

NEWS BRIEFS

LAST DAY for registering for the Northville bond issue election is tomorrow (Friday) at 5 p.m., school officials reminded residents this week. The election is slated for Valentine's Day, February 14.

ANOTHER FIRST was recorded by Northville Public Schools when the Municipal Finance Commission in Lansing accepted the district's preliminary application for sale of bonds. Superintendent Raymond Spear said this was the first time the commission has accepted an application before a bond election. Spear said the school filed before the election to "eliminate the long period of time generally taken by the commission to evaluate and review the application before approving the bond sale." Monies received from the sale of bonds will be used for the construction of additions and remodeling of the district's five schools, pending approval of the proposition February 14.

SEMESTER'S END means vacation for students in Northville schools. Public school students will be off January 22 and 23, returning to begin the new semester January 26. St. Paul's Lutheran school will follow the same vacation schedule as the public schools, while Our Lady of Victory students will be in school January 22 and off January 23.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR Gunnar Stromberg missed his first meeting of the township board (as trustee or supervisor) Tuesday night due to the flu. Both the supervisor and his wife are confined to their home with the illness. They had planned to take off for Florida yesterday for a brief vacation, which now must be delayed.

BY A 6-2 VOTE last week Chatham Food Centers, Inc. was granted permission by the Northville Board of Appeals to erect a 7 1/2 X 15-foot double-face pole sign on its center Street property where next spring a large supermarket is to be built. The sign variance represented a reduction in size from Chatham's original request. Negative votes were cast by Paul Vernon and Sidney Frid. The illuminated, non-flashing sign is to be turned off by one hour after closing time or at 11 p.m., whichever comes first.

A BOMB THREAT that proved to be a hoax was received at the Northville Public Schools main switchboard Wednesday at 7:51 a.m. The young male caller announced there was "a bomb in the school." Officers from the Northville Police and Wayne County Sheriff's department made a thorough search of the schools, finding nothing. Shortly after 9 a.m., clearance had been received on all buildings, according to Superintendent Raymond Spear. Students were unaware of the incident.

Ballot Wording Set For School Election

The wording of the February 14 bond issue was approved Monday night by the Northville Board of Education. All items that will be included in the bond question were established, with the final dollar amount to be determined at the board's January 26 meeting.

All resident qualified school electors who are registered with the city or township clerk of the city or township in which they live will be allowed to vote on the issue.

Votes cast by property owners and electors who do not own property will be tabulated separately.

See Speaking for the Record, Page 10-A.

Voters will be asked to approve the following proposition:

"Erecting, furnishing and equipping an addition or additions to and remodeling each of the following school buildings. Northville High School, Ida B. Cooke Junior High School, Moraine Elementary School, Amerman Elementary School and Main Street Elementary School; constructing and equipping a bus maintenance garage; constructing and equipping additional athletic facilities at the high school; constructing and equipping playground facilities; and developing and improving our existing sites."

In other business Monday, the board established the position of administrative intern for personnel relations, awarded bids for building, property, liability and vandalism insurance, heard a letter from their attorney on levying an additional mill in the district and received approval from the department of education for the school additions.

The position of administrative intern for personnel relations was established by the board with a vote of

Teacher Takes New Post

The appointment of Robert C. Benson, Jr., as administrative intern for Northville Public Schools was approved Monday night by the board of education.

Benson, math teacher at Northville High for two and one-half years, assumed his administrative duties January 5.

Still acquainting himself with his new position, Benson said, "I enjoy working with people. I see my new job as a challenge and will enjoy being at the administrative end of education."

The 39-year old Benson is a native of Lansing. He received his BS degree from Michigan State in 1958 and his MA degree from Central Michigan in 1964. He is currently working toward a specialist degree in education administration at Eastern Michigan University.

Benson has taught for over eight years and worked as a field representative for General Learning Corporation for four years.

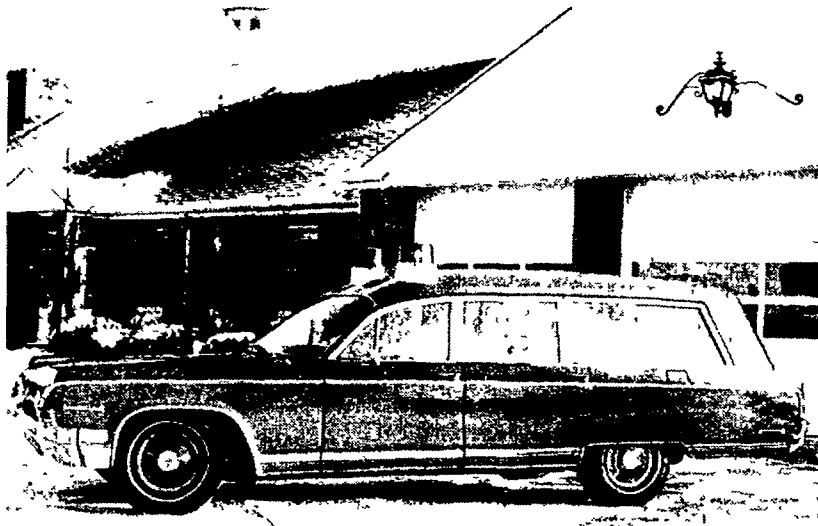

Board Meets January 22

A special public meeting will be held Thursday, January 22, at 8 p.m. by the Northville Board of Education in the board offices, 303 West Main Street.

Bids will be opened for the construction of additions to and remodeling of the district's schools.

The board's architect will review the bids and recommend a bidder or bidders to the board at their regularly scheduled meeting, January 26.

Ambulance Arrives As New Service Nears

CITY'S EMERGENCY AMBULANCE ARRIVES

A 1964 used Oldsmobile ambulance, costing $4,000, arrived this past week as the City of Northville initiated plans for establishment of an "emergency" ambulance service in the wake of Fred Casterline's decision to end his private service at the end of this month.

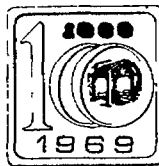

The ambulance is being housed in the fire hall, replacing the department's grass-fire rig which has been moved to the DPW garage.

Yesterday a meeting of potential volunteer-paid attendants was held as the city prepared for a proposed round-the-clock standby service.

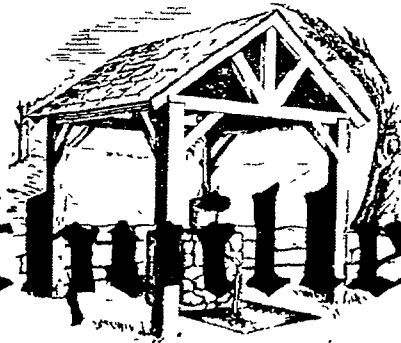

Meanwhile, Northville township board members Tuesday night voted to investigate the possibility of utilizing the services of other private firms serving western Wayne County and presently used by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

According to Trustee Richard Mitchell, officials of two companies - Superior and General - informed him that they can respond to local calls within four to eight minutes but that they would like to have some guarantee that bills were paid.

The board also went on record as commending Casterline for his many years of service to the community.

City Backbills Township For Fire, Landfill Cost

Township officials are pondering the disposition this week of two unexpected city bills totalling $6,034 for service costs dating back in one case four years.

Questioning the validity of the back-bills, the township board Tuesday night tabled both items after discussion with the city manager and heard a report from the recreation director, who indicated township share of recreation costs are likely to increase several thousand dollars during 1970-71.

In a related recreation matter, it was disclosed that the state grant of $44,581 to be received by the city for development of the fish hatchery is based upon the combined population of the city and the township.

According to a report by Trustees Bernard Baldwin and Joseph Straub, confirmed by City Manager Frank Ollendorff, if the township decides not to participate in developing the city-owned fish hatchery for community recreation the size of the grant to the city will be cut to approximately $21,000, based only on its own population.

Presumably, at this point the township can either join with the city or use its share of the $44,581 grant to develop a park of its own, it was pointed out. However, to do so the township must soon submit an application to the state together with detailed plans of its own park proposal.

From the tenor of Tuesday's discussion, however, it appeared township officials preferred joining with the city - provided forthcoming detailed costs of the fish hatchery development are satisfactory to the board. A cost study of the project is now in the works

Trustee Straub also asked that the matter of ownership of the fish hatchery site be reviewed. If the township agrees to a 50-50 split of costs with the city, he said, it should have some equity in the park land. Since the city purchased the property from the federal government, it was not immediately known whether or not a portion of the ownership could be transferred to the township.

Recall Drive Still in Doubt

A citizen drive to oust three township officials remained in doubt this week as ex-trustee Thomas Armstrong reported the number of petition signers is still short of forcing a special recall election.

"With three petitions still out, we haven't decided whether or not to drop it (the drive)," said Armstrong in indicating a general lack of interest among township electors. Earlier, Armstrong had stated he would give up the recall effort if insufficient signatures were obtained by the first of the year.

SCHOOL SURVEY STARTS - Mrs. Ben Lauber, 714 Spring Drive, is among the first to be visited this week in the year-round school survey being conducted by Northville Mothers' Club for the Northville School System under a state grant. Mrs. Robert Boshoven, Mothers' Club interviewer, and other club members will be calling upon 725 residents this week and next who have been notified by letter that they have been chosen for the random sampling.

Township Tables Levitt Rezoning

Recommendation of Northville township planners that the Levitt rezoning request to permit development of a convenient shopping center on Seven Mile Road be approved was tabled by the township board Tuesday night.

The board took its tabling action, following a plea from City Manager Frank Ollendorff that he be given time to obtain professional data to substantiate or refute the township planners' contention that the community can support the city's central business district, the proposed Levitt and adjacent Oldford shopping centers.

Township board members were agreed that neither the Levitt nor the Oldford proposals offered a threat to the city's central business but that all three - plus several other neighborhood-type centers suggested in the township master plan - will be needed to support the future population of the Northville community.

Ollendorff said he had been informed by one source that such was not the case. He asked that he be given an opportunity to research available professional data. Major difference of opinion between Ollendorff and board

Clinic Slated For Smokers

A free, five-day smoking withdrawal clinic - open to Northville-Novi residents - is to be conducted the last week in January in Plymouth by Dr. Arthur Weaver, a Northville-area resident who this week is conducting a clinic in Detroit.

Sponsored by the Seventh Day Adventist Church and Galimore Elementary PTA in Plymouth, the clinic is to be held at 7:30 p.m. at the school for five consecutive nights, beginning January 25.

Assisting Dr. Weaver will be the Reverend William Dennis of South Lyon and three other physicians. The clinic being conducted this week in Detroit (and publicized by Detroit News' Columnist Doc Greene) is the same type that is to be held in Plymouth, according to PTA sponsors. No advance registration is necessary, but anyone with questions may call the school, GL 3-7350.

In Our Town New Questers Choose Officers

By JEAN DAY

QUESTING — that special hobby of searching for and learning about antiques — is thriving in our community.

Officers have been announced for the new Silver Springs Chapter of the national Quester Society, one of two new groups formed here last fall. Mrs. Milton Holstein is chapter president.

Assisting her are Mrs. Paul Folino, first vice-president and program chairman; Mrs. Milton Koenig, treasurer and membership; Mrs. Melvin Anderson, recording secretary; Mrs. Bruce Turnbull, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Beecher Todd, historian.

The chapter will hold its January meeting next Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Grant Allen, 19530 Clement. It is scheduled as a "brainstorming session" as future plans are mapped.

Northville's senior Quester chapter, Base Line Questers, will hold its annual men's night program, at which husbands are honor guests, at 8 p.m. Monday, January 26, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Klein, 18450 Fernanough. It will be a dessert meeting and program.

NORTHVILLE Historical Society — a group interested in preserving the heritage of our community — will meet at 8 p.m. next Thursday, January 22, at the Jennette M. Lawrence building at 215 West Cady. Spring meeting plans will be outlined.

In the interest of preserving the memory of one of Northville's citizens who did much for her community, the historical society reminds that the Scout-recreation building was named for Mrs. Lawrence.

A WINNER of the Indianapolis "500," Peter De Paolo, and his wife will be dinner guests of the George Merwins of Brookland Farms next Monday. The couples are long-time friends.

Mr. DePaolo, whose home is in California, presently is staying at the Dearborn Inn while speaking in the area. He has been a member of the Firestone Corporation's speaking staff since retirement from racing.

He is to speak to the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, DAR, at its luncheon program next Monday at noon at the home of Mrs. Robert Willoughby, 15349 Lakeside, in Plymouth.

As regent of the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, Mrs. Merwin comments that one of her main activities has been going to luncheons. This Saturday's birthday celebration of the Louisa St. Clair Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, from Grosse Pointe is being held at the Detroit Athletic Club. It will be the 11th one Laura Merwin has attended. Last Thursday she was a guest of Pontiac's General Richardson Chapter at Devon Gables.

In addition, Mrs. Merwin has been active in the CAR group (Children of the American Revolution) as daughters Mimi and Jackie both are state board members.

They will be attending a state board meeting January 24 at Devon Gables. Mimi is state first vice-president. Also attending will be Larry Willoughby, state president, and Mrs. Willoughby. In addition, from the area, Terry Lapham is expected to attend.

Last Saturday Mimi was chairman of the by-laws committee session held in Plymouth, preparatory to the state session.

AT THE ROTARY Adventure Series program next Wednesday, January 21, there will be the added feature of a benefit bake sale in the foyer of the high school auditorium by the Mizpah Circle of King's Daughters.

Members are to sell the home-baked items before the program on "Michigan" at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Harold Bloom, bake sale committee chairman, will take King's Daughters members' donations during the afternoon at the Bloom Insurance Agency on Main Street.

At the circle's January meeting, the welfare committees reported that 25 fruit plates had been delivered to shut-ins and eight families were provided with food, clothing and toys.

TELEVISION was termed a

"cathedral of middle-class values" by Eric Thuma, Oakland Community College social science professor, as he discussed values and extent the medium shapes American foreign policy at last Friday's Northville Woman's Club meeting.

While not defending television coverage of major news events, Professor Thuma pointed out that "electronic journalism is a business with the same problems as any industry." He said that there is little profit in documentary programs, but that a good news record is valuable to a network.

He observed that the average news story on television is one to one-and-a-half minutes long as "most people are lazy and don't really listen longer." The newspaper, he added, now provides the "in depth" coverage.

Date for the annual dinner meeting at which Woman's Club members entertain husbands at a program and dinner was set for February 6. It is to be at 7 p.m. at the Northville Presbyterian Church.

SIXTY YEARS—Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Myers, who were married 60 years January 13, will celebrate the anniversary at an open house Sunday afternoon at their home at 732 Carpenter.

Mark Milestone

Sixty years of marriage will be celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Myers, 732 Carpenter, at an open house Sunday afternoon at their home. The milestone anniversary actually was Wednesday as the couple exchanged vows January 13, 1910, in Van Wert, Ohio. This was their home until their move to the Northville community in June, 1930.

Their eight children are inviting friends to drop in from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday. They are Mrs. Henry (Alice) Ackerman, Mrs. William B. (Gladys) Smith, and Howard S., Harold E., Cloyce A., Clayton W., Robert L. and Richard B. Myers.

'Adelines' Seek Singers

A new chapter of the Sweet Adelines, an international women's singing group, is being formed for women of the Western Wayne County area. Barbershop harmony is being enjoyed by the group, which presently has four Northville members, Wednesday nights at Plymouth High School, room 114.

Mrs. John Fitzpatrick, who is handling publicity, reports that the new chapter will apply for a charter from the international organization when it has its minimum of 20 members. When organized, the women plan to sing for local charitable groups.

Other Northville members are Mrs. Halton Axtell, Mrs. Paul Hunt, and Miss Karen Milton.

They suggest "harmony to chase the winter blues." Anyone interested is invited to call 271-3151 or 453-0979 for information.

Speaker Paints State Portrait

Combining an electrical contracting business with a penchant for photography, Robert Brouwer has come up with a fascinating color portrait of Michigan at her best.

Called "Welcome to Michigan", his widely acclaimed program will be presented Wednesday, January 21 in the Northville High School auditorium at 8 p.m. sharp. It is the third in a series of travel and adventure programs sponsored by the Northville Rotary Club.

While his first slides were enjoyed only by friends and neighbors in Grand Rapids, many of them won national contests and received national acclaim and now entertain audiences throughout America.

Taking advantage of his electrical training, Brouwer graduated from the single screen process to a multiple screen-projector technique. Now he uses a revolutionary and unique presentation utilizing three screens and four projectors. He also incorporates hi-fidelity stereophonic equipment, with music and sound effects recorded on the spot.

Brouwer's first presentation, "America—Of Thee I Sing," was awarded a Freedoms Foundation of America medal for distinguished service in promoting the American way of life. "Welcome to Michigan" surpasses his earlier works. It shows graphically that Michigan has more beaches than from Maine to Florida (3,200 miles), varying from soft, rolling dunes to Maine-like, rugged shores. It portrays the excitement of Michigan's history: Before the Pilgrims arrived at Plymouth Rock, the French were scouting the Great Lakes for a route to the Orient.

Audiences throughout the nation who have seen "Welcome to Michigan" have remarked, "On a par with cinerama." And Northville Rotarians are convinced local viewers will be equally impressed.

"Welcome to Michigan" will be the third in a series of six programs sponsored by Rotarians this season. The last three will include, "We Discover Ontario" by Leroy Crooks on February 26; "Green Guanas" by Art Erickson on March 18; and "Inside Passage and Aleutian Islands" by Dennis Cooper on April 23.

Tickets are available from any Rotarian or at Northville Drug, Manufacturers National Bank, C. Harold Bloom Insurance Agency, Northville Insurance Agency, or the Northville Camera Shop. They also are sold at the door of the auditorium the night of the program.

Newest Books In Collection To Circulate

Mrs. Helen McClatchey, librarian, reports that the latest additions to the Mary Moerke Collection of children's literature which have been on display are ready for circulation from the Northville Public Library.

Mary Sims Moerke, mother of Dr. Georgine Moerke of Horton Street, was for 35 years an elementary school teacher and "was always interested in seeing good books available to children", Mrs. McClatchey reports. A native of Blue Island, Illinois, Mrs. Moerke died here in 1963 at the age of 87. It was her own request that gifts to the library be substituted for flowers at her funeral. Dr. Moerke has added to the original fund each year in memory of her mother.

Mrs. McClatchey adds that this year some of the new books are replacements of titles purchased in 1963. Special emphasis of the collection is on the old favorites of children.

'Fanny Hill' Defender To Speak Thursday

The attorney who successfully fought the suppression of "Lady Chatterley's Lover," "Tropic of Cancer" and "Fanny Hill" will be a featured speaker tonight (Thursday) at Schoolcraft Community College.

The 8 p.m. address by Charles Rembar in the college's campus center is part of Schoolcraft's winter Humanities Series. Admission is $2.

Title of Rembar's address will be "The End of Obscenity."

Norman Mailer says of the speaker: "Because of Charles Rembar I believed in Jack Armstrong." And Mailer adds, "... the only figure I encountered in my childhood who seemed to believe it was more natural to win than lose and that life was therefore, to be enjoyed rather than dreaded."

Rembar graduated from Harvard College in 1935 and headed for Columbia where he became an editor of the Columbia Law Review and received his law degree.

A World War II veteran, he entered private practice of law in New York City.

In 1959, Rembar accepted the defense of the publisher in the government prosecution of "Lady Chatterley's Lover." The traditional defense for a book charged with obscenity was to prove that it had an intellectual rather than a sexually arousing effect on the reader.

Rembar discarded this defense and in fact, asserted that "Lady Chatterley" was sexually exciting to most readers and proceeded to defend the book on its literary, social and historical value.

After his fight against its suppression, the Supreme Court made the radical idea of Rembar the law of the land.

During the years of labor leading to the 1966 decisions, Rembar wrote of these historic trials that ended with his book, "The End of Obscenity," which tonight is the subject of his talk.

For that book, he was awarded the George Polk Memorial Award. These awards for journalism and reporting are usually given for magazine articles and newspaper series.

Second Million Dollar Sewer Grant Near

A grant of $1.5 million was expected to be dropped in the lap of Walled Lake late this week to help build a proposed sewer disposal plant and a sewer interceptor serving the entire city of Walled Lake and the northern portion of Novi.

Indication that the grant was imminent came Tuesday when Congressman Jack McDonald announced that the federal government had approved a share of the $1.5 million grant ($55,622) under its water pollution program.

The federal money is part of the state water bond program, explained Oakland County DPW Director R. J. Alexander. "We expect to receive the state's share by this weekend," he said.

When Oakland County, which is in charge of the Novi-Walled Lake sewer project, receives all of the $1.5 million under the water bond-pollution control program, it will represent the second large grant to be received for the sewer project here.

Two years ago the federal government granted Oakland County $1,001,000 for the project. That money was earmarked for construction of sewer lines only. The latest grant can be applied to the cost of the interceptor and the sewer disposal plant.

Total cost of the sewer project, including disposal plant, interceptor and lateral sewer lines, is estimated at $11 million, according to Alexander.

Attempt to sell bonds in December for construction failed to attract any bidders, but in view of the state's recent decision to lift the ceiling on interest rates a second attempt to sell bonds will be made on January 27.

Construction, said Alexander, is expected to get underway immediately thereafter, with completion of the project slated early next year.

Recent efforts between Oakland and Wayne counties to allocate more sewer capacity to Novi in the existing Rouge interceptor, thus eliminating the necessity of the sewer disposal plant, have moved too slowly to satisfy the state's anti-pollution officials "so we're going to move ahead without it," said Alexander. "The agreement may yet become a reality but it's still too far off in the future to help us now," he explained.

Novi had hoped the agreement would free money intended for the sewer disposal plant for application to the cost of extending the existing interceptor north to the Walled Lake area. With that interceptor extension, officials explained the disposal plant would have been unnecessary.

WESLEY McATEE

HOWARD COE

McAtee, Coe To Step Down

Two veterans of the Wixom city council have declared they will not seek re-election in the city's primary February 17.

But three other incumbents will join five others who have declared themselves "in" the race for three council seats and the mayor's position.

Wesley McAtee, Wixom's mayor for the past eight years, will not seek re-election. Councilman Howard Coe, a councilmember for 10 years, also announced he will not run again.

Mrs. Lottie Chambers, a charter member of the council, is a candidate for re-election. Incumbent Councilman Elwood Grubb will also seek re-election.

And Councilman Charles McCall, elected two years ago, announced this week he will file petitions for the office of mayor.

Deadline for filing petitions for the primary is Monday. Thus far only one other candidate has taken out petitions for mayor. He is Gilbert Willis.

In addition to Mrs. Chambers and Grubb, four others have either filed or are circulating petitions for the council. They are Robert Dingeldey, James Dufresne, Mrs. Richard Hall and Earl Madary.

McAtee, who is the third mayor in the history of the 12-year-old city of Wixom, indicated that added responsibilities in his work plus a desire to spend more time with his family prompted his decision not to run.

Coe also pointed to other interest, but stated that he was stepping down with some reluctance. "After 10 years, it's time to give someone else a chance," said Coe, who has lived in Wixom since 1940 and is the council's mayor pro tem.

The term of mayor is for two years, while Councilmembers are elected for four years.

Five p.m. Monday is the deadline for filing petitions for candidacy at the city hall. Final time for registration to vote in the February 17 (for non-registered qualified electors) is Friday (tomorrow) at 8 p.m. at the office of the city clerk.

Plaque Honors Vietnam Victim

The Wixom city council breezed through a brief agenda Tuesday night in less than two hours.

At the beginning of the session the council accepted a plaque from Ronald

L. Parvu given in memory of Sgt. Michael E. Sidor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mietek Sidor, who was killed in action in Vietnam February 23, 1969.

The bronze memorial, which concluded with the words "by his best friend," will be hung in the lobby of the city hall.

Novi Business

Changes Hands

Herb Dryer, resident of Novi for the past 28 years, has purchased Wilson Motor Sales at 43325 12 Mile Road and is now operating the business under the name, Herb's Sales & Service.

The business was purchased from Stanley Wilson.

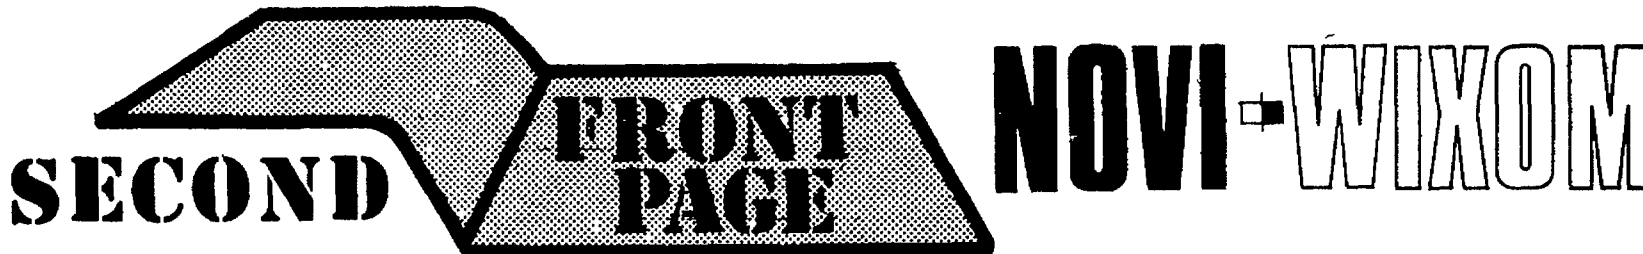

Owner of Herb's Standard Service, corner of Grand River and Novi roads for seven years, Dryer has sold that business to Cecil Bebee.

Dryer, who lives at 27555 Novi Road, is the local dealer of outdoor maintenance power equipment for Simplicity Manufacturing Company of Port Washington, Wisconsin in his newly acquired business.

Simplicity equipment includes tractor lawn mowers, snow throwers, and walk-behind rotary mowers and tillers.

In other business the council decided to allow $250 for uniform expenses for Police Sgt. Larry Beamish, the same allowance provided patrolmen; voted to have street lights installed at Hopkins drive and Loon Lake road, Wixom road and Hopkins drive and at Teaneck circle near the elementary school; and set a February 10 hearing to consider a recommendation by the building inspector to demolish a building owned by Raymond Killoren at Hickory Hills Golf and Country Club subdivision. The owner approves of the action, the council was told.

Councilman Elwood Grubb asked City Attorney Gene Schnelz to investigate the possibility of the city granting merit points to city residents versus non-residents in considering applicants for city jobs. A report will be made next month.

Building Industry Sees Threat

Sliced Density Proposal Triggers Public Debate

A proposed controversial zoning amendment that slices units per acre of multiple housing permissible in Novi was recommended for approval by the city planning board Monday night but subsequently was adjourned by the council pending a one-month study.

Several related amendments also were shelved.

The 7-1 board action followed by the 5-1 council vote to table came on the heels of a joint council-planning board public hearing that was held in the community building to accommodate a large audience, many of whom represented the building industry.

Planner Olen Green cast the lone negative vote by the eight of nine planning members present, while Councilman Edwin Presnell voted "no" when the council took action to table the matter after the planners recommended approval. Green gave no explanation for his vote. Presnell, who took the position that the council had ample opportunity to study the matter, urged endorsement of the planner's recommendation.

Earlier, the council voted 3-3 to approve the amendment as recommended by planners. The motion failed for lack of a majority and the tabling action followed. Favoring the amendment were O'Brien, Presnell and David Harrison. Those voting no, who did so not in opposition to the amendment but in support of tabling, were Mayor Joseph Crupi, Donald Young, and Denis Berry.

While several proposed zoning amendments were on the docket, it was the limitation on multiple housing development that triggered most of the debate.

Specifically, planners argued in favor of the amendment as an attempt to curb a potential onslaught of multiple development while providing more open space for the community. On the other hand, building representatives, argued strongly that the proposed reduction in permissible units per acre would stifle growth of Novi and financially bankrupt the community's economic base.

Under the proposed ordinance changes, the following reductions are made:

R-2 (two-family residential) — from 6.0 units to 4.6 units per acre.

R-2A (multiple-family residential)

Mobile Homes Change Eyed

Enlargement of lot sizes for mobile homes may adversely affect older citizens who no longer can or want to take care of lawns.

That was an argument of former councilman Russell Button Monday night as he spoke out against that section of the zoning amendment affecting mobile home parks.

Button suggested a sliding scale of some sort to accommodate those persons who prefer small lots.

City Attorney Howard Bond advised the council to table action on the amendment pending detailed investigation into the legality of the restrictions. Hasty action, he warned, could trigger a barrage of court suits.

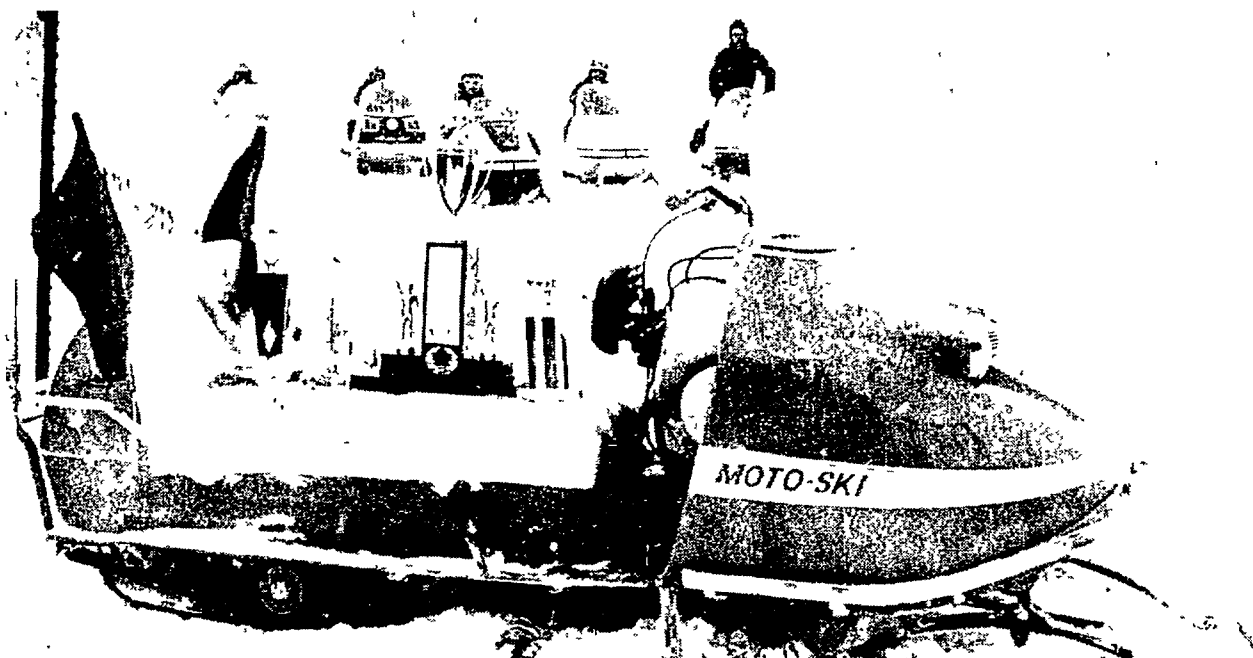

— one-bedroom, from 14.5 to 8.7 units per acre; two-bedroom, 9.7 to 5.8 units per acre; three-bedroom, 7.3 to 3.5 units per acre; and four-bedroom, 5.8 to 3.5 units per acre.

R-3 (mobile home parks) — from 15 units per acre to 6 units per acre.

In outlining these changes, Planner

Board Reviews Changes In Middle School Drawing

Novi Community Schools board of education reviewed plans for the middle school Tuesday night and decided to schedule a meeting in February to give the public an opportunity to comment on the drawings.

A few changes have been made in the floor plans for the near 75,000 square foot building to be built on the district's Taft Road and Eleven Mile site.

By removing one hallway and rearranging some of the department areas, the architect was able to enlarge the industrial arts area, gymnasium and central area of the building. Classrooms remain grouped according to sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

The plans will not be submitted to the teachers for their suggestions, returned to the architect, and come before the board at its first regular meeting in February.

Superintendent Thomas Dale read a letter from Kaufman and Broad Homes, Incorporated, confirming the developer's agreement with the board to sell the school 10.41 acres of land for $64,440. The land, located in the southeastern part of the city and bounded by Willowbrook Road on the east and LeBost on the south, is the site of the new elementary school approved along with the middle school as part of a $4.5-million bond issue in September.

Action on drawing up terms of payment was tabled by board members until their January 27 meeting.

Dale said a spokesman for the developer indicated they "would agree to any terms of payment established by the board."

Board members directed Dale to draw up terms for partial payment now, with full payment upon completion of construction roads, ditch clearing and land fill on the site.

Exact figures will be decided by the board January 27.

Approval was given for the purchase of dust collection system for the woodworking shop area by a vote 5-2. Trustees Vern DeWaard and Gil Henderson cast the dissenting votes after a controversy arose as to priority items.

REPRESENTATIVE ROY SMITH

Smith Speaks On 'Fair Share'

With education in the forefront of state legislative activities, more and more state representatives are appearing in their constituencies to explain the proposed reform programs.

Representative Roy Smith (R-Ann Arbor) is no exception, except that he has a program of his own. Smith has been invited by Salem Township Board to appear before any and all interested citizens at Town Hall at 8 p.m., Tuesday, January 20.

The 52nd District representative will speak on his Fair Share program, as well as those of Governor William Milliken and Representative Roy Spencer (R-Attica). He will also address his attention to assessment problems, a special area of interest to residents who feel their property taxes climbed an inordinate amount this year.

Smith, born 46 years ago in a log cabin in Tennessee, is serving his second consecutive term in the Michigan House of Representatives and is also in his second term on the House Appropriations Committee. His district covers the Washtenaw County Townships of Salem, Northfield, Superior, Webster, York, Augusta and Ypsilanti and the City of Ypsilanti. Prior to his entry into state politics, Smith was supervisor of Ypsilanti Township.

Salem Township Hall is located next to the fire hall at 7970 Dickerson Road, in the Village of Salem. The hall is less than a block south of Six Mile Road in the heart of the village.

Density Reduction Triggers Debate

Kalin Johnson and fellow members emphasized that the reduced number of units permissible includes land set aside for streets and roads. The present district requirements do not take into account acreage needed for streets and roads. Thus, they explained, the real reduction in units per acre is not as great as it would appear.

Main concern of councilmen in deciding to table the matter pending further study was the allegation by Rodney Lockwood, committee chairman of the Builders Association of Metropolitan Detroit, that the proposed amendment would result in "financial disaster" for Novi.

Specifically, he argued that three and four-bedroom multiple housing units provides a greater tax base than do smaller units while encouraging "home-owner" type residents as opposed to "renters." He pointed to a 1968 Macomb County study which, he said, shows that the average tax revenue available per school child in apartment units was $1,588 compared to $145 per school child in single family units.

The present limitation on units per acre in Novi is the second lowest in Oakland County — second only to Bloomfield Hills, he said. The proposed new restrictions would make Novi the lowest in the county, he added.

The proposed restrictions, Lockwood argued, makes development of three and four-bedroom multiple units economically unsound. They encourage expensive small "rental type" units and discourage attraction of an adequate labor force which, he said, is the greatest inducement for industrial development.

In view of available data, it is "rather apparent that for the sake of financial stability wise city-fathers will try to come up with some reasonable proportion of multiple units to buttress their community's tax base," Lockwood said. "I urge you to take time to study the available data."

Edward Robinson, director of the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority which is acquiring large tracts of land in the Nine Mile-Taft Road area for a potential "new town" development, also urged city officials to give the matter careful study before making a "momentous decision."

Robinson's comments coming late in the meeting drew the criticism of Councilman William O'Brien, who pointed out that he had "read" in The Novi News about so-called plans of MDCDA, but as yet he, as a city official, had not seen any plans.

Robinson replied that plans are "very preliminary" but that MDCDA hopes to come up with an official, specific proposal soon.

He said MDCDA would not be the developers of the proposed "new town" concept here but that a subsidiary, called Sixth of Michigan Corporation, would be responsible for this aspect.

He admitted, when pressed by councilmen, that he had not yet fully digested the proposed zoning amendment and therefore could not judge if it were "very good" or "horrendous," nor could he say it would adversely affect MDCDA plans.

Nevertheless, he urged the council not to "make a move until carefully studying a whole raft of questions."

Board members argued that opposition is being blown out of proportion to proposed changes, with one planner calling it a "red herring." The amendment planners explained, represent an updating of the three-year-old master plan — a "tool" to promote orderly growth. They voiced concern, in view of past experience, that multiple development is likely to inundate the community unless checked. However, in voicing this concern, they emphasized that their recommendation was not an "over reaction" to multiple development but rather a carefully thought out plan resulting from more than a year of study.

Also noted was that despite Lockwood's contention that even the present multiple restrictions are excessive, experience has shown that there is no lack of multiple proposals in Novi. Rather, there appears to be an over-abundance of real and imaginary plans for such developments, they said.

As a matter of fact, they noted, to two site plans already approved for large multiple-housing developments most are three and four-bedroom townhouses.

Planning Consultant Robert Shaddock countered remarks of Lockwood by contending that the proposed multiple restrictions "are not out of line" with other Oakland County communities nor specifically, with neighboring communities, and that the amendment posed no financial ruin of the tax base.

Board Sees Plans

Southfield, who offered a Torit model for $3,510, not including $490 for electrical work and concrete slab.

Questions arose about the locker shortage as the junior-senior high building and whether they were needed more than the dust collection system.

Dale commented that the school's insurance rating would be improved with the system.

"There is a high priority on lockers," Dale agreed, "but this (dust collection) is a needed thing, too."

He said that 135 lockers could be purchased for approximately the same amount of money spent on the dust collector.

Board members asked that Dale obtain bids on banks of lockers from several companies for the next meeting.

The addition to Orchard Hills elementary was approved by the State Fire Marshall's department.

In other action, board members discussed hiring a lawyer for the school district and requested Dale bring his recommendation before the board at their next meeting.

Building principals have devised a schedule of book rental and refunds for students moving into or out of the district during the school year. Charges for the first semester will remain at $10 per month. February through April students will be asked to pay $5. In May a $2 charge will be levied, and in June, $1.

Refunds will be made at the rate of September, $7, October, $6, November, $5, December, $4; January, $3, February, $2; and March, $1. No refunds will be made for students withdrawing during April, May or June.

Bills Questioned

The fish hatchery property, located on Seven Mile Road, lies almost entirely in the township.

Concerning the back-bills from the city, Ollendorff explained that they represented a share of administrative, bookkeeping services, etc., that until now have been borne entirely by the city in joint operation of the fire department and the landfills.

Costs previously had not been figured into the township's share through an oversight, Ollendorff said. They came to light recently during a review of all city service operations, he explained.

The bills caught township officials by surprise, and most board members wondered aloud why the township should be expected to pay more money for services for which it had previously been billed and which it had promptly paid.

Specifically, the bills include: For fire department administrative, bookkeeping and office supplies, $1,705.62 from 1965 through 1969; and for the landfill, $4,328.75 from May 1969 to December 1969.

The latter, explained the city manager, was for filling and compacting costs. By verbal agreement the city and township have been sharing only the cost of the guard, dump boxes which are hauled from Northville to Salem, and for the hauling costs, he said.

New state regulations required frequent covering and compacting of trash deposited in the local landfill and not transported elsewhere. A share of this cost had not previously been billed to the township.

Ollendorff invited township officials to study cost compilation figures before taking action on the bills. He indicated that in computing the back-bills, the city had charged the township "on the low side" to avoid any dispute.

Concerning the joint operation of the fire department, Ollendorff said a 1965 agreement called for a sharing of administrative bookkeeping, etc., costs.

Said Trustee Bernard Baldwin, "I think we need a whole lot more justification than just the bills... I'd like to be fair but there are businesses that, if they make mistakes, must bear the cost of their mistakes."

In his report to the board, City-Township Recreation Director Robert Prom indicated that the township could expect its share of recreational costs for 1970-71 to increase substantially.

He said he had been instructed by the city that in preparing his new budget, now in the works, he should determine whether the township was willing to continue joint operation of the department in view of added costs.

Besides the normal increment in the new budget because of rising costs and proposed additional recreation programs, Prom said the township would be asked to share in the cost of Ford Field, financial bookkeeping, and operation and development of the fish hatchery park.

Based on the city's past and current investment in improving the Ford Field, used night and day by the recreation department, a total rental fee of $1,000 has been established. Total city investment in Ford Field is expected to be about $10,000 before the year is out. The township would share with the city in the annual $1,000 "rent."

Both city and township, in the new budget, also would share an estimated $1,000 annual financial bookkeeping cost which until now has been borne entirely by the city.

As for the fish hatchery, preliminary estimates of past improvements together with future proposed improvement costs and amortizing of land purchase costs put this figure at about $18,000 annually, to be divided by the city and township.

Board members complimented Prom for his detailed report, which included a review of past programs sponsored by the recreation department and suggested new programs planned by the department.

In other business Tuesday, the board voted to accept the offer of the Plymouth School District for use of Tanger Elementary School on Five Mile Road as a voting precinct in the township. According to Clerk Eleanor Hammond, preparations for establishment of this voting precinct — third in the township — has begun and that she will seek authorization soon for purchase of another voting machine.

The two existing precincts in the township presently vote in the basement of the Northville Junior High School Annex.

Vote Wording Set

5-0, Trustee Andrew Orphan abstaining and board president, Robert Froelich, absent.

Orphan said he thought the "board should have been more knowledgeable of the candidates."

Trustee Dr. Orlo J. Robinson reminded Orphan board members do sit on the personnel committee and they could "bring the appointment before the board if they had any questions."

Trustee Richard Martin, acting president in the absence of Froelich, agreed with Orphan in that "certain areas are more properly treated by the board rather than in committee."

Robert Benson, former math teacher at the high school, was unanimously approved to fill the interim position created by the board.

Levitt Request Tabled

members was "what constitutes a convenient shopping center." Board members argued that 13-acres, as proposed by both Levitt and Oldford, are not excessively large in view of parking, setbacks, green belts, and open space for beautification purposes.

Current planning, board members said, calls for larger sites for such centers.

The city manager said 13-acres was far larger than he and city planners had envisioned for neighborhood shopping centers when they reviewed the township master plan. "But I could be wrong," he added, while noting that 13 acres is larger than the city's entire central business district.

Ollendorff apparently envisioned numerous business places being established in the 13-acre centers because when township board members explained that only five or six convenient type outlets are planned in them he modified his opposition.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Developments in the Northville Public School District during the immediate future are certain to draw the attention of public school administrators throughout the state for two reasons.

Number one is the "bid before bonding" procedure being introduced during the next month.

Number two is the year-round school concept study in Northville currently being financed by a state grant. Results of this study are not expected until late spring.

The "bid before bonding" innovation is one of those ideas that prompts one to ask, "why haven't we always done it that way". And it is of most immediate importance.

It's a sound business approach to a school building program.

Full credit for developing the idea and cutting through the red tape of tradition in order to convince state and contractors that it can work and should be tried goes to Superintendent Raymond Spear and his business manager, Earl Busard.

Together, and with the support of their board of education, they have energetically pursued a plan that could save taxpayers in this district as well as others throughout the state thousands of dollars.

Traditionally, when school districts prepare to build new facilities, or add to existing buildings, they have hired an architect, drawn plans, received estimates of costs and then gone to the taxpayers with a request for a bond issue to cover the projected cost of the expansion program.

Estimates are tricky things. They can either be padded to cover anticipated cost increases or they can be too conservative.

In any event by the time a bond issue is passed (assuming it wins voter approval), state municipal finance details are completed and bonds sold, the cost picture in the construction field may have changed sharply.

Consequently, when bids are subsequently taken costs may have increased to the point where cutbacks in building plans must be made.

This district has already experienced these frustrations and is now living with new buildings that were too small when they were opened, reduced room sizes and equipment shortages.

If the proposed Spear-Busard plan works, the taxpayer will know exactly what he will get for his dollar before he approves the expenditure.

January 22 the Northville school district will take bids for approximately 40 new classrooms on four of its six existing buildings. A fixed architect's fee has already been established.

The local administrators have made certain that there will be no shortage of bidders, so competition for the jobs should be keen. They have taken care of all the preliminary details in the procedure leading up to state municipal finance approval and sale of the bonds. And they have state assurances that their application will be processed with a minimum of delay.

The big IF comes after the bids are tabulated. On February 14 voters must approve the program. If they do, Spear and Busard set the wheels in motion. With firm bids in hand and voter approval secure they seek bond money in the exact amount necessary to complete the job as needed.

It's a very simple approach. They're asking for money AFTER they know how much will be needed instead of BEFORE.

Hopefully, the building bids will be low enough to permit the board to undertake its recommended program for equipment additions as well as site improvements.

The board is projecting that the total program will not exceed $3 million. Key to this projection, however, is the January 22 construction bids.

On January 26 the board will evaluate bids and make their selections. On January 29 a public meeting will be held to inform the public - with facts and figures in hand - of exactly what they'll be buying with their money if they vote "YES" on February 14.

Timing (and voter approval) are vital ingredients to the success of this new approach. Convincing contractors that they should submit bids for a project not yet approved was no small part of the undertaking.

But it has been accomplished - thanks to the efforts of Spear and Busard. In the final analysis success or failure rests in the hands of the voters.

However, the administrators and the board of education have reserved a bit of whipped cream and placed it atop the package. It just might be enough to convince voters to go along.

It has been little publicized to date, but Superintendent Spear assures me that there will be NO INCREASE in taxes if the bond issue is approved February 14.

Speaking for Myself

Census: Invasion of Privacy?

YES . . .

What woman wants to tell all? For years my children have commented, "Mother's 39 again," when my birthday rolled around. Now my government wants to know even more.

What is my castle worth? I'm sure I think it's worth more than a realtor could get, but less than the tax assessor declared.

Frankly, it's going to be great reading about the economic condition of our country, as tabulated from these census statistics, but it's going to be a blow to many status-conscious people to have to admit that their home doesn't have a dishwasher (and whether, if it does, it's built-in), a clothes dryer, separate home freezer, and more than one television set.

I was a bit elated when I noted that it asked "how many" television sets until I saw the italic instruction, "Count only sets in working order" - no status there.

My co-worker also complains the form discriminates against large families. If there are more than six children, a census worker "will call to get information." Don't they believe in large numbers?

JEAN DAY

NO

"Invasion of Privacy": it was coined by the Whiteman when the invading Redskin appeared at Plymouth Rock; picked up by the railroadman when the buffalo stampeded across his tracks; and chortled by Wallace on the doorstep of his all-white university.

Strange, isn't it, how easily we forget. The Silent Majority backs the government when it takes our sons to fight and die in an undeclared war but when the same government asks how many toilets we have in our houses we protest vehemently on grounds that it is an "invasion of privacy."

While there may be some question as to the legality of our presence in Vietnam, there is no question of the legality of the Census. An essential tool in measuring the progress of our nation, it is specifically called for in Article I of our Constitution.

Furthermore, under the law our answers to census questions are confidential and cannot be seen by anyone but census employees nor can they be disclosed by census personnel to anyone in or out of the government. That's more than can be said for birth or death certificates.

Novi Councilman Raps Reporter

To the Editor:

Once again I find myself at odds with Mr. Krupp's column, "Along the Way" in the past issues of the column Mr. Krupp has taken swings at the Novi City Council for its apparent lack of interest in a Parks and Recreation Program. And as in the past Mr. Krupp has taken his "editorial option" of writing an article without complete knowledge of the subject matter.

Several weeks ago after Mr. Krupp's attack on the City Council, Councilmen O'Brien and Harrison proposed a millage election to finance a Parks and Recreation Program. Before I would support any millage election, I challenged both councilmen to put forth a well-planned, community-wide program. The following week I provided the council members and Mr. Krupp with my personal recommendations for such a program. In this proposal guide lines were set forth to establish a Recreation Board and a program of events was proposed upon which to build. The City Council directed myself to represent them in discussions with the Board of Education and interested members of the community to be held December 23, 1969. Mr. Krupp had knowledge of this meeting but saw fit not to attend. Those who did attend will give their full support to the program and make it a success.

Mr. Krupp's article, January 8, 1970, illustrates his obvious lack of vital facts concerning Recreation in this community. When a preliminary program is initiated, Mr. Krupp attacks it without an investigation. Mr. Krupp has also implied that your tax dollars are being spent unwisely. I state that NO tax money has been appropriated, nor will any be appropriated until a well-planned program with full community support is formulated - and then only if there is money available in the city budget.

In the future I urge Mr. Krupp to engage his brain before he puts his typewriter into gear.

Sincerely,
Denis M. Berry, Councilman

Sometimes the easiest answers are the most difficult to find.

Take for instance the latest "discovery" to come out of Wayne State University.

After years of investigation, experimentation and general all around head-knocking, the nation's economists have at last concluded that maybe ol' Ben Franklin has the answer to inflation all along.

According to the learned Mark L. Kahn, professor of economics at Wayne State University, if everyone in the country were to heed ol' Ben's advice it would quickly bring the inflationary spiral to a halt.

Specifically, he has reference to Franklin's "penny saved" advice 233 years ago in "Poor Richard's Almanac."

Kahn describes today's economy as "distorted," with a combination of federal deficits and "tight money" exerting heavy downward pressures on some sectors of the economy, notably housing, at the same time costs are growing.

That's a typical economist's mouthful to which the Franklin would reply on the eve of his birthday, "A penny saved is two pence clear."

Admits Kahn: "Franklin's philosophy is still basically sound for the individual. It is always sensible to determine to save a portion of what you make, especially if you foresee a need for ready cash."

(Franklin's advice has been quoted and misquoted to generations of young people for more than two centuries, generally in this form: "A penny saved is a penny earned." He

Sees Similarity In Detroit Fiasco

To the Editor:

I am attaching an editorial as published in the Detroit News on January 6, 1970.

The problems described in the editorial, so much paralleled the "Beal Town Area," vs the Race Track that I could not resist submitting it to the Record.

In part it says:

The story's bare bones are essentially simple. In 1959, residents of an eight-block neighborhood near Wayne State University were told their homes were in an area designated for urban renewal. The city would "soon" buy their homes. "Soon" turned out to be a decade.

During that 10-year period, homeowners understandably ruled out home improvement and expensive maintenance. The neighborhood was under sentence of the bulldozer and the community had no choice but to accept the decision.

But 10 years is a long time. Some residents moved away. Vandals and other criminals declared squatter's rights. Homes were boarded up; homes were burned. Fire insurance policies were canceled. The remaining residents were caught in desperate circumstances.

Their neighborhood was ruined. They couldn't "run" because there was no market for their homes and abandonment would be an open invitation to fire-starting vandals. The federal government has rules about not compensating owners for burned housing and the only hope for financial equity was to stay put - and wait.

Very truly yours,
F. G. Paul

Tourists Don't Wait on Time

To the Editor:

"Michigan's tourists economy was dealt a severe blow by the capricious abandonment of daylight time."

"Tourism business - second largest segment of the state's economy - suffers from the loss of daylight hours."

"The state's second industry - tourism - was short changed by slow time."

These are actual examples of fallacious statements being made and misleading impressions being created by a small minority of Michigan's news media.

The above statements are in direct opposition to the official reports of the Michigan Tourist Council. Your attention is respectfully directed to the enclosed complete and unabridged report in which Michigan Tourist Council director William T. McGraw states:

"1969 will top the record $1.17 billion tourists spending of 1968, probably by $100 million and conceivably more."

Cloverleaf Views

by Mary Ann Belyea

Jerry Dorf was a Mr. Milquetoast. He wouldn't have said 'Boo' to anyone, especially to his boss, Simon Squech. But after Jerry married Agnes Whiffle things began to change. Well, at least, Agnes did what she could to make them change.

"Are you a man or a mouse?" she asked. To which question Jerry usually fought a mad impulse to answer, "Squeak."

"Name me one man who works for the same company for three years without a raise..."

"Yes, but sweetness," Jerry would offer, "I've had three promotions and only last year old Squech gave me a key to the washroom."

"Titles won't feed hungry months," Agnes answered, "If you were any kind of a man you'd go in to Simon Squech and DEMAND more money."

Or Agnes would try another approach: "Jerry, honey, you are such a talented man and old Squech doesn't reward your talents. Besides, if you don't go ask the old skinflint for a raise, I'M GOING HOME TO MOTHER."

That argument would have won Jerry over but, alas, Jerry knew Agnes pretty well and while he wouldn't mind giving her up, he knew her running home to Mama wasn't likely because Mama was just as rotten to live with as Agnes. Even Agnes couldn't tolerate that.

No, it was for another reason that old Jer decided to ask Squech for a raise. There was a more-than-attractive new receptionist at Amalgamated Mag Wheels, the lovely Miss Winston.

Though Jerry was ever-faithful to Agnes, (not from loyalty but from pure unadulterated fear), he found the attentions of Miss Winston utterly flattering. It was the first time in his life that anyone but the surly Agnes had paid him any attention.

So it was one day that Jerry listened to Miss Winston purr, "REALLY, Mr. Dorf, the other day I sneaked a peek at the payroll and I was absolutely ASTONISHED that a man of your ambition and talent is so UNDERPAID."

That put the fire in old Jerry's furnace. For three days he planned and maneuvered, rehearsing speeches before his bathroom mirror, listing reason why a man of his 'talent and ambitions' should have more money.

Each day he went to the office with new resolve, with new hope, new courage beating in his breast....

And each day the bravado faded just as he lifted his trembling knuckles to knock on Squech's door.

Then one morning after he had almost given up, Miss Winston said to him, "Mr. Dorf, I get so lonesome having lunch alone every day. I've been sorely tempted from time to time to ask you to take me to lunch, but then I remember that - well, you know. I'm a practical girl, Mr.

Dorf, and I know what a man can and cannot afford."

That was it. The idea of taking Miss Winston to lunch...of sitting across from her in a dim-lit lounge, the candlelight flickering....

"Wow," thought Dorf.

With new courage he literally stomped to the office of Mr. Squech.

Old Squech was bent over papers and hardly lifted his head when Dorf entered the hallowed quarters.

"Yes, yes, Dorf," he mumbled, "what is it?" without looking up.

"Well, Mr. Squech, you see...."

"Get to the point, Dorf..." without looking up.

"Well, Mr. Squech, you see I've been with Amalgamated for over three years...."

"I'm aware of that, Dorf," Squech said without looking up.

"Well," continued Dorf, vision of lunch with Miss Winston still fresh in his mind, "in the three years since I've been here, I haven't had a raise, Mr. Squech...."

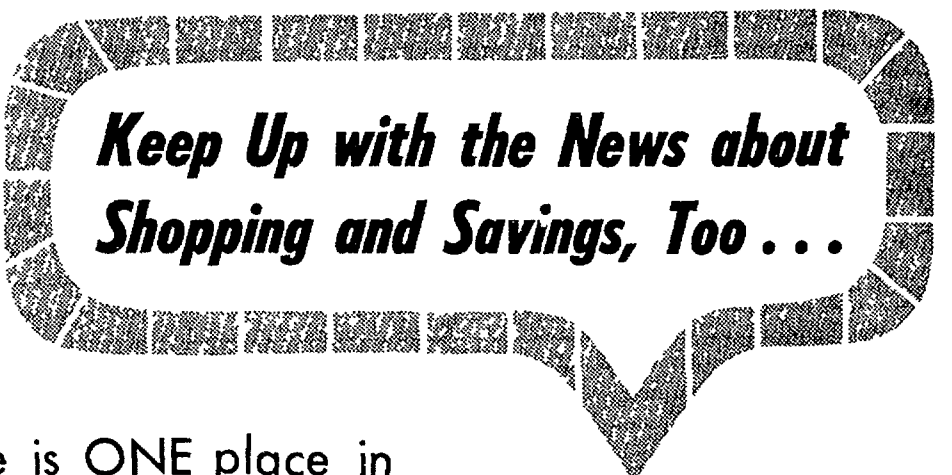

"That's because you don't deserve one," Squech grunted - without looking up.

Next Up: South Lyon

Wildcats Drop Tenth

Novi Wildcats will tangle with arch-rival South Lyon at South Lyon Friday following their 10th consecutive loss last week at the hands of Ypsilanti Lincoln.

It's the first encounter between the two-cellular dwellers in the rugged Southeastern Conference.

South Lyon has the edge, winning one of five starts in league play. The Wildcats are 0-6 in league competition. On Saturday night the Wildcats will travel to Dexter for their first return engagement of the season.

Following this game, Novi will play five of their six remaining games at home — hopefully a sign of better things to come according to Coach Jim Ladd.

"I don't know what to say," groaned Ladd following his squad's 82-47 loss to Lincoln Friday. "I guess it's lack of mental concentration and inability to play hard through four quarters. We always seem to play well for the first quarter and then fall apart."

Novi came out strong against Lincoln, building up a four-point lead going into the second quarter. But from that point on, floor mistakes coupled with poor shooting and a failing defense gave Lincoln the advantage.

Ypsi came up with 26 points in the second quarter, 28 points in the third quarter, and finally coasting the final frame with 14 points.

After taking the 18-14 first quarter lead, the Wildcats managed only eight points in the second quarter and 17 in the third before nearly drawing a blank in the final stanza with just four points.

Phil McMillen was the leading scorer for Novi with 13 points, followed by Dave Fear with 10.

Substitute Forward Al Napier led the winner's output with 22 points.

Novi's Rick Hill got off to a hot first quarter, picking up eight points and four fouls in the process. Benched until the third quarter, he was never able to regain his shooting eye.

In tomorrow's game at South Lyon, Novi will be battling a quintet that has been hurting in shooting performance, although football-great Dave Brandon is averaging 17.6 points per game at his forward position.

Likely starter at center for the Lions will be sophomore Mike Muir, moved up by Coach Bill Thomas to bolster his squad's height. Muir, who reportedly is showing some improvement, stands 6'6".

Last week, the Lions lost out to Milan, 74-58, in what proved to be a crude exhibition of defense.

In playing Dexter Saturday, Ladd hopes his players will have garnered enough pointers as a result of the first game between these two clubs to make it a respectable contest. In their first encounter, Dexter, which is third from the bottom in the Southeastern Conference just ahead of South Lyon, won easily, 78-47.

Pre-Hunt Drills Set

Young potential hunters were reminded this week of the upcoming "Hunter Safety Course" sponsored by the Northville Recreation Department.

Pointing out that under the 1970 state law all hunters 16 years of age and younger must pass a hunter's course, Director Robert Prom announced local classes would get underway next Monday evening at the Northville police firing range (basement of city hall).

Registration for the first free classes should be made immediately, he said, by calling him at 349-2287. Equipment will be furnished.

Age requirement is 12 to 16, with only 12 pupils being accepted for the first class.

Last practice session for the winter Junior Basketball Program will be held Saturday morning at the high school gymnasium. The program is open to boys in grades 3 to 6. Team play will be Saturday, January 24.

Interested youngsters are advised to contact Prom (349-2287) immediately.

Novi JV Quintet Wins in Overtime

Novi's junior varsity quintet overcame a late rally by Ypsilanti Lincoln to capture an exciting, double-overtime victory—it's third triumph of the season.

The local squad came out on top, 55-52, with Pat Boyer and Kevin Hesse leading the little Wildcats' attack with 14 and 11 points respectively.

Novi took a nine-point, 14-5 first quarter lead, and clung to a six-point margin at the intermission, 26-20. Coach Milan Obrenovich, in an attempt to rob Ypsi of its shooting potential, pressed his cagers into a highly successful third-quarter stall that limited Lincoln to four points while Novi scored five.

But in the fourth quarter, Ypsi rallied, scoring 22 points to tie the game at the buzzer, 46-46.

In the first overtime both teams scored four points. Actually, Ypsi came within a hair of pulling out the victory, but a missed charity shot at the end of the three-minute overtime gave Novi another crack at the triumph in the second overtime.

In that second overtime, Ypsi scored two while Novi picked up five.

Both teams were hurt by fouls, with three Novi and four Ypsi players forced to the bench with five fouls each. But the real pain was felt by Lincoln, which played the crucial second overtime with just four players since the squad consisted of just eight cagers, four of whom fouled out.

Boyer, Bob Pisha and Steve Bosak, all three starters for Novi, left the game with fouls.

Schoolcraft Squads Win, Lose

Schoolcraft College cagers will travel to Auburn Hills tomorrow following two defeats last week.

The local quintet was bombed last week Tuesday as Kellogg of Battle Creek streaked to a 107-55 triumph, and then on Friday Schoolcraft took it on the chin in a low-scoring, 46-37 contest with Highland Park.

Jim Carron and Kevin Cronin were high point men against Kellogg, with 24 and 15 points respectively. Jerry Hopkins came up with 15 points to lead Schoolcraft in scoring against the Parkers, while Carron was second high with 12 points.

Schoolcraft carried a 2-10 season record into its scheduled game at Orchard Ridge this past Tuesday.

Schoolcraft College opened its regular swimming schedule Friday with

Holiday Layoff Helps; Mustangs Crush Wolves

Despite a long holiday layoff, Northville's Mustangs returned to action Friday hungry for action. They gobbled up the Wolves, 72-48.

The 1970 home debut was a beaut as Coach Bob Kucher's squad started strong, broke the game open in the second quarter, and then coasted for a surprisingly easy victory.

"It surprised me," beamed Kucher. "I figured the long layoff wouldn't help matters. And we expected Clarkston to be much tougher than they were."

Northville's offense looked especially good in the first half as the Mustangs hit on 56-percent of its shots and covered the boards well on both ends of the court. They picked up 52 rebounds through four quarters of play and ended up with a 46-percent shot record at the buzzer.

The Mustangs pumped in 17 field goals—10 better than the Wolves, and garnered 18 of their 31 charity shots for 58-percent. Clarkston was 14 for 18 (78-percent) at the line, and the Wolves committed 25 fouls to Northville's 25.

Another pleasing aspect of the game for Kucher was the fact that big 6-5 Center Kerry Cushing bounced back after suffering a sprained ankle before the holidays to turn in a "good job on the boards." He scored eight points.

By building up a comfortable early lead, the Mustangs permitted Kucher to substitute freely in the second half. He pressed all 12 of his players into action and 10 of them hit the scoring column and the two others had scoring opportunities.

Aggressive play gave the Mustangs a 17-12 advantage at the end of the first quarter, and a 22-point barrage in the second stanza iced the game at the intermission, 39-20.

The score was 48-31 at the three-quarter mark. At one point in the opening minutes of the final quarter, the Mustangs were out front by 29 points.

Best scoring efforts were turned in by Guard-forward Ron Hubbard with 17 points and Guard Terry Mills with 14. Dave Kelly and Steve Kratt were the leading scorers for the Wolves with 12 and 10, respectively.

Tough Lakers Here Friday

Relaxation was out of the question as Northville's Mustangs prepared for tomorrow's contest with West Bloomfield on the heels of its bruising battle with league-leading Bloomfield Andover Tuesday.

Art Paddy's Lakers come to town Friday night following their Tuesday tilt with the Trojans.

Discounting Tuesday night action, the Lakers clung to second place in the

Andover Wins, 70-63

In a close game all the way, Bloomfield Hills Andover kept its perfect Wayne-Oakland League record intact Tuesday night by edging out a determined Northville five, 70-63.

With that victory, the Barons managed to keep pace with the Brighton Bulldogs, who defeated Milford at home Tuesday, 84-74 contest.

Andover gained its edge over Northville at the free throw line, hitting on 22 of its 28 shots for a sizzling 79-percent record. Northville picked up 11 of its 18 charity shots.

That 11-point difference at the line was all Andover needed.

High point men for Northville were Ron Hubbard and Bernie Bach, each of whom came up with 18 points, followed by Rich Adams at 14. Dick Southern and John Schmidt scored 18 and 15 points, respectively for Bloomfield.

Wayne-Oakland League after dropping their first game of the season in a double-overtime loss to Brighton. The win gave the Bulldogs a share of first place in the W-O loop.

That loss to Brighton isn't likely to make the Lakers any less hungry when they invade Northville. They're still smarting. It was the first time in five years as head coach at Brighton that Coach Bob Marks' cagers had beaten the Lakers in their band-box gym.

West Bloomfield had several golden opportunities to keep their unbeaten streak intact until Brighton took control in the second overtime period. In that second overtime, West Bloomfield's Dave Johnston threw the ball away after the tip and Forward Bob Musch drove to the baseline to put Brighton in the lead, 72-70.

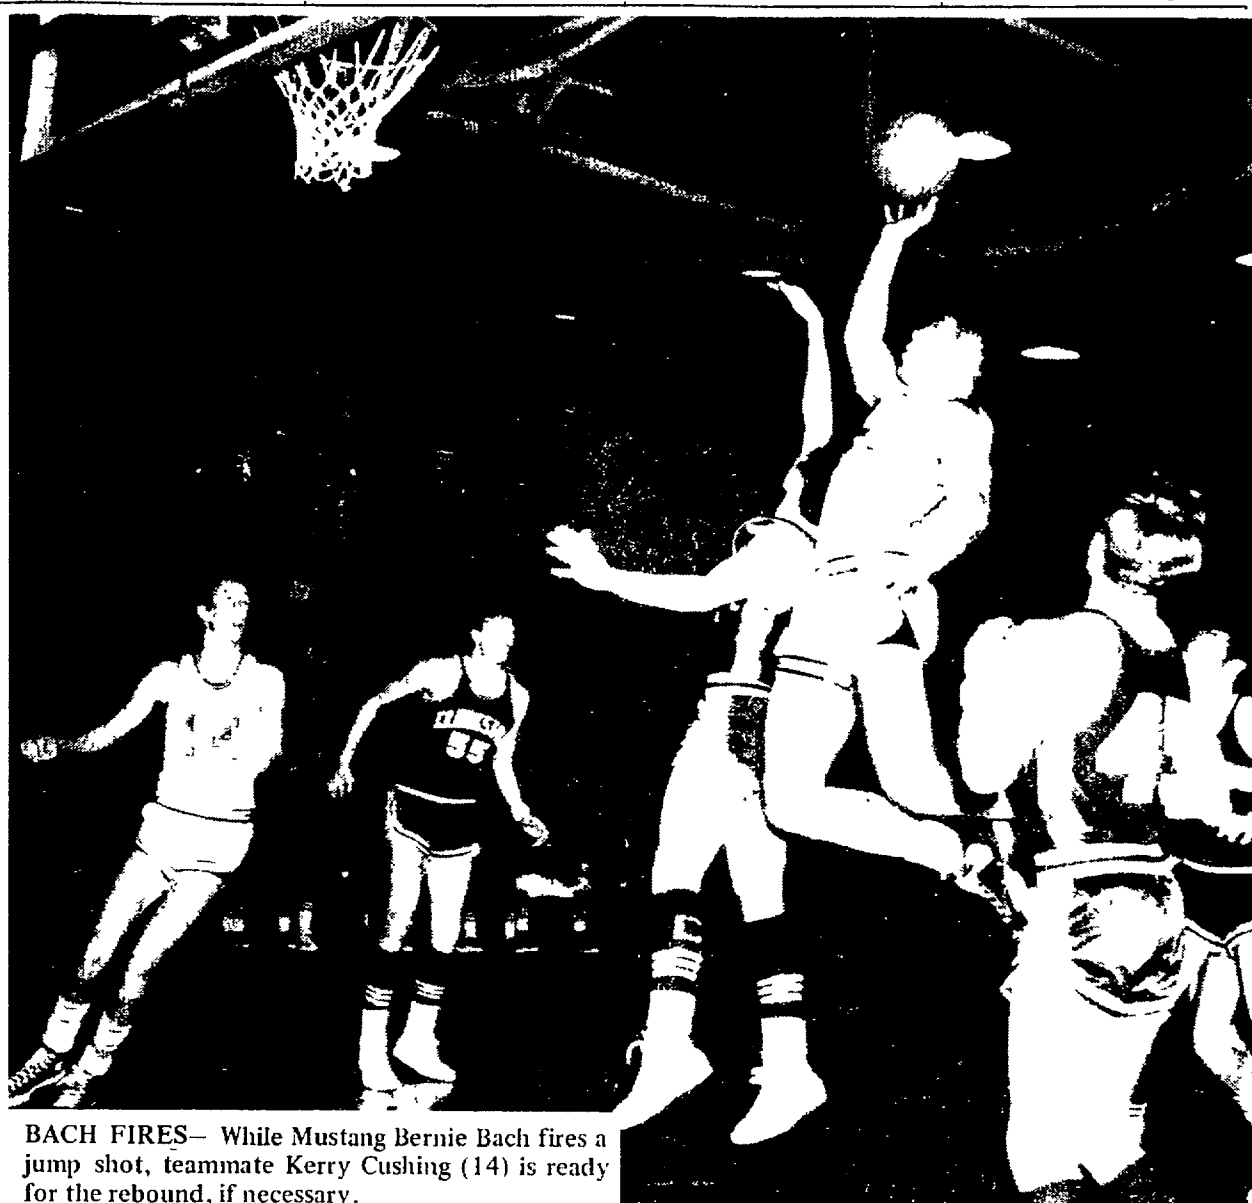

Johnston, the Laker's 6'4 1/2" ace who scored 24 points during the night, ried it up with an easy dog shot. Ed Garner, however, gave the lead back to Brighton when he drove the lane to make the score, 74-72.

Another Laker error gave the ball back to the Bulldogs and Tony Bybee hit a jump shot for a four-point lead. Again Johnston came right back with two free throws to close the gap at 76-74 with 25 seconds left in the second overtime.

West Bloomfield had its chance to tie it up, but Ken Watkins missed a shot and Musch rebounded. Johnston garnered his fifth foul as he blocked Musch going up court. Musch then sank both free throws on the one-and-one and sealed the victory at 78-74.

In other Friday W-O action, Kettering came up with its first victory, defeating Milford in a squeaker, 60-59, and Bloomfield Hills rolled past Clarenceville, 59-52.

BACH FIRES— While Mustang Bernie Bach fires a jump shot, teammate Kerry Cushing (14) is ready for the rebound, if necessary.

First Jackson Meeting Termed Success Here

Although disappointed on not receiving additional dates in January, Leon A. Salvin reports that Jackson's action at Northville Downs came to a close here on December 30 on a highly successful note.

Returning to direct competition with Windsor Raceway after a two-night Christmas hiatus, the finale attracted 4,586 patrons who wagered $320,271 on the 10-race program. Windsor had a $353,090 handle fashioned by 5,025 patrons.

Slavin's 30-night venture into winter racing proved two tracks can live although Jackson at Northville Downs certainly was the underdog with Windsor getting a six week head start as far as "head on" competition was concerned, track officials point out.

Jackson Harness Raceway's fall operations ran 40 nights, October 8 through November 22 and then the shift was made to Northville Downs from November 24 through December 30. Jackson at Northville made a strong finish to average $208,339 and totaled $6,250,165 in mutual handle.

It wasn't as high as the Slavin regime was hoping for but the average was "certainly respectable" to prove that Northville Downs has a bright future in genuine winter racing in the Detroit area.

For the record, Jackson Harness Raceway will open next spring on Friday, April 27 and then go through May 30. Northville Downs will hold its own meeting of 54 nights, operating June 3 through August 4. Jackson will switch to the Downs for 30 nights beginning October 15.

Jackson at Northville's second best handle was $308,753 fashioned by 4,253 spectators on December 6 with the Debbie Chief capturing the Dearborn Invitational Handicap by 2:05 2/5. The four-year old black mare's clocking was only exceeded by Cleo's Dream's 2:05 1/5 mark on November 29.

Bill Champion won the driving championship on percentage with 11 wins, eight seconds and four thirds in 42 races for a 430 reading Gerry Banfield was the top dash winner with 18 triumphs.

Clarenceville Hands Tankers First Loss

Northville tankers suffered their first defeat of the season last weekend as Clarenceville splashed to a 62-43 victory here.

Seven team records and six pool records fell in what proved to be the most exciting swimming meet of the season.

In three of the events, the Mustangs met defeat by only two-tenths of a second and in two other events there was only a two-second margin between the first and second place men.

Double victories were posted by Tom Thompson in the 200 yard individual medley and 100 yard butterfly for Northville and by Don Ahonen in the 50 yard freestyle and the 100 yard freestyle events for the Trojans.

Thompson's time in both the events broke the team and pool records while Ahonen set pool records in his two specialties.

An outstanding performance was also turned in by Ed Zywiec as he bettered his previous freestyle team record by 9.6 seconds. David Wright won one of the most exciting races of the meet, defeating Clarenceville's John Bass by just one-tenth of a second in the backstroke.

The relay squad, consisting of Pete Bedford, Art McHardy, Dave Mitchell and Bill Maguire lowered the 400 yard freestyle relay team and pool records by 11.3 seconds.

Colts Win 2; Down Andover

Northville's junior varsity Colts came up with their second post-holiday season triumph at Bloomfield Hills Tuesday night, posting an easy 70-55 win.

Coach Omar Harrison's squad also edged Clarkston last Friday night, 58-57, in a see-saw battle that wasn't decided until the closing minutes.

Salem Board Sets Hours For Ordinance Review

An unique Planning Commission meeting within a Township Board meeting brought about a special resolution on Salem Township's revised zoning ordinance.

Commissioners met briefly during a lull in the town board meeting and commission chairman Floyd Taylor followed this by presenting a resolution adopting special open hours of Town Hall. These hours, listed as 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. next Monday and Tuesday and 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, are designed to give all township residents an opportunity to come in and read the ordinance revision and study the revised zoning map of the township. Board members and commissioners alike expressed the hope that this opportunity would enable the populace to come to the public hearing at Town Hall on February 13 (beginning at 8 p.m.) better informed on the ordinance and better prepared to ask questions and guide township officials in adopting the best possible revision for the entire township. No publication of the ordinance will be made until after the public hearing.

Assessment problems have been high on the list of questions Supervisor

Philip Brandon has been asked in recent weeks. Coupled with these problems are the serious school tax reform proposals currently facing Michigan's legislature. Because of these things, town board has agreed to sponsor the appearance of Representative Roy Smith at 8 p.m. next Tuesday. Smith will address himself to both property and school tax problems (see separate story).

Trustee Ralph Wilson — speaking as a member of the Fire Committee — passed along the fire department's request for a jeep-style vehicle for seasonal use. Specifically, Wilson said, the small four-wheel drive vehicle would enable firemen to combat grass fires in areas unreachable by conventional trucks.

The board asked Wilson to work out specifications with the committee in hopes of setting up bids and purchasing the vehicle prior to the spring grass fire season.

Building Inspector Edward Fitzgerald presented his building permit report for 1969. He issued 87 permits totalling $1,185,300 during the year (based on inspector estimate of declared value). Biggest item was single-family residences, where Fitzgerald issued 37 permits for $1,039,900. Another 24 miscellaneous permits totalled $60,300, good for second place.

Taylor, acting in his other capacity as member of the Washtenaw County Board of Supervisors, informed the board and citizens present that he had fought to block an ambulance bill before the board which would have created a county-wide monopoly.

Newcomers Plan Party January 24

Novi Newcomers Club will hold a cocktail party and buffet January 24 at the home of Richard Norton, 43717 Westridge Lane.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., all members and those who would like to join are invited. Couples should bring their own drinks and a dish to pass.

Arrangements should be made through Mrs. Denis Berry by calling 476-8711 before January 19.

Workshop Emphasizes Language

Fifty-eight teachers from Northville, Plymouth, Farmington and Wayne community schools are taking part in a workshop at Northville conducted by Oakland University.

Under the direction of Dr. Harry T. Hahn, the teachers meet on Mondays in the learning center of the junior high annex. The experiment with materials and approaches to individual and small group instruction, trying on themselves techniques they will use in the classroom.

All teachers are involved in the kindergarten through fifth grade level. The course also provides an opportunity for teachers to tell how their class reacted to a certain experiment.

Emphasis is placed on the importance of helping young people become effective language producers through literature, music, art, science and related areas which provide stimulating ways of using language skills.

Fourteen class meetings are planned. The course will close with an extensive analysis and evaluation of the concepts developed.

Adult Courses Now Open

Registrations will be taken beginning Monday for the winter session of adult education and recreation in Plymouth public schools. They will continue through January 23.

As in the past a wide variety of credit and non-credit courses will be offered, from aviation ground school to yoga.

Northville area residents wishing specific information about the courses offered and the registration fees are asked to call either Herbert Woolweaver on Jon J. Kipke at 453-3100.

New Theatre Group To Stage Comedy

The Professional Theatre Program of The University of Michigan, which has fostered several leading repertory companies, will introduce a fourth ensemble when it presents the new Phoenix Company in Ann Arbor from January 26 to February 14 at Lydia Mendelssohn Theater in "Harvey" and "The Criminals."

The Michigan program offered a home to the APA Company in 1962 and has presented APA annually for the past eight years, premiering such successes as "War and Peace," "You Can't Take It With You," "Judith," "Cock-a-Doodle Dandy," and the current Broadway hit "Private Lives."

In 1965, when the American Conservatory Theatre (ACT) lost its first home in Pittsburgh, the Professional Theatre Program offered it an Ann Arbor engagement before it found permanent headquarters in San Francisco.

Girls' Teams Win Openers

Northville High's girls basketball teams opened the season by defeating Plymouth in both ends of a double bill.

The varsity overcame a stubborn defense to win, 50-18 in an "all out team effort" headed by Junior Amy Phillips who scored 17 points. Seniors Linda Wilson came up with 16 points and Pat Ely with six.

Made up entirely of freshmen with the exception of Captain Debbie McIsaac, the junior varsity squad downs their opponents, 28-14, as a strong defense aided the local cause. Sheila Cocoran led her squad's winning effort with 11 points.

The girls will be back in action this evening, hosting South Lyon in a 6:30 p.m. contest.

The past two springs the Professional Theatre Program played host to the Stratford Festival of Canada enabling that company to premiere productions in Ann Arbor before summer seasons in Ontario.

This winter the program forms a new alliance with the Phoenix Company, which will open the Helen Hayes-James Stewart revival of the comedy hit "Harvey" for a two-week engagement in Ann Arbor before the Broadway run at the ANTA Theatre. Stephen Porter, who staged "Private Lives" in Ann Arbor last fall, will direct "Harvey." He also staged "The Show-Off," which starred Miss Hayes at The University of Michigan in 1967 before it went on to become a New York smash hit.

The Phoenix Company has been reactivated, since the APA-Phoenix separation, by its founder T. Edward Hambleton, distinguished producer, and John Houseman, eminent artistic director. It will open with a week's engagement of the controversial new work by the Cuban playwright Jose Triana, "The Criminals," which deals in artistic terms resembling Genet's with the youth rebellion and the generation gap.

Subscriptions for "Harvey" and "The Criminals" at the Professional Theatre Program ticket office in Lydia Mendelssohn Theatre. For further information, call (313) 764-0450.

Joint PTA Meeting Scheduled January 29

The combined PTA's, in conjunction with the Northville board of education, have scheduled a public meeting Thursday, January 29, beginning at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The proposed building program and bond issue election scheduled for February 14 will be explained.

The PTA coordinating council, meeting January 8, gave their full support to the district's proposed building program, according to council president Robert Massel.

As a public service, the council will be scheduling coffee meetings throughout the district with school principals to further explain the building program. Persons interested in having a meeting in their home should contact their school PTA representative.

By a unanimous vote, the council decided to participate in the fair to be held at Northville Downs in August. The fair will replace the PTA Carnival.

Workshop Expansion Seen

New Horizons of Oakland County, Inc., has announced the purchase of the former City Beverage Warehouse building at 117 Turk Street in downtown Pontiac to serve as its new headquarters.

The purchase was announced by J. Lyle Winslow, President of the Board of Trustees of New Horizons, Inc.

The vacant one-story facility has a total of 22,000 square feet of space in two buildings which are connected by a covered loading dock.

The interior will undergo extensive remodeling to make the building more suitable for New Horizon's program of sheltered workshops, training and evaluation services to the county's physically and mentally handicapped, Winslow stated.

Planned are the addition of a cafeteria, administrative offices, classrooms and activity rooms.

New Horizons, Inc., founded in January, 1964, currently operates two sheltered workshops. They are located at 36 E. Fourteen Mile Road, Madison Heights, and at 35100 Grand River Avenue, Farmington.

Kenners Give Scholarship

The Northville board of education has "accepted with gratitude" the donation of $500 from Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kenner, Salem Township.

The donation will be used to establish a Northville Public Schools Kenner Scholarship Award for the 1969-70 school year.

The scholarship will be divided equally between one boy and one girl from the 1970 graduating class. Qualifications include high academic standing, financial need and acceptance to a college or university.

SPEAKING

for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

It may require a little addition and subtraction between millage earmarked for building and operation, but the total $3 million improvement program can be accomplished without a tax hike, Spear emphasizes.

A unique twist to the February 14 (which is a Saturday, incidentally) school bond election in Northville will be that ALL voters — property owners and non-property owners — will be permitted to vote.

Normally, in a bond issue indebteding a school district beyond five years non-property owners are not permitted to vote.

But because of recent supreme court decisions in the states of Louisiana and New York bonding attorneys are now telling all school districts to permit all qualified electors in their districts to vote.

Separate ballots will be provided. Separate tallies will also be taken. The bonding experts inform the board that non-property owners cannot "pass" a bond issue, but they can "defeat" it.

They give these examples: If property owners vote 5-1 in favor of passage and non-property owners voted 3-2 against passage, the issue passes, 7-4; if property owners vote 3-2 against passage and non-property owners vote 5-1 in favor for a total of 7 "YES" votes versus 4 "NO" votes, the issue does not pass; and if property owners vote 3-2 in favor and non-property owners vote 4-2 against for a total of 6 "NO" votes against 5 "YES" votes, the issue fails.

South Fox Hunting Bonanza

Deer Are Thicker Than Flies, But Jinxed Nimrod Strikes Out Again

by Jack Hoffman

Hunting fevers were running high as our single engine plane dipped down out of the pea soup, zipped arms-length over the tree tops, and snuggled down in a foot-thick blanket of snow.

This was South Fox Island, the 5-mile by 2-mile home of so many deer that the Conservation Department this month opened it for a special 15-day hunting bonanza.

Nearly three quarters of South Fox, located about 40 miles Northwest of Traverse City in Lake Michigan, is owned by Detroit Industrialist Lynn Dillin. The other quarter is owned by the state.

The island was deerless seven years ago so Dillin imported 17 whitetails — 12 does and five bucks. With an abundance of food and not a single predator to fear, those 17 deer triggered a population explosion, producing by the fall of 1969 a herd of nearly 400.

They grew large in physical size as well as numbers, averaging some 30 pounds heavier than their mainland counterparts, or to put it another way, the South Fox doe weighs about as much as the Michigan mainland buck.

Dillin was elated over the deer reproduction rate; it produced a hunter's paradise for himself and his friends. But in 1968 as browse disappeared he began to worry. Isolated and unable to range beyond the island's rocky shorelines, the deer might reproduce themselves out of food. Dillin consulted conservationists. They agreed. The deer were dipping into the island's food principle; the surpluses had disappeared. And within two years, they estimated, the remaining principle would be unable to support much more than half the current herd.

The island's chief owner reacted with a businessman's acumen. He opened a primitive hunting lodge last fall, inviting hunters to land on his landing strip, sleep in his bunks, eat his food and hunt with his guides for $50 a day.

Although South Fox 1969 hunting was billed as the finest in the state by Michigan Out-of-Doors, the remaining herd was still too large.

So in cooperation with Dillin, the Department opened the island to the special January hunt to complete the desired total harvest of 200 deer. Because there are no accommodations other than Dillin's most hunters are paying guests.

With visions of deer as thick as flies on a sugar bowl, Dick Robinson of Northville, our pilot Max Stephens of Farmington and I landed on South Fox eager to fill a quota of two whitetails each in a weekend of hunting. What my partners didn't know is that I'm a jinx, having gone through 15 years of hunting without bagging anything but the supper garbage.

I should have known things would go badly when Dillin's burley guide, Big George Gee, and Conservationist Jack Cook cautioned: "If you want a buck shoot only a trophy rack." For me, that's like telling a head-hunter to cook only Presbyterians.

Hunting the first afternoon on the "flat lands" in a blinding snowstorm only one of seven hunters bagged a deer — a doe that dressed out at just under 200 pounds. "You'll get your chance tomorrow morning," promised Big George that night as he ladled out bowls of steaming venison stew. "We'll put everyone on point while Hoffman and I drive the 'highlands'."

'Highlands' is another name for the South Fox Rockies.

It may seem impossible on such a tiny island, but within two hours of tramping up and down the sides of those snow-covered "mountains" I was lost. I never reached the men on point. As the hour drew close for the arrival of our plane back to the mainland, I panicked. After all, a missed plane on this island can be disastrous. January makes flying irregular and treacherous. Max had been unable to find South Fox in the thick cloud-cover and we'd come in with a bush pilot who had confidently confided "I think I can make it."

Anyway, typically amateurish, I followed the muffled reports of rifles instead of a compass. They led in a circle, up and down a washboard of pines and deep snow. By now the freeway signs of deer in the fresh snow were unimportant. Exhausted, desperate, and barely able to walk, I started climbing what hopefully would be the last hill.

Three-quarters of the way up, I spotted a large doe over my shoulder, ambling across the valley below not more than 100 yards away. I turned, slipped and skidded down the hill on my backside. I got off two sliding shots but missed.

Resuming the struggle up the hill, I spotted three more deer — two does and a buck. This time I reacted more deliberately. Hoping for a good open shot, I waited too long. They disappeared over a ridge.

A freshly dressed-out deer was hanging in a sapling on the opposite side of the hill. The deer was less interesting than the hunter's tracks. I fell in love with them; they would lead out of the maze. Within a half-hour I hated them; they were made by a mountain goat who wandered a good three miles, up and down ridges, along the icy shoreline that bloodied knees, and finally up and over what certainly must have been a glacier.

"Why those were just ant hills," laughed Big George later. The mountain goat, he'd just started his drive when I came across his tracks.

The drive produced two bucks and two does. So in two half-days of hunting four of seven hunters had bagged six deer, but Max, Dick and I had contributed nothing. My partners wanted only trophy bucks and had seen only small racks. I would have taken anything on four legs — including a goat — but spent more time hunting safety than deer.

Before our plane winged in five hours late, Cook radioed the Conservation Department at Beaver:

"As of today South Fox reports a kill of 170 deer; 107 bucks and 63 does."

Cook predicted that with seven more days remaining in the hunt, the 200-deer harvest would be realized.

Calling the island an "ideal laboratory environment," he explained that game management on South Fox will undoubtedly prove what many sportsmen disbelieve: namely, that controlled shooting of antlerless deer is essential in maintaining a balance between food and animals.

"Let a herd like the one here on South Fox go it alone and you'd be lucky to have 25 to 50 deer left in five years."

The same thing holds true on the mainland, he said, but because deer aren't boxed in as they are on South Fox it's difficult to convince the average hunter that it is the deer's environment — not the shooting of does — that affects numbers.

"People see trees and think there should be deer. And when there isn't, they blame antlerless shooting. Well, let me tell you, deer don't eat trees."

He added this kicker: "Here on the island when there was a surplus of food, no predators and no killing highways, reproduction and survival rate was tremendous. You can see it in the figures. But did you know that on the mainland the average lifespan of a fawn is six months?"

When our plane circled the island for the return trip, Dick pointed to the mountains, "See, just ant hills."

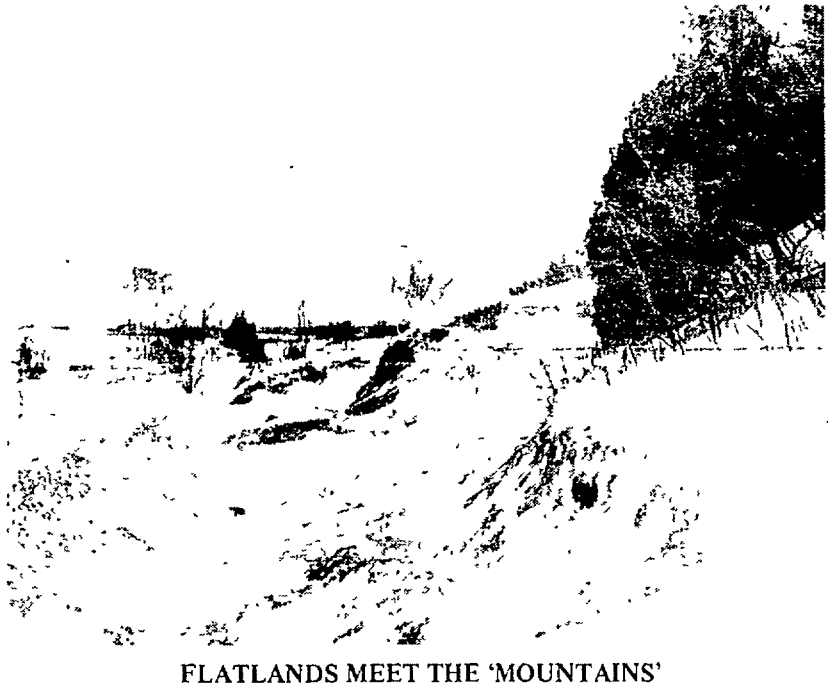

"Yah," said Max, "but crawl'n' with deer."

Babson Report

Ban on Cyclamates Dents Nation's Soft Drink Industry

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass. — The soft drink industry, having experienced a government ban on cyclamates, has obviously lost some of its previous effervescence. But the industry has some positive offsetting factors in the areas of packaging and products which ought to permit the fundamental growth pattern to continue.

Two new canning processes and the emerging development of plastic bottles could expand profits greatly. All in all, the industry should maintain a yearly overall expansion rate of 8 percent in sales and earnings. Investors should note that sometimes beverage stocks dip somewhat during the throes of winter, so watch for the possible advent of good buying opportunities before spring.

Continental Can's "Conoplan" and American Can's "Miraseam" (both tin-free steel can production processes) make possible new reductions in packaging expenses for the beverage manufacturers, and ultimate canning cost savings that may run as high as 5 percent to 8 percent. These benefits stem from locating can facilities in or very close to the producing plant — thus easing transportation expenditures — and also from the elimination of costly tin in the steel used.

COCA COLA has been testing plastic bottles made with Monsanto's Lopac material. After further lab experiments, in-home trials will be made, with a 10-ounce no-deposit/no-return bottle. If it proves to be successful, this new container will fulfill the all-important industry requisites of convenience, lightness, and economy. This will add another bright spot for the future — possibly not more than a year or two hence. The research staff of Babson's Reports believes that plastic containers will ultimately establish a strong position in the beverage field, as they have in so many other lines.

Recently in the Las Vegas region, PepsiCo Inc. has been testing a new citrus flavored cola drink called "Skandi." This is quite different from Coca Cola's "Fresca," since Skandi is a cola with a "citrus twist" rather than a product tasting completely of citrus. Cott is also trying out a new drink called "Energade." This new citrus-flavored thirst quencher contains sugar and caffeine but not the much-publicized — now banned — cyclamate. However, cola drinks have traditionally been the most popular and universal of all soft drinks, and we feel that they are likely to remain so for the foreseeable future.

FOR MOST soft drink manufacturers the low-calorie drink portions of their business had been, at best, about 10 percent of their total volume. Hence, the cyclamate ban, although costly, did not represent a disaster by any means. As a matter of fact, reformulation to circumvent the cyclamate ban had been initiated in most instances before the announcement of the ban, and the market has witnessed the return almost completely to low-cal drinks containing a small percentage of natural sugar and saccharin. The industry problem now is how well the soft drink makers maintain that 10 percent low-cal portion of their turnover.

Everything considered, the staff of Babson's Reports feels that Coca Cola and PepsiCo are sound long-term commitments and should be retained. Two presently recommended BUY situations are Wometco Enterprises (NYSE) and General Cinema Corporation (ASE). These two companies have varied interests, not the least of which is substantial representation in the soft drink industry.

Michigan Mirror Women Win Fight For 'Equal Rights'

Lansing - Advocates of women's rights won another round in their battle to receive equal treatment with men in Michigan.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley issued an opinion which said a Michigan law prohibiting women from working more than 54 hours a week or 10 hours a day is unconstitutional.

Kelley based the opinion on the 1964 Federal Civil Rights Act, which bars discriminatory employment practices on the basis of sex.

The federal law, however, applies only to employers with 25 or more employees, so women working for small firms still are subject to the restriction, Kelley ruled.

KELLEY'S OPINION said the conflict between the state statute and the federal law "is readily apparent."

"Since Michigan has no law limiting the number of hours a man may work, a woman is denied the same rights to overtime compensation as her male counterpart in direct violation of the federal act," he said.

He also said the Michigan law limits a woman's chance of gaining a supervisory position since in many cases extra hours of work are required for management positions.

"Any denial of employment opportunities on the basis of sex alone constitutes a violation of the federal law," Kelley said.

THE MICHIGAN LAW, originally enacted as a protective measure for women employees, has been under constant fire from various women's rights groups in the state in recent years.

They have claimed in testimony before House and Senate committees the state law was unfair because some employers used the hour limitation as an excuse for not hiring women.

The whole question is another example of a law originally enacted as a protective measure later being attacked, under different circumstances, as a discriminatory measure.

Another such instance came in the area of voting when the poll tax, originally used to increase the number of persons eligible to vote, later became in the south a means of preventing Negroes from voting.

MICHIGAN HOMEOWNERS who complain about their electric bill don't have very many places to go to get a lower one, according to the Michigan Public Service Commission.

The Commission has released a survey which says Michigan residents pay less for their electricity than the residents of 47 other states.

Commission Chairman Willis F. Ward of Detroit said the average residential electric bill in Michigan is $7.59 for homeowners who use up to 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month.

Only Washington and Oregon have lower bills, he said.

THE AVERAGE BILL throughout the country for 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month is $10.37, according to Ward.

"The Public Service Commission is proud that Michigan electric utilities are among the most efficient in America," he said. "Our electric rates are low despite the fact that most Michigan homeowners buy electricity from privately-owned electric companies."

He said the bargain of Michigan rates is further shown by comparing rates paid by Detroit residents with those of other major cities.

The average 500 kilowatt hour customer of Detroit Edison and Consumers Power had a monthly bill of $6.84 in 1968. This compared with a cost for the same service of $15.76 in New York City, $13.74 in Florida, $12.81 in Boston and $12.80 in Chicago, he said.

THE STATE LIBRARY is offering its services to Michiganders who want to trace their ancestry.

Among the sources the library has for ancestor searchers are the Michigan Pioneer Record, a unique source of information about residents of the state from the earliest times through the Civil War.

The 33-volume collection was begun 10 years ago and includes information on 3,000 pioneers, their location, occupation, descendants and political or military contributions.

Biographical information on prominent residents since the Civil War will be found in the Michigan Biography Collection. Visitors who have names of ancestors they want to check out will be helped by trained staff members if they visit the library.

Cass County drew national attention this month when it established a new title for its dogcatcher. Steve Toth, who holds the job, is now referred to as Cass County Animal Welfare Officer. A rose by another name really does smell just as sweet.

Record Numbers Visit Parks in '69

A record high of over 7,858,450 persons visited Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority parks during 1969 compared to the previous high of over 6,928,350 visitors set in 1968.

This was announced today by David O. Laidlaw, director of the authority, which has eight parks serving the counties of Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne. Seven of the eight parks reported record attendance for 1969.

The increased popularity of Huron-Clinton parks in 1969 is due primarily to increased usage in the non-summer months, substantial increased patronage at Kensington Metropolitan Park, Stony Creek Metropolitan Park and at the Authority's three parks in Washtenaw County, where attendance has been recorded for the first time, he said.

Kensington Metropolitan Park, covering 4,300 acres near Milford, reported a record attendance in 1969 with over 2,600,000 visitors compared to 2,367,000 in 1968. Patronage increased every month in 1969 except June, July and October. Kensington Park has traditionally led in usage since it opened in 1948.

Out of the Horse's

Mouth

EDITOR'S NOTE: The popular "Horse's Mouth" column is now carried regularly in all our newspapers. We invite horse and pony enthusiasts to submit questions and items on shows and, etc. Send your comments and questions to "The Horse's Mouth", care of The South Lyon Herald, South Lyon, 48178.

The Michigan Horse Show Association's annual meeting and awards banquet will be held at the Lansing Civic Center, Saturday, January 31, at 3 p.m. The meeting will be with the banquet to follow at 5 p.m.

Anyone wishing reservations should contact Mrs. Pedersen at 381 Golfcrest Drive, Dearborn, Michigan 48124.

How do you groom a horse correctly?

This is a very important function in keeping a horse. It's our only way of keeping him clean and presentable. More than that, it gets rid of body waste exuded through the skin, and the dirt that blocks this process. It also acts as a stimulant to digestion and makes him feel better.

Horses that are worked hard and fed grain should be groomed every day. At least twice a week is needed for any horse kept inside. The more often you groom him, even if for only five minutes a day, the better his coat will be. Set up cross-ties that will snap to each side of the horse's halter and this will keep his head still as well as the body.

You'll need a brush which is big and stiff, a rubber curry comb, soft body brush, rub rag (cheap bath towel), regular hair brush and hoof pick.

Start at the horse's head and work toward his tail. Go over his face and head with the body brush, then curry his neck, shoulder's and body, on back to his tail. The curry comb fits in one hand, the stiff body brush in the other. As you loosen the dirt and dandruff with the curry, brush it away with the body brush.

Those spots where the horse is sensitive to the curry can be brushed. Don't curry bony spots or anywhere below the knees. When you've finished this, go over the complete horse with the soft body brush. Finish by brushing his mane and tail with the hair brush, being careful to separate the hairs when necessary, so as not to pull too many out. Now take the rub rag and wipe over the body, always move in the same direction with the hair.

When you're finished grooming, sponge out the nostrils, the tail area and sheath. Then clean out the hoofs and apply a little hoof dressing, which not only makes the hoofs look better but keeps them from cracking and splitting. This whole process of grooming should take 15 to 30 minutes to do it properly.

Snow Boosts Park Activity

Winter sports enthusiasts are expected to find excellent facilities at all Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority parks.

John K. Sterling, Jr., HCMA information officer, stated that often snow cover varies from park to park and that sometimes use also affects conditions of such facilities as hills for sledding or tobogganing. Therefore, he suggests that park users contact the various park offices by using the phone numbers below to obtain the most current information available.

Kensington Metropolitan Park near New Hudson reports ice is from 9 to 10 inches thick over Kent Lake, where there are 60 shanties on the lake and fishing is reported to be fair. The ice skating rinks are in excellent condition, with skating until 10 p.m. nightly. On Saturday and Sunday food service is available at the Boat Rental Building from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and afternoons during the week.
