

NEWS BRIEFS

SERGEANT DAVID ORPHAN

"LADIES and Gentlemen, the President of the United States." With those words, heard around the world, Sergeant David Orphan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Orphan of Northville, introduced President Richard Nixon as he approached the rostrum for the inaugural ceremony Saturday. A graduate of Northville High School and a former student at U-M, Sergeant Orphan also introduced Vice-President Spiro Agnew. Stationed at Ft. Meyers, he is the announcer for the Infantry's famed Fife and Drum Corps and in this capacity was called on to make the introduction.

INITIAL condemnation proceedings were authorized by the city council last week against the property of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Bongiovanni at 223 South Wing Street (fourth property south of Cady on the east side of the street). The Bongiovannis have rejected the city's offer to purchase the property, which has been earmarked as part of a municipal parking district. The council, which voted 4-0 in favor of the action, permitted Councilman Paul Folino to abstain from voting because he is a relative of the Bongiovannis.

AN IDEA that was conceived and introduced in the Northville Public School District will be one of 16 recommendations to be made by the Board of Directors of the Michigan State Board of Education for use in all the state's school districts. The policy of obtaining building bids before holding bond elections was initiated locally by Superintendent Raymond Spear and Business Manager Earl Busard. The latter explained and discussed the practice with directors of the state chamber last week. Jim Barrett, manager of an educational research and analysis program being conducted by the chamber to find more effective and efficient use of funds for education, said the board was most impressed by the Northville idea. Drafting school plans and getting specific construction bids prior to holding bond elections enables voters to know exactly what their money is buying. Customarily, bond issue elections are held before bids are sought and frequently bids are higher than money available. The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce will publish its full list of proposals for all school districts in the near future.

YEAR ROUND school enrollment currently totals 283, according to Miss Florence Panattoni, director of the program. The enrollment figure is in addition to those students presently involved in the program operating at Amerman Elementary. Students may be enrolled in the voluntary program now through February 16. Informational centers are planned for Wednesday, January 31, at Moraine Elementary and February 14 at Amerman. Both sessions begin at 8 p.m.

School Board Seeks OK For $11.5 Million Bonds

Considers Foreign Trip Policy Here

Northville school board members voted unanimously to file applications with the department of education and municipal finance commission for qualification and approval of bonds not to exceed $11.5 million for construction of three new schools.

Board members, acting Monday night, also reviewed proposed guidelines governing out of state and out of country field trips involving students.

Applications authorized by the board to be filed for qualification and approval of the bonds are in conjunction with the district's planned construction of a middle school and two elementary schools.

The proposed middle school will be constructed on Bradner Road near Franklin, while the elementary schools will be built in Highland Lakes and Northville Commons.

Both elementary schools will utilize the same floor plan with minor adjustments made in accordance with the individual school sites, officials explained.

The bond issue will be placed before voters in the annual school election in June.

Trustees and administrators said they will again be using the bid before bond procedure, enabling the voters to know exactly how much the schools will cost when they are asked to vote approval for the sale of bonds.

Besides construction of the three buildings, proceeds from the sale of bonds will be used for furnishing and equipping the schools, acquiring additional school sites, including one for a high school, developing and improving school sites and constructing and equipping playgrounds and outdoor education facilities, including an athletic field.

Of the approximate $11.5 million cost, board members anticipate new building construction will be about $8.4 million; equipment $1.2 million; $477,000, architect fees; $83,000, consultant fees; $12 million, site purchase; and $231,000, interest costs.

Deducted from those costs will be interest the district anticipates earning, making the bond issue approximately $11.5 million.

School trustees also reviewed proposed guidelines for out of state and out of country field trips involving students.

Superintendent Raymond Spear said action on the guidelines was prompted by four planned out of country trips.

During spring vacation, the German class will be going to Germany, French class to France and the Spanish class to Mexico. The band also plans to travel to Mexico City in April.

Guidelines were established by a committee of administrators, students, teachers, parents and principals.

REAL HORSE POWER—The internal combustion engine supposedly spelled the demise of the horse years ago but not so in Northville where, at the corner of Sheldon and Seven Mile roads, the horse still has priority over the automobile. Traffic is stopped whenever trotters and pacers make their way from the winter barns to the Northville Downs oval and back. Incidentally, the Jackson-at-Northville meet ends Saturday but harness racing continues at the Downs for another six weeks as the Northville Downs stages its winter meet.

Two Trustee Posts Filled

College Taps Floyd Kehrl

Northville still has a representative, temporarily at least, on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

Acting to fill two vacancies on the board, trustees surprised themselves almost as much as the audience last week by their rapidity in appointing Floyd A. Kehrl of Northville and Mrs. Nancie Blatt of Livonia from a slate of a dozen candidates.

The action, which pundits had suggested would involve a long and explosive battle, took less than an hour and was relatively mellow.

The new appointees will serve until June when they must stand for election if they wish to keep their posts.

They are filling the seats formerly held by A. Robert Geake of Northville, former board chairman who last November was elected to the Michigan House of Representatives, and Mrs. Mary Dumas, who has become a member of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Thus, the new appointees are from the same communities as their predecessors.

Biggest surprise, perhaps, was the fact that Dr. Gerald Cox of Garden City was not appointed. He was a favorite of board observers going into the special meeting.

Cox, who was one of only three candidates nominated by trustees, was in the audience as were several other candidates, including William Secord of Northville, a former trustee.

Besides Dr. Cox and Secord, others who had offered to serve included Wilson Tyler of Northville; Richard Webber and Mark McQuesten, former Schoolcraft students; Paul Mutnick, former long time board member from Clarenceville; John Calhoun of Plymouth; Dolora Yori of Garden City; Robert Cadotte of Livonia; and Clarke Oldenburg of Garden City, another former trustee. Marie Miller of Livonia, who had been suggested for a post, requested that she not be considered.

After a short discussion about some of the candidates, the acting chairman, Mrs. Rosina Raymond, announced the nominations and appointment would be by voice vote, unlike secret balloting in the past.

Trustee Archibald Vallier of Plymouth quickly nominated Kehrl; Trustee Paul Kadish of Livonia nominated Mrs. Blatt, and Mrs. Raymond of Livonia nominated Dr. Cox.

Then, upon the insistence of Vallier, trustees voted on the nominees in the order of their nomination. Kehrl was first, drawing 4-2 support with Raymond and John LaRue voting "no".

Blatt drew support of all six trustees, and then with the initial two nominees already having received majority votes, the trustees turned to the name of Cox. Only LaRue and Raymond voted for him.

With the two appointments, the board now consists of five

Ambulance Pact Runs into Snag

The proposed agreement between the city and township of Northville to provide community ambulance hit a snag Monday night as the township board decided it should seek competitive bids for the service.

Previously, the township board and city council had given attorneys the authority to draft a proposed three-party contract between the city, township and General Ambulance Service.

But at a special meeting Monday night five board members (Trustees Leonard Klein and Charles Schaeffer were absent) voted 4 to 1 in favor of a motion made by Trustee Richard Mitchell and seconded by Clerk Sally Cayley to table action on the proposed contract until competitive bids could be taken.

Only Treasurer Joseph Straub voted against the postponement. He, along with Supervisor Lawrence Wright and Trustee John MacDonald, stated that they believed the board had already acted to

Flu Absences Still Minimal

Northville, Novi and Wixom schools seem to be on the antiseptic fringes of the flu bug's territory.

A telephone survey of the area schools early this week showed no signs of a flu epidemic, although many schools said absenteeism was running a bit higher than usual.

Some elementary schools are battling the chicken pox, but they seem to be winning that fight.

Only one school, Cooke Middle School Annex in Northville, reported absenteeism was double the usual amount for students.

Mrs. Dortha Conley, annex secretary, said 30 of the sixth graders were home with flu on Monday and four teachers called in sick. Normal absenteeism rate is about 15 students and one teacher.

Northville was represented four times on the Albion College dean's list for the fall semester. Each of the students on the list attained a 3.3 scholastic average or better.

The local students who achieved honors were: Susan Deisley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Deisley; Jane Forrer, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Forrer; Lois Rodenbeck, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Egon Rodenbeck; and Dan Taylor who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Taylor.

Terry Hennings, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hennings of 19713 Hayes Court, was recently initiated into the Gamma Xi chapter of Alpha Chi Omega sorority at Western Michigan University.

Miss Hennings now holds the office of Lyre Editor in the sorority.

Included on the honor roll for the fall semester at the University of Oklahoma was Gordon Roy Hammond of Northville.

To be named to the honor list at the university, a student must achieve a 3.0 grade average or better for the entire semester.

The annual Hunters' Dinner, sponsored by the Lloyd H. Green American Legion Post 147, will be held Saturday evening for members and their friends. The dinner begins at 6:30 p.m.

Post 147 now has more than 185 paid members, officials have announced, in its drive to attract 230-plus paid up members by the end of the year.

Pat Ryan, 19417 Althea Court, will participate in a program to be presented today and tomorrow (Thursday and Friday) at the Livonia-Mall-by-the-Detroit Motor City Chorus.

MARCHING PLANS—The March of Dimes Mothers March against birth defects begins in Northville on Wednesday, January 31, and the local coordinators are still working on preparations for the door-to-door campaign. Calling prospective marchers is the Northville chairman, Mrs. Gary Norbach, who is holding her son, five-month-old Brian. He and his twin sister, Julie, were born healthy and, says Mrs. Norbach, healthy births is what the March of Dimes wants for all parents and babies. The other women who attended the recent planning session were, from left, Mrs. Patrick Kennedy, Mrs. Alan J. Potts and Mrs. Louise McGrath. According to Northville's March of Dimes general chairman, John Steimel, the 1972 Mothers March netted close to $2,000. "I know we'll go over that this year," Steimel said. He also announced that a March of Dimes Tag Day is planned for February and a benefit Jazz concert will be held in March. Like the Mothers March monies, the proceeds from those two events will be used for research toward the prevention of birth defects.

Millers Marks 60 Years

At an open house in Walled Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller were honored on the occasion of their sixtieth wedding anniversary. The January 14 party was given Mrs. Miller is the former Sarah Sherwood of Midland, New Brunswick. Her husband is a native of Calas, Maine.

Now retired, Miller was a partner in The Pine Tree Cartage Company for 43 years. He and his wife lived in Detroit for 53 years and have been in Novi for the past six.

The Millers have two daughters, Mrs. Pauline Butterfield of Novi and Mrs. Pert Fleming of Detroit, two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Special guests at the open house were their grandchildren, and their spouses, Mrs. and Mrs. D. T. Butterfield and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dawe; their great-grandchildren, Dan and Nancy Dawe; and Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Miller.

It will be a "Night in White Satin" for members of Northville High School's Junior class attending the class prom on Saturday, February 3, at the Thunderbird-Hilton in Plymouth.

Prom Chairman Judy Morse has announced that the semi-formal event will be held from 9 p.m. until 1 p.m. and the music for the evening will be provided by The Artesians.

Tickets are being sold during lunch periods in the high school cafeteria to members of the junior class at a cost of $2.50 a couple.

The theme, Judy said, was voted on by the entire class, and it comes from the lyrics of a popular song.

"RANKING EXPERT on piano rags" is one of the titles earned by William Albright, instructor in music composition at the University of Michigan School of Music. He will speak on and demonstrate "Ragtime" at the annual men's night dinner of Northville Woman's Club at 7 p.m. February 2 at Northville First Presbyterian Church.

The program will highlight the popular annual "night out" for husbands and guests of club members. Reservations now are being made with Mrs. Sheldon McElroy, 349-2340, and her reservation committee.

Albright calls ragtime "one of the few musical styles to bridge the gap between classic and folk-popular idioms." He points out that its composers were principally black, but the music influenced such whites as Ives, Debussy, Hindemith and Stravinsky—all of whom composed "rags."

Albright, presently music coordinator of the Contemporary Directions Concerts and Associate Director of the Electronic Studio, will be introduced by Dr. Donald Williams, program chairman for the evening. Known also as an organist-composer, Albright won the 1970 composition award of the American Academy-National Institute of Arts and Letters. The prize is awarded to four composers who have achieved distinction during the year.

Regarded as a virtuoso on the organ, Albright and his music for the organ are considered highly distinctive—he uses new techniques and effects. He has presented concerts in New York, Toronto and Paris. He has recorded also.

Born October 20, 1944, Albright has studied with outstanding teachers of piano and organ. He has delved into the history of ragtime as well as collected the music.

He points out that the "serious" musical world is just now rediscovering ragtime. Recent "concerts" and recordings, he notes, are meeting with "fantastic success and musicologists are now jumping on the bandwagon. Ragtime is one of the few musical forms I know that cuts across virtually every class, race and cultural line: absolutely everybody is enchanted by it!"

The revival of the men's night dinner six years ago during the club's diamond jubilee year has proved most popular. Working with Mrs. Charles Fountain, social chairman, are Mrs. George Daraban, Mrs. Martin Rinehart and Mrs. Gene Cushing. Mrs. Fountain points out that all members of her social committee assist with this event as it draws a capacity crowd of almost 200.

1 cup sugar
1 large package instant lemonade
½ teaspoon ground cloves
1 cup instant tea
½ teaspoon cinnamon
pinch of allspice

Today's fete is a linen shower being given by Mrs. David Houck at her home on Eight Mile Road. The 15 guests invited are mostly friends of Mrs. Fisher. GENEALOGY—the study of family ancestors—fast is becoming a popular hobby as more and more people trace their family trees.

"The place to start is with you," emphasizes Eleanor (Mrs. Walter) Hammond of Plymouth, a member of the Detroit Society of Genealogical Research who also has worked with the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, DAR, in family research.

She advised members of Base Line Quarters at their January meeting Monday at the home of Mrs. Eugene Guido to use a chart and to begin with themselves. She warned that it does not work to begin with a long-ago ancestor and try to trace down to present family. Many times, she illustrated, there might have been a captain in the war and just a farmer and it was much "nicer" for the family to think it was the captain who was the direct relation.

Charts, such as the pioneer record from the Michigan State Library, trace from the person to his father (always number 2 on genealogical charts) and his mother (always number 3) and through them back into family history.

Complete names including the person's own middle name are important in charting, Mrs. Hammond said. Women use their complete maiden names to begin. She advised everyone to know when and where she was born, including the county, as that is where records are kept.

In compiling records to make a "Pedigree Chart," as the chart distributed by Deseret Book Company of Salt Lake City for the Utah Genealogical

Paper Sparks Learning

Did you know... Ladybugs hibernate for the winter. They do not die in the fall like many other insects.

During hibernation, the ground squirrel's heartbeat slows down to as little as five beats per minute.

When the temperature drops, birds fluff up to increase the insulating air layer in their feathers.

Many birds and mammals generate extra heat by shivering.

These are a few of the facts a sixth grade youngster in the Walled Lake School District is apt to learn from a two-page paper issued each month called "Mother Nature's Notebook".

"Mother Nature" is Miss Barbara Garbutt, director of Outdoor Education in the District, who is in charge of the Outdoor Education Center located on Sleeth Road in Commerce Township. Miss Garbutt edits the paper while Mrs. Marcia Deiter, a Walled Lake art teacher, creates the line drawings used in the paper.

Depending on the season of the year, the Notebook contains interesting details on animal and plant life. It further helps the child to understand how animals manage to survive during the changing seasons.

Propose 'Delayed Payment' on Assessments

Faced with rising resistance to an assessment for the paving of Taft Road, Novi Mayor Joseph Crupi Monday proposed a plan which would permit property owners to defer payment of all special assessments.

In essence, Crupi's plan would allow property owners to defer payment of special assessments — which by law are based on dollar-benefit received — until such time that the dollar-benefit is actually received through the sale of the property at its increased value.

"There is no doubt that a piece of property increases in value by virtue of having the road in front of it paved," said Crupi in introducing his proposal.

"I have often said that it is unfortunate that payment of assessments cannot be deferred until a person sells his property. I now feel that there is enough merit in the plan so that it deserves serious consideration."

Crupi referred his proposal to City Attorney David Fried for his opinion on the legal ramifications of such a deferment. He also asked that Novi's Road Improvement Committee study the proposal in relation to its potential effect on the city's long-range paving program.

The problem with the present assessment system, said the Mayor, is that when a road is paved the only immediate benefit the property owners receive from the project is usage of a paved road, and yet he is made to pay an assessment on a benefit he doesn't receive until he sells his property.

"I wonder if it's not possible that a portion of the total assessment could be paid at the time the road is put in and payment of the remainder of the total assessment be deferred until the property is sold."

Crupi further proposed that an interest rate of six percent, compounded annually, could be tacked onto the unpaid balance until such time that payment is made.

While acknowledging that such a program might be more equitable to the members of the special assessment district, Crupi also noted that adoption of a "deferred payment" plan would have a negative effect on the city's overall road paving plans.

The problem with such a plan, he said, is that it would reduce the city's ability to pave other roads.

In as much as the city would have to bear the burden of the cost during the period of deferred payment, Act 51 monies and revenue from the city's specially-designated road millage would be channeled away from paving and maintaining other roads.

"Still," said Crupi, "it's a thought that might start a trend in the area of special assessments. It will slow us down, but I still think it's a plan worthy of consideration."

Further discussion will come when Fried and the Road Committee submit their reports.

It's time for the annual Mother's March Against Birth Defects, and Mrs. Patricia Karevich (foreground), president of the Novi March, has enlisted an army of approximately 200 volunteers for the door to door campaign. School Board Makes Two Appointments Appointment of an assistant high school principal and a community education administrative intern topped the agenda Tuesday as the Novi Board of Education sped through its regular second meeting of the month.

Named assistant principal by a 6-0 vote was Charles N. Nanas, a counselor at Southfield High School.

The "part-time" appointment means Nanas, who lives in Livonia, will serve through the remainder of the school year at a salary of $8,500.

According to Superintendent Gerald Kratz, four major universities were contacted concerning the new post, and 25 candidates applied for the position. They were interviewed January 9 and 10 by a management team composed of representatives from the high school, secondary administration, elementary administration and the central office administration, he said.

"All the candidates appeared extremely well qualified and the selection was a very difficult one."

Nanas has a masters degree plus 30 semester hours in counseling and psychology. A veteran, he is involved in many professional and community service activities. He began his professional career in the Dearborn Public Schools in 1963. Nanas is married.

Although the appointment is temporary, Dr. Kratz has indicated that he will recommend the assistant principal post be made permanent next fall.

During their discussion of community education, board members made it clear that a chief goal of the project will be to coordinate and encourage activities already existent in the community.

The Novi Youth Assistance program, which already receives support of the district with free use of a school room for an office, was given as an example of the kinds of activities that could be incorporated into community education concept.

Concerning Youth Assistance, the board was introduced to the new social worker-professional assistant, Wallace Cook, who has been assigned to Novi.

The Reverend Father Leslie Harding, chairman of the Youth Assistance committee, also was present and emphasized the importance of coordinating Novi activities as a means of ridding the community of its divisiveness.

Later in the meeting, Dr. Kratz also indicated that establishment of a Big Brother-Big Sister program is being given serious consideration here. "This program," he said, "is especially designed to assist children who are in need of increased adult time and attention usually due to the child coming from a single parent home."

He noted that neighboring South Lyon has a very successful Big Sister program...and, incidentally, a community education program.

For Holtzman-Silverman

Council Sets Hearing

At the request of developer Holtzman and Silverman, the Novi city council set March 12 as the date for a public hearing to consider preliminary plat approval for its Meadowbrook Glens Number Three subdivision.

At the same time, several members of the council made it clear to Holtzman and Silverman planning representative Paul Shepherd that they feel his employer is attempting to circumvent several city ordinances and approval of the preliminary plat faces a dubious future.

Holtzman and Silverman is developing its Meadowbrook Glens subdivision in three stages. Meadowbrook Glens One and Two have been completed and the developers now want to get started on the third part of their development.

The council has previously approved a pre-preliminary plat plan for Meadowbrook Glens, but since the time that approval was granted, Holtzman and Silverman discovered that a sizeable portion of their property is unsuitable for building.

As a result, the plan they have submitted for preliminary plat approval contains two major changes from the plan which received pre-preliminary plat approval.

Problem number one facing Holtzman and Silverman is to convince the council that its latest plan is nothing more than a revision of the original plan.

If the council should decide, however, that the proposed changes are of sufficient breadth so as to constitute an entirely new plan as opposed to a mere revision of the first plan, Holtzman and Silverman would have to start again and go through the process of getting pre-preliminary plat approval.

Complicating the matter is the fact that if Holtzman and Silverman is allowed to continue with its original plan, they will be able to operate under an old city ordinance which permits minimum lot widths of 60 feet.

If, on the other hand, they have to start over, they would be forced to comply with a new ordinance which requires minimum lot widths of 80 feet.

The question of lot sizes is one area in which several council members feel the developer is attempting to circumvent a city ordinance.

The changes in the plans submitted by Holtzman and Silverman revolve around the fact that a sizeable portion of their property was discovered to be unsuitable for building

Criticizes Use of 'Junket'

Mayor Crupi Blasts Press

Novi Mayor Joseph Crupi, his face flushed with anger, strongly criticized the press in general and The Novi News in particular at Monday's council session.

Source of the Mayor's irritation was a headline which appeared in last week's (January 18) edition, which read "Council OKs Junket to Texas Convention."

Included in Crupi's criticism was a metropolitan Detroit newspaper which carried a similar headline. "The meaning of the word 'junket' carries a derogatory connotation," said the Mayor. "Don't give us a reputation we do not deserve. If anyone knows the connotations of the word 'junket', it ought to be the newspapers."

The article in question concerned the efforts of Councilman Louis Campbell to get the rest of the council to adopt a policy regarding participation of Novi city employees at conventions requiring a great deal of travel.

If it's a matter of sending someone to Lansing or of sending some of our policemen to Northwestern University for training, then I have no objections, stated Campbell.

"But when our department heads start travelling clear across the country to attend national conventions,

Councilmen Rip Campbell

Following Mayor Joseph Crupi's criticism of the press Monday, Councilmen Louie Campbell, Denis Berry, and Edwin Presnell engaged in a brief flurry of words that was quickly gavelled down by the mayor.

Before Crupi intervened, however, Presnell had accused Campbell of attempting to make a political issue out of Building Department Director Earl Bailey's trip to Texas and Berry had charged Campbell of carrying out a personal "vendetta" against Bailey. Campbell denied both charges.

The exchange took place after Campbell had reiterated his position on Bailey's trip, saying he still felt very strongly that matters of this nature should come before the council.

When Berry pointed out that the council had already discussed the matter and decided differently, Campbell stated: "If I'm wrong then the voters of this community will tell me so by pulling a lever on the voting machine that is not opposite my name."

At this point Presnell asked: "This isn't a campaign, is it?" — a reference to the fact that Campbell's term on the council expires in November and it has been rumored that

New Members Welcome

FISH Volunteers Meet Tonight

The public is invited to attend the meeting on Thursday, January 25, of the Northville-Novu FISH organization.

Beginning at 8 p.m., the meeting will be held in Living Lord Lutheran Church which is located on 10 Mile Road near Meadowbrook.

Assistant Director of Wayne County Social Services, Mrs. Laura Hess, and Wayne County Public Health Nurse, Mrs. George Skorina, will speak. They will present information about the types of social services available in Wayne County and how the FISH organization can best refer individuals in need to the proper agency.

Don Burch, director of the Northville-Novu FISH chapter, is "very encouraged" by the responses of the people in the community in recent months. The chapter has increased by 60 new volunteers.

FISH is a voluntary, nonprofessional, non-profit organization whose purpose is to provide a direct, people-to-people Christian concern. Typical services rendered by the organization's volunteers include emergency transportation, babysitting, housework for the sick, companionship for the homebound, referral services and emergency housing and clothing.

First begun in England, over 100 chapters of FISH have been established in the United States since 1964. Its members are people of all Christian denominations who are high school age or older.

When an individual calls FISH for assistance, a professional answering service takes the name and phone number of the caller. A FISH member, during the day, calls the service every four hours to obtain information on callers. In the event of an emergency, the answering service phones a FISH member immediately.

The FISH member calls the individual in need to determine the specifics of the assistance required and then refers to the FISH volunteer list and, calls one of the members to handle the case. Any requests that cannot be handled by members on the volunteer list are referred to an appropriate social service agency or to a FISH agency in another community or district.

For 'Action'

In observance of National Jaycee Week (January 21-27), Novi Mayor Joseph Crupi presented the following proclamation to Todd Price, president of the Novi Jaycees, at Monday's council session.

The proclamation reads as follows:

For many years, the Novi Jaycees, young men of action, have been a group of political and social activists dedicated to American ideals and principles.

The Jaycees have initiated, developed and supported numerous worthwhile and meaningful projects designed to increase opportunities for our young people and strengthen our communities, our state and our nation.

The Jaycees within our community aspire to the highest of goals - goals not within easy reach, but requiring commitment and dedicated work.

Therefore, I, Joseph Crupi, Mayor of the City of Novi, hereby urge all citizens to give appropriate recognition to the past accomplishments of the Novi Jaycees, and to lend future support to the Jaycees' efforts to improve the quality of life in our city.

The proclamation was signed by the mayor.

According to Hal Seymour, high school principal, the format of the Open House will be designed to encourage parents to express their viewpoints regarding the subject matter and program areas currently being offered by the school.

Survey Results Near

Results of the recent telephone survey concerning the proposed improvement of Taft Road were expected to be made known to the Novi Board of Education late this week.

The survey, conducted under the direction of Mrs. Polly Cairthers, director of public information for Oakland Schools, with the assistance of Novi Jaycee Auxiliary members, asked citizens how they would feel about the school paying a special assessment for the paving of Taft Road.

It also asked questions relating to needs of the school district. The sampling of some 400 residents began January 16.

Data gathered in the survey was to be put through the county's computer system for tabulation.

The school board is expected to consider the findings in making its decision whether or not to accept a full or partial assessment. Under the law, it is under no obligation to accept one.

Following Superintendent Gerald Kratz report, the board extended its appreciation to volunteers who did the survey work and it directed the superintendent to send them formal letters of appreciation.

Steimel Gets Distinguished Service Award

Postmaster John Steimel, who has assisted scores of troubled youth over the past decade, was awarded the coveted Distinguished Service Award by Northville Jaycees Wednesday night.

"Few people realize the important role John has played over the years in counseling boys," explained Jaycee President Dennis Dildy. "Purposefully avoiding publicity, he has, on his own, spent countless hours giving purpose and meaning to the lives of youngsters who have gone to him for advice."

Dildy also praised the postmaster for his service as community March of Dimes chairman, Boys State chairman, and as a past Boy Scout leader.

It was while Steimel was a committee member for the Methodist Church Boy Scout troop that he began his unique counseling work.

"One of my former scouts came to me for some advice," explained Steimel reluctantly. "It was a matter that a boy might discuss with his father but for one reason or another he came to me instead."

Within months other youngsters started going to the postmaster and soon his home at 488 Hill Street became a haven for "troubled" youth.

They came to him with questions about sex, drugs, girls...you name it.

It wasn't that they have problems, emphasized Steimel, "but because they assumed they had problems. I just give them some fatherly advice to set their thinking straight."

Some parents are not aware their youngsters have consulted Steimel, who maintains a confidential rapport with those who seek him out.

According to Dildy, who is director of the area probation department, Steimel is doing the kind of work that probation officers do...but he does it outside the framework of the department or any other agency.

Married, with two boys of his own — one a college student, the other a high schooler — Steimel for the past 12 years has served as American Legion chairman of the local Wolverine Boys State program.

This year, as during the past three, he serves as the March of Dimes chairman

A World War II veteran, active member of the Lloyd H Green Post here, Steimel has been Northville postmaster for eight years.

Previously, he was purchasing agent and storekeeper for the Plymouth Home and Training School.

The award was given Steimel at an anniversary banquet of the Jaycees Wednesday at the Wagon Wheel restaurant.

It marked local observance of Jaycee Week, January 20-27.

A civic organization for young men between the ages of 18 and 35, the local Jaycee chapter is dedicated to making Northville a better place in which to live.

Anyone interested in becoming a member is urged to contact the Jaycee membership chairman, Douglas Loomis, at 349-1664.

PROUD WINNER—Northville Postmaster John Steimel proudly displays the distinguished service award presented to him by Northville Jaycees. On hand to extend congratulations was 18-year-old Jim Curl (background), youngest member of the local Jaycee chapter.

Of Women's Jail

Favors State Control

State control of Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo) women's division is highly favored by DeHoCo Superintendent John Amberger.

"Amberger, who heads both the women's division located on Five Mile Road in Northville township and the men's division across the road in Plymouth township, said he hopes the state will assume responsibilities for the women's facilities by July 1."

Currently, the city of Detroit owns and operates both divisions.

"When I was hired for this job (last year), one of my goals was to help make this become a reality," the superintendent stated.

Amberger said he feels the women inmates will gain "because it costs more than $11 per day per person to run a prison. It is naive to feel you can change a person's life style with so few funds."

The state reimburses the city of Detroit $11 per day for each state prisoner held at the facility. DeHoCo is the only women's prison in Michigan.

Amberger explained that the difference last year between the actual cost of inmate care and the cost reimbursed was $600,000.

"We need more money for programs at the prison," he said, "and if the state controlled the women's division they could talk directly to the legislature." Currently, Amberger must approach the Detroit mayor, Detroit Common Council and finally the state legislature.

"It would relieve one layer of bureaucracy," he noted. "I run the prison but they (the state) run the parole board for the state prisoners."

Approximately 10 percent of the prisoners held at DeHoCo women's division are city or county inmates. The remaining 90 percent are state inmates.

Amberger said he sees no drawbacks to the state assuming responsibilities for the division. He said he feels services and programs which can be offered to the inmates will also improve. More funds will be available, he stated, for the additional services and programs.

It's only good business, Amberger continued, to have the "appropriate units of government operating the appropriate services."

He also said a strong point used to convince the state to acquire the women's division is "the good relationship we have with the communities of Northville and Plymouth."

"The residents are used to the idea of the prison being here," he said. "If you try and put it elsewhere, you'll have the people in that area up in arms. We have learned to live with each other here."

He also commented that he is "very appreciative of the cooperation shown by Northville and Plymouth with the institution."

The superintendent commented that once control of the women's division has been shifted to the state, he hopes to begin further discussions with Wayne County to have the county assume operation of the men's division.

Flu Absences Still Minimal

half of one kindergarten class was out with chicken pox right after Christmas holidays. Currently, only three or four students are out of any one class with the flu.

"I guess we must be healthy out here in the country," Mrs. Evelyn Zeuner, school secretary, commented.

Wixom Elementary reports a few flu cases, although two weeks ago 40 students were out in the first and second grades with chicken pox.

Last week, however, only four students were down with the pox and school officials feel the illness is finally tapering off.

Northville's Main Street Elementary reported 40 students out with flu and colds Monday "which isn't too bad," Principal Donald Van Ingen said. Three staff members were also home with the bug.

Amerman Elementary sent three students home from school early in the week. Two students were also out with other illnesses. None of the staff members was absent.

Cooke Middle School averaged between three and five students absent per homeroom which, Assistant Principal Richard Norton stated, "is a bit higher than usual." Northville High School's absentee rate paralleled that of the middle school.

St Paul's Lutheran School reported "nothing out of the ordinary," although absenteeism was up a little over normal in the upper grades beginning Monday.

Four students went home early Monday from Our Lady of Victory Catholic School, but overall, absentee figures were no higher than usual.

In Novi, Novi Elementary has been skipped by both chicken pox and the flu. Orchard Hills Elementary reported about 10 cases of chicken pox since Christmas and about two or three students in each of the 17 classrooms out at any one time with the flu.

Compared with the 80 students out at one time with flu last year at Orchard Hills, the school officials feel they are luckier this year than last.

At Village Oaks Elementary colds and flu struck the school just before the Christmas holidays. Currently, only five or six students are battling the flu bug.

Novi Middle School secretary Mrs. Mary Lou Morris said that "if the flu has hit this school, it's been very mild." Absenteeism is no higher than usual.

Novi High School Principal Hal Seymour said some students have been out with the flu, but it hasn't been heavy. We normally run about seven and one-half to eight percent absenteeism. That rate has increased in the last two weeks one to three percent."

Most of those, he added, are flu related cases.

John Hloheneic

Name Probation Assistant Here

John Hloheneic, 529 Randolph, has been named co-chief officer of the Northville Probation Department, Director Dennis Dildy announced this week.

Retired lieutenant on the Detroit House of Corrections staff, Hloheneic was selected from 22 applicants for the position, which he will share with A. L. Wistert.

Hloheneic, like five of the other 21 applicants, has been a volunteer with the probation department here for several years.

"Our case load in Northville has grown so large over the years," said Dildy, "it became necessary to find someone to assist Mr. Wistert."

Even though Plymouth has a larger population than Northville, the local case load is about as big — 170, said Dildy.

With Wistert, and under the direction of Dildy, who heads up the programs in both Plymouth and Northville, Hloheneic will provide supervisory service in working with the 25 volunteer probation workers here.

Hloheneic will be paid $150 per month.

Among those serving on the panel which selected Hloheneic for the position were Police Chief Samuel Elkins and Lieutenant Louie Westfall of the Northville Police Department; John Amberger, Superintendent of the Detroit House of Correction; Wistert; and Peter Jones and Kenneth Jacobs, co-chiefs of the Plymouth probation department.

In announcing the selection, Dildy made a plea for more volunteers from Northville, pointing out that only 25 of the 85 volunteers now serving in Plymouth and Northville are Northville residents.

Next meeting of the Northville department volunteers is scheduled the second Wednesday in February. Interested adults are urged to attend this 8 p.m. meeting in the city hall.

Organizations wishing to have programs concerning the department and its activities may contact Dildy at 349-4746.

Tocco to Appear Friday in Concert

James Tocco, the popular young pianist from Detroit, will appear with the Schoolcraft String Quartet in the first Cultural and Public Affairs presentation of the winter semester on January 26.

The program will open with Laudenslager's Quartet No. 1, Opus 5, by the String Quartet. Next, Tocco will present Piano Variations by Copland. He and the quartet will combine talents to present Quintet Opus 57, by Shostakovich, following intermission.

The quartet is composed of James Waring, Inez Redman, David Ireland and Mario DiFiore, all members of The Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the Waterman Center on campus. Tickets are $2 for general admission and $1 for Schoolcraft students. Advanced tickets are available from the Community Service Office and will be on sale at the door.

The Cultural and Public Affairs Series will include a wide variety of entertainment in the coming weeks. On February 1, Jose Molina and Bailes Espanoles, one of Spain's most popular and exciting song and dance companies, will be presented at the Plymouth-Salem High School auditorium.

Violist Paul Doktor and the Schoolcraft Chamber Orchestra will perform in the Waterman Center on February 6. The award winning film director (The French Connection) William Friedkin has been scheduled for February 27 at Northville High School, and one of America's best known nutritionists, Adelle Davis, will speak April 3 on campus.

General admission tickets for these attractions are $2 and may be ordered from the Community Service Office, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, Michigan 48151. For general information telephone 591-6400, extension 264.

Park Passports Available At Novi Post Office

"Passports" to national parks and recreational areas will soon be available at the Novi Post Office, the United States Post Office has announced.

According to Novi Postmaster Gordon J. Blackburn, the Golden Eagle and Golden Age passports should be available in Novi early next month.

He said the wallet-size passports are issued for the calendar year and entitle the bearer to general admission to designated units of the national parks system and national recreation areas.

The Novi Postmaster also said that the permits entitle the bearer and any person accompanying him in a single, private, non-commercial vehicle to enter the stipulated areas.

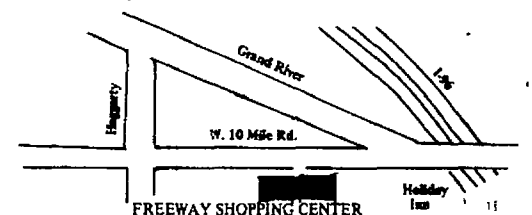

"These passports differ in that the Golden Eagle Passport will be available to any person upon payment of a $10 fee," Blackburn said. "The Golden Age Passport will be issued to any person who is 62 years of age or older and applies for the permit."

"The Golden Age passport will also entitle the bearer to utilize certain facilities within the parks and recreation areas of the national system at a rate of 50 per cent of the established daily use fee."

"Supplying gas is a big job and expensive"

Consumers Power Company supplies nearly 900,000 customers with natural gas. Those customers expect reliable service at reasonable cost. And they're entitled to it.

That's why Consumers Power is building this huge reforming plant near Marysville. By the time it's fully operational, it will have cost more than $120 million and will be delivering 200 million cubic feet of gas a day.

All of this new gas will be made by restructuring molecules of light hydrocarbon liquids piped here from Canada. These liquids are very similar to those burned in a cigarette lighter. When processed, they yield supplemental gas identical to natural gas.

It's not a cheap way of getting extra gas... but it would be a lot more expensive if customers had to switch to another form of energy.

And remember: Natural gas, like all forms of energy, is a valuable commodity. Don't waste it!

Wixom OKs Zoning Change by Split Vote

By a two to three margin, approval was given by the Wixom City Council to change two parcels of land from light manufacturing to multiple family zoning. The tie-breaking vote had to be cast by Mayor Gilbert C. Willis.

The land which was rezoned is located at Pontiac Trail and Beck Road and is adjacent to the C & O railroad tracks. One section is owned by Edward Rose and Sons, developers of "The Village" development. Curtis Kain, a representative of the company was at the meeting and explained to Council why the rezoning request was made.

"The property is actually land locked. There is really no major street by which to get into it," he said. By having it rezoned and making it to the development, there is no need to worry about getting a road into it, he explained.

George DeClerq, the owner of the adjacent land east of the section in question interjected that he was required to dedicate a road to the city when he began developing his property "just for that reason" (so the land was not locked).

It was pointed out, however, that DeClerq intends to have an industrial park on his land and the road would eventually be needed anyway regardless of the change in zoning.

Kain explained that the two requests for rezoning were not actually related, but the two parties banded together "because we thought we'd have a better chance of getting both passed than if we tried alone."

In casting the tie breaker, Willis said, "The planning commission and planning consultant have deemed it advisable, so the mayor casts his vote in the affirmative."

In other action of the evening, the city council tabled a report submitted by the Library Study Commission and a request from Police Chief George VonBehren for an additional police officer on his force. The tabling, in both cases was deemed necessary because there were only four of the six councilmen present. (Howard Coe and Dr. Val Vangieson were excused absences.)

The members of the Library Study Commission will be invited to the first council meeting in March when the possibility of establishing a library for the city will be pursued by the council.

In the report given to Council by the committee, the recommendations were for the city to continue the present contract it has to use the Walled Lake library for another three years.

Meanwhile, the city, the report suggests, should purchase a building and make the library the core, but also provide housing in the same building for parks and recreation activities, senior citizens, the historical society and other city-sponsored groups.

VonBehren, in his request for another patrolman's position on the police force, said that the need for another man was "to prevent catch-up law enforcement."

"That is when a citizen needs an officer and he must wait until that officer finishes up with another call. I feel that a police officer should be there to answer a call within three minutes."

He also cited that Wixom, according to his readings, has grown 44 per cent which is more in the last year than any other city in Oakland County. Having prepared various charts and diagrams to show the council just how his manpower is distributed and how the calls for assistance are received, the chief made his bid for another man on the force.

Councilman Robert Dingley asked how much it would cost the city "in dollars and cents". Willis replied that the approximate figure of $12,000 for one year would be accurate "but that would be taken care of as the city grows and the tax base increases."

VonBehren also stated that with some officers receiving two weeks vacation and others three weeks, 24 weeks of the year are taken up in vacations. That does not include personal leave days and sick days.

"That is one thing I am very strict about," VonBehren said. "I never allow two officers to be on vacation at the same time."

The council will look at the matter again when all of the members are present and the police chief will have to try again.

College Drops Three

Flu Undermines Cagers

With just seven players on the team and with two of them battling off attacks of the London flu, Schoolcraft College's basketball team has more than its share of problems.

Last week the Ocelots lost three more games, making it 12 straight defeats and dropping their season's record to 2-14.

It was Henry Ford

Community College which handed the Schoolcraft five their tenth consecutive defeat Tuesday, as they ran away to a 101-78 victory.

Trailing by four points at the half, 46-42, Schoolcraft's shooting went sour during the second half as they sunk just 14 of 41 shots and watched Henry Ford pull away for the win. Tom Luch paced the Ocelots with 24 points

A strong Alpena outfit did in the Ocelots Friday, taking a 66-58 decision.

"Alpena is in second place in the Michigan Junior College Association and they have a potent offensive squad so we decided to hold the ball against them," reported Tom Roncoli the Schoolcraft mentor.

At the half the score showed Alpena on top with a 28-24 lead and from there they went on to the 66-58 triumph, as the Ocelots were unable to stop the twisting drives of Bob Harris who ended up with 31 points. Again it was Luch who topped Schoolcraft, this time with a 19-point performance.

Washtenaw Community College, or, more accurately, Larry Walls and Charles Johnnican, did in the Ocelots Saturday night 99-89. Walls scored an incredible 49 points while Johnnican tossed in 29 more as the dynamic duo accounted for 78 of Washtenaw's 99-point total. Trailing by 16 with 12 minutes left in the game, the Ocelots closed the gap to one point, 88-87, with a minute and a half left to play, but then fell back as Washtenaw hit three quick buckets to wrap up the win.

Craig Rosenthal, Schoolcraft's 6'9" center, turned in his best game of the season, tallying 35 points. Luch followed with 26.

It's 'Poor Week' in Hockey

It was not a good week for Northville hockey teams as both the Squirt and Mite A-division squads dropped 5-2 decisions.

Lone bright spot for the local skaters was a 9-3 thrashing administered to the Westland Outdoor team by the F. O. E. Eagles - Ely Fuel Oil sponsored Mite club.

Ken Winemaster was the hero of that affair as he sent the puck into the net six times - a double hat trick. Other Northville goals in that game were scored by Tom Simancic, Pat Alexander, and Scott Schaal.

The romp over Westland helped offset a 5-2 loss suffered by the Mites one day earlier. In that game second period goals by Schaal and Alexander had knotted the score at 1-1 and 2-2, but then Westland's "Big M" team scored three straight times to wrap up the victory.

The Thompson Sand and Gravel-sponsored Northville team in the Squirts A-division also dropped a 5-2 decision last week. Northville's Brian Starr scored in the second period to bring about a 1-1 tie with a Plymouth team, but then the Plymouth skaters ran their lead to 4-1 before Northville was able to score again.

Steve Stuart pulled Plymouth's lead down to 4-2 with a third-period goal, but Plymouth scored again before the final siren to wrap up the 5-2 win

'Carols' Lead Novi Squads To Victories over Brighton

With a pair of "Carols" leading the way both Novi's varsity and junior varsity girls' basketball teams posted victories over Brighton last week.

It was the 11-point performance of Carol Maki that sparked the girl Wildcats to a 39-22 victory in the varsity contest. The game was tied 17-17 at the half, but the Novi girls outscored Brighton 22-4 in the second half to secure the triumph.

Nancy Brzezniak and Captain Denise Debrule backed up Carol Maki's team-leading effort with seven and six points respectively.

In the junior varsity contest Carol Poyhonen tossed in 10 points and Janet Cook added five more as the Novi girls posted a 24-16 victory after holding a 10-7 halftime lead.

The Novi girls are coached by Miss Christine Hayward Society is called, Mrs. Hammond gave facts to seek out.

"Interview old relatives," she suggests, to find names of parents and grandparents, getting birth dates and places, marriage dates and also death dates, where died and where buried.

Many times, she adds, families have old wedding invitations, military service records and baptismal accounts to supply bits of history. She named the "Handi Book for Genealogists" edited by George B. Everton Sr. as a basic book to buy to get started on this hobby. She also recommended, "Know Your Ancestors" by Ethel Williams. Mrs. Hammond was introduced by Mrs. Robert Willoughby.

Mrs. Willoughby, club trip chairman, announced a field trip to the Detroit Historical Museum on February 13. It was pointed out that the underground Streets of Detroit exhibit has been greatly expanded. Arrangements have been made for club members to make candles from molds.

THE LIVELY POSTERS advertising the Northville Historical Society-VFW benefit dinner dance February 8 at the new Thunderbird Hilton are the work of Northville resident Donald Fee. The sprightly couple frolicking on the poster has caused many to look twice.

Fee, an industrial designer, was in Washington, D. C., earlier to do decorations for Michigan's part in the inaugural ceremonies. He also did the mock-up of the planned Mill Race Village for Northville Historical Society, as well as the model for Highland Lakes development.

Credit for originating the benefit to raise much-needed funds for the restoration project goes to Myron Utley, commander of VFW Post 4012. It was his idea to do something for the entire community. His chairman is Wallace Nichols, who with Ruth (Mrs. Leonard) Klein of the historical society is working to involve individuals and groups from all over the city and township. Tickets are $10 each and are available from sellers in every neighborhood or the Sunflower Shop in town.

AREA FAMILIES who have had children's portraits painted by Marion Sober during past years are requested to contact Mrs. Sober at her Plymouth studio, 453-9180, or by writing her, Box 294, Plymouth, 48170. She is hoping to compile a complete listing for a possible "reunion" of the subjects.

Planners Ask Curbs on Camper Parking

Following a continued public hearing last week, the Northville City Planning Commission recommended adoption of a controversial ordinance regulating the parking and storage of recreational type vehicles on private property.

The recommendation goes to the city council for final action following still another public hearing.

Specifically, the proposed ordinance restricts parking and storage of campers, travel trailers, boats, snowmobile trailers, airplanes, etc.

Although planners amended parts of the proposed ordinance following public protests, the revised version may still be in for rough sledding from citizens as the council considers it.

While some citizens contend they should be permitted to store their vehicles on their own property, other citizens consider such vehicles neighborhood nuisances and eyesores.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff, after receiving a number of complaints last year from citizens, recommended to planners that they consider an ordinance regulating such vehicles. He noted that while it is unlawful, unless otherwise permitted, to use camper trailers as living quarters for overnight or longer periods, it is "next to impossible" to enforce the law since police would have to knock on trailer doors to see if, indeed, they are occupied. In the face of opposition to the ordinance last week, planners allayed some fears by amending the proposal: they extended permitted parking time from 48 hours to 72 hours; it placed a maximum permitted vehicle of 31 feet in length instead of 30 feet; and it changed the minimum five-foot distance from property lines to three feet.

Planners also recommended to the council that it consider including in the ordinance a provision to permit appeal in cases of hardship.

Among several citizens protesting the ordinance was Elmer Balko, who offered planners published data showing that similar ordinances in other parts of the nation have been ruled illegal by the courts.

Duane Lamoreaux, one of the most critical opponents, took the position that the proposed restrictions, especially concerning the length of permitted parking time, is "completely unreasonable."

Pointing out that he has a 21-foot travel trailer that is parked at most times in Canada, Lamoreaux said it would be impossible for him to bring the trailer home, repack it, and return it to Canada over a single weekend.

Chairman Thomas Wheaton took the position that the city very likely would be "reasonable" in its enforcement of the ordinance, permitting exceptions when valid reasons for extensions are given.

Relative to concerns of citizens about the ordinance prohibition of fixed electrical, water, gas or sanitary hookups, planners explained that this restriction would not include temporary connections for purposes of maintenance, i.e., charges, batteries, lighting or heating during maintenance, etc.

Specific restrictions of the proposed ordinance include:

No more than one camper or travel trailer, no more than one snowmobile trailer and no more than one boat may be parked on residential property — none closer than three feet to any side or rear lot line.

Campers, travel trailers and motorized homes may be parked anywhere on the premises for loading or unloading purposes for a period of up to 72 hours.

All such vehicles parked for longer periods must be located only in the rear yard and in addition, shall conform to required yards space requirements for accessory buildings of the zoning in which they are located.

All such vehicles of 20 feet or more in length must be registered with the building inspector, and no vehicle of 31 feet in length shall be permitted.

No such vehicles and other buildings together may occupy more than 30 percent of the lot.

All such vehicles must be locked and secured at all times when not in use to prevent access by children. No fixed connections to electricity, water, gas, or sanitary facilities are to be permitted except as provided by other ordinances.

All such vehicles requiring a license or registration must be kept in good repair and carry a current year's license and-or registration.

In a related matter, the planning commission also recommended to the council that the M-1 (manufacturing) zoning ordinance be amended to permit the storage of recreational vehicles.

Purpose of this amendment, planners have explained, is to provide a place where recreational vehicles may lawfully be stored or parked inasmuch as the other ordinance restricts parking on residential parking.

Everything points to a bigger and better Community Hobby Show this year as the various committees are shifting into high gear for the occasion. The event will be held for two nights at Northville High School.

With the opening of bids for the construction of the power house this week the way will be opened for continued work on the new state hospital on Seven Mile Road east of Northville.

Novi contributed $105 to the American Red Cross campaign. The last "link" in the water line running from the reservoir was put in place yesterday afternoon and water will be turned into the new mains today.

Fast toll telephone service between Detroit and Northville is announced by the Michigan State Telephone company. Persons residing in this community may place calls for Detroit in the same manner as for local calls. It will not be necessary to ask for the long distance operator in placing a call for Detroit.

Sugden Low Bidder on State Project

SUGDEN Inc. of Novi was among the lowest of nine bidders at $7.4 million for relocation of the Belleville Road interchange with Interstate 94 near Belleville, the State Highway Commission announced today. The bid was among low bids totaling $14 million taken January 17 in Lansing on nine highway construction and maintenance projects.

Highland Lakes Program Will Serve Homeowners

A new approach to solving problems that have plagued some of the homeowners in Highland Lakes has been proposed by a five-member advisory board composed of homeowners in the Levitt residential community in Northville Township.

The program has the approval and cooperation of both Levitt and Son, the developers, and Housing Management Services, the firm retained by Levitt and Highland Lakes Association to manage the $60 million planned community now rising out of a former gravel mining area between Seven and Eight Mile roads.

According to Charles Rosenberg, chairman of the Highland Lakes Association Advisory Board, a systematic procedure has now been worked out whereby homeowners who may have a complaint involving the construction of their home can find immediate assistance and follow-up attention when required.

"We've been working with Levitt management on this proposal since November", Rosenberg stated.

He said that some homeowners have been frustrated by the fact that their complaints either go unanswered or service response is inadequate.

Under the new set-up, Rosenberg noted, the management company (Housing Management Services) has agreed to become involved and investigate problems of residents.

Legitimate complaints will then be turned over to the development's service department for correction. If the homeowner is not satisfied, he may then turn to the advisory board for further action.

Rosenberg points out that the new procedure has the support and cooperation of the service department manager, who has taken steps to improve his organization.

"We've also discussed some of the problems that are always associated with development projects the size of Highland Lakes with officials and building authorities of Northville township. They've pledged us their cooperation, too", Rosenberg noted.

Serving on the advisory board with Rosenberg are Dan Harmon, Jim Hinchey, Dick McClure and Bob Russell.

Highland Lakes will eventually become a community of 6,000 people residing in some 1,855 dwelling units of which 1,390 are townhouse condominiums.

The community is barely one-fourth complete. Most of the problems, Rosenberg noted, are associated with building that took place in the early stages of the development that is now entering its third year.

College Names Instructors

Schoolcraft College has appointed three new staff members to head special programs for women and senior citizens, and to direct the operation of the information and service center at Garden City.

Women's Continuum activities are being directed by Ms. Nancy Dufour who holds a bachelor's degree in psychology and a master's in guidance and counseling. Before coming to Schoolcraft she was employed as a counselor with the Michigan Employment Securities Commission.

Mrs. Betty Andrews is directing the new Senior Adult Affairs program. A recent graduate of the Institute of Gerontology of the University of Michigan and Wayne State University, she holds a specialist's degree in aging.

Mrs. Andrews is a resident of Plymouth and participated in the community survey and pilot retirement studies programs sponsored by Schoolcraft, the Schoolcraft College Foundation and the Institute of Gerontology.

The new man at Schoolcraft's information and service center in Garden City is Stuart C. Baker.

Baker is a community college graduate and holds a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University where he majored in business management. While at Western he designed and established a curriculum advising program for undergraduates.

Baker invites persons interested in Schoolcraft College and its programs to visit the center, open from 8 to 4:30 week-days, in the Florence School in Garden City.

Racing Continues With Downs' Meet

Management changes but Michigan's harness racing operation will continue at Northville Downs on Monday, January 29.

The Jackson at Northville meeting ends its 24 night winter campaign on Saturday night (January 27). Then the pacers and trotters race under the Northville Downs management for 39 nights through March 14.

Enjoying excellent weather conditions for the first time since the start of its back-to-back fall and winter meet, the Jackson-at-Northville action has attracted record crowds and record nightly handles.

It started its final week of action with a near $230,000 average, and attendance that was up more than 15 percent over the same period of a year ago. On the track, drivers are still shooting to equal or better the 2:04 three-fifth mile paced by Bedford Jet in winning the Saturday night feature in mid-January, a truly sensational timing for the time of year.

It will be the 30th year for Northville Downs and John J. Carlo, executive manager. He plans few changes from last winter's format. There will be the traditional daily double with perfectas in the 4th, 7th and 10th races.

Carlo said he plans to speed up the 10 race nightly program starting with an 8 p.m. post time and completing the final race by 11:15 p.m. or earlier.

"I'm sure the fans prefer going home early particularly on weekday nights," he said. Applications have been approved for the 700 stalls on the grounds. This results in several 'stables moving out' over the weekend to be replaced by horses from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and outstate Michigan.

Police Blotter: Thefts, Break-Ins Top Week

In Novi

Police believe the same individuals were responsible for a series of breaking and enterings of three Novi residences which occurred Sunday, January 14.

Hardest hit was a home in Brookland Farms subdivision where thieves removed an estimated $2,000 worth of merchandise.

Taken were cameras, a slide projector, a movie camera and projector, a stereo set, an IBM typewriter, and miscellaneous jewelry.

The theft was discovered at approximately 12 midnight, police reported. The home had been completely ransacked.

Also hit during the night of January 14 was a residence at 43680 Nine Mile Road. Again the home was completely ransacked and police estimated $500 worth of merchandise was stolen.

The third breaking and entering January 14 took place at a residence at 24301 Novi Road. Once again the home was completely ransacked, but the only stolen property was determined to be a plaster of paris piggy bank containing approximately $60 in coins.

Police theorize that the thieves were frightened off by the residents, who returned home at 8:30 p.m.

A call requesting assistance with a person creating a disturbance at a private home last week led Novi police to the arrest of a man wanted by Pontiac police for armed robbery.

Arrested was Joe Ray Campbell, a 25-year old Detroit man.

While responding to the call for assistance, Novi officers came across Campbell attempting to leave the scene. When they stopped to question him, he became disorderly, they reported, and was placed under arrest as a disorderly person.

Subsequent investigation revealed an outstanding warrant from Pontiac police on the armed robbery charge. Campbell was arraigned in the Pontiac District Court and remanded to the Oakland County Jail in lieu of a $25,000 cash bond.

Two well pumps - valued at $165 and $218 respectively - were stolen from two homes currently under construction on South Lake Drive.

The theft occurred during the evening of Tuesday, January 16, according to police reports.

Seymour Eichman, who reported the thefts, told police both buildings had been securely locked when he left them the evening of January 16.

No signs of forced entry were found, but police reported that the carpeting in both homes had been torn up and left in the center of the room.

An 18-year old Northville girl, Lorie Ann Provo, was taken to Botsford Hospital January 18 with a broken collarbone and numerous cuts and abrasions suffered in an automobile accident.

According to police reports, the accident occurred when Miss Provo pulled onto Eight Mile from Haggerty Road directly into the path of a car driven by Gary Francis Kaarto, 27, of Farmington, who was westbound on Eight Mile.

Kaarto's vehicle struck the car driven by Miss Provo on the left side.

Miss Provo was issued a citation for failing to yield the right of way. Kaarto suffered only minor injuries in the crash.

Harold James O'Connell, 20, of Farmington, avoided serious injury when his car spun off 13 Mile Road after hitting a section of icy pavement. His car travelled nose-first into a ditch and then flipped over onto its top.

The accident occurred at 4:40 a.m., January 13.

O'Connell, who wandered away from the scene of the accident, was charged with speeding and operating a vehicle with no operator's license on his person.

Novi police have made 36 arrests on outstanding warrants this month through the use of their LEIN machine.

LEIN (Law Enforcement Intelligence Network) is a nationwide computerized system run by the FBI in Washington, D. C. By feeding a person's name into the machine, police can determine in a matter of minutes whether the individual has any outstanding warrants pending.

Twenty-eight of the Novi arrests were on outstanding traffic warrants. Novi officers have also made one misdemeanor arrest, one felony arrest, recovered two stolen cars, and issued citations to four individuals for the Secretary of State on charges of driving with a suspended operator's license.

COURT NEWS

Richard A. Fisher, 38, of Detroit, was found guilty of larceny over $100 by a jury in Judge Clark Adams' Oakland County Circuit Court last week.

Sentencing was scheduled for February 9. Fisher, who rejected a court-appointed lawyer and chose to defend himself, is subject to a sentence of up to, but not exceeding five years in prison.

He was arrested by Novi Police Sergeant Dale Gross during the summer of 1971 after he was found driving a stolen 1972 Lincoln Continental.

In Northville

Armed robbery of a Detroit man Friday night is under investigation by city police detectives this week.

Lawrence E. Jamison reported to police Monday night that when he was leaving Northville Downs about 9:30 p.m. Friday he was approached by a man asking for booster cables.

Jamison said when he opened the trunk of his car to get the cables, the man placed a cold metal object against the back of his head and stated he would be killed if he moved.

The man then reached into Jamison's coat pocket and took about $25. He was joined by another man and both fled from the parking lot.

Jamison told police he tried to report the robbery Friday night but went to the wrong police department, and finding the office closed, left for home.

Unknown persons forced their way into a home a 502 Grace Street sometime Saturday night and took a television set, $80 in cash, a $50 money order and a car title.

According to reports, the theft took place between 5:45 and 10:40 p.m. Investigating officers found pry marks near the lock on the door. A bedroom in the home had also been ransacked.

A headlight assembly taken from a car on Allen Drive sometime early Sunday morning was recovered by police Sunday afternoon in a field at the corner of Hill and Horton Streets.

Unknown persons removed a tire and wheel from a car early Sunday morning parked at 880 Horton Street. Police said the trunk lock had been tampered with.

A Jackson man reported to police the vent window of his car was broken Friday night while the car was parked in the horseman's lot at Northville Downs. A tire on the car was cut but nothing was taken from the interior of the car.

In other action over the weekend, police arrested five persons on seven traffic warrants held by other police departments.

All of those arrested were initially stopped for traffic violations. Routine checks through the law enforcement information network computers showed them to be wanted by other police departments.

Police are investigating the report of a larceny from an auto which took place between midnight and 3:30 a.m. last Thursday, January 18.

According to reports, the door of a car parked in the driveway of a home at 936 Allen Drive was discovered standing open by a resident of the home.

Missing from the interior of the car are an eight-track tape deck, fm tuner, two speakers and two tires from the trunk. Total value of the items was placed at more than $265.

Police said they could find no signs of forced entry to the vehicle.

FIRE CALLS

January 17-4:24 p.m., car fire in parking lot next to Northville Drugs.

January 18-3:43 p.m., brush fire at 46675 Seven Mile Road east of Beck Road.

In Township

Township police apprehended 13 youths from Detroit and Redford in a vacant home Sunday evening.

According to reports, police found several cars parked in the driveway of the Springwood Drive home. Upon investigation, officers found the youths inside the home having a party. Entrance was gained by using a key one of the youths had when he had been employed at the home, police said.

The youths were ticketed for entering without permission and supplying alcohol to several juveniles at the party.

Michigan State Police investigators have ruled suicide as the cause of the death of Alger F. Quast.

Mr. Quast was found dead October 11 in his Springwood Drive home.

Charges of larceny from a motor vehicle against Albert Lamont, formerly of Northville, were dismissed in 35th District Court last Thursday.

Lamont had been arrested by township police in November, 1972, in connection with the theft in September of several items from a car.

In Wixom

Two youths, one of them a Novi High School student, were arraigned on charges of breaking and entering and possession of stolen property as a result of an incident which occurred in Wixom last week.

Arrested were Robert Adair, Junior, 17, of 22821 Meadowbrook Road, and Danny Pelkey, 19, of Walled Lake. Adair is a student at Novi High School.

Charges against the pair stem from a breaking and entering of a Wixom residence at 2030 Charms Road, Wednesday, January 17.

The owner of the residence called police and reported that she had returned home at 1:30 p.m. and found two young men in her house carrying four long guns.

The woman further reported, according to police, that when the two males saw her, they dropped the guns and ran out the kitchen door.

Police were summoned to the scene and as a result of subsequent investigation sent out a "be on the lookout" bulletin for a yellow pickup truck with large, racing-type tires in the rear.

Shortly later, Commerce Township police contacted Wixom police to report they had stopped a vehicle matching the description. The two male occupants of the truck—Adair and Pelkey—were transported to the Wixom police station where they were placed under arrest on the breaking and entering charges.

The possession of stolen property charges were later lodged by Commerce Township police, who reported finding eight long guns in the cab of the pickup truck.

Pelkey and Adair were arraigned on the breaking and entering charges before Judge Martin Boyle, and released on $2,000 personal bond apiece.

Gary Brewk, a Pontiac man, reported his car had been stolen from the Pyles Industries parking lot sometime between 3-4 p.m. Thursday, January 18.

$1.5 Billion Business

Tourism Boosts State

Tourists enriched the Michigan economy by $1.5 billion in 1972 and boosted the state treasury by $100 million in the form of taxes, according to Aurey Strohpaal, acting director of the Michigan Tourist Council.

Citing reports from the state's four regional tourist associations, Strohpaal said that the tourist industry has experienced a good year.

Overall, tourist business in the Upper Peninsula was up approximately eight percent over 1971. The area had an above average spring tourist season coupled with good fall and winter business. Inclement weather was responsible for a slight downward trend during the prime summer months.

The western side of the state had its biggest year in history. Tourist business increased by 11.3 percent over 1971, due primarily to a super spring, excellent fall and a very early winter start. Citing camping as a prime tourism indicator, the report from West Michigan stated that although state campground use was down in 1972, private campgrounds did a rousing business.

On Michigan's east side the volume of tourist business was, in general, the same as 1971. The area enjoyed a record winter season, up 11 percent, while the spring and fall seasons were on a par with 1971.

Detroit and the 8-county southeast Michigan area tourist industry experienced the highest percentage business increase, up from 12 to 20 percent over 1971. Hotels, motels and campgrounds averaged a 12 percent increase while restaurants increased an average of 20 percent. The area's tourist attractions recorded a 15 percent average increase over the previous year.

In reviewing the 1972 business year, Tourist Council chairman Robert F. Reynolds, Detroit, stated that all signs point to a highly successful tourism product in 1973. He cited the Council's promotional program, designed to induce Michigan people to spend their vacation dollars in their home state as well as to lure non-resident vacationers, as a major factor in increasing tourist business in 1972.

Chairman Reynolds emphasized that the Council's promotional efforts also are geared to the preservation and conservation of Michigan's natural resources, without which tourism could not exist. Vacationers are made aware of the importance of ecology through radio public service announcements and regional and local tourist-oriented businesses are urged to assist the ecological movement in any way possible.

'International Buffet' Rescheduled

By NANCY DINGELDEY

"We're having people for dinner" was the answer to my question regarding the next offering of the Vocational Education Center's monthly International Buffet.

Because of semester-end final exams, the buffet has been rescheduled for February 8.

I'm wondering at this point if the parking lot will be as jammed as it has been for past buffets. The February 8 cuisine offering is African.

GOSPEL SINGERS—The Olivarez Brothers from Saginaw will present an evening of gospel songs Sunday, January 28, at 7 p.m. at the Tri-County Baptist Church on Chubb Road at Salem. The public is invited to hear the "Latin Messengers".

Well, why not?

If you can have a Chinese smorgasbord, why not African?...although I must admit it doesn't sound nearly as inviting.

It really can't be all that bad. Those of us in the Gorge-us Gourmets Gastronomical Club visited Africa several moons ago.

Thank God there's a chicken in every language! I doubt very much that you will find elephant tusks anywhere else but in the ice sculpture. Might well be an astounding excursion for those of you who like to take chances.

The buffet opens at 11 a.m. and will continue until 12:45 p.m. Cost of the adventure is $2.

Speaking of the Gorge-us Gourmets, their trip this month is to Mexico. Tacos, enchiladas, totillas...my mouth enjoys, my tummy resists. My offering will be a case of 7-Up!

Not long ago John Parvu had the interesting experience of trying to rid his store of a cute racoon. It took many hours and many people to corral the skittish creature. If I hadn't witnessed the goings-on myself, it would be a hard story to believe.

But John has come up with one better. Seems sundry, rather unusual, critters like to "hole-up" in the Parvu property.

Mary was up and about doing her "chores" at home early one morning last week and heard something in the basement. Naturally she opened the door and she picked her eyeballs off the floor, let out a shriek as only she could make. Bet it opened a few eyes in north Oakland County!

(At this point I will have to admit that under similar circumstances I would react with the same ultra-sonic sound.)

Busily flapping its way up the basement steps was a white owl. I would wager that not many have had their days begun by greeting a blinking white owl, but there it was. Really.

Fast action, an extra set of hands and a fishing net caught the "buzzard", as John called it, and it was hauled up into the kitchen. Upon seeing the light, the owl figured it was nap time.

"Neat John, what did you do then?"
"Out, out!"
"Hey John, it would have been a great pet in the store."

"Hey, are you kidding?", says John. "I mean, have you ever seen the claws on one of those things...close up?"

"Uh-h-h John, how'd it get into the house?"

Get well bouquets to Gerry Gidley who is a patient at Pontiac Osteopathic while undergoing some tests. She's so involved in so many activities that the rest will probably do her a world a good. But it's still better here the "outside" world. Feel better soon.

Farewells to the Tom Russell family of the Highgate Subdivision. The Russell's and their four children will be relocating in San Diego, California.

Novi Students

Launch Book Drive

Have any old books lying around collecting dust?

Novi High School students in Mrs. Jackie Lawrence's "Research Paper Techniques" class are conducting a book drive and will be happy to take them off your hands.

The drive will run from January 27 to February 10.

Paperbacks, as well as hard cover books, are being sought by the students who will turn over the results of their drive to the high school library.

Drop boxes for people wishing to donate old books have been set up at various locations around town.

Drop boxes can be found at Herb's Standard Station, Ward's Super-Service station, Trickey's Bait Shop, Erwin's Orchards, Hamlet Food Mart, Timberlane Lumber Company, and the Novi Rexall Drug Store.

Additional drop boxes have been placed at the Seven-Eleven Store, Kevin's Hardware, both branches of the West Oakland Bank, the Grand River branch of the National Bank of Detroit, and at both the Novi City Hall and Novi School Administration offices near the high school. The book drive is the project of six members of Mrs. Lawrence's Research Paper Techniques class. They are Teri McGahey, Kim Spielman, Nancy Pisha, Rene Garufi, and Lynne Fertitta—all juniors—and senior Cindy Barr. Mrs. Lawrence is supervising the project.

Post Office Sells Tax Return Book

A booklet that gives information on how to fill out Federal Tax Returns will be sold by the Northville Post Office Postmaster John Steimel announced this week. "Your Federal Income Tax" was written by the Internal Revenue Service and contains many examples to illustrate how the tax laws apply to actual situations.

A special feature of the booklet is the sample, filled-in return, Form 1040, keyed to pages where explanations can be found for each entry on the return. The booklet will be on sale January 22, 1973 and costs 75 cents a copy.

"By selling this booklet at postal facilities in the Northville area, we are offering a convenient service to our customers," Steimel said. "We are participating in a nation-wide program to make this authoritative tax booklet available to the public."

Another IRS publication, "Tax Guide for Small Business" will also be sold for 75 cents a copy.

This publication answers many questions businessmen have about Federal Income, excise and employment taxes. It also contains a 1973 tax calendar with due dates for various tax and information returns and payments.

A brand new approach in planning is being proposed in Northville township as the community undertakes to revise and update its master plan.

Coincidentally (and quite separately) the very same approach with some variations is being advocated in the city of Northville as its master plan also faces extensive renovation.

And at this juncture in the history of our community there is no area of decision making more important than those incorporated in our master plans for the future.

Fortunately, Northville township is being guided by a planning consultant who must be considered among the finest in the field. And this week I talked briefly to Planner George Vilican about Northville and its future in terms of density of development and population.

While I may not agree with those who would shut the door to Northville immediately after moving here, I firmly believe it is time to re-evaluate development so that we may visually project the kind of Northville we will have in the 1980's and 1990's.

I don't believe that we can continue to be too concerned with what kind of housing developers say will "sell"; we must place more emphasis on the kind of development that will be best for the future of our community.

According to Vilican, a concept that promises real controls on population and is particularly applicable to undeveloped areas is the planned neighborhood development.

The idea of this concept is to set forth controls based on "room count", rather than the traditional lot size.

A developer cannot seek "multiple zoning" and build any number of apartments or townhouses simply by meeting the standards of a number of units per acre. Nor can he build any number of three or four-bedroom houses on a parcel of land because each of the lots comply with the minimum size requirement.

Instead new flexibility in development is introduced through a mix of residential uses mingled with open space green areas.

Room count determines the limitations of the development. Thus the choice of two, three and four bedroom units, which equate to the number of people who will live in the proposed development, becomes the important consideration.

No final determination has been reached on Northville township's new master plan. The room-count concept must still be approved by planners. And, finally, when the master plan is ready for public introduction in late spring, the public will have a voice in its approval.

But something is being done at both the city and township level about the community's future. And this is a giant plus.

Regrettably, however, the planning is being carried on simultaneously, and separately.

The fact that such planning will cost taxpayers close to $30,000 conducted in this two-part fashion compared to a figure closer to $20,000 if the two communities were working with a single planner may be the least important aspect.

But it is the point that should make the most obvious impression on the taxpayer.

About a decade ago the city and township developed master plans (separately) under a federal grant which allowed each community three-fourths of the cost. In each case the cost was about $24,000.

Thus local taxpayers directly contributed about $6,000 in the city and in the township, and another $18,000 indirectly in each of the two units (total cost—$48,000).

What a colossal waste of money!

Without question the total community could have developed a single master plan under a single grant at a cost of $24,000.

Multiply this Northville demonstration of waste by the number of times it is repeated in small, divided communities throughout the nation and you begin to understand why it takes so much money to accomplish so little.

Ironically, the steadfast refusal of local officials to cooperate is somehow veiled and applauded under the excuse of concern for the taxpayer each unit individually represents.

The most tragic part of such situations is not the waste of money or duplication of effort, but the final plan itself.

We are, my fellow citizens of the community of Northville, inviting divisions that may eventually split and deplete the tax base upon which our local economy so deeply depends.

Speaking of cooperation, don't be surprised if the proposed city-township ambulance service blows up in controversy.

Without question there is a minority force on the Northville township board dedicated to blocking any programs that might lead to cooperation and unity between the city and township.

This force may be more powerful than the majority. It has proven itself more effective.

When the bids are finally taken for ambulance service, a joint decision will have to be reached on which service to choose.

The cheapest is not always the best in any service. Thus room for divided opinion will exist. And those who have dedicated themselves to maintaining a split regardless of cost (to the taxpayer) will seek to widen the breach.

Some city councilmen are already disgruntled by what they believe to be a sudden reversal in earlier word given by the township board.

But it would be a mistake for the city to go alone on providing ambulance service. First, it would cost both city and township taxpayers more if each unit of government were to support separate services. Secondly, this would be playing right into the hands of those who seek to prevent a cooperative program.

Personally, I applaud the sudden decision of Township Trustees Richard Mitchell and Charles Schaeffer to "seek bids on all services when dealing with private enterprise".

It marks a sharp departure from their action of two weeks' ago when this duo proposed and voted for an auditor, who just happened to be their political crony, without competitive bids or consideration of any other certified public accounting firms.

In this instance they believe that a service chosen by the city merely based upon experience with that service is not enough.

They want competitive bids to protect the interest of the taxpayers.

I found the following note hanging on my call-hook Tuesday:

"If I were writing YOUR column for one week, I'd say that every person in the community who

YES . . .

I would prefer that teachers and administrators in the Brighton school system live in the school district.

1. There should be a continuing interaction between the school and the community. It is difficult for this to occur when teachers are in the community only during their working hours. A community needs the benefit of the viewpoints and participation of teachers in all areas of the community life.

2. Children of teachers should attend the schools where their parents teach. This gives the teachers viewpoints as parents of the effectiveness of the school's program and additional reasons to work toward its improvement.

3. Resident teachers are voters and taxpayers. Schools exist on public funds and teachers should vote on and pay taxes where they work. In addition to millage and bond issues it is important to vote on election of Board members.

4. Students and teachers would get to know one another better if they met in ways other than the school relationship.

Brighton does not make living in the school district a condition of employment. We do appreciate teachers locating here once they are employed. Many times practical difficulties make this impossible for the teacher. However, many Brighton teachers have eventually moved into the school district, especially after they acquire tenure.

NO . . .

Is there a job available for every man, woman and teenager in South Lyon who wants one? Can everything that I have accustomed my life and standard of living to be found in South Lyon? Would my living in South Lyon automatically make a much better teacher of me?

When my husband and I were looking for a home, we tried to consider the points as recommended by consumer guides as well as our personal needs. The community we selected is located centrally for his work and my work. It provides the protection, services and conveniences we felt we wanted. It put us close to our self-improvement needs, our recreation facilities and our respective families and friends so that it met our social needs.

Anonymity is one of the features of our society today. We have lived in our home for the past six months and can only guess at the number, ages or sexes of the people living beside or across from us.

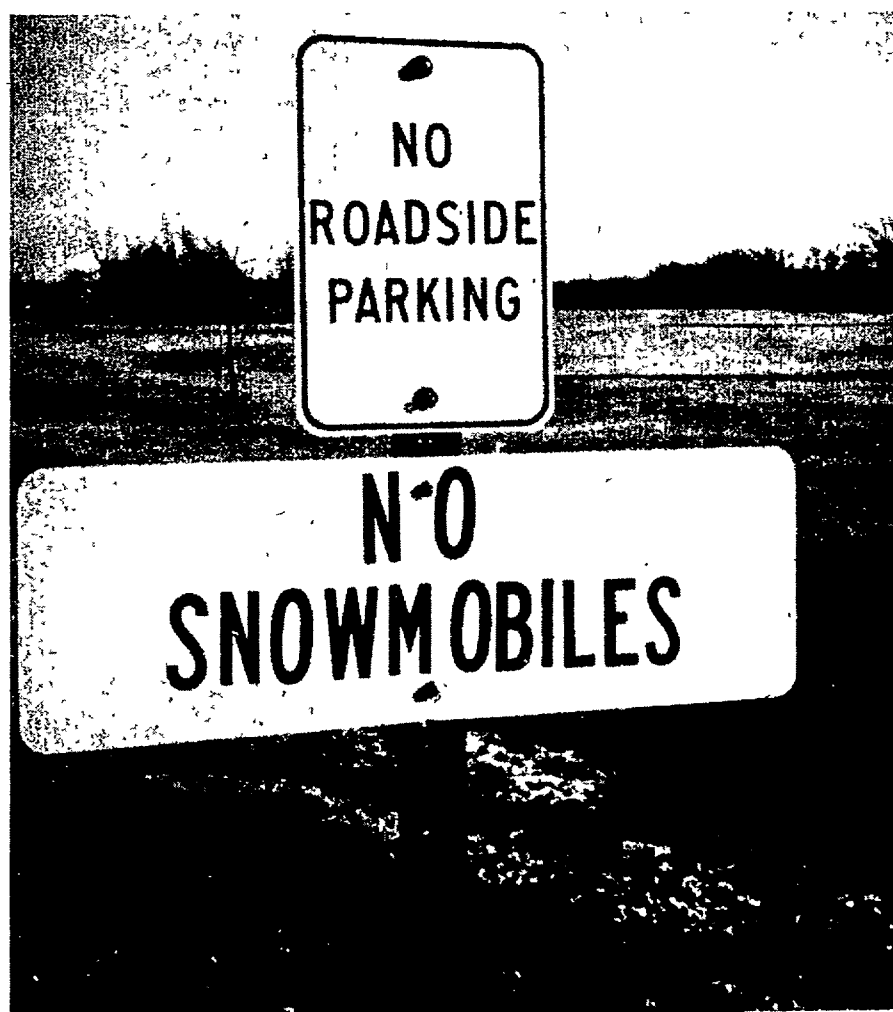

Schools and school systems are for educating the young — not for telling their employees where they will live. "Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness" is one of the nicest privileges I have living in the United States.

The article gives the impression that some members of the Association have indicated dissatisfaction. Neither the Board, nor the Association has received any notice from teachers that they wish to cancel dues deductions or

Next week Thursday begins a week-long observance in Northville, pointing up the community's heritage.

Historical Society members have named it, "Mill Race Historical Preservation Week," calling attention, of course, to efforts to preserve a number of old buildings on Griswold Street property officially donated yesterday (Wednesday) to the city by the Ford Motor Company.

The week will climax on Thursday, February 8, with a fund-raising dinner dance at the Thunderbird Inn under the sponsorship of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

It was suggested that perhaps a column on locally historic events occurring on each of the eight days, February 1 through February 8, would be appropriate.

Appropriate, perhaps, but not altogether productive. Quite frankly, in going through the Northville Record back issues I found relatively few major events occurring on these days. Nevertheless, starting with 1945 and working backwards here is what I found:

FEBRUARY 1, 1909

As L. W. Hutton prepared to celebrate his 81st birthday, the village council on this date extended him a special birthday gift by officially changing the name of Atwater Street to Hutton Street.

It was Mr. Hutton who originally granted the right-of-way for the street, which early in the community's history was named Wheelbarrow Avenue. It was along this road that he carried on a blacksmith and carriage business, manufacturing carriages, sleighs and cutters for some 30 years.

For several years he operated the mill that once stood on the site of the Mill Race property donated to the city by Ford.

Mr. Hutton, who moved to Northville in 1854, died one year after the street was named in his honor. Interestingly, although people at the time called it Atwater the street appeared on maps as Randolph from Main to Rayson.

Another street raced into headlines on this date as Peck's "Prince Orphan" captured first place before an enthusiastic crowd of spectators who lined Dunlap.

Horse racing on the tree-lined, dirt street was a popular sport at the turn of the century.

After telling of Prince Orphan's victory, The Record reminded readers there would be "another big race Saturday and the Free-for-all will be a 'cracker jack'."

FEBRUARY 2, 1918

Some, if not all, citizens were saddened by the announcement that one of the community's most famous businesses had ceased operation.

Because so many men had joined the army and because the prohibition movement was constantly nagging, the number of patients turning to the Yarnall Gold Cure, located on east Main Street, had dwindled past the break-even point and the business folded.

Furthermore, reported The Record, "it is necessary to have plenty of saloons in order to have gold-cure patients."

The Gold Cure, a rehabilitation center for alcoholics, was established in Northville by William H. Yarnall in 1892 and for more than 25 years had brought a "fair amount" of fame to the community.

Incidentally, the Gold Cure was located next door to the house that recently was moved to the Mill Race historical site for preservation.

FEBRUARY 3, 1903

Edward S. Horton, one of Northville's most prominent citizens, died on this date.

Mr. Horton moved to Northville in 1856, served in the Civil War, and for 23 years was the Northville postmaster. He served two terms as supervisor of Plymouth Township, prior to the township's division, and for three years was the township treasurer.

He was married to Frances Dubuar, daughter of the Reverend James Dubuar, who was pastor for many years of the Presbyterian Church.

According to his obituary notice, many of the homes then existing in the community were built by Mr. Horton.

FEBRUARY 4, 1872

This date marked the return of the Reverend James Dubuar to Northville where he had first served as the Presbyterian pastor from 1851 to 1868. His second term lasted from 1872-1875.

Mr. Dubuar, who died in 1886, was the father of J. A. Dubuar, who figured prominently in Northville's lumbering industry years ago.

J. A. Dubuar owned and operated the Dubuar Manufacturing Company that stood on the site of what is now the Ford Valve Plant. Millions of feet of Michigan's choicest hardwoods were cut in his mill and, reportedly, some of the lumber makes up part of the interior of the new Drawbridge Restaurant that workmen are painstakingly preserving.

Following Mr. Dubuar's death in 1919, his mill site was sold to Henry Ford.

FEBRUARY 5, 1909

Shortly after 11 p.m. on this date flames were discovered in the Michigan Slipper factory, located just behind the opera house near the southeast corner of Center and Dunlap Streets.

Despite prompt efforts of the fire department, the factory was destroyed. The building was owned by W. H. Cattermole.

The manufacturing company had been organized several years earlier by J. F. Boell, Bert Snyder and William Kipps, with a number of Northville citizens backing it with the purchase of stock.

Years later the adjacent opera house, built by the first publisher of The Record, Samuel Little, was razed. It stood on Center Street, just south of Dunlap.

Another event of some significance occurred on this date in 1933. Staggered by the Depression, the board of education voted to cut the salaries of teachers in order to meet its payroll.

FEBRUARY 6, 1922

A large crowd turned out this Monday evening at the village hall for the caucus of the "Workingmen's Party"—one of the community's two political parties.

The late N. C. Schrader was temporary chairman, and Mrs. Floyd Lanning and Conrad Langfield were tellers.

Charles A. Dolph was chosen as the candidate for village president; Fred E. VanAtta, Fred P. Simmons and Charles Blackburn were nominated to succeed themselves as trustees; Thomas E. Murdock was the choice for clerk, Ernest Miller was nominated for treasurer, and Charles A. Sessions was picked for assessor.

The following night, the community's other political party, the "People's Party," was called to order by the late T. R. Carrington. Miss Helen Lanning and Otis Tewksbury were tellers.

Nominated for president was William Stark. John McCully, Karl C. Bryan and A. G. Newman were nominated for trustees, I. E. VanAtta was chosen for clerk, Mrs. Flora Peterson for treasurer, and R. H. Baker for assessor.

FEBRUARY 7, 1905

As firemen battled the flames about him, Glenn Richardson "pluckily stuck to his post" in pampering milk through the "critical" condensing stage.

Despite the fire that damaged the Northville Condensing & Cheese Company factory, located on Griswold Street, Richardson's pluck saved $50 worth of milk. He stuck to his post rather than lose it.

Cheese factories were commonplace in this area early in this century.

Early in February, three years before Richardson's heroic action, The Record announced that Fred M. Warner of Farmington, then Secretary of State (later to become Governor), had purchased another cheese factory—this one in Plymouth.

He already owned cheese factories in Northville, Novi, Franklin, Farmington and Springbrook.

FEBRUARY 8, 1926

It was the eve of one of the most exciting events in Northville's downtown history.

One year earlier a raging downtown fire, worst in history, had demolished several buildings on the north side of Main Street, and now citizens were jubilantly awaiting the opening of a giant new structure built in the ashes of that fire.

The new building was the Penniman-Allen Theater.

Not only were citizens to get their first peek at the interior of this new building but they were to see the hit movie, "Little Annie Rooney," featuring Mary Pickford, and a "colored reel" called "The Voice of the Nightingale."

Accompanying music was to be provided by a "wonderful Wurlitzer orchestra unit organ, largest in the state outside of Detroit."

Destroyed in the $150,000 fire the previous year were the Foresters' Hall, Elliot's Grocery in the Ford Block, and the Alseum theatre. The nearby restaurant of Ina Ware, Northville Drug across the street, and the Northville State Savings Bank suffered minor damage.

WIPED OUT—A major section of downtown Northville was wiped out in 1925 when fire swept through several buildings on the north side of Main Street between Center and Hutton. Destroyed were the Foresters' Hall, Elliot's Grocery, and the Alseum theatre. Fire damage at the time was estimated at $150,000. See Top of the Deck. A year later a giant new building was erected on the ashes—the Penniman-Allen Theater.

Cold Third Quarter Fails Wildcat Cagers

Add it up: icy shooting maybe a couple dozen turnovers, and second-best rebounding.

The result, despite a close first half, is another loss by Novi's varsity quintet—this time a 59-43 edition at the hands of league-leading Ypsilanti Lincoln.

Although they displayed little of the finely honed floor play that has carried them to the top of the Southeastern Conference with Saline, the Rainsplitters instead capitalized on Wildcat mistakes to chalk up their sixth victory at Ypsilanti Friday.

Time after time Novi tossed away the ball while Ypsi's taller players gobbled up nearly everything under the boards.

Even so Novi came close...in the first two quarters of play. After that it was no contest.

For awhile in the first period it looked like Novi would be sent to the showers early. The Wildcats were down by 10 before they scored their first basket with little more than 3½ minutes remaining in the first quarter.

The Wildcats battled back late in the frame, however, climbing to within two points of the host squad, 12-10, going into the second quarter.

Mid-way through the second quarter Novi tied it at 14 and then grabbed a brief lead. At the intermission the Wildcats were trailing by just two points, 21-19.

The Rainsplitters sewed it up in the third period, however, out-scoring the Wildcats, 17-6, with Ypsi's Derrick Thomas flipping in eight of his game high 21 points.

Novi switched its half-court press and zone to a man-to-man defense in the final quarter but by then the game was out of reach. In this final stanza, Ypsi scored 21 more points while Novi finished with 18.

Although Lincoln wasn't especially hot from the floor, its performance at the free throw line was another matter. The Rainsplitters converted 11 of its 17 shots.

As was the case a week earlier, Novi had relatively few charity shots. It had none in the first quarter, two in the second and nine in the final two quarters. It converted five of these 11 shots.

FIRST AND TEN—It's hard to tell whether Novi's Eric Hansor is being tackled at the line of scrimmage or is putting a cross-body block on an Ypsilanti Lincoln cager. At any rate, such action was typical of the Wildcats' rugged battle with the Rainsplitters last Friday. Novi lost the game against the SEC co-leaders when their shooting went cold in the third quarter.

For Bulldog Aquatic Club

Five Star in AAU Meet

Five local swimmers, all members of the Bulldog Aquatic Club, distinguished themselves last weekend as 3,000 swimmers from 36 A.A.U. clubs from across the state competed in the Utica Swim Club's sanctioned "B" meet.

Top performance came from Susan Cahill in the 9-10 year old age group. Performing like a young Shane Gould, Miss Cahill won the 100 yard freestyle and the 100 yard backstroke, finished fifth in the 50 yard breaststroke, and swam a leg on the first-place 200 yard medley relay team.

The only other Northville swimmer to place in the top five in the individual events was Jim Wright who finished third in the open 100 yard breaststroke, fourth in the open 500 yard freestyle, and fifth in the open 100 yard backstroke.

The rest of the top performances posted by Northville swimmers were as members of relay teams.

Bob Simrak, competing in the eight and under age classification, swam on the first place 100 yard freestyle relay team and Tom Cahill and Tom Simrak, competing in the 11-12 year old age bracket, were both members of the fifth place 200 yard freestyle relay team.

Novi JV's Fall Twice

After narrowly losing to Williamston, Novi's junior varsity quintet really took it on the chin at Ypsilanti Lincoln Friday.

The host squad led 29-11 at the end of the first quarter, 48-15 at the intermission, and 70-23 at the three-quarter mark.

Earlier in the week, Novi had the edge going into final minutes of play with Williamston only to lose, 55-50.

Novi posted its fifth victory of the season here early last week, defeating powerhouse Williamston in a superlative defensive contest, 69-60.

from the floor only to lose the game at the foul line. Saline hit 23 of 31 free throw attempts, while Dundee converted two of just seven tosses from the charity stripe, to take a 79-58 triumph.

Dave Ziegler, the Hornets' 6'8" All-SEC center, paced the victory with a 28-point performance, while Tim Slesky added 17 more. Karl Schmidt paced the still-winless Vikings with a 17-point effort.

Saline's victory enabled them to remain deadlocked for first place with Ypsilanti Lincoln. Both squads have 6-1 records.

Dave Ward, a member of Coach Russ Gardner's Novi wrestling team, has been selected Wildcat of the Week. The 132-pound senior grappler ran his personal record to 13-5 for the season last week as he pinned his opponent in a dual meet with Ypsilanti Lincoln and then finished fourth in the South Lyon Invitational Tournament Saturday. Ward has eight pins to his credit this year.

Novi posted its fifth victory of the season here early last week, defeating powerhouse Williamston in a superlative defensive contest, 69-60.

Displaying a near-perfect "match-up" defense, the Wildcats built themselves a 10-point lead by the end of the third quarter and then coasted in for the triumph.

Williamston was the favorite going into the game, having previously defeated Fowlerville and Pinckney, both strong clubs.

The two teams battled to a 15-15 tie in the first quarter before Novi started pulling away, gaining a four-point edge by the intermission, 20-16. In the third quarter Novi scored 21 points while holding Williamston to 15.

Jim Van Wagner potted 26 points to lead his squad to victory, followed by John Pantalone at 16 and Steve Lukkari at 12.

But Coach's Unhappy

Grapplers Reach Milestone

A milestone, of sorts, was reached last week as Coach Russ Gardner's Novi High School wrestling team pinned a 45-15 defeat on Ypsilanti Lincoln.

The victory was the third of the season for the Wildcats and, more importantly, marked the first time in the five-year history of the sport at Novi High School that the Novi wrestlers have managed to chalk up more than two dual meet victories during a single season.

Last year the Wildcat grapplers managed to post a pair of wins and their highest number of victories in any year prior to that was one.

And while the one-two-three progression undeniably shows progress in the right direction, Gardner, who is in his first year as head of the wrestling program, was hardly pleased with his squad's performance the rest of the week.

Prior to the victory over Lincoln, the Wildcats reached a milestone of a much more ominous nature when the Dundee Vikings administered the very first shutout ever recorded over a wrestling team - 55-0.

And then, to make matters worse, the Wildcats did not perform up to Gardner's expectations in the South Lyon Invitational Tournament and finished eighth in the eight-team field.

"We were terrible," reported Gardner, as he put his charges through a vigorous workout Monday afternoon "we were so terrible I hardly want to talk about it."

Gardner had expected to win the Dundee meet and, to hear him tell it, he wasn't the only one. "I talked to their coaches after the meet and they were just flabbergasted," he said. "They told me that they hadn't expected to beat us. They couldn't believe what happened."

"We were really flat, I know that," he continued. "I think we may have had big heads after we won our own tournament and expected their guys to roll over on their backs when they saw us coming. It doesn't work that way in wrestling. You have to fight for everything you get."

The victory over Ypsilanti Lincoln was a pleasant change after the proceedings at Dundee as the Novi wrestlers ran up their highest number of points this year.

The Rainsplitters forfeited the 100 pound match to Tom Hardecki, but came right back to take decisions in the 107 and 114 pound matches to knot the score at 6-6.

Then, beginning with the 121 pound match the Wildcats really poured it on. Bob Sasena at 121, Tom Ford at 126, Dave Miller at 134, Dave Ward at 140, and Don Jackson at 147 all registered pins as the Wildcats scored 30 straight points to run up a 36-6 lead.

Gary Staub added six more points by pinning his opponent in the 185 pound match and heavyweight Gil Spiers rounded out the Novi scoring by picking up a 2-1 decision.

Of the six Novi pins, four of them came in the final period, an indication, according to Gardner, of superior conditioning.

The South Lyon Tournament was another of those performances Gardner would just as soon forget. Novi's paltry 17-point total placed them a full 18 points behind seventh-place Brighton - a team the Wildcats had lost to by a single point in a dual meet earlier this season.

South Lyon won the tournament with 81½ points, one-half point more than second-place Pinckney.

The only Novi grapplers to win places in the tourney were Randy McGarry, who finished third in the 157-pound weight class, and Ward and Bob Sasena who grabbed fourth place finishes in the 132 and 121 pound divisions respectively.

"We came up flat again," reported Gardner. "The boys just weren't moving out on the mats. We had five guys who were seeded in the top-four, but only three of them won places. It was really disappointing."

Cooke Tankers Fry Foes

What's faster than a speeding bullet and more powerful than a locomotive?

Try Northville's Cooke Middle School swim team for starters.

In four meets so far this season, the young Northville tankers have churned to four straight lop-sided victories, winning an incredible 38 of 40 events.

Opening their season against Hilbert, the Cooke swimmers stroked out a 73-22 decision, and have since beaten Pearson 67-27, Belleville South 76-20, and Plymouth East 72-23.

No doubt one of the reasons for the success of the Cooke Middle School team is the fact that it is comprised of both boys and girls. The boys, as a result, have to work hard to avoid the utter ignominy of being beaten by a girl, while the motivation for the up and coming liberationists is exactly the opposite.

So far, the results on the other team have been devastating.

The team has already established five new Middle School records. Randy Roggenbuck who co-captains the team along with Kathy Biery, has set a new school record in the 50 yard butterfly with a 30.9 clocking; Jim Cahill established a new mark in the 200 yard freestyle with a 2:21.1 timing; and Mark Morland's 32.5 time in the 50 yard backstroke set a new team record for that event.

In addition, Jack Riggs and Andrea Conder have both beaten the existing school record in diving and the 200 yard medley relay team of Mark Morland, Matt Sullivan, Randy Roggenbuck, and Dave Boor set a new record in their event with a 2:11.0 clocking.

Good Grief! Mustangs Lose Again

No one can accuse the Northville basketball team of being prejudiced. They'll lose to just about anybody.

Two weeks ago, you may remember, it was Farmington Harrison's 6'8" center Jeff Sietoff who proved to be the major factor in the Mustangs' demise.

But last Friday Northville's primary tormentor was operating a full foot closer to the court than the towering Harrison star.

Kerry Stelmachowicz, a 5'8" bespectacled junior guard, tossed in 31 points - 23 of them in the second half - to lead his Lutheran East teammates to a discouragingly easy 79-66 conquest of Coach Walt Koepke's Northville cagers.

The defeat was the third in a row for the Mustangs and dropped their season's record to 2-8. But what is even more depressing than the 2-8 record is the fact that the Mustangs are showing very little improvement.

"I'm beginning to wonder how we can work as hard as we do and still not show any signs of improvement," said Koepke in a mood of frustration after the game.

"We have 11 hard-working American boys and we practice six days a week and yet we just don't seem to be able to improve," he continued. "It's extremely disappointing that we haven't done better."

The Mustangs had no excuses for losing to Lutheran East. Both squads entered the game with predominantly junior lineups and with just two wins for the season. In height and in shooting and ball handling abilities the two clubs were evenly matched.

And yet the Mustangs ended up being clobbered. And as has happened more times this season than one cares to remember, the Mustangs were rarely competitive.

Surprisingly, Northville came on strong in the opening moments of the contest. Playing a zone defense, they successfully trapped the Eagles along the sidelines and forced bad passes that were converted into turnovers.

By the end of the first quarter, the Mustangs had taken a 16-12 lead as Joe Bishop, Todd Eis, and Ed Kritch each tossed in four points.

But Northville fell apart in the second quarter. Both teams played poorly during the first three minutes of second stanza. During that time, the Eagles scored just six points, but that was far better than Northville's total production of two points and at the 4:45 mark the game was knotted at 18-18.

But then Lutheran East started hitting their shots, Northville continued to be plagued with foolish turnovers and shoddy shooting, and by the half the Eagles had taken a 32-23 lead. The Mustangs hit on just two of 10 shots in the second quarter as they were outscored 20-7.

The Eagles continued to blitz the Mustangs in the third quarter. With 2:30 left to play in the period they had opened up a commanding 17-point - 48-31 - lead.

With the game securely out of reach, the Mustangs began one of their patented "throw caution to the wind" surges. With a flurry of late baskets they cut the Eagles lead to 11 points, 52-41, by the end of third quarter.

Unfortunately, just as the Mustangs were starting to score, Stelmachowicz also got hot. The little guard had tallied a respectable 16 points through the first three quarters of action, but it was during the final eight minutes of play that he was at his best Whether driving and twisting down the lane or launching impossible 40-footers from a variety of improbable positions, Stelmachowicz simply couldn't miss.

"Kerry has his hot streaks when he gets like that," commented the Lutheran East coach after the game.

Every time the Mustangs got to within nine points of the Eagles, Stelmachowicz responded with a flurry of points. In the fourth quarter alone the junior guard tallied 15 points to almost single-handedly frustrate Northville's comeback attempt.

The final statistics revealed that the Mustangs outscored the Eagles from the floor. Northville hit on 27 of 55 field goal attempts or a highly creditable 49 percent shooting mark. The Eagles hit on 26 of 54 shots for a similar shooting percentage.

It was at the foul line that the Eagles amassed their 13-point margin of victory. With Stelmachowicz personally converting 13 of 17 charity tosses, Lutheran East connected on 27 of 38 attempts. The Mustangs, on the other hand, made 12 of 23 free throws.

Northville had 26 turnovers, while the Lutheran East squad turned the ball over 33 times.

Todd Eis led the Northville scorers with 14 points, while Bishop with 12 and Rod Crane with 11 also scored in double figures for the Mustangs.

Eis also shared the rebounding leadership for the Mustangs as he and Dave Duey each hauled in six rebounds. The Mustangs were able to collect just even rebounds off their offensive boards.

Northville will return to Western Six Conference action Friday when they journey to Walled Lake Warriors. Game time is approximately 8 p.m.

But Mustangs Pull Out Win

Riverside Scares Tankers

Don't let him fool you.

Ben Lauber, coach of the Northville swim team, may come across as the steel-nerved, ice-water-in-the-veins type of individual who flirts daily with danger without losing so much as an ounce of sweat, but when the chips are down Lauber reveals his true colors as a "play it safe" kind of guy.

The Mustang mentor had an opportunity to let the outcome of his teams' meet with Riverside last Thursday go right down to the final event - the 400 yard freestyle relay - but instead he elected to play it safe and the Mustangs came out on the bright side of a 58-37 score.

"It was close," admitted Lauber after the meet, "a lot closer than we expected."

To understand exactly what happened in the Northville-Riverside meet you have to realize that Lauber goes into every meet with a pretty good idea as to what the final score is going to be.

He knows what his own swimmers can do, of course, and he usually has a pretty fair idea of the capabilities of his opponents' swimmers. Armed with this information, he is able to figure out who will take first, second, and third in each event and can thus plot how the meet will progress right down to the final score.

The Riverside meet figured to be an easy one for the Mustangs. The two teams had met earlier in the season and the Northville swimmers had stroked their way to a decisive 67-28 victory - winning 10 of 11 events.

In as much as the second meet promised to be more or less a carbon copy of the first, Lauber decided to revise his blueprint.

"We decided to give some of our younger boys a chance to swim for points," reported Lauber, "and we gave some of our more experienced boys a chance to rest up from illnesses."

Dennis McLaughlin and Jeff Kappler were instructed by Lauber to take the night off completely and Bill Witek, Kevin Kelly, Art Greenlee, and Mark Haynie were scheduled to swim only twice instead of the three times permitted under MHSAA rules.

But things didn't go as Lauber had planned. "They've really improved a great deal since the last time we met them," he explained.

Riverside opened the meet by winning the medley relay and when they swept first and second in the 400 yard freestyle, they trailed the Mustangs by just four points, 37-33.

"The way I had the rest of the meet figured at that point," said Lauber, "was that we would win, but that we would be behind by one point going into the last event - the 400 yard freestyle relay."

"There was no doubt in my mind that we would win the relay, but you can't take chances. Even though I think our swimmers were faster than their swimmers in that event, there's always the possibility that someone will miss a turn, slip coming off the blocks, or be disqualified for leaving too soon. I didn't think it would be good coaching to take any chances."

Lauber turned to his bench and hastily entered Kevin Kelly and Mark Haynie - two of the top Northville swimmers - in the 100 yard backstroke. Kelly and Haynie responded to the challenge as expected, took first and second in the event, and put the Mustangs securely back on top 45-34.

Art Greenlee and Bob Wright then took first and third in the 100 yard breaststroke and the 400 yard freestyle relay team of Don Cook, John Pacific, Kelly, and Bill Witek put Lauber's fears to rest by stroking to an easy victory over the Riverside quartet.

Even with their patched up lineup the Mustangs controlled the meet and managed to win eight of the 11 events.

In addition to his victory in the backstroke, Kelly won the 200 yard freestyle with a 1:59.1 clocking. Other victories were turned in by Witek in the 200 yard individual medley (2:15.5), Pacific in the 50 yard freestyle (24.2), and Don Cook in the 100 yard freestyle (53.9).

The most impressive Northville victory, however, was turned in by Tom Cook, who won the diving competition with a new team record total of 246.30 points. Cook broke his own previous team record of 231.50 points set against Farmington Harrison last week.

Bargers, Norton Lead Matmen

Remember the Waner brothers - Paul and Lloyd - who roamed the outfield and terrorized pitchers for the Pittsburgh Pirates back in the 1930's. "Big and Little Poison" is what they called them.

Well, Ed McCloud, coach of the Northville wrestling team, has his own version of "Big and Little Poison" in the personages of Steve and Jack Barger.

The Brothers Barger, along with captain Bill Norton, provided McCloud with just about his only sources of happiness last week as the Northville wrestling team was soundly defeated by Livonia Churchill Thursday and then finished seventh in the eight-team Redford Union Invitational Tournament Saturday.

To be completely honest about it, McCloud had more reasons than just Barger, Barger, and Norton to make him happy after the Redford Union tourney.

"We scored more points than we did last year when we had a pretty strong team," he reported. "We had 26 points last year and this year we had 32. The only difference was that last year we finished sixth and this year we dropped down to seventh."

The Redford Union Invitational, it should be mentioned, is a pretty decent tournament that attracts more than its share of top-rated wrestling teams.

The top three teams in this years' tournament

Farmington, Thurston, and Redford Union - for example, all finished in the top five at the Schoolcraft Invitational two weeks ago in a tourney which attracted 32 top teams.

After Farmington, which won easily, Thurston, and Redford Union, came John Glenn, North Farmington, and Farmington Harrison. Northville's 32 total points placed them seventh - four and one-half points behind Harrison and nine points ahead of eighth-place Southfield.

It was Norton who led the Mustang grapplers by finishing second in the 147-pound division. The Northville captain was seeded no higher than fourth in the tourney, but fought his way into the finals by defeating North Farmington's top-seeded Dan Darrah 9-2.

"I would have liked to see Bill win it," said McCloud. "He deserved it. He really wrestled a good match in the finals but dropped a 2-1 decision to Farmington Harrison's third-seeded Steve Paternal. Bill moved in on him real well a couple of times, but just couldn't get the takedown. Finally he made a mistake and Paternal took him down for the two points. That was just the second time he's been taken down all year."

McCloud got third place finishes from "Big and Little Poison" - the Barger brothers. Jack, a sophomore, finished third in the 100 pound bracket, while Steve, a last-term senior, finished third in the 134-pound division.

"Little Barger, in particular, wrestled well," reported McCloud. "The only kid who beat him was Dan Lontine from Farmington who's one of the best Class A 100-pounders in the state."

Rounding out the Northville scoring were Mark Okopyn, a 128-pound junior, and Dan Fialon, a junior wrestling in the 121-pound weight class. Both Okopyn and Fialon finished in fourth place in their respective divisions.

"They did a good job," commented McCloud. "I was very pleased with the way they wrestled."

As things turned out, the Mustangs fared far better in the Redford Union Invitational than they did against Livonia Churchill.

The Barger brothers and Norton were the only Northville wrestlers who avoided defeat as the Mustangs suffered a 45-14 thrashing.

Jack Barger scored a 16-0 decision over Tony Bennuci in the 100-pound division, Steve Barger burned Mark Berry 15-2 in the 134-pound division, and Norton pinned Bob Stowers at 2:56 of the 147-pound match.

WOW!—Lutheran East's Fred Kuiper (45) seems struck with amazement as Northville's Dave Duey (52) arches a shot over the outstretched arm of East's Bill Rathe (33). For a change, the Mustangs outscored their opponents from the floor, only to lose the game at the field goal line.

Western Six Standings

Walled Lake Western	2	1
Farmington Harrison	2	1
Livonia Churchill	2	1
Waterford Mott	2	2
Northville	0	3

Just when it began to appear that Walled Lake Western was about to take control of the Western Six basketball race, a rapidly improving Farmington Harrison five tossed a roadblock in front of the Warriors' getaway plans by handing them a decisive 68-41 defeat.

As a result, three teams - Walled Lake, Harrison, and Livonia Churchill - are tied for first place with 2-1 records and Waterford Mott is just a half game back with a 2-2 mark.

It was Jeff Sietoff, Harrison's fine 6'8" center, who led the Hawks' surprising upset of Walled Lake. Scoring 16 points in the first half and dominating the backboards, Sietoff finished the game with 26 points and 14 rebounds. Rick Stern's 13-point performance was tops for Western.

You can bet that the Waterford Mott players will be spending hours at the foul line during practice this week. Friday the Corsairs converted just three of 24 shots from the charity stripe while dropping a 52-51 decision to Livonia Churchill.

Phil Damaska and Don Phillips had 18 and 12 points respectively for the Chargers, but it was a pair of free throws by Don Forest with 1:03 left in the game that provided Churchill with its margin of victory. Mark Giese led the Corsairs with a 12 point effort.

The grapevine is a sporting term as well as one that reminds us of refreshment. In wrestling, the grapevine is a hold—quite a complicated one—in which one leg is wrapped around an opponent's leg. If each leg secures a hold on each of the opponent's legs, it's called a double grapevine. This hold is different from a scissors hold. In a scissors hold both of the holder's legs are interlocked with each other.

Mustanger

Mustang of the Week honors go to Tom Cook, Northville's outstanding junior diver. Finishing fourth in the state last year as a sophomore, Cook continues to improve by leaps and bounds. Last week he hit his season's peak against Riverside by scoring a total of 246.30 points, 15 better than his own team record of 231.50.

JVs Stretch Win Streak

Coach Omar Harrison's streaking Northville junior varsity basketball team notched two victories last week to run their win streak to three straight and even their season's record at 5-5.

"It's good to be back at .500," commented Harrison after his cagers had blasted out a 75-41 decision over Lutheran East Friday. "I didn't think we were going to see .500 again after we lost to Novi, but the boys have come on strong and I think we're going to continue to play good basketball."

Northville's first thriller last week was a 63-58 triller against Warren Lincoln. The Mustangs got off to a slow start and were outscored 16-8 in the first quarter.

But then - due largely to the efforts of Scott Leu and Doug Crisan - they began their comeback. They cut Warren's lead to six points at the half, 31-25, and by the end of the third period had pulled into a 45-45 tie. Forward John Boland tossed in three buckets in the decisive fourth quarter as the junior Mustangs outscored Lincoln 18-13 to secure the victory.

Crisan topped the Northville scorers with 16 points, while Leu was just a point behind with 15. Boland finished the game with 12 points.

After building up a 31-25 halftime margin against Lutheran East in Friday's contest, the Mustang Jayvees erupted in the second half and outscored their rivals 44-15 to wrap up an easy 75-41 victory.

Leu returned to his accustomed position at the head of the Northville scorers with a 20 point performance - the fourth time this season he has hit in the double-decades. Rick Norton and Boland followed Leu with 14 and 11 points respectively.

Ambulance Service Snags on Bidding approve General Ambulance, as recommended by the city. "I wonder why we didn't propose getting bids when we agreed to the city proposal, which we accepted subject only to some language change", Trustee MacDonald noted. But he added that he had no objection to seeking bids if the city would go along with the idea.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff attended the township meeting in behalf of the city and stated that he was "disappointed" but that he was sure the council would not object to bidding.

Manager Ollendorff noted that General Ambulance had provided the city with excellent service for two years and that it had been the only company interested when the city had sought local ambulance service two years ago. "At that time", Ollendorff noted, Superior Ambulance Service wanted a guarantee of $65,000 per year.

Proposes Law

On Hot Dogs

Congressman Marvin L. Esch has introduced legislation which would permit Michigan to retain its high standards governing the ingredients of hot dogs, sausages, and lunch meats. The action followed a recent ruling by the U. S. Sixth District Court of Appeals that would require Michigan to lower its standards — amongst the highest in the nation — to conform with much less stringent federal regulations.

members from Livonia, two from Plymouth and one from Northville.

Reorganization of the board was expected to take place last night (Wednesday), with the election of a chairman and a secretary (Mrs. Dumas was the secretary).

Kehrl, a retired bank executive with the National Bank of Detroit, a former farmer, and a financial and civic supporter of Schoolcraft, lives at 41525 Eight Mile Road.

Mrs. Blatt, who lives at 19482 Parker in Livonia, has been active in the Livonia school system and the League of Women Voters.

Representatives of Superior attended the special township meeting Monday night and said their company was now under new ownership. They said their company had been informed of the proposed city-township agreement and that they (Superior) were definitely interested in bidding for the work.

"I think we're compelled to get bids on anything we do when we're dealing with private enterprise", Trustee Mitchell stated.

Clerk Cayley pointed out that Trustee Schaeffer, who was unable to attend the special session, had called to inform her that he thought the township should seek bids for the service.

As the result of the township action, the city decided Tuesday to also advertise for bids.

Although the two governments are advertising separately, the specifications for bidders are the same and include service for both communities. Deadline for the city bids is February 2, however, so that councilmen may examine bids at their February 5 meeting. Township deadline for bids is February 12, so township board members may review their bids at their meeting, the following night.

Township board members also discussed the establishment of rates for ambulance service. It was noted that because the service would be subsidized to the extent that housing and storage facilities would be provided locally (up to $3,600 annually), rates to local residents should not be exorbitant. Bidders, therefore, will be asked to submit a rate schedule for ambulance runs.

Temporarily (for a period not to exceed 90 days) the city is providing quarters on South Center street for General Ambulance. The residence is owned by Councilman Paul Folino and is being rented to the city for $250 monthly.

Manager Ollendorff pointed out that the city council took this action on its own and acknowledges there is no obligation on the part of the township to participate in the cost of this temporary service.

The proposed agreement between the city and township calls for the two units to seek bids for housing and garage quarters for two ambulances and service crews and to divide the annual cost of the facilities.

Citizens calling upon the ambulance would be billed directly by the company for the service.

Novi Council Sets Hearing

due to soil conditions.

Because of this, Shepherd told the council, a 22.5 acre parcel abutting Meadowbrook Road and originally slated for single family development has been deleted from the plan.

At a joint meeting of the council and planning board two weeks ago, Shepherd implied that the 22.5 acre parcel would be purchased by the Novi Board of Education as a site for a new middle school.

In exchange for the deletion of the 22.5 acres, Shepherd requested that Holtzman and Silverman be allowed to develop a previously unplatted 15 acre parcel adjoining Meadowbrook Glens Number One under the old ordinance with its 60 foot lots.

The change would be beneficial to the city, he argued, because the total number of living units in Meadowbrook Glens would drop from 483 to 454. In addition, Shepherd reported that if the 15 acres had to be developed with 80 foot lot widths, they would not be developed at all. Instead, Holtzman and Silverman will seek a multiple family zoning for that area and the city would be far better served with single family residences than by multiple family residences.

The council took exception with several parts of the plan.

First, they criticized Shepherd for implying that the 22.5 acre parcel abutting Meadowbrook Road was going to be sold to the school. School Board President Vern DeWaard, who was present at the meeting, told the council that the school board had given some consideration to the site, but that no commitment of any kind had ever been made.

Shepherd then backed off from his earlier implication and said he had been misinformed.

The council also accused Holtzman and Silverman of attempting to circumvent a second city ordinance by abandoning the 22.5 acre parcel along Meadowbrook Road at this time.

The ordinance in question requires a developer to pay the cost of paving half the road that abuts his property at the time he receives plat approval. Thus, if Holtzman and Silverman were to plat the 22.5 acre parcel they would be faced with having to pay the cost of paving half the road. By not platting it at this time, they could avoid the charge.

When councilman Denis Berry pressed Shepherd for a commitment to agree to pay for the paving of half the road if the requested revision were granted, the Holtzman and Silverman representative replied only that his company would abide by existing ordinances.

Several councilmen, however, saw enough merit in then I think the council should have some say in the matter," he continued.

Campbell's efforts were prompted by the fact that Earl Bailey, director of the Department of Building and Safety, attended a two-day convention in Houston, Texas, early in December.

The council refused to take action on Campbell's request for a policy, however, and instead took the position that attendance at conventions was an administrative decision that should be made by the city manager, and that the value of the subject matter, and not the location of the convention, should be the determining factor in whether attendance is permitted.

In levying his criticism of the press for use of the word 'junket', Crupi referred to a dictionary which defined the word as a trip or banquet at public expense with implications of disgraceful or shameful conduct.

The Random House Dictionary of the English Language defines the word as a "trip, as by an official or legislative committee, paid out of public funds and ostensibly to obtain information."

"The use of the word 'junket' connotes that we condoned the spending of the city's money for somebody else's pleasure," stated Crupi strongly. "But that was just not the case."

"If it were a junket, then blast us all you want. But before you use the word again make an honest to goodness review of the event to determine whether it's a 'junket' or a bonafide convention from which the city will derive valuable information."

Crupi went on to say that the annual Mayor's Exchange the plan that they were willing to give Holtzman and Silverman the public hearing they were requesting.

"It looks like an equitable trade-off to me," commented Councilman Donald Young. "I can't see where the city is going to lose." Councilman William O'Brien stated that the city has enough multiple family residences right now "to house a considerable population" and noted that the single family residences were indeed more desirable.

After much discussion, the council decided to grant the public hearing by a 5-2 margin. Councilmen Louie Campbell and Berry opposed the motion.

Nevertheless, the council was careful to avoid making a decision on whether or not it considered the amended plan a revision of the original plan or an entirely new plan.

A negative answer to that question will make discussion of the other issues unnecessary.

Check Planned For Emissions

Plans for the country's first National Emissions Check Lane Program are well underway, it was revealed this past week.

Highlighting the announcement was the disclosure that the United States Jaycees will help spearhead the program. Jaycees in this area may lend their support.

Check lanes are to be established in shopping and recycling centers before and during the month of April to encourage motorists to check the emissions of their automobiles.

According to Paul Vernon of Northville, vice president of Allen Testproducts and a technical staff member of the Vehicle Emissions Check Committee, the April campaign developed last year as the aftermarket's response to President Richard Nixon's proclamation asking motorists to check emissions as a means of reducing air pollution.

Ecological benefits to participating communities would be significant, he explained, since it is estimated that almost all of the carbon monoxide and more than 60 percent of the hydrocarbons and nitrous oxides in the air come from cars.

Finding and correcting these emitters, which according to Atlantic Richfield projections represent 60 percent of the nation's cars, is the objective of the ambitious April Check Lane Program.

Allen Testproducts is one of three members of the Equipment and Tool Institute that will supply portable analyzer equipment and a combined staff of some 1,200 field engineers for local technical training and supervision.

A massive publicity campaign to boost the April check is being prepared now.

Theme of the communications campaign reportedly will be based on a comparison of two cars' exhaust emissions, one visibly smoking and the other apparently "clean."

The message, to be carried in 60 second television film clips, will establish the point that the car which emits no visible exhaust may actually produce more harmful emissions than the obvious offender.

According to Bernie Brand, Jaycee senior program manager of environmental improvement, as estimated two thousand Jaycee chapters will be aggressively promoting April Check Lanes.

THE SOUTH LYON HERALD

Wed.-Thurs., January 24-25, 1973

By SLIGER STAFFERS

You've showered, shaved and dressed in your only suit and your best pair of shoes.

It's early Saturday evening, and the baby sitter has already arrived. Now you and your wife are ready to go out for that dinner you've planned for weeks.

Suddenly, the radio monitor on the dining room hutch squawks to life, your wife moans, "Oh, no," and as you sail out the door she has time only to toss a protest after you, "but you're wearing your Sunday suit."

It's another ruined evening and you've upset your wife again.

All because some time ago you decided to become a volunteer fireman and you've stuck with it despite the inconvenience, ruined clothing, and...the abuse of the sidewalk superintendent.

"Here they come. Our fire-eaters. They've never lost a basement yet."

Why?

Why do you continue to go chasing after fires?

Volunteer firemen give all kinds of answers to the question; most boil down to excitement, the "club-like" atmosphere of the department, civic responsibility, and a sense of distinction.

Relatively few area volunteers, even when pressed, say money is a major reason.

"Sure, there are times when the money comes in handy," explained one fireman, "but if you figure it up over the year, taking into account your own money you've spent being a fireman...like a split pair of pants, it isn't much. You're lucky sometimes to come out even."

Northville Chief Bud Hartner, who would like a bigger wage for his men, admits, however, that "we'd probably have volunteers even if they weren't paid anything. The money isn't what makes them join."

Wages paid volunteers in this area vary considerably.

Northville firemen get $5.25 per call for anything up to an hour, $3.20 for each hour thereafter, and after 10 p.m. the hourly rate is increased from $3.20 to $3.65. In addition the men are paid $2 each for attending weekly fire department meetings which may last from one to three hours.

Novi firemen are paid $5.50 for the first hour and $3.30 for any portion of an hour thereafter; Wixom firemen get $4 for the first hour and $3 per hour thereafter; South Lyon volunteers get $5 a call; Salem Township $5 for the first hour and $2.50 for each additional hour; New Hudson $5 for the first two hours and $2.50 for each additional hour.

Brighton maintains a unique merit pay system for its men. Firemen are awarded a merit for each fire meeting and drill that they attend during the year. This year each merit was worth about $2.20, with the average annual income of a fireman about $300.

Most departments are instruments of the municipalities for which they serve, whether it be city or township, operating within a budget established by the governing body. Usually, only the chief is appointed by the governing body.

Generally, volunteer departments are less formalized than police departments, loosely

Firemen Own This Department

It's not unusual for men within a municipality to begin a volunteer fire department by buying the equipment and vehicles themselves.

Eventually, however, and usually within a few short years, the men donate the vehicles to the municipality which they serve.

That's not the case with the Hamburg Fire Department. Organized some 26 years ago, the Hamburg Fire Department, Inc. remains independent and retains ownership of the fire fighting vehicles and equipment.

Fire Chief Manly Bennett, one of the original organizers, says that to the best of his knowledge Hamburg is the only municipality in Michigan which has such an arrangement.

The Hamburg Department has incorporated as a non-profit organization and as such contracts with the township each year for fire fighting service.

The township pays the department $150 per fire. Last year, for instance, the Fire

State Police Seek More Black Troopers

LANSING—Increasing the number of minority group members in its ranks is the goal of a recruiting drive underway the Michigan State Police.

The state police, widely recognized as one of the nation's finest, has been under fire in recent years because of the almost complete absence of minority group members in its ranks. At one point, the Michigan Civil Rights Commission ordered it to not hire any more white applicants until it had achieved a racial balance similar to the state at large.

The organization still has a long ways to go: it has 1,896 men at present and only 20 of those belong to a "major" minority group. Thirteen of these are black, a percentage of less than 1 per cent, despite the fact that 11 per cent of the state population is black.

THE ALL-WHITE makeup of the force was by no means a policy of exclusion of minority groups, though civil rights groups can point to cases 20 years ago when a black applicant was told not to bother because of his skin color.

The situation in recent years exists more because the department hasn't actively recruited new troopers. The State Police dealt with people who did apply rather than recruit anybody. Since its ranks were virtually all white and since most applicants came in from the same areas as other troopers, almost no minority group members applied.

Change has been slow, but it is coming. Of the 13 black state policemen, five were in the most recent class of recruits.

"WE'VE INTENSIFIED our efforts to recruit minority group members and we've launched a real hard-core promotional campaign that hopefully will appeal to Blacks, Mexican-Americans, Indians—all groups that might be interested and qualified to apply," explains Col. John R. Plants, Director of the State Police.

"We have 27 recruiters in the field and a specially assigned coordinating section within our personnel office," he says. "We are contacting various minority community groups, and recruiters appear at public events and colleges and universities."

"I'll always be interested in attracting men from minority groups, but only on the same basis as we look for all qualified applicants. All our applicants are given the same screening, the same tests and qualified in the same manner."

"It's imperative that we bring in more minorities so long as it's on an equal opportunity level."

A LESS GLAMOROUS, but highly important issue now being pushed in the new legislative session is a complete revamping of Michigan's probate laws as proposed by Senator Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw.

Richardson introduced the bill in 1972, too late to secure action in both houses on such a complex issue, so it had to wait until this year. It has 27 sponsors altogether in the 38-member Senate, which should guarantee it passage there.

Richardson says the bill, "while simplifying and updating the law concerning the affairs of deceased persons, missing persons, disabled persons and minors, seeks to promote a prompt and efficient system for liquidating estates and facilitating orderly enforcement of trusts."

THE BILL is a perfect example of the highly technical non-glamorous work which legislators find takes up so much of their time.

It is, however, very valuable to people when they are faced with settling estates. A good law can save them time and money.

For every heated issue like the transportation package, there are a score of more technical issues which don't generate public attention but which can have a great deal of impact on the general public. Since probate courts handle estates of dead persons, they involve the lives of every citizen at one time or another.

This is the type of bill where the committee system can be valuable. The probate law is a highly complex law which few people really understand.

IT REQUIRES the work of a committee specializing in the area of the judiciary to iron out the kinks and make sure the bill is in good shape. Amendments to such a bill on the floor tend to few because of the technicalities involved.

Legislators in Lansing earn every penny of their salary when they work on legislation such as this.

Babson: Stock Splits Climbing

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—Stock splits may reach a new all-time high this year due largely to the expected continuation of a generally good stock market and to high corporate earnings.

Last year a record 760 companies split their stock or paid stock dividends of 100 per cent or more, topping the previous high of 698 for 1969. The largest number of splits last year occurred in the first half, and the same will probably be true this year.

The primary aims behind a corporate decision to split the stock are to increase the number of shares available and to lower the price of such shares. Most managements like to have their stock actively traded, and in recent years the most popular price level for investor purchase appears to have been between $25 and $50 a share. Purchases can then usually be made in round lots of 100 shares, which is preferred by most traders. So when a stock reaches the $50-$100 area, it is generally regarded as a logical split candidate.

A SPLIT, of course, does not have to be on a 2-for-1 basis; it can be any multiple or percentage thereof. Also, there is no assurance that a stock will split when it reaches the $50-$100 range; many issues have sold at or above these levels for years without splitting. By the same token, many stocks have been split under $50 a share.

Recently there have been other factors influencing stock-split decisions. One has been government limitation on dividend boosts to 4 per cent over the average payout in the past three years. This is unrealistically low for many firms. Thus, in order to sweeten the pot for stockholders, many firms have split the stock and then given a small increase in cash payment. A split by itself, of course, does not mean any additional income for the holder.

ANOTHER FACTOR which has spurred stock-split activity over the past year or so has been the revised standards for listing on both the Big Board and the American Stock Exchange. For example, to be listed on the New York Stock Exchange a company must have a minimum of one million publicly held shares. On the American Exchange, a minimum of 400,000 shares is required for listing, and there must be a minimum of 1200 stockholders—up from the previous 900.

structured with a department usually having a chief, assistant chief and one or two other officers.

Northville, for example, has a chief, assistant chief, captain and lieutenant, while South Lyon has a chief, assistant chief, captain, lieutenant, sergeant and fire marshal.

Informality of the department, with little or no military type regimentation, insists the Northville chief, makes for better personnel relationship and more cooperative effort.

Requirements for joining these forces are minimal, with some simply limiting qualifications to persons in "good physical health."

Whether or not a man is available for duty during the day may be a determining factor.

Novi, on the other hand, runs a driving and criminal record check on each of its applicants, before assigning "trainees" to six-months probation duty during which time they receive in-service instruction.

It is during these bi-weekly training sessions that veteran firemen also are receiving refresher instruction just by virtue of the fact that they are assisting in the instruction process, says Novi Assistant Chief Robert Skellenger.

Wixom has a 90-day probation period.

Training itself also is basically informal, although occasionally men attend college classes or seminars. Most often departmental in-service training constitutes the bulk of instruction with experts from industry, utility companies, and professional fire fighting agencies providing assistance.

Northville City Council recently appropriated $500 for the upgrading of its firemen. Chief Hartner prefers to use the money to call in experts to teach his men in Northville rather than using it to send selected men to schools elsewhere.

Brighton also is upgrading its department, making new educational requirements of its men. "It's no longer a question of taking a guy off the street and putting him on the fire truck," says Brighton City Manager Bruce Romer.

Brighton's training program is conducted by Fred Muller, the assistant chief who is a certified instructor and, incidentally, a city councilman.

Volunteer fireman training generally involves hose work, ladder work, chemistry of fire, masks and resuscitator, first aid, forcible entry, etc.

Unlike fully paid professional departments, volunteer firemen may perform different duties at each fire. He may drive a truck one time, string hoses the next.

"I've talked to the professionals," says Hartner, "and they admit that this (job diversification) is what really makes volunteer departments great."

The men (none have women) who make up area departments come from all walks of life. They include businessmen, truck drivers, a college professor (Novi), mortician, policemen, college students, mechanics, engineers, custodians, etc.

One of the major problems of all volunteer departments is maintaining sufficient volunteers during daylight hours. In most cases, departments count heavily on men who work within the community. But getting such men is difficult.

Unlike Northville where only one employer will not permit an employee to drop his work to answer a fire call, other departments find that employers in many cases are reluctant to permit these absences.

Often citizens are unaware that employers are really subsidizing volunteer departments by permitting such absences. These men are not docked for loss of time while away fighting fires.

Northville counts itself fortunate, says Hartner, because several of its volunteers are employees in the public works department.

"They're available anytime during the day...it's the next best thing to having a full-time department."

Use of policemen as volunteers also provides some of the daylight hour manpower for some communities.

To help correct the "daylight hour" problem in Brighton, the city has hired one full-time paid fireman, who also pulls vehicle maintenance duty.

With urbanization, explains Novi Assistant Chief Skellenger, many people live in the community but work outside it so finding volunteers during the day "is a real problem."

Skellenger notes, too, that urbanization also brings with it a certain amount of public apathy about the fire department. People moving into Novi from cities with full-time departments forget they have a responsibility to their local department. "They like the low taxes but they don't seem to realize that the volunteer department helps keep them low," he says.

He points out that through the firemen's association in Novi, some major pieces of equipment have been turned over to the city at no cost to taxpayers. The association has purchased vehicles and leased them to the city for $1 a year. (Most equipment, however, is owned by the city).

Northville's department is unique in that part of its equipment is owned by the city and part by the township. The township shares in the cost of the city department's operation.

Size of departments vary with the community. In this area, for example, Northville has 22 men, Novi 27, Wixom 21, South Lyon 23, Salem 15, New Hudson 15, Green Oak 31, and Brighton 30.

Men are alerted for fire duty either through community sirens, monitors, or both.

Typically, each Northville fireman has a radio monitor in his home. When a fire call comes in to the police-fire dispatcher, he triggers the monitor signal and then gives by radio a brief fire description and location.

Thus, by the time the fire whistle starts blowing firemen already are well on their way to the fire station.

"Even though they've been told by radio where the fire is located (the siren alerts those who may not have heard the radio), they are instructed to go to the station first," explained Hartner.

Reason for going directly to the fire station is to ensure that personnel are available to drive the fire vehicles.

"If we didn't have them go to the station it's very possible, under the volunteer system, that everyone would end up at the fire with nothing to use to fight the fire," he said.

Number of vehicles and equipment that any one department may have varies.

Northville, for example, has about $200,000 worth of fire-fighting equipment, including three pumps, equipment van, two grass fire rigs, and a 3,000 gallon tanker. Brighton has two pumps, rescue truck, tanker, and a grass fire rig.

Besides its fire fighting equipment, South Lyon's department also has a new $10,000 ambulance. The department's ambulance, incidentally, also serves Lyon and Salem Townships and parts of Northfield and Green Oak Townships. Seventeen of its volunteers are trained in first aid.

Area departments, officers point out, may not have like numbers of men and equipment but all have ready access to an army of volunteers and large numbers of vehicles outside the community.

As members of various mutual aid pacts, departments may call upon neighboring communities for direct or indirect assistance.

Average lapse of time between the incoming fire call and a rolling fire rig is three minutes in Northville. It's about the same in other communities.

Fire department efficiency, past history in fighting fires, amount of available equipment, location of fire station, availability of hydrants and water pressure are all essential to the volunteer department community because insurance premiums are predicated upon such criteria.

Northville, South Lyon and Brighton, for example, are rated at Class 7 — the best rating that can be given a volunteer department in the state. That rating, incidentally, is good only in the City of Northville and not Northville Township, even though both are covered by the same department, because sections of the township are not serviced by hydrants and the station is a longer distance from many township dwellings.

Thus, Northville Township carries 7 and 8 ratings, depending on location, etc.

Novi is rated 8 and 9, Salem 9 and 10, Wixom 8 and 9, Lyon Township 8 and 9, Green Oak 8 and 9, and Northfield 9.

Best rating in the state is Detroit with 2. Ann Arbor is rated at 5, Dearborn 3. The difference between the insurance premiums are substantial. For example, on a $30,000 home with $50 deductible, the owner of a house with a 7 rate would pay approximately $30 less annually than would the owner of a house with a 8 rating.

With Faith, God Will Repair Lives

Reverend George Kind Retired,
New Hudson

Genesis 2:15-17. "The Lord God took the man and put him in the garden of Eden to till it and keep it. And the Lord God commanded the man saying, 'You may eat freely of every tree of the garden, but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil you shall not eat, for in the day that you eat of it you shall die.'"

The appearance of man upon the earth implies a Creator. All creation is responsible to the Creator, how much more man with the faculties that he possesses. You cannot think of man's life without bringing in God who created him.

In this ancient account of the first man, we have portrayed in brief and simple outline how man came to be on the earth and how he fell into sin. It would be impossible to have a complete and comprehensive account of man from the very first one, dealing with how he failed and showing the pattern of his life going from bad to worse.

But in the account as we have it in the Scriptures, we have more of a picture of the way man started on the earth and how he fell into sin and that account is a graphic, simple and inspired portrayal of what really took place along the road of man's beginning until now. So adequate is it, that we can take it as it stands and find the very message of God in it for our lives.

One objective of the Bible is to establish an honest and workable relationship between man and God. How did men and how do men come to have a real, honest and workable relationship with God?

Under ordinary circumstances, man often does not strive to find God. Many are living independently of Him as if God may go his way and they may go theirs. Human nature is often self-centered and not likely to seek God. There we have the real need of man to do something with him. If man is prone to live independently of God, how then has man sought God? It is when man has not sought God in any real sense that man has got mixed up and his independence has only served to show his distorted and miserable condition.

The only answer to man's peace is in God. Christ, is God and man both, and the only mediator between God and man. Christ lived the only way that man can live and keep the sense of God's presence intact in his life. Christ is the ideal, before us.

We shall revert to a question we asked a little while ago. If man is prone to live independently of God, how is it that man has sought God?

We shall go back to the account of the first man. God gave Adam and Eve a command not to eat of the tree in the midst of the garden. This was while they were in the blessed condition in the garden before the fall. But we find no effort on man's part to have any sort of communion with God before the fall. Man is too comfortable and independent to feel his need of God. This is the condition that seems desirable to man and man wishes it could last forever, but it never does.

Man inevitably falls into sin and sin disrupts the relationship with God. That is why man seeks God, it is because man has not the answer to his own peace.

After the fall, Adam and Eve find that God, for the most part, will be their enemy. They can never take him for granted again. Every step they take they will find opposition. Tilling the ground will be hard now. Thorns and thistles will grow all too quickly. The earth will be a place of danger, and they will never be able to get back to that experience of light-hearted joy they had previously. Everything now will tend to hinder rather than help in their spiritual struggle. They are not likely to forget God again.

Is it not so, when everything goes well, we shall have occasion to remember Him when things go wrong. And yet whatever drives us to God will help us. This is the making of a covenant. The realization that we have sinned. I am not what I might have been, but now I realize my need. Consequently, I am better than if I had continued trying to run my own life.

We can disrupt the relationship and spoil everything, but with faith and obedience and a sense of our need, we can prove that God can repair the broken elements of life, and make life worth living once more.

Grandpa fumed when I took this picture. "It won't look natural," he said. "My desk is never clean."

It's clean now. The umbrella stand is empty, the hat rack bare. His old Web press has been retired. But Grandpa's presence lingers on.

For over fifty years he printed the Mayfield Progress, reporting the news with integrity. There were times when he was threatened, cajoled by attempted bribery, menaced by pressure groups, but he stayed true to principle. He was a giant in our town.

What made Grandpa strong in the face of danger — incorrupt when confronted by unscrupulous forces?

His church was the center and circumference of his being. Its truths and its goodness sustained him. It was all that he needed — he remained steadfast and sure.

Your church is eager to help you meet the pressures of your day. Its resources are unlimited and eternal. Go to church, and take your family with you.

officer-in-charge of the Bank's Metropolitan Loan Department.

Starting full time with the Bank in 1959, Dean has gained experience in the Bank's Branch, Credit and Commercial Loan Departments. He was first named officer in 1964, second vice president in 1966 and vice president in 1969. Dean succeeded Hussey as the head of the Farmington Region in 1970 and transferred to the Metropolitan Loan Department last year.

Dean is a graduate of Albion College and Stonier Graduate School of Banking. He is a member of the Detroit Athletic Club, Orchard Lake Country Club, and Economic Club of Detroit.

He and his wife, Janet, have three children and live on Connaught Drive.

WEST OAKLAND Bank, N. A. has announced the election of Warren J. Coville to its board of directors.

WARREN COVILLE

Coville is the President of Guardian Photo Division of Guardian Industries, Inc., located at 43043 West Nine Mile Road, Novi.

West Oakland Bank is located at 43335 West 10 Mile Road. Its president is Gary E. Johnson.

OPENING of a new real estate office, J. P. Realty Company, has been announced in Novi.

The firm is located at 26111 Novi Road in the brand-new Roman Plaza shopping center just north of Grand River. Presently open for business, the firm will hold its grand opening next month.

According to General Manager Charles P. Keys, the company has a sales force of 15 persons with over 50 years experience in the real estate business.

Realtor and UNRA Multi-List applications by the firm have been filed.

J. P. Realty will deal primarily in the listing and selling of residential properties, but also will handle industrial and commercial properties.

WALKER AARON was recently promoted to vice president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Livingston County at the annual meeting on January 17.

He started with First Federal Savings in 1968, and formally held the position of branch manager of the South Lyon office. In 1970, Aaron was made an assistant vice-president.

LEXINGTON Condo Homes, a condominium community with 2-bedroom-1-bath, 2-bedroom-2-1/2-bath, and 3-bedroom-2-1/2-bath models now open for inspection, has been added to the 1973 Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan Parade of Idea Homes.

The joint development, presented by Nosan Building Corporation and Thompson-Brown at Eight Mile and Taft Roads in Northville, eventually will include a total of 205 units set luxuriously on a 25-acre beautifully rolling site. Current prices are in the $40-45,000 range. All Lexington condoHomes have direct-access attached garages and many, to take fullest advantage of the roll of the land, will include exposed basements and even tuck-under garages.

Standard features of all the luxury condoHomes shown at Lexington are basement with direct access entry, private patio area, air conditioning, first-floor laundry, carpeting, furniture-finished cabinets, insulated windows and screens, insulated sliding glass doors, ceramic tile baths, formica counter tops, seal-tab shingles, gas forced air heat, and comfort and sound conditioning.

Another major attraction is Lexington Condo Homes' Swim-n-Club complex scheduled for completion early in 1973 along with direct access to 16 acres of "commons" with three tennis courts, rustic picnic shelter, play modules and hike-n-bike trails.

Lexington Condo Homes, constructed by Nosan Building Corporation, were designed in a California Contemporary style by Nicholas Pastor Associates, architects. The overall development will be made up of 38 buildings with 5 to 8 condoHomes each.

Interior decoration of the display models is by Patricia Lord Mahan. Exclusive sales agents are Thompson-Brown.

FLORIDA'S COINLAND—Bernard Stadtmiller, a former Plymouth resident and owner of the building housing the Spinning Wheel and various other shops in Northville, has opened a unique facility south of Melbourne, Florida at Malabar. Called Coinland, it's a numismatic center as well as a trading site for dealers in antiques, arts, crafts and other hobby-oriented lines.

They Own Department

Department had a $9,000 budget, out of which it paid all expenses, including insurance, workmen's compensation, gas and vehicular repairs.

When it comes time to buy a major piece of equipment, such as a tanker, Bennett said the department usually has funds in time certificates to defray initial cost of a loan from the bank. Then it's a question of paying off the remainder of the loan over two or three years.

The fire department now owns three trucks which are housed in the township-owned fire station in the Village of Hamburg.

Bennett says the issue has been raised now and then about the department handing control over to the township.

"We've talked about it a number of times," the fire chief said, "but there seems to be a lot of self pride in the department. I don't see giving up control for quite a long time, but it may come in the future as the township grows."

The people within the Hamburg community also have opted for an independent department, Bennett says. "They say the men are doing a good job, let them continue doing it."

What helps keep a lid on cost of operation is the fact that Hamburg volunteer firemen do not draw any pay — another unique aspect of the department.

Nevertheless, the department has no difficulty in getting volunteers.

"A few years ago so many wanted to get on," Bennett said, "we started an apprenticeship program. You've got to be on the apprenticeship program for six months before you're eligible to be voted into the department."

Then, the fire chief said, there has to be a vacancy. Currently, there are 10 men in the apprenticeship program waiting their turn to get on the 30-man, independent force

Lottery Mailing Appears Possible

Congressman William S. Broomfield, who serves the Oakland County section of this area, remains optimistic that his lottery bill will be approved.

Broomfield's bill would amend Federal statutes, permitting publication of information about Michigan's state run lottery in newspapers using the mails.

Presently, U.S. postal regulations prohibit sending any lottery-related information through the mails.

"There are a host of reasons why my measure should become law," said Broomfield this past week. "First, since Washington has a monopoly on the mails and the air waves, these laws effectively block the free and normal operation of the lottery."

"Worse, these legal obstacles threaten to diminish the revenue-raising potential of Michigan's lottery."

By Ex-Area Resident

Coin Center Expanded

Coinland official Bernard Stadtmiller has announced a new concept for the operation of his numismatic center, located on U. S. Route 1, at Malabar, Florida.

Beginning February 3rd, Coinland will be changed to a mall-type operation, featuring individual booths for dealers trading in antiques, Americana, collectibles, arts, crafts, curios, jewelry, and other hobby oriented lines, as well as coins.

Stadtmiller is a former resident of the Plymouth-Northville area.

The 6,000 square foot, air-conditioned building will be remodeled to accommodate 30 permanent dealers inside, and at least 20 transients outside, within the fenced compound which now surrounds the facility. Principal days of operation will be Saturdays and Sundays, although the main building will be open seven days a week, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., through April, to accommodate winter tourists.

Future expansion plans include the conversion of the immediately adjacent Palm Terrace Motel and 8 acres directly to the north of Coinland, into additional dealer facilities and parking areas.

Stadtmiller predicts it will be the finest facility of its kind in Florida, and that total development will occur as fast as dealer participation and community acceptance will permit.

Inquiries regarding the availability of booths, or general information, should be directed to Bernard Stadtmiller, or Virgil Gabrielli, resident manager, at Coinland, P.O. Box 44, Palm Bay, Fla. 32905

Homes Parade Ideas

FORTY-THREE fully furnished model homes and apartments were opened in the Detroit area recently.

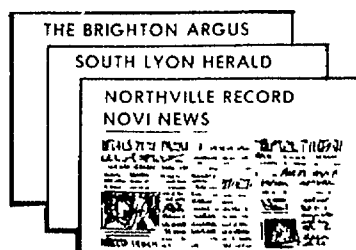

The houses, all entered in the 1973 Parade of Idea Homes, sponsored by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, will remain open for the next six weeks or more, through the dates of the Home, Furniture and Flower Show at Cobo Hall, starting February 17 and ending Sunday, February 25.

All In A Week's Work

YOU ARE THERE

Citizens can't always attend every meeting of their elected officials. As a matter of fact, citizen attendance at these public meetings is usually very sparse. But in communities served by our weekly newspapers YOU ARE THERE. Our reporters, like Marilyn Green of The Brighton Argus, record and report the happenings. They're trained to listen, question and report accurately and objectively. So when you read a story about your city council, township board or school board, it's not a 'hand-out or release' or second-hand report. It's the story that has been compiled by a reporter who was there and has been there for weeks, months and years.

FOR NEWSPAPER PEOPLE...

A day's work may include covering an athletic contest, then writing about it. Or it may be helping a local merchant plan an advertisement for a sale. Or it may be the announcement of the death of a local resident; or the birth of the community's newest resident. It could be delivery of the newspaper to your home. Whatever the assignment, a "week's work" means getting your community newspaper to your home on time filled with all the happenings of your community in words and pictures. The job is performed by people who live and work in your town. You can help them do a better job by first reading your community newspaper weekly and becoming better informed, and by thinking of your friends at the newspaper when you have a news item to report, or a want ad to place.

How often should a horse's feet be cleaned out and what can be done to prevent thrush?

A horse's feet should be cleaned out with a hoof pick at least once a day. Care should be taken to get way into the deep cracks on either side of the frog (this area often harbors dirt) especially towards the heel of the foot.

When the hoof has been completely cleaned then a hoof dressing, such as "Hooflex," vaseline or pinetar should be applied to the entire sole of the foot and around the coronetband (hairline). This promotes growth of hoof and also keeps the hoof from becoming dry and brittle.

Thrush is a fungus infection of the frog and is quite common. Just by cleaning the feet daily and applying a hoof dressing, you are already helping to prevent thrush.

Your blacksmith may also be of help in this matter by keeping the horse's feet trimmed at a proper length with the heels low. This allows the horse to apply pressure on the frog when he walks, thus stimulating blood circulation to the hoof.

This trimming also makes the hoof easier for you to keep clean.

The symptoms of thrush are a thick black discharge with a repulsive odor, tenderness around the frog and if severe, extreme lameness.

Cleaning and taking care of your horse's feet is time well spent. The old adage "No feet, NO horse" is still very, very true.

The annual meeting of the Michigan Harness Horsemen's Association was held at the Olds Plaza, Lansing, January 15, attended by over 600 members.

Trophies were awarded to the owners of the champions of the 12 Michigan Colt Stakes. The Michigan Futurity with an estimated purse of $37,000 was awarded to Eastern Michigan Fair, Inlay City, Michigan by the Department of Agriculture. Allegan county fair was the top bidder for the Wolverine Futurity with an estimated purse of $90,000. The Coon Memorial Futurity to be raced at Crosswell with an estimated purse of $100,000 are the outstanding events sponsored by the association for county fair racing in 1973.
