Rezoning Denied For Mobile Homes

Township planners Tuesday night recommended the township board deny a mobile home park rezoning request submitted by developer Sheldon Hayes, while planners took no action on another mobile home rezoning petition.

Hayes' proposed 188-acre park, located on the southwest corner of Six Mile and Ridge roads, would contain 840 units and cost $2.5 million to construct.

Presently zoned one family residential, Hayes sought to have the parcel rezoned multiple and industrial to permit construction of the park.

Planner Donald Boor, in reading the prepared motion (which was seconded by J. D. Bowlby and won unanimous approval from the commission), cited four main reasons why the commission was recommending the township board deny the request:

"Compared to most recent development patterns in Northville township, this (mobile home park) has a greater density, greater population than what was planned in our master zoning plan," he said.

"The area in question is best for industrial (to be used for industrial purposes) land because of its topography, proximity to expressways, the C&O railroad and Salem township has rezoned land to the west of this parcel as industrial," he continued.

The industrial base is critical to township growth, the motion noted, because of the rapidly expanding school population, most of which is a result of township development. An excess of one-third of the township land is government owned and non-tax producing and, since the voters turned down the industrial zoning in the Haggerty Road corridor, "we must protect our industrial areas."

Finally, the motion said that "based on the land use plan in the township, we should consider rezoning the entire Section 18 and the southwest quarter of Section 17 to industrial to provide for future tax base requirements."

(Section 18 is bounded by Five Mile, Six Mile, Napier and Ridge roads and Section 17 lies east of Ridge, between Five and Six Mile.)

Speaking to the commission before the motion was made, an attorney for Hayes told planners Hayes was willing to "present something less than what we have shown you if you are fearful of rezoning so much acreage but like the mobile home idea."

The attorney stated the Wayne County Planning Commission had indicated approval of the proposed use of the land but recommended the rezoning request be denied because the township's zoning ordinance permitted other uses under industrial classification and because the intent, that mobile home be buffers to industrial land, was not being served.

Chairman of the planners, Kenneth

Sewell, reminded Hayes and his attorney that "we are not bound by action of the Wayne County Planning Commission. They are a recommending body."

Sewell said the commission had spent much time studying the rezoning request before making its decision to deny the request. The request was made in September, a public hearing was held in October and special study meeting earlier this month was devoted to considering the park, he said.

In other business before the commission Tuesday, planners took no action on a request from Forest Ridge Associates of Southfield who asked that 38.12 acres of land on Ridge Road between Five Mile and Six Mile be rezoned to permit construction of a mobile home park.

The property is adjacent to Detroit House of Correction land.

District to Refund $35,000

Scrap Book Deposit

Superintendent Raymond Spear threw in the towel Monday night, ending once and for all the controversy over Northville Public School's damage deposit.

Spear recommended that the school board immediately suspend collection of damage deposits, as of June 30, and repeal the policy.

The board supported his recommendation 6-0, Trustee Timothy Johnson absent.

Approximately $35,000 in the damage deposit escrow account will be returned to students after June 30 and trustees will discuss formulation of a new policy and its enforcement at the February 8 board meeting.

Spear said refunds will not be made until after June 30 because "approximately $7,000 to $10,000 in credits from previous years (which were applied to students' deposits) must be made up by the school district."

"To return the money now would only hurt our budget which already is burdened with the state ordered cutbacks," he explained. "The $7,000 to $10,000 will be charged to next year's budget."

The coup de grace came in early December when the State Department of Education issued supplemental guidelines to be used to administer the "free textbook" ruling handed down in August by the State Supreme Court.

In the guidelines "reasonable" and "refundable" are defined: "reasonable" is one-fourth or one-fifth of the total value of the student's books, depending on the length of time the books will be used, while "refundable" means the deposits must be returned at the end of each school year or during the year if the student leaves the school system.

Locally, the damage deposit was a flat fee per grade level — $5, elementary; $15, junior high; and $25, senior high — refundable at the end of the school year if requested by the parent or otherwise when the student left the school system.

"I'm not going to figure the value of each individual student's books, collect 3,200 deposits at the beginning of the school year, pay back 3,200 deposits at the end of the year and then turn around and collect 3,500 the following September," Spear stated.

"It isn't administratively feasible or economical," he noted. "I don't know what the new policy will be, but we won't be collecting any more deposits."

The district initiated the damage deposit in August after the State Supreme Court ruled students could no longer be required to purchase textbooks, as had been the policy in Northville.

According to an interpretation by the attorney general of the ruling, "school districts may charge students for damage or loss of school-owned books and non-consumable supplies through the collection of reasonable refundable deposits."

Then the controversy started. Parents and administrators disagreed over what was reasonable and refundable, 25 per cent of the parents boycotted payment of the deposit, an

Northville Leads Area

Income Level Tops $13,000

Northville's average family income is well off the pace of Bloomfield Hills' upper-crust but it's among the leaders in the metropolitan Detroit area — quite likely topping $13,000.

Based on Internal Revenue Service statistics out of Washington, D. C., the average family income here in 1966 can be conservatively estimated at $10,363 compared to Bloomfield Hills' $22,541 for the same year.

Figuring a six-percent per year increase since then, Northville's average family income this year may be well above the $13,000 mark.

That figure may come as a surprise to many Northville bread-winners — skilled and unskilled laborers — who are hard-pressed today to bring home more than $9,000 annually.

It also surprised Northville City Manager Frank Ollendorff, who last week received the data from IRS based on 1966 individual income tax returns by zip-code. "It's a good deal more than the figures I've heard over the past few years," he said.

The data, called federal scientific and technical information, includes number of income tax returns filed in 1967 for 1966 income, numbers of exemptions filed, adjusted gross income, and total tax dollars. It does not, however, list any individual salaries — something that remains confidential between IRS and the wage earner.

Information is group by zip code — not municipal boundaries. In other words, that $10,363 average income (computed by dividing the number of returns into the adjusted gross income) covers all of the area included in Northville's 48167 zip. According to local postal officials, the 48167 area includes parts of Novi, Farmington, Salem and Lyon townships as well as most of Northville Township.

Based on IRS data, this 48167 area included an estimated population of 13,065 in 1966. It had a total adjusted gross income of $46,408,000 that year, and it produced $6,448,000 in income tax.

(Adjusted gross income is defined by IRS as salaries and wages excluding expenses for trade or business, business and moving expenses, expense deductions attributable to rents and royalties, expenses for education, depreciation and depletion allowed life tenants and income beneficiaries of property held in trust.)

Wage earners in Northville's 48167 area claimed a total of 5,579 dependents in 1966.

Neighboring Plymouth (zip 48170) showed an average family income of $9,019 in 1966 for a population of 32,907. Its gross income was put at $104,661,000, and it produced $13,839,000 in income tax.

Novi's (zip 48050) average income was nearly $2,000 below that of Northville. Showing an estimated population of 5,254 in 1966, it had an average income of $8,374, a gross income of $12,202,000, and total income taxes of $1,510,000.

Average family income of Farmington (zip 48024) is pegged at $10,280. Its gross income was put at $184,190,000, with total taxes of $26,885,000. Estimated population in 1966 is put at 53,545.

Walled Lake's average income, among the lowest in this area, is pegged at $7,998, with a gross income of $44,901,000 and total taxes at $5,278,000. Its 48088 zip area included an estimated 17,262 population in 1966.

Average family income in Wixom in 1966 was $7,789, with a total gross income of $5,881,000. Wixom's 48096 zip area produced $724,000 in income taxes. Its population in 1966 was put at 2,084.

NEWS BRIEFS

ONE WEEK remains before the February 5 deadline for voters to register for the Northville Public Schools' March 6 millage election. Voters may register at the township or city hall in the area where they live. Property owners and non-property owners are eligible to vote with all votes counting the same, Earl Busard, business manager, explained. The millage rate will be set at the school board's February 8 meeting with administrators hinting they will ask for more than the 17 mills up for renewal.

THE CAVERN, Northville's teen club, will lose its paid advisor, Brian Ehrl, the end of this month as funds raised in a public campaign last year are exhausted. Action to terminate Ehrl's contract was taken by the Cavern Corporate Board of seven members this month. The board is seeking a volunteer adult advisor, either on an interim or regular basis.

IN HOUSTON, TEXAS, this week are Northville High School Principal Fred Holdsworth and Cooke Junior High Principal Ron Horwath. Accompanied by their wives, they are attending the International Association of Secondary School Principals conference there.

CHIEF NEGOTIATOR representing the Northville Education Association (NEA) in its contract talks with the school district this year will be Al Jones. According to NEA President Robert Sharrar, three members will be elected to the team from the various grade levels within two weeks. Robert Benson, administrative intern, will again act as chief negotiator for the district. No date has been set for negotiations to begin.

NORTHVILLE SCHOOLS received $17,000 in year-round school study grant funds from the state last week, Raymond Spear, superintendent, said. The remaining $3,000 of the district's $20,000 grant will be paid upon submission and acceptance of the final report. The money will be used to finance Phase III of the study, determining whether or not the concept is acceptable to the community.

Drug 'Rap Line' Talk Slated

BY JEAN DAY
"WHAT'S A RAP Line?"

Because drug abuse problems are the concern of every parent who has high school (or even junior high) age youngsters as well as of anyone concerned with community problems, a special public program is being planned by the Northville First Presbyterian Church Women's Association at 7:30 p.m. February 9 at the church.

The function of a Rap Line in combating the drug problem will be explained by Ralph C. Rideout, administrator of the Farmington-area Advisory Council, Incorporated. Drug counseling is one part of a program in which young people and their parents receive individual and group counseling. It is the parent organization for the Farmington Rap Line.

The speaker is to bring with him a panel of young adults who assist with the Farmington program.

Rideout began Rap Line when he was serving as minister of North Farmington Baptist Church between 1966-1970. He served as chairman of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity and taught child psychology at Oakland Community College during this period. His Rap Line work led to the organization of the Farmington-area Advisory Council. He is married and the father of two children, David, 8, and Alison, 6.

Before coming to Michigan he served as Minister of Grace Somerville Baptist Church in Massachusetts and as juvenile court chaplain. Prior to that he was minister of Avon Baptist Church in Massachusetts.

He received his B.A. degree from Colby College in 1959, his B.D. degree from Andover-Newton Theological School in 1963, and his S.T.M. from Boston University Theological School in 1967. He did advanced graduate work in psychology at Boston State Hospital under the auspices of a clinical pastoral training institute.

Because of his firsthand knowledge of drug problems and his professional background, the speaker has an important message for parents beyond telling what's involved in a Rap Line. Therefore, Mrs. Douglas Smith, association vice-president and program chairman, who will introduce him, is extending the public invitation to attend.

DRUG PROBLEMS on the consumer level were discussed by Mrs. Diane Place, consumer specialist with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, Detroit District Office, at Northville Woman's Club Friday.

"Pill popping" is especially serious among young mothers, she charged, as children are likely to gain the impression that "all life's problems can be solved with pills."

She suggested that children should not see their parents taking drugs regularly and urged that parents watch their conversation as well as their attitudes as they administer medicine to youngsters.

They should understand, she stressed, that they take medicine only to make them well, never because "it tastes good."

(When such authorities as Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas feel the drug-abuse problem has not peaked yet, any help or suggestions should be welcome to parents.)

Mrs. Place also told club members that the public can hear a message about foods, drugs, cosmetics, medical devices and hazardous home products currently in the news by calling Detroit 965-3300. The message is changed weekly.

SILVER SPRINGS Questers invited husbands to accompany them on a field trip to Riverview, Michigan, last Wednesday to view the extensive glass collection of Harry Whitlow. He spoke on "Investing in Art Glass," illustrating his talk with examples, including rare Tiffany glass.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Foy of Seven Mile Road invited the group back to their home for coffee afterward.

Next meeting of the antiques chapter will be at 12:30 p.m. February 11 at the home of Mrs. Bruce Turnbull. Miss Elizabeth Etz will display and talk about her Hummel collection.

Baseline Questers and their husbands heard about Abraham Lincoln—the man who trails only Christ in amount of published books and literature written about him, Monday night.

Speaker and Lincoln authority at the annual men's night at the Leonard Klein home was Weldon Petz, Farmington school principal who has made a 28-year study of the Civil War president. (The speaker added that Napoleon ranks a poor third, far behind Lincoln, in amount of published material.)

'TOMORROW'S Fashions

Today—the benefit fashion show being sponsored by Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the social hall will feature member models.

Fashions from pantsuits and jumpsuits to more conservative daytime wear will be shown from the Village Boutique in Plymouth. Wearing the "tomorrow" fashions will be Lisa Webster, Mrs. Robert Crane, Mrs. Alex Fisher, Mrs. James Hayward, Mrs. Robert DeAlexandris. Alternates will be Mrs. Francis Korte and Mrs. William Fuertges.

Mothers are encouraged to bring their daughters to the show, which will have an opening series of children's fashions from the Clothes Tree. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for youngsters.

EARLY MARCHERS—Mrs. Thomas B. Barber, 18217 Jamestown Circle, has help from her son, Scott, 2, as she collects for the March of Dimes Campaign in King's Mill. Mrs. Barber began collecting early in the week-long Mothers' March which ends today. More than 100 mother marchers were collecting in the Northville area under 11 Northville Jaycette captains.

Amerman PTA To Visit Rooms

Amerman PTA meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday is planned to acquaint parents with "what the child is being taught beyond the 3 R's" and also to provide an opportunity to view the new addition now in use.

Teachers participating are Miss Mary Cools, physical education, Mrs. Sandra Craig, music, and Mrs. Alice Kipfer, art.

Each is to conduct three half-hour sessions so that parents may attend a complete program. Each session will be geared to a different grade level.

Since each session will be taught as though the parent were the child, the PTA suggests parents dress casually with mothers wearing slacks for the gym program. To protect the new gymnasium floor, parents are requested to wear tennis shoes.

Recipe Contest Opens

As Detroit Edison announced the beginning of its 10th annual Queen of the Kitchen contest for women who work next Monday, Mrs. James (Marion) Thomas, 23228 Gilbar Drive, Novi, made plans to enter.

A four-time finalist in the recipe contest, Mrs. Thomas says she feels "like a bridesmaid but never a bride" as she has been named one of 10 finalists in 1963, 1964, 1965 and 1970. She quickly adds, however, that she doesn't mind a bit as she's enjoyed participating so much in the cook-off each time.

This year's will be March 24 with entries received from February 1 to March 1. Ten finalists are chosen to participate in the cook-off with each receiving an electrical appliance.

Other area finalist in 1970, Mrs. Archie (Joan) Wilfong, 14 Hillcrest Road, Northville (who also was a 1969 finalist) regrets that, because she has been laid off, she is not eligible to enter this year. She hopes to enter recipes she's been saving another year.

The contest, according to Marion E. Ryan, head of the Edison electric living division, is open to any girl or woman who is employed full time outside her home and who lives within the boundaries of Edison's Southeastern Michigan service area.

Each is invited to submit a recipe for a one-dish meal that can be cooked in an hour or less. Contestants must be able to compete in the March 24 cook-off.

Professional home economists and cooks, and employees of Detroit Edison or members of their immediate families are not eligible. Judges will be Kay Savage, food writer; Cyrrilla Riley, Detroit News household editor; and Lee Murray, radio personality.

Entries must include name, address, place of employment and telephone number. They should be sent to Edison's Electric Living Division, 2000 Second Avenue, Detroit, 48226, before midnight March 1.

Grand prize for the contest Queen is a deluxe range. An electric hostess set and a "Party Pair" of chafing dish and broiler-skillet are second and third prizes.

Mrs. Thomas suggests entering more than one recipe, which is permissible. She says she tries to enter a pork, beef and chicken main dish each time. While the dish must be one that can be cooked in an hour or less, she points out, it may have ingredients (such as rice) that can be prepared in advance.

In addition to a luncheon following the cook-off, finalists are guests of Detroit Edison Company at

WELCOME HOME — When Northville Township Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg returned to work Monday after spending more than a month in his native Sweden, he wondered if he had been away from the office a little to long. From all appearances, Women's Liberation had gotten a the gala salute to Women Who Work at Cobo Hall March 24. As in the past, recipes and photographs of the finalists will be published in a booklet that is distributed free of charge.

Co-op Group Is Enrolling

Applications now are being taken for enrollment of three-to-five year olds in the Northville Cooperative Preschool Play Group which meets in the Scout-Recreation building on Cady Street.

Mrs. Nelson C. Schrader III, membership chairman, invites interested parents to call her at 349-5163 for an application blank. Enrollment is on a first-come basis.

Sixty-four preschool boys and girls are enrolled in the play group, in which two separate sessions are held. One session meets Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings and the other, Tuesday and Thursday. There are four teachers on the staff with four mothers' also serving as "assistant teachers" on a rotation basis.

Because of the low tuition, the group holds an annual fund-raising project. Last November a yard sale provided funds to purchase toys and books. Repairs also are being made to playground equipment with funds raised.

Coinciding with the public school schedules, there is no nursery school today or Friday. Parent-teacher nursery conferences are slated for February 3, 4, 10 and 11, beginning at 7 p.m. each evening.

News Around Northville

Miss Ruth Knapp has returned to her home at 525 Fairbrook after a trip west that included visits with relatives, former Northville residents and two Harper Hospital classmates. A highlight of her vacation was a reunion on the west coast with two classmates who were overseas nurses with her during World War I.

Miss Knapp first flew to Littleton, Colorado, to spend a day with her cousins and their four youngsters. She went on the Farmington, New Mexico, for a two-week visit with her niece, her physician husband and their four children.

While there she saw the Bruce Bradshaws, former Northville residents now living in Leisure World. Miss Knapp reports they are enjoying their retirement life, and Mrs. Bradshaw has been doing volunteer work for a local doctor.

She returned after a visit with cousins in Long Beach, California.

Mizpah Circle of King's Daughters will meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. William Cansfield, 336 First Street.

Allison M. Crump, 46735 Timberlane Road has been named to the Deans' Honors List at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio. She has maintained a 3.0 (straight-B) or better average, university officials announced.

Also receiving college honors was Jill A. Pauler, 333 Maplewood, a health sciences and arts major at Ferris State College in Big Rapids. She was named to the Academic Honors List, which requires a student to maintain at least a B average while carrying a full academic load.

A total of 382 students, including two from this area, achieved placement on the fall quarter Dean's List at Michigan Tech University by earning grade point averages of 3.5 or higher.

STANDING ROOM ONLY—One of the rare occasions when Novi's council chambers overflow took place Monday night when citizens plugged even the chamber doorway and the outside hallway to listen — and comment — as councilmen aired a proposed business licensing ordinance.

Stirs Controversy

Business Fee Put on Burner

Novi councilmen, reacting Monday night to citizen complaint, postponed until Wednesday February 3, consideration of a business licensing ordinance.

Councilman Louie Campbell told a packed gallery of local businessmen and citizens that a licensing ordinance regarding businesses in Novi was necessary and that "we will have one."

"I would like to see it as simple as possible," Campbell continued. "I wouldn't ask anybody to accept something I wouldn't."

A letter addressed to the council from General Filters Incorporated labeled the proposed ordinance which calls for a fee to be paid by businessmen before they can do business in the area as "discriminatory towards business," and an example of "an anti-business feeling on the part of the council."

The proposed ordinance, as it stands requires a $15 fee from any business that "has for its use the production and/or supplying of commodities."

In certain cases i.e. a circus, amusement park or auction, the fee is $100.

The difference, according to Councilman Edwin Presnell, who along with Councilman Donald Young, has been working on the ordinance for a year and a half, is extra "trouble" incurred by the city "in the nature of extra policing inspections required."

Mayor Joseph Crupi stressed that the measure was not one designed to provide revenue.

"If a swimming pool contractor comes into this city," said Crupi, "and does a poor job, there's nothing at all we can do, even under the state license that contractor operates with. We have no control over sharks, hoodwinkers and fly-by-nights who constantly take advantage of the unwary consumer."

Particular sections of the proposed ordinance drew fire from the public. — Among them were provisions which call for the registering of all local employees, guarantees as to the "nature, character and good quality of goods stored," and records of misdemeanor or felony convictions demanded from the applicant.

One businessman said that for him to register his employees, due to the short term of their employment, would require him to be in city hall "every day."

Another complained that at one time he had required thumb prints from all his employees for the purpose of identification and was soon unable to get people to work for him.

Crupi asked for comments from private citizens.

George Athas of Meadowbrook Lake said that such an ordinance was necessary and "a good idea if presented to the public properly."

"If they know its for their own protection," said Athas, "it'll serve its purpose. If someone comes into my subdivision selling sod, I should be able to ask to see his license to do business within the city."

"If he doesn't have one," Athas continued, "I can buy the sod anyway, but I should have the choice of asking for it. If the consumer wants to cut his own throat let him, at least the city has tried to protect him."

The city of Northville, according to City Manager Frank Ollendorff, has a similar ordinance already.

Ollendorff referred to it as a "registration" ordinance saying that its purpose was to let city government and the police know where businesses were and what they were doing.

Fees involved, according to Ollendorff, are $5 for registering and $1 per year renewal. "This schedule applies to 90 percent of the people doing business in Northville," said Ollendorff. "Only in special cases where extraordinary inspections or policing are necessary do the fees change. These only account for about 10 percent of area business."

Councilmen agreed that the wording in the proposed ordinance needed work and agreed to postpone any action until February 3.

In other business Monday night councilmen:

—Passed an ordinance updating former measures drafted by both city and village with regard to size of sewer, special assessments, availability connection fees and pay-back agreements.

—Listened to the results of a recent meeting between Mayor Joseph Crupi and Warren J. Coville of Guardian Photo.

Crupi charged that the Nine Mile plant was using in excess of 80 sewer taps while only paying for six.

Coville maintains that his sewer bill is paid.

"When we built this building," Coville said, "we were charged for sewer taps, and we paid our bill. We submitted engineering plans for proposed use, along with our specifications, and they were approved. We knew how much water and sewage we were going to use, and the council knew to. They charged us on the basis of that, and now, three years later, they're trying to change it."

Coville said, "we were charged for sewer taps, and we paid our bill. We submitted engineering plans for proposed use, along with our specifications, and they were approved. We knew how much water and sewage we were going to use, and the council knew to. They charged us on the basis of that, and now, three years later, they're trying to change it."

Woman Becomes Planner

Mrs. Gene Rumble of Willowbrook was appointed Monday night to fill the vacancy on the Novi planning board.

Appointed unanimously by the city council, she fills the position of Ron Cowden, whose letter of resignation was received by the council Monday.

Board Chairman George Athas termed Cowden's resignation "a great loss not only to the planning board but to Novi as well."

Athas said Cowden's reasons for leaving "were simply those of time."

"He'd been going to school and attending other meetings and becoming involved in other activities. Many times he has had to leave other meetings come sit on the planning board," Athas concluded.

Mrs. Rumble has been a resident of Novi for 10 years. She is a part-time secretary and has had long experience working with parents and teachers in a school room environment.

Postponed

Because of adverse weather Tuesday night, Wixom's bi-monthly council meeting was cancelled. Councilmen will meet tonight at 8 p.m. to follow Tuesday's agenda, according to City Clerk June Buck.

Drug Problem's Real Clergyman Declares

Contrary to the opinion of some citizens, drug abuse is a major problem in Novi.

That observation was made repeatedly Monday night as the Reverend Father Leslie Harding, on behalf of the citizens' Drug Abuse Committee, urged, the Novi Board of Education to launch immediately some kind of program within the school system to combat the drug problem.

Meanwhile, the biggest problem confronting the committee, — and the schools — is convincing the adult citizens of the community that drug abuse here is a major one and that as illogical as it may seem "your child" may be popping pills or smoking marijuana, he declared.

Father Harding's impassioned plea, interpreted by at least one board member as a mild rebuke of administrative inaction, prompted the board to (one) name Trustee Ray Warren as a liaison between the school system and the Drug Abuse Committee and (two) to authorize Trustee Robert Wilkins to prepare a resolution formally committing the board to a drug abuse program in the schools.

When Board Vice-President LaVerne DeVaard bristled because he saw in Father Harding's message a rebuke of school administrators who the board had urged to do something about drugs, the Holy Cross Episcopal Church vicar quickly explained he had no ax to grind nor any criticism of the administration.

Nevertheless, Father Harding did emphasize that the school system appears not to have "faced up to the problem." Conceding that some attention had been given to drugs, the fact remains "you have no program in operation now," he declared.

Too many people, he said, have the mistaken notion that drugs are problems elsewhere not here, that their children could not be involved. Citing a report of the police department that 47 Novi students had contact with police last year over drug problems, Father Harding said the problem in Novi may be greater than even he suspects.

Admitting that numbers are difficult to determine, he said that even one drug-abusing youngster is too many.

He noted that just this week three youngsters were in court on marijuana charges, while two others recently "bombed out" after popping pills.

All board members agreed with Father Harding that the problem, no matter how large or small, is a serious one to which the board must address itself. Trustee Wilkins suggested — and was granted authority — to draw up the resolution since no formal action had been taken by the board. This resolution, he said, should include a directive to the administration to establish a drug abuse program — kindergarten through 12th grade — by a specified deadline.

Any program is better than none, he declared. Even if in haste some elements of a program prove bad something must be done immediately, he added, echoing the sentiments of Father Harding.

Warren, who reminded board members that he had raised questions about drug problems in the past but had been told the problem is minor, quickly volunteered to represent the school in opening communication between it and the Drug Abuse Committee and to begin formulation, with all parties, of a K-through-12 program.

Superintendent Thomas Dale pointed out that the school is concerned about drug problems and that the recently named Citizens and Advisory group Committee — which includes parents, faculty members, and students — will address itself to this and other related disciplinary-citizenship matters.

It will necessarily mean, he explained, some duplication of effort because of other groups involved with the same matter.

Last week the Citizens Advisory Committee named as its general chairman Dicron Tafalian, and according to administrators and Board President Bruce Simmons, its initial enthusiasm and work-prone response is gratifying. "This is one group," declared Simmons, "that I don't think will fall by the wayside."

In a related drug matter, Student Council President Gary Gillett voiced student appreciation of the board's financial sponsorship on January 14 of a drug abuse program starring The Bloody Truths — a professional young people's group that combines rock music with an anti-drug message.

The program was enthusiastically received by students and teachers, said young Gillett, who noted that students are well aware of the local problem.

Youths Waive Exams; Ordered into Circuit

Examination was waived Monday by four Novi youths charged with possession of narcotics and the quartet was bound over to circuit court.

Attorneys for Joe Dinsler, George Gravelle and David Lutz all aged 17, as well as Richard Barnes, 18 asked the examination waiver before District Judge Martin Boyle who ordered the case into the higher Oakland County Court.

No trial date has been set but according to police the four are slated to appear before circuit Judge Robert Templin sometime in early February.

Charges spring from a call made to police earlier this month in which Lutz' father returned home to find three boys "who didn't belong there" in his basement.

Lutz, who according to Dinsler, Gravelle and Barnes, had given them permission to use the basement, returned home and was found to have barbiturate on his person.

A search of the house and basement where Dinsler, Gravelle and Barnes were when Mr. Lutz came home, revealed a quantity of marijuana and several items of narcotics paraphernalia, police said.

State Aid 'Cut' Forces More

School Use Curtailed

With no definite word in hand as yet over proposed state aid cuts, the Novi Board of Education has taken a wait-and-see position while hoping suggested cuts will be minimized before being passed on to local school districts.

Meanwhile, a freeze on all but essential purchase orders continues at the directive of Superintendent Thomas Dale.

In addition, school busing of spectators to athletic events has been temporarily suspended, board member attendance at a convention in Philadelphia has been called off, use of some paper materials in school has been curtailed, overtime of custodial-maintenance work has ceased, and evening and Sunday use of school facilities for non-educational related groups is to be stopped.

Dale noted, too, that while no plans have been made for any layoff of personnel such a step could be taken in the future should state-aid cuts drastically affect the district.

Concerning the use of school facilities, Dale was directed to develop a policy amendment that would permit use of facilities under a fee arrangement.

According to Dale, should the Governor's suggested 2-percent state-aid cut "across the board" be approved, it would mean a loss of about $8,000 to the Novi district and "would not injure us radically."

However, should the cut amend the so-called grandfather school aid clause, which provides $93,000 to the district, the impact on the district would be considerably greater. On the basis of suggested alterations of this clause, Novi could lose about $55,000 in aid, he said. If that happens "we could still make it through the year," he speculated, "but it wouldn't be comfortable."

In other business Monday, the board —

—Opened two bids on an old school bus — one from a Boy Scout troop in Detroit at $100 and one from the Novi First Baptist Church for $26, and awarded the sale contract to the Scout troop by a split 4-2 vote. (Dissenting votes were cast by LaVerne DeVaard and Claude Earl, with Ray Warren, a member of First Baptist, abstaining).

—Heard an offer to assist the board in whatever way possible by a representative of Village Oaks subdivision, Mrs. Shirley Moak.

—Approved the hiring of Alvis R. Taulbee to teach math until June 11 (at a half-year salary of $4,477.50) in replacement of Ralph Heslip, whose 90-day temporary teaching permit expired.

—Authorized the placement and maintenance of lights at the ice rink at Novi Elementary School, with all costs to be borne by the Parks & Recreation Commission and with a stipulation that the agreement in no way encumbers school ownership of the property.

—Heard a slide-oral report by art teachers on programs in elementary, junior high, and high schools, took under advisement teacher recommendations to improve the art program, and directed the superintendent to report on the open-ended scheduling of art in Novi Elementary School.

—Heard reports by Superintendent Dale on funds for a federal summer program, which have been increased from last year's allocation of $13,043 to $24,161 this year, and on applications filed by the school for federal funds to improve mathematics at Orchard Hills Elementary and for improvement of instrumental music at the high school.

The presentation was made to President Douglas Thrush and Auxiliary President Marilyn Wolcott last week in the city offices. Celebration ended Saturday night with a progressive dinner given the Jaycees by the Auxiliary.

Presbyterians Set Two Films Monday

Two films, "Parable" and "It's About This Carpenter," will be the second offering in the 1971 Film Festival scheduled for adults and young people at Northville Presbyterian Church. They will be shown at 8 p.m. Monday at the church.

"Parable," a 22-minute color film, has the setting of a circus, a circus that is used as a metaphor for the arena of life. The people represent the human race and have come to such a state that there no longer is any sense of community among them.

Into the arena comes a man (the clown) who "dares to be different." Because of him a profound change comes over several persons, making them more sensitive to each other.

The second film, "It's About This Carpenter," is a 14-minute black-and-white presentation. It is the story of a young, "non-establishment," non-religious carpenter in New York City who was hired to construct and deliver a large wooden cross for a church across town.

The film relates his exasperating experiences on a motor scooter with a policeman, in a congested area, at the public park, with a violent stranger and with a "too-busy" minister. The film points to many problems related to the nature of urban society today.

This is the second program in a series of six sponsored by the Presbyterian Christian Education Committee and the Couples Club. Coffee and discussion follow each showing. The community is invited.

To help defray costs, according to the Reverend Timothy Johnson, a free-will donation is accepted. Other presentations will be February 25, March 25, April 23 and May 16.

Legion Initiates 14 New Members

Fourteen new Legionnaires participated in an initiation ceremony Saturday at the Lloyd H. Green Post 147 in Northville.

The initiation, a spokesman explained, "is the formal acceptance of their obligation to 'God and Country' through membership in the American Legion."

Prior to the initiation, candidates were taught the four principals of the Legion: Justice, freedom, democracy and loyalty. All members of the Legion are pledged to serve the disabled, the widowed, the distressed, the orphaned, and they are devoted to the cause of service to the community, state and nation, said Post Commander Robert Pohlman.

"By their participation in this most serious ceremony," he said, "they have joined the ranks of veterans in the largest veterans organization in the world — made up of more than 16,000 local Legion posts."

Commander Pohlman welcomed the new members and congratulated them on behalf of the post.

Baldwin moved that the clerk's quarterly budget report be accepted, supported by Klein. Ayes: All.

Appeal Board minutes of January 7, 1971 were accepted and filed on motion by Klein, supported by Mitchell. Ayes: All.

Straub moved that the water and sewer commission minutes for December 2, 1970 be accepted, supported by Baldwin. Ayes: All.

CORRESPONDENCE

Straub moved that agenda item No. 4 be moved up, supported by Baldwin. Ayes: All.

4. CITY OF NORTHVILLE, RECREATION HALL RENT CREDITS. Ollendorff spoke to this question, explaining that the rent paid by the Cooperative Nursery School is its only connection with the recreation program. It operates five mornings a week, paying $100 per month for nine months. The City pays for the upkeep of the building, repairs, etc. The recreation department pays for daily custodial and maintenance. The township has been allowed rent credits for the past several years, therefore, on that basis, Ollendorff felt that we should be willing to share part of the repair expense, such as this new exit, etc. The alternate would be for the City to collect all the rent and then completely maintain the building itself. Hammond suggested that the joint city and township recreation contract should be reworked and new phrasing put into it to clarify some of these matters. Baldwin moved that the letter from the City (dated December 10) plus the verbal clarification from Mr. Ollendorff, be filed, supported by Klein. Ayes: All.

1. WAYNE COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION, DECEMBER 18, 21, 22, 1970. In order to give Mosher time to check the map on the December 22 letter, Baldwin moved to defer agenda item No. 1 and go on with No. 2, supported by Mitchell. Ayes: All.

2. CITY OF DETROIT LETTER AND BROCHURE CONCERNING MAYBURY SANATORIUM, DECEMBER 9, 1970. Klein moved that this be received and filed, supported by Straub. Ayes: All.

Klein moved that consideration of item No. 1 now be resumed, supported by Straub. Ayes: All.

1. WAYNE COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION. Baldwin moved that the letter of December 22, 1970 be forwarded to the City and that the County be notified of this action, seconded by Klein. Ayes: All.

Klein moved that the other two county letters be referred to Stromberg for action, supported by Baldwin. Ayes: All.

3. RESOLUTION. VAN BUREN

TOWNSHIP. Straub moved to accept and file, supported by Mitchell. Ayes: All.

5. Hammond announced that an ad had been placed in several trade papers for the old fire engine owned jointly by City and Township. Bids to be received by February 15.

6. SEMCOG DUES. The matter of the Township's continued participation in SEMCOG was discussed and Klein then moved that dues for 1971 be paid in the amount of $200.00. Supported by Baldwin. Ayes: All.

7. RECREATION DEPARTMENT. REQUEST FOR REPLACEMENT OF FUNDS. Mr. Prom indicated that this "lost" rent is funding that he had counted on and made commitments for. Since it is now deleted from his budget he is very concerned. Baldwin moved that the clerk check the rent figures with Mr. Prom and report at the next meeting so that a decision can be reached, seconded by Mitchell. Ayes: All.

OLD BUSINESS

1. SICK LEAVE POLICY. Baldwin gave the clerk a notation and asked her to investigate various programs with the township insurance carrier. When we have these quotes, we can begin to plan a sick leave benefit program.

2. DOG ORDINANCE. Klein moved that the item be tabled for the next meeting, seconded by Straub. Ayes: All.

3. POLICE REPORT STUDY. Straub moved that this item be tabled for the next meeting when there would be a full board present. Seconded by Baldwin. Ayes: All.

4. MINIMUM POLICE HIRING STANDARDS. Baldwin presented a tentative amendment to the hiring resolution, consisting of two parts. A third paragraph was suggested and Mitchell moved that the amendment be tabled until the next meeting so that proper vtrbiage could be worked out and presented, seconded by Straub. Ayes: All.

5. DUMPING. The clerk reported that the new rubbish disposal arrangement for the township at Holloway had been in use for four Saturdays and seemed to be working out fairly well. A few minor problems have been ironed out. Purchase of dump cards is possible at the dump site on Saturdays, as well as at the township office during the week. Area residents are REQUESTED TO PUT TRASH INTO PLASTIC BAGS to facilitate handling.

6. TOWNSHIP HALL-FIRE HALL. The clerk presented several written opinions on the new building which had been received from officials, employees, and department heads. Mitchell moved that the chairman of the building committee receive this material and that he then call a meeting to study it, seconded by Baldwin. Ayes: All.

NEW BUSINESS

1. C. of D. TRANSFER FOR FIRE RADIO MONITOR. Baldwin moved that the cash received from the C. of D. due January 31, 1971 be transferred from Capital Improvement to the General fund and that our share of the fire radio monitors be paid from that sum since they were actually a capital expense. Also, that provision be made with the fire department so that a radio monitor is made available to township police. Straub seconded. Ayes: All.

2. HIGHLAND LAKES EASEMENT. Baldwin moved that the supervisor and clerk be authorized to execute and sign the Highland Lakes water main easement agreement on behalf of the township, supported by Mitchell. Ayes: All.

3. TRAILERS, GERALD AVENUE. It has been brought to our attention that new trailers have been brought into the above area. Our zoning official is studying the matter. He will consult with Ashton before he takes any further steps.

4. It was announced that two small skating rinks have been prepared in the Northville Commons area under auspices of the recreation department.

5. STATE POLICE POST. Mr. John McCann, our new county commissioner, was present and said that he is well aware of the interest in the proposed state police post in our township and is most hopeful that it can be accomplished. He will do all in his power to assist in the matter, at county level.

6. There was discussion about the advisability of paying tuition for police study courses for township police. Many arguments were presented both pro and con. It will be studied again at a later meeting when all members will be present.

7. The possibility of a dog clinic in May was brought up by the clerk. A veterinarian in the area is willing to assume this responsibility. It will be a real service to the people of the community and to the township in seeing that more dogs receive the rabies vaccine. The clerk was asked to investigate the possibility further.

8. DISTRICT FIRE COMMITTEE. Mitchell reported on a recent meeting of this committee. The City of Northville has decided not to participate. Each community was asked to report back to the committee as to the real interest of its particular group in continuing the study. Our board unanimously wished to go on with it. (Mr. Arch Vallier has been chosen chairman of this committee.)

9. ARCHITECT'S INVOICES. Klein moved that since the architect is, in effect, working for the Township Hall-Fire Hall Committee, all his invoices should be turned over to them for review before being paid, seconded by Straub. Ayes: All.

Meeting adjourned at 11:15 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Eleanor W. Hammond, Clerk

The "Mother's March" of the March of Dimes is underway in Wixom this week as it is everywhere in the nation. The March of Dimes, because of its vast research programs, is not affiliated with the Torch Drive and because of this, it is most important that we put a little thought to this drive.

Birth defects can strike any child in any form. The March of Dimes supports national research, local birth defect treatment centers, cleft palate clinics and blood virus projects. Chairman for the Mothers' March in Wixom are Mrs. Howard Coe covering Central Wixom, Mrs. Bob Korthas in the Birch Park area, and Mrs. George Hoffman in Highgate. If you can, please help.

The Mardi Gras Ball committee met at Pearl Willis' home on Monday evening. Every aspect of the dance was discussed and enthusiasm is running high for a great success. For those of you who get hungry during an evening, fear no more — a buffet dinner will be served covering the desires of everyone — from snack to supper. Good music for dancing pleasures, decorations and hopefully much fun with costumes are included into what is hoped to be a great evening. A word about the costumes — don't stay away just because of the lack of one but of course, the more seen, the better. Prizes will be awarded to the most original, the most outstanding and the king and queen also will be chosen via the costume route. The date is set for February 20. The tickets are $12 a couple. Circle the date and try to make it — a fun evening for sure.

Everything from apples to zwieback (or almost, anyway) will be in store for you rummagers as the Wixom Area Support Your Local Police boosters open the doors for their rummage sale on February 6. You never know what you'll find at a rummage sale so why not stop by anytime during the hours of 10 and 4 at the VFW located on top of the hill overlooking Loon Lake Road. You may find that treasure or take home a "white elephant" your kids will adore. That's February 6, the VFW, 10-4. Try to make it.

Plans are already in the mill for a mid-year Centennial Parade to coincide with Wixom's Michigan Week festivities. The parade date will be May 22 which gives everyone plenty of time to do a little thinking and planning ahead. The theme of the parade will be "The Past, The Present and The Future." Awards will be given in three categories: Best Band, Best Float and Antique Cars. Each category is broken down to accommodate almost every entry. For further information and an entry blank, contact Ron Parvu at 624-5612.

Have the mid-winter doldrums set in yet? For those of you who don't participate in skiing, skating or snowmobiling, take a look at the brochure sent out by the Community Education Department of the Walled Lake School District. A program for the very young to the senior citizen is being offered and covers a wide variety of subjects to suit any number of interests.

Registration dates are February 1 through 4; they may be made in advance by mail or by phone. If by chance you did not receive a brochure or wish further information, call 624-0202 and ask for the registrar. It's one sure way to beat the winter blues.

The "looser" of the week has to be that dog which insisted on chasing me down the hill as I was trying to practice some parallel turns. It's the first time I've ever heard of, or seen, a dog nipping at skis. That dog just didn't know the chance it was taking — especially with me "driving."

Police to Speak

Representatives of the Wixom Police Department and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department will be guest speakers at a meeting of the Wixom Chamber of Commerce Monday.

The 12:30 p.m. meeting will be held in the Pancake House.

"Wixom is an area of development for industry, commercial and homes and we should know what protection we may expect," said Chamber President C.A. Smith.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

A construction crew slated to install sewer lines for the new Levitt Highland Lakes subdivision on Seven Mile road has decided to "make camp" in the city.

Unhappy about the sight of gravel piles, work trailers, earthmovers and trucks (so far there's no 'Johnny-on-the-Spot') along the Northville road boulevard entrance to the city, Mayor A. M. Allen has been doing a bit of growling.

Manager Frank Ollendorff has appealed to Township Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg who has promised action. The Levitt development is in the township several hundred yards from the chosen site of "construction camp".

Manager Ollendorff suggested to Stromberg that the construction company could use the city's fenced-in DPW yards to store its equipment and trailers. The yards are out of public sight adjoining the now-closed city dump.

Not only would this provide better security, but it would remove an eyesore and a potential traffic hazard. What's more, it's closer to the work site.

"I suppose they expect city police to patrol their 'work yards' so that nothing is stolen. That's probably why they moved there", grumbled Mayor Allen. He noted that the spot had been the site of the Rotary club sign (now blown down) advising motorists that they are entering "beautiful Northville" and the area where scouts have planted hundreds of flowering crab trees.

And one more thing the construction crew obviously didn't know: it's right across the street from the mayor's business, Allen Monument Works!

CONSTRUCTION STORAGE 'BEAUTIFIES' BOULEVARD

"Who's Charley Gehringer?", inquired my 17-year-old daughter as we drove to school one day this week. She'd heard his name mentioned by J. P. McCarthy as we listened to the morning meanderings of the colorful disc jockey.

I almost answered, "he plays second base for the Tigers". But then I remembered how many years it has been.

A whole generation that's never heard of Charley Gehringer, who could tell exactly where the ball was going before the batter hit it; who moved to his right or left with such fluidity that he looked slow; who never had to dive for a ball because he was always waiting for it.

And they've probably never heard of Tommy Bridges, Billy Rogell or Goose Goslin... or Schoolboy Rowe, Kiki Cuyler, Fred Marberry, Hank Greenberg, GeeGee Walker, Boots Poffenberger, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Marvin Owen, Van Lingle Mungo, Slat Marion, Bob Feller, Dizzy Trout or Hal Newhouser.

Or Don Budge, Bill Tilden, Bobby Riggs; or Byron Nelson, Jug McSpadden, Jimmy Thompson, Horton Smith, Vic Ghezzi or Lawson Little.

How many have thrilled at the sight of Budge or Tilden smashing a serve, Ted Williams hitting a line drive into the stands, Joe DiMaggio floating under a fly ball in center field, or Nelson maneuvering a golf ball around the course?

Who's Charley Gehringer? Well, I'd call him the symbol of the Golden Era of sports. The time when athletes didn't have agents looking for endorsements, when they didn't use deodorants but spent plenty of time sweating in the batting cage and on the practice tees, when they kept their eye on the ball instead of the stock market, when the thrill was just winning, not how much.

The hucksters may just kill athletics by making them too professional. The signs are already evident in golf, football, baseball and basketball.

Northville's city police department is proud of the fact that there wasn't a single traffic accident reported during the blizzard this week.

But under another category there's one accident listed: "60-foot radio tower blown down by wind, crashed into parked car of Samuel Elkins, chief of police of city of Northville."

Frank Ollendorff

YES ...

On a large country lot a few pets are fine. At my house we've found one dog too much to handle and are currently losing to a six-month-old kitten.

For most of us, pet cats and dogs have become nuisances or worse due to their rapidly increasing number coupled with a seemingly rapid decrease in ability of owners to care for their pets.

Over 400 complaints were registered with the City last year. One of every five Northville families demanded legal action against pet owners in their neighborhood. Since 1969 more than 60 dog and cat bites have been reported. In one neighborhood, dogs run in packs forcing worried mothers to keep the kids inside until the police can respond.

Hundreds of birds fall victim to our pet cats each year. Garbage spilled by playful dogs is a continuing nuisance. My pet problem is cleaning up after an untrained dog in my yard.

The pet explosion in Northville must be curbed. Licensing of all pets would aid enforcement of ordinances. Perhaps a test showing knowledge of simple rules of courtesy to the neighbors as well as the pet should be administered to all would-be pet owners. This could be coupled with a restriction on the number of pets to correspond with lot size.

Speaking for Myself

Are We Overrun With Pets?

Dr. Val Vangiesen

NO ...

When the first wild animal was domesticated, there began a friendship and dependency which has grown into an unparalleled relationship between man and his pets. A true pet has filled a need for both a giving and receiving of love in an unselfish way that has a depth and meaning that cannot be changed even in our modern accelerated pace. For these pets he has developed criteria, rules, regulations, and laws which protect both man and the animal.

Could the readers of this column picture our region without pets?

For the physically handicapped we have leader dogs for the blind, hearing dogs for the deaf, and horseback riding as physical therapy.

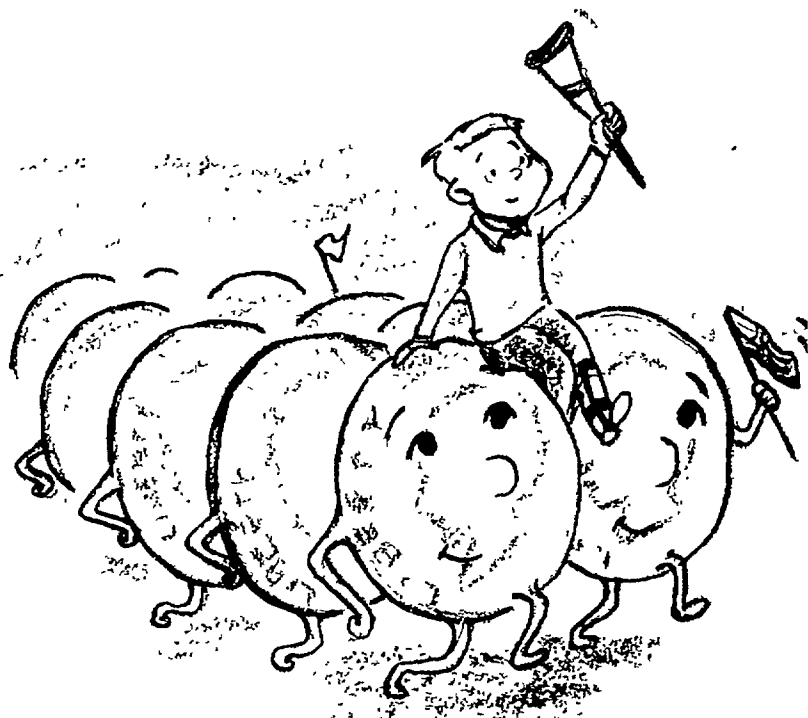

Senior citizens are comforted by our four-footed friends because many live alone and need companionship.

We have many newcomers to this section, and we should not restrict their desire to move to an uncrowded area and have pets.

Numerous animals — uncared for, ill-fed, allowed to wander and created nuisances are not true pets, just animals. It is easy to have too many animals but extremely difficult to have an over-abundance of true pets. As Webster's Dictionary defines a pet, "A domesticated animal kept to fondle and play with," so be it.

J. E. HANCOCK

by Jack W. Hoffman

I've got a lot of respect for surgeons... the real ones as well as the make-believe ones on TV who slice and hack and sew one minute and kiss and paw the next.

It isn't this dexterity that impresses me. It's their seeming nonchalance in cutting through human flesh as others would slice strips of bacon. For a guy like myself who gets dizzy if he nicks himself with a razor blade, the surgeon is simply amazing.

Let me make an admission: I am a fainter.

TV operations can trigger it; so can a thumb that gets in the way of a hammer. The sight of a little blood and... swoosh, sweet dreams!

I was half-way through grade school before it occurred to me that my mother sewed patches on the knees of my pants because she couldn't afford new ones—not to cushion my falls.

"It's all in your head," she continually reminded me. I could never understand what she meant when it was the red stuff running out of my finger or my foot or my arm.

And it was embarrassing. I was the only kid in the neighborhood who had to go to the meat market blindfolded.

"I've got just the cure for his problem," announced my father one day. "Come on down to the basement," he said. That in itself was enough to make a kid faint in our house 'cause that's where all the razor strapping went on. And I don't mean for sharpening razors. But this time he had something else in mind.

What he did with that Sunday chicken shouldn't happen in a butcher shop. It worked, though. I haven't seen a chicken faint since.

Anyway, I lived through youth and figured everything was clear sailing from then on. I didn't reckon with marriage. It began with a shocker, an omen of things to come. I passed out during the blood test.

And then came the kids. One... two... four... six, you count 'em, I've lost track. If you figure one kid's worth at least one bloody knee, a sliced finger and two scratches per month and then multiply the number of kids by 12, well you've got an idea of what a year's like.

"You're daddy sleeps a lot," I overheard one of my youngster's friends say not long ago. The observation prompted the question, "Momma, who got hurt?"

That did it! I vowed I'd lick this foolishness the next time the situation presented itself. The wait wasn't long. It happened of all things while watching the TV surgeons. They had just finished sewing and had begun the kissing and pawing when in walks my youngest son who asked, "Daddy, would you pull out the dart?"

Good Lord, one of his darts was stuck clean through his arm! I'd been bracing myself for something elementary, not this. But even cowards have moments of glory. In a second I'd yanked out the dart and he and his mother were on the way to the doctor. I was drenched in a cold sweat, worried but conscious when the TV surgeons called it quits.

"How are you?" my wife asked upon their return. "Never mind me, how's he?" I said. "Oh, he's fine. Not even a stitch, just a shot. And you don't look bad, either."

That's when the patient stuck his arm in my face and said, "Look at my bandage."

Swoosh, plunk.

Ticket Cools Visit

To the Editor:

I am retired on a small pension and Social Security.

Until today I haven't been in downtown Northville in seven or eight years. But today my wife and I were in the area so we decided to look around.

My wife was delighted. She likes to make her own clothes, and we found The Spinning Wheel Fabric Shop. Well, you know how women are. According to her this place has an unusually large selection, and she mentioned bringing two lady friends out soon. We also looked up a restaurant we had heard about and planned on having dinner there on our next visit.

As we waited for a traffic signal, I noticed a police car in back of us. At the very next corner I made an illegal left turn. WHY? Well, it certainly wasn't deliberate. There are two 'No Left Turn' signs there. I really looked for one but what with traffic to watch and being in unfamiliar territory I missed the signs. I explained this to the officer. But he said that he was only doing his job, that I had made the turn, and that there could be no exceptions.

Anyway I decided to have it over with now, rather than make another trip. At the clerk's office I was informed I owed $14. For an illegal left turn? Somebody in Northville is awfully hungry. Needless to say, I shall not visit Northville again. Not for dinner, not for yard goods, not for cider and doughnuts, not for anything.

I ask you three questions:

1. Shouldn't you extend a little extra consideration to visitors in your town for the first time?

2. How could you arrive at a figure of $14 for an illegal left turn? $5 would be fair.

3. If you don't agree with me just how do you expect to attract business to your city?

P.S. This is the first ticket I have had in 15 or possibly 20 years.

Sincerely
Virgil Fisher

NEA Raps Aid Cut

To the Editor:

It appears that the appropriation committees of the Legislature may reduce Northville's state aid for operation of the schools by nearly 10 percent.

The irony of the situation is that after serious considerations based on expected state aid, the Northville District felt it was obligated to turn millage back to the people last summer. Now in the middle of the school year, the District must anticipate a reduction in state aid causing drastic operational cut backs in the Northville school system.

If these cut-backs are examined, one finds that students will have reduced class schedules, will attend classes with limited supplies, will have reduced available psychological services, will attend schools with reduced maintenance, will not be going on field trips, will not be using spectator buses, and will experience other reductions.

It is appalling that our paid Representatives in Lansing may find that the least objectionable alternative to fiscal responsibility is to force on the school children of Michigan a reduced education. Once again children instead of adults must bear the brunt of irresponsible public servants who twice in the same school year have drastically and without suitable warning forced schools to curtail services.

It is ironical that a State with one of the finest highway systems may ask its educational system to suffer. The Legislature should ask the adults, not the children, to help during the present fiscal difficulties.

Yours truly,
Robert J. Sharrar, President
Northville Education Association

Planner Supports Zoning Editorial

To the Editor:

Your editorial of January 21 about the general subject of zoning was very

He Extends Thank You

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your newspaper for naming me the "Man of the Year" in this area.

I felt that the Wixom Centennial Week in October was a huge success. It took a lot of hard work and dedication not only on my part but also on the part of so many wonderful people. In putting together the Youth Day Activities, the parade, the entertainment and so on, it took a lot of responsibility on my part to make sure every phase of the day was successful.

There is one ingredient that I used in making the day as successful as it was. This ingredient lacks in so many people in just everyday life that they probably don't even realize it, and that is "caring for other people". People often forget what a Youth Day is designed for — it is designed for the youth in mind. Youth of all ages — from the very young to the very old. I believe I took the responsibility of caring about all people in making sure every phase of the day would be enjoyed by all. This also includes the teen-agers.

In this area as well as in other areas of America the teen-agers are a forgotten breed of people. In every activity any community has, it always seems to involve only the little children and the adults. But what about the teen-agers? What do they have?

A question that the teen-agers keep asking themselves over and over again is "Who can I turn to — when nobody needs me?" This is why I cared enough about them to give them everything they deserved during the Centennial — a hayride, a dance and a battle of the bands. People are failing to realize one important thing, and that is the teen-agers of today will be our City and Government leaders of tomorrow.

But my responsibility hasn't ended with the Centennial. I'm also chairman of the "Wixom Teen Club", I am chairman of a newly formed theatre group in Walled Lake called the "Inter-Lake Maskers", as well as being on the board of Parks and Recreation and the "Support Your Local Police" committee in the City of Wixom. Sure — it takes a lot of hard work; but if you care enough about people, "all people" as I do, it's worth all the time and effort.

It takes a lot of hard work, dedication, responsibility and caring for other people to make it in this world today. I'm glad that there are still people around who cared enough about myself to name me their "Man of the Year". For these people as well as people who have helped me throughout the year as well as the reporters of your newspaper. I thank you all very much.

Sincerely,
Ronald L. Parvu

well written and presented a fair view of the whole subject. As a member of the City of Northville Planning Commission, I appreciate the way your paper has reported our proceedings during my membership. Had the reporting been purely factual and not edited, I am afraid our feet of clay may have shown now and then.

Usually the attendance at a public hearing consists of the petitioner of the proposal and all those who are against it. The Planning Commission, and of course, the City Council at subsequent hearings, must consider not only the immediate effects, but the future potential for all of the people of Northville, with special attention given to the hardships that may develop within the vicinity of the proposed change.

At the January 5th public hearing about the proposed gas station at Taft and Eight mile, a citizen summed up his point of view rather well when he said, "The idea of another gas station is all right, but move it two blocks away from me." This is fine for him, but what about the fellow two blocks away?

Many times the Commission and the Council seem to act in opposition to the will of the people, when they are really acting for the good of all the people. The democratic processes of government are still workable, as people who attended the January 5th hearing plainly observed.

Thank you for your excellent coverage of the subject, and to quote the last paragraph, "We meet regularly and in open session. We are available to consider your criticism and explain our actions."

Lions Hide Welcome

If South Lyon had its welcome mat out Friday for old friends, Novi's varsity basketball mentor Milan Obrenovich and his JV sidekick, Bob Weinburger, somehow missed it.

Hospitality obviously went out the door as the Lions, fighting to sweeten their position in the Southeastern Conference, sent Novi's varsity quintet down to its seventh straight league defeat (58-51) and added insult to injury by taking the JV billing (63-60) as well.

It was a grating evening for the two Novi coaches, who had hoped to celebrate their return to Lion country with a couple of triumphs. Both coaches are products of South Lyon, Obrenovich as a former high school athlete and Weinburger as a player and coach.

And forced to swallow his pride up in the stands was Novi Principal Gerald Hartman, former South Lyon High Principal, while Novi's Fred Gerhardt, still another former Lion athlete now turned Wildcat baseball coach, watched it from the scorer's table.

Despite the loss, Novi late in the game staged a rally that nearly forced South Lyon Coach Bill Thomas to return all of his first-stringers to the court.

Behind by 20 points at times, the Wildcats took advantage of Thomas' free substitutions and cut the Lion's big lead to a respectable margin and, but for the dying clock, might have been able to catch their hosts. Stunned by Novi's sudden barrage of points, Thomas finally sent in key play-maker Dave Kochalko to give his club more ball control. Even that, however, failed to stem Novi's surge and in the end it was the clock that stopped the Wildcats.

South Lyon led by 10 points going into the second quarter, 15-5, when it mounted a 23 point drive to ice its victory. At the half it was 38-15.

Novi sparked to life in the third stanza, outscoring the hosts 16 to 13, and then in that final quarter drilled 20 points while holding South Lyon to seven.

Novi ace Tom Boyer took scoring laurels for the game, pumping in 22 points even though he failed to flip in a field goal in that icy first quarter. Glen Wiseman was high-point man for South Lyon with 17, and sharing the runner-up spot were Mike Muir of South Lyon and Pat Boyer of Novi, each of whom potted 10 points.

Drop Three Games

It was a glum weekend indeed for area junior varsity fans as local cagers dropped three games Friday and Saturday.

Northville followed their senior counterparts into defeat against Waterford-Kettering Friday 51-46, and Novi traveled to South Lyon to take a 63-60 upset from the Lions, and then came back home Saturday night to get spanked by Dexter 61-40.

Northville made a comeback effort in the third quarter, after playing a losing first half, but couldn't make it good as it was outdistanced by the visitors 31-17 in that third quarter, and 8-3 in the final stanza to wind up five points down at half 31-15.

Rod Crane led the Mustangs in their effort with a high of 27. Mike Brown and Bart Taylor followed close behind with 14 and 12, respectively.

Quarter scores in that game were 16-5, 31-15 and 48-38.

Novi was rocked with a double-barrelled dose of the blues as it came within three points of a tie with rival South Lyon Friday night.

The Wildcats started out winning in the first quarter, carding 16 points to the enemy 13. Starting in the second stanza however, the hosting Lions left them slowly but steadily behind.

South Lyon outdid the local squad 17-16 in the second quarter, then 15-12 in the third and 18-16 in the closing stanza.

Gene Spencer came on strongest with 27 Wildcat points. Teammate Steve Lukkari was the only other Wildcat to hit double figures — 14.

"We played pretty good ball up until the end of the third quarter and the beginning of the fourth," said Coach Robert Weinburger. "But then we had a defensive letdown. We played 5½ minutes there without a score. They had one player who killed us on the boards that final quarter. Ed Segars controlled the defensive boards pretty well."

"We played pretty good ball against Dexter, too," added Weinburger. "They just played better."

The Wildcats were down in their home game Saturday by seven at the half. They scored two points in the first five minutes of the third quarter and ended that period eight down.

Quarter scores in that game were 16-10, 31-24, 42-34.

Next up: Chelsea

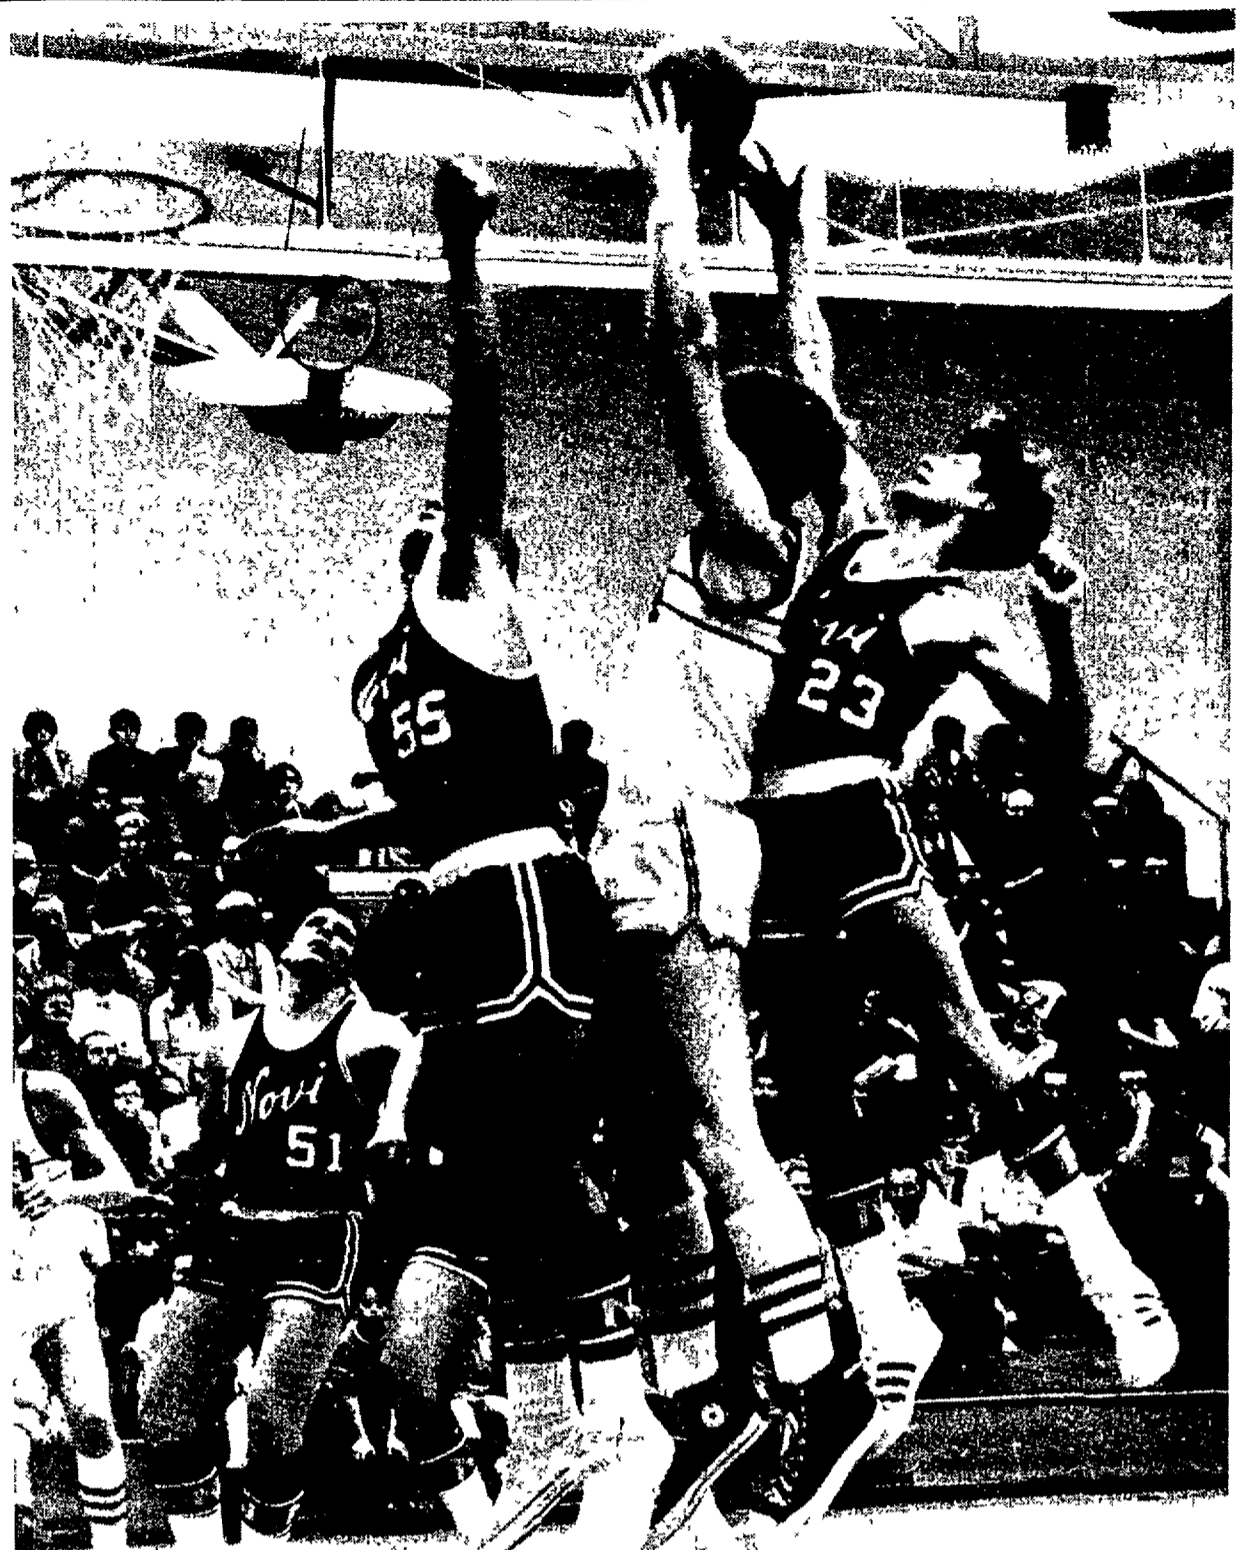

Still looking for their first victory of the season, Novi's Wildcats will travel to Chelsea tomorrow night for a game that will be anything but easy.

Chelsea, still smarting from its 76-69 loss to Dundee Saturday in the Southeastern Conference, will be out to regain a piece of second place. Until Saturday, it was enjoying a second-place tie with Dexter.

It was Dexter that dumped Novi easily Saturday, 70-40.

Plagued by mistakes, the Wildcats produced their poorest first half of the season in scoring just two points in each of the first two quarters. The score at half was 33-4.

Mike Knachuk scored 27 points to take game honors, while Bob Vivian's nine points were high for Novi.

REBOUNDERS — A pair of Wildcats leap for a rebound, but like the rebounding team effort to catch the Lions of South Lyon, the jump was futile. The rebounding, hot-shooting Lions built an early big lead that held up against a late Wildcat rally. The local players above are Pat Boyer (23), Bob Pisha (55) and Tom Van Wagner (51).

Four teams: Inkster, Clarenceville, Dearborn Riverside and Farmington Harrison will visit on the first, second, third and fifth of March to compete with the Mustangs for a place at the Temperance Bedford Regionals held the week of March 8.

A drawing will be made in February to select the order in which teams will be matched, Kucher said.

Willow Run, South Lyon and former state class 'C' champions, Our Lady of Sorrows, from Farmington, are slated to attend.

The first session is scheduled for 3:30 p.m., said Kucher, with the second session to begin at 6:30.

Fans will be admitted to both events for one fee: $1 for adults, $.50 for students.

Bloomfield, Dexter Pin Wrestlers

Novi wrestlers were tagged with two more losses last week in a season that has seen but one victory. (Milan three weeks ago).

Dundee bested Coach Rick Trudeau's squad in a 28-23 squeaker while West Bloomfield left nothing but the pieces in a shattering 44-8 victory.

The West Bloomfield match marked the second defeat handed the Wildcats by the Lakers — a class A team. The Lakers handed Novi its fifth defeat, 35-13, January 5.

In the Dundee contest Jack Morris (132), Randy McGarry (145), and Terry Auten (heavyweight) earned pins while Duane Miller (138) worked a 5-0 decision and Kevin Shingek fought to a 1-1 draw in the 155-pound weight class.

Winner earlier of the South Lyon invitational tourney, West Bloomfield copped every event Monday against Novi except the 138-pound and the heavyweight divisions.

Miller fought to a 2-0 decision at 138 and Auten pinned his man in 1:56.

W-O Barons Upset Lakers

It was like a ghost from the past last Friday when Bloomfield Andover clipped the wings of high-flying West Bloomfield 53-50.

Last year's Wayne-Oakland champs, Andover has suffered four losses so far this year and has shown little of that famous polish that gave them the crown with a 12-2 league record last year.

But when they met the Lakers, Andover played their best game of this season by shooting 50 percent from the floor.

Hockey Clinic Scheduled Here

Skating and hockey fundamentals will be subjects under instruction Saturday at Ford Field as coaches from the Northville Hockey Association man a recreation department - sponsored clinic from 9 a.m. until noon.

Opening session for those of bantam thru midget age, 13-16, will run until 9.30. A similar session, for potential pee-wees, squirts or mites, aged seven or under, will begin immediately thereafter and run until noon.

"This clinic is to stress fundamentals and help boys who didn't make the team in the first place because either they couldn't skate or because they had some other difficulty," said Hugh Bradley of the association.

Paul Denzer led the Barons with a 22 point performance followed by Ken Heidel with 12. The lakers had double figure showings from Jeff Helland with 22 and Don Johnston with 16. Milford worked their way into a first place tie with West Bloomfield when they downed Clarenceville, 69-54, on the strength of a powerful second half.

Midway through the game, Milford was on the short end of a 29-27 score but then came back to outscore Clarenceville 42 to 25 in the last 16 minutes of play.

Tom Harris led Milford with 32 points as teammate Kevin Penner dumped in 12. Clarenceville's high scorer was Phil Halstead with 15 as Chip Meyerllis sank 14 and Randy Weddle followed with 13.

Brighton coasted to their fourth league victory by downing Clarkston 74-63.

The Bulldogs had four men in double figures: Jim Wood with 25, Hugh Jones with 20, Bruce Ritter with 24 and Cas Seranton with 10.

Don Brown of Clarkston put in 26.

Northville Effort Fails, 63-53

Mustangs Stop Kettering Ace

Northville cagers won a battle but lost the war to Waterford-Kettering 63-53 Friday night after three quarters of winning basketball.

With his team up at times by 10 points or better, Northville Coach Omar Harrison employed a special "box-in-one" defense in an effort to cover Kettering ace Jerry Bell.

The strategy worked in that Bell, who recently posted 42 points against Clarenceville, was held to 13 points here.

But while everybody, particularly, forward ace Bernie Bach, was keeping tabs on Bell, Kettering's Ernie Bragg pumped in 22 points to beat Bach's team leading 20-point tally.

Winless since a non-league clash with Novi last December, the Mustangs let a 29-23 half time lead dwindle through the third quarter to 44-42. In the opening seconds of the final stanza Kettering tied the game, then went on to card two points, then four, then six, and so on.

Bragg was the hot shooter for Kettering during that deadly final quarter. He netted half of his 22 point tally with two baskets and seven free throws. Other Kettering cagers backed up that single effort with eight points for a total of 19-10 better than Northville's showing in that fourth quarter.

Bach and Scott Evans were the only Mustangs to card field goals during the final period, one each. Steve Utley and Rick Sechler each netted a pair of free throws and Bach came across with a fifth to make the nine point showing.

Northville patted 15 points in the third quarter, seven in the second, and 22 in the first.

Quarter scores were: 22-9, 29-23 and 44-42.

Harrison tagged the game a "good defensive effort," as his squad limited enemy scoring primarily to three men: Bragg, Bell and Bernie Starnes who netted 10.

Leading man on the boards was Mustang forward Scott Evans who pulled down 15 - 11 on defense and four on offense. Evans also ran second in the scoring race with 12 points.

With nine games under their belts, three of them victories, the Mustangs begin the second half of their season Friday.

They'll go against Clarenceville from who they earned their only league victory last December in the waning seconds of a close game.

The Trojans will be out to avenge that 52-49 upset as they lick wounds received last week in a 69-54 battle with Milford.

Northville fell to Milford 70-54.

Bulldogs Nip Matmen, 25-23

Mustang wrestlers traveled to Brighton Thursday to lose by a narrow 25-23 margin, but topped 10 teams Saturday to place sixth in the Michigan Center Invitational at Michigan Center.

The Brighton match snapped a winning streak that saw the Mustangs clip Milford and Andover early this month.

Bulldog matmen copped three pins and two decisions while the Mustangs netted just the opposite, getting falls from Brad Conklin and Bill Norton at 185 and 126 pounds.

The two squads tied at 105 and 112.

Conklin, despite trouble given him by a pinched nerve suffered in the recent Schoolcraft Invitational, pinned his man in the first period. Norton's victory also came in the first period.

Conklin's injury "may keep him out for awhile," said Coach Jack Townsley. "If he feels like it he can wrestle, but I don't like to fool around with neck injuries."

Dave Griffin wrestled a 3-1 decision from previously unbeaten Chet Allen at 119 pounds. John Coleman (heavy weight) and Steve Barger (132) drew two more decisions to round out the Mustang tally.

The loss puts Northville's mat record at 3-4 for the season.

Saturday Kevin Hartshorne (105) and John Fialon (112) went to the finals at Michigan Center only to lose decisions 2-0 and 4-1 to wind up with second places in the invitational meet.

David Griffin went to a third at 119, losing out in the semi-finals.

In Uniform

San Diego - Marine Private Jack R. Mosher II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Mosher of 46865 Stratford Court, was graduated from recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

Northville finished sixth with 28 points out of a field of 16 schools. Tournament crown went to Adrian with 125 points, followed by Charlotte at 83.

Northville wrestlers are slated for action tonight against visiting Clarenceville.

Hockey Aplenty

Ice Gets Real Workout

Each of the Northville Hockey Association teams saw action at least twice last week with the Pee-Wees dropping a first period tie to Fraser 4-3 Saturday, but blanking Lansing on its own ice, 9-0, Sunday.

By team, the week's activities shaped up like this:

F.O.E. SQUIRTS

Northville split over the weekend, dropping a first period tie to Fraser 4-3 Saturday, but blanking Lansing on its own ice, 9-0, Sunday.

Ron Angell, Roger Pattison and John Pawlowski netted all three of the local squad's goals in the first period. Angell and Pattison were credited with unassisted efforts, and Pattison racked up an assist on Pawlowski's goal.

For Northville the second and third period of that game were blank as it battled to offset the one goal lead Fraser netted in the final 30 seconds of the first stanza.

Any deficiency that might have showed up during Saturday's game disappeared in time for Sunday's match with Lansing.

Jerry Sherwood, Al Barrow, Pete Cartwright, Doug Horst, Roddy Michael and John Pawlowski accounted for the nine goals that made Northville's side of a shut-out over the hosting Lansing skaters.

THOMSON PEE-WEES

Northville notched an 8-3 victory over Garden City last week Wednesday night but failed to turn the trick Saturday or Sunday as they dropped two straight - on Saturday to Garden

City, 4-2, and then on Sunday to Lansing, 6-1.

The Pee-Wees traveled to Olympia to bounce back from a two-point deficit in the second period Wednesday to overwhelm Garden City five up.

Goals in that game were turned in by Kirk Mach, Kevin Stelmach, Dick Yoder, Dave Beal and Rudy Horst. Stelmach earned a hat-trick with two goals in the second and one in the third period.

Over the weekend, however, it was a different story.

Northville carded two first period goals from Stelmach and Horst against the Garden City squad Saturday and stood helpless while their rivals netted four in the next two periods.

Dave Beal saved Northville from a shut-out Sunday with his first period unassisted goal against Lansing.

The hosting icemen scored two goals in each period to take the match 6-1.

JOHN MACH BANTAMS

Northville went against Plymouth Saturday in a 1-1 tie in which Frank Knoth posted a third period goal.

Sunday, against Garden City, injuries told the tale. Northville lost 8-2, with highscorers Knoth and Jeff Kobierzynski out with cuts and elbow injuries sustained against Plymouth.

Jim Hendry and Dave Houck scored first and second period goals to account for Northville's tally.

THUNDERBIRD INN MIDGETS

The Midgets posted two easy victories over the weekend - beating Trenton 8-4 on Saturday and Dearborn 9-1 on Sunday.

On Saturday the midgets came from behind in the first period to outdistance Trenton by six after an opening two-point deficit.

Sunday the local squad held Dearborn scoreless through the first two periods while netting eight goals of their own. One got past, however, midway through the third period to save Dearborn from a shut-out.

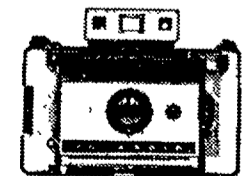

Goals in the Trenton game were scored by Chris Thomas, Art Autio, Mike Pattwell, Dave Bingham, Kurt Hoppe, Rick Buttery and Mark Andres. Pattwell, Bingham, Hoppe, Thomas and Mike Swinko accounted for the tally in the Dearborn game.

PROCLAMATION — Northville Mayor A. M. Allen signs a proclamation, designating the week of January 31 to February 7, as Prisoner of War Week as representatives of the sponsoring Jaycees look on. They are Jaycee President Peter Magnan and Jaycette President Mary Hilton. POW Week encourages citizens to write letters and sign petitions asking humane treatment, identification, and release of American prisoners in Southeast Asia.

Jaycees Seek POW Release

Focusing attention on North Vietnam's treatment of American prisoners, Northville Mayor A. M. Allen joined forces with the Northville Jaycee-Jaycette campaign to aid prisoners of war.

The mayor signed a proclamation this past week, designating the week of January 31 to February 7 as Prisoner of War Week.

Meanwhile, the Jaycettes launched a letter writing-petition campaign condemning North Vietnam's inhumane treatment of the prisoners, its failure to identify all prisoners, and for its refusal to repatriate the sick and wounded and those held an unreasonable length of time.

"The news media and the White House tell us that the larger part of our troops will be withdrawn by May, thus removing our 'physical influence' for helping the POW's," a spokesman noted. "All govern-diplomatic action seems to have failed to help the POW situation. Evidence now seems to indicate that the North Vietnamese pay more attention to the voice of the people of the United States than to that of their government officials."

In view of that situation, the Jaycees and Jaycettes urge citizens "to add your voice to other protesting Americans by writing a letter or signing a petition."

The following items are objectives by May 1:

1. That North Vietnam give prisoners of war the humane treatment prescribed by the Articles of the Geneva Convention.

2. That identification of all prisoners in Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos be made "because our government needs this information to demand each individual's release the families of prisoners need to know if their men are in captivity."

Prisoner of War Week starts Sunday in many churches; it resumes on Monday in the schools.

Drop-boxes for letters are to be placed in churches, the high school, many business establishments, and public buildings. On Saturday, February 6, booths will be in operation in the community where concerned citizens may sign a petition or postcard and/or drop off their letters.

Similar letters are being collected throughout the state by other Jaycee and Jaycette organizations. They will be taken to Warren on February 19 and then sent collectively to Xuan Thuy at the North Vietnamese Embassy in Paris as an expression of concerned Michigan people.

Following is sample wording for the letter:

"The men who are missing in action or are prisoners of war in Southeast Asia and their families desperately need your help.

"In the name of humanity, I appeal to you and to your government and to your allies to:

"A. Treat all prisoners of war humanely as specified in the provisions of the Geneva Convention.

"B. Publish a list of all prisoners.

"C. Provide information about those known to be dead.

"D. Release the sick and seriously wounded.

"E. Allow a free flow of mail.

"In behalf of those suffering mental and physical torture, I ask your help in the name of common decency."

Letters should be addressed to Mr. Xuan Thuy, 8 Avenue General Leclerc, 94 Choisy-le-Roi, Paris, France.

Postage is 13-cents surface rate.

Northville Gets Inquiries

Maybury Interests County

Wayne County's Board of Commissioners, like the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, has begun exploring the possibility of acquiring Detroit's Maybury Sanatorium property for public park development rather than letting the land go to private developers.

Meanwhile, the City of Northville, which long ago voiced its interest in purchasing some 200 acres of the property, reports that it has been contacted by several potential private purchasers who indicate a willingness to make Northville a part of their purchase bids.

The proposal that the county consider purchase of the land was made by Commissioner Erwin A. Steiner, Jr. of Grosse Pointe Farms last week. The board referred the matter to its public works committee, which is headed by Steiner, for study and recommendation.

The City of Detroit has put the 865 acres of rolling, wooded land in Northville Township up for sale, with a March 1 deadline for bids. The property has been valued at from $2 million to $3 million.

Numerous individuals and groups have urged that some way be found to preserve the property for park use.

Detroit's Common Council decided to sell the property to the highest bidder because of the city's severe financial problems. Although the land is zoned residential, Detroit is promoting it for residential, commercial, or industrial development.

Steiner's committee reportedly will meet with officials of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to discuss the possibility of applying for state recreation bond money to help finance acquisition.

According to Northville City Manager Frank Ollendorff, Northville has had communications from several potential private developers who indicate a willingness to make Northville's bid on 200 acres part of their bid packages on the entire parcel. Letters asking for such permission was sent out to more than 400 potential developers who received bid specifications. Northville decided on this maneuver when Detroit ruled that only bids on the entire 865 acres would be acknowledged.

Despite Detroit's insistence on bids for all of the property or nothing, Northville intends to submit its own bid on the 200 acres as well as becoming a part of as many of the bid packages of consenting private developers possible, Ollendorff said.

With enough combination bid efforts, he explained, Northville might have a chance.

Had Northville some assurance that either the state or the county—or some other agency such as the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority—could obtain the property, it probably would give up its efforts to acquire 200 acres for a public city park, officials have stated.

"We're simply interested in preserving land for park purposes—and that could be at any level," a spokesman said. "Any way our citizens would be able to use it."

School Scraps Book Deposit

unknown number paid "under protest" and the school board re-affirmed its stand to enforce the policy.

And in December, the State Department of Education defined "reasonable" and "refundable," which resulted in Spear calling it quits on enforcing the policy "rather than create a lot of extra work for ourselves."

Trustee Richard Martin lashed out at the State Board of Education and the way they handled the court ruling. "I am most amazed and disappointed at the reaction of the community as well as the state board and the manner in which they acted on the damage deposit, first saying one thing and now another."

Trustee Eugene Cook said "Let's face it fellas. The day of the local school board being able to make and administer policies is rapidly growing to a close. When that happens, then the taxpayers lose, too."

Spear noted that several families, who had paid the damage deposit, had moved from the district taking school-owned books with them.

"What would have happened if they hadn't paid?" he asked. "Just by luck we had the deposits to cover the loss."

"It will take one mill over the 17 (up for renewal March 6) to buy books for the kids in the district," Cook cautioned. "And then everybody will have to pay."

In other action Monday night the board — authorized the superintendent

Holly 'Miss' Wins State Jaycee Title

Miss Patricia Johnson, a senior at Holly Senior High School, was named Michigan's 1971 Junior Miss at the state contest last Saturday in Pontiac. Northville's Junior Miss Wendy Wheaton and Walled Lake's Junior Miss Connie Sutherland were among the 24 finalists in the annual pageant.

While neither Wendy nor Connie made the top five finalists list, both were chosen finalists in the Breck award contest. This award goes to the candidate who has demonstrated excellence in hair styling, using the sponsor's products. Sandra German, Livonia Junior Miss, won the Breck award.

Michigan's new Junior Miss has an all-A average and gave a ballet talent demonstration. Runners-up were Hiawatha Lewis, Pontiac; Sandy Brown, Marshall; Diane Scott, Oxford; and Nancy King, Lansing.

NHS to Offer 'New' Lunches

Beginning Monday, February 1, lunches at Northville High will be anything but dull.

A revision in the lunch program had been in the works for quite some time, Business Manager Earl Busard said "and with the state ordered cutbacks we decided to implement our new ideas now."

The "complete" dinner will be discontinued after Friday. On Monday the new menu will include hamburgers, 45 cents; hot dogs, 35 cents; fries, 24 cents; cakes and pies, 25 cents; milk, 3 cents for students and 10 cents for adults; casserole, 30 cents; fish sandwich, 45 cents; and salad, 25 cents. A "dinner of the day," a combination of several of the above items, will be sold for 65 cents, Busard said.

"As the program continues we hope to add potato chips, juice, soft drinks and other items," he added. "We hope to break even on the lunch program."

Death, Riches or Failure Waits in Superstitions For Men With Gold Fever

A fortune or disappointing failure or even death could be waiting for four Northville prospectors when they return next month to Arizona's treacherous Superstition Mountains.

But not even the threat of accidental or violent death will deter these four amateurs who, like so many who have made the same perilous journey, have gold fever and only a discovery can cure it.

"It's more than just the thought of finding gold; it's solving a mystery that has haunted men for nearly two centuries," said the pharmacist, Al Laux, in explaining what drives men like himself and his three companions, police Corporal Phil Young, businessman Craig Rathburn, and salesman Walt Stobbe.

What's more the four, after years of research and search, are confident they now have the key to solving that mystery and finding the infamous lost Dutchman Goldmine. "Oh, it's there . . . it's there alright and we're going to find it," declared Rathburn.

He concedes, however, that others have said the very same thing. And many of them have died — some from accidental falls, some in fights over disputed claims, and some mysteriously as in the case of two men who were beheaded while searching in the Superstitions.

The Lost Dutchman mystery is perhaps the most widely acclaimed story of its kind. Men have spent lifetimes investigating it. Numerous books and articles have been written about it; a movie, starring Glenn Ford, dramatized it; and the state of Arizona promotes it as a major tourist attraction.

The story is a long, complex one, but the four give this shortened version:

It began with the Spanish Conquistadors who explored

Mountain Prospectors

Four Northville amateur prospectors look the part on recent adventure in Arizona's Superstition Mountains. Going back for still another adventure — and perhaps a fortune — next month will be (l to r) Phil Young, Walt Stobbe, Craig Rathburn and Al Laux.

the mountainous Arizona region lying some 45 miles from what is now Phoenix and who brought back stories about this land of gold. In 1748, Don Miguel Nemecio Silva de Peralta was granted the land by the king of Spain.

The Peralta family was a wealthy one having secured their riches by mining in the Chihuahua region. Eventually, however, their mines were worked out and, recalling the stories of gold potential in Arizona, they sent a party to investigate their unexplored holdings. The party was headed by Pedro Peralta, eldest son and a mining engineer.

Many weeks later the party discovered gold and, mined some of it before covering their workings and returning to Chihuahua. During succeeding years the Peraltas uncovered many rich deposits of gold and at one time had 18 mines in operation.

As the Apache Indians began harassment of these intruders of their lands, the Peraltas hurriedly mapped the region, pinpointing their mines and caches of gold by signs on buried stones, on cactus, on mountain rocks, etc., and meticulously covered their mines and disguised their trails before fleeing the Superstitions. By 1848, their work was completed but they had delayed too long and on their way home the party of nearly 100, mostly peons, were attacked and killed by the Apaches. Among the dead were Don Miguel Peralta and his son Pedro.

Twelve years later, the youngest son, Enrico, enlisted the aid of his cousins, members of the Gonzales family, and set out for the mountains. They failed to find the signs and the covered mines but by 1864 they discovered their own rich deposit of gold. Meanwhile, the Apache raids grew intense and the Spaniards fled again with their booty.

In 1881 Enrico returned to the mountains with two disbelieving miners named Jacob Waltz and Jacob Weiser who were astonished to find that the rich mine did in fact exist. Within just a few days they had unearthed $60,000 in gold. In exchange for all of the gold from that trip, Enrico who had enough of risking life against Apaches, gave Waltz — the Dutchman — and Weiser the family title to the land.

The two men returned and found the gold deposit, so the story goes, but they ran out of supplies and the Dutchman went off for food leaving Weiser behind. The Dutchman was delayed enroute to Florence, Arizona and Weiser, attacked by Indians and half-crazed by starvation, wandered onto the Florence ranch of Colonel J. D. Walker, told his story and died. The Dutchman eventually moved to what is now Phoenix and in 1877 died at age 69 — but not before exhibiting high grade gold ore and revealing sketching directions to a fantastic gold deposit in the mountains.

In the years that followed many tried to find it. None did. But in the search many of the signs left by the Peraltas have been discovered as well as some of their early workings. They are there to be seen today for those rugged enough to pack into the mountainous interior.

Death or failure has accompanied most who searched the mountains. Perhaps the most famous unsolved murder was that of Adolph Ruth, a 66-year-old retired government employee from Washington, D. C.

Ruth's son, Dr. Erwin Ruth, while inspecting cattle for importation into the United States, befriended a relative of the Peralta family who told him of the family's early gold expeditions and then gave him a map that had been in the family possession for many years. Erwin gave it to his father, an amateur prospector who spent his summers searching for lost treasures.

Foolishly, Adolph publicly proclaimed it as the map to the Lost Dutchman Goldmine and packed off alone into the mountains. Months later his bullet-pierced head was found by a search party. The body was found later some four miles away.

The map turned up later in the hands of a man who maintained he had found it in the mountains.

Erwin, however, had another copy of the map. And that's where the story picks up with the Northville prospectors.

"I was in the hospital for a couple weeks seven or eight years ago," explained Rathburn, "and read a story in the newspaper about the Lost Dutchman. It was fascinating so I started reading some books about it. By the time I was out I knew a hock of a lot about the Superstitions but I wasn't satisfied. I joined a couple prospecting clubs, wrote letters and got bits and pieces of information in other books.

"Then in 1968 I flew to Washington to talk to Dr. Ruth about his father's trip to the Superstitions. There's been a lot written about him but I figured I might learn something else. For some reason he liked me and before I left he gave me a copy of the map his father had with him when he went into the mountains."

I WISH to let the person or persons, who shot our dog two times with a 22 in the hip and leg, know that he is suffering unmercifully as a result of their dastardly deed. Our veterinarian conceded that it is one of the ugliest actions taken against an animal that he has ever seen. I hope that the person or persons responsible for this cruel act can sleep with his conscience. Mrs. Robert Hardy

Lawmakers to Face Abortion Fight Again

LANSING — For the third year in a row, members of the Michigan Legislature are going to come face to face this year with the emotionally charged issue of abortion reform.

A bill to revamp the Michigan laws governing abortions died each of the last two years in the Senate. But the votes which killed the bill came only after highly charged debates which left combatants on both sides of the question limp when they ended.

Gone from the Senate floor this year is the lawmaker who has stood at the center of the abortion reform fight the past two years — State Sen. Lorraine Beebe.

Mrs. Beebe, the only woman member of the upper chamber, was defeated in a bid for re-election largely because of her beliefs on the abortion reform issue since she lived in a heavily Catholic district.

THE BATTLE is being carried in the Senate by State Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, who helped Mrs. Beebe on the measure in past years.

It is worthy of special note that this is the first time an active effort will be made to get an abortion reform bill passed by the House. It will be floor managed there by Rep. Richard Allen, R-Ithaca, and its fate is uncertain.

House Speaker William A. Ryan, a devout Roman Catholic, has promised a "hands off" approach when the bill goes through the chamber and no one is sure how the vote will go.

BURSLEY ALREADY has introduced his bill in the Senate and he is predicting success.

"I think there's a whole new atmosphere now," he said. "I believe the time is right this year, and we will see an abortion bill passed."

Bursley's bill would allow any Michigan woman to obtain an abortion for any reason up through the 15th week of pregnancy. If the woman was more than 16 weeks pregnant, an abortion would be permitted to save the life of the woman.

If the woman is single and under 18, the bill provides that her parents be asked for their consent. It also contains a residency requirement of 90 days in the state to prevent Michigan from becoming an "abortion mill."

IF A BILL of some sort does make it through both houses, it can be expected to be signed by Gov. William G. Milliken, who has come out in favor of a proposal along the lines of the Bursley bill.

To date, 22 other states have liberalized their laws within the past three years to varying degrees.

The biggest change was made in New York, which now allows a woman to have an abortion for any reason, and does not require that she be a resident of the state. The other changes range down to one approved in Mississippi which allows abortions to save a mother's life and in cases of rape.

THE GRANTING of autonomy to Oakland University has caused Michigan State University to drop from 11th to 15th place in its rank in size among American universities.

MSU still is the largest school in Michigan, however, just edging out the University of Michigan which ranks 16th nationally at the present time. The granting of autonomy caused the MSU full time enrollment to drop from 39,244 to 34,029. This puts it comfortably ahead of the U of M, which has an enrollment of 31,388.

Also in the top 30 in the nation is Wayne State which ranks 26th with an average enrollment of 22,370.

THE FIGURES released by the educational journal, "School and Society," put the State University of New York in the top enrollment slot with 209,375 students. They also showed eight of the schools in the Big Ten Conference are in the top 20 schools in terms of size, with only Iowa and Northwestern missing. The largest Big Ten school is Wisconsin, which has 52,108 students.

Babson Report

Sugar Beets Show Gains

BABSON'S REPORTS, Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass. — During this century beet sugar has become steadily more important in the field of sweeteners. Part of this increasing significance has been due to the rapid growth of industrial usage of all types, with beet sugar taking over an ever larger portion of the market. Expansion of sugar consumption, in fact, has been phenomenally fast in beverages, baking, and cereals.

In the highly competitive market for nutritive sweeteners, price variances have long played an outstanding role in determining demand for cane and beet sugar (both sucrose) and corn syrup (dextrose). In the more distant past, cane sugar sold at a considerably higher price than beet sugar. The great advances in industrial sugar usage, however, have pushed demand for beet upward to a point where the price gap between the two kinds has been practically closed.

During the 1960s, a cataclysmic event took place that helped to give a spectacular boost to the beet sugar business. This was the sudden exclusion of Cuban sugar from the U.S. domestic market, brought about when Premier Castro expropriated American-owned sugar properties on the island. Up to the time of the take-over and for many years before that, Cuba was the leading supplier of cane sugar to this country — constituting some 96% of the total. Along with cane sugar and corn syrup suppliers, beet sugar producers were quick to step into the gaping breach left by the Cuban shutoff.

LAST YEAR growers of sugar beets harvested a crop estimated at 26.0 million tons from some 1.4 million acres planted, a gain of 60% and 48% respectively over levels reached in 1960. This contrasted favorably with sugar cane harvestings that registered gains of only 54% and 33% in tonnage and acreage over the same span. Employing estimates of the Research Staff of Babson's Reports for sugar deliveries in 1970, it appears that tonnage consumption of beet sugar alone in the past decade has risen some 48% compared with 23% for cane sugar.

Overall consumption of sugar tends to reflect general expansion in the nation's population. But over the past ten years or so the accelerated growth of the most youthful segment of the populace has brought about an exceptionally broad step-up in utilization of industrial sugar. Then, too, there has been a transformation in traditional

Far Greater Issue: Moral Pollution

Pastor Ross Winters
People's Church, Pinckney

An armchair general is one who sits back and views the scene and is an expert on how to run the whole show. They have the answer to every situation or problem.

To consider the complexities of the problems that our nation faces as well as the world is to try to put a million — piece crossword puzzle of all one color together.

Social reforms — urban renewal — environmental controls — expansionary federal budgets — revenue sharing programs — creation of newly named U.S. government departments are certainly steps to be taken so that our nation can survive and possibly become great in deed as well as word.

These are only a few parts to the puzzle of what is needed to help our country. Let us consider another piece to the puzzle. Although we need to be concerned in all these areas of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; although we hear much about our polluted environment and some things are being done to bring about a change, there is a far greater issue that most in our nation show little concern regarding, and that is the pollution of our moral and religious environment.

The only way the fibers of this nation can be strengthened will be by a turning to the things of God. We cannot legislate religious conviction, but God gives his way in which a nation under God can be restored and blessed.

Let us consider his standards as to the way of blessing in II Chronicles 7:14 "IF MY PEOPLE WHICH ARE CALLED BY MY NAME, SHALL HUMBLE THEMSELVES AND PRAY, AND SEEK MY FACE, AND TURN FROM THEIR WICKED WAYS, THEN WILL I HEAR FROM HEAVEN, AND WILL FORGIVE THEIR SIN, AND WILL HEAL THEIR LAND."

This verse was given at a high point in Jewish history, when the people had just dedicated their lives and temple to the Lord. It was a time when God also greatly blessed that nation under King Solomon, but it should be noted that Israel went off after other things and God turned his face from her — leaving the country in turmoil.

Many times we look to the President and political reforms for the answers to the problems of this nation, but what are we personally doing to strengthen the spiritual fibers and halt the moral decay of this country?

Any spiritual and moral change in this nation must begin with those who believe in God — those who have acknowledged Jesus Christ as their Saviour.

Not as an armchair general, but as a minister, I see the crying need in America today of a personal relationship to Jesus Christ. There needs to be worship and prayer as a family unit in the home as well as in the Church.

MIGHTY IS THE NATION;
WHOSE GOD IS THE LORD!

Someone to thank

"God is a product of man's imagination," announced the dignified intellectual who occupied our TV screen. "God isn't dead," he argued as our children watched. "He was never alive!"

Mary and I felt that Christian children such as ours should realize that not everyone believes in God. Perhaps, knowing this, they could better understand the state of the world. We would encourage and answer their questions as best we could, confident that God would not allow their faith to be destroyed.

Later, before I tucked Kristen into bed, she clasped her hands and closed her eyes. "Dear Lord," she prayed, "Thank you for Mommy and Daddy. Thank you for Zoomie (her goldfish) and Toddy and my new dress . . ." She stopped suddenly, and I raised questioning eyes to her. "Daddy," she said anxiously, "that man on TV doesn't have anyone to thank!"

Do you have Someone to thank? Come to church this Sunday.

Gold! It's A Fever

Excited and thoroughly fascinated by the stories of gold, he made a trip to Arizona feeling certain he could find the gold with the map. "But those mountains are just too rugged and dangerous for one man . . . and I don't mind telling you it's a scary place to be after learning of all the killings," he said.

So Rathburn shared the stories and his map with the three other Northville men who were equally enthusiastic. In the ensuing years they will be collecting "a couple thousand dollars worth of research material" (enough to fill a den and a full-size filing cabinet) and began annual trips into the mountains.

They staked a claim in the Superstitions on a large area in which they feel certain one or more of the gold mines exist. They've refiled their claim each year.

On each trip, lasting about two weeks, they take hundreds of slides of each major rock or mountainous landmark. Then upon their return they spend hours studying each slide comparing it to an enlarged picture of the Peralta map. The map, which contains the location of one mine along with scribbled landmarks and unintelligible Spanish words and letters, "has purposely been altered to throw off anyone who tries to find the gold," said Laux.

Then last year, while studying the slides, discussing and disregarding suggested interpretations, the four "suddenly hit the key. It had been staring us in the face all along and we just didn't see it," he said. Using this "key" they compared the map to landmarks in their slides and "bingo, it fit like a glove."

The four men are deadly serious and show little appreciation for those who scoff at them or their map.

Many firmly believe the men are close to finding a treasure — so convinced in fact that when the men incorporated their prospecting as a bonified company some 18 prominent Northville area citizens bought stock in the company at $250 a crack.

"It costs us about $1,500 a trip and that's a lot of money to put out when you've got families to provide for," explained Laux.

"We showed our discovery (key to the map) to our stockholders and they're convinced we're finally onto something," he continued.

Most of their trips into the mountains take place in February or March when the weather is most ideal. But last November after finding the "key" two of them made a special trip to check out the region and to take more pictures to study in preparation for next month's search. They also rented a helicopter and took detailed pictures from the air.

"Some guys go hunting, some fish, and some go on camping trips. We go prospecting. All of us do our own thing," explained Rathburn, who recently moved away from Northville when the Rathburn Chevrolet dealership closed. His new home? Why, Apache Junction, a small town near the Superstition foothills, of course.

Rathburn was in town last week to go over plans with his partners.

If other people have the Peralta map and access to the Spanish signs what is to prevent them from finding it?

"Nothing. There are lots of people looking — none in the area where our claim is located — but having the map is one thing and knowing how to interpret it is another," said Rathburn. "We've been all over those mountains and found Spanish landmarks, and come across lots of evidence of later prospecting. But in the area we're hunting now we've never come across a tin can or anything else to indicate that someone's been there in recent years. Only signs of the Spanish."

"The other thing is that most people who hear the story and start looking soon give it up when they see how rugged that country is. Climb around those mountains awhile and you're just about dead with exhaustion."

What about the people who live in the area of the mountains, aren't they looking?

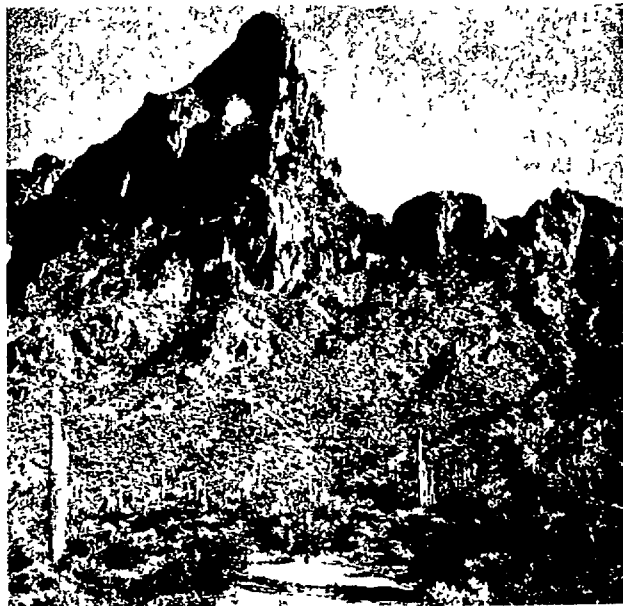

"They couldn't care less," he said. "They think it's just too dangerous to fool around in the mountains. Besides, if the Lost Dutchman Goldmine is ever found the natives and the State of Arizona will never publicize it. They don't want it found; they want it there to attract visitors."

"Yet, every year someone dies in those mountains."

The men, as in the past, will pack into the mountains by horseback. "A guide takes us and about 10 to 15 horses, depending on how much we've got to carry. (It costs $15 per horse plus $25 for the guide one way.) He takes us in as far as he dares by horseback and then leaves with the horses. There isn't must food and if he left the horses we'd spend all our time caring for them."

"Then we set up a base camp and spend every day walking and climbing mules from camp."

All of the men carry sidearms and wear gloves and heavy clothes and boots. The area is infested with scorpions and gila monsters ("we've seen lots of them") as well as snakes (they've seen very few of these). Some insist the area is infested with ghosts of dead Spaniards and Apaches as well.

DEATH LURKS IN SUPERSTITIONS

Besides their sidearms they carry rifles. "Every night before hitting the sack we fire off every one of our guns." Why, for target practice?

"No, we just want to make a lot of noise so that anyone who might be within a few miles of our camp know there are guys there with guns so they'd better stay away."

On their hikes by foot they carry enough food for lunch, water, small mining tools and some TNT. They've learned enough about mining so that whenever they stop to rest ("and we stop a lot") they chip off pieces of rock to inspect it for gold or silver. They've found traces of it but "not enough to make anyone rich."

Fortunately, none of the men have been seriously injured thus far. "Oh, we had some hairy experiences but nothing so bad that we couldn't keep hunting. We take in enough medicine and first-aid equipment to last a couple days in case something happens," said the pharmacist.

They had what could have been a disastrous experience two years ago while on horseback. "We were traveling along a rocky ledge when one of the pack horses fell. Fortunately, the guide quickly cut the rope tying him to the other horses. Believe it or not that horse fell into the top of a tree and we spent the next hour getting him out. When it was over the guide told us the horse that fell was the one carrying our dynamite. I didn't sleep too well that night," recalled Rathburn.

Whenever the men make the trip to Arizona they "let it be known that we're just a bunch of city-slickers trying to get away from civilization awhile. We tell the guide the same thing and maybe tell him we might do a little prospecting, too. He's not so dumb but he's more interested in our money than the gold. Several years ago we packed in an extra box of dynamite and hid it away in the rocks. Now whenever we go in we pack a box of dynamite in plain view. If we use any of the stuff back in the mountains we replace each stick with those from our cache. So when we come out the guy sees a full box and figures we couldn't have been doing much prospecting."

"There's one other thing that probably discourages more people than anything else, and that's the superstitions. Some of the Indians (the mountains were the home of the Apaches' Thunder God) just don't like to get near the place. Even the guide believes some of the stories. And even some of us wonder sometimes sleeping in there at night."

"All those mysterious deaths . . . you just never forget them."

But gold fever is a malady that neither superstition nor unsolved murders can cure. There's only one cure for that and next month the four amateur prospectors will search for it — certain that this time they'll return completely cured . . . and rich.

Attendance Drops

More than 260,400 persons used the nature program of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority in 1970 compared to 263,400 in 1969 and a high of 279,400 in 1968.

William F. Hopkins, HCMA naturalist, noted that this was only a slight decline in the six basic services available to the citizens of Livingston, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

The number of persons participating in HCMA nature program services was as follows for 1970, (with 1969 figures in parentheses): NATURE CENTER VISITORS — 126,725 (128,111); LECTURES: (at schools) — 108,609 (110,981); at Nature Centers — 15,744 (14,386), to Civic Groups — 1,185 (1,211); GUIDED FIELD TRIPS — 4,938 (5,537).

Loose Leaf

Threat to College Ball

When a Greensboro, North Carolina newspaper came out with a story that the American Basketball Association had signed some top talent from this year's crop of college basketball seniors, every sports fan had to wonder what the impact will be on college basketball.

The ABA, of course, is the struggling professional basketball circuit that wants to move into the big time. But with few notable exceptions—Rick Mount, Dan Issel and Charlie Smith—the ABA has been coming off second best in the post-season bidding for premiers college players.

Money is the big inducement for a top player to go with the ABA. And with the long-established National Basketball Association also hell bent on winning the money war, the ABA is at a decided advantage.

After all, the NBA is recognized throughout the country as "The" league, with buying patterns, placing far greater emphasis upon pre-cooked and semi-prepared food items. The ban in late 1969 against cyclamate-based sweeteners in the beverage and food processing industries lifted sugar consumption in 1970 to a still higher plateau.

WITH 1971 sugar usage estimated at 10.9 million short tons, the percentage increment in the year's U.S. quota under the terms of the Sugar Act is beneficial to producers of beet sugar. An annual quota of 3.025 million short tons, raw value, is granted as long as U.S. total marketing stays within a range of 9.7 to 10.4 million short tons. When the national quota goes outside this range, quotas for beet and cane from mainland U.S. are adjusted, with about 75% of such alterations ascribed to beet sugar. The Sugar Act expires at the end of 1971, but provisions will be extended by Congress, probably with only a few mild modifications.

After plummeting during the late 1968-May 1970 period, stocks of most beet sugar firms have seen substantial recovery. Babson's Research Staff currently recommends purchase of the common stocks of Holly Sugar and Great Western United Corp. Worth continued retention in well-balanced portfolios are American Crystal Sugar, Amstar Corp., and Utah-Idaho Sugar.

the better players and the tougher teams. So, given the fact that both leagues offer the same player is likely to choose the NBA, as did Bob Lanier of the Pistons and Pete Maravich of the Atlanta Hawks. They want to play with the best.

What course is left open to the ABA? Skirting the well accepted rules, observed by the NBA for protection of college basketball. The paramount "no-no" is touching a college player until he has completed his four years of college ball, and it is this rule that the ABA has apparently chosen to violate.

Spencer Haywood, the former Detroit Pershing and U of D standout, is a case in point. Denver didn't waste a moment in snapping up Haywood after his sophomore year at U of D, claiming that this was a financial hardship case and thus Denver was justified in hiring Haywood.

Now Haywood, because of contract complications with Denver, is playing with Seattle of the NBA. A court ruling as to whether Haywood can play with the NBA is now pending. The outcome of this case could have far-reaching implications.

The secret draft held by the ABA just last week could also serve to harm college basketball.

The question now becomes, when is a player under contract and when isn't he? Does signing with an agent make the college player a professional and thus ineligible to compete in amateur athletics, namely college basketball?

Perhaps I'm an alarmist who wants to see college basketball remain the exciting sport that it is. Nonetheless, if the ABA doesn't move sternly against those owners who would stop at nothing to make money, then the great source of trained basketball talent—college basketball—could suffer severe damage.
