

Register to Vote

Teenagers Pin Hopes on Court

"I felt it was my duty as a citizen to register to vote," said Mary Prodger of Northville as she joined a small but growing number of teenagers placing their hopes in the United States Supreme Court.

In the wake of a recent ruling by State Attorney General Frank J. Kelley that 18, 19 and 20-year-olds may register now pending a reversal by the Supreme Court, two city residents and six in the township have taken the big step.

On January 1 the voting age nation-wide will be officially lowered to 18. The law, however, could be found unconstitutional by the court.

The recent overwhelming Michigan vote against the 18-year-old proposition (1,438,556 to 922,251) has no bearing on the action of Congress earlier this year in approving the 18-year-old vote in national, state and local elections, said Congressman Marvin Esch.

Esch urged all eligible young people to register.

Kelley has stated that registrations of those under the age of 21 will be accepted but filed separately, pending possible reversal by the court.

Meanwhile, teenagers are taking the new law seriously.

"After I heard the ruling, I felt it was my duty as a citizen to register to vote," explained Miss Prodger. "Until you are 21 you can't do anything but protest or join a group and that doesn't really accomplish much. I believe my vote is the best way to protest."

Said James Penn:

"It was sort of on the spur of the moment. Mark (Whittlesey) and I were talking with Mrs. Hammond (Township Clerk Mrs. Eleanor Hammond) about responsibilities and we had heard that others had registered. We felt we should register, too, and Mrs. Hammond registered us right there at her home."

"I would like to be able to vote," Jim continued, "and I do understand the responsibilities. I believe taking government courses in high school teach students what government is all about and the responsibilities that go along with voting."

Should the new law stand a court test, registered 18-year-olds in the city will have their first opportunity to vote in the spring election. They and those registered in the township also will be able to vote in the June school election.

Others who have registered locally as of last week include Joe Hines, Scott Bergo, Donna Farkas, Patrick Cayley, and Michael Fitzpatrick.

Detroit Delays Decision

Maybury Sale Clouded

Detroit Common Council has scheduled further discussion on disposition of Maybury Sanatorium property in Northville Township for Monday, December 21.

The action Tuesday afternoon delayed the expected transfer of the property from the health department to the surplus property division, which is to supervise sale of the Maybury land and buildings.

Council President Mel Ravitz sent word to The Record that he asked for the delay Tuesday to give time for the consideration of all possible uses for the 900-acre site in Western Wayne County.

It is anticipated that the property will be advertised for sale following the expected approval by the council of the transfer next week. (The city's surplus property division already has made plans to place ads in Metropolitan Detroit papers, the Wall Street Journal and in the Northville Record December 23.)

The last tuberculosis patients were taken from Maybury the beginning of August, 1969, and vandalism has been a constant problem with the vacant buildings. Furnishings were sold at auction a few weeks ago.

A week ago Detroit Common Council informally approved a proposal to sell the site owned by the city to private developers. It thus rejected requests by Northville city officials to sell approximately 200 acres to Northville for a park development, approving the future sale as a package. The site's rolling hills have given it the reputation of being the "most beautiful land in Wayne County."

Council President Ravitz pointed out that the proposal was placed on Tuesday afternoon's agenda because the council previously acted informally as only two councilmen, Anthony J. Wierzbicki and William G. Rogell, were present. Both approved the sale proposal. Other council members were in Atlanta at a meeting of cities.

Ravitz said he had joined the two members after they had "considered rezoning and moved to declare the property surplus." He asked for a formal hearing the next day, he said, after receiving a letter from Edward J. Robinson, executive director of the Metropolitan Detroit Citizens Development Authority (MDCDA), proposing a "planned community" for the site.

In his letter Robinson pointed out that "there are plenty of suburban developments for the well-to-do, but little for the middle or lower income..."

A special committee of the Detroit Real Estate Board had recommended to city officials that "highest and best use of the property would be a development of single homes, multiple housing of various types, and neighborhood commercial services."

The recommendation of the board committee was given to the council last Thursday with the proposal that bids on the property be accepted March 1, 1971.

While Ravitz was quoted last week as saying he was intrigued with the possibility of making a "socially, even economically beneficial use" of the

NORTHVILLE'S NEWEST — Chartering of Northville's newest service organization, Northville-King's Mill Civitan Club, took place Friday night in a dinner program at the First

Civitan Club Gets Charter Saturday

Northville's newest service organization became a reality Friday evening as more than 100 people gathered in the First Presbyterian Church social hall for the chartering of the Northville-King's Mill Civitan Club.

Initiation of members, installation of officers, and the official presentation of the club's charter highlighted the dinner program.

The new club, which begins with 29 members, is affiliated with Civitan International, a service organization of associated clubs devoted to "Builders of Good Citizenship" as set forth in its creed.

There are some 1,200 affiliated Civitan clubs in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Norway, Sweden and West Germany. The Northville club is

More Racing But Summer Meet Cut

Although harness racing dates next year at Northville Downs have been increased by 27 nights ensuring additional city revenue, the new schedule calls for a shortened summer meet that the Downs' executive manager, John Carlo, finds less than satisfactory.

The new schedule, announced Tuesday by State Racing Commissioner Leo Shirley, calls for a 35-night summer racing meet (June 24 through August 3), down 19 from the 54 nights in the summer this year.

Northville next year also will receive a winter meet of 44 nights, from February 3 through March 25; and a Jackson-at-Northville meet of 42 nights, from November 1 through December 18.

Carlo, who anticipated a summer reduction, nevertheless had pinned his hopes on 42 or 40 nights. Anything less, he indicated, would hardly be profitable enough to open.

"I just haven't had time to think about it," he said minutes after learning of the new dates Tuesday. "It looks like we've got dates all over the place but the shortened summer meet could hurt."

Meanwhile, City Manager Frank Ollendorff, who said the city had hoped for more summer dates, was delighted with the overall increase — up 27 from 94 this year to 121 next year.

He estimated that the additional dates will generate some $50,000 more revenue for the city, which this year expects to receive some $320,000 or more as its share of the mutual handle over 94 nights.

Several thousand dollars of the additional revenue, however, will be lost because of the additional cost to the city for policing during the extra racing nights.

Jackson Trotting officials were unavailable for comment on their new 42-night meet here — two more nights than they received this year.

Commissioner Shirley said the new dates represent a compromise that "is the fairest we could have for the time-being." Noting that the "big tracks" (Hazel Park and Wolverene) wanted to eliminate summer dates in Northville, he said "we're relying on Northville to do a good job in the summer, otherwise it may be hard to keep those dates. They'll have to offer good racing."

"Personally, I feel the good horses at Hazel Park will stay (remain in the state rather than going elsewhere) to go to Northville and then come back to Wolverene," Shirley told The Record in refuting the argument that horsemen leave the state rather than stay for the less lucrative Northville racing.

Hazel Park's harness racing season in 1971 will precede the Downs summer meet, running from March 26 through June 23. Racing follows the Downs' summer meet at Wolverene in Livonia, running from August 4 through October 30.

Outstate, the Jackson Trotting Association, which moves to the Downs for its fall meet, will begin 50 nights of racing at Jackson on April 23 and run through June 19.

Your Letter Can Help

She Seeks Release of POW's

What the peace talks in Paris have been unable to accomplish could very well be effectively influenced by American public opinion.

That's why Mrs. Lester Phillips of Northville this past week made an impassioned plea for local citizens to actively seek humane treatment and the release of American prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

"All of us can do something by writing letters directly to the president of North Vietnam," she said, noting that similar efforts are being made in communities throughout the United States.

She referred to a feature page in the Spencer (Iowa) Sunday Times in which a desperate mother of a POW, close friend of Mrs. Phillips, pleaded, "Please help me to get word of my son..."

Similar efforts were conducted here recently by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012 and the Northville Jaycee Auxiliary. The former conducted a petition drive, collecting the names of local citizens on petitions to be presented to the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris. The Jaycees conducted post card campaign last month, obtaining names on pre-printed cards that appealed for humane treatment of POWs, more information about those known to be dead, release of the sick and seriously wounded, and free flow of mail to the prisoners.

One way to get the word through to North Vietnam is through personal letters to Ton Duc Thank, president of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Mrs. Phillips noted.

In this Christmas season if each citizen of this area took the time to write a letter, (these letters together with the letters going out from other areas of the nation, could convince Hanoi, which is sensitive to world

MR. AND MRS. JAMES MARINO

Sixty Years Together Marked by Couple

Mr. and Mrs. James Marino celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at a Solemn High Mass at St. John's Seminary, Plymouth, November 17, with Father Lowell Glendon, Celebrant, officiating as they renewed their vows before a gathering of 350 friends, neighbors and family.

The honored couple approached the altar on a special runner prepared by the Seminarians, depicting the 60 years of history that have taken place since their marriage. Events, in picture form, were displayed to portray a "Walk Thru Life."

A reception at Thunderbird Inn, given by the couple's sons and daughters, followed the ceremony. The honorees eight living children attended the ceremony and reception.

James Marino, 85, and his wife, Vita, 75, were born in Italy and were married November 19, 1910. Both are in good health and still enjoy their hobbies of gardening and travel. Mrs. Marino especially enjoys cooking and baking traditional Italian foods.

They live with a son, Charles J. Marino of Six Mile Road, Northville. Their other children are Anthony F. and Catherine of Barnesboro, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Josephine Sedlock of Clawson, Mrs. Rose Catalano and Mrs. Sarah Rauch of Long Beach, California, James F. of Livonia and Frank A. of Redford.

Also attending the festivities were 34 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren from Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Readers Suggest Festive Recipes

Gifts from the kitchen always are a welcome present at Christmas. Special breads are good to make at the last minute. This banana bread recipe is one of several from Mrs. Emma Miller's file, which she has shared with Record readers.

HOLIDAY BANANA BREAD

1 egg
1 c. sugar
½ c. shortening
2 c. all-purpose flour
1 tsp. baking soda
½ c. chopped dates
½ c. chopped maraschino cherries (red and green)
½ c. chopped nuts
1 c. bananas

In large bowl beat egg, sugar, shortening, bananas and vanilla until smooth. Sift flour and soda together and blend into banana mixture. Stir in remaining ingredients. Pour batter into greased and floured 9x5x3 pan or one fluted tube pan (4 c. capacity) plus one small loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350) 1 hour and 15 min., or until done. Time varies slightly with size and shape of pan.

Mrs. Miller notes that the homemade breads make ideal holiday gifts for friends or fellow workers.

A holiday fruit souffle salad that looks especially festive in red-and-green and tastes as good as it looks is a favorite which Mrs. Robert L. Cantrell (Jill in the A & P) shares. To give the salad ample time to set, she suggests making it the night before, as she did when she took it to the Northern Lites Home Extension Christmas meeting.

HOLIDAY FRUIT SOUFFLE SALAD

1 6-oz. pkg. lime gelatin
2 c. hot water
1 c. cold water

4 tbsp. fresh lemon juice
1 c. mayonnaise (Hellmann's)
½ tsp. salt
2 large apples, peeled and diced (Mrs. Cantrell prefers Delicious)

2 c. red grapes, peeled and halved
1 to 2 c. coarsely chopped walnut meats

METHOD: Dissolve gelatin in hot water; add cold water, mayonnaise, lemon juice and salt. Blend well with electric beater. Set in refrigerator, chilling until slightly thickened. Whip until fluffy with electric beater. Fold in apples, grapes and walnuts. Pour into favorite 2-quart mold. Chill 6 or 8 hours before unmolding onto a bed of lettuce. Surround with well-drained, spiced crab apples with stems.

Novi Language Clubs To Go Caroling Monday

French and Spanish clubs at Novi High School have been practicing Christmas carols to sing in a program at the Plymouth State Home next Monday afternoon. The clubs also plan to carol in Novi subdivisions that evening.

Mrs. Rosemary Crippen, the French teacher, hopes that residents of Willowbrook and Meadowbrook subdivisions will open their doors to the carolers. She adds that when they sang in the areas last year, there was some confusion with residents thinking they were caroling for money. This is not the case, as the 30 students she says, are singing only for the joy of the season.

The group also hopes to include Beverly Manor convalescent home on its caroling tour. Students expect to divide into two groups for the neighborhood caroling.

Mrs. Maralan Haseltine, Spanish teacher, and her students have been making a Mexican pinata to be filled with candy for the party at the Plymouth State Home. The students also are taking cookies and punch.

Local Junior Misses Head for State Jaycee Pageant

Both Wendy Wheaton, Northville's Junior Miss, and Connie Sutherland of Wixom, Walled Lake's Junior Miss, were among the 12 winners in the 1970-71 Metropolitan Regional Junior Miss Pageant held Saturday night at Northville High School.

The two local winners and the 10 other regional winners will join 12 winners selected in the other regional pageant in Midland in competition for the state crown January 23 in Pontiac.

As Wendy Wheaton became a state finalist in the Jaycee sponsored contest, it marked the fourth time in five years that Northville has had a Junior Miss going to the state competition.

Wendy, who just became 17 last month, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Thomas Wheaton, 412 Horton. She has an older brother, Thomas John, in engineering school at University of Michigan, and a younger brother, Morgan, in the sixth grade at Cooke Junior High annex.

A top honor student at Northville High School, Wendy has a 4-point average and is a Merit finalist. For her talent act at both the local and regional competitions Wendy played a piano solo, "Malaguena."

She also plays the recorder, likes to sew and "reads so much." Her mother adds that she now working two nights a week in the Title One program in Northville schools and "enjoys the little children very much."

major in sociology. She now is a senior at Walled Lake Western High School.

In both the local and regional Junior Miss contests she played a flute solo, "Il Sonata" by Handel.

Both Connie and Wendy are tall blondes whose posture, grace and poise aided in taking them to the finalist spots. In judging interviews mental alertness, personality, values and clarity of expression count 35 per cent of the total. Scholastic achievement counted for 15 per cent. Their performing arts and appearance in evening gowns made up the remainder of the judging points.

Other local Junior Misses who won Saturday night are Mary Jane Gunton of Dearborn Heights, who did a tap dance routine; Hiawatha Lewis of Pontiac, who coupled a dramatic reading, "The Creation," with piano excerpts; Deborah Salusky of Warren, with a sewing demonstration; Joanne Orr of Garden City singing original folk songs and playing the guitar; Sandra Gierman of Livonia, a vocal solo, "Clair de Lune;" Cathy Eades of Allen Park with a Spanish aria, "Haranera;" Jayne Malooly of Grosse Pointe Farms with a fashion talk; Susan Watson of Belleville, a vocal solo, "Until It's Time for You to Go," accompanying herself on the guitar; and Kathleen Pearson of Melvindale with a song and dance routine from "My Fair Lady."

The girls and the audience were welcomed to the first regional pageant to be held in Northville by Peter Magnan, Northville Jaycees president, who introduced Master of Ceremonies Johnny Randall, WXYZ radio personality who has been host of his own show for four years. Northville

High School Jazz Band under Robert Williams played throughout the evening.

Novi Council Accepts Meadowbrook Streets

By unanimous vote Monday night Novi councilmen accepted for dedication the streets in Holtzman and Silverman's 10 Mile Road development, Meadowbrook Glens.

Provision was made that the developers would be responsible for street maintenance and repair for one year following acceptance of the streets as per the maintenance bond.

Dedication of the streets, according to City Manager Dallas Zonkers, means that the city has accepted as up to their standards "the design, workmanship and general condition of the streets in the area."

"Also of importance," said Zonkers, "is an allowance we get back from the state for every mile of approved street we have in our city."

In connection with street acceptance, councilmen referred to discussion a request from the developers to switch inspection of sidewalks in the area from the city engineering firm of Johnson and Anderson, "with whom we have difficulty working," to the city building department.

While on the subject of sidewalks, councilmen considered obtaining funds currently held in escrow account to build and repair those in Meadowbrook Lakes.

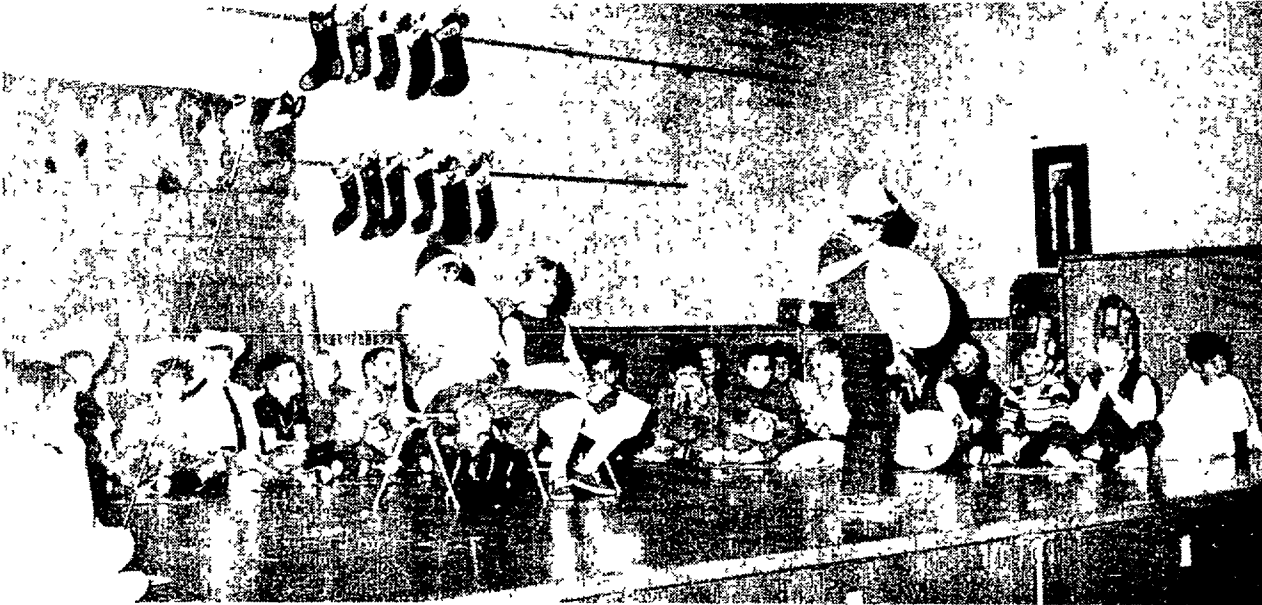

It was noted by Zonkers that the funds are held under agreement between the city and the developer, Homestead Corporation, and that permission from both parties is needed before any funds can be withdrawn.

In other business Monday night, the council reaffirmed the assessment role it had ordered Zonker to prepare in October for the paving of Nine Mile Road.

The role assesses all property owners at a full unit of benefit per front foot, approximately $28, except those who have their residences abutting the improvement. Two citizens fall under this special classification: Anthony Sinicola and Frank Bosak. They will be charged 1/2 unit of benefit, approximately $14 per front foot for the parcel of land on which their residences stand.

Some $8,000 will be charged to land owners in the area for the paving of a bridge on Nine Mile, according to Manager Zonkers, while the city will pick up the remaining $6,000.

Other expenses to the city will be $1,904 for improvements abutting the cemetery on Nine Mile, and $3,255 for a railroad crossing east of Bosak's property.

Here the toys tell the audience, and the old elf, what they are, as part of a skit which included props and costumes made entirely by the performers. The program also featured orchestration and vocal music by fifth and sixth graders.

School Board Members

Speed Through Agenda

In one of its shortest meetings in recent memory, the Novi Board of Education sped through its agenda in anticipation of a special meeting next Monday.

But before adjourning at 9:30 p.m., the board heard reports of downward adjustment of district's state equalized valuation, progress of its new school construction, status of the Novi Recreation Board, discussed committee appointments, approved a 10 Mile Road speed-limit resolution, and gave the green light to a research testing program.

The board also unanimously voted a $150 outlay for the appearance here in January of a professional group of young people calling themselves The Spurlows, who speak on the drug cult and the dangers of drug mis-use. Their program also utilizes music to enhance their message, it was reported.

Gary Gillett, student council president, had told board members that the council wanted to bring the group to Novi as a means of hitting at the drug problem but because of limited resources it could come up with only $50 for financing the group's appearance. He asked if the board would appropriate the remaining $100.

Following a report by Superintendent Thomas Dale that the Spurlows' appearance would be beneficial for seventh through 12th graders, the board quickly voted to underwrite all of the $150 for the program, noting its own responsibility in providing programs of this kind.

An earlier suggestion that the meeting nights of the board be changed were scrapped in view of a poll in which the majority of members preferred the present schedule of meeting the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

Second choice was the first and third Mondays, and the third choice was the second and fourth Thursdays.

Board disagreement arose over the question of including teachers on a screening committee that is to recommend candidates for principalship of the new elementary school now under construction.

Board President Bruce Simmons, who makes the committee appointments, indicated he would exclude teachers from serving because he personally does not believe they should have a hand in selecting a superior.

Board to Decide Election Date

School board members are expected to set an election date Monday for millage renewal and increase proposals.

Superintendent Thomas Dale indicated this week that he will present to the board alternative dates as well as spelling out how the propositions should be presented.

Earlier it was disclosed that an operational millage increase may be necessary with the opening of the two new schools now under construction. Also, an existing 4.5 millage issue is expiring.

The special board meeting is scheduled to start a half-hour early, at 7:30 p.m., to permit a short Christmas program by the Seventh Grade Chorus.

Council Promises 60 Sewer Taps

Reacting to a request from Hubbard Associates, Detroit area developers of industrial parks, Novi councilmen gave a "consensus" opinion Monday night indicating that, should the firm develop land it owns in Novi, 60 sewer taps would be available.

Councilman Edwin Presnell revealed, and other councilmen concurred, that approximately 200 taps had been set aside for industrial development within the city.

The "request for a feeling on the part of city officials" came just one week after a fury of council discussion concerning sewer taps for residential dwellings.

Last week a request from Samuel Hechtman of Detroit's Practical Homes for some 125 taps he claimed the city "owed him" set off debate which lead to a ban on the sale of all sewer taps, "with the exception of those already under contractual agreement," to be lifted only in the case of specific council authorization.

At the time Presnell voiced fears, echoed by other councilmen that the city may already have over-extended itself as to sewer capacity and in fact have no sewer taps to sell

As a rider to his ban on taps, Mayor Joseph Crupi had ordered a study be made to "determine exactly where we stand."

Hechtman's claim, intended to provide sewer hook-up to a condominium development on 10 Mile Road, was honored.

The Hubbard firm owns land on the north east corner of 10 Mile, currently zoned M-1 and M-3 (light to heavy industrial). Representatives of the firm mentioned that their main concern with respect to development was sewer availability in the area.

Wixom Denies, OKs Appeals

One request was denied, another approved, and a public hearing set by the Wixom Board of Appeals at their monthly meeting Monday night.

Two requests from Ward Ross, a Pontiac builder, to split 50 foot lots into 75 foot building sites were considered.

One involving six lots on Flamingo between Potter and Grouse in Birch Park, was denied, the other, involving three lots on Grouse near Nightingale, also in Birch Park, was given over to a public hearing to be held on January 11.

Wixom ordinances, according to Priscilla Whaley, secretary for the board, state that building may not be undertaken or anything less than an 80-foot lot.

In other business Monday night, the board approved a request for Arnold Fischer of the Willow-O-Way Day Camp on Beck Road to erect a pavilion over a picnic area on the camp grounds.

all facets of police work given by officers and personnel of state and local forces as well as other law enforcement agencies," said BeGole. "It also includes 16 hours of work on the firing range, during which cadets have to qualify."

Three New Officers Join Novi Force

Novi has three new potential police officers.

The men began their training Tuesday and, according to Police Chief Lee BeGole "are only temporary until they finish the course."

The men: Gary Appleton, 25, of Westland; Max Roder, 25, of New Hudson; and John April, 22, of Southgate will finish the three week course December 31.

Appleton, at one time a patrolman with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, said he came to Novi because "I prefer to be a patrolman in a community like this."

Appleton is married and has two children.

Roder, a former claims inspector with Ford Motor Company and an army veteran with the signal corps is also married but has no children.

April was also a patrolman with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. He is a veteran of Viet Nam, where he won numerous honors, and lives with his wife and child.

"I liked being a sheriff's deputy," said April, "but I feel there is more future in Novi."

Upon completion of their three week course, the men begin a 6 month probationary period, said BeGole.

BeGole noted that the instruction course is similar to that offered at the Metropolitan Police Academy where he is president.

"It includes extensive training in

To leave sunny climes and return, to good old nippy Michigan was the recent experience of several Wixomites.

Queen Pam and consort Barry Westervelt returned to Wixom on December 7 after spending a week in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida. The trip was the major prize Pam won as Centennial Queen. They stayed at the Bahia Mar Hotel located on the ocean at the Bahia Mar Yacht Club. Pam said the flights down and back were great, their rooms beautiful and the food delicious. During their stay, much time was spent soaking up the sun and touring the area. While on a deep sea fishing expedition, Barry caught a King Mackerel. Another fisherman caught a 400-pound, 12½ foot tall sting ray. Pam said it was a big blob but according to local sources, a very unusual creature to catch. One of the most "fun" things they did was taking a dinner cruise on an old fashioned paddlewheeler boat to a small island. After dinner there was dancing and a floor show. # Public Hearings Set PUBLIC HEARINGS scheduled over the next several weeks include two council hearings next Monday. One will consider the rezoning of lots on the west side of South Center Street, south of the proposed Chatham supermarket, to permit erection of a Burger Chef restaurant. Another will consider a revised water rate schedule, calling for a small reduction. On Tuesday, January 5, the city planning commission will conduct hearings on a rezoning petition of the Thompson-Brown company to permit construction of a Marathon service station at the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Taft roads, and it also will consider an ordinance amendment setting forth procedures for appealing decisions to the city council.

Out of THE PAST

FIVE YEARS AGO...

Mustangs routed South Lyon cagers in the season opener by a score of 72-45.

"Moonlight and Roses" was the theme of the Junior Prom held at Northville High.

While Northville council begins its search for a new city manager, City Attorney Philip Ogilvie will serve as acting manager.

Northville township board decided to split a $7,000 street improvement project with Wayne County Board members agreed to blacktop West Main street from Clement to Woodhill with the county road commission paying one-half the cost.

Calling cards left among illegally dumped debris have led Novi police to the culprit. A Farmington man was fined $40 after admitting to police he dumped refuse on Meadowbrook road near Squire Drive.

It has been unofficially determined that enough signatures were gained in the recent petition drive to qualify an election for cityhood in Novi. Two previous elections on cityhood have failed, but no organized opposition seems to be present now.

TEN YEARS AGO...

Northville police department received a brand new station wagon last week which will become the department's emergency car.

Fire completely destroyed a huge portion of a storage barn on West Eight Mile Road apple farm Sunday afternoon. Damage to the barn, which is adjacent to Northville Estates, is estimated in excess of $9,000.

Northville city council voted unanimously to curtail the fee system and put the elected justice of the peace on a salary of $3,000.

Petitions were taken out by ten candidates for city and township offices this week and Mrs. Beatrice Carlson became the first woman to try her hand at city hall politics.

The new $110,000 bi-level union hall building, under construction across from the Lincoln plant in Wixom, is expected to be completed and ready for use this week.

A hold-up in the delivery of windows may postpone the opening of Wixom's new city hall until early January, Mayor Donald Brooks announced this week.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO...

Building permits for construction totaled nearly three and one-half million dollars during the first 11 months of the year in Novi, according to Cameron Lodge, building inspector.

The eight candidates for the Northville council in the first city of Northville election are Claude Ely, mayor; A. Malcolm Allen, John S. Canterbury, Alton Peters, Earl L. Reed, John Stubenvoll, Ed Welch, councilman; and E. M. Bogart, justice of the peace.

Despite near zero temperatures, work has finally begun on the multi-million dollar Lincoln plant and headquarters on Wixom Road, just north of Grand River.

Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole was elected commander of the Novi AMVETS at the organizations annual election.

Lucille Pullen and Rosemarie Willis were chosen this week as Northville's delegates to the National Senior Round-Up of Girl Scouts to be held at Haven Hill recreation area in Highland.

The Mental Health Commission last week protested against a plan to use 192 beds at Northville State hospital to provide emergency care of retarded children. The commission termed the plan "robbing Peter to pay Paul, in a very real sense."

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO...

Depositors State Bank mailed out Christmas Savings amounting to $23,000 this year.

Mrs. Ray Baker sold her home on the corner of West and Dunlap Street to Mrs. Bird Lush.

Fire broke out in the Clyde Schults home last week. The fire department extinguished the blaze before the fire spread through the whole house. An unused room in the back of the house was burned out.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Elliott and family have established a pony riding ring on Clement Road between Fairbrook Road and West Main Street.

A full house greeted the free bond show offered to buyers of bonds in the village by Harry Lush and Sam Stremich of the Penniman-Allen Theatre. The feature picture was "The Spanish Main."

FIFTY YEARS AGO...

The people of Northville were greatly shocked yesterday forenoon when news became current that Supervisor W. J. Lanning had died while sitting in his chair at his home on North Center street.

Village authorities give notice for the last time that the ordinance relative to auto driving was made to be enforced. "Speeding on the streets of the village or gliding along at 20 to 30 miles an hour must cease at once," say the officers. Three drivers were up before Judge Knapp this week and paid fines for swift driving.

M. R. Secley has been superintending a fine job of grading at the fair grounds, getting the grounds in condition for the new buildings to be erected by the society next summer.

WINTER OBSTACLE - Given the problem of getting up a steep hill on an icy sidewalk against a stiff wind Paul Pattwell, 12, of 562 Langfield, finds two alternatives. To slide down, backwards and seek a different route, or to keep trying to inch his way to the top. Whoever heard of a paperboy giving up - certainly not Paul, who finally scaled the Center Street obstacle. He's wondering, though, if he shouldn't trade his bike for a snowmobile.

New Civitan Club Gets Charter Here

Sponsoring clubs for the new Northville organization, were Detroit and Wayne, who were represented by William Horgan, president, and Jim Julian of Detroit, and by Don Leppala, president, and Tom Daily of Wayne.

Principal address was given by Brian Connelly of Ann Arbor, governor of Civitan's Michigan District. The installation was conducted by Civitan International Representative Western Grizzard of Clarksville, Tennessee. Slated to take part in the initiation but forced to turn back because of icy roads was Don Gloden of Jackson, governor-elect.

Mr. and Mrs. Grizzard, honored here for their services to Civitan, incidentally recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Grizzard has had a hand in the formation of more than 200 Civitan clubs in the United States.

Robert Powell, president of the Northville-King's Mill Club, accepted the framed charter from Governor Connelly and he also accepted, in behalf of the club, the traditional service club bell and a lectern from the sponsoring clubs.

Installed as officers along with Powell were:

John W. Winter, Jr., president-elect; Herbert E. Henstock, secretary-treasurer; Richard Ambler, Louis M. Hopping, Arthur G. Munzinger, and Ronald Nisun, directors; and Charles L. Schaeffer, Jr., sergeant-at-arms.

Besides the officers, charter members of the club include Harry V. Odle, Mark Larkins, Carl Schleicher, Don Pfeifer, Charles O. Boren, Phillip C. Schoen, Laurence W. Randall, John H. Kenyon, Edward C. Grosjean, John A. Kuenzel, Carl Schneider, John Wortman, Wesley Henrikson, Jr., E. W. Ebert, Jr., C. Richard Ashworth, Robert DeAlexandria, William Y.

Hopping, Melvin P. Mitchell, Charles M. Fialon, Raymond H. Rogers, and Philip Anderson.

Master of ceremonies for the program, and prime-mover behind the local club's organization was Louis Hopping, life member of the Detroit Civitan Club and past president of Civitan International who now starts anew in Civitan by becoming a director of the local club.

Special guests for the occasion were Northville Supervisor and Mrs. Gunnar Stromberg, City Manager and Mrs. Frank Ollendorff, Art Jahn, president of the Northville Rotary Club, and Jack Hoffman of the Northville Record.

Dinner music was provided by Northville High School bandmen under the direction of Robert Williams.

A special birthday cake for the occasion was made and decorated by Mrs. Helen I. Hopping in the blue and white colors of Civitan, with a legend of the occasion and the club emblem in gold signifying that 1970 is the 50th anniversary of Civitan International.

President Powell, in a brief address, challenged his club to increase its membership to 45 within its first year of existence.

The club plans to meet the first and third Thursdays at the Kings Mill clubhouse, and to hold social affairs at least four times a year to which members' wives, families and guests will be invited. It will select its projects for community service of a non-political, non-demoninational character. Civitan club projects generally are in youth activities and aid to handicapped.

Northville City police are continuing to investigate the death of Clarence Schwab, 47, of 122 South Rogers Street, who was found slumped over the steering wheel of his car which was parked in the garage at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

Police reports stated Schwab apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

According to police reports, Schwab's son told police he went into the garage at 12:30 p.m. to get a shovel and found the garage filled with carbon monoxide fumes and the engine of the car running. He said he found his father slumped over the steering wheel.

According to reports, the son turned off the ignition and summoned police. Officers investigating at the scene said they could detect no pulse beat or body temperature in Schwab. The body was taken to Wayne County Morgue for an autopsy.

Police reports stated Schwab was last seen alive by his wife at 11:30 p.m. Friday.

One woman received minor injuries Saturday at 12:14 p.m. when the car in which she was riding was hit by a car driven by Richard W. Rogowski, 22692 Shadowpine, Novi.

Police reports stated Rogowski, who was northbound on Novi Road, said he lost control of his car approximately 60 feet north of the traffic island due to snow and ice on the road and slid into the southbound lane, striking the oncoming auto.

Injured was Mrs. Adeena E. Nye of Muskegon, a passenger in a southbound vehicle driven by her husband, Henry E. Nye. She refused medical attention. There were no tickets issued, police said.

John W. Harley, 38309 Southfarm Lane, told police the front license plate of his car was stolen while the vehicle was parked at 114 High Street.

According to reports, the theft occurred between 4:30 p.m. and 11:50 p.m. Monday.

Juanita Kaczor, 512 Randolph, was bitten by a dog owned by Orman

Hodges, 516 Randolph, on Sunday when she attempted to break up a fight between her dog and Hodges' dog.

According to police, Mrs. Kaczor was treated for bites to her left hand. Hodges was ordered to keep his dog under observation for 10 days.

A custodian at Northville High told police he saw two white male youths attempt to break in the school December 9 at 4:20 a.m.

According to police reports, the custodian said the two suspects were trying to enter the school through a window in a partially completed area of the building when he surprised them. The two fled in a black and white car, the custodian said.

Officers investigating at the scene found a window broken in two places near the release handles, reports indicated.

Northville police investigated a report of vandalism at 916 Novi Street on December 9.

According to police reports, three white male youths stopped their car at the location to ask directions and threw eggs at a boy standing in front of the home and at the garage. The incident occurred at 8:16 p.m.

In Township . . .

Township police are looking for a late model black Maverick which hit a telephone pole at 2 p.m. Friday, splitting the pole in two.

According to reports, the accident occurred on Seven Mile Road, just west of Ridge Road.

Ahern of 23040 Gilbar was driving too fast for conditions, wet and slippery road, according to statements issued by police. Because there were no witnesses, no violations were issued.

A radio was reported stolen December 1 from a truck parked in the parking lot of the Condeco Automation Corporation, 26600 Heyn Drive.

The two were fulfilling assignments for a law enforcement class they are both attending and according to Pratt, "were attentive and asked intelligent questions."

An unknown person telephoned the Novi Police station last week Tuesday and told the dispatcher that: "There is a bomb at the Novi High School."

Without raising an alarm, officers, assisted by Principle Gerald Hartman, searched the school and found no such threat.

Detective Sergeant Richard Faulkner theorized that the caller was the same one who has given 15 similar threats to the Walled Lake Western High School.

Joint Police Program Aims To Build Communication

Armed with the belief that most police-community problems stem from lack of communication between the two groups, a program has been established in Northville Public schools by law enforcement officers specifically designed to bridge the gap.

Initiated by Northville City Police Chief Samuel Elkins, the program is being conducted jointly by the local force and the Michigan State Police Department.

"We're trying to establish better relations between the young people and law enforcement officers," Detective William Allen of the Michigan State Police said, "and explain the role a policeman plays."

Detective Allen said most contact young people have with policemen "is negative. They meet policemen when they're stopped, for traffic violations or questioned. Through this program we are trying to have positive contact with the youth of the community."

Programs of this type are not new to Detective Allen. He has been involved in similar programs in other school districts throughout the state. "The program in Northville is in the experimental stage now, and we hope to continue it as long as the students express an interest."

Conducting the program with Allen are Trooper David Ford, youth officer in the uniform division of the State Police; Chief Elkins and Corporal Phil Young, youth officer of the Northville City Police. Allen and Ford are both stationed at the Redford Post where Allen is with the Youth Community Relations section.

At the high school level, the officers concentrate on the police-student problem, exploring how laws affect students, what procedures are used by officers on the road, rights of police officers and students and theories of police work.

The men agreed the response of the students was "great. They asked questions on Kent State and the Chicago Democratic Convention disturbances. The questions were fair and students were seeking answers and the reasons the incidents took place," Detective Allen said.

The officers spent two days at the high school, one of which was devoted entirely to questions and answers. They are planning to go back in January and again in February or March.

A similar program will begin at the junior high level in January.

At the elementary level, the men are also involved in describing police work to the students, explaining the many ways in which officers are of service to students. Safety programs, along with re-instatement of the safety banner award, are planned for later in the year.

"The kids are always interested in our equipment," Trooper Ford commented. "They want to see the handcuffs, the gun, badge and walkie-talkie."

"They have a stereotype of what an officer is," Detective Allen noted. "And we are trying to show them all of us aren't like Broderick Crawford was in 'Highway Patrol'."

One of the first questions asked by Amerman Elementary students Friday when the officers were at the school was "Did you ever shoot anyone?"

In the near 20 years of duty compiled by all three officers, only one had used his gun, "and then only to shoot at someone," the officer commented.

The goals the men hope to realize through the program include

- prepare school children so they will be aware of rules of safety in the community;
- reduce the amount of accidents due to the probability of poor safety habits;
- establish rapport with youth and the police agencies serving them; and
- develop a wholesome image of police officers within the youth of the community.

"Attitudes toward police have changed," Chief Elkins noted. "There has been a lack of contact with the officers. It all started when the foot patrol was phased out and officers were put in scout cars."

"Then the only time they met the community was in a negative situation," he continued. "Because of the rising crime rate, police departments have been forced to spend more time on duty and therefore have less time to interact with the community."

With all the technological and social advances in recent years, the police departments have been caught in the middle, the Chief said.

How does he feel the program instituted in the Northville schools can help?

"The crime rate can drop through changes in the departments," Chief Elkins said. "By interacting with the community, we can find out what problems exist and how both groups can change to alleviate the problems. At the same time, we may be able to catch potential problems by detecting them before they begin."

So far, the student reaction to the police-community program has been favorable, principals and police officials agree.

"We hope to establish a better relationship with the youth," Detective Allen stated. "Meanwhile, we hope we can shatter the stereotype of the cop."

Barbados, B.W.I. was the destination of "Nomads" Wes and Betty McAtee and Aileen and Bill Mills. They spent a sun-filled week on this Caribbean Island. The weather was very hot with the choice of swimming on either the Atlantic or Caribbean sides of the Island. Betty remarked that the lack of screens or windows was rather startling. Everything was very open with most activities taking place outside. Even the restaurants are open with just a roof overhead and it was not unusual for a bird to fly to a table and help itself to whatever was available. Aileen said the food wasn't too good and the people live very differently. While there they took an island tour and a boat cruise. The clock doesn't mean much—stores open at 8 a.m. and if you're lucky, stay open 'til 4 and the goods that are offered are most often very expensive. Night life is at a minimum and entertainment is held only on certain nights at designated spots. The island is very beautiful but very overpopulated. All agreed it was a most unusual place to visit.

The Darlington's, Theo, Vern, Sr. and Vern, Jr., left December 2 on a flight to the West Coast to attend the wedding of Frank Darlington to Cheryl Marquis on December 5. Vern acted as best man for his brother. Most of the time was spent getting ready for the wedding but they did take advantage of good weather to do a little touring of the area surrounding Anaheim. They stopped at Knotts Berry Farm and had

Award Contract For Freeway

The State Highway Commission recommended last week that Darin and Armstrong, Inc., of Detroit receive the contract for construction of 1.2 miles of Interstate 96 (Jeffries) Freeway in Livonia. The company's bid was $9,459,098.

The freeway is part of the network that will eventually stretch from Novi to Detroit.

Bids on the project were taken November 18 by the Department of State Highways. Announcement of the low bidder was delayed pending detailed analysis of the four acceptable bids submitted.

The project, exclusive of freeway paving, calls for 1.2 miles of grading and drainage structures and utility alterations, construction of 8 bridges and 11 retaining walls and paving of service roads between Middlebelt Road and Inkster Road in Livonia. Completion is scheduled for the fall of 1973.

otherhand, noted that inclusion of teachers on the selection committee in the past had proved beneficial. He noted, too, that the committee simply recommends and that it is the board that makes the final choice.

Henderson said teachers are the people who must work with the principal and are best able to determine who they could work with most effectively. He said he originally hoped the committee would include student representation as well.

Secretary Ray Warren agreed with Simmons that inclusion of teachers would be unsound, indicating employers hire employees not employees their employers.

Another committee, this one a task force to explore a wide range of disciplinary matters ranging from smoking to drugs, also is being formed with members being suggested by the board. As of Monday not all of the committee members had been named.

Principals, board members and a counselor are to make up the committee as determined by Simmons.

During a discussion about police traffic control being provided at Novi Elementary School, Warren reported a suggestion of Police Chief Lee BeGole that the board consider retaining a full-time policeman who would move from school-to-school for traffic control, assistance, protection and investigation.

Warren, who indicated the cost of the policeman might be shared by the school district, countered an argument of the superintendent that a full-time policeman is premature by saying he preferred such protection now when it might not be entirely needed to ensure against the possibility that problems will become so great that full-time police service is indeed needed.

The president directed the superintendent to investigate the matter and report his findings to the board.

Faye and Fred Waara were a very surprised couple this past Sunday. The occasion was their 25th wedding anniversary and a party in their honor was held at their home. Daughter Frieda helped out by getting her parents out of the house long enough for all the guests to "move in". A very specially decorated cake was the center of attraction on the buffet table — atop a coconut hill was a miniature bride and groom — ON SKIS surrounded by tiny trees and woodland animals. Wedding bells decorated the sides of the cake. To a very happy couple the guests wished another 25 years of happiness together.

The annual Christmas party of the Hickory Hill Coffee League was held at Morey's Saturday night after bowling. Louise Mattson entertained the group at the organ during the intermissions of the regular organist. From the sounds of it, everyone had a great evening.

Faye Waara and her sister, Pat Gainer of Walled Lake were called to their family home in Philadelphia, Mississippi because of the death of their aunt, Mrs. Lottie Harrington.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Newspapers are like Santa's Workshop in one respect. Christmas is our busiest season.

And with our customary knack for planning ahead we've chosen this time to make some major changes in our operations at The Record.

They include a new building and a new newspaper press, both exciting additions to our organization and ones we hope will improve production and quality of our newspaper and commercial printing products.

Barring last-minute complications, this will be the first edition printed on our new press at our new building. Although I can't speak with complete authority, I'd say it's something like having a first baby. We're hoping for the best, but we'll take anything so long as it's healthy and reasonably close to being on time.

Bear with us; we'll get better as we have more "babies".

The action that really triggered all the changes now taking place at The Record occurred some 18 months ago. At that time The Record was part of a central newspaper press operation located in Novi and owned by four publishers. It had been a highly successful enterprise, but one that required the undivided attention of a single owner. So the decision was made to sell "Inter-City Press, Inc." to one of the four partners.

The ex-associates agreed to continue printing their publications at the Novi plant for at least one year. But several months ago the press operation was moved to New Boston, near Belleville, Michigan. And it became apparent that distance between our composition shop (at The Record) and the press plant would make it almost impossible to maintain established publication deadlines.

With one of our former associates at Inter-City Press, Bob Silbar of the Fenton Independent newspaper, we started shopping for a new location. Neither his building nor The Record's was adequate to house the press we had selected to print our respective newspapers.

About this time Ken Rathburn decided he would retire from the Chevrolet agency business after several successful decades in Northville. And editorially I was scolding General Motors for refusing to permit him to sell his agency to a bonafide buyer because the giant of the automotive business wants to phase out its smaller agencies.

Meanwhile, Rathburn sold out all his cars and parts' inventory and was advertising his building for sale. In a display of alertness that defies description, I continued to search for a building somewhere in the Northville- Novi-South Lyon-Brighton area. Eventually the obvious was recognized.

Enough digression. This week, I believe, The Record and its sister publications, are embarking upon a new era that will introduce several changes in our business and to the community as well.

First, a brand-new 24 page Goss Community offset newspaper press will begin production at 560 South Main street. Composition facilities, formerly located on the second floor of the Center street Record building, have also been relocated at the press site. And this week-end the commercial printing presses now located in The Record basement will be moved to the new south Main street building.

Thus an operation that has been divided between three floors and extended some 30 miles (to New Boston) now comes under one roof and on one floor.

There's one minor exception. Our news and editorial offices will be newly located on the second floor of the old Record building. And the "old" Record building will take on a new look.

Work will begin almost immediately to provide a small Record office with a Main street entrance for handling want ads, subscriptions, newspaper sales, etc. And the news and advertising staffs (and myself) will do our work on the second floor.

All bookkeeping, commercial printing, composition and press work will be conducted at the "Rathburn" location.

Major renovation of our building at Main and Center street is anticipated immediately. It is hoped that an Early American design will help enhance the business district and that the main and lower-level areas will be converted into attractive professional offices.

It is indeed a busy Christmas for The Record and its staff. And it appears right now that Santa is stuffing our stocking with bills instead of gifts.

But despite anxieties that naturally accompany change, this will be perhaps the most exciting Christmas season in memory as the anticipation of long-held dreams seem about to materialize.

This column has been written partly out of the pride our organization feels in its progress. But hopefully it will be recognized and accepted as it is chiefly intended: our thanks to the people and businesses who have given us a community in which we can grow.

Merry Christmas.

YES...

As today's crime increases, great determinations of the rights of man are exhorting by our judicial system. A policeman, as close to the problem as any person, cannot but wonder at times just whose rights, in the end, are being protected.

Constitutional guarantees of freedom and rights should, in my opinion as a police officer (who is merely an extension of the citizen's desire for same) belong to each and every man. The whimsical manner in which the courts and the attorneys can interpret meanings of said guarantees, however, invariably tends to favor the accused versus the victim.

Rehabilitation of the wrongdoer should be of prime concern to the courts most certainly, but should society be subjected to the release of offenders, with little or no penalty, to again prey upon the innocent?

In closing I must add that it sometimes appears that the courts, in their infinite wisdom, are much more concerned with protecting the constitutional rights of accused wrongdoers than they are of the guarantees of peaceful co-existence, which is the right of all men.

NO...

Some are, some aren't. The test: whether the sentence accomplishes the protection of the public with individual justice. All are not effective because of the unpredictability of human behavior. In Wayne County Circuit Court 60 percent of defendants are placed on probation, and 73 percent comply fully with its terms.

If a judge — no one worthy of his oath would do so — wants to avoid risk, he will jail all those convicted. But there aren't enough jails to house such numbers, even if the Wayne County Jail 3 men-to-1-cell ratio were used.

Neither the law, nor the behavioral sciences combined, assure mathematical accuracy. Of those sentenced to prison and paroled through the corrections system, 40 percent are returned as violators.

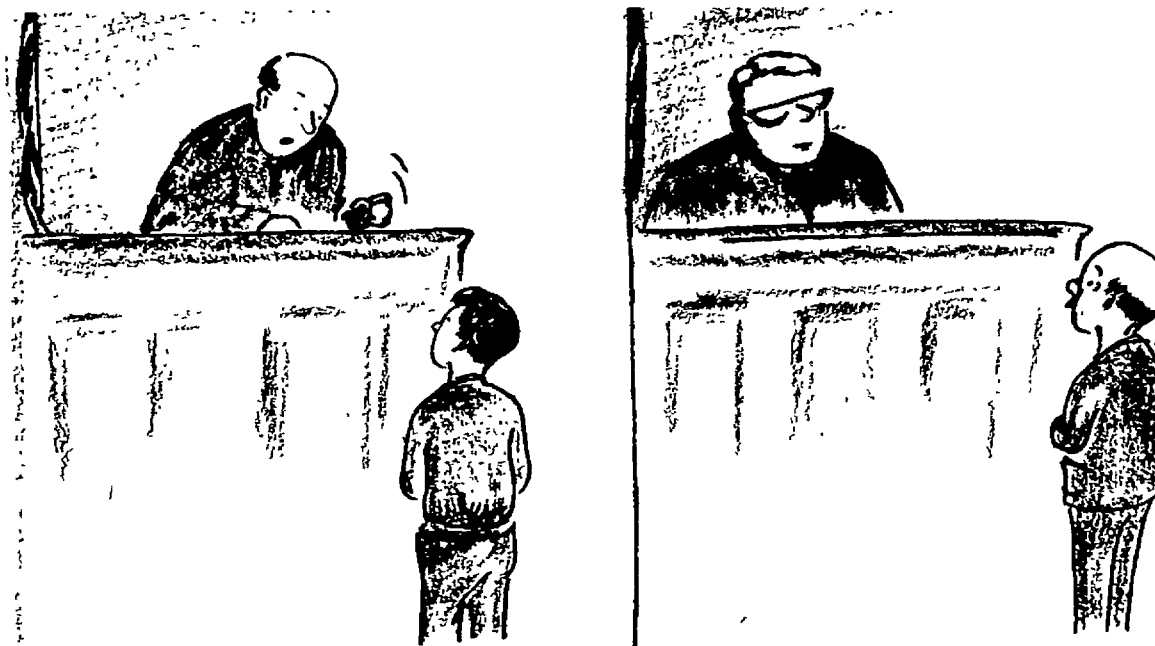

The likely repeater must be jailed, and the defendant not likely to repeat — particularly the youthful offender — should be given probation. There are those cases, for example syndicated crime, where public example and deterrence are first considerations.

Chief Justice Burger speaks of "warehousing" of prisoners, and terms corrections administration "horse and buggy." Tragically, he is correct. As a society, we jealously protect the rights of the accused, but after conviction tend to forget him.

Family breakdown is the biggest single root cause of crime.

How many communities in the country have the same name as those in this area?

Brighton, Farmington, Northville, Novi, Plymouth, South Lyon, Walled Lake and Wixom. Which of these would you guess is the most popular name?

Most people probably would guess, as did I, that Plymouth would lead the list, with Novi and Wixom trailing far behind.

Well, we're only partially correct. According to the 1969-1970 national zip code directory, Farmington is the most popular name. Sixteen other communities in the nation — as listed in the directory — carry the same name.

Plymouth, running a close second, has 15 namesakes, with Plymouth, Massachusetts probably being the most widely known.

In third place is Brighton, which is duplicated in seven other states.

Northville, interestingly, has cousins in only three other states.

Novi, South Lyon, Walled Lake and Wixom are one of a kind. Their names are not duplicated anywhere else in the country...at least not according to the zip directory.

In case you want to file it away in your wastebasket or memory bank here's the breakdown:

Brighton — Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, New York, Tennessee, and Utah.

Farmington — Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Pennsylvania, Utah, and Washington.

Northville — New York, South Dakota and Washington.

Plymouth — Indiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut, California, Florida, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah, Vermont, and Washington.

Closest resemblance to Novi is Nova, Ohio. Walled Lake comes pretty close to Wall Lake, Iowa and to Wallum Lake, Rhode Island and South Lyon's closest relative seems to be South Lyne, Connecticut. Wixom stands alone even in close resemblances.

The latter comes as no surprise because Wixom, which just ended its centennial observance, takes its name from Willard C. Wixom, one of its early pioneers.

South Lyon gets its name from Lyon Township. The township was named by the early Michigan legislature after one of its own young members, Lucius Lyon. It had within its jurisdiction a small community of homes on the southern boundary that gave rise to the name South Lyon. Suggestions that the name "Fruitland" be adopted were scrapped and the present name stuck.

Walled Lake takes its name from the wall of rock, some five feet thick and four feet high, that stretched along the shores of the lake. Originally thought to be the handiwork of a "lost race", this theory was discredited by geologists who insist the walls were actually drift deposits left during the glacial period. (I wonder what happened to these walls).

Origin of Novi's name is probably the most disputed. You can take your pick. Early surveyors, it is said, in "chaining" the land referred to the township as number six in the second tier of townships. Surveyors are said to have abbreviated the number as NO-VI. Similarly, the Roman numeral VI reportedly was the designation given the sixth toll gate, located in Novi, along the old plank road (now Grand River avenue) that traversed the community.

The third explanation given is that early residents in discussing the separation of the township from Farmington wanted a short name. Out of that came a proposal by the wife of Dr. J. C. Emery that it be named "Novi" because it is easily written and yet is not commonplace.

Plymouth — historians say — was named by William Barton in honor of the first American settlement at Plymouth Rock. Farmington drew its name from Farmington, New York where many of its early settlers came from. Chief among these was Arthur Power.

Northville, originally part of Plymouth Township, was named some say by the settlers who inhabited the northern part of this township, hence the name NORTHville. Others suggest

Teen Plays Dangerous Car 'Game'

To the Editor:

This letter is written in the hopes that parents of teen-agers will teach their children the proper use of the family car. Please don't misunderstand me, I know the majority of teen-agers are good drivers, but if I ever witness anything like what happened to my seven year old son today, I won't let the car get away from me.

Somewhere in this town a family has a light blue station wagon, it's not a new car. The young boy driving wore glasses, there was a blond girl with him and another boy. I urge you parents to check this out because your son is playing a dangerous game; he seems to get a big kick out of chasing little children with your car.

My son and his friend, two seven-year olds, were walking home from school across the Catholic school playground when your son and his friends pulled in and started to chase them. The mother of the other little boy turned onto Orchard Drive just in time to see your car just a few feet behind her son. Had her boy tripped, would your son have been able to stop the car before he ran over this little boy? Think about this parents, would you be able to live with yourselves if your son killed a little child playing such a stupid game?

Here's something for the parents of the girl to think about also. Is this the kind of boy you want your daughter with? She was laughing right along with him; maybe his sick sense of humor is contagious. Would you like her with him when he thinks of another fun game?

The police have been notified and the other mother is sure she can spot your car again, so you can be sure that we are all watching for your son. He must be stopped before he kills someone. I ask that all concerned parents in town be on the lookout for him. He may play his game with your child the next time.

Mrs. Per Iversen

One of Santa's biggest helpers every year is the post office. So far this season the Northville post office has received several letters from area youngsters. Here's one forwarded to the North Pole.

Locally, Postmaster John Steimel reports, the Northville post office gives Santa an "assistant" by sending each youngster an acknowledging post card that reads:

"Dear, Little Friend, Your letter made me glad that you are good. Santa is coming to visit all good little girls and boys. Here's Love, Santa Claus. P.S. Mr. Zip will help me find you. You are my helper, too, when you use Zip Code."

(Since these forms — with a sketch of Santa in his sleigh, accompanied by Mr. Zip! — are no longer available from the North Pole branch this may be the last season for the personal replies.)

One of the first letters directed Santa's way, was mailed November 13 by Suzie of 1003 Allen Drive. Suzie politely printed: "Dear Santa, May I have a watch and a mini flats and that is all. Thank you. from Suzie."

Suzie and Karen of 1003 Allen Drive wrote a joint letter to Santa Claus:

"Dear Santa — I would like Tea Party, Kiddies dressed and Baby Go Bye-Bye. Wigs for Barbie doll and Stacy. Flatsy doll house. Buggy or stroller. Dollmaker set plus Drummer boy. Snoopy stuffed dog. Charlie Brown Book of Christmas and Halloween. Ken talking, Kiddies and Newborn Thumbelina. Bike with hand brakes. And for Karen, Matties Happy Talking, Snoopy, Chime Bells, Beads, Pony Go Round, Silly D Duck, Musical busy box. Jack in the box piano-three men in tub. Thank you."

(Santa's helpers suspect both letters came from the same household, with Suzie getting an assist from Mother in the second.)

Harold and Bucky York of 16969 Franklin also mailed a letter in November. Harold wrote: "Dear Santa, My brother Bucky would like you to bring him a car and a snow man. Bucky is a good boy except when he is bad. I would like Mustang for Christmas. I

R. L. Polk & Company of Detroit has recently started delivery of its 1970 Plymouth-Northville City Directory. The books are being delivered to its local subscribers. The directory contains four major departments along with an introduction and statistical and general review of the community.

First, the classified section contains a complete list of the names and addresses of business and professional concerns arranged in alphabetical order under their appropriate classified headings.

The alphabetical section of the directory shows the name, marital status, occupation, and address of each resident of the area.

the name was selected because its original settlers came from New York where one of the other Northvilles is located. This latter belief seems unlikely, however, since the earliest settlers came from the Finger Lakes region of Seneca County, New York, which is a long ways from Northville, New York located on Long Island.

Brighton, originally part of Green Oak Township and for awhile nicknamed Upper Green Oak and Ore Creek (the name of the mill stream through the community), reportedly drew its name from Brighton, England from where some of its early settlers hailed.

Detroit Delays Maybury Sale

Maybury property, he said Monday that the MDCDA proposal would receive the same consideration as other proposals — "no more, no less."

Ravitz also pointed out Monday that the city has included an estimated credit of $3 million for the Maybury property in its current budget. He added that the property has to be turned over to the surplus property division from the health department in order to dispose of it in any direction.

The council president said he expects that the surplus property division under Robert P. Roselle, city controller, would find clients who would put it to a use approved by the council.

Russell Chambers, who had been preparing a brochure and newspaper advertising offering the property for sale, said Monday that the MDCDA proposal "was a complete surprise to the administrative side of the city," adding that a Detroit newspaper story Friday was his first knowledge of the proposal.

Any offers as a result of the property being offered for sale, he explained, would automatically be taken to the council for its approval.

Neither Northville Township Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg nor Northville City Manager Frank Ollendorff had any information on the MDCDA "model community" proposal. Stromberg added that he did not anticipate the Detroit City Council would take action along this line, however, and said he expected the property would be placed on sale.

He said that the area is zoned R 1 and R 2, and if "they (Detroit — or the purchaser) live up to the zoning, it will be okay."

"Sharply rising costs" were given as the reason for the decision of MDCDA to suspend plans two months ago for a "new town" development in Southern Novi.

On October 13 Robinson blamed increased land acquisition costs, construction costs and interest rates as prime factors in making impractical moderate to low income housing, a key part of the project.

The authority had purchased 546 acres in the Taft, Beck, Nine and Ten Mile road area and was planning to acquire a total of 1,000 acres — the amount quoted as advisable by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

A storm of local protest had followed announcement of the project with residents' and officials' concerns including an increase of 3,300 children in schools, the change it would necessitate in Novi's Master Plan and the affect integration would have on life in Novi.

The housing had been planned in the $15,000 to $26,000 range for factory workers in the Plymouth, Novi, Pontiac and Ann Arbor areas. The over-all plan, which never was presented to Novi, was to include recreation areas, a shopping center and eventually sports facilities.

Chelsea Hands Novi Its Third Straight Defeat

Chelsea's Bulldogs earned themselves a share of the Southeastern Conference basketball lead here Friday night by gaining an upper-hand early in the second period and then hanging on to deal Novi a 65-53 defeat--the third straight for the local quintet.

The Wildcats played an up-and-down game through the first quarter--up at times by as much as three points--before losing their edge near the two-minute mark. They spent the remaining two minutes playing catch-up ball, falling behind in the last 10 seconds when Chelsea fired a two-pointer.

With 23 seconds of the second quarter, the Bulldogs broke the game wide open, boosting their lead to four, then five, six, eight, nine and so on.

At one point Novi was down by 11 points before it chipped away at Chelsea's lead to keep within seven to nine points of the mauling Bulldogs throughout the remainder of the game.

The quarter scores were: 19-17, 32-25, and 49-38.

Center Dave Fear was high scorer for the Wildcats at 14. The 6'6" junior fired five of the seven Novi baskets in the final stanza to save the Wildcats from a worse showing.

Close behind him was Bob Vivian with 13 points and Tom Boyer with 11.

Chelsea, which moved in to the top SE slot along with Dexter by virtue of its victory here, was paced by Jim Wojcicki who pumped in 20 points.

Novi goes against Saline and Milan Friday and Saturday and then next Tuesday clashes with Northville in a non-league contest.

LOSING GRACE - With the ball balanced on his finger tips Dave Fear (53) goes for one of Novi's two-pointers against Chelsea Friday night. It was all for naught, though, as the Wildcats went down to their third loss in as many games.

Novi Wrestlers Lose; Northville Ties for Third

Northville...

Mustang grapplers took an easy 10 point victory from Clarkston Thursday, finishing 31-21, and tied for third with Saline in the Dexter Wrestling Invitational Saturday.

With five pins and two decisions to their credit the Mustangs claimed their second victory in as many matches Thursday.

Falls were engineered by Bryn Hartshorne at 98 lbs., John Fialon at 119, David Griffin at 132, Randy Armstrong at 145 and Brad Conklin at 185.

Bill Norton and David Pilarz worked decisions at 138 and 155.

Saturday at the Dexter Invitational Northville tied with Saline for third with 54 team points while Dexter and Brighton tied for first with 69 points.

The Mustangs copped a first, Griffin in the 126-pound-class; three seconds - John Coleman at the heavyweight position, Brad Conklin at 185 and Bryn Hartshorne at 98; and two fourths - John Fialon at 119 and Kevin Hartshorne at 112.

did well. That tournament did us a lot of good because it gave us an opportunity for practice that we wouldn't get outside of a regular match."

Pins in the Dexter meet came from Tom Ford at 112 in 1:59 and Terry Auten in the heavyweight slot at 3:51.

The Wildcats took a first, two fourths and four fourths in the Airport Tournament. Tom Ford snatched first from Ypsilanti Lincoln at 112, Kevin Schingek and Terry Auten took second in the 155-pound and the heavyweight classes and Pat Ford and Duane Miller placed fourth at 132 and 145.

Monroe and Airport High Schools tied for first place in the tourney while Ida took third and Milan placed fourth. Novi finished about Ypsilanti Lincoln, Monroe Jefferson, and New Boston Huron.

Fred Hicks Gets Letter at WMU

Fred Hicks, former star Northville football player, has been awarded a varsity letter in football at Western Michigan University.

The WMU sophomore received his letter for performance as a guard with the university's 1970 squad that compiled a 7-3 record, matching the school's best mark since an undefeated season in 1941.

Schoolcraft College Posts Two Wrestling Victories

Schoolcraft College wrestlers notched a 3-0 record last weekend as they traveled to Holland, Michigan for meets with Hope and Manchester colleges.

Schoolcraft gained the upper hand in both matches, downing Hope 26-17 and Manchester 23-9.

Falls in the Hope match were by the Wells brothers, Bernard and Bernie, at 118 and 126 pounds, Northville's Randy Marburger at 177 and Tim Ottewill in the heavyweight slot. Pat Kern battled to a 9-1 decision in the 150-pound-class.

The Manchester match was marked by decisions and a forfeit in the heavyweight division, as neither team earned a pin.

Schoolcraft carded victories at 118, 126, 134, 142, 150 and 190 pounds to take six of the nine matches. The local squad will travel to Dowagiac tomorrow to face Southwestern Michigan Community College in its last dual meet before Christmas.

Action will follow Saturday in Ypsilanti where Schoolcraft competes on the Michigan Collegiate AAU tournament.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS — Mike Monnier (44) seems to be expecting something as Brad Cole (31) works a surprise in the Northville-Milford game Friday. Unfortunately, too many Mustangs weren't quick enough and there weren't enough surprises to prevent the 70-54 Northville loss.

High Flying Redskins Sweep Mustangs, 70-54

Riding the crest of two straight victories, Northville's varsity cagers were swamped Friday at Milford where the front-running Redskins posted an easy 70-54 triumph.

Icy cold under the baskets, the Mustangs were able to push through only six points in the first quarter and eight more in the second stanza.

By the intermission Milford, which shares the Wayne-Oakland League lead with West Bloomfield (2-0), built itself a comfortable 16-point lead that held up at the game's end.

Northville's battery averaged only

6.75 points per man, with Rick Sechler holding up the high end with 15 points. Next highest was Todd Hannert who netted nine points.

The Mustangs, who had opened the season with a 47-44 loss at South Lyon, bounced back to win two games in a row—a 52-49 league win over Clarenceville 52-49 and another squeaker, 45-43, over non-league Fenton last week Tuesday.

Although neither of the initial wins were decisive, enthusiasm ran high as Northville practiced for last Friday's battle.

But the enthusiasm was marred by a poor shooting record as the Mustangs took the floor against the Redskins.

Off to a two-point lead in the first minute of the game, Northville soon found itself nursing a deficit that it simply was unable to overcome.

Sechler's performance was overshadowed by the Redskin's ace Tom Harris, who notched 24 points for the evening, two of them via the charity line. Shooting by Mike Monnier (19 points) and Dave Collins and Kevin Penner (10 points each) did no good for the Mustang cause either.

Milford led at the end of the first quarter, 15-6, notched a 30-14 lead at the intermission, and launched the final period with a 53-35 edge.

Despite some fine drives Northville was unable to muster an effective attack. Following the intermission, the local cagers did improve somewhat. But it was futile effort as the Redskins managed three points for every two by the Mustangs.

Northville carries a 2-2 season record going into its league contest against Brighton here tomorrow.

The Bulldogs, fresh from a 68-63 victory over Clarenceville last week, will be out to avenge a 59-55 loss to the Mustangs last season.

What might be called the game-of-the-season takes place Tuesday night as the Mustangs host the neighboring Novi Wildcats. Starting varsity game times is 8 p.m., preceded at 6:30 p.m. by the junior varsity game.

Defending Champs in W-O Cellar

Bloomfield Hills Andover must be wondering what happened to the good old days. The defending Wayne Oakland champs were first nipped by Milford, 46-45, and then Clarkston, which finished in last year's W-O cellar, insulted the Barons, 58-52, last Friday night.

The upset leaves Andover with as many losses in their first two games as they suffered over the entire season last year and makes the Barons anything but a sure bet to repeat their championship.

Clarkston came out storming and piled up an early 12-1 lead. The Barons cut the deficit to 17-10 at the first period, but remained down 38-35 at the half.

In the middle of the third period, Andover took the lead with a short scoring burst. Undaunted, Clarkston came back with 11 straight points to put the game away.

Don Brown led Clarkston with 25 points, 16 of which came in the first half. Andover's high scorers were Pete Bowers with 15 and Dave Barrett with 12.

Kettering could not stop the West Bloomfield steam roller as the Lakers downed the Captains 84-76. The Lakers piled up a 41-34 lead at the half and added one more point in the next two periods to ice the game.

Four Lakers had double figure performances — Jeff Helling with 30, Don Johnston with 22, Glenn Van Gorder with 12 and Ken Watkins adding another 12.

Jerry Bell and Ernie Bragg led the losers with 21 a piece.

Brighton managed to rally in the fourth period for a 68-63 win over Clarenceville.

In notching their first W-O win,

Brighton called on the shooting of Mike Shosey, Jim Wood, Carl Roberts and Bruce Ritter who all reached the double figure mark.

Trailing most of the game, Brighton pulled it out on the strength of nine for 14 free throws in the last period coupled with 32 second half rebounds.

Local Jayvees Split Cage Games

It was another split weekend for area basketball fans so far as local jayvee squads were concerned.

Unlike their varsity counterparts the Wildcats swept to an easy 70-60 victory over Chelsea Friday night while in Milford, the Mustangs joined their counterparts in defeat though only by one point, 50-49.

Gene Spencer led the Wildcats, as he did last week in their opening defeat at the hands of Dexter, with 28 points. Steve Lukkar and Jim Van Wagner followed with 17 and 12 to supply all but three of the Wildcat tally.

Novi was ahead all the way although the lead slackened slightly in the final half as the Bulldogs played catch up ball.

Quarter scores were 14-10, 35-21, 54-42.

In Northville, the tables were turned and the junior Mustangs found themselves on the losing end of a narrow one-point margin.

Ace scorer for Northville was Bart Taylor who fired 19 points. His closest competition was Rich Bingley who netted a total of eight.

Junior Mustang Coach Bob Simpson complained of a lack of zeal. "With a little more effort," Simpson said, "we could be 3-1. We have never rebounded well. Fouls also hurt as did violations. That was Milford's first win and we handed it to them."

"It was the violations late in the ballgame," concluded Simpson, "that cost us the two points that would have meant victory."

Quarter scores were 11-9, 26-24 and 38-36.

Northville Swimmers Open Season Today

"We're in good shape," said Northville swimming Coach Ben Lauber of his squad's opening performance slated today (Thursday) against Dearborn Crestwood.

"Our losses hurt us, there's no denying that, but I feel that we have much of the strength left over from last year's squad plus some new talent that, if it comes through, will help out a lot."

"I'm pretty sure it'll be a good match Thursday," said Lauber. "From what I know of both teams, we're matched pretty even."

The gun goes off at 6:30 in Northville's pool.

The coach, who sports a team with 13 lettermen returning from last year's 10-2 squad, will miss Mark Dixon in the middle distance freestyle, Ed Zywiec in the short and long distance freestyle, Bob Cook in the middle and long distance freestyle and Mike Dedes in the divers slot.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church will hold their Sunday School Christmas program Sunday at 7 p.m., the Reverend Charles F. Boerger, pastor, announced.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Epiphany has planned a special Christmas presentation for Sunday beginning at 10 a.m.

Prayers written by members of the fifth and sixth grades will be read by the students and third and fourth graders will give a choral reading of the Christmas story from Luke. Special Christmas music will be presented by the Kindergartners and members of the first and second grades.

St. William's Catholic School in Walled Lake will present a Christmas play Saturday and Sunday. The presentation begins each evening at 7:30 p.m.

Confessions will be heard Wednesday, December 23, from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. and on Thursday, December 24, from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and again from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

A cantata, "Born a King", by John Peterson will be presented by the Senior Choir of the Salem Bible Church at 7:30 p.m. December 20.

"The Real Meaning of Christmas", a play, will be presented by the youth group of the Tri-County Baptist Church at 7 p.m. Sunday, December 20. The Sunday School children will also have a part in the program.

The Methodist Church senior choir will present Bach's Cantata "For Unto Us a Child Is Born" at the 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. services, the Reverend Guenther C. Branstner, pastor, announced.

Jaycees to Trade Candy for Donations

Northville Jaycees will be exchanging candy canes for donations for toys for needy youngsters in downtown Northville this Friday and Saturday.

Donations are to be used by the Jaycees to help Santa provide badly needed toys, games and recreational equipment for youngsters of all ages at the Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon Road. Needed items range from small and relatively inexpensive toys to an electric generator, room-size cooking tent and a fishing boat for the center's summer camp. (Their old boat was stolen last summer, the recreational director explained.)

The Jaycees urge area residents to give as generously as possible as "the kids really need help" and also are seeking donations of items as well as money. Anyone with donations may call Ron Reitenour, 349-2572, or Art Bakewell, 349-4198.

Northville Jaycees' Christmas activities also include making sure Santa is on his throne at Stone's Gamble Store toyland, 117 East Main Street.

He will be hearing Christmas wishes from 4 to 8 p.m. today and Friday and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday. He will chat with last-minute visitors until 6 p.m. December 24.

Store employees report that Santa is at his very best jovial self, greeting youngsters warmly, often commenting, "My, how you've grown since last year."

He also takes note of the tightened economic situation by gently explaining to the youngsters that it isn't always possible to bring everything on the "want list," but promises to do his very best.

Committee Demands Board Stop Study, Return Grant

Members of the Committee Opposed to Year-Round School appeared before school board members Monday night to demand the district turn down the study grant of $20,000 recently received from the state legislature to explore the acceptability of the quadrimester concept.

Speaking for the committee, Angelo Chinni said "Since the community does not want the study, the money should be spent by someone else somewhere else. You (the school board) should turn it down."

Chinni noted the June election in which year-round school advisory vote showed 422 in favor of the concept and 518 against indicated to the board the sentiment of the community.

"You are attempting to by-pass the will of the voters," he said. "You do not quarrel with elections to vote millage and elect board members, why will you not accept the outcome of this election?"

Board President Dr. Orlo Robinson said the board will not make any decisions on the fate of year-round school until all the information from Phase III is in. Phase III will determine if the quadrimester concept is acceptable to the community.

"If the majority of the community does not want year-round school, then the board will not vote for it," Dr. Robinson said.

Responding to a question from Mrs. Chinni, Superintendent Raymond Spear said if Phase III is acceptable to the community "it will be one and one half years at the minimum before we could open school doors to a year-round program."

Chinni restated his question asking "Why must a survey be conducted? Why isn't an election good enough?"

He was responding to a statement from the superintendent that after students have been scheduled, parents will be sent the schedules along with a card asking whether or not the school and vacation quarters are acceptable to them.

"You are asking if I want to be shot or hung," Chinni said. "I want to live! You are asking what quarters I want. I like it the way it is. You are confusing change with progress."

Trustee Glenn Deibert commented, "I do not recall there was any citizen pressure to have us sample the opinion of the public on year-round school. We realized the opinion could go either way. We gave you the ammunition that enabled you to be so eloquent."

Trustee Timothy Johnson told the Committee Opposed they could "rest assured that if year-round is not the wishes of the community, it will not be put into action."

Chinni said he was "not satisfied" with the answer and wanted to know why election results were not good enough.

In other business Monday night, trustees voted to continue the lease with the Cavern Teen Club but reduce the monthly rent from $30 to $15, effective December 1, 1970, through June 30, 1971. Included was the stipulation that the leasing arrangement be reviewed in June with members of Mothers' Club and the Cavern board.

Trustees also approved the release of contract of James Messacar, high school industrial arts instructor, upon employment of a qualified replacement, but no later than January 27, 1971;

a motion declaring January 21, 1971, as Occupational Training Day in recognition of the Occupational Training Night program to be held that evening.

Police Get Grant

A federal grant has been given to the Northville City Police Department, Chief Samuel Elkins announced this week.

The grant, which as of yet has no fixed dollar amount, is expected to pay for half the cost of a radar unit, microfilm reader and mobile radio units, the Chief said.

The city department submitted its final application for the grant in August, 1969. The funds are provided by the Federal Highway Administration and National Highway Safety Bureau. They were given to the State Highway Safety Planning Bureau of Planning and Program Development for allocation by the governor.

Hospital Changes Set

During the next few weeks, plans will be accomplished for a greater division among the 1,000 to 1,200 patients at Northville State Hospital, according to Dr. Richard D. Budd, medical superintendent, who indicated that instead of 11 there will be 24 units of service, each staffed with its own team of professionals.

Northville State Hospital, one of seven in the state for the psychiatrically ill, now provides for northwest Wayne County cities and townships, and that part of the City of Detroit which is west of Woodward.

"This increased division of our inpatient, outpatient, and aftercare services," commented Dr. Budd, "will allow our staff members in each Unit to focus more effectively upon treatment responsibilities and the needs of smaller geographic areas. Also, we are fortunate that we can plan for 21 of these Units both to receive and to treat patients."

"The rapid improvement during the past few years of treatment methods lets us know that our planned investment of time and effort in such a changeover will bring even increased benefits to patients. During this time, our total program has changed with a hospital census of over 2,000 reduced to our present total; even though admissions have tripled."

A one-page short letter (one-half ounce) addressed and sealed, will cost about 25 cents.

Mrs. Phillips' Iowa friend, Mrs. Charles Boom, has been unable in five years to learn whether or not her son, Steve Adams, is alive or dead. She asked in The Spencer Times that a personal letter be sent to Steve, in care of "Camp of Detention for U.S. Pilots Captured in The D.R.V., Hanoi Post Office, Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

"It is doubtful that Hanoi will deliver or open the letters," Mrs. Boom admitted, "but the flood of mail COULD bring back word from Steve, this being attributed to the vast amount of mail Hanoi would have to process in his name."

By ROLLY PETERSON

You could have predicted it, but finally, after two months of silence, President Richard M. Nixon made it official by saying, "Moral authority in a great and diverse nation such as ours does not reside in the presidency alone."

With those words, he cast aside the Scranton Commission report on campus unrest and branded as foolish its conclusion that "only the president can offer the compassionate, reconciling moral leadership that can bring the country together again."

Make no mistake about it, despite Nixon's claim that the report will "continue to receive the closest attention within the administration," the case of the Scranton report is closed and not one administrative finger will be raised to implement the report's recommendations.

It's unfortunate, too, because the Scranton report, unlike the U.S. Riot Commission Report of 1967, did not call for massive expenditures or bureaucratic upheaval. The thrust of the Scranton report urged toning down of inflammatory rhetoric and an ameliorative attitude on the part of the president and his compatriots, namely Vice President Agnew.

Even in his Saturday statement about the report, the President did exactly the opposite of what was recommended. He praised Agnew (his vitriolic mouthpiece), among others, for having "spoken or acted with forthrightness and courage, on and off the campus, condemning violence and disruption as instruments of change..."

As Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine noted during his election eve speech, who isn't for law and order? Who isn't against violence? Every thinking American is. As if it took courage to speak out against it, as if it were an issue.

Surely the Scranton report proposed little that was new; it was general, almost innocuous in its recommendations. But the astounding part is that the little it sought will go unheeded.

Polarization, it seems — despite the obvious message of the November election in which a non-issue, law and order, was the administration's key issue — is still considered by the administration to be its mechanism for political success.

Why did President Nixon, like presidents before him, create a commission, then choose to disregard its recommendations? The answer is fairly obvious.

It was a political ploy to immediately placate a nation stunned by a man-made disaster at Kent State University. After months have gone by and the incident has faded into the shadows of time, then it's perfectly kosher to cast the report aside if the recommendations are not politically palatable.

Although the Vietnam war appears to him to be the tragic result of an ill-advised commitment, U.S. abandonment now of the South Vietnamese people would compound that mistake.

That, in a nutshell, was the message of General Maxwell Taylor, former chairman of the U.S. Joint Chief of Staff and Ambassador to South Vietnam, as he spoke Thursday to a near capacity audience of students and adults at Schoolcraft Community College.

Looking more like a handsome auto company executive than a "crusty old general," Taylor explored lessons — mistakes if you will — of the Vietnam war and then fielded a battery of questions.

Among the lessons and conclusions he noted were:

- Fulfillment of international commitments are very costly and full of painful surprises and therefore should be made only after great research and deliberations.

- Existing alliances should be periodically reviewed and those which are no longer useful or which could be too costly should be scrapped.

- New officials coming to power are too little informed and too fearful of the power at their command and hence tend to tread water until they learn by experience how to utilize that power. In the interim mistakes are made.

- It is essential at the conception of an alliance that communication between officials and citizens be wide open so that, in the event the commitment leads to war, a spirit of cooperation exists as it did during World War II.

- So long as this nation's over-riding fear of a nuclear war dominates its thinking when fulfilling commitments, Americans must accept the fact that the resulting "wars of gradulism," as in Vietnam, will be long and costly.

- The returns of the Vietnam war, when compared to the lives and money expended, are small because this nation failed to effectively exercise its power to the best possible advantage.

- Peace talks for Asians are battlegrounds, not the give-and-take negotiations that Americans have grown accustomed to at the bargaining table between labor and management.

The Vietnam commitment, one of 42 alliances that sprang up after World War II to guard against the encroachment of the Communist block, resulted in surprises at home (dissent) and in Vietnam (strengths of the North Vietnamese as well as the weaknesses of the South Vietnamese) when the United States made good on its promissory note, General Taylor said.

MAXWELL TAYLOR: NO "CRUSTY OLD GENERAL"

The surprises resulted, he explained, because Presidents had to act without knowing all the characteristics, the foibles, the weaknesses, and the strengths of these two Asian countries. "This is the tragic lot of every President who is faced with decisions," he said.

"In 1961 President Kennedy had to make his decision with regard to responding to the initiation of the guerrilla war by North Vietnam in South Vietnam. It was the question then of increasing our assistant materials, particularly our advisors in South Vietnam, or perhaps backing away and accepting the impossibility (of the situation).

"But the evidence available to President Kennedy and his advisors was far from discouraging because this little country of South Vietnam had lived through some awfully rough days from 1954 to 1961. So there was every reason to say, Let's go ahead. Let's advance some additional aid here. We're not putting in our troops; we're simply staking an effort in getting the Johnson in 1965 was faced with a very difficult problem. His problem was what to do about the deterioration of the situation in South Vietnam as a consequence of Diem's overthrow. The disappearance of Diem was the best news the Communists could have. They immediately redoubled their attacks on South Vietnam, both politically and militarily..."

And that's when Johnson had to ask himself, Should the U.S. give up or use its own forces to reinforce the South Vietnamese, Taylor said.

"No one could tell him much about the leadership in Hanoi. Ho Chi Minh was a well known name... but in terms of... psychology, in terms of background no one had any real knowledge of how tough these people were. Most of us, like myself, tended to equate them to the North Koreans and to the Red Chinese, who had fought quite well in the Korean War. But both the North Koreans and the Red Chinese when the going got tough were willing to review their national interests and adjust themselves accordingly. The North Vietnamese were much more unrealistic, if you will, in deciding what they could afford in terms of continued conflict.

"The final thing, of course, that President Johnson didn't know was the problem he would have here with the American citizens."

It is essential, if the nation is to

General Maxwell Taylor

He Warns Against 'Pullout'

learn by these miscalculations, that "we should go slow in making these commitments and find a better formula for testing them as to their validity. That was never done, in my observation, thoroughly in the past. Furthermore, we get these commitments — 42 of them I mention are on the books — and we don't go back every three or four years and look them over to ask if they are still valid or should we take them off."

Thorough review and study is necessary, he continued, because once a commitment results in war it cannot be ended over-night in today's world. That is why, he said, it is so difficult to pull out of Vietnam at this time.

General Taylor took the position that a pull-out would necessarily compound the high cost of lives and money already expended by America and South Vietnam.

Specifically, he pointed to the "high probability" of bloody reprisals, in view of past actions, against the South Vietnamese by the Communists. Furthermore, while he personally does not espouse the Domino Theory, he nevertheless is convinced that a pull-out would greatly encourage the Communist world to widen its technique of "national wars of liberation" — guerrilla warfare — elsewhere in the world.

On a wider scope, it would signal to the allied nations of Europe that this country's deterrent nuclear force, upon which they depend, is as meaningless as U.S. abandonment of the lesser struggle in Vietnam. These allied nations could no longer depend on the United States' deterrent nuclear force as a safeguard against Communist aggression.

"I mention these things to remind you that once a great country like the United States gets embarked upon a course of action such as we are in South Vietnam it is almost impossible to turn back..."

"A great power such as the United States, upon whom rests the nuclear peace of the world, cannot suffer a minor defeat."

Beyond the fact that Presidents did not have at their fingertips all the information needed to make the best decisions, they and other new officials coming into office were fearful not to overstep their powers and therefore were unable to make the best use of their power.

The American political system, by its built-in procedure of periodic changes of administrations, is a hair-raising experience, he said.

"While these men coming in usually are able and are going to end up by being very excellent officials, they (at the outset) have had no training for the most complex business in the world. They arrive at their desks... no one gives them a careful briefing... and they sit at those desks not even knowing the telephone numbers of their colleagues. So it takes them nearly a year before this transition is over. I think the Kennedy administration illustrated that by having this Bay of Pigs fiasco two or three months after coming to office. Yet that same team that performed so badly in April of 1961 was the same team in October of the following year that I thought handled extremely well the much more dangerous (Cuban missile problem)."

Taylor said he does not advocate changing the system but rather he makes the point, he said, to show that it is a fact of life resulting in ineffective use of the nation's power. Complicating the situation is the overriding fear of a nuclear confrontation, he added.

Out of this, he said, has come restraints upon the military. While in many cases these restraints are understandable, the result has been to go too far in tying the hands of the military. Furthermore, out of these restrictions has evolved the concept of gradual warfare which is foreign to both the military and to the people.

It flies in the face of quick, thorough and decisive blows for which the military establishment is trained, he continued, and it dumbfounds and irritates the American people, who in remembering the World War II types of involvement, grow restless and, in the case of Vietnam, even rebellious.

'Let Us Make Our Visit, Let Us Bring A Token'

Rev. George E. Kind (Retired)
United Presbyterian Church
Brighton

Luke 2:15. And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which the Lord hath made known unto us. Matthew 2:11a. And when they (the wise men) were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his Mother, and fell down and worshiped him.

Having visitors is interesting and satisfying. People have taken enough interest to make us a call. It is a compliment to receive a call.

We are all familiar with the beautiful accounts of the visits of the shepherds and wise men with Jesus and Mary and Joseph, the shepherds to the stable and the wise men to the house where they had gone after leaving the stable. In both cases there had been a divine directive leading them to where Jesus could be found. Apparently, there would have been no visitors, or none on record, had there been no divine directive given to those who made calls. The marvel of the Christmas Season is that we should have any visits to recall.

It seems that at what time the place or event has become hallowed or unique or whatever, the real spirit of what took place has gone, because it was not realized when it happened, that it was something holy. Which leads us to remind ourselves that every comparable event is also holy, which things we often take in stride and, therefore, miss a blessing.

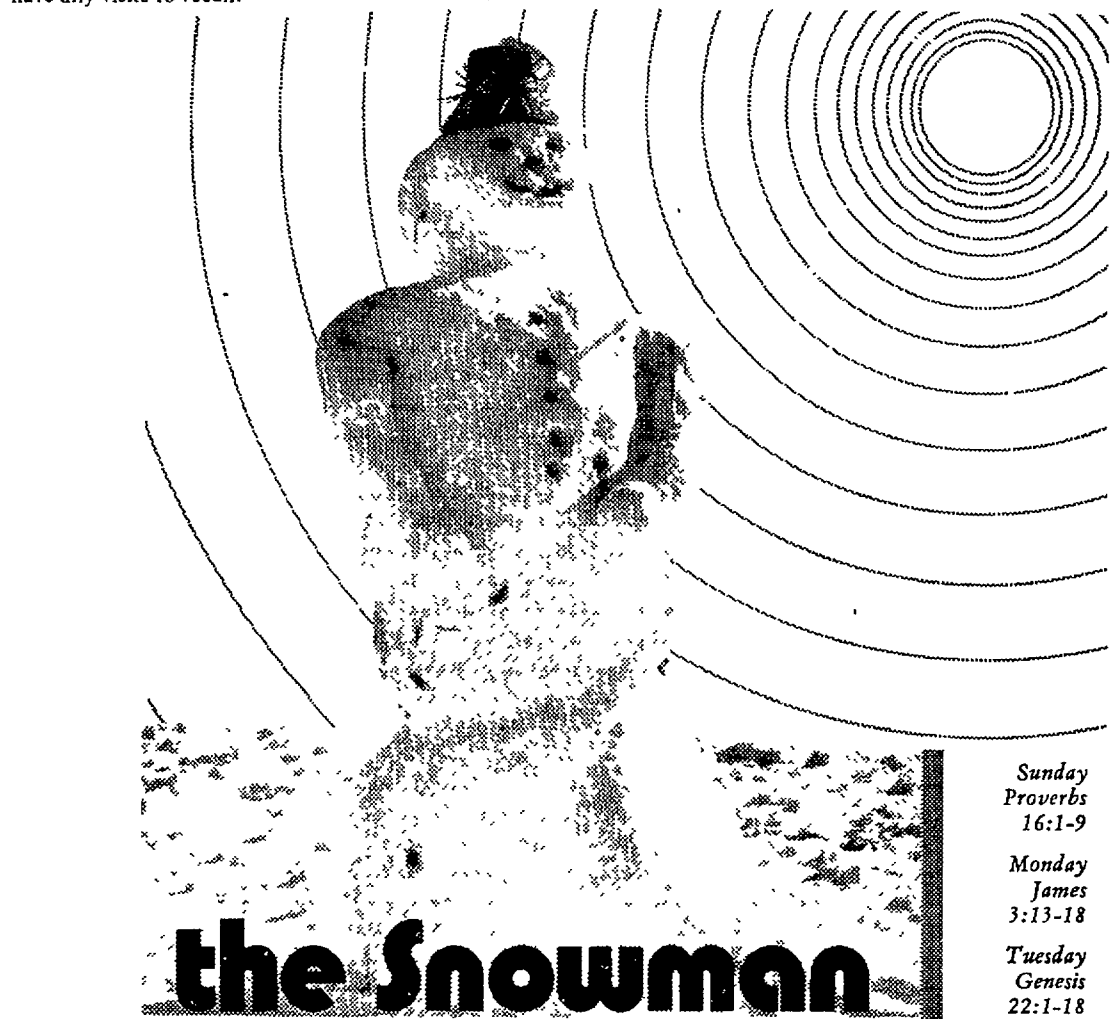

Every child is a bundle of possibilities and is infinitely precious in the sight of God, and should, therefore, be welcomed and cared for in preparation for the fullest possible usefulness in the church and the world. All our human relationships and associations have something holy about them if we make them so.

When Jesus came, in circumstances which were the lowest of the low, he became available to everybody. Anyone from rags to riches, from the drifters to royalty, became available and anyone who would not visit the child Jesus, did not, not because they were too low, but because they were too high. And the same applies today. The wise men who were rich brought gifts. The gifts were acceptable. Joseph and Mary needed them to help finance their journey into Egypt. Money is needed today (along with other things) if the church is going to maintain or improve its witness in the world.

The call is still, "come and worship" and bring what you can afford, but if you have little or nothing, come as you are, and you will receive a blessing. There should be the token gift that we give, to show we possess the same spirit as he imparts, and to show we belong to him. Come, therefore, to the Saviour; you will be accepted. Let us make our visit again; let us bring a token of our indebtedness.

Let us make our visit again. Let us accept the Saviour anew. Let us bring a token of our gratitude. We are not going to be screened out and told we cannot come, but come we must because he came to us, and since he came to us, the only life worth living, is the life he has shown to be worthy of our following.

the snowman

Maggie and June worked all morning making their snowman. He got so big that they had to fetch a stool and stand on tip-toe to make his arms and to cinder-button him. The mailman helped put on his head.

When they napped that afternoon, the sun shone hot and bright, and the south wind blew. When they woke, their snowy pal had dwindled and his cinder face cried dirty streaks. Sadly they turned away.

Sometimes life is like that snowman — grand and glittering with all the things we have. Then the hot winds of disaster blow, and their importance vanishes and we are left with emptiness.

What makes life meaningful? If possessions can't make us happy, what can?

Our churches have the answer. Through worship and prayer they teach us to find the joys of spirit.

State Experiments with Icy Bridge Detection System

LANSING — The most treacherous part of a driver's experience in the winter can come when he is driving across bridges.

Bridges are suspended in the air, and cold winds can blow both above and below them. This cools bridge surface much faster than road surfaces. They can be like glass while the rest of the road is still quite safe.

If temperature and humidity conditions are right, the bridge surface will become slick, even though adjacent highways are clear and dry.

In an attempt to counter the dangers posed by such bridges, the state highway department started experimenting with an ice detection system for bridges.

THE FIRST ice detection system is now installed on the Interstate 75 Rouge River Bridge in Detroit.

It consists of 18 sensors imbedded in the concrete bridge deck. The sensors will pick up and transmit temperature, humidity and deck condition information to the Wayne County Road Commission's highway maintenance garage to give advance warning of icing.

This will allow road crews to get an earlier jump on icing conditions and hopefully keep the bridge safe.

The project is costing $30,000, with 90 percent of the money coming from federal government.

LAWYERS have a well deserved reputation for being wordy when they talk or write, and judges are traditionally expected to write long, windy explanations of their judicial decisions.

Thus, an opinion handed down by the Court of Appeals recently comes as something of a breath of fresh air.

The opinion was written by Judge J. H. Gillis and involved a workmen's compensation case.

Wrote Gillis: "The appellant has attempted to distinguish the factual situation in this case from that in another case."

"He didn't. We couldn't."

End of opinion.

MICHIGAN LEGISLATORS can be glad to pay raises they are scheduled to receive will not be submitted to voters for approval if results from the rest of the nation on election day reflect the sentiment here.

Eight states held elections on proposals to increase legislative pay or establish a commission similar to the one which awarded the legislators $2,000 pay increases in November.

In five of those states the proposals were defeated. And none of the proposals involving straight pay hikes was passed.

At the same time, voters decided to get more work out of their legislators. In six states annual legislative sessions were adopted by voters. This brought to 37 the number of states which will have their legislatures meeting every year.

MICHIGAN is the best state in the country in which to purchase your Christmas tree this year, according to State Agriculture Director B. Dale Ball.

Ball says the state is the nation's leading grower of plantation grown trees and that more than five million evergreens will be harvested for sale in the 1970 season. That means $20 million for the state's economy, he said.

"Millions will be shipped out of the state, some as far away as California," Ball said. "But there will be plenty for sale at outlets in every city and hamlet in the state."

Scotch pine is the most widely produced plantation tree, with other Michigan species including spruces and firs.

Babson Report

'71 Record Sales Seen for Glass Container Industry

FROM THE sharp reversals suffered this year by glass container stocks, it might be concluded that the industry's sales and earnings outlook is discouraging indeed.

The truth is, however, that despite a sluggish picture this year, 1971 sales and earnings for the industry's big three — Anchor Hocking, Owens-Illinois, and Brockway — are likely to set new records. Combination of a slowing economy, rising costs of operations, and trucking strikes has taken a good-sized bite out of 1970 profits, but a new round of price increases and a somewhat more optimistic business atmosphere should help bring about next year's anticipated improvement.

IN ADDITION to anxiety over labor differences — now largely settled — glass container issues have been under pressure from the conviction that plastic containers are on the way toward making glass containers obsolete. This view gained weight when two of the soft drink giants, Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Cola, test-marketed their beverages packaged in plastic bottles. Consumer reaction in the test cities appears to have been generally favorable, and some plastic industry people look for volume output of plastic bottles in three to five years.

A big advantage of plastic over glass for container material is its lightness, which means substantial freight savings. The current high cost of turning out plastic bottles, however, makes the three-to-five-year projection a tenuous one at best. Also, plastic containers have a tougher time meeting the regulations of the Food and Drug Administration regarding absorption of toxic components into the product than does glass. In any event, it will be a few years at least before competition from plastic containers materially affects profits growth of the makers of glass bottles.

PERHAPS A MORE immediate threat to the glass container industry lies in the mounting sentiment for a nationwide ban on one-way cans and glass bottles for beer and soft drinks. In recent drastic anti-litter moves, lawmakers in Bowie, Maryland and Richland County, Wisconsin passed legislation prohibiting local sale of beverages in glass, metal, or plastic one-way containers.

A major factor in the growth of the glass container industry in recent years has been strong consumer demand for non-returnable beverage bottles. A nationwide ban on one way containers could put a real crimp in the glass industry's growth.

It is, of course, still questionable whether this type of legislation will become widespread. As of now, chances favor a somewhat more moderate course, — perhaps a tax or surcharge on the one-way container rather than a universal ban. One approach to the litter problem could be recycling of used bottles and jars, but real near-term progress in this process is unlikely.

ASSUMING that one-way glass bottles are not prohibited by Congress and that the technical and cost problems of plastic bottles are not immediately overcome, the glass container industry should show better growth in the period ahead than it has in the past. Aided by increased consumer demand for such convenience features as non-returnables with easy-open tops, the industry should grow at an annual rate of about 6 percent up from a 4.9 percent average from 1963 to 1968.

In the opinion of the Research Staff of Babson's Reports, current prices of the common stocks of leading manufacturers of glass containers adequately discount the negative factors. Thus, we recommend that investors hold Anchor Hocking and Owens-Illinois. While Brockway Glass is not at this time among the issues our researchers regularly supervise, the common stock of this company also appears to be well worth holding.

Here's the Answer

Earlier Increase Called Inadequate

Bell Telephone Seeks Rate Hike

In requesting a new rate increase Thursday, Michigan Bell Telephone Company said rising costs, falling earnings and a recent "inadequate" revenue order had left it "no other alternative."

The new rate increase, according to a local area Bell spokesman, does not include a schedule of how the new rate would be spread locally if it were granted. If the rate increase or a variation of it is granted Bell must then submit for approval by the Public Service Commission its proposed schedule, he said.

A schedule protested by the City of Northville and based on an earlier rate increase was approved.

The previously granted rate increase of $14.8 million, according to Bell, fell far short of its request. An appeal for rehearing of that increase was denied by the commission. The increase granted was the first in 10 years for Bell.

In its newest application to the commission Bell outlined its "worsening financial condition" and asked for a rate of return in the range of 9.5 percent on its intrastate investment. (The recently granted increase was in the 7.9 range). The company did not request a specific amount in its filing but said it would do so at a later date.

According to Lloyd J. Haynes, the earlier increase was "inadequate at the time it was granted and has become more inadequate with each passing day."

"Our record of holding down prices is hard to match in American industry," he said, pointing out that between 1960 and the recent increase, Michigan Bell had made six intrastate rate reductions which, based on today's calling volumes, amount to some $30 million in customer savings.

"We've taken advantage of improved technology and closely watched our expenditures to try to cope with rising costs," said Haynes, "but the rapid rate of inflation has finally overtaken us."

In spite of the company's serious financial situation, Haynes pointed out that Michigan Bell plans to spend a record $285 million next year to maintain the quality of its basic services and to meet the continuing demand of growth brought about by new customers and increasing calling volumes.

However, even though the 1971 construction program will be at a record level, Haynes said the company already has slashed $35 million from next year's spending plans by setting aside or delaying a number of service improvement projects because of deteriorating finances. In addition, the company also has been forced to trim $20 million from its planned 1972 construction program.

"We cannot cut any deeper without the risk of affecting the quality of day-to-day customer service. We do not intend to see that happen and we do not believe our customers or the Public Service Commission will stand by and let that occur either," Haynes added.

The 1971 cutbacks, however, have dropped from the program several "important and desirable" service improvement projects that are both "wanted and needed" by customers.

Good Grief!

Charlie Brown Gains Book Fame

Charlie Brown, now three years of age, has now made the national scene with his picture in the hard-bound book "Charlie Brown and Charlie Schulz."

Charlie, the son of Herald Editor and Mrs. Ernest Brown of South Lyon, was photographed by David Clark of 9601 Rushton Road in October of 1968 while standing in a 125-pound Northville grown pumpkin.

The photograph appeared in the Northville Record-News and in the South Lyon Herald-Hallowe'en week of 1968 and the caption beneath it contained information on the pumpkin, on Charlie, on his mother (maiden name: Schulz), on the television program "It's the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown" which was to be shown that weekend and referred to an inside story on the Northville organic gardener who grew the pumpkin.

Mrs. Brown clipped the story and sent it to Charles Schulz. The cartoonist acknowledged receipt of the clipping and thanked the sender in a note which subsequently appeared in these newspapers.

A final chapter on the news clipping has now surfaced in the book, "Charlie Brown and Charlie Schulz" (by Lee Mendelson, The World Publishing Company, copyright 1970). On page 135 of this book (which sells in area book stores for $6.95), Charlie puts in an appearance exactly as he did in the Northville story in 1968 — in fact the clipping was reproduced with credit given the Record-News.

Out of the Horse's

Send your questions, comments and horse show news to "Horse's Mouth," care of South Lyon Herald, South Lyon, Mi. 48178. This column is open to news of all breeds of horses and ponies.

December 20 at 10 a.m. sharp there will be a horse show at Brierwyck Farms, 589 Hartland Road, Brighton. There has been a walk-trot class (for children) added to the previous list of classes; also stalls will be available if reserved in advance.

The judge will be Carol Grant of Brighton and there is a heated observation room for spectators. For further information, call 313-229-9786.

Mrs. Al Benson, Parshallville Farms, Fenton, put on a demonstration of the gaits and uses of the "Peruvian Paso" at the November 15 Brierwyck show.

This breed of horse comes from Peru and is built similar to the Morgan horse, but does a Paso gait (like a fox-trot), rather than a true trot. The Paso gait is so smooth that a full glass of water may be carried on the horses back without spilling a drop.

The two horses Mrs. Benson was showing were a mare and a weanling foal.

Results from the Centaur Dressage Schooling show are: Mrs. Lois Godfrey, Northville, riding her Morgan mare "Baton's Bit-Of-Fasion" placed 4th in the Preliminary Level, Test 2. Mrs. Carol Grant, Brighton, won 1st in the Senior Dressage Equitation class.

How would you go about longeing a colt using a chain over the nose?

To start this exercise, you need a long line 10 to 12 feet long with an 8 or 10 inch chain on the end and a buggy whip 8 to 10 feet long.

First, place the chain over the horse's nose (snap chain in side ring of halter, go over the nose and let end of chain come out opposite side ring of halter. Attach long line. Secondly, position the horse broadside, holding the line in the left hand and the whip in the right, and face his near side. The horse should be about 10 feet away from you, now, with a quick tap on the hocks, set the horse in motion. If the horse tries to head in facing you, a quick tap on the shoulder should straighten him out so that he will move around you in a circle.

You should now have (without exciting the horse) established control of his quarters from a distance. In this case, the horse will be longeing the first time you try it without any difficulty whatsoever. This also must be done in both directions, be sure you change hands for the line and whip when going in the opposite direction. If you wish the horse to stop, a quick jerk on the line, and the command "Whoa" will stop him. Soon only the voice will be necessary. Remember to praise often, keep your patience and good luck.

Park Trails Open Daily

The nature trails at Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority parks provide visitors with the opportunity to see the changes that winter brings to the southeastern Michigan landscape.

Labeled trails — ideal for "self-guided" hikes — include those at Kensington Metropolitan Park near New Hudson. All trails are open daily.

William F. Hopkins, chief naturalist for the authority, stated that the primary winter attractions at HCMA Nature trails are animal tracks in the snow and the animals that inhabit the wildlife areas. Frequently visitors catch a glimpse of deer and winter is an excellent time for outdoor photography.
