

A Trip to Washington

March is Peaceful But Not Their Sleep

EDITOR'S NOTE — Paul Feters, 22 and a senior at Eastern Michigan University, helps pay for his education by working in the composition department of The Northville Record. Last week he took time off to march for peace in Washington, D.C. Although he'll receive a degree in education, Paul has second thoughts about teaching and would now like to try his hand at journalism. So we asked him to report on his experience in the nation's capitol as an anti-war demonstrator. This is his story.

The city of Jefferson's peach trees was in bloom last weekend — with people. They came from all over the eastern half of the country to participate in what has been called the largest anti-war rally in the history of the nation.

They came in cars, trains, planes, and bicycles. They wore army fatigues and grey worsted suits, levis and work shirts, and outfits of the highest fashion; they sported beads, buttons, pendants, bumper stickers, and cardboard signs.

My friends and I, all students of Eastern, didn't join their ranks until 5 a.m. Saturday owing to a snowstorm encountered high in the Pennsylvania mountains.

Sleepy and groggy-eyed from nearly 10 hours of driving we met Moratorium Washington and the throngs of people who were even then crowding the streets. Forty minutes spent figuring out that Washington streets are labeled by letters and numbers and that they run alternately off of traffic circles every other block, and 20 minutes spent finding our way out of the maze, and we finally came to the Baptist church in the heart of the city where we were told we would receive accommodations.

Parking was impossible because of the 30 buses from State, U-M, and Central, so while my roommate drove around the block I was dispatched "to find out what's going on."

Despite the cold — it was 18-degrees and snowing lightly — and the throngs of people flowing in and out of the church, the attitude of everyone I met was one of friendliness with a desire to assist. I was shaken by the hand, clapped on the back, and ruffled by the hair by perfect strangers who were overjoyed (it seemed) to see me. Food stations, water stations, blanket stations, a fire (the heat in the building I learned had been turned off) had been set up inside the church and were busily serving all who could cluster around. I made my way to the table marked SLEEPING. The girl in charge was "sorry" but all private homes had been filled and we would have to be satisfied with the basement of a high school.

Teenagers Succeed

Managing Dances Is Big Business

Do teenagers want more music to dance by and less hard rock?

Officers of the student-operated club, The Cavern, are taking a hard look at this question as they go about the expensive business of hiring bands for their twice monthly dances.

That the officers even consider the question in view of the steady popularity of entertainment-oriented rock is a clue to why the Northville teenagers club continues to succeed while others in the metropolitan area have closed their doors or are tetering on the brink of bankruptcy.

"We must adjust to changing demands," says Club President Curt Sauer, "in order to survive. That's why we're considering the possibility of hiring only one band for our dances and maybe using more recorded music."

Some hard-rock is "great to listen to but it isn't easy to dance to," Curt explains. "People coming out to our dances may stand around and listen or watch these kinds of performers but they're not dancing. Many kids even leave the dance floor when they're performing. We're wondering if kids prefer rock that's easier to dance to."

By hiring a single band that caters to those who want "the loud, wild stuff" and supplementing it with recorded dance rock Curt and fellow officers believe the club might be able to satisfy a larger number of members and guests.

Of course, there's another, perhaps even more important reason for considering a change in format, admits Curt. The club hires only unionized musicians and must pay as much as $600 or more for two good bands. Expenditures like these are not small, even in comparison with those of adult organizations in the area.

To break even on a single dance,

NORTHVILLE JAYCEES garnered top honors in competition with 265 other Michigan chapters at the fall meeting in Cadillac earlier this month. In the point rating for outstanding accomplishment, the Northville chapter took 1,048 points. Plymouth took second with 895 points. Jaycee President David VanHine, in praising members for their efforts, beamed, "After nine long years, not only did Northville crack the top ten, but leaped to the top."

NEAR-EPIDEMIC proportions of colds and flu are reported here this week as Northville schools record a high rate of absenteeism. Miss Florence Panatoni of the administrative staff comments, "We haven't called it an epidemic, but we do have a high absence rate."

TWO COURT CASES will be discussed by Northville Township officials Tuesday night in an executive meeting at the township hall. Discussion will center around a recent circuit court decision, which slapped down a long-time attempt by the township to prohibit house trailers along Gerald Avenue. The township argued unsuccessful that because trailers are non-conforming uses, removal and replacement by other trailers constitutes an illegal action under non-conforming regulations. The lower court disagreed and officials are now considering whether or not to appeal the case. Officials also are weighing the proposed consent judgment with Boron Oil, which seeks to build a station at Haggerty and Five Mile roads.

Water Rate Hike OK'd, But Only for One Year

Proposed five-year life expectancy of water rate increases was sliced to a single year Monday night as the Northville City Council approved water and sewer rate hikes averaging 33-percent.

Thus, rate increases to consumers become a reality but, by stipulation of an amendment proposed by Councilman Paul Folino and approved by fellow members, water rates are to be reviewed at the conclusion of 1970 and possibly rolled back.

Review will not include sewer rates increases, however, since these were passed on by Wayne County after the City of Detroit hiked county rates, whereas the water rate hike is being made to wipe out a $40,000 deficit in the sewer and water department.

In considering several possible schedules, the council chose one that, with increases, would pay off the debt within a five-year period. (The debt was incurred when the city tied in with the Detroit water system).

Pressed by former councilman John Canterbury, who said he found the increases "shocking" in view of recent tax increases, City Manager Frank Ollendorff, who supported the one-year review clause, explained that the city has been hoping that sewer and water taps through new construction would pay off the debt. But because construction has not occurred at the pace he predicted two years ago, the debt has been substantially untouched. The $40,000, he said, has been loaned to the water and sewer account from the general account made up of property taxes.

When Walter Sandrock, another citizen in the public hearing audience, wondered aloud why councilmen were so concerned with the debt when, in his opinion, it amounted to simply taking money from one pocket and putting it into another, Ollendorff said the analogy would be correct if all property tax payers were water users. Not all are, he said, pointing out that Northville Estates homeowners are in reality subsidizing the water and sewer account — even though they use neither city sewers or water.

Canterbury urged councilmen to abandon the increase after learning that "planned" construction of homes, if realized, would come close to eliminating the debt. "It's (construction) going to come," he declared.

At this point, the council adopted the one-year review clause but decided to adopt the rate hikes as proposed. At the end of one year if the council finds that construction income is cutting sufficiently into the debt it may trim or even cut back the water rate increase entirely. Actually, if the council does nothing, the water rate increase automatically is dropped at the end of one year unless the council formally votes to reinstate it.

Public hearings on several other matters brought no challenges from the audience. Approved were ordinances that permit city police regulation of traffic and parking on school property within the city, that prohibit illegal use of narcotics, that spelling out two-dozen or more city offenses punishable by fine and/or jail, and that formally establish a city parking authority.

Also, the council adopted a resolution, without public objection, that vacates the Park Place right-of-way to be used by Foundry Flask but which reserves city utility right-of-way beneath the ground until Foundry Flask owners provide for their relocation.

Approved, too, was an hourly rate increase to $3.00 for city auxiliary policemen as recommended by the city manager and the police chief. Auxiliary policemen are currently paid $2 per hour for city work, such as patrolling streets at Halloween and parade supervision. They are reimbursed, at a substantially higher hourly wage, while working at Northville Downs, the Cavern, etc. Money to cover this expenditure, however, is paid by those organizations or businesses contracting for special police service.

An auxiliary police request that these policemen also be compensated for attending training sessions in uniform was tabled pending establishment of a former training program by the chief and city manager.

Fireworks Seen In City Land Sale

Debate, if not verbal fireworks, is likely to erupt next Monday when the city council meets informally with citizens of Village Green subdivision to discuss the proposed sale of the city-owned well property just north of the Novi Road curve into Eight Mile Road.

Major discussion, it appears, will revolve around the question as to how much of the city's 491 acres of property should be put on sale for multiple-housing development (for which it is presently zoned).

The city council proposes to sell the entire parcel to the highest bidder, with the stipulation that construction be prohibited west of the stream bordering the rear of subdivision homes. While the council suggests that the developer not be permitted to build on the rear portion, it is willing to permit this acreage to be used in computing dwelling density.

Apparently, the subdivision association is satisfied that the property eventually will be developed and that multiple-housing is preferable to business development. However, the association believes the rear portion of the property should be reserved as public, open park land.

The city notes that to make the property economically feasible for housing development the entire parcel must be offered for sale. And if this is done, the "open space" probably will be maintained by the owner for the exclusive use of residents within his development.

Over past years subdivision home owners, primarily Arthur Adams, have maintained the city property for recreation of subdivision children. They would like this land, west of the stream, to remain in city hands for park purposes. Speaking for himself, and not the association, Adams suggests the entire parcel be maintained

Novi Girl Wed in Candlelight Rites

Miss Cheryl Ann Richards and Richard H. Perkins exchanged marriage vows in a candlelight ceremony November 7 at Our Lady of Good Counsel, Plymouth.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Richards, 23971 East LeBost, Novi, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Perkins, Livonia.

The Reverend David A. Britz officiated at the 7 p.m. ceremony. Two vases of white and yellow mums decorated the altar.

She was given in marriage by her father.

For her gown, the bride designed a Victorian style Bianchi gown with a bodice of ivory velvet and full bishop sleeves. Her A-line skirt of ivory satin was trimmed with Venice lace.

Her headpiece of ivory velvet with matching Venice lace trim secured a silk illusion bubble veil. She carried a bouquet of ivory and pale yellow tea roses.

The bride chose Miss Karen Rumble of Novi for her honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Miss Ginny Hodkinson of Detroit, Miss Marilyn Talarico of Dearborn and Miss Faye Macorkundale of Livonia.

They wore floor-length Edwardian style gowns with deep avocado skirts. Ivory chiffon composed the long sleeves and bodices. The gowns were belted with a lime green satin sash.

The attendants carried toupeberry balls of ivory mums, yellow snow daisies and straw flowers in yellow and green. Lime green velvet ribbons completed their flowers.

The bride chose her cousin, Janice Kerchen, as flower girl. Her gown matched those of the attendants. She carried a bouquet similar to the bride's.

Another cousin of the bride, Robbie Kerchen, was ringbearer.

Cyril Yurgens, Livonia, was best man. Brian Stephens and Greg Ebejer, both of Livonia, and James Smith of Avon Lake, Ohio, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, seated guests.

Mrs. Richards, mother of the bride, chose a floor-length gown of ivory saki linen and a brown velvet bolero jacket.

The mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Perkins, wore a floor-length gown of deep wine velvet with an ivory bodice and matching wine jacket.

A wedding reception was held at Glen Oaks Country Club, Farmington, with 200 guests attending from Livonia, Detroit, Ohio, Delaware and Florida.

The couple will travel to the West Coast, New Orleans and Georgia before returning home to Plymouth.

The bride is a 1965 graduate of Northville High and the bridegroom was graduated from Bentley High the same year.

For Town Hall Speaker

Faith in America Fulfills Dreams

"I'm just helping you with your own chase," the president of Pan American Airlines told Harry Morgan as he donated tickets to bring young foreign journalists to "see the greatness of America and its people for themselves."

Such a high-echelon assist was typical of the help Northville Town Hall's speaker last Thursday has received during the past 16 years as he pursued his young dream of spreading understanding of America and its people.

Morgan, who has been around the world a dozen times and who has been a roving editor for Reader's Digest and still is a personal representative of its owner, DeWitt Wallace, founded the World Press Institute 10 years ago to bring to the U.S. "outstanding young journalists who have not made up their minds about America on a private program to spend a year, traveling and working on smaller papers."

He announced the program has just been pledged for another 10 years.

Morgan's pride in his land made the Town Hall program an inspirational one as he recounted his adventures that began in 1953 as he hitchhiked to New York from his home in California as an 18-year-old hoping to help the people of the Netherlands recover from severe floods.

An appearance on the Chicago program, "Welcome Traveler," won him a KLM Dutch airline ticket to that country where he stayed for seven months and developed "a pipe dream to bring young Europeans he had worked with to America."

On return, during his service with the Air Force, he spoke to groups of this hope, and in 1956 in Dayton his "Ambassadors for Friendship" program came into being. An article in Reader's Digest about his effort brought him to the attention of its owner.

Morgan recounted his first interview with Wallace, who contacted him when he was a student at Rutgers University. This resulted in his developing a private program through Macalster College in St. Paul, Minnesota, to show foreign students this country.

Morgan, when he suggested the program to bring journalists here, was told by Wallace to "go out and find the money."

Morgan, who estimated $50,000 was needed, went through the yellow pages of the telephone book to get Pan Am airlines tickets, station wagons and money from companies doing business abroad.

He always "started at the top," Morgan pointed out to illustrate his belief that "anyone who has an idea can carry that idea to any man or any corporation in America and they'll help you."

He described his appeal to George Romney, then president of American Motors, for station wagons. After Romney heard the plan and reminded the young caller that this was supposed to be a company for profit-making, he asked two questions: "How many do you want and what color do you want us to paint them?"

Standard Oil provided the gas and oil and National Cash Register and IBM, the money.

To date, Morgan stated, well over 100 journalists from 57 countries have participated with seven now serving as chief editors and 12 as managing editors of their papers. Another 17 have returned here as foreign correspondents.

Morgan now has a new hope — to set up a program for foreign correspondents in Washington and New York to "get out and see the rest of the country."

Morgan, who was introduced by Jack Hoffman, assistant to the publisher of the Northville Record, mentioned that De Witt Wallace had just celebrated his 80th birthday on November 12 and that his wife, Lila, would be 80 at Christmas.

At the celebrity luncheon following his talk Morgan recounted how the Wallaces had founded the magazine of reprints of news articles and features in 1922, offering a free year's subscription for every three subscriptions solicited.

They did this for three years, he said, to keep the magazine going. Today, they have given away "well over 100 million dollars," Morgan added, "and now give away 100 per cent of their income."

In Our Town

By JEAN DAY

A RACE TRACK party is in the offing for members of Northville Newcomers Club next Saturday, November 29. The Downs track premieres its first winter season next Monday night to run through December 30.

The Newcomers' party is to begin with cocktails at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kaestner, 941 Novi Street from 6:30 p.m. until track time at 8:15 p.m.

Mrs. Steve Terpevich, chairman, and her committee of Mrs. Robert Quirk, Mrs. Robert Fitzgerald and Mrs. David Goss are completing plans for the evening, including those for food after the races at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kucher, 43796 Park Grove Court.

All members and prospective members are invited to attend with reservations to be made to Mrs. Terpevich, 349-5915, on or before next Monday.

Newcomer couples also are planning a gala for New Year's Eve — assuring that those new to the community will have others with whom to usher in a new decade.

ST. PAUL Lutheran Church Women's Guild is hoping to make it easy for working women as well as housewives to attend its first Christmas bazaar in more than a decade. A snack bar will be open all during the bazaar from 9:30 a.m. until 9 p.m. this Friday, serving hot dogs, sloppy joes and coffee.

There also will be a booth of home-baked goodies those attending may take home for dinner dessert. Other booths include stitchery, handicrafts and Christmas decorations.

Commenting on the low, "bargain" price tags noted on bazaar goodies, Mrs. Warner Krause, guild president, explains that members have donated their time and talents, hoping to make their first bazaar in recent history a success — and "after all, we are a church group, we shouldn't overcharge!"

TONIGHT is opening night for the Northville High School drama club production, "The Crucible," which also will be presented Friday and Saturday nights at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The play by Arthur Miller dealing with witchcraft days in early America follows last year's production of "Oliver," and is expected to garner similar laurels for the competence and hard work of the young actors. Tickets at $1.50 are available at the door.

SARAH ANN Cochrane Chapter, DAR, marked its 43rd birthday at a luncheon Monday at the Mayflower Hotel. About 60 members and guests, who included visiting regents of other Michigan chapters, attended.

Jack McDonald, U. S. Representative from the 19th District, spoke on Washington events, explaining President Nixon's three-step plan for withdrawal in Vietnam and urging a show of patriotism by the "silent majority."

He suggested that members write the president or send telegrams to show their patriotism positively. He said that this is the time for citizens to participate in demonstrations of patriotism and to "show the flag."

He was introduced by Mrs. David Christensen of Northville, luncheon chairman. Northville presently is well represented in the Plymouth-Northville DAR chapter as its president, Mrs. George Merwin, also is a Northville resident of Brookland Farms. She presided and introduced visiting regents.

DATE for the DAR Christmas tea is announced for 1 p.m. December 15. Again this year it is to be held in the home of Mrs. William Bake, 841 West Main Street.

FOURTH ANNUAL open house at Linda Edgerton's Gallery Books shop in her home at 571 Randolph street is being held this week to coincide with National Book Week. To celebrate she has a new room with new toys, new titles and some juvenile paperbacks.

Hours are 7 to 9 p.m. through Friday; all day Saturday and Sunday.

THIS SUNDAY'S open house of Northville merchants' is reported to be "by far the largest in history." About a dozen stores are to be open from noon to 5 p.m. to show Christmas merchandise. Many will serve refreshments.

This is the official opening of toyland at Gamble's. Lila's Flowers and Gifts will show the many Christmas arrangements that have become a tradition with the store.

Hartley-Powers Gallery expects to have on hand its full quota of gifts from abroad, including items from Mexico, Europe and the Orient. Hugh Jarvis Gifts, Lapham's Men's Store, Little People's Shop, Ely Garden Center, Guernsey Farms Dairy and two new shops — Banbury Cross and Young in Heart — also are participating.

Del's Shoe store will be open and Santa will be sitting on his throne there to hear small fry Christmas wishes.

MRS. WILLIAM Slattery heard about Christmas and Thanksgiving plans of the nation's First Family directly from Mrs. Nixon when she attended a tea reception at the White House the end of last month as Michigan representative on the national council of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association.

She attended the dedication ceremonies of a bench in memory of Michigan's Mrs. Wilson. In addition to shaking hands with the First Lady in the reception line, Mrs. Slattery reports, she learned about the Nixon's involvement of Washington senior citizens in their planned Thanksgiving celebration and their intention of including inner city children in their Christmas party.

During her tour of the White House, Mrs. Slattery confides, she glimpsed the state dining room ready for an evening dinner in honor of the Shah of Iran.

Homemakers Contest Nears for Senior Girls

High school senior girls from this area will join more than 600,000 others in over 15,000 schools throughout the country Tuesday, December 2, in an only-one-of-its-kind examination. At stake in the written homemaking knowledge and attitude test of the 16th annual Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow are $110,000 in college scholarships.

The girl scoring highest here will receive a specially designed silver charm from General Mills, sponsor of the homemaking education program, and her paper will be entered in competition with those of all other school winners in the state. From this, a state winner, who will be awarded a $1,500 scholarship, will be selected.

Don't Hide Sex at Home, Speaker Tells Joint PTAs

about Women and the family

NOVI OPEN HOUSE — Families of Orchard Hills elementary school inspected the new school addition at last week's open house sponsored by the Orchard Hills Booster Club. A record number of parents took advantage of the opportunity to visit classrooms, visit their children's teachers, and have refreshments served in the multi-purpose room.

Positive attitudes and the ability to communicate with children in precise language were suggested as ways parents can help their children most in the area of sex education by Dr. Armin Grams, director of the human development program at Merrill Palmer Institute.

Speaking to a joint meeting of Northville's three elementary PTAs last Wednesday night, Dr. Grams suggested ways to develop growing relationships...relationships that make it easier to answer when children ask questions in the area of family relationships.

Admitting that many parents have grown up in homes where little was said in the way of sex education, Dr. Grams pointed out the need to overcome the repressive influence "that has been with us since Victorian days."

At the same time he cautioned against the extremes of sex and sex symbols flaunted in mass media, using sex symbols "to make things attractive."

He defined appropriate attitudes as "those relating to our capacity as human beings to relate to each other."

"We become more of a person as we have relationships in depth for intimacy is a human ability. There is intimacy between a parent and child..."

"We do have hang ups (about sex) and can't be at ease, but we wonder why. There's no question that the majority of parents have had some things in their relationships that were negative. My generation has had somewhat negative attitudes that relate to the kind of education we received."

Grams pointed out that this negative attitude came in part from the settings in which sex was learned — drug store magazine stands and back rooms or shower rooms. He added that even "those who got information from parents years ago received negative-type education as parents tried to warn about diseases and dangers of pregnancy."

In addition, Grams continued, "our own experience has much to do with our attitude — many parents have real difficulties to iron out, and never do."

Encouragingly, he pointed out that human relationships are close to oneself and, because of this, shouldn't be too easy to talk about. This really is good, he said, "because children then know we're speaking on a special relationship."

An adequate vocabulary, he stressed, is a key way to help children in the area of sex. Many families have a "private and very creative" language but it doesn't help in a group situation, such as when the child goes to school."

Similarly, the "language of vulgarity" is wrong before children, he added.

"Young children accept and use appropriate terms, and these provide them with a language they can continue to grow with," Grams said, illustrating the ability of proper terms to "problem solve" later. "A child who understands the term uterus as the growing place for the unborn baby can accept that it has a special place to come out better than the child who thinks the baby grows in mother's tummy — which still is better than thinking babies come from a black bag."

"Children ask questions at the level of their interest," Grams pointed out, advising that through early childhood parents let the child take the lead and not tell too much — "but find out what the child is really asking."

For the child that doesn't ask he suggested the parent can bring up the matter: "You know where babies come from, don't you. Tell me what you think?"

He discounted the value of animals in the birth parallel because of the paternity question involved.

"It's not as difficult as we think to talk to young children because as we demonstrate affection to an infant we are teaching that when you love you

Sex Education

Schools Leave It to Parents

In Northville the primary responsibility for sex education is in the hands of parents. This is the present policy in the Northville school district, as it was explained at the joint meeting of Main Street, Amerman and Moraine elementary PTAs last week by Superintendent Raymond Spear.

Speaking on the subject that has become a highly controversial matter in parts of the state during recent months, Spear said, "I feel the primary responsibility is with parents, not the schools; the school's part has to be pinpointed by parents and can range from the child's role in family living to venereal disease."

Spear said the school's major role should be in dealing with relationships, in accord with the student's age. It is not the district's intention, he illustrated, to tell a kindergartner "where baby sister came from."

Spear also pointed out that the state has given directives in this field and that according to school code any program of instruction in sex hygiene has to be given by a registered nurse, doctor or qualified teacher. The schools, he stated, are not given the right to teach birth control.

Spear said the state legislature has passed a resolution this year urging districts to refrain from teaching the subject until guidelines can be formed.

"The district and board expect to consult parents," Spear promised, as he emphasized that at present "only roles are being taught."

Roles are defined as a child's relationships with others.

Anything further will be developed cooperatively with home and church, the superintendent stated, as he repeated that the district is not doing anything that is a direct focus on sex education.

"What we teach is determined by parents — How it is taught, by educators ... we will wait for state directives and will involve you (parents)," he promised.

Norman Hannewald, a Cooke Junior High science teacher, was introduced to the audience of about 120 parents. He presently is one of two Northville teachers taking a training course on human sexuality at Merrill Palmer Institute. He and Miss Pat Bubel, high school girls' physical education teacher, were approved for the federally-funded project under the Educational Professional Development Act.

Parents with questions were advised to seek information from them.

Theresa Schult Wins Contest

Sixteen-year-old Theresa Schult, a Novi High School junior, won first place in the Virginia Farrell state beauty contest held November 10 at Ford Auditorium in Detroit.

Two contestants from each of five schools were selected to compete in the contest.

Representing the Virginia Farrell School of Beauty on Seven Mile and Grand River, in October, Miss Schult was chosen top student from among 200 girls at the school.

Prizes won in state competition include five weeks' training at the Virginia Farrell Academy of Advanced Hairstyling, a $100 Savings Bond, dinner for two at the Top of the Flame and a bouquet of roses.

Miss Schult is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schult, 26140 Beck Road.

Cheers Go to Pat Roth

Patricia F. Roth, of Northville was recently chosen an alternate to the eight-member Grand Valley State College, Allendale, varsity cheerleading squad. A sophomore at the college, she is a graduate of Northville High School.

During the up-coming basketball season, Miss Roth must be prepared to step in at a moment's notice whenever a varsity member is unable to make a game.

A highlight of this year's season is that this will be the first time all Grand Valley home basketball games will be played on-campus in the college's new Field House. GVSC's first game is an afternoon home game against Judson, Saturday, November 22. The season goes into high gear for 22 games with a December 1, 8 p.m. home game against Alma.

Pastor to Host Holyland Tour

Reverend and Mrs. Robert V. Warren of Wixom will host a 15-day tour to the Holy Land and centers of Greco-Roman classical history beginning February 19, it was announced this week.

The tour group will leave from the John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York, returning March 5.

The tour, according to the Reverend Warren, who is pastor of the First Baptist Church of Wixom, will include visits to such places as Rome, stopping to see the Catacombs, the Roman Colosseum, and Forum, the Vatican Sistine Chapel, and St. Peter's Basilica.

From Rome the tour will go to Egypt to observe the Egyptian pyramids, the Valley of Kings & Queens, tombs of former pharaohs, and museums. It will feature a sailboat ride on the River Nile.

Visits to Tel Aviv and Jerusalem are planned, with stops at the Wailing Wall, the Garden of Gethsemane, Mount of Olives, Bethlehem, Jericho, Jordan River and the Dead Sea. The group will cross the Sea of Galilee by boat and visit Capernaum, Nazareth, and Mount Carmel.

Finally, Pastor and Mrs. Warren and those accompanying them will visit Athens, observing the Mars Hill and the Acropolis, and on to Corinth from where the group will make its return flight to New York and home.

Anyone interested in joining the Warrens and members and friends of the First Baptist Church of Wixom are asked to call Reverend Warren at 624-3823 or 624-0442 for additional information.

Jaycees Cancel 'Miss' Pageant

The 1969-70 Junior Miss Pageant has been cancelled, Northville Jaycees announced this week, because of an insufficient number of contestants from Northville and Novi high schools.

The local pageant had been scheduled to take place Friday, November 28.

In two previous years, the winning Northville girls went on to claim higher honors under the Jaycees sponsorship. Last year Leanne Steeper went on to become the metropolitan Detroit regional Junior Miss and two years ago, Pam Smith won locally, regionally and in the state finals to compete for national honors.

"We hope to revive interest in the pageant next year," said Jaycee President David VanHine, "with added promotional efforts."

want to be close."

He emphasized that an infant should feel his body is "good," and that the preschooler would know that there are body differences and where babies come from.

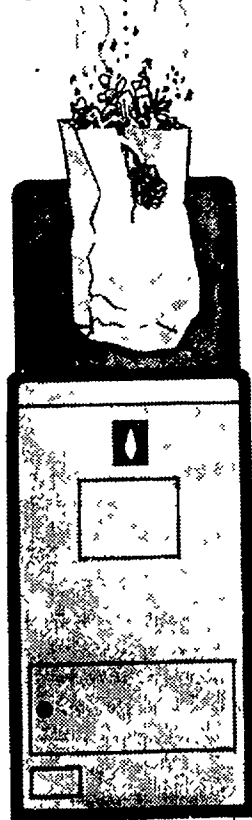

By adolescence, he continued, if parents have had a good, close relationship with their child they still can communicate, but a lot of this will be by example. Here, he said, the "quality of relationship between parents and what it means to be a responsible, obligated person" are important.

"When father and mother have a good relationship with each other," Grams added, "children can leave without feeling they are deserting the family — they are emancipated."

Responsibility should be the key to young people's relationships today, Grams said, stressing that sound attitudes of commitment are needed for them not to exploit one another and that they must know sex is not "entertainment."

'Model City' to Rise Here?

along the way

By DON KRUPP

Now Do We Get Together?

I sit here a humble man hunched over my typewriter with charges of LSD, wrinkled trousers and payola dancing through my head.

A little bit dizzy, I'm tempted to feel that as a public service I should go stuff my body in that 36-inch drain down at Loon Lake. But I've got to believe that Senator Kuhn or Supervisor Coy would beat me to it and anyway, I haven't been able to fit into a 36-inch drain since mashed potatoes.

Claims, that this newspaper is slanting the news and that I can be bought normally would make me more than just a little upset; but I just don't want to play this foolish game anymore.

I do newspaper because I believe in newspaper; because I feel, unlike anything else, it can provide a basis for community understanding by informing. And I believe understanding, more than great minds or great wealth, is the key to success in local government.

And I believe that a newspaper has the right — no, the responsibility — to state its opinion in the proper place when it feels it's in the best interest of the community. Just like an individual, a newspaper has that right; and just like an individual, a newspaper that does not exercise that right is a failure unto itself.

But where this community is failing now is that it's not trying to understand. To the contrary, many people are working harder to promote misunderstanding than understanding and the results are dangerous.

After having discussed an issue for more than a month, too many people are right back where they started because they've talked and not listened.

Too many people feel that they've personally either won or lost in the battle over that storm drain and too few people are considering the issue as it affects the total community.

I believe that the issue can have more value than just within itself. I believe that it should serve to make us aware that we've got to work harder together towards understanding.

Until we believe in doing things together, too many things will go undone.

Program Needs Good Beginning

Interest in establishing a formal recreation program in the City of Novi appears evident on two fronts with the Novi Community Schools' board of education and the Novi Jaycees indicating a willingness to give time and people in order to organize an effort.

The Jaycees have decided to make the program its project for the coming year

Final parcels of property are now in the process of being acquired for a major commercial-residential development in the south-central portion of the city, it has been learned.

The Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority has already purchased nearly $1.5 million worth of property within an area bound by Nine Mile Road, Novi Road, Ten Mile Road and Beck Road, according to tax equalization records.

And the authority reportedly is in the final stages of property acquisition for a large residential and commercial development, MDCDA executive director Edward Robinson told this newspaper.

Robinson emphasized that contrary to rumor, the residential portion of the development is not being designed to accommodate low-income families. He also confirmed a report that the commercial development within the total project would be a "model city" type "which we feel will be very beneficial to the community."

"We are acquiring property," he explained. "There are very preliminary plans being developed and planning will not advance until we've had the opportunity to consult with city officials."

"The development is not being designed for low-income families," the director stated. "We have two different kinds of development — that within the inner city area and the outer city — and oftentimes people associate us only with our low-income efforts."

"Based on our preliminary studies, the concept being considered for use is one we feel will be very beneficial to the community," he added.

Knowledge of the project evolved as a rumor amongst members of the City Planning Commission after an area developer apparently revealed that the authority is active in the community. However, indications were that housing would be single-family units and multiples for low-income households.

The total development area is within the Northville Public Schools' district.

According to City Planning Commission Chairman George Athas, this city along with several others was being considered by the authority "about a year ago" as a possible site for a major development — at that time thought to be just residential in nature. Athas reported that according to tax equalization records, the authority has already acquired nearly 500 acres the northwest and northeast corner at Nine Mile and Taft and the southeast corner at Ten Mile and Beck.

Rumors are that the authority is seeking to purchase the southwest corner of Ten Mile and Taft — the Fuerst Farm presently owned by realtor Max Sheldon.

"Typically a development of this size will provide a variety of housing types — single-family and multiples — in order to make best use of its land," Robert Shadduck, planning consultant to the city from the firm of Vilcan-Lejman, observed.

Another rumor is that the project is one of seven being developed with assistance from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Most likely site for the commercial development is the Ten Mile Road — Taft Road intersection because of existing traffic flows.

Tempers Flare Over Tactics

A developer appealing a decision by the Planning Commission on his proposed development of a mobile home court clashed with City of Novi Council on Monday when it was discovered he was employing equipment to record the remarks on tape.

David Sefansky addressed the council Monday explaining that he was not satisfied with the commission's action on November 3 when it voted to deny his request for rezoning on claims that the proposed development was inconsistent with the city's adopted master plan.

Sefansky explained that the commission denied his request with claims that the ensuing population density would exceed recommended levels for the area.

The development, planned to primarily accommodate senior citizens in mobile homes, is proposed for 100 acres owned by Jack Tucker on the south side of Ten Mile Road at the western city limit, or just west of Wixom Road.

According to Sefansky, originally it was planned to locate 639 units within the development but he said they would be willing to reduce the density to 400 units in order to satisfy the planners' objections.

Mayor Joseph Crupi, apparently reviewing the Planning Commission minutes on the matter as Sefansky began his presentation, then interjected noting that the developer had employed a tape recorder at the previous meeting despite objections.

"I'd like to ask if you have a tape recorder now," the mayor began.

"Yes sir," Sefansky replied.

"Do you have it in operation now?" Mayor Crupi continued.

"Yes sir," the developer responded.

"I ask to be excused," Councilman Edwin Presnell barked. "May I be excused? I will not sit here in a meeting that is being recorded."

Sefansky then explained that he used the recorder in order to allow himself to study and improve his presentations.

"And for use in court?" the mayor asked.

"Yes sir," Sefansky replied.

Agency Disapproves Bank's Charter Bid

A request for a national banking charter from the Federal Comptroller of Currency by the proposed West Oakland Branch — with home offices planned for Novi — has been disapproved, it has been learned.

Efforts to establish the bank, rumored to have plans for locating in the Ten Mile Road and Novi Road area, were launched last spring when officials announced they had submitted their application for charter. The Federal Comptroller of Currency's office revealed Friday that the application has been disapproved.

Reason for the action was not explained which is consistent with the office's common practice, according to a spokesman.

Individuals combining in making the application, all of the suburban area, include George Pierson and Edwin B. Jones of Birmingham, both bankers, Richard E. Cook of Bloomfield Hills, a general auditor for Ford Motor Company, Robert E. Johnson of Birmingham, vice president of a construction firm; E. R. Davies of Bloomfield Hills, president of a conveyor manufacturing company; Byron W. Terice, Jr. of Birmingham, owner of a large real estate firm and Robert Temmerman of Birmingham, president of a warehousing firm.

Harry M. Nayer, an attorney from Huntington Woods with offices in Detroit, is counsel for the proposed bank.

A spokesman for the proposed bank told this newspaper that it is considering applying for a charter to operate as a state bank. He also revealed that officials of the proposed bank were to be in Washington this week, apparently for clarification on the status of their charter application.

Attorney Previews Charges by NBD

After reviewing the Board of Appeals' decision denying National Bank of Detroit the right to operate a branch at a West Eight Mile Road site, the City of Novi Council on Monday considered proposing an out-of-court settlement before directing City Attorney Howard Bond to act at his own discretion in the case.

Bond explained that the case, evolving from a show case order by NBD and originally scheduled for yesterday (Wednesday), will be heard next Wednesday with the branch able to remain open because of an injunction which the bank also filed against the city.

According to the city attorney, the bank is challenging legal grounds of the appeal board's November 4 decision which refused NBD's request to operate a bank in a Commercial-Thoroughfare (C-T) zone.

In accordance with the city's zoning regulations, a bank must receive permission from the board before locating in a C-T zone. National Bank of Detroit, with a branch on Grand River Avenue in the downtown business district, moved a 40-foot trailer onto a West Eight Mile Road site near Haggerty Road early in September and was granted a special variance by the Building Department pending a decision on land use from the Board of Appeals.

But the board tabled the issue at

Hearing on Chief Before Council

A closed hearing hosted by the Wixom City Council with Police Chief Tom McGuire and Officer Wally Sprenger was to be held yesterday (Wednesday) in regards to an emergency trial run after objections by citizens last week took the matter out of the hands of Mayor Wesley McAtee.

The run, ordered by the chief on October 22 while he was accompanying Officer Sprenger in a patrol car, has come under fire with claims that the practice could create a safety hazard because of the pedestrian traffic along the route.

McGuire, with the officer at the wheel, conducted the run about three o'clock on the date — a Wednesday — going at a high rate of speed from Loon Lake Road, through the business district and to the Wixom Credit Union on Wixom Road near I-96.

The credit union, located across from Ford Motor Company's Lincoln assembly plant, was robbed twice within a month — apparently by the same pair of bandits — shortly after McGuire became chief in late August. Because of its proximity to the expressway, it's difficult to police a robbery at the location since speedy egress is available via I-96, according to the chief.

McGuire, in making his trial run, apparently was trying to determine the elapsed time from one side of the city to the other under emergency conditions.

The matter was brought before the council on October 28 when Mrs. Jill Hall, 2915 Maganser Street, revealed that upon her personal investigation, she had found the practice to be "very irregular." Mrs. Hall emphasized that the run had been held while children were enroute home from school and could have resulted in an accident.

Mayor McAtee responded stating that he had just been notified of the incident earlier the same day and he explained that it was an administrative matter which he would handle privately.

The mayor last week Wednesday reported that he had met with the chief and Sprenger and revealed that he had reprimanded McGuire "as a chief and as a citizen."

"If I myself would have conducted that run, I would have been fired," Sprenger, also present at the meeting, stated in addressing the council. "I am not satisfied with how the mayor has handled this."

"I want an open hearing to prove the lies," he added.

The officer also made reference to an article in the Detroit News stating that his role in the incident had been misrepresented.

Earlier Mrs. Hall had related that McGuire's statements to her personally

Jaycees to Host 'Ask the Council'

A special "Ask the Council" program will be held December 2 by the Novi Jaycees in order to offer councilmen and citizens an opportunity to discuss problems and projects within the City of Novi, according to Jaycee Chuck Collins.

The event, to be held at the Community Building, will begin at 8 p.m.

He explained that the project is designed to stimulate interest amongst citizens in local government and to also provide councilmen with an opportunity to inform the public on issues within the community.

In Farmington Township Major Retail Center Planned for Area

Plans for a 300-acre retail development, located on the fringe of the Greater Novi-Northville-Wixom Area and designed to include more than 120 stores plus a major department store, have been revealed projecting towards a fall, 1974 opening.

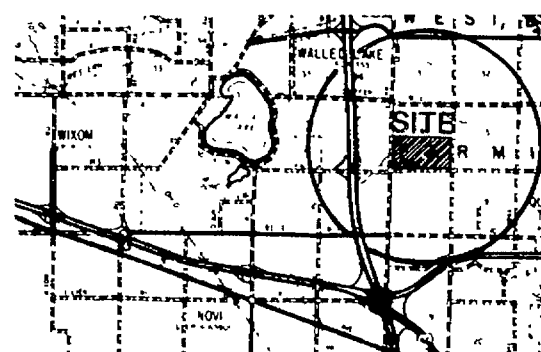

The Taubman Company, Inc., of Southfield and Homart Development Company — acting together as HTK Detroit Company — announced the project in Farmington Township last week Wednesday. Homart is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Sears, Roebuck and Co. — the major department store intending to locate in the center — and Taubman is a prominent retail development contractor having completed several similar projects "in excess of one million square feet." The area center, presently being referred to as the Northwestern Detroit Regional Development, is to have a total building area of 1,500,000 square feet.

Proposed site of the major development is on the north side of Thirteen Mile Road between Halstead Road and Haggerty Road — between four and seven miles from points within the Greater Novi-Northville-Wixom Area.

According to officials of HTK, property has been purchased for the development and on preliminary action soon will be addressed to the township board.

The location is within a triangle of freeways to be formed by combining the existing I-696 along with the proposed M-275 and Northwestern Highway.

Sears, Roebuck and Co. is proposing to build a 300,000 square foot department store in the two level, fully-enclosed center with an affiliated auto service facility at an adjacent location. Other stores within the center "will be named at a later date," according to HTK Detroit spokesmen.

Proposed Location of Center

Also planned as an integral part of the regional retail development will be high-rise and garden-type apartments, office and recreational buildings and "other complementary commercial retail and non-retail facilities."

The service area for the proposed center currently is estimated at 475,000 people and is projected to reach 600,000 by 1974.

The Sears' facility is described by a company official as being "one of the country's most impressive from the standpoint of size and shopping convenience."

NOVI HIGHLIGHTS

MRS. H. D. HENDERSON 349-2428

City Attorney Howard Bond arrived at the meeting during the heated exchange and the council asked him if it had to allow a recorder at the meeting. The attorney advised that the council could act to have the equipment removed.

The developer then continued his presentation with the council eventually asking to table a decision on the matter until Monday. Mayor Crupi related that the matter would be discussed with the Planning Commission this week Tuesday at a special executive session.

Work to Resume?

Council Endorses Program

A major road improvement program for Birch Park Subdivision, staggering under the influence of controversy, took a step from the shadow of doubt last week when Wixom City Council voted 4-2 to reactivate the project while instituting special inspection procedures.

The decision evolved last week Wednesday, with Councilman Elwood Grubb and Councilwoman Mary Parvu in opposition, and authorized city officials to initiate negotiations with Ben Fyke and Sons, of Berkley, in regards to resuming work on the $128,000 project which began early in October and then was terminated by action of the council later in the month after residents of the subdivision expressed fears that a proposed storm drain would contribute hazardous amounts of pollutant in Loon Lake.

Consulting engineer Larry Pate reported that negotiations would probably begin this week and he emphasized that several cost factors must be resolved with the contractor before work can resume.

Meanwhile, rumors indicate that citizens who have opposed the project are organizing efforts to file an injunction against the city in order to settle the issue in court.

Wednesday's session, held a day later than usual because of Veterans' Day on Tuesday, was attended by about 80 people with arguments reviewed for 65 minutes before Councilman Howard Coe moved that the council act to re-open negotiations for the completion of the project. Councilman Gunnar Metalla seconded the motion and Coe, Metalla, Councilman Charles McCall and Councilwoman Lottie Chambers supported it with Grubb and Councilwoman Parvu voting in opposition.

City Attorney Gene Schnelz explained that four of six votes is necessary, and therefore, adequate to rescind previous council action. At its October 28 meeting, the council voted unanimously to terminate the contract in abandoning the project.

Preliminaries for paving Bell Coney and Maganzer streets in Birch Park Subdivision began the first week in October but were halted October 16 after a delegation of about 125 citizens packed City Hall and expressed fears that a 36-inch storm drain, incorporated along with curb-and-gutter in the program, would cause for excessive amounts of pollutant to be discharged into the lake at a popular bathing site.

The issue has dominated discussion at council meetings since the mid-October session with officials and citizens seeking clarification from county and state health authorities and with State Senator George Kuhn (R-Birmingham) intervening on October 23 with a request that work not be continued without additional study.

A delegation of council members and citizens then met with Senator Kuhn on October 31 with Mayor Wesley McAtee deciding, as a result of that session, to recommend that a testing and sampling system be instituted into the program to assure that the discharge from the drain doesn't threaten the safety of the bathing area.

Coe's motion last week Wednesday incorporated the "sampling and testing" clause.

As a prelude to last week Wednesday's meeting, the mayor sent a letter to the residents of Birch Park revealing his intentions "to make a specific recommendation on the road paving program to the council."

"Since all citizens have been given ample opportunity to express their views, I would like to request that you pick one spokesman to represent your area and in this way we can resolve this matter in an orderly fashion," the letter continued.

The mayor then proposed the County Supervisor Lew Coy (R-Wixom), a resident of the subdivision who spoke on the issue at several earlier meetings, be selected to represent the group.

After Mayor McAtee reviewed his proposition last week Wednesday, the supervisor addressed the meeting and explained that everyone would be speaking for themselves on the subject rather than presenting arguments through one spokesman.

Supervisor Coy then made reference to a series of letters from Dr. Bernard D. Berman, County Department of Health director, and appealed to the council to consider systems for processing storm drainage rather than resuming the road improvement program.

"I think he (Berman) makes it quite clear that the council is acting wrong in proceeding with that drain," the supervisor observed. "I think to vote 'yes' here on your part would put you strongly on the side of pollution." Supervisor Coy also asked clarification on the rules of order for the council meetings and the status of a decision October 23 to terminate the project. Schnelz reported that, in accordance with the City Charter, the council has the authority to determine its rules of order and he also stated that the contract with Fike for the project had been terminated as enactment of the council's decision.

Dale Jess, of 3096 Potter Street, presented correspondence to the council from the U.S. Department of Interior and proposed that action on the Loon Lake project be delayed pending a study to determine the feasibility of seeking federal assistance to provide a special treatment system for the storm drainage.

"I think it's a crying shame that Wixom is going to be held up to the rest of the state as a bad example," Supervisor Coy interjected.

Councilman Charles McCall inserted that the supervisor had stated that the size of the drain had been determined in order to service adjoining property owned by a realty firm with which the mayor is associated. Supervisor Coy did not respond to the remark.

Councilwoman Parvu proposed relocating the drain so that the discharge would not be at the bathing area and Grubb supported Jess' appeal to seek federal assistance for processing the drainage.

"I can't help but be against dumping any storm waters into Loon Lake because we are contributing to the pollution," Grubb stated. "I think we'd be better off to take our loss on this thing and benefit from it in the future."

"We can do this and do it properly," he concluded.

The councilman also expressed his opinion that the city sometime acts for "progress" while sacrificing the welfare of the citizens.

"I don't think this council goes just for progress," the mayor responded. "I think it goes with an understanding of what will be best for the entire community."

"I'm very happy with our progress," he added. "I don't know what else can be done. I think we have done many things in this issue."

"I'm very grateful for a council that went almost in total to Lansing to do everything it could to assure itself that it was acting in the best interest of this community when it makes its decision," the mayor explained.

After passage of Coe's motion, Grubb asked the city attorney if petitions presented on the issue could be incorporated within a referendum campaign on the decision. Schnelz explained that the action had been taken as a policy matter while referendums usually challenge ordinances.

Grubb then moved that the council delay action "until it has time to read the federal material." Councilwoman Parvu supported the action but the council proceeded to defeat the motion, 4-2.

and reportedly are in the process of preparing a presentation to be made in the near future before the City of Novi Council.

Meanwhile, the board of education has proposed organizing a committee with two people from each civic group in the community designated to pilot the program.

Now is definitely the time to launch a united effort for such a program. But now is also the time to decide what direction and scope of such a program and in a community as complex as ours, that direction should be determined by someone experienced in recreation.

Efforts to make everybody happy at this point could tend to weaken the total program. Now primarily what we need is somebody to put the pieces together — somebody to allow us to do the best with what we have — and then to obtain some professional direction in order to expand our program in the growing needs of the total community.

I think that now it's premature to feel that we can give the people everything they want. In order to develop a program that will gain the support of the total community, we must organize a program which appeals to the total community and then later expand that program to satisfy specific interests.

Water Fund - $2,110.10
Unanimously carried.

COMMUNICATIONS:

(a) Reply to City Mgr.'s letter to Senator Kuhn, reporting status of pending legislation on municipal bonds and his agreement with City's position. City Mgr. stated he had written to three state legislators regarding this matter; had not heard from Representative Smart and that Rep. Stempien had personally reported his favorable opinion.

(b) Communication from Wayne County Civil Defense requesting designation of persons authorized to sign for purchases for the City of Northville from Lansing Warehouse Surplus Property. Unanimously agreed that the DPW Supt. and Chief of Police for the City of Northville be authorized to sign for City of Northville purchases from Lansing Warehouse for Federal Surplus Property, subject to City of Northville's Charter and Code of Ordinances.

(c) Letter from Robt. T. Shafer, Northville High School Student Council, thanking various City Depts. and Council for cooperation and assistance with the 1969 Northville High School Homecoming Parade and Bonfire.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM CITIZENS:

Joseph Wasie, Thompson Brown Company, inquired re. status of Barnhardt Springs; City Attorney stated he would know more definitely the week of Nov. 10th.

BOARD & COMMISSION MINUTES:

Planning Commission Minutes of October 21, 1969, accepted and filed.

Library Commission Minutes of August 7, 1969, and October 2, 1969, accepted and filed.

PUBLIC HEARING - ORDINANCE FOR OPERATION & PARKING OF VEHICLES ON SCHOOL PROPERTY:

Public Hearing was opened by the Mayor. City Atty. recommended that this Public Hearing be adjourned for two weeks.

Moved by Folino, support by Lapham, to adjourn the Public Hearing on the Ordinance for Operation and Parking of Motor Vehicles on School Property until Monday, November 17, 1969 Council Meeting. Unanimously carried.

City Mgr. recommended that he and the Mayor negotiate an agreement with Site

Research Co. of Detroit, Mich., Thomas Ashcraft, for their services for development coordinator for the City of Northville; Moved by Rathert, support by Nichols, authorizing Mayor & City Mgr. to negotiate contract with Site Research Co., Detroit, present same to Council for their approval. Yeas: Nichols, Rathert. Nays: Folino. Motion prevailed.

Councilman Folino feels that the Development Coordinator position should be advertised for as a full-time position for one individual and further explore this possibility. He had no objection to Site Research Co. but wanted to meet more candidates. City Mgr. will review with Councilman Folino, the individuals he considered previously and the experts who met previously with City Council.

LANDFILL CLOSING:

City Mgr. recommended that Northville Twp. be notified well ahead of time of closing date for their use of the City of Northville's landfill facilities - date either Feb. 1 or March 1, 1970, so as to provide no hardship to Twp. residents.

Moved by Lapham, support by Rathert, directing the City Mgr. to notify Northville Twp. of the closing of their landfill facilities to Northville Twp. residents as of March 1, 1970. Unanimously carried.

ORDINANCE REVISIONS:

City Attorney reviewed the proposed ordinance on "Offenses". City Mgr. recommended that this ordinance be approved for Public Hearing.

Moved by Folino, support by Rathert, to set Public Hearing for ordinance amendment "Offenses" for Monday, Nov. 17, 1969, 8:00 p.m. at the Northville City Hall. Unanimously carried.

CHARTER REVISION:

This matter held over for future meeting.

WAYNE COUNTY STORM DRAIN POLICY:

City Mgr. stated that Wayne County, a year ago, adopted a policy that no new storm water run-off will be accepted into County storm sewers. He would like Council to consider adopting such a policy for over-loaded City sewers. City Mgr. is to give Council a Memo on above.

BUSINESS REFUSE COLLECTION CONTAINERS:

City Mgr. reported that more than one-half of the business district need proper containers for their rubbish and garbage. He reviewed his Memo on this and reported about 27 are needed which will be for sale to the merchants.

Moved by Rathert, support by Folino, authorizing the City Mgr. to advertise for bids on metal containers for rubbish and garbage for merchants in the business district. Unanimously carried.

NEW SIDEWALK POLICY:

This matter tabled until future meeting.

FENCE ORDINANCE CLARIFICATION:

City Mgr. stated the Zoning Board of Appeals had requested a clarification of Fence Ordinance. Following is the clarification:

1. Visibility - both for the street traffic especially at intersections and for the driver backing out of a driveway.

2. Aesthetics - both in terms of the individual lot and the neighborhood in general. For example, a picket fence might be attractive in front of a particular house, but if all others had split-rail, it may not be suitable for the neighborhood.

Council agreed that a chain link fence could rarely, if ever, be considered attractive. A split rail fence normally would not be objectionable.

ADOPT RESOLUTION REGARDING TO MECHANICAL CHECK SIGNING DEVICE:

City Mgr. explained the need for the mechanical check-writing machine. It is necessary to have a standard resolution from the bank confirming signatures used on Northville City checks.

Moved by Rathert, support by Folino, to adopt standard Resolution, confirming signatures of City Mgr. Frank Ollendorf, Bookkeeper Marion LeFevre for use with Burroughs Check Writing Machine; City Clerk Milne's name also confirmed as third name on records. Unanimously carried.

(Councilman Nichols requested "Rules of Procedure" be drawn governing use of this machine).

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned at 11:40 p.m.

DISCHARGE OF FIREARMS ORDINANCE

AN ORDINANCE PROHIBITING DISCHARGE OF FIREARMS EXCEPT IN CERTAIN AREAS; REGULATING THE USE THEREOF AND PROVIDING A PENALTY FOR VIOLATING THEREOF. THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDAINS:

Section 1: The use or discharge of any and all firearms within the Township of Northville is hereby prohibited, except that shot guns and .22 caliber rim fire rifles may be used or discharged by owners of real property and their invitees, subject, however, to the following conditions:

1. The use or discharge of shotguns or .22 caliber rim-fire rifles shall in no event be allowed within four hundred and fifty feet (450 feet) of any building, occupied or unoccupied, on adjoining land; and
2. Invitees must have written permission of the owner of said property on their person,
3. Owner can be any distance from buildings upon his own land provided he actually resides upon said premises, but invitees shall be at least four hundred and fifty feet (450 feet) from any building including the buildings upon the land of the owner from which they have obtained written permission, unless in the company of owner,
4. Owner or invitees discharging firearms in any manner likely to cause injury to persons or property.

Section 2: Nothing herein contained shall prevent the use or discharge of any firearms by any person or persons properly acting in self defense, or by, or at the direction of any police, military or governmental authority duly established under the laws of the Township of Northville, State of Michigan or the United States.

Section 3: PENALTIES. Any person, persons, firm, partnership, association or corporation, or anyone acting in behalf of said person, persons, firm, partnership, association or corporation, violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof, be subject to a fine of not more than $100.00, or imprisonment in the discretion of the Court. Each day that the violation of this Ordinance is continued or permitted to exist without compliance, shall constitute a separate offense punishable upon conviction in the same manner prescribed in this Section.

Section 4: SEVERABILITY. In the event any portion of this ordinance is held invalid for any reason such holding shall not affect the validity of the remaining portion of this ordinance.

Section 5: REPEAL. All previous Ordinances, or parts of Ordinances in conflict herewith are repealed.

Section 6: EFFECTIVE DATE. This Ordinance shall take effect thirty days from and after its first publication. I, ELEANOR W. HAMMOND, Clerk of the Township of Northville, do hereby certify that the above Ordinance was approved and adopted by the Northville Township Board at a regular meeting thereof, duly called and held on the 11th day of November, A.D., 1969, and was ordered to be given publication in the manner prescribed by law.

Bach, Mozart Top Plymouth Concert

Plymouth Symphony's second free concert of the 24th season will be held Sunday, November 23, beginning at 4 p.m. in Plymouth High School, corner of Church and Main streets.

The program will include:
Suite No. 2 in B minor for Flute and Strings by Bach; Sinfonia Concertante for Violin, Viola and Orchestra, K. 364 by Mozart; Nobilissima Visione, Suite for Orchestra by Hindemith; and Daphnis and Chloe, Suite No. 2 by Ravel.

A delightful concert is assured when, artists like Inez Hurlinger Redman and David Ireland combine their talents to perform the Mozart Sinfonia Concertante for Violin and Viola.

Mrs. Redman has been concertmaster of the Oak Park Symphony for the past two years. Formerly a member of the Detroit Symphony, Chautauga (N.Y.) Symphony and concertmaster of the Grosse Pointe Symphony, Mrs. Redman has also appeared as soloist with the Wayne State and Center Symphony orchestras. She has studied with Mischa Mischakoff and the late Henri Nosco. Mrs. Redman has been on the faculty of the Schoolcraft College Summer School of Music and also teachers privately.

Ireland has been violist with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra since 1952. A member of the Cantata Academy of Detroit, he is well known in the area for solo and chamber music appearances. Mr. Ireland attended the University of Michigan where he studied with Paul Doktor and Robert Courte.

Wayne Dunlap, director of music and chairman of the Humanities Department of Schoolcraft College, has conducted the Plymouth Symphony since 1951. The orchestra itself was founded in 1945 as a string group of 10 musicians and is now composed of 100 professional or highly trained volunteers.

Teens Exhibit Business Acumen

involving two bands costing $500 and incidental expenditures (three police officers at $15 each, rental refreshments, etc.) for $100, approximately 350 teenagers must attend, the young president explains. "Anything less than that and we're in the red and we've got less capital to work with for the next dance."

"When we were using the community building, which could hold a lot more people and which was easy to locate by outsiders, we could hire expensive bands and come out well because, with good publicity, we'd attract large crowds. Even if we had more space I'm not so sure we'd get the big turnouts today unless we had some good dance music, too."

The Cavern was forced to give up its quarters in the community building when the building became the board of education offices. With financial and physical assistance by adults of the community, the teenagers remodeled and decorated several rooms in the basement of the junior high school annex for clubrooms and they are now using the annex gymnasium for their dances.

Consideration of a changing format is based also on the club's attempt to build up its local membership. (The club has approximately 120 members who pay $2 annual dues. Membership permits free access to the clubrooms and a 50-cent break on the $2 dance tickets).

"We've got about 1,000 kids in the high school and we'd like to get more of them into our club."

"Since moving here (new quarters) we're finding that the kids are using the clubrooms more because they like to socialize. They like to talk, play pool, listen to the juke box, or dance to records."

To capitalize on this growing interest and to attract more members, the club is emphasizing its weekly "coffee house" program. A "coffee house" is a Friday night period when students may use the clubrooms and enjoy refreshments. Recently, the introduction of bagels as a refreshment "went over big" and they've become a regular feature.

Teenage officers and board members meet each Sunday afternoon to discuss finances, review past successes and failures, and plan ways of improving the club and its image in the community. Last Sunday, for example, the officers set December 7 as the date for its open house to show off the new club facilities, made preliminary arrangements for a children's Christmas program, discussed using a different main entrance to enhance dance attendance, resolve some internal personnel problems, planned for a charity dance, and established the new post of purchasing manager.

Besides Curt, other teenage officers include:

David Kenger, treasurer — purchasing manager; Steve Penn, assistant treasurer; Barbara Cuppett, secretary; Sue Forrer, chaperone chairman; Ann Thomas, advertising chairman; James Penn, entertainment chairman; Joe Hines, stage manager; Steve Kaake, assistant stage manager; Nancy Chadwick, door chairman; Kay McElroy, decorations chairman; and John Jerome, refreshment chairman.

Operating The Cavern and its dances is "big business" and the fact that the Northville teenagers go about it with the acumen of adult businessmen impresses the club's new adult advisor, J. Brian Ehrle, even though he has long been an advocate of teenage initiative.

Ehrle sees his role not as a manager but as an adult assistant and as a liaison between teenagers and the community. Like his predecessor, the Reverend Timothy Johnson, he is convinced that teenagers are intelligent young adults who ought to be talked down to. Successfully managing a $600 dance budget is not the work of unintelligent juveniles, he would point out.

"My main concern," says Ehrle, "is trying to do something about bridging the so-called communications gap between teenagers and adults. Today, too few adults understand teenagers or even want to understand them."

SPEAKING

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

What with Spiro, the Moratorium March and the Buckeyes all doing their thing the same week, it's difficult to concentrate on local issues that usually fill this space.

From the tone of conversation around The Record — especially the "news corps" of Hoffman, Peterson, Krupp, Burke — I'm definitely in the minority so far as reaction to the Vice President's address is concerned.

I think he hit upon a very sensitive nerve; he really ought to know better than to criticize the press.

We reserve the right of criticism. Naturally, it's always constructive.

But don't aim the guns at us or you're threatening FREEDOM OF THE PRESS. And everybody knows that's akin to motherhood, the DAR, PTA, Sunday School and a full sports' program in the public schools.

Like Hoffman said when he related to me the hallowed ground upon which Spiro had tread: "He's talking about US, not just TV".

Well, Spiro may be all wet. And, frankly, in my opinion he is. I think the whole speech smacks of the old Nixon weakness, an inability to cope with a sharp-shooting communications' media. And the remarks were deliberately designed to win public sympathy for an administration pictured as being badgered by the big, bad press.

But the TV moguls and press editorial writers are reacting in that very same Nixon manner. They're crying "foul" and avoiding the issue.

A little self-examination never hurt anyone. Admittedly, it's my opinion that the politicians need it more than the communications' media. But we should be defending their right to criticize instead of screaming about attempts at government censorship.

I'm not so naive to believe that there are not officials at all levels of government who would not take pleasure in a little news' suppression, if it could be accomplished without publicity. But I've got more faith in the "silent majority" than to think they could ever get away with it.

I'm out of step with "The March," too.

There's no argument here with the right of protestors to march. And possibly there's accomplishment derived that these conservative, mid-western eyes fail to detect.

But I can see more productive areas for all this energy, if it is truly intended to improve the world in which we live.

It would start with practicing simple good citizenship — with promoting better education instead of complaining about its cost — with burying the bitterness we hold for our fellow man and which, ironically, rears its head in the name of seeking peace.

If our peace-seekers can do this and march, too, then I say, Forward March.

There were, incidentally, a number of area residents (mostly college students, I'm told) who joined the march in Washington.

A mother of one of the young marchers called me this week to report that her youngster had been most impressed by the assistance and thoughtfulness displayed by the Washington police force.

The mother, apprehensive about her adult-age youngster's decision to march, was relieved and appreciative to the extent that she and her husband have decided to send a financial contribution to the Washington, D.C., police department to use as it sees fit.

"Police are always targets for criticism, especially in situations like this. We just feel we'd like to say 'thank you' for watching over our youngster," she explained.

This very thoughtful mother didn't want to be identified. But she hoped other parents of young marchers might feel the same way.

And now those Buckeyes.

That confident smile on the face of City Manager Frank Ollendorff, an ex-Buckeye, really bugs me. (Never thought of it before, but Frank even looks like Woody Hayes).

And I can't forget sitting in the Ohio State stadium last year and watching Woody instruct his boys to go for a two-point conversion in the closing minutes of a game that already had the Wolverines hanging helplessly on the ropes.

It really bugs me.

Not enough to place any bets on the Maize and Blue, mind you.

But just imagine how much sweeter the fragrance of Roses in a Bowl manned by Victors over the Buckeyes.

Speaking for Myself

Is Spanking Proper Punishment?

YES . . .

"This is going to hurt me more than it does you," my father used to explain carefully before exercising his razor strap. As a child I could never understand the meaning of his remark because not once in the many times that he hurt himself did I see him shed a tear.

While I still consider the invention of the safety razor man's greatest achievement, I cannot accept the modern-day expert's opposition to corporal punishment.

The key to effective corporal punishment, a trick that admittedly I have not yet mastered, is control of temper. Therein lies the difference between beating and spanking — the former being inhumane, the latter both appropriate and meaningful. With his slow, deliberate fetching of the strap followed by his "hurt me more than you" words, my father successfully substituted meaning for wrath. Similarly, the long walk to the principal's office took the beating out of the spanking.

Talk is cheap, superficial and soon forgotten, beating fertilizes disrespect, and empty threat produces immunity. But calm, deliberate exercise of a fatty palm is a lasting deterrent and it has a stinging, built-in reminder when to quit.

Jack Hoffman

NO . . .

Speaking not as a father but as one of mankind's greatest all-time uncles and a longtime youngster myself, I must take this opportunity to ask parents of America to spare the rod and save the child.

Doing something bad should be punishment within itself if it's something really bad but I don't feel that a parent has a right to spank a child out of his own frustration.

Success in raising children is dependent upon the ability to communicate and build understanding — for a child to know what's wrong and understand why. But spanking a child just establishes that something's wrong — more often with the parent than the child — and it develops respect out of fear rather than understanding.

And if a child is too young or immature to understand, you say, then what he's "done wrong" really isn't wrong, I say.

Granted, there are moments in child-raising that become frustrating and although a spanking may serve as an escape, you in effect are admitting to yourself — and more importantly, to your child — that you have failed.

Wixom Citizens Rap Newspaper

To the Editor:

Reference is made to the drain sewers that terminate in Wixom's Loon Lake. As you know, a great deal of controversy surrounds this particular project and the lines of opposition appear to be drawn between Wixom citizens and the Wixom City Council.

It is almost inconceivable that the council would oppose such a reaction of the people, especially in light of anti-pollution programs sponsored by both private and government sectors — but it is equally inconceivable that your newspaper would back the Wixom City Council on such an issue. This conclusion is based on coverage provided by your newspaper.

The Wixom City Council has a record of acting with little or no regard for the wishes of the majority of the citizens of Wixom. Examples are the purchasing of the present city hall from a Wixom council member, the actual construction of the city hall and a sewer program — all without a vote of the citizens of Wixom. Although I have had suspicions in the past that your newspaper was pro Wixom administration, I am becoming more firmly convinced of this by your recent position on the pollution issue.

Pollution is fast becoming a very serious national blight ... and the results of it are very difficult, if not impossible to reverse in addition to being a very expensive proposition.

The position taken by many interested citizens of Wixom appears to be a very commendable one, even if it has been severely criticized by the Wixom mayor and members of the Wixom city council.

In view of the honorable nature of the anti-pollution movement by citizens of Wixom, it would seem that it would behoove your newspaper to provide greater citizen support — or at the very least, take a less bias position on the issue.

To the Editor:

The City of Wixom has been truly blessed. Our mayor and city "fathers" are so expert and knowledgeable on the subject of water pollution, they feel they can learn no more, and subsequently have sold their city "down the drain." The information the U.S. Department of Interior sent was "old hat" to them and therefore went unread. However, the ignorant citizens appreciated the information very much.

One "expert" on the city council stated that, "The water will be going so slow through the storm drain, it will be as pure when it reaches the lake as it would be had it been filtered through the ground."

They are so knowledgeable, they don't have to pay any attention to experts on the county, state, and federal levels. Stupid citizens who still have to dig in and research the subject are to be ridiculed.

Washington, take notice! If "closed-mindedness" is one qualification, maybe you can use these experts. Their absence would be a great loss to the City of Wixom as they could only be replaced with people like Councilwoman Parvu and Councilman Grubbs, who still have to research a subject and still have an open mind.

Respectfully yours,
Mrs. Richard E. Hall

To the Editor:

I feel The Novi News has done a severe injustice in reporting the news concerning storm drains in Wixom. I feel they have been very biased and have presented only one side of the issue. The Novi News has presented only the city's side of the controversy — could this possibly be due to the fact the Novi News is the official paper of Wixom and has been under personal or perhaps even financial pressure from our "City Fathers" to be biased in their coverage?

Hoping for a response.

I would like to complain about the manner of "slanting" all the news appearing in your paper about activities in Wixom. I especially object to the last two weeks of Don Krupp's column. It stinks to high heaven.

Give credit where credit is due and give the citizens "unbiased" news to judge for themselves. Not too many of the residents are dumb and we resent your manner of reporting.

If Don Krupp cannot write except the way he is told to do, you need someone else to do our reporting.

Rainbow Girls
Extend Thanks

To the Editor:

On behalf of Northville Assembly No. 29 International Order of the Rainbow for Girls, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the kind citizens of Northville. On Halloween night we collected almost 5,000 pieces of candy for the retarded children at Plymouth State Home. Most citizens were more than generous and we want them to know how thankful we are for all of their help. Because of the success of this project and the support from the community we hope that this will be the beginning of many projects. Thank you all so much for making our efforts effective and so many children a little happier on a Halloween they can't understand.

To the Editor:

For one who has been dubbed intransigent by a brilliant mind, I refuse to become bamboozled by your use of the adjectives "profane" and "slandorous," which you have directed at me. Personally, I believe that you have become confused in your use of the adjectives and have ignored the noun, which is the "truth."

No one is accustomed to hearing the truth. A wit stands on a TV stage, tells the truth, and every one bursts into cackling. We don't realize that the wit is simply telling the truth.

Also it's not necessary for you to "second-guess the writer's intention," nor is it necessary for you to edit letters." Call it a cliché if you will, still the fact remains: "Consistency thou art a jewel."

My whole introductory paragraph (of Oct. 30, 1969) was devoted to an exhortation of you because of your printing my name and address, after being warned; yet you exhort me to notify you to withhold my name and address. There was no notification of this in my first three letters, which you printed. I even changed the format of my letters but to no avail.

I realize that my initials only were used and not a pseudonym, and I still was not requested to write such a notation. I'll write this letter like the first three only in order to see what you will do with it.

journalists sat down with the president. Purposely, Salinger took a seat directly behind Morgan.

When the 20 minutes were nearly up, Salinger gave Morgan a polite kick, whereupon Morgan promptly rose and thanked the president on behalf of the foreign journalists. Obviously disappointed, the president asked, "Are you people in a hurry to make another appointment?" With the journalists all shaking their heads and making unkind faces at Morgan, he had to admit that they were not really in a hurry. So the conversation resumed.

Five minutes later, Morgan felt another of Salinger's signals — a bit more pronounced — and once again rose and thanked the president.

"Don't be in such a hurry, Harry, I've got some of my own questions to ask of these men," said Kennedy.

Another five minutes passed and Salinger gave Morgan a much more moving signal. Recognizing the urgency in Salinger's toe, Morgan jumped up, lavishly praised the president for taking the time from his busy schedule, and prepared to leave.

President Kennedy smiled but with a note of irritation in his voice turned and said, "Look, Harry, if you've got to go to the bathroom, take the door to the right, down the hall, and turn left."

An unpublished, previously untold vignette about President John Kennedy was revealed to guests of the Northville Town Hall last week by Harry Morgan, founder and director of the World Press Institute and a former roving editor of The Readers' Digest.

Upon requesting an annual hour-long interview with the president for his entourage of foreign journalists before their departure for home, Morgan was informed by Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, that the president was far too busy then to host the group as he had done in previous years.

Expressing what certainly would be the disappointment of the journalists who had for months looked forward to the conference, Morgan finally persuaded Salinger to reconsider.

"Alright, I'll give you 20 minutes but not a minute more. If you take any longer than that it'll be the last time you ever get another appointment," warned Salinger. The press secretary then carefully reviewed the procedure, emphasizing that when the interview neared the 20-minute mark he would nudge Morgan to signal its conclusion and Morgan was then to rise and thank the president.

So at the appointed hour, Morgan and his

To the Editor:

Many thanks for your consideration, cooperation and support of the fight against cancer via my effort to sell Michigan Cancer Foundation Christmas Cards in this area.

Jean Day's column of last week's issue expressed succinctly the importance of the purchasing of these cards, also that I am prepared to deliver them to all purchasers, and that money for these cards and any additional contributions goes directly into research (where it is vitally needed NOW). However, the organization was referred to as Michigan Cancer Society. This error in identification is quite natural and commonly made; there are two well known groups working to fight cancer: the American Cancer Society and the Michigan Cancer Foundation. The former is national, the latter is local tri-county.

Anyone ordering through me should make checks payable to MCF. Thank you,

WILLIAM MIRON

Local Resident Wins Bendix Award

William L. Miron, executive vice president of the automotive group of the Bendix Automotive and Automation Company, was named "Man of the Year" for The Bendix Corporation this past week at the corporation's annual executive conference here.

Miron was presented the corporation's top achievement award for significant management contributions by A. P. Fontaine, Bendix chairman and president. It was the fifth annual Bendix awards presentation.

Fontaine also presented four distinguished achievements awards and four special awards to executives of the corporation during the conference.

Miron, a 1947 graduate of the University of Michigan, held a number of executive positions with Chrysler when he joined Bendix in 1961.

He served as general manager of the Bendix Motor Components Division in Elmira, New York until 1964 when he joined the Kelsey-Hayes Automotive Division as vice president of manufacturing. He was elected president of that Kelsey-Hayes division in 1965.

Miron returned to Bendix in 1966

From Vietnam comes word that Lieutenant Colonel Louie A. Babbitt, son of Mrs. K. H. Babbitt, 306 South Rogers Street, continues to enjoy reading The Record's centennial edition published last summer. Of special interest is the article concerning H. O. Wade, an early Northville cabinet maker, who was the officer's grandfather.

Recently, a newcomer to his intelligence unit in Saigon asked Colonel Babbitt where he was from.

as director of the operational staff and was elected a vice president and group executive in 1967. After serving over two years at Bendix' South Bend operations, Miron was appointed executive vice president for the Bendix Automotive and Automation Company here when it was formed in June, 1969.

A member of the Society of Automotive Engineers, Miron lives in Northville, with his wife and four daughters.

USS JOHN F. KENNEDY — Seaman Apprentice Phillip E. Skow, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin P. Skow of 659 Horton Street, was host to more than 7,500 Italian and Yugoslavian guests aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy at Trieste, Italy.

The JFK averaged better than 1,000 guests per day during its visit to the northeastern Italy seaport. More than 1,000 invited guests attended a flag retreat ceremony hosted by the commander of Carrier Division Two.

Highlights of the seven-day visit included several basketball, soccer and golf matches between Navy and local organizations, plus a special basketball attraction between an Italian girls team and sailors of the 83,000-ton Kennedy.

The JFK, America's newest aircraft carrier, was commissioned in 1968 and is presently serving as a unit of the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. The 5,200-man carrier, named for the 35th American President, is homeported at Norfolk, Virginia.

ANOTHER ADVENTURE — With a successful camping-fishing spring trip into Canada still fresh in their memories, members and friends of the Northville Explorer Post looked forward to still another adventure last weekend as they left on a deer hunting expedition into the northern part of the Lower Michigan. "If we get an many deer as we did fish, we'll have venison coming out of our ears," cautioned post advisor Howard Wright in giving his young charges last minute instructions.

Mustang - Wildcat Date on Gridiron Set for 1971

A date for area football fans to mark on their calendar: September 17, 1971 — opening day of the high school football season with the Mustangs journeying down Taft Road to play the Wildcats.

Mustang Athletic Director Bob Kucher has announced the date launching a big rivalry for both schools the same year The Orange makes its move from the Wayne-Oakland League to a six-team conference which will include Walled Lake Western, Waterford Mott, Farmington Harrison, Livonia Churchill, Plymouth Canton and the Mustangs.

Fenton will also appear on the 1971 Mustang football schedule as a finale although site of the contest remains to be determined, according to Kucher. A third non-conference date, to complete an eight-game schedule, is yet to be decided although it will probably be Livonia Clarenceville unless the Wayne-Oakland replaces the Mustangs with another school and re-organizes its schedule.

The Clarenceville-Mustang game, slated to follow the opener at Novi, was scheduled before our plans to leave the W-O were announced.

According to rumors, Birmingham Groves is being favored as a replacement for the Mustangs.

Meanwhile at Brighton, who pulled a surprise late this fall by revealing its intentions to leave the Wayne-Oakland, administrators are awaiting word from league officials and hoping that they can begin to make the transition "at the earliest possible date," according to Athletic Director John Warren.

And the Bulldogs' sooner-the-better philosophy gains impetus when Warren suggests that "right after basketball season" wouldn't be too soon.

"It'll mean we'll have to be traveling some longer distances as an independent but we're willing to make those sacrifices," Warren explains. "We're going to have to begin to make that transition sometime."

The athletic director re-emphasizes the Bulldogs' frustrations over playing in a league with a majority of the other members bigger and growing in enrollments. He also indicates a desire to maintain a rivalry with the Mustangs.

The Wayne-Oakland was expected to consider Brighton's request for an early departure at a committee meeting yesterday (Wednesday).

"We feel we have an ethical responsibility to the league," Warren observes, "and it may be 1971-72 before we can make the move."

The Bulldogs would like to work into a league with neighboring Howell and Milford, South Lyon, Novi and Northville, according to rumors although Novi this winter season begins its new allegiance with the Southeastern Conference while Howell is a member of the Capital Circuit and Milford is a Wayne-Oakland entry.

Looking ahead to next year, Wildcat Coach John Osborne is happy to see that he'll have some experience at every position but not so happy when he considers replacing the likes of running backs John Davey and Rick Hills, both members of the Class of 1970.

And next year will be the Wildcats' first in the rugged Southeastern Conference.

"We're going to have a problem filling the shoes of Davey and Hill," he observes, "but the good coaching we've received in our jayvee program will help us. At least we'll be going into the season having some experience — either on a varsity of jayvee level — at all positions."

Back in 1970 from this year's varsity which posted a 2-6 mark will be regulars Tom Boyer, Tom VanWagner, Bob Vivian, Dave Morrison, Steve Bosak, Gary Collins and Pat Ford.

But Boyer is a two-way performer working as a quarterback and defensive back while Bosak, one of three sophomores who came up from the jayvees late in the season and broke into the defensive lineup, is a halfback with two-way potential, according to Osborne.

Collins and Ford are the other two sophomores who gained considerable playing time on defense while VanWagner and Morrison will be returning as interior linemen with Vivian an end.

But gone will be Hill and Davey; Rick Dale, Phil McMillan, Dale Pohlman, Steve Pomroy and Dan Douglas — all regulars in the line, and subs Mark Earl, Dave Branch, Dan Flattery, Tim Bell and Jud Goltra along with regular defensive halfback Dave Adema.

"We'll have more experience next year and more depth," the coach adds.

"Much of our success will be dependent upon how we develop as a team."

Actually, Boyer's return next fall could provide the nucleus of a good running game since the junior was impressive oftentimes this season rolling out either way. And the line will also be bolstered by a number of veterans.

The Little Wildcats, coached by Fred Gerhardt and Rick Trudeau, were 4-3 with Osborne particularly pleased with the progress in fundamentals made by the team.

The Boosters Club and athletic department will host a "Meet Your Mustangs" night at the high school on December 4 with the event developing into a real attraction for the entire family.

According to Booster Larry Angove, the program will begin at 8 p.m. with all winter sports squads — from basketball to Pom Pom girls — to be previewed while coaches demonstrate various aspects of each sport.

Basketball, wrestling, swimming, cheerleading and Pom Pom squads will be introduced and awards will also be presented to members of fall sports squads. And an exhibition swim will be provided by the girls' swimming team which recently completed its season.

Local Women Place One - Two in Contest

Three out of 16 was the best anyone could do in last week's football team as most contestants came in with five or more mistakes.

Winning first place with three mistakes was Mrs. Josephine Spagnuolo, 113 East Main Street. The second place winner was Margaret Dingwall, 225 South Ely Drive, who came in with four mistakes and 14-points off the Detroit-St. Louis game.

Tied for third were Bruce Dingwall, same address, and Kathryn Byrne, 860 Spring Drive, both of whom made four mistakes and were 17-points off the deciding score.

Fifteen other contestants made four mistakes but in guessing Detroit's victory over St. Louis they didn't figure on the 20-0 shutout. They are:

Big difficulty for contestants was the results of the professional football games. Nearly everyone missed two or more of these games, including a surprisingly large number who guessed Detroit would go down to defeat.

Of these four games, Baltimore's 20-17 loss to the 49'ers proved to be the most difficult, although Kansas City's 34-16 victory over the New York Jets ran a close second.

In the college games, Mississippi's 38-0 shutout over Tennessee was the big headache for contestants. Two other games that upset numerous contestants included Northwestern's 30-27 squeaker over Indiana and Wisconsin's 55-14 triumph over Illinois.

Claim Morgan Honors

The Justin Morgan Horse Association last Saturday held its championship award banquet at South Lyon with David Earehart, above, and Melanie Coe, right, dominating honors. Earehart won the saddle seat and stock seat equitation championships for ages 14-17 while his Morgan mare, Pebbles, was the Western pleasure champion. Miss Coe won the saddle seat equitation, ages 13 and under, and was reserve champion in stock seat equitation. Her gelding, Punctuality, won first merit in English pleasure. Danny Earehart won the stock seat equitation championship, ages 13 and under, and Mrs. Lois Godfrey's Morgan mare, Batton's Bit-O-Fashion, won first merit in the Junior English pleasure division. Saturday's program was held at Andy's Steak House.

Police Investigate Theft Of Tractor from Site

Detectives from the City of Novi Police are investigating larceny of a $6,400 tractor reported missing Monday morning from a Ten Mile Road construction site.

According to police, the tractor was last used Saturday at the Holtzman & Silverman Company development between Novi Road and Meadowbrook Road.

In other police activity during the week, a calculator missing in the September 3 theft at Clark's Supply, 25470 Novi Road, has been recovered by the detective bureau through the Detroit Police Department. According to Detective Sergeant Richard Faulkner, series numbers recorded by the owner allowed police to identify the equipment which Detroit police recovered in the arrest of six larceny suspects.

The calculator is valued at $400, the detective reported. Also taken in the early-September theft was a $75 adding machine.

Police also completed an investigation of a breaking and entering at the Albert Rhudy, 23716 LeBost, in which three youngsters reportedly "took some candy and cookies" and escaped on the morning school bus. According to officers, they were apprehended later in the day and turned over to their parents.

Detectives are also investigating the larceny of a horse trailer, valued at $500, from the Wagon Wheel Stable on Monday.

Two cases of malicious destruction were reported Tuesday with sugar discovered in the gasoline tank of a car at the Clayton Thomas residence, 240 Shamrock, and with contractors reporting that wires were cut from new homes at Meadowbrook Glens.

Two cars collided about 1:15 p.m. Monday on Ten Mile Road near Taft, according to police. A car driven by David James Morrison, 16, of 24643 Wixom Road, was westbound on Ten Mile when it apparently struck an embankment and careened into the path of an auto driven by Alexander Rasegan, 27, of South Lyon.

Chief Lee BeGole also has issued a warning against children dumping mail from roadside postal boxes. According to the chief, several incidents have occurred within the last week.

BeGole explained that signs cannot be posted on public or private property without permission of the owners.

Previews NBD Charges

its October session requesting clarification from Bond. And then earlier this month the appeal failed to receive the necessary two-thirds of the total membership for passage.

Board members voted 4-2 in favor of the request with one member absent. According to Bond's interpretation of the charter, the issue required two-thirds of seven — or five votes — for appeal.

The city attorney explained Monday that NBD has challenged an interpretation of the C-T classification claiming a bank is a natural use while also challenging the reasoning expressed in making the decision and the interpretation of a necessary majority for passage.

Councilman Denis Berry asked the council for clarification of its position on the issue explaining that when he previously brought the subject up for discussion, it was not his intention "to close them up."

"I don't think that's the purpose or feeling of the council," he added.

Mayor Joseph Crupi observed that he felt the bank's failure to receive Board of Appeals' approval before locating at the site was "just an oversight in a method of doing banking business."

"I feel that perhaps this wasn't a matter that was fully understood by the two members of the appeals board who voted against it," he explained before observing that the issue possibly is one which could be "ironed out" without going into court.

"I feel that they should be allowed to go ahead and correct their mistakes and operate in that zone," the mayor said.

The council later directed Bond to handle the matter at his own discretion but to advise the city before final action.

Hearing on Police Chief

and those attributed to him in the Detroit newspaper were in conflict. She said that when she contacted the chief after bringing the incident before the council on October 28, he "apologized to me 25 times and he expressed a need to apologize to the community."

But then he defended the practice, she said, in comments related through the newspaper article.

"I really don't understand what's going on," Mrs. Hall observed. "This chief is supposed to be so great and yet he tells two citizens two different things."

"I think basically what we're doing here is saying we're so wrong that we fire him, was he so wrong that we make this an international affair," the mayor responded.

"I think at this time that we can understand that a man has made a mistake," he continued. "I have reprimanded Tom McGuire and I've reprimanded him as a chief and as a citizen."

"And maybe we can become a better city because of this," the mayor added before asking to adjourn.

Councilman Elwood Grubb then questioned the status on a report from the mayor on his disposition of the matter just before Sprenger issued his appeal for a hearing.

Mayor McAtee indicated that he would contact the council on the issue "within the next four days" and later it was decided to review the matter in a closed hearing this week.

Whether Sprenger will continue his appeal for an open hearing apparently is pending results of the meeting.

Year-Round Film Ready

Northville's year-round school slide presentation will move over and make room for a film strip ready for viewing December 1.

Raymond Spear, superintendent of Northville schools, said the 60 color slides will be made into a film strip after their final showing today, Thursday, at 11:30 a.m., to the staff at Moraine Elementary.

Six prints of the film strip will be available through Christmas.

"We will be able to make six presentations at any given time," Spear commented.

Arrangements to have the film shown to clubs, neighborhood associations and other groups can be made by calling the superintendent's office, 349-3400.

Showings can be scheduled in the morning, afternoon or evening in meeting halls or in homes.

In conjunction with the year-round school study 725 of the 1454 families in the Northville School District will be surveyed as to their feelings on the plan.

The survey will be conducted by the Mother's Club in early January. Families to be polled will receive letters beforehand from the school district.

Out of the Past

Novi Postmaster Retires

ONE YEAR AGO ...

Plans were revealed for a 400-acre subdivision at a gravel mining site between Seven and Eight Mile roads in Northville. Levitt and Sons, Inc., developer of the site, said the subdivision would include apartments, townhouses and homes.

Novi officials and citizens met with C&O Railroad representatives to correct the hazardous Nine Mile Road crossing near Novi Road. Out of the meeting came an agreement that a crossing light system would be installed, bracing timbers replaced and that the approaches would be leveled.

After serving 17 years as Novi postmaster, Mrs. Harry (Marjorie) Watson retired. She became acting postmaster under the administration of President Harry Truman.

Willie Horton, outfielder for the Detroit Tigers, spoke at the Northville Methodist Men's Club dinner.

Wixom residents have appealed to the city council for tighter hunting controls. Citizens said they didn't like hunters on their property.

FIVE YEARS AGO ...

Faced with beyond-capacity classroom loads at the high school, Northville Board of Education told Novi board members to prepare to teach their own tenth graders the following fall.

Harry Himmelsteib, retired owner and operator of Brader's department store, died at the age of 70. He had retired in 1963 and moved to Southern Pines, North Carolina. His career in Northville spanned 35 years, from 1928 to 1963.

Guest speakers at the Northville High football banquet were Detroit Lions Sam Williams and Tommy Watkins.

A long-awaited decision on approving the Wixom sewage system was blocked by council members. The council said the project would be reviewed and possibly expanded. The proposal would extend the main trunk line to the central business district and south to terminate near West and Wixom roads. Citizens and council members felt the system could be enlarged to cover the southern part of the city.

TEN YEARS AGO ...

Northville's football team won its fourth consecutive Wayne-Oakland league championship by downing Clarenceville 33-7.

Northville topped its United Foundation goal by over $500. Over $6,118 was raised during the campaign.

Ground was broken for the Novi Baptist Church at the corner of Taft and Eleven Mile roads. The congregation is the oldest in Novi, having been organized in February, 1846.

Northville High was formally dedicated in ceremonies held November 8. About 1,000 attended the program.

Close to 100 Novi village residents joined in launching a giant committee to decide the future of Novi. Citizen's Committee for Tomorrow, a volunteer group, was organized to aid in village planning.

TWENTY YEARS AGO ...

Members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church began worship services in the new church. Before moving to the new facility, farewell prayers were said in the old church.

The Village of Northville received $25,500 in receipts from Northville Downs. The council voted to transfer $20,000 of the money to the community building fund.

Depositors State Bank mailed Christmas Club checks totaling $41,736.10 to 590 members.

Seniors at Northville High set November 25 as the date of the annual Senior Prom.

Water rates in the Village of Northville were raised from $1.50 for the first 6,000 gallons to $2.

The Lloyd H. Green Post of the American Legion was planning its annual Thanksgiving party. Added was a roasting pig to be given away as a door prize.

FIFTY YEARS AGO ...

Tickets for Graham Harris's violin recital at the Alesium theater could be obtained at Brock's store.

Two pounds of sugar were allowed to each customer making a $1 purchase at Northville Drug, according to T. E. Murdock, proprietor.

The first snow of the season fell in Northville November 3.

Northville beat Wyandotte 57-0. Freydl, Listenberger, Moffitt, and Greene were cited for playing a good game.

Peaceful March

I accepted her hand-drawn map, made my way outside, and rejoined my anxious companions.

Onadega High School, located in one of the slum areas of Washington, was, like every other place we went over the weekend, packed. We worked our way to some cafeteria tables, spread out our sleeping bags, and to the tune of Dylan's "The Times They Are A Changin'" and by candlelight, we passed out. It was 6:30 a.m.

Two hours later we were on our way. By the time we reached the three-mile stretch of grass between the Washington Monument and the Capitol, it was 9:30 a.m. The sidewalks were literally crammed with demonstrators. We parked our car a half-mile away and joined them.

As we walked down Constitution Avenue towards the monument we talked to the people immediately next to us.

"You know why the 'silent majority' is silent?" asked a tall mustacheed kid from Ohio's Antioch College. "No," I said, "Why?" "Because it doesn't exist. We're here to show that we're the majority and we're sick of war."

One demonstrator broke ranks 10 paces into the street and yelled at a configuration of policemen, calling them "pigs." A group of volunteer marshals grabbed him and hustled him back into the crowd. The policemen cheered, "everybody laughed. A girl from NYU, who had ridden her bicycle to the Capitol, told me the most ridiculous thing she saw in the war was that it took money away from home where it was desperately needed. A blonde boy from Kentucky State said he carried his brother's name in the "march on death." A tall girl dressed in fashionable bellbottoms and a heavy fur coat said she was present because it was "lots of fun." I asked a psychology professor from Harvard his reasons for protesting and he responded by asking me how many Vietnamese had died in our "Civil War."

Beginning an hour and 40 minutes late, the march moved slowly along Pennsylvania Avenue, with participants chanting slogans like "We don't want your lousy war," and "All we are saying is give peace a chance."

Volunteer parade marshals, recruited by the march organizers, stood in intervals of five or 10 feet along the parade route, laughing and joking with demonstrators. Police seemed to have nothing to do as they stood on street corners in groups of 12 or more.

I shared a peanut butter and jelly sandwich with one D.C. patrolman who said, when I asked what he thought of the whole thing, that the kids were courteous and friendly and he hoped they all had a place to stay and didn't have to sleep out in the street. A girl offered to sell him a button in parody of Vice-President Agnew, reading: "Hi, I'm an effete, impudent, intellectual snob." He bought it for a quarter, smiled, and put it in his pocket.

The march took nearly four hours to complete and was relatively free of obscenity or "cop baiting."

In the afternoon, protesters listened to such people as folk singers Pete Seeger and Arlo Guthrie, Senator Eugene McCarthy, and Mrs. Martin Luther King. Fires were built, blankets dug out, and people huddled together or ran around to protect themselves against the cold and sharp north wind. Attendance suffered from the weather but the crowd maintained gigantic proportions.

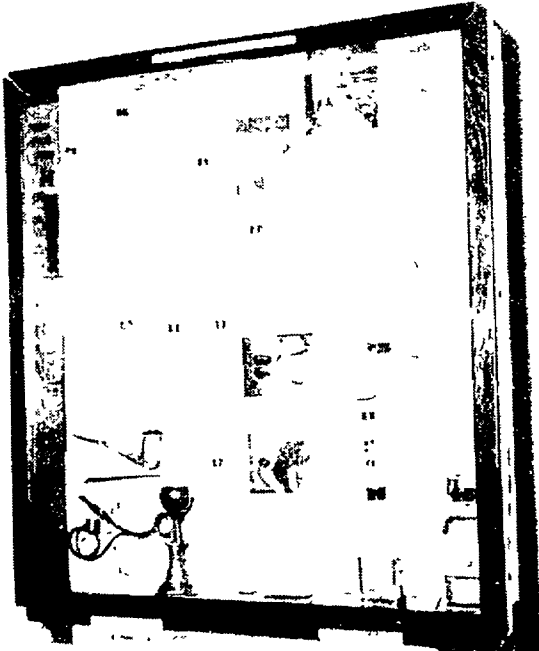

Security in the city was tight. Besides police guarding Constitution and Pennsylvania avenues, officers were stationed on the roofs of virtually every public building. Security helicopters shot back and forth over the heads of the crowd.

Most of the march, however, was peaceful, and those who came to express a peaceful thought, in general, went home gratified.

I know I did.

KIWANIS AWARD — Iris White, Novi school bus driver, was honored for her dedicated service to the school district — namely, the safe, courteous transportation of school children — during the annual bus drivers awards banquet of the Wixom-Nowi-Walled Lake Kiwanis Club Tuesday night at Aunt Jemima's restaurant in Wixom. Making the presentation as Novi Superintendent of Schools Thomas Dale looks on is Kiwanian Frazer Staman, former Novi supervisor and now an Oakland County road commissioner.

NARCOTICS SHOWCASE — Assembled by the Northville Police Department this display shows only a few of the drugs currently being used in Northville. With the exception of three items, all articles have been recovered in Northville, according to Chief of Police Samuel Elkins, who said the display and accompanying presentation is available to any group wishing to learn about drug abuse, detection and ways to curb use. Parents who suspect their children are using narcotics, may bring a sample of the drug to the station where it will be analyzed. If the substance is found to be a narcotic, the department will direct the parents to professional help.

Board Meeting Place

Police & Courts

Two persons were injured November 12 when the car in which they were riding struck a utility pole at the corner of Rayson and Center streets.

Mrs. Paul D. Mack, 618 Fairbrook, and her 11-year-old son, Greg, hit the windshield of the car and suffered minor injuries, police reported. They refused medical attention.

Mrs. Mack said she tried to stop for a stop sign on Rayson when the brakes failed. She hit the utility pole rather than another car, she said.

Twenty-four stitches were required to close wounds on the face and top of the head of Raymond Brennan, Jr., four-years-old, of Dearborn, who was bitten November 15 near Northville Downs and Hines Drive.

More than $300 worth of cameras, radios and binoculars was stolen November 6 from the Harry Weiser Sr., home, 589 Langfield.

William Ward Jr., 111 South Wing Street, told police he was knocked down by a car as he was walking in the parking lot behind Ramsey's bar. The accident occurred November 17 shortly before 4 p.m. He complained of leg pains but declined medical attention.

A large plate glass window of Northville Pizzeria, 168 East Main Street, was broken November 15 about 3 a.m. A witness reported three youths were seen fleeing from the scene after glass was heard breaking.

Suburban TV and 2-Way Radio, 114 North Center Street, reported a silver paint barrel was taken November 15.

Township Police investigated a bullet hole in a window at 18804 Jamestown Circle on November 13. Police theorized the bullet came from the nearby Waterford Lake target range. There were no injuries.

as a city park to boost recreation and enhance the "door" to the city from the north.

Councilman Kenneth Rathert, while agreeing with proposed development, has stated on two occasions that he, too, sees value in recreation — at least on the rear portion. He suggested this week that the matter be tabled until January pending further study, but fellow councilmen, anxious to end a "long delay," would not support his motion but instead agreed to wait until next Monday's meeting before acting to put the property up for sale.

John Bock of the association urged council delay until after planners have considered a council suggestion that commercially zoned property on either side of the abandoned well property be rezoned to a multiple-housing classification. But officials, explaining that owners of these properties are not interested in a "joint" sale with city land, insist that such proposed rezoning "has nothing to do with the well-site sale."

Waiting for possible action of planners would be "just a delaying tactic," councilmen charged, pointing out that they have already waited many months in an attempt to satisfy most of the association's earlier demands concerning sale and development of the land.

Funeral services were held Monday for Mrs. Eva L. Wheeler, a former Salem Township resident, at the Assembly of God Church, Ypsilanti with burial at Salem Walker Cemetery.

Mrs. Wheeler, 79, died last Friday at Huron View Lodge Convalescent Home, Ann Arbor, where she had been a patient for three months. She had been a resident of the Ypsilanti area for 45 years.

Born April 22, 1890 in Woodland, she married Calvin L. Wheeler in Salem in 1913. Her husband died in 1960.

Surviving is a son, Sam, of Ypsilanti and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were arranged by Stevens and Bush Funeral Home, Ypsilanti.

LISLE K. BIERY

Funeral services will be held today, Thursday, for Lisle K. Biery, at 1 p.m., in the Casterline Funeral Home.

Mrs. Biery, 83, of 43687 West Grand River, died at home November 14.

Born in Northville Township, March 8, 1886, she lived in Novi for 80 years. The daughter of Naomi (Downer) and Charles Kent, she married Floyd A. Biery. He preceded his wife in death in August, 1949.

Survivors include three sisters, Mrs. Charles Bassett, Novi, Mrs. Ralph Yerkes, Howell, and Mrs. Nattie Kent, Plymouth.

Officiating at the services will be Reverend Robert A. Mitchinson of the First Methodist Church, New Hudson. Burial will be in Novi Cemetery, Novi.

Teachers Picked For Institute

A teacher from Northville High School and one from Schoolcraft College have been chosen to attend Michigan's Second Institute on Girls' Sports to be held November 20, 21, 22, and 23.

They are Pat Bubel, of the high school, who will participate in basketball discussions, and Ruth Guttenecht, who will attend swimming and diving sessions.

The United States Olympic Development Committee has sponsored five National Institutes on Girls' Sports. Primary objectives have been to increase the depth of experience and expand the opportunities in sports participation for girls and women.

WINTERIZED — Northville Downs grandstand has been completely enclosed in glass to permit summer temperatures for winter racing that begins Monday.

By ROLLY PETERSON

Dr. James V. McConnell, a professor of psychology at the U of M, is my kind of professor — a man of science with a sense of humor. Dr. McConnell, if you recall (as I didn't) is the man who some 10 years ago discovered that learning could be physically transferred from one animal to another.

He trained pointy-headed, cross-eyed flatworms called planarians to curl up when they saw a bright light. When he cut the worms into pieces and fed them to untrained planarians the new worms "remembered" what the original ones learned.

It seems that when a planarian's head is cut off, the head grows a new tail and the tail grows a new head. When he cut trained worms in half, each half grew into a new worm which remembered what the original one was taught. In fact, the original fail section with its new head remembered better than the original head with its new tail.

There was a lot of speculation about the implications of "transferred learning" for man when the press got ahold of Dr. McConnell's report. The scientific experiment, in this respect, received a lot of tongue-in-cheek treatment.

For what it's worth, Dr. McConnell's experiment is still an oddity that defies accurate interpretation. No one yet has translated his findings into observations that could benefit man.

But I wonder too much in this column . . . The point is not Dr. McConnell's findings per se, but what happened to him after he published a journal about his experiment.

Flooded with requests for more information, Dr. McConnell responded with his tongue-in-cheek "Worm Runner's Digest." According to a U of M release, the professor filled the issue with serious articles, but also included poems, jokes, satires, cartoons and spoofs. It was a practical joke on the scientific community.

In a way it backfired, and therein lies the pith of this column. "Little did we appreciate the strength of the publish-or-perish syndrome," Professor McConnell explained. "Academic scientists are so desperate that they will publish anywhere, so to our utter amazement, we began getting contributions for the next issue."

Contributors were distressed, however. Their articles were not being picked up for indexing by various scientific abstracting services — which apparently must be done before a publishing credit is granted. The professors couldn't get off the publish-or-perish hook.

Feeling sorry for the blokes, Dr. McConnell changes the digest's format so articles would be indexed. He renamed the magazine "The Journal of Biological Psychology" and printed the back section, which retained the name of the "Worm Runner's Digest," upside down.

Why does Dr. McConnell retain the humorous back portion?

TRIPLE DECKER — Northville will serve up the first stage of its new triple-deck clubhouse when Jackson Harness Raceway moves into the Northville Downs for 30 nights of winter racing starting Monday.

The first floor of the new facility will be ready for the winter season, with completion of the top two floors — including restaurant slated for completion by the opening of the Downs' regular summer meet.

Winter Harness Racing Opens At Northville Downs on Monday

Winter racing comes to Northville Downs Monday night for a 30-night meet extending through December 30. Actually, the Jackson Trotting Association headed up by Leon A. Slavin will introduce the winter meet to the metropolitan area as tenants of the Northville track.

Slavin was awarded the Northville meet by the State Racing Commission as a follow-up to the 40-night Jackson meet which ends Saturday.

As his part of the bargain, Downs' Owner John Carlo promised enclosed, air-conditioned grandstands and at least one floor of the new tri-level clubhouse completed for the winter meet.

The track is ready, and so is Slavin. As a matter of fact, the winter meet at Northville will mark the culmination of a long endeavor by Slavin to bring winter racing to the Detroit area.

An energetic, tireless worker, Slavin, in a sense, is beginning his "third" career in racing as he brings the Jackson meet to Northville.

A native of Kalamazoo and a long-time resident of Dayton, Ohio, Slavin certainly isn't a stranger to Detroit racing. A multi-talented man in industry and sports, Slavin mixed determination and imagination with his financial assets to lift Jackson Harness Raceway from a tottering county fair layout in 1949 to its current station as one of Michigan's most progressive race tracks.

When the curtain falls in Jackson on the current meet it will be flitting with the possibility of a 15 per cent increase over 1968. And even though the per cent may waver a digit or two, it is still an impressive windup when you consider Jackson's 1968 campaign enjoyed a boost of 10.73% over the previous season.

The dapper racing executive was overjoyed when the Michigan State Racing Commission granted Jackson permission to race 40 nights at Northville Downs this year.

"This is something I have wanted for a long time and it has been a long time coming. I am delighted with our lease with Mr. Carlo and the Northville Driving Club. This isn't a one-year experiment but one with a long projection to make Jackson at Northville Downs of the most exciting meetings in the middle west," Leon explained.

Northville Downs, with a sulky history going back to 1940, has come of age as a major plant.

"The heated, enclosed grandstand has been completely refurbished and we are certain it will be a delight to our patrons on those December nights when the temperature is certain to take a nose dive. It is the only one in the state like it."

Continuing, Slavin reminded, "And don't forget our triple-decked clubhouse. We are only going to use the lower level this winter but it will be in complete readiness for the 1970 season. The dining facilities will be second to none and the fans will have a panoramic view of all the action without leaving their seats."

Slavin and his racing staff aren't worried about frigid temperatures and the racing strip.

"Northville was a winter training site for years but the cushion is in top condition right now and it has never been faster. Even as the workmen are applying the finishing touches, you can see horsemen putting the standardbreds through their paces every morning."

Late Mail May Delay Your Cheer

"Don't take a chance on disappointing someone you love, send your gift parcels and cards early enough to insure their delivery before Christmas, not after," Postmaster John Steinel advised this week.

"On the day after Christmas a post office building can be the most depressing place in the world," the postmaster added, "if it still contains a mountain of messages of love and cheer that didn't make it because they were mailed too late."

Such disappointments can be avoided if Christmas mailers will observe the following mailing schedule.

Gift parcels going to distant states should be mailed by December 1. Parcels going to local and nearby areas should be mailed not later than December 13.

The name and address of both the sender and addressee should be enclosed in each gift parcel to permit identity in case of damage or loss of the outside address label. The outside label should be placed on only one side of each parcel.

Greeting cards going to distant states should be mailed not later than December 10. Cards going to local and nearby areas should be in the mail by December 15.

Postmaster Steinel also emphasized the importance of using ZIP Codes and adding a return address to all Christmas mail, it only takes a couple of extra seconds, but pays big dividends.

ZIP Codes enable postal employees to sort and handle the mail faster. A return address insures that mail that can't be delivered because of an illegible or incomplete address will be returned to the sender.

"A return address might not seem very important," Steinel noted, "but last year over 32 billion pieces of mail went to postal dead letter branches because the mailing address couldn't be read and there was no return address on the envelope. If you estimate the worth of each of these pieces at twenty-five cents, including postage, postal customers lost over $7.5 million last year to dead letter offices. And none of this would have happened if the envelopes had contained a return address."

Open House Slated for New High School

An open house to dedicate the new Walled Lake Western Senior High School, located on the Wixom border just off Pontiac Trail, will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Parents and interested residents are invited to view the facilities. Teachers and students will be on hand to answer questions and to demonstrate much of the equipment.

Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria commons.

The school, in the planning and construction stages for four years, opened in September to nearly 1,700 students with a final capacity estimated at 2,500 students. It is the second high school for the district and houses students from grades nine to twelve.

Western, which sits on a 50-acre site, is divided into three main sections — the academic wing, the vocational wing and the community wing.

The academic wing, primarily for Western students, consists of more than 50 classrooms, a bookstore, offices and the two level Instructional Media Center or library.

The vocational facilities are designed for use by both Western and Central High School students. The specialized programs include carpentry, woods and metals laboratories, the automotive shop, the electronics laboratory, shorthand and typing classrooms, distributive education facilities, the home economics section, art and graphics classrooms, and a fully equipped restaurant for the commercial foods classes. Transportation is provided to Western for Central students so that they may take advantage of the specialized facilities.

Since the school was designed around the concept of community education, facilities in the third wing are for use by all residents of the district. This wing includes the swimming pool, the 900-seat E. V. Ayres Auditorium, the gymnasium and the cafeteria commons.

Elementary students from fifth grade and all junior and senior high school students are bused to Western for instructional swimming classes. Target day for a community swim program schedule is November 24.

The $7-million school is a community project made possible through the combined efforts of citizens, the board of education and the school staff.

Fair Aids Handicapped

With an eye towards Christmas, the annual "Holiday Fair" at Our Lady of Providence School for mentally handicapped girls, will be held Sunday November 23.

From 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. the school, located at 16115 Beck Road, midway between Five and Six Mile roads, will come alive with booths, games, refreshments and prizes appealing to all age groups.

Proceeds from the "Holiday Fair" will be used to finance the school's building program now in progress, the new activity shop and a half-way house.

Tickets are $1 for adults, with children admitted free.

Shape of Proposed New Capitol Continues to Stump Lawmakers

LANSING — Piercing the skyline from its perch in the center of Lansing is one of the most remarkable state capitol in the nation.

A dramatic pot pourri of wood and marble, it cost $1.5 million and 50 years of stormy controversy to build.

Now plans are rising in minds of Michigan legislators to replace the symbol of government which has stood for 90 years with a new, larger structure.

The new Capitol, at this point, has no final form, but it probably will have rectangular lines. It is said it will cost the taxpayers $40 million, but even that figure, like the design, may tower and spread.

Its location will be three blocks west of the present statehouse, in a direct line along a partially completed mall. The land on which it will stand is already owned by the state or is in the process of being acquired.

THERE IS SOME sentiment to retain and rebuild the present Capitol, but architects say this

Babson Report

Electricity Boost Seen in Reactors

WELLESLEY HILLS, Massachusetts — While World War II caused great disruption throughout the world, it did accelerate advances in weapons and technology. An obvious example was the development of the atomic bomb, which hastened the end of the war with Japan. At that time there was great promise for the peaceful use of atomic energy, primarily as a new source of electric power. However, in the years since 1945, relatively little progress has been made in this field as compared with the pace of developments in the 25-year spans following the discovery of oil and of electricity. While nuclear generating stations abound, their

The fact that Jackson's meeting at Northville will present head-on competition with Canada's Windsor Raceway doesn't perturb the Slavin operation.

"Detroit is one of the largest cities in the United States and certainly one of the greatest sports towns. The supply and demand for racing is big enough for both tracks. I wouldn't be surprised to see some fans visiting Northville one night and Windsor the next and vice-versa. Competition is always a healthy situation but remember, we are not feuding with the Windsor people."

Head-on action is nothing new to Slavin in his operation of race tracks. While Jackson steadily gained in mutual handle despite a constant late fall battle with the weather and in reputation, Leon and his brother, William of Kalamazoo, purchased River Downs thoroughbred track in Cincinnati in the spring of 1955.

River Downs, whose racing history goes back to 1925, continued to grow under Slavin's guidance and despite a direct confrontation with the newly-organized Latonia race course in Northern Kentucky in 1959-60, the Ohio track's handle and attendance continued upward.

Slavin installed one of America's finest seven-eighth mile turf courses in 1956 in the infield — a Green Carpet layout which promoted horsemen from all sections of the country to proclaim it "one of the best anywhere."

Slavin sold his interests in River Downs to an Akron group of businessmen in April, 1965 and then turned all his energies to Jackson Harness Raceway and other business interests.

"It has been proven time and again that winter harness racing is a must in America's major cities. New York and Chicago are two prime examples. Detroit should be no exception."

would be a waste of money because the building is so old.

Despite the gray-tan patina its stone blocks have acquired, its imposing metal-clad, snow-white dome, tree-shaded grounds and monuments, it is what's inside the Capitol that counts.

Even the most awestruck visitor would fresh say it is dingy. Occasional proud point does not do much for cramped offices, supplies stacked in corridors, jumbled wiring and rickety elevators.

A section of the fourth floor has been condemned by the State Fire Marshall. And until recently, it was crammed with legislative offices from which escape would have been difficult.

EXPERTS FEAR a serious blaze anywhere in the building would quickly feed on the varnished woodwork and piles of documents and could be drawn up the open space under the dome like a furnace flue.

"We don't consider the entire building a safe place for people or paper," said State Police Capt. Glenroy Walker. "We've been filing reports about it since the early 1950's, but it's not our place to mandate to the Legislature what to do about it."

The proposed new Capitol is the centerpiece, but only one space, of a total State Capitol area development which would cost a quarter-billion dollars.

A CITY BLOCK immediately behind the old Capitol has already been built up with new offices for the Secretary of State, Treasury, Highway and other departments. Underneath is a two-level garage for 2,000 cars.

The garage has been plagued with a leaky roof, there was some trouble installing the Treasurer's safe and the plain architecture of the buildings drew comments such as "Mussolini modern" and "neo-penal."

DECIDING on a shape for a new capitol apparently has stumped everyone.

So far, 35 concepts have been ruled out. These include inverted pyramids, a "cereal box," and assorted round and cube shapes.

The current favorite is an "acropolis," a base from which three structures — one each for the legislative, executive and judicial branches — would rise.

What is hoped will be a final decision reached at a meeting later this month.

THE STATE'S FIRST modest Capitol stood on a triangular plot at Griswold, State and Shelby streets in Detroit.

Because of British aggressiveness in the war of 1812, it was decided the capitol should be moved to the state's interior. Another reason was to remove state government from the influence of Detroit.

After much wrangling, the Legislature decided in 1847 to relocate in Lansing, then just a cluster of cabins. The first Capitol there, a two-story frame building, was later abandoned. The present Capitol was opened in 1878.

Prominent architects in all parts of the country submitted plans for the design. The competition was won by Elijah E. Meyers of Springfield, Illinois.

He Laid Down His Life for Me

Frank Shultz, Home
Missionary with Galilean Baptist Mission

In "The Good Samaritan" this story is told:

Cyrus, King of Persia, after a famous victory, took prisoner a noble prince with his wife and children. When they were brought before Cyrus he said to the prince, "What will you give me to set you free?"

The prince replied, "I will give you half of what I possess."

"And what will you give me if I set your wife free?"

"I will gladly give my life," said the prince.

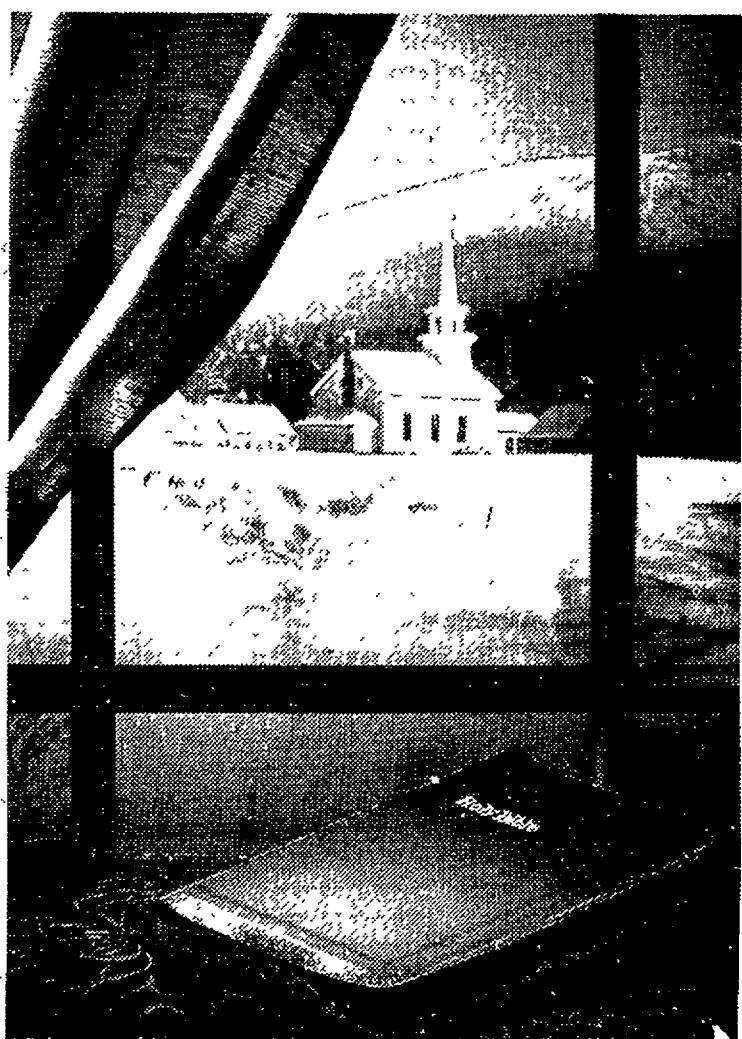

Cyrus, touched by such nobility, set them both free with their children without recompense. That evening when the prince and his wife rejoiced together over their freedom, he said, "Did you not think Cyrus a very handsome man?"

The wife replied, "I did not notice him sufficiently well to tell: I had eyes only for the man who said he would lay down his life for me!"

Not only did the Lord Jesus offer to lay down His life for us, HE DID die on the cross for us. As the Christian thinks of His sacrifice, His sufferings, His love, he should be able to say from a broken, yet grateful heart, "Lord Jesus, I want eyes only for Thee, the One who laid down His life for me!"

For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John 3:16

HER
OW

The Bennetts live here. That's Grandmother Bennett's Bible on the window sill, and the whole family goes to the church across the snow covered field.

John Bennett works in the local bank. Martha, his wife, is president of the PTA, and they have three lovely children. Grandmother Bennett has been living with them for the past couple of years, since she broke her hip. She can't always get to church in winter time and that's why she calls this her window. When she can't be in church, it helps to be able to see it.

To her, the church steeple represents a great many things, and brings back many memories. Her son was married in that church. Her husband was buried from it. Her grandchildren were christened in it. The Church has helped her to bear grief, in hours of sorrow, and it has seemed to put a benediction upon her happiness, in times of joy. Most important of all, whatever the occasion, whatever the crisis . . . the Church has always been there.

To Grandmother Bennett, the most comforting thing in the world is knowing that it always will be there.

Snow Fans Can Expect Lots O' Fun

Snow fans coming to Michigan this winter can expect vast amounts of snowfall and much good, crisp skiing weather, if there is any credibility in the prognostications of the caterpillar and squirrel watchers.

According to those who predicate their forecast on the thickness of the fur on caterpillars and the number of nuts squirrels put away in the fall, Michigan can expect plenty of snow and a long winter.

The Michigan Tourist Council agrees the state can expect an abundance of good skiing snow, but has a more scientific reason on which to base its estimates. Snowfall statistics, recorded over several years, show the average seasonal snowfall for the state to be from 140 inches in the north to about 30 inches in the southeast corner.

To the householder with a corner lot and long sidewalks, all this snow may be looked upon as just more hard work. To skiers, snowmobile buffs and little boys with new sleds it can mean great sport.

To help direct the Michigan Winter Sports fan to where the action is, the Michigan Tourist Council is ready to distribute the 1970 edition of the Michigan Winter Sports Map, which pinpoints 73 developed winter sports areas in the state. The map details specific information on locations of winter recreation areas, listing such details as the number of slopes, lifts, tows, entertainment and other features of particular interest to those looking for fun in the snow.

A new feature of the map is the alphabetical key which facilitates locating specific winter sports areas and information about them. To make the map easier to use, the state is divided into four regional areas: Upper Peninsula; West Michigan; East Michigan and Southeast Michigan.

New to the listings on the map, this year is Paradise Valley, located at Oakley off M-47. In addition to ski slopes, the newly-listed area provides a warming house, ski rental and a snack bar.

Among other changes for the upcoming season are several new slopes added to existing areas, increased capacity of the lifts and additional restaurants and accommodations. The number of quad and triple chair lifts has increased.

Several resorts have added snowmobile trails and rental vehicles to accommodate the devotees to the new family sport. For those who cling to the year-round joys of swimming, seven of the winter sports centers provide indoor and outdoor heated pools.

Chair lifts, T-bars and rope tows take the work out of the trip back up the hills. Snow-making equipment at the major ski areas provides a base to augment natural snow when nature won't cooperate. Grooming and packing machines keep the slopes in prime shape and lighted runs at more than half the areas extend the skiing into the dark hours.

Beginners are as welcome as the pros at most Michigan ski centers, which provide slopes and professional instruction especially for the novice. Rental equipment, skis, poles and boots are generally available at reasonable rates.

The Michigan Winter Sports Map, designed to help you plan your winter fun, is available free of charge by writing the Michigan Tourist Council, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan 48926.

Budget OK'd

A proposed budget in the amount of $1,296,100 was unanimously approved by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments General Assembly, during SEMCOG's third General Assembly meeting this year. The Saturday (November 8) meeting was held in Pontiac's Oakland County Service Center Auditorium.

The 4 W's...Where to wear what, when.

It's important to know, if you want to make your own look look great. Especially with all the choices; they can confuse a guy. Here, at our store, we take pride in giving your own taste and good judgment a little assist. So if you're not sure, ask us what you want it for. A suit, or a sportcoat, or the slacks, or accessories. We have it on pretty good authority: experience.
