

Artillery Attack?

Despite the camera angle, it wasn't a Legionaire reliving World War II that demolished the home of Fred and Emily Casterline on West Dunlap last week. It was a bulldozer. The Casterlines are now residing in a new apartment above their funeral home. And the long-standing family home has become a parking lot. See more pictures on 13A.

On College Reapportionment

Lansing Fight Looms

While Schoolcraft College trustees prepare to develop a reapportionment plan, as required by the Wayne County Circuit Court, a legislative battle appears to be shaping up at Lansing where two opposing bills have been put into the hopper by two local legislators. Although trustees have not yet formally met to begin preparation of the reapportionment, they are leaning towards an at-large election plan similar to the bill introduced by State Senator Carl Pursell of Plymouth. It is supported, too, by the college's attorney, Edward Draugelis.

The bill introduced earlier by State Representative Marvin Stempien, calling for election by equally populated districts, is generally viewed as "impractical" by the trustees.

Nevertheless, Stempien, a Democrat in the Democratically controlled House, sees little difficulty getting his bill through the House. Similarly, Republican Carl Pursell predicts passage of his bill in the Republican controlled Senate. Both say their bills have bi-partisan support. Thus, unless a compromise is reached, early

VFW Parade Set Saturday

A short but snappy parade is slated Saturday morning as the Northville VFW Post 4012 salutes Loyalty Day.

The 10 a. m. parade, which will include members of the VFW, the Northville American Legion Post, the Elks, and various Girl and Boy Scout troops, will start at the Northville Downs parking lot at Church Street, move to Main along Church, and then proceed west on Main Street to Center and from Center south back to the Downs.

VFW Parade Chairman Kenneth VanNocker explains that Loyalty Day seeks to counteract threats to freedom around the world by the reaffirmation of patriotism by those "who stand in the firm defense of our ideals and nation, at all costs, and in every state of the union."

Proclamations by the President and the Governor designate Loyalty Day, and parades and activities throughout the nation have been scheduled to dramatize it.

enactment of a state law appears unlikely.

Three weeks ago Circuit Court Judge Roland Olzark cancelled the June 14 Schoolcraft election and ordered the trustee board to develop a reapportionment plan by June 1 that complies with the "one-man, one-vote" concept of representation. Terms of three members originally up for election in June were extended to October 14.

Almost simultaneously Attorney General Frank Kelley handed down his long-delayed ruling on the Schoolcraft board make-up, calling it

State Police OK Radio Hook-up

Three mobile unit radio hook-ups for the Northville Township Police Department have been given the okay from the Michigan State Police.

According to Township Chief Ron Nisun, the township board is expected to take action on the radios at their May 11 meeting. If approved, township cars could then be dispatched through the Redford Post of the State Police, Nisun said. He estimated the units would cost approximately $2,200.

Meanwhile, the State Police say they are still hopeful of leasing two vacant dormitories at the Wayne County Training School, which would make the service that much closer to the township.

Wayne County Board of Commissioners promised in March to make a 60-day study to see if the county had need for any of the five buildings now vacant at the training school. The county's decision should be forthcoming by May 15.

Nisun said the three units, if approved by the township board, would be installed in the two police cars and his personal car. The phone hook up and the radio system would be switched to the Michigan State Police frequency.

Presently the township cars are dispatched through the Wayne County Sheriff's department when there is no unconstitutional as both trustees and the circuit court plaintiffs, the New Democratic Coalition of Livonia, had already agreed upon.

Although a new state statute would take precedence over any plan developed locally by trustees, the trustees must nevertheless—under court order—submit a plan by June 1. The court is not likely to withdraw its order unless a state statute is enacted prior to the June 1 deadline—and there appears little likelihood of that now.

one on duty in township hall. Phone calls to the police department also are taken through the sheriff's department when no one is in township hall.

Nisun said the phone number of the police department would still be 349-6666 if the system was switched over to the State Police post. "The local number enables township residents to reach help without having to pay for a toll call," he noted.

'Year-Round' Rebuttal

Report Blasts School Study

Northville's "Year-Round School" study came under heavy fire this week as the citizens committee opposed to it released a 35-page report that not only rips the study's validity but also labels it a waste of state monies and local talent.

While producing this waste, charges the report, school officials ignored the advice of the electorate and passed up an opportunity to plan an "enrichment" program that citizens of the school district would have found far more rewarding and acceptable.

Financed and researched by the Committee Opposed to Year Round School, the report was prepared by Larry Gucken with assistance of committee members. It comes just as the school district readies "mock scheduling" of all students on the four-quarter concept for the next four years (see advertisement on Page 6-A).

Aiming its biggest blows at the cost of a year-round program, the report contends the concept will result in added costs—not a savings to the taxpayers. "Because of the way that the financial aspects were presented (by the phase II study of school officials), it would appear that the writer was trying to cover up the fact that year-round schools may be more expensive," the report asserts.

"The study group for financing appeared to have been ill informed and actually made a gross error in the amount of savings—almost 200-percent error. In addition, the financial section is extremely confusing and requires a great deal of outside study and investigation by an expert in order to understand it," states the report.

It refutes the administration's estimates that the district will face an annual $466,000 cost without year-round school. "What they (administration) neglected to calculate," says the report "was the effect that the additional revenues that will be derived from the new taxpayers and the number of new taxpayers will have on the cost."

Specifically, the report contends that if this factor had been considered, the published cost per taxpayer of $99.13 would in reality be $37 per taxpayer. "The administration's 'study' has made the assumption that operational costs will remain the same under both the proposed quadrimester and the traditional concept ...

"Does this mean that the administration intends to pay the teacher the same rate for 240 days that they now pay for 180 days?

"If this is true, the teachers will probably maintain 180 day contracts in their union negotiations and force the administration to hire 33-percent more teachers at the 180-day contract rate. If this happens, the above assumption may be invalid and the operational costs may be higher than the traditional concept."

The report criticizes school officials for suggesting a year-round concept in Northville that has proven unsuccessful elsewhere. Showing a table of school districts that have adopted a year-round concept in the past, the report says that of 15 district's 11 either dropped or rejected the concept primarily for three reasons—one, that it is more expensive, two it produced poorer quality education, and three it didn't meet needs of the community.

Criticized also was the administration's failure to be responsive to the will of the electorate. After voters indicated last June that they "would not cooperate with the administration in the implementation of year round school—even if they could show economic or educational benefits," the administration nevertheless "made a recommendation to the board of education that they continue with the study," the report charges.

"After several meetings and discussion with both the board trustees and the administration, the impression was received (by the committee opposed) that the administration with the support of the board of education was going to do what they felt was right without regard to the desires of the electorate."

The year-round study group, charges the report, "rejected the only year-round school concept that may have been both feasible and acceptable. That is the 'enrichment concept'. The only disadvantage that was listed was: 'cost is considerable greater.' This was unfortunate because this concept can be financially self-supporting and therefore be the least costly of all concepts. Furthermore, many of the residents are interested in enrichment and remedial education for both children and adults and would probably support the enrichment-community concept which can include adult education programs."

Concerning curriculum, the report suggests the administrative study gives the false impression that only a quadrimester concept would allow curriculum changes. "Both the curriculum coordinator and the superintendent," says the report, "admitted that the curriculum changes could be adapted to our present concept without going to year round school provided we could secure funds."

Calling the year-round study survey "extremely biased," the report expressed doubt that "anyone could derive scientific conclusions from (it)."

It labels the year-round public relations program "the biggest disappointment of all." "In reviewing all the press coverage and brochures, it is apparent," says the report, "that the designers of this material (were) more interested in selling year round school to the community than it was in informing us. The public relations program tried to sway public opinion. If this is truly a scientific study, the group would have tried to inform, not sway, the public to determine feasibility."

The report notes that "scheduling" has not yet been made but the year-round study nevertheless concluded "naively" that year-round school is feasible in Northville. "If scheduling is impossible," says the report, "then year round schools are not feasible in the Northville school system."

Phase III (the present status of the RADAR EQUIPMENT was tested this week by Northville City Police who, according to Chief Samuel Elkins, may purchase a unit during the next year. Elkins said acquisition of radar equipment is included in a grant which is awaiting approval from the federal government.

TOWNSHIP PLANNERS recommended approval to the township board Tuesday night of the rezoning of two small parcels of land adjacent to the Northville Forest Apartments on Five Mile Road. One parcel containing .2 acres of land was rezoned from multiple to residential while .156 acres was rezoned from residential to multiple. In other action, planners tabled a request from Greenspan Developers to rezone 16.295 acres of land to multiple from residential to permit construction of a 160-unit apartment complex.

FIGHTING THE DRUG problem at an early age is the aim of a Panel on Drugs program sponsored for the community by the Amerman PTA at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 4, in the school gymnasium. Police Chief Samuel Elkins, Jack Wickens, Northville High counselor, Dr. Joseph Jender, Plymouth pediatrician, Al Laux, local pharmacist, Herman Moehlman, attorney, and Father John Wyskiel of Our Lady of Victory Church, are scheduled to speak. The Reverend Timothy Johnson of Northville Presbyterian Church will moderate. The PTA will have a short business meeting at 7:45 p.m. and will serve refreshments afterward.

OPEN LUNCH hours for junior and senior high students were discussed last Wednesday night by a committee of parents, students, administrators and board members. The committee's decision was "unanimously in favor of rewriting the present policy," Superintendent Raymond Spear said, "to allow students to leave the campus for lunch." The committee directed the students and administrators to revise the policy and submit it to the superintendent for recommendation to the board of education.

Organ Entertains Questers

By JEAN DAY

ORGAN music, played on an antique pipe organ which had been purchased when a little Catholic church was being demolished in Detroit in 1968, formed the program for Base Line Questers and their guests from other area chapters Monday.

The Questers were invited to the home of Mrs. Robert Thibideau on Cooley Lake Road to see and hear the instrument originally installed in the church in 1866 and made by J.J. Johnson, a 19th century organ builder.

Mrs. Thibideau, who is a church organist, even had printed programs ready for her guests. Explaining that the organ was geared to baroque music, she played a program with several Bach selections, concluding with the stirring "Fugue in D Minor."

After her husband researched the subject, Mrs. Thibideau related, the original 300 pipes of the organ were increased to 427, visible behind the Victorian wrought iron railing of her living room balcony. Program arrangements for the Questers were made by Mrs. Fred A. Wagoner, whose schoolteacher daughter teaches Mrs. Thibideau's children.

MEAD'S Mill Quester chapter elected Mrs. Gordon Snyder president for 1971-72 at an election-dessert meeting April 22 for which Mrs. Snyder was hostess at her Six Mile Road home.

Other new officers are Mrs. John Stuart, vice-president; Mrs. George Johnson, secretary; and Miss Carol Kalmbach, treasurer.

"PIECES With Personality," program for the May meeting of Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church to be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the church, also deals with antiques. Election of officers is scheduled.

Ollie Nan (Mrs. Gordon) Smith, proprietor of the Four Sails Antique Shop in Novi, is to give the program, which will feature copper, brass and pewter antiques. Mrs. John Stuart, program chairman, invites league members to bring items on which they would like Mrs. Smith to comment. Members also may bring guests to this meeting.

St. Laura's Guild is in charge of refreshments. Mrs. Richard Kelly, chairman, is being assisted by Mrs. Donald DiComo and Mrs. Arthur Palarchio. (Since Mrs. Smith's shop also specializes in fresh buttermilk and cheese, these will be served with an apple dessert.)

WESTERN Suburban Junior Women have an outstanding year to celebrate at their installation dinner meeting May 10 at Hawthorne Valley Country Club.

During Mrs. Dale Starr's first year as president, the active group garnered seven awards at the recent state convention of junior women's clubs in Detroit. In addition to four for membership, there was a fine arts award and citations for work in Indian affairs and CARE.

Mrs. Starr will be installed for her second term as president. Other officers from Northville to be installed include Mrs. Donald Baxter, first vice-president; Mrs. James Clarke, second vice-president in charge of membership; and from Novi, Mrs. Larry Szuby, education department chairman, and Mrs. Terry Wayne, conservation department Chairman. Mrs. Bruce VanDeusen of Birmingham, assistant state junior director, will be the installing officer.

The 50 members and guests expected will be entertained with a half-hour program by the We-Way-Co Chapter, Mrs. Adelina, under the direction of Gordon Limberg.

Mrs. Starr has announced that the club is nominating two members, Mrs. Keith Termaat and Mrs. Kenneth Zeeman, for Junior Clubwomen of the Year awards.

ALPHA NU Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma International was brought up to date on some of the cultural programs being offered in the Northville Public Schools by Miss Florence Panattoni, curriculum coordinator, at its spring brunch program for which Mrs. John Hobart opened her new home last Saturday.

Mrs. George Bradford reported on the predicament of North American Indians.

Alpha Nu Chapter's grant-in-aid, it was announced, will go to Miss Elaine Rybka of Plymouth, who will be attending the University of Michigan to major in elementary education. Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. J. L. McKinney and Mrs. Karl Glenn screened applicants.

Miss Ione Palmer, president, congratulated Miss Ada Fritz on her Alpha Iota state nomination for recording secretary. Miss Diana Lance, Mrs. Martin Miller and Mrs. Charles Egge, who have been unable to attend regular winter meetings, were welcomed by the chapter.

Arrangements of daffodils and forsythia on the dining tables blended with the lemon color scheme. Brunch was served by Mrs. K. H. Babbitt, Mrs. B. C. Carter, and Mrs. Glenn, who assisted the hostess.

Love" for her wedding music. Given in marriage by her father, Kathy wore a full-skirted gown of white satin with fitted bodice and chapel train. It was trimmed with white lace and rhinestones. A crown of rhinestones held her fingertip illusion veil.

She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of miniature white carnations and blue forget-me-nots centered with an inserted corsage of white roses.

The bride's cousin, Beth Carter, was maid of honor in a mint green, floor-length gown of soft crepe, fashioned with an empire waistline and accented with dark green velvet ribbon. Ratherts Host Japanese Girl

OSAKA-BOUND---Asako Yamanoi, a young Japanese businesswoman, proudly displays the huge stuffed bear given her by a Montreal customer to her Northville hostess, Mrs. Kenneth Rathert. She has been the houseguest of the Ratherts for more than a month.

A friendship that began during English lessons in a Japanese YMCA resulted in a visit to Northville this month for a young Japanese businesswoman, Asako Yamanoi.

Her Northville hosts through Tuesday have been Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rathert, who invited Asako to visit at their home on Maplewood after hearing that she would be coming to this country. Their son, Kenneth A. ("Bud") and his wife have been working in a Lutheran Church Peace Corps program in Japan, and Asako was in one of his English classes at the Osaka YMCA.

By both American and Japanese standards, the 23-year-old visitor is exceptional. Instead of a traditional Japanese marriage, still usually arranged by parents, Asako is seeking a career in business.

In her job with a Japanese importing firm, Eastern Traders Company, Limited, she does bookkeeping and makes shipping arrangements. To become more valuable in her firm and gain a more responsible post, the young woman decided to learn English.

It was through her "Y" class that she joined a tour coming as far as California and continuing on into Canada. (It did not go further, she explained, as many on it did not speak English and would be able to get around on the West coast, but not elsewhere.)

Hearing this, the Ratherts' son asked them to invite Asako to Michigan. Not only has she visited here, but Florida. She arrived just in time to join the Ratherts and daughter, Lynne, on a spring vacation trip south. Enroute home, they showed her Washington, D.C. Since then, she also has spent a few days on the Kalamazoo College campus with Lynne.

Last weekend the young businesswoman was "working" as she flew to Montreal to visit a wholesale company that does business with her employer. It was a good will visit to the company that sells gift items, and Asako was "gifted" with a huge stuffed bear—the kind American teenager delight in collecting.

Asako, too, was amused with her gift and hoped the airlines will find a storage spot for it so that she can display it at home. She had the bright bear with her as she met the Ratherts in Toronto after the Montreal meeting. (They had driven up for a district Rotary meeting.)

As she left Northville Tuesday Asako was planning to visit another of her firm's customers in Los Angeles before leaving for home from San Francisco.

Although her English is halting, the young visitor is much more fluent than when she came, Mrs. Rathert notes, adding that she also is taking back to Japan many first-hand experiences, including coloring Easter eggs and being honored at a birthday party (she became 23 last week.)

Although Asako's west coast encounters with hamburgers left her liking American food "except hamburger," Doris Rathert introduced her guest to it in more acceptable casserole form. In turn, Asako showed how to cook delicious rice dishes

Asako will have much to report to the young Ratherts when she arrives in Japan. Their work there, she mentioned, includes holding English classes in a factory and a junior college as well as at the YMCA. They even conduct a class in their apartment.

While her employer granted her a 50-day vacation for her trip and paid for the visit to Montreal, the tour was an expensive one, more than $1,500, for a young woman. Next time, it's Asako's aim to "come all the way on business."

LEAGUE LEADERS—Mrs. Steven Orban, center, elected president of the Northville-Plymouth League of Women Voters last Thursday, checks the League's state convention schedule with Mrs. George Gougeon, left, new treasurer, and Mrs. John Federspill, second vice-president, both of Northville. They plan to attend the state session May 19-21 in Lansing.

Mrs. Orban Head Of Women Voters

Mrs. Steven Orban of Northville was elected president of the Northville-Plymouth League of Women Voters at the annual dinner meeting last Thursday at Lofy's at which Jerome P. Cavanagh, former mayor of Detroit, spoke on the plight of the nation's cities.

Completing the new slate are Mrs. John Federspill, second vice-president, Mrs. George Gougeon, treasurer, both of Northville; and Mrs. Robert Soriso, first vice-president, and Mrs. Joan Congdon, secretary, from Plymouth.

Directors elected are Mrs. Harold Wright, Mrs. Charles Ayers, from Northville, and Mrs. Price Watts, Mrs. Paul Cargo, Mrs. Oded Borowski, Mrs.

Donald Stacy from Plymouth, and Mrs. Ross Seymour from Milford.

As new president, Mrs. Orban also appointed Mrs. Harry Odle, Mrs. Elden Biery, Mrs. Kent Mathes and Mrs. Edmund Steel of Northville and Mrs. Robert White of Plymouth. At the local level, members voted to continue their community planning study of the Northville-Plymouth area and to initiate a study of the Northville-Plymouth school districts.

Adoption Club Forms

The recently formed Council on Adoptable Children will meet Friday, May 7, at 8 p.m. in St. Peter's Lutheran School, 1309 Penniman, Plymouth. The group is open to all residents in the Northville-Nowi area.

The program for the evening will feature a panel discussion by parents of adopted children. Up for discussion will be experiences they have had and how to go about adopting a child. Questions from the audience will be welcomed, Mrs. Glenn Tuffnell, president of the council, said.

The council was formed in early April and the panel discussion will highlight the first meeting. The council meets the first Friday of each month and the public is invited to attend.

"We try to help adoption agencies and parents who are looking for a child to adopt, thereby helping the child," Mrs. Tuffnell explained.

PENNY SCANTLIN

Stewardess Flies World

Penny Scantlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scantlin, 46287 Pickford, already has flown to Paris, Hawaii and Alaska in her new job as a stewardess with World Airways of Oakland, California—largest charter airline in the world.

She will be flying to Europe and the Far East regularly in the company's fleet of new DC-8 "stretched" jets, which will carry 250 charter passengers.

She received her BS degree in home economics and business from Western Michigan University where she served as the university's 1968 representative on the J. L. Hudson college board. She is a member of the National Drama Society and is a Northville High School graduate.

Her interest in flying began early as her father is manager of passenger service with General Motors Air Transport section. Her parents had hoped to see her in Paris but were not able to coincide their schedules earlier this month as they vacationed in Spain and Portugal.

The Scantlins visited Lisbon and Granada before returning from Madrid. Miss Scantlin is based in San Francisco where she has an apartment.

School to Study Ways to Avoid Fiscal Crisis

Alternative steps the Novi Board of Education may take in the wake of last week's election defeat of a 5-mill increase are on the drawing boards and are expected to be ready for consideration next week.

In a special informal meeting Thursday, the board directed Superintendent Thomas Dale to prepare alternatives for study and consideration by the board.

Meanwhile, Board President Bruce Simmons has urged fellow members to trim as much from the proposed 1971-72 budget as possible—without hurting academics—and then go back to voters in June for a request for a lesser millage increase.

It was Simmons, along with Trustee Ray Warren, who initially voted against placement of the 5-mill proposition on the ballot preferring instead a lesser amount. Subsequently, Warren became convinced the entire 5-mills was necessary and campaigned for passage Simmons did not.

The Board president Thursday suggested delaying the opening of the new elementary school (or perhaps opening the new school and not opening Novi Elementary), "holding the line on salaries" or allowing only a minimal salary increase, and increasing the teacher-pupil ratio

(Also tossed onto the table but not seriously considered was a comment that perhaps a cut-back in salaries would be preferable to a teacher layoff.)

Simmons contended that consideration of specific cutbacks Thursday would be premature. Nevertheless, at the prodding of Trustee Jacob Durling the board came up with a list of cuts it could consider following the superintendent's alternative proposals.

These and the resulting estimated savings include: Trimming high school art, $5,000; cutting remedial reading, $16,000; cutting elementary library $24,000.

These and the resulting roughly estimated savings include: High School art, $5,000; remedial reading, $16,000; elementary libraries, $16,000; elementary art, physical education and vocal music, $24,000; high school strings, $10,000; high school co-op program, $8,000; reduction in government study, $4,000; reduction in speech, drama and English offerings, $4,000; jaycee baseball, football and basketball, $2,000; interscholastic sports bussing, $6,000; band, $8,955; and increasing the student-teacher ratio to 30-1, $30,000.

In discussing the possibility of not opening one of the elementary schools, several board members took the position that it might be more advantageous to open the Village Oaks school and keep Novi Elementary closed. Their reasoning centered around the higher possibility of vandalism to the new school (some has already occurred during the construction stage) should it remain closed.

Other trustees noted that, because more facilities are offered at Novi and the fact that bussing of Novi Elementary youngsters to Village Oaks might prove more costly, it might be wisest to keep Village Oaks closed.

Opening of Village Oaks next September may be a moot question, it was noted, because construction delays could prevent full occupancy. Dale concurred, saying construction delay resulting from strikes could hinder programs.

If one of the elementary schools is not opened, however, it places greater importance on use of the middle school.

It has been stressed in the past that with additional students enrollment, transferring of the sixth grade to the middle school should reduce an overload at the elementary level. If neither Village Oaks nor the middle school is opened, officials will be hard-pressed to find room for youngsters at Novi Elementary and Orchard Hills Elementary schools.

YOUR LIFE AMERICA—“This is Your Life: American Song,” presented by the Novi High School choral department, drew a capacity audience Friday night as the program traced the development of American music from the Negro spiritual to modern folk music. Soloist Janet Warren sang one of the 30 numbers.

Vote to Decide Split Tax Plan

A proposal that may be put to voters in June asking that half of the school taxes be collected in the winter and half in the summer, is being presented to the Novi City Council for consideration.

Council members, in an informal meeting with school officials earlier, indicated they have no objection to dividing the collection of school taxes provided the majority of citizens concurs.

In view of the council's position, the school board has drawn up an "advisory question" that it may place on the annual school ballot in June. Only the wording of that question is being studied at this point.

While the school board could place the question on the ballot without concurrence of the council, board members see cooperation as prudent since in the final analysis the city—not the school board—is the collecting agency for school as well as municipal taxes.

An advisory question on an election ballot is not binding, but rather it represents the "feeling" of the people voting on the question.

The school wants to have its taxes collected twice annually to avoid the costly practice of borrowing money against future revenue. Interest on such borrowed money has run into thousands of dollars over the past years, officials point out.

They emphasize that collection of school taxes twice annually does not mean doubling of taxes. Rather, it means splitting the total collections so that part of the money is available in the fall when schools begin operating and part later in the school year.

A significant reason for shortage of funds in the fall has been the late payment of state aid. Already this year, for example, state aid payments to the district are running months behind schedule.

In a letter from the state earlier this month, school officials were informed that 40-percent of the February and April aid payments are being delayed indefinitely. It may be early summer before these back payments are made, local officials point out, and no one really knows when subsequent future payments are to be made.

In its April letter to the state suggested that if the delayed payments present a problem it may be necessary for Novi "to borrow against 1970-71 state aid... still due." Borrowing money for this purpose, even though it is the state that makes it necessary, falls on the shoulders of local school districts and it is the school districts—not the state—that must pay the interest on borrowed money, Novi officials noted.

Presently, the "only thing" that permits continued operation of the Novi school system, said Superintendent Thomas Dale Monday, is the locally collected tax.

over both cars", police said.

Green's car traveled some 120 feet from the point of impact and turned over on the south side of Grand River pining Green as he tried to escape.

Bennett's car veaved some 300 feet down the road before also over-turning. A passer-by, Dearborn Heights Patrolman Richard Ackling, pulled Bennett from his flaming automobile, "saving his life," according to police.

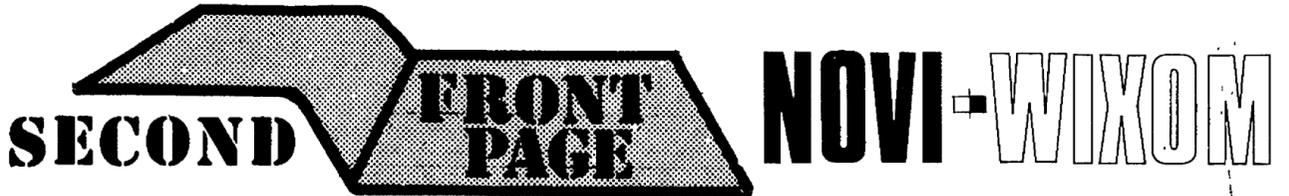

Green, trying to escape his car by going out the rear window, got his trouser leg caught on a piece of metal, according to police, and became trapped.

Several officers and spectators had to pick the car up before Green could be freed.

Both men were taken to Botsford General Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises but neither were seriously injured they were released Saturday morning.

Green is an employee of the Gulf plant, where he drives gasoline trucks. Bennett was charged by police with reckless driving.

Wixom Gets Budget As State Eyes Roll

A proposed budget calling for a total expenditure of $625,385 was presented to the Wixom City Council Tuesday night by Mayor Gilbert Willis.

It reportedly provides for a 6.2 mill levy, but details were not disclosed pending examination by council members.

In presenting the 1972 proposed budget, Willis emphasized that it represents a difficult task because of the silence from the State Tax Commission on the knotty subject of the city's tax roll.

"The commission has accepted the city's roll for re-examination," the mayor explained, "but there are several things pending their decision and action."

Wixom's board of review had refused to accept the roll, labeling it full of inequities. Subsequently, former mayoral assistant, Robert Case, who struggled unsuccessfully to complete the city's reappraisal program prior to the originally scheduled review board hearing, resigned. That roll is now in the hands of the state.

A ruling on Wixom's assessment roll was expected Wednesday afternoon from the tax commission, the mayor said.

In developing the budget proposal, Willis said he used the city's last available equalization figure—1.3 issued last year and an assessed valuation of the city pegged at $51 million, which he said was acceptable by the state.

City officials fear that representatives of Ford's Lincoln plant, largest single taxpayer in the city, will appeal Wixom's tax roll whether or not it is redone by the state.

In other business during Tuesday's meeting, councilmen rejected a resolution from Edward Rose and Sons that they commit themselves to a construction date on the next two phases of the city's sewer expansion program.

The date was necessary, according to Edward Sheehan of the Rose company, because of construction schedules.

In order to complete their apartment development on Beck Road south of Pontiac Trail, the firm needs commitment as to how many taps will be added, and when, to Wixom's already overloaded sewer system, it was explained.

Councilmen were unwilling to proceed before word has been received on whether or not the city is to get state and federal grant monies.

Sheehan said that, once in the ground, his development would yield $25,000 a year to the city for payment of debt and, in a letter issued to councilmen, he indicated that if some decision weren't reached, soon his company might be forced to move. Councilman Robert Dingeldey, along with Howard Coe took exception to the letter, saying he felt the council was being threatened.

Councilman Gunnar Mettala cast the lone vote in favor of the Rose resolution, saying that he thought "the city is dragging its heels. It would only take a word to say we were going to start within the next year."

Willis said as much despite council action.

"This sewer is going to be expanded within the next fiscal year," he said, but he added later that the council didn't want to sign anything based on the unforeseen economic condition.

"I wouldn't sign anything like that simply because I don't know what that future is," he said.

Willis told councilmen and the audience he had been assured that state and federal grants would be available no later than November of this year.

In still other business Tuesday councilmen:

—Turned down a proposal for updating the master plan and zoning ordinances.

Chief contention centered around cost of the project pegged by Willis at some $33,000.

On Assessment District

Hearing Set May 10

By unanimous vote Monday night, Novi councilmen accepted a proposed special assessment district designed to produce the $700,000-plus that officials expect to spend on the future Grand River — Novi Road sewer system.

The payment plan, designed by Councilman Edwin Presnell on a basis of direct and indirect benefits, will be presented to the public May 10 in the community hall.

Almost as the vote was being taken, argument flared up over the "fairness and equity" of the plan.

A system by which to fairly charge both those using the sewer immediately and those who will use it 50 years in the future, as well as those who have odd-shaped lots that are deeper than they are wide or wider than they are deep, is extremely difficult, said Mayor Joseph Crupi.

City Manager George Athas added it might well be impossible.

Athas recommended that everyone who derives a direct benefit from the sewer (once it is built) be charged a flat rate. Councilman Denis Berry suggested charging by front foot facing the sewer.

Presnell's document levies charges according to the ultimate development potential of the land.

Time of the public hearing was set for 8 p.m.

In other business Monday night, councilmen amended city ordinances so as to give the library board "exclusive control of all monies collected for the credit of the library fund," and assigning them custody of all grounds, buildings, and materials associated with the library.

The board has allocated to it by charter, Mayor Crupi pointed out, "up to one mill operating expenditure."

Presently the board is operating at half that amount and, according to City Attorney Howard Bond, must seek council approval before the allocation may be increased.

Crupi took the position that the present allotment was too much.

"We're giving these people one-half mill by ordinance," he said, whether they need it or not."

Board Chairman Philip Cozadd

defended his group saying that members hadn't had a chance to sit down and determine exactly what they did need.

Cozadd pointed out that the previous board had held their funds against some future emergency. For this reason, said Cozadd, there was a money surplus.

Crupi pointed out that although the board was autonomous the money produced by the one-half mill had to be kept in a city treasury and signed for by a city official.

In still other business Monday council — Heard city attorney report that his investigation of Chapnam Street — the street that Councilman Edwin Presnell claimed ran through the property owned by Gabriel Glantz on the corner of Lake Shore Drive and Novi Road — had in fact been vacated by the township and was Glantz's legal property.

— Received a report from Councilman Louie Campbell that he had filed annexation papers with the State Boundary Commission in Lansing on Friday morning.

The documents represent an effort by the city to annex parts of Novi township.

— Gave Athas permission to install a sewage metering device in the Guardian Photo plant.

The move is designed to provide legal proof of how many sewer taps the plant uses.

— Received a letter from the Novi Police Officers Association (NPOA) asking that police negotiations begin early.

— Granted 12 sewer taps to Lake States Investment Company of Farmington for a strip shopping center to be located on 10 Mile west of Meadowbrook.

Cars Flip But Drivers Saved

A 61-year-old Detroit man, Doming Stanley Green escaped serious injury early Friday morning as Novi Police, assisted by passers-by, pulled him from the flaming wreck of his car on Grand River east of the Gulf Oil plant.

Green's car had been struck in the rear by a car driven by Edward Fitzgerald Bennett, 26, of Farmington, who police said had been traveling between 80 and 90 MPH "when his car collided with Green's at the bottom of a dip on Grand River."

The collision ruptured Green's gasoline tank and spewed flames "all

TOWN HALL CELEBRATES—Sommelier Walter Rosenberg pours a 10th anniversary drink for Mrs. Jack Doheny, new Northville Town Hall chairman, and for Mrs. Nelson Hyatt, retiring chairman, at the wine-tasting luncheon last Thursday which followed his lecture on wines.

Sommelier Rosenberg 'Pours' It's a Town Hall Celebration

Northville Town Hall had a party last Thursday—with ticketholders (at least those who also went to the celebrity luncheon at Lofy's celebrating its 10th anniversary in a warm glow.

At the center of festivities was Walter W. Rosenberg, proprietor of Wine Shops, Incorporated, who was more effervescent about the merits of wine than any bottle of champagne he advocated.

From the moment he was introduced by Mrs. Jack Doheny, new Town Hall chairman, the audience (which almost filled Northville High School auditorium) knew this was to be no dry lecture. Rosenberg appeared in white stretch pants, a wide white belt and black-and-white stripe shirt and around his neck was the traditional sommelier's heavy silver chain with tasting cup and vault key.

The Official Sommelier for J. P. McCarthy's In Focus radio program, Rosenberg proved his reputation as the only guest who could out-talk J. P. as he spread his enthusiasm for "the world of wine."

"Wine is a natural beverage," he explained, "without any side effect. If you use it properly, the only thing that can happen to you is that you will fall asleep."

"I've had a full and lovely life," he continued, "and attribute a good deal of it to wine. Wine lulls and mellows you."

He discounted the "wino" as an alcoholic who "can't afford liquor." - Terming himself "anti-liquor," Rosenberg said he sells it in his shop but tries to turn customers to wines.

Use of the natural fermented juice of the grape, he advocated, can "enhance your life when properly used."

He divided wines into three types: before dinner aperitifs, table wines and dessert wines.

The first, he said, should create a desire to sit down to good food. This should be a light, dry wine—not the former vogue of many women to order Harvey's Bristol Cream on-the-rocks (a dessert type.)

At the luncheon Almaden, a California mountain wine, was served first. Rosenberg suggested ordering California wines when dining out as they have "great stability" and "cost less." When buying wines, he mentioned, the cost can be reduced by buying in gallon containers.

"It's your place as the woman of the house to decide what to serve—and it's your husband's to pour the wine," the speaker declared as he referred to the title of his talk, "How to Woo Your Mate With Wine," and cited the role of the woman in creating the mood in the home.

The proper table wine, he said, has a degree of dryness; its place is to create a balance with food, adding—as a spice or herb—not detracting. All red wines, according to the expert, should be table wines. (Isabel rose' was served at the luncheon.)

The dessert wine chosen depends on what else is served, Rosenberg said, suggesting fruit and a sauterne. Cream sherry, port and madeira are rich dessert wines.

"Please try three kinds through the evening—it will never harm you," urged Rosenberg as he added another suggestion, "but remember to under-serve and under-pour."

"While there's nothing wrong with quaffing a wine and having pleasant dreams, the lovely aspect of wine is that you can be relaxed but aware of what's going on."

Important in creating the proper mood, he stressed, is having the proper glass. The basic glass has a minimum capacity of eight ounces and is tulip-shaped with the opening smaller than the bowl. This permits the "bouquet" or smell of the wine to be appreciated.

Holding a long-stem glass with deep bowl up, Rosenberg said this was the correct champagne glass, not the hollow-stem, unsanitary type with wide top "so beloved by you girls."

A glass for German wine was similar with shallower bowl.

Another Rosenberg admonition: Never fill the glass more than one-third to one-half full so that you can rotate the wine and enjoy the bouquet.

To conclude his lecture, Rosenberg turned to a bottle of champagne cooling in a silver bucket to demonstrate the proper method of opening the traditional "celebration" drink. It should be chilled very well, three to four hours in an ice bucket or five to six in the refrigerator, he began.

"Be aware there are 70 pounds of pressure there as you uncork and should the champagne not be chilled well enough, you easily can lose half a bottle as the cork shoots out."

"As you undo the cap, keep your hand over the top, especially while you are removing the wire a graffe for the cork can shoot out—and it's just not true that the louder the pop the better the champagne."

"Hold the bottle at a 45 degree angle and twist the bottle clockwise with one hand and the cork counterclockwise with the other—and it should come right out."

As often happens, it was a case of "do as I say, not as I do" as the festive bottle (cooled too briefly) effervesced.

Using his towel, Rosenberg suggested "one other practical reason" for having one in hand was should there be a defect in the bottle, it could crack as a warm hand clasps the cold glass.

The wine so appropriate for tastes Rosenberg said, used to be regarded as the "most expensive," but on today's market the best French Bon Jour of 1969 is $18 to $20—far less than some German wines which sell for $75.

"Send the kids out," he recommended, "and some Sunday morning try a Mimosa—half champagne and half orange juice on the rocks."

To serve groups Rosenberg gave his recipes for punches, which, he said, could save 25-30 percent over a liquor bill at a party:

CHAMPAGNE PUNCH

- fifth champagne
- 1 bottle dry wine
- 1 qt. soda
- ½ c Triple Sec
- ½ c. brandy (not cognac)

Chill together well. Gives 30 three-ounce servings for 10-12 people.

As his favorite punch, Rosenberg gave:

SANGRIA

- (A Spanish fruit-flavored punch)
- fifth dry red wine, preferably California burgundy
- ½ c. simple syrup (heat 2 c. water with 1 c. sugar)
- one orange sliced, quartered
- one lime sliced, quartered.
- Marinate the fruit in simple syrup.
- Strain and pour all over 12 ice cubes.

Garnish with slices of orange, lime.

To create an atmosphere at luncheon, he suggested "throw a strawberry into the glass of German Mae wine."

Calling air the enemy of wine, the proprietor of the shop in the basement of the General Motors Building in Detroit suggests storing leftover wine in smaller bottles, such as pop bottles which have tight snap-tops. It thus will keep 10-14 days in the refrigerator.

"There's no such thing as a cooking wine" was another Rosenberg declaration as he suggested any wine you drink can be used for cooking. It's a wonderful natural tenderizer, he declared as he suggested shaping aluminum about a steak and pouring in the wine to marinate six to eight hours at room temperature or overnight in the refrigerator. Apple wine was recommended for pork cooking.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TO ALL RESIDENTS OF THE NORTHVILLE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

This is to give public notice of the schedule for completion of our State sponsored Year-Round School Study Phase III. (Is Year-Round School acceptable in Northville?)

The public is invited to attend one of the remaining scheduled workshops designed to fully explain Phase III and answer any questions you may have regarding our study:

DATE	LOCATION	TIME
April 29, 1971	Moraine Elementary	8:00 p.m.
May 4, 1971	Rotary Club-Presbyterian Church	12:40 p.m.

If you desire to schedule additional workshops or have a personal interview, call Superintendent Raymond E. Spear, 349-3400

During the period of May 1 and May 15th, 1971, we will, in conjunction with our school census, conduct a family vacation preference poll of all families that will have children in school during the period of 1973 and 1977. One of the following census team members:

Joan Johnson (Mrs. Thos.) Fred Hartt
 Betsy Van Ee (Mrs. Rene) Neva Kehrer (Mrs. Chas.)
 Jean Angell (Mrs. John) Marian Zayti (Mrs. Benny)
 Will ask you to answer these questions in addition to the regular school census information:

- To indicate your first, second and third preference for a vacation quarter
- To indicate if you have no preference for a particular vacation quarter
- To indicate if none of the vacation quarters offered are preferable to you

You will also be asked to rank on order of their importance to you...

- * that all children in your family be on vacation at the same time
- * that all children in the same neighborhood be on vacation at the same time
- * that vacation quarters be scheduled as you have already indicated

We will then prepare a mock-school schedule for each family for the four year period of 1973-1976 school year.

You will receive this schedule for your family in the mail during the week of June 7, 1971.

When you receive your schedule, you will be asked to return a post card indicating your acceptance or rejection of this mock schedule as well as advising us as to whether the district should implement a Year-Round School program. Further, all families who react unfavorably will be asked to meet with a school representative during the week of June 14, in order that we may establish the reasons for unacceptability and thus be in a position to answer the question: Is Year-Round School acceptable, in whole, in part or not at all in Northville?

Those families who will have no children in school during this four year period will also be given an opportunity to express their opinion regarding the Year-Round School concept.

YEAR-ROUND SCHOOL WILL NOT BE IMPLEMENTED IN NORTHVILLE BASED ON MOCK SCHEDULING. YOUR BOARD OF EDUCATION WILL NEED MUCH MORE TO MAKE THEIR DECISION. Your cooperation in this State sponsored research study is appreciated.

Signed:

Man Dies Following Beating

In Township . . .

A 52-year-old patient at Northville State Hospital died Monday after he was beaten by a 26-year-old man, also a patient at the hospital.

According to Michigan State Police detectives who are investigating the death, Denzel D. Dernier, a permanent patient at the hospital, was attacked by the 26-year-old man at approximately 2:45 p.m. Monday. Dernier died at 3 p.m. At coronor's inquest was scheduled for Tuesday to determine the cause of death.

The attack took place in Ward 1 of "J" Building. Four attendants were on the ward at the time, detectives said, but were not near the two men when the assault occurred.

Dernier was admitted to Kalamazoo State Hospital as a permanent patient in March, 1965, and was transferred to Northville last July.

The attacker, who state police declined to identify pending investigation, had periodically been a patient at Northville since October, 1965.

A Northville man has been charged with being a disorderly person, resisting arrest and fleeing arrest following an incident at A & W Rootbeer on Northville Road Sunday night.

Township police reports state Paul J. Morgan of 366 Welch was creating a disturbance at the drive-in about 9:35 p.m. He was ordered by Township Patrolman Robert Budd to return to his car and leave.

When he did not comply, reports stated Budd told him he was under arrest. Morgan allegedly put his car in reverse and started to leave the drive-in after he was told he was under arrest.

According to police, Budd attempted to open Morgan's car door to stop him, found it locked and hit the window, breaking it. When he attempted to grab Morgan, reports stated Morgan drove away.

He was chased by township police and apprehended at Gardner Street and Northville Road. Budd received arm lacerations from the broken glass.

Morgan is scheduled to be arraigned on the charges in 35th District Court today, Thursday.

Township police are looking for a white male between the ages of 20 and 22 who exposed himself to a young girl walking in Cass Benton Park about 6 p.m. last Thursday.

According to police, the man was in the area of the maintenance building and drove a black Cutlass Oldsmobile.

Unknown persons broke into the guard office at Maybury Sanatorium April 19 and a black and white portable television set was stolen.

The guards reported the theft occurred about 11 p.m.

In Northville . . .

A 12-year-old youth was treated by city police for facial cuts he suffered when he was hit by a rock thrown from a green van.

Police reports said officers were stopped by a citizen on Randolph and Linden streets last Thursday afternoon who had the youth in his car.

The youth told police he was in front of his home on Six Mile Road when struck by the rock. The case has been turned over to township police for investigation.

Three bicycles were reported stolen in Northville this week. A child's red and white bike was stolen from 114 East Dunlap street between April 18 and 22. A red 26-inch and a light green 28-inch 10-speed boy's bikes were stolen April 22. The red bike was taken from St. Paul's Lutheran School and the green bike from 43798 Dorisa Court.

COURT NEWS

Following a pre-sentence investigation, Dean D. Loy of 18208 Jamestown Circle was found guilty of drunken driving, placed on six months' probation, ordered to pay probation costs of $60 and fined $69.

The action came April 20 in Judge Dunbar Davis' 35th District Court.

Five men pled guilty to reduced charges of driving while ability impaired and were each fined $69, placed on one year probation and ordered to pay probation costs of $60.

They are David J. Bowman, Alex Cierciarski and Donald R. Monette, all of Plymouth, Lewis J. Miller of 760 Carpenter Street and George R. Richards of Salem. Richards also was fined $19 for defective equipment — exhaust.

Ralph L. O'Neal of Monroe was fined $24 for speeding 40 mph in a 25 mph zone and $14 for driving with an expired license. He pled guilty to both charges. A charge of driving with a revoked license was nolle prosequi, meaning the prosecution will proceed no further with the case.

A Detroit man, Michael Carter, was fined $19 (suspended) after he pled guilty to a charge of soliciting without a permit.

In District Court on April 18, James T. Joyner of Plymouth was fined $104 for contributing to the delinquency of minors, $54 (suspended) for minor in possession of alcoholic beverages, $24 (suspended) on counts of defective equipment — no license plate light and failing to change an address on his drivers license.

Joyner, who was found guilty on all the charges, was arrested April 17 on warrants held by the city police department.

In Novi . . .

Break-ins plagued the area this week and last as Novi police investigated three different incidents.

A portable television, a radio, six guns and various personal belongings were taken from the home of Ed Butler of 26744 Beck Road last weekend as thieves made off with $789 worth of merchandise, police report.

The Butler family was on vacation at the time.

The William Maher residence, 44920 Byrne, also was hit while the residents were away on a weekend vacation.

Entry was through the family-room rear door, according to police who said that the home had been turned over "from one end to the other."

Police apprehended two run-away juveniles hiding in the basement of the River Road Children's Nursery, 43489 Grand River, as they discovered a break-in last week Tuesday evening.

The two were turned over to their parents according to police.

Henry Donald Collins, 36, of 16675 Meade Road was arraigned Friday on charges of carrying a concealed weapon before Judge Martin Boyle of the 52nd District Court.

Charges stem from a minor personal injury accident in which Collins' car hit a tree on Taft north of Eleven Mile Thursday.

Police said Collins had a gun in the car and tried to give it away before police arrived on the scene. Upon arrival, police officers conducted a normal investigation, finding the gun as a result of a citizen tip.

A small hand gun was confiscated and Collins was lodged overnight in Oakland County jail.

He will face Boyle for preliminary examination on Monday.

James Freeman was sentenced last week to concurrent sentences for manslaughter and assault with intent to do harm less than murder.

Sentences of 5-15 years on the manslaughter charge and 5-10 on the assault charge were handed down by Judge Clark J. Adams.

Charges arise from the shot-gun slaying of Marion Axel Smith last March.

Thomas Roy Pigg, 17, of 1317 East Lake Drive will stand trial before Judge Martin Boyle in the 52nd District Court May 10 on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Novi police arrested Doming Coleman, 21, Thursday on a nine month-old bench warrant from the 52 District Court.

The fire, which broke out at 10:30 p.m. following the explosion, was confined to the machinery and area in which Gregory was working.

City Hires Patrolman

Allen Cox has been hired as a patrolman by the Northville City Police Department.

Cox, who has been employed by the department as an auxiliary officer for the past year, will begin work Friday.

In announcing the hiring of the new officer, Chief Samuel Elkins said Cox will attend the Oakland Police Academy from May 3 through June 18 at Oakland Community College. The six-week course is required by state law before an officer is allowed to go on patrol, the chief explained.

A resident of Belleville, the 24-year-old Cox is a graduate of Henry Ford High in Detroit and has served with the United States Air Force.

He replaces Ed Filkins who resigned from the department earlier this month to take a job in construction work.

Players Perform 'Cactus Flower'

"Cactus Flower" has been chosen as the last play of the current season by The Farmington Players with performances scheduled for the first three weekends in May at their barn theatre on Twelve Mile Road. Several Northville residents hold season tickets to the Players' productions.

Paulsen to Appear At College May 8

EARTH DAY MARCH—An enthusiastic group of first and second graders from the South Lyon Elementary School demonstrated their concern for ecology when they marched to downtown South Lyon April 23 bearing signs.

Lyons Scour Napier Road

Six car and truck loads of trash were picked up on Napier Road between Eight and Ten mile roads Friday by the Lyons 4-H Club.

Led by president Jerry Bostwick, 16 Northville and South Lyon club members participated in the third annual trash clean up.

Among the items collected were mattresses, couches, truck and car parts, bottles and cans.

Napier Road residents provided the group with unexpected treats, club spokesmen report, as Russell Lyke brought soft drinks for the group and Mrs. Milo Larson baked cookies for them.

Lyon Township officials provided trucks to haul the trash to the township dump.

Adults helping with the project were Mr. and Mrs. Norwood Balke, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Nichols and Mrs. Howard Balke, 4-H leader.

Clean Up Set For Saturday

Ever notice the debris that just seems to sprout along roads when the snow leaves in the spring?

Salem Township residents have and will do something about it this Saturday (May 1) Beginning with a meeting to set up routes at the town hall at 8 a.m., citizens will cover all of the township's east-west roads collecting trash. Some of the north-south roads - those needing the most attention - are also on the agenda.

Following the cleanup project, a luncheon of hot dogs and soft drinks will be served at 12 noon at the town hall.

Township Inspector Fred Verran and the Salem Fire Department, organizers of the effort, urge all pick up trucks and cars with trailers to assemble for the project and hope to see nearly all residents of the township out for the effort. Several scouting and similar groups have already indicated they will turn out in force to lend their assistance.

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Somewhere in the vicinity of the "witching hour" last Friday night, a group of people crept around the outside of the L.A. Sims VFW Post on Loon Lake Road and had a great time painting some very unwanted signs on the sides of the building. "Stop The War", "Bring the Troops Home Now" and several others now stand out like sore thumbs and the Post is faced with an enormous painting job.

According to the bartender of the club, two young men dressed in "hippie type clothes" entered the bar supposedly interested in information regarding hall rentals. "It is thought that while the bartender was busy answering questions, the rest of the "crew" was outside doing their "work". The signs are very neatly printed in black paint and as Doris Merkle said, "if they were signs we wanted, you just couldn't ask for better work".

Meanwhile, angry members have an unwanted painting job facing them. A young man recently returned from Vietnam has offered to round up a group to completely repaint the entire building. By the way, this is the first VFW Post to be defaced in the entire state. It's really sad.

A large group of well-wishers gathered at the home of Loretta and Don Carravagio on Sunday afternoon for a 25th wedding anniversary celebration. Marge and Bob Simmons from Irons, Michigan former Birch Park residents, were the honored couple. Friends and relations from throughout the State joined in congratulations to the very surprised couple. Supposedly, Marge and Bill had made the trip to see their great-granddaughter, Tammy Lynn, daughter of Marjorie and Bill Martin of South Lyons, baptized. It was a happy day.

Looking relaxed and "rested", Judy Kimmel and sons, Kevin and Craig, returned to Wixom after a 10-day jet trip to Phoenix. They left at the beginning of spring vacation from school and spent the time with friends. Shopping in Nogales, Mexico and a trip to the Grand Canyon, besides swimming and a little mountain climbing were packed into the week. There had been little rain so the cactus weren't in bloom but Judy said it was still beautiful and they had a great time.

Congratulations to Irene and Tony Zaccardelli on the birth of their little one, Cynthia Leigh, born on April 18. She weighed in at 6 pounds 6 ounces at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Art Cronin, who has seen more than his share of the inside of hospitals, has been readmitted to Veterans Administration Hospital in Allen Park. Here's hoping Art that the good doctors cure your ills and get you back in the "outside" world real quickly.

Carolyn and Fred Morehead of Maple Road spent a long weekend in Kentucky this past week. They drove to Ft. Knox to see Carolyn's brother, David Hackart, graduated from basic training. His platoon received honors upon graduation and now David takes further training in armored tanks. Carolyn said there were some fantastic restaurants in the area and from what she said, they must have sampled them all.

A fleeting glimpse was all they got of the heavily guarded church at Ft. Knox. A day spent at Churchill Downs was quite a thrill—everything was lovely and green and chilly. Quite a weekend.

The Wixom Elementary School PTA will have its last meeting of this school year on Tuesday, May 4 at 7:30 P.M. The meeting will be held at the new Southwest Oakland Vocational Center on Beck Road.

Not only will the new officers be installed but Mr. John Xenos, the principal of the Center will show a film entitled "Earning for Learning" and there will be a tour of the new facility. It is an "adult only" evening—there will be no babysitting service but all are urged to attend and have the opportunity to view the building.

Vern Spencer was released from Botsford Hospital and is now at home recuperating from his illness. A little warm air and bright sun-shine would probably help.

A group of young people from the Wixom Baptist Church journeyed to Lansing last Sunday for the Teen Talent Contest Finals sponsored by the Conservative Baptist Association. Brenda Fuson captured second place in the vocal solo classification while the vocal group consisting of Brenda Fuson, Gwen Fuson, Jackie McAtee, Beverly Warren, Laura Shoemaker, Sue Smith, Bill Grisson and Marty Smith took second place in their category. Congratulations to you all on your good jobs.

Bill Miner, son of the John Miners of Hopkins Drive, who is here from Greece visiting his parents drew the tickets in this week's raffle. First prize of $50. was won by Alice Dean of Union Lake and an employee at Korex, the $35 second prize was captured by Fern Dixon of Walled Lake who works at the Co-Op and third prize of $15 was won by Pearl Willis.

We have a jam packed Community Calendar for this month so do please take note:

The cakes were baked, signs made, and goodies prepared for the County Store and all was in readiness for the PTA Fair last Saturday. Who ever thought the city would awaken to, of all things, snow? Since the booths were too large to be brought into the building, the fair had to be cancelled. The PTA Board is now setting up a new date which will be announced shortly. Lets just hope that the weatherman doesn't pull another nasty trick.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Spring's barely here, but summer's hot breath is already bearing down on the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce.

August 6 through 8 are the dates uppermost in the minds of Chamber leaders as they prepare for the Second Annual Northville Fair.

Naturally, they're predicting that it will be "bigger and better" than last year. Not only because of the experience gained from the first venture, but because better methods have been devised to assure generous profits for all participating organizations.

Gerald Stone is acting as fair manager and he's called a meeting for Wednesday, May 12 at 7 p.m. at city hall to explain and outline plans for this year's fair.

Basically, the Northville Fair is designed to promote community spirit and goodwill by providing fun and entertainment for people of all ages.

But in addition, it's intended to serve as a painless means of fund-raising for all community non-profit organizations.

So to be successful, the Fair must have the cooperation of these organizations.

Stone's hope is that all organizations will send a representative to the May 7 meeting so that the Chamber of Commerce may be given an opportunity to explain the "once-for-all" fund-raising plan.

All the ingredients for success are available to the Fair.

First of all, the major expense of such an undertaking has been donated.

The spacious Northville Downs facilities have been made available without charge by the management of the Downs and the Northville Driving Club. And thanks to the late Harley Cole and his widow, Mrs. Cole, adjoining parking space has also been donated to the community effort.

Secondly, all arrangements and details of rounding up entertainment is undertaken by volunteers, members of the Chamber of Commerce.

Stone points out that this year's event will have a much larger variety of rides, a rodeo and the popular Hell Drivers. In addition, he has obtained a large number of booths featuring games and various attractions which may be sponsored by local organizations.

The organizations will share in the profits of these booths thereby guaranteeing a profit with no more investment than time and manpower.

The Chamber hopes that local organizations will take advantage of the Fair, and the crowds it promises to attract, to stage the special events they may be planning for this year.

Why not a "once-for-all" community-wide promotion with all local organizations combining efforts?

Before your club takes its summer break, be sure to send a representative to the Chamber's Northville Fair May 12 meeting.

Help make this year's Fair a money-maker for your non-profit club and a fun-event for the community.

Speaking of promotions, Northville's retail merchants have elected Del Black as president for a second term and have announced that the annual Sidewalk Sale event will be staged July 31 — just one week ahead of the Fair.

But the merchants will get a rest Monday, May 31 and July 5. They'll close to observe Memorial and Independence days.

Quietly, but effectively, Northville's city council is moving forward in property acquisitions to improve community business and services.

Latest acquisitions soon to be closed include the West Main street property owned by Kenneth Rathburn between the municipal parking lot and Pure Oil station, and the residence of the late Dr. Richard Kerr on Cady street next to the Scout-Recreation building.

The Main street site will probably end up as customer parking for the proposed Northville Mall and other adjoining retail stores.

Mayor A. M. Allen envisions the Dr. Kerr residence connected to the Recreation building by a structure forming a large meeting facility for community groups such as Senior Citizens, scouts, etc.

He's suggested that a community-wide fund-raising campaign should be staged to involve the total community in the project. That way, explains the Mayor, "everyone in the community — city and township — will feel they've had a hand in providing a facility that certainly will have a demand for use in the near future."

There are skeptics, but the Mayor predicts it can be done. He won't buy the attitude that community spirit and pride is dead.

"People complain about paying taxes. But at the same time, they'll give money to a worthwhile community project. And I think this is one," commented the Mayor as he revealed he was looking for an energetic campaign manager.

Right or wrong about the fund-raising campaign, the Mayor, Council and City Manager are "right on" when it comes to foresightedness.

They have demonstrated rare courage in exercising a forward-looking policy of preparing for the future instead of being forced into decisions of emergency.

And happily, the council is serving a community that has recognized the wisdom of the course and has given its support.

Governor Milliken's School-Tax Reform?

Marvin Stempien

GOOD . . .

It appears that Governor Milliken is taking a very bold approach to the education enigma which must be solved. He is facing a crisis head-on and should be given credit in this respect.

However, there are some basic questions which have not been answered. How can school districts operate when there is no way they can determine what their individual budgets will be.

Also there is criticism of taking $5 million for remedial programs and placing it in a total package of $22 million for compensatory education. The $5 million should be retained for remedial programs as in past years.

Some legislators object saying that there is no real vocational education funding in the governor's proposal.

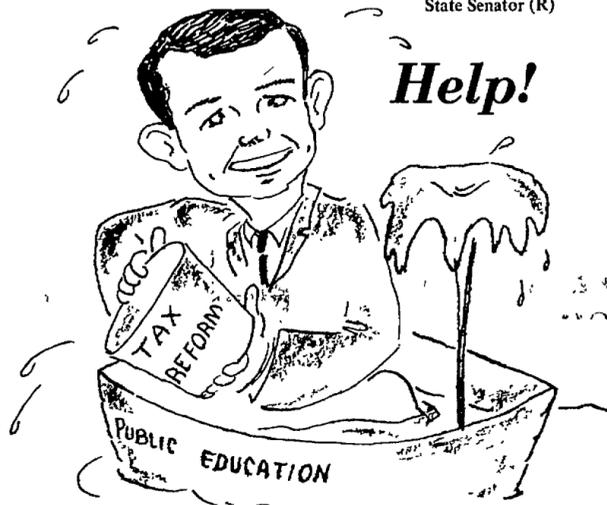

On a longer term basis, I think before we consider changing our source of revenue from the property tax to an increase in the income tax we must assure the taxpayers that the property tax will not later be raised and that a reasonable limit will be placed on the income tax.

There is no question that action is needed and this is what the governor is asking for.

Perhaps with some amendments his program will meet the approval of the majority in the legislature.

It is evident more tax reform is in the making. This meets my approval providing there is no additional revenues.

Labels Hurt Innocent

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

Labeling people is easy, but it sometimes ignores truth, frequently hurts the innocent, and is difficult to remove.

It starts with generalization, feeds on a few facts and plenty of exaggeration and, like a harmless grass fire, is soon out of control. Look what happened to Goldwater and Humphrey.

There's another kind of label raging out of control today. It's called welfare.

It started with the premise that some people who live on welfare are shiftless, lazy spongers who prefer the handout to honest work.

Fed by reports that welfare recipients wear expensive jewelry, watch color television, have illegitimate children, live in the Waldorf and yet belly up regularly for their welfare checks and their food stamps, it shored up suspicions and "some" became "many."

Eventually, "many" was dropped and welfare became that all-encompassing class of non-American people who sleep, rob, and enjoy free luxuries while Americans sweat at their jobs and try to scratch out a decent living.

When finally it was learned that these non-Americans were draining our tax treasuries, it gave rise to today's fashionable demand: "Throw the beggars out; let them sweat and scratch like the rest of us."

An entrenched label refuses to listen to truth.

June Brown, the black columnist for The Detroit News, antagonized a lot of label-believing Americans recently with her absurd observation that most black recipients dislike the welfare check, find it degrading, and would prefer to work for their wages.

Then she compounded her naivete by suggesting the government could be more beneficial if it provided jobs instead of checks.

My father, a non-American who thumped the streets during the Thirties, makes the same kind of observation when he recalls that working on the WPA was better than standing in the BAD . . .

It is certainly a long over-due movement in the right direction, but it is dangerously mis-directed in terms of equity and timing. It is incorrect in its general direction because it promotes three important principles: one, that the state assume a greater share of the primary burden for financing schools; two, that taxpayers get more pupil progress for their dollars spent on the whole system; and three, that homestead property tax relief be provided.

The governor clearly fails to recognize a fourth, indispensable principle of taxation — that is the ability of taxpayers to pay the proposed increased taxes. His tax increase would hit consumers unreasonably hard because his new 2-percent "value added" tax on business would be passed on to them in the form of higher prices. At the same time, the governor proposes no increase in the present income tax on corporate profits.

Elimination of all school operating taxes on real property is good, but his proposed 2.3-percent increase in the flat rate state income tax on individuals is an unfair burden on the middle and low income taxpayers. That inequity could be avoided by a combination of higher exemptions for dependents and-or a change to a graduated income tax.

His timing is dangerously misguided because he proposes that school tax revision be put to a state wide vote in November, 1971 and take effect in July, 1972. Our schools and homeowners face a fiscal crisis this year. The luxury of a whole year to implement needed change does not exist, nor is it necessary. The law can be changed now without a state-wide vote.

Asks Speed Signs For 'Short Streets'

To the Editor:

During the last two years I've read of many citizens expressing their opinions and views on problems and issues involving our city. I would like to shed some light on a problem facing people living in an area bounded by North Center Street on the west, Main Street on the south, and Eight Mile Rd. on the north.

This area consists of rather short streets that are strictly residential in nature. The problem however, is the fact that a great number of people use these streets to come from Eight Mile across to Main Street. Since there are no speed limit signs in this entire area most cars travel along these streets at a speed of over 40 mph.

This situation makes it dangerous for pedestrians, children playing, and drivers themselves. This year alone I've witnessed three minor accidents on the corner of Rayson and Hutton.

The solution to this problem would entail speed limit signs erected immediately. Stricter police enforcement of the speed limit is a must. If the situation doesn't improve thru traffic should be routed a few blocks farther east to Griswold Street. Thank-you for your time.

Sincerely yours,
David F. Rochette

Businessman Get Thanks

To the Editor:

This is an unabashed and unsolicited testimonial to one of our fine local businessmen, Mr. John Mach and his organization, John Mach Ford Sales.

A few weeks ago a careless driver precipitated a crisis in our family by demolishing our family station wagon. Since my car was left out of town, we had no transportation. The prospect of three to six weeks without anything to drive, with five children in the house, while the loss was adjusted by the insurance company, especially with me out of town for weeks at a time, posed what seemed to be an insoluble problem.

Our friendly Ford dealer solved the problem for us. He and his staff not only gave us a car to drive for a day, they sold us a new car and delivered it the same day and then helped us with the settlement on the wreck, suggesting the best ways to handle it to come out best for all concerned. Not only that, but they postponed the final financial arrangements until I returned from another two week business trip.

Three cheers for Mr. Mach and his fine organization. He is worthy of the support of Northville residents, one and all. I for one will recommend him at every opportunity.

Sincerely,
S. F. Krause

Appreciates Drug Talk

To the Editor:

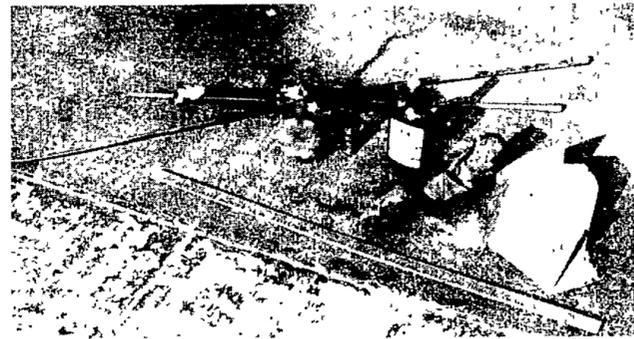

My sincere appreciation to Officer Starnes for his visit with the children at Orchard Hills Elementary School on Friday, March 19th, to conclude the Drug Abuse Program. His visit was awaited with much anticipation by the students and proved extremely informative to them.

My thanks, also, to Kaufman & Broad for their support in covering the cost of additional literature for the students. This financial support, along with Novi Rexall Drug's and Novi Jaycee's, brought forth the successful conclusion of the Drug Abuse Program.

Sincerely,
Mary Pazderski

CRASH-- The family residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Casterline came crashing down in a matter of minutes last Friday morning as bulldozer attacked from all sides. The site will become a parking lot for Casterline Funeral Home. The Casterlines have moved into a new apartment above the funeral home. Uncovered in the walls of the ex-residence were two old bottles, a buggy whip, an 1883 hymn book, a "Carpenter & Johnson" hardware yardstick and a pair of baby shoes (see below).

Students Thank Earth Day Helpers

To the Editor: We would like to take this opportunity to thank all those who helped in the massive Earth Day Cleanup held in Novi Wednesday, April 21. Among those who deserve special recognition are the U-Haul Co. of Novi for its contributions of a truck and a trailer, Novi Rexall Drugs for donating $8 worth of garbage bags and the use of a large van for transporting students. Mr. Russell Button also rates a thanks for loaning us a hydraulic lifter as did the city of Novi with the addition of two

To the Editor: On a beautiful spring afternoon last week I witnessed a heartwarming performance. Walking my dog out North Center Street I came upon two twelve-year-old young men, Bill Hartmann and Jamie Thomas, with a coaster wagon and two large containers into which they were depositing the trash they were picking up along the roadside. Later they were joined by a much younger boy filing a knapsack. I'm sorry I didn't learn his name.

'Grateful For Support'

To the Editor: Officers for the 1971-72 Jaycee year will be elected this month. With only a month left in my term as president of the Northville Jaycees, I am expressing the gratitude of a grateful chapter for the exceptional community support that we have received.

Not only individual members of the community, but the RECORD, City and Township of Northville, and those businessmen who have supplied us with the encouragement and financial support that is necessary for our existence as a service organization. Too often the proper credit is not given publically to those merchants who make projects like the 4th of July Celebration, Northville's Junior Miss, Santa Claus, and many others a reality. Seek Bus Garage Plans

Equipment purchases and discussion about the proposed bus garage highlighted a meeting of the Novi Board of Education Monday night.

Board members formalized the purchase of equipment for Village Oaks Elementary school totaling $3,187. The contract was awarded to Classrooms, Incorporated, whose bid was $5 higher than that of State Wide, because its equipment met bid specifications.

The board also received contracts from the Southern Desk Company for installation of science equipment, and from Imperial Equipment Corporation for installation of homemaking equipment - all at the Novi Middle School.

mechanized conveyor, advertised for sale at $1,000 but offered to the Novi school system at $750, from The Northville Record-Novu News. The conveyor is to be installed at Novi Elementary as a means of moving groceries, milk, and paper supplies in and out of storage.

In its discussion about the proposed bus garage, to be erected near the northeast corner of the high school property, the board decided to request preliminary drawing and cost estimates for both three and four-bay units.

Although they may be pressed into service for classroom use next fall if one of the district's three elementary schools is not opened, the three temporary classrooms now located behind the high school are slated to be moved to the bus garage site and used either for storage or offices - or both.

Payment for the proposed garage, if it becomes a reality, will come from voted construction monies - not from operational monies, emphasized board members who find themselves with money to continue the building program but short of operational monies. Voted construction money cannot legally be used to operate schools.

Valuation Climbs Here

Equalized valuation of the city and township of Northville has increased by more than $6 million, officials reported this past week.

Actually, the $6 million increase represents a $12 million boost in the total value of real and personal property in the city and township of Northville. The state qualized valuation (SEV) represents one-half of the market value of real and personal property and is the "assessed valuation" figure against which taxes are levied.

SEV of the city increased $3,424,551 from the 1970 figure of $26,537,895 to the 1971 figure of $29,962,446, while the township's SEV jumped $3,514,790 from $39,824,250 to $43,339,040.

The equalized valuation was up partly because of new or improved properties and partly because of a hike in the equalization factors (the figure used by the state to bring assessments up to 50 percent).

In the township, the factor jumped from 1.1144 last year to 1.1716 this year, while the city's factors climbed from 1.32 to 1.402 in the Wayne County section and from 1.37 to 1.48 in the Oakland County section.

HOME SAFE — It was a losing week for Novi's varsity nine as it dropped four straight to Saline, Milan, Churchill and Brighton. Things were not all that bad, however, as Tom VanWagner slides safely into home past the Churchill catcher for one of five Novi runs.

Wildcats Start Slow

Wildcat baseball coach Fred Gerhardt isn't a happy man.

That's because happiness is something other than a 0-5 win-loss record five games into the season Brighton: 9-4; Churchill: 7-5; Milan: 14-0; Saline: 14-13 and Dexter (the opener two weeks ago) 4-3.

"We're trying to get together as a team," said Gerhardt Tuesday before a slated sixth encounter with Dundee

"We've been hurt by errors in both the infield and the outfield, batting everything, about the only thing we do well, at this point is run bases," Gerhardt continued

"We've got 28 stolen bases in the last five games, and that's not too bad" The Wildcats have been sparked so far by catcher Tom VanWagner and outfielder Steve Bosak who lead the team in stick power with 538 and 537, respectively.

"That's a big problem," Gerhardt repeated "We haven't been hitting We've got eight hits between the Brighton, Churchill and Milan games. That's just no way to win ball games" Gerhardt has gone through a galaxy of pitchers including John Pantalone (0-2), Joe LaFleche (0-1), Dave Brown (0-1), and Bob Pisha (0-1).

"Pantalone's done the best so far," said Gerhardt, who planned to work the right-hander against Dundee.

Novi Still Looking For First Track Win

Novi cindermen were licked 0-3 wounds last week as back-to-back disasters at the hands of Chelsea and Saline worsened an already winless record.

The Wildcats traveled to Chelsea on Tuesday and were knocked flat, coming up first in only two of 14 events, to finish 90-27. Adding insult to injury, Saline visited Thursday and posted the local squad with a 77-41 black eye for their third straight defeat since an opening loss against Dexter (80-38).

Track Coach Del Munsen was matter-

Novi Golfers Post Win, Tie

The season brightened last week for Novi golfers as they carded a low 204 Tuesday to edge visiting South Lyon (207) and Saline (212) and then tied Milan (191) on foreign turf Thursday.

Veteran ace Less Branch fired a 43 for medalist honors in both matches.

The week's showing set the Wildcat record at 2-2-1 with a triangular loss to Dundee and Saline in the season-opener April 12

Tuesday, Branch led the Wildcat effort by 10 strokes over nine holes as senior Tom Boyer shot a 53 and Brad Sjolholm and Craig Hesse both holed out at 54.

Thursday, the Wildcats managed to work their way through Milan's home course with a 191 tie as Roger Johr followed Branch with a 46, Boyer with a 49 and Sjolholm and Hesse at 53.

Of Tuesday's victory, Coach John Osborne said "It was the home course advantage that helped us out most. We knew it and they didn't Godwin Glenns is one of the two best courses in this league, in terms of size of the greens and condition of the course

"There's a creek through the front nine that protects four holes and South Lyon and Saline had a little trouble with it," the coach continued

"The Milan course, on the other hand, was very narrow and very small hard to shoot The hills and the narrowness of the course made it very difficult for us, I think, but we still managed to break 200 for the first time" of-fact about the lopsided record.

"Chelsea and Saline are both good, big, class "B" schools," he said, "and they both have strong track traditions." "We have a track tradition, too," he added, "but its only two years old.

Monday, Munsen was looking for that first big win.

"We've been looking good all week," he said "We've got some boys back who were out before and probably could have helped us a lot

"What we need is work and conditioning. I've got one athlete who's a natural if he works hard. He's a pole vaulter and with effort he could be a for sure winner"

He was speaking of Sophomore Steve Lukkari who, in Steve Coon's absence against Chelsea, vaulted to a second place at 10'3"

The Coach hopes to beef up the middle distance runners with Jim Willimus who is just recovering this week from a bout with illness

"When that boy starts running," said Munsen, "which will be soon, you're really going to see something."

Pantalone hurled the opening contest against Dexter giving up six hits and five walks for five strike-outs. In his second loss, against Milan Thursday, he gave up 11 runs on five hits, walked six and fanned two

To anybody but a die-hard Novi fan, it didn't look good last week and this, as the Wildcats collected four runs for four hits from Brighton on Monday; five for two from Churchill Friday, and 0 for two against Milan Thursday

Novi's best effort came early last week, against Saline as the Wildcats fell one run short to wind up losing, 14-13.

Thirteen hits, including a solo homer by Dave Brown and doubles by Bosak and LaFleche highlighted an effort that cumulated in the seventh inning as Brown's round-trip capped Novi scoring LaFleche worked the mound in that one, splitting up duties with Bob Pisha Each allowed seven runs, fanning three and one, and walking six and one, respectively.

Thursday the sky fell in as the Wildcats were bombed 14-0 by Milan.

Milan piled up 13 of their runs in a single inning as Pantalone allowed five singles and four walks There were three fielder's choices and a sacrifice fly also in that inning.

LaFleche split duties with Pantalone on the mound as Milan grabbed a total of eight hits

It was the same story Friday although minus some of the sting as Novi met Churchill and lost its fourth straight, 7-5.

Brown worked for the Wildcats and allowed seven runs on 10 hits with four errors He walked four and fanned three Gerhardt called on Bob Pisha Monday to serve against Brighton The Bulldogs nipped him for eight hits and nine walks, but Pisha fanned five men, before the seven innings were over.

Novi worked Bulldog moundman Bruce Ritter for four hits and three walks

Northville Netters Split Matches, 4-1

It was another case of a good beginning and a bad ending for the Northville tennis team last week as Coach Bob Simpson's netters whacked Milford four matches to one on Wednesday and then were in turn whacked by an identical 4-1 score by Waterford Kettering on Friday.

In the week's opening meet against Milford, everything was turning up

Novi League Needs Help

A new league, formed by Novi Little League to handle the overflow from the majors and minors needs six volunteer managers according to organizer Bruce Place.

"The kids will range in age from 10 to 12," said Place, "and we want them to have a league to play in, but there may not be room on the major and minor league teams."

Place encouraged area youngsters who are interested in trying out to report to Novi Elementary school today at 6 p.m.

Additional information about the new league can be obtained by calling Place at 476-5167.

Northville Bats Cool As Lions Win, 2-1

After stretching its victory streak to five by ripping West Bloomfield 8-1 Thursday, Northville's varsity nine lost a 2-1 squeaker to neighboring South Lyon Monday as its hitting attack turned sour

"We are hitting the ball alright," said Coach Chuck Shonta, "but we hit it right to them.

"You figure we were up 26 times, got two hits, left four men on, and their pitches (George Murray) only worked two strike-outs....it means we flied out a lot"

Northville's lone tally came off two singles in the first inning as Steve Utley got on with two out, went to third on a throwing error as he tried to steal second, and sped home on a single off the bat of Bernie Bach. The side was retired, leaving Bach at second, as Lion third baseman Fred McNulty picked off John Crane at first.

Other than that, it was three-up and three-down for the Mustangs except for four walks and a batter.

Hurler Scott Evans (2-1) took the loss giving up four hits, fanning eight men, and walking four.

Thursday it was a different story, however, as the Mustangs went scoreless for five innings before erupting with an eight run blitz that earned them their fifth-straight victory. West Bloomfield had a one-run lead at the time

Scot Stuart started and ended that rally, leading off with a single and closing by ripping a three-run homer deep to left field.

Following his single Stuart advanced to second on a walk dealt Rick LaRue, and to third on a sacrifice by Utley Bach walked, filling the bases.

Crane then singled, scoring Stuart and LaRue Rick Asher followed with another single, pushing Bach across, and Dale Griffith passported Crane and Asher with the fourth single of the rally.

Griffith went to third on errors and Taylor walked Hurler Jeff Moon waited out a second walk as Taylor made an ill-fated attempt to steal second. Stuart's homer was followed by a fly-out, off the bat of LaRue to close out the inning.

Earlier in the game, Bach doubled in the second inning—the only extra base hit the Mustangs could muster in the first five innings of play.

Moon gave up five hits in picking up the victory—his first in two starts. The junior southpaw allowed two walks and fanned seven

The Mustangs are now 5-2 for the season

OUT AT FIRST — Northville third baseman Rick LaRue was part of the Mustang rally last week that bombed West Bloomfield, 8-1. Here LaRue prepares to fire a pick-off throw to first (that's Jeff Moon watching the action from the sidelines), that retired a would-be Laker rally.

Jayvee Nines Lose Squeakers

It was a good and a bad day Monday for area junior varsity fans as Northville and Novi squads split — Northville beating South Lyon 5-4 in extra-innings and Novi dropping its opener to Brighton, 4-2.

In Northville, the ninth inning was the big one as Bob Oginski doubled and went to third on a single by hurler Rod Crane who stole second. John Sherman walked to load the bases and a dribbling single off the bat Ted Marzonia drove in pinch-runner Claude Freel for the tie breaking Mustang run Earlier runs were produced in the fourth by John Forrer, Greg Phillips and Crane, and in the first by Phillips.

In his second victory of the season Crane fanned 11 men, walked six, and gave up five hits and hit one batter The Mustangs worked their runs on a combinations of nine hits and five walks

Northville was slated to carry its 4-1 record against Milford today.

In Novi, the Wildcat opening effort fell two runs short of Brighton's mark.

The Novi nine turned in two runs in the sixth inning as Brian Wroten smacked a lead off single and then scored from first on another single off the bat of Kevin LaFleche LaFleche followed him around the bases but received credit for a single.

"The first baseman and the shortstop had a few throwing errors," said coach Robert Wineburger, "that allowed our men to score."

Freshman Dave Brown worked the mound for the Wildcats fanning nine men, walking five and allowing five hits.

Novi nicked junior Bulldog Kevin Peache for five hits and nine walks, but were tagged with 10 strike-outs.

Batter Up in Wixom

The Walled Lake Industrial Softball League launched the 1971 season on Monday, beginning with a full schedule of four games on Monday night and ending after a 13 week schedule encompassing a total of 182 games, the Walled Lake Industrial Softball League will play their sixth straight year of organized slow-pitch softball in the Walled Lake-Wixom area.

As in the past two years, the league is composed of two seven team divisions. Each team will play 26 games and a first and second place team will be determined in each division. The two pairs of division leaders will then be matched with each other to determine an overall league champion located behind the Wixom City Hall or at a new lighted field located directly behind the Walled Lake Junior High School on Pontiac Trail in Walled Lake.

Most of the games will be played either at the Wixom athletic field

Games at the Junior High field will be played at 6, 7:30, and 9 P.M. on Monday through Wednesday nights. Games at Wixom will be played at 6:15 P.M. on Monday through Thursday evenings. As always, admittance to all of these games is free and the public is invited to come out and enjoy a night of softball.

Persons seeking additional information are asked to contact John A. Dawe, publicity director, at 624-3365.

Two Track Wins in One Day 'Double-Dual' Events are Great!

Editor's Note: No, a double-dual is not a new kind of exhaust system for souped-up hemi-engines at the dragway. Nor is it a tag-team fencing bout. A double-dual is a new way of conducting track meets in the Wayne-Oakland League this year. Three teams compete at once, but the results are scored as a dual meet would be. Thus, when Northville hosted Clarkston and Brighton last week, three dual meets were taking place at the same time: Northville vs. Clarkston, Northville vs. Brighton; and Brighton vs. Clarkston.

David Wright won the 440, the 880, and ran a leg on the victorious mile relay team as he single-handedly broke up the middle distance strength of the Clarkston Wolves and sparked Northville to a decisive 73-45 victory over one of their major contenders for the Wayne-Oakland League championship.

The Wolves prowled into town last Tuesday stalking Mustangs. It was a pack of talon-ted middle and long distance runners which made the Wolves so dangerous, a pack of runners that had swept to the league cross-country championship last fall and then went on to grab third place among all Class A schools in the state meet.

"Our meet plan was to try to break up their strength in all the running events from the 440 on up to the two mile," said Northville coach Ralph Redmond. "All we wanted to do was to keep them from grabbing first and second in the distances, then balance that with our sprinters, and beat them in the field events."

"But David made it easy for us. He broke their backs with those victories in the 440 and 880. In the 880 he just left the Clarkston coach with his mouth open. He just didn't expect something like that to happen."

In winning the two events, Wright posted the finest times of his career for each distance. In the 440 he ran a 51.9, and in the 880 he posted an excellent 2:01.2.

Wright got plenty of support from Dave Mitchell and John Stuyvenberg. Between them the three Northville stars swept six first places, more than the entire Clarkston team, and also sparked Mustang victories in both the 880 and mile relays.

Mitchell, who is rapidly establishing himself as one of the area's top hurdlers, moved even closer to school records as he took the 180 yard lows in 20.9 and the 120 yard highs in 15.6. In addition Mitchell copped second place in the long jump with a leap of 19'7" and ran a leg on the 880 yard relay team.

Stuyvenberg took the long jump (21'10") and the 100 yard dash (10.4), anchored the 880 relay team and ran on the mile relay team as he participated in four Northville triumphs.

Coach Redmond also got some outstanding performances from his high jumpers Rick Pickren and Bob Barger tied for second and third as they both cleared 5'10" and Todd Hannert, participating in his first meet competition, made it a sweep for the Mustangs by jumping an even six feet for the victory.

Any further proof that was needed to prove that this was Northville's night was provided in the 220-yard dash and the mile relay, the last two events.

With the meet well in hand Assistant Coach Dave G'raff proposed that Redmond pull Stuyvenberg and Carter out of the 220 and insert them onto the mile relay team for a shot at the school record.

The mile relay team of Wayne Enders, Jamie Carter, Wright, and Stuyvenberg failed in their bid for the record, but won easily and posted a 3-32.0, Northville's best time since 1968 and only .3 of a second away from the high school mark. Meanwhile, Brad Cole captured first in the 220 as he sprinted to a 24.1 clocking.

Mile Relay Northville (Stuyvenberg, Carter, Wright, Enders), 3:32.0.

If Northville's defeat of Clarkston was decisive, and it was, the Mustang's triumph over Brighton was downright smashing.

The Mustangs won every event except the mile run and the pole vault and swept all three places in the shot put, high jump, and 880 yard run as they piled up an 88-30 margin over the Bulldogs.

The victories of Stuyvenberg (long jump and 100 yard dash), Wright (440 and 880), Mitchell (high and low hurdles), Hannert (high jump), and Cole (220 yard dash) over Clarkston were also good for firsts against Brighton, but the Mustangs added two more victories in the shot put and the two mile run when the Clarkston finishes were discounted.

The biggest improvement came in the shot put as the Mustangs, who had been held to a second place finish against the Wolves, swept the event in competition with the Bulldogs. Rich Rutland's heave of 46'9" took first place while Rob Stoddard and John Coleman took second and third.

Rick Bell, second against Clarkston, took the two mile run with his time of 10:19, his best so far this year.

Northville also swept the 880 yard run Dave Wright's 2:01.2 stood up for first place, while Phil Guider (2:08) and Dave Newitt (2:10) completed the sweep.

JOHN STUYVENBERG SAILS TO ANOTHER FIRST

Dump Walled Lake, 77-41

Post Third Triumph

Northville's powerful track team took its third consecutive victory of the season last Thursday as they swamped Walled Lake Western 77-41.

"It was a non-league meet and we suffered some let down after our victory over Clarkston on Tuesday," said Northville coach Ralph Redmond. "But Western will be in our new league next year and I think that some of our boys were trying to establish themselves."

Redmond took advantage of the breather from league competition to experiment with new combinations, new personnel, and old personnel in new events. "That way I find my best for the league competition," he said. "But if the Mustangs were suffering a let down and if Redmond were only experimenting, you'd probably have a hard time convincing Western of that fact."

Northville grabbed first places in nine of the 14 events and swept all three places — the high jump, the shot put, the 100 and the 220 yard dashes.

As usual it was John Stuyvenberg who led the Mustangs. And as has been the case in almost every dual meet so far this season, Stuyvenberg won the long jump (22'0"), the 100 yard dash (10.2), the 220 yard dash (22.9), and anchored the 880 yard relay team to victory (1:35.5).

Dave Mitchell added two more Northville victories as he took the 120 yard high hurdles in 15.6 and the 180 yard low hurdles in 20.5. Mitchell also finished second in the long jump with a leap of 19'7 1/2".

Other Northville victories were turned in by Rick Bell in the two mile run (10:26.7), Rich Rutland in the shot put (45'2 1/2"), and Rick Pickren in the high jump (5'10").

Strange Links Trip Northville

Coach Al Jones' linksters found the going rough on unfamiliar courses over the past week as they dropped meets to both Walled Lake Western and Clarkston before returning to the familiar confines of Meadowbrook and victory against Milford on Monday.

Paint Creek was the scene of Northville's meet with Clarkston last Wednesday. Mark Krause led the Mustangs with a 42 and was followed by Brian Mills, John Hlohenic, and Gary Penrod, all of whom carded 44s.

But Northville's 174 total strokes was just not low enough to upend the Clarkston foursome of Tony Sanchez, Bruce Sowby, Dave Thomas, and Curt Lessier which had a combined total of 170.

"What hurt us the most," said Coach Jones, "was our unfamiliarity with the course. There were a lot of hidden greens, so our boys were shooting blind on their second shots and that cost us a few strokes. I think we'll be able to best Clarkston when we get them down here and they have to play on an unfamiliar course."

Nine strokes separated the Mustangs from Walled Lake Western on Friday as Northville dropped its second consecutive meet.

Steve Pauli, John Marshall, and Hlohenic shared medalist honors for the Northville team as all three shot 40s on the Hickory Hills Golf Course. Mills and Krause added 43s to bring the Northville total to 206.

Call Me 'Ace'

Northville's businessman's golf league opened in spectacular fashion at Salem Hills Tuesday night.

Attorney Philip Ogilvie scored a hole-in-one.

It wasn't any dinky effort, either. Ogilvie hit a four-wood 190-yards on the 17th hole.

Ironically, his opponent had to give the attorney one stroke on the hole in the handicap match. He scored a par three and lost the hole by three strokes!

Ogilvie scored a 46 for the nine holes and won his match.

The hole-in-one, Ogilvie's first, was a little upsetting. "I took a double-bogie six on the 18th," he admitted.

Meanwhile Western was shooting a fine 197 total as the Lorang brothers, John and Walt, carded a 38 and a 39 respectively.

After two consecutive defeats on unfamiliar courses, the Mustangs returned to the winner's circle on Monday when they defeated Milford by 33 strokes, 219-252.

"We really didn't shoot too well," said Jones of his team's victory, "but we really didn't have to as Milford only had one man who shot below 50."

Hlohenic and Marshall carded 42s to pace the Mustangs. Krause had a 44, Mills a 45, and Pauli a 46 to comprise the Mustang's 219 total.

Northville now stands with a 2-1 record in league play Friday they will host defending league champion West Bloomfield at Brae Burn before moving on to participate in the Dearborn Tournament on Monday.

Income vs. Property Tax

School Reform Splits Board

Though in agreement that methods of financing education must be reformed, Northville school board trustees are split on whether or not switching to an income tax from a property was the best way

Discussing Governor William Milliken's proposed school reform Monday night, trustees expressed doubt as to the income tax easing the burden on the taxpayers

Trustee Richard Martin said he seriously doubts "the proposed reform will lower taxes. There will be more gross taxes for the taxpayer to pay. The legislature in Lansing will have open season to lower and raise taxes at will and the only way people have now of protesting taxes is to vote down school millages"

Board President Dr Orlo Robinson stated if the "money comes from the state, there will be more and more state controls and less at the local level"

Trustee Andrew Orphan said he has long felt a reform in school financing was needed but "when you get another agency handling money, you never get a dollar for a dollar. There is always a little eaten up in administrative costs I would like to see the local community in control of their school district, not the state"

Trustee Timothy Johnson noted the "property tax is painful and taxpayers can take the pain out by voting down school millages and closing down educational institutions In the end the children suffer"

Mr. Johnson, who himself is a clergyman, pointed out that "through an income tax people who live on tax free land would also be forced to support education You would get some money out of the clergymen in the state who live on such land."

Trustee Martin Rinehart said "At present, there is no other solution but the income tax Education does not have much time Voters in districts all around us are defeating millages."

Trustee Stanley Johnston said the "property tax places an unfair burden on too many people with limited incomes I support the general concept of switching to an income tax Some people may be forced to pay more through an income tax for education, but there will be many who will pay less, those who cannot afford to pay more"

Martin said "relieving the burden on people with fixed incomes is noble and social but the burden will not be shifted to business. Business is only an exchange and it will pass it on to the consumers. The property tax is painful, real painful, but it's the only way people realize how much they are paying"

Trustee Glenn Deibert said he was in support of the income tax. "It will cost me more, but the burden should not fall on those who are unable to pay. We should get away from the suppressive property tax People who live on state owned land and renters would be paying for education, too, through an income tax"

"I am disappointed that in this enlightened age schools can be closed when people vote down millage," Deibert continued He said he would like "a specific percent of the income tax designated for education and not have it all go into a big fund in Lansing. That way no one could take money from education and the people up there (Lansing) would not be able to play loosey-goosey with education funds."

Martin and Orphan supported the idea of having a percentage earmarked for education if an income tax was instituted to finance education.

Trustees directed Superintendent Raymond Spear to prepare a statement of the board's position for approval at the board's next meeting The statement will then be sent to Lansing

In other business Monday, trustees voted 6-1 to return reward fund money collected from citizens for the recent Cooke Junior High vandalism. Deibert cast the lone dissenting vote, indicating he was in favor of establishing a "permanent reward fund" in the community Spear said he would investigate the possibility of having a community organization do this.

Spear, supported by trustees in his action to return the reward money, stated two reasons why the reward was not paid "The party in question had eight days from the notice of the reward until contacted by the police to voluntarily divulge the information.

"The letter to the editor (April 22 issue of The Record) suggests the police called the home to interview the boy," Spear stated. "In reality, the police contacted the boy because he was initially identified as a suspect in the vandalism. The police went to people to get the information, they did not come to the police," he said

Monday night trustees also -voted unanimously to appoint Martin Rinehart to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Eugene Cook. Rinehart will serve until June 30;

- approved the maternity leave request submitted by Mrs Joyce Landon, fourth grade teacher at Main Street,

-approved the resignation of Mrs Karen Janchick, first grade teacher at Amerman, who stated she wishes to devote more time to her home and family,

- received notice from North Central Association of accreditation Northville High. One was cited where an instructor is teaching in his minor field and does not have enough credits to satisfy association rules Spear said the matter would be cleared up;

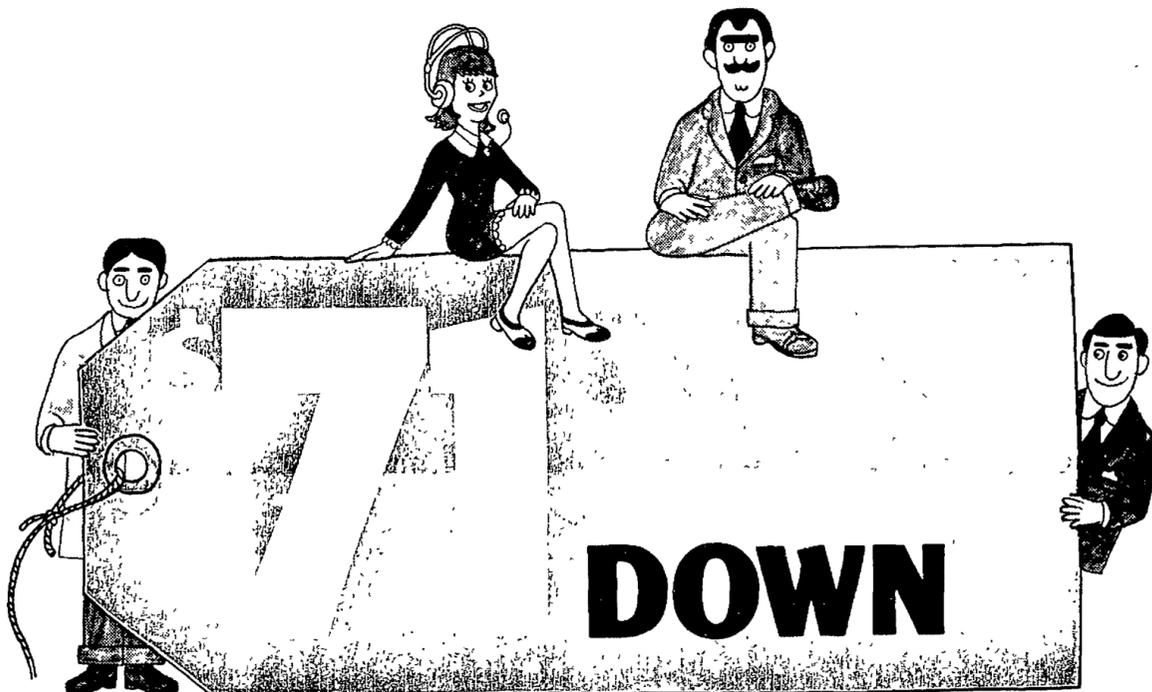

- passed resolutions honoring Cook for his service on the board and Dr. Eric Bradner, president of Schoolcraft College since its founding in 1961, who is retiring in May;

- appointed Rinehart to serve on the physical facilities sub-committee; and - heard a report from Miss Florence Panattoni, curriculum coordinator, on a proposed five-year program for vocation education in the school district.

CONDOMINIUMS PLANNED—Thompson-Brown Company introduced new plans to the city of Northville Planning Commission last week for a 25-acre parcel on the northwest corner of Taft and Eight Mile roads. Originally the site, which is a part of the total Lexington Commons development on both sides of Eight Mile Road, was slated to contain some 261 apartments. The development company's representative told planners that 210 condominium units, designed to sell in the $35,000 to $40,000 class, are now planned instead. Reason given for the change was that apartment financing is lagging and for-sale townhouses are now most marketable. Per-unit density of the land would be less under the new proposal, but figures were not available as to population density and the ratio of land-use to open space. The plan would call for a retention pond at the corner of Eight Mile and Taft, a site the developer had requested rezoning for gasoline station use. The request was denied. A stream would run through the rolling acreage into the pond. Covered parking would be provided for each unit with a total of 512 covered parking spaces and 617 open spaces, far above the requirement. A community building and swimming pool, walking paths and ponds are included in the site plan. Fifty per cent of the units would be two-story with three bedrooms, 40 per cent two-story with two bedrooms and 10 per cent one-story with two bedrooms. No rezoning is required, but planners are examining the site plan before making any recommendations.

'This nationally popular . . .
bird has more going for it than Michigan's state bird, the robin.'

WAITING — There's nobody home yet but local enthusiasts say the purple martins are coming. If natural enemies to the bird, sparrows and starlings, don't invade last year's homes, the martins will find their apartments ready and waiting when they return from winter quarters in Central and South America.

Bird Gobbles up 2,000 Mosquitoes a Day

Insects Beware! Martins are Coming

What lives in an apartment house, has more popularity than your favorite politician, and gobbles up 2,000 mosquitoes a day?

Would you believe... a purple martin? You betcha! This non-purple bird has more going for it than even Michigan's state bird, the robin.

It has its own nationally circulated newspaper, its own capitol city, billboards, skyscrapers on Florida beaches, penthouses in Northern Michigan, and even its own cocktail — the purple martini.

But more than that.. it has a public relations staff of citizens from coast to coast who devote their spare time to boosting the bird.

Take Harvey Milford of Howell, for example. A retired teacher, he has launched a campaign in this area to generate more interest in the purple martin because, as he puts it, "there's not another bird that can do more for the health and welfare of the community than the purple martin."

Milford has taken his campaign program to the Novi Rotary, Novi schools, and hopes soon to plug the bird in the Northville schools. He's talked to others as well, and he's placed books on the purple martin in local area libraries.

His goal? To get area citizens so interested that they, like whole towns elsewhere in the nation, will provide public housing for them "Unlike most other birds, the purple martin seldom lives anywhere but in a birdhouse that humans have erected."

He's talking about those elaborate, multi-story houses you've seen on tall poles in your neighbor's backyard.

What makes people enamored by a bird whose chattering song "isn't very beautiful" and whose bluish-black (the male) and brown (female) coloring leaves something to be desired? Primarily, it's his continual war on insects.

Milford is convinced that purple martin "hotels" spread up and down the main streets of local communities would completely debug, at a nominal cost, the summer months for area residents.

"Aluminum houses are easy to maintain," he says. "They can be raised or lowered for cleaning and the martins that flock to them will eat their own weight in flying insects every day."

Milford has a martin house of the type used most successfully by communities in Indiana and Illinois on display in the Novi City Hall. This aluminum hotel has four-five-or six stories with six apartments on each floor.

Such houses have been used by the municipalities of Brighton and Howell to attract the birds in the past.

The tidal wave of popularity that has earned the martin the subtitle of "America's most wanted bird" began in 1962 in Griggsville, Illinois with a campaign kicked off by the Jaycees to rid their community of mosquito hoards that made summer nights unbearable. Today, those visiting the small midwestern city, population 1,240, are welcomed by billboards that boast "The Purple Martin Capital of The World," and invite visitors to see "the world's largest purple martin tower" located in the main square.

In 1962 the Jaycees, uncertain about the environmental effects of normal pesticides, shied away from chemical warfare against their mosquitoes and listened to local businessman and bird lover J. L. Wade who told them that a Purple martin could be attracted to man-made apartments and, once settled, would devour its own weight in flying insects.

Under the auspices of the group, Wade worked with the design engineers of the company he headed and with local naturalist-ornithologist Dr. T. E. Musselman to develop a light, airy, cool aluminum hotel.

With the development of a house that could be purchased cheaply and maintained with ease, the Jaycee campaign in Griggsville picked up steam.

Twenty-eight of the hotels were erected on telescoping steel poles at 100-foot intervals around the city square, and up and down the town's main thoroughfare.

Simultaneously, a drive to urge citizens to buy their own houses was undertaken and by the spring of 1963 the town was ready and waiting for the first arrival of the purple martins.

Results of the Griggsville experiment were staggering — so much so that Wade turned author and penned a book on the martin and the Griggsville campaign.

Local citizens dedicated efforts of the Griggsville Wild Bird Society, to the furthering of martindom and wildlife in general.

The society shot a movie, The Purple Martin Story, and began publication of a monthly newspaper, The Purple Martin Capital News, now circulated nationally.

The following spring as the martins began returning from their winter quarters in South and Central America, the Jaycees faced a serious problem, however.

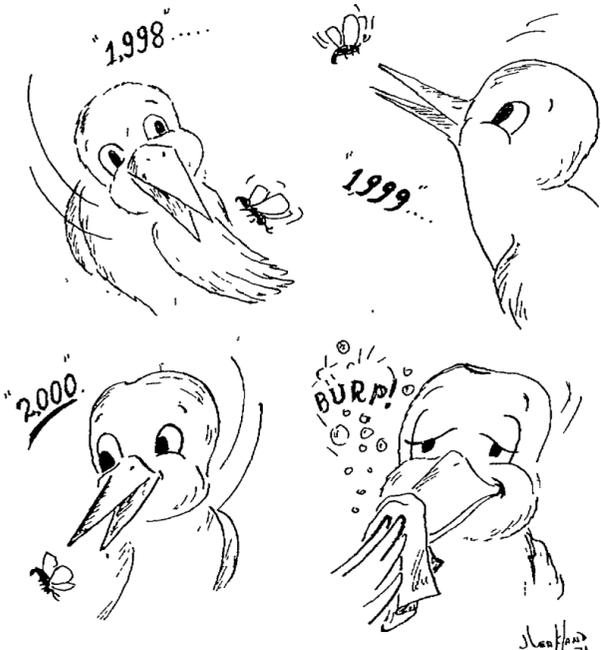

Because of the wholesale slaughter of mosquitoes the previous summer and because of an early season, there was nothing to feed the martin scouts who came looking for nesting grounds.

A classified ad appeared under "Wanted to buy: Livestock," section of the New Orleans Times-Picayune:

"Mosquitoes urgently needed. Jaycees of Griggsville, Illinois, need 500,000 live mosquitoes delivered healthy and active by March 26. Must be in flying condition. Highest prices paid. Inquire promptly to Jaycees, Griggsville, Illinois. Phone 164."

Locally, Milford recommends a program along the lines of the Griggsville experiment.

"Besides being pests," he says, mosquitoes carry disease," he emphasizes "One of the most serious to

Vegetable List For Home Garden

Many tailor-made vegetables for Michigan home gardens will be available during this year

Vegetable breeders at Michigan State University report that the following top vegetable varieties are now available to home gardeners throughout the state.

CUCUMBERS — Two MSU pickling cucumber hybrids are now available in the garden seed trade. Look for the names Spartan Dawn and Spartan Champion. These are especially adapted to Michigan growing conditions. A slicing cucumber hybrid, Spartan Valor, was a 1967 "all-American" winner exhibiting good yield, quality and disease resistance.

MUSKMELONS — According to MSU vegetable breeders, Howell Spartan is still a good hybrid muskmelon. Released in 1966, this variety has an excellent sweet flavor and a good musky taste and smell. It is resistant to powdery mildew fungus. Howell Spartan can be planted near the first of June and picked by the end of August. The melons will fall off the vine when ripe, but shouldn't be eaten for at least a day or two to give them time to develop their full sweet flavor. The MSU scientists say that the fallen melons should be eaten or stored after the one to two day "sweetening" period. Other good varieties include Burpee Hybrid, Saticoy and Gold Star.

PEPPERS — Two new MSU pepper varieties have been released in the past two years. They are Spartan Emerald and Spartan Garnet.

Spartan Garnet, only recently made available, is a dwarf pimento type which features early production concentrated over a short period. Plants are uniform, 10 to 12 inches high and about 10 inches in diameter. Mature fruits are mild, thick fleshed, about 2 1/2 inches in diameter and 3 1/2 inches long.

Spartan Emerald, a green pepper, is now available from seedsmen. The fruit is mild and sweet and is more consistent and uniform in variety than most other types. It is especially recommended for home gardeners who want peppers for salads or pickling.

TOMATOES — The best tomato varieties now available for southern Michigan gardeners are:

Early — Springset.

Mid-season — Heinz 1350, Campbell 1327, Jet Star and Roma VF (tomato paste variety)

Late — Heinz 1370, VF Hybrid, Ace 55 VF

Yellow varieties: Sunray and Jubilee. Cherry type: Small Fry, Large Red Cherry, Yellow Pear, Yellow Plum, and Yellow Cherry.

'Overseeding' Recommended To Cure Lawn Winter Kill

Lawn grasses are not impervious to the abuses of cold winters, hot dry summers and various insects and diseases that invade the grass world. Once a lawn is established, most homeowners feel a bit of watering and fertilization should keep a lawn going indefinitely. Grass plants do have a built-in characteristic which cause the root system to spread and slowly repair areas damaged by weather or other hazards. At the same time, spots vacated by grass plants make a fine place for weeds to take root. Once weeds gain a foothold, they can often out compete the slender grass blade and make for an unsightly lawn.

The Oregon Fine Fescue Commission recommends a springtime overseeding program to help fill in those areas damaged by winter kill or other causes. By using two or three pounds of grass seed per thousand square feet (an area approximately 20 by 50 feet) the homeowner can establish new grass plants in the damaged areas and assure a better stand of grass for summer enjoyment. The adoption of overseeding as a standard spring practice along with fertilization and the proper watering techniques can produce a sparkling stand of grass which is even in texture and color.

Lawn grasses seldom are allowed to go to seed as nature intended, because of regular mowing. Over the years grass plants can become susceptible to disease and lose their vigor. New seedings add a healthy appearance to the home lawn and give a new vigor to the overall appearance.

Before overseeding, the lawn should be renovated with a machine, which can be rented at nominal cost, or thoroughly raked to remove thatch, resulting from dead grass plants. After overseeding, the lawn should be lightly raked to cover the seed and kept moist until the seed is well germinated. One caution.....use a top quality grass seed preferably with a high percentage of the fine fescues and bluegrass seed. Both blend well with any northern grass lawn and provide that dark green straight growing type of grass preferred by most home owners. Many cheap grass seed mixes have a percentage of broadleaved grasses which cause unsightly patches in the lawn and are difficult to eradicate.

Grass seed packets sold in most stores are required to have the type of grasses, percentage of each type of grass seed in the mixture and the germination test on the package. This is consumer protection against the possibility of purchasing seed which would not provide a fine textured lawn. The consumer must be aware of the broadleaved grasses which would not fit into his lawn program. The pasture or broadleaved tough grasses are often used for heavy use areas, such as playgrounds or parks, but they do not have the desirable characteristics sought by homeowners.

Get Lawn in Shape For Early Mowing

Lawns that are mowed often in the spring, when the grass is growing rapidly, look better throughout the rest of the year.

"We urge home owners to get their lawn mowers in shape now so that they can begin mowing as soon as the lawn is cleaned up and the turf is growing," says David P. Martin, Michigan State University extension turfgrass specialist.

"Mowers should be set at a height of 1 1/2 to 2 inches," says Martin. "Longer grass may be unattractive, while cutting heights below 1 1/2 inches can mean poor lawn health."

Martin recommends that home owners mow frequently for best turf growth. "Never take off more than one-third of the total grass blade length," he says. When more than one-third of the blade length is removed, the grass is hurt because essential food reserves stored in the leaves are moist and the leaf area on which photosynthesis can take place is reduced to dangerous levels.

Long periods between each mowing often make more work for home owners by creating a heavy cover of clippings that needs to be raked and removed.

"Lawn mowers should be checked often for sharpness," Martin says. "A dull mower shreds the tips of grass blades and can cause browning of the lawn if the grass loses much water from these shredded areas."

Martin cautions home owners to exercise good lawn mowing safety practices. "Spring raking to remove rocks, twigs and other debris is especially important when rotary mowers are used," he says. Also, keep children and pets at a safe distance when using mowers.

Aster Flowers: 'Stars' of Field

The name "aster" means a star. It is used for the asters of the fields, blooming in late summer, and also for the "China" asters from the Orient which will not survive cold winters. These tender asters are grown from seeds planted each year and are one of the most popular garden flowers.

Raspberries Need Your Attention Now

If there are raspberry bushes in your back yard, April is the time to give them some attention to help insure a bumper crop of berries.

According to Jerome Hull, Michigan State University horticulture scientist, spring pruning should be done before the raspberry plants begin to grow. "Basic spring pruning means removing all weak canes and those that show signs of disease or insect damage," he says.

Hull lists the following pruning tips: For red raspberries that are in isolated hills or clumps, thin each hill so that only 6 or 8 of the strongest canes remain. Shorten these to a height of about 5 1/2 feet. Shorten side branches to about 10 inches.

For red raspberries in row, thin the canes to no closer than 8 inches apart. Then, shorten the remaining canes to a height of about 4 feet.

For black and purple raspberries, leave all canes that are more than one-half inch thick. Shorten the side branches of black raspberries to about 8 inches. Side branches of purple raspberries should be shortened to about 10 inches.

On both black and purple raspberries, the straight, unbranched canes that remain after thinning should be cut back about 2 1/2 to 3 feet above the ground.

More information about raspberries can be found in MSU's Extension Bulletin E-542, "Growing Raspberries in Michigan." Single copies can be obtained free by contacting your local county Cooperative Extension Service office, or by writing to MSU Bulletin Office, P.O. Box 231, East Lansing, Michigan 48823.

Better Boy

After four years of research, plant breeders have developed Better Boy, a tomato that is three ways better: resistant to verticillium, fusarium, and nematodes (VFN), the three main causes of blight in tomato plants.

Since it's also an F₂ Hybrid, it gives you more fruit, tastier fruit, over a longer period of time. Try it and you'll never go back to ordinary tomatoes again.

Citizens 'Clean Up' for Earth Week

Two projects—one that fell short of its goal and another that exceeded expectations—were conducted during Earth Week last week by the Citizens for Environmental Action.

CEA members expressed delight Saturday with the response of Northville citizens who turned in nearly 7,000 pounds of glass and another ton of flattened cans during the day-long collection in the parking lot next to the Board of Education office.

"It was great," reported CEA President Don Oswell, "but it poses a little problem for us. With the response growing each time we conduct a collection, it's becoming too much for our little pickup truck to handle."

"We hope to conduct another one but we may have to ask the city to give us a hand—maybe letting us use one of their trucks."

Oswell said the canoe trip down the Rouge River the previous day fell short of the goal. Members had hoped to travel from Livonia all the way to the Detroit River, observing and filming the condition of the Rouge for future showing to local organizations. "We ran out of time," he said, "and made it only to Outer Drive and Warren Avenue."

The CEA president said the trip will be continued from that point later so that the film can be completed.

Besides Oswell, persons making the trip Friday were Mark Pingston of Walled Lake, Bill Scoufield of Dearborn and Ed Kritez of Plymouth.

"We found a fantastic amount of junk in the river—including a dead dog, hot water heater, furnaces, picnic tables, and a large amount of non-returnable bottles and cans. The water had a definite aroma of decay."

The trip revealed some "good things" as well, he added. "We saw plenty of signs of wildlife, even a kingfisher that would indicate the presence of fish in the water."

"Along the way we met a fellow who came down to the river to see us. He said that during the past two years, the water gradually has been becoming cleaner. Neither he nor I can explain it. But, maybe, there's hope for our lakes and streams after all."

CLEAN UP — It was a day for making Earth brighter Friday, at least less messy, as fifth grade children from Amerman Elementary swept down Northville Road from the community's historic well to Seven Mile, collecting trash and litter as they went. Campaign organizer was Mrs. Coral Adas. The city hauled away the debris collected by the youngsters.

EARTH WEEK — In the second annual observance of Earth Week, Citizens for Environmental Action collected tons of glass and flattened tin cans in Northville Saturday (above) for recycling, and then canoed down the Rouge River Friday (left) to observe the condition of the water and record on film their findings. The film is to be shown later to area groups interested in their environment.

Christ Offers Sinners Hope

Rev. Robert A. Mitchinson New Hudson United Methodist Church

In John's Gospel, the story of a woman taken in adultery reveals like few others God's acceptance of each of us in our unloveableness.

writing, the woman was the only person with him. Didn't anyone condemn you, he asked? "No one, Lord," she replied.

William Barclay writes, "Jesus was always intensely interested not only in what a person had been but also in what a person might become."

In the book To Be Human Now, the author David Woodard illustrates what I am attempting to say. He takes an incident from John Steinbeck's Sweet Thursday.

apprehensive; she hasn't had much experience with goodness. Self-consciously she turns to the madam and asks, "Is there anything I can do for you, Fauna?"

The author goes on to say that what appeared to be a conversation between a madam and one of her girls was actually the restoring of a person to a new wholeness.

What redemptive power is even in God's acceptance regardless of condition. He does not withhold his love and concern from anyone.

Many there are today who delight in condemnation and who find satisfaction in seeing others fall. Think of what might happen in the lives of people today if individuals experienced and possessed the loving heart of God as revealed here by Jesus.

THAT WORRIED LOOK

With these young pups, that worried look isn't real. You might call it a physiological illusion. The whole problem is that their heads haven't grown enough to fill out the wrinkles in their brows.

But with people a worried look is usually real. It reflects the deep concerns that trouble our world and lives.

Yet worry isn't going to improve the world. Its only real value is that it encourages us to seek solutions where they can be found.

Through the centuries man has found hope and courage in the truths of religion. God never meant us to solve our problems alone.

Perhaps our most perplexing problem today is that too many people have been trying to do just that!

Purple Martin's A Hungry Bird

that had been treated. The best result we got with insect sprays was a four-day kill — provided we were lucky and it didn't rain."

With the coming of the Griggsville martins, however, Skinner's problem was solved.

"Come time for our usual spraying," says Skinner, "and the chemical firm's trouble shooter... couldn't find a fly or mosquito on the premises."

Other reports come in from Wisconsin, where resort owner Peter Kapsy says that "keeping 2,000 mosquito a day purple martins is good business;" Minnesota, where Mrs. C. A. Barquist of Grand Rapids catches and freezes mayflies for her martins should a cold snap kill off the mosquito population; and from Texas, where Houston Mayor Louie Welch proclaimed February 6-12 as "purple martin time."

Despite Griggsville's designation as the purple martin capital of the world, the town is neither the first community to undertake cooperative measures to attract purple martins nor the first city to do so specifically for mosquito control.

The citizens of Greencastle, Pennsylvania began erecting large wooden apartment houses for martins about 1840 and there is substantial evidence to support reports of American Indians in the eastern coastal and midwestern areas attracting martins with nest houses made out of hollow gourds.

In 1953 the martin was first employed as a mosquito hunter by the Toledo Area Sanitary District which maintained box houses and kept records of their occupancy and the effectiveness of their occupants.

A member of the Hirundinidae family of birds, the martin is genus of swallow (genus: Progne). Three to eight eggs are laid and the species grows to approximately eight inches in length.

Yearly the birds migrate to the swampy jungle areas of South and Central America, spending anywhere from four months to half a year in the southern climates and then returning to the eastern half of the United States and Canada in the early spring and summer.

Martins do not restrict themselves to specific nesting areas, although individual birds have been noted for their punctuality and reliability in returning to a certain house, within a certain number of days, year after year. Martins have frequented areas as far west as Washington, as far north as the Saskatchewan Valley in Canada, and as far south as Florida.

Preceded by a few scouts who presumably come to check-out nesting possibilities, martin flocks usually return to their home nesting areas in late April or early May.

Function of scout birds is not positively agreed upon. Whether they merely arrive first, or fly all the way back to

South America, or connect with all or part of a flock at some point along the way is at contention among ornithologists.

Martins have been reported in Florida as early as February, in Ohio the second week in March, and in Massachusetts as early as April.

Martins won't nest just anywhere, says Milford. The nesting cavity should be approximately six inches square and since the birds form colonies, any house should contain at least six compartments.

Height of the house is of no real consequence, birds have nested atop skyscrapers and among pilings on West Palm Beach piers, but due to the martin's restless, swooping manner of flight any house must be in an open area, at least 25 feet from any trees or vertical obstructions.

"A pond or other body of water in the immediate vicinity will make the house more attractive to martins," says Wade. "They drink and bathe on the fly, swooping low over the water's surface and scooping up a few drops on each pass."

Natural enemies include — besides the normal predators — cats, snakes and raccoons — other birds that usurp martin nesting sites, specifically starlings and English sparrows.

With the advent of the aluminum house, the startling problem was for the most part solved due to the birds' unwillingness to steal a nest made in a light, airy open place. Martin landlords report, however, that sparrow nests must be repeatedly cleaned out of martin houses to discourage the birds from completely taking over martin colonies and destroying martin eggs.

Martin flocks have yet to return to this area this spring, although Mrs. Cherie Willoughby of Howell reports a pair of scouts seen "passing through." According to Milford "they'll be here any day now."

At any rate, ornithic fans have their martin houses cleaned and ready for occupancy. And if area martin boosters like Milford can swell their ranks maybe someday they'll be holding a wake for the mosquito instead of swatting.

The American Albino Association National Registry, Inc., for snow-white horses and ponies has made some changes for better progress.

For the past 33 years, the name albino has caused confusion in the white horse world. Therefore on November 20, 1970, the board of directors set up four separate divisions within their national registry for the purpose of promoting accuracy in the official breeding records. These are:

1. American White and-or Arabian Albino Horse. These are horses with snow white hair, pink skin, and eyes of any color except pink.

2. American White Pony. They have snow-white hair, pink skin, and eyes any other color but pink.

3. American Creme Horse and Pony. These can have - (a) - Body Ivory white, mane white, eyes blue, skin pink. (b) body cream, mane darker than body, eyes dark. (c) Body and mane of same color-very pale cream, eyes blue, skin pink. (d) Body and mane of same color-sooty cream, eyes blue, skin pink.

4. National Recording Club Auxiliary which records solid-color offspring from American White and Creme Horses and Ponies: and also lists well-bred grade mares used to introduce new bloodlines.

The American Albino Horse Club records and the American Albino Association records were closed as of January 1, 1971. However, the records are still official and are legal. When a horse or pony is sold, it will be necessary to return the old certificate to the office and a new one will be issued.

What Price War?

By ROLLY PETERSON

At a very high price, we've learned something about people and their determination to survive a civil war, despite the intrusion of a foreign element. That price — thousands of American lives — and incidentally billions of dollars are now piling on the American people as the Vietnam war drags on.

The most difficult thing for Americans to admit has been that technological and military superiority, which enabled us to claim substantial victories in World Wars I and II no longer are enough to win a war.

Guerrilla warfare has changed all that. The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong have been subjected to a blitz of bombs and bullets which would have made a confirmed Nazi wince, yet in about 10 years in Vietnam, we have failed to materially alter the situation.

According to statistics, we have dropped 3.5 million tons of bombs on some 37 million Vietnamese, which amounts to 182 pounds of TNT and napalm for every man, woman and child in Vietnam. Yet the North Vietnamese appear as strong as ever.

When we went into the Vietnam war, I, like most others, concluded that we would get this conflict in Vietnam over within short order. After all, Americans had been successful in two successive World Wars and the Korean conflict which did involve substantial guerrilla warfare.

But it soon was apparent that Vietnam was a different kind of monster. What we failed to realize — and many are still reluctant to admit — is that the Vietnamese conflict was a civil war involving peoples of North Vietnam against a puppet South Vietnamese government which it was in our interests to support with arms, if necessary.

Just place yourself in this position. What would you do if you were involved in a civil war in the United States? say, the north versus the south? Would you welcome the intervention of a foreign power on behalf of the south? Would you capitulate or fight with renewed vigor and dedication?

If your homes and families were truly threatened with adversity of this sort, you, like the North Vietnamese, would probably resort to guerrilla warfare, fighting from behind every tree and rock.

The war would be attenuated and the foreign power would be locked in a battle that couldn't be won short of killing every man, woman and child which opposed its intervention.

This is the hard lesson we have learned, or are learning. Now, it is said, we must get out honorably. Our reputation as a leader of nations is at stake. Is it not also possible that our world image will suffer more by persistent refusal to recognize our mistake and by compounding an error?

Property Tax Isn't Dead Yet

Lansing—Despite all the talk about abolition of the property tax for schools spurred by Gov. William G. Milliken's recent education reform message, Michigan homeowners will find it prudent to not start budgeting their property tax money for other purposes too soon.

For hard-pressed property owners who must bear the burden of soaring millage rates, the Governor's speech seemed like a light at the end of the tunnel. Indeed it might be exactly that.

But even Milliken was quick to urge school officials and taxpayers not to take their eye off the place where the ball is still located—on the property tax.

The governor said in districts with millage votes scheduled: "I strongly urge that those millage votes go on and that they not be considered to be affected by the proposals which I'm now making."

QUICKEST possible time that the proposals could take effect if they are adopted is Jan. 1 of next year. Most realistically early date is July 1 of next year.

The Governor's proposals depend on a statewide vote in November on his proposal to discard the use of property tax to finance part of the day to day operations of schools. If the Legislature calls for that vote to be taken and the proposal passes, it still would not go into effect for practical purposes until the start of the next school year.

It is also possible—perhaps even probable—that a compromise will be reached between Milliken and the Legislature where the constitutional amendment put before the people establishes a limit of 12 mills or somewhere in that vicinity rather than wiping out the use of the property tax entirely.

MORE THAN a few legislators get nervous about the idea of completely discarding the property tax. There are two main reasons for this.

The first is a fear that a dependable tax source like the property tax is needed to make sure the schools get a certain amount of money no matter what the economic conditions. Advocates of this view say a sharp downturn in the economy which cuts down on income tax revenues could bankrupt schools if they depend solely on the income tax for their support.

The second is a fear of what the voters might do to lawmakers who more than double the state income tax in two years. The rate is now 2.6 per cent and a raise to at least 3.6 per cent is needed just to keep the state operating.

THE ADDITIONAL 2.3 per cent rate Milliken says will be needed to make up revenues from individual property taxes would push the total income tax in Michigan to 5.9 per cent.

"At some point the people are just going to get fed up and refuse to pay," says one worried lawmaker. "I don't know what that point is and I don't think anybody does. But when you start doubling the income tax, you'd better be sure of what you're doing."

These fears are just part of the reason there's going to be a lot of talking and a lot of bargaining in Lansing before the Legislature and the Governor can come up with a program they feel they can present to the public.

ON THE JOB accidents knocked more than 50,000 Michigan residents off the job for varying periods of time last year, according to the Michigan Department of Labor.

The department says most of the accidents could have been avoided through the use of safe work procedures and by correcting unsafe conditions.

But, the department also admits there are a few accidents that just weren't foreseeable.

For example:

—there was the automobile mechanic who suffered severe burns on his hands when he accidentally discharged a teargas gun which had been concealed in the car he was repairing.

—and there was the store clerk who suffered a severed wrist artery when a customer knocked over a lamp display on him.

—and then there was the unfortunate saleslady who was minding her own business behind the counter in a jewelry store. She suffered head and back injuries when a car crashed through the front door of the store and hit her.

Proposal Studied

Abolish Most Handguns?

A proposal by Juvenile Court Judge James H. Lincoln which would outlaw most handguns in Michigan is under study by the Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice System Coordinating Council.

Judge Lincoln, a member of the coordinating council, wants the measure enacted through a constitutional amendment approved during the next general state election.

He has asked the coordinating council to petition the state legislature for a proposed amendment which would legalize ownership and possession of all handguns, including revolvers, pistols and sawed-off shotguns.

Exceptions would apply only to law enforcement and other peace officers, and citizens granted permits by gun licensing boards. Such an amendment would prohibit nine-tenths of all handguns in the State, says Lincoln.

County Commissioner Eugene A. Sikora, executive chairman of the Coordinating Council, has high praise for the proposal. "It is a logical step, that coordinates well with Mayor (Roman) Gribbs' proposal," he said.

The Gribbs' proposal, also under study by the coordinating council seeks to control handgun activity through regulation of both guns and ammunition sales. It applies only to the city of Detroit, however.

"Obviously, Judge Lincoln's proposal offers a preferred solution because it affects the entire state, but we need Mayor Gribbs' proposal enacted now," said Sikora.

"Gribbs' proposal is an interim solution, which is needed while Lincoln's long-range approach is put into effect," he added. Sikora is also chairman of the Law Enforcement and Public Safety Committee of the County Board of Commissioners.

In submitting his proposal, Judge Lincoln emphasized that rifles and shotguns would not be outlawed under terms of the amendment. He also said that most hold-ups and killings are accomplished with handguns because they are easy to conceal.

Whereas rifles and shotguns are intended primarily for sport, handguns are meant to kill people, he said.

"We are 70 years behind time in adopting sensible gun control, and it is time that we moved into the twentieth century," said Lincoln.

The Criminal Justice System Coordinating Council is co-chaired by Mayor Gribbs and the chairman of the County Board of Commissioners, Robert E. FitzPatrick. It supercedes the former Wayne County Coordinating Committee on Crime Control and Prevention.

Fishing Book Available Now

One of the most complete books ever published on Michigan fishing is now ready for distribution, according to William T. McGraw, director, Michigan Tourist Council.

A year in preparation, the new 36-page publication, "Fishing in Michigan," was produced by the Michigan Tourist Council in cooperation with the Fisheries Division, Department of Natural Resources.

Illustrated with full color photos, the book describes the how, when and where of Michigan fishing. Eleven pages are devoted to descriptions of Michigan's 20 game fish, including physical characteristics, habits and habitats. How to catch 'em instructions are provided with each individual fish description, along with tips on cooking. An entire section of the book is devoted to recipes.

For those who have never before tried their luck on this age-old sport, instructions on bait and tackle and how best to use them is included.

On safety's side, one page of the book contains Great Lakes safe-boating information as well as illustrations showing official U.S. Coast Guard traffic signals and warning flags.

Copies of the publication, "Fishing in Michigan," are available without charge from the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing, 48926.

LIVING TRIBUTE — "Blue," a German Shepherd and his new mistress, Joyce, a blind college student, show clearly the affection they have for each other as they graduate from a month's training at the Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester, Michigan. The dog and training were paid for by friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jan Reef as their golden wedding anniversary tribute.

Golden Anniversary

Living Tribute Aids the Blind

"Blue," a German Shepherd dog, and his new young mistress, Joyce, a blind college student, were among those participating in a record graduation class of 16 last Wednesday at the Leader Dogs for the Blind School in Rochester, Michigan.

They just had completed a month's training together, and "Blue" had had an additional three months' training before that—all thanks to the generosity of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jan Reef.

Instead of personal gifts for the Reefs on their 50th anniversary April 14, their daughter, Mrs. Marjory Cinader conceived the idea of a "living tribute" to be given in a field that would express her parents' interests.

The gift of the dog and the training was the first such "living tribute" the Leader Dogs for the Blind organization has received. Harold L. Pocklington, executive director, commented as he expressed the hope that others may be so inspired. Usually, gifts are in the form of memorials, he added.

One of the benefits of the living tribute, Mrs. Cinader pointed out, is the joy it gives the recipients.

"There wasn't a dry eye in the audience," she added, as she told of graduation exercises in Rochester. The dogs, she related, are matched to their new blind owners in temperament, and already the affection was evident at the ceremonies.

Mrs. Cinader added that the gift, which was from many friends, paid tribute to her father's interest in young people and to her mother's concern with vision.

The bulk of support—about 60 per cent—for the Leader Dog program, Pocklington told her, comes from the founding Lions Club organization. Pocklington also suggested that many do not know that any blind person, 16 to 65, and possibly 70, in good health, able to walk a mile or two a day may be eligible without charge for a Leader

Open House Set in Wixom

Body-Harrison Equipment Co., Inc., newly located in Wixom since last December, will hold an open house Friday and Saturday for area contractors.

The company handles new and used construction and earthmoving equipment. It is located at 30025 South Wixom road north of the expressway.

In addition to introducing its facilities at its new location, Body-Harrison will display the new 1971 line of John Deere construction equipment.

Officers of Body-Harrison are, Andrew Body, president, Ben F. Kissick, comptroller, Martin Felt, vice president; and Ed Urban, sales manager.

An invitation has been issued to all contractors. Hours of the open house are from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. Food, refreshments and gifts will be provided.

Dog. Appropriately, Mrs. Cinader pointed out, the Reefs found that the Leader Dogs for the Blind organization has as its slogan, "For Whither Thou Goest"—the same words as were used in their marriage ceremony 50 years ago.

Babson Report

See Little State Help

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass. — While the Nixon Administration continues laboring mightily to revitalize the nation's economy, the worsening fiscal plight of states and municipalities threatens to negate at least some of the benefits of the economic stimulants applied at the federal level.

For example, at a time when state and local governments should be opening up job opportunities to offset employment losses in private industry due to cutbacks in military outlays, pressure is strong to trim state and municipal payrolls in order to counterbalance escalating costs.

THE ADMINISTRATION has been flirting with the idea of cutting federal taxes as an additional tonic for business. However, a definite move in this direction may be held in abeyance until later in the year. The encouraging pickup in residential building, retail sales, and certain fields of industry is likely to prompt the Administration to wait a while to see if the economic upturn now in evidence can be sustained without resorting to tax relief.

Nevertheless, this method of spurring the economy will be kept in the wings, ready to be trotted out if another bracer seems to be required.

State governments, on the other hand, are studying new revenue-producing measures which could bring in $6.5 billion of new tax money each year. Forty-nine of the fifty state legislatures are meeting this year, and thirty-five of them are or will be taking up tax bills. Added tax revenues are imperative for state governments beleaguered by fast-rising expenditures and short-fall revenues. This situation has been building for years, but the recession has made it acute.

PRESIDENT Nixon's revenue sharing has run into trouble in Congress, and chances for passage have been deteriorating. Thus, it now looks as though prospects of channeling substantial federal funds into state coffers via revenue sharing are fading fast, with the states perhaps forced to settle for partial federal take-over of welfare costs—which may not occur until 1972.

Therefore, state government must fend themselves for a while longer. They must rely upon already strained sources of revenue. But these wells are diminishing in productivity: In the late 1960s tax yields of states were expanding at an annual rate of 16 percent; during the first nine months of 1970 the degree of rise had contracted to 10 percent. This slowdown, built-in spending boosts of continuing programs and services, the effects of inflation, and higher salaries, pensions, and labor costs, have thrown some state budgets into deficit.

FACED WITH insolvency and-or bankruptcy—or at best the almost insoluble riddle of where to pare spending—seven states are reported to be studying new personal-income taxes, while five states are weighing the pro and cons of new corporate-income taxes. Right now, thirteen states either place no levy at all on personal income or tax only a limited part. Hence, pressured by revenue needs, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, and Texas may opt for the personal-income tax this year, while New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Connecticut broaden their existing levies.

Legislators of at least a dozen other states may have to hike income-tax rates or broaden the bases of such levies. A number of states are exploring the imposition of new corporate income taxes, and many others are attempting to find ways and means of increasing their take from such charges.

OTHER SOURCES of tax revenue are being constantly sought. Montana and New Hampshire are moving closer to enactment of a general sales tax, while several states are studying the possibility of hiking existing rates or widening the application of this type of levy. Some are eyeing new or higher excise taxes on tobacco and gasoline.
