EARLY BEAVER - It may be a little chilly for convertibles, but it didn't deter five-year-old Laura Ann Smith, 218 West Dunlap, who was out for a spin Monday afternoon - just a day after the official start of spring. She pulled into Cal's Gulf for a fill-up and while there asked Kurt Dixon for a little extra service - like putting on her "new" license plates so she, too, could beat the March 31 deadline for grownups and their cars.

Schoolcraft Trustee Comes Out of Hiding

Can an elected college board trustee best serve his constituents by refusing to serve?

Yes, declares Trustee James Boswell of Livonia, who after a year's absence from meetings of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, broke a self-imposed silence Thursday to comment on his absence and the reasons behind it.

No, says Trustee Jane Moehle of Plymouth, president of the board, who contends that Boswell does his constituents and the college district disservice even though his absence purportedly is based on a matter of

The principle that triggered Boswell's angry exit from a meeting a year ago is the contention, by Boswell, that the Schoolcraft College board is illegally constituted because it fails to carry out a one-man, one-vote ruling of the Supreme Court.

Roger Craig, Dearborn attorney, was scheduled to file a brief in Wayne County Circuit Court Wednesday, thus starting legal action contesting the make-up of Schoolcraft Community College, The Record learned late Tuesday. Craig represents the New Democratic Coalition of Livonia, the plaintiff in the case. Schoolcraft Trustee James Boswell is not a party to the suit, an NDCL spokesman said.

'Dirty' Soaps In for Bath

A Northville city ordinance that would wash-out many of the brands of soap and detergent now used by housewives and business places will come up for public hearing April 19.

Patterned after the ordinance adopted earlier in Detroit, the proposed new law would ban the sale of soap or detergent with excessive phosphorous content after July 1,

It temporarily exempts from this ban - until June 30, 1972 - those soaps and detergents containing excessive amounts of phosphorous that are used for machine dishwashers, and dairy, beverage, food processing and industrial cleaning equipment. After June 30, sale of these, too, would be

Since communities throughout the area use Detroit water, officials of Detroit have indicated that while they cannot force user communities to adopt the similar legislation they can, if need be, effect compliance by threatening to raise water rates.

Rather than write its own or dinance, Northville proposes to adopt Detroit's law with but minor word and name changes.

If Northville adopts the same ordinance, according to Detroit's assistant corporation counsel, Jerrold V. Marsh, it will eliminate many brands now on the market.

Among the "chief gremlins" the ordinance would ban, said Marsh, are: Blue Sail, Salvo, Dash, Tide XK, Concentrate All, Coldwater All walking out a year ago), Boswell bristled, "I don't have to defend it. It's a matter of fact: Livonia didn't have fair representation when I attended and it doesn't now. The board was illegal then and it is now."

His attendance at a board meeting, he argued, would not change the fact that Livonia does not have fair representation, based on its population and tax support. Furthermore, his attendance would simply lend credence to the board's "short-sighted" stand on this matter, he added.

His words echo the remarks he made a year ago in his parting blast at the board.

"All of you are illegal; you have no right to sit here," he said then, recalled Mrs. Moehle last week. He picked up his papers from the board table and stormed out, slamming the door behind him, the president said.

"He was furious," she said. Apparently by absenting himself from meetings, Boswell felt he could force the board into taking some kind of action requiring that greater representation on the board be given to those communities, such as Livonia, which have the greatest population.

(The secondary school districts of Northville, Plymouth, Livonia, Clarenceville, and Garden City make up the Schoolcraft Community College District. Three members of the board of trustees are elected at large and five others are elected one each from the five secondary districts. The at-large members are: R. Roberts Geake of Northville, John LaRue of Livonia, and George Martin of Livonia. Other members are Boswell of Livonia, Mrs. Moehle of Plymouth, Paul Mutnick, of Clarenceville, L. Clarke Oldenburg of Garden City, and B. William Secord of Northville).

Boswell's ploy failed to work, however, said Mrs. Moehle, and it will not bring about any board action now or in the future. "The simple fact is that we are legally constituted under

Revised Budget Approved

Township Slices Board Pay Hikes

The Northville township board of trustees gave unanimous approval to a revised budget Tuesday night and welcomed a proposal from Dr. Robert Geake for assistance in future determination of board salaries.

Without comment or explanation the board approved salary increases of eight per cent for all employees and officers with the exception of the police chief.

Previously, the board had proposed salary increases for the supervisor, clerk and treasurer ranging from 20 to 40 percent. The revised budget, prepared

Tuesday afternoon, calls for pay hikes for the supervisor from $7,420 to $8,016; clerk from $6,784 to $7,332; and treasurer, $6,169 to $6,660.

Police Chief Ron Nisun was given a 19 percent pay boost from $10,050 to $12,000 as previously announced.

In a surprise proposal Dr. Geake, a Republican precinct delegate speaking in behalf of township GOP delegates, requested the board to consider the appointment of a citizens' committee on compensation.

"We propose that such a committee would study and make récommendations on salaries for board members only. We consider matter of employee salaries to be the responsibility of the board. Our proposals would be advisory, of course," Dr. Geake added.

Treasurer Joseph Straub and Trustee Bernard Baldwin were quick to praise the idea and Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg suggested that it be placed on the agenda of the next regular board meeting (April 13).

The board could not take any action on non-agenda items Tuesday hecause one member Leonard Klein, was absent.

Supervisor Stromberg revealed this week that the board had met in private session last Thursday evening and decided to reduce the proposed salary hikes for board officers to eight percent. Treasurer Straub had announced that he would vote against the budget if it contained the higher

The supervisor indicated that it was the board's intention to propose increases for officers prior to their term of office, rather than making substantial hikes after election to the

Presumably, the citizens' advisory committee can relieve the board of the job of setting its own salaries through recommendations that could set forth an established salary schedule, perhaps for several years.

The revised township budget for 1971-72 as prepared by Clerk Eleanor Hammond sets estimated receipts and expenditures at $231,480. Year-to-date figures for 1970-71 on the revised report show regular receipts to be $194,300.13. Receipts from other funds, such as repayment of a loan from the water and sewer fund and C. of D. funds, are listed as $34,930.26.

Year-to-date expenditures total $233,197.83. It was explained that the difference of some $4,000 between receipts and expenditures was due to the fact that all items for the 1970-71 year were not yet included in the

School Study

In High Gear for April and student scheduling tentatively planned for early May, school study moves into high gear. Superintendent Raymond Spear said Phase III will answer the question "year-round school - is it acceptable?" During this phase, Spear explained, "all students will theoretically be divided into four groups and scheduled for a four-year period on a staggered, quarterly basis."

Phase III of Northville's year-round

Parents in the school district who have or will have children enrolled in school between 1973 and 1976 will be asked to indicate family vacation attendance preferences covering the four-year period.

The survey information will then be fed into a computer which will draw up the four-year schedules. The schedules will be sent back to parents for their comments.

"If parents find the schedules totally unacceptable," Earl Busard, business manager for the schools said, "they will be interviewed to determine why. Possibly another calendar other than the four quarter concept would be

"We are committed by the state to study the four-quarter concept," he

The community workshops tentatively set for April are designed to orient parents to what the school district is doing, what the scheduling choices mean and what the chances are that parents will get the vacation quarter they desire for the four-year period, Busard commented.

"We hope to completely have the Phase III study done by July 1," he

School officials point out that even if the community indicates through Phase III that year-round school is acceptable, it doesn't mean automatic implementation for Northville.

"Acceptability of the idea doesn't tell us if the community will in reality support year-round school operation. That's why our study is proceeding one step at a time," Spear explained.

"When the level of community acceptance has been determined, which Phase III should do, the board of Continued on Page 12-A

A PRESSING and difficult assignment was handed the planning commission Monday night by the Northville city council. It is the planners' job to come up with a recommendation for offstreet parking to accommodate the proposed $3 to $4 million Northville Square shopping complex at Main and Wing streets. Planners must decide how much parking is required and where it should be located. The council would like an answer within four weeks.

A SAFETY PROGRAM, sponsored by the Northville Rotary Club, has been launched in an effort to assist occupants of houses during fires. Stickers, which may be obtained at the police station or by contacting a Rotarian through the police department, is being made available for attaching to the door or window of a house. The sticker informs police or firemen that the house contains an invalid. blind, aged, or bedridden person. It also indicates the number of stories in the house and the number of families living NOMINATING PETITIONS for school board trustee are now available at the board of education offices and can be picked up from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. At least 20 but no more than 28 signatures must be obtained and the deadline for filing is 4 p.m. May 17. Two four-year terms, now held by Richard Martin and Andrew Orphan, are up in the June 14 election. So far petitions have been taken out by Martin, Orphan, R. Duane LaMoreaux and Angelo Chinni, school officials said. Last day for voter registration is May 14.

Sixth Grader Wins State DAR Award

Cynthia Zbikowski, a sixth grade student at the Ida B. Cooke Junior High annex, Northville, was named state sixth grade winner in the Daughters of the American Revolution American History Month essay contest, at the state DAR meeting in Grand Rapids last Thursday.

Cynthia's essay, "The Constitution and What It Means to Me," now will be entered in the national DAR competition in Washington, D.C., in April.

Cynthia, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Z. Ted Zbikowski of Edenderry subdivision, Northville, was named local sixth grade winner last month in the contest sponsored in Northville, Novi and Plymouth by the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter.

Students in the fifth through eighth grades were invited to write on "The Constitution of the United States and Its Signers" in the annual DAR-sponsored contest with prizes, awarded at each grade level.

Election Ends Year

By JEAN DAY

"THINK SPRING" was the encouraging word of welcome Northville Woman's Club members received after they trudged through remains of winter's last storm to attend the annual meeting and tureen luncheon last Friday at Northville Presbyterian Church.

Every table was decorated with white-painted berry baskets filled with bright flowers created from burlap squares. They were the work of Mrs. Orin Hove, social chairman, and Mrs. Fredrick Sterner, Jr., a member of the committee. Mrs. Sterner confided that her husband had tallied her contribution at about 120 hours of handwork.

A demonstration-program on "Wiggery" was presented by three representatives of Bell Jacob,

J. C. Ritchie Takes Bride

At a ceremony in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Windsor, James C. Ritchie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey P. Ritchie, 821 Spring Drive, took Elizabeth Eales at his bride.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar R. Eales of St. John's Newfoundland, Canada.

They exchanged vows in a double ring ceremony before the Reverend L. L. Sivern at 8:30 p.m. Friday, March 12. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. William Binkleman.

The bride wore a two-piece, blue dress to which she pinned her corsage of white carnations.

A reception dinner followed at the Windsor Sheraton-Viscount Hotel for the newlyweds, their attendants and the bridegroom's parents. The couple left on a short wedding trip to Chicago. They will be making their home in Northville.

The bride, who is graduate of Bishop's College, St. John's, Newfoundland, is a Canadian Customs employe in the excise office in Windsor. Her husband is a 1965 graduate of Northville High School. He was released from the U.S. Navy in October, 1970, and now is employed by Western Electric in Plymouth.

Livonia branch, who were introduced by Mrs. William Dyke, program chairman for the day.

Mrs. C. H. Bryan, who has been a club member 50 years, received a gold pin symbolic of her years of service, Mrs. Leonard Klein, president, announced. It was presented by Mrs. Klein during a visit to Mrs. Bryan at Ford Hospital where she has been a patient.

Mrs. Klein announced the appointment of Mrs. George Merwin as program chairman for next year. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Donald Funk. Mrs. Kalin Johnson, Mrs. William R. Quigley, Mrs. William Bake, Mrs. Jack L. Dewsbury and Mrs. John A. Federspill.

Mrs. Robert Shafer, chairman of the nominating committee, read the slate for next year, which was adopted unanimously. Mrs. Klein was named to her second term as president. Mrs. William Switzler was elected recording secretary, and Mrs. E. A. Chapman and Mrs. Marcella Douglas join Mrs. Blake Couse, Mrs. Francis Gazlay and Mrs. E. O. Weber on the board. Mrs. Walter Stamann was re-elected corresponding secretary.

a fund-raising one-with all area residents invited to "welcome spring" from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday, April 3, at Idyl Wyld

Country Club, 35780 West Five Mile Road, Livonia. Bill Broaddus, dance chairman, adds that the $15 per couple cost includes a buffet dinner for both and dancing from 9 p.m. to the Majels Band of Detroit. Vocalist Margo Feiner is to be featured. (He adds that mixed drinks start at just 60 cents...and there's door prizes.) In addition to Jaycees members, tickets are being sold by Lapham's and Banbury Cross shops in Northville and at Snow's Standard station at Ten Mile and Novi roads. Broaddus also may be contacted at 349-6042. Deadline for tickets is this Sunday. *****

ANNUAL SPRING rummage sale at Northville First preparation for the first firing. Two Presbyterian Church this Friday and Saturday promises to have more than the usual bargains. One feature will be 50 men's suits-ranging in size all the way up to 50-long.

Mrs. Gordon Snyder and Mrs. Donald Williams, co-chairmen, add that there also will be an assortment of dishes, silverware and books as well as clothing-all worth being on hand for at the opening time of 9 a.m. each of the two days. The sale ends at noon Saturday.

MOTHERS' CLUB also made spring plans for a nearly new sale to be held May 7 and 8, at its March meeting Monday at the home of Mrs. Richard Huston.

A dance profit of $161 was announced with funds earmarked for repairs and equipment for the teen-age Cavern Club.

Mrs. Samuel McSeveny, hostess chairman, announced a change in location for the April 26 guest night meeting. It will be held at her home at 20148 Whipple Drive.

Mothers' Club learned that it is losing one of its members, Joyce Cartwright.

The Robert Cartwright family will be leaving Northville Friday to return to England. The Cartwrights have been Northville residents for nearly seven years, and have lived in the United States for 13 years.

After their return on the new Queen Elizabeth 2, they will make their home in Cambridge. It will be the first time David, 11, Peter, 10, Liz, 7, and Michael, 2; have lived in their parents' native land.

Northville also is losing the Alan Brailford family to the British Isles. Relative newcomers to the community, the Brailfords moved to Clement Court off Eight Mile Road last fall. They, too, are Britishers. They plan their move when school is out. ******

A BIRTHDAY cake helped members of the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club celebrate their 23rd birthday at the dinner meeting Monday night at Hillside

Mrs. A. M. Allen, president, presided at the meeting which was highlighted with a slide presentation of spring wildflowers given by Doreen Judd, a club member who also is a member of the Michigan Horticultural Society.

From Florida, where she is vacationing, Mrs. Beatrice Carlson sent a poem recalling accomplishments of the club and tracing its early history. Drawingfor the synthetic wig was won by Betty Conroy.

China Painters Plan Workshop

Northville Spring China Decorators will meet at 10 a.m. next Thursday, April I, at the Plymouth Credit Union for a morning workshop on the art of painting peaches on china.

Mrs. Goldie Latchford, a teacher from Novi, is to show members successive lessons are planned for the coming monthly meetings. Members are asked to come prepared with paints and a piece of china on which to paint.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. John Buckland, 449 Hill Street, announce the birth of a son, their second child, March 15 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor. Named David Neale, the baby weighed seven pounds, ten ounces at birth.

In response to a request for a recipe that will serve a group, here's a pretty gelatin that can be a salad or a bridge dessert. It is served by Mrs. E. O. Weber and always brings requests for

RIBBON SALAD

Five 3 oz. pkg. gelatin - 3 red, 1 green, I lemon.

Prepare each with 1½ c. water. In a 9 x 13 pan, dissolve a pkg. dark red (raspberry) gel. Then alternate a layer of white with another layer of gel (lime), then light red (strawberry), lemon, and cherry. Let each layer set separately, but as one is hardening, prepare another.

For the four alternate white layers, for EACH TWO layers, boil 1 c. milk, add ½ c. sugar and 1 pkg. Knox unflavored gelatin dissolved in 1/4 c. water. Cool and add 1 c. imitation sour cream and 1 tsp. vanilla.

Set 24 hours. Serves 18 or more:

Another "woman's recipe" to serve a club or bridge group is:

ALICE'S SWEETHEART SALAD 2 c. crushed pineapple

½ c. sugar

2 envelopes plain gelatin ¼ c. cold water

2 tbsp. lemon juice

2 tbsp. cherry juice 2 pkg. (small) cream cheese ½ pt. whipping cream

Heat pineapple with sugar. Add gelatin which has softened in cold water. Stir until melted. Add lemon and maraschino cherry juice. Mash cheese and add cherries cut fine. Mix all and freeze until slightly thick. Whip cream and mix in. Chill in pan.

Makes 12 small servings.

Mrs. Mary Ann Beltz, one of the meeting organizers who is to introduce Dr. Swan, explains that the request is intended to point up the "pollution" caused by widespread use of the plastic cups. She adds that she always carries her own cup in her purse - as a way any individual can do his part in the fight against pollution.

She states that housewives are welcome and a baby sitting service is planned by the Amerman PTA for young children.

The informational packet to be distributed lists 20 ways an individual may conserve water, 10 ways solid wastes may be cut down, as well as suggestions to fight air pollution, noise pollution, over-population and to control pesticides.

Other chapters in the packet discuss "Why on Earth Should You Thank a Tree" and "The Properties of the Chemical Lawn."

It points up the theme of the meeting, "What can the individual do?" Mrs. Jean Dykstra of the Environmental Action committee has provided illustrations.

DR. JAMES A. SWAN -

U of M Authority Talks on Pollution

"Citizen Action as Solutions" is the topic to be explored by Dr. James A. Swan, research associate at the University of Michigan Institute for Social Research, who is to be guest speaker at a community program being sponsored by the Citizens for Environmental Action at 9:15 a.m. Monday at Amerman Elementary School.

Dr. Swan has been a lecturer in resource planning and conservation at the University of Michigan School of Natural Resources since 1969. Last year he was symposium organizer for a program, "The Role of Behavioral Sciences in Resolving Environmental Pollution" at the American Psychological Association's National Conference in Miami.

Dr. Swan has been the recipient of four research grants for work in his field and is author of many articles on conservation and environment.

He received his Ph.D in resource planning and conservation from the University of Michigan in 1969, his M.S. in water resources planning in

He presently is engaged in a study of environmental decision-making in Michigan, as well as the development of a water pollution educational game. He serves as faculty advisor to ENACT, a student-community group concerned about environmental problems.

The recipient of two U of M scholarships, Dr. Swan also was given the Samuel Trask Dana Award in Conservation in 1967 and honoraries from Phi Sigma National Biological Sciences and Xi Sigma Phi National Forestry group.

Swim Club Elects New Officers

Northville Swim Club board elected Daniel J. Boland president at a meeting held last Monday at the home of Robert Regenhardt.

Other officers for the new season are Keith Wright, vice-president and membership chairman; Halton Axtell, secretary; David Biery, treasurer. L. M. Lancaster and C. Thomas Sechler are pool and equipment chairmen while Edward Kelly and Clifton Ubank arean -charge of grounds and maintenance. Robert Crane was named special activities chairman.

Tentative plans were made to have the pool open by Memorial Day weekend. The board is asking that club members contacted for pre-season help cooperate so that the pool can open on

The board also reports that at the annual meeting it was voted that club memberships may be sold only through the organization. Anyone in the area interested in belonging to the club is asked to call Wright at 349-9956.

Presbyterians Go to Chicago

Ten members of the Northville Presbyterian Men's Club attended the National Presbyterian Men's meeting at the Pick-Congress Hotel in Chicago last weekend.

Participating in the three-day meetings and discussions, which convened last Friday, were the Reverend Lloyd Brasure, pastor, Edwin Langtry, Philip Ogilvie, Jan Reef, Warren Stoddard, Philip Chase, Murl Lamb, Yorme (Ole) Sarto, Robert Kennedy and Frank Kastner.

At the conclusion, Mr. Brasure went north to Green Bay, Wisconsin, for a visit with his mother.

Wixom Assessments Hit Citizens Hard

'The buzzards came home to roost" Tuesday night on a Wixom property assessment that, according to City Assessor Robert Case, had been left virtually untouched since,1957.

More than 105 citizens came to complain, first to the Board of Review, whose meeting continued until well past midnight, and then to the city council about property assessment rates that in some cases skyrocketed 700 percent.

Case told citizens and councilmen that Wixom land had been appraised at 10, 20, and 30-percent of its true market value, that appraisal records had not been touched in nearly 14 years and that some pieces of property were credited with the same bills in 1970 as they were in 1957.

Commerical land, before reappraisal, had been assessed in the neighborhood of 30-percent true market value, and residential assessment had been as low as 20-percent or lower, according to Case.

Petitions Ready For School Posts

Although three incumbent members of the Novi Board of Education have made no formal announcements, indications are they will seek election at the annual school

Nominating petitions have been given to Trustees Claude Earl, Gilbert Henderson, and Jacob Durling.

Meanwhile, Superintendent Thomas Dale has announced that petitions are available at the board of education offices in the high school building on Taft road. Petitions, which must contain at least 20 signatures of registered voters, must be filed by 5 p.m. on May 14.

Three posts will be up for election

- two for four-year terms and one for a one-year term.

The latter is the post presently held by Durling, who was appointed to the board in January to fill the vacancy of former veteran trustee, Russell Taylor, who resigned. One year remains on Taylor's term, and to maintain a seat on the board Durling must seek election. He may choose, however, to run for a four-year term.

In connection with the upcoming April 19 millage election, the board Monday night formally named Mrs. Hilda Little. Mrs. RoseMarie Reske, Mrs. Mildred McHale, Mrs. Dorothy Steinberger, and Mrs. Sue Tafralian and election officers.

Novi Police Offer Second Talent Show

The second annual Novi Police Officers Association talent show is slated for 7 p.m. on the Novi High School stage tomorrow.

"I hope we can fill the auditorium," said Detective Sergeant Gordon Nelson. "We've really got some great acts this year.

"We've got a levitition act where the girl rises up in the air and her partner passes a hoop around her, we've got rock bands, county western acts, magicians . . . everything . . . it's going to be a great show." According to Nelson the show includes 15 acts and runs two-and-a-half hours.

Admission is $1 for students, $1.50 for adults, and $4 for a family ticket. Tickets can be purchased at the door or at the NPOA offices in the Voorheis and Cox building, 43034 Grand River.

Local Rotary Sees Bird Film Thursday

A color film, "The Purple Martin Story," will be presented to the Novi Rotary Club at their regular meeting Thursday noon at the County Kitchen Restaurant, Wixom Road and the I-96

The Wixom assembly plant, Case said in response to queries about its two-percent hike, was assessed last year at 42-percent of market value. "Their own people insisted that assessments be adjusted annually," Case said.

By state law, according to Case, property assessments may run as much as 50-percent of true market value and from this figure a factor is applied by county officials to arrive at the individuals tax hill.

"It's our assessments which have gone up," said Councilman Gunnar Mettala, who admitted that his house was underassessed, not our taxes."I have no assurance that our taxes will increase until I see the equalization factor."

Case noted that a reduction in the city's previous factor of 1.21 was likely, promising that, "should we not achieve a factor of one on a basis of our reappraisal, I'll be the first one in line to complain."

"We're all in the same boat," said Mayor Gilbert Willis, who also claimed his house was underassessed, "but this is not the place (council) for your appeal."

Willis urged citizens who were hurt by the assessment hike to write personal letters to state and county representatives.

"They don't listen to a body like us," Willis said. "They listen to the Schnelz referred to a bill mounted recently by State Representative Loren D. Anderson whose aim is to shift all school operating millage from property tax roles, thereby relieving the property tax of the single most expensive item in the state budget, and reducing fees paid by Michigan firms and homeowners 50 to 75-percent.

"You have to change the law legislatively," said Schnelz. "This is something that comes down from Washington, D.C. You just have to start at the lowest level and tell your representatives, 'no'."

As part of its business Tuesday night the council passed a resolution authorizing additional Board of Review

Council OK's Dance Hall

With one dissenting vote Monday night, Novi councilmen granted a use permit to Gabriel Glantz to operate a dance hall on his property at Novi Road and Lake Shore Drive.

Lone objection came from Councilman Edwin Presnell who balked on the question of Chapnam Street, a dedicated public right-of-way running southwest from Endwell parallel to East Lake Drive.

Presnell foresaw trouble should Glantz be allowed to operate "on top of a public street," although City Attorney Howard Bond assured councilmen that granting of the use permit in no way undercuts the city's right to vacate the street.

"If the muncipality wanted at any time to vacate that street," said Bond ". . . the fact we had granted the permit would in no way prejudice the city's right to do so."

The use permit will allow Glantz to hold dances and live entertainment on his property.

Prior to the council decision he held a permit to run an exhibit hall under which he could only hold shows of general display.

The exhibit hall permit is stili

Councilmen and police authorities have been fearful that crowds attending dances, live concerts, and other such functions would bring with them, an undesireable environment conducive to alcohol, illegal weapons and dangerous drugs.

"We will co-operate to the fullest extent with the police," said Glantz, "to prevent the possibility of any trouble occuring.

"The minute anything like that shows up" (drugs, alcohol, etc.) "you can be sure we will call the police."

Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole, a prime opponent of the dance hall application because of community security, was advised last week by Glantz that a private security firm had been hired to police the grounds during any function.

BeGole reluctantly approved the application with the provision that certain enforcement measures be followed.

Such measures were set down in a letter addressed to City Manager Dallas Zonkers. They included (1) adequate security personnel for policing traffic, parking and those attending any function; (2) the search of all those entering the premises, (both male and female;) (3) patrol of all parking areas; (4) an absolute ban on all alcohol, weapons, narcotics, and dangerous drugs; (5) provision that the security force work under the Novi police; and (6) that the security force report to Novi authorities.

"We don't have the manpower to waste," said BeGole, "Our citizens need more protection now than the community can afford to pay for. Glantz will have to hire his own men and make them responsible to us."

'Glantz adhered to the letter of the law," said Zonkers. "There was nothing the council could do except grant his license."

According to the council action, Glantz must present proof of liability insurance and file a renewed application specifically for a dance hall permit before the license can be issued. Glantz said Tuesday that his plans

NPOA Elects New Officers

Annual elections of the Novi Police Officers Association, (NPOA) held Saturday, saw a complete turnover of officials.

Ralph Fluhart was elected president: Jack Grubb, vice-president; Frank Barabas, secretary; Gerald Burnham, treasurer; and past president, Gordon Nelson, was named sergeant-at-arms.

NPOA officials are working with Detroit attorney, Harvey Wax, on the 1971-72 Police-City contract demands, according to Nelson.

for the area include an "antique showboutique shopping center, with a park-like shopping atmosphere."

Glantz said he was in the process of collecting bids from merchants to locate there, but noted that although architectural plans had been completed, no lease contracts had yet been drawn up.

Glantz said he was in the process of doing interior work on his main building and that he expected to book entertainment within a month.

School to Plan Bus Garage

Planning for a bus garage was given the green light Monday night by the Novi Board of Education, which authorized Trustee Jacob Durling to obtain a cost proposal for the project.

The bus garage was given the highest priority in discussion of such a facility versus a central storage building.

Trustees concluded that perhaps the bus garage should be built at the optimum size and, until it is fully utilized for buses, to use it temporarily as storage space as well.

Long range plans call for a bus garage, central storage space, and administrative offices.

A suggestion by Trustee Ray Warren that the school district's temporary classrooms might be pressed into service as administrative offices drew concurrence from other board members.

Warren noted that with the opening of the new middle school next fail, these temporary classrooms are not likely to be needed thus freeing them for other purposes.

Presumably, they could be used for storage as well. "It's the most enlightening idea

I've heard in a long time," said Dale, who indicated that the portable facilities could easily be converted for

According to Dale, the garage would be built north of the high school building, nearer the corner of Eleven and Taft roads.

Trustee Robert Wilkins cautioned the board not to encumber a bus garage cost at the expense of equipment for the middle and elementary schools now under construction. He was assured that money earmarked for equipment, especially for library books, will not be out last week at two sources of what he called "waste," and "futility."

Addressing a letter Friday to Kent Mathewson, president of Detroit's Metropolitan Fund, Crupi labeled the Fund's recently disclosed report on the feasibility of paired towns being linked between suburb and inner city, as "...an exercise in futility."

Quoting Detroit's Mel Ravitz, trustee of the fund, who charged that the report "contains much Utopian rhetoric, but which is not likely to succeed," Crupi thanked Mathewson for a complimentary copy of the plan received by the city and invited Fund representatives to meet with councilmen and explain Novi's role in the report.

Nine suburban areas are named by the report, which was assembled by Hubert Locke of Wayne State University, as potential sites which could be connected with redeveloped areas in the inner city by systems of rapid transport.

Novi was one of the nine

Crupi's second blast was leveled at Charles Holmes, county director of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity and was loaded with criticism of the OCCEO's 42-page monthly newsletter which had irked councilmen in the past with what they termed "pages and pages of junk." It

Novi Mayor Joseph Crupi lashed was in response to OCCEO's reply to Crupi's earlier letter.

> "The criticism that I expressed in behalf of my fellow councilmen," wrote Crupi in reference to a letter published in this paper January 21, "concerning the OCCEO's Newsletter, was to pinpoint what we thought to be a waste of manpower and money."

Crupi invited Holmes and his staff to meet with council "to enlighten us on the program with emphasis on the real accomplishments for the dollars

UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

OF NOVI
All members of the M.Y.F. from 7th to 12th grades are urged to attend a series of programs about drugs at 6:30 Sunday evenings. After the meetings they will have refreshments and recreation.

Wednesday evenings at 6:15 Lenten dinners are served. Participants are asked to bring a passing dish, table service and milk for their families. They are asked to help their hostesses by signing up on the sheet in narthex.

At 7 p.m. the Reverend Philip Seymour led a small groups seminar on "Reading the Bible." At 8 p.m. Chancel Choir rehearsal. There is still room in the choir loft and interested persons are asked to come and join in with preparation for Easter music.

Next Wednesday, March 31, Bob Lesinski from Grand Rapids will talk about the process problems and love of communication while leading in some joyous singing.

Next Sunday Sermon topic will be "Your Gifts".

Maundy Thursday, April 28, following the example of the ancient church, the Lord's Supper will be celebrated around the same tables that have been used for the Lenten fellowship meals.

At the past Sunday service the greeters were Mrs. George Atkinson and Mrs. Allyn Champion and the acolyte was Russell Button.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF NOVI

Scripture reading for last Sunday morning worship service was taken from Philippians 2:5-16. Special music was a song by Bernice Stewart who sang "That Day at Calvary." The Pastor's sermon was entitled "The Death of the Cross." Visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Jarrett and their daughter from Reidsville, North Carolina.

As a part of the evening service the women who attended the Winning Women Retreat presented some interesting facets from their trip.

The Vera Vaughn Circle met on March 16. The last two meetings have averaged about 22 in attendance. Names were drawn for secret prayer pals. The object is to remember this pal in prayer first, then send token gifts on birthdays and anniversaries. Letters were read from missionaries on foreign fields. Sewing turned in for missionary projects were 49 children's dresses, three shorts, and one receiving blanket. Further plans were made for the Fellowship dinner on March 28. An announcement was made that Mrs. Cook will have a baby shower for Lynn MacDermaid Schultz on April 2 at the parsonage. The shower is sponsored by the cradle Roll department.

On March 28 a Fellowship dinner will be held in Flint Hall as a farewell to the Robert Vaughns, missionaries to Africa. In July they will leave on a four-year term in Africa. The meal will follow immediately after the morning services. The meat and beverages will be furnished by the church. Other foods will be provided by the church families. Mrs. Leo Jude is in charge. All church folks are encouraged to stay for this.

On Wednesday evenings the pastor is presenting a Bible interpretation study. The present theme is Interpreting the Scriptures Dispensationally. Guests are welcome to bring their bibles and study with this group. Service begins at 7:30 p.m.

HOLY CROSS EPISCOPAL CHURCH MISSION

Holy Eucharist was celebrated on Sunday, March 21, using the new Liturgy. Glen Kundick and Randy Huber assisted Father Harding as Acolytes.

The Roaring Seventy meeting was canceled.

Flowers on the altar were placed there by Mr. and Mrs. George Athas in memory of Mrs. Athas' father, Walter Nowlind.

The perpetual light in the Sanctuary was the gift of Mr. Hyman

Tuesday, March 23 a special meeting was held for the Wayne District at All Saints Church on West Seven Mile road.

On Wednesdays until Easter Holy Eucharist will be held at 10:45 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. Following these services at 8 p.m. the Enquirer's class

Thursday (today), March 25, the Feast of Anunciation Holy Eucharist is planned at 10:45 a.m.

Saturday, March 27 at 9:30 a.m. the Junior Confirmation class will meet hat the church.

Anyone wishing flowers for Easter is asked to call Mrs. Alice Tank or sign up in the Narthex of the church.

Welcomed back to the church on Sunday were Mr. Frank Cousins, after a long illness and Mrs. Louis Tank.

NOVI REBEKAH LODGE NEWS

A sewing bee is being held at the Rebekah Hall on Mondays.

The I.O.O.F. meeting was held Tuesday, March 23, and the next Rebekah regular meeting will be held tonight (Thursday).

All members of the Lodge are urged to be present at the Initiation April 1st. Candidates will be initiated from Brighton, Belleville, Milford and Novi.

At the District meeting in Brighton Saturday, 15 members of Novi Lodge were present and approximately 200 from the District. A new assembly treasurer, Mildren Koebel of the Edgewood Lodge, was elected.

Novi Lodge assignment at the District meeting was to receive and present donations from the different Lodges to the president of the District. This money is to help build a new chapel at the boys and girls camp at Big Star Lake near Baldwin. Each Lodge committee had their money attached to a yellow rose as it was presented to the president.

The Grand Master and Assembly President and other assembly officers were present at the District meeting.

BLUE STAR MOTHERS

The next regular meeting of Novi Chapter 47, Blue Star Mothers, will be held at the United Methodist Social Hall in Willowbrook next Thursday, April 1 at 11 a.m. Members are asked to bring their own sandwich and table service. Mrs. Lucy Needham and Mrs.
Betty Sigsbee will be the hostesses.
Dessert and coffee and tea will be served. A card party is planned for May 19 at the Community Hall.

"LUNCH WITH THE EASTER BUNNNY" Circle April 3 (Saturday) on your calendar. That is an important date for youngsters in the Novi-Northville area to remember. The Easter Bunny will make an early appearance at the Novi Community Hall for the fourth annual "Lunch With the Easter Bunny" sponsored by the Novi Jaycee Auxiliary. Two lunches will be presented - at 11 a.m. and again at 1:15 p.m. Joining the Easter Bunny in entertaining the children during an enjoyable luncheon of hot dogs, soft drinks and cupcakes, will be Skip-it the Clown, who has made a big hit with the children in the Detroit area.

Children in the Novi elementary schools have been busy creating Easter theme posters that will be judged and prizes will be awarded to the winners at the luncheons.

The posters will be decorating the walls of the Community Hall so all will be able to see the art work of the youngsters. Posters will be picked up at the schools tomorrow March 26.

There is no age limit for children attending the luncheon, the auxiliary points out, but children under five are asked to bring an 'older friend' or adult. Parents will be able to take pictures of their children with the Easter Bunny. Favors for all the children attending the lunch are planned.

Tickets are 5 cents for children or adults. They may be obtained from ticket captains in the area: Orchard Hills — Mrs. Phyllis Cowden — 349-5569; Meadowbrook Glens — Mrs. Gwynne Cherfole — 349-7591; Willowbrook — Mrs. Thelma Morcus — 474-2122; Willowbrook — Mrs. Sharon Icenogle — 476-1120; Echo Valley — Mrs. Sandy Detlefs — 349-6898; Northville — Mrs. Deana Somers — 349-0675

NOVI BOY SCOUT TROOP No. 54

Novi Boy Scouts have been very busys for the past month. For their community project several of the boys sanded the pews in the United Methodist Church at Willowbrook. Several other boys did some work on their Scout bus.

Last week they worked hard to get their papers out of the barn where they were stored and packed in the truck which is now full.

The Court of Honor is coming up March 31st at the Novi Community Hall.

They also plan to have a camp out some time in April.

NOVI CUB SCOUTS PACK No. 54

In the month of March the Cub Scouts in their dens concentrated on their theme, "Cowboys and Indians." Their efforts certainly glowed as the display tables at the Pack meeting bore hand made artistic items such as—teepees, tomtoms, beads, drums, model villages and most of the leaders even managed to help their cubs with cowboy and Indian costumes and/or accessories. One even concentrated on cub silhouettes this month. All must be commended for a job well done.

The Cub Scout pack meeting was held March 19 and it marked the last meeting of the original Pack 54 before its three-way split. The leaders of the original Pack No. 54 who gave of their time and effort to make it the successful organization that it is are as follows: Cub Master, Richard Barbara; pack chairman, Arthur Neil; Pack Secretary, Mary Pazderski; Pack Treasurer, Richard Leppirt; Pack Public Relations man, Ronald Pazderski; Pack membership and Registration man, Leonard Gurka; Den Leader Coach and Publicity, Delores Laverty; Pack Advancement man, Mel Lindley; Institutional Representative, Richard Jensen. Den Mothers as follows: Den 1-Darlene Smith and assistant Elain Bischof; Den 2-Marie Grimm and assistant Marsha Barbara; Den 3-Delores Laverty; Den 4 - Dorothy Cain and assistant, Judith Leurch; Den 5-Dorothy Neil; Den 6-Susan Swan; Den 7-Wanda Discher, assistants Dorothy Peterson and Connie Darling; Den 8-Myrna Henderson, assistant Audrey Ortwine; Den 9-Emilie Jensen, assistant Marsella Petrix; Den 10 - Almyra Wysocki; Webloes -Richard Barbara, leader and Richard Jensen assistant.

Parents and cubs of Pack 54 have reaped many worth while happy memories during cubbing experiences, due directly or indirectly to these devoted leaders. A big thank you to all and good luck to all involved in the three-way split. Many received awards on that last meeting night. Trophies were presented to all the genius kit workers.

used except for equipment.

According to Dale, prudent investment of some $3.5 million in construction revenue will draw 7.5 percent interest. Nearly all of this interest money will be available for the bus garage, he indicated.

In a related discussion, Dale pointed out that it appears now that purchase of three or four new buses for the 1971-1972 school year will be necessary. However, he suggested a change in school starting times might permit more efficient use of present buses and thus cut down to perhaps two the number of additional buses required next fall.

Study of possible changes in school starting times will continue, he said.

In other business Monday, the board had a lengthy discussion with Edward Stulberg, vice-president of Kaufman & Broad, and then voted to proceed with the purchase of 10.2 acres from K & B at a cost of $6,000 per acre.

The discussion with Stulberg resulted from a misunderstanding of K & B's offer to sell, at its cost, the acreage located between Eight and Nine Mile roads, east of Meadowbrook. Stulberg noted that the offer provides that utilities will be extended to the school site when and if K & B develops adjacent property for housing.

Development, estimated Stulberg, should take place within two or three

The offer does not, as interpreted by Assistant Superintendent T. Richard Hendrickson, include K & B payment for school sewer and water taps.

Vote to purchase was opposed by Trustee Durling, who during the discussion suggested that K & B permit the school district to obtain an option to purchase at the $6000 per acre figure. Stulberg declined, suggesting instead that K & B would consider an option to sell at $5,000 per acre with the proviso that the district pay its prorata share of the utility development costs when purchase is consummated. Stulberg's counter offer was declined, however.

In still other business, the board opened bids on furniture for the new elementary school and awarded a contract for installation of a new boiler system at Novi Elementary School.

Six bids were received on the school furniture — not all of them on all of the furniture requested in bid specifications, however, They were referred to the superintendent for study and recommendation.

When it came to awarding the boiler contract, the board recessed to an executive session and then returned to vote unanimously in awarding the contract to Arctic Air, Inc. at a cost not to exceed $58,600 and to include an alternate.

Thirteen base bids had been received earlier, ranging from a high of $78,900 to a low of $57,600.

Concerning the bids, Dale had advised the board that "We have reviewed the bids and interviewed the three low bidders. The board of education should convene to executive session to review some details before public award of the contract takes place. We prefer the board know in detail each bid as a separate intent."

No other explanation was given for secret discussion of the matter.

A maternity leave of absence, effective June 14, was granted Mrs. Janith Rolston.

Trustee Warren was authorized to assist Superintendent Dale in coming up with a proposal for the repair or reconstruction of the high school parking lot.

In a related matter, the board took under advisement a suggestion by Trustee Durling that students be considered for hire, working under adult supervision, to perform much of the landscaping to be required on some 20 to 25 acres of middle school land.

Cost of the project by professional landscapers has been estimated at $700 per acre or approximately $17,500.

In Novi . . .

Eleven thermo pane windows, valued at $280, were stolen Thursday or Friday from Practical Development's apartment construction site on Old Orchard Road, north of 10 Mile, police report.

The theft was reported by Lester Hutchins, a superintendent for the project, who stated that the grounds had been unattended between 5:30 p.m. Thursday and 10:50 a.m. Friday.

Five witnesses, according to police, observed three thieves take $180 worth of magnesium wheels and rear tires from a car parked at 1540 West Lake Drive Thursday night.

Arrested in the incident were John W. Brewer, 18, of 29825 Beck Road in Wixom, his 16-year-old brother, and Randell Lee Kidd, 19, of 1508 LeBenta, Novi.

Kidd and the elder Brewer were scheduled for preliminary examination Monday. Brewer's younger brother was lodged in the Oakland County junvenile home.

John McGuire, 240 Orchard Drive in Northville, owner of the Guernsey Dairy, was the victim of a break-in at his business Saturday or Sunday, in which a stereo radio/phonograph and Belonging to Donald Kerutis of 40551 Rockhill, the car had been towed to the service station following an accident early in February.

Novi police arrested two people this past week for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Arrested Thursday morning at Grand River and Haggerty Road, was a 23-year-old Union Lake man, Raymond Ralph Woodbeck.

Marie Elizabeth Morrison, 47753 West Seven Mile, was stopped Monday on Novi Road, taken to Northville for a breathalizer test and lodged in Oakland County Jail, according to reports.

Woodbeck pled guilty to Judge Martin Boyle Thursday, and surrendered his license. He was fined $129, according to police, who noted that it was his second conviction in two years.

A 24-year-old Novi man, Columbus Ousley, 43466 Fonda, pled not guilty Thursday before Judge Martin Boyle to charges of assault and battery brought by Daniel Dequet of Livonia.

Charges resulted from an incident which occured late in February in front of the Novi Inn, Grand River and Novi Road, in which Dequet was allegedly hit in the eye by Ousley.

Trial was set for next Thursday in the 52nd District Court.

Novi Detective Gordon Nelson is seeking extradition from Lexington, Kentucky of a 19-year-old Milford girl, Susan M. Barbey.

The Barbey girl is suspected by local police of passing forged checks in the area but is being held by Lexington authorities on charges of grand larceny.

Mrs. Therese Rester, 1903 Novi Road, pled not guilty before Judge Martin Boyle Thursday to charges of being a disorderly person and was released in $100 bond pending trial set for next Thursday.

According to Novi patrolman Gerald Burnham, Mrs. Rester made threatening remarks concerning a Walled Lake school bus driver and physically blocked the road Thursday afternoon preventing the vehicle from making its regular rounds.

The incident took place, according to Burnham, at 13 Mile and Endwell as the bus driver, Mrs. Geraldine Johnson, was taking children from school.

Reportedly, Mrs. Rester, "didn't like the way her children were being handled."

Novi Corporal Robert Starnes is scheduled to deliver a talk on the effects of dangerous drugs before Novi Methodist Church members Sunday.

Starnes spoke last week before children in the Orchard Hills Elementary School and Lake Orion's Carpenter Elementary School.

In Wixom . . .

A bomb threat was received last week Tuesday by officials of the Wixom office of Fidelity Bank of Michigan.

A phone caller told bank officials that explosives within the bank would be detonated if they didn't leave all "the money in the vault and teller's windows" in a certain spot, according to police reports.

Wixom police were called immediately. They searched the grounds and building thoroughly, according to acting chief Larry Beamish, but found nothing.

State and federal agencies are assisting Wixom authorities in further investigations.

A Milford man, Harry Foster, reported Friday the theft of two wooden side-racks from his truck as it was parked in the lot adjoining the Red Oaks bar on Wixom Road.

The theft occured, according to reports, between 10:45 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Loss was estimated at some $75.

Warrants are being sought by Wixom police against Clarence Young, a Detroit man employed at Wixom's Ford assembly plant, alleged assault against Louis Cloetens, a supervisor at the plant.

Charges come from an incident Friday, in which Young allegedly struck Cloetens in the face following an argument between the two.

An 18-year-old Wixom youth, Randall Guthrie of 3875 West Maple Road, and a 16-year-old male companion, were arrested Sunday morning on charges of being minors in possession.

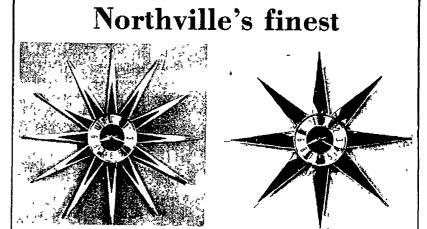

The two were stopped at 12:50 for a defective equipment violation on South Wixom Road. Police said they were observed to have open beer in the car.

Guthrie was slated to appear before Judge Martin Boyle in the 52nd District Court today.

Bob Hall, 38, of Ann Arbor was arraigned Monday in the 52nd District Court on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and possession of marihuana, according to police.

Hall was released on a $2,500 personal bond to appear for preliminary examination on April 2.

Trustee Speaks Out

the law, and that the board cannot take the action he wants," she emphasized. "If the make-up of the board is to change it will be up to the electorate or the courts to make that decision - not the board of trustees."

A one-man, one vote ruling in Schoolcraft's case also would affect other community college districts in Michigan, Mrs. Moehle noted.

Meanwhile, Boswell not only has absented himself from board meetings but he also has secreted himself from many of his constituents, refused to talk with the press, and he has ignored official and unofficial inquiries from the board, college administrators, and students.

His telephone is unlisted, and he does not respond to visits to his Livonia home. Nor did he respond publicly months ago when students picketed his home.

Thursday afternoon, however, he broke the year-long silence by telephoning this newspaper at the request of a third party to say that he has no intention of returning to the board, will not seek re-election when his six-year term expires in June, and that he is prepared "soon" to challenge the make-up of the Schoolcraft board

Until this newspaper spoke with Boswell, his fellow members on the board had not seen any written remarks or heard of any comments from him since he left the board, according to Secord.

"We were beginning to wonder if he was even alive or, if he was, if he had moved from the district," he said. Secord, together with The Record, had tried unsuccessfully to reach Boswell several months ago.

Secord is more outspoken than Mrs. Moehle on Boswell's absentism. He noted that Boswell ran for the office, knowing full well the make-up of the board and then served nearly five years before suddenly deciding apparently that he could not in good faith "sit at the same table with us."

For a year prior to "leaving," said Secord, "he had very poor attendance probably not much more than 50 percent. Obviously, he didn't care much about serving the people who elected him. His action seems a little childish to me."

A move from the district would sever his board connection, but Boswell told The Record that he is still a resident of Livonia and has been since he last attended a board meeting.

He is aware, as are fellow board members, that his absentism, under the law governing community colleges, does not invalidate his position on the board, and he knows the board cannot legally remove him from office because of his long absence.

When Boswell absented himself, the board sent him an official letter asking about his absence and suggesting, indirectly, that should he elect not to return he should resign so that someone else could be elected to the post, said Mrs. Moehle.

"He never replied to that letter," she said.

Asked why he had made himself inaccessible, Boswell said it was to "avoid harrassment." He was harrassed, he said, for a number of reasons, one being his liberal philosophy on academic freedom. "I didn't want to get embroiled in that."

He has refused to talk to the press, he said, because "all they would do is twist the facts and try to give me a bad name. That's probably what you will do with what I'm saying now. I'll talk to you only because Jeaneane (Jeaneane Haystad, who represents the New Democratic Coalition of Livonia) asked me to call.

"I don't need publicity and I don't that he is not teaching although he serves as a "visiting scholar" at U-M.

Boswell has not lost any of his dislike for fellow board members personally and professionally. They have a "small town provincial outlook" that is reprehensible, he declared. They continue to be "totally negligent," he continued, and by taking actions involving taxpayers' money and by appointing a new president, they make a good case for "malpractice and malfeasance in office."

His charges are based, he explained, on the fact that they take such actions while they are "illegally constituted."

"What's happened," he said, "is that a smaller community, such as Plymouth, got a foothold early after the college was formed and as a result the Plymouth type of provincial thinking governs it (the board). They hire the kind of people who have the same narrow outlook on life and education that they themselves have.

People in Livonia are really getting the ream-out. They pay the most taxes (to support Schoolcraft) and they have the least representation on the board."

Livonia taxpayers, he said, "shouldn't have to pay a cent until the one-man one vote becomes a reality."

Told that Mrs. Moehle has stated that if a citizen or a group of citizens wish to test in court the constitutionality of the board make-up the board stands willing to cooperate with that move, Boswell warned, 'Don't even talk about her to me; she's worse than all of them."

"Unless they (the board) are willing to finance a court case, as they should, then I don't want their help," he continued. "I don't need it. If they will pay for it (court test) they know my address; all they have to do is write

That the current state law supports present representation on the board is meaningless, according to Boswell. More important, he said, are the supreme court decisions relative to board make-up. In particular, in a Missouri case involving a junior college district the supreme court ruled that all governmental bodies including school boards must adhere to the one-man, one vote principle, he said.

Boswell concludes from this ruling that Schoolcraft College must be elected from districts of nearly equal populations. He said he would not be satisfied if all representatives on the college board were elected at large, although he believes this kind of procedure would be far better than the present setup.

Mrs. Moehle concedes that a court test could be made out of the situation in the Schoolcraft District, but she pointed out that Boswell's reference to the Supreme Court case is misleading since there are differences between the Missouri junior college district and the Schoolcraft district.

In line with Boswell's position on the board make-up, a "Legal Fund Raising" buffet - cocktail hour has been slated for Friday. March 26 at 38561 Grennada in Livonia to cover the cost of seeking "injunctive relief, up to the Supreme Court, if necessary, to force reappointment of Schoolcraft Community College's Board of Trustees on a one-man, one

Asked if this project meant he is now working withothers on this matter, Boswell replied, "Not exactly." He did not elaborate, although he emphasized that his personal efforts are being fortified and that the public could expect a court battle soon. In a communication to the college board several weeks ago, Neil DeStigter, chairman of the NDCL. contended the "present composition of unbalanced districts to this board of trustees is unconstitutional, and grossly unfair to Livonia voters who comprise more than half of the college district, both in population and school-age enrollment.'

The communication outlined several steps taken by Boswell to date:

1. Wrote to the president of the State Board of Education and to the chairman of the state board's public community and junior colleges, questioning the constitutionality of the SCC board make-up.

He received a reply in which it was stated that the SCC board is "in accord with Act 331 of the Public Acts of 1966; and, more specifically, with Section 34 of that Act."

2. Wrote to legislators, governor and to Senator Phillip Hart.

Hart responded with a note, giving the reply of Dr. John W. Porter, then acting superintendent of public instruction. That reply said in part:

"Mrs. Moehle attended the September 18-19 meeting of the State Board for Public Community Colleges in which this matter was discussed. Staff informed both Mrs. Moehle and the (state) community college board that Representative Marvin R. Stempien has asked the Attorney General's office for an opinion on the one-man, one vote principle and its applicability to Schoolcraft College. The (state) community college board encouraged the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees to supply the Attorney General's office with an additional background information deemed pertinent to the case.

"The Department of Education and Schoolcraft College are waiting for, the Attorney General's opinion on this issue. If the current procedures for electing board of trustees are found to be unconstitutional, we strongly support the amending of the current statute at the beginning of the 1971 legislative session.'

As of early this week no opinion of the Attorney General had been

Two to Get Eagle Awards

Two Northville boys will receive Scouting's highest honor Monday night when Troop 731 meets for the last time under sponsorship of the Northville Methodist Church.

Receiving the Eagle award will be Rene VanEe and Robert J. Bloomhuff.

Other Scouts also will be cited following the 6:30 potluck dinner in a Court of Honor at the VFW hall in Northville.

On April 1, the VFW post here will formally assume the sponsorship of the troop which has been sponsored by the Methodist Church since February, 1955. The church was forced to give up its sponsorship because of its recent move to new quarters, and the VFW post has volunteered to assume this responsibility.

With the change on April 1, the troop will thereafter go by the same troop number held by the Cub Scouts already sponsored by the VFW.

Clerk Hammond noted that about $13,000 of the fire fund soon would be spent to pay the township's half of the new fire engine acquired jointly with

It was also reported that $6,654.02 had been paid from the capital improvement for architectural services for a proposed township hall-fire station complex. Supervisor Stromberg said the committee working on this project would recommend a site on Six Mile Road near Bradner.

The supervisor noted that an additional fire station in the township's southeastern section was needed. And he pointed out that if the city is successful in completing the proposed Northville Square commercial development at Main and Wing streets the township will be faced with a need for new office facilities.

In other business the board again adopted the second Tuesday of each month as the regular meeting night with sessions scheduled for 8 p.m. at the township hall. Manufacturers National Bank, Northville office, was designated as the depository for township funds, although Trustee Schaeffer abstained in this vote.

A letter from Chamber of Commerce President Arthur Jahn was read asking the township to exert its influence to improve dangerous traffic conditions at the intersection of Seven Mile and Northville roads. Supervisor Stromberg stated that he had contacted the county and was hopeful that a traffic light would be installed at the intersection-railroad crossing.

The board turned over a request from Oasis Golf Club for a class C liquor license (service by the glass) to Police Chief Ron Nisun for examination and recommendation. The business is located on Five Mile near Haggerty.

Dr. Hunt Gets School Post

A six month search has ended with the appointment of Dr. Paul R. Hunt of Northville, as the new superintendent of the Westwood Community Schools.

Dr. Hunt, a unanimous choice of the Board of Education, will assume his duties on July 1, 1971, and will replace George McGuire who has been superintendent since July 1, 1970.

The forty-six year old superintendent-elect brings with him 22 years of experience in public education, ranging from elementary to secondary and post-secondary positions, and including adult education, special education and vocational education. He has gained a full range of experience through 15 years spent in the Detroit Public School System and most recently five years as the dean of occupational studies at Washtenaw Community College in Ann Arbor.

During the past six years Dr. Hunt

has also served as guest and visiting lecturer at numerous universities including Ohio State University, Wayne State University, The University of Michigan and Michigan State. He is a well-published author of many articles and papers on the subjects of special education, vocational education and concerns of urban schools. Dr. Hunt, a graduate of Detroit Central High School, earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from Wayne State University after serving three years in flying combat with the United States Air Corps during World War II. He was awarded his doctorate from Wayne State in 1963.

Since 1950 Dr. Hunt has served as a training officer in the United States Air Force Reserve. He currently holds the rank of lieutenant colonel.

All of Dr. Hunt's teaching and administrative experiences have been in urban, bi-racial settings. His administrative experiences have been broad and comprehensive, including program implementation, school finance, personnel management, school plant management, state and federal relations and public relations.

He began his teaching career in the Detroit public schools as a classroom teacher, later to become a counselor, principal and research director. In 1965 he was assigned as divisional director of Federal Programs for Detroit Public

In his new position as superintendent of Westwood Community Schools Dr. Hunt will direct the education of the District's 5,000 students in eight schools. The district includes parts of Dearborn Heights and Inkster.

Dr. Hunt and his wife, Mary Ann, reside in Northville at 46957 Curtis with their two children, Bonnie, 16, and Joel, 10.

New Station Opens Here

A South Lyon resident, Thomas Hilkey, is the owner of Northville's newest service station.

The facility, Shell station, located at the corner of Seven Mile and Northville Road, represents a continuation of the service station business for Hilkey.

"I've been in it most of my life," he explained "My dad owned two stations, one in Detroit and another in Dearborn Township and I worked in both of them."

Hilkey is married and has four sons aged between 11 and 19.

He spent the last seven years as a pattern maker in the Detroit area working for "a variety of different manfacturers making patterns for automobile parts."

Born and raised in Detroit, Hilkey lived for a number of years in the Livonia area.

He and his family moved to South Lyon last year, and they now live at 10858 Rushton Road.

throughout the state and nation as well," Spear said. Michigan is only one of 38 states that is looking at year-round education. Alaska and Arizona, at opposite ends weatherwise are also studying the extended school year, he said. "This community is by no means alone in its search for solutions to the problems of an expanding community and rising costs of education," the superintendent said.

"We know an extended school year in some form will improve educational opportunity for children and we know it would save millions of tax dollars in construction and interest

WELCOME SPRING"...

It is not the variegated colors, the cheerful sounds and the warm breezes which enliven us so much in spring; it is the quiet prophetic spirit of endless hope, a presentiment of many happy days, the anticipation of higher everlasting blossoms and fruits, and the secret of sympathy with the world that is developing

Today's Weddings Don't Look or Sound Like Mother's Ceremony

by JEAN DAY

When a bride walks up the aisle of one of the area's churches today, chances are that she will have had a greater hand in the wedding arrangements than did her mother two dozen years ago.

A growing number of, but by no means all, brides are choosing the wording of their vows and the details of the service - in cooperation with their pastor or priest. In an effort to make the exchanging of vows "most meaningful" to the participants the clergy is working with young people who express such an interest (and, they note, it's usually the bride who seeks this ceremony).

Two dozen years ago, the mother of the bride of today did bring a post-World War II innovation that is standard now - the double wedding ring.

Most of the concern of the bride of the 1940's or 50's, however, was in the bridal attire and flowers. She really did not have today's more relaxed attitude of the church in permitting variation in the

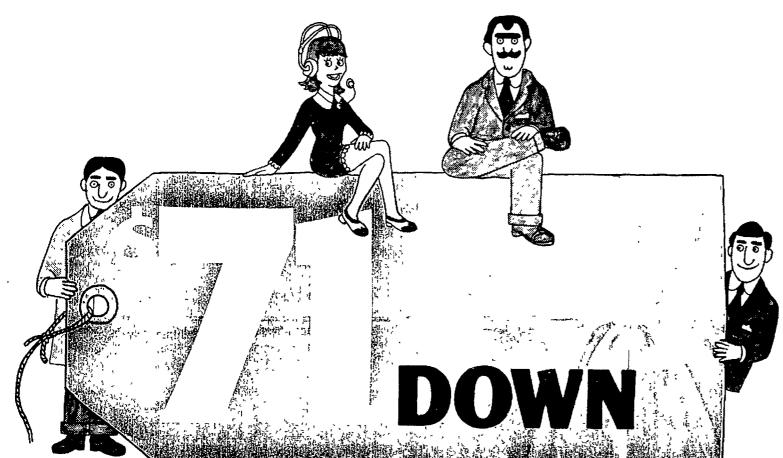

Today's bride also is interested in the church flowers and clothes of the wedding party, too. Her gown may be a trend-setting midi length, a pantsdress or a classic Grecian line that she designed and made herself. More and more brides whose weddings have been reported in our papers have been making their gowns, but usually choosing traditional or Victorian designs.

It has been in the gowns of the bridal attendants that there is greatest variety today. They've gone to full-skirted, peasant looks in bright splashes of color.

There always have been "freak" weddings that make newspaper headlines as couples exchange vows under water or in Kennedy Square. For many such couples the sentiment lies in making their hobby or the place they met the setting for the ceremony, rather Hakoshima, the only Japanese performing pantomime in the Western world, will be on stage at Stevenson High on March 31.

Hakoshima's repertory includes numbers which embody humor, pathos, frustration, grandeur and a symbolic struggle for freedom. One reviewer wrote, "he encourages an almost imperceptible energy to burgeon and gain momentum until he seems to throb with life-action."

In addition to his performance Hakoshima will, if requested, give a lecture-demonstration of his art form. There is no admission charge for the event which is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Campus Talk Tonight

Dick Gregory, the comedian author - lecturer - actor, will speak at Schoolcraft College in Livonia tonight (Thursday).

His appearance is sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee, which has announced the lecture will be held in the main gymnasium to accommodate an anticipated large audience.

A leading voice in the movement for racial equality and social justice, Gregory is a popular campus personality. He has gained the ear and affection of audiences from Florida to New York, from Kentucky to Colorado.

Gregory is described as "a man with a message - a message of freedom and equality not only for the Negro, but for the entire human race." He is a soldier at war against hate and bigotry.

According to his press information, Gregory has spent more time in Southern jails, marched in more demonstrations, prevented more racial violence and worked harder for the rights of the Negro than any other entertainer in America.

BETWEEN NOW AND MAY 1 OUR HOUSES WILL BE ABOUT $3,000 EASIER TO LIVE WITH.

Because we're having a sale. Which can save you anywhere from $1,500 to $3,000 on a new Thompson-Brown home. That's quite a lot of money. Quite a lot of homes, too. Let's see. There are four Thompson-Brown subdivisions involved. Northville Commons, Lexington Commons, Wedgwood Commons and Independence Commons. The average number of lots available in each subdivision is about 120. Which means our little sale involves almost 500 brand-new Thompson-Brown homes. And all kinds of home styles-colonial, tri-level, quad-level, ranch and luxury ranch. And all kinds of prices-ranging from about $40,000 to about $70,000. And all with savings of at least $1,500. And in many cases, as much as $3,000.

Enough to buy carpeting for the entire first floor. Or to have central air conditioning put in. Or to get a ping-pong table, a new refrigerator, a color TV, a pedigreed Irish wolfhound, a tandem bicycle, six electric blankets, and a pair of jogging shoes.

Enough money to justify a closer look at a few Thompson-Brown communities. But don't wait too long. The fun only lasts till May 1st. If you miss it, you can kiss those jogging shoes goodbye.

Northville Commons: 6 Mile Road, 1 mile west of Haggerty, Northville Township (476-4848). Lexington Commons: 8 Mile and Taft Roads, Northville (477-4220). ### Today's Weddings Look and Sound Different than having religious significance for the participants.

NEW MEANING

This new movement to make weddings more relevant finds young couples writing their own services with many of the ceremonies taking place on college campuses where a growing number of middle class youths, according to reports, are seeking to make their marriages less traditional and intensely personal.

Many are of mixed religions and are combining different faiths. Ministers who officiate at the new marriages, most frequently on the East and West coasts in the cases of the least traditional among the "street people," see them as part of the "do your own thing" philosophy. One San Francisco minister expressed amazement that there is a movement toward marriage among hippies. They are starting a 'new kind of meaningful commitment."

Far from acceptable in the Midwest, however, would be such changes as one in New York where, a newspaper reports, the wording was "as long as we both shall love" instead of the "till death do us part" absolute vow. These youths are not willing to make vows they're not sure they'll be able to keep.

"The new wedding is more a ceremony to confirm what a couple has found by living together rather than to make promises about what they hope will happen," the Reverend William Glenesk of the Spencer Memorial Church in Brooklyn, New York, is quoted as explaining.

The minister who married Tiny Tim and Miss Vicki on television last year feels that "everything is sacred We're exploring new feelings, new vibrations. The kids want something with real meaning."

LOCAL CHANGES

While Northville, South Lyon and Novi brides are far from seeking such offbeat ceremonies, they are in several instances working with their clergyman to individualize the service.

The Reverend Timothy Johnson, assistant pastor of Northville First Presbyterian Church, notes that he has had couples concerned with the wording of their yows.

In a recent ceremony, he recalls, the bride used parts of the more traditional ceremony and also from the contemporary-language provisional Book of Worship issued by the Presbyterian Church in 1970.

She also included two readings from Kahlil Gibran's "The Prophet."

PROPHET OUOTED "The Prophet," of course, is not the discovery of today's young, but has been read by the young since its first publishing in 1927. In the chapter On Marriage he

"You were born together, and together you shall be forevermore... But let there be spaces in your togetherness, And let the winds of the heavens dance between you. Love one another, but make not a bond of love: Let it rather be a moving sea between the shores of your souls.

In the chapter On Love he writes: "Love possesses not nor would it be possessed; for love is sufficient unto love. When you love you should not say, 'God is in my heart,' but rather, 'I am in the heart of God." and think not you can direct the course of love, for love, if it finds you worthy, directs your course."

Mr. Johnson points out that while his church is pleased to have brides who wish to make their ceremonies more meaningful, the service must remain in balance with church

The Reverend Guenther C. Branstner of Northville First United Methodist Church states that the Methodist service was changed two years ago when the Evangelical Church and Methodist united. The ceremony was lengthened to include the phrase, "If any man may show just cause..." (He mentions that most couples expect this phrase, as a result of its popularity in films and stories).

Brides, he adds, who wish to lengthen the ceremony are free to include Scripture readings. Often selected, he says, is Chapter Five, lines 22-23, of Paul's writings in Ephesians in the New Testament of the Bible.

A ritual that has gained popularity within his church (with one bride adapting it from another) is a lighting ceremony at the conclusion of the

Two smaller candles have been burning on the altar during the service There is a larger, unlit candle in the middle. At the conclusion, the couple lights the center candle from the side ones, snuffing them out, thus symbolizing that "two have become

Father John Wyskiel of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church agrees that there are changes in the Nuptial Mass, too. (Twenty-five years ago Catholic brides were married before noon and did not schedule the ceremony during Lent, as is possible today.)

He terms the ceremony "an exchange of consent in which one take the other to love and honor all the days of my life."

The participation of parents, or even of the entire family, has been done in the area, Father Wyskiel points

In a recent Walled Lake ceremony the bride was accompanied to the altar by both her parents where she was joined by the bridegroom and his parents for the Mass.

Father Wyskiel says he also has had ceremonies in which the entire family of the participants, including brothers and sisters and parents and grandparents, gathers at the altar. NO 'OBEY'

Contrary to common belief, neither Father Wyskiel nor the protestant ministers contacted could find the word "obey" in ceremonies used today. The Women's Liberation Movement doesn't have to emancipate today's bride - she hasn't been promising to obey at all.

Even the 1904 book of common prayer consulted by Mr. Branstner, "obey" wasn't included in the service.

In traditional services, couples promise to love and honor and give duty and service.

Even in contemporary language, the wording usually is "I promise with God's help to be your loving and faithful wife (or husband.)"

The 1970 Presbyterian Book of Worship has omitted the question of "who giveth this woman?" in the ceremony. It can be included, at the wish of the participant, with the father often now responding, "Her mother

DECORATIONS

The inside of the church may be filled with bouquets of fragrant lilacs, as in a Methodist spring ceremony last year, or flowers may be used to provide a symbol, as those that made a large cross for the altar at a recently reported wedding.

The church was hung with banners (resembling those in medieval churches) decorated with peace symbols at a Lutheran campus church ceremony in which the couple wrote part of the service, reflecting their strong dedication to their beliefs

BOUQUETS

The flowers carried by the bride and her attendants today often vary from the traditional spray and not always are white. The local bride who decorated the church with lilacs also carried them

To complement the popular Victorian gown, brides have been choosing tight, round nosegay bouquets. Smaller flowers - baby's breath, rosebuds, tiny carnations are used. Not too frequently is a wedding reported in which the bridal bouquet is centered with an orchid. This used to be almost standard with the bride later removing it to wear as her going-away corsage.

Bridesmaids have been carrying quaint baskets or muffs to which nosegays are pinned. In a winter wedding written up in this newspaper the bridal attendants each carried a single, long-stemmed rose tied with a narrow velvet streamer ribbon.

GOWNS CHANGE

A major trend for spring and summer wedding gowns, reported by the J. L Hudson Company, is the "peasant" look of puffed sleeves, shepherdess scoop necklines and embroidery and even rickrack and smocking.

Instead of extending into a traditional chapel or cathedral train as did the slipper satin gown her mother wore, the gown of today's bride in peasant mood ends just above little sandals.

The heavy satin gown with rows of buttons extending down from a sweetheart neckline isn't seen in the 1970's... unless a daughter follows a family tradition and sentimentally wears a family gown.

In addition to the new peasant-look and the Victorian high-neckline gowns many local brides have chosen the Juliet look with gowns with wide-belling sleeves and wide-banded, high waistlines.

Greatest change has come about in the attendants' gowns as pastels have given way to deep hues - winter green velvet and now spring navy. The department store advocating the peasant look for a spring bride shows bright, splash printed gowns for the bridesmaids. These often have the laced waistband and white full-sleeved

While changes may be hard for some parents to accept, the weddings still are anticipated, festive occasions that the couple may feel are "totally

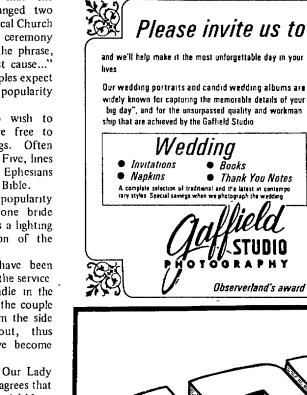

It won't be quite as bad as one far-out eastern ceremony where, at the conclusion, the bride's mother is said to have sighed and murmured, "Well, at least she's married. I think."

Saving cold cash on winter heating is more than just a figure of speech — you could be paying for more cold than is necessary. Insulation saves you heating dollars by slowing down the rate of heat that's escaping to the outside and providing resistance to the flow of cold air entering your home. In fact, Insulation can reduce your heating bill substantially (in many cases as much as one-third). To get the complete story on how insulation can save you cold cash and at the same time increase your personal comfort, mail the attached coupon and we'll send you our FREE Gas Heating Insulation Facts Bulletin.

Baseball Looks Up

Novi Coach Eyes Crown

Take a young Class "C" school such as Novi, toss it into the middle of the "B" school league such as the tough Southeastern Conference, stir it up with a coach who is entering his second year as a varsity mentor and you might expect a concoction that spells trouble.

But if you're Wildcat Coach Fred Gerhardt you look at the upcoming baseball season a little differently.

"Sure we've got a lot of holes to fill in our line-up," the coach remarked Friday, "but we've got a lot of talent to fill them up with, too."

Not only is Gerhardt confident he can put together a polished nine, but he's looking for something even better. "I think we'll be in contention for the title right beside Lincoln which won it last season."

If Gerhard's hunch stands up, he will have squeezed an extra effort out of a young team that last year managed to win only four games while losing 14.

The coach is quick to point out that last year was the team's first in the field. This year the team has the experience gained from the 1970 losing season.

Lending credence to Gerhardt's contention, too, is the fact that the team is packed with either varsity or

Pancakes Top Dinner

A dinner to appeal to any member of the family is being planned by the Novi Athletic Boosters Club on April 2, Mrs. William McGarry, publicity chairman, announced this week.

Tickets for the benefit pancake supper are on sale now and may be purchased from N Club members, at the Novi Party Store, or at the door the night of the dinner.

Featured, of course, will be pancakes with sausage--"all you can eat"---along with syrup, butter, milk and coffee. The dinner will be served from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at the Novi High School.

Dinner tickets are 75-cents for students through the 12th grades, with adult tickets set at $1.50. In addition, the Boosters are offering a special family plan, with parents arriving together with all of their children paying a flat $5.

Seniors Beef up Tennis Squad This is the year for the Northville tennis team. That, at least is the opinion of tennis coach Bob Simpson. It is an opinion that is shared by team

"The league won't be as tough this year," says Simpson. "All of the other schools lost all their good players through graduation and we have as good a shot at the title as anyone."

co-captains Bill Pink and Curt Saurer.

"This has got to be the year for us," Simpson continues. "We have a predominately senior team this year, and if we don't go all the way now it will probably be a couple of years before our freshman and sophomore prospects have the experience to make another bid for the championship."

The Wayne-Oakland league tennis picture is crowded with contenders for the top spot. West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Hills, Clarkston, and Northville are all expecting to emerge as the number one team.

Spearheading Northville's chances will be Pink and Saurer. Pink will hold down the number one singles position, while Saurer will probably perform in doubles competition.

Potentially Pink is one of the league's top singles players. "There's a guy from Clarenceville named Seloc, who beat me a couple of times last year," he says, "and Clarkston has a player who I tied with, but I'm confident about this season, both for myself and the team."

Whereas Pink's game centers around his strong service, Saurer offers his opponents quite a different problem. "I'm a left-handed player," he says, "and that throws a lot of guys off stride. They get used to hitting the ball to the other players' backhand, but to me that's a forehand shot and they end up playing to the best part of my

In league play a meet is comprised of three singles matches and two doubles matches. Thus a total of seven players are necessary to have a strong team from top to bottom, and Simpson feels that his team will indeed have good depth.

Returning from last year's team are Bob Norton and Bob Beurkens. Both Norton and Beurkens saw action in doubles competition last year and there is a good chance that the pair will be teamed up again during the current campaign to form the number two doubles squad.

Two seniors, Steve Penrod and Bill Puckett, and a junior, Gary Allen are expected to be the major contenders for the remaining three positions Although Simpson emphasized that final pairings have not been set, Allen

SPEAKING r The Record

By BILL SLIGER

The true value of a possession is never completely realized until someone else expresses an interest in it.

That's the story of the five vacant buildings at the Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon road.

They've been unused and slowly deteriorating for nearly two years now.

But Monday morning a majority of the members of the Health, Education and Welfare committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners decided the buildings were too valuable to permit their use by any other unit of government.

The sudden interest in the Child Development Center came about as the result of a request from the Michigan State Police to lease two of the vacant buildings for a state police post and crime laboratory.

The oratory by Commissioners Young, Zak, Silver and Mrs. Robinson was most impressive. With but a few notable exceptions it would be impossible to argue with their position, which proclaimed that:

-A Child Development Center is for children;

-It's better to train children at such a center than to send them to Jackson prison;

-the county should be certain it has no need for such facilities before renting to someone else;

-the county is spending money in the wrong places and should spend more for rehabilitation and education of children;

-the Child Development Center should be expanded, not phased out;

—the need for youth detention homes would diminish if child development centers were expanded.

So the committee decided to defer any decision on renting buildings to the state police until it can be determined what use the county can make of the facilities.

The committee promised state police officials an answer "within 60 days".

If such an examination and reappraisal is made within 60 days, the taxpayers of Wayne county ought to send a letter of commendation to the state police for the attention it has focused on ' the Child Development center.

Meanwhile, some rebuttal should be offered to several other arguments set forth by some of the commissioners.

Commissioner Young, for example, declared that it would be serious traumatic experience for youngsters at the center to be exposed to policemen. He said most of them have had bad experiences with the police and mistrust them and that the presence of policemen near the school would be harmful.

I'm not a child psychologist, but one avenue to explore in correcting this condition would seem to me to be an exposure to police...an opportunity for the youngster and the officer to become better acquainted and perhaps learn that "cops aren't bad guys".

The state police, themselves, have promoted this approach through recreational programs and classroom demonstrations. Who could say that a youngster educated at the Child Development Center might not one day become a state trooper himself?

Secondly, Commissioner Young suggested that he would oppose an expansion of the state police and a reduction in sheriff patrol service.

Expansion of the state police is not a consideration here. It is simply a matter of relocation.. moving a post from its over-crowded location to a site closer to the area it serves.

And as for the sheriff's department, the county has already declared it cannot provide the funds necessary to patrol out-county areas adequately. And if the HEW committee would prefer to spend more money for child development than for law enforcement and detention, where would it acquire the funds to expand the sheriff's Finally, it is clearly evident to commissioners and public alike that a program to expand the Child Development Center facilities through hiring of more teaching professionals, rehabilitation of old and construction of new buildings will take time and money. At best, several years are involved.

Meanwhile, why not a short-term lease, perhaps three years, during which time the buildings could be repaired and made useful?

Even temporary quarters would solve a problem for the state police. And it would save county buildings from further deterioration. In addition, the citizens of this portion of western Wayne county would gain police protection that is becoming more necessary as the area population booms continues.

It is hoped that in making its re-examination of needs, which deserves commendation, the county does not disregard the needs of its taxpayers.

Under a cooperative arrangement with the Michigan State Police it would appear that everyone, including the county, its children and its citizens, would be well served.

Citizens with opinions on this issue could write to their county commissioner, John J. McCann, 902 City-County Building, Detroit 48226.

Speaking for Myself

Separate Vacations?

YES...

Separate vacations? Absolutely YES! My husband's idea of a really super vacation is to pack up the smelly old tent, the smelly old dog and the six kids and head for the most isolated bug-infested, snake-crawlingest, thickest woods he can find. And if it contains bears, so much the better. When I ask, "But where's the bathroom?" he hands me a shovel.

There in no-man's-land, my neat, quiet unassuming husband proceeds to turn into a wild man. Dirty sneakers, sweat shirt, baggy pants, "lucky" fishing hat, beard and uncombed hair. A tiny piece of hair in his food at home and he pushes aside his plate. In the woods, ants and gnats pepper his beans and he consumes them with gusto. Every fish he pulls from the lake brings forth a savage cry of triumph. Sudden downpours find him with a big grin and something about "man braving the elements."

When I suggest maybe this year we could go somewhere a bit more inhabited with indoor plumbing, I get a look of horror. And miss communing with NATURE! Never! So come June, when he packs up that smelly old tent, I am heading for the nearest Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Jack Hoffman Northville Resident

NO...

Who needs a husband on a vacation? I do!

Take a vacátion without my spouse? Not me!

I don't have the cash nor the wardrobe to attract a gigolo (does that date me?). Who would take me to all the swish night clubs? Whose shoulder would I hide my head in during a bull fight? Who would pay the waiter for breakfast while I hide in the bathroom in my "vacation's only gown"? I need my husband here to see some of the really great things that we've both read about.

One of the main attributes to a vacation that my husband supplies is his great sense of direction. I'd never get beyond the circle of wrong turns. In fact, I did take a trip without him about five years ago and took along a daughter who inherited my lack of direction and we took five hours getting out of Ouebec.

We vacation very well together - just leaving the scene of the thirty-four year battle is a vacation! In all truth, we don't need a vacation from each other. The vacation is just the word for the time we are spending ($$$$ spending, too) together doing something we both want to do and share with our family when we return.

'Bruin' for a Fight

by JACK W. HOFFMAN

It should have been apparent that things would go badly when the Sheriff of Cochise, John Bromfield, scowled and almost went for his six-guns when I asked if it were true that he wore a

And when George Pierrot told my South Lyon manager, Frank Kochalko, that he had begged off wrestling the bear because of a hernia, I should have guessed the cards were stacked against

"I talked to the bear awhile ago," said Pierrot, "and he told me he was 'bruin' for a fight so I decided to let you have the honors.'

All of this was a little prelude to what happened over in the State Fair Coliseum Thursday night at the annual press preview of the Sportsman's Show brought to town each year under the tutelage of the gunslinging Bromfield.

Each year my sons have wondered aloud why their father never volunteered to wrestle one of the show's biggest hits - the 550-pound bear that goes by the name of Victor. And each year he's managed to come up with a weak excuse that fails to satisfy them.

Then a few months ago when the boys dragged home from Wixom their newest pet, a St. Bernard, I saw a chance to get in some training. Although practice wrestling with the dog is not exactly like wrestling a bear it did stiffen my courage a little. Afterall, I could take the dog in two out of three falls.

So when Bromfield invited the press out for his preview last week it was inevitable that this would be the year.

Although I apologized for what would happen to his bear, Victor's trainer didn't take kindly to the warning, "I'm going to toss him into the fish tank. Would you prefer shallow or deep "Mister," replied the bear's trainer, "you toss him anywhere you want. Just be sure your medical policy is paid."

His remark stirred a hope that some other wag would do the wrestling. But Pierrot, though better sized to do battle, was incapacitated, Mort Neff failed to show, and Jerry Chiappetta hid in the stands with a covey of outdoor writers.

Anyway, when I mounted the stage Bromfield smiled one of those wicked smiles and said, "Yes, you'll do nicely. Step right up here. Haven't I met you before?"

"Better take off your glasses," he continued. "Your tie, too. Now your shoes and shirt. My, my, your chest sort of hangs over your belt, doesn't

"How about my pants... must I take them

"No, no, Victor just likes to mark up chests; he doesn't chew below the belt."

From the apron of the stage came Manager Kochalko's advice, "Com'on Hoffman, you can do it. Just keep low."

From the bear's trainer: "Okay, mister, keep high. Lift 'em up onto his hind legs.' And from big fat Bromfield "Careful, his muzzle sometimes slips loose."

But nobody warned about the bear's trick leg. Each time we'd square off, he would put two legs around my neck, stick a third behind me and with the strength of the fourth shove me backwards onto the mat. "He's cheating," I yelled.

"Nonsense," said Bromfield. "He's the cleanest fighter we've ever had."

So the next time he knocked me to the

'Record's Got Egg On Its Face

To the Editor:

Our township officials have out zakked Zak! A 60% raise in salary is unbelievable gall. But, if this proposal is passed, then "open sesame" for everyone to get in on the act.

Why did you mislead the community into believing the annual! meeting was antiquated? My suspicions, were greatly aroused when the idea was originally submitted by the township clerk at one of our annual meetings. Who put the issue on the ballot? Not a petition of the electorate but a decision by township officials. This act alone should have put you on your guard.

Do you still believe my position was not a voice of reason and leadership in the community? The vote for 999 against 861 meant you could have influenced the election by a more farsighted and visionary outlook. Instead, your almost hysterical crusade to bend the community to your thinking was not in our best interests. You forced the candidates to take a position by first announcing your do or die stand and then daring the, candidates to disagree. Obviously, to disagree meant loss of the Record's backing. Worse still, it meant bad press with no chance for rebuttal because the next edition of the Record would be published after the election was over.

Methinks there is egg on your face Mr. Editor. Please, next time, let there be an open forum for honest differences of opinion. Please, let there be an atmosphere when no personal invective is used to nail down your personal opinions. Please let the candidates run, not the Northville Record. Must you always have the last

Slaps Design Of Complex

To the Editor:

I wish to direct this letter to the planning commission and to those interested in the betterment of this community.

Our city has great potential and it is only practical to develop new areas of business opportunities. I do question, however, the judgment of our city planning commission on its selection of the architectual design of the proposed shopping complex to be erected on the site bounded by Main, Wing and Cady streets. The design aesthetically has no relationship whatsoever to the existing buildings on Main street. Even now there is little continuity between the schools, community center, city hall and other buildings, and to erect a large contemporary structure with a Spanish

Ironing's The 'Worst

by NANCY DINGELDEY

Would you believe Meteorologists call the month of March the "transistional month"? All they are saying, in effect, is that the month cannot decide whether to be winter or spring. Similar, I guess, to a growing child, - one day acting like a young adult and the next like a baby. This is how the whole thing is explained away -- why one day we are blessed with sun, warmth and southerly breezes, followed by sleet, snow and freezing temperatures.

I always said if there was a month in the year that could be forgotten -March would take first place. Doctors also find that people suffer from various ailments that are unexplainable during this month. They attribute these to "cabin fever" which, after paying for an office call, doesn't help one too much. Grin and bare it, April is just

Last week I had asked if anyone had seen any robins - a sure sign of spring! Well, I had a call from Martha Tuorin who said she had a whole flock of robins in her backyard that had been there for a week. She had also seen a red-winged blackbird. No sooner had she mentioned the robins when I happened to glance out the window and saw two of my own. Another look around produced tulips popping through the ground. I "take heart" from all of this!

Thought you might be interested in the outcome of a "survey" I decided to take. Just another way to pass a somewhat dismal day. My question to the ladies of the community was "what is the most detestable job you have around the house?" The answers covered a variety of tasks - some said there were so many that took first place it was hard to decide just which one was the very, very, very worst!

Ironing took the dubious first place honors, with despicable oven cleaning a close second. Floors took third - that catagory covered a range from scrubbing, to waxing, to removing wax. A few people really read labels and follow them explicitly, because laundry got some votes. Those people said so many garments have special procedures to follow that it was time cleaning and defrosting refrigerators had to be the worst. Bathrooms, especially scouring out the ring in the bathtub, proved to be a real pet peeve with some ladies.

As I was taking my survey in some of the business places of Wixom, it dawned on me that men, too, must have some chores they really hate doing. And some of their answers to the same question were funny. Of course, at the time I was asking the question, I didn't know the men were bachelors. Their answers were vigorous

- "I HATE washing dishes", "making beds - yuk", "dusting!!!". But first place with the men had to be painting, closely second was wall washing. "Getting UP" also was an answer I heard several times along with "I don't like to do anything!". General repair work - especially toilets was the pet peeve of some of the men. There seems to be something about bathrooms! And one last thing - "putting out the garbage with good clothes on".

So that's the outcome - maybe the next survey I run should be "what do you like doing best?" I wonder if it would be as easily answered.

The all-girl hockey team, the "Detroit Cougers", coached by Tom Burke is tied for first place in their league, which includes five Canadian teams and three American teams. The "Cougers" home ice is in Windsor where they practice and play every Saturday night. Tom says the girls have a pretty good chance to take the title and we wish them all lots of luck.

Why more people finance their homes at NBD than at any other bank. This year, as in the past, more Detroit area people will come to see NBD about a home mortgage than will go to any other bank. We think their reasons will tell you a lot about our ways of putting families into the homes

It isn't just the fact that we have more than 100 offices, although it's certainly convenient to do business right in your own neighborhood. And it isn't because we have more money to lend, although the fact that we're Michigan's largest bank let us keep right on making mortgages while certain other lenders were backing away from the business.

The real reason is that the NBD mortgage lending officer you talk with will put himself in your position. He has as much regard as you have for saving money through a single, low "flat fee" for closing as opposed to a percentage of the amount of the mortgage. He knows you won't want to incur a stiff penalty if you should someday need to prepay. He can help you weigh the pros and cons of low monthly payments versus the rate at which you build your equity.

At your nearby NBD office, you'll find a mortgage expert who'll be happy to sit down with you and talk over your needs. And you can pick up a copy of our new booklet, "Buying and Financing Your Home"

-20 pages of facts and figures that every home buyer can use to advantage. Pay us a visit; we're here to help. The bank to see is NBD. National Bank of Detroit.

Trees are beautiful, especially if you select them carefully. They come in all different sizes and shapes — like this round form of English Oak that not only provides good shade, but adds a soothing, low-pressure feeling to the landscape.

Year-round beauty can be built into your landscape through wise selection and planting of crab apple trees. Many varieties offer pleasing winter silhouettes like this, along with beautiful blossoms, colorful fruit, and brilliant fall leaf color.

Proper Fertilizing Essential to Lawn

Fertilizing your lawn could be easily compared to a bikini bathing suit - both are essential to the beauty of the final product.

"Proper fertilization not only promotes healthy turf, but it reduces weed and disease problems," says Robert C. Shearman, extension tur-fgrass specialist at Michigan State

First applications of lawn fertilizers should be made in early spring. According to Shearman, homeowners should use a "complete" fertilizer for this first application. Complete fertilizers contain all three major nutrients - nitrogen, potassium and phosphorus - in roughly equal percentages. They can be identified by bag listings such as 12-6-6, 10-10-10 or 12-12-12.

"Do not exceed an application rate of two pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn in any one application," says Shearman. "Too much nitrogen can cause lawn 'burns' and poor turf growth.

Shearman offers the following table which shows how much lawn area various amounts of common fertilizer formulas will cover:

The first figure of a fertilizer formula tells you the number pounds of nitrogen contained in 100 pounds of the formula, For example, a 100-pound bag of a formula beginning with 12, contains 12 pounds of nitrogen. If you compute your own application rate, use this number.

Shearman says that three fertilizer applications per year are best in Michigan. "The second application should be made in late May," he says. "For this one, use an incomplete fertilizer that is high in nitrogen, such as 25-5-10." Again, the application rate should not go over two pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet.

Final lawn fertilization should take place near Labor Day, says Shearman. The fertilizer can be either a complete formula or one high in nitrogen. "Don't put off this application," says Shearman, "because applications later in the fall can promote lawn diseases.'

Shearman cautions homeowners to follow directions on fertilizer bags, especially when using a fertilizer and a spreader made by the same company. Companies who make both spreaders and fertilizers calibrate their spreaders to the particle size of their fertilizers,' says Shearman. "By closely following their directions you can get very accurate application rates."

COMMON FERTILIZER FORMULAS

Get two birds with one stone by treating your early spring lawn care program as a chance to get outdoors for some fresh air and exercise

A few hours with a lawn rake will provide the exercise and give your lawn a head start by removing accumulated dead plant materials.

According to Michigan State University extension turf grass specialists David P. Martin and Robert C. Shearman, dead grass, leaves, small twigs, etc., will stop fertilizers from doing their job. They can build up as thatch -- a layer of dead plant material -between the grass blades and the soil surface, often leading to lawn diseases and poor turf health.

Once over with the rake in the early spring also helps your grass green up faster. You will have a better looking lawn and the turf will get a head start on weed seeds which will germinate later in the spring as temperatures rise.

A session with the lawn roller can improve the physical fitness of yourself and your lawn. Not only will it develop strong shoulder, back and leg muscles. but it will ease lawn tasks throughout the rest of the year.

According to the MSU turf grass experts, rolling irons out rough areas caused by freezing and thawing. This reduces the chances of scalping the high spots with your lawn mower.

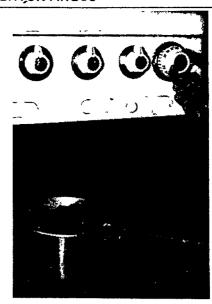

For best results, Martin and Shearman recommend rolling early in the spring while, the ground, is still moist. Later rollings when the soil is dry won't level the lawn.

They also caution homeowners to avoid excessively heavy rollers on clay soils. A roller that weighs too much will compact heavy soil and hold back good lawn growth and turf health later in the Rolling should be your second spring-time lawn activity. It evens out humps and hollows caused by freezing and thawing during late winter and early spring, thus making lawn maintenance tasks throughout the season easier. Michigan State University lawn specialists caution home owners with heavy clay soils to use a light roller to reduce soil compaction that can inhibit lawn growth.

Tune-Up Mowers

It's time to begin putting lawn mowers and garden tillers in shape, says Steve Bolen, Michigan State University ex-tension specialist.

For equipment powered by an air-cooled engine, the MSU expert suggests that you consider the fuel system first.

"Most problems on small gasoline engines stored for long periods of time are related to the fuel system," Bolen explains. "This is particularly true if the unit was stored with a partially filled fuel tank.

"Fuel stored for a lengthy period of time tends to build gum deposits and varnish formations on the interior surfaces of the tank, fuel lines and carburetor."

To remove these deposits drain the fuel tank, lines and carburetor and then flush with a commercially available solvent or cleaner designed to dissolve these deposits. In severe cases, it may be necessary to remove the carburetor and soak it for several hours in the

It is also wise to give the cooling system arquick oneck? especially if the equipment was used in extremely dirty if conditions, activity that were already

Bolen suggests that you inspect the air passages and cooling fins around the engine cylinder head and block. All passages should be free of debris. If necessary, remove some metal shields surrounding the engine to thoroughly inspect the air passages.

Oil level should also be checked on all four-cycle engines. Old oil should be drained and replaced with clean, high quality lubricant as recommended by the manufacturer.

On two-cycle engines, it may be necessary to inspect and clean the exhaust parts which occasionally become clogged by carbon deposits. This is a common reason for power loss with these engines.

On all engines it is good practice to inspect, clean and regap, or replace the spark plug. Be sure the plug is tightened properly, Bolen cautions.

Maintenance details, along with other suggestions for improving aircooled engine performance, can be found in the operator's manual. "Check this information now to be sure you are ready to go later this spring," Bolen says.

It's Time . To Plan Garden

Though the ground is still frozen, it's time to make garden plans, notes Michigan State University horticulturist

A quick analysis of last year's gardening results may help you plan for this year, Taylor says.

Did you have problems with fruits and vegetables? Were they due to diseases, insects, soil conditions, weather or poor

If cucumber or tomato wilt infected your garden, rotate the crops this year and use disease-resistant transplants or seed, suggests Taylor.

To determine soil nutrient levels, check with your county Cooperative Extension Service office about testing soil samples. Soil test results indicate what nutrients to add to your garden soil and how much to add.

"Adding coarse peat moss or other organic matter will help break up clay soils," says Taylor. "If you have a sandy garden soil, you probably need to add organic matter.

Garden crops do best on well-drained soils, so make plans to improve drainage on poorly-drained areas, recommends Taylor.

"Evaluate your control procedures for insect pests such as radish maggots, cabbage maggot, onion maggot, cutworms, white grubs and wireworms." says Taylor. "If you weren't able to control these pests last year, ask your county extension agent for control recommendations.'

Growing several varieties of the same kind of vegetable helps extend the harvest period, notes the horticulturist. For example, early, medium and late varieties of sweet corn planted at the same time will mature over a threeweek period, he says.

Decide which vegetable varieties you want to grow and buy the seed early to avoid sellouts, suggest Taylor. Most good varieties are listed in seed

Attracting Birds

If you enjoy having birds around the house, plant trees and shrubs to make your feathered friends regular visitors (or even residents) of your yard.

"Some of the trees that birds like are flowering dogwood, holly, mountain ash, flowering crab apple, and the hawthornes," says Dr. Gary Schneider, associate professor of forestry at Michigan State University. 'They also prefer evergreens such as junipers, firs, spruces and red cedar." If you want to provide fruit for the birds, Schneidernsuggests planting shrubsy/such pas namus honeysuckle 9 snowberry, and the yiburnums. Vines at that attract birds include bittersweet.

honeysuckle, and Virginia creeper.
"Seed-eating birds enjoy sunflowers, coreopis, lilies-of-the-valley, and several different kinds of roses," says the MSU forester. You may even attract a hummingbird by planting columbine, delphinium, phlox, false dragonhead or red-hot poker plant."

Abortion Reform Still Faces Battle

LANSING — Though they have finally won a victory in the Michigan Senate, backers of the drive to reform Michigan's century-old abortion law know they are far from final victory.

"Only half congratulations are in order now," was the way Mrs. Lorraine Beebe of Dear-

"Full congratulations will be in order only when a bill has been passed by both houses,"

For those in and outside the television business with television ratings at their side, the annual announcement of what shows will appear on TV next fall probably seems perfectly logical.

But the fall lineup never fails to non-plus me. Such was the case last week when ABC announced its schedule for the 1971 fall season.

It's not the new shows that particularly puzzle me, although they, too, can be a source of chagrin. Another situation comedy, for instance, is needed like another drama involving lawyers.

The source of real perplexity are the shows that are departing and the shows that will be staying.

ABC says 10 will fall to the wayside, including Johnny Cash, Lawrence Welk, Pearl Bailey, "Dan August", "The Young Lawyers," "Make Room for Grand-daddy," "That Girl," "Let's Make a Deal," "Newlywed Game" and "Reel Game.

The largest number of shows in ABC history, 16, will be retained including "Nanny and the Professor," NFL Monday night football, "Bewitched,", "Courtship of Eddie's Father," "Smith Family," "Room 222," "The Odd Couple" "Love "The Odd Couple," "Love, American Style," and of course, the movies several times a week.

Area Golf Courses Ready for Action, Eye April 1 Opening

HICKORY HILLS

Manager George Catto still wasn't answering the course phone this past weekend so rates at this par 35 layout over 2,865 yards couldn't be established. If they remain the same as last, golfers will be able to play nine holes for $2 and $3.25 for 18 on weekdays, and $2.50 for nine and $4 for 18 on weekends and holidays.

Located in Wixom off Loon Lake Road, the course features a clubroom for light lunches and space for banquets.

As at most other courses, rates at this nine-hole layout at the corner of Powell and Ann Arbor Trail near Plymouth have been increased.

Golfers can play nine holes during the week for $2.50, 18 for $4, and after 6 p.m. it will cost them $2. Saturday, Sunday and holidays the rates are $3 for nine, $4.75 for 18, and after 5 p.m. $2.50. Pro-manager Chris Burghardt opened this 2,862 yard, par 34 course on Sunday.

KENSINGTON

An April opening date is planned at this 6,380 yard par 71 (36-35) 18-hole course located north of I-96 between New Hudson and Brighton. A more definite date will be announced later. Those wishing to use the facility are asked to call 685-1408. Richard Yeager is expected to return as manager.

Established by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, the course will offer the same fees as last year: Nine holes on weekdays, $2.50, and $4 for 18 on weekdays. Saturday, Sunday and holiday fees are $3.50 for nine, $5 for 18.

Kensington has no equipment to rent. It does rent club carts, however, and sells some golfing necessities (balls, tees, etc.). In addition, the club offers a snackbar with a limited number of sandwiches, soft drinks, chips and c a n d y b a r s .

SALEM HILLS

Dick Osborn joins Manager Bob Szilogyi as assistant pro this year, replacing Jim Vargo, at Salem Hills - one of the longest Detroit metropolitan courses.

Located on Six Mile Road just west of the Salem Township center, the course is 7,074 yards long.

The tee-off system used last season will be used again this year to speed play on the par 36-36 (72) course. Fees have been increased both here and at Godwin Glen. They are: Weekdays for nine, $3, and for 18 holes, $5 and weekends and holidays, $6 for 18.

In addition, Szilovyi is planning special weekday rates after 3 p.m., but these have not yet been established. Tentative opening is set for April 1.

SAN MARINO

Nine holes of golf during weekdays costs the same as last year but other rates have increased for this par 36, 3,299-yard course in Farmington.

Located at 26634 Halstead Road south of 12 Mile Road, it offers these rates: For nine holes on weekdays, $2.75, and for 18 holes on weekdays, $4.75; for nine holes on weekends and holidays, $3.25, and for 18 holes, $5.75.

Tony Dalessandro, who started here last season, returns this season as promanager. The course will open as soon as weather permits.

The course has a clubhouse with a

TYRONE HILLS

Plans to open this course call for a March 25 target date, but the course may remain closed longer depending on the weather. A par 72 course of 6500 yards, Tyrone Hills has summer rates of $2.50 for nine holes and $3.50 for 18 holes during the weekdays.

On weekends and holidays nine holes cost $3.00 and 18 cost $5.00. Tyrone is located at N-8449 U.S. 23 in Fenton and the phone number is 629-

WHISPERING WILLOWS

Rates have been increased at this municipal course in Livonia, situated at the corner of Eight Mile and Newburgh Rates for nine holes, Monday through Friday, are $2.75 for Livonia residents, $3 for non-residents; for 18 holes, Monday through Friday, $4 for residents, $4.50 for non-residents. Rates for nine holes, Saturday, Sunday and holidays, are $3.25 for non-residents; for 18 holes, Saturday, Sunday and holidays, $5 for residents, $5.50 for non-residents.

Special rates are available for resident senior citizens - Monday through Friday, $1 for nine holes. Tee off must be before noon for senior citizens, who are defined as persons 65 years old or older.

Rates for boys and girls, 17 years old and younger, are $1 for nine holes, $2 for 18 holes on Mondays only.

Twilight rates, after 6 p.m., are $2 for residents, $2.25 for non-residents.

Pro-Manager Gary Whitenen notes that this 18-hole, 6,400 yard layout features a driving range, snack bar, pro shop and lessons.

WOODLAND

Located near Brighton at 7635 West Grand River, Woodland is a nine hole, 3,250 yard course. The weekday rates are $2.25 for nine holes, while the weekend and holiday cost is $3.50. The course will open in approximately a week, depending on the weather. A driving range near the course is already

Decentralization Of Food Stamp Program Sought

A resolution to petition the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity to push for decentralization of the federal food stamp program in Oakland County was passed Thursday by the West County Advisory Unit of the OEO.

At a special meeting held in it's Novi office, the unit resolved to ask OEO comissioners to take its plea before the Michigan Department of Social Services.

Decentralization of the federally funded food stamp program is necessary in Oakland County, according to Unit Chairman Byrle L. Hines, because of the great distances that recipients must travel to get food stamps.

Currently, Hines said Friday, there are only two methods by which benefits are distributed to more than 5,400 people throughout the county.

"Either each person travels to -Pontiac to get his or her stamps, a distance of 40 miles in some cases, or he participates in a proxy program."

Under the proxy arrangement, recipients go to a central point in their community with proper identification, a money order is written out, and a courier dispatched to the Pontiac office.

The courier returns with the stamps and they are distributed accordingly, Hines said.

A distribution center has been perated in Milford under the direction of West County worker Janet Combs, for two months.

Said Mrs. Combs: "We operate in the Milford City Hall and keep the stamps in the city's vault overnight to distribute the next day. The system works fine; we've never had any auxiliary using the South Lyon City Hall. "In one year they have had no trouble....Right now they handle 14 families," Mrs. Combs said.

Problems in establishing local distribution centers, according to Virginia London of Michigan social services, spring from federally imposed restrictions calling for the bonding of all people handling the stamps, and the assumption of complete financial responsibility once the stamps leave the state or county office.

Mrs. London said the department of social services "is anxious to set up local distribution centers and various ideas are being considered," but noted that at the present time, nothing is definite.

However, Mrs. London explains, that prime areas being considered for such 2 centers were Wixom, Holly, Rochester and Royal Oak Township.

'In order to qualify for the food stamp program, according to Mrs. London, persons must have cooking facilities in their homes, be a resident of the target area (Oakland County), fall within a certain salary range and have liquid assets of not more than $1000 for a household of one, or $1,500 for two or more.

Depending on his salary and liquid asset, Mrs. London said, one pays for a certain number of the stamps and gets a certain number free.

"The stamps may be used only for food stuffs and cannot be spent for tobacco, liquor, etc," Mrs. London The West County Council of OEO represents the Highland, Milford, White Lake, Commerce, Farmington, South

Lyon, Novi and Walled Lake areas. Hines said Friday that he intends to have the units resolution on the commission agenda when it meets

Personal Guilt Weighs Heavily

Reverend Father John Wittstock Our Lady of Victory Church Northville

There is hardly a newspaper in the country that does not carry a syndicated column which purports to give advice.

,"Dear Abby..., "Dear Ann,"... These have become in some degree, household words. What used to be advice to the lovelorn has now become a much broader form of counseling to a much much wider audience. It's interesting to hear people's reactions when one of these columns becomes a topic of conversation in a social group. Many people are hesitant to admit that they ever read them. "It's all nonsense," they say, "people airing their problems." in public. I can't be bothered with that trivia.' Some few do admit that they scan these letters occasionally, mostly for laughs, out of curiosity. Very rarely is there a sympathetic word for the suf-ferers. It's all there, the whole dreary story of relationships that have gone wrong; people who hurt, people who have been hurt, people immersed in their own guilt, people who project their guilt and fears on innocent children and spouses and wonder why they are not loved. Most of them are honestly crying out for help and can think of no better way to find it than to write a letter to someone they don't know.

The burden of personal guilt weighs heavily on many men's shoulders today.

Perhaps no more so than in times past, but our society tends to verbalize it in a way that was unknown years ago. Psychiatrists, counselors, and clergymen are being sought out to provide relief to persons of all ages, creeds and classes who feel incapable of wrestling with the problem on their own. The professionals certainly do not claim to have all the answers but at least many of them know the technique of getting people to talk about their guilt whether real or imagined, to share their guilt feelings with others and often this in itself is the first step on the road to mental health.

Sure we're living in an era of violence. But this is not a new invention in man's history. Human beings have been in the business of cutting each other down since the beginning of the human race. We call the venture "sin". The story began in the book of Genesis and has had a fairly lively career ever since. Yes, we recognize that sin exists and that guilt exists. Many times we know why we act as we do, the complexities of our natures, and the things in our heredity and environment that motivate us to act destructively towards others and sometimes toward ourselves.

Christians sometimes tend to forget how marvelously sane and sound and well-balanced is the Gospel that should indeed make Christians one. Jesus was not a person given to pious platitudes or phony solutions to real problems. He spoke directly to men's hearts, about things that were already in their hearts. Things like remorse, the need to be forgiven, and to start all over again. And what Jesus had to say was so deeply wise that neither time nor progress nor developments in human psychology have minimized the power of His Words. Guilt, the kind of remorse that turns us in upon ourselves and paralyzes us from reaching out to others, was foreign to Jesus of the Gospels.

St. Paul tells us that God has given us the ministry of reconciliation. He is proposing that we as Christians spend our lives in setting prisoners of wealth and poverty free, giving the blind op-portunities for real vision, helping to alleviate the sufferings of men living in the darkness of mental illness or in the shadows of dull and meaningless lives. For only then will they know that God now reigns among them as never before. But this kind of commitment would lead us to the company of almost anyone - like tax collectors, and streetwalkers and drug addicts and sinners. But one thing about that side of it - we'd be in good company - where Christ at times found himself.

Will you follow in His footsteps?

There are days when Jim feels "all geared up." Like many men today, he has the sense of being just a cog in a wheel—no real identity. This is wrong

It takes a great many Jims, all kinds, to keep the wheels turning. But each is important, and each is an individual. God intended men to have not only a sense of identity, but a basic self-esteem.

Maybe you've been underestimating yourself! Maybe you've been feeling that you are just one of the crowd! If so, during this Lenten season you'd better take a new look at both the world and yourself.

For a new perspective, maybe you'd better start going to church.

.At what age should you start feeding foals grain?
As with all young mammals, milk from the dam gives the foal a good start in life. Within 30 minutes to two hours after birth, the foal should be up on its feet and getting the colostrum

But milk is not the perfect food, as once claimed. It is deficient in iron and copper, with the result that suckling young may suffer from anemia. This may be prevented, and increased growth, durability and soundness may be obtained by creep feeding foals. When the foal is between 10 days and three weeks of age, it will begin to nibble on grain and hay. In order to promote thrift and early development and to avoid set-back at weaning time, it is important to encourage the foal to eat supplementary feed as early as possible. For this purpose, a low-built grain box should be provided especially for the foal; or, if on pasture the foal may be creep-fed.

A "creep" is an enclosure for feeding purposes, made accessible to the foal (s), but through which the dam cannot pass. For best results, the creep should be built at a spot where the mares are inclined to loiter. The ideal location is on high ground well drained, in the shade, and near the place of watering.

To start the foals on grain place a small amount of feed in the box each day, any surplus being removed and given to other will be kept clean and fresh, and the foals will not be consuming FRESH PICNIC STYLE any moldy or sour feed.

eat, it may be necessary to first COUNTRY STYLE let him nibble a little feed from the hand.

At four to five weeks of age, the normal healthy foal should be consuming a half-pound of grain daily per 100 pounds of live weight. By weaning time, this should be increased to about % pound or more per 100 pounds live weight (or 6 to 8 pounds of feed per head per day); the exact amount varying with the in-dividual and the development

Because of the difficulty in home mixing a foal ration, the purchase of a good commercial feed is usually a wise investment.

In addition to his grain ration, the foal should be given good quality hay or pasture. Also plenty of fresh water must be available at all times.

Under such a system of care and management, the foal will become less dependent on its dam, and the weaning process maybe speeded up and made much easier.

An item of interest to owners of registered Shetland ponies is that the American Shetland Pony Club is currently updating their files. All registered animals must be revalidated by May 1, 1971 or they will be considered grades.

Anyone having registered stock, who has not received a form, should write promptly if they wish to preserve the papers. Revalidation mark is found on the back side of the certificate. Many forms sent out by the club were undeliverable due to changes in addresses.

Everything we've found out so far says it CAN... save money, improve educational opportunity for all children, and provide better use of existing facilities. Whether a year-round school plan WILL work depends on continued community cooperation in finding answers to knotty problems. This is a report of our study thus far, and an explanation of future plans.

For Northville, it all began in 1967 when our Board of Education resolved that "the Northville Board of Education, in cooperation with the Administration, teaching staff and citizens of the community undertake a thorough study of the feasibility of adopting the Year-Round School Program.'

It was apparent to the Board that Northville was on the verge of rapid expansion, and that plans must be made to meet the school district's present and future needs.

Since that date Northville's school population has increased by 714 pupils. Additions to our five existing buildings will provide for the educational needs of these students and delay an enrollment crisis for another two years.

However, research indicates startling growth for Northville. Current housing construction and approved housing projects include 1,418 single family dwellings and 2,704 multiple family housing units. Completion of these projects is expected to be accomplished by June, 1976, five short years away.

This new housing means new residents... and more children. Conservative estimates place Northville's school population for 1976-77 near 7,000 students, more than double the present 3,235 enrollment.

In 1969, our extended school year study gained the support of the State of Michigan. State funds were granted to eight Michigan school districts to conduct year-round school feasibility studies. Michigan, like Northville, was seeking an answer to "Where are we going and what should we be doing."

Thus began Phase II, Northville's feasibility study of the Four-Quarter Plan, a plan selected by a Citizens Study Committee as being the one best suited for this community. The committee had determined that any extended school year plan studied must offer improvement in educational opportunity for children as well as save

A requirement of the State grant was to "make the community aware of its problems and the potential of the extended school year to solve them."

Phase II did just that! Residents of Northville, were provided the opportunity to become fully informed about year-round school. The first issue of "Opening School Doors," in October, 1969, reported the findings, pro and con, of the Study Committee.

A specially prepared filmstrip, more than 20 public meetings, question and answer sessions, pamphlets and news articles - all focused community attention on the potential and problems of extended school year operation.

Parent, teacher, student and business support of any proposed change in the educational process is essential if that change is to be successful. Phase II next concentrated its efforts on discovering the opinions and attitudes of these groups to the year-round school concept.

What do Northville parents think about year-round school with its educational and economic promise... coupled with some inconvenience, especially when planning a vacation?

What about students? Will their thoughts on an improved education override their concern about a staggered vacation schedule?

In the opinion of Northville teachers, would educational advancement outweigh possible initial problems of the Four-Quarter Plan?

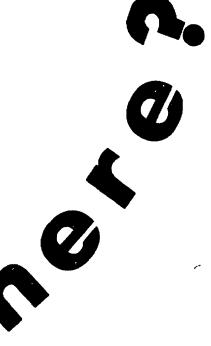

And, since business and industry provide the take-home-pay, their feelings about the extended school year and juggled vacation schedules were sought and considered.

Attitudes and opinions discovered during Phase II indicate, "Yes, year-round school is feasible in Northville... if ..."

Reading on, you'll find these answers, feelings and "ifs". You'll also find information on what's coming next, Phase III, which asks the community, "Is it acceptable?"

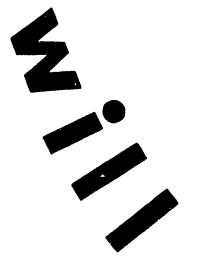

Work

Supplement To The Northville Record-Novi News Thursday, March 25, 1971

Surveys reveal "qualified acceptance"

Parents, students, teachers said . . .

Parents, teachers and students last year were asked their opinions on the Four-Quarter, Year-Round School Plan. Study findings revealed that an extended school year in Northville is feasible, but with areas of concern yet to be resolved.

With Dr. Charles Cannell, University of Michigan Bureau of School Services, acting as consultant, a parent questionnaire was drafted and an appropriate sample group selected. Taking every other name from the school list, half of those families with one child in school, and half of those with more than one child in school were chosen.

Northville Mothers Club members assisted the school district in taking the survey. Of 709 questionnaires distributed, 669 were completed and returned. A sampling of about 500 persons had been considered more than adequate for an accurate opinion survey of this community. PARENTS SAID...

• Almost two-thirds of parents surveyed said they would favor an extended school year, with inconveniencee, if it brought about improved education for children.

• More than half of the parent respondents said they would favor year-round school, with inconvenience, if it would save money.

• Together, 77 percent of the parent respondents indicated they would favor year-round school if it improved educational opportunity and saved money.

• More than two-thirds of parents surveyed said year-round school would make better use of school facilities.

 Mothers indicated their willingness to accept extended school year inconvenience if it improved educational opportunity AND saved money. (Mothers, however, said they were not quite ready to accept implementation of an extended school year.)

opinion sampling, students like the other groups surveyed, were shown the their children.

 Survey responses show that most parents desire children in the same family to have the same vacation

• An almost equal number felt that children in the same neighborhood should be on vacation at the same time.

 About three-fourths of those parents surveyed would like to know more about the extended school year concept

TEACHERS SAID...

Northville teachers were asked their' opinions of year-round school operation in May, 1970. A 23-question opinion survey was completed by 118 teachers. Two of the questions asked for professional appraisal of the strengths and weaknesses of the extended school year. Improved programs and better use of facilities dominated the "strengths," while scheduling and vacation inconvenience were most often mentioned as "weaknesses." Teachers revealed:

• 70 percent of the teaching staff favor year-round school and would support its adoption if it improved education and saved money.

Most teachers, favor year-round use of school buildings.

• Teachers, want their vacation to coincide with that of their children.

• Slightly over half of the staff prefer a summer vacation.

 Teachers feel informed about the extended school year concept, but they would like to know more. STUDENTS SAID...

Student opinion of the extended school year concept could not be overlooked. With the assistance of the Student Council, a questionnaire to measure student reaction was developed. Because of age differences, questions asked junior high school • 71 percent of the respondents students varied somewhat from those preferred summer vacation periods for asked senior high students. Prior to the Year-Round School filmstrip and given the opportunity to question school officials. The students indicated:

• Junior and senior high school students prefer a summer vacation. • Students, like parents, desire all children in the same family to be on vacation at the same time. • High school students favor an extended school year over an extended

• Both junior and senior high school students would not favor year-round school even if it improved the educational program.

• Students expressed concern for extra curricular activity, air conditioned buildings, and possible interference with their social life. • More than half of the high school students wanted to know more about year-round school. These surveys were conducted during Phase II of Northville's year-round school study which was funded by the State Department of Education.

Prior to the surveys, the school district tried to provide everyone an opportunity to become fully informed about year-round schools, especially parents, students, teachers and employers... those who would be most affected by the proposed Four-Quarter

Plan. When added together, Study Committee findings and opinion surveys all lend support to the statement, "Year-round school is feasible in Northville."

With more study, more information and continued community cooperation, Northville School District hopes to find the answer to "Year-Round School... Is it

Research reveals concept

Study Committee research during Phase II of the year-round school study indicates that educational change has much to offer Northville citizens. The following items are reports on the various areas of study.

...improved educational opportunity

Young people today are living in an environment of change. To meet student needs, education must adapt itself to that same environment...

Northville's year-round school study has revealed parental concern for educational opportunity. Many parents surveyed were as much or more interested in "What will the Four-Ouarter Plan do for my kids that traditional school operation can't do," than they were in strict dollar savings.

 Study of the extended school year concept shows that it could offer oportunity for curriculum improvement benefiting all children.

Compact, quarter-length courses that get to the real meat of the subject would offer greater appeal to students and teachers alike. There would be no room for "watered-down" subject

More courses of study could be scheduled. Rather than 20 areas in English now offered, students would have their choice of 46 quarterly English courses. Some subjects, diffcult to offer under two semester operation, are made to order for short, sharp 12-week presentations; field biology, ecology and surveying, to name a few.

"The "locked in" feeling many students have toward full-semester or year-long courses could be eliminated. Quarter-length courses give students the opportunity to feel their way along while discovering their interest and achievement levels. Perhaps they would be inclined to take a chance on a more challenging subject. Failure in a 12-week course could be made up without interrupting the time schedule of graduation requirements.

Vocational education would probably benefit most with an extended school year. National statistics show that eight out of ten jobs in the present decade will not require a college degree. Yet, Northville, like so many school districts, offers much to the college-bound student, but little to those with vocational interests. The Four-Quarter Plan has a flexibility that would permit work-study programs short-term courses coupled with on-the-job training, and intensive training in salable vocational skills.

Further, research indicates a redesigned academic program coupled with a realistic vocational curriculum, both possible under year-round school operation, could greatly reduce the

The goals of our year-round school study are to hold down education costs and improve educational opportunity for children. Study Committee research shows both can be accomplished.

...better use of facilities

Completion of five school additions has temporarily provided adequate classroom space in Northville schools for approximately the next

After that, the squeeze will begin. Building and population projections predict a continuing rise in school enrollments during the next decade approximately 3500 more students as early as 1976. Rather than suddenly being faced with a too-little-too-late situation, the Northville school district has elected to study and compare benefits and costs of potential solutions... now!

Our studies indicate that the extended school year concept has potential for saving millions of dollars in construction costs through better utilization of school buildings and equipment.

Northville schools will now house 4500 students in a 9-month traditional school year. The next five years could double the existing school population, resulting in a need for four new school

However, under the Four-Quarter Plan, or a variation of it where schools operate year-round, existing school buildings could provide classroom space to educate 6,100 students. To maintain present educational standards using the traditional 9-month school calendar, four more school buildings would be needed to house the projected 1976 school enrollment. Extended school year operation would reduce that required number of new classrooms by about 75 percent.

Utilization of school facilities year-round would mean construction of fewer buildings, with resulting savings in the areas of additional staff, more equipment such as buses and office equipment, administration, maintenance and debt retirement.

Under traditional school operation, even new buildings become old, and old buildings become older as they sit idle each summer, unused

...tax dollar savinas

Research reveals little to go on when figuring dollar savings under year-round school operation. Northville's original Study Committee, however, determined that operational costs, based on the number of pupils served, would not increase.

Any cost analysis of school operation must be made on a "cost per student" basis. As school enrollment rises, total costs rise proportionately, under either 9-month or year-round school operation. But, extended school year operation does not increase the PER PUPIL cost.

Full use of Northville's existing school buildings would reduce future classroom requirements by two-thirds. That's where real tax dollar savings become apparent - when you don't have to build new buildings!

The cost of new construction is probably best illustrated by the bond issue approved in 1970 by Northville taxpayers:

Northville's classroom expansion needs required $2,700,000 for additions and improvements to five schools. After voter approval, the expansion funds were borrowed at an interest rate of 6.69 percent. Since the debt will take 29 years to retire, interest costs will total $3,385,740. This new construction, then, will cost the taxpayers not $2,700,000 but $6,085,470.

Should population projections hold true, an extended school year program would save local taxpayers some $7,000,000 in construction costs alone over the next five years. Savings on interest charges would substantially increase these savings.

School buildings, school buses, and school equipment represent millions in taxpayers' dollars. This investment pays no dividends for three months of the year when schools stand idle.

any Michigan school district is to operate on an Extended School Year basis. Year-round concept not new

Community support, planning needed

The concept of an extended school year is not new in this country. Since the early 1900's, some school districts have implemented year-round school programs, largely to relieve enrollment and financial pressures.

Research reveals little data from which to draw valid conclusions as to why year-round school plans have not gained in popularity. Some year-round plans were no more than the traditional two semesters with an added, optional summer semester. Many efforts at extended school operation failed to report whether vacation periods were optional or assigned. In most cases, however, the vacation quarter was optional which resulted in unbalanced enrollments and increased costs. This defeated the purpose of extended school

Failure to measure community acceptability, redesign curriculum and efficiently plan conversion costs appear to be the prime reasons for past failures of vear-round school operation. Reports further indicate that vacation attendance quarters for students must be mandatory if any extended school year plan is to truly effect financial savings. Past attempts at year-round school appear

"Production shut-down" of public long irked cost-conscious business and industry. To them, as well as to many educators and parents, long summer vacations to allow children to help plant and harvest are no longer necessary.

However, business, like schools, must schedule employee vacation time. Traditionally, vacations from the world of work, coincide with summer school vacations. More efficient use of school facilities would mean student vacation periods other than summer, thus requiring scheduling adjustments on the part of businessmen.

To alert business to necessary vacation changes if year-round school became a reality, and to gain their opinions of an extended school year, a business-industry opinion survey was conducted in April 1970.

Chambers of Commerce in surrounding communities were asked to assist the Northville School District in the selection of representative employers in this area.

Four-quarter plan to test preferences

The Northville Year-Round School Study now enters Phase III which will be an attempt to test whether the school district could successfully incorporate parent-pupil preferences for vacation and attendance periods into a workable year-round school calendar.

Phase III is a scheduling "test" to ascertain whether a 75 percent pupil enrollment distribution can be maintained in each of four quarters and still meet with community acceptance.

Research evidence points to an extended school year as a promising solution to Northville's impending education problems, spiraling costs, rising student enrollment, and the need for more educational opportunity for all children.

But just being feasible isn't enough on which to base such an important community decision. Several problems still need adequate answers before year-round school can be considered more than a possibility. Can year-round school be implemented to the satisfaction of a majority of Northville parents? And, despite educational improvements at reduced overall cost offered by an extended school year, will warm weather vacation preference be the deciding factor?

To answer these and other questions, Phase III of Northville's Year-Round School Study now takes up where the feasibility study left off.

Using additional funds provided by the State Department of Education, Northville School District is to test whether a community of this size and nature can theoretically schedule under a four-quarter plan.

At the outset, it is known that parents want children in the same family on vacation at the same time. And if possible, children in the same neighborhood should also be on vacation during the same quarter.

The trial scheduling will seek family preference, and then measure parental acceptance of assigned attendance-vacation periods covering a four year span.

Procedures for accomplishing Phase III are:

STEP 1 — Establish a formula to determine which vacation quarter will be assigned to which family or group of families.

STEP 2 — Schedule community workshops to clarify misconceptions and misinformation about the extended school year.

STEP 3 — Families with children who are or will be in school in 1976, will receive a four-year attendance-vacation preference form. A team of trained persons will assist the school district in the distribution and collection of these individual family preference forms.

STEP 4 — Completed forms from each Northville school family will be evaluated and catagorized by computers.

STEP 5 — Since it is unlikely that initial computerized results will show exactly three-fourths of the student population enrolled for each quarter, adjustments to some family schedules will be made.

STEP 6 — Each family will then be notified of the schedule selected for their children, and asked to reply to the school district as to its acceptability or non-acceptability.

STEP 7 — Those parents who find the proposed schedule unacceptable will be interviewed to discover reasons why. School officials will attempt to make adjustments satisfactory to the families involved, but within the framework of set standards for the district.

STEP 8 — When district-wide trial scheduling results are known, Northville citizens will be completely informed.

This special supplement initiates Phase III of Northville's Year-Round School Study. It is intended to review for you what the study has accomplished in the past, to bring you up-to-date on important opinion survey results, and to outline to the community the upcoming steps of Northville's test run of scheduling an extended school year.

Soon, residents will have the opportunity to see and hear a detailed filmstrip report of our continuing exploration of the problem-solving potential of the extended school year.

Full information of the progress of Phase III will be continually provided the community. When they become available, results of the theoretical student scheduling will be published.

Parents will be asked to list family attendance and vacation preferences for a four year period.

Phase III is a four-year student scheduling "dry run" designed to provide many answers, including, "Is it acceptable?"

Future board action seeks citizen opinion on four-quarter plan

Crowded classrooms, accumulation of new information, need for an expanded curriculum, more leisure time for family recreation, spiraling costs of education, and the growing reluctance of taxpayers to vote more money for schools are some of the reasons for Northville's study of year-round schools.

Phase II of our study indicated that enough community flexibility exists to continue consideration of the extended school year as a possible solution to coming educational and financial needs of Northville.

Now Phase III will further explore the potential of an extended school year. We know that parent, student and neighborhood vacation desires must be reasonably satisfied, that professional staff support is essential, and that state and/or federal financial assistance is necessary for conversion. There will be problems, no matter what the ultimate decision. A problem, however, is not the same as a disadvantage... with determination, a problem can be solved. A disadvantage is a handicap which resists solution.

"Year-Round School... Is it Acceptable?" is information vital to Northville, the State of Michigan, and school districts around the nation. We ask your help and cooperation. Planning ahead is no less vital to education than it is to business and industry.

Phase II told us that year-round school is feasible in Northville. Phase III will tell us if it is acceptable. Your Board of Education will make no decision on year-round school for Northville until all facts are known and evaluated by the community. Then the school district must determine if the community will support implementation.

Two year-round plans show great promise

Of the extended school year plans studied and/or implemented in the nation, the Four-Quarter amd "45-15" plans appear to show the greatest potential for improved education, economic efficiency and community acceptance.

Northville's study has thus far focused on the Four-Quarter Plan, presently operating in Atlanta, Georgia. Students are divided into four groups and assigned by family units to attend three of four school quarters. In any given sixty day quarter, three-fourths of the students are in school, the remaining fourth on vacation. The plan has common vacation periods for all children at Christmas, Easter and ten days in August.

The 45-15 Plan, now implemented in Valley View, Illinois and St. Charles, Missouri, also divides pupils into four groups. Each group attends school for 45 class days, then has a 15 day vacation. Attendance schedules are staggered 15 days apart so that only three of the four groups are in school at one time. All families have a vacation of 15 days in each of the four seasons, but on a staggered basis.
