NEWS BRIEFS

A LETTER from Northville Area Economic Development Committee asks the city and township of Northville to give up title to old library property (now township hall) on South Wing street without cost. The non-profit development agency suggests that the block offers ideal commercial development prospects and that the library site is a key parcel. It notes that provision should be made to move and preserve the library building for the Northville Historical Society. Ownership in the property is divided about 52-48 between the city and township. Monday night the city council reacted favorably to the proposal.

NEW APPOINTEE to the city planning commission is Burton De Rusha. He replaces William Bingley, who resigned recently. Reappointments to commissions approved by the city council Monday night include: David Biery, Robert Lang and Bruce Turnbull, planning commission; Charles Buttermore, Peter Gross and Paul T. Vernon, board of appeals; Mrs. George Kohs and Vernon, beautification commission.

PATROLMAN Ron Kellerman has been given a clean bill of health and is back on duty with the city police department. Kellerman passed out while on duty in the station three weeks ago and was hospitalized for tests. Meanwhile, the city council approved the hiring of another officer bringing the force to 12 and two dispatchers. The new patrolman now on duty is Bruce Deacon of Inkster.

Parking Project Moves Forward

Two giant strides towards initiation of a $360,000 offstreet parking project were taken Monday night by the Northville city council.

First the council voted to adopt a resolution of determination, which means that at a future public hearing the council will set forth the need for the project and the estimated assessment for each of 50 properties within the central business district.

Secondly, the council approved a lease with the recently established Building Authority. Specifically, this means that the city agrees to pay the Authority $60,000 per year up to 10 years (or until bonds are paid off) for the parking facilities.

More importantly, the action allows the Authority to petition the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission to sell up to $400,000 in bonds for financing of the parking project.

Members of the Building Authority, which will actually own the parking lots and lease them to the city until the bonds are retired, are Russell Amerman, Robert Freydl and Jack Hoffman.

In giving the greenlight to proceed with the 215-space offstreet parking project Monday night the council decided to confine the 50 per cent assessment area to the four-block district bounded by Dunlap on the north, Cady on the south, Wing on the west and Hutton and Church streets on the east.

Every commercially used building within 500 feet of either of the two proposed lots will be assessed on the basis of floor space and proximity to the lots.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff explained that the average assessment will be $5,000 and that the assessments may be financed over a 10-year period at six per cent interest.

Cost of the project is estimated between $350,000 and $400,000. A proposed lot on Dunlap west of the Glenn Long Plumbing company will provide spaces for approximately 60 cars, while a double-deck facility on Cady street west of the Spinning Wheel will have 155 spaces.

An objection to the project was raised at Monday night's hearing by Denis Roux, 21130 East Chigwidden drive. He told the council that he had never experienced trouble in finding a parking space in Northville in the four years he has resided here and he noted that it was his belief there would be less need for parking when shopping centers are constructed near the city.

On Year Round School

Vote Samples Public Opinion

The year-round school proposal will be put to voters in Monday's election, and school officials view the question as "an advisory vote, giving the district's 5,500 registered voters a chance to express their opinion on the concept."

Voters will be asked to cast ballots on the following question: "If education and economic advantages become evident, would you cooperate with the board of education in implementing a full year (quarterly sessions) school program in the Northville Public Schools?"

Superintendent Raymond Spear predicts the vote will be favorable, "proving the community is supportive of the concept."

Spear said he views the vote as a directive for the board to go ahead and seek further information on year-round school.

"If the voters approve the advisory question," Spear said, "they are saying 'Yes, but show me it will save money and improve education.' If there's a 'yes' vote, we will show them how."

Spear is convinced the question is being put to the voters at the right time. "The people are going to the polls to vote for candidates, and this is a ready-made opportunity for them to express their opinion."

The advisory question gives six segments of the population that have not been surveyed a chance to express their opinion, administrators say — senior citizens, the other 50-percent of parents of school children who were not surveyed, new people in the community, people without children in school, and those parents surveyed who Incumbent Johnston, 46, owns and operates Northville Realty. Reverend Johnson, 28, is assistant pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, and Rinehart, 32, is assistant regional engineer for Standard Oil, Division of American Oil, in Southfield.

The designation "realtor" will follow Incumbent Johnston's name, and "minister" will follow Reverend Johnson's name.

Candidates will be listed on white ballots, while buff ballots will be used for the advisory vote on year-round school.

The advisory question reads, "If educational and economic advantages become evident, would you cooperate with the board of education in implementing a full year (quarterly sessions) school program in the Northville Public Schools?"

Results of the election are expected to be available at the board meeting Monday in the board offices. Results also may be obtained by calling The Record (FI 9-1700) after the ballots have been counted.

Candidates' response to questions and biographies appear elsewhere in this week's Northville Record.

Just how much should be charged against property owners for street resurfacing promises to offer some lively debate among councilmembers, as well as property owners.

The question will come up for discussion at a public hearing called for June 29 at city hall.

Specifically, three streets will be considered. They are Lake from North Center to Novi, Grace from Rayson to Baseline and the complete length of Allen drive.

There's little record for precedence because the city has had practically no experience in resurfacing. Presently, the policy for installation of original paving is to assess abutting property owners 75 per cent of the cost.

Monday night City Manager Frank want to change their opinion.

"The outcome of the election is not binding on the board," Spear maintained. "After the students have been scheduled for four-years, parents may want to change their minds."

Pre-scheduling of all students for a four-year period is expected to take place within the next four months. Parents will be given post cards on which they can record their opinion of the student's schedule.

In the four-quarter plan the district is studying, students would attend classes three of the quarters, vacationing the fourth quarter. Seventy-five percent of the student population would be in school at a given time.

Administrators say with the present facilities, enrollment capacity

Storm Clouds Gathering Over Street Resurfacing

Ollendorff recommended that the same formula be applied for resurfacing.

But it was obvious that the council did not hold the same opinion.

"I'd think it should be turned around," said Councilman Charles Lapham. "Twenty-five per cent assessed."

Councilman Paul Folino said he would be opposed to any assessment for repaving.

Two weeks ago Councilman Kenneth Rathert, who was absent Monday night, indicated that he "hoped the assessment would be lower than for new pavement."

Councilman Wallace Nichols has been a firm supporter of assessments for improvements, but he hinted Monday night that Allen drive, at least, should get a better break because the pavement had deteriorated so rapidly.

Several residents of Allen drive attended the meeting and expressed more concern about the need to reduce speeding traffic on the street than in making paving improvements.

They pointed out that many people use the street as a shortcut off Novi road to Eight Mile and added that the new de-celeration lane along Novi at Convenient Shopping Center would make it easier to get off Novi road onto Allen drive.

The citizens urged that if resurfacing does take place "speed humps" are installed to slow down speeding vehicles. They reported upwards of 90 school children residing on the street.

The council decided to set a special meeting for June 29 to consider all three resurfacing projects and to determine what assessment, if any, to levy.

Meanwhile the city manager was instructed to proceed with plans for paving improvements at several intersections, completely at city expense. The Seven Mile-Beal street intersection, estimated at less than $1,000, was slated to be improved this week. Specifications and cost estimates for South Rogers at Seven Mile, Debra at Carrington and North Ely at Carrington will be submitted for action at the next council meeting.

In other council action Monday night approved an ordinance amendment requiring foundations and/or slabs for accessory buildings, another amendment requiring a minimum of two parking spaces per apartment unit and one for each additional bedroom over two, and an addition to the ordinance — which now requires that not more than 25 per cent of the land in an apartment complex can be built upon — stipulating that at least 30 per cent of the land must be developed for recreation area.

With a feeling akin to awe, we sat in a crowded basement workroom and watched an unusual work of art unfold. Under the skillful touch of Miss Florence E. Wright, an area resident, fruit, flowers, and leaves appeared on a piece of black paper.

Miss Wright was demonstrating just one of her talents, the art of stenciling. An authority on the subject, Miss Wright is a former associate professor at Cornell University from where she retired in 1951 after 22 years.

Recently she discussed decorative stenciling as it was done in the 1825-35 period before a state meeting of the Questers Club in Plymouth. More recently, she gave a personal demonstration for reporters of this newspaper with the result — a new appreciation of an old craft.

Miss Wright was with the Cornell Extension and home furnishings program teaching refinishing techniques when she became interested in stenciling which was then beginning to be revived. She studied with Esther Stevens Brazier whose book on early American decorating brought about a revival of interest in decorated furnishings.

A charter member of the Historical Society of Early American Decorating, Miss Wright wrote a chapter in the book, "The Ornamental Chair", which is entitled "Empire Period Produces the Golden Age of Stenciling". She is also the author of a paperback book on "How to Stencil Chairs". This book, first printed in 1949, is used all over the country as a text for this type of work. It has been printed in five editions.

Devoted to authentic reproductions, Miss Wright explains interestingly, how the center object in a stenciling is done first and most strongly while other objects are done with subtle shading to give a natural appearance. The picture is built from the center outward with leaves added last to give a sense of depth.

Preparation for our demonstration picture was done with a piece of nylon stocking, wet with varnish, and wiped over the surface of black-coated paper. When the varnish had dried to a tacky finish, Miss Wright began applying the bronze lining powder in shades of silver, gold, orange and red. A piece of velvet served as a pallet and a ball of velvet, as a brush. The ball is used only in demonstrations, she explained, while the really fine work of stenciling on a chair back or tray is done with a small piece of velvet fitted over the finger. All the color is applied with a gentle circular motion with the pressure lifted as you work outward for shaded effects.

"This is a bunch of grapes," she said with a smile. What we saw was a long strip of architect's tracing cloth with three different-sized holes cut in it. However, as she worked with the ball of velvet and various shades of powder, the grapes emerged one after the other in a beautifully-formed cluster.

Miss Wright, who has a wide variety of stencils in different sizes, to use for demonstration purposes, described stenciling as having begun in the early 1800's as a very fine, intricate work, later becoming rather coarse, simple and crude. Stenciling reached its peak during the 1825-35 period and progressed in varying stages to around 1870 when it passed out of vogue. In 1949 the Hitchcock factory in Riverton, Connecticut was reopened and began manufacturing reproductions of the former era. These reproductions are very authentic, according to Miss Wright, and may be found in many furniture stores. In 1825, the original Hitchcock chairs sold for perhaps $1.50.

In her basement workroom, Miss Wright shows how to reproduce the rosewood graining effect so popular in earlier years. She also has many examples of stenciling both on wood and tinware.

In her living room, on the mantel, stands an authentic Terry clock with wooden works which keeps time temperamentally, according to weather conditions. The 1825-30 period clock is fashioned with stenciled design across the top and on the columns at the sides.

From her glistening white hair to the tips of her skillful fingers, Miss Wright is like a fascinating encyclopedia of stenciling and refinishing. Her home reflects her interest in the period of decorated furniture.

Voters in Walled Lake school district go to the polls Monday to cast ballots for two of six candidates vying for four-year terms on the board of education.

Among those seeking first term election are two Wixom residents, Jill E. Hall, 2915 Maganser, and C. James Lafkotes, 1868 Hopkins Drive. (Walled Lake school district covers all of Wixom and the Walled Lake area of Novi.)

Other candidates include Incumbent Joseph W. Long, board vice-president, Milford; Incumbent Stuart H. Elwood, board treasurer, Orchard Lake; Mary Carpenter, Union Lake; and Roy W. Fogle, Union Lake.

Long has served on the board continuously since 1947 while Elwood is seeking his second four-year term.

Warren Unopposed for Board Post

Election Slated Monday

Incumbent Ray Warren is seeking a four-year term on the Novi school board in Monday's election. He is unopposed for the post.

Owner and operator of Warren and Son, Incorporated, earthmoving contractors in Novi, Warren was appointed to the board in January, 1969, and won a one year term last June.

Voters in Novi school district will cast ballots at the Community Building. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday.

Warren is a member of the Novi Chamber of Commerce, City Appeals Board, Oakland County Earthmovers Association and treasurer of the First Baptist Church of Novi. Born in Salem in 1923, he has lived in Novi since 1939.

Warren said he is seeking re-election because "I feel too many people in most communities are too complacent."

"For the good of our country we should all be more concerned with serving our community in whatever capacities we are able."

"Toward this goal, I feel strongly that we should all work as hard as possible to get the best education we can for our young people. I would hope to see a better rapport between our school system, community leaders and the people of the school district."

Warren said he believes the key "is more respect through more and better education for all. I hope to see several more and better facilities in the coming years. We need more school sites to serve the needs of our growing school district."

The incumbent and his wife, Barbara, have four children, Jay and John, both in college, Janet and Jennifer, both students at Novi High. The family lives at 27629 Haggerty Road.

Voters also will be asked to cast ballots for two of seven candidates seeking six-year terms on the Oakland Community College board of trustees.

The two terms run through June 30, 1976.

New City Budget Exceeds $½ Million

For the first time in history cost of operating the community will zoom past the $1½ million mark during the 1970-71 fiscal year beginning July 1.

The record-high budget was fixed by the council Monday night in a split decision following a public hearing in which only a few citizens spoke — and none of them in protest.

The new budget calls for expenditures totaling $582,630 — or $142,604 more than budgeted expenditures of $440,026 in 1969-70.

Lone dissent was voiced by Councilman Edwin Presnell, who aimed his objection more at the inequity of assessments than at the budget itself.

He urged cutting of the budget by $30,000 — the amount of additional revenue generated by the county-fixed assessment factor applied in Novi this year. Until reassessment has resulted in elimination of this factor (1.08), he contended, the council ought to slice the equivalent amount from the budget. Last year Novi had a negative factor of .91.

Specifically, his argument was that if Novi properties were properly assessed the city would not have a factor. He noted later that industry-business is assessed at the state required 50-percent level, residential falls short of this level, and undeveloped land is "way below" the state requirement. The factor, when applied to the city's valuation, means that some taxpayers are picking up the tax-load of those property owners paying less than their share, he explained.

Presnell called for reassessment of properties falling beneath the state requirement. Council agreed to meet later with a tax-reassessing firm.

Fellow councilmen, while also recognizing the inequity inherent in a millage factor, saw little recourse but to levy 6.5 mills against the state equalized valuation ($62,928,553) to meet anticipated costs in 1970-71.

Councilmen explained several budgetary expenditures

• The police department budget ($238,760 compared with $164,673 in 1969-70) shows a lump sum of $185,085 for salaries but it is not detailed because the city and the Police Officers Association is still engaged in contract negotiations. It, therefore, is an estimate.

• Some $25,000 is set aside in the fire department budget for purchase of a new fire truck, and $10,000 is reserved for purchase of a portable building that can be used as temporary quarters for a fire department sub-station elsewhere in the city.

• Street lighting costs, put at $4,500 in the budget, are costs paid by the city and not by subdivisions as many citizens believe.

• Some $8,000 is included in the planning board budget for updating planning data essential to "the orderly growth of the city."

• The new budget provides for a fire marshal to check buildings of the community and for an ordinance enforcing officer.

• An estimated expenditure of $17,000 is included in the budget for cost of employees retirement plan yet to be selected. Until now municipal employees have had no retirement benefits.

The newly approved budget estimates the following general category expenditures:

General administration, $62,500 compared with $46,633 in the current budget, clerk's office, $34,145 compared with $26,790; mayor and council, $5,250 compared with $3,400; manager, $18,850 compared with $22,090; treasurer, $21,165 compared with $10,860;

Controller, $20,600 compared with $12,400; assessing department, $20,525 compared with $20,545; planning board, $22,330 compared with $8,500; fire department, $95,180 compared with $39,145; police department, $238,760 compared with $164,673; DPW (non-highway), $15,000; city hall, $22,125 compared with $14,400.

Salaries of all but one employee were increased:

City manager, $15,000 from $12,500; clerk, $9,800 from $9,000; treasurer, $8,600 from $7,500; controller, $8,400 from $7,500; assessor, remains the same at $12,500.

The chief building official's salary was increased from $10,800 to $12,000, and the DPW superintendent's salary, paid half out of the DPW fund and half from the water and sewer budget, was fixed at a total of $11,000.

Council Sizzlers Put on Ice Here

There's relief in sight for city hall employees and for citizens who have been simmering at city council meetings.

Councilmen Monday night opened and accepted the low bid for installation of air-condition equipment throughout the building.

With six bids on hand, ranging to a high of $5,585, the council accepted the low quotation from Garwood Air Conditioning of Walled Lake — $3,792 and, wiping their brows, councilmen urged speedy installation.

The council chose Garwood over Frisbie Refrigeration of Novi, which submitted the second lowest bid of $3,850, because Garwood offered 10,000 more BTU in its units at the lower price.

In other action Monday, the council opened three bids on a pole building for use as a DPW garage and then referred them to the city manager for review and recommendation. The manager also was directed to obtain more illustrations of buildings offered.

Bids were: J & J Pole Building

Company, $33,486.29, Timber Trust Company, $15,684, and Morton Buildings, $19,364. The latter bid included footings and concrete floor. The others did not.

Also, the council —

Directed the clerk to notify the chairman of the finance committee of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners that the city council (by a 5-1) vote favored free telephone toll service from anywhere in the county to most county departments at Pontiac. Councilman Edwin Presnell voted no because Commissioner Lev Coy had failed to notify the council earlier of the impending county action on this matter. Coy urged council endorsement Monday in explaining the matter was coming up this week.

Authorized Mayor Joseph Crupi to have a drop connection installed at the sewer trunkline adjacent to Buckingham Court, and it directed the city manager to obtain cost estimates from the city engineer for installation of a sewer lateral into the court to service six homes

DeWaard Elected To Oakland Board

LaVerne M. DeWaard won a six-year term on the board of education of Oakland Schools in balloting Monday night, capturing 16 of the 22 votes cast by delegates from the 28 school districts.

DeWaard campaigned for better and more fair allocation of funds for special education.

"I will serve to the best of my ability and give all that I am able to at the county level," he said after the election. "I desire to represent all 28 school districts within Oakland Schools."

A member of the Novi board of education for the past two years and present vice-president, he has lived in Novi for 14 years. DeWaard has been a strong advocate of the middle school concept in Novi.

He has served for the past two years on the legislative committee for the Michigan Association of School Boards which meets in Lansing every month to review legislation as it applies to schools. The committee, representing the entire state, takes action and makes recommendations to the board of directors.

Oakland Schools provides services to the 28 school districts in Oakland County in the areas of speech therapy, remedial reading, psychology, psychiatry and hearing. Each school district may ask for help from Oakland Schools.

A strong project within the intermediate school district is vocational education, with four centers under construction in Royal Oak, Pontiac, Walled Lake and the Lake Orion area.

DeWaard owns Michigan-Ohio Air Filter Company, Novi, specializing in air filtration and combating pollution. He is married and has two children, one going into fifth grade and one going into junior high. The family lives at 22871 Gilbar Drive.

Also elected to a six-year term on the board was Carl L. Lichtman, Farmington. Raymond G. Harris, Clarkston, was elected to fill a two-year term.

Speeds up to 105 miles per hour were recorded by township police May 22 as they chased an auto on westbound Seven Mile Road from Clement Road, finally stopping the motorist one-quarter mile west of Napier Road.

Police reported during the chase Ricki L. Baggett, 8105 Chubb Road, crossed the center line several times and narrowly missed hitting an oncoming auto.

The incident took place shortly before midnight, according to police. He was ticketed for driving left of center and speeding 90 in a 45 mile per hour zone.

A five-speed boy's bicycle valued at $90 was stolen about midnight May 23 from 18164 Jamestown Circle.

Power was knocked out on Fairbrook between Rogers and Wing streets at 6:35 Monday evening after wires broke during a storm.

Edison reported the power failure affected 400 customers, with power restored in the Rogers Street area about two hours later. Residents in the Wing Street area were without power until 4 a.m. Tuesday morning.

Three juveniles were arrested May 18 by Northville Police in connection with the theft of an auto May 14.

The three had stolen the car, owned by Charles Ely Sr., 247 West Street, drove to Westland and sold two tires, a coat and lawn spreader in the car and used the money to finance their trip to Sault Ste. Marie, police said.

The youths will appear in probate court.

A break-in at Northville Downs May 14 in which more than 100 keys and padlocks were stolen, was solved May 17 when a juvenile was arrested, police said.

The youth will appear in probate court.

Officers report eight juveniles were arrested in May and charged with shoplifting.

In Novi...

Four incidents of dog and cat bites were reported last week.

The incidents occurred Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. None of the animals involved was considered dangerous and the children bitten were not seriously injured. Bitten were Patrick O'Brien (7), Sherry Folsom, Frank Barabas (4), and William Scott (5).

A 15 year old boy was apprehended Wednesday when found carrying a nine inch hunting knife. The knife was confiscated.

A pair of minors were arrested Thursday on Novi Road and charged with being minors in possession of alcohol.

Two outboard motors were reported stolen. One on Thursday by Mrs. Phyllis Hawkins of 1107 South Lake, and another on Sunday by Mr. J. R. Timmons, of 1801 East Lake. Both motors were reportedly chained down. Investigation is underway.

A Detroit man, Leo Dew, was arrested for drunk driving Saturday night. He was taken to the Novi Police station where he claimed he had been robbed in a Detroit bar. He was found intoxicated and jailed at the Oakland County jail.

Director Eyes Donations For Novi Rec Program

Program Director for the Novi recreation board, Douglas Thrush, seemed hopeful last week of receiving a donation from the United Fund to fill out the $4,000 he needs to run his program this summer.

At present donations total $2,683. Thrush stressed the importance of public contribution, and said he would appreciate any donations. He can be reached at 476-5375.

Significant contributors have been the Rotary Club, the Novi Jaycees and Kaufman and Broad.

A fund raising pancake supper, held in the Novi High School gym on May 2 netted the program $400.

The program will run for eight weeks starting June 24.

Although no organized teams or leagues are planned, teams and activities will be organized by Thrush and his staff at the two playgrounds to accommodate the program.

Playgrounds are the Orchard Hills Elementary School and the Novi Elementary School. Playground activity will take place on Mondays and Wednesdays, while a tentative swimming schedule is planned for Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Special trips to the Detroit Zoo, and Tiger Stadium have also been planned.

Registration for the program is June 23. Details will be announced later.

Meet Your Candidates

Candidates for the two four-year terms on the Northville board of education were asked to respond to three questions covering issues of prime importance to voters in Monday's election.

Questions were:
1. Since the final decision whether or not to implement year-round (four-quarter) school in Northville rests with the board of education, what are your views of the concept?

2. What do you see as the greatest challenge facing the school system and how do you propose to meet it?

3. Why do you feel you are qualified to serve on the board of education?

Here are their answers:
STANLEY J. JOHNSTON
INCUMBENT

1. If the Year-Round school concept means providing the children of Northville with an improved educational program at less cost to the taxpayer, I would favor Year-Round school. However, public reaction to the adoption of the concept will definitely play a major role in my acceptance or rejection. In any case the District will have benefited from the knowledgeability gained through the study.

2. The greatest challenge facing the Northville School District is 1) providing the educational program and facilities necessary to accommodate children in a District which anticipates a growth of two and a half times our present enrollment and 2) accomplishing this task under a financial program palatable to the public.

Bid before Bond is one example of how this task can be accomplished. Informing the public in advance for expenditure of their dollars can give the public the kind of assurance needed. Perhaps some plan, whether it be Year-Round School, Evening Adult Education Programs, Summer School Education Programs, which will bring about greater utilization of our buildings could be our answer.

Frankly, I don't believe the Legislature will do very much in the foreseeable future to relieve the property tax burden of financing school operations and building costs. However, I will continue to work for such legislation. Meanwhile, I must continue to try to convince the people of our District that the money needed to build school buildings and operate them is a tax burden we must share because it is still the best bargain for our tax dollar today.

3. As a person who knows the field of education, is experienced in the business area and has acted as a Board Member during several crucial years, I believe I am qualified to serve the District. My past experience on the Board has prepared me to understand and cope with problems of growth.

Although at times it has seemed to be a thankless task, more often than not I've had the pleasure of self satisfaction derived from the successful accomplishments of tasks undertaken by the District.

Incumbent Johnston is 46 and was born in Lenawee County. He holds a BS degree from Eastern Michigan University, graduating in 1950.

He served in the United States Marine Corps from 1942 to 1945, with 30 months in the South Pacific. Upon graduation from EMU, he taught in Lake Orion schools from 1950 to 1952. Johnston was a teacher and coach in the Northville School District from 1952 to 1959, and served as recreation director from 1954 to 1959.

He went into business for himself in 1959 and presently owns and operates Northville Realty, 160 East Main Street.

He is a member of Our Lady of Victory Church, OLV Men's Club, Northville Chamber of Commerce and the Northville Recreation Committee.

The Johnstons have lived in Northville for 18 years. He and his wife, Frances, have four children, David, 18, a senior at Northville High; Paul, 16, a junior at Northville High;

Pattie, 13, who will be a freshman; and Mary, 9, who will be in fourth grade at OLV. They live at 364 South Rogers Street.

TIMOTHY C. JOHNSON

1. The study which has been conducted on the year round school concept has produced some impressive data. I am convinced that such a concept is feasible. However, I recognize that in order for it to become a reality, community cooperation is necessary. This cooperation will be discovered by the results of the poll already taken, the advisory vote on June 8, and family reaction to the results of a trial scheduling. Another important factor is the availability of outside monies to financially convert the present system to the new one. If it can be shown to me that the year round school will save substantial costs in construction, if it will produce a minimal amount of conflicts in family schedules, if there is a good possibility for improved educational programs and approaches, if the recreational department can creatively meet the new challenge, if outside monies are available for initial conversion costs, I would tend to be in favor of it. But I know full well that there are many "ifs" that need to be answered before anyone can make an intelligent decision on it.

2. The greatest challenge facing our school system is the need to continue and improve our program in the context of mounting financial concern, a rising sense of accountability voiced by the community, increased professional competence of the teachers, and the challenge of better informed youth of today. I pledge myself to be open to new ideas; to pursue ways so that educational means and ends, and financial reality are in balance; to allow teachers to use their professional competence and judgment; to develop ways of community use of our school buildings; and to work for what children need in this fast changing world of ours - inventiveness, flexibility, resourcefulness, curiosity, and above all judgment.

3. I seek the office of trustee of the Northville School Board because I am intensely interested in the education of our young people. Presently, I am working to provide the best possible religious education for children in the Presbyterian Church, given the various factors and elements of congregational life here in Northville. I am a concerned citizen who has been involved in the life of this community since I moved here, working with and alongside of the school and city officials. I feel I bring to the position a helpful ingredient - a relative new and youthful representation. As a tax paying home owner, I have an obligation to serve this community where my talents can be put to use in the best way. I can offer suggestions, weigh concerns and arguments, and make intelligent decisions for the whole community. I am prepared, if elected, to give top priority to my responsibilities as a Board member.

MARTIN L. RINEHART

1. I have felt for sometime that the facilities owned by any school district should be utilized to the fullest including year-round use. However, year-round schooling will only work if the people of the district are willing to make it work. I would be in favor of year-round school if the following two criteria are met:

1. The planned prescheduling of students is accomplished to the satisfaction of a majority of parents.

2. The cost of converting to year-round school is funded outside of the Northville school budget.

I would like to emphasize that a majority of parents must be willing to participate in compulsory year-round schooling for me to support this concept.

2. In my opinion, the greatest challenge facing the Northville school board will be to meet the educational demands placed on the schools by a rapidly growing population. The orderly expansion and addition of facilities to accommodate the increased enrollment will require wise long range planning and some short range measures to handle early enrollment increases.

One short term method of expanding student capacity with present facilities is by extending the school year as in year-round schooling. Another short term method of expansion would be split session operation.

In the long range it will be necessary to construct new schools. These new schools should not be elaborate architectural masterpieces but should be designed to be practical and low cost with the least amount of external frills. The money should be spent on the facilities inside where the student has to learn.

3. I believe I am qualified because of my experience in business and my genuine interest in the development of the Northville schools for the benefit of my children and all the children in the district. This interest was heightened by work with the Amerman P.T.A. on building expansion and the Millage committee chairman for Amerman P.T.A.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Twelve days hence, June 16 at 4 p.m., the deadline for filing nominating petitions for the August 4 primary election arrives.

This is, I believe, a particularly important date to remember for Northville township voters.

So far the candidates number less than seats to be filled on the township board.

Perhaps a review of how township offices are constituted is in order.

Township elections are on a partisan basis. Therefore candidates must file either as Democrats or Republicans. In Northville township nomination on the Republican ticket has been tantamount to election. More often than not, Democrats do not bother to enter a slate of candidates.

Already the weakest form of government due to its statutory, taxing and borrowing limitations, township government suffers further loss of effectiveness through such partisanship. In predominant Democratic or Republican townships, such as Northville, an already limited field of candidates is more sharply reduced by voter party preferences where political philosophies play little, if any, role in providing good leadership for a growing community of homes.

It is foolhardy to believe that in Northville township the only residents capable of making a significant contribution to the improvement of our community are Republicans.

Most small cities eliminate partisanship from their charters to avoid this very condition.

While it is impossible to change the rules, at least at this time, hopefully objective citizens — both Republicans and Democrats — can change old habits.

There is no indication that the August ballot will contain the names of any Democratic candidates. But if it does, voters should give consideration to the qualifications of all candidates, Republican or Democrat, and vote not by label but by the demonstrated competency of the candidate to perform.

Moreover, it should be painfully apparent to even the casual observer at township meetings that Northville township sorely needs informed, intelligent and objective board members, be they Republican or Democrat.

It is a poorly kept secret that one board job demanding specialized know-how is crying for competency. The cover-up by fellow boardmembers has prevailed far too long and it is time the board itself takes action to improve its membership.

Northville township faces immediate decisions triggered by rapid growth. It is imperative that each voting member of the governing board responsible for making these decisions be guided by logic and reason, not personal prejudice or impulsiveness.

Keep Education Afloat—Vote Monday

An Editorial

Johnston Suits Us to a 'T'

His proven ability as a working member and a former president of the Northville Board of Education, his broad knowledge of school curriculum, operation, financing and taxation matters, and his keen interest in the education of children, earns Stanley Johnston our strong endorsement for re-election to the school board.

Johnston has demonstrated that he is responsive to public sentiment but firm of conviction based on fact and not emotion. He communicates his ideas and positions easily and understandably. And his experience as a former Northville teacher and now as a successful businessman provides a fine blend of credentials.

Both other candidates for election, the Reverend Timothy Johnson and Martin L. Rinehart, are well qualified and obviously interested in school matters. With the return of Johnston to the board the election of either of these inexperienced men to the second seat would maintain strength and balance.

This newspaper does not propose to tell its readers how they should vote on the ADVISORY question about year-round school appearing on Monday's ballot. However, in view of recent opposition by a few who, by their suggestive and misinterpretive questioning, would have people purposely misread the ballot question, we feel compelled to make a few comments.

Neither a "yes" nor a "no" vote will decide the fate of the year-round proposal. The vote result will not, and was not intended by the board members who drew up the question, to be a mandate. Its purpose, like the recent scientifically conducted survey, is to sample public opinion on the basis of a set of hypotheses.

Studies of the year-round school concept will not cease with a "no" vote, nor will a "yes" vote signal the board to chop off further public questioning, investigation and debate and to commit the district to a year-round school program. We, too, still have questions about the proposal and we expect them to be answered, whether Monday's vote is affirmative or negative, before the board makes its decision and before we are ready to endorse or reject such a program.

But to suggest, as some are now doing, that the school administration and the board are moving towards the year-round program without thorough study is a fallacy. Not in our memory can we recall a single issue that has received a more thorough examination, by a wider segment of the population, than the year-round concept. And yet, the studies are to go on even after Monday's ADVISORY vote.

We suggest voters read the ballot question carefully and vote on the basis of what it asks and not on what opponents say it means.

The question reads: "If educational and economic advantages become evident, would you cooperate with the Board of Education in implementing a full year (Quarterly Sessions) school program in the Northville Public Schools?"

Top of the Deck

by JACK W. HOFFMAN

"I'm sorry, Dad."

A simple sentence. Just three little words. But for a seven-year-old boy convinced that his father had unfairly reprimanded him, the words were a mile long.

For more than a week he stubbornly held his ground, refusing to apologize for leaving his new bike on the lawn after repeated warnings. No apology, no bike, he was told.

So for eight days the boy's two-wheeler sat in the garage begging for a seven-year-old's companionship. And for eight days the boy sneaked glances at the bike and secretly longed to climb aboard and streak down the street with the breeze slapping his tanned cheeks.

But no apology.

So for eight days, the father watched his son, hoping the three words would come. And for eight days he ached to tell his son to forget the apology, climb aboard and sail into the breeze.

But like his son, the father was stubborn, too.

For him it mattered little that the boy had unthinkingly dropped the bike to carry out a chore for his mother. The rule had been broken. It demanded an apology. So he thought. Stubbornly.

But it was painful. So he took to encouraging his son, asking matter of factly if there wasn't something the boy wanted to ask. Then as the week grew older and guilt heavier, the encouragement was more direct: "Wouldn't you like to ride your bike?"

A negative shake. No apology. Neither budged.

Then came the eighth day. Home from work, the father saw the bike and the cobwebs. And he saw the boy's furtive glances at the garage. Words were trying to form...

Some hurts are too hard to bear. Even for a stubborn man. Besides, Father's Day was coming.

READERS SPEAK

Urge 'No' On Ballot Question

To the Editor:

The ballot proposed at the June 8th Northville Public School election states: If educational and economic advantages become evident, would you cooperate with the Board of Education in IMPLEMENTING a full year (quarterly sessions) school program in the Northville Public Schools. The word MANDATORY was left off the final version, as it was confusing. Also notice the word IMPLEMENTING.

MANDATORY means that if year-round schools are adopted by the Board of Education, you will accept the scheduling of your children whether you like it or not.

IMPLEMENTING means to accomplish, fulfill, complete, or carry out. What this says to me is a "Yes" vote on the advisory ballot means you are willing to allow the Board of Education to carry out the year-round school program. We have been led by the administration to believe that a "Yes" vote solely means that you want them to continue the RESEARCH into the program.

Last week I attempted to point out that there were a number of disadvantages to the plan that had not been discussed openly in the research so far. I also pointed out that our TOTAL TAXES could and probably would increase. This does not say that there are not ways in which the year-round schools concept could solve at least part of our problems and at the same time save money.

I feel that mandatory year-round schools at the high school level only would eliminate many of the disadvantages and the additional City and Township Taxes. At the same time as our high school cost more than Moraine, Amherst, and Main Street schools put together, the greatest construction savings are in this area. The job advantages are also all at the high school level. As high school students are more independent and likely to work fewer, if any, additional recreational facilities would be needed. In addition to this, almost all, if not all, the curriculum and educational advantages are at the high school level.

Therefore, I again strongly urge a "NO" vote on June 8th, not to tell the Board we don't want year-round schools under any circumstances, but to tell them to hold up, and consider the TOTAL PICTURE further. I certainly cannot vote to IMPLEMENT year-round schools on a K-12 basis at this time.

Sincerely yours,
R. Duane La Moreaux

To the Editor:

The Northville community is being asked to "ADVISE" the Northville School Board. "If educational and economic advantages become evident, would you cooperate with the Board of Education in implementing a full year (quarterly sessions) school program in the Northville Public Schools?"

On the surface, this question deserves a resounding "Yes" vote, however, the full impact of such an undertaking should be fully realized by all citizens when supporting this issue. Before the Board of Education makes any monumental decision in this matter, we must be fully informed and in concurrence with the program and completely satisfied the future of our children is not adversely effected by hasty decisions politically motivated. It concerns me that there is an air of extreme urgency in the implementation of Year Round School in the Northville system with a hint of being first in

Of Abortion Laws

To the Editor:

Mrs. Caughey, we women who support abortion reform do not like you forcing your beliefs on us. You, and those who feel as you, do not have to have abortions, but you are saying we can not have them. You feel it is not moral to "kill" the two month fetus. Well, I happen to feel it is more immoral to bring that child into this world for one, two, possibly three or more years of battering, bruising, abusing and then death. This is only one of the arguments for abortions, but I believe in it strongly and I do not believe I am a "misguided and selfish" woman for feeling this way. Unfortunately all newborn babies are not loved. Far too many of them are hated, and because of this are treated unbelievably cruel. You may feel that even this sort of life is better than no life at all, but I do not.

Ideally, it would be better if these babies were not conceived at all, but there are such things as rape, incest, ignorance with which to contend. Therefore, another solution should be available, and that means legalized abortion.

Urges 'No' Vote

Michigan having a sinister undertone that does little to generate the care and logical analysis such a major undertaking demands.

The concept has my support, however, the multitude of unanswered questions require considerable investigation and thorough analysis before proceeding with a program that will find us financially and administratively unable to extract ourselves from, after committal to a four year EXPERIMENT. I have studied the press reports, School Board minutes and literature dealing with the matter and discussed the pros and cons of this issue with considerable interest. Indeed, the educational opportunities are tremendous and the efficient usage of facilities shows high promise. However, the overall cost related to the concept has not even been elementarily explained or informatively divulged to the public. It may very well result in the community holding the line on school millage, but what effect will it have on the City tax requirements when additional recreational and other city provided services must be expanded? The effect on the overall tax structure must receive a very careful analysis and be balanced so that school savings are not simply translated into higher costs on the other side of the ledger.

It should be noted that the Atlanta, Georgia Public Schools has had a successful year round program since 1968 in the Junior and Senior High Schools. Their system was developed after years of careful study and the involvement of teachers, administrators, businessmen, service groups and interested parents. They are now planning to implement the program in the Elementary schools, but only as a result of their proven experience gained in the senior grades.

The Northville program should provide answers to the following questions before any citizen can truly support Year Round School:

(1) Is the proposed Year Round, School concept the best educational system for Northville...for all grades?

(2) Has an adequate school population survey been conducted to determine accurately the needs and opinions of teachers, parents and business interests?

(3) Are the present teachers and administrators of our schools in favor of Year Round school...and fully cognizant of the added responsibilities required of them to make the program work?

(4) Is there positive evidence that a cost savings will result if the Year Round program is implemented...including City taxes?

(5) Is it not obvious that City taxes will rise in order to provide the necessary additional recreational facilities for the community due the schools not being available during summer months when an all year program is in effect?

(6) Have all of the aspects that would require change in the present school system been thoroughly determined and additional costs factually determined?

(7) How much will it truly cost to operate a Year Round program as compared to the present system?

(8) Will not the school millage rate increase regardless to cover the inevitable growth requirements due to the burgeoning expansion of our population dictating new buildings, bus routes, teacher contracts and increased school recreational and vocational facilities?

I am concerned that an un-informed majority "Yes" advisory vote will be interpreted by the Board of Education as a mandate to make an immediate commitment to introducing Year Round school in the fall of this year BEFORE all of the above questions and through analysis have been concluded and made available to the public so that they may have the final say in the future of their children.

I am deeply concerned that sufficient information has not been made available so that the general public can truly ADVISE the school board and cause them to proceed with a program that has been completely 'developed to the satisfaction' of the majority effected. I strongly urge that all residents carefully consider their advisory vote, at this time, for the proposal as it has been currently presented. A "NO" vote will not discontinue or prevent further research into this vital matter. It will, however, reflect to the school board our concern that they cautiously proceed to determine all the factors accurately BEFORE COMMITMENT to the Year Round school program.

I will cooperate, as I'm certain other residents and service groups will, in an effort to develop an ultimate school program that is in the best interests of all Northville residents and, in particular, contained within a TOTAL TAX STRUCTURE realistically including all necessary community services. At this time, however, I urge a "NO" vote as the best ADVISE the Board of Education can be given under the present circumstances until we are able to achieve a satisfactory resolution of the present confusion!

Kevin Tornow was the power of the day with a looping homer that drove in two runs, a double, and a single. Norman Free hit another double and single.

The Builders only extra baser was Steve St. John's double.

Louie Bannatz took the win.

MAY 28

In addition to Langkil's triple, double combination he cracked a single, as did Assemany, making up five of Tractor's eight hits.

Hurler Scott Parsons kept the Filters to one hit, a single by Mike Luttman.

League climber Party Store smashed Paragon 19-1 on 19 hits.

Hurler Gary Ford clubbed a triple and a pair of doubles, while another pair came off the bat of Biff McAllister. R. Taucher, and Terry Beemer were good for one apiece. Twelve singles accounted for the rest of Party Store's hits.

Paragon was limited to one run on five singles.

MAY 30

In a rain-check, Party Store took General Filters 7-1.

The Party Store earned its runs on 10 hits; eight singles and a pair of doubles from Brad McQuiston and Terry Beeman.

The Filters worked Tim Alexander for six hits, all of them singles.

In Minor league play, Novi Police and Muncey's Marathon, lead the National and American leagues.

Fendt Transit Mix climbed out of third place to bump Herb's Standard out of second.

Novi Drops Three In Season Finale

Hard times didn't let up last week for Novi's varsity baseball team.

The Wildcats clashed with Brighton in the makeup of a rain-out game traveled to Lincoln, and hosted South Lyon at Cass Benton Park — losing all three contests.

Novi went down to a 10-7 defeat at Brighton Wednesday despite a fourth-inning rally that netted the local squad five runs.

In the course of that rally, which saw Brighton's starting pitcher, Bill Thesier lifted for Bob Bauer, Tom VanWagner and Bob Pisha came up with doubles. In addition, the Wildcats punched out four singles and a sacrifice.

Novi's Paul Chamberlin was relieved by Steve Bosak in the third.

The game was lost in the fifth when Bruce Ritter blasted a grand slam homer and Pitcher Bob Bauer homered with none on.

Novi managed to hold conference champion Ypsilanti Lincoln to a slim 4-3 victory Tuesday while committing one error.

The Lincoln Railsplitters, who boast a 13-1 record (losing only to South Lyon) worked hurler Phil McMillian for five hits. They committed two errors.

Stuart, Rick LaRue, Bernie Bach, Steve Utley, Dave Coe, and John Crane. In the second row are Rick Moore, Bruce Griggs, Fred Holdsworth, Terry Mills, and Tom Singer. In the third row, Mike Katzbeck, Scott Evans, Ken Lach, Dave Zima, Jeff Moon, Kurt Suckow and Coach Chuck Shonta.

On A 'Bad Night'

Thinclads Take Sixth

"It was just a bad night," was the only way Coach Ralph Redmond could explain his trackster's sixth place showing in the Wayne-Oakland conference meet last week, Wednesday at Milford.

"We scored 23 points," Redmond said, "and of those 18 were Stuyvenberg's."

John Stuyvenberg, the junior who has been tearing up Mustang track events for two years, had three firsts in the meet.

His long jump of 21'7" was a league record. His 10.1 time in the 100 yard dash tied the league record. And his third first was a 22.7 time in the 220 yard dash.

Other scorers for the Mustangs were Rick Pickren who took a third place high jump with a mark of 5'8" and Bob Barger who split fifth with Waterford Kettering at 5'6". Dave Wright took fifth in the 440 with a clocking of 53.2 and Paul Bedford took fifth in the mile with a time of 4:44.

Bloomfield Hills Andover won the meet.

Redmond said Andover had a strong team. "They were able to pick up momentum early, and keep it going."

West Bloomfield Lake took second place, Waterford Kettering third, and defending champions Milford fourth.

Redmond's squad was to finish out its season in an underclassman meet Tuesday.

Cinder Squad Closes Season

Cooke Junior High closed out its track season with a 69-40 loss to Plymouth Pioneer last week.

Coach Pete Johnson's thinclads had just come from a good showing in an exhibition meet at St. Agatha, and a 79-30 loss at the hands of Farmington East.

At Plymouth, Steve French took record firsts in both the pole vault and the 330 yard dash, with a height of 9' and a time of 43.5. Bill Pettit had a third record breaker, a 60'2 - 440 yard run.

The school record in the 60-yard high hurdles was tied for the first time since 1967 by seventh grader Tom Marzonia at 9:5 also in that meet.

Mustangs Sweep Four, Take Tournament Crown

Northville's varsity nine, possible shareholders in the Wayne-Oakland League title, swept past four teams in non-league competition last week to claim first place in the Les Anders Memorial Invitational High School Baseball Tournament.

Sponsored by the Livonia Department of Parks and Recreation, the tournament is an annual event for top suburban baseball teams.

Competition began May 20 with a field of 20 teams and was trimmed to two going into Saturday's game when the Mustangs zipped past the principal contender Livonia Churchill, 8-2.

Along the way, the Mustangs shut out Livonia Bentley, 4-0, defeated Redford Union, 8-2, and bombed Garden City, 12-1.

Meanwhile, Northville was denied a full share of the W-O title early last week when Milford wallowed Clarkston, 8-0, to claim at least a tie for the championship.

Northville's makeup contest with Bloomfield Hills Andover, was slated to take place yesterday — not last week Wednesday as earlier reported. A win over Bloomfield would mean Northville shares the title with the Redskins. A loss... and it must settle for second place.

Two homers highlighted the Mustangs' triumph over Churchill. The first came in the third inning when Tom Singer belted a long drive that pushed across two runs. The second came in the sixth off the bat of Rick LaRue.

Hurlers Bernie Bach and Fred Holdsworth shared duties on the mound, with Holdsworth coming in to relieve the starter in the fifth. The pitching duet fanned eight men, and Bach walked nine.

The Mustangs scored their runs on 11 hits. They committed only one error.

Churchill managed to squeeze out only two hits, scoring both its runs on walks.

Northville blanked Livonia Bentley on Friday, scoring its own four runs on seven hits — including a double off the bat of Rick Adams in the third.

The Mustangs scored one in the second by Bach, one in the third by LaRue, one by David Coe in the fourth, and one in the seventh by Terry Mills.

Holdsworth fanned 15 men and gave up just three hits and one walk.

The following sponsors of class 'E' and 'F' boys baseball teams were announced Tuesday by Recreation Director Robert Prom.

In the 'E' league, boys 15 and under, Northville VFW Post 4012, Thunderbird Inn, and Phil's Pure Station.

In the 'F' league, boys 13 and under, Northville Eagles Post 2504, Casterline Funeral Home, and Anger Manufacturing.

enroute to the victory.

Coach Chuck Shonta sent Bach to the mound for his first tournament effort in the contest with Redford Union last week Wednesday. He struck out four and walked four in picking up the victory.

Redford pushed across its two runs early and late in the game — in the first when a batter stole home and in the sixth. Northville scored its eight runs on nine hits. The local nine committed one error.

Holdsworth boosted his record to 10-1 at the expense of Garden City last week Tuesday. The pitching ace fired a one-hitter while he and his teammates were collecting 12 runs on nine hits.

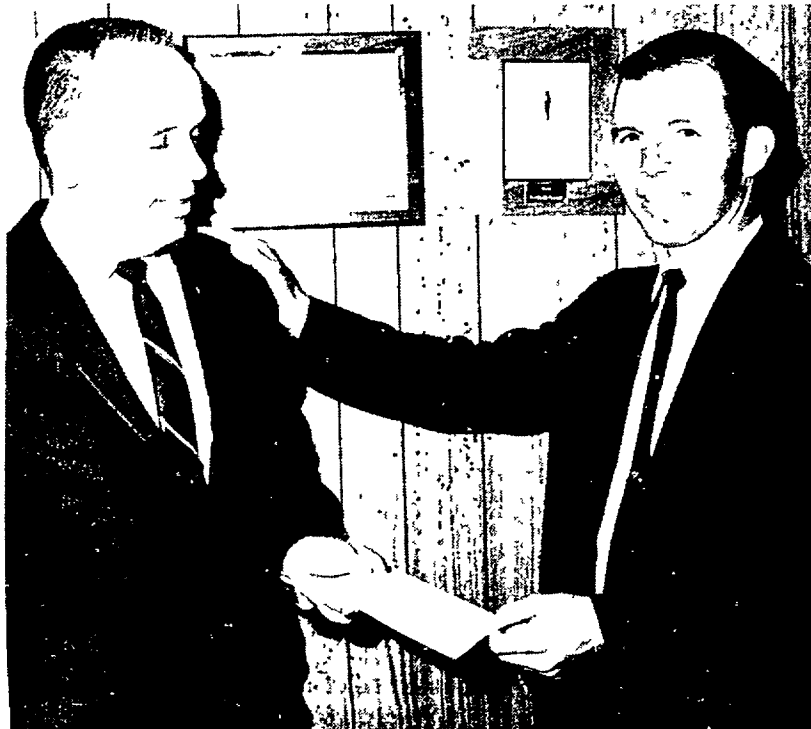

Garden City's single tally came in the second inning when Rick Roth crossed the plate on an error.

Vocal Duet Wins Top Talent Prize

A vocal duet, with guitar and tambourine, took first place in the first annual Novi Police Officers Association variety amateur talent show in the Novi High School gym Thursday night.

Dave Warner and Joyce Kainz sang "California Dreamin'" while Warner accompanied on the guitar. The pair also performed one of Miss Kainz' own compositions called "All Alone." Warner and Miss Kainz split the $100 first prize.

Ten-year-old Leslie Rupp did a costumed dance number for second place and $50.

Elizabeth Liles, and Patrick Koloziejczak performed a ballet that brought them third place winnings of $25.

Cindy Lee Westthal was voted most congenial performer by her fellow performers in a ballot taken during the show.

Judges for the event were the Reverend Leslie F. Harding, Mrs. Herbert W. Harbin, and Norman Somers.

Other acts included a Spanish dance, soft shoe routine, a trumpet solo, and an imitation of Elvis Presley.

President of the NPOA, Gordon Nelson, said he was pleased with the quality of each performance and the number of acts that turned out.

Lake Water Gets Approval

The water's fine — just great for swimming.

That's the word from David Harrison, chairman of the Novi City Council's park committee, who announced that the Oakland County Health Department has checked the water of Walled Lake and has given it a good bill of health.

Some citizens had expressed concern that the water might be polluted.

With the results of the county test in hand, Harrison revealed that plans call for the city park, formerly operated by Novi Township on the south shore of the lake, to be opened on June 13.

Meanwhile, councilmen and members of Harrison's committee are to meet soon to discuss plans for improving the park — at least on a temporary basis.

Bottle Babies

Honker Tries Hatching Eggnog

A mother Canada goose at Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford has discovered an unhatchable egg.

This was revealed today by William F. Hopkins, Chief Naturalist for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

Hopkins said that recently when he was checking an island in Kent Lake in the park, he came across a female goose on a nest located near some beer bottles and other debris probably discarded last winter by a "litterbug". As he approached the nest the Mother Goose rose up to defend her nest — revealing three eggs, one of which was cracked and one beer bottle. Hopkins said he carefully removed the beer bottle thinking that he was doing the goose a favor.

About a week later when Hopkins returned to the area to check the nesting progress, there were now two beer bottles in the nest, but only two eggs. Since there were no signs of recent human activity on the island, Hopkins said he feels certain that the female Goose rolled the bottles into the nest.

One more week passed before the nest was checked again and by then the two eggs had hatched. Hopkins observed two parent Geese and two goslings swimming in the water nearby.

There were no "baby" bottles, Hopkins thankfully reports!

As Hopkins departed from the scene, he said he had one final thought — "As usual, litter is an unproductive venture."

Council Acts on Parking Facility

Roux also questioned the payment of 50 per cent of the parking from general funds stating that merchants should provide their own parking "like Kroger, Chatham and A & P".

The city manager defended the parking expenditure as a means of attracting new business and strengthening the city's tax base. "It benefits us all, so a split seems most fair," the manager stated.

Roux also asked if the parking could not be self-supporting through meter fees or rental to the track during the racing season. Further, he said in his discussions with merchants he found most opposed to the project.

Last week a meeting was called by C. A. Smith, a local real estate agent and owner of the building which houses Brader's Department Store. It was billed as a meeting to find a more economical way of providing the parking. About 19 businessmen attended and only one stated that he opposed the assessment. His building is outside the four-block assessment area and will not be assessed.

The majority of the businessmen attending the Smith meeting concluded that they would rather not have to pay an assessment, but that parking was needed to provide for future growth and that the city's plan was the most practical.

Smith then declared that he would attend the Monday session and announced that he favored the project and encourage the city to proceed as rapidly as possible.

After Roux expressed his objections Monday night, Sidney Frid, 865 Grace, also objected to the general fund assessment and to the decking of parking, which he said would cause policing problems on the lower level.

Mayor A. M. Allen then asked if there were any other comments. He called upon Smith, who reported the results of his meeting with businessmen and said he was "thoroughly convinced the city procedure is right."

In a first step at property acquisition for the parking project the city signed a purchase agreement this week with Henry J. Ward, 127 East Cady. Located directly west of the Spinning Wheel, the property will be purchased for $28,000 with $4,500 down and the balance payable July 15, 1971 at no interest.

could be increased by 25-percent.

Proposed quarters are first, August 3 — October 23; second, October 28 — January 29; third, February 3 — April 28; and fourth, May 3 — July 23.

Vacation schedules would most likely rotate, administrators suggest, with the period from July 23 to August 3 free for all students.

"Regardless of the outcome of Monday's vote," Spear said, "the board of education must make its final decision on the fate of year-round school in the district no later than January, 1971, if the program is to begin in the fall of 1972."

"If no funds are provided by the state or federal government for financing the pre-scheduling and transition to year-round school," he continued, "the board may be forced to decide earlier."

Spear said the "earliest the program could be implemented is the summer-fall quarter of 1972, if the board decides in January to go ahead with the concept and if we get the funds."

"We are not trying to sell the concept to the voters," Spear emphasized. "The advisory question will give every registered voter in the district an opportunity to make his opinion of the concept known to the board."

CELEBRATING THE MASS AT ST. JOHN'S SEMINARY

By ROLLY PETERSON

Conflict, whether it's the drawing room serenity of Jane Austen, the mordant attrition of Samuel Beckett, or the paranoic frenzy of Joseph Heller, is the meat of any story. So it comes as no surprise that conflict exists in "Except for Me and Thee" by Jessamyn West.

What is surprising and refreshing is that a contemporary author should write a poignant novel without the characteristic bitterness or sardonic irony which by and large grips the contemporary world of writing.

Miss West's characters in "Me and Thee" are manly. They stand tall and straight, and in keeping with this cliché, speak straight from the shoulder. But they are anything but stereotypes.

Eliza and Jess Birdwell are simple, hard working folk, Quakers who open up a new frontier in southern Indiana. They continue their life begun in Miss West's "The Friendly Persuasion".

One might expect Quakers to be stiff backed and unyielding. Not Jess and Eliza. While holding staunchly to their religion, they by no means espouse dogma over humanitarian considerations. In fact, this is the central conflict of the book — how they immerse themselves in problems of their day and still hold to their religious idealism.

The problems are manifold: how they carve a home out of the wilderness, how they meet the death of their young daughter, Sarah, how they confront the Civil War and lastly, how they contend with the changing attitudes of their children.

In a way, their's is a modern saga, even though the story takes place in the mid 1800's. As Quakers, they adhere to the spiritual life, yet they are constantly challenged by a life becoming more materialistic by the day.

Miss West has imbued her characters with an essential life force that is palpable. She has made them relevant by making them alive with real emotions. But her talent is not confined to character.

Her descriptive passages, her insight mark her as an author with rare powers of observation. One of her most memorable and concise descriptions are of Birdwell's two dogs, Snip and Snap, although it is just one of a plethora of rich observations.

"The dogs, little brown-and white spotted animals, some

Training for Priesthood Tops Expanded Seminary Curriculum

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the final article in a series of three about St. John's Provincial Seminary near Northville.

Training for the priesthood remains the number one function of the curriculum at St. John's Provincial Seminary but, like the revolutionary changes in rules and regulations governing students, the instructional program has changed as well.

Consider, for example, that today's curriculum permits historical criticism and provides instruction for non-resident nuns, Catholic and non-Catholic laymen, and even Protestant clergymen.

Not many years ago these kinds of programs would have caused a rebellion within the Church. And, indeed, the changes haven't been easy in coming, admits St. John's rector, the Reverend Addison G. Wright. Many within the church still oppose them just as many Catholics dislike the changes in the Mass in their own parishes.

St. John's classes are normally 50 minutes long. Basis of instruction is the official teaching of the Catholic Church in the light of Vatican II and class notes. Discussion and seminar type periods are often utilized at the discretion of the professor. Research papers and essays are regularly required.

Written examinations are given in all courses at the end of each semester, and in each course of two or more hours, there is also a mid-semester examination.

The seminary incorporates in its subjects related fields of importance, such as economics and sociology, and it permits a more varied choice of electives than in the past.

Principal subjects include those pertaining to fundamental theology, domestic theology, moral theology, Scripture, liturgy, and canon law. The seminary also offers pastoral psychology, Greek, and religious education subjects.

Also offered are co-curricular activities such as the faculty-student conference, established in 1965, with the purpose of "making studies and offering recommendations to the full faculty of the seminary in all matters of community interest.

In general, it is expected that each seminarian will engage in at least two different types of apostolate during his first three years. Early in his first year of theology, a seminarian is asked to choose from among the following types of activities: working with the mentally retarded and physically handicapped; hospital visitation; inner-city projects; young Christian students; counselling juvenile delinquents; instructing boys in a boarding school; and discussion groups. These activities are engaged in at least one afternoon and/or evening each week.

Seminarians of the second and third years conduct retreats for college students, assist Newman chaplains, serve as discussion leaders in adult education programs, teach high school religious classes, and participate in ecumenical projects.

Interestingly, one of the outside activities of seminarians involves a unique program of teaching "Sunday school" classes during the weekday at Epiphany Lutheran Church in Northville Township.

Another twist to this unusual relationship with the Lutheran church is that the former pastor of Epiphany, The Reverend David Strang, now teaches theology of communications part time at the seminary.

The program leading to ordination is in the process of transition at St. John's. In the past, this program involved four years or eight semesters. Now, a seminarian is to put in six academic semesters and then, upon ordination as a deacon spend nine months in a parish for "field training" before returning to the seminary for his seventh and eighth semesters. At the conclusion of his eighth semester, he will go back to the parish for three more months to complete his internship as a deacon.

Thus, the new program involves five years instead of four.

Following these five years, the seminarian may petition the parish for ordination. "He is no longer ordained enmass with others; he is ordained when he believes he is ready and when the church believes he is ready."

"In this way," explains the rector, "a man has an opportunity to acquire skills in the parish that he wouldn't get in the seminary. He acquires the identity of a priest in a testing situation."

Besides training men for the priesthood, St. John's also accepts students on a non-resident basis. These may involve nuns, Catholic and non-Catholic laymen, and Protestant clergymen who may wish to take credit subjects or audit some particular Another new program at St. John's is its affiliation with the University of Detroit under which a qualified student may work towards an M.A. in theology.

Last year a continuing education program for priests was launched by the seminary faculty. This Pastoral Enrichment Program, nicknamed PEP, has proved to have double value, says Reverend Wright. "It brings older priests back to the campus where they can see for themselves that today's liberal campus and the young seminarian aren't bad at all, and it gives seminarians a chance to talk to priests on a wide range of subjects."

Quite frankly, Reverend Wright admits that it was a little difficult to get priests to come back to the seminary "because many of them remembered the depressing, monastery-like life that existed there when they were students. Others, because of the changes they'd heard about and their misconceptions that today's seminary is "training a bunch of hippies", preferred not to come. "But when they do come they're amazed to find sensible, responsible young men and sensible conditions."

As in many Catholic and non-Catholic seminaries across the nation, a shortage of candidates for the clergy exists at St. John's. Today, for example, the resident enrollment at the seminary is only 145 students. The seminary can accommodate up to 240 resident students.

There are a number of reasons that could account for this shortage, says Reverend Wright.

"Today the aura that once surrounded the priest has been chipped away and this distinction — this prestige — sometimes influenced the young man considering the priesthood.

Also, the role of the priest has diminished because some of his former duties are being assumed by professionals in the fields of counseling, social work, etc. Instead of entering the priesthood to satisfy their ambitions in these areas, many young men prefer instead to become

FACULTY TALK — Curriculum matters are discussed by the Very Reverend Addison G. Wright (left), rector of St. John's Provincial Seminary, and The Reverend David L. Neiswanger, treasurer-secretary of the seminary. Faculty members are housed in rooms adjacent to those of seminarians.

Scenes Like These Were Repeated In Many Communities Memorial Day

Recovery, Inc.

Self-Help Group Aids Schizophrenic

The Bakers' daughter Lisa was beautiful, married, and of above average intelligence. A talented girl, she had numerous hobbies. Unfortunately, one of them was frequent attempts at suicide. Diagnosed as a schizophrenic, she had been hospitalized several times.

When she was out of the hospital, Lisa was under constant surveillance by her parents. The Bakers every waking moment was spent worrying about Lisa. Even though they had other children, they were almost forgotten in their concern for this ill daughter.

Because of Lisa, the Bakers rarely took vacations, seldom left their homes, which was next door to their daughter's, and were in a constant state of anxiety. What would Lisa do next? Would the next suicide try be the final one? successful? Their total efforts were directed toward Lisa.

Then one day they heard about Relatives, Incorporated, an off-shoot of Recovery, Incorporated, a self-help organization for nervous and ex-mental patients.

When the Bakers attended their first Relatives Incorporated meeting with their son-in-law, they "always huddled together in a little group", according to a Relatives leader, (Mrs. Rae Kincaid) of Detroit.

"Their first thought", recalls Mrs. Kincaid, "they were so enthusiastic that they went home and thought they would teach the Recovery method to their daughter."

"We had to tell them to stop talking about it to her", Mrs. Kincaid said, because the Relatives method tells families that they must not push Recovery to the patient.

"They may point out to the patient that there is such an organization", she continued, "but the main emphasis must be on the relatives."

Using a textbook written by Dr. Abraham Low entitled "Lectures to Relatives", Relatives members are taught to lower the tension in their environment, to practice self-leadership, and to stop diagnosing the patient.

The group learns the method by practicing many of the same processes used by Recovery patients and the Recovery "language" is employed. In other words, Relatives must learn that their purpose is not to reform or train the patient, but to alter their own thinking in such a way as to learn to cope with him.

Eventually, Relatives give examples in the same way that Recovery patients do and then the panel discusses the ways in which the Recovery method has been implemented.

Eventually, Lisa could see the effects Relatives Incorporated was having on her family and decided to give Recovery a try. The whole family today the family and Lisa are happier.

Relatives Incorporated was started in Brighton by a Recovery patient's wife. A prominent Detroit man, Ken, had learned through the Recovery process to handle his mental illness and his wife, Martha, had been attending meetings with him.

A Recovery member for three or four years, Ken had learned to control many of his nervous symptoms through practice but had not yet managed to return to his work. One day when he and Martha were papering the kitchen, one of his nervous symptoms, an upset stomach, often came to plague him. But he had learned through Recovery that "symptoms" are "distressing but not dangerous" so when he became ill while helping Martha paper the kitchen, he calmly left the room and headed for the bathroom.

Suddenly, Martha felt a "strong rise in feeling" against Ken's illness. Knowing the Recovery technique as well as she did, she "spotted" temper. With help from Treasure Rice of Brighton she began the first Relatives Incorporated group in Michigan.

Later, Mrs. Rae Kincaid of Detroit, joined the group and today she leads a group in Detroit and one in Brighton that meets at the same time as Recovery in the First Methodist Church at 8 p.m. each Thursday.

Mrs. Kincaid, herself a nervous patient, was afflicted with asthma for years. Many asthmatic conditions are aggravated by emotional stress and Mrs. Kincaid had her share of that. Following the death of one of her sons in the Navy, a second son came home, also from the Navy, so scarred mentally that his life consisted mainly of lying on the couch all day with a blanket over his head.

As the months went on, Mrs. Kincaid's son became more withdrawn and she became more emotionally distraught.

A very brief item in a Detroit newspaper led mother and son to Recovery meetings. Today, Mrs. Kincaid's son, while not completely cured, is better able to cope with his illness and has become less withdrawn. He lives at home for three or four months of the year and spends the rest of his time in his own cabin up north where he works for his uncle.

"I thought after my son died in the service and another son came home mentally ill", Mrs. Kincaid says today, "that I was picked out to be a loser."

"Now I don't really have much trouble with my asthma", she adds. "Not since Recovery, not for about 12 years."

"You wouldn't believe how Recovery has helped us", she added. "Why I haven't even had a severe asthma attack for 12 years, not since I joined Recovery."

Meeting Set For Hecker

Livonia Democrat Ronald B. Hecker, who recently announced his candidacy for U. S. Representative in the 19th Congressional District, will speak at the home of Angelo Chinni, 300 Sherrie Lane, in Northville, on Saturday, June 6, at 8:30 p.m.

His campaign is based on "the priorities of peace, full employment, racial justice, and a healthy environment."

Northville Democrat Larry D. VanderMolen, a Schoolcraft College political science instructor, is serving as campaign manager for the Hecker for Congress Committee. The district includes Northville, Novi, South Lyon, Farmington, Redford Township, Livonia, and many other communities.

The primary election will be held on August 4.

Enrollment Hits 1,865

A spring term enrollment of 1,865 at Schoolcraft College has been reported by Registrar Norman E. Dunn. The figure is the highest ever recorded at the college for the eight-week session which this year runs from May 4 through June 26.

According to Dunn, 1,190 students, or 64 percent, are residents of the college district. The enrollment is divided about equally between day and evening classes, with 871 students attending day classes, 868 in evening classes and 126 students attending both day and evening classes.

About 63 percent of the students, or 1,173, are enrolled in transfer programs, and 692, or 37 percent are enrolled in career programs. All students are attending on a part-time basis. The average class load is slightly more than 4 credit hours of work. The college considers 12 hours of classwork equivalent to full-time attendance.

Dunn said the spring enrollment of 8,179 credit hours brought the college's academic year total to 105,435 semester hours of credit and gave the college a full-time equated enrollment figure for the 1969-70 year of 3,401 students.

'Death by Miscalculation'

Rev. Cedric Whitcomb
First Baptist Church of Northville

On January 27, 1967, the word flashed over the wires of the news media that shocked and saddened millions of Americans. Three of our astronauts had lost their lives in an Apollo spacecraft fire while it was on the ground going through a simulated space mission.

In an article in Newsweek (March 13, 1967), called, "Death by Miscalculation," the Science and Space editor said that Dr. George E. Mueller, manned spacecraft director, told the Senate Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee that they had come to believe "that a spacecraft fire would not occur." Consequently, NASA permitted the ship to be filled with all kinds of combustible materials and outfitted with an "emergency" exit arrangement that wouldn't have been tolerated by a backwoods fire inspector. It all boils down to this;

these men were not so much killed by a spark or a short in the electrical system of the craft as they were a series of miscalculations.

This same attitude is expressed spiritually by the average American. So many people miscalculate when it comes to death. They live like the rich young ruler in Luke 12. He made plans for his future business and personal pleasure. All of this was suddenly smashed when God said, "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then how shall those things be, which thou hast provided?" (12:20). We can make all kinds of plans for the future, but Hebrews 9:27 is still true when it says, "... it is appointed unto men once to die..." NASA planned this first Apollo flight as man's preliminary preparation to land a man on the moon. The Providence of God interrupted the program and preparation of man. God still has control over our lives. He alone has the power to give and take life. To leave God out of our lives spells disaster.

There are those who miscalculate when it comes to the second coming of Christ. They say men have talked of Christ's return for years, but it has never materialized, therefore; such an event could never occur. There are preachers who scoff at the Biblical truth concerning Christ's return. Man's ridicule does not alter the truth of the Word of God. Over 340 times in the New Testament we are reminded that the Lord will return for His own.

In the view of the reality of death and the return of the Lord for His own, it's a matter of life and death that we aren't living in a state of spiritual "miscalculation" and carelessness. Are you prepared to meet the Lord, or are you "miscalculating?"

JIM WAS GRADUATED TODAY

Mary and I sat on the bleachers overlooking the high school athletic field and watched him march in with his class. A bird glided overhead, and, from far off, a dog's bark and children's voices mingled on the evening air. Behind circling hills, blue mountains made a stately backdrop.

Jim avoided our glance, the habitual grin he's worn since babyhood stilled for a moment in a gaze of earnest solemnity. His first big milestone had come, and I smiled to myself remembering his eagerness to embark upon the "world of tomorrow."

I have no fears for his future... for Jim is a Christian. What a wonderful assurance it is to his mother and me to know that wherever he goes, whatever happens in that wonderful world ahead, the values and principles he has been sustained him.

How grateful we are to our church for its guidance and encouragement it is to his mother and me to know that wherever he goes, whatever happens in that wonderful world ahead, the values and principles he has been sustained him.

ful we are to our church for its guidance and encouragement it is to his mother and me to know that wherever he goes, whatever happens in that wonderful world ahead, the values and principles he has been sustained him.

Fish Ban Protection Seen

LANSING — No one knows when or if the current restrictions on fishing in Lake St. Clair, the St. Clair River, the Detroit River, Lake Erie and part of Lake Huron will be lifted.

When he announced the program under which fish in these waters can be caught but then must be thrown back, Gov. William G. Milliken said the restrictions would apply "indefinitely."

"I don't think it can accurately be said the mercury situation is getting better," he said. "It will inevitably get better, but when, nobody knows."

"I don't have any plans to modify at the present time," he said.

THE BAN on eating applies to all fish caught in Lake St.

Clair, the St. Clair River and The Detroit River. It applies to all walleyes, white bass and sheepshead caught in Lake Erie and on Lake Huron south of Port Sanilac.

Anyone wishing to fish in these waters must have a special, free permit, even if they are 16 and under and normally need no fishing license.

When the permit is given to the person, he also receives a warning as to the hazards involved in eating the fish due to the high levels of mercury in them.

There are 500 permit outlets in the southeast Michigan area.

HEALTH OFFICIALS say there is no way to clean or cook fish contaminated with mercury to make them safe to eat.

Persons who eat too much mercury contaminated food can suffer brain damage and this is why the extra cautious approach has been taken on the problem.

"We don't want to see dead bodies before we start moving to protect the public," explained one state official recently.

Milliken said he thinks it is "clear in the public mind" that mercury does pose a hazard to the public health and that the ban is therefore necessary.

MOST PEOPLE know their taxes are high, but few realize exactly how much of what they earn is used to pay for government.

It is a bit of a shock then to learn that the average American works two hours and 26 minutes in each eight hours work day for the government.

This compares with about one hour and one minute for household and housing needs and 59 minutes for food and tobacco.

Transportation needs require 39 minutes of work while 26 minutes of work goes for clothing and 19 minutes for recreation needs. Medical needs require an average of .21 minutes work a day.

The remaining one hour and 49 minutes goes for all other expenditures.

STAGGERING statistics which outline the problems raised by drunk driving in this country continue their shocking ways.

For instance, alcohol was a factor in at least half of the 56,400 traffic deaths recorded in the United States last year. Those deaths equal the entire population of Bay City.

The drunken driver is the most deadly killer on the highway. At any given time it is estimated that 4 or 5 per cent of the drivers on the road are drunk.

However, this group is responsible for at least half of the highway deaths. One medical examiner has estimated that 44 per cent of the drivers killed last year were innocent victims of drunk drivers.

MICHIGAN'S CURRENT limit for drunkenness is .15 per cent alcohol in the blood stream. At this level, a driver has a 25 times greater chance of causing a traffic accident than he would if he were not drinking, according to the National Safety Council.

Increased accident causation is noticeable at a blood alcohol level of only .04 per cent. A 180-pound man may reach the .04 level with only one 3½ ounce mixed drink, the council said.

The council urges anyone who drinks to wait at least one hour for each drink after he has stopped drinking before he drives. It says this is the minimum time required by the body to rid itself of alcohol.

Here's Guide
For Canoeing
On Huron

To assist the increasing number of persons who are becoming interested in exploring the Clinton River by canoe, the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, is now distributing the "CLINTON RIVER CANOEING GUIDE".

The printed guide, which has a black and gray cover, illustrates the most popular section of the Clinton River beginning in Oakland County from Dequindre and Avon Roads near the Yates Cider Mill, southeast of Rochester on through Macomb County to Shadyside Park in Mount Clemens.

Access roads, bridges, railroad tracks, picnic and rest areas on public lands bordering the Clinton River are marked on the Guide Map. Also included are a series of helpful hints for canoeists and a chart containing distances and paddling times between major points along the approximate 20-mile route.

This new canoe map is free and may be obtained by writing to "CLINTON RIVER CANOEING GUIDE", c/o The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 1750 Guardian Building, Detroit, Michigan 48226 or phoning 961-5865 (DETROIT).

The map is also available by stopping at the following HCMA park offices: Metropolitan Beach near Mt. Clemens, Stony Creek Metropolitan Park near Utica, Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford and Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park near Dexter.

It is this precise language, almost simply in the extreme, that is Miss West's idiom which makes "Me and Thee" a captivating book. This mastery of the fine art of the novel assures a unique experience for any reader, especially those exposed more to the turmoil of so many contemporary authors.

Auto Safety Aids
Cut Casualty Loss

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass. — In recent years there has been increased emphasis on auto safety in terms of equipment, directed toward both the protection of the occupants riding in an automobile and the reduction of costly casualty losses due to accidents. The current auto crusade can, of course, be attributed in large measure to the book "Unsafe At Any Speed" by Ralph Nader.

His campaign has been responsible, either directly or indirectly, for 28 mandatory safety-equipment items presently being installed during assembly.

There has been time already to prove that safety equipment can save lives and reduce bodily injury as well as cut back casualty costs. Hence, while the consumer ultimately pays for the increased costs of this equipment, the savings in total casualty losses could eventually check the spiraling inflation of insurance costs.

While the furor over auto safety is not a big plus factor in terms of profits as far as auto producers are concerned, it does have definitely favorable implication for certain auto equipment producers.

ONE AREA of safety that has been stressed and is still under careful scrutiny concerns braking systems. Anti-skid devices developed by Kelsey-Hayes are now available as optional equipment, while Bendix Corp. has adaptive braking systems for heavy-duty trucks utilizing a special purpose computer.

A recent requirement has been the dual-master cylinder and the option of front brakes employing a disc-brake system. Research is now being carried on toward development of an automatic braking complex which can be operated by either an electronic sensor or even a mini-computer.

Borg-Warner has an air-skid control system using an electronic sensor-electronic logic module, which is activated electrically for trucks and tractor trailers. Because of the sharp increase in the number of registered cars and trucks, these devices have sizable markets, in both the original equipment and the replacement parts fields.

IN THE LINE of safety from collision impact, Eaton Yale & Towne has developed the auto-ceptor, which is an auto crash restraint arrangement. It is in the form of a protective device commonly referred to as the "air bag," which inflates instantaneously upon impact to cushion the driver from the steering wheel, dashboard, and windshield. Almost immediately after the collision, the air bag deflates so that the driver will not be pinned behind the wheel.

THE FEDERAL government, through the Department of Transportation, has placed orders for the development of an automobile which will be safe for the occupants even when crashed into a concrete wall at 50 mph. At the same time, the car eventually produced must also be capable of rolling over at 70 mph with the passenger compartment remaining intact.

In the past, federal and state authorities have spent vast sums on roadbuilding. From now on, the hitherto neglected factor of safety will come into play.

ALTHOUGH some of the aforementioned safety inventions produced by auto accessory firms appear to have excellent potential, it must be kept in mind that the outstanding auto companies probably have the ability to manufacture most of these items themselves.

Seminary

professional counselors and social workers.

A related problem is the shortage of seminary professors. Even the ranks of the Sulpician Fathers, the society of diocesan priests that supplies teachers for seminaries, suffers from attrition, and today seminaries are finding that they must supplement Sulpician Fathers with men outside this society.

Reverend Wright, himself a Sulpician Father, is convinced that the answer to some of these problems lies in the professionalization of the seminary by making it an integral part of university curriculums, by combining seminaries and instruction so that a student may choose from a wider range of courses, and by removing, as has St. John's the stigma that seminaries are "awful places to live and study."

ST. JOHN'S CHAPEL — Celebration of the Mass at St. John's Seminary is a surprising experience for the non-Catholic visiting services there in the chapel. Much of the formality once associated with the Mass has disappeared and even the performance during the service by a guitar-playing seminarian is not unusual. Above, students listen to a sermon by one of the priests who teaches at the school. At the left is the crypt of the late Edward Cardinal Mooney, who is buried at the seminary, below the chapel. The late archbishop of Detroit was instrumental in the founding of St. John's.

THE NORTHVILLE HERALD

Race to the Finish!

A determined John Carlo, executive manager of Northville Downs, stands in front of the harness track's new clubhouse facility. Monday afternoon, two days before the 1970 season was scheduled to open, Carlo predicted "we'll be ready". But to many observers it appeared as though the new facility was two weeks' away from completion. Two-hundred tradesmen worked around the clock to make Carlo's prediction come true. Inside this section you'll find facts and figures about the new clubhouse and the 1970 harness racing meet at Northville. But the pictures leave something to be desired... they were taken amidst workmen, ladders and debris. A firsthand view is better anyway. So why not come dine at the Downs and enjoy the sulkies.

Downs Unveils $2 Million Clubhouse for 27th Season

Circular Design Highlights 41,000 Sq. Ft. Clubhouse

New Touch of Class at Downs

Northville Downs' modern, new clubhouse represents some 80,000 man hours of work.

Built by the Hyatt Construction Company, whose owner, Nelson Hyatt, is a Northville resident, the new building has a concrete-steel superstructure. It contains 4,000 yards of accoustical plaster, 45,000 square feet of flexicore, pre-stressed floors, and 70,000 blocks.

Boasting nearly 41,000 square feet of floor space, the tri-level building has a capacity of 3,500 persons.

The exterior is of glazed, predominately blue colored brick, which appears from a distance as mosaic tile, blending with the grandstands. The interior features a warm "curvature" motif throughout.

The west end of the clubhouse extends out over a circular entrance off Center Street, forming a canopy. From this circular drive, which will handle two lanes of traffic, motorists will be able to drop off patrons before proceeding to a preferred parking section or into the regular parking lots.

In addition to the main Center Street entrance, patrons may enter the clubhouse at the north side of the building at ground level.

From the entrance on Center, patrons may take a short stairway to the ground level or to the main floor. They also may use an elevator to either of these two floors or to the third level mezzanine.

An Italian mosaic mural, not yet installed, will be located at the main entrance.

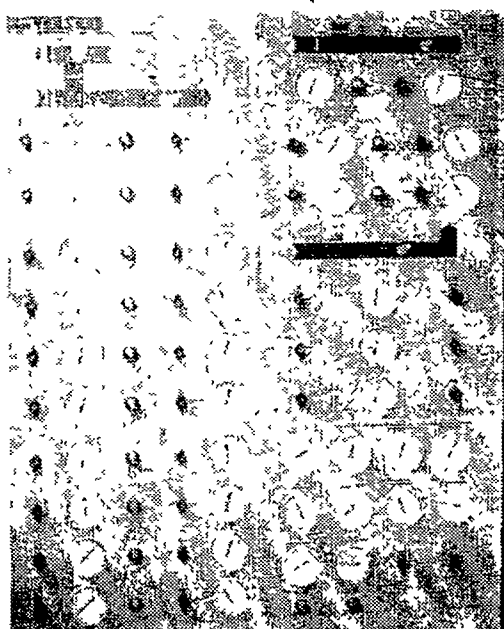

Throughout the interior — especially on the main floor or the plush mezzanine level above it — a circular pattern dominates the design everywhere. This pattern is visible in the round columns, curving walls, semi-circular staircase, and even in the unique ceiling light fixtures that double as air circulation modules.

The main floor (second level), with some 17,300 square feet of space, will feature terrazo flooring, and blue mosaic and panelled walls. Trim throughout the main floor and the mezzanine is red oak, and the doors and panelling on these two floors are of red oak Formica.

This main floor contains parimutuel windows, kitchen facilities, a general dining area, and a bar. It, like the mezzanine, contains a south wall of tempered glass windows overlooking the track.

A semi-circular staircase,

THIS PANEL, located in the Downs' general offices, controls all the heating and air conditioning units throughout the enclosed grandstand and clubhouse areas.

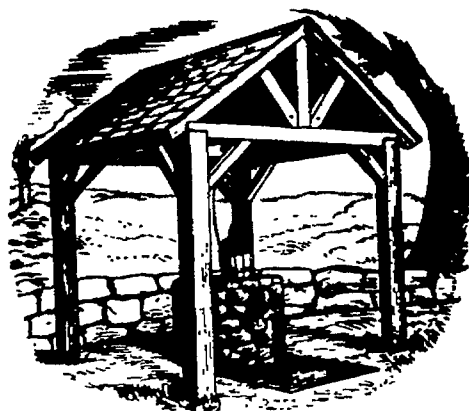

accenting the interior design, provides access to the 16,000 square foot mezzanine, and to the first level or ground level.

The tiered mezzanine, plushiest of all three levels, has decorative walls of panelled cork and mosaic tile, and red carpeting and parquet flooring. It features a private dining room for 35 persons, a kitchen that will offer full course meals, and seating adjacent to the windows above the track.

The third level has tiered seating for 352 persons.

Like the grandstands, the 17,000-square foot ground floor of the new clubhouse, has finished concrete walls and a concrete floor. It includes a lunch counter for light snacks, a bar, a full line of parimutuel windows, some table service, and glass doors to the rail outside along the track.

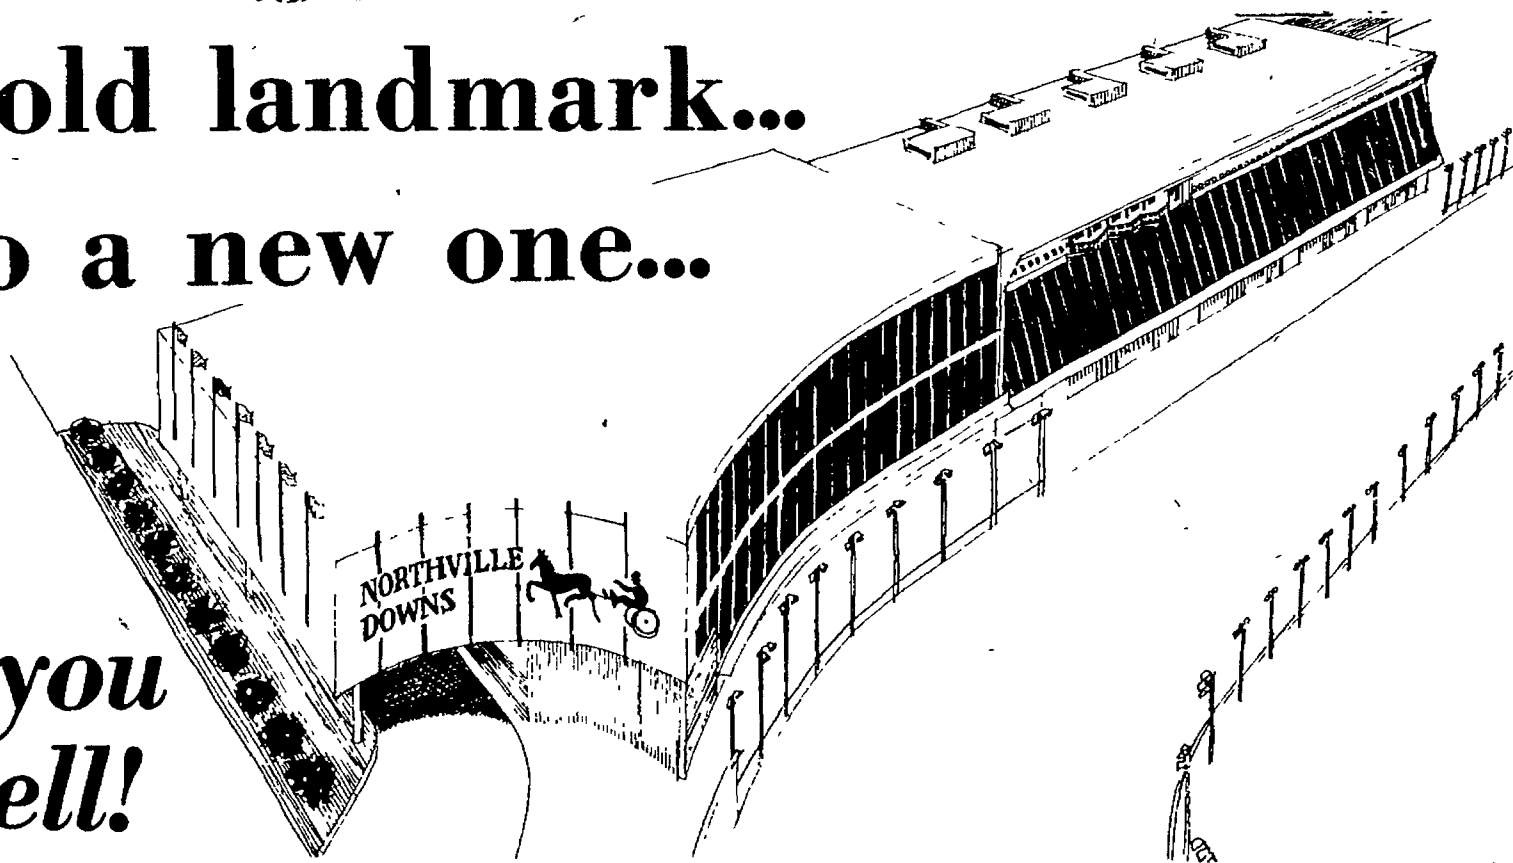

Closed circuit television and air-conditioning is provided throughout the building. A computerized console system regulates the unique ventilation-air condition systems and the elevators.

It All Started 27 Years Ago...

It was just 27 years ago that wagering on night races was inaugurated at Northville Downs and its record has been nothing but successful since.

It had its beginnings around the turn of the century when a group of Northville residents got together, bought land, scraped a track and started the Northville fair.

Then in 1926, that same group decided it was about time to erect a grandstand and held a stock sale — 300 shares at $10 — with the $3,000 used to construct a wooden grandstand capable of holding some 2,000 fans.

It was at this time that the Northville Driving Club began to play a role in the start and eventual rise of parimutuel wagering and night racing. The stockholders were members of the club.

The Directors at first agreed that harness racing under the lights at Northville would never go — the pacers and trotters had never raced in anything but daylight and who'd come out to watch them at night!

More than that, where would anyone get horses to compete under lights. It was unheard-of and seemed extremely risky from a financial angle.

But John J. Carlo, Sam Wiedrick and Harold Dennison, representatives of the Buffalo group, wanted to try — and after months of talks and negotiations finally received an affirmative reply from the Driving Club Directors and members. Mr. Carlo today is executive manager of Northville Downs.

Edward Keller, one of the sports great racing secretaries, was named racing secretary and immediately started visiting the county fairs to sell night racing.

30 Horses

The great experiment finally jelled in the fall of 1944 with the track ready, the lights ready, the operators ready but less than 30 horses on the grounds.

There was a bit of financing involved in getting that many. Keller and Wiedrick scoured the county fairs. The winners would share in the purse but, in addition, every owner would receive a flat $100 for each horse entered in each race.

Thus, harness racing was started in Michigan. There was a touch of county fair to the program, the field in the first race came back for the fourth and seventh; that in the second was back for the fifth and eighth; and the starters in the third were back in the sixth. But there were eight horses going in each of the eight races.

Only 24 horses were used for the entire night. Just to give one an idea of the troubles, the same horses were used for the next three or four nights before additional pacers and trotters were lured to the track by the $100 per race offer.

$20,000 Handle

There was considerable question in the minds of the Driving Club directors when the nightly handle averaged only $20,000 and there were many "I told you so" pessimists.

Once underway, the meeting progressed through the 20 nights and plans were started for the meeting the following spring.

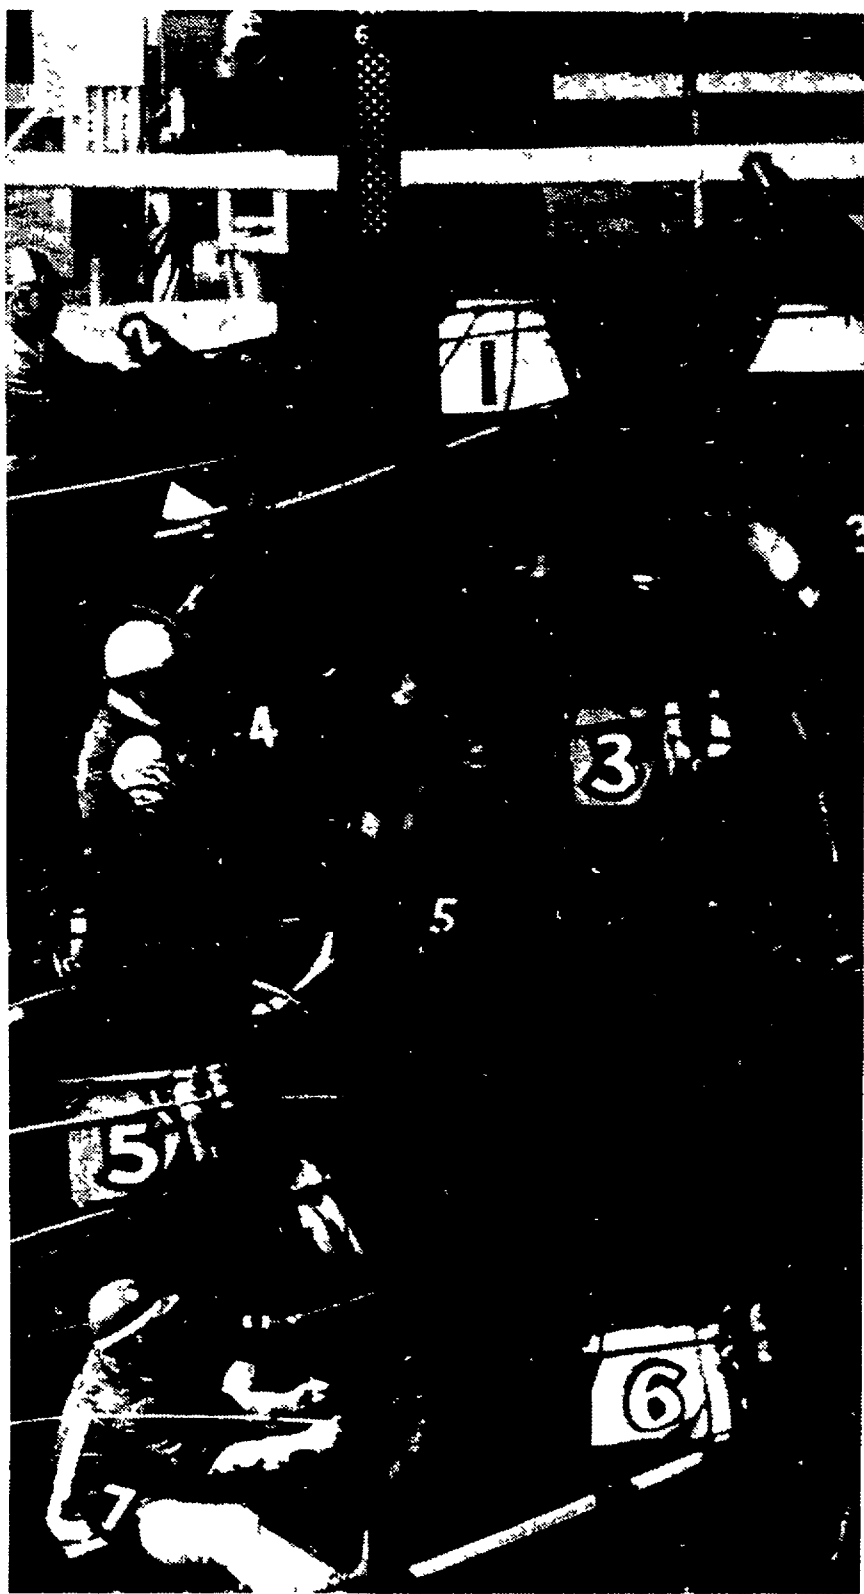

The situation was much different in 1945. Horsemen knew the pacers and trotters could race just as well at night as in the daylight and applications for stalls came from far and wide.

At this time Keller moved East to participate in the opening of one of the New York area tracks, and John Daley was named racing secretary. His young assistant, new to the game, was Bill Connors who still directs harness racing at Wolverine, Hazel Park and Pompano Park.

Breaking into the sport as an announcer at Northville where he became known throughout the nation, was Orlow G. Owen, who went on to become president and general manager of Wolverine Raceway until his retirement in 1970.

It was a colorful gang in those early days. The fans were just warming up to the sport and there were many incidents that kept the crowd buzzing at all times.

The handle started to climb and soared over the $100,000 nightly average in the spring, and then past the $175,000 nightly in the fall.

Dr. Stanton

Then came 1946 and harness racing enjoyed a big spurt due greatly to the efforts of one pacer, a green one, brought into Northville from Ontario by Lindy Fraser. It was Dr. Stanton, who was to become one of the all-time greats before his career ended abruptly when he dropped dead at the age of 12 while warming up.

Dr. Stanton was only a four-year-old when he came to Northville and had little to recommend him. He won his first race by a half-length in a little better time. He continued winning until the string had stretched to 10 and during that time he became the darling of the fans and attracted large crowds every time he raced.

Credit also for the sudden increased nation-wide interest in the sport has to go to Dr. Stanton. He raced at Northville for two years and then went to the more lucrative tracks in the New York City area when his earnings passed the $200,000 mark during a time when a $10,000 purse was the exception.

Proximity

Meanwhile a couple of Dutch brothers from Buffalo brought in a trotting mare, Proximity, and it was the story of Dr. Stanton all over again.

The mare quickly showed she was destined for greatness, winning the Michigan Trotting Derby in 1948 in the record time of 2:02.4 — a time that still stands today.

The next few years saw a host of standout horses appearing at Northville including the great Michigan owned Royal Blackstone; Grattan Volo, twice winner of the Trotting Derby; Grattan McKlyo and Jimmy Creed, winners of the Pacing Derby; Demon Hanover, Scotch Valley, Belle Acton, H.D. Hanover and Guinea Gold.

Then came the need for improvements and the first was the construction of an additional barn area directly west of the grounds on a cutout portion of a nearby hill.

Next the old wooden barns on the grounds were razed and the new winter type barns constructed along with a motel-barn building in which living quarters were provided for the drivers and grooms on the upper level and for the horses on the ground floor.

About this time the crowds had increased to the point where the grandstand had to be expanded and modernized. The capacity was boosted to more than 5,000 with the ends glassed in against the weather.

Tartan Paddock

A new winterized paddock was erected, with stalls on the ground level and space for 72 horses on the second or track level. Here the first Tartan all-weather carpeting was installed for the use of horses. Considered among the best in the country, it is big enough to take care of all the horses competing in the races on any given evening.

Another addition was a receiving barn which also has been used for horse sales and has a capacity for several hundred spectators in addition to space for horses. In recent years there was the installation of a full "tote" board and the track bought additional land east and north of the grandstand to expand the parking facilities.

New Clubhouse

This year, of course, is the big year as Northville begins its season with a completely glass-enclosed grandstand and brand-new clubhouse with air-conditioning and heating for all-weather comfort.

Mr. Carlo is the lone partner remaining of the six that started the operation in 1944. Wiedrick now resides in Chicago and Brock in Buffalo. Goldberg, Reed and Dennison are deceased.

Dr. Snow remained as president of the Driving Club until three years ago when he retired. His place has been taken by his son-in-law, Cass Hoffman, but it hasn't stopped "Doc" from handling his duties as track physician, just as he has since the opening night back in 1944.

It's a happy 27th year for Mr. Carlo and for Margaret Zayti, recording secretary, who has been with the track for 23 years.

Congratulations and thanks to Northville Downs for creating the finest all-weather harness-racing facility in the middle west.

See you in the clubhouse!

Boring Topped Drivers in '69

Chris Boring, son of the veteran driver-trainer Leon Boring of Adrian, Michigan, won the driving championship at Northville Downs in 1969.

The youthful Chris, who ranks with the better drivers in the midwest, will try again this year and has ambitions of becoming one of the few reinsmen to repeat as champion.

A year ago he compiled a record of 27 wins, 25 seconds and 10 thirds in 111 starts for a winning percentage of .398. That gave him a comfortable margin over Wally McIlmurray, of Novi, who had 36 firsts, 24 seconds and 30 thirds in 167 starts for a .355 average.

Ted Taylor, who calls Castleberry, Florida his home, won the crown in 1968 with a whopping .406 winning percentage. But Ted couldn't repeat though he had the most victories with a total of 50 in his 249 starts.

It was the third straight year that Taylor had the most first — leading in 1967, repeating in 1968 with 45 and then recording 50 victories in 1969.

A Day for Remembering

Northville, Novi Ceremonies Pay Tribute to War Dead

Northville and Novi honored its war dead Saturday in traditional Memorial Day parades and services in their respective communities.

Hundreds of spectators turned out under sunny skies to pay their respects and to enjoy the colorful parades.

In Northville, the morning parade, featuring Northville's high school band (bottom left) dressed in its new uniform overlays and led by Conrad E. Langfield (below left) whose donation of $15,000 paid for the overlays and supports the band program, proceeded through the center of town and stopped briefly at Oakwood Cemetery on Cady Street.

A wreath was placed on the war memorial, the Reverend Lloyd Brasure offered a prayer, and veterans (middle left) gave a gun salute to the war dead.

From Oakwood, the parade participants proceeded west to Rogers and north on Rogers to the entrance of Rural Hill Cemetery where it paused briefly on the bridge. At this point, another prayer was offered, a gun salute given and a wreath tossed into the stream below in remembrance of those who gave their lives at sea.

The main memorial service was conducted at the Veterans Plot in Rural Hill (top left). Principal speaker for the occasion was Ernest Stratyckuck, a past commander of the VFW. The ceremonies this year were under the direction of Northville VFW Post 4012, with assistance by American Legion Post 147.

*****

Novi's Memorial Day parade began near the Novi Cemetery where a brief memorial service was conducted by the Reverend Arnold Cook, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

The parade, which featured Novi's high school band (second from bottom, right) and a color guard (second from top, right), proceeded then to the Novi Community Building where a wreath was laid at the foot of the war dead memorial.

From the community building, marchers proceeded to the Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens Cemetery, corner of 12 Mile and Novi Roads, where a wreath was laid at the foot of the war memorial (top right) and the Reverend Cook (bottom right) addressed the crowd of spectators in a prayerful remembrance of those who gave their lives in war.

Memorial activities in Novi were sponsored by the Novi Chamber of Commerce.

PUBLIC HEARING FOR PARKING LOT ASSESSMENT

City Mgr. explained that this is a new Public Hearing since properties have been added since its original inception. City Mgr. showed, by means of a map, the affected properties and the two improvements - Cady St. Parking Lot and deck parking and E. Dunlap Parking Lot. Total project will cost $375,000 to $400,000 - one-half to be paid for by the City; the other half from Street Improvement Fund. He stated that Bonding Attorney had ruled out possibility of front footage being used as a basis of the formula for the assessment. Mr. Don Severance, representing the American Legion Post in Northville, asked for clarification on the question as to whether the American Legion could be assessed when the property is tax exempt. This question was referred to the City Attorney and will be answered at the 2nd Public Hearing. Mr. Severance asked if he could have an answer from the City Attorney.

City Mgr. read a letter from Attorney Clarence Alandt, representing the Casterline Funeral Home, objecting to this assessment on the basis it would not benefit Casterlines as they have sufficient parking space of their own.

Mr. John Johnson, representing the Kroger Company, objected to the assessment, stating it would not benefit Krogers since they have more than the required parking; plus grocery shoppers do not cross the streets.

Moved by Nichols, support by Folino, to continue this Public Hearing until next regular Council Meeting on June 1, 1970, 8 p.m. at the Northville City Hall. U.C.

PUBLIC HEARING FOR ORDINANCE AMENDMENTS FOR FIREWALLS

It was decided that the City Mgr. would obtain all possible information and continue the Public Hearing.

PUBLIC HEARING TO CONSIDER 1970-71 CITY OF NORTHVILLE BUDGET

Mayor Allen stated this was the Public Hearing to consider 1970-71 City of Northville Budget as it was published in the Northville Record. City Mgr. stated that some employees have settled and some have not on salaries - range of most increase is from 6.2 - 8.3%.

Councilman Rathert asked about anticipated decrease in water rate. City Mgr. explained that before present ordinance expires a full report will be made of the financial condition of the Water Dept. Councilman Nichols requested a report of this before October, 1970.

Mr. Robert Strachan, 540 Horton, asked what the total 1970-71 City budget was and City Mgr. answered $1,400,000 but that over $200,000 of this was transfers between the several funds.

Mr. Strachan questioned City Mgr.'s salary in relation to 8% raises; and was told that the Council unanimously set this salary.

Moved by Folino, support by Lapham, to approve the 1970-71 City of Northville Budget as submitted by the City Mgr. and revised by City Council, as published previously in the Northville Record and one file with the City Clerk and City Manager.

OPEN LINE

Q What is scientific forest management?

A In the early years of Michigan's industrial development, loggers overcut our native forests and left behind eroding riverbanks. Consumers Power helped to restore these lands through reforestation. Today, through scientific forest management, we set limits on the number of trees cut down and continue to plant new trees where needed. Thus the forests provide a continuing harvest for use by the wood and paper industries.

Q What kind of recreation facilities are available on Consumers Power lands?

A Consumers Power maintains 39 recreation areas along the Muskegon, Manistee and Au Sable Rivers. These areas are variously designated for camping, boating, picnicking and fishing. All are open to the public, and we ask only that visitors respect the rules pertaining to use of the lands. For reasons of sanitation, we try to keep the public particularly aware of camping regulations.

Q What are the limits of camping in the recreation areas?

A Camping is permitted only at those sites where it is authorized. These authorized campsites are equipped with the necessary services and facilities. Most are operated by the State of Michigan. Consumers Power must insist that any tents and trailers in unauthorized areas be removed. Only by observing the rules can we keep our recreation sites in good condition for use by all.

Better

No, John Halberstam isn't a farmer. He's planting trees for the power company.

For Consumers Power, cultivating trees is an important part of our good neighbor policy. The company owns some 750 miles of land along the banks of the Au Sable, Manistee and Muskegon Rivers. By combining the operation of our hydroelectric plants with scientific forest and land use management, we are able to provide vacationers with some of Michigan's most beautiful recreation areas. Where riverlands have been misused in the past, we have worked with state and federal conservation agencies and with volunteer groups to reclaim the areas. Because we live here and work here, we care about making life better.

New Bus Service Launched Here By Short Way Lines of Toledo

While two bus firms were offering to restore bus service in Northville if they were guaranteed local subsidy, a Toledo based firm was obtaining permission from the state to operate a service here.

The coup may have been unimpeachable, however.

According to officials of Short Way Lines, which began offering service here Monday, the firm was unaware of offers from Great Lakes Transit Corporation of Birmingham and from a Lansing based company. Both of the latter companies demanded guaranteed subsidies before launching service.

"We knew you had no service and the potential business looked good so we went to MPSC (Michigan Public Service Commission)," a spokesman said.

So while Short Way was obtaining "surprisingly swift" temporary authorization from MPSC, Senator George Kuhn was urging local officials to accept the offer from Great Lakes — unaware of Short Way's request of MPSC.

"It's only temporary authorization (to operate a bus service here) but we're confident it will be extended," said A. M. Hipskind, supervisor of revenue for Short Way. He visited Northville Thursday with Russell Genung, supervisor of buses for Short Way, in search of a local agent.

To date, Short Way has requested no subsidy, which in the case of Great Lakes may have amounted to some $10 a day from each of several municipalities and business places.

Service here will involve several shuttle bus runs from the Seven Mile-Telegraph Road area to Northville and back, as well as two "over the highway" bus and package express runs, using the same route, between Ann Arbor and Pontiac. (See schedule).

Fares will range from 30-cents to $2.90, with one-way fares between Northville and Telegraph road set at 60-cents.

The Ann Arbor to Pontiac run and back will include stops in Ypsilanti, Plymouth, Northville, Northville State Hospital, Livonia, Seven Mile and Telegraph and 12 Mile and Telegraph. Fare for Northville to Pontiac will be $1.40, from Northville to Ann Arbor, $1.

ALL SCHEDULES OPERATE DAILY

Adjustment in the schedule could occur to accomplish the best connections with Detroit Street Railway (DSR) service, said Hipskind. However, these adjustments — and any change in fare — must be first approved by MPSC, he added.

K. T. Wegerbauer, vice-president and general manager of Short Way first announced the service to Northville early last week — just a day after Senator Kuhn had met for the second time with local officials and representatives of the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA). The latter organization, which expects to receive a sizeable share of the governor's $2.5 million transportation package, had indicated last week that it would be prepared to operate a bus service in Northville late this summer.

The MPSC issued Short Way operation permit on May 21.

Short Way, owned by F. M. Temple, was started originally in the 1920's as a Michigan company based at Tecumseh. Today it operates dozens of buses throughout southern Michigan. Its operation also includes the contract shuttle bus service at Metropolitan Airport.

It has runs and connections between Toledo, Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, Metropolitan Airport, Lansing, Flint, etc.

HIDDEN TREASURE — Mrs. Otto Wiley holds two paper flour sacks that she and her husband found inside the wall of their dining room at 529 Horton Street during remodeling. The sacks at one time contained flour milled in Northville, perhaps 100 years or more ago. "Argo Mills...Full Roller Flower...Peter Gillespie...Northville, Mich." reads one sack. Argo Mills, which dates back to the first half of the last century, was located at the "foot" of Main Street opposite the city's community well. While the name of the mill on the other sack is only partially visible it obviously was the "Yerkes Bros." mill because it is known that these brothers offered a flour called "Gold Lace", a name that appears on the sack. The Yerkes mill, also called the Northville mill, was probably the oldest in Northville. It stood on the west side of Griswold Street, just north of the Ford parking lot. The late Henry Ford purchased the property in 1920 and eventually had the building razed. Donald P. Yerkes, Sr., who died in 1947 at the age of 81, took over the operation of the old Northville mill from his brothers, William and Robert, in 1894. He operated it with his son, Donald P., Jr., 319 Hill Street, who later moved the business to Base Line in a building that still stands and operates under the name Northville Lumber Company and since 1967 under new owners.
