SCHOOL'S LAST CLASS-The last class of Wash-Oak School files out to form a question mark in May of 1966, symbolizing the then unsettled issue of what would become of the school. Vacant since then, the school is now to be moved to the Mill Race Historical Village and restored.

Wash-Oak Building

Historical Village To Get School

By JEAN DAY,

When the doors of Wash-Oak school closed eight years ago, it appeared that no more pupils would be reciting lessons as they had done for 93 years in the one-room schoolhouse.

If the plans of Northville Historical Society come to fruition, however, youngsters once again may be learning their three-R's in the 101-year-old schoolhouse.

The building has been given to the society and is now being placed on skids ready to be moved to the Mill Race Historical Village on Griswold Street where it will be located at the left of the restored old library building.

Historical society members are looking beyond the peeling white paint and damage from exposure and vandals to a reconstruction that will include a schoolhouse bell tower.

When it is restored as á "typical little red schoolhouse", John Burkman, chairman of the board of the society, hopes that school classes can be invited to spend a day learning their lessons as children did 100 or more years ago.

When a sketch of the proposed Mill Race Restoration Village was drawn by Northyille Historical Society member Donald Fee, it was projected that there would be a one-room schoolhouse. Inquiries were made about any available, including the Wash-Oak school located in Salem Township. At that time the schoolhouse and five acres of property had been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. George Rigby who then lived at 18207 Jamestown Circle in Northville. Their plans to fix up the schoolhouse as a dwelling were changed when he was appointed to the job of comptroller of the City of Cleveland, Burkman says, and they offered the building to the society.

The donation is being appraised and the Rigbys will receive credit for the contribution, Burkman explains.

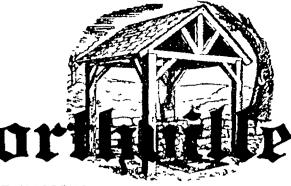

The schoolhouse reverted to private ownership after residents voted in June, 1966, to become part of the South Lyon school district. Under terms of the original grant of land by two adjoining pioneer Salem Township families, the Watermans and Deakes, the property was to revert to the owners if it no longer was used as a

The feasibility study, which began earlier this year, recommends Cooke Annex be demolished and a new library facility built in its place, that the school board vacate its present quarters and share space with Main Street Elementary School, that the recreation department operate out of the present school board offices and that a new senior citizens' housing facility be constructed on the proposed Wing Street site.

Smaller Drain Cost in Offing for Northville

Play Tennis to Help Children's Hospital

By JEAN DAY

TENNIS AND CRUMPETS, Incorporated, an organization that combines sports fun with good works, is getting an assist from two Northville residents in its work for Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit.

Mrs. Robert (Donna) Boshoven and Mrs. Wes (Sally) Henrikson with their husbands will be on the courts September 7 and 8 in the Dearborn Area Tennis and Crumpets mixed doubles benefit tournament. This will be followed by finals and a dinner dance September 14.

This metropolitan area organization of tennis enthusiasts has given the children's hospital more than $120,000 since 1967 when the first tournament was

A portion of the monies raised this year, the women point out, will be used to fulfill a commitment to the burn unit for additional equipment and research. Balance of the profits will be directed to a new $200,000 pledge to the hospital's medical cardiology suite.

The local Tennis and Crumpets members point out that participation in the tournament in addition to helping a good cause is an opportunity to make new tennis friends. Anyone interested in playing tennis "for the children" is invited to call Mrs. Henrikson, 349-4607, or Mrs. Boshoven, 349-5528.

SOME TICKETS still are available for the second annual Northville City Police Officers Association dance benefit to be held from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. next Saturday, August 24, in the Farmington Knights of Columbus hall in Farmington. This year's event will include a complete buffet dinner for the $20 a couple price.

'I'm glad to see tickets going well," chairman William Harrison reported Tuesday, noting that he expects about 200 to attend. "It's a chance for friends to gather, to enjoy good food and to dance," he adds. Gene Czarnecki and the Meltones will play for dancing after a buffet which will include roast beef, chicken and Polish sausage.

A portion of the proceeds, it is announced by the association, will be donated to the Jerry Lewis telathon. The policemen also plan to use some of the funds to sponsor an area football team and aid sports locally.

Tickets may be purchased from any city policeman or at Klempner's Delicatessen in the lower level of Northville Square.

MOTHERS' CLUB Marathon Bridge Tournament chairmen Mrs. Charles B. Smith and Mrs. Roger Pyett are asking everyone interested in registering for, fall play to send checks to either of them as they sign up for play.

This is the first year that payment is being made with registration. Rena Smith points out that doing so will eliminate hostesses mailing money or checks monthly and avoid possibility of loss. Fee is a dollar a month of play per person. Thus, in women's groups each player should send $9; couples should send $18.

Mrs. Smith announced that women's groups will play both daytime and evening while couples will play during the evening. There also will be a duplicate tournament with those interested asked to call Mrs. Smith, 349-5984, or Mrs. Pyett, 349-5658.

Checks should be sent to Mrs. Smith, 44955 Thornapple Lane, or to Mrs. Pyett, 18449 Donegal Court, both Northville.

TRIPS TO EUROPE for special reasons have been enjoyed by Northville residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Hartshorne have just returned to their home at 1031 Grace Court after a tour of Europe with 180 members of the 94th Infantry Division. They visited battle areas in Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany, Austria and Czechoslavakia with the men recalling World War II days.

Highlights of the trip were all reception-lunch at SHAPE (Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe) in Brussels, a ceremony at the U.S. Military Cemetery in Hamm, Luxembourg, and a reception at the U.S. Attache's residence in Prague. The visitors also took a cruise on the Rhine River and visited Hitler's retreat in Berchtesgaden as well as beautiful Salzburg, Austria, where "Sound of Music" was filmed.

Scott Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs.4 H.O. Evans, 20311 Woodhill Road, is back from a trip to Holland as a member of a team of athletes playing in an international tournament there — and taking third place.

Scott, a junior at Michigan State University, is spending the summer playing on a team of players from different colleges brought together by a Grand Rapids businessman who owns Sullivan furniture business there. He is one of two MSU players on the team which has won three championships.

Debbie Germeroth Cuts Country Western Record

She's Debbie Germeroth to her friends at Northville High School where she will be a junior in the fall, but on the country western record, "Let "'em Talk," being played by farea disc jockeys she's Debbie Lee.

A Either way she's a 16-yearold who "loves to sing" that a recording company in Nashville, Tennessee, thinks has promise. Her record, which she went to Nashville to cut on the Memorial Day fioliday last spring, is playing most often, she says, on Ypsilanti station WEXL.

That's when Debbie appealed to her father and the Memorial weekend plans were made. In Nashville Debbie picked the songs she recorded from writers' tapes and learned the words from the tapes-"I never saw a note of music," she recalls. The other side of "Let 'em Talk" is the song, "The Birds Will Sing." However, Debbie says, the one the jockeys are playing in this area is "Let 'em Talk."

The musicians on the record are "great." Debbie adds. She had no problems recording with them, but it was not an inexpensive venture.

The six musicians had to be paid and the studio rented.

'Complete Ditching Program' Well Underway in Novi

A "complete ditching program" designed to designed to improve drainage for all Novi streets near and abutting Walled Lake was begunrecently by the city department of public works utilizing a 145,000 ditching machine purchased in June.

Activity Center Provides Teens Summer Relief

By WAYNE LODER

Most students look upon summer vacation as a time for forgetting about school buildings and teachers, but nearly 70 students have found the Summer Activity Center at Orchard Hills Elementary in the Novi School District to be a welcome relief from usual summer boredom. That school has the blessing of the school district to open its doors from 6-10 p.m. each week-day during the summer so area youth can use the facilities for various forms of activity during the summer.

Driving forces behind the Novi program are Milan Obrenovich, director of community education for the district, and Bob Emerson and Chris Hayward, Novi teachers who are acting as codirectors of the program.

"The program gives teens a place to have social activities with members of their own age group — it gives them something to do during the summer," says Obrenovich. "We're after humanism," adds Emerson, a psychology and sociology instructor. The program is designed opefully to make everyone a little bit better person."

Funding for the project comes from the United Community Services (UCS) which receives money from the United Fund. Eleven projects, including the Novi program, are funded in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb

According to Obrenovich, the school district could have received funding either for a youth employment service or a summer activity center but opted for the latter because city of Walled Lake already has a senior and youth employment (SYES) center.

The district submitted an original request for $4,000 but found its budget had to be trimmed when UCS provided only $3,000.

Funding could continue creating new drainage channels and courses if necessary, said Administrative Assistant Ed Kriewall. The program will also include shaping and

The meeting next Tuesday had been set previously to consider candidates for the vacancy...on the council, created when Dr. Val Vangieson took over as mayor after the resignation of Gilbert

Willis. Clerk June Buck reported Tuesday that she then had five names of persons who have contacted the city or submitted letters expressing interest in serving.

The council also received a strong complaint from Lew Coy, an Oakland County Commissioner and area waterfront resident on Loon Lake. He sought to have present small drains widened as' an immediate solution to rising water levels.

He accused the council of being "leaders in talk" after Councilman James Lahde questioned whether temporary solution which would transfer the problem to the Oakland County Road Commission, which Coy asserted he would handle. Lahde pointed out that he

The certificate will state that the owner has done an excellent job in maintaining the property. The project could be in action by the end of September, Bauer reported;

Because the city only allotted the commission $100 when it was begun earlier this year, the commission is seeking funding help from the Houseing and Urban Development (HUD) program, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and national or state forestry services, Bauer said. The city hopes to get saplings from the forestry services.

Also being sought is a donation of 50 gallon litter cans which would be placed in the downtown schools; shopping centers and other areas as they become available. A commitment from the city Department of Public Works is necessary for picking up the contents of the cans, Bauer said,

All money related projects must be approved by the city council.

> Bumper Blocks To Top Agenda

A decision on installation of bumper blocks on the high school parking lot is to be made at tonight's (Thursday) Novi Board of Education

Up for discussion and decision at the 8 p.m. meeting in the board room is a proposal to install bumpers at the parking lot entrances and exits to discourage fast vehicular movement. Also, school board members are considering installation of parking slabs at either end of the parking lot sidewalk to prevent parking in this area.

Among other actions slated tonight are: Approval of the school policy book, which has been under preparation for some time; membership renewal in the Metropolitan Detroit Bureau of School Studies, Inc.; and consideration of a Right to Read agreement.

Also, the board is expected to discuss a proposed adult education program, involving the school districts of Novi, South Lyon and Walled Lake, which suggests adult education classes be offered during daytime hours.

Informational items will cover free TB tests for staff members and the school calendar.

The Right to Read agreement concerns a Phase II training program involving the training of personnel in 24 days of intensive staff development. Training will cover reading content and methodology and management techniques and change agentry skills.

Civitans Sponsor Teens

Four Attend Youth Meet

Four Northville teenagers have joined students from throughout the Midwest at the Civitan Youth Seminar on the campus of Adrian College in Adrian.

The seminar, which got underway Monday and continues through Sunday, is for students selected by local Civitan clubs.

Chosen by the Northville club were Tina Salvatore, 18591 Jamestown Circle; Dawn Hampton, 47115 Grasmere; Kim Belcher, 47000 West Main, and Anne Vinnes, 18637 Jamestown Circle.

Objectives of the seminar are three-fold:

1. To present expert testimony relative to current issues facing our nation and the world.

2. To permit a thorough interchange of ideas relative to each presentation made (i.e. discussion groups, question and answer periods).

3. To provide an atmosphere conducive to easy listening, fruitful discussion, quiet reflection. enjoyable recreation.

The seminar is open to any young man or woman who is entering the 10th, 11th, or 12th grades this fall. Qualifications and manner of selection is individually determined by the sponsoring Civitan club without regard to race, creed, color or sex.

Tuition is $75 per delegate.

"There are many paradoxical aspects of our way of life, and the young people in America want to know why. Civitan wants to help provide answers," explained a club spokesman.

"We want youth to understand the problems, how they came about, why they are difficult to resolve. These young people will eventually have to deal with the inequities, and the better informed they are, the better develop.

"So Civitan is sponsoring this Youth Seminar. We've tried to get it all together...the proper environment for thoughtful debate ..the most expert testimony on the problems we now face...a group of concerned youth' leaders to confront and be confronted by...the opportunity to play back reactions, ask questions, discuss remedies.

"In this way, Civitan can help create a better America developing greater citizenship among our future

Spear pointed out that total conversion of Main Street Elementary, to school board only seemed inappropriate since a new elementary school would have to be built at a cost of $1.750,000. He added that the study recommends keeping 10 classrooms to accomodate all elementary students within walking distance to the school and to use the reamainder of the school for school district offices. Historical Wash-Oak

By May 28, 1966, when the last group of 19 youngsters filed out for summer recess. the Waterman property was that of the Rodamsky family and the Deakes, the W. C. Stooks.

In early years the school was known as the "Deake" school or "Nahlor" school, for another early pioneer. The "Wash-Oak" designation was for Washtenaw and Oakland counties from which the students

Built on the site in 1873, the Wash-Oak school was not the original one on the property. The first had burned to the ground three years before.

According to a history written in 1941 by school students and placed on file with the Washtenaw County Board of Education, the school opened with 35 pupils in grades 3-12.

During the winter term when "older boys" attended school, the record relates, a male teacher was needed to "take care of" them. Other times of the three-term year they were out, working on their parents' farms.

At this early time recitation seats or benches lined three sides of the room while the teacher's desk was at the front on a platform facing the box stove in the middle of the floor. The history further pictures wood for the stove stacked by the fence on the south side of the school.

A church was located next door, and water was brought from a farm a half-mile away. The school then was lit with kerosene lamps.

The original desks were replaced, but in 1966 the school still had old-type folding seat desks. The stove had been replaced by a furnace only a few years before over some residents' "stormy protests" and rear addition held inside toilets.

About two years ago a quarter of the school roof burned during a grass fire, damaging the wood floor.

In preparation for the move to the Mill Race village, historical society workers have removed the addition at the rear and the front entrance, exposing the original front doorway with three-pane window light above.

The workers are encouraged that the building had a two-layer floor and that basic construction is solid. Burkman says he now has his eye out for an outhouse to move to the restoration as part of the schoolhouse scene.

As historical society volunteers wait for the schoolhouse to be moved by the Hofsess Company (which also moved the House), they are making restoration plans. Hofsess has offered to move the structure at a special price of $850 if it can be done at the firm's convenience.

It's quite definite that the schoolhouse will begin its new career in the Mill Race painted red with white trim for two reasons: most schoolhouses seem to have been red (although this one appears always to have been white) and the Mill Race needs a "spot of color".

At its July meeting the Northville Historical Society voted to have the little double-wing Greek revival Hunter House painted white although there had been a blue shade suggested.

Members, some of whom had researched in the East, questioned whether such a revival house originally ever would have been blue. The bell tower will be an addition to the schoolhouse to make it more typical. The society already has a bell from the Bell Foundry, once a Northville firm.

Reconstruction of the schoolhouse will be part of the Northville Bicentennial project.

Also due to be moved to the Mill Race this fall is the house at 430 Center Street now occupied by State Farm Insurance. Owner Paul Folino is donating the building to the restoration village.

Manufacturer's bid of 5.78 percent interest on the loan for $1,283,000 was praised by board members and Business Director Earl Busard.

Busard commented that "some school district's aren't receiving any bids on their notes because banks are anticipating the interest ceiling will be raised from six percent to eight percent. Manufacturer's has always been good to the district.'

While major development has been virtually at a standstill compared to the pace of the recent past, Northville township planners will hear a proposal for 1,240 dwelling units and a convenience commercial center next Tuesday

The proposed development was reported earlier in this newspaper following its introduction to planners last June 25.

Representatives of the firm holding options on the 285-acre parcel extending west from Sheldon Road along both sides of Six Mile Road will outline details of the plan at Tuesday's hearing. There's evidence that a number of township residents will be present to voice their objections based upon the density of the project.

The site of the proposed "Oak Springs of Northville" extends south of Six Mile to Wayne County Children Development. Center property. Twenty-two acres on the northwest corner of Six Mile and Sheldon would be reserved for the commercial complex, while residential development would extend westward to property owned by the school district and proposed as the site of a new high school. Northward the residential development would adjoin Thornapple Lane residences and the Edenderry-Shadbrook subdivisions.

Presently the land is zoned R-2, which if fully developed for single family homes would result in 605

The proposed development calls for rezoning of the parcel to R-3 (plus the commercial corner) and seeks permission to employ the Planned Neighborhood Development (PND) concept, which provides for a mix of single family detached homes, clustered single family homes, townhouses and apartments. PND allows the use of common open space to replace individual yards and thereby increases the number of units per Under the proposed zoning (with PND) a total of 1,784 dwelling units could be constructed on the site. The Oak Springs' plan, however, calls for 1,240 units, a mix of single family, townhouses and apartments.

So the span in number of living units from the present R-2 zoning (605 units) to the proposed R-3 zoning with PND (1,784 units) is over 1,000 dwelling units. This figure should be reduced to 635 units on the basis of the proposed plan calling for only 1,240 units.

If the average residential unit has three occupants, there is a potential difference of nearly 2,000 . people between the present R-2 zoning and the proposed plan calling for R-3 plus PND.

I am confident that the promoters of this proposed development can offer substantial evidence of need, economic feasibility, desirable tax impact and business potential to support their plan.

And although it may have taken too long for these eyes to turn from economic factors to the less clearly defined impact on just plain living, I now believe it is important for this community to soberly consider the responsibilities that come with more people residing in less space.

What about recreation, public safety, crime and probation services?

Do they not rank in importance with schools, streets, traffic and utilities?

Is it fair to either new or old residents to take the lid off density of development unless a community is prepared to assume the responsibility of providing services that huge increases in numbers of people demand?

Hopefully, the developers of this proposed project will address themselves to these problems as they outline their plan at Tuesday's public hearing before the planning commission.

Although it may appear contradictory, I believe any proposal has a right to be heard before it is judged. It is equally important, however, that all side effects are examined before and not after the fact.

Fortunately, Northville township is served by a veteran and sound-thinking planning commission and advised by a highly competent consultant.

They must weigh all aspects of any proposal and consider both the arguments of the developer and the opinions of the public.

Then they must advise the governing board of trustees as to what they believe to be in the best interests of the community.

Telephone Solicitation?

Honest, direct and polite telephone soliciting can be very effective means of creating new prospects for several different types of business. I do not feel that the average person resents being asked if they are on the market for a respond in the negative and end the conversation; if on the other hand they have been considering such a purchase, they may want to receive some literature, or perhaps call to be an insult to a persons intelligence - such as; "Your name has been selected —", "You have just won—". This type of call is neither honest nor direct and it frequently wastes 15 minutes or more of your time before you can even find out what service or item they are selling. I have also found these calls to be anything but necessary, but vitally important that we do solicit new

This afternoon the phone rang while I was washing clothes in the basement. I ran up the stairs trying to catch it before the phone's ringing woke the baby who was taking his afternoon nap. It was a real estate saleswoman. She wanted us to sell our house which, unbeknownst to her, we had moved into last month. I, of course, laughed but she came back with, "Well if you ever consider selling please call our office. Please." Her voice sounded so plaintive that I had immediate visions of trying to talk my husband into moving.

I have never been tempted to sell our house, buy land, accept a free dinner at a restaurant or buy anything else that the solicitors are trying to sell. What usually happens is that I feel put upon and certainly not in the mood to buy their products.

To me, phone solicitors are an invasion of my privacy. If I want a product or a service, I prefer to go out and contact the businessman rather than having the businessman contact me.

Readers Speak: Proposed Budget Cuts 'Shock' Citizens

To the Editor:

We were shocked and dismayed to learn of the proposed budget cuts for the City of Novi.

We have a volunteer Fire Department of twenty-four dedicated men. They have given equipment and of their own time to Novi. Little do we realize what they have done and are doing for us. Please note the following:

1. Twelve of these men took time from their businesses and families to take the State of Michigans firefighting course. This took a total of 66 hours without pay and for what? To insure the safety of Novi-thats what! And to gain more knowledge of fire fighting so that they can become better firemen.

they done that "something" extra? Such as putting on shows for special occasions to benefit some community project. Think about it!

3. The Fire Department has 9 fire trucks and 2 emergency units. Of these, the City owns 3 trucks and 1 emergency unit. The rest have been bought and equipped by the Firemens' Association through monies raised by shows, Gala Days, and filling pools. What have we ever done to thank them? Nothing, other than now when we want to reduce their budget that insures the safety of our community. That would mean inadequate equipment for our community NOW. What are

2. How many times have we going to do in the future?

The second point we would like to make concerns our Police Department. We are finally getting the type of police force that we can be both proud and of, feel secure with. What does the City Council propose? Simple. Let us cut our force back and save money or let us do away with our department and be policed by the Oakland County Sherrifs Department. Either way we are under par. Novi is in close proximity to Detroit. We have a large area to patrol with the transient traffic on the expressway now being included in our area. We need more units not less. Would you feel safe if you were asked to patrol our

The City is in financial trouble, but where are all current tax dollars going to? Consider the Following:

1. No city garbage pickup in Novi.

2. No city water in the greater percent of Novi. 3. Only 1/2 of a sewer

4. Only the new sections of Novi have adequate paved roads while the older sections are left to rot..

5. We have approximately 2,000 students in our school system and 3 PHD's operating the district. One of our neighboring communitys has streets alone in a car without approximately 4,000 students, just as an efficient system and No PHD's.

> 6. Improving our school system is one thing, paying for leave of, absences and writing it off as associate counseling is another matter.

> 7. How many city cars do we have in use? How many are used privately after work > hours at the citys expense?

8. Why is the School Board buying 2 cars for school and private use for the Supt. and

Asst. Supt? 9. What about industry in our community? How many times has a company been kept out of Novi by building practices and regulations that are not sensitive to the needs of the community? The List goes on-As citizens what can we do to end the misappropriation of our tax dollar. In a democratic system you have two toolsyour voice and your vote. Let your opinions be heard. Let the Council know we don't want senseless cutbacks while we waste thousands of dollars on needless expenses. If your voice can't do it, your VOTE will. For the past 31/2 years Jerome Bismack has been! legally blind, living on hope and disappointment.

The tenacious 24-year-old son of a hardware clerk in Michigan's thumb area, Jerry wrote this newspaper early last week to urge our help in his one-man campaign to encourage eye donations.

Jerry, who lives in Minden, has a shrinking eye disease that has grown progressively worse in recentus years. By the time he was a junior at Michigan State University, in the school of engineering, he had lost so much of his eyesight he could no longer keep up his studies and was forced to drop out of school.

In his letter explaining that many others in Michigan are legally blind or growing blind, here pointed out that "the sad fact about this is that those people can regain 100-percent of their sight."

He said he has been waiting for 20 months "for a call from the ophthalmologist saying he has received a donor eye suitable for a corneal transplant (the in grafting of the clear part of the eye from a donor to a '1. person with a deformed cornea)." Others, he added, have been waiting even longer.

Unfortunately, the subject of eye donation (and 26 donations of other human parts) is not discussed 'v. openly enough, and therefore many opportunities for the blind never materialize.

Here is some information about the subject passed along by this young man:

Eyes can be donated even if somebody wears glasses. Even some totally blind people's eyes can be

Eyes for transplants have to be removed within, two to four hours after death. They are good for corneal transplants for approximately 24 to 48 hours. Any eye from a person between the ages of one and 50 can be used - even the eyes of those who have undergone certain kinds of surgery.

Removal of eyes does not mar the appearance of the body. Enucleation (removal) of eyes is carefully done and morticians today can close the eyes so skillfully that they appear normal.

It is extremely difficult to broach the subject immediately following the death of a loved one, said Jerry. "It is obviously a very traumatic situation and that is why one must think about it now and ready.) himself before the shock of death happens."

What could be a better eulogy than to have part of 🦫 the dead person "live" to help complete another human life? he asked.

By R. ROBERT GEAKE State Representative

The first major revision in the state's mental health code in 50 years was signed into law last week by Governor Milliken. This new-law, known popularly as the "Revised Mental Health Code" occupied more than 100 hours of public hearings and committee debate. It was one of the bills with which I, personally, t, was most involved during my first term in the legis-

The revised code is designed to make it easier to obtain mental health services in the community voluntarily and at the same time makes it more difficult for people to be committed to mental institutions against their will.

At the bill signing, Governor Milliken called the measure "a bill of rights for mentally ill and mentally retarded persons".

The law protects privileged communication between doctors and mental patients and sets rates for in-patient care at state facilities.

Parents of persons under 18 years of age will pay anywhere from nothing to $2,400 in costs depending on their income. Parents with net taxable incomes of less than $7,000 pay nothing.

Counties such as Wayne County which have suffered from chronic financial problems will benefit greatly from the bill. Counties will now pay ten percent of the annual cost of inpatient care from the date of admission to the date of release. Currently counties pay full cost for the first year of treatment for county residents at state hospitals.

The old formula was fair to counties in the days when most persons admitted to mental hospitals remained there for many years. But now, with modern treatment methods, the majority of patients stay for less than one year and are replaced by others needing treatment. Thus counties were paying disproportionate shares of state hospital program costs.

The Governor also signed into law a bill to authorize the creation of Health Maintenance Organizations (HMO's), to provide comprehensive health and medical services to an enrolled group in exchange for a fixed, prepaid fee. I had introduced the bill in the House but it was a Senate version which finally passed both chambers.

Faults Council

To the Editor:

I think it's time the citizens and taxpayers of the City of Novi got answers to some of the questions that plague us. At a time of financial crisis

when tight control is essential, why is our council enjoying a leisurely summer meeting only twice monthly? An after three weeks of no public sessionsthe meeting is started with a statement that we must hurry through the agenda because the clerk must arise early for the election.

In the interim who is running our city? A manager whose resignation has been accepted by the council and who is fulfilling job interviews and whose mind is on his future and not our present?

Is our council content during our present financial dilemma to make decisions based on a December 1973 financial statement? And is the police department to be used as a lever for future millage proposals?

When will we learn administratively to employ follow-up? Questions, requests for information and correspondence go unanswered and unheeded.

As citizens we are faced with rhetoric and no action and I for one feel it is time our elected officials realized their responsibility to their constituents and got off their duffs and went to work.

Refutes Geake, Labels Column Unfair

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the voters of Northville and Northville Township for the support given me in the recent primary election.

Many people that I had the opportunity to talk with as I traveled door to door mentioned the fine public service this newspaper was providing in the printing of a weekly column by the incumbent legislator. Instead, I would prefer to discuss the leadership individual exhibited by candidates and incumbent legislators. I have chosen to reveal my income sources for the past year-in fact, these returns were printed in your newspaper several weeks prior to the primary election.

At the time of the writing of this letter all of my primary contributions and expenditures were turned over to this newspaper in order that all would know who is behind my campaign, and who is receiving the money that I spend.

These were steps taken by myself without the need for the passage of an election reform measure. I feel very strongly that each of us as private citizens should require these steps of all candidates, incumbent or not.

I greatly appreciate the fact that our incumbent legislator has a column through which he can communicate to the voters: however, I would hope that the voters have an opportunity to read other than partisan material during this election campaign.

Banks are a necessary friend when it comes to buying a house. Few people if any, can pay full cash, so a bank mortgage is required to make up the difference. Banks, as you know, vary. Some are geared more specifically to home loans than others. In fact some were chartered specifically for this purpose by the U.S. Government. Types of mortgages vary also. In earlier days interest on the loan was the only regular payment and people prayed that they have the cash when the loan was due. Today most mortgages are selfliquidating by paying off some principal with each monthly installment

Labeling recent city criticism of his business as unfair, the, new owner of Cloverdale nevertheless pledged to continue his campaign to restore the firm's former image.

George Barum of Detroit, who purchased the business at 134 North Center six weeks ago, labeled as unfair a news story carried in last week's newspaper which reported criticisms of the Northville City Council.

Specifically, council members faulted Cloverdale for allowing its fine image to be tarnished by not cleaning about interior and exterior cleanliness, council indicated is considering reestabishment of the post of city health officer to police a growing number of eating establishments in the city.

Stanley R. Quackenbush, chairman of the inter-county drain board, reminded those attending last week's meeting that plans had been changed to accommodate many of the concerns of property owners and officials. Central among these, he noted, had been the ditching proposals.

His remark triggered an official action of the board to accept the plans, with direction to the engineering firm that drew them up to indicate by August 27 if any additional changes are to be

Also, the board accepted a bill of $27,000 for engineering to date but it set aside the bill until monies for the Randolph Drain project become available.

How the municipalities pay their own shares of this engineering and the eventual construction costs must still be decided by them.In Northville, for example, the council could assess property owners who it deems directly benefit from the improvement or it could pay for the work out of the city's general fund if it concludes that the project benefits the entire community and not just the area within the drainage district.

Even before this question is resolved however, the project itself must be formally approved and the planned improvement ordered. To date that has not been done.

Quackenbush, in setting up the meeting later this month, indicated that the next step soon thereafter will be to set a public hearing date on the Randolph Drain proposal. Upon conclusion of that hearing the inter-county drain board must approve, disapprove or modify the

With this flexibility, the route could be adjusted to better fit future manager had reasoned, they said.

When a representative of Northville Green wondered aloud why an enclosure was required at the apartments when an open dam had been permitted on the Thompson-Brown property north of Eight Mile, the board noted:

-The enclosed drain is necessitated for safety of residents of the apartments:

-The dam in question is not a drainage control instrument but rather a badly needed holding pond to arrest soil erosion.

—The enclosed drain will be built "behind" (west and south) the apartments, with development, the former the bulk of storm waters passing through it. However, a minor flow will be permitted in the existing creek bed, which passes between apartment buildings, to preserve the landscape.

In reference to the dam or holding pond, Northville Mayor A.M. Allen suggested that it be made part of the Randolph Drain engineering study because it has become a nuisance to some people (mosquitos) and it may constitute a potential flood hazard.

Board members suggested that with the improvement of the Randolph Drain the need for the dam may no longer

By PHILIP JEROME

It was the Blue versus the Gray. North versus South. Ulysses S. Grant versus Robert E. Lee.

But the place was not Gettysburg or Shiloh or Bull

And the time was not 1864.

Instead, the place was South Lyon and the time was this past weekend - Saturday and Sunday, August 10-11.

What was taking place was a regional skirmish of the North-South Skirmish Association (N-SSA).

Purpose of the N-SSA is to conduct shooting competition with weapons issued and used during the Civil War. Weapons, accoutrements, and uniforms must be originals or exact replicas.

Founded in 1956, the organization is made up of teams (regiments) from most states east of the Mississippi River. Regimental designations and uniforms must have had their counterparts in the Civil War, but need not correspond geographically. The 15th Virginia Volunteer Cavalry, for example, is located in the Detroit area.

The skirmish itself consists of both individual and team competition with muskets and carbines. Individuals test their prowess with the weapons by firing at breakable targets.

The Civil War buffs started arriving for the South Lyon skirmish on Friday night. Camp fires roared. The men sat around cleaning the barrels of their muskets. And long-skirted wives went about the business of doing up the dishes while a pot of hot coffee simmered over the flames.

A few hearty souls even went to the route of "tenting it" for the three-day weekend. Most, however, in a major concession to convenience and practicality, "tented it" in campers where they could tune in the Johnny Carson Show as the embers still glowed in the fires outside.

Christians Give Different Names to Lord's Supper

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

An experimental Communion service worked so beautifully earlier this summer at the Methodist Church in Northville that its pastor may repeat it on other occasions.

Instead of serving Communion in the traditional way at Communion rails — the Reverend Guenther Branstner served celebrants seated at tables of 12. The banquet size tables were positioned at the front of the church.

The tables and the number of people seated at the tables symbolized the Lord's Supper attended by the Disciples. Four ounce paper juice cups were used.

Initial concerns that the procedure might by overly-time consuming proved unfounded, said Mr. Branstner, who explained that the service moved along very well. And it was a particularly meaningful service, participants concluded.

The experiment hardly shattered tradition because the Lord's Supper is regularly celebrated in differing ways from Methodist church to Methodist church.

Similarly, differences exist from congregation to congregation, from parish to parish within the Roman Catholic, Episcopal, Lutherans, Presbyterians and Baptist

Even the name is different, although the nature of the service is the same. Mass, Eucharist, Communion, the Lord's Supper — the names basically have the same meaning, although most Protestant churches hold that Communion is a symbolic service whereas the Roman Catholic Church believes the physical properties of the bread and the wine change and become the body and blood of Christ, with only the appearance of bread and wine

The Episcopal Church holds a somewhat "in-between" position on this matter, according to the Reverend Father Leslie Harding, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross in

Although it does not share the Roman Catholic's doctrine of transubstantiation (change of physical properties), it does hold that upon consecration a change occurs, Father Harding

"For Episcopalians the physical properties of the bread and the wine do not change in themselves but upon consecration they become for us, in fact, the body and blood

He defined this belief as consubstantiation - the actual presence and combination of the body of Christ with the Eucharistic bread and wine.

For Lutherans, too, Communion is more than just symbolism, said the Reverend Charles Boerger, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church of Northville. Lutherans share the doctrine of consubstantiation.

There is a real presence," he said, "but there is no physical change." As the Lutheran eats and drinks the bread and wine, he explained, a mysterious, spiritual change does occur, he said.

However, there is nothing about the bread and wine itself before or after the service — that is sacred, said Pastor Boerger. Therefore, as is the case in other Protestant churches, no ritualistic means of disposing of the remaining wine or bread is required in the Lutheran Church.

Communion is served at the front of the church at St. Paul's, with members receiving the wine either in small individual cups or by sipping from the Common Cup or

The Chalice is used at Holy Cross but only because of tradition — not because of any religious requirement.

Lutherans, Episcopalians and Roman Catholics use fermented wine; Methodists, Presbyterians and Baptists use

Use of grape juice, for Methodists and Presbyterians, dates back to frontier days when the churches took a stiff stand against alcoholic beverage. The Reverend Cedric Whitcomb, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Northville, suggests the use of grape juice can be traced back to Biblical Catholics, Episcopalians and Lutherans, on the other hand, contend fermented wine was in common usage in the Holy Land during New Testament time.

A difference within Baptist churches was noted by Mr. Whitcomb — namely that in some churches, including his own church, non-member Christians are permitted to partake of Communion while other's limit it to members.

It is conducted the first Sunday night of each month at the front of the Northville Baptist Church. It is a quiet memorial service, strictly symbolic, and the bread and wine are passed to celebrants by deacons, he said. During the service participants remember the suffering of Christ on the cross and the blood He shed.

Mr. Whitcomb's church uses individual cups of grape juice and wafers of unleavened bread.

The kind of bread used, in most Protestant churches, is not mandated by church doctrine but rather it is based on tradition. And this tradition changes from church to church. Some use ordinary bread, others rye breads, and some serve it as wafers, as crumbs, as cut cubes, and some break it from whole loaves in bite size chunks.

Thus, in churches where Communion is interpreted as symbolism only, cupcakes and Kool-Aid could and have been used although such practice is uncommon.

One of the theories behind the use of individual cups is that the Common Cup, like the town drinking cup, is unsanitary. An argument that has been used in defense of the Common Cup or Chalice is that the fermented wine within the cup is likely to kill any lingering germs.

One of the means some churches avoid alleged health problems is by using the Intinction method of serving the bread and wine. Here the bread is dipped into the wine and then placed on the celebrant's tongue by the clergymen or delegated laymen.

The Reverend Lloyd Brasure, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, sees no hang-up with using the Chalice although his church uses individual cups (tiny glasses) out of tradition. He quickly added that he personally has taken Communion wine from a Common Cup and he has never become ill because of it.

Similarly, Mr. Brasure doesn't put much credence in the argument that an alcoholic would flip off the wagon if he drank fermented Communion wine.

Mr. Branstner pointed out that some churches are experimenting with a disposable plastic cup which eliminates the tedious job of washing the tiny glasses.

The plate or tray upon which the bread is held is called the Paton, explained Father Harding. Episcopalians and Roman Catholics may use, in addition to the Chalice, another, cup-like instrument for storing the bread Call a Ciborium, it look like a Chalice except that it has a lid, he said.

Although it may be uncommon, use of individual cups occurs in some Episcopal churches.

The Presbyterian minister rejoices in the fact that churches of different denominations today have more of a common appreciation of the Lord's Supper than existed in past years

He pointed out that on two occasions in recent years he has jointly conducted a Communion-Mass with a Roman Catholic priest. Both times it was part of a marriage ceremony, in his church, involving a couple of mixed

On one of the occasions, Mr. Brasure served the Protestant guests on one side of the church while the priest served the Catholics on the other side. On the other occasion, the two clergymen served jointly. Both were uplifting experiences for himself and participants, he remembered. Flexibility is the rule in Presbyterian churches, explained Mr. Brasure. Thus, what might be done in one church would not be the case in another. At his church Communion is served by the elders to those seated in church

His church does not serve Communion to children until they have received religious instruction. But this is not a Presbyterian requirement. Christian visitors from other denominations may partake of Communion in his church, he

The fact that Catholic parishioners are, in some churches, today joining with the priest in drinking wine during Mass is a break in a very old custom. For centuries past, only the priest was permitted to sip the Mass wine, and parishioners were permitted to eat only the bread. The word "Sacraments" when used in conjunction with the Communion service refers to the bread and wine: "Host" refers to the bread...and the body of Christ, explained Father Harding, who said the Sacrament is the "outward visible sign of an inward spiritual grace" for Episcopalians.

One of the sharpest differences between Protestants, Roman Catholics and Episcopalians is reflected in the latter two denominations' attention to Reserve Sacrament - leftover bread and wine that can be used for a later Eucharist. If saved, in what is called the Aumbrey, it is carefully guarded, said Father Harding. "If our church was going up in smoke my first duty," he explained, "would be to try saving the Reserve Sacrament." Unused wine and bread, for Roman Catholics and Episcopalians cannot be flushed down an ordinary drain. "At the time of Ablutions (disposal) the priest eats and drinks the remaining bread and wine, or the wine may be poured into what we call a Piscina or basin and drain built into the church specifically for this purpose," Father Harding said. Those delegated to wash the Chalice, Paton, and

Ciborium also must take care in disposing of the waste wash water. It, too, must be poured into the Piscina.

While Protestants generally agree that the instruments and ingredients of Communion are symbolic only they nevertheless share a deep feeling of respect for them.

This feeling is expressed by Mr. Branstner when he admits a tinge of concern when he must dispose of left-over Communion bread. For him, however, scattering it for God's little creatures, the birds, is personally a satisfactory p remedy.

KENNETH R. RATHERT of Northville Insurance, the Citizens insurance agency in Northville, has just received word from Roy A. Westran, president of the newly formed Citizens Insurance Company of America, that the new company has acquired all of the assets and assumed all of the liabilities of Citizens Mutual Insurance Company through its merger into the new company.

The merger completed the largest conversion of a property and casualty mutual company to a stock company ever accomplished in the United States, according to Westran, who was also president of the mutual Company.

Citizens Mutual, a Howell based company, was founded by William E. Robb, a Livingston County resident, in 1915. It was a pioneer in writing automobile coverages on a mutual company basis.

Mutual's policyholders will be serviced by the same independent agents and the same Company personnel that served them before the merger, and the new Company will carry on the traditions of service to the people of Michigan as it has since its founding almost 59 years ago.

Westran said that the conversion to a stock insurance company will carry on the traditions of service to the people of Michigan as it has since its founding almost 59 years ago.

Westran said that the conversion to a stock insurance company will benefit policyholders because the new Company will be able to offer expanded services and growth to its policy holders because of larger capitalization resulting from sale of stock.

Policyholders' equity in the Mutal Company will be distributed in proportion to premiums earned in the thirty months immediately before the merger. Westran said that approximately $13,450,000 will be distributed in preferred stock and cash. Policyholders have been supplied with detailed information.

Directors for the new company were all directors of Citizens Mutual Insurance Company and are Walter F. Carey of Flint, John Adam, Jr. and Frederick Fedeli of Worcester, Massachusetts; William McPherson IV, Westran, Donald E. Rhodes and Berthold Woodhams, all of Howell.

Officers are essentially the same as Citizens Mutual Insurance Company and are Chairman of the Board John Adam, Jr.; Honorary Chairman of the Board Berthold Woodhams; President Westran; Vice President-General Counsel-Secretary Rhodes; Treasurer John H. Berry, Jr., Vice President - Claims Russell F. Hoisington; Vice President - Underwriting Phillip E Frakes; Vice-president-Data Processing Richard J. Marencic; Vice-president -Agency John R. ROBERT H. KELLEY of Novi has been named to fill the newly-created position of Manager-Public Affairs for Detroit Edison. He reports to Chester F.

Ogden, Edison's Executive Vice President-Administration.

Kelley, who holds a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering and a master's degree in business administration from the University of Michigan, joined Detroit Edison in 1950.

He served in a variety of engineering and marketing posts and was assistant manager generation and distribution at the time he was assigned to Public Affairs last fall.

In his new post he is responsible for the development and administration of such activities as advertising, press relations, employee communications, creative services and consumer projects.

Kelley is a Registered Professional Engineer and a member of the Engineering Society of Detroit. He is married and has four children.

MICHAEL D. SAMONEK, CAE, executive vice president of the United Northwestern Realty Association (U.N.R.A.), has been recognized as a certified association executive.

Samonek was honored on August 6 at the annual convention and exposition of the American Society of Association Executives at the New York Hilton.

He qualified for certification — and the right to use CAE after his name — by successfully completing a comprehensive examination covering major areas of association management such as: law, government relations, financial management, membership promotion, trade practices, and communications.

In addition, all candidates for certification were required to complete a personal data form and a selfaudit of their association. Certification must be maintained by participating in ASAE educational programs or by completing college courses or other selected management programs.

The U.N.R.A. is the oldest and largest multiple listing service for REALTORS in the Detroit metropolitan area. Processing over 36,000 listings a year for its 280 member offices, the U.N.R.A. has a total membership of approximately 3,400 Brokers and Associates in Wayne, Oakland, and Livingston

Babson Report

U.S. Credit Crunch Jolts Finance Group

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.-One of the harder hit areas of the stock market is the finance group. Its poor performance is a reflection of the adverse impact of the credit crunch.

The finance stocks, in fact, have been jolted by two severe periods of tight credit and high interest rates which have scourged the economy in less than ten years. Between these periods the firms which augment the commercial banks in extending credit to consumers and businesses have had only a brief respite from the constrictions of a hostile monetary climate. There is, however, reason to expect some betteterment before too long.

Finance companies are highly leveraged. The short-and long-term credit marts provide a hefty portion of their capitalization and working funds. Therefore, their fortunes are closely tied to the cost and availability of money and

Particularly during periods of severe monetary stringency and brisk borrowing, these firms must pay dearly for short-term and long-term capital, which narrows their operating profit

Also, during a period of credit scarcity, their own customers tend to be slower in making payments on loans. Defaults on payments are likely to rise. forcing more profit-reducing charges into reserves set aside for bad debts.

IN THE COURSE of the past year, finance companies have been forced to contend with a number of abnormal factors. The fuel shortage, for example, was damaging for a time to installment loans for auto purchases. In addition, the slump in housing starts along with rampant inflation curbed purchasesand hence installment financings-of a wide range of consumer durable goods.

But the outlook for finance company stocks is not without hope Despite the higher loan costs, many consumers and businesses are turning to finance and factoring concerns for their credit needs through this severe inflation-needs which banks and other loan sources cannot meet. Moreover, with industrial activity sagging and likely to remain lackluster for some months, short-term rates should ease.

THE MAJOR finance companies have been diversifying into other fields, banking, insurance, merchandising, manufacturing, and equipment leasing. Though not all such efforts have been entirely successful, the increase in experience is bringing somewhat better results. Among the smaller firms there is the prospect of acquisition by bank holding companies seeking established companies.

Almost without exception, shares of finance firms are down in the depths in terms of price levels. In spite of the array of adverse background factors, however, at least modest earnings gains are anticipated this year.

Thus, with the prospect of at least a modicum of relief from the oppressive interest rate levels in the foreseeable future, this is no tome for investors holding well-deflated finance stocks to toss them overboard indiscriminately.

The Research Staff of Babson's Reports favors retention of issues such as American Investment Company, Aristar Corporation, Beneficial Corporation, C.I.T. Financial, Dial Financial and Household Finance.

FOR PURCHASE at the present time, Babson's Reports recommending Walter E. Heller International, which for a long while has enjoyed a position of primacy in the commercial and industrial finance area. The acquisition by Heller of the American National Bank & Trust of Chicago has necessitated divestiture of its manufacturing divisions (only one remains to be sold).

The bank operation, however, is expected to lend stability and measured growth. Readers who are interested may get a free copy of a report on this company by writing to Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., 02181.

Lawmakers' Work Still Unfinished

LANSING-The Michigan Legislature - in recess now for electioneering — has its work cut out for it this fall, says Gov. William Milliken.

While lauding lawmakers for what they accomplished in the first six months of this session, the governor contends the Legislature "must turn its attention in the fall where it turned its back in the spring."

The most serious "shortfall." Milliken says, "is the failure of House and Senate to come up with political reform measures."

MILLIKEN SAYS he hasn't given up on that yet. But, he continues, he's told staffers "to pursue discussions with Common Cause and others regarding an initiatory petition drive" dealing with such reform.

Important consumer protection bills also failed to make it to the governor's desk so far this year. Milliken backs measures to eliminate the "holder-indue-course" doctrine in car financing, define and prohibits unfair and deceptive trade practices and license and regulate car mechanics.

In the consumer protection area, lawmakers did pass bills to:

-Regulate the sale of franchises.

-Prohibit discrimination against women in credit.

-Permit the generic substitution of prescription drugs.

-Require insurance companies to coordinate health insurance and medical payments from no-fault auto insurance, if the insured so desires, thus lowering

-Protect mobilehome residents from requirements that they buy their homes from the mobilehome park owner or his agent, and that visitors pay an entrance fee in order to call on their friends in a park.

THE GRAND HOTEL, at Michigan's much-touted and fun-to-visit Mackinac Island, seems to be doing quite a business this summer.

There were some 73,000 advance reservations for this season, and that's a record. Ten years ago, hotel officials report, advance room reservations totaled only about 48,000.

The hotel is the Island's largest business operation - fudge notwithstanding — and is generally considered an indicator of how social and business activity will go during a

FOR YEARS, MICHIGAN officials fondly claimed the state's hot dogs and sausages were the best in the country, because state law prohibited byproducts like lips, snouts and udders. Then came the crunch.

Three major meat packers took the state to court over the standards, which were more stringent than those of the federal government.

After a lengthy court battle, ranging all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court; the state lost. The court rules thati federal standards took precedence over state laws.

The quick growth of the shrubs listed here has two advantages. You can buy a smaller, less expensive plant, knowing that it will quickly fill in. State police from the Brighton Post are now patrolling more expressway in an effort to aid the Detroit State Police Post.

According to Lieutenant Clifford Killips, state police from the Brighton Post have expanded their coverage of I-96 from the eastern Livingston County line to the Novi city limits.

The expansion came when the Detroit Post pulled back its patrols, Killips said.

It was pretty tough for them to drive all the way through all those cities to patrol about six miles of expressway around Novi," Killips explained. "It was more logical for us to pick up that six miles."

Killips emphasized that state police from the Detroit Post are still responding to emergency calls and will continue to provide local police with assistance when necessary.

"We take our patrols all the way over to Novi now," the Brighton commander said. "and we cover the distance as frequently as possible.'

Killips said the added coverage will not place a

The KOA Campgrounds in Greenville had a packed house as the Jaycees joined for a State L.S.D. Campout over the weekend. To clarify the "L.S.D.", it stood for 'lazy summer days". Coming from all over the State, the Javcees, with families in tow, enjoyed themselves immensely. There was a dance Saturday night which featured the Javcees from

Waterford and their 1994

National Washboard Band.

"Great fun", reported Bard Sircily. The bands' instruments include washboards, tin wash tubs, harmonicas and assorted other do-dads. And just to make the weekend even more interesting, three streakers made their way through the

Attending the conclave from Wixom were Frank and Barb Sircily, Larry and Bonnie Larsen, Ed and Kathy Nelson and Jim Rich. All packed up their kids for the outting with Jim taking his three sons. His wife was in Williamsburg touring with her mother and sister.

To finish up the camping season, the Wixom Jaycees are planning a weekend campout at Cedar Point on September 6, 7 and 8. Other items on the agenda include a hayride-hoedown in early October and a Jaycee Community Social.

The Jaycette's are busy planning their booth for the Country Fair which will feature homemade and penny candy. Sounds like fun. They have also been involved in the well-child and immunization clinics held at the Southwest Oakland Vocational Educational Center.

It's a good time to remind moms that the well-child clinics are held the first Thursday of each month from 12:30 p.m. until 3 p.m. The whole community is welcome to these clinics - they are not designed to service only lower income groups.

Immunization clinics are held the first Tuesday of each month from 9:30 until noon. If your kiddies are due for Besides viewing the exhibits there will be plenty of booths, square dancers, pony rides and the Oakland County State Mobil for the kids. It's sure to be lots of fun...hope you plan to attend.
