A TRIBUTE was paid former City Clerk Mary Alexander last week as the city council voted to name the alley, running from the Presbyterian Church east past the Spinning Wheel to Center Street, the Mary Alexander Court. A future ceremony is planned.

THE EIGHTH annual membership meeting of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce will be held Wednesday night, September 20 at the Thunderbird-Hilton Inn. Members and their guests are urged to make reservations by Monday by calling 349-7640. Chamber Secretary Margaret Zayti promises that the dinner will be "extra special" and only $4 per person. "The Chamber's partially subsidizing the dinner", she explains. So why not take the wife (or husband) out for the bargain-priced Chamber dinner and socialize with some of your fellow Northville businessmen.

LANGFIELD Band Fund at Northville High was given a boost Monday night when Conrad E. Langfield donated an additional 1,000 shares of stock, worth $18,000, to the fund. In a letter to the school board, Langfield said he is pleased with the appearance of the band and its music. The funds donated will be used for uniforms and music education, school board members indicated.

BUZZ SAWS and volunteers are being sought by the Northville Jaycees for their annual "Clean the Rouge River" campaign slated for Saturday, September 16. Heavy equipment from the City and Green Ridge Nursery will be used to clean the two and a half miles of the Rouge that flow through Northville. People interested in helping should contact Al Potts at 349-0812.

REQUEST for rezoning of the Dun Rovin golf course property from single family to a multiples classification was tabled Monday by the Township Planning Commission, pending completion of the commission's planning update study. That study is about six months away from completion. At Monday's hearing, three citizen arguments against the rezoning were offered. Plans call for development of some 900 multiple (either apartment or townhouse) units around a nine-hole golf course.

AN OFFICIAL protest by the Northville Planning Commission is likely at a Novi public hearing September 27 when the Novi city council considers an appeal to rezone property at the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Beck roads to an M-2 (light industrial) classification. Plans reportedly call for enlargement of the trucking operation at the corner as well as construction of an indoor ice-skating rink. Novi planners earlier recommended against the rezoning. Northville Estates subdivision is located opposite the property in question.

ENROLLMENT in Northville Public Schools has exceeded projections, with a record 3,828 students enrolled as of Friday. School officials had estimated 3,750 students would attend classes this fall. About 300 students moved into the district since June. Official enrollment figures will be tabulated for state aid purposes on September 29.

Demolition Derby?

Chase Takes Its Toll

It was almost like something from a movie script, with police getting their man after a high speed auto chase which left a trail of dented and disabled squad cars behind.

But it was no laughing matter for James H. Schmidt, 34, of Livonia who, after leading police on a near half-hour chase early Saturday, was charged with fleeing and eluding.

Schmidt was arraigned the same day in district court, stood mute to the charges and is free on $10,000 bond. He will face examination next Thursday.

He and his passenger, Werner G. Hoffman, 31, of Westland, were both treated at Wayne County General Hospital for facial lacerations sustained when they were rammed by several police cars.

The chase began about 2:30 a.m. Saturday when Schmidt was observed by Northville City Patrolman Donald Lancaster to be weaving across lanes on eastbound Hines Drive near Center Street.

When Lancaster attempted to stop the car, it sped away, driving down the center of the roadway south on Hines Drive.

The chase continued through Hines Park, with Schmidt's vehicle running stop signs and red lights at speeds up to 70 mph. Schmidt forced the squad car off the road near Hines and Northville Road and continued onto Wilcox Road, where Plymouth police joined the chase.

Speeds were clocked at 105 mph on Schoolcraft Road between Wilcox and Eckles. The chase continued south through Plymouth with numerous stop lights and signs ignored and several oncoming cars forced off the road, police said.

Schmidt drove into a field off Plymouth Road, backtracking his previous route at speeds up to 127 mph.

When he reached Northville Road and Six Mile, he turned onto westbound Six Mile and as Lancaster attempted to force him to stop, slammed into the front end of the patrol car with the side of his car.

Schmidt continued on Six to Sheldon, south on Sheldon to Five Mile where he headed west to Curtis Road.

Township OKs Salary Hikes

For Clerk, Treasurer, Supervisor

With a minimum of discussion, township trustees approved raises for officials by a split vote.

The action came shortly after midnight Tuesday in the board's more than five-hour meeting.

The raises, which were proposed by Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg Tuesday, include $12,500 for the supervisor and $10,000 each for the treasurer and for the clerk.

Voting for the raises were Trustee Leonard Klein, Stromberg and Treasurer Joseph Straub. Casting dissenting votes were Trustees Richard Mitchell and Charles Schaeffer. Abstaining were Clerk Eleanor Hammond and Trustee Bernard Baldwin.

The raises will be effective at the start of the new terms in November. Of the three officials, only Treasurer Straub is seeking re-election. Currently the salary schedule includes supervisor, $8,457; treasurer, $7,027, and clerk, $7,736.

Schaeffer told board members he would vote against the increases "since this could have been done before the primary when people had a chance to run for office."

Stromberg countered, saying "most people knew there would be an increase."

Mitchell noted that the "people proposing this (new salaries) are the very people who have voted against it. It is improper to do it now."

Clerk Hammond, who has long been a supporter for higher salaries, said now was an inappropriate time to approve the raises.

The salary question has been before the board for several months, with Clerk Hammond in favor of placing raises of $12,000 for the supervisor and $10,000 for each the clerk and treasurer in the township's original budget discussed in March.

However, Mitchell at that time proposed following citizens study committee recommendations of salaries of $10,500 for supervisor, $9,000 for clerk and $8,000 for treasurer.

In May, raises for officials were again defeated, when Clerk Hammond asked they be boosted to $12,000 for supervisor, $10,000 for each the clerk and treasurer. She proposed they be retroactive to May 3, with Mitchell and Straub supporting her.

Klein, Baldwin and Schaeffer were opposed to the move and Stromberg abstained.

Another proposal made in May, to grant the salaries effective December 1, was favored by only two trustees, Mitchell and Schaeffer.

WASH OUT? Not at all. Workmen have merely removed the old, decaying bridge, which crossed the stream on the Rural Hill Cemetery drive, in preparation for construction of a new bridge ordered by the city council. While work progresses, persons wishing to gain entrance to the cemetery must temporarily use an entrance off Sheldon Road.

Board Won't Delay Payment

A move to delay payment of money owed by the school district until tax payments are received in January was nixed Monday night by school board members.

The idea to withhold payment to creditors was proposed by Business Director Earl Busard, who said that if the proposal was accepted by the board, the district would not have to borrow approximately $200,000 in tax anticipation monies.

Trustee Andrew Orphan said that if the "district was operating on summer tax collection, there would be no need for this.

"I find it difficult to ask the businessman to subsidize the archaic way schools are financed," he commented.

Trustee Stanley Johnston agreed with Orphan, explaining that $30,000 to $35,000 in interest could be saved by collecting taxes in the summer, "but the taxpayers would not go along with this. I do not see why our creditors should suffer at the district's refusal to go to a summer tax collection."

Board president Dr. Orlo Robinson said that businesses who want the bills paid, should be paid.

Superintendent Raymond Spear said the move would save the school district about $3,000 in interest. "This must be weighed against the bad feelings it might create among some businesses."

Orphan noted that the district was "in the same situation once before, but we were then faced with a crisis. I do not feel we are in that position now."

Johnston commented that if the "people in the school system (employees) do not have to wait for their money, why should the businessman?"

School board members also went on record Monday supporting Wayne County Intermediate School District's intent to continue to develop a program for testing students which is fair and accurate.

The intermediate district plans to work with the state department of education in revising and improving the Michigan Assessment Test administered yearly to all fourth and seventh graders in the state.

In other action, trustees — approved contracts for two half time teachers, Toni K. Bufo, 1969 graduate of Eastern Michigan University with a BS in English and business education, who will teach high school typing; and Carlee Stewner, 1971 graduate of University of Michigan with a BS degree in earth science, will teach earth science at the high school;

— renewed the district's membership in the Northwestern Guidance Clinic for the 1972-73 school year;

— authorized the Northville Junior Football Association to use the high school stadium for home games;

— approved revised duties and responsibilities of the director of instruction and administrative assistant (formerly personnel director); and — authorized the superintendent to proceed with recruitment of an administrative assistant with an effective employment date of November 1.

Richard Martin

Trustee Resigns Post

Richard Martin resigned Monday night from the Northville School Board.

A member of the board for nearly six years, Martin said his move from the Northville school district to Farmington has forced him to give up the post.

His letter of resignation, which he presented to the board Monday, was accepted with regret.

Trustees noted his service to the community and the school district will be missed, and they adopted a resolution commending him for his service.

Board President Dr. Orlo Robinson stated the "likes of Richard Martin will be next to impossible to replace. His swift appraisal and shrewd judgements will be missed by the board."

Martin was appointed in 1967 to fill a vacancy on the board. He was elected treasurer of the board for 1967-68, served as vice-president from June, 1969, through January, 1970, and president from January to June, 1970.

The preview spotlights potentials in area conferences as high schools prepare for Friday's openers. Locally, all eyes are focused on the battle between Northville and Novi here in a non-conference contest.

Besides the Football Preview section, Page 12-A offers something special for grid fans. That's where the annual Football Contest rules-entry forms is located. Once again, $18 in prizes are being offered weekly to contestants who pick the winners of professional, college and local high school games. Northville Red Cross Volunteers Gather to Hear About New Chapter Procedures

Red Cross Needs Helpers

Members of the Northville Unit of the American Red Cross were guests at a tea in the Northville home of Mrs. Beatrice Carlson recently.

Regional Red Cross Manager Henry Maurer and Mrs. Bernard LeBoe, chairman of the blood program of the Detroit chapter explained new procedures concerning all Red Cross chapters in Southeastern Michigan to the group.

Mrs. Carlson, who has been the local Red Cross representative for 20 years, says she can vouch for a pleasant association with the Northville Unit and invites Northville women who have spare time to become volunteers for the Northville Unit.

The Northwest office, which serves Northville, Plymouth, Livonia, Redford and Garden City, is now located at 29236 Ford Road, Garden City. A Mini Blood Bank will be in operation there six days a week.

Northville volunteers serve one day a week there and are also available to serve in other Blood Banks in the Northville area.

Mrs. Eldon Biery, Northville Blood Bank chairman, is in need of additional assistance to staff Blood Banks and can be reached at 349-2665 for information.

TALL CORN—Sweet corn in the garden of the Glenn Deiberts on Napier Road was more than "knee high by the Fourth of July" and now is over seven and one-half feet tall. Mrs. Deibert checks the ripeness of an ear before picking, saying it's good and sweet.

They Say Vows By Candlelight

Robin Roann Fox and Brian Clay Jones first met while both were attending Northville High School. At 7 p.m. on August 12, the couple was married at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville by the Reverend Phillip Seymour.

For the candlelight ceremony, the bride and groom memorized their vows and faced each other as they recited them. Richard Shank sang "The Wedding Song" by Peter Yarrow and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Fox of 24380 Glenda. Mr. and Mrs. Francis Jones, 46930 Chigwidden, are parents of the bridegroom.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She handmade her own wedding gown from imported Italian lace and slipper satin. It was designed with a fitted bodice, a satin cummerbund and full bishop sleeves.

She made her chapel length veil of tulle and trimmed it with lace. It was secured to a headpiece of seed pearls and aurora borealis. Her bouquet was made of white sweetheart roses, carnations and snowdrift mums.

Maid of honor Lisa Armstrong wore a long gown of turquoise flowered bridal chiffon and a turquoise picture hat trimmed with matching ribbon and veiling.

She carried a nosegay of white snowdrift mums, blue carnations and turquoise streamers.

The bride's sisters, Mrs. Ronald Pastor, Mrs. Richard Elie and Lori Fox all were bridesmaids and wore dresses made by their mother.

The gowns were lime green and made identical to the maid of honor's. They wore matching picture hats and carried nosegays with lime green accents.

James Penrod was best man and the ushers were Ed Zywiec and Howard and Jeff Jones.

Attending the reception at Roma Hall were guests from Arizona, Florida, California, Georgia and Tennessee as well as Michigan.

After a wedding trip to Cape Cod and Niagara Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Brian Clay Jones returned to Ypsilanti where both are studying at Eastern Michigan University.

Great Books Club Opens

An invitation has been extended Northville area residents to join the Great Books program at the Carl Sandburg Library in Livonia. Val Kastner, Northville spokesman for the group, announced the fourth year readings are scheduled to begin Thursday, September 21 at 8:15 p.m.

The group meets for two hours the first and third Thursday of each month. First reading will be two Chekhov plays—The Three Sisters and The Cherry Orchard.

"These people represent every age and walk of life," explains Kastner, who may be reached at 349-4757 for additional information.

According to Kastner, the Great Books program rests on four basic ideas: first, that liberal education is necessary for all men; second, that liberal education is life-long education; third, that some great books, written in today's age as well as in other ages, provide the basis for liberal education; and, finally, that people who respect the power to reason, in themselves and in other men, can help one another learn from the Great Books.

"People in Great Books groups reap many benefits from the program," explained Kastner. "They learn to read more perceptively and to evaluate contemporary writing against the best that has been written in fiction, politics, history, science, philosophy and religion."

"They learn to think independently because they become accustomed to supporting what they say with evidence and judgment. They learn to express themselves more clearly because they talk regularly about serious ideas. They learn to listen more intently because they discover how much they can learn from others."

"Above all, people in Great Books groups value their association with other thoughtful adults in the rewarding activity of putting to work in their own lives the accumulated wisdom of the human race."

Seek Names For Guide

Any Northville organizations who have not as yet been contacted by the Northville Jayettes and wish to be included in the group's guide to clubs and organizations are asked to call Mrs. Russell Anger at 349-0068 as soon as possible.

Last month, the Cutlers held a reception for the couple at their Farmington home. Mr. and Mrs. Hale are now making their home in Clinton.

The Northville Mothers' Club will hold its first meeting of the school year at 8 p.m. on Monday, September 18 at the home of Mrs. Robert Boshoven.

At Epiphany Lutheran

Members Plan Year

When it comes to deciding what Epiphany Lutheran Church in Northville Township is going to do to carry out a project, there's one thing they don't do.

"We never vote. We work strictly on a consensus and we discuss," said Epiphany's Reverend Frederick Prezioso.

"This way of operating has been going on for the last two years at Epiphany ever since, at Reverend Prezioso's suggestion, the Church Council decided to dissolve all church committees and form others only when needed ad hoc style.

When those committees are formed, anyone who is a member and wishes to have a say in the planning is invited to express his wishes.

"To determine the direction of our ministry at Epiphany," said Reverend Prezioso, "we plan the whole year in advance."

Although the year for them begins on Easter Sunday and ends the next year on Palm Sunday, initial planning begins in February when interested members meet to decide the basic thrusts of the year.

Those present decide on the operating image of the church year and form task forces. This year there are three: One is community involvement for the congregation, another is called spiritual and intellectual life and the third is evangelism and stewardship.

Each force has a leader and members may participate in any of the forces as they please to work on projects.

Each of the task forces then meets to decide what the projects will be and how they will be carried out. These meetings are very carefully planned.

"The planning meetings are planned," Reverend Prezioso said. He explained that the meetings are structured so the members attending have only a certain amount of time to discuss a certain matter and then must go on to another.

"This forces them to talk until they come to a conclusion because there is no voting. Everyone must agree," he said.

"The most difficult thing to do is get people to realize the opportunity they have. If you want to change something or disagree, all you have to do is come to one of the meetings and shout out your ideas. We work at that. Too many people don't believe they can have an effect."

Reverend Prezioso said people balk at the structure of the way of doing things and at first he had to push the members of his congregation to move in that direction.

"All I asked was that they try it for a year. I wanted to prove it could be done. At the end of the first year the members decided they wanted to try it again and it is working very well."

The members in this way of doing things, he said, see how they fit into the structure. "It has a unifying function."

The basic idea was first introduced to Reverend Prezioso at a course he took in Detroit offered by the Ecumenical Institute. "I don't know of any other church operating this way," he said, and added that it can work for anything, not just churches.

It is more work for himself, but Reverend Prezioso said "he can't see operating differently right now. "The key is getting everyone involved. That is where the success is."

Athas Resigns as City Manager

★★★ Council Denies Request

A rezoning request which would have allowed construction of a proposed 824-unit multiple complex on 80 acres of land south of 11 Mile Road was rejected by the Novi city council Monday.

The action came at a public hearing called to consider the request of Philip McCafferty to rezone 80 acres from its present R-1 (one family residential) to R-2-A (restricted multiple family residential).

The property is located south of 11 Mile Road midway between Taft and Novi Roads.

Opposing the rezoning Monday were a group of approximately 40 residents of adjoining property.

The council's action came by a 5-2 vote after the city's planning commission had unanimously recommended the request be denied.

James Cherfoh, planning board secretary, noted that it was only at the insistence of the petitioner, McCafferty, that the hearing had been granted. "We were against allowing multiples in this area originally and had denied the request to hold a public hearing on the matter," Cherfoh told the council. "It was only because the petitioner asked us for the opportunity to present his arguments to the council and the public that we consented to the hearing."

McCafferty's presentation was based on the tax advantages of multiple units over single family units.

If the land is developed single-family residential, he projected, a population boost of 840 people-360 of them school-aged-could be expected. With a multiple development, a population increase of 1,714 could be expected, but only 115 of them would require schooling.

The tax base of a R-1 district would be $4.8 million, while the tax base of an R-2-A district would be $15.5 million. Figured on the current millage rates, this would mean, McCafferty said, that the single family zoning would bring in $240,000 annually in taxes, but it would cost $360,000 to provide educational facilities for the children-a deficit of $120,000.

Under R-2-A development, $770,000 in taxes would be generated with only $115,000 required annually to provide for schooling.

"There's room in every community for a tastefully done multiple development which would help support the rest of the community," McCafferty concluded.

The developer's presentation did little to sway the planning board, the residents, or the council, however.

Edward Vettel, Novi's planning consultant from Vilvan-Leman, had recommended that the rezoning request be denied on the grounds that the surrounding zoning is R-1, the R-2-A was not in keeping with the city's master plan for that general area, and that access roads were not sufficient to handle the increased vehicular load.

The planning board by a 6-0 vote recommended to the council that the request be rejected.

"In our master plan for development," said Ronald Birou, "we have made adequate allowances for sufficient tax base. I don't feel

To Serve Novi Schools

Nature Study Center OK'd

Development of an outdoor education center on three acres of property south of the high school football field was given the go ahead Tuesday night by the Novi Board of Education.

By its action the board authorized the retention of James A. Lahde as a consultant in development of the nature study center at an expense of $1,000.

The money is to come from the district's 1970 building and site fund.

Specifically, Lahde, an ecologist, will have charge of preparation of a master plan for the development of the property through the combined efforts of teachers, students and citizens of the community.

Development of the plan, as well as the actual physical work on the site, is seen as a learning process for students.

Superintendent Gerald Kratz, in recommending the center, emphasized that it will serve the entire district, from kindergarten through the 12th grade. Elementary children, for example, will be bused to the site as part of in-district field trips.

The site itself, which has long been included in the board's plans for the district, would entail relatively little construction, with major emphasis on preservation of the natural wildlife, board members were told.

It would consist of wood chip trails, teaching stations or discussion circles and a self-guided tour stressing the center's most important ecological features, Dr. Kratz said.

Emphasizing the preservation aspect of the proposal, the superintendent noted that while some of the fallen trees might be removed from the site, some of this timber could be kept on the site to permit young children to actually cut it up to determine the age of the tree and the reasons for its destruction.

In other words, every effort will be made to provide a learning experience for students, he indicated.

In his slide presentation to the board, Lahde proposed establishment of a committee of teachers, students and citizens to help in development of the master plan.

He proposed a first-step inventory of the natural and unnatural materials on the site, followed by a survey of the school curriculum to determine what educational programs can be developed to tie in with the nature center.

While all five board members present voted for the proposal, Vice President Bruce Simmons noted the center could have an adverse effect on his adjoining orchard property. He said currently he is losing hundreds of dollars worth of fruit taken from his trees by youngsters.

But Dr. Kratz took the position that involvement of youngsters in the nature center site could reduce this kind of theft. He likened the situation to the recently publicized reduction of vandalism to Fruehauf's Detroit plant because of the firm's development of an adjacent children's play area.

In other action Tuesday, the board adopted a free and reduced meals policy for needy children. The guidelines, part of the government's requirement before it will provide funds for school hot lunch programs, were outlined in letters to parents and guardians this week.

The letter points out that because some families may find it difficult to pay the full price of their children's meals

(45-cents at the elementary schools and 50-cents at the middle and high schools), "this school provides meals at a reduced price or free to children who are unable to pay the full price."

To qualify, parents or guardians are asked to fill out applications, listing income and expenses.

In joining with other board members in accepting the guidelines, Simmons emphasized, however, that a thorough confidential study of applying families should be made by administrators.

The board also approved the addition of cross country to the district's interscholastic sports program, but Trustee Robert Wilkins registered a strong complaint that the athletic department

Novi Ponders Replacement

City Manager George Athas submitted his written resignation to the Novi city council Monday. The resignation becomes effective at the end of the working day Friday, October 13.

Reading from a letter to Mayor Joseph Crupi and the member of the council Athas said, "I have recently been offered a position in private industry that in all fairness to myself and family I cannot turn down."

"After two months of soul searching and probably the most difficult decision I have ever had to face in my life, I have decided to accept this latest job offer."

"It is, therefore, with a heavy heart that I submit to you my resignation as City Manager."

The announcement was received quietly by the council, which, according to Mayor Joseph Crupi, had been apprised that the resignation was forthcoming last Friday.

"We spent the entire weekend trying to talk him out of it," commented Councilman Raymond Evans after the meetings was adjourned.

The lone official comment Monday was made by Crupi.

"It is with deep regret that we have to hear a letter of this sort," said the Mayor. "Mr. Athas would be foolish not to accept the offer that was made to him." Turning to Athas, the Mayor said, "George, I don't know how to say it, but we will miss you and wish you well in your new job."

Athas is Novi's fourth manager and third city manager (Fred Olson held the position of manager before Novi was incorporated into a city). Athas was preceded in office by Harold Ackley and Dallas Zonkers.

He was appointed to the position of acting city manager in April 1971 after Zonkers resigned under fire from the council and served on that basis for five months. He was then appointed full-time city manager.

Prior to accepting the acting city managership, Athas had served for three years on the Novi planning commission, chairing that body at the time he was tapped for the top executive's seat.

Athas' 13-month term as city manager has been a quiet one in terms of internal dissension, as he has won the praise of councilmen and employees alike for his handling of the complex city's manager's responsibilities.

During his term of office three major shopping centers-Shopping Center Incorporated (Hudson's), Novi-Ten, and North-Eight-have announced plans to locate in Novi and the city has embarked on a program to construct a new municipal complex.

When asked by The Novi News about his resignation, Athas said a number of things had entered into his decision. "For one thing," he said, "there was a little bit of that old show business adage about 'leaving them laughing' in my decision I think people are pleased with the job I've done and it's desirable to leave on those terms."

"I think I've accomplished a lot in this job," he continued. "At least I'm vain enough to believe I've accomplished a lot."

"I feel every man owes his fellow man something and at the risk of sounding corny this is my way of serving the community in which I live.

What sounds even cornier is that I've got 60-75 people working for me and it's going to be difficult to say good bye to one's family. I know that sounds corny but it's true."

Athas denied that health considerations entered his decision. Though only 38 years old, he suffered two heart attacks in the past 12 months and collapsed from exhaustion in his office on another occasion.

He did not say which firm he has agreed to go with, but indicated that it was a company not presently doing business with the city.

In his letter of resignation he told the council, "I thank you for your support and for giving me the honor and privilege of serving our city. I have tried to the best of ability to perform these duties as you have wanted them performed and state now that I will be at your service in any manner at any time you wish in any service you may ask me to perform on behalf of our city."

Athas said he would continue to reside in Novi.

According to the city charter, action on the resignation will come at Monday's council session.

The task immediately at hand for the council will be to find a replacement for Athas. There was some discussion Monday of appointing Novi D.P.W. Head Ed Kriewall to the position of acting city manager. Kriewall has served as Athas' administrative assistant recently in addition to handling the DPW duties.

The suggestion of appointing Kriewall last Monday was squelched by Councilmen Edwin Presnell and William O'Brien, who suggested that such action was premature at this time.

Also discussed Monday was the process of advertising for a new city manager in the Michigan Municipal League publication. The Novi manager's job is budgeted to pay a salary of approximately $20,000 annually.

Ziegler Requests Jury Trial

Novi school board member William Ziegler stood mute to charges of larceny under $100 when arraigned Thursday before 52nd District Court Judge Martin Boyle.

A pre-trial hearing was set for November 2 at 2 p.m. in the Walled Lake District Court. The case will not go to trial, according to Judge Boyle, until sometime in December or January.

Ziegler and another Novi resident, Richard Jensen, are charged with the theft of some pipe from a Michigan Bell construction site in Novi June 6.

Representing Ziegler and Jensen in the proceedings is Attorney Sander Levin, former candidate for the office of state governor.

The two Novi men were slated to appear in court for arraignment Thursday. Instead Levin submitted a letter on their behalf, entering the information that both defendants stand mute on the charges and requesting a jury trial.

When questioned about the length of time between the

Grubb Quits Wixom Post

The resignation of Councilman Elwood J. Grubb Tuesday night came as a total surprise to Wixom Mayor Gilbert Willis and the other members of the city council.

Grubb, who has not been present at the last two council meetings made known his plans to resign, effective immediately, in a letter to the Mayor, the council and the citizens of Wixom.

In the letter, Grubb said, "My duties as postmaster (of Wixom) and personal obligation makes it necessary I take this action."

Grubb has worked in Wixom city government for the last 14 years, serving on the Planning Commission, at one time its chairman, the Industrial Development Commission, as Justice of the Peace in addition to his position on the council. He called his years of community service "a rewarding experience."

Grubb thanked the Wixom people for the opportunity afforded him and said, "it is my strongest hope that our city council will continue to be made up of members who are not afraid to stand up and be counted regarding issues at hand.

"The citizens elect the legislative body to represent them. They are entitled to know where their representative stands throughout his term in office."

Councilman Robert Dingeldey called Grubb's surprise resignation "a personal tragedy" for the council and added that the council "will have to search

Business Leader Dies Suddenly

The services will begin at 10 a.m. at the Harbin's Funeral Home, 43801 Grand River.

A memorial service was held Wednesday evening (7 p.m.) at the funeral home under the auspices of the Novi Moose Lodge of which Mr. Johnson was a charter member.

Owner of Wilkins Parts & Equipment Company, 45900 Grand River, Mr. Johnson was active in community civic affairs, serving at the time of his death as president of the Novi Rotary Club.

He resided at 23711 Meadowbrook Road in Novi. He moved to this area 21 years ago, becoming well known throughout the Novi-Northville area.

Born July 21, 1914 in Saginaw, he was the son of George and Rosa Johnson. His wife, Margaret, whom he married on November 30, 1940, survives him.

Other survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Robert (Carol) Nickels of McRae, Georgia, a sister, Mrs. John (Evelyn) Curtis of Beloit, Wisconsin, and two grandchildren. A daughter, Sharon Ann, preceded him in death.

Burial will be in Roselawn Cemetery in Saginaw. Memorials may be sent to the Novi Rotary Club for crippled children.

In Houck Home

Artistic Touches Abound

Items passed down to Mr. and Mrs. David Houck from their families and Mrs. Houck's original artistic touches throughout, have given their home a certain uniqueness.

Their Northville Township Cape Cod style home will be one of the five opened to the public on September 28 for the sixth annual Northville Presbyterian Church's Homes Tour.

Mrs. Houck has been doing decoupage for the past six years. "Mrs. Hardee Betha gave decoupage classes in her home for her friends. I took it up then, and have been doing it ever since," she said.

Her work is displayed throughout the house. Among the pieces is her first decoupage project, a wooden candleholder which sits on a counter in the kitchen.

"I give most of my work away to friends. It takes me so long to do one piece that I couldn't possibly sell it," she said. For the Homes Tour she will have much of her finished pieces on display in a room she calls the "fun room."

At first glance, the small room off the kitchen might appear to be a utility room, but to brighten it, Mrs. Houck has painted brightly colored flowers on the walls with acrylic paint. She calls it the "fun room."

Mrs. Houck holds an art degree from Indiana University in Indiana, Pennsylvania. More of her artwork is displayed in the kitchen.

Above the spacious cooking area in the kitchen, the Houcks have hung wallpaper with a design of various kinds of fruits. The design is carried through in a pastel picture which Mrs. Houck drew and hung in the kitchen dining area and again on the "Maybury chairs".

The "Maybury chairs" are so called because they were purchased at a sale held after the sanitarium closed. "There were quite a few layers of paint on them, as they were painted every other year. I got most of it off, and then made a stencil for them," she said. The stencil was made to include the same basic pattern as the wallpaper and was used to paint the yellow design on the backs of the six chairs.

In the dining room are several of the family possessions the Houcks received from their families. One is a large bureau which belonged to his great-grandfather. "When we asked for it," said Mrs. Houck, "my husband's mother couldn't understand why we wanted it. She kept it in her basement to store jellies."

The cherry wood drop-leaf table in the dining room belonged to Mrs. Houck's family. "This table," she said, "was in four pieces when we got it. We needed it, so my husband put it together. Now I wouldn't part with it."

Mrs. Houck also has a complete service for 12 of English flow blue china which has been in her family for some time.

In the spacious living room, there are more family treasures. One is a set of white Wedgwood china from Mrs. Houck's family. It is kept in an antique cabinet.

The cabinet, Mrs. Houck explained, was found in the garage of a house she and her husband once rented. It had 25 to 30 coats of paint on it. After she stripped the paint from it she sent a picture of it to a home furnishing magazine to determine whether or not it was an antique. According to their estimate, the cabinet was made in the early 1800's.

Also in the living room is a picture Mrs. Houck believes is a lithograph and is about 200 years old. The title is "His First Pants."

She explained that every time her mother would hang the painting she and her brother and sister "would make a fuss" until it was taken down. It is still in the original frame and she says she wouldn't give it up.

The Houcks have four children. David, 16, has his own room, which he, along with Mrs. Houck's help, decorated.

One wall is painted to resemble the green and yellow ecology flag. There is a plate over the light switch which is painted with the peace sign. David found a psychedelic painting he liked on the cover of a Sunday supplement magazine and Mrs. Houck reproduced it on the window shade in the bedroom.

In contrast to David's room, the Houcks' daughter, Susan, has a very feminine blue and white room with French Provincial furniture.

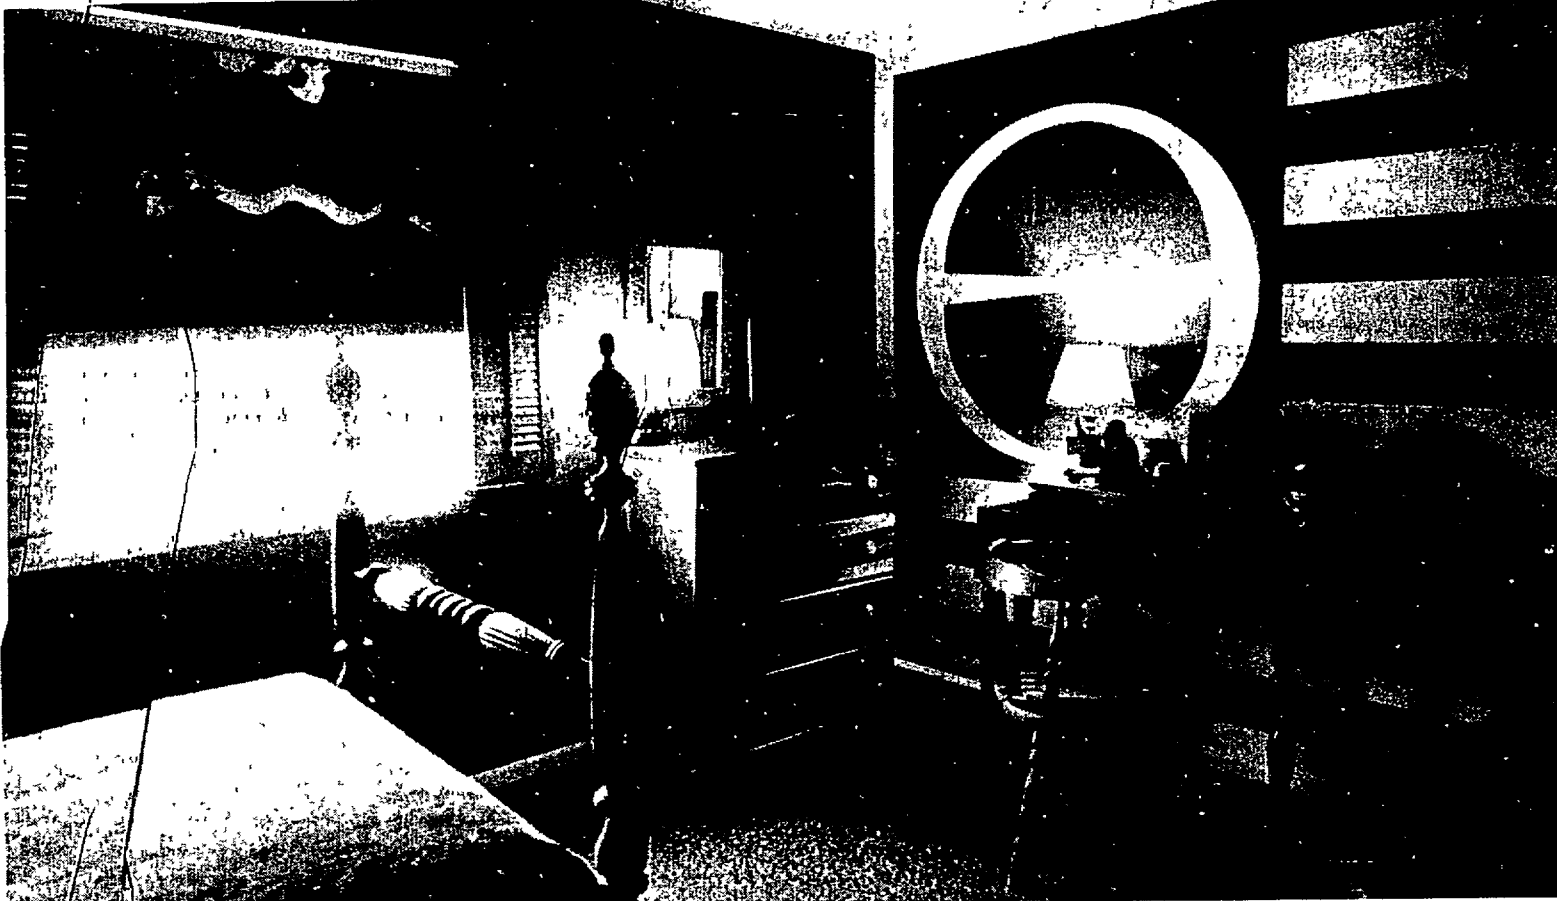

Just outside the back door there once stood a large elm tree. Mrs. Houck said, like so many other elms, they were forced to cut the tree down because of Dutch elm disease. Half of it was left, so she painted it white and drew ivy and birds on the trunk and branches. The tree is a favorite climbing place for the Houcks' two sons Billy, 13, and Peter who is seven.

Baptist Church Honors 18 Women

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Eighteen long-active women of the Baptist Church were honored Tuesday evening by the Christian Women's Fellowship group during the opening session of their fall program.

Most of the women, now in their 70's and 80's, have been active both in the church and the community since "way back when". They were the ladies who cooked, served and washed dishes for just about every church function, bridal shower or reception. They were the ones who were called on time and again in time of need or grief. The hours spent by these ladies are countless and sometimes unknown to the community.

In later years, the duties were passed on to the "youngsters" of the church and now in their golden hours these very same women are active in their own way of serving and helping others. Once each month they meet for fellowship and indulge in their project of making quilts. Most of their beautiful needlework goes to the Pontiac Rescue Mission or to an Indian mission in Maine. Sales of quilts within the community help to buy more materials for more quilts.

And so, these 18 lovely ladies were honored for their work: Mrs. Gina Monroe, Mrs. Lottie Proctor, Mrs. Edith Porter, Mrs. Lillian Byrd, Mrs. Katherine Bezaire, Mrs. Mary Greenlee and Mrs. Louise Bowers. Also, Mrs. Alice Hopkins, Mrs. Mildred Bogart, Mrs. Charlotte Banfield and Mrs. Florence VanAmberg. Others receiving the gold crowns that signified those honored were Mrs. Polly Allen, Mrs. Alma Woodworth, Mrs. Alma Johnston, Mrs. Olive Huith, Mrs. Ethel Hopp, Miss Marian Nichols and Mrs. Caroline Rubritius.

Wixom Elementary School kids—set aside Saturday, September 9 for the annual Parks and Recreation Decathlon. Last year's "day" brought a good showing of both kids and parents and it is hoped that even more youngsters will participate this year.

Children are grouped by grades for the events which include dashes of various lengths, bicycle races for boys and girls from the fourth through the sixth grades, football kicks, baseball throws, broad jumps and a host of other activities to complete an active day.

Ribbons and medals are awarded to winners in the events and after final tabulation, the boy and girl decathlon winners are announced at school.

After just passing through a rather hectic week of the Olympic games in Munich, feeling should be rather high in the track and field categories. We can have our own Olympics right here in Wixom.

It's a good fun day—why not join in?

Last week I mentioned that the Hardesty's took their annual Labor Day trek across the Mackinac Bridge. What I failed to tell you was that their youngest daughter, Lori, was honored at ceremonies after the completion of the walk as the youngest girl to ever walk the entire length of the bridge. Lori is a whole four years old and deserves a big star for her endurance.

Elna and Paul Salo of Nalene Street hosted a going away coffee last Friday night for Hickory Hills neighbors, Marie and Ray Lehto. Old friends and neighbors gathered to wish them good luck on Ray's retirement from Bendix Research and a fond adieu as they head to their new home in Arizona.

The Wixom Chamber of Commerce met on September 6 at Calico Kitchens to resume their usual monthly meetings after the summer break. Projected projects to accomplish were discussed with the Chamber by its president, Charles Smith. At the same time, members were appointed to the various committees of the chamber.

Heading the Program and Planning segment is Chief George Von Behren of the Wixom Police Department along with George Woodhead and Cliff Cottrell.

John Kurti of the Wixom Branch of the Community Bank will head Activities, Promotion and Entertainment along with William Travis and Nancy Liddle.

Membership and Dues will have as its chairman, Virgil Clifu of the Walter Toebe Company and working with him will be John Kurti and John Lutz.

Agents from the FBI received an assist from city police this week in apprehending a man they wanted.

City police stopped a 30-year-old man last Thursday afternoon for speeding. The man, who stated he did not have his drivers license with him, identified himself with a passport as Israel Long.

A routine check run by city police showed no person with that name on file but later it was learned that an Israel Long, who closely matched his description, was wanted by the FBI.

City police contacted the motel in Monroe where Long said he was staying, but the motel said they only had a Lerae Lung registered. His car and description matched that of Long.

The FBI was contacted, went to the motel and found that Lung and Long were in fact the same Israel Long wanted by their agency.

Under investigation by city police is a break-in of an apartment at 957 Novi Road. According to reports, the door of the apartment was kicked in sometime late Saturday. Nothing was reported missing.

A 32-year-old Novi man was taken to Northville State Hospital after he attempted to commit suicide Sunday night in the city jail.

According to police, the man phoned his wife, told her of his intentions, and she called police back. Police found he had slit his wrist. Five stitches were required to close the cut.

Police recovered a stolen car at 2:44 a.m. Monday on West Main Street near Center. The car had been reported stolen September 5 from Dearborn.

The arrests were made after police questioned the pair while they were attempting to hitch hike on the east bound I-96 entrance ramp.

The two men told officers their car had broken down at the corner of Grand River and Beck Road and they were attempting to get back to Detroit.

A police car was dispatched to the site and the car was located by officers. While looking inside the vehicle officers noted some narcotics paraphernalia lying on the front floor. Further investigation uncovered a quantity of suspected narcotics which were subsequently determined to be marijuana.

With the aid of Dr. Arnold Kelz, owner of the clinic, police were able to determine the type of quantity of drugs which were taken. Value of the stolen goods was estimated at $500.

It was the second time that drugs have been stolen from the Wixom Clinic in the past two months.

Police are investigating the possibility of arson in conjunction with a fire at the Holloway Construction Company Sunday, September 3.

The owner of the company reported that it appeared as if a fire had been set on a tractor and trailer parked among other equipment in the storage yard.

The fire was extinguished by company employees.

A 1969 pickup truck stolen from Design Degree on Wixom Road sometime before September 5 was recovered by Milford Police last week.

The truck, according to reports, was found in a ditch on Old Plank Road near the Grand Trunk railroad tracks. The motor and radiator were missing and the vehicle had been set on fire with fuel oil.

Cadillac presents the class of '73

Clearly, these are the most magnificent Cadillacs ever built. Not only for what you can see—the bold new exteriors and the plush new interiors—but as much for what you can't see.

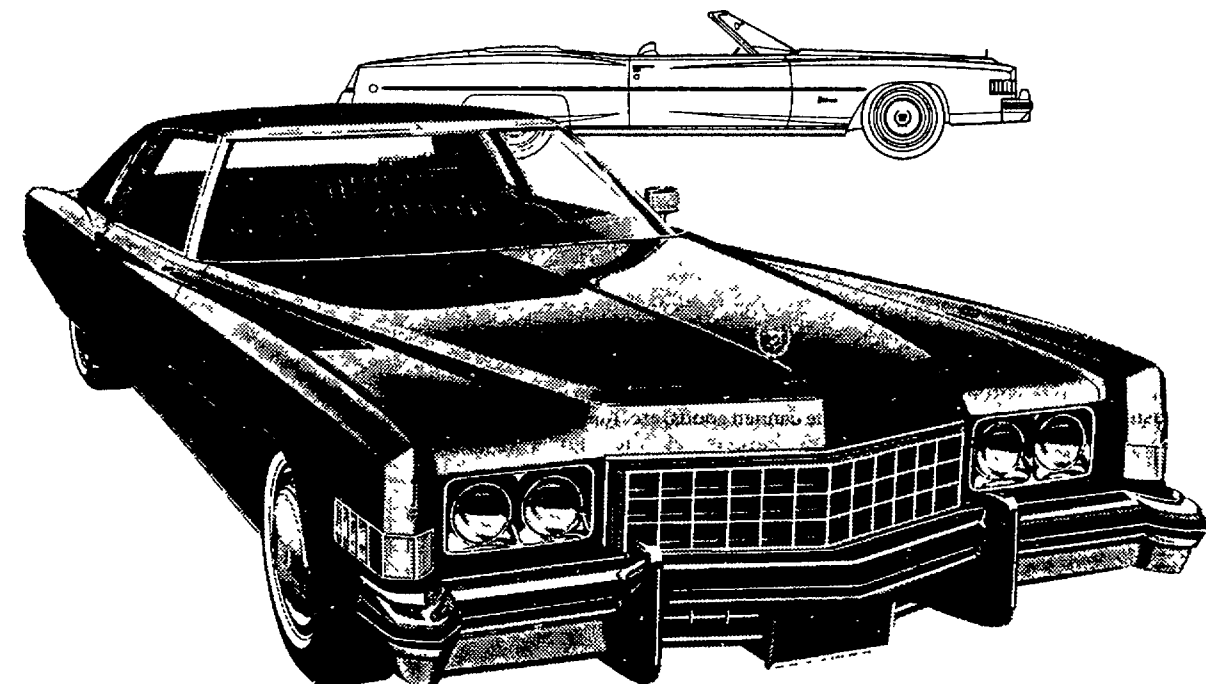

You see here the new Sedan deVille, Eldorado Coupe and Eldorado Convertible. You don't see the six other new Cadillacs (more models than all other U.S. luxury cars have combined).

You see here the striking new styling outside—even more elegant for '73. You don't see the hundreds of innovations and refinements inside. To add new comfort and convenience.

And you don't see the many new niceties you may add. Like a lighted vanity mirror. A theft-deterrent system and steel-belted radial tires.

Clearly, you never had so many good reasons to visit your authorized Cadillac dealer. Cadillac Motor Car Division. The leadership shows.

AD IN THE MAKING—Northville motorists did a double take this past week upon seeing an army of people lined up in front of a Main Street house, opposite the Junior High annex, waiting for photographers to start shooting. It was all part of an advertisement in the making by the Campbell-Ewald agency for the United Foundation. Contracted to handle the photographic layout for the advertisement slated for wide distribution was the Boulevard Photographic Corporation of Detroit. A partner in the corporation is John Wisner of Northville, who often picks a Northville setting for his firm's work. So while Boulevard's photographer and art director, Glen Daley and Art Obrosey, shot pictures of the professional models and volunteer residents of Northville, The Record's photographer, Jim Galbraith, shot this picture of the picture taking. Theme of the advertisement is, it is better to give once to the U-F than to each of the numerous organizations which benefit from the annual U-F campaign.

Joseph Dagher

Teacher Writes Book

A Schoolcraft College instructor who didn't speak the language until he was nine years old, has added a new dimension in his mastery of English with the publication of his first textbook on the subject.

Joseph Dagher, English instructor at Schoolcraft since 1967, is the author of Knowing 'Why' Makes Writing Easier, just released by Kendall-Hunt Publishing Company of Dubuque, Iowa.

Its 450 pages have been designed as a practical book aimed at teaching practical writing. According to author Dagher, "Its objective is to teach students how to write the kind of writing that everyone might be expected to write at one time or another."

The text has been written for college freshmen, and includes manual or workbook exercises as well as textbook material.

Dagher is very enthusiastic about his work which shifts traditional concern from the "how and what" of writing to the "why" for writing. "My concern is with the writing students will be expected to do when they get out of college," he said.

Dagher admits that his early years tended to make him an unlikely candidate for being the first textbook author on the Schoolcraft faculty. He was born to Lebanese parents in a Cleveland suburb, and the family spoke Arabic exclusively until Dagher was nine years old. Once he became familiar with English, however, he found it a fascinating subject, and it has been his major interest both as a student and as a teacher.

Dagher believes that English cannot be taught by using master writers as models to be imitated by students. Rather, typical freshmen compositions are used as models of writing in his text, and it contains efforts of many of his students at Schoolcraft College, by name.

A graduate of Kent State University with a bachelor's and master's degree in English, Dagher has completed the required class hours toward a doctorate at Ohio State University. He has also done graduate work at the University of Michigan in Middle Eastern studies and has taught Middle Eastern History at Wittenberg University.

Before coming to Schoolcraft, Dagher taught at Toledo DeWitt High School, at Toledo University and at Bowling Green University. He served four years in Europe as a captain in the U.S. Army.

Dagher believes that there is a relationship between language and earning a dollar. To demonstrate, he is the president of J.A.F.S. Inc., operators of Freddie's Drive In Restaurant in Bucyrus, Ohio, and the Motel Lido in Toledo.

Among the acknowledgements for his text, Dagher extends grateful thanks to Larry Ordowski, Schoolcraft's director of liberal arts, and to David Perkins, a fellow English teacher at the College who offered suggestions and assisted in reading the manuscript.

The book is dedicated to Dagher's wife, Jeanne, who, formerly taught in the Novi schools, and to his daughters, Jeanice and Lauri, both English majors in college. The Daghers live at 18234 Jamestown, Northville.

College Hosts Ralph Nader

With Ralph Nader, the Don Ellis Orchestra, Barbara Seaman, and Jeremiah Collins scheduled to appear in that order, the fall celebrity series at Schoolcraft College offers interesting and exciting fare for a variety of entertainment tastes.

First up on September 21, Nader will take a look at party platforms for the upcoming presidential election, and what they hold for consumers.

This will be Nader's second visit to the Schoolcraft Campus. His assignment is more specific than when he first spoke here two years ago. Then he discussed how the American consumer was being shortchanged in general. This time he will direct his remarks to the 1972 presidential party platforms, and what they hold for consumers.

Nader is probably America's most famous, and most effective critic. His documented criticisms of government and industry have had wide-spread repercussions on public awareness and bureaucratic power. According to Time Magazine, he is "U.S.'s toughest customer."

Nader is 38. He graduated magna cum laude from Princeton University and received his law degree from Harvard University in 1958. He first made headlines in 1965 with his book Unsafe at Any Speed, a scathing indictment of the automobile industry for producing unsafe vehicles.

The New York Times said of him, "What sets Nader apart is that he has moved beyond social criticism to effective political action."

Hearing Ralph Nader lecture is an experience unto itself. Not just due to his oratory proficiency, but owing more to his obvious sincerity, the listener cannot help but be impressed by his facts and figures, motivated by his ideals.

On October 7, the series shifts to Clarenceville's Schmidt Auditorium where the popular Don Ellis Orchestra will perform at 7:30 p.m. A second show has tentatively been set for 10:30 if ticket demands warrant.

Women's Rights will be in the spotlight on October 24 when Barbara Seaman, author of Free and Female, visits the campus. Her earlier book, The Doctor's Case Against the Pill, alerted the nation to the dangers of the contraceptive pill. She will speak in the Waterman Campus Center at 8 p.m.

"JFK", a critically acclaimed dramatic portrait of John F. Kennedy, will be presented in Garden City on November 6. An original, one-man drama starring Jeremiah Collins, it is scheduled for an 8 p.m.

Meanwhile, both sides are awaiting the appointment of a factfinder, as requested by the NEA.

Under the interim agreement, teachers will be paid at the 1971-72 negotiated salary schedule, not that curtain in the O'Leary Performing Arts Center.

The celebrity series is sponsored by Schoolcraft's Cultural and Public Affairs Committee. General admission tickets range from $2 - $3.50 for the various presentations, and are on sale in the Administration Building on campus. They the tax advantages of a multiple complex should make us disregard our master plan for orderly development."

John Roethel, acting planning board chairman in the absence of Robert Bretz, said he favored the location of multiples in the area and recommended the master plan in the southwest sector of the city be reviewed.

The planning board also agreed with a resident who suggested that to allow the request would be paramount to spot zoning.

The request drew support from Councilmen Denis Berry and Edwin Presnell, however.

Berry took exception to the Vilcan-Leman argument that there was not sufficient vehicular access to the area. Presnell pointed out the existence of industrial property within 200 feet of the 80-acre parcel and suggested that the multiple family homes might provide a good buffer zoning

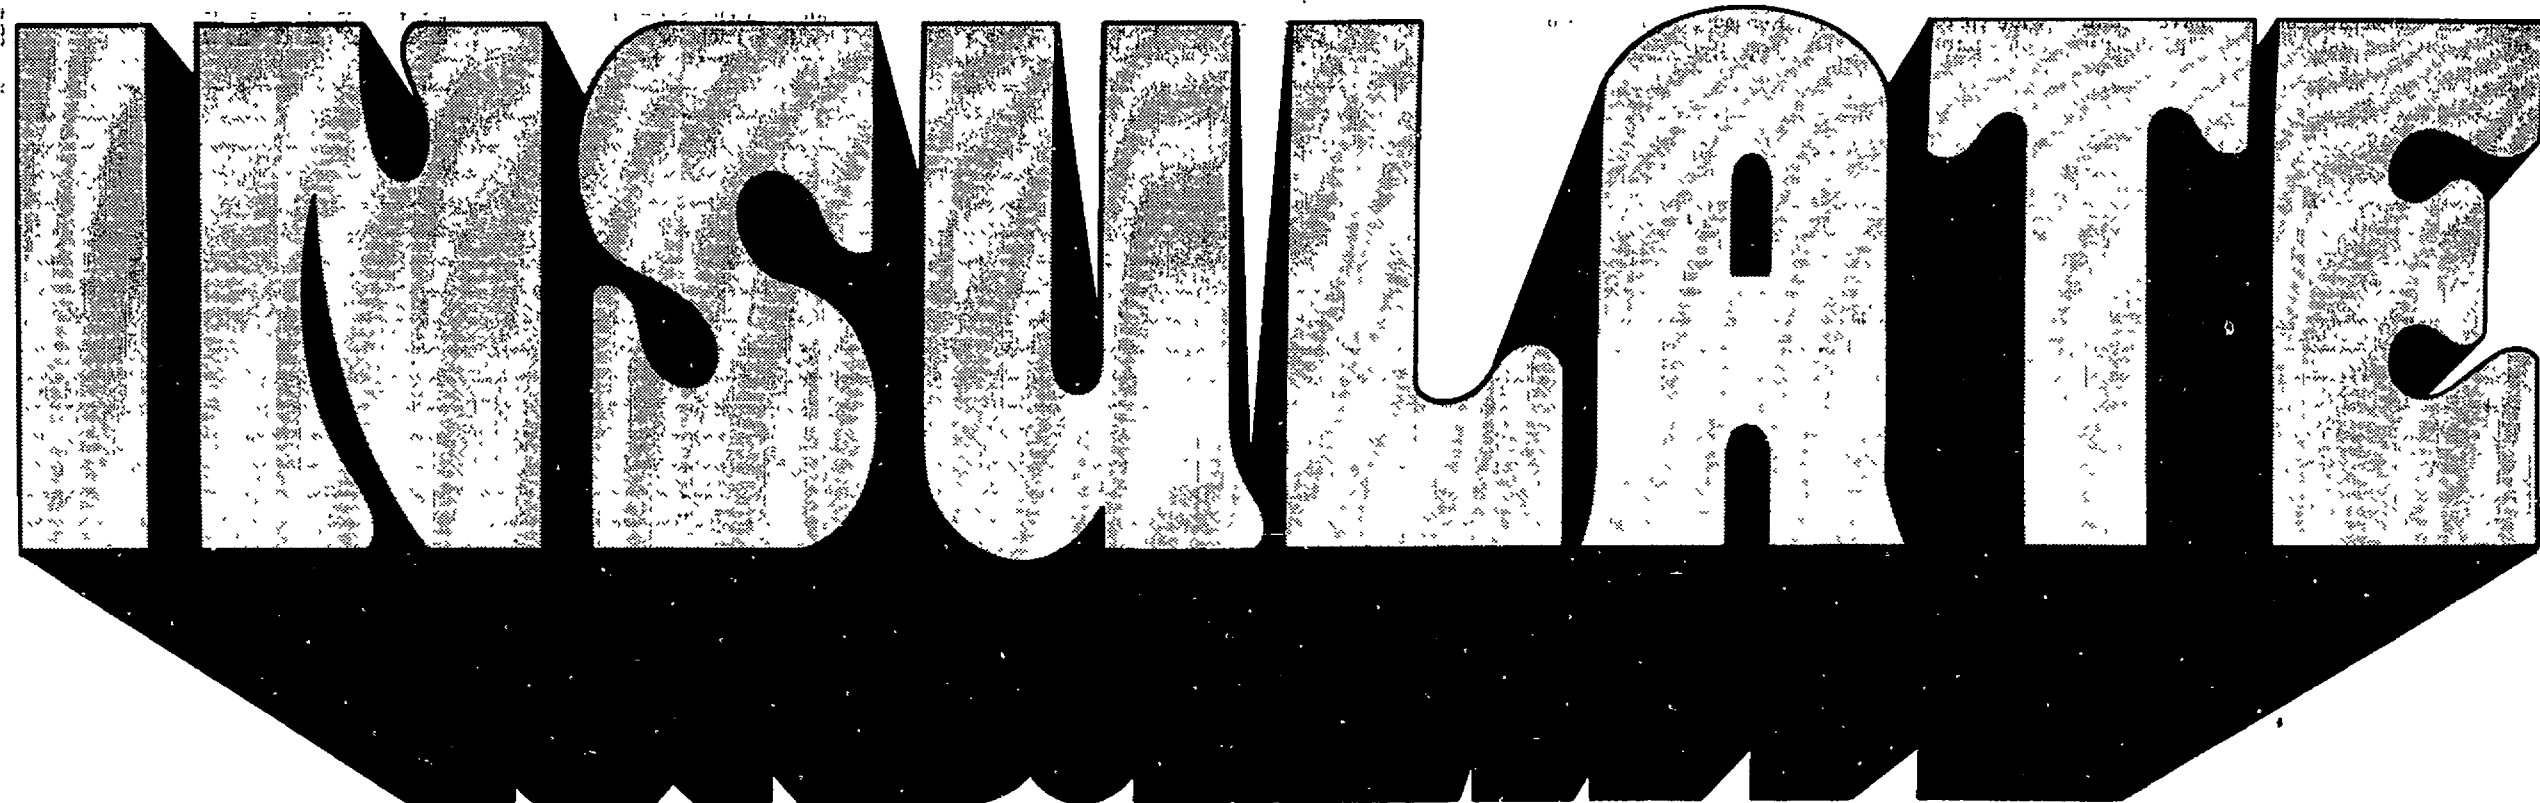

Nevertheless, the council followed the recommendation of the planning board and rejected the request by a 5-2 vote. Presnell and Berry cast the dissenting ballots. Louie Campbell, Joseph Crupi, Raymond Evans, William O'Brien, and Donald Young voted in favor of denying the request

Increase Comfort - Cut Heating Costs

It's a fact that insulation adds to your comfort and saves you heating dollars. When a home is not properly insulated, heated air escapes through the roof and through the walls. Insulation acts as a barrier to stop this heat loss. It keeps your home warmer and reduces your fuel consumption (in many cases as much as one-third). It's easy to install insulation yourself, or have it pneumatically blown in.

Consumers Power Company neither sells nor installs insulation, but for a number of years has encouraged its customers to investigate the benefits of insulating their homes.

Last year after learning the University had officially lowered its female sex barrier, so far as the marching band is concerned, Lynn tried desperately to obtain an auditioning schedule.

Strangely, it was not immediately available. And by the time she finally obtained it and showed up for an audition, she was given the excuse that the deadline for freshmen had passed.

Disappointed but certainly not discouraged, Lynn, a music major, vowed to try again this year.

To make certain she would not miss the auditioning "deadline" this year, Lynn planned her strategy early. Several weeks ago she managed to learn when potential bandmen would first meet. (She learned of the date, incidentally, from a male bandsman who showed her his written invitation).

So when the male bandmen gathered for orientation, Lynn was right there among them, raising eyebrows and garnering wisecracks. But in view of the written policy of last year there was little they could do to stop her assault upon their ranks.

She's been practicing hard ever since, surprising male chauvinists who hoped her proven musical talent would not be matched by required physical stamina.

But, alas, they hadn't counted on the fact, that Lynn was an outstanding athlete in high school.

The irony of all this is that if Lynn does indeed become a member of the marching band--and here's hoping she does--most fans at Saturday's game won't be able to distinguish her from her compatriots what with all the locks hanging down over so many collars.

To the Editor:

Stratford, Ontario, in our opinion, is one of the most beautiful small cities we have ever visited anywhere. The river Avon flows thru the center, and beautiful trees line the banks and are reflected in the water. Swans glide gracefully along as you sit and watch.

The Stratford Festival Theatre is on a bluff overlooking the water.

Stratford has many shops featuring Waterford Irish glass, English china, antiques and many other foreign items.

Probably the primary reason most people visit Stratford now is to see Shakespearean plays portrayed by some of the finest actors and actresses in the world.

It was our privilege recently to attend a performance of "King Lear".

The sound, lighting effects and costumes are unbelievably realistic.

William Hutt, who plays "King Lear" is unquestionably a colossus in the acting profession. Also, a monumental performance is given by Carole Shelley, who plays the part of "Regan", one of the evil daughters. In fact the entire cast does a terrific job.

In addition to "King Lear," they are doing "As You Like It" by Shakespeare, and also "She Stoops to Conquer" by Oliver Goldsmith.

For overnight accommodations and seats for the performances you can write to the Festival Theatre Box Office, Stratford, Ontario, Canada. The plays are given from approximately May 15th through October 15th. It is advisable to make reservations in advance.

Stratford is about three to five hours driving time from anywhere within fifty miles of metropolitan Detroit.

Novi Fills Vacancies

Appointments to the Building Authority and the Parks and Recreation Commission were made by the Novi city council at its Monday session.

Appointed to the Building Authority was Mrs. Winifred Dobek of 12 Mile Road. Mrs. Sherry Ann Edwards and Richard Bingham were the appointees to the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Also appointed to the Parks and Recreation Commission was Councilman William O'Brien. O'Brien is the council's representative on the board.

Mrs. Dobek was one of four candidates for the vacancy on the Building Authority created by the death of Thomas Lawson earlier in the summer. Her selection came after the council interviewed all the candidates last Friday.

Other nominees for the vacancy were Mrs. Romaine Roethel, John McKay, and Frank Scarlett.

Mrs. Dobek's husband is a member of the city's planning board, a fact which drew the attention of Councilman Edwin Presnell prior to the balloting.

"I feel that in a city with a population of 12,000 it shouldn't be necessary for two members of the same family to serve on different boards in the city," stated Presnell.

Presnell also implied that such a situation could have legal ramifications.

Nevertheless, the council approved the selection of Mrs. Dobek by a "wide margin," according to Mayor Joseph Crupi.

Another candidate for the job, Mrs. Roethel, also has a husband on the planning board.

In making the appointments to the Parks and Recreation Commission, the council passed by Peter Alcalá, head of the commission. The two vacancies were created by the expiration of the terms of Alcalá and Richard Bingham.

Both men indicated they would welcome reappointment, but the council accepted other nominations for the two openings. Those other candidates were Timothy Hensel, Mrs. Edwards, and Thomas Swope.

Bingham and Mrs. Edwards were announced as the winners of the council's secret balloting. They were appointed to three year terms.

City charter, in the event of a resignation from a council member, calls for council to appoint someone to fill the vacancy within 60 days.

Willis commended Grubb for his "dedicated service" and concurred with Dingeldey that a replacement would be difficult to find.

Councilman Gunnar Mettala suggested the choice of a replacement be tabled by the council at least until the next regular meeting. "This comes as very much a shock to all of us. We were not aware that this was going to happen."

He then made a motion that council should "except the resignation with sincerest regret" and called Grubb a "very dedicated individual." Mettala said, "We all disagreed at times, but that is part of the democratic way."

Council voted unanimously to send Grubb a letter of commendation and to meet as a committee to discuss the choice of a replacement.

In other action, the council voted unanimously to hold a public hearing on October 24 to discuss the revision of the Wixom building fees schedule.

Boyle's estimate that the case would not be tried until December or January was based on the fact that juries are summoned only four to five times during the course of a year. We probably won't be calling another jury until late in the year," he said.

Following Tuesday's approval of the salary increases, Schaeffer questioned where the money would come from to pay the increases.

Set up to cover Northville city and township and Plymouth city and township, the authority plans to begin trash pick up in January.

Police cases involving juveniles have increased during the first seven months of 1972 when compared with the same period in 1971.

According to a report recently issued by the Northville city police department's juvenile division, 81 cases involving juveniles have been investigated to date, up from 68 cases last year.

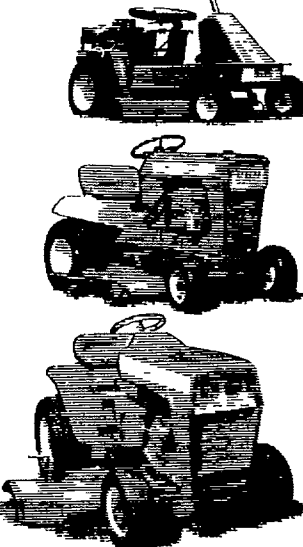

Ten cases involving 19 juveniles were investigated by city police in July, 1972. Of those, five concerned traffic offenses

City Manager Frank Ollendorff, who attended Tuesday's meeting, told the board that when the authority goes out for bids they hope to include all four municipalities which are involved in the study.

Board members said they did not realize, when they became involved in the authority study, that it would begin trash pick up in January or that the township would have to pay the cost of pick up for a guaranteed number of households, whether or not the households paid

Protest Apartment Plans

About 60 township residents turned out to voice their objections to rezoning to build a planned apartment complex located at Bradner and Franklin roads.

Appearing at a public hearing last Thursday night before township planners, Edward Rose and Sons Builders of Southfield unveiled plans for a 340-500 unit complex to be called Lake Phoenix Villa.

Rezoning from single family to multiple use is sought for the 34.89 acre site. Fronting on Bradner, the land is bounded on the north by Franklin, on the west by the C&O Railroad tracks and on the south is about 10 acres from Phoenix Lake.

Donald Dehar, spokesman for the developer, said his firm believes the site is unsuitable for single family homes because of its proximity to the railroad tracks which carry about 20 trains per day.

He said apartments would be well-suited to the area since parking could separate the units from the railroad and persons would only be renting the units and not buying a home or townhouse on the site.

He also commented that the site has a 70-foot drop from Franklin Road to the lake level which could be utilized through design of the apartments but that it would be difficult to build single family homes on the land.

Township Engineer William Mosher reminded Dehar the topography of the site was not originally that steep but that mining of sand caused the difference.

Bill Bartling of 15877 Portis presented a petition signed by 350 residents in the area to the commission, protesting the rezoning to multiple use.

The petition asked the request be denied because it would

- adversely affect property values of homes in the area;
- constitute spot zoning in the middle of a single family area;
- violate the spirit of the zoning ordinance and cause an injustice for adjacent property owners; and
- add more traffic to the roads which already carry heavy traffic which is hazardous to the safety of children in the area.

Weldon Clark of 16201 Bradner Road told planners that the land, if zoned for apartments, would be contrary to the township's rural character.

John Basilico of Old Bedford Road said he was concerned about the quality of the buildings and the people who would be renting apartments. He said he judged the type of people the complex would draw from the amount of rent that would be charged.

Township planners tabled the rezoning request until the October 31 meeting, referring it to the engineer and land planner for their recommendations.

At the beginning of the hearing, Dehar had requested that the decision not be tabled for a long period of time.

Wildcats Favored in Opener

Northville—Novi Renew Hostilities

Round Two of the Northville versus Novi grid rivalry is slated to get underway Friday at 8 p.m. with the Wildcats heavy favorites to make it two out of two against the Mustangs.

Northville last year broke a long-standing tradition of playing Plymouth High School in its opening game, dropping the Rocks from their schedule completely.

At the same time, the seeds for a new rivalry - potentially much more heated than the Northville-Plymouth game - were sewn as the Mustangs and Wildcats arrived at an agreement to meet annually in the season's opener.

In the Northville-Plymouth rivalry, the Mustangs were the smaller school by a considerable margin. The Mustangs find themselves on the other side in their rivalry with Novi, however, being the larger of the two schools by a significant number.

Nevertheless, the hard-nosed Wildcat crew pasted a 22-7 loss on the Mustangs last year in the first meeting between the two schools and are set and ready to repeat the performance again this year.

Both teams should be better prepared.

For one thing, it is highly conceivable that the 1971 Mustangs were guilty of not having enough respect for the talents of their smaller neighbor to the north.

No such overconfidence will prevail this year.

"We know what we're up against," Northville coach Chuck Shonta asserts. "We're well aware of how much talent they've got in that backfield and how well they run the wishbone."

The Wildcats on the other hand should also be better prepared than they were for the Northville game last year. When the Novi gridders took the field in the 1971 clash, it was their first actual game experience with the wishbone and, quite frankly, it took quarterback Steve Lukkari the first half to figure out just how to work it effectively.

Giving the ball time and time again to fullback Gary Collins, Lukkari practically ignored the outside threat of Jim VanWagner and Pat Boyer and the Mustangs walked off the field at the half holding the lead 7-6.

At the suggestion of Head

Coach John Osborne, Lukkari started faking the hand off up the middle to Collins and pitching wide to his two halfbacks in the second half and the effects were significant.

The Wildcats picked up 94 yard rushing in the third quarter alone and by the end of the game had gained 203 yards on the ground, as compared with 86 for the Mustangs.

By the end of the season Lukkari was directing the wishbone offense with unerring precision. With Lukkari and the entire starting 1971 Novi backfield returning to action, the Mustangs will not have the benefit of a whole half of action in which to wear down the Wildcats.

The 1972 clash should be interesting in that Novi is strong where Northville is weak and Northville is strong where Novi is weak. The outcome should be determined by the ability of one team to flaunt the weakness of the other.

Offensively, the edge has to go to Novi. With the backfield chores being handled by "Jimmy" Van and the Trucking Company," the Wildcats should be able to score. A couple of long touchdown runs by either or both VanWagner or Boyer are extremely likely.

Northville's hopes in stopping the Novi attack rest in the play of the lines. The Mustangs are large and experienced on their forward defensive wall, while Novi's blockers are inexperienced and small.

Perhaps the two finest players on the Northville team are co-captain Bill Norton, who will line up opposite Novi's center, and tackle Jim Porterfield, a hard-working, 200 pound defensive tackle, who is both quick and strong.

The other Northville tackle, Ron Angove, is another experienced 190 pounder. The two Novi guards playing opposite Porterfield and Angove weigh 155 pounds each.

The weakness on Northville's line lies at the end positions - the area most frequently under attack by the power sweeps of the wishbone formation. The two Northville starters at defensive end - Tom Johnson and Tom Smith - are both starting for the first time this year and will have an opportunity to prove their mettle in the first game by trying to stop the sweeps of VanWagner and Boyer.

Another aspect of the Novi attack often overlooked by opponents is their passing game. "We're a good passing team," declares Osborne. "But nobody realizes it because we never have had to pass. As soon as someone succeeds in stopping our runners, they'll find out how effective we can be in the air."

The number one Novi receiver is John Pantalone, who will in all probability be the assignment of Northville cornerback and co-captain Steve Griggs.

Offensively, the Mustangs should be able to move the ball against Novi's defense, although they will not be able to strike with any of the suddenness which characterizes the Novi attack.

Again Northville's strength lies in its line. With Angove at center, Tim Rice (6' 185) and Steve Serkaian (5'10", 200) at the guards, and Bill Potter (5'11" 210) and Porterfield at the tackles, the Mustangs will again be larger than their opponents.

The Wildcat defensive line is considerably stronger than its offensive line, however, and should be able to minimize the size difference. Kevin LaFleche has drawn the praise of Osborne for his work at defensive tackle and, if he's lined up opposite Porterfield, could reduce the big Mustang's effectiveness more than any other lineman.

The strength of Novi's defense lies in its two linebackers - VanWagner and Dave Brown. Both are hard hitters and VanWagner, in particular, according to Osborne, blows the lid off all agility tests.

The results should be that the Mustangs will be able to move the ball small distances at a time on the ground and could conceivably launch a couple of long drives against the Wildcat defenders.

The only problem with a ball control offense as compared with Novi's "big play" offense is that there is more margin for error.

Another weapon which the Mustangs might employ effectively against the Wildcats is the forward pass. Last year Northville's most effective weapon against Novi was the pass, and with quarterback Bill McDonald starting his second year at the helm of the Northville attack instead of his first game as was the case in 1971, the passing should be much crisper.

Gone is Jeff Moon, Northville's tough tight end in 1971, but in Steve Griggs, John Sherman, and Bart Taylor, Shonta will have capable receivers on the field.

One final element that could play a role in the game is team emotion. The Mustangs played listlessly at time in stumbling to an 0-7-1 season. Shonta hopes he has found an emotional leader this year in Norton.

Novi has no questions about its ability to fire up for a game, however. VanWagner is a spirited leader, who lends his hard-nosed brand of play to his teammates. He puts out 100 percent on the field and demands the same from his teammates.

Miraculously Osborne has his Wildcat gridders going into the game thinking they're the underdogs. "Northville's been practicing all summer," said one Novi lineman. "But we're out to show them that it won't do them any good Friday."

The Mustangs, on the other hand, have some avenging to do.

FRONT FIVE — Northville's Mustangs will be counting heavily on a big front line not only to help them move the ball on offense, but also to prevent their opponents from moving the ball. The front five average 203 pounds from tackle to tackle. Center is 203-pound Ron Angove, at the guards are 200-pound Steve Serkaian and 190-pound Tim Rice, tackles are manned by 203-pound Jim Porterfield and 215-pound Bill Potter. The Mustangs are going to have to throw some of that weight around Friday to avoid a second straight loss to the Novi Wildcats.

Cole Leads the Way

Harriers Post 1st Win

Northville cross-country coach Ralph Redmond just couldn't have been too displeased with the showing of his 1972 team last week.

Sure, he would have liked to place a little higher than the eighth his runners took at the West Bloomfield Invitational last Saturday.

But when the fact that there were 23 teams competing in the Class B portion of the meet and the fact that eight of those 23 teams placed in the top ten Class B squads in the state last year, there is indeed some reason to believe that eighth place just isn't all that bad.

But the West Bloomfield Invitational wasn't the only appearance that Redmond's runners made in the past seven days. Tuesday they got their 1972 dual-meet schedule underway by swamping Dearborn Crestwood 16-39.

Under cross-country scoring, a score of 15 is perfect.

"I was pretty pleased," said Redmond. "Particularly with the Crestwood meet."

Northville's harriers weren't even scheduled to compete in the West Bloomfield Invitational, but received a last minute invitation and RSVP'd in the affirmative.

"We had to finance it ourselves," said the Mustang coach. "The kids paid the entry fee out of their own pockets. We decided that it would be a valuable experience for us to get in against some big-time competition."

Guy Cole was the top Northville finisher in the 161-man field, as he raced to eighth place over the three mile course. Tom Coram was the second Mustang finisher, copping twentieth place to win one of the medals awarded to the top 25 runners in the meet. The Crestwood meet was no contest as Northville's runners grabbed first, second, third, fourth, and sixth places on "The Monster" - Northville's home course in Cass Benton Park.

Again Guy Cole led the Northville runners to the tape and again Tom Coram was second. Tim Taggart grabbed third, while a pair of sophomores - Fred Shipley and Robbie Foust - were fourth and sixth in the meet.

"I think we're farther ahead this year than we were last year," declared Redmond. "We're getting down to the point where there's only a minute between our first and fifth finisher and that puts us much farther ahead of last year's pace when we still had a two minute lag."

Little League Football

Colts Topple Meteors

Northville's little league football teams got the 1972 season off to a relatively successful start Saturday by winning two of three games from the Westland Meteors.

Two long first-quarter touchdown runs gave the Northville Colts' freshman team a 14-0 half time lead which they maintained in the second half to dump the Meteor frosh 20-6.

The lone Colt loss was on the junior varsity level where the Meteors recorded a 20-8 triumph. The victors scored once in both the first and second quarters on long drives. The Meteors upped their lead to 20-0 with a 78-yard touchdown run the third quarter.

The Northville six-pointer came on a fourth quarter 75-yard touchdown run.

The second Colt victory was registered by the varsity.

Two quick first quarter scores gave the Colts a 12-0 lead which they held until the half. A 25-yard touchdown run midway through the third quarter upped the Colts' lead to 18-0.

The Meteors averted a shutout with a touchdown in the final quarter.

Northville Golf League

Vandenberg Tops Field

The Northville Golf League, one of the oldest in the area, brought its twenty-fourth season to a close Saturday with a tournament at Salem Hills Golf Club and a banquet at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

The venerable Northville Golf League has operated continuously since being formed in 1948.

Taking honors in the season-ending tournament was Paul Vandenberg, who toured the par-72 Salem Hills Course in 73 shots to post the lowest gross score.

Ed Welch, Oscar Yung, and Al Horton shared lowest net score honors in the tournament, as each man recorded a 65.

Fred Hartt was closest to the pin on the sixth hole, while Tom Hughes took closest to the pin honors on the fourteenth hole. Bill Kinnaird's drive on the seventh hole took honors as the longest of the day on that hole.

Winners of awards for the season were announced at the banquet by Secretary-Treasurer Ed Welch. The team of Paul Mack and Phelps Hines took first place for the season in team-play with 111 points, ten more than the second place duo of Emory Kimball and Dick Shepherd.

Low gross score for the season was recorded by Roger Duncan; Denny Armstrong was the individual with the most earned points; and Ted Heckler was named most improved player in the league.

The "we tried" award went to the team of Bob Bogart and Phil Ogilvie.

Members also elected officers for the 1973 season in which the league will celebrate its Silver Anniversary. President is Ray Spear, Ray Williams is vice-president, and Ed Welch is secretary-treasurer. Denny Armstrong was named to the board.

Novi Sets PP&K

Novi's Punt, Pass, and Kick Contest has been scheduled for Saturday, September 30, on the high school athletic field beginning at 9 a.m.

As in past years, the contest is co-sponsored by the Novi Jaycees and St. Rk Hickey Ford West in Redford.

Participation in the competition is open to boys 8-13 years of age and registration forms are available at any Novi elementary school, as well as the Middle School and from Jaycee co-chairman Doug Thrush.

There is no entrance fee. Boys are judged on the basis of distance and accuracy in kicking, passing, and punting a football. There is no body contact in the competition.

John Brown, program coordinator from Stark Hickey Ford, announced that Novi's contest has been selected by the Ford Motor Company as the Tri-county area for publicity. Camera crews will be present to record the entirety of the local competition.

Chairing the project for the Novi Jaycees are John Milnichuck and Doug Thrush.

Class Set For Hunters

A Hunter Safety program open to all children 11 years old and older will begin Monday, September 18, Northville Recreation Department Head Robert Prom announced last week.

According to a new state law, completion of a hunter's safety course is required of all new hunters aged 12-16 before a license will be issued.

Although the law does not apply to previously licensed hunters, Prom encouraged all potential hunters to enroll in the course for their own betterment.

Interested parties should register at the Scout-Recreation Building on Cady Street Saturday, September 16, from 8 a.m. until 12 noon. Further information will be available at that time.

New Location

Northville Weight Watchers has announced that its regular meeting place has been changed. Classes have been moved from the Nursery Room of the Northville First Presbyterian Church to the church's Music Room.

Times and days of the classes will remain the same. Weigh in on Thursdays will be at 7 p.m. with the lecture beginning at 7:30. On Friday weigh in will be at 9:30 a.m. and the lecture at 10 a.m.

BUILDING RAZED—The fire ruined Northville Laundry building was razed this past week, leaving an empty lot on North Center Street, north of Randolph. Harvey Ritchie, the owner of the building, which was destroyed by fire in May, says there are no plans for the property.

Master Plan Changes

Few Hear City Proposals

Anticipated public criticism was almost totally absent Thursday as proposed city master plan changes were unveiled at a meeting of the Northville Planning Commission.

The advertised public meeting drew only a handful of citizens, most of whom came just to listen.

In presenting the findings of the master plan update committee, Chairman Wallace Nichols, who also is a planning commission member, emphasized that the proposed changes are recommendations only and not decisions.

The recommendations concerned three sections of the city and, in actuality, suggested changes in existing zoning as opposed to broad conceptual modifications suggested later by Planning Consultant Ron Nino.

Specifically, the three areas included:

Area I—Located in the western part of the city (excluding that portion west of Taft), from Seven Mile on the south to Base Line on the north, and from Center on the east to the city limits. It excludes that portion defined in Area III but includes the Fish Hatchery property.

Area II—Located in the northeast part of the city, bounded by Base Line, Center, Rayson, the millpond and the C&O Railroad.

Area III—A half-block area between Center and Wing and between Cady and an extended line of Wing Court.

In area I, the committee recommends that all properties presently zoned R-2 (two family dwellings) be changed to a R-1 (single family) classification.

It suggests that all R-2 properties in Area II be changed to R-2A (multiples), and it suggests that the half-block Area III be changed to central business parking.

No one offered any objection to the proposed zoning change in Area I, but several negative comments were made about the changes proposed in the other two areas.

Led by Planning Chairman Thomas Wheaton, several persons questioned the wisdom of changing the zoning in Area II.

More specifically, they challenged Nichols' contention that the proposed zoning change represented a more restrictive zoning, and they appeared to favor instead a change from R-2 to R-1 as is proposed in Area I.

Nichols conceded an R-1 zoning might be preferable.

Nevertheless, he explained that the R-2A is seen by the committee as a way of protecting the character of the fine single family homes in the area while at the same time providing for development of controlled apartment developments.

Under R-2 zoning, single family homes may be converted to duplex or boarding houses which in some cases here and in many cases in other communities has led to neighborhood deterioration, he explained. R-2 simply is not restrictive enough, he argued.

On the other hand, while R-2A does permit apartment developments, it provides for stiff controls. Such apartment dwellings could be developed as senior citizen housing, he suggested.

Wheaton, who lives in Area II, contended R-2A is less restrictive in that it permits apartment developments which are not permitted under R-2.

Both agreed that their major differences appeared to be over a hangup in interpretation of the zoning law itself.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff, who indicated he preferred R-1 zoning for Area II, took the position that it might be better and easier to revise the wording of R-2 zoning than to switch to R-2A.

Nichols explained that his committee had to work within the framework of the existing zoning laws and therefore did not or could not concern itself with changes in law.

Admitting the committee's recommendations are philosophical in nature, Nichols emphasized they are in keeping with the often heard pleas to "preserve the historical character" of the city.

R-1 in Area I, he said, would ensure that preservation.

Concerning Area III, a citizen argued that some of the residents do not want to move no matter how financially profitable it might be to sell their properties for parking.

(The Area III recommendation follows the pattern already envisioned by the city council, which is taking steps to acquire property south of Cady as part of its commitment to provide parking for the Northville Square development).

Implementation of this Area III recommendation was seen as a necessity in view of the city's parking commitment.

Noting this urgency, Planner Don Jones urged the city to immediately consider expanding upward for parking instead of expanding parking boundaries.

"I fail to see the advantage of parking so far south on Wing," he declared, pointing out that few would park and walk the proposed distance to the commercial area.

In view of the urgency, it is essential that the idea of decked parking be considered immediately before the parking boundaries are expanded south to the Wing Court line across to Center, Jones said.

One of the citizens in Area III, contended it would be illegal for the city to condemn property to provide parking for a privately owned commercial development.

However, Ollendorff said the proposed parking would be publicly owned and therefore legal. Pointing out that the Northville Square is providing $200,000, about half the estimated cost for parking, the city manager likened the situation to a property owner assessed for road paving.

"Because he helped pay for the road doesn't permit him exclusive use to the road."

Anybody will be able to park in the area, not just customers of Northville Square," he said.

Senior Citizen Housing

City May Buy Property

With federal approval of a major senior citizen housing development apparently a long way off, the city's housing commission and the council are exploring an alternate partial solution.

Following the recommendation of the commission, the council last week authorized negotiations for purchase of Fairbrook property on which it might build duplexes for senior citizens.

Similar housing may be considered later in other parts of the city, officials suggested.

The property presently being considered is located at 343 Fairbrook, just east of the Fairbrook Apartments. A house and two garages are located on the land.

Cost of the property has been estimated at $25,000, although the city is having an appraisal made before making its offer to purchase.

If the land is purchased, plans call for razing of the existing buildings and erection of factory-built duplexes which reportedly would cost about $15,000 per unit.

"We would propose that the house also be removed so that two duplexes rather than one could be built immediately," the commission recommended to the council.

According to the commission, the city's application for federal aid in development of a major project is still on file. This project, it contended, "is the only way in which a large number of units can be built."

"The problem now is that we have been unable to obtain any commitment as to when funds might be available for Northville. We estimate that even if we receive funds in the near future it would take at least 18 months to complete the project."

"Since the need is urgent we have attempted to find a way to get started with strictly local funds, even if this meant just one or two duplexes the first year. Besides the needs we documented last year, the city manager has informed us of the need to relocate elderly persons being displaced by various city projects."

In recommending construction of duplexes, the commission emphasized, however, "that this is only a small first step in meeting the housing needs for Northville's elderly. We still consider a larger federally funded project our number one priority."

COLLEGE PRESIDENT C. NELSON GROTE

Says WSU Registrar

It's Happening Everywhere

Officials at Wayne State University say that while it is too early to cite concrete evidence of decreasing enrollments, it appears that the university will experience a decrease.

"This isn't something unusual," explained Paul Gullays, assistant registrar. "It's happening all over the country. The word going around is that U-M and Michigan State are finding the same thing."

Gullays and WSU admissions spokesmen noted that while first-time admissions appear to be holding their own, the number of returning students seems to be dropping.

"Students seem to be disillusioned with higher education," Gullays said. "Some, unfortunately, are dropping out in their junior and senior years. Kids seem to be questioned the value...and perhaps that is because of the job market situation. After all, there are many degree students out on the streets without jobs."

"Even if we had a decrease we wouldn't admit it," laughed a spokesman in the admissions office at Eastern Michigan University.

"No, seriously, I'd tell you but it's just too early to say. We don't have the figures yet. Applications have stayed about the same."

No decreases are anticipated at the University of Michigan, according to Harris Olson, assistant registrar.

With classes just beginning, he said the university expects "about the same" enrollment as last year—34,537. No drop is expected in either the graduate or undergraduate schools, he said.

While some specific fields may be down, others are up, Olson reported. He cited engineering as a school where enrollment is down. On the other hand, the number of nursing school students is up. Students seem to be more interested in the social sciences today than in the hard sciences, he said.

The university has been able to offset some of the decreases with additions of new programs. He cited a five-year degree program in medicine as an example of a new program this year that has generated renewed enthusiasm.

Enrollment figures at U-M probably won't be available until October, Olson indicated.

Oakland Community College officials predict enrollment will "hold its own this year," with between 15,000 and 16,000 students at OCC's four campuses and 22 extension centers.

Enrollment figures, reported Betty Setz, director of community relations, are indefinite, with enrollment still in progress. No decrease in the number of instructors or in the number of hours taught is anticipated, she said.

Hitting the books this fall may not be as popular as in past years.

At least that appears to be the case in a number of Michigan colleges and universities, and the decreasing enrollments reportedly are occurring in many schools throughout the nation.

Community colleges (two year institutions) appear to be hardest hit. Schoolcraft Community College, located on the boundary of Northville, is one of them.

"Fewer students are enrolled this year than were enrolled last fall. It's the first time in the history of the college that this has happened," reported Schoolcraft President Dr. C. Nelson Grote this past week.

More students are taking fewer credit hours than in previous years, he noted. "From the standpoint of the community college philosophy, it's good," Grote said. "It shows we are reaching a lot of people who take one or two classes to meet a particular need or interest, be it enrichment or for job improvement."

However, the administrator said that financially, it's a disadvantage. "We are reimbursed by the state for the actual number of credit hours taken, not the total number of students enrolled."

A year and a half ago, average credit hours taken by each student was 9.3. In the spring, average credit hours was 8.9, with about 9 credit hours or less expected to be the average this fall.

What effect is this having on teachers?

"We haven't laid off any of the full time instructors," Grote said, noting the college is under a contract with its teachers, "but fewer classes are being offered for teachers to instruct on supplemental contracts, classes which they teach over and above their normal class load."

"Many classes are smaller and fewer part time instructors are being employed," he continued.

Full time faculty members are given preference on classes over part time instructors.

Why the drop in enrollment?

Grote cited several reasons, most hinging on the high unemployment rate in the metropolitan area.

"A student who has a job is not as likely to give it up and come back to school," he said. "He can't be that sure he will get as good a job when he's done with school as he now may have."

Many students are also disenchanted with higher education, which may not affect the community colleges as much as four-year colleges.

"Students see people with bachelor degrees walking the streets after spending four years in college and think, 'I'm already walking the streets,'" Grote commented. "A BA degree is not the magic credit card to employment that it was a few years ago."

Grote also cited the "year out" which the younger generation seems to be taking after high school graduation.

"Not as many June graduates enter college in the fall as previously. They want a year to travel, work, rest and to get away from school for awhile. They're not excited or motivated to get into college right away," the administrator said.

Many involve themselves in public or social service work while they figure out what they want to do, he said.

The change in the draft law has not had as much of an effect on enrollment this year as last, Grote said, noting male student population decreased last year but female student numbers increased.

Grote said community colleges may not adequately be meeting the needs of groups of people, "which means modification, deletions and additions must be made in the program."

Grote said that had Schoolcraft offered programs in radiology technology, inhalation therapy and medical technology "we would have filled the classes."

He said the college has "neither the money nor the special facilities needed to conduct these courses. We will have to make adjustments within the financial structure or have added finances if we are to offer these classes."

To offset the potential decrease in enrollment, colleges have begun a more active job of student recruitment. Grote said many have modified entrance requirements and worked hard in the metropolitan area.

"Schoolcraft spent more on advertising this year than at any other time," he said. "We hired an advertising firm and advertised on radio and in newspapers. It's a more commercial basis of recruitment than in the past, but this is the era in which we are living."

Here's the Answer

Michigan Mirror

Lawmakers Refuse to Give up

LANSING—Some people just don't know when to take no for an answer. For example, there's the Michigan Legislature. At present members of the legislature are prohibited from running for or being appointed to a state or local office in the middle of their term in the legislature. This means a legislator cannot run for an office such as mayor in the middle of his term or be appointed to head a state department.

The prohibition was written into the constitution in an attempt to make sure lawmakers pay attention to their jobs and not use their lawmaking job to create a cushy job for themselves somewhere in state government.

SOME LEGISLATORS, understandably, don't think much of the prohibition. In 1968 they put on the ballot a proposal to repeal it. The proposal lost.

They followed again this year, putting a repealer on the ballot in the May 16 primary. It lost again.

Well, you might say, it's pretty clear the people don't want to give up that particular control on the legislature. The lawmakers will probably wait at least a few more years before trying to do anything about it any more, right? Wrong.

THE BALLOTS were scarcely counted when members of the legislature started working on another ballot proposal to wipe out the restriction.

Awaiting action when the lawmakers come back for their fall session is a proposed constitutional amendment which would allow them to run for all other offices in the middle of a term, but would not let them be appointed to a job. If it is approved, it will go on the November ballot.

A PRIME BACKER of the new version is Senate Republican Leader Robert Vander Laan of Grand Rapids. He believes voters knocked the proposal down in May because of the appointive provision in it.

"I think a lot of them thought this means 'some legislators would be involved in political payoff jobs,'" he said recently. Vander Laan contends the current law is "just plain discriminatory" against legislators.

One of Vander Laan's fellow Republicans, William Ballenger of Ovid, sees the matter differently, however.

"If anything turns off the voters, turns them against us, it is the arrogance we display when we come right back with this after they turned it down," he said. "We reveal a kind of selfish interest when we do this type of thing. It ought to be a long, long time before we go to the voters with this again."

A DEMOCRAT who backed the idea of putting the proposal on the ballot again didn't think the appointive part of the amendment had anything to do with its defeat.

"I think there's just an attitude about state legislators that pervades," he said. "Voters just have a bad feeling about us."

WHERE CAN you get the most courteous, prompt, efficient service in state government? The question may be open to argument, but a great case can be built for one particular group: secretaries and staff people for legislators.

For the most part, these are well groomed—often very pretty—bright women of all ages, size, color (and presumably creeds), whose job depends on the job of the boss: a Senator or Representative. And an important aspect of their job is to make the person they work for look as effective as possible.

LEGISLATORS are very busy people. But they must be available to their constituents to run the risk of incurring wrath with subsequent loss of votes. The legislator's staff must fill in when the legislator cannot meet these people and this is most of the time.

So the secretary meets you with a smile, explains why the legislator is not available and does her best to help. This might be as simple as taking a message. Often it is not. If information is required, she will seek it, and she is expected to know where much of it is available. She can make appointments if you want them. She is expected to be well informed about many things and to be able to deal with people effectively. Nearly all the secretaries who hold jobs like this fulfill their duties admirably.

UNLIKE most state employees, these are not covered by civil service. Logically enough, this results from the knowledge that each legislator should have the prerogative of selecting his own staff people. And since some legislators are not around for many years, the way must be left open for those who hold office.

When one compares the efficiencies and courtesies the public receives from this group, it is easy to wonder if all state government might be improved a great deal if there were much less civil service; or if civil service regulations left much more room for less efficient, less courteous, less considerate government employees to be replaced more easily than at present.

If the unexpected happens and controls are completely withdrawn, look for fireworks on the labor front:

Archaeology Finds Linked to Indians

Three major finds, linked to prehistoric Indians in the Upper Peninsula and 17th Century Indian and French occupations of Mackinac Straits area prior to the founding of Detroit in 1701, resulted from extensive archaeological digs and field surveys this summer by Michigan State University faculty and students.

The finds were:—Copper-working tools, found in Ontonagon County of the Upper Peninsula, used by prehistoric Indians to shape the legendary Lake Superior copper at about 3500 B.C. about the time the pharaohs united Egypt's Upper and Lower Kingdoms and began building the pyramids.

—The ancient cellar at St. Ignace in which a priest said he had found in 1877 the remains of the famous Jesuit missionary and explorer Jacques Marquette, reportedly buried there by his Huron Indian parishioners in 1677.

—Evidences near the Marquette Mission site in St. Ignace of a large Huron Village shown on a 1684 map by the French explorer Baron de LaHontan.

In addition to the major finds, the MSU crews on digs and field surveys found artifacts from the Archaic (1500 B.C.) and Late Woodland (600 to 1000 A.D.) prehistory eras, and additional 18th and 19th Century artifacts. The finds were made in Emmet, Antrim, Charlevoix, Leelanau, and Cheboygan counties, Mackinac Island, and in the waters of Lake Michigan just north of Fort Michilimackinac.

Dr. Charles E. Cleland, associate professor of anthropology and curator of the MSU Museum, led the field survey which found the ancient tools in the Copper County. They also surveyed in four other counties.

Dr. Lyle M. Stone, who directed that archaeological digs and field surveys on both sides of the Mackinac Straits and on Mackinac Island, is an instructor in anthropology at MSU, an anthropology research assistant at the MSU Museum, and staff archaeologist for the Mackinac Island State Park Commission.

Others participating were MSU anthropology students and graduates, volunteers from the Michigan Archaeological Society, the Michilimackinac Historical Society of St. Ignace, staff members of the Michigan Division of the Michigan Department of State, 12 Detroit members of the American Skin Divers Association, and other individual volunteers.

Dr. Cleland said leads from Upper Peninsula residents led his crew of six persons to "dozens" of sites of prehistoric Indian mining pits in Ontonagon County, near Mass and Rockland east of the Ontonagon River.

They found three rounded cobble stones, varying in size from that of a potato to bigger than a football, which had been used to batter the raw copper found in the area. The cobbles had grooves around them, indicating they had been suspended for use.

Cleland gathered information on each site, in order that they can be placed on the National Register of Historic Sites, and so be preserved. Age of the stone tools was estimated by Cleland at 3500 B.C. to 1000 B.C.

Dr. Stone said the evidences found at the Marquette Mission site, north of St. Ignace on the north mainland of the Mackinac Straits, was the first firm evidence there of occupation by Indians and French in the 17th Century. The two restored forts, Fort Michilimackinac in Mackinaw City, and Fort Mackinac on Mackinac Island, are 18th Century reproductions.

Marquette's Burial Site

"We have enough evidence now to warrant planning major restoration work, at and near the Marquette Mission site," he said. "I am confident we have found the ancient cellar in which Marquette was buried according to the Jesuit missionary reports and a written record by the priests who dug up the bones in 1877. In addition, I believe we have found part of the old Huron Village which stood next to Marquette's mission."

Stone was aided at the straits by Dr. James Fitting, who acted as field survey director, and director of the mission dig, and who will join the Michigan History Division of the Michigan Department of State as staff archaeologist in September.

The Marquette site was almost completely excavated, Stone said. Three new wall trenches were found which appear to belong to a 17th Century structure. The fin-

Wage Controls Cool Union Demands

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—The fact that wage-price controls are operating with some degree of success is having a quieting effect on union-management negotiations.

There appears to be less aggressiveness on the part of labor representatives than at any time in recent years. This may be traced, at least in part, to the realization that bitter strikes for wage concessions greater than the 5.5 percent ceiling are pointless since any larger raises will undoubtedly be rejected by the Pay Board or by the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee.

And there are other factors that are making negotiators somewhat more cautious than usual. For one thing, 1972 is, all in all, an undramatic bargaining year with few industries involved that might be expected to blaze new trails for other lines to try to follow.

This was, of course, an especially good year for a wage-control tryout, giving both management and labor a relatively subdued period in which to see how relations might respond as curbs take hold.

EVEN in the building field, where there have been skyrocketing pay rates for a number of years, the situation is showing fewer fireworks. During the first six months of 1971, according to Labor Department figures, first-year raises in multiyear pacts within the construction industry shot up 13.3 percent on average. For the first six months of this year, there was a far more restrained 8 percent advance.

Controls are not alone in exerting downpressure on wage gains in construction. Softening in the building industry for some localities and still high unemployment have contributed. Since runaway pay rates in the field have become the rule, consumer opposition to exorbitant building costs has become a powerful force.

One result of this has been a rapid and far-ranging move away from the use of union labor, particularly in outlying sections where nonunion contractors are more common. This can, of course, bring savings in home building.

BECAUSE of the impact of wage controls and the general slowing of the pace of wage increases, more and more unions are plumping for shorter contracts, preferably for those extending only one year. Then, if controls are still on at expiration time, another single-year agreement can be sought under permissible ceilings.

But should controls have been removed—or a bated-by expiration, make-up raises could be sought at once, without waiting for another year or two as would be the case under a multiyear agreement.

Although Senator McGovern has stated that he will remove controls within ninety days if he is elected, most union and management officials seem to be going on the assumption that the significant negotiations of 1973—including those in the electrical, auto, and trucking industries—will take place with curbs still in effect.

The fact is that they do not expect either party to remove anti-inflation bans at the start of a year that promises to see so much activity at bargaining tables in pace-setting business lines.

Along the Campaign Trail

Gilmore

Wayne County Circuit Judge Horace W. Gilmore, nominee for the Michigan Supreme Court, has established a new precedent for judicial candidates.

The judge is seeking election on a political platform - of 59 words.

Gilmore, who has served on the Circuit bench for 16 years, announced the platform in his acceptance speech after winning the Democratic Party nomination at the Grand Rapids Convention (August 27).

Judge Gilmore said, in part:

"Candidates for judicial office are elected as non-partisans. That is the law. And so be it. But there is nothing to prohibit a candidate, even for the Supreme Court, from adopting a 'political platform.'

"My platform represents nearly 200 years of American history and the studied effort of 144 Michigan men and women, Democrats, and Republicans, who worked on it for some 11 months.

"Here is my platform - the entire 59 words.

"All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for their equal benefit, security and protection.

"No person (and that certainly means women) shall be denied the equal protection of the laws; nor shall any person be denied the enjoyment of his civil, or political rights or be discriminated against in the exercise thereof because of religion, race, color or national origin."

"I'm sure you recognize those words - from the Declaration of Rights of the Michigan Constitution of 1963, written by the bi-partisan delegates to Con-Con.

"Will I live up to that platform is elected?"

"As a Justice of the Supreme Court, I'll take an oath on it."

Judge Gilmore was nominated at the Convention by Secretary of State Richard H. Austin. The other Democratic Supreme Court Candidate, nominated by UAW President Doug Fraser, is Recorder's Judge Robert L. Evans.

A Celebrity Celebration for Judge Gilmore, to make his nomination, is being held Thursday, September 14, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Savoyard Club, Buhl Building, Detroit.

Co-chairmen for the affair are Michael Berry, chairman of the Wayne County Road Commission and Joseph B. Sullivan, Wayne County Clerk.

Griffin

U. S. Senator Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich) has reiterated his opposition to the proposed abandonment of rail car ferry service across the Straits of Mackinac.

In a letter to George M. Stafford, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Senator Griffin said the abandonment of the line would result in both short and long-term economic losses for the surrounding region.

The ICC is considering a request from the Mackinac Transportation Co., which is jointly owned by the Penn Central and Soo Line railroads, for permission to discontinue operations. Last week an ICC examiner submitted a report to the Commission recommending approval of the request.

Two local area men are among the 29 government, civic, business and religious leaders who have accepted positions on the (Robert) Griffin Club Board intent on re-election of the Republican Senator.

They include William F. McLaughlin of Northville, chairman of the Michigan Republican State Central Committee, and State Senator Carl Pursell of Plymouth.

McGovern

Full of enthusiasm for sweeping out old politics and policies and bringing in the new, the Northville area McGovern for President Committee has launched its pre-election work.

The committee, an official arm of the local Democratic Party, had a recent meeting at the home of Chairwoman Annabel Schaupner, in Northville Township.

"The focus of the meeting," said Mrs. Schaupner, "was on getting out the vote for McGovern. There is a great reservoir of people in the Northville area who are unsatisfied with President Nixon, but are hesitant to back McGovern. We must reach these people with McGovern's message."

Committee member Township Trustee, added, "We plan to have a voter registration drive so that as many as possible of the new people in the area can get out and vote. We think McGovern will get a majority of that vote."

Mrs. Schaupner said the committee plans to organize an aggressive campaign for McGovern, with the firm belief that he can carry the Northville area as well as the state if enough work is done - if the message is spread with vigor and enthusiasm.

Among the projects the committee plans are these: a Voter Registration Drive to register new voters before the October 6 deadline; a fund raising rally; advertising in local publications, providing speakers to clubs, civic organizations and other groups; and enlisting volunteers to distribute information and literature.

Another major function of the committee, explained Mrs. Schaupner, is to support local Democratic candidates in their fall campaigns.

"We think that Larry VanderMolen has an excellent chance to be elected township supervisor, and we will help him in that race," says Mrs. Schaupner. "We will give the same support to Tom Curran and Gene Guido in the trustee race, and to Mike Frice for township clerk," she added.

Persons wishing to donate time or money for the McGovern campaign may call 349-6459. Letters can be addressed to: McGovern Committee, General Delivery, Northville, 48167.

Democrat's Wayne Second Political Action Committee of 750 South Main Street, Plymouth, because of its centralized location, announced this week it will cover Northville, Plymouth, and Canton area.

Interested residents of Northville Township may also contact Mrs. Thomas Curran, regarding township candidates, Larry VanderMolen, Tom Curran, Mike Frice, and Eugene Guido.

Named as coordinators are Annabel Schaupner-McGovern; Robert Crumpton-Stempien and Miller; and Larry VanderMolen-township candidates.

Patterson

L. Brooks Patterson, Republican candidate for Oakland County Prosecutor, today charged that his Democratic opponent "is hatching a nasty, McGovern-like proposal on an almost one-a-week basis to cover his poor performance over the past three and one-half years."

Patterson said his criticism was triggered by "my Democratic opponent's announcement Thursday of a crime tax on traffic offenders, misdemeanants and felons. It's a publicity gimmick."

Said Patterson, "In July, he suggested jail penalties be eliminated for misdemeanors, but admitted upon questioning that he had not considered what would happen if the indigent could not pay the fine. Now he suggests adding an additional tax to the fine. But still has not considered the person who cannot or will not pay."

"Now that the publicity is over for the 'no-jail' proposal - is he dropping that one in favor of his latest campaign program?"

Patterson criticized his opponent for "his phony campaign programs - just like in 1968." Two months before the election in 1968, he proposed a crack "felony squad" be developed to handle the tough felony cases, Patterson said. "It was a publicity stunt pure and simple - forgotten after the election. Had he carried that program through, he wouldn't be losing the important cases today."

Patterson went on to say, "For three and one-half years we hear nothing from the "GOOD LUCK!" U. S. Senator Robert Griffin (R-Michigan) and Robert Geake, candidate for State Representative and a Northville resident, were seen wishing each other good luck in their respective election contests during a recess in the Republican State Convention recently. Other delegates representing the Northville area at the convention were Mr. & Mrs. E. O. "Bud" Weber, Rosemary Hagge, Leon Paler, Doug Waldren, and Republican State Chairman William McLaughlin.

Prosecutor's Office. Now, just before the election, the incumbent is threatening about trying to divert the public's attention from the poor performance of his office in the handling of major felony cases with a new program or task force every week."

Plunkett

Citing the rising cost of crime and the plight of many near-bankrupt school districts, Oakland County Prosecutor Thomas G. Plunkett is asking the state to pass unique legislation imposing a tax on convicted criminal defendants throughout the state.

Plunkett is to formally present his crime tax proposal to the Michigan Legislature this month: The plan will call for the assessment of a predetermined tax on convicted defendants, which then will be returned to neighborhood school districts for their use in upgrading the education of local students.

"The money would then be used by the school district in which the defendant is convicted, both for increase in the quality of education, and in the long run, for a decrease in crime."

Plunkett explained the proposal will encompass all those defendants who are given fines or probation.

Oakland County Prosecuting Attorney, Thomas G. Plunkett, was elected to the board of directors of the Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan, at the Association's 45th Annual Convention. PAAM was formed in 1928 under sponsorship of Attorney General Wilber M. Brucker.

Raymond

Sensitivity to constituent opinions is to be a key to his campaign, Eldon R. Raymond, 19th District Democratic candidate for the Wayne County Board of commissioners, has stated.

"I believe it is very important that your county commissioner understand the needs of not only the people of Wayne County, but more importantly he should know the feelings of the citizens of Livonia and Northville and what they like and don't like as it relates to Wayne County government and its services."

Raymond cited an example of this sensitivity:

"Taxpayers of Livonia and Northville," he declared, "are not interested in helping finance, through their tax dollars, a new stadium in downtown Detroit for millionaire Tiger owner John Fetzer."

He pledged "to keep my mind open to the feelings of the citizens of this district..."

Stempien

A new law which was introduced by the State Representative, Marvin R. Stempien (D-Livonia-Northville) to expand the home-buying market to cover all young adults has been signed into law by the Governor. "Although this new law will make a number of important and needed changes in the Probate Code," Stempien said, "one of its key features is a provision which expands the home-buying market to cover all young adults."

The Stempien law now makes the same home-buying rights available to unmarried persons 18 years old and older as those formerly limited to those 21 and older. Young adults under 21 had formerly needed special court petitions, bonds, notices, inventories, accountings and confirmations in order to obtain a home mortgage. The legislation enlarges an earlier law, also sponsored by Majority Leader Stempien, which opened home buying to married persons between 18 and 21 years of age and eliminated the need to hire an attorney for Probate proceedings.

"The Legislature last year passed the Age of Majority Act, which made young adults 18 to 21 years of age legal adults," Stempien stated. "This latest legislation brings state probate statutes in the area of home mortgages into conformity with the concept of the Age of Majority Act. It recognizes that young adults are also legally adults when it comes to buying a home." He added, "If these young people can vote, serve in the armed forces and exercise adult rights and responsibilities in other areas, they must also have the same home-buying rights and power as any other adult."

Stempien, a candidate for the U.S. Congress in the Second District, acknowledged that the number of unmarried persons 18 years old and older who want to and are able to buy homes is comparatively small. However, he pointed out, "Probate Judges have reported that there have been many instances in which persons under 21 were in a position to buy a home, yet had difficulty in doing so because they were unmarried and not 21 years old. My legislation ends the discrimination against these young adults."

Coughs and Colds

Some horses will cough if their feed is too dry, and merely dampening the hay slightly will make the cough disappear. However, if the coughing is at all frequent, if it is accompanied by the slightest fever, or any discharge from the nostrils, or even a lackluster expression, your horse has probably caught cold and you must watch him carefully.

Horses are particularly sensitive to drafts and there is danger of bronchitis, influenza, or pneumonia developing if the first symptoms of a cold are not treated promptly.

You should always keep a cough remedy in your first-aid cabinet. Most of them have a honey base and can be rubbed on the horse's tongue. At the first sign of a cold, you should isolate the horse, keep him warm and out of drafts and put him on a soft diet and put him on a soft diet.

If the cough doesn't disappear within a day or two, you should call the veterinarian because an untended cold may lead to a more serious ailment that can permanently damage a horse's wind.

If your horse is unusually sensitive to cold, be especially careful to dry him off thoroughly after exercise, give him adequate indoor and outdoor housing and feed him a slightly heating diet (corn & grains) during cold winter months.

Why So Many Church Changes?

Doug Tachett, Minister
Church of Christ
Brighton, Michigan

Many people are asking today why do we have so many changes in the church, why there are so many different churches, and how can we be sure we are attending the right church. To let us answer these very important questions let us consider a few facts.

First of all, where do the changes in the church come from?—Jesus never changes, Heb. 13:8, "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today, and forever"—His word never changes...Matt. 24:35, "Heaven and earth shall pass away but my word shall not pass away." Also read James 1:17.

Secondly, why do we have so many different churches?—Do we not all have the same bible? Yes. Then what could the problem be? Over the last few years man has begun to get away from the basic teachings, writing church creed books and articles of faith. Concerning these, if the bible is all sufficient as it teaches, there is a question as to why we need these creed books.

Notice II Timothy 3:16, 17, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." Yet some will say the bible cannot be understood by everyone, therefore, it is necessary that we supplement it with what we feel to be necessary for one's salvation.

The Bible teaches, however, that we are not to add to or take away from what has been written. John writes in Revelation 22:18, 19, "For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, if any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book: And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life."

Again, not only are we instructed not to add to, or take away from this book but that man will be cursed if he does Galatians 1:8, 9. Also consider Matthew 15:9, "But in vain they do worship me teaching for doctrine the commandments of men" and Acts 5:29, "Then Peter and the other Apostles answered and said, we ought to obey God rather than man."

Not only should we teach the bible because it alone is infallible but because we will be judged by it. John 12:48: Are we teaching what the bible is teaching? If not, let us get back to the bible today

Survival

Medieval knights felt invincible when they strode forth to battle in a suit of armor. Unfortunately, more protection meant less mobility. Finally armor became so cumbersome that it was relegated to museums—the useless antique was discarded—not the man under the metal coverall. He had to adapt to the change!

How many of our ideas and customs have become useless? The world is not static and even some values change. What we cherish must be genuine. That goes for Faith, too. A shallow faith cannot survive the twentieth century—or any era for that matter. But the Christian faith is not superficial, or outmoded! It survives, and continues to reach millions each Sunday—proof that Christianity is not destined for the museum.

State Boasts Old Taverns

Inns or taverns were a familiar sight in pioneer Michigan's stagecoach days and several of these refuges for the weary traveler remain today along what were once the main roads, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The inns sprang up at short intervals along the poor, rough roads because of delays in travel and also because only small distances could be covered at a time. Some inns that still exist are along what were main routes between Detroit and Chicago.

To travelers of a century ago, the Botsford Inn, at Grand River and Eight Mile, Farmington, was a favorite rest stop. In 1841, Stephen Jennings, who then owned the house, opened it as a tavern. It became a main stopping place for farmers and drovers on their way to the Detroit markets. In later years, Lansing stagecoaches stopped there.

Milton Botsford, who gave the inn its name, took over in 1860 and the property remained in the Botsford family until automotive pioneer Henry Ford purchased it in 1924, retaining possession until the 1940s.

The Botsford Inn, now enlarged and with modern conveniences, is still in the hotel-restaurant business. It is open for breakfast from 7 to 11:30 a.m., lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and dinner, 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. It also is open Sundays for brunch from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and dinner from 1 to 8 p.m.

On the route between Detroit and Chicago, three inns are within a five-mile radius in the scenic Irish Hills.

The first, Bauer Manor, is on US-12, seven miles west of Clinton, across the road from Evans Lake. Still a restaurant, it is open daily both for transient guests and special parties, with live entertainment on Saturdays. Built about 1840, it was first used as a stagecoach stop and later as a hotel.

Three area young people were among the top winners of the State 4-H Horse Show held recently at Michigan State University.

Jim Love of Whitmore Lake, riding his Quarter Horse, won bronze medals for stock seat equitation and western pleasure (member 15 years old).

Nancy Collier of Pinckney received a gold medal in the saddle seat division, fitting and showing (16 years old). She also took a bronze medal in saddle seat equitation and a silver in bridle pat hack (English pleasure saddle).

Showing in the pony class Diane Straton of Brighton (12 years old) won a gold medal for equitation western equipment.

Colorful aptly describes Michigan's autumnal face. Mother Nature literally runs rampant, splashing color indiscriminately throughout both peninsulas.

Beginning at the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula in mid to late September and moving southward, the Upper Peninsula is ablaze with a spectacular myriad of hues. The red and bright gold of the maples, the yellow aspens, scarlet sumac and burnished golden oaks are resplendent amid the cool green of neighboring pines.

This is the time of year when nature becomes the ringmaster for the "greatest show on earth", according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

Students Unearth History

ding of the basement appears to confirm the account of 1877 by Father Edward Jucker who wrote to a friend in New York. Jucker said he had acted on details in the 'Jesuit Relations,' now a multivolume account of the missionaries' work among the Indians, that Marquette's body had been moved in 1677 from present-day Ludington where he died in 1675 to his mission on the north side of Mackinac Straits.

Jucker had found two bones and a fellow worker had found about 30 more in the ancient cellar.

Also at the mission site, Stone said, they found a complete wine bottle, hand-blown and dark green of about six inches at its widest and seven to eight inches tall, in European style. Rarely is an old bottle found intact. The one found compares with the 1660-1680 ones which have been found in colonial sites in the eastern United States.

Also found were beads which predate those found in the Lasanen Site burial pit finds of 1967 south of St. Ignace, and any found in the Fort Michilimackinac excavations on the south mainland. The French military moved their fort from the north mainland to the south mainland in 1715.

Most of the pewter porringer, about four inches in diameter, with writing and drawings on the inside, also was found.

Evidences of structures were the three new wall trenches of what appears to have been a 17th Century structure, and the Marquette burial basement.

Old Huron Village The other major find in the St. Ignace area, Stone said, is what "seems to be the outer walls of a part of the old Huron Village."

Midway through the summer they found the start of two walls which cornered. They followed one along 65 to 70 feet without coming to another turn, and the second they followed about 40 feet without reaching a turn.

"We found a double row of posts, two to three inches in diameter, as the wall structures," he said "It is probable that they wove materials between the two rows to create their walls."

Time and money constraints prohibited the further digging of the Huron Village structure, but it is expected the work will resume next summer.

Artifacts found there were early historic Indian pottery, flint chippings, arrowheads, projectile points, and a trash pit full of fish bones. Only limited disturbance from subsequent occupations were found, and not enough to create serious problems in archaeological examination.

The 17th Century map of present-day St. Ignace, done by the French explorer de LaHontan, showed a French Village, the Jesuits House, the Huron Village, the Fields of the Savages, a Village of the Ottawas.

Father Claude Dabon spent the winter of 1670-71 on Mackinac Island, in what was the first recorded missionary visit to the area. Marquette following in the spring of 1671 and settled first on the island, re-establishing his parish at a new mission in St. Ignace later that year.

In 1673 Marquette and Jolliet began from St. Ignace their exploratory voyage through the northern portion of the Mississippi River drainage system. Marquette died en route home in 1675.

The Michilimackinac Historical Society of St. Ignace has been hopeful over the years that firm evidence of Marquette's burial there could be confirmed.

In 1689, the French erected Fort de Buade at what is now St. Ignace. In 1695, Antoine de La Mothe Cadillac became commandant, but abandoned the fort in 1698, and moved to today's Detroit, there establishing Fort Pontchartrain in 1701. The Jesuits, abandoned by the Indians, burned their mission and returned to Montreal. The French re-established their fort at the straits about 1715, but on the south mainland. The British took over the fort in 1761 and moved to Mackinac Island in 1780 in the early days of the American Revolution.

● Waterford Mott and Livonia Churchill are likely successors to Farmington Harrison's throne in Western Six Conference3-C

In Western Six

Mott, Churchill Battle for Title

One thing most coaches in the Western Six Conference agree on is that Farmington Harrison will not repeat as league champions.

"They've lost too much to be able to come back," said one coach. "Dave Manos was their whole team and he's gone and so are a lot of other people who were important to them."

Replacing Harrison, most Western Six coaches agree, will be either Waterford Mott or Livonia Churchill.

In fact, three of the four coaches interviewed - Walled Lake Western Coach Mike Mancini is new and unfamiliar with the league - saw the race as a two-way brawl between the Chargers from Churchill and Mott's Corsairs.

The only coach who did not see the race as a two-team affair was Ken Kaestner, coach of the Livonia Churchill squad.

"Farmington Harrison has eight starters coming back," he said, "but Mott has everybody returning. Nobody is even going to come close to them. They've got Tim Simon (quarterback) on offense and Gordon Sheldon (linebacker) on defense. They'll have one of the top teams in Oakland County this year. Nobody is going to beat them."

Kaestner is probably correct. Mott should finish on top with Churchill second, followed by Harrison, Walled Lake Western, and Northville.

Every coach in the league expects his defense to be tough this year, but the only squad which boasts a potentially potent offense is Mott. Tim Simon, a 5'10", 160 pounder, won All-Conference honors last year as a junior and is back to direct the Mott attack.

"He's the big reason we decided to switch to the wishbone this year," reported Perry. Exceptionally fast, he does the 40 yard dash in 4.8 seconds in full uniform. Simon will have plenty of backfield running help.

Greg Aldrich, 6'1", 185, is a fullback who does the 40 in 5.0 seconds and Perry says he has six good running backs headed by 170 pound Dale Romeo (4.9 for the 40) and 185 pound Bruce Lovett (5.0 for the 40).

Heading the Corsairs' defense will be Gordon Sheldon, an All-Oakland County and All-Suburban selection last year as a junior and a bonafide All-State prospect in 1972.

"He's 6'3", weighs 235, and does the 100 in 9.5 seconds," says Northville coach Chuck Shonta, in explaining Gordon's appearance on the field. Actually, Sheldon is only 5'11", 235, and does the 40 in 5.2 seconds in full uniform. Big difference.

Mott Coach George Perry saw the race as a battle between his own team and Churchill, but picked the Chargers on top. "Their jayvees were undefeated until their last game," says Perry, failing to mention that they lost their last game to his own jayvee squad.

Churchill Coach Ken Kaestner picked his own team to finish third behind Mott and Harrison. "I know a lot of people are pointing the finger at us, but we just haven't got that much," he asserted.

The Churchill team will pit its hopes on its defense. "We're smaller than past Churchill teams," said Kaestner, "but we have good speed and good

4th Dream Team To Climax Season

No matter how successful or unsuccessful an individual team might be when the 1972 season draws to a close it's a certainty that one or more football players will have given the extra ounce of effort that spells "outstanding."

And in recognition of that extra effort, the Sliger newspaper family will again select an all-star team in November composed of players who have distinguished themselves on the gridiron during the '72 season.

According to Jack Hoffman, assistant to the publisher, this fourth annual all-star team will be picked from seven high schools within the circulation area of the weekly chain of Sliger newspapers in Northville, Novi, South Lyon and Brighton.

The high schools regularly covered by these newspapers include Northville, Novi, South Lyon, Brighton, Whitmore Lake, Hartland and Pinckney.

Players selected for this "dream team" will receive medals commemorating their selection.

In addition, a coveted traveling team-of-the-year trophy will be presented to the individual high school considered to have had the best overall season.

Presently, the trophy is held by Novi, the school that produced the best 1971 team. The 1969 winner was South Lyon. In 1970—a year when all seven teams had a losing season—the team trophy was not awarded.

Also, the Sliger newspapers will honor a Football Coach-of-the-Year based on his contributions to his school and community. Last year's winner was John Osborne, Novi head coach.

Still another special selection will be the Most Valuable Player—an honor that last year went to Novi's quarterback, Steve Lukkari.

The 1971 All-Star Team was dominated by the Novi Wildcats, who earned seven positions on the mythical 22-player squad. Besides Lukkari, Wildcats selected included on offense Center Kevin Schingeck, Guard Pat Ford, and Back Jim Van Wagner; and on defense, End Pat Boyer, Tackle Bob Pisha, and Back Dave Brown.

Other offensive team selections included:

Guard Bob Hines, Brighton; Tackle Bob Reynolds, Pinckney; Tackle Rick Perkins, Hartland; End Jeff Moon, Northville; End Joe Stephens, South Lyon; Back Terry Trumbull, Pinckney; and Back Ken Skorupski, Walled Lake Western.

Defensive team selections:

End Scott Towsley, Pinckney; Tackle Mike Greenlee, Walled Lake; Guard Joe Clark, Hartland; Linebackers Duane Cornell, of Brighton, A.J. Gillespie of Whitmore Lake, and Russ Buell of Hartland; and Backs Larry Tatro of South Lyon and John Sherman of Northville.

This year, as in the past three years, the number of player selections will be in proportion to the crop of exceptionally talented players. Thus, the number could range from 11 to 22 players, explained Hoffman.

Selection of the top players will be made by reporters and photographers from the Sliger newspapers, based on their personal observations and the nominations by the coaches.

Chelsea Favored In SE Conference

Chelsea's favored to win the Southeastern Conference football championship this year.

Surprised? Few should be as Phil Bareis' Bulldogs have won the crown in each of the last four years and have lost but two league games over that span.

The biggest surprise is, perhaps, that no one seems to expect Chelsea to run away with things this year.

Why? "Saline's got so many letterman back that they're choice this time around," says South Lyon Coach Bob Keezer, "But I won't discount Chelsea and I expect Lincoln will be right in there. No one's going through this season undefeated."

Keezer added that, despite Novi's having to rebuild its line, the Wildcats must be considered strong again and

"we'll stay in there with most of them, ourselves."

John Osborne of Novi calls Chelsea "The champion until some one proves otherwise", but concedes that his squad, along with Milan and Lincoln "and general improvement in all the other teams" will produce a much better SEC balance this year.

Novi and South Lyon are examined in detail elsewhere in this section.

What are the other coaches saying about their teams and the conference in general?

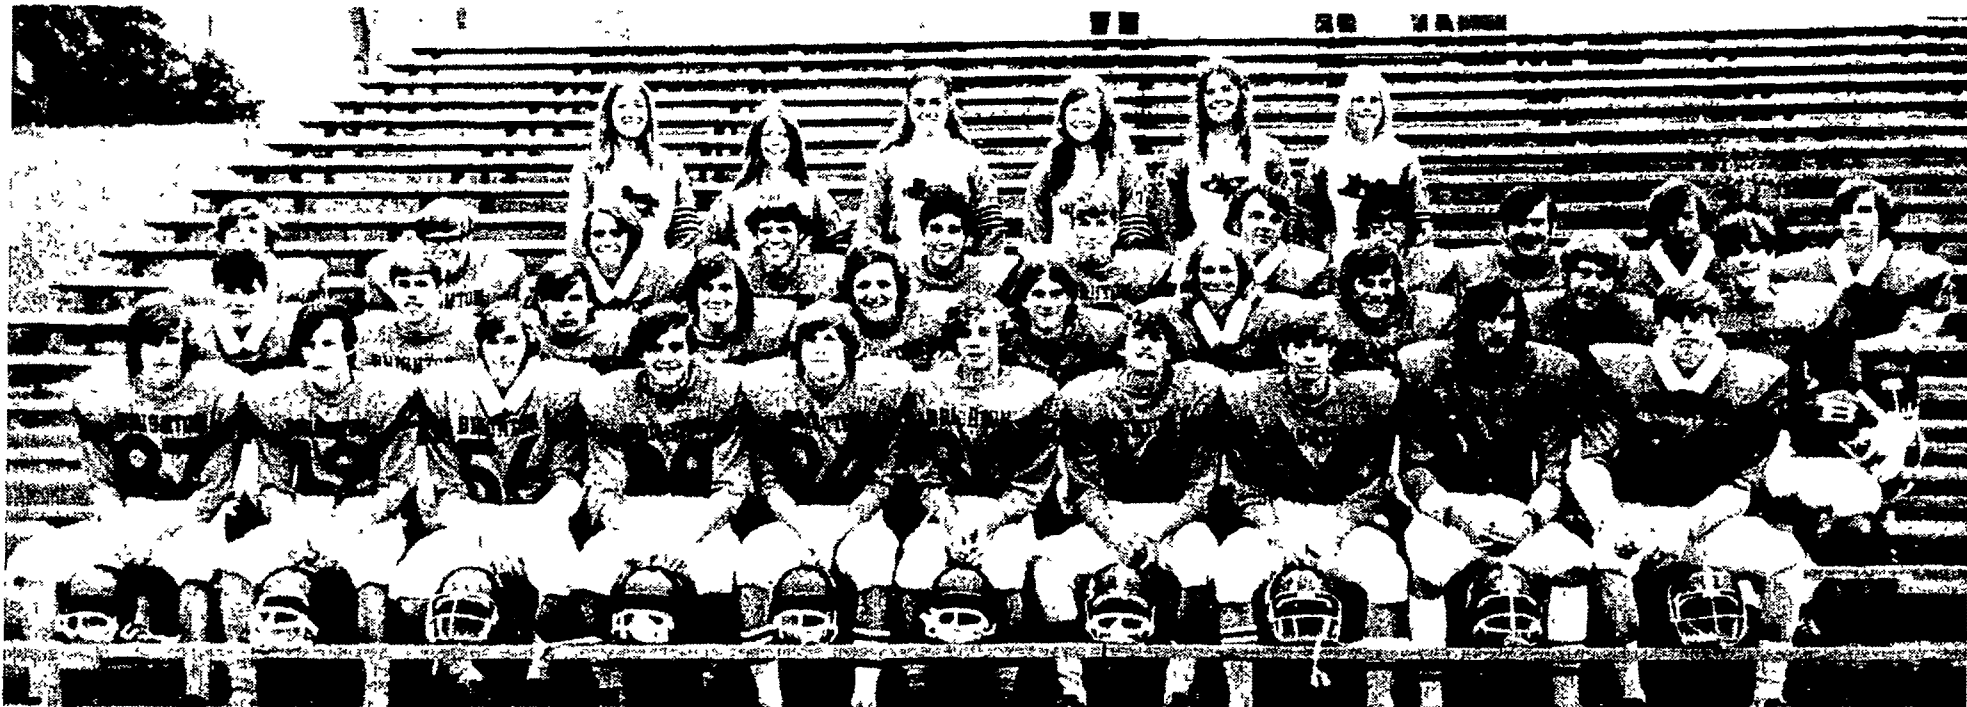

Bareis, who looks for everyone to be tough this year, calls the coming season "a tough way to go—anyone can beat anyone else on a given night".

Chelsea is green, but has a solid

Speed Will Be Key Factor

A "speed freak," that's what he is. Second-year Brighton High School football mentor Forrest Bone must be a little hooked on speed, because that's all you can get him to talk about this year.

Mention the offensive backfield, and Bone cites the fine speed back there. Talk about the offensive line, and Bone points out it's much quicker than last year's.

Ask about the defense, and yep... you guessed it... Bone tells you how pleased he is with its speed.

All this talk about fleetness is interesting, of course.

And it sounds promising. But not even all of Bone's references to improved team and individual speed can hide the fact that Brighton, which only finished with a 1-6-1 slate last year, is facing a rebuilding year. The loss of 18 seniors from last season's team explains the rebuilding problem Coach Bone and his assistants must face. But, despite the fact that he has had to assemble almost totally new offensive and defensive lines, Bone is not discouraged as he enters the new season.

"We've got a lot of inexperience, of course," Bone admits. "But we're improving with every practice, and I think we'll show a steady improvement all year."

"We've been lucky, keeping away from bodily injuries and getting some real challenges so far. And our team speed is so much better..."

And there he goes, talking about team speed again. A team speed which comes out to an average time of 5.3 seconds for the 40-yard dash. Which is an average improvement of .3 seconds.

"That doesn't sound like so much," Bone says. "But, just think, to get an average like that, some guys have had to improve their times from .5 to one second, and that's very good."

One of the fellows who has shown such improvement is senior Dave Briggs, who seems to have the inside track on the quarterback's job so far.

Briggs was chosen as the most improved player in off-season conditioning drills, and Bone calls the 5'8"-

135-pounder's progress 'unbelievable.'

"Dave's been throwing the ball very well" the coach says. "He's improved his speed greatly, and he'll be running and throwing. But he's getting pushed for the job."

Doing the hardest pushing at the moment is junior Kim Carlson (5-8,135) who guided the jayvee team last year. And behind him is sophomore Dave Lew Allen (6-1,180) who is also working at a backup fullback slot.

Briggs gained some experience toward the end of last season when the Bulldogs' regular signal-caller, Denny Horal, was injured. It was Briggs who directed the Orange and Black's two scoring drives in their homecoming victory over Clarenceville.

The battle for quarterback isn't the only battle going on in Brighton's pre-season camp, however. For spirited competition is being waged for a number of other positions.

Sophomore Tim McMacken (5-10,165) seems to have the inside line on the fullback slot so far. McMacken has trimmed 10 pounds from last year's playing weight, and he has demonstrated good speed.

Pressing McMacken for his job are junior Mike Gibson (5-10,185) and sophomore Lew Allen, both of whom are described by Bone as 'hard runners.'

The tailback's job looks like it will belong to senior Kevin Peach (6,165) who had won the position last season until a leg injury forced him out of the picture.

"Kevin is learning to punish the tackler now instead of absorbing all the punishment himself," Bone says. "and he's looked very good in practices."

Fighting Peach for his slot, though, are seniors John Gaunt and Hugh Jones, both of whom demonstrate good quickness and hard running.

The swingback slot is one of the few position on the team which appears pretty well nailed down. Junior Chuck Wagner (5-8,140), who led the Bulldogs in pass receptions last year, although he played in only five games, will man that post.

Wagner may be one of the favorite targets of Briggs and Carlson when he comes out of the backfield, and he can also be expected to carry frequently on options.

Other likely pass receivers are senior tight end Tom McIntyre (6,160), the only veteran on the line, and split ends Dan Shosey (senior, 5-7,135) and Jim Johnson (junior, 6, 155).

What appears to be the starting interior line will be working at something of a handicap because of lack of size and inexperience, but Bone says the front wall is coming along well, practice by practice.

Either junior Brian Donovan, (6,185) or senior Mark Dundas (6-3,190) will get the nod at strong tackle, while junior Stu Bazley (5-11, 175) will work at strong guard.

The honors of snapping the ball will go to either sophomore John Bitten (5-10, 185) or senior Dave Seigle, also 5-10, 185. Seigle is a returnee from last year's squad, but he was sidelined midway through the season with a broken wrist.

Senior Jim Bogos (5-10,160) has the inside track on the sprint guard's position, while Junior Mark Foulks (5-10,155) looks like the starting sprint tackle.

Defensively, the Bulldogs will play a pro-style 4-3-4 defense this year, instead of the 4-4-3 they employed last season.

"Statistically, we got caught for too many 'easy' scores last year," Bone says. "Especially long passes. So to combat this, we're going to a four deep secondary."

Bone says he hasn't really settled on the defensive starters, but it looks as if a number of underclassmen will man some of the slots, especially at the linebacking and defensive secondary positions.

As far as setting any goals for the coming season, Bone says simply,

"We'll improve upon last's year record. That's what we're working toward."

"I think we're coming along fairly slowly because of our inexperience, but we've got better team speed and better strength than last year."

"Of course, the immediate problem will be South Lyon," Bone says. The Bulldogs will open their season September 15 in the Lions' lair, where they'll be looking for revenge for last year's 26-12 South Lyon victory.

BRIGGS TO WAGNER—May become a familiar refrain for fans of the Brighton Bulldogs this season, as the senior quarterback and the junior running back team up in a number of different ways. Wagner's quick moves and sure hands will make him one of Briggs' favorite passing targets, while the improved speed of both boys will make them threats on the quarterback option.

A Saturday afternoon Homecoming contest will be one of the highlights of this year's Brighton High School varsity football schedule, as the Bulldogs wind up independent play before joining the Southeastern Conference in 1973.

Monroe Jefferson will provide the opposition at 2 p.m., Saturday, October 21, when the Orange and Black take to the field for Homecoming. It will be the first meeting between the two teams.

Scheduling of a daytime Homecoming was done in an effort to involve more people in the day's festivities, according to Forrest Bone, athletic director and head football coach.

"We're hoping to make it work out well for everyone," Bone says. "Since we're on split sessions, it's pretty hard for the kids to get together for a parade on Friday."

"But this way, we can have the parade leading right to the game Saturday afternoon. We're also hoping to have a dance and a bonfire the night before."

Monroe Jefferson will be one of two new opponents on the Brighton schedule this season. Yale will be the other, in the annual Parents' Night game October 6.

Eye Starting Roles

Ex-Preps Fill College Teams

In Northville

At the start of Western Michigan University's 1971 football season, prospects for Fred Hicks, a 1969 graduate of Northville High School, didn't look too good.

It wasn't that Hicks didn't have the ability - he had lettered for the Mid-American Conference school as a sophomore and had been named Outstanding Offensive Performer in Western's 1971 spring-practice ending intra-squad scrimmage - the problem was that as an offensive guard, Hicks played behind two other exceptional guards.

The problem was solved midway through the year when Coach Bill Doolittle decided to move the 217 pound, 6'3" junior to center.

Hicks made the most of the situation. His 74 percent blocking average was the highest on the WMU team, and he had blocking markings of 84 percent against Illinois State and 82 percent against Northern Illinois.

His blocking percentage was over 70 in seven of the nine games he played.

Scot Stuart was an All-Wayne-Oakland League running back when he performed with the 1970 Northville High School football team, but Albion College Coach Tom Taylor is utilizing the muscular ex-Mustang in his defensive secondary.

Stuart, a 5'9", 170 pound sophomore, has been hampered with a pulled leg muscle in fall practices, Albion College sources report, but has come on strong lately and is currently battling for one of the starting safety positions in the Briton's backfield.

Albion College football coach Tom Taylor didn't expect to have to worry about the tight end position on the 1972 edition of the Britons' grid squad.

With a two-year veteran returning to the position, the tight end slot seemed to be all settled.

But that was before Jeff Moon, a 1972 graduate of Northville High School, appeared on the scene.

"He's been one of the pleasant surprises of the fall's training camp," said Taylor of the 6'2", 195 pound former Mustang. "He definitely has a chance to win the starting job."

Moon's success comes as no surprise to Northville fans who watched him perform for the Mustangs last fall. The big tight end was one of the few bright spots on the Northville team, and was the only Mustang tapped for All-Western Six Conference honors by the other coaches in the league.

Now a senior and with two varsity letters already in his possession, former Northville High School star Stan Nirider is slated to be an important member of the 1972 Hillsdale College squad.

A quarterback in his high school days, the 6'2", 175 pound ex-Mustang has been switched to corner back by the Chargers with good results.

Lettering in his sophomore year, Nirider took over first string corner back duties last year as a junior and will return to that post this year to give Hillsdale an accomplished performer at that key position.

In Novi

Two former Novi High School standouts are currently gracing the rosters of college teams and performing remarkably well.

Tom VanWagner, older brother of the 1972 Wildcat co-captain, is playing college ball at Michigan Tech in Houghton.

Although only a freshman last year, VanWagner made the Huskies' traveling squad and earned a varsity letter. The Huskies had an 8-1 record in 1971 and won the Northern Intercollegiate Conference championship.

The 5'9", 195 pound VanWagner is listed as the number three offensive guard as the 1972 season gets underway and fits prominently into the future plans of Husky Coach Ted Kearly.

While at Novi, VanWagner distinguished himself as one of the area's top players. He was an All-Southeastern Conference choice both as a guard on offense and a linebacker on defense.

Another ex-Wildcat impressing collegiate coaches is Big Bob Pisha, the 6'3", 225 pound tight end and defensive tackle on Novi's 1971 grid powerhouse.

Attending Ferris State this year, Pisha has been switched to an offensive guard where he seems to have won the starting job on the left side of the Bulldogs' line.

Pisha was one of the mainstays on the Novi team last year. Not only was he a unanimous All-Southeastern Conference selection as both an offensive tight end and a defensive tackle, he also won All-Oakland County, All-Suburban, and All-State honors - the first Novi player to be so honored.

Chelsea Favored

nucleus of returnees in Bareis' estimation. Next to South Lyon, the Bulldogs have the largest number of young men (97 to slightly more than 100 for the Lions) out for football in grades 9-12.

Tri-captains Tim Lancaster (HB), John Mann (Q) and End Jeff Daniels are all Bulldog stalwarts and they'll be complemented by quick running back Bruce Guster, Jeff Van Riper at an end and linemen Dave Tucker (T) and Ron Adams (G). Biggest losses—and they are big ones—are Wayne Welton (Q) and all-SEC linemen Randy Seitz and Tom McKernan. They also have a strong JV contingent to feed new blood into this year's varsity.

Tom LaFramboise feels his Lincoln squad will be right in there with Chelsea, Milan and Novi this fall. He has plenty of reason for optimism.

Especially prominent among returnees is perhaps the SEC's finest running back, Don Reed. The 6'2", 190 pound speedster will not have to operate alone in the Rail Splitter backfield as the quick Jerome Wiley and powerful fullback Dave Zawadzki along with backup quarterback (to Davis) Ben Amrhein are all back and ready to roll. LaFramboise feels that the tiny (5'8", 150-pound) Amrhein is a fine passer with good speed.

Lincoln also has its entire defensive backfield (Ron Czinaki, Bill Wilson and Ed Hall) returning along with third-year varsity performer, two-way guard Steve Polzin. Polzin and Reed are co-captains.

Merv Ward's Saline Hornets wound up in the SEC cellar with only a Homecoming win over South Lyon in the plus column. No one expects them to fare so poorly this year—not even Ward. "It'll be a real dog fight," he says, "Chelsea lost some good ones, but they'll be tough as always; South Lyon has a lot of kids and Milan's strong JV squad will help them. Our 21 seniors returning will keep us in there, too."

Not faced with much rebuilding this year, Ward did shift two veterans as Scott Skinner (all-SEC end) is now a halfback and Pat Gill (second team SEC, also at end) has moved to fullback. Quarterback will be Bill Farrell and top linemen are Pete Campbell, a two-way tackle, and guard-linebacker John O'Sullivan.

The Big Red may be ready to roll this year after finishing in a second-place tie (with Novi) last season. George Genyk, back for his second year at the helm, has only 23 kids out but many of these were two-way performers in 1971 and figure to do the same this fall.

Bringing smiles to Genyk's face are Larry Russell, Pat Synder and Dave Keller. All are offensive backs who are outstanding on defense as well. Linemen Steve Horvath, Dan Williams, Steve Stark, Jerry Olson, Terry Conger, Dave Hoskin, Mike Keeler, Chuck Maynard, Tim McGovern, Pat Fitel and Dave Whitelaw should help provide strength and depth up front and Genyk looks to youngsters Randy Banks (13 JV TD's) and Harvey Thacker (5'9", 200 pounds) to provide backfield depth.

"Our biggest need for improvement," the Big Red mentor cites, "is our poor passing attack. Rod Cranson, with his stronger arm, may move Keller to a halfback."

Dexter (3-4 in SEC in 1971) is thin in quantity, but El Ritt has "14-15 real good kids" among his 55 junior varsity and varsity candidates from whom he'll mold this year's Dreadnaught elevens.

His evaluation of the SEC favors South Lyon, with Tony Kern at quarterback, Chelsea, Saline and Milan. Dexter's top prospects include Backs Devine and Bob Taylor along with linemen Doug Dermody, Dan Krull, Dan Uphaus, Jim Schneebelt, Mark Wentzel, Mark Ayers, Curt Wing and transfer Brad Vetal as mainstays. Joe Toma and Al Hosler are battling for the signal-calling slot.

Dundee's final season in the SEC (due for 1973 replacement by Brighton when the Vikings move into a conference in their own area) features a new coach and only 20 varsity candidates.

Ed McPeck has seen little of SEC opponents, but pinpoints Saline and Chelsea as teams to beat "on what I have heard so far".

Moving in from Sand Creek to take the Viking Helm, McPeck has decided to leave freshmen and sophomores on the JV's to better prepare for his first campaign in the new conference. Therefore, he figures on two-way play from 14-15 top kids.

One anticipated Vike star, running back Gothrell Johnson, has already "eliminated himself," McPeck says. "He didn't want to practice."

Tackles Nick Bosanac (6'2", 195 "and real tough") and Ken Pilbeam will be the heart of the squad. Junior Mark Schultz seeks his third varsity letter as halfback on offense and as defensive cornerback. Dundee figures to field five kids who have never been out for football before, including their quarterback.

Mott, Churchill

attitude. We don't think we'll be giving up many points."

On offense, Churchill will run a multiple offense, utilizing the I-formation, wishbone, and three or four other offensive sets. "We're not trying to be the Dallas Cowboys," says the coach, "but we like to have several offenses going for us."

Quarterback Bob Blaies and halfback Phil Damaska are only 5'9" tall, but both are very quick.

Farmington Harrison will probably finish third. Not only will they miss Manos, they'll also miss running back Dennis Thibedeau, and interior linemen Fred Deschoff, Barry Smeltzer, and Larry Shaheen, - all All-League selections last year.

Like Churchill and Mott, Harrison expects to have a strong defense anchored around three-year defensive captain and All-Western Six linebacker Tom Erkert (5'10", 175).

With Manos and Thibedeau toting the ball, the Hawks had a strong ground attack while winning the championship last year, but this season the Hawks - appropriately - will take to the air.

"I don't think our running attack will be strong, but we expect to be able to pass successfully," says Harrison's John Herrington, who is also the team's defensive coordinator.

Chris Pagnucco, a 5'10" honorable mention All-Conference quarterback last year, will be doing the throwing for the Hawks with Bill Herpick, another honorable mention All-Conference choice on the receiving end.

That leaves Walled Lake Western and Northville to battle it out for fourth and fifth.

The Warriors will have a new coach this year as 27-year old Mike Mancini, a member of the Chicago Bears' taxi squad in 1966 and 1967, takes over from Leo Folsom.

Mancini had a 3-6 record last year while coaching at Berkely in the tough Southeastern Michigan Association Conference, but that record is deceiving, he says.

"All the games we lost were by narrow margins and the only teams three teams to score more than one touchdown on us were rated in the top ten in the state," he reported.

Defense will be the key to his team. "I run a very disciplined defense," he said. "We stress technical perfection and let the other teams make mistakes along the way. Also, we'll be tougher physically. If we stay healthy, we'll be a respectable opponent for anybody."

And what do the coaches think of Northville's chances. "I'm sorry," said one coach, "I don't mean to be rude, but I just can't see Northville getting out of the basement." Another coach said, "I don't think they'll be a factor in the playoffs."

Trojans Feature A. J. Attack

PHIL DAVIDSON

High school football is largely a mixture of unknowns balanced against optimism and spirit.

Few know this better than Phil Davidson, head coach at Whitmore Lake. Optimism and spirit have both been high in fall drills as they look toward tomorrow's opener at Morrice, but many unknowns are present.

For example, the Trojans face a schedule of several teams they have never played before in this, their final season as an independent. Never have Davidson and his assistants, Bob Ellis and Bill Schuster (both back from 1971) seen Catholic League 11's Dearborn St. Alphonsus or Hamtramck St. Florian or traditionally rugged Michigan School for the Deaf on the gridiron before.

To add to possible problems, Whitmore is going with a brand-new offense, the suddenly popular Wishbone-T. Only the quarterback, senior Rod Douglas, returns to the regular backfield which must implement the attack.

To replace the graduates, Doug Bennett and Jim Haynes, Davidson has switched Trojan war horse A. J. Gillespie (6'3", 215) to a running back. Gillespie, seeking his fourth varsity letter in the sport, will also anchor a solid linebacking corps.

Running with Gillespie will be letterman Mark Dockett, sophomore Don Reed or junior Dave Haynes. Bob Carter backs Douglas at quarter and Fullback Dave Powell moves back from the line to that spot. Barry Frederickson will press Powell.

Missing on the line are Gale Nielsen (T) and Tom Deakin (E), but co-captain (with Gillespie) Lee Carr is back at center and guards Gary Baker and Harold Braun (supported by Dale Bennett and Gary Turnblom) return as well.

Ends Jim Romine and Tom Murphy, along with Jim Gordenier, will receive Douglas' aerials while Clyde Meade, Mike Wilson, Dave Cameron, Dave Vickers and Wes Cowden vie at the tackles. Bill Hoeft supports Carr at center.

Romine, Meade and Hoeft work at defensive ends with Powell and the offensive tackles battling to round out the line in Davidson's 4-4-3 defense.

With Gillespie at the linebackers are Carr, Baker and Braun with Frederickson, Reed, Bennett and Douglas listed behind them.

The entire defensive secondary graduated, but Carter, Murphy, Gordenier, Dockett and Haynes will be counted on to fill that gap.

So, Trojans will field their typically small squad (22 athletes) against a tough, basically unknown, schedule.

Davidson looks for improvement over last fall's winless season. With Gillespie lugging the pigskin and the team solid in the middle of the offense and in linebacking, things may be looking up for the Trojans.

Pirates: Quietly Optimistic

The 1972 edition of the Pinckney Pirates is approaching the coming season with a feeling somewhat new for a Pinckney squad—quiet, self-assured optimism.

At first glance, this year would seem to be something of a re-building year for the Pirates. Although they have one side of the offensive line back, they lost all but one backfield member to graduation, and also lost the services of several linemen.

But last season's fine jayvee squad, which dropped but one game, is expected to provide quite a boost to the returning talent. And consequently, Coach Wilson, his assistant John Sturock and the boys are anxiously awaiting the opening kickoff.

Wilson says Perry "has to be" the team to beat in the tough Ingham County loop this season, but he's quick to add that Fowlerville will probably be strong, too.

The Pirates will approach the year with the same basic style they've employed the last three seasons, but Wilson is hoping the Red and Black's defense will be more of an asset this season than it has been in the past.

Anchoring the 5-4 defense will be senior noseman Dan Henry (5'9" 140 lb.), tackles Floyd MacKenzie (6', 185-lb. junior) and Mike Surgenor (5'9", 180-lb. senior), and ends Kevin Douglas (6'1", 190-lb. junior) and Dave Marshall (6', 165-lb. senior).

Senior Ken Regits (5'10", 170-lb.) and junior Lance Kuhn (6', 180-lb.) will handle the linebacking chores. Regits is an experienced defender who came through well late last season for the Pirates, while Kuhn is a promising prospect up from the jayvee squad.

The monster man of the Pinckney defense (termed the 'Pirate' by Coach Wilson) will be senior Bob Towles (5'11", 150-lb.), who is also an outstanding wrestler.

He'll be backed up by defensive backs Jeff Hale (6'1", 165-lb. senior) and George Reynolds (5'10", 145-lb. junior) and safety Jesse Stevenson (5'9", 150-lb. senior). Of the defensive backs, only Stevenson has any prior varsity experience.

The Pirate offense is expected to move through both the air and ground routes this season, with the return of quarterback Steve Bishop (6'1", 160-lb. junior) after a year's experience.

The rest of the Pinckney backfield will be new this year. Gone are M.V.P. Bill Bishop and All-Area speedster Terry Trumbull, and also departed is breakaway threat Dennis Douglas.

Replacing them will be the backs who were the nucleus of the Pirate jayvee attack last year. Senior Ernie Chanyi (5'10", 170) will get the nod at fullback; senior Don Courdway (5'11", 165) will go at one halfback; and junior George Reynolds will man the other halfback slot.

Anchoring the Pirates' front wall will be letterman Steve Duchane (6'1", 204-lb. junior) at center. He'll be flanked by returnee Jim Henry (5'11", 145-lb. senior) and newcomer Kevin Douglas at the guards.

The tackles will be Floyd MacKenzie, new on the line, and senior Jim Posler (6', 160), who is back from last year. At the ends will be letterman Jim Young (6', 160-lb. senior) and senior Jeff Hale, new to the varsity offense.

The Pirates, who boast 30 players on the varsity and 110 in grades nine through 12 (on the frosh, jayvee and varsity squads) will open their season on the road September 15, against traditional rival Dexter.

Eagles Face Rebuilding Task

Frankly, it could be a long season for the Hartland Eagles and their new head coach, Ted Mac. But on the other hand, the Blue and Gold may jell well enough to improve upon last year's 4-4-1 record.

One of the key factors in determining the Eagles' success—or lack of it—will be the amount of injuries the squad sustains.

If Hartland can remain relatively healthy, chances are the Eagles could enjoy a fairly successful season in the Flint Suburban C League. But injuries will take an especially heavy toll on the club this year, since only 21 candidates have turned out for the varsity sport.

"Our first 11 is not a bad ball club at all," says first-year mentor Ted Mac, former coach at St. Martin DePerres in Detroit. "But after them, we have a lot of inexperience."

Hartland lost a number of key players, including All-Area selections Russ Buell, Rick Perkins and Joe Clark, via graduation. And another six letterman decided to forego the gridiron sport this year.

But there is talent in the squad which has assembled this season. And there is also some experience.

Senior Mark Larson (6-1, 180), who shared the signal-calling duties last year with Rod Pieron, will be back to handle the quarterback's job this year.

Larson brings a year's experience and plenty of ability with him, and should prove to be a solid play caller.

Another holdover from last year's squad will be in the backfield with Larson, as senior fullback Mike Nunham (6,190) starts his third year at that position.

"Nunham is an excellent back," Coach Mac says. "He's got quickness, and he runs with authority."

Flanking Nunham will be senior slotback Brad Melvin (5-8,150), who saw some action late last season, and sophomore setback Tom Germund, a new face in the Eagle backfield.

Quarterback Larson will be aiming at least some aerials in the direction of his former center this year, as Mac has converted senior Bill Hamway (6-3,190) to a tight end.

Hamway, who plays center in basketball and center field in baseball, has deceptive speed and good hands, and could prove to be one of the league's strongest tight ends.

He may also find himself at tackle, though, according to Mac. "There may be times when we'll need that size at the tackle spot," the coach says. "And then we'll have to shift him."

Sophomore Mark Raymond will be another target for Larson aerials. He'll get the starting nod at split end.

The line is where Mac faces his biggest rebuilding problems, and consequently, it will have a new look this year.

Tentatively slated to start on the forward wall for the Eagles in their September 15 home opener with New Lothrop are: John Eggenberger at center; Randy Banfield and John Scott at the guards; and Ken Stanowski and Duane Estep at the tackles.

The Eagles will be confronting league opponents with a somewhat different offense this year, as they'll move from the pro-style Slot T or I formations.

"We may use the full house backfield sometimes, too," Mac says. "I'd especially like to use it when we're in close, for short yardage."

The mentor readily admits he'll be heading into most of the games at something of a loss because he is unfamiliar with the Suburban C loop. But he doesn't think improving upon last year's record is out of the question.

"We're going to work on it," Mac states. "We've got an extremely young team in many ways, and a lack of depth, but we're fairly quick, and the boys have been working extremely hard."

Lions Pin Hopes on Passing

Dundee tied one game last year and won one. Saline recorded a single Southeastern Conference victory.

The Vikings' tie and the Hornets' win came in their Homecoming games and the visitor in each case was South Lyon. South Lyon's other road SEC game last year, at strong Milan, also was a Homecoming.

It is this factor, plus the need for a greatly improved offensive line and a stronger defense that Coach Robert Keezer and his staff hope to overcome in efforts to reverse back-to-back disastrous Lion seasons.

L
S

It appears that Keezer, along with staffers Roger Proctor and Don Bessolo (new this year) will have to come up with some running backs for the Lions to really improve, but the squad is not without its strong features.

Names like Tony Kern, Joe Stephens and Dave Tatro make some coaches turn green with envy.

Kern is the junior quarterback who will be guiding the attack for a third consecutive year. As a sophomore, the classy young signal-caller broke Dave Brandon's passing records.

One of Kern's reasons for success is Stephens. The small but sticky-fingered end grabs every pass thrown anywhere near him and can turn on good speed once the reception is made.

Tatro was adjudged the finest safety in the conference last fall and anchored a strong passing defense with his timely interceptions (it was against running attacks that South Lyon offered no defense in 1971).

Also to be counted on strongly are the co-captains, fullback Ray Givens and linebacker Steve Archey. Givens, the 5'8", 195 pound power runner turned in some breakaway TD gallops last fall. Archey was a regular at his position a year ago and will work with John Fleming (a letterman) and Terry Slaybaugh in that zone this year.

Running defense and the blocking supplied by the offensive line—both nearly non-existent in '71—both appear to be substantially improved this fall. Before examining these areas, however, a look must be taken at what may prove to be a major flaw in the '72 version of the Lions.

If Givens doesn't carry the pigskin,

TONY KERN

JOE STEPHENS

Defensively, the Lions look for solid efforts again from Tatro and the linebackers. In addition, they will offer two fine young "wolf men" in Jeff Monroe and Randy Coers. The line, too, looks better. Junior letterman Gary Ison will be working alongside Russ Hutchins and John Carter, both seniors, and junior John Underhill at the tackles and Detroit transfer Rick Brown will play a defensive end with the other end up for grabs among seniors Tim Palinkas and Steve Renwick and junior Mike Phillips. Dean McIntyre and Terry Taulbee are contesting for the "nose" guard spot.

Defensive halfbacks in Keezer's two-platoon arrangement include letterman Alan Rickard and John Henley, Terry Wilfong and Chuck Downing.

The offense is a "run and shoot" variation of the "T", according to the mentor, in which both ends and both wingbacks may be split out. A five-man line will be featured on defense, but many variations will be offered.

Keezer points to the return of Kern, Givens and Stephens and the Lions' 1500 yards in the air and almost 1100 on the ground as reasons why the offense will not be one to be taken lightly.

Time will tell, but prospects do look brighter.

who will? Keezer knows that an effective running attack is needed if his passing game is to be as good as it was one year ago.

He has a solid prospect in quick junior Bob Dail. He has a senior who did not go out for football last year in Dave Williamson and he has his punter, Doug Bridson, who lettered at a running back last year. None of these names will strike the fear in opposing defenses that the mention of Lincoln's Don Reed, or Milan's Larry Russell, or Novi's Jim VanWagner, etc., will.

In fact, despite the total numbers on the squad, the Lions look thinnest in the ball-carrying area. Dave Crabree will back both Kern and split end Stephens. Pat Allen and Randy Anderson vie for the other split end slot. A largely untried lot, this group must perform well if the Lions are to be a threat.

Offensively, the Lion line looks vastly improved. Center Paul Fallert (backed by Bob Fuson and Nick Lanza) has a year of experience and considerable talent. Ralph Berz and Tim Hilscher are experienced guards and are being pushed by a fine transfer from Detroit, Bob Pfeffer.

Tackles will have to be developed from among three juniors (Marty Czarnecki, Dave Hartman and John Serra) and senior place kicker Tom Hanson.

Former Lion quarterback Dave Brandon also figures to see plenty of action this year, despite the competition. He has been moved up to the second unit at defensive end by his coach, George Mans, at the University of Michigan. A junior, Dave added depth at "wolf man" for the Wolverines last year.

Four Lion gridiron grads are working hard to impress college football coaches with their talents this fall.

From all appearances, two of this number have succeeded in reaching the pinnacle - starting roles with their respective teams.

These two are Dave Penley, a senior at Franklin (Indiana) College, and Jim Riordan, a sophomore at the University of Idaho.

Penley, in his fourth year as a regular offensive guard, is termed a "key to our solid front line" by Grizzly head coach "Red" Faught. "He's a real good boy," the mentor adds, "if you have any more like him at South Lyon, send 'em our way."

Riordan, too, is rated very highly. His position is the demanding "nose" guard defensive slot and he replaces an outstanding graduate for the Vandals. Picked to again head the Big Sky Conference (they were 8-3 in taking the crown last year) for Coach Don Robbins, Idaho opens by dedicating its new stadium and artificial turf against visiting Ohio University (Mid-American Conference) Saturday.

Former Lion quarterback Dave Brandon also figures to see plenty of action this year, despite the competition. He has been moved up to the second unit at defensive end by his coach, George Mans, at the University of Michigan. A junior, Dave added depth at "wolf man" for the Wolverines last year.

If Head Coach "Bo" Schembechler or Mans decides to send Number 85 onto the field, that'll be the 6'3", 202-pound former all-around South Lyon athlete entering the fray.

The fourth former Lion is a freshman at Ferris State this fall. Bill Boggs performed at defensive end in high school, but the slender frosh will be counted on for the speciality he added to the Lions' offensive efforts last year. He's a fine punter.

NORTHVILLE DRIVING CLUB

MUSTANG FORWARD WALL—Northville's offensive backs will be operating behind what Coach Chuck Shonta believes will be one of the Mustangs' best lines in recent years. Combining experienced performers with relative newcomers, the interior line has one common factor—all its members are big. From left to right are tight end Tom Johnson, tackle Jim Porterfield, guard Steve Serkaian, center Ron Angove, guard Tim Rice, tackle Bill Potter, and split end John Sherman.

Mustangs Look to Experience

Experience.

It's a key word in the vocabulary of Chuck Shonta this fall.

Entering his second year as head of Northville High School's football program, he is counting on it heavily to make the 1972 season a successful one.

Shonta's first year as Mustang coach was something less than spectacular. Paperthin to begin with, the Northville gridders were beset with a disproportionate share of crippling injuries and hobbled to an atrocious 0-7-1 record.

It was not the type of season Northville fans, or Shonta, are used to.

"After the third game I sat down with my coaching staff and we decided that we weren't going anywhere," Shonta recalled, "so we decided the best way to salvage the season was to start building for the future. We decided to go with our underclassmen. We took our lumps, but we expected to. This year we hope we can start reaping some benefits from the experience our kids gained under fire last year."

By the time the Mustangs took the field against Milford in the season's finale, Shonta's "youth movement" was at a peak. The entire starting defensive unit and 16 of the 22 starters on offense and defense were underclassmen.

The 1972 edition of the Northville team will still be a predominantly young team, but this year they'll have had the added benefit of game experience.

The Mustangs will be a team of key players this year. Shonta is counting heavily on certain key individuals and their ability to perform exceptionally will determine just how well Northville will do.

One of those key players is quarterback Bill McDonald. The 6'2" junior signal caller was one of the players at the fore of the youth movement. Before the 1971 season even started, Shonta handed the slender sophomore the ball and said you're my quarterback.

As might be expected of an inexperienced sophomore playing behind a patch-work line, McDonald's 1971 standout linebacker last year, was switched to the position and three other athletes who have never played football before - Rod Crane, Bill Pettit, Jim O'Brien - suddenly appeared on the practice field and before Shonta knew it, he had himself more capable running backs than he had dreamed of having.

Norton will start at the fullback slot, while Crane, one of the fastest men on the team, O'Brien, and Bart Taylor will alternate at the other running back position.

"We won't break many long runs," says Shonta in assessing his backfield, but we should be able to move the ball

'...we hope we can start reaping some benefits from the experience our kids gained under fire last year.'

performance was erratic. He had his bad nights, but he also had his good nights. And against league champion Farmington Harrison, McDonald connected on 17 of 23 passes.

"There's no question in my mind about McDonald's ability," says Shonta. "He throws well, he thinks well, he executes well and I thought he showed exceptional poise for a sophomore quarterback last year."

"If we're going to win in 1972, Bill's going to be the one to do it for us."

With McDonald at the quarterback slot, the Mustangs will do a good share of passing this year. "We won't be afraid to pass from anywhere on the field at any time," says Shonta.

Running back figured to be a weak spot on the Northville team this year, but Shonta says that it has suddenly become one of the team's strengths. When Dale Griffith graduated last spring, the Mustangs were left without a running back in sight.

Bill Norton, 1972 co-captain and a consistently on the ground. We've got good, tough, short-yardage backs."

On the receiving end of McDonald's passes will be flankers Steve Griggs, who shares co-captain honors with Norton, and Taylor at the flankers and John Sherman and Phil Palarchio at split end.

The "sleeper" in the group could well be Sherman. Performing at 5'5" and 140 pounds as a sophomore safetyman last year, Sherman picked off nine passes - a school record.

"John's extremely quiet," Shonta reports. "I've heard him speak maybe four or five times so far this year. But he's a terrific athlete. He's a real "money" kind of ballplayer.

The backs will be operating behind one of the better offensive lines Northville has had in recent years. From tackle to tackle, the Mustang linemen average in excess of 190 pounds, and at least three of the interior linemen have all-conference potential.

Anchoring the Mustang line will be 190 pound center Ron Angove. Together with guard Steve Serkaian and tackle Jim Porterfield, Angove should make the right side of the Northville line prosperous running territory for Northville backs.

Serkaian and Porterfield are both juniors and both weigh in the neighborhood of 200 pounds. Serkaian was a starter last year and also saw varsity action as a freshman. Perhaps the finest of the Mustang linemen is Porterfield. A hard worker, Porterfield has amazing quickness for an athlete his size.

On the left side of the offensive line will be Tim Rice (5'10", 180) at guard and Bill Potter (5'10", 210) at tackle. Rice served on the junior varsity last year as a sophomore. Potter has been a pleasant surprise for Shonta. A big sophomore out for football for the first time, he has learned quickly and has fine potential.

Tom Johnson (6', 170) will be the tight end and has shown well in practices so far.

Defensively, the Mustangs will be counting on much the same people.

"The keys to our defense will be Porterfield and Norton," Shonta reports. "If they can do as well as we think they can we should be all set."

Norton will move from his linebacking spot last year up to nose guard and Shonta comments fondly on his quickness. Even more impressive is Porterfield. "We watched all the game films over the winter," reports the Northville coach, "and there was only one person all year long who was able to handle Porterfield. This year he's bigger and a lot stronger. He could have an outstanding year for us."

Angove will handle the other tackle spot, while Johnson and Tom Smith will be at the defensive ends.

Serkaian and Rice will fill the linebacker positions.

All-League selection John Sherman will hold the defensive backfield in place from his safety position, while Steve Griggs and eighth Bart Taylor or Tom Marzonie will be at the corner backs. Rod Crane is set at rover back.

"Our first string should be strong," says Shonta, "but I'm afraid we're going to have the same problem we did last year and that's depth. After our first team, our talent falls off rapidly. We're just going to have to hope we can stay healthy."

His goals for the 1972 season are modest, but with the Mustangs' schedule filled with significantly larger schools, they won't be easily accomplished.

"We'd like to have a 1500 season," says the Mustang mentor. "And I'd really like to see us in third place in the Western Six Conference."

'Super' Backs Pace Wildcats

The quarterback is a big strong kid who can fire the ball 60 yards in the air and averaged 6.5 yards in 27 carriers last year as a sophomore fullback.

At fullback is a 6', 185 pound bruiser and the halfbacks are manned by a pair of 165 pound speedsters who flash through the 40 yard dash in 5.0 and 5.1 second respectively.

NOVI

"It's an outstanding backfield," admits John Osborne, coach of the Novi High School football team. "They could probably start for just about any school in the league."

Except Novi. The wildcats, quite frankly, have a truly outstanding first string backfield.

"Potentially," says Osborne, telling it like it is, "our starting backfield is great."

On the strength of their awesome offensive attack and what Osborne feels is an improved defensive unit, the Wildcats will be gunning for an undefeated season and the first Southeastern Conference championship in the history of the school.

Novi nearly achieved those goals last year, finishing the season with an 8-1 record and in second place in the SEC. Only a heartbreaking 33-28 loss to Chelsea in a game in which the Wildcats outrushed the Bulldogs by a 240-80 margin prevented Novi from recording an undefeated season and winning the conference title.

Anyone who followed last year's squad knows that the primary reason for Novi's success was its potent offense. Utilizing the Wishbone-T formation, the Wildcats time and again blitzed their opponents with a flurry of long first quarter touchdown jaunts and then coasted to easy victories.

If anything, Novi's offense should be even better in 1972. The entire starting backfield returns in tact—a little bit older, a little bit smarter, a little bit faster, a little bit more experienced, and a whole lot bigger.

The two most dangerous weapons in the Novi arsenal are the two halfbacks—Jim Van Wagner and Pat Boyer. Last year the two took turns breaking off long touchdown runs and by the season's end Van Wagner had compiled 750 yards rushing and 12 touchdowns, while Boyer rushed for 690 yards and 14 touchdowns.

Both are bigger this year. Van Wagner is up to 192 pounds from 180 last year and Boyer scales in at 188 compared with the 175 pounds he carried in 1971.

"Both Jim and Pat should be considered all-state prospects," says Osborne. "They're big, fast, hard-hitting, hard-nosed backs who can run over you or around you. They're both superior athletes."

VanWagner in particular may be the key to the Novi Team. Not only is he the fastest man on the squad (4.9 for 40 yards), he's also the strongest (he bench presses 240 pounds) and has tremendous agility.

But his special contributions are his should reach its devastating peak in 1972. The fearsome foursome have all been starters since their sophomore seasons and now as seniors are ready to lead the Wildcats to the Southeastern Conference title.

intangible assests. He's a fierce competitor, cocky, self-assured, and loves nothing better than to go out and knock an opponent off his feet.

VanWagner and Boyer are only half the Novi backfield, however.

At fullback is Gary Collins, a 6', 200 pounder, who, like the two halfbacks, has been a starter since his sophomore season.

"Collins plays an important role in our Wishbone offense," remarks Osborne. "He's a strong inside runner, who's just a step slower than VanWagner and Boyer. If the defense tries to concentrate on the outside Gary will tear them up in the middle."

One SEC opponent tried that very strategy against the Wildcats last year only to watch forlornly as Collins went 60 yards for a touchdown on the first

Another key person in the Novi offense is split end John Pantalone (6', 160). "John adds another dimension to our offense," says Osborne. "He's a good pass receiver and he's very effective with the ball once he gets it. He has excellent agility. Anybody who ignores our passing game with John out there is going to get stung with a quick six."

The other quality which makes Pantalone a key person is his downfield blocking ability. "One of the reason we were able to break a lot of big gainers last year," says Osborne, "was that when ever VanWagner or Boyer turned the end, he had the other back and Pantalone wiping out the defensive backs for him."

There is a weakness on the Novi team, however, and that weakness is and Dave Ward (5'11", 155) at the guards, Steve Fear (6'1", 185) and either sophomore Ron Buck (5'10", 195) or Tom Celani (5'6", 180) at the tackles, and Roger Pelchat, a 6'1", 165 pound returning letterman at tight end.

Graduation also hit the Wildcats' defensive line. Gone are their two all-SEC tackles, 225-pound Bob Pisha and 210-pound Terry Auten, and all-SEC linebacker Pat Ford. Nevertheless, Osborne feels his defense will be improved this year.

"We were able to over power our opponents last year," Osborne recalls. "This year we think we can outquick them."

Filling the nose guard slot will be Celani. Ron Buck, the big, strong sophomore, and Kevin LaFleche (6', 185) are slated for the tackle slots. LaFleche in particular draws Osborne's praise for his play in the defensive line so far this fall. Defensive end should also be sound as Boyer, a second team all-SEC defensive end last year, and Eric Hansor are strong performers.

The strength of the Wildcats' team will be its linebackers, however, where Osborne says he has four outstanding performers. First team berths will be handled by VanWagner and Dave Brown.

VanWagner with his speed, size and agility should be exceptional. Brown (6', 170) was an all-SEC defensive back selection last year as a sophomore. "He's one of the top hitters on the team," says Osborne in explaining the switch to linebacker. "I wanted to put him up where the action is."

Backing up the two starters will be Collins and Mike Riley (5'11", 168)—two more big, fast athletes who love to hit.

The best hitter on the team on a pound for pound basis, according to Osborne, is defensive back Tom Ford, a 5'8", 145 pound third year starter. Joining Ford in the backfield are Dan Kardell, another returning starter, Roger Pelchat, and Bill Ross, the school record holder in the 440 yard run and the league champion in the 880 yard run.

play of the game and finished the first half with 120 yards rushing.

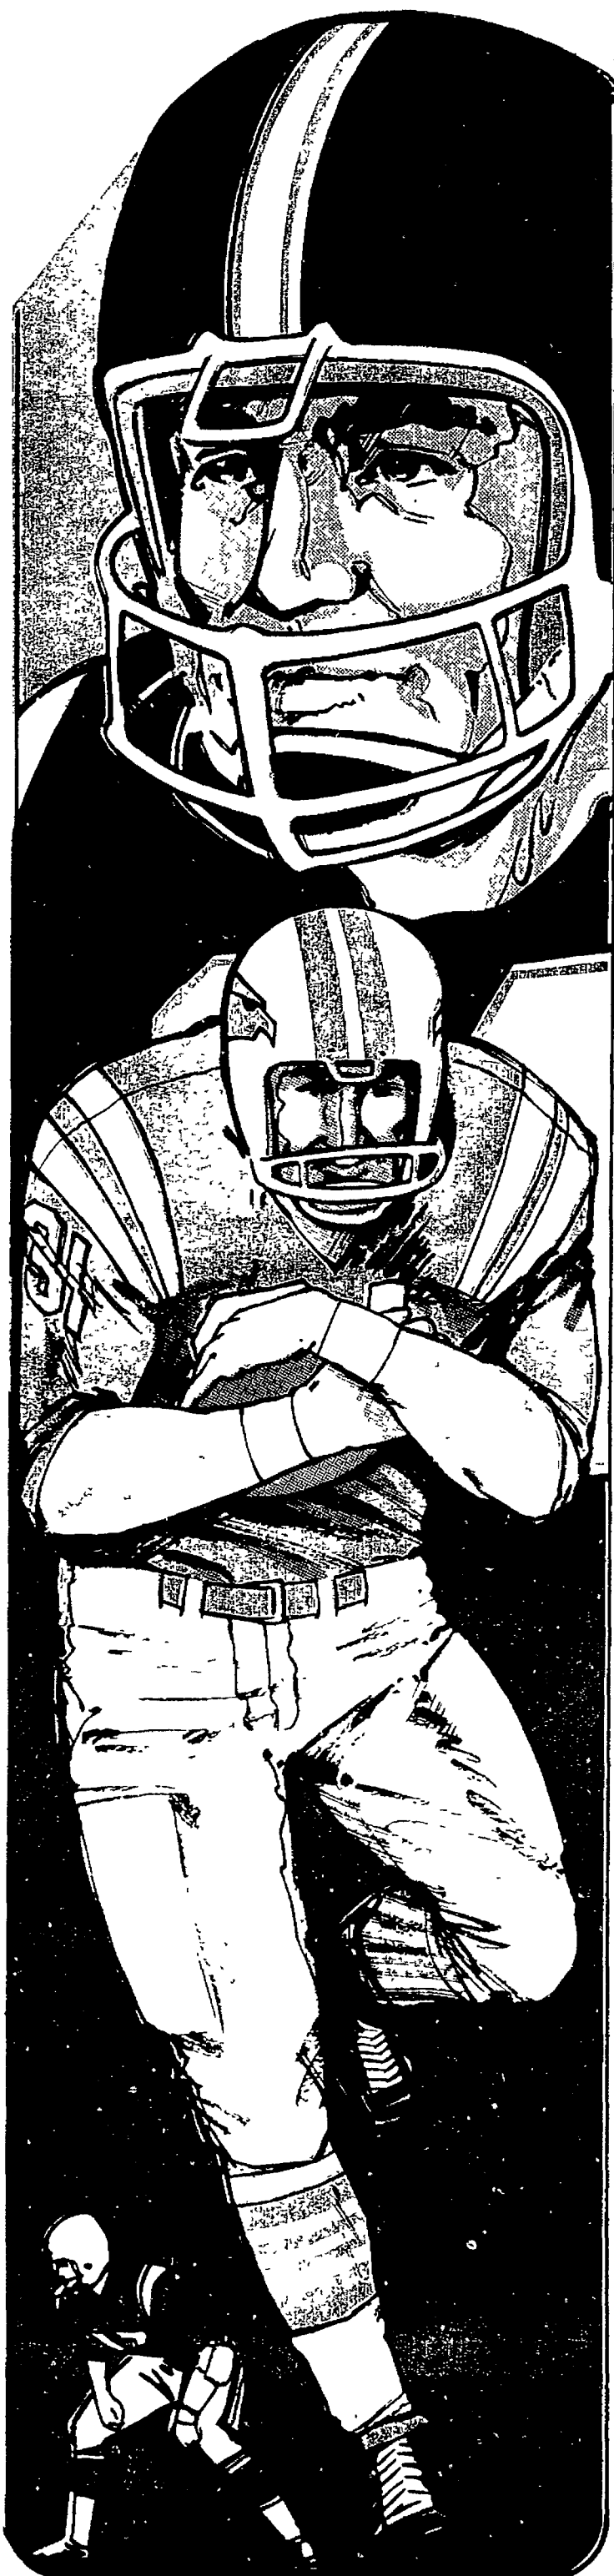

Putting the whole attack together is quarterback Steve Lukkari, a 5'10", 165 pounder. "He's the incumbent," says Osborne. "Steve's a good passer, but he doesn't get much of a chance to pass. Nobody stopped us on the ground last year and I couldn't see any reason to pass when we could move the ball on the ground like we did."

Lukkari's value is the manner in which he handles the ball club. When asked at the close of the 1971 season to name his most valuable player, Osborne named Lukkari without a moment's hesitation. An outstanding ball handler, Lukkari is the one who runs the triple option that is the essence of the Wishbone.

the offensive line.

Graduation hurt the Wildcats heavily in the line. Gone are all-league center Kevin Schingeck, all-league guard Pat Ford, and all-league tight end Bob Pisha. Also lost to graduation were starting guard Dave French and starting tackle Duane Miller. Only Steve Fear, a 6'1" tackle returns. "There's no question that our offensive line is a critical area," admits Osborne. "In the final analysis the functioning of our line will probably dictate the degree of our success because no matter how good our backs are, they won't go anywhere until we get a line in front of them."

Presently, the offensive line consists of Tim Assemany, a 5'10", 170 pound junior at center, Bob Brown (5'7", 155)
