

Highway Plans Withdrawn As Council Blisters Director

Blistered by council opposition, the executive director of the Intercounty Highway Commission Monday night withdrew his request for approval of highway plans.

Before retreating under the verbal council assault, however, Franklin D. Meyers promised councilmen, "I'll be back."

Apparently, he will return after the opening of the I-96 — I-275 expressway along Haggerty late in 1976 or 1977.

Turning to Meyers following a lengthy council debate, Councilman Paul Folino bristled. "Obviously, Mr. Meyers, your ultimate goal is to make Center Street the main thoroughfare through our town. And I've told you time and time again that we don't want that. Everything you say is contrary to our position. Well, frankly, I'm sick and tired of hearing you. You disregard us. I'll vote against (your plans)..."

Although earlier Meyers suggested intercounty plans no longer suggest Center Street is to be a thoroughfare (120-foot right of way) through Northville, he advanced and defended this concept Monday.

Referring to council demands that Taft Road and Sheldon Road not be made thoroughfare roads and that Center Street not become a major thoroughfare route through the community, Meyers declared, "I cannot accept your proposal because it is contrary to everyone (Novi and Northville Township) around you. Traffic through center of your town would be good for your business... it would be beneficial, can't you see that?"

"Oh, come on now, Mr. Meyers, you can't really believe that," said Councilman Wallace Nichols, pointing out that Meyers' plan for a 120-foot right-of-way along Center would wipe out downtown stores on both side of the street.

Meyers and a Wayne County road department representative, who also were present, were urged to direct their attention to the Griswold Street north-south route through the city — a route, according to councilmen, that would eliminate the need for the Center Street thoroughfare concept.

Mayor A. M. Allen again reminded road officials that the city's long-standing plan to extend Wing Street to Seven Mile Road is still gathering dust at the county level.

When the road officials repeated that the thoroughfare designation is a paper one only to encourage procurement of 120-foot right-of-ways and that it does not necessarily mean widening of the street, City Manager Steven Walters wondered why then intercounty plans cannot leave Taft Road in the city alone.

Sufficient right-of-way already has been procured in the city without such a designation, it was pointed out.

Furthermore, councilmen wondered aloud if new homeowners along Taft in Novi's Connemara subdivision are aware of the intercounty 120-foot right of way plans, which have been approved by Novi officials. The right-of-way might mean, they suggested, that the front yards of these, if not the houses themselves, would be wiped out.

If Novi wants Taft to become a major thoroughfare, then why not end the designation at Nine Mile Road inside Novi rather than dead ending it inside the City of Northville at

NEWS BRIEFS

PURCHASE of a 1.11 acre site immediately east of the Fish Hatchery Park was unanimously approved by the city council Monday. The property, upon which a house was destroyed by fire this past year, was purchased from the owner, Edmund Sperkowski at a price of $24,000. Council intends to use the property as part of the park development.

PARENT CONFERENCES will be held today at Northville High School with teachers to be in the cafeteria from 6 to 9 p.m. to talk with parents. No appointments are necessary.

A COMMUNITY CONCERT will be presented by the 22-piece Schoolcraft College Jazz Ensemble at 7:30 p.m. this Thursday in the lower level of the Northville Square Mall. There is no charge for the program.

JOANN GOERS, 16, of New Hudson was apparently murdered Monday in the halls of South Lyon High School, according to police. Her body was found in a stairwell at the high school at approximately 7:35 a.m. Apparent cause of death was two knife wounds in the chest. Leonard Trala, 17, of South Lyon has been arraigned by South Lyon police on charges of first degree murder in conjunction with the death. Both Miss Goers and Trala were juniors at the school.

Mankind Walk Set for Saturday

An estimated 600 persons will be raising blisters and money for hungry and sick people of seven countries here Saturday.

With Mayor A. M. Allen setting the pace for part of the first mile, students and adults alike will hoof it over a grueling 20 mile course through much of the city and township in this second annual Walk for Mankind, sponsored by the Northville Jaycees.

The walk, aimed at raising money to help support humanitarian efforts of Project Concern, will get underway at 9 a.m. at Northville Downs.

Participants will begin registering for the walk at 7:30 a.m.

Jaycee Chairman Miles Tuttle estimates that 600 persons, mostly students, will be participating. This figure could even go higher, he said hopefully earlier this spring as Jaycees tried to drum up support.

Last year 300 walkers participated, raising $6,600.

Money is raised by participants by pledged donations from sponsors for each mile walked. For example, if someone pledges 20-cents for each mile X-walker hikes and X walks for full 20 miles, the sponsor pledges to donate a total of $4.

Up to 20 percent of the monies earned by a walker may be earmarked for the charitable organization of his or her choosing. The remainder will go to Project Concern, which supports clinics and hospitals in Hong Kong, Vietnam, Ethiopia, Indonesia, Guatemala, Mexico and the United States.

Refreshments and first aid, if required, will be available at check-in stations along the way. These stations will be operated by volunteer citizens or organizations, including the city council and the township board.

Lunch and entertainment — hot dogs, chips, pop and a live band — is planned for participants between noon and 2 p.m.

Among the many groups walking will be members of the high school football team, cheerleaders, and scouting organizations.

Northville Kiwanis Club, Northville Colony, Northville Historical Society, Northville Mothers Club, OLV Men's Club, Highland Lakes, Northville Jaycees, Friends of the Library, Northville Rotary Club, and a Northville lawyer.

Slate New Airport Hearing

Area residents will have a second opportunity to offer comments on the possibility of having a general aviation airport located in the vicinity at a public meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 1, at Plymouth City Hall.

An initial meeting was held February 25 by the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation at the request of the Wayne County Road Commission, which is seeking a study of possible sites.

The general location for an airport for corporation and private aircraft has been pinpointed as northwest Wayne County northeast Washtenaw County or southwest Oakland County. Land costs, it was stated at the first meeting, have made it necessary to look at unoccupied space.

Royce E. Smith, of Belleville, Wayne County Commissioner of the 27th District, actively has opposed the proposed airport being located in the area and is urging residents "who have feelings about the possibility" to make them known at the meeting.

"Anyone may make his feelings known by submitting them in writing if unable to attend in person," he added.

At the initial meeting input was invited regarding the

Condo Porch Removal Demanded

Easement acquisition for the Randolph Drain probably will begin in June, bidding before summer is over, and construction may get started this coming fall.

That's the timetable seen by Stanley Quackenbush, chairman of the intercounty drain board which is scheduled to meet again next month with representatives of Northville and Novi.

"This project's going ahead come hell or high water," declared the chairman when questioned by this newspaper following last week's meeting in Northville.

Neither city, he warned, should be entertaining thoughts about any further delays. Only "reasonable" disagreement with engineering plans will be considered, he suggested, pointing out that total rejection of the planned improvements at this point "is out of the question."

And in response to questions by Novi City Manager Ed Kriewall at last week's meeting, Quackenbush made it clear that Novi will be paying "some of the cost" for drain improvements made inside the city of Northville since water originating in Novi necessitates improvement.

"I told you (years) ago you would have to pay part of the cost...and I'm telling you now you will pay part of it," asserted the drain board chairman.

Responding, Novi Councilman Louie Campbell said, "We don't mind paying a fair share, but we are not going to pay for somebody's mistake." Campbell had reference to encroachment into the flood plain in Lexington Commons North.

Earlier, Northville City Manager Steven Walters assured the drain board that correction of this encroachment will be financed entirely by the developer. Formal written agreement to pay for the correction will be submitted to the drain board by the developer, the manager said.

A porch of one of the condominiums in Thompson-Brown's subdivision at the northwest corner of Eight Mile Taft has been built in the flood plain, and pictorial evidence possessed by the drain board clearly shows the post supporting the condo porch is standing in the stream bed.

In addition to removing the porch, the builder will have to construct a retaining wall on the bank of the creek at the point where the porch now stands, said Quackenbush.

Engineering spokesmen indicated final plans for the drain improvement north of Eight Mile Road will be completed by the next meeting of the drain board slated for May 13 at 2 p.m. Novi had requested several months ago that drainage improvement plans be extended for the area where the drain enters Novi.

Preliminary engineering shows that drainage improvement in the northern area will consist chiefly of brushing, ditching and a limited amount of underground tiling near the rear of Northville Estates subdivision.

The drain starts about 300 feet north of Northville Estates inside Novi at Beck

2nd Year Lease Stalls Mall Plan

A proposed library move to the Northville Square shopping mall was effectively killed Monday by a 4-1 polling of the city council.

The "interim move" had been strongly recommended by the library board, which has cited critically pinched present quarters as the motivating force.

Only the mayor himself indicated support of the proposal as explained in detail by library board members at the regular council meeting. All other council members voiced reservations, most of which appeared to revolve around the uncertainty of rental costs at the mall after the elapse of the initial one-year lease.

The fact that the council never really voted on the proposed move may or may not be significant. Normally, even in matters of far lesser importance, the mayor asks for a formal vote. This time, however, he instead polled the council to get their reactions. Those opinions in hand, he simply abandoned further discussion or action and moved to other matters.

Most council members voiced preference for an interim move to the school administrative building (former community building) east of the city hall.

Meanwhile, the library board disclosed that the CTS Blue Ribbon steering committee very shortly will take to its committee-of-the-whole a more permanent proposed solution, namely construction of a library-cultural center. That proposal, if approved, ultimately will be recommended to the city council, township board and the school board.

Basically, that proposal very likely will suggest construction of a large building, facing Cady Street, behind the school administrative office building. The middle school annex (old high school), under this plan, would remain. Earlier plans suggested the annex would be razed and the new library-cultural center building erected on its site.

In addition to the new building complex, the CTS recommendation reportedly will recommend use of the school administrative office building for recreational purposes, and moving the school offices into the annex.

Timetable for the new building project, councilmen were told, suggests a bonding vote yet this year. Completion of the project is seen by 1979.

With projected completion date of that new facility still four years away (assuming voters would approve the project), the library board is seeking interim quarters for the library which is presently housed in the east end of the city hall building.

The library is jointly financed by the city and township.

In its detailed explanation of the library's space problem, the library board explained that the city hall quarters offers about 3,000 square feet of usable library space — 3,000 to 4,000 less than needed.

According to the library board, the temporary move to Northville Square utilizing 6,000 square feet would be less expensive than a move to the school administrative office building.

At the request of the library board, the Square's principal owner, Thomas Dailey, has proposed a first year price of $14,000, which reportedly is considerably less than half of what tenants of comparable space are charged at the Square. It has been estimated by the library board that an

City Council Action Triggers New Offer

A counter offer that may answer the city council's major concern regarding the proposed move of Northville Library into Northville Square was issued Tuesday.

Following Monday night's action by the council opposing a one-year $14,000 lease for 6,000 square-feet in the Square, Thomas Dailey informed City Manager Steven Walters that the city-township library could have the same terms for a second year.

Dailey, general partner and chief spokesman for Northville Square, also spoke candidly about rumors concerning the shopping center's business status.

His comments regarding the present and future status of Northville Square appear in "Speaking for the Record" on page 10-A.

DOWNTOWN SHOPPING?—If the visitor wasn't aware where he was chances are he'd guess the interior of a downtown store. Of course, it's really the new clothing store on the premises of the Plymouth Center for Human Development at the southwest corner of Five Mile and Sheldon roads.

Kids Find 'Shopping's Fun'

Clothing Store Opens for Center

The motto, "He'll Do Better If He Looks Better," tells it all as the "shopper" enters the new clothing store that opened in Northville Township this week.

Attractively designed and well stocked with a variety of fashionable clothing for boys and girls, the new store might be located in a shopping center anywhere. But it isn't.

This yet unnamed store is located on the grounds of the Plymouth Center for Human Development, a state institution for mentally and physically handicapped children, and it's already a "big hit," beamed Elizabeth Ring, the Plymouth Center unit director who was instrumental in its creation.

Initial reaction of children visiting the store prior to its opening clearly indicates "it is going to provide a positive lift for our residents," she said.

Purpose of the store, Dr. Ring explained, "is to improve the overall quality of care, treatment, and training of our residents and (it) is consistent with the 'normalization-principal' towards which we are all striving," she said.

"Focus of the clothing store project is resident training by providing an attractive, well-equipped, and well staffed area resembling a department store in the community."

Some of the initial remarks of the residents, according to the store's manager, Celesta Taylor, suggest just how closely it does resemble a conventional department store.

"I'll take that one, this, and this and that," said one excited youngster picking out clothing for herself. "Please have it sent to my building."

And, "I'll take this," said another to the clerk. "Charge it, please."

Stocked with state issued clothing (and shoes) and with clothing made by the center's own sewing department, there is no charge, of course. Clothing is provided free in a merchandizing like situation, thus giving the child a normal experience, a choice of clothing, a feeling of responsibility, and a greater sense of ownership, explained Dr. Ring, who visited institutions in Connecticut to get ideas of how a store could be developed here.

Utilizing the center's own resources, lots of volunteer help, and essential donations, Dr. Ring and others were able to bring life to a plan that was in the making since last September.

The store is ideally located in a vacant room adjacent to the center's warehouse.

The floor was carpeted in a rich, bright orange, the walls were painted two complementing colors of yellow, and conventional store counters, racks, and even manikins were installed.

Attractive clothing displays are located here and there on the floor and wall.

Parts of two walls are covered with floor-to-ceiling mirrors, giving the store a much larger appearance. An important part of the store's service is the fitting room. Clothing is fitted to "customers" just as it is in the conventional store.

Alterations are essential, especially in some physically handicapped cases, if the child is to look and feel well dressed, stressed Dr. Ring.

Possibility of establishing a store at the center was first explored in 1972 but abandoned as impractical at that time. Eventually it was reactivated and the committee studying it was expanded to include members from the community.

"Frankly, we were not satisfied with the appearance of our residents. We wanted them to look good; we wanted to get rid of the 'institutionalized' or 'pajama' look. What we've tried to do is follow the clothing standards set down by the Joint Commission on Accreditation for Facilities for the Mentally Retarded," the unit director explained.

With establishment of this store, residents will have the opportunity to have the same kinds of experiences as others in selecting and trying on their own clothing. With the assistance of the clothing store staff (six persons, including volunteers) "they will learn how to select a variety of clothing which is suitable in terms of season and the occasions when it is to be worn, with concern for style, color, fit, and attractiveness for an individual of their age, body, build, etc.," said Dr. Ring.

Previously, no such learning opportunity was available to the Plymouth Center youngster. Clothing was simply issued to a ward in large consignments, and residents did not have the chance to acquire skills in choosing attractive, seasonally appropriate garments they personally liked.

"We believe also that not only will their appearance within the institution be improved, but that the skills they acquire will carry over when they return to the community and enhance the likelihood of a successful adjustment there," according to Dr. Ring.

Residents may also enter by mailing in an entry blank including the following information: parent's name; child's name; address; phone number; date and time of birth; and hospital where born.

Golf and Tennis Fans Launch New Season

By JEAN DAY

RIVALING THIS COMMUNITY'S long-time interest in bridge and antiques are two more active pursuits — golf and tennis.

Ten local women golfers will be getting instruction and practice next week on a golf outing to Indiana. They plan to drive to Plymouth, Indiana, Sunday and will be living in dormitories at a boys' golfing camp.

Lessons with the camp pro will fill half of each day, and practice the other half, Mrs. Roger Pyett explains.

Others on the outing will be Mrs. Charles Fountain, Mrs. Kenneth Shelly, Mrs. Jack Doheny, Mrs. Leonard Klein, Mrs. Stanley Sonk, Mrs. C. D. Knapp, Mrs. Robert Ballash, Mrs. James Hayward and Mrs. J. A. Pettit.

TENNIS LEAGUES are being formed by Northville Newcomers Club. There will be three this year with a new league for men offered. The leagues are open to members of Newcomers and alums.

Also being organized are a ladies singles and a couples mixed doubles. Both were started for the first time last year, according to newcomer Gail Webster, who is in charge of the leagues.

Those interested in the tennis are asked to call Mrs. Webster, 348-2346. Registration fees of a dollar a league should be sent to her at 20404 Woodhill Road by April 30.

ANTIQUERS are offered a practical program at the April meeting of the Northville Historical Society at 8 p.m. this Thursday in the library building in the Mill Race Village on Griswold Street.

Henry Rasmussen, who operates an antique and furniture refinishing shop on Grand River near Six Mile Road, will speak on refinishing furniture. He will bring examples to show which pieces should be refinished — and which should not be stripped. His talk also is to cover staining and varnishing techniques.

The two-hour program is planned as an informal one with those attending invited to ask questions on what is being discussed. Guests are welcome.

WORK BEES are scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. every Wednesday in the old library at the Mill Race Village as Northville Historical Society members work on crafts for the Tivoli Fair to be held November 21 and 22.

Workers will welcome donations of materials, yarn, wood and other supplies for craft projects. Mrs. Carol Butske, country store booth chairman, may be called at 349-6265 for pick-up.

"BRING A FRIEND," invited Mrs. Jerry Powledge, a new resident of Northville on Shadbrook Drive since November, as she asked 19 women to a coffee she's giving at her home this Friday morning.

It's one of many in the metropolitan Detroit area being held to promote the new season of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Members of the symphony women's association are hosting the coffees to spark interest in the symphony.

During the coffees their television sets will be turned to Channel 50 as conductor Aldo Ceccato and other VIP's of the symphony present a special program at 9:45 a.m. From 10 to 10:30 a.m. viewers may telephone in questions to be answered on the program.

As a women's association member, Mrs. Powledge also has new-season brochures and asks anyone interested to call her at 348-2498 for them.

JANE WINEMASTER skated to a first-place gold medal award early this month in a three-day, Tri-State ice skating competition in Columbus, Ohio. While Jane has skated in ice shows before, this was her first professional competition. Her winning a top award is even more impressive, as having just celebrated her 15th birthday, she was one of the youngest in the 15-to-18 year old competition.

A member of the Plymouth Figure Skating Club, Jane is a serious skater and plans to stay home all summer to continue her skating. She will have a solo in the upcoming Plymouth Ice Show May 2, 3 and 4.

Jane's daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Winemaster of Fairfax Court. She had her "winning news" to tell them when they came home this week from a 10-day trip to Hawaii.

TICKETS will be sold at the door this Saturday evening for the third annual Northville City Police Officers Association ball being held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the community room of Northville Square.

They're $10 a couple for the semi-formal event which will feature a five-piece dance band and a cold buffet at midnight. Jim Petres, association president and a party planner, points out the event is open to the entire community with no advance reservations needed.

News Around Northville

It's "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" time for Northville Senior Citizens this Saturday.

It will be the first outing of the season to a Tiger game. Members of the Northville club planning to attend should be at the Kerr House before noon when a bus will leave for the stadium. There is no charge for the bus trip and reservations are not necessary.

There will be a 50 cent admission charge at the gate, according to Mrs. Richard Sharon, trip chairman.

Northville Parents Without Partners will hear about "Your Children's Self-Confidence" at the chapter's monthly meeting at 8 p.m. Friday in Northville Presbyterian Church.

John A. Bergman, a member of the staff of Oakland Community College, will be the guest speaker.

An afterglow with dancing and refreshments is scheduled to follow at the American Legion building.

Moraine Elementary Junior Girl Scout Troop 573 is holding a four-day fund-raising garage sale from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day, April 25-28, at the home of its leader, Mrs.

Karen Dunnabeck, 20900 Beck Road. It is being held to raise monies for a contribution to the school.

Orientation for incoming freshmen will be held Wednesday, April 30, at Northville High School.

The program will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. and is for all eighth graders in Northville and their parents.

The meeting will cover requirements for high school and representatives from all high school departments will be available to answer questions at the meeting.

Rosemarie Ankofski of Wixom designs original hat for St. William's theatre group production

She Sews Costumes for Musical

A plastic bleach bottle and a piece of satin have become a drum major's hat in the skillful hands of Mrs. Rosemarie Ankofski of Wixom.

She's also created a fairy godmother gown from yards of chiffon and glitters.

They're among 30 costumes she personally has made for "Pink Lemonade and Cotton Candy," an original musical comedy being presented by St. William's Theatre Group of Walled Lake at 8:15 p.m.

May 9, 10, and 11 in Zepf Hall next to the church at 531 Common Street in Walled Lake.

A total of 140 costumes will be designed, assembled, altered or made for the production.

As costume designer, Mrs. Ankofski keeps track of what's being worn by each performer in a loose leaf notebook with a page for each player.

Margaret Cook Becomes Bride of Dr. Bernthal

A romance that began on the campus of Valparaiso University culminated in the marriage of Margaret Cook to Dr. Allen C. Bernthal at Easter.

Peggy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene K. Cook of 118 Ely Drive South, Northville. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Bernthal of St. Louis, Missouri.

The couple exchanged vows and rings in a 1:30 p.m. ceremony March 29 at New Covenant Fellowship Church in Maywood, Illinois. The Reverend Richard Williams officiated at the altar decorated with Easter lilies.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long gown of white Arnel knit adorned with lace and white satin ribbon and pearl trimming.

Joan Terek of Washington, D.C., college roommate of the bride, was honor maid in a floral print gown of aqua and blue on an ivory background. The bridegroom's sister, Pamela Bernthal of St. Louis, was bridesmaid in a gown matching that of the maid of honor.

Debra Kohn of Oak Park, Illinois, wore an aqua dress as flower girl.

Dr. Laurens Lohmann of St. Louis was best man. Dr. Paul Rauwolf of Mattoon, Illinois, was groomsmen. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Charles and Thomas Cook, both students at Harvard.

A church reception for 125 guests followed the service. There was a dinner later for immediate family and out-of-town guests.

After a wedding trip to Washington, D.C., and Niagara Falls, the newlyweds are making their home in Melrose Park, Illinois, while the bridegroom is doing a residency in internal medicine at Hines Veterans Hospital in Maywood.

Dr. Bernthal is a recent graduate of Stritch School of Medicine at Loyola University in Chicago.

Council Asks Fire Truck Bids Despite Cash Crunch

Bids for two fire trucks will be received soon by the city as the result of council action Monday.

The council also agreed to go out for bids on some other equipment.

Novi Fire Consultant Duane Bell asked the council to purchase a $175,000 85 foot Aerial Ladder truck. He also asked for a chassis for a 2000 gallon tanker which would cost $21,849, and cost of the pump and construction of the tanker which would add on another $35,000 to the cost. "Time is of the essence," Bell told the Council. "It will take 24 months to receive the aerial truck."

"Due to the condition of our tanker, we'll need it replaced within a year," Bell said. He noted that it will take at least a year to build and construct the tanker to the city's specifications.

Mayor Robert Daley questioned where the city would get the money and Bell said that $58,000 has been budgeted in the forthcoming year for the tanker.

Referring to the $175,000 for the aerial truck, Bell said, "I think we have come to the point where we have to buy now and worry about money later."

Bell said that the city can get financing either through banks or manufacturers of the equipment.

"If we sit around and wait until the money is available, we won't get it," Bell said.

"The only way we could afford it is if we have two mills a year coming," said Bell. "I can cite several cities that have bought equipment this way."

Bell said it was imperative the city purchase the aerial truck, citing the construction of the Dayton-Hudson shopping center and high rises which he said will be constructed along I-275.

While the council decided it would go out for bids, Mayor

Robert Daley made it clear that "I've got no intent of getting involved in deficit financing."

He added that he will not vote to accept the bids unless more money is forthcoming. Councilman Edwin Presnell said he agreed with the mayor.

It was noted that by the time bids come back to the city, the council will know the result of the special election May 6. The council had already agreed to earmark one mill for capital expenditures in the fire department. The other mill is to go into the general operating fund.

The council also agreed to go out for bids on: one Selecto-flow brass nozzles; four Scott repair kits; four MSA repair kits; six repair kits for Indian Tanks; two light cord reels; four MSA Model 401 Air Packs; ten gallons of High expansion foam; six plectron monitors; one tool box and assorted tools for station two; a 35mm camera for taking pictures at fires; and two hydrocarbon nozzles.

The items were budgeted. Total cost is approximately $3,600.

Council made no response to a previous letter from the Novi Fireman's Association requesting the city to purchase equipment owned by the association. The association has said it will sell any equipment which the city has not said by April 30 it will purchase.

Councilman Louis Campbell and Denis Berry complained about having to read the results of a firemen's grievance session in the Novi News before receiving an official report from the association or city manager on the matter.

Berry also said that the fire department is starting to look bad because of the recent controversy.

Demand Council Action

Flooding Strikes Novi Homeowners

By WAYNE LODER

When the John Edwards family woke up Saturday morning, they, along with several neighbors were greeted by over two feet of flooding in their back and front yards as a result of a heavy rainfall of 3-4 inches the night before.

The Edwards' pontoon boat, which had been sitting on cement blocks behind the garage was sitting some 90 feet away at the back of the property and a garden which the Edwards had already worked up was hidden under the water.

The Edwards who live on South Lake Drive, place the blame on the Beachwalk Apartments located just behind their property on a slightly higher plane. The family built a berm in the fall to stop possible flooding, but the heavy rains washed out the earthen dike in two places Friday night completely flooding the property. And a 6 inch field drain which the family had always had on the property couldn't handle the water.

At Monday's council meeting, the local homeowners association in a letter to the council demanded that all construction by Village Homes, Inc. be halted on the project until the drainage problem is solved.

The council decided to bring the matter back for reconsideration April 30 at which time City Engineer Harry Mosher is to bring back definite plans to alleviate the temporary flooding problems. Council indicated, and City Attorney David Fried concurred, that the city should take the developer to court if he fails to follow the forthcoming instructions from the city engineers.

"You heard the audience feeling. You heard the council feeling. We want this mess straightened out," Daley told Mosher.

Daley indicated that, based upon statements from the residents, the developer may well have gone beyond what the original plans showed and filled in some natural drains and watercourses — adding to the problem. The city will demand rectification of the situation if that has occurred, he said.

Though the city manager originally recommended that the developer be given until June 1 to rectify the flooding situation, residents complained that was too long. Edwards noted that his garden would be ruined if the developer waited that long.

Mosher blamed the problem on the project being incomplete. Begun five years ago, Beachwalk has been the subject of repeated financial difficulties which have halted the project several times.

"Once the area is completed and sodded, there won't be any problem," said Mosher.

Mosher placed main blame for the flooding on the rain which pelted Michigan leaving several counties as disaster areas.

"We told them they had to dike it, which they did," said Mosher. "Under most normal conditions it would have taken care of the problem. There's no way we could have planned for this rain."

A 54 inch drain will eventually take care of all drainage from the property but couldn't take care of all the problem Friday and Saturday for several reasons. First, according to the city manager the drain does not reach far enough onto the property and is not ideally enough located to handle the runoff at this moment.

Secondly, although several catch basins have been placed strategically to drain the water, hay piles have been placed over them by Village Homes, Inc. to comply with the Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Control Act 347 which went into effect March 1. Though the project was begun before that date, the project is included under special provisions.

The project, in fact, was shut down about a month ago and the city placed several controls and demands on the project to see that it met the criteria of Act 347 so that it would not pollute Walled Lake, where it drains, with sedimentation.

While the hay bales helped accomplish the filtering of water going into the drains, it also caused the water to back-up and bypass the catch basins, increasing the load against the earthen dike which eventually gave way. Also to comply with the act, Beachwalk Apartments had to clean all dirt out of the roads — which they did.

"This is bad, but I can't predict what would have happened had they not complied," said Mosher. "That back yard would have had a foot of mud in it if we hadn't done as much as we did."

Partial blame also lies on a parking lot which Mosher says may be contributing because it was built on the wrong level.

Kriewall said that the city may require, if the berm does not solve the problem, that the developer place an enclosed drain at the back of the developer's property which would feed into the 54 inch drain.

Mosher added that the developer has been very cooperative lately and has done everything in his power to comply with city requests and to alleviate possible drainage problems.

Bill Custer, project supervisor, agreed that his firm has done everything possible in a temporary nature to take care of drainage problems.

"If it was all done and everything is like it's supposed to be, it would be different," Custer told this newspaper. "We had several normal rains and there was no problem." Homeowners said there had been flooding three times this winter.

Custer added that the back area drainage is the main priority of the project.

"Just as quick as I can get it done I'm going to stake sod to it," he said. "By June I will have it taken care of."

In fact, by Monday morning, Custer had bulldozers in replacing dirt that had been washed away from some dikes constructed by the company. He insists that the company is proceeding as fast as possible and that, in fact, it has even started earlier than it should have to work on the problem.

"I brought the poor guy in prematurely," Custer said of the bulldozer operator.

Custer added that the only real answer would be to purchase an easement on some property near the north end of the project where a drain could be placed leading to Walled Lake.

Despite the promises of good faith by the developer, Mrs. Edwards and the local homeowners appear unimpressed.

NOVI FLOODING—John Edwards of East Lake Drive had to wear hip waders when he walked through water deposited on his property by heavy rains last weekend. Edwards and several of his neighbors complained to the city that Beachwalk Apartments located behind the homes is the cause of the problem. Residents are demanding that the problem be taken care of immediately.

Two More Hats Thrown into Race

Two more persons Monday had their names put into nomination for the now vacant council seat which was held by George Athas.

Councilman Denis Berry put into nomination the names of Mabel Ash and James Cherfoli.

Cherfoli is currently secretary of the Planning Board.

Mrs. Ash has lived in Novi 19 years and circulated petitions for Novi to become a village. In 1960 she was named village clerk and has also been village treasurer for several years. She became city clerk after the city was incorporated. In 1973 she retired as city clerk.

Other persons in nomination for the post are Pat Karevich, Martha Hoyer and Gerald Bauer.

Councilman Edwin Presnell asked that any residents interested in the council seat put in a brief resume at the city hall.

Presnell added that he wants the final decision on the new councilmember made after the millage election May 6.

"I think it would be detrimental to the millage being asked," he explained. He said he feared that one area of the city may feel slighted if someone from another area is selected for the post.

Councilmember Romaine Roethel responded, "I think more offense will be created by postponing this action than by selecting the new councilmember."

Deadline for resumes and nominations was set at 4 p.m. April 28.

Mayor Robert Daley indicated he will try and come up with some equitable way of narrowing down the nominations.

Mayor Vangieson Names Wixom Appointments

Wixom Mayor Val Vangieson last night named several appointments and reappointments to various committees and commissions within the city.

To the planning commission, the mayor reappointed Gerald Hieber, John Miner, and Charles Nelson. All the planning commission reappointments are for three year terms.

To the Board of Appeals, he reappointed Gunnar Mettala to a three year term.

The mayor also appointed George Tuorin and Cathy Nelson to three year terms on the Board of Appeals. They are replacing Ken Farley and Rochelle Fair. To the library board, Glenda Bradley was reappointed to a two year term while William Schumann, Jr. was reappointed to the building authority for three years.

To the Charter Amendment committee five people were to be appointed. Four were decided on before the meeting. They are William Travis, Dennis Cavanaugh, Richard Fenske, and Eric McCarthy.

In other Wixom news, the Building Authority received bids Monday for $340,000 in

In Zoning Ordinance

No Major Changes Set

No major changes in Novi's proposed zoning ordinance surfaced at a special joint council and planning board meeting held last week.

Following are changes that apparently were agreed upon by the council:

Service stations will not be allowed in B1 (local business) districts but will be allowed in B2 and B3 districts;

Restaurants other than drive-ins will be allowed in B1 districts;

Mortuaries will be allowed in B1, and OSC (office-service-commercial) districts and in residential districts on approval of the planning board;

Mobile home parks may be allowed in a RUD (residential unit development) to make the parks more attractive;

R1F (small farms) district will remain in the ordinance.

City attorney David Fried will be looking into the question of whether a change from R1F to R1 will make any difference in assessments as far as the county is concerned.

"These people believe this is another tool to increase their assessments," said Fried.

Councilman Louie Campbell continued arguing that the county will increase the total worth of the community if there is no longer an agricultural or R1F designation left in the local zoning ordinance.

Campbell also contended that city assessor John Merrifield will increase the assessments on those properties, despite the fact Merrifield had said repeatedly in the past that assessments would not be raised.

Council indicated that it may shove the present ordinance governing mobile homes into the proposed zoning ordinance as an interim measure until an improved standard is decided upon. The proposed zoning ordinance as it stands now has few controls over mobile home parks because, according to Planning Board Chairman John Roethel, the planning board expected that a separate ordinance would be put into effect.

Councilman Denis Berry continued his suggestion that mobile home parks be required to make provisions for pleasant surroundings. He and other councilmembers appeared favorable of utilizing an RUD plan for mobile homes.

"If we have the parks, they should have good living conditions," said Mayor Robert Daley. "It's not going to cost them that much."

City attorney Fried indicated that he is wary of allowing RUD's that would mix single family residences with multiple residences.

"This can be a subterfuge in a residential area to put up multiples and run," said Fried.

Councilman Philip Goodman and Mayor Daley suggested a hybrid zoning district allowing development of both. Fried noted that it could be required that the single family residences be put up first to stop a developer from putting in the multiples and running.

Ellen Meyer's ready for Saturday's competition

NHS Freshman's In State Meet

Saturday will be Ellen Meyer's big day as she travels to Ann Arbor to compete in the state forensic tournament. The Northville High freshman is the first ninth grader ever to represent Northville in the state forensic championship and the first local contestant to state competition in many years.

Mary Freydl and Pat Dorrain, Ellen's forensic coaches, say she's "most energetic, enthusiastic and has the most stamina we've seen this year."

Ellen will be competing in the category of informative speaking, open only to ninth and tenth graders. Her five and one-half minute talk is on theories and facts from Eric VonDaniken's books on mysteries of space and possible answers.

She became interested in forensics after hearing an announcement at school, tried out for the team and made it. Ellen said she selected informative speaking since it is open to only ninth and tenth graders. In five competitions this year, she's won two first place trophies.

And in addition to her studies and forensic interest, Ellen's also on the girls' track team, running the 880 and 440 relays, and works on the yearbook staff.

Although she's not certain what to expect at Saturday's tournament, the freshman will be out for the forensic team again next year. "I'll probably be competing again in informative speaking because it is limited to ninth and tenth graders and I've enjoyed it this year."

Ellen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Meyer of 42270 Ladywood. Her parents are "proud of her accomplishments. She's the first in the family to be in forensics, too." Ellen has a younger brother, Curt, at Cooke Annex; an older brother, Dane, at EMU; and an older sister, Deanna.

Plan Book Discussion Groups

Many people in Northville have expressed an interest in forming a book discussion group, and the Northville Public Library is anxious to offer such a program, according to Anne Vargo, community service librarian. "However, a definite problem arises in trying to select one book or a series of books which would appeal to a wide range of people," Miss Vargo explained.

The library is asking for community response in helping to set up a book discussion program. If there is a particular book or subject area which one would like to discuss, please contact Miss Vargo at 349-3020.

Forms are available at the library which list some suggested topics and, if enough interest is shown for one of the topics, a session will be scheduled to discuss it.

On the basis of readers requests so far, two books have been selected for discussion during May. They are Erica Jong's novel, "Fear of Flying," and "Harry Truman's biography, "Plain Speaking" by Merle Miller. "Fear of Flying" will be the subject for a morning discussion group at the library beginning in early May. The exact date and place of the discussion on "Plain Speaking" will depend upon the response of those interested.

Miss Vargo added that possibilities for future discussions include books on ESP and parapsychology, Russian novels or classics in American literature. High school students might wish to discuss the Tolkien books, she said.

"Eventually the library would like to offer something for everyone," she noted. "This will depend on the response of the Northville community. In the meantime, notices as to book topics and the time and place of the meeting will appear in The Record or you may call or drop in at the library," she said.

Readers are asked to keep in mind that the "library is depending on their active support and response in order to plan a successful book discussion program."

Schoolcraft Board Nixes Ballot Advisory Questions

In a special meeting of the Schoolcraft College trustees last Wednesday, trustees voted not to place two advisory questions before college district voters. Motions made by Trustee Rosina Raymond to place the advisory questions on the ballot were defeated both times they were raised. Her proposals included questions on changing the college board to seven or nine members and electing trustees either at-large or by equally populated districts. Currently, the eight-member board is elected on an at-large basis.

Award Bids on New School Work

Two more contracts have been awarded for preliminary work on the new high school at the southeast corner of Taft and 10 Mile roads.

Awarded contracts based on their low bids were: Harris Equipment Company, $109,000 for exterior storm drainage system; and J. E. Hoetger, $496,000 for structural concrete. Earlier the board had awarded contracts to Tommier Electric, $7,500 for temporary electric service; S. A. Cousin, $337,500 for foundations; and Belden Brick, $129,940 for face brick.

These bids, according to spokesman for Miller-Davis Company, represent $150,000 savings over the most pessimistic estimates of what the total bids might have been.

Actual construction of the high school was to begin immediately.

Several committees and vendors are in the process of completing plans for special equipment at the high school, reported school administrators. If everything proceeds as it presently is, bids are to be taken for equipment, furniture, etc.

sometime prior to the end of the school year, they predicted.

"Much activity is taking place at the elementary school," reported the administrators. "Several contractors are at work — foundations have been poured, the plumber and electrician have begun their preliminary work. Things are progressing satisfactorily in all areas."

With construction of the bus garage now completed, Superintendent Gerald Kratz has announced a ribbon cutting ceremony for the garage during the morning of May 21.

Meanwhile, the board is considering whether or not to amend its policy and name the garage in honor of one of its own members. Under consideration is the name of the board secretary, Ray Warren, who was the prime mover for the garage construction.

Novi School Board Honors Secretary

Mary Lou Morris, secretary at the Novi Middle School, was honored Thursday at an intermission break during the board of education meeting.

Cake and refreshments were served after the board paid her a tribute for her years of service here. Mrs. Morris is moving, and her resignation effective April 25 was accepted "with regret" by the board.

In other action Thursday, the board accepted the resignation of a teacher, and approved employment of a number of other persons.

Resignation of Sarah MacLeod, middle school physical education teacher effective July 1 was accepted, and the employment of Myra Steele, a substitute teacher at a daily rate of $27.50, was approved.

The board also approved the hiring of four election workers:

May Skellenger, chief, at a rate of $2.50 per hour; and Laree Bell, Shirley Brooks, and Mary Jane Padgett, at a rate of $2 per hour.

It also approved employment of these non-certificated personnel:

Leonard Buckingham and Joyce Lavrin, CETA, at $1.80 per hour; Bette Kemp, a noon aide replacement at Village Oaks, and Deanna Carney, also a noon aide replacement at Village Oaks, at a rate of $2.54 per hour.

Committee To Study Safety

An ad hoc safety committee, patterned after a program in the Plymouth school district, is to be established in Novi, the board of education decided Thursday.

The committee, according to Superintendent Gerald Kratz, will have the continuing responsibility to study, evaluate and make recommendations on any safety related matters offered to the committee by the school board or administration.

Committee members, each to represent a specific school attendance area, is to be appointed by the school principal of the area (perhaps on recommendation of the parent-teachers group), and will serve without pay on an annual basis.

Specific goals of the committee were outlined this way:

- To work with the administrative staff at all levels to resolve safety concerns.
- To work with the administrative staff in an annual review of school transportation with regard to safety problems.
- To work with other units of government (e.g. City of Novi; Community Service Bureau, planning board, etc.) whenever necessary or practical to achieve safety goals.
- To develop and recommend a uniform safety program for schools which would include principles of bus, pedestrian, and bicycle safety.
- To educate all segments of the community — citizens, business, and government of their role and responsibilities in safety matters.

in safety matters.

• To involve citizens in all programs and projects, to widen the committee's base of community support and to heighten community awareness of safety problems.

• To be as familiar as possible with the school attendance area represented.

• To refer all complaints to the school principal first.

• To investigate or discuss school safety problems with the principal whenever requested to do so.

• To attend monthly safety committee meetings and present safety concern from the area represented.

• To serve as the communication link between the safety committee and (through the principal and the parent-teachers group) the pupils and their parents.

Local Women Attend Convention in May

Key women educators in Michigan will be meeting May 2-4 at the 37th annual convention of the Michigan Alpha Iota at the Pantlind Hotel in Grand Rapids, reports Mrs. Louva Waterman, president of the local Alpha Nu chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International.

Joining Mrs. Waterman at the convention will be Mrs. Violet Bradford, chairman of the personal growth and services committee; Miss Kathryn Giltner, chairman of research; Miss Ada Fritz, publicity chairman; and Mrs. Myrtle Funk, corresponding secretary of the Northville chapter.

They will hear two outstanding women as convention speakers: Miss Virginia Allen, deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs, of Washington, D. C., who will talk on International Women's Year, and Miss Mary J. Putnam, member of the international board of Delta Kappa Gamma Society. Her topic will be "Today Is Not Yesterday."

The 1975-78 theme for the teacher society is "Positive Leadership for Purposeful Action," which will be introduced at the state convention. The emphasis, Mrs. Waterman reports, will be "Emerging Awareness" in 1975-76.

Novi High Students Set Mystery Friday, Saturday

The mystery-suspense play "Hangman's Noose," will be presented by Novi High School Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in the school commons. Tickets are available at the door.

Members of the cast, under the direction of Calvin

Schmucker, include Dave E. Smith, Pat Robinson, Bob Starnes, Claire McComas, Denise Paquette, Gary Garcia, Mary Dawn Withers, Lucine Tatalian, Lisa Hastings, Kevin Branshaw, and Andy McComas. Approximately forty other students will be helping "backstage" with the production.

The Sixth Annual Student Art Show will be taking place the same two evenings in conjunction with the play. Everyone is welcome to browse through the art show and view the efforts of Novi's students. One of the students, Mark Sherrard, won $35 designing the poster and program cover for Hangman's Noose.

Recital Set For Sunday

An organ-piano recital will be presented by Stacey and Gary Becker at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Northville United Methodist Church as a benefit for a hand bell project for youth at the church.

The program will be mostly sacred music but will have some secular offerings.

Mrs. Becker, the former Stacey Evans, will play the piano. She is church choir director and a graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in music therapy and education.

Her husband, who will play the organ in the joint recital, is a Wayne State University business student with a minor in Music.

The public is invited to the concert at which a free-will offering will be taken for the hand bell fund. The church is hoping to establish a youth-hand bell choir.

Rejects Library Proposal

additional about $10,000 investment would be needed to equip the new quarters.

Preliminary estimates for interim use of 7,500 square feet of space in the community building, the council was told, indicate an annual rent cost of $5,000, furnishings of $5,000, operating costs of $2,000, and a total remodeling cost of $125,000.

Similar space in Northville Square, even at the higher cost of $5.50 as suggested initially proposed by Dailey, would cost an annual rent of $40,000, furnishings of $5,000, and improvements of $2,000.

Following his initial "break-even" offer of $5.50 per square foot, Dailey was persuaded by the library board to offer a $14,000 first year lease. However, council members requested a second-year option proposal, whereupon Dailey pegged the second year lease at $5.50 per square foot.

"This would mean, of course, that the library board would have to be funded to the extent of $33,000 for the second year in the event they exercise the option," Dailey explained in a letter to City Manager Steven Walters on April 16. "We would be flexible, however, in the event that this additional funding required a longer period of time. This could be done by delaying payment until late in the second year if the additional funds cannot be arranged for during the first year of the lease."

Emphasizing that it (the library board) went to Dailey, not Dailey to the library board, members of the library board urged council to accept Dailey's first-year lease proposal of $14,000, disregard his second-year $5.50 quote and attempt to negotiate a better second-year option.

The $5.50 per square foot figure, according to the board, is $2. to $2.50 less than is charged other tenants of the Square.

Praising Dailey for his genuine interest in the welfare of the community, the board predicted Dailey nevertheless could be persuaded to come up with a better second-year rent.

Several council members, however, expressed fear that once the library is moved a second-year cost could be increased to a point that neither the city nor the township could afford it.

Furthermore, the financial condition of the square is questionable, cautioned City Attorney Philip Ogilvie. Already refinanced once, the Square might not be owned by the same people in a year's time, he suggested.

Councilman Wallace Nichols opposed the move to the Square, he said, because he does not like the idea of a public agency taking up space that should not be used commercially. "I'd rather see a business in the Square."

"I think the move at this time is ill advised," said Nichols. "We might find ourselves with no place to go after a year, and a brand new building might not be as close as we hope."

Councilman Paul Vernon said, "I as an independent businessman would not want to enter into an (open-ended) agreement like this, and I as a councilman cannot commit the city to it."

"I think we would be better off to invest our money where we can get a longer term lease (school administrative office building.)"

Folino said that as a member of the recreation commission, he prefers use of the administrative office building by the recreation department. But to accommodate the more pressing needs of the library, he said he would support temporary location of the library in the administrative building, thus delaying its use for recreation.

Folino took the same position as Nichols and Vernon, suggesting that no action be taken until after the CTS Committee makes its recommendation. He suggested the proposal be considered in current budget studies.

In response to Folino's position, a library board spokesman pointed out that the CTS Committee is talking permanent solutions, not interim ones.

Councilman David Biery indicated he wanted to study cost estimates for use of the administrative office building before making up his mind.

Mayor Allen, who favored the move, suggested that the one-year lease "will give us a chance to analyze some of the other alternatives." He viewed the move as a means of aiding a sagging business while buying time for devising more permanent solutions.

If, in fact, the library is again faced with a move in a year's time and citizens have come to appreciate the larger Square quarters they might be more inclined to support a bond issue for construction of a new facility, the mayor suggested.

Concerning that bond issue, details are still to be outlined by the CTS committee. But initial speculation suggests that the election would be conducted at the school level, since the school district encompasses all of the area served by the library.

Eight Mile? asked councilmen.

Carrying the thoroughfare to Eight Mile Road, insisted councilmen, means a good deal of this traffic coming from the north will continue on along Randolph to Center, and south on center through the heart of the city enroute to the proposed M-14 interchange on Sheldon in Plymouth. They expressed doubt that such through traffic would turn west to Beck or east to the new I-96-I-275 freeway to get south to M-14.

Both road officials took the position that much of the city's traffic congestion, particularly at Novi Road, will be eliminated with the opening of the new expressway. But when councilmen expressed doubts and continued opposition to the intercounty plans, the county spokesman suggested "you forget approving these plans until I-96 - I-275 gets completed. That should answer your questions."

Novi Lions Greet Queen Kathy

The Novi Lion's Club last week greeted the Michigan White Cane Queen, Kathy Ruth Chaney, who helped the club in preparation for White Cane Week April 28-May 4.

The Lion's Club will be calling door to door May 1 for donations to be used for Leader Dog School for the blind; Welcome Home for the blind; Glaucoma Eye Bank; Braille Services to the blind; Mobile Vision Screening Units; eye examinations and glasses; and Recreational and Social Services for the vision impaired.

During her brief stay in Novi, Miss Chaney visited with city and Lion's Club officials. A freshman at Michigan School for the Blind, Miss Chaney has been a spark plug for the drive and doesn't allow her blindness to hold her back. She is a cheerleader at her college where she is an honor student, has been a member of the girls' track team, Explorer Scouts and choir and played the lead role of Helen Keller this year in the play "The Miracle Worker."

Kathy also enjoys swimming, trampoline, bike riding and reading.

Novi Mayor Robert Daley, who greeted the White Cane Queen, two weeks ago had declared April 28-May 4

by Bruce Roy

What makes real estate appreciate in value? Any repair, remodeling, or decorating will increase the value. Some forces not directly controlled by the owner also cause appreciation. An increase in population of the town or neighborhood will do it. New roadways that improve accessibility will do it. A new shopping center or industrial facility will do it. And most basic of all, the ever increasing cost of new houses raises the value of existing structures.

BRUCE ROY REALTY, INC., 150 N. Center St., Northville, 349-8700 knows where the best values in this area are and can help you locate them. Who Do We Serve?

It's one of the questions we asked ourselves in planning our new facilities on Six Mile Road.

And we realized that we serve the entire community... including families of different means and from different walks of life.

That's why we carefully planned for economy of operation... to assure that at all of our locations we can continue to offer prices everyone can afford.

Comic Opera To Be Given

Rossini's rollicking comic opera, "The Barber of Seville," will be the highlight of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's 29th season at the final concert Saturday, April 26, at 8 p.m.

The Michigan Opera Theatre will join the symphony, directed by Wayne Dunlap, for that performance as well as a public dress rehearsal Friday, April 25, at 8 p.m. The offerings are the joint efforts of the Plymouth Community Arts Council and the Plymouth Symphony Society.

Plymouth Salem High School, on Joy west of Canton Center Road, has an acoustically impressive auditorium in which none of the nearly 1,000 seats is very far from the stage. Therefore, all seats, whether main floor or balcony, will be unreserved.

Saturday night performance tickets are $5.50 in advance and $6 at the door.

Robert Webber, owner of the Northville Camera Shop, 124 North Center, is a member of the chorus and will have tickets available in his shop. The Friday rehearsal will be open to the public. Tickets will be available only at the door at $1 for children accompanied by parents, $3 for senior citizens and $3 for adults.

Dunlap, an experienced operatic as well as symphony conductor, calls the Rossini masterpiece "gay, light and delicate, with one 'hit' aria after another. It's one of three Rossini wrote about a barber named Figaro. This is a fairly new English translation — you need a new one every generation."

One of the most famous arias in all of grand opera is Figaro's tongue-twister — "A bravo, Figaro, bravo, bravissimo" — in which he describes the odd jobs and intrigues he performs in addition to boasting of his virtues and abilities.

Harry G. Greenleaf of Livonia has announced his candidacy for the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees. At the June 9 election two trustees are to be elected.

Chairman of the Wayne II Congressional District Republican Committee, Greenleaf has had varied assignments with Ford Motor Company since 1958.

A management engineering graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, he has had experience as an evening instructor in personnel management at Henry Ford Community College and, in New York state, in technical courses at Hudson Valley Community College and in apprenticeship programs sponsored by the Albany, New York Public Schools.

He is a former chairman of administrative board of Newburgh United Methodist Church (1969-72), Republican precinct delegate and delegate to the Republican state conventions since 1970, chairman of the Livonia Republican party (1972-74), has worked in Boy Scouts, was a member of the Troy New York Jaycee board of directors, and he received Ford Motor's community service award in 1973.

Married with two children, he points to his past experiences as qualifications for the college board.

Record Wins Sixth MEA School Bell

The Northville Record was one of seven weekly newspapers in Michigan to receive School Bell awards presented Friday by the Michigan Education Association in Lansing.

The award is the sixth consecutive School Bell earned by The Record.

Among the weekly newspapers receiving the awards were The Brighton Argus and The South Lyon Herald, also part of Sliger Home Newspapers. Accepting the award for The Record was Sally Burke, news editor.

The School Bell recognized "outstanding contributions to community understanding of education." Winners are selected by an independent panel of judges from newspapers, broadcast stations as well as citizen and education groups.

Making the presentations was Ted Malone, roving reporter, former war correspondent and network newsman from New York.

Quoting from the judging panel's report, Malone said of The Record's entry, "very unbiased in its coverage... covered all areas of educational interests... ample coverage of three-week teacher strike."

Each winner received a plaque and an engraved brass bell with a black wooden handle, a replica of the old-fashioned bell that stood on the classroom teacher's desk.

Receiving the awards were seven weekly newspapers, three daily newspapers and three radio stations. Special awards went to 12 reporters from newspapers and radio stations.

"A lot of it seeps in way back around the side of their dike and comes in. We want this place closed down until this problem is taken care of. It's not fair. We did all our work years ago. We're not rich. My husband is going to be retiring in a couple of years. Why should we have to pay to stop this problem?"

"I want a wall up there. For us it's the only thing that's going to accomplish anything."

She added that the homeowners are willing to go to court to stop the developer "if we have to."

Assistant to the Mayor, Bernie VanOsedale said that contracts are now signed between the City of Wixom Building Authority and the O. A. Pokorny, Inc. for construction of the two fire stations. Bid cost for the stations is $272,000. The remaining $68,000 from the bond issue will be used for contingencies and to pay for accepted bids on some furnishings, VanOsedale said.

Library Move to Square Makes Sense

By BILL SLIGER

Although it may be owned by outside investors, Northville Square is a product of community effort and ingenuity.

If it is experiencing more painful than normal start-up difficulties coupled with recessionary woes that are plaguing hundreds of similar shopping centers throughout the nation, then extra-ordinary measures must be taken.

I remember a feeling of personal and private disappointment at the groundbreaking ceremonies for Northville Square when it was apparent that none of the investors attending the event had any familiarity with our community.

There was a justifiable pride in the achievement of bringing Northville Square to downtown Northville. And in my opinion it remains as an accomplishment worthy of high praise for those members of the city council and Northville Economic Development Corporation who successfully converted a depressed commercial site into an attractive and potentially prosperous shopping center.

While it may have seemed more desirable to me at the time to have community interests financially involved in Northville Square, my fears were poorly based.

I had not met Tom Dailey, the president of a successful construction company and one of the principal partners in Northville Square.

His business instincts are keener than today's dollar gain and as deeply based in community concern as any handpicked committee of local citizenry.

What's more, Dailey steadfastly denies the suggestions of the Square's demise made Monday night from the council table and appearing in a page one story of this edition.

"The Square is not in trouble. There is no possibility it will close or be sold," Dailey declared this week.

He admitted that the operation was experiencing "a reverse cash flow." But he is not surprised, nor is there any suggestion of panic in his appraisal of the current conditions.

"We're in a position to carry on and we will. We're not going to walk away from Northville Square. Our long range plans will be achieved," the forthright Dailey stated.

He believes there are many shopping centers in more trouble than the two-year-old Square. He is aware of the steps that must be taken to improve the drawing power of Northville Square and he is determined to see them through.

Meanwhile, Northville itself is experiencing problems. Both its library and recreation programs are booming with enthusiasm and participants and crying for money and facilities.

The library occupies 3,000 square feet of city hall, when desirably it could use 10,000. And the city itself could make immediate use of the library space.

Northville Square has 6,000 square feet located in an area that is admittedly the most difficult to lease commercially. The cost of utilities, maintenance, etc., for that space in Northville Square alone would cost $15,000 annually.

It is now being offered to the city and township for a total cost of $14,000 annually, the same rent currently being paid in the 3,000-square-foot city hall space.

And Dailey has responded to the city council's reaction to a one-year agreement by offering two years under the same terms.

Dailey is aware that library foot traffic will help the Square. The Square is a business, not a charity.

But he has consistently demonstrated a willingness to negotiate and make concessions for the financial limitations of the community.

A move to Northville Square is a temporary measure. No businessman would accept a library as a tenant in commercial space that should be yielding three times the income.

Personally, I do not believe the library belongs in Northville Square. But the circumstances are unusual and extra-ordinary measures are required.

The library needs more space; the city hall needs the library space; the community building would cost some $125,000 to convert into library use and that space, which includes a gymnasium, is badly needed by the recreation department.

So what are the alternatives?

I'm certain the council acted wisely when it declined to accept a short-term lease that might result in financial embarrassment for both the city and township in one year.

But Dailey has proven the community is dealing with a reasonable negotiator.

What's more, Mayor Malcolm Allen expressed what must be on the minds of many who helped bring Northville Square to Northville.

It is our product and we owe it more than callous apathy as it struggles to stay afloat. We should be grabbing an oar.

Despite critics who deplore the so-called commercialization of Northville, in fact it is a strong central business district that will preserve the surrounding quaintness and historical beauty that is Northville's.

A depressed downtown most certainly would result in economic chaos for residential taxpayers. In addition to maintaining a reasonably well-defined business district that does not infringe upon our residential privacy, it is imperative that this commercial district is financially healthy to provide needed taxbase to withstand the competition of outside shopping centers.

In my opinion, the things we like best about Northville — Mill Race Village, well-kept old homes, refurbished buildings, a good library and strong recreation program, good schools — are directly related to the well-being of the business district.

There's no apology here for supporting business. It is not a dirty word.

Before it's too late and we begin to wonder about the cost of providing all the things we know are worthwhile, we better support the thing that makes it all possible.

Northville Square is important to our total community, both residents and other businesses.

We should be thankful its owners are determined to make it succeed. And we should help them to do so in whatever way we can.

Temporarily moving the library into the Square would seem to aid all interests.

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

Just as the daffodil regularly signals the arrival of spring, so too the Michigan Highway Department map is a harbinger of the new season.

We've come to count on both of them to shake the doldrums of winter.

The 1975 edition of the Michigan map is significant for three reasons: it features an aerial picture of Kensington Metropolitan Park, it carries the picture of Governor William Milliken, and if some officials have their way it will be the last map showing the Upper Peninsula as part of Michigan.

Several Michigan legislators, including one from Wisconsin, are suggesting that the UP be detached from Michigan and be made the 51st state — perhaps to be called the State of Superior.

Although few really believe the UP will ever become a separate state, its size certainly ought not to be a deterrent. The UP is larger than several existing states. It is approximately 227 miles long and 195 miles in width.

The distance from Copper Harbor at the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula to Monroe in the extreme southeast part of the state is 622 miles by highway, greater than the distance between Detroit and Washington, D.C.

The UP's attachment to Michigan can be traced to 1815 with the creation of Wayne County. At that time Wayne County's northwest corner was not Northville as it is today. Wayne then contained all of what now is Michigan except for the western part of the Upper Peninsula. What's more, it also included northern Ohio and Indiana and a strip of Illinois and Wisconsin.

When Ohio became a state in 1803, the remainder of the old Northwest Territory was renamed Indiana Territory, but in 1805 the Lower Peninsula and the eastern part of the Upper Peninsula were set aside by Congress as the new Territory of Michigan.

Following the bloodless "Toledo War," but prior to receipt of statehood, Michigan gave up its claim to Toledo in return for the western part of the Upper Peninsula. And with that bargain exchange, Michigan's total land and water acreage made it the largest state east of the Mississippi River.

While admitting the governor is a handsome fellow, this writer is not persuaded to handspring upon seeing Governor Milliken's picture on the map. Quite the contrary. It's the only thing about the map I dislike.

Last year there was no picture. But for the first time, at least in my memory, the map contained a message from the governor — a message, that took up space formerly occupied by a Michigan landscape picture. This year there is both message and picture. Next year, who knows? Perhaps picture and message

Silent Observer: 'Shades of Nazis'

To the Editor:
I was quite dismayed to read of the "Silent Witness" proposal. It seems the very antithesis of the feelings we have had about Northville since we came here to live. However the situation it is supposed to remedy was perhaps inevitable. The Chamber of Commerce apparently wants to have its cake and eat it too. When they greatly expand a shopping area, tear down residential buildings to provide parking for hundreds of cars, and do their utmost to attract more and more "outside" shoppers, can they really be naive enough to believe that shop-lifting and vandalism will not be accompanying evils?

heroin rings or organized crime. There, people who witness are often fearful for their lives; but not here. Shades of Nazi Germany, when children were encouraged to inform on their parents and neighbors against neighbor for the "good of the state".

I suppose I am naive too, when I expect better from the local newspaper; when I expect it to be a champion for the best in everyone and not just a spokesman for the commercial interests of the community.

I have always felt it a part of my civic responsibility to shop in Northville and to support its local businesses, as opposed to K-Mart or Livonia Mall. I do not intend in the future to support any stores that are supporting the "Silent Witness" program. It will do, more than anything else, much to destroy the friendly, small-town feeling of shopping and living here.

It is understandable that the Chamber of Commerce and also the police department would be in favor of such a program.

Your editorial supporting the program was what really upset me. To endorse it as an example of "social responsibility" is unbelievable! The secret informer has always been, by all peoples, regarded as the lowest of the law — protected by neither the ones he accuses or those who buy his information. He is the person who has no feeling of social responsibility; who can only be appealed to through his desire for money not his desire for good. Perhaps a program such as this can be justified in big cities, against

To the Editor:
Now that Northville will be operating all of its elementary schools it would seem to be an excellent opportunity to take the load off the high school students, staff and facilities. With the elementary and middle schools only about fifty seven (57) percent full next year it seems the logical thing to do would be to keep the sixth grade in the elementary schools, where there is room for them, and move the ninth grade students into the middle schools. This would give the high school the room they badly need.

The original concept of a 'middle school' or junior high placed the 7th, 8th and 9th grades in this school as a transition from the elementary grades to high school and keeping this group of very impressionable youths out of the sphere of influence of the older students.

Conditions are such in the high school now that the students have to travel through classrooms in order to get to their next class on time. If we are going to make a change, let's make this change an improvement.

The recent sales effort aimed at students in the elementary and middle schools to promote year round school for these students reveals the real reason behind the efforts to keep the high

YES . . .

Yes, some TV programming is too candid for children. Especially, when it comes to subjects of violence.

Recently, more prime time programs have been preceded with the admonition, "This program is suggested for mature audiences only."

A recent survey of Detroit area viewing selections finds that programs containing violence and criminal themes are more popular here than many other regions of the country.

Local news broadcasts "lead-in" stories are usually about violent crimes. Bill Bonds, in a magazine interview, questions whether "30 seconds of blood in an alley" is necessary for responsible journalism. His concern is that youth will consider murder and violence the norm.

A Congressional sub-committee states the belief, "The excessive amount of televised crime, violence, and brutality can and does contribute to the development of attitudes and actions in many young people that pave the way for delinquent behavior."

My concern is that our children may be learning from programs containing excessive violence to resolve their conflicts by physical measures, not by listening, thinking, or understanding.

Parents have the primary responsibility of teaching children basic values. Television can be a valued resource for the family. Critical and thoughtful program selection in the home is the key to tapping this resource.

Too Candid on the Tube?

RON SCHREER

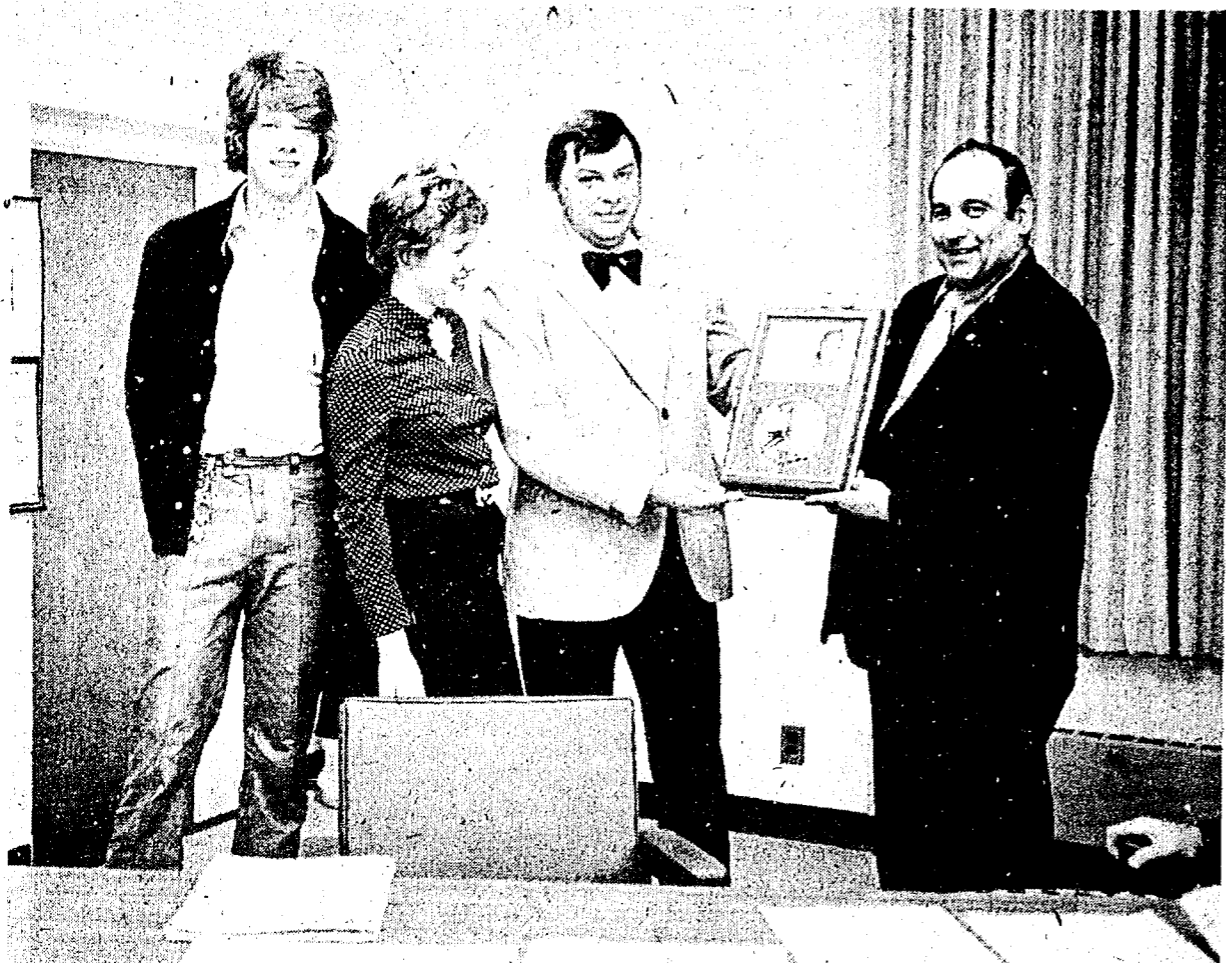

NO . . .

"Without the alternatives of choice, and the exercise of choice, a man is not a man, but a member, an instrument, a thing." Jefferson's words are useful ones to keep in mind while discussing whether the tube has become too candid.

"The alternatives and exercise of choice." There it is, folks, short and simple. It puts both the problem and the solution in perspective. The problem is not one of the tube having become too candid (the alternatives on television are far too varied for that generalization to carry any weight whatsoever). The problem is that, while television originally came into our homes as a guest, it has remained in our homes as a master. Viewers too often become simply extensions of the instrument: ignoring the alternatives of choice; relinquishing the exercise of choice; and becoming bleary-eyed, indiscriminate receivers — rather than controllers — of the sponsor's chosen gospel.

The solution is simple: let's return television to its proper status of honored guest, and regain mastery over our televised fate. Television gives us the alternatives, and until these are reduced or homogenized, we don't have to fear candor — be it sexual, verbal, or whatever. We just have to exercise control over it. And that begins with a thumb and forefinger.

HONORED—Northville's long-time recreation department director was honored by the recreation commission last week as he officially retired from the post. A new, full-time director, Robert Froberger of Sterling Heights, is to take over Robert Prom's post. The retiring director's wife, Dolores and his son, Barry, were on hand when Councilman Paul Folino presented Prom with this handsome plaque. Froberger was present for the recreation commission meeting as was the commission's newest member, William Bingley.

News
From Lansing
By R. Robert Geake

When an issue before the Legislature does not deal with facts and figures as much as it does opinions, unrelated considerations can often influence the voting.

This was the case with the recent House vote on a resolution proposing a Constitutional amendment to lower to 18 the age requirement to run for the Legislature, Governor and Lieutenant Governor. The resolution received 71 YES votes to 30 NO, but fell three votes short of the 74 (two-thirds) required for passage. I voted for the resolution.

Right now you must be 21 to run for the House or Senate and 30 to run for Governor. Opponents of the change pointed out that the people of Michigan voted against lowering the voting age to 18 in 1970, and so presumably would oppose lowering the candidate age. Proponents pointed out that following the U.S. decision to lower the voting age to 18, the Michigan legislature did the same for state and local elections (P.A. 17 of 1972). It would thus seem unreasonable to tell an otherwise qualified citizen that he could vote but not run for office.

Probably the deciding factor was one not really related to the resolution itself. Many Democrats argued that the House should pass the resolution in order to give the people a chance to vote on this issue. Republicans pointed out that we had said the same thing about proposals to lower property taxes and to reinstate capital punishment for certain crimes, to name just two issues, but that the Democrat majority had often not even permitted those resolutions to come out of committee for a vote by the House.

Therefore, the argument went, why not postpone this resolution until such time as the House has had a chance to consider other measures that the people should have a chance to vote on too? And so the proposal did not pass. While I agree that the people should be given a chance to vote on the issues of capital punishment and property tax relief, I do not believe that one good proposal should be held hostage by a legislative minority to force consideration of another entirely unrelated matter.

In any case, I'm sure that this issue will come up again during the next year. I'd appreciate hearing your views on it.

Congressman Esch Begins 'Action' Phone

Congressman Marvin Esch, who has been talking with his constituents via a long-distance "Congressional Action Line" from Washington, D. C., since late February, will have the line open in Northville from 4 to 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Those who wish to talk to the Republican congressman from Ann Arbor are asked to be at Northville City Hall, 215 West Main Street, at that time.

Esch's office explains that the line rotates from community to community throughout his district each Tuesday.

"I have always felt strongly that communication with people in the district is one of my prime responsibilities," Esch stated in announcing the Northville time, noting, "It is for this reason the I always met with constituents and groups in office hours and town meetings throughout the district.

"I intend to continue this practice but this year because of the state of the economy Congressional business may limit my time in the district. It is absolutely essential that communication and service to the district not be interrupted.

In addition to the direct "Congressional Action Line," Esch maintains a district office at 200 East Huron in Ann Arbor, phone 665-0618, and at 15273 Farmington Road in Livonia, phone 261-6000.

No 'Good Humor' for This Mom

To the Editor:
Like everyone else in our fair city, I too, have been wishing that the warmer weather would hurry up and arrive.

However, I forgot one of the hazards that has plagued me ever since my oldest child could play outside alone. I am referring, of course, to that ever-popular, melodious sound of the ice cream man. Yes folks, he has cometh! If you ever want your kids home in a hurry, don't call them, just make a sound that resembles "ding-a-ling" and every kid within earshot will be on your doorstep in 30 seconds.

The first truck visited our sub today (April 15) signifying the coming of at least six months of fun time allotted to this grand and glorious pastime otherwise known as "See how many times Mom can say 'no' without going crazy.

Now, it's not too bad if you just have one truck a day pass through but sure as the sun doesn't shine, there will be three trucks each and every day of the week. My ten-year old understands that the ice cream man is a sore spot with mom, and my six-year old only cried for 25 minutes.

Asking a four-year old kid to continue playing with his five little friends who all just bought ice cream while he didn't, builds character right? Toughens the kids up, right? Makes him understand that everything in life doesn't come easy, right? Gives him a sense of values, right? WRONG! Mom starts to look like a cross between Frankenstein and the Wicked Witch of the West. Whereas if she had a ready purse, she would resemble the Park Ridge Road Fairy Princess. So what's a body to do? Stock up the freezer, you say. Hand my kids an ice cream each time a truck comes by.

That's not a bad idea but after a while, that doesn't seem to work either. This problem has got to rate right behind the biggies of the world. I mean really, what's a mother to do? You don't expect me to be in a GOOD HUMOR now do you?

Praises Alternative School

To the Editor:
It would be my best wish to every parent of Northville if they could participate in just such a meeting that my husband and I attended March 18 at Regensis School (Northville's alternative school) involving both parents, students and instructors.

Assumptions Program." By our family's experience, we felt the change that this school, and in particular the instructor, Kathleen Densmore, has brought about in two and a half months time. It was one of the most exciting and informative parent-student-teacher meetings I've ever attended. Any parent that is living with X number of teenagers and have had trouble with communication and empathy in the family unit would be thrilled witnessing the discussions during the evening.

What we felt after this meeting is that certain students benefit from a one room school atmosphere, individual attention, which in return fertilizes care, concern (empathy) and a greater desire for learning. May we see more recognition, support and description of this school in your paper.

Yours Very truly,
Mr. and Mrs. William A. Roy

Blood Bank Seeking New Donors Here

Annual Northville blood bank for both city and township residents will be held from 2 to 8 p.m. Friday, May 2, at First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

For more than 30 years the community blood bank has carried ample credits for any emergency in Northville and Northville Township, notes Mrs. Beatrice Carlson in announcing the date.

Anyone wishing to donate blood may make an appointment by calling Mrs. Elden Biery, chairman, 349-2665.

Donors may request blood be credited to an account of their choice or as replacement for someone already having received blood.

Many of the regular donors in the community who have given generously in the past can no longer give for various reasons, local volunteers who staff the blood bank point out in appealing for new donors.

"As the use of blood has increased in treatment of shock," they report, "there is need for more donors."

They also cite added use of blood when there is excessive bleeding, during surgery, for severely burned patients and during heart operations and after accidents as reasons for need for the life-saving service.

Green Ridge Nursery workmen hoist one of the new trees into position in the municipal parking lot on Main Street

Tree Planting Marks Arbor Week

As Northville began its observance of Arbor Week, planting of trees at two different locations in the city got underway Monday and Tuesday.

Trees were planted in the municipal parking lot north of Northville Square on Monday, and then on Tuesday Green Ridge Nursery launched its tree-planting project at the Mill Race Historical Village.

The city is underwriting the cost of the parking lot landscaping, under plans by the Northville Beautification Commission, whereas the Mill Race tree-planting marks the beginning of a long-range donation project of Green Ridge.

Green Ridge's donation, which means planting over the next 10 years of 75 or more trees at the Mill-Race and the maintenance of these trees, was announced last winter by owner John Miller.

Two proclamations — one designating Arbor Week (April 20-26) and the other clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign (April 21 through May 17) were approved by the council on Monday.

In addition to the foregoing tree planting projects, Councilman Paul Vernon and Mayor A. M. Allen have disclosed that the Beautification Commission soon will launch a tree-planting project that encourages citizen participation. More specifically, the project reportedly will involve tax exemptions for trees planted by Northville city property owners.

The Arbor Week proclamation adopted by council reads, in part:

"Whereas, Arbor Day, having been conceived and named by J. Sterling Morton in 1872, while a member of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture, as he adequately pictured to the people living upon the treeless plains of that state the value of trees, their beauty and their utility to people and animals; and

"Whereas Arbor Day is now a day designated by law in every state of this great nation as a time for reflection about trees and their contribution to our health and happiness; and

"Whereas, the City of Northville is known for its beautiful trees, many of which have died of disease and other causes, but which have been replaced with sturdy young trees through the city program of planting and perpetual care; and

"Whereas there is a need for continuation and constant application of this program..."

The other proclamation reads in part:

"Whereas the citizens of Northville are committed to the task of preserving and maintaining the cleanliness and beauty of our countryside, business, industrial and residential areas; and

"Whereas, we intend to demonstrate our responsibility to this commitment through active participation in a state-wide clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign proposed by Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc.; and

"Whereas, it is fitting that the occasion of this massive and important undertaking on the part of our citizens receive official and suitable recognition and endorsement."

In issuing the proclamation, Mayor Allen called upon "every rural, municipal, business, industrial, social and educational group and homeowner in our area to mobilize all its available manpower and resources for the purpose of developing and implementing tangible clean up, paint-up and fix-up projects during this campaign."

Students Receive Drafting Awards

Eleven drafting students from the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center earned awards recently in a national drafting contest sponsored by the American Institute for Design and Drafting.

Greg Taepke, won a 3rd place award, and a $15 check, for his entry in the field of Illustration. David Wilson, earned 4th place, and a $10 check, for his Architectural Drafting entry.

In addition, nine students won Honorable Mention awards. They are: Greg Corrella, Jon Horgas, Jeff Benotski, Rick Portt, Mike Batchelor, Steve Brooks, Craig Smith, Jim McArthur and Steve Norris.

Entries consisted of working out a particular design problem and the writing of a 100 word essay on "Why I am studying drafting."

School Sends Apology Letters

Letters of appreciation and apology were authorized to be sent to bidders on maintenance equipment for the three new schools in Northville School District.

Superintendent Raymond Spear told the board Monday that "Some question remains as to the numbers of equipment and vehicles specified here." Bids on the equipment were received in March and had been sent out by then Business Director Earl Busard.

Spear said he will be meeting with the board's sub-committee on finances to study whether or not as much new equipment is needed to maintain the grounds of the buildings as had been bid.

He added that "I really don't think we need three new pieces of equipment, one for each school." He said he and the sub-committee would be looking into having outside maintenance equipment (lawn mowers, etc.) serve more than one school.

Bids were returned to the firms because companies had bid the equipment as a package and not as individual items in order to give the district a lower price.

Hearing Set For Airport

proposed airport study. Northville Township Planning Commission unanimously went on record as opposing such a facility within the township.

In a letter to Robert Larson, director of transportation programs for the Wayne County Road Commission, it stated a complete discussion had been held and that the commission felt an airport within the township would "prove disruptive to our carefully conceived land use plan."

School Board Approves Texts

Several textbooks have been approved for purchase in the Novi School System.

They include: Geometry in Modules, Lang, Addison Wesley, 1975; Exploring Drafting, Walker, John R., Goodheart-Wilcox, Inc., 1972; Nueva Vista (Spanish), Ginsburg, Allyn & Bacon, Inc., 1973; and DeButs (French), Boucher and Paris, Allyn & Bacon, Inc., 1975.

Cost of the geometry text is $6.60, with 70 of them to be purchased. Thirty industrial arts textbooks are to be purchased at a cost of $5.97 each; 45 Spanish texts at a cost of $5.10 each; and 45 French texts at a cost of $6.84 each.

Photographer Brews His Own Batch of Smooth and Mellow Beer

By ROLLY PETERSON

He even looks like a braumeister. Stout, with prominent belly, an oval face swathed in a bushy beard and a corona of hair embracing a bald dome.

So it's natural enough that Jim Galbraith, photographer par excellence, should make beer. By Jim's estimate, 200 gallons a year, for home consumption.

Tell us, Jim, does it taste better than commercial types you snatch off the shelf? "You better believe it," says the affable photographer. "It gets you there quicker, too," he adds with a gleam in his eye and baritone laughter.

Cost also is an incentive, although a secondary one by Jim's admission. He figures he can make a batch of home brew (28 quarts) for 38 cents a quart.

You can tailor your beer to your taste, too. You can make dark or light, Galbraith says.

"The more hops you use, the more bitter it is," he says.

As for Jim, he likes it on the sweet side, smooth and mellow, for his family and frequent visitors to his Hartland home.

Although the recipe may be somewhat complicated, Jim says it only takes an hour to mix up a batch. But, depending on the room temperature, it may take as long as 10 days before the brew is ready for bottling.

"The warmer the room is the faster it brews," Jim explained. "In the summer, when I make the most beer, it takes about one week. In the winter, it may take a week and one-half."

Jim has one caution, however, when the brew has been bottled. Don't let it stand around for great periods of time.

"It's not pasteurized," he said, "so you can't keep it too long or it turns to malt vinegar."

But enough...let's get to the essentials... First, Jim says, you need certain equipment and ingredients.

You need:
—An eight-gallon crock in which to mix the brew

—A bottle capper, which you can buy from most hardware stores

—A supply of bottle caps

—Bottles, with a lip (not throw away or twist off)

—A beer hydrometer

—A package of beer yeast

—A tin can of beer malt

—A package of hops

Now you're ready to make your own beer, Jim says.

Pour two and one-half gallons of water into the crock.

Add three pounds of sugar, one can of malt and a package of beer yeast.

Stir until dissolved. It takes quite a while because the malt is quite syrupy.

Put two quarts of the dissolved solution into a sauce pan and heat (do not boil)

Dissolve one-half a package of hops in the heated solution. As Jim put it, "Make a tea of it."

Bring it to a boil, then put it on low heat for 20 minutes.

Strain the "tea" into the crock, so hops leaves settle out.

bottles it (center pictures), and pours a glass of 'Smooth and Mellow' (top right).

Add two and one-half gallons of water and stir well, until the solution is completed.

Lower the beer hydrometer into the solution. It should read between five and six percent.

Cover the crock with a lid or plastic bag. Let it sit.

Every day use a skimmer of some kind to skim the scum off the top of the brew until no more scum appears on the surface of the solution.

Every day lower the beer hydrometer into the solution until it finally reads zero.

When there is no more scum, take two quarts of solution and heat it (not to a boil).

Dissolve into the two quarts of solution one cup of sugar.

Pour the solution back into the crock. Stir well.

"Now you're ready to bottle it," Jim says. Then, he adds, let the bottles sit for two weeks until the liquid clears. Then refrigerate the bottled beer.

"On the bottom of each bottle," the Hartland brew maker says, "is a yeast settlement. So pour the beer carefully into a glass, before drinking it. Make sure none of the yeast gets into the glass."

Immediately after pouring the beer, Jim advises, wash the bottle out.

Save the yeast from your last two bottles, he continued. You can use it to make your next batch of beer. Be sure, however, to put the yeast in an airtight bottle and refrigerate it until you get the urge to make more beer.

One Man's Gift:

It's Hand-Carved Crucifix
For Hamburg Lutheran Church

It's taken over two years and countless hours of whittling, but Bob Whitaker finally finished his gift to his church, St. Paul's Lutheran in Hamburg.

Now, a five-foot, hand-carved oak and bass wood crucifix adorns the altar at the church.

Whitaker, a Whitmore Lake resident and Ann Arbor policeman, says he's always "loved wood." Carpentry has been his hobby for more than 25 years.

It was during a visit to Frankenmuth two and one-half years ago, he says, that he decided to get serious about his hobby.

During that visit, Whitaker said he stopped at the shop of a well-known German wood carver, Jorge Keilhofer, and decided to take lessons from him.

Since the fall of 1972, Whitaker has taken four, 10-week courses from the German carver, traveling to Frankenmuth once a week each term.

His project during each course was the same, the crucifix for his church, where he's been a member for 15 years.

"When I had the idea for the crucifix during the first course in '72, I planned to have it done to give the church on the next Easter. When it wasn't done that Easter, I aimed for the next Easter."

"I was still working on it the week before this Easter, but I made it by Good Friday," Whitaker said.

longer than he originally thought, he said, because he didn't anticipate the difficulties in carving the anatomy of the 31-inch Christ figure.

"I had never carved the human anatomy before, and really didn't know anything about proportion and muscle and bone structure. Now that I've done it once, I think it will be easier the next time," he commented.

Whitaker says he planned his gift as a surprise to fellow church members and the church pastor, The Reverend Carl Welsler.

"I think I mentioned it once to the pastor when I first started working on it, and suggested he might want to put it at the altar. Of course, he didn't know what to expect, and he told me to bring it in and he'd take a look at it."

R E L I G I O N
T O D A Y
 NORTHVILLE RECORD-NOVI NEWS, BRIGHTON ARGUS, SOUTH LYON HERALD

"When I finally brought this in, he was real shocked and happy."

Of wood carving as a hobby,

Whitaker says it's "relaxing and satisfying." Of giving such a gift to his church, Whitaker says "it's a real good feeling."

Soon after he started taking courses in Frankenmuth, Whitaker joined the National Wood Carvers Association.

Now, he'd like to start a local chapter with the 30 or more wood carvers he estimates live in the Brighton-Whitmore Lake area.

He asks persons interested in such a local organization to contact him at home (449-2206).

Area Churches Host Teen Missions

Two area churches will be hosting the Teen Missions Travel Team, an interdenominational youth missionary organization, April 28 and 29.

The Team of eight Christian guys and gals dedicated to the cause of Christ will present an inspirational program of songs, slides, skits, testimonials and challenge at the Peoples Church in Pinckney at 7:30 p.m. April 28. The program is open to the public.

United Methodist Youth Fellowship members will sponsor the Teen Missions program at the South Lyon United Methodist Church April 29 at 7:30 p.m. All area youth are especially invited to attend the program.

Prior to the South Lyon program, the UMYF hosts a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. for the travel group.

The Missions Team is traveling throughout the United States, promoting involvement of teens and young adults in summer missionary projects. Each of the eight members has been involved in missionary work or evangelistic projects with Teen Missions' summer ministries. Their goal is to make Christ known to a needy world.

The Donald White family of South Lyon is serving as the host family while the team is visiting this area. Diane and Debbie White were part of a Teen Missions group working in Haiti last summer. Diane plans to return there this summer while Debbie will go to Salzburg, Austria with another Teen group.

Mr. and Mrs. White and son David will be part of still another missionary project in Marseilles, France.

The Travel Team will present their program at the Calvary Baptist Church at Hazel Park at 7 p.m. April 30 before moving on across the country to explain their work to other teens.

Marigolds in the corn patch or nasturtiums in the bean rows may sound far out, but it's really dy-no-mite. They are parts of a system of companionate planting, a system of placing certain plants next to each other for their mutual benefit.

This mutual benefit stems from the way each plant attracts or repels pests of the other. In some cases the repellent is odor. Nasturtiums give out something into the soil which is taken up by other plants, giving them the odor which drives pests off. The marigold has an odor offensive to many pests; it confuses and disorients them.

The color of the companion plant may be the secret to its effectiveness. Orange flowers seem to distract bugs from their real target.

Marigolds secrete a substance into the soil from their roots which discourages soil nematodes. Centuries of gardeners knew that something about marigolds was good for vegetables and roses; scientific experiments proved that their tendency to repel insects isn't just an old wives tale.

Trap cropping is another part of companionate planting. For example, wild mustard attracts pests from cabbage and cauliflower. Spray or destroy just the bugs on the trap plant and your gardening job is easier.

The chart below tells what to plant with what, and why:

MAIN PLANT	GOOD COMPANION	WHY
Beans	Summer Savory, Nasturtiums, Marigolds, Wormwood (artemisia), Basil	Repels Mexican bean beetle and aphids General repellent Repels flea beetle
Tomatoes	Tomatoes, Basil	Repels insects which eat tomatoes Repels asparagus beetle Repels beetles
Asparagus	Tomatoes, Mint	Repels cabbage butterfly (which lays the eggs which become cabbage worms)
Eggplant	Sage, Rosemary, Hyssop, Thyme	Protect each other from Mexican bean beetle and potato bug
Cabbage	Green Beans
Potatoes

Squash	Deadly Nightshade (weed)	Trap plant for potato bug
Cucumbers	Marigolds, Castor Beans	General insect repellent
Corn	Radishes, Nasturtiums	Repel squash bug
Lettuce	Radishes, Sweet Marigolds, Cucumbers, Pumpkins	Repel aphids
Everything	Radishes, Castor Bean, Chives, Garlic, Onion, Zinnias	Repels cucumber beetle Repels corn pests Discourage raccoons Repels aphids Discourages moles General insecticide Trap plant for Japanese beetles

It isn't worth while to companion plant something you don't want, like planting potatoes just to keep beetles from your green beans. But if your garden would have companionable plants anyhow, use the mutual benefits approach to planting.

For yet unexplained reasons, the following pairs of plants make good garden neighbors:

Tomatoes and Beans	Parsnips and Peas
Beets and Broccoli	Lettuce and Strawberries
Leeks and Carrots	Tomatoes and Collards
Bush Beans and Celery	Beans and Cucumbers
Beets and Kohlrabi	Corn near Potatoes
Celery and Leeks	Parsley and Tomatoes
Corn and Peas	Onions and Beans

Some especially strong smelling plants to use as companionate planting experiments are: asters, calendula, coriander, cosmos, tansy, and chrysanthemums.

No scientific proof has yet established why most companionate planting works, but centuries of gardeners knew it did. Still skeptical? Try it anyhow. If it works, great. If not, what did you lose?

Cabbage Resists A Light Frost

Since tomatoes, peppers and cabbage are the most widely-grown vegetables in America, home gardeners should consider the individual likes and dislikes of these three when buying transplants.

Cabbage, which is the first to be planted into the garden in spring, is hardy and will tolerate light frosts. Unlike tomatoes and peppers which are tender plants, cabbage can be planted about four weeks before the last frost date in any given area.

Healthy transplants can be purchased from bedding plant outlets. They should be spaced 1½ feet apart in a row. Miniature heads are not yet formed when cabbage is bought as a bedding plant. Heads appear after the plants are well established in the garden. Even so, healthy cabbage transplants can cut six weeks from the growing time.

Broccoli is closely related to cabbage and can be treated in the same way with early planting. Like cabbage, broccoli will not form heads until about six weeks after transplanting.

Peppers and tomatoes cannot tolerate frost and so should not be set out as transplants until after the last frost date in any area. Tomatoes should be set out with several inches of stem buried below ground. The stem will produce additional roots and create a healthier plant. Bedding plant outlets often sell plants with flowers or fruit already formed. When these are placed in the garden, gardeners have an opportunity for an early crop.

Tomato vines need the support of staking. Left to sprawl on the ground, tomatoes will occupy more space and be more prone to disease.

Bedding plant tomatoes in good supply range from giant-sized (usually red-fruited hybrids) to cherry-sized fruits. Yellow-fruited tomatoes can also be found at bedding plant outlets.

Although peppers and tomatoes are closely related and thrive under similar conditions, the stem of the pepper plant will not produce additional roots, so it should be planted shallow. A sunny location and fertile soil is needed to get worthwhile crops of peppers.

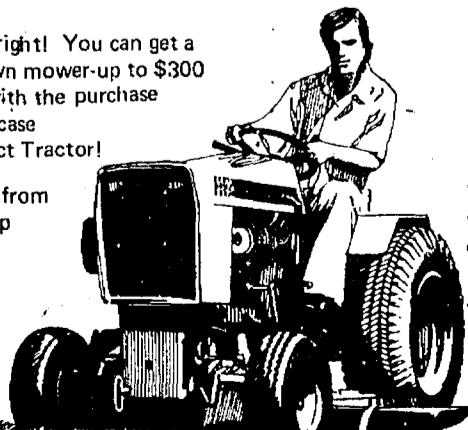

The pepper stem is generally strong enough to support the plant without staking, but when fruit is picked, care must be taken not to break the extremely brittle branches. Sweet bell peppers are the most popular kinds in home gardens. These generally ripen from green to red, although several good yellow varieties are also available.

Decoration Day

I hear the beat and roll of drums
As fifes begin to play;
The Union flag, the tramping feet—
It's Decoration Day.

I hear the boys of World War One
Returning from the fray..
The gold star men are back again—
It's Decoration Day.

The veterans of World War Two
And the Vietnam melee
Are joined together once again—
It's Decoration Day.

The stars and stripes are flying high
This final week in May;
We face our flag in proud salute
To Decoration Day.

Psalm of the Soul

I
Listen to the song's gentle melody
Whispered by the voice not heard by the ear
Open your heart and you will surely hear
The Psalm of the Soul: "I WANT TO BE FREE!"

II
Why is it there are so many who see
Money can't buy freedom yet few take heed?
What is it we so desperately need?
Our soul pleads for peace: "I WANT TO BE FREE!"

III
Where is the answer found? Who has the key?
Political freedom is nothing but a lie
Staying drunk or high can't satisfy
The cry of the soul: "I WANT TO BE FREE!"

IV
Our only real goal is to be happy
For we've all the loneliness we can bear
Always aware of the pain and despair
Our anguished soul weeps: "I WANT TO BE FREE!"

Hypocrites often preach sincerity
Do you believe only your faith is right?
Within all of us lies a longing for Light
The call of the soul: "I WANT TO BE FREE!"

VI
To seek perfection is our destiny
Only Truth quenches the thirst of mankind
How intensely we all yearn to find
The soul's final goal: "I WANT TO BE FREE!"

VII
So you want to achieve global unity?
Then transform yourself — what better place to start?
Awake to the Hymn of Love in your heart
The Psalm of the Soul: "I WANT TO BE FREE!"

Robbie Clarke

Bird -wise

I saw a bird up in a tree;
I looked at him — he looked at me.
Said he to me,
"What do you see?"
I said, "it would be nice to be as free
As you who soar away on high,
With limit only by the sky;
Your song is joyful as you fly —
Mine is but a mortal's cry."

Said he to me,
"It may be true
That birds can fly, but so can you;
In dreaming upward, you can view
God's universe — and heaven, too!
It took a dream for man to know
The way that he would like to go —
To know the moon or sea below,
To fly or dream of ways to grow."

My friend the bird then flew away,
While I, in thought, felt bound to stay
To ponder what he had to say
As I began another day.

Spring

Spring is bursting in sound and beauty,
Such loud chirpings fill the air,
Calling for Mother to do her duty,
To feed and satisfy as none may dare.
Other birds are just now hatching
To a world of beauty and love,
Spring is now just surely catching,
To all creatures from above.
Trees leaf out and face the morning,
Petals now all wet with dew,
Spring flowers stand still with freshness gleaming Saying to all that life is new.
Grass is green and fresh to the air,
As none of course could easily compare,
Earth is fresh and silently waiting,
For the morning to do its debating,
Debating as how the day will come forth,
Whether winds will be from the south or the north.
Now children come scampering in wonderment
To feel the wet grass with feet now bare,
Beaming with hushed sounds the day to begin,
With nary a care and faces free from sin.
Oh beauties of nature all wet with dew,
Let the children know the day is new,
So they may breathe God's day to the full,
And cry out their feelings to all mankind.
Morning, beautiful morning, do come and see,
The effects of your beauty to them and to me.

The Flea Market

The ceiling overhead is rough; square-cut like railroad ties,
People coming through the doors with bright,
expectant eyes,
To see something of yesterday and olden days gone by,
A bit of lace, a rusting pot, or maybe some surprise, Bright shining things will never do for my lady of today,
But grandma, in depression days, would have thrown them all away!

Recession Thoughts-1975

As the lines are getting longer for the unemployment checks,
And the worries over jobs and prices make us nervous wrecks,
The prices keep on climbing, and the bills amass in pecks.

The average hausfrau worries over inflated
foodstuff's cost,
And she greets the pitch of salesmen with a most decided frost.
lost.

When I was just a little girl the times were hard and lean.
My mother knew more ways to save and not get caught between.
Have you known of many cooks with twenty ways to do a bean?

She would cook with low-cost neck-bones and make fragrant, spicy stew,
And delicious last-course goodies from a ripe banana, too.
Home-made bread with steamy goodness would waft its charm to you.

She would turn a shirt collar over to then count twice the wear.
If you liked tight curly ringlets there were rag-curls for your hair,
were prone to tear.

There were gardens in the summer preserved in jars come fall.
There were dinners made of leftovers to challenge
Childs et al.
There were hand-wrought decorations on the stippled painted walls.

and button spinner,
And an onion mesh-bag holder for your treasures — a sure winner.
She still found time to make a feast-pretend-for dolly's dinner.

She could change a dress' lifestyle by switching it around.
You didn't really mind at all it was a hand-me-down.
She always kept you wondering if it was a sale she found.

We saved leather going barefoot on the warm and dewy lawn.
For vacation we went fishing crawling out of tents at dawn.
We returned two-cent pop bottles when our money was all gone.

So now that times are rough again and folks feel lost and grey,
I'm grateful for the things I learned while growing up that way.
I can really pinch a penny, and I plan to make it pay.

'Budget in Trouble Despite Tax Hike'

LANSING—Michigan's purse may be flatter than the wallets of its unemployed — despite the latest boost in the state income tax, warns a veteran Republican lawmaker.

says nearly 90 percent of students, teachers and buildings are in slightly over half the state's school districts.

NOVI OPENING—Mayor Robert Daley was given the honor of cutting the ribbon as Security Bank of Novi opened its doors for business at the corner of Ten Mile and Meadowbrook in Novi last Wednesday. The bank has already been named a depository for the city of Novi and has had $89,000 in library funds deposited. Daley was joined by Ray Stewart (from left), executive vice-president of Security Bancorp, Inc.; Lowell Peacock, president of Security Bancorp; Don Greengood, president of Security Bank of Novi; Anthony Owen, vice-president and treasurer of Security Bancorp; and Robert Kliber, administrative assistant of the Security Bank of Novi.

Senator Harry DeMaso, former chairman of the Senate Taxation Committee, says the state must begin to control spending, and make sure the money allocated is doing its job, if another tax hike is to be averted.

IN RECENT SPEECHES in Lansing and Ann Arbor, the Battle Creek lawmaker has called also for a "team concept between government and business."

TIDBITS of travel information, details of state park offerings, State Police phone numbers, word on the deer herd — all that and a map too.

Nearly 1.9 million of Michigan's 2.2 million students in the K-12 program are enrolled in 283 of the state's 531 K-12 school districts. Those same 283 districts account for 87 percent of the state's K-12 teachers and 85 percent of classroom buildings.

"Our budget has gone up $250 million in the past six years," DeMaso says. "We've always spent more than we've taken in, and had a 'paper surplus.'" He notes also that efforts a decade ago to cut the number of state departments were aimed in part at cutting the number on the state payroll. "But there were about 31,000 on the payroll then, and there are almost 60,000 now," he says.

"We've made 'profit' a dirty word," DeMaso contends. "But if a company makes a profit, there's more employment, new buildings, expansion. And those things generate more money for the state's economy."

That's what the Highway Department has packed onto the sides of the official 1975 Michigan map, billed as "the most comprehensive transportation map ever published by the state."

Conversely, the 114 smallest school districts include only 3.4 percent of the state's pupils, 3.5 percent of the teachers and 5.5 percent of classroom buildings.

THE STATE should pool resources of Michigan fiscal experts, "bring in some of the real brains and let them have free rein to find out what's wrong with our system," DeMaso says.

"The proposed so-called business privileges tax, regardless of the business taxes it eliminates, again is nothing more than the old business activities tax, which was released in 1967..."

The maps, available at numerous places around the state as well as through the mail (MAPS, Dept. of State Highways and Transportation, Lansing, MI 48904), cost the state about 7.5 cents apiece to print. But they're free to anyone who wants a copy.

WHAT DOES it all mean?

Porter suggests that the statistics "dramatize the need for legislation that would encourage cooperative shared programs among small K-12 districts."

Such a scheme worked in Minnesota

"To tax business ventures, regardless of whether they make a profit or not, may be a good way to put more money into the state coffers but in the long run, it is the best way to discourage business and further disenchant those who feel Michigan is a good place to do business," he says.

LOP-SIDED—That's the distribution of pupils, teachers and classroom buildings in Michigan.

Dr. John Porter, state superintendent of public instruction,

State incentive grants, for combinations of K-12 districts that want to develop plans for comprehensive education services, have been urged by the State Board of Education. Porter says he expects legislation dealing with this idea will be introduced soon in the House or Senate.

WINNERS of prizes in the grand opening drawing at South Lyon's Taylor Rental Company in South Lyon were announced last week.

Frank Dittmer of Whitmore Lake took first prize of a 19-inch television set, while the second-place prize of a roll-away bed was won by Mrs. Carroll Tietz of South Lyon.

Taylor Rental offers a complete line of gardening, lawn care, and building equipment for rent. Also available are exercise equipment, camping equipment, power saws, and horse trailers, among other items. New store hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

BRIGHTON ANTIQUE dealers will be among those exhibiting at the spring antique show at Meridian Mall in Okemos, near Lansing, April 30 through May 4. A wide variety of Victorian furniture is to be featured. Unusual items will include a Civil War saddle.

Brighton participants will be Sally Burgess, Lois Waskins and "Poor Richard's Antiques."

"THE NATURAL WOMAN", a new dress shop featuring coordinates, sportswear, junior and ladies' apparel opens in South Lyon May 3.

The shop at 507 South Lafayette Street (South Lyon Woods Plaza) is owned and operated by two well-known South Lyon residents, Lorrie Griswold and Verdine Lloyd. They will be assisted by their daughters, Lynn Griswold and Terri Lloyd.

Mrs. Lloyd was employed as travel consultant and bookkeeper for Phillips Travel Agency for the past five years and has been involved in several community activities. Mrs. Griswold, who describes herself as a housewife and mother, has been active in the Oakland County Osteopathic Auxiliary and various local organizations.

Featured brand name fashions at the "Natural Woman" will include "Red Edge", "Aileen", "Country Suburban", "Whistle Stop", "Cos Cob" and "Fire Islander."

LAWRENCE E. TILL, vice president of Business Forms Service, Inc., business forms sales organization of Southfield, and international president of the National Business Forms Association, presented two seminars to the Business Forms Institute meeting in Arlington, Virginia last week.

Till's subjects were Mental Jujitsu (Overcoming Objections) and the Professional Close. He is a Brighton Township resident and is active in the Brighton Lions Club.

A PROCLAMATION designating April 20 to 26 as Realtor Week has been issued by the mayor of Northville, A. M. Allen.

The proclamation salutes the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors in particular and Realtors in general who provide the community with a sound economy through use of their professional skills in locating, appraising and managing factories, stores, office buildings, and apartment complexes, while involving themselves in civic affairs, charitable causes and educational programs.

DRAPERY MACHINE—Robert Weinberg, manager of Jerry's One-Hour Cleaners in the new addition of the Brighton Mall, operates the new perfect pleat drapery finishing machine. A veteran of 30 years experience in the dry cleaning business, Weinberg operated his own plant for several years before taking over management of the Brighton Business.

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—Latest readings on the nation's employment situation give little reason for rejoicing, and the jobless picture is especially vexing. The best one can say at the moment is that the maximum thrust of new layoffs has been seen, now that the tidal wave of plant closings suffered in the autumn weeks of 1974 and in the forepart of the past winter has quieted.

Also, there are fewer "scare" headlines in the media reciting the fearsome litany of businesses affected and the number of employees being furloughed by the various companies.

WHILE MUCH of the blame for the decline in business and the consequent flood of layoffs was laid at the doorstep of double-digit rates in both credit costs and inflation, the real culprit was the broadly based inventory adjustment program which suddenly assumed near-panic proportions around the turn of the year.

It is true, of course, that peak money rates and the paucity of credit supplies contributed to the problem along with the erosion of consumer purchasing power due to inflation. But to a large extent their roles were secondary to that of the inventory reduction program.

The automobile industry set the pattern when the first stages of the plunge in industrial activity began. The violent impact of the agony in this key industry would have been bad enough, but maladjustments also existed in other areas.

In late 1973 and during much of the first half of 1974, fear of price inflation and shortages precipitated an unrealistic inventory accumulation. By the time more rational thinking returned and it had become clear that consumers could no longer spend freely, business inventory policy turned defensive and then eventually became a full-scale rout.

THE BUSINESS PICTURE at this point is still far from healthy. In fact, further slippage in industrial activity seems likely for the balance of the spring and probably well into summer. By and large, however, this will represent the last chapter in the inventory readjustment process, and it will probably be the prelude to a bottoming out of the long and painful recession.

But the Staff of Babson's Reports does not anticipate a rapid or smooth return to healthful economic conditions. There will be rough spots along the way. The tax rebate will help some, but not enough. Consumers still show no overwhelming desire to loosen their purse strings; sticky sales conditions continue to prevail in the market for new automobiles and consumer hard goods in general.

EVEN THOUGH the economy were to show a further easing in the rate of descent and then display firm-to-higher tendencies next fall, the job market will offer slim pickings for quite some time. Recalls and new hirings will undoubtedly occur when buying revives and normal inventory replacement demand again takes hold, but at first surplus productive capacity will be utilized and the employment workweek lengthened.

Also, after a traumatic recession, caution will deter broad scale new hirings, as will continuing burdensome overhead expenses along with costly wage rates and fringe benefits.

The current jobless problem reflects the expanding size of the civilian labor force as well as the recession. Babson's has stressed the growth in the manpower pool many times over the years. The full clout of the post-World War II baby boom is now upon us, inflating the labor force with inexperienced job seekers. And the high cost of education is forcing more high school graduates to at least postpone going on to college.

Thus, the unemployment rate is not expected to peak until early summer, and then to recede only very slowly.

Horse's Mouth: It's Immunization Time

This column is open to news of all breeds of horses and ponies. Send your questions, comments and horse show news to Sally Saddle, care of The South Lyon Herald, South Lyon, Mi. 48178.

It's that time of year again when horse owners should make sure that their horses are properly immunized.

The following is an immunization schedule in order of the general importance of the particular immunization.

Tetanus: should be given to all horses annually. The horse owner, himself, should take care to see that he or she is properly immunized as well.

Equine Influenza (flu): Rhinopneumonitis: This immunization is generally given to young horses and pregnant mares. In pregnant mares, the immunization must be administered sometime between the 60th and 120th day of gestation.

Eastern and Western Encephalomyelitis (sleeping sickness): Venezuelan Encephalomyelitis: this immunization is necessary only if the horse is traveling to Texas where the disease is found.

Strangles: generally this immunization is necessary only if the horse owner has had evidence of the disease in his stable or is traveling to an area where there has been evidence of the disease.

Horse owners should also take note that effective April 1, 1975, any horse entering the State of Michigan must produce evidence of a negative Coggins Test (swamp fever).

Test results are generally valid for one year. At present there is no known treatment or vaccine for swamp fever and horses with the disease may not show any signs or symptoms in the early stages. The test consists of a blood sample taken by a veterinarian. Test results are generally available within two to three weeks.

Area horsemen are reminded of two upcoming meetings.

The first is the meeting between representatives of the Department of Natural Resources and local horsemen to discuss the use of state parks by riders. The session has been slated for Thursday, April 24 at the Northville Township Hall, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Northville Township Hall is located on Sheldon Road, just north of Five Mile Road.

The second meeting is Saturday, April 26, at Mayberry State Park and consists of a workbee by area horsemen, starting at about 9 a.m.

"Navicular Disease"

Navicular disease is an inflammation of the small navicular bone and bursa inside the hoof between the coffin bone and the tendon which flexes or bends back the coffin joint.

Symptoms of the disease include pointing, a short, painful stride and lameness which is barely noticeable in the early stages.

The disease is incurable once bone changes develop, but may be helped by therapeutic shoeing or by several new drugs now available.

Navicular disease is quite common in horses with small feet. If you have a horse weighing between 1,100 and 1,200 pounds, on "0" or "00" size feet, his chance of developing the condition is increased.

The small, narrow heels that do not expand and absorb shock while the horse is working, allowing the hoof to grow long without frog pressure. Working on hard surfaces also increases the chances of navicular disease.

Horses shod with narrow shoes and with the hoof rasped off where it overhangs, suffer dryness and contraction of the walls of the hoof. This eliminates expansion for shock absorption and also increases the danger of developing navicular disease.

Small-footed horses can be helped by keeping the walls short so they have frog pressure that will increase circulation through the foot and spread the heels with each step, thus taking more of the concussion. They can be shod with plates to keep the frog as nearly on the ground as possible. Reduce the risk of navicular disease by selecting horses with larger feet, maintaining frog pressure and working with caution on hard surfaces. Although the condition is not inherent, the small feet with which it is associated are inherited.

Parks Are Ready for Boaters

Boat launching facilities of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority Metroparks are now open.

Watercraft operators using the Metroparks must comply with the Marine Safety Act of 1967, plus local Watercraft Ordinances and Authority rules. All watercraft are required to pay the Metropark boat launching (or boat entry) fee, plus the Metropark vehicle entry charges (each — Annual—$5, Senior Citizens—$3, or Daily—$1), which are in effect May through September.

Stony Creek and Kensington Metroparks also require that boats be registered at the park office. There is a 10 mile-per-hour speed limit on the lake and no water skiing is permitted.

Metro Beach Metropark, a 550-acre site near Mt. Clemens, has launching ramps that accommodate up to 8 boats simultaneously located along the Black Creek, which provide access to Lake St. Clair. Parking is provided for boat trailers and cars.

Due to extremely high water along the Black Creek and Lake St. Clair, park officials caution boaters that the "No Wake" ordinance will be strictly enforced. The ramps are open 6 a.m. to dusk, while the park is open daily 8 a.m. to dusk. The park phones are 463-4581 (Mt. Clemens) or 963-3022 (Detroit).

Stony Creek Metropark, a 4,000-acre site north of Utica, has ramps that permit up to 10 launchings and parking spaces for up to 150 cars and trailers located at the south end of Stony Creek Lake.

Park hours are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily. For details phone 781-4242 (Washington Exchange).

Kensington Metropark, a 4,350-acre site near New Hudson, has two large boat launching sites on Kent Lake, which is popular with fishermen and boaters. Kent Lake covers 1,200 acres and bluegills, bass and crappies are caught in the lake. At the East Boat Launching Site six boats may be launched at one time, with space for 60 cars and trailers and additional parking for cars only. The West Launching site has space for 125 cars and boat trailers, with 6 to 8 simultaneous launchings available at the 120-foot ramp.

Launch hours are 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. and the park closes at 10 p.m. Trailers, cars and boats are not permitted to remain overnight in Kensington and Stony Creek Metroparks, nor at Metrobeach Metropark (except for Marina craft). For details phone 685-1561 (Millford).

Triumph

THAT'S A WINNER—Northville senior Doug Crisan puts all his effort into this toss as he won the shot-put event in a tri-meet last week with a toss of 44' 5". Crisan bested that mark with a toss of 47' 6 1/2" in a later meet against Plymouth Canton.

Northville's young girls' softball team came through with an opening 9-7 victory last Thursday to claim a league win over Plymouth Canton.

With only a few juniors and no seniors on the team, Northville has to play its best every game to beat the more experienced teams around the league — and the Mustangs played with a confidence Thursday that usually would have marked a veteran team.

"My rookies came through" complimented coach Mary Minor. "For their first time out, they played really well. We ripped the ball up through the center hard, put people on and just moved them around."

The game was punctuated by good hitting on both sides with Canton jumping off to a quick 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning. Northville came back with three runs in the bottom of the first inning. Canton tied up the game 3-3 in the second inning and went ahead 6-3 in the third. Northville came back with two runs in the bottom of that inning.

In the top of the fifth inning Canton came up with another run but Northville came through with several crucial singles to wrap up the victory 9-7.

Miss Minor complimented junior Pat Brown on her good pitching effort and noted that outfielders Debbie Maguire and Donna Keen played outstanding ball. She also singled out shortstop Becky Albus, first baseman Kim Derusha and third baseman Cathy Rich at third for their excellent infield play.

At the bat, Miss Derusha and Miss Brown led the way, each contributing three hits in four trips to the plate. Miss Albus and Miss Maguire came up with two hits in three trips apiece.

Beat Canton 81.5-41.5

Northville Thinclads Breeze by Opponent

It was a satisfying week for Northville's thinclads as they fought cold winds and rainy weather to beat Plymouth Canton 81.5 to 41.5. The team also came in second in a tri-meet with Walled Lake Central and Brighton.

Against Canton, Northville "slammed" the shotput and 100 yard dash events sweeping all places. In the shotput, Doug Crisan heaved the weight 47 6 1/2" to win the event and was followed by Mustangers Mike Hutcherson and Matt Stopper.

In the 100 yard dash, Dennis Keegan claimed first while Larry Pink was second and Crisan third to sweep the event.

The victory was the first league contest for Northville and "was a pretty solid victory," admitted coach Ralph Redmond.

"We did good in the field events and picked up momentum as the meet went along," he added. "It brought out some good efforts."

Crisan also claimed the long jump competition with a leap of 18' 6 1/4 inches while Singleton won the 120 yard high hurdles in :17.4. Dan Earehart claimed the mile run in 4:48.5 and Bob Bloomhuff the 440 yard dash in :53.6.

Bob Gould came through in the two mile event in 10:11. Northville also took the 440 relay and the 880 relay.

In the Tuesday tri-meet, Walled Lake Central won with 72 points to Northville's 65 and Brighton's 19.

Despite the loss, Redmond said he felt the team should have won.

Rob Foust strains at the tape as he places a strong second for Mustangs in mile Novi's varsity nine was nursing a 2-1 season start going into this week's grueling four game campaign.

The Wildcats were to take on Clarenceville yesterday (Tuesday), host Northville tomorrow in a make-up contest, and then clash with arch-rival-South Lyon Friday in a conference doubleheader.

Coach Rich Trudeau probably will send Scott Parsons and Eddie Brown to the mound against Northville, saving his ace hurlers Dave Piotrowicz and Pat McAllen for the twin bill.

Through the first three games, the coach kept Piotrowicz in the wings hoping to use him against Northville last Friday. "I really wanted that game (a victory over the Mustangs)," confessed Trudeau, "and we were counting on Piotrowicz. Now, of course, with two important league contests coming up on Friday I can't afford to use him Thursday."

Ironically, in posting the two victories against one defeat in the first week of play, the Wildcats came up with wins over big class A teams and lost to the smaller club.

Novi teed off on Farmington Harrison, 2-0, dropped a 4-0 contest to Willow Run, and then nipped North Farmington, 6-5.

A two-run homer in the top of the sixth off the bat of Gary Ford gave Novi its exciting victory over North Farmington. The Wildcats were behind 5-4 with two down when Ford came to the plate. His belt over the left center fence was one of the longest ever seen at the Farmington field.

Ford was two for four in the game, and he picked up three RBI's. Also two for four was Scott Parsons, who cracked a double and a single.

Altogether, Novi collected eight hits, with Randy Wroten, Bill Barr, John Buck, and Paul Bosco each picking up a single.

Winning hurler was Eddie Brown, who gave up five hits over the first six innings he pitched. He was relieved in the seventh by Piotrowicz, who struck out the side.

North Farmington opened the game with two runs in the first inning, added a single run in the third, and then closed out its scoring with two runs in the fourth.

Novi scored two in the third and four in the big sixth frame.

Enroute to his victory, Brown fanned eight, including three in the second and two in the sixth. Farmington struck out eight Novi batters.

A single by Ron Buck in the bottom of the first, driving in Scott Parsons gave Novi its first and deciding run against Farmington Harrison in the season opener.

The Wildcats pushed across an insurance tally in the third, as Randy Wroten led off with a single to left center, advanced to second on a sacrifice fly by Parsons and then came home on a three bagger by Gard Ford.

Buck led Novi in hitting with two singles, while Wroten, Ford and Bill Barr came up with one hit each. Ford's triple was the only extra base hit for either team.

Defensive star of the game was Wroten. The sophomore center caught seven fly balls, two of them crowd pleasing saves.

Nevertheless, the coach wasn't all that disappointed with his squad's 4-0 loss to Willow Run.

"No one likes to lose, but if I had it to do over I'd still go with the same kind of lineup," he said. "It was a non-conference game, still early in the season and we were up against a team that wasn't supposed to be outstanding. It was an opportunity to try out the bench, to experiment a little, and give everyone an opportunity to play."

The Flyers opened their scoring with a single run in the second, then added a run in the third and two more in the fifth. They collected five hits enroute, including one double.

Novi threatened in the first inning, pushing a man to third on a couple of errors and a single, but that was the extent of it.

Bill McAllister led the Wildcats in hitting with two singles — two thirds of the total Novi effort.

Novi JV Pitchers Fire Two-hitter

Three Novi hurlers teamed up to fire a two-hitter as the junior varsity Wildcats defeated Willow Run, 12-8 on April 16.

"We only had two days of practice going into the game but our players showed plenty of hustle, fielded well, and demonstrated a good knowledge of the game," said Coach Bob Weinburger.

"I was pleased," he added. Novi came up with seven hits and "lots of walks" in posting the victory. The Wildcats scored twice in the third, then exploded for six in the fourth and four more in the fifth.

The Flyers tried to overtake the Novi nine in the sixth, scoring four fours before the Wildcats finally nipped the rally and saved the victory.

Sharing pitching honors for Novi were Dennis Tuck, Matt Ciresa, and Rick Faulkner. Ciresa and Faulkner were nicked for the two hits.

Carrying the big stick for Novi was Bill Giorgio, who came up with two hits including a triple.

SEASON OPENER—Members of the Northville Golf League opened the league's 27th season last week at Godwin Glen links. Despite cool and windy weather, all 18 teams teed off with last year's winning duo, Bill St. Lawrence (on the tee) and Doug Lorenz (far left) being among the first. Also pictured (l. to r.) are: Clancy Ely, Ken Clum, Phelps Hines and Lou Mallette. Here's how the teams finished the first week: Vandenberg-

Stephens, 8; Armstrong-Zinn, 8; Jones-Humphries, 7; Yendick-Vosko, 6; St. Lawrence-Lorenz, 5; Kinnaird-Bakkila, 5; R. Williams-Meinzinger, 4; Stutterheim-Haight, 4; Hines-Mallette, 4; Huff-Deacon, 4; Wolfe-Roy, 4; Buoniconto-Valassis, 4; Clum-Ely, 4; Ogilvie-Lyon, 3; Postiff-Bailey, 2; B. Williams-Gibson, 1; Hughes-Welch, 0; and Long-Cowie, 0. Honors for closest to the pin on the par three third hole were won by Lorenz.

Future's Bright For Novi Netters

Admittedly, just about anything would be an improvement over last year's record, but Novi Coach Dave Haywood figures this year's local tennis showing should be significantly better than the Wildcats' 1974 mark of 2-10. "The team's got a good deal of experience behind it this year, and everyone seems to have improved. I'm optimistic," he said even though his club lost its opener with Class A Walled Lake Central, 6-1.

Spencer, a junior letterman, as the club's number one doubles team.

The number one singles player is Tim Kelly, a sophomore who picked up the only win against Central followed by Gary Garcia, senior. Both Kelly and Garcia are returning lettermen. Senior Tim Robinson is the club's number three player, Pat Belanger number four. Belanger lettered last year.

Central, he predicted, will be the toughest team Novi will face this year except possibly for Country Day or Northville.

Tennis is just three years old at Class B Novi, and only two other teams in the Southeastern Conference field tennis teams — Brighton and Chelsea so competition is pretty open with the Wildcats facing some tough Class A squads.

Haywood is pinning most of his hopes on six returning lettermen and a senior exchange student from Sweden, Per Edsund.

Edsund is paired with Bill

The number two doubles slot is held by Mike Tuck and Scott Spielman, both juniors and both lettermen. Close behind making a bid for the number two spot are two girls, Seniors Vicki Kuick and Michelle Sumner.

Another junior, Joan Collins, and two freshmen, Bob Ronk and Roger Everett, round out the Wildcats' roster.

The remaining players will see action at the junior varsity level where Doug Day is volunteering as the coach.

Athletes of the Week

Gary Ford, the ex-quarterback turned cager now turned baseball player, was singled out for special honors this week.

His bat has been sizzling, and in the last time out (against North Farmington) the varsity senior drove in three of Novi's six runs.

Going into yesterday's game against Clarenceville, he was three for seven and had four RBIs to his credit. Two of his hits have been for extra bases — a triple and a homer.

Dennis Keegan, senior captain of the Mustang harriers, earned recognition as Mustang of the Week for a solid effort in two meets last week. In those meets, he took a first and second in the 100 yard dash, grabbed a second in the long jump and was on a winning mile relay team and a 400 relay team.

"He's shown steady improvement, is an outstanding worker, and is tough in the sprints and hurdles," said Coach Ralph Redmond.

Patti Brown, veteran Northville softball pitcher, was named Mustang of the Week for her effort in the team's 9-7 win over Plymouth Canton Thursday.

Miss Brown, a junior, struck out three Canton players and walked only three batters.

"She's the best pitcher on the team and this is her third year of pitching," praised Coach Mary Minor. "She's also one of the best hitters and she's always good for a single. She plays good defensively."

Mustang Netters Slam Canton

To Share Early Western Six Lead

The Northville netters opened up their league play last week bumping Plymouth Canton 5-2.

Coach Bob Simpson said he was pleased with the play of several players and said he was particularly happy with the effort of Rudy Horst and Royd Riddell, both singles players who came through with impressive victories.

Simpson said he was also elated at the play of the first Northville doubles team of Dan Gougeon and Dave Holland, and the second doubles team of Dan Conder and Tim Kelly.

In specific action at the meet, Jami Boshoven was trimmed 2-6, 2-6 before Mustang Royd Riddell was successful 6-2, 6-2. Third singles, Rudy Horst won his third match of the season 6-2, 6-3. Northville's Doug Castillo dropped the fourth singles match 2-6, 2-6.

Northville swept the doubles competition. The first doubles team of Gougeon and Holland clung to a 7-5, 6-4 decision while the second team of Conder and Kelly romped 6-2, 6-2.

The third singles team of Greg McFadden and Tom Polino won 6-3, 6-1.

Northville is scheduled to meet Waterford Mott tonight, and Simpson said that if the Mustangs can bump Mott, the league championship should be a battle between Northville and Livonia Churchill. Churchill has already beaten Mott in league play.

Northville Thinclads Triumph

"We were experimenting in a couple of different races and that probably made the difference," said Redmond. "If we had run our straight schedule it would have at least been closer."

For instance, Northville had Gould running in the 880 instead of his normal two mile event; Rob Foust was in the mile event instead of his normal half mile; and Dennis Keegan also ran the mile instead of his normal 440 relay event.

Northville still managed to come up with six first place victories. Crisan once again was victorious in the shotput, this time with a heave of 44'5 1/2". In the high jump Harrison was the winner at 6-0.

Tom Marzonie whipped through the high hurdles in :16 before Bloomhuff won the 440 yard dash in :53.1. Singleton came through in the 180 low hurdles at :21 while the Northville mile relay team of Bloomhuff, Potter, Foust and Keegan ran a quick 3:39.7 time.

Novi Trackmen All 'Whimiped Out'

Looking for the right words to describe his squad's dismal showing against Dexter and Riverside, Track Coach Del Munson finally turned to his assistant, Gene Guitierrez, and asked bitterly:

"How about 'whimiped out'? Yeah, that's good. They 'whimiped out'. They didn't even give it a real try." The Wildcats dropped a 73-50 contest to Riverside and a 91-29 meet to Dexter, a Southeastern Conference powerhouse, after earlier poor showings against South Lyon and neighboring Northville.

"You don't mind getting beat if they give a little effort, but we didn't give any effort. There was just no excuse for it," said Munson. "It was a nothing effort."

A few individual efforts, however, sparked positive reaction of the two coaches: Craig Pelchat, for example, continues to impress coaches with his first-year initial performances and especially with his desire. "This kid has the determination of a winner." Ask anyone. He's always trying.

Ben Galyon, a junior, has won three out of four shot-put contests so far. "He's got a lot of ability... now with a little more concentration, he can be a really outstanding competitor."

Rick Balagna, a first year runner, "pleasantly surprised us" with his first time ever crack at the two mile.

A junior, Balagna finished second against Riverside in his first time out and then took first against Dexter. His time was slow in the Dexter meet (11:55.2), but he "took command from the opening gun," said Munson. "He was obviously running to win, and he looked like a real veteran even though it was only the second time he had run the race."

Tom Morris and Andy Raddant also drew praise. Raddant has been consistently hitting 19 feet in the long jump, and "you can always count on Morris for his best effort."

Novi captured four first places against Riverside, only two against powerful Dexter. For awhile against Riverside it looked like Novi might come through with its first victory of the season—despite the fact that a steller competitor, Lloyd Price, was out with a muscle injury.

Through the 880 relay, the Wildcats led by a score of 25-16. But second-best in the high hurdles, where Price normally might have been counted on for a win, and a poor showing by Rick Parsons in the mile gave Riverside a thin 35-33 edge.

Going into the low hurdles, where again Price's absence hurt, Novi managed only a third place. Riverside took the final four events to wrap up the victory.

Here's results of the Dexter meet:
Shot-put — Gaylor (N) 41' 3/4"; Gucker (D); and Bannan (N).
Long Jump — Bridgman (D) 18' 10"; Raddant (N); and Wolanski (D).
High Jump — North (D) 5' 10"; McComas (N); and Tom Morris (N).
Pole Vault — North (D) 10'; MacDermid (N); and McKenny (N).

880 Relay — Dexter 1:41.5; Novi 1:45.4.
880 Run — Greenfield (D) 2:15.1; Klem (D); and McComas (N).
High Hurdles — Toth (D) 17.0; North (D); and Mast (D).
Mile — Vase (D) 5:12.4; Bond (D); and Mark Mills (N).
100 Yard Dash — Burrows (D) 11.5; Raddant (N); and Tom Morris (N).
440 Yard Dash — Gucker (D) 52.8; Walinski (D); and Bridgman (D).
Low Hurdles — Toth (D) 22.4; North (D); and Hammond (N).
2 Mile Run — Balagna (N) 11:55.2; Madrie (D); and Tupper (D).
720 Yard Dash — Gucker (D) 24.5; Bridgman (D); and Burrows (D).
Mile Relay — Dexter 3:59.0; Novi 3:59.3 (Parsons, Kerr, McComas and Pwant).
440 Relay — Dexter 48.2; Novi 51.8 (Yakel, Silveviri, Jeff MacDermid, and Jeff Petchat).

Here are the results of that Riverside meet:
Long Jump — Raddant (N) 19' 6 1/2"; Draggan (R); and Mark Mills (N).
Pole Vault — MacDermid (N) 9' 6"; and Tie, Carducci (R) and McKenny (N).
880 Relay — Novi (Raddant, Yakel, Parsons, and Tom Morris) 1:42.4.

Parsons Stymies Northville Crew

As Northville coach Chuck Shonta said, "there wasn't much action on the field" last week as the Mustang nine were blanked in their league opener to Canton, 5-0.

Northville fell victim to Canton's Bill Parsons, an all-league pitcher as a sophomore last year who appears to be well on his way to another all-league berth this year if he continues as he did against Northville.

Northville was only able to put one man on base with a hit — that man a bunt by Jerry Fulcher that the player covering first base dropped on a last second throw. While the Mustangs called it a hit, Canton marked it down as an error which would have given Parsons a no-hitter.

Norm Boerger, senior Northville pitcher, gave up four runs in two innings — three of which were unearned in the second inning. John Boland, ace Mustang hurler came on in the third inning and allowed only two hits and one run.

"He's getting stronger and his control is coming back," commented Shonta on Boland's effort.

The loss left Northville 0-2. After meeting Farmington Harrison Monday, the Mustangs are scheduled to play Waterford Mott today. Shonta admits that "we've got to have both of them if we want to stay in the race."

SPORT FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW THAT

by Larry Wichman
Here's a great tip for all you golfers... The immortal Walter Hagen, who was one of the top golfers of all time, once said that the one piece of philosophy that helped him more than anything else was this thought which he always kept in mind: The thought is this — "There's no such thing as a perfect round of golf. It's normal to make some bad shots. When you make a bad shot, force yourself to forget it and go on to the next shot." Hagen said surprisingly few people do this, but if you adopt this philosophy, you'll automatically be a better golfer.

City Needs Your Help

1. A breaking and entering occurred at the Presbyterian Church, 200 East Main Street. Taken was only three dollars in change but in doing so the person(s) kicked two doors in and ransacked the secretary's office. This breaking and entering closely resembles the one that occurred at the church on November 1, 1974. Police believe the suspect(s) have knowledge of the interior or have been in the church previously.

2. Vandalism to traffic signs in several areas of the city occurred during the weekend of April 12-13, 1975. Stop signs and others were uprooted or removed from posts, leaving hazardous intersections.

Information concerning either of the above crimes may be reported through the Silent Observer program to the city police department.

Three teenagers attempting to bring liquor into a private party Friday night in Highland Lakes were arrested by Michigan State Police troopers shortly before 10:30 p.m.

Troopers responded to a call on Iron Gate Court of a "wild party" and a "body being carried to a car." When they arrived on the scene, troopers were told that three boys had tried to bring liquor into the house and that they had carried one of their friends out to the car.

Officers approached the car in question and, following investigation, arrested two 18 year-old youths, one from Northville and one from Novi. A 16 year-old Northville juvenile was released to his parents.

The two 18 year-olds were charged with drunkenness and held in jail until they posted bond. The juvenile's case remains open pending contact with the prosecutor and probate court.

Three dog bite complaints were reported to township police last Tuesday and Wednesday with one of the dogs turning on Patrolman Michael Cayley and biting him in the hand. The dog reportedly had terrorized a group of small children on Hayes Court.

Two of the owners, including the owner of the German shepherd which bit the police officer and the owner of a dog which bit a child on Woodhill, were ticketed for harboring vicious dogs.

A child was also bitten by a dog she was playing with on Neeson Street Thursday.

Credit cards and other identification items stolen from Schoolcraft College last week Monday were found at Meads Mill Middle School near Waterford Road.

Items were found on Monday and Tuesday and were stolen from the college in two separate thefts Monday.

On Monday, a man was found at Six Mile and Haggerty roads about 10:30 a.m., and on Friday morning, township officers assisted Wayne County Sheriffs in apprehending an escapee near Five Mile and Robinwood.

A 17-year-old Plymouth girl was treated for injuries after she lost control of the car she was driving and rolled over. Treated at St. Mary Hospital was April A.

Donovan. Two other teenagers in her car were not hurt.

Miss Donovan told township officers she was westbound on Five Mile Road east of Haggerty Road when she hit a chuck hole and lost control of the car. The accident took place about 10:20 p.m.

In Novi

A head-on collision on Grand River four-tenths of a mile west of Taft Road left the drivers of both cars in Botsford Hospital with incapacitating injuries.

Receiving injuries were Anthony Ciesielski, 25, of Wayne and Orville Quinney, 69, of South Lyon. The accident occurred April 12 at 7:35 p.m.

According to Corporal Frank Barabas, Quinney was eastbound on Grand River and Ciesielski westbound at a high rate of speed with no lights on. Ciesielski's car crossed over the center line barely missing one car and striking the Quinney car on the shoulder of Grand River as Quinney swerved.

Both were taken by Novi Ambulance to Botsford Hospital where Quinney was operated on for a broken leg and a broken arm. Ciesielski received head cuts and possible head concussion.

According to Barabas, Ciesielski had been drinking but an uncooperative doctor at Botsford Hospital would not allow officers to take a blood sample to determine level of intoxication. The blood sample was allowed under state law and officers had written permission from the brother-in-law of Ciesielski. Ciesielski will be cited for careless driving which carries a maximum 90 day sentence and $100 fine, Barabas said.

A stolen $4,000 van was discovered by officer Charlie Brown in a field April 13 while he was on patrol. It was smoking but it turned out to be a broken radio and the van was hotwired.

With assistance from Corporal John April, Patrolman Tom Hesse, and Sergeant Dale Gross and his tracking dog Banner, officers tracked down and apprehended two escapees from Boysville in Clinton and another youth who was a runaway from home.

When contacted by Novi officers, Boysville officials refused to come over to pick up the two escapees despite the fact the van had been stolen from Boysville.

The parents of the other youth refused to have anything to do with him, officers said.

The two escapees were lodged in Oakland County Jail for possession of stolen property after being petitioned. They were transferred through the juvenile courts to Wayne County for return to Boysville. The other was lodged in Oakland County Jail on possible parental neglect charges and was transferred to Wayne County.

A 20 year-old Novi man turned over $175 to National Bank of Detroit after that bank was unsuccessful in receiving $175 from Metropolitan National Bank of Farmington on two checks drawn on that bank without sufficient funds.

Novi police persuaded the Novi man to turn over the money.

Detectives are investigating.

A 15 year-old Novi boy Saturday took $100 in cash from a storeroom connected to a bathroom at the 7-Eleven. Manager of the store saw the youngster run out and police recovered $63 from the youth. Remainder had been spent or given to friends.

In Northville

A break-in and theft were investigated at Northville High School during the past week.

Reported Monday morning was the break-in of a science room in "E" wing of the school. A window was broken in the room and cupboards and drawers were found open when teachers arrived at the school about 7 a.m. The break-in took place sometime over the weekend and nothing was reported missing.

Last week Monday, a suede-type jacket was taken from the bandroom at the high school about 10 a.m. Valued at $50, the natural color jacket was reported stolen Friday.

Police are continuing their investigation into the theft of more than $200 from Little Caesar's on East Main Street. The money was taken between 3 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday and police said there was no evidence that the building had been broken into.

Approximately $475 in damage was done to Long's Plumbing on East Main Street last week when one of the large windows was broken with what appeared to be a BB pellet.

The vandalism took place between Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

A yellow Solex bicycle taken from East Main Street last Tuesday morning was recovered and returned to the owner on Wednesday.

The first degree murder trial of James Olin of Detroit, charged with the January murder of partystore owner Joseph Snage has been adjourned without date.

Scheduled in Oakland County Circuit Court, the trial was adjourned Tuesday.

In Wixom

An AM-FM Pioneer radio valued at $185 was taken from a jeep parked in village Apartments April 13-14. All of the wires had been disconnected from the radio.

A Pioneer tape deck was taken recently from an auto in the parking lot of Maple North Apartments.

The car was locked and a coat hanger was probably used to gain entry.

A total of $50 in assorted coins was taken from a home in Maple North April 12.

A rear sliding door was used to gain entry and the coins were in a wine bottle. Nothing else was taken. Police are investigating.

MSP Services, Patrols Explained to Townships

Eighteen representatives from homeowners' associations in Northville, Plymouth and Canton townships met last week with Michigan State Police Lieutenant William Tomczyk and Trooper Michael Garrison, the community service officer, who explained services available through the state police.

Lieutenant Tomczyk emphasized that many people "have the misconception that the state police only patrol the roads. We handle all complaints that any other police department would with the exception of enforcing township ordinances.

"We patrol subdivisions, answer calls and handle all other functions just as other agencies do," he added.

He noted that the Detroit State Police Post is unique in the state since its operation is divided into two posts, one in Plymouth and one at Seven Mile and Grand River. It also is the only post with a limited patrol area — Northville, Plymouth and Canton townships. Most other posts in the state observe county lines for patrol areas.

For the 6 1/2 square miles of patrol, there are 37 state policemen with 22 of them actually road personnel. Others are command or specialized officers. Located within the patrol area are 216 miles of roads and 61,500 people.

State police do not patrol within cities or respond to calls within cities unless requested by the city police department.

According to Trooper Garrison, state police handled in Northville township, among other cases, 37 break-ins in 1973 and 18 in 1974; thefts, 14 in 1973 and 22 last year; and during the first two months of this year, one break-in and four thefts were handled.

Garrison noted that home burglaries have been the biggest problem in the area with most taking place during daylight hours. He views "subdivision streets on summer nights are just like shopping centers."

Programs on prevention of burglaries are available through the state police for associations, subdivisions or neighbors get-togethers.

He added that use of operation identification to engage driver's license numbers on valuables "pushes the problem of burglaries and thefts out of your neighborhood."

State police also have the engravers for marking possessions available at the post in Plymouth. In addition, engravers may also be borrowed from the Northville Township Police and Northville City Police departments.

Other services provided by the state police include drug programs for schools and issuing identification cards for those over 18 who do not have driver's licenses.

In addition to the police personnel, specialized support bureaus are also available through the Detroit and Plymouth posts, including a crime lab, fire marshal's office, detective division and other services.

Throughout Michigan, the state police have 2,039 members at 64 posts in eight districts.

Alley Must Wait For Liquor License

A letter from Mont Carlo Lanes, requesting a liquor license in the event of a special census to increase the number of liquor licenses in Northville township, was received by township board members last week.

In acknowledging the letter, trustees pointed out they would not give "preferential treatment to any applicant."

Alvin and William Winkel, owners of Mont Carlo Lanes bowling alley, have an option to purchase four acres of land on the south side of Seven Mile Road east of the C&O Railroad tracks at Northville Road.

Before they make a final commitment on the land, they asked that "it is vital that we have assurance from Northville township that in the event a census of Northville townships permits additional liquor licenses, we can qualify for and be granted one of the licenses available."

Currently, there are no more liquor licenses available.

Treasurer Charles Rosenberg pointed out that the township must pay to have a census taken and that it would not change the amount of federal and state funds allotted to a government.

Supervisor Lawrence Wright added that permission to take a five-year census "must be given by the secretary of state."

Cedric Whitcomb, Pastor

Alvin Toffler's Future Shock was hailed as one of the most influential books of the decade. He has written a new book, The Eco-Spasm Report.

In his book he says, "There's an element of panic in people's behavior. They feel they've got to grab everything that's solid here and now, otherwise it's going to run away from them." The author says, "What we see is a world out of control...and that the years immediately ahead will be painful."

There's no doubt a good bit of truth to what the author is saying. There's certainly enough said to understand that the days ahead could be more difficult than the present problems of our world.

When the Lord Jesus was about to go back to heaven He promised His disciples that He would send them the Comforter, who was the Holy Spirit. The New Testament meaning of Comforter is one who comes alongside to help and strengthen. When any individual receives the Lord Jesus Christ as Savior, God's Holy Spirit, the Comforter, becomes a part of his life. If you know the Lord Jesus, the Comforter is yours and is there beside you to help. So, regardless of the future and how painful it might be, you don't walk alone. He walks with you. To know Christ as Savior and to walk with Him is the One you need for these crisis days.

Residents Aid Tornado Victims

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Answering a mercy call for all available housing in the Frederick area following the tornado Friday night, the Woody Bergers of Beck Road made the trek north to open their mobile home to a homeless family. The trip was loaded with detours, reported Annie, and, when they finally made it, the area was described as "a mess".

The tornado passed within a quarter mile of the Berger place...down "at the corner", all that was left of another mobile home was the wheels and a few pieces of skirting.

Had great plans for the weekend but sappy skies cut those short. My "Old Farmer's Almanac", Grant Eggert by name, says the season's really late this year. Claims the ground should have been worked weeks ago. The Eggerts, returning to Wixom after a winter stay in Florida said all the crops were behind, even in Florida.

I really thought spring had busted through in great style until Friday night. I'm happy I haven't yet planted anything...

Another of those romping, hilarious, brain teasing evenings is almost on top of us, the treasure hunt. The masterminds of the event are the Andrews and the MacDonalds, both of Hopkins Drive. Haven't heard any chants from the Vangiesons this time about beating the Victories...but then the Victories have already enjoyed the sweet taste of success.

The Denny Hights and the Tony Dodges are out for it this time although Denny will be working under somewhat of a handicap.

For a fellow who covered a dozen mountain slopes, braved the chilliest of chills in the Colorado mountains, and managed to make it home all in one piece, it took the flatlands of Wixom and a baseball game to put a cast on his leg. Denny tangled with a fence, going after a long ball in the opening game of the season. The fence suffered nary a scratch...for Denny, whose first love is baseball, a broken ankle.

Ever wonder what it was like living in the days of the Roman emperors, lounging around in togas, watching chariot races, mumbling "et tu Brutus?"

Wixom has a semblance of a chance coming up with what is termed a "Roman orgy...Wixom style." Handbills are being distributed announcing the big night.

On May 1, at the UAW Hall with "togas optional," a $3.50 ticket buys a complete spaghetti feast with wine, chariot racing, grape tossing privileges and the slave auction. The whole soiree begins at 7 p.m.

Proceeds from the dinner go to the Friends of the Library with Bev Walters and her cohorts doing all the time cooking. The idea of the evening is to promote and get everyone in the spirit for Michigan Week.

On the subject of Michigan Week which is only one month away, may I suggest that everyone read the mayor's newsletter which will be sent to every home in Wixom later next week.

The plan for the entire Michigan Week program will be announced with many special features you won't want to miss. The events are capulized with more detailed information available through City Hall and in the newspapers.

Contractor to Replace Meads Mill Shop Floor

Repairs to the shop floor and library carpeting at Meads Mill Middle School were brought before Northville School Board last week.

According to Fred Carne of Ralls-Hamill - Becker-Carne Architects, approximately 3,000 square feet of concrete will have to be removed.

Carne added that a crack in the floor has developed and borings showed that in some areas, the slab was not the specified four inches thick and in other areas it was thicker.

He attributed the crack to the fact that before the slab was poured, the area had flooded from rain and that possibly the fill was disturbed.

Carne said the slab would be removed, the fill tested for suitability and strength and the slab repoured.

He said the contractor has agreed to the repairs.

In a related matter, Northville School Board accepted a $7,000 cash settlement from the carpet installers for dye differences within the carpet which has been installed in the middle school library area.

As part of the settlement, the manufacturer is to send a representative to the school in June, 1976, to make certain the dye changes have not affected the wearing ability of the carpet.

School trustees also accepted the low bid for installation of a dust collection system in the middle school shop area and awarded the bid for library furniture.

Bid for the collection system installation was awarded to National Industries at a price of $7,875. It was the low bid submitted with bids ranging up to $12,906. Including the dust collector which was purchased by the school district for $5,300, total cost will be $14,800.

The matter was rebid since the low bid last time, including the machine, totaled $19,500.

The bid of National Industries, although unanimously accepted, did not include a check to guarantee installation when bids were opened in early April. However, board members noted that while National was allowed to submit the check after bids were opened, other bidders were contacted to change their estimates of length of time before installation was completed.

Furniture bids for the library at Meads Mill were awarded to McFadden Corporation in an amount of $29,965.55. Furniture and design was requested from seven suppliers, three did not submit bids and one wanted to be paid on a daily basis for design work.

McFadden's plan will seat approximately 150 students and include shelving for 10,000 books, Mrs. Marian Hines, supervisor of the elementary and middle school libraries.

In a related matter, Mrs. Naomi Poe, a teacher at Moraine and president of the Northville Education Association, said that as a taxpayer and resident of the school district, she suggested that the school district should buy taller shelving for the high school and move the high school shelving to the middle school.

Board members said her suggestion would be looked into with the possibility of moving shelves from the annex to the high school or adding shelves onto the top of existing shelves at the high school.
