

Allen, Johnston and Vernon Win City Posts

City of Northville voters elected two incumbents and a newcomer to the council Tuesday in a 34 percent turnout in unseasonably balmy weather.

Mayor A. M. Allen and Councilman Paul Vernon were joined by Stanley Johnston in winning the three vacancies on the five-member city council.

Incumbent Councilman David Biery was ousted in his bid for re-election by Johnston.

Councilman Vernon topped all vote-getters with 899 votes. Mayor Allen collected 835 votes against 322 for Thomas Bongiovanni in the two-man race for mayor.

Johnston, a newcomer to city politics who had served eight years on the board of education, finished second to Vernon with 664 votes in the four-man race for two council seats.

Biery collected 392 votes to place third in the balloting ahead of Eugene Wagner with 252 votes.

The new line-up for the Northville council will now be Mayor Allen, and Councilmen Vernon, Johnston and two hold-overs with another two years on their current terms, Paul Folino and Wallace Nichols.

Results of the election were reported within one-half hour of poll closing. The vote was conducted by machine.

All three winners were elated by the results.

Mayor Allen said "I'll try to serve the people the same way I have for the past 27 years, or so." He expressed his appreciation for their confidence.

Mayor Allen was member of the old village commission and was then elected to the first city council following incorporation back in 1955. He has been mayor since 1957, when he was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of Claude Ely, first mayor of the city.

Vernon called his victory "heart warming." It is no secret that Vernon aspires to become mayor upon the retirement of Mayor Allen, which may come in two years. And Vernon considered this a "test" of his voter appeal. He worked hard to win re-election.

"The overwhelming vote of confidence is heart warming and I will not violate the trust the people of the city have placed in me. I'll continue to work for the best interests of the people of the city as I have done in the past," he concluded.

Although Johnston has experienced election days in the past, he expressed a "new thrill" at being elected to the office of councilman. "I'm pleased . . . I'll do my very best," he stated.

A total of 1,185 ballots were cast out of a total city registration of 3,410. The three winners carried all three precincts over their opponents.

Precinct by precinct vote totals appear on page 12-A.

A NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP housewife came up an instant $10,000 winner Sunday in the Michigan Lottery's new "instant winner" category. Mrs. Donald Till of 42239 Nottingham Court wasn't even back in her car after buying two $1 tickets at Cap N Cork Party Store here when she peeled the covering from the three numbers and discovered she was a big winner. "She's still so excited she doesn't know what she'll do with the money," exclaimed her husband, an employee with the county road department. A regular lottery player, Mrs. Till made Sunday's purchases with "a pile of pennies" she had been saving. It's her first big win; previously she had won a couple of dollars on tickets purchased at the same store.

ALTHOUGH it is not a regularly scheduled meeting date, the city council will meet Monday because of a charter requirement for a council meeting on the first Monday following a city election. At that meeting the newly elected mayor and two council members will be sworn into office and a mayor pro tem elected.

REPAIR OF the railroad crossing at Seven Mile and Northville Road temporarily closed all four lanes of Seven Mile earlier this week. Officials for C&O expected the road would reopen to traffic Wednesday.

A PROPOSAL to hike City of Northville water rates as much as 34 percent in some cases will be aired at a public hearing on Monday, November 24. Also to be considered at that time will be a proposal to eliminate the name "Park Place" and to substitute the name "East Cady Street" for the one-quarter block of roadway near the Belanger factory.

Voters Decide Tomorrow On 2.6 Mill School Issue

School officials call it absolutely essential for quality education, but voters are not as definite as they head for the polls tomorrow for another crack at a controversial 2.6 mill proposal.

Tomorrow's special school election, following just two days on the heels of the city election, represents the second time in three months voters here have been presented the millage question.

A total of 9,879 persons are registered to vote in Thursday's election.

Normally, schools cannot hold a millage election so close to the November elections of municipalities. But the governor recently signed a bill into law that allows millage elections to be held in November.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m., and voting will be by paper ballot.

School officials expect a turnout equal to the August election in which 3,068 votes were cast and the same millage proposal was defeated by a 1,765 to 1,303 tally.

Many election prognosticators predict tomorrow's vote will be very close.

"There is no possible way whatsoever of reopening the three schools closed without passage of the 2.6," Superintendent of Northville Schools Raymond Spear said. "We can get by the way we are if we have to, but I don't see how anyone sincerely concerned with education can say satisfactory conditions exist."

Spear added that even if the 2.6 mills pass, it will not mean business as usual to the Northville schools. He said that the budget for the 2.6 mills is just as tight as the one the schools are operating under now.

If the millage issue does pass the increase in revenue for the Northville schools will be $380,000. For the taxpayer with a state equalized valuation of $30,000 that would mean an increase in school taxes of $78 for one year. Spear noted that a large portion of the increase can be reclaimed on the state income tax form as a tax credit.

Passing of the millage would, according to Spear, make available enough money to: provide for utility costs to reopen the three schools closed; the hiring of 15 additional teachers; provide additional classified personnel for the opening of the school buildings; provide funds for instructional supplies and materials needed for the reopening of the school buildings.

Sacred Heart Vote Changes

STATE POLICE POST—Construction is "moving right along" on the new Michigan State Police post and headquarters located on Seven Mile Road, just west of Northville State Hospital. According to the architect, Carl Nelson, "the building is about 25-percent completed. Construction is on time, despite a few lost days because of weather." Target date for completion of the giant new facility, which will include a sophisticated crime laboratory, is next July—hopefully in time for the bicentennial, said Nelson.

Northville to Aid Handicapped

Special Ed on Launching Pad

Northville School District is undertaking a special education program which will have the effect of adding two buildings, 808 students, and about $2.7 million to the district.

The program, which will get underway in part this month, is completely new to the school system. It is being developed after the passage of Public Act 198 which requires local school district to assume the responsibility for education of children living in institutions.

The program will receive 100 percent funding from state, federal and county sources.

Northville's special education program will service children at both the Northville Residential Training Center, located on the Seven Mile Road Northville State Hospital property, and the Plymouth Center for Human Development, located at Sheldon and Five Mile roads.

Most of the children will be taught in the institutions, although 150 to 200 children eventually may be brought into Northville schools for instruction.

Target date for start of initial instruction in the institutions is next Monday. Officials don't expect any of the youngsters to receive their instruction in Northville schools, however, until the start of the next semester.

The children who eventually will be brought into Northville schools will be housed in separate rooms within the schools. They will not be integrated into classrooms with other children.

There has been some concern voiced about the effect of bringing children from the institutions into the public schools, acknowledges Superintendent of Schools Raymond Spear, who said these fears are based on lack of knowledge about the program.

"We're bringing in youngsters who have the physical skills to take care of themselves," Superintendent Spear said. "They have to have the motor skills to move around. They will be toilet trained. The number we will be bringing into the school district is minimal because most of those children do not have these kinds of abilities."

Spear said people who envision their children as being threatened by the handicapped children are wrong. Those who will be brought into the school district will be aged six through 13 and will have minimal physical and mental handicaps, he said.

"We think it will be good for our own children to have some contact, and it will be minimal contact, with other human beings less fortunate in mental and physical abilities. It should teach an appreciation for what they have."

New Parents

Parent education classes to assist parents with newborns through three-year-olds in developing understanding and confidence in their new parental roles are scheduled by the Lamaze Childbirth Education Association of Livonia.

They begin Monday, November 17, and are held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Henry Ford Junior High in Westland. Fee for four sessions is $7.50 a person or $10 a couple. Mrs. Yvonne Bouchard, 459-3753, may be contacted.

SEEKING TITLE—These seven Northville High School seniors will be competing Saturday, November 15, for the title of Northville's Junior Miss and a scholarship to Eastern Michigan University. From left, front row, are Karen A. Kennedy, Kathy Assemacher and Kris Kofler; second row, Debbie Germeroth, Nancy Heckler, Mary Jo Doheny and Valli Muzzin. Sponsored by the Northville Jaycees, the contest will be held at 8 p.m. in Northville Presbyterian Church.

Girl Scouts to Sell Bicentennial Calendars

Novi Girl Scouts who are part of the Southern Oakland Council are scheduled to begin selling 1976 Bicentennial Girl Scout calendars this Saturday.

Mrs. Norman Prochaska, Farmington-Novis area calendar sale manager, announces that girls in Junior, Cadette and Senior troops will be participating in the annual calendar sale that provides an approved troop money earning project for girls 9-17. Income helps broaden troop activities.

The 1976 Bicentennial calendar was produced by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. for the nation's 200th anniversary in special recognition of the contribution of women to the United States and the American way of life, the council explains.

The calendar highlights the birthdays of famous women and dates on which a woman was the first of her sex to achieve special distinction on a national level.

Colored photographs of Girl Scouts in action with great women of the present are featured on the calendar.

Jotting space, the council adds, makes the calendars popular for home or office. They will be sold at a standard $1, including Michigan state sales tax.

instead of the national board of directors.

It was presented by Mrs. Jean Galan, president of the Huron Valley Council, and was supported by 21 other Girl Scout councils from all parts of the country.

Commenting on the outcome, Mrs. Galan said, "Naturally we are disappointed, but we feel that the floor discussion alerted the national board of directors to the legitimate concerns of local councils over the effect of membership standards on local Girl Scout programs."

In all, over 3,000 Girl Scout adults and teenagers attended the convention, representing 362 Girl Scout councils and two and a half million Girl Scouts in the country.

Special Ed's Topic For AAUW Tuesday

Speakers for the evening will be Clark Kelly, coordinator of special education for Northville Public Schools, and Shirley Kohl, a teacher at the Plymouth Center for Human Development.

Both will speak on the program recently undertaken by the school district on educating students from the Plymouth Center for Human Development and the Northville Residential Training Center. A question and answer period will follow the presentation.

The AAUW meeting is open to all members and prospective members. Women who hold baccalaureate or higher degrees from universities are eligible for membership.

Events Herald Holiday Season

By JEAN DAY

THIS IS THE MONTH to do your shopping for Christmas giving and decorating. Bazaars, fairs and greens markets all are upcoming and offer a variety of different gifts.

Several organizations have been conducting weekly workshops throughout the past months with nimble-fingered leaders teaching members to make wreaths, decorations and such handmade items as patchwork pillows and calico-hen tea cozies.

In addition to finding different gifts it will be possible at some sales to buy home baked goods to freeze for the holiday season. Shoppers also will have the satisfaction of aiding such causes as the Mill Race Village and church projects.

Here's a listing of November benefits:

ST. PAUL'S Lutheran Church women are holding their holiday bazaar from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. this Friday at the church at 201 Elm Street. It features calico items, stuffed animals, doll clothes, ceramics, plants, decorations, wrappings and unusual painted woodenwares.

A popular feature, donuts and coffee, will be available from the opening hour and continuing throughout the day. The donuts are freshmade in the church kitchen. A light lunch will be available from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m.

FOURTH TIVOLI FAIR to be sponsored by the Northville Historical Society will be a two-day event November 21 and 22 and this year will be held in the community room on the upper level of Northville Square. Friday hours will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This year's fair, the society reports, will be one of the biggest with 68 booths sold to craftsmen (there's even been a waiting list for them) and a country store of wares made by society members.

Candy, canned goods and homemade pastries will be sold at the store along with plants, doorstops, and such old-fashioned items as sunbonnets, ruffled and patchwork aprons and tea cozies.

Admission donation of 75 cents includes a chance on an Afghan donated by Mrs. E. M. Starkweather. Historical society members are admitted free with their membership card. All proceeds will be used for Mill Race Village restoration work.

The first Tivoli Fair in 1970 was the inspiration of Marion Crump and Barbara Scantlin. The Crumps had just been to Copenhagen, Denmark, and had vivid memories of the Tivoli Gardens there. With decorations of banners and flowers Northville's craft fair evolved from this.

GREENS MART of the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will be held in two locations concurrently with the annual Northville Merchants' Christmas Walk Sunday, November 23.

Greens, roping and pine cone wreaths and decorations will be sold both in Northville Square and from a mobile home parked in the Main Street municipal lot next to Northville Pharmacy. Craft items will be sold mainly in the square while greens and roping will be at the trailer where advance orders will be picked up.

ANNUAL PUMPKIN BREAD sale by Northville High band students and parents will be held at the parking lot location during the merchants' walk also.

Continuing a longtime tradition, Northville merchants will have their stores decorated for the holidays and open during the walk on the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH of the Holy Cross is one of three organizations holding its bazaar Saturday, November 15. It will feature handcrafts and baked goods as well as weaving and basket-making demonstrations from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the church.

Village Creek Garden Club will hold its bazaar, and will offer free coffee, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. November 15 in Novi Methodist Church.

Orchard Hills Booster Club will hold its first holiday bazaar 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. November 15 at Orchard Hills School in Novi to help buy playground equipment.

PLANT HANGERS will be created by members and their guests at the meeting of the Northville Branch of the WNFGA at 12:30 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Roger Pyett, 18499 Donegal Court. They will follow as Carol Noffz and her committee provide step-by-step demonstrations.

Participants bring their own scissors, a clay pot and, if they wish, beads with a quarter-inch hole. Beige twine will be supplied. Members wishing another color should bring 37 yards.

"STRETCH AND SEW" will be the topic of the Northville Woman's Club meeting at 1:30 p.m. this Friday at Northville Presbyterian Church. Style show arrangements are being made by Mrs. Edith Fondé, owner of the Stretch and Sew Fabric Shop in Farmington and a Northville resident. Members may bring guests.

THIRD ANNUAL LEAGUE of Women Voters cheese and wine party will be given from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Friday, November 21. Mrs. Walter Couse, a supporter of the Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi League, is opening her Edenderry home for the event.

At $6.50 a person it is open to league members, prospective members, contributors and legislators. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Harold Wright, 349-1276. League President Annalee Mathes welcomes questions from those interested about the league party and membership, which is $15 a year. She may be called at 349-7334.

Roads, Bikes, Operating Millages Fail, But 'Fire' OK'd

Only one of four millage proposals on the Novi ballot was approved by voters last night as the fire department millage received overwhelming support while roads, general operating and bike path questions were defeated.

Financial Crisis Possible

Despite the defeat of the one mill, general operating millage, recommendations on action to be taken by the city will not be coming through at least until negotiations are completed, according to Novi City Manager Ed Kriewall.

"By the end of November we will know what our financial encumbrances will be," said Kriewall following the defeat.

"The biggest question mark is the teamster contract," he explained. "It could move drastically one way or the other. They represent one-third of our employees."

Kriewall added that, "We have received a couple boosts in savings to the general fund. The traffic grant will be continuing which means a savings of $18,000 this year. We have capitalized on the availability of CETA funds by hiring replacement employees from CETA that were budgeted under the general fund. This will save us $30,000 this year."

Another plus is Dayton-Hudson which Kriewall said the city had budgeted and is expecting $100,000 in permit revenue from this year.

While the city expects to gain $10,000,000 State Equalized Valuation next year, the $65,000 additional will help, said Kriewall, "but that won't do the job."

If things do not work out quite as well as hoped, Kriewall said that, "If we have to cut, we're talking in terms of cuts in the CETA ranks because they have the least amount of seniority."

He indicated that while the three regular employees who were moved over to CETA will be kept, the remainder, including about eight workers primarily affecting the DPW, would probably be cut. "Any major cut in CETA would primarily affect the DPW. It is a service area department and we would see a cutback in services."

Kriewall added that by slotting in further regular employees to be paid by CETA, the city could expect not to have to let any regular employees go.

votes and 1,278 yes votes.

Also failing was Proposal C for general operating millage. That was axed by voters 1,661 to 803.

Proposal D for one-half mill for bike paths received the worst beating of the night, losing 1,799 to 787.

Only proposal to pass was the fire department millage which received strong voter approval, 1,912 to 732. With the passage of the fire department proposal of one mill for three years, money coming in will be used to purchase land, vehicles, and to build fire department facilities. The fire department is particularly interested in constructing a station to service the southern portion of the city.

The close defeat for the road bonding proposal marks the second defeat of the election for both Louie Campbell and Denis Berry who worked together closely on the proposal in an attempt to bring a viable road program before the public.

If the proposal had been approved, total cost of the paving would have been $4,825,000 to be paid off over the next 20 years with an average millage of 1.7 mills to residents. The council had set a priority list that would have allowed 18.78 miles of main roads including the controversial Taft Road to be paved.

In view of the narrow 30 vote defeat, it would not be too surprising if the council attempts to come back with a second road proposal.

Defeat for the general operating question marks the third time in the past year that voters have shown a reluctance to provide further funding for general services and the operation of the city.

In November of last year, a declining type millage proposal was defeated 1,975 to 1,479. On May 6 of this year, the city returned to the voters for approval for three years for one mill for general operating and one mill for capital expenditures only to find voters even more soundly opposed, 1,112 to 459.

Failure of the proposal to provide one-half mill for bike paths in Novi apparently ends for now an attempt by the Novi Bicycle Path Committee to receive funds to construct 6-14 miles of bike paths. The bike path proposition was the only question to be put on the ballot through the efforts of residents who presented the required number of signatures on petitions. All other questions were put on the ballot at the request of the council.

Besides the bike path question, council had also earlier turned a deaf ear toward placing on the ballot a parks and recreation commission proposal for one-half mill for three years and a chamber of commerce proposal for two mills for seven years for capital improvements and fire equipment.

Hoyer, Schmid, Shaw, Karevich Join Council

Novi Elects Henderson as Mayor

A majority number of new council members will be sworn into office next Monday in the wake of Tuesday's Novi city council election.

For the seven member council will be brand new; a fifth will have been on the council, only three months, and the remaining two are veterans at only two years.

Elected mayor of Novi, replacing Robert Daley, who did not seek re-election, was Gilbert D. Henderson.

The new council members are:

For four years — James A. Shaw and Robert D. Schmid. Martha Hoyer, who garnered the most votes of any council candidate, was easily re-elected to a post she won three months ago in a special election.

For two years — Patricia A. Karevich.

A total of 2877 of the 6685 registered voters, or 43 percent, cast ballots in the regular council election. That compares with 37 percent, or 1924 of the 5209 registered who voted in the 1973 election.

Eleven persons were candidates for the four-year posts, including incumbent Councilman Denis Berry and Ex-Councilman William O'Brien.

There were four candidates for the two-year seat won by Mrs. Karevich.

Henderson, who must now resign as president of the Novi Board of Education (see related story), polled more votes than any candidate — 1577 — to defeat former councilman Louie Campbell in a hotly contested race for the top seat.

See a complete election tally for all seats on Page 12-A.

In the race for the three four-year council seats, Mrs. Hoyer, who lives in the lake area, was easily the top vote getter. She garnered 1454 votes, 319 more than her closest rival, Shaw, who polled 1135.

Schmid polled 1073 votes, far more than the next closest challenger, to win the third seat.

And in the race for the single two-year post, Mrs. Karevich had the greatest margin of victory of any candidate, 1237 to the 555 votes garnered by former councilman and veteran political campaigner, Russell Button.

Novi's mayor elect was jubilant as he expressed appreciation for the voter support.

"Entered this race because I firmly believed the community needed a choice in the mayoral race," he told

The Novi News. "I'm grateful that I have been chosen and I look forward to serving this community as its new mayor."

"I sincerely hope that the new council and myself can handle the city's business in an efficient, objective manner. My election has been the result of hard work by many people from all over Novi. I hope we all can remember that it was a city-wide effort."

Naturally disappointed, Campbell nevertheless also was appreciative of the support he received.

"I'm grateful to those people who supported Louie Campbell in the campaign," he told The News, "and especially to those loyal supporters who worked in the campaign. They are the most wonderful people and they fostered a clean campaign sticking to the issues. This evidently was not good enough for the people of Novi."

"For Louie Campbell, the voters have spoken. My comment to the new council is 'God bless you; you've got a tough road to hoe.'"

A junior high school principal in Farmington, 39-year-old Henderson has been a member of the Novi Board of Education since 1959. He is presently serving his second term as president.

Married with four children, he lives at 44080 Marlson.

Mrs. Hoyer, 36, who first gained a council seat in a special July election by defeating eight other candidates running for what then was a single post left vacant by ex-Councilman George Athas, is married and has two children. She was a member of the planning board for two years.

Shaw, 31, also is an educator in the Farmington school system. He is married, has three children, and lives in Echo Valley subdivision.

The third four-year term winner, Schmid, 44, is an agent for the State Farm Insurance Company. He is married, has three children and lives at 28105 Summit Drive.

Mrs. Karevich, 32, is married, has three children and lives at 25904 Clark Street. She is active in civic organizations, having been named the Woman of the Year by Novi Jaycees.

Political Signs—

Some Are No No's

By WAYNE LODER

There is plenty of public sentiment against the appearance of political signs along the roadways, but every November the signs go back up as candidates seek to put their names before the public.

Signs were particularly plentiful in Novi this year as 17 candidates ran for various council seats. Novi residents found themselves literally bombarded with a barrage of red, white, blue, green and multi-colored campaign signs stuck in the ground, and on telephone and electric poles.

While local ordinance allows without permit ground pole signs "advocating or opposing a candidate for public office or a position on an issue to be determined at the election", the ordinance does not address itself to political signs placed on telephone or electric poles.

According to Paul Van Roekel, Highway Engineer for the Oakland County Road Commission, state law prohibits placing of signs within the right-of-way of any street or road, whether it be state, county or city right-of-way.

Van Roekel explained, however, that "state law is more directed to other types of advertising. If there weren't controls, the right-of-way would be filled with signs for everything from soup to peanuts."

While Van Roekel said aesthetics is the main concern behind the law, clear vision at intersections is another consideration.

"What right does the individual have to use public land for his own gain?" asked Van Roekel.

While Van Roekel said political signs in the right of way are against the law, he admitted that enforcing that law is a "low priority work item."

Even so, "We've picked up thousands of them. I've seen large piles in our yards. Candidates come in to pick them up and some are pretty unhappy about it."

Asked what the solution to the problem is, Van Roekel responded that "I have to presume public opinion sets priorities. If the public doesn't react adversely to it, what do you expect?"

Besides state law prohibiting signs in the right-of-way without a permit (which is almost impossible to get), both Detroit Edison and Michigan Bell Telephone have policies prohibiting placement of political signs on their poles.

"The company does not permit signs to be erected on the poles except for municipal purposes — and then only after approval is received," said John ILLEGAL SIGNS?? Neither Bell Telephone or Detroit Edison allow political signs on their poles and state law prohibits such signs in the public right-of-way of any road whether it be a city, county or state road. This picture was taken at Novi Road and 12 Mile but signs on poles were common occurrences throughout Novi as the election drew near.

School Eyes Successor

With the election of Gil Henderson, the Novi School Board will be faced with the problem of finding a replacement for him on the school board, of which he has been a member for the past seven years.

According to Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz, following is the procedure that will be followed, based upon actions by previous boards:

1. Henderson will resign his post at the next school board meeting Thursday.
2. Ray Warren, current vice-president of the school board would take over, at least initially, as president. The board, if it so desired, could later elect a different president to fill out Henderson's term.
3. Warren would ask board members if they have any persons to put in nomination.
4. The board would interview candidates during a private session.
5. At a public session the board would select the new board member from those interviewed.

The selection process must be completed within 30 days following Henderson's resignation or the Oakland County School District can step in and select the successor.

Dr. Kratz noted that the attorney general has ruled that a person cannot serve as mayor and on the school board at the same time because it could constitute a conflict of interest because the local municipality sets the tax level. In addition, determination of assessed valuation of property (including school property) is made by a city employee.

GILBERT HENDERSON

All Wixom Incumbents Victorious

In a lighter than expected vote in Wixom, Mayor Val Vangieson running unopposed was returned to the city's top post with a vote of 551, the highest polled by any of the candidates in the election.

Also returned to their council seats were Lillian Spencer, 454, Melvin Green, 430, and Robert Dingeldey, 374.

Approximately 40 percent of the city's 1,600 registered voters went to the polls Tuesday casting 642 ballots. A relatively heavy turnout had been predicted as five candidates, plus an avowed write-in candidate, were seeking the three council posts.

Unsuccessful council candidates were Carlton Oldford, 238, and Michael McDonald, 211. Write-in candidate Robert VanZandt polled 24 votes while a single vote was cast for Sylvia Vangieson, wife of the mayor.

A single write-in vote also was cast for Howard Hollister for the office of mayor.

A total of 37 absentee ballots was cast in the election, which Clerk June Buck declared was "a very light turnout, probably because there was no proposal on the ballot."

The returns were tabulated by 9:05 p.m., just an hour and five minutes after the polls of the three precincts closed. There were 303 votes cast in precinct one at Loon Lake Elementary; 140 in precinct two at Wixom Elementary; and 162 in precinct three at Wixom City Hall.

All three council candidates are returning to new four-year terms.

Mayor Vangieson for the first time was elected to the city's top post to which he was appointed in 1974 upon the sudden resignation of Gilbert Willis.

The 42-year-old popular mayor is a veterinarian with his own practice in Wixom. He also serves as Director of Epidemiology for Wayne County Health Department.

Green at the time of Vangieson's move to the mayoral post was named to the council to fill the post thus vacated.

The city's 1,600 registered voters is the highest in its history, up approximately 100 from the last election two years ago.

Coy Seat Sought Locally

Up to three Novi residents and one Wixom resident are currently under consideration as possible replacements for the 24th District Board of Commissioner's seat previously held by Lew Coy who resigned October 23.

While most officials at the county level are remaining mum on who the candidates are in consideration, this newspaper has learned that Novi residents Dennis Murphy and Elsa and Herbert Harms have been under consideration. An unidentified Wixom resident has also submitted an application.

Mrs. Harms, a Republican campaign worker, told this newspaper that she will not accept the post. She said that her husband, Herbert, has submitted a resume and is seeking the post.

Murphy was a candidate in yesterday's Novi council election. He verified that his name is in consideration, depending on the outcome of the council election.

"After I got involved in the council race, some people approached me" about running for Coy's seat, said Murphy.

Murphy said that as far as what is happening with the board of commissioners, "I don't know where things are now. There are a lot of things going into this. Otherwise there would already have been an appointment."

Murphy refused to comment further until after the local election.

Fred Houghton, chairman of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners said that a decision by the board on a successor could come at the Thursday board session. If the decision is not made then, the next board meeting is scheduled for November 20.

The board has until November 22 to make a selection to replace Coy. If a decision is not made by then, an election of the constituents in the 24th district would be required and political observers believe such an election could throw a long list

Computer 'Talks' for Children

By JOHN BOZZO

Alexander Graham Bell would have been proud.

The inventor of the telephone which revolutionized communication would have applauded the voice synthesis machine which bears the name "Alex" in his honor.

With a computer hookup the voice synthesis machine may have the same impact upon communication for less advantaged people as the telephone has had on communication since it was invented.

Last Wednesday at the Northville School District office Vicki Caruso, 17 of Livonia, spoke her first words with the aid of the "talking computer."

It was hardly the setting to utter one's first words. About 80 people, including representatives of media with their television cameras and bright lights, watched as Vicki signalled a series of numbers which called forth a phrase from the computer. Her first communication was an honest reflection of the situation, "I want to go home," said the computer in a low tone.

Vicki's nervousness must have left as her next message was a simple introduction, "My name is Vicki Caruso." She proceeded to send a series of messages.

The occasion for Vicki's speech was a demonstration of educational and rehabilitational equipment for retarded children.

Superintendent of Northville Schools Raymond Spear called it the most exciting thing to happen in the Northville schools in over 100 years; an event with world-wide implications.

The audio-synthesis machine will enable those like Vicki to ask questions in class, talk with friends and relatives, or even order a pizza by phone.

Another piece of equipment on display was called the "Mancino Chair." It is a rehabilitation chair that helps physically handicapped children write and eat by themselves with the aid of overhead harnesses.

Aided by the equipment Jane Frances Abler, 14, of Oak Park, was able to move a spoon from a plate to her mouth for the first time.

Spear said there are plans to incorporate both pieces of equipment into the special education program which Northville is developing with the Plymouth Center for Human Development, the Northville Residential Training Center, and the Wayne County Intermediate School District. The special education program, which will receive 100 per cent funding with state monies, is a golden opportunity to combine breakthroughs in technology with the know-how of education to help people do things they were never able to accomplish before, he said. Northville School District is developing an extensive special education program for 800 children at the Plymouth Center for Human Development and the Northville Residential Training Center as the result of Public Act 198 which requires the school district to assume the responsibility for educating children in institutions.

FIRST WORDS—Amidst bright lights and clicking cameras, and in front of a crowd of 80 people, Vicki Caruso, 17, of Livonia, programmed a computer to speak her first words for her. Her message was simple and honest. "I want to go home," said the computer. The computer demonstration was sponsored by the Northville School District as the unveiling of a special education program that the Northville School District is undertaking.

Robert Emery Progresses

There's good news to report from the Robert Emery family.

Emery is the night watchman from South Lyon's Country Estates Mobile Home Park who was left paralyzed when he was struck by bullets from the gun of an intruder in the plant where he was working.

The brace on his left leg was removed below the knee several months ago, and now the family reports that the brace on his right leg has also been removed.

Doctors say that Emery may ultimately be able to discard his crutches and move about with the help of canes.

Mrs. Emery stated that she "just wanted to share the good news" about her husband's continued progress "because everyone has been so concerned and considerate about Bob's injury."

Two Performances Benefit Band

Circus Coming to Town Saturday

"Colonel" Bill Voorheis will be bringing his big, three-ring indoor circus to Northville for two performances at 4 and 7 p.m. this Saturday in the Northville High School gymnasium under sponsorship of the Northville High School band and band parents.

The Colonel's fifth annual extravaganza is completely new and different and stars Alberto Zoppe, acclaimed as one of the world's greatest bareback riders.

Brought to this country by Ringling Brothers Circus in 1948, Alberto selects several local girls from the audience in the performances and instructs them on riding a horse around the ring. He also taught Toby Tyler how to ride the horse for a Walt Disney motion picture.

Also headlined in Saturday's production will be the world-famous Stroyanoffs, Voorheis announces, who are former Olympic world champions from Moscow. Just before joining the show they played at large state fairs throughout the country.

Voorheis explains that the circus makes no claim to fame about being the biggest, nor the best, but does bring top-notch circus performers together and plays in small to medium-size towns throughout Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

By playing indoors without unpleasantness of tents and weather conditions, he explains, the circus is able to attract top artists who

Harkness, a spokesman for Detroit Edison.

"We try to discourage it because the poles may have to be climbed and it creates a hazard," explained Harkness. "Anything that could cause slippage could be dangerous to the individual climbing the pole. Sometimes the materials and fasteners could cause the lineman to slip."

While Edison does not actively go out specifically to tear down political signs on poles, repair crews "are instructed to take them down."

Harkness noted that individuals trespassing on Edison property and erecting the signs could be sued though he was unaware of any prosecutions.

Bell Telephone also prohibits hanging signs on their poles also due to possible hazards to linemen caused by nails or staples or by the signs themselves. While Bell employees are not instructed to police the poles, Haze Wilson, Manager of Community Relations for the company admitted that "over the years I've seen situations that bothered me to the point where I got out of my car and took some action."

Wilson said that signs blocking the vision of motorists are particularly hazardous.

"Some political candidates have taken stands that they don't want to put signs up from an ecological standpoint," he added. "I think the answer is not how to get rid of them, but how to prevent them and police them so they don't get out of hand."

While the problem may linger on in Novi for a few more weeks due to the large number of signs, Van Roekel promised that if they aren't taken down, "we'll get around to picking them up sooner or later."

David McConnell's behind the mask

He Goes Ape Over Costumes

When 13-year-old David McConnell dresses up for Halloween it's no easy job.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Johansen of 19505 Dartmouth, Dave's a make-up artist par excellence. What began as a whim has become a potential vocation.

"It started, I guess, when I saw the movie about the Planet of the Apes. I was fascinated by the costumes they wore and I decided I'd like to try making a mask of my own."

When he finished months later he had a perfect likeness of the masks and costumes worn by the men in the movie that triggered his interest. Now he's launched a business of making and selling ape masks. What's more, Dave says, "I'll make any face they want so long as they give me a good picture to go by."

An ape mask, which includes wig and hairpieces, sells for $30. The shoulder costume sells for another $30. Masks made by the eighth grader are not the ordinary dime-store varieties. No, indeed. Each mask is really a complete face, molded to fit the face of the wearer.

Dave begins with detailed drawings of the face to be produced. He then makes a mold of the wearer's face to which the mask is molded.

Thus, despite the exterior shape of the mask, the interior fits snugly against the wearer's own face.

He made the first mask of solid rubber. His latest mask, the one in this picture, was made of latex poured into a mold. The jaw is a separate piece but attached to the upper mask in such a way as to permit normal facial movement. Special teeth are made of dental stone and carefully mounted in the jaw.

The wearer's own teeth are "blackened out" to give the mouth a real appearance.

The wig and several hairpieces are carefully sewn into position. The hairpieces are handmade.

Similarly, the shoulder costume is also handmade and entirely designed by Dave. "He never took sewing lessons," smiles his mother, "but somehow he manages to put it together professionally. I'm simply amazed at what he's been able to do completely on his own."

Perhaps the most intricate stage is that of make-up. In Dave's case, for example, he spent several hours in front of a mirror meticulously arranging make-up so that it is next to impossible to tell, for example, where an eyelid leaves off and the mask begins.

Residents Eye Vacancy On Board of candidates into the running.

"We feel it's a Republican district so we've been searching with people who know the area to come up with a successor to Coy," said Houghton. He verified that only two people have submitted their names for consideration and that one is from Novi and one from Wixom.

According to Houghton, the resumes will be going for consideration to the General Government Committee of the board which is made up of both Republicans and Democrats. The candidates will then be interviewed by that body which will then make a recommendation to the county board.

While the General Government Committee has not yet interviewed the candidates, Houghton said the group may do so before the board meeting Thursday and announce its recommendation there.

Houghton said, "I don't expect any problems," when the board discusses the question. The successor's term will run through December, 1976.

However Coy, who resigned for personal reasons and to take a position as court officer in the 52nd District Court of Judge Martin Boyle, indicated that there apparently are some problems.

"I was offered reappointment last Wednesday but turned it down," said Coy. "I know they're having difficulty on who to select as a replacement."

Coy said that Houghton made him the offer.

According to other commissioners, there appears to be some sentiment among board members to allow the electorate to make the decision.

"I thought we had an understanding," said Coy of the possibility of a special election. "I didn't want to have an election. I hope it doesn't happen."

Coy said a prime consideration in his feeling about a special election is not wanting to make the constituents have to bear the cost of the election.

Both the Republican and Democratic caucuses have met in closed sessions during the past few days to discuss the matter of a successor.

'Lake' Millage Renewal Up

Voters in the Walled Lake School District, which encompasses almost all of Wixom as well as 6 1/2 square miles of Novi, will go to the polls Wednesday, November 12 and will be asked to renew 10 mills which are expiring and to increase the operating tax levy by three mills.

On the ballot as a single question, the renewal and increase would raise $5.7 million over the five years which the millage will run. "The three mill increase will not allow us to expand programs," stated Superintendent Dr. Donald Sheldon. "It will merely let us continue existing ones."

According to Assistant Superintendent Rolfeigh Langerman, the district has had to cut back over the past two years on instructional supplies, library books, field trips, teaching staffs in the elementary grades, textbooks, guidance and testing, as well as maintenance.

Langerman said that the board decision to ask for the renewal and increase in the same question, is consistent with board policy in the past, except for an occasion in 1971.

The 10 mills renewal come from a four mill levy renewed in 1971 and a six mill renewal in 1974. Both expire in December. If the millage question is approved, the levy would go into effect for the 1976-77 school year.

"I think it's always a risk," said Langerman of the millage question. If the millage should fail, "The board will have to decide what to do next. They'll come back with something (another millage question) but I don't know what it is."

The requested millage increase is the first for the Walled Lake School District since 1969 when the voters were asked to approve five mills for the opening of Western High School. In the six intervening years, the district has been able to drop three mills from the debt levy, reducing it from seven to four mills.

Currently 17 of the 28 school districts in Oakland County have a higher tax levy for operating purposes than the Walled Lake Schools. If the renewal and increase are approved, the school district would be levying 31.13 mills for operating and four mills for debt levy.

Wixom residents will vote at precinct 4 polling place at Wixom Elementary on Wixom Road north of Pontiac Trail. Novi residents are in precinct one and will vote at Walled Lake Junior High School on Pontiac Trail in Walled Lake.

News from the Castle — ACROSS FROM THE PALACE — (Restaurant...that is)

The house of McAllister's is busy for the holiday decorating season.

Diann is assisting on decorating something like 16 various homes (never could we have done that).

Dawn is finishing-up with Casterlines—that's the private club on Dunlap where you have to be cold to enter.

We have two beautiful additions to our staff, who are also very talented to assist with your decorating. Carol Wobermin (who has been with us for some time) and Rhonda Atchison Schulk. Carol assisted Mrs. Miller of the Green Ridge Nursery family in doing their home.

Don't forget to drop in and browse through our new accessory studio. Many goodies for the home for that finishing touch.

Our decorator Fabric Sale is on for 10% to 25% off on unique designs from Greeff, Waverly, Schumacher, Westgate, etc.

Ran into Ann Brueck at Uncle Sam's office on Cady Street and she advised to get out of here this week—snow by the weekend—Wow!

Who were those doomsters that said the house of McAllister's couldn't stand-up with the second generation alone playing the roll—Humbug! They tripled the business since taking over. Yeh, Man—we're Proud!!! Have a nice "cold" winter!

S.O.S.

Save Our Schools —and Our Children!

We, the undersigned, ask the help of all registered voters of the Northville School District in rescuing our school system—and our children—from its present state of chaos.

We want our closed schools reopened. We want all curricular and extra-curricular cuts restored. We want as many extra teachers as possible rehired and all teachers assigned to subjects they are best qualified to teach. As our greatest priority, we want the overcrowded and intolerable conditions in all our schools corrected, so that our children will have room to breathe—and to learn.

We simply cannot afford to send our children out to face the ever-increasing pressures of tomorrow's world with a second-class education. Therefore, we ask your help in salvaging the remainder of the school year by voting YES on the 2.6 millage request November 6th. Please! Join with us to Save Our Schools and—most importantly—to Save Our Children!

TREATING THE TRICKERS—Halloween 'Trick or Treaters' had to walk the plank and enter the haunted house before they received their treats at the Robert Simone home, 47201 Curtis. It's the second year that the Simone boys, Bob, John and Paul, converted their front porch into a "witches' den". When youngsters would call on Halloween, they would find a witch stirring its magic brew, eery lights, bodiless heads and an assortment of young goblins inside the haunted house. Helping the Simone boys in the project were Jerry Doyle, Scott Harrington, Dave Biery and Mike Cowan.

Rooms in several Northville schools may be reserved for the handicapped children, he said. However, the schools and the classrooms have not yet been finally determined, although it would appear Amerman and Moraine will be among them, according to the superintendent. Cooke Middle School may be another.

At last week's Northville board meeting 17 teachers were hired for the program. These teachers are undergoing orientation and may begin teaching next week.

Superintendent Spear said that eventually about 50 teachers will be hired for the program. There also will be a need for about 150 aides and the school district also will hire about 12 technicians such as speech therapists, physical therapists, and psychologists. About five administrators will be hired to oversee the operation, he said.

Responding to an allegation, made at the last board of education meeting, that the program will dilute the time of the superintendent and take away something from regular students, Spear replied the dilution of his time will be no greater than that which has occurred through the natural increase of the student population since he has been superintendent.

Spear added that the special education program will be no significant burden on the central operation of the school district, he will just have a few more administrators to supervise.

He said the district will purposely move slowly in implementing the program within local schools to avoid unnecessary apprehensions over the program in the community.

He said there is a need for teachers to work with students in classrooms to develop awareness of the problems faced by less fortunate people.

Also, the schools have to be brought into compliance with regulations for physically handicapped. This includes work in the rest rooms and ramps for immediate access. Transportation problems have to be worked out and the school district may need another bus, he said.

"I look at this as a challenging opportunity for the Northville Public Schools to demonstrate the ability of a collected group of people to accomplish a task that heretofore has not been accomplished."

The ultimate goal of the educational program will be to return the children into the community as "useful citizens." The first step in the program will be education at the institution, followed by education in the public school setting, with the final step being to return the children to society.

With the program funding available Spear hopes to draw upon as many technical fields as possible "to achieve the goal of putting special education children back into the main stream and to provide a normal educational atmosphere for the children."

Spear voiced pride in Northville's reputation as an innovator in education with the year round school program, the movement education program, and the

Discusses Presidency

Two sessions, at which a "Consensus on the Presidency" will be taken by the Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Novi League of Women Voters, are slated for next Wednesday, November 12.

The first will be held from 9 a.m. until noon at the home of Mrs. Cathy Prince, 44154 Leann, Plymouth. Babysitting will be available with reservations to be made with Lynne Goldsmith, 453-1664.

An evening session at 7-45 p.m. will be at the home of Mrs. Virginia Hayward, 42115 Brampton Court, Northville.

bid before bond procedure as being prime examples. He envisions the special education program as another place where Northville can become an educational leader in an area where education has been overlooked.

Donna Sewrey, consultant for special education from Wayne County Intermediate School District, said that the institutions cannot be blamed for the educational deficiencies of the children.

Education has not been the goal of the institutions, she said. Children are there for care or help under the Michigan Department of Mental Health.

She said most of the children are extremely retarded and have no place in a public school setting. But a few younger children need the opportunity to know what the "other half" is like. Previously there have been only six teachers at the Plymouth Home who have had to serve the educational needs of about 712 children.

Details involving teaching locations and the program within the institutions still had not been completed early this week. Nevertheless, Spear said he is hopeful 17 teachers and their aides will begin instruction next week.

Major initial hurdle, he pointed out, is to provide an educational program that fits into the on-going programs already existent at the institutions. "After all, the institutions are responsible for the youngsters 24 hours a day; we will be involved with them for only part of that day," he acknowledged.

Township Vote Changes

3 deadlocks.

Attorney Donald Morgan has now ruled that the vote of Supervisor Betty Lennox, changed from an abstention to "no," was legally not permissible and therefore the motion to adopt the resolution carried by a vote of 3 to 2.

Once cast, a vote cannot be changed except by permission of other board members, Morgan said. And since it appeared the resolution was deadlocked, no formal request was made by Mrs. Lennox to switch.

Immediately following her abstention and upon learning that it meant passage of the resolution, the supervisor said, "In that case, I vote no." She explained that she would support the resolution only if it were adopted unanimously.

The first motion was to table the resolution. That motion died in a 3-3 deadlock, with Mrs. Lennox and Trustees John MacDonald and James Nowka supporting the tabling action and Clerk Clarice Sass and Trustees Richard Mitchell and Dr. John Swienkowski voting against it.

Subsequently, the motion to adopt was considered and it was on this motion that Mrs. Lennox switched her vote. MacDonald and Nowka voted no, Mrs. Sass, Mitchell and Dr. Swienkowski voted yes.

The resolution endorses the Sacred Heart proposal over the college campus plan of the Schoolcraft College-Wayne

State University consortium plan.

Both proposals currently are before a committee of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners as that body seeks to negotiate a lease for the county owned Child Development property, located on Sheldon Road near Five Mile Road. The center was closed more than a year ago. One of the buildings on the premises, however, is being used by the township for township hall offices.

Saturday Fund Raiser

Will Aid Burn Center

A fire-fight display and a fund raiser to aid the National Institute of Burn Medicine (NIBM) will be staged here Saturday by the Northville Jaycees.

Plans call for the Jaycees to solicit funds while the fire department displays fire-fighting equipment on Northville streets from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

NIBM is an organization dedicated to saving lives of burn victims and reducing the degree of disability and disfigurement that they may suffer, according to Jaycee project chairman Ben Northrop.

According to Northrop, with the funds collected by Northville Jaycees and Jaycees throughout the nation the NIBM will be able to accomplish the following:

- Train doctors and nurses for burn care.
- Improve hospital facilities for burn care.
- Expand research and public education efforts.
- Establish a national center of excellence for burn patient care.

There's a whole other world out there . . . in Las Vegas.

If they've heard of the recession, energy crisis or the penalties of over-indulgence, it isn't apparent.

It was my first visit to Las Vegas. My wife and I attended a three-day newspaper convention and then took a brief vacation to view Hoover Dam, Zion and Bryce Canyons, Grand Canyon, Pikes Peak, Mesa Verde, Durango, Denver and Clint Eastwood.

I really didn't see Clint Eastwood. But we stayed one night in the little Utah town of Kanab near the Arizona border. It's a favorite area for shooting western films. Eastwood and his company were there making a new film. My wife wandered into camera range at their canyon location and was quickly ushered off the premises as she was filming the film-makers.

In Vegas it was wall-to-wall people. They say the mid-October business was the best since New Year's along the "Strip".

We saw Andy Williams, the Lennon Sisters, John Davidson, 5th Dimension and the Lido de Paris. The shows are absolutely packed at 6:30 for dinner and again at midnight.

And there's always action in the casinos. Whatever your pleasure, you can bet your dollar and take your chances in Las Vegas. Poker, roulette, craps, baccarat, blackjack, keno and at the MGM Grand Hotel you can even bet on Jai Alai.

The hotels are fabulous and, to me, Las Vegas was fascinating, at least for three days.

One of the speakers at our press convention was Donald Rumsfeld, then Assistant to the President, now the new Secretary of Defense. A handsome young man, Rumsfeld is articulate and fielded questions from a roomful of editors professionally.

Our motor trip through parts of Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado was a peaceful and educational contrast to the action in Vegas.

It is impossible to describe the enormous beauty and tranquility in these great national park canyons. And in mid-October you are almost alone as you view these wonders of nature.

We drove through the Painted Desert and the Petrified Forest. They are interesting. But for sheer beauty, I'll take Bryce Canyon National Park in southern Utah.

I was also surprised to learn that the little town of St. George in the southwest corner of the state is known as "Dixie" and that cotton is grown there. Because the elevation is less than 3,000 feet in this pleasant, Mormon community, the winters are dry and mild.

We enjoyed the Durango area in Colorado, too. It was too late in the season to take the train up to the mining town of Silverton and snowfall in the mountains at about 10,000 feet forced us back down to Durango after attempting to drive up.

Dick Lorenz, son of the manager of Plymouth's Mayflower Hotel, manages the food services at the Strater Durango hotel and I can recommend it to anyone as a reasonable and interesting place to stay.

We ended our motor trip by visiting the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs and finally, Denver.

America really is "The Beautiful".

If you haven't done so, take a trip out west when you can. I'm sorry we waited so long. And I hope we'll be able to return.

Vote Tomorrow

One-third of the registered voters in the Northville school district turned out at the polls last August to defeat a 2.6 millage request for operating funds.

Tomorrow (Thursday) the same question appears on the ballot because the money squeeze has resulted in the closing of three schools, staff cuts and crowded classrooms.

If the silent majority doesn't care about the school issue, or if it is satisfied with the results of the minority vote, we may find that one-third of the voters will again decide the property tax rate and the manner in which our schools are operated for 100 per cent of the taxpayers.

This should not be the case.

The education of children is the most important responsibility of any community. All voters should let their opinion be known.

Last week this column again supported a "YES" vote to restore educational order to the Northville system.

We repeat that support along with an appeal to the district's electorate to participate in the democratic process.

Whatever the outcome, a majority response would be an improvement.

Fair weather is predicted for Thursday. Take a walk down to the polls.

DAVE HEINZMAN, JR.

YES . . .

Temporarily banning foreign autos during America's economic recession might be worth considering. The auto industry is this country's largest industry and while we go on buying foreign cars, foreigners will keep on working while Americans will continue in unemployment.

Domestic autos are at the point where they can compete both performance-wise and mileage-wise with imported cars. If we buy only American autos, car companies wouldn't have to keep raising prices to compensate for losses.

The American auto industry has gone downhill ever since foreign autos have entered the competition. Americans want the "best buy" so bad that they look to some other country to produce a product that costs less, thus they forget the needs of their own country.

One good thing foreign autos have done is stimulate American auto engineers to design more efficient cars and now that we've learned the lessons of the foreign cars, let's get rid of them, they are unneeded competition!

During a crisis, Americans look across the ocean. Hotels are sold to Indians, we are dependent on the Arabs for oil, and now we must throw our money to the foreigners in exchange for cars. These foreigners, in effect, have a monopoly on our car market! We are losing our economic independence!

If we don't ban foreign cars during our recession, let's at least not buy them until America gets back on her feet economically.

Dave Heinzman, Jr.

JOANNE COLLIGAN

NO . . .

Imported cars should not be banned from the highways for the following reasons:

1) Financially, many Americans feel an imported car is a good buy as evidenced by how many foreign cars are on the roads. Initial cost of a foreign car is often lower than a domestic car and gas mileage is excellent. In shopping for a foreign car one finds such options as a clock, rear-window defogger, tinted glass and carpeting standard in the base price, but on an American-made car, extra cost is added to the base price for these options.

2) Competition is a main force behind price controls and benefits for the consumer. Without competition from imported cars, American car-makers would have a monopoly on car prices and car style availability. Competition has forced American car makers to match imported cars in gas mileage and bring down prices of American-made small cars.

3) Freedom of choice is important to the American. If she-he desires to buy an imported car for whatever reasons, she-he should be allowed to do so.

4) Finally, banning imported cars would have ramifications politically by countries, in turn, limiting imports from the United States.

Give Views on Millage Vote

To the Editor:

The students at Meads Mill Middle School have a problem. The problem is that there are too many of us. According to facts and figures, the capacity of Meads Mill is 900 to 1,000 students. There are about 1,150 students attending our school at the present time.

This overcrowding was caused by a millage vote on August 18th, in which the people in this area voted "No" by a majority vote, which resulted in the closing of Cooke Middle School.

Some of the problems caused by this overcrowding are no library, teachers teaching outside their area, overcrowding in the cafeteria, students working in hallways because of not enough space, etc.

These problems could be solved by a "Yes" vote on the second millage election, which is being held tomorrow, Thursday, November 6th. If the 2.6 millage increase is passed, Cooke will be reopened, and approximately half of the students at Meads Mill will return to Cooke, solving the overcrowding problem.

So we, the students of Meads Mill (hopefully of Cooke as of Monday, November 10th), urge you to vote "Yes" on November 6th.

Sincerely Yours,
Signed by 100 Students

To the Editor:

Please permit me to offer a few points to ponder:

1. Supplies are packed for the return to Cooke is this because the move will be made regardless of the election outcome? Will Silver Spring also be opened regardless?

2. 2.6 added to .83 X SEV factor equals closer to 6 mills. How much will escrow shortage increase your house payments? Can you handle it?

3. Economics is an ever present fact of life. It has been said, "You can't give the students this year back." Can you "give it back" to the parents or retirees who may be forced to sell or lose their homes due to excess taxes?

4. Is it not just as important for students to learn about economic hard times before they are tax-paying adults as it is for them to learn "Now poetry," "Pop and rock, golf, badminton, etc.?"

5. Will Main Street really be opened this year?

6. Who will really receive the additional money?

Doubts as to the true answers to these questions, coupled with a deep distrust of the actions of the Board and Administration, leave me no choice but to vote no.

To the Editor:
We urge the voters of the Northville School District to join us in voting "NO!" tomorrow, Thursday, November 6, 1975, for the following reasons:

1. The Board and Superintendent must bear the responsibility for the financial problems of the district.

2. Proper controls should have been instituted years ago. Also the Board by reading any newspaper should have known the building industry was in a severe slump in 1974 and 1975 which is expected to continue into 1976

3. The Board could have elected to spread the resulting deficit over 3 years rather than forcing us to make up for their past errors all at once.

4. Next year when the requested millage and a 10 mill renewal come up, past experience leads us to believe that it will be presented as more than a 10 mill renewal.

5. Northville Township has not been recently reassessed, as have the other major parts of the district, which will result in an unfair burden to those parts of the district with new assessments.

6. The doubling of our assessment in recent years has doubled our taxes already. This will result in a substantial increase in our house payment even without the new millage.

7. We believe that the cost of opening Cooke Jr High to relieve any overcrowding at Meads Mill will not be more than the expense of busing our children. We are already paying for the teachers, building, administration, and part of the utilities and maintenance. The closings

Top of The Deck

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

If someone in Northville embezzled a quarter-million bucks the citizens of our community would be shocked to say the least.

And if the stolen money represented precious tax dollars we would be enraged.

Yet, the squandering of $264,731 that has occurred here in the past five years is hardly worth a gossip whisper. In fact, there are some who argue that the community's loss is the individual's gain.

The squandered money of which I speak is real. It is the money — tax money — that the Northville Board of Education has been forced to spend in annually borrowing money to operate schools until its tax revenues begin arriving.

Take a look at what has happened here in those five years:

In 1971-72, the school board had to borrow $730,000 at a cost of $26,392 in interest; the following year it borrowed $1,090,000 — a cost of $30,395; in 1973-74 it paid out $57,469 in interest on $1,081,310 of borrowed money; in 1974-75 it paid $74,157 to borrow $1,283,000; and this past summer it borrowed an even $2 million at a cost of $76,318.

So in five years the school district needlessly was forced to spend a quarter million dollars to borrow $6,184,310.

In other words in the past five years the equivalent of nearly 4 mills of taxes has been wasted!

Why must the school district borrow money each year?

Easiest way I know to answer the question is to point to the fiscal (or budget) year periods for each of the three major governmental bodies that constitute our community:

City of Northville. The budget year runs from July 1, 1975 to June 30, 1976. It began collecting city taxes in July and thus it had new tax revenues almost from the very outset of its budget year.

Township of Northville. The budget year runs from April 1, 1975 to March 31, 1976. It began collecting township taxes for the current fiscal year last winter and thus, theoretically, its revenues began arriving months before its budget year began.

Northville School District. The budget year runs from July 1, 1975 to June 30, 1976, the same as the city. Unlike the city, however, school taxes will not be collected until late next month and in January — fully one-half year after the district's budget year begins.

Those who budget the monies in your home will attest to the problems that arise when bills come due before the arrival of income.

Faced with this situation the school board is forced to borrow money using anticipated tax income as collateral. It cannot change its budget year to, say January 1 through the following December, because the budget year is fixed by law. It does, however, have one recourse — that of having half its tax income collected in the summer when its bills start coming in and half in the winter.

The law permits split school tax collection.

But there's a hangup: Unlike the two other major governmental units that constitute our community, the school district cannot nor does it collect its own taxes. Collection of school taxes is, by law, the job of the cities and townships that are located within the school district. So the Northville school board cannot implement split tax collection. It must beg cities and townships to do it.

Recently because the neighboring City of Novi agreed to a split tax collection, at the request of the Novi school board and following years of debate, the Northville school board was encouraged to renew its long standing request for split collection. That request, however, was denied by the township board and presently it is precariously treading water in the city council chambers.

The township's chief argument against the proposal is that split collection would be too costly for the township.

Although city councilmen appear to favor the proposal, some of them say they will support it only if the township does likewise. To commit the city to split

How Much Will 2.6 Mill Hike Cost You?

The calculations below were provided by Superintendent Raymond Spear's office. They reflect the cost of a 2.6 mill hike to typical Northville School District taxpayers.

Citizen Classification	Present School Tax	Non Property Tax With 2.6 Mill Increase	Tax Increase	Less State Property Tax Credit		Net Property Tax Increase
				Under 65	Over 65	Under 65	Over 65
Household Income	$12,000	$542	$581	$39	$26	$39	$13
Property Market Value	$30,000						0
Household Income	$16,000	$722	$774	$52	$35	$52	$17
Property Market Value	$40,000						0
Household Income	$20,000	$903	$968	$65	$45	$65	$20
Property Market Value	$50,000						0
Household Income	$30,000	$1,264	$1,355	$91	$64	$91	$27
Property Market Value	$70,000						0

The above table applies to the average property owner under 65 years of age where the total property tax paid exceeds 3.5 percent of his household income. Persons over 65 years of age will pay no additional taxes.

must be viewed as a political move.

8. The Board and Superintendent have to realize that when a millage is defeated that they will not be allowed to ask us to vote on it again and again until it is passed. If the millage had passed they would not give us a second chance to say, "NO!"

9. We, along with many others, have had to tighten our belts during this recession. It is not unreasonable for the Board and Superintendent to follow suit.

10. We believe that a second "NO" vote even stronger than the first is in order now! Then we can quit playing games, open our schools, and get on with the main job of educating our children.

We urge you to join us in voting "NO!" tomorrow.

To the Editor:

I cannot agree with your editorial opinion of voting for the millage and then turning attention to long range improvement.

The policies of the present school administration and the school board are at odds with the wishes of the majority of the community. The community wishes a solid basic educational program with discipline and rules of conduct enforced within the schools. The community wishes this type of program to be conducted in a business like and economical fashion, resulting in educational value delivered for money spent.

Instead we have been treated to a series of judgemental errors, both in the educational and financial fields, which surfaced explosively with an operating deficit of $240,000 in the past year. The incurrance of this deficit was bad enough; reflecting poor performance by the administration and poor supervision by the board but it is only a symptom of the basic problems.

Our school capacity is grossly overbuilt and the new buildings are designed around the largely discredited open classroom method.

The educational policy of our administration and by inference of our school board is constant (and expensive) innovation such as the year round schools, the open classroom method, now culminating in an experimental special educational program. The result is a steady lowering of educational value delivered to the children of the school district at an ever increasing cost.

In the past year $5,530,182 was spent to educate 4378 children and now for 94 more children $5,901,591 or $371,409 additional is not enough so 2.6 mills or $380,000 is requested which means that $751,000 more is needed to educate 94 more children.

Where is the extra money? Administration figures and the budget show that at least $270,000 more than last year is being paid out to fewer employees. One hundred eighteen thousand is projected in higher utility bills and 154,000 is earmarked to pay off last years operating deficit. (240,000 actual operating deficit — 86,000 previous surplus.) Of these three categories only the utility bills are seemingly beyond the control of the administration and the board, (if one forgets the judgement error of first starting and then completing the new buildings.)

Wage increases have been granted to all employees of the school system including a minimum of 5 percent to all administrators (thru paid retirement.) As a legacy for future years, the salaries of the administrators, who negotiate wage settlements with the teachers, have been tied to these same settlements so that the higher the settlement the more the administrators receive.

The operating deficit of last year need not have been completely paid back this year, as was pointed out in public by at least one experienced member of another school board and by Dr. Mandell a member of the board itself.

In short the wisdom of granting more money to the present administration and then hoping that they will mend their ways is questionable indeed. When performance has been demonstrated in bringing our school system into educational and fiscal control, then I think that the voters confidence will be restored and any required money will be forthcoming.

Sincerely,
Jan C. Mueller

tax collection to help out the school, some of them reason, would mean, in effect, that city taxpayers would be subsidizing the township.

The third major argument is that lending institutions will necessarily have to increase the monthly payments of mortgaged property owners to ensure that sufficient monies for taxes are contained in escrow accounts.

Let's look at these arguments, the last one first. There is absolutely no requirement that banking institutions must hike monthly mortgage payments of Northville property owners if split school tax collection is introduced here. And any banking representative who says otherwise is misrepresenting his firm.

Suffice it to say that most, if not all, of the same banking institutions that service mortgaged Northville property owners also service mortgaged Bloomfield Hills school district property owners and not one extra cent is charged in Bloomfield Hills where split school tax is a reality and is working "very satisfactorily."

Can you imagine the embarrassment that could arise if it were determined that state and federally regulated lending institutions were charging their Northville customers (or Novi customers for that matter) something they are not charging their Bloomfield Hills customers?

Now for the township's objection, namely that of cost. Officials there estimate the added collection will cost it an additional $8,130 (in personnel, postage, etc.) and they conclude therefore, by some strange logic, that the added collection will cost more than it will save.

Assuming that the $8,130 figure is accurate (and I doubt that it is), I cannot help but remember the school board's pledge to pick up any additional expense incurred by either the township or the city in implementing split tax collection. Furthermore, payment of this added cost by the school district would still result in a net savings of at least $30,000 in the township alone. And $30,000 in the school system's present financial shape represents no little figure.

(In the city, it has been estimated the added cost of a split tax collection would be less than $500).

Finally, as for the city's argument, that of possibly having to subsidize the township. I'd like to remind city officials that Novi might have used a modification of this same argument — but it did not — when it approved split tax collection. After all, a good chunk of the Northville school district is located in Novi and split tax collection is being implemented throughout Novi, not just in the Novi School District.

I am reminded of the church member, who lives in the city but waves aside the collection plate on Sunday because his township neighbor, sitting in the next pew, has not contributed anything. If why both members attend the church is worthwhile, it should be worthwhile no matter how much either puts in or does not put in the collection plate.

In the face of the township's recent action and the city's expressed concerns, School Superintendent Raymond Spear has restated the school board's plea to both: "Help us better use taxpayers' dollars."

I am hopeful the township board will reconsider its negative stand and that the city will join Novi in approving the proposition — no matter what happens in the next pew.

Saving a quarter million bucks IS worthwhile.

Kids' Candy Stolen On Halloween

To the Editor:

What kind of city did we move to? So far Novi has been great. We moved into a condominium and my two daughters have met some real nice kids. The schools seem fine.

But Halloween put a damper on all this. My 12-year-old daughter and her friend were out trick or treating and were almost home when all of a sudden two young men drove up in a car, jumped out and grabbed the bags of candy out of their hands! What is the matter with some kids? What of their parents? Why did my daughter's friend have to move from the middle of Detroit and us from Livonia to have this happen in Novi?

Well, I'm still going to have hope and faith in the young people of this community.

Just because there are a few sick ones, and they know who they are, doesn't mean all are like that. And that's exactly what I'm trying to tell my daughter tonight as she sits here wondering what's happened to her world.

The 2.6 millage issue, Spear said, would allow reinstating of the following extra-curricular activities: spring musical, ninth grade basketball, ninth grade swimming, seventh and eighth grade swimming, elementary swim instruction, and several Girls Athletic League intramural programs.

There would also be funds to fill the two vacant administrative posts of athletic director and director of business and finance

Northville School District now collects 28.9 mills for operational expenses and 7.22 mills for debt retirement.

"I would personally and sincerely hope that people will remove any concern or criticism of either myself or the board from their consideration of the millage, because the millage is for the children," Spear said. "Then if they continue to be dissatisfied let's talk about it after the kids have been taken care of."

Mrs. Naomi Poe, president of the Northville Education Association, also considers it imperative that the millage be passed. She says that she sees things happening to education in Northville, like larger class sizes and curtailed programs, which are not good for education.

Mrs. Poe said that people have selfish reasons for not wanting the millage passed. For instance, many of those whose neighborhood school is open may not vote for the millage because their own conditions are fine, Mrs. Poe said.

Responding to the statement that teachers want the millage for their own selfish reasons Mrs. Poe said, "I want it for working conditions and working conditions are for the children. It's not going to affect our salaries, those have already been decided.

"It's going to get those kids back in their own buildings where they'll have room to breathe, where discipline problems will be less, and where teachers can do the job they want to do," she added. Mrs. Poe added that she is optimistic that the millage will pass. She said that the people of Northville want a good educational system and are willing to support one.

Dr. Orlo Robinson, president of the Northville Board of Education, also said that he considers it imperative that the 2.6 millage issue receives voter approval.

"It's inconceivable to me, with the knowledge of the cuts we had to make," Dr. Robinson said, "and knowledge of the trying circumstances at Meads Mill and Winchester, that anyone would not support the millage."

Dr. Robinson added that he believes the school district needs additional help in the administrative department and should hire a director of business and finance and a director of buildings and grounds.

He added that the school district had prepared an information sheet about the millage election, complete with facts and figures, only to find that they could not distribute the sheet. Along with the information, readers of the card were urged to vote yes on the millage election. State law forbids the use of district funds to persuade people to vote yes. If a citizens group does the same thing individually that's all-right.

After the first millage defeat the Northville Board of Education met at a budget cutting session and closed the operation at Main Street Elementary, Silver Spring Elementary, and Cooke Middle Schools. Academic programs at the high school were cut along with the curtailment of about half of the extra-curricular activities at the high school and all extra-curricular activities at the middle school.

At a later board of education meeting private donations were accepted and the extra-curricular program was reinstated for the fall.

Cost cutting economies have been implemented and their effect is being felt throughout the school district. All 1,048 middle school students are being taught in one building, Meads Mill, which was built for 1,000.

The 780 students from both Winchester and Silver Springs Elementary schools are being taught in the Winchester building which was designed for 750, school officials said. Officials also noted that 1,579 high school students are being taught in a building designed for 1,400 students.

There is some room available at Amerman Elementary and Moraine Elementary.

Class sizes are reported higher than usual, nearer the 30-35 students per teacher than the preferred rate of about 27 students per teacher. Student and teaching materials have been cut back.

Spear said it is essential that the 2.6 millage passes and that the situation at Winchester Elementary is a strain both on the children and the teachers

"I recognize and respect the attitude of the community toward what it costs to run an educational program," Superintendent Spear said. "We have tried diligently to maintain costs at as low a level as possible and to still provide quality education."

"Schools and education are the pride of a community," Superintendent Spear said. "I strongly feel that to be refused the 2.6 increase cannot help, but hurt the community as a whole."

He also said that the school district has tightened its financial belt, that there is elbow room available in the Northville schools, but the 2.6 millage is needed to put that available space into use.

Spear acknowledged that he is not particularly proud of the fact that his eighth year as superintendent of Northville schools opened with the district facing a deficit of $154,163. Spear said he is committed to liquidating that deficit during the 1975-76 school year, and accepts the responsibility for its

The deficit, Spear said, cannot be traced to one problem, but is instead the result of several conditions. One of the items on this list is the rising costs of both goods and labor which hit the school district along with the rest of the country.

Another difficulty was caused by the performance of the former director of business and finance of the Northville Schools. He was submitting inaccurate budget reports to the board of education. Subsequently he resigned the position and the duties of the office were reassigned to other administrators.

"I certainly accept the responsibility and stand accountable," Spear said. "I should have watched him more closely. In my own defense, the business manager worked for me for better than seven years, we were paying him $25,000 per year, and there didn't seem to be any reason to watch him."

Spear said that with the election being held in November, when more school oriented people are in the community and not on vacation, instead of in the summer, there is a better chance of its passage.

Here's Where To Cast Votes

Two changes in locations of polling places for precincts will be in effect for Northville School District's millage election tomorrow, Thursday.

The changes were made following completion of the two new elementary schools, Silver Springs and Winchester, enabling voters to cast ballots at locations within their precincts.

Precinct Two will vote at Silver Springs Elementary School, 19801 Silver Spring Drive, instead of the previous location at Amerman Elementary School. The precinct includes the area north of Seven Mile Road, west of South Main to the east border of the district, south of Eight Mile Road.

Precinct Three will now vote at Winchester Elementary School, 16141 Winchester Drive, instead of the previous location at the administration office. The precinct includes the area south of Seven Mile Road to the eastern and southern borders of the district, and west of Northville Road.

Other precincts and their locations are:

Precinct One — Votes at the Central Board Office, 303 West Main. It includes the area east of Beck Road, north of Seven Mile Road, south of Novi Road, south of Eight Mile Road once you get to the northwest portion of Randolph Street, and west of Center Street.

Precinct Four—Votes at Amerman Elementary School, 847 North Center Street. Area includes that north of Eight Mile, north of Novi Road once past the northwest portion of Randolph Street, west of Beck Road (excluding Northville Estates), to the northeast boundary of the district and the northern boundary of the district.

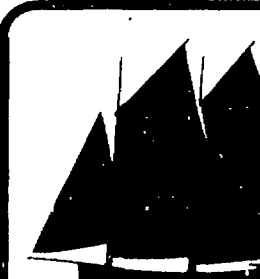

Precinct Five — Votes at the Central Board Office, 303 West Main. Includes area south of Seven Mile Road, east of Northville Road, to the western and southern boundaries of the district.

Precinct Six — Votes at Moraine Elementary School, 46811 Eight Mile Road. Includes area west of Beck Road, north of Seven Mile Road, including Northville Estates, to the northern and western boundaries of the district.

Professional men, engineers and the like, better heed the warnings apparent in the actions of the U.S. House Ways and Means Committee.

For the third time in a month this committee has voted high curbs on tax deductions for travel and attendance at foreign conventions. By a vote of 19 to 15 the committee moved to restrict deductions to conventions, meetings and seminars held in North America, including Canada, Mexico, Bermuda and the Caribbean. Since the Committee Chairman Al Ullman voted with the majority you can be sure these changes will be in the final bill.

Another example of the changing attitudes of our lawmakers was the agreement to disallow any deductions for shipboard conventions (cruise ships).

While all members of professional societies will violently disagree with me, I think these steps are in the right direction. It's a leveling procedure making Mr. Average John Doe equal to the doctors' and lawyers' income tax privileges.

I thought Pan Am's slogan, "It's easier for you to remember where we don't go," was a negative statement. Pan Am must have thought so, too. It's been changed to "America's Airline to the World."

If you plan on a vacation to Hawaii, you should be aware that the fare has increased by 4 percent on some airlines. You can save about 30 to 40 percent of your total trip costs by pre-scheduling on an O.T.C.

If you are travelling in Mexico, Panama, the Caribbean or South America, it is advisable to select the newer hotels whenever you possibly can. Repair and maintenance always has been at a low level in these places. In some countries, especially Mexico, a new hotel will have a grand opening one year and three or four years later show signs of decay. For instance, Club de Pesca and Pierre Marques at Acapulco, once very beautiful, are far different today.

Big Trees

Michigan's No. 2 Behind Florida with 60 Champions

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

Only one state boasts more national champion trees than Michigan and its number one status may be a fluke.

The national leader is Florida, which has some 70 champs today — about 10 more than Michigan, according to Paul W. Thompson, Cranbrook Institute of Science research ecologist.

Michigan's unofficial Big Tree Expert, Thompson has been searching for, measuring and marking outstanding Michigan trees for 20 years as chairman of the tree division of the Michigan Botanical Club.

"For several years Michigan was the national leader; it had more champion trees than any other state in the Union," Thompson told this newspaper. "Then Florida went to work and discovered all kinds of big trees that grow nowhere else except in the semi-tropical section of Florida. They don't grow in other states so they're automatically champions."

All Michigan trees, on the other hand, are found in other states — and many of Michigan's trees grow in all parts of the country.

Two national champions and one former national champion are located in this area. Two are located in Novi, another in Northville.

In addition, four other trees in this region are state champions only and at least two are former state champions.

Holding down national honors are a prickly-ash (Zanthoxylum americanum), located in Cass Benton Park in Northville Township; and a Norway spruce (P. abies), located in the front yard of the Code residence at 21937 Novi Road — right next door, incidentally, to a former state champion black walnut that Thompson thinks may be a finer looking tree than the Macomb County champion.

Both of these national champs are, of course, state champions as well. The four which are state champions only are:

Apricot (Prunus armeniaca), 5856 M-36, west of Pinckney; sweet crab (M. coronaria), intersection of Haggerty Road and the Middle Rouge; European mountain ash (S. aucuparia), at West Washington and Gordon in Howell; and a yellowwood (Cladrastis lutea), located on the library lawn in Howell at Center and Grand River.

The former national champion that several years ago lost its title to a Mt. Clemens giant is a dying black maple (Acer nigrum), estimated to be the oldest tree in this vicinity, located one-half mile northeast of the Novi-Nine Mile road intersection.

Among the former state champions is a black walnut (Juglans nigra), located near the back door of Dr. Waldo Johnson's home at 22047 Novi Road; and a white Mulberry (M. alba), located in the backyard of the E.A. Chapman home at the Northville corner of High and Randolph.

State champions are based on only girth data. National champions, however, are determined by a special formula of the American Forestry Association that involves girth, height and crown spread.

The formula is a point system calculated by adding the girth (in inches) at 4½ feet above ground level, the height (in feet), and one-fourth of the average crown spread (in feet).

According to Thompson, the current Michigan listing includes 38 species with girths exceeding 15 feet. Twelve trees possess circumferences of more than 20 feet and three exceed 25 feet in girth. The listing shows 32 trees with heights surpassing 100 feet and eight trees exceed 125 feet.

The tallest tree is a tulip-tree in Cass County with a height of 189 feet. A white pine in the Huron Mountains ranks second with height of 186 feet, and

Search For Oil A Must

An expanded search for new oil and gas fields on the U.S. Outer Continental Shelf is urgently needed since three-fourths of the nation's 1985 oil and gas needs will have to come either from imports or U.S. fields not yet discovered, a Mobil Oil Corporation executive said.

Al Van Nice told the Northville Rotary Club that the urgency for an early beginning is evident when we consider the lead time involved — from four to more than 10 years — from the time

CHURCH ARTIST—Standing in the nursery he decorated at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Northville, Walt Wilhelm displays a

Plaques Crafted for Bazaar

Retired Artist Works for Church

A hand-painted eagle sign rimmed with 50 stars is an original Bicentennial souvenir created by Walt Wilhelm of Northville for sale at the annual holiday bazaar Friday, November 7, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Northville at 201 Elm Street.

Wilhelm, a retired commercial artist, has been using his talents to help his church.

The 17-inch round pineboard plaque is inscribed 1776-1976. The artist will have two on display at the church bazaar being held from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will take orders for them.

The colorful circles could be used on houses or barns, he explains, much as the hex signs are that he made for last year's bazaar. All profits go to the church.

Wilhelm's work is evident throughout the church, starting with the wooden plaques that decorate the double red doors at the entrance.

He also has just completed a mural covering all four walls of the church nursery. Some panels have Walt Disney characters but others are filled with Wilhelm's own figures, including a child in a bright patchwork dress. He also designed a contemporary Noah's ark complete with American flag and television antenna.

Wilhelm and his wife moved to King's Mill in Northville where his daughter, Mrs. Richard (Gretchen) Green, lives. They came from a home in Orchard Lake three years ago and are proof that retirement doesn't need to mean "sitting and watching television."

The Wilhelms volunteer two days a week, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, at the church. While Mrs. Wilhelm posts attendance records, her husband has been busy with painting projects.

He's also designed a humorous sign of a man with three pairs of eyes captioned, "Drinking Again?"

His signs will be on sale at the bazaar along with items made by church women in workshops this fall. Ceramics, toys, doll clothes, Christmas decorations, wrapping paper and cards, plants and baked goods will be featured.

Luncheon will be available for bazaar visitors. Mrs. Norman Witt is chairman.

Novi Baptists Hold Conference

First Baptist Church of Novi will hold its annual missionary conference at the church beginning Sunday, November 9, and running through next Wednesday.

Conference speakers will be the Reverend Joel Kettenring, Dr. Alexander de Chalandeau and the Reverend Gordon Johnston.

Special services will begin Sunday at 9:45 a.m. when Reverend Kettenring will meet with junior high and high school Sunday School classes while Dr. de Chalandeau speaks to adults. The 11 a.m. message will be given by Reverend Kettenring. At 6 p.m. Sunday Dr. de Chalandeau meets with junior and senior highs.

"Field Focus," a slide program will be presented at 7 p.m. Sunday by Reverend Kettenring with a "Missionary Memory" following. Dr. de Chalandeau will give the message.

"Field Focus" programs will be given Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. A harvest supper will be held at 6:30 p.m. next Wednesday. Special music for the conference will be under the direction of the Reverend Gene Gossett. The nursery will be open during all services except the harvest supper.

The conference speakers are from the Baptist Mid-Missions with headquarters in Cleveland. It has 1000 missionaries serving in 33 countries and has as its primary goal proclamation of the gospel and establishment of indigenous local churches.

Reverend Kettenring, a missionary to Jamaica in the West Indies, is candidate secretary of the Baptist Mid-Missions, a native Ohioan and the son of a minister. He was chairman for nine years of the Bible department at Pillsbury Baptist Bible College, Owatonna, Minnesota.

He has a BS degree from Bryan University in Dayton, Tennessee, a master of Divinity from Grace Theological Seminary and a master of Theology from Central Theological Seminary. In his present post he is involved in college campus ministries and mission conferences.

Dr. de Chalandeau, a native of France, has for 18 years ministered there in church-planting work. In recent months he has begun preaching in the Russian language over the Monte Carlo radio station. Messages are heard in Russia and Siberia.

His parents came to France from Russia during the Soviet Revolution. His father was pastor of a Russian Baptist Church in Paris. During the 1920's his mother was a missionary in Poland and Russia.

The speaker received his early education in France and spent more than two years in a Russian high school. He received a scholarship in 1948 to study at Northwestern College and Theological Seminary in Minneapolis, where he received his BA and BD degrees. His doctorate is from Northern Baptist Theological Seminary.

He now is working on his Ph.D. at the University of Strasbourg, France, writing his dissertation on the Baptists in Russia.

Reverend Johnston is a missionary appointee to Fortaleza, Brazil, under the mid-missions. He will be involved in a school for missionary children.

He was graduated from Grand Valley State College and received his masters in religious education at Grand Rapids Theological Seminary. He was instrumental in establishing a Christian day school in Grand Rapids, serving for the first year as principal and teacher.

Sunshine: Your Plant Insurance

By KATHY COPLEY

What with the boom in houseplants, it is becoming essential to protect your plant investment with proper care. The most difficult life need to provide is proper sunlight.

Just how much light is moderate diffused light? To a houseplant, just what is full sun? To know what light is best for what plant, and to know just what kind of light your various windows provide, beg, borrow or buy a photographic light meter and go to work.

Set the film speed at ASA 100 and aim the meter at a white piece of paper placed in the approximate location of the plant leaf surface. Check the shutter speed reading which appears at f4. This number (125, 60, 250, etc.) approximates foot candles of illumination. An exposure of 1-125 sec. represents 125 foot candles.

Measure the light intensity in all the areas in which you might put a plant. As you move away from the light source, the light intensity will naturally diminish.

Intensity will also vary with the seasons of the year. Winter sun is weaker than summer sun, but the bare trees of winter will allow more sun through a south window than the fully leafed trees of summer.

Some rough approximations of readings to expect are: 250 foot candles (or a suggested exposure at f4 of 1-250) for a bay window on the south side of the house; 250 for a west upstairs window; 300-500 for a south upstairs window; 64-125 for a well shaded porch.

Most north-facing windows provide light which could be described as semi-shade, with a foot candle reading 65-250. This means bright, open light, but little or no direct sun. The majority of plants which do well in this amount of light are foliage plants. Consider using:

- | | | |
|--|---|--|
| Aspidistra
Chinese Evergreen
Dracaena
Impatiens
Achimenes
Nepenthes | Christmas Cactus
Palms
Cissus
Bromeliads
Ficus
Pilea | Diffenbachia
Peperomia
Norfolk Island Pine
Anthurium
Snake Plant
Pandanus
Piggy Back Plant |
|--|---|--|

East and west windows are considered semi-sunny, with 2-5 hours of direct sunlight per day in winter. In terms of foot candles, the range is 250-500. Plants which thrive here are:

- | | | |
|---|---|---|
Shrimp Plant
Ivy
Philodendron
Begonia
Swedish Ivy
Zebra Plant | Bird's Nest Fern
Holly Fern
Grape Ivy
Prayer Plant
Caladium
Pilea
Tolmiea | Cyclamen
African Violets
Episcia
Saxifraga
String of Pearls
Rosary Vine
|---|---|---|

A sunny window is one which gets 5 hours of sunlight or more in winter. For the most part, this would be a southeast, south, or southwest window. In foot candles as measured by the photo light meter, this is 500-4,000. For these spots:

- | | | |
|---|--|--|
| Bamboo
Echeveria
Herbs Kalanchoe
Sedum
Stone Plants
Swedish Ivy | Oxalis
Aloe vera
Croton
Gloxinia
Polka Dot Plant
Petaragonium
False Aralia
Gardenia | Coleus
Episcia
Hoya
Ivy
Spider Plant
Cissus
Geranium |
|---|--|--|

There are some factors which change light intensity; seasons, trees outside the windows in question, weather, curtains are just a few. Direct sunlight produces 8,000 foot candles of illumination. The light intensity 5' away from such a window is approximately 125 foot candles.

White sheer curtains decrease the amount of direct light hitting a plant, but increase the amount of light at 5' from 125 to 250 foot candles.

What can you do if a good spot for a plant gets no direct light, just enough indirect light to cast a shadow? There are some plants which will tolerate these conditions:

- | | | |
| Aspidistra
Ferns
Dracaena
Syngonium | Chinese Evergreen
Diffenbachia
Liriope
Pothos | English Ivy
Ficus
Philodendron
Nepenthes |
|--|--|---|

Don't let any of this information discourage you from giving a plant a try in a spot not entirely suited to it. Many plants do well, or at least hold their own, in a wide variety of light conditions.

At the first sign of yellowing leaves or long, leafless stretches of stems, move the plant to a spot which has more ideal conditions. A yellowing pilea, currently in a sunny spot, needs a move to a less bright area. A yellowing coleus needs more sun.

Few plants give an immediate reaction to their surroundings. Maidenhair ferns can die while you watch them, but they are the exception. In most cases, you have weeks or months before you have to shift locations.

Produces Plantlets

Kalanchoe Is Ranked

Since the introduction of several new varieties developed in Germany, the kalanchoe (kal'-un-CO-ee) has moved from the "not recommended" list of houseplants to the ranks of the desirable.

The new varieties, according to Michigan State University horticulturists who have been evaluating them, are easy to care for and will withstand some abuse. They are also available with yellow and purple-pink flowers in addition to the standard red blossoms.

Kalanchoe plants come originally from Madagascar. They are succulent plants—that is, they have fleshy leaves and can go some time between waterings.

An interesting feature of some kalanchoes is their habit of producing plantlets, complete with roots, along the serrated edges of their leaves.

Depending on the variety, your kalanchoe can be propagated either by rooting leaves, or potting plantlets.

Terrariums

Creating Mini-Gardens

Raising plants in enclosed environments has become the rage across the United States.

Although Terrariums top the popularity list, there's an imaginative range of ways you can create your own garden in miniature, even your own thimble garden.

Mini-gardens can flourish in glass bubble bowls, jars, cognac snifters, fish tanks, in bottles and dishes. In the larger containers, you can create your own landscape design to portray a favorite scene from nature: a woodland setting, mountain environment, desert or seascape.

In the new book, "House Plants Indoors-Outdoors," latest in the Ortho garden series, there's information and inspiration on growing a variety of miniature gardens. For example:

If you want to develop your own mini-garden, it's best to make your selection of plants from those that grow and stay small or, as a second choice, from those that grow slowly. In a terrarium or glass bottle, desirable plants include small ferns; miniature gloxinias; strawberry-geranium; small cryptanthus or earth stars; miniature rex begonias.

True miniature plants abound. The miniature gloxinias and their hybrids are the most nearly perfect, but there are also miniature African violets, miniature begonias, geraniums, ivies, even orchids.

Once you have a good idea of the plants you want, the receptacle to house them, and the effect you want to create, here are some do's and don'ts from "House Plants Indoors-Outdoors," now available at local garden centers:

Don't be misled by the notion that terrariums require little or no care. Most plants not only need some bright sunlight each day but also water and routine maintenance to keep in good shape.

Don't fall into the trap of using herb plants when you create your terrarium garden. These are good pot plants, but need a sunny window, superior drainage, and fresh, circulating air to be healthy.

Do line the bottom of your terrarium (most have no drainage holes) with a layer of charcoal chips about one-half inch deep. Then add about one inch of potting soil.

If you have selected a commercially available soil labeled for terrarium use and find that it is too dense, too rich or too moisture retentive, just add some vermiculite or perlite.

Do give your imagination

Allstate brings you "Stretch Out" auto financing.

With 42 long months to pay for your new car, you pay less each month.

And good things happen if you check with Allstate before you buy.

Your Allstate Agent can arrange auto financing quick and easy, if you qualify, and at competitive rates.

And now, you can stretch the payments over 42 months, if you wish, on new car financing of $5,000 or more. The lower monthly payments may even make the whole deal possible for you to swing.

Important: Before you buy that car, new or used, see an Allstate Agent first. You could save important money on the financing, compared to many car dealers—banks, too. And then, with the financing available, you'll be in a better position to get the best deal.

Here's how low your monthly payments can be with Allstate new car financing that includes credit life.

YOU GET	Annual Percentage Rate	36 Months	42 Months
$2,000	10.75%	$65.46 mo. (Total: $2,356.56)

$5,000	10.75%	$163.66 mo. (Total: $5,931.76)	$145.82 mo. (Total: $6,121.41)

Phone Allstate... (look in the White Pages of your phone book) to arrange for your financing. If you've already picked out the make and model, we can give you the details right over the phone.

If you're still shopping... 1. Call or come in now and ask your Allstate Agent to arrange for an "Allstate Preferred" card. 2. When you've decided on the exact car, we'll have the amount you need ready for you.

Credit life insurance pays the balance in the event of the borrower's death. Financing for boat and recreational vehicles also available. Up to 84 months for qualified applicants. Check with an Allstate Agent for rates. Allstate Enterprises Inc. and Subsidiaries, Northbrook, IL.

Mini-Gardens

full sway as you create your garden landscape. If you're portraying a remembrance from summer days in the woods, consider using a shallow container of water to represent the lake. For a desert scene, simulate the drama of the Southwest with different layers of colored sand, pebbles, soil, charcoal chips or even pieces of pulverized clay. For a mountain setting, include some lightweight stone such as Featherrock.

There's a new kind of challenge for plant lovers in creating a thimble garden with miniature plants. As "House Plants Indoors-Outdoors" points out "Growing miniature plants in tiny containers is the height of Lilliputian gardening. It is possible to have living, thriving, even flowering plants in dollhouse dishes, caps of toothpaste, 1 1/4-inch plastic pots and even thimbles."

Cacti — with their fascinating shapes, textures, and colors — are splendid candidates for your thimble garden, esthetically and practically. They naturally adapt to a warm, dry setting.

Other delightful possibilities include rosary vine, miniature creeping fig, miniature varieties of English Ivy, miniature gloxinias and African violets.

As you start your thimble garden:

Do plant the thimble with one-eighth inch of space at the top for frequent watering.

Do use fine-textured potting soil and, once every two or three weeks, add just a few drops of dilute liquid houseplant food.

Don't let the soil dry out. Check it twice a day, in the morning and in the evening. When it is dry, water the soil with an eyedropper or better still, emerge thimble, soil, roots and all in water.

Don't let your tiny plants get out of hand as they grow. Apply careful pinching or pruning. Manicure scissors will do the trick as pruning shears.

Keweenaw Beckons

Windshield tourists, campers, hikers, history buffs and even metallurgists will find the 127-mile stretch of the Lake Superior shoreline from the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula to the Porcupine Mountains offering more points of interest than almost any stretch of road in the state, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Besides unmatched scenery, the northwest corner of the Upper Peninsula offers attractions such as an unspoiled national park, a near-primeval state park, a 131-year-old fort, plus a chance to see and learn about the importance of copper to the area's economy.

"Keweenaw, uppermost portion of the state, is the smallest county in the U.P., but its 90 miles of Great Lakes shoreline is more than will be found in any other Michigan county," said Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager. "The shoreline ranges from rocky and rugged to safe, sandy beach sections."

Down this narrow peninsula runs a slender finger of land averaging three to five miles in width, the famed Copper Range, scene of the nation's first copper mining activity.

Mining companies once prospered in Keweenaw County, but only ghost towns remind of copper's importance to the area today. Central, founded in 1854, is rated one of the best deserted copper towns for the tourist by Auto Club. Row after row of houses there are deserted, unpainted, but still defy time.

The Copper Country also is a mecca for the rock hunter, with agates, copper, thompsonite, datolite and other specimens plentiful along the Lake Superior shoreline. At Great Sand Bay, between Eagle River and Eagle Harbor, beaches and banks are scattered with glazed, multi-colored stones.

A few miles south of Copper Harbor, at Agate Harbor, visitors can continue along the shoreline of M-26 or take the highway which branches off inland, the famous nine-mile-long Brockway Drive, one of the nation's most scenic highways.

The view from the top of Brockway Mountain is breathtaking. To the east, south and west are hills of a worn-down mountain range, valleys and lakes, while to the north is Lake Superior, 650 feet below. Great Lakes freighters appear as bathtub toys in the distance.

A mile east of Copper Harbor is historic Fort Wilkins, where M-26 ends. The fort, now part of a state park, has 14 of its original wood buildings still intact. Built in 1844 to protect miners against the Indians, it never was needed.

Copper Harbor, onetime chief port for the Copper Country but now a resort town, is a gateway to Isle Royale National Park, 50 miles off the mainland in Lake Superior. A Boat makes a round-trip daily except Sunday. The other gateway is Houghton, port of a Park Service motor ship, and also the takeoff point for plane service to the island.

Isle Royale offers a wilderness area which perhaps can't be matched. Second largest island in the Great Lakes, it is about 45 miles long and nine miles to less than a mile in width, with a rugged shoreline and numerous picturesque crags and ridges.

The park, only one in the national park system made up entirely of islands, has 160 miles of foot trails, numerous campgrounds and two lodges. There are no roads or automobiles. It's something special for nature lovers and hikers, with abundant flowers and fauna, and opportunity to glimpse moose, beavers and other animals. Other activities include visiting historic copper mines, fishing, camping and boating.

Along the Lake Superior shoreline, 127 miles from Copper Harbor, are the Porcupine Mountains, a majestic 58,000-acre wilderness with towering stands of virgin pine and hemlock, four secluded lakes and miles of wild rivers and streams. There are more than 80 miles of foot trails, some with rustic trailside cabins for rent. Many trails lead to spectacular mountain overlooks and Lake Superior vistas. It's a back-packer's paradise and is full of birds, waterfowl, deer and bear.

The park's feature attraction is famous Lake of the Clouds, below the tree-studded peaks, but easily accessible after parking your car at the foot of the trail inside the park.

For those who want to see as much beauty as possible through a car windshield, South Boundary Road extends east west along the park's southern boundary before going north to join M-107.

Tribute to Stan

(Well-known South Lyon pharmacist Stanley Spencer passed away recently)

I can remember the years long gone,
When South Lyon town was small.
Kids would gather, not on streets,
On fields with bat and ball.
We were young and no one cared
For work or even school.
Summer days would bring the heat
And sprinklers kept us cool.

Those were the days of Stan the Man
Who kept the Rexall store.
He had a soda fountain there,
You couldn't ask for more.
You'd enter in for coke or cone
And Stan was always there,
Watching you with eye of hawk
To keep your pockets bare.

Years have gone and now I hear
The passing of ol' Stan.
I hope the Lord and all his hosts
Are there to take his hand.
I know this town can not forget
The many things he's done.
I'm sure that men will take his place
But he'll stay number one.

Edward A. Beckstein

Untitled

The thorns and thistles tear our earthly flesh
So that we bleed from wounds that deeply scar
And hurt, as each of us beholds a mesh
Of love and hate, entangled with some fear.
To separate this tangled web that we call life
Seems more than I can ever learn to do.
The strands are woven tight with love and strife;
The complex pattern so beclouds my view.
We see each other as we wish they were;
Too late we realize the devious flight
And try to make a wandering mind confer
To what is true, evading clouded sight.
I ache internally with faults of thine;
Could not you please o're look these errs of mine?

Consequence

We live a life of contrasts
In our thoughts, our words and deeds;
We would never know the harvests
If it were not for our needs.

We would not know of joy
If sorrows were unknown;
Life alone would pall us
With no varying of tone.

If we never traveled outward
Beyond our own threshold,
Our vision would be blinded
To the wonders of the world.

If we do not heed the guidance
Of the voice that speaks within,
Will we ever know the purpose
Of a life that might have been?

Anxiety

What takes place in a mother's heart
When her daughters begin to grow?
We wish for them to grow up smart
And yet we want them to grow up slow

How proud we are when they achieve success
As a cheerleader, or on a talent show
It's hard for a mother not to confess, to all around,
"That's my daughter you know"

In a parade to see her swinging a baton
I want to call out straighten your line,
It's part of a mother's pride right on
But of course we know she's doing just fine

When report cards show they're honor roll
You almost have to tell someone
But you also know they've made their goal
Even though they are having fun

When she plays her guitar with her amp on high
You want someone to hear,
But you also know you breath a sigh
When the notes all disappear.

Search For Oil A Must

the government initiates an offshore lease sale to when actual production of oil or gas begins.

Van Nice, Detroit district manager, said U.S. consumption of oil and gas will continue to rise — even with strong conservation efforts, a one per cent per-year population growth, and "substantially more" coal and nuclear power becoming available.

He said the U.S. is now consuming 28 million barrels of oil equivalents each day, and this will increase to 32 million barrels per day by 1985. At the same time, he said production from proved domestic reserves will drop from 21 million barrels per day to only nine million.

"That means 23 million barrels per day, or three-fourths of what we need, will have to come either from increased imports, or increased domestic production," he explained.

To increase domestic production and reduce the nation's dependency on foreign oil, Van Nice said "the vast and little explored offshore areas of the Outer Continental Shelf offer the largest and most significant potential."

"Mobil estimates that oil and gas there could equal almost half as much as the U.S. has produced in its entire history," he declared. "Of course, there is simply no way to know how much oil and gas may exist in an area until it is extensively explored and drilled."

Van Nice said there are three areas off the East Coast that appear attractive for exploration — the Georges Bank east of Cape Cod, the Baltimore Trough off the Mid-Atlantic Coast, and the Blake Plateau off the southeastern states. But he emphasized "it's unlikely that wells would be drilled within 30 miles of Long Island, or 50 miles of Cape Cod."

The Mobil executive said opinion research indicates that the public is generally in favor of offshore drilling — because most people recognize the need for more oil and gas in the future.

In a nationwide survey last fall, Opinion Research Corporation found 74 per cent "strongly" or "mildly" in favor of offshore drilling, he said. The research firm of Oxtoby-Smith Inc., interviewed 500 community leaders in eight East and Gulf coast cities last summer, and found 71 per cent agreed with the statement: "On balance, the benefits to the U.S. of offshore drilling outweigh the disadvantages."

ranking third is a Lenawee County sycamore at 157 feet.

In Michigan, white pines generally show the greatest heights, with sycamores, elms, and cottonwoods also possessing exceptional heights, Thompson said.

Incidentally, Michigan's state tree, the white pine, holds the national title. Its namesake is a giant of a tree growing in the Porcupine Mountain State Park near the Little Carp River.

As a group, according to Thompson, willows show the greatest girth; this group claims nine national champions in the state. Cottonwoods also are often very large, the state champ showing a girth of 309 inches. Oaks also rank high in trunk circumference, and Michigan has six species as national champs.

The maples claim five champion species for the state

Michigan used to boast dozens of elms with girths of nearly 300 inches. Today, however, because of the Dutch Elm Disease, there are none approaching that size. In fact, noted the Cranbrook ecologist, the white elm listed in the 1975 champion tree brochure has since died. Located in Marquette, it had a girth of 232 inches.

Thompson estimates that the oldest trees in Michigan may be the white cedars growing on South Manitou Island. Rings of a smaller tree that had fallen, he said, showed it to be 530 years old. "It had been down for some 40 years, and when compared with the others still living we estimate that some of them may be 700 years old."

NORTHVILLE SQUARE shopping center at 133 West Main Street in Northville has planned three special events for this week.

A free talk on selection and care of house plants will be given at 7 p.m. Thursday on the lower level of the square. It is sponsored by Tony Alessio, owner of Giovanni's Gallery on the lower level. Originally started as an art gallery, the shop began stocking plants to accent the art and found a demand for both.

Saturday, November 8, at 1:30 p.m. the square is sponsoring a free do-it-yourself Christmas flower arranging demonstration. This is to be on the upper level and will comprise suggestions by O'Connor's Gardens on how to arrange flowers for the holidays.

Also on the upper level of the square will be an exhibit by the Michigan State Police which will feature drawings of the planned new Northville post being built on Seven Mile Road.

A snowmobile display is planned for the week of November 9-15 with new models to be on view on both levels. A travel party focusing on cruises is planned for November 13 without charge.

No Artistic Success But Still A Victory

It wasn't a Rembrandt or Picasso masterpiece. It was probably more like the wild splattering of a Jackson Pollock.

But the 14-0 score at South Lyon was a Novi Varsity football victory and lately those have seemed as rare as a master painting.

The victory at South Lyon gives Novi a 3-5 record overall and a 3-4 mark against Southeastern Conference competition.

"About our overall play," Novi Varsity Head Football Coach John Osborne said, "it was no artistic success. But the final result was nothing to argue with."

The Wildcats scored two touchdowns and held South Lyon at bay throughout the game to gain the victory.

Andy McComas scored the first Novi touchdown on a two yard run. Ben Galyon kicked the extra point. The touchdown was set up by one of the two completed passes Novi had during the night. It was as 18 yard throwing play from Randy Wroten to John Pisha. Pisha made a fine grab between two South Lyon players before being tackled on the two yard line. The score came later in the second quarter.

Tom Morris scored Novi's second touchdown early in the third quarter on a 33 yard run. Galyon again booted the extra point.

The Wildcats had a total offense of 247 yards against South Lyon. They gained 225 yards on the ground and 22 yards in the air.

Novi had a balanced rushing attack with Doug Majer leading the pack with 62 yards in 13 attempts. McComas had 57 yards in 13 attempts, Wroten gained 40 yards in 13 attempts and Morris had 42 yards in 6 attempts.

Wroten completed two of five passes. Both of the completions were to Pisha. The Wildcats did have their rough moments, however.

They fumbled on four occasions, losing possession of the football every time.

"I was disappointed with our offensive line play," Osborne said. "We could have played better. We had trouble identifying our blocks and as a result we broke down a lot on offense."

Defensively it was a different story for the Wildcats. They played an alert game, grabbing one South Lyon fumble and intercepting three passes.

South Lyon threatened to score only once in the game. That was early in the first quarter when the Lions recovered one of Novi's fumbles and took the football to the 18 yard line. They stalled there and tried a field goal which fell short of its mark.

"I was pleased with our defensive efforts," Osborne said. "Other than that one drive the kids played real well on defense. Anytime you shut a team out and they had only one scoring opportunity — that's a good effort."

South Lyon also fumbled four times in the game, under the hard hitting Novi defense. The Lions lost the football only one of those times when Maier recovered the loose ball.

Novi defenders also raised trouble with the South Lyon passing game. Wildcats intercepted three passes with Mark Mills, Ken Kardel and Jon Buck each grabbing one South Lyon aerial.

This Friday against Airport, in Carlton, Novi will close out its varsity football season.

TOP CAT—Northville Varsity Football Top Cat Randy Wroten (1) runs around end on an option play from his quarterback position. As the South Lyon player (65) advances toward Wroten, Novi teammate Andy McComas (24) moves into position for a pitch out. McComas scored one of the touchdowns in Novi's 14-0 victory over South Lyon.

Four Northville Players Voted to League Squad

Northville finished the Western Six Conference football season in fourth place and last Wednesday coaches of the league's schools voted four Mustang gridders onto the league's All-league football team.

Two Northville players were on the offensive team and two were on the defensive team.

Offensively Scott Travers, a 6-2, 200 pound senior, was selected as the first team center. Northville filled another position on the line as Dave Holland, a 6-0, 190 pound senior, was voted to the team at a tackle position.

Gary Winemaster made the defensive team at the end position. Winemaster is a 6-3, 210 pound senior. It was quite an honor for Winemaster who missed the first couple games of the season with an injury.

Bill Piccolo, who was injured two weeks ago and will be unable to play the rest of the season, received quite an honor when he was named to the linebacker position on the Western Six team.

Other members of the Western Six team are: Offensive team; Livonia Churchill quarterback Mike Streicher; Farmington Harrison halfback Paul Rogind; Farmington Harrison halfback Mike Bowden; Livonia Churchill halfback Matt Foster; Livonia Churchill end Jim Wright; Farmington Harrison end Rob Brancheau; Livonia Churchill tackle George Bielis; Waterford Mott guard Kim Simmons; and Livonia Churchill guard Scott Levitan.

The defensive team included: Livonia Churchill end John Curran; Waterford Mott tackle Fred Warner; Farmington Harrison tackle Bill Blackmer; Waterford Mott nose guard Joe Palace; Livonia Churchill linebacker Mike Welch; Plymouth Canton linebacker John Young; Farmington Harrison halfback Rick Yarber; Farmington Harrison halfback Bob Thomson; and Waterford Mott halfback Tim Cooper.

Northville had a 2-3 record in league play. They have done a little better against non-league competition, running up a 5-3 record overall.

Six Northville players received honorable mention honors on the All-league team. They were: Bruce McGlory at defensive halfback, Mark Morland at defensive nose guard, Eric Lampela at quarterback, Greg Harper at flanker, Mark Gross at guard, and Jim Eaker at defensive end.

Runs, Passes for Four TD's

Lampela Has Field Day

Shouts and howls may have scared wary trick or treaters but Milford's varsity football team found the noise didn't frighten Northville from scoring five touchdowns and winning an easy 34-8 decision, last Friday at Milford.

The Mustangs raised their season record to a 5-3 mark a week after finishing the league season with a frustrating 2-3 record.

"The kids played real well," Northville Varsity Football Head Coach Chuck Shonta said. "We got a chance to play everybody, including kids who never played. It was the first time this year we could really substitute and have fun. We weren't tense every moment of the game like we have been the past three or four weeks."

Senior quarterback Eric Lampela led the scoring barrage with three touchdown runs and one scoring pass. Lampela was also the leading rusher with 43 yards on the ground and he completed four of nine passes for 124 yards.

Lampela kicked off the scoring with a one yard run with 3:20 left in the first quarter. The Mustangs successfully converted three third down situations on that 54 yard scoring drive, including a third down pass from Lampela to Gary Winemaster for 21 yards.

An intercepted pass gave Northville field position for its next touchdown. Winemaster hit the Milford quarterback as he was passing and Mark Morland intercepted the ball for the Mustangs. A few plays later Lampela was again crossing the end zone, this time from two yards out, with 11:57 to play in the second quarter.

Northville's defense accounted for the next touchdown when Dave Holland burst through the Milford line, blocked a punt, caught the football, and raced 27 yards for the score. There was 5:34 left to play in the second quarter when Scott Travers booted the extra point, his first in three attempts that night.

The defense aided in setting up another Northville touchdown in the final moments of the first half. Mark Gross intercepted a pass inside Milford territory. Eight plays later, with 1:27 left in the first half, Lampela again crossed the goal line, this time on a ten yard run. Travers booted the extra point to give Northville a commanding 26-0 halftime lead.

After receiving the second half kickoff Northville added to the lead when Lampela connected with Winemaster for a touchdown. Winemaster made a fine catch between the defenders and raced 51 yards for the touchdown. Bruce McGlory ran the points after touchdown.

Northville began substituting liberally after that touchdown. The coaches got a look at Greg Armstrong at the quarterback position and Dennis Singleton was able to get some running experience for the first time since an early season injury.

"It's frustrating to sit on the bench when you practice all year and you can't play Friday night," Shonta said.

Milford was able to move the football a little more successfully against the second stringers. They moved deep into Northville territory as soon as the substitutes got in, but Kevin Corcoran intercepted a pass to stop the drive.

Northville's offense sputtered to a stop and Milford was again on the march. However the substitutes rose to the occasion and stopped Milford short on a fourth down play. It was Doug Harding who made the key tackle on that drive.

Finally Milford scored when Ed Hamlin plunged into the end zone on a one yard run. Steve Varilone added the extra points on an end run.

The Mustangs ran up a net offensive total of 327 yards against Milford. That figure includes 203 yards rushing and 124 yards passing.

Lampela was the leading rusher with 43 yards. Greg Armstrong followed close behind with 42 yards, Rick Marrone had 30 yards, Bruce McGlory had 26 yards, and Dennis Singleton had 22 yards rushing.

Winemaster was the favorite passing target as he caught three passes for a total of 90 yards. McGlory caught one pass on a play which covered 34 yards.

Schoolcraft Shutout Gains Region Title

Schoolcraft's Soccer team earned the first Region 12 soccer title in the school's history and a trip to Inter-Region soccer playoffs with a 4-0 victory over Cuyahoga College West, October 29 at Schoolcraft.

Dominating play throughout the game, the Schoolcraft Ocelots posted an impressive win which raised its record to an 8-1-2 mark.

Northville resident Steve Paul, a strong performer throughout the year, played well in the Cuyahoga win and accounted for one of the Schoolcraft goals when he scored on a penalty shot after 26 minutes had gone by in the first period.

Ennio Petrella was the star of the game as he scored three goals for Schoolcraft, two in the first half and one in the second half.

Schoolcraft Coach Larry Christoff was ecstatic after victory. His team was in control throughout the contest and made 27 shots at the Cuyahoga goal, as compared to only eight shots on goal by the Cuyahoga team. Twenty of Schoolcraft's shots on goal were in the first half.

It was an aggressive game as players were down with injuries five times during the game. Two Schoolcraft players were injured, and it was believed one of them, Rick Young, had a concussion. Two Cuyahoga players were ejected from the game.

Schoolcraft goalie Craig Brown turned in the defensive gem of the game when he prevented a Cuyahoga player from scoring on a penalty shot by blocking the shot and catching the rebound.

Gould Runs His Best at Tourney

Bob Gould finished his junior year of cross country competition by running his best time of the season at the state tournament, last Saturday in Grand Blanc. He finished 22nd among the 147 runners who participated in the event. Gould clocked a 15:42 time over the rolling Grand Blanc course. The individual competition was won by Sam James of Highland Park who finished with a 14:37 time. Northville Cross Country

Coach Ralph Redmond reported that James was the class runner of the field. Redmond added that Gould was a little disappointed with the 22nd place.

"I know he was looking for the top 15 slots which would have given him an all-state situation and a state medal," Redmond said. "He was disappointed when he finished the race but he felt better when he heard his time."

Gould was the only Northville runner participating in the event so the Northville team was out of the running in the team competition. Grosse Pointe North led all the teams with 81 points and Livonia Churchill finished second with 159 points. Northville had finished second in the Western Six Conference competition to the Churchill earlier in the season.

Redmond said that running in the state meet was a good experience for Gould. He reported that Gould ran a good race being up with the top five runners early in the event, but dropping off at the end.

"There were a lot of kids behind him and a few in front of him, and he'll cut that number in front of him next year," Redmond said.

"In the state meet," continued Redmond, "you've got to want to win more than 150 other runners. It's a situation where you have to run a good race at a time when you know you have to run a good race."

The entire Northville team went to Grand Blanc to watch the state cross country event. All but senior Dave Behrens will return to competition for Northville next year.

"It gave them a good opportunity to see the state meet and think about what it would be like to be there as a team," Redmond said. "This is where every cross country kid wants to wind up."

The top three teams from each regional travel to the cross country state competition. In addition, the top 15 runners in each regional advance to state competition.

Athletes of the Week

Eric Lampela

Senior quarterback Eric Lampela is this week's Mustang of the Week. He starred in the varsity football win over Milford by running for three touchdowns and throwing for another touchdown. He had one of his best passing nights of the season, completing four of nine throws for 124 yards. Lampela was the team leader on the field, directing the offense, and covering many third down plays into first downs.

Kathy Biery

Junior swimmer Kathy Biery is this week's Mustang of the Week. Biery has been improving her time all season long and Coach Karen Turner said she seems to be peaking as the team enters league and state tournaments. She swam her lowest time of the season, a 1:00.2 mark in the 100 yard freestyle, for a first place finish against Redford Union last week and was second in that event against Livonia Churchill.

Dede McAllen

Dede McAllen, a Novi varsity basketball player, led Novi to a victory by leading the Wildcats scorers with 15 points against Willow Run. It was a crucial victory, coming after a disappointing loss to Dexter. Novi Basketball Coach Chris Hayward gave McAllen credit for fine play and noted that eight of her points were scored on outside shots.

Jeff Slattery

Jeff Slattery is the Wilcat of the Week. Northville JV's Skunked

Northville's junior varsity football team finished its season on a losing note Thursday as they fell to a team from Walled Lake Western by a 12-0 score.

Walled Lake scored one touchdown in the first quarter on a one yard run and another touchdown in the third quarter on a passing play which covered 32 yards.

The loss leaves the junior varsity team with a 4-3-1 record overall and a 1-3-1 mark against Western Six Conference competition.

"At times we looked pretty good," Northville Junior Varsity Coach Darrel Schumacher said. "At other times we looked bad. We just couldn't mount an offense. I attribute it to inexperience and the loss of two key members to the team during the week."

One of the players lost was injured and the other was brought up to the varsity.

"Not that the kids who filled in didn't do a good job," Coach Schumacher said. "We just lost some leadership on the line."

Northville was very successful passing against Walled Lake. Doug Marzone completed ten of 21 passes for 129 yards and had two intercepted. Jon Horwath caught eight of those passes for 115 yards. Don Borhick caught one pass for five yards and Peter Wright caught the other completion for nine yards.

The Mustangs had 65 yards, rushing for a total of 188 yards against Walled Lake. Dan Davis led the rushers with 33 yards in ten carries. Borhick had 22 yards in 12 carries. Peter Wright had 14 yards in four attempts, and Tim Ellis had three yards in one carry.

Coach Schumacher noted that the competition in the Western Six is evenly matched and therefore hard for one team to have the big offensive night.

VanWagner Reaches 1000

Novi's Jim VanWagner was the offensive star as Michigan Tech crushed Southwest State by an 85-0 score, October 25 in a Northern Intercollegiate Conference football game.

Tailback VanWagner carried the football 42 times for 192 yards and scored five touchdowns. His touchdowns came on runs of seven, seven, one, two, and eight yards. The 192 yards raises his season total yardage to 1,165 his second 1,000 yard rushing season.

Johnston Places Fourth

Norm Norgren got a look at what might happen to Novi's cross country team next year, and he liked what he saw.

Novi's freshmen and sophomore cross country runners competed in the Royal Oak Kimball Invitational for Freshmen and Sophomores, October 28 at Royal Oak. Novi Cross Country Coach Norm Norgren estimated that there were about 200 runners from 20 schools at the meet.

"When I told the kids about it they were excited because they are younger kids and I've had them in varsity competition all year," Coach Norgren said. "They liked the idea of running against kids their own age."

Jeff Johnston finished fourth in the freshman race for Novi. He ran a 16:48 time, his best time of the season. Norgren said that the time is a school record for Novi at an away meet.

Glen Claudel finished 16th in the same race with his best time of the year, 17:45. Tim Smith finished 56th and Paul Young was 60th for Novi.

"Next year looks better already," Coach Norgren said. "If these young boys that we have now stick together, we also have Mark McKenny who will be a senior next year."

Folino Wins Football Contest

Three of the four persons who missed both games in last week's football contest came up winners.

It was the guessed score of the Detroit-San Francisco game that determined the order of the winning contestants.

In first place, having almost hit the score on the nose, was Luigi Folino of 726 West Main Street. The 14-year-old picked Detroit to win by a score of 27-17 when in fact the Lions pulled it out with a 28-17 victory.

Second place was won by Bobby Darrow of 1139 Jeffrey

Drive. Bobby guessed Detroit to win by a score of 24-17.

And in third place was Dave Myers of 18143 Jamestown Circle, a sophomore at Northville High, who had Detroit winning by a score of 21 to 17.

Carl Robertson of 18800 Valencia also had just two mistakes, but his guessed score was not as close as the winners' scores.

Everyone missed the Albion-Hope game since it ended in a tie and no one figured it to be a tie. Only two persons picked Purdue to upset Michigan State.

Other games causing contestants the most difficulty included Wisconsin's 18-9 victory over Illinois and Iowa's 24-21 triumph over Northwestern.

Eight contestants had just three mistakes. They were: Paul Baetz, Tom Graham, Steve Kroetsch, Thomas Wick, John Foley, Marian Piggott, Bruce Greenshields, and Darrel Schumacher.

Twenty-two contestants missed four games, 22 missed five games, 22 missed six games, and the remainder missed seven games or more. Three contestants had nine mistakes — the most for the week.

Unbeaten Mustang Swimmers Favored to Cop League Crown

It was senior night for Northville swimmers last Thursday and the team celebrated by giving their coach and co-captains roses and by completing a clean sweep of all their Western Six Dual meets with a 44-39 victory over Livonia Churchill, October 30 at Northville.

The win raises Northville's season dual meet record to a 12-2 mark, while the league record is a perfect 8-0. However, league dual meet records go out the window this Wednesday and Thursday when all the Western Six Conference schools gather at Farmington Harrison to determine the league champion in a combined swim meet.

"We'll have an edge on the league because we are undefeated," Northville Swimming Coach Karen Turner said. "Throwing all the teams together will make it difficult. Churchill will be after us with all they've got and they'll use Walled Lake Western any way they can."

Coach Turner expects the league meet to be a close contest with a lot depending on which events some swimmers are entered. "Along with bringing a fine dual meet record to the league tournament, Northville swimmers have been cutting seconds off their times in recent weeks and a few Northville records were set in last week's dual meets.

The Mustang 200 yard medley relay team posted a new Northville girls' team and pool record when they came from behind to place first in that event with a 2:00.4 time. That broke the team record of 2:01.8, set two days earlier by the same relay squad of Tracey Piscopink, Marge Boland, Vida Mikalonis, and Kyle Roggenbuck against Redford Union. Northville also won the Redford Union dual meet, a non-league event, by a 103-69 score.

Mikalonis was a double winner against Churchill with first place finishes in both the 200 yard individual medley and the 100 yard butterfly. Her time in the butterfly of 1:03.2 ties the pool record.

Roggenbuck was also a double winner against Churchill by taking top spots in both the 200 and 500 yard freestyle events. In the 500 yard freestyle teammate Cathy Foust finished second giving Northville a big lead and providing the turning point in the meet.

In the previous meet against Redford Union, Marge Boland lowered her own record in the 100 yard breaststroke to a 1:16.0 time.

Roggenbuck also swam her best time of the year in the 500 yard freestyle against Redford Union, finishing the race with a Northville team record of 5:50.9, almost seven seconds faster than the previous record in that event which Roggenbuck owned.

Novi Falls to South Lyon's JV's

Novi watched South Lyon score 27 points in the first quarter of their junior varsity football game and were unable to catch up, losing the contest by a 45-22 score, last Thursday in Novi.

"We were outclassed by their first team but we didn't give up," Novi Junior Varsity Football Coach Bryan Howard said. "We moved the ball well but we just couldn't catch up to their lead."

South Lyon ran the opening kickoff back for a touchdown and went on to score 27 points in that first period. Two of the South Lyon touchdowns were the result of Novi fumbles.

"The first quarter was very bad but from then on it was a good game," Coach Howard said. "South Lyon hadn't been scored on all year up to this game."

Kevin Mills scored the first

Novi touchdown on a 63 yard run, he added the extra points on a run. Bob Blackmer ran the second half kickoff 83 yards for a touchdown. Blackmer returned punts and kickoffs for a total of 176 yards. Jeff Bunker added the points after Blackmer's touchdown on a running play. Then Bunker scored a touchdown on a 38 yard run. Mills had 108 yards rushing in the game and Bunker ran for 93 yards.

Novi JV's Undefeated

Novi's junior varsity basketball team retained its unbeaten record with two victories in basketball competition last week.

The first win was a 30-27 decision over league rival Dexter, October 28 in Novi. Dexter's cause was aided by virtue of the 22 fouls called against Novi. Dexter netted ten free throws in the fourth quarter alone, and had 12 of 16 during the game.

Anne Robinson and Ricci Mulligan tied for the scoring honors with ten points apiece. Betty Banks and Mary Ann Wizinski each had four points, and Sue Beal scored two points.

Mulligan again tied for the scoring honors during a 22-14 victory over Willow Run, October 30 at Willow Run.

Mulligan and Laura Birou each scored six points for Novi. Wizinski had four points, and Banks, Robinson, and Polly Sinclair each scored two points.

Novi's junior varsity basketball team now sports an 11-0 mark on the season and a 5-0 mark against Southeastern Conference opponents.

Brown Leads Cagers

Patty Brown led Northville's varsity basketball team in both the rebounding and scoring department during two recent basketball losses.

Brown scored 14 points and grabbed five rebounds in a game which Northville lost to Lutheran West by a 36-22 score. Louise Hopping had four points in that same contest, October 28 in Northville.

Brown was again the leading scorer and rebounder with 12 points and 13 rebounds in another losing effort, this one by a 60-27 score, October 23 in Northville. Sharon Broderick was second in both departments as she scored 10 points and grabbed seven rebounds.

Korte Scores Seven

Northville's junior varsity basketball team lost to Livonia Franklin by a 15-10 score, October 30 at Livonia. Northville trailed the whole game.

Donna Korte led the Northville scorers with seven points and Ann Pond scored two points for Northville.

Novi Drops to Third After Dexter Cage Loss

A full court press and a surge by Dexter late in the fourth quarter spelled doom for the Novi Varsity Basketball team in a heartbreaking 28-29 loss October 28 in Novi.

"The one point loss drops the Novi team to third place in the Southeastern Conference basketball standings. Dexter is unbeaten in league play. Novi now sports a 3-2 mark in Southeastern Conference games.

"We were up by 12 with four minutes left in the game and they ran a full court press, and my kids got tired and we got sloppy and couldn't hold onto the ball," Novi Varsity Basketball Coach Chris Hayward said.

"Dexter came back at us, but Dexter always comes back at us," Coach Hayward continued. "The whole last 30 seconds was under our basket but we couldn't put the ball in."

Elaine Maki led the Novi scorers in the losing effort against Dexter with ten points. Mary Kadel had eight points, Janet Cook had six points, and Lari Neutz scored four points for Novi.

Coach Hayward was disappointed after the loss but still hopes to finish well in the Southeastern Conference. To finish in the top spot Dexter will have to be beaten twice. The conference teams were scheduled to begin playing the second round of their league schedule Tuesday.

"Last year we lost our first two games and came back and won the conference with an 8-2 record," Coach Hayward said. "So I refuse to give up."

Novi's girl cage team rebounded nicely in their next game, October 30 at Willow Run, when they defeated the Willow Run team by a 46-36 score. The win ups Novi's season record to an 8-3 mark.

Three of the Wildcat players scored in double figures. Dede McAllen had 15 points, Kadel scored 11 points and Maki had ten points.

"They (Willow Run) were really good," Coach Hayward said. "Everyone on their team shot well."

Available Throughout City

New Novi Maps Ready

Thanks to the League of Women Voters, the new and official map of Novi, with complete information about the city, is now available at local businesses throughout the city for $25.

While the maps are up to date and even include some proposed roads within the city, on the back of the map is information about most phases of the city. Included is information about: government, elections, courts, utilities, education, public library, city finances, public health, transportation.

"Every league does a know your town booklet," explained Peg O'Brien, a league member who helped in preparation of the map. "We had envisioned a small pamphlet with all the items and facts about Novi. But we saw how small the map was in Northville's pamphlet. We thought, why don't we do a big map and put the information on the back of the map?"

Mrs. O'Brien said that plat maps were used and the league also used information from the police department and building department to help with the new map.

Funding the enterprise for the league was the Novi

Chamber of Commerce which put up approximately $550 for printing of the maps.

"We were looking for someone to help us cover the printing costs," said Mrs. O'Brien. "They are using it to answer inquiries."

Mrs. O'Brien added that the league plans to update the map yearly or whenever necessary. The league also hopes in the future to do a booklet that has additional information about Novi.

Members of the League of Women Voters from Novi who helped with the map besides Mrs. O'Brien were Mary Bohn, Kathy Mutch, and Gretchen Pugsley.

The maps are available in Novi at Harold's Frame Shop, The Remarkable Shop, The Depot Restaurant, The Novi Library, Security Bank of Novi, West Oakland Bank, Novi City Hall, Century 21 Real Estate, Rymal Symes Real Estate, The Flame Restaurant, Jansen's Buttermilk, Erwin's Orchards and Meadowbrook Pharmacy.

Maps are also available in Farmington at the Fireside Bookstore and the Butcher Block.

After 2½ Years

Novi Council OK's Zoning Ordinance

Following 2½ years of study, work, and review, the proposed new Novi zoning ordinance has been approved by council. Approval came last Wednesday during a special public hearing on the matter attended by approximately 50 residents.

Several changes emerged at the last minute in response to complaints from audience members on specific parcels or lots of land.

With council members Romaine Roethel and Philip Goodman opposed, approval was given to change the title of the R1F (Residential Small Farms) district to Small Farm - Agricultural - Residential. That change was moved by councilman Denis Berry and seconded by Edwin Presnell.

City attorney David Fried contended that "When you change the title, you aren't changing anything. The assessor is not going to change the assessment because of the change in caption."

Mayor Robert Daley stated, however, that "some of the taxing people will not look beyond the caption."

Earlier this year, the council had decided not to eliminate the R1F small farms designation and make it R1 as had been suggested by the planning board to help streamline the map. Resident complaints had persuaded the council to leave in the R1F designation although the city assessor said small farms in that classification would still be assessed at residential rates.

Apparently prompting inclusion of the word agricultural in the small farms title was James Williams, attorney for the historic Tollgate Farms who said that the R1F designation "is kind of like half a loaf. It only counts in horseshoes. We had hoped for an agricultural district."

Owner of the farm, Adolph Meyer has been trying unsuccessfully for some time to get an agricultural district in the zoning ordinance and to get the property rezoned agricultural. With an agricultural zoning, the property would have been assessed at a lower rate.

Former City Clerk Mabel Ash complained that "In the southwest corner where there are farms, you've got it zoned residential." City Planner Charles Cairns from Vilcau-Leman insisted that only lots that were R1F remained R1F and that farming is allowed under all residential zoning from R1-R4.

Mrs. Ash insisted that some residentially zoned areas in the southwest had been zoned in the past agricultural.

The following changes from the proposed zoning map were approved by council Wednesday:

A portion of land on Nine Mile east of Meadowbrook on the south side of the street from B-1 (local business district) to R-M-1 (low density multiple family residential district);

Two parcels of property on 11 Mile from RT (two family residential) to commercial.

The following zoning changes had been made previously but by error had not been included in the updated preliminary zoning map:

A small parcel of land on the south side of 14 Mile Road east of Walled Lake from R-4 (one family residential) to B-3 (General Business District);

Lots 1-4 in Novex One Subdivision from I-2 (General Industrial District) to I-1 (Light Industrial District).

Council instructed that the administration make certain no other rezonings had been mistakenly excluded from the map.

Council did not take any action on a letter from Detroit Edison requesting certain changes in the ordinance. Council noted the "eleventh hour" arrival of the letter.

Among the changes Detroit Edison asked for was the inclusion of the word "towers" as part of the definition of "Essential Services". It also contended that a contradiction in the zoning ordinance would not allow, for instance, an office district surrounded by residential districts to receive electric service.

Council indicated it would consider the suggestions at a later time.

The zoning ordinance was approved unanimously.

Career Ed Plans Set in Northville

Northville Public Schools is actively working on a program of career education in cooperation with parents, other community members, business and industry.

The career education act, passed in 1974 by the state legislature, made it mandatory for school districts to design programs making students aware of careers and options open to them.

The long range goal of Northville's program is to provide students with background information on careers, understanding of themselves, recognition of work ethics and the development of skills necessary for their vocation.

Assistant Superintendent Florence Panattoni is responsible for the career program.

"Career education programs are being implemented at all grade levels in the school district," she explained, "even at the pre-school level where there are such programs in the district."

Pre-school and elementary programs will be focusing on career awareness. Middle school students will learn about career exploration and high school programs will center on development of career skills.

"We are also working to develop programs appropriate to the needs of special education students and gifted and talented students," the assistant superintendent added.

Career education programs will be implemented in the existing curriculum rather than in special courses. All teachers will be involved in the programs and career education is the subject of two teacher work days this year.

"Career education is not a synonym for vocational education," Miss Panattoni explained, "but vocational education is an integral part of the total career education system."

Eight immediate goals of the career education program in Northville are:

1. Provide a career education program which supports the student from initial career awareness to career exploration, career direction setting, career preparation and career placement.
2. Provide a program which develops each student's self-awareness and acceptance of himself, awareness and acceptance of others along with the skills in relating to others.
3. Design career programs which acquaint students with career opportunities and options.
4. Develop programs which aid students in making career choices.
5. Provide programs which help individuals develop into satisfied, productive members of society.
6. Provide career programs which involve the entire school program and unite the schools, communities and employers in cooperative educational ventures.
7. Provide programs which infuse career education concepts into existing curriculum.
8. Provide in-service education for teachers in methods for working career education into the existing curriculum.

College Is Topic For PTSO Here

"Preparing for College" will be the topic of the November 12 meeting of Northville High School's PTSO. The Wednesday meeting starts at 8 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Northville High counselors will be at the meeting to answer questions from the audience and to explain the functions of the counseling department. The program should be of particular interest to juniors and seniors and their parents, PTSO spokesmen note.

Tonight, Wednesday, the PTSO executive board will meet at 7:30 in the library conference room at the high school.

Escapee Caught in Hospital Break-In

In Township

Michigan State Police are seeking a warrant charging a 19-year-old Detroit man, an escaped patient, with breaking and entering an office at Northville State Hospital early Sunday morning.

Two guards at the hospital caught the man about 1:40 a.m. Sunday standing at a broken window of the chaplain's office. The sound of glass breaking brought the guards to the scene.

Investigating officers from the state police post in Plymouth said the man, who had escaped from the hospital two days before, allegedly had stolen a truck from Dun-Rovin Golf Course on Haggerty Road late Wednesday or early Thursday.

The truck was found parked at the hospital and contained three electric typewriters and a stereo system. The equipment was reportedly stolen from other areas of the hospital, police indicated. The typewriters were valued at $350 each and the stereo at $100.

Two cases of destruction of property were investigated by state police last week.

Eight holes were made in a car windshield and the back of the outside mirror was damaged by BB's which were thrown from a passing vehicle.

The owner of the car, a man from Plymouth, told police the damage took place on Sheldon Road about one-half mile south of Seven Mile shortly before 8:30 p.m. last Tuesday.

A homeowner in the 19800 area of Silver Springs Drive reported the screen door of the home was ripped and the door pushed in about 6:15 p.m. Thursday. Front and back windows of the townhouse were also soaped and egged.

Two Detroit men were ticketed for hunting on Northville State Hospital grounds last week Tuesday afternoon.

Security guards investigating a car parked on the service drive found two dead pheasants and two empty gun cases in the car. With the help of Michigan State Police officers, the men, ages 29 and 22, were arrested. The entire township is closed to hunting, officials remind sportsmen.

Two cars stolen from Northville township were recovered in Detroit this past week.

According to Northville Township Police, a 1967 Plymouth stolen from the area of 18200 Jamestown Circle late last Sunday or early Monday was recovered Wednesday morning. The ignition had been punched but the car was drivable.

A 1970 Ford, stolen from the 18500 area of Jamestown Circle sometime Sunday evening, was found before the owner knew the vehicle was missing.

The car was found parked at Telegraph and Eight Mile Road with the ignition punched.

Residents of a townhouse on Malvern Court scared off a 20-year-old man who was attempting to break into the home late Sunday night.

According to township reports, the occupants were awakened by the sound of someone pounding on the front door. The man was found at the rear sliding door, attempting to open it. He was armed with a shovel.

The man escaped on foot while police were being summoned. He was described as five-foot, 11 inches tall, 180 pounds, brown medium length hair and wearing a hooded grey sweatshirt.

Nearly $900 in construction materials were stolen from a house being built on Rippling Lane. The theft took place between October 24 and 27.

Taken were 30 sheets of plywood, tar paper, 2x4's and other materials.

Two cars parked at Northville Charlie's on Seven Mile Road were broken into last week.

On Thursday, a 1976 Mercury was broken into and an am-fm stereo taken along with the passenger's sun visor. The sun roof was also damaged.

On Tuesday, a 1974 Chevrolet was broken into and the turn signal indicator, radio and ash tray broken. Three dents were also made in the driver's side of the car.

Two destruction of property cases were reported to township police last week. Either Thursday or Friday, white paint was sprayed on the front hood and fenders of a 1974 black Thunderbird parked in the 41300 area of Windsor Court.

And Monday night, homeowners in the area of 16400 Old Bedford reported the window screen had been slashed, windows, doors and bricks soaped and tree and shrubbery branches cut.

Two men were hurt late Saturday afternoon when the cars they were driving collided at Five Mile and Marilyn shortly before 5 p.m.

Treated for cuts and bruises at St. Mary Hospital was Joseph Henry Wilkerson of 15616 Maxwell. Police said Wilkerson was westbound on Five Mile Road when his car was hit by a northbound car driven by Richard Lewis Smith of 15525 Marilyn.

Smith said he was attempting to cross Five Mile Road when the accident took place. Smith was ticketed for failing to yield the right of way. He refused medical attention, police said.

In Northville

Attempts were made to steal two vehicles in Northville early last Monday with two suspects scared off by the owner of one of the cars.

According to city police reports, a Livonia man returned to his 1966 Dodge, which was parked at Cady and Wing about 12:20 a.m. and found two men hiding in the car. When he opened the door, both men fled on foot, heading south on Wing Street.

Police said the interior of the car had been damaged in an attempt to hot wire the vehicle.

A 1969 Dodge wagon parked in the 400 block of East Main Street was entered the same evening after someone broke a vent window to gain entry.

Investigating officers said an attempt was also made to hot wire the ignition of the station wagon.

Southfield police recovered a 1976 blue Ford pickup truck before the owners knew it was missing.

Taken from the new truck lot at John Mach Ford on Seven Mile Road, the truck was found last Monday. A box cover, valued at $400, was missing when the truck was recovered.

Two break-ins of buildings are being investigated by Northville police.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church office was broken into sometime late Sunday. A desk was rifled, papers strewn about the office and a key taken. Pry marks were found on the door and church spokesmen said the break-in took place between 7 and 10:30 p.m.

Two speakers and tools, valued at $150, were stolen from Northville Swim Club behind Northville High School during a break-in October 24. Unknown persons entered the building through the roof, investigating officers report.

Damage to two vehicles and thefts of auto parts took place during the past week.

Nearly $500 damage was done to a 1971 Ambassador parked in the Kroger lot between 6:30 and 7 p.m. Thursday when someone walked on the roof and trunk deck of the car.

Police said scratches were made in the left front and rear doors and the rear window.

All four tires of a 1968 Mercury were slashed late Sunday or early Monday morning while the vehicle was parked in the lot at Main and Wing streets.

And two silver hubcaps were stolen from a 1973 Oldsmobile last Tuesday night. The theft took place in the 300 block of Beal Street.

Approximately $300 damage was caused at Northville Square last week when two plate glass windows were broken.

Investigating officers found 11 holes in the windows and theorize the damage was done by a sling shot.

City police are seeking a warrant against an 18-year-old Northville youth charging him with carrying a concealed weapon following his arrest Saturday night for drunkenness.

Upon searching the youth, police found a knife with a five and one-quarter inch blade. It took several officers to restrain the youth while he was being arrested and transported to the police station.

In Novi

A 22-year-old Dearborn man was killed Friday in an apparent industrial accident at Firebaugh and Reynolds Roofing Company at 45240 Grand River in Novi.

According to Novi officers, the man, Leonard A. Gapa, was found by a fellow employee Friday afternoon lying under an overturned forklift truck. Using another forklift, fellow employees lifted the truck off the man. Novi Ambulance was called to the scene and began treatment for cardiac arrest.

With the help of Novi officer Charles Brown with cardio pulmonary resuscitation, Novi ambulance started for Botsford Hospital, only to be involved in an accident with another car on Grand River at Meadowbrook Road. According to officers, the ambulance struck the rear end of the car.

After seeing the other driver get out of the car, the ambulance driver continued on to Botsford. The other driver involved has not yet contacted Novi Police. In that accident, officer Brown received minor injuries to the back of his head and his back. He was later treated at Pontiac General Hospital.

Gapa was pronounced dead shortly after arrival at the hospital. An autopsy is being conducted by the coroner's office in an attempt to determine cause of death. There were no witnesses to the original accident.

A Novi resident reported to police October 28 that he had been assaulted at a home in the 26000 area of Novi Road October 20.

The complainant stated that he and another man were demonstrating and practicing karate kicks when the other subject told him to pick up a letter opener and hold it like a knife. The assailant then allegedly picked up a chair and struck the Novi man with the chair on the head causing serious injury. He was taken to Botsford hospital where he was released October 28. Police are investigating.

A home in the 40000 area of Eight Mile Road was broken into October 27 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. and a $290 Philco Television and $9.50 worth of change taken.

Novi Police captured one Livonia man and are seeking another in a breaking and entering which occurred November 2 in the 21000 area of East Glenhaven.

According to reports, the owner of the home returned at 2 a.m. to find the basement window missing. She called police from a neighbor's house and a patrol vehicle apprehended a suspect in a car outside the home. He was later released pending further investigation.

Another man, who has been identified through a witness and who allegedly was in the house is being sought.

Removed from the home were six bottles of vodka, whiskey and rum. All were found on the grass outside the home. Tracking dogs were unsuccessful in catching the individual on foot.

A total of $80 worth of Ken Maxwell for council signs were reported missing from where they had been placed in various points around the city.

In Wixom

Several cars and a school bus were forced off the road last Tuesday during a chase between Wixom police and a motorcyclist which started in Wixom but ended at a roadblock in Wolverine Lake Village.

According to police reports, Wixom officer David Schwanky received a call from officer Alan Blashfield that he was chasing a motorcyclist through vacant fields at Loon Lake Road.

Schwanky was on Potter Road at Beck and observed the motorcyclist coming out of a field at a high rate of speed. Schwanky chased him south on Beck Road from Potter. The motorcyclist passed two vehicles on the right side and then approached Maple Road where he ran a stop sign and headed east on Maple. The subject was clocked as doing 60-70 miles per hour in a 45 mile per hour zone.

Walled Lake Police Department set up a road block at Maple and Ladd roads but the subject made a right turn into the school parking lot of Maple Road Elementary and went through the parking lot causing several people to run for the school. He exited the parking lot going west on Maple.

On three occasions, Schwanky tried to pull in front of the subject but he would aim his cycle into the patrol vehicle causing Schwanky to back off.

The cyclist then headed south on Benstein where Wolverine Lake Police had set up a roadblock at Tellico. The motorcyclist was forced to stop.

According to reports, during the chase, he forced several vehicles off the road including a school bus. The subject, Gene Bergman, 17, of 3055 West Maple in Walled Lake pled guilty to reckless driving. Sentencing is pending.

Charged with assaulting a police officer, suspended operator's license and driving under the influence of liquor October 27 was Gregory Langhor, 23 of Detroit.

According to reports, he was stopped by Wixom officer Timothy O'Shesky after he was clocked going eastbound on Grand River Avenue at 80 miles per hour.

The subject refused to enter the patrol vehicle and struggled with the officer until Novi police arrived to back-up in making the arrest. Langhor was arraigned and released pending trial.

The examination of a 20-year-old Wixom man charged in the murder of his 25-year-old brother October 22 was continued last week by District Court Judge Martin Boyle to November 10 at 11 a.m.

The man, Terrence Milhollan of 46998 12 Mile in Wixom is charged with killing his brother, Timothy Milhollan. He is currently free on bond.

Speaking for Myself

Open or Closed Classrooms?

OPEN . . .

The word "openness" describes an attitude, behavior and beliefs about how children grow and learn.

The best open and traditional teachers share professional involvement and commitment, genuine care and concern for children, desire to have education be an alive, interesting, and happy experience.

Good open teachers recognize "individual differences" in children and consider the growth of the "whole child". The children and their needs and interests are the curriculum. This doesn't mean that children are not taught the basic skills of reading, writing, spelling and mathematics. What is taught in these subjects and how it is taught is determined by where children are in their development and what they bring to the situation.

"Open classes" are happy classes. A child who had no particular direction when he started school gets completely involved with a project on dinosaurs and learning how to read and write and express himself orally because he is interested in learning. It's kids wanting to stay in from recess to continue working. It's kids being able to move from one task to another without teacher having to direct them every step of the way. It's being able to look at an individual's reading ability today and compare it to his ability a week ago rather than comparing to others in a group and fostering inferior or superior feelings.

It's having a team of teachers working and sharing together.

It's parents becoming involved in the classroom and being able to ask legitimate questions.

Shirley Spaniel, Principal
Miller Elementary School

CLOSED . . .

The open classroom concept may be great for that child who has the ability to concentrate. But what about the child who is easily distracted? This child needs more individual attention than can possibly be given in this kind of classroom setting.

I fully realize that the concept of permitting the child to learn at his own speed sounds wonderful, but how many youngsters fall by the wayside because of the absence of the structured classroom? Even educators recognize shortcoming in the open classroom; many cannot effectively teach in this kind of environment and others fear some children are being educationally deprived because of adult experimentation.

A child who is placed in an open classroom where he cannot function or learn necessarily requires more help — help that too often is not provided.

I find it appalling that some schools in our area are totally committed to open classrooms. Isn't the welfare of all students important? Shouldn't structured classrooms be provided students who need them?

I have a child who desperately needs the structured environment but has never been placed in a classroom of this type in four years. We parents are not consulted, and many of my acquaintances are admittedly worried about or already disenchanted with the open classroom.

Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery of tests will be given Tuesday morning, November 11, at Northville High School.

Juniors and seniors interested in taking the tests should sign up at the counseling office. There is no charge for the tests and no obligation to the military services because students take the tests, Northville counselors emphasize. Tests begin at 8 and run until 11 a.m.

The vocational aptitude battery is a group of tests designed to show students' aptitude for different occupations. If test answers show high scores in one or more of the five vocational areas, it means students could be successful working in that field.

Areas tested include general technical, motor mechanical, clerical administrative, general mechanics and electronics.

Counselors explain that students thinking about entering a technical field, college or a branch of military service may find the tests give information to them about aptitudes that can help with career planning.

Test scores will be furnished to the high school counseling department which will discuss the scores in relation to career planning in both civilian and military fields.

Study Group Celebrates 50 Years

By NANCY DINGELDEY

The Wixom Extension Study Group marked its 50th anniversary with a tea held in the Leisure Co-op club room last week. In attendance was Leona Johnson, a member of the original group, many ladies of Wixom who were members of the group at one time or another, and the daughters of original members.

Also on hand to mark the occasion was the county council president, Jane Vogel of Ortonville and Mrs. Florence Hubbard whose leadership in the extension program dates back to its inception in 1920. At 83, Mrs. Hubbard happily calls herself "mother" Hubbard.

Extension study groups as they are known today had their beginnings in the Extension Department of the Michigan Agricultural College (MSU) when the county Farm Bureau women established a training program designed to reach women throughout the county. Mrs. Hubbard was a member of the first advisory committee and subsequently became the first Oakland County council chairman.

The goals of that organization at the time when Wixom's Farmers group decided to join forces were considered ambitious. In one year's time they hoped to have running water in 20 homes and better lights in 50 homes. Fifty kitchens would be remodeled, 100 hats remade and two nutrition clinics held. Two hundred and fifty women would learn to use sewing machine attachments, another 250 would make dress forms. Ten leaders' training schools would be held, vegetables sufficient for one year would be canned or stored and there would be poultry culling in 25 per cent of the farms.

Besides giving much of the background of Wixom's study group, chairlady Mildred Wimmer also pointed out Lillian Cole who, with 36 years, is the longest active member of the Wixom group. Mildred herself is the first vice-president at the county council level.

Displayed in the club room were many of the handwork projects the women of the group have completed over the years. Not all time has been devoted to crafts however. Nutrition, sewing, women's rights and even a lesson on converting to the metric system have been brought to the group by members attending training sessions.

Highlight of the afternoon was a fashion show featuring gowns through the years. A delightful array of fashions dating back 150 years were modeled by club members with Hazel Farley gaily displaying her "drawers". There were beautifully beaded purses, feathered hats, pointed high button shoes and petticoats dripping with yards of crocheted trim...enough to make anyone drool.

During a conversation with

EXTENSION ANNIVERSARY—A host of prominent Oakland County and Wixom members were present last week as the Wixom Extension Study Group celebrated its 50th anniversary. Present were: (from left, standing), Jane Vogel, County Extension Council President; Lillian Cole, longest active member of the Wixom group; Florence Hubbard, first Oakland County Council Chairperson; Mildred Wimmer, chairlady of the Wixom Extension group; and (seated) Jesse Williams, Wixom extension group member.

Mrs. Hubbard, Alice Hopkins and Frances Morris learned that she was a granddaughter of "grandma" Heath who lived in the building which now houses the Wixom Library. The ladies had a great time recalling the days when Pontiac Trail was a dirt road and the city bustled with commercial trade.

November 8 is the date for the annual Senior Citizens Bazaar which will be held in the cafeteria of Central High School. The bazaar will be open from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. and will feature craft demonstrations throughout the day. The "Golden Squares", the seniors square dance group, will perform as well as the "Grandma's and the Grandpa's." The "G & G's", as they call themselves, is a band made up of kazoes, dishpans, washboards "and anything else that can possibly make a musical sound". Both will entertain twice during the day. Along with all the bazaar items on sale there will be food available. A hand hooked rug, a needlepoint pillow and a $25 bond will be given away.

Lillian Spencer, Sylvia Vangieson and Sylvia's daughter, Sheryl Orr have about recuperated after their two week driving trip in Europe.

The ladies rented a Volkswagen "bug" and took to the roads of France, Germany, Italy and Switzerland coming home with many tales of their travels. Most of their time was spent in Germany and Italy with Florence and Venice the main stops in Italy. Venice was rated dirty and slightly odoriferous due mainly to the canals they say look great in pictures. Florence, on the other hand was rated gorgeous with the museums and statuary by Michelangelo inspiring. "Time in Germany was spent at the Oktoberfest in Munich, visiting crazy King Ludwig's castles, Salzburg and naturally Oberammergau. The drivers in Europe... "crazy" with the Autobahn "something else."

As the ladies headed into Switzerland it was raining and naturally, as they ascended into the Alps, it began to snow. Eventually the "pass" they were trying to reach was closed because of road conditions and they were forced to take shelter in an inn. The conversation was to the point...sign language aided by the well-thumbed dictionary... enough to get them a room and something to eat. "They also met three visiting Japanese professors who were staying there under similar circumstances but the conversation had little chance of picking up... they spoke halting English.

They did finally make it through the pass and on to Zurich. They said that the countryside of both Switzerland and Germany is really gorgeous. But time did not stand still for the wandering threesome so it was back in the car headed towards Frankfurt where they eventually had to board the plane bringing them home... jetlag and all.
