SPRING IS ON ITS WAY, "it must be," reports Jan Reef of 41520 Eight Mile Road. "I just saw a red-winged black bird and three grackles. Those are summer birds which just don't show up during the winter," he reported Thursday.

VOTERS APPROVED extension of the Consumers Power Company franchise in the city of Northville Monday by a vote of 59-4. Although the turnout was extremely light, City Clerk Martha Milne said it was a little better than expected despite bad weather and a relatively unimpressive issue. Granting of a franchise is considered a formality. Cost of the election was paid by Consumers. The vote by precinct was: Precinct 1-23 to 1; Precinct 2-13 to 3; and Precinct 3-23 to 0.

CHARLES M. FULLWOOD has been sentenced to life imprisonment at Jackson State Prison in the first degree murder of a Dearborn Heights barmaid April 29. Fullwood, who lived in Northville Township, was sentenced last Thursday before Wayne County Circuit Judge John D. O'Hair.

"WE WANT TO KEEP the trees just as much as the residents," emphasized Wayne County's chief forester, Irving Faltier, in response to citizen complaints that "they're cutting down the trees in Cass Benton Park right next door to Kings Mill." Apparently, explained Faltier, one of the workmen told residents that most of the trees were coming down to make way for expansion of the picnic area. "Actually, we are just cutting down diseased or dangerous trees near the comfort station and some of the undergrowth." Repair work on the comfort station itself, which reportedly represents an outlay of $30,000, is nearing completion. "We hope to put out a few more picnic tables in the area - but that isn't our reason for removing the trees," he declared.

PARENTS OF '72 graduating class members are to meet in the Northville High School cafeteria at 8 p.m. tonight (Thursday) to discuss plans for the traditional all-night graduation party.

THOSE LANTERN-LIKE street lights in Lexington Commons South proved so popular, the council upon request has revised its plans for installation of taller light poles in Lexington Commons North to provide for the same kind of lights and poles, at no additional cost, as now exist in the southern subdivision of Thompson-Brown. City Manager Frank Ollendorff advised against the change.

A DONATION by the Northville Education Association of $481.27 to the Northville Public Library has been accepted by the city council.

A COMMUNITY-WIDE meeting to discuss all kinds of planning matters will be sponsored Thursday, March 30 by the city council it was decided Monday. Although the council hopes to keep the agenda "open ended" so citizens may bring up matters they are interested in, several topics have been proposed: Northville Downs future plans, recently completed or approved and underway city development projects, the proposed commercial Northville Square development, and architectural style restrictions. Special invitations are to go out to city planners, appeals board members, Northville Economic development Corporation, service clubs, and the school and township boards.

BUDGET STUDY for 1972-73 is currently being conducted by the Northville township board. Members met Monday night and hope another meeting Saturday will finalize the document so that it may be reviewed at the March 14 board meeting. Final budget approval is scheduled for Tuesday, March 21 at the annual Settlement Day meeting at 8 p.m.

State Asked to Bring Township Into City

Annexation Petitions Filed

Petitions were filed this week to unify the city and township of Northville through annexation procedures.

The action was taken by a citizens' committee composed of both city and township residents with petitions bearing some 232 township signatures and 120 signatures from the city.

The petitions ask the Michigan State Boundaries Commission to annex the total unincorporated township area into the city of Northville. The township includes 17 square miles, the city two square miles.

Under existing state law the Boundaries Commission must act upon the petitions, if they are determined to be valid, by calling for public hearings within the community.

The hearings are conducted to weigh arguments for and against the unification of the two governments. They cannot be called sooner than 60 days following validation of the petitions, and they must be called within six months.

Following the hearings the state-appointed Boundaries Commission renders its decision. It may approve or deny the request as filed or it may decide to change the proposed boundaries.

The latter possibility could occur, for example, by excluding that portion of Northville township lying in the Plymouth School District. A letter filed with the petitions noted that this area of the southeastern portion of the township has closer ties to the Plymouth community in many respects and that the Boundaries Commission should consider this relationship in its deliberations on the proposed new boundaries.

If the Boundaries Commission determines that the unification should take place, citizens in either, or both, the city and township area have 30 days to file petitions calling for an election on the issue. If no petitions for an election are filed, the total city-township area becomes the city of Northville operating under the existing city charter and the township government is dissolved.

Petitions for an election must contain signatures of 25 per cent of the registered voters in either the city or township. Elections on the question of unification could be held in either or both the city and township depending upon the filing of the petitions.

If petitions are filed, the Boundaries Commission would schedule an election on the issue, probably within six months. If elections were staged in both the city and township, voter approval would be required in both areas for the unification to take place.

Most active participants in the gathering and filing of petitions for annexation were Richard Ambler, Robert Bogart, H.O. Evans, Eugene Guido and Wilson Tyler from the township, and John Canterbury from the city. Record Publisher William Sliger attended and participated in meetings held by the group as it considered alternatives.

Others who participated in the circulating of the petitions include Thomas Armstrong, James Tellam, Martin Rinehart, Charles Gross, Jack Hoffman, Mrs. Robert Yoder, Donald Lawrence and Wallace Nichols.

Petitions were filed Monday at the offices of the State Boundaries Commission in Lansing. The action to bring the city and township

Restaurant Proposal May Pump New Life into This Northville Landmark

Restaurant Planned

Church Sale Imminent

Sale of the old Northville Methodist church building is imminent. The Record has learned, and the building is to be turned into a dining and lounge establishment.

Request for rezoning, from parking to a business classification, was made to the city planning commission Tuesday.

According to Kenneth Beers, chairman of the church board of trustees, the board is to vote on the sale next Monday. "I would guess it will be approved," he said. "We have a firm offer."

While no sale figure has been disclosed, it is known that the sale price has been in the neighborhood of $100,000. The building, which includes vacant property to the corner, is located at Dunlap and Center streets.

Gerald T. Harris, market research analyzer and business consultant for four men who plan to buy the building, told this newspaper that "a fine dining establishment is planned." It will boast a quaint atmosphere, he said.

The church building will be maintained, with interior remodeling and restaurant equipment and furniture costing $500,000 plus.

"I recently completed a thorough market research of Northville for my clients and we are convinced the business will gross $1 million per year."

Harris said a widely acclaimed chef would be employed.

One of the buyers, Peter J. Duenas, is a "national known architectural designer who has designed many fine eating establishments," said Harris. Among these include Jim's Garage and the Money Tree in downtown Detroit; Socco's Casa Mia in Drayton Plains, and Java Junction in Royal Oak.

He also has done design work for the Hilton hotel chain and for Greyhound, Harris said.

The other potential owners of the building and the proposed restaurant include William E. Boyd of Northville, Gary Lee Spencer of Plymouth, and Daniel Vassel, owner of another restaurant.

Harris declined to disclose details of the restaurant-motif, facilities, etc., pending consummation of the sale.

"I can tell you this," he said. "A high-quality restaurant is planned. It will be something to attract people from a wide area."

Disclosure of intentions to retain the building should be welcomed by local historical buffs, who have been critical of suggestions that the building be razed for either parking or a new retail business place.

City officials zoned the property for parking, reserving the alternative to give it a business classification should a development be proposed.

The Methodist Church, which moved a year ago into a new sanctuary at Eight Mile and Taft roads, had been unsuccessful in attempts to negotiate a sale with other church groups.

Cornerstone of the old church was laid July 4, 1885. Its construction was influenced by the president of the Globe Furniture Company existing here then, F.R. Beal, who also was the Sunday School superintendent.

The woodwork in the church, beams, panelling, doors, casings, organ case, as well as pews and pulpit were fashioned in his shop.

As originally built, the church did not have the clock tower. The clock was given during the late fall of 1893 and the top of the tower was rebuilt to accommodate this addition. In 1960, a new tower was built on the church. The old city clock, which was owned by the church, was replaced by an electric clock. An electric bell also was installed.

Meters Go; Parking Space Cut

Some on-street parking meters are coming down—but motorists had better hold applause because some no parking restrictions are going up.

By unanimous action Monday, the council approved recommendations of the Northville Police Department that parking meters along the East side of Dunlap, on Hutton, in front of the Presbyterian Church, on both sides of Center in front of Northville Lanes, one meter in front of the American Legion Hall, and two in front of the old Methodist church building be removed.

Also approved, however, were recommendations that on-street parking be prohibited near the intersection on the north and south side of Dunlap west of Center and on the south side of Dunlap east of Center for a combined total of six parking spaces; and on the east side of Hutton, from Dunlap to Main (up to five spaces).

Council also enacted a parking ban on the north side

Cycle Races Set May 27

One-day trial motorcycle races at Northville Downs are slated to take place here on Saturday, May 27—despite objection by two city councilmen.

Although no vote of the council was made Monday following a proposal by John Carlo, general manager of the Downs, to stage sanctioned AMA races for licensed drivers on that date from 2 to 10 p.m., comments by the four councilmen present (Mayor A. M. Allen is still incapacitated with a foot injury) showed that two opposed, two supported the "trial" program.

Lined up against the proposal were Councilmen

Paul Vernon and Paul Folino, while Councilmen Kenneth Rathert and David Biery supported it.

Most adamantly opposed to the proposal, however, was a citizen in the audience—William Gaab, 105 Fairbrook. He objected to a trial program as did Councilman Vernon, even if it were not repeated.

Gaab appealed to officials and to Carlo to consider the neighbors in the vicinity of the track, pointing out that with the increasing number of harness racing dates they are left with very few "quiet" nights to enjoy.

He argued that it appears

Council For Youth Organizes

A Community Youth Council aimed at helping provide activities for teenagers in the Northville-Novl area has scheduled a second meeting for 8 p.m. March 15 in the Walnut Room of Our Lady of Victory Church.

Parent sponsors point out that the teen-age Cavern Club now has closed and that there is "nothing for the kids" in the community.

An agreement of the teen-age and adult boards of the Cavern has closed the teen-age club temporarily until September at which time it will be decided whether to reopen. Reason given was that poor attendance has made it impossible to meet expenses.

Church, club and school representatives were invited to an organizational meeting Monday at Our Lady of Victory.

Mrs. E.M. Pattison, a member of the Northville Newcomers, reports that representatives from Northville Methodist and Presbyterian churches joined those from Our Lady of Victory at the meeting, along with Cavern and club representatives.

She expressed the hope that organizations will add their support so that monthly programs with events such as sock-hops, swim parties, rock band dances and speakers can be scheduled.

It was explained that the Community Council activities will be aimed at all area youth, not just those affiliated with churches. Sponsors in rotation would be responsible for providing chaperones, refreshments and programs.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Pelto and Mrs. Diane Petro of OLV have been active in seeking support of area groups. A rock band already has been brought in and earlier an ex-convict spoke at a youth meeting under Methodist sponsorship.

'RELATIONSHIPS' SPEAKER — Dr. Thelma James, for many years a professor in the English department at Wayne State University, spoke on human relationships and patterns for living at the meeting of Northville Woman's Club last Friday. She chats beforehand with Mrs. Kalin Johnson, right, program chairman for the day. On her left is Mrs. Waldo Johnson, a long-time club member.

Pastor Seeks Aid for Church

John Sefcik, pastor of Southwest Community United Presbyterian Church, will offer a challenge and a mission in the inner city, as he speaks at the fourth Lenten dinner at Northville First Presbyterian Church following a Latin American dinner at 6:30 p.m. next Tuesday at the church.

"Let me offer you a new way to think about the church and a new way to express our family relationship in Christ," writes the Reverend Sefcik in an appeal to Detroit-area churches.

"We are in the inner city in a decaying neighborhood, faced with the prospect of rising crime," increased problems of health care, and with a high concentration of older persons and children under five years. Census tracts have affirmed this contrast," he points out.

"The parish area of our church is made up of a solid block of older citizens who own their homes and have lived here for years. They come from ethnic origins in England and Europe. Another third of the people are from the South who have moved here for better incomes. Another third of the people in the area are Hispanic."

Pointing out that the congregation has lost potential leaders as many members moved to the suburbs, the Reverend Sefcik is seeking "short term help" for his congregation in a two-fold mission: to relate to Christ and to make life more livable for them.

He is seeking "associate members" who will devote a year to helping his congregation.

The Reverend Sefcik received his bachelor's and master's degrees in theology from Princeton Theological Seminary after getting a BA degree from Park College. He served for three years in the Armed forces in World War II. He first served a rural church in New Jersey, going on to a community church in Catskill, New York, and an inner-city ethnic church in Binghamton.

At Broome County jail in New York he instituted a new chaplaincy program and helped start a community chaplains' program in which priests, rabbis and pastors rode in police cars.

He also helped design and institute a program where college youth lived in slums to reach hard-core youth. Other interests include studies and programs on health, aging, battered babies and use of leisure time.

Mrs. Fred Hartt, program chairman for the series of five Lenten dinner talks, points out that the emphasis is on Latin American food next Tuesday as a third of the Reverend Sefcik's congregation is Hispanic. In addition, as at all the dinners, there will be a table of home-style dishes.

Those attending are asked to bring a passing dish for each two persons and their table service.

The program is set for 7:30 p.m. following dinner.

Art Display Set at Mall

Michigan artists and craftsmen will display paintings, wood and metal sculpture, ceramics, hand-tooled leather, creative glass, pottery, decoupage, tole and lapidary in an exhibit at the Seven Mile Road Livonia Mall from March 16-26.

More than 1,000 paintings will be shown on exhibit units in the enclosed mall. Artists and craftsmen will demonstrate their skills. Portrait artists, caricaturists, and glassblowers will be featured. The mall is open evenings until 9 p.m. and from noon until 5 p.m. Sundays.

By JEAN DAY

A CHRISTMAS Walk announcement in March (with spring not due to burst into bloom until March 20) may sound premature, but it's such an important "first" for the Northville branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, that planners want the nine months to make ready.

It will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday, December 7, with five holiday-decorated homes to be open. Mrs. James vanBuren and Mrs. Paul Hughes are co-chairmen for the walk.

The home of Mrs. Hughes will be one of those open on the Christmas Walk. In addition to rooms decorated throughout with pine cone arrangements and wreaths, Mrs. Hughes' home will have the added attraction of art work and furnishings brought back from Europe after the Hughes' stay in England.

At each of the homes to be open on the tour there will be distinctive holiday decorations in different color schemes and themes. In addition, decorations of the type used will be on sale in each home during the walk. Light refreshments also will be served.

In announcing the new garden club project, Mrs. William Switzer, president, adds that she has researched files of the branch to make sure this is a "first" and has found that the club previously has had only summer garden walks.

Working with the chairman are Mrs. Gene Cushing, Mrs. Roger Pyett, Mrs. John Begle, Mrs. Harold Noffz, Mrs. E.G. O'Brien and Mrs. Switzer.

Price for the Christmas Walk tickets has been set at $2. No children will be allowed.

More immediately, Northville Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, members will meet at 12:30 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. E.G. O'Brien, 18341 Laraugh.

"Principles of Outdoor Gardening" will be discussed by a representative of the University of Michigan botanical gardens. Mrs. Charles Brosius is chairman for the dessert meeting, assisted by Mrs. Howard Whipple, Mrs. George Miller and Mrs. Gerald McKenna.

The club will make plans at the meeting to attend the annual Tri-Club luncheon of the Northville, Plymouth and Rosedale Gardens branches. It is to be April 10 at St. John's Episcopal Church in Plymouth with the Plymouth members as hostesses.

Television personality Carol Duvall is to be guest speaker and will present a variety of crafts to make. Luncheon is $2.50 and is a guest day. It also replaces the Northville branch April meeting. Tickets will be on sale at the March meeting.

"GOOD SOUND psychology" was offered by Dr. Thelma James, former English professor at Wayne State University who spoke to Northville Woman's Club last Friday.

She began by citing a "pattern of living" that her mother, who was of Quaker descent, practiced through Dr. James' childhood.

"When we passed a cemetery," Dr. James said, "we said, 'May thy rest in peace; when an ambulance went by, we said, 'May he have thy healing power'; when we passed a hospital, we said, 'May they be healed'; when we passed a church, we said, 'Welcome to God's house'; when we passed a school, we said, 'May they learn wisely'; and when we passed a home, we said, 'May they live happily'."

She suggested that the phrases establish a different atmosphere in thinking and living.

AUCTION CENTRAL—headquarters for the fourth annual Channel 56 auction—already has been set up for this year's event to raise funds for the educational television station.

The auction's 1972 leadership team includes a Northville resident, Mrs. William (Sue) Rasmussen, 1069 Grace Court. She is the West Area Regional Chairman for the auction which will be held from Sunday, May 7, through Saturday, May 13. Sponsors say it will begin at 2 p.m. and run until midnight—or later.

Called a "wild, wacky week-long sale on television," the auction raises money for the not-for-profit station which brings programs like "Sesame Street" and "The Forsythe Saga."

Last year the auction which relies on donations from businesses and individuals grossed $338,000. Already this year a Fiat sports car, a mink stole and an antique auto are among the donations.

Working with Mrs. Rasmussen is Mrs. Donald Kuzilla of Jamestown Circle, who is Northville-area captain this year.

Working with her are four other Jamestown Circle (King's Mill) residents, Mrs. David Kellar, Mrs. Michael Hogan, Mrs. Nicholas Massalo, and Mrs. J. Richard Johnson. Mrs. Kuzilla also has involved members of the Northville Jaycettes (known to be great volunteer workers), including Mrs. Russell Anger, Jr., and Mrs. Peter Lindholm. Others are Mrs. Earl Smith (Mrs. Kuzilla's assistant), Mrs. David Burns and Mrs. Stanford M. Rubach.

Because Mrs. Kuzilla and other area volunteers made such an outstanding contribution to the success of last year's auction, Northville is mentioned specifically in this year's publicity. It is pointed out that merchants from the area donated such goodies as lobsters (one a month for a year), tickets to the Northville Downs, hair sets and even a parachute jump.

This year's publicity reproduces a story from The Record of the group's solicitations.

The Northville "Go-Getters" this year point out that donations for the auction are tax deductible and may be picked up and stored until the auction. Anyone with items to donate may call Mrs. Rasmussen, 349-5971, or Mrs. Kuzilla, 349-0498, or any team member. The team is active in Plymouth as well as Our Town.

Their Musical's Ready

Mackinac! Premieres In April

"Mackinac!," a musical of Michigan's historic island as it was in the winter of the early 1820's, is the newest and most ambitious project of Northville composer Charlene W. Slabey and lyricist June Rado of Farmington.

The musical will have its premiere performances by the Farmington Musicals at 8 p.m. Friday, April 14, and Saturday, April 15, in Harrison High School auditorium, 29995 West Twelve Mile.

Eight months in preparation, the musical involves "the troubles and joys of the simple island people—settlers, fort wives, traders and Indians—attempting to survive a fierce winter on the ice-possessed island," according to the authors.

Farmington Musicals, an affiliate of the National Federation of Music Clubs, is staging the three-act play with music, the most ambitious project in its six-year history.

Mrs. Slabey, who lives at 1088 Horton, with her husband and three children, is well known as a musician and piano instructor. Her religious works have been heard in local and Detroit churches. Delta Omicron, national music fraternity, and Tuesday Musicals of Detroit have featured performances of her compositions.

Mrs. Rado, the mother of seven children, is a graduate of Ursuline College in Cleveland. Though poetry writing is her primary interest, she is a musician—pianist and was trained as a youngster for the concert stage.

For four years they have collaborated to create art songs, a song cycle and a Christmas cantata.

Characterizations in the musical include grande dames, maiden aunts, Indian chiefs and princesses. Soprano, contralto and baritone solos are included along with several choruses sung by the Farmington Musicals Chorus.

General music director is Marie Walck with Beverly Notestine and Shirley Strey assisting as pianists. Mrs. Slabey will accompany the work at performances.

Drama director is Rita Sprenger, formerly with the staff of Catholic University in Washington, D.C., and a past director of the Northville Players Guild. Prudence Tomchak is production manager with Barbara Kubitsky serving as stage manager. Technical aspects of properties, costumes and make-up will be handled by Zelma Lloyd, Landon Swanson, Bea Scaglione and Faye Williams. JoAnn Crook is in charge of programs.

Mrs. Slabey's previous religious works which have been viewed by local and Detroit-area audiences include "The Light of the World," a cantata taken from the New Testament Book of Revelation, and "The Creation," a sacred work for women's voices. In "Pieces of Jade" she composed musical settings for ancient Chinese poems in translation. She also composed "Tapestry," a suite for clarinet.

Tickets for "Mackinac!" are $2 for adults and $1.25 for students and are available through chairman Betty Monahan, 477-5839, and committee members Betty Love, 476-3233, and Kathy Krauss, 477-9136.

There also are 24 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The latter are James and Paula McQueen, children of Mrs. Sanders' son-in-law and daughter, the Russell McQueens.

VanHellemont, Mrs. Elish (Jean) Sanders, Mrs. Othal (Bernice) Baggett, all of Northville; Homer, Billy and Don, of Livonia; Tom of Plymouth. Other children are Mrs. Frank (Vera) Caldwell of Roberts, Idaho, and Wilbur of Tampa, Florida.

90th Birthday Fete Planned

A birthday celebration with his family will mark the 90th birthday of Charles Lute next Thursday, March 16. A lifelong resident of the area, he now lives at 19250 Newburgh Road in Livonia.

A widower, he lives near a son in the area of Seven Mile road where he farmed all his life.

Seven of his nine children will be attending the cake and ice cream party next week at his home. They include Mrs. George (Celesta)

Girl Scouts to Mark 60th Birthday Week

Girl Scout Week, March 10-17, is being marked in both Novi and Northville areas with specialized aims and programs being adopted by troops in both communities. It is the organization's 60th birthday.

"Ecology" is the theme for this year's Girl Scout birthday party in the Northville area, which is part of the Huron Valley Girl Scout program. Novi scouts, who join with Farmington troops in the Southern Oakland Girl Scouts, have a four-point objective of helping children make effective decisions, meet wide variety of choices now open to women, discover needs of their surrounding communities and develop skills to be involved and active citizens.

In Northville, Girl Scouts will celebrate the 60th birthday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. next Wednesday, March 15, at the Cooke Junior High Gymnasium.

To carry out the ecology theme, scouts will be cleaning up Northville Road Saturday, March 18. They have made plans to "adopt" the road for a year and to keep the debris picked up.

As another long-term project Northville scouts also have made plans to get to know elderly people in the community and to visit and help them.

In addition, some troops have adopted special projects for the birthday celebration. The Amerman Brownie Troop is planning to carry out a "Countries Around the World" study theme.

In Novi, Junior Troop No. 161 at Village Oaks School has been performing a special service for its school. Scouts made and provided a hot lunch for fellow students until the hot lunch program was established.

Special Girl Scout Week events in Novi include a program, "All You Want to Know About Day Camp," from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. March 18 at the City Park or, in event of severe weather, the Methodist church at Grand River and Warner. Demonstrations include fire building, lashing, cooking and tent pitching.

Mrs. Robert Brooks of Novi is Day Camp coordinator for two eight-day camps to be held in Farmington this summer.

Mrs. Gerald Platt and Mrs. David Folsom, Mrs. Robert Skellenger of Walled Lake and Mrs. Brooks serve as learning consultants in the Girl Scouts' innovative new adult learning program, the Southern Oakland Scouts announced.

Mrs. Bernard Adams of Northville is a member of the South Oakland council's camping services committee. Council cookie sale chairman is Mrs. Phillip Schuricht.

Band Camp Site Set

Arrangements have been made to rent a portion of the Twin Lakes camping facility near Muskegon for one week, August 28 to September 3, for the Northville High band camp.

Last week Mrs. E.O. Weber, Northville Band Boosters Club president, and her committee visited the area and made plans for the first Northville band camp.

It was announced that the band will have a week of intensive practicing and marching as they share the camp with three other bands. Climax of the week, the committee explains, will be a concert for parents September 3.

The camp, under the directorship of William Stansil, president of Blue Lakes Fine Arts Camp, has facilities for both camping and recreation, the committee points out. It adds that it maintains strict rules and regulations for each camper to follow.

Parents of all band members will receive a letter soon asking for a $10 deposit for each student's reservation. The cost per student for the week will be $35.

The Band Boosters now have more than $2,000 in the band fund. More than $200 was raised at a card party last Friday night.

Upcoming fund-raising includes a downtown street sale of lemon bread for Easter on March 25. In April Band Booster decals will be sold throughout the Northville area. In May the Boosters will sponsor a millionaire's party. Funds raised will be used to help defray each student's expenses for the week.

News Around Northville

Northville-Now's three other area Questers antiques clubs have been invited to be guests of Silver Spring Questers at their meeting at 12:30 p.m. next Wednesday, March 15, at the Quaker Acres Meeting House on Seven Mile Road in Livonia, which is maintained by the City of Livonia and its historical society.

Dr. Richard Burks, collector and authority on prints and engravings, is to be the guest speaker.

Shopping Center Seen in Two Years

A major shopping center, similar to the Somerset Mall in Troy, will be constructed on the north-west corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty Roads, next year.

The center, which will be called Orchard Hill Place, will be a bi-level enclosed mall which will feature high fashion and specialty shops, as well as professional offices, a hotel, and a theater complex.

"To the best of our knowledge," disclosed Richard Nordstrom of Nordstrom-Samson Associates, architects and engineers for the project, "Orchard Hill Place will be the first bi-level shopping center on a sloping site in this section of the country. There are similar developments in the eastern United States," he said.

Information on the tenants for the Mall is limited at this time. "No one has signed on the dotted line as yet," said Nordstrom. "There is an anchor company, however."

There will be a Pendleton shop in the complex and the National Bank of Detroit also will have a major branch office on the location.

According to Novi City

Manager George Athas the major tenants will be on the order of Saks Fifth Avenue, Jacobson's and Ambergrombie and Fitch.

The center will contain approximately 430,000 square feet of gross leasable retail space plus a mall area, or a total of roughly 550,000 square feet in the entire complex, Nordstrom reported.

Contemplated ground breaking for the project is slated for the spring of 1973 with the opening to take place in the spring of 1974. These dates are based on the availability of sewer and water services currently being studied by the city, Athas said.

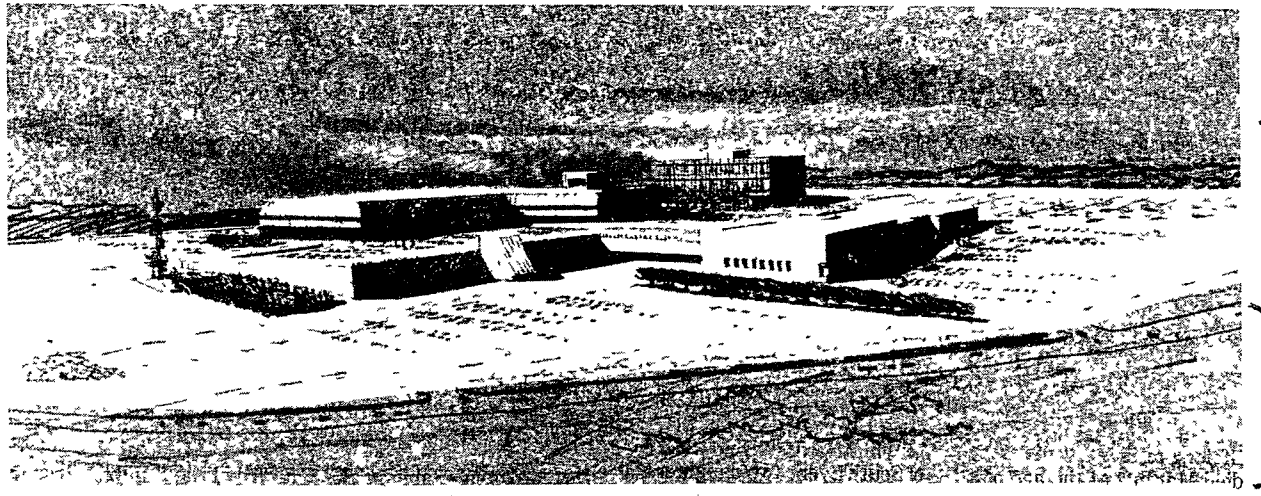

According to Nordstrom, water should not be a major problem and Athas feels the city will be able to supply sewer taps to the area by the time groundbreaking is slated next spring.

Owners of the 60-acre site are Eight-Haggerty Associates. Architects and engineers for the development will be the firm of Nordstrom Samson Associates. Richard Nordstrom and Edward Samson are members of Eight-Haggerty Associates.

Nordstrom-Samson has previously developed the Holiday Inn in Dearborn and the Garrison Place Office Building, also in Dearborn. Orchard Hill Place will mark their first venture into developing shopping centers, Nordstrom stated.

For Brookland Farms

Township Fights City

Novi Township officials have absolutely no intention of surrendering the lone remaining parcel of township property—Brookland Farms subdivision—without a fight.

That became abundantly clear Wednesday when former Township Attorney Emery Jacques read a strongly-critical, frequently sarcastic message from the Township Board to the members of the State Boundary Commission at a public hearing to discuss the proposed annexation of Brookland Farms to the City.

Said Jacques, "The Township of Novi is being sacrificed and destroyed under the guise of enlightened land-use planning; it is being dismembered by this Commission (referring to the Boundary Commission) in the selfish interest of so-called 'orderly growth'; it has been appropriated by a so-called 'full service' city, and the carnage has been previously sanctioned and approved by a unanimous vote of this Commission."

"The previous plea of the Township of Novi that it be permitted to exist under its service agreement with the city of Novi," he continued,

"was disregarded by the Commission and characterized as 'parasitic.' We have no illusions about the fate of the present petition, in light of the results of the last adjudicative meeting on January 26."

"There will be an election on this issue," Jacques concluded, "and we are convinced that despite your efforts (again referring to the Boundary Commission), the Township of Novi will continue to be a viable, responsive governmental unit for a few more years."

After delivering the message, Jacques left the meeting.

No Township officials were present at the hearing and only one township resident was there. The city was represented by Attorney Howard Bond, Clerk Mabel Ash, and Councilmen Denis Berry, William O'Brien, Edwin Presnell, and Donald Young.

The absence of any Township officials was emphasized shortly later in the hearing when Irv Rozian, a member of the Boundary Commission, asked for additional information.

"Statements have been made that Brookland Farms will have a great deal of difficulty in functioning as a single, isolated unit," said the Commissioner. "I would like to know if anyone has examined the ability of the community to exit as a separate entity, and if anyone has studied this feasibility, I would like to study their findings. They could definitely enter into my decision."

The absence of Township officials might well be explained by a feeling on their part that nothing they could say or do at the hearing could influence the Commission to deny the annexation.

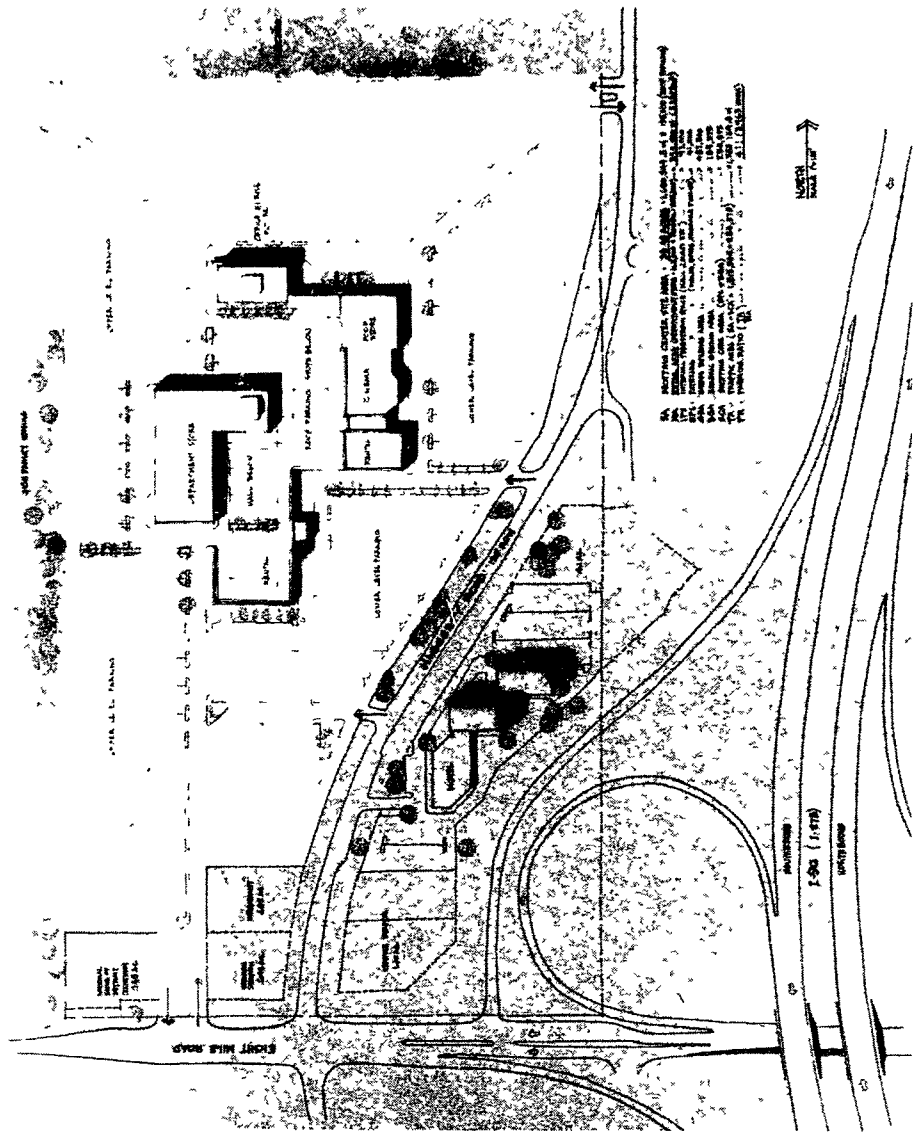

In the adjudicative meeting held January 26 to which Jacques referred Farmington, the Commission approved the City's annexation proceedings for seven of the eight parcels that had comprised the Township, leaving only Brookland Farms as the last remaining Township parcel. At the same meeting, members of the Boundary Commission intimated strongly that they would approve annexation of Brookland Farms when it came before them.

Rozian stated that one of the reasons the Commission was approving the annexation for the outlying parcels was that the City had filed as additional petition to annex Brookland Farms and he also urged Brookland Farms residents not to fight the annexation when and if it came about, as it was in their "best interests."

It was Rozian's statements at that January meeting which prompted Jacques to say Wednesday that the Township had "no illusions about the fate of the present petition."

The major information revealed in Jacques'

MAJOR SHOPPING CENTER — A bi-level shopping center, roughly equivalent in size and make-up to Troy's Somerset Mall, is slated to be built in Novi within the next two years. Although the names of no tenants have yet been released, Novi City Manager George Athas has indicated that the firms will be of the Saks Fifth Avenue, Ambergrombie and Fitch, and Jacobson's variety. ## Of Council

Question Action

Councilman Raymond Evans charged that Novi city council had been misled into approving an ordinance to a zoning amendment and Councilman Louie Campbell charged that the council had passed two zoning ordinance amendments specifically for the benefit of Kaufman and Broad (K&B), prominent area developers.

The accusations were made at the Novi city council meeting Monday.

Kaufman and Broad had two matters pending before the council Monday, as K&B Attorney Richard Carnaghi sought site plan approval for the Buffmeyer Farms property and preliminary plat approval for Fairfield's subdivision, previously known as Heatherbrook.

Both requests were eligible for approval only as a result of the recent adoption of two amendments to the city's zoning ordinance. It was this situation which prompted Campbell's charges that the council was changing ordinances specifically for the benefit of K&B, charges that were immediately and adamantly denied by Mayor Joseph Crupi.

The request for site plan approval of the Buffmeyer Farms parcel was eligible only because the council had earlier this year granted a zoning ordinance amendment which allowed them to waive a requirement that all dwelling units be built within 250 feet of a dedicated right of way, as long as those buildings remain within 500 feet of the right of way.

It was K&B's other request for preliminary plat approval of Fairfield Farms that drew the ire of both councilmen Evans and Campbell.

At a public hearing held a week ago Monday the council approved a zoning amendment.

Said Evans, "We were told that all we were doing when we approved that ordinance was correcting a typographical error that changed all the R-1-A designations to R-1, but the more I go over that amendment it looks to me like we did more than that. It seems to me we loosened our R-1 regulations concerning lot width reductions."

Campbell agreed. Before the amendment was approved, no lot width reductions were allowed in R-1 districts. As the amendment reads now, he pointed out, lot width reductions of five feet are allowed.

"Village Oaks residents asked specifically at the public hearing if the amendment would affect them," said Campbell, "and they were told it wouldn't. But it seems to me that if we hadn't passed that amendment K&B would not be able to reduce their lot width sizes five feet in Fairfield Farms."

As further evidence that the purported "Typographical" change was more than that, Campbell asserted that the Planning Board had sent a letter to the council saying that the preliminary plat approval for Fairfield Farms was contingent on passage of the amendment.

In spite of the charges, action on the two K&B requests was postponed until March 20 for two quite different reasons.

Site plan approval of the Buffmeyer Farms parcel was

Developers Criticized

Developers Kaufman and Broad (K&B) drew heavy criticism from a trio of Village Oaks residents at Monday's session of the Novi city council. Village Oaks is a K&B development.

Direct recipient of the charges was K&B attorney Richard Carnaghi, who appeared before the council on two different matters, first to attain site plan approval for Fairfield Farms, another portion of the multi-portioned Village Oaks development.

It was a long evening for Carnaghi, who not only had to endure the charges brought against his company, but also failed to attain council's approval for either of his requests.

It was the Fairfield Farms request which evoked the response from the three Village Oaks residents.

Major thrust of the criticisms was that the developers have not yet followed through with their promises to provide proper common areas, or parks, for the Village Oaks residents.

K&B was accused of trying to "hoodwink" the council and subdivision residents and of creating a condition paramount to fraud.

Carnaghi responded strongly to the charges. "I don't get upset very often," he stated forcibly, "but I deeply resent any implications that we're trying to hood-wink the city council or the people of Village Oaks. We have laid out what we're going to do and we've done everything we said we would."

Much of the discussion centered on the creation of park areas. In the Fairfield Farms site plan, K&B had taken advantage of a zoning clause which allows reduction of minimum lot widths if the resultant land savings is put into a park.

Taking advantage of the reduction, K&B saved approximately 1.19 acres in Fairfield Farms, but they showed a park of only .52 acres in their site plan. When asked about the discrepancy, Carnaghi stated that the land

Liquor License Faces Review

Continued existence of Novi's East Shore Tavern could be short.

Novi City Manager George Athas told the council Monday that he will ask them to pass a resolution at next week's session recommending to the State Liquor Control Commission that the East Shore Tavern's license not be renewed.

If the resolution is passed, and there is every indication that it will be, and then approved by the Liquor Control Commission, the city will have rid themselves of a frequent scene of police activity and acquired an additional liquor license with which to attract new business.

Each year in counties of less than one million in-population, the Liquor Control Commission renews liquor licenses on a yearly basis. This renewal is automatic unless the local governing body, in this case the City of Novi, asks that the license not be renewed.

Liquor licenses are awarded on the basis of population, one for each 1,500 population. Novi has already allotted its six licenses and will not receive any more until next federal census is tabulated in 1980, unless some of the existing licenses are revoked.

Only reaction to Athas' recommendation came from Councilman Denis Berry, who urged that the city manager take a harder look at the other five establishments with liquor licenses.

Dems Boost Registration

Northville Democratic Club is sponsoring a voter registration evening session today (Thursday), from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

The time period is especially designed to meet the needs of working people, who would like to register prior to the deadline established for the April school election, according to Dr. Larry Vander Molen. The evening session was established with the cooperation of the township clerk and the superintendent of the Northville Public Schools.

Any resident interested in registering should report to the Board of Education Office on Main Street in Northville. New residents, desiring more information, should contact Dr. Vander Molen at 3494337.

Council OK's New Rec Budget

A proposed 1972-73 Northville Recreation Department budget, calling for an increased outlay of $2,690.44—up from $41,368.90 to $44,059.34—was approved Monday by the city council.

The budget requires approval of the township board before formal adoption. Largest proposed new or increased expenditure is a $1,200 outlay for development of a new baseball field, according to the budget submitted by Recreation Director Robert Prom. This expenditure was not carried in the previous budget.

The next biggest increase is a contingency fund, increased from $1,768.83 to $2,882.34.

Among other proposed budget increases include:

Wages and salaries, up from $14,263 to $14,450; director's salary, from $5,775 to $6,092; building and grounds utilities, from $1,435 to $1,500; equipment for recreation activities, from $5,109 to $5,250; officials and recreation, $2,422 to $2,500; vehicle operation, from $854 to $1,300.

Several other categories are increased but they are self supporting either because of fees charged or because of donations by clubs or merchants.

Cost of the recreation department is shared by the city and township on a participation basis.

Because participation is increasing at a more rapid rate in the township than in the city, the proposed new budget shows a decrease in the city's share of the cost and an increase for the township.

The city's share is pegged at $18,445.08, down from $18,997.36 while the township's share is set at $14,477.43, up from $14,054.79.

Of the 1,087 participants anticipated in 1972-73, 609 will come from the city, 478 from the township, Prom noted. Last year (1971-72) the total number of registered participants was 983, with 565 from the city and 418 from the township.

Name Planners

Two new planning commission members and three members of a newly established planning committee were named Monday by the Northville City Council.

Appointed to the commission to replace Robert Robert Lang, who resigned recently, and Delbert Black, who will officially resign soon, were Donald Jones, 245 South Wing Street, a surveyor, and David VanHine, 556 Langfield Drive, a state highway traffic engineer.

Named to the special planning committee, which will review and recommend changes to the city's master plan, are Stanley Johnston, Charles Buttermore, and Dan Conley. Chairman of the committee is Wallace Nichols, planning commission member and a former member of the council.

Tabled until the next meeting was the establishment of a five-member appeals board to enforce the minimum housing standards ordinance.

College Spurs Registration

Schoolcraft College students and any other unregistered 18 year olds in the area will find entertainment with a purpose at the "voter registration concert" this Friday night in the school's gym.

The concert's goal is to register hundreds of new voters, according to student spokesman Dennis Saltarelli. He said registrars from the following communities will be on hand to take registrations:

Canton Township, Detroit, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Redford Township, Wayne, and Westland.

Four rock bands will provide music from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. They are "The Cat's Paw," "The Blackwood Drake," and "The First Century," all Livonia-based groups, and "The Up" from Ann Arbor.

A number of important people will make speaking appearances during the evening: Secretary of State

Richard Austin, Wayne County Republican Committee Vice President Mrs. Norma Lansky; Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara; Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote. Other speakers will be Congressman Marvin Esch, State Senator Carl Pursell, State Representative Michael Dively, and Robert Anderson of the Michigan Youth Caucus.

An admission of 50 cents is being charged to defray expenses.

Cooke Issues Report Cards

Salem firemen, assisted by Northville, began battling the blaze at 9:45 p.m. Sunday. The remains of the building were still smoldering at 3 p.m. Monday - when this picture was taken. Salem Fire Chief Bill Hirth estimated building and content loss at "around $40,000" but admitted that his estimate was "rough at best." The airport was not operational early this week as a result of the fire which destroyed everything in the building except some pilot flight records which were salvaged. The structure is located on Six Mile Road just east of Salem.

WILLIAM KUNSTLER

Kunstler To Speak At College

William Kunstler, the attorney whose defense of Baltimore draft-record burners and the "Chicago 7" has made his name synonymous with political trials, will speak at Schoolcraft College on March 14.

Kunstler, 52, found a cause in 1961 in Jackson, Mississippi. That year, the American Civil Liberties Union asked him to assist a local black lawyer in defending Freedom Riders. After witnessing the seemingly unpremeditated arrest of five Freedom Riders in a bus terminal, Kunstler was committed to promoting racial integration and defending civil rights.

His travels since then look like a road map of the Civil Rights Movement in the U.S., both passive non-violence and militance — Jackson, Mississippi and Monroe, North Carolina in 1961; Albany, Georgia in '62; Birmingham, Alabama and Danville, Virginia in '63; St. Augustine, Florida '64.

He has been counsel to the Congress of Racial Equality and Dr. Martin Luther King, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Stokely Carmichael, H. Rap Brown and the Black Panthers.

Although Kunstler belongs to a different generation, today's youth identify with him and he has an amazing camaraderie with them. His attitudes about America have become radicalized. He feels that a shadow of the swastika is visible in America today, that this government fears and hates the radical college students, the poor and the blacks because they see through the false economic and political systems.

To Kunstler, the 60's was a decade of protest and the 70's will be a decade of resistance. If it doesn't work, revolution will follow. Whatever happens in the 70's.

Kunstler will speak in the Schoolcraft gymnasium at 8 p.m. His appearance is being sponsored by the Cultural and Public Affairs Committee. Admission is $1 for students and $2 for the general public.

PREVIEW—Novi officials and community leaders previewed the opening of the new multiple housing development on Eight Mile Road last week. # Country Place Opens Country Place, an unusual new condominium community featuring a modern innovative home style in a country setting, will have its grand opening this weekend.

Near Northville, Country Place is on West Eight Mile Road, west of Meadowbrook Country Club inside the City of Novi.

A total of eight different furnished models, ranging from a two bedroom, one bath home to a large three bedrooms, two bath model, are featured. The latter, incidentally, has been named

Novi Township Fights

statement was that the Township would fight the annexation by trying to bring the issue to a vote of the people.

Under state law, if the area to be annexed has more than 100 people living within its boundaries and the Boundaries Commission approves the annexation petition, an election can be brought about which would reverse the Commission's decision provided 25 percent of the residents sign a petition asking for one.

In any annexation proceedings before the Commission, if either the Commission or the voters reject annexation, it becomes a virtually dead issue for a period of two years. If either Brookland Farms voters or the Boundaries Commission, for example, denies the City's annexation petition, the only way the two areas could be united during the next two years would be by "mutual agreement" of 100 percent of all city and township voters - a likelihood so remote as to be impossible.

Next step in the proceedings regarding Brookland Farms is for the Commission to set a date for an adjudicative meeting. At this meeting they will announce their decision regarding the annexation and set a date for the approval of the "findings of fact and order," a written document announcing their decision, the reasons for it, and the date on which the annexation goes into effect.

Once the Findings of fact and order have been officially accepted by the Commission, township officials will have 30 days in which to get 25 percent of Brookland Farms residents to petition for an election.

Although the Commission may still deny the City's annexation of Brookland Farms, there is every reason to believe that they will instead approve the merger and thus let Township officials circulate petitions asking for an election.

And although Township officials should have little difficulty in soliciting the signatures of 25 percent of Brookland Farms residents, there is some question as to what the opinion of the majority of the subdivisions' residents will be to annexation to the city.

At the same time, there is some question as to how valuable the acquisition of Brookland Farms is to the city. Attorney Howard Bond told the Boundary Commission that the city of Novi would welcome the subdivision and be willing to extend full services to it.

But as the subdivision is entirely residential, the cost of supplying services will probably exceed the amount of additional taxes brought in.

Novi police investigated a case of malicious destruction of property that occurred at the Orchard Hill Elementary School sometime between 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 1, and 8 a.m. Thursday, March 2.

According to reports vandals shot three holes in the windows on the west side of the school.

An illegal entry and larceny from the well-drilling company of Ray Harrison of 43585 12 Mile Road netted thieves a variety of power tools valued in excess of $1,000.

The larceny was reported Tuesday February 29, and is currently under investigation by the Novi Detective Bureau.

Two members of the General Services Bureau, Corporals Robert Starnes and John Johnson, are attending a special seminar this month at Macomb Community College.

The Crime Scene and Scientific Aids seminar the two Novi officers are attending teaches proper methods in protecting and preserving a crime scene and how to gain maximum information from the scene through the use of scientific aids.

The course is held two days per week through the month of March.

Detective Sergeant Gordon Nelson is attending an Arson Seminar this week at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

In Wixom

Larceny from a pick-up truck owned by Frederick A. Grix, a Union Lake resident, was reported at the Ford Motor Company parking lot Tuesday, February 29, police said.

A citizens band radio valued at $124 reportedly was taken from the vehicle sometime between 6:55 a.m. and 3:50 p.m. while Grix was working in the plant.

Entry was made by prying open the right vent window of the truck and unlocking it from the outside, reported police. No suspects are as yet in custody.

The Wixom Identification Program canvassed its first area last Saturday and received almost a 100 percent coverage of the homes in the Highgate Subdivision.

The program, with its origin in Monterey, California some seven years ago, has some interesting statistics.

Of the 4,000 homes that first participated, only three were involved in burglaries. Of the 7,000 non-participating homes in the same area, 1,800 breaking and entering crimes were reported.

Residents are urged to place the W.I.P. stickers in prominent places where they will be readily visible from the street.

Ross Homes, at Wixom and Loon Lake Roads, will be the next canvassed area on Saturday, March 11.

Club Sponsors Musical Story

Northville middle and high school students will have an opportunity to see performances of "Lincoln, Kennedy and King" during the coming week.

The musical story, which condenses the visions and deeds of the three men, will be given by George Tipton. Tipton left a successful Broadway career to participate in the Youth Theater.

The program, brought to Northville under contract with the Detroit Institute of Arts, will be shown, to high school students Monday; seventh and eighth graders, Wednesday; and sixth graders, next Thursday.

Sponsors of "Lincoln, Kennedy and King" performances in Northville is the Mothers' Club.

This past week, elementary students saw performances of "Aladdin and His Magic Lamp" given by the Mobly Marionettes, also made possible through donations from Mothers' Club.

COURT NEWS

Eugene Ford Jr. of Detroit pled guilty to an added charge of attempted robbery unarmed when he appeared last Thursday before Wayne County Circuit Judge Joseph A. Sullivan. He will be sentenced on the charge in six weeks.

Ford was arrested by city police January 1 and charged with armed robbery after he allegedly held up an off-duty Detroit police officer at Northville Downs. The armed robbery charge was dismissed after he pled guilty to the added count.

Three persons ticketed by city police following accidents in February appeared in 35th District Court February 29, pled guilty to the charges and were each fined $39.

They are Michael J. Grandy of Jackson, Randall J. Rorabacher of 50285 West Seven Mile Road, both ticketed for failing to stop in assured clear distance; and Harold J. Stevens of Livonia, ticketed for failing to yield to oncoming traffic.

Robert W. Nave of St. Clair Shores, arrested February 17 by city police on a warrant for writing checks on a closed account, was placed on three months probation and ordered to pay court costs of $39.

Why It Happened . . . What It Means

Story Behind Unification Action

By BILL SLIGER

Petitions containing 352 signatures were filed shortly before 3 p.m. Monday with the State Boundaries Commission in Lansing asking for annexation of the total township area to the city of Northville.

Why now? What does the action mean to the community. . . to the taxpayer?

And who are the people behind this move?

And why not petitions to stop the building of a $500,000 township hall-fire station complex, the thing that seems to be the most disturbing to most people?

Understandably, these were some of the reactions reported by circulators of petitions as they visited city and township homes Saturday and Sunday and collected signatures to unite the city and township under a single city-form of government.

The citizens involved in the initial action — the filing of petitions for combining the city and township under the existing city government — are named in the story appearing on Record page one.

They hope this is just a beginning of a much broader committee which will become deeply involved in the affairs of local government.

Admittedly, it is their belief that the community would function more economically and more professionally, governmentally speaking, under a single, unified city government.

They believe it would be a mistake to build a $500,000 township hall-fire station complex; they believe it is a mistake to continue to expand the township police force.

Yet, they recognize that it is important for the township to direct its attention towards services that become more necessary as the building and population growth continues.

They view fire protection as the most critical of these needs.

But it is their opinion that this service, as well as police protection as its need increases, would be best provided through united effort with the city.

And these citizens view the construction of a new township hall, which has provisions to include a police department, plus a fire station as a commitment to large township government duplicating already existing city facilities.

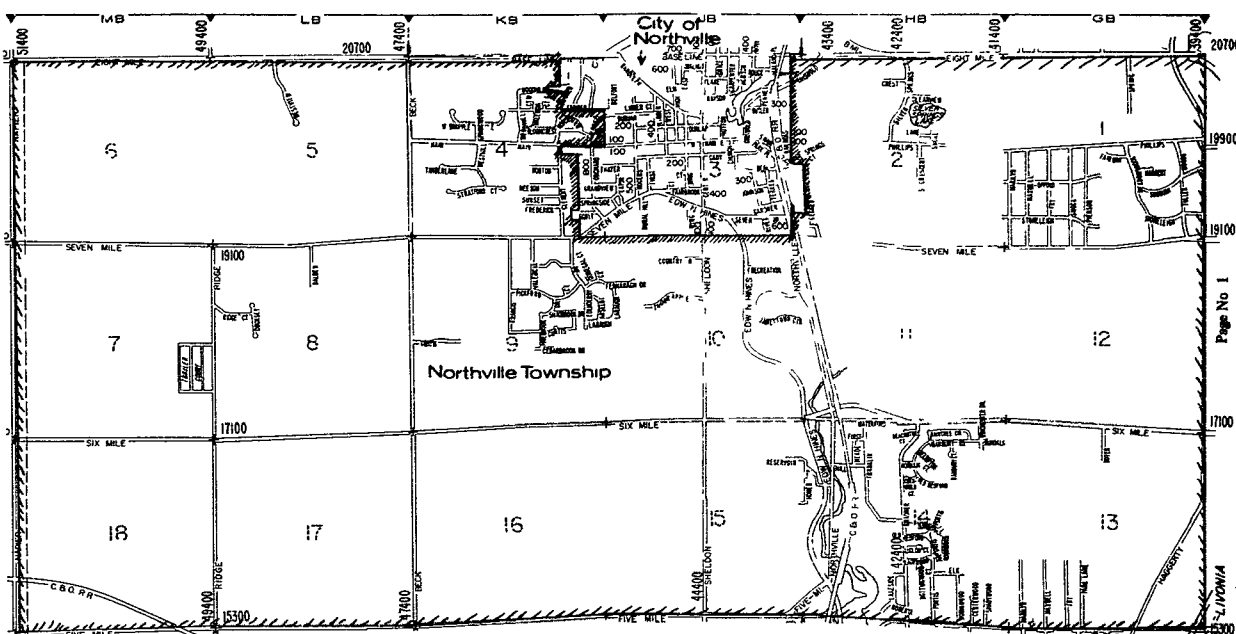

If the township is to operate its own fire department and police department in a new township hall, it would be most difficult for the most avid supporter of township government to deny that at least a seven-mill tax levy would be required. (One mill is currently levied in the township.)

Such figures depend upon the extent of services offered, of course, but history teaches that governments build rapidly and capital expenditures for new structures lead to more expenses for personnel and maintenance.

The most current and studied estimates made of the cost for operating a unified government which would offer township residents that same level of services now provided in the city is a maximum of seven mills.

But it's noted that this rate would hardly be that high initially because of the time needed to expand services, plus the fact that many services included in the estimate (such as street lights) would not be required or needed in many areas of the township for several years.

So why did the citizens' group decide to petition for annexation to the city?

Petitions filed with the State ask that the entire 17-square-mile township area be annexed to the city of Northville.

First, to avoid the possibility that petitions would be circulated in the township to incorporate the area into a separate city. This maneuver to avoid city-township unity has been taking place in Plymouth for more than a dozen years and another in a series of elections for the proposed city of "Plymouth Heights" is scheduled this month in Plymouth township.

Under state law the first petitions filed are the first to be considered. In Plymouth township the effort to form a city to surround the city of Plymouth has blocked unification efforts for over a decade.

It's no secret that Northville township will soon need more tax dollars if it is to increase its services. So the chance exists that the additional revenues could be raised by forming a charter township (with a five-mill levy limitation) or incorporating as a city, or going to the voters and asking for a millage hike.

One way around an election to construct a township hall is the "building authority" method. This permits the township to levy enough millage to retire building bonds without a vote, unless taxpayers petition for an election on the question.

And petitions for such an election is the second item on the agenda of the proposed, broad citizens' committee.

But these petitions cannot be gathered or filed until the township board officially publishes its intent to form an authority. Then citizens have 30 days to file election petitions.

So to gain attention, and time, the annexation petitions were filed. And if the township board follows through with its announced intention to form a building authority, this group has pledged itself to circulate petitions for an election on the question.

And, finally, the group plans to seek out and develop a slate of candidates composed of both Democrats and Republicans to run for township office in the August primary election.

The terms of five of the seven members of the township board expire this fall.

It goes without saying that the proposed slate of candidates would be one composed of township residents favoring unification with the city. Even if the proposed annexation effort fails, they point out, ultimate unification should be the goal.

and needed township services should be sought through contract with the city. This method, they reason, would avoid duplication and save tax dollars for all citizens of the community of Northville.

So the township taxpayer, it is reasoned, will benefit in the long run by taking advantage of an existing city manager form of government, a municipal building large enough to serve the total community, a police department, a jail, a department of public works, rubbish pick-up, a fire department that can be expanded — and, of course, a slice of the rich (nearly $400,000 annually) revenues that return to the city from betting at Northville Downs harness track.

Either way he turns, the township taxpayer faces a hike in local taxes. The question becomes, which turn would be the best, the most economical?

What's in it for the city taxpayer? Why should he give up his comfort in the two-square-mile city with one of the lowest tax rates in the state (10.3 mills) and split his race track revenues with the 17-square-mile township?

One reason would be an immediate tax cut, probably to six mills (seven at the most). And the township brings some $50 million in state equalized valuation (SEV) compared to the city's $33 million SEV.

Petitions Filed

together under one government is not a new idea, but it is the first time legal steps have been taken to initiate unification.

A recent decision of the township board to form an authority to build a $500,000 township hall-fire department triggered the petition campaign, which is described as the first step in a three-prong program for citizen action.

The group has declared that it is now ready to broaden its base to circulate petitions for an election on the proposed building authority when the township board officially publishes its intent to establish the authority.

Secondly, the new citizens' group hopes to select and support a slate of candidates to run in the primary election this August, when five members of the present township board face re-election.

"We're disturbed by the direction Northville Township is drifting and we fear that expenditures for such facilities as a township hall will lead to unnecessary duplication in government and higher taxes for community residents," group spokesmen declared.

They stated that they felt it was necessary to work as a small group initially to complete the petition filing for unification of the governments.

"Now we'd like to have as many township citizens as possible join our effort to stop the building of a costly township hall and to elect a slate of candidates to the board which would favor closer relationship with the city through joint use of services leading to eventual unification.

"We recognize that our unification effort might fail. But we felt it was necessary to take this action to gain time and attention.

"Naturally, we hope the community is ready now to unite under a single, professional and proven government because we think it will be more economical in the long run for all citizens, both city and township.

"But if the unification action is taken to a vote and defeated, we still believe it is important to bring new direction to township government and work towards more cooperation with the city for services such as fire and police. This means stopping the building of the township hall and electing some new faces to the township board," they concluded.

What Happens Now

Here's the procedure and timetable for the proposed unification of the total city and township area by annexation:

1—Petitions containing signatures of at least one per cent of the population of the area involved must be filed with the State Boundaries Commission in Lansing. Township population is 9,522 (this includes approximately 3,000 institutionalized people, which are counted in the census); city population is 5,400. Signers must be qualified electors and resident freeholders. Petition filing took place Monday afternoon.

2—Signatures must be checked for validity by the State Boundaries Commission. This will probably require 30 days.

3—If the petitions meet legal requirements, an administrative meeting is called in Lansing by the Executive Secretary of the Commission. The five-member commission then directs the secretary to contact the governments involved.

4—Not sooner than 60 days later, nor longer than six months, the commission must hold a public hearing on the proposed annexation within the community of Northville. The five-member body is composed of three state appointees and two residents of Wayne county, appointees of the probate judge. It is estimated the local hearing would be conducted close to the six-month limit.

5—After hearing arguments for and against annexation the commission meets again in Lansing, probably not sooner than 30 days after the local hearing, to reach its decision.

6—The commission has three alternatives: 1-It can deny the request, which terminates the action; 2-It can approve the request as petitioned; 3-It can modify the boundaries and approve the annexation.

7—If annexation is approved, a written communication is prepared setting forth a date unification under the existing city government would take place. The communication also sets forth a 30-day period during which residents of either or both the city and township may petition for an election on the question of annexation.

8—Election petitions must be signed and filed during the designated 30-day period. They must contain signatures of 25 per cent of the registered voters in the governmental unit petitioning for the election. In Northville township there are approximately 3,000 registered voters; in the city there are approximately 2,500.

9—If valid petitions for an election are filed, it must be called by the State Boundaries Commission in the unit or units calling for the election. It is unlikely that the timetable would permit such an election before February, 1973.

10—For unification to be achieved by election, the action must be approved by a majority vote both in the city and township, if an election is requested in both areas; or in either the city or township if just one of the units petitions for an election.

Unification

Perhaps most important, however, is the simple logic of the fact that a single, professional government can operate more efficiently in an area the size of the total community than two divided units.

One city manager is required; one police chief; one firm of planning consultants; one legal notice for elections, public hearings, etc., one legal consultant; one engineering firm; one fire chief; one city hall.

A study, conducted by a professional consultant, and jointly financed by the city and township confirmed this fact.

It's true that the city would need more people in its various departments. But these are available now performing duties for the township and it's reasonable to believe that unification of personnel under single management could be accomplished to the benefit of the total community.

Finally, why did the citizens involved in the unification effort choose annexation rather than consolidation?

Three avenues were open to the petitioners. Consolidation calls for an election to form a charter commission. And once these elected charter commissioners have drafted a charter, it must be approved by the voters in both the city and township.

Consolidation means throwing out the existing city charter and forming a new city. It says that representatives to the charter commission shall be elected on the basis of population in each unit of government. So the township with a population of 9,400 would have six members on the commission to draft a charter and the city would be entitled to three from its population of 5,400.

Yet fully 3,000 of the persons counted in the township population are institutionalized.

City representatives among the petitioners for unification were certain such an effort by that formula would fail in the city.

It was further noted that consolidation, which requires up to two years to accomplish, has never been successful in the history of the state of Michigan.

Another alternative open to the group was annexation of a portion of the township. This was considered, but thrown out when it was noted that the State Boundaries Commission has the authority to change the proposed boundaries after it holds its public hearing.

So in its petition to the Boundaries Commission the local group pointed out in writing that the southeast portion of the township lying in the Plymouth school district "has in some respects closer ties to the community of Plymouth," a condition that will undoubtedly be considered by the commissioners as they weigh the pros and cons of the proposed unification.

And should the State Boundaries Commission decide in favor of unification, citizens in either, or both, the city and township may petition for an election on the question.

Land Purchase To Expand Park

Senator Carl D. Pursell (R-Plymouth) said today that the Natural Resources Commission has authorized purchase of a vital 26-acre tract at the new Maybury state park along Seven Mile Road west of Beck Road.

"Purchase of this property will give great impetus to the development of recreational facilities and will provide space to make other improvements along the southeastern side of the 865-acre park, which was the former Maybury Sanatorium site," said Senator Pursell.

"Purchase of the site, which fronts for 600 feet along Seven Mile Road and extends more than 1,800 feet deep, will save the area from a previously planned subdivision development.

"The proposed subdivision development would have adversely affected the department of natural resource's recreational plans for the park."

Senator Pursell said the parcel of land would cost $110,000, which derives from funds provided by the recreation bond program and appropriated by the legislature last year for park land acquisition.

Ordinance Changed

TWO ORDINANCE CHANGES, one complying with new state laws by reducing the age from 21 to 18 for persons permitted to purchase and possess alcoholic beverages, and another that specifically prohibits falsification of pari-mutuel betting tickets were adopted Monday.

Holtzman & Silverman
Get Year Extension

NEW - THEATRE COURT ENTRANCE

ORCHARD HILL PLACE—Above and below are architects' sketches of portions of the proposed Orchard Hill Mall to be located in Novi on the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty Roads. Similar to Troy's Somerset Mall, the new Novi shopping center will feature high fashion and specialty shops.

Developers Holtzman and Silverman were granted a one year extension of the deadline by which they must obtain plat approval of their Meadowbrook Glens subdivision by a 4-2 vote of the Novi City Council Monday.

Originally, the deadline was November of 1968, but that deadline was extended until April of this year. Now, with the deadline once again about to fall due, Holtzman and Silverman asked for a second consultant, the council was told there were four primary reasons for the request:

Slow market growth in the area leaving three-fourths of the homes already constructed still unsold, discovery of soil conditions unsuitable for conventional residential construction; the possibility of availing themselves of the currently proposed cluster housing option; and the increased growth rate imminent because of the rapid extension of the freeway system through Novi.

Meadowbrook Glens subdivision is located between Ten Mile and Grand River and west of Meadowbrook Road. Currently Meadowbrook Glens Number One has been completed and the site plan approval of Meadowbrook Glens Number two is in Lansing waiting final approval.

The extension, which presumably could enable the developers to use the cluster housing concept, would apply only to the remaining undeveloped property in the proposed Holtzman-Silverman development.

Although the developers had asked for a two-year extension of the deadline, the council chopped the request in half and passed it only on the stipulation that the request for the extension be signed directly by the Holtzman-Silverman firm and not just by Shepherd, the consultant.

Still objections were raised by council members. Councilman Edwin Presnell objected to the extension on the grounds that the area for which it is being asked was not clearly defined. Councilman Denis Berry's objections were based on the fact that cluster housing option that Holtzman and Silverman were waiting for has not been approved and is only in the preliminary stages.

The one-year extension was granted by a 4-2 vote. Presnell and Berry cast the dissenting ballots.

In other business the council—authorized the city manager to obtain bids to purchase a power broom attachment to a tractor for the department of public works. The power broom, which would cost in the neighborhood of $1,400, would be used to clean city streets, explained DPW head Edward Kriewall.

—postponed a proposed transfer of $2,000 from the general fund to the parks and recreation department fund "I think there will be considerable discussion on this matter," said Councilman Raymond Evans, "and we should hold it over until we have sufficient time to discuss it thoroughly."

The item came up near the end of a crowded agenda.

If the transfer of funds is approved by the council, it would relieve the Parks and Recreation Commission's financial problems.

—granted the request of Capitol Contractors to begin construction of models and a clubhouse for its development between Grand River and 10 Mile Road, immediately west of the Old Orchard development.

—passed a resolution directing City Attorney Howard Bond to begin condemnation proceedings against Adell Industries for the attainment of easements for the construction of the Novi-Grand River sewer extension.

Adell Industries has balked on granting the easements even though they are, in the words of Athas, the "least obtrusive" of all the easements being sought —learned that Novi will be paired with the city of St. Joseph during the annual Michigan Week Mayoral Exchange program later this spring.

—was informed by City Planning consultant Vilcan Leman and Associates that Edward E. Vettel has been named to replace Robert Shaddock as Novi's individual planning consultant. Shaddock is no longer with Vilcan Leman, having left by mutual agreement.

—heard a letter from Edward Dobek of 44100 West 12 Mile Road, complaining about the existence of a nursery along the north side of the road. The matter was referred to the city manager and city attorney for their review

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Several observations could be made concerning the activity which took place over the week end in Northville.

Certainly the circulating of petitions to bring the city and township of Northville together under one government was an historic event.

And depending upon one's attitude towards the issue, it could be praised or condemned.

But from this viewpoint, one that has observed both city and township government operate through countless sessions that have been both boring and stormy, the action is welcome, almost overdue.

Regardless of the outcome, the action will bring about an educational program to inform the vast majority of citizens who have little idea of what happens in their city or township halls.

How can a citizen busy making a living, raising a family and trying to squeeze a little pleasure into life be expected to know much about his local government.

He's probably never attended a township board or city council meeting. He may try to follow their activities in his newspaper. He probably doesn't know what his city or township tax rate is; he may not be sure whether his board and council members are elected or appointed, whether there's a mayor or supervisor, whether they're part or fulltime employees, whether, in fact, he resides in the city or township.

The handful of citizens who took time from their personal activities to become involved in their government—the place at the grass-roots' level where their action can produce an immediate reaction—deserve to be commended.

Hopefully, what will follow will be a period of education for all of us. A time when we can assess the present and consider the future of our community.

At the present time the Northville-Plymouth League of Women Voters is nearing the conclusion of a long study of unification. They have gathered facts and figures from past studies, local governments and other sources which should provide a valuable source of information for all citizens to consider.

Several months remain before any real action will be taken on the annexation question, providing the petitions filed Monday in Lansing are valid.

Instead of splitting our community, the action taken last weekend should unite it by focusing attention on the important decisions and alternatives that face us now.

The population surge is no longer in Northville's future. It is now. And the problems this growth presents for local government need answers now.

These decisions should have broad citizen support because they will commit each citizen to a long-term obligation.

***

Probably the most surprising aspect of the two-day petition drive as reported by circulators was the almost unanimous reaction of citizens.

Contacted on a door-to-door basis in areas throughout the city and township, only about five of the more than 350 citizens contacted declined to sign a petition.

Circulators reported that most reacted enthusiastically with comments like...“it's about time”.

Many, of course, were concerned about taxes. And a number of the petitioners reported that they spent nearly an hour in some homes discussing the pros and cons of annexation with husbands and wives.

One enterprising circulator called all his neighbors together for a Sunday meeting, told the story just once, then signed them all up!

***

The announcement in Novi this week that a 400,000-square-foot regional shopping center will be constructed on 60-acres on the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty should raise some eyebrows in Northville township.

Just about a year ago plans were approved for a similar shopping mall right across the street (on the southwest corner in Northville township). Attorney James Littell represented this group, headed by Cunningham's Nate Shapero.

One of the arguments for the rezoning in Northville township was that a regional center was certain to be erected in the area in the future and that the tax base might as well be in Northville as across the road in Novi or Livonia.

The schedule for construction in Novi, which calls for ground-breaking next spring (1973), would appear to put it well ahead of the Northville township project.

any information on the proposed budget saying only that “we'll discuss it at the March 14 meeting”.

Mysteriously, or coincidentally, just minutes later Township Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg delivered the four-page preliminary budget to The Record office. He invited the press to attend Monday night's (March 6) budget work session so that it might obtain background information on the budget that comes up for approval March 21.

We attended the work session and will be there again Saturday morning when the board continues its efforts to reach settlement on 1972-73 expenditures.

Like a popular radio personality, we make Supervisor Stromberg our “winner of the day” for his decision to follow the same procedure that has been observed in the city for years—open budget work sessions.

Our “loser of the day”—Clerk Eleanor Hammond.

Speaking for Myself Abolish Cemeteries?

Terry R. Danol

Yes...

There are two reasons why I feel cemeteries should be abolished. The first is based on the too often “neglected” cemetery. It is not an uncommon sight to drive through the country and find a cemetery grown over with weeds, grave markers tumbling either from age or vandals, and the area strewn with discarded bottles and trash. The people originally charged with the “ad infinitum” care have long since gone, the descendants of the people scattered over the country, many of them unaware of the burial place of their ancestors. These cemeteries then become the responsibilities of the municipalities in which they are located and their maintenance and care become the responsibility of the taxpayers.

The second reason is cemeteries are too expensive. There are generally two accepted methods of disposing of the remains of a person when he dies; burial and cremation. Burial entails the purchase of a cemetery lot costing between $25 and $350. The fee for opening and closing the grave is between $75 and $200 and the cost of a casket can run between $300 and $3,000. More often than not, the family of the deceased is not in a position to make reasonable decisions at the time of death and these extras can increase an average funeral bill anywhere between $1,500.00 and $2,500.

The grave represents a physical place where family members may go to remember their loved ones, but as time goes by there are fewer and fewer visitors until eventually there are none.

In its place, I would suggest a community memorial, where families could go to honor and remember their dead. They can be properly maintained by the municipality and can be the symbol for remembering. They can be consecrated by the religious community and command the respect the deceased deserves.

Herbert Houghton
Brighton Resident

No...

Abolishing cemeteries is like abolishing religion—there are those that would like to do both. But, our culture and society is built on sentiment and love—and interment and memorialization are the final acts of the life cycle.

Cemeteries reflect the culture and sentiment of a community. Destined to survive all other works of mortal man, our cemeteries and memorials are decidedly the most permanent record we leave for posterity. Hence in honoring our dead we leave a heritage for the ages.

Cemeteries also provide an area where trees and grass are at work to change the poisons of pollution into oxygen for people to have air to breathe.

Cemeteries have special symbolic meaning and their historical value is brought to mind on holidays and at important ceremonial events. The Memorial Day parade ends at the cemetery with people paying homage to the dead.

Perhaps the most important values of the cemetery are the emotional and psychological experiences of people. Life is enriched by feelings, and important feelings are at work in the acting out of immediate grief and in its long range counterpart of traditional respect.

The statesman Gladstone put it this way, “Show me the manner in which a national or a community cares for its dead and I will measure with mathematical exactness the character of its people, Their respect for the laws of the land, and their loyalty to high ideals.”

Tip Hat in Passing Randolph Drain

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

One thing leads to another, so when Edmund Yerkes, a historical buff, reminded me that a gravestone once existed in Northville's Oakwood Cemetery describing a woman being killed by an icicle we did some investigating and found:

(1) The gravestone still exists and, yes, it contains this epitaph: “Met death from ice falling from the roof of a neighbor's house.”

(2) The woman was Mrs. George Rayson.

(3) The Raysons lived on what today is named Rayson Street, and

Rayson Home Still Stands

their home still stands.

(4) Mr. Rayson years ago operated a shoe repair shop on the site of what now is the Winner's Circle Bar and hotel.

According to an obituary appearing in the February 26, 1909 edition of The Record, Mrs. (Emma) Rayson was fatally injured when ice fell from a neighbor's porch—at the home of S. D. Messeraull—while she was making a “neighborly call on the sick.”

Loser of the Day

Keeping the public informed on how government spends, or plans to spend, taxpayer money is one of the important functions of a newspaper.

And any reporter worth his (or her) salt will tell you that the quickest way to arouse a reporter's ire is to try to withhold information that should be readily available to the public.

Last Thursday evening, for example, Trustee Leonard Klein offered The Record his copy of the township's preliminary budget, which is now under study by the board.

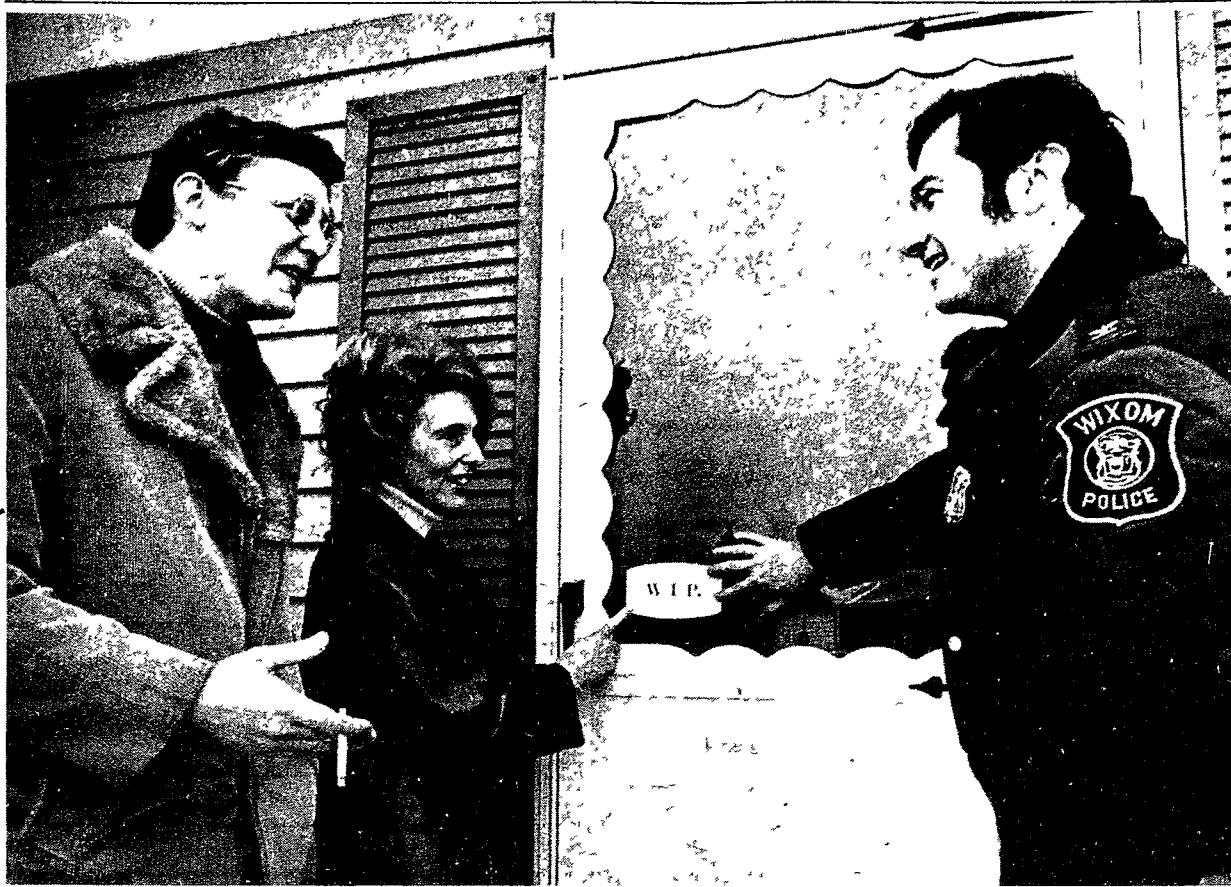

This budget had been prepared by Clerk Eleanor Hammond.

The offer was declined with the statement that the press would get its copy from the clerk on Friday so that Trustee Klein would not have to give up his copy.

But Friday Clerk Hammond reported that “we really don't have any figures, nothing definite”.

She declined to give the press

Green Suds Flows

By NANCY DINGELDEY

It may not be green eggs and ham but for sure there will be plenty of green "suds" at the VFW St. Pat's Day dance.

Shamrocks, leprechans and lots of pure Irish gaiety will be waiting for everyone on March 18 (that's close enough to the "real" day) at 9 p.m. Tickets are $6 a piece which includes all the food and drink you can hold.

Art Cronin, who will really be in his glory, has gotten the power to baptize everyone Irish for the night. Surely now, it will be a great meeting of all the O'Malley's, O'Sullivan's, O'Shaunessy's. One more chorus... "When Irish eyes are smiling!"

Whatever you wear, make sure it's green! The VFW is located on the hill overlooking Loon Lake Road and all those cute little elves with whiskers and big green hats will help you park your car.

How to beat the doldrums? Have a luncheon but invite people you've never really had the chance to become acquainted with.

The "brainstorm" of Sylvia Vangieson and Bev Paisley was really a huge success. Held last Thursday at the Paisley home, the luncheon was simply scrumptious and all prepared by several "willing hands".

Those who never had the opportunity to meet the two vivacious ladies were surprised to receive invitations. The usual remark was "but I don't even know them"... or "what's the hitch?" There wasn't one. People from all sections of town were invited...old residents and new—but it was made sure that at least everyone invited was known by one of the "willing hands".

Just a few of those attending were Candy Gagnon, Margaret Ladd and Mary Jo Narragon of Ross Homes, Carol Ballmer and Mary Pastula of Glengary Road, and Lois Green of Beck Road. Among the more "known" personalities of Wixom were Lillian Spencer, Carolyn Morehead, Marie Walsh, Pearl Willis and Mary Parvu.

A going-away party for Tom Tuck, with many relatives and friends wishing him well, was held by his parents, Shirley and Bill Tuck of Grouse Road. Tom enlisted in the Air Force for a four-year tour. His family saw him off from Metro last Thursday on his way to basic training at Lackland AFB in San Antonio, Texas. After that he will report to Biloxi, Mississippi for ground radio repair school.

And another going-away get-together was held for Kathy Thompson of Hopkins Drive. Hostess for the morning coffee was Candy Gagnon with 16 of Kathy's neighbors and friends on hand to wish her well. They presented her with a floor length robe and nightie set as a remembrance. Kathy and Art and their children will be moving shortly to East Jordan, Michigan. Another friendly face we will miss.

Informal theatre workshops are being held in Room E-105 at Western every Wednesday night beginning at 7:30. So comes the word from the Inter-Lakes Masquers—Walled Lake Community Theatre Workshop group. Included in the workshops will be improvisations, pantomime, backstage and onstage techniques plus a reorganization of the prop room.

A pre-tryout reading of a new script also will take place during the workshops, with actual tryouts to be announced later this month.

The director of the new play will be chosen from the membership.

The theatre group, which originally was an outgrowth of the Wixom Centennial Players, has grown from a membership of five to nearly 50, some coming from as far away as Pontiac and Detroit to participate Another theatre group hard at work with rehearsals is Western's Performing Arts Department. It is getting ready for the three-night staging of the musical, "Oklahoma". Dates are March 23, 24 and 25.

Complete with full orchestra, costuming and staging, the kids put on a tremendous program. They need your support and it promises to be a good family night of entertainment.

Ross Homes Subdivision, sometimes known as "Northridge" or "Palmer Lakes Estates" is next in line for the W.I.P. canvassers this Saturday, May 11. Have the items you wish to identify in mind so that when the engraver comes to your house you'll be ready for it. The program is designed for your own protection, so why not use it would appear in another section of the large Village Oaks development.

Both City Manager George Athas and Mayor Joseph Crupi objected to the plan. Crupi asserted that the parks should appear in the area and be available to the residents from whom the land was taken in the first place.

Athas, speaking along the same lines, said that each individual portion of Village Oaks was platted and existed as an individual subdivision. "Each park gained by reducing lot width is going to have to be in the particular subdivision from which the land was taken, he said.

The three representatives from Village Oaks also objected to the delay in creation of the open spaces. "I was sold a well-rounded park-filled community back in December of 1969," stated Michael McBride. "At this point, the people in the Common Areas Association have no idea about when and where these open lands are going to be. I don't think K&B should be granted any further plat approval until they spell out definite plans for these parks."

Ronald Jackson, president of the Village Oaks Common Areas Council, continued the charges. "We now have three areas of Village Oaks completed and we still have no parks. When the development is finished there will be close to 2,400 people using the club house, which is a part of the common space agreement. But that clubhouse can only hold 125 people. What is going to happen is people are going to come to the clubhouse to use the pool and then won't be able to get in because of the overcrowded conditions. When you sell people a pool they can't use, what it amounts to is fraud."

Action on the request for site plan approval was postponed by the council until their March 20 session

Born in London, England in October, 1843, she came to Michigan on July 10, 1865 where, on the day of her arrival, she married George Rayson. They eventually moved to Northville from Detroit. They had one child, a son, who died at the age of 10 months.

Unfortunately, the Rayson monument does not include the date of Mr. Rayson's death.

Speaking then with oldtimers, I learned:

1. Mr. Rayson probably died in the 1920's.

2. He was a robust, extremely jovial man, who operated his shop next door to an ice cream parlor and just a couple doors east of the old village hall (now Councilman Paul Folino's insurance office).

3. Rayson Street was changed from Yerkes (there already being another Yerkes street in town) in his honor.

Checking records of this newspaper from the 1920's we learned that Mr. Rayson died in August, 1923 at the age of 83. His obituary noted that he was "a kindly man, a good neighbor, an exemplary citizen."

Three years before his death, a Record article noted that on St. Valentine's Day Mr. Rayson celebrated his 80th birthday.

A resident of Northville for more than a half-century he was born in Suffolk England on February 14, 1840. At the age of 17 he left England for Canada and then moved to Detroit, taking up his trade of a shoemaker.

Following the Civil War, he moved to Northville where he became the first settler in what then was known as the "Northside in the vicinity of the Dixon greenhouse." He eventually purchased much of the property on what now is Rayson and adjacent streets.

"He had a great field of cabbage," the 1920 article noted, "and that section of the village was named Cabbage Town as a result."

It continued: "He served as village trustee for a number of years and was a member of the council when the culvert was constructed across North Center Street (it still exists, underground, near Northville Laundry, carrying Randolph Street water into the Rouge stream at Hutton). It is said that Mr. Rayson has arranged with the Northville band to play at his funeral and it has been agreed that when the procession makes its journey to the silent city the cortege will be halted at the bridge and a selection rendered."

Unfortunately, the obituary three years later doesn't indicate if this final tribute was paid.

But maybe when the Randolph Drain improvement project, now under consideration by Northville and Novi, gets started, and workmen get to the Center Street crossing someone might remember to tip his hat.

stalled on the question of lot sizes for three and four bedroom duplexes. The council felt the plan submitted for approval Monday did not meet minimum standards set out in the city ordinance and referred the matter to the city attorney, city manager, and planning board for their review.

K&B's request for preliminary plat approval for Fairfields Farms was not acted on because residents of Willowbrook Drive had not been notified that the matter was to appear before council. Members of the Willowbrook Homeowners Association had previously been told they would be contacted before the hearing as the zoning affected the property immediately adjacent to their subdivision.

The Buffmeyer parcel is in the northern part of Novi in the area of 14 Mile and West Roads. K&B has 109 acres of which they are proposing to develop 85. If plans are approved, they will construct 188 two-family attached dwelling units—a total of 376 units.

Safety—both for vehicular and pedestrian traffic—was given as the chief reason for the actions.

Tall South Lyon Five Tops Novi Once Again

When South Lyon's commencement exercises began this spring, don't be surprised if Novi basketball coach Milan Obrenovich is seated right there in the front row, happily tapping his toe to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance."

Graduating from the Lions' basketball team this year are two players who have provided Obrenovich with one Excedrin headache after another this year — 6'5" forward Jim McIntosh and 6'8" center Mike Murr.

The two South Lyon seniors were instrumental in knocking Obrenovich and his Novi cagers out of the state district basketball tournament last Thursday, as they led their squad to a convincing 76-63 victory.

The problem is that the Novi center, Bob Pisha, is a mere 6'3" tall and no Novi forward stands higher than 6'1" and the Wildcats just aren't able to compete with the two towering Lion stars.

"If we could have limited them to just one shot offensively, I think we could have beaten them," said

Obrenovich after the game. "But they were getting three and four shots at the basket. I'm not saying we couldn't have done a better job of boxing them off the boards, but even when we did, Muir or McIntosh would just reach over and get the rebound anyway."

Graduation may be the only way Novi can hope to beat the Lions — they've tried everything else. "I played fast break against them and got slaughtered," said the Novi coach. "And I've tried to play ball control against them and they've still beaten me."

But in spite of the two regular season losses suffered by the Novi cagers to the South Lyon quintet, Obrenovich still held out hope for his squad in the district play-offs.

The plan was to play a slow-down control offense, taking only the high percentage shots, and to alter the defensive patterns, switching from man-to-man to various types of zone defenses.

It didn't do any good. In the first place the Wildcats had trouble with the Lions 3-2 zone defense, which put Muir and McIntosh under the bucket and Tony Kern (5'10"), Ed Segars (6'2"), and Tom Hanson (6'1") in the backcourt.

Instead of being able to get the high percentage shot, the Wildcats fired away at long range, relying on 20 and 30 foot jumpers for their offensive impetus.

"I'm sure we could have driven against their zone," commented Obrenovich, "but we didn't try it until late in the ballgame after they already had a big lead."

Novi stayed with the Lions only as long as they were making their long range shots, which was approximately the first four minutes of the game. But then their accuracy tailed off and the Lions went from a tie into a 20-12 first quarter lead.

"We were playing a 1-3-1 zone in the first quarter," said the Novi coach, "and they did well against it. We played a 2-1-2 zone in the second quarter and they only outscored us by two points. We went man-to-man in the second half and I think that was the best for us. We outscored them by one point in the third quarter."

The Wildcats also treated the Lions to a full-court press in the second quarter, and at one point had whittled the lead down to a mere four points. But then the South Lyon squad surged back to take a 10 point, 38-28, halftime lead as Tony Kern hit on a 25 foot jump shot as the buzzer sounded.

With their man-to-man third quarter defensive tactics and the scoring contributions of junior guard Steve Lukkari, Novi cut five points at 49-44 with 30 seconds left in the third stanza. But the Lions' Ed Segars and Jim McIntosh tossed in final second buckets to push the lead back up to a comfortable nine points, 53-44, as the fourth quarter began.

Novi never got closer than eight points after that and the game ended with the Lions on top, 76-63.

Novi had five scorers hit in double figures. Lukkari, who netted four field goals in the third quarter surge, finished the night with 16 points. Jim VanWagner and John Pantalone each tossed in 12 points apiece, while Bob Pisha and Gene Spencer netted 10 each.

Unfortunately, South Lyon also had all five starters score in double figures. McIntosh topped all scorers with 26 points — 15 of them in the decisive first quarter.

Class B Championship

Tankers Eye State

The long season is almost over. Only one meet looms ahead and then Ben Lauber and the members of his Northville High School swim team will be able to relax.

The one last meet, the lone remaining obstacle in front of Lauber and his swimmers is the state Class B championships this weekend at Michigan State University.

No Northville team in any sport has ever taken a state championship before and now the Mustang swimming team is given a good chance at being the first.

Some, in fact, would cast the Mustangs in the role of favorite. The coach of the Milan team, for example, has stated that Northville is definitely the team to beat for the championship, but Lauber is quick to reject the role of favorite and the allegations of the Milan coach.

"He's favored and he knows he's favored," insists Lauber. "It's going to be really hard to knock him out of there."

Actually, most observers of the Class B swimming scene view the state meet as a tooth and nail battle between four teams — Northville, Milan, Dearborn Heights Riverside, and Erie-Mason.

A comparison of their dual meets during the season would seem to establish Northville as the favorite. The Mustangs handed the Milan squad a 55-50 defeat in a dual meet, and then the Big Red from Milan upended Riverside 67-38 a few weeks later.

Dual meet comparisons mean little when it comes to trying to determine a pattern for the multi-team state meet, however, especially when the dual meet was as close as the Northville-Milan affair.

"The state meet is an entirely different teams chewing up the places. In a dual meet team depth is all-important, but in the state meet a lot depends on your front runners and Milan probably has an edge on us in that category.

The chances of Erie-Mason and Riverside rest primarily on the strength of their front-runners.

Riverview has finished second in the state for the last three years in a row and, needless to say, they'd like to move up into the top spot.

Heading Riverview is Fred Jaskowski, a senior butterflyer who is almost a shoo-in to win two state championships. He has won the state crown in both the 50 and 100 yard butterfly events for the past two years.

Erie-Mason is another team which will depend more on individual strength than team depth.

Ken Knab heads up the Erie-Mason contingent, which could potentially win three different state championships. Knab is far and away the best breaststroker in the state, and like Jaskowski in the butterfly, there just doesn't seem to be anyone around who can beat him.

Knab also swims a leg on the Erie-Mason medley relay team, which returns intact as defending state champion.

The third event in which the southern Michigan school could cop a championship is in the diving where Chuck Meki is top-rated and other diver is a good candidate to place high.

But while Erie-Mason and Riverside will depend heavily on individual stars and Northville will depend more on its depth, Milan is given the favorite's nod because they combine both depth and stellar individual performers.

No name looms larger in Milan's chances than that of freestyler Scott Porter. "He could be the difference," asserts Lauber. "He's a potential champion in two different events, and actually, he could probably win three or four events if the rules didn't limit every swimmer to competing in just two. He could go in the 200 freestyle or the 400 yard freestyle and either the 100 yard freestyle or the 400 yard freestyle. We're sort of expecting they'll put him in the 100 freestyle and the 200 yard individual medley."

Where does this leave Northville?

"We're going to have to depend on our depth," says Lauber. "We're just beginning to reach the point in our program where we're developing some top-runners and we can't compete with these other schools in that category."

If Northville is favored in any particular event it would have to be the 400 yard freestyle relay—the very last event on the program. And strangely, the Mustangs will not be entering the team they expected to enter in that event at the start of the season.

Last year, the team of Joe Boland, Bill Witek, David Wright, and Bill Maguire finished third in the state meet after posting the fastest time in the preliminaries. This year, however, even though only Wright graduated off last year's squad, Lauber will be entering an entirely different quartet in the event and still hopes to come home with the first place trophy.

Jeff Pitak, Dennis McLaughlin, John Pacific, and Kevin Kelly will carry the Northville standard into the freestyle relay and if each no more than equals his best previous time, the Mustangs will post a 3:33.6. The state championship time last year was 3:37.2.

And in case you're wondering where the other three members of last year third-place freestyle relay team have gone, check out the Mustang's 200 yard medley relay team. Lauber will enter backstroker Jeff Kappler, breaststroker Art Greenlee, butterflyer Joe Boland, and freestyler Bill Maguire in the event in an obvious challenge to depose the Erie-Mason quartet.

If any Northville swimmer has a chance at an individual championship it would have to be junior Bill Witek. Lauber has entered Witek in both the 200 yard individual medley and the 100 yard freestyle, where he will in all probability run into Milan's Porter.

Ironically, Witek has already scored a victory over Porter, as he surprised the Milan star in the 100 yard freestyle event in their dual meet.

Other events in which Lauber feels he can expect points are the diving in which sophomore Tom Cook could finish well, although a championship seems a remote possibility and in the backstroke where either Jeff Kappler, Gary Putrow, or Mark Haynie could add points.

In all, 17 Northville swimmers will be entered in 11 events. They are Don Cook, Bill Witek, Kevin Kelly, Joe Boland, Jeff Kappler, Bill Maguire, Art Greenlee, John Pacific, Dennis McLaughlin, Jeff Pitak, Jay Ivey, Pete Bedford, Gary Putrow, Mark Haynie, Brad Phillips, Tom Cook, and Bill Bretz. Three alternates—Bill Bloomhuff, Jurgen Helmus, and Guy Dixon—will also attend. Preliminaries begin Friday at 4 p.m. in the Michigan State pool at East Lansing. The finals are slated for Saturday, beginning at 2 p.m.

COMING UP FOR AIR — Northville's Art Greenlee comes up for a deep breath of air en route to a second place finish in the 100 yard breaststroke at the Western Six Conference championships last week. The freshman star will play a key role in the Mustangs drive to win the state Class B title.

Plan Round-up

Wixom youngsters wishing to participate in the Walled Lake little league basketball program are urged to attend the annual little league round-up Friday, March 10, at 7 p.m. in the Walled Lake Junior High School auditorium.

Boys aged 7-15 are eligible to attend the round-up. A film prepared by the Detroit Tigers will be shown and such door prizes as a basketball glove, baseballs, and an aluminum bat will be given away.

Among innovations in the Walled Lake summer little league program this year are a new league for 7-8 year olds called the PeeWee division and a rule change which requires each boy to play a portion of each game.

Managers and coaches are still desperately needed. Anyone interested in helping should contact either Jim O'Connell at 363-5549 or Art Thompson at 624-2618.

Play in the Inkster-Suburban Hockey League is over, but Northville's four hockey teams still face a crowded schedule.

What's more, the Northville Pacers are faring well in those contests. In the nine games played last week, Northville won all but one of them, and even that lone loss was a heartbreaker, coming by a 2-1 score.

The loss was suffered by the John Mach Ford-sponsored Bantam team (ages 13-14), who fell to Redford. It was the fourth consecutive time the Bantams had lost by a single goal. Greg Thomas netted the only Northville score.

The Bantams joined the other Northville squads in the victory column in their game with Lincoln Park, as they took a sound 7-0 triumph. Mark Davison picked up the three-goal hat trick, while Mark Gemler, Steve Shutt, Phil Jackson, and Greg Mack scored single goals.

Although none of the other Northville teams lost, none had more fun than the PeeWees (ages 11-12), who twice whopped league-champion Plymouth.

Kevin Stelmach scored four times and Dave Beall, Bob Michael, Rudy Horst, and Andy Gellner scored once each to give the PeeWees an 8-1 triumph over the Plymouth skaters. Kurt Stevens tallied twice, Beall and Stelmach once apiece to give Northville a 4-1 victory.

In a third game, the PeeWees topped Inkster 3-1, as Rudy Horst, Bill Houck, and Ken Stelmach netted the scores. Ken Stelmach, who was brought up from the younger Squirts team for the game, was assisted on his goal by brother Kevin.

The goal by the younger Stelmach was his sixth of the week, as he also blistered the nets while playing with the Squirts and leading them to three consecutive triumphs.

In a game with Dearborn Heights to determine the championship of the Squirts division play-offs of the Inkster League, Northville took an 11-2 victory. Tod Mack had the hat trick to pace the winners. Rod Michael and Jerry Sherwood tallied twice in the game, while Stelmach, Richard Pattison, Tom Allen, and Doug Horst added single goals.

The Northville team also notched two other victories—a 2-1 decision over Ann Arbor and a 7-0 trouncing of Fraser. Jerry Sherwood and Ken Stelmach scored the goals in the game with Ann Arbor. And it was Stelmach again who paced the scoring in the Fraser game as he picked up the hat trick. Jerry Sherwood, Tod Mack, Tom Allen and Roger Pattison each scored once in the contest to account for the remainder of the Northville points.

The Midgets also enjoyed a successful week. Sponsored by the Thunderbird Inn, the 15-16 year old Midget team took triumphs in games with Dearborn Heights and Redford.

Rick Buttery, Frank Knoth, and Mark Richie divided the goal scoring honors in a 3-1 victory over Dearborn Heights. John Juszczuk sparked Northville in the Redford game, as the winger scored four times. Knoth tossed in the other goal for the victors.

Terry Auten had only one match last week and he lost it, but nevertheless the Novi heavyweight grappler has been selected Wildcat of the Week. # Trojan Star Unhorses Mustangs in Districts Frustrated. That's about the best way to describe Northville's varsity basketball team this week following Wednesday's last-minute, 77-75 loss to Clarenceville.

The Trojans, however, got their come-uppance Saturday as tournament host South Lyon rolled to a 66-61 victory to claim the district championship and a crack at the regional crown.

Loser to Clarenceville in an over-time contest earlier this past season, the Mustangs spotted the Trojans 11 points and then banged away at the net until by midway in the final quarter they had built themselves a seven-point lead.

But in those final minutes, Clarenceville turned the tables on the Mustangs as it had done earlier in the season and pulled out a thriller.

The Trojans snatched a thin one-point lead with 52 seconds to go and then clung to their edge as the two sides battled right down to the buzzer.

Clarenceville rode to victory on the shooting arm of its super-star, Chip Meyrelles, who rolled up a sizzling 41 points—more than half of his team's total output.

Firing most of his shots from 15 or more feet out, the all-star forward turned in all 17 of Clarenceville's first quarter points, added nine points in the second stanza, five in the third, and 10 in the fourth.

Northville tossed a man-to-man defense at Clarenceville in the opening quarter in hopes of stopping Meyrelles, but the maneuver failed and the Mustangs came back with a zone defense in the second quarter.

By the half, Captain Todd Hannert had picked up four fouls in pressing Meyrelles too closely.

While Meyrelles cooled

somewhat after his big first quarter, the threat was always there and Northville couldn't afford to ignore him as other Clarenceville players took up the slack in the final quarter.

"The big thing about this Meyrelles kid," commented another coach during the game, "is that he doesn't quit shooting even if he misses several shots in a row. Sooner or later he catches fire again."

Novi Coach Milan Obrenovich, whose squad lost to South Lyon the following night, was impressed by Northville's showing despite its loss. "I'm amazed how much they've improved since the beginning of the season," he said. "They just never seem to give up, even when they're down as they were here by 11 points. They're just an aggressive team."

Northville had a 16-15 point lead in the first quarter when Meyrelles meshed two free throws to close out the scoring and give his squad the lead, 17-16.

In the second period, Northville again lost the edge in the final seconds as Meyrelles pumped in a two-pointer at the buzzer, giving the Trojans a 38-37 lead.

It was during that second quarter that Northville found itself down by 11 points, and fans began to wonder if it was all over. The score was 33-22 mid-way through the period. Then Northville fired 14 points to Clarenceville's three to tie it up 36-36. Another free throw gave the Mustangs a single point lead before Meyrelles hit his field goal.

The two squads traded the lead several times in the third quarter before Northville finished the frame still down by one, 56-55.

The two squads traded the lead several times before Northville moved out front by seven points. Then three straight fieldgoals, two of them by Meyrelles, cut the lead to one.

"They threw a 2-2-1 zone at us," said Coach Walt Koepke. "We got rattled that's all. We knew they had it and we'd practiced for it but we got rattled and that was the turning point."

Meyrelles drilled a two-pointer with 52 seconds to go to put the Trojans in front, 72-71, and two free throws by the forward beefed up that lead, 74-71.

Northville chopped Clarenceville's lead to one point, 74-73, with a fieldgoal by Bill Andrews, and at this point a traveling error was called on the Trojans giving the Mustangs ball possession with 27 seconds to go.

Andrews drove in for a layup that missed, and Clarenceville picked up a charity shot by Phil Halstead.

He missed a second free throw shot, but Paul Simons rebounded for a two-pointer. Jeff Moon sank a fieldgoal in the final seconds but by then it was all over.

"Our major problem," said Koepke, "was that Meyrelles was unbelievably hot. We thought we could contain him with man-to-man because we had done it the first time we played them."

"Todd Hannert was doing the job but he got into early foul trouble so we tried the zone awhile—and that was a shooter's delight so we went back to a man-to-man."

While Meyrelles was producing his 41 points, Simons took runner-up scoring laurels for Clarenceville with 16 points.

Northville's Andrews led his squad with 23 points, followed by 22 from Moon, and 18 by Scott Evans.

Northville Swimmers Win Conference Title

It was a week of milestones for the Northville High School swimming team. First of all, they capped off their second consecutive undefeated season by walloping Farmington 78-27 and then they reached one of the two primary goals set by Coach Ben Lauber at the start of the season by stroking their way to a decisive victory in the first annual Western Six Conference league championships.

And although both milestones were important ones, neither came as a particular surprise. The victory over Farmington was expected and merely made official the team's undefeated dual meet season. The real work in achieving the undefeated season number two came in the midst of the year, as Northville was topping swim powers Milan and Farmington Harrison.

The league championship came as no real surprise either. In fact, only a week ago Lauber had abandoned his usually conservative policy about predicting outcomes of upcoming meets and stated that he thought his swimmers would take the championship.

He was right. And, they did it in convincing fashion, too. The Mustangs picked up 119 points, Farmington Harrison was second with 89, and Livonia Churchill was third with 53 points.

As usual, it was the depth of the Northville team which produced the victory. In the nine individual events, Harrison took five championships, while the Mustangs took three firsts and Churchill won once.

But when the points from the two relay events, both of which were taken by Northville, and the second-third-fourth-fifth and sixth-place finishes were figured into the final total, the Mustangs were far ahead of the other two schools.

As expected Northville's primary threat came from Harrison and, for awhile, it was a quite a close meet.

The 200 yard medley relay team of Jeff Kappler, Art Greenlee, Gary Putrow, and Dennis McLaughlin got the Mustangs off to a 14-10 lead over the Farmington school by opening the meet with the first of Northville's two relay victories.

But Harrison came right back in the 200 yard freestyle, as Greg Arnoldy finished first and two others grabbed fifth and sixth, to move to within two points of the Mustangs. Joe Boland finished second in the event, recording a fine 1:58.4 clocking to regain the team record he lost to teammate Bill Witek in the Farmington dual meet.

Harrison actually took the lead away from Lauber's tankers after the next event—the 200 yard individual medley. Of all the events in the meet, the individual medley was perhaps the toughest, as each school entered its finest swimmer.

Northville's Witek finished third and Ken Dove of Churchill finished second, but the victory went to Harrison's Mike Rado, one of the state's truly outstanding swimmers and a two-time state champion.

Rado's triumph enabled the Hawks to take a momentary 30-29 lead, but that lead vanished quickly as the Mustangs came back strong in the very next event—the 50 yard freestyle.

John Pacific won the event with a 24.0 timing that tied his own previous team record. But right behind Pacific came Bill Maguire in second place and Pete Bedford in fourth as the Mustangs outscored Harrison 15-5 in the event to forge back into the lead, 44-35.

Harrison's last threat to stay with the Northville team came in the diving as they copped both first and second to outscore the Mustangs 12-9 as Tom Cook, Brad Phillips, and Glyn Simmons finished third, fourth, and fifth respectively.

Harrison trailed by a mere six points at that point, but then the Northville depth and power took over.

Joe Boland won the next event, the 100 yard butterfly, and Bill Bretz and Kevin Kelly came in second and fourth to give the Mustangs a 68-50 lead.

The meet was over. Bill Witek added the third Northville individual championship in the 100 yard freestyle and teammates John Pacific and Jeff Pitak finished third and fourth to extend the lead even further.

Harrison's two outstanding stars—Greg Arnoldy and Mike Rado—then became the meet's only double winners as Arnoldy won the 400 yard freestyle and Rado took the 100 yard backstroke, but even then Harrison could not manage to gain even a single point on Northville.

No where was the Mustang's depth better demonstrated than in the 400 yard backstroke. Rado won the event and Churchill finished second, but then Jeff Kappler, Gary Putrow, Mark Haynie, and Frank Jones steamed across the line in third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places to again score more points than Harrison.

Art Greenlee, Jay Ivey, and Bob Bloomhuff took second, fourth, and sixth in the 100 yard breaststroke, and then the 400 yard freestyle relay team of Jeff Pitak, Dennis McLaughlin, Pete Bedford and Bill Maguire bought the meet to a successful close by taking their event with a fine 3:37.5 clocking.

200 Yard Freestyle: Arnoldy, H. 1:57.7, Boland, N. Turner, C. Don Cook, N. Dolan, H. Dudash, H. (Boland's time of 1:58.4 sets new Northville team record, breaking the old mark of 1:58.6 held by Bill Witek).

BUT YOU SAID I COULD LEAD—Northville's Scott Evans (55) and Bill Andrews (15) almost seem to be dancing as they collide during action in the Mustangs heartbreaking loss to Clarenceville last week in the district tournament. The Trojan's Chip Meyrelles (22), right behind Andrews, was the main source of trouble for Northville. He scored 41 points.

Andrews Selected

Bill Andrews, Northville's outstanding backcourt man, has been named to a first team berth on the Western Six Conference All-Star basketball team selected last week by the league's coaches.

Andrews, a unanimous choice, was the only Northville player named to either the first or second team.

Joining Andrews on the first team were Farmington Harrison's forward-guard Jim Mason, Waterford Mott forward Russ Porritt, and forward Mike Keller and guard Roy Hennrikson from conference-champion Livonia Churchill.

Selected to the second team were Mike Grace and Mark Lawrence from Mott, guard Jim Evans from Walled Lake Western, guard Bruce Van Wagoner from Churchill, and 6'7" junior center Jeff Sietoff from Harrison.

A 5'10" senior guard, Andrews becomes the first Northville player to be tabbed for Western Six Conference game honors, as this is the Mustangs' first year in the new league.

In many respects, the development of Andrews into an all-conference performer parallels the development of the Northville team. During the early part of the season Andrews was no more than an average guard. But as the season progressed, so did Andrews under the tutelage of Northville Coach Walt Koepke until, at the end of the season, he was virtually a cinch for conference recognition.

Over the last five games of the regular season, Andrews tossed in 107 points, an average of slightly better than 21 points per game.

Mustanger

Mustang of the Week is Joe Boland, who paced his teammates to the Western Six Conference swimming championship by winning the 100 yard butterfly and taking second in the 200 yard freestyle. Captain of the Northville squad, Boland posted the best times of his career in both events and set a new school record in the 200 yard freestyle.

Register

Registration for all Novi boys who are interested in participating in the Novi Little League program will be conducted next week Wednesday (March 15).

According to Fred Buck, boys ages 8 to 12 may register on that date, beginning at 8 p.m. in the Novi High School Commons, Taft Road at 11 Mile Road, at 11 p.m. sharp.

Buck also announced that boys over age 13 and adults who are interested in becoming little league umpires may participate in an umpire school to begin tonight (Thursday) at Harrison High School in Farmington, on 12 Mile Road, at 7 p.m. sharp.

Grapplers Lose

Novi's Terry Auten and Northville's Bill Norton both suffered first round losses and were eliminated from the Michigan Class B wrestling championships held at Alma High School last Friday.

By virtue of fourth place finishes in the Fenton regionals, both grapplers had their work cut out for them right from the start, as they found themselves pitted against a first place winner from a different regional.

Auten, Novi's outstanding heavyweight and perhaps the best wrestler in the history of the sport at Novi High School, dropped a 5-1 decision to Buchanan's Joe Poorman.

Frosh Tankers Finish Second

Seven times in seven meets Northville's fine freshman swimming team had taken convincing victories, but last week their undefeated streak came to an end and it couldn't have happened at a worse time.

The Northville tankers were competing with seven other teams for the league championship and although they finished a highly creditable second, not winning the title was made all the more unsettling because they had beaten the team that did win the crown, Plymouth, in a dual meet earlier in the season.

"We beat them 61-43 when we swam against them," reported Northville Coach John Edwards, "and I think we'd probably beat them again if we had another dual meet. But in the league meet they just had a bigger team—they had too many bodies. We had a lot of first places, but they picked up a lot of points with thirds, fourths, and fifths in the individual events and they won both relays."

The relay victories alone accounted for 28 of Plymouth's winning 88 point total. Northville had 72 points.

"We knew we had to beat them in the relays," reported Edwards. "We thought Belleville North could take them in the medley relay and we thought we could knock them off in the freestyle relay, but they managed to win them both anyway."

The Mustangs' strength came in the nine individual events sandwiched between the two relays, as they won four first places.

Bob Clemens paced the Northville swimmers, winning two different events—the 200 yard freestyle with a time of 2:13.5 and the 400 yard freestyle with a time of 4:59.3.

The two other Mustang champions were Art Greenlee, who won the 200 yard individual medley in 2:27.0, and Bob Bloomhuff, who won the 100 yard breaststroke with a time of 1:14.4.

Second places were wrapped up by Bob Davis, who follows Clemens across the line in the 400 yard freestyle, and the 400 yard freestyle relay team of Mark Leleck, Steve Lovett, Jeff Guider, and Steve Luckett.

Thirds were earned by Davis in the 200 yard freestyle, Leleck in the 50 yard freestyle, and Bloomhuff in the 200 yard individual medley.

Ken Kohs, Ken Weiser, and the 200 yard medley relay team of Matt Stopper, Gene Lawler, Weiser, and Dave Harrison took fourth places.

Steve Luckett in the 100 yard freestyle and Stopper in the 100 yard back stroke grabbed fifth place points.

pound co-captain, was pinned by Otsego's Rick Ownrick in the closing seconds of the third period. At the time of the pin Ownrick held a narrow 3-2 lead.

After wrestling to a scoreless first period, Ownrick won the coin flip, chose the down position, and promptly reversed Norton for a 2-0 lead.

The Northville star then knotted the score by registering a reversal of his own, only to see the Otsego man move ahead 3-2 with an escape.

Midway through the final period, Ownrick got Norton in a double chicken wing and maneuvered him onto his back for the pin.

Neither Ownrick or Poorman got beyond the second round.

Nevertheless, Auten had good reason to be unhappy. Thanks to a good draw and the fact that another wrestler suddenly, unexpectedly, dropped from the tourney, Saline's Kevin Drake finished up in fourth place in the state.

Auten had wrestled Drake twice during the season, and pinned him both times.

Auten graduates this spring, but Norton is only a junior and will return next year to head up the Northville wrestling team.

Holdsworth—Future Star

Fred Holdsworth, a 1970 graduate of Northville High School, is currently in Lakeland, Florida, trying to win a spot on the Detroit Tiger baseball team.

At 20 years, Holdsworth is the youngest player in the Detroit camp, but is highly regarded by the Tiger brass and is already being touted as a star of the future.

Fred is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holdsworth. His father is the Principal at Northville High School.

Plans Approved For Development

Both the site plan and the architectural design of the proposed Northville Square development in downtown Northville were approved by split votes of the planning commission Tuesday night.

Construction is scheduled to begin this spring with the opening slated for the summer of next year.

Three commissioners—Charles Freydl, Francis Gazlay, and Wallace Nichols—voted against the architectural design, while Gazlay cast the lone dissenting vote on the site plan. Voting for both were: Chairman Thomas Wheaton, Ray Jackson, Bruce Turnbull, and J. B. DeRusha.

Nichols, a former councilman, led the opposition against the architectural design on grounds that the architect had failed to incorporate sufficient colonial design in the building to satisfy officials and the community.

Commissioners reported they had been swamped with telephone calls urging a colonial motif. However, Commissioner Jackson, who was one of those receiving calls, noted that he had encouraged these people to be present for the meeting but that none of them "took the time to come here tonight."

"I think the (present design) can be softened," declared Nichols, "to be more attractive to the people in the community... after all, these people will be using the center. It's to your (developer) own advantage."

Freydl and Gazlay suggested modification of the design to make it provincial and more in keeping with the general character of the community.

Gazlay suggested, too, that some exterior cover for pedestrians be provided.

Developer Richard McManus emphasized that, in his opinion, a colonial colored brick (dark red), wood paneling around the windows, and the coach lanterns along the exterior promenade will lend themselves to the colonial effect desired by the people.

He and his architect cited high maintenance costs as a major problem with purely colonial design.

While the present design does not call for a dark brick but rather a light one like that used in the city hall and post office buildings, McManus said he would leave the decision of brick color to the planners as suggested by Gazlay.

"We want to please the people," said McManus, "but it is impossible to please all of them with a single identity... I am confident it (design) will not be as harsh (as the sketch carried earlier in The Record)."

When McManus offered to change the color of the brick to please the commission, Nichols appeared somewhat satisfied but he continued to urge that the roof lines be softened.

Noting that several different designs have been presented to the commission over the past year, Wheaton argued that the latest design had already been agreed to in principle by planners. "We owe it to the developer to stop stalling and get on with it," he declared.

Wheaton reiterated an earlier contention that "everybody who moves to Northville wants to be the last person here," that they would prefer that no changes be made at all.

Turnbull, who reminded fellow commissioners that he is a native of Northville, said he found the design pleasing and in keeping with the community.

Big hangup with the site plan was over a service drive off Main Street. Gazlay and others warned that such a drive could create traffic problems with trucks backing in off Main Street.

However, when the matter came to a vote, and Jackson offered a motion prefaced by the remark that the city has methods of dealing with traffic problems should they come up, all but Gazlay voted for the site plan.

Basic to objections to the service drive were long-range plans for making a mall in the center of the downtown section and blocking off Main Street to vehicular traffic.

When this happens, Gazlay and others explained, the service drive could present a problem.

The developer took the position that if a problem does arise, the city could simply prohibit him from using the drive. A single service drive also is planned in the rear of the development, off Cady Street.

In other action Monday, the commission voted to recommend rezoning from residential to professional office two lots on South Main Street, just north of Beal.

Request for rezoning of one lot was made by Leon Bonner, while the other was on the commission's own petition. The recommendations go now to the city council for a final decision.

Also approved was the site and architectural plan of Dennis Roux, who plans to build a professional office building on South Center Street across from the Chatham supermarket.

RANDALL CASWELL
1970 High School Picture

Caswell Called Model Student

A 19-year-old Northville youth, who was arrested and charged last week with setting one of the fires at the University of Michigan, was a model student here, high school officials report.

Randall B. Caswell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Armand Caswell, 41845 Eight Mile Road, stood mute upon arraignment in Washtenaw Circuit Court on a charge of starting a fire February 3 in a university library which destroyed a number of books.

A not guilty plea was entered in his behalf, and the youth was sent to the Ypsilanti State Hospital for psychological examinations. He is a patient at the hospital now and is expected to be there several more weeks.

His parents, who have visited him in the hospital, told this newspaper their son is badly shaken by the arrest but "he is not physically suffering. He is being treated well."

The boy's father, who said he necessarily must guard his statements lest he endangers his son's case, emphasized that "this is not a situation of radical or political connotation Truly not."

Asked if the liberal environment of the university, may have influenced his son, he said, "I don't think we can say that. Under the circumstances we just don't completely understand it... we really don't." "The university" he added, "has been most understanding."

The boy's attorney, Raymond F. Clevenger, who requested his commitment, has been quoted as saying the youth is "sick."

The arrest capped an intensive investigation into a series of more than 60 fires, most small nuisance fires, by a host of law enforcement

For Randolph Drain

Northville to Pay Most

Northville will share 75-percent of the cost, Novi 25-percent if proposed Randolph Drain apportionments of initial costs to be shared by the two municipalities are approved.

The state drain board will be formally presented with the proposal this month, and officials believe the board, following public hearings on the matter, may make its ruling yet this coming spring.

Based on a formula submitted to the councils of the two communities by the engineering firm of Johnson & Anderson, Northville would pay $312,785.08 and Novi $102,414.92 of the total immediate estimated cost of $415,200.

The cost would cover improvements of the Randolph Drain from the Rouge River near Hutton Street in Northville to the Taft and Eight Mile area, also in Northville.

Also included in the proposal were the breakdown of costs if the project included total improvement from the Rouge to Beck Road. This part of the project, however, is not expected to be included in initial construction. According to officials, it probably will be delayed until development begins in the area.

Cost of the project from the Rouge River to Beck is pegged at $520,000, with Northville picking up 69.4-percent or $361,005 of the cost and Novi 30.6-percent or $159,195.

In other words, the total project would cost $105,000 more than the initial project. The additional cost would cover a 7,000 foot channel improvement at $15 per foot. This channel would cover 122.380 acres in Novi, 103.930 acres in Northville.

The total number of acres served by the entire project includes 217.61 acres in Northville east of Taft, 270.22 acres in Northville west of Taft, and 367.85 acres in Novi for an overall total of 855.68 acres.

Even the total project cost of $520,000 represents a considerable reduction from the estimated costs earlier which ranged upwards of $1 million. The latest estimate represents a compromise on earlier plans which included impoundment of waters northwest of Taft and Eight near Nine Mile Road.

The only major fault found in the proposal by the Northville City Manager, Frank Ollendorff, and city councilmen Monday was the $100,600 assessment against Northville for a drain enclosure around the apartment complex at Taft and Eight Mile.

Ollendorff said he is still not satisfied that this entire cost should be assessed Northville, since this project will benefit Novi "to some extent."

The manager said he will try to reach accord over the total proposal with Novi City Manager George Athas before it is formally presented to the drain board later this month.

Hearing Set On City Alley

A public hearing to consider a proposal to blacktop an alley between Center and Grace, north of Baseline, has been set for April 3.

Although neither councilmen nor the city manager see any urgency in carrying out the project, they decided to call the hearing to get an expression from the property owners involved.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff made it plain that should the project become a reality it probably would be 100-percent or near 100-percent assessment of abutting property owners since the alley improvement would be of no real benefit to the general public.

Impetus for the project has been the traffic hazard represented by cars backing out of drives onto Center Street, across from the high school property.

Cycle Races Set

that citizens in the southern part of the city, where the track is located, are forced to bear much of the inconveniences of racing and of improvement projects "that never seem to get finished."

Concerning the latter, he referred specifically to the incomplete Griswold and Wing Street extensions, which in the case of Griswold are "making the city look like an urban renewal project."

Furthermore, Gaab questioned the benefit to the city of such races, arguing that while some cyclists are acceptable many (not race drivers, but cyclists who may come as spectators) are "undesirable." "I like horses but not flies," he told Carlo in noting that such races may draw problem fans.

Carlo disagreed, pointing out that similar races held elsewhere have created little of these kinds of problems. The Downs' general manager emphasized that he wished only "to try it once" to determine if either the council or neighbors found objections. If such objections are made, he asserted, plans for any additional races would be dropped.

He said other notable tracks, including Roosevelt Raceway and Arlington Park, have sponsored motorcycle races.

Polino said he disfavored such races but since an existing city ordinance permits them the council cannot interfere. He suggested the trial races be reviewed in June and if those races are found objectionable the council should consider repeal of the ordinance.

Vernon, on the other hand, said he needed no trial race to know that the majority of citizens in the community probably would oppose such races. Furthermore, he saw no benefit to the city of such races, he declared.

During a discussion of the matter, City Attorney Philip Ogilvie pointed out that the existing ordinance permits racing up to four days. He explained that the council weighed the matter fully before adopting the ordinance, reasoning that without a state law prohibiting motorcycle races it would be better to enact a local restrictive ordinance. Complete ban of such races, he added, would be illegal in view of state statutes.

The council "didn't mean to encourage such racing with the ordinance," he explained, "but wanted something to restrict and limit them."

Should the council wish to stop motorcycle races, it could repeal the ordinance, he said. But, he added, if the ordinance is repealed "there's nothing to stop anyone from coming in and holding races anytime."

Rather, Biery and City Manager Frank Ollendorff favored "trying" them once, then deciding whether or not to repeal them.

Carlo made it plain that he was not requesting approval or disapproval of the trial races but rather sought only council opinions.

Picture Tribute to Pet—Daffy Doodle

In South Lyon

"A brushing of the surface" of South Lyon area cemeteries yields a wealth of interesting epitaphs, dates and other assorted facts. Visited briefly was perhaps the most decrepit - an old, abandoned cemetery along the west side of Pontiac Trail just south of Eight Mile in Salem Township. Given over to Brambles and disuse, dates of death run from the 1830's up to around 1860 and markers are quite badly marred by age.

A brief stop at New Hudson Cemetery - a marvelous, old and large burial site along Milford Road north of Grand River - yielded the fact that one American Revolutionary War soldier is interred there. He was Ambrose Orvis who died at the age of 86 on August 30, 1844. His grave, just inside the south entrance, contains a plaque from the DAR.

One non-human cemetery - Happy Hunting Grounds at Milford and 11 Mile - shows deep devotion to pets. Pierre, seven month-old puppy, received this glowing tribute: Pierre, our Precious Boy. The Love and Joy you gave us, always will we remember. Mommy and Daddy Caille.

Also enshrined at Happy Hunting Grounds are Daffodil "Daffy Doodle", a member of the monkey family, whose grave contains an artificial banana, two inscriptions from the Bible, his picture holding a daffodil, etc.

At a Green Oak cemetery (on the Lyon Township line) along Grand River north of Kent Lake State Park, most graves date around 1837, 1838 and 1840 and one is a marker for a Civil War soldier named Abram T. Wood. Margary, wife of Jghabod Peavy, died March 6, 1838. The stone was made by a Pontiac firm, as were several in the following cemetery: Kensington Baptist Church.

While Michigan cemeteries may not be filled with the very early quaint epitaphs of New England, they have plenty of sentimental Victorian verses, like the one above.

Franciful, flowery and pious—but no malicious—verses are found in graveyards in Northville, Novi, South Lyon and Brighton areas.

Unlike cemeteries in the East, most of the early area burial grounds are separate from churches. An exception is Brighton's cemetery behind the St. Paul Episcopal Church.

In Northville

Usually the graveyards are fenced with ironwork popular in the 1800's and located on a rise at the roadside. One of the earliest is Northville's Waterford Cemetery on Franklin Road. It was dedicated in 1836 and founded by Dyer Ramsdell.

Shaded by lilac trees, the little cemetery on the quiet road abounds with markers adorned with weeping willow trees and charming verses. One double marker unites the graves of Hannah and Enoch Hughes. Further symbolizing the unity is a lozenge design in the center with carved clasped hands.

Cemetery art and verse meant much to the Victorians, it has been pointed out, because the common man had available to him the sepulchral art that in previous centuries in Europe only the rich and noble could command.

So, in 1856, as Lemuel Andrews was buried, his widow commissioned the stonemason to inscribe:

Dearest husband thou hast left us—Here thy loss we deeply feel—But as God hath bereft us—He can all our sorrows heal.

When the son of T & E Godden died in 1868 at a young 25, they had chiseled:

With prospects bright and budding fair—just rising into bloom—Death came in an untimely hour—and snatched him to the tomb.

The verse on the marker of Samuel Payne, who died May 6, 1850, at the age of 60 years, three months and eight days, tells much:

He had not wealth to leave his children—but vigorously endeavored to give them an education—Dear Father sleep your toils are o'er—Distress and grief you'll know no more.

The short statement on the headstone of Elizabeth H., wife of Isaac P. Andrews, said simply, She Made home happy.

Marking the grave of Abby Payne, daughter of Samuel and Susan Payne, is the inscription:

Here lies a rose that dropt too soon to blossom.

Another Northville cemetery Oakwood, is the only one located within the historical district on Cady Street. The land was donated by early residents Daniel Cady and Martin Randolph (Cady also donated land for the Presbyterian church as he owned a farm in the area where the race track now is located.)

In this cemetery is located the marker with perhaps one of the most unusual comments.

In the Rayson plot, the death of Mrs. Rayson is remembered in stone:

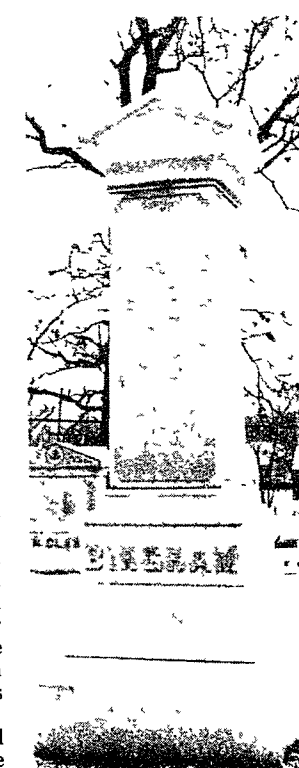

As The encroachment of Urbanization Creeps in Around It, Novi's Cemetery Stands Out as A Shrine to Early Builders of The Community

Met death from ice falling from the roof of a neighbors home.

Yerkes Cemetery, a small peaceful area located on highly traveled Eight Mile Road in Northville Township, was established soon after the Northville area was settled in 1826-30.

Though the cemetery, as originally incorporated, did not include only members of the Yerkes family, most of the graves are those of relatives or family members.

The marker of Jessie, young daughter of George and

First Republican Governor Rests Beneath This Brighton Memorial.

Jennie Yerkes, who died in 1872, is typical of Victorian stones.

A little lamb graces the top of a scroll around which a lily is entwined and a classic leaf design is carved at the base on which "Sweet babe" is written.

Many open bibles, stone vases and obelisks can also be found in Yerkes Cemetery, with verses on the Bible pages including "United in death and Past to Thy Redeemer on another."

On the grave of Jane Sayre who died in 1858, first wife of Samuel Rogers, is the following inscription:

Oh we shall meet her cheerful smile along our daily paths no more—Behind her lie her days of toil—a blessed Eternity before.

While the iron-fenced cemetery on Novi road has official records dating only from the formation of an association in 1869, it has graves with death dates much earlier.

Since the area was not settled in 1811, the date of one of the earliest, George E. Wilkinson, it has been speculated that some were moved there later.

Another early grave is that of Temperance Jones. The marker says she died in 1813 at the age of 84.

Mrs. George Merwin, an active Daughter of the American Revolution member, has recorded names and dates on all Novi Cemetery headstones. She notes that it contains the graves of two Revolutionary War soldiers, Hooper Bishop, 1762-1861, and Caleb Carr, Sr., 1762-1839.

Rumor, which has not been possible to substantiate, has it that the niece of President Zachary Taylor (1784-1850) is buried here. Mrs. Merwin doesn't know, but she lists Sarah, Lily and Edith Taylor buried there.

One of the cemetery's unusual markers is a victorian design that gives the appearance of the inside of a tree trunk.

Because so many markers and obelisks were created of limestone, they now are crumbling after years of being exposed to snow and sun.

The outlines of Bibles, heavenward-pointed hands and vases are blurred, as are the verses. Vandals, too, have done their damage. It is hoped by area residents who have ancestors buried in these vintage graveyards that a growing appreciation of this "cemetery art" will help in its preservation.

In Brighton

Nestled among the occasionally broken, more often than not weathered stones of the Brighton Cemetery located on a hill rising above the city's mill pond and behind St. Paul's Episcopal Church is a lot of history.

The cemetery dates back to 1857 when the property, approximately an acre, was donated as a village cemetery by the Reverend William A. Clark, an Episcopal minister who came to the Brighton area in the 1830's. The site part of a large farm he owned. According to the Reverend Ralph McGimpsey of St. Paul's, there has always been some controversy over who actually owned the cemetery. Although many people in the Brighton area refer to the site as the "old Episcopal cemetery", he pointed out it was never owned by the church.

Kensington and Grand River in Green Oak, burned down many years ago in 1953. Its cemetery remains. A fire place log containing a burial plaque, is here.

The Beach family was noted for first names no longer in general use. Among these - Alanson, Zuby, Legrand, Celora and Josiah Purdy, too, are not common first names, nor is Drusilla (Drusilla E. Coe).

Among some other features of this cemetery are its oldest readable plot, that of Ansel Clark, who died in 1825, some unusual stones, including one shaped like a church with a lily on its steeple, many with hands pointing toward Heaven.

Epitaphs at Kensington included: Budded on Earth to Bloom in Heaven on one infant (Sutherland) headstone, Live for Heaven the Loved one said and closed his eyes to open in Heaven.

A Civil War soldier, William Abrams, died in the battle of Chickamauga and has a military plaque attesting this fact.

Cemeteries in Brighton Area

The cemetery is presently owned by the City of Brighton. The last grave to be filled in the cemetery was that of Mrs. Jacintha L. Mitchell who died in 1955. Mr. McGimpsey said he believed she is partly buried on church property. She was 85 at the time of her death. Throughout the years the cemetery has suffered from some vandalism. In July of 1965, approximately 68 stones had been pushed over and 35 broken. In an effort to get the damage repaired, David Spencer, who was then a member of the church who looked after the cemetery, wrote to the Detroit Free Press's "Action Line."

"Action Line" contacted Allen Monument Works in Northville who repaired or replaced the damaged stones at no cost to the city.

A variety of interesting people are buried in the cemetery, including a former Michigan governor, Kinsley S. Bingham, first Republican governor in the United States, and a black run-away slave named John McKinney.

Bingham, who was governor from 1855 to 1858, was born December 16, 1808, and died October 5, 1861. Both his wives, Margaret Warden, who died in 1834, and Mary Warden, who died in 1882, are also buried with him. Bingham's two wives were sisters.

Three infant children and a son who died in the service are also buried there.

Near the church is a stone which reads This stone was erected by his friends at Brighton whose tried servant he was for over forty year.

It marks the gravesite of John McKinney, a slave who ran away from a southern master and made his way to Brighton by way of the Detroit underground railroad.

Although McKinney died March 19, 1892, no specific date of birth is noted, though he was believed to be about 70 years old when he died.

Preserved along with the purely Victorian carvings of weeping willow trees, wreaths, clasped hands and doves are given names nearly lost through time — Bolivar, Electa, Hellen, Jabesh, Rosilie, Ezekiel, Eracious, Allida, Lyman, Sylvanus and Diantha.

And from those who lived in the times of old comes this reminder to the living who visit an old Irish cemetery in Green Oak Township:

Weep not for him my friends so dear— For in a short time you all lie here — Remember death for die you must— And with your deaf friend sleep in dust.

FIRE LOG STONE—One of the most unusual gravestones in Kensington Baptist Church Cemetery, located at Kensington Road and Grand River in Green Oak Township, is this stone carved in the shape of a fireplace log. It marks the grave of Imogene Williams.

UNUSUAL STONE—This rather unusual grave marker, which is similar to a tree trunk marks the last resting place of Chauncey Weaver in the Hartland Cemetery located near the center of the village. The stone stands close to 6 feet in height.

LANSGING—One side effect (no pun intended) of the revised penalties set up for possession, use and -or sale of drugs and other substances by the legislature last year is a shortened prison stay for some persons serving long sentences under the old law.

The Michigan Corrections Commission, which was ordered by the new law to go over the cases of all inmates doing time for drug violations, found 542 of them in for drug offenses. That's better than 5 per cent of the prison population in the state—big enough so that a sizeable reduction can help alleviate the overcrowding in prisons, at least temporarily.

The state parole board started looking into those 542 cases and found 142 involved sentences long enough so that the inmates serving them had passed the maximum in the new law. Of those 142, only 19 are still in prison.

ABOUT 180 of the remaining cases involve marijuana offenses and the board will review those first.

Another 170 cases involve hallucinogens or heroin and 50 cases involve the serving of concurrent sentences for offenses not connected with drugs on the statute books at least.

This is not to say the board is automatically releasing everybody before their sentences expire. Before they approve the premature release of an inmate they check his or her previous criminal history, whether there was any prior narcotics involvement, any serious mental problems, and his conduct in prison.

If these all check out okay then the prisoner has a good chance or release.

THERE'S BEEN much talk in recent months, with the 18-year-old vote and the new presidential primary, that the political process in Michigan is really being "opened up."

It's true the process is more open to Joe Citizen than it was a couple of years ago. But not all the barriers are down.

For instance, delegates to national political conventions are still picked at state conventions, even though the way they must vote at the national convention is determined in the primary.

Many people in both parties shuddered involuntarily when the governor originally proposed having each candidate for president draw up a sale of committee delegates prior to the primary. That would have required all the party leadership to pick a candidate before the primary or forget about the national convention.

UNDER PRESENT procedures, the leadership can wait until after the primary, confident of a national convention seat and with no need to commit itself.

There's also the matter of the new restriction on petition drives slipped into the new primary law. Under the new statute, you can't get closer than 100 feet to a polling place on election day if you have a petition in your hand.

It used to be you could go right into the polling place to secure signatures so long as you didn't bother the voters or make a nuisance of yourself in any way. Election day is an ideal day to circulate petitions because you need the signatures of registered voters on the petitions and if a person has just emerged from the voting booth you know he is registered.

UNFORTUNATELY, there are a couple of petition drives working around the state now that the legislature isn't very happy about.

There's the abortion drive, of course, but the new law apparently won't stop that since its workers are very close to the needed 200,000 signatures for initiatory legislation.

More important from the legislative viewpoint is the drive to secure a one-house legislature. If that drive succeeds, and the people vote for a unicameral legislature, 72 of the 148 lawmakers at a minimum will need new work as their seats would be eliminated.

Backers of the program are still working on a big petition circulating drive for primary day. The 100 foot law is a stumbling block in that effort, though it doesn't make the job impossible.

It just shows that not everyone in Lansing has the same ideas about what makes for open political process.

Babson Report

New' Oil Raises Hopes

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—It was two and a half years ago that a military coup in Libya overthrew the government and replaced it with one that was militantly socialistic. An immediate development was pressure on the foreign oil and gas producers there to curtail production and increase tax and royalty payment to the Libyan government. The threat of expropriation of oil properties became real, and Libya is now a very inconstant area in which to conduct oil operations.

At about the same time bids were opened for leases on the Alaskan North Slope. Involving a region long known for its strong oil potential, the sale attracted all major oil companies and netted the state of Alaska some $862 million. It was felt that drilling success here would assure the 48 continental states of a bountiful source of crude and relieve dependence on foreign sources.

ENTHUSIASM was so great that pipe was ordered for a north-south trans-Alaska line and millions of dollars' worth of equipment was "lown in. But, to date, no more than a few barrels of ceremonial oil have come out. The crude is there in quantity, but environmental questions have delayed the pipeline and meaningful output is unlikely until 1974 or 1975.

AS IT BECAME evident that the Mideast must be considered prone to the whims of politics and that Alaskan oil would not be readily available, the search turned to another known large sedimentary basin with oil-bearing possibilities located mainly between England and Norway. To the south, in and offshore from the Netherlands, huge gas discoveries were made in quantities large enough to alter European economies. Natural gas had also been found in the English portion of the Channel. These discoveries were substantial enough to enable the British government to sponsor a residential gas-heating conversion program which has virtually eliminated the use of soft coal and the notorious London fog caused by burning that fuel.

BY TREATY, the North Sea is divided in such a way that bordering countries are entitled to offer drilling rights in assigned sectors off their shores. Norway and the United Kingdom control the largest areas,

Weight Limits Changed

Enforcement of the springtime reduction for wheel and axle loads of vehicles using the highways under the jurisdiction of the Oakland County Road Commission started Wednesday at 6 A.M.

Normal axle weight limitations are reduced each year to protect the roads from damage during the "spring breakup period". The normal loading is reduced by 35 percent on most thin blacktop surfaces on gravel bases, on gravel roads and on most subdivision streets. A reduction of 25 percent is imposed on many concrete surfaced roads and concrete based blacktop roads.

Certain more heavily constructed roads are designated as All Weather Routes and are not subject to springtime load reductions.

Confronted By The Cross

Arnold B. Cook, Pastor
First Baptist Church of Novi

The coming of spring with its resurgence of life, brings with it a renewed emphasis of the greatest fact of all time—the cross. As the passion week of Christ's suffering and death is observed, we are made conscious anew that the cross is both glory and shame, triumph and tragedy, life and death. Like spring itself, we are faced with the fact of the cross, and we can no more ignore it or refuse to face it than we can ignore the warming rays of the sun; the renewed greening of the grass, or the joyful song of the returned robin.

Man apart from God, lives his life in a perpetual spiritual winter, that grows increasingly more burdensome with the passing of time. But again and again, the warmth of God's love made known through the preaching of the cross, appeals to man to "come unto me and live."

To be sure, man has his many problems. He is concerned with the matter of time against eternity, guilt instead of innocence, death instead of life and hell instead of heaven. By every means conceivable, this creature of perplexity has sought a solution to his dilemma, not from the counsels of a loving God, but rather than the halls of secular learning; from the laboratories of curious research, and from the technological contrivances which all may be good to a measure, but none of them singly, nor all of them combined, can extricate man from his prison of difficulty.

But in the cross—that enigma of triumph and tragedy; glory and shame; life and death, man is confronted with the divine challenge—God's solution. The cross is not an answer—it is the only answer; for there at the cross God judges sin in the person of His beloved Son, and the shame that He endured in dying, "the just for the unjust," brings glory, triumph and life. He suffered the shame that we might share in His glory. He faced the tragedy of the cross that we might know triumph in life. Here we are confronted by the cross—shall we deny it, and he denied? or shall we acknowledge it and submit to the Christ who suffered on it that we might have an abundance of life?

"In the Cross of Christ I glory,
Tow-ning o're the wrecks of time;
All the light of sacred story
Gathers round its head sublime.

When the woes of life o'er-take me;
Hopes deceive, and fears annoy,
Never shall the cross forsake me.
Lo! it glows with peace and joy."

UNDERWAY

There she goes . . . UNDERWAY at last! You can almost feel her confidence when she hits the water. But who knows what adventures await her on the Seven Seas? How many crucial tests must the captain face before she finally rests at a harbor of safety?

We're the captains of our own ships in the voyage through life. We begin with determined optimism. We have youth, ambition, determination. We have health and strength. But as we get "underway," we soon find ourselves faced with sudden trials and obstacles. It is in these moments of crisis that our faith and courage are challenged.

Just as the ship has its modern equipment and its lighthouses, so we too have a tower of direction and strength found in the Church. In the Church of Jesus Christ we find a lasting faith, guiding us into the calm harbor of ETERNAL life.

Ice Capades

Tom Litz Spins into Olympia

Can an easy-going, soft-spoken guy, who likes Jane Fonda, mushy movies and the Beatles, take command of an audience and rivet them to attention with the sheer dynamism of his performance?

That's exactly what happens when Tommy Litz spins into the spotlight with the Ice Capades, opening at the Olympia Stadium on Tuesday, March 21st for an engagement that will extend through Monday, April 3rd.

Tommy's casual charm as a person is a startling contrast to his exacting professionalism as a performer. A veteran of eight seasons with the Ice Capades, Tommy has etched over 3000 performances into the ice. Each one has been a virtuoso display of faultless skating and commanding personal presence. Tommy is as poised and mature a skater who ever executed a triple flip.

Yet, off the ice, he's the kind of guy who looks down at his shoes when you compliment him. He has the sort of face the grin was invented for, and you wouldn't think there was one ounce of discipline in his lanky body when he casually chats with you.

"Well, it was really my dad who supplied all the discipline," he explains. "He wanted me to do well and to make something of myself, so when I was a kid, he saw that I stuck with it."

There's none of the "Stage Mother" resentment between Tommy and his father that many young performers grow up with. "Sure, he pushed me," Tommy goes on, "But I'm grateful to him and I admire him a lot. He's really a neat guy. I'm glad he made me see it through."

Tommy's close relationship with his father continued through the years. He spends his five weeks off every summer with his folks. We all love the Islands. We've been to Hawaii and the Bahamas. This past summer, my mom and dad and Glenda's parents all went to Puerto Rico for a vacation.

Glenda is Tommy's wife. She also skates with Ice Capades, and after being engaged for two years, they were married in her home town, Kansas City, in the summer of 1969.

Tommy grew up in Hershey, Pennsylvania. He started skating when he was 12, and by the time he was 17, was the U.S. Junior Men's Figure Skating Champion. At 18, he won the Senior Men's National Title. The next year (1964) he was a member of the U.S. Team at the Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria. He then went on to win the World's Free Style Competition before turning professional and joining Ice Capades.

After eight years of professional skating, Tommy still practices every day and still gets "a little scared" before each performance. "I always worry about whether or not I'll do the really difficult things well."

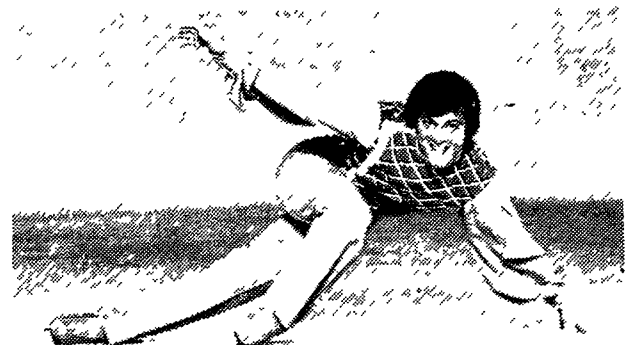

Asked to name somebody he really admires, Tommy gave a completely disarming answer.

"Muhammad Ali. Not because of his politics or anything like that, but because he's such a pro. You really have to train to be a boxer," says this nice young man who trained seven hours a day for five years to be a skater. "The physical demands of boxing are much greater than those of skating. ...and you really have to have a commitment. I admire people I think are really into what they're doing."

Tommy Litz may not know it, but he's "really into what he's doing."

Just watch the next time he does a "Piston Roll."

Tickets for the Ice Capades are priced at $6, $5, $4 and $3 and can be purchased at the Olympia and all major J.L. Hudson and Sears stores.

TOMMY LITZ, World Free Style Skating Champion, returns for his eighth season with the Happy New Ice Capades, starting, Tuesday, March 21st through Monday, April 3rd at the Olympia Stadium.

LOOSE LEAF

Although Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has apparently let up on his attacks on the press, the notion seems to be widely held that the press is liberal. Nothing could be further from the truth. The press is overwhelmingly conservative.

A recent study by Ben Badikian, a commentator on the news media, bears out the fact. Writing in the Columbia Journalism Review, Badikian says: "The irony is that Agnew in one sense is right—the newspapers of this country are out of step with the electorate—but they are massively out of step in the direction opposite to that which Nixon-Agnew claim."

Badikian then presents a few figures. In 1960, 78 percent of the newspapers endorsing a presidential candidate backed Nixon. In 1968, Nixon had 68 percent.

It's not only the smaller, more conservative, rural newspapers which cast their lot, as expected, with Nixon. All of the major newspapers in the cities of Los Angeles, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Philadelphia were for him, Badikian claims.

It's his own personal view that perhaps not all of them were for Nixon in 1968, but a vast majority. Furthermore, those newspapers which endorsed Nixon also took the conservative view on such issues as the antiballistic missile, the Carswell Supreme Court nomination, the Cambodian invasion, the McGovern-Hafield antiwar amendment and Agnew's statement against dissenters.

Badikian quoted a survey by Representative Bob Eckhardt of Texas which also found that papers in the northeast—reputedly the hotbed of liberalism—were indeed more conservative than those in the midwest.

"One reason most publishers have felt sullen under the Agnew attacks," Badikian says, "is that they believe he's right. They, too, think there is a radio-lib conspiracy among their reporters."

"The typical American newspaper publisher lives in agony knowing he is paying people to report social developments he doesn't like."

Concludes Badikian. "At a time when publishers ought to be worrying about moving into the political and economic realities of the last half of the 20th century, it would be a tragedy if the administration were to successfully nudge them backward into the 19th."

and initial drilling successes have been in these parts. A year ago some 70 individual companies or combines held licenses for exploration or production in the North Sea.

Operations are risky and difficult due to ocean weather conditions but the technology of the new semi-submersible drill rigs will do much to negate the elements. These platforms are supported by huge submerged floats which are relatively unaffected by the motion of the sea, even withstanding 100-foot waves.

A recent estimate predicts that in two years there could be twenty drill rigs at work and by 1980 sixty rigs could be in the area, half of which might well be active producers.

Why is the North Sea crude worth going after? Though drilling is only in initial stages, several seismic data promising favorable drilling results. While it is unlikely that U.S. oil requirements will be bolstered directly from North Sea production, American oil companies successful in the area should benefit, since they will be less vulnerable to political overtones rampant elsewhere in the oil-producing world. Hence, the Research Department of Babson's Reports advises investors to keep a close eye on North Sea operations.

EVIDENCE of the worth and extent of the basin was seen in the British sector, with abid last August of $50 million for on ninety-six-square-mile block far to the north of current proven discoveries. The bidder had apparently developed seismic data promising favorable drilling results.

While it is unlikely that U.S. oil requirements will be bolstered directly from North Sea production, American oil companies successful in the area should benefit, since they will be less vulnerable to political overtones rampant elsewhere in the oil-producing world. ### Chatham Shopper Bake-Off Finalist

For the American home maker it's the World Series and the Rose Bowl all rolled up in one! That's what one contestant said about the Pillsbury Bake Off held last week in Houston, Texas.

As I watched the 100 finalists already winners of many wonderful prizes plus their trip to Texas I couldn't help being genuinely inspired by their comradeship and their air of gratitude for being there. They considered their good fortune a most rewarding personal experience.

Just before going out on the baking floor Mrs. Kenneth Snow, our own local Chatham customer from Southfield said that she felt the best thing about the bake off was the lasting friends she had made.

She said that some of the things that had impressed her were the general conviction of the contestants that they were really helping to make life easier and more pleasant for everyone by developing some shortcuts, the beautiful organized program planned by Pillsbury, Kraft and General Electric and the sense of pride in all the contestants in their entries. She said "Winning isn't really the thing we're worrying about most it's just making our entries turn out like they did at home, so we'll be proud of them."

In her advice to other Detroit homemakers who might be interested in entering a Pillsbury Bake Off, she said "You really don't have to be an excellent cook you just have to be creative, a bit adventure some, and like the challenge of winning a contest!" For instance, as a child she lived on a farm and her Finnish grandmother taught her to bake the authentic seasoned breads. With this heritage, she was inspired to try a new kind of herb bread in a casserole!

And, she even experimented with a number of spices and herbs until she found some that she felt were "just right" in her bread. Below is the most, relatively fine textured batter bread which made Chatham's Milli Snow a finalist.

1/2 teaspoon ground or whole coriander seed, grated lemon or orange peel
1 cup dairy sour cream
1/2 cup hot tap water
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 egg
Sesame seed, if desired

Set oven at 350°. Grease 1 1/2 or 2 quart round casserole or two 8 x 4 inch loaf pans. Lightly spoon flour into cup to measure, level off. In large bowl, blend 2 cups flour and next ten ingredients. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed. By hand, stir in remaining 1/2 cups flour. Cover, let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 45 to 60 minutes. Stir batter vigorously, pour into greased pan. Cover, let rise in warm place until double, 30 to 45 minutes. Bake 35 to 40 minutes until gold on brown. Remove from casserole immediately, brush with butter and sprinkle with sesame seed. Store in refrigerator.

PAINT OR PINTO?

The words "Paint" and "Pinto" are synonymous; they both refer to spotted or two-tone horses with body marking of white and another color. However, when used to refer to the two registry organizations—the American Paint Horse Association and the Pinto Horse Association of America—the two words take on vastly different meanings.

The Pinto Association registers all breeds and types including ponies, saddlebreds, parade and fine harness horses. The APHA is devoted strictly to the stock and quarter type horse and bases its registry on the blood of registered Paints, Quarter Horses (AQHA) and Thoroughbreds (Jockey Club of New York).

The APHA was founded on the proposition that color alone is not a basis for a breed, and that the indiscriminate use of all breeds results only in a color registry rather than a breed registry. The American Paint Horse Association is a registry based upon a combination of breeding, conformation and color.
