

Northville Lutherans Aboard Ship Seized in Mideast

If all goes well Northville's Lutheran pastor, his wife and seven parishioners will return home safe but carrying a harrowing adventure from the doorstep of the Mideast War.

But just when Pastor and Mrs. Charles Boerger, 220 Elm, and the other members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will be returning was unknown Tuesday.

"I would guess," said St. Paul's assistant pastor, the Reverend Ralph Schmidt, "that they (tour officials) will attempt to give them some kind of substitute trip before they return home."

The local area residents were with some 100 Michigan Lutherans aboard a Greek cruise liner that was detained for 60 hours by a Syrian gunboat.

They were enroute from Haifa to Cyprus when their cruise ship, the Romantica, was intercepted early Saturday morning and taken to the port of Tartus.

Syria and Egypt declared its territorial waters a war zone Saturday after fighting broke out with Israel.

According to Syrian sources, the ship and its crew were detained for entering forbidden waters. It was released when it was established the ship had done so by mistake.

The 4,000-ton ship, formerly the private yacht of the late King Saud of Saudi Arabia, arrived back in Cyprus Monday. Although some reports from passengers were piped back to the United States, relatives and friends of the Northville-area Lutherans had not yet been contacted Tuesday, Pastor Schmidt reported. Not even the office of the Reverend Richard Schlecht, President of the Michigan District, had received word.

"We're waiting to hear, too," Pastor Schlecht's secretary told The Record.

Others from this area aboard the ship were: Wilfred Sterner, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy VanAtta, Miss Hanna Strasen, Mrs. Dorothy Busch, Mrs. Hilda Radke, Mrs. Marion LeFevre (Northville's deputy treasurer), Dorothy Wolf, Mrs. Ray Schnitzmeyer, and Mrs. Eleanor Arnison. All but the latter three are members of St. Paul's.

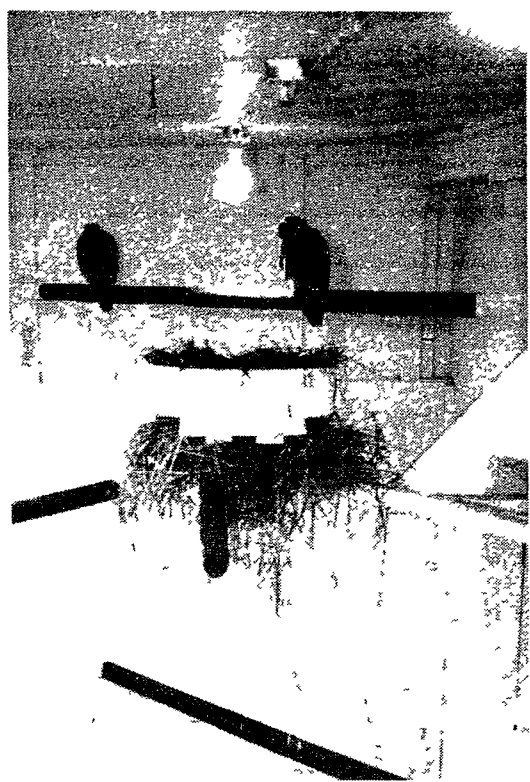

The group, which hoped to tour Biblical sites in the Middle East, left September 29, flying from Detroit to Athens where they boarded the cruise ship. They originally were scheduled to arrive back in Detroit tomorrow.

One of the passengers aboard the ship, identified by news sources as Vivian Sheeh of London, said, "It was about two hours after midnight when the ship (gunboat) approached us.

"It looked like a hydrofoil at first but it was actually a gunboat and it started firing at us. Then the Syrians came on board with machine guns and we had to go to Tartus."

Ida Schwenn of Peoria, Illinois was quoted as saying, "We were treated kindly but are still glad the whole thing is over and we got away from there."

Backs Public Safety Plan

Township Eyes Millage Election

Total consolidation of police and fire services into a 20-member public safety department was accepted in concept by a 4-1 vote of the Northville Township Board Tuesday night.

Supporting the concept were Supervisor Lawrence Wright, Clerk Sally Cayley, Trustees John MacDonald and Richard Mitchell. Casting the dissenting vote was Treasurer Joseph Straub.

Absent from Tuesday's meeting were Trustees Leonard Klein and Charles Schaeffer.

The public safety concept was recommended to the township board last week by the fire study committee. See story elsewhere on this page.

A decision on how much millage will be needed and when the proposal will go to the voters will be made by board members in November.

MacDonald, who supported Clerk Cayley's motion to accept the public safety concept, said he "in no way do I intend that to mean we are separating ourselves from the city."

Currently the city provides fire protection for the township on a contractual basis.

However, Straub maintained that cost figures used by the committee showed they intended to drop the city fire service.

"The fire study committee deducted $24,000 (contractual fire cost) from the cost figures and that should be added to the $301,000 cost if you're not divorcing yourselves from the city," the treasurer stated.

Mark Lysinger, a member of the committee, told Straub the costs were "not being deducted. You're misinterpreting the figures."

Straub also maintained that "nothing has been discussed as far as the city is concerned. I fail to see how we can start a public safety department and have a chief here and expect the chief there (city) to fight our fires.

"Will they continue to fight our fires or not?" Straub questioned.

"If we put 20 men on here who have no experience in fighting fires, we are not gaining anything," he concluded.

Clerk Cayley stated the township is "not cutting anything from the city."

Straub suggested the township should "consolidate with the city now. They have the nucleus of the public safety department and a 17-member police force."

MacDonald and Wright both said their support of the concept was not intended as separation from the city fire services.

MacDonald, supported by Straub, moved to direct the fire study committee to

- discuss the public safety concept and cooperate with the City of Northville to see if the concept is a workable vehicle;

- recommend to the board what propositions should be included on a ballot—amount of operational millage and-or millage for buildings; and
- contact the building authority and discuss building needs with them.

The committee is to report back to the board in November.

Trustee Mitchell, chairman of the fire study committee, urged the board to set a date for the millage election at the November meeting.

"We should make a decision in November on the amount of millage to be placed on the ballot," Mitchell said. "If we are to sell the concept to the people, we must know what it will cost."

He said he favored an election in late January or early February.

MacDonald, however, said the "rush for the election is not there. We will not get the money any sooner" since tax rates must be submitted to the county by September in order to be placed on the following December's tax bills.

He said he favored an election "sometime during the month of March."

In other action Tuesday, trustees voted to amend the township zoning map to conform with a consent judgment on the installation of a mobile home park at the southwest corner of Six Mile and Ridge Road.

Although trustees voted 5-0 to make the amendment, the motion, made by Clerk Cayley, had to be supported by Supervisor Wright who said he momentarily would "step down as supervisor in order to second the motion."

NEW CITY MANAGER—Steven L. Walters officially assumed the role of Northville city manager Monday, taking over the job held temporarily by A. Russell Clarke. Clarke was named the interim manager following

Hobart Challenges Full Pay

Teacher Contract OK'd

Two-year master contract with the Northville Education Association (NEA) was ratified by a 4-1 vote of school board members Monday night.

Casting the dissenting vote was Trustee John Hobart who said he objected to teachers not losing any wages for their 14-day strike. Absent from Monday's meeting were Board President Stanley Johnston and Trustee Andrew Orphan.

Last week, NEA members ratified the agreement by a 4-1 margin. NEA President Mrs. Priscilla Smith explained that teachers who voted against the contract were those on steps one to three of the BA salary schedule and steps one and two of the MA salary schedule for the 1974-75 school year.

"Their salaries are set and they will not receive any cost of living increase," she said. "We can't tell them they're getting a good deal because they aren't," she said.

Although Hobart said he was "in agreement, in principle, with all of the conditions of the new contract," he said he disagreed with "the concept of strikes without risk of a penalty. and therefore cannot accept the settlement."

He said that as a result of the strike, "parents and students may now have to change or cancel vacations, students' summer jobs next year may be affected, and the Extended School Year calendar must undergo changes on all tracts."

20 Member Force Favored

A 20-member public safety department to provide both police and fire protection for Northville township was the recommendation made last Thursday night to the township board by its fire study committee.

Headed up by Trustee Richard Mitchell the five-member committee solidly supported the public safety concept "as the best road for the township to follow." Specifically, the committee's written report calls for a public safety department consisting of a public safety chief (or director), one lieutenant (or fire marshal), three sergeants, 12 officers and three communication clerks.

It envisions five patrol cars equipped for emergency service thereby enabling all officers to double as police and firefighters.

Total cost of the department was estimated at $301,000, or an increase of $200,000 annually over present township police-fire expenditures.

The report did not include what capital expenditures might be required to provide station facilities, or additional

Christmas Show Highlights Garden Club's Plans

By JEAN DAY

A CHRISTMAS flower show, which may be the first special event in the not-yet-open Northville Square December 5 and 6, held top interest at the meeting of the Northville branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, Monday at the home of Mrs. K. H. Babbitt.

A lecture-demonstration on flower show arranging was presented by Mrs. Lee Carter, a charter member of the Wing Lake Shores branch, Birmingham. An expert on horticulture, Mrs. Carter is a member of the WNFGA judges' association and is a member of the Detroit Ikebana chapter.

A schedule for the Christmas show will be announced and will contain judged, invitational and youth categories. Mrs. Arthur Palarchio is show chairman with Mrs. Roger Pyett, co-chairman.

Social chairman for Monday's meeting was Mrs. George Kohs assisted by Mrs. William Farrington, Mrs. Kenneth Pickl, Mrs. John Starcevic and Mrs. C. James Martin.

Mrs. Babbitt's granddaughter, Cheryl Babbitt Gazlay (Mrs. J. Christopher Gazlay), of 117 East Baseline, with her baby daughter Cristen Elizabeth left September 27 for Germany to spend Cristen's first birthday with Cheryl's parents, Colonel and Mrs. Louie A. Babbitt at Sembach Air Force Base in Sembach, Germany.

Colonel Babbitt had returned to Sembach where he is deputy base commander from temporary duty in Turkey. He arrived there October 6, Cristen's birthday (Cristen's father, Chris Gazlay, was not able to accompany the travelers because of new duties as a partner in a Clarkston excavating company.)

Cheryl Gazlay had previously spent four years living in Germany with her family when her father was stationed at Bitburg from 1956-60. Since then he has been in Viet Nam and Bangkok, Thailand. The Babbitts and son Jack, 15, last were in the United States in June, 1972, when they stayed with Colonel Babbitt's mother on Rogers street.

UF DOORBELL volunteers may start ringing bells and knocking at doors tomorrow, Mrs. Robert Yanover, chairman for Northville City and Township, reports. While the annual door-to-door United Foundation campaign for the Metropolitan Detroit area officially is to open next Tuesday, earlier starting time has been okayed as many mother volunteer workers find it easier to collect contributions on the weekend.

Mrs. Yanover hopes to have her collection in by October 17. She has invited her 22 neighborhood chairmen and their husbands to a "thank you" coffee at 8:30 p.m. at her Eight Mile home.

An estimated 200 volunteers will be seeking area donations in the drive which, this year, has the slogan, "Whether you give at home or work, your gift tells us you care." This year, Mrs. Yanover adds, she does not have workers in the apartment and condominium complexes. Mrs. C. J. Herbstreit is the chairman for the King's Mill cooperatives and also has workers supplied with door-to-door kits.

NORTHVILLE TOWN Hall begins its 13th season at 11 a.m. today with a sellout audience of 850 expected to hear humorist Erma Bombeck at the new Thunderbird Hilton grand ballroom on Northville road. In moving from Northville High School auditorium (with capacity of about 500) to the large new Hilton, TH committee planners had hoped to increase attendance—but had hardly dared expect a sellout.

The news was confirmed as telephone calls continued this week as everyone, it seems, wants to hear "the family humorist with the pretty face." Mrs. William Miron, new TH chairman, and her committee received the good news officially at a meeting at the Miron home Tuesday morning. TH has to rate tops as Northville's "growth" organization as it earlier had moved from the P and A Theatre when it reached capacity there.

Mrs. Donald DeComo, ticket chairman, says that no individual lecture tickets have been sold this season. More than 400 lecture-goers are expected to stay for the celebrity luncheon following.

OPERA LOVERS—38 members and guests of the Northville Overture to Opera Committee—met for dinner last Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Shave on West Main Street and then boarded a charter bus to attend the opening night performance of "Rigoletto," which began the current season in Detroit.

Those attending brought favorite Italian dishes for the potluck dinner. Guests admired the completely redecorated home of the Shaves, including an oriental rug on the brick kitchen floor. The Shaves moved to Mrs. Shave's childhood home from Fairway Drive in June.

The committee, Reva Shave reports, is going to try to repeat the get together for the performance of "Madame BUSINESS AND Professional Women's Clubs of District Nine met at the Drawbridge Restaurant last Sunday morning and Northville's club received the "Nike" award for having the best attendance at the past three meetings. "Career Opportunities for Women" was the topic of the talk by Dr. Harold E. Sponberg, president of Eastern Michigan University.

A bit of nostalgia was brought to the group's attention by Mrs. Bea Carlson who pointed out that the "Great Hall," the present name of the restaurant meeting room, was the site of the first dinner meeting and installation of officers of the Northville Business and Professional Women on March 29, 1948. She read minutes of that first meeting from 25 years ago.

Mrs. Mabel Cooley, another charter member of the Northville BPW, also was present.

WANT ADS were 50 cents when I took them for The Record," recalled Eleanor Breitmeyer, now society editor of The Detroit News, as she spoke at the luncheon at Meadowbrook Country Club opening the club's 81st year last Friday. Miss Breitmeyer, who was a Record editor when she left to join the News in the early 1950's, went on to tell the 200 club members and guests about the lavish Ford weddings she has covered.

At the wedding of Martha Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Clay Ford, at St. Paul's-on-the-Lake, she recounted, 96 wicker baskets of flowers decorated the church. Interspersed with the summer flowers were little green apples, the inspiration of an Illinois florist chosen by the Fords to do the decorating.

At the second marriage of Henry Ford's daughter, Charlotte, in New York, Miss Breitmeyer continued, flowers also were distinctive. The bride wore a crown of lilies-of-the-valley and the tiny flowers—thousands of them—were used to decorate her sister's apartment where the wedding was held. Miss Breitmeyer adds that a check of the New York florist supplier showed they were $8 a dozen!

Discussions Focus on Women

Women will have an opportunity to discuss, share and learn about the growth and development of females and the world of occupations in two discussion group series scheduled by Schoolcraft College.

The Women's Continuum is sponsoring two, six-week discussion groups starting in mid-October entitled: "Growing Up Female" and "Let's Take Another Look at Occupations." Ms. Nancy Dufour will lead both discussion groups, assisted by Ms. Lynn Bankes for "Growing Up Female."

The series, "Growing Up Female," will be held from 1-3 on Monday afternoons beginning October 15 in Room B240 in the Liberal Arts Building on campus. It will continue through November 19, and the number of participants will be limited to 25. Ms. Dufour said this series will give women an opportunity to share their feelings and awareness of the unique process of "growing up female" in America. Topics may include marriage and the family, education, religion, laws, biological and psychological sex differences, the job market, health care services for women, women in other cultures, developing a separate identity and changes in lifestyles by the year 2000.

Actual discussion topics will be set and researched by the entire group. Guest speakers and films will be arranged when appropriate to the topics.

The second discussion series, "Let's Take Another Look at Occupations," will be held on Tuesday mornings from 9:30 - 11:30 beginning October 16 through November 20. It is being held in Room 102 of the College's new Instructional Center located at 29205 Florence Street in Garden City.

This series will give women an opportunity to take a closer look at thirty or more occupations with emphasis on the following points: the tasks involved in doing the work, the kind of skills and abilities necessary to go into the field, the training required, the outlook for women in the area, earnings and working conditions. Some occupations covered will be in the health fields, human relations fields, business, the social service fields, science and technical areas.

Participants will meet in a group of 20 to discuss the above factors, their own experiences in the work world and their knowledge of the work experiences of others. They may be asked to interview someone employed in a specific occupational field and share their findings with the group. Occupational materials will be available for review. Additional activities may be arranged.

Persons wishing to register for either group should call the Women's Continuum Program at 591-6400, extension 217. There will be no charge for these sessions.

OLD WALLED LAKE DOCK—Once an important part of Novi's renowned Walled Lake Amusement Park, the old dock on Walled Lake is dilapidated and deteriorating rapidly. The docking was removed in 1969 at the order of the Novi Fire Chief, and now residents from northern Novi are pushing to have the pilings removed also. Claiming that the pilings constitute a navigational hazard to boaters and are a potentially dangerous "attractive nuisance" to children, the residents have succeeded in initiating action to have the pilings removed.

Citizens Fight For Removal Of Old Dock

There was a time when Novi was known throughout the state as a major tourist attraction.

People would catch the trolley from Detroit to come out to the Walled Lake Amusement Park where they could ride the giant roller coaster and take the "30 minutes for 50 cents" speed boat rides from the Walled Lake Pier.

And when the sun went down, they could walk across the street to the Casino where they could hear the "big band" sounds of Harry James and the Dorsey Brothers.

But now that chapter in the city's history has passed.

The Casino was completely destroyed in a fire and the giant roller coaster which once roared through the night was condemned as unsafe and torn down.

Now only the unsightly skeletons of those days in which Novi was the "hot spot" of southeastern Michigan remain and if the members of the Northern Novi Civic Association have their way, the city will take action to clean away the rest of the remains.

"We're definitely not trying to wipe out the memory of the Amusement Park," stated Mrs. Martha Hoyer, president of the Civic Association. "In fact, we're kind of proud of the history up here."

"But those days are over now and as far as we're concerned what has been left behind is an eyesore that detracts from the appearance of our neighborhood."

"Being located right there at the corner of Novi Road and East Lake Drive, it just sets a bad tone for the rest of the Novi residents when they drive into our end of the city," she continued.

The old Amusement Park is now owned by Gabriel Glantz and utilized as a "Flea Market" on the weekends. And while the northern Novi residents feel the "Flea Market" is not a desirable neighbor, their immediate efforts are being expended on having the piling from the former Walled Lake Pier removed.

At the Novi city council meeting Tuesday, City Attorney David Fried reported some action on their requests for assistance in having the pilings removed.

Specifically, Fried told the residents that he has sent a letter to Glantz, who also owns the pier, notifying him that he had ten days (from October 3) in which to remove the pilings.

If he does not comply within ten days, Fried said, the matter will be turned over to the Oakland County Sheriff's Office and the Department of Natural Resources (DRN) for their action.

All that is left of the Pier is the pilings. According to information collected by the Civic Association, the Novi Fire Chief inspected the dock in 1969, determined that it constituted a fire hazard, and ordered that the docking be removed as soon as possible.

Glantz complied with the order by removing the boards from the dock but leaving the pilings.

The concern of the northern Novi residents is not only that the pilings are unsightly, but that they also constitute a navigational hazard to boaters.

Up until recently, however, their efforts to have the pilings removed have met with frustration.

According to Mrs. Carol

Kernan, secretary of the Association, she was informed by Novi Building Department Head Earl Bailey in August that the pilings had to be removed, but that the city had no jurisdiction to force Glantz to remove them since they were located in the lake itself.

At Bailey's suggestion, the Association contacted the Department of Natural Resources which does have jurisdiction over matters involving bodies of water.

However, Mrs. Kernan reported, the DNR has been slow in answering her requests for action, purportedly due to uncertainty about the extent of its jurisdiction.

Action on the matter was finally initiated, according to the northern Novi residents,

Wixom Studies Cycle Law

Ordinance Stirs Debate

Whether or not motorcycles are raising a lot of unnecessary dust and noise in Wixom is subject to debate.

But there's no debating the fact that a proposed ordinance regulating cycles and other motor-driven recreation vehicles has kicked up a cloud of controversy that could influence next month's election.

And apparently it's split the community down the middle—if what happened at last Thursday's public hearing is a good sampling of public opinion.

With an overflow crowd of citizens spilling over from the council chambers into the city hall lobby, council members heard some persuasive arguments from both sides and probably came away still wondering who should get their votes.

In the subsequent council meeting this past Tuesday, the controversial ordinance was put on the back burner to await decision at a later time.

Only one regularly scheduled council meeting remains before the November election.

Although Police Chief George VonBehren attempted to steer a middle course through the controversy, he nevertheless reiterated his previous position that "something must be done" to control the "growing problem" caused by motorcycles, motor driven cycles, minibikes, special purpose motor vehicles or go-karts. He suggested a "compromise" ordinance may be in order.

When pressed by a citizen, VonBehren agreed that "probably" the majority of nuisance drivers are non-Wixom residents. (Council members noted that earlier in the day, 16 cycles were unloaded from a truck van north of Loon Lake Road.)

The chief urged council to either give him a law to permit effective control of violators or "tell me how to reply to these people who complain" about the nuisances—primarily dust and noise. Presently, he said, when complaints come in about nuisances occurring on private property he has but one reply: "It's out of my hands."

Nevertheless, at least one citizen contended existing laws, i.e., disturbance of peace, provide the police department with a means of controlling violators.

Most citizens appeared to agree that the biggest problem is occurring in the northern part of the city—and in fact, according to some officials, it is concentrated just across the city boundary in neighboring Commerce Township.

Councilman Robert Dingledey, who noted that cycles zip back and forth across the city's northern boundary, suggested efforts be made to get Commerce Township "to lean on them (violators) also."

Others, including Councilman Fred Morehead, suggested that a controlling law in Wixom would be of little value if similar controls are not enforced in Commerce.

Some citizens who vigorously attacked the proposed ordinance as being "prohibitive, not restrictive" indicated they might be willing to accept a law that is less demanding. But they made it plain that in their

Birch Park Drainage

Wixom Resolves Suit

A controversy over installation of a storm drain at the community beach at Loon Lake as part of a road improvement program in Birch Park Subdivision, taken to Oakland County Circuit Court by citizens in December, 1969, appeared solved Tuesday night as Wixom City Council approved consent order provisions.

City Attorney Gene Schnelz pointed out that the city must complete the road improvement program in the subdivision before any other city paving can be done, under terms of the consent order.

The order provides that Nightingale Drain be removed or relocated below surface level of the beach and that the Flamingo Drain and any proposed drain be located three feet below surface for 50 feet. All catch basins that are part of drains are to be capped (filled). Drain work is to be completed before road surfacing.

Attorney Schnelz added that the city has six months to complete the items. No timetable for the work has been set yet.

Schnelz and Mayor Gilbert C. Willis recommended council approval. Willis pointed out, however, that the state Department of Natural Resources could overturn the motion under state Public Act 347.

The injunction was filed against the City of Wixom in 1969 as a group of citizens claimed that a storm drain (incorporated as part of the paving project) would contribute hazardous amounts of pollutant to Loon Lake. The order stopped construction of a $128,000 road improvement program in Birch Park Subdivision, evoked strong citizen feeling and involved state officials, including Senator George Kuhn, and county health officials.

During Tuesday night's meeting, council continued its discussion on feasibility of creating a study group of citizen and official representatives to aid the planning commission in its revision of the city's master plan but tabled any action. Attorney Schnelz suggested that instead of establishing a task force or study group the commission hold public meetings to get citizen input.

Councilman Val Vangieson expressed the fear that the council might be creating a "super committee," saying that this was not its intention.

The council also tabled until the next meeting October 23 any action to establish a consulting firm to work with the planning commission. Further delay aroused criticism of planning commission member James Lahde, a member of the audience, who said that lack of professional help has slowed commission action.

Engineer Larry Pate recommended that city road resurfacing projects be delayed until late winter or spring as he felt costs presently are "extremely high" and might be adjusted later. He also presented a general report to council on a water run-off master storm plan.

A letter from Northridge

Estates Association and petitions were referred to the planning commission. The commission is to report back within 60 days. John Victory of the association in seeking that the petition be included in the master plan expressed the hope that there could be citizen involvement in the commission's work.

Council approved the request of William Travis, assistant to the mayor, to seek bids for revision of the city map. It also okayed the request of Police Chief George Von Behren to block off Hopkins drive for Halloween night.

Novi Mayor Joseph Crupi criticized The Novi News Tuesday for reporting the comments of a citizen who publicly accused him of going bowling instead of attending a public hearing on a rezoning issue.

"I have made no secret of the fact that Wednesday is my bowling night," said the Mayor. "At least I'm man enough to admit that I wasn't there for that reason.

"I realize that some mention of my bowling was made at the public hearing, but it was not necessary to carry the comments in the newspaper from a political standpoint."

Crupi's use of the term "political standpoint" was a reference to the fact that he is a candidate for reelection in November's city election.

Crupi's comments were made in response to a story in the October 4 edition of The Novi News in which the details of the public hearing on the rezoning request were reported.

Specifically, the Mayor was upset because The Novi News reported the comments of a

Mrs. Isabelle Collins about the fact that the Mayor was not present because Wednesday was his bowling night.

Crupi's criticism of the report was made at the Tuesday night city council meeting.

"Any blind man could see what the outcome of the public hearing was going to be," he said. "I determined that my presence was not required."

Crupi went on to say that he had taken many hours of his own personal time to work on other matters for the city.

The Mayor was supported in his criticism by Councilman Denis Berry. "I think the people in Novi realize the many hours of time you have put in for this city over the years," said Berry.

was tapped to fill vacancies when board members resigned.

Durling, a resident of Echo Valley and an executive with the Ford Motor Company, was appointed to the board in January, 1971 to fill the vacated seat of Russell Taylor. He ran for election the following June and was defeated.

In May of this year, Durling was again appointed to the board—this time to fill the seat vacated by William Ziegler. Upon accepting the post, Durling said he would not be a candidate for election to the post the following month unless there was a lack of candidates. A field of candidates developed so he chose not to run.

Moak won his seat in June of 1972, running second behind DeWaard. He beat out James Assemany and Mrs. Sharon Pelchat, who serves now after winning election this past June.

Thirty-nine year old Moak has been a resident of Village Oaks subdivision.

Bill Moak Resigns School Post

William A. Moak has resigned as trustee of the Novi Board of Education.

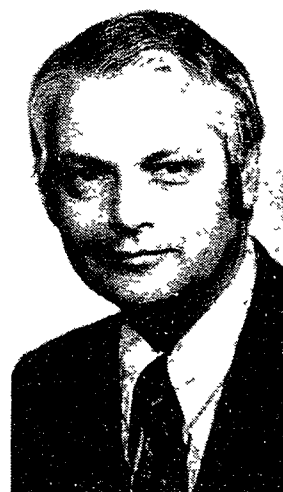

The letter of resignation was accepted Tuesday night "with regret" by Board President LaVerne DeWaard, who immediately declared the seat vacant thus paving the way for appointment of a replacement.

Under the law, the board has 20 days in which to appoint a replacement.

The new appointee is expected to be named at the next board meeting, and some board of education observers are predicting the new member will be former trustee Jake Durling.

Moak, who was elected in 1972 to a four-year term, explained in his letter to fellow board members that he has accepted employment in another city and will be leaving the state. He was not present at Tuesday's meeting, nor was he present when the board last met in September. He reportedly is moving to Florida.

Although the board gave no hint as to whom they may name as a replacement, Durling appears to be a good bet because twice before he

MR. AND MRS. FLANDER HAMLIN

Couples Mark Anniversaries

50th...

25th...

A family dinner and a reception at the First Church of the Nazarene in Plymouth marked the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Flander Hamlin, 8577 Currie Road, Northville.

About 200 friends greeted the couple at the Sunday reception; they are active members of the church. At Mother's Day Mrs. Hamlin was honored by being voted Mother of the Year at the church.

The Hamlins, who were married October 6, 1923, in Sullivan, Indiana, have been Detroit area residents for 25 years. He is retired from Ford Motor Company where he had 25 years' service.

They have lived in the Northville area for more than a decade and are still busy gardeners. They also spend their time playing such games as checkers while enjoying popcorn.

The family dinner Saturday evening at the Sussex House in Southfield included their four children, Paul of Birmingham, Dean and Merle of Plymouth and Mrs. George (Avis) Cronk of Livonia, and their spouses. The couple's 12 grandchildren and their spouses also attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Biddle of 47000 Nine Mile Road celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with a dinner dance for 150 friends and relatives Sunday at the Stitt American Legion hall in Dearborn Heights.

A highlight of the celebration was a Hawaiian wedding song dance performed by Mrs. Biddle's niece, Susan Rosol, in the couple's honor. Each received orchid leis flown in from the islands.

The Biddles were married September 24, 1948, in the old Lutheran church in Northville. Mrs. Biddle was Mrs. Dorothy Dietz. Their attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Roy VanBuren, also were present at the anniversary party.

Their children, Verna Biddle, with Robert Phillips of Berkley, and Larry Biddle, accompanied by Miss Kathy Schaefer of Grand Rapids, attended. Mrs. Biddle's sons, Richard and Bill Dietz, the latter accompanied by his wife, also were present.

Other out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sayles and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Smith, all of Boyne City.

Questers Launch New Year

Four area chapters of the Questers antiques-study organization will be represented at the statewide fall council meeting to be held at Dearborn Inn October 24. Dearborn-Downriver chapters will be hostesses for the meeting which will feature a luncheon talk by Tom Eurich, well-known Dearborn clock collector.

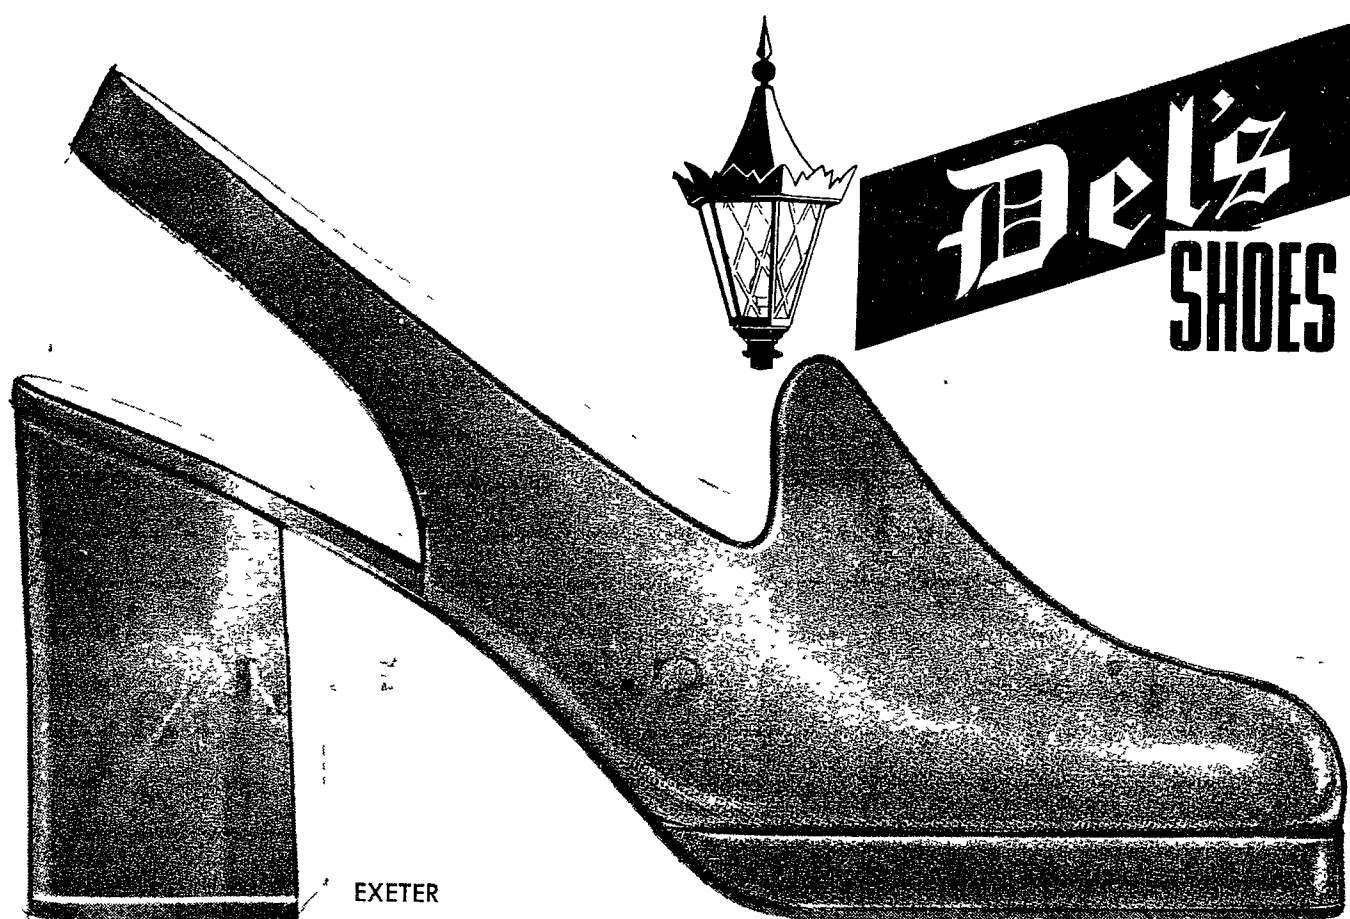

Local chapters, all affiliates of the National Antique Study and Historic Preservation Society, are resuming fall activities. Wednesday, October 10, Silver Springs Questers were taking a tour of antique shops in the Howell, Brighton and Marshallville areas.

Mrs. James Armstrong was hostess to the group September 19 for a business session, which was followed by a trip to the Livonia home of Mrs. Donald Ryder who displayed and described her 20-year old collection of nearly 100 different types of dolls, which included some wax dolls dating to 1854.

Mead's Mill Questers held their first meeting of the new season in September at the home of Mrs. John Stuart. The evening program on English porcelain and pottery was presented by Vice-President Judy Wisner. She accompanied her talk with color slides.

This is the area's evening group of Questers. Secretary Charlene Kull reports that the chapter's fall membership drive now is in progress with anyone "who loves antiques and enjoys learning about them" invited to call her at 349-9373. This year's programs include old bottles, Christmas creches, stained fire-fighting equipment if needed. The latter consideration is somewhat dependent on the future status of city-township cooperation in firefighting. Presently, the township owns one and one-half major pieces of fire equipment with the city.

In the main township board members attending the special session (only Trustee Charles Schaeffer was absent) expressed support of the public safety concept.

Improved fire protection for the rapidly-growing southeastern portion of the township has been a board concern since the fire study committee was appointed nearly two years ago. Study activity was sidetracked by last spring's annexation election, but the report makes particular note that in the committee's opinion "the public safety concept is viable...and offers the most service per dollar regardless of a possible change in form of government."

Working with Trustee Mitchell on the fire study were Frank Hatch, Leon Paler, Fred Philippeau and Mark Lysinger, who presented the recommendations to the board Thursday night.

In recent weeks the committee has retained the services of Paul McGee, public safety director for the city of Oak Park. McGee attended Thursday night's meeting and outlined some of the advantages of a combined police-fire department. He emphasized that all members of the public safety department are both policemen and firefighters and noted that "about one-third of all fire calls are handled by patrol cars," which are normally first on the scene.

He noted that in the case of larger fires, where more than patrol-car response is required, the patrol car officers can provide valuable instructions to firefighters enroute to the scene.

McGee admitted that the five-man platoon (20 man staff to provide five on duty at all times) was a minimum requirement. He said a seven-man platoon, which would add about $26,500 to the annual cost, should be adopted as soon as possible.

He also emphasized the importance of the availability of water for good fire protection. And although he noted that public safety officers are normally higher paid than either firemen or policemen, he estimated that savings of up to 25 percent would be realized under a public safety program.

Trustee Mitchell estimated that the public safety department would cost township taxpayers an additional three mills (the current tax rate is one mill).

Township Eyes

Millage Vote

Clerk Cayley told board members they had "sat here and agreed to this (judgment) as a board and planning commission."

Mitchell questioned, "We agreed to this?"

Trustees also accepted, with regret, a letter of resignation from the water and sewer commission from Ralph Raymond.

Raymond said personal commitments were responsible for the resignation.

Appointed to fill his position was Charles DeLand of Rayburn Drive.

One mill in Northville township raises approximately $61,000. The annual increased cost for the department has been set at $200,000, not counting yet undetermined capital expenditures. But the township has set aside some $175,000 for capital improvements that presumably would be available for fire equipment or station facilities.

In presenting the report Lysinger noted that the committee made no attempt to consider physical facilities (new fire station) because that decision "belongs to the board". He noted that the committee was aware Supervisor Lawrence Wright has been negotiating with the county for fire station facilities at the soon-to-be-vacated Child Development Center on Sheldon Road.

Treasurer Joseph Straub criticized the report for not including all possible costs, including equipment and buildings. He concluded that the board could not go to the public for less millage than would be needed.

But it was noted that these expenses remain difficult to estimate. Trustee Mitchell pointed out that the township's building authority "has the obligation to proceed on buildings". Plans were drawn nearly two years ago to construct a township hall-fire station complex at a cost then estimated at $500,000. Under the building authority act such a facility could be constructed and millage levied to pay off bonds.

Trustee John MacDonald said he approved of the public safety concept and congratulated the committee on its report. But he noted that "it now becomes the responsibility of the board to go to the public with a responsible package." He urged holding a millage election in the spring, when he said most "experts" seem to think passage has a better chance.

But Trustee Mitchell said "we shouldn't spin our wheels any longer" and urged the board to consider going to the public as soon as possible (perhaps December) to obtain voter reaction.

It was noted that tax monies could not be available until after December, 1974, regardless of when voter approval was received. But proponents of an early election noted that planning could begin earlier if approval were given.

Trustee Klein said that one of the first steps was to check with the city for reaction.

But Supervisor Wright noted this week that several decisions remain to be made and with the city in the middle of changing managers there's little likelihood of an early response from the city.

Wright also noted that even if the city agrees to continue to cooperate with the township on fire coverage, the new public safety concept envisions a whole new fulltime department for the township, which demands space for operation.

Police Chief Ron Nisun said it "would be possible, but very difficult" to operate a public safety department from the township's present facilities.

Supervisor Wright favors leasing the existing fire station and another building for offices on the grounds of the Wayne County Child Development Center. He points out that the Center even has a nearly new fire engine which could be purchased by the township.

But he admits that efforts to meet with county officials and receive answers to his requests have not met with much success.

Lysinger concluded Thursday night's presentation by stating that "someday these kinds of costs will prevail, so a good, accurate educational campaign is necessary before voting on the issue."

Pre-School

Nursery Set

Pre-schoolers will have the opportunity of beginning their education at Northville High School in a play school currently being planned by students.

The Child Development class at Northville High is offering the free play school to 18 children between the ages of three and five.

To be eligible, children must not be attending any other nursery school or kindergarten. The play group will be held Tuesday or Thursday mornings from 9 to 10:45 at the high school and will begin as soon as 18 children are enrolled.

Those interested are asked to contact the high school office at 349-2090 and leave their name and telephone number.

opinion the law presently envisioned destroys as many rights as it protects.

On the other hand, citizens endorsing the proposal emphasize that the recurring nuisances have left them with little choice but to seek a stiff law.

Major arguments of those favoring the ordinance included:

- Unless an ordinance is enacted Wixom will become the gathering place for violators driven out of other communities.

- So long as violators insist on ignoring the civil rights of others, then their own (violators') rights must necessarily be limited.

- Too many insist on removing mufflers from their bikes.

- The noise adversely affects wildlife.

- Even if cycles are muffled, they soon become a nuisance if they are driven back and forth on or near the property of others.

- It is a privilege, not a right, to ride motorcycles and other vehicles.

- Much of the problem could be eliminated if parents exercised more control over their children... but some parents either don't care or they are not willing to accept the idea that their youngsters could be disturbing others (napping children, senior citizens, sick).

- "You can't send a plumber (police) with no tools (law)."

Major arguments of citizens opposing the proposed ordinance included:

- The majority of violators are from outside Wixom, so the law to control them will necessarily harm innocent bikers living in Wixom.

- Enactment of a law in Commerce would be more effective than a law in Wixom.

- Noise created by minibikes is no greater than that caused by a lawn mower; they both use the same kind of engine.

- It's far more preferable to swallow a little field dust than to force bikers onto streets and endanger motorists.

- The law discriminates against youngsters; eliminate this recreational activity and youngsters may turn to far more dangerous pursuits.

- Gravel trucks rumble past residential homes but no one seems to care about curbing this kind of noise that is as great or greater than that caused by cycles.

- The real culprits are those city officials who, by default, have failed to provide adequate recreational activities for the community's children; adults and league participants using ballfields, hockey rink, etc. make these facilities virtually inaccessible to most youngsters.

- Cycle noise is no more harmful to wildlife than is the hunter to wildlife.

- Injuries to riders of motorcycles and minibikes operated in fields is very minimal.

Base Line Questers brought magnifying glasses with them to their September meeting opening the new year at the home of Mrs. George Miller. After a business session they went to the Plymouth home of C.R. Hill to study antique silver.

They inspected hallmarks and studied design. Coin silver, they were told, often is so marked because it is 90 percent silver with sterling required to be 92.5 percent silver. Thus, early silver may be marked 925 instead of sterling.

Mrs. John Burkman will be hostess to the Base Line group for the October meeting at 1 p.m. October 22 when Mrs. James Needham will speak on "The Joy of Collecting."

In Week's Proclamation

The week of October 12 - 19 is being proclaimed as Patriotic Education Week in Michigan due to the efforts of a Northville High School sophomore, Jacki Merwin.

As state president of the Children of the American Revolution, she had written to Governor William G. Milliken to ask that the week be proclaimed statewide, as it had been in the past. Therefore, for the first time in five years it is.

This week Jacki received the first copy of the Patriotic Education Week proclamation in which Governor Milliken had used her suggested wording. It points out that Children of the American Revolution have promoted the knowledge of American History, celebrating patriotic anniversaries and stressing positive productive patriotism by their government.

The proclamation states that citizenship is not a birthright, but a responsibility. The governor urges all citizens to join the young people in this effort.

Two 'Springs' in a Single Year?

MSU Junior Uses Artificial Light To Encourage Hawks to Mate

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

Like an expectant father, Brad Smith paces the floor and seriously wonders if he can afford a laboratory full of babies.

"The expense is already really more than I can afford," he frankly admits. Nevertheless, the Michigan State University zoology major is determined to successfully breed in captivity two red-shouldered hawks.

If successful, he will have made three major ornithological breakthroughs:

1. By reproducing the red-shouldered hawk for the first time in history.
2. By doubling the number of mating seasons of this hawk in a single year.
3. By increasing the population of the red-shouldered hawk, which is very nearly becoming an endangered species.

Although he is but an undergraduate at MSU, the young Novi man has undertaken a university endorsed project that will take up a whole year of research and experimentation. It's all part of an independent study program open to bright undergraduates in their junior year at MSU.

Endorsed by the university but not financed by it, independent programs chosen by junior zoology majors, upon advice and guidance of departmental professors, are given 16-hours of college credit.

Brad figures the project, upon completion, will have cost him several thousand dollars—unless he manages to gain outside financial sponsorship by some organization or individuals. To date he has been unable to obtain any grant money to assist him.

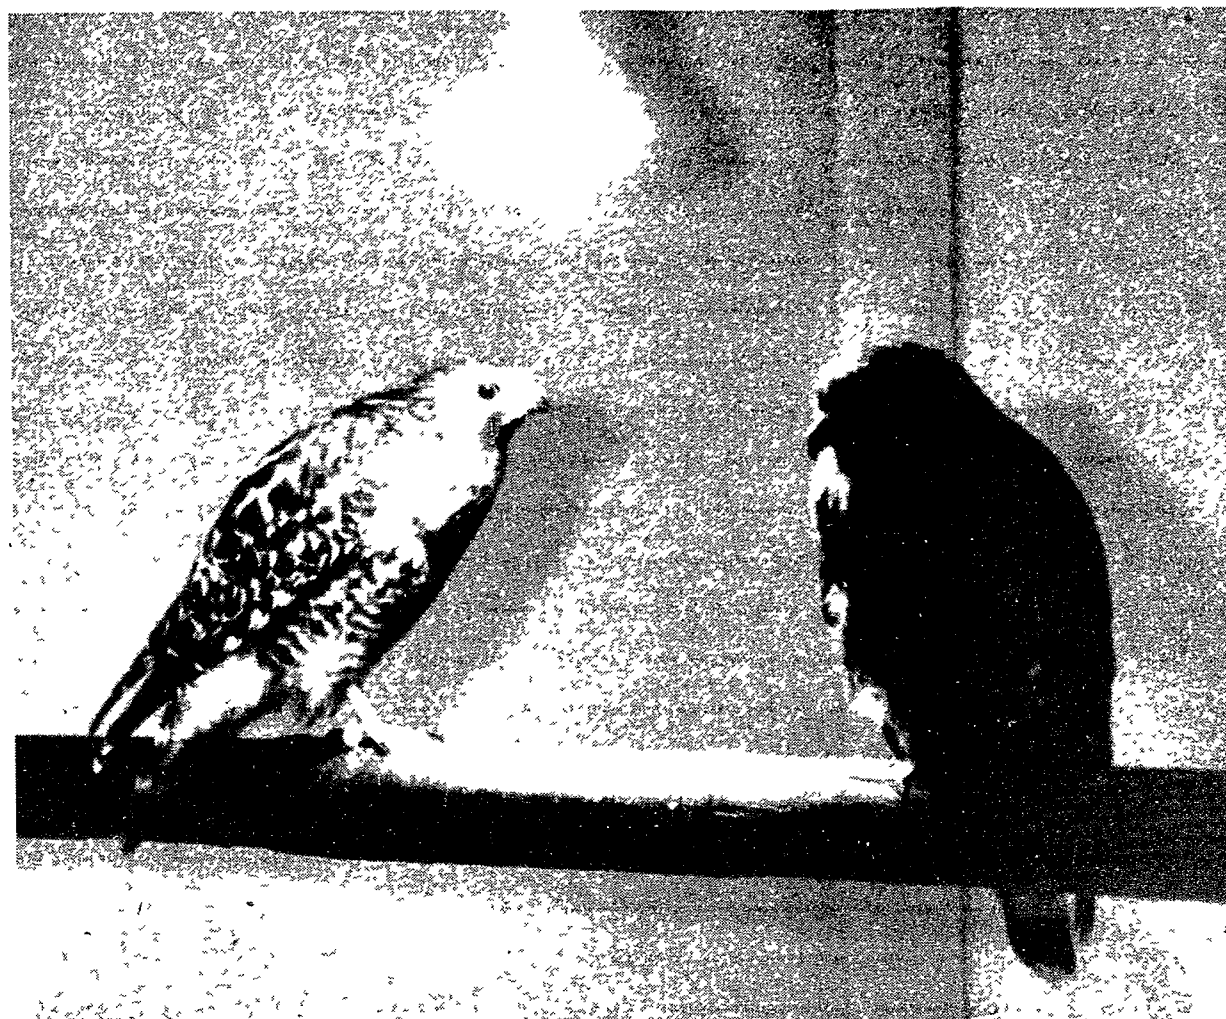

"If you know anybody who might help out, I sure could use the financial support," says the student who is putting himself through college. What's so costly?

Well, for one thing Brad had to convert part of his family's horse stables into a 26 x 11 foot laboratory in which the two hawks live. He also built an observatory adjacent to the laboratory from where he can keep tabs on the hawks through a one-way window.

The interior of the laboratory is lighted by several flood lights operated automatically by a timing device. The walls and ceiling are lined to accentuate the light when the flood lights are turned on and to block out exterior light when the interior of the laboratory is in darkness. The floor is covered with crushed sugar cane.

And because the hawks are not to be disturbed by humans, Brad built a device which permits him to feed and water the birds without entering the room regularly.

Operation of the flood lights also is very expensive, as is the specially prepared

These two red-shouldered hawks could make ornithological history in Novi refrigerated food shipped in from out of state.

Ironically, the two rare hawks living in the laboratory cost him nothing. They've been loaned to him by the Michigan State University Kellogg Biology Station and by the Cornell University Laboratory of Ornithology at Ithaca, New York.

Because the red-shouldered hawk is very nearly an endangered species, it cannot be kept and raised except by special permit of both the state and federal government.

And even though his research project is sponsored by MSU, obtaining the permits was no easy task. In fact, Brad is one of the youngest persons ever to receive the Michigan Scientific Collector's Permit.

Search for the hawks also was difficult.

Dr. Thomas J. Cade, one of the world's leading ornithologists, sent Brad the female from Cornell, while Joe Johnson, bird expert at Kellogg, provided the male. Both arrived in Novi late in August.

"They appear to be getting along beautifully," says Brad, noting that the female is constantly chasing and trying to peck the male—"a good sign."

Simply speaking, the MSU student is trying to artificially stimulate the passions of the two birds by using lights to "fool" them into believing it's spring time—the normal mating period of the red-shouldered hawk.

Technically speaking, it means Brad is attempting to "induce a concentrated refractory period in both specimens through photoperiodic manipulation."

Presently, the birds are living in total darkness 20 hours each day and in intense light for four hours. This ratio of light and darkness represents winter—the period of time when the hawk's reproductive chemistry is resting.

In 10 weeks, Brad will suddenly switch the process, placing the birds in intense light for 20 hours, total darkness for four hours. This sudden change, coupled with the concentrated light hopefully will trigger the hawks' reproductive period, he says.

In other words, the 20 hours of light will fool the hawks into believing it is spring—time to mate and produce young.

Brad theorizes that this artificially induced cycle can be made to occur more than twice each year, thereby increasing the potential number of young hawks that can be produced in a year.

If so the rapidly disappearing red-shouldered hawk may make an equally rapid comeback . . . thanks to a young Novi man pacing the floor back behind his parents' home at 48755 10 Mile Road.

Novi and Milan aren't slated to play until the final day of the 1973 season.

And the way the two teams have been destroying the rest of the competition, it's beginning to look more and more like their November 2 clash will determine the SEC championship.

While the Wildcats were annihilating Chelsea last week, Milan was doing an equally impressive job of disposing of Saline. Final score was 34-8. Kevin Keese paced the Big Red with touch down runs of 76 and two yards, while Harvey Thacker and Rod Cranston each tallied on four-yard bursts.

Dan Hoskins scored the fifth Milan touchdown by carrying a fumble nine yards into the end zone. The lone Saline score came on a 55-yard pass from Tim Slepky to Dan Scotton.

Surprising Brighton moved into third place in the conference standings by rolling over winless Dexter 34-0. Dave LewAllen scored on runs of 12 and eight yards, and Chuck Wagner, Greg Martin, and Tim Cauley accounted for the other three Brighton touchdowns on runs of five-four, and one yards respectively.

The Bulldogs piled up 316 yards of total offense, while limiting Dexter to 125 total yards.

South Lyon recorded its first SEC win of the season by topping Ypsilanti Lincoln 19-0. Bob Dail ignited the Lions by carrying a recovered fumble 80 yards for a touchdown in the first quarter. Quarterback Tony Kern completed nine of 16 passes for 132 yards and had scoring tosses of 33 yards to Don Geise and 11 yards to Dan Cheresko to round out the South Lyon scoring.

SPEAKING for The Record By BILL SLIGER

The days of saying "yes" to the "mind if I use your phone" request may be rapidly coming to a halt for businesses.

Michigan Bell has announced it will withdraw the flat rate service for business customers here this month.

"Measured service" will be the new concept.

And it's difficult to argue that it isn't fairer to the user.

It's very simple, the more phone calls you make, the more you pay.

But it's certain to make the businessman think twice before he picks up the phone and calls home, or anyplace else for that matter.

It's now four-and-a-half cents per call...and that's a local call, not Detroit, KC or Spokane.

The way it works the flat-rate service charge has been reduced so that many businesses making relatively few calls will actually enjoy a reduction in their phone bills. Heavy users will pay more.

Our local Bell Manager, Hazen Wilson, tells me that a business customer now pays $12.55 a month per line for one-party flat-rate service with unlimited local calls.

Under the new $5.75 per line and measured service at a rate of 4.5 cents per call, the same business could average 151 calls per line per month with no increase in the local service charge.

What it means to many heavy telephone-using businesses is that management will have to take a closer look at telephone procedures.

And how about public institutions—especially schools, city or township halls, libraries?

Think of the number of non-business calls that must be made from such institutions and remember that the taxpayer picks up the tab on all expenses.

Somehow the measured service concept reminds me of having a limited supply of water. When you get a drink, you pour just half a glass and drink it all; you bathe with less water; you discipline yourself not to be wasteful.

Now a businessman knows that each time he (or someone else) picks up his phone for a local call it is costing 4.5 cents. It's hardly worth it if you're trying to make a 10-cent sale.

And when a customer asks to "use your phone, please", you can just reply, "that will be five cents, or two calls for nine cents".

(Incidentally, the withdrawal of the flat rate services for businesses was ordered by the Public Service Commission and does not apply to residence service or rates.)

The publishing firm of Dorrance & Company of Philadelphia sent me a "review copy" (that means it's free) of "Father Was First" by Clifton D. Hill.

I read it Sunday.

It happens that Cliff Hill is an old friend of mine. He's taken cribbage lessons from me.

And he knows I wouldn't con anyone. So I'm not going to tell you to run down to the bookstore and shell out $4.95 for a copy of Father Was First.

You can read my copy.

And I'm going to switch Hill from the cribbage lessons to creative writing.

Meanwhile, I can't wait to read "Taiwan Tajjan", which I'm told means Taiwan Goodbye.

It's Hill's next literary effort, which I think was critiqued by my cohort, Jack Hoffman. It's the story of an underground movement against Chiang Kai-shek to establish a Taiwanese government.

Hoffman says it's extremely interesting and written with an unusual flair.

Back to Father Was First.

It won't threaten Booth Tarkington's status in history, but it brings back memories to many who have forgotten boyhood adventures. And certainly, Attorney Hill had a father whom he has never forgotten and who left many impressions hiding inside the crusty exterior of the local lawyer.

The book might well have been named "Tip the Terrible". For beyond recalling all the "firsts" established by his father in Alpena (first car, refrigerator, phonograph, etc.), it reveals that as a boy Attorney Hill (nicknamed Tip) spent a great majority of his time figuring out ingenious methods of getting himself (and friends) into trouble.

Anyway, I've got to admire anyone with the stick-to-itiveness to write a book; especially two.

You'll get a chuckle out of Father Was First. And you will marvel at the patience of Daley Hill, the author's father.

Meanwhile, it's possible that an old dog can still learn new tricks. After all...he's made great strides in his cribbage proficiency.

Get out the pencil and paper, Cliff.

Ethnic Jokes?

ROBERT GERYK

HUMOROUS . . .

Didya hear about the Pollack who . . . ?

Yes, I probably did. But tell me just the same. I think ethnic jokes, especially Polish jokes, are funny.

Anticipation and reaction are what ethnic jokes have going for them. Polish jokes, for instance, key themselves on putting the 'Pollack' in a typical everyday situation, and making the solution extra-ordinarily difficult (i.e. it takes three Pollacks to put in a light bulb—one to hold the bulb, two to swivel the ladder.) How could anyone anticipate an answer like that!

In other regions, other ethnic groups are selected, but Michigan and the Detroit area has their Pollacks and Hamtramck.

What about reaction? Nothing makes a Polish joke funnier than having a Pollack in the crowd who doesn't know how to react to it.

Me? I just laugh.

Louie Glubzinski
Brighton Joker

HUMORLESS . . .

The organization with which I am associated might well lead the reader to conclude that I am against ethnic jokes on principle. Nothing could be farther from the truth. I have watched the ethnic joke grow (on a nation-wide level) from its infancy to the hulking mass of depravity that it is today and tried to understand it.

My reaction used to be one of nonchalance so as not to invite the accusation that I was over-reacting. This is the defensive mechanism of the joke teller. If one did not laugh at the absurdity of the joke one was not able to laugh at one's self. "We have to be able to laugh at ourselves!" was the frequent comment. My simple reply is: "Who is the 'us' we are laughing at?"

Were we all laughing at ourselves, that would make for a preponderance of one ethnic group in this country—something that is not reflected in the statistics of the Census Bureau. We are therefore laughing at someone else.

My contention—supported by many (Columnist Nicholas vonHoffman and the periodical American Folklore among them)—is that these jokes are either poor substitutes for prejudices that must now be suppressed or they are an open attack by those with prejudices against a specific ethnic group.

The prominence of negative qualities in ethnic jokes makes them derision and not mirth.

To the Editor:

Most people who live in the beautiful little city of Northville are proud to call it their home. Many more who don't live here envy us.

Perhaps we should not be sitting at our desk writing at this moment because we have just returned home from helping to serve lunch to and coordinate 17 people who participated in the "Save Our Streams" project sponsored by the Northville Jaycees, and the Beautification Commission. Numerous organizations were contacted, many firmly committed to work. The Record had an announcement in last week's paper asking interested citizens to help.

If only a small percent of those who walk the streets for want of something to do would have helped to remove debris from our streams think how much more beautiful Northville would be today.

P.S. - A big thanks to the few who did participate.

Chuck Smith, cornering 80 on the run, admits it was a tear-jerking experience.

But like all of us with an extra scoop of sentimental nostalgia, the semi-retired Northville-Novl businessman revelled in the sentiment.

"Fears of joy and friendship never hurt anyone," he'll tell you.

"It was a beautiful experience," he said of the ol' college reunion he hosted a couple weeks back in his hometown of Farmington, Missouri—just a skip and a holler from Little Grass Mountain.

"A last chance to get together with people who share some common memories," he added.

By 'last chance,' Chuck meant just that.

All of us at some point in life are going to reach the age when we will never again be able to attend a college reunion. But even when that happens there will be others following who may do so.

Not so in the case of Chuck and perhaps two dozen others. They are the last remaining former students of ol' Carleton, which graduated its last class in 1916—nearly 60 years ago—and then permanently closed its doors after a half-century of operation.

At age 80, Chuck was the youngest person attending the reunion.

Some former students are pushing 90, some are incapacitated in nursing homes, and quite a few are living in scattered communities across the country.

Having often thought about former Carleton students and the school itself, Chuck decided early this year "to try to get them together for one last really pleasant chance to recall fond memories."

"It's just a matter of wanting to spread a little sunshine in the lives of senior citizens...to charm them out of some of their lonely depressions," explained the Novi resident who does not yet consider himself a senior citizen.

Over a period of a year, Chuck wrote personal invitations to each of those students, still living, who had attended or graduated from Carleton. All but a very few attended. One old gentleman threatened to climb out of his nursing home bed for an interstate bus trip to Farmington but his doctor would not permit it.

"We spent a lovely Sunday together," said the man who picked up the tab.

"Mostly we talked about Carleton."

Carleton wasn't just a four-year college. It provided instruction for ninth grade through college. Chuck attended it in the ninth grade...played reserve guard on the all-school team, he remembers.

Started as a little log cabin in 1854 by Miss Ann Carleton, it flourished until the early 1900's when public high school education and big state institutions began siphoning off Carleton's students.

A year after Miss Carleton's death the school graduated its last class in 1916.

Chuck Smith, who attended his last previous Carleton reunion in 1937, came away pleased as punch.

"We had a fine time reliving old memories and giving one last hurrah for old Carleton," said the reunion host who knew only one of the guests.

News From Lansing

BY R. ROBERT GEAKE
Michigan Representative

When we return from summer recess and the 1973 Legislature reconvenes next Tuesday, a heavy agenda of business will continue to challenge us.

Governor Milliken has asked us to move ahead in the areas of election reform, campaign expense reform, judicial reform and consumer protection.

Many of these items have already been considered by the various House Republican Caucus Task Forces and special bi-partisan committees established by resolution before we recessed for the summer.

The Governor and the House Republican Caucus are pretty much in agreement as to which legislative action ranks high on the priority list, and I hope the Legislature as a whole will consider these priorities and act to solve problems existing in many areas.

Our economic development package recommends, among other things, that we begin reorganizing state operations to begin new activities in the area of attracting industry and assist it in selling products, especially to untapped overseas markets.

We are also recommending industrial development incentives. Michigan now ranks 49th among the states offering industrial incentives. We are also proposing a Michigan Economic Development Authority to handle financing of industrial expansion, loans for pollution control facilities and research to develop new products and new jobs.

We are, of course, proud that our Economic Development Package received national recognition and will, undoubtedly, be used as a model for other states to follow. It is also hoped our own state legislature will give prompt attention to our recommendations and act on them favorably.

ELECTION REFORM

Extensive research into the election system is being conducted by the members of the Elections Task Force.

These members are visiting local clerks throughout the state, at their own expense, to try to determine what legislation is needed to make the elections process smoother. One suggestion which has aroused much controversy has been to require voters to register their party preference in order to vote in a primary election.

JUDICIAL REFORM

State financing of Michigan's 84 district courts will be a top priority item.

A special committee has been working with four Supreme Court Justices since March on the idea of the state taking over district court financing. The committee, while pursuing the idea of state financing of the entire judicial system in Michigan, selected the district courts for initial consideration.

If the state Legislature agrees to assume financing of the district courts, the next consideration would be directed towards the state's 46 circuit courts and finally in a four-year phase-in process, the 83 probate courts.

It has been reported that state takeover of all courts could add up to $112 million a year to the cost of state government, but it would also relieve the cities and counties of the cost they now assume for operation of local courts which in 1971 was $72.3 million.

CONSUMER PROTECTION

Consumer protection is an ever increasing concern which I consider a top legislative priority item.

Our Consumer Protection Task Force spent time this summer, for example, delving into landlord-tenant problems in Mobile Home Parks.

Task Force members listened to both mobile home dwellers and mobile park owners at two public hearings and are obtaining additional information by mail and telephone.

A package of mobile home legislation that will ease some of the problems encountered by mobile home dwellers is ready for introduction in the fall legislative session.

The Task Force also concluded, in part, that if existing laws governing mobile home parks were more strictly enforced many of the problems encountered by mobile home dwellers would be solved.

There are, of course, many other areas of consumer protection that need attention and I will be writing about these in the weeks to come.

when State Representative Clifford Smart was contacted and informed of the situation.

Smart has coordinated efforts with city officials which led to the action announced by Fried at Tuesday's council session. Smart also directed officials in the DNR to step up their study of means for bringing about removal of the pilings.

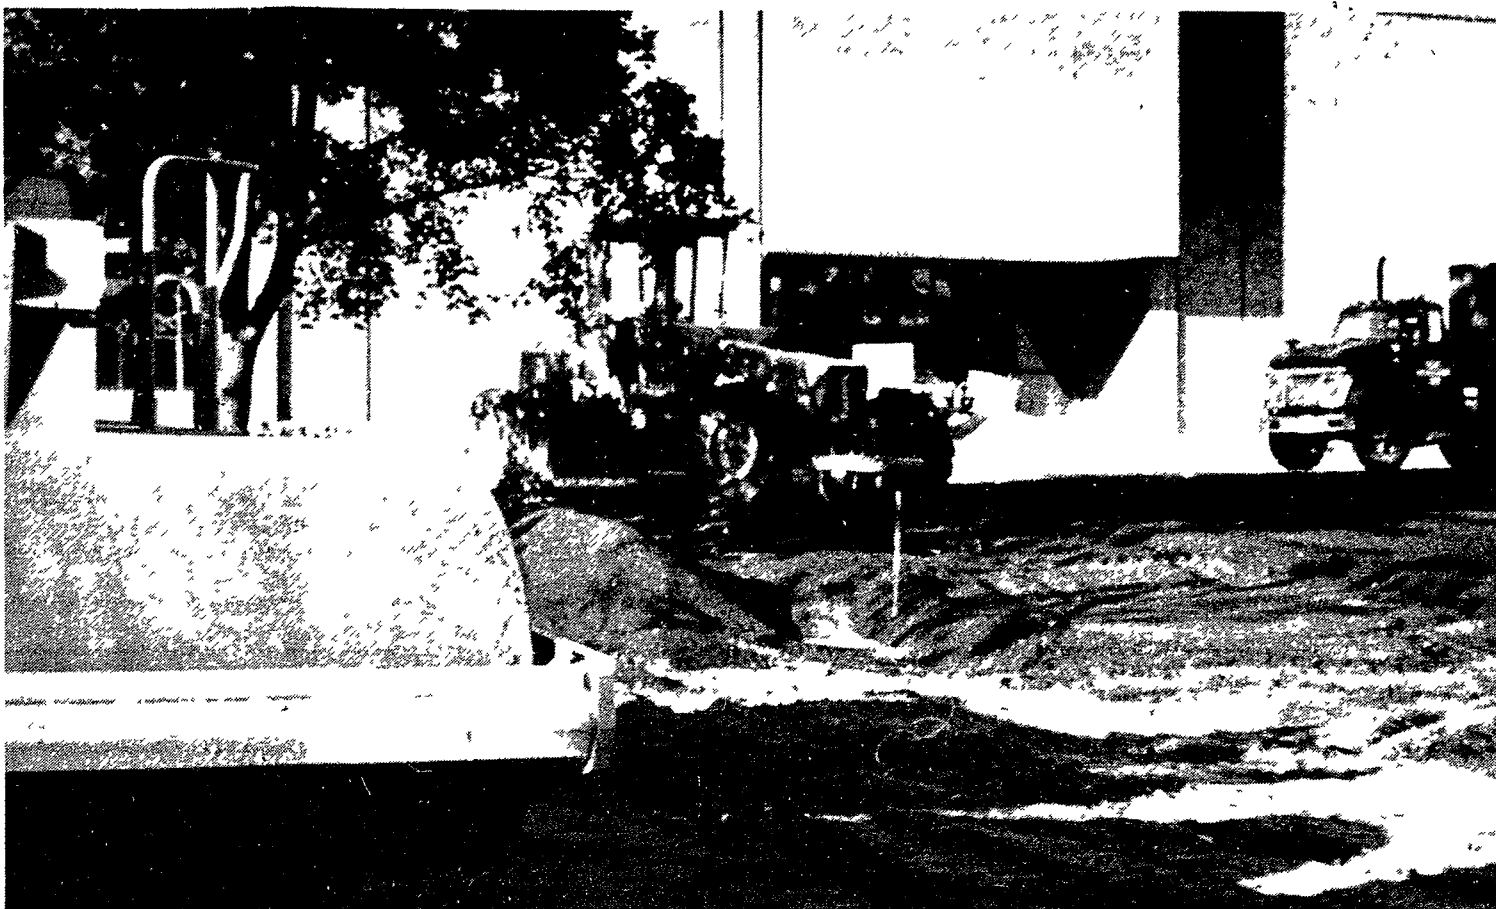

That study, apparently, is still taking place.

Meanwhile, city officials hope that the letter from Fried to Glantz will result in an "amicable" solution to the problem through mutual consent of both parties.

If no such resolution is achieved, however, the matter will be turned over to the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and the DNR for legal action that will result in the removal of the pilings.

State's New Land Sale Act Aimed at 'Fast-Buck' Artists

One of the most controversial pieces of consumer-protection legislation went into effect in Michigan last Monday.

Called the Land Sales Act, it is designed to eliminate exploitive and fraudulent land development practices, by placing imposing tough new restrictions on land developers.

Target of the landmark legislation are the fast-buck specialists selling resort land in Michigan and promoting pie-in-the-sky living quarters out of state.

To bring the fast-buck specialists under the scope of the legislation, however, it was necessary to blanket the whole land development industry. So even the local developer will feel the impact.

Robert Carey, president of Thompson-Brown, one of the biggest land development firms in southeastern Michigan, hails the new legislation as necessary to eliminate those few bad developers who, in Carey's estimation, have damaged the image of the bona-fide developer.

"If the act does what it is intended to do," Carey says, "it will virtually eliminate abuses exploited on the public by a few."

Not all developers may be as optimistic about the legislation as Carey, whose firm already has complied with the tough new restrictions. In fact, the response would indicate a cool reception at best by some developers.

As of last Thursday, only 116 of a state estimated 1,500 developers had filed the necessary papers with the newly created Land Sales Division of the State Department of Licensing and Regulation.

Carey contends this estimate of 1,500 may not be accurate. He suggested compliance may be substantial, if those that have registered with the state are indeed the largest developers in Michigan, representing the bulk of land development.

The act regulates any developer of 10 or more pieces of land, if he proposed to sell them under one promotional plan. Even now there is a legislative movement afoot, initiated by the new Land Sales Division itself, to increase the minimum number of pieces to 25.

What the act demands from the developer is a Pikes Peak pile of paperwork, in detail, for every subdivision over 10 lots that he proposes for sale. Here's just some of the requirements:

—name and address of the applying company or individual and the name, address and principal occupation for the past five years of every director and officer and owner of 10 percent or more of the shares of the applicant.

—Legal description of the land, a survey, topographical statement and a map showing the proposed divisions and proposed improvements.

—Copies of most instruments relating to the land proposed for division.

—Statement of zoning and other governmental regulations affecting the use of the subdivided land.

Application of each subdivision of 10 pieces of more with the state provides some consumer protection. But the consumer is protected more so by the requirement that the purchaser be furnished with a property report, which must contain most of the facts furnished the Land Sales Division.

Furthermore, the property report must be furnished to the purchaser before a sales agreement is signed, or the purchase may be voided by the consumer any time thereafter, whether it's 10 or 20 years after purchasing the property.

Another requirement on the developer falling under the act is that the purchaser has five days from the time of receipt of the sale agreement to back out of the deal.

As Carey pointed out, there are grey areas in the law, as there are in most new laws. Beverly Clark, head of the Department of Licensing and Regulation, and Dwight A. Snyder, director of the Land Sales Division, agree that there are grey areas.

But Fred Hoffercker of the Attorney General's office warns developers that they had better read the new act closely to see if they should have registered with the state. And if there's doubt in the developer's mind about need for registering, Hoffercker advises him to consult with his attorney.

One local developer, for instance, had maintained that he was exempt from the law, because he sold land only with the provision that a custom-built home be erected on it.

Furthermore, he maintained he would build the home within two years of contracting with the individual.

Hoffercker pointed out, however, that this condition may not exempt the developer. The key point, he said, was when the land was offered for sale. A sign at the entrance to the subdivision would, in his estimation, be the offer, not when the individual purchaser and developer entered into the contract.

Construction of all homes in the subdivision, then, would have to be completed, Hoffercker explained, within two years from the time the promotional sign was erected at the entrance to the subdivision, if the developer wishes to claim exemption from the act.

Hoffercker said he hoped developers will have complied by the October 1 deadline for registration. The Attorney General has indicated, Hoffercker said, that he's going to follow a hard-nosed enforcement policy.

The penalties for non-compliance are stiff. A person, upon conviction, could be fined up to $2,000 and sentenced to 90 days in jail for each violation. If he has 30 lots in his subdivision, it could result in 30 individual violations.

To speed up the consumer protection process, a toll-free hotline to the Land Sales Division has been established. A purchaser who thinks he has been victimized may call 1-800-292-2431 and file his complaint.

Thank Participants

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Northville Jaycees, I would like to thank the John Mack Ford dealership and all 65 Northville boys who participated in the annual Ford Punt, Pass and Kick competition. Everyone really displayed their love of sport by showing up on the rainy morning of September 29. Eighteen trophies were given out—1st, 2nd and 3rd place in age groups 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12.

The lucky 1st prize winners in each category move along to the next step in competition in Plymouth. We'd love nothing more than to see a Northville boy in the final competition at this year's Super Bowl at Houston. Best of luck! Thanks again to all.

Annual Meeting Next Week

Chamber of Commerce Hosts Northville Square Architects

The president and vice president of the architectural firm of Louis G. Redstone Associates, Inc., will be the speakers at the ninth annual Northville Community Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting next Wednesday evening.

Louis G. Redstone and Bernard W. Colton combine to provide a broad background of experience in community and shopping center planning and design.

Specifically, they will speak on new trends in redevelopment of central business districts. The Redstone firm designed and has been instrumental in the development of Northville Square shopping center, scheduled to open in the Northville central business district next month.

Redstone is well known as an architect, artist and author. A graduate of the University of Michigan with a master's degree in architecture and urban design from Cranbrook

LOUIS REDSTONE

Academy of Art, he practiced architecture in Israel before opening his office in Detroit.

In addition to his achievements as a Fellow of the American Institute of Architects, Redstone has given a number of one-man shows at area galleries with travel sketches published in the A.I.A. Journal. His watercolors were exhibited in the national show, "Watercolor USA." He is also the author of "Art in Architecture" and "New Dimensions in Shopping Centers and Stores."

Vice President Colton has been a member of the Oak Park Planning Commission and is a past director of the Detroit Chapter of A.I.A. He has been associated over the past 20 years with the design and planning of numerous shopping centers including Wonderland, Livonia Mall, Westland, Southland, Macomb Mall, Genesee Valley and Somerset Mall.

The October 17 Chamber dinner will be held at The Drawbridge restaurant at 7:30 p.m.

Four new board members are slated to be nominated for election. They are incumbents Gerald Stone, Glenn Long and Richard Lyon for three year terms, and Marjory Cinader for a one year term.

Chamber President N.C. Schrader III requests that members and wives make reservations this week by calling 349-7640.

Teacher Contract OK'd

"In general, it upset the living schedule of every school family in Northville," Hobart stated.

He said he felt that because teachers received their full salary even though they went on strike, it may jeopardize negotiations in future years.

Hobart said he does not "feel that the citizens and taxpayers of this community should finance a strike, particularly one that is illegal to begin with."

However, the trustee said he realized that "much of the problem may lie with legislators in Lansing."

Trustee Sylvia Gucken said she was not in favor of taking anything away from anyone through the contract. She added that she "would like to look at the contract as to what are the improved benefits for teachers and what are the improved benefits for education."

"I hope we can get together for the children and the community," she added.

In voting to ratify the contract, trustees pointed out they would ratify the document as presented.

Superintendent Raymond Spear explained to board members that the NEA bargaining team "misinterpreted the figures of the MA salary schedule for 1974-75 and told their membership initially that the 1973-74 schedule for MA would be the base figures which actually belonged on the 1974-75 schedule."

The superintendent said it represented $3,666 and, while the NEA ratified the correct figures last week, the "board may wish to go with the adjusted figures" and grant the increase in salary.

Board Secretary P. Roger Nieuwkoop said the $3,666 "that we have discussed involves a very basic principle. It may have been a misunderstanding but we're duty bound to approve the contract as agreed to."

School board members also voted to authorize the architect to pre-bid structural steel for the library renovation at Moraine Elementary.

Spear said the suggestion came from the architect because if they can "bid and order the steel now, the library can be ready two months earlier. We can also avoid the increase in prices."

Although final drawings are not completed for the Moraine library, the amount of steel needed has been determined, Spear said.

Trustee Dr. Orlo Robinson complimented the architect on his suggestion of pre-bidding the steel.

In a related matter, Business Director Earl Busard said construction strikes and delays in steel delivery have put the two elementary schools now under construction four weeks behind schedule.

Busard said the contractor for the middle school ordered steel before contracts were signed and that building is four weeks ahead of schedule and "may be done ahead of the elementary schools."

"We'll really have to push to get the elementary schools open by next September," Busard added.

In Busing Suit

Districts Plan Defense

Northville and Novi school boards and superintendents, facing law suit in the Detroit school desegregation case, have selected different methods for their defense in the busing controversy.

Meeting Monday night, the Northville board members, who have been served summonses, agreed to have the school attorney answer the summonses for them, while Tuesday night the Novi board, which has not yet been served papers, voted to pay back dues and rejoin the original defendants in the suit.

Both school boards and superintendents, along with those from 41 other districts, have been included in the desegregation plan of Federal District Judge Stephen Roth. Inclusion of the 41 districts pertains to, but is not limited to, review of any additional school building capacity and staff hiring to determine its effect on the desegregation plan.

Both Northville and Novi are currently involved in school construction programs.

The Northville board, which in the past had decided not to join the original school districts which are defendants in the case, will be meeting soon with representatives from other districts who have retained the same law firm — Keller, Thoma, McManns, Toppin & Schwarze — to determine if they wish to join together in the case.

Superintendent Raymond Spear said the attorney will appear in court next week to answer the summonses.

With three options open to it, the Novi board chose to rejoin the original group and utilize that group's legal firm, Butzel, Long, Gust, Klein and Van Zile, for its defense.

According to Superintendent Gerald Kratz, cost of rejoining is payment of back dues—a little more than $500, which is considerably less than it would cost to become part of a new consortium or to retain its own attorney.

Although Novi has just been named a defendant, it was already a defendant in the original lawsuit. But even though Novi was a member of the original consortium it elected not to pay the dues.

In rejoining the original group, the Novi board recognized that the interests of most of the other member districts may be somewhat different than its own. (Most of the other original members are involved with busing of children. Novi, on the other hand, at this moment is involved only so far as new construction and hiring is concerned.)

Dr. Kratz said Novi also could have decided to join a new consortium made up of only six or seven Oakland County school districts.

Although both superintendents have explained that the inclusion of Northville and Novi in the lawsuit is for future building and staff expansion, it could include staff and student transfers in the future if Judge Roth so decides, they emphasized.

Other districts named defendants in the case include Plymouth, South Lyon, and Walled Lake.

School board members also voted to authorize the architect to pre-bid structural steel for the library stitutional because "it contains a purpose which is not expressed in the title of the bill and this is in conflict with the 1963 Constitution which says no law shall embrace more than one object expressed in its title."

Geake had contended "certain legislators" influenced by big track interests had purposely tried to sneak through their bill by burying it in the body of the all-encompassing Agricultural Appropriation Bill.

According to Geake, the matter now goes back to Racing Commissioner Leo Shirley who still retains the lawful authority to decide whether or not Northville should be assigned summer racing dates next year.

The bill signed into law this past August would have prohibited Shirley from assigning summer dates to Northville.

Nature paints a colorful roadway in nearby Kensington Metropark

Southeastern Michigan Bonanza

How About An Enchanting Color Tour?

Just a suggestion . . .

Fall is one of the most beautiful seasons of the year. Its splendour can hardly be beat. So how about a tour?

With mention of a color tour, thoughts often turn toward northern Michigan and the languid solace of a drive through miles of unpopulated countryside. Fine, if you've got the time and inclination to go north.

But you don't have to motor north for a refreshing outing in the crisp fall air.

Southeastern Michigan, this very vicinity, has plenty of color and even rural enchantment of its own to offer. And, of course, there's that distinct time advantage.

Any one of several tours, as suggested by the Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association, can be taken in a morning, an afternoon—if you can tear yourself away from TV football—a day or a weekend.

The tour might involve an overnight stay at a motel, a hotel, or if you're lucky enough, at the home of a relative or friend willing to accommodate you.

There's a variety of things to do and see, besides viewing the wonders of nature.

TOUR ONE

Portal to Southeast Michigan from Ohio is Monroe

County, where the coloring is magnificent. In the City of Monroe, there are many historic points of interest carefully identified by markers.

A new, expanded Monroe County Historical Museum at 126 South Monroe Street is undergoing development and adding new exhibits. Other points of historic interest are the River Raisin, the Old Wayne Stockade, the Anderson Trading Post and the General Custer Monument.

You can visit sites of paper mills, learn about the nation's two great tree and plant nurseries, enjoy Sterling State Park on the shore of Lake Erie and stroll and picnic in many parks.

Another place to see is St. Mary Academy, a furniture showplace of Michigan with up-to-date fashion and specialty shops.

TOUR TWO

A scenic playground, the Irish Hills may be reached by taking I-94 to U.S.12. The area abounds in activities and sights for the Fall traveler—lakes nestled in tree-covered valleys—a countryside of rolling hills in glorious color—attractions that amuse and inform both youngsters and adults.

Historic sights include three churches that are among the oldest in Michigan—twin towers, providing a fascinating panorama of the countryside—and a tavern of stage coach days still operated as a private restaurant.

Cambridge Junction State Park is the site of the historic Walker Tavern currently undergoing restoration. It offers picnic and other day use facilities. You can also tour Walter J. Hayes State Park on Wampler's Lake or enjoy excellent fishing, pheasant, rabbit and duck hunting.

TOUR THREE

Fall in all its splendour may be found in the Waterloo-Pinckney Recreation Areas. You will find well-marked color tours through woods and hills of this 15,000-acre playground. It's located between Ann Arbor and Jackson, just north of I-94, at exit 159.

A scenic route to the area is the Huron River Drive from Ann Arbor to Dexter, which passes Delhi Rapids, Dexter-Huron Metropolitan Park, with much fall color, and Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park, located at the junction of the Huron River Drive and North Territorial Road.

The Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park has a nature trail open year round, a quiet lagoon, rustic bridges and shelters.

Highlight of this tour is the Annual Color Tour Chicken Barbeque, usually the second Sunday in October. The barbeque is held in various locations in Chelsea at noon and continuing until the chicken runs out. Tour maps are available then.

TOUR FOUR

Most people need no introduction to Greenfield Village, located in Dearborn. But even if you have been there before in the Fall, you've got a pleasant surprise coming. The autumn colors are in full array.

The village and adjacent Henry Ford Museum can be reached from any direction by nearby expressways.

Highlights include the 14th annual Midwest Antiques Forum scheduled October 8-12 and the second annual Autumn Harvest Weekend, an old-fashioned celebration of the end of the harvest season, October 20 and 21.

TOUR FIVE

Autumn months are particularly favorable for a sojourn in or near Detroit. Foliage along boulevards and parkways is at its best. And, of course, Belle Isle and Rouge Park offer miles of scenic, wooded drives. Lake Shore Boulevard, following Lake St. Clair shoreline (M-29) through Grosse Pointe suburbs, is one of the most popular drives.

Fall and winter theatrical, musical and cultural schedules are underway. The Detroit Institute of Arts is offering a unique exhibition of great paintings collected by Soviet Russia. Sports also are part of the Detroit Fall scene.

TOUR SIX

Kensington Metropolitan Park and Kent Lake on I-96 between New Hudson and Brighton should be familiar landmarks to area residents. But its scenic beauty this time of year are unsurpassed in southeastern Michigan. There are marked nature trails, with beautiful Staghorn Sumac, Flowering Dogwood and Red and White Oaks.

Side roads from the park west to the Brighton area offer a countryside of gorgeous Fall color.

TOUR SEVEN

Oakland County has many fine country roads, winding paths, lakes and streams. A most rewarding tour is north on Wixom Road through the Proud Lake State Recreation area. After Wixom Road, pick up Duck Lake Road and see the continued Fall countryside in the Highland Recreation Area.

TOUR EIGHT

Northward from Detroit via M-1 (Woodward Avenue) through Ferndale and Royal Oak to Cranbrook with its 300 acres of gardens, outstanding statuary and fountains, is one of autumn's most popular weekend drives. The Science and Art museums are outstanding, as is the architectural beauty of the buildings.

One of the most scenic routes through Oakland County from Cranbrook is to proceed to Long Lake Road eastward across Woodward to Adams Road—then north to Walton Road and east past Oakland University and a visit to Meadowbrook Hall. The City of Rochester has gift shops and art galleries.

Proceeding north one can see colorful countryside, the Benedictine Abbey and the highest point in southern Michigan, with a breathtaking view that includes metropolitan Detroit. Keatington Antique Village in this area offers distinctive shops, war crimes museum and other attractions.

Some questions you've asked us about your future at The Lutheran Retirement Center

During the last two years, a lot of people from all over Michigan have asked us a lot of good questions about the Lutheran Retirement Center in Ann Arbor. Here are the ten most frequently asked, along with the answers.

- What will be some of the important features at The Lutheran Retirement Center?
Among the most important features of life at The Center will be freedom from homeowner responsibilities, well balanced meals, special dietary services, constant attention to health needs, a balance between privacy and companionship, and an independent form of living with assured security. Residents will be free to come and go as they choose, to entertain guests and relatives, to participate in the varied activities available and to help plan those activities. In fact, residents will be expected to live there as they would in the homes from which they come with complete freedom and privacy.
- Who will be eligible?
Persons who are 65 years of age or older are eligible. They must be in reasonably good health for their age, with the qualities of personality conducive to congenial group living, and with the income and resources to meet the financial requirements. Persons who are motivated by ethical principles, without regard to religious denominations will be sought. An Admissions Committee, with the Executive Director, will decide all matters of eligibility.
- What happens if a person is accepted as a resident but is not ambulatory when The Center is ready for occupancy?
He or she will be admitted without qualification and will receive all benefits to which residents are entitled.
- May residents bring their own furniture?
Yes, residents will be welcome to bring their own valued familiar possessions and furnishings. Wall to wall carpeting and drapery linings will be provided. Each unit will have a private bath, and adequate closet space. There will be storage lockers elsewhere in the building.
- Will residents be able to control heating and air conditioning in their apartments?
Yes, for complete comfort, apartment heating and air conditioning will be individually controlled.
- What will be the extent of nursing care?
Residents who become ill will be cared for in The Center's own nursing care facility where members of the nursing staff will be on duty at all times. In the event a resident is provided with nursing care in the nursing care facility beyond 10 days per year or an accumulated 30 days in three years, an additional modest per diem charge will be made. This nursing care facility will be accredited by all state and local agencies, and qualified by the Medicare program.
- What about facilities for regular exercise, especially during colder months?
The Center's sponsors believe that residents can benefit greatly from regular exercise, and have planned to provide indoor exercise equipment. Apparatus such as stationary bicycles and other equipment will be available at no charge. And because exercise is a vital part of many therapeutic programs, it will be encouraged. In addition, outdoor exercise facilities—a perimeter walk and bike path—are planned.
- Will special diets be served in the regular dining room?
Yes, special diets will be served if prescribed and required by your physician, and supervised by The Center's dietician.
- Would a resident ever be evicted because of health problems?
No. The Life Lease Contract provides continued and uninterrupted care as long as it is medically feasible in The Center.
- What happens to a resident if he becomes unable to meet financial obligations after living at The Center for some years?

NATIONAL BANK of Detroit has announced the appointment of John L. MacLeod of Novi, as Assistant Manager of the Bank's Farmington Office.

JOHN MACLEOD

MacLeod, who has been with NBD for one year, takes on the new assignment after completing the Bank's Management Training program.

He is a graduate of Central Michigan University.

WILLIAM JOURE, 23971 Pheasant Run, Novi, has been promoted to Grand Rapids district claim manager by Allstate Insurance Companies.

In his new position, Joure will direct the firm's claim operations in the Grand Rapids area and eight and one-half surrounding counties.

Joure has been with Allstate since 1967 when he joined as a casualty adjuster. Since then he has earned four major promotions with the Sears insurance subsidiary. Prior to his latest promotion, Joure was a unit manager at the firm's Detroit West service office.

A graduate of Wayne State University, Joure holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration.

He and his wife, Dolores, are the parents of Nancy, 8 and William, 6½.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & Pacific Tea Company is launching an advertising campaign to initiate a new program that emphasizes customer service.

Isidore Lefkowitz Elgort, Inc. created the program for A&P, starting with the broadcast and print advertising and carrying the message through to store level.

The theme line, "We Won't Stop Trying Till You Say, Weeeeee!" follows the advertising theme used by A&P to announce its new WEO stores, while at the same time signals an extended effort by its employees to make customer shopping easier.

An integrated campaign of TV and radio commercials, will start running October 3rd, in over 100 key markets. Newspaper advertising will also carry the theme in markets throughout the country.

"The advertising puts our store people on the spot in relation to customer service expectations," said M.A. Young, Detroit Division Sales director for A&P.

TIMOTHY P. O'HARA of 22570 Brook Forest Road Novi, has been elected to the position of vice president-membership for the Detroit Chapter of the National Association of Accountants for its 1973-74 fiscal years.

NAA is the world's largest accounting association, with 70,000 members in more than 275 chapters across the United States and abroad.

O'Hara is a Partner with Somerton, Gerhard, O'Hara & Rowe.

MAJOR remodeling and redecorating work at Northville Drug, located in downtown Northville, was recently completed and the store's new look is beaming at customers.

Completely carpeted, the store's interior, which features new showcases, has been completely redesigned to provide customers with maximum departmentalization to make their purchase selections speedier.

Besides a complete line of pharmaceutical supplies, Northville Drug also features a gift gallery.

To help celebrate the store's new look, Owner-Pharmacist Al Potts is holding a drawing this week in which three Panasonic electric styling combs are to be given away free.

Curtain Going up on 'No Sex' Comedy

A new comedy stage hit, "No Sex Please, We're British," starring Noel Harrison, will be the first in a series of three New York productions being brought to this area by the Plymouth Community Arts Council. It will open the Plymouth Community Arts Council Theatre Season November 11 at 6:30 p.m. in the Plymouth-Salem High School.

Now in its third year in London, the comedy by Anthony Marriott and Alistair Foot has been lauded as "an outrageous success—a clean farce about pornography that is family entertainment."

The farce concerns a young married couple whose happy home is thrown into a frenzy when the bride, to supplement their budget, places an order for Swedish glassware through a mail order house intending to sell it. Instead she receives masses of unmasked pornography.

Boxes of every shape and size arrive in droves and so does the bridegroom's mother. The bridegroom, singer-actor Harrison, has starred in many Broadway plays and in motion pictures. His television credits include the leading roles in "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E." and guest appearances in "Mission Impossible," "The Name of the Game," "To Catch a Thief," "Love American Style" and "Ironside." As a singer he has released four successful record albums and currently is recording a new album, mostly of his own songs.

"No Sex Please, We're

British" will be followed in the arts council series by "Untamed Land," a full-scale new musical about the old west by Jimmie Rodgers and Burch Mann's Americana

Dance Theatre February 9, 1974, with the famous off-Broadway musical, "The Fantasticks" being presented by the Continental Theatre Company March 30.

Season tickets (reserved) now are on sale at the arts council box office at the Plymouth Detroit Edison office on Main Street at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth on Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Season tickets are priced at $12, $15 and $18. Single tickets will go on sale October 26 at $4.50, $5.50 and $6.50.

How About Color Tour?

TOUR NINE

Macomb County adds much to southeast Michigan's color tours. A most rewarding tour is route M-53. It will take you through Stony Creek Metropolitan Park, an ideal spot for a picnic on a crisp autumn day, and onward to Romeo, which features a number of historic homes.

North of Romeo on M-53 is Almont, where there's a century old building, the Almont Cider Mill.

TOUR TEN

In this tour, there's something for Fall fishermen—fishing on Anchor Bay, Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair River, famous for their muskies, pickerel and bass. Coho salmon might be caught also.

The same drive (M-29) that carries you through the Grosse Pointe suburbs will carry you north to more Fall splendour along St. Clair Scenic Drive from New Baltimore to Port Huron. Many famous eating places are found in the Algonac and Port Huron areas.

This drive also follows one of the most picturesque portions of the Great Lakes Ocean Seaway. The Blue Water Bridge across to Canada, and the Fort Gratiot Lighthouse, a guide to mariners since 1825, are two of the more scenic places.

TOUR ELEVEN

A continuation of suggested Tour Ten is the Huron Shores Drive, starting at Port Huron and extending northward along US-25. Many spots are rich in color, and in the background the blue waters of Lake Huron lend contrast to the reds and browns of tree-filled ravines and wooded bluffs.

Meteor Showers on Tap

Hunter's Moon Ushers in Shorten Days

October will bring shorter days, the Hunter's Moon, and two meteor showers, according to University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

"During October our day will be reduced from slightly less than 12 hours at the beginning of the month to roughly 10 hours and 20 minutes by the end," Professor Losh says.

But she points out that the Hunter's Moon, which first rises on the 12th, will brighten several successive October nights. Rising at about the same time every night, the Hunter's Moon is defined as the first full moon following the Harvest moon, which this year occurred on Sept. 12.

The Draconids and the Orionids are the two meteor showers appearing this month, according to the U-M astronomer. The Draconids will begin on the 9th and the Orionids near the 22nd. "While no spectacular displays are expected, there should be more of these 'shooting stars' around than one would normally expect to see," Professor Losh says.

October has an especially bright complement of stars, she continues. "The brightest star in the northeastern sky in mid-autumn is Capella, the Goat, which rises soon after sunset," she notes. "Capella is located at the corner of the five-sided figure Auriga, the Charioteer."

Capella, the third brightest star visible from northern latitudes, is much like our sun in temperature and color, she observes. "However," she adds, "if it were at a similar distance from us it would be 100 times brighter than the sun."

A star group especially conspicuous on autumn nights is the Pleiades, rising slightly north of east about an hour after Capella. Early farmers believed when the Pleiades began rising near sunset winter was at hand. Part of the constellation Taurus, the Bull, the Pleiades present a challenge to the naked eye, Professor Losh notes.

"The average person can spot six stars in this group," the Michigan astronomer notes, "but exceptional vision will reveal a seventh and truly superior vision nine or ten." A telescope shows the Pleiades to be composed of hundreds of less bright stars.

Taurus also contains the well known star group

Hyades, which form a large "V" rising on its side immediately after the Pleiades. The bright orange star Aldebaran lies at the lower prong of the "V," serving as the "Eye of Taurus."

Planets of October include Venus, the brilliant "evening star" rising in the southwestern sky just after sunset, and Jupiter, glowing brightly in the southern sky in the evening. On the 6th, Jupiter will be just 3 degrees south of the quarter moon.

Mars, rising around sunset slightly north of east, will shine the whole night through.

Michigan October's A 'Junkers' Harvest

October in Michigan is a technicolor spectacular staged by mother nature.

It's the great, late season for camping and color tours, hiking and harvest festivals, picnics and pleasure at a leisurely pace, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

For antique buffs, collectors and "junkers" October holds an abundant harvest.

For those interested in sharpening their antique savvy, the 14th Annual Midwest Antiques Forum will be held October 8-12 at the Henry Ford Museum, Dearborn. Exhibits, discussions and illustrated lectures by leading authorities will explore "Collecting Americana".

Marquette will hold its third annual Antique Show and Sale October 12-14. A little bit of everything, including "unknowns", is promised at the Merry Marketers' Flea Market, October 13-14, in Grand Rapids.

And finally, an Antique Show and Sale, October 25-27, at the Westmain Mall, Kalamazoo and October 26-28 in the National Guard Armory, Jackson.

When the north winds blow bringing the snow, there's nothing quite like a pair of red flannel "long Johns" or P.J.'s or a granny gown, to ward off the frosty blasts. At least that's the way the citizens of Cedar Springs feel about it. They will be celebrating their annual Red Flannel Day on Saturday, October 13, with a full day of fun and festivity and a red flannel welcome for all visitors.

A big first for this year's October events calendar is the Four Flags Apple Festival at Niles, October 13-21. Some of the activities on the program include: a pro-am golf tournament, raft race, ethnic dinners throughout the festival, a flea market, antique show and craft exhibits, square dancing, a grand parade, kayak racing and on Saturday, October 20, Doc Severinsen and his Now Generation Brass.

October 14 is the date of this year's Color Cruise aboard the Beaver Islander from Charlevoix. The motor ship cruises the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix or Lake Michigan, depending on the weather. Passengers are treated to live entertainment and free refreshments on board and, of course, a terrific view of the color show on shore.

For those interested in rushing the season, there's a Snowmobile Race scheduled at Davison on October 14.

The Kalamazoo County 4-H Council sponsors their annual Harvest Festival October 20, in the County Center Building, Kalamazoo. October 20-21 is Autumn Harvest Weekend at Greenfield Village, Dearborn. Farm demonstrations, crafts, country music and costumed hosts and hostesses re-create the old-time festivities celebrating the end of the harvest season.

The emphasis will be on ethnic and international heritage, culture and interests in communities throughout the state during Michigan International Week, October 24-31.

Music, dancing, hayrides and German beer will highlight the Oktoberfest at Greenville, October 27. Generous helpings of stamina and skill are prerequisites for the Summerset 100 Off-Road Endurance Run, October 28, at Rose City. They will also come in handy for participants in the 25th Press-On-

Regardless International Rally of Michigan, October 31 - November 4, from Detroit to Alma. This is the only world rally in the Western Hemisphere sanctioned by the International Automobile Federation.

The Rally is a test of car durability and driver skill over nearly 2,000 miles of Michigan logging trails and forest roads.

For a complete listing of "what" and "where it's happening" in Michigan, write for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events to the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing 48926.

It's Great for Campers

A spectacular waterfall, largest in the Midwest, more than 19,000 acres of forest, streams and lakes—all are at Tahquamenon Falls State Park. No other state park offers the camper as much natural beauty, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The park, most popular in the Upper Peninsula, is 20 miles northeast of Newberry on M-123. Last year it attracted 500,490 campers, top attendance at the U.P.'s 16 state parks.

The park has three campgrounds. The Lower Tahquamenon Falls has 183 sites with modern facilities, electricity and a park concession. Two other campgrounds are near the mouth of the Tahquamenon River, five miles south of Paradise.

from the Pastor's Study

Rev. Charles F. Boerger
St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Northville

EDITOR'S NOTE—This Pastor's Study column was written by Pastor Boerger before he left on his Holy Land tour that ran into the Mideast War. Pastor Boerger, his wife and a number of his parishioners were aboard a cruise ship that was seized and detained by Syrian naval forces.

God Coaches Well, But Are We Listening?

In a charity baseball game between the comedians and the actors, Bob Hope was made manager of the comedians. He picked Jack Benny to lead off and told him, "All right, Jack, get up there and hit a home run."

But Jack Benny struck out.

When this happened, Bob Hope resigned as manager, saying, "I can't manage a team that won't follow instructions."

Of course, Bob Hope was being funny. But thinking seriously, we can be thankful that God didn't act like this when Adam and Eve committed the first sin. God could have said, "I quit. They didn't follow instructions."

Instead of giving up, God immediately promised that He would save our first parents. His son would come into the world to redeem them and all other people. Even though Adam and Eve disobeyed God's will and had to leave the Garden of Eden, God still loved them. They could count on His mercy and forgiveness.

Remember when Peter sinned by denying Jesus? Jesus didn't give up on him, either. He looked at Peter, and that look helped Peter realize what he had done. Jesus wanted Peter to know that He still loved him. Peter went out and wept and then asked for forgiveness.

Because we are sinners, God knows we can't be perfect. That's why he sent His perfect Son to take our sins upon Himself. God isn't interested in our excuses. He is waiting for our confession of guilt. He wants us to bring our sins to Jesus, who makes us clean.

Out of Horse's Mouth

This column is open to news of all breeds of horses and ponies. Send your questions, comments, and horse show news to "Horse's Mouth", care of South Lyon Herald, South Lyon, Mi. 48178.

Those spots where the horse is sensitive to the curry can be brushed. Don't curry bony spots or anywhere below the knees. When you've finished this, go over the complete horse with the soft body brush. Finish by brushing his mane and tail with the hair brush, being careful to separate the hairs when necessary so as not to pull too many out. Now take the rub rag and wipe over the body, always move in the same direction with the hair.

You will need a brush which is big and stiff, a rubber curry comb, soft brush, rub rag (cheap bath towel), regular hair brush and hoof pick.

Start at the horse's head and work toward his tail. Go over his face and head with the body brush, then curry his neck, shoulder's and body on back towards his tail. The curry comb fits in one hand, the stiff body brush in the other. As you loosen the dirt and dandruff with the curry, brush it away with the body brush.

When you're finished grooming, sponge out the nostrils, the tail area and sheath. Then clean out the hoofs and apply a little hoof dressing, which not only makes the hoofs look better but keeps them from cracking.

If Sally Bought 500 Grams . . .

LANSGING—Americans might as well get used to the idea. It won't be long before you'll be going to the store for a couple of liters of milk and half kilo of butter.

The metric system is going to come to this country. The only question is when.

At present, we are the last major industrialized nation on the earth to measure distance by inches, feet, yards and miles; weight by pounds and tons; bulk by pints, quarts, gallons and bushels. That puts us in company with such nations as Southern Yemen and Tonga.

THE METRIC system can sound very complicated to someone who never had to deal with it, but it actually is much simpler than what we have. In it, all units are based on increases or decreases of one decimal point.

That basic unit of length is a meter—a little over 39 inches long. But instead of being divided into three parts (feet) or 36 parts (inches) like a yard, it is divided down by tens. Thus one-tenth of a meter is a decimeter, one-one hundredth is a centimeter and one-one thousandth is a millimeter. The same goes for liters, which measure bulk, and grams, which measure weight.

AMERICANS already have begun letting metric terms slip into their language. The huge influx of foreign cars, for example, has quite a few Americans talking about "two liter" engines or "five liter" engines when a few years ago cubic inches were the only measurement used to describe displacement.

FOR MANY PEOPLE who grew up with our current system, the change-over could be traumatic. Some may never really feel comfortable with it. But if your children are young enough, they may grow up with the metric system wondering how on earth anyone ever understood all that gobbledygook about inches, pounds, ounces and all that.

The Michigan Department of Public Instruction already set up requirements to insure that all math and science textbooks sold in Michigan after June, 1976, use the metric system as their dominant form of measurement.

ALL THIS MEANS instead of a grammar school math book having a story problem about how much candy Sally has if she buys eight ounces in one store and seven in another, it will ask how much she has if she buys 500 grams in one store and 450 in another.

To help people confused by the conversion, the department is developing a pocket card on metric transition for use by anyone who wants it.

WHILE IT may look imposing, after a few weeks or months with it, most people should get along quite well.

And with the rest of the industrialized world using the metric system, and the United States needing to increase its trade with other countries, the changeover can help greatly.

The major corporations are already working on the change. In fact, Ford has built a $100 million plant in Lima, Ohio, to build engines which will be based on the metric system.

THE LATEST RASH of teacher strikes in Michigan has some legislators looking for ways to stop teachers from walking out.

It's already against the law in Michigan for public employees to strike. But the teachers have proven how unenforceable that law is. Normally, strikers lose pay, but since teachers are paid to teach a school year of 180 days and 180 days are put in no matter when school starts, teachers get their full pay, anyway.

One concept being looked at now is the idea of compulsory binding arbitration.

THE LEGISLATURE drew up such a system for police and firemen a few years ago to keep them from striking. It worked well enough that the legislature extended it last year.

Under the binding arbitration setup, the two sides come forward with a list of proposals. If they can't reach agreement by themselves, the areas of dispute are given to a three member panel with one member from each side and a third non-partisan member. What the panel rules is what the agreement is.

It isn't perfect, of course, but some lawmakers are starting to think it might be a good idea, especially when they look at what happens now every fall.

Winter Care of Trees and Shrubs

November and early December is the proper time to start protecting trees, shrubs and foundation plants against winter injury. Low-growing yew, Irish juniper and pyramidal arborvitae, in particular, need tying to prevent snow and ice from accumulating inside and bending the specimens out of shape. Andromeda, rhododendron, laurel and azalea can use similar protection. Heavy twine tied loosely around the shrubs six inches or so apart from top to bottom is the best method.

High winds later in the winter especially cause damage to evergreens and foundation plantings. Moisture lost cannot be replenished when the ground is frozen. Browning of needles and leaves result as well as dieback. A good part of this damage, however, can be averted.

In the first place, you should make sure the trees approach the winter season with an ample supply of water around the roots. Then add a suitable mulch material about six inches around the trunk, very thin. Sphagnum moss, straw, salt hay or peat moss would be considered suitable materials. Finally, tramp down the mulch to prevent mouse damage. Mice have a preference for hiding at the trunk-line and chewing the tree bark.

Boxwood and other tender plantings, particularly in exposed locations will require some additional protection to escape damage during the winter months. Burlap and other windbreaks are most effective but erection can be delayed until late December or early January.

Boxwood and other tender plantings, particularly in exposed locations will require some additional protection to escape damage during the winter months. Burlap and other windbreaks are most effective but erection can be delayed until late December or early January.

A windbreak can be made easily by tacking canvas or burlap to posts. The screen is placed on the side of prevailing winds to keep needles from drying. A spiral wrap of burlap or heavy cord just before a severe storm will reduce winter burn and avoid snow and ice damage. At least six inches of air space should remain between leaves and burlap covering.

A study of wind currents around the house will guide you to protect those plants which are in the greatest amount of peril. Most often plantings on the south or southwest side of a house are more vulnerable than those on the north side.

Newly planted deciduous trees (those that drop their leaves during the fall and winter), should be wrapped securely. This means trunk and larger limbs to prevent loss of moisture and sun scald. Wrapping materials can consist of tree paper, raffia paper or burlap. Latex emulsion sprays, available at most garden supply centers, eliminate the need for wind and sun screens.

When heavy snows occur, the loose snow should be brushed from taller evergreens and a heavy prop placed in position almost to the top to maintain height and original shape. Sprawling types of junipers and yews can be split by the weight of the snow. When brushing off, be sure to do so with a movement toward the stem tips to prevent breaking.

New trees, especially those exposed to strong winds, should be staked to protect new roots. Larger trees will require stronger support with guy wires the first year. All tree and shrub material, because of its value, well deserves these extra attentions.

Babson Report

Appliance Output Slowdown Seen

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass. Last year's 10 per cent gain in shipments has already been surpassed during the first eight months of 1973, with totals surging upward 14 per cent. There are, however, a number of signs that output for the appliance industry may slacken in the months ahead.

For example, reports on consumer buying intentions have recently become less optimistic. With housing starts slowing down appreciably, there may well be a substantially lessened demand for kitchen ranges and other large-ticket appliances during 1974.

The energy problem, particularly involving the availability of gas, suggests a reduced rate of shipments for gas appliances. Rising interest rates and expanding debt (credit is used extensively in the purchase of appliances) also point to a more bearish outlook for sales of major appliances over the near term.

IN VIEW of these clouds moving in on the scene, forecasters within the industry are cutting back on their earlier predictions as to output for the fourth quarter. Investors have become leery of a faltering appliance market and have generally shunned stocks of home-appliance manufacturers.

So, in spite of the recent rally in the Dow Jones Industrial Average, the stock of such outstanding appliance producers as Fedders, Maytag, Whirlpool, Singer, Hoover, and White Consolidated Industries are selling well below their 1973 highs. And price-earnings ratios for the industry are still low.

In the opinion of the Research Department of Babson's Reports, stocks of the appliance manufacturers mentioned above are well worth holding at present prices. Of these, Fedders is on our list of securities currently recommended for purchase.

Despite the possibility of a near-term slowdown in appliance sales, the longer-term prospects for the industry remain rosy. In addition to benefiting from increases in new housing projected beyond 1974, the appliance industry should respond to some longer-range favorable factors including growth of new families, a more equitable distribution of income, a continuing increase in the labor force, and gains in disposable income.

In addition, since the average appliance lasts only about ten years, the replacement market offers a fertile field for future sales. Replacement business in the field has been stimulated in recent years by a marked increase in home remodeling. A survey by the National Home Improvement Council reveals that an upturn in remodeling normally has a corresponding effect on major appliance replacement sales.

FEDDERS CORPORATION, our present appliance "buy" candidate, is the country's leading producer of room air conditioners. The corporation also turns out a full line of home appliances including washing machines, dryers, stoves, and refrigerators. Among its other products are central air conditioning systems, dehumidifiers, radiators, oil coolers and heater cores for autos, radiator and space heating equipment, and heat exchange components.

A seven-month strike severely penalized earnings for fiscal 1972.

Although the strike was settled last October with a new three-year contract, post-strike costs at the company's main plant and an initial low level of production continued to affect results adversely in the early part of fiscal 1973.

Improvement, however, was evident in the latter part of the fiscal year, and the outlook favors a renewal of the previous earning upturn. Expanded facilities and increased volume should enable profit margins to widen. Over the past decade, sales and earnings have risen at an average annual compound rate of 20 per cent. Purchase of the speculative-grade common (New York Stock Exchange) is recommended for investors seeking appreciation. Yield was recently 2.8 per cent.

Big Green Machine Disassembles Chelsea

Never-scored-on Chelsea, purportedly one of the real toughs in the Southeastern Conference, looked more like a soft paper towel here Friday night.

The much-heralded Bulldog defense soaked up five touchdowns, a field goal and a safety in less than two hours of football as Novi's Big Green Machine ground out its 17th consecutive victory, 39-6, to take a firmer grip on first place.

Undefeated this season in three league starts, the Wildcats share the SEC lead with the undefeated Milan powerhouse that last week knocked off the Saline Hornets who come buzzing into town for tomorrow's homecoming game.

With Quarterback Dave Brown making what looked like a solo flight for the high-flying Wildcats (hardly a play was sent in from the bench), Novi played its finest game of this season in routing Chelsea, who previously unscored against this season.

Some sideline observers were even saying it was Novi's finest game ever.

One thing's for sure, more and more fans are beginning to wonder who Steve Lukkari was as they watch the cool-headed performance of this year's new quarterback threat.

Working the triple-option to perfection, Brown galloped for three touchdowns—one of them a 54-yarder on the second play of the game. What's more, he fired a hummer to Mike Riley for another TD, booted a 27-yard field goal (first in Novi's history), and put his toe to four extra points.

Ironically, however, it wasn't a one-man show. Not at all. Eric Hansor, whose steady week-to-week performance earns him the respect of friend and foe alike, actually piled up more rushing yardage than Brown.

Hansor chalked up 123 yards in 15 carries, while Brown rushed 98 yards in 10 carries.

It was the triple option off the wishbone (quarterback to fullback, or quarterback keeper around end, or quarterback fake run and pitch-out) that let Brown steal the offensive show Friday.

With Chelsea's defense keyed in on the pitch-man most of the night, Brown was running more than normal. In fact it was the run-it-himself option that produced the first touchdown, a 54-yard gallop on the second play of the game.

Before the first quarter was over, Brown fired a pass to Riley, who shot up the center of the field out beyond the pass defenders to pull in the ball and scoot in for the 40-yard TD.

Sean O'Brien set the stage for the history-making field goal early in the second quarter. The senior end picked off a Chelsea pass in a third down situation.

In the ensuing drive, highlighted by a 21-yard pass from Brown to Riley, Novi pushed to the Bulldogs 10 yard line. And there, on fourth down and 9 to go, Brown banged the ball between the uprights from the 17 (17 plus the 10 yards from goal line to uprights makes it a 27-yard effort).

Before the intermission, Brown made it 24-0. He went back to pass, saw his receiver taken out of play and a hole opening up, so he kept the ball and sailed over from the Chelsea 23.

The Bulldogs emulated Novi's first quarter surprise by scoring on the second play of the second half. After picking up 15 yards and a first down on a run around the left side, Chuck Foytik broke loose for a 41-yard TD run.

But that score, which caught Novi napping, was the extent of the Chelsea scoring. And with little more than a minute left in that third quarter Novi's Kevin LaFleche dived over from the 1 for a TD.

Late in the fourth quarter after fumbling away the ball on a first-down situation, Novi pushed the Bulldogs backwards to their own 14 yard line where in a fourth down punting situation, a pair of defensive ends—Doug Maier and Joe Riley—sacked the punter in the end zone for the two-point safety.

'Fumble' Call Hurts

Mott's Passes Fell Mustangs

Unable to move the ball with any consistency on the ground, Waterford Mott took to the air to hand Northville's Mustangs a 24-8 defeat last Friday.

Mike Grace, the fine Mott quarterback, negated the Northville pass rush with his finely-executed roll-outs and then frustrated the secondary with his pin-point passing.

And Bob Swindell, the 6-2, 195-pound Mott receiver, displayed an uncanny knack for running his pass patterns along the seams of the Mustangs' zone defense.

But in the final analysis the key to the Waterford Mott victory was not the passing combination of Grace and Swindell as much as it was an extremely crucial and, controversial call on the part of the referee midway through the third quarter.

So much for objectivity. To call the decision "questionable" is like calling King-Kong a monkey. As far as the Mustang coaching staff and the more than 1,000 Northville fans who witnessed the play were concerned, not even Neville Chamberlain could have made such a bad decision.

"I don't know what he was watching," commented Northville coach Chuck Shonta after the game, "but there's no way he could have been watching the play and made the call he did."

What happened was this. Trailing by one touchdown midway through the second half, the Mustangs had the ball first and 10 on the Mott 50 yard line. Quarterback Bill McDonald went back to pass and just as he let the ball go he was hit by Mott's Chuck Jacobson on a blitz.

The ball flew forward a couple of yards from the momentum of McDonald's arm and then fell to the ground - incomplete pass.

But no. Instead of whistling the play dead, the referee indicated fumble, and Mott's Ken Simmons scooped up the loose ball and ran 45 yards into the end zone for a touchdown.

Grace hit Blaise Saffron with a two point conversion pass and instead of having the ball on the 50 and trailing by one touchdown the Mustangs were down by two touchdowns 16-0.

"It was just as plain as day that it should have been an incomplete pass," stated Shonta. "It was a very bad call and it was all the worse because it changed the complexion of the entire ball game."

Indeed. With the exception of a 49-yard touchdown drive engineered by Grace in the second quarter, the two teams had battled on even terms through two and one-half quarters.

But all of a sudden, Mott had been given a "gift" touchdown and their one touchdown lead was up to two touchdowns.

Demoralized by the decision, the Mustang defense came up flat the next time Mott gained possession of the ball and Grace moved the team to a third touchdown, covering 54 yards in five plays with Bob Swindell taking a pass from Grace for the final 22 yards.

Trailing 24-0 as Swindell carried the ball into the end zone for a two point conversion on an end-around play, the Mustangs finally got on the scoreboard with two minutes gone in the fourth quarter.

Starting on their own 31 yard line and aided by a pair of 15-yard penalties, the Mustangs moved 69 yards in 11 plays. Eric Lampella, the Mustangs' sophomore quarterback, capped the drive by hitting Ted Fuerterges with a 15-yard pass over the middle for the score.

Except for the five minute span in the third quarter when the Corsairs added their second and third touchdowns, the game was a closely played defensive struggle.

The Mustangs held a slight edge in the early-going and appeared to have stymied the Mott offense until Grace finally found he could move the ball through the air midway through the second quarter.

In the game's best drive, Grace hit Dave Bauer and Swindell for gains of 18 and 12 yards respectively and then, after Greg Aldrich had gained five yards to the 16, took off on a roll-out pass after seeing all his receivers covered and carried the ball down to the one yard line.

Dale Romeo banged into the end zone on the next play and Mott added the two point conversion to take an 8-0 half-time lead.

The Mustangs were never

After Winning Oakland Tourney

Class 'A' Golfers Eye State Crown

In spite of the fact that Northville is now officially a Class A school, at least one of the local athletic teams still has a chance at a state championship.

But to even qualify for the state championship meet in Jackson on October 20, Al Jones and his Northville Mustang golf team must first finish in the top three in a tough regional field this Saturday at the Dunham Hills Golf Course.

Included in the regional field will be West Bloomfield, the defending Class A champion, as well as Plymouth Salem and Thurston - two other Class A powers.

And if the Mustangs should manage to put together two "hot" rounds on successive Saturdays and win the whole thing, it will come as no great surprise to veteran observers of the state golf scene.

The Mustangs proved once again that they can play with the "big boys" last Monday by beating 34 other Oakland County teams to take top honors in the prestigious Oakland Press Tournament - one of the top schoolboy tournaments in the state.

Northville's winning total of 318 was two strokes better than second place Cranbrook, a Class B team. Berkley was third, followed by Brother Rice, Bloomfield Hills Andover, and Bloomfield Hills Lahser. West Bloomfield was tenth.

It was the second major tournament win of the season for the Northville golfers - last week they won the Brae Burn Best Ball Tourney - and even Jones, the veteran Mustang mentor, expressed surprise. "It's pretty hard to win that one two years in a row," he commented. "With the exception of Plymouth Salem and Thurston just about all the top golf teams in southeastern Michigan are over there. We were pleased when we won it last year, but to win it two years in a row is just something I didn't think we could do."

Brian Mills led the Northville foursome with a fine 76 over the Pontiac Country Club course. Bob Simmons carded a 78, while Jim Dales had an 80 and Greg Mack had an 84.

"I think our guys are finally beginning to realize that they don't have to shoot 75s for us to win these big tournaments," Jones observed. "For awhile if one of them had a bad hole he would let it affect his whole game and end up with a lousy score. It's helped our team a great deal to realize that an 84 is still a good enough score to win against just about anybody."

The Mustangs warmed up for their shot at the Class A regionals Saturday and the Western Six Conference meet Monday, by winning three dual meets last week to run their dual meet win streak to 45 over the past three years.

That they polished off Milford 151-160 at Duck Lake as Mills had a 36, Bill Pettit came through with a 37, and Dales had a 38.

Against Plymouth Canton, the Mustangs recorded a 190-219 triumph as Dales, Mills, Simmons, and Mack shot 35, 36, 37, and 38 respectively and Mark Dougher carded a 44 (freshman Clips Chamberlain had a 39 in the tough back nine at Brae Burn in an exhibition match at the same time).

Redford Union was the victim of the 45th consecutive Mustang win, suffering a 159-168 setback.

Mills had a 38 in that meet, followed by Simmons and Dales with 40s and Mack with a 49.

SC Soccer Squad

Downs Kellogg 5-1

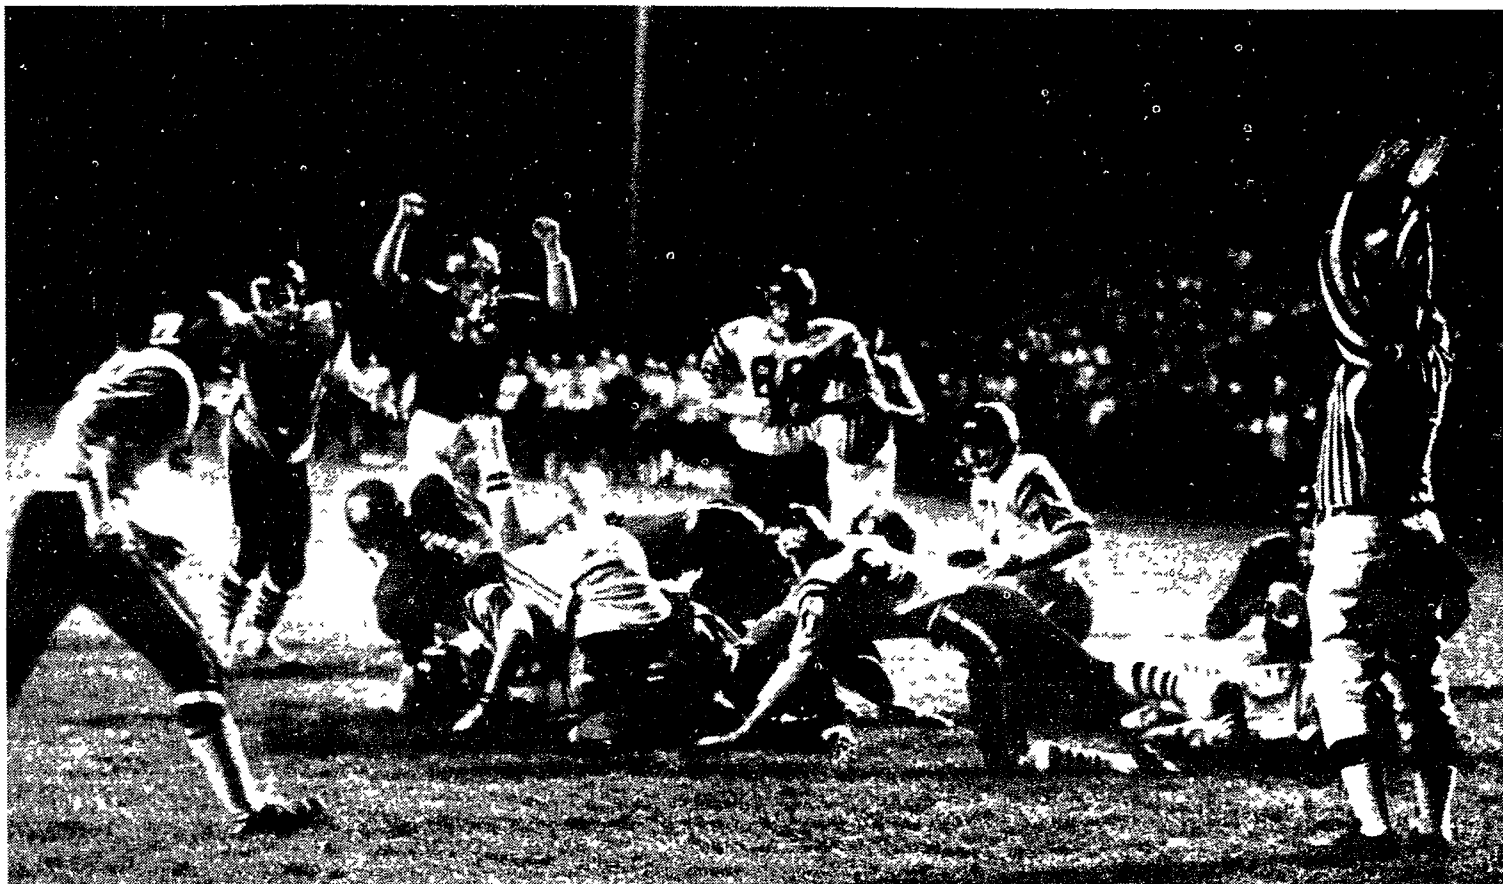

Schoolcraft College broke up a tight 2-1 contest with three goals within the space of one minute late in the game to register a 5-1 victory over the Kellogg Community College soccer team last week.

It was the fourth win in five outings for Coach Cec Woodruff's Schoolcraft squad which is now 2-0 against Michigan Junior College Athletic Association (MJCAA) competition.

George Kala and Kamran

Asdigha, the Ocelots' leading scorers, each booted first period goals, but Kellogg came back to narrow the lead to 2-1 with a penalty kick shortly before the half.

The score remained the same until late in the second half. With 41 minutes gone Kala collected his second goal of the game. Thirty seconds later Artur Wyszynski upped the lead to 4-1 and thirty seconds after Wyszynski's goal Russ Thomas tallied for the Ocelots.

HEAD OVER HEELS FOR SIX—Novi's Kevin LaFleche (35) is hardly the picture of grace and finesse, but his method is effective nevertheless as he tumbles head over heels into the end zone for a touchdown in the Wildcats' 37-6 victory over former Southeastern Conference powerhouse Chelsea Friday night. Quarterback Dave Brown (15) helps the official signal the TD.

Colts Take 2 from Tigers

Northville's three Colt football teams keep rolling right along against Western Suburban Junior Football League competition. Pitted against the Garden City Panthers last week, the Colts came up with two wins and a tie to advance their overall season's record to 11-2-2. It was the undefeated Colt varsity which led the way by recording a 20-7 triumph over the Panther varsity. The Colts drove 49 yards for a first quarter touchdown and then tallied twice more in the second quarter on a 45-yard run and a 40-yard drive. The Panthers finally got on the board in the final stanza with an intercepted pass.

Defense played a major role in the 24-0 victory of the Colt junior varsity. A blocked punt and a 60 yard punt return enabled the Northville squad to build up a 12-0 halftime lead and two pass interceptions in the fourth quarter were returned for touchdowns to make the final score 24-0. One of those interceptions was carried back 91 yards for the score, while the other was picked off in the Panther end zone on a screen pass. Only the Colt freshmen failed to win against Garden City as they played to a 12-12 tie. A 61 yard return of an intercepted pass gave the Colts a 6-0 lead but the Panthers came back to tie it at the half with a 45-yard run. The Colts moved out in front 12-6 with a score after a long drive in the fourth quarter, but once again the Panthers knotted the score as the game ended with the score at 12-12. The Colt varsity is now 5-0 for the season, while the jayvees and freshmen both sport 3-1-1 records.

REPLAY
with John Osborne

"I'm beginning to feel a little sorry for Eric Hansor," commented John Osborne after his Novi Wildcats had run up their 17th consecutive victory with a 39-6 conquest of Chelsea.

"He played another outstanding game," Osborne continued, "but he was overshadowed once again."

Hansor, Novi's hard running 5-9, 160-pound senior halfback, must be wondering just what he's got to do to gain a little recognition. Against Chelsea, for example, he toted the ball 15 times for 123 yards - an average of more than eight yards per carry.

But there was no doubt that his performance was overshadowed by the heroics of Dave Brown, Novi's 6-0, 180-pound triple-threat quarterback.

"Dave's performance was something like I've never seen before," stated Osborne. "He played an unbelievable game."

Indeed, Brown made a strong bid for All-State as well as All-Conference honors with his performance against Chelsea.

He personally accounted for 25 of the 39 Novi points as he scored three touchdowns on runs of 54, 23, and 14 yards, booted four extra points, and kicked a 27-yard field goal - the first ever attempted at Novi High School.

And that's not all. Brown also tossed a 40-yard scoring pass to halfback Mike Riley, rushed for 98 yards, and directed the Novi offense to 414 total yards, not to mention the fact that he's probably the finest linebacker in the SEC.

What was all the more impressive about the showing of Brown - and the entire Wildcat offense - was that it came against a strong Chelsea defensive unit which had been unscored on in three games prior to the Novi encounter.

"They've got some real good personnel on their defensive unit," Osborne admitted. "We felt their coach would probably use the same basic defense that he used against us last year and so we studied last year's films pretty thoroughly and thus were pretty well prepared for them."

"They were using a 5-3 defense and were overplaying us to the outside with their two linebackers," Osborne continued. "That puts a great deal of pressure on the middle linebacker because he has to cover both guard holes."

"The play that worked so well for us and gave Hansor a lot of his yardage is what we call our dive-counter. We fake the hand-off to LaFleche (fullback) toward one guard hole to pull the middle linebacker out of position and then come back at the other guard hole with our halfback (Hansor)."

"Their outside linebacker on that side was playing too close to the line of scrimmage and our tight end (Roger Pelchat) was taking him out of the play. (Guard Rick) Marchetti was blocking on their defensive tackle and (tackle Vince) Fritz was coming through to hit their middle linebacker who was lured out of position by the fake to LaFleche and also being hit by Don Jackson, the guard on the other side of our line."

"They played three different people at middle linebacker and the rest of the players on their team were yelling a lot at whoever it was they had back there," Osborne reported. "It wasn't really the middle linebacker's fault. The defense put too much pressure on him and we were exploiting it."

The only part of the Novi attack which Chelsea was able to throttle was the pitch to the halfback on the wide sweep.

"Their end was taking our halfback and Brown simply had no one back there to pitch out to," Osborne explained. "That's why he carried the ball as much as he did and gained all that yardage. Their outside linebackers were overplaying us to the outside - they were overcommitting to try to stop our wide stuff - so Brown just cut back inside them and was able to shake off the middle linebacker and get loose for some good yardage."

The Wildcats will take their 3-0 conference record up against Saline next week. The Hornets are 1-1-1 for the season with a 19-7 win over South Lyon, a 0-0 tie with Chelsea, and a 34-8 loss to Milan last week.

Wildcat of the Week

DAVE BROWN

For a truly outstanding performance against Chelsea, Dave Brown has been selected Wildcat of the Week for the second time this season. The 6-0, 180-pound triple-threat artist did it all for the Wildcats: he scored on runs of 54, 23, and 14 yards; booted four extra points and a 27-yard field goal (the first in Novi's grid history); and tossed a 40-yard scoring strike to halfback Mike Riley. "Brown's performance was like something I've never seen before," commented Novi Coach John Osborne.

able to get untracked against the Mott defenders until their fourth quarter touchdown drive.

Doug Crisan was the leading ground gainer for the Mustangs with 60 yards in 17 carries. Lampella put the ball up in the air 13 times and completed six - three of them to Fuertges - for 78 yards.

Grace, on the other hand, hit on eight of 14 passes for 114 yards and also completed two of two passes for two-point conversions after touchdowns. Swindell snared four passes for 62 yards and one touchdown.

The Mustangs are now 1-1 against Western Six competition and 2-2 for the season. Friday they will journey to Walled Lake Central High School on South Commerce and Oakley Park Roads where they will meet Mike Mancini's Walled Lake Western squad. The Warriors are 0-2 against Western Six competition with losses to Churchill and Harrison. Game time is 8 p.m.

1st Cross-Country Loss

Chargers Rip Mustangs

Scratch that perfect 7-0 undefeated season. And scratch that streak of 13 consecutive victories over the past two years.

Northville's cross-country team finally went down to defeat and they did it in a big way - being wiped out 18-37 by a strong Livonia Churchill squad.

"What is there to say," asked Ralph Redmond, coach of the Northville harriers. "Churchill just ran a lot better than we did."

Indeed. Led by Glen Parkinson who toured the three mile Cass Benton in 16:27, the Chargers swamped the previously unbeaten Northville team.

First Mustang across the finish line was Tom Coram, who was third with a 16:33 clocking - six seconds behind Parkinson's winning pace. And the next Northville runner to finish did not cross the finish line until all five Churchill runners had completed the course.

Churchill took 1-2-4-5-6, while the Mustangs took 3-7-8-9-10.

Kevin Kofler was the Mustang who took seventh, Guy Cole was eighth, Dave Beers ninth, and Robbie Foust was tenth.

"We thought they lost a lot from last year's team, but they've come back with another good squad," said Redmond of the Churchill team. "They put five men under 17 minutes on our course and that's just a tremendous performance."

Redmond did take time to commend the performances of two of his runners - Coram and Kofler.

"Tom (Coram) ran his best time of the season and was just six seconds off the winning pace," stated the Northville coach. "I thought he did a good job for us and I also thought Kevin Kofler came through with a pretty nice performance."

"We'd been gunning for this meet for some time and we thought we might have a chance to beat them (Churchill) this year," Redmond continued. "Our kids were really up for the meet and maybe that's what hurt us. Maybe we were a little tight."

"We had a team meeting after the race was over and we decided that we're going to have to get ourselves reorganized. I think we'll be making a few changes in our line-up. Mike Campbell and David Behrens have been doing a pretty good job for us and I think we might give them a chance to show what they can do."

"We'll get another chance at Churchill in the league meet," he noted. "We hope we'll be able to give them a little better competition than we did in the dual meet."

REPLAY

with Chuck Shonta

There was no question in the mind of Chuck Shonta as to what was the key play in his Mustangs' 24-6 loss to Waterford Mott last week.

"I don't think there can be any doubt that 'the call' was the turning point," commented the Mustang mentor.

"It was a close ball game up until they got that touchdown. The score was 8-0 and we had the ball first and 10 on their 50 yard line. Then it happened. One play you're in the ball game and the next you're down by 16 points."

"What really hurt was that it was such a terrible call," Shonta continued.

"There was just no way that he (the referee) could have seen the play and called it a fumble instead of an incomplete pass. You could tell Mack's (quarterback Bill McDonald) arm was in motion by the way the ball popped out of his hand and rolled 10 yards down the field."

"I don't think the referee saw what happened. I think he didn't see the play and kept waiting for one of the other officials to make the call. I even thought the Mott player who ran it in for the touchdown was surprised. It looked like he expected to have the play called back."

Good or bad, right or wrong, the one sure thing about an official's judgment decision is that it will not be reversed. No matter how many times the Mustangs run the game films, the decision will stick.

"It really hurt our team emotionally," Shonta added. "They played a heckuva defensive ball game out there and it can be a real heart-breaker to play as hard and as well as they did and then give up a cheap touchdown on such a terrible call."

"They (Mott) came right back and got a touchdown right after that and I really don't think they would have scored if it hadn't been for that one call. The final score should have been no worse than 16-6 and maybe even as close as 8-6."

Shonta went on to praise the defensive efforts of his team.

"I thought we did an excellent job of stopping their running game," he stated. "(Halfback Dale) Romeo has been getting a lot of yards for them and (quarterback Mike) Grace has been gaining a lot of yards on the option play, but I thought we cut them both off pretty effectively."

"The funny thing was that they hurt us where I didn't think they could hurt us - in the air. We thought our pass defense was something we just didn't have to worry about, but that's where they were able to get to us."

"I've got to give credit to (Mike) Grace, though," Shonta continued. "He was putting that ball right in the seams of our zone defense - right between the linebackers and the defensive backs."

"On that first drive he was right on target with his passes. As far as I'm concerned he's the best quarterback in the league."

But if the Mustangs were effective in stopping the Mott offense, the Corsairs were no less successful in defending the Northville offense.

"They were slanting their tackles to the outside and looping their ends around to the inside and we were having trouble picking them up," explained Shonta. "Our tackles were going with their tackles to the outside and we just weren't picking up the ends on their loops."

The Mustangs will be looking for their second Western Six Conference win this Friday when they journey to Walled Lake Central to meet Walled Lake Western.

"They've got some good linemen and a very fast team," Shonta reported. "What they try to do on offense is get Parrish loose on the outside with an option play. It should be a good game. They need to win and we need to win."

Western Six Conference

Churchill, Mott Lead

Just as predicted at the start of the season, Livonia Churchill (4-0) and Waterford Mott (3-1) are the teams to beat in the Western Six this year.

The Chargers and Corsairs each advanced their conference records to 2-0 with victories last week, while Farmington Harrison (2-1) evened its conference record at 1-1 by topping Walled Lake Western (1-3) in the other Western Six Conference encounter.

Defense continues to be the key to Churchills success.

A determined Plymouth Canton (1-3) squad limited the Chargers to just 176 yards of total offense. But the Churchill defense held the Chiefs to 56 yards of offense and also put eight points on the board with a safety and a touchdown to spearhead a 27-6 victory.

Churchill scored twice in the second quarter as Mark Roncoli tossed a 32-yard scoring strike to Mike Gottshall and Bill Reardon tallied on a two-yard plunge. After Phil LaFave scored on a three-yard burst in the third quarter, the defense went to work. Middle guard Tim McMahon blocked a punt that rolled out of the end zone for a safety and tackle Bill Anderson picked off a screen pass and rumbled 17 yards for a touchdown.

Harrison's Chuck Yarber scored on runs of three and six yards and caught a 49-yard pass from quarterback Mike Crudele for another touchdown to lead the Hawks to a 21-6 conquest of Mike Mancini's Walled Lake Western team.

Livonia Churchill	2-0
Waterford Mott	2-0
Farmington Harrison	1-1
Northville	1-1
Plymouth Canton	0-2
Walled Lake Western	0-2

Coolman Wins Grid Contest

Mike Coolman uncorked a surprise play this past week in winning first place in the weekly football contest...and it came close to costing him the victory.

Mike picked all 15 college games correct, but when it came to picking the winner of the Detroit-Minnesota game he predicted a tie instead.

He had the game knotted at 17-all, and as all angry Lion fans know Detroit came out on the short end of a 23-9 score.

His one mistake was still good enough to win, as Tom Gates, 9262 West Six Mile Road and Kaye Wick of 9267 Tower Road took second and third places, respectively, with two mistakes. Tom won second by virtue of his better

Ex-Novi Halfback Shines

Freshman tailback Jim VanWagner, a former Novi High School standout, has been named the Michigan Tech Offensive Player of the Week by the coaching staff for his performance in the Huskies' 14-14 tie at Ferris last Saturday.

VanWagner was the game's leading rusher, picking up 112 yards in 27 carries, and scored the Huskies' first touchdown on a seven-yard run. In addition, he pulled in a pair of passes good for 22 yards.

Along with older brother Tom, an offensive guard, Jim was also the recipient of a Blue Chip Award from the coaches for his outstanding efforts.

The 6-1, 195 pound running back is the team's leading ball carrier with 223 yards in 50 carries for an average of 4.5 yards per carry.

Mustang of the Week

BRIAN MILLS

Mustang of the Week honors go to Brian Mills, one of the outstanding high school golfers in the state. Mills, a senior with three years of varsity experience, paced the Mustangs to a victory over 34 other schools in the Oakland Press Tournament Monday. Mills' score of 76 was the second best in the 140-man field - three shots behind the 73 turned in by Waterford Mott's Allan Young. "Brian's been doing a good consistent job for us all year long," commented Coach Al Jones. "He's always up among the leaders."

'Witches' Plan Luncheon Here

By NANCY DINGELDEY

The nip's in the air, the color is in the leaves...even pumpkins have grown large and orange...a sure sign that fall is here. It's a beautiful time of year and it brings us to bigger and better things happening in Wixom.

First of all, we "witches" can join together at a Witches Luncheon on October 30 at the V.F.W. It's potluck and promises to be a fun event. This is a date to remember...more on it later.

And already we're thinking of Christmas, maybe a little earlier this year, but the annual "Holiday Boutique" will give you the chance to do some early Christmas shopping with little duress.

The Boutique is scheduled this year for November 10 at the V.F.W. with even more to choose from than last year.

We're trying hard for a "kid's corner" where the little ones can make purchases at a price they can afford.

If you have an art or craft that you think would fit into a Boutique sale, give me a call and I'd be glad to give you all the information.

Newly elected officers of the Northridge Civic Association are Bonnie Haight, President; Harry Fitzgerald,

Vice-president; Margaret Ladd, Secretary; Sid Resner, Treasurer; and Pam Dodge, Member-at-large. Appointed to the board were Russ Hoffmeyer, who has the tremendous job of Fund Raising, and Yvonne Courtney who has the equally difficult job of Social Chairman.

Coming up for this "always doing something" group is a treasure hunt on October 20.

United Fund doorbell volunteers will be covering Wixom come Monday for the 1973 fund campaign kickoff. Those in charge of the various neighborhoods are Joan Travis for Hickory Hills, Janette Dickey for Birch Park, Ellen Callahan for Pontiac Trail, Chris Dace for Highgate, and Pam Seleska who will be in charge of all the apartments on Pontiac Trail. These gals and their block volunteers will be making a house to house canvas in the next two weeks.

In most cases, the gals are "known" to their neighbors for your and their protection.

The Henry Mack's of Evona Road along with seven other couples spent the weekend in Toronto and reported an absolutely great time. That is believable...Toronto is a great City. They boarded a train in Windsor at dawn's early break Saturday and returned long after the birds went to bed Sunday night. An evening out on the town on Saturday night, partying and walking, walking, and walking found them "pretty pooped" when they got home.

Another well known traveling foursome has returned from one of those spectacular New England "color trips". Lillian Spencer, along with Mildred Gibson and Hilda Furman, were joined by a long time Wixom resident Helen Goodman who is now living in Dearborn. They flew to Burlington, Vermont, rented a car, and were on their merry way up and down and all around. They reported absolutely beautiful scenery at every turn of the road.

A real highlight of the trip was a stop in Wilkboro, New Hampshire, where a group of railroad buffs have joined together to buy a big steam engine and a whole line of cars to restore. So the four ladies spent two and one-half hours sitting in the old, old parlor cars and taking a really lovely journey through the mountains and woods.

Lillian reported the schedule wasn't nearly complete but the line is hauling freight and all the old depots along the line are being restored also.

The trip also took them along the shores of Lake

Champlain to Stowe, Vermont, where they stayed at the Green Mountain Inn. Then on to Smugglers Notch, a delightful trip through the mountains to White Mountain and the National Forest, through Conway with all its covered bridges, followed by two days at Kennebunkport, Maine, where they spent two days at an oceanside hamlet. Bar Harbor was just gorgeous and Campden, Maine, was described as a picture book town with all the sailboats in the harbor.

The ladies have made this trip any number of times and always come back raving about its beauty. It's just got to be "one of those trips" to make.

THEFT PREVENTION—Jeffrey W. Sleete, son of Mrs. Irene I. Sleete, 19939 Schoolhouse Ct., Northville, takes advantage of "Project Mark It!" to engrave his social security number on his television. The EMU Housing Office project is designed to stop campus theft. Jeffrey, a sophomore majoring in speech, is a resident advisor in Best Residence Hall.

November 16. It is 98 minutes long. On November 30 an evening of short films has been planned with titles to be announced.

A Brazilian film, "Black God, White Devil," will be shown on December 7. It is 120 minutes in length with Portuguese dialogue and English subtitles.

Nine Mile Road Flooding Studied

Lyon Township Supervisor William K. Smith favors developing fish life—but not in the roadway of a county road.

He took Oakland County Road Commission representatives on a personally conducted tour of a stretch of Nine Mile Road, just east of Currie Road, that floods in periods of heavy rain. The road commission people stared thoughtfully at Nine Mile Road, which appeared to disappear into a pond and reappear some 800 feet away, on the other bank.

They quickly got the point and agreed with Smith that users of the road should not have to depend on amphibian vehicles.

"The Board of County Road Commissioners has entered into an agreement with Lyon Township to raise the road bed out of the periodic standing water and regrade its surface for approximately 800 feet," said William M. Richards, chairman of the road panel.

He said the Township has agreed to pay $3,000 toward the cost and the Road Commission will pay the remaining $9,000 of a total project cost of $12,000.

Richards said construction will begin as soon as bids can be taken and a contract awarded.

Police Blotter

Hold Youth at Gun Point, Rob Motel

In Novi

Novi police are looking for two men who gained entry to the Fairlane Motel on Grand River late one night last week and then held up the 15-year old son of the owner at gun point.

It was the first reported case of armed robbery in Novi this year.

The youth told police the following story.

At approximately 11:45 p.m. on Friday, the 15-year old son of the owner of the motel answered the door bell and was confronted by a young white male approximately 18-20 years old who inquired about the cost of a room.

The youth responded and the man said "good" and then proceeded into the lobby where he pulled a knife and ordered the youth not to move.

At this point, the youth told investigating officers, a second man - his head completely covered by a gorilla mask - entered the building with a gun and ordered the 15-year old to sit down.

The man with the mask then proceeded to the cash register where he removed $45 in bills while the first man was keeping watch on the entrance and the youth.

The two men then ran out the front door of the motel toward Grand River where they got into a car, police theorize, and drove off.

According to John Johnson of the Novi Detective Bureau, police have no strong leads at this time, but the case is under investigation.

A Novi woman was assaulted by a young man who broke into her home on 1101 South Lake Drive last week.

The woman called police to report that a white male with shoulder length blond hair in his early twenties broke into her home through the rear door.

The woman, surprised at the youth's entrance, ordered him to get out of her house at which time he pushed her up against a kitchen table, slapped her across the face, and ripped her clothing, she told police.

The woman managed to free herself and ran out the front door, while the youth exited through the rear door.

The incident occurred shortly after midnight on October 5.

Police are investigating the breaking and entering of a residence at 24617 Olde Orchard in the Olde Orchard condominium development on Ten Mile Road.

The owner of the residence told police he returned home in mid-evening after having been out with his family for a short period. He first observed that the lights, which had been out when they left, were now on.

Upon entering the home, he found that the living room had been ransacked.

Approximately $200 worth of goods were removed from the home. Stolen articles included a rifle, an eight-band radio, a camera, and a movie camera.

Vandals did an estimated $250 worth of damage to the Orchard Hills Elementary School last week.

Sometime between 6 p.m. on September 27 and 6 a.m. the following day, vandals broke four windows in the school, apparently by throwing rocks.

Two 50x67 inch windows valued at $100 apiece and two 20x39 inch windows valued at $25 each were broken.

Four vending machines and a $1 bill changer were stolen from the Leading Division Hydromat Filter Company on Nine Mile Road in a breaking and entering which took place September 30.

According to reports, the coin boxes from each of the machines had been removed.

Bradford Munger, 18, a Novi resident, has been arrested by police in conjunction with a series of breaking and enterings.

Munger is allegedly involved with a number of break-ins in the Novi area, including breaking and enterings of the Novi Elementary School, Farmington Trenching, and Suburban Wall.

Police said that property reportedly stolen from each of those locations has been recovered and returned.

Munger was arraigned before 52nd District Court Judge Martin Boyle last week.

In Northville

Three thefts were reported to police during the past week and are currently under investigation.

A 1971 orange Honda, valued at $1,600 was stolen from Northville Park Apartments on Novi Road about 10:20 p.m. last week Tuesday.

Owner of the motorcycle told police he heard the cycle being started and chased the thief northbound on Novi Road but could not locate him.

The motorcycle had dual headlights and bore 1973 Michigan license plates GC-813.

Officers are investigating the loss of $177 from Clark Service Station on South Main Street. The cash was found missing from the business on Friday, police reports indicated.

Unknown persons entered a locked car parked behind Northville High School Friday afternoon and removed an fm converter. Police said wires were cut to remove the converter from the dash.

A plate glass window at Lov-Lee Beauty Salon was broken between 4 p.m. Monday and 8:30 a.m. Tuesday with what police believe may have been a rock.

Cost of replacing the window, which also was cracked from top to bottom, was estimated at $250.

Police apprehended two juveniles shortly before 6 p.m. last week Wednesday after they reportedly saw one of the youths throw an object through a window at the rear of Main Street Elementary School.

Officers chased the two through the Cady Street

Cemetery where the youths were caught.

The ancient city of Jericho was a pleasant one (2 Kings 2:19). It had been rebuilt from total destruction. To us a pleasant city would be one with low-density housing, plenty of trees, sufficient parks and recreation. How Jericho was pleasant, we don't know. Perhaps it was a city that had all of these and more.

This pleasant city, however, lacked one thing - water! The Bible says the water was "naught" which meant every drink caused a stomach ache. The cattle miscarried their young, the trees dropped their fruit before it was ripe and women couldn't bear children. Obviously this situation caused sorrow, a food shortage and zero population growth.

Jericho had everything but water. They lacked only one thing, but what an important commodity. You may have everything - two cars, beautiful home, good job, well-behaved children and a growing list of material things. Did you ever stop to think that you may lack "water"?

Water in the Bible is a picture of spiritual life. You may lack this kind of life - a real, living relationship with Jesus Christ as your own savior.

Without Him in your life these days, you could be in for a lot of trouble. Without Him living in your heart, there's no future. You have many friends but you lack the one who is most important.

LATE BLOOMER—Spring and summer are seasons of the past except for this late blooming apple tree in the yard of Mrs. Delmer Schuler at 48565 West Seven Mile Road. Then again, maybe the flowering tree's an early bloomer...just getting a head start on next spring. After all, the tree had already bloomed earlier this year and produced a crop of apples.

Novi Council Appoints Three

Vacancies on the Planning Board and the Parks and Recreation Commission were filled Monday as the Novi city council made three appointments.

Gary Roberts, a Meadowbrook Glens resident, was named to the Planning Board, while Raymond Murphy from Village Oaks and Mary MacDermaid of northern Novi were appointed to the Parks and Recreation Commission.

A traffic engineer consultant, Roberts was appointed to fill the unexpired term of William Weber who stepped down from the Planning Board two weeks ago.

Murphy was reappointed to fill his own expired term on the Parks and Recreation Commission, while Miss MacDermaid was appointed to fill a vacancy created by the expiration of the term of Edward Butler. Butler had indicated that he did not desire to be reappointed.

The council cast a unanimous ballot in making each appointment.

Students Receive Merit Awards

Three Northville High School students have been awarded letters of commendation for their high performance in the 1972 National Merit Program.

Those receiving the honors were Jean Fritz, Eric Meister and Lori Smith.

In announcing the awards, high school Principal Fred Holdsworth said the honors were based upon the students' performance on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

The three Northville students are among 38,000 commended students throughout the United States, National Merit Program spokesmen said.

In a related matter, Mrs. Alta Olson of the counseling department announced that PSAT tests will be given at Northville High on Tuesday, October 23.

Students desiring further information may contact Mrs. Olson in the counseling office.

Work has begun on the 1974 Northville High yearbook, Palladium.

Although only seven students have signed up for the extra-curricular activity, Emily Serafa, sponsor of the staff, hopes the staff will increase during the year. Students are receiving classroom credit for their work on the yearbook.

Those interested in joining the staff may contact her at the high school. "We would like the community to be aware of the fact that since we have an extremely small staff, we need all the help that we can get," she added.

Approximately 50 colleges and universities are expected to have representatives at a special College Night program co-hosted by Northville and Novi High Schools.

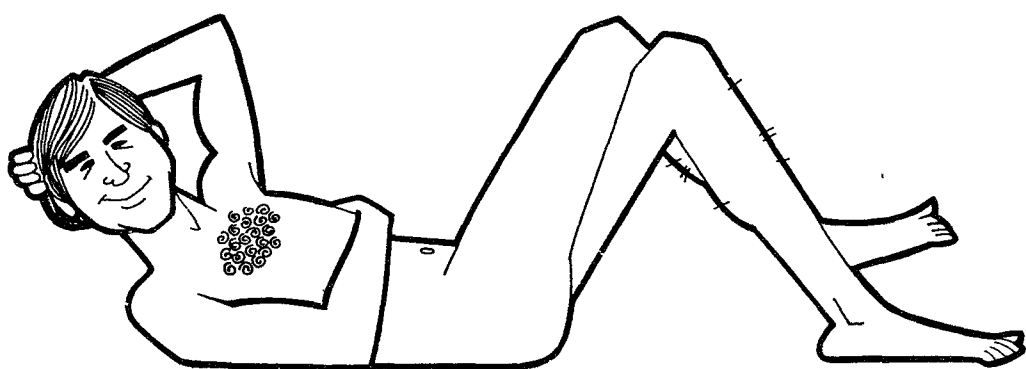

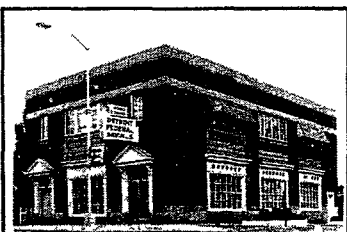

The College Night program is slated for Thursday, October 25, at Northville High School beginning at 7:30 p.m. Eleventh and twelfth grade students from Northville, Novi, and Plymouth High Schools are encouraged to attend.

In addition to the representatives from the colleges and universities, representatives from all the armed services and a representative from the Financial Aid Department of the State of Michigan will also be present.
