions written in this column.

Easily lost are the constructive actions taken by the board. And easily forgotten could be responsibility of the press to defend, or at least explain, the difficult and unpopular decisions that frequently fall upon the shoulders of elected officials.

Hopefully, the board itself...and citizens who influence the members...could reappraise this attitude towards community cooperation, particularly, in the light of a world that has just sent men to the moon as a result of tremendous cooperative effort between countless agencies and service units that have known and practiced bitter competition in the past.

An significant sign of hope, and an action that deserves commendation, is the board's decision to join with the city in the formation of an authority to purchase some 450 acres of open space 🖁 recreation area at Maybury Sanitorium.

This proposal is not without its critics and passed the board by a vote of 4-2. And in the case of the township, the purchase plan may mean an added tax levy - an action never before undertaken in Morthville township.

Income Tax Seen as Burden

To the Editor:

I find I must take issue with the income tax editorial printed two weeks

Somehow, the words income tax create suspicion. The mention of choice between taxes (income or property) seems not to be a selection so much, as an additional burden. A "new source", as was printed, and the word choice in the same sentence is conflicting.

Does the city council actually believe the people of Northville will be willing to pay a local income tax in the year 1970?

When you say this would be an untapped source of city income, you had better believe that it won't come from an untapped wallet.

The Federal government has tapped, emptied, drained, and literally picked U.S. wallets for a decade. Generations of Washington legislators have been on a deficit spending orgy for fifty years.

They have then compounded the felony by adding surtax to an already unfair tax collection. When the city government of Northville seeks its chunk, I say enough!

Your editorial mentioned that property taxes could be lowered to 3 mills or less with income tax, but they would have a 10 mill ceiling. With that ceiling, when I1 1/4 mills are now levied, I wonder how long before the roof is hit.

The editorial further points out that Northville doesn't have money shortages. Then, like a radio soap opera, last week's paper states that the city wishes to purchase Maybury.

Suppose a Mr. A. in Northville wishes to live in a modest home and put a good part of his salary into a more productive use. Suppose he is sending a couple of kids to college and doesn't want to borrow money at all time high interest rates. Maybe he would like to tuck/a bit away for vacations, a second car, or old age.

Maybe Mrs. B. lives on a fixed income and has a sizeable home. She would be paying according to that income. This loophole sounds great, but what happens if her property value falls off. She's still paying on the same fixed income.

I hope the good people of Northville, if they vote on this issue, have the sense to turn down local income tax.

Expanding services and inflation are two players that don't belong in the same ball park. 1970 will be a year to tighten the belts and hang on to the

"Hey! We Could Use Some Help Down Here!" Unprinted Letter Prompts Another

For quite some time now, I have been living under the delusion that only metropolitan newspapers were in cahoots with the politicians and the religious; however, I have changed my mind. Even the smallest hamlet, provided that it has a newspaper, subscribes to the same.

Although you refused to print my last letter of approx. 475 words still I will not become perturbed, knowing that a socioligist or a politician or a religious would be accorded all the space required in order to reply to an adversary, whereas, I, a non-entity, am entitled to nothing. Yet, it does' remind me of a proverb that I coined that "The world is one prodigious racket."

But, approx. 475 words are not the equivalent of 500 words, which is what your circumscribed notice warns the correspondent of. So, there must be a reason; and the reason is because my Church pays for advertising, whereas, I am only a subscriber. It does make a difference; and the difference is in the dollar sign.

You refuse to print my bitter excoriation of my Church. And yet, I blame the Cardinal for all the disheveled, rebellious, and lawbreaking religious, male or female, who come marching down the street in order to picket for some lawbreaking purpose; and who miss the corner drugstore where Carry Nation might explode in order to make this a better place in which to live.

I should like you to know that I was a Catholic before the current Cardinal and his clergy were born. I was a Catholic when there was such a thing as an occasion of sin; when nudism and pornography were sins. No one is asking the Cardinal to burn at the stake these heretical and apostate priests. This is now outmoded. However, he still has the power of excommunication - he is the boss! So, why not use this power, and agree that "there is more efficacy in quality rather than in quantity."

EDITOR'S NOTE - The above writer is correct when he says this newspaper did not print his previous letter. He is incorrect in his assumption of the reason, however. As a matter of fact, it is the only signed letter that this newspaper has declined to publish in 13 years of present ownership. The complaining writer has had other letters published in The Record? Unfil the above letter, however, he has always requested that only his initials, "H.K." be used. Normally, letters in The Record concern themselves with opinions on local matters ... or at least issues of some local significance and application. It is our contention that the letter we did not publish represented a personal grievance between the writer and his church. The Record refuses to serve as a battle, ground for such internal theological disputes. Frankly, previous letters from "H.K." have tested the broad limits set by this newspaper, which encourages and welcomes readers to express their opinions on pertinent local matters. The above letter was published only because it attacks The Record and the press in general. Even toned-down, its content borders on the unacceptable.

I wish to thank you for sending me the Centennial edition of the Northville Record to me here in Vietnam. My friends and especially I enjoyed reading this edition. I look forward to my weekly edition to find out "what's happening" back in "the world".

Many thanks again and best of luck in the new century.

Bill Wells, a 58-year-old outdoorsman who makes his home at 49901 West Nine Mile Road. has a pretty good case when he says "bears are dirty fighters ... and mean."

One of these unpredictable creatures used but one punch to the eye in knocking Bill unconscious recently while he (Bill) and his wife were camping betwixt Hillman and Atlanta in Michigan's northern lower peninsula.

And the critter didn't even let Bill know he was in a boxing ring and not a camp site.

"I'll tell you it was a terrible experience," recalls the veteran hunter-fisherman who still finds it hard to hold a cigarette steady. "I just scooped up my false teeth after I came to and high-tailed it into the tent."

It was his first encounter with a Michigan bear in more than 40 years of fishing and hunting. "I'd only seen one other bear in my whole life," he says, "and I hope this second time was my last."

After listening to Bill's story, I'm convinced, too, that another bear sighting will be one too

Bill was standing next to his pickup truck about 11 p.m. when something socked him from the rear. "It knocked me out ... maybe for two or three minutes. When I came to my uppers were. laying in one place, my lowers in another and my flashlight ... it was

School Taxes Reduced

FIVE YEARS AGO ...

.. The 1964-65 school tax levy in the Northville Public Schools' system was 1.1 mills lower than last year. The reduction came when Superintendent of Schools R. H. Amerman discovered that a half-mill reduction in the 1954 debt retirement fund could be made. TEN YEARS AGO...

TWENTY YEARS AGO ...

... The driver training program which was inaugurated in September, 1947 in Northville Public Schools was to be resumed when school opened September 8. A 1949 Ford donated by Allan & Locke was to arrive about September 1 for the use of the class.

... From August 14th to the 20th, Elroy Ellison, Northville High School principal, was among the 115 principals attending the Secondary School Principals Conference at Higgins Lake.

... The local Exchange Club September 27 was to fly to Cleveland to hold a joint meeting with the Downtown Cleveland Club at the Hollendon Hotel.

SIXTY FIVE YEARS AGO ...

... Mrs. T. H. Turner left for a visit in the East.

... L. W. Simmons attended the Oakland county supervisor's picnic at Lake Orion, Wednesday.

... The immense old willow tree which had been for many years an ancient "landmark" on Center Street just south on Main broke again during one of the recent storms and was cut down and cleared away, making things look very unfamiliar down that way.

Anyway, I heard this noise off a retreat to the tent. Inside, aching, bleeding and trembling. Bill understandably had difficulty sleeping. Mrs. Wells, afterolearning what happened, joined her husband in a sleepless night.

The next morning the couple discovered paw prints on the ground and on the hood and side of the dew covered truck. The bear apparently had worked its way along side the truck, two paws on the ground and two-on the truck.

Bill, who was later treated for shock and given several shots. suffered head and neck injuries but no broken bones. The blow cut his left cheek and temple, blackened his eye, and left two long claw marks on the inside of his left arm.

Just now recovering after a week's sick leave from Evans Products in Plymouth and a shortened northern vacation, Bill thinks he's pretty lucky despite his experience.

"I think if it hadn't been for the barking dog and the fact that I was knocked unconscious and didn't move after he hit me, I probably wouldn't be here now,' says Bill.

He doesn't know why the bear attacked him or why it didn't telegraph its punch but Bill's sure of one thing: "It'll be a long time before I go camping in that area or answer the call of nature at

RAYMOND SPEAR Northville Superintendent

By RAYMOND SPEAR

The Back to School Edition of the Northville Record brings greetings from the Board of Education, Administrative Staff and the Teaching Staff of the Northville Public Schools.

3d qii All parties are deeply grateful that the 1969-70 school year is getting off to such a good start through the extra efforts of the Northville Record staff and its Back to School issue.

The "now ended" summer of 1969 has provided opportunity for considerable improvement and upgrading in the total operation of your schools for the coming school year.

this in The curriculum, our most important product, has received considerable attention by our Curriculum Coordinator, Florence Panattoni. Not only has she been working with principals and teachers for across-the-board improvement, but also has devoted many, extra hours in following through with a most challenging program to be offered to our sixth grade students.

rition. The Business Department has kept Mr. Busard hopping, what with building clean-up, maintenance repairs and yard work, but also nordering, receiving and disbursement of supplies and materials to "operate the total school program during 1969-70.

Principals have been busy getting things ready in their respective buildings, while teachers have been busily attending summer school, workships, traveling and vacationing out for 1969-70. Everything, is approaching its "ready", position, and we look forward to a most successful and educational school year.

By THOMAS DALE

Many long hours have gone into the preparation and planning proposal, we need recreation area and I for the opening of school. Only by complete and proper planning, followed by careful execution and careful attention to detail, can a successful school year be assured. Novi can be justly proud of the achievements of the past, but it must also look forward to a busy and challenging future. We are approaching a period of rapid and unprecedented growth.

Enrollment has doubled in four years, from 900 students to 1800 students. Builders in the area state that they will construct 1500 homes during the next five to seven years. This will mean an additional 3000 children. Since school buildings take a year to plan I and two years to construct, we must move now and move fast!

vilver. Politicians make all sorts of campaign promises to help y schools, but few promises are carried out after they are elected. Tax reform has been a favorite for some legislators. Thousands of dollars have been spent on studies, and Blue Ribbon Committees, only to erevert to the same old tired method of uncomprehensive and inadequate funding of education. They say, "the schools are in deep financial trouble". They are right, but where can the blame be laid? On the legislature, for failing to provide a system of free and 3, equal education to all?

On the citizens, for failing to vote adequate millage for r_education?

On the administrators, for failing to properly plan and get the w most for each dollar spent, or for "giving away the store" to militant labor organizations?

On boards of education, for approving deficit financing? Or of for being pressured into wage hikes which they cannot afford?

. Mr. 1 On teachers, for requesting a wage which will allow them to colive respectably and raise their families in security?

On parents, who still enjoy large families? It really does not matter where the blame lies since each s group seems to place blame on all of the other groups. It is time for a a rededication to the task yet before us. We cannot sit on our hands s and pat ourselves on the back for what has been done. We must li recognize the objectives and goals for the future. Each child must gareceive an education which will enable them to be self supporting rather than a burden on society. It is more economical to educate them than to care for them later. There is no factory or business organization with such valuable raw material as the schools receive at age five.

. There is no factory or business organization which will take 1.13 years to turn out a finished product.

There is no factory or business organization which has so few which are not acceptable to society. There is no factory or business organization which produces, year after year, so valuable a product.

There is no factory or business organization whose product "will inherit all we work and live for.

We believe that while man exists in the world of the present 1; and in the universe of the future "schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged.'

Community Seeks Maybury Land

But the measure had its' greatest difficulty winning approval at the township board meeting Thursday night. Conversely, however, it also enjoyed its strongest citizen support in the audience.

Treasurer Alex, Lawrence and Trustee Joseph Straub voted against the proposal.

Lawrence argued that the city of Detroit received the land free from Dr.' Maybury - "and I can't see why the township should be stuck with it". His comments drew response from Trustee Bernard Baldwin who wondered what difference it made how Detroit acquired the property. "It's on the market and the point is, do we want to provide for our recreational needs in the years ahead".

'We shouldn't look so far in the future. We're making our children pay for it", retorted Lawrence.

Baldwin said he preferred to believe "our children will thank us". He recalled that several years ago the township board had declined tor, purchase all the sewer capacity allocated to the township by Wayne; county "and now we're paying top" dollar for it" (Lawrence was a member. of that board). The treasurer told? Baldwin that his point was "hindsight" and the trustee replied that "it would have been foresight" if the sewer: capacity had been purchased.

It was suggested that perhaps 150 acres of the total acquisition might be used to develop a golf course, which would be revenue-producing. Trustee Straub asked what use would be made of the remaining area. He also suggested that the 400-acre recreational site would serve just, one end of the township and wondered about the residents of the eastern portion. The expenditure of such a large sum of

The supervisor pointed out that ball diamonds are already scarce of for the growing community recreation program. He pointed out that the and Leman, project a need of some 300, acres for recreation in the Supervisor Stromberg reported .* that he had received many calls favoring purchase of Maybury for recreation purposes - and he added that "many people are tired of gravel" mining operations", a possible use that the supervisor had indicated might lead to a gift of 200 acres to the township if permitted for eight years.

hope we join with the city in forming an authority", said Clerk Hammond.

Several citizens spoke out in favor of acquiring the site, some suggesting that more land was needed. "It's a visionary step", said one citizen, who said the board should be commended for its action. Most thought the proposed price of some $3,100 per acre was reasonable.

Trustee Richard Mitchell remained quiet through most of the discussion, but suggested that efforts should be made to zone the western portion of the 900-acre tract industrial for research-type industrial development. He noted that Consumers Power had an industrial plant nearby (at Napier) and that light industry next to the recreation area would help the tax base and not add the burden to the school district that residential development would.

Mitchell joined Baldwin, Hammond and Stromberg in voting "yes" against the "no" votes of Lawrence and Straub.

While the city council voted unanimously for the proposed authority, Councilman Wallace Nichols noted that "it's a pretty fancy purchase and I don't want to be accused of playing fast and loose with taxpayers' money;.

He asked assurance from the city manager that the acquisition would not cause a hike in property taxes.

Manager Frank Ollendorff said he could not make such a guarantee. The manager estimated that it would cost the city some $55,000 annually under a 20-year bond issue. He said that sufficient funds from race track ·revenues could be set aside to meet this obligation without adding more millage to the tax levy at this time. He also noted that the golf course, if approved had been obtained from members of the Livonia Education Association. Association.

This support, by those most closely associated with the public school system and most acutely aware of what the passage of parochiaid would mean to public schools, pointedly contradicts the contention that the use of public tax aid for private schools would in some manner benefit the public school system, CAP officials said.

"How the State Legislature could even conceive of spending public tax monies to support private schools while some public schools are in desperate financial straits, is totaly uncomprehensible," they said. "Yet the Democratic Majority Leader, State Representative Ryan, as recently as August 11 stated 'Parochiaid will come up again in the fall session of the Legislature and it will pass.' He predicted that parochiaid would be included as part of an overall solution to school money problems. If he has his way, we will be faced with the prospect of watching private school children attending full day classes, paid for with public tax money, while some public school children here in Livonia attend only half day classes.

Persons interested in helping the Citizens Against Parochiaid petition drive are urged to call its chairman, Robert F. Swanson, 31036 Grennada,

A nagging "dog problem" was laid on the council table again Monday night as Echo Valley subdivision residents complained about an alleged ordinance violation.

At issue is the citizens' charge that Noah Tessner of 47665 10 Mile Road is illegally keeping numerous dogs on his property that are continually creating a nuisance by their barking.

Tessner lost in his encounter with the board of appeals in seeking permission for a kennel and, in carrying his fight to the circuit court, again found himself on the losing end of the battle as the court supported the board's decision.

However, according to Echo Valley citizens Tessner continues to house dogs on his property in direct violation of the city ordinance. A subdivision association member requested direction. must citizens themselves launch a civil suit against Tessner or is the city responsible to enforce the ordinance?

120th Michigan State Fair Offers Fun for Old, Young

For young and old and in-between, the 120th Michigan State Fair will offer the biggest bargain of the year in educational, agricultural and industrial exhibits plus a tremendous free entertainment program for all fair-goers.

The State Fair gets under way Friday at 8 a.m. and runs for 11 days through Monday, Sept. 1. E.J. (Jeff) Keirns, the State Fair general manager, said attendance is expected to top the million mark.

Variety is the spice of life for fair-goers. Competing for attention will be big-name entertainment stars and baby lambs, lively music and prize cakes, pie-eating kids and go-go

The theme of this year's fair is "Consumer Meets Producer," the third year it has been used. It simply means that the State Fair gives city dwellers a good chance to get acquainted with the work of his country cousins - those who put the meat on his table and the wool on his back.

Twenty-two exhibits will be built directly around this theme, stressing better knowledge for the consumer.

In addition, of course, visitors will visit a record number of exhibits of prize livestock and agricultural products., On display, from Michigan farms will be the best in cattle, horses, sheep, swine, poultry, pigeons, and rabbits, plus exhibits of grains, vegetables, nuts, honey, and fruits.

Industrial, business, and governmental exhibits will feature various products and information.

In the Community Arts Building, the state's homemakers, hobbyists, and artists will show their prize work. Baked and canned goods, needlework, and flowers will be on display, as will a record number of paintings and sculptures from both amateur and professional artists.

Auditorium programs and exhibit ... hall demonstrations will center around fashions, foods, and how-to-do-it; information.

All exhibits and programs are free to the fair visitors.

Also free are the 15 horse shows in the Coliseum. Always crowd-pleasers, they will feature quarter-horses and Palominos Aug. 22-24; Arabians, Morgans, and big draft horses Aug. 25-28; and ponies, Appaloosas, saddlebreds, and Tennessee walkers Aug. 29 - Sept. 1.

Arthur Godfrey, the television and radio star, will perform Aug. 29-31 at the horse shows with his trained Palomino, Goldie. Featured at all the horse shows will be the drill team of the Detroit Mounted Police.

Horses also will be in the spotlight at 10 a.m. Aug. 29 and 30 in front of the Grandstand, as the pony pulling and draft horse pulling contests are

In the Music Shell, an all-star lineup of entertainment programs is set - all free.

Appearing from Aug. 22 through Aug. 25 will be Al Hirt and his band. He's considered America's greatest jazz

Is New Bible Needed?

Rev. Arnold B. Cook First Baptist Church of Novi

A person once said to me: timeless and changeless fact that "Don't you think our changing age necessitates a new religion - a new Bible?"

This question reflects the attitude and thinking so prevalent in our society, and many within the church, clerics and laymen alike, are responding to this question by promoting radical changes and departures from the historic and traditional worship: and doctrine, to a religious frenzy which bears more the character of a nightclub atmosphere, than it does to a house of worship. The defense of those making the change is as feeble and wasted as an attempt to irrigate the great Sahara with a spoonful of water.

Surely our age has changed; more dramatically than 'all the centuries which preceded it, but the truth of Christianity is a needs no alteration. Christ is the crux of Christianity, and the Bible declares that "He is the same, yesterday, today and forever.' Since He is the Eternal One, circumstances of one generation do not affect Him one way or the other. He would declare the same truth, make the same demands. insist on the same loyalties to our generation as He did to the one of the first century. Yet, some feel that our age is deserving of some divine favoritism, some Christ-concession; and so our spoiled and pampered age insists that God, like government bow to the demands of the people. But what kind of a God would this be, who yielded to the whining of a sinful society? Is this the type of a deity we want? I hardly think so. Psychiatrists are telling parents that their children may plead and beg and insist on having their own way, but they really want firmness; they want someone to say no, and mean it.

How then can churches and ministers give in to the spoiled, infant-like demands of the violent, the irreligious, the mockers and the radicals, and seek to change the historic worship and faith, for a mess of the worlds pottage? This is twentiety-century Jacob selling the spiritual birthright.

Christ is the same in His person and attributes. He is the same in His teaching and demands. He is the same in His compassion and entreaty, "who will have all men to be saved and to come unto the knowledge of the truth."

"Change and decay in all around I see; O Thou who changest not, abide with me."

What makes them

where you can be sure of seeing happy

In our experience there is one place

It isn't the bank-though certainly we have great respect for our banks. There people look intent, busy, serious with the financial responsibilities of life.

Nor is it at the ball game. There is no joy in Mudville when mighty Casey strikes out.

But when you go to church you see so many happy faces! It is as though people had left their troubles behind them . . . their fears . . . their worries . . . their little sadnesses and great sorrows.

Yet we know that no one can really leave these behind him. They are part of our life-and our life goes with us

But church is a place where men come to share their burdens with Someone Else . . . someone who cares . . . who helps

And this kind of sharing-between man and God - has always been the Releases are a genre unto themselves, usually possessing the following characteristics: Prosaie prose, a strong emphasis on one side and one side only, frequent use of descriptive superlatives, a heavy sprinkling of editorial comment and high quality paper (except for military releases).

Approximately 10,000 releases a year pour across the desk of a weekly newspaper editor and most of the PR pap is pitched into the waste basket. But each release is given at least cursory inspection for pertinent information that can be molded into a story of local interest.

Conspicuous in the release landslide over the past four years have been letters condemning cigarettes, many times linking cigarette smoking with lung cancer and other deletorious, if not fatal,

The other day, however, two small booklets appeared in a stack of releases. Printed by the American Tobacco Company, they presented "The Other Side of the Cigarette Controversy.' Another snow job? Perhaps. But if there was another side (most Americans are convinced there isn't. even the smokers), I would like to know about it. At least the booklets would prove amusing.

They weren't. The two booklets were downright disconcerning. One presented excerpts from testimony and statements presented to the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign 'Commerce in April and May of 1969. The other advanced the separate views of Congressman Richardson Preyer, included in a report put out by the same U.S. committee.

"Not a single witness for the anti-smoking forces testified to any research which he himself had done," Preyer stated, "while over 20 witnesses testified in person or by written statement that their own research cast serious doubts on the theory that cigarettes cause disease."

"The evidence in the recent hearings cries out for a reevaluation or a reopening of the Surgeon General's Report of 1964," Preyer states, referring to the government report that linked cigarette smoking with cancer.

Preyer challenged the commonly held view that heavy cigarette smoking shortens a person's life by eight years, claiming the person who issued the statement for the American Cancer Society would not testify and refused to disclose the raw data used in his studies.

Preyer, however, is from North Carolina, a major tobacco producing state. Obviously, his statements can be questioned, although he approached the hearings "determined to see that tobacco got a fair hearing."

But the "excerpts" from experts who appeared at the hearing is something else again. Each one holds an M.D., Ph.D, or both, or an M.A.

"The cause of cancer in humans, including the cause of cancer of the lung, is unknown. No amount of speculation, no amount of suspicion, no amount of repetition of now familar findings and no amount of emotion can alter this fact," says one M.D.

"What would happen if we suddenly abolished all cigarettes tomorrow? I would predict that the cessation of all cigarette smoking would have no significant affect on our death rates from lung cancer, heart attacks, emphysema and most other diseases allegedly caused by cigarette smoking," says an M.D.-Ph.D.

Another M.D. testified; ".. We need to ask ourselves why the millions of dollars spent in cigarette research has failed to unearth the secrets of their prevention. The answer lies, I think, in the self-evident fact-though it has tended to become buried in the growing avalanche of statistics-that cancer and heart disease are biological phenomena."

"...in Great Britain the per capita consumption of cigarettes is half as much as in the United States but the incidence of lung cancer is twice as much. In Australia, the per capita consumption of cigarettes is about the same as Great Britain, yet Australians have half as much lung cancer. In Holland the per capita consumption of cigarettes is lower than in the United States, but there is 33 per cent more lung cancer," states a Ph.D.

It makes you wonder...

Oil Slick Solution Sought

took note of the dangers presented by the spilling of huge amounts of oil on the oceans several years ago when the oil tanker "Torrey Canyon" split in two off the coast of England.

The southern beaches of the island nation, normally great tourist attractions, were covered with the sticky, gooey crude oil which spilled from the ship and were made unusable. The beaches still have not returned to normal because the detergents used to disperse the oil killed off the plant life which the oil didn't.

Then, last winter, the problem came closer to home when an oil well off the coast of California sprung a leak and the portions of the coastline were covered with oil. They, too, were made unusable.

In both instances the oil eventually dispersed, and it is hoped the beaches will return to normal.

But what would happen, if a similar accident occurred in a closed, fresh water body? The oil would have no place to disperse.

This question was raised publicly recently when an oil slick was discovered on Lake Erie. The slick dissipated quickly, but the question remained: what should be done about the problem?

To the state of Michigan, which is almost surrounded by water, the question is a vital one.

Gov. William G. Milliken thinks he has the answer to at least part of the problem, and he's going to ask for help from the National Governor's Conference at its September meeting in Denver.

Milliken's solution is simple: just stop all drilling of oil and gas wells on fresh water bodies.

'The threat, 'no matter how remote, of an accidental-loss of oil from drilling operation in fresh water is such that authorization of new or continued drilling is without justification," says a resolution he has drawn up to present to the conference.

"The value" of the nation's fresh waters are of a magnitude which makes mandatory their protection," the statement says. "It is not possible to devise a drilling system which will absolutely prevent accidents.

"In the best interests of the nation's natural resources, oil and gas drilling should not be permitted in fresh water."

THE GOVERNOR expects to have some opposition to his attempt. Some of it will come from the state of New York, he says, since that state now allows drilling in fresh water.

But he says he'll continue working in an attempt to get the drilling stopped.

Milliken says "the report of the oil slick on Lake Erie is LANSING - The world first another indication of the dangers of pollution.

"We'd just better be on top of that and take the steps now before it's too late," he warns.

It remains to be seen how many of his fellow governors will agree with him.

WHILE MANY factors are responsible for the rising number of traffic deaths in the state and country, the most apparent cause seems to be the increase in the number of miles traveled in motor vehicles.

While the total number of highway deaths in Michigan rose 73 per cent over the past 11 years, the deaths per 100 million vehicle miles rose only 6 per cent.

State Police records show 1,382 persons died in 1958 on Michigan streets and highways and that the total had risen to 2,388 per year by last year. But the number of deaths per 100 million miles driven had risen only .27 over the 11 year period, from 4.70 per 100 million miles in 1958 to 4.92 last year.

The rate of deaths per mile actually dropped in comparison to some years. The worst year was 1965, when 5.49 deaths were recorded for every 100 million miles driven. ******

of Natural Resources released some information which included the statement that queen bees are harmless.

The release said it is safe to hold a queen bee in your hand since they only use their stings on other queen bees.

Now, if they'd furnish us with information on how the layman can immediately distinguish between a queen bee and a regular one without waiting to see whether it stings.....

Police Offer Guidance

A guidance program for teenage boys, many of them fatherless and facing the tough problem of growing up, is getting a helping hand from the Michigan State Police.

In cooperation with the Family Service Agency of Lansing, the State Police Training Division hosts two groups of boys ranging in age from 12 to 15 years twice weekly at the East Lansing Headquarters. Troopers play an important role in the program, allowing the boys to relate to enforcement authority on a personal basis.

, Planned program schedules at police headquarters include swimming, field trips and d'emonstrations of police activity. The youths are given the opportunity to see tracking dogs in action, watch firearms safety and tour the compound buildings.

The seven week program, emphasizing police services, is being supervised by Trooper Ritchie T. Davis of police Rersonnel Division and Corporal LeRoy Fladseth of Training Division. Jack Sattler, case worker assigned to the Family Service Agency, directs the cooperative program.

Fair Plans Hearing Test

Michigan State Fair patrons will have the opportunity to receive free hearing tests for the tenth consecutive year.

From August 22 through September 1, the Detroit Hearing & Speech Center in cooperation with the Michigan Association for Better Hearing & Speech will conduct the screening in a mobile trailer located at the southwest corner of White Hall.

Since early detection leads to sarly correction, "Mr. Raymond F. Lindahl, 'executive director of the Center, urges Fair patrons to stop in for a free test. He noted that of the 2837 individuals tested last year, 631 (22 percent) had some hearing loss. There was a 30 percent failure among the men whereas only 15 percent of the women failed.
