IF IT'S NEWS...AND IT HAPPENS IN NORTHVILLE...YOU CAN READ IT IN THE RECORD

Vol. 100, No. 16, 24 Pages, Two Sections • Northville, Michigan — Thursday, August 28, 1969 • 15¢ Per Copy, $5 Per Year In Advance

SIXTH GRADERS in Northville have "lucked out" when public schools reopen on Thursday, September 4. Only half-day classes will be held for them that day, Principal Ronald Horwath announced this week. Purpose of shortened classes, he explained, is to provide an orientation for both pupils and teachers in their new surroundings at Cooke Annex—the old junior high school. Students will assemble at 8 a.m. in the school gymnasium on the basement level. From there they'll go to their assigned classes and become familiarized with the building and new procedures. First day classes will end at 11 a.m. But a full day's schedule of classes is planned the following day.

THE CITY of Northville has purchased property at 119 West Cady street from the estate of Maude Hollis. The house, already removed, had been declared unsafe for occupancy. Sale price was $8500. The site will be retained by the city for future development, probably commercial.

A FIRE that all but destroyed a railroad trestle on a spur to the Northville State Hospital Sunday night is under investigation by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. Vandals are suspected. Northville firemen battled the stubborn blaze, which damaged ties and piling, for 2½ hours. The damage, estimated at $4,000 by one source, has necessitated the closure of the spur along which coal was transported to the hospital's powerhouse.

School to Accept Non-Paying Pupils

By a vote of 4-2, school will open September 4 for all students in Northville — including the 24 living on tax-exempt property.

The vote came Monday night after a heated discussion split the board into two sides. Andrew Orphan and Richard Martin cast the dissenting votes, saying the students should be required to pay tuition.

Orphan argued that since the state is not supporting the school district by paying the students' tuition, the board has the right to charge the 24 tuition.

The total tuition bill probably would have come to $12,000, with about $500 charged per student.

Martin said, "We have a direct obligation to the taxpayers to stand firm on our position and look out for the tax dollars of the tax payers."

He urged the board to seek justification from the state for tuition and "let the case be decided in court on its merits."

Martin said he felt some of the board members "had been duly influenced by the letter" from the State Department of Education threatening the district with loss of state aid if the 24 were not admitted tuition-free.

Stanley Johnston, who made the motion to admit the students without charge, said he "was not influenced by the threat."

Early Copy

Deadline for classified advertising copy for next week's newspaper has been moved up to noon Saturday because of the Labor Day holiday on Monday.

News and all other advertising copy should be submitted no later than 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Offices of The Northville Record, The Novi News, The South Lyon Herald, and The Brighton Argus will be closed on Monday.

A quirk in state law may force establishment of two separate building authorities if the city and the township are to buy a portion of Maybury Sanatorium property.

Officials have learned from their bonding attorneys, Miller Canfield Paddock & Stone, that state law governing townships does not specifically permit them to join with cities in establishment of an authority and hence are unable to do so. However, the law does provide that a township may establish its own building authority.

Based on the attorneys' finding, City Manager Frank Ollendorff has suggested that the city and township establish separate authorities. The two authorities would be independent at the outset but would have the common goal of purchasing recreational land. An attempt to amend the law then can be made, thus possibly permitting a merger of the two authorities at a later date, he said.

A special meeting of the Northville Township Board, which earlier voted to join with the city in purchasing property for recreation purposes, will be held tonight to discuss the bonding attorneys' finding and Ollendorff's alternate suggestion.

Meanwhile, school board members Monday night added impetus to the proposed local purchase of Maybury property with the adoption of a resolution offering the school district's backing. The resolution, however, does not call for school purchase, either separately or jointly, of such property.

Last week, the city and township presented a formal offer to Detroit to purchase either 443 acres or 466 acres of the 900-acre site located between Seven and Eight Mile roads, west of Beck Road. The offer was put at $2,800 per acre — less than the asking price. (Detroit Common Council provided for sale of the entire 900 acres at a minimum total price of $3 million).

The offer suggests that Detroit sell the city and township either 443 acres excluding six residences on the eastern edge of the property or 466 acres including these six homes with the clear understanding that Northville can sell the homes and the land on which they stand.

The property sought by the local bodies includes a large building complex that had been unused for a number of years. The land extends from Beck Road west to the children's unit but does not include the latter building complex.

Detroit City Controller Bernard Klein told The Record his initial reaction to the joint purchase proposal "was generally favorable." He said he was surprised that Northville asked for "that much land." Local officials can expect an answer from Detroit within three or four weeks, he said, noting that he (Klein) is "just as anxious to get this resolved as anyone, particularly since I step down in January."

During last week's meeting with Klein, school officials asked if some kind of covenant could be attached to the sale of the remaining Maybury property, providing for free school sites by the eventual developer. If this

10 Developers Seek Property

"About eight or 10 private developers have voiced interest" in purchase of the Maybury Sanatorium property, Detroit Controller Bernard Klein told The Record Tuesday.

All or portions of the property, he said, may be sold to one or more of these developers. He did not reveal their names.

Once a recommendation has been made by the Detroit Surplus Property Committee to sell all or parts of the property to private developers and/or Northville municipalities, the Detroit Common Council must then make the final decision. Klein serves as chairman of this committee.

suggestion is not possible, Klein was told the school district is prepared to purchase a minimum of 50 acres — thus boasting the total acreage sought locally to about 500 acres.

"I gave them (school officials) neither a yes or no answer," said Klein, "but told them we would look into it. Personally, though, I doubt if we can make such a requirement of a developer. Maybe he (the developer) could purchase the land and then on his own offer to give the school a site."

According to Superintendent Raymond Spear, it is difficult to determine how much property the school might need until it has some indication of what the buyer of the remaining 450 acres planned to do with it. But the school board, he said, is prepared to buy up to 50 or 60 acres if necessary. "Our problem," he said, "is where we'll get the money."

While Detroit considers Northville's purchase proposal, city officials are stepping up their investigation into the possibility of acquiring some of the state's recently voted recreational grant money for development of the Maybury property if it is indeed acquired. Federal grant monies also are being considered.

Ollendorff has explained that Detroit's insistence in selling Maybury property this year means there is no possibility that state or federal monies could be obtained in time for use in purchase of the land. Federal and state red tape in obtaining funds may take up to a year or more of time, far longer than Detroit is prepared to wait. However, application for development monies could be made now, he explained, since there is no real urgency in this area.

Cat Escapes, Girl Faces Rabies Shots

An eight-year-old Northville girl faces a series of 14 painful anti-rabies shots unless a stray cat that bit her is found by next Tuesday.

Bitten Monday morning was Ann Taylor of 902 Ely Court.

Northville police urged area residents to call them (FI 9-1280) immediately if the animal — grayish-white "tiger" cat is spotted. Police described it as a "large but thin skittish animal." It has a white tip on its tail.

Attempts to catch the cat by police, who used a dart gun and mace, were unsuccessful Monday but Tuesday morning they managed to capture it. However, in transferring it from the patrol car to a cage at Dr. Thomas Heslip's clinic, corner of Seven Mile and Napier roads, the animal escaped.

The cat was last seen running into a field south of the clinic.

'Not Assuming Role' -Clergy

Parents Failing Kids?

Area clergymen, responding to a survey by The News on sex education in public schools, have generally issued an appeal for parents to assume more responsibility in preparing their children for better understanding.

The pastors all emphasized a priority for parents to exert their influence on the subject while one condemned the thought of a program in public schools claiming it "will lead to stimulation, and stimulation to experimentation."

One clergyman proposed "a joint effort on the part of school, home and church" while another, also explaining that he was speaking as a father, too, described sex education in schools as "only another step toward destroying the moral foundation of our children."

The proposal of expanding sex education in public schools is one which has recently become controversial throughout the state. Neither Novi nor Northville currently have a sex education program in their curricula and neither is contemplating one for the immediate future.

Elsewhere in the area, Brighton has abandoned a pilot program in sex education after one year and South Lyon, like Novi and Northville, is maintaining basic instruction in its existing health and science classes.

"It's the parents right to say what we teach; it's the educator's right to say how," Northville Public Schools' Superintendent Raymond Spear observed, apparently expressing sentiments of other area administrators.

And while parents are in the process of deciding whether sex education, specifically, should be taught, the clergy has responded offering its opinions and reasonings.

Planners Urge Rezoning For New Supermarket

Commercial zoning to permit construction of a Chatham company supermarket on North Center street was recommended Tuesday night by the city of Northville planning commission by a 7-1 vote.

The request now goes to the city council and another public hearing, probably in mid-September.

Specifically, the petition for rezoning asked that some 116,000 square feet on the west side on North Center street, opposite C.R. Ely & Sons, be rezoned from residential to commercial.

The property is under option to Chatham Food Centers, which has its headquarters in Warren. Company officials have announced plans to build a 21,000 square foot supermarket on the site next spring providing rezoning and site plan approval is acquired.

Several residents of the area attended Tuesday night's public hearing before the planning commission to object. Most were longtime residents of the area and protested to expansion of the commercial district on the basis it would be a nuisance and a detriment to their residential property values.

A Chatham representative attempted to answer some of the complaints including a suggestion that deliveries to the store be made during daylight hours and that proper greenbelting and walls be built around three sides of the proposed facility.

He said the company had chosen the site because it was located near the central business district on a highly travelled street and provided sufficient area at a price that was economically feasible.

A report from Waring and Johnson, city planning consultants, favored the rezoning, but recommended that three lots south of the site on the same side of Center street should also be rezoned commercial. If the city council approves the Chatham rezoning, it is probable that the planning commission will propose the three-lot parcel rezoning at a later date.

The consultants' report also called for widening of Center street from the existing 31 feet to 43 feet in front of the proposed development. It also proposed a masonry wall along both side lot lines and at the rear to screen adjoining properties.

It was noted that site plan and architectural approval must be gained after rezoning is accomplished and before a building permit is issued.

A letter from the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce signed by its president, Gerald Stone, was read favoring the rezoning.

"With the anticipated growth in this area, there is an absolute necessity for a store of this nature in the downtown district, which would

Russia Disappoints Exchange Student

Life in Russia isn't all vodka and caviar; it isn't even a good wad of gum. To an 18-year-old Northville exchange student, Peggy Tiliikka, it's "drab, cloudy clothes, kids and adults willing to pay about $10 for one piece of (gum) and who want to buy your clothes, shoes, records, everything."

Peggy, who has been living in Hanko, Finland this summer awaiting a year of schooling in that country under the Youth for Understanding exchange program, recently returned to Finland after a brief visit to Russia. She accompanied members of the Youth for Understanding Chorale to Leningrad.

Writing to her parents of the visit, Peggy explained, "You know how I am, that I always have to give something or someone the benefit of the doubt until it's proven to me otherwise. Well, that's what happened with USSR Communism."

Leningrad, she said, "had a lot of beautiful fountains, statues, buildings, etc. — the things you see on tours, but they don't take you anywhere else. But they can't hide the four million people who live there."

She continued: "Black market is a big business in Leningrad and Western ideas, like gum, are forbidden. Life is pretty miserable for the workers; one bathroom and icebox for 20 families. In general, the whole city is dirty and smells. The water in the hotel was even brown. We stopped in Vyborg (Viipuri), a town that belonged to Finland before the war and that was modern, cosmopolitan—second only to Helsinki. Now it's all so dirty, rundown, etc. They haven't yet cleaned most of the rubble from the bombings..."

"Russian (border) customs are really something else. I watched them nearly completely dismantle cars, seats out, floors up, etc. but they were pretty good with us..."

Of her hotel in Leningrad, Peggy noted that "there's a radio you can't turn off (only one volume) and can't change the station or unplug or even take out of the cabinet, which I'm sure is used as a 'bug'." She said her room was checked whenever she was out.

Peggy, whose parents live here at 20300 Westview, graduated from Northville High School last June. A week later she flew to Finland as one of the Michigan students chosen to participate in the "13th year program" in Europe.

She has been living with the Aarne Manner family but soon will be moving in with her "winter family", perhaps at Helsinki, when she begins school.

Family Marks 2nd Wedding August 23

Weddings have been running in the family of the William Massons this summer.

On July 19 in Naperville, Illinois, their son, Robert Forester Masson, claimed Sherri Case as his bride in a ceremony at Wesley United Methodist Church.

The Masson's daughter, Lucinda Ann, became the bride of James Robert Allison on Saturday, August 23, at a 6:30 p.m. ceremony at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Allison, of Mansfield Avenue, Detroit.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Empire-waisted, Edwardian gown of lace-encrusted white silk organza. An elbow-length lace veil was secured to a flat silk bow and she carried a cascade arrangement of white miniature carnations and Stephanotis.

Debra Masson was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Robert F. Masson was the matron of honor. Janet Allison, sister of the bridegroom, served as a bridesmaid, along with Sue Sweet, Mrs. Michael Ray of Madison Heights, and Sharon Vincent of Mount Clemens.

The honor attendants' frocks were daisy-trimmed yellow organza and the bridesmaids' were identically styled in avocado green. The girls carried loose arrangements of daisies, miniature yellow carnations and shattered gladioli.

Mrs. Masson wore a yellow frock, embossed in a daisy motif and topped with a sheer matching coat, for her daughter's wedding and the reception which followed in the church social rooms.

Mrs. Allison's coat dress costume was done in turquoise silk and lace. Both women pinned a single orchid to their purse.

The bridal couple, both of whom were members of the June graduating class at Alma College, left after the reception for a wedding trip to Stratford, Ontario. Upon their return they will move into a newly-constructed apartment in Woodhaven.

Annual Bridge Marathon's About to Start

The seventh annual bridge marathon, sponsored by the Northville Mother's Club, will get under way in September, a spokesman has announced. However there are still openings for any bridge players who wish to sign up for the 1969-70 season.

Games will be played from September through May with prizes awarded at the end of the session. At each game the hostess will collect $1 per person which will be sent to a prescribed chairman along with the records. Proceeds will go towards various school funds and the Cavern Teen Club.

All players who sign up will be sent a scoring table, bridge marathon rules and a schedule by the second week in September, it was explained. To facilitate the distribution of this data, it is important that all interested people register by August 31.

A special call goes out to anyone interested in a woman's night group, since this category is slightly short of players, the spokesman added.

Interested persons are asked to contact the following persons to register: Mrs. Betty Mathews, 349-1745, all daytime women's groups; Mrs. Rae Deibert, 349-0285, all couples night groups; Mrs. Betty Hoffman, 349-1092, all night women's groups; Mrs. Carol Couse, 349-3069, all duplicate groups.

Mrs. Gwen Märburger is chairman of the marathon. She will answer any questions if the other women can not be reached. She may be reached at 349-0524.

It Keeps Mother Out of Bar

Junker's A Free Lance Writer

SALLY BURKE

Few women would be thrilled with the gift of an electric typewriter, but Elsie Price is. In fact, she has two electric typewriters.

Elsie is Northville's free lance writer. She also is a wife, mother of a seventh grader, membership chairman of the Detroit Women Writers, and a junker.

A junker? "That's a collector of 'used collectables', not antiques," Elsie explained.

A vivacious woman barely past 40, Elsie has the figure of a college girl and makes a point of keeping up with the world, its moods, views and every heartbeat.

Elsie's junking "started when we bought a big home in Northville and had nothing to put in it."

So she attended auctions, garage and rummage sales, collecting that which others wanted to part with.

There was a period Elsie refers to as her "religious renaissance theme" when four church pews formed a conversational grouping in the living room. Of course Elsie acquired an organ and a set of old hymnals then too.

ELSIE PRICE

But useable collectables must be functional or they become junk. When the Prices moved to Kings Mill a few months ago, the church pews didn't. There was no room for them.

For $200 she bought a 12-piece, hand crafted, set of living room furniture. The original drawings of the pieces came with it.

Now a beautiful warm brown, the oak furniture was "black when we brought it home. I can't tell you how many cases of Les-toil we used on it."

But after the first pieces turned out so well, Elsie's husband Harold, "commissioned me to go back and get the rest."

Space is a big factor in being a junker. "There is a limit to what one can acquire," Elsie said. "A junker just keeps on consuming, but you have to sell off as you find more things."

Her best find? An 1868 black silver Episcopalian chalice she purchased for $12. Elsie said it was so dirty and dusty when she took it off the shelf, "I was surprised when I saw the date."

Her junking played a big part in getting her started as a feature writer. While in Cleveland, Ohio, she came across the complete library of a former free lance writer.

She bought the library and began reading the books.

Three years ago she started her writing career. Elsie has written 75 short stories, many of which have been published in The Detroit News, National Observer and various small religious publications. She has also done commercial and ghost writing.

She has written three novels, so far unpublished. The novels, along with her unpublished short stories are kept in continuous circulation, going from one magazine editor to another. Sooner or later the articles meet with an editor who is looking for Elsie's type of material.

Elsie's writing interest centers around the American woman "who has not made a botch of her life; a woman with powerful personality; a woman apart from the mother-wife role."

Her short stories are written in the first person, often using other's experiences for her own.

"The highest compliment I was ever paid came after writing a story for The Detroit News about 'my' success at dieting."

One of my best friends came up to me shortly after it appeared in the paper and remarked, 'Why Elsie, I never knew you were fat!' And I had written about my friend's experience."

Whenever there is a man in her writing, she names him Harold, and whenever a boy appears, his name is Keith, that of her 12-year-old son.

"It allows the readers to relate the story to something real and makes it much more believable."

The characters carry the names of the two men in her life, but never their personalities.

Elsie said she leads a rather well organized life, but once in awhile she gets wrapped up in her work that she loses all track of time.

"Then Harold and Keith come home for dinner when I haven't even started it yet."

How does hubby react?

"He always tells Keith, 'Remember son, it keeps mother out of the bars!'"

Elsie said the most exciting change she has seen in writing over the past few years is "the marriage of fiction to the article. The article is using all the devices of fiction."

Elsie pointed out the recent articles on the Ann Arbor murders read like a mystery novel.

She enjoys the essay as a form of writing. "The essay is big now and is going to get bigger."

William Buckley, Jr., and Gore Vidal are the best essayists, as Elsie sees it, though she states she is not in agreement with them politically.

Her own experience in politics, campaigning for a seat on the Northville School Board, played an important part in what she writes.

"After I lost three elections I realized that what I believed in was not the problem, but my presentation failed. I had gained the support of the men voters but made the women voters uneasy. Through writing I have made friends of women in general."

Elsie loves to talk and enjoys speaking to groups. September 23 she is booked to be the guest speaker at the opening meeting of the Women's City Club of Detroit.

The subject? Junking. "Too many people think creativity must be confined to the trained arts," she said. "I'm trying to show them it does not have to be."

ONLY A SAMPLE of the results of junking, this old wooden ironing board doubles as a table for Elsie Price. On the right side, wooden "fingers" fan out to provide ready-made hangers. Does Elsie really use it for ironing? "Of course," was the answer she gave.

Helping Hands

With the approach of a new school year, the Northville Jaycettes are making another effort in their drive to attract volunteer mothers to act as Helping Hands.

The purpose of the Helping Hands is four-fold, according to Mrs. Geri Fowkes, spokesman for the Jaycettes. They offer assistance to any child who is lost, injured, bullied or threatened by a molester. When in trouble, children in the public schools have been instructed to go to a home displaying the sign of a Helping Hand.

All volunteers are carefully checked before becoming a Helping Hand, Mrs. Fowkes continued. The volunteer is requested to fill out an application which is then screened by the Jaycettes with the help of the Northville Police Department. Once a volunteer has been selected she remains a Helping Hand during the duration of her stay in Northville.

Helping Hands are guided by ten simple rules which advise them against feeding, transporting or administering first aid to a child. They are instructed not to break up fights or give medical attention, only to bring the situation to the attention of the proper authorities and the parents.

Children are instructed not to use volunteers' homes merely as toilet facilities.

Any woman who would like to volunteer her services as a Helping Hand is invited to call Mrs. Geri Fowkes, 349-5694.

News Around Northville

James Lee of 302 Pennell was scheduled to undergo surgery yesterday at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. A Northville resident for the past 33 years, he is presently employed at Rathbun Chevrolet.

Miss Dona Goodfellow of 7600 Curtis Road, Northville recently visited the state-owned Ringling Museums while vacationing on Florida's lower west coast.

The Ringling Museums are the foremost cultural center in southeastern United States. Situated on 168 tropically landscaped acres in Sarasota, they were a gift of John Ringling to the state.

An outdoor cookout for 10 people was held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Davis, 719 West Main Street. Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beerbower, former residents of Northville who returned briefly for a visit last week.

The Beerbowers, who moved to Dayton, Ohio five years ago, returned Thursday for a visit with their two daughters, Jody and Joyce. They returned home Sunday night.

Dr. and Mrs. L.R. Howard and their children have returned to Northville from Japan and are visiting now with Mrs. Howard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Funk of 845 Grace Street. Mrs. Howard is the former Marilyn Funk.

Last weekend her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Funk of Mequon, Wisconsin, joined the families for the weekend.

A paper drive, to be held the first week of October, has been slated by the Parent Teacher League of St. Paul's Lutheran School. A spokesman for the group urged Northville residents to begin saving paper now, adding that details of the drive would be announced in the near future.

COOPERATIVE EDUCATION is getting its first try in Novi this summer. Students enrolled in the program earn credit as well as wages for the work they do. # Education to Get Major Billing When State Legislature Reconvenes

LANSING — Not too long ago, the topic of education was a somewhat dull one to throw into a conversation.

Most persons accepted it as a necessity for their children; viewed school teachers as being a little bit smarter than themselves and rather milk-toast type individuals. Schools taught the "three r's," and their operation was totally a local thing.

But in just a few years, the entire field changed so that it would appear strange to someone suddenly thrust into today's educational picture from the one existing 10 or 15 years ago.

Teachers have proven they can be decidedly nonmilk-toast types who will go on strike if they think it's necessary. The state Department of Education has taken an ever increasing role in developing educational programs. And the Legislature is getting more and more into the picture.

THIS FALL, the Legislature will take its most concentrated look yet into education. Lawmakers will convene Oct. 6 and for one week will deal with business left from the session which adjourned in July.

But from Oct. 13 on, the only subject up for discussion will be education. And a great deal of the discussion of education will deal with the financing of it.

Property owners have grown more and more dissatisfied in recent years over the property tax loads they carry. The state, in an effort to alleviate this load, has entered more and more into the financing of education.

For the current fiscal year, the state is pumping $800 million back to local school districts to help them pay their bills. And the districts say that still isn't enough.

WHEN THE SESSION begins, the lawmakers will receive a set of recommendations from Gov. William G. Milliken. The recommendations are being drawn up now by the Governor, who is working with his staff and with a Commission on Educational Reform which he appointed to examine Michigan's total education picture.

The commission recently finished a series of three public hearings in which it took testimony from more than 120 persons. It has been digesting this information and attempting to distill it into a program which the Governor can agree with.

Two issues seemed to pop up the most in the three hearings:

property tax relief and state aid to parochial schools.

TAX RELIEF proposals ranged from mild reform of the property tax to outright abolition.

Whatever he decides, the Governor will have to include recommendations in this area in his message to the Legislature. Most observers now are betting on an increase in the state income tax to provide the added income needed.

Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee Harry De Maso, however, is conducting a study into tax loopholes which exist and says he could raise the money needed merely by closing loopholes. The lawmakers are sure to give quite a bit of attention to a proposal which could increase revenues while leaving existing tax rates as they are.

PAROCHIAL generated a great deal of heat during the recently completed session and is sure to create more this fall and winter.

Parochial schools have been hit hard by rising costs and are, in some areas, in danger of being forced to close.

Parochial school backers see state aid to private schools as the "Promised Land" which can save their schools. They say it actually is cheaper for the state to help parochial schools because if the schools close, the state will have to foot all of the cost of educating the students.

OPPOSITION view with alarm any thought of providing state aid to parochial schools. The most frequent argument is that it constitutes a violation of the principle of separation of church and state.

It is not a dull topic anymore. There is also much concern about where the parochial road could lead us. Since "religious" groups are difficult to define, it is possible that many sects, racial or even crackpot groups could spring up to demand funds under any aid law which might be passed.

Then there are those who oppose parochial because of their conviction that the state should accept the direct responsibility to educate all its children.

Parochial backers lost their attempt to begin state aid to parochial schools last spring in the Legislature, but they have promised to renew it.

That in itself should insure more heated debate in the Legislature.

Babson Report

Mergers, Diversifications Top Finance Industry Developments

BABSON'S REPORTS, Wellesley Hills, Mass. — The most important recent developments in the finance industry have been mergers and the increased emphasis on diversification. In 1968 several finance companies were taken over by large unrelated firms. For example, Avco Corp. acquired Seaboard Finance and Gulf & Western took control of Associates Investment.

The finance companies themselves, of course, have not been ignoring the benefits of diversification. For instance, Beneficial Finance in recent years acquired both Western Auto and Spiegel, thereby broadening its earnings base. Household Finance plans to acquire National Car Rental and Von's Groceries to go along with previous diversification in manufacturing and leisure-time industries.

Although mergers and acquisitions have proven to be favorable developments for many finance companies in the past, there may be some slowdown in this area, at least temporarily, due to current pressures from the Federal Government and the SEC. But we expect that finance companies will still continue their diversification efforts, both through internal means and by acquiring unrelated firms.

AT THE MOMENT the biggest drawbacks would appear to be the anti-inflationary forces now at work. This includes especially the current soaring interest rates and high taxes. Small loan companies particularly are feeling the squeeze on profits — a situation which is likely to continue, at least over the near term. Whether the small loan companies use bank borrowings or float bonds, interest rates, which are the highest in a century, make their product (money) very expensive. However, there are some indications that interest rates have reached their peak and may soon begin a downward movement.

The proposed new tax legislation will place an added burden on earnings because it will eliminate the multiple corporate structure that the finance companies presently use for tax purposes. The truth-in-lending regulations thus far have had a very limited impact on the small loan companies. People are still basically interested in how much it is going to cost them in installment payments each month and not what their total interest charges will be.

In recent years the competition in the field of lending money has been increasing rapidly. Much of this has been coming from banks, which have been greatly expanding their activities, particularly in the small loan field. Banks, having learned from previous mistakes, have hired competent people (oftentimes from finance companies) who have the know-how in this field. As a result, they are now getting more and more of the better loans, leaving the poorer risks for the finance companies. In the future we expect that banks will continue to expand aggressively in the lucrative small loan field.

DESPITE the aforementioned negative elements in the area of small loans, there are still plenty of bright spots. Personal income has been growing at an extremely rapid pace and should continue at a high level for the foreseeable future. Statistics prove that when the consumer is affluent, the level of borrowing is high.

Population trends and family formations are two very important plus factors as far as small loan companies are concerned. The use of credit is a way of life with the bulk of the population. The loan companies are developing new forms and methods of consumer lending.

Graciousness, Comfort Key To This Home's Personality

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the first of a series of articles about the homes to be visited on September 25 when the Presbyterian Women's Association presents its annual homes tour. Five area homes are to be visited this year.

When you think about Home Tours per se you think about vintage. This is by no means the theme of this Tour Series, but to play it safe, and in answer to the query, "What is the vintage of the Gordon Forrer home?" let us say with both emphasis and ease that it is equal parts of rare, medium and well done.

When Carol and Gordon Forrer planned their Northville home eight or nine years ago they obviously made a concerted effort to include as many of the Forrer Blandishments as two could hope for. The end result was far more than that, for rather than merely reflecting the Forrer personalities combined, their home is a true extension of their total way of life, both individually and collectively.

There is, you'll find, more than the usual graciousness, spaciousness and comfort. Rather, you might find it to be a fullness of all the necessary ingredients of harmony in both material and family happiness.

The living room is colonial in atmosphere, with soft gray-blue walls, much moulded white wood panelling, bookshelves on either side of the fireplace, and window seats underneath the small paned windows and the fresh, cool look of white dotted Swiss curtains throughout. Tables are mellow dark woods, including a hinged-coffee table, a curved library table behind the love seat, a lovely old grand piano just alongside and beneath a silent portrait in oil of an unknown gentleman who might easily have been a Forrer of another era. And in the front window, an antique drop leaf Queen Anne table, another perfect reminder of early colonial times.

This feeling continues through the welcoming front hall into a more formal dining room of warm gold and white tones, almost totally Williamsburg in feeling, complete with an antique serving cart and a lovely bay window, tiered with a repeat of the crisp dotted Swiss curtains.

One must be careful in suggesting that the piece de resistance is yet to come. It is a matter of personal taste. But the kitchen-sitting room combination simply has to be all things to all people. Picture if you will, a heavily mantled old brick fireplace wall with hearth, braided rug, comfortable furniture, magazine bench and provincial paper, backed up by an accommodating bay window for the large dining table and flanked by an open kitchen complete with a tile surfaced cooling island in the center of the necessary built-ins for good cooking, baking, cooling, cleaning and gourmet inspiration.

For Jane, Sue and John another dream became a reality with the conversion of the old garage, now known as the New Room. This is the entertainment center of the younger generation, complete with soda bar, fireplace, lots of window seats, plenty of game space and storage, room to bugaloo or whatever kids call dancing this week, a hearth for roasting toes or marshmallows according to the dictates and whims of teen age hearts.

Upstairs, separate solace is available. The decor of the girls' bedrooms while similar in their fresh, sunny, airy simplicity, is quite singularly representative of each and reflective of what the happy American high school girl would consider perfect sanctuary after a hard day of all the academics and extracurriculars available in Northville.

John's room is all boy. Masculine interests. Pennants and posters and maps on the walls indicate varying degrees of his awareness of sports, education, geography and politics. The tone is early American, the colors beige and red, the feeling, solid.

Dr. and Mrs. Forrers' quarters are appropriately and strategically located at the head of the stairs. For the heads of this house are headed in many directions; focal points of many innovative projects at home and away. Dr. Forrer's avocation is evidenced in the many pieces of handcrafted furniture throughout the house. Mrs. Forrer has created beyond the household with a most constructive effort in the area working many hours to help make the popular teen age Cavern a major success in Northville.

Combine the above ingredients in terms of a Home Tour and you have the Forrer Vintage, 1969: Perfect.

KITCHEN-SITTING ROOM (top) may be the piece de resistance in this home. Flanked by an open kitchen complete with a tile surfaced cooling island, the sitting area offers a special airy charm. The living room (bottom two pictures) atmosphere, with soft gray-blue walls, features white wood panelling bookshelves on either side of the fireplace and a lovely grand piano.

We're sew ready for back to school.

THE DR. GORDON FORRER home blends interior harmony with an exterior loveliness. Trees, climbing vines and a white exterior lends warmth to this attractive house in Northville Township. Its owners converted the "old garage" into an entertainment

Time to Start Drying Flowers

The end of summer is a good time to begin thinking about your Christmas flower arrangements, reminds a spokesman for the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

Specifically, she was referring to the club's annual flower show to be held this year on December 5.

Featured at the show will be arrangements of pine cones, dried and fresh flowers. Interested residents of the area are encouraged to submit entries. Details for the show will be announced later.

But the end of August is the time to begin drying flowers, the spokesman noted.

OLD BUSINESS

1. a. Report from Township Police Study Committee. Mr. Guido, chairman of this committee, read the first part of the report aloud. Prior to this meeting the report had been sent to the seven board members for study. He stated that the report had not been unanimous as seven of the committee had concurred and two were opposed. The committee felt that the need for police protection is more acute today than three years ago and that such protection would be most advantageous if obtained from the City of Northville Police Department. The cost is estimated at about $77,000.00 per year. Mr. Guido suggested a meeting of the Board and the Committee. He hoped that the report could be printed in the Record in full, and he thanked all the citizens who had served on the committee.

Mr. Straub voiced his opinion that it was a very one-sided report and he took exception to several points in it. There followed a very long and vociferous discussion of the report with many comments from the capacity audience.

Supervisor Stromberg suggested that the report be tabled and that the committee and the board meet to thrash it out together, but Armstrong objected, asking him if that was so that the citizens would not be there to hear. Baldwin, however, also felt that the report should be explored further with the committee in due respect to these people who had spent much time preparing it. After much more discussion pro and con, Mitchell moved to accept and file the report for now, seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: Mitchell, Lawrence, Straub, Hammond. Nays: Armstrong, Baldwin. Motion carried. Mr. Armstrong then resigned and left the meeting.

1. b. Three letters were read, from groups of citizens and the director of the Plymouth State Home, asking that more authority be given our local police officer. Straub moved that these letters be accepted and filed with the police report, seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: All.

1. c. Lawrence moved to accept and file the statistical report from the township police officer about small police departments in the state as to numbers, costs, etc., seconded by Straub. Ayes: All.

Baldwin moved that a letter be written complimenting the Police Study Commission on their diligence and thanking them for their participation in this study, seconded by Straub. Ayes: All.

1. d. Items from April 1, 1969 agenda.

1. Liquor Control Ordinance. Hammond moved that the Liquor Control Ordinance, to be known as Ordinance No. 30, be adopted as presented by the township attorney, seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: All. This ordinance requires that liquor establishments in the township be inspected monthly by the township officer and that 85% of the liquor license money received by the state be paid to the township for such enforcement.

2. Uniform Traffic Code Ordinance. Hammond moved that the State Uniform Traffic Code be adopted by reference, to be known as Ordinance No. 31, seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: Lawrence, Hammond, Straub, Mitchell. Nays: Baldwin. Motion carried.

Hammond moved to take agenda item No. 1 of New Business out of order, seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: All.

NEW BUSINESS No. 1

1. a. Fire Truck. Mr. Ollendorff presented an estimate and specifications for a new fire truck, the costs to be shared by the city and township. It would cost approximately $32,000 fully equipped. The city council has approved and approval by the township board is the next required step.

It would take eight to twelve months to obtain the truck, once ordered. Mr. Lawrence had also prepared specifications for this truck and he said they were essentially the same as the city's except for one item, size of the pump that would be necessary. Hammond moved to authorize the City of Northville to advertise for bids following their standard procedure based on the specifications submitted by the city and subject to acceptance by both city and township. Seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: All.

1. b. Ollendorff reported that in the next few weeks he would have a report on the radio receiving units for the fire department. The 22 units would be approximately $2,300.00.

1. c. Maybury Sanatorium. Ollendorff explained that the city has made a study of its recreation needs and would like to negotiate for about 200 acres of the sanatorium property, either with the township or by itself if we do not care to join them in the purchase. Time is of the essence as the city of Detroit wants its money this year. Mitchell moved that the township board hold a special meeting on August 14, 1969 at 7:30 P.M. to discuss the sanatorium property and make a decision.

Supported by Hammond. Ayes: All.

OLD BUSINESS

2. Painting bids. Baldwin moved to accept the low bid of R. Zabel in the amount of $1,020 to paint the exterior of the township hall, seconded by Straub. Ayes: All.

3. Report from Baldwin, recreation. Baldwin moved to defer this item until the special meeting on August 14, 1969. Seconded by Straub. Ayes: All.

4. Hammond moved to table this item No. 4 until the next regular meeting, supported by Baldwin. Ayes: All.

5. Baldwin moved to approve the reimbursements to Rite-way Excavators in accordance with the letter from the township engineer, seconded by Straub. Ayes: All.

6. Lawrence moved to accept the bid of Territorial Contractors, Inc. in the amount of $40,171 for the W No. 5 10" water mains, seconded by Straub. Ayes: All.

NEW BUSINESS

2. Hammond moved to adjourn this item until the next regular meeting, seconded by Baldwin. Ayes: All.

3. Ollendorff stated that the city has allocated $14,000 for the Fish Hatchery project for this year and they would like to get some direction from our board soon as to whether or not we plan to join with them. Our attorney felt that there should be a concrete proposal that we could either accept or reject. Mitchell moved that Baldwin be appointed to sit down and discuss this project of Fish Hatchery recreation with the city and work out a proposal. Supported by Hammond. Ayes: All.

Hammond moved to postpone item 4, 5, and 6 until the next regular meeting. Second by Lawrence. Ayes: All.

7. Boron Oil Company. Mr. Norman Hyman, the company lawyer, spoke of their plans. They wish to build and operate a gas station in an area that is restricted from same because of the presence of a school within 400'. He felt that we should treat all commercial users the same and not discriminate against gas stations. He gave facts and figures in support of his contention and said he was sorry that they had had to take recourse in a lawsuit.

8. Plans not submitted. No action necessary.

9. Baldwin moved that the township clerk and supervisor be authorized to sign the agreement for an easement for a water line in Meadowbrook Golf Club and accept the dedication, seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: All.

10. The clerk announced that she had received a petition with about 400 signatures requesting that the matter of industrial zoning for the southeast corner of the township be put on a referendum ballot for the vote of the people. The signatures must be validated and must amount to 15% of the taxing residents of the township. The industrial zoning stays in effect until the election. However, anyone who wants to buy any of this land must be informed of the pending election and possible change of zoning. It can be put on the ballot at the next regular election. Lawrence moved to table the decision to do so until the next meeting after the signatures have been validated. Seconded by Mitchell. Ayes: All.

Lawrence moved to table items 11 and 12 until the next regular meeting, seconded by Mitchell. Ayes: All.

Meeting adjourned at 1:00 A.M.

Respectfully submitted,
Eleanor W. Hammond, Clerk

Northville City Council Minutes

AUGUST 4TH, 1969

Mayor Allen called the regular meeting of the Northville City Council to order on Monday, Aug. 4th, 1969, at 8:00 p.m. at the Northville City Hall.

ROLL CALL Present: Allen, Folino, Lapham, Nichols and Rathert. Absent: None

ACCEPTANCE OF MINUTES: Minutes of the meeting of July 21st were read. Correction on third page, 4th paragraph, referring to Midwest Asphalt Company, should read "June, 1969" instead of "1968."

No further corrections and minutes stand approved as read.

BILLS Motion by Folino, supported by Rathert, that bills be accepted as submitted. Passed unanimously.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT Council tabled Financial Statement for more study and future discussion.

COUNCIL COMMUNICATIONS City Manager read correspondence from Mr. Warren Stoddard tendering his resignation from the Planning Commission as of August 1, 1969.

Moved by Rathert, supported by Folino, to accept Mr. Stoddard's resignation and to send a letter to him thanking him for his service. Passed unanimously.

City Manager read correspondence from Bruce W. Butske, 930 N. Center St., Northville, regarding paving of Center Street and the cost of same. City Manager noted that Mr. Butske had been sent correct figures. The Council feels that City Manager's answer is sufficient.

City Manager announced Northville State Hospital personnel are setting up a police-community relations program. Northville will take part.

City Manager read letter from Chatham Complete Food Centers, 2300 E. 10 Mile Rd., Warren, Michigan, regarding their plans to purchase property known as 415, 423, 431 and 437 N. Center Street for the construction of a supermarket. Mayor Allen stated we would join in recommending this fine store to this community; would be a fine addition to the city.

Council member Folino stated that Mayor and Board Member Lapham have done a fine job in attempting to bring more business into Northville and he would like to thank them for this. We will do all we can to help Chatham locate in this community.

MINUTES OF BDS & COMMISSION Acceptance of minutes of Plan Commission and Board of Appeals to be taken up at the next regular meeting.

POLICE REPORT: Moved by Lapham, supported by Rathert to accept the Police Agreement. Passed unanimously.

CBP PUBLIC HEARING Clerk read notice of Public Hearing and City Manager gave a detailed report in line with the reading of the Public Hearing notice.

Mayor Allen stated that there is no action to be taken on CBP tonight, as far as the Council is concerned. The views of the citizens are to be taken into consideration.

Manager read communication from Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, signed by Gerald M. Stone, President, listing the conclusions arrived by the Board of Directors re CBD.

Manager read communication from Michael Mendolia, owner of Northville Pizzeria, listing his reasons for opposing the rezoning of several lots in Assessor's Plat no. 1, from present C-2 to the proposed CBP.

Mrs. Bonamichi, 740 Fairbrook, asked if this rezoning included the old library building to which the answer was "Yes." She then asked if there was any idea as to how it can be saved. The answer was that we are looking for development of that block and no decision has been made as to what will happen to the building.

Mr. Walter Kron, representing owner of Lot No. 530, Assessor's Northville Plat No. 6, Mrs. Beckel, 114 N. Wing St., was present. He had many thoughts on this parking matter. He feels that nobody is going to buy property that can be used for parking only, this rezoning as proposed would amount to confiscating the property.

Mr. Henry Ward, 127 E. Cady St., owner of Lot No. 47, Assessor's Plat No. 1, stated that property is his main income and wonders where it leaves him. Mrs. Ward stated it is ridiculous for them to have parking on both sides of their property. She stated the appraisal of their property was lowered $2,000, and asked why they did that.

More discussion followed and Council decided to take the matter under advisement and adjourn the Public Hearing to October 6, 1969 at Council's regular meeting. Council would like an opinion from the new consultant.

Motion by Allen, supported by Folino, to adjourn Public Hearing to Oct. 6, 1969, 8 p.m., Northville City Hall. Passed Unanimously.

Mr. Kron asked if the plan in the paper by Del Black and George Clark will be considered by the Council. Mayor Allen stated that all ideas will be considered.

PROFESSIONAL OFFICE DISTRICT PUBLIC HEARING: Clerk read notice of Public Hearing on Professional Office District Zoning Ordinance Amendment.

This is the formation of a new zoning ordinance. City Attorney suggested that the proposed ordinance be read in its entirety whereupon the Attorney read the ordinance in full.

Mr. Robert Cole was present and stated his views on this ordinance. He feels this 3 to 1 parking ratio is cutting it really close. He feels he can manage the parking for professional building he is considering building but questions about the feasibility in other locations. Council felt this was a strong ordinance and a good one.

Moved by Lapham, supported by Folino, to adopt the Ordinance with the following correction:

Item 6C.03 Accessory Uses, Sub-paragraphs "b" and "c" relating to ground signs, be amended as follows.

Wherever ground signs are referred to it be singular rather than plural.

Passed unanimously.

Special Meeting

Northville Township Board

Northville Township Special Board Meeting, 107 S Wing

Minutes of August 14, 1969

Meeting opened at 7:40 P.M. by Supervisor Stromberg

Present: Baldwin, Hammond, Lawrence, Mitchell, Straub, Stromberg

Also Present: Consultants Mosher and Ashton, Mr. Slinger, 13 residents

1. A corrected Treasurer's report for July, 1969, was presented. Straub moved to accept and file, seconded by Mitchell. Ayes: All.

2. A revised Clerk's financial report for July, 1969 was presented. Straub moved to accept and file, seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: All.

3. The Northville Record Centennial Edition. In line with previous discussion on the matter, it was moved by Hammond and supported by Straub that the township purchase 400 copies of the Northville Record Centennial paper to keep on hand at the township office to be distributed free of charge to new residents as they take up occupancy in the township. These papers to be purchased at a cost of thirty cents each. Ayes: All.

4. Thomas Armstrong

A letter of resignation was received on August 14, 1969 from Trustee Thomas Armstrong. The attorney advised that when such a letter is received by the clerk and filed, the board member is no longer a trustee as of the time of filing. The board must then move to appoint a new member within 45 days of that date or else the Governor of the State may decree that a special election be held to fill the vacancy thus created. The matter of the appointment must appear on the agenda of the next regular meeting. Clerk Hammond moved that a letter of regret be sent to Mr. Armstrong commending him for his faithful work as a trustee. Seconded by Straub. Ayes: All.

5. Maybury Sanatorium

The City of Northville manager, Mr. Ollendorff, at the regular Township Board meeting on August 12, 1969 requested that the Township Board consider joining with the City Council in attempting to purchase some 400 acres of the Maybury Sanatorium property, to be used jointly for recreation purposes. An authority would have to be formed to make this purchase possible in the limited time remaining before the City of Detroit proposes to take action in disposing of their holdings in our township. The City of Northville has estimated its needs for recreation land to be, ultimately, about 220 to 240 acres. Our township planning consultant, in the long range plan, had estimated our eventual need to be about 300 acres, of which almost 100 acres could be met by private developers. About 200 acres of Maybury Sanatorium property were adjudged the correct amount for the township to consider purchasing.

A very interesting discussion followed the supervisor's beginning explanation of the above situation, which calls for immediate action by the board. The various citizens present gave their views and all were in accord that the township should at least try to acquire some of this beautiful and valuable land while it is available to us. Many recreational uses were suggested for the eventual development of the land such as golf course, ball diamonds, nature trails, hiking and bridle paths, Senior Citizens buildings, a lake, and so on. The township attorney suggested that the timing is important as it is a fairly lengthy process to establish an authority and acquire the bond issue. Showing our interest now does not necessarily bind us forever into the future on the matter. The people can vote, on a referendum ballot, at the time that bonds are floated, if they so desire. It is also his opinion that neither city council nor township board members could sit on the Authority Board, but such a board would be appointed by them.

Baldwin moved, seconded by Hammond, that the township board signify its willingness to the city of Northville to actively participate with them in investigating and forming an authority to buy a total of approximately 400 acres of Maybury Sanatorium property for recreational purposes, provided reasonable arrangements can be made to finance same. The vote: Ayes: Baldwin, Hammond, Mitchell, Stromberg. Nays: Lawrence, Straub. Motion carried.

Mitchell expressed his desire to have the planning commission research the possibility of changing the zoning on the remaining western part of the sanatorium property to Industrial.

6. Fish Hatchery Recreation Area

Baldwin moved to table the discussion of our joint use of the Fish Hatchery property for recreation purposes (with the City of Northville) until the next meeting as he had not had an opportunity to meet with the city representative on specifics. Seconded by Lawrence. Ayes: All.

Meeting adjourned at 9:35 P.M.

Respectfully submitted,
Eleanor W. Hammond, Clerk

PLANNING CONFAB — City Manager Frank Ollendorff (left) reviews Northville planning and zoning reports with representatives of the newly appointed city planning consultant firm, Parkins, Rogers & Associates. They are Brandon M. Rogers, executive vice-president of the firm (center), and Ronald Nino, the planning consultant who will represent the firm at meetings of the planning commission and during public hearings. Following their meeting with Ollendorff Thursday, the two planners met with council representatives. One of the first jobs of the new consulting firm, for which a contract is pending, will be to review the city's controversial CBD and CBP proposals.

$7,300 Starting Salary

Novi Inks Teacher Contract

The Novi Community School District ratified the master contract with the Novi Education Association Tuesday night.

The 1969-70 school year contract won unanimous approval from board members, along with their praise.

Milan Obrenovich, chief negotiator for the teachers said "The teachers are as happy with the contract as the board is."

More than 50 pages, the contract covers every aspect of the teaching staff. Salary for the beginning teacher with a BA degree is $7,300 with a ceiling of $11,600, compared to $6,700 and $10,295 last year.

Master's degree scale is $7,950 beginning and $12,250 top, over last year's figure of $7,100 to $10,915. The salary figures compare favorably with settlements in other Oakland county districts.

Other economic terms set forth in the contract include an increase in insurance benefits and the addition of new extra-curricular salary areas of golf, wrestling, spectator bus chaperones, future teachers' club sponsor and National Honor Society.

Non-economic additions to the contract are allowance for department chairman and a third party arbitrator.

The Novi board also approved the formula for setting the principals' salaries, administrators' salaries and a recommended budget. Action on a tuition policy was tabled.

Approval was given to setting the principals' salaries using the maximum MA degree teacher salary. Added to the base will be 10 per cent for senior high principal; seven percent, middle school; and five per cent, elementary.

Experience and length of service in the Novi system can add up to three and one-quarter per cent. Study towards the next highest degree above MA will at two per cent salaries. Benefits are also included in the formula.

The board approved a salary of $18,800 for Thomas Dale, superintendent. T. Richard Henderickson, assistant superintendent, will get a salary of $17,000. Both include all benefits given to principals and teachers.

A preliminary budget figure of $1,248,255 for expenditures was approved. The school district will once again operate in the black, with excess revenue of $518 over expenditures. Final budget will be submitted to the board after a head count of pupils has been made.

The teaching staff at all schools in the Novi system was completed with the hiring of two teachers Tuesday night.

Martha Thibideau will teach vocal music and English at the high school, while Shirley Cunningham will be employed as a high school English teacher.

Board members agreed to buy 30 tons of cold patch to repair the drive at the high school. The cost will be $300 with the school district supplying the labor.

A motion to pay $1,220 of the cost of the score board at the athletic field passed by a vote of 4-2. Trustees Gilbert Henderson and Robert Wilkins cast the dissenting votes, arguing the money should come from someplace other than the 1968 building and site fund.

Both expressed disfavor with "nibbling away at the fund."

The Athletic Boosters will pay an equal amount towards the score board.

Henderson cast the dissenting vote in a 5-1 tally for the purchase of a Hobart brand mixer for the high school kitchen. The total purchase price of $1,701.93 will come from the 1968 building and site fund.

Action on the tuition policy for students will be taken at the September 9 meeting of the board.

It's 'Loose' Guideline

Northville Board Revises Secondary School Dress Code

After a long wrestle with the problem of a revised dress policy for secondary schools, the Northville School Board voted Monday to accept a revised policy recommended by Superintendent Raymond Spear.

Spear's proposal was described as the result of a meeting between himself and a committee of students, parents, administrators and faculty.

Exact wording of the code reads: "The dress and grooming of students in attendance in Northville Public Schools shall adhere to the general policy of being neat, clean, moral, legal, not distractive in style or design and in adherence to good health standards."

The code was loosely stated, explained Spear, to serve its intended purpose as a guideline from the school board to school administrators. Enforcement lies with the school principal and the student council, as the policy makes a few definite restrictions as possible. Where the need of a specific ruling is seen, the decision shall be made by the superintendent in consultation with school administrators, it was explained.

A motion to accept the recommended code was made by Dr. Orlo Robinson and supported by Richard Martin, an unexpected switch from Martin's previously conservative approach to the problem.

The new resolution caused a stir both among board members and among a dozen students who attended the meeting accompanied by six parents.

Treasurer Andrew Orphan stated, "This is just as ambiguous and just as difficult to administer as the present policy. I do not see how they are going to control it with this policy."

A student spokesman, Rick Sechler, observed, "The board has reneged on their promise. We have gone along for 10 months on promises and now this. This is the same code."

Board President Robert Froelich, on the other hand, saw the board guideline as good policy building. Trustee Eugene Cook added that he hoped the students would see the code "not as a big victory but rather as a challenge. This leaves out all the 'thou shalt not's'. You have to help police this thing."

A final opinion was given when Glenn Deibert expressed his faith in the continued capacity of students for selling. He mentioned that the students had approached the code revision in a positive manner, convincing administrators that a new code was necessary.

The resolution was adopted by a 5-1 vote, with Orphan casting the dissenting vote.

'Open Lunch' Wins But Only Partly

The noon lunch policy, a source of concern to students in the Northville secondary schools was resolved at the school board meeting Monday night when the board proposed and adopted a restricted open lunch provision.

Board members voted to accept the recommendation of Superintendent Raymond Spear that students living within walking distance of the schools be allowed to go home for lunch. The agreement prohibits students from leaving school premises at noon unless they have written authorization from their parents to go home.

The recommendation further provides that students will be permitted only to go home to lunch, not downtown to the central shopping district. No motor vehicles will be allowed off school property without specific written permission and students will not be allowed to drive home for lunch.

The new policy is applicable to both the high school and the junior high. Spear estimated that a possible 10 to 20 percent of the students will be able to walk home for the 45 minute lunch.

In offering the open lunch solution Spear emphasized that the decision was made by himself and staff members, due to a failure of the students to follow up their earlier request for a joint committee of students and administrators to resolve the issue.

He also presented the results of a postcard survey conducted among members of the Northville Chamber of Commerce. The survey indicates that not only restaurant owners, but 75 percent of the Northville merchants were against a policy which would allow students downtown at noon. "About five to eight percent of the students abuse the present lunch system," he added.

Trustee Andrew Orphan expressed a fear that the new written policy "opens the door to promiscuity — making a freer opportunity for abuse. On the other hand, Trustee Glenn Deibert observed that most students have the capacity to conduct themselves intelligently during the lunch hour. A piece of paper, he said, will not influence those who are determined to go their own way.

Non-Paying Pupils

Admitting the non-tuition students "hurts all and not just the 24," he said, "I propose we seek redress and let the matter be decided in open court on its merits."

Eugene Cook said he was "not sure forcing the matter into court at this time would get it off the ground."

Previously, a bill had been introduced in the State Legislature to force the state to pay students' tuition to the school districts. The bill never made it off the floor.

Cook said he would prefer "we not deny the students from entering school."

After the vote was taken, Robert Froelich, board president, said that the "legal opinions are skirting the issue." He urged the district to seek the revenues lost in paying the students' tuition to make up the deficit.

Spear said if the board is found to have a sound position, by law the tuition would be retroactive and would have to be paid.

The 24 students will be in class September 4, but the battle continues behind the scenes.

CLUSTER CLASSROOMS — Here's the architect's rendering of the new Salem Elementary School addition that features a cluster classroom arrangement. The plan was approved by the South Lyon School Board Monday.

Ralls-Hamill-Becker discussed the addition to the high school. The board also approved the budget for the coming year, hired one teacher, approved a survey of the terrain at Moraine and signed a contract to rent the athletic field to the Junior Football Association.

The school board, by a 4-2 vote, gave approval to a preliminary plan leaving the bus garage at the high school and constructing gang toilet facilities.

Orphan and Martin cast the dissenting votes.

Though the plan that was approved groups all departments in specific areas, Orphan and Martin were

Boron Seeks School Site

Will there be a service station on the corner of Eight Mile and Center Street?

Maybe, if the Northville School Board decides to sell a half-acre corner of school property opposite Amerman Elementary at the foot of Northville High School land.

Boron Oil Company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil of Ohio, wants to buy the southwest corner of land from the school district. Jerry Grdina, representing Boron, presented the proposal to the school board Monday night.

Concerned with the safety of school children crossing at the intersection now, the board members indicated the service station would create more problems.

Peak station hours would coincide with opening and closing times of school.

Even though Boron has offered to pay the school district's share of paving Old Base Line Road to alleviate traffic jams on Center Street, the board was not overly enthusiastic with the proposal.

The board will consider the purchase at an executive session before coming to a decision. But even if it agrees, Boron cannot be assured of the station's development. The parcel of land would have to be rezoned since the corner presently is zoned residential.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

The following news' release from the newly-appointed Governor's Awards Commission caught my eye this week, primarily because I think it introduces a good idea and secondly because there's an excellent nominee in Northville:

Competition to select outstanding public employees in local and state government has been announced by the Governor's Awards Commission For Distinguished Public Employees.

Nominations will be open to career employees of city, county, and township government outside the field of education.

Dr. Albert E. Heustis of Lansing, elected Chairman of the Commission at its first meeting, said the plan called for selecting six outstanding public employees in various wage brackets with presentations planned in Detroit October 23.

The Commission, created by an Executive Order issued by Governor Milliken last month, is launching a "pilot" program in conjunction with the National Civil Service League and a Ford Foundation grant. Michigan will be the first state to attempt such recognition on both a state and local basis.

Three outstanding local and three outstanding state employees will be selected, one from each of three annual pay categories of below $8,000, $8,000 to $15,000, and $15,000 and above. There are an estimated 150,000 such employees in the state. The competition will be limited to non-teaching employees of state, city, county, or township government who have a minimum of 10 years of public service in an appointed full time position. Nominating deadline is September 22, 1969.

Awards will be in the form of plaques signed by the Governor and Commission Chairman to be presented at the Public Personnel Association International Conference at an October 23, 1969 Distinguished Public Service Awards Luncheon in Detroit.

"Citizens as well as department heads or fellow workers may nominate candidates and selection will be based on evidence of diligence, sustained superior performance or accomplishment, ingenuity and efficiency," Dr. Heustis said. It is not required the nominee be part of a civil service or merit system.

For nearly 23 years the village and city of Northville has had an employee who personifies the qualifications for recognition as outlined above.

He's Herman "Bud" Hartner, Jr., who handles the dual responsibilities of department of public works superintendent and fire chief.

Bud would be a credit to any organization for which he worked. He's a "team" man, not a knocker, but a doer with enthusiasm for his job.

Ask any employer to place a value on such an employee and he'll tell you it's impossible. He'll also try to hire the man away from you.

Twenty-three years ago Bud quit a factory job making $2.50 an hour to become an assistant to Dan Lafferty, the aging DPW superintendent for the village of Northville. His starting pay was 75 cents per hour. Six months later Lafferty died, Bud was promoted to superintendent and given a pay hike to $1.25 an hour.

"I didn't like factory work. I like it outdoors. That's why I took the job," Bud explains.

If you counted his hours and divided them into his present income for the combined fire chief-DPW jobs, it wouldn't represent a big increase. Bud makes about $13,500 per year, but 60-hour weeks are not unusual—and one call out of bed per night would be a real sleeper.

When there's a fire, a broken water main, a sewer leak, heavy rain, snow or anything else that spells trouble for the city of Northville, Bud's called first and he's always there.

And there isn't a job to perform that Bud hasn't or wouldn't do himself whether it's climbing down into a clogged sewer or walking into a burning, smoke-filled building.

You might think that an "oldtimer" (he's 52) like Bud might rebel just a little in the face of changing times. He can remember when being DPW director for Northville meant doing just about anything a resident might ask—from private plumbing repair to pulling cars out of snowdrifts. It was sort of expected... "like one neighbor helping another," Bud remembers.

But Northville grew. And finally it became a city. And the old commission-form of government with a handful of elected bosses giving orders was replaced by a city manager.

"I was against it at first, but it's worked out fine. What's more, Frank's the best thing that ever happened to this town, a real good boy," says Bud, referring to Northville's present manager.

These are not the words of an employee flattering his boss. Bud doesn't have to do that. He's secure in his job and knows it. But this is the quality possessed by Bud Hartner that makes him most valuable...his loyalty, his frankness, his interest in community improvement.

"I'm the number one promoter of buying the Maybury property," Bud will tell anyone who will listen. He'd like to see the community buy it all. "It will be the salvation of our future. Maybe not while I'm still around, but future generations will appreciate it." Bud likes the outdoors.

While it would appear that his job comes first in Bud Hartner's life, there's been time for the family, too. He married a Northville girl—the former Marguerite Norton—and they have two children. Their son, David, is now 30 and a graduate of MSU and an employee of Oldsmobile in Lansing. Their daughter, Gail Ann, is now Mrs. Gerald LeVan and resides in Redford township.

If "sustained superior performance" is the key to selection by the Governor's Award Commission for Distinguished Public Employees, the commission cannot overlook Northville's Herman Hartner, Jr.

Speaking for Myself

Should 18-Year-Olds Vote?

YES. . . .

Eighteen-year-olds, so the fatuous argument goes, are neither mature enough nor sufficiently responsible to deserve the right to vote; they own little or no property and pay few taxes; they are still dependent upon their parents for direction and their bread and butter; and they lack the sophisticated acumen needed to cope with the complexities of politics.

All of which reminds me of the ocean of intelligent, responsible, mature adults who infest our polls; of the preponderance of tax-paying men and women who come prepared to the ballot box; of the myriad of female adults who detect competency by the spelling of a candidate's name; and of the army of sophisticated, independent thinking male adults who cope with political complexities by pulling the Party Lever.

Yes, indeed, there is a special magic in "twenty-one" that transforms the mind, snaps on responsibility, triggers political acumen, and hurls us into the polling place. Ain't it a shame that so many of us adults weren't on the magic pad when they pressed the button?

Jack W. Hoffman

NO. . . .

What have 18-year-olds achieved in the past few years to make them suddenly eligible for suffrage?

Nationwide, 63 percent of the people voted for president in 1964. Four years later the percentage fell to 60.8.

Georgia and Kentucky have allowed 18-year-olds to vote since 1944. 1964 voting percentages in these two states were 44.9 and 54.1 respectively. They dropped to 39.4 and 47.1 in 1968.

"New" state Alaska registered a 63.3 percent turnout in 1964, dropped to 49.7 in 1968. They permit 19-year-olds to vote.

Hawaii, also a "new" state in 1964, allows 20-year old suffrage. That state experienced a turnout of 61.3 percent in 1964, slipped to 53.8 percent in 1968.

Michigan, typical of 21-and-up enfranchisement, dropped from 1964's 68.8 percent to a 66.6 figure in last year's presidential election. Given the chance, teens won't vote.

Opening of Hospital Delayed

ONE YEAR AGO. . .

Dr. Robert Geake, a Northville history buff who had been compiling data concerning the graves in the old cemetery located on Franklin Road in Northville Township, urged the township board to take steps to restore the cemetery and its old gravestones, and erect some kind of permanent sign.

The first "information" meeting held following the completion of the city-township unification feasibility study was a box-office flop. It attracted only a dozen citizens (three were township officials, one a city councilmember and one a member of the citizens' study committee).

A 16-year-old youth, sentenced to Camp Oakland for his role in the kidnapping of a Novi policeman, walked away from the Oxford rehabilitation center over the weekend. The juvenile had been found guilty of assault and attempted murder by Probate Judge Arthur Moore.

FIVE YEARS AGO. . .

Area voters were prepared to nominate their party preferences for state, congressional and county offices. The ballot offered local contests in the township for Republican nominees for treasurer and trustee. Wayne county voters also were asked to approve a one mill county tax increase for a period of five years.

State and local police were probing the fatal shooting of a 40-year-old Detroit Police officer in Novi. The officer, identified as Alphonsus J. Coughlin of Detroit, was discovered shortly after 4 p.m. in an open field on Taft road between Nine and Ten Mile by Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole.

School bells were soon to ring at Schoolcraft College as workmen completed the 100 foot bell tower in anticipation of opening day, Monday, August 31. The college's 1,100 students were beginning to register.

It was five years ago, September 1, 1944, that Northville Downs first opened its gates for harness racing. A crowd (using the term loosely) of 1,001 wandered into the plant and the mutual handle was $9,022. Tonight, as an anniversary celebration, the Downs will stage a $5,000 Birthday Pace, and an all-star field has been named to help celebrate the occasion.

The Optimist Club held its Father and Son Night at its regular meeting. by JACK W. HOFFMAN

Unlike Eric Forbes-Boyd who recently wrote in The Christian Science Monitor of his uncanny ability to periodically raid his bookshelves, I cannot nor do I especially want to muster such courage.

"Books accumulate so quickly in our house," wrote Forbes (pronounced loud hoards), "that I have to get rid of 50 to 60 every few months."

He owes his raw talent — not to nerve and raiding courage — but to an act of self-preservation: he took to heart the predicament of the fellow who was rescued by "local authority" when his house was about to collapse under the weight of 30,000 volumes... So, inhuman vandal that I am, I turn out the books!

Oddly, perhaps, I am more jealous of Forbes' ability to collect books than I am of his ability to get rid of them. Imagine! So many books that he is able to divest himself of "50 or 60 every few months." And all along I figured my penchant for collecting books was second to none. Apparently, the collection in our house is the work of an amateur.

I told my wife of Forbes' obvious supremacy in this art but she only repeated some cautious advice: "It isn't so important how much you collect, dear, but what you collect."

Whenever she calls me "dear" and hands out that holier than thou stuff you can be sure she's scared stiff. You see, I am a book addict who took the cure. There was a time not so long ago when I was unable to cope with the urge to buy, borrow or steal anything found in a hard cover. I picked up the habit as youngster while reading Edgar Rice Burroughs back behind the barn.

At the outset it was simply a matter of wanting to read something exciting and then, not wishing to toss away an adventure, of filing it way for a later warmed-over snack. But things quickly got out of hand. Church hymnals mysteriously found their way into our home. Testbooks joined them. And soon I was hooked.

School librarians barred me, teachers padlocked their desks, and the minister frisked me whenever I left church. Worse yet, girls refused to let me carry their books.

Then one joyous day I learned about "free" and "bonus" offers of the Book Club. Cost meant nothing; I joined them all just to get the extra books. Learning too late that membership required a minimal annual purchase. I worked off my debts, acquiring additional books along the way, by "selling" the names of my friends to those clubs searching for prospective members.

When mean bill collectors began appearing at our doorstep in search of a shady book collector, I changed my name and began subscribing under a pseudonym.

By the time I reached college, the habit had become so expensive I was forced to begin trading books. But within months I learned that a single copy of "God's Little Acre" was worth two or three copies of O. Henry's short stories. Amazingly, despite my financial predicament, my book collection continued to grow.

Whenever one of Ann Arbor's famous bookstores held a spring sale I camped on their doorsteps to be the first in line. I waltzed through the aisles, snapping up anything within reach labeled "bargain." "Exploring the Farandole," "Thoughts About the Ramspeck Act," "A Brief Digest of the Laws Relating to Absentee Voting and Registration," and a host of other immortal works found their way into my shopping bag. It mattered not that the material was outdated or that the author was a measurable failure. Only the fact that the book had a hard cover and sold for from 10 to 25 cents counted.

When, after I married, my bank account was squeezed between purchase of a diaper and a loaf of bread, I resorted to even more fruitful pursuits — rummage sales. By carefully avoiding early purchases and by playing hard to please I was able to obtain not just single books but whole boxes of them for just a few coins.

My insatiable appetite grew to an awful hunger and I became a snarling, vicious watchdog of the "precious" works lining the walls. Kids trembled whenever their play carried them too close to the shelves, babies were bookbroken even before they were weaned, and my wife began having nightmares about a dog that wandered into the house looking for a fire hydrant.

When finally, I came close to losing my home and my family, I forced myself to take the cure — cold turkey style. It was an agonizing experience, one filled with sleepless nights and cold chills. Bookstores, libraries and rummage sales were off limits. Even my mail was censored.

But it was a sudden fit of sadistic self-punishment that finally brought me to my senses: I encouraged a few friends to borrow books from my shelves only to learn that nobody really cared for "The Adventures of Stella Dallas" or "Concrete: The Nation's Lifeline," or "1903 in Review."

Once an addict always an addict, I guess, even though today I collect only in moderation, with rare excursions off the deep end. Occasionally, whenever guys like Forbes come along to tempt me, I turn to the bookshelves in our home for reinforcement. A chapter or two of "Please Come Home Aunt Agatha" or the like does the trick every time.

BAND DIRECTOR RICHARD STANNARD

Novi's New Director Steeped in Music

He's new to Novi High School but not to music.

Richard Stannard is the new music director at the school and he's been involved with music since the age of five.

Originally from Detroit, Stannard is an August graduate of the University of Michigan where he received his bachelor of music degree.

These fall days Stannard isn't hard to locate, just find the source of the baritone music drifting through the halls.

Stannard's musical career began with the piano at the age of five. From there he took up the French horn, violin and then trombone.

GOP Head Sets A Grueling Pace

The Labor Day weekend will be just that for Michigan Republican State Chairman William F. McLaughlin, as he is scheduled to travel more than 1,000 miles on party assignments Saturday and Sunday, August 30-31.

On Saturday evening, McLaughlin will be at Camp Copneconic, near Flint, to keynote the model legislative session at the fifth annual Teen Age Republican (TAR) Camp. Some 130 Michigan teenagers are registered to participate in the yearly event which begins Thursday, August 28, and concludes Sunday, the 31st.

McLaughlin will not be around for the wrap-up, however. Early Sunday morning, he leaves his Northville home for Detroit Metropolitan Airport and a

"Of course when I went to Michigan I had to learn them all," commented the good-looking, dark-haired teacher.

His parents, both musicians on the night club circuit, played a big part in his decision to enter music. Even his wife, Louise, is musically inclined — she sings.

Novi Marching Band members have already had a taste of Stannard's program. Monday morning he had them out on the football field practicing for their first appearance.

The band will present a short pre-game program and a half-time show at the high school's first football game September 12.

Stannard is aiming for a 60-member marching band with the creation of a flag rank and "possibly pom-pom girls or twirlers, too."

He would also like to see the band sponsor "an after-game dance featuring an acid rock band. But we'd have to raise the money for that."

Stannard has a full schedule of activities planned for the band members. September 20 they will be part of the 13,000 bandmen at University of Michigan's Band Day. He hopes to take the marching band to another game "so they can study the style and form of the university marching band."

Christmas and spring concerts are in the planning stage with legitimate band music and orchestra and symphony transcriptions part of the musical fare. There may even be exchange concerts with other high schools.

Stannard is in charge of the marching, symphony and concert bands at the high school levels and the seventh and eighth grade bands in junior high. He envisions the Novi band program will be a year-round activity in the near future.

Novi will get their first look at the marching band at the football game. The drills will be "picture and not precision. Our aim is to play music and look good, not to look good and just play an occasional sound," Stannard commented.

He and his wife were married last winter. They moved to Plymouth in August. The new instructor succeeds Keith Rolston who resigned recently to accept a position at North Farmington High School.

7:35 a.m. flight to Houghton.

From there, he goes on to Lake Linden to be the Master of Ceremonies for the 11th District's picnic tribute to Congressman Phil Ruppe at Nara's Beach.

McLaughlin has a choice of return routes. He can take the direct one, which will put him back home around midnight or he can change planes in Green Bay, Wisconsin, and get to Northville around 10 p.m.

Fortunately, at least in this instance, McLaughlin is an acrophobe or someone certainly would have convinced him to make the annual Mackinac Bridge walk on Labor Day. He plans to rest instead.

Novi Quells Dispute, Agrees To Inspect School Installation

The City of Novi Council, apparently deciding to overlook a previous clash with Novi Community Schools on standards for new construction, agreed on Monday to authorize City Manager Harold Ackley to inspect recent electrical installations to satisfy state requirements.

A previous decision by school administrators to meet standards set by the state rather than the more restrictive local requirements forced the city to waive a building permit for the projects which include preparation of temporary classroom units, improvements in the industrial arts center and a connection for lighting at the football field.

Usually, the city would not have a basis for any inspection or be willing to assume responsibility for the quality of workmanship if it didn't issue a building permit in the preliminary stages of the project. Public schools, under the provision of state law, need only to comply with standards as established by the State Department of Public Instruction and the State Fire Marshal, according to City Manager Harold Ackley.

Novi Community Schools' Superintendent Thomas Dale attended Monday's meeting to address the council on the request.

In other business Monday, councilmen previewed and tentatively endorsed the Oakland County Master Sanitary Sewer Plan, authorized Ackley to write specifications and seek bids on a new police car, instructed the city manager to have a light installed at West Lake Drive and Labenta Street and request clarification from the Board of Zoning Appeals concerning regulation of yard lights at Meadowbrook Nursing Home.

Dale presented a letter to the council on Monday from state officials authorizing Ackley to inspect the electrical work in order to avoid delays which would result if state inspectors would have to provide the service.

Discussion following introduction of the letter revealed that city officials have been dissatisfied with the standards being met in the school projects. An example of non-compliance by the schools, according to Ackley, is in the temporary units which — located separate from the high school — do not have their own sanitary facilities, as required by city standards.

City Attorney Howard Bond observed that since the schools are acting in compliance with state regulations, the projects should be inspected by representatives of the state and not the city. Dale explained that sewers haven't been connected to the temporary units because the state doesn't require such facilities when the classrooms are to service secondary-level students.

The superintendent added that after use for two years at the high school, the units will be moved to an elementary school site where sewers will be needed for them in compliance with state law.

According to Dale, progress on the projects was stopped at one point by Building Inspector Earl Bailey because they didn't comply with local requirements. The superintendent said that he ordered the project to resume after he learned that Bailey had halted work.

The school official on Monday explained that the new units will be needed this fall and inspection by the city would expedite their preparation.

"I kind of got in on this a little bit earlier in the game," Councilman William Duey stated. "The whole thing looks to me like the schools wanted to do something their way and our building department wanted to do it its way."

"It doesn't appear that they could communicate," he added. "But I think when the schools and the city get into a conflict like this, it just costs the general public more money."

"I think that both sides here are going to have to apologize and admit they were wrong — which I think they were," Duey observed.

"I do honestly feel — and I don't want to engender any hostility — that the school authorities wish to ignore the city regulation until they feel they want to comply," Bond said. "I don't think the city should charge for such a permit but I do think the schools should honor the municipal regulation in this area."

"I don't think the code is reasonable in this respect," Dale interjected.

"Why now, when it's time for school to open, are we finally getting this problem out into the open when the project has been underway for three weeks?" Councilman Edwin Presnell asked.

"I didn't anticipate any problem at all," Dale responded.

"I think the problem here is that either we have jurisdiction or we don't have it," Mayor Crupi said. "The building department has taken the position that if we have jurisdiction, everything must comply."

Bond reported that the city could instruct Ackley, who is also the municipal electrical inspector, to just inspect electrical work in accord with the school's request.

A motion by Councilman David Harrison to authorize Ackley to make just the electrical inspection was narrowly approved by the council, 3-2.

"Now Mr. Dale, you're going to have more schools and we'd like to act closer on these matters," the mayor observed.

Tot Makes Big Splash

She struts around the pool, up onto the diving board and plunges into the pool.

She hits the water and, almost like water was her natural habitat, she instantly begins to swim with ease. Then she's out of the pool and strutting back to the board.

Next to swimming, she likes to eat suckers and popsicles.

Cathy Martines is two-and-one-half years old and she's probably the best popsicle-eating, sucker slurping swimmer in these parts. The daughter of Dominic and Donna Martines, 46815 Timber Lane, Cathy was born with a shallow hip socket which, if born a few years ago, could have threatened her ability to walk.

But thanks to an early medical diagnosis and treatment and now to her affinity for swimming, Cathy is normal to the point that she can walk as well as any youngster and abnormal in that she can swim better than most.

"She just loves the water," her dad observes. "She started swimming when she was six-months-old and it's just been natural ever since."

At 18-months, Cathy was diving - just eight months after she had started walking - and today, a veteran at two-and-one-half years, she's constantly going through the paces along the poolside, up onto the board and - splash! splash - into the pool.

When she builds her confidence swimming a certain distance, then her parents challenge her to go a little farther, do a little better and Dad often is there beside her in the pool when she attains her new goals.

Often times she seeks the security of a life jacket while practicing new maneuvers but generally when she's doing her routine, it's just the spunky little blue-eyed whiz decked out in her pink and white two-piece.

Splash!

"Actually neither Donna or I were good swimmers as children," Donna, a cement contractor, relates. "As a matter of fact, when I was five-years-old I almost drowned and my parents then kept me from going near the water.

"And then one time later when I was in the service I had an experience where I had to swim and although I had learned how, I couldn't swim well yet," he adds. "And that experience was so fearful that I decided my children would learn to swim early in life so that they wouldn't have to suffer that fear."

Usually during workouts, Cathy is rewarded with a sucker or popsicle and so when she's not in the pool, she oftentimes is resting and refreshing.

"I can remember seeing in the newspaper that the Detroit YMCA offered a swimming program for youngsters and so I called downtown and we eventually enrolled Cathy at Highland Park - then the closest location," Mrs. Martines recalls.

Now in the summertime the little aquatic is doing her things at the pool in her back yard while in the wintertime the family is a frequent visitor at the new Livonia YMCA.

And so a big part of a little girl's life is swimming as she proves that age, like a minor physical deformity, can be overcome with fun to spare.

Junior Footballers Brush-Up Bleachers

Members of the Junior Football Association are in the process of painting the bleachers at the high school athletic field with Northville Public Schools providing materials, according to NPS business manager Earl Busard.

The project was launched last Saturday and is expected to be completed this weekend, he said.

The association, which provides a tackle football program for young boys, rents the field four Sundays in the fall in order to complete its 12-game home schedule. Three teams organized by the association each play on the same Sunday.

According to Busard, painting the 2,500 bleachers and railings is expected to take 100 gallons of paint and 30 gallons of turpentine.

Late Physicals Today for 'Cats

All Novi Community Schools' junior high school football candidates and any prospective fall sports participants can receive physical examinations today (Thursday) at the high school, according to Wildcat Athletic Director John Osborne.

The exams were scheduled to begin at 1:30 p.m.

Any youngster who desires to participate in interscholastic competition must have a physical examination in advance in accordance with the Michigan High School Athletic Association requirements, the athletic director explained.

Salmon Boom Expected to Grow

Salmon fishermen and salmon watchers are expected to be twice as numerous this year as last along the Great Lakes to give Michigan its busiest fall tourism season, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The anticipated increased interest in Michigan-brand salmon is due mainly to four factors:

- Michigan will have its first mature chinook (King) salmon runs this fall.
- Mature coho runs up four streams feeding into Lake Huron will take place for the first time.
- Almost twice as many streams are expecting coho runs this fall as compared with a year ago.
- With more streams expecting salmon, there will be added areas where spectators can watch the salmon being mechanically harvested at weirs and trucked away commercially.

Mature chinook - weighing an average 15 pounds - will be caught for the first time in this state as they prepare to make spawning runs up the Big Huron River in Lake Superior and the Little Manistee and Muskegon Rivers in Lake Michigan.

Coho will be taken from Lakes Michigan, Superior and Huron where 21 streams were stocked with coho during spring, 1968 - almost twice the number streams with mature runs last fall. (The accompanying Auto Club map shows the areas where coho and chinook have been planted and where salmon are expected to run this fall.)

A few coho jacks will be taken from the Sturgeon River in Lake Superior and the Big Cedar, St. Joseph, Manistique, Kalamazoo and Grand Rivers in Lake Michigan which were stocked for the first time this spring.

"Few chinook taken this year will go over 20 pounds," states Jerry E. Fisher, Auto Club's touring manager. "Coho hooked will weigh anywhere from 8 to 18 pounds."

The largest recorded coho caught in Michigan weighed 21 pounds and was 32-inches long. It was hooked in Lake Michigan near Manistee in September, 1967.

Chinook usually mature at four years old as compared with three years for coho salmon. However, a few precocious chinook are expected to make spawning runs at three years old. It is expected that some salmon will not attempt upstream runs until they are five years old.

Although the only three-year-old chinook expected to be caught this year will come from Lakes Michigan and Superior, some Lake Huron chinook will be taken as they gather to spawn as two-year "jacks" at the Ocqueoc River near Huron Beach and the Thunder Bay River at Alpena. Early chinook runs are also expected near Lake Superior's Cherry Creek, at Marquette.

Last year, chinook were released for the first time in Thunder Bay River which empties into Lake Huron and the Anna River which empties into Lake Superior.

Salmon fishing begins to peak in August when the giant salmon gather for spawning runs at the mouths of streams in which they were planted. The runs extend through early November. (Coho season ends December 31 on most small streams while it is allowed year-around on major rivers and the Great Lakes.)

Coho can literally blacken the water when they make upstream runs but are difficult to hook once in streams. Most productive coho fishing is done off the mouth of streams or in bays and along shorelines adjacent to spawning streams.

"Last year was disappointing for many coho fishermen," states Fisher. "The best fishing occurred before Labor Day and fishermen who waited until then to try their luck missed out on the best action."

Rough waters on Lake Michigan also kept many fishermen on shore last fall and warm weather forced the coho into deep water where they remained undetected.

"With mature coho now available on both sides of the state and in almost twice as many areas as last fall, we expect less pressure at past popular locations with more fish caught than previously," adds Fisher.

He points out that East Michigan anglers will probably have more fishing days available to them because Lake Huron is usually less turbulent than Lake Michigan in fall.

Although it does not advise fishing for coho from anything smaller than an 18-foot boat on the Great Lakes, the Auto Club points out that a large boat is no substitute for wise seamanship. Since coho are often fished five miles from shore, fishermen should keep a watchful eye on the weather.

Tennis Tournament Scheduled At Cass Benton September 7

The First Annual Northville Invitational Doubles Tennis Tournament, bolstered by a large delegation of outstanding amateurs from the community, will be held September 7 at Cass Benton Park, it was announced today.

According to Dan Boland, who is acting to organize the tourney, the field of entrants is being limited to 24 with "a few vacancies still open." All participants must be 21-years-old or older.

The tournament, slated for a Sunday, is to begin at 10 a.m.

Boland explains that the event will be conducted on a pro set round-robin basis with partners to be selected by drawing. Top seeded players will draw from a pool of bottom seeds, he says.

Oscar Pfeffer, a stalwart for many years on the courts in Detroit, is an early entry and is expected to be the dean of the field. He is 68-years-old.

Initial Session—Hot!

'Tis That Season Again

The lazy days of summer turned to sweat and toil for 94 high school football candidates this week as squads at Northville and Novi began practices preparing for regular season openers September.

Initial sessions Monday were held in one of the summer's hottest days as temperatures lingered in the mid-90's while coaches began practices — and emphasized conditioning.

Both the Mustangs and Wildcats are working in two-a-day sessions this week before the start of classes. Northville opens its season at home on September 12 when it hosts neighboring Plymouth while Novi will host Hartland the same night.

Mustang Head Football Coach Al Klukach has 53 candidates out as both varsity and junior varsity squads are working together in sessions at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Head Football Coach John Osborne also has his varsity and junior varsity practicing together with sessions at 8 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Forty-one candidates — a welcome surprise for Osborne's staff — have turned out for the Wildcat squad.

Novi, one year away from being a football member of the Southeastern Conference, last season posted an impressive 6-2 mark although Hartland, its opponent for this year's opener, handed the Wildcats one of its setbacks.

The Mustangs, a member of the Wayne-Oakland Counties League, last season had a 5-3 mark.

"I kind of like the hot weather at this time of year when we're emphasizing conditioning,"

Klukach observed. "I think it helps."

Conditions became more comfortable — weatherwise — Tuesday with good weather predicted for the remainder of the week.

"Monday was a little tough but I guess it's good to get that over with," Osborne reported. "Things already seem easier since the temperatures have dropped some."

The Wildcats are planning a intra-squad scrimmage Saturday climaxing their week of two-a-days and then will practice Monday night in order to allow for a longer weekend.

Klukach doesn't plan to have a formal scrimmage — although his squad already has begun contact work — until the end of next week.

The status of second-string fullback Bob Kirk became doubtful after he suffered an ankle injury earlier this week. Otherwise, neither camp has had any casualties.

Players Must Pitch-In

The Men's Slow-Pitch League All Star-Champs' Game held earlier this month clearly proved two things:

*The sport is a popular one here.

*And Ford Field is in need of considerable work before it will be able to safely accommodate players and spectators—otherwise, things must be put in order before a serious injury becomes a bad memory.

Northville City-Township Recreation Department Director Bob Prom is familiar with both points—the game's popularity and the field's hazards—and has already instituted preliminaries to expand and improve local facilities.

But now's the time for all good men to come to the aid of their league.

Participation in any such activity—in order to make it successful—means more than just coming out and playing once-a-week. A recreation director, no matter how competent and Prom obviously is close to his program and gets things done, can only work within the limitations of budgeted funds and donated energy.

The league presently is predominantly a young one although the game is also attractive to older legs. Power is a big factor offensively although the ability to hit the ball in the hole probably decides more games than the home run.

Prom has indicated an interest to form two divisions—one for the better teams who want to emphasize a play-to-win philosophy and another for the play-for-fun set. It's a relaxing game and offers the stimulation of competition along with a little exercise and with a little promotion—much of which would have to be assumed by the sports department of this newspaper—the program could make more people happy: which is what recreation is all about anyway.

Prom is working on arrangements for improving Ford Field through the installment of bleachers along the first base side and he's also promoting a second field to accommodate an expanded program.

But now's the time for players to organize a federation or association or something to actively indicate their interest and support for the program. Things that distinguish a good league from a so-so league are a well-prepared field, good officiating and publicity and these factors are not dollars-and-cents items — they're hard work and sweat items.

A federation could generally work to promote the image of the sport here and schedule games with strong teams from outside the city, make the spectator accommodations more attractive and press for proper newspaper coverage—all factors which would influence sponsors and win friends.

It seems to be a natural—the area has a number of outstanding slow-pitch leagues, this city has a number of potentially good teams and the people still like to watch a game that offers them the excitement that this one offers.

Softball, at least slow-pitch, contrary to rumor is not dead. It appears to be very much alive here and could be booming. But the key has to be what the league does for itself and that's the way it should be.

Now is the time for all good men....

LAPHAM'S...120 E. Main, Northville, 349-3677.

New coaching assignments for fall sports — one made necessary because of the unexpected resignation of Mustang Assistant Football Coach Dick Willing — have been announced by Northville High School Athletic Director Bob Kucher.

Willing, himself a former Mustang star athlete, revealed late this summer that he has accepted an offer in private business.

According to Kucher, Sy Nichols will assume Willing's duties on Head Football Coach Al Klukach's staff with Gary Emerson to fill the resulting junior varsity vacancy.

Nichols has been a junior varsity coach while Emerson, formerly a football assistant at Hartland, will be in his first year on the local faculty.

The athletic director also announced that Ben Lauber will assume duties as cross country coach succeeding Paul Osborn who resigned last spring in order to be able to devote more time as president of the Northville Education Association.

Lauber, an outstanding swimmer as a prep at Sandusky (Ohio) High School and later at Bowling Green State University, joined the local faculty last fall and was to organize an interscholastic swimming program until the defeat of a millage issue forced administrators to eliminate the program.

BEN LAUBER

He came here from Mount Clemens High School and is in his 10th year of teaching. Lauber, who with his wife, Judy, has two daughters and a son and resides at 535 River Street, also will coach swimming this year launching the new sport locally on an interscholastic basis.

Willing, an Eastern Michigan University graduate, also was the Mustangs' head baseball coach. He and his wife, Linda, and their three-week-old son will be relocating near Saginaw.

Emerson, 24 and a bachelor, is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He will be a member of the high school business education department.

The new assignments complete staffing for fall sports, according to Kucher.

Sex Education

"The Church has emphasized for many years that sex education is primarily the responsibility of parents," the Reverend Father John Wittstock of Our Lady of Victory Parish, Northville, relates.

Father Wittstock explains that "parents have failed, generally speaking, to give their children sex education" but he cautions if schools assume the responsibility, they should do it in conjunction with an effort by parents.

"Despite the inadequacy of parents (in assuming a role in sex education), I refrain from assuming the role of critic or approver of sex education in the public school," Father Wittstock says. "However, should a school program be launched, parents should be encouraged to be a part of the effort in the community to plan and develop programs of sex education and see that such programs are consonant with the religious and moral values that derive from our Judeo-Christian heritage."

Reverend Arnold B. Cook, of the First Baptist Church of Novi, attacks the proposal of sex education in public schools stating that "sexucators would do well to leave this sensitive and morally responsible matter to the morally responsible parent."

"The question of sex education has produced parental panic across America, and rightly so, for parents well know that such mixed class education will lead to stimulation, and stimulation to experimentation," he adds.

"Sex education is more than learning the 'facts of life,'" the Reverend Cedric Whitcomb, of the First Baptist Church, Northville, states. "Real love as defined in the

Near Capacity Crowd Backs Salem Pilot School Request

Ronald Shoebridge, Salem airport owner who has been the target of plenty of public opposition over the past two years, must have figured he was in the wrong place Tuesday night as he sought for the second time permission to operate a flight training school from the township board of appeals.

This time the shoe was on the other foot.

Instead of overwhelming opposition he was greeted with thundering public support as the great majority of a near capacity crowd rose to the defense of his request.

So spirited was that defense that Chairman Floyd Taylor repeatedly sought without success to quell the applause for those who spoke in Shoebridge's behalf. Only a few spoke in opposition.

But when the discussions ended, the three-member board—as Taylor had pointed out it would do at the outset—adjourned to weigh the matter before making a decision perhaps within a week. The two other members of the board are Russell Knight and Dean Hardesty, who recently replaced Fred Verran.

Shoebridge last carried his request to the board in March but it was denied, Taylor explained at the time, because of the public opposition and because the applicant had not complied with his conditional commercial operation permit.

Inadequate fencing was billed then as the reason he had faulted on his commercial permit. The airport is located on Chubb Road, adjacent to the railroad that slices through the township.

Neither the safety nor the condition of his facility, however, was questioned by the majority of citizens or the board attending the hearing on his second request Tuesday.

Specifically, Shoebridge seeks a conditional permit to operate a pilot training school similar to those conducted at neighboring airfields. His request, he and his attorney, David Bell emphasized, was made primarily for economic reasons: without the income from such a school the airport is in danger of financial failure.

The Reverend Ivan E. Speight, pastor of Salem Bible School, set the tone of the comments to come when he opened the discussion by citing the importance of flight training, especially as it affects young people and prospective members of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP). A place to learn to fly "is a real necessity," he said. In support of the airport itself, Reverend Speight said it has proved beneficial to his ministry.

Asked by Chairman Taylor if noise from planes disturbed church service, the minister answered, "No, sir."

Among the many others who supported the school and who applauded Shoebridge for his determination to give Salem an exceptional airport were property owners adjacent to the airstrip or beneath the landing path, present and past pilots, flight instructors, a Salem businessman, veterans, and an airlines chairman who said he plans to base his firm at Salem.

The airlines chairman is J.P. McCarthy (no relation to WJR's radio star), who told the board Tuesday that his firm, Michigan Airlines, has negotiated a 25 year lease with the United States government to take over the Grayling Airport. He said Salem's strategic location makes it second to none in southeastern Michigan for development of a main air transportation center.

McCarthy stressed the financial importance of the school since without it Salem could lose the airport itself, which he and others contended is an asset to the community.

Earl Demel, Plymouth attorney who said he represented 13 residents who opposed Shoebridge's request, urged the board to delay its decision to give him time to investigate the matter for his clients, whom he did not name. He offered no specific objections, asking only that he be given time to background himself in the request and the airport's history.

Wixom Plan Links Industry, Airport

Lyon Township and the City of Wixom will have an industrial-air park within the next 10 years if plans outlined last week materialize.

Louis Savage, owner of a 770-acre site at Old Plank Road and Pontiac Trail, invited members of the local planning, appeals, township and school boards to a meeting last week Wednesday at the Southfield Holiday Inn for the purpose of "acquainting" officials with the proposal in advance of rezoning requests which are expected to be made early next year.

The land under consideration is part of the former Spencer and Hopkins property. It abuts the present Wixom Airport.

Gleason Tapp, Lyon Township zoning chairman, said the largest portion of the proposed site slated for a small industries and airport complex lies within Lyon. Some rezoning would be required for the industrial developments, he explained, and much of it would require rezoning to permit airport usage.

Cost of the proposed development was pegged at $15 million. It would be developed over a period of 10 years, it was explained, with construction to begin within the next two years.

Under the proposed plan, industrial purchasers of property within the park would absorb the cost of the airfield.

New Supermarket

expand a much needed business area and develop its own parking lot, rather than have the same occur in the near future in an adjoining neighborhood", the letter stated in part.

Before voting each planning commission member expressed personal thoughts on the issue. Only Kenneth Kaestner opposed the rezoning. He expressed sympathy for abutting property owners, fears for traffic problems and a desire to retain old neighborhoods.

Other planners noted that the master plan projected changing development in the area, that the business district was badly in need of new business and particularly a supermarket for the growing trading area, that property values in the area will not be depreciated, that plans have been made to alleviate the north-south traffic through extending Griswold south, and that the city faces loss of its business district and considerable taxbase if such facilities should choose to locate on the outskirts.

Those voting in favor of the rezoning were Chairman Thomas Wheaton, David Biery, Del Black, Charles Freydl, Jr., Robert Lang, Dr. Dale Kiser and George Zerbel.

Stalks Highways This Weekend

Police Brace for Grim Killer

High volume traffic expected in Michigan during the Labor Day weekend, the last of the big summer holiday periods, will get special attention from State Police patrols, said Col. Fredrick E. Davids, department director.

Giving the patrols some extra assistance will be the three departmental planes, weather permitting, and the officers from motor vehicle inspection lanes which will not be operated during the period. Facilitating speed law enforcement for the troopers will be use of VASCAR (visual average speed computer and recorder), an electronic computer which the State Police have been incorporating into their patrol activity since last spring. Davids emphasized that all police patrols do what they can to hold the line on traffic accidents but pointed out that motorists too must help by policing their own driving if traffic deaths and injuries are to be substantially reduced.

The director stressed that Labor Day weekend, the state's worst holiday period for traffic deaths, recorded tolls of 51 last year and 48 in 1967. Of the five major holiday periods, Labor Day weekend had the highest average of 38 deaths in the five years 1964-68.

State Police patrols will be operated from noon Friday, August 29 until midnight September 1. They will provide maximum coverage during the hours from 3 p.m. to at least 9 p.m. daily. Particular attention will be devoted to highway sections with bad accident history.

Bible and sex go together and is something sacred and personal that ought to be taught in the young person's home and not be made a public issue in the school classroom.

"While I appreciate the public school and the opportunity of education for my children and the position of the teacher, I still believe that God gave children to parents and not to the school system," he continues.

"There are still some areas of education that are reserved for home and parents and sex is one of them," the Reverend Whitcomb observes.

"Every effort is being made through the printed page and music to undermine the morals of our teenagers; and sex education, as it is being advocated by its founders, is only another step toward destroying the moral foundation of our children," he adds. "Our nation is already suffering from moral decay and sex education could well strike the final blow."

Referring to surveys conducted by individual churches, the Reverend Charles F. Boerger, of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Northville, explains: "...while there was general agreement among lay people and clergymen that frank and sober discussion of sex should take place between parents and children, only a third of them had any such conversations within their homes!"

"My own experience and that of other clergymen to whom I have spoken has been that where sex education has been introduced into the public school system, it has had to bypass the spiritual and moral motivation so necessary for its proper implementation," he adds.

"In my opinion—and some will say it is slanted—the only true motivation for a living a proper—rather than a popular—sex life is one of love," the Reverend Boerger relates. "By that I do not mean only the love and protection of one's own body and mind, but the love and respect for others which comes only with an understanding of God's love for us in Christ Jesus."

"Of course, such motivation cannot be brought into the picture within the framework of our public school instruction," he observes.

"With dignity and accuracy and in proper language, the children should learn essential facts and the appreciation of the gift of sex which is theirs so that they will not only understand and care for themselves, but also understand and respect others—be they male or female, brother or sister, father or mother," the Reverend Boerger explains. "They will then know that they are wonderfully made by a God who gave father and mother the power to reproduce life."

"This would require joint effort on the part of school, home and church," he adds. "It might even necessitate classes for parents, some of whom have a distorted view of sex."

... Just Look About You

Kensington: Tombstone for a Dream

Ask just about anyone about Kensington and they'll tell you about one of Michigan's finest park systems. But ask them about Kensington — the town — and they'll screw up their eyebrows and wonder what you're talking about.

Yet Kensington, sandwiched between I-96 expressway and Milford, is a graveyard of a town that died in infancy.

More than 100 years ago, Lyon Township pioneer Sylvester Calkins asked, "Who can tell what the next fifty years may give to this place?"

"The abundant waters of the Huron (river) that now ceaselessly flow unimproved through this place may yet be utilized. The inventions of the age may yet redeem this place to its inhabitants, may yet consecrate it to industry, and industry may bring to it an abundance of wealth."

Although Calkins' dream of industry was never realized, the foundation of Kensington has indeed been utilized. The Huron has been tapped; its waters now feed a huge, thirsty lake, where hundreds of boaters and anglers play these waters daily and many thousands enjoy and know the place as Kensington Metropolitan Park.

Kensington — the park — today encompasses 4,200 acres on the Huron River with a 1,200 acre lake created by a dam across the River. Conceived in the early Forties with the establishment of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, Kensington was opened to the public in 1948.

Kensington — the town — owed its short life to a handful of imaginary pioneers. It was situated in the northwest corner of Lyon Township, on the shore of the Huron near what is now known as old Grand River Road.

According to an account by Calkins, Joel Redway erected a log house on the bank of the Huron in 1833 and, in the same year, built a saw mill. Many hoped this mill would produce enough lumber to build a city "second only to the City of Detroit."

Calkins wrote:

"A large flour mill was to be built the very next venture, and expectation stood on top-toe ready for anything wonderful to happen at the highly favored location. Under this feverish excitement the place was planned for a village on a large scale; with some room left, however, for addition on several sides. Lots were sold to actual settlers, who proceeded to erect their buildings, small and unpretentious in the majority of cases with a few very respectable ones, giving an air of aristocracy to the wondering gaze of the backwoodsman of those early days; also giving what was considered a sure prophecy of coming greatness and renown.

"Under this inspiration many bought lots on speculation at from forty to one hundred dollars per lot; considering themselves fortunate in being able to secure such a fine investment for their little hard-earned capital."

Soon other places were established. Caleb Carr erected a log hotel, A. A. Dwight built a frame store and filled it with merchandise, the Smiths helped build the place with their carpentry skills, and N. F.

Park Serves Five Counties

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority was made possible by an enabling act of the Michigan Legislature in 1939 which permitted a referendum in November, 1940 by the voters of five counties — Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne.

The first seven-member board of commissioners was appointed in 1941. Two are appointed by the governor, and each of the other five is elected by the board of supervisors of his county.

The authority is financed principally by a tax levy, limited to one-quarter of one mill, which is established by the board of commissioners on the regular county property tax.

Since its establishment the authority has purchased 18,000 acres of land and has developed nearly a dozen parks serving the five-county area.

Kensington, located on the north side of I-96 between Brighton and New Hudson is the finest example of the authority's continuing ambition of turning unproductive land into productive recreational parks.

Facilities at Kensington include an 18-hole golf course, youth group camp, boat slip rentals, boat launching, toboggan runs, two large swimming beaches, nature center and trails, ice fishing and skating, lodges for youth groups, an excursion boat, picnic groves, food service, boat rentals and a canoe campsite.

Largest of all of the authority parks, Kensington is the showplace of southeastern Michigan.

from the Pastor's Study

To be sure it is an interesting account that Dr. Luke gives us of a man named Zacchaeus. The story can be found in Luke 19:1-10. The few verses describing this man do not tell us a whole lot about him. He was small of stature; he held a prominent position among a religious group called publicans. Also we know that he was a man of considerable wealth.

Word had been circulated that a prominent visitor would grace the streets of the village of Jericho on a given day. The visitors name was Jesus. Reportedly strange things had happened at his hand. A blind man had received his sight. Demons had been cast from the man of Gadara. The 12-year old daughter of Jarius, the ruler of the synagogue, had been raised up from death. A woman having suffered some 12 years with a dreadful disease was suddenly healed when she touched the border of his garment.

"What manner of man is this," Zacchaeus reasoned in his mind. "I must not miss the opportunity to see him."

There would be a great crowd of people thronging the streets of the village. And so he would fling his modesty to the four winds and climb into the sycamore tree along the street where Jesus would pass. His handicap proved to be a blessing. Climbing the tree brought him face to face with Jesus and with destiny.

It should be noted that Zacchaeus could not see Jesus "on account of the crowd." The herd instinct keeps a lot of people from seeing Jesus. They are mortally afraid of getting out of step, of being different. Society demands conformity. If you fall below its standard, it will punish you; if you dare rise above its standards, it will persecute you-it demands a gray, average morality. So a great many look around before they act. They don't really act; they only react. This is why Peter said, "Save yourselves from this crooked generation."

The first step toward salvation is to break step with society that is rapidly going down hill. At that moment you begin to become a person. No longer are you saying "Ditto!" You are beginning to say, "I choose."

This is the high and holy privilege of every individual to chose Christ. That is the choice Zacchaeus made and his whole life was transformed. His sense of values was completely changed. For the first time he began to live with eternal values in mind.

Would you like to live in a house like this? It might be fun for awhile, but chances are that the novelty would soon wear off. When it comes to daily living, Americans are comfort-lovers. We want the latest car, deep freeze, stove or vacuum cleaner.

Because we pride ourselves on being modern, sometimes we are apt to think of going to church every Sunday as old-fashioned and out of gear with the present-day world. But the Church, in case you haven't noticed, is keeping up with the times far better than a lot of us. And isn't it true that certain basic truths, traditions and ideals cannot be gauged as modern or old-fashioned? The Church is ready to face tomorrow. Why not go next Sunday and see for yourself?

Butterfield gave impetus to the development with his boot and shoe manufacturing skills.

W. C. Gates became the justice of peace, and Thomas Curtis the community physician.

Excitement continued to mount as Robert and Chauncy Crouse arrived with a stock of merchandise. Then came George W. Peck and his brothers, who opened a store on the west side of the river. Carr built another hotel on the west side of the river

Kensington soon had a church with the establishment of the Baptist Society. A Presbyterian society was organized, and the Protestant Episcopal church held services in Kensington as well.

Although excitement ran high as the new businesses and buildings increased, none of this activity created the stir that was generated with the establishment of the Bank of Kensington.

RECREATION—A MONUMENT TO A COLORFUL PAST

Kensington:

Tombstone for a Dream

Thanks to the "wild cat" banking law of the state at the time, banks were started on a shoestring throughout Michigan. And Kensington's bank was as wild as any of them.

"With such flattering prospects," wrote Calkins, "and such possibilities before these pioneers it ought not perhaps be thought strange that these enterprising men should desire a bank from which they could issue bank-bills, deposit their surplus money, obtain drafts, and transact the immense commercial business of the place."

Among those who backed Kensington's wildcat bank was Kingsley S. Bingham, first Republican governor of Michigan whose home still stands a mile south from Kensington in Green Oak Township.

"A small brick building was erected for the use of this banking company..."

"They obtained a good supply of bank note blanks that were soon properly signed and put in circulation. Let it be recorded that the Bank of Kensington issued as nice bills to look upon as any bank ever issued."

Like the bank notes that were merely promises to pay, the community was built upon the promise of the future. And both promises proved futile. The bank failed and so did Kensington.

"The mill went to decay and tumbled down, the best buildings were actually left without inhabitants and their ruin was not left for the comparatively slow process of time to accomplish, the shedding was torn off and the floors torn up to make kindling wood for those who remained. The large hotel built by Mr. Carr on the west side of the river was one of the buildings that disappeared in this manner — a little at a time until not a vestige remained to mark the spot."

The rubble of Kensington has long since disappeared. And only a very few can still recall the skeleton of this forgotten place. It's gravestone — Kensington the park — is the only remaining tribute to the dreams of those early pioneers.

State Sets DDT Rules

Guidelines for disposal of DDT products by Michigan residents have been established and will be distributed throughout the state with the help of newspapers, television, radio, magazines, and a specially prepared brochure.

The guidelines were set up following action by the Michigan Commission of Agriculture April 16 cancelling registration of DDT products in the state. Included are specific directions for homeowners, commercial, agricultural and municipal users of DDT.

Preparation of the guidelines was a joint project of the Michigan Departments of Agriculture, Natural Resources, and Public Health, in cooperation with Michigan State University.

Copies of the booklet, "How to Dispose of DDT Products," will be available from the four cooperating organizations and their regional and district offices.

Cooperative planning for the project is designed to eliminate conflicting recommendations and to coordinate efforts of the public agencies involved. Guidelines had been requested by Governor William G. Milliken. Homeowners are advised:

1. To get rid of DDT (dichloro diphenyl trichloroethane) products such as aerosol bombs, liquid sprays, powders, and dusts, bury them on your own property. If each homeowner does so, these products will be safely dispersed and will reduce dangerous concentrations of DDT and other toxic materials at public disposal sites. By law, ingredients are listed on the label.

2. Select a place away from trees and other desirable shrubs or plants and at least 50 feet from any well or surface water such as a lake, stream, pond, or drain.

3. Dig a hole deep enough to cover the DDT products and containers with three feet of dirt.

4. Aerosol (pressurized) cans should not be punctured but put in the hole intact.

5. Glass and metal containers should be opened and put in the hole tilted down to allow drainage. The glass should not be broken.

6. Bags and boxes should be buried intact.

7. The hole should not be left open. It should be filled with three feet of dirt immediately.

The only exception to the above recommendations is if the water table on your property is less than five feet below the ground. (If you do not know your underground water level, call your local health department.) If the water table on your property is less than five feet below the ground, your health department will advise you what to do.

The disposal of DDT in larger quantities should be done in one of the following ways:

Bury on Own Property:

1. Select a site at least six feet above the highest groundwater table in an area that is not likely to be used for crops or building purposes. The site should be at least 300 feet from any well or surface body of water including lakes, streams, ponds and drainage ditches.

2. Dig a hole deep enough to cover the insecticide and containers with three feet of soil.

3. Open containers of liquids before placing them in the hole so as to permit drainage of the insecticide from the containers.

4. Place bags or cartons containing wettable powders or dusts in the hole intact.

5. Fill in the hole with soil immediately.
