

Ol' Grave Digger Buried in Past

Rocking chair grave diggers are buried in the past. And the hand-shovel they used in sweating over a six-foot hole is buried beside them.

In their place today is a business or a department of public works crew armed with expensive mechanical shovels doing two days of work in an hour.

But, ironically, it isn't that the machine wiped out the old-time grave digger's job; it's simply a case of man not wanting the job, thus forcing the machine to take his place.

"You know, we've tried to come up with the name of a grave digger, who is still active, but for the life of us Jim and I can't think of a single person in the whole area who digs graves by hand," said Mike Allen.

Son Jim concurred: "They've either died off, are too old to dig graves, or they've found easier ways to make a buck."

Except in isolated instances, the once familiar coddler who sat in his rocking chair between jobs is gone, they agreed.

For the past nine years, Mike, Northville's mayor and owner of Allen Monument Works, has operated a grave-digging and cemetery maintenance service as an adjunct to the old Northville monument business.

"Let's face it, we were forced into grave digging, not by choice, but because nobody else wanted it," Jim explained

"We'd get an emergency call, usually in the winter, from somebody who couldn't find a grave digger. Then pretty soon someone else would call before you know it we were getting calls from all over the place."

Today Mike and Jim are providing regular grave digging services in some 20 cemeteries, from Redford to Novi, Milford and Brighton. And they provide maintenance (mowing, tree trimming, etc.) for many of them.

Their service is the only one of its kind in southeastern Michigan.

Today they even own and operate their own

Councilman Target of City Condemnation Proceedings

Condemnation may not be an unusual municipal tool, but condemnation proceedings against a public official is another story.

And that's what is happening in Northville where the city council Monday authorized initial condemnation proceedings against property owned by Councilman Paul Folino. Located on South Center Street, the property is earmarked for municipal parking.

Once legal framework for condemnation is set, a formal offer of purchase must be made by the city and rejected by Folino before the council then formally adopts a resolution of condemnation sending the matter into court.

The vote to authorize City Manager Frank Ollendorff and City Attorney Philip Ogilvie to start legal action was 4-0, with Folino abstaining.

A past-ditch plea by Councilman Kenneth Rathert asking Folino to reconsider, thus saving the council and Folino embarrassment, failed. Folino was adamant refusing to have his property appraised and to negotiate with the city. He emphasized that, as in the past, he vigorously opposes public parking on South Center.

"It is not for sale," he repeated, arguing that his property and other property along Center should be reserved for commercial or professional office development.

Earlier when Folino objected to the city's designated appraiser, a different appraiser was retained. But, according to City Manager Frank Ollendorff, Folino refused to permit the appraiser to inspect the house on the property.

"I would recommend that the council consider authorizing condemnation," said Ollendorff. "We've reached a standstill, we can't even begin negotiations. I see no point in trying to set up any more meetings."

Consistent with his stated opposition to Center Street parking, Folino cast the lone dissenting vote Monday when the council moved to purchase the South Center Street property of C. Ray Letchfield—the property lying on the south side of Folino's lot.

With purchases of three more lots Monday (including the Letchfield property), the city now owns all of the property along the south side of Cady Street, from Center to Wing, one lot on Wing and one on Center.

To complete acquisition for the proposed parking area, the city must still purchase five lots, including the lot owned by Folino.

Although all four of his fellow councilmen and several members of the planning commission note that parking was planned south of Cady from Center to Wing when the Northville Square was first envisioned, Folino continued to insist Monday that he had never been appraised of the parking plan and he denied receiving a map of the area in question as had other councilmen.

Mayor A. M. Allen angrily reminded Folino that it was he (Folino) who had moved approval of the Northville Square development, knowing full well that parking would be required south of Cady.

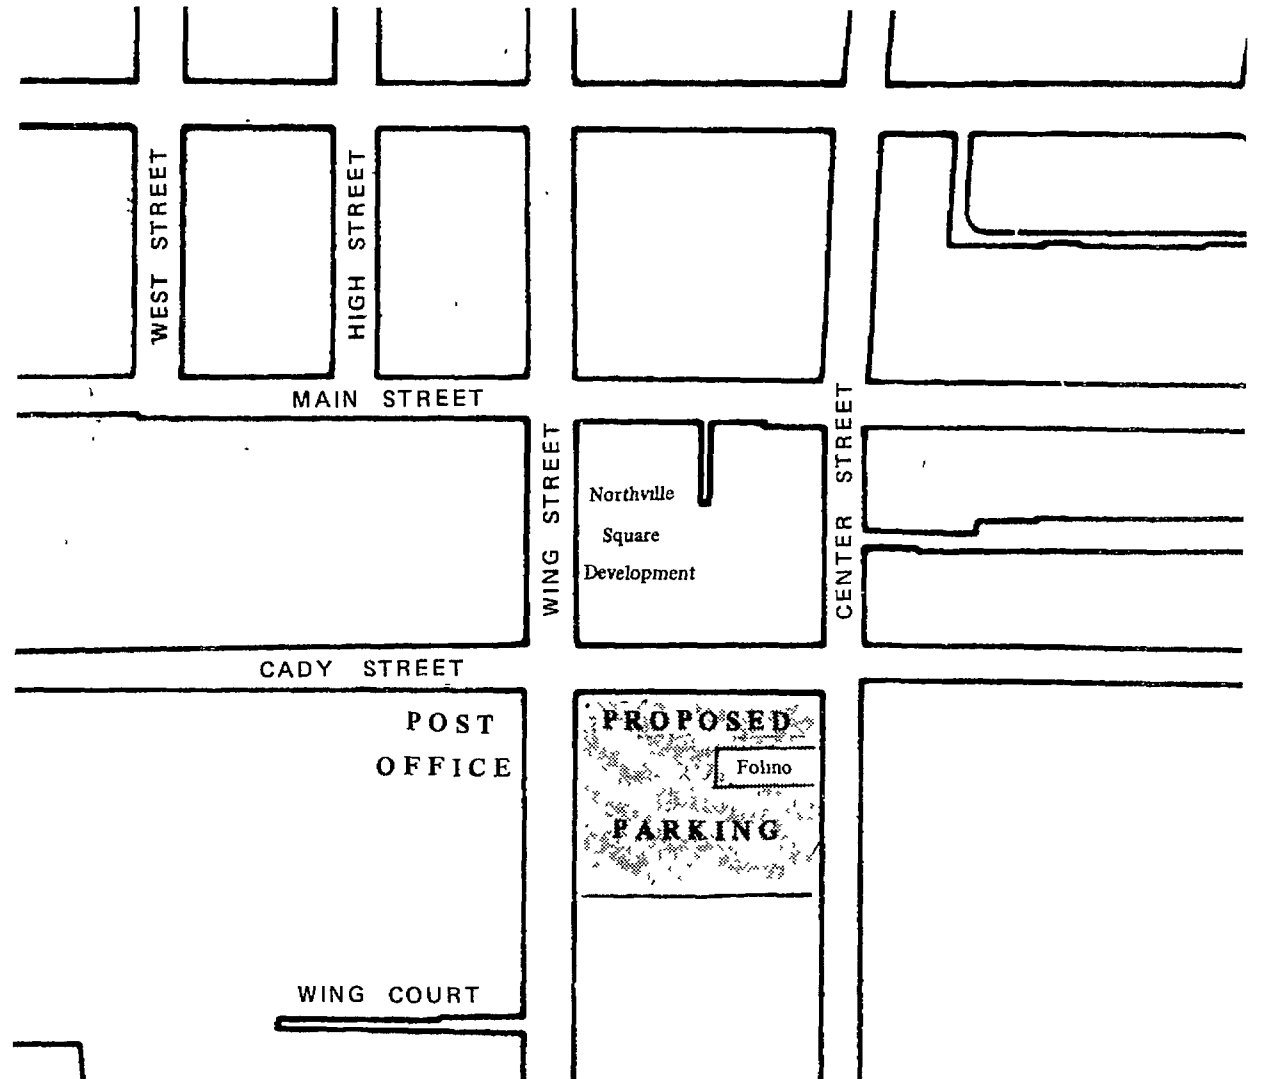

"We were committed to this (parking) right from the start," declared the mayor, "and you were aware of it just as much as any one else."

"Here's the map," said Allen holding it up for view. "It's a matter of record. It's strange every councilman can produce his map except you."

"I'm concerned that Paul (Folino) said planners were unaware (of the parking proposal)," declared Council David Biery. "I was on the commission when the (Northville Square) plans were discussed and all of the early parking plans included this area south of Cady."

Folino conceded that the parking plan may have been discussed but that nothing was formalized. "Lots of things may be discussed," he said, arguing that when he petitioned last summer for

For Ambulances

Free Housing under Study

In an effort to interest an ambulance service to base part of its fleet in Northville, the city council is considering a plan to provide housing for ambulances and personnel here.

Cost has been pegged at $3,000 annually.

Led by Councilman Paul Folino, the council voiced approval of the project Monday, authorizing a contract be drawn for consideration.

However, the project, recommended by Folino and City Manager Frank Ollendorff as an ideal way to provide improved ambulance services for Northville residents in both the city and township, is conditioned upon an agreement by the township to share in the cost with the city.

A formal request to the township is to be made soon. In his report to the council, Ollendorff said, "Councilman Folino and I met with General Ambulance representatives and find, as reported by Paul earlier, they will guarantee service in Northville by housing two ambulances in town provided the city can give them a rent free building."

This building necessarily would have to include a heated garage of approximately 24 feet by 24 feet in size with a nine foot high door. It also would have to provide living quarters with shower, bathroom, bedroom and living room for the ambulance attendants, Ollendorff reported.

"The company will sign a long-term contract and will pay all utilities," Ollendorff said, adding that "we should also have the right to review their financial records."

According to the city manager, cost to build an appropriate building would approximate $15,000. He suggested instead that the CONSTRUCTION DELAYS have forced postponement of an early opening of the Drawbridge Restaurant-Cocktail Lounge at the corner of Dunlap and Center Streets. Owner Peter Duanes had hoped the new facility would be open prior to Christmas but it appears now it may not open until after the first of the year. Most of the exterior work has been completed but extensive interior work remains.

BECAUSE a number of homes in the city are becoming "eyesores" as a result of junk, rubbish and materials being stored about them, city councilmen are considering ways of forcing homeowners to clean up their properties.

AN ORDINANCE banning sale of beverages in non-returnable bottles, due to go into effect January 1, will come up for public hearing here again December 18 as the city council considers repeal of the law. Like the City of Plymouth, Northville had delayed implementation of the law for a year because of the injury it might do to local merchants in view of the fact that so few other communities have or intend to have such a ban. Plymouth's law, also due to go into effect January 1, reportedly is considering revocation.

TOURING the city Sunday, the council inspected improvement projects now underway and discussed plans for some new ones. Among the latter is the consensus that the city must reserve a good portion of the wooded hillside stretching south from the Eastlawn Convalescent Center for a future park or public open space. Although the property is not now for sale, city officials have received several inquiries from developers and they fear attempts will be made to turn the area into a huge multiple housing development. A plan is likely to be prepared soon, indicating the city's intention to reserve a large part of the property for a park.

MRS. ROLLAND A. CATTANO II

Sutton-Cattano Vows Exchanged

A courtship that began while both were students at Milford High School led to the November 25 marriage of Karen Gay Sutton and Rolland A. Cattano II. The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Reverend Wayne W. Brookshear at United Methodist Church in Milford.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sutton of 26430 Novi Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Cattano of Milford.

The altar of the church was decorated with bouquets of gladioli, shag mums and roses for the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white peau de soie and Chantilly lace. The dress featured a high neckline and bell sleeves. A Camelot headpiece held her fingertip veil.

Her bridal bouquet was made of white shag mums and yellow sweetheart roses with a single orchid in the center.

As maid of honor, Deborah Bollinger wore a royal blue velvet gown which was trimmed with white lace. She carried a matching royal blue velvet muff to which was attached an arrangement of yellow mums and sweetheart roses.

Bridesmaids Paulette Cattano and Kimberly and Roxanne Sutton wore dresses similar to the maid of honor and also carried decorated muffs.

Serving as best man was Michael Knight. He was assisted by Ushers Rick Cattano, Michael Sutton and Larry Ceece.

A reception for 200 wedding guests was held at the Farmington American Legion Hall. Friends and relatives were present from Milford, Pontiac, Wayne, Livonia, Bay City, Plymouth and Ohio.

After a wedding trip to Sandusky, Ohio, the couple is living in Highland.

The bride is employed as a secretary for Mobil-Temp Corporation in Brighton. Her husband is employed by A & P. Both are 1971 Milford High graduates.

Plan Sing-Along

The Northville Senior Citizens Club has planned a Christmas sing-along for its next meeting on Tuesday, December 12 at 7-30 p.m. in the scout building.

Following the singing, refreshments will be served.

In Our Town

By JEANDAY

LOOKING LIKE a Christmas card of yesteryear, Northville's old library building and double-wing Greek revival house are nestled in white snow these days as they await placement on permanent foundations in the Mill Race restoration area.

Last Friday Northville Woman's Club recalled that it had held most of its meetings during its 80-year history in the library building and voted to donate $2,000 toward its restoration.

Mrs. John Burkman, wife of the president of Northville Historical Society and a life member of woman's club, expressed her delight with the donation and stressed the society's need for funds. She explains that necessary papers have been signed by the Ford Motor Company to give the site for the restoration to the City of Northville and, as soon as the city receives written confirmation that the deed (now with attorneys) is being readied, the buildings will be moved onto permanent foundations.

As woman's club made its donation, Past President Mrs. Charles Yahne recalled that the club for so many years owed its home in the old library to its second president, Dr. Mary Lapham, who gave the historic white frame building (opposite what was then the Lapham homestead, now City Hall) to the Ladies Library Association for a library, making provision for the club to use it for its meetings.

The historical society, Mrs. Burkman notes, will get firm bids for the foundations as soon as the city receives written confirmation. It hopes to have a summer event, perhaps a fair, at the site.

A BEQUEST of $9,253.91 came to the historical society earlier from the late Mrs. Thadd J. (Adeline) Knapp, a longtime resident of Northville on Dunlap Street. She died December 4, 1970, and often had expressed her desire to have this part of old Northville saved. She was a life and an honorary member of Northville Woman's Club and an active community resident.

Funds also have been received yearly from Northville Town Hall, which this fall gave an added $200 to the historical society, bringing the total to $600. When Northville coordinating Council (composed of representatives of community organizations) disbanded in May, 1964, the remaining funds in its treasury ($262.73) were donated to the historical society. In addition, Northville's Quaker chapters—Baseline, Silver Springs and Mead's Mill—all have made donations.

Individuals have made donations, also. Last month the society received a $100 gift from Miss Ione Palmer, retired school librarian.

Much more, of course, will be needed, the society points out, to complete the restoration and add other buildings. All will be done as correctly as present building methods permit with the new foundations to have stone facings over the block. Society members themselves have been doing repair work on the buildings, replacing old lumber and reinforcing the structures.

The society does need more members.

Anyone interested is invited to attend the next meeting at 8 p.m. next Thursday, December 14, in the scout-recreation building on Cady Street. There will be a slide presentation.

EVERY FAMILY who moved to Northville because it is a small town can give itself and the community a "Christmas present" by joining the historical society. A single membership is just $2 and a family membership is $3. Checks can be sent to the society treasurer, Elmer Schubert, 413 Beal Street. This interest would encourage a hard-working group.

EVERY FAMILY in town also should drive north on Griswold from Main Street and view the white buildings sitting serenely by the mill race.

SILVER SPRINGS Questers will meet at 12:30 p.m. next Wednesday, December 13, at the Seven Mile Road home on Mrs. Richard Foy and will hold the chapter's traditional silent auction of items members have donated.

Proceeds again are earmarked for Northville Historical Society.

Last month the group "toured" Mackinac Island homes as Mrs. Ann Timmerman presented a slide program of the Victorian homes, including her family's restored home on the island. She pointed out amusingly that some large pieces of Victorian furniture, including beds and dressers, literally have had rooms constructed around them and never can be taken from the home.

A Community Mitten tree was being installed Tuesday in the Northville branch of Manufacturers National Bank by the Northville Jaycettes. Residents for the second year are invited to decorate the tree with washable mittens.

Christmas Recipes

Home-Baked Bread Holiday Treat

Gifts of food are always appreciated, no matter what time of the year it is and the holiday season is no exception.

A loaf of home made bread is sure to be welcomed by friends, relatives and, most of all, your family.

From the kitchens of Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum come this suggestion for Gristmill Bread, a favorite of years past.

The recipe yields six to eight one-pound loaves, so there will be plenty for giving as well as eating.

GRISTMILL BREAD

1 dozen eggs
1/2 pound butter
1/2 pound margarine
4 tsp. salt
2 cups sugar
1/2 pound yeast
2 cups water
1 1/2 pounds buckwheat
3 pounds whole wheat flour
5 pounds white flour

Note. Use vertical mixer only or mix by hand.

1. Heat milk, butter and margarine, until butter and margarine have melted. Add salt and sugar to mixture and dissolve. Let cool to room temperature.

2. Add yeast to lukewarm water and dissolve.

3. Add eggs to mixing bowl with ingredients in steps 1 and 2 and beat at slow speed for one minute.

4. Add 1/2 buckwheat, whole wheat and white flours to steps 1, 2 and 3, mixing at medium speed for five minutes.

5. Add remaining flour very slowly, mix until dough texture will not stick to hand.

6. Put dough into greased pan. Let rise to double in size.

7. Pan dough into one-pound loaves. Let rise until double in size again.

8. Bake in 350-degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes.

Size of the groups varied at different homes, she noted, with the largest being at her home, at Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Weston's and at the Martin Rinehart's. Members supplied the food, she added, with a special donation being that of Mrs. James Tellam, who counted as she made 1,300 meatballs!

Many of the guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bountain continued on to the late-evening buffet hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sonk in neighboring Edenderry.

Several couples adjourned from the George Muranys' in Northville Estates to have dinner at the Thunderbird. Mrs. Evans and her husband entertained their out-of-town guests afterward at dinner. Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Forrer (she's Mothers' Club president) also hosted a late dinner.

In response to queries, Mrs. Evans notes that the party punch served was the whiskey-sour type advertised in the holiday liquor ads. The cheese ball recipe, which makes two balls is as follows:

Cream 1 lb. package box of Kraft American Cheese, 1 lb. package box Kraft Old English sharp cheese, 8 oz. blue cheese (all at room temperature) in electric mixer. Add 1 cup mayonnaise, 4 tsp. worcestershire, 2 tbs. minced onion, tsp. sweet pickle relish. Mix well. Put in bowl and cover. Let stand overnight. Form in ball and roll in finely chopped nuts and chopped parsley. Serve with crackers.

IN THIS REPUBLICAN community there were many who worked hard for candidates and party before election. It's always nice to be thanked, and the Greater Northville Republican Club's Tom Schwarze and Ed Hodge did so to volunteer workers recently, sending individual letters of appreciation.

Thoroughly mix cereal with butter. Blend 1/2 cup sugar into beaten eggs; add cereal mixture and 2 cups milk, 1/4 cup raisins, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon, and 1/8 teaspoon salt. Blend well. Pour into 1-quart baking dish, place in pan of hot water. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes; stir thoroughly. Meanwhile beat egg white until foamy throughout. Gradually beat in 2 tablespoons sugar until meringue forms stiff shiny peaks. Spoon in mounds over stirred, partially baked dessert. Then bake about 30 minutes longer, or until knife inserted 1 inch from center comes out clean and meringue is lightly browned. Serve warm or cooled. Makes about 4 cups or 6 servings.

Here's a tip for surviving the current dinner-party season and establishing your reputation as one of the top hostesses on the circuit.

Home economists at United States Stamping Company suggest selecting two or three unusual recipes and practicing on the family before serving dinner guests.

One dish that's guaranteed to dazzle guests is Paella Catalan, a fabled Spanish specialty.

Paella Catalan
1/2 cup olive oil
4 pieces chicken
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 onion, peeled and crushed
1/2 cooked ham, cut in thin strips
1 cup long grain rice
12 large uncooked shrimp
1/2 pound whitefish (cod or swordfish) cut into large cubes
2 canned pimientos (one 4 oz jar) drained and chopped
12 large mussels
1 cup green peas cooked, or one small package frozen peas
1/4 teaspoon saffron (soaked in 3 tablespoons hot water for 1/2 hour)
2 1/2 cups of stock or water salt and pepper

Heat oil in a Paella pan and fry chicken over moderate heat until brown on all sides. Remove chicken, add garlic and onion; fry onion until transparent. Add ham and rice, cook and stir until rice is golden. Remove from heat. Peel and devein shrimp.

Gather shrimp, fish, pimiento and mussels so they are ready to use. Scrub mussels under running water.

Arrange all these ingredients on the rice. Add chicken and peas. Push mussels deep into the rice. Lay shrimp on top. Add saffron and liquid to stock, or water, and pour ingredients into Paella pan. Season to taste, bring to paid boil and boil for three minutes. Turn heat down and simmer uncovered, until all ingredients are cooked and liquid is absorbed (about 20 minutes). Serves four.

The navel orange in the toe of each Christmas stocking will be extra large this year, says Raymond E. Vasold, a county extension director.

This season's sweet, juicy, seedless navel oranges from California and Arizona are unusually large. The crop is abundant, so prices should be low.

For a special holiday treat, baste turkey with freshly squeezed orange juice, grated peel and honey, Vasold suggests. Make a dessert of orange slices rolled in flaky coconut. Or serve sherbet or ice cream in scooped-out orange shells.

GRISTMILL BREAD—At the Plympton House, the oldest American house in Greenfield Village, loaves of bread in the shape of initials of family members on the table reflect a Christmas tradition of early Dutch settlers.

Last year's tree (the first) was so successful with 98 warm "ornaments" being donated that the Jayettes scheduled a repeat of the project. They pass on the request of the home that the items be of washable materials. The tree will be up until December 20.

Mrs. Rex Spencer, chairman, may be reached, if anyone has a question, at 349-1281. Co-chairman is Mrs. Thomas Lang.

NO TICKETS were available this week for the first Christmas Walk of the Northville branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, being held today (Thursday). This means that the branch had sold all 900 tickets, insuring a success for its scholarship project.

The sell-out is the result of months of hard work by branch members who have decorated the five homes on the walk with very different themes and made items for sale at each home.

So organized are the members that some even are managing to entertain friends during the walk. Mrs. Paul Hughes, whose home is open, made reservations for a luncheon at Meadowbrook. Mrs. E. G. O'Brien planned an informal "champagne buffet" for guests to drop in and help themselves.

An Edenderry neighbor, Mrs. William Kelly, also is having a luncheon today.

THE SERIES of open houses held in eight homes of Mothers' Club members last Saturday night netted more than $1,200 for the club project of supplying special education needs for grades six through 12. Mrs. H. O. Evans, chairman, reported this week.

Novi, Wixom Goodfellows Start Paper Sales Friday

"No child without a Christmas."

That's both the motto and goal of the Novi and Wixom Goodfellows, who will be taking to the streets and subdivisions of their respective communities this weekend to sell special editions of The Novi News to raise funds to meet that goal.

"There's no set price on what the papers will cost," noted Barry Westervelt, vice-president of the Wixom Goodfellows. "We just hope people will be generous so we can make sure everyone has a good Christmas."

The Goodfellows are active throughout the year raising money, but without a doubt they are busiest in the few weeks preceding Christmas as they prepare the "baskets" of food and clothing, toys and candy to families who need the assistance for one reason or OFFICIAL DUTY—Wixom Mayor Gilbert Willis reports he has been called upon to perform wedding ceremonies three times ever since a new law, passed several months ago, gave Michigan mayors that right. Willis' third marriage ceremony was performed Saturday afternoon when he united Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Fraser. The new Mrs. Fraser is the mother of Wixom Patrolman Bruce Kirby, who, with his wife Linda, participated in the ceremony. It was thirty-one years ago tomorrow (Friday) that Willis was performing official duties of a different kind. He was stationed on a ship in Pearl Harbor. Long Range Goal-Pick-up Service

Novi Eyes Purchase of Dump

The possibility of establishing a city dump with a long-range view toward providing a garbage pick-up service was discussed briefly by the Novi city council Monday.

The discussion came after a relatively short meeting, having finished the regular agenda and finding himself faced with having more time than an hour until the council's usual termination time of 11:30 p.m., Mayor Joseph Crupi suggested the council consider one of his "pet projects."

"It's time we gave some thought to either establishing our own dump or sanitary landfill or entering into an agreement with some other community to use their dump," stated the Mayor.

What prompted the Mayor's suggestion was a request made of the council two weeks ago by Charles VanEvery for an excavating permit.

According to a city ordinance, before such a permit can be granted the petitioner must provide complete and acceptable plans for the reclamation of the land once he has terminated mining operations.

"Perhaps Mr. VanEvery or others involved in mining operations in Novi would be amenable to entering into a contract to sell their land to us for use as a dump after they're done with their excavating," suggested Crupi.

"We could stipulate through our ordinance that it be left in a condition satisfactory to our purposes," he continued. "It would be a beneficial arrangement for both parties—we'd have our dump and the excavator would be saved the expense of having to reclaim the property himself."

Crupi's proposal won the general support of the council, which directed Acting City Manager Edward Kriewall to pursue the matter with VanEvery and other individuals involved in excavating operations in Novi.

An alternate suggestion was put forth by Councilman William O'Brien, who suggested that Kriewall be directed to investigate federal funding for solid waste treatment plants.

"There's a great deal of research currently being done in this area and federal monies might be available," said O'Brien. "Our sewage treatment plant in the north end is considered one of the most advanced in the country; who knows, maybe we'll be able to persuade the federal government to build us an ultra-modern treatment plant for solid waste."

"They may even be able to come up with a means of turning our garbage into bricks so we turn Taft Road into a cobblestone street," suggested O'Brien facetiously.

Discussion of providing a garbage pick-up service was dismissed as purely long-range at this point.

"The day will come when we should do it and it's good to consider it now, but it is obvious that we can't go into the garbage collection business on our present millage," said Crupi.

"At this time we should only consider purchasing a dump where people can take their garbage. Later if we go to garbage pick-up, we'll already have the dump available to us," Crupi stated.

City Attorney David Fried dismissed a concern that the city should not approach VanEvery until after action on his request for an excavating permit has been taken.

Regardless of how he reacts to our offer, the decision on his permit must be made on its own merits, Fried contended. "If he turns you down and then you turn his request down, you must be able to show valid reason for your denial. If you don't have valid reason, then you'll have to let his permit go through."

Novi Sets Date For Taft Road Public Hearing

A public hearing to consider establishment of a special assessment district to pay for the paving of Taft Road was set for Wednesday, January 3, by the Novi city council Monday.

The date was set as the council passed the second of seven resolutions in the city's special assessment process.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at Novi High School.

The resolution was ratified by the council by a 5-1 margin. Councilmen Edwin Presnell, Denis Berry, Ray Evans, and William O'Brien and Mayor Joseph Crupi voted in favor of the resolution, while Councilman Donald Young cast the dissenting ballot.

"My objection is not to the paving of Taft Road," Young told his fellow council members. "I object to the way the cost of the project is being spread."

Councilman Louie Campbell, not present at the time the vote was taken, asked City Clerk Mabel Ash to enter a "yes" vote on his behalf in the minutes. When City Attorney David Fried said this could not be done, Campbell asked that the minutes show he concurred with the action taken by the council.

By virtue of the passage of the second resolution, the city has now embarked on its second attempt to establish a special assessment district to pay for the paving of Taft Road within the past year.

The first attempt, which got underway in January of 1972, was abandoned after the council had passed four resolutions and was voting on the fifth.

Reason for the abandonment was that the council was not able to muster the five-sevenths majority required by city charter to override petitions objecting to the assessment signed by more than 50 percent of the property owners.

The council began this latest attempt to establish the special assessment district after an unofficial poll of its members revealed that there is sufficient strength to override any petitions that might be presented this time

Councilman Presnell and Campbell, both of whom voted against the special assessment district the first time, now seem to favor establishment of the district.

According to plans revealed by Acting City Manager Ed Kriewall Monday, two special assessment districts will be sought—one comprised of the property owners living along Taft Road between 10 and 11 Mile Roads and the other comprised of property owners on Taft between 11 mile and Grand River.

Total cost of the 10 to 11 Mile strip of Taft Road is estimated at $241,350 by Novi's engineering firm of Johnson and Anderson. The 7,769 assessable front footage of property assessed at a tentative figure of $14 per front foot would generate a total assessment of $108,766.

The city at large would then be responsible for the remainder of the paving cost, an amount of $132,584.

'Tis the Season' ...for Tax Notices

Every December Novi City Treasurer Geraldine Stipp makes a special effort to remind citizens that it's that time of year again.

But while "that time of year" means Christmas to almost everyone else, to Mrs. Stipp it means winter tax notices.

Last week the last of some 4,200 winter tax notices were mailed out to Novi residents and businesses.

"I can tell when people get their tax notices," quips Mrs. Stipp, "by the number of nasty phone calls and bomb threats I receive."

This year's total tax levy for the city of Novi comes to $3,224,776.67 up from $2,766,700 collected in 1971, an increase of approximately 18 percent.

The reason for the increase, according to Mrs. Stipp, is due to an increase in the city's state equalized evaluation and new construction. The city was reassessed during the year with the assessed evaluation climbing from $67,597,840 last year to $77,602,000.

The $77 million assessment is divided between $65,569,550 in real property and $12,032,450 in personal property.

Biggest bite from the total levy of approximately $3-and-a-quarter million will go to the Novi School District which receives $1,894,585.

Oakland County is slated to receive approximately $550,000.

Also included in the Novi levy are taxes from people who live in the City of Novi, but are in school districts other than Novi. Northville schools ($41.20 mills) will receive $425,499; Walled Lake Schools (41 mills) will get $265,632; and the South Lyon school district (38.60 mills) will be sent $28,754.

The rest of the Novi tax levy will be split between the Novi Library ($38,812), Schoolcraft College ($21,328), and work done on four drainage districts totalling $1,112.

Taxes may be paid between December 1, 1972, and February 14, 1973 without penalty. From February 15 until February 28 a four percent late charge is added. Taxes may be paid at the Novi City Hall by mail or in person during these dates.

On March 1, 1973, the taxes may only be paid in Pontiac and additional penalties are added, Mrs. Stipp warned.

Wixom Family Fights to Preserve Loon Lake Ducks

It would seem that the ducks on Wixom's Loon Lake are losing their happy home. To be even more precise, many of them are losing their lives.

The number of ducks and geese on Loon Lake, according to at least one resident in the area, has diminished from several hundred to 50 or 60 in just the last three years.

That resident, Frank Muszynski of Hopkins Drive, was at a recent Wixom city council meeting to voice his disapproval of hunting on the lake and to have Wixom's laws concerning hunting clarified.

Muszynski said that he was concerned, not only for the dwindling wildlife population on the lake, but also that one of the many children who live in the area might be hurt by a stray bullet. He added that he had complained to the police department and received different explanations of regulations from different officers.

Police Chief George VonBehren clarified the confusion for Muszynski. "The city of Wixom has no hunting ordinance as such," he said. "What the city does have is a firearms ordinance."

That law, the Chief explained says that within the city an individual must have at least 15 acres of land on which to discharge a firearm. That land may be his own or he may obtain permission from another land owner.

The next step is to obtain permission from the city police department. Von Behren added that this year over 100 permits were issued, "but none have been issued on Loon Lake." One other restriction in the Wixom ordinance is that a firearm may not be discharged closer than 300 feet of a building or property line.

Muszynski said he understood it is illegal to hunt ducks from a boat. His understanding was that hunters were in violation of the law unless they were on the shore.

City Attorney Gene Schnelz said if that were the case, the city has no authority to prosecute individuals on the lake because all waters are Department of Natural Resources (DNR) property. "All we could do is petition the DNR to restrict the lake," Schnelz said. According to DNR laws, duck hunting from a boat is legal as long as the motor is not running.

Many of the residents on the lake, Muszynski said, feed the ducks. "When you get them so they'll eat corn right out of your hand, you get upset when you see someone come along and shoot them," he told the council. Muszynski, his wife and their four children have been feeding the Loon Lake ducks for three years.

"The area around the lake has built up in the last few years and there are a lot of children who play in the marshes behind where most of the hunting is done. Some of them could get hurt," Muszynski said.

He added that he had contacted the Department of Natural Resources himself and had been told that it was open season and there was nothing the department could do.

Muszynski, himself a former hunter, said he "would like to see all hunting banned on Loon Lake" because the wildlife population in the area is rapidly decreasing.

Mrs. Muszynski said, "I know that a lot of men think hunting is the greatest, but this (Loon Lake) is just not the place for it. We're compassionate people where animals are concerned. It tears me apart to see as few ducks as there are on the lake and not have them safe."

Duck hunting season is closed for this year. Whether or not many more ducks will be hunters' victims during the 1973 season remains to be seen.

If the ducks living on Loon Lake continue to disappear at the same rate they have over the last few years, it may well be that eventually the residents on the lake won't have to worry about duck hunting in their neighborhood at all.

MOTHER'S CLUB OPEN HOUSE—Dr. and Mrs. Harold Wright, at the punch bowl, opened their home to guests of the Northville Mother's Club last Saturday evening for a Holiday Open House. Mrs. Wright was one of eight Mother's Club members who, with their husbands, entertained for the organization's first benefit of this kind.

Guests who visited the eight homes throughout Northville helped to make it a success. It was announced on Tuesday by Northville Mother's Club chairman Mrs. H. O. Evans that $1,200 was raised. The proceeds have been designated for the special education program for grades six through 12 in the Northville schools.

Friday at Schoolcraft

Slate Winter Concert

The Schoolcraft College Symphonic Choir and Schoolcraft Chorale will present their annual Winter Concert Friday.

Under the direction of Bradley Bloom, the concert will be given in the Plymouth High School Auditorium, 46181 Joy Road. Admission is free. The program is centered around works by Ralph Vaughan Williams in celebration of his centennial year His "Mass in G Minor" and "Serenade to Music" highlight the evening. The Mass is for double choir and solo quartet.

Appearing in the quartet are soprano Judy Slade, a member of the Symphonic Choir, alto Louise Davis, a graduate of the University of Michigan in voice, tenor Jerrold Vander Schaaf, a student in voice at the University of Michigan, and bass E. Lee Davis, a member of the Dusseldorf Opera Company in West Germany. "Serenade to Music" is based on a text from William Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice", which captures the spirit of two young lovers during idle conversation. It is scored for choir, soloists and orchestra.

Soloists are soprano Constance Avashairan, who has been seen starring in many local musical theater productions, also Rosemary Di Domizio and Tenor Robert Cassidy, members of the Symphonic Choir, and E. Lee Davis.

The orchestra consists of Schoolcraft's Wind Ensemble and guest musicians.

Holiday Reminder For Local Couples

The Christmas season is also a time for couples to announce engagements and recite marriage vows. As a reminder for couples planning weddings, here are the requirements of this newspaper regarding pictures and deadlines.

Wedding stories and pictures will be published only if they are received in this office within 15 days after the wedding date. After this deadline only a brief announcement without a picture will be used. (This permits use of the picture any time within three weeks of the wedding.)

Color pictures submitted either for a wedding or engagement cannot be used. Also, Polaroid snapshots will be used only if the quality of the print is exceptionally good.

A bride or her mother may pick up wedding forms at the newspaper office to be completed and returned before or immediately after the ceremony. Engagement forms are also available.

The information submitted on the forms must be typed or printed clearly. Wedding and engagement information will not be taken over the telephone.

As has been the Sliger newspapers' past practice, no charge is made for publishing wedding or engagement stories or pictures.

'Recycled' Trims Turn Packages Into Artistic Christmas Gifts

By MARTHA ROEMER

Selecting gifts and giving them is the fun part. It's what comes in between that might cause some discouragement at Christmas time or any time when gifts are appropriate.

Whether it is lack of time or lack of talent, many gift givers would rather give them in plain brown wrappers than have to go through the fuss of carefully wrapping gifts.

"You don't have to have talent to wrap gifts," Mrs. Jean Walsh Goldner told the members of the Northville Woman's Club last week.

Mrs. Goldner, a Bloomfield Hills resident, has been passing on her gift wrapping ideas to groups in the area for about 15 years. Many of her ideas come from "recycling the things at hand," she said.

Mrs. Goldner began by showing a box decorated with just a piece of wide ribbon covering the store name on the lid. Glued to the ribbon was a Christmas wreath which she had cut from an old Christmas card.

She later told the women that she never throws old Christmas cards away and uses the pictures from them frequently to add a festive touch to packages.

Her interest in putting gifts in attractive wrappings began because of her sister-in-law, she said.

Before Mrs. Goldner was married, her husband-to-be gave her an attractively wrapped present. She learned that it was his sister who had wrapped it "I was determined right then and there that I wasn't going to let her out do me," she quipped.

Some of the items Mrs. Goldner recycles in her wrappings include blueberry and tomato boxes which she decorates with ribbons and lines with tissue paper.

"Tissue paper," she admitted, "is my absolute love. It's cheap and it's bright." She demonstrated to the ladies how to wrap a package in it and how to make flowers from it.

"Fabrics intrigue me," she said and added that for decorating boxes, glazed china is "great because it doesn't unravel."

By cutting out a scene from a piece of fabric, spray starching it and then pressing it, she said, it is easily affixed to a box top "Just squiggle white glue on the back of it and then smooth it out with a piece of cardboard before gluing it to the box," she explained.

"One of my favorite ideas is to take two pieces of ribbon, one over the other, fold them over and secure them with a flat holiday seal. That one is great for men," Mrs. Goldner said.

Especially during the holidays, she said, the commercially packaged characters, such as soldiers and angels, on wires are great. "Bend them to give them a demension instead of just taping them flat to the box," she said.

One of the wire figures she had prepared was a soldier perched on the edge of a box. It had been secured by poking the wire through the box and taping it to the inside.

A cocktail napkin was wrapping paper for one of the smaller packages Mrs. Goldner had with her to show the women.

"I save everything," Mrs. Goldner said, "and my husband doesn't. He's a 'thrower outer' and I'm a 'bringer backer,'" she said with a laugh.

Velvet ribbon does well to cover up advertisements on many colorful cosmetic packages. "They make very attractive packages at little cost," she said.

Mrs. Goldner talked about some possibilities for using old Christmas cards. One, was to actually decorate a Christmas tree by stringing miniature beads

Three candles of graduated lengths cut from velvet ribbon and yellow ribbon flames made an attractive Christmas package. The idea, Mrs. Goldner said, was taken from a Christmas card she once received Having previously taught craft classes, Mrs. Goldner is now a needlepoint teacher.

One package she showed was bedecked with a needlepoint Christmas tree ornament she had made.

A Christmas wreath was fashioned by Mrs. Goldner for one package by cutting leaf shapes from ribbon with a pinking shears and arranging them in a circle. The addition of a bow at the top of the wreath gave a colorful accent to the package.

Mrs. Goldner said of that design that one need not use special care to see that each shape is exactly the same "Pretend that you are back in the fifth grade and don't be particular about how you cut," she quipped.

After demonstrating to the Woman's Club more than 40 different ideas for packaging gifts, Mrs. Goldner showed the women how to correctly wrap a package

"I often ask my self why I teach classes and go out and talk about this. I guess it's because I always have five things going at once and never seem to get all of them completed. I like to teach others so that maybe they can complete the things I don't," she explained

Bach Cantata Highlights

Walled Lake Concert

Music of the Christmas season will fill the air when Walled Lake Central High School's musical organizations join in public concert Thursday, December 14, at 8 p.m. in the E V Ayres Auditorium.

Highlight of the evening will be a Bach cantata with vocal and instrumental soloists featured in the presentation. Baritone Ed McCullum, a former Central High School student now studying at Central Michigan University, and soprano Mary Ellen Sobetsky, also a former Central student, will be soloists.

The Christmas cantata will be presented in its original German, but will be translated into English in the program, according to Roger Longrie, Central's director of vocal music.

Mrs. Andrea Collins, an elementary school teacher in Walled Lake and a graduate of the Eastman School of Music, will be violin soloist. Mrs. Shirley Ettinger, a member of the Central Faculty will accompany on the organ.

Beth Miller and Maria Martilla will be soloist on the oboe.

Members of the mixed choir and the concert choir are joining in the singing of the cantata.

The Central High School band under the direction of Thomas Stubbe, instrumental music instructor, will play Prokofiev's "Troika" and "Three Christmas Minutaires" by Tyra.

The emotion-filled "Little Drummer Boy" will be played by the orchestra, also under the direction of Stubbe.

The Male Chorus sings the old English carol, "God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen" and "Do You Hear What I Hear." The Girl's Chorus will present the rollicking "Santa Claus is Coming To Town" and "Shepherd's Wake."

Fred Waring's choral arrangement of "The Night Before Christmas" will be sung by members of the Neo-Renaissance Chorus.

The Christmas program is free and open to all members of the community.

Sell UNICEF Cards

UNICEF cards and calendars will be sold this week in Northville by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Mrs. Rodney (Yvonne) Grover, who is in charge of the sales this year, will be selling cards and calendars during the week at Krogers and on Friday, December 8, at Manufacturers National Bank.

Christmas cards range in price from $2 to $5 per box of 12, while desk calendars are $3 and wall calendars are $1.

School Notes

Vocal Concert Set

For the first time, Northville High School's choir and girls' glee club will present an afternoon concert on Sunday, December 10.

Beginning at 4 p.m., the performance will be held in the First Presbyterian Church, 200 East Main Street.

The concert includes Christmas choral cantatas which are extended sacred choral works the groups have undertaken.

The choir will sing Vivaldi's "Gloria" with three soloists from the choir.

Girl's glee will perform "Magnificat" by Popora. Both works are from the 18th Century.

Carol Muehlig, a University of Michigan graduate and organist in Ann Arbor, will accompany the groups for the concert. Anita Kalousdian, vocal music director at Northville High, will conduct the concert. There is no admission charge.

Just in case a blanket of snow or ice forces a shutdown of Novi schools or curtails the busing program, parents and students are being advised that announcements of such closings will be carried by radio stations WJR, CKLW, and WXYZ.

The first monthly parent-principal meeting was held last week Wednesday at Northville High School.

Designed to give parents an opportunity to discuss concerns and receive information on high school programs, the meetings are informal in nature.

Future meetings will be held the second Wednesday of the month, with the next scheduled for January 10.

Students in Northville High language classes attended two plays at Wayne State University last week.

About 150 freshmen English students attended a matinee performance of "Romeo and Juliet."

French class students attended a French play at the university last Monday.

Novi students involved in special education programs, including the mentally and physically handicapped now number 152—of which 20 are presently enrolled outside the school district, officials reported this past week.

MSU Coed Designs Academic Program

Jean B. Tyler of Northville is among a group of superior students at Michigan State University who will be allowed, with an advisor, to design their own academic programs.

The 98 students were admitted to MSU's Honors College during fall term, and as members will be permitted to shape a course of study to their own interests and goals.

The Honors College is open to students who have attained a high academic average and have shown commitment to both breadth and depth in their undergraduate studies.

32ND DEGREES—Gale P. Calhoun (left) and James W. McLennan, both of Novi, recently received the 32nd degree in Scottish Rite of Freemasonry in Detroit.

Schoolcraft Opens Office At Garden City School

Schoolcraft College established its first permanent offcampus office with the opening (November 27) of an Information and Service Center at the Florence School in Garden City.

The college will occupy two offices in the school which is located at 29205 Florence Street, east of Middlebelt and north of Cherry Hill.

The new Center will be open from 8 until 4:30 daily, the regular business hours of campus offices. It will also be open at other times for special services, such as registration. Students taking Schoolcraft evening classes at Garden City West High School during the winter semester will be able to register at the Center from 6 to 9 the evenings of December 4 through 7.

Mrs. Agnes Fultz has been reassigned from the Admissions Office on campus, and is currently operating the Center. She will be joined by a full-time coordinator who is expected to be named soon. Until that appointment is completed, various other college personnel are expected to serve at the Center on a daily basis.

The Center is a first for Schoolcraft College. Its establishment has been advanced by Dr. C. Nelson Grote, Schoolcraft president, as a means of improving service to persons living in the southern regions of the college district. This includes all of Garden City, Livonia (including portions of Westland) and Plymouth, as well as two northern school districts, Clarenceville and Northville.

It is approximately 12 miles from the campus

Funds for operating the Center are part of a special legislative grant of $100,000 received by the college for the current fiscal year. Besides the Center, the grant is helping to finance other supplemental programs such as the Women's Continuum, the Retirement Studies Program for senior citizens, and expansion of the Day Care Center.

Many state, city, school and college officials participated in brief opening ceremonies at 9:45 a.m. at the Center. They included Representative James Tierney (D-36th), Representative-elect William R. Keith (D-33rd) and Representative-elect R. Robert Geake (R-35th) of Northville who is also chairman of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

LOUISE T. BRYAN

A former resident of Northville, Louise Thayer Bryan of Bloomfield Hills, died Saturday, December 2, in Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. She was 77.

Mrs. Bryan was born August 9, 1895, in Northville on the farm of her great-grandfather, Rufus Thayer, located four miles west of Northville. The farm remained in the Thayer family until 1955. Her parents were William W. and Elizabeth (Sober) Thayer.

She spent her early years in Detroit, moving back to Northville in 1911 and was graduated from Northville High School in 1913.

She attended Alma College for two years and graduated from the University of Michigan in 1917. In October, 1917, she married Carl Haslett Bryan and they moved to Northville. He died January 2, 1955.

Mrs. Bryan was a charter member of the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, a life member of Northville Woman's Club, member of Birmingham Chapter of American Association University Women and founder of the Northville Review Club while acting as librarian of the Northville branch of the Wayne County library from 1935 to 1945.

Mrs. Bryan was also a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville for 59 years, joining Kirk of the Hills in 1971 after moving to Bloomfield Hills in 1970.

Surviving is a son, Alfred Ping of Bloomfield Hills.

Funeral services were held December 5 at Casterline Funeral home where the Reverend Lloyd Brasure of the First Presbyterian Church officiated. Entombment was in Rural Hill Cemetery.

ELIZABETH MAGUIRE

Funeral services were held Saturday, December 2 at Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church for Mrs. Elizabeth Marie Maguire, 51, of 42410 Parkhurst, Plymouth Township.

A resident of the Northville-Plymouth area since 1942, Mrs. Maguire died November 29 at Providence Hospital in Detroit.

She is survived by her husband, John T. Maguire; two daughters, Mrs. Ronald (Kathleen) Schlum of Plymouth; Mrs. Dillon (Maribeth) Reed of Donner's Grove, Illinois, three sons, Thomas of Ann Arbor; William, a member of the Navy in San Diego, and Michael of Plymouth.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Mary McFadden of Detroit and Mrs. Florence Gibbons of Dearborn Heights, a brother, Robert Tuomey of Troy; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were under the auspices of the Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth, with burial at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

MAZZIE MARKHAM

Mazzie Mildred Markham, a life-long Northville resident, died suddenly Tuesday, December 5, at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Miss Markham was well-known to many Northville people as a sales lady at Brader's Department Store, where she had worked since 1932.

Born May 20, 1914, in Northville, she was the daughter of Horace I. and Emma (Malloy) Markham. She was 58 years old at the time of her death.

Surviving are two brothers, William I. Markham of New Hudson and Horace C. Markham of Belleville. She was preceded in death by both her parents.

Miss Markham was a member of Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville, the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club, and the "Our Lady's League" of the Our Lady of Victory Church.

Rosary will be said at 8 p.m. Friday, December 8 at Casterline's Funeral Home.

Funeral services will be held Saturday, December 9 at 10 a.m. in the Our Lady of Victory Church with Father John Wittstock officiating. Burial will follow in Northville's Rural Hill Cemetery.

ANNIE J. PROCTOR

Funeral services were held Tuesday, December 5, for Annie Jane Proctor of Plymouth who died December 2 at St. Mary hospital in Livonia. She was 87.

Born May 20, 1885, in Hersey, she was the daughter of Angus and Annie McKay. A resident of Plymouth for the past 11 years, she was a member of the First Church of Christian Science in Flint.

Her husband, Earl G., preceded her in death. Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Charles (Jean) Chase of Northville, a son, Joseph of Orange, Connecticut, a sister, Mrs. Thomas Bobo of Grand Rapids, five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Services were held at the Casterline Funeral Home where Alexander C. Howell of Plymouth served as reader. Burial was in White Chapel Cemetery, Troy.

GOP Taps Smart Again

State Representative Clifford Smart of Walled Lake, who represents the Oakland County portion of Northville, Novi and Wixom, was renominated Minority Leader of the House in a Republic caucus Thursday.

In announcing the remainder of the leadership slate to newsmen following the closed door session, Smart said he was "pleased with the outcome. We had a lot of close races for these leadership positions."

Other leaders named were: Martin Butth of Rockford, assistant minority leader; Dennis Cawthorne of Manistee, minority floor leader; Jim Smith of Grand Blanc, assistant minority floor leader; Jim Farnsworth of Holland, caucus chairman; Loren Anderson of Pontiac, assistant caucus leader; and Jim Defenbaugh of Birmingham, minority whip.

NOVI HIGHLIGHTS

BY JEANNE CLARKE
624-0173

A reception was held at the board of education offices on November 28 for Jack and Helen Crawford who will be moving to Florida soon. This occasion was planned by the Novi Board of Education in recognition of service given to the community by the Crawfords.

Mrs. Frances (Gow) Loynes was honored at a wedding shower given by her fellow employees of the City of Novi last Friday. She received many lovely gifts. About 20 persons attended.

Becky Wilenius of California and Mrs. Helmi Wilenius of Redford were guests on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wilenius of Clark Street.

Mrs. Ed Rix, formerly of Novi and now of Plymouth, has been ill and is a patient at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Mae Atkinson and Mrs. Jennie Champion visited Mrs. Frances Denton who is convalescing from an injury suffered May 23.

Mrs. Mary Grimes was one of the lucky ones in her hunting party who got a buck recently. There were four in the party and three got their deer.

Word has been received that Mrs. Roger McLean, formerly employed by the Novi Police Department, is the proud mother of a baby boy named Michael James. The baby weighed 8 pounds, 11 ounces.

Mrs. Marie Travis of Cady Street was hostess for a Thanksgiving dinner. Her guests included Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Travis of New Hudson, Mrs. Leslie Clarke, Mrs. Mamie Jensen and Mrs. Kathy Cobb of Northville.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Grimes, long time residents of Novi and owners of Grimes Market on Grand River, are now living in their new home on Nine Mile Road in South Lyon.

NESPO

Parents of Novi Elementary School pupils met Tuesday night to discuss final plans for the Book Fair to be held on November 6, 7, 8. The school children will be able to view and purchase books during this time. It also will be open for parents who may purchase books as Christmas gifts for their youngsters.

Dr. Gerald Kratz was the special speaker and he met with the parents to discuss matters relating to the Novi School system. Refreshments were provided by the committee consisting of Cathy McGuffin, Tina Dubberly and Karen Purrell.

The Open House planned for the school in December has been postponed until after the first year. Details will be presented at a later date. The committee presently is working on the hard cover books, and is still in need of 12" x 15" squares of cotton material. If you have any and would like it picked up call Mrs. Jan Kurin at 624-2091.

Novi Girl Scouts

Brownie troop 404 had as guest Denise Stipp who came with her guitar and sang Girl Scout songs with the girls. They played relay games, and treats were brought by Cathy Warren. The Junior Troop went camping this weekend. Leaders of the troop are Mim King and Mary Morandy. The troop also is selling candy bars for camping expenses. Chairman of the project is Mrs. Clara Willacker.

Cadet Troop 149 will hold a calendar sale from 10-2 in the Freeway Shopping Center in front of the Stitch and Sew store on Saturday. The outing committee met and made plans for a Christmas party on December 22 and did some long-term planning for a hayride in January and a weekend camping trip. On Monday they plan to make decorative candles for the Scotch Christmas tree located at Farmington Community House.

Junior Troop 913 received an American flag last week from Jaycee Auxiliary member Mrs. Shirley Stroud. The troop is helping with winter bouquet gifts for the nursing home projects sponsored by the Jaycee Auxiliary.

Brownie Troop 711 visited the Novi Police-Fire Department where it was given a guided tour by Officer John April, Corporal Starnes, and Lieutenant Dennis Ireland. The girls were accompanied by Mrs. Pat Gray, Mrs. Jan Anthony and Mrs. Eileen Kidd.

Brownie Troop 161 are making Christmas gifts for parents and will be making Christmas cookies at the home of Mrs. Mahle, their leader, in the near future.

Brownie Troop 519 is stringing cranberries for the Scotch tree as well as putting Scottish bows on candy canes to hang on the tree. Girls plan to work on Christmas gifts and finish up with Christmas party for the troop.

Bluestar Mothers

The Blue Star mothers are still looking for names of servicemen from the Novi area so that they may be given Christmas gifts. Please call Mrs. Race at 349-2293.

The ladies will be having their annual Christmas party for members at the home of Mrs. Florence Wyatt of Plymouth. Everyone is asked to bring a $1 gift exchange, sandwich, and table service. There will be a short business meeting following the Christmas party.

Novi Senior Citizens

The group met on Tuesday, November 28, the birthday of the Novi Senior Citizens Club, which was started in November, 1969. Everyone enjoyed Officer Bill Brown's presentation of the traffic problems in the city. Mrs. Liddle served refreshments.

On Wednesday, December 13, there will be a Christmas covered dish luncheon at the Novi United Methodist Church on Ten Mile. Everyone one is asked to bring a passing dish and his or her own table service. Santa Claus will be arriving early, and everyone is asked to bring a $1 gift for exchange. If transportation is a problem call Nancy Liddle 349-2219, and she will arrange a ride.

This group is especially anxious at this time of year to reach all Senior Citizens in Novi so please plan to attend, officers urge.

Novi Goodfellows

This week will be the two big days for the Novi Goodfellows as they go hold their annual paper drive sale to ensure every child in Novi a merry Christmas with toys and food for Christmas dinner as well as needed clothing. Anyone having a name of a needy family is encouraged to call as early as possible 349-2188 before 5 p.m. or 624-1248.

Headquarters for the sale will be in the Novi Fire Department located on Novi Road. Volunteers will be picking up papers from there and anyone wishing to make contributions directly may stop there. Salesmen are still needed. They will be on the corner of Novi Road and Grand River and also at Ten Mile and Novi Road. Among those assisting will be some members of the Novi Fire Department, including Marv Tobel, Bill Osborn and John French.

Novi Jaycee Auxiliary

The Jayceettes were pleased to welcome two new members to their November meeting. At that time Carol Chamberlin and Marty McNutt were installed Christmas favors for all Novi convalescent homes have been completed and will be distributed this week. The Jayceettes are distributing information about the kidney donor plan and infant deaths to business establishments and physicians of the Novi area.

On December 13 members will again assist the Novi Schools with a hearing retest program. Preparations are being made to institute Santa's Mail box again this year, although exact locations have not been determined as yet.

Cub Scout Pack 239

All committee members are reminded of the meeting on December 7 at the Henderson home to discuss final Christmas plans for the Pack and especially for the monthly pack meeting.

March of Dimes

Chairman Mrs. Pat Karovich has received some response from people wishing to work on this very important drive. Young people from the area churches, such as Holy Cross Episcopal Church, United Methodist and First Baptist, will be assisting in the drive. Date for the drive will be January 23 - 30. Volunteers are urged to call the chairman.

First Baptist Church

The Choir sponsored a trip to Ford Auditorium Monday night to hear the "Messiah." Many attended with transportation being furnished by bus.

The Sunday School will present a Christmas program on December 17 at 7 p.m. with various children's choirs. A time of fellowship will follow with open house being held by the Sunday School teachers in the Sunday School rooms.

On December 24, Christmas Eve, there will be special service held at the church.

Pastor Arnold Cook's College and Business age class is planning a Christmas project for the patients at the Northville Convalescent Home. They also plan cheers for servicemen and young people away at college.

Vera Vaughn Circle is sponsoring a Ladies night for its Annual Christmas Party to be held in the Flint Room at the church. The dinner will be catered and will be under the direction of Mrs. Wilenius and Mrs. Stupp. Members will be bringing Senior Citizens as their special guests.

Novi United Methodist Church

Ushers were Tina Wilkins and Cindy Cullham. On Tuesday Pastor Seymour attended the Pastor's Association meeting in Northville. The Athletic night program was Tuesday.

Following services on Sunday there will be a reception for Jack and Helen Crawford and Laura Comer, long time church members who will be moving to Florida soon.

The 5,6,7,8 grade classes and their teacher Mrs. Ruth Waldenmayer visited the Hebrew School in Livonia on Sunday, observing Jewish rituals.

On Saturday, December 16, all families are encouraged to be at the church to help decorate. They are asked to bring sack lunch.

Novi Rebekah Lodge

The Novi Independent Club held its Christmas party on Monday, featuring a lovely potluck dinner followed by the election of officers. They are Secretary Lillian Byrd; and treasurer, Hildred Hunt. Chairman and hostess for the next meeting will be Jennie Champion.

Next regular lodge meeting will be December 14 and the election of officers will be held. Also the initiation of new candidates is planned.

The lodge is pleased to hear that member Ethel Blaize has returned home from St. Joseph in Pontiac and that Lucille Weeks is improving and is expected home soon.

Novi Drug Abuse

On November 29 the Novi Drug Abuse committee met at the home of Mary Lou Christy. Members presented decided to use the funds they have raised to purchase a slide projector for the Novi Police Department. The group also decided to join forces with the Novi Youth Assistance Committee in the new year "as both organizations work toward the betterment of conditions for the youth of Novi." They also made plans to have an open meeting on January 10. On the agenda will be a drug talk, titled "Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Drugs in Novi but Were Afraid To Ask" or the "Straight Dope on Dope". The public is invited.

Novi School Lunch Menu

Monday—Chili and crackers, bread and butter, finger salad, fruit and milk. Tuesday—Chicken and gravy, mashed potatoes, bread and butter, fruited Jello and milk. Wednesday—Cook's surprise.

Thursday—Hamburger on bun, french fries, buttered vegetables, peanut butter cookies and milk.

Cub Scout Pack 240

The November Pack meeting featured the Rocket Derby. Brian Dostelnik and his committee did a marvelous job. The final winners were Chet Beers from Webelos 2, and runner up was new Cub Scout Michael Kamish of Den 1. Individual winners from the dens were: Den 1—Mike Kamish; 2—Wayne Limbright; 3—Marc Brinker; 4—Jimmy Woelker; 5—John Gurka; 6—Todd Cencich; Webelos 1—Craig Iseli; and Webelos 2—Chet Beers.

Jimmer Lippert and Davie Ziegler also received denner cords for October and September. New Den Mother Linda Cencich was welcomed into pack and received her den mother patch.

The Webelos awards are as follows:

Dave Young received the den chief cords, and den chief handbook; Kery Fears, one-year pin as Webelos den chief; David Brayton, two-year service pin, aquanaut award and dinner cords; Brent Boudreau, two-year service pin. Webelos colors were presented to Chet Beers, Dave Brayton, Paul O'Neill and Brent Boudreau.

MR. AND MRS. JACK CRAWFORD

Jack Crawfords Feted By Novi School Board

A resolution praising two long-time employees of the Novi School District was adopted by the board of education last week.

Honored by the board were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crawford, who were presented with engraved plaques during Tuesday's board meeting and feted following the meeting at a party in the administration building.

The Crawfords, both of whom were employees for many years—she as a bookkeeper for 13 years and he as custodian for 11 years at Novi Elementary School—are retiring and will move to Florida.

Crawford also is a former Novi school board member, and prior to becoming custodian had been associated with the lumber industry for more than a quarter-century.

The resolution reads, in part:

"The Board of Education takes pride in the service which Jack and Helen Crawford gave to school and community life in Novi.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, that the Board of Education of the Novi Community School district expresses its appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crawford for their contributions to the school and community activities which have made this a better school district.

"The Novi Community School District extends its best wishes for success during the coming years of semi-retirement in the State of Florida, and in all other endeavors throughout the years to come. Although physically the Crawfords will no longer be part of our community.

another to make Christmas a happy day. Last year the Novi Goodfellows sent out 60 "baskets," while the Wixom Goodfellows brightened the holidays for 14 families.

"We've never ever failed to provide a basket for a family that has needed it," says Leon Dochot, president of the Novi Goodfellows, proudly.

Both Novi and Wixom Goodfellows are counting heavily on the paper sales to provide funds for this year's Christmas baskets.

The Wixom group has approximately $300 in its treasury, but, according to Westervelt, it's just not enough to buy everything that is needed.

Novi has been hurt by a change in policy adopted by the Walled Lake School Board. "We used to get about 3,000 to 4,000 separate cans of food from the Walled Lake schools," reports Dochot, "but this year the board said they wouldn't allow any more collection of canned goods in their schools. It's going to cost us some money now that we have to buy those things ourselves rather than having them given to us."

Both Novi and Wixom Goodfellows will begin their sales early Friday morning.

Dochot himself will be at the corner of Novi Road and Grand River at the break of day to get the sale underway. The Novi Goodfellows will also sell papers at the corner of Ten Mile and Novi Roads.

"We need more volunteers badly," says Dochot. "We'd like to have people go through their subdivisions and sell the papers door to door, but we've got to have more manpower to do it."

Volunteers to sell in the subdivisions or at one of the two intersections are urged to call 624-1248.

The Wixom Goodfellows will sell the papers at the Wixom Assembly Plant from 5-6:30 a.m. Friday, but the heart of their sale will be on a door to door basis.

"The city has been divided into sections and each Goodfellow will be responsible for going to every house in his section," explains Westervelt. "We'll be canvassing Friday night, and all day Saturday and Sunday."

Novi's Goodfellows were organized in 1954 when a child wrote a "Dear Santa" letter to then township supervisor Frazer Staman, saying his father was out of work and they had nothing for Christmas. Staman then went to some of the local businessmen and the organization was born.

The Wixom Goodfellows were an outshoot of the Novi Chapter and were started in 1958. In both communities many of the original members are still active.

But more help is needed. Volunteer. And if you can't volunteer, at least buy a paper.

Air Apprentice Programs

An informational program entitled "What's New in Apprenticeship" has been scheduled by Schoolcraft College for 6 p.m. on December 15.

The hour-long program will be conducted by Ronald J. Monfette, director of apprenticeship and related instruction for industry. It is for employers, employees, and returning veterans who have an interest in the industrial apprenticeship program offered by the College.

Monfette has invited local high school guidance counselors to attend the session. They have also been encouraged to identify persons among recent graduates from their schools who would be good candidates for both employment opportunities and for apprenticeship training.

At the present time, Schoolcraft has about 350 apprentices enrolled in its related instruction program. The College serves over 300 design, manufacturing and other service oriented companies, 120 of which are located within the college district. Related instruction is offered in 23 different occupational trades. The "What's New" program will be held in the

because of their dedicated service they will be long remembered.

Among those on hand for the occasion were members of the Crawford family, city and school officials, former board members, teachers, and friends. Hanging on the board office wall for the occasion were drawings by elementary school children, depicting their thoughts about the couple's retirement and move to Florida.

In related business last week, the board approved personnel recommendations that included a maternity leave of absence for Sherry G. Shindler, an Orchard Hills third grade teacher, employment of Clifford Brody as high school custodian at an hourly rate of $3.15; and employment of Janice Keiser as a substitute bus driver at an hourly rate of $2.85.

The board also tabled a proposed tax sheltered annuity program policy for employees; adopted the newsletter entitled "Novi Community School District News" as its official publication to be sent to taxpayers at least on a bi-monthly basis, and it cancelled its second regularly scheduled meeting (December 26) because of the Christmas season.

Northville Council OKs Sale of Novi Property

Sale of Beck Road property, owned by the City of Northville but located in Novi, was approved by the Northville council Monday.

Two bids were obtained on the one-acre parcel, located between Nine and 10 Mile Roads on the west side of Beck and the council awarded the sale contract to Charles Tobel of Livonia for $7,610.

The other bid, submitted by Mrs. Robert Lentes of South Lyon, was for $7,150.

Negotiations with Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit for the purchase of another Northville owned parcel in Novi, located on the east side of Beck Road, is continuing.

Also, the council designated Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit as the depository of city collected monies for Oakland County, established specifications for fleet insurance, approved increase of traffic speed limits from 25 MPH to 35 MPH on Taft Road, and voted to extend a water line to service Normac Inc. of 720 East Baseline at no expense to the city.

Spaniel Takes National Honor

Zollars Zipper, a five year old Brittany spaniel bred and owned by Northville's Ronald Zollars, took second place in the National Brittany Championships held in Ardmore, Oklahoma, last week.

Zollars Zipper was one of 70 dogs which qualified to compete for the national championship.

Previously, Zipper took second place in the Pheasant Championships in Illinois in 1972 and in the Regional Trials held in LaSalle, Illinois. In addition, he holds the national record for puppy field wins with 17 in 1969.

In other business Monday, the council voted to purchase a dump truck box from Elton's Inc. of Livonia at the bid price of $1,415. A second bid was received from Gar Wood of Detroit for $1,414.

Rental of a copy machine for the public library was approved, subject to an agreement that the township share in the cost.

Northville Hockey Association was granted permission to conduct a candy sale in downtown Northville and door-to-door later this month.

Seek Appointee For Novi Library

Novi's city council is seeking applicants to fill a vacancy on the Novi Library Board.

The vacancy was created when Phillip Cozadd, board president, moved from Novi several weeks ago.

Citizens interested in serving on the board should contact Acting City Manager Edward Kriewall at the City Hall, 349-4300.

They're Off! And He's Out Front of 'em All

Roger Anderson is a man going around in tight little circles. What's more, he does his thing 10 times nightly, before the very critical eyes of several thousand persons.

The Williamston resident, a veteran of 20 years at his profession, is the starting judge at Jackson's action at Northville, which continues through December 30 at Northville Downs.

As such, 10 times each racing night he has the lives and fortunes of eight drivers and horses in his complete control. The hopes of several thousand wagers also ride with him in that mobile starting gate, for that critical quarter mile before the start of each race.

Starting a field of harness horses is no simple task. It requires a cool head, a steady hand, and the ability to outguess the antics of eight horses, some of which go quietly to the gates, others of which may do almost anything, including a headstand, to gum up a start.

From the time the starter gathers his field of trotters or pacers, a short quarter-mile from the starting line, the horses, the drivers, and the gate itself are under his absolute control.

It is he who has the responsibility of picking up speed from a standstill to the 35 m.p.h. at the release point. The speeds and the distance for each speed are prescribed by the rules, and during the run to the starting line a speed once attained may never be diminished regardless of the provocation.

Such an action would lead to complete chaos, and on the rare occasion that gate failure has caused a mobile starting gate to slow down only a starter's quick reaction to spring the wings closed, and a driver's ability to quickly control a speeding half-ton animal, stand between a close call and the complete disaster of horses and drivers down all over the track.

During each dash to the start there are several critical points. At the recall pole (just after the field turns into the stretch) all horses must be on stride and within three lengths of the gate. The starter must judge that all competitors have met these conditions, or flash the recall light.

Once the field has passed this point there can be no turning back unless equipment breaks, a horse falls there is interference, or one scores ahead of the gate.

Perhaps the most critical point in each start is when the gate reaches the release point—some 200 feet before the start of the first turn. Here the gate must accelerate up to 60 miles an hour, in a few short feet, in order to pull away from the field of horses. One time, on a clay surface track in Maryland a sudden downpour turned the surface so slippery that the gate couldn't pull away, carrying three starters right into the exit chute right with it. Needless to say, that was an unwritten reason for a recall.

While the starter has complete control over the gate, except for steering, until the word "Go" is announced, at that point the control of the gate passes to the driver. It is he who must get the gate out of there, ahead of the pack. To do this he must negotiate a near 90 degrees turn, less than 200 feet ahead of him, while hurtling towards it at a 60 m.p.h. rate. Adding to the problem are the folded wings, which now extend several feet beyond the front of the vehicle.

On rare occasions starting gates have been known to fail to make the turn.

Anderson twice has been starting when the gate smashed right through the outside fence. Fortunately neither he nor the driver were injured.

Both times he was so intent on following the field of horses that the first inking he had that there was trouble ahead was the sound of splintering wood as the gate crashed the fence.

It is the mobile starting gate, developed by Steve Phillips, for Roosevelt Raceway, when that Long Island, N.Y. racing organization set out to popularize night harness racing as an integral part of the nation's sports scene, that is credited with having made modern harness racing possible. Prior to that horses had been started from a centerfield stand by a leather-lunged judge who attempted to get them off to an even start by lung, language, and fines alone. Obviously, with no barrier in front of the horses starts were far from even, and recalls were endless. It often took hours to complete two or three races.

With today's experienced starters and the mobile gates, races go off like clock-work, and the few recalls cause little delay.

Anderson, who is typical of harness racing's starting judges, gained his first experience as a gate driver. After passing a stiff examination from the United States Trotting Association, parent organization of the harness racing sport, he purchased his first gate, and accepted starting assignments on one of the many fair circuits. After several years of experience there he was tapped for pari-mutuel track work.

Like all starters, in addition to his lengthy investment in time learning the business, Anderson has a large equipment investment. Gates cost upwards of $12,000, and two must be available each racing night.

Nor is the starter's job confined to the business suit and bankers hours of the racing program. Each morning there's a couple of hours that must be spent in gate maintenance. It is this attention to detail that assures the perfect operation of gate and car that enables horsemen and fans alike to be confident that each and every start goes the full distance.

The starter is also called upon to start qualifying races twice a week, and quite often will be out there for an hour or more after these races schooling horses. Often it's around and around the track at five to ten miles an hour as young horses get used to the contraption of metal and the noise of the car that they will face once a week or so for the rest of their lives.

Beginning this year, the starting gate picked up another task, providing the patrol judge with a close-up view of each race, from start to finish. Now instead of just pulling off to the side, the gate continues on, way to the outside of the track, but opposite the middle of the field of contending horses. From this vantage point the patrol judge can observe all the action, and is in perfect position to call violations as they occur, thus backing up the film patrol record of each race without the problems of angles that often used to make a close call appear to be an actual case of interference or collision.

Yes, starting judge Roger Anderson, and his gate driver are going around in circles, circles of accomplishment in making a major sports spectacle possible and enjoyable for thousands upon thousands of fans and participants.

A STARTER'S field of vision must be wider than that of the camera. He must be able to follow his field of horses, eight abreast as they move towards the starting line. At the recall pole he must judge that all horses are on gait, and within three lengths of the gate or there must be a recall.

Northville Annexation

State Decision Imminent

Decision by the Michigan Boundary Commission on the petition to annex Northville Township to the City of Northville is imminent.

According to Commissioner Eric Golting of Detroit, the decision "very likely" will be made between December 13 and 19—"unless something comes up between now and then to take up the time of the state members."

"I'll tell you this: I've made up my mind and I'm ready to vote now and so is Mr. (William) Moshier of Romulus. It's just a matter of sitting down with the state members and making our decision."

Golting gave no hint as to how he will vote on the matter, pointing out only that "I've spent many hours on this Northville thing, going over all of the material that came out of the hearing as well as over the material that has come to our attention since then."

The Wayne County member of the commission, Golting is slated to retire ("I've already written my resignation") "and I'm anxious to get the Northville matter out of the way. The Northville petition is the only one remaining on the Wayne County docket because we got the Belleville matter out of the way three weeks ago.

"It was at that time we generally agreed to make our decision on the Northville case by mid-December."

Despite Golting's optimism over a decision soon, a spokesman for the commission's executive secretary, James Myde, told this newspaper Monday "I'm sure they won't make a decision until after the first of the year. They're just too busy right now on matters in other parts of the state."

"Even if a member is due to retire he is not formally replaced until after all outstanding county matters are cleaned up."

Golting said his replacement, Elton Shirely of Belleville, already has been designated by the court of probate.

Once the commission, which is composed of three members appointed by the governor to serve state wide and two county members, has reached its decision, the clerks of the city and township will be officially notified by mail, Golting said.

That decision reportedly will take one of three positions. Approval of the petition, denial, or modification to approve annexation except for some portion of the township.

the latter probably would affect that portion of the township on the Plymouth boundary, since residents there asked the commission to exclude their southeastern corner of the township from the annexation.

Whatever decision is made, citizens in either the city or township will have 30 days from the date of the decision to petition for an election on the annexation. This petition for an election reportedly must contain signatures of 25 percent of the registered voters of either the city or township. Thus election on the annexation could be held in either or both the city and township.

Public hearing on the annexation question was conducted by the boundary commission here in August.

Northville Census Shows

Children Top 5,000 Mark

A total of 5,170 children reside within the bounds of Northville school district, with 4,139 of those children of school age.

The figures were released following the recently completed school census.

According to Earl Busard, business and finance director for the schools, the census "is the most complete one we've ever done. All of the homes in the district were contacted, with few exceptions," he commented.

There are 3,733 families living in the district. Multiple dwellings account for 1,126 homes and single family units for 2,607 homes.

Multiple units with children number 446 or 39.6 percent. A total of 773 children reside in multiple units with an average of 1.73 children per unit. Combined with multiple units without children, the average number of children for all units is .69.

Single family homes with children number 1,781 or 68.3 percent of the total number of homes. Total number of children in single family homes is 4,397 or 2.48 children per single family home. Combined total of single family units with and without children averages 1.69 children per home.

Number of families in the district with children is 2,227 and the average number of children for all families in the district is 1.39. "Average number" of children for families in the district with children is 2.32.

The school district is comprised of 69.8 percent single dwellings and 30.2 percent multiple dwellings. A total of 3,278 or 87.8 percent families own their homes while 455 or 12.5 percent rent.

Broken down by area, Shadbrook-Edenderry includes 256 school age children and 26 children under school age; Taft Colony, Lexington Commons South, 313 school age and 61 under school age, Northville Estates, Lexington Commons North, 237 school age and 33 under school age.

They're Off! And He's Out Front of 'em All

Roger Anderson is a man going around in tight little circles. What's more, he does his thing 10 times nightly, before the very critical eyes of several thousand persons.

The Williamston resident, a veteran of 20 years at his profession, is the starting judge at Jackson's action at Northville, which continues through December 30 at Northville Downs.

As such, 10 times each racing night he has the lives and fortunes of eight drivers and horses in his complete control. The hopes of several thousand wagers also ride with him in that mobile starting gate, for that critical quarter mile before the start of each race.

Starting a field of harness horses is no simple task. It requires a cool head, a steady hand, and the ability to outguess the antics of eight horses, some of which go quietly to the gates, others of which may do almost anything, including a headstand, to gum up a start.

From the time the starter gathers his field of trotters or pacers, a short quarter-mile from the starting line, the horses, the drivers, and the gate itself are under his absolute control.

It is he who has the responsibility of picking up speed from a standstill to the 35 m.p.h. at the release point. The speeds and the distance for each speed are prescribed by the rules, and during the run to the starting line a speed once attained may never be diminished regardless of the provocation.

Such an action would lead to complete chaos, and on the rare occasion that gate failure has caused a mobile starting gate to slow down only a starter's quick reaction to spring the wings closed, and a drivers ability to quickly control a speeding half-ton animal, stand between a close call and the complete disaster of horses and drivers down all over the track.

During each dash to the start there are several critical points. At the recall pole (just after the field turns into the stretch) all horses must be on stride and within three lengths of the gate. The starter must judge that all competitors have met these conditions, or flash the recall light.

Once the field has passed this point there can be no turning back unless equipment breaks, a horse falls there is interference, or one scores ahead of the gate.

Perhaps the most critical point in each start is when the gate reaches the release point—some 200 feet before the start of the first turn. Here the gate must accelerate up to 60 miles an hour, in a few short feet, in order to pull away from the field of horses. One time, on a clay surface track in Maryland a sudden downpour turned the surface so slippery that the gate couldn't pull away, carrying three starters right into the exit chute right with it.

Needless to say, that was an unwritten reason for a recall. While the starter has complete control over the gate, except for steering, until the word "Go" is announced, at that point the control of the gate passes to the driver. It is he who must get the gate out of there, ahead of the pack. To do this he must negotiate a near 90 degrees turn, less than 200 feet ahead of him while hurtling towards it at a 60 m.p.h. rate. Adding to the problem are the folded wings, which now extend several feet beyond the front of the vehicle.

On rare occasions starting gates have been known to fail to make the turn.

Anderson twice has been starting when the gate smashed right through the outside fence. Fortunately neither he nor the driver were injured.

Both times he was so intent on following the field of horses that the first inking he had that there was trouble ahead was the sound of splintering wood as the gate crashed the fence.

It is the mobile starting gate, developed by Steve Phillips, for Roosevelt Raceway, when that Long Island, N.Y., racing organization set out to popularize night harness racing as an integral part of the nation's sports scene, that is credited with having made modern harness racing possible. Prior to that horses had been started from a centerfield stand by a leather-lunged judge who attempted to get them off to an even start by lung, language, and fines alone. Obviously, with no barrier in front of the horses starts were far from even, and recalls were endless. It often took hours to complete two or three races.

With today's experienced starters and the mobile gates, races go off like clock-work, and the few recalls cause little delay.

Anderson, who is typical of harness racing's starting judges, gained his first experience as a gate driver. After passing a stiff examination from the United States Trotting Association, parent organization of the harness racing sport, he purchased his first gate, and accepted starting assignments on one of the many fair circuits. After several years of experience there he was tapped for pari-mutuel track work.

Like all starters, in addition to his lengthy investment in time learning the business, Anderson has a large equipment investment. Gates cost upwards of $12,000, and two must be available each racing night.

Nor is the starter's job confined to the business suit and dress and bankers hours of the racing program. Each morning there's a couple of hours that must be spent in gate maintenance. It is this attention to detail that assures the perfect operation of gate and car that enables horsemen and fans alike to be confident that each and every start goes the full distance.

The starter is also called upon to start qualifying races twice a week, and quite often will be out there for an hour or more after these races schooling horses. Often it's around and around the track at five to ten miles an hour as young horses get used to the contraption of metal and the noise of the car that they will face once a week or so for the rest of their lives.

Beginning this year, the starting gate picked up another task, providing the patrol judge with a close-up view of each race, from start to finish. Now instead of just pulling off to the side, the gate continues on, way to the outside of the track, but opposite the middle of the field of contending horses. From this vantage point the patrol judge can observe all the action, and is in perfect position to call violations as they occur, thus backing up the film patrol record of each race without the problems of angles that often used to make a close call appear to be an actual case of interference or collision.

Yes, starting judge Roger Anderson, and his gate driver are going around in circles, circles of accomplishment in making a major sports spectacle possible and enjoyable for thousands upon thousands of fans and participants.

A STARTER'S field of vision must be wider than that of the camera. He must be able to follow his field of horses, eight abreast as they move towards the starting line. At the recall pole he must judge that all horses are on gait, and within three lengths of the gate or there must be a recall.

Northville Annexation

State Decision Imminent

Decision by the Michigan Boundary Commission on the petition to annex Northville Township to the City of Northville is imminent.

According to Commissioner Eric Goltig of Detroit, the decision "very likely" will be made between December 13 and 19 — "unless something comes up between now and then to take up the time of the state members."

"I'll tell you this: I've made up my mind and I'm ready to vote now and so is Mr. (William) Moshier of Romulus. It's just a matter now of sitting down with the state members and making our decision."

Goltig gave no hint as to how he will vote on the matter, pointing out only that "I've spent many hours on this Northville thing, going over all of the material that came out of the hearing as well as over the material that has come to our attention since then."

The Wayne County member of the commission, Goltig is slated to retire ("I've already written my resignation") "and I'm anxious to get the Northville matter out of the way. The Northville petition is the only one remaining on the Wayne County docket because we got the Belleville matter out of the way three weeks ago.

"It was at that time we generally agreed to make our decision on the Northville case by mid-December."

Despite Goltig's optimism over a decision soon, a spokesman for the commission's executive secretary, James Myde, told this newspaper Monday "I'm sure they won't make a decision until after the first of the year. They're just too busy right now on matters in other parts of the state."

"Even if a member is due to retire he is not formally replaced until after all outstanding county matters are cleaned up."

Goltig said his replacement, Elton Shirely of Belleville, already has been designated by the court of probate.

Once the commission, which is composed of three members appointed by the governor to serve state wide and two county members, has reached its decision, the clerk of the city and township will be officially notified by mail, Goltig said.

That decision reportedly will take one of three positions: Approval of the petition, denial, or modification to approve annexation except for some portion of the township.

The latter probably would affect that portion of the township on the Plymouth boundary, since residents there asked the commission to exclude their southeastern corner of the township from the annexation.

Whatever decision is made, citizens in either the city or township will have 30 days from the date of the decision to petition for an election on the annexation. This petition for an election reportedly must contain signatures of 25 percent of the registered voters of either the city or township. Thus election on the annexation could be held in either or both the city and township.

Public hearing on the annexation question was conducted by the boundary commission here in August.

Police Blotter: Thefts, Break-Ins Top Week

In Northville

An attempted car theft was averted by the owner of the car late last Tuesday night, November 28.

Police said Sharon Collins of 535 Reed Street reported she saw her car parked left wheel to curb with the driver's side door open on Reed at 11:35 p.m.

She told police an unknown youth was rolling her car down Reed Street and, when she yelled at him, he ran the car into the curb and fled south between houses toward Langfield Drive.

Investigating officers said the ignition had been unscrewed from the dashboard and was on the floor.

At 11:50 p.m., police searching the area found a Plymouth youth hitchhiking on Novi Road near Allen Drive, however, no positive identification could be made of him by Mrs. Collins.

Between 10:45 p.m. November 28 and 7 a.m. November 29 a camera, flash attachment and hunting boots were stolen from the Jack Hoffman residence, 573 Langfield.

According to reports, an unknown person entered the garage through the side door and took the articles from the car. Value was placed at $500.

Unknown persons broke into a garage at 218 South Center Street and pried locks off two trunks used to store antiques.

The theft was reported to police November 30. Investigation is continuing in the case.

A male caller about 18 years old phoned Northville High at 2 p.m. Friday saying a bomb would go off in the school at 2:30 p.m.

Police, fire and school officials checked the entire school with negative results.

COURTNEWS

Dennis G. Stover of Garden City was sentenced to from one and one-half to two and one-half years in Jackson Prison after he pled guilty to an added charge of attempted larceny from a building.

Stover was arrested by city police July 22 and charged with larceny from a building in connection with the theft of a deposit bag from the police department containing $4,500.

That charge was dismissed after he pled guilty to the added count.

He was sentenced November 14 in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Roger L. Shecora of Milford, found guilty of resisting arrest, was sentenced to 30 days in Detroit House of Correction and fined $74 or serve an additional 15 days in jail.

The action came November 28 before 35th District Judge Dunbar Davis.

Shecora was arrested November 3 by city police. He was also charged with disorderly person profanity, pled guilty and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. The second sentence is to be served concurrently with the first sentence. A second $74 fine was suspended.

Edward A. Snidar of Livonia pled guilty to an added count of driving while ability impaired and was fined $154.

Arrested October 13 for drunken-driving, that charge was dismissed after he pled guilty to the added count.

Todd A. Richardson of 19151 Meadowbrook Road was placed on one year voluntary probation, given seven days voluntary work detail and ordered to pay probation and supervisory costs.

Richardson, who was arrested September 4, was found guilty of resisting arrest, fighting and destruction of city property.

A Plymouth man, Carl E. Lee, was found guilty of assault and battery and fined $104. He was arrested November 7.

Drunkenness resulted in six months voluntary probation for Evelyn J. Long of 48385 West Eight Mile. Arrested October 20, she pled guilty to the charge.

Four persons pled guilty to tickets received following traffic accidents and were each fined $39.

They are Verna A. Craig of Wixom, charged with striking an unattended vehicle on November 9; Bradley A. McAllister of 324 East Main Street, charged with failing to stop in clear distance on November 14; Samuel A. Johnson of Wayne, charged with failing to yield the right of way on November 15; and Robert T. Driscoll of 705 Randolph, charged with failing to yield to oncoming traffic on November 16.

In Township

Township police are investigating a break-in at Total Party Time store, 40644 Five Mile Road, which took place at 2:15 a.m. last Thursday, November 30.

According to reports, a resident of the area, awakened by barking dogs, saw two youth between 15 and 16 years old kick in the front door of the store. Police said the youths then entered the building.

Investigation revealed footprints leading from the store to the edge of Fry Road leading northwest toward Maxwell Road.

Police did not say whether or not anything was taken during the break-in.

Shots fired from a BB gun are thought to be responsible for shattering a glass door at 15616 Bradner Road.

The incident was reported to police November 27. Two pellets from a BB gun were found at the scene by police.

In Novi

Four Detroit residents were arrested by Novi Police early Monday morning, December 4, after they had allegedly stolen a quantity of money from the Shell station on Novi Road at the I-96 expressway.

According to Novi Corporal Robert Starnes, one of the men arrested was currently on parole from an armed robbery conviction.

The four were apprehended on the expressway four miles west of Kensington Road by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department after the vehicle in which they were riding veered into a guard rail.

Police feel the vehicle hit the rail as one of the four was attempting to throw a 'Saturday night special' - a 32 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver - out the window.

The gun was later recovered from a ditch near the guard rail, police reported.

Arrested were Wynfred Hillis Towns, 24; Deloras Elaeen Thomas, 20; and Arthur Lewis Trumble, 22, all of Detroit; and Linda Sylvia Story, 25 of Highland Park.

All four pled guilty to charges of larceny from a building when, arraigned before 52nd District Court Judge Martin Boyle Monday afternoon.

At approximately 3:30 a.m. Monday, December 4, police received a report of a larceny from the Shell station. The attendant told officers that he had fixed a flat tire on a car, while the vehicle's four inhabitants waited inside the station.

After they had left, he went to the cash register to put in the money for changing the tire and discovered a large sum of money missing.

The attendant further stated that he felt the four people for whom he had changed the tire were responsible for the theft and he then reported they had left west bound on I-96.

The four were apprehended shortly later.

Found in their vehicle were a breaking and entering tool used to pry open vending machines, a couple of knives, and some suspected marijuana. The money believed to be stolen from the gas station was also recovered, Starnes reported.

A breaking and entering of a residence at 39999 Grand River netted thieves an estimated $1,390 worth of merchandise.

Taken in the burglary were two black and white television sets, a color television set, two hand guns, a movie camera, a pair of binoculars, a tape recorder, an AM-FM radio, two cameras, two watches and some jewelry.

The owner of the residence told police he had left his house securely locked at 12 noon November 25. When he returned approximately four hours later, he discovered the theft.

Thieves broke into a garage of a home at 42935 14 Mile and made off with approximately $275 worth of goods.

Stolen were two snow tires, a quantity of fishing equipment, and an arc welder.

The theft is believed to have occurred between 4:30 p.m. November 22 and 9 p.m. November 24.

In yet another breaking and entering of a private residence, an estimated $350 worth of items were taken.

A stereo, a black and white television set, and a pair of binoculars were reportedly stolen from a residence on Lynwood Street in the Echo Valley subdivision.

A Novi High School student, 18-year old Robert Brown of 41086 McMahon Circle, narrowly avoided serious injury when the car he was driving collided with a train at the C&O railroad tracks on 10 Mile Road.

Brown told officers he was eastbound on 10 Mile when the railroad signals came on. He attempted to stop his car, but his car went into a skid on the slippery road and struck the fourth car behind the engine. Brown suffered a cut on his knee.

A $200 .AM-FM stereo tape player was reportedly stolen from a vehicle owned by William Swift of 41142 Village Lake Road. The player was stolen while the car was parked overnight in the driveway of his home, Swift told investigating officers.

COURTNEWS

William Brown, 17, of Detroit was remanded to the Oakland County Jail on a total of $6,100 in cash bonds set by 52nd District Court Judge Martin Boyle last week.

Brown was arrested by Novi police last Wednesday after allegedly breaking into a Novi business establishment and then leading police on a 120 mile per hour chase down the I-96 expressway.

A cash bond of $2,500 was set for each charge of breaking and entering and unlawfully driving away an auto (auto theft). An additional bond of $1,000 was levied for fleeing a police officer and a $100 bond was added for charges of contributing to a minor.

A juvenile girl arrested at the same time was turned over to Wayne County Juvenile authorities.

Examination date for Brown on the charges of breaking and entering and auto theft were set for December 11. The examination dates for the other two charges will be set at a later time, police indicated.

In Wixom

A trio of young males were frightened off after they had forcibly broken into a Wixom home on Charms Road last week, as the 15-year old daughter of the owner of the house came out of hiding, firing a pair of hand guns.

The incident occurred Thursday, November 30. The girl told police she was in the kitchen when she heard noises at both the front and back doors. Her first reaction was to hide in the bathroom, but from there she went and got a pair of guns belonging to her father and returned to her original hiding place.

When she heard the breaking of glass, she peeked around the corner of the bathroom, the girl told the officers, and saw three men coming from the back porch into the house.

It was then that she took action.

Her first shot sent the three young men scurrying off in the opposite direction. One took off across a field behind the house, while the two others ran to their car parked in the driveway and sped off.

The girl reported firing three more shots, one at the youth running across the field and two at the pair in the car.

Police were summoned to the scene and tracking dogs were called in by the officers answering the call. The trail of the youth who ran across the field was followed to Wixom Road where the dogs lost the scent.

An attempt to break into the Calico Kitchen Restaurant on South Wixom Road last week was apparently unsuccessful.

According to police reports, a side window on the building had been broken and the latch undone, but the window was not opened.

It's a PTA Jungle

A cop's life is not an easy one.

Every day, every time he goes out on an assignment, he faces hidden dangers that could result in serious injury...or worse. Even a seemingly routine traffic stop is fraught with implications of trouble.

Take Detective Sergeant Gordon Nelson, for example.

The eight-year veteran of the Novi force has been around a long time. He knows his job and the dangers inherent with it.

In the course of a typical day's work it is not at all unusual for Nelson to crash a drug pad, to spend hours on stake out in the inner alleys of the city of Detroit, to be involved in tire-squealing 100-plus miles per hour chases, or even to be the target of a felon's bullets.

Through out his career Nelson, for the most part, has avoided serious injury.

But last week the veteran Novi cop was felled.

As president of the South Lyon P.T.A., Nelson's duties include making sure the tables are put away after the meeting. While carrying out that responsibility, a table slipped and fell on his right foot, breaking two toes.

Police work is one thing, but watch out for those South Lyon P.T.A. meetings.

"It's a jungle out there," he observes.

city rent suitable quarters, which he estimated would cost approximately $250 per month

"We should advertise for bids on rental of suitable property. One site is available presently but all property owners should be given the opportunity to provide the facilities, since the cost exceeds the $1,000 charter limits," Ollendorff said.

The available property, located on East Cady Street, is owned by Folino. However, Folino made it clear Monday that he "would prefer" that quarters be obtained from someone else.

His only purpose in offering his building, located adjacent to Foundry Park, is to provide quarters if none other is found, he said.

Attempts by the city to operate its own emergency service proved unsatisfactory, it was noted.

The city ambulance has since been sold and the city is now dependent upon the services of General, based in Farmington Delays in arrival in Northville of General's Farmington based ambulances led to the proposal now under consideration.

News Briefs

ADMINISTRATIVE assistant position with Northville Public Schools is expected to be filled when the school board meets Monday night. Superintendent Raymond Spear said he will recommend the board hire Irwin Sutter, 33, most recently a junior-senior high principal in Hart. Sutter was chosen from a field of 28 applicants. Interviews were conducted by Spear and a committee representing principals, central office administrators and the Northville Education Association.

THE FIRST winners of the "Christmas dollars" will be selected Monday at 5 p.m. in front of Manufacturers National Bank in Northville. A.R. Clarke, vice president in charge of the Northville offices, will assist in the promotion sponsored by 18 local stores and the Chamber of Commerce. The "dollars" will be worth fullface value at the 18 participating stores. Altogether $175 will be given away next Monday with a top prize of $50. Some $225 will be awarded to lucky shoppers again on Monday, December 18 with a top prize of $75. Winners will be selected from those shoppers who have registered their names at participating stores.

Group Meets

December 11

The December meeting of the Northville-Plymouth area chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons has been changed to Monday, December 11, it was announced by President Fred W. Bradley of Northville.

Held at the Plymouth Presbyterian Church, the activities of that day will be a pot luck dinner at noon followed by a Christmas program. Visitors 55 years of age and older are welcome. Bradley said. According to Bradley, the local organization has grown to 178 members since it was started in June. Regular meetings are held the fourth Monday of each month.

Chapper Request

Multiples Hearing Denied by Planners

Request for a rezoning public hearing by the Chapper Organization was denied Tuesday by the Northville Planning Commission.

Voting 6-0, the commission turned down the land developer's request for public hearing on its request for multiple housing zoning on some 36 acres of property immediately east of Northville Estates subdivision.

While its plans are not yet formalized, Chapper had presented a proposal to planners calling for some 400 units to be constructed on the property, one-half mile in depth with 618 feet frontage on Eight Mile Road.

Two parcels—one 11 acres in size, the other 83 acres—are located between Chapper's proposed development site and the Thompson-Brown (65-acre) planned unit development at Taft and Eight Mile roads.

Planners contended Chapper's proposal failed to meet guidelines of the existing master plan as well as the proposed master plan revision. Low density residential development is desirable in the area, they noted, following committee review, and the Chapper proposal is not consistent with this planning theme.

Furthermore, the Chapper proposal does not provide for development complementary to adjacent properties, they contended.

In other matters Tuesday, the commission approved a site plan addition to the Northville Collision bump shop located on what formerly was part of the municipal dump property near Silver Springs Drive, and it referred to committee a request of City Manager Frank Ollendorff that property at 519 Fairbrook be rezoned from R-1 to R-2A (multiple).

Major portion of the commission's meeting, however, dealt with Planning Consultant Ronald Nino's proposed zoning ordinance format and his redesigned zoning district proposal.

Concerning the latter, Nino is proposing that the city's

Snow Spurs Thoughts

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Snow means Finding unknown holes in kids boots hence soggy feet.
Searching for the mate in a stack of mittens and never finding it.

Realizing the kids have grown three inches since last winter and have outgrown snow pants or jackets

Buying salt or sand to melt the ice on the sidewalks...
Hauling logs to fill up the wood box for a toasty fire...
Receiving an Edison bill that is rather astounding plus realizing you have to pay tax on the darn thing.
And a time for winter sports

What with all our snow, early bad weather, illness and people getting ready for Christmas, there just hasn't been much happening in Wixom.

Number one thing in most people's minds is trying to complete the buying on their Christmas lists. Mine is filled with nothing but big ??
marks

So many people already have their homes beautifully decorated in preparation for the holidays. Coupled with the snow covering the bushes and trees it is indeed the loveliest time of year.

December brings to a close the first "semester" of the Adult Education program and a new brochure already in the "works" for the next listing of classes to be offered in January.

Since the interests of people are many and varied, I'd like to know of any courses you'd like to see included in the brochure. And the Community Education Department is always happy to add new classes and teachers to the staff. So, if you'd like to see a new class added or can teach an art or craft, please give me a call at 624-3950.

Town Clock Gets Repairs

FIVE YEARS AGO

Action to move township offices into the city located old library building won unanimous approval of township board members.

In an attempt to better regulate the parking turnover in the rear of the stores on the north side of East Main street, the city council voted to lease
the Stone's Gambles store private parking lot. Besides authorizing the mayor to execute the $1 a year lease, the council also approved a format for a standard lease agreement that other businesses may wish to sign.

TEN YEARS AGO

An overcrowded ninth grade became the concern of the Northville school board. The student bulge, it was pointed out, would last only a year because the Novi school district planned to open its own junior high in 1964.

Even after that, it was added, the Northville schools would still be crowded. Therefore, a plan of six grades of elementary school, three years of junior high and three years of high school was proposed for Northville

A request for a second meet at the Downs was made by the promoter of the fall meet held annually at Jackson. The dates, once approved by the state racing commissioner would boost the city's yearly returns from the state's pari-mutuel betting from about $100,000 to about

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

An increase of 60 percent was expected in property taxes. The school and county tax take for 1957 was estimated at $468,000 over the $280,000 collected in the previous year. The boost in school taxes was due to a higher state equalized valuation of the school in Northville and Northville Township

Final details to provide day school training for mentally retarded children were being completed at the Wayne County Training Center. The program was approved by the State Board of Public Instruction and would serve the Northville,
Plymouth, Livonia, South
Riverview, Redford Union and Wayne school districts.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The town clock in the Methodist Church tower rested quietly with its hands frozen at 11:50, awaiting repairs. A survey of the 53-ravages of age upon cables, fathers sought bids for its repairs estimated to cost slightly over $300. The original cost of the town clock was $1,400 when it was purchased in 1894

Two money-making projects to help support and expand their program are currently being sponsored by the Northville Hockey

The programs are "North-

candy sale

The night with the Junior Red Wings is set for Tuesday,
December 19. The Northville Midgents (15-16 year olds) will play at 5:30 p.m. followed by the Junior Red Wings' game with Guelph at 7:30 p.m. the games will be played at

Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students and can be purchased from any member of the Northville

proceeds from the tickets they sell

The candy sale is already underway. If the sale is

Poem Remembers Downs' Opening

Rummaging through old scrapbooks of their grandmother, Pat Blomberg of Livonia and Deanna Staley of Lancaster, California recently came across a poem titled "To The Northville Downs."

More than 25 years old, the poem is part of a collection of poetry written by Mrs. Dan Allen before her death two years ago. This particular poem, it was explained, was prompted by Mrs. Allen's horse racing activities back when the Downs first opened.

TO THE NORTHVILLE DOWNS

It is racing time now at the Northville Downs
Mighty crowds will be surging all over the grounds
Again Daniel will mingle with horse loving men
And Sadly I sigh as I become a "horse widow" again.

Busy betting booths line the long wall
Where people hasten to bid for a rise or a fall.
The horses will be maneuvered into their place
The signals flash out, and they are on with the race!

Excitement runs high as they curve 'round the track
Wild are the yells as one leads up from the back.
If you stand near the rail you are battered and crushed
The winners are wild, while the losers feel cussed.

The creak of the leather and the whirr of the wheels
Are intermingled with the voices of the drivers appeals.
Thus they speed on to triumph, for one in each heat,
Each doing their best with their fast racing feet.

'Tis a great thrilling sport that horse lovers adore
Each race brings a longing to go more and more.
How lucky I'd feel if I made a good guess,
To pick me a winner and be a racing success!

Coed Gets Award In Women's Sports

Grand Valley State, a member of the new Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, fields Women's teams in softball, basketball, tennis, and golf, in addition to volleyball.

Miss Stubenvoll was a fixture on the strong Grand Valley team, which recorded a fine 8-2 dual meet record this season. The team's only losses came at the hands of rival Grand Rapids Junior College and the University of Michigan. She attended Northville High School.

There is nothing more frustrating than a lamp which is not functioning perfectly. Most often the cause of the malfunction is a simple one: there is a short circuit in the cord of the plug or perhaps the switch is broken. However, a bad lamp is often not only frustrating, it can also be dangerous as a shock or fire hazard. Always repair frayed electrical cords immediately to keep short circuits from developing. Simply wrap the fray in friction tape. For a longer range improvement, the whole cord should be replaced.

IN CO-OPERATION WITH THE NORTHVILLE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

An unfortunate split has taken place on Northville's city council that has given rise to a series of charges and counter-charges.

But the point in the controversy has been reached where the council itself recognizes that it's the solution, not the argument, that is important and must be resolved.

At stake is the obligation of the council to provide offstreet parking for the new Northville Square shopping center at Main and Wing streets.

By contractual agreement the estimated $400,000 offstreet parking program is being divided between the city and the developer—$200,000 each.

The 50-50 formula is the same one applied when other business properties were assessed recently for new offstreet parking facilities.

Part of the parking (150 spaces) will be provided on the north side of Main street directly across from Northville Square on property mostly owned by the city.

Some 350 more spaces are slated to be developed south of the new shopping mall south of Cady Street. And it's in this latter area where the council is finding its problems.

The council plan calls for acquisition of all the properties on the south side of Cady street between Wing and Center. The area would extend southward to a depth of five lots on Center and Wing streets. Totally, there are 12 houses located on 11 lots in the proposed parking area.

Thus far the council has completed negotiations on six of the houses. It has obtained appraisals on all but two of the houses. And one of these is owned by Councilman Paul Folino.

In a confrontation at Monday night's council meeting Councilman Folino found himself on the short end of a 4-1 vote calling for condemnation proceedings involving his South Center street property.

This is the "unfortunate" part of the council split.

It never looks good to have a member of an elected body personally involved in business transactions entrusted to the public body.

But it happens, and in this instance Folino is doubly involved because his present insurance offices are located adjacent to the new shopping mall and he admits that he's agreed to sell the building to Northville Square.

So he wants to move his offices to his house—where the council wants to locate parking for Northville Square.

It should not be assumed that a councilman loses any of his rights as a citizen when he runs for and is elected to public office.

Folino has the same right as any other citizen to oppose the sale of his property—or to encourage the council to permit the use of Center street frontage for commercial purposes, as he would prefer.

But while an elected official may not sacrifice any of his rights as a citizen, he certainly assumes new responsibilities.

The welfare of the total community must be more important to him than his own welfare; he must take exceptional and extraordinary steps to avoid even the suspicion of special privileges or wrong-doing; and when he is heavily out-voted by his fellow councilmembers, he must accept the democratic process and make compromises.

Although Folino has clashed with the council over the question of parking on South Center street, I believe he is sincere in his conviction.

He believes the South Center street location, which he already owns, would be the best location for his business.

But four other councilmembers are just as sincere in their conviction that an agreement has been made, that the site is essential to a project that is highly beneficial to the majority of the community's citizens.

And to permit Folino's house alone to remain would certainly arouse suspicion.

Folino has acknowledged privately that a compromise is possible. He's aware that other sites for relocation of his property can be obtained.

And he knows that his position as landowner, businessman and councilman is precarious.

It is unthinkable that a city should go through the expense of condemnation with one of its own councilmen.

It is my hope—and belief—that Councilman Folino will demonstrate that he is capable of meeting this challenge of public office and that he will provide the leadership needed to resolve the problem.

Coincidentally, Councilman Folino deserves all the credit for a proposal which would provide the community with two ambulances on duty at all times.

He pursued better emergency service for stricken citizens after waiting half-an-hour for an ambulance when his father suffered a heart attack.

It develops that the private ambulance service will install two ambulances and round-the-clock crews if local facilities are provided for housing the drivers and the ambulances.

So the council is now seeking a small house with a double garage which may be rented for such purposes.

Such professional emergency services are vital to the total community and certainly extend beyond city boundaries.

It's a perfect example of an instance in which the city and township could cooperate in finding, and supporting, a centrally-located facility.

Short of giving the school district of Detroit all the money it needs out of the state's general fund, it looks drab indeed for public education in the big city.

And, frankly, there just might be an out-state taxpayer revolt if the state comes up with a new set of rules for Detroit's schools.

So, how's this for an idea?

If you can't beat the gamblers, join them. Devise a city-of-Detroit lottery called "The Big D".

The Big-D tickets would be sold in the city of Detroit only. There'd be more action; a daily draw to compete with the numbers' boys.

And all the proceeds would go to Detroit schools.

The state lottery wouldn't suffer that much. Its weekly prizes would hold out the chance for bigger prizes. And they would be sold state-wide, plus in the city of Detroit.

Speaking for Myself

Legalize Dog Racing?

MRS. BUELL

YES . . .

I believe that Greyhound Racing will be a great help to the economy of the State of Michigan and favor the passage of Senate Bill Number 1191.

That bill provides for the levy and collection of occupation, admission, and other taxes imposed on greyhound sports racing; provides for the control, regulation, and licensing of the same to create an office of Greyhound Sports Racing Commissioner to prescribe his powers and duties; provides for the issuance, denial, suspension, and revocation of race tracks, race meetings, and occupational licenses; provides for the collection and disposition of license fees, taxes, and revenues derived from such racing; and legalizes, permits, and regulates on-track parimutuel wagering on the results of such sports racing.

The bill designates ten tracks to be located in the state in such areas that they will be a boon to tourists in our state.

It will also be advantageous, not only in the jobs at the tracks, but in the construction of the tracks.

I have been informed that we could expect about 25 million dollars a year in revenue and as Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations that is my main interest in the greyhound bill.

William R. Copeland
State Representative
27th District

NO . . .

If dog racing should become legalized in Michigan, the entire horseracing industry and the farm economy will be in jeopardy.

There are only x number of dollars to be bet in Michigan, by Michigan people. By creating another gambling outlet, the betting monies will end up divided. This will hurt the horse racing industry, which has provided not only approximately $20,000,000 per year to the state, but has given jobs at the tracks in Detroit to the metropolitan, as well as inner city residents.

Farmers who are in business strictly raising crops for horsebreeders stand to lose their investments, because if the horse racing industry fails, so will the demand for these crops.

Dog racing has been successful in high-tourist areas, because there are outsiders visiting on a seasonal basis. But the monies bet in Michigan are primarily from Michigan residents, and there is only so much money to be bet in this state.

Dog racing does not require the investments that horseracing does, it can be controlled by only a relatively few people...and the more it takes away from horseracing, the more people will end up unemployed.

As a youngster I dreamed of the day when I'd be bigger and stronger and wiser than my father.

It was a stupid dream.

Today my father is still 21 years older...wiser and stronger. And now that his son is bigger, horizontally, he was chasing another dream.

While polishing off a second helping of turkey recently, I noticed that my father has shaved off his middle and wrapped it with a wide stylish belt. He's lopped off a coffee cake chin, and he's tossed away conservatism, dressing himself in sleek, colorful pants and shirts and giant ties.

As he passed me a large slab of pumpkin pie, I noticed, too, that his white hair is beginning to curl down around his ears, and his mustache, once a German window shade, is curving rakishly around to his cheeks.

I unbuckled a notch and continued eating.

My father sipped his sugarless coffee and, for goodness sakes, he told me he's using an electric razor now instead of the machete, mug and leather strap.

Oh, sure, he's still mulching cow dung in his potato beds, perking wine and kraut in the cellar, and keeping an "everything-in-its-place" home.

But even those old-country traits are pluses nowadays.

After all, there was a time not so long ago when I'd avoid taking my young friends into the cellar where his crows of kraut and bushels of potatoes and gunnysacks of onions, his geraniums hanging roots up for the winter, and the cabbages lining the walls produced an embarrassing symphony of smells.

No longer. Today I'd like to bottle those smells and sprinkle them around my own home.

Not satisfied with the turkey and pie, I returned to the salad bowl as my father watched and smiled.

I wondered about that smile and then, suddenly, it occurred to me that he was simply amused by my latest futile dream—to be slim and trim like him.

Fathers will always be one step ahead of their sons. The pity of it is that it has taken so many years to accept that fact.

City Attorney Philip Ogilvie, who delights in spotting my errors, has pointed out that my assertion last week that Conrad Langfield is the only living former mayor (president) of Northville is inaccurate.

According to Phil, two other former mayors are living—Forrest Doren (1946-47) and Dr. Linwood Snow (1932-33). My apologies to these gentlemen and any other living.

Meadowbrook Ditching

Kaufman & Broad under Fire Again

Kaufman and Broad, developers of the Village Oaks subdivision and a frequent center of controversy, again came under fire from the Novi city council Monday.

This time, the subject was the ditching along Meadowbrook Road between Nine and Ten mile Roads.

"What ditching along Meadowbrook Road," you ask?

That's exactly the point that was bothering the city council. There are no ditches along Meadowbrook Road.

The subject was raised by Councilman Edwin Presnell, who stated that because of the absence of ditching Meadowbrook Road is being allowed to erode away.

"Kaufman and Broad is obligated to put in that ditching," Presnell stated emphatically, "and they should be made to fulfill that obligation."

When Acting City Manager Ed Kriewall suggested that Kaufman and Broad would not do it, Presnell became even more emphatic. "If it comes to a point where we have to pass a resolution to get them to do it, then I'll introduce that resolution."

"They were required as a part of the engineering specifications to put in those ditches and they still haven't done it," Presnell charged.

"Putting in that ditch was an item put on a punch list of things for them to complete, and a year ago we passed a resolution stating that the ditching must be done, but we still don't have a ditch."

Kriewall, however, advised against asking K&B to put in the ditch at this time.

Meadowbrook Road is slated for paving within the year, he reminded the council. "If we require them to put the ditches in now, we will just be tearing them up within the next 12 months in order to pave the road."

Kriewall further argued that the expense would be prohibitive because paved driveways to private residences would have to be torn up and then replaced in order that culverts could be constructed under them.

The consensus feeling among the councilmen however, was that Kaufman and Broad should not be allowed to get off without having to pay for the ditching.

"They shouldn't be allowed to get out of their commitment by this sort of excessive procrastinating," stated one councilman.

After some discussion the council arrived at a compromise plan. Instead of asking K&B to put in the ditching, they will ask the developer to put up the amount of money it would cost to have the ditches put in

These funds could then be used to augment the increased cost of maintaining the roads created by the lack of proper drainage with the remainder of the funds applied toward the paving of the road itself

Jaycees Mark 12th Birthday

Northville Jaycees celebrated their 12th anniversary as a chapter in Northville last week by adopting two new community service projects.

Staging a dinner meeting at the Wagon Wheel the members voted to undertake a public education awareness

Women Plan Luncheon

The December 14 luncheon meeting of the Dearborn-Plymouth Christian Women's Club will include a special feature from Lila's Four Seasons of Northville, the group has announced.

Reservations for noon luncheon to be held at the Mayflower Meeting House, Plymouth should be made by Monday, December 11.

Mrs. Carey Teed, wife of an Ann Arbor doctor, is the scheduled speaker.

Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Eugene Harris at 477-3958 or Mrs. Ivan Springstead at 349-4114.

program for venereal diseases and to promote "Operation Red Ball" a fire safety program designed to assist firemen in identifying rooms where children or invalids are located in burning buildings.

President Dennis Dildy chaired the birthday before a full house of young Jaycee members.

Words of congratulations and encouragement were addressed to the local chapter by Mike Yeager, executive vice president of the Michigan Jaycees, and Tom Gorton, vice president of District 30.

Both hailed Northville for its excellence in community involvement.

Congratulations to the chapter were also extended by Mrs. John Buckland, president of the Northville Jaycees, and by Jerry Tuggle, Jayteen president.

Northville's Jaycees have sponsored a variety of events during its relatively short existence. Major among these is the Fourth of July celebration, including a parade, fireworks and barbecue. The Jaycees beautified the area around the Old Spring well site by constructing a park, they have encouraged Christmas decorations by offering prizes for the best displays; they have sponsored and conducted a community survey project to determine the attitudes and the needs of the people of the community, and they have encouraged community service by making special awards to citizens of all ages who have been active in community affairs

37 Novi Students Enrolled at Center

Thirty-seven Novi students presently are enrolled at the Southwest Oakland Area Vocational Center, it has been disclosed.

Novi, which has a quota of 24 students at the center, which serves nine school systems, exceeds its quota by 54-percent. Four other districts are short of their quotas.

According to Superintendent Gerald Kratz, if permitted Novi could place still more students in classes at the center because of a demand locally for vocational training.

Other districts, either because they provide their own exceptional vocational education programs or because of student disinterest, are falling behind their schedules thus permitting Novi to exceed its quota, he explained.

Young men between the ages of 18 and 35 are encouraged to join the Northville Jaycees and "become involved". Meetings are held the fourth Wednesday of each month at the Northville city hall. Further information may be obtained by calling 349-4746.

solidated and reduced to just 10 districts.

He suggests, for example, that the classifications for residential zoning be reduced from six to four—two for single family homes and two for multiple family units.

His suggestion would provide a specific zoning for older home areas in an attempt to preserve the older character of the city.

Nino's proposal also introduces a new concept providing for conditionally permitted uses within each of the zoning classifications.

Bonus or incentive considerations are suggested to encourage developers to include aesthetic additions such as fountains, promenades, etc.

The proposal also reduces the existing number of commercial districts from five to four, and it suggests reducing the three related industrial districts (including the race track) from three to two.

The industrial proposal suggests one district be designated (RTRU) for race track and related uses and another (I-1) for light industry only. All manufacturing in the latter category would be subject to performance standards of noise, emissions, etc.

Concerning the proposed zoning ordinance format, Nino suggests elimination of unnecessary verbiage and rearrangement of contents to make it a simple, quick matter to locate information desired.

The commission's next regularly scheduled meeting in December has been cancelled, and the first meeting in January has been changed from Tuesday to Thursday, January 4.

Does a bigger Bank mean better Banking?

Once you take away the fancy trimmings, we're not so sure. But you be the judge. Let's start with your checking account. We provide free checking with a minimum balance of only $99. No charges for maintenance service or monthly statements. That's the lowest free minimum balance checking account in Metropolitan Detroit. And we're open all day Saturday. Not limited hours. But from 9:30 a.m. till 4:30 p.m. So you can sleep in Saturday morning and still catch us.

Admittedly, we don't have marble hallways and brass teller cages. And we don't have incentive programs to persuade our staff to be nice to our customers. In fact, we don't have any of the impersonality that comes with being large. You see, we're the small bank.

Wildcats Blow 10 Point Lead, Fall to Milan

FUMBLE RECOVERY — Jim VanWagner, Novi's All-State halfback in football, is now displaying his talents on the hardwood. Here VanWagner recovers a fumble...er, recovers

a loose ball and looks upcourt for someone to pass it to. VanWagner tallied 13 points in the game as the Wildcats dropped a 62-52 decision to Milan.

What appeared to be a comfortable first half lead disappeared faster than a bottle of red pop Friday as the Wildcats blew their league opener with Milan, 62-52.

"Our switch from a zone to a man to man defense and Mike Smith's job on the boards did it for us," said Milan Coach Ron Dingman.

"Our guys just played awful in the second half and I was ashamed of their sportsmanship," offered Novi Coach Milan Obrenovich.

Whatever the reason, the play-making first-half Novi quintet was a different team in the final 16 minutes of basketball. The Wildcats tossed away a 12-point lead and then folded as the Big Reds turned partisan fans blue with a flurry of easy baskets.

Novi turnovers in that second half mounted rapidly.

And the same five cagers, who had looked so great in the first half, seemed to lose their composure and, according to Obrenovich, "forgot everything they've learned and played right into the hands of the other side."

Obrenovich stuck with his starters—the cream of Novi's championship football team—almost to the bitter end.

In losing their play-making composure, Novi "apparently thought they were playing football. You can be rough on the football field but that kind of stuff is uncalled for on the basketball court," asserted the coach, who promised to punch home this and other points in practice this week.

The Wildcats led most of the first quarter, but Milan's leading scorer, Stan Joplin tied it at 11 with 10 seconds to go.

In the second frame—Novi's best—the Wildcats uncorked 21 points, eight from the floor and five from the charity line. Scoring in that quarter was pretty evenly divided, characteristic of some fine play-making.

With a 10-point, 32-22 lead going into the second half, Novi hiked their lead to 12 points before Milan, which had switched to a man-to-man maneuver together with a full court press, started opening their guns.

They drilled 20 points in the third quarter, an equal number in the last frame, while Novi potted 14 in the third and coughed up just six in the last.

Slicing away at the Novi lead Milan came within two points of their opponents before falling back briefly, 46-42, at the three-quarter mark.

Two minutes into the fourth quarter, Jim Kordupel potted a two-pointer from the corner to tie it at 48.

John Pantalone, who led the Novi attack with 16 points, managed to tie the score again at 50, but another basket by Joplin and it was all over.

Altogether, Joplin flipped in 28 points—10 of them from the free throw line.

Cold Streak Dooms Novi Junior Varsity

"Let's forget it and try for the next game."

That was the position of Novi Junior Varsity Coach Bob Weinburger Friday following his squad's humiliating 47-24 loss to Milan following a season opening two-point win earlier in the week.

After playing a "fairly close" first half, going into the intermission trailing by eight points (24-16), the Wildcats were completely immobilized in the third quarter and the first part of the final stanza. They failed to score a single point in that period.

Ron Buck led Novi's losing effort with seven points, while Greg Washington topped Milan's attack with 14 points.

In Wrestling

Mustangs Top Novi

Northville won, there was no question about that, but the final score of the annual Northville-Novu wrestling match varied depending on who you asked.

"We beat them 40-27," reported Ed McLoud, the Northville mentor.

But Russ Gardner, the Novi coach, had a different story. "I don't care what anyone says," he insisted. "As far as I'm concerned the final score was 34-33. Northville beat us by one point."

Unless an official protest lodged by Gardner with the Michigan High School Athletic Association is allowed, the final score of the meet will officially be Northville 40, Novi 27.

Source of the controversy was a referee's decision regarding the outcome of the match between Novi's Dave Ward and Northville's Steve Barger in the 138 pound division.

After the first two minute period of the rugged contest, the score stood 5-5 as Barger recorded a two point takedown, a two point predicament, and a one point penalty against Ward. The Novi grappler got his five points via a two point reversal and a three point near fall.

Barger won the flip of the coin and chose the up position, but was promptly reversed and subsequently pinned by Ward, still angered about the awarding of the penalty point.

The referee, however, discounted the victory, disqualified Ward for flagrant misconduct, and thus gave Northville six points that would have gone to Novi barring the disqualification.

Gardner did not deny the misconduct, but disagreed with the referee's decision on different grounds. "The match was already decided and the rules say you can't change a decision. If he wanted to penalize Ward he should have given Northville a team point, but what he did was incorrect and I protested it."

The Ward-Barger incident tainted what was otherwise a fairly good meet, the closest one the two teams have waged since they started wrestling each other four years ago.

Northville has won each of the previous contests.

Northville took a quick 6-0 lead as Jack Barger pinned Ed Weaver in the first period of the 98 pound match.

Bill Livingston brought the Wildcats to within three points of the Mustangs at 6-3 as he decided Greg Pelt 11-2 in the 105 pound weight class.

At 112 Northville's Dan Fialon decided Bob Sasena 14-4 to up his team's lead to 10-6 and Malcolm Dedes widened the margin to 16-6 as he pinned Mark Porter in the third period of the 119 pound match.

Novi got its first pin when Tom Ford floored Mark Okopyn in the second period of their 126 pound contest. The pin cut Northville's lead to 16-9, but Mike Corcoran came right back to avenge Ford's victory by pinning Jim Cook in the third period of their match in the 132 pound division.

After the referee's disqualification in the Barger-Ward battle at 138, Northville opened up their biggest lead of the night as Bill Norton pinned Don Jackson in the second period to give his team a 34-9 margin.

Novi's Randy McGarry countered Norton's pin by pinning Joe Assemany in the first period in the 155 pound division, but Northville's Tim Slagle came right back and countered McGarry's pin by pinning Dave Warneke in the second period at 167 to give Northville a 40-15 lead.

The Mustangs then forfeited the 185 pound division to Tom Auten and Novi's Gary Staub put Sig Berggren on his back in the heavyweight division to make the final score 40-27, or 34-33, depending, of course, on who you ask.

A showdown battle between defending champion Salme and co-favorite Ypsilanti, Lincoln highlighted action as the Southeastern Conference opened its 1972-73 season last week.

It was Salme which emerged victorious in the important contest, as they pulled from a 34-32 half time edge into a 50-41 lead at the end of the third quarter and then held on for a 68-59 victory.

Elsewhere in the league Dexter upset Chelsea 61-59 as Mike Hollenbeck scored with 30 seconds left on the clock. Mike Scott's 22 point performance was tops for the winners, while Bruce Guster led the Chelsea scorers with 12 points.

Four South Lyon players hit double figures as the Lions registered a 61-51 victory over Dundee. Ed Segars, 6'2" Lion forward had 20 points and Tom Hanson chipped in with 13 more and 15 rebounds to pace the triumph. Mike Stough had 18 points for Dundee.

Hockey, ice hockey, is the national winter sport of Canada, but for many Americans it is also the national winter sport of the United States. Amateur hockey is a favorite between many schools, colleges, and clubs, and, of course, Professional Ice Hockey is a spectator sport that for many ranks second to none. Hockey is also a part of the winter Olympics, and there the game becomes an international favorite with many countries competing for the coveted awards. The game is full of speed and excitement: perhaps that is one reason for its popularity.

Snowmobiling has become a very popular sport lately. Did you know that MOORE'S MOTOR SPORT INC., 21001 Pontiac Trail, So. Lyon, 437-2688, specializes in a complete line of SUZUKI SNOWMOBILES? Schoolcraft College advanced to the finals of the Concordia Classic basketball tournament over the weekend before losing 100-85 to Michigan Christian College.

"We just got too far behind in the first half," explained Tom Roncoli, the Schoolcraft coach. "We were just very cold and spotted them a 54-28 half-time lead."

The Schoolcraft cagers came on strong in the second half and outscored Michigan Christian 57-46, but were unable to overcome the deficit.

points. Mike Lewis with 17, Brian Dinsmore with 16, and Jim Price with 14 also hit in double figures for Schoolcraft.

The Ocelots qualified for the finals by topping Concordia College of Fort Wayne, Indiana, 86-63 in the semi-finals Friday. Price paced that victory with 17 points. Luch tossed in 14 points in that game, while Dinsmore, Lewis, and Al Siterhit all tallied 11.

LOOKING FOR HELP — Surrounded by Nick "The Greek" Voyatzoglou (44) and Dave Lew Allen of Brighton, Northville's Dave Duey searches for someone to throw the ball to. In spite of defense like this, the Mustangs went on to post a 54-35 victory over the Bulldogs to even their season's record at 1-1.

Mustangs Topple Brighton As Eis Scores 20 Points

Northville committed 28 turn overs during the course of the game and Brighton....

Well, someone came up with the figure of 27 turnovers for the Bulldog squad, but he was unsure whether that figure represented the number of turn overs in the first half or in the first quarter.

If you're getting the picture that it just wasn't a very well played basketball game, you're getting the right picture.

There was one bright note, however. The Mustangs won it and they won it convincingly - 54-35 - and that fact alone made the evening worthwhile, as Coach Walt Koepke's cagers evened their season's record at 1-1.

The game featured darn little offense and if it hadn't been for Todd Eis, Northville's 6'3" junior forward who led all scorers with 20 points, the Mustangs might have been in trouble.

"We've got to do better offensively," admitted Koepke in the locker room after the game. He looked almost sheepish about the victory.

"Our free throw shooting was poor (14 for 28) and we only hit on 20 of 52 field goal attempts for 38 percent from the floor. That's a big improvement on what we shot against South Lyon (29 percent), but we've just got to do much better if we want to win any ball games."

But if Northville's offense was less than precise, Brighton's offense was downright inept.

The Bulldogs managed only 12 field goals all night long and scored just five points in the first quarter, which, believe it or not, was better than they did in the fourth quarter when they scored just three points.

"It was the worst we've played all season," grumbled Al Burnett, the Brighton mentor. "About the only good thing you can say about our attack is that it was balanced. Jim Johnson had seven points, Dave Lew Allen had seven points, Greg Martin had seven points, and everybody else put together had seven points. That's balanced scoring."

One of the reasons Brighton's offense had difficulty operating was the defensive work of Ted Fuertges, the Mustangs' hustling junior guard who hounded the Bulldog guards from one end of the floor to the other.

"Ted only scored six points, but he did a real fine job for us defensively," said Koepke. "They were playing a one guard offense and when they do that we try to force the point man to operate as far out as we can. I thought Fuertges handled the job effectively for us."

Both teams came out for the first quarter in full court presses and man to man defenses. Neither was particularly effective. In fact, Brighton's press and man to man defense probably did them more harm than good. Not only was the press more or less ineffective, the Bulldogs drew numerous fouls for overguarding.

The officials called 14 personal fouls and one technical foul on Brighton in that first quarter alone.

Neither team scored at all until the five minute mark of the opening frame when Eis tossed in a short jumper to break the eis.

Brighton's first bucket came a full minute later, and the quarter ended with the Mustangs on top 15-5.

The second quarter was the highest scoring eight minute period in the game as Brighton outscored Northville 15-13 to cut the Mustangs lead to 28-20 at the left.

But in the third quarter Brighton returned to its inept ways. Three and a half minutes had run off the clock before Dave Lew Allen netted the first Bulldog points and Northville pulled away to a 43-32 third quarter margin.

Neither team was able to score in the final period until Northville's Bart Taylor tossed in a jumper from the corner at the 4:30 mark and the Mustangs went on to a 54-35 triumph.

In addition to his 20 points Eis hauled in 10 rebounds. The only other player to hit in double figures was Mike Brown, the 6'5" Northville center, who had 10 points. Brown topped all rebounders with 14.

Tomorrow (Friday) the Mustangs start Western Six Conference play as they host Waterford Mott. The junior varsity game begins at 6:30 p.m. with the varsity quintets slated to get underway at approximately 8 p.m.

Finish 11th in Kimball Relays

Tankers Meet State's No. 1 Teams

Northville's crack swimming team got its 1972-73 season underway last Saturday by finishing eleventh out of 17 teams in the Royal Oak Kimball Relays.

And if you think Coach Ben Lauber was disappointed in that showing, forget it. The popular and successful Mustang coach would only have been happier if his swimmers had somehow managed to pull the biggest upset since David toppled Goliath and won the meet.

"Listen," he said. "It was an honor for us to even be invited to a meet like that. Talk about quality, it was probably the best relay competition in the whole state."

Few would refute Lauber's contention. Included in the 17-team field was the Dearborn High School team which has won the Class A state title two years in a row and last year took the crown by more than a hundred points over their nearest competitor.

Northville, along with Bloomfield Hills Andover, was one of two Class B teams invited to compete. Dearborn, as expected, won the meet with 90 points to edge out runner-up Birmingham Groves. Northville's six points—earned with one fifth place and one sixth place finish—placed them in a tie for eleventh place with, ironically, Andover.

The Mustangs finished ahead of Royal Oak Dondero, Hazel Park, Trenton, Warren Fitzgerald, and Grosse

Pointe South. There were eight relay events in the meet with the six fastest qualifiers in the preliminaries invited into the finals. No team qualified quartets in all eight relays, although Dearborn and Groves each put seven relay units into the finals. And four teams didn't qualify anyone at all for the finals.

Northville sent two teams into the finals. The 200 yard backstroke relay team of Mark Haynie, Kevin Kelly, Bill Witek, and Jeff Kappler had the fifth fastest time in the preliminaries and then finished fifth in the finals in 1:52.5, just 5.5 seconds behind the winning time of 1:47.0 turned in by Birmingham Groves.

In the 400 yard individual medley relay (each swimmer does 25 yards of each stroke), the team of Bill Bretz, Don Cook, Kevin Kelly, and Bill Witek finished in sixth place with a 4:19.5 clocking after having qualified in 4:16.3. Dearborn won the event with a 3:37.7 timing.

"It was a great meet," commented Lauber. "We were very proud just to have been invited."

Lauber also indicated that he would continue to take a team to the meet as long as Northville was invited.

"I think they'll invite us back next year," he said. "I think they thought we performed well for a Class B team there for the first time and we'll definitely go back if they invite us."

"I think it's good to start out the year with that quality of competition. It was a very enjoyable meet and we were honored just to be a part of it."

The Mustangs open their dual meet season tonight (Thursday), hosting Dearborn Riverside at 7 p.m.

"Just in passing I'd like to mention that in my 13 years of coaching I've never lost an opening meet," said Lauber, "and it's a tradition I hope to continue this year."

In AAU Meet

9 Swimmers Shine

Nine Northville swimmers came away from the Golden Serpents A.A.U. Meet in East Lansing last weekend with top finishes.

The Northville swimmers were all members of the Bulldog Aquatic Club from Schoolcraft College. Twenty-five other A.A.U. clubs from across the state competed in the two-day meet.

Top performances among the Northville contingent were turned in by Jim Wright and Lisa VanIngen.

Wright, competing in the 13-14 year old age group, finished second in the 100 yard breaststroke, third in the 100 yard freestyle, and fourth in the 50 yard freestyle. It was in the relay events where he had his most success, however. He swam on first place teams in the 400 yard medley and 200 yard freestyle relays in the 13-14 year old age group and also swam on first place teams in the 400 yard medley and 200 yard freestyle relays in the open division.

Lisa VanIngen took first place in both the 100 yard butterfly and 100 yard backstrokes in the open division and also finished fourth in the 200 yard backstroke and sixth in the 100 yard breast stroke.

Other Northville swimmers finishing first were Cathy Coates who won the 100 yard backstroke in the 13-14 year old division and Pat Sank who was first in the 200 yard breaststroke, open division. Cathy was third in the 50 yard freestyle and Pat swam a leg on the third-place 200 yard freestyle relay team.

Jim Cahill, 13-14 year old division, was fifth in the 200 yard individual medley and swam on the second-place 400 yard medley relay team and third-place 200 yard freestyle relay team.

Tom Cahill, 11-12 year old bracket, was second in the 50 yard breaststroke and a member of the first place 200 yard medley relay unit.

David McDonald, 10 and under division, was fifth in the 50 yard freestyle.

Tammy Selfridge, 10 and under, was sixth in the 50 yard backstroke.

Hick's MAAC Selection

A former star griddler at Northville High School finished a fine collegiate career at Western Michigan University last week and was named to the All-Mid-America Conference All-Star team.

Fred Hicks, who was named Northville's "Athlete of the Year" when he graduated in 1969, was named to the All-Mid-America Conference team as the offensive center for the second consecutive season.

Jayvees Post Two Wins

Little Scott Leu slipped past his defensive man and drove in for a lay-up with 17 seconds left on the clock to give the Northville junior varsity basketball team a 41-39 victory over Brighton Friday.

The victory was the second in as many outings for Coach Omar Harrison's jayvees. They opened their season Tuesday with a 54-49 triumph over South Lyon.

Leu's clutch bucket capped an uphill fight for the junior Mustangs.

After leading 7-5 at the end of a lackluster first quarter, the Northville jayvees fell behind 23-18 at the half and still trailed 32-27 at the end of the third stanza before finally catching the Bulldogs late in the final quarter.

Leu lead all Northville scorers with 17 points. Tom Eis, the Mustangs' 6'2" sophomore center, added 10 points and hauled in 22 rebounds.

In the victory over South Lyon, Eis had 19 points and 27 rebounds while Leu tossed in six field goals and three free throws for 15 points.

Grave Digger Bites Dust

cemetery... an old Westland cemetery that the former owners could find no one to care for.

The Allens probably would be providing grave digging and maintenance for Northville cemeteries but since Mike is the mayor it could be construed as a conflict of interest. So in the City of Northville the job is given the DPW. "It's really not a very profitable business," said Jim, "but a good public relations sideline... an 'insurance' for our monument business. We think the service helps the public while at the same time giving the monument industry a good name."

Just as one grave-digging job led to another for the Allens, so too related type services grew. The business today also provides remapping of cemeteries, keeping and improving cemetery burial records and repair of monuments.

"You'd be surprised at how badly some records have been kept in the past, especially for the old, rural cemeteries," said Mike. "We've seen records and grave maps on window shades, tablecloths, on cardboard and just about anything you can think of."

grave locations to prove his point.

Fortunately, laws are being enacted in Michigan now requiring better record keeping and generally improving the operation of cemeteries, added Jim. New laws are aimed primarily at privately owned cemeteries, but they'll soon cover municipal and church cemeteries as well, he said.

Whenever the Allens send out a crew to dig a grave, in any kind of cemetery, they keep their own detailed records of the name, burial dates, and lot location... no matter how detailed and accurate the records are of the cemetery owners.

"We want these records for our own protection and for the protection of the public," explained Mike.

With mechanical equipment, digging graves today is a relatively easy job. Average time involved is about an hour, whereas it could take up to two days to dig a tough grave by hand, they pointed out.

Allens' crew uses a backhoe 99-percent of the time. Only in those cemetery locations where the machinery cannot be moved is a grave dug by hand.

Normally, hand shoveling is limited to squaring off a hole after the dirt is scooped out by machine and to refilling the grave after burial.

The first 30-inches of soil is loaded into a truck, since approximately that much dirt is displaced by the vault, and the remainder is hidden from view somewhere in the cemetery.

Dirt placed in the truck may be used to fill a grave in another cemetery. "So it's possible that a grave in Redford could be filled (partially) with dirt from a Milford cemetery and a Milford grave could have Redford dirt," smiled Mike. Freezing weather, which played a major part in driving hand-diggers out of existence, presents very little problem for today's mechanical operation.

"When the dirt is frozen hard we'll place a 'grave thawer' over the grave site overnight. By the next morning the dirt's thawed and we're ready to dig," explained Jim.

A 'grave thawer' is nothing more than a canopy, shaped to the size of the grave, into which hot air is pumped from a portable gas burner.

The normal grave is from five to six feet deep, although state law is not very specific.

In the not too distant past, recalled Mike, hard clay or rocks could quickly convince a not so muscular grave digger that a shallow grave was more appropriate than a six-footer.

As a matter of fact, "there was a lady grave digger up in the Flint area who always liked 'em shallow," he laughed. "You could spot her graves right off by the big mounds left after burial."

Township Residents Split Over Sewer Assessments

A "standing room only" crowd packed Northville township offices Tuesday night to voice its opinion on the proposed construction of a sanitary sewer to serve Grand View Acres subdivision.

The near 80 people in attendance were split into those who want sewers and those who feel the added cost is unnecessary.

The hearing was the first official meeting of the new township board members, including Supervisor Lawrence Wright, Clerk Sally Cayley and Trustee John MacDonald. Treasurer Joseph Straub and Trustee Leonard Klein were also at the hearing. However, Trustees Charles Schaeffer and Richard Mitchell were absent.

Township trustees made no decision on the matter, tabling it for further study and establishment of how cost of the installation, if the project goes ahead, will be levied against each homeowner.

Residents who opposed the installation of the system, estimated to cost $314,000, objected to the petition for the sewers circulated nearly a year ago by residents in the subdivision.

Dewie Sykes of 19433 Marilyn said the petition was taken around to only those homeowners known to favor sewers. He stated that Smock Road was omitted from the plan because inclusion of residents on that street would have brought the percentage of homeowners in favor of the sewers in the subdivision to less than 50 percent.

"I have 267 feet of frontage," he added, "and sewers would cost me $7,000. I would have to sell and move."

Several other residents in the subdivision voiced the same objections.

A representative from the Wayne County Board of Health told members and the audience that septic systems need proper soil conditions and good drainage. The spokesman pointed out that soil conditions pose a problem in Grand View Acres and that the health department will not issue any more septic permits for the subdivision.

He said he could not overstate the importance of getting sewers in the area.

When asked why violations, such as sewage running on top of the ground, cannot be corrected, the health department spokesman said it is impossible.

A A. Vaughn of 40860 Opolo, adamantly opposed to the project, told the residents to "dig deeper and it will work. Going back to nature is better than a sewer system."

Don Thompson of 19820 Marilyn, who favors the sewer system, said he installed his "second and a half septic field this summer. I dug down 18 feet and hit solid clay."

"People may be unhappy with installation of sewers," he continued, "but 60 percent of the residents are interested in sewers," he said, referring to the petition circulated last year.

Township Engineer William Mosher told the audience that digging deeper will not solve the problem. "There is state control over the disposal of waste water into the ground waters of the state."

Mrs. Dewie Sykes, who lives in an area of the subdivision not troubled by poor drainage, said that it "isn't our problem that they (other residents) are having problems with septic tanks. They built on half lots and are trying to get two fields on an acre."

George Zuener of 19801 Marilyn questioned why the cost is estimated on a per front foot basis and not on a per tap basis. "All lots will put in the same amount of sewage."

Trustee Klein noted that it is the normal way assessments are figured, but that the board could decide to assess the project differently.

James Littell, attorney representing Dr. Waldemar Gyzinski who owns property in the subdivision, said that it was up to the township board to determine whether or not a health hazard exists in the area.

He suggested that "if there is a problem then it is a community problem and the excess cost of the installation of sewers should be picked up with township funds. Cost should be assessed per unit" to make it more equitable to all homeowners.

Littell said that "per front foot cost is unrealistic, as is charging homeowners the whole shot of installation. You (the board) should also give thought to zoning of the area so the large lots can be split."

With a few exceptions, lots in Grand View Acres are one acre each.

While officials took no action on the special assessment district, they explained that the next step will be to establish an assessment roll, spreading the cost of the project and notifying property owners.

Another hearing will then be held, with the board confirming or not confirming the assessment roll.

Meanwhile, residents were urged to contact board members by letter or petitions, saying whether or not they were in favor of the project.

Thompson added that the "people are concerned. We're tired of putting our money into the ground."

Hearing Set

and Grand River is estimated at $83,000. The 3,373 assessable front feet assessed at the tentative figure of $14 per front foot would generate a total assessment of $47,222. The city at large would then assume the $35,778 difference between the cost of paving and the revenue produced by special assessment.

The funds for the city at large portion of the financing will come from Act 51 monies (the city's share of state-collected gasoline and road taxes) and the one mill passed by Novi voters specifically for roads last spring.

commercial rezoning of the property in question no formal plan existed.

"I think we should look into double deck parking. It seems incredible to me that double decking would be more costly than land acquisition."

Calling his remark a "red herring", Ollendorff said all estimates to date indicate that double-decking is far more costly than land parking.

"The council finds itself in an embarrassing situation," commented Rathert, "and probably Paul does, too. We are committed, and we would be criticized if his property were excluded. I don't think Paul wants that so I feel we should have it appraised."

But the question was put to Folino again and he repeated that his property is not for sale.

When it was noted that Folino's Center Street property is now vacant, Mayor Allen urged Folino to inform any potential tenants that the property is being considered for parking.

Properties approved for purchase Monday included: Letchfield, 214 South Center—Appraised at $30,500, purchase price $30,500 with the city to pay 1972 county taxes due December 1 and legal fees; free occupancy until the house is vacated on or before May 1, seller may remove furniture and equipment.

Edward Mollema property, 213 South Wing Street—Appraised at $19,500, purchase price of $20,220 or $720 over the appraised price; free occupancy; house must be vacated on or before May 1, seller responsible for utilities, may remove fixtures and landscaping; city to pay county taxes.

Frank Kernozek property, 123 West Cady—Appraised at $22,000, purchase price of $23,175 or $1,175 above appraisal; if seller disposes of house (has it removed) the city is to pay an additional $200 in lieu of cost to have it razed; city to pay county taxes; free rent; property must be vacated on or before May 1.

All but the Letchfield property purchase were approved by unanimous vote of the council.

In a related matter, the council voted unanimously to authorize negotiation for trade of city owned property at the southwest corner of the Griswold Street extension and Main Street.

Mayor Allen earlier had suggested to Folino that he consider trading his Center Street property for the Griswold Street property. However, Folino voiced fear that such a trade could be construed as a conflict of interest. Fellow councilmen disagreed, but pointed out that the trade need not involve his property. It may be possible, it was noted, that a trade involving the service station at the northeast corner of Wing and Main may be negotiated if the Folino trade is refused.

The city purchased the Griswold Street property some time ago because part of it was needed for the extension right-of-way. The remainder, however has been declared surplus property.

WELCOMED

'Man Your Battle Stations'

BY JACK W. HOFFMAN

It was a warm, gorgeous morning, with a gentle breeze skipping across the harbor that Sunday 31 years ago

Coxswain Gib Willis, 22, was in high spirits. He had spent the previous night ashore watching a football game and "partying it up" and now, a little after 7 a.m., was back on duty aboard the Tennessee, moored on the inboard side of the West Virginia just off Ford Island.

The two ships, so close together that a man could step from one to the other, were lying in a string of battleships aptly called Battleship Row.

Astern were the Arizona, along side the Vestal, and behind these two vessels anchored alone was the Nevada. In front of the Tennessee were the Maryland and Oklahoma, also lying side by side.

It was a lazy morning with most of the activity aboard ships centered around rigging for church services. Bandsmen were assembling. Some of the officers, including the skipper of the Tennessee, were ashore. Some crewmen were still eating breakfast. Amid ship, inside the master-at-arms shack, his feet up on the desk, Willis sat pondering a report of a submarine that had sneaked into the harbor during the night.

A naval policeman that day, the mayor of Wixom today, Willis recalls "it was the usual slow-starting Sunday morning. The band had just assembled on the Tennessee and the bugler was back for morning colors."

Chief Boatswain Atkins came by to pass the time of day. Willis admired his new suit of whites the sailmaker had made for him and then the two began discussing to report of the submarine.

"He had just been relieved as CWO (communication watch officer) and they had broken down a scrambled (coded) message that other undersea craft were in the harbor."

"One of the problems he was having, like everyone else, was trying to convince himself that this could really be possible. It just seemed too unreal to believe," says Willis.

Then suddenly over the speaker system came the calm but deliberate voice of the bosun mate. "All hands! All hands! Man your battle stations! This is not a drill!"

His memory dimmed by the passage of 31 years, Willis can't remember for sure if he heard this alarm or the bugler first.

"All I know for sure is that I started running for the quarterdeck because I knew the bugler had to be drunk to blow general quarters on a Sunday morning."

"But as I started around the door and outside I heard and felt the 'whomp!' Seeing the geyser of water spray up along side the Tennessee I knew for sure this was no drill. And if that wasn't enough to convince me, a plane banked low overhead and the red ball on its wing told me all I had to know."

Willis raced for his assigned battle station, shouting warnings to others along the way, "This is no drill! This is no drill!"

Fortunately for the Tennessee, unfortunately for the West Virginia the latter was a flag ship carrying the senior officer and therefore was lying on the preferred outboard side where it could enjoy the trade winds blowing in from across the open water.

As it was, the outboard side meant the West Virginia and the Oklahoma were exposed to the torpedo bombers sweeping in from over the naval housing across the open water of Southeast Loch towards Ford Island and battleship row.

Willis' station was on the third deck, deep inside the ship in a small, compact room with several other sailors. But even here the concussions of bombs and torpedoes were agonizingly real.

Sailors below ship, like Willis, shared a mixture of fear, apprehension and frustration.

In communication with the lookout up on

NEW ROLE—Wixom Mayor Gib Willis, a 22-year-old sailor aboard the battleship Tennessee in Pearl Harbor at the time of the December 7, 1941 attack, had no idea he'd later become a mayor or perform a marriage ceremony, as he did Saturday, uniting Margaret Kirby and Cliff Fraser.

the top deck, the men inside the ship heard the "emotional reports" of the damage. "It was very obvious he (the lookout) was crying," says Willis.

Bumped about by the concussions, like passengers in a car smacking into another, not really knowing what was happening topside and living with the gnawing fear the end was near, Willis felt a real sense of relief later when he was ordered top side for damage repair work.

When he had raced from the master-at-arms shack it had been a beautiful sunlit morning. When he returned topside the sun was gone, obliterated by the oily hot smoke that billowed skyward from the devastation.

The West Virginia had taken several torpedo hits and was ablaze and sinking. But by counter-flooding her compartments the crew managed to keep her upright and the big ship settled onto the harbor mud, chained to the Tennessee. Her crew scamped across to

"Everything had happened at once, it seemed."

"The Arizona, probably not more than 100 feet dead astern, blew up...just seemed to lift straight up into the air and back down again, I learned later."

So great was the concussion it stalled the engine of a truck on Ford Island, blew men off the Nevada

That Day in '41

Remember What You Were Doing?

By PHILIP JEROME

The news that Pearl Harbor had been bombed was as much a surprise to the American people as the bombing itself had been to the men stationed there.

In 1941 Franklin Delano Roosevelt was in the White House. The country had survived the depression of the '30's and was ready to embark on a new decade of prosperity. The future seemed bright.

Americans were aware of the war to be sure. But it was something distant. The United States, protected on both sides by oceans, was not going to get involved in the conflict that was spreading over Europe.

Pearl Harbor ended that security. Suddenly, the war which had one moment seemed so very far away was now very real.

The nation was stunned.

Several area residents here recall the details of the day the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor and the United States was drawn into war.

News of the bombing hit Mrs. Sam Kravetz of South Lyon particularly hard because her brother, John Barnett, was stationed there at the time.

"My parents and I had just finished eating our Sunday dinner and gone into the living room to listen to the news report. Almost as soon as we turned on the radio we heard the flash about Pearl Harbor. We were just floored," she said.

Her brother was stationed on a destroyer, but had told his family that he was serving on a hospital ship.

"We thought he was very, very safe because of that," Mrs. Kravetz recalls. "About two weeks after the attack we got a message from him saying that he was safe, but he never did tell us he wasn't on a hospital ship until after the war was over."

Vincent Smith, now of Salem, was stationed at Camp Paraiso in the Panama Canal Zone, a member of the Fifth Infantry Division of the United States Army, when he heard the news.

"We were in the day room shooting pool when we heard it," he recalls. "Everyone was startled, we almost didn't believe it."

The significance of what had taken place settled in that night for Smith and the other members of his outfit.

"The Canal Zone was completely blacked out," he reports. "At midnight we were ordered to get our packs together and were sent out into the jungle."

Smith's regiment remained out in the jungle guarding the locks until December of the following year when they were transferred to Australia.

Later, the Salem resident served with the 158th Combat Group in New Guinea. After the war he re-enlisted and served a total of 21 years in the United States Army - a career soldier.

Mrs. Richard Juday of Northville didn't receive news of the attack until the following day - Monday, December 8.

"I was in the hospital with a brand new baby boy," she explains. "Bill, our first child, was born Saturday night and I don't remember much about that Sunday."

With that searing explosion, 1,000 men aboard the Arizona vanished, and the flames spewed onto the deck of the Tennessee, igniting aviation gas and turning her stern into an inferno.

"And while this was going on the West Virginia took another hit and the gasoline from an exploding aircraft aboard her showered us with patches of fire. The heat was so intense aboard our ship the portholes buckled, plate seams split open."

To make matters worse the Tennessee was hit several times by high level bombers streaking in from another direction.

"Despite the destruction, the unbelievable carnage about us, the crew was amazingly calm. I didn't see any of the panic historians like to paint of that day," says Willis. "These were trained men reacting as if they had been through it before."

As the flames chewed across the deck and galloped up the sides of the thickly painted Tennessee, her crew fought desperately with broken and damaged hoses.

"They did the best thing they could," Willis recalls. "They plugged the drains and flooded her deck and the water spilled out over the sides and helped extinguish fires there and on the deck itself."

Willis spotted Boatswain Atkins, who later was decorated for his heroism, for the first time since their earlier conversation. He was grim-faced, and his new suit of whites were black, recalls Willis. "He had fought in flames and gas fumes throughout the battle."

Squeezed between the sunken West Virginia and her mooring, the Tennessee, though operable, could not move. Her engines churned the props, nevertheless, to keep the flames away.

The Tennessee machine gunners blazed away at the bombers bringing down several. But her big 14-inch guns were useless. "You can't use these guns for aerial attack; besides the spent shells would have fallen inland endangering lives there."

While the West Virginia had time to counter-flood, the Oklahoma lying 100 feet in front of the Tennessee wasn't as fortunate. She took three quick torpedoes and then two more as she heeled over, her surviving crewmen scrambling over the side and then walking with the roll until they were standing on the ship's bottom.

Eight minutes after the first hit the Oklahoma was upside down, her mast jammed into the mud of the shallow harbor.

Fortunately, like the Tennessee, the Maryland was on the inboard side of the Oklahoma and she took only two bombs, no torpedoes.

"A projectile hit, I think, our center gun and the fragmentation is probably what killed the captain on the West Virginia, who was on the bridge at the time."

"I think we lost five men," says Willis.

In addition to the battleships, many other naval vessels were in the harbor at the time. Eighteen were sunk or seriously damaged.

The battleships Arizona, Oklahoma were destroyed, the Tennessee, Maryland and Pennsylvania were damaged.

More than 2400 men were killed, nearly half of them when the Arizona blew up.

That was December 7, 1941. Pearl Harbor. The start of the war.

Looking back on it now after 31 years, Mayor Willis, who had been in the Navy for five years at the time of the attack, still feels a sense of anger and frustration.

"If we had had just five minutes warning of the attack I think some of our ships and men might have been saved. Of course, no one can be sure; it's simply a matter of hindsight conjecture."

"But it's pretty well documented now that our leaders were aware that something was imminent, if they didn't actually know the time and place of the attack," he says.

"I don't like to believe it but (President) Roosevelt needed something to unite the people for war, to kindle a hatred for the Japanese. Pearl Harbor, it seems to me, was it."

"Even on board the Tennessee, down on the third deck, you felt this hatred boiling up, a desire to get back at the enemy."

"And I felt it later as we searched the harbor for bodies."

One of 150 Michigan survivors of the attack on Pearl Harbor, and incidentally one of three survivors around the nation who later became mayors (mayors also of Niles, Michigan and Minneapolis), Willis remained in the Navy throughout the war, participating in naval operations throughout the Pacific - including those at Guadalcanal.

Even after the war he chose to remain in Navy, retiring in 1956 with the rank of chief.

Willis has returned to Pearl Harbor several times, including a trip last year - the 30th anniversary - and a visit to the hulk of the Arizona still in the harbor, a memorial now of that day, December 7, 1941.

"It was the day nurse who finally told me. She came in with my breakfast Monday morning and said we were at war with the Japanese and they had bombed Pearl Harbor."

"I'm ashamed to admit it, but the importance of what had happened didn't sink in right away. To tell you the truth, at that time I really wasn't sure where Pearl Harbor was."

Don Miller was half-way through deliveries on his milk route through Northville when he heard news of the attack.

"I was putting the milk on the porch of 312 South Main Street when the lady came bursting through the front door and told me about the bombing," he recalls. "Everybody was stunned by the news. You almost felt that it was some kind of mistake because everyone was sure the United States wouldn't be directly involved in the fighting."

At the time Miller was too old to be drafted, but his son Roger was 20 years old and a prime candidate.

"I guess that's one thing that hasn't changed much between the parents of those days and the parents we have now," Miller states. "You never want to see your children go into the army. When they're in the service, there's always the possibility that they'll be maimed or even killed."

"But Roger was ready. He was old enough to be drafted, but he volunteered instead. You can't say that you were particularly happy or even proud to see your son go to war, but you wished him well and prayed he would return."

Lee BeGole, Novi police chief, was a student at the University of Western Ontario and training to be a member of the Canadian Army at the time of the attack.

"I wanted to be in that war," he explains. "The reason I was in Canada was that they were in the war and the United States wasn't."

On the day of the attack, BeGole was visiting his mother at their home on West Grand Boulevard in Detroit.

"My room was up in the attic and I was just sort of looking out the window," he recalls. "I saw my aunt and uncle come out of our house and get into their car. They started to pull away from the curb and then they backed up and my aunt got out of the car and started shouting that the Japs had attacked Pearl Harbor."

"Up until the moment their car returned to the curb I had wanted to be a Canadian soldier. As soon as I learned why they came back, I knew I was going to be an American soldier."

BeGole stayed in the Canadian army until he was able to make the necessary arrangements and then came back to the United States, enlisted, and began his military career over again.

"I saw service in the Mediterranean and European theaters of operations and served under General Mark Clark in the Fifth Army," BeGole reports proudly.

"I saw my brother killed in Italy, but I liked the American army so much that when I came back after the war I immediately joined the National Guard."

"You were proud to be a soldier in those days. There was an entirely different feeling than there is now."

Neil Nichols was elected reporter.

New members of the club are Scott Balko, Lisa Grunheid, Kathy Heslip, and Ann Visnyak.

Mayor Gib Willis, himself a survivor of Pearl Harbor, both remember Pearl Harbor. "I was working at Holley's when it happened...working on carburetors for aircraft," recalls Frazer. "It burned me up, really made me mad."

"Most like everyone else I thought it was terrible," recalls Mrs. Frazer. "I was eating breakfast when it was announced on the radio."

Bessie Anderson of Brighton was driving with her husband for a Sunday dinner at her in-laws when she heard the news on the car radio.

Mildred Scranton of Brighton heard the news at a drug store in her hometown of Hartford, Michigan, when she was on her way to visit a friend's house after school.

Ruth Sipes of Brighton was getting ready to go to church when she heard the announcement. "After that, the rest of the day was a blank," she said.

Norman Luttermoser of Brighton was home that Sunday and said he probably heard it on the radio. At the time he was employed at the bomber plants in Willow Run.

CONSTRUCTION has begun on a 40 x 22 addition to the Northville Insurance building on Northville's Main Street, adjacent to Northville Drug. The 4,000 square foot addition in the rear of the existing building will front on Alexander Court. According to Kenneth Rathert, owner, the addition will be of block and brick with a mansard roof.

Backs State Standards

Calling Michigan's meat content and labeling standards the highest in the nation, Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-Bloomfield Township) promised this past week to oppose any federal attempts to lower those standards.

Only last month, Broomfield and other members of the Michigan Congressional delegation joined to defeat a proposal which would have forced Michigan to conform to weaker federal meat quality laws. It is generally expected that a similar attempt to weaken Michigan law will surface in the next Congress.

"Lungs, stomachs, spleens, lips and other undesirable meat by-products, now banned in the state, would be allowed if Michigan is forced to conform with weaker federal quality standards," Broomfield said.

"This represents a clear threat to Michigan's hot dogs, sausages and other packaged luncheon meats."

Babson Report

Labor Negotiations on Deck in '73

LABOR RELATIONS have been relatively placid during the year now drawing toward its close, with a substantial number of quiet settlements in many small industrial firms but no big-scale negotiations dominating the scene.

As 1973 unfolds, however, the situation promises to be quite different from 1972, since more than 4,000,000 workers in several outstanding industries face contract expiration or renewal in the course of the new year.

There will be significant union

Road Funds Distributed

Third quarter Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections are now being distributed to Michigan counties, cities and villages, the state highway commission reported this past week.

John P. Woodford, deputy director-chief engineer of the Department of State Highways, said net receipts of the Highway Fund during July, August and September of 1972 amounted to $85,984,252, an increase of $4,522,846 or 5.6 percent compared to the same period in 1971.

Local area cities and their shares of the monies include: Brighton, $9,170, compared to $8,683 in 1971; Northville, $14,260 compared to $13,507; Novi, $29,814 compared to $27,947; South Lyon $6,609 compared to $6,268, and Wixom, $8,656 compared to $8,149.

Oakland County's 1972 third quarter share is $2,185,257, Wayne County's share is $4,928,408, Livingston County's share is $280,735, and Washtenaw County's share is $583,157.

All state gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and license plate fees go to the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund.

After deduction of collection costs by the Department of State, and the share of 1.5 percent for the State Waterways Commission, the funds are distributed under the formula of 46 percent to the highway department, 34 percent to the state's 83 counties, and 20 percent to the 530 incorporated cities and villages.

bargaining sessions in electrical manufacturing, rubber, cement, building, autos, trucking, clothing, services, transportation equipment, food, and retail trade. Although wage controls are expected to continue for an indefinite period—certainly well into 1973—labor has no intention of adhering to the rules.

If the current ceiling of 5.5 percent in annual raises and the 0.7 percent in fringe concessions are kept in force, union negotiators will not hesitate to press for considerably more sizable pay and fringe benefits than the Pay Board yardsticks will permit.

IT SHOULD be noted that the guidelines of the Pay Board were bypassed quite frequently in the current year. Wage rate increases won in the first six months of 1972 averaged 7.5 percent for the first year of the contracts' life.

While this represented a sharp reduction from the first-year average raise of 11.7 percent racked up during the first half of 1971, it is still well above the supposed ceiling of 5.5 percent allowed on an annual basis. And demands being made against companies in upcoming bargaining sessions are even less moderate.

Petrochemical workers, for example, have asked for a 50 cent-an-hour hike in their new contract, plus another 50 cent in the second year. This means that the first-year gain alone would amount to 10 percent while additional costly fringe benefits are being sought—including paid hospital and medical care, better pensions, more liberal shift differentials, and research in connection with a health and safety fund to be administered by the union and management.

A 40-MONTH agreement will be running out for electrical workers by the first of May next year, so bargaining will doubtless be under way sixty to ninety days before that time. Here, again, demands will probably be of broad scope and expensive for management. The pact approaching expiration in the early months of the new year was agreed upon only after a strike lasting more than three months at a number of plants during 1969 and 1970.

The Teamsters Union, a particularly aggressive organization, is heading into bargaining sessions around midyear. Trucking concerns may hold out against exaggerated demands from the union, but chances are they will not be tough enough to breed a critical strike that could tie up many industries throughout the country.

It could be that employers will give in somewhat, granting larger raises than those permitted in the hope that the Pay Board will shave for the Michigan public. But it continues to be rough going.

VARIOUS FORMS of snobbery, prestige, tradition and inertia seem to be involved on the part of medical educators. These are the people who decide which applying students shall be accepted for training, and what they shall be taught. The record does not indicate they are interested in training doctors to work with families or people who need a general practitioner. Medical schools at University of Michigan, Wayne State and Michigan State all seem more interested in turning out specialists and researchers than doctors who will set up practice in communities and care for people there.

Students are discouraged in most instances when they indicate their desire to work in family practice. They are told: "You'll get over it." They are encouraged to pick a specialty.

University of Michigan medical school appears to be the most dogmatic in ignoring the needs of the public for family practitioners, and Wayne State's doctors seem to be trying almost as hard. MSU, which started out with announcements that they would be much concerned with service to Michigan's public, does not make the same claims loudly and longer, though there are some programs emanating from East Lansing which provide medical service for out-state areas.

THE ACADEMY for General Practice is urging that Michigan medical schools set up Family Practice Departments so that students interested in this field can get information, training and a feeling that their selection is just as important as some of the dramatic specialties. Dr. Vitu reports that his group has not made much progress with the medical schools toward this goal.

Dr. Vitu reports that he has letters from numerous students who would like to know more about family practice, but that some have been discouraged. Programs about family practice held for medical students are well and enthusiastically attended, he says, but he adds that there are too few places students can get more information.

Osteopathic physicians fill the public need to some extent. Graduates of osteopathic schools are much more inclined to set up practice in communities. And since the legislators are increasingly aware of the situation, they are inclined to supply funds for osteopathic training with more enthusiasm.

The outlook is bleak that there will be immediate change seems to be the feeling of Dr. Vitu. But he and the Michigan Academy of Family Physicians are working to bring about improvement which will let a young doctor feel just as proud when he says he is specializing in family practice as another young doctor is when he says he is specializing in neurosurgery for example.

ANYONE who travels in northern Michigan knows gasoline prices there are higher than in the southern part of the state.

The situation existed for years and no one has done much to change it. Gasoline companies say the higher costs reflect increased transportation costs and other increased costs. But state officials this year have been saying they think there's another reason: price fixing by the oil companies.

Both Governor Milliken and Attorney General Frank J. Kelley have been looking into the situation and contemplating action.

A STUDY Milliken received from the Michigan Consumers Council earlier this year shows a maximum differential of 10.3 cents per gallon between the north and south; an average difference of 6 cents per gallon.

A thing like price fixing can be difficult to prove, especially when a whole battery of high-priced lawyers can be brought into action to try to disprove the charge. But if the governor and attorney general gather the evidence they are looking for, there may be a lawsuit in the future of some major oil companies.

Give someone a long distance laugh.

She was up before seven. Did twenty-seven loads of wash. Made another mountain of peanut butter sandwiches. Ran out of grocery money and tried a new casserole that didn't quite make it. The sun never did come out 'til ten at night... when someone far away called on a whim and made her laugh. That's all it takes to turn somebody's whole day around. A moment of laughter.

So, if you know someone out of town who could use a good laugh and you've got a funny story—share it—long distance. Make two people happy with an unexpected call.

Christianity—Then and Now

Reverend T. D. Bowditch
Brighton Wesleyan Church

Of all the stories that have ever been written, of all the beautiful songs that have ever been composed, of all the messages that have ever been delivered, from all the greetings that have ever been exchanged, no words are more profound and more meaningful than those familiar words found in John 3:16, "God...so loved...that he gave his Son..."

This is the real heart of Christmas. Leave this out of the message of Christmas and it has no meaning, if indeed it is a message at all. The beautifully lighted trees, the gifts in their gay wrappings, the voices of carolers blended in singing "Joy to the world," the delighted hearts at family gatherings, all of these as desirable as they may be, leave something strangely missing if God's great Gift is not the predominating factor in all of our Christmas festivities. Perhaps many of the "Xmas" greetings sent out across the miles are right, they are more "mas" than "Christ" centered.

Several years ago the writer was one of the many friends who had gathered at a given time and place to pay their respects to a minister friend who was moving from the community. For more than an hour the friends awaited the arrival of the honored guest. The waiting continued, still the guest did not arrive. Upon investigation it was discovered that the person who had been commissioned to deliver the invitation had failed to do so. And there we were faces red with embarrassment, because the honored guest was absent, and his absence was due to the fact that he had not been invited.

Is it possible that many of our festivities will be like that? a

The heart of Christmas is to be found in the fact that God gave a great gift to the world. This gift was "wrapped in swaddling clothes, and laid in a manger." Of this gift John said (John 1:12) "But as many as received him, (that gift) to them gave he power to become sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." What have you done about this gift?

A wealthy merchant was moved with pity at the plight of a destitute friend. At an opportune time he sent him large gifts, among which was a sealed envelope. The recipient was greatly surprised, and in the excitement and preoccupation with the many things he had received, he completely forgot to open the envelope. The following day his wife found the envelope in a pile of wrapping paper and laid it aside to give to her husband at a convenient time.

A year later the wealthy merchant died quite suddenly. Shocked and grief stricken, the friend shared with his wife the sorrow of his heart. Suddenly the wife remembered the sealed envelope and gave it to her husband. Opening it, again he was greatly surprised to find a signed check with the amount to be filled in by the beneficiary. With excitement he filled in the amount for several thousand dollars, took it to the bank only to make the discovery that the account had been closed. And so the poor man remained a pauper because he failed to avail himself at the right time of the gift that had been offered.

Why remain a pauper when you can be made rich by the Gift God has given? The Heart Of Christmas is Christ in the heart.

CAN WE WORK TOGETHER?

In our town a factory employs most of us. But we live under the pall of smoky chemical fumes.

Both labor and management attend our church—and they are concerned about pollution and our environment. They know it is a human dilemma. We must have jobs; we must have the products we make. And taxes from the factories support schools, clinics and public works. These are realities.

But we cannot continue destroying in the process of creating. It is God's world and we are the caretakers. That's also a reality.

As Christians we will seek the answer under God in His Church. We will work together and build a better world. Will you be in church next Sunday?

COLIC: COMMON, BUT OFTEN FATAL

What to do to avoid Colic. A twisted or strangulated intestine is accidental and impossible to prevent. It could happen while the animal is rolling to scratch his back, or is cast in his stall.

The embolism, if due to parasites, may be avoided by a rigid parasite control program.

To help prevent impaction:

- 1) Avoid sudden changes in feeding.

- 2) Feed bran regularly, moist or dry, daily or at regular intervals.

- 3) When turning out on green pasture, allow limited grazing the first few days, and feed some hay before turning out each day.

- 4) Encourage water drinking while traveling long distances. Feed a little table salt in grain.

- 5) With mares heavy in foal and after foaling, give a little less rough age. Part pelleted food works well at this time.

- 6) Watch for mucus in the stools or excessively dry or scanty stools. If any of these conditions occur, call your veterinarian. A little treatment at once could save walking the animal for several days, and one or more sleepless nights.

Good management seems to be a major factor in the prevention of digestive problems in horses.

GROUP INSURANCE RATES POSSIBLE:

As the results of a three-year search, the Riding Establishment Committee of the American Horse Shows Association has located a large nationally known insurance agency that can provide the insurance program to meet the needs of Association members at a reasonable expense.

A minimum of 500 Riding Establishments must enroll in the program to put it into effect. Additional information is available from Alex Forman, American Horse Shows Assoc., 527 Madison Avenue, New York, New York 10022. Sally Saddle

Jaycees Aid

Safety Effort

Novi Jaycees joined with some 300 Jaycees from throughout Oakland County in staging a "Jaycee Caravan" recently to promote Oakland County's national demonstration program in traffic law enforcement.

Members from 26 chapters drove to shopping centers, gas stations and community business districts to distribute more than 9,000 pamphlets, bumper stickers, and posters as part of the program's public education effort.

The program, launched in September by the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County (TIA), seeks to reduce traffic accidents by cutting down driver violations through a higher level of traffic law enforcement.

Don Carn, regional director of the Jaycees, said, "As a civic service group, the Jaycees are proud to join with businesses, industries, and private citizens throughout Oakland County in support of this nationally significant program."

"Over 90-percent of all Oakland County traffic accidents involve one or more driver violations," Carn said. Hopefully, the 'Jaycee Caravan' increased public understanding of the role violations play in accidents and the need for an increased level of enforcement, he added.

Win Apples

Holding winning ticket for the apple prize was James Lindsay, 24051 Glenridge Court, Novi

The DEL'S SHOES' Story . .

Quality, Selection, Competent Assistance

IN 1963 Del and Ila Black opened their first shoe store on Main street in Northville.

Now there are five Del's Shoe Stores with a sixth scheduled to open by mid-1973.

And the same formula that applied when there was a staff of three at one store still holds today and is used in each of the five stores by all 38 employees.

The formula is: quality products plus large selection plus trained personnel equals satisfied customers.

Del's Shoes places special emphasis on the training of salesmen. All are given a 17-week course offered by the National Shoe Retailers Association, which covers such details as the structure of the foot, leathers, shoe construction and merchandizing. Del's training program also includes a course offered by the Stride-Rite company.

Five years after opening its Northville store, Del's moved into Highland (1968), then Plymouth and Brighton in 1971 and finally, Del's opened its newest store at Concord Mall in Elkhart, Indiana.

ANOTHER DEL'S is now underway at South Bend, Indiana in a new shopping center scheduled for opening by mid-1973.

The expansion into more stores has enabled Del's to offer more style, more variety and more service. Inter-changes between stores is easily accomplished. If there's a style or size that a customer cannot find at one of Del's stores, chances are it can be quickly secured from one of the other stores.

Del's Shoes in Plymouth was formerly Willoughby's well known in the area as a family shoe store for many years.

Elkhart's Frank Doyle

Now completely remodelled, Del's Plymouth store is managed by Ronald Crabtree, who had been associated with Willoughby's previously.

It carries the same complete line of family shoes that can be found in all Del's Shoes stores, plus E.T. Wright for men and Dr. Locke for men and women.

THE OTHER popular brand names found in Del's Shoe stores include: for men—Freeman, Wm Joyce, Manly, Red Wing, French Shriner (coming soon), Bates Floater and Converse; for women—Red Cross, Socialite, Cobbies, Dr. Locke, Jacquelyn, Connie, Geppettos (coming soon), Hush Puppies, Fashion by Pogo and Shelby (coming soon); for children—Jumping Jack, Pogo, Stride-Rite, Converse, Corrective Shoes by Markell, Night Bars in-flare and out-flare corrective baby shoes with complete orthopedic services.

In Northville Del's Shoes is managed by Diana Black, daughter of Ila and Del.

The Highland shopping center store is managed by Adelle Puckett, while Frank Doyle heads up the crew at the Elkhart, Indiana Concord Mall store.

This season Del's Shoes is celebrating its 10th Christmas season in business.

Its five stores have the best and biggest selection of family shoes ever...and its clerks are waiting to provide you with the best service ever.!
