LAW SUIT was filed last week Wednesday by the Northville Public Schools against the Northville Education Association. The suit, filed in Wayne County Circuit Court, seeks a declaratory judgment determining the district's rights and liabilities in placing union membership dues in escrow following the state supreme court decision ruling agency shop clauses illegal.

TWO PERSONS were appointed to Northville township commissions last week. Fred B. Philippeau was named to fill a vacancy on the planning commission, and J. Thomas Handy was appointed to a vacant seat on the water and sewer commission.

EUGENE KING, former Northville police chief, has been named Man of the Year, by the Hayden-Winkelman (Arizona) Chamber of Commerce for his professional and civic contribution in the communities of Hayden and Winkelman. King, city manager of Hayden, has been president of the chamber of commerce for three years. He was instrumental in reviving the annual Mexican Independence celebrations that play major roles in the economic, civic, and social betterment of the two communities.

PREPARATION of the city-township recreation department budget was underway this week. Meanwhile, city councilmen began studying the proposed budget of the 35th District Court submitted by Judge Dunbar Davis. The proposed 1973 court budget calls for an outlay of $132,714, compared with last year's $112,119 outlay.

IT HASN'T happened yet but "just to be safe," Councilman Paul Folino has urged the city to consider an ordinance against illicit massage parlors. City Manager Frank Ollendorff is to present council with sample ordinances from other municipalities at its next meeting.

City Requests Alternative For Randolph Drain Plan

"It's an established fact we must take some water out; it's just a question now of how much."

With that summation by Councilman Paul Vernon, the Northville City Council Monday approved a resolution (5-0) asking the inter-county drain board to consider a flood plain easement plan in lieu of a 30-foot wide ditch for the Randolph Drain.

Council action followed a lengthy discussion in which property owners adjacent to the proposed drain improvement protested both alternatives offered them by the drain board.

Specifically, the two alternatives offered property owners and the city include:

1. Acquisition of a 50-foot permanent easement, together with a temporary construction easement to permit the construction of a drainage channel 30 feet in width.

2. Acquisition of flood basin easements (of 50 or more feet in width) as described in the easement map prepared by Johnson and Anderson, the drain board engineers.

The latter was offered property owners by the drain board last year when they protested the 30-foot wide channel. Drain board members indicated that one or the other of these two plans will become a reality.

Like protesting property owners, city councilmen find the flood plain easement proposal, which includes a minimum of ditching, least offensive.

It would, if accepted now by the drain board, call for drain enclosure at the Northville Green Apartments near Taft and Randolph streets and enclosure of the drain from Center east to the Rouge stream. Between these two points the existing drain basin would remain except for unspecified improvements where it crosses Randolph and High streets.

The council resolution gives the following reasons for suggesting the flood plain proposal:

1. It is believed the cost of this method would be substantially less expensive.

2. It would result in ecological savings of certain

COMING SOON—Construction is expected to start in March on a new funeral home to be located on Northville Road near Seven Mile. Above is the architectural sketch of the new facility slated for opening in October.

Northrop & Son

Plan New Funeral Home

Development of a major new funeral home complex in Northville was announced this week by Ross B. Northrop.

To be located on 1 1/3 acres of property immediately south of the Allen Monument business place on Northville Road, the development is to become the Northville branch of the 65-year-old Northrop & Son mortuary business headquartered in Detroit at 22401 Grand River.

Northrop, a native of Northville, said construction of the Northville branch will begin in March with completion slated for next October.

A Mobil service station presently is located on the property, just outside the city in Northville Township at the foot of Seven Mile Road. It will be razed to make room for the new building.

Northrop purchased the property from Beatrice Hassig. It is bounded on the west by the Wayne County parkway.

Featuring Federal period architecture, the 65-foot x 94-foot building will be of brick construction. It will face Northville Road, with covered porticos on the north and south sides and a service entrance in the rear (west side).

Main entrance to the building will be from the north portico.

The interior will carry out the exterior architectural theme. It will include a large, 63-foot x 27-foot chapel on the west side, four visitation rooms, a casket display room and three offices on the main floor.

A small meditation chapel for families and clergymen and three lounges will be provided on the basement level.

Chair rails, some paneling, fireplace, and chandelier lighting enhance the decoration theme.

The building will be gas heated and air-conditioned. Parking will be provided for 82 cars.

Architect is Graham-Culotta, and Northrop is expected to name the contractor soon.

Northrop, who lives in Northville Township off Six Mile Road in a centennial farm house, represents the fifth generation of the family that pioneered here early in the last century.

The mortuary business was started by his father, the late

Ross Northrop.

Mrs. Northrop also is a long-time Northville resident, her father, the late Nelson Schrader I, having once operated a funeral home business on Center Street.

Northrop will manage the local branch, and Melvin Miner of Northville, who has been with the firm for the past five years, will become the resident director.

Township Forms Sewer District

Northville township trustees unanimously agreed to establish a special assessment district for installation of sanitary sewers in Grand View Acres.

Taking the action January 9, trustees also voted to assess property owners within the district for $285,000 of the estimated $314,000 cost of the project.

Trustees explained the remainder of the costs would be paid for from township water and sewer funds. The exact method of assessment (by front foot of property or benefited lot) will be determined later by the board.

Costs for which the township will pay are estimated to equal the cost of the outfall sewer which will be constructed from Grand View Acres to connect with a sewer on Scenic Harbor in Highland Lakes.

At a public hearing held in December and at several township board meetings since then, property owners in the subdivision have appeared before trustees to voice arguments pro and con on the project.

Main objections to the sewer installation were that it would cause economic hardship, since most of the lots are one acre in size, and that there was no need for sewers in the subdivision.

Residents who petitioned for the sewer project have stated there is a need for sewers in the area.

Council Denies Chapper Appeal

An appeal by the Chapper Organization, developers, for a public hearing on its Eight Mile Road rezoning request was denied by the Northville City Council.

By a 5-0 vote Monday, the council affirmed the earlier denial action taken by the planning commission.

Representing Chapper at the meeting were George Athas, former Novi city manager, David Chapper, and the firm's attorney.

Chapper asked for a hearing on its petition to rezone 39 acres of property, located off Eight Mile just east of Northville Estates, from R-1 (residential) to a multiples classification.

In their appeal presentation, Chapper spokesmen noted that the property in question is long and narrow and hence not conducive to planned unit development as underway in the nearby Thompson-Brown project, that the unit-per-acre formula suggested in their plan is the same as the multiples portion of T-B's development, that the proposed multiples would complement adjacent development and enhance the area, and because of its nature produce fewer students for the school system.

Furthermore, they noted that because future plans call for the widening of Eight Mile as a major thoroughfare the development would not present a traffic problem.

They took the position that the planning commission had failed to give their proposal adequate consideration prior to issuing its denial.

Then Wonders Why

Board Switches Auditors

It took Northville township a matter of minutes last week to dump its auditors of 20 years and name a former candidate for treasurer to the post.

The action caught several members of the board by surprise, but only one voted against the action while another abstained and a third was apparently so confused that he thought he had abstained but actually voted for the new appointment.

Robert G. Adams, a certified public accountant who once served as auditor for Redford township, was named auditor. No other firms were considered.

who abstained, said he was unaware that any change was being contemplated. He called the appointment a "pay-off of a political debt."

Treasurer Joseph Straub, whose motion to retain the Ann Arbor firm of Ickerman, Hoffman and Johnson went unseconded, agreed with MacDonald.

"I work closely with the auditors. I think our present firm has been doing a good job. No one advised me that we were considering a change," the treasurer stated.

Straub, who defeated

Adams in the Republican primary for treasurer, voted against the appointment of Adams. The treasurer noted that Clerk Sally Cayley had supported Adams in the primary and that Adams, likewise, had campaigned for Clerk Cayley and Trustee Richard Mitchell in the August primary race.

While Trustee MacDonald expressed disappointment that Supervisor Lawrence Wright had not informed board members prior to the meeting that a change in auditors was being contemplated, the supervisor declared that he, too, was caught by surprise.

"Sally (Clerk Cayley) made out the agenda and it was listed as 'appointment of auditor'. I didn't know another firm was being considered. As far as I'm concerned, it came 'out of the blue'.... I thought the item was just for discussion and I didn't vote on the question," declared Supervisor Wright.

Official minutes and notes taken by the press show that the vote was five in favor (Wright, Cayley, and Trustees Mitchell, Leonard Klein and Charles Schaeffer), one opposed (Straub) and one abstention (MacDonald).

Seek Temporary Ambulance Site

It appeared early this week that a "temporary" ambulance service facility would be established as the city and township search for permanent quarters.

As the township board did last week, the city council Monday approved an agreement with General Ambulance, subject to yet to be established conditions, and then unanimously indicated its support of a proposal to temporarily house ambulances and drivers on Center Street property owned by Councilman Paul Folino.

If it becomes a reality the temporary housing would be for up to a maximum 90 days, during which time the city and township are to take bids on a permanent location. Cost of the temporary quarters was put at $250 per month, with Folino insisting that past rental bills be made a part of the permanent record to prove that $250 has been the going rate for rental of the building.

(The Folino property in question is the subject of negotiations between the city and Folino, as the city

THE GIFT of a turnip — yes, a turnip — may not seem like a romantic offering, but for the last 16 years a turnip has been just that for Marilyn McDaniel of Ely Drive. Her husband George each year makes a special "creation" with a turnip. This year the turnip was the setting in a large silvery ring he fashioned and presented wrapped for Christmas.

It all began, Mrs. McDaniel recalls, when they were first engaged. "He told me that if I didn't quit bugging him about what I was going to get for Christmas he'd get me a turnip — and he did!"

That first turnip was just presented "as is." They were married the following March, and the tradition of the turnip gift was continued, but it became "something special." It always was accompanied by a poem.

One year, Marilyn McDaniel remembers, the turnip was contained in an oyster shell made with paper plates. The poem explained that it was being given "to a real pearl."

Another year it was the Partridge in a Pear Tree. Once it was the end of a baton presented "to the leader of our band." A cardboard wrapping roll was the basis for the large baton.

She says her husband admits it's getting hard to think of original ways to present the sentimental gift.

Sometimes, too, it's been difficult to find a turnip, not the most popular of vegetables. One year, it even was necessary to substitute a rutabaga.

As George McDaniel mentioned in his poem to his wife this past Christmas, "It did set me back, I had to buy a whole sack—when all I needed was one."

In keeping with the ring theme, the poem also told Mrs. McDaniel, "Your worth is far more than diamonds galore...more than anything money can bring."

The McDaniel children also have come to anticipate their father's special gift. This year, shortly before Christmas, on November 18, Mrs. McDaniel gave her husband an early present, a son. He was born at St. Mary Hospital and weighed seven pounds, nine ounces. He was named Andrew Jedidiah.

The other three McDaniel children, Mark, Julie and Melissa, coined the second name—and were a little disappointed, their mother says, when it was used as the middle name rather than his first. (She had promised they could name the baby.)

Next holiday season the four young McDaniels and their mother will be waiting for the gift that "ain't to be et."

SEVEN VACATIONING or recently transplanted Northville couples held a holiday reunion at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Sprunk in Del Ray Beach, Florida, on December 30.

Included in the group were Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Langtry, Mr. and Mrs. George Weiss, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jones, all vacationers, and former residents, the Kenneth Clums, who now live in Fort Lauderdale. Invitations for the party were given out last year when the group of friends gathered at a farewell fete for the Sprunks, who then were building their Florida home.

"OUR WOMAN OF THE YEAR" will be selected on the quality of her actions, not necessarily the quantity," announces the Northville Jaycee Auxiliary as it makes plans to honor a Northville area woman it feels is outstanding.

Both organizations and individuals may nominate candidates for the "Woman of the Year" award. Last year's recipient was Mrs. Beatrice Carlson.

There is no age limit, and the nominee does not have to belong to an organization. She must, however, live or work in the Northville area. All nominees will be judged on the completed nomination form by judges selected from the community. All nominees will be honored and the winner will be announced at an afternoon tea early in March.

Anyone, the Jaycee Auxiliary stresses, may nominate a woman by sending the nominee's name, address, telephone, birth date, number of children and their ages, and occupation along with a brief statement of reasons for nominating and qualities making her truly outstanding and worthy of being named "Woman of the Year." Activities in which she has demonstrated her excellence should be included. The sender's name, address and telephone should be listed.

The information should be sent to Mrs. Douglas Loomis, 369 Maplewood, Northville, 48167. For answers to questions or forms, call Mrs. Loomis at 349-1664. She notes that organizations may name as many members as deemed necessary.

Mrs. Loomis suggests that a child could nominate his mother or a teacher. An individual could nominate a neighbor, friend or relative. Completed entries are to be sent to her by March 1.

NORTHVILLE'S JAYCEE Auxiliary is one of the community's most active groups of young women. It has just completed a Christmas Mitten Tree project. Its tree in Manufacturer's Bank was decorated with 20 pairs of mittens, four pairs of slippers, two scarves and 10 hats—all delivered before Christmas to the Plymouth Home and Training School.

TICKETS for the dinner-dance benefit for the Mill Race restoration being co-sponsored by Northville Historical Society and VFW Post 4012 and Auxiliary February 8 are on sale at $20 a couple, or $10 each.

The tickets bear the distinctive emblem of the historical society and a ballroom scene of long ago. They are available in town at the Sunflower Shop or from the co-chairmen, Mrs. Leonard Klein, 349-4333, or Wallace Nichols, 349-0518. Tickets have been distributed to sellers in neighborhoods throughout the area so that anyone calling can have them delivered easily, Mrs. Klein notes. The workers are hoping for a near-sell out of the 1,000 tickets—in order to make it a real benefit for a community cause.

Story Hour On in Novi

The weekly story hour for pre-schoolers has been resumed following a break for the holidays. Mrs. Dorothy Flattery, head of the Novi Library, announced Monday.

The group meets every Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Library, which is located immediately north of the Novi City Hall. Mrs. Lillian Erwin is the story teller.

For further information about the story hour or any information regarding the Novi Library, interested residents are urged to call the library at 349-0720.

Bergman-Roethel Vows Exchanged

A double ring ceremony on December 29 at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Lake Orion united Karen Lee Bergman and Mark Alan Roethel in marriage. The mass was said by the Reverend Father George Cronin at the altar which was decorated with white mums.

The parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Prescott of Oxford, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Roethel of 22461 Brook Forest.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white velvet. Lace trim accented the dress and her Cathedral length illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white roses, carnations and stephanotis with ivy.

Nancy Hall of Oxford was maid of honor in a floor length dress of purple velvet and trimmed with white lace. Her headpiece was made from fresh purple and white carnations and ribbons. She carried an arrangement of mixed flowers.

Mrs. Jack Wilfong of Oscoda, Barbara Collins of Dearborn and Jennifer Roethel of Novi also attended the bride. All wore gowns and fresh flower headpieces similar to the maid of honor's.

Young Chris Wilfong of Oscoda was the flowergirl. Her floor length purple velvet gown was matched with a white pinafore. Frank Prescott of Oxford was the ring bearer.

Acting as best man was Dan Ewing. He was assisted by Matthew Roethel, Michael Bergman, Jerry Berger and Bob Brown.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 200 wedding guests was held at Addison Oaks in Oxford.

After a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nevada, the new Mr. and Mrs. Roethel will be at home in Birch Run. Mrs. Roethel is a senior at Michigan State University. Her husband is a 1972 Michigan State graduate and is employed as a manager by Shoeland, Incorporated.

Mothers in Novi Plan Campaign

About 200 marchers will be on the move in Novi from Tuesday, January 23, until Tuesday, January 30. They will be collecting funds for the Mothers March against birth defects.

According to Novi Mothers March Chairman Mrs. Pat Karevich, husbands and teenagers have volunteered to help the Novi mothers in their door-to-door campaign this year.

"This will be a landmark year in Novi," Mrs. Karevich explained, "because the city of Novi has not been covered completely in five years. We are looking forward to a successful campaign."

The funds which are collected by the marchers will go toward research for the prevention of birth defects, the maintenance of the cleft palate clinic at St. Joseph Hospital in Pontiac and to assist families who have children with birth defects.

Mrs. Karevich added that there are several families in Novi who are receiving March of Dimes assistance.

The marchers, she said, will be out collecting any time during the day or evening.

Each legitimate March of Dimes marcher will be wearing a yellow and black armband or a pink and white name tag for identification.

SHE'S A WINNER—Jennifer Lynn Batt is held by her mother, Mrs. Michael Batt, in the family home at 22045 Novi Road. The young Miss was born in the first minute of 1973—just 14 seconds after midnight—making her the winner of the annual First Baby Contest. The baby weighed 7 pounds and 4 ounces when she was born at St. Mary Hospital of Livonia. She is the Batt's first child.

League Meets Tonight

Women Discuss Issues

Eight state study items for 1973 through 1975 will be discussed by the Northville-Plymouth League of Women Voters as they meet for coffee at 9:30 a.m. on Friday, January 19. The meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. John DeMott, 43905 West Six Mile Road.

The purpose of the meeting is to enable the members to assist in the local League's recommendation on the state study items.

The decision of the Northville-Plymouth League, according to Mrs. Donald Stacy, president, will be sent to the organization's state planning committee which will evaluate and forward the recommendations to the state board.

The current list of state items includes: distribution of money for public education, courts, family and children's services, financing of public education, pesticides, social services, structure of local government and taxation.

The current items may be kept for restudy or be replaced by one of the newly proposed subjects.

The new topics are: the structure and operation of the Michigan legislature, juvenile delinquency, mass transportation and public funding, mental health and drug abuse, election laws in Michigan highway safety, children's rights, the merit system for state employees and crime and correction.

Elkins Enrolls At Wheaton

Steven C. Elkins of 371 Welch has enrolled as a freshman student at Wheaton College for the second quarter of the 1972-73 academic year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford D. Elkins.

Wheaton college is a coeducational liberal arts college which combines conservative Christian faith and practice with high academic standards. It is located 25 miles west of Chicago. Enrollment is limited to 1900 students annually representing all 50 states, some 30 countries, and about 30 church denominations.

Political Pundits Predict Hot Race in Novi

Nineteen seventy-three is an election year in Novi and close observers of the local political scene are predicting a particularly hot race with numerous candidates seeking seats on the city council.

Although election day (November 5) is eleven months away, rumors of possible candidacies have filled the air around city hall lately.

Up for grabs are the seats of city councilmen Louie Campbell, William O'Brien, and Donald Young.

Most of the rumors, however, concern possible candidates for the mayoral position presently held by Joseph Crupi.

According to the city charter, the mayor must face election every two years. Councilmen, on the other hand, are elected to four year terms with three being elected every two years.

Thus, while Campbell, O'Brien, and Young must win in November to retain their council seats, Edwin Presnell, Denis Berry, and Raymond Evans - the other three members of the council - will serve until the 1975 election.

Most of the rumors to date concern possible contenders for Crupi's mayoral post.

Crupi, himself, at this point appears likely to run for re-election. Other possible candidates rumored to be eyeing the position are George Athas, William Duey, and two of the three councilmen whose terms expire this year - Louie Campbell and Donald Young.

Crupi has incumbency on his side. He is the only mayor Novi has had since its incorporation in February of 1970. His record of public service as an elected Novi official, however, goes back into the village-era of Novi history. Prior to the incorporation, Crupi was a member of the village council for eight years, two of them as village president.

Early last year there was some speculation that Crupi would not seek another term. Although he may still decide to follow this course, it seems more likely that he will run a low-key campaign based on his past service.

He has said that he will probably allow his name to be put on the ballot, but won't campaign to any great degree, instead letting the voters decide if he should be returned to office.

One of the more interesting names to appear among those rumored to be considering the post is that of George Athas. Athas served as Novi city manager from September 1971 until October 1972 when he resigned to accept a position with the Chapper Corporation, a land development company.

Mayor, 3 Councilmen Face Re-election

Much of the support for Athas' candidacy comes from the Village Oaks area of the city where it is rumored a committee has been established to persuade the former city manager to run.

If Athas should decide to enter the race, an eventuality he has firmly denied to date, he will certainly have to answer "conflict of interest" charges from his opponents. The Chapper Corporation has large land holding in the north end of the city which they hope to begin developing in the near future.

If Duey should run for mayor, it will be his second attempt. In the 1970 election, Duey gave up his seat on the council to vie for the mayor's seat against Crupi, only to lose 803 votes to 690. Most recently, Duey has been chairman of the Building Authority, the five-man commission charged with building a new municipal complex for Novi.

As the council's legislative representative in Lansing, Campbell has carefully cultivated his contacts in the state capitol. He has been no less careful in his cultivation of the favor of various segments in his own community.

As a councilman, Campbell has shown himself to be outspoken and thus it can be expected that he will be a focal point for many issues if he enters the race. A proponent of industrial growth, Campbell has been strongly critical of the spread of multiple development, Kaufman and Broad, and the Novi Board of Education for refusing to accept an assessment for the paving of Taft Road.

Young's candidacy will be based on his opposition to the city's paving program. While agreeing that the roads need to be paved, Young has steadfastly maintained total opposition to all past efforts to establish special assessment districts to pay for that paving.

Crux of his opposition is that the members of the special assessment district are being over-assessed. On the paving of major roads, Young argues that the city at large should bear most of the burden as it is the city at large which will benefit from the paving. On the interior subdivision roads, Young contends that the city should bear an increased share of the financial burden of resurfacing since the city has not properly maintained those roads in the past and thus created the need for the resurfacing.

With the residents along Taft Road presently undergoing special assessment hearings and with the vast majority of the city's roads still unpaved, the special assessment formula could well emerge as one of the key issues in the 1973 campaign.

While most of the candidates for the mayoral position at this time appear to be from the older, more-established segment of the Novi citizenry, the effects of the rapid development of subdivisions which have brought a great influx of new citizens into Novi is expected to be felt in the council race.

Three seats are open and if Campbell and Young both decide to run for mayor it would leave O'Brien as the only incumbent in the race. There is the strong feeling among observers of Novi politics that at least two of the council seats will be filled by residents of the newer subdivisions.

Two husband and wife teams appear among those rumored to be considering running for the council. The name of either John or Romaine Roethels appears likely to be on the November ballot. Both have been active in city government, John as chairman of the city's Planning Board.

Another husband-wife team which might be represented on the ballot is Edward or Winifred Dobek, like the Roethels, both Dobek's have been active in Novi government. Edward is a departments last Thursday and observed rescue equipment and such police equipment as handcuffs, karate sticks, and finger-printing apparatus. Giving such tours, Corporal Johnson explained, is just as important a part of the work of the Novi Police Department as writing tickets and investigating thefts.

Policy Plea Rejected Council OKs Junket To Texas Convention

A city-financed two-day trip by Novi's Building and Safety Department Director Earl Bailey to a national convention in Houston, Texas, last December, led city councilman Louis Campbell to attempt to persuade the rest of the council to adopt a policy on out-of-state national conventions at Monday's council session.

"As long as I'm a councilman in the City of Novi," stated Campbell firmly, "I consider it my responsibility to the tax payers of this community to keep an eye on how the city monies are being spent."

"If this were a matter of sending a city employee to a conference in Lansing then I'd have nothing to say," he continued, "but when we start sending our department heads to conventions all across the country then that's an entirely different matter as far as I'm concerned. I want to know about it before any more trips like this are authorized."

In spite of Campbell's objections, however, the rest of the council refused to go along with his request for adoption of a policy on the matter.

"We've already got a policy on this," stated Mayor Joseph Crupi, "and that policy is that the department head will have to justify his trips to the city manager and then the manager will have to justify to us his decision to allow him to attend if we question him on it."

Campbell's actions were in response to a trip taken by Bailey to Houston, Texas, December 13-14, to attend a convention of the National Academy of Code Administration.

Purpose of the convention was to discuss establishment of a national building code and the advisability of state-licensing of building inspectors - two areas in which Bailey has been involved, according to Acting City Manager Edward Kriewall.

Total cost of the trip to the city was $291 of which the majority - $178 - was for plane fare. Other expenses listed by Bailey on his expense sheet were $41 for three nights in the Holiday Inn, $40 for food, $4 for taxi service, and $25 for the convention's registration fee.

The council had previously approved the expenditure of the money.

Campbell found almost no support from the other council members for the adoption of a policy on out-of-state conventions.

Councilman Denis Berry was the first to voice objections to such a policy. "It's my feeling that as long as we employ a city manager who is of reasonably sound mind and body than it should be left to him to decide which conventions are worth going to," said Berry. "It's not the location of the convention, it's the subject matter that's involved."

Campbell maintained his objections to allowing city officials to attend out-of-state conferences at the city's expense, however. "Let's face it," he said, "whenever you have national conventions there's a lot of good-time Charlie involved."

Berry countered by saying: "These conventions are training sessions for the people who go to them. It would be silly to deny that there are not a lot of parties,

5-Year Census Plan Wins Novi's Support

Don't be surprised to find a federal census-taker knocking at your door sometime in 1975.

William S. Broomfield, representative from the 18th District (of which Novi is a part) to the United States House of Representatives, informed the Novi city council Monday that he has introduced legislation that would establish a federal census every five years.

"Fast growing communities like ours in Oakland County are constantly being short-changed by the ten-year lag in the census," wrote Broomfield.

"For this reason, I have been working for the establishment of a five-year census and am introducing legislation to implement it by 1975."

The news was well-received by the majority of the members of the Novi council who have felt for some time, as Broomfield suggested, that their city is getting the short end of the stick because the census is taken on a decennial basis.

"The reason for the council's interest in a five-year census is the fact that federal and state monies are frequently awarded to municipalities on the basis of population as determined by the most recent federal census."

The federal government's revenue sharing program and the state's rebate of gasoline taxes (Act 51 monies) are two examples of programs in which the amount of money received by the municipality is determined by the federal

Councilman Blasts Anonymous Note

'Lawbreaker' Charge Irks O'Brien

Novi city councilman William O'Brien Monday issued a letter in response to an anonymously-written note calling him a "willful lawbreaker" and implying that he should be removed from his seat on the Novi council.

In his statement, O'Brien termed the unsigned note a "willful, spineless, and stupid attempt to discredit me."

"I am a citizen, a husband and a father, a teacher, and a councilman," O'Brien continued, "and cannot in good faith behave 'willfully' illegally. It's not my style."

O'Brien's letter was in response to a note written at the bottom of a memo to Oakland County Clerk Lynn D. Allen listing the names of persons who have failed to submit an expense report of monies received and disbursed during the November 7 general election.

O'Brien was defeated by Wixom Republican Lew Coy in the race for Oakland County Commissioner in that election.

His name was listed among those who had not yet submitted a financial accounting of campaign expenses.

Several xeroxed copies of the memo were sent to various sources and the message, written in ink at the bottom, varied slightly from memo to memo.

The message written at the bottom of the memo sent to The Novi News asked: "How long is Novi going to allow a law-breaker to sit on their council? No ignorance - he is a law-breaking Political Science teacher."

(O'Brien is a Southfield school teacher).

The message that appeared on a copy of the memo sent to a Novi councilman stated: "It could be embarrassing if the public knew you allowed yourself to sit on a council with a willful lawbreaker. Political teacher ignorant???"

Although it is not known how many copies of the memo were sent, it is known that copies were received by Mayor Joseph Crupi and Councilmen Edwin Presnell and Denis Berry, as well as The Novi News.

O'Brien stated he had not been sent a copy, but that the message had been brought to his attention by one of his fellow councilmen.

Questioned by The Novi

News at Monday's city council session, O'Brien stated that he had not been aware that the financial reports had to be filed within 20 days after the election (November 27) and that since the matter has been brought to his attention he has filed the required statements.

"I wrongly assumed that the forms could be filed at my convenience, or that you

High School Launches Self-Study

A thorough evaluation of all phases of the present Novi High School program has been initiated.

Over the next month, Principal Hal Seymour announced in a news release Tuesday, committees will be meeting to gather information about the school's programs and make a study of its strengths and weaknesses.

The project is part of a program of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools which requires that every member-school undertake such a self-study at least once every seven years.

At the completion of the study, anticipated sometime in February, the North Central Association will send a team of educators to Novi High School to aid in the evaluation and make recommendations for improvement. The North Central study-team will be composed of classroom teachers, administrators, university professors, and representatives of the state department of education.

Calvin Schmucker, an English teacher at Novi High School, has been elected chairman of the Steering Committee which will coordinate the evaluation. Other members of the Steering Committee are David Armstrong, Timothy Falls, Rosemary Crippen, Diane Pawlak, Norman Norgren, and Keith Cleland. All are members of the high school faculty.

This committee will coordinate the efforts of all faculty members in studying the adequacy of subject areas, library resources, guidance and other services, administration, activity programs, and programs of study.

Left Turn Only—Motorists Warned

Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole Friday warned local residents that the middle lane of Grand River Avenue can no longer be used for passing.

Last fall the Oakland County Road Commission determined that the middle lane of Grand River between Haggerty and Taft Roads should be used for left turns only and put up signs accordingly.

"We have no objections to their decision," BeGole said, "and we will be enforcing it. Our concern is that a lot of older residents who have used the middle lane for passing may not be aware of the new law. We just want people to know what the law is and that our officers will be enforcing it."

According to Dick Foelkers of the Oakland County Road Commission, the change was made because their studies indicated that the lane was already being used as a left-turn lane a sufficient number of times to warrant a permanent left-turn lane.

"Ultimately," said Foelkers, "we will make Grand River a five-lane highway."

There is a drawback, said BeGole, if you happen to get behind a slow truck, you're just going to have to endure it or run the risk of getting a ticket.

COOKIE PIE—These Novi-area Girl Scouts are kitchen testing a recipe for Chocolate Mint Pie. One of the ingredients used in the recipe is the chocolate mint cookies the scouts will be selling soon. Preparing the pie

This Week in Novi

Girls Scouts Sell Cookies

The "Cookie Pushers" will be out in Novi later on this week and next week. Junior and Cadette Girl Scouts throughout the city will take orders for the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale from January 20 through January 28.

The Southern Oakland Girl Scouts, to which the Novi troops belong, will be selling five different kinds of cookies this year. Included in the selection are assorted sandwich, chocolate chip and nut, peanut butter sandwich, butter flavored shorties and chocolate mint cookies.

Packed in large family size boxes, the cost is $1 a box for each kind of cookie.

There are six Girl Scout troops in Novi, one Cadette and five Junior, who will be participating in the sale this year. Anyone wishing to order Girl Scout cookies who is not contacted by a member can order from Mrs. Virginia Folsom at 349-5713.

This annual event has, in the past, proven to be one of the most successful Girl Scout fund raisers of all time. The proceeds from the project will go toward the special activities in individual troops and to provide services for local Girl Scout councils.

The chocolate covered mint cookies, the Girl Scout organization advises, are not only good to eat right from the box, but they also taste excellent in this pie.

CHOCOLATE MINT PIE (made with Girl Scout Cookies)

14 Girl Scout Mint Cookies
3 egg whites
1/2 tsp vanilla
1/2 cup chopped nuts
3/4 cup white sugar
Sweetened whipped cream

Chill the cookies and then roll into fine crumbs. Add a dash of salt to the egg whites and beat until they form soft peaks. While beating, gradually add the sugar. Add the vanilla and fold in the nuts and crumbs. Spread the mixture into a well-buttered 9 inch pie plate and bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Remove from oven, cool thoroughly, and cover with whipped cream. Chill three to four hours and serve.

School Notes

Visit U of M

Fourth and fifth graders at Village Oaks Elementary School recently visited the University of Michigan museum and planetarium. Upon their return the children wrote articles about their trip.

Several of the articles of the children, who are preparing to publish a school newspaper, were singled out for special mention by teachers: These included those by Kendra Anderson, Michael Everett, Tom Peterson and Tom Darling, and Vicki Johnson.

The combined effort of the two Toms was entitled, "Big News on Big Bones," and was written this way:

On January 10, 1973 the 4th and 5th Graders of Village Oaks School of Novi went to the University of Michigan Museum. The trip was for Social Studies. They saw bones put together to make a skeleton of Allasaureaus, Mastadons and other dinosaurs. They also saw prehistoric birds. One has wings like a bat. Its name was Pterodactyl.

Then they saw a very small monkey. It was only half as big as today's monkey. The next thing they saw was an egg from a bird from which the Ostrich is descended.

Prehistoric men lived in caves. They drew murals on the walls like the one in the picture. The prehistoric men drew the pictures on the wall to tell stories.

We thought the dinosaur skeletons were the most interesting.

For Art, Essay Contests

History, America Topics

An art-essay contest will be held in the Northville school system in conjunction with the upcoming "historical preservation week" here, Director of Instruction Florence Panattoni has announced.

Prize money is being provided by the City of Northville.

Purpose of the contest is to generate student interest in Northville Historical Society's effort to establish a historical village on Griswold Street mill race property donated by the Ford Motor Company.

Two buildings have already been moved to the site and are in the process of being placed on basement foundations.

February 1 through February 8 has been designated as "Mill Race Historical Preservation Week," culminating with a fund-raising community dinner-dance program sponsored by the local VFW post on Thursday, February 8.

Prizes will be offered students who enter the top art and essays concerning the importance of the proposed historical village to the community.

First prize district-wide will be $25 for the best essay and $25 for the best piece of art. In addition, $5 prizes will be awarded in each of these two categories at each of the schools in the district.

Deadline for receipt of contest entries is February 1.

Seventy-six fifth grade students in the Northville Public Schools recently told the members of the Western Suburban Junior Womens Club why they love America. The expressions of patriotism from the youngsters were brought about by an essay contest sponsored by the womens club.

In 100 words or less, the students were to complete the thought, "I love America because..." The winner was Karen Hauff, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hauff of Galway Drive. Below are Karen's reasons.

"I love America because of the beautiful things it has. Mount Rushmore, Badlands, Smokies, Redwoods and all the other beautiful things. I love America because of our freedom to worship, our freedom to choose what president we want, our freedom to go where we please, our freedom of speech and press, and because of our Apollo's, our 747's and our amazing computers. I love America because of our laws, our courts and our policemen. If I had my choice of what country to live, I know it would be America and I know that I am proud to be an American." Karen, a student at Moraine Elementary School, was awarded a book entitled "Our Country" for her efforts.

Runners-up in the contest were Susan Schoultz, a student at Amerman and Dan Murray who is in the fifth grade at Main Street School.

Group Discusses Prisons

"Women's Correctional Institutions Today" will be the topic of discussion at a meeting tonight (Thursday) of the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

The general meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in West Middle School, Sheldon Road and Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

The speaker for the evening's program will be Carol Miller who is the director of Social Services of the Women's Division of the Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo).

Members of the AAUW "We, the People" study group, who have been working with women now serving life sentences at DeHoCo, will also answer questions about their experiences and feelings as outsiders regularly going into a prison environment.

Membership in the Plymouth AAUW is open to any woman in Plymouth, Northville or Novi who holds a degree from an accredited college or university.

"I'm certain that there are a lot of new citizens in this community who would like to get involved in local government and don't even know these type of opportunities exist," stated City Councilman Denis Berry at Monday's council session.

The city currently has four openings on three boards which will be filled within the next few weeks.

There are two vacancies on the Board of Appeals and single vacancies on the Board of Review and the Library Board.

Several names have already been submitted for consideration for the appointments, but the council is still accepting further nominations.

Novi citizens interested in serving on one of the boards are urged to contact Acting City Manager Edward Kriewall at the Novi City Hall or call Kriewall at 349-4300.

PLANS FOR PRAYERS—Three of the eight area clergymen who will participate in this coming Sunday's ecumenical prayer service met recently to discuss plans for it. Held at Our Lady of Victory, the service is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Present at the planning session were,

Sunday at Our Lady of Victory

Ecumenical Service Set

In observance of the annual Week of Prayer for Christian unity which begins today, (Thursday), an ecumenical prayer service has been planned for 8 p.m. on Sunday, January 21.

The service will be held at Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church and all interested persons are invited to attend.

Six churches and eight clergymen from Northville and Novi will participate in the local service. According to its sponsors, these gatherings of people at the "grassroots" level are held to express the unity that exists between them, even as discussions are taking place between the theologians of the various Christian denominations.

Local congregations taking part in Sunday's service along with Our Lady of Victory are the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, First United Methodist Church of Northville, Holy Cross Episcopal, Novi United Methodist Church and Living Lord Lutheran Church.

The following clergymen will be participating: Leslie Harding, who will deliver the sermon, Gunther Branstner, Lloyd Brasure, Richard Henderson, George Jerome, Philip Seymour, John Wittstock and John Wyskiel.

Held at Graymoor Ecumenical Institute in New York, the first Week of Prayer for Christian Unity was organized over 60 years ago. Its purpose was "to awaken Christians to the reality of the disunity between Christians of different denominations because of their drive to follow the same Lord."

The purpose, the organizers said, has not changed and presently this week of prayer is observed throughout the world.

that was enclosed with his statement of election expenses.

O'Brien went on to issue his "sincere apologies" for not completing the forms by November 27. "The error was mine," he wrote.

The Novi councilman went on to criticize the individual who had written the "unsigned, poison pen note."

"If by chance you, or your staff, know who has access to your letters, please relay to whomever he, or they, may be that I consider the note to be a willful, spineless, and stupid attempt to discredit me, and please relate to him that I wish him 'a pox' (of his choice) on him, and his confederates, since at no time would I willfully scoff-the-law."

but these conventions are not all party."

"If we don't have enough faith in our department heads and our city manager to believe that they wouldn't abuse a trip of this nature then we ought to get rid of them."

Councilman Edwin Presnell warned Campbell "not to throw bricks because they might bounce back."

"When we approved the budget last June," said Presnell, "we approved the expenditure of this money for conferences and training. This is not an additional expense, it was an expenditure we approved last summer."

When it became apparent that he was winning no support with his arguments, Campbell suggested that the matter be dropped.

"As far as I'm concerned I want to know about it whenever a city official goes to a convention that far away from Michigan," he said. "I still feel this trip was not in Mr. Bailey's line of duty and he should never have been allowed to go."

Low Fat Diets Are Topic Of Schoolcraft Course

Registration is underway for low cholesterol dieting and 59 other classes in community services at Schoolcraft College.

The registration period will continue through January 26. A registered dietician, Mrs. Kathy Crossman of Northville, will teach diet which is being offered for the first time. It is for persons interested in low-cholesterol dieting as a preventive measure, or for those presently on a diet prescribed by their physician. The class will meet from 7-10 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning February 7. Dr. Carlos Godoy, a Livonia cardiologist, will present the medical aspects of heart disease. Films and other class materials will be furnished by the Wayne County Heart Association. Mrs. Crossman is a volunteer worker with the Association. Registration for the diet class may be completed by mail or on campus, mornings. Forms and other information may be obtained from the community services office at 591-6400, extension 264. Schoolcraft is offering over 60 community services classes for the winter semester. Tuition for most of them is $11 for residents and $22 for non-residents. Some are higher. The College is located on Haggerty at Seven Mile in Livonia. Its resident area includes the school districts of Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth.

Wixom Newsbeat: January's Slow

By NANCY DINGELDEY

What is happening during the month of January? Nothing! Certainly somebody somewhere is doing something to pass the time of day. Only problem is...I haven't heard about it. It must be a good month to think about gardening, I thought to myself. Might be some terrific ideas to pass on. Big zero! January is just one of those months...nothing. Not even in a gardening book. They all said to look to February for the newest in seed catalogs. That's great, if that's what you are anxiously waiting for.

The only item was to make sure the houseplants were well moisturized during the month, especially on bright days. O.K., so I noted that. Other than that...nothing. All the Christmas decorations are down from the houses and stores alike...already gathering cobwebs.

One bright aspect is that the London Flu has supposedly by-passed the Detroit area but there will be some other variety waiting around the corner to whack us down.

The weatherman says to expect 60 degree weather by the weekend. That's enough to make a down-State skier pack away his equipment in utter disgust. Think about those poor souls who have already paid for ski lessons in advance...what do they ski on...grass?

I suppose I could really be ahead of the game and start my spring cleaning early. No matter, it'll take me until summer to finish anyway.

January is a rather blah month...betwixt and between. The only problem is that February and March aren't much better. Maybe it's time to think about a trip to Barbados, Nassau, or Antigua. Or get involved crocheting a granny afghan. At least it would look like an accomplishment. We certainly must do something to liven these rather long, uninteresting days. Even the great January clearance sales are no fun to go to anymore. It's either that Christmas bills were so staggering that there's not much left to shop with or, more often the case, everything is so picked over you wouldn't want it anyway. And it's income tax time again which leaves much to be desired. And to some, January means the start of paying good old Social Security taxes for the next umpteen weeks or months... Yes, if you can possibly afford it, January is the time to take a vacation to lift the spirits, to open windows and air out the house, to do something...anything. Only when you do it, please tell me about it.

Northville Board Lists Priorities

More than two dozen items have been placed on the Northville School Board's list of study areas for the 1972-73 school year.

Listed by priority, the areas include reviewing the educational philosophy for the district, which is used in developing the curriculum as well as design of classrooms in the planned new schools.

Also on the list are finalization of deeding of Highland Lakes and Northville Commons elementary school sites, additional administrative assistance at Northville High, reviewing working conditions for principals, re-

- continued study of metropolitan Detroit school desegregation;
- continued action to resolve the Cooke Middle School gym and locker room floor problem (school officials have filed suit against three parties in connection with the sinking floor);
- reviewing board policies;
- studying education cost control as proposed by Michigan Chamber of Commerce; and
- considering the city and township request for the board of education facilities to become a community library building.

'Career Exploration' Formalization Starts

Formalization of a proposed career exploration program is in the works and is expected to be presented to the Novi Board of Education in March.

Meanwhile, school administrators have been authorized to speak with local businessmen to determine whether or not sufficient numbers are willing to cooperate in such a program to warrant its establishment.

Basically, the program is aimed at assisting students in making their career choices by speaking with local businessmen, observing business functions, and getting some work experience.

The proposed program, according to Superintendent Gerald Kratz, would begin with a career exploration phase, generate into occupational training, and conclude with cooperative occupational training and work experience.

School officials are hopeful the program could be launched by the start of the 1973-74 school year.

Seven More Named To Novi Committee

Seven more persons have been appointed to the Needs Assessment Citizens Committee by the Novi Board of Education.

They include William D. Barr, Edward DeBrule, Louis Campbell, Thomas Dale, Loretta McComas, Gene O'Neal, and Ron Birou.

The additional appointments expands the committee membership to 45. First meeting of the committee, which is charged with the task of assessing current and future academic and physical needs of the school district, will be held late this month.

The committee will work under the direction of Dr. Ray Kehoe of the University of Michigan Bureau of School Services, who has been hired by the Board of education for this purpose.

Findings and recommendations of the committee, including both school personnel and community citizens, are expected to be presented to the board in March.

NOVI HIGHLIGHTS

By JEANNE CLARKE
624-0173

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. James Smart, formerly of Novi Road, now of Highland. Mr. Smart was in McPherson Hospital in Howell at the time of his wife's death. He will be 89 years of age on January 26th, and cards would be more than welcome.

Individuals on the sick list are Mrs. Narvin (Tillie) Tibble of West Road who is confined in her home. Gay MacDermid of South Lake Drive is recovering from a two week bout with the flu.

Michelle Stipp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Skip Stipp of Novi Road celebrated her 12th birthday this week. Her guests were treated to a dessert birthday celebration at Farrells in Detroit as well as Raggedy Ann birthday cake at the pajama party that followed. At the party were Melissa Faulkner, Chris Derek, Teri Kurin, Kay Smithson and Gloria Diadone.

Congratulations are in order for Carol Husted of Novi Road and Junior McIntosh who were married on Friday night in Walled Lake.

Oswald Thomas of Monticello has a heart condition and is a patient at New Grace Hospital. His room number is 315.

Mrs. Hadley Bachert attended a family wedding shower for her niece in Clawson this past weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Worley entertained many of their friends and relatives at a house warming in their new home on East Lake Drive on Sunday.

Jack and Donna Boshell were called to Chicago this week for the emergency illness of his grandfather. While they were there his grandfather died.

Mrs. Orlando Bumann of Wixom Road is a patient at Ann Arbor Hospital, 33115 Venoy Road, Wayne, Room 2113A. She is expected home at the end of the week.

Nancy Welch of Maudlin has returned home from Botsford Hospital following a seige of appendicitis.

Jennie Champion and Mae Atkinson visited Mrs. Frances Denton in Detroit this past week. Mrs. Denton has been confined to bed since last May when she broke her hip. Everyone will be glad to know she will start therapy shortly.

Terry Ellis, son of Mrs. Norma Worley, celebrated his 9th birthday at his home with a neighborhood party last week.

There will be a Snowmobile School at the Novi Elementary School on January 23, 24, 30 and February 1. This school is being sponsored by the Novi Goodfellows and will be presented by Sergeant Tissue of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. There is no cost but you must register by calling 624-1248. Classes will be from 7 to 9 and will include instruction in the new laws, trespassing, safety and first aid.

Mrs. Roy Hallock Sr. of Northville was the Saturday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Worley on South Lake Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dixon and family, formerly of Maudlin have moved to Union Lake.

Mrs. Lucy Needham attended the monthly WAC meeting at the Veterans Memorial Building in Detroit on Wednesday evening.

A birthday dinner was held for Tracy Marie Greenon on Saturday afternoon to celebrate her fifth birthday. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Green, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Green and Dawn, Carl Green Jr. and Wayne Dallas. Tracy entered Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital on Sunday evening for tonsilectomy on Monday.

Wayne Dallas is a patient at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital after slipping on the ice and breaking his leg on Saturday evening.

No injuries were suffered last week when Bobby Eddy went thru the ice in the vicinity of East Lake Drive.

and Arvida. The ice is cracked about 25 feet and not easily observed, so as he and his companion drove their snowmobile, they unexpectedly went thru the ice. His companion was thrown to safety as he went into the lake. When help arrived the snowmobile was recovered and no one was hurt—much to everyone's amazement.

NOVI YOUTH ASSISTANCE MEETING

All organizations are reminded again to have a representative present for the meeting on Thursday evening at 8 p.m. at Holy Cross Church. There is a need for help with young people in Novi in some areas, especially a recreation area. This group plans to have facts available to study the situation and evaluate what can be done to prevent juvenile delinquency in the area before it comes to the attention of the authorities. For information contact Father Harding, at Holy Cross Episcopal Church.

NOVI SENIOR CITIZENS
A few changes were made in the last meeting that was scheduled for United Methodist Church. Because of furnace problems it was held at Holy Cross Episcopal Church and many phone calls had to be made. There were 25 members out and they had a good time at their belated Christmas and New Year Party complete with hats and favors.

The next regular meeting will be Tuesday, January 23, at 7 p.m. at the Novi Community Building on Novi Road. Hostesses will be Hildred Hunt and Annie Ortwin. Special guests will be Mrs. White and Mrs. Flattery from the Novi Library who will present a film. Cards and games will be played if time permits.

The group would like to thank Henry Bashian for his letter last week regarding the program and would hope it would reach other people who are eligible for membership in the Senior Citizen program. Suggestions for activities or projects are welcome to help plan future meetings, and new members are urged and welcome to come. If there is a problem regarding transportation, contact Mrs. Nancy Liddle at 349-2219 or Mrs. Louis Tank at 349-0878.

CUB SCOUT PACK 54
Activities for the month include the January pack meeting to be held on Wednesday, January 24 at 7:30 at the Novi Community Building. This will be the Rocket Derby.

On January 20, the boys are asked to meet at 12:30 at the Community Building to attend the Hockey games at the Olympia. The Junior Red Wings will be playing and it is hockey stick day.

JAYCEE AUXILIARY
The next membership meeting will be held at the Novi School Administration offices on Wednesday, January 24, at 7:45 p.m. Dr. Kratz, Novi Superintendent of Schools will be the guest speaker.

During the past week, the Jaycees have had the opportunity to assist the board of education in making a telephone survey of residents. They have been gathering statistics regarding the feeling of residents toward future school improvements and the paving of Taft Road. These findings will be presented in about a month.

HOLY CROSS EPISCOPAL CHURCH
Rev. A. Paul Nancarrow took over the 11:15 a.m. service for Father Harding who was chairing the annual meeting at St. Stephen's in Hamburg. Approximately 50 - 60 people attended the Annual Potluck dinner on January 14. A thank you to the ladies of the church who contributed the delicious dishes and desserts and to those who helped clean up.

January 18th will be the Confession of St. Peter and Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 10:45 a.m. That evening, the Novi Youth Assistance Committee will be meeting at 8 p.m. in the parish hall. The purpose of this meeting is to present material to show areas of juvenile delinquency in the Novi School District. All are invited to attend and join in the much needed work.

The Roaring 70's will be meeting on Sunday, January 21 at 6:30 p.m. The vicar will be the guest preacher at the Ecumenical Service for Christian Unity at Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville on Sunday, January 21, at 8 p.m.

NOVI GIRL SCOUTS

Brownie Troop 519 is working with clay, and making figures. They will be baked and then painted by the girls. Their next project will be a play.

Junior Troop 711 Leader Pat Gray will be missing the next few meetings as she is the new mother of a baby boy born on Monday, more details later.

Junior Troop 913 are finishing their hospitality badge and making arrangements to have an ice skating party on the 30th. They will also be joining with troops 711 and 161 to hear a man from Stroh's Brewery who will be presenting a film strip and telling them about a new ecology project, "Pitch In".

Many Scout friends will be saddened to hear of the unexpected death on Monday of Mary Lou Handley who was in charge of camping in Southern Oakland Girl Scout Council.

Police Blotter

Probe Wixom Train Derailment

In Wixom

Wixom Police and Fire Departments were called in by officials of the C&O railroad police Tuesday, January 9, to assist in cleaning up the wreckage of a train derailment that occurred on the northwest side of the city.

Eleven box cars were derailed and approximately 3,000 gallons of what police described as highly flammable diesel fuel was dumped along the tracks.

According to Captain Michael Nelson of the railroad police, the accident took place when a northbound train carrying auto frames from Toledo to Saginaw sidetracked a southbound train carrying grain from Saginaw to Toledo.

Reason for the derailment, Nelson said, was that a bad piece of rail split due to the weight of the two freight trains combined with stress caused by the extremely cold weather.

The split in the rail caused the box cars of the northbound train off the tracks and into the southbound train which was standing on a passing siding.

The entire left side of the cab of the engine of the southbound train was ripped off and a large scar was left in the engine's fuel tank.

It was the ruptured fuel tank combined with the presence of a butane track heater in the immediate vicinity which caused railroad police to fear the possibility of an explosion.

The possibility of an explosion was minimized by extinguishing the butane track heater.

No one was injured in the derailment, but damage to the trains was estimated at $200,000.

Two giant cranes were brought to the scene and railroad crews worked through the night in getting the derailed cars back on the track.

It was the second train derailment to occur in Wixom within the last month. In December three tri-level railroad cars carrying new automobiles derailed near Beck Road.

The break-in was reported Saturday shortly before 8 a.m. when an employee found a window open and the office disarranged.

Officers said pry marks were found on a window ledge, drawers in the desks and cabinets had been searched and a youngster's footprints were found in the snow. Nothing was found missing from the building.

More than $300 in mechanic's tools were stolen last week from a garage at 402 Randolph. The theft, which is still being investigated, was discovered Sunday.

A 17-year-old Northville girl escaped serious injury Saturday night when lost control of the car she was driving and sheared off a telephone pole and light pole.

The accident took place shortly after 11 p.m. on South Rogers Street near Cady Street.

The girl, who suffered cuts and bruises but did not require medical attention, was southbound on Rogers Street. She told police something fell off the front seat and when she leaned over to pick it up, she lost control of the car.

Police were at the scene until 12:30 p.m. blocking traffic due to live wires down in the area.

COURT NEWS

In 35th District Court January 9, Terry Dees of 47235 11 Mile Road was sentenced to serve 60 days in Detroit House of Correction.

Arrested by city police August 14, 1972, Dees pled guilty to charges of fleeing and eluding police. He was caught following a high speed chase through Hines Park which ended after his car hit a bridge abutment in Plymouth township.

Dees was also placed on two years' probation and a $54 fine was suspended.

In Township

Township police apprehended two escapees from area institutions over the weekend.

A 15-year-old youth was caught at a home on Franklin Road about 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

According to reports, the youth told residents of the home he had been robbed and dropped off in the area by two men.

Township police were called to the scene and through checking, found the youth escaped from the Wayne County Training School.

Police apprehended a 24-year-old escapee from the women's division of Detroit House of Correction shortly after midnight Sunday.

The woman had stopped at a house in the township earlier Sunday evening, telling the owner she had been raped and wanted to use the phone.

She left after being told there was no phone in the house.

Police later found a woman, matching the description, walking near Sheldon and Five Mile roads. Police said she told them her story had been false and that she only wanted to use a phone. She was turned over to prison authorities.

In Novi

A Northville woman, Helen Bertine Maki of 18687 Jamestown Circle, was taken to Botsford Hospital last week after the car she was driving hit a patch of ice and skidded into a tree.

The accident occurred Tuesday, January 9, at 11:30 a.m.

According to police, Mrs. Maki was traveling southbound on Beck Road, south of Nine Mile, when she hit the icy spot on the road. She was issued a citation for driving too fast for road conditions.

COURT NEWS

Steven Norman Spangler, a 20-year old New Hudson man, pled guilty to leaving the scene of a personal injury accident before 52nd District Court Judge Martin Boyle Friday.

He was sentenced to 30 days in the Oakland County Jail, fined $100 to be paid over the next six months, and placed on one year's probation. Boyle suspended 23 of the 30 day jail sentence.

The charges stemmed from an accident which occurred in Novi December 21, 1972.

According to police reports, Ronald Adam Tengler, his wife, and their four children were traveling southbound on Novi Road at approximately 4:45 p.m. When their car was opposite the Novi Cemetery between the City Hall and the C&O railroad tracks, it was struck by an orange pickup truck which had been approaching from the opposite direction and spun out of control.

Witnesses told police the pickup truck then fled southbound on Novi Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Tengler and an eight-year old child were taken to Botsford Hospital for treatment as a result of the accident.

The truck was traced through a license plate which had fallen off at the time of impact and was brought to the attention of the police department by one of the witnesses to the accident.

The owner of the truck was notified, Steven Spangler's father, and he came to the police station and called his son, who gave himself up at 6:15 p.m. that day.

Serious Crime Down

Most serious crimes within the City of Northville declined during 1972 when compared with figures for the same offenses in 1971.

In a report issued recently by the Northville City Police Department, assaults decreased from 57 reported during 1971 to 40 reported in 1972.

Last year, police investigated 32 cases of assault and battery, down from 48 which occurred the previous year. However, felonious assaults were up to eight from the six cases reported in 1971.

In crimes against property, two cases of larceny by conversion were reported, down from 10 which took place the previous year; larceny from motor vehicles, 15 compared with 44; bicycle thefts, 28 compared with 30; larceny from a person, five compared with 11; tampering with an auto, 19 compared with 21; and vandalism, 124 compared with 128.

Crimes against property which increased were armed robbery, six compared with none during 1971; attempted larceny, four compared with two; larceny from building, 69 compared with 60; larceny by trick, three compared with none; and possession of stolen property, three compared with one.

One case of arson was reported last year compared with none in 1971.

Concerning auto thefts, two persons were arrested for possession of a stolen auto in 1972, compared with three arrests for the same offense in 1971.

Three cars stolen from inside Northville were recovered in the city, down from 10 recovered during 1971; three cars stolen outside the city were recovered in Northville, up from one during 1971; and three cases of taking an auto without permission but without intent to steal were investigated, compared with seven similar cases in 1971.

Seven incidents of car theft were reported during each time period and one attempted car theft was also reported each year.

Thirty-five burglaries were reported during 1972, up from 27 reported the previous year. Attempted burglaries investigated totaled six compared with eight during 1971; break-ins of occupied dwellings, 18 compared with 24; conspiracy to commit a break-in, one compared with none; break-ins of unoccupied dwellings, 19 compared with one; break-ins of autos, seven compared with four; and burglaries of coin boxes, one compared with none.

Check cases, including writing checks on closed accounts, forgery and insufficient funds, numbered 34 last year, down from 47 cases investigated during 1971.

Police arrested 34 persons for disorderly conduct compared with 35 arrests for the same offense in 1971; drunkenness, 131 compared with 83; drug violations, two during each time period; liquor law violations, one compared with 28; contributing to delinquency of a minor, one compared with five; and child neglect, one compared with three.

Other arrests included narcotic violations, nine compared with 26 arrests in 1971; minors in possession of alcoholic beverages, four compared with 41; curfew violations, two compared with five; weapons violations, five compared with four; carrying a concealed weapon, four compared with two; drunken driving, 43 compared with 61; and possession of an illegal weapon, two compared with one.

In other activity last year, police received a total of 6,063 calls, up from 5,848 received during 1971. Thirty-six walkaways from area institutions were recovered, 12 escapees were recovered, 262 animal complaints were reported, nine missing persons were reported and seven missing persons were recovered.

Traffic Ticket Volume Doubles

City police wrote more than twice the number of tickets last year for hazardous moving violations than they did during 1971.

A report recently issued by the City's traffic division noted that 2,680 moving violations were written, up from 1,295 issued during 1971.

More than half of the violations were for speeding, with 1,564 speeding tickets issued. During 1971, 591 speeding citations were written.

Other violations included improper turn, 393; disobeying traffic signal, 254; disobeying stop sign, 133; failing to yield right of way, improper lane usage, 49 each; following too closely causing an accident, 47; and drunken driving, 44.

Other violations included improper passing, 61; driving without due care, 17; driving the wrong way on a one way street, 10; careless driving, four; reckless driving, two; and all other hazardous violations, 53.

Of those ticketed, 2,384 were found or pled guilty; two were found not guilty; 28, guilty of a lesser charge; and 33, dismissed.

Parking violations totaled 2,146 for last year, down from 2,186 parking tickets issued during 1971.

Non-hazardous violations written last year numbered 921, up from 654 issued the previous year.

Violations included defective equipment, 438; no driver's license on person, 243; no registration on person, 100; improper license plates, 26; excessive noise, 18; fail to identify self at accident, no proof of insurance, eight each; fail to halt for police, three; no helmet on motorcycle, two; and all other non-hazardous violations, 75.

During 1972, police investigated 274 accidents, up from 242 which occurred the previous year.

Of those, 193 occurred in traffic. A total of 128 included two or more vehicles; motor vehicle ran off road, 18; vehicle hit fixed object, 17; vehicle - parked car, 13; vehicle - pedestrian, six; vehicle-motorcycle, vehicle-bicycle, four each; other type accidents, three.

Eleven in-traffic hit and run property damage accidents were investigated, two hit and run accidents involved injuries and 18 occurred in parking lots.

One fatal accident occurred in the city last year, 72 accidents involved some type of injury, 120 involved property damage only and 81 occurred in parking lots.

A total of 113 persons were injured in accidents last year, up from 58 hurt during 1971.

Juvenile Violations Increase Slightly

Cases involving juveniles which were investigated by Northville City Police increased slightly last year when compared with figures for 1971.

A report recently issued by the department's juvenile division noted the largest area of increase was in traffic offenses. A total of 53 juveniles were cited for traffic offenses, up from 34 involved during 1971.

Police investigated a total of 141 juvenile related cases last year, up from 126 reported the previous year.

Other cases included minors in possession of alcoholic beverages, eight compared with three in 1971; violation of liquor laws, six compared with two; curfew and loitering, one compared with seven; and disorderly conduct, four during each year.

Three juvenile cases involved narcotic and drug law violations, up from two cases during 1971; sex offenses, two compared with one; weapons violations, two compared with three; vandalism, eight compared with 10; possession of stolen property, three compared with two; and burglaries and break-ins, five compared with two.

Two robbery cases involved juveniles during 1972, up from no cases during 1971; larcenies, 17 compared with 24; assault and battery, six compared with seven; felonious assault, one compared with none; runaways, 12 compared with 16; and all other types of offenses, 22 compared with 11. Police handled a total of 122 juveniles through the local department while 68 were referred to juvenile court.

Property Tax Legal

Court Rules State Aid Formula Inequitable

Northville School Superintendent Raymond Spear expressed concern this week that the general public feels the property tax has been ruled illegal. Spear said many people "have the misconception that the state supreme court said the property tax is illegal and unconstitutional."

"The court ruled the state aid act was unconstitutional due to inequities created between school districts," he emphasized.

Spear pointed out that the court has stated the "property tax may continue as long as the state legislature develops an equitable state aid bill with the method of equalization left to the legislature."

Earl Busard, director of business and finance for Northville schools, said a proposed three-year state aid bill is currently awaiting action by the state senate.

The bill would re-orient the state aid allowance to equalize the amount of state funds granted to a school district based on local tax effort.

Each school district would have to assess a minimum of 20 mills for operation, Busard explained, with the state aid act guaranteeing $38,000 tax valuation, or $38 per mill up to 22 mills, per pupil for each school district.

Any extra millage voted in a district could be used in any way a district sees fit, he stated.

"In order to guarantee the millage rate in those districts that do not vote at least 20 mills for operation," Busard noted, "the bill would allow a school district to impose an income tax against both individuals and businesses to make up the difference. The tax would be two-tenths of one percent for each mill of difference."

Busard said that while the bill is not in its final form, he is looking for passage of the state act "sometime in March."

"If it is passed at that time for a three-year period, districts will know in advance of budget time what the state aid formula will be."

In past years, state aid formulas have not been agreed upon until late in the summer, making it difficult for a school district to adopt a budget, not knowing exactly what revenues it would be receiving.

Wood stains are fun to use but one must be careful! No matter what color you choose, the exact shade of finish you obtain depends entirely on you. Stain should be applied with a brush and wiped with a soft cloth. The more stain applied and the longer it is allowed to stay on the wood, the deeper the shade of stain will be. Always use a nearly dry brush as stains which spatter are often impossible to remove from nearby surfaces. With care, your finished object can be truly your creation!

NORTHVILLE LUMBER CO., 615 E. Baseline, 349-0220 has a complete selection of wood stains by Olympic and Minwax. We also feature Dupont paints, Dacor brick and stone, decorator cork, a complete line of U. S. Plywood pre-finished shelves, and wallpaper by Sanitas and Fisher. Delivery Service. Master Charge honored. Open: 8-6, Mon-Fri; 8-2, Sat.

HELPFUL HINT: Paint is good on exterior surfaces, but never paint when a good wash-down is all that is needed.

POLICE REPORT: The November Police Report was placed on file.

COMMUNICATIONS: City Manager requested that Councilmen inform Clerk if they are able to attend Michigan Municipal League Meeting, January 18, 1973. Mayor Allen, Phil Ogilvie, and Paul Fohno stated that they would like to attend the meeting. Letter from M. Raymond E. Spear thanking Mr. Folkers, Oakland County road commission, City Council and City Manager for their support in the installation of the cyclone fence on Novi Rd. south of Allen Dr. in Northville. City Manager explained payments made by Building Authority on the parking deck and $851.74 held back for finished work by the City on the deck.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM CITIZENS: Wallace Nichols, Chairman of VFW Committee, explained that the VFW is selling tickets for a dinner dance to be held February 8, 1973 for the benefit of the Northville Historical Society. He requests that Council declare the week of February 1, 1973 through February 8, 1973 Historical Restoration Week. Ray Spear, Superintendent of Northville Public Schools, will be holding an Art and Essay contest, and Mr. Nichols requests the City donate $100.00 for prizes in the contest.

Mayor Allen, Councilman Rathert, and Councilman Fohno expressed favor to this project as it will arouse interest in young people as well as old in the history of Northville.

Motion by Councilman Rathert, support by Councilman Vernon to recognize the week of February 1, 1973 through February 8, 1973 as Historical Restoration Week and to donate a sum of $100.00 for prizes in the Art and Essay contest.

Unanimously accepted.
REZONE APPEAL - 8 MILE RD - City Manager stated that the persons requesting this rezoning were unable to make the meeting, and at their request, this item will be postponed until January 15, 1973 Council Meeting.
RANDOLPH DRAIN REPORT: City Manager explained with the aid of survey map there were two basic alternatives presented from the Inter-County Drainage Board and Engineering Consultants (Johnson & Anderson): 1. Channelization Flood Plain Easements. City Manager noted that property owners found neither proposal acceptable, but Council believes improvement on the Randolph Drain is an absolute necessity.

Mr. Paul Stencken, 562 Randolph, Don. Jones, Northville Plan Commission, and Harvey Smith, 312 Randolph expressed their views on each of these alternatives.

Motion by Councilman Rathert, support by Councilman Vernon to instruct City Attorney to prepare a resolution supporting Flood Plain Easement Plan for review at the Council Meeting January 15, 1973 and notify the people in the Randolph Drain area by mail.

Unanimously accepted.
PROPERTY PURCHASE'S A. NO. 39: City Manager stated that property on S. Center St. will be negotiated with owners at a later date. Mrs. Lothamer's property on S. wing will be negotiated when she returns from Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Bongiovanni believe that appraisal price on their time was far below value, and are willing to go through condemnation procedures to obtain a better price. City Attorney was instructed to construct the proper Condemnation Resolution for the January 15, 1973 Council Meeting.
1971 NATIONAL ELECTRICAL

CODE & SUPPLEMENT Motion by Councilman Rathert support by Councilman Biery to set a public hearing for February 5, 1973 to adopt 1971 National Electrical Code and Supplement.

Unanimously accepted.
SANITARY SEWAGE DAMAGE: City Manager stated that the City usually takes the responsibility for part of the cost for damages that are a result of sanitary sewage back-up in basements. This problem was not caused by inadequate sewer but a pure and simple loss.

Motion by Councilman Biery, support by Councilman Fohno for payment of $66.00 for Mr. Smith, $50.00 for Mr. Cogo, and $167.00 for Mr. Lawther for damages to their property as a result of sanitary sewer back-up.

Unanimously accepted.
There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 9:45 p.m.
Respectfully submitted,

"Bringing new gas to you—naturally"

The responsibility for delivering natural gas to you belongs to Consumers Power Company. And along with that responsibility, Consumers Power also has a responsibility to the environment.

Both obligations have been accepted.

Near Kalkaska, in northern Michigan, a major gas discovery was made. It will play a big part in making sure you have the gas you need, when and where you need it.

But here, in the exploration area, there are no drilling rigs. They were removed months ago. You won't see any pipeline either. It's buried underground. It also goes beneath streams, so the water can flow along without interruption. And the right-of-way jogs around large wooded areas, as recommended by the Department of Natural Resources.

Consumers Power thinks it's worth the effort. For the north country, and for the people of Michigan.

Record Set at Downs

Boosted by a record Saturday night crowd of 5,478 that wagered a meet record $412,011, Jackson's action at Northville Downs has reached an amazing $285,500 nightly average. The 24-night meet, which concludes January 27, but which is followed immediately by John Carlo's winter meet that extends through mid-March, appears a cinch to register one of the top increases in the nation.

"Good weather, the consistently good racing surface, and close, competitive racing account for the great upswing," Leon A. Slavin, pioneer of late fall and early winter racing in metropolitan Detroit, said Tuesday.

Bedford Jet, owned by Ed Weber, Walled Lake, and driven by Northville's Gordon Norris, captured the feature race Saturday night in a sensational 2:04 and 2-5 time, fastest mile of the winter meet. Norris shot Bedford Jet quickly to the front, and the stakes caliber competitor remained in absolute command throughout.

Another of the fall meet favorites, Mystic Boy made its 1973 debut in the Friday night feature and started the new year in the same place it finished the old year, in the winners circle.

Ask State Control Of Jail

While it continues to evaluate County jail needs and explore various means of financing, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners is keeping the Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo) under consideration, said Board Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick.

He and other commissioners met with the Detroit Common Council and other city and state officials to discuss the future of DeHoCo as a detention facility.

John Dempsey representing the Governor, said Milliken and the State Department of Corrections are urging state control of the women's division of DeHoCo located in Northville township, are making preliminary plans to assume that responsibility July 1.

Milliken's upcoming budget will provide for the expense of owning and operating the women's division after July 1, said Dempsey.

Accordingly, Common Council indicated that its budget plan would exclude the women's division after July 1.

Noting that the change of ownership would require legislative approval, State Representative William Brodhead said he will introduce legislation to that effect.

"I will push the project as hard as I can, and make every effort to assure its success," he said.

Both he and Dempsey are confident the measure will pass, mainly because of support from the Department of Corrections.

DeHoCo Superintendent John Amberg said that more recent studies contradict previous research which indicated that it would be impractical to renovate DeHoCo into a modern institution.

In response to a Detroit council request that the county consider purchasing the remaining portion of DeHoCo, FitzPatrick said the DeHoCo's men's division is still under consideration along with possible construction of new facilities on sites located in downtown Detroit or western Wayne County.

Although the Board of Commissioners is on record since July, 1971, to build a new jail, a construction millage proposal placed on the ballot by the commissioners was defeated by voters last November.

As a result, the commissioners have established a special committee to further evaluate need and financing. The committee is expected to report sometime this month. FitzPatrick promised Detroit councilmen that the commissioners in the meantime will review the rate of compensation due the City for housing County prisoners at DeHoCo.

Iceemen Win, Lose, Draw

Northville hockey teams had a mediocre week as they won one game tied another, and lost a third.

The Thomson Sand and Gravel-sponsored squad in the Squirt A division let Plymouth get off to a 1-0 lead, but then came back strong in the final period to record a 3-1 victory.

Scott Brayton, assisted by Phil LeAnnais and Steve Wright, knotted the score at 1-1, but the hero of the game was Steve Stuart who scored twice in the final period while Northville was short-handed to provide the margin of victory. Tim Hoult picked up an assist on Stuart's second goal.

After fighting to a 4-4 tie with Plymouth Friday, Northville's John Mack Ford-sponsored Bantam squad suffered a 2-1 setback to Northwest the following day.

The lead exchanged hands four times as the Northville Bantams battled to a 4-4 tie with Plymouth. Rudy Horst, Gary Winemaster, Brett Howard, and Mike Schaeffer were the Northville goal-scorers in that contest. Schaeffer and Horst added a pair of assists.

After surrendering a first period goal to Northwest in Saturday's contest, the local skaters came back to knot the score at 1-1 when Kirk Mack slipped the puck past the goalie with six minutes left in the final period.

Unfortunately, Northwest regained their lead with a second goal a little more than two minutes later and held on for the 2-1 victory.

REQUEST FOR BIDS

The Township of Northville will receive sealed bids for ten (10) used Shop Vending Machines until 5:00 p.m. Wednesday, January 24, 1973, at the office of the Clerk, 301 W. Main, Northville, Michigan 48167. Envelopes should be plainly marked "Bids for Vending Machines." Machines are to be in new condition for a cost not to exceed $750.00 plus shipping. If machines are not equipped with Selective Primary operation according to Michigan law, an additional charge for installation will be allowed not to exceed $75.00.

Burglary, Narcotic Crime Decline Cited in Wixom

Although crime was up in Wixom in most categories during 1972, major decreases were seen in at least two areas and lauded by Police Chief George VonBehren as being "significant."

The First Annual Consolidated Police Report for the city, presented to the city council by VonBehren, showed that burglary offenses dropped 11 per cent and narcotic charges 27 per cent.

Calling the reduction in burglaries, "the most significant," VonBehren attributed it to the institution of the Wixom Identification Program—W.I.P.—which was begun in the city during February of last year.

"Most communities in Oakland County are up in burglaries at least 40 per cent and we are down. I believe in W.I.P. We have also been able to return objects to people because they have been engraved with a name or a driver's license number," VonBehren said.

Mayor Gilbert C. Willis also praised the program. "I am in accordance with the Chief's feeling that the program be continued," he said. "The community is still small enough so that it is possible for us to get the maximum in coverage."

The decrease in narcotic offenses was termed "commendable" by councilman Fred Moorhead. VonBehren said the change from 11 offenses in 1971 to three last year was "mainly due to the work we've been able to do with the youth in the community." He said that the police department has been able to council youngsters and refer them to other counseling services when they need help.

An increase was seen in the reported cases of driving under the influence of liquor. VonBehren explained that the increase from 10 to 34 was "because the officers are looking for them now."

The annual police report showed that there were 109 larceny offenses, an increase of seven from the 1971 figure. Auto thefts doubled from 13 to 26.

Reported vandalism cases rose to 62 in 1972. The 1971 figure was 54. An increase of three drunk and disorderly charges hiked the 1972 figure to 16 offenses.

Traffic accident reports jumped from 139 in the previous year to 162 in 1972. While little change took place in property damage reports, personal injury accidents climbed about 58 per cent in 1972. No traffic fatalities took place in 1972. The year 1971 saw two fatalities in traffic accidents.

Traffic enforcement took a significant jump in 1972 rising to a total of 852 violations from the 673 enforced in the preceding year. There were decreases in hazardous driving (from 421 to 395) and in other traffic violations (from 105 to 102). The parking violations ticketed more than doubled from 137 in 1971 to the 1972 total of 321.

In total, the number of calls for the services of the Wixom police department reached 2,244 last year. Records in that area were not kept for the previous year.

Novi Girls Win Two

Novi's varsity and junior varsity girls' basketball teams kicked off their eight-game season last week with victories over Milford.

The local varsity quintet posted an easy 42-33 triumph, while the Jayvee five defeated Milford, 15-11.

Novi was scheduled to host Brighton here this week, and next Monday evening the local teams will travel to Milford for another battle.

Starters for the two Novi teams include:

Varsity—Lari Neutz, Mary Cardell, Geanne Dinser, Janet Cook, and Carol Poyhonen.
Varsity—Denise DeBrule, Nancy Pisha, Nancy Brzezniak, Carol Maki, and Carol Padgett.

Cristine Haward is coach of both teams, and Pam Linton is the manager.

Sewer District Established

Wayne County Department of Health at the request of the township board indicated that approximately 10 percent of the total subdivision is experiencing sewage disposal problems.

The department of health also stated that the problems do present a health hazard

In a related matter, trustees conducted a public hearing on establishing special assessment districts for installation of water and sewer to property owned by C. Thomas Sechler on Seven Mile Road near Maxwell.

Installation of an eight-inch sewer line is estimated to cost $16,000 with 560 feet of assessable frontage. Water installation costs are estimated at $10,400 for a 12-inch main with 414 feet of assessable frontage.

Only objection came from A. A. Amos who owns property at 41400 Seven Mile Road.

Amos stated he was not interested in sewers at present and stated lot line stakes, driveway and evergreen trees were damaged when water lines were installed in 1971.

Trustees agreed to replace the stakes and study whose responsibility it is to repair the other damage.

'Independence' Key To Consulting Job

By BILL SLIGER

Citizens of Northville township should view with alarm the appointment by the township board of trustees of a new auditor.

The qualifications or abilities of the appointee are not questioned here, although it is disturbing to note that in filling such an important position the board considered but a single name and that without requesting a resumé.

The most irritating ingredient in the abrupt action taken by the board is the fact that the appointment smacks of political favoritism.

It introduces the hint of a practice that (thankfully) has been foreign to local government in Northville throughout the city, township and school district.

Professional consultants (attorneys, engineers, auditors, planners) have been selected solely on the basis of their abilities with no regard for their political persuasion.

Complete independence is essential to the effectiveness of a professional consultant. Even the suggestion of bias reduces the validity of his recommendations.

There are other factors surrounding the appointment that are disconcerting.

Four members of the seven-member body have stated they did not know that a change was being contemplated.

No effort was made to contact other qualified certified public accounting firms, despite the fact that at least two such firms have had local offices for a longer time than the appointee.

The treasurer, who may work more closely with the auditor than any other board member, was not consulted on the change and, in fact, voted to retain the present auditing firm.

The selected auditor has politically associated himself with those who proposed his name and gave him strongest support. And he has been an active opponent of the unification question currently under consideration.

Small wonder some board members now reflect upon the appointment as a "political payoff".

It is enlightening to learn that the firm of Icerman, Hoffman and Johnson, which has audited books for Northville township for 20 years, had suggested several months ago that the township might wish to seek another auditor.

A partner in the firm revealed this week that when the question of unification between the city and township was officially introduced, he proposed to the township's ex-supervisor that the township might wish to change auditors.

Icerman, Hoffman and Johnson also audit the city's finances.

"Complete independence is the most important attribute for an auditor. Because of the possibility of a conflict, it was suggested to the supervisor that we could be relieved of our job with the township", the firm's spokesman stated.

He quoted the first rule of the Code of Ethics of the Michigan State Board of Accountancy:

"Neither a member or associate nor firm of which he is a partner shall express an opinion on financial statements of any enterprise unless he and his firm are in fact independent with respect to such enterprise."

He noted that an auditor cannot own "one share of stock" in a company he is auditing.

It would be naive to believe that an auditor cannot provide advice in the use and assignment of finances that might favor any particular project a company, or governmental unit, might wish to pursue.

This is not to suggest that an auditor would reveal such avenues (unless asked), when such decisions properly belong to management, or political authority.

It is merely to point out that such suspicion should not exist.

In the final analysis, perhaps the most surprising aspect in the confusing aftermath of the board's appointment is the fact that under the prevailing circumstances the appointee would accept the position.

Assessment Tests in Schools

DR. EDWIN GRAY

VALID . . .

The Michigan Educational Assessment Program, administered each January to the state's fourth and seventh grade students, is an essential part of the State Board of Education's accountability system. The accountability system is an attempt to encourage educators to clearly state their educational goals, identify learner "needs" or deficiencies, plan alternate teaching methods if needed, and evaluate these new methods. The Assessment Program helps identify the learner "needs."

Educators often make decisions based on information which may be wrong, highly subjective, or have little basis in fact. The Assessment Program is seen as a tool which encourages educators to make decisions based on objective data about their schools and students.

The Assessment Program does not reveal which districts are efficient or doing a "good" job for it was not intended to do this. It does accurately identify those districts which have large numbers of students with academic deficiencies. The cause of the deficiencies is not easily found, and the local district must assume the responsibility of attempting to find the answers.

The Assessment Program is not perfect, and it is being continuously improved to better serve the citizens and educators of Michigan. Advice and information from concerned people regarding the program is always welcome.

Robert J. Huser, Supervisor
Assessment Program
Department of Education

INVALID . . .

The State Assessment Tests were designed to provide information to the Michigan Department of Education and the State Legislature regarding student achievements in grades 4 and 7 in the public schools in Michigan.

This program is achieving this purpose on a state wide basis. The local school districts however do not receive specific itemized analysis of the student's strengths and weaknesses in the tests administered, therefore we cannot state with strong conviction that state assessing is a valid measurement of the individual's achievement or that the district wide test results reflect the true achievements of the students in the school district.

In the future the state will provide detailed information about the individual student's test results which will be compared to our own testing programs.

From this we may then affirm or question the validity of the State Assessment program.

Praise Local Merchants

To the Editor:

While reading through "The Record" last month I noticed an article discussing the support of our local shops. I certainly feel it is the responsibility of all people of the area to patronize our local businesses whenever possible. We, the public, often do nothing to promote our own areas. We are fortunate to have such fine shopping facilities in our City.

I would like to "plug" another local business; our theater. Where else can one be treated more courteously and conscientiously than by the young people and management of this fine theater. We enjoy viewing a weekly movie where we're not one of the Crowd, and where we don't have to travel miles to and from - not to mention the fact admission fee is also half the price of other area theaters.

Once again, if you care about our local businesses, pay a visit to a friendly, clean theater. Businesses can only operate well if patronized regularly.

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

A newspaperman for more than a half-century, Eddie Edgar, roving editor of the neighboring Observer Newspaper chain, is a gold mine of anecdotes having to do with the sports world.

But none are more fascinating than his stories about Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion of the world.

It was Eddie who "discovered" the champ, played a role in naming him the "Brown Bomber," and who served as Louis' confidant throughout his professional career. He was present for all of Louis' professional fights.

Former sports editor of The Detroit Free Press, Eddie was a sports staffer supervising the Golden Gloves program for the newspaper when in 1932 an 18-year-old boy came to him and asked where he could join the 'Gloves.

"I asked him, 'Are you a fighter?', and Joe replied, 'No, but I hope to be.' I told him to put up his hands like a fighter, so he puts them up like this and I told him he'd never make a fighter that way."

Because Louis could neither read nor write at that time, Eddie had to fill out the Golden Gloves application and sign his name for him.

From that day to this he has been one of the champ's closest friends.

Because of this close relationship, Eddie became the envy of sports writers throughout the nation. He had the "inside" color stories for every one of Louis' fights because the day before each championship bout, the champ's manager turned the fighter over to Eddie "to take him off to some quiet place and calm him down."

It was during these day-before periods that Eddie learned most about the champ, who recently returned to his native Detroit from his home in Las Vegas to referee a professional championship wrestling match.

"He would tell me what round he would knock out his opponent," says Eddie. "And he missed only once—his first Max Schmeling fight."

"I remember we were driving through the New Jersey countryside when I asked him, 'what round?' But all he would say was, 'I'll do my best.'"

"That's when I tried becoming a handicapper for the first and last time in my life. When I sat down to write my story for the Free Press, I wrote that if Mrs. Louis wanted to go to the movie that night he'd knock out Schmeling early; if she didn't the knockout would come late."

Louis lost the fight.

There's an ironic twist to Eddie's effort at handicapping. Prior to the fight, he had a long interview with Schmeling, and he gave the writer a blow by blow description of what he'd do to Louis. Had Eddie listened to Schmeling he could have come away a hero because "it happened just the way he said it would," recalls Eddie, who preferred to "stick with my boy."

Antigua (pronounced An-tee-ga) is just four hours by air from Toronto, but in temperature measurement it's 70 degrees warmer than the 15-above that greeted our return Friday.

Thanks to the year-round-school schedule that gave my teaching-wife a mid-January break combined with a leave from the Coast Guard for our son, three of us were able to enjoy a week of sun, swimming and golf at this beautiful West Indies' island in the Caribbean.

(Our sophomore daughter is "struggling" through a special January session at Denison University that includes camping in the swamps of Florida and scuba diving in the Keys in its curriculum).

This is the third time we have taken a winter vacation and each time we have visited an island. If it's guaranteed warm weather you seek because your vacation time is limited, you find it in these small Caribbean islands.

If you're looking for nightlife, forget Antigua. It's limited. There's one casino on the island and most hotels have some sort of entertainment nightly (usually a steel band), but it's not the swinging scene that I'm told you can find at Puerto Rico or Jamaica.

But if clear skies and a rippling ocean that come in about four different colors of pure blue outlined by miles of uncluttered, isolated sandy beaches appeal to you, then Antigua's your island.

Top of Deck

Navin Field (Tiger Stadium) had special significance locally, remembers Eddie.

"John Hettche, the boxing commissioner, lived in Northville at the time and he wanted Louis to defend his championship in Detroit.

"That's why Joe did all his training for the fight at the fairgrounds in Northville. Hettche found him a place to live on the Joseph Schlacks estate at Newburg and Eight Mile roads, where the golf course is now.

"His exhibition bouts and floor work took place there in the infield of the race track and drew big crowds to Northville, with people clamoring to see the champ.

"Incidentally, Pastor did his training over in Brighton."

Eddie refuses to take sole credit for giving Louis the "Brown Bomber" moniker. "It was really the whole Free Press sports staff," he says. "In those days the Free Press had quite a reputation for its nicknames. Did you know that they named the ballclub the 'Tigers'? And 'Titans' for U of D?

"One of their best was the 'Battalion of Death' given the Tiger infield back in 1934."

"Brown Bomber was a natural for Joe because he had that terrific knockout punch."

Although Joe could communicate easily with sports writers and announcers later in his career, that wasn't the case when he first came to prominence, says Eddie.

Even though his trainers could hone him to a razor's edge, they couldn't do much for his speech. They worried about what he might say over radio.

So they went to Eddie and asked him to write a speech for Louis, insisting that it be very short. "I did my best and came back and said, 'I've got Joe's speech ready. Is four words too long?'"

Joe studied the speech long and seriously, and for years after whenever someone stuck a radio mike in his face following a fight—no matter how it had gone—his comment was always the same, "Just another lucky night."

"Louis," says Eddie, "is one of the finest men I've known. A very gentle person."

He was a paradox—a gentle man outside the ring, a savage inside.

One of the least publicized stories pointing up this paradox, says the Observer editor, occurred in 1935 when in a period of less than six hours Joe turned from being "a sweet, gentle romanticist to the most vicious guy imaginable."

"On his way from the hotel to Yankee Stadium to meet Max Baer, he stopped off at a church...and was married. Following the wedding, he and his bride hurried out to the stadium where the champ proceeded to give Baer a savage beating, knocking him out in the fifth round."

Romanticist one moment, savage another, Joe Louis left the excitement and savagery of the fight behind and quickly went off on his honeymoon.

Louis for a television program when this picture was snapped last year. See Top of Deck for story about these two colorful personalities.

Wayne Wins Mat Tourney

Powerful Wayne Memorial walked off with the championship as some 384 wrestlers from 32 teams competed in the third annual Schoolcraft College High School Invitational Wrestling Tournament last weekend.

Wayne Memorial piled up 100 points to beat out second-place Farmington High School, which had 91 points. Thurston was third with 83, Trenton fourth with 75, and Redford Union, the defending champion, finished fifth with 61 points.

South Lyon was a surprisingly-high ninth with 45 points, while Novi High School, the only other local team in the tourney, took thirty-first place with three points.

"It was an outstanding tournament," reported Marvin Gans, Schoolcraft College's Director of Athletics. "There were no serious injuries and the competition was excellent."

rely heavily on recommendations from outside consultants, Seymour noted that this evaluation for the North Central Association depends on the competencies of the local staff to analyze its own programs and make recommendations for their improvement.

The North Central study-team will arrive when the local study has been completed and will discuss the findings with the teachers and help them explore ways of improving the school.

Each school evaluation for the North Central Association is an attempt to determine how well the school is accomplishing objectives it has set for itself.

During the course of the evaluation, Seymour pointed out, the views of students and parents will be added to those of the teachers.

The school will be conducting follow-up surveys of its graduates, analyzing community resources, assessing the occupational intentions of seniors, and determining the curricular areas that are representative of better practice.

The North Central Association currently accredits 3,900 schools within its 19-state region. According to Seymour this figure represents approximately 45 percent of the total number of secondary schools in the region.

"There are many schools," he said, "which are unable to meet the standards for membership."

The members of the team that will evaluate Novi's self-study will be appointed by G. Sutherland Hayden, chairman of the North Central Association's State Committee.

Who's Infringing?

To the Editor:
In regard to the statement made in January 11th paper about the girls' tennis team being unable to use the courts, I'd like to remind the writer that that particular instance took place in the spring. It actually had nothing to do with sportsmanship or coaching. The girls' team competes in the fall and the boys' team competes in the spring. Therefore, I feel, that the boys should have the courts to practice on in the spring as they do not infringe upon the girls right to use the courts in the fall. If either team is to do their best they must have full co-operation from the other.

Sincerely,

We stayed at the Half Moon Bay hotel. It was recommended by Fred Kerr, a Northville resident and former chemist for West Indies Oil. He once worked and lived on the island.

Half Moon is on the southeast side of the island and enjoys the ocean breezes that are cooling during the day and make sleeping at night comfortable.

The 108-square-mile island has a population of 70,000. St. John's is the island's only city (there are many villages) and it has a population of 25,000.

In addition to its ideal climate Antigua is green and fertile. Its crops include sugar, cotton, vegetables and grazing land for cattle, sheep and goats.

It's unlikely that the Half Moon Bay area of Antigua will change much. The hotel is owned by an American firm called HMB Holdings. One of the shareholders is Clark George, a former Hoosier who is the manager director of the hotel and lives high atop a hill overlooking the beach and bay.

Hidden in the green hills next to the hotel is the exclusive Mill Reef club where the Mellon family (industrialists, financiers) and others of the affluent society maintain island homes. Mellon is one of the shareholders in HMB and likewise devoted to maintaining the Half Moon Bay area of Antigua in its natural state.

I'm sure I spotted Mrs. Mellon near the beach one day reading "Kissinger".

And as luck would have it, we left our lunch table at the hotel just minutes before Mrs. Mellon and her houseguest, Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, sat down at the adjoining table.

I tried my hand at snorkeling and found the fish and coral fascinating. But my typing (index) finger still contains a number of sea-urchin splinters that refuse to come out despite trying a series of native remedies (fire, hot wax, etc.).

My advice: if you're over forty, don't try to match strokes with a 25-year-old Tarzan-type. Taking a breather on a reef is how I picked up the splinters. (A native told me it could have been worse. The last over-zealous guest sat on a sea urchin).

Getting away was great, especially at an island as lovely and unspoiled as Antigua.

But getting back is great, too. My thanks to Township Supervisor Lawrence Wright for writing in this space last week. His comments on the transition from the private to public sector reveal a keen insight that should help him as he progresses in his first term of office.

Novi Stops Dundee for 2nd SEC Win

Buzzer sounding two-point bombs closing out the first and second quarters proved to be vital to Novi's 66-63 victory over last-place Dundee here Friday.

It was John Pantalone who fired one of those "long, desperation football passes" as the first quarter ended and Steve Lukkari launched one at the intermission.

As Dundee's Coach Bob Johnson left for the lockerroom at the half, he turned to Novi's Coach Milan Obrenovich and with a grin asked, "You're not going to take those two baskets, are you?"

"I'll tell you what," replied Obrenovich, "if we don't need 'em at the end I'll give them back."

When the game ended, Johnson, whose team was playing its final game in Novi (Dundee is leaving the Southeastern Conference), conceded, "No use asking for those baskets, you needed them."

And indeed he did. After blazing the trail, the Wildcats found themselves scrapping desperately to retain their lead as the game ended. With just 1:24 to play, Dundee was a point back, 62-61, after trailing by wide margins much of the game.

Then with just 60 seconds to go, Rich Goethe stepped to the free throw line for Dundee for what could have been a decisive point. But his shot missed.

Dundee had another chance seconds later in a jump ball situation, but Novi got possession and Keith Schmidt fouled Pantalone, who popped two points at the 35-second mark making it 64-61.

Eric Hansor stretched the lead to four points with a shot from the floor, and then Schmidt closed out the quarter with a futile two-pointer.

The Wildcats led 22-16 with the close of the first quarter, 42-36 at the intermission, and 52-47 at the three-quarter mark.

At one point Novi led by 12 points, and early in the second half Obrenovich sent in his second stringers before yanking them when Dundee started bouncing back.

Both teams played a slow brand of ball. Late in the game, Novi tried drawing out Dundee's zone defense but failed to move the ball properly to make it work, according to Obrenovich.

The Wildcats, who had not practiced since its Tuesday defeat at the hands of Northville (coach: "I hoped the change might change their luck") turned in a hot first half shooting performance from the floor. They hit on 48-percent of their shots, while Dundee managed 39-percent.

In the second half, both teams managed just 10 of their 26 shots from the floor.

Surprisingly, Novi's performance at the free throw line looked good although the local quintet didn't have many opportunities. They converted six of their 10 attempts.

Dundee, on the other hand, converted nine of its 17 shots.

Fortunately for Novi, Dundee's Mark Schultz, who flipped in five field goals in the first half, fouled out of the game early in the third quarter. He was the leading Dundee player in the first two stanzas.

Leading the way for the Wildcats was Jim VanWagner, who picked up seven field goals in the first half and then added seven more points in the second half for a total of 21 points. Teammates Pat Boyer and Pantalone were runners up in the scoring column with 13 apiece.

Steve Brehmer took scoring laurels for Dundee with 14 points, while Goethe left the floor with 13 and Schmidt with 12.

LOOSE BALL—Novi's Eric Hansor (24) is in hot pursuit and Pat Boyer (44) has his opponent blocked out, but it's the Dundee player who has the inside track to the loose ball in action in Friday night's game. After spurting off to a quick start, the Wildcats held off a late Dundee rally to win their second SEC game of the season.

Mustang Matmen Lose Two

It was a trying week for Ed McCloud.

The ex-Michigan State grinner watched forlornly as his Northville High School wrestling team dropped decisions to Willow Run and Waterford Mott and had their season's record fall back to the 500 mark with three wins in six outings.

"It's frustrating," said McCloud. "It's really frustrating. If I could handpick 12 kids out of this high school, we could be strong in every weight class. I mean we could really have a tough wrestling team. As it is the Mustangs have to struggle along with a limited number of performers and hope their talent in the lighter weight classes will produce enough points to overcome their lack of talent in the heavier weight classes. "We can put a wrestler in just about every weight class," admitted McCloud, "but we have to cheat ourselves to do it. We've got Joe Assemany at 159 and he's wrestling 10 pounds over his weight and we've got Tim Stigel at 169 and he's in 10 to 15 pounds over his weight. It's hard to spot your opponent that many pounds and still come out on top." Last week was a particularly bad one for the Mustangs as their already thin squad was depleted even further with injuries. Malcolm Dedes, a tough little 114-pounder, was on the sidelines with a shoulder injury. Mark Okopny, an equally tough 128-pounder, was nursing a knee injury, and Mike Corcoran, a stalwart at 132 pounds, was home with the flu.

Tuesday the Mustangs dropped a 30-24 decision to Willow Run.

"It was simply a matter of having to give them 12 points," reported the Mustang mentor. "Take away the 12 points we forfeited to them and they only earned 18 points against us."

Decisions by Jack Barger at 100, Dan Fialon at 121, and Dave Houck at 128 tied the Mustangs with Willow Run after the first five matches in spite of having to forfeit six points in the 114 pound division.

Wally Armstrong, a gutsy sophomore wrestling 14 pounds over his normal weight at 134, dropped an 8-2 decision, but Steve Barger put Northville ahead by pinning his opponent in the 140 pound weight class and captain Bill Norton upped the Mustang lead to 18-12 by recording a 5-1 decision over his opponent in the 147 pound class.

But the Mustangs didn't score again until Stig Berggren recorded a pin in the heavyweight battle and in between Willow Run picked up 18 straight points with pins at 157 and 169 and a forfeit at 187.

The disparity between Northville strength in the lower weights and upper weights was readily apparent in the Mustangs' 45-17 loss to Waterford Mott Thursday.

"After six matches we were ahead 17-12," McCloud reported, "but they outscored us 33-0 in the last six events. They only scored 12 points off our first six wrestlers even with Dedes, Okopny, and Corcoran missing, but we didn't score a single point after the 128 pound match."

Jack Barger and Dan Fialon were the leading reasons for Northville's early lead as they each recorded pins over their opponents in the 100 and 121 pound divisions respectively. "Greg Peito wrestled to a draw in the 107 pound match and Dave Houck finished up the Mustang scoring by taking an 8-2 decision from George Potter in the 128 pound weight class.

McCloud saved several words of praise for some of his junior varsity wrestlers. "I've been impressed with several of our freshmen," stated the Mustang mentor. "Steve Havala, Brent Ashby, and Mark Hunsinger, in particular, and there are a couple of others, have really shown a great deal of improvement."

SPORTS Go- Round

By Bob Moore

Figure skating is done on curved blades which is one reason that the sport is known to almost everyone as an art form as well as a great way to exercise. But even if you are an ordinary skater, you belong to a great history of skating, which dates back at least as far as the middle ages in colder climates. One of the charms of skating, whatever your age or athletic prowess, is that you can make it as strenuous as you like. You can skate for speed, for accuracy of form, or for pure enjoyment. And if the last is your objective, you'll probably find it—no matter what type of skate you wear!

Did you know that MOORE'S MOTOR SPORT INC., 21001 Pontiac Trail, So. Lyon, 437-2688, carries a complete line of jackets, helmets, gloves, etc? ## Wildcat Wildcat of the Week honors go to John Pantalone. The six-foot senior forward on the Novi basketball team is the Wildcats' leading scorer, averaging close to 20 points per game. "He's the best pure shooter on the team," states Coach Milan Obrenovich. "He leads the team in both free throw percentage and field goal percentage." Pantalone hit his season's high last week when he tossed in 27 points against Northville.

Tankers' Streak Ends at 29

Harrison Hands Northville First Loss Since 1970

It's over. Northville High School's record of 29 consecutive victories in swimming - a record that extended back to February of 1970 - came to a sudden and abrupt end Thursday night as Farmington Harrison squeezed out a 48-47 victory in the Mustangs' pool.

As predicted by Ben Lauber, the Northville coach, the meet was decided in the final event - the 400 yard freestyle relay.

After the first 10 events the Mustangs had built up a 47-41 lead. One more point would have clinched a tie; two more points - a victory. But with seven big points riding on the outcome of the freestyle relay, it was obvious that the winner of the relay was going to be the winner of the meet. John Pacific in the first 100 yards and Don Cook in the second matched their Harrison opponents stroke for stroke. Then, on the third leg, Harrison's Gregg Arnoldy opened up a slight lead on the Mustangs' Bill Witek. As the two swimmers hit the final turn and started churning through their final 25 yards, Mike Rado, the powerful ace of the Harrison team, turned to Kevin Kelly, the Northville anchor man, and squeezed his arm.

"Here we go again," said Rado. "Here we go again."

And then the two swimmers were off. Rado extended the lead given him by Arnoldy and Harrison had given Northville its first defeat in three years.

Northville's freestyle relay time of 3:34.4 was almost two seconds faster than the old pool record of 3:36.1, but Harrison's time of 3:33.0 shaved a full three seconds off the previous mark.

The next day Lauber and his swimmers were back at work.

"You know," said Lauber, almost cheerfully, "it didn't hurt as much as I thought it would. We swam what I felt was a really fine meet. You can accept defeat better knowing you've done a really, good job trying to prevent it."

"I went into our locker room after the game and all our kids were down, but everyone was walking around congratulating each other on his personal performance," Lauber continued. "What more can you ask of your team than that each individual on it did his best. If you have to lose, do it by performing the very best you can. We were beaten by a team that was better than we were on that particular night."

No one would deny that Harrison does indeed have a powerhouse this year. Undeclared so far this season, the Hawks made a shambles of Northville's pool records. By the time the meet was over, Harrison had established new standards in five of the eleven events.

Rado, of course, led the way. Only a junior, Rado seems to set new Northville pool records every time he jumps into the pool. Thursday he established new marks in winning the 100 (51.0) and 200 (1:52.1) yard freestyle, as well as swimming anchor on the record-setting 400 yard freestyle relay team.

Arnoldy, the number two man on the talent-rich Harrison team won the 200 yard individual medley with the pool record clocking of 2:11.0, and Rick Kral set a new pool record in the diving with 234.35 total points.

The only Northville team record was set by Don Cook who broke his former mark of 4:13.5 in the 400 yard freestyle with a 4:11.1 timing, but finished second to Arnoldy who won 400 with a 4:10.9 clocking

The Mustangs held an eight-point, 30-22, lead over Harrison after the first six events thanks to victories from the 200 yard medley relay team of Jeff Kappler, Art Greenlee, Bill Bretz, and Chip Thomas; John Pacific in the 50 yard freestyle; and Bretz again in the 100 yard butterfly.

Harrison narrowed the lead to 37-33 as Rado edged Kelly in the 100 freestyle and Arnoldy touched out Cook in the 400 freestyle. The Mustangs then upped their lead to six points as Kappler won the 100 backstroke and Greenlee beat out Hornacek in an extremely close race in the 100 yard breaststroke.

But the six points weren't enough and Harrison went on to take the seven points in the freestyle relay and win the meet 48-47.

"We felt it was a superb meet," commented Lauber. "I was certainly impressed by their performances. We've got no alibis. We were beaten by a very good swimming team and we know it."

"We're going to start over now - try to get another winning streak started. And you might put in there," he added, "that we're anxious to meet them again at the end of the year."

Win 83-52

Harrison Cagers Rip Northville 5

Coach Walt Koepke's Northville High School basketball team returned to Western Six Conference action Friday.

They shouldn't have. It was a terrible mistake.

The Farmington Harrison Hawks hammered out an embarrassingly easy 83-52 triumph over the Mustangs.

From the time Jeff Sieloff, Harrison's 6'8" senior center, slipped behind Tom Eis, took a lob pass over the head of the youthful Northville defender, and dropped it through the threads to give his team a quick 2-0 lead, it was never close.

The Mustangs were never in the game.

After just four minutes of play, Harrison had opened up a ten-point 14-4 lead, and at the end of the first quarter the score stood 24-8. In spite of the fact that the Harrison coach emptied his bench in the second quarter, the Hawks upped their lead to 45-18 at the half and more or less coasted to the victory.

The lopsided defeat was particularly disheartening to Northville followers because it came at the hands of the only conference team their Mustang cagers had any real hopes of beating.

Northville has now met three of its four Western Six opponents and has been drubbed by all three. The only team they haven't played yet is Walled Lake Western - and please don't ask which team is in first place in the conference with a 2-0 record.

Much of Northville's difficulties against Harrison could be traced directly to the presence of Sieloff, the Hawk's big center.

With Mike Brown, his own 6'5" center, still hobbling about on a twisted ankle, Koepke handed the job of containing Sieloff to Tom Eis, a 6'3" sophomore brought up from the junior varsity earlier in the season.

It was no match-up - from either the standpoint of height or experience.

Sieloff had five baskets and two free throws in the first quarter and added two more buckets and two more free throws in the second quarter before going to the bench as the Harrison reserves entered the game.

Sieloff finished the game with 22 points - tops for either team - on nine field goals and four of four charity tosses, but his biggest contribution was his control of the boards.

The Mustangs shot poorly - they converted just nine of 30 field goal attempts in the first three quarters and rarely had a chance to put up a second shot before Sieloff wrapped up the rebound and directed play toward the opposite end of the floor.

Northville finished the game with just six rebounds off their offensive boards, and their leading rebounders in the game - Tom and Todd Eis - had no more than four apiece. Things were so bad that 5'6" Jim Yanoschke almost shared rebounding honors with the Eis brothers by rounding up three caroms.

The Mustangs were hurt by the relative absence of Joe Bishop. The little playmaker, who has been battling the London flu through much of the week, dressed for the game, but was kept on the bench by Koepke at the start of the contest.

Without Bishop on the floor, the Mustang attack was ragged, and the Harrison defense was able to produce several turnovers. Finally, Koepke sent Bishop into the game late in the first quarter and the Northville attack started to take form.

The quarter ended with Harrison on top 24-8, but the score would have been considerably closer except for the fact that the Mustangs managed to miss four or five easy ten to 15 foot jump shots after Bishop came in.

Koepke kept Bishop in the game during the early part of the second quarter, but the Mustangs continued to miss their shots as the Hawks pulled farther and farther away, and finally the Northville coach pulled Bishop out of the game and used him sparingly the rest of the way.

By the half the score was 45-18 and the three-quarter score was 63-28, as the Mustangs managed only a feeble three field goals in each of the first three quarters.

After the game Koepke commented on the play of Sieloff and the entire Harrison team. "He's the only player they've got back from last year's team and I thought he played very poorly last year. But he's certainly improved a great deal since the last time we saw him. He's very effective out there."

"The other four guys hardly played any basketball at all last year," Koepke continued, "but Harrison has managed to send a pretty good team out on the floor. The thing that is obvious is how much each of those kids has managed to improve in one year."

Todd Eis led the Northville scoring against Harrison with a 14-point performance. Ted Fuertges, Ed Kritch, and Tom Eis each bucketed eight points.

Friday the Mustangs will host Lutheran East in a non-conference game.

SO WHO'S UNLUCKY?—It's the Farmington Harrison player who's wearing the "unlucky 13" jersey, but you'd have a tough time convincing Joe Bishop (being sat on, above), his Mustang teammates, or the Northville fans who attended Friday's game that the unlucky number did its job. The Mustang cagers took their lumps in more ways than one in a lop-sided loss to the Farmington squad.

Norton, Leu Pace Jayvee Victory

With Scott Leu and Rick Norton supplying most of the scoring, Northville's junior varsity basketball team pulled away from a narrow 31-30 lead at the end of three quarters and posted a 49-38 triumph over Farmington Harrison Friday.

Afterward, Omar Harrison, coach of the Northville jayvees, expressed pleasure with the performance of his team, particularly Norton. "I finally found another scorer," said Harrison "Norton really came through for me tonight."

Throughout the season, the Mustang jayvees have relied almost exclusively on Leu, their elusive backcourt man, for their scoring punch. Stop Leu and you've stopped Northville.

But Friday Norton came through with his finest performance of the season and the team picked up its third victory in eight outings.

Norton finished the night with 20 points, one less than Leu who led all scorers with 21 points.

Leu was about all the offense Northville had in the first half. The 5'8" guard had 12 points in the first quarter as the junior Mustangs opened up a 15-6 lead. In the second frame, however, Harrison held Leu, and Northville, to just four points and narrowed Northville's lead to 19-17.

In the third quarter Norton joined the Mustang attack. The sophomore forward tossed in five buckets as Northville maintained its one point lead until the fourth quarter, when it pulled away for the victory.

Norton scored all but three of his 20 points in the second half. No other Northville player had more than four points, although John Boland and Rich McHugh pulled down 10 and 11 rebounds respectively.

Press, Flu Down Schoolcraft

A badly outmanned Schoolcraft College basketball team was unable to cope with a game-long fullcourt man-to-man press thrown at them last week by Highland Park Community College and ended up on the short end of a 93-61 score.

"Craig Rosenthal was home with the flu so we only had six men dressed for the game," reported Tom Roncoli, the Schoolcraft coach.

Schoolcraft trailed by just nine points, 41-32, at the half, but ran out of gas during the second half as Highland Park raced away to the 32-point victory.

Tom Luch, himself recovering from a bout with the flu, came off the bench to lead the Schoolcraft scoring with a 25-point performance.

Western Six Standings

Walled Lake Western	2	0
Waterford Mott	2	1
Livonia Churchill	1	1
Farmington Harrison	1	1
Northville	0	3

Walled Lake Western continues to be the most surprising team in the Western Six.

In spite of finishing in last place last year, suffering heavy losses to graduation, and having a junior varsity which was also finished in last place last year, the 1972-73 Warriors have now beaten the two Western Six favorites and taken over sole possession of first place.

Friday the Warriors ran into a quick-Mott team looking for its third conference victory and instead handed them their first conference defeat. Final score was Western 55, Mott 51.

Walled Lake was trailing 47-46 with four minutes left in the game when it switched to a full-court zone press and ran away to the triumph.

John Springer had 20 points and Tony Howell tossed in 19 to lead the Warriors, who are now 3-6 overall. Mark Lawrence topped the Corsairs with a 16-point effort. Mott is 6-2 overall.

In a non-league game Walled Lake Central dumped Livonia Churchill 64-54. Junior guard Mike Imhoff and 6'8" center Randy McLean paced the victory with 27 and 22 points respectively.

Mustanger

Taking Mustang of the Week honors is Jack Barger. Just a sophomore, the 100-pound Northville grappler has posted a 9-3 record on the season and is developing into one of the Mustangs' most dependable wrestlers. In spite of his inexperience, Barger has placed third in the Holly Invitational and fourth in the Dexter Invitational.

Novi JV's Drop Squeaker

Novi's junior varsity five lost a heart-breaker to Dundee Friday by just a single basket, 44-42.

The junior Wildcats led at the intermission, 28-25, after trailing at the end of the first quarter by two, 18-14.

Dundee came back with 14 points in the third quarter, however, and in the final stanza when neither team could find the mark the visitors slipped in five points to Novi's three to claim the victory.

Pat McAllen and Bill Barr shared scoring honors for Novi with 12 points each. John Miller topped Dundee's effort with 18 points.

Request Drain Alternative Board Switches Auditors

trees within the area.

3. It would result in a more pleasing appearance of the land.

4. It would result in greater safety to children and other persons who would traverse the drainage area.

5. It would result in considerably less inconvenience to abutting property owners during the construction.

Given a third choice, property owners, as indicated by their comments Monday and earlier, would opt for no improvements at all. But Councilman and City Manager Frank Ollendorff emphasized that there is no third choice, that the drain board is adamant and insists it must either be the flood plain proposal or the 30-foot wide ditch. It could, in fact, still reject the flood plain proposal and insist on its original ditching proposal.

At the insistence of Councilman Paul Folino, the resolution was amended to suggest engineering specifications for the flood plain easement be considered maximum and that less wide easements be specified if possible.

John Canterbury, adjacent property owner and former councilman, sympathized with council for taking the initial action to improve the drain and prevent future flooding, but he contended drain board engineers' corrective proposal far exceeds necessity.

"It defies logic," he asserted. "All I'd get would be a loss (of property) for something I don't see as a problem."

It isn't the threat of a flood problem facing his property, said Canterbury, but rather the lack of water. There is less water in the stream today than in the past, he contended.

He and others suggested that if structures in the stream, such as exist between Center and Hutton, were corrected, the problem of flooding would be resolved, especially in view of reported engineering comment that once all property in the drainage district is developed the volume of water would increase only 20 percent.

Major reservation about the flood plain proposal concerned the loss of property by easements.

It has not been ascertained whether or not the drain board will pay property owners for these easements and, if so, how much. Furthermore, property owners are fearful such easements will prevent future development within these easements, thereby reducing the value of their property.

According to City Manager Frank Ollendorff, it is quite likely that the drain board would permit property owners to later enclose the drain or ditch it through their property if they can prove to the board that such improvements would not impede the flow of water in a "100-year" flood condition.

It is unlikely, however, that the board at this time would permit such singular improvements unless it involved a block or more of property and not isolated lots, he said.

Paul Steencken, who owns the largest parcel of affected property, argued against both improvement plans and was especially concerned about the restrictions that an easement could place on his property fronting Randolph.

Refusing to accept explanation of the council that Thompson - Brown's development northwest of Taft and Randolph is subject to the same flood control requirements as property owners downstream, Steencken suggested T-B be required to provide a flood plain easement.

Ollendorff pointed out that T-B has installed ditching and provided a flood plain to meet county drain requirements.

Robert Reed, who said his home would be "destroyed" by the flood plain proposal, echoed the sentiments of others when he asked, "Who wants this drain anyway? It seems to be the consensus of those living there that they don't want it. Who benefits? Is it really so all fired important?"

"It looks to me like it's being pushed by a pressure group up on the hill (T-B development)," he asserted.

Mary Moase asked council how the cost of the drain property would be assessed.

Ollendorff replied that while the council has not yet determined the method of payment, it has one of three choices: Spread the cost through a city-wide assessment, assess only those property owners who are deemed as those benefiting most, or pay for it out of existing city funds.

Mayor A. M. Allen said he would—if he had to do it over again—petition for a drainage district just as was done initially by the cities of Northville and Novi, thus resulting in the inter-county drain board's 'no backing off' involvement. The council cannot wait until another flood occurs but has an obligation to take steps to prevent it, he argued.

Northville, he said, could "stick its head in the sand" and pretend the problem didn't exist. At least "this way we've involved Novi and they will share in the cost." If Northville did nothing until forced to take flood control steps it would be faced with greater costs—without financial assistance from Novi.

(The drain district includes a portion of Novi near Nine Mile and Taft roads.)

According to Ollendorff, if the drain board agrees to accept the flood plain alternative suggestion, the board will order engineers to prepare detailed construction specifications and call another public hearing to discuss specifics with property owners.

The motion to appoint Adams was made by Mitchell and seconded by Schaeffer. Trustee Klein said he did not know a change in auditors was in the offing. "But I voted for Adams because they said he was auditor for Redford township and he lives in the area," Klein explained. He said he was unaware of any political activities of Adams.

Clerk Cayley explained that the appointment was placed on the agenda "because it's time to appoint an auditor." She said she knew of no dissatisfaction with the present auditor, but indicated that "the present board felt it would like to give one of our people (in the community) an opportunity for the job."

At the meeting Clerk Cayley made reference to the fact that ex-Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg had mentioned Adams as a likely prospect for the job of auditor.

Supervisor Wright

expressed some reservations about the appointment when he was contacted after the meeting.

He pointed out that he had just named Fred Philippeau to the planning commission and he said that Philippeau and Adams are business associates. "I don't know whether this represents some kind of a conflict or not," said the supervisor.

Adams and Philippeau recently opened offices which they share on Five Mile road in Northville township. The latter is a real estate appraiser and sales agent.

Adams has been a certified public accountant since 1959 and has been self-employed since 1960. He was auditor for Redford township for six years until 1968 when he said "political winds changed." An active Republican, Adams was a candidate for Wayne County Auditor in 1962 and a precinct delegate in Redford township for eight years. He now resides at 16822 Old Bedford Road in Northville township.

The new township auditor was a leader of the opposition to city-township unification and participated in the drafting of arguments against unification, at the public hearing conducted last summer by the State Boundary Commission.

Although two other CPA firms with municipal auditing experience have offices in Northville, neither were contacted in regards to the township auditing position. One of the managers of the local CPA office resides in Northville township.

Treasurer Straub was strongly critical of the fact that the change was made without consideration of qualifications or alternative firms.

"When we had to select a new attorney, they opposed the supervisor's suggestion on the basis that several firms should be interviewed. But the auditor was a cut and dried selection," he concluded.

An auditor assists the township in both its general fund and water and sewer department financial affairs by providing the advice of an independent certified public accountant. He must express his opinion in regards to financial affairs and in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards to meet guidelines set forth by the state department of the treasury.

These services generally include management as well as financial advice, proper use of money and the introduction of accounting and operational controls.

For its 1971-72 services, Northville township paid the firm of Icerman, Hoffman and Johnson $5,350 for its services.

'Drug Abuse' Class Set at Schoolcraft

A class designed for educators and others involved in drug abuse programs will be offered by Schoolcraft College beginning February 15.

Entitled "Drug Abuse Here and Now," the class will be taught by Donald Roach, a Livonia pharmacist.

Among the topics to be presented in eight weekly class sessions of two hours each will be terminology, depressants, stimulants, and psychedelics. The class will meet on Thursday nights from 7:30 to 9:30. Registration deadline is February 8 and tuition for college district residents is $11.

Appeal Denied

remarks in the event the denial is eventually contested in court, the council agreed with reasoning of planners and their consultant and said it saw nothing persuasive in Chapper's appeal to warrant contradiction of the commission's denial.

Planners took the position that it might look favorably upon a mixture of multiples and single family dwellings but that an entire multiples development is undesirable.

Specifically, planners noted that the proposal calls for a total of 400 units or a density of 10.3 units per acre (Chapper says the density is 8½ units per acre), and that the requested R-2A multiples zoning allows up to a density of 14½ units per acre.

The plan committee had concluded that "adequate and sufficient multiple zoning exists in the city to insure a desirable balance between single family and multiple development."

"In our review of the proposed revision of the master plan, it has been established that low density development is desirable in this (Chapper) area and is in conformity to existing adjacent developments."

Temporary Quarters Sought for Ambulance

attempts to negotiate a purchase price. Should no agreement be reached, councilmen have indicated the city will initiate condemnation proceedings against the property which is earmarked for part of a municipal parking district.

The temporary quarters were recommended by City Manager Frank Ollendorff so that local ambulance service could begin immediately and so General Ambulance Company, the firm in question, would have concrete evidence of the city-township intention to furnish housing here.

In the interim the city-township will advertise for bids, using mutually agreed upon specifications, for a permanent quarters.

Under the agreement, the city and township would split the annual maximum cost of $3,600 to provide free quarters for General Ambulance, which in turn would guarantee 24-hour local ambulance based service.

Special conditions to be worked out by attorneys of the city and township are to include contract escape clauses and a clause providing that should General's business here become profitable it would then assume the rental costs.

Immediate temporary quarters is seen as a way to allay General's fear that its investment in new ambulances may be for naught. John Early, General manager, indicated his firm's concern Monday that it had not yet been presented a written agreement.

'Keep Cool'

Fuel Shortage Threatens, But—

By SLIGER STAFFERS

"Keep cool...don't go scaring everybody about some unreal crisis," this newspaper was advised by an oil company representative last week.

His use of the word "cool" may have been a Freudian slip but it pretty much sums up what appears may happen this cold January in the face of a state-wide heating fuel shortage.

No one denies a shortage exists but—

• Most dealers are hopeful they can get through the winter without cutting off any of their present customers.

• Generally, dealers are reluctant to comment about the shortage, either because they're afraid their remarks may dry up some of their supply sources or because they want their customers to remain calm.

• A spokesman for the Michigan Petroleum Association, which represents dealers in the state, says the shortage "is serious but not yet critical" throughout the state.

• Major oil suppliers are tight-lipped, refusing to give any explanation at all for the shortage.

• Governor William Milliken remains confident that his recently appointed Task Force on Fuel Supply can help avoid "possible emergency situations." Asked if fuel for heating homes is indeed running low, the Governor issued this statement two weeks ago:

"This year's very early winter and an accompanying extended cold spell have resulted in potential shortage of heating oil, natural gas, and propane in our state. I believe it is extremely important that we carefully monitor our available fuel supply and avoid possible emergency situations.

"Because of this need, I recently appointed a Task Force on Fuel Supply to identify methods of conserving fuel; monitor fuel supply and demand; act as a coordinating unit for the activities of the governmental and private sectors; and make appropriate recommendations to me in the event that Michigan's fuel resources are seriously jeopardized by a very long and particularly severe winter.

"This Task Force will be looking at the possibilities of a fuel shortage in the short run, while my Special Commission on Energy continues its investigations into long-range answers that will avoid energy crisis situations in the future." None of the area dealers contacted by this newspaper last week indicate customers are being denied fuel oil or propane gas.

Generally, they view the situation as potentially serious but as yet "under control." Addition of new customers, however, is "out of the question" in all but few cases, with oil companies having clamped a lid on additional supplies for dealers.

AMOCO (American Oil Company) said in a letter to dealers dated January 8:

"Demand for heating oils and diesel fuels this winter has created a supply-demand imbalance which has affected the entire petroleum industry. Our company, of course, is no exception.

"For this reason we are announcing a moratorium on all new business and a plan for allocation retroactive to January 1, 1973, in order to conserve additional fuels and assure a continuing supply.

Consumers Sees No Customer 'Cut Offs'

By SLIGER STAFFERS

Despite an admitted shortage of natural gas Consumers Power Company has no intention of "cutting off" any of its existing customers — homes, commercial, or industrial plants here.

That's the word from W.E. Mason, assistant division manager of Consumers, who explained this week that only major new developments and/or additions are being curtailed at present.

And it appears Consumers will be able to meet all of its commitments—provided this winter is not an abnormally long and cold one and provided Consumers' suppliers fulfill their present contractual obligations—through 1973.

Nevertheless, effect of the national gas shortage, is already starting to take its toll.

Michigan Seamless Tube Company of South Lyon, a major industry in the area, has had its gas service interrupted (MST gets its gas, direct from Panhandle Eastern Pipeline of Kansas City) and is facing what could be a "very serious" production problem.

Elsewhere in the nation curtailments have forced temporary closure of schools and factories. The University of Texas semester break, for example, was extended to January 23, and 17 schools in Denver have been operating only three days a week since natural gas supplies were cut off.

Even in Louisiana, which produces most of the natural gas for the eastern section of the nation, rationing has forced layoff of thousands.

Panhandle, which also is the chief supplier of gas to Consumers, two years ago notified Consumers that it would be unable to meet its contractual commitments so last year Consumers announced curtailment of most classes of service.

Currently, Consumers is limiting uses to up to 6,600 cubic feet of gas an hour for new and added loads, Mason explained. "This means we can take care of most new applications except large additions such as a large school or large new plant. New homes are unaffected."

Purpose of these curtailments, explained Mason, is "to protect our present customers from loss of service."

Mason sees three basic reasons for the gas shortage:

1. Gas exploration has not kept up with increasing demand, primarily because financial investors prefer to put their money in less risky projects that produce a better return on their investments.

2. Government regulations so restrict price of gas at the well that it discourages costly drilling. Even though pockets of gas may exist below a well, drillers, weighing the cost of drilling deeper against the price at which they may sell the gas, often are discouraged from further drilling.

3. Opposition by ecological groups, which thwart the efforts by gas companies to locate and develop new energy sources.

Because it anticipated the gas shortage several years ago, Consumers has managed to keep one step ahead of the problem in most cases by locating new sources, and hence it is not as seriously affected as some gas companies.

In short, Consumers has taken million dollar risks that other gas seekers wouldn't take.

For example, the company put $6 million into exploratory wells southwest of New Orleans, which now appear to represent a major find.

The irony of Consumers' stepped up efforts to tap new sources is that other firms afraid to take risky steps themselves, are legally contesting them because of a fear that Consumers may tie up gas reserves and cut out other companies.

Commenting on his firm's "interruptible" contract with Panhandle, F. James Farquhar, vice president and general manager of Michigan Seamless Tube, noted that the MST has been supplied gas by Panhandle since 1951.

(An "interruptible" contract is defined as one in which gas is supplied at a lesser cost but with the risk that it can be "interrupted" by the supplier).

"For about 20 years we suffered no interruption and we received a much lower rate than did big auto plants in the metropolitan area who are on non-interruptible contracts" said Farquhar. "Now that we are having problems, we wish we had been willing to pay more then to assure that we would have

Fuel Shortage

But Keep Cool

"All domestic heating and farm customers will receive 100 percent of their 1972 purchases. All commercial customers—both tank wagon and direct shipments—will receive an allocation of 90 percent of our contract commitments, pro-rated on a monthly basis. This allocation has been established for 60 days, subject to revision or extension."

Attempts to pry loose an explanation by the major oil companies for the shortage failed. For example:

After being transferred from one supervisory office to another of Gulf Oil Company, a reporter was finally told to call L.A. Devlin of Columbus, Ohio, manager of home heat for the Midwest (including the area of Northville, Novi, Wixom, South Lyon, and Brighton) and was given this curt reply by Devlin:

"I've been ordered not to issue any statements and I don't give a damn who said I could talk. I'm not going to tell you anything. You'll have to go to Philadelphia."

Asked if he could explain why oil companies are chary of discussing the shortage, Joseph Hadley of the Michigan Petroleum Association said he, too, has been rebuffed on every attempt to discuss the problem with oil company officials.

Nevertheless, he offered his own explanation for the shortage:

"As I see it," he explained, "there are several long-range and short-range reasons for the present situation."

"First, of all, there has not been enough importation of fuels from foreign countries...and this has been the case for several years."

"Secondly, the refineries up until very recently have put their emphasis on the production of gasoline instead of heating oil. Reason for that is when the price freeze was put on it hit them when fuel oil prices were low and gasoline prices fairly high. So it was more profitable to make more gasoline, less oil."

"I think that's one of the reasons you've seen some of these (gasoline) wars lately."

Continuing, he said, "A third reason, and this is a short-range one, refineries used last year as a sample year by which to regulate yields of fuel oil. They put their dealers on a quota based on last year's use. Normally, they figure demand on more than one year. Well, as it turns out last year happened to be an unusually warm one when not so much fuel oil was used."

Compounding the problem, he added, is the fact that "it has been unusually cold the last couple of months."

Furthermore, because there also is a shortage of natural gas, "lots of plants and public buildings who use gas as a prime fuel are turning to the secondary fuel—oil—when the gas companies cancel them out," explained Hadley.

Although one local dealer sees the problem as a continuing one, perhaps getting worse next year, Hadley is hopeful President Richard Nixon's price freeze modification of last week "may ease up the problem" since theoretically oil companies can now begin production, profitably, of more fuel oil.

Kerry Zochowski, controller for Fuelgas company of Flint, a subsidiary of Marathon, places "primary" responsibility of the shortage on the ecology drive. The ecologists, he contended, are making utility companies convert from coal to other forms of fuel, mostly oil.

Furthermore, the demand for pollution free vehicles has led to cleaner emission systems that yield less miles per gallon of gasoline, he told this newspaper.

And as explained by Hadley, he pointed out that oil companies have been producing more gasoline than either fuel oil or propane out of crude oil to gain a better profit margin.

Bernie Corrigan, owner of Corrigan Sunoco which is supplied its propane gas by Fuelgas of Flint, said he has been ordered to take on new customer accounts as of January 1.

No such order has come from Sunoco, however, noted Corrigan, adding, "We are taking a few new customers."

The shortage of oil, surmised Mrs. Fred Tubbs, wife of the Brighton Standard Oil supplier, is the result of a combination of things...the extreme cold over the last several months, the influx of new customers and oil shortage at the national level.

"The problem is the oil companies figured this would be an average year but it has been colder than anticipated. We're behind 700 degrees as I understand it," she said.

Another dealer, who requested he not be identified, said he is filling all orders for homes but suggesting to businesses, such as service stations, to keep all doors closed as much as possible and cut off heat in rooms where it is not absolutely needed.

Veteran dealers, he indicated, aren't "too bad off" because they know a lot of private supply sources they can turn to—even in Canada—in an especially severe pinch. "We're just wounded," he said, "but the new dealer...he's dead."

In its January 8 letter to customer-dealers, AMOCO suggested "plant" shutdowns and runouts can be avoided if our customers cooperate in using any or all of the following techniques:

1. Turn their thermostats down at night and on weekends.
2. On days when we are experiencing extremely cold temperatures, consider shutting down earlier.
3. Consider scheduling "no work" or "no school" day automatically if temperatures are below zero at 6 a.m.
4. Close off rooms or unused areas of plants not requiring heat.
5. Consider going to a four-day work week during January and February."

Consumers Power

No Customer Cut-Offs

an adequate supply today," he admitted.

"All pipeline-fed industry is in the same shape—some are worse," he continued. "They tell us that gas may have to be shipped from North Africa or Alaska—at a considerably greater cost."

Farquhar pointed out the MST knew of its anticipated supply deficiencies "at the beginning of the season" and began seeking alternative sources and to increase standby fuel supplies (fuel oil, propane gas—in that order). However, a first of January additional cutback could produce a very tight operating program."

Panhandle's customer relation manager, Jack Gurche of Kansas City, told this newspaper that the situation is "very tight, quite frankly."

Gurche sees two basic problems:

1. Well-head (source) supply is inadequate. "Eight percent of our 'send out' is to MST and other direct industrial customers. We told them in November that a curtailment lasting through May would be necessary in order for us to allocate available supplies."
2. An additional cold weather curtailment was imposed on January 5. Low temperatures, beginning in November and continuing through January, according to Gurche, accounts for additional curtailment.

"Even if we get a major warming trend soon," he admitted, "it will be necessary to revert back to our initial curtailment of service."

Like MST other industrial plants under "interruptible" contracts have turned to alternative kinds of fuel such as oil and propane.

This fact, according to Mason, necessarily "pinches" the already short supply of these secondary fuels.

Consumers has only 22 customers under an interruptible contract. Consolidated Gas, which does not serve this area, reportedly has some 300 customers under such a contract.

Use of fuel oil and propane standbys has seriously reduced their availability," pointed out Gurche, "and, combined with the problems of consistently cold temperatures has driven up the demand and further reduced supplies."

Gurche said suppliers to Panhandle pipelines "are not delivering the volumes we require. We must deliver on our prearranged program (accepted in November by the Federal Power Commission). However, we have recently received a priority list from FPC that could further reduce our supplies to our industrial, interruptible, users."

Continuing, Gurche pointed out despite public interest in keeping industry operating, FPC feels shutting down of industry and sending workers home to warm houses is preferable.

"My only argument there is what good is a warm house if there is no food on the table?"

"First priority, I believe, must be to stress better conservation measures for available supplies," asserted Gurche.

Along this line he suggests that gas heat used to heat steam boilers is the "least efficient" use of natural gas and ought to be the first area curtailed."

But, he noted, the only fuel in abundant supply—coal—is not acceptable under today's ecological standards.

Traffic Toll

Among Worst

Michigan's traffic death toll for 1972 numbers 2,247, the fourth worst annual loss on record, according to State Police traffic division provisional figures.

The total is 95 or four per cent more than 2,152 charged to 1971.

The count ranks behind the higher losses of 2,487 in 1969, 2,392 in 1968 and 2,298 in 1966.

It was the ninth year in a row and the twelfth time on record that annual deaths have exceeded 2,000.

RACHEL HILL

Business Briefs

RACHEL HILL of Travel Plans, Incorporated, 101 East Main Street, Northville, recently completed an 18-day trip to South Africa — awarded to just four travel agencies in the United States for imaginative routing and service for customers.

She and the three other winners were featured in the January 9 issue of Travel Weekly, a national travel magazine.

The group began at Johannesburg and continued on to Kruger National Park where many species of wild animals were spotted. A crocodile farm was one of the points of interest in Victoria Falls. The farms, she noted, are now necessary because the animals are becoming extinct.

In Nairobi, the tour visited an animal orphanage which is operated by Detroit's B'wana Don and they stayed at Treetops, a luxury hotel built above the ground, so the animals can roam below.

The Masai warriors, Mrs. Hill said, were interesting. "Seeing them is almost like going back in civilization hundreds of years." Other stops on the tour included the Serengeti Plain, Lobo, Lake Manyara and Ngongoro crater.

AT THE SIXTH annual Detroit Camper and Travel Trailer show you'll have a chance to see more than 800 recreational vehicles which fall into four main categories.

The show will be held from Saturday, Feb. 10 through Sunday, February 18, in the Detroit Artillery Armory on West Eight Mile Road. All 280,000 square feet of exhibit space will be used.

Recreational vehicles...RVs the industry calls them...are classed as travel trailers, truck campers, motor homes and tent or camping trailers. Mobile homes, designed for permanent living, are not included in the show.

Perry Drug Stores, Inc. today filed a registration statement with the Securities & Exchange Commission relating to the proposed public offering of 300,000 shares of common stock.

G. H. Walker & Co., Inc. has been named manager of the underwriting group which will offer the shares. Of the 300,000 shares being offered, 200,000 shares will be sold by the Company and 100,000 shares by certain selling shareholders.

Proceeds to the company will be used to purchase fixtures, equipment and inventories for eight new stores planned for 1973, for the expansion of inventories carried in existing stores and in the company warehouse and for working capital and other general corporate purposes.

Perry Drug Stores, Inc. operates a chain of 18 drug stores in south-eastern Michigan.

Babson Report

Foreign Oil Restrictions Pinch

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass. Over recent months changes have taken place within the oil industry that will have far-reaching repercussions in future years. For one thing, no longer will oil companies operate abroad as sole proprietors, making royalty payments to their host countries on oil produced.

The picture of supply and demand in oil and natural gas is also undergoing change, and it would appear that steps must be taken if an adequate supply of energy fuels is to be ensured for the years ahead.

THE ORGANIZATION of Petroleum Exporting Countries is a group of eleven nations producing substantial amounts of oil within their borders. Foreign firms are usually involved, with many major U. S. companies holding concessions, either singly or in consort. For many years, oil-rich countries were content to permit foreign operators to extract crude oil against payment of per-barrel royalties or taxes.

But as material wealth transformed economies, particularly in the Mideast, the winds of nationalism brought a shift in attitude. Libya imposed strict terms relating to oil output, exploration, and even the personal lives of oil company personnel. The OPEC group began to stir restlessly, and about a year ago member countries began to demand permission to become part owners of internal oil operations.

The Arab countries accounted for some 30 percent of Free World Petroleum output and were thus in a strong bargaining position. Negotiations were begun and continued for nine months before a settlement was reached in October 1972. The agreement was between five Arab OPEC members and certain U. S. and foreign companies.

Undoubtedly this first pact will set the tone for agreements with other member countries. Although not fully revealed, provision has been made for five Persian Gulf states to pay about $1 billion to nine U. S. and foreign oil firms for 25 percent ownership of petroleum production.

In ten years this will be increased to 51 percent. The effect on the companies involved could be many-faceted. As their share of output declines, efforts will be made to buoy earnings from other sources, such as refining and marketing.

THERE IS also the possibility that the OPEC Arab nations could become active in other industry phases. Saudi Arabia has indicated that it would guarantee the U. S. enough oil to meet future demands in return for removal of import restrictions, with profits from this arrangement to be invested in the U.S. Domestic oil industry.

Another proposal would have OPEC refined products sold to independent U. S. marketers, bypassing the large international oil concerns.

AT HOME, there has been increasing uneasiness over the rising demand for energy fuels in the face of declining reserves. The huge demand stems from expanding industry, power generation, and an estimated 118 million motor-driven vehicles—nearly 50 percent more than were in use ten years ago.

The big question of fuel reserves is the measure of time it would take to use up known reserves at present consumption rates. A decade or two ago, natural gas reserves were rated adequate for twenty years; now the ration is estimated at about eleven years. The crude oil ratio of reserves to production has dipped from about twelve years to less than nine.

This does not include Alaskan. North Slope oil, which is unavailable until a pipeline is built.

THE ANSWER to the shortfall in petroleum reserves is more exploration and production in this country, and or removal of import allocations to permit entry of greater quantities of foreign oil. There is some concern over a possible East Coast fuel shortage this winter in the event of prolonged severe weather, and revision of oil import rules may be necessary to alleviate this situation.

3 Park Projects Approved

Commission of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority has approved and officially designated three park projects for future development within southeastern Michigan.

Two of these were initially proposed in the Authority's expansion plans revealed in July of 1972, while a third called "Oakland Metropolitan Park" was announced on December 6.

These sites are presently known as North Branch Metropolitan Park, covering 3,000 acres along the north branch of the Clinton River in Ray Township between 26 and 31 Mile Roads in Macomb County; Mill Creek Metropolitan Park, covering 4,000 acres of rolling, hilly countryside located in Washtenaw County, south of the I-94 Freeway, with most of the land in Lima and Freedom Townships, just west of Ann Arbor; and the most recently announced Oakland Metropolitan Park, covering 2,000 acres of land known as the "Andersonville or Huron Swamp" located 9 miles northwest of Pontiac in Springfield and White Lake Townships in Oakland County.

Authority Director David O. Laidlaw explained that the Board's action of "approval and official park project designation" means that the HCMA intends to develop each of these sites into Metropolitan Parks and that they are no longer considered just "proposed sites".

He added that very soon the Authority will begin with the initial purchase of land at North Branch Metropolitan Park in Macomb County, but with similar action for the other sites to be taken at some future date.

Walking on Skis

'Cross Country' Snowballs

There's more to the sport of skiing than a steep schuss down a hill, executing a snowplow turn or stem christie. It's called cross country skiing or ski-touring and it's popularity is "snowballing", according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

Cross country skiing is essentially walking on skis. Originally, it was a practical form of transportation used by the Scandinavian people, not only in their own country, but also in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

While downhill skiing requires a certain degree of prowess, cross country skiing is easy to learn and can be enjoyed quickly by even the most cautious beginner. It is excellent, non strenuous exercise and a sport suited to all ages. It's an ideal family sport offering as much enjoyment for the grandparents as the grandchildren. Hills or mountains are not required so the risk of injury is far less than in downhill skiing. All that is necessary is snow on the ground, enough to cover roots, twigs and underbrush. One of the most appealing features of ski touring is that it is not expensive. You can outfit yourself with top quality equipment for $100 or less, skis, boots, bindings and poles. Clothing is a matter of personal choice.

Cross country skiing has been a popular form of recreation in Michigan's Upper Peninsula since the turn of the century.

Michigan's terrain in both the Upper and Lower Peninsulas is ideal for touring and more and more ski areas are developing cross country trails. Among those in the Upper Peninsula are Brule Mountain near Iron River, Al Quall Recreation Area at Ishpeming and Iroquois Mountain Lodge.

For more detailed information on cross country ski trails, skiing and snowmobiling in Michigan, write the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing 48926

Thoughts of Epiphany

Reverend W. Herbert Glenn
First United Methodist Church, Brighton

I see, as I begin this column, that this coming Saturday is the day called Epiphany in the worldwide Christian Church. It is celebrated as the day on which the wise men arrived in Bethlehem to see Jesus who was, and is, the saving hope for all mankind. Look at the scene, if you will. The wisest of men in the eastern world, journeying countless miles through desert storms and dangerous trade routes which were infested with bandits, went to see a baby, who by all their calculations, was to be the Messiah for all mankind.

Because they were wise and famous, and because the political leader, King Herod, was so afraid that the people would revolt against his despotic rule, Herod invited these dignitaries to his palace to "con" them into becoming tools for him to continue his autocratic rule. These three men were also wise to Herod's purpose, however, and through receiving a message which they determined was from God, they agreed not to follow the King's request; for to be obedient to him would not be beneficial to the people or to the people's future. They gave their gifts to the new born Messiah and passively disobeyed the governmental authority by going home another way.

Whatever else this story may teach us after our having seen it in perhaps a hundred Christmas pageants, it might be worthwhile to consider a subtle message which Matthew, a former establishment man, might be bringing to our attention.

The wisest and most sensitive leaders, whose constant concern is the good of the people and constructive cooperative living on the planet as against the power of the privileged to exploit both the people and the planet, always have opposed and will continue to oppose those leaders who usurp for themselves more power than that of just leading the people, justly, in their pursuit of happiness. The history of religion and the political history of the world is filled with examples of men who had an idea which was threatening and fearful to most of the men in control of the systems in their historical time.

The status quo "runs scared", as we say, in the face of a revolutionary idea. As an aside, let me say that revolutionary means "a turning around toward a new direction" and as such should not be a frightening word. John Wyclif scared the organized religious community of his day by taking the Bible to the people in their own language. So angered were the religious leaders that, even after he had been buried, they dug up his bones and burned them! John Hus, expounding much the same message as Martin Luther, but about a hundred years earlier, was burned at the stake!

I'm sure the pig-owning-business community in Jesus' day was pretty much up in arms when he caused evil spirits to enter a sizeable herd of pigs which then stampeded into the sea. But the truth is that these God-sent men only turned against authority or against systems in order to lift the individual man to his potential, to meet the needs of the individual child of God as an act of loving concern in order that this individual might begin to see himself as a worthwhile person loved by God.

Men with new and revolutionary ideas like those who forced King John to sign the Magna Carta, and King George III to accept the Declaration of Independence were the wise men of their day laying these gifts at the feet of Him who came to save mankind from oppression, unnecessary poverty amidst plenty, and the fear of living. There is no way to separate the salvation of men's souls from the saving of their natural lives from the powers of evil and the evil powers of men around us! The march of Christianity through God's history has, with only occasional detours, constantly brought man from oppression, want, and sickness to a greater freedom from these evils which torment him.

Strutting across the ice, penguins make a comically pompous picture. They are at once dignified and ridiculous, and if we look at them very long, they remind us uncomfortably of ourselves!

We, too, are apt to mass together on occasion and to be, perhaps, a little ludicrous in our efforts to be "part of the scene." Sometimes following the leader may, indeed, be the best thing to do. But it can also be the easy way out.

Today, especially, we need the courage of our convictions. We need to stand up for what we truly believe in. We need to do the important things.

Like going to church.

ANNOUNCING OUR GRANDEST OPENING YET.

Announcing the Grand Opening of Section III of Northville Commons. And we guarantee you've never seen anything like it before.

You'll see eight completely new model homes. And the kind of features that make you wonder why builders haven't built them in before.

29-foot family rooms. Dining rooms with elegant stained wood and built-in break fronts. Cathedral ceilings that span both living and family rooms.

We even have a unique garage to show you. And a totally new 1973 Idea Home.

And with our Guaranteed Sale Plan you can, in effect, trade your present home in on any one of our new models.

Of course, it takes much more than a house to make a home. So we also offer you a unique 30-acre Commons with picnic and playground areas, walking paths and open spaces.

Plus an excellent school system, shopping areas, churches, and freeway accessibility. And the sense of living with some 200 years of quiet history.

At Northville Commons. One mile west of Haggerty on Six Mile Road in Northville Township.

Open daily and Sunday 1-8, Saturday 12-5 (closed Thursday). Call 476-4848 or 349-4550.

Prices start at $57,900.

TWO POINTER
 Phil Jerome may look like just another high school basketball fan. But he's watching and taking notes. The game isn't over for Phil until his description of the action comes off the typewriter and gets into your home as part of the news in The Northville Record-Now News.

FOR NEWSPAPER PEOPLE...
 A day's work may include covering an athletic contest, then writing about it. Or it may be helping a local merchant plan an advertisement for a sale. Or it may be the announcement of the death of a local resident; or the birth of the community's newest resident. It could be delivery of the newspaper to your home. Whatever the assignment, a "week's work" means getting your community newspaper to your home on time filled with all the happenings of your community in words and pictures. The job is performed by people who live and work in your town. You can help them do a better job by first reading your community newspaper weekly and becoming better informed; and by thinking of your friends at the newspaper when you have a news item to report, or a want ad to place.

March 18th - Miss Vi Hopkins, topic: "Suppling your Horse".

Michigan horse enthusiasts may brush up on horse breeding and foaling practices, disease and parasite control, housing and pasture management, nutrition and other problems of horse raising during a five-session evening shortcourse conducted by Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service.

The course will be offered in Adrian, Davisburg, Saginaw and Traverse City for persons 14 years or older. Cost is $10, and enrollment is limited to 150 participants at each location. Classes meet from 7:30-10 p.m. The first session begins with registration at 6:30 p.m.

Adrian area participants will meet on Mondays, January 22 and 29, February 5, 12, and 19 at Jones Hall Auditorium, Adrian College.

Adrian Sessions at Davisburg are Tuesdays, January 23 and 30, February 6, 13 and 20 at Davisburg Youth Activities Center.

Persons interested in attending should contact:

Richard J. Allen or Doug Shuherk, Lenawee County Extension Office, Adrian.

Wm. F. Muller, Oakland County Extension Office, Pontiac (for Davisburg sessions).

Area residents interested in improving their knowledge on the management of pleasure and light horses may want to attend the "Horse Science Shortcourse."

The shortcourse will begin Tuesday evening, January 23 at 7:30; to be held at the Youth Activities Center located at Davisburg.

Oakland County Extension Director, Bill Muller, said that the shortcourse will consist of five meetings covering the following topics:

Horse Housing and Facilities, Selecting a Sound Horse, Breeding and Foaling, Diseases and Parasites, Management of Horse Pastures, and Equine Nutrition. Nationally known personalities from New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan will lead the weekly discussions.

Persons wishing to attend are urged to contact the Cooperative Extension Service office in Pontiac at 334-3507 for an advance registration form that will be required for all enrollees. A fee of $10 will be assessed each individual for the five sessions and will cover cost of educational materials distributed at each meeting.

Registrants must be fourteen years of age or over, and enrollment will be on a first come first serve basis with a maximum enrollment of 200 persons. Meeting dates for all five sessions are: January 23 and 30, February 6, 13 and 20. All meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m. on each of the appointed dates.
