

Levi Eatons to Leave Northville

Half Century of Memories Harvested in An Orchard

A page in Northville's history will draw to a close next month when Mr. and Mrs. Levi Eaton move to Waverly, Ohio. They will be leaving behind over half a century of active involvement in molding the Northville community. The former realtor first came to town (it was a village then) in 1916. In 1919 he brought Alice Eaton here as his bride and together they began a lifetime of full participation in local activities. "That (1916) was the year they paved Seven Mile," Eaton recalls. "It was the first paved street in this area. At time Northville had a cobblestone Main Street with hitching posts."

Eaton's father had purchased a 57-acre farm located in what is now Orchard Heights, and the family moved into the Rogers Street home now occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Russell Atchison. Primarily, the elder Eaton moved to assist his son in entering the orchard business. In 1916 Levi had just graduated from agricultural college at the University of Wisconsin.

Three years later Eaton married and sold the property to M. N. Johnson, C. C. Yerkes and L. A. Babbitt for development. Elmer Smith, then president of Northville, promoted the purchase and sale of lots in Orchard Village. "I took a new job as district agent in Detroit for the Railroad Perishable Inspection Agency," Eaton remembers. "I was one of the first commuters in the Northville area." Every day he traveled to and from Detroit via urban car, train and auto.

In 1920 the Eatons built their first house on Eaton Drive (named after them) in Orchard Heights. Five years later they built a larger home next door to house their growing family. They have lived there ever since.

The three children who grew up in that comfortable grey-shingled house have all married and moved away. Mrs. Roger (Alice) Sackett is now a librarian in the San Antonio, Texas school system, son Frank is treasurer of the Transit Mix Co. in West Palm Beach, Florida, and Louis Eaton is a dentist in Howell.

The Eatons have 10 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. When Eaton formed Northville Realty with the late Carl Bryan (former mayor of Northville) on March 1, 1945, there was only one other real estate business in town. That business was operated by E. A. Smith, who was getting ready to retire.

College Slates Final Concerts

The final week of concerts of the Fifth Annual Schoolcraft College Summer Music School and Festival opens on Monday evening, July 26, with a School Orchestra concert featuring winners of the concerto auditions held recently. Soloists appearing with the Orchestra are pianists Daniel Horn from Livonia, performing the first movement of the Schumann Concerto, and Michael Reed of Plymouth, performing the first movement of the Beethoven First Concerto.

and Rosemary Jackson, soprano from Livonia, will sing Knoxville-Summer of 1915, by Samuel Barber.

The Court Orchestra, under the baton of Wayne Dunlap, will conclude the concert with three American works, drawing to an end the survey of American music which the Festival undertook. These are Griffes' The White Peacock, Charles Ives' Symphony No. 3, and Sousa's Thunderer March.

The final concert of the Summer School will be given on Friday evening, July 30. The School Orchestra will perform works by Reigger, Britten, Bielewa and Bartok. Of special interest will be Spectrum by young American composer Herbert Bielewa, for wind ensemble, percussion and taped electronic sounds.

Admission to the concerts by the School Orchestra is free. For the Festival Concert on Tuesday it is $2 for adults and $1 for students. All three concerts will be given in the Waterman Campus Center and all will begin at 8:30 p.m. The College is located in Livonia on Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile Roads.

Besides his active role in local business, Eaton has been involved in area civic organizations as well. He is past president of the Exchange Club and, until June 30, he was a Rotarian. Mrs. Eaton, too, has participated in many community activities. She is a past member of the Northville Women's Club, the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, the Beautification Commission and the Women's Association at the Presbyterian Church. Past president of the state hospital auxiliary, who also served on the first zoning board that mapped the City of Northville.

Both are elders at the First Presbyterian Church. In what ways has Northville changed over the years? "Northville is a true city today rather than a village," Alice Eaton remarks. "When we first moved here over 50 years ago many of the residents were elderly farmers and retirees. Most people had their own business."

Named to the honor's list for the spring term at Michigan State University were 3,548 Michigan students, including 14 from the Northville-Nowi area. To be eligible for the honors list a student must achieve at least a 3.5 (B plus) grade point average for the term.

Sixteen area students were awarded degrees by Eastern Michigan University at the conclusion of spring semester this year. The local students and their degrees include: Nancy Fieldman, 47000 South Chigwidden, MA.; Thomas Hensel, 38546 Silken Glen, BBA.; Madeline Niedfeldt, 47105 Timberlane, MA.; Susan Neuharth, 17775 Ridge Road, BA.; Enid Penn, 46150 West Main, BA.; and Linda Secord, 46675 West Seven Mile, BS.

Arlene Sanders, 40611 West Ten Mile, BS.; Dorothy Shook, 40015 Grand River, BS.; and Douglas Thrush, 23861 West LeBost, MA.

Others were Carol Harper, 18415 Fermanagh Court, math and statistics; Ellen Klein, 18450 Fermanagh Court, elementary and special education; Linda Sepp, 46108 Fonner Court; Denise Sterner, 21255 Beck Road, math and statistics; Carol Waddell, 45055 Galway, science and math; and Sherry Zayti, of Northville.

From Novi were Paul Bunker, 41007 Mooringside, accounting and financial administration and Marjorie Marke, 24030 Glen Ridge, physical sciences.

Oldtimers will remember the first Northville Realty offices which were located in the Burgess home on East Main Street. The Realtors located in rooms formerly serving as the old doctors office.

"Two years later we purchased the Merritt home — a frame building painted grey — and moved our offices in there," Eaton says. "For several years Del Black (who owns the shoe store) lived in the other part of the house. His mother operated a catering business."

"In 1956 we built the offices now occupied by Northville Insurance The Merritt house was razed and replaced by the municipal parking adjacent to Northville Drug.

A well-known employee who worked with Northville Realty for a number of years was Dan Merritt, according to Eaton. Merritt later established his own real estate business, now operated by Carl Johnson.

"Soon after we launched our business I and two other brokers, Ray Lindsey and Clyde Alexander from Plymouth, helped organize the Western Wayne County Board of Realtors," he recalls. In 1950 Eaton served as president of the Professional Realtors organization.

In 1963 George Clark purchased Northville Realty, then sold it to Stanley Johnson, who still operates Northville Realty — the oldest realty in Northville — recently relocated in the Record building.

Or livelihood right here in town. "Today practically everyone commutes. Northville is mostly a bedroom community."

"It's progress, it's bound to happen," they note, but both are a bit nostalgic for the days when "we knew almost everyone living in town."

In recent years Eaton has revived his early interest in agriculture, planting large gardens and a small apple orchard in the back yard. "I spend a lot of time out there now," he smiles. Mrs. Eaton describes her favorite hobby as handicrafts, particularly sewing.

In Brighton

Multiple Theatre Underway

Groundbreaking this week in Brighton for an automated, multiple theatre complex signals the re-entry into the entertainment field by one of the nation's most respected film families.

The three-in-one theatre building in the new Brighton Shopping Center at I-96 and Grand River, product of Krim Theatrical Enterprises, is expected to be completed and operational before the end of the year.

Each of the three theaters comprising the Brighton Cinemas will have 350 seats, announced Enterprises president Sol Krim, and will feature the newest automated projection and auditorium facilities in the world.

"A complete performance is pre-programmed, freeing the projectionist for other in-theatre responsibilities," he explained.

"At a push of the button, the lights go on, the music starts, the curtain closes, and at a given time the reverse is in progress and the film appears on the screen.

"The change over from one machine to the other is also automated without the necessity of the projectionist remaining in the booth."

The $375,000 Brighton development represents the first of what is expected to be a number of new theatre ventures by Krim.

"We are currently negotiating for other locations," Krim said, "and are actively seeking prime locations, as part of a shopping center, within a mall or a free-standing theatre complex."

Ten years ago the last of its many theatres was leased by the Krim family to Trans-Lux of New York, with the Krim Theatrical Enterprises becoming landlords rather than theatre operators.

At one time the family operated as many as 15 theatres from New York to Los Angeles.

The Krims' re-entry into the branch of theatre exhibition in the entertainment field was

RAP SESSION WITH THE 'FAMILY'

In Wrong-Way Accidents

Drinking's Contributor

Drinking drivers are involved in well over half of the "wrong-way" accidents on Michigan freeways occurred two weeks ago when an auto and a station wagon rammied each other on I-75 Freeway near Grand Blanc, south of Flint. Nine persons were killed and one permanently injured.

Analysis of such accidents on the more than 1,400 miles of freeway in the five years from 1966 through 1970 showed that between 50 and 75 percent involved drivers who had been drinking.

A total of 219 wrong-way accidents were reported on state freeways from 1966 through 1970. They claimed 50 lives.

The worst in state history

However, no practical method has been developed to prevent vehicles from entering exit ramps. The main deterrents are warning devices.

On a standard interchange, two pairs of reflective black-and-white and red-and-white signs are installed on each side of the ramps. The first pair of 24-inch-wide signs warn the driver "Do Not Enter—Wrong Way." The second pair, 36 inches wide and placed farther down the ramp, say "Wrong Way." In addition, red reflector buttons, known as delineators, are attached to a series of small metal standards running down both sides of the ramp to give the night driver additional warning.

A team of traffic engineers from the Department of State Highways has investigated the area of the I-75 accident near Grand Blanc. They will issue a report on their findings.

Records checked from 1967 through 1970 showed wrong-way fatalities on I-75 through all of Oakland County or in Genesee County as far north as M-121 (Bristol Road). There were 14 accidents with 19 injuries. In most of the collisions, one or both of the drivers had been drinking.

The Highway Department made a detailed analysis of wrong-way crashes on Michigan freeways in 1966. The 44 accidents that year claimed three lives.

An analysis of 200 drivers apprehended driving in the wrong direction led to these conclusions:

- Fifty per cent of the accidents were caused by drivers with 10 or more violation points on their driving record. Only six of the accidents involved drivers with point-free records.
- Eighty per cent of the accidents occurred after dark.
- Following are records for subsequent years:
 - 1967-19 accidents with 36 injuries and 10 fatalities. Sixty per cent of the accidents involved drinking drivers.
 - 1968-41 accidents with 43 injuries and 16 deaths. Seventy per cent involved drinking.
 - 1969-55 accidents with 66 injuries and nine deaths. Sixty-nine per cent involved drinking.
 - 1970-60 accidents with 66 injuries and 12 fatalities. Sixty per cent involved drinking.

By PAUL FETTERS

"I'd be anything if somebody needed me"

The cute blonde girl sat in the corner and pleaded once or twice every half hour—never quite loud enough to be noticed, but softly, only barely audible, as if to herself.

She was from Detroit

She and a girlfriend had hitch-hiked to Walled Lake to sit with strangers, a few friends, and a man named Tom Foley, to talk about drugs, parents, kids, stereotypes, and whatever happened to come up.

The "rap" was one of two weekly sessions that A.D.E. (Alcohol and Drug Education) holds regularly on Monday and Tuesday nights in its converted construction trailer, parked on city land, at the corner of Ladd and Angle roads in Walled Lake.

Tuesdays are for people like the blonde and her friend—strangers to Foley's A.D.E. family, who want to know what the group is, "where their heads are at."

Foley tells them.

"We're here to be honest with you; we're here to help you with whatever's hanging you up, we're here to be together"

Mondays are for the family...the A.D.E. family

Strictly closed sessions in which the 20-30 people who have made a commitment "to try getting off 'whatever they're on, sit and talk about their problems, themselves and their habit"

"They don't make a commitment to me," Foley explains "I'm not the one that's got the habit. They make a commitment to themselves

"I tell a chick, or a guy, when they walk in that door, that the most important person in the trailer is her or him.

"I tell them that they'd better believe that or they're not going anywhere. A lot of them don't believe it...not the first time anyway.

"We get all kinds of kids. Not just kids either; some are Vietnam veterans who have been on a habit a long time. They need somebody to care and they have no place else to go."

A teenage girl, pretty but nervous, has been off speed for four months.

She comes to the trailer instead of to a psychiatrist who prescribes tranquilizers "to let me down easy."

The doctor disapproved of Foley's therapy and told her recently that he'd refuse to treat her if she continues visiting the trailer

She still comes.

"I've improved a lot since April, she says. There was a time when I'd take all kinds of pills. I didn't even know what they were. I haven't had anything in a long time."

A Vietnam veteran, who was an addict at 14, hangs shyly back

"People are better than drugs," he says "if they'll listen to you."

"I'm killing my parents," says a slight, dark haired boy, "but I don't know what to do about it. I can't go to them."

A.D.E. is open to anybody and everybody, five days a week, starting at 1 p.m.

"We employ the concept of the Alcoholics Anonymous: prevention, education and recovery," says Foley

"We can sit and talk with a person who's on a habit, whether he's on barbs (barbituate), or speed, or junk (heroin), we can try to convince him that if he wants to stop, we can help him stop...we can be with him when he stops. After he's off the stuff we have people who will sit up with him if necessary to make sure he stays off

"It's hard to call a man "cured" from a dope habit," Foley says "but I can say that we've put 40 to 50 'arrested conditions' through this trailer since we came to this area in October of last year.

"The most important thing I have to tell kids is that the ability to do something about a particular problem is in themselves."

Foley discloses that he was an alcoholic himself at 16, when he was working for the New York Central Railroad. He admits mis-using alcohol for 21 years.

"I was sick. I had to get well or die...it was that simple."

Association with the AA in the mid-Fifties, started a long way back for Foley and led eventually to speaking engagements before church groups, civic organizations, and community clubs throughout the country.

In 1969 Foley was one of the organizers of A.D.E.'s fore-runner, T.A.D.E. (Teen Alcohol and Drug Education.)

The program set up shop at Southfield's Northland Center in a trailer, much like the one in Walled Lake, with a similar philosophy: convince a man that he is the most important thing to himself.

Because of staff problems, TADE folded after eight months, but not before a group of Walled Lake citizens who recognized a drug problem in the lakes area and who saw the potential in Foley's approach, convinced him to move his operation to Oakland County.

With $1,000 and a trailer donated by Smokler Construction, A.D.E. set up shop at Decker and Pontiac Trail in October of last year

Now, nine months later, in a new trailer donated by Barton-Malow Company of Oak Park, A.D.E. sits comfortably on donated city land, on Ladd Road, with an annual budget of $18,200

The funds are not entirely available as yet. The cities of Walled Lake and Wixom

Housing Efforts Showing Success

LANSING—A most significant area of government endeavor in recent years is housing.

The subject has received few headlines, except for instances when it is mixed in with other controversial topics.

The reason may be that housing itself is a rather unglamorous subject and deals mainly with statistics and blueprints—things which cannot be easily dramatized into flashy pictures or big headlines.

It should be noted, however, that the state of Michigan is doing some significant things in an effort to make sure every resident of the state has a decent roof over his or her head.

ONE OF THE BEST examples of this came recently when the Michigan State Housing Development Authority made Michigan the first state to issue long-term revenue bonds to finance home ownership for low and moderate income families.

The Authority issued a total of $40 million worth of bonds—$15 million in 30-year bonds and $25 million in $40-year bonds.

The $15 million will be used to help finance the Authority's new home ownership program, while the $25 million will be used to retire short-term notes issued earlier by the Authority to finance rental and cooperative housing.

THE HOME OWNERSHIP program is expected to result in the construction of at least 3,000 single family homes this year. Homes financed by the Authority are for families with low and moderate incomes.

Moderate income families benefit by paying lower interest because the Authority can get much cheaper rates on a $15 million bond issue the home owner can get on a mortgage. Individuals can finance their homes through the Authority and realize a savings. They still pay all the principal on the mortgage and all operating expenses of the home.

Low income families can sometimes receive federal assistance which reduces their interest rate to 1 per cent. They also must still pay the principal on the mortgage, plus operating expenses.

The interest rates on the bonds issued recently averaged 6.93 per cent.

GOVERNOR WILLIAM G. MILLIKEN hopes the program will help fill "the gap between federal public housing and homes that can be purchased on the open market."

"About 70 per cent of Michigan's households are effectively priced out of existing new and used housing markets," he says. "Substantial numbers of people are denied any real opportunity to improve their living standard, regardless of their ambition or diligence."

MICHIGANDERS who joined the growing number of mini-bike owners received a reminder from Secretary of State Richard Austin not to take that bike onto public streets improperly.

Austin says before a mini-bike can be driven on a street or highway it must include all equipment motorcycles have, including headlamps, rear lamps, rear view mirror and the like. It also must be registered with his office.

And it can only be driven by a licensed driver who is wearing a helmet.

Austin says that if the tiny vehicles are taken onto public roads, the driver should "exercise extreme caution and stay away from busy streets and thoroughfares."

TODAY'S COLLEGE student undoubtedly has a more complicated world to learn about than his parents and there are also undoubted pressures on him from all sorts of places.

But there is at least one area where he's starting to have it softer. Michigan State University recently announced it has eliminated the compulsory final exam.

The Academic Council, composed of both faculty and students, recently approved a recommendation that said "institution settings occur in which a final examination may not be necessary or desirable." Shucks, a lot of students have known that for years.

The proposal recommended that the two-hour for finals be used for "examination, discussion, summarizing the course, obtaining student evaluation of the course, instruction, or any other appropriate activity designed to advance the student's education."

Today's student has it tough in some respects. But how can he expect much sympathy from his elders if he never has to stumble into a final bleary-eyed from too much coffee and a lack of sleep caused by trying to cram a whole term's work into one night?

Low Dividend's No Growth Certainty

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—Some investors consider that the growth trend of a company's earnings per share is a primary criterion in making investment decisions. It is natural for them to be on the watch for concerns that plow back most of this income rather than pay a large portion of it out in the form of dividends. It is hoped that this process will generate still further growth in profits per share.

Of course, not all companies with a low dividend payout ratio are growth situations. Reinvestment of earnings does increase stockholders' equity (total assets less liabilities and preferred stock, divided by the number of common shares outstanding), but of even greater significance is the rate of return earned on this stockholders' equity. A healthy rate of return indicates a sound use of reinvested funds and quite likely a company that will continue to expand.

GROWTH situations are not necessarily suitable for all investors. Income-oriented accounts will find the low payout ratios of many growth companies unsatisfactory. Also the common shares of such companies entail a greater degree of risk in view of the fact that investors are giving up current income in the hope of getting better-than-average market appreciation in the future.

And since most of these issues sell at relatively high multiples (price-earnings ratio), the stock may have already discounted the

Park Prints Canoeing Guide

To assist persons who are interested in canoeing along the Clinton River, the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority now has available a "CLINTON RIVER CANOEING GUIDE"

The printed guide, which has a black and grey cover, illustrates the most popular section of the Clinton River beginning in Oakland County from Dequindre and Avon Roads near the Yates Cider Mill southeast of Rochester on through Macomb County to Shadyside Park in Mt. Clemens.

The guide map includes access roads, bridges, railroad tracks, picnic and rest areas on public lands bordering on the Clinton River, plus a series of helpful hints for canoeists and a chart containing distances and padding times between major points along the approximate 20-mile route.

The free canoe guide is available by writing to CLINTON RIVER CANOE GUIDE, Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, 600 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226 or phone 961-5865 (Detroit).

Michigan Bell Report to Customers

A clarification of facts concerning your telephone service and usage

Fixed-and low-income families can save on their telephone bills.

Actually, almost any family can reduce its telephone bill... by first understanding that increased bills come largely from increased telephone usage (not increased rates). Your present telephone rate structure is based on the idea that you pay for what you use. We think that's only fair. Now, if your family doesn't need to use your telephone too frequently, there is a money-saving plan that may be right for you:

Measured Budget Service for $3 a month... available statewide. Michigan Bell's two-party line Budget Service is not best for everyone, but can be just the thing for retirees or, perhaps, singles with minimal telephone needs. Because, you pay just $3 a month, if you stay within the monthly calling allowance on local and interzone calls. Also, in most areas a one-party line Budget Service is available at $4.50 a month.

Talk for a minute, pay for a minute, not three. Another way to save... with Michigan Bell's "pay for what you use" plan, you are no longer automatically charged for three minutes on long distance calls within Michigan. In other words, if you make a brief long distance call, you pay only for what you use. If you talk for one or two minutes, that's all you pay for. Plus, by dialing direct you can save 20% or 40% on long distance calls within Michigan.

For more information on economic use of your telephone, call your Michigan Bell Business Office. We want to help.
