Zero minus two days and counting on hundreds of walking volunteers, Jaycees are braced for a massive assault on hunger and sickness Saturday.

Walk for Mankind, a 21-mile trek through Northville and Novi to raise medical relief monies, will get underway at 9 a.m. at Northville Downs.

Most of the money raised by the nearly 1,000 persons expected to attempt the 21 miles will be donated to Project Concern, an international agency that supports 13 hospitals and clinics treating 500,000 people in Appalachia, the Navajo area of the Southwest, Ethiopia, Hong Kong, Vietnam and Mexico.

who get sponsorship of a specified amount of money for each mile the volunteers manage to hike.

Hundreds of persons, mostly youngsters, are soliciting sponsors, report Jaycees of both communities.

After visiting schools in both Novi and Northville last week, walk officials reported a swell of enthusiastic support.

Says Richard Norton, assistant principal at Cooke Middle School:

"We went through 500 sponsor sheets right away and had to get more. I'm walking myself." Several teachers will be walking, including a

Northville Tennis Fan

There's an advantage in having a home next door to a sports field, and then of course there's a disadvantage. First the advantage: if your backdoor is just 20 feet from the tennis courts you can take in all the Western Six matches as does this avid fan, who, along with three other members of his family, rarely misses the action as the ball sails back and forth across the net. Some say the quartet's tennis interest started about the time a young lady joined the previously all boys varsity tennis team. Could be. Now for the disadvantage: you've heard of Tennis Elbow, but have you ever heard of a Tennis Neck? Well, try watching tennis day after day with your eyes glued to the ball and your rear end stuffed into a hole and see if it isn't a pain in the neck.

Zoning Law Tabled 5 Weeks After Hearing

Rathert Parking Gets Price Tag

"It's been over two years in the making so I don't think a few more weeks will make much difference," said Mayor A. M. Allen Monday night in adjourning the proposed new zoning ordinance and map for five weeks.

The Northville council is expected next week to officially set June 24 as the date when the ordinance will again come up in public hearing. At that time council is expected to approve a modification of the original planning commission's recommendation. Meanwhile, councilmen and planning commission members very likely will try to resolve some differences, consider appeals of citizens at the past hearings, and attempt to hammer together a compromise.

"We've got a lot of work to do," said Allen.

Relatively few persons voiced objections to the zoning map Monday and in most of these cases the subject matter had surfaced in previous meetings.

One of the suggestions heard by council was that of Kenneth Rathert, himself a former councilman. Referring to parking space requirements for downtown buildings, Rathert suggested the council consider a less restrictive parking requirement of second-floors of two-story buildings.

Two property owners on the north side of East Main Street, between Hutton and Griswold, expressed opposition to a proposal to rezone the area to central business district from its present commercial classification.

Neither John VanTine of 371 East Main nor John Murray of 355 East Main saw any benefit to becoming part of the CBD.

Jason Horton of Ferndale reminded council of his firm's outstanding request that 2.7 acres of property near the northeast corner of Eight Mile and Taft Road be designated for R-3 (multiples) zoning. A 22-unit condominium project has been planned for the site.

Arguing that his Gulf Oil property on Main Street at Wing should retain its commercial classification, Orson Atchinson pointed out that a change to a professional office zoning would adversely affect the value of the property. Furthermore, he noted that PO zoning would make the existing station non-conforming and therefore unnecessarily restrict him and Gulf Oil from making improvements to the building.

Atchinson was reminded by Councilman Paul Vernon that under the board of appeals procedure he could formally request approval for desired building modifications.

As he has in the past, George Kohn of 473 West Cady Street argued that his property adjacent to the cemetery be rezoned to

A parking assessment of $10,500 was approved by the Northville City Council Monday for the downtown property of former councilman Kenneth Rathert.

With the establishment of that assessment, the council brought to a close a two-year-old piece of unfinished business.

Rathert, who said the assessment does not make him want to jump up and down for joy, indicated he will nevertheless accept it.

In setting the amount, council emphasized that it in no way should be interpreted as a precedent for establishing the parking assessment for other properties, including the Drawbridge Restaurant property.

The latter business also must still pay for its parking requirement but unlike Rathert, the Drawbridge did not share in the cost of the parking deck and therefore

Michigan Week

Cassopolis Mayor to Visit Here

A 47-year-old pharmacist, who was elected mayor of the Village of Cassopolis last March, will be the official guest of Northville Monday for the mayor's exchange day program during the annual Michigan Week celebration. He is Donald H. Horne, a member of the Cassopolis city council since 1968.

The Michigan Week celebration gets underway Saturday—Community Pride Day—and concludes the following Saturday, May 25, with Youth Day.

Serving as the official host and hostess on behalf of the city will be Mayor Pro Tem and Mrs. Paul Vernon. Other city officials and citizens also will entertain the guest, said Michigan Week Chairman James Kipfer.

The welcoming ceremony at the city hall, which is to feature a band presentation, is planned at 10 a.m.

Northville Mayor and Mrs. A. M. Allen, meanwhile, are to be guests of Cassopolis—a small village in Cass County, eight miles from Dowagiac.

Activities in Cassopolis will be somewhat similar to those planned here.

Part of LaGrange Township, Cassopolis' major industry is a trailer manufacturing factory. Tourism, however, is important since the village and surrounding area contains two lakes.

One of its major attractions is an original pioneer log cabin, containing historical artifacts. It is located near Stone Lake. The other lake is Diamond Lake.

Northville's Michigan Week exchange community has a population of about 2100 people. It has a mayor-council form of government, with trustees being elected for two years in teams.

The Cassopolis High School is located inside the village, but under a recently approved $6 million bond issue a new high school is to be constructed elsewhere in the school district. The present high school is to become a middle school.

Community Pride Day festivities, according to Kipfer, will include the street washing by the fire department early Saturday morning.

On Sunday, Spiritual Foundation Day, area clergy will incorporate in their sermons and announcements the appropriate messages relating to the role of religion in Michigan's heritage, the

Violation Bureau Can't Be Set Up

"There's nothing that says we can set up a violations bureau and there's nothing that says we cannot," Trustee Richard Mitchell told fellow township board members last Thursday.

But the 35th District Court Judge Dunbar Davis does not agree.

Mitchell, who said that such a move would be legal if the bureau is manned by a court employee, asked that the board accept the concept of the violations bureau pending the judge's concurrence.

He stated that previous reports published in The Northville Record saying the township could not establish a bureau to collect fines from violations on which persons wish to plead guilty were erroneous.

However, Judge Davis reaffirmed his position when contacted by this newspaper Tuesday that a violations bureau cannot be established.

"I have not changed my mind," Judge Davis said. "They (township) have no right to set up a violations bureau. I told them that court must be held in the municipality for a bureau to be established. They do not have sufficient population to set up a court, do not have a court facility and do not share in paying court expenses."

Currently, Judge Davis holds court in Canton and Plymouth townships and Northville and Plymouth cities. Northville township

Township to Fill Fire Marshal Post

Whether the police chief or building official will be named fire marshal of Northville township is expected to be decided by the board at its June 13 meeting.

Discussing the matter last Thursday, trustees seemed undecided on who would receive the designation by ordinance.

Township Attorney Donald Morgan was directed to re-draft the ordinance, leaving the designation blank.

Trustee Richard Mitchell, who advocated the board adopt the ordinance that evening with the police chief named fire marshal, said he felt the police chief was best qualified since they would be taking fire fighting courses this summer and were on duty 24 hours a day.

Morgan cautioned the board that the fire prevention code, which the ordinance would adopt setting up a fire prevention bureau, "was drafted primarily to aid the fire study committee and was drafted with a consolidated (public safety) department or the township's own department."

"The fire marshal could be the supervisor, building inspector or police chief as the enforcer and head of the fire prevention bureau," Morgan explained.

He said he personally felt that a building inspector was more qualified and that the fire marshal could be the administrator making ap-

NORTHVILLE FAIR meeting for organizations and their representatives wishing to participate in this year's event will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the general offices of Northville Downs.

CITIZENS INTERESTED in tax reform, campaign financing or other legislative matters are invited by the Northville-Plymouth League of Women Voters and the King's Mill Civitans to attend a reception for area legislators from 8 to 10 p.m. this Friday, May 17, at the King's Mill clubhouse to discuss areas of concern person-to-person with county, state and federal representatives. By the first of the week R. Robert Geake, Clifford Smart and Lew Coy had accepted invitations to attend.

BECAUSE Monday is Mayor's Exchange Day and officials are expected to be tied up with Michigan Week activities, the Monday council meeting has been set back a day to Tuesday at 8 p.m. The city planning commission, which normally meets on Tuesday, will meet next week on Monday instead.

AN ANTI-ABORTION organization, calling itself Lifespan Inc., failed to win Northville council backing Monday to designate June 2-11 as Respect for Life Week—a time to lend moral and financial support for the organization and its cause. A motion by councilman Paul Folino was not supported.

Seek Weavers, Artists For New Organizations

By JEAN DAY

FOR THOSE WHO are creative with their hands two new organizations are being organized in Northville and are welcoming members.

A group of handweavers has formed a guild in the area with members working in both contemporary and traditional methods. They're producing pillows, rugs, shawls, belts, drapery fabrics and placemats as well as conceptual tapestries and formal wall hangings.

Northville Handweavers' Guild will be demonstrating card weaving, inkle weaving, backstrap weaving, four-harness tapestry and off-the-loom weaving next Tuesday on Heritage Day during Michigan Week at the Mill Race historical village.

The weaving demonstrations are to be part of the open house planned from noon to 7 p.m. in the old library building. Visitors will see the restoration work completed on the building as well as crafts of yesteryear.

The guild is meeting once a month, according to Ellen Wahi, vice president, "to share and to grow in its art." Anyone interested in the guild is invited to talk to members at the Mill Race demonstration Tuesday.

AN ART WORKSHOP for "strictly amateur or Sunday painters" is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 22, in the scout-recreation building at 215 Cady Street.

This is an organizational gathering for anyone who likes to paint, according to Carole Wobermin. She is organizing the group for amateurs who like to paint in watercolors, oils, acrylics or chalk—on anything from wood to canvas.

Mrs. Wobermin points out that the workshop will be a sharing of ideas with members inspiring each other to "hang in there" and paint. Both men and women are welcome, and decision on how often to meet will be made at next Thursday's session.

Unlike Three Cities Art Club, which is composed of recognized artists, the new group is for anyone who likes to try to paint, she adds.

NORTHVILLE BRANCH of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association journeyed to Ann Arbor Monday to hold its annual meeting in the clubhouse of the condominium where life member Mrs. Francis Jennings now is living.

The gavel retiring president Mrs. Gene Cushing presented to incoming president, Mrs. Warner Krause, was decorated with an orchid. Past President Mrs. William Switzler then expressed the club's appreciation to Mrs. Cushing, presenting her with a fluted-edge, engraved silver tray.

Lizanne Peace and Pam Palarchio were announced as the branch scholarship recipients this year. The honorees both are seniors at Northville High School and both plan to attend Michigan State University in the fall.

Mrs. Switzler was hostess chairman assisted by Mrs. J. Thomas Handy, Mrs. William Farrington, Mrs. Harold Noffz and Mrs. C. James Martin.

THE SPRING-YELLOW "Put on a Happy Face" theme of the annual mother-daughter banquet at Northville First Presbyterian Church was acclaimed by a capacity group of 232 mothers and daughters attending last Wednesday.

A surprise floral tribute was presented to Mrs. Phillip Fisher for her faithful work with the women's association.

Mrs. Von Boll, mistress of ceremonies, was in charge of arrangements with Mrs. Robert Kennedy. Mrs. Boll and daughter Karen presented traditional tributes to daughters and mothers. Mrs. John MacDonald led the singing with Mrs. Edwin Langtry providing music.

Following dinner served by husbands and sons, a style show was presented by Claire Kelly on the stage transformed into a garden patio complete with umbrella and dogwood tree.

Members and daughters modeling were Mrs. H.O. Evans and Suzie, Mrs. MacDonald and Susie, Mrs. Kenneth Shelly and Heidi and Peggy, Mrs. Donald Willoughby and Lisa and Laura.

HERE FROM PARIS on a combined business trip and visit are former Highland Lakes residents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Aberle, who now are based in France with Federal Mogul Corporation. They were dinner guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haynie of Brookland Farms.

Another former resident of Northville, Mrs. Hugh McKay, is expected for a visit the end of this month. The McKay family now is living in Mountainside, New Jersey.

An active resident of the community while the family lived here, Nancy McKay will be the house guest of the Orin Hoves.

FLORIDA RETURNEES the Donald Wares are back in their home at 239 Hulton after "following the flowers north" from their winter home at Stuart. Mary Ware, whose garden is a Northville attraction, reports they especially noted the dogwood in the Carolinas.

She adds that new additions to the Florida scene are the Ernest J. Shaves who are in process of purchasing a larger condominium in Stuart. Mrs. Ware and Reva Shave, both strong workers on the Northville opera committee, have had to drop this interest as they do not return in early spring.

Another Florida neighbor, Mrs. Beth Lapham, and her guest, Mrs. Vance Masters, have had a delay in returning to Northville. Last Friday evening in their motel parking lot in Savannah, Georgia, a purse snatcher injured Mrs. Masters who still was in a Savannah hospital the middle of this week.

Earlier this year another neighbor, Mrs. William Cansfield, had visited Mrs. Lapham for a month after spending Christmas season with her daughter in Florida.

AREA HOSTESSES at the 127th annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association last week in Detroit were Mrs. Charles Fountain and Mrs. F.F. Ishac. They were on hand each day to advise visitors about Michigan attractions.

Greenfield Village, Henry Ford Museum and the Ford Motor Company in Dearborn were the most popular destinations, Mary Esther Fountain recalls.

For Senior Citizens

Provide 'Showboat' Bus

A full busload of Northville Senior Citizens will attend the Schoolcraft College performance of "Showboat" this Friday. Those who have reservations are to board the bus at 7 p.m. at Kerr House

Northville Senior Citizens will be entertained with a musical program following their monthly potluck dinner at 6 p.m. Tuesday, May 28, in Northville Presbyterian Church fellowship hall.

Six harmonica players of the Retired Men's Fellowship Club of Detroit will play several varied selections. Herbert Henstock of King's Mill is a member.

An 86-year-old Scottish comedian, Jim Barclay, is to give a "Harry Lauder" presentation. Accompanist for the group is Judy Johnson, who also will play special piano selections.

Mrs. Oscar Hammond, program chairman, asks that members bring a little additional food in their dishes as the group will be the club's guests for dinner.

AARP Plans Lunch

Plymouth-Northville Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will have a two-part program at its monthly meeting Wednesday, May 22, following a sack lunch at noon at Plymouth Presbyterian Church.

There will be a presentation of the program for the deaf by the Lutheran School for the Deaf and also a discussion of needs and interests of senior citizens in the field of senior housing

The chapter, which now has about 315 members, has been forced to discontinue potluck lunches, Fred W. Bradley, president, points out, because of the size of the group. He adds that the new arrangement of sack lunches, begun in April, is working well.

Visitors and prospective members who are 55 years old or older are welcomed at the meetings which are attended by members from South Lyon and Salem as well as Plymouth and Northville.

Each LaLeche series consists of four monthly meetings at which different phases of breastfeeding are discussed informally.

In announcing the new series, Mrs. Williams points out that the league is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping interested mothers give "happiness and security to their babies through breastfeeding".

Meetings, she adds, are led by qualified leaders, and telephone counseling is available to mothers at any time. Each league group is equipped with a lending library containing books and pamphlets on childbirth, breastfeeding and related subjects.

Anyone interested in further information about the upcoming series may contact Mrs. Robert Frellick, 349-2840, or Mrs. Thomas Nunez, 455-0215.

A board of 45 medical doctors who act as consultants for breastfeeding research and medical problems is affiliated with the league, the local group states.

City Manager Under Fire

Financial Crisis Looms as Funds Run Out

"Quite simply, the City of Novi is broke."

With those words Mayor Robert Daley summed up a report from City Manager Harold Saunders that Novi has a serious financial problem and is facing the prospect of ending the current fiscal year with a debt of $169,000.

In a heated session which lasted two and one-half hours and brought strong criticism of Saunders' management of city finances, Novi's City Council passed two resolutions which will provide an immediate but temporary solution to the problem by a split decision.

The solution, proposed by Saunders and endorsed by the council by a 5-2 vote, involved adoption of two resolutions.

First, the council approved a resolution authorizing the transfer of "up to" $190,000 from the water fund to the general fund so the city can pay its bills.

And, second, the council approved a resolution authorizing the sale of "up to" $200,000 in tax anticipation notes to pay back the money taken from the water fund. In essence, tax anticipation notes enable the city to borrow money now and pay it back - with interest - from next year's revenue.

Should the city issue the full $200,000 in tax anticipation notes, the result would be that it would start the 1974-75 fiscal year with a debt of $200,000 - plus interest - hanging over its head.

In moving adoption of both resolutions, Councilman George Athas emphasized that the actions should be taken only if absolutely necessary. "If it turns out that we only have to borrow $30,000 from the water fund to meet our expenses, then only borrow $30,000 from the water fund," instructed Athas.

In the meantime, Saunders reported, all department heads have been directed to cut spending to the basic requirements. The council directed Saunders to prepare a list of all expenditures which he felt could be eliminated.

Of major concern is the effect the city's financial condition will have on its ability to sell revenue bonds and the effect it will have on the development of the $50 million regional shopping center at the corner of Novi and 12 Mile Roads.

Development of the shopping center is tied in to the city's ability to extend water lines to the site. Those lines were supposed to have been put in the ground this summer. How much that project will be affected by the loan of as much as $190,000 from the water department will remain to be seen.

Concern over the effect the financial condition will have on the regional shopping center was expressed by Councilman Athas who said he hoped that Dayton-Hudson would not "pull up stakes and walk out on us."

Both Saunders and Howard Stevenson, bonding council, suggested the effect on the shopping center and the city's ability to borrow money would be only minimal, provided the money borrowed from the water fund were repaid - through sale of the tax anticipation notes - by the end of the current fiscal year (June 30).

In explaining how the financial condition had developed, Saunders stated that the problem was not overspending, but that "Revenues had failed to meet budgeted expectations." Projecting the city's expenditures against anticipated revenue for the rest of the fiscal year, Saunders told the council that the deficit would fall between $150,000 and $200,000.

Closest estimate to the actual amount of indebtedness was $169,000, reported the City Manager.

The problem can be traced to the budget of the building department. In preparing the 1973-74 budget, the council anticipated revenue of $208,000 from the issuance of building permits and licenses.

To date, however, only $103,000 in revenue has been realized.

Saunders said that general economic conditions which prevail throughout the country were behind the drastic fall off in revenue.

"I'm not offering any apologies," stated Saunders. "There were danger signs that I should have picked up on earlier. The controller and I should not be relieved of responsibility for not flagging this earlier."

The council agreed. Councilman Denis Berry said that "we've got a lot of high-paid personnel who are supposed to keep track of things like this. This is the worst shape we've ever been

"WALKING'S HOT WORK"—Northville and Novi chairmen Ed Tittsworth and Dave McCarthy of the Jaycee-sponsored "Walk for Mankind" this Saturday admit that even when you are in training foot powder helps.

Those planning to take the walk are to report with their sponsor forms between 7 and 9 a.m. Saturday to the Northville Downs parking lot.

Of Michigan Week

Novi Extends Observance

For the first time in recent years Novi has decided to extend its commemoration of Michigan Week to a full week.

In the past Novi, like most other communities throughout the state, has limited its participation in the Michigan Week format to one day—Government Day. This year, however, the decision was made to commemorate each of the eight days in Michigan Week (May 18-25), and plans have been completed for the onset of activities this Saturday—Community Pride Day.

The person responsible for extending the festivities is Linda Pochter, a transplanted Californian who agreed to assume responsibilities as Novi's Michigan Week Chairman.

Although events have been planned for each of the eight Michigan Week days, major activities will take place on Monday, May 20, which is officially designated Government Day. That's the day that Novi will exchange officials with the City of Blissfield.

City Manager Harold Saunders and his wife Ellie, Mayor Robert Daley and his wife Joan, City Councilwoman Romaine Roethel, and Police Chief Lee BeGole will journey to Blissfield for the day, while Mrs. Pochter will host a group of Blissfield officials that includes Mayor Charles Kohler and Councilman Dick Million.

(Ironically, it was the Blissfield High School baseball team which defeated Novi in the finals of the state Class C championship last year).

The second major event slated for Monday is the student government exchange. Students at Novi High School have elected a mock mayor and city council. These elected officials will then appoint other students to such appointed city offices as city manager, police chief, city attorney, assessor, et cetera.

On Monday, each student will spend the day with his counterpart in the city government.

Monday's activities will begin at 8:25 a.m. when the Blissfield contingent will be met at the Holiday Inn and escorted to the Novi Middle School where their arrival will be heralded by the Middle School Band.

A continental breakfast will be held in the Middle School Library at 9 a.m. and student government day activities will commence in the Middle School Commons at 10 a.m.

Student and Blissfield officials will lunch at Bob-O-

Link Golf Club at 12 noon and the students will spend the rest of the afternoon with their municipal counterparts, while the Blissfield contingent will be given a tour of the city via helicopter.

Activities will resume at 6:30 p.m. with cocktails at the Holiday Inn. The annual appreciation dinner for all city officials, members of volunteer commissions, and members of the administrative staff will get underway at 7:30.

Monday's city council meeting has been rescheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Other Michigan Week activities planned for Novi include:

Saturday, May 18: The "Walk for Mankind" sponsored by the Novi and Northville Jaycees is slated for

City Averts Arbitration; Police Demands Satisfied

With the threat of arbitration standing directly over its head, Novi's City Council adopted a plan Monday that will alleviate "unsafe working conditions" in the police department by providing a lock up for detention of prisoners.

The action came only after the Novi Police Officer's Association (NPOA) had launched a strong campaign that included enlistment of the assistance of the Michigan Police Officer's Association (MPOA).

Citing several incidents in which officers had been attacked by unruly prisoners, the NPOA took the position that the city had violated the terms of its contract by failing to provide the means "to protect the health and safety of the officer."

A grievance against the city was filed on April 15. When City Manager Harold Saunders responded that the matter was not a "legitimate grievable or arbitrable item" on May 2, the NPOA set a one week deadline for resolution of the space problem.

On May 9 the NPOA proceeded to file for arbitration on the item and requested mediation of the grievance from the Michigan Employment Relations Commission.

As a result of the action approved by the city council Monday, however, the threat of arbitration has been reduced.

Corporal Jack Grubb, president of the NPOA, told The Novi News that the action taken by the council was satisfactory to meet the immediate demands of the association and stated that grievance would be dropped "once we have assurance that the city is going to follow through with its plans."

Detective Sergeant Gordon Nelson also expressed satisfaction with the action as "an interim solution." "Basically we were seeking a holding cell and that's what we got," stated Nelson.

Specifically, the council adopted a two-part plan for resolution of the space problem in the police department.

The first phase, proposed by Councilwoman Romaine Roethel, would offer an immediate solution to the problem. Mrs. Roethel told the council that School Board Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz had tentatively agreed to let the city utilize an unused classroom in the Novi Elementary School for office space.

City Manager Harold Saunders was authorized by the council to transfer whatever employees he deemed necessary to the school and move the city treasurer's office out of its present location on the first floor of City Hall. The police dispatchers would then be moved from their present location to the vacated treasurer's office and the vacated dispatcher's room would be available for use as a lock up for unruly prisoners.

In proposing the plan, Mrs. Roethel stressed that the changes could be accomplished in a couple of days and would provide an immediate solution "to the inhuman conditions our policemen have to work under."

Wixom to Host Chelsea In Busy Michigan Week

Wixom is a community which has always prided itself on its observance of Michigan Week and 1974 will be no exception.

In fact, organizers of Wixom's 1974 Michigan Week festivities have added several new features to the week-long celebration, while retaining past features. The result should be the most extensive celebration of Michigan Week that Wixom residents have seen yet.

Although Michigan Week officially runs from Saturday, May 18, to Saturday, May 25,

Her proposal was adopted unanimously.

The second phase of the program adopted by the council Monday was proposed by Councilman Edwin Presnell as an interim solution to the city's overall space problems.

According to the plan proposed by Presnell a new building will be constructed behind the existing City Hall facilities on Novi Road. A building of 3,360 square feet could be constructed at a cost of approximately $31,000, according to Presnell's estimates.

Once the new building has been completed, all city offices presently located in city hall would be transferred to the new unit and the existing city hall facilities would be turned over to the police department.

Remodeling of the existing city hall, would include provisions for a lock up.

Presnell's proposal was confirmed by the council by a 6-1 vote. Casting the lone dissenting ballot was Councilman Louie Campbell who argued that an alternate proposal for providing additional space was superior to the one proposed by Presnell.

most communities throughout the state limit their observance to Mayor's Exchange Day programs. In Wixom, however, the special significance of each day is taken into consideration and appropriate programs are planned.

Chairman of Wixom's 1974 Michigan Week activities is Jim Schemanske, who has retained such well-established events as the pancake breakfast, senior citizen banquet, and Good-fellow Dance, while adding a variety of new features that include a community golf outing and mustache growing contest.

A complete listing of activities planned for each day of Michigan Week follows:

Saturday, May 18: Wixom will begin its celebration of Michigan Week with a bang this Saturday as six different events are slated to take place. Saturday is designated as "Community Pride Day."

Festivities will get underway bright and early as the Friends of the Library sponsor a pancake breakfast from 8-11 a.m. at the UAW Hall on South Wixom Road. Tickets are available at a price of $1.50 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Displays of Wixom's businesses and industries will be available for viewing throughout the day in the lobby at City Hall.

New to Wixom's Michigan Week celebration is the golf outing to be held at the Hickory Hills Country Club. The course has been reserved for Wixom residents from 12 noon to 3 p.m.

Starting at 1 p.m. on the field behind City Hall is the annual Police-Firemen versus Youth softball game in which the cops and fire fighters take on all comers under 18 years of age.

Judging of the mustache growing contest has been set for City Hall at 11 a.m. Prizes will be awarded for most unique, fullest, and best-groomed.

Capping Saturday's activities will be the annual Goodfellow Dance at the UAW Hall from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Method for adopting a city building authority for financing public improvements, such as the upcoming fire hall, was explained by John Evenhardus, a bonding firm expert. The council will decide upon financing method at the next meeting.

Novi Pupil Spells Way To Honors

Novi eighth grader Robert Blackmer walked away with second place honors in the metropolitan spelling bee last week, losing out to a girl from Grosse Pointe Christian Day School.

Robert's second place mark was achieved in the longest spell-down in the contest's history. In fact, after the two competed for 45 minutes and exhausted the word list, the judges recessed to draw up a new list, using words from the 1971 contest.

It was the first time in 15 years that the list had been exhausted, officials said.

He missed the word "lapidary" but took home a trophy and a 22-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia. Novi Middle School has received a copy of Webster's syllabus as a result of his honor.

Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blackmer of Sheridan in Novi. He competed in the 51st contest.

Lifespan Lists Benefit

A rummage sale to benefit Lifespan and Birthright organizations is scheduled for June 7 and 8 at Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville.

It will be held from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on the Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon on the Saturday, according to Mrs. Delphine Wilkinson, chairman. Funds will be used to purchase supplies to help girls who seek assistance.

Anyone wishing to donate items to the sale may call Mrs. Wilkinson.

One of the biggest items in the sale, she notes, is a live pony for which bids have been taken.

OK Textbooks For Novi High

A new sociology textbook has been approved for use in Novi High School.

The book — Sociology: The Study of Human Relationships, published by Harcourt, Brace, Jananovich — was selected over two others which were rejected because they either presented "very biased views on social class and minorities" or because they dealt strictly with urban groups.

The book selected, according to social studies teachers who examined the text, "gives excellent coverage of topics which are included in the semester outline for discussion."

Band Parents To Elect Monday

Northville High Band Parents will elect officers and make final plans for summer marching band camp at a general meeting at 8 p.m. Monday, May 20, in the high school cafeteria.

This also is the last day band students may register to attend the camp, which will be held the week of August 26. Counselors still are needed for the camp, the group announces.

All parents of band students also are invited to attend the band honors night program at 8 p.m. Friday, June 7, in the high school auditorium when letters will be awarded.

Novi School Board Meets June 11

Because the first June meeting of the Novi Board of Education falls on the night of graduation, the meeting has been changed to the second Tuesday of the month — June 11. Graduation is June 4.

SHE'S FIRST—AND TOP—Veraella Mc-Connell delivers the valedictory as the top graduate in the first class of 18 women inmates of Detroit House of Correction to be graduated in a unique three-way program in which a state prison, a community college and a training center for mentally retarded cooperated. Dean Ted Diebel of Schoolcraft, far left, represented the college at the graduation luncheon Friday at which the women received Child care and Nurse Assistant certificates. Next to him is Donald Laird, director of the program. Councilwoman Irma Henderson represented Detroit, and Superintendent William Womack, right, Plymouth Center.

Complete Unique Program

Eighteen women inmates of Detroit House of Correction, ranging in age from 19 to 43, form the first graduating class in a program unique in the nation.

They were graduated Friday after 22 weeks of preparing to be teacher aides and nurse assistants in Schoolcraft College's Child Care and Nurse Assistant Training Program in which classroom instruction and work training experience took place at the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

The program, officials point out, combines for the first time a state prison, a community college and a training center for mentally retarded working together in a training and rehabilitation effort that "benefits both inmates and retarded children."

After a farewell visit with blind residents in the center's Sullivan Hall and a morning coffee hour with supervisors and nurse attendants and a visit with handicapped residents at Carlson and Binet halls, the graduates were honored at a luncheon and then at actual ceremonies.

During their training the women have worked with blind, physically handicapped, infirm and young ambulatory residents of the center.

Each weekday morning they reported by bus to four locations in the Plymouth Center for Human Development for on-the-job training and classroom instruction.

The program was conceived by John Amberger, DeHoCo superintendent, and William Womack, center superintendent, to help DeHoCo inmates and provide an ongoing supply of trained and motivated persons to enter the human care professions.

It is announced that nine women have to date been granted special early paroles on the basis of participation in the program and at least six more will reenter society before Christmas to work. All of the students have taken the Michigan Civil Service and the Federal Civil Service tests for nurse assistants before graduating.

The program is supported with funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration through a grant from the state office of the Criminal Justice Program Schoolcraft College, contracted with the City of Detroit to conduct the training.

In arranging for the graduation festivities, Peter Schweitzer, who has handled community relations for the program, reports that Mrs. Margie Patrick, a center supervisor, sums up the resulting feeling as she reports, "You wouldn't know they were in DeHoCo unless someone told you. "To me they are another pair of hands to help. We seem to always be short staffed, but with trainees on a ward our residents can have the attention they really need."

Fete Senior Citizens

Tuesday's Heritage Day in Novi will be marked by a sing along for senior citizens.

Sponsored by the Novi Jaycee Auxiliary and the Novi Welcome Wagon, the day's events will be part of the Michigan Week celebration.

All senior citizens in Novi are invited to attend the celebration, whether or not they belong to senior citizen club, Mrs. Joan Hemker, spokeswoman for the Jaycee Auxiliary, commented.

The sing along is set for Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Village Oaks Clubhouse. Leading the songs will be Vincent O'Malley, a professional singer.

The groups are asking those senior citizens who plan to attend the evening of songs, cards and refreshments to notify the groups by tomorrow (Friday). "We want to plan refreshments and tables for cards," Mrs. Hemker said. Seniors are asked to call Mrs. Hemker at 349-5743 or Mrs. June Pursey at 349-4859 if they wish to attend the sing along. Transportation may also be arranged by calling either number.

Ask for Smoking Area

PTSO Backs Report

As a method of removing smokers from Northville High restrooms, the student congress is asking the school board to designate an area outside the school building for smoking.

Speaking before the Northville Board of Education Monday night, Jeff Stabenau, president of the junior class, said other schools have designated areas "and have had a decrease in students smoking in the restrooms. Maybe you could expand the area to all the outside grounds of the school," he added.

The report submitted to the board asks that the courtyard near the teachers' lounge and cafeteria be designated for student smoking.

For the past several years, high school students have been protesting the fact that the restrooms have not been able to be used because of students smoking and vandalism resulting from their use.

Stabenau added that a survey of students estimates 60 percent of high schoolers smoke.

Trustee Mrs. Sylvia Gucken said she visited restrooms at the high school and "all but one was okay. Students are making a strong, positive effort to deal with the problem."

She added that at Livonia's Bentley High School, where students have an outside area in which to smoke, "there is no litter or cigarette butts on the floor of the restrooms. But the smoking area is less clean than I would desire."

Trustee Andrew Orphan suggested the board accept the congress' report and turn it over to a committee of the whole for study and recommendation at the board's June 10 meeting.

Trustee P. Roger Nieuwkoop advised the board to seek a legal opinion on whether or not a school may designate an area for student smoking.

Northville's PTSO heard reports from two high school juniors, established a dues policy and learned the objectives of several of the group's working committees at its final meeting of the school year.

Although executive board members will meet in open session during the summer months, general membership meetings have been suspended until September.

Jeff Stabenau, junior class president, asked the PTSO to co-sponsor and provide chaperons for a fund-raising teen rock concert in the school auditorium May 24. Assured that the planned concert had met with the approval of the school board and most of the faculty, members voted to co-sponsor the affair. Twenty-five parents along with some of the teachers volunteered to act as chaperons at the concert.

Becky Hooth outlined a report on smoking which the Student Congress prepared for the school board's consideration.

Following a discussion on the impossibility of having the "no smoking" rules at the school enforced, PTSO members supported, with reservations, the students' request for an area outside of the school to be designated as a smoking area for students.

"Smoking in the school lavatories has created a serious problem at the school," Miss Hooth said.

"Maybe the Student Congress cannot solve the problem, but it hopes to move it out of doors so the majority of the students can use the lavatories. Livonia's Bentley High school has established such an area and it has worked out very well" said Mrs. Pat Kunst, parental spokesman for the congress.

Novi 6th Graders Peek at World

By DONALD MEADOWS

It took a lot of effort, but the sixth graders at Novi Middle School managed to cram the whole world into their cafeteria last Wednesday and Thursday evenings and they loved it.

The presentation of bits of culture from "Foreign Shores" was put together the kids in the social studies classes, with a little help from their parents and teachers, Mrs. Ruthellen Crawford, Lois Little and Ron Banas.

Both evenings began with a dinner of ethnic dishes prepared by the parents. The menu included such items as kibbee, galumpi, gefelte fish, sukiki, enchiladas, Syrian bread, baklava, apple strudel, English trifle and much more.

After dinner entertainment was provided by Miss Annie Bailey's sixth grade chorus and sixth grade band. The Finnish folk dancers from Detroit and Windsor, under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Mannisto, also performed, with Ralph Mannisto playing accordion.

At the end of their performance, the folk dancers fetched kids from the audience and taught them some international dances.

The evenings ended with everyone joining hands and singing, "He's Got The Whole World in His Hands".

Outside in the hall, displays representing many of the nations of the world were on exhibit. Booklets about each of the countries and maps were made by the sixth graders in their social studies classes.

Newspapers from China, Scottish kilts, musical instruments, coins, photographs and dolls in native costume were among the items on display.

This is about the twelfth year such a program has been put on by the sixth grade class in Novi, according to Mrs. Crawford. About 200 people attended each evening this year, she said.

The only cost to those who came to enjoy the evenings was a voluntary donation to help pay for the milk and coffee that went along with the dinner.

The sixth grade chorus did a fine job of singing such numbers as "Angeline," "Linstead Market" and "Jamaica Farewell." Miss Bailey accompanied the vocalists on piano.

The sixth grade band also did a fine job. Dan Bunker, Steve Discher, Paul Kirkland and Craig Iseli began each evening playing "Hymn Tune." A clarinet duet of "Castles in Spain," was performed by Sarah Mengel and Nora Pugsley.

Pam Gilbert and Rose Sheppard played a flute duet of "American Folk Airs." Solos were given by Tina Kureen, Brent Boudreau and Renee Farras.

Other members of the band included Susan Dietrich, Jean Phester, Don Rose, Price Fritz, John McLellan, Debbie Morandy, Karen Hughes, Mike Bergstrom, Scott Derrick and Kevin Clement.

Set Hearing On Budget

A public hearing on Northville's proposed 1974-75 budget is set for the May 21 meeting in the city hall.

The council also has approved requests from the Northville Jaycees to continue "Operation Red Ball," the fire rescue program, and to close Maplewood from Center to Novi streets on Saturday, June 22 to stage the soap box derby races.

FRANKLIN ROAD PETITION — Fearing that the new middle school plus the planned construction of a single family subdivision on Franklin Road may endanger the road's scenic beauty, 28 residents of Northville township have petitioned the board of trustees to declare the road a "natural beauty road". Mrs. Margaret Tegge, a resident of Franklin Road, told the board that the petition was triggered by concern of residents about junk cars in the area and construction site litter at the middle school site. Township trustees turned the matter over to their attorney for study on ramifications of the designation which, if granted, would mean that man could not disturb the area. A public hearing on the petition will be set at a later date. Trustees also pointed out that Franklin comes under county jurisdiction.

SCHOOL BRANCH BANK — Northville Public Schools' Business Director Earl Busard (right) receives the keys to the former National Bank of Detroit branch of Seven Mile Road from Robert DeAlexandris, bank vice-president, as Robert K. Barbour, bank vice-president, looks on. NBD has agreed to let the school district use the vacant building rent free for storage. Busard explained that with the "price of school equipment rising every day, we're buying what we can for the three new schools and will be storing it in the branch bank." The bank recently opened its new facility across the road.

NEA Asks for Seven Areas

Seek Department Heads

Department chairs in seven areas of instruction at Northville High School are being sought by the Northville Education Association.

In making the presentation to school board members Monday, Miss Pat Bubel said that while the NEA recognized establishing department heads "is an administrative policy, we are here because we do not agree with the 'administration'."

She explained that areas of home economics, industrial arts, commercial, foreign language, music, art and library do not have department chairs.

Department chairs in five areas (physical education, math, science, English and social studies) are responsible for signing field trips, establishing budgets, making teacher observations and so forth. Persons who are not department chairs in other academic areas must do the same work without recognition or compensation.

Department chairs are released one hour per day for their duties. She asked that the board name department chairs for the seven other subject areas and grant them one hour per day relief from teaching "and cover with substitutes, or pay them based on a 40 hour per week rate."

Trustee P. Roger Nieuwkoop questioned if Miss Bubel was "suggesting that the problems of coordination Trustee Mrs. Sylvia Gucken said she desired to see a comparison of the five areas now covered by department chairs with those not covered in the area of class section and number of employees.

Trustee Andrew Orphan

are so great (in areas not having department chairs) that teachers cannot get together to coordinate their departments?"

He cited the library in which two full-time employees work. He said he "can understand if there are a lot of people but I want to know what is required of those who do not have department chairs."

High School Librarian Mrs. Sandy Cook said she is "performing all the duties of the department chairs and I want the recognition and the title. I do not want the title overlooked. It's just as important to our department that we be recognized. It's a status symbol."

Storm Sewer Project OK'd

Northville School Board trustees authorized the administration to accept a recommendation from Northville Township to build the middle school storm sewer along Franklin Road at a cost of $39,000.

On-site construction work, at a cost of $22,620, will be handled through the school district's architect, Ralls, Hamill, Becker, Carne. Architecture and other fees total $1,400.

Total cost of the sewer will be $63,020. That cost is lower than the $92,220 figure which the architect estimated it would cost if their firm did the entire project. The township figures were given to the district at the request of school administrators.

Once built, the school will maintain the sewer until such time as other users hook into the system. The drain must be built large enough to accommodate all run-off from the Franklin Road area, Business Director Earl Busard explained.

In other construction matters, the board decided not to proceed with plans to enlarge the high school office and counseling facilities. Estimated cost of the project was placed at $208,000 for 4,800 square feet of new and remodeled area.

Board members said they felt the cost was prohibitive and accepted the recommendation of the facilities subcommittee not to proceed with plans.

Trustee Mrs. Sylvia Gucken pointed out that with the completion of the three new schools "the district will be reorganized and I would like to wait one more year before deciding to enlarge the office area."

North Central Cites NHS Library, Hours

Northville High School has been cited for two deviations by the North Central Association.

Although the citations were received, the school did receive accreditation from the NCA. Deviations included 54 minute class periods rather than the required 55 minutes and not enough library books. A total of 8,597 volumes are housed in the library rather than the 9,632 required. Paperbacks are not counted in the required number.

Miss Florence Panattoni, assistant superintendent, added that the high school has a heavy emphasis on audio-visual aids which are not recognized by NCA.

High School Principal Fred Holdsworth told the board Monday that the deviations "are not unusual and they are minor. I am concerned about the library and next year with more books we will not have the space for the books or for the number of students (1,600) expected."

"North Central does become concerned if the same deviations occur year after year," Holdsworth said, explaining he has chaired a number of NCA committees in past years.

Three Administrators Get Compensation

Three Northville school administrators have been awarded added compensation for "services rendered outside and beyond their regular duties and assignments in behalf of the district's experimental year-round school program."

Receiving the awards are Amerman Elementary Principal William Craft, $1,500; Assistant Superintendent Florence Panattoni, $1,000; and Middle School Principal Ronald Horwath, $500.

The funds are part of the district's federal grant under the Title III program administration category, superintendent Raymond Spear said.

In other personnel matters, board members granted a maternity leave of absence to Mrs. Coral Adas, first-second grade teacher at Amerman, effective June 26.

Resignations were approved from Rodney Whitbeck, high school science teacher, who will be returning to college, and Dr. Joseph Mueller, part-time school psychologist. Both are effective June 22.

Three File Petitions For Northville Board

Three persons have filed nominating petitions for the two four-year terms open on the Northville School Board.

Filing petitions by the 4 p.m. Monday deadline were incumbent Mrs. Sylvia O. Gucken of 307 Sherrie Lane, David E. Bucklin of 119 Rayson and Mrs. Karen Wilkinson of 44871 Fernanagh Drive.

A total of seven petitions were taken out, spokesmen for the school district said.

Only the three candidates' names will be on the June 10 ballot and no issues are being placed before electors that day.

Work World Preview Set Thursday

Students will have an opportunity to preview more than 40 occupations during Northville High Schools World of Work night Thursday, May 23, at the high school. The program begins at 7:30 p.m. Representatives from 40 professional occupations will be present to discuss their occupations.

Mrs. Alta Olson of the counseling department and Wayne Saunders of the business education department add that the program is being held during Michigan Week "because Northville schools are interested in preparing today's students for positions of responsibility in society and a main focus of the educational program during Michigan Week will be career awareness."

Four 20 minute sessions will be held to permit students to find out about four career areas ranging from air transportation to veterinary medicine.

Speakers will discuss opportunities in their fields, special training and education required, earning potential and opportunities for advancement.

The program is open to parents and students from grade eight through 12, from both Novi and Northville. Saunders added that this is the third World of Work Night and plans are being made to include more school districts in the program in following years.

SHOWBOAT — The last weekend of Schoolcraft College's production of Showboat will be presented Friday through Sunday in the Liberal Arts Theater. Above, Robbie Clarke of Northville portrays Rubberface, the bumbling stagehand, in Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein's story of the Mississippi riverboat and the people on it. Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 7 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for Schoolcraft students. Tickets are available at the College Bookstore and for further information call 591-6400 extension 341 or 342.

Senior Parents Ask Party Donations

Dolly Cummings, general chairman of the all-night senior party for Northville High graduates, has issued a plea to all parents "to send in party donations of $8 to help defray the cost of this memorable evening."

"This party is the parents' gift to graduates and party-goers in past years have enthusiastically acclaimed this traditional event," Mrs. Cummings added.

The Tear Fires band has been hired to provide music for the evening and master of ceremonies will be Mike Sporer, a disc jockey from Wayne State University's radio station.

The decorations committee, headed by Mrs. Jean Boll, is working on transforming the cafeteria into the Wild West theme of Conestoga Trail. A buffet will be served all evening long with swimming and breakfast also being included in the evening's activities.

Parents of all seniors have been asked to donate $8 and party treasurer, Tom Johnson, reports that donations have been slow in coming in. All parents who have not already contributed to the party are asked to send in their money as soon as possible.

Checks should be made payable to Northville Senior Class of 1974 and sent to Tom Johnson, 47234 Dunsany, Northville, 48167

$12,000 in Township

Lose Excess of Roll Funds

Excess of roll monies are no longer available to Northville township or any other collection agency, township Treasurer Joseph Straub informed board members last week.

Straub said that the funds, which amounted to a planned $12,000 in the current budget, have been discontinued.

Excess of roll, which has been an issue in several budgets adopted by the township, is money over and above what specific millage rates allow. The excessive of roll stemmed from years past when millage rates were rounded out to allow easier computation by county agencies.

The money, which is placed on county, school, college township and other millage rates, historically has gone to the collection agency, in this case Northville township.

Straub said that the alternative is "adding on a one percent (of the total tax bill) collection fee and stating so on the tax bill.

He said that if the board decided to add the fee it would be twice that of what the excess of roll would have raised. Board members took no action on the matter, deferring it for further study.

In other action, trustees accepted with regret the resignation of J. Thomas Handy from the water and sewer commission. He has accepted employment in Seattle, Washington. A letter of appreciation was sent to him for his services.

His wife, Lini, who serves on the township planning commission, is expected to resign her position in June.

Board members tabled any action on taxing the Detroit House of Correction property which is being rented to private enterprise for farming purposes.

Once the property was rented out and fees received, trustees said they felt the land should be taxed.

Trustee Richard Mitchell, responding to Supervisor Lawrence Wright's statement that taxing the property could jeopardize Mobilife mobile home park's attempt to gain a sewer easement from DeHoCo, said that "Mobilife is a private enterprise."

"It's not up to us to sell the idea and not fair to the rest of the township citizens that DeHoCo should not be taxed if they lease the property for farming."

NOVI WALL HANGINGS — Checking out the wall hangings and illustrations from picture books are Rusty and Kelly Parker who find they match perfectly. The children are just two of many who have visited the Novi Public Library recently to see the traveling exhibit of stitchery panels of illustrations from children's books. Mrs. Dorothy Flattery, Novi librarian, has issued an invitation for parents to bring their children to the library to see the display. "They're really lovely," she added.

Topic for College Seminar

'Fitness Is Ageless'

Schoolcraft College will host its second annual "Fitness Is Ageless" seminar on May 18 for persons responsible for recreation and fitness programs for older adults.

The day-long seminar will feature a number of authorities in the field including keynote speaker Dr. Raymond Harris of New York. He is president of the Center for the Study of Aging and Chief Director of Cardiovascular Medicine at St.

Peter's Hospital, Albany.

Dr. Harris' topic is "Fitness for Aging," and he is scheduled to speak at 9:20 a.m. in the classroom wing of the Physical Education Building.

The seminar is sponsored by Schoolcraft's Senior Adult Affairs Program and The Department of Physical Education. Registration gets underway that Saturday morning at 8 in the physical building where a continental breakfast, films and exhibits comprise the first hour's activity.

Advance registrations may be phoned to Mrs. Betty Andrews at 591-6400, ext. 218. Registration fees, which include breakfast and lunch, are $5 for individuals, $4.50 for persons from the same organization, and $3.50 for students and retirees.

Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote will welcome participants, and Grand Community Services Director Ron Griffith will then open the seminar and introduce Dr. Harris.

A second featured speaker in the morning will be Mike Sharratt, Exercise Physiologist at the University of Windsor. He will present "Fitness Assessment, Monitoring and Exercise Prescription for the Older Adult."

Four presentations are scheduled for the afternoon: Lloyd Morgan, Director of Physical Fitness, U.A.W. Retired Workers, will discuss "The Role of Music and Rhythm in a Program of Physical Fitness." There will also be a demonstration involving U.A.W. retirees.

Dr. Marvin Gans, Schoolcraft's Director of Physical Education and George Andrews, a Registered Physical Therapist, will present a "Fitness After Fifty Program."

A final presentation will involve square dancing for older adults with caller Helen Covietz and a demonstration group.

Sports Advisory Group Named

Initial appointments to a Novi citizen-staff advisory committee on school athletics were made last week.

Still other appointments are expected to be made at the next meeting of the school board.

Among those named thus far are John Osborne, Norman Norgren, John Cicchelli, Sally MacLeod, Helen Ditzazy, Robert Youngberg, David Brown, Milan Obrenovich, Mrs. Kay Buck, Mrs. Dolly Hensel;

Mrs. Jane Spencer, Mrs. William MacDermid, Julie Henderson, Christine Wilkins, Ronald Spielman, Michael Rohm, John Balagna, Barbara Frank and James Wojnarski.

The committee is to assist in developing a master plan for the school district in the area of both physical education and athletics. Its survey is to project long range and short range needs and future plans for the continued growth of the program.

Students Study Postal System

Nine hundred students in 36 classrooms of three Northville schools will participate in a United States Postal Service Schools Program during Michigan Week, May 18-25.

Postmaster John Steimel announced this week. Designed for students in the third, fourth and fifth grades, the Schools Program offers an entertaining and informative study of all facets of America's postal system — from a step-by-step examination of how a letter goes from one city to another to the vivid depiction of American history through postage stamps.

"For years," Postmaster Steimel said, "police and fire departments and other public institutions have had active programs to make young citizens understand the way they work. This is the first time the Postal Service has launched such a program nationwide. We are hopeful that children will not only enjoy our materials, but also learn more about how to make proper use of the mail."

Each classroom participating in the program has received a Postal Service Educational Kit. The kit contains 25 copies of "Jr. Postman," a colorfully illustrated 24-page booklet full of games and stories on the Postal Service; a 24-page Teacher's guide; a full size poster entitled "How Your Letter Gets There," showing how a letter travels from a little girl to her grandfather; 60 bookmarks displaying stamps and the stories behind them, and 30 Jr. Postman wallet-sized cards, certifying that the student has taken part in the Educational Program.

Also planned is the showing of the film, "But How Does It Get There?"

The seven minute color film, tailored for elementary school audiences, depicts the various means used through history by the U.S. Postal Service to transport the mails — from stagecoach to modern jet.

Township Board Raises Water and Sewer Salaries

By a split vote last Thursday, township trustees agreed to grant raises to four employees of the water and sewer department giving them 25 to 35 cents an hour increased over last year's wages.

Voting to grant the raises were Supervisor Lawrence Wright, Clerk Sally Cayley and Trustee John MacDonald and Richard Mitchell Casting dissenting votes were Treasurer Joseph Straub and Trustees Leonard Klein and Charles Schaeffer.

Earlier, the board had granted $1,000 (or 10 percent) raise to the water and sewer department head.

Straub, Klein and Schaeffer cautioned the board that the action "open up a can of worms. Be prepared to raise everyone."

Percent increase over last year's salaries range from 12 to 7.7 percent. Last month the board had granted across the board 5.5 percent raises to all employees except the police chief and water and sewer department head, who received larger raises.

Arguments for the raises included fear that the water and sewer department workers would be hired by other municipalities and that their quality of work deserved added compensation.

Salary increases also had been recommended by the water and sewer commission. The board agreed unanimously to change the title of the water and sewer serviceman to foreman.

In related business, Clerk Cayley requested an increase from $6,200 to $6,500 for the bookkeeper "who also is now doing payroll. If necessary, I will take the money out of my own salary," she added.

Board members took no action on her request, tabling it until the June meeting.

Paper Drive Set at Cooke

The Ecology Club at Cooke Middle School is holding a paper drive next week during Michigan Week, May 20-25.

Students may bring newspapers to the middle school from 7:30 to 8 a.m. Monday through Friday and on Saturday, May 25, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The public is also welcome to bring papers to the school during that week, Norm Hannewald, sponsor of the club, said.

Funds received from recycling the newspapers will be used to help beautify the landscape around Cooke Middle School, club members said.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

The new Long building currently under construction on Main Street adjacent to the Presbyterian church will become an attractive addition to Northville's business district.

But for the owners the birth of the new fancy bath boutique building could hardly be described as normal.

Discounting early differences of opinion at official levels of the city concerning where and what type of business building should be located on the site acquired by the Northville Economic Development Corporation, the Long building is a pioneer on two fronts of local officialdom.

It is the first new facility that must pass approval of the newly-created and state-sanctioned Northville Historical District Commission.

And, it will probably become the first building to provide new apartments in the business district under a proposed ordinance permitting residential units in the central business district.

The procedure for approval of new buildings and exterior changes within the historical district is well defined. But it is new. And perhaps its status was being tested in the Long case.

There's disturbing evidence of tampering at official levels with this procedure. And the result has been that despite good intentions the building owners have run into problems that include withdrawal of their building permit mid-way through construction.

The new Historical District Commission under the chairmanship of Councilman Paul Vernon has stuck steadfastly to its guns, which involve the first shot at examination of the plans.

The commission's recommendations are purely advisory and may be ignored by the council-appointed planning commission, which is the second body to examine building plans. After planning commission approval a building permit is issued.

The Historical District Commission is striving to maintain an authentic Victorian look to buildings within the defined borders of its district. It views its effort as a service to citizens and it provides a number of examples for building design as well as some architectural advice.

It does not intend to create roadblocks, increase building costs or delay progress.

Neither, however, does it intend to forfeit its legal position in the established procedure.

And now that the Long project has broken the ice, it should be recognized in the future that plans for buildings in the defined Historical District go first to the Historical District Commission, then to planners.

Fortunately, red tape was cut and the Longs, planners and Historical District Commission members met in special session this week to compromise differences.

Another factor that has caused confusion in the Long project should result in a definite plus for the business district.

Although not a part of the original plans, the Long building will now become two-story. This was encouraged by several interested citizens who view one-level buildings in the business district as unattractive contrasts to existing buildings.

The planning commission has already proposed amending present ordinances to permit second level apartments in the business district.

The recommendation will undoubtedly be upheld by the council.

There's good reason for permitting apartments, providing strict size and building restrictions are enforced to assure safety and quality of construction.

First, such residential units are highly convenient for citizens who must walk to stores. And economically it is practically impossible to rent second-level space in the business district for anything other than residential use.

So, if two-story buildings are desired, a use for the second level must be provided.

But, again, the Long building finds itself "in between". Legally, it cannot build second story apartments under the current ordinance. So for the time being it will remain as second-story storage space. But proper windows, etc., must be included to conform with whatever residential restrictions will be adopted.

At this point Glenn Long may be wondering if the effort is worth the trouble.

In my opinion, it has been. The building will not only become a fine addition to downtown Northville, but it will have paved the way for future buildings and it should serve as a reminder to local officials, planners, historical commission members and prospective builders that the best short-cut to a good job is a well-defined and adhered-to procedure.

A former co-publisher of The Record, Nat Hopkins, called me recently to complain that a number of motorists are losing hubcaps on the Sheldon Road entrance to the city south of Seven Mile Road.

The picture here reveals the culprit. It's a huge break in the edge of the pavement. When northbound cars are forced near the edge of the narrow two-lane road, the result is a jarring bounce and loosened hubcaps.

It's probably already on the Wayne County Road Commission's list of spring chores. But maybe a reminder won't hurt.

CATS . . .

To me, cats are the most loving animals there are. Each one has his or her own personality. Cats always will be a part of my household.

Cats need love and respond to kindness. In my years of cat breeding, I have heard some people say that "cats are sneaky". Come on now, people, let's face reality.

To me, cats are loyal, true companions. I have delivered kittens several times and to hold a new-born kitten in your hands is a thrill one never forgets. I have owned several cats, some just household pets and some pure-bred cats. I have loved them all, watching them grow from little kittens to full-grown cats.

I have lost some good cats, but the determination to keep trying to get that good show kitten is always there. When I think back over the years, I know I have been very lucky. I still believe if a kitten is brought up with love, it will always be there.

As with anything, cat breeding included, there are some heartaches, but I continue on. Cats are loving companions and faithful to the end. To own a cat is to hold a lot of love in your hands.

Explains Assessment

To the Editor:
Last week's Northville Record carried the headline story concerning unpaid special assessments on certain properties within the Central Business District. Also, your editorial chided the Mayor and City Council and urged them to take care of this unfinished business. One of the properties in question was one in which I have an interest. I feel some clarification is in order to put this matter in proper perspective.

At the time that I took out a building permit to add an additional 40 ft. to the rear of our building at 160 E Main in November of 1972, I signed a letter agreeing to the special assessment to be levied on our DOGS . . .

I have had a dog for almost four years and my family has had dogs off and on for almost thirty years. We've had a few cats, too, but I scarcely remember them — they've played so small a part in the lives of any of us. It's the dogs I remember to have played the major roles.

We all know how important it is to arrive home after a hard day's work and have someone there to greet us. So does my dog. The welcoming committee he provides would put at least four or five lively humans to shame. By the time I've opened the lock, he is squealing, squirming and wagging so much I am sure he'll explode from anticipation.

No matter how late or hungry he is, Snoopy's first order of business is to make sure I'm properly welcomed home.

As I am sitting here writing my half of this debate, my dog is lying at my feet, his nose is resting against my foot. If things such as backdoor welcomes, simple-hearted devotion, sincere loyalty and love, are important to you, so is a dog.

There is no doubt about it: I am a chauvinist pig. I admit it. Proudly.

So to the anonymous writer who interpreted the piece about the girl caddy as the report of a "demented, jealous male," I say send me an autographed broom with your next love letter.

And to the middle school teacher who admonished me for refusing to give credence to the misnomer, "Ms", I extend this wish that her conversations in the teachers' lounge be recorded and subpoenaed by her pupils' parents.

Bias has not always been my trademark.

No indeed. Once upon a time I felt the woman should be permitted to sit in the same church pew.

She won the right to vote for the wrong candidate and I put up with the result for four years. She was admitted to the university, and raised the class average but I accepted my grade as fate. She fought for the right to drive my car and I repaired the damage with a smile.

But over the years she piled indignity upon indignity until finally, driven to the wall, male patience snapped resulting in the current backlash.

The backbreaking straw was the woman's venomous insistence on invading the sanctity of MY club.

For nearly six decades Kiwanis International has been a receptacle of upstanding men of moral and professional fibers. Its clubs throughout the world were excellent, though-be-it all male doers of good works.

The female occasionally visited the Kiwanis gathering but usually as a guest, certainly not as a member with dues paying fellowship rights. Of course she was treated with respect due the spouse of a Kiwanian.

But the woman, her cudgel still moist with the success of attack elsewhere, struck a blow at the Kiwanis separate-but-equal collar at a place called Great Neck, New York. Five females, for goodness sakes, were accepted as members.

Although Kiwanis International stiffened in the face of this tragic breach by threatening excommunication of Great Neck, the damage, I fear, was done. I look now for a tide of females to flood the sacred rolls of Kiwanis.

What's more, the all male creeds of other service and social organizations are likely to be polluted. Rotary, Lions, Jaycees, Smokers...they're all in danger.

No wonder we're beginning to see signs of the backlash.

Today it's membership in the League of Women Voters. Tomorrow it's full voting membership in the Garden Club, Woman's Club, Mothers Club, BPW, Ladies Guild, Big Sisters, Town Hall, to name a few.

After all equality is a two-way street.

News From Lansing

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Representative

When approved by the Senate and signed into law by Governor Milliken, two tax relief measures adopted in the House last week will boost the total of tax relief provided during this legislative session to over $400 million.

As you know, during the 1973 session the legislature adopted and Governor Milliken signed into law bills which provided for $350 million in tax relief to be granted over a two-year period.

Obviously this tax cut which is already in effect, combined with the effects of the energy crisis, has reduced revenues which would have otherwise been available to the state. But Governor Milliken believes that through careful budgeting of available revenues for the coming fiscal year the state can afford to make further tax cuts thereby easing the burden on those who have been hardest hit by inflation.

In an effort to improve the business climate in Michigan, it was also felt that some of this tax relief should be directed toward Michigan's businesses.

Therefore Governor Milliken proposed, and Republicans introduced, measures which would provide the additional needed tax relief and I am pleased to report that it appears they will soon receive final approval and be ready for signing into law.

House Bills 4208 and 5900 as approved by the House last week would provide some $35 million in tax relief for Michigan's citizens with incomes below $15,000 annually and $20 million in tax relief for Michigan businesses.

The individual portion would be considered a credit for the sales tax paid on food and drugs. This would be achieved by a direct reimbursement to an individual taxpayer at the time he files his state income tax form on a decreasing scale according to income and the number of dependents.

For example, if household income is not more than $5000, a credit of $10.00 per dependent will be given. More than $500, but not more than $7000 results in a credit of $9 per dependent. More than $7000, but not more than $9000: a credit of $8 per dependent. More than $9000, but not more than $11,000 a credit of $7. More than $11,000, but not more than $15,000: a credit of $6. More than $15,000, no credit will be given.

Applying the credit in this manner will allow us to provide this relief without an increase in the state income tax. If we had attempted to eliminate the sales tax on food and drugs for all income groups it would have resulted in a tax loss of $140 to $150 million, necessitating an estimated .6 per cent increase in the state income tax, which I cannot and will not support.

A bill which would allow automobile purchasers to stop making their car payments if the car was misrepresented or if it turned out to be defective and the dealer refused to fix it has been reported out of the House Judiciary Committee.

There are currently cases where an automobile purchaser is still required to continue making payments on a vehicle that turns out to be a so-called "lemon" because his installment sales contract was sold to a bank or other lending institution whose only concern is that the payments are made.

Under this bill, car owners could notify the bank or lending institution that they were stopping payment and the banks and lending institutions would, in turn, use their leverage against dealers to make them fix the defective vehicle.

property for the required parking. This was the condition upon which the building permit was issued, and it was understood at the time that this would be worked out according to a formula that would be acceptable to all property owners facing the same circumstances. This included the Drawbridge restaurant, Northville Square, several other business property owners who have made additions, and our own property. We had already been assessed $2,258.40 as our share of the parking deck which has been appearing on our annual tax bill since July 1, 1971 since we elected to pay it over a 10-year period together with interest.

Once we signed the letter agreeing to the additional special assessment for the added parking, we were in the unusual position of not knowing what the ultimate cost of our addition would be. On a number of occasions I reminded our former City Manager that I would like to resolve this question so that I would know where I stood with regard to my financial obligation on the building addition. I made it a point to brief our present City Manager on this outstanding question in a meeting I had made with him during his first month in office. It was understood by both city managers that this was a question that would have to be resolved by the entire City Council in one of their public meetings.

Hopefully this will be resolved by the time this reaches the paper as I understand it is on the agenda for the May 13th meeting.

It has been our intention to agree to a special assessment amount using a formula similar to the one followed for other business property owners who have built or added to their properties in the past year or two. Our building was completed about 9 months ago and the legal machinery necessary for a special assessment frequently takes this long or longer.

I know from experience that the wheels of government move slowly and certainly in matters of this kind that seems to be very true.

'How Dare You Harrass Us!'

To the Editor:
My remarks are directed at the Novi Mayor, city manager and the city council.

How dare you in the broadest sense of the word keep harrassing us in the north end of Novi. Lately you have picked out the south shore of Walled Lake.

You call 'us the slums of Novi. How dare you! We the majority of property owners have pride in ownership of our homes. We keep them up because not to do so is cheating ourselves. We have owned our homes outright for many years. Have you? Know what we call you in the South End of Novi? Pencil pushers who live in mortgage heights. Very few of you will ever live long enough to pay off your mortgages Still you look down your noses at us as though we were lepers. But come election we are your long lost brothers and sisters who you suddenly decide are good enough to vote for you but now you kick us in the teeth.

Sure many of us moved to Novi in the 20's and 30's when they first subdivided the lake area and for their time they were the elite of subdivisions as yours are for your time. We came here to Novi because we found what we were looking for — a peaceful, quiet place where we could plant our roots and grow. Many of us were born in these peaceful surroundings, raised our families and lived a contented life and when our loved ones left us we buried them in the ground they, too, had come to love. So our roots go very deep in Novi. We deeply resent your references to our area.

Why are you harrassing us in the north end of Novi? Take us by the scuff of our necks will you...why you pipsqueak! Did you ever get a kick in the stats? You Might!

Remember you are elected to serve all of Novi...so don't make it your personal vendetta to continually harrass us with your personal references to our area. If you don't want us, let us go. We want to be free. Don't try to make us in your image, it won't work and a word of caution...

Don't Tread on Us!
We have had it.

Criticizes 'Unkept' Northville Stores

To the Editor,

The article in the Record of May 2 about Cathérine Eckert's talk concerning the shopping district of Northville, had some good ideas and was interesting to say the least but a little more thought could be given to making Northville beautiful instead of keeping it so. Mrs. Eckert is talking mostly about the on-the-street face-lift. Some care could be given to the rear of the buildings, especially where there are alleys. Untidy trash cans; laundry strung from lines on up-stairs balconies; infants diapers and adults sundry unmentionables.

The small trees (which I have mentioned to you before) in containers in front of each store are little more than decorative trash cans; you can see almost anything in them except valuables—and the trees are not taken care of.

The stray dogs and cats on the streets here are a caution. In one day alone I counted five stray dogs, each one of a different, mixed ancestry, on the block between Rayson and Lake, where I live. I have called the police so many times about this I think they must be tired of hearing from me. Instead of commending business houses on what they have done, let's give a little thought—and a second glance—to what they have not done.

Sincerely,
Grace S. Miller

departments, with additional space that could be leased out, for added income.

To build a new structure with the same amount of usable space at 10 Mile and Taft Road, at the current building rate of $35 per square foot (the figure quoted to me by several reputable architects), would cost about $1,350,000.00, plus the additional cost of site work, parking, landscaping, and lighting.

It is my understanding that the Citizens of Novi have already paid for Novi Elementary School. What I'd like to know is why can't we trade the existing school for the newly proposed school? This would keep the city hall within the original boundaries of the Founder's of Novi, to serve all the people of Novi, from 14 Mile south to Nine Mile.

How Professional

Mike Austin

Hits the Drive

Mike Austin, golf professional at Chemung Hills Country Club in Howell, knows all about hitting the long ball.

During more than 40 years as a pro, Austin has won many PGA driving contests and at age 65 still averages around 285 yards off the tee.

That's not bad when you consider that players on the pro tour only average around 256 yards on their tee shots, according to IBM computer statistics.

How does Austin do it? "Driving is one of the most important parts of the game, and everybody strives for more distance," Austin said. "The key to getting more distance is increasing the velocity of the clubhead."

One way to increase clubhead speed is through the proper use of the lower body — the hips, legs and feet — during the downswing, Austin said.

Initiate the downswing with a lateral shift of the hips and legs to the left, Austin said.

"This is the shift of weight from the right foot to the left foot," he said. "The faster you can shift without losing your balance, the more clubhead speed you'll produce and the farther you can hit the ball."

"As you make your lateral shift, your torso will turn simultaneously back to the left until your stomach faces the intended target when you complete your follow through."

Austin emphasized the need for active legs by imagining Hank Aaron trying to hit a home run standing flat-footed with his feet together, without striding into the ball.

"He's not going to get any power," Austin said. "It's the same in golf. You need your legs."

The lateral shift in the golf swing has to be smooth, coordinated movement, Austin said. Your upper body, from the waist up, should remain behind the ball on the downswing, he said.

"Don't let your upper body sway forward during the downswing," Austin said. "For that matter, your head must remain relatively still throughout the swing. If it sways forward or bobs up and down, it will throw your swing plane off and you'll have trouble making solid contact."

To hit the long ball, you must coordinate the lateral shift with the work of the hands, Austin said.

It's in this area where Austin is at odds with other golf teachers, who maintain that the wrists must remain cocked until the last possible second before driving the clubhead through the ball.

"The so-called late hit is misconstrued," Austin said. "You must activate the hands and wrists at the start of the downswing. The uncocking of the wrists isn't delayed in the downswing. What's delayed and what helps create great clubhead speed is the roll of the forearms back to the left, which enables you to get the clubhead back to square and make solid contact."

If these suggestions don't help your golf game, you can now buy more distance off the tee by purchasing a graphite shaft driver.

"You can get from 10 to 20 more yards with a graphite driver," Austin said. "It's lighter than the steel shafts and you can move the clubhead faster because of it."

Austin also recommends several exercises to help get yourself and your game in shape.

"Skipping rope or jogging are the best exercises for the legs," he said. "For the wrists and forearms, you can try curls with a dumbbell or twisting a towel as if you were wringing water. And squeezing a rubber ball will strengthen the fingers."

Golfers using weights shouldn't overdo it, Austin warned.

"Big, bulky muscles are a hindrance to golfers," he said.

The putting stance of Professional John Koch.

Good Putting Takes Confidence

"Putting is exactly one-half of a golf game," Brooklane Professional John Koch points out.

On a par-72 golf course if a player hits every green in regulation and two-putts every green he will have played the course in par figures and have struck 36 putts.

So the importance of putting to the game of golf becomes obvious.

The Northville golf professional emphasizes that putting demands confidence and relaxation. Without these ingredients the technique cannot produce consistent results.

And there are days, as golfers well know, that mentally a player cannot bring himself to think he can hit the ball into the hole; thus he is not relaxed and though his putting style may be correct, the results are frequently disastrous.

So the first rule of good putting is positive thinking.

Koch advocates gripping the putter with all the fingers of the hands and with both thumbs down on top of the shaft.

The hands and arms work as a unit in a pendulum movement without wrist action.

Koch advocates keeping the right hand in play and always stroking with the right hand, not the left.

It's important, he emphasizes, that the putter blade remains as close to the ground as possible creating a low, level stroke. "Don't lift the putter," he cautions.

The stance for putting can vary with players, but it should be comfortable. Koch suggests that feet should be spread slightly with the ball positioned in the toe area of the front foot.

The eyes of the player should be directly over the ball, and the head and body should remain steady throughout the stroke.

Koch points out that the average golfer will probably face more 20-foot putts per round than any other. "It's important to concentrate on getting the ball close to the hole on the first putt to avoid three-putting," he advises. Koch doesn't suggest that this putt should be long (the old, 'never up, never in' theory), just close to the hole.

He's bolder on the shorter putts of about five-feet in length. "These should be struck firmly to keep the line," he advises.

Pitted Head Distinguishes the Morel

There are an estimated 2,000 different kinds of mushrooms growing in Michigan, and people will be coming from all over the U.S. to pick them. Although most mushrooms are not important as foodstuff, there are a few dozen edible varieties as well as a few dozen poisonous varieties, says William Fields, Michigan State University botanist.

Morels differ from other mushrooms in that their spores are produced in a podlike structure called an ascus. Other mushrooms produce their spores on a thumblike structure called a basidium. In Michigan, morels fruit most heavily in May. The true morels — the edible ones — vary in size and color but are similar in that they all have a hollow, more or less cone-shaped head connected at the base to a hollow neck. There is one exception, but the variety is so small it is hardly worth collecting.

True morels are also distinguished by the pitted surface of the head. The size and shape of the pits and the walls that separate them may vary, but they all have pitted heads.

THE PROBLEM with mushroom hunting is not finding them — Michigan is abounding in mushrooms. The real problem is identifying the edible from the inedible varieties. True morels are distinguished by a hollow, cone-shaped head attached at the base to the hollow neck and the pitted surface of the head.

False morels have a cap-like head attached to the top of the stalk. The cap may vary in shape but in every case it is attached at the top of the stalk.

The most common edible morels are Morchella esculenta, Morchella angusticeps, Morchella angusticeps (dark variety), Morchella deliciosa, and Morchella crassipes.

Morchella esculenta, excellent for eating, is a pale tan or gray mushroom from three to five inches high. It is sometimes called the "white morel" because the gray edges of the partitions between the pits turn almost white with age. The head is chubby, roundish, and cone-shaped with irregularly spaced pits resembling a sponge. The stalk, smooth and white colored, stands one-third as high as the head. In older plants the fragile partitions are often ragged and an orange-cinnamon stain appears.

Mid to late May is the best time to look for the Morchella esculenta. Look along a stream or lake shore where the soil is rich and moist. They are often found in stands of ash trees, along roots of dead or dying elm trees and in apple orchards. The Morchella esculenta is more abundant in lower Michigan than in the Upper Peninsula.

The Morchella angusticeps is a slender morel from two to four inches high and is excellent for eating. It is often called the "black morel" because the ridges on the head turn from tan to nearly black as the morel ages. The pits on the head form up and down ridges that are longer than wide.

Look for the Morchella angusticeps early in May at about the time hepatica, barbutus and white violets are in bloom. They are most abundant in aspen stands of central and northern Michigan; in apple orchards; along roadsides or power lines; and in mixed stands of aspen, maple and birch along Lake Superior.

The dark variety of Morchella angusticeps is black from the time it emerges. It is two to six inches high, and begins to fruit about a week later than the common Morchella angusticeps. Look for this morel under spruce trees.

The Morchella deliciosa is similar to Morchella esculenta but smaller and darker. The hollow head is egg shaped with broad long ridges and large dark pits. The stalk is pale colored and often wider at the base. It is excellent for eating.

This morel, abundant in the lower half of the lower peninsula, is one of the last to appear. Look for it in white

RHINOPNEUMONITIS (VIRUS ABORTION, EVR)

This common, widespread virus causes respiratory infection and abortion of equidae. Respiratory disease signs are most severe in suckling and weaning foals. Signs include fevers of 105-106 degrees, serous nasal exudate and leukopenia. Loss of appetite and depression are not commonly observed. It has been estimated that one-third of respiratory infections are caused by rhinopneumonitis virus (Equine Herpesvirus Type One). Abortions commonly occur in the last half of gestation; abortions occur three weeks to four months after the respiratory infection. Mares may abort even though the respiratory infection was so mild that no clinical signs were noted.

A recently-introduced vaccine, "Rhinimmune" (Nordin Laboratories), is attenuated by passage through equine tissue culture.

Sunday's Last

Date for 'Walk'

Last of a series of four spring "guided nature walks" open to the public will be held at Kensington Metropark on Sunday, May 19 starting at 8 a.m.

Persons should meet at the park nature center. The walk is especially designed for individuals and families according to Thomas H. Smith, chief naturalist for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority. It is not open to groups who may make regular appointments Tuesday through Saturday during the year.

The purpose of the walk is to view the arrival of spring along the nature trails, with focus on bird migration, nesting, wildflowers, the floral attractions of leaves and spring blossoms and the inhabitants of ponds. Canada geese are always an attraction on Kingfisher Lagoon near the Nature Center at Kensington Metropark.

ment that you collect one species at a time, making sure they are young, fresh specimens. The older a mushroom gets the more it deteriorates and becomes less edible.

Mushrooms deteriorate very rapidly after they are picked. Clean, process or cook them as soon as possible after you collect them. They can also be frozen, canned or dried.

One word of caution, "It is absolutely essential before you collect mushrooms for food that you be positively certain of the mushroom you're after. There is no way to tell a poisonous mushroom from an edible one other than knowing the mushroom and its past history as a food item," says Fields. If you should eat a poisonous mushroom, empty your stomach and call a doctor.

Detailed information and pictures of some species — both edible and poisonous — are available from your county extension office or by writing Michigan State University's Bulletin Office, Box 231, East Lansing, Mich. 48824. Ask for Extension Bulletin E-614, "May is Morel Month in Michigan."

C & C SPORTS, the Yamaha dealer in the Brighton area, will be co-sponsoring a free motorcycle learn-to-ride safety program this weekend. Brought to the area by the Yamaha company, the program will offer motorcycle maintenance and repair tips, besides the safety instruction.

Last year, over 150,000 Americans learned to ride correctly in the only motorcycle safety course designed specifically for beginning riders.

After Saturday and Sunday's instructions, which are to be held at Dearborn High between 10 a.m. and five p.m., an advanced course will be held on June 1 and 2 at Edsel Ford High School.

Children under 18 must bring written consent from their parents to participate.

OPENING of The Golden Comb Beaute' Salon and Boutique in the lower level of the Northville Square shopping center in downtown Northville was announced this week.

HANDSHAKES DON'T COUNT

Many business agreements have been sealed with a "handshake" and enforced in the courts. But when it comes to the world of Real Estate you cannot - and should not - rely on oral promises. In fact, legislation in each of the fifty states specifically requires that all agreements and conditions relative to the sale of real estate specifically be in writing.

In real estate, oral promises or conditions have little standing. If they are not contained in writing within the agreement of sale or on other papers relating to the transaction, they are not binding. In fact, the typical agreement of sale provides a clause to the effect that all oral statements relative to the transaction made prior to the signing of the written agreement are invalid.

The only way to put any teeth into oral promises, is to insist that everything which you think is significant be put in writing.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at HARRY S. WOLFE OF LIVINGSTON COUNTY, 3768 E. Grand River, Howell. Phone. 546-7550. We're here to help!

Northville Nine Revives Hopes With Two Wins

You can forget about the fact that Northville's Mustangs finished the first half of their Western Six Conference schedule with a less than sparkling 2-3 record. Chuck Shonta insists that his Mustangs still have a good shot at the conference championship.

His hopes received a boost in the right direction last week as the Mustangs rallied for a pair of conference victories over Waterford Mott and Farmington Harrison that raised their conference record to 4-3 with three games left to be played.

"We're not out of it yet," insisted Shonta, now in his fourth year as coach of the Northville nine. "With the balance we've got in the Western Six this year, I think that a 7-3 record is going to be good enough for at least a share of the championship, so if we can win the rest of our games we should be in good shape."

Livonia Churchill is currently in first place with just one loss against conference competition, while Fred Crissey's surprising Plymouth Canton nine is just half a game back in second place with a pair of losses.

"We've got to play both Churchill and Canton again, so we can do a lot for ourselves by beating them in the second half of the season," noted the Northville coach.

The Mustangs almost got caught looking ahead to those key encounters as they twice surrendered early leads and had to rally for victories over Mott and Harrison in last week's action.

Mott startled the Mustangs with four runs off starter Ed Kritch in the first inning of Tuesday's contest as Northville had to come back to gain a 6-4 victory. And Friday's 4-3 triumph over Harrison was even more dramatic as the Mustangs overcame a 3-1 deficit with three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Northville had registered a 10-1 victory over Mott's Corsairs during the first half of the season, but last Tuesday it looked as if Mott was going to turn the tables on the Mustangs by breaking loose for four runs against Kritch in the first inning.

But after his first inning difficulties, Kritch settled down and handcuffed the Corsairs with just one lone single over the last six frames.

"Ed (Kritch) pitched a beautiful ball game," commented Shonta. "I don't know what happened to him in that first inning, but once he got through the first he just did one heckuva job out there. He finished the game with nine strikeouts which is his best performance of the season."

The Mustangs, meanwhile, managed to knot the score at 4-4 with a pair of runs in both the first and second innings. Two walks, a throwing error, and Bill White's single accounted for the first inning runs, while the Mustangs scored in the second on Ron Renault's single, a three base throwing error, and Randy Oginski's run-producing single.

Northville wrapped up the win with two more runs in the fourth. Scott Leu opened the frame with a walk and Bill McDonald then belted a double to left that put runners on second and third. Oginski followed with another single which brought both runners home with what proved to be the winning runs.

"O.J. (Oginski) really came through for us," commented Shonta.

Kritch also starred in the victory over the Harrison Hawks, but this time it was his bat which provided the difference.

Joe Bishop drew the starting nod and breezed through the first two innings without giving up a hit. But then in the third, Harrison put together a walk, a wild pitch, an error, and two consecutive singles to score twice and put runners on first and second with just one out.

Shonta brought in John Boland to relieve Bishop at that point. Boland struck out the first batter he faced, but Harrison added a third run as Sam Pink laced a single to left and would have had another tally on the hit except for a strong throw from Bill White that cut down Scott Morrison at the plate.

Boland pitched a strong game over the final four innings, giving up just one more hit and registering five strikeouts.

Kritch paced the Mustangs' comeback. His two-out home run in the bottom of the third chopped Harrison's lead to 3-1, but he saved his best blow for the bottom of the seventh.

Trailing 3-1 with just three outs to go, the Mustangs seemed headed for their fourth Western Six loss of the season when Bill Collins, who was on the hill for the Hawks, fanned Bill White to lead off the seventh.

John Sherman followed with a walk and Todd Eis then stroked a single to put runners on first and second with one out. Boland laid down a bunt, but Collins fired wild to first as Sherman came around to score and Eis and Boland raced to second and third.

Shonta sent up Steve Serkaian to hit for Dooley, but Collins issued an intentional pass to the swarthy slugger to load the bases for Kritch. And Kritch responded by slapping a ground single through the left side of the infield which scored Eis and Boland with the tying and winning runs.

Slump Puzzles Coach

Novi's Still Not Clicking

Don't ask Rick Trudeau what's wrong with the Novi baseball team.

The Wildcat coach is just as puzzled as everyone else about his team's mediocre showing so far this season.

"I really don't know what's wrong," admitted Trudeau after watching his team drop a 9-2 decision to Chelsea last week.

"I still feel that man for man - position for position - we have the best team in the Southeastern Conference. But I'll be darned if I can figure out why we can't seem to get it all together."

The Wildcats split their two SEC contests last week. In addition to their 9-2 defeat at the hands of Chelsea, they managed to stay out of the SEC cellar by registering a 9-4 triumph over the last-place Dexter Dreadnaughts.

Things went considerably better on the weekend, however, as the Wildcats swept both ends of a double header from non-conference Marysville.

The split with Dexter and Chelsea left Novi in seventh place with a 2-5 record - two games ahead of eighth-place Dexter (2-9) and a game behind sixth-place South Lyon (4-5). Surprising Brighton continues to lead the SEC title race with a 9-1 record, a full game ahead of Ypsilanti Lincoln which is second with an 8-2 mark.

"I hate to admit it, but I think it's too late for us to think about successfully defending our conference championship," remarked

Trudeau. "I'm afraid that five losses is just too many. All we can do now is avenge some of those losses."

"Brighton beat us pretty badly early in the season and I know we have a better team than they do. I think we could salvage some satisfaction out of the season by polishing off a few of these teams which knocked us off during the first half of the season."

The Wildcats hardly looked like defending SEC champions in their two conference games last week. Even in their 9-4 win over last-place Dexter, the game was close until Novi broke loose for four runs in the top of the seventh inning.

The Wildcats jumped off to an early lead with three runs in the first inning as Tim Assemany doubled home Mike Riley, and Paul Bosco delivered a two-out single which scored Assemany and Bill Barr.

The Wildcats upped their lead to 5-0 in the fourth as Dave Brown singled and Mike Riley followed with a long home run.

Dexter came back to make a game of it, however, by scoring once in the bottom of the fourth and adding three more in the sixth to trim Novi's lead to a mere one run, 5-4.

A four run rally in the top of the seventh stretched Novi's lead to a more comfortable 9-4 and pitcher Dave Piotrowicz held the Dreadnaughts off the scoreboard in the bottom of the seventh to preserve the victory.

The Wildcats found the going considerably tougher in their clash with Chelsea two days later. Novi opened the scoring in the top of the second as Assemany belted a two-bagger and Eddie Brown singled him home, but after that it was all down hill for the Wildcats as Chelsea capitalized on seven hits and numerous Novi errors for a 9-2 victory.

"They were taking advantage of our mistakes," reported Trudeau.

"I think that may be one of the big differences this year. Last year we were able to capitalize on the mistakes of other teams, but this year things seem to be turned around. They're capitalizing on our mistakes, and we're not taking advantage of their errors."

Chelsea scored three times in the bottom of the second and added another run in the fifth to increase their lead to 4-1. The Bulldogs then ended Novi's hopes by scoring five times in the bottom of the sixth.

Novi's final run came in the seventh when Eric Hansor led off with a walk, went to second on Tom Celani's single, and then rode home on a double off the bat of Bill Barr.

Novi upped its overall record to 8-7 with a pair of wins over Marysville in a double header played Saturday afternoon. The Wildcats pounded out a decisive 15-4 victory in the first game and then came back to make it two in a row by winning the nightcap 7-2.

Tom Celani and Ron Buck paced the offense in the opening game rout. Celani belted a home run, double, and two singles in four trips to the plate, while Buck went three-for-four with a single, double, and triple.

The second game was close until the Wildcats broke away from a 1-1 deadlock with six runs in the fourth inning, as Assemany, Barr, Ed Brown, Gary Ford, and Celani each laced a single.

"It was a good game for us because we got back two of our first stringers for the first time since early in the season," commented Trudeau. "Ron Buck's been out with a broken bone in his hand, while Gary Ford's been out with a broken finger."

"You could see the difference with those two back in the line-up. We were hitting the ball with authority. I just hope we can keep it up when we go back in against the SEC teams."

Wildcat Golfers Stumble Against SEC Leaders

Novi's golf team took a 3-4 Southeastern Conference (SEC) record into last week's play, but by the time the week was over the Wildcat golfers had seen that mark slip to 4-7 as they dropped three of four SEC matches.

Dexter and Brighton both topped the Wildcats in a triangular on Monday, while Chelsea added a third defeat to the Novi total on Friday. The lone Novi victory also came Friday, as the Wildcats downed Ypsilanti Lincoln in the triangular meet.

"I'm not really surprised," admitted Tim Falls, coach of the Novi golfers. "Chelsea and Brighton are probably the two best squads in the conference and Dexter is right behind them, so we had one of the hardest parts of our schedule last week."

Dexter managed to defeat Brighton in Monday's triangular. The Dreadnaughts had a total of 188 to edge the Bulldogs by a single stroke. Novi was well back in third place with 198 strokes.

"I don't even like to talk about it," stated Falls. "The weather was terrible and we had a terrible day. That was our worst score of the season."

Mark Schoof paced Novi in that meet with a round of 46.

The Wildcats played considerably better in Friday's triangular, registering a score of 184 which enabled them to top Lincoln by 11 strokes. Chelsea won the triangular by sending four men around the front nine at Godwin Glens in 170 strokes.

Schoof and Scott Devall shared medalist honors for the Wildcats with identical rounds of 45. John Withers and Chuck Manilla added rounds of 47 to round out the Wildcat scoring.

Scott Evans, a 1972 graduate of Northville High School, has won a starting role on the 1974 Michigan State baseball team. Evans was impressive in his last outing, winning a 5-4 decision against the University of Detroit. The victory upped his season mark to 2-1.

As a freshman last year, Scott also was a member of the varsity unit.

Scott was an eight-letter winner at Northville High, performing in football, basketball and baseball.

Novi Freshman Jeff MacDermaid Clears the Bar at 11-0 as He Wins the Pole Vault Event for the Wildcats against Brighton

Coach Cites Improvement

Novi Thinclads Fall to Brighton

Del Munson and the members of his youthful Novi track team found themselves in a somewhat unique position early in their Southeastern Conference (SEC) encounter with Brighton last week.

For one of the relatively few times this season, the Wildcats actually found themselves out in the lead.

"We came out of the field events in pretty good shape," noted Munson, the veteran coach of the Novi squad. "We managed to pick up a pair of firsts and three seconds and built up a 21-15 lead."

But once the running events got underway, the Wildcats fell quickly behind and ultimately ended up on the short end of a 74-44 score.

And even though it marked Novi's seventh loss in as many outings this year, Munson was far from displeased with his team's performance.

In the first place, the 30-point (74-44) margin represented one of Novi's closer meets this year. And in the second place—Munson was also pleased with the improvement shown by several of the individual performers on the Novi team.

"We're improving," he insisted. "It's hard to see in the point totals because we're just not breaking into the top three places yet. But if you take a look at the times and distances, you can see that a lot of our freshman and sophomores are definitely beginning to improve their performances

"We started the year with one 16-foot long jumper and against Brighton we had three boys who went out over 18-feet," Munson continued.

"We started the year with an 8-6 pole vaulter and now we have a 10-6 pole vaulter and two others who are topping 9-0.

"Our shot putters are coming along and we're finding some good 440 times among a number of the people on the team, so things are improving. It's just that you can't expect freshman and sophomores to go in and compete against juniors and seniors."

Highlight of the meet against Brighton was the Wildcats' performance in the field events where they picked up two firsts, three seconds, and two thirds to outscore the Bulldogs by a 21-15 margin.

Novi's best event was the high jump where Jim Morris took first and Andy McComas came in second to give the Wildcats a 1-2 sweep. Both Morris and McComas topped the bar at 5-4.

Novi's other first place came in the pole vault where freshman Jeff MacDermaid topped the field with a vault of 10-6. "Anytime a freshman gets that high in the pole vault, you know he's doing a good job," commented Munson.

The Wildcats failed to win the shot put and long jump, but compensated for it by taking both second and third places in both events. Brighton's Jim Bitten won the shot with a 41-8 effort, but Ben Galyon was right behind with a respectable 39-10 put and Brian Yaker grabbed third place with a 37-10 effort.

Practically the same thing happened in the long jump. Bob Hutton won the event for the Bulldogs with a leap of 19-1, but Novi wrapped up second and third place points as Mark Mills jumped 18-4 and Mark Nunn leaped 18-3.

The Wildcats were much less successful in the running events, however, as the Bulldogs won 10 of the 11 track events to race away to the 74-44 triumph.

Novi's lone victory in the running events came in the mile relay where McComas, Lloyd Price, Jim Parsons, and Butch Pyant turned in a 3:45.5 clocking.

After the mile relay win, however, the Wildcats were limited to five second place finishes and three third place finishes.

Lloyd Price accounted for two of Novi's second place finishes as he finished behind Hutton in both the low and high hurdles. Also accounting for two of the second place finishes was McComas who copped runner-up honors in both the 440 and 880. Parsons had Novi's fifth second place finish as he turned in a 5:05 clocking in the mile run.

Third place finishes in the running events were registered by Pyant in the 440, Mills in the two mile run, and Morris in the 220 yard dash.

Western Six Track Foes Plague Mustangs

Take a quick look at Northville's record against Western Six Conference competition and you'd never guess that Coach Ralph Redmond's thinclads are in the midst of a moderately successful season.

In last week's action, for example, the Mustangs toppled both South Lyon and Walled Lake Central in a triangular meet Tuesday. But then found themselves on the short end of a 77-57 score when they returned to conference competition against Walled Lake Western two days later. The results left the Mustangs with an overall record of 7-4, but dropped their conference record to a less than brilliant 1-3 mark. Redmond, the veteran coach of the Northville thinclads, is far from discouraged by the 1-3 showing, however, and is still encouraged about his team's chances in the conference championships coming up at Livonia Churchill next Wednesday. "We're not willing to concede the league meet to anybody," stated the Mustang mentor. "We may be 1-3 in the conference, but that's because the first four teams are pretty evenly balanced. I think we have a pretty good track team and it's going to be very interesting to see how the points get divided up once the league meet gets underway." The Mustangs suffered their third Western Six loss of the season last week when they were downed 77-46 by the Walled Lake Western Warriors. "It should have been a lot closer, but we lost a couple of our key performers to disciplinary action and went over there at less than full strength," Redmond reported. "But I'm not taking anything away from Western," he added, "they've got a strong team." Parrish is a strong sprinter and John Juszczuk is one of the top hurdlers around. They've also got a pretty decent middle distance man in Wisneski. I'm not saying that we could have beat them, just that the results would have been a lot closer."

The Mustangs were able to come up with just four first places against Western and were completely shutout 15-0 in the three relay events. Jim Porterfield remained undefeated by winning the shot put with a 49-4 effort; Dave Harrison took the high jump at 5-6; Robbie Foust registered a 2:06.6 in winning the 880; and Kevin Koffler won the mile with a 4:49.9 clocking.

Northville did considerably better in the triangular with South Lyon and Walled Lake Central, winning eight of the 15 events in compiling 68 points. The Lions were second with 55, while Central came in third with 33 points. The Mustangs underscored their triumph by setting three school records in the process. Leading the record setters was Guy Cole who smashed the 440 record of 51.1 set by Dave Wright back in 1971 with a first place clocking of 51.0. Cole now owns school records in the 440 (51.0), 880 (1:58.5), and the mile run (4:30.3) and is scheduled to go after the two mile record in the Mustangs' meet with Plymouth Canton.

Cole also had a hand in one of the other two records set by Northville in the triangular. The slender senior teamed with Tom Coram, Bob Bloomhuff, and Bill Pettit to win the mile relay with a 3:29.6 clocking which broke the school record of 3:30.2 set last year by Cole, Coram, Bloomhuff, and Tim Taggart. The third school record broken by the Mustangs in the triangular came in the 440 relay where Rick Marcicki, Earl Bingley, Frank Nelson, and Larry Pink came in first with a 45.5 clocking that bettered the 45.8 record set by Nelson, Pink, Dennis Keegan, and Blair Robinson earlier in the year.

Mustang Netters Edged In Rematch with Churchill

Northville's tennis team came close, but in the final accounting came up short by one-half point as they dropped a narrow 4-3½ decision to Livonia Churchill in a key Western Six Conference showdown.

"It would have been nice to have beaten them," commented a disappointed Bob Simpson, coach of the Northville netters.

"If we could have beaten them we would both have one loss in the conference and be going into the conference meet tied for first place. What really hurts is that we came so close. We had a couple of opportunities to take the extra half-point, but just weren't able to wrap it up."

The loss to the Churchill squad left the Mustangs with two losses in conference play, while the Chargers remained undefeated.

According to Western Six rules, the tennis championship is determined on the basis of dual meet record and performance in the league meet. Should Churchill finish up the dual meet season in first place with Northville second, the Mustangs could still gain a share of the title by coming out on top in the conference meet next Wednesday in Northville.

"If Churchill finishes third in the league meet and we come in first we could win the championship outright," noted Simpson. "If Churchill has an off day and we're playing well, you never can tell what will happen."

The narrow 4-3½ loss to the Chargers was one of two Western Six matches played by the Northville netters last week. In their other match they bested Farmington Harrison 4½-3 to advance their conference record to 5-2 and their overall record to 11-3.

The Mustangs had dropped a 6-1½ decision to Churchill when the two teams first met late in April. The Mustangs went into Tuesday's rematch determined to do better and nearly avenged the initial defeat.

In the first match Northville's 1½ points were produced by Frank Knott at second singles and the third doubles team of Don Gougeon and Jim Bonamici.

In the rematch, several other Mustangs came through with victories. Jami Boshoven took a 7-6, 6-2 win over Mark Roncoli at fourth singles, while Cary Eaker and Rick Norton triumphed 1-6, 6-4, 7-5 at first doubles and John Folino and Rob Bowman came out on top 6-4, 3-6, 6-2 at second singles.

Unfortunately, neither Knott nor the third doubles team were able to repeat their previous victories. Knott lost on a tie breaker after splitting the first two sets 6-3, 3-6 and Gougeon and Bonamici also lost on a tie breaker after splitting their first two sets 5-7, 6-1.

"Frank had a 2-0 lead in his tie breaker, but wasn't able to put it away," sighed Simpson. "If either Knott or third doubles could have won, we would have beaten them."

The meet with Harrison saw the Mustangs take a 4½-3 victory.

"We beat them 7½-0 the first time we played them, but that was deceiving because all four singles matches went three sets," stated Simpson. "Harrison has a good team and we're just glad to be able to get by them twice."

The Hawks came out on top in both first singles and first doubles in Friday's rematch, but the Mustangs garnered the triumph by taking the remainder of the matches.

Knott beat Jeff Klein 6-1, 6-1 at second singles, John Oatey beat Ken Notestine 6-3, 6-3 at third singles, and Miss Boshoven won 6-0, 7-6 at fourth singles.

In doubles Folino and Bowman won 6-2, 6-2 at second doubles and Gougeon and Bonamici rallied to win third doubles 2-6, 7-6, 7-5.

Mustang
Ed Kritch has been selected Mustang of the Week for leading Northville's baseball team to Western Six Conference victories over Waterford Mott and Farmington Harrison last week. After being touched for four runs in the first inning of the Mott game, Kritch settled down and gave up just one hit over the final six innings as Northville rallied for a 6-4 victory. Kritch's bat was the big factor in a 4-3 win over Harrison. After homering in the third inning, the senior southpaw drove in the tying and winning runs with a bases loaded single in the bottom of the seventh.

Northville Girls Set 3 Records

Things aren't going as well for the Northville girls track team as had been originally hoped for.

After five dual meets and one invitational, the Northville girls have a 1-4 record and a fourth place finish in the five-team West Bloomfield Invitational to show for their efforts.

Nevertheless, Karen Turner and Paul Bedford, coaches of the squad, are far from displeased with the progress made by the squad and point proudly to the fact that three school records have already been shattered by the 1974 squad.

Team captain Muriel Bedford is responsible for one of the new records as she bettered her old 880 mark of 2:23.5 set last year by turning in a 2:22.2 clocking. Linda Prom is another record breaker. Miss Prom has recorded a 27.4 time in the 220 yard dash that broke the former school mark of 28.2 set by Sheila Corcoran in 1972.

Both Miss Bedford and Miss Prom have a share of the third school record broken by the Northville girls this year as they joined forces with Louise Hopping and Denise MacDermid to shatter the 880 yard medley relay mark set by Nancy Miron, Terri Rader, Suzie Evans, and Murjel Bedford last year. The old record was 2:03.5, while the new mark is 1:55.7.

Northville's lone victory of the year was a 64-26 triumph over Ypsilanti. They have dropped decisions to Ann Arbor Pioneer (54-36), Plymouth Salem (68-23), and Redford Union (59-32).

Police Blotter

Investigate Arson, Armed Robbery

In Wixom

Arson is listed as the cause of a fire which destroyed a residence at 1925 Hickory Hill last week.

That determination was made by the fire marshal division of the Michigan State Police following completion of their investigation of the blaze.

Wixom's police and fire departments received the fire call at approximately 2 a.m. on Saturday, May 4. When they arrived at the scene, they found the house completely in flames. The roof over the living room had already fallen in, police reported.

The Michigan State Police were contacted and investigators determined that a petroleum product had been poured on the living room floor and that the cause of the fire was arson.

The house was unoccupied at the time of the blaze.

Police are investigating the details of a reported armed robbery which occurred Wednesday, May 8, at approximately 2 a.m.

Patrick John Sproat, 20, a Detroit man, told police he was hitchhiking on Wixom Road when a man driving a late model pick-up truck stopped to give him a ride. As he began to get into the truck, Sproat reported, the man pulled a gun and demanded his money.

Sproat gave the man $26 in cash and was then ordered back out of the truck. The man in the truck then proceeded south on Wixom Road to the eastbound I-96 expressway.

The man was a white male, approximately 35-40 years old, according to information given police by Sproat.

Police recovered an estimated $8,500 worth of stolen property last week and nearly apprehended the men responsible for the theft, according to reports.

Recovered were a dump truck, a double axle trailer, and a tractor with a front dump and back rake.

While patrolling along South Wixom Road at the I-96 expressway, Patrolman Timothy O'Shesky saw the vehicles involved pull off the westbound I-96 at the Beck Road exit and go north on Beck.

O'Shesky proceeded down Wixom Road to West Road and then turned east onto West toward Beck. As he approached the intersection of Beck and West, he observed the vehicles in question stopped in the middle of the roadway.

The driver of the dump truck which had been pulling the tractor and trailer then got into a car which sped off northbound along Beck.

The truck, trailer, and tractor were discovered to have been stolen from the QM Cement Company. Police were unable to apprehend the suspects in the car.

A 1971 power wagon stolen from Southfield on May 8 was recovered by Wixom police at 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, May 9.

The vehicle, valued at $4,000, was observed parked on the eastbound I-96 expressway at the Wixom Road exit. Subsequent investigation revealed that it was owned by Michigan Nurseries in Southfield and had been stolen the previous day.

An eight-track stereo tape track and a fm converter were reportedly stolen from a car parked in the driveway of a residence at 50280 Grand River last week.

Owner of the car told police he parked the vehicle in the driveway of his home at approximately 3 a.m. on Sunday, May 5. The theft was discovered when he returned to the vehicle at 1 p.m. the same day.

Value of the stolen property was estimated at $110.

Unknown persons broke into a storage area at the Kountry Katerer last week by prying open a door. A pin ball machine was also reported to have been pried open but nothing was taken from the area. The theft was reported last Tuesday.

Two additional break-ins were investigated by police over the weekend. A house on Randolph Street was broken into, a dresser and desk ransacked and $20 taken from the home. The break-in took place sometime early Friday afternoon.

Officers on routine patrol discovered a break-in of a storage building on Eight Mile Road east of Lanthorn Lane about 5:30 a.m. Monday.

Investigating officers reported the side door of the building had hammer marks on it and they believe it occurred some time ago. Nothing was reported missing.

Vandalism amounting to more than $100 was done to a car parked in a lot on Novi Road and Allen Drive Monday night.

Reports said two windows on the right side of the car had been shattered. The damage took place between 4 and 11 p.m.

A 23-year-old Northville man has been arrested and charged with possession of phenylcyclidine. Arraigned on the charge last Tuesday, Robert Wayne Jolly of 19800 Maxwell pled not guilty.

He is free on $5,000 personal bond and pre-trial examination has been set for today before 35th District Court Judge Dunbar Davis.

Jolly was arrested on a felony warrant last Tuesday by city police. Following a traffic stop April 25, he allegedly was found to be carrying a quantity of phenylcyclidine, police detectives said.

Terence Anthony Knish, 18, of Novi was bound over to Wayne County Circuit Court last week to face a charge of using a stolen credit card.

Knish waived examination Thursday when he appeared before Judge Davis and will appear in circuit court May 23. Bond is set at $3,000.

In Novi

An estimated $1,200 worth of property was removed from a residence at 617 South Lake Drive during a breaking and entering which occurred Wednesday, May 8.

Owner of the home told police he returned home and found a side window and both the front and rear doors to the residence standing wide open. The theft was discovered shortly later.

Stolen property included a stereo turn table, four stereo speakers, a fur coat, a large quantity of record albums, three matching end tables, two lamps, some jewelry, and two blankets and a bed spread.

Also victimized by a breaking and entering which occurred last week was a residence at 2290 Novi Road. The thieves apparently entered the home by breaking in through the rear door. Once inside they removed two am-fm stereo receivers and two speakers. Value of the stolen property was estimated at $210.

A residence at 26140 Beck Road was also broken into last week.

The subjects broke out a pane of glass in the front door and removed a drawer from a dresser in the master bedroom, but the owners of the home told police that nothing appeared to have been stolen.

The break-in took place Thursday, May 2.

Six maple trees were reportedly stolen from the Suburban Landscaping Company at 44000 12 Mile Road last week. The trees, approximately 10 feet tall, had been dug and balled and were awaiting pickup, according to company spokesmen.

They were stolen during the night of Monday, May 6. Value of the six trees was placed at $500.

Tools and a tool box with a total estimated value of $150 were stolen from a car parked in front of a residence at 39824 Village Woode Road last week.

Owner of the tools told police he had parked his car in front of his home on May 2. The tools and tool box were in the rear seat of the vehicle. When he returned the following day, he discovered that the car had been broken into and the tools removed.

A tape deck and a fm radio were the objects nabbed by thieves in two other larcenies from automobiles which were reported last week.

A tape deck valued at $100 was stolen from a car parked in the driveway of a residence at 24283 Pinecrest on May 5.

The fm radio was stolen from a car parked in the driveway of a residence at 23551 Willowbrook

A 1974 Honda motorcycle valued at $1,600 was stolen from a garage located behind a residence at 24283 Pinecrest on Thursday May 9.

Owner of the motorcycle told police that the theft occurred during a span of just 45

Five thefts and one break-in were reported to police between last Tuesday and Thursday morning.

An am-fm radio valued at $25 was discovered missing from a house near Novi and Lake streets last Tuesday. The theft is thought to have taken place sometime during daylight hours, police said.

Cash was taken from two homes near Grace and Hill streets with $37 missing from one and $14 and old coins taken from the other.

A 23-channel citizens' band radio was stolen from a truck at Seaman's. Collision sometime last Wednesday morning. Valued at $220, the radio had wood grain sides and front, police reports indicated. Theft of a baseball glove from the boys' locker room at Northville High was discovered earlier this month. Valued at $35, the glove is a Wilson Glenn Beckert which was placed in a locker.

In pioneer days, good neighbors helped rebuild when a home was destroyed. Today, a State Farm Homeowners Policy with applies that same "good neighbor" principle to home insurance.

It can automatically increase your protection as the value of your home increases. So, if something happens, you'll be able to rebuild your home tomorrow the way it is today. Call or come in

Plan Full Week of Events

By NANCY DINGELDEY

There won't be many vegetables in the City Fair this fall if the rain clouds don't stop hanging over our heads. As one who professes to have a "black thumb" when it comes to gardening, I stick pretty close to the "book" and plant when it says to plant. Well, it says plant now, but not when the soil is wet. Unless I can improvise a massive dryer, it doesn't look like the soil will ever dry out.

For those of you who haven't done much vegetable gardening, the Michigan State Extension Service has a great packet of booklets which are written in specific terms and can be very helpful. They also have booklets on raising strawberries, raspberries, and the like. I recommend them very highly. A call to the Extension Service in Pontiac will put them in the mail to you at no charge.

The vegetable booklets cover just about anything you could ever imagine growing in the garden. With help like that how could I miss growing something? Now if it would only quit raining...

Certainly the rains are going to have to bypass Wixom for at least a week during our celebration of Michigan Week.

The eleventh hour is close at hand for those who have worked on all the committees that make up Michigan Week in Wixom.

Hours upon hours have gone into the planning the events that are being offered to Wixomites in the coming week. It is hoped that there will be something for everyone to enjoy. There are some new things being offered...and then there are the programs that are traditionally a part of the week-long celebration.

Traditionally... the Goodfellow Dance this Saturday followed one week later by Youth Day. Both have been part of the scene ever since Michigan Week was born and both have been enlarged this year. Youth Day will prove to be an even bigger day-long event full of fun and activity for everyone.

And then there's the Pancake Breakfast... bright and early this Saturday morning, 8 a.m., at the U.A.W. Hall sponsored by the Friends of the Wixom Library. Join your neighbors for breakfast and help purchase a movie projector for the library.

We have displays at City Hall from the local businesses, the Kids versus the Kops and Firemen on the baseball diamond, a golf outing at Hickory Hills, the finale of the mustache growing contest... and how could it possibly rain on a full day like that.

A part of Christian life is aimed at helping others less fortunate. On Spiritual Foundations Day this year a food and clothing drive from 1:30 until 4 p.m. will gather items donated by Wixomites.

These will be distributed through local community groups. Five drop-off points have been designated by Bill and Mickey Warner who are heading up this committee.

Monday will be a full day for Lynda and Jim Schemanske, Sylvia and Val Vangieson, and MaryJo and Tom Waggoner. While they take part in the welcoming ceremonies and a full day of activities with the contingency from Chelsea, Darlene and Jim Lahde, and the Dingeldeys will accompany Pearl and Gib Willis to Chelsea. We will certainly miss the banquet in the evening which honors the seniors. But we hope to bring back ideas which is the purpose of the exchange.

As Helen Foss of the Finnish Camp said, "We're having a party and we hope everyone in the whole city will come". That "party" will be on Tuesday afternoon, Heritage Day. It's a great opportunity to become acquainted, tour the grounds, enjoy performances of dancers in native costumes and hear the Finlandia Strings. Two performances at 3 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. are offered at no charge. Refreshments will be served, and all are cordially welcome.

For those of you who have wondered what a sauna is like or have enjoyed taking the Finnish steam bath in the past, it too will be open to the public. Heritage Day will be lively and colorful... plan on attending.

Don't forget that there's another Ladies Luncheon next Thursday. As the flyer said "spring along with us". Along with a dish to pass, which is the only "entry charge," write down a recipe and give it to Bev Walters for inclusion in the "Friends of the Wixom Library Cook Book". Deadline for these recipes is June 1.

And while you're digging through those recipes you'll probably find others that are equally mouth-watering. Bring those too... there's no limit to the number you submit.

Faye and Fred Waara spent the weekend in Marquette, gathering all the paraphernalia collected by daughter Frida during her first year at college. Getting back home meant lots of good home cooking, and that meant gathering up friends for a good ole Southern fried chicken dinner Monday night. And that meant Mom didn't have much time to catch her breath.

We can look forward to seeing a lot more kids home from the college campus during the next few more weeks.

Things to look forward to... an art auction in Wixom on June 9.

Four Schools Set Student Art Fairs

Four art fairs are on the calendar for the coming weeks at four Northville schools.

The first, planned for Wednesday, May 29, at the Cooke Middle School Annex, will be held from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Called the "Fine Arts Show," the exhibit will feature drawing, sculpture, posters, painting, design, rug hooking and string design. Ribbons will be awarded for first, second and third places.

Main Street Elementary will present its achievement night and art show from 7:15 to 9 p.m. June 3.

Amerman Elementary is planning an art show from 6 to 7 p.m. June 7. An ice cream social will follow until 8:30 p.m.

Moraine Elementary has set June 13 for its art show and spring concert. The art show begins at 6:30 and runs until 7:30 p.m. with the music program following.

Elementary school art shows will feature art work from every child in the school. The shows are being organized by Mrs. Vaile Hall, Mrs. Gail Raben and Mrs. Shirley Talmadge, art instructors for the four buildings.

A 20-inch boys' bicycle was stolen from the backyard of a residence at 224 Endwell last week.

The bicycle was stolen sometime between 7 p.m. on May 2 and 3:30 p.m. the following day, according to police reports.

In Township

An 11-year-old Northville girl was hospitalized with a fractured ankle and heat cuts after she was struck by a motorcycle while crossing Seven Mile Road on her bicycle.

According to township police reports, Susan Lee Townsend of 46675 Seven Mile Road was taken to St. Mary hospital shortly after 9:50 a.m. Saturday.

Police said she was struck by an eastbound motorcycle being driven by Mark Eugene LeFave of Detroit. LeFave and witnesses told police the Townsend girl was eastbound on Seven Mile Road when she went from the shoulder to the pavement in a northerly direction to cross the road. They said she crossed directly in front of LeFave who was unable to avoid the collision.

A report of indecent exposure is being investigated by township police. A bus driver for Northville Public Schools told officers she was driving her empty bus on Waterford Road and Six Mile last Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. when the incident took place.

She said a man was sitting in a light green and black 1971 Chevrolet Malibu, and as the bus approached, he stepped from his car, exposing himself

Police are investigating a report of malicious destruction of property which took place Sunday afternoon.

According to reports, a home on Pickford Court sustained damage to a garage door window and family room window, both shattered with rocks.

Also damaged were two cars which had driver's seats slashed with sharp objects.

Unknown persons entered and ransacked a home on Seven Mile near Clement Road Thursday evening. According to reports, the house was entered through a basement window and ransacked; however nothing was reported missing.

A 15-year-old juvenile faces charges of attempting to steal a car stemming from an incident Sunday on Clement Road

According to Michigan State Police reports, the youth was seen by Jeffrey Moon, cadet with Northville City Police Department, backing the car out of a driveway on Neeson

Moon said he gave chase but was unable to stop the youth. He then got into his car and found the youth hitchhiking on Main Street west of Clement. He picked up the youth and took him to the city police department and notified troopers.
