Kadish...

Waving aside his opponent's governmental experience edge, Democratic candidate Paul Kadish for the State Senate promises his position on the major issues will be clear-cut if he is elected in November. He will not be a "fence-sitter" — a frequent position of his opponent, he declares. "If the people were to decide on governmental experience only then certainly (Senator) George Kuhn would have been nominated in the primary. The people are looking for fresh approaches, new faces and new ideas, and I think I will be a voice that will be heard in the State Senate.

"He (GOP candidate Carl Pursell) tends to sit on fences...and not speak to the many important issues that I think are facing the people."

Among the most important of these issues, says Kadish, is tax reform. "I believe two amendments to the

EDITOR'S NOTE — Below is another in a series of taped interviews with area candidates who are seeking election in November. This one includes Carl Pursell, Republican, and Paul Kadish, Democrat, who are seeking the 14th District seat now held by Senator George Kuhn. Among other areas, the 14th District includes the city and township of Northville, Novi, Wixom, Walled Lake, Lyon Township, and the City of South Lyon.

Pursell...

Standing firm in his opposition to parochial, the Republican candidate for the 14th District State Senatorial seat, Carl Pursell, supports the controversial Proposal C that will appear on the November ballot.

(The anti-parochial proposal, including Pursell's opponent, according to many people would slice worthwhile auxiliary services already extended to non-public schools).

He does so, however, primarily to remain consistent in his opposition to aid to non-public schools and even though, like others, he finds its language somewhat ambiguous and even though he basically supports existing auxiliary services.

Predicting the proposition will fail, Pursell sees its passage or rejection as immaterial to the whole question of parochial since, in the final analysis, it will live or die on the court's

Auction Signals End of Maybury

Contents Sold; Razing Slated Next

First step toward elimination of the Maybury Sanatorium facility occurred last week Tuesday when the entire contents and equipment were auctioned off, netting the City of Detroit at preliminary estimate about $13,000.

Russell Chambers, real estate supervisor in the Surplus Property Division of the City Controller's Office, says that he now is working on the problem of handling the expected demolition of the buildings. He stated Tuesday he "hoped to have plans completed within a month."

It appeared a certainty last month that the Maybury buildings would be demolished as the City of Detroit applied to the township for permission to fill a ravine on the eastern boundary of the property with rubble after bricks and other salvage materials were removed.

The city said that some or all would be torn down as they caused vandalism, drug use, drinking and trespassing problems. The township, as reported in The Northville Record September 10, noted that "junk" fill is in violation of the township ordinance and requested that it be notified before any demolition begins.

Meanwhile, City Manager Frank Ollendorff reports that the city's offer to purchase more than 200 acres of Maybury property for park purposes is still being considered by Detroit along with numerous other offers.

There were bargains reported to be had for those attending the auction as hospital cribs sold for $1 each and the complete equipment of doctors' offices often brought a $1 an office. Handled by K & L, Incorporated, auctioneers with offices in Detroit, the sale was completed in one day.

As the few local residents attending the auction reported such buys as a lot of 21 chairs at 10 cents each, Chambers defended the auction procedure.

He pointed out that when it started at 11 a.m. on smaller amounts,

VIP Weighs Deposit Policy

Members of Northville Public Schools' VIP committee met Monday night to discuss the damage deposit and came up with three major recommendations to the administration:

- continue with the current policy of $5 deposit in grades one through five; $15, grades six through eight; and $25, grades nine through 12 for the remainder of the school year;

- do everything legally possible to collect those deposits that have not been tendered;

- evaluate the policy at the end of the year.

Members of the committee were in agreement that a damage deposit is

City Council Backs Proposal On Bond Issue for Housing

Two ballot proposals — one at the state level and the other concerning Oakland County — were the subject of discussion Monday night at the city council meeting.

Council members voted 4-0 (Councilman Charles Lapham was out of town) endorsing a "yes" vote on the state Proposal A, concerning a $100 million housing bond issue. The "yes" vote was recommended by the Michigan Municipal League and Northville's city manager, Frank Ollendorff.

Specifically, local officials support the proposition because of plans locally to begin a low-cost housing program of some kind for senior citizens. They are hopeful that, should the state proposal pass, Northville may qualify for state monies.

Proposal A, if approved, would authorize the state to issue $100 million in general obligation bonds in order to raise funds for a program of state grants and low interest loans for housing.

"Since revenue bonds," explained spokesmen for the Michigan Municipal League, "would require that rents be high enough to produce sufficient revenues to cover the cost of state loans, only through general obligation bonds or direct appropriations can funds be raised whereby the state could make actual grants, advances or below-market loans in order to reduce the local project costs sufficiently to permit very low or subsidized rents."

According to Ollendorff, guidelines for distribution of money raised by the bond issue have not yet been established so it is premature to suggest Northville would be qualified. Nevertheless, he voiced optimism that it may qualify.

The bond issue is, in part, an outgrowth of Governor Romney's Special Commission on Urban Problems, which urged a "broadside program designed to increase significantly the supply of sound housing available to low and lower-middle income families in Michigan urban areas."

Also discussed Monday was the Oakland County proposal calling for a county millage maximum of 18 mills

Parking Deck Bids On Tap Tuesday

Bids are to be opened Tuesday afternoon on the proposed two-level parking deck slated on the north side of Cady Street, east of Center.

Board Studies Police Report

Northville Township Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg has called for a board study meeting tonight (Thursday) to review the police department "Master Plan" introduced last week by Chief Ron Nisun.

Only four members of the seven-member board were in attendance at last week's regular meeting. But the Nisun proposal for an 11-man township force by 1975 was officially adopted in a complicated voting mix-up which resulted in two votes prevailing as a majority.

Supervisor Stromberg declined to predict whether the board might reverse the "adoption" action at its November meeting. He said he had not expected the report to be adopted, only accepted for further study. But he noted that no action could be taken at the study meeting.

City officials have estimated the cost of the project at $200,000.

A special meeting of the council will be held Tuesday evening to review the bids, to review the downtown parking assessment roll, and to set a public hearing on this assessment roll.

Downtown parking improvements are to be financed through a special assessment against downtown property owners.

City councilman have postponed again initiatory condemnation action involving property along the proposed Griswold Street extension. Offers based on appraised values, made by the city are still being considered by some owners.

Meanwhile, however, the council approved 4-0 the purchase of one of the parcels along this proposed route — that of Henry Wagenschutz, 341 Beal Street. The agreed upon price is $26,800 for the house and $8,000 for a vacant lot. The city is to pay up to $200 in legal expenditures in making the transaction, and it is to get possession of the property no later than January 31.

NEWS BRIEFS

NORTHVILLE TAXES in the Oakland County portion of the city are the fourth lowest of 25 communities in that county, a 1970 equalization committee report shows, according to City Manager Frank Ollendorff. While Northville's 10.3 mills is fourth from the bottom, the rate was not as low as neighboring Novi. That community, according to the report, is the lowest in the county with 7 mills. Also listed on the bottom half was Wixom in seventh place at 11.31 mills. South Lyon is 13 at 13.87 mills, followed in 14th place by Walled Lake at 14.5 mills. Northville's school tax levy of 33.90 was 11th from the bottom, Novi (31.10) sixth. Walled Lake School District, with 34.23 mills, is ranked 13th. Highest city tax rate in Oakland is Ferndale at 20.15, and highest school tax rate is Bloomfield Hills at 39.01. Similar Wayne County comparisons have not yet been released, reported Ollendorff.

IN A LETTER TO the Northville police department this week, Township Police Chief Ronald Nisun stated he had not intended to be critical of the Northville department in his police report submitted to the township board last Tuesday. Nisun said he would "be very proud to have any of your men with whom I have had contact work with or for me."

MOBILE HOME AND MULTIPLE rezoning of 188 acres on the southwest corner of Six Mile and Ridge Roads goes before the Township Planning Commission on Tuesday for a public hearing. The hearing will begin at 8 p.m. in the Board of Education Offices. Submitting the request is Sheldon Hayes who proposes to call the development Cadillac Green. The area is now zoned R-3 (one-family residential) and Hayes is asking the area be rezoned I-1 (industrial) for the mobile home park and RM-2 for the multiple units. An official notice of the hearing and a diagram of the property in question appears on page 13-A of The Record.

Mrs. America to Speak Here

Mrs. America of 1970, Mrs. R. G. LeTourneau, will speak to the Dearborn-Plymouth Christian Women's Club at its October luncheon meeting at 12:30 p.m., Thursday, October 29, at Lofy's Restaurant, Plymouth.

A mother, not only to her own children, but also to many who have needed her help, Mrs. LeTourneau was chosen Texas Mother of the Year, and then Mrs. America. The mother of five, grandmother of 19 and great-grandmother of one, she was selected because she "has been an inspiration and guiding influence in making better citizens and better Christians of so many young people whose lives she has touched."

The quiet, unassuming widow of the late internationally famous industrialist-inventor, she is known for "always being ready to lend a helping hand to give support."

In awarding the Mrs. America 1970 title to Mrs. LeTourneau the committee cited her as "she seems to delight in doing the task that others shun. She has been especially kind to persons of other colors and races before this was considered the proper thing to do."

Through the years Mrs. LeTourneau has been greatly interested in camp work, personally running Camp Bathany at Winona Lake at one time. She also was the inspiration in 1946 for the founding of LeTourneau Institute of Technology, established to provide education for young men interested in engineering and technology. In 1962 the school was expanded to a four-year, co-educational college also offering arts and sciences.

Mrs. LeTourneau is to tell her audience how she and her late husband "designed their life around a unique partnership with God," and how their business success enabled them "to give 90 per cent of their income to God and how they had trouble finding places to spend the 10 per cent left."

Special music at the luncheon program will be provided by Mrs. Sue Kapp, soprano soloist.

Mrs. Judy Bednar, Wayne State University home economist, also will be a featured speaker.

A nursery is provided for preschool children. Further information and reservations may be obtained by calling 349-3456. Since the number of reservations is limited, interested women of the community are asked to call as soon as possible, and not later than October 27.

Novi Continues Helping Hand

For the third year the Helping Hand Program, a nation-wide project to provide places of help for children, is being sponsored in Novi by the Novi Jaycees.

The program has a four-fold purpose, according to Mrs. Ernest Kramer, auxiliary spokesman.

Homes displaying the symbol of an extended hand offer assistance to any child who is lost, injured, bullied or threatened by a molester. When in trouble, children in the Novi community Schools have been instructed to go to a home displaying the sign of a Helping Hand.

All volunteers are asked to fill out an application form which is screened carefully by the auxiliary as well as by the Novi Police Department. Once a volunteer has been selected, she remains a helping hand during the time she lives in Novi. It is important, the auxiliary stresses, that the volunteer be home during school hours.

The project has the support of the Novi schools, the police department and the Jaycees. For further information call Mrs. Kramer, 349-0895, or Mrs. Denny Wolcott, 477-3180.

"AMAH and the Night Visitors" — the operatic story of the crippled shepherd boy who is visited by the Three Wise Men — will be performed by the Detroit Overture to Opera company in Northville at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, December 13, at Northville high auditorium.

This family entertainment so rarely available without a trip into Detroit is being brought here by Northville's ambitious Opera Committee and is truly a community Christmas present.

Mrs. Ernest J. Shave, who has served for many years on the Detroit Metropolitan Opera Committee and who founded the Northville Overture to Opera Committee with Mrs. Donald Ware, admits that admissions cannot cover costs of bringing the live presentation to town.

Knowing that ticket sales, contributions and special projects will have to earn about $1,500 to bring the production here, the committee voted to do so early this fall. Working with Mrs. Shave and Mrs. Ware are Mrs. Harold Wright, Mrs. Stanton Schaefer, Mrs. Edward Zywiec, Mrs. Charles Wheatley, Mrs. Courtney Mowat, Mrs. B. A. Zayti and Mrs. Edward Kelly.

For two years — in 1968-69 — the committee in 1968-69 brought Overture to Opera evening programs here during the spring season. This year, feeling that young people as well as adults should enjoy the presentations, the committee chose to bring "Amahl and the Night Visitors" during the holiday season. It is the same production that will be given at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Under the direction of Dr. David DiChiera, the Overture productions have won praise of local and national critics. Overture is sponsored by the Detroit Grand Opera Association, Oakland University and the university center for adult education, and uses professional area talent.

At a committee meeting next Monday members will receive the Christmas-red and white tickets, which will be $3 for adults and $2 for students.

The appealing story of the little crippled boy who "had nothing to give the Christ Child but his crutches" has become a contemporary classic.

Through ticket sales beginning next week and such projects as a booth at the Tivoli Fair of the Northville Historical Society (November 14 at Northville Presbyterian Church) the committee hopes to meet its commitment...and share the Christmas Spirit.

General area chairmen of the Detroit Metropolitan Association will have a preview of the Met's Detroit spring plans and hear Overture details at a luncheon to be given at the Grosse Pointe home of Mrs. Roy Chapin, association co-chairman, October 29. Reva Shave will be attending from Northville.

A HALLOWEEN party and square dance is being planned by Northville Newcomers Club for the "Ghost and Goblin Night" of October 31. It is to begin at 9:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coates, 19061 Sheldon Road.

While awards are planned for the best costumes as usual, Mrs. M. L. Rinehart, club president, says that members and guests are welcome in costume or casual dress. She's hoping for a good turn-out of newest club members — the new arrivals to the area.

Square dances will be called by Conrad Eichhorn of Ann Arbor. A midnight buffet is to follow. Deadline for reservations, which are $5 a couple, is Monday. Checks should be sent to Mrs. Phil Philippeau, 16863 Old Bedford Road, Plymouth, or by phone reservation 349-7033.

The committee arranging the event includes Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. James LaPlante and Mr. and Mrs. William Donahue.

A WREATH workshop is the novel project of Western Suburban Junior Woman's Club to raise funds for its scholarship fund.

The club will teach the art of pine cone wreath-making at workshops at 7:30 p.m. November 3, 4, and 5 at the home of Mrs. James Clarke, 18219 Arselot. A charge of $5.50 includes all materials needed to make a wreath.

It takes only an evening to make a wreath, according to the committee. Area women interested in attending one of the sessions are asked to call Mrs. Fred Lauzon, 422-4385, or Mrs. Donald Baxter, 349-7296 for reservations.

For the last two years the Western Suburban club has given two complete $450 scholarships to Schoolcraft College.

LENORE Romney, Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate, invited 350 women from the Oakland-Wayne area who also are seeking office to a luncheon meeting at her Bloomfield Hills home October 12.

Mrs. Crispen (Eleanor) Hammond, Northville Township Clerk, was among those attending. Plymouth Township Clerk Helen Richardson accompanied her.

Mrs. Ernest (Irene) Bacsanyi, Novi Township Treasurer, was one of 44 women candidates from Oakland County invited.

Baptism Marks A First Here

The baptism of two little cousins at Northville First Presbyterian Church October 11 was a "first" in the new sanctuary. Both ministers officiated.

Kenneth David Gross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gross, 360 Eaton, born July 16, 1970, was baptized by the Reverend Timothy Johnson, assistant minister, while his cousin, Thomas Alan Gross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gross of Williamston, Michigan, born March 23, 1970, was baptized by the Reverend Lloyd Brasure.

Paternal grandparents of the babies are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Gross, 625 Novi Street. Kenneth's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tremor, 22025 Napier Road, while Thomas also is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Thomson, 974 Grace.

BARBARA ANN TROMBLEY Engagements

The engagement of Barbara Ann Trombley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Trombley, 6875 Napier Road, to Herbert William Harbin III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Harbin, Jr., 43801 Grand River, Novi, was announced by her parents at a dinner party for both families.

Both the bride-elect and her fiancé are Northville High School graduates, Class of 1967. She also was graduated from Oakland Community College in 1969 and now is employed at National Bank of Detroit's Plymouth office.

Her fiancé now is attending Oakland Community College, studying law enforcement. He also is employed by Oakland University as a police officer.

A January 16, 1971, wedding date is set.

Society to Hear Shaker Talk

An illustrated slide-lecture on "The American Shakers" is to be given by Northville resident Marie Bonamici at the October meeting of the Northville Historical Society at 8 p.m. today in the Scout-Recreation building.

Mrs. Bonamici, who is president of the Three Cities Art Club, secretary of the historical society and owner of the Sunflower Shop (previously the Hartley-Powers Gallery) at 116 East Main Street, also is a Shaker collector.

She is to illustrate her talk with items from her personal collection from her home at 740 Fairbrook. Included will be the distinctive Shaker wooden boxes, a chair and footrest. The public is invited.

Mrs. Bonamici relates that the American Shakers were a communal religious sect, very prominent in the New England states during the early 1800's.

"Through devotion to task and their cooperative efforts, they became excellent craftsmen, farmers and inventors," Mrs. Bonamici explains, pointing out that there only are two colonies today where Shakers still live, one in New Hampshire and one in Maine.

Mrs. Bonamici, who moved here with her husband, Roland, from Plymouth, has done extensive research on the Shakers. She has interviewed them and taken slides in their colonies and in museums. These will be used in her presentation.

The artist-craftsman also has been active in music areas for many years. She has served as accompanist for music classes in Arbor and South Redford and for dance classes at Eastern Michigan University. A former church organist and piano teacher, she also collects folklore songs and is a member of the Detroit Folklore Society. She has exhibited paintings in various judged shows throughout the state as well as in Woodstock, New York. She is a member of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters, the Ann Arbor Art Association and the Lansing Community Art Gallery.

She is to feature jewelry and leather accessories at the booth she has taken for the Tivoli Fair of the historical society November 14 at Northville Presbyterian Church.

BIRTHS

A daughter, Melissa Anne, was born October 4 at St. Mary Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lundstedt of Plymouth. The baby, the Lundstedts' first child, weighed seven pounds, twelve ounces. Mrs. Lundstedt is the former Julie Gazlay.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gazlay, 221 South Rogers, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lundstedt of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald S. Mitchell, 23740 Meadowbrook Road, Novi, announce the birth of a son, Matthew Craig, October 6 at New Grace Hospital, Detroit. His birth weight was six pounds, fourteen ounces.

He joins a two-year-old brother, Adam Scott, at home. Grandparents are Mrs. Blanche H. Cummins of Commerce Lake and Mrs. Howard S. Mitchell of Livonia.

RED-APPLE TREATS—Helping make the candied red apples that are a popular "trick-or-treat" goodie at the Jan Mueller home every Halloween are Eric Mueller, left, who will be seven years old on Devil's Night, October 30, and his younger brother, Andrew, 5. Mrs. Mueller began making the apple treats when the family moved to their Fonner Road home and neighborhood youngsters so anticipate them that she "can't quit."

Residents Share Recipes

Goblins Favor Homemade Treats

Halloween treats for small fry who'll be ringing doorbells a week from Saturday are "most special" if they're homemade. That's the report from area residents who customarily make their treats and who already are receiving requests to continue offering the candied apples, popcorn balls or donuts.

Since the number of young beggars varies from one or two reported by most apartment dwellers to two-to-three hundred in large subdivisions where there are sidewalks, serving homemade goodies can be an economy.

Young spacemen, witches and ballerinas every year find homemade treats at the Northville homes of two adjacent neighbors on Fonner Road.

Mrs. Warner Krause and her teen-age daughter, Mary, offer "quickie" hot donuts — to eat right from the plate, or in a plastic bag to tote. Next door Mrs. Jan C. Mueller continues the tradition of making delicious red candied apples — a tradition begun when the young family moved to the neighborhood.

"The youngsters won't let me stop," Mrs. Mueller says, as she admits candied apples take preparation. Youngsters — her own Andrew and Eric as well as their friends — help wash and stem the apples each year, checking well in advance to be sure she will make them again. The little donuts served by Mrs. Krause, however, are an easy and inexpensive treat, costing about a penny each.

QUICKIE DONUTS

RED CANDIED APPLES

2 C. sugar
½ C. white corn syrup
½ C. water
1/8 tsp. oil of clove or cinnamon
Red food coloring
Jonathan apples, washed with stems removed

The ingredients are boiled until the syrup reaches the "hard crack" stage — 300 degrees. Mrs. Mueller says a candy thermometer is a "must" as most cooks otherwise don't get the mixture hot enough. She prefers using Jonathan apples as they are firm and don't become mushy when coated. They are dipped with stick inserted, swirled and placed on metal trays or foil squares (not wax paper as it sticks).

POPCORN UGLIES

½ C. Mazola corn oil
½ C. popcorn
2/3 C. Karo light or dark syrup
2/3 C. sugar
½ tsp. salt

Heat Mazola corn oil in large heavy pan over medium heat. Add popcorn; partially cover and shake frequently until popping stops. Then boil corn syrup, sugar and salt together two minutes, stirring constantly. Gradually pour over popped corn, toss until coated. Grease hands and shape into balls and insert wooden sticks. Makes 6-8 popcorn balls.

To decorate: Dip pieces of candy corn, candy wafers, chocolate chips and licorice laces in corn syrup and apply to popcorn balls. Others may be decorated by pouring syrup thinly over popcorn ball and sprinkling with chocolate shot, colored sugar or cocoa nut.

The good smell of home baked treats, always draws the neighborhood youngsters to the home of Mrs. Beryl Pettengill of New Hudson. Especially on Halloween do the neighbor kids stop in for a visit with "Aunt Beryl" and to take home a bag of her goodies.

One of Mrs. Pettengill's favorite Halloween recipes follows:

BAKED APPLE DOUGHNUTS

1½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. ground nutmeg
½ cup sugar

"There's a lot of hope for Lake Erie," Powers told a questioner, "it's not dead or beyond repair if steps are taken now."

A help in the fight against industrial pollution is more stringent laws, he stated, pointing out that fines are being changed to $1,000 a day instead of the former $100 — which almost made it worth while to pollute and pay.

He traced the development of the problem to its present degree from post-World War II population explosion and the practice of industry traditionally to buy on large bodies of water.

His department is "pushing" for secondary treatment of sewage water as primary treatment skims large pollution off the top and bottom, getting only little more than half. Powers also suggested that in the future there will be complete recycling of water, as now is being done in areas of Texas where there is an acute shortage.

Powers concluded by showing a department film, "The Gifts," narrated by Lorne Green with Skitch Henderson's background music. It dramatically showed the pollution of foaming detergents everywhere; the iron in the Detroit River; and the blood of Chicago slaughterhouses.

"Every major river in the country is polluted, and every major American city is contributing to pollution," it pointed out as it showed "water that looks clean may be only a beguiling illusion."

"Our genius for production mocks us," Green says as the film cited how every species of life is threatened by poisons.

It urged: "Let our age restore our environment and repay our debt to nature by looking less to quantity, more to the quality of our lives." Powers said the film is available to all interested groups. He was introduced by Mrs. George Weiss, program chairman of the day, who has information about the film.

Speaker Urges Housewives To Check Pollution Charts

Headway is being made on two fronts in the fight against pollution — this was the cautiously optimistic opinion of Ross Powers, aquatic biologist with the United States Department of the Interior, who spoke Friday to Northville Woman's Club.

One is an activated public opinion, he said, as he pointed out that until two years ago the public was "sympathetic but apathetic." Now the housewife is willing to check charts to buy low-phosphate detergents and to bring weight against industrial pollution.

Powers pointed out that government departments also now are beginning to get mechanical facilities to start slowing down pollution. He illustrated the importance of these facilities in relation to the detection of mercury in Michigan lakes and rivers.

"People," he said, "were critical and wondered why the Grosse Ile station hadn't been aware of this pollution, but we were limited in the number of samples we could send to the two places in the country with equipment to check traced and heavy metals." Now, he added, Grosse Ile is getting $12,000 of equipment to do this testing.

Powers, who is in charge of field operations at the Lake Huron basin station, is a graduate of Central Michigan University, and, formerly worked the government office in Chicago on the Missouri River basin pollution problem.

The Grosse Ile station's work, he explained, mostly is surveillance, but Northville Woman's Club Speaker Ross Powers, aquatic biologist from the U.S. Department of the Interior Grosse Ile Station, last week suggested every housewife clip and refer to such a chart when buying household detergents.

Forget The Score! It Was Still A Great Homecoming

League-leading Andover's booming victory over the Mustangs (48-7, See Page 17-A) failed to dampen the colorful Northville homecoming festivities here Friday night.

The traditional pageant began with a pancake supper sponsored by the Presbyterian Men's Club that drew a large crowd of happy eaters like 10-year-old Bruce Ludwig (bottom left), whose dexterity is admired by Tim Meyer, and ended with some spirited team support, despite the loss, by Northville cheerleaders (bottom right).

Performing during halftime festivities - and even earlier during the homecoming parade through town (above) - was the high school's marching band.

The cheers were loudest among sophomores when it was announced that their class float, replica of a still (below), was given first place. The seniors took second place with the impressive float at the left. In third was the junior class, followed by the freshmen's entry.

Angry Council Denies License for Dance Hall

VANDALISM — "I can't keep a window in this place," says Gabriel Glantz of the Franchise Exhibition Corporation who recently applied for a license to operate a dance hall on the grounds of the old Walled Lake Park. The license was denied Monday by council who labeled the buildings "hazardous firetraps".

Well Bid OK'd But Stirs Study

By a split vote the Novi City Council accepted Monday night a bid from Ray D. Harrison for drilling of a well at the city's new DPW garage even though the bid was not accompanied by a 10-percent deposit required by city ordinance.

Councilman Raymond Evans justified the action by noting that the original bid advertisement notice of the 10-percent requirement had been omitted.

"When he was informed of the requirement," said Evans, "Harrison sent in his check. We can't expect a bidder to comply with something he doesn't know about."

Other councilmen disagreed. "Are you going to comply with the ordinance, or not?" asked Denis Berry. "We did it (refused to accept bids not accompanied by the specified deposit) before in the case of the police cars."

In the action referred to (Novi News 10/8/70) council opened but failed to act on two bids received on a new police car. At the time Mayor Joseph Crupi noted that approximately 30 notices had been sent out and City Clerk Mabel Ash reported she had received a phone call complaining of the deposit requirement.

According to Councilman Donald

Young, there was a $75 difference in equipment and 50-cents per foot difference in drilling costs between the Harrison bid and the lowest one submitted with deposit.

Young agreed with Evans: "After they were informed (the delinquent bidders) they all submitted a check."

A proposal to rescind the ordinance calling for the 10-percent deposit failed.

Both votes were so close, however, 4-3 to support the deposit ordinance and 5-2 to take the Harrison bid, that Crupi ordered Young to select one councilman and determine what types of bids should require the deposit fee.

Council accepted a bid from the Slasor Heating and Cooling Company in the amount of $3,575 for a heating system in the DPW garage.

City Manager Dallas Zonkers revealed contrary to what had been previously reported, that it was not a major oil company that accidentally dumped oil into the Bassett drain, thus contaminating it, but in fact was an unknown individual who intentionally dumped the oil in 1969. According to Zonkers, the individual was never apprehended and all attempts to identify him have proved fruitless.

As a result of irregularities reported by councilmen during their inspection of the old Walled Lake Park property, a temporary license granting permission to the owner, Gabriel Glantz, to operate an exhibit and dance hall was unanimously denied Monday night.

An argument between councilmen and Glantz's lawyer, Patrick Keating, concerned the legitimacy of certain claims proceeded the denial.

In the original petition, the council was informed that all buildings on the property had been "closed up in accordance with city regulations."

At the time Councilman Edwin Presnell complained that such was not the case. Presnell said he had inspected the premises and found several buildings to be open. At his urging, the matter was put off until the council could conduct personal inspections of the Glantz property.

Councilman Louie Campbell Monday night reported that upon his inspection he had found the tunnel, (beneath East Lake Drive from the dance hall property to the bath house abutting Walled Lake) to be open and dangerous, that the bath house itself was caving in, that the wiring in the buildings in question was faulty, and that a large walk-in freezer stood open, a hazard to anyone who might become locked inside.

"I look at these buildings," said Campbell, "and I see hazardous fire traps."

Other councilmen agreed.

"With the condition of those buildings," said Raymond Evans, "I feel I should resign from the council if I were to vote in favor of even a temporary license...I think we should get an answer from either Mr. Bailey or Mr. Ackley as to why these premises were cleared."

Bailey and Ackley are the city's building and electrical inspectors.

"I don't like being lied to," said Councilman Denis Berry, "and that seems to be what's happened."

In response to Berry's accusation, Keating charged that the councilmen had already made up their minds concerning the property and possibly the reason the site was cleared and yet looked so bad to councilmen was that "Novi's inspectors know what they are doing and the council does not."

Keating charged that the council was made up of "small town phones," and said he would go into federal court and compel the city to give him a license.

Contacted Tuesday morning, Glantz pointed out that there was no unlocked door on the premises, that he suffered from repeated vandalism, (i.e. several broken windows,) and that: "it's a simple fact that the buildings have been cleared by the city inspectors."

Glantz said that he did not know about the walk-in freezer when Campbell mentioned it, but that he has since ordered its door removed.

According to Bailey, approval hinged on "whether or not all buildings on the property were maintained in such a way as to prevent illegal entry."

"The main dance hall in which all doors were locked and windows intact was the only one involved in the original petition and so was the one we were primarily concerned with," Bailey added.

"At the time of the petition, the building was cleared by electrical inspections. However, Glantz added some wiring since that time and it was not up to code. It's being inspected presently," Bailey concluded.

Keating said late Tuesday afternoon that he was prepared to bring suit against the city ordering that Glantz's license be granted.

"When the suit is prepared, it will probably include an amount of damages also," Keating asserted.

Elmer Balko Tapped Postal Switch Revealed Here

Elmer A. Balko, a 28-year postal veteran, who was formerly assistant post master in Northville, has taken over duties as officer in charge of the Novi Post Office.

Balko's term became effective Saturday. He replaces William Rackov, who still serves at the Novi branch. No reason for Rackov's removal from the post was disclosed.

Balko is being replaced temporarily in the Northville Post office by William Tesch, a long time career employee of the postal service.

Balko was detailed from the Northville branch by the regional postal director and serves at the pleasure of that office. He could be replaced at any time and transferred either back to Northville or to another department, Balko said.

Asked if he would recommend any changes, Balko criticized the layout of the Novi branch.

"In an office like this," he said, "there's not much you can do. It's not designed to be a post office. When you're in the back you have no control over the front — you can't even see it."

Balko praised his Novi employees, saying they are efficient and that the office is running smoothly.

The new officer in charge is married, has four children, and lives in Northville at 744 Horton.

Police Search For 'Doberman'

A Paragon Steel employee faces a series of anti-rabies shots unless the dog that bit him Friday about 4 p.m. is found.

According to a spokesman for Paragon, the man, Clarence Brown, was bitten on the wrist by a dog described as "looking like a Doberman" while he was in the drive-in restaurant parking lot at the corner of Novi Road and Grand River.

The wound required six stitches to close.

Anyone knowing of the whereabouts of this dog is asked to call Novi police.

Willard C. Wixom

Pioneer Gave City His Name

EDITOR'S NOTE — Following is a brief history of the early years of Wixom, which currently is celebrating its 100th birthday. Some of Wixom's later years will be recalled by oldtimers in the nostalgic railroad picture below and in other pictures on Page 15-A.

Were one to take "extra century bets" based on the then and now of Wixom's location, they'd lose their shirts.

Instead of where the center of town now stands, at Wixom Road and Pontiac Trail, a betting pioneer might have chosen either of the booming areas of 100 years ago — Wixom Road at Grand River or Wixom Road at Potter.

There are several important reasons why Wixom's story is a "tale of two cities," and for full appreciation, one has to dig.

Because the earliest settlers of the Wixom area were by choice situated near the growing communities of Walled Lake, Commerce, Novi and Northville, Wixom did not gain any individuality until the latter part of the 19th century.

Nevertheless, the beginning of Wixom, as it is now, came in 1830 when Lewis Norton hiked from Detroit to the fertile lands northwest of Novi.

Norton, a rugged individual by today's standards, cleared the land and built Wixom's first log cabin on what is now Pontiac Trail.

Later Willard C. Wixom, after whom the community was named, purchased the Norton homestead and settled down on it.

As other settlers moved into the vicinity over the years, the few roads or trails between Commerce Township, Novi, and Northville became familiar routes for farmers as they hauled their grain to the mills.

Alonze Sibley, the second pioneer of the Wixom area, settled at the northeast corner of Wixom and Maple roads opposite the present Wixom cemetery.

Sibley hired a team and set about clearing five acres of land, and building a shanty, to house himself. His holdings eventually stretched south to what was then the Grand River Trail and to be sure he had privacy from his neighbors, Sibley built a fence entirely around it, actually crossing Grand River at one point.

Area Indians sharply disapproved of this procedure and soon the fence was torn down.

In the years that followed a community, complete with post office, sprang up around Sibley's property, while another one blossomed near the corner of Wixom Road and the Detroit-Howell plank road (Grand River)

N. G. Pinney established a large foundry near the corner now occupied by the Lincoln Plant. Pinney later sold the business to Daniel Smoke and C. P. Larcum. Smoke soon sold out to Larcum and moved to Holly where he established a similar business.

About this time most settlers believed the corner would become a large village. However, the post office was abandoned after several years.

But the real blow to the dreams of a community at this corner and the one at Potter road was the establishment of the Flint and Pere Marquette railroad which sliced diagonally across the territory.

Because the heavy foundry business was complemented by rail transportation, Larcum moved his business north to the railroad.

Other business sprang up in the vicinity of the tracks, a general store and post office operated by A. W. Arms; a jewelry store, a large wheat and plaster warehouse, and lumber yard, kept by Wixom and Sibley; Larcum's foundry and machine shop; a cheese factory; several blacksmith shops, depot, telegraph, and express offices.

Wixom's residents, who once traveled to the nearby communities with their farm products could boast in 1876 that close to 35,000 bushels of wheat and 40,000 pounds of wool were shipped from Wixom.

Frugal property owners had great vision and optimism in donating lots for manufacturing purposes, the depot site, and other enterprises.

WIRE FORMS — Students in Mrs. Shirley Talmadge's sixth grade art class molded wire into action forms they sketched from poses of classmates. Cynthia Batt and Mrs. Talmadge look over some of the sculpture the students made. The figures are on display in the Board of Education lobby through October and in November will be on display at the Art Education building at Wayne State University.

Sunshine Appears With Teachers Aid

They can't make the sun shine, but they can lift the clouds so the sun can shine through.

That's the job the Northville Public School's three reading specialists, Ann Chizmar, Connie Cylkowski and Mildred Harder, do along with the teaching staff of each of the elementary buildings.

"The focus of Northville's reading program has shifted from one of solely remediation to one of prevention as well," Miss Florence Panattoni, curriculum coordinator, said. "Strong emphasis is placed on kindergarten through third grades," she commented.

The reading specialists not only serve the children with specific reading problems calling for remediation, Miss Panattoni noted, but also assist the teachers in early diagnosis of reading problems.

Reading teachers are involved in testing children in order to place them in materials appropriate to their reading level, giving classroom demonstrations so teachers may view their classes in action and become aware of reading techniques, prescribing materials to meet individual needs or reinforce particular skills and assisting with low level reading groups.

Although the specialists say they try not to remove a child from the classroom, in some cases where a child functions more efficiently in a different atmosphere, the child is moved to a special reading room filled with high interest — low vocabulary materials.

All types of materials are used — phonetics, sight word, listening posts, tape recorders, language masters, tachistoscopes, film strips and even games.

Feedback goes to the classroom teacher along with assistance to provide classroom materials with which the child can cope successfully.

"Recognizing that not all children nor all teachers respond equally to the same reading programs," Miss Panattoni explained, "a multi approach is used."

The backbone of the program is the basal reading program complimented by several other series. One of the methods used is the language experience approach. As the student has a new experience, he relates his thoughts to the teacher who prints what he says and he learns to read his own words.

Individualized reading programs to encourage the slow reader, strengthen the average reader or challenge the fast reader are also a part of the program, Miss Panattoni said.

Series used in Northville include Science Research Association, Scholastic Book Series, Sulhvan Reading Program, Mott Program, Reader's Digest Skill Builders and trade books, "all of which allow each child to begin at his own reading level and work up as he strengthens his skills and develops a sense of accomplishment," she said.

"In fact, every educationally — sound approach within the training and experience of the reading service personnel and the staff is used to help the children of Northville's schools learn how to read and how to enjoy the experiences gained through reading," Miss Panattoni said.

Montessori Lecture Set

A public lecture-demonstration on Montessori pre-school education will be presented Sunday at 3 p.m. in the First Methodist Church of Northville, Dr. Willis B. Hunting announced this week.

Dr. Hunting is the educational consultant and supervising director of the proposed new Montessori school to be established in the Livonia-Plymouth-Northville area.

Robert Charette, director of the Windsor, Canada, Montessori school, will speak on "special advantages of Montessori pre-school education to children, families and society," Dr. Hunting said.

Montessori materials will be on display and demonstrated, followed by a question and answer period with audience participation.

The meeting is open to all parents, educators, students in education and retired teachers in the area.

Dr. Hunting said a parent study group has been formed and is open to all interested persons in the area. For further information, Dr. Hunting may be contacted at 42865 Seven Mile Road, Northville, 48167.

Auction Signals Maybury's End

"The auctioneer, who had final say, found bids were not substantial enough on that basis; so he shifted to selling in larger quantities." Thus, beds sold in lots of 100 for 10 cents each.

The K & L office said the sale had been advertised for four Sundays prior to October 13 in the auction section of a Detroit newspaper.

Few local residents, however, seem to have known about it, and The Northville Record, had no notification. City Manager Frank Ollendorff said he had learned that the contents were to be auctioned prior to demolition at a meeting with Detroit officials a couple of months ago, but had not known the specific date. The demolition was slated if no purchaser could be found.

"It would have taken days to sell in smaller quantities," Chambers asserted as he reported the preliminary gross figure of the sale at $17,800. From this, he said, the auction firm will receive costs and five percent, taking the total down to about $13,000.

The handful of local residents attending said that surgical supply houses apparently were aware of the sale as their business trucks were on the grounds. Some got such bargains as six wheel chairs for a total of $5. Other lots contained stainless steel sinks and fountains, refrigerators, freezers, cooking pots and even the wooden chopping block from the kitchen.

More than 600 item lots were listed in the auction inventory. Some, such as baby cribs, still were unused in cartons. Even the institution's barber chair went at auction — for $3.

NORTHVILLE DESERVES LEADERSHIP!

"I believe that in order to be an effective leader one must be willing to work harder and longer than the next man... to go that extra mile. If the leader demonstrates his willingness to work hard and to work with all the people, then others just naturally co-operate a little better. He must also be responsive to the needs of the people he is leading."

Future Gas Supply Points to Gulf Area

Consumers Power Company's greatest potential for an increased gas supply in terms of volume and time, lies with increased production in the Gulf of Mexico offshore Louisiana, and Texas, the Company's senior vice president, John B. Simpson has told the Michigan Public Service Commission.

"Despite an apparent easing in the Federal Power Commissions pricing policy for gas producers and our own efforts to acquiring more gas" Simpson said, "we do not foresee a significant increase in gas supply for a period of three to five years in the future."

The Public Service Commission called the public hearing on Consumers Power Company's application to impose restrictions on the sale of natural gas and to not accept new customers beyond those to whom commitments for service in 1970 and 1971 already have been made.

An "extremedous" increase in demand for gas by commercial and industrial customers earlier this year was triggered in large part by the enforcement of air pollution regulations in the state, he said. "For example, in six months this year, the company committed for about 30 billion additional cubic feet of gas, which is twice the annual increase in requirements of industrial and commercial customers."

"Consumers Power Company has contracts with Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company for the delivery through a "Consumers" subsidiary of 92,500,000 MCF on an annual basis. The contract with Trunkline Gas Company provides for the delivery of 255,500,000 MCF on an annual basis. A letter agreement with Trunkline provides for increased deliveries of 50,000 MCF a day and 25,000 MCF a day commencing November 1, 1971 and November 1, 1972. "But," said Simpson, "we have been advised that Trunkline will be unable to obtain a gas supply to support these deliveries."

"The gas supply is sufficient to meet the requirements of existing customers at their present levels of use, the company statement said.

Simpson reported that without restrictions the requirements of customers on the company's system at the end of 1971 would be about 390 billion cubic feet, about 20 billion cubic feet over its expected supply at that time.

Expressing regrets that it is necessary to impose restrictions in its service area, Simpson said the company has vigorously sought an additional supply. He listed lengthy negotiations with Trunkline Gas Company and Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, the company's major gas suppliers, and with other interstate pipeline companies.

The company sought an increased supply from Canadian sources and reviewed the possibility of obtaining gas from the North Slope in Alaska. Also studied was the feasibility of obtaining a supply from liquified natural gas and from coal synthesis, he said. "While some of these sources present an interesting potential for increased gas supply in Michigan in future years, our studies revealed that none of them could be relied upon as an additional source of gas supply during the near term," Simpson reported.

For some time now, he said, there has existed in the United States a shortage in the supply because the exploration for and development of new gas reserves have failed to keep pace with the increasing market requirements for natural gas. Simpson blamed this condition on the pricing policy promulgated by the Federal Power Commission which, he said, discouraged the investment of capital for exploration. Capital went elsewhere where it could earn an adequate return for the risks involved.

In an attempt to obtain an additional gas supply as soon as possible, the company, through its subsidiary, Northern Michigan Exploration Company, has undertaken a multi-million dollar gas exploration program in Southern Louisiana and in other major gas producing areas, the statement said.

Displays Planned

LWV Observes UN Week

United Nations Week, October 24-31, marks the 25th anniversary of the founding of the international organization which was founded during the closing days of World War II.

Locally, several observances have been planned to highlight the accomplishment and goals of the UN and its 20 affiliated agencies, including the World Health Organization, International Atomic Energy Agency and United Nations Children's Fund.

Coordinated by Mrs. Harry Odle, foreign policy chairman for the Northville-Plymouth League of Women Voters, UN Week will be the theme for displays at both the Northville Public Library and Manufacturers National Bank. Flags of all the 126 member countries will be included in the displays, along with posters and free pamphlets entitled "The United Nations after 25 Years." A selection of resource material on the UN will be included with the library display.

In addition, the UN Club at Northville High School is planning a special observance next week.

Among the UN accomplishments which will be stressed during the anniversary celebration are its efforts toward improving world health and the needs of underdeveloped nations. UN encouragement of decolonization and self government for territories throughout the world, and its arms control and disarmament programs will also be highlighted.

Some of the more significant achievements of the UN according to Mrs. Odle, are:

- Eradication of small pox and malaria from over half the world was realized through the work of the UN World Health Organization.

- Technological advances in exploring ocean depths have led to recent UN research projects and heightened interest in preserving the deep sea bed for peaceful purposes and the development of its resources to benefit all nations.

- Over 60 colonial territories, with a population exceeding one billion, have become sovereign nations since 1945, facilitated by UN guidance and setting of goals and standards to accelerate self-government.

- The UN Children's Fund (UNICEF) has helped improve lives of 55 million children and mothers in 115 countries, vaccinating 283 million children against TB, training 93,000 teachers and supervisors, and providing over 40 percent of relief supplies to Nigeria.

- UN Educational, Social and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) has sponsored a world-wide campaign against illiteracy, a two-year project in Africa which increased school enrollment by 39 percent, and the preservation of historic monuments throughout the world.

Concert to Feature Trumpet Soloist

Francesco DiBlasi, assistant conductor of the Buffalo, New York, Philharmonic Orchestra, will perform a trumpet solo in concert with the Northville High School Wind Ensemble on Wednesday, October 27, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

DiBlasi, who studied at the Detroit Institute of Musical Art, Juillard and L'Ecole de Pierre Monteux, will play "A Dramatic Essay," a selection for solo trumpet and band by Clifton Williams.

The Wind Ensemble, a new group at Northville High, consists of 50 students who have been selected for membership by audition.

Among other numbers to be performed at the concert are "Juarez" by Rafael Mendez, "The Fantastics" by Harvey Schmidt, "L'Arlesienne" by Georges Bizet, "Dance Styrienne" by Claude Debussy and "Swineherd's Dance" by Bela Bartok.

DiBlasi, a resident of Livonia, has conducted or performed in more than 250 concerts during the past year.

A conductor of the Michigan Opera Company for five years, he was the first to present grand opera in Ford Auditorium.

DiBlasi has been assistant first trumpet with the Detroit Symphony for eight years and was with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo for three years. He has also played in the American Youth Orchestra, Radio City Music Hall, New York Opera, American Symphony Orchestra and the Metropolitan Opera.

Among the groups he has conducted are the Detroit Little Symphony, Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, Pontiac Symphony Orchestra and the summer festival at Metropolitan Beach.

He has made guest appearances with American and European groups.

Wednesday's concert is the first of four to be given by the Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Robert Williams. Donations will be accepted at the door.

Seek Faculty Seats On College Council

Two major items of consideration at the Schoolcraft College Council meeting on Thursday, were the proposed dissolution of the publication board, and how to bring about faculty representation to the Council.

In regard to the publications board, its proposed dissolution was presented by the Student Senate. Basis for the proposal was that the policies governing the board's function are ambiguous and its duties are generally not being discharged.

A report on the activities and direction of the publications board was presented by its Chairman Arthur Lindenberg. Following his response to questions raised by the Student Senate, he concluded that he had no specific recommendation for either continuing or discontinuing the board.

After considerable discussion by both college council members and others present, and one vote which failed, the following motion was adopted:

"The Student Senate along with one administrator and one faculty member will function as an interim publications board until such time as the board can be reactivated to function effectively."

The second item of concern to the council, although one which was not afforded as much time as the publications board question, was that of obtaining faculty representation on the council.

Dr. Bradner presented two written communications on this subject. The first was a chronological review of "efforts to organize a College Council."

The second item presented by the president, in this regard, is his letter of October 14 to Stuart Bloom, president of the Faculty Forum. In it he expresses regret that the faculty has not seen fit to participate in the council and he asks that if the council is not a means for closing the "communications gap" what actions might the President or the faculty take to close the "gap"?

Florida Presbytery Appoints Rev. Taxis

The Reverend John O. Taxis, pastor of Fort Lauderdale's Sunset Presbyterian Church and former pastor of the Northville Presbyterian Church, recently was elected unanimously the chief authenticating officer of the South Florida Presbytery.

Selection of Mr. Taxis follows a notable success last year in closing out his term as chief executive in a resolution accepting the thrust of the "Black Manifesto" needs with a call for minority aid, while rejecting complete guilt and indemnity demands.

As continuing officer, privy to the council, in his new assignment, Mr. Taxis brings to the post a wide experience in critical committee work in Christian education, church financing, mission interpretation and ministerial relations.

Mr. Taxis sees more effective church administration is needed in two serious problem areas of churches.

"Growth is needed in the fields of evangelism to spread the teachings of Jesus Christ reflected in our conduct of living as well as to improve the membership; a financial support, through dedicated stewardship, to offset this downhill strength of the church," Mr. Taxis said.

"Church groups are moving but changes in society are so rapid that quick reaction is needed to speed solutions to keep pace with needs."

Mr. Taxis pledged the group to initiate new directions opening up new opportunities for better human relations, new church development, meeting of community challenges and satisfaction of majority and minority needs.

Receiving the "Outstanding Football Official" award by the Greater Fort Lauderdale Touchdown Club, recognizing his continuing contribution in the development of the youth through his active interests in sports, the former Northville pastor holds a 10-year membership in the Broward County Officials Association and serves as commissioner for the Fort Lauderdale Little League.

The "Minister of the Year" award received by him in 1968 bears testimony to his achievement in leadership among his colleagues.

He is also close to youth and their problems having been chosen baccalaureate speaker at American University in Washington, D.C. and Fort Lauderdale High School graduating class, besides the many speaking assignments before youth clubs.

A native of Pennsylvania, where his brother, Alfred, is President Judge of Common Pleas Court (Norristown, Pa.), Mr. Taxis has served ministries in Washington, D.C., Virginia and New Jersey as well as Michigan. Currently, he is serving as director of Broward County Gii Scouts, the American Red Cross, Citizens Advisory Committee to Fort Lauderdale University.

Split Over Parochiaid Proposal

Kadish...

Michigan Constitution are needed: Number one, we have to do away with the state equalization and provide legislation for a flat rate millage based on state-wide assessment practices...I think if this were done some of the outstate townships and counties would probably put a few more dollars into the state coffers and it would give property tax relief to people in this area particularly. Millage certainly is no longer the way to finance schools. The present property tax methods are tremendously regressive.

"I would also suggest amending the Constitution to provide for a truly graduated income tax — or allow for one anyway — a tax based on the ability to pay."

While he strongly opposes parochiaid, he nevertheless opposes Proposal C that will appear on the November ballot because of its "built-in dangers" that, in his opinion, would disallow many of the auxiliary services.

Since the proposal specifically allows the continuation of bussing, he concludes that those services not specifically mentioned are disallowed.

Kadish is an advocate of abortion reform. "I probably have been the one candidate in this area who has spoken out in favor of actual repeal of abortion laws. While I am personally opposed to abortion, I don't feel I or any other politician can impose his will on anybody else...While we as individuals approve or disapprove of abortion...it nevertheless is happening and will continue to happen...and I would hope that where an abortion is going to take place that it be performed by a qualified physician under the most modern medical techniques."

The Democratic candidate admits embarrassment by the state Democratic convention's position on the amnesty plank. "The whole thing was ill-advised, there's no question about that. I've always been an outspoken opponent of the war in Vietnam. However, we are there and we've got boys dying there and I don't think this is the time for anything like that (amnesty)."

Continuing, he said: "We do have to realize, however, that there are probably something like 40,000 kids that are either out of the country or in jail or whatever. I don't think anybody agrees with law-breaking or draft dodging. But these are young men that, after the war, should be allowed to come back to this country and rather than being put into jail should be put into some service that will do some good for this country."

Addressing himself to the campus violence, Kadish says there "is absolutely no excuse for violence...for destruction of property or attacks on other people. What can we do about it? I can't say that I've got the answer. But I would suggest that perhaps if we were more readily prepared to open the lines of communication from the administration and faculty down to students and back up from students to faculty and administration we would be able to solve a lot of the problems before unrest and violence occur."

In this regard, he cites Schoolcraft Community College as an example. There, he notes, students asked for an advisory seat on the college board of trustees. "Nobody on the board of trustees indicated one way or the other whether they were for or against it. They listened to everybody (nobody at the meeting spoke against it) and then proceeded to turn down the request of the students. Students then, and very responsibly I believe, set up a petition drive and within 48 hours had many hundreds of signatures supporting this request. They went back to the board and were again turned down."

"Now here was an area where the board of trustees made a very serious mistake. Here was an opportunity for the administration and the board to hear from the student body representative what was going on; here was an opportunity for them to more fully understand the student body. And just as important, here was an opportunity for the student body to understand the thinking of the administration and the trustees. Now we haven't had any violence at Schoolcraft...we've had a very responsible group of students...but I wouldn't say there isn't any unrest. They are very unhappy and they are displeased that their responsible request was denied."

By closing this line of communication, charges Kadish, the college trustees ignored a golden opportunity to avoid the kinds of unrest and violence that have taken place elsewhere.

"I think if nothing else this (lines of communication) will help the whole situation psychologically. I'm not saying that just because students request this that automatically it ought to be accepted. This is certainly not the case. But at least, psychologically, if they were listened to with an open ear and with some understanding — and, frankly, in the other direction, that the board and administration is listened to with an open ear and some understanding — it would provide for a much better relationship all the way around."

Kadish opposes economic sanctions against colleges and universities as a means of eradicating violence. "A very small percentage of students are engaged in violence and to punish the 98 or 99-percent of the students who are seriously trying to get an education would not at all be a good idea."

Here are some of his positions on other issues:

Pollution — He would fight legislation prohibiting throw-away bottles and cans in Michigan, curtail and regulate detergents, and, above all, place pressure on the executive branch to enforce these and other anti-pollution laws.

Mental health — Here, probably, is where the legislature has failed the most. He would fight for more economic support mental health programs, particularly for those that place emphasis on small, neighborhood type facilities for out-patient care.

The job — Kadish looks at the Senate job as a full-time one, and, "unlike Senator Kuhn", will maintain close relationship with his constituents. He plans to open a district office, "at my expense", and hold regular office hours.

18-year-old vote — He supports it but not because of the "old enough to fight for his country — old enough to vote" argument. He supports it because students today are a good deal more mature and politically sophisticated. The so-called hippies, law-breakers, he says, offer no threat to the voting privilege because they "probably wouldn't vote anyway."

Pursell...

constitutional interpretation. He believes, of course, that it is unconstitutional.

Pursell says he is not uncomfortable in his position in view of the Republican governor's support of parochiaid, pointing out that there is plenty of room within the party for divergent views.

Should parochiaid be ruled constitutional, the state will be forced into a position of raising additional revenues to finance it.

If parochiaid is ruled constitutional and the legislature deems it is appropriate to fund other school systems then, under the present tax structure, there simply would be insufficient funds to finance it, he says.

"The only alternative we would have would be to increase taxes as I see it now. There's no opportunity to cut out the mental health program or our support for law enforcement and public education. We can't reduce our present budget that great to compensate for that major expenditure."

Governmental experience together with a record that emphasizes "performance not rhetoric", asserts Pursell, are those areas in which he feels he is better qualified than his Democratic opponent.

Furthermore, "for the first time in Michigan history presently the Republicans control the Senate and the Democrats control the House and I think it is important from a leadership standpoint that if we (GOP) control the Senate again, and I believe we will, I'll have the opportunity to serve with the majority in accomplishing those programs that are necessary for Michigan," he adds.

The major issues of the campaign which challenge the legislature in general and the senatorial candidate in particular, says Pursell, are taxation, education, pollution, drug abuse and crime.

"All of them," says Pursell, "will require a positive attitude (on part of the winning candidate) that these problems can be solved."

"Secondly, I would like to see a much closer relationship between local governmental and school bodies and the state government. Take drug abuse, for example. There is money already earmarked under the Sunday liquor law that's been put away in a fund that hasn't even been allocated to Oakland or Wayne county sources. I think local agencies aren't aware of that. So I see a state senator as playing a real positive roll in relating locally to those kinds of programs."

Unlike his political opponent, Pursell opposes graduated income tax, pointing out that the citizens of the state have already spoken out 2-1 in opposition to it. He supports a reduction of property taxes and restructuring and reallocation of the present flat income tax together with a thorough examination of all departmental budgets.

In addition to supporting additional funds for public school education, Pursell says the state must provide funds for mass transit. The state constituted Southeast Michigan Transit Authority (SEMTA) has the plans and the tools to launch a good start in this direction, he explains, but it simply does not have the money to initiate it.

The GOP candidate does not advocate, however, regional taxes for

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

In addition to a long list of national, state, county and local candidates and three state proposals, voters in Northville township will find three local propositions on the November 3 ballot.

PROPOSITION NO. 1 asks "Shall amended zoning map number 14 of the Northville township zoning ordinance which was passed by the Northville Township Board of Trustees on August 11, 1970 be approved?"

PROPOSITION NO. 2 asks "Shall the Township Board of Trustees of the Township of Northville, Wayne County, Michigan, be authorized to sell the Township's share of ownership interest in the real estate located at 107 South Wing, Northville, Michigan, which is currently being used as a Township Hall?"

PROPOSITION NO. 3 asks "Shall the Annual Meeting of the electors of the Township of Northville, Wayne County, Michigan, be abolished?"

I urge Northville township voters to cast YES votes on all three of these local propositions.

Let's examine Proposition No. 1 first.

It's on the ballot as the result of petitions circulated within the township containing 362 signatures. Specifically, it asks to reverse zoning action taken by the township planning commission and the township board in approving certain changes in the Levitt and Sons Highland Lakes development.

A "NO" vote would refute the zoning as recommended by planners and board members. A "YES" vote would uphold their action.

The zoning modification granted Levitt's Highland Lakes development came about after weeks of study by the seven-member township planning commission and its consultant. It was passed unanimously by the commission.

It was later approved by the township board with two members, Trustees Richard Mitchell and William Smith, voting against the zoning change.

Specifically, the amendment permits Levitt to construct 1,306 townhouses instead of 914, and 127 single-family detached homes instead of 350.

Admittedly, Levitt asked to expand its townhouse units and reduce its single family dwellings primarily because of changing economic factors. Townhouses are selling; single-family homes in the price bracket proposed by Levitt (around $45,000) are not. But there were also topographical and engineering factors involved that convinced planners that the Levitt request deserved its consideration.

Finally a compromise was reached. Levitt was not granted its original request to remove all single family homes. And the result is a development with far more open space than originally planned, a density (units per acre) that is less than half the density of Kings Mill, for example, a student yield less than the original plan and a greater tax base valuation.

The Levitt townhouses are not "rentals". They will be occupied by homeowners. The apartment total is unchanged by the zoning modification. Total population of the development is less under the new plan, although the 400-acre gravel pit area will become a community of 6,000 people, give or take 100, either way.

For the average voter, not armed with the facts that were carefully considered by planners and a board majority, to reverse the action would make little sense.

The planners, who serve by appointment, and board members, who are elected, are township citizens, too. They are perhaps more concerned than the average citizen with safeguarding community development.

Levitt has proceeded in good faith based upon the zoning modification granted.

Vote "YES" on Proposition No. 1.

Proposition No. 2 has a background that should be clearly understood by all residents of the Northville community.

It involves the possible future sale of the old library building, now the site of the township hall on South Wing street.

The Northville Area Economic Development Committee has been deeply involved in an effort to promote a desirable commercial complex in the block bounded by Wing, Main, Center and Cady streets. A comprehensive plan is currently being proposed by a major developer that would bring such a complex to the western half of the block. All of the land on the site is now owned either by the city or the non-profit community development committee.

Recognizing that the library site might be needed to complete the total development, the Economic Development Committee wrote to both the city and the township (which jointly own the site on about a 55-45 per cent basis) asking if they would sell the property for a desirable development that would benefit the total community.

YES...

Yes, I believe that schools are too permissive now. Children need and want rules. Our own family must have rules in order to survive even one day.

One would think the more students in a school system, the more rules there must be to control that large group. Yet, schools are giving students more authority and freedom to "ready them for college" is one reason given by an administrator. And colleges' problems, I think, speak for themselves.

Students must be given guidelines until they are mature enough to decide for themselves what they need and what is the best in the long-run for them. They must know "how far they can go."

I also believe that the majority of parents are too permissive which has carried over into the schools. How can a school be expected to control and give directions to a student whose parents allow him to keep a bathroom door from the school in his bedroom?

Children, no matter what age, will go as far as they are allowed, and will push as far as they can push. Adults as well as young people react this way. A handbook is written, and students ask for bending of, or rejection of certain rules before the first marking period.

Perhaps it is the schools responsibility to give the youth rules until some responsibility is taken on by the adults again.

Fritzie Seger (Mrs. George)
Brighton, Michigan

Speaking for Myself Are Schools Too Permissive?

NO...

Schools vary in their approach to the handling of discipline but I feel that most school systems are doing their best to instill in their students respect for authority, respect for the rights of others and respect for property. We should not lose sight of the fact that the great majority of our students are good citizens in school and in the community.

The roots of these problems lie in the society in which we live. They are far too complex to attribute to a single cause — permissiveness — whether it be in school or in the home.

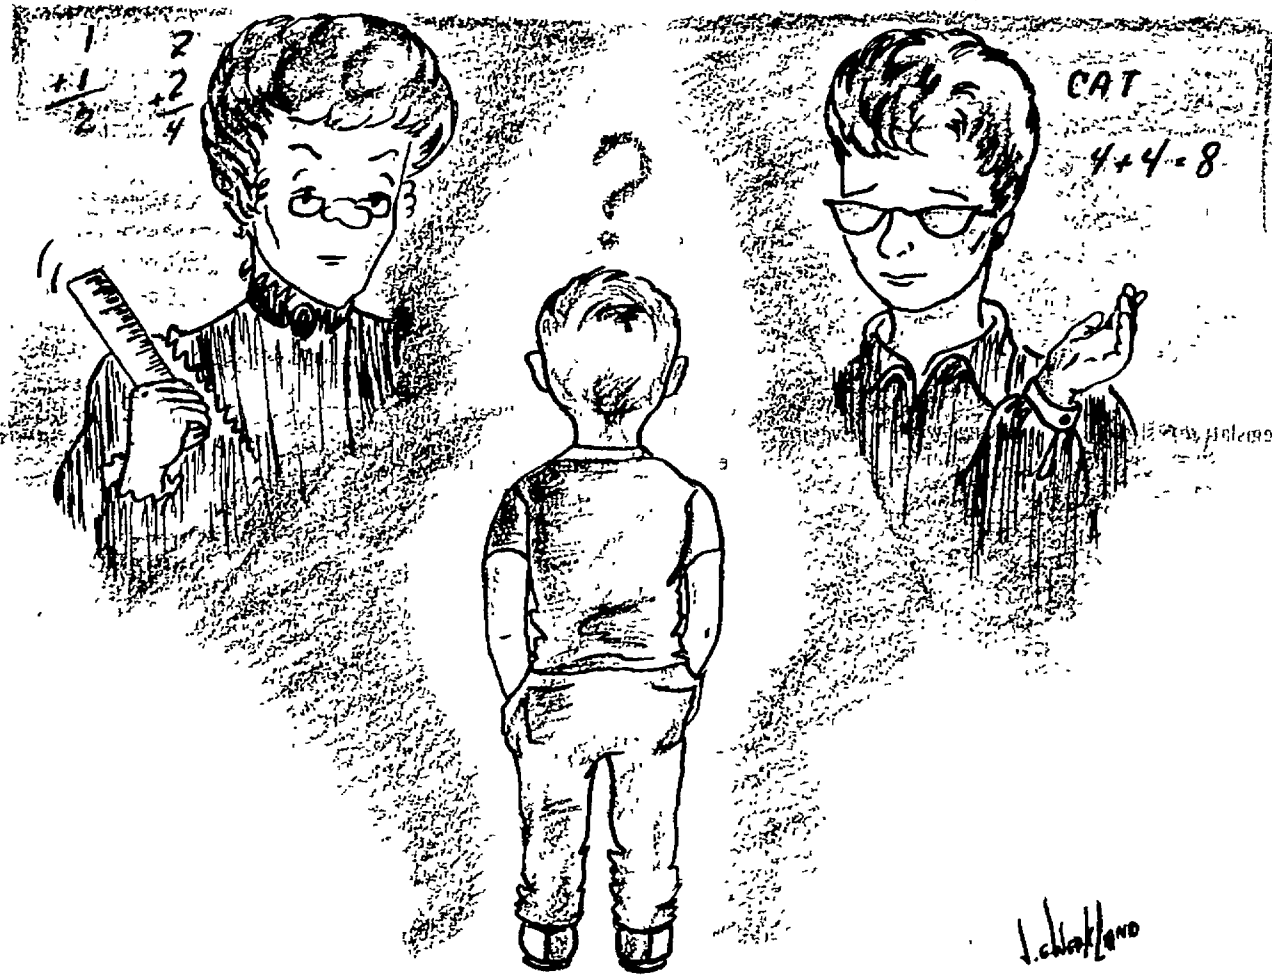

Insecurity, worries about the war, the bomb and pollution of the atmosphere, emotional disturbance, broken homes, parents that are too permissive, parents that are too oppressive, homes without love or even respect for children as individuals, a society in which acts of violence, rioting, and rebellion are daily featured in the news media. These are only a few of the catalog of the root causes of delinquency in school and in the community.

Firm and consistent enforcement of rules is necessary for the operation of any school. However, we must also use the resources of guidance counselors, psychologists, case workers and community agencies to try to get at the causes of misbehavior.

We are burying our heads in the sand if we accept the idea that all we need to do is get tough and our problems will disappear.

Rule or Reason?

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

It was during one of those arguments between friends when he suddenly stopped and asked with a disbelieving wrinkle shading his eyes, "Look, whose side are you on?"

"I'm not on either," I answered indignantly. "I'm simply saying that there are two sides to the issue and you're refusing to recognize the official side."

In this case my defense was about as solid as the pear that lingered too long on the windowsill. And the look on his face was clearly an indication that it was worthy of only fruitfully attention.

But great issues deserve great argument and although my tongue was less than silver I pressed on:

"Even the experts agree that when the economy falls all else falls, too."

"To hang with what the experts say," he shouted. "Can't you see that the citizen, the guy on the outside, isn't always wrong?"

"Panic... that's what causes it," he continued becoming a little emotional. "People panic, lose sight of reality and before you know it everything's going to pot. Blind sheep... that's what you'd have us become... watching the slightest trend and following it right over the cliff."

I waited long enough for him to get his second wind and then jumped back in: "A typical layman's rhetoric. Use some sense for a change. The economy has dipped, unemployment is up, and they tell us the Gross National Product spiral is beginning to lag."

"Wait a minute. I don't know what kind of gross spiral you have reference to but my Spiro says we're over the hump and we're on our way back up." And, yah, what about the women? What have they got to say about it?"

"What have they got to say! Did you ever know them not to have something to say? They're the experts that started it all."

"There you go again. 'Experts'. Who is more expert than the ordinary guys on the street? They know more about what is going on in this world than a whole army of your so-called experts. Let me tell you something: guys like myself are the real experts. And what we say goes. And we say the Midi goes!"

Newspaper Chided for Delay

To the Editor:
WHY??? Why did it take the Northville Record over one year to finally state that Richard Mitchell should be recalled.

He was just as guilty a year ago when he, along with Lawrence, Hammond and Straub pushed for the acceptance and filing of the Police Study Report by the citizens committee. He was just as guilty when he made the motion to hire Nisun and pay him $9600 per year for 40 hours per week work and then make his pay retroactive, so his pay started two weeks before he was hired. This was an illegal disbursement of the Township's money. Hammond and Straub both voted for all the above motions in support of Mitchell and Nisun, and I cannot believe that they did not know what they were voting for at the last board meeting.

I am still in possession of over 300 signatures on the recall petitions that I circulated last year at this time. The wording is correct and would stand up in any court even if the names on these petitions are a year old. I would like to make these names available to any one who would like to use them for the purpose of starting another RECALL for Mitchell. ONLY 325 to 350 signatures are required to force the Township Board to put this on the ballot for all the Township to vote on. I promise my support and help on any recall against Mitchell.

What has happened to our Republican Club (Bud Weber), do they condone this type of Township Government? Why doesn't the League of Women Voters make some remark about this situation? I would like to see the workers from both parties — Republican and Democrat — get together and do something about this.

Many of us know what our two "dog catchers" have been trying to do since Mitchell was elected to the Board. Over 1 1/2 years ago I contacted Mr. Richard Novak, Dep. Inspector at the Wayne County Sheriff Dept., in regards to our police problems and more coverage in our township by their patrols. He stated that he had been contacted by Nisun and that it was Nisun's intention to set up a 10 to 12 man police force in Northville Township just as soon as he could.

We do not need the cost of this type of police protection and unless interested citizens start now and do something about Mitchell and Nisun, they are going to have a high cost inefficient group of men playing policeman at our expense.

Very truly yours,
Thomas D. Armstrong

Proposal Cuts Aid

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my concern in regard to Proposal C, which is the proposed constitutional amendment to prohibit public aid to non-public schools and students.

Unfortunately, many people believe that this proposal repeals only Parochial, when in reality it denies existing auxiliary services, any public supplementary education and essential public services as well as the present tax exemption under Article IX, Section 4 of the Michigan Constitution.

If this proposal was ratified, students in private schools could be denied health and nursing services, street crossing guard services, speech correction services and assistance to mentally and emotionally disturbed children. Library services, driver education courses and athletic activities between public and nonpublic schools on public property would be eliminated. All political subdivisions of the state could be restricted from rendering aid to nonpublic schools. This would include fire and police protection as well as sewage and sanitation services. Without these services, the nonpublic school would be forced to close.

Although many people are in favor of a unified system under state education, I do not believe this is the answer. If our private schools were to be closed, this would, indeed, create an

'Yes' on Zoning Vital for Project

To the Editor:
I was shocked and discouraged to learn that a handful of citizens, many of them probably not even aware of the issues at stake, had managed to get a question on the November ballot which could conceivably overturn the zoning granted a small parcel of the Highland Lakes Development by Township Officials.

It seems a shame that developers of a project such as this one, that would turn an eye sore (the gravel pit) into a beautiful new community in the heart of our Township, must be continuously harassed by the very people who will benefit most from it. In a recent editorial, you made some very valid points in favor of the rezoning — and the entire project — and I believe the vast majority of township voters support your views.

I urge my fellow citizens that in order to support progress, let the developers of Highland Lakes, Levitt and Sons, know that we oppose the efforts of a small minority who jeopardize the future of the entire project.

After careful consideration and six months of meetings, compromise, and discussion between all parties, the consultants to our Township and our elected officials opted to pass this zoning which affects only a small portion of the development. A vote for the Levitt Development is a vote of confidence in our elected officials, and the future progress of an orderly growth for our Township.

Very truly yours
Mrs. Virginia A. Petzinger

increased tax burden on our local economy. According to the Michigan Association of Private Schools, $270,000,000 would be required annually to educate the students presently enrolled in nonpublic schools, in addition to building costs. In comparison, $22,000,000 is being spent on nonpublic schools under the Parochial Bill.

Proposal C is also capable of jeopardizing the availability of certain important federal funds not only for the nonpublic student, but for public school students, too. The availability of federal funds to public school districts under the amended Vocational Education Act and the National Defense Education Act (for participation of nonpublic school children in public school activities) would no longer be assured if Proposal C is adopted.

In my opinion, Proposal C, if adopted, could become a constitutional amendment against private schools. Therefore, it would eliminate our freedom of choice, which would be an injustice to the American ideal. And so I urge all voters to consider this situation seriously and to conscientiously vote on November 3rd.

Respectfully,
Kathryn D. Thate

this purpose. He suggests instead, an examination of the existing weight gas tax revenues with the possibility of directing some of these funds into support of a mass transit program.

Another area in which the state has a responsibility and cannot ignore is that of the plight of big cities. To some extent — "within reason" — the state must stand ready to assist them financially.

"I think, for example, a good case can be made of the drug abuse problem. If Detroit had resolved that problem 10 to 12 years ago it wouldn't be a problem in Northville, Livonia and Plymouth today. So I think we have a major role in working with our neighbors — not only Detroit but Livonia and our other communities — to resolve social as well as economic problems, such as transportation, on an equitable financial basis.

"I don't think we should subsidize Detroit anymore than 50 years ago was it willing to subsidize us. . . Nevertheless, the existing problems must be dealt with cooperatively by leadership that is willing to try to work out a fair program. I'm willing to do that."

Turning to the area of crime, Pursell says this is one of the chief concerns of the 14th District. "Much has been said — there's been a great deal of rhetoric — there's been some legislation — but it's an area where we are trying to solve problems overnight. The real long-range solutions to the problem of crime, in my opinion, are with the young people. Fifty-percent of all crime being committed today is by young people. And I think we

The city council, which has the power to act without voter approval, has indicated it would give up the land free of charge if a desirable development were proposed.

The township board cannot sell property without voter approval. So it is asking permission of the electorate.

Presumably, the board, if granted permission to dispose of its share of the site, would be well informed prior to any possible sale of the property as to the nature of the development. A commercial complex on the site would enhance the business district and add to the total taxbase which supports the school district.

It has been proposed that the library building itself will be moved to another site for preservation by the Northville Historical Society.

Township voters should cooperate in this community effort to improve the business district.

Vote "YES" on Proposition No. 2.

*****

Northville is one of the last area townships still holding the annual meeting. Proposition No. 3 would eliminate it.

In theory it is a good idea. And years ago in sparsely-populated, rural townships the annual meeting was probably effective.

But in Northville township it has become a poorly-attended session that serves as a soapbox for a few politicians and a place where a minority has a chance to push through an issue serving their own special interests.

The monthly meetings provide the time and place for citizens to participate in their local government. They should be doing a better job of that.

Vote "YES" on Proposition No. 3 to eliminate the annual township meeting.

"If you're unhappy with the phone company, we'll get you action."

"It happens.

"Sometimes people have a legitimate complaint against the phone company.

"But too often they go to someone else for an answer. When we should be the first to hear about it.

"We're service and repair representatives at Michigan Bell, and if you need an answer for a slip up, call one of us first.

"We have a new way to handle complaints and unusual service requests much faster. Now if you should ever have a question for the phone company, you don't have to contact someone else.

"To take care of these hang ups, Michigan Bell has set up 'Special Action

Forces' in its local offices.

"Our 'Special Action Forces' are made up of specially trained people.

"They know the best ways to track down misplaced orders. To answer uncommon questions. To process even the most complicated service and repair requests.

"So if you ever have a telephone repair problem, just dial repair service; for any other service requests, call your service representative at your local Michigan Bell business office. If we can't solve your problem through regular channels, we'll turn it over to our 'Special Action Forces'.

"Now, if you contact us first, you'll get faster action."

COURT NEWS

A charge against Donald A. Campbell, 411 Horton Street, of assault on a police officer causing injury, was reduced to aggravated assault. Campbell was given a suspended sentence of 20 days in Detroit House of Correction and a suspended fine of $38.

The action came October 16 before 35th District Court Judge Dunbar Davis.

Campbell was also fined $128 on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor. Both charges stemmed from an incident October 11.

On October 13, following a pre-sentence investigation, a charge against Michael A. Mahoney, Plymouth, of resisting arrest and assaulting a police officer was reduced to assault and battery.

He was placed on two years probation and given a suspended fine of $53 and ordered to pay costs of $50, also suspended.

Sentencing on a charge of disorderly person, conduct, was deferred for one year. Both charges stemmed from an incident which occurred January 31.

Resisting arrest resulted in a $28 fine and one year probation for James E. Lamb, Jr., Whitmore Lake. Five days in Detroit House of Correction was suspended. Lamb was also fined $53 for drunkenness.

Paul L. Stenzel, Detroit, was fined $78 for reckless driving.

Clyde E. Kimberlin, Westland, was given a $53 fine (suspended) for drunkenness.

A $53 fine was also suspended against Wilfred J. Sharron, 40941 West Eight Mile Road. He appeared in court on a charge of drunkenness.

In Wayne County Circuit Court October 13, Freelin Miller, 49824 Seven Mile Road, was arraigned on a charge of first degree murder before Judge Horace W. Gilmore. He stood mute to the charge and pre-trial was set for October 27.

In Circuit Court October 15, Robert N. Watts, Jr., Romeo, was placed on two year's probation and ordered to pay court costs of $330 for possession of narcotics. The action came before Judge Thomas Foley.

Watts was arrested on the charge by Northville police on July 20.

In Novi . . .

James L. Olin, 17, of Detroit, admitted to Novi detectives last week his part in two area burglaries that occurred last summer.

Olin admitted to a breaking and entering at the Mike Telischak residence, 41238 Llewelyn on August 25, in which a $500 camera and a $200 tape recorder were stolen, and to a similar crime at the Edward McMullen residence, 43650 Nine Mile Road on August 22, police said. Nothing was reported taken from the McMullen property.

Olin is wanted by Detroit police and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department for armed robbery and burglary and was turned over to the Novi Police by the Detroit department.

Due to charges pending against him, Olin will not be charged in Novi, police reported. Detective Sergeant Richard Faulkner pointed out that this procedure would save the taxpayers money. "If we don't have to prosecute him," said Faulkner, "we can be doing something else." We can use the taxpayers' dollar that Olin would take up, through the courts and law enforcement agencies, to capture other criminals.

William Booth of 27409 Haggerty reported last week a five horse-power outboard motor stolen with its canvass cover, from his boat where it was attached.

The theft occurred, according to police, last week Wednesday while Booth and his wife were out to dinner. Estimated value of the motor was put at $120.

Five Novi officers assisted Pontiac police during the recent racial disturbance in that city. The five rode in separate cars throughout the southeast side of the city.

They were Chief Lee BeGole, Corporals Dale Gross, Robert Starnes and John Johnson, and Officer Jerry Pratt.

Various types of radiator cores were reported stolen Saturday by Virgil Jackson of 28160 Dixon Road.

The thefts, taking place over the last three weeks, according to police, represented the loss of some $125.

Timothy William Teeples of Pontiac and Jerry Elton Moore of Union Lake pled guilty Tuesday before Judge Martin Boyle of the 52nd District Court to charges of hunting without a permit.

When they were arrested by detectives in a field near Wixom Road north of Ten Mile, each had a shotgun. The guns were impounded and the two were fined $15 each.

Police Chief Lee BeGole reported that since Novi adopted a hunting ordinance, complaints of opening day violations have decreased in the last several years.

Mrs. Helen Brooks of 14061 Willowbrook reported Monday a B & E at her home in which some $304 worth of radios, watches, loose change and a ring were stolen.

Police report said the thieves entered through a screen in a rear utility room.

A warrant is being sought against John R. Couch, 18, of 25150 Taft Road on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Police charge Couch with taking two 16-year-old girls and a 16-year-old-boy with him on an extended tour of Eastern United States and Canada.

Couch presently is in the custody of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. He is being held on a bench warrant issued in the 35th District Court when he failed to appear before Judge Dunbar Davis on charges of driving on a suspended operators license.

Two chain saws were reported stolen this week: the first was taken from the sewer construction site of Roger J. Au and Sons, on West Lake Drive and the second from the property of Olin Green, 1640 West Lake Drive.

The thefts total $375 according to reports.

The theft at the construction site took place Thursday, but the time of theft at the Green residence is uncertain, according to police.

Same Story: Wildcats Too Late . . . 14-7

IN THE CLINCH — Down by just seven points in the closing seconds Novi called a series of time outs to stop the clock in hopes of getting its hands on the ball for another TD attempt. During one of the breathers Assistant Coach Fred Gerhardt and Guard Tom VanWagner discuss their strategy while the Wildcats wait in the background. It all went for naught, however, as Milan hung on to win 14-7 — good enough for a second place tie in the Southeastern Conference.

For the third consecutive week Novi's varsity eleven spotted its opponent a lead and then battled back too late and too little, this time taking the short end of a 14-7 score at Milan Friday night. The loss mired the Wildcats in the basement of the Southeastern Conference with an 0-4 record, while the razor thin triumph boosted the Big Reds into a three-way tie for second place with Saline and Dexter, all three of whom cling to identical 2-1-1 records.

Two weeks ago Novi spotted Saline a 28-point lead and then sparked to life in the second half, scoring twice and narrowly missing a third touchdown that for a moment gave partisan fans hope for victory or at least a tie.

And three weeks ago, against the conference's defending Champion Chelsea, Novi bounced back in the second half to cut the Bulldogs' lead to eight points — but that's where it ended, 14-6, even though the Wildcats came within six yards of another TD and earlier had a TD nullified by a penalty.

Novi, which suffered its last two defeats to opponents who were celebrating their homecomings, will begin a three-game home-stand Friday, hosting Dundee (2-2) in its own homecoming. Dundee will be followed by Ypsilanti Lincoln and then by arch-rival South Lyon to close out the season.

At Milan, the Big Reds launched their first TD drive late in the first quarter and then posted it three plays into the second stanza.

Halfback Jim Patterson, moved in and out of the game on key plays, carried the ball into the endzone from 17 yards out.

Then, just before the intermission, the 180-pound junior scored again, this time breaking through a host of would-be tacklers to grind out 13 yards and the TD. Guard Jamie Cullip kicked both extra points.

In the first half, neither Novi's offensive backs nor its line clicked. The Wildcats played most of both quarters in their own territory, moving just twice inside Milan's half. The first penetration came early in the second quarter, but it carried only to the Milan 49 before slipping back to the Novi 47 in three plays. Then, on the last play of the first half, Halfback Steve Bosak took a Novi pass and galloped to the Milan 25 — a 27-yard pass play.

With the opening of the third quarter, the fired-up Wildcats moved to the Milan 42 in four plays. Then, in a first-and-10 situation, Fullback Pat Boyer broke through the right side of the line for the lone Novi touchdown.

Milan threatened in the same quarter, but ran out of steam at the Novi 17 in the face of a strong Novi defense. Novi punted four plays later and, for a moment, appeared to have recovered a Milan fumble at the M-43 but an interference penalty cost the Wildcats the ball.

A pass interference call early in the final quarter gave Novi a first down on the Milan 26. But this last Novi threat of the game was cut short on the first play from scrimmage when Milan's fullback, Jeff Blake, intercepted a pass at the 15.

COACH JOHN OSBORNE

If any man ever found himself on familiar ground, it's Novi mentor John Osborne.

With two marginal defeats in hand (Saline and Chelsea) Osborne carried a 0-3 league record and plenty of hopes into the Milan game last week only to see his squad rebound too late.

"I've been there before," said the coach. "It seems like we're always strong towards the final gun, but we just never seem to make it."

Down by 14 points at the half, the Wildcats did indeed "come on strong."

"We put in our final flourish as usual in the second half," said Osborne. "We stopped two of their drives, and moved pretty well but we lost the ball in a fourth-and-one situation with a minute to go in the game and that killed us."

"Milan beat our defense all over the field. We probably gave up more yardage in this game than we have any other in the past.

"Our offense sputtered quite a bit but we were able to get one on the board in the third quarter, thanks to some fine tackling by Greg Budlong and Tom VanWagner who opened up a hole for Pat Boyer."

The Wildcats will host Dundee Friday in a homecoming match that should end up, according to Osborne, as a contest between strong man Tom VanWagner and Dundee star Bill Busch.

"Busch seems to play about every position there is," said Osborne. "He blocks, tackles, carries the ball. To win we're going to have to contain him."

Busch scored three touchdowns in Dundee's contest with Saline to hand the Hornets their first defeat of the season Friday.

"It should be an interesting duel," said Osborne.

NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN ZIP CODE 48167

BEAUTIFUL BEGINNING — On their opening drive the Mustangs moved the ball first six yards, then two, then Scott Evans (above) pulled a 17-yarder out of the air and it looked like things were finally clicking in Northville. The appearance was a deception, however, for although its first series of plays carried Northville to a TD, Andover had the ball more often than not, and too many plays like the one below in which Fullback E. J. Levy eludes Mustang defensemen for 16-yards, cost too much buying the Mustangs their fifth defeat of the season.

COACH AL KLUKACH

"We're through the hard part of our schedule, at least, so we can look for better things, I think," said Coach Alex Klukach of his 0-5 Mustangs.

"We went through the last game uninjured and Mike Dresch is supposed to return to us next week against Clarkston so that'll help a lot."

"If guys like Scot Stuart, Steve Serkaian and Brad Conklin can perform the way they have been we'll have a chance," Klukach added.

"Serkaian, a freshman linebacker was in on six tackles and played a good defensive game," said the coach. "Conklin despite an old knee injury aggravated against West Bloomfield helped us in what drives we did have last week as a fullback, and Stuart, a halfback, carried the ball a number of times for a good part of our yardage."

Despite optimistic comments, the coach was far from optimistic following his team's first TD in three straight shutouts Friday night against Andover.

We can expect plenty of surprises from Clarkston. They have about four unorthodox formations that they use

Barons Keep Streak Going

It looked — for a fleeting moment — like the Mustangs were back in harness as they rolled to an early, seemingly easy, touchdown against the league-leading Andover Barons, Friday night.

But it turned out to be the same old story as hopes for a Mustang victory were quickly dispelled before a capacity homecoming crowd.

Andover responded with the speed and agility that has netted it 15 straight victories in the Wayne-Oakland League.

The Barons quickly bounced back with a seven-play drive that, with the help of 67 yards worth of running, carried them to the Mustang end-zone.

From that point on Andover was at the switch, scoring again... and again... and again... until it was 22-7 at the half, and 48-7 by the end of the game.

That initial Northville touchdown, the first in two games, was engineered by quarterback Bill Andrews, who completed a 17-yard pass and piloted the Mustangs 12 yards on the ground before hitting Brad Cole with a pass that netted 30 yards and the touchdown.

But from that point, the game was all Andover, with Northville penetrating deep only once — finally losing possession at the eight-yard line on a fumble.

In the closing seconds of the first half, from Andover's 38 yard line, Andrews fired successive incomplete passes to end another threat.

Following the opening Baron TD, Northville ran the ball to their own 37 and punted to the Andover 17.

The Barons returned 20 yards, then launched a drive that cut through the Mustang defense to the Northville five-yard line.

There, Quarterback John Thomas

attempted a short flip that missed its mark and went rolling free down the field. The fumble was recovered by Andover but the Barons gave up the ball on the 22.

Northville moved it to the 40 on a fourth-down punt and Andover, on its first play, completed a 40-yard TD pass to Halfback Rick Kaufman.

Andover scored once more in that half with a 10-play drive from their own 35.

The second half went the same way with Andover scoring on its second play on a 27-yard TD run; Northville marching to the enemy eight-yard line and fumbling and Andover driving back for their fifth TD; Northville losing the ball on an interception that led to Andover's sixth TD; Northville moving to the Andover 37 on its third and final punt and Andover running back for their seventh TD.

Northville carries an 0-5 record into tomorrow's against Clarkston — the sixth of eight foes it is to meet this season.

LIKE CLIMBING A WALL — Mustang Halfback Brad Cole swiftly side arms Baron Reid (23) and seems set on a collision course with Rich Jenkins (82) who blocks his path to the goal line. Cole slipped past, however, to carry the pigskin into the endzone for Northville's only TD in 12 quarters of football. The Mustangs started out charging but slowed down to a walk and were finally stopped 48-7 by the Baron's before a homecoming crowd Friday night.

Downs Takes Early Racing Lead

With picture-perfect weather prevailing, Jackson's action at Northville Downs moved out to a fast start for the 40-night meeting which opened here last Thursday and established a direct confrontation with Canada's Windsor Raceway for the waging dollar and sulky patrons.

Leon A. Slavin's transplanted management from Jackson Harness Raceway, which enjoyed a successful 30-day meeting last April-May, finished well in the black and ahead of Windsor in attendance and mutual handle for the first three nights of competition.

The Jackson-Northville fall meeting shows 15,164 persons at the turnstiles and $1,125,174 on the ledger through Monday while the international racing rivals attracted 14,780 and a handle of $888,476.

"Needless to say, we are extremely gratified over the early results and hope it will increase. The racing has been excellent with keen competition in every event and there is no reason why it shouldn't improve," Slavin said.

Jackson-Northville's Saturday production saw 5,449 fans wagered $366,588 on 10-races while Windsor Raceway drew 5,112 who pushed $278,727 through the machines, giving the Slavin operation a mutual edge of $87,861. Monday the local handle was $227,362 here, while it hit $180,770 in Windsor.

The Big Perfecta made its debut at Northville on opening night but it wasn't until Saturday that this form of wagering lived up to its name. One patron from 43 live exchange tickets correctly tabbed the 6-7 combination in the fifth race and came back in the seventh with 4-6 to collect $30,620.40 as the lone winner.

On the track, Royal Kim registered a one and one-half length victory in the featured $3,000 Spartan-Wolverine Invitational Pace, defeating Torjon in 2:01 4/5 in the eight race.

Owned by Robert T. Palmer of Cable, O., Royal Kim was one second off the track record shared by Vicki's Jet (1960) and Blaze Pick (1970) and recorded her seventh win of the year, boosting her seasonal earnings to more than $22,000.

Royal Kim, well handled by Richard Buxton, went to the front, shook off the bid of The Big Bear and then had something left after covering the half mile in 1:00 2/5 to withstand the late rush of Paul Jensen's Torjon out of Pontiac. The five-year old Greentree Adios mare paid $6.40, $5.40 and $3.00.

Three drivers had driving doubles Saturday. Gordon Norris won the second with Taffolet Song ($8.80) and took the seventh with Prince Knox ($6.60). Wally McMurray scored in the fourth with Wally Bird ($7.20) and then came back in the fifth with Mixed Up Kid ($18.00). Gerald Banfield triumphed with Deveda Girl ($4.20) in the third and tallied with Timmy Dares ($6.80) in the sixth.

Super Matic, owned by Thomas Boschna of Southfield, Mich., came up with a good effort Friday night to capture the $3,000 Autumn Invitational Trot in 2:06 3/5 with Clyde Snook driving. It was the sixth win of the year for the seven year old gelding who returned $8.60, $4.20 and $3.60. O.K.'s Doc was second with C.B.'s Jimmy third in a field of six.

The Big Perfecta paid $7,701.40 on the combinations of 7-3 and 7-1 with three winners. A crowd of 3,783 wagered $278,300.

An opening night turnout of 3,152 wagered $252,924 on October 15 to usher in Jackson's second season at the Downs.

The Inaugural Pace saw Southlawn Farms Stable's Golden Castle respond smartly to the reinsmanship of Wally McMurray to score a one length victory over Bourbon Way in 2:07 in the eighth race.

The four-year old son of Peachadon picked up his fifth win of the year, erasing the pace-setting Spook Time and then saving ground along the rail to win in handy fashion. Golden Castle returned $7.00, $4.20 and $3.80.

SEASON OPENER — In their first game of the year Northville's boys soccer team, newly organized under the coaching of Tim DeWitt, and the sponsorship of Reef Manufacturing, fell to Livonia Stevenson at Ford Field Thursday, 4-1. DeWitt, however, remains cheerful. "They were great," he said. "For their first contest they looked real good. We'll meet Livonia again in our closing game the fifth of November, and I'm sure we'll give them a tougher time." DeWitt's squad did indeed improve against Cranbrook early this week.

Colts Drop One of Three

The Northville Colts cut the Dearborn Heights Cubs down twice Saturday, plastering the visitors with shutouts in the Freshman and Varsity editions of junior league grid action — 6-0 and 22-0.

But the Colt Junior Varsity eleven ended up on the bottom of a 24-20 shuffle that saw two conversion attempts foiled in the second half.

The Freshmen started off the evening's action with a TD late in the first stanza off a fumble recovery on the enemy's 45 yard line.

The TD play was a 46-yard run around left end.

Another fumble early in the second quarter gave the Colts the ball on their own 36. A sustained march pushed them to within one yard of the Cub goal where a second run around left end produced the six-pointer.

Third and final TD came in the closing minutes of the half as the Colts took advantage of another hole over left end and scampered in for the score.

Both conversions in the second quarter were food for two points.

The Varsity struggled through three quarters of scoreless ball before making it 6-0 mid-way through the final stanza.

A long pass from the Cub 35 yard line was almost intercepted but instead landed in the hands of the intended receiver who galloped over for the six points. Conversion attempt failed and the Colt defense held the visitors to their zip score.

The Junior Varsity scored early in the second stanza off an intercepted pass and a 58-yard run, making it 8-0 with a successful two point conversion. The Cubs bounced right back with a TD and a two-pointer of their own to end the half even-up.

The Cubs pulled ahead in the third quarter when the Colts flubbed their conversion attempt as both teams carded TDs. The same thing happened in the final stanza.

But Not Northville

Gridiron Shut-Outs Suit JV Wildcats

Local teams were on the road and at home for JV football action last week, and in both cases there were shut-outs, but Novi Coach Rick Trudeau is the only one happy over the situation.

Trudeau boasts a 3-1-1 record gained at the expense of visiting Milan, 16-0, while Mustang Coach Bob Simpson is only more heavily burdened by the 14-0 trouncing his gridders suffered at the hands of hosting Harrison.

The Mustangs stand 1-3 following last week's contest. Novi started out poorly in what, for awhile, seemed like a replay of an earlier loss to Milford.

The Wildcats moved the ball early in the first quarter to the Milan 10-yard line where they fumbled and were shoved back to their own 40. The quarter ended scoreless with neither team getting past the other's defense.

In the second stanza, however, a sustained march led the Wildcats again to the opposing 10, where Dave Brown was able to hit Roger Pelchat with a short TD bullet.

Brown then rolled out, found no receivers for his conversion pass, and was forced to run around right for the two-point kicker.

Ahead by eight points at the half Novi made it 16 early in the third quarter when Eric Hansor charged 60 yards for the six-point tally and Brown threw to Dan Cardell for the two-point conversion.

"We kept our offense simple," said Trudeau. "That helped us dominate the ball and the game. We hope the same tactic will work against Dundee next week."

Ball control in the Northville-Harrison game was a little different, according to Simpson.

"Harrison controlled the ball pretty well throughout the game," said the coach, "but we held them tight with a good defense."

Strong efforts from Larry Tillikka and Jim Porterfield at defensive end, and Bob Zimmerman and Kevin Pelto at line backer were part of that defense, said Simpson.

"We held them scoreless until the fourth quarter," continued the coach, "then they scored twice, once on a 10 yard end sweep, and once on an intercepted pass."

Quarterback Bill McDonald had a real workout, passing 15 times, completing six and losing three by interceptions.

Grid Winners Error Twice

Two errors were good enough to win the weekly football contest — but it took the score of the Michigan-Michigan State game to decide the first three places.

First place went to Patti Boerger, 220 Elm Street, who picked Michigan to win 28-7; second place went to Gerald Martin, 119 Ely Drive South, who gave Michigan 31-0 bulge; and third went to Wendell Stowell, 42485 Parkhurst, Plymouth, who had Michigan winning 17-7.

Two others had only two mistakes — Al Jones of 43550 Six Mile Road and Larry Hoffman of Plymouth — but they were not as close in guessing the MSU-Michigan score.

Tricksters Are In For Treat

All trick-or-treaters are invited to the annual Northville Recreation Halloween Costume party to be held behind the Scout-Recreation Building on Cady Street, Thursday, October 29. Cider and donuts will be available to all and cash prizes will go to the winners.

Recreation Director Robert Prom advises that the judging will take place at 7 p.m. but all participants should arrive at 6:30.

The party is expected to continue until 8:00.

PAT BOYER — "He was all over the field," said Coach John Osborne of the 6'0" 156 pound fullback. "He gained 65 yards in ten carries, scored the only touchdown on a fine 38 yard run, and was involved in 10 defensive tackles."

SCOT STUART — Playing halfback, Stuart gave the Mustangs offensive leadership in their losing battle against defending Wayne-Oakland Champion Bloomfield Hills Andover Friday night. "He played a real good game," said Coach Alex Klukach. "He carried the ball often and made a lot of our yardage." Stuart is 5'10" and weighs in at 170 pounds.

Harriers Split; End Up 8-2

Speedster Rick Bell flashed to a first place, clocked at 13:29, ahead of Milford and West Bloomfield who second and third place finishers last week as the Mustangs split to set their record at 8-2.

Northville undercut Milford 21-34 with first, third, fourth sixth and seventh place accounted for by its best five man showing.

West Bloomfield, however, zipped through second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth place to end up 17 points below the comparatively slow Mustang thinclads, 20-37.

Northville led in that match with Bell's first place and followed with a seventh, eighth, ninth and twelfth to complete the five man slate.

Carloads of Cosmetics Donated

It was a huge task but some 50 volunteers couldn't have been happier as they began late last week to divide up 38,000 pounds of cosmetics donated for Michigan's mental health patients.

Valued at $200,000, the cosmetics donated by the Vanda Beauty Counselor Company to the Michigan Society for Mental Health were unloaded at Northville State Hospital where the distribution process began.

Approximately 25 institutions will share in the windfall, reported James F. Kipfer of Northville, associate director of the Michigan mental health society. These include the six state hospitals for the mentally ill, eight home and training schools, Wayne County General Hospital, Kent Oaks Hospital in Grand Rapids and general psychiatric units in Lansing, Pontiac and St. Joseph.

According to Kipfer, the Vanda Beauty Counselor Company made its donation as part of its nationwide program, "Project Good Grooming," for the mentally ill. "Cosmetics can have a therapeutic value when they lead a patient to take an interest in his appearance and cause him to take greater pride in himself," said Kipfer. "This is the large single gift ever given for this purpose."

The huge consignment of cosmetics includes these items:

10,000 boxes of powder, 20,000 tubes of lipstick, 15,000 bottles of cleansing lotion, 5,000 bottles of hand lotion, 6,000 eye shadow kits, 10,000 sticks of deodorants, 6,000 bottles of cologne, 10,000 vials of perfume, 10,000 bottles of aftershave lotion, and 8,000 tubes of shampoo.

The products are for both men and women patients.

Kipfer indicated that special effort will be made to distribute the cosmetics to the adolescent services at all of the state's mental hospitals.

Joseph J. Gill, administrative officer at Northville State Hospital, where the distribution is being accomplished, commented, "I can fully appreciate how important this most generous contribution from the Vanda Beauty Counselor Company will be for the psychiatric and mentally retarded patients throughout Michigan. We are most pleased that our stores area had adequate space for storage and the sorting by volunteers."

CASTERLINE ADDITION — Work has begun on an addition to Casterline Funeral Home on Dunlap Street. This drawing of the east side (present building on the left) illustrates the colonial appearance of the two level addition, which is to serve as garage and storage below and an apartment

CENTER ST. PROPOSAL — Northville's city planning commission Tuesday night scheduled a public hearing for November 17 to consider a request for rezoning to permit construction of a Burger Chef restaurant on North Center street. The proposed facility, which company representatives said would look like the above rendering, would be located on a 165 by 173 foot parcel just south of the soon-to-be-constructed Chatham Market. C-2 (commercial zoning) exists on both sides. Company representatives said the facility would be a sit-down, family-type restaurant accommodating 102 patrons. Drive-in service is not permitted in C-2 zoning. In other business Tuesday night city planners took under advisement a request from the Thompson-Brown company to rezone a 200 by 200 foot parcel on the northwest corner of Taft and Eight Mile roads to permit construction on a gasoline service station. The site is now zoned R-2A, apartments. It is anticipated that planners will set a public hearing date on the next meeting, November 4.

Northville Jaycees received council approval for two of that organization's fund-raising projects. These include a millionaires party slated for November 6 at the VFW Hall and a downtown candy-cane sale December 18 and 19. For its millionaires party the Jaycees petitioned the state for a one-day liquor license, endorsed by the council and the city police chief. Money from the candy-cane sale is to be used specifically for the organization's mental health program, while funds from the party is slated for a number of civic projects conducted by the Jaycees throughout the year.

The city's financial condition was given the stamp of approval in the auditor's report to the council. In a related matter the council requested the auditor to submit a cost estimate for making quarterly audit reviews for the city.

An amendment to the plumbing code, which permits use of plastic pipe drains and sewers (in some cases above ground only), was approved by the council.

Receiving council approval, also, was a one-year lease by the city of vacant Bell Telephone Company property adjacent to its North Center Street substation at $1. The property is to be used by the city for a neighborhood park.

Bond Proposal

together with a clause that would fix the allocation of this millage between the county, schools, and townships.

County Commissioner Lew Coy, who represents the Oakland County portion of Northville, explained the millage proposal and voiced his opposition to it. Coy called it a "deceitful" proposal since it does not note that the 18 mills represent a 3-mill increase over the current 15 mills that are annually divided between the county, schools and townships.

Most of the increased millage, said Coy, is earmarked for schools but part of it goes to the county, too. So far as the county is concerned, he emphasized, no millage increase is needed. "We get by adequately on what we have," he said.

(See Page 11-B for further comments by Coy and his Democratic opponent, William Roberts).

Concerning the fixing of the millage allocations, Coy said he recognized that this section of the proposal might be beneficial to school districts since they would know definitely at the time their budgets are prepared how much county millage they are to receive. Presently, the amount is determined by the county allocation board — after budgets are begun.

"BUT, OFFICER, I'm only a passenger," seems to be Mrs. Marie Travis' appeal as Officer Jerry Burnham stopped to "ticket" the Reverend Arnold Cook for wheeling his passenger to the Novi Baptist Church in a wheelbarrow without a license. Pastor Cook took to the roadway with his one-wheeler as part of a fun project Sunday to see how many different modes of transportation members could use to get to church. And, boy, they took the challenge to heart, arriving on everything from a broomstick to horses.

Levitt Open House Slated On Site of Development

Northville Township residents will get a preview of plans for the new $50 million Highland Lakes community if they accept an invitation from Levitt & Sons, the developers, to an open house at the site this Saturday from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

Irwin M. Adler, vice-president and Detroit regional manager for Levitt, said those attending the open house will be shown how the company plans to convert the industrial mining and asphalt plant site, familiarly known as "The Gravel Pit," into a modern planned community.

When completed, Highland Lakes will contain 1,306 town houses, 400 apartment units and 127 single family homes, housing an expected population of more than 5,000.

"Because of its unusual topography, open forests, hills and valleys, and four beautiful lakes, we believe Highland Lakes will earn national recognition for both Northville Township and Levitt," Adler declared.

"We think land planners will come here from all over the country to see how a gravel pit and slag mill — a public eyesore, if you will — were converted into a beautiful, planned community," he added.

"In our opinion — and in the opinion of Northville Township's own planning and engineering consultants — Highland Lakes represents land planning at its very best," he concluded.

Levitt hopes citizens, after personally visiting the project and seeing for themselves the site transformation, the extent of construction and the plans, will be better informed when they go to the polls in November to decide for or against the company's recently granted rezoning of a portion of the property.

More than 150 acres, or better than a third of the total area of 420 acres, will be devoted to open space, recreational areas, lakes, beaches, and a 10 acre site for an elementary school. The school site was donated by Levitt to the Northville Public School System.

The $500,000 community center will contain a large building with meeting rooms, kitchen and dining facilities, surrounded by an Olympic size pool, tennis courts and a beach on one of the four lakes located on the site.

All the single family homes, selling for up to $50,000, and townhouses, ranging in price from $24,000 to $31,000, will be owner occupied, while the apartment units will be leased.

Guests at Saturday's open house will be served cider and donuts and Adler and members of his staff will be on hand to answer any questions from township residents.

Model units and the community building complex are now under construction.

necessary and did feel it would be a mistake to change the policy now.

The VIP recommendations go before the board of education Monday night when the policy will be reviewed and action decided against those who have not complied with the policy.

Superintendent Raymond Spear said Monday a total of $35,230 in deposits has been collected out of a possible total of $44,260.

Spear said 1156 families representing 2559 students, have paid the deposit while 394 families, representing 672 students, have not paid the deposit.

In his report to the board of education on September 28, 544 families, representing 925 students, had not paid the damage deposit. "In less than a month, 150 more families, or 253 students, paid the deposit," Spear noted, "but fewer are paying every day."

Broken down by reason, 21 claim hardship, 107 will pay later, 39 feel the deposit is too high, 12 say it is illegal, 15 feel it is unfair, 39 are waiting to see if any changes are made in the policy,

Back Fixed Millage

EDITOR'S NOTE: Republican Incumbent Howard Spicer and Democrat Robin Reed are vying for a two-year seat on the Livingston County Board of Commissioners. The winner at the November 3 election will represent the 15th district, which includes the southern half of Green Oak Township.

Reed...

Robin Reed, Democratic candidate for County Commissioner from the 15th District, supports both the fixed millage concept and the 17 mill amount — to appear on the November ballot.

But Reed objected to the state government's inaction in changing the tax base from property tax to income tax. "I resent state officials who have not had the guts to change the tax base," he said.

Reed said that because of the current tax system he is "very unhappy" about an increase in tax millage but that, on the other hand, "increases in county services are necessary."

The candidate went on to cite both pollution and law enforcement as the major issues in his campaign.

Strong county action could help end the damage now caused by air and water pollution, in Reed's opinion. The pollution problem is immediate and he said, "We don't have two years or three years to decide in what direction to go — we don't have time to look and think in Republican quiet contemplation."

Reed said that a county-wide solid waste disposal system would seem preferable in that some "coordination and control" has to be exercised. But he added that at this time, he didn't have the information to propose specific plans for solid waste disposal, which is "a high priority item."

Although Reed favored a "better

Spicer...

"I'm in favor of fixed millage, but to be perfectly honest with you, I would rather have it at 16 mills than 17," declared Howard Spicer, Republican incumbent who is seeking a second two-year term on the re-organized Livingston County Board of Commissioners.

Referring further to the 17-mill proposition that will appear on the ballot next month in Livingston County, the 71-year-old retired farmer from Green Oak's 15th district, said, "I think 16 mills could have been divided so that the county and the schools could have had enough to operate."

Refusal of the schools within the county to agree to 16 fixed mills, he charged, was the reason why the county did not adopt a 16-mill proposal.

The current fixed-millage proposal calls for the following breakdown: 9.25 mills for the schools, 6.50 mills for the county, one mill for the townships and .25 mills for the Intermediate School District.

"I may not campaign very hard for the 17 mills," Spicer continued, "but I'm not going to fight against it, either. I'm in favor of fixed millage."

The life-time Green Oak resident, who for 18 years served as Green Oak Township supervisor, singled out law enforcement, and pollution as the most important issues in his campaign.

"I'm opposed to this destruction of property and things like that," he stated. Asked what destruction, he said within the county and the schools. "What we need is tougher law enforcement," he said.

"I would be in favor of Green Oak Township entering into a contract with the county for patrol from the Sheriff's Department, if we need more men," he said, rather than beefing up the township's police department.

"I'm not against Green Oak having one policeman," he explained, "I just think that's a better deal (contracting with the county) than to just hire one private officer in the township, because it strengthens the sheriff's department a little bit as well as helps out down here."

(Green Oak currently has its own Police Department, composed of one policeman and four constables.)

While admitting pollution is a problem, Spicer said "about the only thing that can be done is get rid of as much overflow from septic tanks as is possible."

"Sewers would be nice," he added, "but people are not in a position to pay for them right now. When the people are ready they will petition for sewers."

Asked what would be done if, in the next 20 years, people do not petition for sewers, Spicer replied: "I think probably before that much time goes by the state will require sewers."

A member of the newly created county Department of Public Works Committee, Spicer said he favors the present sanitary landfill plan being

(See Page 9-B, Also)

Experience: Does It Count?

Moelke . . .

Experience of the candidate should count heavily when voters cast their ballots in November, says Republican Harvey Moelke who seeks election to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

He points to his own long experience as mayor of Livonia, as a member for seven years on the board of supervisors, and to the fact that he personally knows most of the county departmental heads as a decided asset that voters should not ignore.

"I know that the only way you can get things down through the maze of county government is by personal association with the civil service people that run the various departments. I know these people.

"A perfect example of this is the amount of county roads that were paved in Livonia — more than any other city in the county...more county drains than any other city.

These people have a job to do and they are trying to do it effectively but their biggest problem is knowing exactly what is happening in the various regions of the county. That's the job of the commissioner — to bring to the attention of the various boards and commissions local problems — and that's why I was successful in the past."

If elected, Moelke said he will try to involve local officials in county-level issues, perhaps setting up three or four meetings a year that bring together county commissioners county boards and municipal officials of this district so that there is an exchange of ideas, problems and suggestions.

"Further than that I intend to make myself available to any interested group, at a time convenient to them, to talk about the problems in their particular area."

The fact that the Wayne board is predominately Democratic in makeup offers no real problem should he, a Republican, be elected because most things that come before that body are non-partisan in nature. Furthermore, he notes that his previous success on the board supervisors occurred when the board was predominately Democratic.

Another reason Moelke believes he is better qualified than his opponent is that he is better acquainted with the leaders in Northville, Plymouth and Livonia.

Moelke labels his opponent an "ultra liberal", while he (Moelke) is a "middle of the road conservative" who nevertheless is "in favor of trying out new ideas as demonstrated by my actions here in Livonia."

The GOP candidate opposes county home rule government, which he says is one of the biggest problems of the nation's large cities... "They've just gotten to far away from the people. I don't believe we need another level of government."

Nevertheless, Moelke says he "would like to see the entire southeastern region become one county that would get away from all our artificial boundary lines." Such a government, which he sees as a substitute not an addition to the present county government set-up, would be better able to cope with problems that do not respect boundaries. Such a regional government, he says, would result in "tremendous" economic savings to the taxpayers.

The GOP candidate does not agree with the sheriff department's policy of contracting with townships for police protection. "That's one of the things we're paying county taxes for. When a community becomes large enough to become a city then police protection becomes a local responsibility but the sheriff's patrol is still available to assist any city that might have a police problem. They haven't lost any of their police benefits because there happens to be a local police department.

"It's very unfair to saddle the townships with additional costs for providing police protection when there are other areas within this county that are receiving county services with no

JOHN J. McCANN

HARVEY MOELKE

ROBIN REED

HOWARD SPICER

McCann . . .

"Conceding that his opponent did in fact accomplish "some things" for Livonia while serving as mayor, voters must not overlook the fact that throughout his tenure he was the center of controversy — much of which was self generated, says Democrat John J. McCann, candidate for the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

"It was constant bickering," says McCann of his opponent's eight years in office. That is not to say that the present mayor and council always agree but at least there is some common understanding.

When Moelke was mayor only those things that he favored were right, while those things advanced by the council were wrong. Moelke isn't able to see both sides of an issue, charges McCann, and because of that he is constantly "bickering" instead of resolving differences of opinion and moving ahead.

McCann sees the job as commissioner as primarily one of serving as liaison between the county government and municipalities within his district. "For example if Northville needs a road improvement he can try to work directly with the county but his chances of success are pretty slim. But working through a commissioner, who is thoroughly acquainted with the problem and who is willing to help, can often influence the appropriate agency.

The commissioner's job is definitely a part-time one and if it were not he would not be a candidate because he does not intend to give up

State Police Plan School Closing Alert

Accurate and timely information on school closings in Michigan caused by adverse winter weather or other emergency is the objective of a system being implemented by several agencies, the State Police have announced.

Participants in the planning for the system include public, private and parochial schools, the Michigan Department of Education, police agencies, radio and television stations, the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA), the Michigan Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN), and the State Police.

Participation by school districts is voluntary. Some may choose to continue procedures followed in past years.

Those who do elect to participate will notify a selected LEIN station (police) of the operational status of their schools (open, closed, etc.).

The LEIN station will transmit the information to the network headquarters at the State Police in East Lansing.

There it will be validated, then relayed through the State Police operations office over the ESSA network to radio and TV stations.

The radio and the TV stations will then broadcast the information on the schools in their area several times between 6 and 8 a.m.

To expedite the collection and the processing of school status information, a code system will be used as a security measure by participants for identifying school districts and the various classes of operational status. The code will not be publicly used.

An Invitation to Northville Township Residents from Levitt and Sons

*Come to the site of Highland Lakes this Saturday.
See our "Blueprint for Progress" yourself.*

Anyone can build houses. Levitt and Sons creates communities. And today in Northville, on depleted land that was formerly used for industrial mining and asphalt plant operations, we are creating a new community around four existing lakes, which will be unique in the Detroit area. With Northville's support, we are re-establishing the ecological balance of this problem site with complete community planning.

The comprehensive plan for the 400-acre community provides for single-family homes, town houses and apartments. More than a third of the property will be devoted to open space and community facilities to include: 75 acres of lake and shoreline, a 10-acre beach, a complete community center with pool, tennis courts, and recreation and meeting rooms, and a 10-acre school site to be donated to the Northville Public Schools.

In the Levitt concept, the best house in itself is not enough: We welcome the opportunity we have in Northville to work in concert with community objectives to create a satisfying and completely livable environment.

As a result of a referendum petition, you will find a question of vital importance to this undertaking on the November 3 General Election ballot.

Please come see our progress and inform yourself on this important question.

Bring your children...and your questions.

Open House on Saturday, October 24th, Noon till 4:00 p.m. Refreshments.

Enter site from 8 Mile Road just East of Griswold Road.

Oakland Candidates Say

Nix on County Millage Increase Proposal

Reed...

financed" law enforcement network, he emphasized that such law enforcement must be done by "sophisticated, intelligent, and well-trained individuals."

Because of today's complex law enforcement problems, he said that enforcing the law is "a highly sophisticated and highly sensitive job that demands intelligence and training and tolerance - not more weapons and more men riding shotgun."

The proposal, aired at a recent Green Oak Township meeting, for 10 citizens to aid in law enforcement in the township worried Reed because he did not think the 10 individuals would be sufficiently trained to handle the township's problems.

"I don't like this swing toward vigilanteism," he said, "I think Hamburg's recent decision to hire a deputy from the Sheriff's department makes a great deal of sense."

Hamburg recently hired a Sheriff's deputy through the board of County Commissioners at a price of $15,000 a year. The deputy will be provided with a car and equipment and training, and will patrol Hamburg Township exclusively for 56 hours a week.

Reed said that the most desirable aspects of such a situation is having a well-trained and competent officer and having a department with county-wide jurisdiction at the township's command.

The increase in "sophisticated" law enforcement, according to Reed, includes action to cut delays in the courts.

"Currently the Circuit court has a backlog of approximately 700 cases: something must be done to correct this," he said.

While speaking of the courts, Reed mentioned that drug users should not be treated as "vulgar enemies of the people." The county should, he said, provide a facility where users might go to get "sympathetic help."

As far as a cure-all for the drug problem goes, Reed said that most adults are "whistling in the dark." He felt that the current marijuana laws tend to alienate the young because they see a possible 20-year term for the use of marijuana as out of proportion to the dangers of the drug.

The solution is too complex, Reed said, to suggest cure-all measures.

Reed sees the role of the county commissioner as almost a "congressional correspondence", where a resident of the district should be able to call and voice complaints. "A Commissioner should have continual information and feedback from his constituency," he said.

Reed currently works at Eastern Michigan University where he has many duties in the English department, some of which are lecturing and providing tutoring for students who need academic help.

considered by the DPW. It would provide two sanitary landfill areas--one in the Brighton area to serve populous southeastern Livingston and one to serve the rest of the county--financed largely by a per capita charge and operated by the county DPW.

If elected, he said he would work for implementation of this plan as soon as possible to provide the county with much needed sanitary landfill service which measures up to state regulations.

Proposal 'C' Gets Backing

The board of directors of the Michigan Association of School Boards has unanimously endorsed Proposal "C" in the November 3 general election.

Dr. W. Edward Dewey of Harper Creek, president of MASA, said the endorsement of the proposition to provide public funds only for public schools is a continuation of the MASA long-standing policy opposing parochialism.

"Our attorney has advised our board of directors that the amendment proposal on the November ballot will not withhold auxiliary services from any non-public school child because these services have been and will continue to be available in the public schools," Dr. Dewey said.

WILLIAM ROBERTS

LEW COY

Roberts...

"My opponent - in 1969 - without any hesitation voted for a $250,000 study of Oakland-Orion Airport. That study, first of all was not necessary because I believe an airport in that location is unnecessary. Secondly, the county has much more vital and pressing problems."

William Roberts, Walled Lake councilman and candidate for the 27th District Oakland County commissioner seat held by Lew Coy, used the above statement to take off on his opponent. The Walled Lake Democrat went on to explain that, "while the amount of the study was eventually pared to $25,000," the project "was wasted because it has now been shelved. I believe it was a waste of the taxpayers' money."

Roberts also contends that the 27th District - "especially, Lyon Township and South Lyon" - has not been adequately represented by the incumbent.

The county, the young contender states, "is not serving this area as well as it should. I recently came out for a county sub-station in this area to include branches of county offices including the Office of Economic Opportunity. I came out for this some time back, so I believe Mr. Coy is a latecomer in this area."

Roberts, on the issue of party politics, says "I don't feel partisan politics should enter into the county board of commissioners. I would act with the interests of this district in mind, not the interests of party politics."

"We must vigorously expand the drug abuse program," the candidate claims, "because the 30 percent county matching formula is not enough and because drug abuse is eroding our society."

Roberts objects to the county proposal which would raise county millage to 18 and fix the distribution to receiving agencies. His views on the proposal are as follows:

"I oppose the increase to 18 mills, but I am not opposed to fixing millage - if the county would fix it at 15.

EDITOR'S NOTE - Republican Incumbent Commissioner Lew Coy of Wixom and Democrat William Roberts of Walled Lake are vying for the Oakland County commissioner seat in the 27th District, which covers among other areas the Oakland County portion of the City of Northville, Novi, Walled Lake, Wixom, Lyon Township, and South Lyon.

What should have been done was to have placed two millage proposals before the voters - one fixing millage on the 18 basis and one on the 15."

Getting down to specifics on an improved drug abuse program in Oakland County, Roberts espouses "Greater education about the harmful effects of drugs - through the school systems, the news media - establishing clinics for treatment and establishing half-way houses."

The councilman recommends a "moving-up" of county priorities to make water and sewer facilities more readily and more immediately available to area municipalities.

Of his opponent, Roberts says, "If the two years he has been over there (on the board) are any indication of what we have to expect in the future, we should be very concerned. He has given us minimal representation. The people of this district should have the constant representation I will give them. My experience in getting things accomplished in Walled Lake shows my willingness to work for the people."

The candidate hopes to concentrate his attentions, if elected, on "establishing a satellite service station for this area and on giving the people greater representation."

He calls a county commissioner's job a full-time one, says he would work full time at it, but at the present salary.

"Crime must be met head on," Roberts states. "My opponent serves on the personnel practices committee and has voted time and again to oppose hiring of more assistant prosecutors and has worked diligently to keep their salaries at a bare minimum. This helps the criminal because it keeps the prosecutor from having an adequate staff to handle the county's caseload. There are areas where cutbacks can be made, but there are also areas in which it is foolish to do so."

Coy...

"Airports must be considered when industries are looking for places in which to locate. They should be financed by setting up industrial parks and special assessment districts. I opposed Oakland-Orion airport because of the location - within seven miles of the Pontiac Airport (conflict of air space) and because of the cost of moving the high tension lines and leveling the rolling ground. I am, however, in favor of planning for airports where they are needed." This, incumbent Oakland County Commissioner (27th District) Lew Coy addressed himself to airports in general, and the abortive Oakland-Orion plan specifically.

The first concern for this area, the Wixom Republican feels, is establishing a satellite building for county services within the immediate area to better serve his constituents.

Addressing himself to his representation of local municipalities, Coy pointed to his record - best among the county's 27 commissioners - in getting governments he represents to accept the county road right-of-way program, to his successful drive to get toll-free telephone communications from the area to county offices in Pontiac and the decision to locate a signal light at the Eight Mile Road - Pontiac Trail intersection.

"I haven't won the whole battle on that intersection yet," the retired Detroit fireman commented. "The flasher - red on Eight, amber on Pontiac Trail - is only the first step to what must be a full directional light in that hazardous location."

When pressed on why he had not been more active in Northville (his district serves the Oakland County portion of that city in addition to Novi, South Lyon, Wixom and Lyon and Novi Townships in this reporting area), Coy stressed a lack of communications between himself and city officials, pointing out that neither had communicated too well with the other. "I assumed they had no problems when they made no effort to contact me," he said, "and I have plenty of problems in the remainder of the area to keep me occupied."

Coy expressed deep displeasure with the state's program for dividing gas and weight taxes among counties. "Counties with no people get the same 15 percent off the top that Oakland does and it's totally unfair," he maintains.

On county services to this area, the commissioner says, "I think an area's representative tends to be parochial and I will never be satisfied with what I get for District 27."

The GOP county officer expressed satisfaction with his efforts on behalf of senior citizens, but did not feel that his efforts to cut costs had been beneficial to the probation officers of the county. "My conscience is not entirely clear on salaries for probation officers," he stated.

A county commissioner's job "is an avocation," Coy feels, but that he could not afford to perform it in the manner in which he has if he did not have his fireman's retirement income. Despite this, the commissioner does not plan to vote for a salary increase, an issue he wants "to see settled before November 3."

The county millage proposal - to raise the millage to 18 (from the current 15), to fix its distribution and thus eliminate the county allocation board - elicited this response from Coy:

"Yes, I am very much in favor of fixing millage - at 15. I object to raising the millage for the county, to lowering it for the townships, as proposed. I don't think the 18 is needed, I feel the wording of the proposal is dishonest and I think it should be defeated. I would go out and punch doorbells in favor of the proposal if it were set at 15 mills, if the county were fixed at no more than it currently gets."

"We are the leaders in the state in combatting drug abuse," Coy states. "We fund local programs up to 30 percent and we offer the communities a great deal of latitude in structuring their own local plans. I went along with funding the Pontiac program in excess of 30 percent because Pontiac General Hospital is involved and the program is open to anyone in the county who might need its services."

Coy looks for increased programs to battle pollution and to maintain the environment, increasing battles against crime and continued efforts to bring better roads to the area. He points to the satellite service center as "only about two years away."

Along The Campaign Trail

Milliken...

Governor William G. Milliken said Sunday that there is danger that those who commit violence in the name of dissent could end up destroying the right of dissent.

He made the comment during a speech at a breakfast meeting before the Men's Club of the Congregation of Shaarey Zedek at 27375 Bell Road in Southfield.

He said that while he strongly supports peaceful dissent, "we are seeing an ugly turn in the direction of protest as we move into the Seventies."

"The great danger in this turn of events is that those who commit violence in the name of dissent could, in the process, destroy the right of dissent."

After noting that the violence that has disrupted many universities "has already spread to some of our high schools," the Governor said:

"I believe very strongly that this right of dissent is part of the genius of American democracy. It was carefully woven into the Constitution, and for nearly two centuries, men who believed in liberty have scrupulously guarded it against attacks designed to reduce it or to abolish it altogether.

"However an individual might feel about these violent forms of dissent, the mood of the American public must be taken into account. And the reality is that the American public is angry and disturbed by violence, and I believe has just about reached the limits of its patience.

"And this is where the perpetrators of violence are in danger of destroying the right of dissent altogether. For the real possibility exists that today's violent and excessive dissent could become tomorrow's violent and excessive repression."

Levin...

Democratic candidate for Governor Sander Levin has charged that Governor Milliken is "trying to talk away Michigan's problems rather than acting to solve them."

Speaking at the Michigan Chamber of Commerce Public Affairs conference Levin cited Milliken's own remarks on the economy to the Chamber meeting as a prime example of the Milliken approach.

"You had a remarkable demonstration from the Governor of his technique of talking away problems," said Levin.

"The Governor said he wasn't to blame for the 'sluggishness of the national economy' and besides Michigan's economy has enjoyed 'remarkable growth' under Republican administrations.

"That 'remarkable growth' includes an unemployment rate that has gone as high as 9.1% this year in Michigan. It now rests at 8.5 percent and it has consistently been 50 percent above the national rate of unemployment this year. Despite rosy predictions by the Governor that the rate of unemployment in Michigan for this year would average 4.8 percent, it has never been below 6 percent.

"That 'remarkable growth' under Republican administrations includes real wages for Michigan factory workers that went down $5.84 a week in 1969, while they were going up 33-cents a week nationally.

Romney...

Lenore Romney has proposed that Michigan become a national testing ground for a three-year, federally funded drug program aimed at heroin addicts who are responsible for a majority of the nation's street crime. The cost of the pilot program would be $25 million per year, she said.

"We are in the midst of a crime epidemic and heroin addiction is the major cause of this rampant lawlessness," the Republican U.S. Senate nominee said.

She cited an FBI report that shows that 70-percent of all crimes of theft, shoplifting, holdups and break-ins are drug-oriented, and said the annual cost of addicts' crimes in the nation is estimated at $14 billion. In the Detroit Metropolitan Area, with more than 5,000 heroin addicts, the annual cost is estimated at $365 million.

Mrs. Romney told a meeting of the Michigan Cancer Society at the Jack Tar Hotel here that her four-point proposal was designed to "eliminate heroin addicts from our streets and to rehabilitate them."

The comprehensive proposal calls for establishment of federal drug treatment centers in Michigan, an amendment to existing federal laws to make treatment mandatory for addicts in the pilot area, creation of a drug information corps, and stepped-up activity by the United States to choke off the flow of drugs into this country from overseas.

Lockwood...

Senator Emil Lockwood Republican candidate for Secretary of State, this week outlined a three point program for helping automobile driver citizens of Michigan.

Lockwood favors elimination of the $1 Michigan vehicle Accident Claims Fund fee that all insured Michigan motorists pay when they purchase license plates. He further stated that the uninsured motorists fund is financially sound. The $35 fee charged uninsured motorists should be continued. But he does not feel that insured motorists should be forced to pay when the fund is already sound without the blanket $1 fee.

The candidate for Secretary of State feels that it takes altogether too long to settle a claim through the fund. This, he says, could be improved by streamlining the procedures, hiring some additional people to handle the backlog and making certain that all claims are recognized as being important and handled with dispatch.

The third is the elimination of paper work. "In this day and age of electronic processing, where information is readily available from a reliable source I see no reason for insurance companies to be forced to issue, nor auto owners to carry, proof of insurance to purchase vehicle plates," Lockwood says. "This insurance information could be stored so that it could be checked electronically thus speeding up the service and helping to eliminate the long lines of motorists waiting to pay taxes to the state of Michigan by purchasing license plates."

Lockwood states that he will bring an even greater efficiency to the office of Secretary of State after he is elected.

Why Walk In The Dark?

Rev. Walter DeBoer
Fellowship Baptist
Whitmore Lake

"Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." John 8:12

The night was dark and rainy when my friend's automobile lights shorted out on his way home from a basketball game. He had no hope of repairing the lights, so expected a long, wet walk home in darkness. Another friend happened along, and seeing the need, said, "Follow me." My friend followed close behind, using the lights of the first car to guide him. He arrived home safe and thankful.

The world of sin is very dark spiritually. Those who know not Jesus Christ as their Saviour are blinded by sin and cannot find their way to God. Jesus Christ is the only way to Him. Jesus speaking in John 14:6 said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." Like the blind man, everyone must call upon the Lord for deliverance of that blindness. When we call in faith, Christ opens our eyes to His truth. We then begin to follow Him. He knows the way we must take to gain Heaven and Eternal Fellowship with God.

There are many religious lights glaring at us today. Most all look inviting and make an easy believism, but there is only one true light to lead us home to Heaven; to safety and to happiness. Jesus Christ is that Light. He said, "I am the light of the world."

Let nothing distract you from Him. Mark 9:42-50 warns us about this. Jesus says if thy hand or foot offend thee, cut it off. If thy eye offend thee, pluck it out. It is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than having these things to go to Hell; into the fire that never shall be quenched.

We place unlimited worth upon each of our members, the eye, the hand, and the foot. People spend great sums of money to retain their use. However great the value, the loss of a limb cannot be compared with the loss of heaven. So great is the worth of Eternal Life that if one of these vital members were to offend us and cause us this loss, the Lord said to cut it off or pluck it out.

Multitudes today are making provisions for the physical life but are sadly neglecting any provision for the well-being of their soul.

May God bless you in these days of world unrest that you may find rest in Him. "If we walk in the Light as He is in the Light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ, His Son, cleanseth us from all sin." I John 1:7

THE WORLD GOD MADE

Teach them the wonder of its foliage, the panorama of its seasons, the mystery of ever-renewing life.
Teach them the world God made.
But teach them, too, the God who made the world . . . the majesty of His Power, the purity of His Holiness . . . the tenderness of His Love.
Teach them the Christ through Whom our Creator revealed His heart to mankind.
There is no greater tragedy than to cherish a book, but not understand its Author.

State Finance May Blow Fuse

LANSING — A private research firm took a long look at state government's financial condition and came to the conclusion the state has "overloaded the circuits."

It further concludes that the only way out of the current situation is a hefty tax increase.

"About the only solution available next year, short of employing the untried concept of reducing costs and putting the lid on spending, will be to insert larger capacity fuses — higher income tax rates," the report by the Citizens Research Council said.

The council's annual budget report said the state's $1.7 billion spending level authorized for fiscal 1970-71 will eat up nearly all of the budget surplus on hand at the close of the last fiscal year.

"APPROPRIATIONS for fiscal year 1971 outstrip expected income and nearly consume the estimated $63.7 million surplus of June 30," the report said. "Assuming revenue estimates hold up, fiscal year 1971 would close with a cumulative surplus of just under $2 million."

The report said a $2 million surplus comes "too close for comfort" by barely complying with a constitutional mandate that annual appropriations must not exceed available resources.

And it says a "deteriorating budgetary outlook" puts even that much of a surplus in question, since actual tax collections for fiscal 1970 fell $26.4 million below original estimates.

OTHER FACTORS which the council feels foreshadow an income tax hike are:

— State spending leaped 67 per cent, or $701 million, in the fiscal period 1967 to 1971 and increased concentration on such new programs as drug, crime and pollution control are likely to accelerate the spending spiral.

— New features built into state school aid bills increasing available funds for construction, vocational education, transportation and per pupil grants could increase state payments to local district by $280 million in fiscal 1972.

— If the Legislature moves to replace or reduce local school property taxes with a statewide levy it could cost the state anywhere from $200 million to $480 million per year extra.

THE WOMEN'S lib movement scored a victory of sorts recently in the Michigan courts.

A woman attorney from Detroit, Miss Sue Weisenfeld, secured a letter from Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas Brennan saying it's okay with him if women lawyers wear pant suits in court.

Miss Weisenfeld had written to Brennan asking his opinion of pant suits and asking him, in his capacity as chief justice, to write an "official letter" on the matter.

BRENNAN replied: "I find nothing inappropriate about trouser suits for women lawyers appearing in the Supreme Court or any other court in the state.

They have achieved wide acceptance among women of good taste in both business and social circles, and would not in these times be looked upon as mere sportswear."

The chief justice added some words of praise for Miss Weisenfeld's approach.

She had said, "I realize that I could proceed on the assumption that I have the right to wear what I consider appropriate, but if possible I prefer to avoid either argument or embarrassment."

Replied Brennan: "Your thoughtful and respectful letter is an example of the kind of concern for courtroom decorum which all lawyers should have, and you should be commended for your good judgment and discretion."

HE'S BEEN OUT of office nearly two years now, but former Gov. George Romney's portrait still hasn't been hung in the Capitol.

There is a long-standing tradition that a life-size portrait of former governors is hung in the capitol shortly after they leave office. The eight most recent governors are displayed around the rotunda just outside the governor's office. The others are spread throughout the building.

For quite a few months now, there has been an empty space along the rotunda wall, with only seven portraits hanging up.

Sources say they hope the portrait of Romney can be ready before the end of the year.

Babson Report

Gain Seen for Consumer Index

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass. — The preliminary reading of the Wholesale Commodity Price Index spurted upward in September, erasing the dip of the previous month and suggesting fresh gains for the consumer price index. Blame could not be laid — this time — on cost-push wage inflation or soaring defense expenditures. The villain was, in fact, an unpredictable damaging of the 1970 corn crop by the spread of the southern corn leaf blight into the Midwest cornbelt. Added to the blight was an infestation of corn borers and stalk rot, all of which could mean abnormally high harvesting losses due to stalk breakage. There was, fortunately, dry weather, during much of July and August, hastening maturity of the crop in the Western corn belt and permitting harvesting at a more rapid pace than is usual. In many sections farmers are picking ahead of schedule in order to minimize damage from the blight. IN AN UNUSUAL move, the Agriculture Department made a special supplementary survey of the corn crop late in September. Normally assessments are made at the start of each month in the growing season. The extra-inspection results, revealed early in October, projected an outturn of nearly 4.2 billion bushels of corn for 1970. This was a drop of 13 percent from the early-July forecast, and 5 percent below a prediction made only three weeks before. The indicated yield per acre was set at 72.2 bushels as of September 23, compared with the prior forecast of nearly 76 bushels. If the special projection runs true to form, the 1970 corn crop will be 9 percent smaller than the 1969 outturn of close to 4.6 billion bushels. Last year's per-acre yield was a record 83.9 bushels. As matters now stand, the 1970 total shapes up as the smallest since 1966.

McCann: 'It's Part-time Job'

Continued from Page 1-B his law practice. "I frankly couldn't afford to live on the county commissioner's salary." However, because it is part-time he opposes an increase in the commissioner's salary. Chief problem — that problem around which all other problems revolve, i.e., inadequate jail facilities, police protection, roads, etc. — is lack of money, declares McCann, and while his opponent may try to skirt this key problem, it nevertheless exists and will not go away.

has failed to adequately address itself to the matter of rapid transportation — a problem of major proportion in the metropolitan region. "The federal government has just made large sums of money available for this purpose and as far as I know has not yet allocated any of it. Here is where the commission should act swiftly.

little power. "Some day in some way it's going to have to have some tax power in order to be effective. Without this move it cannot deal effectively in the area of regional water supply, regional pollution, mass transit, etc. So to ask if I am satisfied with SEMCOG, I'd have to say that on the basis of what they are able to do purely as an advisory body without any extraordinary power, yes I am satisfied.

When news of the invasion of the blight became public, the price of corn advanced rapidly. Other feed grain prices were also driven upward, including soybeans, oats, and sorghum.

As usually happens, however, the initially violent price response to adverse developments soon bent to more basic considerations. Hence, despite the fact that the special survey revealed somewhat more corn damage than the earlier report had implied, grain prices have been mostly marking time.

Their simply are insufficient funds to meet even the annual increases resulting from the rising cost of living, he asserts.

"I was disappointed, too, because of the apparent commission failure in not seeking or enforcing additional cooperation from the local level in pollution control of the Rouge River and instead turning the matter over to the Army Corps of Engineers."

"However, at the same time I am not saying that we should turn over special powers, including the authority to tax, to it. I'm saying that eventually it will have to be provided with funds to deal with problems on a regional basis."

SINCE WEATHER is particularly critical at this late stage of the crop year, full extent of the blight damage will not be known until the harvest has been completed. Wet weather could cause growth trouble and slow picking, and there is the ever-present danger of killer frosts. But a sizable carryover is in storage under government loan and price support programs, so there is no immediate threat of shortages.

Short of finding new avenues of tax support, about the only avenue left to the county commission is to concentrate on securing more federal aid. If elected, says McCann, he will work for the establishment of a commission committee that deals specifically with this matter — by researching the areas where federal funds are available, by coordinating the efforts of the various county departments, and by making concerted efforts to get these monies.

Concerning the incumbent commissioner's (Carl Pursell) suggestion that the county Child Development Center be closed and that money earmarked for it be given foster parents to take these children into their own homes, McCann says it is a "fine idea" but unworkable because the private homes for this purpose are just not available. "I don't think money is the factor that motivates people in taking in children of this kind."

The Democratic candidate "utterly disagrees" with his opponent's views on social services. "I've dealt with the results of our social welfare program. I doubt if today there is a dime misused on the administrative level and I think the federal government two years ago at great expense to the taxpayers was able to determine that there was about 3-percent abuse. I've worked with these people, including welfare recipients; and you can't put welfare people into a welfare family syndrome.

Unfortunately, county governmental agencies presently work individually for federal funds and there is no coordinated effort. They work independently of each other when really a single committee of the commission dealing with securing air could be more successful. Such a committee could establish priorities and request aid based on those priorities, he says.

McCann said he would look favorably at an Oakland County proposal to raise the county millage levy to 18 mills for Wayne County even though he abhors the present property tax structure. "What else can we do? If that's the only source open to use — after we've looked at everything else first — then maybe we'll have to consider (county millage)."

"The idea of forcing people to work is a politician's over-simplification of the problem that, frankly, could cost more than the aid itself. Who pays for supervision of these 'working for their pay' people? Who pays for their transportation to the job? Who determines where and when they must work? Also, you can't legally force people to work. There's also the problem of unions. What about the person who is hurt on the job?"

Fortunately, because of the inflexible status of supply-demand ratios for the near term in cattle, hogs, fowl, wheat, soybeans, and soybean meal, a radical upsurge in food prices does not appear likely for the immediate future. Adverse implications from the corn blight loom more important for 1971, when high feed costs may force livestock and poultry raisers to curtail herds and broods.

Despite the gross inadequacies of the present county jail, McCann sees some real pitfalls in the suggestion that the county lease facilities at the Detroit House of Correction. The problem of security, its distance from the court system, and the expense of transportation, very likely could outweigh the advantages, he says.

If elected, the Democratic candidate would like to serve on that committee having to do with health and welfare. "I'd like also to be a part of this committee dealing with federal aid, and I'd like to be able to deal with those pollution matters especially as they relate to the Rouge basin."

Sure, I'm enough of a middle class suburbanite who gets upset when a healthy man who receives aid and lives almost as well as the man who works hard for a living. But it isn't an answer. You're going to spend more to get the work done than you would to hire someone to do it."

SUCH A CONTRACTION in supplies would run up against a rising consumption rate for meats, and at least the higher feed costs would be passed on in the form of price markups. An even more serious situation will develop if the blight infestation is not checked next year and the 1971 corn crop falls victim to a second consecutive year of inadequate outturn.

Moelke: Hits SEMCOG

A former county official with the Detroit Regional Transportation and Land Use Study (TALUS), Moelke is critical of that, and its former director, Irving Rubin, in their unresponsiveness to municipalities of the region.

Similarly, he is critical of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) because in the past it has often addressed itself to matters that have no relationship to its existence. It's anti-parochial stand, for example, has no place before a group such as that.

"I just don't think SEMCOG is representative of the people. There are too many individuals on it who are employees of some governmental unit — school districts in particular — and who are not elected by anyone."

Concerning the increasing demand placed on the county to provide social benefits, the Republican candidate says "it's about time we started making people aware of the fact that they have some responsibilities for themselves. I'm certainly not advocating that we don't help people who need help. But costs going back to the local government."

Concerning efforts in neighboring Oakland County calling for establishment of satellite centers housing departmental county offices, Moelke sees the added county expense as outweighing local benefit in considering similar centers in Wayne County. "It would benefit relatively few people but certainly increase the cost of government. I think we should be looking at ways decreasing the cost of government rather than increasing it."

Unless the responsibility of the board of commissioners is increased, Moelke would oppose an increase in commission salaries. "High salaries do not necessarily mean better salaries," he argues.

Moelke says he looks at the commission job as a part-time one. "Of course that doesn't mean a man can't put a great many hours into it. It depends on what people consider part-time. There was some people who said I was a part-time mayor of Livonia but I put 60 to 70 hours a week in. Too many people feel that the salary is the basis for whether or not a job is full-time."

we must do it in a more effective manner...

"Our county welfare should be based upon an opportunity to get back self-respect. Rather than a welfare payment with nothing that they are doing in return, I'd like to see us establish a payscale for people like this and pay them to do some of the jobs that need to be done. Frankly, if a person couldn't physically do this then I think they should be required to go into some kind of rehabilitation program where they can learn a job and get back some of their self-respect."

So concerned is he about the present welfare system, that Moelke would go still further and provide a sterilization program for those ADC mothers after they have had two children. "If she had two illegitimate I don't think she should ever be permitted to have another one."

And furthermore, concludes Moelke, society "would be better off" if such children were not left in the environment in which they were born.

HOUSING OF HORSES
A horse's health is the primary consideration in his housing. Veterinarians report that respiratory infections, lack of water, lack of exercise and head injuries are very common health problems to guard against in determining size, location and architecture of a horse's quarters.

To keep a horse healthy, his owner must protect from extremes of weather, provide sufficient fresh air, food and water, a dry bed and exercise.

A good approach to building a stable following selection of a suitable site is to (a) plan proper ventilation, (b) determine size and type of stall needed, (c) estimate the quantities of feed and water necessary and plan sufficient storage area for these requirements and (d) take into consideration possible future expansion.

The stable should be situated so that surface drainage is practical. Odors can be minimized by locating the building downwind from the prevailing westerlies. Access to a field or paddock must be considered. Try to provide space away from the yard area for movement of manure and animals.

Box stalls are generally preferable to tie stalls due to the insufficient exercise horses usually get outside the stall.

Tie stalls should be five feet wide and eight to nine feet long for mature horses. For a pony, provide a 3 x 6 foot area for a tie stall.

Box stalls for adult horses should be approximately 10 x 12 feet.

Two inch tongue and groove material is recommended for walls of stalls. The outside walls of metal or wood siding should be lined with two-inch planks. Frame doors with two-inch boards or make them from material two inches thick. These doors should be mounted on heavy duty tracks or T-hinges.

Door latches for stalls must be strong and easy to operate, yet not simple enough for the horse to open himself.

Each horse should be provided with a soft, dry bed. Peat moss, straw, shavings or sawdust are generally adequate.

It takes eight to 12 gallons of water per day to maintain a healthy horse. Three recommended fresh water supplies include a frost-free hydrant, an electric watering bowl or buckets pumped and carried to the horse several times each day.

Warm housing is not necessary, but care must be exercised in preventing drafts, dampness and high humidity. Ventilation is the best means of controlling moisture - one of the biggest problems in keeping horses.

Moisture is produced by the horse, as well as body heat. Condensation at certain temperature and moisture conditions causes frost on cold services and proper ventilation is the only means possible to combat this undesirable situation.
