

Sliced Drug Penalties Spark Mixed Reaction

When the state legislature last week slashed penalties for drug offenses it touched off a potpourri of local reaction ranging from praise to condemnation.

And none of the new penalties drew more diverse reaction than the provision that reduces the penalty for smoking marijuana from a felony to a misdemeanor subject to a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and a $100 fine.

Meanwhile, Governor William Milliken, a staunch advocate of reform, is expected to sign the compromise legislative measure into law.

Not even local area legislators themselves could agree on the drug reform package.

Supporting it are: State Senator Carl D. Pursell (R-14th District) and Representatives Clifford H. Smart (R-60th District) and Marvin R. Stempien (D-35th District).

Opposing it are: State Senator Gordon Rockwell (R-25th District), and Representative Thomas G. Sharpe (R-51st District).

To be known as the Controlled Substances Act of 1971, the proposed new law, capping a two-year legislative debate, classifies narcotics, dangerous drugs and marijuana and establishes new penalties for offenses.

Besides making the smoking of pot a misdemeanor, it provides for a year in jail and a $1,000 fine for conviction of possession and it provides a maximum penalty of $2,000 fine and four years in jail for anyone convicted of giving someone ("delivery") marijuana whether or not payment is accepted.

Under the existing law, use of marijuana was subject to up to a year in jail and $2,000 fine; possession could bring 10 years in jail and $5,000 fine; and sale could mean 20 years to life in jail.

The proposed new law also provides for lesser penalties for possessing, giving or selling amphetamines, LSD, and heroin.

Most vehemently opposed to the new legislation are local police officials.

"The next step no doubt will be to legalize the stuff," warned Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole, who is president of the Metropolitan Police Academy.

"I'll be accused of having 1890 ideas but I don't see this new law helping individuals who use pot or society in general," BeGole said. "Even if the penalties under the old law were not handed down at least it made kids think twice before trying pot."

Livingston County Sheriff Charles Hards concurred: "It's not going to help us; it'll help the criminal. It cut out search and seizure because the charges are not felonies."

"Search and seizure" referred to by the sheriff is a provision enabling policemen to search the person of an individual if they have strong reason to believe he is carrying illegal drugs. Normally, this provision exists only for felony cases. However, the proposed new law contains language providing for search and seizure even though marijuana possession is changed to a misdemeanor.

Northville's City Attorney Philip Ogilvie views this special search and seizure provision with skepticism.

The provision certainly will be tested in the courts, predicted Ogilvie and very possibly will be tossed out, thus further hampering the work of police in combatting drug violations.

Representative Sharpe agreed and said the language is "as meaningless as the day is long."

Charging that judges have been circumventing the old law, he said "The new law merely gives judges more legal discretion by statute, which they have been doing anyway. If the old law had been invoked it would have been a tremendous deterrent. . . a very effective law."

NEWS BRIEFS

UF CAMPAIGN tops last year's residential collection for the United Foundation in the Northville area with approximately $3,400 collected this fall, according to Mrs. Robert Yanover, Northville residential chairman. This total exceeds last year's by $400.

AN AD HOCK committee of four citizens may be established soon by the city council to review and recommend changes in the master plan. Bugged down in routine zoning matters, the planning commission requested establishment of the committee because it has been unable to find time to make the review itself.

CANDY CANES will be on sale Friday and Saturday at various locations around the city by the Northville Jaycees. All proceeds from the sale will be given to the Salvation Army's Toys for Tots program. Last year the Jaycees' candy cane sale raised more than $600 in donations from Northville citizens, which was then given as a gift from the people of Northville to the Wayne County Child Development Center.

CONTROVERSY is likely to be the order of the evening next Monday when the city council conducts a public hearing on a proposed snowmobile ordinance and a proposal to delay for one year the implementation of the city's ban on non-returnable bottles. The Northville Snow Drifters, a snowmobiling club, has requested several changes to the proposed ordinance. Its representatives, together with citizens wanting stricter control of these vehicles are expected to be present. Also expected to be present will be representatives of the local Citizens for Environmental Action, protesting the bottle ban delay. Besides these two matters, the council will consider a change in water rates for large township users.

THREE TOWNSHIP residents were reappointed to posts on the Board of Review Tuesday night by trustees. Approved unanimously were Mrs. M. N. Young, Lawrence Wright and Thomas Lovett.

Survey Favors Joint Force

Board Studies Results

Northville township trustees Tuesday night briefly discussed results of the questionnaire sent to all registered township voters seeking opinions on police protection for the township and voted to hold an executive session to review the results in depth.

The meeting, for which no date was announced, will be scheduled after all trustees have had an opportunity to review the questionnaires and comments made by the voters.

Of the 2,731 questionnaires mailed out, 926 were answered with more than 200 returned as undeliverable because the residents had moved.

Most of the residents favored increasing police protection (668 "yes" and 214 "no") with the majority opting for joining with the City of Northville in establishing a joint police force under joint control of the two governmental bodies (394 "yes" and 265 "no"). See complete tabulation of questions and responses on Page 14-A Township Clerk Mrs. Eleanor Hammond said the township "can't offer this option at this point because the city will not accept joint control. And if we contract with the city for two years we will lose everything at the end of those two years that we had gained up to that point," she commented.

Trustee Bernard Baldwin

said she was "foreclosing and eliminating portions of the questionnaire already. The city has indicated there are problems (under provisions of the charter which call for a police force controlled by the city) but is willing to enter discussion to iron them out."

Baldwin said he was "surprised" by the number of people who indicated they were in favor of unification with the city (401 "yes" and 449 "no") but Mrs. Hammond clarified the vote, stating "most of the people qualified their 'yes' responses with 'if it happens this way'."

Buys Car, Truck

Two new vehicles, a police car and a truck for the water and sewer department, were purchased Tuesday night by township trustees.

Low bid on the police car was awarded to John Mach Ford at a cost of $3,420, pending clarification of whether or not the bid price includes excise tax.

Rather than trading in the Chevrolet station wagon, which the new police car is to replace, trustees voted to use the wagon in the building department.

Turstees also voted to allow Police Chief Ronald Nisun to purchase overhead lights for the police car (separate from the police package offered by Mach) and install them himself. Nisun said he could save the township about $150.

Mach was also awarded the low bid of $3,045, pending clarification of the excise tax, for a van to be used by the water and sewer department.

In a related matter, Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg noted that Clifford Smith had been hired for the water and sewer commission under the Emergency Employment Act.

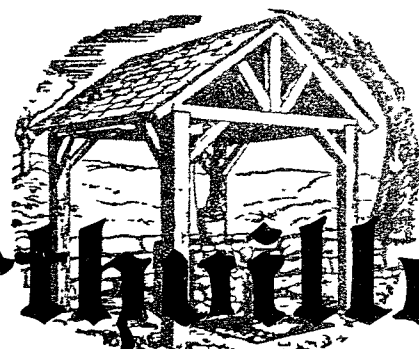

—learned from Attorney John Ashton Boron Oil has dropped its suit against the township contesting zoning restrictions at its Five Mile and Haggerty Road site in favor of building a station at Six Mile and Haggerty, as agreed to by the board;

—established a committee of four citizens, to be chaired by Trustee Richard Mitchell, to investigate costs of equipping and operating a fire station;

—directed Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg to write to the Wayne County Road Commission asking them to resurface several roads in the township; and —directed the planning commission to make a long range study for sewage capacity required by the township along Haggerty Road.

Nix Pay Challenge

Possible challenge of negotiated pay raises for teachers and other employees was killed Monday night by board members.

Northville school board trustees failed to take action on submitting a challenge contesting the negotiated salary schedule which went into effect November 15.

The challenge can only be made by the school board, employees' bargaining unit (in this case the Northville Education Association or classified employees' union) or five members of the Wage and Price Board of the Cost of Living Council.

Favoring the challenge were Board President Dr. Orlo J. Robinson, and Trustees B. William Secord and Richard Martin.

Those speaking against the challenge were Trustees Stanley Johnston, Andrew Orphan, Glenn Deibert and Martin Rinehart.

Superintendent Raymond Spear said he had received adequate information from legal counsel that the school district was "obligated to the pay raises since they were agreed upon. I cannot recommend challenging them," he noted.

While President Richard Nixon has urged raises be kept to a 5.5 percent maximum during Phase II of the Wage and Price Freeze, raises negotiated by teachers range from 7.5 to 15.2 percent. Disregarding the period during which salaries were frozen, increases actually paid to teachers range from 5.4 to 11 percent.

Dr. Robinson said he was in favor of granting the raises, as required by law, and at the same time challenging the move.

"Even though I feel the wage board will approve the wage hikes, it does not alter my opinion to allow them (the wage board) to make the final decision," he commented.

The board president noted the agreement with the teachers and other contracted personnel was reached prior to the wage freeze and increases exceeded the 5.5 percent limit urged by the President

District Plans Four Schools

A bond issue — the first of three-signalling the start of a multi-million dollar building program was authorized Monday night by Northville school board members.

Tentatively scheduled for March 18, 1972, it is not to exceed $1.8 million, with the exact figure to be set at the board's February 28 meeting.

What specifically will be included in the first bond issue was not clarified by board members who indicated they will hold a work session in January to iron out the details.

Trustees hinted they plan to limit the bond issue so it will not necessitate an increase in millage construction of at least one elementary school and a high school ready for occupancy in the fall of 1974.

Spear told board members anticipated enrollment by the fall of 1972 is 3,800 with students topping the 4,200 mark by the fall of 1973.

"By the fall of 1973, our buildings, as they now stand, will be at maximum capacity," he explained, provided the students come into our community at the right ages" and not all at one grade level.

The superintendent said even if the state does away with the property tax and switches to an income tax for operation of schools, it "will not affect our building program. Bond issues would still be needed to construct schools," Spear commented.

Gas Franchise Up to Voters

A special election is being held today (Thursday) in Northville Township to confirm or deny the grant of a gas franchise from the township board to the Consumers Power Company.

A positive vote would renew the franchise granted by the people 30 years ago. Renewal is necessary to meet the requirements of the state constitution, a Consumers spokesman has explained.

The new franchise will merely grant Consumers Power Company legal authority to continue carrying on its gas business in the township under substantially similar conditions to those presently in effect.

Gas rates are unaffected by the vote. Rates are established and regulated by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

All registered voters in the township are eligible to vote.

A similar election in the City of Northville is planned next March. A public hearing on a proposed city gas franchise ordinance will be held January 3.

TIME KEEPER — Carol Young, secretary to the director of business and finance, checks the "new" clock installed this week in the board of education office. The clock, made in 1916 by Standard Electric Time Company of Springfield, Massachusetts, is the original clock from the old Northville High (present junior high annex) and was recently replaced. Rebuilt and in perfect working order, the clock has four tapes which were used to operate the bell system in the school.

approved releases from contracts, effective January 27, for Mrs. Betty Knapp, second grade teacher at Moraine, and Mrs. Karen Mayer, vocal music teacher at Northville High, whose husbands have been transferred from the area;

— approved a contract for Mrs. Brenda J. Irish 1970 graduate of Michigan with a BA degree in geography and social studies, who will teach at the junior high;

— approved a revised policy dealing with field trips updating the policy to "today's curriculum," and — cancelled the December 27 meeting of the school board.

With the first bond issue set for March, additional bond votes would be held in late summer of 1972 and early 1973, provided the first issue gains a favorable vote.

Superintendent Raymond Spear said if the voters do not "approve the $1.8-million issue which won't increase taxes, where are we when we have to build two schools at a time?"

The second bond issue, slated for fall of 1972, is estimated to be between $5- and $6-million, including an elementary and middle school ready for occupancy in the fall of 1973.

The third bond request, projected for early 1973, could total $12-million, including

Jaycees Look For Best Lights

Judging for the 11th annual Christmas Lighting Contest, sponsored by the Northville Jaycees, will take place Sunday.

For the past 10 years, the Jaycees have presented an award to the Northville area resident who is judged to have the most attractive or unique Christmas lighting display.

The 1970 winners were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kaufman of 43737 Galway Drive for their display highlighting spiritual and festive aspects of the season through use of a nativity scene supplemented by lights and trimmings.

Sunday's judging will take place between 7:30 and 11: p.m., and Northville area residents are asked to keep their home lights burning during these hours.

Anyone aware of a deserving effort in producing an outdoor Christmas display is asked to call Ed Harding, Jaycee project chairman, to be certain that the home is included in the judging.

Homeowners are advised that judges may stop to ask for names and a few details about outstanding displays during their tour Sunday evening.

Schools Topic For LWV Tea

The Northville-Plymouth League of Women Voters will have a holiday tea today at 1 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal Church, 574 South Sheldon Road.

School administrators from both communities have been invited to form a panel which will discuss education.

Representing Plymouth will be Superintendent James Rossman and Assistant Superintendents John Hoben and Melvin Blunk. Northville will be represented by Superintendent Raymond Spear, Miss Florence Panattoni, director of instruction, and Earl Busard, director of business administration.

The panel will be asked:

"Would the shift from local to state collection of taxes affect local control?" "What changes do you anticipate in your local district as a result of this shift?"

In the second half of the program, the panel will split up into discussion groups representing the two communities to talk about local education. The League recently completed a survey of the two school districts and questions relative to this survey will be addressed to the administrators.

Baby sitting is available at 12:45 p.m. at the home of Mrs. William McAninch, 539 S. Sheldon Road. Anyone wishing information about the League may call Mrs. Charles at 349-1710.

CHRISTMAS GIFT—In a cooperative gesture, Pack 721, represented here by Mark Tuggle and Steve Hodge, presented a turkey to the Northville Bluebirds who will add it to their collection of food to be donated to a needy family for Christmas. Preparation of food baskets, gifts and sponsorship of parties are among the numerous other activities underway locally by other youth groups in the community.

Lambert - Car Vows Read in Lake Odessa

When Stephanie Ann Lambert became the bride of Thomas Alan Car in an afternoon ceremony December 4 in Lake Odessa (Michigan) United Methodist Church, her four sisters were her attendants.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jack Lambert of Lake Odessa, and bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Car, 18810 Jamestown Circle, also included the bride's brothers in the wedding party.

The Reverend Marvin Zimmerman officiated at the altar decorated with pyramid candelabra centered with hot pink and white carnations, orchid fuji mums and poms. Organ music included the theme from "Love Story" while the bride's march was played on the church chimes.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown with quilted lace skirt and silvery bodice with long, puffy lace sleeves ending in seven-button cuffs. Her parasol bouquet of white lace was formed of a dozen-and-a-half baby roses, white poms and a white orchid.

As honor maid, her sister, Anita Sue, wore a floor-length print dress in hot pink, orange, violet, brown, black and white shades. It was fashioned with long sleeves and a hood in violet. Another sister, Lori Ellen, was bridesmaid in a mid-length orchid, silvery crepe dress with elasticized bodice and puffed sleeves and gathered skirt.

Tina Mary and Martha Jo in deep orchid and dark purple floor-length A-line dresses respectively completed the bridal party. They carried basket bouquets while the bridesmaid and honor maid had nosegays of mums, poms, carnations and dried flowers. The bride's uncle, John Calcott, was best man with her brother, Jeffrey Brian, serving as groomsmen while another brother, Robin, was master of ceremonies.

An open house followed at the Lambert home after a reception in the church fellowship hall. About 120 guests from Lansing, Battle Creek, Hastings, Lake Odessa and the Detroit area attended. The bridegroom's mother wore an aqua street-length dress while the bride's mother chose a deep purple knit dress.

Afterward, for a trip to Detroit, the bride changed to a floor-length fake-fur skirt and long-sleeved white blouse with ruffle trim. The newlyweds plan to make their home in the Northville-Wixom area.

Family Ring Used in Wedding

Margaret Elizabeth Godley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morley B. Godley, 438 Eaton

Drive, became the bride of Walter Fredrick Coponen in a double ring ceremony November 27 in which her vows were sealed with her maternal grandmother's wedding band.

The Reverend Guenther C. Branstner officiated at the 1 p.m. service at Northville First United Methodist Church. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Coponen of Westland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory crepe gown which she had made. In monk styling, it was tied with a braided pearl belt. An ivory veil was attached to the bride's christening cap which had been made by her grandmother.

The bride carried an arrangement of orange-tipped, yellow, long-stemmed roses. Mrs. James (Patricia) Pomorski, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor in a forest green, floor-length, velveteen gown made by the bride and fashioned with full sleeves ending in wide cuffs. She carried a basket of dried orange, yellow and green flowers.

Michael Mortens was best man. Usher was John Flynn. Wedding music included Pursell's "Trumpet Tune," "We've Only Just Begun," "If

HAPPY HOBBY — Laura (Mrs. Robert) Diekoff of 32 Meadowbrook, Country Estates, is a very un-handicapped 70-year old. The active member of the Northville Senior Citizens and St. Paul's Lutheran Church spends 10 months of every year ("I take July for my vacation and December for Christmas activities in the neighborhood") making Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls. She uses all new materials and carefully hand sews everything ("I shop locally, buying most of my materials at the Spinning Wheel and Dancer's," she relates). She has sold the dolls at $8 each — including all 18 which surround her here — but costs will make it necessary to charge $10 for next year's orders which she will start producing in January.

Homemaker of Tomorrow Seniors Compete for Title

Sixty-five Northville High School home economics girls were among more than 600,000 in nearly 15,000 schools across the country participating in a 50-minute written knowledge and aptitude examination last Tuesday, December 7.

All senior girls this year were encouraged by Mrs. Barbara Morrison, Northville High home economics teacher, to enter the 18th annual Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow competition. Sponsored by General Mills, the contest is the only national scholarship program exclusively for high school senior girls. Given on the same day nationwide, the testing here encountered none of the problems of male applicants, as reported elsewhere.

Mrs. Morrison was assisted by Mrs. Violet Bradford and Mrs. Alta Olson of the high school counseling staff in administering the test.

Mrs. Dorothy Hilton, Novi High School home economics teacher, reported that she had planned to give the test in Novi but gave up because of "lack of interest" on the part of students. In Northville, Mrs. Bradford said, a few more than half of the senior girls took the test, which had been advertised in advance.

After the examination is graded, a Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow will be named at each participating high school. Last year's Northville winner was Wendy Wheaton. Mrs. Morrison points out that it is not necessary to be in the homemaking field to win, adding that Wendy is a music major.

The local winner receives an award charm and is entered in state competition with state winners receiving $1,500 in scholarships and their schools, a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica. Runner-up receives a $500 grant. In the spring, state winners, each accompanied by a faculty advisor, take a tour of Colonial Williamsburg and Washington, D. C. At the conclusion, a 1972 top winner and three runners-up receive increases in their scholarships to $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000.

The test, containing 90 multiple-choice questions and a discussion question, ranged in content from health, sewing, money and home management to psychology and civic involvement.

Specific food questions, such as, "Which of the following foods is usually fortified with vitamin D?" which goes on to list bread, sugar, milk and orange juice (with milk the answer), are included with others on ecology and economics.

A knowledge of ecology would help answer question No. 27: "Which of these materials is most resistant to natural decomposition? Plastic, paper, canvas or wood" (Plastic is correct).

A background in government helps answer the question, "Before a constitutional amendment becomes law, it must be proposed by two-thirds of the Congress and ratified by—" The answer is three-fourths of the state legislatures.

While General Mills would not admit entries from boys who took the test in New York State, those males might have had trouble answering one of the first questions: "Which of the following steps can you eliminate when making a garment of a polyester double-knit fabric—underlining, marking, hemming or pressing?" The answer is the first, underlining.

Finally, participants were to answer the question, "Some sociologists say that increased mobility and increased technology in our daily lives are making the traditional family obsolete. Others argue that these very factors are making the family more necessary than ever before in our society. Which argument do you favor? Support your answer with specific examples."

Girls scoring highest on the questions this year also have an opportunity to win a special $1,000 nutrition scholarship to be awarded to a young woman planning a college major in nutrition.

One college-bound Northville senior admitted after taking the test that it contained more than she expected in general knowledge areas. Participants and the high school staff were commended this week by Northville Superintendent Raymond Spear for exerting the extra effort and taking the time for the test.

The winner will receive her recognition locally at senior honors night.

Spot Zoning Stalls Novi Moose Lodge

Novi City Council Monday rejected an amendment to the zoning ordinance that would allow the city's newly-formed Fraternal Order of Moose to establish a lodge on the corner of Ten Mile and Taft roads — an area presently zoned agricultural.

Adoption of the amendment failed by a 3-3 vote. Immediately following the vote, Homer Whitfield, president of the Novi Moose Lodge, stood up and approached Mayor Joseph Crupi, who had cast the final vote which deadlocked and thus defeated the amendment.

"Our request is dead," said Whitfield, "but the Novi Moose Lodge is by no means dead. We will remember how long it took you to act on our rezoning. And I as a taxpayer and a property owner will remember your inaction tonight has not defeated us, it has only made us stronger."

Although only a few months old, the Novi Moose already boasts more than 200 members.

The council first became aware of the establishment of a Novi Moose Lodge at a joint meeting of the council and planning board November 8 when Bruce Simmons, owner of the property at 10 Mile and Taft roads, asked for a change in zoning from agricultural to professional offices.

At that time, representatives of the Moose revealed plans for their Novi chapter and explained that the rezoning would enable them to establish a lodge on the property — a usage not permitted under the agricultural zoning.

The request failed to get beyond the planning board. Planning Consultant Robert Shaddock of Vilcan-Leman advised against the rezoning on the grounds it was in opposition to Novi's master plan for development. Such a precedent, he said at that time, could be dangerous if the council did not want 10 Mile to become a row of spot zonings.

Although the planning board followed Shaddock's recommendations for the preservation of the master plan, it and the council attempted to find other avenues to accommodate the lodge.

Suggestions included granting a variance in the zoning, allowing the Moose to go ahead and establish their lodge on the property and simply overlook its non-conforming status, and changing the master plan in regard to the 10 Mile Road area in such a way that would allow the professional offices zoning.

Finally, two distinct actions were taken. Council voted to — one — send the matter back to the planning board for consideration of rezoning the entire 10 Mile Road area to professional offices or commercial use and — two — to instruct the city attorney to draft an amendment to the agricultural zoning ordinance that would permit "chartered divisions of national fraternal organizations."

It was the second direction — the amendment to the agricultural ordinance — that led to Monday night's action.

In essence, the matter revolved on the question of spot zoning — allowing certain types of zoning in areas where an entirely different type of zoning is prevalent.

The matter did not revolve on the question of the desirability of a Moose Lodge in Novi. Said Crupi, "If you people had selected a building in an appropriate area there would be no problem in granting you the lodge. The matter before us is not the degree of integrity of the Moose organization, but the integrity of our master plan for the city's zoning."

Before council took action on the specific request of the change in the zoning of the Simmons property, attempts were made to postpone the matter. Councilman Edwin Presnell moved that the matter be sent to the planning board for a recommendation of a different type of zoning on 10 Mile. The planning board, however, told the council it had already considered such a recommendation and had decided to stand by the original zoning.

Councilman Denis Berry moved to remand the matter to council for discussion on January 17, a planning session. Representatives from the Moose, however, indicated they had waited

New Hope Seen For Wixom Taps

Long awaited action on expansion of Wixom's sewage treatment plant could well be in the offing and, ironically, catalyst for the renewed action is a court decision against the city.

Assistant to the Mayor William Travis Tuesday reported to the council Tuesday that a decision had been reached on Oakland County's condemnation proceedings for the property needed to expand the existing water treatment facilities. That decision denied the condemnation.

At the same time Travis said that according to Oakland County DPW Director R. J. Alexander, the owner of the property had indicated he would be willing to sell his land for $35,000.

It is this information that led Wixom Attorney Gene Schnelz to speculate that action could be forthcoming. "In light of the enormity of the problem of supplying sufficient sewer taps to this area," he said, "if it's a question of simply $35,000, I would assume the County would consider that amount a pittance."

Wixom Building Official Earl Madary told the council the city has no more taps available for additional construction.

The availability of taps is, of course, essential for further development of the city. "We've already had to discourage developers interested in Wixom because we simply haven't had the taps available," said Councilman

Gunnar Mettala. "Somebody seems to be dragging their feet on getting us more taps."

Now that a decision has been made on the condemnation suit, other, more profitable, means of bringing about expansion of the water treatment plant will hopefully be pursued.

School Buys Pickup Truck

Waiving low bids, the Novi Board of Education Monday voted to purchase a three-quarter ton pickup truck with snow blade at a cost of $3,951 from O'Green Ford of Farmington.

The board decided to contract with O'Green because it had a fully equipped, four-wheel drive vehicle available for immediate delivery. The truck picked was an alternate offered by O'Green. Its base bid on bid specifications was $3,837.

Two lower bids submitted by G. E. Miller Dodge of Northville and Town & Country Dodge of Farmington were set aside because delivery could not be guaranteed in less than two months.

Miller's low base bid was $3,675, its alternate immediately available vehicle was offered at $4,083. Town & Country came in with a base bid of $3,688.45, and it offered no alternative.

Other bidders included John Mack Ford, $4,000 base bid and $4,063.00 alternate; and Rose Rambler, $4,000 base bid with no alternate.

Monies for the new truck are to come from the 1970 building and site fund.

In a report to the board, Alex Riebe, architect, indicated that construction of the new middle school is proceeding on schedule, and he predicted total completion by January 1.

"Although the students will be occupying the entire building after the first of the year," said Riebe, "it is anticipated that work will continue on the project for minor adjustments of mechanical and electrical systems, including kitchen equipment and final touch-up of architectural work."

He said installation of shop equipment was to start this week. Futuristic flooring is to begin tomorrow and continue through the holidays, locker room areas are now ready for final cleanup with installation of lighting fixtures coming up next, and air handling systems throughout the building are expected to be on fully automatic operation by December 20.

The supplier of gymnasium equipment, he said, will be on the project December 20 for installation of bleachers, basketball backstops and scoreboard.

In a related matter, the board authorized a change order calling for additional futuristic wall covering in the middle school gymnasium at an additional cost of $1,047.40.

Concerning eventual transfer of the sixth grades now housed in the elementary schools, Superintendent Thomas Dale said administrators would recommend at the first meeting in January whether or not transfer should take place yet this year.

Upon hearing that the district's four new buses have been delivered, the board voted to pay $1,000 down on each with the balance to be financed over the next five years through the National Bank of Detroit at a 4-percent interest rate.

In other action Monday, the board voted to enter an agreement with the Clarenceville School District for sharing the services of that district's diagnostician at an approximate cost of $900 to $1,000.

Dale, who noted that Novi will need to employ its own personnel next year, said Novi meanwhile could use additional service since Dr. Peter Fotu, who is shared by South Lyon, is unable to cover the increase that the student body demands.

Board members are to meet in a study session next Monday night to consider personnel and contract matters. The latter includes establishment of a salary schedule for the district food supervisor who was excluded

Weighs Manager's Report

Novi Eyes Tap Division

A tentative assignment of Novi's sewer taps in the new Novi-Walled Lake sewage treatment plant was presented to the city council by City Manager George Athas Wednesday night.

If Athas' recommendations are followed, 2,411 sewer taps will be assigned with 1,861 going to property presently incorporated in the city and 550 taps going to township property.

"I felt we were morally obligated to consider township properties in our distribution of taps," explained Athas. "We will draw up the contracts and then hold them in abeyance pending the decision of our annexation proceedings. If annexation fails," he indicated, "the township taps will be reassigned to city properties."

The problem of supplying sewage facilities to the northern part of the city — that section north of the I-696 expressway — has confronted the city for several years. Without sewer taps, development of the area has been necessarily restricted. The new sewage treatment plant will alleviate some of the problems, but the request for taps has already exceeded the amount presently available through the facility.

Athas indicated that he had already received requests for 4,730 taps — 3,426 from city property owners and an additional 1,304 from owners of present township parcels.

The criterion for assignment of taps presently available, the city manager explained, was the developer's readiness to build. City leaders are hopeful that more taps will be available in the future to allow further development of the area.

Although Athas stated he had attempted to balance the taps to be assigned between different zoning types, councilman Louie Campbell expressed displeasure with the relatively low number of taps given to industry and the relatively high number of taps — more than one-third — slated to go to Kaufman and Broad residential developments.

The specific distribution of taps recommended by Athas' report was not made public. "These are only my recommendations," said Athas, "and the council is under no obligation to accept them."

Novi Bands Set Concert

A combined program of the symphony and concert bands and the high school chorus will highlight Novi High School's annual Christmas concert which will be presented Tuesday, December 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the High School Commons.

The bands are directed by Gordon Seiler. Susan Himbeault directs the chorus.

The concert will feature both sacred and traditional music as selections from George Frederick Handel's Messiah will be presented.

County Decision Irks Novi

Novi's battle to force Oakland County to lower the speed limit on 10 Mile Road could well lead to legal action as Mayor Joseph Crupi Wednesday directed City Attorney Howard Bond to investigate the possibility of a law suit against the County Road Commission.

If filed, the suit would charge the Commission has not acted in the best interests of the health, safety, and welfare of its constituents.

The matter of lowering the speed limit on 10 Mile came before the council once again at Wednesday's meeting as City Manager George Athas reported on the Road Commission's reaction to a letter council had directed him to send them several weeks ago. In that letter, Athas had written that Novi "demanded" a reduction in the speed limit to 35 miles per hour.

"There were very upset with our letter," Athas told councilmen before reading the Commission's reply, which termed Novi's demands "unrealistic."

Although refusing to lower the limit to the speed

Meeting Cancelled

The second regular meeting this month of the Novi Board of Education has been cancelled because of the Christmas holiday, Board President Gilbert Henderson reminded citizens.

At the same time Henderson announced that the first regular meeting in January will be held at the new Village Oaks Elementary School rather than in the high school library. This meeting is scheduled to start one hour early, at 7 p.m., to permit a tour of the new school by both board members and citizens.

Following the tour the board is expected to formally accept the building as completed from the contractor.

SHOOTING UP—Construction is underway on Novi's new fire hall on 13 Mile Road. High winds over the weekend caused an estimated $500 damage to insulation materials piled beside the framework, but workmen said no major damage had been done.

Drug Bill Draws Mixed Reaction

Asked if he thought the new law will lead to increased use of marijuana, Sharpe replied, "No. Nor will they be any more open. They have been smoking on the Capitol lawn anyway. It might, however, make it easier for people (the violators) to breathe."

Northville School Superintendent Raymond Spear praised the new legislation and predicted "no dramatic increase" in use of pot by young people because penalties have been reduced. "Look, teenagers weren't afraid of the law before," he said. "If they wanted to smoke it they smoked it. The law didn't stop them."

"It is long overdue," said Dr. Ralph D. Rabinovitch of Hawthorn Center in Northville. "The previous law was unworkable, unfeasible and unfair. I think (the new law) is a very positive step forward that will only make things more realistic." Dr. Rabinovitch, respected nationally for his work with emotionally disturbed children, said the legislation "is fair enough so that (sentencing) can be applied when needed. It will let young people know just where they stand."

Referring to the proposed law's provision calling for the review of prison inmates sentenced under the old law, Chief BeGole argued it would make a "hero" out of convicted men and women such as John Sinclair, who the chief said take pleasure in flaunting society's laws.

"I don't care what arguments (proponents) use," BeGole said. "Studies have shown that marijuana is harmful. It damages the brain worse than that, kids who use it soon graduate to the heavier stuff that is even more harmful.

"Argument that alcohol is just as harmful as pot or even more harmful isn't an argument at all; it's a cop out for those trying to find excuses."

Northville Police Chief Samuel Elkins, who also ripped the new legislation, emphasized, "Kids don't realize the dangers and problems connected with marijuana. (Smoking marijuana) has lasting effects which creep up on you. It gets to everyone sooner or later if they use it in sufficient quantities."

Elkins also criticized the government for negligence in failure to inform the public and law enforcement agencies of the results of its controlled studies of marijuana.

Concerning the much stiffer existing penalties, Elkins said he "would agree with the critics (of the law because of its stiff penalties) if it had been enforced to the letter of the law. But it wasn't."

Although he isn't happy with all of the provisions of the proposed law, Senator Pursell is convinced the compromise is justified and for that reason he supported its passage.

"My concern in touring the prisons and jails across the state has been the high percentage (75-percent) of returning prisoners. We have to develop new approaches for rehabilitation because our efforts thus far have been unsuccessful."

Reduced penalties, contended Pursell, represent a more realistic approach to the problem.

Pointing out that the drug-alcohol culture is a reflection of the adult society, he asked, "Why should young people be the target of our anger? It's about time the correctional focus on drug abuse takes place in the home where it belongs."

Because police departments have limited resources and staffs, Pursell argued that "we must aim our big thrust at the pushers and sellers of narcotics."

SENATOR PURSELL

CHIEF LEE BeGOLE

THOMAS KIZER, JR.

Pursell considers the bill creating an overall commission on drug and alcoholic problems, also passed by the senate, just as important as the controversial penalty reductions.

"The new commission will review, appraise and supervise all drug and alcoholic problems now being handled by various state agencies," he said. "The present un-coordinated approach cannot guarantee that we are receiving maximum effectiveness for the taxpayers' dollar. The new legislation will correct this."

The senator said the commission will develop a comprehensive state plan for long-range development of adequate services and facilities for the prevention and control of drug abuse.

It also will outline programs for diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation of persons dependent upon, or addicted to, alcohol or dangerous drugs, he said.

Said Thomas Kizer, Jr., Livingston County prosecuting attorney:

"I can't oppose a reduction in the penalty for possession and use of marijuana. The damage these counts bring to society are minimal."

"We have to stem the tide of growing marijuana use but treating marijuana as a felony has not been an effective tool for stemming use or possession."

Furthermore, Kiser contended the job of the law enforcement officer won't be any more difficult because possession and use become misdemeanors.

"My personal belief is I have not seen the courts or law enforcement officers deal effectively with it anyway," he declared. "The old law has not been effective in curbing marijuana use or possession. In effect, the old law brings about contempt for the law by the young especially, since it is too harsh and as a result is seldom invoked by the judges"

Kiser said he would rather see funds that might be spent on futile court attempts to gain convictions spent instead on getting medical people involved in marijuana cures, treatment and research.

District Judge Bert Hensick of Livingston County conceded that judges, as a general rule, have been reluctant to find first-time offenders guilty on possession charges.

"I'm not going to send a kid up for 10 years in Jackson for a first offense," said the judge. "The penalties (in the old law) for the average kid coming before me, in my estimation, are too stringent"

Students Plan Salem Music

The Salem Christmas music program will be presented Thursday, December 16, following the PTO meeting at 8:00 p.m. in the school's multipurpose room. It will be repeated the following Tuesday afternoon for the school.

The program includes the three fifth grades approximately 90 students, singing the cantata "Lo! A Star" by Robert Graham. Soloists will be featured on the selections "The Donkey" and "The Stable." A selected group will perform "The Manager." Other features include woodblocks and triangles. The cantata will also be narrated by one of the fifth graders reading the Biblical version of the Christmas story and animated by several of the students portraying Mary, Joseph, the shepherds, the three wise men, and a Roman official.

Following both programs will be a sing with the audience of Christmas carols and other holiday favorites. Mrs. Shirley Anderson is the music teacher. Her husband, Richard Anderson will be the pianist for the program. Fifth grade teachers assisting are Mrs. Carol Duvall, Miss Diane Hartwig, and Robert Kopicko.

STATEMENT AND ANSWER

Major objection to making the West Oakland Bank an official city depository centered on the question of its solvency. Councilman Denis Berry asked Johnson what he felt his chances were of going broke and then asked him to compare his bank with the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank, operated by the Parsons group, which suffered bankruptcy last winter.

"In my own mind, our chances of going broke are nil," said Johnson. "As for the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank's problems, it all narrows down to a matter of management. I have the utmost confidence in my own abilities, and the abilities of our board of directors to manage the bank responsibly."

Groups Hold Parties

By Nancy Dingeldey

The gals were all decked out, many in long gowns, last Thursday night for the Hickory Hill Extension Study Group's annual Christmas party.

Secrecy surrounded the event as only the planners knew where dinner would be held or what would be served. A car was dispatched to chaffer the group to the gathering spot.

Barb Armstrong and Wilhelmina Lahti, the two responsible for the evening, unveiled their plans for the evening in the Armstrong's beautifully decorated family room.

Candles, Christmas lights and a huge roaring fire lent the very special atmosphere needed for a party.

The menu was a complete seven-course Cantonese delight prepared dish by dish by Barb's brother, "Doug Thero—an excellent culinary artist, I might add Soup, egg rolls, shrimp, chicken, beef and on and on until the bursting point. Each dish was masterfully prepared and then served by Barb's daughter, Lori.

Gifts were exchanged among the gals and the evening wound up with a good Christmas caroling session. What a delightful evening.

And on Sunday, another Christmas party, "Pikku Joulu" or "little Christmas", was held in the clubroom at the Finn Camp. Lunch was served with a traditional desert featured—rice pudding with either blueberry or fruit compote sauce. Last minute gift buying was aided by "the little bazaar."

Later in the afternoon Santa made his appearance much to the delight of all the children and gifts were passed out. Christmas carols were sung, Finnish folk dancers in native costume performed and young and old alike were delighted with the afternoon's festivities.

Art Cronn, who says he'll never climb another ladder, was released from the hospital late last week and is at home recuperating from his recent back injuries. Hampered by a back brace but still smiling, Art says he's just happy to be home for Christmas.

To make Mrs. Belle Drayton's 86th birthday a real remembrance, a group of her friends including Hilda Furman, Lottie Chambers, Florence Coy and Lucille Morningstar met at Lillian Spencer's home Friday afternoon for a surprise birthday party. Mrs. Drayton was speechless as the gals sang Happy Birthday to her and then had ice cream and cake.

A special Christmas sale featuring all handcrafted items will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at Original Handcrafts. The shop is located on the north side of Maple Road just east of Haggerty. You last minute shoppers looking for something special or unusual should plan on stopping by.

Vi and Gunnar Mettala were in Erie, Pennsylvania this past weekend. Grandma and Grandpa had to get a good close look at the new baby who just turned one whole week old. Bet she was cute, huh?

My better half has been spending his weekends on Long Island working for good old AT & T. I sure am glad he's not a traveling salesman—those days surely are long. Where was he? Ronkonkama, New York. Never heard of it—what's it near? West Islip. Oh great. With that I'm supposed to know where you are?

Big fiasco in packing this last weekend—remembered the work boots and the hard hat and the special little tools. Everything but the work pants. I must say he was the best dressed man in the underground. Naturally he ripped them—what else could happen? Had to drive 20 miles to find a store so he could buy a new pair of slacks.

Goodfellows' Sale a Success

The Wixom Goodfellows are smiling. And it is because of the generosity of Wixom citizens and others employed in the city.

The annual sale of Goodfellow papers by the "old newsboys" began last Friday morning at 5 a.m. in front of the Ford plant. Saturday and Sunday found them out again with newspapers and canisters in hand canvassing the neighborhoods.

The drive, which netted

Quite surprising to Bob was the fact that Long Island is actually quite desolate. He expected it to be jammed with houses. Lots of oak and pine trees and quite pretty, he reports.

The neighborhoods are twinkling even more since last week with the addition of several new displays of Christmas lights. I don't know, but rain doesn't really put me in the mood for Christmas.

Everyone keeps telling me it's going to be a hard winter and I stare in disbelief. Oh, I really hope this isn't one of those years when winter drags on until May!

This weekend a group of youngsters on Western's ski team are leaving for Mancelona for a week of racing school.

And sadly, another retirement from the Goodfellow team was announced over the weekend. Hilda Furman also has decided to give up her duties with the Goodfellows after this year. As with Mrs. Chambers, we all owe Miss Furman a debt of gratitude for all her activities in helping to purchase the gift baskets for Christmas. For over ten years she, too, has devoted so much time and energy to see to it that everyone has a Merry Christmas. Both of you ladies will be sorely missed.

After the group of Goodfellows finished tallying up the canisters Sunday night, Paul Salo fired up his recently completed sauna. The achy, tired feet and backs quickly disappeared and the group left refreshed and feeling like a million. Good planning Paul.

The Mystery Game winner this week was Bernice Harrowood. High games were made by Rita Stockemer at 210 and Lora Lee Longhurst at 193. All ladies are reminded of their $1 exchange gift for the last day of bowling which will be December 22.

The Goodfellow drive was really a tremendous success and I'm actually amazed. Despite the economic conditions, people were quite generous," commented Paul Salo, the man in charge of counting the proceeds. "But it was an all out effort on the part of everyone in the Goodfellows. And it will be a very Merry Christmas."

$400, now assures every person in need within the city, a happy Christmas, Goodfellows report. Baskets of food, clothing and toys will be purchased, packed and then delivered on December 23.

In a discussion of student enrollment at the elementary level, the superintendent predicted an increased enrollment of 30 to 40 students over the Christmas holiday period

Citizen Mrs. William Moak, expressing concern for the increasing pupil-teacher ratio in two grades at Village Oaks Elementary, urged Dale to send additional students in these grades to Orchard Hills at the outset rather than first enrolling them at Village Oaks and then later transferring them.

A decision to "cut-off" additional enrollment in these grades, she declared, "is past due" and should not be put off any longer.

At the suggestion of Board Secretary Ray Warren, the board decided to reinstitute the practice of sponsoring a faculty dinner to better acquaint board members with teachers and teachers with board members. Similarly, a dinner program for non-teaching employees also is being planned.

It appears likely that one dinner program will be for elementary teachers, another for secondary teachers, and the third for non-teaching personnel.

Three to five board members and/or administrators are expecting to attend the school administrators convention in Atlantic City February 12-16, and one board member may attend the National School Board Convention in San Francisco (paying his own transportation costs) April 15-18.

Superintendent Dale was directed to indicate the board's displeasure with the city decision to close off the end of Willowbrook street leading to Village Oaks Elementary.

Furthermore, trustee Robert Wilkins again took Kaufman & Broad to task for failure to live up to its agreement to install a bridge on the roadway to the school. He suggested the board consider using K & B monies held in escrow to get the project started.

The superintendent also was directed to review the disposition of management of the community building and report his findings to the board.

Action on the assignment of taps was delayed pending further study of the matter by council members.

In other business, the council: —granted an extension of one year to Harry Slatkin Builders, Inc., for their development of North Hills Estates subdivisions Number One and Number Two at Nine Mile Road and Center Street. The extension was the third granted to the firm, and several council members felt the developers had already been given more than enough time.

Representatives for the firm however, assured the council they now had financing and were ready to proceed with the project. "We feel embarrassed about having to ask for a third extension," said Irving Hermonoff, "but we guarantee that we won't be back for a fourth extension. We'll be in for final plat approval way before the end of next year."

The extension was granted by a 5-2 vote. Councilmen Edwin Presnell and Dennis Berry cast the dissenting ballots —accepted the roads in Meadowbrook Lake subdivision and Westridge Downs subdivision, as well as Olde Orchard Drive and Buckingham Court, for dedication to the city.

—approved a request for a new SDM Liquor License for the Meadowbrook Drug Store on 10 Mile Road in spite of Athas' recommendation that the request be denied.

The SDM Liquor License, is in essence, a permit allowing the sale of beer and wine on a strictly carry-out basis. Unlike other liquor licenses, there is no limit to the number of SDM licenses a city can grant.

Athas recommended denying the request on the grounds that two others stores in the immediate area also have SDM licenses. "I can't see why we need three carry-out beer and wine stores within 1,000 feet of each other," he said.

Jack Hencken, owner of the store argued that the SDM license was extremely important to his business. "I don't know of a single drug store that does not have an SDM license," he said, "for us not to have one places us at a distinct disadvantage."

Councilmen agreed and approved the request by a vote of 6-1. Edwin Presnell voted against granting the license.

Kroger to Open Date

Perishable Foods

The Kroger Company today announced that it will open date some 1300 perishable food products packed under its private labels.

Announcement of the major policy decision was made in Milwaukee at a conference for consumer group leaders sponsored by the Center for Consumer Affairs of the University of Wisconsin Extension and the Community Nutrition Institute of Washington, D.C.

In making the announcement, Theodore Engel, vice president-grocery merchandising, Kroger Food Stores, said the date will indicate the final day on which the product may be offered for sale. This "pull" or final sale date is designed to allow the product to be at high quality for an average usage period (or longer) in the customer's home after purchase

The program is being implemented immediately, Engel said, starting with wieners and luncheon meats, refrigerated biscuits, eggs, and margarine. By the end of 1972, he explained, 1300 private brand perishable and semi-perishable food products packed in Kroger's own processing plants or by outside manufacturers will be open-dated

Gymnasts Eye First Contest

Schoolcraft College will enter its first intercollegiate gymnastics competition ever when its team travels to the DuPage Invitational in Chicago next month.

Following a year's development and preparation as a club, the squad coached by Dr. Cecil C. Woodruff is getting into the thick of varsity competition fast. At the invitational it will go against the University of Chicago, Marquette, Wheaton, Triton College and Milwaukee Tech, to name a few.

The Ocelots hopes for a good first year ride on the shoulders of five promising gymnasts headed by sophomore Mike McCammon.

McCammon, who prepped at Clarenceville High, placed 9th "all around" in the national junior college championships last year. The all around competition involves six olympic events: floor exercise, side horse, long horse vaulting, still rings, parallel bars and the horizontal bar.

Jerry Reighard, also a sophomore, is a product of Wayne John Glenn. His specialties are the parallel bars, still rings, horizontal bar and floor exercise.

Freshman Rob Struk, another gymnast from Clarenceville's outstanding program, is the 1971 state high school champion in floor exercise and tumbling. Larry Bieckham from Livonia Stevenson, also a freshman, is strong in the parallel bars and still rings. Sophomore Dave Wolnie from Henry Ford High rounds out the squad. His specialty is side horse.

After its baptism at DuPage on January 21, the squad has an away meet February 5 at Cuyahoga Community College in Cleveland, and its only home meet is a return match against Cuyahoga on February 18.

ENACTMENT ORDINANCE

City of Northville
A Public Hearing was held by the Northville City Council on the following Ordinance amendments and said Ordinance amendments were duly adopted by a unanimous vote of the Northville City Council on Monday, December 6, 1971.

City of Northville Ordains:
Delete present Section 7-503 "Downspouts" of Chapter 5, Title 7 and in lieu thereof insert the following Section:
Sec. 7-503 BUILDING OR HOUSE DOWNSPOUTS

On new or existing construction all downspouts shall be constructed or reconstructed as follows:
(1) Roof waters from the building shall not discharge into any flower or shrub bed adjacent to building wall, nor upon the ground within five (5') feet of the building wall, but shall be piped five (5') feet away from the foundation walls or discharged on splash blocks extending a minimum of five (5') feet from the building or house foundation wall.

(2) Where local setbacks, side yard, or rear yard requirements would result in the building or house being located less than five (5') from the property line, then the downspouts are to be directed to a front or rear yard where adequate run off is provided, but in no event shall such run off be directed to a private or public sanitary sewage disposal system. If no adequate run off is provided, then the downspout shall be discharged only in a manner approved by the Department of Building and Safety Engineering.

(3) Downspout piping shall be permanently affixed to the building wall, and shall be discharged onto a five foot (5') splash block, or other similar method approved by the building inspector for the City of Northville.

(4) No approval shall be given by the building inspector unless the method being used shall provide a positive slope away from the building foundation wall.

City of Northville Ordains:
Delete present Section 7-505 of Chapter 5, Title 7 and in lieu thereof insert the following Section
Sec. 7-505 REGULATION OF BELOW GRADE DRAINAGE - In all cases of below grade drainage, including, but not being limited to, footing tiles, sunken patios and underground springs, such drainage shall be constructed in such a manner, as to preclude their draining into the Sanitary Sewer System. In the case of existing construction the City Manager, or his representative, may require the alteration of said drainage system if he finds that it is causing water to flow into the Sanitary Sewer System.

(1) All footing drain discharge shall be deposited into the storm sewers or other storm water drainage facility in accordance with the Plumbing Code of the City of Northville, or upon the surface of the ground in those instances where no storm drainage facility is available.

(2) Where such footing drain discharge is deposited upon the surface of the ground, the place of deposit shall be in that yard area that drains directly to a street, road or alley, or to that yard which contains a drainage easement, without crossing another parcel of land. Discharge of such water upon the surface of the ground shall be carried not less than 3 feet from the foundation walls by means of splash blocks which shall be installed at the time of construction and shall not discharge on the surface of the ground within the street right-of-way or within 20 feet thereof.

(3) Where footing drain discharge is ejected or carried to the drainage system by means of a pump or lift, and where it is not deposited on the surface of the ground, there shall be a relief line installed wherever there is a probability that the drainage system may become inoperative due to freezing or surge changing. Such systems shall be protected against back flow as required by the applicable sections of the Plumbing Code of the City of Northville.

65,000 Poinsettia Blooms Produce A Symphony of Color in the Dinsner Greenhouses

Tips Listed

Poinsettias Need Care

By JIM DINSER

Christmas being a holiday, a day of praise, happiness, and the joy of gifts, many shall receive among their gifts a poinsettia plant. Its red brilliance and green foliage is truly in keeping with the colors of the holiday. The most asked question by all people receiving a poinsettia is, "How can I keep the plant and flower it for the next Christmas?" With the new long-lasting varieties most plants with good care will last from three to six weeks or longer. A poinsettia should be placed in a well lighted area, the cooler the temperature the better (65-degrees), and it should be well watered every other day. Never allow the plant to become excessively dry. No plant food is required while the plant is in flower. All plants must have a rest period after flowering if they are to be carried over for another season. The poinsettia should have a rest period immediately after flowering. Place the plant in a semi-dark area (basement), water oc-asionally, keeping it on the dry side, and cut back all stems to about four to six inches. Around April 1 bring the plant from the basement to a well lighted area. As the light increases outdoors the plant will automatically start to grow. When new leaves begin to develop or are formed the plant should be fed a fertilizer that is high in nitrogen—25-10-

See Top of The Deck on the next page for story on Jim Dinsner and his Novi greenhouses.

10 (liquid) or something similar. The plant may be placed outdoors in the summer months or left inside. You will notice that with long days and high temperatures your plant will grow rather fast. During the months of September and October is a very crucial time in the flowering cycle of the plant. Starting from the 15th of September, if darkness occurs outdoors at 7 p.m. until 6:30 a.m., the plant should be in complete darkness at the same period of time. Never, at any time, let any light diffuse on the plant. Starting from September 15 to October 1, temperature should not exceed 64 degrees, also keeping in mind the light factors. It is the combination of a moderate temperature for two weeks with short days that will set the bud in the plant for flowering later on. This stage is called bud initiation. From October 1 to November 1 the development of the bud occurs. Temperature should be increased to 68 degrees and no light should fall on the plant as night occurs outdoors. Any amount of light that diffuses on the plant from September 15 to November 1, for any period of time, will cause complete blindness to the plant. Poinsettias are very highly sensitive to light for any short period of time. Even a flashing light two or three times a night during this cycle can cause blindness. From November 1 to December 6 the plant now forms what is called its bract, which will eventually be the red leaves on the plant. To enhance its color, its foliage, feed it regularly once a week lightly with a high nitrogen fertilizer. Keep it in a well lighted area so as to receive as much sunshine as possible throughout the complete cycle of the plant. Water thoroughly when watering. Keep it in warmer temperature from November 1 to December 6 for good formation of the bracts. Again, let me repeat, we first initiate the bud under higher temperature and short days, then develop its red leaves (bract) with high temperature. At the latter stage household light will not affect the plant if all the other conditions and requirements have been met. Keep in mind, or better yet, keep this article for your guide to a good blooming poinsettia in 1972.

Students' Prayer Used at Services

In recognition of the work of two Sunday School students at Northville First Presbyterian Church, the Reverend Lloyd Brasure used as his morning devotion at services December 12 the prayer, "We Count Our Blessings." The three-verse prayer was composed last year by Julie Williams and Laurie Day. At the suggestion of their teacher, Mrs. Kenneth Dodds, it was submitted to a quarterly publication for Presbyterian teachers, "Elementary Education in the Church. The prayer, in the girls' handwriting, was published in the current December, 1971, through February, 1972, issue. The girls both were sixth graders when they composed the poem and now are in seventh grade at Cooke Middle School.

EBERT FUNERAL HOME

404 W. MAIN STREET NORTHVILLE, MICH. Dear friends, It is almost 2000 years since the birth of Christ, which we commemorate as Christmas. Over all these years, there have been too few when the 'peace on earth' of Christ's yearning has been a reality. Too often we have had wars fought in His name. As we move toward the 2000th Anniversary of Christ's birth, dare we hope that Peace on Earth - Good Will to All Men, will at long last become a reality?

By BILL SLIGER

Governor Milliken's tax reform package for school financing including a proposed constitutional amendment has just been turned over to legislators for consideration.

Excluding city, village, charter township or community college property taxes, it proposes a 26-mill property tax limitation plus a 2.3 per cent increase in income taxes as a means of supporting public schools, county and township government.

Under the amendment, local school districts would be permitted to levy up to six mills with voter approval for program enrichment purposes.

Counties would be limited to eight mills and townships, 1½-mills. But by vote, and within the 26-mill limit, these two units could also seek up to an additional six mills.

The remaining 4½-mills would go to the intermediate school district for vocational and special educational purposes.

The Governor's proposal is accompanied by an example of two taxpayers with the same income and identically-valued houses in different school districts.

Under today's system, and because one of the two taxpayers lives in a district where a large industry is located, one taxpayer pays nearly twice as much in school taxes yet his district receives less money for education.

In the example used (an actual case) one of the two taxpayers (Wayne-Westland District) would have to pay $680 to provide the same educational opportunities for his child as the other taxpayer (River Rouge District) receives for $210.

More important than introducing equity between taxpayers, the Governor's proposed tax reform package would upgrade educational opportunity in districts where it is most desperately needed.

It would provide more money for education, place the burden for support where it can best be afforded, and still permit districts wishing to add enrichment to do so through a locally voted six mills.

I like the Governor's program and I applaud him for his dedication to bringing about this long-needed reform.

Sometimes I wonder if I were young again, who would be my heroes?

How would I have reacted to the instant and constant immersion into local, national and world events?

Would I have marched with Martin Luther King, or dreamed along with Senator Eugene McCarthy?

Would my hair be long and would I smoke pot? Would I demand freedom for John Sinclair and hitchhike barefoot to a far-off rock festival?

And how would I react to news that women and children had been gunned down in a small Asian village?

Would I honor my flag? Defend Lt. Calley? Accept the Vietnam War?

Honestly, in my youth I cannot remember the world having so many problems to solve, or faults to criticize, despite the presence of World War II.

The blacks and whites (not races) were more pronounced and there were fewer greys to confuse and confound.

Black was a color, Negro was a race; pot was a utensil, and a needle was something you used for sewing.

Bussing meant kissing loudly, and a weed was a weed and grass was grass.

A strong case could be built for relative ignorance, the bliss of sleeping and not knowing the bed is burning.

But today's youth are not permitted the beauty of such sleep. And they have become aware at an early age that the world and its people are plagued by inequity, injustice, poverty and suffering.

How would I react and who would I choose for my heroes?

Cautiously and selectively.

I would avoid the extremes. I would recognize that more good than bad exists. My politics would not bear a party label.

President Richard Nixon would not be a square, nor Senator Hubert Humphrey a bleeding-heart liberal.

General Motors, Ralph Nader and the UAW would represent important contributors to my world.

And the Church, the schools, the governments, the Supreme Court would be recognized as the integral parts that make our nation tick.

But I would know that none of these is perfect and that perfection can never be achieved.

Within the framework I would know, however, that improvement can be made and a better world created for all people.

And I would try (and this is very hard) not to be prejudiced and to understand that those who have been cheated will always feel cheated.

And I would also recognize that it is far easier for old editors with weekly columns to expound than to perform.

But I might concede that some good could be gleaned from these offerings.

I would be a model youth...if only I were young again.

Beauty Grows Knee Deep

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

Like a doctor describing a patient, Jim Dinsler looks out over the rows upon rows of poinsettias and says, "Care, constant care of each plant...that's the 'secret'."

So it's really not a 'secret' at all. Growing and nursing 65,000 of the state's largest poinsettia blooms—the Christmas flower—is really just hard work.

Jim is one of five Dinsler brothers (Bill, Joe, Norman, and Pat) who own and operate the new greenhouses on Wixom Road, just north of 10 Mile Road. A family business, it was moved to Novi from Oak Park, and the current crop of flowers is the first major one produced here.

The color—predominately red but spiced here and there with pinks and white—boggles the mind.

But 65,000 blooms under two acres of glass is only half the number the brothers were growing in Oak Park. Their Oak Park poinsettia crops were the largest in Michigan.

Even now with just 65,000 blooms Dinslers Flowers is one of the top three growers of Poinsettias in the state. And none grow blooms as large or as colorful, which accounts for the big demand for Dinsler flowers.

Every one of the Dinsler poinsettias already has been sold. As a matter of fact many of them were sold weeks ago before they were in full bloom. The buyers are retail florists throughout the metropolitan area.

By next week they'll all be gone and the greenhouses will be naked until the tiny lily plants produce a symphony of white blossoms for Easter.

"Give us another two years," predicts Jim, "and we'll be growing more poinsettias than we were growing in Oak Park."

According to Jim, the move from Oak Park to Novi accounted in part for the cutback in the number of plants grown by the family owned firm. "It was almost like starting from scratch. We had to develop a whole new plant food formula. What

We submit that it would be severely damaging to and not in the public interest to destroy the road commission agencies. Such an action would have to be considered an irreparable loss, because: (1) the creation of road commissions has provided a buffer between the direct political influence and highway administration. This has meant resistance to undesirable pressure influence, but at the same time responsiveness to public opinion. (2) Provides citizen involvement and thereby guarantees defenders and spokesman for the road systems as school boards provide promotion and defense of education at the local level. (3) Road commissions for over 70 years have consistently demonstrated high levels of performance and have gained a well-deserved reputation for getting the job done. (4) Road commissions have an exceptionally high level of professionalism. We learn from the American Road-builders Association that Michigan county road departments have the highest percentage of professional engineers in the country. (5) Road commissions provide a means for township government to assume a meaningful decision-making responsibility within the township borders. Because of this partnership with road commissions, townships have become a viable and determining force in any and all local road improvement projects.

Therefore, we ask: What can be constructively accomplished by destroying a proven system—a mechanism which has worked well, is working and has shown the ability to adapt?

Retain Independence Of Road Commissions?

Joseph L. Richards

NO...

Present structure of the Road Commission is a form of independent status. The Road Commission administers their own budget, establish their own construction and maintenance schedule and negotiate their own labor contracts.

The only control by the Board of Commissioners is the appointment of the three commissioners for six year term. One member is appointed every two years.

This present system fails to give the people an identity as to who are their representatives. Whom should I contact to place a grievance? Many of my constituency's complaints are that they call the Road Commission to tell them of bad road conditions and a secretary or receptionist takes the complaint. This person sometimes does not relay properly the urgency of the road condition complaint. This results many times in dissatisfied tax payers.

The Road Commission will answer complaints that are put in writing but this method does not satisfy a majority of the people.

I would suggest that the Board of Commissioners should have more control by approving of yearly budgets and changing the system of appointing Road Commission members.

I believe the people could identify their representative if Commissioners were appointed by districts and these representatives would represent a district in establishing county road policies. I also believe that terms should be reduced to three years each.

The district representative would also identify to each township board a proper channel of communication between township government and Road Commission.

I just feel we must make our Road Commissions more responsive to the people who pay the bills.

Livingston County Commissioner

Parking Lots Draw Criticism

To the Editor:
If you don't mind me changing bits of a familiar song of the day, I'd like to say: "Look what they've done to my TOWN mon. They turned it upside down and it's coming out all wrong! Look what they've done to my town!"

On the front page of the Dec 9th issue of the Record I notice a big article all about a neighborhood park tucked away at the corner of Baseline and Carpenter. I'll bet the city has not even made a survey to see how many of our youth live close enough to use that area...Not to mention Baseline is one of our highly unimproved streets.

Now way back on page 9 we have a slight mention of the fact that three more of our older buildings in town are coming down for the sake of progress. The senior citizens meeting place is so modern it will stay but I guess this town doesn't regard any older historic building worth saving and restoring. After all we must have another parking lot so eventually we can put a big sign at the entrance of the city, "Welcome to Northville—the Largest Parking Lot in Michigan!"

Nuf said!

EDITOR'S NOTE:
Recommendation to establish four neighborhood parks in the city was made last year by a citizens park and recreation committee after several months of study. It was not, as suggested, made without study of population centers, need, and availability of undeveloped lands. A neighborhood park is defined as a relaxation center for both children and adults in the park neighborhood. Following the committee's recommendation, the city council held a public hearing in August, 1970 to permit citizens to register their objections and support.

Youth Praises Steimel

To the Editor:
A note of thanks to Mr. John Steimel, Postmaster of Northville.

For a number of years Mr. Steimel has been active with the young people of this community by helping us in any way possible. He receives nothing for giving up his free time, and his time to his family too.

But he doesn't just help the young. He helps any person who is confused, or needs someone to talk out a problem. He's always around and he never gives up.

I think this is the type of person the community of Northville should recognize. But most of all, this is the type of man Northville needs.

Thank you demanding by Novi, County officials made two concessions, agreeing to lower the limit from 50 to 45 miles per hour and to erect a blinking, flashing sign that would lower the limit to 35 miles per hour during school hours. Such a device would affect only the area within 700 feet of school crossings and would have to be constructed at the expense of Novi's school board. Councilmen were hardly satisfied with the concessions.

Their concern for 10 Mile spread far beyond the 700 feet on either side of the school crossings. Edwin Presnell pointed out that there is one subdivision after another along the road, particularly east of Novi Road. "These are residential areas," he contended, "and 50 miles per hour is too fast for cars to be traveling through them."

Oakland County officials arrived at the 45 mile per hour limit by use of the "85 percent method" - the method used in determining what speed limits should be. Under this means of determination, the limit is set at the speed traveled by 85 percent of the cars going down the road.

"That's the stupidest thing I've ever heard of," said Athas. "Do you mean to tell me that if 85 percent of the cars went 150 miles per hour, the speed limit would be set at 150?"

long enough and wanted a decision at the present time. A speech by Councilman Raymond Evans supporting action "tonight" drew applause from the nearly 50 Moose Lodge members at Monday's meeting.

Asked for an opinion on the legal affects of spot zoning the Simmons property from agricultural to professional offices, City Attorney Howard Bond stated there was no doubt in his mind that a court would rule spot zoning had indeed taken place and would declare it invalid

Outside of Crupi's direction to the attorney, the council took no direct action on the matter Wednesday. There is little doubt, however, that they are not united in their desire to substantially reduce the limits on the road and are ready to sue the County pending Bond's opinion if their demands are not met

"However, if no one challenges the zoning on that particular piece of land," said Bond, "the city's zoning will be allowed to stand regardless of whether or not it is spot zoned."

Finally, Evans moved the change in zoning be granted and Councilman Louie Campbell supported the motion. Evans, Campbell, and Councilman Donald Young voted in favor of the rezoning. Berry and Presnell voted against it, setting the stage for Crupi's negative ballot which resulted in the deadlock.

Nine students at Moraine Elementary received audio-visual "licenses" this week after successfully completing a class in operating equipment used for learning in Northville schools

Under the direction of Mrs. Marian Hines, librarian for the elementary schools, the students spent six sessions learning how to operate the teaching aids "Pencil, paper, chalk and textbooks are only part of the tools used by today's students," Mrs. Hines said. "Much of their information comes from other media - films, slides, sound tapes, records and transparencies," she explained. To use these materials, a student was chosen from each third, fourth and fifth grade class to learn how the various audio-visual aids work

Students learned how to operate projectors for filmstrips, slides, 8mm and 16mm films, opaque and microscopic objects as well as overhead projectors which show transparencies

Sound equipment studied included record players, reel tape recorders and cassettes, used with or without listening posts and earphones

Students were taught to recognize the equipment and the materials used with each. They also learned the basic steps in operating the equipment, including packing the equipment after its use

Following completion of the course, the nine received "licenses," complete with their pictures, certifying they are trained to use the audio-visual equipment another reason the poinsettia is such a delicate plant to bring to proper bloom. Precisely attuned to the light cycle of the sun, the poinsettia can be "blinded" by any light occurring during naturally dark hours and during the period the budding process has begun.

If the budding process starts on the day the sun goes down at 6:30 p.m., thereafter until it has bloomed it may not receive light after 6:30 p.m. The same is true of sunrise.

To illustrate this sensitivity, Jim points to one of the thermostats inside the greenhouse and notes, "When the watchman comes in here at night to check temperature he uses a flashlight. The light's a small one and is on only a few seconds each night but the rays of that light "blind" the plants in the vicinity of the thermostat and they seldom reach full bloom.

Once the poinsettia is in bloom it is no longer endangered by light. In fact the more light it receives at this point the healthier and prettier it becomes.

It is because of its sensitivity to light that the poinsettia seldom can be brought to bloom in succeeding years by its owner.

Nevertheless, properly cared for, insists Jim, the poinsettia, will live and bloom year after year.

For the grower of wholesale poinsettia, the greatest single headache is not light, water, or even chemicals. It's a man-made pest that drove the Dinsers out of Oak Park.

And, adds the poinsettia 'doctor,' not even Michigan State University's best research has been able to develop a cure for taxes.

Lions Win on Technical

Late Foul Sinks Novi

A vociferous protest in the exciting final seconds of action cost Novi its game against arch-rival South Lyon Friday night.

After trailing throughout the first half, the Wildcats bounced back to gain the lead late in the third quarter and then clung to a narrow margin until late in the game when a technical free shot and a two-pointer gave the Lions a 53-51 victory.

Novi cagers were ahead by three (51-48) when Lion Mike Muir dunked a two-pointer on the rebound and was fouled in the process with just 12 seconds to go.

The official also pinned a technical on a Novi player for vehemently protesting the foul.

Muir missed his free shot but Guard John Gelardi potted his technical to tie the score. With that technical, South Lyon also retained ball possession and Gelardi promptly drove in through Novi's defense for a two-point layup at the five-second mark.

Pat Boyer's long, desperation shot missed the mark and the tie at the buzzer.

The loss was the first this season for the Wildcats, who won their opener against Milan and then downed Brighton last week Tuesday.

Tomorrow night Novi takes on Dexter here and the following night (Saturday) hosts the Chelsea quintet, which currently holds the Southeastern Conference lead with a 2-0 mark.

The Bulldogs took undisputed possession of first place with their two-point victory over Sahne Friday, 63-61. Dexter, on the other hand, slipped into last place by losing Friday to Ypsilanti Lincoln, 82-57.

All other Southeastern teams, including Novi, are tied for second place with 1-1 records.

Novi Coach Milan Obrenovich offered no excuses for his team's loss to South Lyon.

While the Lions are a fine ball club, said Obrenovich, "I don't think the game decided anything. The way the game came out I just don't think you could say their team was any better than ours."

"As a matter of fact, I don't consider that we lost the game," he added. "They got those three points there at the end to go ahead and time just ran out on us."

South Lyon took an 11-9 lead in the first quarter, then held on to a 26-23 lead at the intermission.

Near the close of the third stanza, the Wildcats finally caught up and past their hosts as Bob Pisha netted a free shot for a 30-30 tie and Pat Boyer hit a two-pointer from the corner to put Novi in front.

In the next minute, Boyer hit another two-pointer, added a free shot, and Pisha pulled in a rebound and hit a field goal at the buzzer giving the Wildcats a 36-30 lead going into the final quarter.

In that third quarter, Novi's defense was overpowering, allowing the Lions only four points. The quarter was half over before South Lyon scored its first point.

Big difference in the third period was Novi's command of the boards, whereas in the first half of the game South Lyon's taller cagers were sweeping the boards at both ends of the court.

Mid-way through the fourth quarter, Steve Lukkari dropped two free shots to produce the widest margin of the game, 40-32, before the Lions started eating away at the Novi lead.

Sophomore Ed Segars hit two points for South Lyon with 4:10 to go and the Lions were down only by two, 42-40. Jim Van Wagner came back with a free throw for the Wildcats, followed quickly by a two-pointer by Gelardi making it 43-42.

Segars shoved South Lyon into a 44-43 at the 2:55 mark with a two pointer — just before he fouled out.

Van Wagner came back with two free shots to tie it up at 44-44, Boyer dumped in a two-pointer to give Novi the lead once again at 46-44 and then stretched it to 47-44 with a free throw.

Gelardi netted two charity shots at 2:07 making it 47-46, Pisha came back with a single pointer, and Gelardi fired a two-pointer with 59 seconds remaining to knot the score at 48.

Van Wagner hit a two-pointer and then converted one of two free shots to give Novi a 51-48 lead with 23 seconds to go.

It was then that Mike Muir flipped in his two-pointer that drew the double foul.

In the excitement of the final stanza, South Lyon outscored Novi by eight points, 23-15, almost six times as many points as it produced in the third quarter.

Although it was Gelardi who flipped in South Lyon's winning basket and who was the big fourth-quarter gun (scoring all of his 11 points in that quarter), Jim McIntosh was the overall scoring leader with 17 points. Segars flipped in 12 points.

Leading Novi scorer was Pat Boyer with 14, followed by Pisha with 11 and Van Wagner with 10.

Novi Matmen Fly High In Airport Tourney

"We did a good job," said Rick Trudeau "I was pleased with our performance."

The Novi wrestling coach had good reasons to be happy with his squad's performance in the Airport Tournament.

After dropping their first two dual meets to Northville and South Lyon by lop-sided scores, the Wildcats came through in fine style at Airport — taking four firsts, a second, a third, and a fourth to finish in third place with 77 points.

Monroe Catholic Central won the tournament with 98 points. Airport finished second with 83 — five ahead of the Novi total.

"What can I say," asked Trudeau, "It was by far the best performance we've had all year. Wrestlers who hadn't taken a point for us all season came through for us at Airport. It was just a fine effort."

Novi wrestlers picking up championships were Tom Ford in the 119 pound division, Pat Ford in the 138 pound division, Duane Miller in the 145 pound division, and Terry Auten in the heavyweight division.

For Tom Ford the championship was well deserved. The 119 pounder had yet to take his first victory when he entered the tournament, having lost to Northville's Dave Griffin and being pinned by South Lyon's Russ Danielson — both outstanding wrestlers.

Against less formidable foes, Ford finally picked up three victories in moving to the championship, beating Airport's top-seeded Rick Barror in the semi-finals and then taking a decision over Monroe Catholic Central's Mike Kiley in the finals.

The older Ford — Pat — also won a championship at Airport, but for him winning was merely a matter of continuing old habits. Pat is undefeated after his first five matches this season. Like his brother, the elder Ford had to defeat the top two seeded wrestlers to take the crown.

Duane Miller added the third Novi championship — taking the top spot in the 145 pound division. Miller defeated Airport's Chuck Calkins, last year's defending champion, to secure the championship. "Duane did a fine job," said Trudeau. "He had a tough man in the finals, but he was able to do a good job with him. He really wrestled a tough match."

Heavyweight Terry Auten was the fourth Novi wrestler to fight his way to the number one position, beating New Boston Huron's Bill Grover in the finals.

One of the biggest surprises for Trudeau was the performance of his 98 pounder — Billy Livingston. Like Tom Ford, Livingston had lost his first two matches against Northville and South Lyon, but in the Airport Tourney he did a far better job.

Defeating Monroe Jefferson's Frank White in the opening round, Livingston pulled off one of the meet's major upsets by pinning Ida's top-rated Jim Moomey in the semi-finals.

Kevin Schingbeck finished third at 167 losing in the semi-finals to the eventual champion — Ida's Ray Kimberlin.

A fourth place was earned in the 155 pound weight class by Randy McGarry. Like Schingbeck, McGarry was knocked out of the championship bracket by the eventual champion in the semi-finals.

Novi's strong showing at Airport was in sharp contrast with their performance against South Lyon the preceding Thursday. The Lions racked up three pins in defeating the Wildcats 37-15.

Novi's 15 pounds were scored by four men. Dave Ward and Pat Ford decided their opponents in the 126 and 138 pound brackets respectively. Ward won 4-1, while Ford scored a 4-0 shutout with a first period take down and a third period reversal.

Duane Miller piled up a decisive 9-0 decision over the Lion's Lyle Fallot in the 155 pound division and Terry Auten pinned heavyweight Ray Givens with just one second left on the clock in the first period in an exciting match which almost saw Auten being pinned before he rolled Givens over to gain the pin himself.

The Wildcat wrestlers journey to Dexter tonight (Thursday) to try to even their SEC record 1-1.

LAST SECOND PIN—Novi's Terry Auten pins South Lyon's Ray Givens with just one second left on the clock in Thursday's heavy weight encounter.

Northville Wrestlers Place Fifth at Dexter

It was a disappointing week for Northville's wrestling team. First, the squad had to settle for a disheartening tie with Milford, and then, Coach Ed McLoud's grapplers finished a distant fifth in the Dexter Invitational Tournament Saturday.

Eight teams participated in the Dexter Tourney and once again it was the host school which walked away with the championship. Dexter has won its own tournament every year since its inception, with the exception of the first year — 1967 — when the Mustangs brought the championship back to Northville.

McLoud's grapplers didn't even come close to repeating as champion Saturday. Dexter picked up 82 points to edge runner-up Saline, which had 79 1/2 points. Northville finished with 43 points as both Chelsea and Brighton beat them out for the third and fourth spots.

"We just didn't finish as well as I thought we would," said McLoud of his team's performance. "We had some real disappointments."

Two wrestlers who were not disappointed to the Northville coach were Kevin Hartshorne and Dave Griffin, who both took championships in their respective weight classes.

Hartshorne grappled his way to first place in the 112 pound division. "Kevin did an exceptional job," said McLoud, "particularly in the finals. He must have ridden his man five out of six minutes." Hartshorne defeated Dexter's Stone 4-3 to win the crown, gaining his points on a first period take down and a second period reversal.

He won his first two matches on decisions also, winning 7-2 and 2-0 to advance to the finals.

The Mustangs other champion was 119 pound Dave Griffin. "Dave was by far the best wrestler in his division," said McLoud. "He just out-classed everyone else there. He wasn't particularly sharp, but he wrestled well enough to win."

Griffin pinned Pinckney's Swarthout in the finals to take the championship. "He had his man pinned at least three times before the referee finally called it," McLoud reported. "We were all beginning to wonder just what he had to do before the referee would give it to him."

McLoud's disappointments in some divisions were tempered by the performances of a couple of his sophomore wrestlers.

Jimmy Watson, Northville's entry in the 98 pound division, finished third in the tourney, pinning Pinckney's Perkins in the consolation finals. "Jimmy has the potential to be an outstanding light weight wrestler," the Mustang mentor stated.

Danny Fialon finished fourth in the 105 pound division. Of all the performances turned in by Northville grapplers, it was Fialon's which impressed McLoud the most. "It was one of the gutsiest performances I've ever seen," he said. "He had to wrestle Montagne from Chelsea and Montagne is really tough. Danny lost 16-0, but it was the first time all year that Montagne hasn't pinned his man. Danny really came through with a great effort."

But after taking two firsts, a third, and a fourth in the first four weight classes, Northville's prospects dimmed considerably, as they didn't take another point until Doug Boor copped third place in the 185 pound weight class.

Thursday's tie with Milford was also disappointing to McLoud because the Mustangs could very easily have won it. Three factors led to the tie.

Watson suffered an injury just before the meet and was unable to take his accustomed place in the 98 pound match. McLoud substituted Jack Barger, but the Milford wrestler took advantage of Barger's inexperience to gain a pin.

"I'm sure if Jimmy had been in there, they wouldn't have been able to get the six points for a pin," said McLoud, "and Jimmy might have pinned the Milford boy. That would have made a difference of 12 points in the score."

Also disheartening was the disqualification of Bill Norton at 138 pounds. "It was just a bad call," said McLoud, "Bill was leading 4-0 and he could have pinned his man, too, but he hit his opponent with an elbow and the referee disqualified him. It was just a bad call. He should have given him a warning or at the most just awarded the Milford man a point, but to disqualify Norton just wasn't a good call."

Again, a difference of a possible 12 points was in the balance.

Northville lost six more points by having to forfeit the heavyweight division, having no one to enter in that bracket.

In spite of all the setbacks, the Mustangs still finished in a 30-30 tie with Milford.

Danny Fialon (105), Kevin Hartshorne (112), Dave Griffin (119), and Doug Boor (185) all pinned their opponents and Dave Houck (126) and Joe Weachock (155) took decisions to provide the points.

Tonight (Thursday) the Mustangs play host to Brighton. Matches will start at 6:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

Lions Nip Wildcat Jayvees

Novi's junior varsity quintet took a 63-36 beating at the hands of South Lyon in the preliminary event Friday night.

South Lyon led at the half, 27-18.

The game's biggest scorer was South Lyon's Dave Hartman, son of Novi's former high school principal. He flipped in 16 points—the only player to hit in double figures.

Sean O'Brien led Novi's futile attack with eight points, followed by Bill Ross with 7.

Top Cat

Pat Ford, Novi's 145 pound wrestler, has been selected Wildcat of the Week. Ford, an all-SEC performer at linebacker in football, has yet to be defeated on the mats after his first five matches this year. His best performance came last week when he copped his first place in the 145 pound division at the Airport Tournament. "He was in one of the toughest divisions in the whole tournament," said Coach Rick Trudeau of his senior grappler, "and he came away with the championship. He wrestled as well as he's ever wrestled to win the championship."

BALL HAWKING—Churchill's Mark Reed has the ball but Northville's Jeff Moon seems determined to take it from him.

Northville Loses To Churchill Five

Athletics, they say, builds character

Over the past seven years, athletics, or basketball to be more precise, has more of less forced Northville's new cage coach Walt Koepke into developing a finely tuned trait of "graciousness in victory."

But if Friday's Western Six Conference opener against Livonia Churchill is any indication of what lies ahead, Koepke could well find himself in the position of having to develop two very different character traits - humility and patience.

The Chargers invaded the Northville gym Friday and simply ran the Mustangs off the floor in the first half, taking a 37-19 half-time lead, and then came back in the second half to battle the Northville quintet on even terms to preserve the victory. Final score was 65-46.

Once again, it was turn-overs - and not the type made by Sara Lee - that led to the Mustangs undoing.

Northville topped their previous high - 31 against Fenton - by turning the ball over to Churchill a total of 39 times.

"We're such a poor ball-handling team I can't believe it," said Koepke after the game. "It's simply a matter of catching and passing the ball, we just don't seem to be able to throw and catch the basketball I don't see how we can expect to beat anybody when we give the ball away 39 times."

Northville's ball-handling problems hit a low ebb in the second quarter, when they turned the ball over a total of 14 times.

But in spite of the Mustangs' second quarter lull, it was the first eight minutes of play in which the Chargers piled up their biggest margin. Unveiling a tough, aggressive two-three zone defense that effectively throttled usually potent scoring efforts of center Scott Evans, Churchill held Northville to just 11 points.

Meanwhile, every thing the Charger players threw at the basket seemed to go in, as they hit on better than 80 percent of their shots in taking 23-11 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Livonia's scoring was cut to 14 points in the second quarter, but they still added six points to their lead as the Mustangs took just seven shots and scored only two field goals.

If there was a ray of hope in the Northville defeat, it was their second half performance. After allowing the Livonia school to build up the 18 point first half margin, the Mustangs played them on even terms in the final sixteen minutes of play. By the time the game had ended, the Chargers had added only a single point to their lead.

"I don't know why it is," said Koepke when asked to explain his team's second half turn about, "but we seem to have a couple of ball players who just don't get aggressive until they've been taken out of the game and sat on the bench for awhile and we're 20 points behind. If I could get these boys to play a whole game, we'd be a lot better off."

It was the combination of Scott Evans at center, Todd Hannert and Jeff Moon at the forwards, and Joe Bishop and Rod Crane at the guards, which gave the Mustangs their best quarter of basketball - the third.

The Mustangs still had seven turn-overs in that frame, but their man-to-man full court press produced seven Churchill turn-overs, as the Mustangs outscored the

Varsity-Grads To Scrimmage

Northville basketball coach Walt Koepke has issued an invitation to former Northville varsity basketball players to participate in a varsity alumni scrimmage Thursday December 23, at 10 a.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Dave Longridge, former varsity basketball coach and presently assistant principal at the high school will coach the alumni squad.

Koepke indicated that if there is a good turnout at Thursday's session, he would like to see the varsity-alumni scrimmage become an annual holiday affair.

Chargers 16-13 to narrow the score to 50-35 at the end of the third quarter. Northville was led in scoring in that period by Todd Hannert. After tallying only one lone field goal in the first half, Hannert came alive in the second half and pumped in 14 points, six of them in the third quarter.

"There were times in the second half when we looked pretty good," Koepke admitted, "but those times are just too few for us to win any ball games."

"We've got to start being more aggressive. We weren't at all aggressive against Churchill on offense," he continued referring to the score book. "We only went to the free throw line 17 times, and we only made eight of our 17 shots. We've got to start getting to the free throw lane more often by being more aggressive on offense, and once we get there we've got to start hitting a better percentage of our shots."

Northville was led in scoring by Hannert, who finished the game with 16 points.

Tankers Set Records In Dunking Riverside

You've got to feel a little sorry for Bill Maguire.

The senior freestyler, already the owner of four different Northville High School swimming records, broke two of them Wednesday against Dearborn Riverside, but all he had to show for his efforts were a pair of second place finishes and one less school record.

Maguire was victimized only in part by Riverside. True, one of his losses did indeed come at the hands of the Dearborn school's outstanding Eric Thorsrud, but the other loss was administered by one of his own teammates - sophomore Kevin Kelly, who not only snatched victory away from Maguire, but also grabbed off his 50 yard freestyle record in the process.

The meet itself was a pretty lopsided affair as Coach Ben Lauber's dual meet of the season.

With the exception of Thorsrud, most of the competition took place between the swimmers on the Northville team. The Mustangs won nine of the 11 events and set new school records in five of them. In addition, they swept both first and second place five times during the course of the evening.

They even managed to set a new pool record, as freshman Art Greenlee posted a 1:08.7 clocking in the 100 yard breast stroke to break the 1:11.1 record set by Farmington Harrison's Patton last year. Greenlee's time also set a new school record, bettering Ralph Luckett's former mark of 1:12.1 seconds.

In fact, if it hadn't been for Thorsrud, Riverside would not have had even a single first place. One of the state's outstanding freestylers, Thorsrud took victories in the 100 and 200 yard freestyle events.

Even then Thorsrud was pushed to the point that he had to set two new pool records in order to win. In the 200 yard individual medley, Northville's Bill Witek broke Tommy Thompson's school record of 2:19.5 with a 2:18.8, but Thorsrud copped first place with a 2:14.6, bettering the pool mark of 2:16.6 by two full seconds.

Thorsrud broke his own pool record of 52.9 in the 50 yard freestyle with a 52.3 clocking to beat Maguire, whose 54.6 time broke his own school record of 54.8.

Thorsrud was the only thing Riverside had, however, and the rest of the meet belonged to Northville.

The 200 yard medley relay team of Gary Putrow, Jay Ivey, Bob Bretz, and John Pacific got the evening off to a good start by winning their event in 1:54.1 seconds and the 400 yard freestyle relay team of Dennis McLaughlin, Jeff Pitak, Pete Bedford, and Bill Witek brought it to a close by winning their event in 3:47.0 seconds.

In between the two relays, the Mustangs dominated.

Lauber selected Don Cook as the team's outstanding swimmer in the meet. Cook led teammate Joe Boland across the finish line in the 200 yard freestyle with a 2:02.5 clocking and then came back to become a double winner by setting a new school record of 4:32.4 in the 400 yard freestyle. Boland held the old school mark with a 4:37.1 timing.

Another double winner for the Mustangs was senior co-captain and back stroker Gary Putrow. In addition to his leg on the victorious 200 yard medley relay team, Putrow won the 100 yard backstroke in 1:02.8.

Other Northville first places were turned in by Kevin Kelly, who set a new school record in the 50 yard freestyle event with a time of 24.1 to beat Maguire, whose 24.4 clocking also bettered his former school record of 24.5, Tom Cook in diving, Joe Boland in the 100 yard butterfly, and Art Greenlee, whose 1:08.7 time in the 100 yard breaststroke set new school and pool records.

Second place finishes were taken by Boland in the 200 yard freestyle, Witek in the 200 yard individual medley, Maguire in the 50 yard freestyle, Brad Phillips in diving, Kelly in the 100 yard butterfly, Maguire again in the 100 yard freestyle, and Jeff Kappler in the 100 yard backstroke.

Northville's easy victory was somewhat of a surprise to Lauber, who had expected the meet to be one of his team's tougher ones. Last year Riverside finished seventh in the State Class B championships and not one of their varsity swimmers was lost via graduation.

"I was surprised that they performed poorly," said Lauber. "They just didn't perform at the level I expected they would. I think the outcome of the meet was not due to the fact that we're tough, but an accumulation of several factors. They've got a new coach over there and they got a late start on practice. They were a long way from their potential, but I still look for them to come on later in the year. As for right now, however, I'd just have to say I'm pleased with our victory."

Pool Fees Raised By Board

New fees for individual and group use of the Northville High pool were approved Monday night by the board of education.

In recommending the updated fee schedule, Earl Busard, director of business and finance, noted the rates previously used had been "determined in 1968 and do not reflect negotiated wage increases for employees."

"The pool had a deficit of $2,000 in operation last year," he said, "showing a need for updating our schedules."

Fees for weekly pool use by community groups are one to 25 swimmers, $15.30, up from $12.50, and 26 swimmers and up, $20.80, up from $18.

Increases for Saturday, Sunday and holiday use, in accord with overtime cost for district personnel, include one to 25 swimmers, $24, up from $18; 26 to 50 swimmers, $29.50, up from $20.50; and over 60 swimmers, $20.50, up from $23.50.

Open swimming fees include 65 cents for school age children and $1 for all others. Fees last year were 50 cents for school age children and 75 cents for all others.

Open swimming resumes again in February, Busard said.

OVER THE SHOULDER—Jeff Moon has to reach around this Churchill player to try to grab the rebound after being effectively screened out of the play.

Jayvees Lose First Game

All good things must end, the saying goes, and so it was for Northville's jayvee basketball team last Friday, as they finally dropped their first game of the season after three consecutive victories.

It was a tall Livonia Churchill team that turned the trick, handing Coach Omar Harrison's cagers a 56-41 setback.

Both teams played a tight, cautious, defensive ball game in the first half, and then came out sailing in the second half, throwing caution to the winds and engaging in a wild scoring outburst.

The Mustangs could muster only six points in the first quarter, a figure they no more than matched in the second quarter. Churchill, meanwhile, was hardly blistering the nets either, scoring 13 points in the first quarter and only eight in the second to lead 21-12 at the half.

The game broke wide open in the third quarter. Northville scored 16 points in that quarter to surpass their total first half output, but Churchill chalked up 20 points - 10 of them by 6'5" center Don Forest.

Forest continued his surge in the fourth quarter, adding eight more points to pace his teammates to the 56-41 victory.

Northville scorers were led by guard Ed Kritch, who tallied 13 points. He was the only Mustang to hit in double figures, however, as Todd Eis and Doug Crisan were second and third in the Mustangs' scoring department with nine and seven points respectively.

Forest led all scorers with 23 points.

New Pro Is Named

Joe Reid has been named head golf professional for Meadowbrook Country Club for the 1972-73 season, Doug Woody, club public relations committee chairman, announced Friday.

Reid, who will assume head pro duties April 1, 1972, replaces Paul Shepherd. He is a graduate of Florida State University and for the past three years served as head golf pro of Belmont Hills Country Club, St. Clairsville, Ohio. Last year he played in all of the South American tournaments on the Caribbean tour.

He is married and has a one-and-a-half-year-old son. Reid and his wife were in the area last week house hunting.

Mustanger

Mustang of the Week honors go to Kevin Hartshorne. The 112 pound grappler was one of only two Mustangs to cop championships in the Dexter Invitational last weekend. Last year Hartshorne was the Wayne-Oakland League champion in the 105 pound division, and although he has moved up to the 112 pound weight class this year, he has been just as successful with a perfect 5-0 record to date.

"Kevin did an outstanding job for us at Dexter," said Northville coach Ed McLoud, "he certainly deserves any recognition he gets."

3 More Nights Of Racing Left

Only three more nights, including Thursday, remain of Jackson's action at Northville Downs. The 1971 harness racing season phases out with the 10-race program Saturday night.

In contrast to previous years, when the end of the year meant a lay-off of two or more months, the trotters and pacers swing back into action January 1st, New Year's night, also a Saturday. Jackson-at-Northville will be the sponsor of the meet, which continues through January 29, and is scheduled to be followed by another, under the guidance of John Carlo, which goes from January 31 through mid-March.

The final leg to the Jackson-at-Northville pacing series was all it had been cracked up to be, and then some. Raced over a heavy track, Saturday night it produced fan enthusiasm seldom seen around a pari-mutuel meet.

Thimble, the 3-year-old filly that all fall has successfully defied tradition that 3-year-olds, and fillies at that, can't compete with aged horses, won the finale with a 2:10 one fifth effort. She was all out to withstand the stretch drive of Prince Knox and Erlanas Valley, but they were unable to reduce the 1 1/4 length lead with which she entered the home stretch.

Michigan Mack the highly regarded pacer from Hillsdale took the early lead, with Thimble falling in right behind. Prince Knox sat a good third. There was no change in positions until the back stretch the second time around when Erlanas Valley started a long overland drive that was eventually to land third spot.

Around the final turn Thimble, driven by Fred Hess, moved out and battled Michigan Mack stride for stride to the head of the stretch. Prince Knox, owned by Tony Alfe, Wyandotte, moved at the same time. As the field entered the stretch Thimble, owned by Appalachian Farm, Jackson, Ohio pulled away to a long-length lead, a distance that she maintained through the final stretch brush.

It was the fifth straight win for Thimble in the series, the first leg of which she captured with a sensational 2:03 two fifths mile. For only the second time in her five starts she went off as the mutuels favorite and returned $3.60 for the win.

Two Northville horses scored wins during the week, and they were back-to-back, Monday night. George and Dorothy Rattenbury's Knoxbury scored its first win of the meet, and Port Hope for Mr. and Mrs. Leon Leach won the very next race.

Rattenbury's Knoxbury returned $77.60 for $2, and for 24 hours was the longest priced winner of the meet. That record fell to Henry Hanover who paid $192.60 to win. Port Hope was an overwhelming favorite with the crowd, and returned $5.20.

BAH, HUMBUG—Obviously, everyone isn't all excited about a White Christmas! The snow that fell Tuesday morning caused instant slippery streets and a half-dozen accidents were reported within an hour. By early afternoon the snow had turned to rain, and as if offended by the "ugh" inscribed in its flakes, it disappeared. There's a rumor, however, that the retreat was temporary and that the snow-troops are regrouping for a more lingering return.

Board Ok's Pact For School Site

School board trustees approved an agreement Monday night with Levitt and Sons to pay site improvement costs totaling $45,000 for a 10-acre elementary school site in Highland Lakes development.

The agreement, with contingencies, was approved by a 6-1 vote. Trustee Richard Martin casting the dissenting vote.

Martin argued he was not in favor of "giving Levitt and Sons a warranty deed (if the school district should default on the agreement) when we only get a quitclaim deed in the first place. We should give back only what we get."

A quitclaim deed, which the school district is to receive from the developer, conveys to the district only such interests in the property as Levitt and Sons has, with the district assuming responsibility for any claims brought against the property.

A warranty deed is a deed to land by which the school district (in the event it defaults on the agreement) assures Levitt and Sons will get back the land free from any claims made under another title.

Contingencies placed in the agreement by the developer include the school district may only build a school on the site (no bus garages or warehouses), cannot change the topography of the land without approval from Levitt and Sons and must pay the developer $45,000 on or before July 1, 1972. No interest will be charged on the deferred payment.

Cost for acquiring the site will be included as part of the March 18 bond issue planned by the district.

Contingencies placed by the school board in approving the agreement Monday night include approval of the agreement and its changes by the district's attorney, clarification of reasonable grounds for returning the property to Levitt and Sons in case of default, that the site is where the developer says it is, that documents received in their final form be reviewed by the chairman of the physical facilities sub-

"Raises have been awarded in some cases (by the wage board) where catching up was necessary, but it's not applicable in our case," Dr. Robinson said.

"We must be the guardian of the community's purse strings," he added.

Secord said he favored the challenge because the "President requested, for the economy of the country, we not give increases like this. We owe it to the people of the community to get a ruling on this."

Martin commented it was the "responsibility of board members to the community" to challenge the raises.

Orphan said, "After we went through negotiations ... now, because the President comes out with 55 percent guidelines, you're looking for a skirt to hide behind. Now is not the time to negotiate."

Johnston told board members when the raises were agreed upon they were "not out of line. We should go along with the contract as it stands."

Deibert commented he saw the wage and price freeze as a "game being played for three months. It was a farce. I would not object to anything teachers get. The game was intended for down the road leveling off. We signed a contract and I choose to live with it."

With no motions made to challenge the pay raises, Orphan proposed the board move on to the rest of the agenda items.

The only resident in the audience remarked after the action, the "sooner the income tax replaces the property tax, the better I'll like it."

The Northville Record / THE NOVI NEWS

Wed.-Thurs., December 15-16, 1971

This year's Christmas observance at Greenfield Village in Dearborn—recreating sights, sounds and even smells of Christmas past—has been selected by the Discover America Travel Organizations as one of the nation's top 20 travel events for December, the Michigan Tourist Council announces.

Many of the homes are decorated both inside and out just as their original occupants might have done them. Traditional yuletide music played in the manner of the periods adds to the yesteryear charm.

Among those who have been playing the organ in the Martha-Mary Chapel in the village is Kay McElroy, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sheldon McElroy of Northville. A 1971 graduate of Northville High School and presently a freshman at Schoolcraft College, she served as a village guide last summer and has continued on weekends since September.

While showing visitors the chapel, she played the organ for them. Kay primarily is a pianist, her mother reports, but practiced so that she could demonstrate the chapel organ.

At the Henry Ford Museum the exhibit, "A Currier and Ives Christmas," features the famous prints exemplifying the season in a specially assembled collection, as well as a dozen craft demonstrations.

Horse drawn carriage or sleigh (weather permitting) rides are available in the village where guides point out the authenticity of all decorations.

Village decorations range from the simplicity of the 17th century Cotswold Cottage with its garlands of boxwood and the yule log at the wellhead outside the door to the Victorian Wright Brothers' Home with its sprigs of holly, early Christmas cards and full-length tree colorfully lighted with examples of some of the first electric Christmas lights

In the house in which Noah Webster compiled the first American dictionary, cedar roping, poinsettias and candles in raw potato holders at the windows are as described in Mrs. Webster's diary and letters.

The holiday centerpiece on the dining table at the adjacent Secretary House is made of imported fruits, which served as both decoration and luxurious dessert on special occasions in New England homes in the 18th century.

In the Stephen Foster birthplace visitors will be greeted by the spicy aroma of mince-meat cooking. At the Edison homestead there will be the sweet odor of taffy boiling on the wood stove

The 17th century Plympton House, the oldest American house in the village, the traditions of St. Nicholas Eve as observed by the early Dutch settlers are stressed.

A warming complimentary cup of hot spiced cider and oldtime Christmas cookies await the visitor in the picturesque town hall on the village green.

In the museum's main hall, skilled artisans demonstrate a dozen crafts which have been practiced in America for generations. Some are skills that were developed in the home, while others are specialized crafts that were essential to the community.

Home crafts, such as candlemaking, quilting, rug hooking and cookie baking show how early housewives prepared for the holidays. The printer, the potter, the glassblower, the pewterer and the tinsmith show how their counterparts in the past made Christmas gift objects

At the potter's shop, candleholders, pots and vessels of many kinds take shape while down the Street of Early American Shops at the pewterer's visitors can see the molded tiny toy soldiers and Christmas bells.

As a complement to these activities, the special exhibit area is filled with Christmas prints by Currier and Ives. Exhibit alcoves are decorated in the manner of specific prints.

The museum is decked in holiday garlands, Christmas trees and a variety of wreaths. From time to time, short concerts are presented on instruments from the museum's collection

The Christmas observances in both the village and the museum continue through January 2 every day except Christmas and

New Year's Day. There is no additional charge for the special exhibits beyond the regular admission which is $2 for adults and $1 for children 6 - 14; this admission is charged individually at the museum and at the village.

Museum hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday with the last ticket sold one hour before closing. Village hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with the last ticket sold an hour-and-a-half before closing

EARLIEST DECORATIONS—The Cotswold Cottage from England, which dates back to 1620 and is the oldest house in Greenfield Village, is decorated for the holidays with a "kissing bell" of boxwood, cedar garlands, holly, candles and apples. All decorations in homes open in the village are authentic to the period of the house. They are open through January 2, excepting Christmas and New Year's Day.

CLINTON INN HOSPITALITY—Cedar swags and garlands and holly branches hung from the chandeliers welcome visitors to Clinton Inn in the same manner as in yesteryear. The inn is open for lunch and snacks during the holidays.

WREATH-AND-ROPING DECOR—Light posts, windows and doorways in Greenfield Village are festooned for the holidays in the manner of the Waterford General Store, which is open for gift and souvenir sales. Visitors are welcomed to "a quieter day of Christmas past" daily from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

State Explores Abortion Guidelines

LANSING—Should the drive now underway to put abortion reform on the November, 1972, ballot be successful, and should the proposal be ratified by voters, Michigan will be faced with the problem of administering legalized abortions.

If that happens, the state Department of Public Health won't be caught flat footed.

A special committee established by the department is already at work exploring guidelines for hospital and clinic abortion services "when and if" the state's abortion law is changed.

"New York got caught when the liberalized law went into effect there," says Dr. Jack Stack of Alma, a member of the committee. "We don't want that to be the case in Michigan."

THE COMMITTEE is made up of doctors, health department staff members and clergymen as well as representatives from the medical, insurance, hospital and social services fields.

The idea for the committee grew out of an earlier conference on abortion facilities planning held last April in Detroit.

The conference produced a comprehensive 52-page report which found that the demand for legal abortions would be high in Michigan if the law is changed. The report said that many hospitals and clinics would be adequately prepared for a new law.

"HOPEFULLY, when this committee completes its guidelines, the people of Michigan will know that it won't be a sudden, helter-skelter situation," Stack says.

"We have laws now which say that if you don't get a certain standard of care in a hospital or other medical facility, then the doors will be closed by the state," he says. "People should have the same protection when it comes to abortion facilities."

The new committee has yet to come up with specific guidelines for abortion facilities, but Stack says he expects to have a written report prepared several months from now. Even when the report is ready, however, it may be kept under wraps until Michigan's law actually is changed.

THERE IS SOME uneasiness about the success of the petition drive. Some of the initial enthusiasm is waning and there is growing opposition by those who oppose abortion.

Meanwhile, the Michigan Coordinating Committee for Abortion Reform is forging ahead with its efforts to secure the vote in November, 1972.

At last report, the committee was nearing the 100,000 mark in total signatures secured. It needs more than 250,000 to get the proposal on the ballot. Rep. Joseph P. Swallow, original sparkplug, says more push is needed.

The petition proposal would permit abortions for any reason during the first 120 days of pregnancy.

MICHIGAN PARENTS whose children age 5 to 16 have been drinking fluoridated water since birth have saved a total of $15 million in dental bills, according to a survey compiled by the State Health Department.

Dr. Louis F. Szejka, who put together the figures, says that cost estimate involves only the money saved on filling cavities and doesn't reflect charges for examination, x-rays or other treatments which might be the same whether the child drank fluoridated water or not.

The cost savings breaks down to an average of $46 per child. And when considering the oldest of the group—the 16-year-olds—the savings average $70 per youth.

"FOR A FAMILY of three persons—two adults and one 16-year-old, for example—the water fluoridation costs would be about 10 cents to 15 cents per person per year or from $5 to $7 for the 16 years for the entire family," Dr. Szejka says.

"When we compare this against their savings in dental expenses, we see that for their investment in water fluoridation, the return would be about or more than ten-fold.

"In the case of a family of four—with two children aged 17, the investment in water fluoridation for the 16-years-olds would be between $6 and $10 and their return would be nearly 15-fold."

Babson Report

See Price Gains For Insurance

PRICES of life insurance stocks have increased by more than 30 percent over the past year. During this period they moved up from a historic low to a considerably more realistic level. Despite this fact, it is our opinion that the group still offers excellent potential for price gains for the longer-term investor.

The life insurance industry has had one of the most impressive growth records of any business field during this century. Only twice—in 1932 and 1933—did the purchase of new policies, insurance in force, and premium receipts fail to show a gain over the preceding year.

Actually, the industry's business has doubled in every decade since 1900, and there is every indication that this upward trend will continue in the foreseeable future.

LIFE INSURANCE firms receive income from two main sources—premiums paid by policyholders (75 percent of total) and earnings on investments (21 percent of total). As mentioned already, growth in premiums has been substantial; but investment income has also been growing at a steady 8 percent to 9 percent annually for many years.

Furthermore, the net rate of return on these investments has been increasing, and it should rise at an even faster pace over the next several years due to the historically high interest rates of the late 1960s and so far into the 1970s.

It is estimated that the net rate of return on investments in 1971 for all life insurance concerns will be close to 5.5 percent.

THE TWO MAJOR costs of the life insurance industry are death benefits and general operating expenses. But people are living longer partly because of the wide use of antibiotics since the mid-1950s, even though there has been no appreciable decline in the U.S. death rate. Operating expense as a percentage of total income has remained about the same since World War II.

This has been accomplished, despite the greatly increased labor expenditures, through higher utilization of the computer. Thus, the insurance industry has been expanding its income while keeping its costs under control.

During the decade of the sixties, earnings had an annual compound growth rate of 8 percent. This compared favorably with the 5 percent compound growth of the Dow Jones Industrial Average during the same period of time. We envision the life insurance industry as maintaining this rate of expansion during the decade of the seventies, with the investment income segment becoming of steadily greater significance.

IT WAS EXPECTED earlier that a standardized accounting format would be adopted by the end of 1971 for the industry. It now appears that it will be mid-1972 before this occurs. In December 1970 the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants released its proposed guidelines for adjusting insurance earnings. Under the new method, income (premiums) would be matched against expenses (commissions, medical exams, and administrative costs) over the term of the policy.

Current accounting methods not only confuse the investing public but they tend to understate earnings of the companies. A stumbling block to adoption of the proposed new accounting methods has been the inclusion of oftentimes substantial income or losses from capital gains transactions. This can create widely fluctuating earnings reports that do not reflect true operating expenses. But it is still hoped the new standardized accounting will be adopted in 1972.

Because of the excellent growth record and the bright outlook, the Research Department of Babson's Reports recommends three stocks that have important interests in life insurance: All American Life and Financial, Fidelity Union Life Insurance, and Republic National Life.

Sober Drinking Guide

Oakland Starts Safety Program

In an effort to combat highway deaths, the Oakland County health department today instituted a new traffic safety program designed to reduce the number of alcohol-related accidents.

The department's Alcohol Highway Safety Education Program, under director Steve Thomas, is making available to residents of Oakland County free "prescriptions for highway safety" on wallet-sized cards, and provide the car-holder with a complete guide to sober drinking.

"Most people don't know how much they can drink and still stay sober enough to drive," said Thomas. "The prescription for highway safety will tell them exactly how much they can drink and still drive."

"It's the most positive approach to traffic safety I've heard of," said Gerald Girard, traffic safety director for the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, fully supporting the program. "I urge every county resident to call or send for the card."

According to Thomas, how much a person can drink depends on what they drink, how much they drink, how long they drink and their weight. Medical research shows that the relative possibility of causing an accident greatly increases when a person reaches .05 percent of alcohol in their bloodstream

"We aren't naive enough to tell people not to drink, because they probably will anyway," Thomas said. "What we are trying to do is get people to control their drinking and stay below the dangerous level of .05 percent. It's the abuse, not use, of alcohol that kills on our highways."

Thomas noted that research shows drivers with blood alcohol levels of .01 to .03 cause fewer accidents than those who have not been drinking at all

"For some unknown reason, drivers perform better with a small amount of alcohol under their belts," explained Thomas. "This only applies, however, when the blood alcohol is under .05 percent," he cautioned.

Above .05, the relationship between the bottle and traffic accidents is a real and tragic one, he said. "Nearly everyone feels the dangerous impairment effects of alcohol beginning at .05 percent," he added.

Presence of alcohol over .05 greatly increase the probability that the driver will be involved in an accident, according to statistics

At .06 percent the likelihood of being involved in a traffic accident is twice that of a sober driver and at .10 percent six to seven times greater.

When a driver reaches 15 percent the likelihood of his being in an accident jumps up to 25 times greater than when he is sober (below .05), he explained.

"Traffic accidents occur as the result of a complicated kind of situation between the driver, his car and the environment," explained Bruce Madsen, managing director of the Traffic Improvement Association (TIA) of Oakland County. "The role of alcohol, however, is the single, most significant factor."

A recent report by the National Institute of Mental Health estimated that the misuse of alcohol contributed to 50 percent of fatal traffic accidents

"By instituting this new program we hope to significantly reduce the amount of drivers with high blood alcohol levels," said Thomas. "We know this will not only reduce the numbers, but also the average cost and severity of accidents"

Oakland County residents wishing to obtain a prescription may call 557-1400 in Southfield or 332-9255 in Pontiac

Here's Tips On Drugs For Parents

EDITOR'S NOTE— Following is the seventh in a series of articles written by Oakland County Prosecutor Thomas G. Plunkett, to inform parents about the drug threat and what it means to their children.

LSD is classified among the hallucinogens and is by far the most potent in this category. A dose the size of the point on a pin is sufficient to send the average person into amazing "trips," all within their own minds and, of course, entirely imaginary.

LSD stand for lysergic acid diethylamide and street terms include "acid," "trips," "cubes," "pearly gates," and "heavenly blue," "scramblers," "mind blowers" and "mind benders."

LSD was synthesized, (made), in 1938 by a Dr. Albert Hoffman in Switzerland. However, the true powers of LSD were not discovered until about 1943, and then by accident. Beginning early in the '60s LSD drew public attention by Dr. Timothy Leary and others who have read about since, and a sort of cult developed around it. "Hippies" soon found LSD a favorite. LSD and many other hallucinogens came to be known as "psychedelic" from the Greek meaning for the term mind-manifesting.

LSD is usually taken in liquid form, capsule, pill or dropped on a sugar cube and swallowed. Initially, the result of taking this drug is disorganization and confusion of the central nervous system. It can cause brain action changes and effect the level of consciousness by causing hearing and sight hallucinations, (imaginary happenings - dream-like experiences). Color of the substance, whether liquid or solid is usually blue, but sometimes in tablet form it can be white.

Being under the influence of LSD is referred to as a "trip" and these periods usually last from 6 to 12 hours per dose, depending on the amount of the drug taken. The results of use, both immediate and long-range are extremely dangerous. Users will experience:

- Very irrational and extremely unpredictable behavior
- Sight and hearing hallucinations
- A very confused mind resulting in bizarre behavior and great panic.

"Trips" on LSD closely resemble an actual period of insanity. Suicide or accidental deaths have occurred. Surprisingly, a user of LSD can go into hallucinations without taking the drug again, and suffer all of the ill effects of the drug, for up to three years after the last dose was taken. There have been cases of extended "trips" from just a single dose where the user "freaks out", meaning his effects stay with him for long periods even though he has taken only one dose.

Physical harm from the drug usually comes as the result of the behavior it causes from the disorganization of the mind which it causes. Mental harm is continually studied. Many medical people believe LSD use damages brain tissue, causes gross emotional and personality changes, but they are still in the process of clinically proving it.

All indications point to severe disruption of the personality, temporary or permanently, variations depending on other individual factors involving tolerance. But, it is felt that once brain tissue is injured it remains injured, it will not regenerate!

Recently, in the research being done on LSD, there are strong indications that it causes chromosome damage, thus causing potential damage to offspring of the user. So, not only does the user endanger his own life and future, but also that of his yet unborn children.

The usual source for LSD is the "street market", and it sells for about $2 to $5 per dose.

What is this world coming to you say? Be with me next week - there's much more to discuss on the subject of drug abuse. It has many widening effects on our lives and those of our children.

Women Who Scrap Careers Early May Sacrifice Future Self-Esteem

When it began, I don't know. But noise has always been anathema to me. Perhaps it's because my parents were older and as a result led a quieter life than most families, or because as a youth I lived in the Upper Peninsula where the pace of life is considerably slower—and quieter.

Put it another way. I treasure the silent moments, like now, early in the morning typing this column. There's noise, to be sure, like the quiet hum of the refrigerator, but no grating noise, no thunder of passing cars, no blaring from a television set or radio.

And should I say it? No other human beings. Alone with your thoughts, like another man who retreated to storied Walden Pond to think about things and wonder why they are.

Maybe that's what drove me out of the classroom. A teacher has few moments for reflective thought in front of a classroom of kids. I believed that if you stimulated kids, they would settle down and listen to what was said because they were interested.

But kids are social animals, so the inclination to talk to their neighbors is just as strong, perhaps stronger, than any interest they might have in learning. So you have to crank down by yelling at them once and a while.

I would write carefully on the blackboard, when the noise of wagging tongues would rise above the toleration level. "Noise is inversely proportional to intelligence." Shame them into silence was my method.

It worked for a while. Most of the time as a matter of fact. But one time I was called momentarily out of the room. By the time I got back, one student had erased the "inversely" and already the talk noise was on the rise.

Think about it for a while. Just how many silent moments are there in your life? If you wake up in the middle of the night, when all others are asleep, you might be able to contemplate the quiet. But chances are sleep either won't permit the waking in the first place or it will quickly overtake you again.

Noise. On the assembly line, in the car as the radio blares, in the back yard with the neighborhood kids yelling and the neighborhood pets yapping, in the office with the telephone jangling off its cradle. Where is the quiet?

Young people, I like. They are no worse or no better than kids were when I was their age. I would like to understand them. And I think at least partially I do.

But what I will never be able to understand is the 'why' of the music they like. Loud to the pitch of a din. Electronic, reverberating, deafening sounds. I hope not, but I fear, it is symptomatic of the loud age.

College educated women who permanently scrap their career plans for the role of wife and mother may be sacrificing personal development and self-esteem years later.

So concludes University of Michigan psychologist Judith L. Birnbaum in an in-depth study of 81 "intellectually gifted" women of middle age.

She focused not just on the "traditional homemakers," but also on that minority of women who actively sought a professional career in addition to or instead of marriage and a family.

"We asked what psychologically distinguishes these three types of women," she explained: "what kind of upbringing they had, and how satisfied they were with their lives some 20 years later."

Dr. Birnbaum found that the traditionally socialized girl fares well as a teenager and a young adult. She dates frequently, is marriage oriented and finds her niche early during the busy years of young motherhood. The statistically more deviant, achievement-oriented girl is far more troubled by self-doubt at this point.

By the middle years, however, the roles are reversed, according to Dr. Birnbaum. The career woman, married or single, finds in her work a growing source of satisfaction and self-worth. The homemaker sees her own major functions of child-rearing diminishing and with it, her means of identity and fulfillment. In her 40's and early 50's, she is forced into an early retirement.

"Earlier studies have shown that women in these situations lose ground in personal development and self-esteem during the years that men gain ground. National surveys have revealed that among married couples, the women are less happy, have more problems, and a far more negative or passive self-image than do their male counterparts," Dr. Birnbaum said.

"Our research with the non-working wives bore this out. The homemakers we questioned looked with envy at the purposeful, involved lives of their husbands and teenagers. Only sharing the credit for their successes, they themselves feel trapped on the sidelines.

"Surprisingly, the married career women in our case studies even viewed themselves as better mothers than the homemakers who had devoted their whole lives to this role. They also rated themselves as more competent in general and more attractive to men."

The homemaker subjects were all "with distinction" graduates of a large prestigious university. The professional sample were faculty women at the same university holding doctoral or medical degrees or the rank of at least assistant professor.

Each of them filled out an intensive 45-page questionnaire dealing in detail with their family background, girlhood personality and current experiences. Completed and analyzed, their responses depict three strikingly different personalities and life styles:

The homemaker: A friendly and compliant child of middle class parents, she followed her mother's example of self-sacrifice and submissiveness. She has avoided work or other commitments that might weaken her family relationships, and now describes herself as very conventional, dependent and not at all competitive.

The married professional: She is the product of upper middle class, highly educated parents, with the mother very dominant and competitive. Often a "tomboy" in grade school, she maintains an independent and unconventional image as an adult. Her marriage is largely egalitarian, but she still needs to perceive of her husband as a remarkably intelligent man to psychologically sanction her own achievements.

"The single professional: A bright girl from a lower class background, she sometimes felt alienated from her less intellectual family and considered herself homely or inferior. By adolescence she rejected the idea of marriage, capitalizing instead on her school and later occupational achievements. She finds fulfillment in her job and community as the helpful, compassionate expert. And while she sometimes feels lonely or out of place, her general self-esteem is high.

"The girls who did all the 'right' things, who married upwardly mobile, successful men, who devoted all of their energy to caring for them and their children, are the ones who now find themselves the most let down and uncertain."

The mother of a two-year-old, Dr. Birnbaum works half-time on the staff of the Counseling Center of the U-M Institute for Human Adjustment. She is concerned that in spite of the increasing numbers of women pursuing careers and entering previously all-male professions, the majority she talks to still have "a very limited perspective on their lives in contrast to men. Many of them are just marking time here until they are 'chosen'."

She added, "More work needs to be done on how a mother's commitment to a vital life of her own outside the home affects the optimum development of her children and the couple's marital satisfaction."

"This study needs to be broadened to relate not just to a minority of bright, well educated women, but also the average homemaker whose training stopped before or after the twelfth grade. Do they experience the same drop in self-esteem when their children are raised? And to what extent does any job, even one that's not challenging or terribly gratifying, make a difference?"

U.S. Olympics Team To Invade Olympia

Monday, the United States Olympic Hockey Team will invade the Olympia Stadium to play a team comprised of nine players from the Detroit Junior Wings, nine players from the Port Huron Wings of the International Hockey League and Marty Howe, Gordie Howe's oldest son now playing with the Toronto Marlboros of the rugged Ontario Hockey Association's Major "A" League. Gametime is 7:30 p.m.

The Detroit Hockey Club also announced that the Detroit Red Wings will host a camera night before the game from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Everyone attending the game is invited to bring their cameras and have pictures taken with the Detroit Red Wings.

Leading the U.S. Olympic Team through its first 22 games is six-foot, one-inch, 185-pound center Henry Boucha. In 20 games, Henry has scored 20 goals and added 25 assists for 45 points. Boucha is considered to be a fine all-around hockey player and probably the most outstanding American prospect to come along in recent years. A native of Warroad, Minnesota, Henry was selected by the Detroit Red Wings in last summer's National Hockey League amateur draft. According to his coach, Murray Williamson, Henry is big, strong, extremely quick and possesses great stamina. He carries the puck with skill, shoots hard and moves well either way. Henry was a high school sensation in hockey and also an outstanding performer in football, baseball, track and tennis. "A young Jim Thorpe" is the way Murray Williamson put it. Boucha is a descendant of the Chippewa Indians.

Also wearing the Olympic uniform is Tim Sheehy, who is second in scoring behind Boucha with 17 goals and 24 assists for 41 points in 20 games; Tom Mellor with eight goals and 14 assists in 19 games, Wally Olds with two goals and five assists in 11 games and Bruce McIntosh with two goals and four assists in 13 games. All four of these players are American born and property of the Detroit Red Wings, either through the NHL's amateur draft or acquired as a free agent.

Playing for the Junior Wing-Port Huron squad will be Mark Howe, the 16-year-old son of Gordie Howe who received every honor last year in the Southern Ontario Hockey Association while playing with the Detroit Junior Wings. Mark led the league in scoring with 37 goals and 70 assists for 107 points in 44 regular season games. He was also selected the Most Valuable Player in the league and the Outstanding Forward in the circuit.

Rounding out the Junior Wings half of the team, will be Mark's older brother Marty, who starred with the Junior Wings last season. Defensemen Pat Betterly and Bill Fraser; centers Bob Dobek, Don Fardig and Tom Ross, right wingers Bill Ciraulo and Jim Piech and goalie Steve Miskiewicz.

The Port Huron half of the team will consist of nine players in the Detroit Red Wing organization. They are: Brian Cropper, Nelson Debenedit, Allan Genov, Doug Hinton, Ralph Hopeniuvori, George Hulme, Bob Langin, Charlie Shaw and Randy Sokoll.

Tickets for the December 20th game are priced at $3 for adults and $2 for children (12 years old and under). Part of the proceeds from the game will go to the U.S. Olympic Hockey Team for expenses when it travels to Sapporo, Japan for the 1972 Olympic Games from Feb. 3-Feb. 13, 1972.

Jesus Christ: Superstar Or Son of God?

Reverend Robert V. Warren, Pastor, First Baptist Church, Wixom

This is the crucial question that confronts the listener upon listening to the rock opera from England! Over and over the chorus asks, "Who are you?"

received in one's own heart and life! When you meet Jesus personally, you know that He is more than a man!

Some see Jesus as a revolutionary. Others picture Him as "gentle, meek, and mild." Some see Jesus as the first hippie.

The rock opera leaves us with a haunting question: "WHO ARE YOU? WHO ARE YOU?" The Bible leaves us with a triumphant affirmation: HE IS NOT SUPERSTAR...HE IS THE SON OF GOD...HE IS GOD!

WHAT'S THE REAL ANSWER? Was He really the Son of God, IS HE GOD? We must know the answer to that most important question!

WHAT WILL YOU DO WITH THIS JESUS AT THIS CHRISTMAS SEASON? Is He but a helpless babe in a manger?

Let me suggest to you several reasons why I believe that Jesus was and is GOD in human flesh! First, He accepted worship - that being the right of God alone!

"For unto us a child is born (HUMANITY), unto us a son is given (DIETY) and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, THE MIGHTY GOD, THE EVERLASTING FATHER" (Isaiah 9:6)

However, there is one further proof - and that is the personal proof that comes when Jesus Christ is encountered or

Wixom

"Eleven, twelve and one more for a baker's dozen," said my grandma, counting out eggs for a customer. "It'll be 'found gold' for her!"

Even then, as a child, I knew that Grandma was the "found gold" for all who knew her - always giving more than was expected, Today I know that Grandma's strength was of the spirit. The teachings of her church gave purpose to her life. She lived her creed joyously, demonstrating vividly for all around her the vitality and richness of the Christian life.

Today, in a world that sometimes seems dark with selfishness and greed, each of us needs to realize and utilize the spiritual resources of his church as a necessity of life.

Turkey's No Longer Just A 'Seasonal' Meat

Gone are the days when turkey was a "seasonal" meat, limited to Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners. According to Eileen Bill, District Extension Consumer Marketing Agent, turkeys have gone modern. They are one of the most labor-saving, economical meats available. They are high in protein and low in calories, only 190 calories in a three-ounce serving.

14 pounds a bird is full grown, and any added weight is additional meat which is one reason why larger turkeys cost less.

She suggests the following tips in selecting a turkey at the store. Make sure the freezer case is at zero degrees or below. Avoid frozen turkeys stacked above the load line in freezers or those in refrigerated or ice packed aisle displays. Select frozen poultry with undamaged wrappings, as exposure to air dehydrates the meat, lowering quality.

She also said that turkeys are classified according to age and sex. Fryers and roasters are young birds, hen or tom, usually under 16 weeks old. Young hen and tom turkeys are about 5 to 7 months old, and the yearling hens and toms are between 8 to 15 months old. She said a clue to age is the flexibility of the breast bone; the more flexible the bone the younger the bird, with generally more tender meat. Older turkeys are seldom on the market today, she said.

Home storage tips for the turkey suggested by Eileen Bill are to keep frozen turkey at zero degrees or below until ready to cook and serve. To thaw, puncture the original moisture-proof wrapping and keep in refrigerator one or two days or, place under cool running water in original wrapper for four to six hours. She said that United States Department of Agriculture research reveals safe thawing at room temperature if birds are kept in the plastic wraps and put in a closed paper bag. The bag permits complete thawing with a safe surface temperature. Large birds take about 16 hours to thaw, smaller ones about 12 hours. Thawed turkey meat can be kept refrigerated (38 degrees) not longer than two or three days. The slower the defrosting, the less weight (drip) loss in cooking and the juicier the turkey.

"Today's better bred and fed turkeys cook faster and at lower temperatures than in the past," she said. "Researchers suggest oven temperatures as low as 250 degrees F. and no higher than 325 degrees F. for whole, ready-to-cook turkeys. A meat thermometer, inserted in the center of the inside thigh muscle (or thickest part of the breast), should register about 180-185 degrees to give juicy meat. The thermometer should not touch the bone.

She says to play it safe, meat, gravy, broth and stuffing should be placed in separate containers immediately after the meal and refrigerated. All leftovers should be used in two or three days unless they have been frozen, then heat thoroughly before serving.

Holiday Travel Up

flight to wait for cancellations."

Although airlines report a cancellation rate of up to 10 percent on some flights over the holidays, standby status is not recommended for families with children, Stanbury warns.

Major airlines in Detroit servicing Florida, California, Mexico, the Caribbean and portions of Europe report that reservations are scarce despite the fact that most commercial carriers have added flights for the holiday.

A spokesman for American Airlines says that flights are 95 percent filled to California, Mexico and New York between December 18-25 and December 29 to January 3.

The University of Michigan's appearance in the Rose Bowl January 1 has caused many airlines servicing the West Coast to add flights.

Pan American Airlines reports one of the heaviest demands in recent years for flights to the Caribbean and South American countries. Reservations between December 16 and January 4 to the Caribbean are up nearly 40 percent over last year.

Auto Club estimates that approximately three million cars will be on the road over the Christmas holiday weekend and again during

New Year's. More than 600 million miles will be driven each of the two holiday weekends.

Holiday Cooking is a Pleasure with Ham!

Take inventory hams come in more kinds and styles than you ever realized - fully cooked and cook-before eating bone-in, semi-boneless and boneless... whole, butt and shank halves and portions - and canned. And Chatham carries them all!

FULLY COOKED hams don't have to be further cooked though you can reheat them 10-15 minutes per pound at 325 degrees to bring out the flavor. COOK BEFORE-EATING hams require additional cooking 18 to 25 minutes per pound.

The more processing done to a ham - in cooking or in cutting - the higher the price per pound. However, there are usually more servings per pound in the more processed hams. If you'd like to compare prices, here are the estimated servings per pound to use as a guide:

Cook-Before Eating
Bone in 2
Shankless 2 1/2
Boneless 3
Fully Cooked
Bone-in 3
Shankless 4
Boneless 4 1/2

A BUTT HALF or a SHANK HALF is half a ham - as the name implies. But it's a Michigan law that when any center slices have been removed, the remaining pieces must be labeled BUTT or SHANK PORTION. The butt portion contains a little higher proportion of lean, tender meat than the shank portion - so it is higher in price. You'll find a variety of brands and sizes of CANNED HAMS at Chatham. The important thing is to read the instructions - and always refrigerate if the label says so!

Horse's Mouth

was a good horse. "It's never been off the place - but I know it's a good horse."

How many of us really look at our stock with a critical eye? You have an animal that you like. You show it - and a judge gives you a blue ribbon. The next four or five judges drop you to 5th, 6th or even out completely. Do you take a second look at that horse and wonder what you missed? No... It's the judges that can't see beyond their noses.

There's a colt home in the barn. He's muscles, straight legged, beautiful head, deep heart girth, nothing can touch him (He's the only colt in the barn.) What a stallion he'll make. You take him to three or four shows and he stands - last. Everyone's blind! They don't know a good horse when they see one. Or are you the one that's not seeing the obvious?

Stand back and really look at that colt. Lead him up by that first place and look the two of them over. Did you ever notice before how that one foot turns out? And those ears are sure longer now than they were at home. Why does that back look so long? You can't get around to compare hind quarters - maybe it's a good thing.

The hardest thing in the world is to look at your own horse and honestly pick him apart. And yet, it's the smartest thing to do. Even good horses have their faults, and if you know what they are, it will make it a whole lot easier to cover them up with some good showmanship.

The next time you can't get your price for that "good looking colt" you've been trying to sell - maybe there's a real good reason. Take a long, slow second look at him, then go check some others about his age. Be critical and see what you come up with.
