

'Township Government's More Responsive'

MARK LYSINGER

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the first of a series of articles about the men and women who are leading the campaigns for and against annexation of the township to the city. This article concerns the positions of the two leaders of the Committee for Referendum Petition—a township organization opposed to annexation. Their comments were taken in a tape-recorded interview.

Government responsive to the will of the people—that's what township government means to Robert Adams and Mark Lysinger.

For them, city government, as would occur with annexation, is inherently less responsive and therefore a poor choice for township voters who go to the polls May 7 to vote on the question of annexation to the city.

Explaining why he became involved in the annexation battle, Adams summed up the position of both when he said, "I was appalled to find out that all of a sudden we were going to have annexation...because a paltry 1 1/2 percent of the people signed a petition, in secret, to deprive me and the others of their right to decide their own future. Anytime that is done it may not be legally unconstitutional but it should be.

"We, the newcomers of the community, should have a right to say what is going to happen to our future. It doesn't matter what happened 10 years ago or five years ago...it's the people who are important. They should at least have the right to go to the polls and not be dictated to by a few select people who decide they are going to act like Jesus Christ."

"In my opinion 'One Northville' or whatever group instigated this thing attempted to undermine the right of the people and to have their own way. Their ultimate goal may be complementary but their method to attain it is not in the best interest of the people."

Both men contended the One Northville Committee has, until recently, opposed a vote on annexation and therefore, now that an election is scheduled, is attempting to lead people to believe it is a proponent of a decision by the people.

Although, like Adams, Lysinger is convinced township form of government should be retained, he emphasized that he will "work just as hard" for a unified city if the people decide for annexation.

"Maybe I'm an ultra conservative, if it is

A RESOLUTION was adopted by the City council this week praising the high school swim team and its coach, Ben Lauber, for winning the Class B state championship at Ann Arbor Saturday—the first state championship ever won by a Northville High School team.

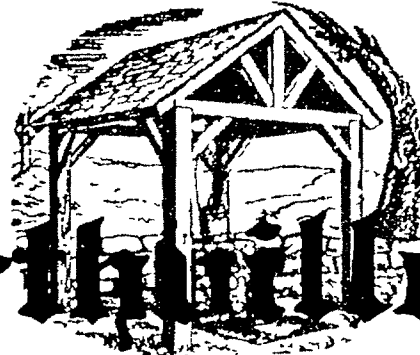

INCREASE in township taxes is a distinct possibility, suggests Representative Robert Geake in reporting a bill now being considered in the Michigan legislature. The bill, which would permit township boards to vote in charter township status, stands a good chance of passage, Geake told this newspaper, since it has strong backing from the Michigan Association and member townships. See his column on Page 11-A.

WILLIAM McLAUGHLIN, 592 Reed, chairman of the Michigan Republican State Central Committee, has been named chairman of the Michigan Week celebration in Northville by the city council. During Michigan Week in May Northville will exchange councilmen with the City of Flat Rock.

OPEN HOUSE will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at Northville Public Library, 215 West Main Street. Residents of the area are invited to tour the library facilities which recently expanded into the balcony. Refreshments will be served.

CHURCH HEIGHT in residential districts will be discussed at a public hearing beginning at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 27, before Northville Township Planning Commission. The proposed ordinance amendment provides variances in church height if front and side yards are increased.

A LOW BID from Ron Johnson to provide ambulance and personnel quarters at 17071 Northville Road in the township, at a cost of $150 monthly, was accepted by the council this week subject to specification adherence and township board approval. Only one other bid was received—from Councilman Paul Polino—who specified that his bid be considered only if none others were found acceptable.

Winter's Last Gasp a Beaut

Storm's Biggest Since '65

Just four days before the official arrival of spring, winter staged its last assault on southeastern Michigan—a weekend snowstorm, whipped by strong winds, which virtually paralyzed the Northville area by Saturday afternoon.

Snowfall varied from seven to 12 inches—depending on the location and people reporting conditions.

Not only was the weekend snowstorm the biggest of the year, it was called the worst since the Big Storm of 1965. That storm, too, hit in March.

Mayor Protem Denis Berry declared a state of emergency in neighboring Novi. (See Novi, Page 1, for details.)

Rain began falling early Friday evening, turning to snow as the temperatures dropped. By late Friday night, road conditions were hazardous and on Saturday morning many secondary roads were impassable.

Snow removal operations were continuing in many areas through Monday.

"It's the worst we've seen here in eight years," said Northville Postmaster John Steimel Monday in calling off mail delivery throughout most of Northville Township.

"The main roads are barely passable, and the subdivision streets are awful," the postmaster declared.

Roads through Northville into Salem were so bad, he said, that a Sunday delivery truck from Detroit had to turn back and drop off Salem mail at Northville.

Mail delivery Saturday was "out of the question," asserted Steimel. "A driver started out to deliver five special delivery parcels and was out two hours, stuck half the time. He delivered four of them, brought the fifth back."

A power failure hit the southeast section of the city Saturday, and police had to direct traffic at the intersection of Northville and Seven Mile roads when the traffic light failed to work.

A second power failure occurred in the same area Sunday afternoon.

Shopping in downtown Northville came to a virtual halt Saturday.

Northville schools were closed Monday. A four-foot drift blocked the entrance to the high school drive on Center.

"We've got drifts 15-feet high in front of doors at the high school," Business Director Earl Busard commented Monday. "Those are being shoveled by hand.

BLINDING—More than 24 hours after Saturday's snowstorm, blowing snow and drifts made driving extremely hazardous along Six Mile Road where motorists were forced to use a single plowed lane. Some unlucky drivers had to abandon their vehicles mired in the snow.

Data Found Inadequate

City Endorses Recreation Budget

A proposed $56,117 recreation department budget received city council endorsement Monday but officials demanded that additional substantiating data be provided the council.

Final council approval is subject to presentation of this data and approval by the township board.

Cost of the department is shared by the city and township on a ratio of registrants.

The proposed budget represents an increase of $8,136 over expenditures in the current actual budget of $47,981.

Although confident that the increase in the budget is justifiable, Councilman Paul Vernon made it clear that he wasn't satisfied with the data presented to substantiate the increase.

Referring to the budget figures, Vernon said, "It just looks to me that we have a significant increase in salaries but just 32 more participants in the program."

The budget, he added, fails to justify the increase.

"I'm confident it can be explained," Vernon commented, emphasizing he is a strong supporter of the director, Robert Prom, and the program.

Councilman Paul Polino, council representative on the recreation department committee, defended the budget and assured Vernon the desired information could and would be provided. Specifically, the added information is to show increase in activity participants—not simply

Township Skirts Salaries In Initial Budget Studies

Approval of a township budget, which township officials last week said would occur this week as part of Settlement Day proceedings, apparently will not occur until later this month or early next

"We are no longer under pressure" to get the budget ready for approval, Clerk Sally Cayley told fellow board members at an executive session Thursday. She said she had been informed by the township attorney that the budget did not have to come up as part of settlement day proceedings.

Until her announcement, officials had been trying to complete preparation of the budget at two executive sessions (last week Wednesday and Thursday). Approval of the budget last year did occur on settlement day, and it was announced at last week's regular board meeting that it would occur on settlement day again this year.

Neither the date of budget adoption nor settlement day had been officially published, however.

Although the budget study meetings last week were declared private by Township Attorney Donald Morgan, a Record representative attended both sessions and was not asked to leave.

It was apparent in the budget sessions that the final product is still a long way from completion.

Most of the budget areas likely to generate board disagreement (salaries and possible additional police

Plan Theater Change

Women to Operate Downtown Shops

Within the next six weeks, several new business ventures are due to open in downtown Northville. An import shop, a clothing boutique, an art gallery and an arts-and-crafts instruction center are separate entries into business by area women.

Scheduled to open first are The Import Marquis and The Boutique Marquis in the shops adjacent to the P & A Theatre. Both will be owned by Ingeborg (Mrs. J. J.) Zayti, who hopes to have them open in mid-April. Both stores previously were antique shops and now are being vacated. Working with Mrs. Zayti will be Suzanne Thomasson, previously a buyer in San Francisco now living in Highland Lakes.

Upstairs, in seven rooms reached by the door just east of the theatre on Main Street will be The Art Forum and The Craft Forum, scheduled to open May 6 with an open house.

They are separate ventures being run cooperatively by Mrs. James van Buren and Mrs. Thomas DeMott, who will head the craft instruction program, and Mrs. Paul Hughes, the art gallery. It is planned that craft classes will be scheduled in such skills as rug hooking and macrame for adults with summer sessions for young people.

A schedule of class offerings now is being prepared by Mrs. van Buren and Mrs. DeMott with area women invited to sign up for the late spring classes. A local instructor will be Mrs. Jack Scantlin, who is to teach traditional and primitive rug-hooking in a five-week session. Mrs. Scantlin has exhibited and taken part in rug-hooking bees at the invitational country fairs in Greenfield Village.

The owners also plan to operate a small boutique of the hand-made articles from the classes.

Mrs. Hughes has just returned from an art-buying trip to England, where the Hughes family lived while Paul Hughes was working for Ford Motor Company abroad.

Mrs. Zayti says she is "hopeful but not definite" about an opening date for the Marquis shops. The clothing boutique, she said, will carry a wide range of lines, including ladies better clothing. Both sportswear and elegant fashions will be in stock. She is enthusiastic about "a beautiful line of tennis clothes" from a Michigan firm, Emily, which includes size 16.

Other firms whose clothes will be in the shop include Koret of California, One-Up sports clothes, Hanbury and Glen of Michigan as well as some imports from Germany and Switzerland.

The Import Marquis shop, Mrs. Zayti stated, will have gift items, including a line on non-tarnishing German silver. In this line, she explained, are small pieces in the $5 to $10 range. She also plans to stock glass work, art work, ivory jewelry and pieces from Africa, Australia, India and several European countries.

Pointing out that she had lived for more than a year each in Africa and India, Mrs. Zayti said she is familiar with merchandise from these countries and hopes to get different pieces. A native of Germany, Mrs. Zayti adds that she likes to be busy and expects to juggle the businesses while raising three young children. She still also operates a kennel of 100 dogs in Switzerland.

She said that her husband is buying the theatre building and that future plans in about two years include changing the theatre to a "European" type with a lounge. Mrs. Zayti says that seating capacity will be cut from the present 400 to 190, with much more space. The lobby then could be recessed with a courtyard setting created for the shops.

EIGHTY YEARS YOUNG—Mrs. Leland Mills draws costumes from the Gibson-Girl era from a trunk to re-create the image of the girl who took the country by storm in the 1890's at the luncheon program concluding Northville Woman's Club 80th year last Friday at Northville First Presbyterian Church.

Gibson Girls

Woman's Club Marks 80th Year Here Friday

Whether founding members of Northville Woman's Club were "Gibson Girls" of 1892 is not known, but it seems logical to expect that they were the vibrant Gibson-Girl types rather than Gay Nineties' Sweet Rosie O'Grady dance-hall ones.

Geraldine (Mrs. Leland) Mills donned period costumes while a Mike Whorf tape told of "The Undimmed Appeal of The Gibson Girl." The story was by Agnes Rogers in "A Treasury of American Heritage."

Eaton, a life member now living in Waverly, Ohio.

The navy silk wedding gown was loaned by Mrs. Elroy Ellison. It had been worn by her mother. The crocheted cotton slip worn beneath the costumes had belonged to an aunt of Mrs. Philip Nauman, church secretary. The program was introduced by Mrs. William Crump, chairman.

It was announced that Mrs. Robert Brueck would be program chairman for 1973-74. Serving with her will be Mrs. Russell Anger, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Richard Cooper, Mrs. Kenneth Pickl, Mrs. Martin Rinehart and Mrs. Donald Williams.

At the annual meeting, the following officers were reelected to a second term: Mrs. Douglas Day, president; Mrs. George Weiss, vice-president; Mrs. Frederick Harper, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Keith Wright, treasurer; Mrs. Addison Kline was elected recording secretary, succeeding Mrs. William Switzer.

Continuing on the board of directors are Mrs. Herbert Weston, Mrs. Leonard Klein and Mrs. LeRoy Ordling. New members are Mrs. Roy Mattison and Mrs. Ellison. They succeed Mrs. E. A. Chapman and Mrs. Marcella Douglas. This year's nominating committee chairman was Mrs. H. F. Wagenschutz, who was assisted by Mrs. D. S. Hiller and Mrs. William McDermott.

In Our Town

By JEAN DAY

THE BIG SNOW last weekend slowed the homeward trek of some winter vacationers. The Ernest Bacsanyi family of Brookland Farms was one of the last to get home on the I-94 Sunday before it was completely closed to traffic.

"It was as incredible as reports said," comments Mrs. Bacsanyi, adding that they returned to more snow on the ground here than they found at Aspen. This is the fourth year that the Bacsanyis with their daughters have skied at Aspen.

There was added excitement this year as Sandy, an 11th grade student at Northville High, participated for the first time in the races at Aspen Highlands, winning a bronze medal the first day and a silver one on the second. Sandy had prepared for the competition by attending racing camp last summer at Jackson Hole, Wyoming, where skiers hiked to the mountain tops each morning to train.

"It's a real family thing," Mrs. Bacsanyi explained as she mentioned that younger sisters, Jessica, Karla and Kerri, all also are skiers. As Tuesday was Settlement Day in Novi Township, as in all Michigan townships, Irene Bacsanyi had been concerned about returning on schedule to fulfill her duties as township treasurer. This is the date for payment from the township of funds to the school districts and county.

Returning from a first visit to Sarasota, Florida, last weekend the Robert Crane family drove through a tornado alert, a snowstorm and badly flooded areas. The low-lying areas from Chattanooga to Knoxville really were disaster regions, Mrs. Crane reports. Particularly hard-hit, she said, was Sweetwater. Its main street was completely closed by the floods and cars were detoured to higher ground.

The Cranes were joined on the vacation by son John, a sophomore at Notre Dame, who flew from Chicago to Knoxville to join them on the trip to Lido Beach at Sarasota. Looking out on the first day of spring in Michigan Tuesday, Mrs. Crane added that they enjoyed temperatures about 86 degrees there.

While the Gordon Forrer family was vacationing in the Sarasota area at the same time, Mrs. Crane says they didn't see each other. The Forrers, too, returned last weekend through the flooded Chattanooga area. They found the motel where they had reservations there completely flooded and felt lucky to find accommodations high in the mountains.

SAN FRANCISCO was the vacation destination of Mrs. Jack Scantlin who visited daughter Penny there. She reports the city remains as appealing as it was when the Scantlins spoke their wedding vows there 28 years ago. Penny, an airline stewardess with World Airlines, has an apartment in Pacific Heights overlooking the bay.

Her mother adds that between flights to Maine and Geneva, Switzerland, Penny has been training to work on the 747s.

CRIS BECKER is another career-minded young woman of our area who has been achieving in her chosen field. Both this weekend and last she's been playing the part of Portia in the "Merchant of Venice" at the Bonstelle Theatre at Wayne State University.

This is Cris' first Shakespearean role, her mother, Mrs. Wilfred Becker, notes, Cris recently completed a television commercial and will be appearing in the Greenfield Village children's theatre Easter production.

THE OPEN HOUSE to be held from 2 to 4 p.m. this coming Sunday, March 25, at the Northville Library has two purposes: all interested families in the area are invited to view the rearranged facilities and to meet the new librarian, Elaine Lada, if they have not already done so since she assumed her post last November; residents also will be invited to join the Friends of the Library.

Up to the present time, Mrs. Albert Wiegand, chairman of the library commission, explains, the commission has been serving also as a Friends of the Library group. With the commission, composed of both city and township residents, now very involved with expansion plans there is a need for a separate service group.

Mrs. J. Thomas Handy and Robert Krueger have volunteered to head the new organization and will be signing up members Sunday. Anyone interested who can not attend the open house may leave his or her name with the librarian or call Mrs. Wiegand, 349-5945.

It is hoped that the new group will be in charge of displays in the library, will decorate for Christmas and collect books for the sidewalk sale that annually raises funds for the library. The Friends also will assist with the children's story hour programs.

The book sale, in addition to raising funds, has gained books needed for the library. If those donated are wanted and the library does not have them, Mrs. Wiegand explains, they have gone right on the shelves—making an even more valuable donation.

Visitors Sunday will see the new reading corner for which comfortable chairs were purchased with book sale monies and a $200 donation from Northville Town Hall. It is located in the section formerly containing children's books. They have been moved upstairs where a separate children's reading area has been created.

Under the direction of Mrs. Lawrence Gaitskill of Three Cities Art Club an exhibition of art work will be in place for the open house. It is planned that this will be a permanent exhibit with rotating displays.

Serving punch and cookies and welcoming visitors Sunday will be the members of the library commission. In addition to Mrs. Wiegand they are Mrs. Charles Ayers, Jay Wendt, Mrs. Roy Mattison, Mrs. William Sliger, Mrs. Charles Chase and Roger Pyett.

A MILLIONAIRES' Party—the second annual one to be sponsored by the Northville Band Parents Club is set for 8 p.m. April 6 at the VFW Hall, 438 South Main Street. Dollar admission tickets entitle the purchaser to $1,000 worth of bogus money for the party and a chance at the door prize.

Mrs. Richard Clegg is in charge of ticket sales. The party is a family night event with youngsters invited to attend with their parents. Three prizes, she announces, will be given to the families who sell the largest number of tickets over 10. She may be contacted for tickets at 349-4389.

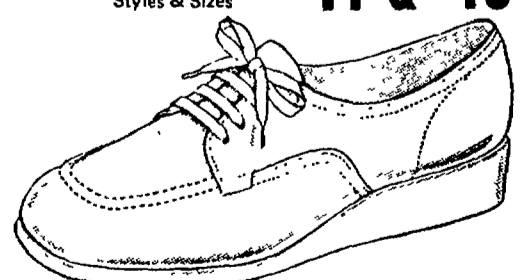

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Frid, Band Parents president-team, report that fund-raising to send the band back to band camp this summer has been going very well. The pumpkin bread sale was a "sell-out" and the candle sale exceeded expectations. In addition, Mrs. Frid points out, band students have raised money by raking leaves and doing odd jobs for area residents. Mothers also have been holding weekly cookie sales.

Easter Bunny Sets Novi Visit

Novi's Jaycee Auxiliary has learned that the Easter Bunny will make his annual appearance in Novi Saturday, April 14.

That's the date for the Jaycee Auxiliary's Fifth Annual Bunny Lunch, which will be served in the Novi Community Building. Lunches will be served at 11 a.m. and 1:15 p.m. with tickets priced at $1 for both children and adults.

Tickets will be available Monday, March 26 and can be purchased from Mrs. Ed Kriewall in Echo Valley subdivision (349-6423), Mrs. James Deamud in Meadowbrook Glens subdivision (349-6081), and Mrs. Brian McNutt in the Willowbrook subdivision (477-7518).

The Jaycettes ask that children under five years old be accompanied by a paying adult or older child.

Entertainment this year will be provided by the Jan-Fan Puppeteers. Again this year Novi school children in grades kindergarten through third will be able to compete in the Easter poster contest. These pictures will be made with the help and direction of the art teachers in Novi's elementary schools. Prizes will be awarded at the luncheon for the best posters in each grade.

The Jaycee Auxiliary urges parents to purchase tickets early as there is a limited amount of seating and the "Bunny Lunch" is usually a sell out.

Newcomer Coffee Planned

The annual spring coffee and card party has been announced by the Northville Newcomers Club for 8 p.m. on Thursday, April 5, at the United Methodist Church of Northville located at Taft and Eight Mile Roads.

Women who are members of Newcomers are invited to attend and bring guests. The women will be playing cards and other table games.

Cost is $1 a person and reservations must be made with Mrs. Thomas Haughton, 41871 Rayburn, Plymouth, 455-7279 by Monday, March 26.

The organization also has announced the beginning of several interest groups.

Tennis will be taught to members by Mrs. Douglas Horst beginning May 21. The cost for eight lessons is $10 and reservations should be made with her at 349-4468.

The Newcomers men's softball team will also begin in May. Interested members should register with Bill Molar, 349-7668.

The club president, Mrs. Robert Holloway, reminds members that the ballots for the election of officers have been distributed to members and should be returned to her as soon as possible.

Library Friends Forming Now

Friends of Northville Library is currently being formed in Northville. "We have a chairman," Mrs. Jane Wiegand of the Library Advisory Committee, said, "but we need members for the group."

Purpose of the group will be to assist in the library, putting up exhibits, helping with book sales, coffee hours and aiding librarians.

Persons interested are asked to contact Mrs. Wiegand at 349-5945 or leave their name with the librarian.

Storm Forces 'State of Emergency'

"The City's clean now."

With that pronouncement Monday at 8 p.m. Councilman Denis Berry announced that he was lifting the State of Emergency he had placed on the City of Novi approximately 40 hours earlier.

Berry, acting in his capacity of Mayor Pro Tem in the absence of Mayor Joseph Crupi who was out of state, declared the State of Emergency at approximately 5 a.m. Sunday in response to the worst snow storm to hit the Novi area since the Big Storm of 1963.

Coincidentally, that storm also struck in March.

Berry explained Monday that he had taken the action when it became obvious to him that the storm had "virtually paralyzed" the City. "The only means of access to the majority of the city's residents," he explained, "was by snowmobile. All our roads were closed to all other types of traffic, including ambulances and fire trucks. After consulting with the balance of the council, I decided to declare a State of Emergency."

As a preamble to the Proclamation of Emergency, Berry issued a plea for all owners and operators of heavy equipment in and around Novi to offer their equipment and services as quickly as possible "in order that this emergency situation may be alleviated."

Berry issued the plea over Detroit television Sunday.

Although the 1963 storm left more inches of snow on the ground than the 12 inches that interrupted the apparent arrival of spring last week, veterans of the Novi Department of Public Works claimed that the storm which struck over the weekend was much more difficult to handle because of its weight.

Edward Kriewall, Acting City Manager and DPW Head, noted that the early arrival of spring this year probably contributed as much to the overall nearly disastrous conditions as the snow itself had.

"There's no question that the early arrival of spring this year has taken its toll on our equipment," he commented. "For the past three weeks all the equipment in our DPW has been operating at virtually optimum efficiency. When the storm hit, some of our equipment was already inoperable. We had several pieces of machinery in the shop for repair due to the strain on it over the past few weeks."

In addition to its effect on the equipment, the early thaw had a second equally debilitating effect.

"We had a lot of snow on top of the roads, but under the snow the roads were extremely muddy and soft," observed Kriewall. "As a result, we had several pieces of equipment get stuck in the mud. If the roads had still been frozen when the snow started, things would have moved a lot more smoothly." The snow started early Friday evening and continued through the night. By Saturday morning the city was covered by a full eight inches.

Berry first contacted Kriewall early Saturday afternoon and learned that he was having trouble with the snow-removal equipment - several pieces were inoperable due to mechanical failure or being stuck in the mud.

Particularly hard hit were the largely undeveloped west and north ends of the city.

"We feel we can handle three, six, even eight inches of snow - without much difficulty," said Kriewall. "But 12 inches of snow combined with high winds creates problems, particularly in the large undeveloped areas, because there is excessive drifting."

By 2 a.m. Sunday, all the DPW equipment had been rendered inoperable. One road grader was mired on Beck Road north of 10 Mile, while two others were stuck on Nine Mile Road between Beck and Taft Roads. The operators were all returned to City Hall via snowmobiles. By Sunday morning the only road open in Novi was one lane along Grand River. All other roads were impassable.

At 5 a.m. Berry declared the State of Emergency.

Efforts to contact local contractors continued - unsuccessfully - all day Sunday. Finally, Berry reported, at 10 p.m. Sunday contact with Mark Young of Michigan Tractor was made, and Young made snow removal equipment available.

By 8 a.m. Monday two lanes on Grand River and two lanes on Novi Road had been opened by Oakland County, while city crews had opened Ten Mile from Grand River to Novi Road.

Also by Monday morning, 12 different contractors had responded to Novi's plea for help and a fleet that included eight road graders, five loaders, two bull dozers, and three trucks was busily shoveling off the City's roads.

Among the donors' of equipment were Cadillac Asphalt, Ray's Landscaping, Ministrelli Construction, Bosco-Volpe Construction, Michigan Tractor, Detroit Concrete, VanEvery Excavation, O'Laughlin Construction, and the Sugden Corporation. The identity of several other donors was unknown.

The clean-up job was slowed by numerous cars which had been abandoned in

CLEAN-UP OPERATIONS — The heaviest snowfall to hit the area in eight years brought about a State of Emergency in Novi over the weekend. The snows started falling Friday night and by Saturday the majority of the city's roads were impassable. Several subdivisions were accessible only by snowmobile. By Monday morning, however, with the assistance of equipment provided by various contractors, the difficult task of clearing the roads was undertaken in earnest. The loader pictured here clearing off Ten Mile Road had to contend with a long string of cars which were abandoned in the heavy snow.

'We'll Walk to Calls'

Police Set Deadline For Replacing Cars

A crisis that could conceivably leave Novi residents in effect without police protection is developing within the Novi Police department.

At issue is the condition of the city's police cars.

Detective Sergeant Gordon Nelson, president of the Novi Police Lieutenants and Sergeants Association (NPLSA), told the city council Wednesday that unless it takes definite action within 30 days to provide safe police cars, the members of the police union he represents will refuse to drive the cars.

"We will continue to report for work and we will continue to answer calls for help," Nelson told the council. "But we will refuse to drive the cars now at our disposal because they are unsafe. We'll walk, hitchhike, or take a taxi to answer calls, but we aren't going to ride in those unsafe vehicles any longer."

Detective John Johnson, President of the Novi Police Officers Association (NPOA), did not take the same stand, although he did not rule out the possibility that the union he represents may yet decide to do so.

"It is our hope that the matter will be resolved within the 30 day limit," Johnson told The Novi News Friday. "If the council has not taken any action by that date, it is highly possible that the NPOA will support the NPLSA in refusing to drive the unsafe cars."

The NPLSA has three members, while the NPOA is comprised of the remainder of the 19-man Novi force.

The 30-day edict issued by Nelson expires on Friday, April 13.

Although Johnson and the NPOA have thus far declined from taking the same strong stand taken by Nelson and the NPLSA, they have filed a grievance with the City regarding what it termed "unsafe and unsatisfactory" working conditions.

In a letter to Police Chief Lee BeGole, Johnson noted that the miles which accumulate on a police car are very rough miles, so that a police car with 60,000 miles on it is in about the same state of mechanical stability and soundness as a private vehicle with over 100,000 miles on it.

"Our Association takes the stand that no police vehicle should be driven for any police function once it has obtained 50,000 miles of use," declared Johnson. "We believe to drive a car with more than 50,000 miles is unsafe for all officers concerned."

At the time Johnson and Nelson appeared before the council, six cars were available to the police department. Mileage on the four cars assigned to the Road Patrol ranged from a minimum of 50,000 to a maximum in excess of 72,000. The two vehicles assigned to the Detective Bureau had mileage readings of 75,000 and 82,000 miles.

The lone car assigned to the Traffic Division had 75,000 miles on it when it was involved in an accident March 9 had to be retired from the fleet. It was that accident which prompted the filing of the grievance, Johnson noted.

The current problem stems back to the time of the 1972-73 budget hearings last June. Prior to those hearings the city had followed an unwritten policy of not using the police cars once they've exceeded 50,000 miles. Chief BeGole systematically replaced the older vehicles at staggered intervals.

When the 1972-73 budget was drawn up, however, the requested budget was $100,000 over the estimated income. Cuts were made, and the new police cars were among the items that were chopped.

An additional need for cars was created with the establishment of the Traffic Division in November through a federal grant.

Some relief is on the way. One new vehicle ordered for the Traffic Division last November finally arrived last week. Approximately a month ago the council authorized the purchase of two additional vehicles - one marked unit for regular patrol and a second moderate-range unmarked unit for the Detective Bureau.

As a result of the appearance of Nelson and Johnson before the council last Wednesday, the purchase of two additional cars was authorized.

Once all the new vehicles arrive, it will bring the number of police cars which satisfy the safety criterion of 50,000-miles-and-out established by the NPOA to five.

It is assumed that the members of both police unions will continue to perform their duties as long as those duties can be performed in one of the new cars. Still, five cars does not comprise an adequate fleet for a city the size of Novi.

The council indicated to Johnson and Nelson that it will continue to explore means of providing adequate police transportation.

North Hills Estates

Council Approves Final Plat

By a 3-2 margin Novi's city council Tuesday gave final plat approval to North Hills Estates, a subdivision to be constructed by the Greenspan Company in the south end of the city.

According to plans announced by Fred Greenspan at Tuesday's session, the development will contain approximately 200 single-family residences. An additional 180 units in multiple dwellings will be constructed once the single-family section has been completed.

The subdivision will be located south of Nine Mile Road on either side of Center Street, which will be reconstructed through the development.

Opposition to granting final plat approval came from Councilmen Edwin Presnell and Louie Campbell.

The area has been slated for development according to the plan finally approved by the council Tuesday since 1967. Since the time the original plat was submitted, however, the property has undergone a succession of owners until the Greenspan Company finally took control last year.

Prior to the time that first plat plan was submitted in 1967, the council had approved a rezoning request to permit the development in spite of the opposition of the residents of the Connemara subdivision which is adjacent to the location.

A portion of the property was rezoned for single family development, while a pair of outlots were rezoned for multiple-family development. At that time, however, the council designated that the multiple family zoning did not go into effect until the single family residences had been completed.

It was this point which led to Presnell's opposition to the granting of final plat approval. Presnell argued that though the multiple zoning had been granted in 1966, the R-2A designation had never been put on the zoning map.

"It's unfair to people who have bought land in this area because the zoning map did not properly inform them that they were locating in an area designated for multiple development," said Presnell.

The Councilman further

Car Strikes Pedestrian

A 19-year old Novi woman was seriously injured Saturday, March 17, when she was struck by an automobile while she, her brother, and sister were walking along South Lake Drive at approximately 8:40 p.m.

Mrs. Patricia Belleperch underwent surgery Monday at St. Joseph's Hospital for severe cuts on her head and face, police reported. She also suffered a fractured right leg in the accident.

Police have arrested a subject in the case on charges of being drunk in a public place. Novi Officer Jack Grubb indicated that further warrants charging the man with driving under the influence of liquor and felonious driving will be sought. Identity of the man is being withheld pending arraignment on the charges Thursday (today).

According to police, the accident occurred while Mrs. Belleperch, her 27-year old brother William Kruevelis, and her 14-year old sister Mary Ann Kruevelis were walking west along the south shoulder of South Lake Drive. An automobile approached the trio from the opposite direction and struck Mary Ann, throwing her to the side, and then struck Mrs. Belleperch. William Kruevelis was not hit by the car.

The driver stopped and returned to the scene of the accident, police said.

The two girls were transported by ambulance to St. Joseph's Hospital. Mary Ann was treated and released.

Mrs. Belleperch remains hospitalized.

Retirees Plan New Activities

The Plymouth-Northville Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons has announced that it is expanding its programs. Word of the changes came from the chapter president, Fred Bradley of Northville.

The regular meeting, held on the fourth Wednesday of each month, Bradley said, will be extended to a four-hour meeting and will include time for interest groups. These groups, he added, will include hobbies, crafts and discussions.

Bradley announced the other major change will be the addition of a mid-month activity for the members of the organization. The initial trip will be an April 4 visit to the Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary in Ontario, Canada.

On March 28, Bradley said, the members will meet at the Plymouth Presbyterian Church. Interest groups will begin at 10:30 a.m. and a pot luck dinner has been scheduled for noon.

The program at 1:30 p.m. will be a slide presentation by the Reverend Paul Thompson of his recent trip to the Holy Land. Mr. Thompson is pastor at the First Baptist Church of Plymouth.

According to Bradley, the chapter now has over 200 members and welcomes visitors to the meetings.

At Baptist Church

Host Missionaries

Three foreign countries and two American missions will be represented at the Bible and Missionary Conference presented by the First Baptist Church of Northville beginning Saturday, March 24, through Wednesday, March 28.

Under the direction of J. Richard Rowe, the church choir will open the conference with a 7 p.m. presentation of John Peterson's missionary musical, "So Send I You". After the concert, a reception will be held where individuals will have an opportunity to meet the missionaries participating in the conference.

France will be represented by the Reverend and Mrs. Roger Lehner who serve with the Evangelical Alliance Mission in France.

The Reverend and Mrs. Lewis Whittle, missionaries under the Central American Mission, have served in El Salvador and later this year they will assume a new ministry in Spain.

Baptist Mid-Missions will be represented at the conference by the Reverend and Mrs. Jerry Baker of Shelburne, Vermont. The Reverend and Mrs. James Missildine who share their ministry with the Jewish population in Detroit will also take part.

Headlining the conference as the Bible speaker each morning at 10 and each evening at 7:30 will be Dr. Lester Pipkin, the president of the Appalachian Bible Fellowship in Bradley, West Virginia.

New Feature Aids Gardeners

Despite Saturday's snow storm, it's still time to start planning for your lawn and garden needs for spring and summer.

And to give you a helping hand The Record begins a new feature page this week that will continue through the summer months.

It's our "Lawn and Garden News" department in the B section of this newspaper. And it has been expanded to provide more information about gardening and lawn care.

First, a nationally-syndicated column "The Gardening Way" by Margaret Herbst becomes a regular feature of the lawn and garden page.

Margaret Herbst heads up her own public relations firm and has been a leader in the promotion of agricultural and horticultural fields. And she's been recognized by having both a tulip and an orchid named after her.

She is also well known for her work in the lawn and turfgrass industry. And for her work in behalf of Belgian horticulture and agriculture, she was named Knight in the Order of Leopold II by Baudouin, King of Belgians.

Along with "The Gardening Way" column the weekly lawn and garden section will include a series of columns by Richard D. Miller, agent for the Cooperative Extension Service of Livingston County. Several other authoritative sources, such as the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University, will be used to supply information for lawn and garden care for area homeowners.

Settlement Day Held Here

"I've been here four months and I've learned a lot and have a lot more to learn," Supervisor Lawrence Wright said Tuesday night at Northville Township's Settlement Day meeting.

Wright commented the township is "continuing to grow. Last year, our state equalized, valuation, was under $51-million and now it's over $60-million."

In his annual remarks, Wright stated a number of office employees have been hired since he took office and "we will have to have help in the water and sewer department."

He also commented that "crime is continuing to go up" and that will also have to be studied.

Treasurer Joseph Straub, in his annual report, stated the township has a total of $1,392,460.43. Included is $898,889.07 in township funds and $493,571.36 in funds held in trust.

Trust funds include water and sewer accounts, taxes, escrow accounts and certificates of deposit for water and sewer, rehabilitation of several areas of the township by gravel mining operations and public improvement.

Straub also noted the township collected a total of $2,223,364.62 in taxes for school districts, Wayne County and the township. Included is $819.93 in overpayments made by three property owners which is to be refunded.

In other action, trustees voted to name Manufacturers National Bank, Northville Branch, as depository for township funds.

Trustee Richard Mitchell commented that "some consideration should be given to National Bank of Detroit (as depository) since they are located in the township."

However, the vote to name

Manufacturers was unanimous.

Trustees also set the second Tuesday of every month for their meetings which are to begin at 8 p.m. in township hall.

Special meetings can be called at the discretion of the board with "proper notice" given to the media.

Student 'Digs'

Topic Today

The special program for the March 22 meeting of the Northville Historical Society will concern "digs" experienced by students in the Farmington schools.

Historical Society member John Carter will introduce Tom Gearhart, social worker and counselor in the Farmington school system, who will relate to the group the experiences of his students in recent months.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. in the Scout-Recreation Building. A business meeting will follow the presentation and refreshments will be served.

Women Host Card Party

A benefit card party, sponsored by the Western Suburban Junior Woman's Club, will be held in the Pioneer Middle School located at 46081 West Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth on Tuesday, April 3, beginning at 8 p.m.

predicted that the City will face a law suit for not having placed the R-2-A designation on its zoning map.

Basis of Campbell's objections were the Planned Unit Development (PUD) Plan under which the subdivision was being developed. The PUD Plan, forerunner of the present Residential Unit Development Plan, enables a developer to cut lot sizes in some areas provided he makes that land available to the residents in the form of common areas.

"We've had problems before when we've allowed developers to come in under PUD Plans," said Campbell. "I want to follow our PUD ordinance to the letter so that we can avoid the same kind of problems here that we've experienced in other areas of the city."

After some discussion Councilman Denis Berry, supported by councilman Donald Young, moved that final plat approval be granted subject to the developer meeting all requirements of the PUD ordinance.

Presnell and Campbell, who was not satisfied with the depth of the requirements under the PUD, cast the dissenting ballots, while Mayor Joseph Crupi, Young, Berry voted affirmatively. Councilmen Raymond Evans and William O'Brien were not present at the meeting.

Every time we got the bus compound cleared Sunday, the wind drifted it shut again," Busard explained.

"Back roads are impassable, bus drivers and maintenance men are snowed in -- we had to cancel school," he said.

Schoolcraft College was also closed Monday.

Eight Mile Road traffic west of Northville was "an impossibility."

Many cars were unable to negotiate the Eight Mile Road hill in front of the Methodist Church Saturday and Sunday, and for awhile Saturday afternoon, cars were unable to climb the hill on Center Street north of Cady.

Motorists returning to their cars parked in municipal parking lots found them buried in snow and many were unable to get out.

Six Mile, Franklin, and Bradner roads were particularly hard hit, and by Sunday afternoon were impassable or reduced to one lane.

Monday, subdivisions throughout the township were still clogged except where residents had teamed up to clear streets and drives.

County snowplows had all they could do to handle main thoroughfares over the weekend. Sideroads and subdivision streets were left untouched.

City department of public works crews worked around the clock, beginning Saturday, and by Sunday morning most streets were plowed.

Many residents shoveled tons of snow from their drives and sidewalks Saturday afternoon and evening only to wake up the following morning and find them buried in snow again.

Towing service garages were swamped and unable to keep up with the flood of calls.

Services were cancelled at the First Methodist Church when county road graders piled up a four to six foot high bank across the parking lot drive. "No one could get in."

Church attendance elsewhere in Northville was reduced considerably. Some Saturday and Sunday church activities were cancelled.

General Ambulance reported "more than the usual number of calls from the Northville-Nowi area." Most concerned injuries sustained in snowmobile accidents or falls. Eight calls were made on Sunday alone.

"We had one man with frost-bitten feet," John Early, general manager of the ambulance service said. "He walked into Northville after his car become stuck on Seven Mile Road."

Early said police department "were always there to assist us getting in and out of roads" and none of the ambulances became stuck in the area.

Short Way Lines, which operates buses through Northville, cancelled all of its weekend runs because of the weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hicks who live on Eight Mile near Chubb Road had eight overnight guests Saturday. A

'It's good exercise,' says Northville's Charles Budd

Farmington family of four on their way to South Lyon became stuck, as did their son who came from South Lyon to help them. A woman from South Lyon and three boys on their way to Ann Arbor completed the list.

Hicks took the son back to South Lyon on his snowmobile "and then I drove up and down Eight Mile, taking stranded motorists to South Lyon, helping people any way I could and hauling oats in for horses."

"Horses and snowmobiles were the only things moving out here over the weekend,"

Hicks reported. On Monday afternoon, he said only one lane of Eight Mile Road had been opened.

City Manager Frank Ollendorff said the city was "well enough equipped and well enough manned so that we could handle a storm like this."

"By Sunday morning all the city streets were open with the exception of those to about 20 or 25 homes in Lexington Commons and Northville Estates," he added.

Cars parked in the streets made it impossible for plows to get through and halted snow removal in those areas.

"Eighty-five percent of the streets had bare pavement by Sunday afternoon," Ollendorff commented.

Snowmobilers were "more of a nuisance than a help" he said, explaining that plows were slowed down by the snowmobiles crossing roads in front of them. "There were enough streets open that travel by snowmobile was not necessary."

Only one small accident was reported to city police over the weekend and police spent most of their time pushing stuck cars.

Saturday night, cars were stuck "all over Eight Mile Road by the high school," one officer reported, and an unidentified citizen with a tractor pulled the cars out of drifts and over the hills one by one.

Angry city councilmen, led by Paul Vernon, decided to fire a warning letter off to the local snowmobile club, for unjustifiable operation of their machines on plowed streets.

Vernon said one club officer called me to apologize for the snowmobiling in the city, and then later the councilman saw the same officer operating his machine on a city street.

Numerous complaints from citizens were received by councilmen, who last year placed a ban on snowmobile operation in the city except in states of emergency. No such emergency was declared, nor necessary, said Ollendorff.

While scoring snowmobilers, the council also praised the city's department of public works for "an outstanding job" in clearing streets. "They did a whale of a job," said Vernon.

Schools closed not because of city streets, emphasized Mayor A.M. Allen. They closed because of conditions outside the city and on school property, he said.

Northville Township Supervisor Lawrence Wright said his "phone never stopped ringing over the weekend."

On Monday morning, residents of the township were still calling to report roads which hadn't been plowed out.

Wright said Wayne County began clearing roads Sunday afternoon and were continuing to plow secondary roads on Monday.

Power was out for more than five hours Saturday on the west side of Meadowbrook Road and in Grand View Acres.

Michigan State Police had one emergency run Sunday morning when a youth in King's Mill cut his head. Troopers said the ambulance was unable to get through and troopers "walked in" to get the 10-year-old and transported him to the hospital.

State Police said motorists were stuck "all over the road and we pushed an awful lot of cars over the weekend."

Township police also spent most of the weekend pushing cars. Two accidents involving township police occurred Saturday.

While on an emergency run to aid a person having a heart attack on Winchester Road Saturday night, township police slid into an unoccupied car stuck in a snowdrift on Ladywood and Portis roads.

The other accident took place on Seven Mile Road just east of Northville Road Saturday afternoon when a westbound vehicle slid into the eastbound township car.

A third accident, involving cars of two township residents, took place in Highland Lakes early Saturday afternoon. No injuries were reported in any of the accidents.

Township police rented a four-wheel drive vehicle and snowmobile and stied to carry oxygen if needed and to make medicine deliveries to residents both on Saturday and Sunday.

"The roads were the worst I've ever seen out here," Chief Ronald Nisun commented.

CLOGGED—Many Northville Township subdivisions were still clogged with snow late Sunday as county graders concentrated their efforts on major thoroughfares. Bradner (above) in Northville Commons was all but impassable and no one was able to use nearby Franklin Road at Six Mile.

State of Emergency

the deep snow along the roads. The heavy equipment would clear a path to the abandoned auto which would then be hauled out of the path so the equipment could continue its work.

It wasn't until mid-afternoon that access to Echo Valley subdivision was possible by any means other than snowmobile. By 5 p.m. Monday practically all the roads had been cleared. For some subdivision residents it was the first chance they had had since Friday night of getting out.

The council had cancelled its regular Monday night session earlier in the day, but met unofficially Monday to discuss the status of the roads.

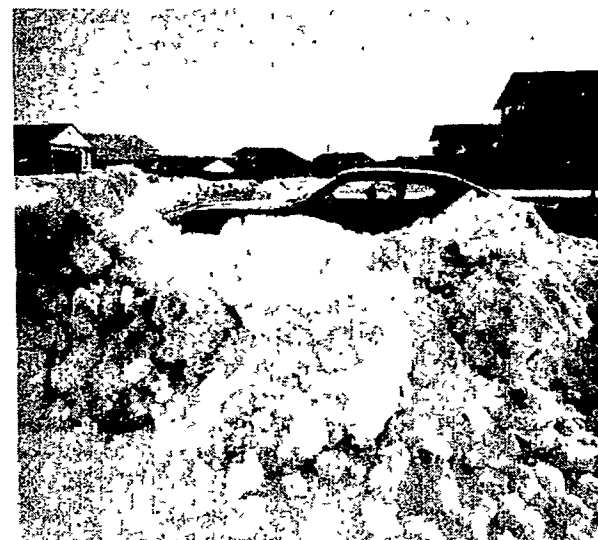

Several of the councilmen expressed surprise that the clean-up job had been accomplished as quickly as it had.

Kriewall told the council that the key had been the involvement of the contractors. "It's not economically feasible for a city our size to have the kind of equipment on hand that's only going to be needed once every seven or eight years," he noted. "What we have to do is rely on the cooperation of the contractors to help out when a storm like this hits."

"The problem was complicated by the fact that the storm hit on the weekend and we weren't able to get in touch with any contractor at all until late Sunday night," he continued. "If we had been able to get in touch with the contractors right away we wouldn't have had the problems we did."

Berry issued a long list of thank-yous to the city employees, the general city administration, the police department, the "very dedicated men of the DPW," the large number of volunteers, and the police dispatchers who had to answer the numerous calls from irate citizens.

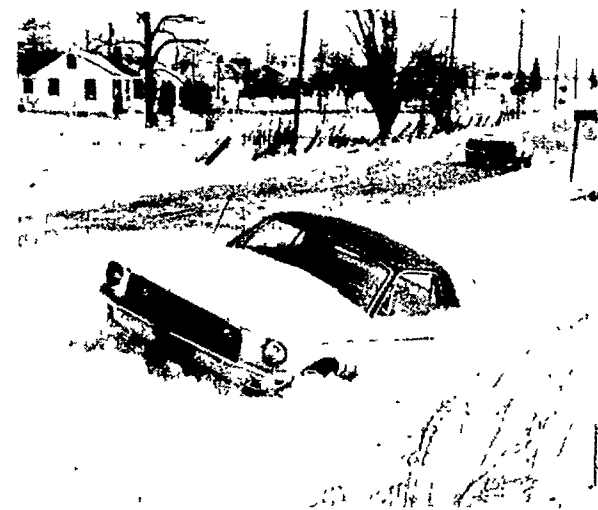

"I don't think most people were aware of the severity of the situation," he opined. "There was simply no way of getting emergency equipment either in or out of the majority of our subdivisions."

Police Blotter: Wixom Probes Beating

In Wixom

Police are looking for a trio of young men who assaulted a 14-year old Wixom youth last week and then left him unconscious and lying in the mud along side Loon Lake Road.

The incident occurred Wednesday, March 14. The youth told police he was hitchhiking on Wixom Road across from the Wixom General Store at approximately 7 p.m. when he was offered a ride by three young men in a light blue automobile.

One of the two men in the front seat got out of the car and joined one of his companions in the back seat. The Wixom youth then got in the front seat.

The car then proceeded north on Wixom Road, the youth reported. When they came to the place he wanted to get out, the youth said, he told the driver to stop. He then heard someone laugh in the back seat and the next thing he knew he had been knocked unconscious.

When he came to, he reported, he was lying in the mud along side Loon Lake Road, west of Lamella. He walked home, arriving at 8:35 p.m. covered with mud and with two large lumps on his head. The boy's father promptly called police.

In addition to the assault, the three men also are apparently responsible for the theft of a wrist watch from the youth's arm.

Police are looking for a light blue, four-door automobile. The three men were all estimated to be in their early 20's and had shoulder length hair.

Apparently nothing is sacred anymore, not even a church.

Rev. Warren of the Wixom Baptist Church reported Saturday that thieves had broken into the building.

Rev. Warren told police he had left the church at 11 p.m. Friday with all locks secured. When he returned Saturday at 10 a.m., he found the air conditioner had been pushed out of a window and the rear door, which had been locked the previous night, standing ajar.

Nothing was reported stolen, however.

In Novi

One four-car chain-reaction accident on Novi Road last week led directly to a second four-car, chain-reaction-type accident. All told, eight cars were involved in the pile-up and two people were taken to the hospital with injuries.

The accidents occurred Friday, March 16, at 8:15 a.m. when 29-year old Charles Walker of Pontiac stopped in the southbound lane of Novi Road approximately 50 feet north of the C&O railroad tracks in order to make a left hand turn into the driveway of the Inter-Lakes Window Corporation.

The two cars immediately following Walker also came to a stop but the driver of the fourth car in the sequence, driven by Charles Shurkey, 52, of Durand, apparently failed to see the vehicles stopped in front of him in time and rammed into the third car in line causing a chain reaction that involved all four automobiles.

Walker suffered serious injuries and had to be transported by ambulance to Botsford Hospital. The driver of the third car, James Miller, 37, of Union Lake, was also taken to Botsford as a result of injuries suffered in the crash.

Shurkey was cited by police for failing to stop in an assured clear distance.

While police were handling the first accident, a second four-car crash-up took place.

Automobiles driven by Agnes Louise Ronayne of Plymouth and Arthur Griffiths of Walled Lake came to a stop due to the traffic piled up from the first accident. Herman David Mentville, 26, of Pontiac, however, was unable to stop and struck Griffiths' vehicle, which in turn was pushed forward into Mrs. Ronayne's auto. The process was then repeated when a fourth car, driven by Burnell Dickmann, 49, of Livonia piled into the three cars in front of him.

Griffiths complained of a sore neck, but no other injuries were reported in the second pile-up.

A Novi police car was involved in an accident in Farmington last week.

Sergeant Dale Gross was en route to Redford on police business Thursday, March 8, when the accident occurred.

Gross was traveling west bound on Grand River approaching Nine Mile Road when he allegedly proceeded through a red light and struck a car driven by Robert Allan Hurst of Southfield.

Gross reported that he had checked the traffic signal which was green at the time and then looked for the street sign to determine his exact location. The light apparently changed between the time he first checked it and the time he entered the intersection. There were no serious injuries in the accident.

Gary Olson, owner of an industrial catering business, reported one of his catering trucks had been broken and entered last week while it was parked overnight in front of Dolan's Marathon Station at the corner of Novi and Ten Mile Roads.

The incident occurred between 9:45 p.m. March 14 and 5:30 a.m. the following day, Olson told police.

Approximately $55 worth of candy and cigarettes were stolen from the truck and an additional $150 worth of damage was done to the door of the vehicle as a result of the break-in.

A Novi man living at 40440 Cambridge reported a carburetor, a 12-volt battery, and a three-speed gear mechanism were stolen from two automobiles parked behind his residence.

The theft apparently occurred between 4 p.m. March 12 and 9 a.m. the following day when the items were discovered missing.

Value of the items was estimated at $85.

A 33-year old Dearborn Heights man, Sean Pawdrig Calman, suffered minor injuries when the truck he was driving collided with a train March 9 at the Novi Road crossing.

According to police reports, Calman disregarded the red flashing signal and attempted to beat the train across the tracks.

His truck struck the left side of the locomotive.

Calman was transported to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia where he was treated and released. He was later cited by police for disregarding a traffic control device.

Thomas Paul Devore, 39, of Plymouth was taken to Botsford Hospital when his car swerved off south bound Novi Road March 11 and struck a utility pole.

No enforcement action was taken by police.

Two Novi police officers recently completed special training courses.

Jack Grubb, a veteran of the Novi force and a member of the traffic bureau, attended a 37-hour course in Police Traffic Supervision. The course was conducted by the Oakland Police Academy of Oakland Community College. It was sponsored by the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County in cooperation with the Oakland County Law Enforcement Committee and Law Enforcement agencies in the metropolitan Detroit area. The course ran from February 19-23.

Thomas Hesse, a new member of the Novi force, received his diploma from the Macomb County Police Academy and will begin full-time duty in Novi.

In Northville

City police detectives are investigating a report of an 18-year-old male exposing himself to several juveniles last Wednesday evening, March 14.

The incident took place about 6:30 p.m. at the rear of Northville High School.

According to reports, the man was wearing a gray overcoat and glasses, had short brown hair, was short and of medium build. He was driving a blue two-door Corvair with a black top and the front license plate of the car was missing.

Credit cards stolen last Tuesday evening, March 13, from a racing fan at Northville Downs were recovered by Detroit Police the following day when they apprehended a man trying to purchase a television set with one of the cards.

The wallet, which was stolen from a Belleville man, was found at Northville Downs, but credit cards and $200 in cash was missing, police said.

A Northville High School student reported to police unknown persons broke into his locker in the boys' locker room, taking an electric watch valued at $125 and a small amount of cash.

Vandals broke into a home under construction on North Center Street between Sunday and Tuesday morning, spilling glue on the living room floor, turning off a sump pump and damaging an interior door.

The home has been the target of vandals for the past several weeks, police said.

Police had their hands full for a time Monday night trying to catch a horse which broke loose from a stall at Northville Downs.

The horse was caught shortly before 8:30 p.m. on South Main Street near Seven Mile after police, the owner and several citizens cornered him.

City police reported they received between 50 and 100 calls an hour during the weekend snowstorm from persons requesting road condition reports, asking for help in removing stalled vehicles, registering snowmobile complaints and reporting snowed-in streets.

Power failures were blamed for four open burglar alarms which occurred over the weekend.

shower by attendants when he collapsed. An autopsy revealed death due to natural causes.

The break-in and theft from a trailer in Northville Colony Estates was reported to State Police last Friday.

The theft, which took place while the trailer was parked on Winchester between Ladywood and Elk roads, involved a water heater. Other plumbing equipment in the storage trailer was left untouched.

Township police were called to investigate a three-car collision last Thursday afternoon, March 15.

A city of Northville police car waiting for the light to turn green at Seven Mile and Northville Road was involved in a chain-reaction collision.

According to reports, the police car was the first in line at the light when the car behind it was struck by a third car. The police car was being road-tested by an employee of a service garage, city police said.

None of the persons were injured and township police issued no violations in the accident.

COURT NEWS

One of four men arrested in conjunction with two armed robberies of the Little Caesar's Pizzeria on Ten Mile Road last summer was last week bound over to stand trial in the 52nd District Court.

Thomas Joseph Sansone will face examination on two counts of armed robbery before Judge Martin Boyle April 6.

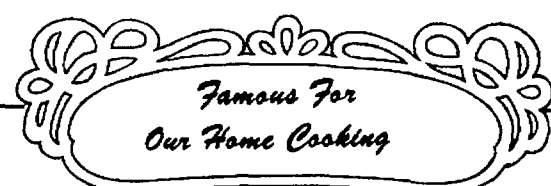

At the time the robbery took place, Sansone was still a juvenile according to law. When arrested, however, Sansone was 17 and thus subject to trial as an adult.

He was originally charged as an adult, but subsequent ruling by the Michigan Supreme Court provided that the defendant's age at the time of the crime, rather than at the time of arrest, be the determining factor as to whether charges are lodged in juvenile or adult courts.

Sansone was consequently charged as a juvenile and a petition was filed in juvenile court requesting a waiver hearing so he could be tried as an adult.

On March 12 Judge Eugene Moore ruled on the waiver petition and waived Sansone into adult court. Moore further ruled that if found guilty of the armed robbery charges, Sansone could not be placed on probation and must be sentenced anywhere from a minimum of one year to life in a state penitentiary.

Eye First Swim Date

A memorial Day weekend opening has been set by members of the Northville Swim Club.

The club, which recently held its annual meeting, also reported the election of three new board members. They are Mrs. David (Marge) Longridge, Tom Schaal and Art Greenlee.

At the club's first business meeting held March 12, the decision was made to place limitations on guest passes because of the increasing membership. The club hopes full membership will be reached this year. All members will be receiving a newsletter soon, club spokesmen report.

Facility improvement programs are also being planned and naming of the manager and staff will be made soon.

Ben Lauber will return as advisor and director of the instructional program and competitive swim meets, the club said.

Prospective members may arrange for a tour of the facility upon request by telephoning Mrs. Keith Wright at 349-9956.

'Township Government More Responsive'

necessary to place labels, but I feel people should have maximum control of government," said Lysinger. "And in my opinion township government represents maximum control, relatively speaking."

"Organizationally, I think the present form of our township government is strong. There are personalities involved but they will always be involved. Right now township government is a little split over this issue (annexation) But I'm confident voters will say "no" to annexation and I'm also confident that the people in our group and others will work very hard to strengthen the township government."

"In the long term it can be effective. If I had any doubts in my mind that the form of government would be ineffective I would not be taking so strong a position on this issue."

Adams, who contended township government is "responsive to the wishes of the people," took the position that the township may not have moved as rapidly as it should to cope with growing pains but that it has done an excellent job in planning for the future.

"In spite of rapid growth they (township board) have purchased the talent necessary to make this a very thriving community," Adams said.

"Hopefully, as soon as this annexation problem is settled the divisiveness on the township board and within the total township hall will disappear. Perhaps there will be some sore spots left but I sincerely hope they can get together and then start running good government."

Because, in his opinion, township government is responsive, Lysinger contended, the people will have "quite a bit to say" on how the township grows because they "control the purse strings to a much greater degree than in city form of government."

If people demand more services, under the township form of government "they will understand that they must pay for these services. And the way they will pay for the services is through referendum authorizing the township government to levy whatever millage is required."

Added Adams: "The question is self-answering: if they demand the services then they'll have to pay for the services. The concept of city government is that they don't have to demand anything. The city says you are going to get this."

Both men repeatedly stated that no major expenditure should be made in the township without a vote of the people.

Nevertheless, they appeared on the one hand to favor the township Building Authority now in the making that can require additional tax monies without a vote of the people. On the other hand, they took the position that construction of the proposed township hall complex, which the Building Authority can construct and levy a tax to finance, should be put to an election.

Speaking of the Authority, Lysinger said, "the necessary checks and balances are there so that the people may petition to vote on an issue if they question what the Authority intends to do."

The annexation decision, the two men said, will in the final analysis determine whether or not a new fire station and a township hall should be built.

"As to the township hall complex, this, in essence, will be decided on May 7. Either we won't be a township or we will be a township. If we are going to continue as a township then logically the township cannot impose on the community building as they are now. They will need a home."

"I would hate to see this issue (annexation) decided on brick and mortar," declared Lysinger, who suggested that whether or not the township should have a township hall complex is not a proper argument for annexation. "This election is about the form of government."

Although they repeatedly argued that the township form of government is the better one, Lysinger said he would favor cityhood if it could be proven to him that it would be less expensive than two separate governments.

As for expansion of the township police department, Lysinger and Adams differed somewhat.

Lysinger contended the people should first indicate what kind of expansion is desired, whereas Adams took the position that gradual expansion of the department as the state equalized valuation of the township increases, without a public mandate, is desirable.

"As there are more people," explained Adams, "there will be a natural increment of taxes—increased assessed valuation and increased flow of money. Now you are certainly not going to sit there and let this increase flow of money build up in a bank account. You have to spend it to service the people at a level they have at this time."

"If, however, you have to go out and have a major renovation, such as $30,000 or $40,000, and there is nothing in your millage to cover this, then you've got to go to the people."

Without endorsing or opposing an additional patrolman, Adams said he is "somewhat appalled at the township board's attitude of being an ostrich—sticking your head in the sand and maybe it will go away attitude—over hiring another policeman."

"There's a big (debate) over hiring another policeman. Well, this is because of the divisiveness on the board. Each side is afraid the other side will get an extra inch. Well, to hell with the extra inch. Some crook who is about to ransack a house is not going to wait until after annexation before he's going to pull a robbery."

"I feel the three man force we now have is probably overtaxed."

A poll of some kind to determine just what kind of police service is wanted should be conducted, suggested Lysinger.

"I have not heard the strong demand from the public for increased police protection," he declared. "As the population increases the demand will increase, but I haven't heard this strong cry from the public, 'we want to double or triple the police force.'"

Although they strongly oppose annexation, both men are convinced existing joint services of the city and township should be continued and enlarged.

And Lysinger said he would favor consideration of a shared police department if it is proven economically advantageous.

Asked if they have any projections of costs of the township should annexation be rejected, Adams said "no," pointing out "we are the little people, the people in the bushes. We don't have the money to undertake a study (to determine costs)."

But Lysinger quickly added that "we are working on it. In the next few weeks we plan to announce our best guess of the township costs."

Since they have been able to analyze and refute projected costs of unification, such as shown by the Citizens Research Council (CRC) and other independent studies, why then haven't they been able thus far to project costs of the township?

Because, they explained, analysis of unification figures required only their time—not money as would a study of township costs.

As for the CRC study, which was ordered by the city and township, they took the position that the study was a "good one," but that its conclusions and interpretations were invalid.

Particularly, they argued that the projected 4.75 millage rate for a unified community is far too conservative of a figure. Their own analysis, they said, indicates that it will be closer to "7.73 mills based on last year's state-equalized valuation."

"It's my opinion," said Adams, "that One Northville is being overly conservative. It's also entirely possible, although we tried to be very objective about it, that we could have been overly liberal. Somewhere, I would say between 6½ to 7, is probably what it will cost."

They contended that the 4.7 figure presupposes that Northville Downs will continue to provide an increasing amount of revenue. And this supposition, they argued, is an uncertainty, particularly in view of what Adams said is an anti-gambling sentiment running through the country.

"What happens," he asked, "if the race track is cut back to 20 days?"

Pegging the combined income of the two communities at about $1.6 million, Lysinger said he cannot believe that the city and township will receive the same level of services as the city now enjoys for that amount of money.

"I evidently have a mental block because that won't compute for me. That is, the people in the city are now receiving a level of service, if you will, of approximately $1.3 million. And if you are going to provide in the new community a level of service that is equal in the two units something has to give."

"Either, A—the people in the city are going to take quite a reduction, or B—the people in the township are not going to get the level of services of the people in the city. Somebody has to lose."

Speaking for Myself

Death Penalty

For Cop Killers?

PASTOR KRUGER

YES . . .

NO . . .

Five years ago I probably wouldn't have wanted a repeal of state's 1846 ban of the death penalty, but the growing violence in our society has changed my opinion and the opinion of many others.

Now I'm convinced restoration of the death penalty, especially for killers of policemen, is the only solution.

Our judicial system has broken down to such an extent that a murderer, kidnapper, and those who take the lives of policemen and firemen are simply slapped across the knuckles and warned they've committed a "no-no".

The murdering will continue so long as people know that the worse consequence is life in prison, where inmates can expect warmth, food, clothing, paid medical bills, recreation, movies, and television. And, of course, if this kind of luxury doesn't suit them they can riot at will.

You call this punishment? I call it condoning the act of murder, and as long as society tolerates this impossible situation the crimes will continue to increase.

I truly believe that if man or woman who knows in advance that taking a life is punishable by death he or she will think twice before pulling the trigger and these crimes will decrease.

Furthermore, while I agree with the President that police murders should be punishable by death, I think the death penalty should be extended to include killers of civilians as well.

Life has become so cheap that murderers feel no remorse for their acts; regretfully but necessarily we must take life to preserve life and restore law and order.

Eugenie Choquet
City of Novi

The vast majority of our citizens must hope and pray as I do that a way can be found to decrease the number of law enforcement personnel who are losing their lives while working in their chosen profession.

But capital punishment is not the answer! Clinton Duffy, while warden of San Quentin, asked thousands of persons convicted of homicide or armed robbery whether or not they had thought of the possibility of being put to death for their acts. NOT ONE OF THEM HAD!

In a recent 24-state study entitled "Does the Death Penalty Protect State Policemen?" It was discovered that the rate of deaths is actually higher in those states that have retained capital punishment. Another study has shown a death rate of 1.31 per ten thousand officers in states that have abolished the death penalty and 1.32 in bordering retention states. Clearly, the death penalty has no deterrent effect.

Finally, an execution makes final and irrevocable any miscarriage of justice. This is reason enough for me to oppose the reinstatement of the death penalty. A civilization that has moved from revenge to restraint to rehabilitation in its treatment of offenders should not regress.

Defends Snowmobilers

To the Editor:

Did you people leave your home Saturday and see the conditions of all the roads, including Main and Center Streets?

Did you ever give it a thought that the snowmobilers were not out only for pleasure, but most of them were out to help people in trouble, too?

We live about 30 feet from a main street and Saturday night I didn't know the snowmobilers were going by until they were right in front of the house and they didn't sound any louder than a car going by.

We do live near a stop crossing and we have so many careless, thoughtless dudes start up at a high rate of speed and we expect at any time to have an unwelcome guest in our livingroom. Do you have one of these persons living in your home?

It's not generally known but Alexander Graham Bell was an undercover agent for the PEA.

Population Explosion Alarmists!

Who else but someone bent on destroying the joy of large families would invent such an insidious oral contraceptive?

Oh, Alex was nobody's fool.

On the contrary, he was a wise old duck who saw the futility of Vatican Roulette and he set about devising a surer deterrent.

First he fashioned an ear and mouth piece to which children are instinctively attracted...from birth, and he called it the Pacifier.

And he placed therein a tiny bell with the voice of Big Ben and he called it the Migraine Headache.

Then to insure the instrument's success, he made one for every kid in the block, for every classmate at school, every boyfriend and every girlfriend.

He sugar-coated it with books of numbers which opened to kids whole new horizons, and he taught them, even before starting school, the seven-digit numbering system.

And in giving them the Pacifier, he said, "Use it long and often, my lovelies, especially at dinnertime."

But he also added a note of caution:

"If your old man is in the bathtub, don't answer it immediately. Wait until he is fully lathered and stumbling out through the door, and then, if you are on the receiving end, say 'I'll get it,' or if you are on the sending end, simply hang up and use it again a few minutes later."

Wise old Alex had still another crowning glory.

He attached to the Pacifier a long cord, which made into a remarkable noose, and he called it the Abortion.

And to the parents, he said, "May the Migraine Headache drive you up the walls and forever etch in your minds the danger of over-population. Abort often."

"we'll have none of that, Mr. Galbraith".

Up in Hartland former Northville resident, John Wortman, tells this story about a fellow Ford Motor Company employee who does a little farming as a sideline.

Sunday afternoon he jumped into his snowmobile to drive along a country road on his way to his barn to do chores. Passing over a huge snowdrift, he noticed that his snowmobile produced "sparks" as it scraped a metal object.

Curious as to what it might have been, he returned to the spot on Monday when some of the snow had melted. He found a new automobile stranded on the road—with a scratch on the top of the car.

The Northville city council took time out from its regular order of business Monday night to issue a second official commendation.

It congratulated the Northville high school team and its coach, Ben Lauber, for winning the state class B swimming championship at the University of Michigan Matt Mann pool Saturday.

Without taking a thing away from the team that has consistently turned in outstanding performances one cannot help but focus special attention on Coach Lauber and his efforts.

In stature he may be one of the smallest coaches in the state. But in dedication and devotion to his job there can be few bigger men than Ben Lauber.

Ben's a coach because that's been his ambition since he was in high school swimming for Coach Walter Caldwell of Sandusky, Ohio. The impression that Coach Caldwell made on Ben was lasting and undoubtedly was greatly responsible for Ben becoming state high school champion in Ohio for two years and his selection to the All American high school swimming team.

Later Lauber performed as a swimmer for both Miami and Bowling Green universities of Ohio.

At Northville all his teams—both in swimming and cross country—have been noted for their morale, as well as success.

Ben and his assistant, John Edwards, are close to their team members. "We believe in them", Ben says simply, as he explains that the mental attitude of an athlete is as important as his physical condition.

The Lauber system works. His teams perform as a unit. And the support given by parents of team members is amazing.

"They're just great. They don't get in our way, but their support is terrific", says Lauber of the team's greatest fans, the parents.

There's nothing flashy about Ben Lauber. He might even be described as a "square" by the mod crowd.

Typically, he responded to congratulations on his team's success by giving full credit to "my kids" and saying he's "proud to be coaching in Northville".

Quite a square guy, Ben Lauber.

Tuesday may have been the first day of Spring, but ol' Man Winter refuses to bow out gracefully.

And nobody was more aware of the fury of winter than members of the DPW crews who did battle with the extra-heavy, wet snow as they cleared the streets of the city of Northville Saturday and Sunday.

Anyone residing on the fringe of the city, or in Novi or South Lyon and along the "Mile" roads, either stayed home or dug themselves out...or had neighbors with tractors (as was the case in many township subdivisions) who spent most of Sunday plowing narrow paths for one-way traffic.

But Northville's DPW Director Bud Hartner and his assistant, Ted Mapes, certainly can't be held responsible for any traffic slowdown or closing of schools Monday. Their crews had the city streets cleared by Sunday afternoon in an around-the-clock performance that deserves the special commendation given them by the city council.

The St. Pat's Day storm produced numerous incidents, both humorous and tragic. Many motorists were stranded, like our photographer, Jim Galbraith, who luckily ended up at the Holiday Inn near Howell.

He obtained one of the last rooms available, then was asked to share it. Naturally, wit Galbraith obliged and, inquiring about his prospective roommate, asked "what does she look like?"

The recently-wed photographer was promptly and curtly informed,

From Lansing

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
Michigan Representative

Property taxes in Northville Township could go from one mill to five mills without a vote of the people if a bill presently before the House passes into law. House Bill 4025, which would allow a township to become a charter township solely on resolution of the township board, was reported favorably from committee and put in line for final passage in the House this week.

At the present time, unincorporated townships such as Northville can, under the Property Tax Limitation Act (no. 62) levy only up to one mill in property tax assessment. But the revenue from this assessment has not been enough to meet the increased costs of government in the more rapidly growing townships of the state.

Chartered townships can levy up to five mills in property tax assessment without voter approval. The bill further provides that the question of becoming a charter township shall be subject to voter approval only upon the submission of a dissenting petition signed by not less than 10 per cent of the number of electors of the township voting for township supervisor at the last election in which a township supervisor was elected.

Though this bill provides for a referendum of the people in the event they do not agree with the township board's decision to incorporate, and further, that the township shall not consider a resolution for incorporating if the question has been rejected by the electors within the preceding two years, it has been questioned whether granting such authority to township boards would be constitutional.

There is presently a lawsuit in the courts instituted by the Midland Township regarding the State Boundary Commission's rights on incorporation of cities and villages, consolidation and annexation. The lawsuit deals with the commission's authority and the constitutionality of its authority.

Opponents of H.B. 4025 state the townships are now seeking to accomplish the same thing they are asking the courts to disallow. So far this bill has gone practically unnoticed by the press and public and I have received no mail either in support or opposition.

Initial skepticism from some legislators that a reduction in taxes would mean a reduction in services was overcome last week as the House of Representatives voted overwhelmingly in favor of tax cuts totaling some $370 million over the next two years.

It was certainly a historic moment for very seldom has government actually reduced taxes instead of spending excess revenue. Governor Milliken advocated the tax cuts saying we would still have sufficient revenues to meet expenditures, and the proposals were drafted and introduced by a Republican colleague of mine, Representative Roy Spencer (R-Attica), but the final passage of the bill received bi-partisan support.

The exemption increase bill (House Bill 4207) was one of a package of four bills, three of which passed the House and have gone to the Senate for approval. The fourth bill (House Bill 4208), as I write this, is still being considered in the House. This bill will provide a significant increase in Homestead Tax exemptions for our senior citizens, blind and veterans as well as some property tax relief for all citizens.

I receive many letters pointing out the inequities which exist within the present exemption act because there are cut-off provisions based upon either income of individual applicants or state equitized value of each homestead. This new bill (which I am supporting) revises the entire program and in lieu of existing programs as related to senior citizens, veterans, or blind, the state will reimburse to the individual all of his property tax which is in excess of 3.5 per cent of the family income of the applicant, regardless of the individual income or individual SEV.

For all other citizens, the state will reimburse 60 per cent of all property tax in excess of 4 per cent of income, not to exceed $400. The purpose of this bill, in addition to easing the burden in general, is to encourage home ownership and development. Under the present law, persons are frequently reluctant to improve their property because it increases the value of the property and therefore the property tax. This bill would take some of the bite away and help everyone.

Shopping Centers Aid Community

To the Editor:

In reply to the letter dated March 8th Northville Record, Let's Preserve Northville?

Yes, I do agree, but only to a point. Has anyone ever thought what would become of this quaint old town if progress stopped? In time, a very short time, the business district would die, because of new shopping centers within short distances. One reason for changes in the commercial area is to encourage people to shop here, not elsewhere.

Encouragement of new business development is good. Competition never hurt anyone.

In regard to the Chatham store, I live directly behind this store. The thought of a supermarket so close, was alarming at first. But after attending several planning meetings and public hearings I understood why City Planners wanted it on the present site. The commercial district was expanding, and what more suitable direction than north. This is the main artery through town, north and south. A majority of the houses were deteriorating rapidly from lack of needed repair.

Our feelings were not passed over. Everyone who had anything to say was heard at public hearings and Council meetings. Most residents bordering the store signed an agreement to the wall they built. It makes a buffer between our property and the store. Not only does it help cut down noise, but provides a good privacy barrier for our yard.

I feel the Chatham representatives were very fair in their dealings with us.

I think the City Planners are doing an excellent job in Northville. I'm sure Preservation and Progress can work successfully with planning and cooperation of all citizens.

Unity Urged

To the Editor:

Since the Vietnam conflict is over, it seems to me that we do not need to start one here either in our country, Northville, or Northville Township. However, we do need people working together for one another rather than selfish desires that isolate us one from another.

That thought prompted the following:

UNITY NOW

Unity now and not a divided community;

Not isolationists but individuals who care.

In the city and in the township

The truce and peace we should declare: to

Your neighbor and my neighbor.

Not tomorrow
Or when too late, but Wisdom says right now.

Points up Need For Manager

To the Editor:

No Budget—Township Mystery

The, sorry state of the township budget, and Mrs. Cayley's total ignorance of the budget process point decisively to the need for annexation so we can entrust our government to a competent city manager. Those who claim that township taxes will rise with annexation are telling only half the truth. Under careful analysis, I am sure we would see that taxes will rise to even higher levels if the township were to remain under separate government as it provides duplicate services already offered by the city.

To the Editor:

On Tuesday March 13 our little Schnauzer, Angie, was viciously attacked by two large dogs in a field in the Nine Mile - Taft Road area.

Little Angie is 12 years old and has been the faithful and loving companion of our two girls and Mom and Dad for all those years and now he lies fighting for his life, paralyzed in the hind quarters from a spinal fracture and is full of tooth punctures and wounds.

It happened to Angie here in Novi and it happened to a little boy in Inkster. Please think about this most seriously. If you want to own a dog or any type of animal do so with responsibility.

I tell you this because it could have been your little dog or God forbid your little child that this happened to.

Dogs let loose to run, gather in packs of two to five and for some reason the kindest of house pets can turn into very vicious animals. This is a fact.

If you have been allowing your dog to run free, consider the possibility of this happening and please keep him at home on a chain or fenced in.

RECORD NUMBERS—Northville's assessment increases produced a record number of appeals before the board of review (foreground) last week. More than twice as many (143) as appealed in the previous combined two years protested their assessment hikes in the city. Those who missed last week's session will have another chance next Tuesday. Veteran spokesmen for the board of review commented: "Our toughest problem concerns the senior citizen, who recognizes that her assessment probably is correct but who simply does not have any more money, because of fixed income, to pay the increasing taxes. And until our state lawmakers do something about it the problem will get worse."

Township Skirts Salaries

department personnel) was set aside by the board for later discussion.

During discussions last week, however, Treasurer Joseph Straub repeatedly pointed out that he would strongly fight against salary increases.

Even before the board got down to the business of trying to establish a budget, Straub declared that he will insist that taxpayers be made aware of the fact that they are "really paying 1.4 mills of taxes and not just 1 mill" as generally assumed.

He referred specifically to "excess of roll" funds that the township normally and legally collects and uses in excess of the 1 mill levy.

(Originally, the excess of roll was used as a tax collection fee. Over the years, this practice has been discontinued by most Michigan townships, and townships may now collect excess of roll as well as a collection fee. Northville Township in the past has collected excess of roll but not a fee.)

"I hope we can get by without excess of roll," Straub said. "But if we've got to have it, then I'm going to insist we tell people just how much it costs them in addition to the 1 mill levy."

In the past it has amounted to nearly a half-mill, he emphasized.

Based on a compromise "guess" that the 1972-73 state equalized valuation will be $62 million, the board is estimating at this time that taxes (including delinquency payments and excess of roll) will approximate $90,500.

Total income from all sources is estimated at $377,325, up from last year's budgeted $325,075 income.

In trying to estimate expenditures for the next fiscal year, the board is going through last year's budget, line item by line item, writing in the 11-month actual expenditure figures, and trying to arrive at anticipated cost for each item next year.

Anticipated salaries, however, thus far have not been increased except for built-in increments.

Two proposed police department budgets submitted by Chief Ron Nisun have been set aside for the time-being, although Clerk Cayley and Trustee Richard Mitchell suggested that one or the other be used temporarily until a consensus of the board can be reached.

Trustee John MacDonald and Treasurer Joseph Straub, however, insisted that neither be considered. MacDonald suggested, the board delay consideration of an enlarged police force pending the annexation decision May 7.

Clerk Cayley's suggested salary increase for the chief, from $12,500 to $14,500, met similar opposition.

One of Nisun's proposals would provide for one additional patrolman (bringing the total up to three) and, together with operating expenses and anticipated receipts (dog licenses, etc.), it would cost approximately $58,000 if his salary were boosted to $14,500.

His second proposal, which Mrs. Cayley said was the chief's estimate of "what really is needed to provide good service," would provide for four additional patrolmen (making a total of six) and a shared clerk. Estimated cost of this proposal is pegged at $92,210.

The present police budget is $59,300, and, according to the clerk, actual expenditures through 11 months was $52,381.

Last year's total budget was $325,075, with the 11-month expenditure put at $294,448.

Endorse Budget

City Manager Frank Ollendorff explained that while the proposed budget reflects an increase of only 32 registrants, the increase in activity participants will be substantially greater.

The latter results, he explained, because a registered youngster who may have participated in only one or two activities last year may participate in additional activities this year. Although department members registered only once, they may participate in as many activities as they wish, he said.

However, the anticipated increase of 32 registrants also was called conservative in view of the increasing population growth of the township.

Folino conceded this growth, and Ollendorff predicted that the 1974-75 budget will include more participants from the township than from the city for the first time in history.

The proposed 1973-74 budget anticipates 575 participants from the city, 544 from the township. Last year the break-down was 609 from the city, 478 from the township. Ratio of city-township participants means, according to budget figures, that the township will pay $19,667 and the city $20,788 of the budget. The remainder of income is pegged as registration, equipment, and insurance fees, donations, and a $2,311 contingency fund left from last year's budget.

The budget calls for a $908 increase in the director's salary, from $6,092 to $7,000, and other salaries and wages are increased from $14,213 to $18,936.

The latter, according to Prom, reflects a $569.50 increase for annual increments for regular employees; a salary increase, effective May 15, totaling $1,576; and $2,400 additional monies to operate the recreational programs for the 500 plus students in the year-round school program.

The $2400 figure, said Ollendorff, will be partially offset however, by a reduction of participation in the summer when youngsters are enrolled in the year-round school program.

Other increases in the budget, it was explained, reflect increasing costs and increasing activities and activity participation.

'Closing' Weighed

Public hearing on a recommendation to close the Wayne County Child Development Center will be held Wednesday, March 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the City-County Building in Detroit.

Conducted by the Human Resources Committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, the hearing concerns the center located in Northville Township at Five Mile and Sheldon roads.

A task force report issued by a joint Wayne County-State of Michigan committee, recommended the center be closed as of July 1, 1974, noting the 350 students at the center could be transferred to community-based facilities.

The report said the students could be served more economically in community facilities than at the Child Development Center.

Council Backs Limit

A 72-hour limitation on temporary parking of recreational vehicles on private property is likely to stand when the council next considers the recreational vehicle ordinance.

Public hearing on the controversial ordinance was adjourned earlier this month for a later date.

In discussing the matter Monday, the three councilmen present (Councilman Kenneth Rathert and David Biery were absent) indicated they favored retaining the 72-hour limitation.

It was suggested at the hearing that this limitation, which already had been extended from 48 to 72 hours by the planning commission, be increased to 96 hours.

Councilmen contended that, under the proposed ordinance, exceptional cases could be considered and variances granted where necessity could be shown.

Since such variances could be granted, the council also informally agreed that the ordinance should not permit the parking of such vehicles in anyone's yard but the immediate family.

The council was split, however, over a proposal to permit permanent parking in side yards as well as rear yards.

Mayor A. M. Allen has suggested that when visitors to the city are permitted to temporarily park vehicles on property of those visited they also should be permitted to stay in them. Sufficient bed space may not be available for these visitors in the house, he suggested.

Council also, in light of Monday's decision, is likely to delete that section of the ordinance requiring registration of vehicles "over 20 feet."

Inclusion of a section permitting the city manager or his agent to grant temporary permits, up to 30 days also appear likely. Appeal of the city manager's decision would, under this proposal, go directly to the city council and not to the board of appeals.

In another matter Monday, the council accepted with regret the resignation of a senior member of the Northville Beautification Commission, E. C. Welch, and directed that a letter of appreciation for his past performance be sent to him.

As a replacement, the council, upon the recommendation of Councilman Paul Vernon, named a township resident, Dr. John Swienkowski, 18838 Jamestown Circle. He becomes the second township resident on the city commission.

Vernon, the council's representative to the commission, has encouraged township participation on grounds that beautification knows no boundaries.

Citizen Sidney Frid urged the council to increase its efforts to provide senior citizen housing in the city, and he asked permission to be able to speak with the Northville Housing Commission about his ideas and concerns.

He suggested that if the council can invest monies in the Northville Square commercial development, it can and should also invest in senior citizen housing.

John Burkman, president of the Northville Historical Society, presented council (and Tuesday the planning commission) with background information on the society's historical district work, together with a suggested ordinance governing architectural changes within that district.

The city manager revealed that Alden CATV, Inc. has indicated it would like to begin discussion of establishment of a cable television franchise in Northville.

A Chamber of Commerce suggested directional sign drawing, featuring a rustic, canopied appearance, received council endorsement, and the city manager is attempting to gain approval from the school board for erection of the sign at the high school corner at Eight Mile and Center.

The sign is to give motorists directions to the business district and to Northville Downs.

In a related matter, the city manager reported that the Oakland County Road Commission has denied permission to erect a "Welcome to Northville" sign along the Novi Road approach to Eight Mile Road.

Council then instructed him to seek permission from the C&O Railroad to erect it on railroad right-of-way.

The sign, similar to the one on South Main Street, together with appropriate shrubbery was proposed by the Beautification Commission, which wants to make it one of its projects this year.

Purchase of the house and property of Mrs. Odelle Lothamer, 229 South Wing, at a cost of $32,000—$3,000 more than the appraised value—was approved.

State Champs!

Mustang Swimmers Stroke Way to Class B Crown Set Two State Records

Northville's swim team is the 1973 Class B State Champion!

Coach Ben Lauber and 11 outstanding Mustang swimmers braved nearly impassable road conditions Saturday to journey to the University of Michigan's Matt Mann Pool to compete against 27 other schools for the state crown.

When they returned to Northville more than eight hours later, they brought with them

...two new state records;
...two state individual champions;

...two state relay championship teams; and - for the first time in the history of Northville High School athletics -

...the state Class B team championship.

"I can't describe the thrill of such a thing," said Lauber from his home Sunday - the day after the championship meet. "It was without a doubt the most gratifying moment I've ever had in coaching."

The Mustangs ran up 217 points to dethrone arch-foe and defending state champion Milan, which finished second Saturday with 181 points. Last year the Milan squad outpointed Northville 206-185 for the state title.

Okemos finished third Saturday with 141 points, while Dundee was fourth with 77 and East Grand Rapids was fifth with 74.

The Mustangs had based their hopes for the state title on the strength of their two relay teams and both quartets came through admirably Saturday, not only winning their races, but setting a pair of new state records in the process.

Ironically, or maybe not so ironically at all, Milan was second in both relays.

In addition to their relay victories, the Mustangs also copped a pair of individual state championships as Kevin Kelly, a junior, stroked his way to first place in the 200 yard freestyle and Art Greenlee, a sophomore, took the state crown in the 100 yard breaststroke.

Kelly and Greenlee were also members of Northville's triumphant relay teams. Greenlee teamed with backstrokeer Jeff Kappler, butterflyer Andre Manochio, and freestyler John Pacific in winning the 200 yard medley relay in 1:44.9. Their winning time broke the state record of 1:45.65 set in last year's state meet by Kappler, Greenlee, Joe Boland, and Bill Maguire.

Kelly was a member of the 400 yard freestyle relay team which twice shattered the state record of 3:30.39 established by Holland West Ottawa back in 1970. In the preliminaries Kelly teamed forces with Don Cook, Bill Witek, and John Pacific to record a 3:27.46 clocking, and then in the finals, they lowered that mark to 3:26.4.

Just as important to Northville's success in the relays, however, was their ability to block Milan's strength in the distance events.

Last year, when the Mustangs finished second in the state, they outscored the Big Red in eight out of eleven events. In those three events, however, Milan piled up a sufficient number of points to more than offset Northville's edge in the other eight events.

In the 400 yard freestyle, for example, Milan took first, second, third, and seventh to outscore Northville 48-11 and in the three key events they outscored the Mustangs 105-40.

In attempting to block a repeat of last year's occurrences, Lauber moved Kelly up to join Don Cook in the 200 and 400 yard freestyle events. The strategy proved effective.

With Kelly coming in first and Cook third in the 200, Northville picked up 28 points to Milan's 23. And in the 400 yard freestyle Cook and Kelly grabbed fifth and sixth places respectively behind Milan's third and fourth place finishes and thus Northville was outscored by a mere seven points (26-19) in that event.

In the 200 and 400 freestyle races combined, the Mustangs yielded a mere two points to Milan as opposed to the 59 points they gave up last year.

The meet was somewhat closer than the final score of 217-181 would seem to indicate. Indeed, as the six finalists in the freestyle relay took their places on the starting blocks, Milan had at least a mathematical chance to salvage the championship.

Trailing 185-155 at the time, Milan could have overtaken the Mustangs by coming in first and hoping that the Northville quartet was disqualified.

"We knew all we had to do was finish to win it," said Lauber, "so we told our swimmers to be extra cautious - don't risk a false start and make doubly sure the man in front of you has touched in before you leave the blocks so there's no doubt in the judge's mind that we didn't leave too early."

Still, even under those precautions, the Mustang freestyle relay team won the race in state record time.

With their victory in the medley relay and the first and third place finishes of Kelly and Cook in the 200 yard freestyle, the Mustangs opened up a quick 11 point lead over Milan.

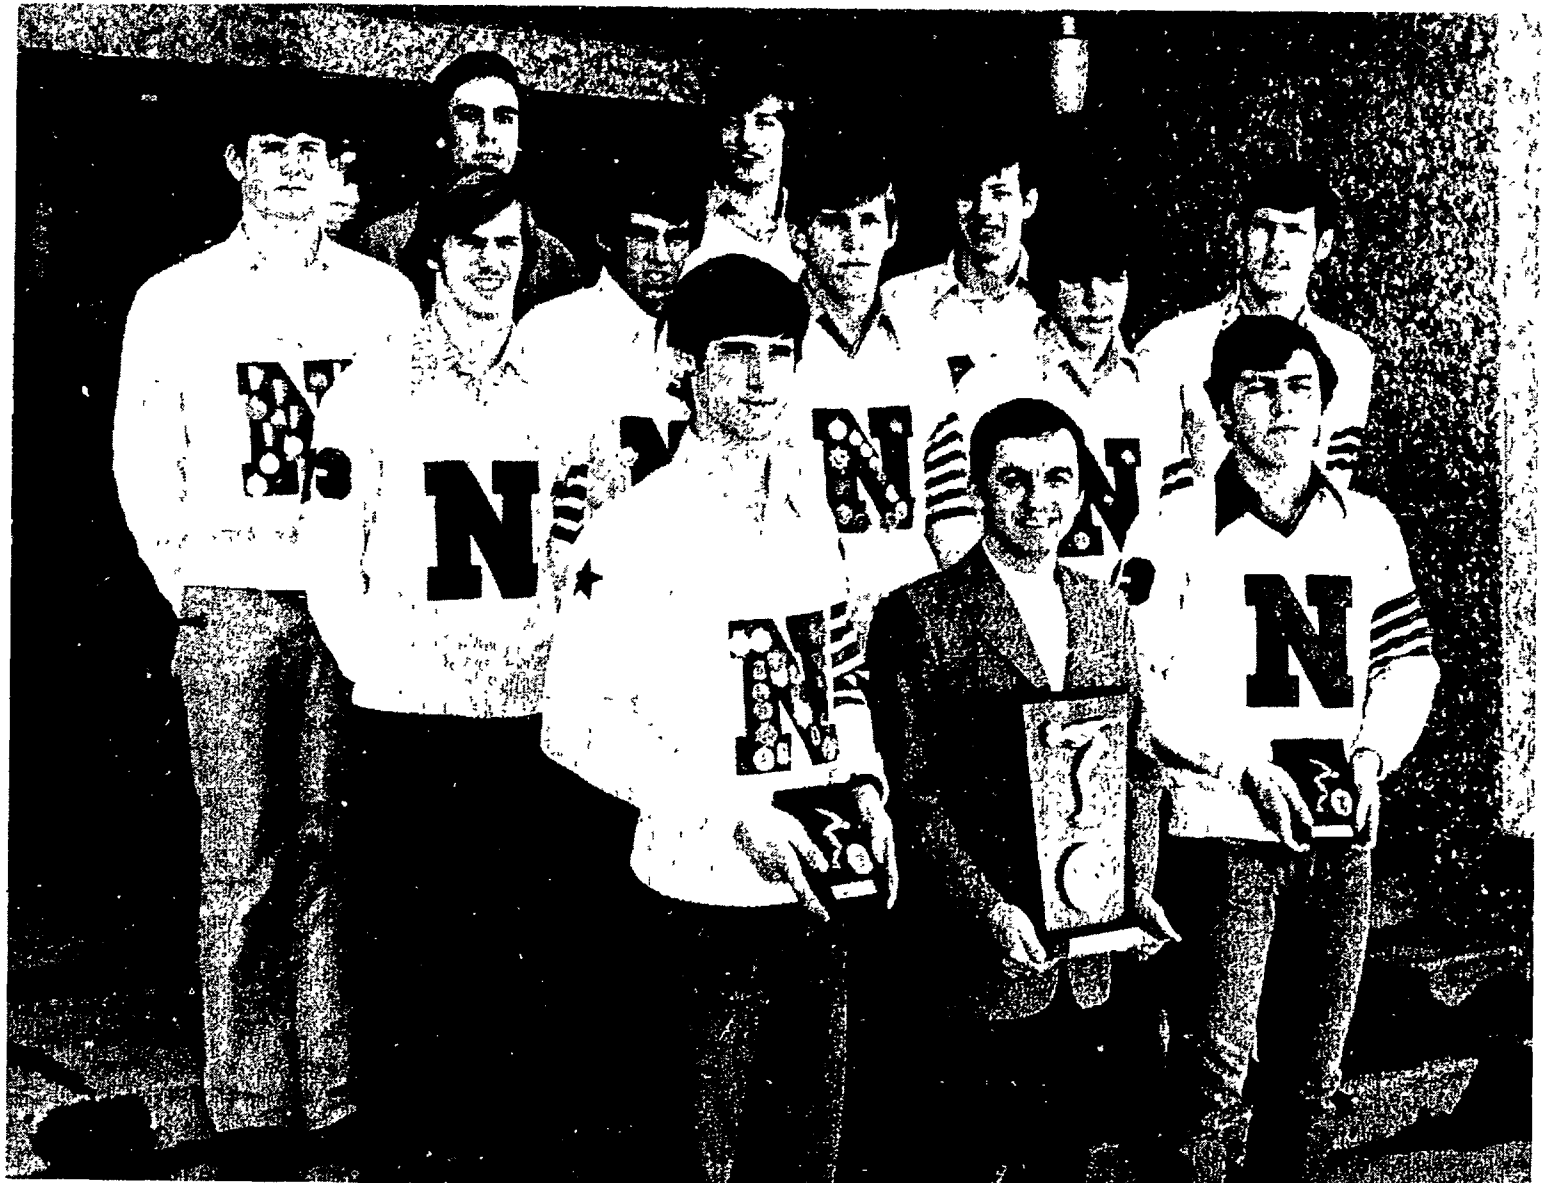

Bill Witek and Greenlee upped that margin to 21 points by taking third and fourth in the 200 yard individual medley.

Then, John Pacific finished fourth in the 50 yard freestyle; Tom Cook grabbed second place in the diving; Andre Manochio finished sixth in the 100 yard butterfly; and Bill Witek and Dennis McLaughlin took fourth and eleventh in the 100 yard freestyle to keep Northville on top by 23 points.

Milan narrowed the margin to 16 points with their third and fourth place finishes in the 400 yard freestyle and then moved even closer when Randy Dakin successfully defended his backstroke title, while Jeff Kappler was stroking his way to fifth place in the event.

Their lead whittled to a mere 10 points after the backstroke, the Mustangs promptly established their biggest lead of the night as Greenlee shaved a full 1.4 seconds off his best previous time in the 100 yard breaststroke to upset Riverview's Jeff Trylch for the state crown and Manochio came in fourth, while Milan's swimmers could do no better than eighth and eleventh in the event.

That left only the freestyle relay between the Mustangs and the state championship and exactly three minutes, twenty-six and four-tenths seconds later, the meet was over, and Northville had its crown.

Here's How They Won

Here's how Northville's swimming team fared in each event as they compiled 217 points to win the Class B State championship.

200 Yard Medley Relay: Northville (Jeff Kappler, Art Greenlee, Andre Manochio, and John Pacific), first place, 1:44.9. The 1:44.9 clocking establishes a new team and state Class B record, breaking the 1:45.65 record established by Kappler, Greenlee, Joe Boland, and Bill Maguire in the 1972 state championship meet at East Lansing.

200 Yard Freestyle: Kevin Kelly, first place, 1:53.3; Don Cook, third place, 1:54.1. Kelly's time of 1:53.3 breaks the old team record of 1:54.3 held by Don Cook.

200 Yard Individual Medley: Bill Witek, third place, 2:09.6; Art Greenlee, fourth place, 2:13.2.

50 Yard Freestyle: John Pacific, fourth place, 23.1. Pacific's time of 23.1 breaks his own team record of 23.5.

Diving: Tom Cook, second place, 346.25 points.

100 Yard Butterfly: Andre Manochio, sixth place, 59.1.

100 Yard Freestyle: Bill Witek, fourth place, 51.1; Dennis McLaughlin, eleventh place, 53.5. Witek's time of 51.1 breaks his own team record of 51.4.

400 Yard Freestyle: Don Cook, fifth place, 4:06.8 ties his own team record. Kevin Kelly, sixth place, 4:09.8.

100 Yard Backstroke: Jeff Kappler, fifth place, 1:01.2; Mark Haynie, thirteenth place, 1:02.7.

100 Yard Breaststroke: Art Greenlee, first place, 1:03.9; Andre Manochio, fourth place, 1:06.0. Greenlee's time of 1:03.9 breaks his own school record of 1:05.3.

400 Yard Freestyle Relay: Northville (John Pacific, Don Cook, Kevin Kelly, Bill Witek), 3:26.4. The 3:26.4 clocking establishes a new team and state Class B record, breaking the mark of 3:27.46 set by the same Northville team in the preliminaries. Northville's time in the preliminaries broke the former record of 3:30.39 set by Holland West Ottawa in 1970.

Mustangers

ART GREENLEE

JOHN PACIFIC

KEVIN KELLY

Mustang of the Week honors go to three athletes this week. Even though the entire 11-man Northville swim team was considered for the Mustang of the week honor, Kevin Kelly, John Pacific, and Art Greenlee were singled out from all the rest. "It's quite a feat to be a state champion in just one event, but those three are all state champions in two events," commented Coach Ben Lauber.

Pacific, a senior freestyler, anchored the Mustangs 200 yard medley relay team to a first place finish and a new state record—breaking the old state mark set by Northville last year. In addition, Pacific also swam on the championship freestyle relay team which shaved a full four seconds off the previous state record.

Kelly, a junior, recorded a major upset by defeating Okemos' Greg Foreman in the 200 yard freestyle and joined Pacific on the record-setting freestyle relay team.

Greenlee, a sophomore breaststroke, recorded another upset by beating Riverview's Jeff Trylch for the 100 yard breaststroke crown and swam a leg on the record-setting medley relay team.

Seniors Sponsor Big Game

Lions Maul Faculty Cagers

The 1,500 fans who jammed the Northville High School gym a week ago Tuesday weren't quite sure whether they were watching a football or basketball game.

Their confusion was justifiable.

Eleven members of the Detroit Lions football team trekked to Northville Tuesday to take on the high school faculty in a game of Loops were handed a thrashing they will not soon forget.

Only a last minute rally enabled the displaced gridders to eke out an 83-47 victory.

The game was sponsored by the Senior Class to raise money for the Senior Banquet. They reported a profit in excess of $600 from the event.

Although urged on by a crew of comely cheerleaders, the faculty was unable to overcome the Lion squad which included Lem Barney, Mike Weger, Mike Lucci, Greg Landry, Nick Eddy, Altie Taylor, Chuck Walton, Paul Naumoff, Joe Schmeissing, Wayne Walker, and Craig Cotton.

"What really hurt us," moaned senior Dave Duey, who coached the faculty cagers, "were Wayne Walker's field goals. He made two attempts, each from half court, and booted both of them right through the uprights for three-point plays. Those field goals completely demoralized my team. We just weren't mentally ready," he sighed.

It was the first loss in Duey's coaching career.

Duey went on to say he was generally pleased with the performance of his team. "Superintendent Raymond Spear turned in a particularly fine game," said Duey. "He kept the Lions off-balance with his twisting drives and his unerring accuracy at the foul line."

The faculty squad had to play over some serious injuries. Phil Demsky and Bob Prom were both forced to the sidelines with injuries sustained during the warm-up drills.

Duey said he was pleased that two members of the squad—Ed McLoud and Walt Koepke—had met the guidelines he had established about length of hair.

"Mr. Koepke went to the barber shop just before the game. I was very pleased with his attitude," stated the faculty mentor.

Duey was critical of Koepke, who was his coach during the recently completed varsity season, in other respects, however.

"I hate to say it," said Duey reluctantly, "but I'm afraid Koepke loafed a lot out there. I've told him time and time again that he's got to follow his shots and he's got to play defense, but it just doesn't seem to do any good."

After the game the faculty squad was treated to a meal compliments of the Northville Burger Chef, and Duey expressed thanks to the owners of the Burger Chef. He also thanked senior class sponsors John Edwards and Ronald Meteyer for their efforts in making the event a success.

"It was a lot of fun," said Duey.

Some 1,500 fans agreed.

WINNING FORM—Detroit Lion star Mike Lucci waits hopelessly for a rebound after Northville Superintendent of Schools Ray Spear popped in another two-pointer in the Faculty-Lion game sponsored by the Northville Senior class last week. In spite of Spear's efforts, the faculty came out on the short end of the score.

Vie for National Titles

Dale Brothers Tops on Ice

A pair of Northville Brothers—Jim and Don Dales—sparked their teams to state championships in amateur hockey play-offs last weekend.

Jim Dales, 14, scored one goal and picked up two assists as his Beech Electric team clobbered Port Huron 12-1 to win the state Bantam (13-14 year olds) championship, while Don Dales played a key role in a 1-0 victory over Grosse Pointe that brought his Blazers' Hockey Club the state title in the Pee Wee (11-12 year olds) division.

Beech Electric and the Blazers play out of the Tri-County Hockey League. The two teams will now advance to the national championship tournaments in their respective divisions.

Jim Dales' Beech Electric

team swept to the Bantam championship without much difficulty. They opened the state tourney by blasting Saulte Ste. Marie 11-0 and then squeezed past St. Clair Shores 3-2. After that it was all down hill, they beat Trenton 7-1 in the semi-finals before clinching the title with the 12-1 rout of Port Huron.

Dales, who is an outstanding performer on the Northville High School golf team, finished the weekend series with three goals and six assists.

Brother Don's Blazers' team had a much more harrowing time of it on its way to the state crown. They opened the series by beating the Grosse Pointe Spitfires 5-4, then eked out a 3-2 decision over Trenton, trounced Saulte Ste. Marie in the semi-finals 8-1, and then topped Grosse Pointe 1-0 for the title.

Don scored four of his team's total of 17 goals in the four game series and collected six assists.

Jim and Beech Electric will perform in the Bantam national tournament at St. Clair Shores, while Don and the Blazers will trek to Superior, Wisconsin for the Pee Wee nationals.

Jim and Don are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dales

Three Swimmers Cop AAU Honors

Three Northville swimmers picked up honors in Michigan AAU-sanctioned swim meets last week.

In the Michigan AAU Girls Age Group swim championships held at Oakland University in Rochester March 17, ten-year old Susan Cahill finished fourth in the 50 yard butterfly, fifth in the 100 yard individual medley, and swam on the fourth place 200 yard freestyle relay team.

Susan is a member of the Bulldog Aquatic Club from Schoolcraft College.

Two other members of the Bulldog club distinguished themselves in the Hazel Park Swim Club's Age Group Class B Swim Meet held last weekend also.

Twenty-nine clubs participated in the meet. Tim Cahill, competing in the 11-12 year old age group, finished second in the 50 yard breaststroke and sixth in the 100 yard breaststroke.

Tom Simrak, another competitor in the 11-12 year old division, finished fifth in the 50 yard freestyle.

Thomson Squirts Down Plymouth

Heavy snows took their toll on weekend hockey action, forcing numerous cancellations.

Northville's Thomson Sand and Gravel-sponsored Squirts squad, however, journeyed over the snow to take the ice Saturday and the trip proved to be a worthwhile one as the local skaters registered a 3-0 verdict over Plymouth.

With goalie Kriss Van Gieson recording his second shutout of the season, Mark Weichel's first period goal gave the Thomson Squirts all the scoring they needed.

Brett Thompson iced the victory with a second period marker and Todd Vincent brought the final count to 3-0 as he slipped the puck into the net in the final stanza.

Steve Stuart, David Brayton, and Mark Weichel each picked up an assist in the contest.

Recreational snowmobiling is big business in the United States. Who buys snowmobiles? Young folks who can't afford them? Teenagers who want to race and speed about during winter months? The answer is no! Nearly 50 percent of the buyers have annual incomes of over $10,000 and are over the age of thirty. Half of the purchasers are married and have three or more children. Snowmobiles have created the fastest growing outdoor winter sport in America today. They have enabled fishermen, conservation department men, and federal foresters to do their winter jobs faster and more efficiently. Therefore, the owner of the snowmobile is a responsible person.

We boast of many snowmobile owners who have bought their SUZUKI snowmobiles from us this past winter. We know they will come back to us at MOORE'S MOTOR SPORT INC., 21001 Pontiac Trail, 437-2688, for a SUZUKI motorcycle. We are known for our excellent service—we don't forget our customers after the sale. Our service department offers lubrications, tune-ups, brake adjustments, etc.

HELPFUL HINT: Instead of storing ice cubes in plastic bags in the freezer, first crush the ice and then place it in the bags. In this way you will be able to store more ice in your freezer!

Aquinas Tops Mustangs in Regionals

It's over.

The late season spurt that saw Walt Koepke's Northville basketball team win its last three regularly-scheduled games of the season and then win three more to capture the Class B District Championship at South Lyon came to an end Thursday.

The Mustangs' dreams of glory were rudely awakened by a fine Southgate Aquinas team 63-49 in the first round of the Class B Regional Tourney at Saline.

Aquinas went on to win the Regional crown by squeezing out a 63-61 victory over Willow Run Monday and thus advances to the state quarter-finals.

In spite of the loss, few Northville fans were particularly displeased with the outcome

Southgate Aquinas, you see, is quite a team. They have to be to get out of the River Rouge district successfully and that's exactly what they did

About all most Northville fans were hoping was that the Mustangs would perform respectably. They weren't disappointed

After a poor first quarter in which they were outscored 22-

10, the Mustangs came back in the second quarter to make a game of it. With Todd Eis and Mike Brown both hitting consistently, the Mustangs twice pulled to within six points of the Aquinas club and twice more they failed to take advantage of opportunities to narrow the gap down to four points.

Aquinas finally managed to open up an eight-point, 36-28, half-time lead and then broke the game open in the third quarter when they switched from a man-to-man to a zone defense.

Aquinas' success on the hardwoods is something of a testament to the advantages of "busing". Or maybe "planeing" would be the more accurate word

Aquinas was only an average ball club until, lo and behold, there arrived direct from the playgrounds of Brooklyn, New York, a pair of basketball players

Those two players—forward Steve Porter and guard Daryl Jiles—were easily the difference in Thursday's contest

Jiles in particular was outstanding. Not only did he lead both teams in scoring with an 18-point performance, he did just about everything else you could possibly ask of a basketball player.

He set up countless buckets with his flashy passing, he crashed the boards to snare more rebounds than the Mustangs care to remember, and whenever the Mustangs went into a full court press, Aquinas had only to get the ball to Jiles, who moved it easily up the floor with his stylish behind the back dribbling.

With Aquinas on top 56-41 with 4:04 left to play, Ron Gulyas, the Southgate coach, pulled his ace backcourt man to the bench. But when the Mustangs intercepted a pass moments later and cut the gap to 56-43, Gulyas hustled Jiles back onto the floor at 3:41.

Defense was the key to the game Northville started out in their 1-3-1 zone, but it became obvious right from the start that it would have to be abandoned, as Porter gobbled up a slew of offensive rebounds and laid them back up for a series of easy two-pointers

With Jiles hitting from the outside and Porter scoring on the inside, Aquinas pulled away to a 22-10 first quarter lead. Each of the Brooklyn imports tallied eight points during the opening frame.

Koepke pulled his Mustangs out of the zone and decided to go with a man to man in the second quarter. It proved to be the Mustangs' best eight minutes of the game. Todd Eis and Mike Brown each flipped in three field goals and Ed Kritch also contributed six points with two field goals and a pair of charity tosses, as the Mustangs outscored the Southgate school 18-14. Jiles and Porter were held to a combined total of four points in the second quarter, and only the efforts of forward Walt Sassack, who scored eight points, kept Aquinas on top.

At the start of the second half, Gulyas switched from his man-to-man defense to a zone and that change marked the end for the Mustangs. It's not that the Northville players weren't getting their shots, mind you. Kritch was still getting in his drives to the bucket and Eis was getting open for his deadly 15 foot jumper, but the ball just wouldn't go in the hoop.

Northville's shooting went colder than January in Juneau Whereas they had hit on eight of 12 shots in the second quarter, the Mustangs converted just two of 14 shots in the third quarter.

Jiles, in the meantime, had regained his scoring touch and tossed in four baskets, including a 35-footer at the buzzer, to send his team out to a virtually insurmountable 52-34 third quarter lead.

The game was over. Eight minutes later the two squads filed to the dressing room with Aquinas on top 63-49.

With Jiles getting 18 and Porter adding 14, the two Brooklyn stars collected 32 of their teams' 63 points.

Kritch topped the Mustangs in the point department with 14, while Eis was just a point back with 13.

For four Mustangs—center Mike Brown, forward Bart Taylor, center Dave Duey, and guard Jim Yanoschic—it was the final game of their prep careers.

As for next year... Well, there's this center from Philadelphia and a real fine forward in Des Moines...

INTO THE FORECOURT—Northville's Joe Bishop dribbles the ball over the 10-second line and into the forecourt during second quarter action in the Mustangs' regional battle with Southgate Aquinas last week. The Mustangs outscored the Southgate school in the second quarter, but were deluged in the third quarter and eliminated from the Class B Tourney.

Northville Coach Says

'Got Beat by Better Team'

In spite of the snow it was a beautiful weekend for Northville basketball coach Walt Koepke.

The pressure was off. For the first time since early last fall, there were no more games to be played, no more scrimmages to be arranged, no more teams to be scouted. The season was over.

As the sun poured down Monday trying to make a dent in the 12 inches of snow deposited on the Northville area over the weekend, Koepke was busy at home finishing some furniture and making mental preparations for his annual spring fishing trip.

"No, I really don't feel too bad about having lost," he admitted when asked about his squad's 63-49 defeat in the regionals. "I think we probably lost to a better team. Put it this way, I don't think we lost a game we should have won." And then his stubborn streak about winning poked its way through.

"It wasn't impossible for us to have beat them though, you know," he added. "But everyone on our team would have had to really come through with a superior performance."

"It was a strange game," he continued. "There was a very strange quality to it. We really did quite well in the second quarter. We got within six points of them and twice we brought the ball down the floor with a chance to cut their lead to four."

"But there was never really any doubt about the outcome. You could see they had some really outstanding talent and were going to break loose sooner or later."

"I think the final score had them on top by just 14 points, which isn't really very much. But by the tone of the game you'd have thought they won by 20."

The key to the Aquinas victory was their switch from a man-to-man to a zone defense in the third quarter. The Mustangs had been scoring well against the man-to-man and had tallied 18 points in the second quarter alone.

But once Aquinas went into the zone, the Mustangs lost their scoring punch and netted just two field goals and six points in the third quarter.

"Frankly," Koepke observed, "I was happy when I saw them set up in a zone at the start of the third quarter. We've probably played 75 percent of our games against zone defenses and I thought we might be able to catch them when I saw that zone."

"But it just didn't work. It wasn't that we weren't getting our shots—it's just that our shooting in the third quarter was terrible."

As for Jiles, the Southgate guard imported from Brooklyn, Koepke had nothing but raves.

"He's one of the best ball handling guards I've seen in some time," commented the Mustang mentor. "He had so much poise out on the court. You could tell that he's been playing basketball for ten years, while most of our boys have only been playing about five."

"When we went to our man-to-man defense we gave Joe Bishop the job of guarding him and I've got to feel a little sorry for Joe. He did a good job, but he'll probably have nightmares about that kid for a long time to come. Trying to defend Jiles was not an easy job."

Late April Opening Seen

Officials Dedicate Drawbridge Restaurant

UNVEILED—Northville Mayor A.M. Allen (left) makes a comment to the crowd just after he and Congressman Marvin Esch (center) unveiled the cornerstone at the northeast corner of the Drawbridge Restaurant. Looking on at the right is Sidney Frid.

Lauding owners of the Drawbridge Restaurant for preserving an historic building, United States Representative Marvin Esch joined with Northville Mayor A. M. Allen Friday in a cornerstone ceremony.

City, township, state, national and international representatives were on hand for the noon ceremony, which was followed by lunch inside the still unfinished new restaurant at Center and Dunlap streets.

Gerald Harris, officer of the owning corporation, and chairman of the ceremony, has indicated the restaurant probably will not be ready to open until the end of April.

Following the unveiling of the cornerstone, the guests moved inside where flags of the United States, Michigan and Great Britain were presented to the restaurant as was a commemorating joint resolution of the two houses of the Michigan legislature.

Besides Congressman Esch and Mayor A. M. Allen, other guests present included State Representative Robert Geake, William Summerset of the British Consulate, Township Supervisor Lawrence Wright, members of the city council and planning commission, other city officials, representatives of the Northville Historical Society, First Methodist Church, Chamber of Commerce, and the Northville Area Economic Development Corporation.

Samuel Milstein, state liaison officer for Historical Preservation, was present early but he had to leave prior to the ceremony.

Governor William Milliken, unable to attend, sent a telegram extending his "heartiest congratulations to the City of Northville and to all those individuals who had a hand in obtaining historical designation for this building the Methodist Church built in 1885."

In his address, Congressman Esch cited the historical preservation work of the Northville Historical Society and conversion of the former Methodist church into a restaurant while preserving its architectural significance. His remarks had been published earlier in the United States Congressional Record.

Mayor Allen, noting the peeling tower bells, recalled for guests the historic significance of the tower clock.

Representatives of Great Britain were present because the interior and the castle-like exterior of the building carries an Early English theme. Its rooms are named in honor of historic places and figures in British history.

Also present Friday were the restaurant's two chefs,

Leopold K. Schaefer of Zurich, Switzerland, and John Vanderwoude, a native of Holland. Schaefer will be the executive chef and maitre d'.

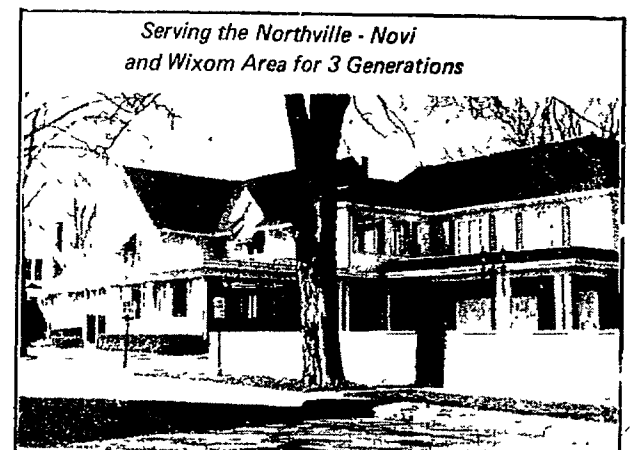

Principal owner of the Drawbridge is Paul E. Fregolle, an attorney, restaurateur and mobile home park developer who maintains offices in Southfield. He was unable to attend.

He is president of the Starboard Tack chain of restaurants, a highly successful steak-house concept with restaurants in Denver, Las Vegas, Grand Rapids and East Lansing. Starboard Tack restaurants will open in Farmington in June and in Saginaw in August.

The Drawbridge is to feature elegant dining, with quality meat, seafood, wines and beverages. It will serve more than 250 diners.

Although the Methodist Church building was erected in 1885, the church was organized here in 1834. The building was sold, and the congregation presently occupies a new church building near the intersection of Eight Mile and Taft roads.

2) Michigan Week will be held May 19th through the 26th. This year Northville will exchange Mayors with Flat Rock for the 20th Annual Michigan Week. The chairman will be selected at the next Council meeting.

3) City Manager read letter from Highland Park requesting Northville to participate with other municipalities appealing Detroit Edison's increase in street lighting rates.

Carried
COMMUNICATIONS FROM CITIZENS
Will hold until end of meeting
PUBLIC HEARING TRAILER ORDINANCE
Mayor Protem Rathert opened the public hearing to consider the proposed Trailer Ordinance.
Sid Frid of 865 Grace, questioned the Council on visitors' trailers in town for a short period of time.

Duane LaMoreaux of 292 N. Ely, felt the whole ordinance was unnecessary especially if the vehicle was used as transportation. The City is becoming too restrictive.

George Kohs of 473 W. Cady, questioned why a 20 foot length be required to register with the Building Inspector. City Manager stated this was an arbitrary figure.

Sid Moose of 436 Randolph, felt the ordinance should include vehicles up to 31 feet in length. City Manager stated any vehicle over 20 feet but not exceeding 31 feet must be registered with the Building Inspector. Mr. Moose said that storage areas are still subject to vandals and felt, if possible, it would be better to store vehicle on own property.

Mr. Kleggs of Hillridge stated he has a pie shaped lot and questioned side parking. City Manager said this could be allowed if the vehicle did not extend into the front yard.

Joe Fiorilli of 38814 Harbert, Northville Township, asked that Council review ordinance to ensure no hardship if annexation took place and large lots had to conform to this.

Councilman Folino questioned many sections of the ordinance, believes it should be reviewed by City Attorney and revised to avoid undue hardships.
Councilman Vernon said the ordinance was very restrictive as it is now but felt the City needed some control.

Councilman Biery felt the appeal procedure should be through City Manager.

Motion by Councilman Vernon, support by Councilman Folino to have a work session and adjourn public hearing until April 2, 1973, at the Library.

LIBRARY STAFF AND BUILDING
Frank Ollendorff, City Manager, is in complete agreement with the Northville Library Advisory Board, and recommends endorsing their proposal to move Library into Community Building as soon as possible.

Mr. Weigand, Chairman of the Northville Library Advisory Board, gave the Council a brief summary for the need of a new library facility.

Mayor Protem Rathert said the timing was great in view of the coming school district's bond issue and possible annexation to the Township to the City and even if annexation does not happen the Township will probably move with the proposed construction of the new Township Hall.

A rough estimate of remodeling the Community Building is $130,000 opposed to $400,000 for constructing a new building plus and costs.

Motion by Councilman Folino, support by Councilman Vernon to endorse Northville Library Advisory Board's proposal to move the Library to the Community Building.

CARRIED
POLICE RADIO EQUIPMENT BIDS:
Frank Ollendorff read bids received as follows:
Motorola Corp. $10,286.00 (Microm)
$10,757.00 (Microm)
R.A. $10,757.00 (Microm)
Fulcrum Bid $12,186.00
Alternate A—Trunk mount—3 units $951.00

Bill Clark, representative for Motorola, explained difference between Microm and Micor and why Micor was superior.

City Manager and Police Department recommend Motorola Micor for $10,757.00, because it is the only one (bid) that conforms to specifications.

Motion by Councilman Folino, support by Councilman Biery to accept bid from Motorola for $10,757.00 (Micor).
Carried
PARKING PROPERTY ACQUISITION
Motion by Councilman Folino, support by Councilman Vernon to purchase Lot No. 528, Assessors Northville Plat No. 6, for $25,000 from First United Methodist Church of Northville.

This item is in need of further study and will be held until March 19, 1973.

SOIL EROSION & LANDSCAPE ORDINANCE REVISION
The City Attorney would like the City Engineer to go over the ordinance with him before he presents revised ordinance to Council. This item will be held until next Council Meeting.

MESSAGE PARLOR & ADULT BOOK STORE ORDINANCE
Motion by Councilman Folino, support by Councilman Biery to set public hearing for adopting message parlor ordinance for March 19, 1973, Council Meeting.

Carried

The City Council asked the Planning Commission to review the zoning ordinance amendment which would make adult bookstores and related businesses "regulated uses" meaning that special conditions would have to be met before they would be allowed.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM CITIZENS
Sid Frid questioned Wayne and Oakland County assessments, he felt they were unreasonable and thought that a local assessor would do a better job.

Mr. Harvey Smith of 312 Randolph asked for support in protesting the Drain Board's decision on the Randolph Drain Flood Plain Easement. He said he was not being given a choice of a ditch or flood plain easement, he was getting both. Frank Ollendorff, City Manager, will join Mr. Smith at the Drain Board meeting, and repeat City Council position that minimum possible construction be done.

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS:
City Manager noted that additional Christmas decoration cost was in excess of $900.00 and in the past the City has paid this cost. No objections were noted by Council.

The new recreation budget was distributed and will appear on the next agenda.
A sewer back up damage claim on Center Street for $266.00 was brought up by City Manager and suggested Council set a ceiling on such claims.

EIGHT MILE-NOVI ROAD INTERSECTION
Paul Vernon brought up the Eight Mile-Novis Road intersection Council agreed this is a high accident intersection and would like a Police Department study made as to what could be done to alert people at this crossing—traffic light etc. Oakland County, Wayne County and the City of Northville all have roads coming into the intersection.

HUTTON & MAIN STREETS TRAFFIC LIGHT:
Council would also like a Police study made of the traffic light at Hutton & Main Street. If it shouldn't be changed to red flashing on Hutton in the early morning hours of the day and stay green on Main.

There being no further business, meeting adjourned at 11:00 P.M.
Respectfully submitted,
Cathy M. Keller

'Hatchery' Requirement Draws Trustee's Fire

Federal government's requirement that the fish hatchery recreational development be open for public use came under fire last week from Northville Township Trustee Richard Mitchell.

"Our taxpayers will have to pay for the inner city to use (the fish hatchery)," Mitchell stated. "We've got a lot of recreation land in the township," he continued, suggesting that the fish hatchery was not needed.

Development of the fish hatchery acreage on Seven Mile Road near Edenderry Drive was undertaken as a joint project several years ago by the city and township to provide recreational land for areas of the community without access to parks.

"Agreement between the city and the township to develop the area must be approved by the federal government since they are the ones who deeded the land to the city."

The township will have a 99-year lease on the property. In order to have part ownership, township residents, would have had to approve the purchase of the land and board members decided last year that such a move, plus getting the township's name on the deed, would unnecessarily delay the project.

The federal government has also said that if the township was to become part owner of the project and not a tenant, it (township) would have had to meet the same qualifications and agree to the same terms as did the city of Northville.

The fish hatchery park will be operated by the recreation department which serves both the city and township.

Mitchell stated that since all of the subdivisions being built in the township are including private parks for use by their own residents, the fish hatchery park would no longer be needed.

Trustee John MacDonald reminded Mitchell that areas such as Edenderry and Shadbrook "do not have recreational areas built into the subdivisions and these are the areas that the fish hatchery is meant to serve."

Mitchell said residents in the southeastern portion of the township will be paying double for recreation since they also pay for recreation through the Plymouth School District.

Attorney Donald Morgan told him that the Plymouth School District is turning over recreation to a commission that will operate facilities for the City of Plymouth and the townships of Plymouth and Canton. The school will no longer be involved in the program.

Mitchell said, "Why didn't we investigate joining with them for a recreation program?"

To date, the township has contributed $25,000 towards the fish hatchery project and Supervisor Lawrence Wright, Clerk Sally Cayley and Mitchell agreed the township was "locked in" to the project.

MacDonald said that "If the township needs more recreational space and if we will have to meet the federal requirements and non-residents will be able to use the park, we still will have more use of the recreational facility than will non-residents."

Trustees directed the supervisor to reactivate membership of the township on the fish hatchery committee and have the members report back to the board on the progress of the park.

IT'S A BIRD, IT'S A PLANE—No, it's an anemometer that TV2 meteorologist Jim Smith is examining. Smith was at the Novi Elementary School Friday to present a slide demonstration to the members of Mrs. Carol Smith's fifth grade science classes, who have just concluded study of a chapter on weather. The anemometer being studied by Smith was the project of Paul Henderson (far left). Henderson won first prize in his class for the project, while Keith Tobel (second from left) came in second with a weather vane. In the other fifth grade section Tracy Neil (third from left) took first place with a weather diorama, while Kelly Butler (fourth from left) was second with a rain gauge.

Community Education

Kids to See Film About Horse

Novi will kick off its initial community education program Saturday morning with presentation of a film for children at Village Oaks Elementary School. Saturday morning movies, according to school officials, may become a regular feature under the community education concept. They are, however, simply a first part of what hopefully will become a comprehensive program of social, and educational projects, stresses

Superintendent Gerald Kratz. The first film, a Walt Disney production, is titled "Justin Morgan Had a Horse." It will be shown at 10 a.m. In addition, if weather permits a number of live Morgan horses will be at the school for children to view following the movie.

In subsequent weeks movies will be shown at other Novi schools to permit youngsters from all areas to attend. Possibility of some eventual busing to these events is being considered.

Concerning community education, Dr. Kratz told board members last week of several programs explaining the concepts were presented to various groups in the community.

"After these presentations to local Novi civic groups," he said, "volunteers are being asked to serve on an implementation committee for the following areas: existing facilities and programs, financing and staffing agencies in the community, and potential programs."

Meanwhile, a funding proposal to be submitted to the Center for Community Education at Eastern Michigan University has been prepared, Dr. Kratz said. "If approved by the center it could result in funding of community education in Novi over a period of three years."

Report of this proposal is to be made to the board on March 27.

School Age Youth Decline Seen

According to Board President Dr. Orlo Robinson, "Northville may not need an additional high school until into the 1980's if the drop in the birth rate continues, if the ninth grade is removed from the high school or if year-round school is implemented in the district."

Removal of the ninth grade from the high school has been proposed once the planned middle school on Bradner Road is built.

Placing grades six and seven in one middle school and grades eight and nine in the other middle school would allow room for growth of student population in grades 10 through 12 in the present high school building.

Bonds for construction of the second middle school, along with two elementary schools, will be placed before voters in the June school election as part of an estimated $10-million bond issue.

The second middle school, if approved by voters, is expected to open in 1975.

Trustee Stanley Johnston pointed out, however, that the projected declining high school population would have little effect on Northville if "people decide to move into the southeastern Michigan area at an increasing rate as has occurred during the past few years."

Tennis Court Times Told

Times for community use of the high school tennis courts have been announced by Earl Busard, director of business for Northville schools.

During school days, courts will be open to the public from 6 a.m. until dusk, except when required for use a physical education class or interscholastic activity.

On weekends and during times when school is not in sessions, courts are open for use from 6 a.m. to dusk, Monday through Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Beginning June 15, courts will be open from 7 a.m. until 10 p.m. daily and on weekends, except during hours assigned by the Recreation Department. Recreation Department's schedule will be announced later, Busard said.

He Tours Mill Race Village

A representative of the Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum visited Northville last week to offer advice on restoration of buildings in the Mill Race Historical Village here.

Touring the facility with members the Northville Historical Society was Edward R. Gilbert, chief conservator at Greenfield and former conservator at the Sturbridge (Mass.) Village.

As conservator he is in charge of Greenfield's authentication laboratory. He has lectured in the Midwest Antiques Forum and at the Connecticut and Massachusetts Institutes of Local History.

"Mr. Gilbert came here to help us decide how best to restore the buildings now on the property," a spokesman for the Historical Society said.

Presently located on the Griswold Street property, recently donated to the city by the Ford Motor Company, are the former library building that stood on Wing Street and a house that stood on the south side of Main Street in the right-of-way of the Griswold Street extension.

Plans call for other historically significant buildings to be moved to the site later.

Easier Said Than Done

Boundary Change Stalled

Straightening out the boundary line between Northville and Plymouth school districts may be easier said than done.

Meeting last week, Northville School Board members learned that at least one family in the southwestern portion of the school district does not want to become part of the Plymouth School District.

According to Superintendent Raymond Spear, the family has expressed its desire to remain in the Northville district.

"Any action on the transfer of land will require a public hearing," Spear reminded board members.

Board President Dr. Orlo Robinson said that "If a change is made in the boundaries, this family should have the option of keeping their children in Northville schools until graduation."

Trustee Mrs. Sylvia Gucken said the board "should investigate future land use" of the area in question since part of Brae Burn golf course would be included in the transfer.

Board members directed administrators to survey families in the area to determine their feelings on the changing of school districts. All land in the area of proposed change is located in Washtenaw County.

The boundary change was proposed by Plymouth after they discovered several families in the area were sending their children to Plymouth schools without paying tuition.

While Plymouth has been collecting state aid for the students, Northville has continued to collect the taxes.

Eart Busard, business director for Northville, said that for two of the last three years the families have been notified they were sending their children to the wrong school district.

Any action on the land transfer must be agreed upon by Northville and Plymouth school districts and the intermediate school districts of Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw counties.

UWM Names John Bock

John H. Bock of 1087 Allen Drive, has been named to the Budget Committee of the United Way of Michigan (UWM).

William C. Crick, of Flint, committee chairman, said that Bock would be assigned to a panel at UWM's annual budget conference to be held April 17-18 at the Kellogg Center, Michigan State University.

Each panel will review the budget presentations of two or more UWM member agencies and then make recommendations for the funding of the agencies during 1974.

UWM has 26 health and social service agencies as members. It helps plan programs and provides budgeting services and financial support for them.

Funds for UWM come from 150 local united way campaigns conducted throughout Michigan. The United Foundation is providing $3,226,732 for UWM's member services during 1973.

Bock is executive assistant, special affairs, for the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company. He has had leadership positions in the utilities division and with the UF Torch Drive.

Bock is also actively affiliated with Project Hope, the Boy Scouts, the American Cancer Society, the Michigan Society for Mental Health, the American Red Cross and Detroit Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America.

C.A. Smith Gets Easter Seal Post

C. A. Smith of Novi, past president and active member of the Northville Rotary Club, will head the 1973 Easter Seal campaign in Northville, the Wayne County Easter Seal Society announced this week.

Board OK's Disaster Use

Novi Board of Education has reapproved use of school facilities by the American Red Cross in the event of a disaster.

The renewed agreement permits the Red Cross to use buildings for shelters, if needed, in the wake of any major disaster.

In an attempt to discourage damage to school property by motorized vehicles, the board of education in Novi is about to adopt a policy declaring "off limits all motor vehicles, including snowmobiles, minibikes, motorcycles, and the like, on school property other than parking lots and driveways."

Trustee Gilbert Henderson, in commenting on the policy proposal last week, said abuse of school property "burns me up" because it constitutes a waste of tax dollars.

Arguing that control of such abuse is not solely the responsibility of school administrators, he placed the responsibility on the shoulders of the 13,000 residents of the community.

Menzel Appointed

William J. Menzel, assistant principal of Walled Lake Junior High School, has been appointed assistant principal of the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center at Walled Lake.

Menzel joined the Walled Lake School system in 1961 as a teacher at Walled Lake Junior High School and became assistant principal of the school in 1969.

Receiving a bachelor of science degree from Ball State Teacher's College, Indiana, he earned his masters degree at Eastern Michigan University. He resides in Walled Lake.

In his new position, which he assumed March 12, Mr. Menzel will be in charge of the vocational and community education program at the Vocational Education Center. He succeeds Robert M. Nugent who resigned to accept a position with Oakland Schools.

The center, dedicated to the concept that students should be able to obtain a vocational education, as well as an academic education, is used by high schools in Clareceville, Farmington, Milford, Novi, South Lyon, Walled Lake, West Bloomfield, Boys' Republic and Our Lady of Mercy.

Often, in decorating, you will experience cluttering or stiffness rather than errors of omission. When this occurs, consider what objects and furniture can be rearranged or recombined with other groups. If this fails, begin eliminating minor objects piece by piece. One method of increasing space and decreasing stuffiness caused by too many pieces is by deliberately keeping one wall in a room absolutely plain and devoid of furniture. Your eye will find relaxation in the break from decoration and ornamentation—and so will you!

When you're ready to decorate or re-decorate relax and let the experienced staff at SCHRADER'S HOME FURNISHINGS, INC., 111 N. Even Before Big Snowstorm

Thaw Raises Cain with Roads

"About the only thing that will help is prayer and good weather." Livingston County Road superintendent, Walter Clink, made that observation last week in describing the "worst pre-spring road conditions in 13 years."

The "good weather," however, turned worse with the weekend snowstorm that paralyzed the already mud-mired southeastern Michigan roadways and all but wiped out hopes that conditions might soon improve.

Like Clink, road personnel in Wayne and Oakland counties were similarly disturbed by conditions of unpaved roads.

Even before the snowstorm hit, water and mud had made many area roads virtually impassable throughout the circulation area of this newspaper.

Melting snow is expected now to produce still more mud.

Every school district in the region has had to re-route some of their buses because of the condition.

Residents on some roads have been forced to leave their cars at intersections "and walking in over the mud" to their homes.

"Many roads are bad," Clink said, "many are impassable, so many I couldn't list them all."

Some 27 flags were pinned to bus maps in South Lyon recently, signifying roads which could not be used by school buses because of mud and water.

"We've had only one bus stuck (11 Mile Road between Beck and Wixom roads) but we've had to avoid travel on others," reports Novi Assistant School Superintendent William Barr.

Earl Busard, director of transportation for Northville Public Schools, reports a similar situation.

"On about a dozen occasions we've had to re-route buses. Two buses got stuck in the area of Nine Mile and Garfield roads. This year is the worst since I've been here."

According to Clink, who until the weekend had hoped the worst was past, said the 14-inch deep mud in some instances is due to the fact that gravel roads often do not have a proper base, a proper surface, and proper drainage.

Spring thaws, coupled with heavy construction trucks, made Nine Mile Road and Center Street particularly bad, according to Busard.

Center Street, inside Novi, was finally closed to traffic last week.

Nine Mile between Napier and Garfield also was called extremely hazardous.

Several buses had springs broken because of road conditions, Busard said, but fortunately no school buses suffered major damage or were involved in accidents.

"Our bus drivers anticipate this sort of thing in spring and they really know when they're going to have to re-route a bus since many of the washouts occur during the day," he said. "The drivers often are making their own detours as they go along."

Drivers, however, have expressed safety concerns, Busard said, because of the road conditions. They are afraid a bus may slide into something or they may lose control after hitting a chuck-hole covered by water.

Northville Township roads were reported "muddy but passable."

Streets inside the City of Northville, most of which are paved, are reported in good condition.

Carl Comps, building and grounds supervisor for South Lyon schools, said the worst areas are located in the southwest area of his district—Seven and Eight Mile roads—especially in the Salem-Northfield area west of Pontiac Trail.

Post Lane and 11 Mile Road, from Pontiac Trail to Dixboro, were called terrible.

Road conditions are causing maintenance problems for buses, according to Novi's Dr. Barr.

"Anytime a vehicle has to continually travel over rough terrain it's going to cause more maintenance," he said. "Exhaust systems are particularly hard hit."

Even the appearance of the buses is affected. It's impossible to keep them clean, Dr. Barr pointed out.

'Refunds Deserved'

Tax Relief Sought for Unmarrieds

Some 35 million unmarried taxpayers deserve a refund from the Department of Internal Revenue, contends Congressman William S. Broomfield who has sponsored the so-called Singles Taxpayers Bill.

"While 1969, single taxpayers," he explains, "were paying as much as 40 percent more in federal income taxes than their surtax last year that amounted to a whopping $1.6 billion.

"In all fairness, I think those people deserve refunds from the IRS."

Broomfield points out that his bill would allow taxpayers, regardless of their marital status, to use the "income spitting" advantages which are now married neighbors with the same taxable earnings.

"While the situation has improved, it is still possible for single people to pay 20-percent more and for widows and divorcees with dependents to pay 10 percent more just because they are not married."

"Consequently, 35-million unmarried taxpayers paid a available only to couples.

"I would hasten to add that under my measure while there will be a reduction for singles there would be no increases for married couples," he says. "As a matter of fact, most couples will still pay a smaller stipend than the rest of the population because after the standard deductions, their taxable income will be less."

Plan Rose Garden

By RICHARD D. MILLER
Extension Agent

I Never Promised You A Rose Garden but—here are several things you can do to have attractive and high quality roses this Spring.

First, make sure you get your money's worth by buying roses that grow, says Dr. W. H. Carlson, Michigan State University horticulture scientist.

According to Carlson, buying roses from a reputable source is the best guarantee that you will be satisfied.

Home gardeners usually have access to three sources of rose plants—local nurseries, mail order houses, and supermarkets and department stores.

"Local nurseries and garden centers are generally good sources of planting material," says Carlson.

"Drug stores, supermarkets and department stores are good sources if their stock has been kept dormant and protected from drying.

"The best selection of high-quality plants is usually available from mail order nurseries," says Carlson. Reputable mail order companies also furnish catalogs and will guarantee their plants to grow and bloom if given normal care.

The 1972 All-American rose honors went in a clean sweep to hybrid tea roses.

After two years of testing in 22 experimental gardens scattered about the United States, Apollo and Portrait emerged as the only award winners for 1972. Both should be appearing on the market throughout the country this spring, according to horticulturists at Michigan State University.

Pruning your bush roses "now" will probably give you more blooms than if you pruned last fall, say horticulturists at Michigan State University.

Roses should be pruned annually to improve their appearance, remove dead wood, and control the quantity and quality of flowers produced by the plants.

Pruning is not difficult. Use sharp tools. A fine-toothed saw is useful for cutting dead canes, while all other pruning can be done with pruning shears.

Plan the rest of your flower garden now too. For that "finished" look, plan your flower garden on paper before you buy, says J. Lee Taylor, Michigan State University horticulturist.

"Don't put a flower garden in the middle of the lawn," says Taylor, "you'll have to mow around it, and it will break up your landscape design."

Informal designs, the front edges slightly curved, add character to the shape of the garden.

Generally, taller plants should be placed to the rear, medium ones in the middle, and low-growing plants in the front. Sometimes by alternating plants of different heights the flower bed can appear to have waves or ripples.

Taylor also suggests planting flowers that bloom at different seasons, to give you color throughout the year.

Don't overcrowd your flower bed, warns Taylor. Flowers grow in width and planting them too close will only result in tall, weak flowers that might fall over. A crowded flower bed can become a tangled mat of color instead of a planned area of beauty.

The Gardening Way

By MARGARET HERBST

SPRAY OR DUST

It is unfortunate that each year with the first sign of spring the annual attack of the insect world should begin on flowers, shrubs, trees and vegetables. If these destructive pests are not eliminated, all of the tender care that you have expended to establish your lovely garden will be nullified.

One of the most important considerations, whether you choose a spray or dust, is to comply faithfully with the directions of the manufacturer. A little more of the preparation does not mean greater benefit; it can be harmful. Then the timing must be keyed to nature.

Nature's timetable synchronizes the bloom of certain flowers with the emergence of insect pests. For example, in the case of trees, applying the right spray at the beginning of the emergence period or when infectious disease spores are most active gives most effective control.

There are so many preparations on the market in the battle against bugs that it is no wonder the home gardener is confused. Fortunately multi-purpose insecticides not only have a high insect-killing power but at the same time are blessed with a high degree of safety to humans and animals. Two of the most effective in this group are malathion, and diazinon.

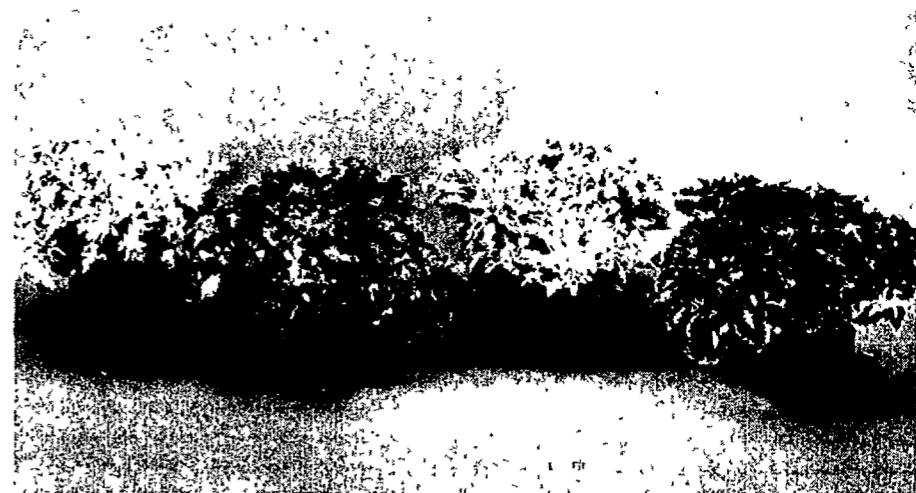

Malathion is an important ingredient of numerous insecticide formulations. It is effective against more than 75 kinds of insects found on more than 40 different kinds of plants including flowers, shrubs, trees, garden vegetables and fruits.

Diazinon kills most outdoor insects that destroy lawns, roses, flowers, trees and shrubs. Some of the better-known insects thus controlled are aphids, spider mites, scales, leafhoppers, chinch bugs, sod webworms, thrips, mealybugs, Mexican bean beetles and lace bugs. Spraying or dusting several times from early May through July is a good general rule.

For dusting plants, a ready filled pump-action duster is the best applicator. Be sure to cover all surfaces of the plant as evenly as possible. Apply again if it should rain soon after the treatment. Dust every week to ten days either in the early morning or late evening. There are all-purpose dusts and those for special uses, such as rose or vegetable dust.

In spraying, it is best to use a garden hose sprayer which will automatically mix water and spray in the right proportions. There are versatile garden sprays or combinations that control both insect and plant diseases. Spray in the early morning, wetting the plants thoroughly, covering all surfaces, regularly every week to ten days.

Use coarse drenching spray for lawns, soil and other surface applications. Use medium-fine mist sprays for trees and plants. Thorough coverage is important. Flush sprayer with clean water after each use.

UNIQUE new leaf shape and bright, snappy colors will brighten any shaded planting area. Sturdy, compact habit makes Carefree Coleus ideal for 4-inch pots and tubs.

Try Bright Coleus

Planting in Shady Areas

Shade plantings can be a tricky proposition. The idea being, of course, to fill those shady areas with plants bright enough to compete with the sunlit areas of the garden; and the more attention-getting, the better. Begonias and coleus have long been the "shady" standbys.

A whole new concept in coleus is now on the market, a variety sure to brighten up those shady spots, and different enough to entice people over for a closer look. Called Carefree Coleus, it features an edge, described as "oak leaf" by the producer, which is unlike any coleus on the market now or any other time. Carefree Coleus can be planted in spots getting two-thirds sun to medium shade, and one of the "carefree" aspects is that this coleus will take more sun than other varieties.

Carefree is a compact, bushy plant that achieves amazing fullness without drooping, and it's a plant-and-enjoy specimen, since it requires no pinching. Flowers that appear are less conspicuous than those on other coleus.

Carefree's eight colors are bright enough to rival any other part of your garden, and it lives up to the Carefree tag like a champ, since it is adaptable to a wide variety of soils, does well with a minimum of water, and needs little or no fertilizing in most soils.

But the real story of Carefree Coleus is its use as a pot plant. Until now, coleus became too floppy for successful small pot use. Not Carefree Coleus. Planted out in 4-inch pots, Carefree Coleus can brighten patio, terrace, window box, even an indoor windowsill. Put Carefree in a sunny spot (next to a window) and you have the most unique house plant on the block.

Try Oriental Bonsai Gardening

Bonsai has become an increasingly popular type of container gardening. The careful dwarfing of trees, shrubs, vines and houseplants can easily develop from an interesting garden hobby into a consuming garden art, according to Michigan State University horticulturists.

Pruning is an essential part of bonsai gardening, states Extension Horticulturist J. Lee Taylor. A miniature tree usually needs only one heavy branch pruning in its life—when the basic form is initially established. Nipping and pinching back will control size and develop the tree's form. Any simple container that fits the "character" of the plant is suitable. However, the classic Japanese bonsai pots seem most appropriate.

The type of potting mix used depends on the type of plant you choose. Use one-half coarse sand, one-fourth leaf mold and one-fourth soil for conifers. For broad-leaved plants, use one-fourth coarse sand, one-fourth leaf mold and one-half soil.

Taylor recommends repotting only when necessary. Do not water a bonsai the day before you plan to repot it. Grasp the trunk firmly and rock it gently until the root ball comes free of the pot. Set the root ball in a bucket of Vitamin B-enriched water to loosen the old soil and to keep the roots moistened and nourished. Poke the old soil away from roots carefully with a pointed stick. Inspect roots carefully and cut away about one-third of the mass.

Place bits of broken pottery in the base of the container. Put in a layer of soil mix, then settle in the bonsai, keeping the base of the trunk at the desired level. Fill the container with mix, settling it firmly around the roots. Water thoroughly but do not fertilize for at least four or five weeks. Finish with moss

Michigan Mirror

Outcry for These 'Murders'?

LANSING—IMAGINE WHAT WOULD HAPPEN if there were a sudden outbreak of murders in Michigan.

For instance, murders started happening at the rate of more than six per day, every day for a whole year. Imagine further that half of these shootings, stabbings, beatings or whatever were perpetrated by people who were drunk. Not just who had had a few drinks, but were blind drunk.

The public outcry would be overwhelming. Legislation to control the sale of guns and other lethal weapons would roll through the legislature in the wake of this record of carnage.

But since that hasn't happened, we don't have to worry, do we? That's just too preposterous to even think about, isn't it?

NO IT ISN'T, because that is what happened on Michigan's streets and highways last year.

By December 31, a total of 2,235 deaths had been caused by motor vehicles. And the final toll is expected to be higher when all accident reports and death certificates are checked. That is more than six deaths every day of the year.

POLICE STATE THAT ALCOHOL is involved in more than half the deaths. They quote figures to that effect from the National Highway Traffic Safety office and agree that Michigan fits the national picture.

Although the problem drinker is most commonly involved in accidents, the social drinker is becoming an increasing problem too.

MOST DRAMATIC INCREASE is among the 18-20 year olds. In 1972 there was a 119 percent increase in alcohol involved accidents over 1971. This while the average for other age groups was up 13 percent. The 1972 "teenage" total was 8,115 accidents, 54 percent of them fatal, over 3,010 the previous year. Last year was the first when young, relatively inexperienced drivers could legally become young, relatively inexperienced drinkers.

The highway deaths and accidents, including the high percentage related to alcohol, cause little public reaction. Unless there is a carload of people killed or some unusual circumstance, a fatal accident is hardly considered news in some places.

WHY THIS LAX APPROACH?

First of all, most everybody drives a car. That means there were millions of drivers who weren't killed in Michigan last year. Everybody figures it won't happen to him. It happens to the other guy.

As far as the drunk driver goes, a great number of drivers have, at one time or another, slipped behind the wheel after having had a few drinks and driven home. If a crackdown was started on drunk drivers, it might catch them sometime and "we certainly wouldn't want that, would we?"

That isn't to say things aren't being done to help people. Safety belts save countless lives every year and they'd save many more if they were used by everybody. Legislation has been introduced in Lansing to make seat belt use mandatory—in other words to require people to protect themselves.

And new cars are being made stronger all the time, with such things as side steel beams now required in them.

BUT EVEN WITH ALL that's being done, Michigan's traffic toll could be a lot lower.

Compare this state's toll with the total people killed in Sweden in 1971. Sweden, whose population of over eight million is about the same as Michigan's, had only 1,200 traffic deaths during the year—almost half of Michigan's last year.

There is one big difference between Michigan and Sweden. The Swedes don't mess around with drunk drivers. In Sweden, if you have been drinking and you are driving you go to jail. Period. No exceptions.

The result is that in Sweden, people don't drink before they drive. A partygoer who says "No, thanks. I'm driving," is left alone. In fact, a carload of people may draw straws to see who drinks non-alcoholic beverages at a party.

They would be aghast at the thought of "one for the road." And that is certainly one of the reasons 1,000 fewer of them died in cars in 1971 than died in Michigan last year.

SOMETIMES GOVERNMENT changes to make things more easy for the taxpayer and when that happens, it ought to be noted.

One example is the change undertaken in the secretary of state's office to set up combination offices which handle driver license examinations as well as handling registrations for motor vehicles, watercraft and snowmobiles.

THE COMBINED OFFICES were started by former Secretary of State James M. Hare and continued by Richard Austin when he took office. Their number has grown from 20 when Austin took office to about 60 now and all are staffed with full-time civil service employees rather than the patronage employees who handle the fee branches.

The result is that a taxpayer need only make one stop to handle registrations for all his vehicles or to renew his drivers license.

JAMES DONNAN

THE NEW MANUFACTURERS Bank Office at 36600 Grand River in Farmington Township opened March 12 and contains, in addition to a full service banking office, the bank's Farmington Division, a Farmington Area Trust Office, and a Mortgage Closing Office.

The bank's Farmington Division is headed by vice president James Donnan, Jr., who is the administrative officer-in-charge of 10 of the 73 banking offices of Manufacturers Bank. "The Farmington Division," states Mr. Donnan, "includes offices in Farmington Township, Redford Township, Northville, Southfield, and Northwest Detroit. It is the division's responsibility to make sure that each office is adequately staffed and operating in a manner that insures the finest banking services."

"The regionalization concept was begun just a few years ago to give an officer the adequate amount of responsibility and authority to carry out complete banking services within a geographic area. It has resulted in added customer convenience, more intimate personalized attention to their loan and deposit needs and faster on-the-spot decisions in their own branch office," Donnan concluded.

A banking veteran, Donnan joined the bank in 1953 as an administrative assistant and became an officer in 1961. Gaining broad experience in the branch system, he was promoted to second vice president in 1968 and to vice president in 1969.

He holds a graduate certificate from the American Institute of Banking and is a graduate of the School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin.

Donnan and his wife, Sarah, have four children, 3 boys and a girl, and reside on Sherrie Lane in Northville.

Thomas L. Sweeney, Sr., second vice president, is the officer-in-charge of the new Manufacturers office.

Located elsewhere in the office is second vice president and trust officer Robert J. Shade who coordinates all trust services in and around Farmington. Frequently speaking at service clubs and other organizations, Mr. Shade specializes in wills, trusts, pension and profit sharing programs.

The bank office also has a Mortgage Closing Office headed by Gerald J. Bodziak, mortgage loan processor.

Hours for the trust and mortgage areas are from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

and rocks on the surface by partially sinking them into the soil.

Water the soil when it begins to dry. Spray the foliage lightly and soak the soil thoroughly. Good drainage is essential. If plants are outdoors, avoid direct sunlight and wind; they tend to make the plants dry out. Outdoor plants may need water more frequently.

"Fertilize sparingly," Taylor says. As new spring growth begins, fertilize every other week until the leaves are fully open. Feed once a month after this. A mild house plant food is fine for bonsai.

Follow the mixing directions being careful not to use a mixture that is too rich.

Wiring and bending branches is best done in the spring, when the wood is supple. Use heavy-weight florist wire. Carefully bend the wired branch in a wide radius to avoid the possibility of breaking it

Herald of Good News

Reverend Father John Wittstock
Our Lady of Victory Church
Northville

St. Paul wrote many letters to the people whom he had converted to Christianity. We call these letters epistles. In one of his first letters he writes to the Christian Community at the great city of Corinth. It was a bustling trading center, had attracted many races. It was a city notorious for its licentiousness. Paul, aware, as he says, that he was "appointed by God to be an apostle," tells the Corinthians that he was sent "to preach the Good News" and to preach it in the language of the Cross.

He wanted to raise the ambitions of the Corinthians above business greed and bodily lust. In this letter Paul may sound like a kill-joy, but he wanted to get across to this earthbound people that there was a whole new world they knew nothing about, that there was a new and greater way of life, that there was something beyond the grave to anticipate and live for. That is why he says "God's foolishness is wiser than human wisdom, and God's weakness is stronger than human strength."

All of our jealousies and feuds, our petty vices, look so ridiculous when we understand the nature of God, says Paul; our cheap little conceit and our childish selfishness disappear when we take on the nature of God, which is the nature of love. Paul, in his effort to make the Corinthians understand God's love, admits that now we are seeing a dim reflection in a mirror; but then we shall be seeing face to face.

The person who saw God face to face, as He Himself tells us, is Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ is the direct revelation of the Father's love. The Good News which Paul speaks of in his epistle is the same Good News that you and I hear Sunday after Sunday as we hear the Word of God in the various Churches of our Christian persuasion.

Six days of each week you and I hear bad news in the press and via television and radio. We are so accustomed to hearing bad news that we are not always prepared to hear the Good News that Jesus reveals to us. He proves the Good News by going to the city of Jerusalem and there dying on the cross for our salvation. His death is an act of love, and proof, since He and the Father are one, of God's love for us.

Jerusalem, the city of man, becomes the city of God, a city symbolic of heaven, the heavenly Jerusalem. Like Paul, let us accept the Good News, accept also the mission from God to give the Good News to others by our Christian way of life, and help each day to build our community, the city of man, into the beautiful and happy city of God.

Babson Report

Real Estate a Good Buy

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—ALTHOUGH real estate investment trusts have been in existence for a long time, it has been only in recent years that they have been aggressively exploited as a conduit for investment funds.

The now popular REITs are generally regarded by investors as good vehicles for both income and profit, and as a source of business for financial institutions which sponsor, advise, and service these trusts.

The Real Estate Investment Trust Act restored tax exemption for qualifying trusts, an advantage which had been denied this group from 1935 to 1960. Thus, a REIT which has at least 75 percent of its assets in real estate, mortgage investments, cash, or government securities, or which derives 75 percent of its gross income from real estate, can qualify for exemption from the federal government's corporate income tax if at least 90 percent of each year's profit is distributed to the holders of the trust's shares of beneficial interest.

One other condition: Only those trusts with at least one hundred shareholders (no five of whom can control more than half the trust's shares) can qualify for tax-exemption, leaving more profits to flow through to shareholders.

It took, nevertheless, the grinding credit crunch of the mid-to-late 1960's to provide the impetus for the proliferation of REITs. At that time, the institutions traditionally financing a sizable portion of construction loans and mortgages were hard pressed for funds.

The REITs moved so profitably into this vacuum that they rapidly gained favor. The building boom of the past three years further augmented the popularity of REITs.

THE VAST INFLATION of realty values and the high yields available to investors holding shares of REITs in recent years are impressive credentials. The attraction is even greater where the organizer and adviser to a REIT is a well-known financial institution.

Investors, however, should be aware of the element of risk involved, even though some of the adverse conditions may be temporary. The rapid increase in the number of trusts superimposed upon existing traditional financial institutions can lead to heavy competition for prime loans and top-grade borrowers—or for the best quality of commercial, industrial, and residential structures. Under such circumstances, some REITs could be forced to enter the twilight zone in the realm of risks to keep their assets working and to maximize their returns.

In addition, those trusts which extend mortgage loans and make loans for construction and development work may also be susceptible to pinched profit margins if they are forced to borrow funds for a portion of their capital. Borrowed capital can be especially costly at times when the building field takes a breathing spell.

THE RESEARCH Department of Babson's Reports warns investors interested in the securities of REITs to apply the same rationale they would in considering other types of investments. An investor, for example, requiring the highest possible income without undue risk may be better off with a top-quality utility or industrial bond.

Those wanting a fair investment income and capital appreciation potential might seek a convertible security in some other field where the element of risk is less. Also, growth-oriented investors can find a number of good-quality growth stocks in several sectors of the stock market which have recently been swatted down to fairly good price levels, including issues of some excellent banks and insurance companies.

Schoolcraft

Reschedules

For Spring

Community Services Director Ron Griffith has announced the rescheduling of 13 classes for April and May—classes which were completely filled during the winter semester and closed at that time due to heavy enrollments.

Registration for the classes will be accepted in the Registrar's Office on the Schoolcraft College campus on March 28-29 from 8 a.m. to 12 noon, and both evenings from 6 until 9. Information is available mornings at 591-6400, extension 225.

The classes being offered with multiple sections indicated include: How to Start Your Own Business; Art Welding; Art Welding; Beginning Photography; Weaving; and Papier Tole (four sections).

The fees for these classes range from $5.50 to $16.50 for persons living in the Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, and Plymouth school districts. Out-of-District students are charged double.

Bike riders, horsemen and others interested in non-motorized transportation facilities will be able to talk with state officials at five public meetings this spring.

An estimated $2 million provided in a transportation bill passed in December, 1972. The State Highway Commission is primarily responsible for assigning and distributing the money.

Two meetings in this area hosted by the commission and the Department of Natural Resources will be held on March 27 at the State Law Building in Lansing and April 3 at Ann Arbor Pioneer High School auditorium beginning at 8 p.m.

Let's all get out to these meetings with good suggestions on how and where to help horsemen obtain more state recreation land for riding.
