

Nine Presidential Candidates Bid for Votes Tuesday

Names of nine Presidential candidates — seven Democrats and two Republicans — will appear on the ballot when Northville voters go to the polls in the city and township next Tuesday.

In addition, candidates for precinct delegates to the Wayne County Republican Party convention will appear as well (in the Wayne County section of the city and in the township) a proposition to construct a new county jail in Detroit.

In the Oakland County section of the city, electors also will vote on a parks proposition. See story on Page 12-A.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Cross-over voting is possible, but if a voter chooses to vote for a candidate of a different party than his own that voter cannot also vote for the favorite candidate in his own party.

Presidential candidates whose names will appear on the city ballot, some of whom have already withdrawn from the race, include:

Democrats—R. Sargent Shriver, Morris K. Udall, George C. Wallace, Jimmy Carter, Fred R. Harris, Henry M. Jackson and Ellen McCormack.

Republicans—Gerald R. Ford and Ronald Reagan.

Precinct 1—Judith C. Krueger and Robert W. Krueger, both committed to Ford.

Precinct 2—(None).

Precinct 3—(Oakland County) Barbara A. Bergum, uncommitted; and Fay Waldren, committed to Ford.

Precinct 4—(Oakland County) John Pacific, committed to Ford.

Presidential delegates for the township include:

Precinct 8—Wilson C. Grier — uncommitted; and Dwight D. Sieggreen, uncommitted.

The jail proposition to appear on the ballot (it will not appear on the ballot for voters in the Oakland County section of the city) asks voters to approve or disapprove a half-mill tax increase ($.50 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation) to finance construction of a new jail.

SUPPORT for a new Wayne County jail was received from Northville City Council Monday. A unanimous resolution endorsing the ballot proposal was passed in response to a letter recommending the action from County Commissioner, Mary Dumas. "It's the lesser of two evils," said Councilman Paul Vernon, referring to overcrowded conditions at the present county jail.

ACCREDITATION of Northville High School has been approved by the North Central Association. In its final report, the association cited Northville for three deficiencies: inadequate number of library books, a short school day, and a teacher who is one hour short of required specialization. Concerning books, the superintendent indicated steps to upgrade the library are underway and by fall more than the required number of books will be on hand. The school day already has been lengthened, and the teacher has enrolled in a college class to make up the needed hour, he reported.

AGREEMENT has been extended to Milan George to grow crops on 60 acres of school property on West Six Mile Road. The school district is to be paid $15 per acre or $900 for this growing season. George had a similar agreement last year.

CLOSE TO 1,000 participants are limbering up their walking shoes this week in anticipation of the Saturday, May 22 Walk for Mankind sponsored by Northville Jaycees. The 22-mile walk to raise money for charity will get underway at 9 a.m. at Northville Downs. Sponsorship forms are still available in the schools, the public library and at the police department.

DOG LICENSES for township dogs are due the last day of May. Bring proof of rabies vaccination and three dollars to the township hall to obtain a license, advise officials. Licenses also can be received by mail by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, with the proof of rabies slip and a check. A vaccination slip will be returned along with the license. After June 1 the price of a dog license will jump to six dollars.

Still No Special Ed Decision

Pretty Girls Top Class

Two beauties with brains are the top students in Northville High School's Bicentennial Class of 1976.

Kathleen Brown, who has been known as Kate ever since she enrolled in the Northville school system in first grade, is valedictorian of the 345-member class.

Sarah Kunst is salutatorian. She attended kindergarten at Amerman school, then Our Lady of Victory School for grades 1-8, and Northville High for grades 9-12.

Kate, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Brown, 45730 Fermanagh, has amassed an impressive 4.176 grade point average while Sarah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Kunst, 568 Langfield, is close behind with 4.15.

The above 4.0 average is possible, school officials explain, because of an extra increment given for honors courses. Effective this year, however, the extra honor points are not being given so that in four years 4.0 will be standard.

Both girls are members of the National Honor Society at school with Sarah presently serving as secretary. Both are Pep Club members with Kate serving as club secretary.

Kate also is co-captain of the varsity cheerleaders and during her high school years has been a member of the ski club, gymnastics and synchronized swimming groups. This year she also has been doing private tutoring of students in math.

Both Kate and Sarah have indicated an interest in this subject. For three years, beginning as a sophomore, Sarah has been official scorekeeper for boys' baseball at the high school.

Her activities also include four years on the girls' varsity tennis team for which she is captain this year, Girls Athletic League for four years, member of the senior class council, and assistant editor of the Mustang.

Sarah was junior representative on the 1975 homecoming court and was chosen Northville Mothers' Club 1975 representative to Girls' State.

This fall Kate plans to begin her training to become a nurse. She has been accepted at Oakland University in its BS degree nursing program and will be a resident student.

Kate, the third daughter in a doctor's family, says she has "been exposed to so much medicine at home and at the hospital (St. Mary)" that she found nursing a natural career.

Asked if she had considered becoming a doctor, she says she hopes in the future to marry and feels a nursing career could be combined better with marriage.

Neither of these top honor students wants to be considered a "women's libber."

Sarah Kunst, who will be attending Notre Dame in the fall to study engineering, points out, however, that she does believe "women should pursue the career of their choice."

She chose Notre Dame, she explains, because her uncle went there and she has come to love the school.

Michigan Week

Northville Hosts Utica

Michigan Week — May 15-21 — has been chosen for the first major plantings at Northville city hall in the community's Plant A Tree project.

At 9 a.m. this Saturday, Civic Pride Day, three trees will be planted, Mrs. Robert Brueck, Michigan Week chairman, announces. They are donations from individual members of the Northville Beautification Commission, Northville City Planning Commission and Northville Historical Commission.

The day officially will begin with the annual street washing by city firemen at 7:30 a.m. followed by a flag raising ceremony at city hall by city policemen. Coffee and doughnuts will be served to participants at the firehouse.

Boy scouts of VFW troop 721 will distribute litter bags, Michigan Week buttons and a Facts about Michigan leaflet to adults in the downtown area under the direction of Wilson Funk.

For Sunday, Religious Heritage Day, letters have been sent to all churches asking that each review its history and influence in Northville and Michigan.

Monday, official Mayor Exchange Day, will find Northville welcoming Mayor and Mrs. Fred Beck of Utica and Councilman and Mrs. Floyd Thormann of the exchange city at 9 a.m.

Their hosts will be Mrs. Brueck and Mayor pro-tem Paul Vernon and Mrs. Vernon.

Representing Northville in Utica will be Mayor A. Malcolm Allen and Councilman Stanley Johnston. They will be greeted by Utica Michigan Week chairman Joseph Jeannette and Mayor pro-tem Roy Juneau.

Mayor Allen will be invited to participate in a tree planting there after being met by the high school band. A tour of the community's new library is planned before lunch at Shelby Inn.

The day's visitations will include a tour of the Ford trim plant and a trip to an open-concept school.

In Northville members of the Lloyd H. Green American Legion Post and VFW Post 4012 will participate in a flag-raising ceremony at the Mill Race Historical Village.

Time's running out for filing nominating petitions for the Northville Board of Education.

Deadline for filing is 4 p.m. next Monday, May 17.

Petitions, which are available at the board offices, must contain signatures of at least 29 registered voters.

Terms are for four years, to fill the seats of Board President Dr. Orlo Robinson and Trustee Martin Rinehart, neither of whom plans to seek re-election.

DiComo Selected for CM

Kamp-DiComo, the architect of Northville's Allen Terrace senior citizens housing development, has been awarded a contract to act as the project's construction manager.

By a unanimous vote Monday, Northville City Council approved the firm's proposal for an extended services contract.

Costs of the CM services, including the architect fee, will total $109,200.

Bids from four other firms were rejected after council debated the merit of bringing in a third party to act as CM.

City Manager Steven

Walters said that in theory, at least, the architect's decisions should be "bounced off" a third party.

"The architect has a dual interest," he said. "As a designer his interests are artistic, and that causes him

Handweavers Study Techniques Adolescents Topic Of MACLD Talk

Several members of the Northville Handweavers Guild have formed a small study group to meet once a week to work on off-loom processes.

The group, consisting of six guild members, is exploring a variety of innovative weaving techniques ranging from basketry, wrapping, and three-dimensional forms.

Members of this group include President Heather Fee, Ellen Wahi, Jane Brown, Joyce Pew, Julie Stowe and Ruth Whitmeyer.

Twenty members and guests of the Northville Handweavers Guild were invited to tour the studio-home of noted weaver of the area, Robert Kidd, 4377 West Maple Rd., Birmingham, on Wednesday afternoon April 28th.

The house is an old farmhouse built in the early 1800's, recently purchased and renovated by Kidd. Many art pieces by local artists were used in the decorating scheme in the home.

The Guild members were able to see the large eight- and twelve-foot looms in use throughout the studio-home. The tour, conducted by two of Kidd's assistants, included seeing the technical aspects and various weaving techniques used in the studio.

Barbara Vedder, consultant supervisor for the Wayne County Intermediate School District, will discuss educational aspects of the learning disabled child at the secondary level at the May meeting of the Plymouth-Northville chapter of MACLD.

The final meeting of the year will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Ms. Vedder also is an instructor at University of Detroit. She has been in charge of a farm camp program for children with learning disabilities which has been held for two summers at Upland Hills Farm in Ypsilanti and termed "very successful."

She did her undergraduate work at University of Michigan and her graduate work in clinical psychology at Wayne State University.

In Our Town Romance, Flowers Blooming Here

By JEAN DAY

LATE FALL wedding plans are being made by Betty Hoffman and Northville Mayor A. Malcolm Allen, who became engaged at Easter.

The engagement was announced at an Easter Sunday brunch at Mrs. Hoffman's home. Her daughter, Patty, and her husband, Hugh Rhorer, attended from Mount Pleasant.

Mayor Allen's daughter, Sharon, and son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, were guests as was Mrs. Hoffman's father, Dr. Linwood W. Snow, and her brother and his wife, the Linwood-Snows, Jr.

Mrs. Hoffman, a lifelong resident of the community and a graduate of Alma College, is receptionist at The Northville Record printing office.

Mayor Allen, a widower since 1974, has been Mayor of the City of Northville since April, 1958, and has served as a councilman since the city's incorporation in 1955. He is owner of Allen Monument Works, one of the largest such firms in the state, and the state's last manufacturing craftsman in stone.

which officially begins Saturday, Civic Pride Day. Newly refurbished, the baskets are brimming with red blooms which look almost real.

Thanks for their renovation should go to Mrs. Paul Vernon of the Northville Beautification Commission. For two days the 24 baskets lined the Vernon driveway while Norma Vernon, and her Allen Drive neighbor, Glenna Sherman, put in 12-hour days replacing the faded geraniums with new.

Mrs. Sherman, Mrs. Vernon says appreciatively, has helped with the project for the past four years.

In addition to geraniums, three new baskets and brackets have been purchased. Replacement funds totaling $900 came from the Northville Merchants' Association and the Northville Chamber of Commerce. While upkeep of the baskets may seem a bit hefty, it is pointed out that they are enjoyed longer than the community's Christmas-season decorations which go up annually, too.

"THE MAYFLOWER Sails Again" is the program topic for next Monday's meeting of Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter of the DAR at the home of Mrs. Gregory Dean. It will begin with a sandwich lunch at noon.

Louis Hopping will give the slide presentation and tell about the Plymouth-to-Plymouth trip he and his wife, Helen, took with the Plymouth, Michigan, group to England.

NEWCOMERS CLUB is ending its couples' activities for the year with almost 100 couples having reservations for the annual dinner dance this Saturday at Meadowbrook Country Club. Mrs. James Kohl, chairman, reported the good response at the close of reservations.

THE DAVID LONGRIDGES' spring vacation trip to Florida to visit her parent near Sarasota has resulted in an unusual indoor garden in the Longridge home on Woodhill Road.

Because it was rainy, Dave Longridge recalls, he had time to browse through a magazine and saw "a garden in a fireplace." When the family returned, he purchased aluminum sheeting and aluminum tape to cover the interior of the family room (now "Florida room") fireplace.

Sheeting and foil completely cover the inside and a double fluorescent lamp for plants has been installed out-of-sight in the opening. Mrs. Longridge has filled the fireplace with her gardenia, geranium, spider fern and other plants, which are flourishing. In the back is a cool-air vaporizer which she plugs in occasionally.

THE HANGING baskets filled with geraniums are in place in downtown Northville in time for Michigan Week,

Novi BPW Gains Charter

Diane Sofferman, vice president of Michigan National Bank-West Oakland, was installed as first president of the new Novi Business and Professional Women's Club May 1.

Installation of the club's slate of officers was part of charter night dinner ceremonies at Schoolcraft College.

Other new officers are Elinor Holland, a teacher in the Clarenceville School District and chapter vice president; Marilyn Klocke, administrative assistant, Michigan National Bank-West Oakland, secretary; and Elaine Komorny, owner of Pets 'n' Stuff, treasurer.

The new club has 27 charter members.

When organizational plans were made last November, just five months before the chartering, only one potential member responded to the 163 queries sent, Marlene Danol, state expansion chairman and a past president of the Northville BPW Club, remembers.

Second and third meetings drew two or three responses; then a fourth brought 17 future potential members — and the new group was on its way.

It is the third club to be sponsored by the Northville Club, which previously had organized Farmington and South Lyon groups with the latter now Tri-County Club.

For the chartering ceremonies, Schoolcraft College Waterman Center was decorated with the green and gold colors of the businesswoman's federation.

Novi's charter members wore single yellow carnation corsages while table decorations at each place were yellow pansy plants. Two centerpiece arrangements at the head table were of green and yellow carnations with BPW emblems incorporated.

Following a champagne punch social hour the 116 guests were welcomed by Northville's President Virginia Plunkett, who also introduced those at the head table.

Beatrice Carlson, past charter president of the Northville club, gave the invocation.

Mrs. Danol, who presided, introduced BPW guests who included many state board members, representatives of clubs and districts from as far as Petoskey and Cadillac. Area clubs represented included Plymouth, Garden City, Wayne, Farmington and Westland.

New Novi members received membership certificates and cards from Mary Alice Osgerby, state membership chairman. District Nine director Maybelle Shon outlined the history of the BPW Federation founded in 1919 as the club was accepted into the district.

State President Joyce Mallory presented the charter to Miss Sofferman for the new club.

Mrs. Plunkett presented the new Novi president with her BPW pin, a gift from the Northville club. The club received an engraved gavel from District Nine. Its guest book was a gift from the expansion chairman.

Novi Mayor Gilbert Henderson, who attended the ceremonies with Mrs. Henderson, welcomed the club to the community and said he looks forward to making community use of members' many talents and in working with the club. James Erwin, representing Novi Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the club to the city and expressed the hope that the chamber and club could be of help to each other.

Mrs. Carlson then offered a toast to the new club.

Novi is the first BPW club to be chartered in the 1975-76 year, Mrs. Danol announces, noting that Grayling will receive its charter May 22 with Kalkaska and Ludington to follow after June 1.

In addition to the officers, Novi charter members include: Marie Ahearn, Arvie Athas, Carolyn Bunn, Emalene Collins, Jan Edwards, Ruth George, Dolores Gerhardt, June Graham, Candice Ison.

Others are Agnes Johnson, Georgia Larson, Rose Lefton, Frances Loynes, Harriet Lyon, Phyllis Rayness, Irene Rice, Sally Salutes, Marcella Sobczak, Beverly Sherwood, Helen Stewart, Karen Stiles, Geraldine Stipp and Janice Tuchelski.

The new club presently is meeting at Bob-O-Link Golf Club on the fourth Thursday of each month and is open to all working women.

Board Refutes Blame

Madder than a nest of hornets could be the way the Novi School Board should have been described after learning that a one percent tax collection fee included in the recommended city budget for 1976-77 was blamed on dual tax collection.

Referred to was an article in The Novi News last week which quoted the city manager as saying the decision was made to go with the collection fee rather than charge school district's administrative costs borne by the city because of the dual collection.

At the time of approval by the city of dual tax collection, the school board went on record that it would pay all additional administrative costs but did not want the dual tax collection to be used as an excuse by the city to levy the allowed one percent tax collection fee. City council in approving dual tax collection went on record that it would not use dual tax collection as a reason for collecting the one percent fee.

Finance Director Fred Todd responded to the criticism asking, "Did they look at the other side where we reduced the tax levy by a quarter mill?"

The recommended budget calls for a general fund tax levy of 6.25 mills compared to the previous level of 6.5 mills.

According to Todd, the one percent collection fee will raise $57,000 a year while the tax drop will lessen taxes by $37,000, leaving a net increase of $20,000. However, he estimated added administrative costs of the dual tax collection at $8,000 meaning the city would actually gain about $12,000 profit from the collection fee.

An error in the budget article in The Novi News last week placed the increased revenue for the collection fee and tax growth at $438,550. That figure should have been $38,550.

Todd told the council during a budget study session Monday that while the Novi School District has offered to pay all additional costs caused by dual tax collection, the city would have to prove all costs. Todd contended that to have the staff break out all costs could add another $13,000 in administrative time — which would also have to be passed on to the school district.

Todd presented figures supporting his contention that the city had not been reimbursed in the past for acting as a tax collecting agency for the school districts and Oakland County and that the collection fee is a concept intended to help eliminate that inequity.

Todd estimated in his figures that total cost of all tax collection is $100,178 for which the city is not reimbursed. Looking at the Novi School District, 51.9 percent of all taxes collected by the city go to the Novi Schools, which would make its share of the $100,000 expenditure for tax collection $51,992, of which the city has been picking up the full shot in the past.

Utilizing the one percent tax collection fee, the city would recover $35,070 of that cost, estimated Todd. Because a community cannot impose a one percent tax collection fee to its own city taxes, Todd estimated that even with the one percent collection fee included, the city would still

Board Offers Loan

Novi Schools Okay
$10 A Foot for Taft

An agreement by the Novi School Board to pay up to $10 a front foot for paving Taft Road and to advance the city $58,000 to be used as front monies to get Taft Road paved this year met mixed reactions from City Manager Edward Kriewall.

The decision by the school board ends a disagreement between the board and the city council over how much the school district should pay.

Last Thursday, after hashing out in a study session before the regular meeting the pros and cons of joining in financing the paving of Taft Road from 10 Mile to Grand River, the board directed its attorney to draw up a resolution which includes the following points:

- payment the same as homeowners up to $10 a front foot;
- equal annual installments for 10 years;
- an advancement of $58,000 to be paid back in six months from date of final board approval or 30 days after bonds are sold;
- the agreement is conditioned on passage of an expanded sewer payback agreement by the city.

The advancement by the board was intended to satisfy a request by the city that the district provide its share of the assessment monies up front so that Taft paving could get off the ground this year.

City Manager Kriewall told The Novi News later that "We're disappointed that the amount was not established at $22 a front foot. We were glad to see some board members favor the $22 a front foot, but apparently it didn't have enough support to become a reality."

Kriewall added, "Due to the fact they offered to loan us $58,000, that will help. It provides us with on-hand funding to make progress payments if we proceed before we receive the proceeds from the road bonds."

Thursday's study session included discussion of a mish-mash of items which board members indicated were directly related to how much money it should pay on its 2640 front feet.

Discussed at length was a payback agreement on the 11 Mile sewer line which several years ago was installed utilizing $100,000 of front money from the school district. The agreement at the time called for the district to receive a payback from each direct tap of the line.

At the time, the district was aware it would cost $100,000 for a septic tank system to service the high school and agreed to the payback agreement, apparently aware that chances of recovering a good portion of the funds were slim.

The school board over the past few years tied the payment of paving monies to receipt of monies from the sewer payback, contending that the city had taken advantage of the old board in its payback agreement and encouraging the council to rectify the situation.

On March 6, 1975, the board directed its attorney to draw up a resolution of intent to pay $22 a front foot from the sewer payback and general fund toward the paving of Taft Road. That resolution was never brought back for approval by the board.

Indicating that the "ball-game" has changed because of the adoption of a road program by voters and the dropping down to $10 a front foot for homeowners along affected property lines, the board last week decided to only match the contribution of homeowners, and not to put its name on the assessment rolls.

Thirty-two of 34 homeowners along the involved stretch of Taft Road have retained legal counsel to stop the city from assessing them $10 a front foot, charging that there would be little benefit to homeowners and that the main benefit would be to the public — and to the school district. That suit has not yet been filed.

If the homeowners should get their wish and not be assessed, the school district would also pay nothing, on the basis of the board's wish to pay only the same as the affected homeowners.

However, the board said that the action was to be contingent on the city approving an expanded payback agreement allowing the payback to the district of indirect tap fees for homes that might not tap directly into the sewer, but rather use a general subdivision tap into the sewer.

Former city councilman Louie Campbell advised the school board that because Novi city council will be seeking an okay from the voters next Tuesday on a water bonding proposal that is intended to help the city get water projects off the ground which will serve the Twelve Oaks Mall and the new high school.

The proposal asks voters to allow the city to borrow $3.6 million to construct transmission mains, valves and necessary attachments to the water main, which will eventually come from 14 Mile south on Novi Road to 10 Mile and both east and west on 10 Mile to service Meadowbrook Glens and the new high school.

Warren, DeWaard
Won't be Running

Neither Novi School Board president Ray Warren nor board member LaVerne DeWaard will be seeking another term as deadline for petitions for the June 14 school election draws closer.

Deadline for filing petitions is May 17 at 4 p.m. in the Novi Schools Administrative Offices. Petitions must carry 20 signatures.

Up for grabs will be a three year term and two four year seats. Holding those seats currently are Warren and DeWaard, as well as Terrance Jolly who replaced Gilbert Henderson on the board last November.

According to Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz, a tea will be held after the June 17 board session to honor Warren and DeWaard.

DeWaard told the Novi News that, "I feel it's time to get new blood on the board. Hopefully my replacement would express the same viewpoints as I've had."

DeWaard added, "I'm tired of not being able to accomplish the things I want accomplished."

He said he hopes the priorities of the board will change to provide better fiscal responsibility.

Warren told The Novi News that while he will not run, this year, "I might just possibly run the following year. Warren said that "If I felt I could do the city some good, I may run (for city council). The same applies to the school board."

Warren said he is stepping down for a year to concentrate more on his business.

Warren has served on the board seven and a half years while DeWaard has been on eight years.

Only person filing so far for a board seat is John Milam of 23675 Stonehenge who is seeking a four year term. Several other petitions are also being circulated, according to administrative officials.

Family Tells of Woes

They Need Boat to Leave Home

By WAYNE LODER

For most people the annual rains and the flooding of Nine Mile at Ennishore represents little more than an inconvenience.

They can always detour around.

For the Ron Hersh family, there is no detour. The Hershes live in a home south of Nine Mile with a driveway that reaches Nine Mile right where the flooding occurs. About two or three times a year the Hershes find themselves either locked into or locked out of their own driveway because of the high waters from the Rouge drainage system which flood right over the front 100 feet of their driveway.

Last Thursday's rains brought the water up to about its highest mark, according to the Hershes. The water was somewhere near 20 inches high making it impossible for the Hershes to leave their home. An assist from a high pick-up truck from the Novi DPW rescued them from their plight.

According to Mrs. Hersh, "We didn't know about it (the flooding) until we had moved in and the first rains came."

That was about three and a half years ago. The problem still exists today. But the Hershes consider themselves lucky. The times they have tried to drive through the water they've always made it — sometimes by the skin of their teeth.

For instance, one time the Hershes got a

A rowboat might be more fitting, but Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hersh get a welcome assist from the Novi DPW pick-up truck last week as the couple found their driveway flooded with 20 inches of water after heavy rains. Located just south of Nine Mile near Ennishore, the Hershes find their driveway impassable because of flood waters from the Rouge drainage system about three times a year.

Hawthorn Marks Its 20th Birthday

Former Michigan governor G. Mennen Williams (center) was special guest here Saturday at the 20th anniversary luncheon program for Hawthorn Center. Governor at the time Hawthorn was conceived and constructed, Supreme Court Justice Williams reminisces with the original director, Dr. Ralph D. Rabinovitch (right), and the current director, Dr. Harold L. Wright, Jr. of Northville. For Hawthorn, it was a renewal of an old friendship — right down to the bow tie, trade mark of Justice Williams, who was instrumental in development of Hawthorn Center.

'Gimmickery' Draws Fire

By PATRICIA BERNARDO

Child psychiatry has become shrouded in a "veil of gimmickry", according to Dr. Ralph D. Rabinovitch, and he called upon his audience to become more critical of standards in their profession. Rabinovitch delivered the keynote address Friday at a program recognizing the 20th anniversary of Hawthorn Center in Northville Township. Speaking to about 200 psychiatrists, psychologists and child care workers, the center's founder and clinical research director outlined changes in child psychiatry which he has observed over the course of his 30-year career.

Rabinovitch criticized the wide acceptance of drug therapy, optometric vision training and special diets as treatments for emotionally disturbed or psychotic children. He said that claims for the effectiveness of such "gimmicks" are often based on questionable scientific evidence.

He recalled an incident early in his career when he was treating a little boy named Joey with the drug dexedrine. The child's response to the treatment was remarkable — or so he thought. As he was writing up his report, however, the boy told him, "I spit out all those pills. I never swallow them."

Dr. Rabinovitch called such terms as learning disability (L.D.), hyperkinesis (or hyper-activity) and minimal brain damage so overused as to be meaningless.

"L.D. is a dumping ground," he said, adding that the concept of learning disability has been used as an excuse for the failure of schools to reach certain children.

Rabinovitch disputed recently published findings that 40 percent of all children are hyperkinetic, estimating the actual figure to be about one percent.

Applying such labels, said Rabinovitch, "substitutes murkiness for clarity and euphemism for clinical honesty."

The result: "The treatment of children is compromised," he said.

Rabinovitch blames these trends in child psychiatry on a non-critical approach to the writing of researchers in the field. In an attempt to avoid value judgments, he said, all contributions are accorded equal weight.

He quoted a Spanish proverb which he translated, "Open-minded, yes — empty-headed, no."

"We have an obligation to be critical," he said. "We must read critically and establish criteria."

Dr. Rabinovitch concluded that a return to more traditional clinical methods including careful diagnosis is needed. "Therapists too often treat without knowing what they treat," he said.

After the Rabinovitch speech, the audience, made up mostly of present and former Hawthorn Center staffers, attended a series of workshops.

The three-day program, which also recognized the 19th anniversary of the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children (MAEDC), climaxed Saturday with the dedication of the center's new 80-bed South Wing.

Hawthorn Center, the Michigan Department of Mental Health's largest treatment unit for emotionally disturbed children, celebrated its 20th anniversary last week.

More than 18,500 Michigan children and adolescents have been served at Hawthorn Center since it opened its doors two decades ago.

To mark the occasion the center hosted a three-day program of special events including:

—a series of professional symposia which will feature authorities on child psychiatry from throughout the United States, many of whom are graduates of the training program at Hawthorn;

—dedication of the Center's new $5.5 million South Wing, opened late last year to accommodate 80 children;

—the organizational meeting of the Hawthorn Center Association, a professional organization for present and former staff members; and —the Nineteenth Annual Meeting of the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children, a statewide citizen's organization which had its origin at Hawthorn Center.

Construction of Hawthorn was started in the early 1950's as part of a general hospital expansion program proposed by the Department of Mental Health. The expansion program was financed by a $60 million bonding program approved by Michigan voters.

Currently, Hawthorn Center is organized into three major service units: an inpatient unit, a day hospital and an outpatient clinic.

Capacity of the inpatient units at any one time is 162 children. Children in the residential program range in age from 6 to 17. They are admitted for diagnoses which include schizophrenia, neurosis, character disorders, encephalopathy, psychophysiologic disorders and severe learning disorders.

At the time of admission, each patient is assigned a therapist which may be a psychiatrist, psychiatric resident, social worker or psychologist. Normally, therapy is provided concurrently to the patient's family. An individual treatment plan is formulated for every resident within one week of admission.

Hawthorn offers a full educational program for children as well as a broad activity and recreation program both on and off the grounds.

Hawthorn Center's day hospital serves 90 children who range in age from three-and-a-half to 17.

Repeat Performance Set

'Godspell' Draws Crowds

"Godspell" with a cast of 12 Northville High School young people played to a near-capacity audience Friday in the community room of Northville Square and moved downstairs to the lower level of the mall Saturday night where there was a sell-out audience.

Sponsored by the Friends of Northville Drama and the Northville Recreation Department, the production replaced the annual high school spring musical which had been eliminated in last fall's school budget cuts.

The vigorous performances by talented high school students, who constructed stages and wire backdrops as well as seating arrangements for the Square production, received ovations from the audiences.

A third public performance has been scheduled for 8 p.m. this Saturday at the Plymouth Cultural Center on Farmer Street in Plymouth, Kurt Kinde, Northville High drama teacher who directed the musical, announced Monday.

Tickets are going fast, with 200 already sold, he said, but the center has a 1,000 seat capacity. The tickets are $3 for adults and $2.50 for students.

The cast also will perform the play at 8:15 p.m. this Friday at Bethany Methodist Church in Clio, Michigan. The performance is dedicated to Kinde's father, the Reverend S. D. Kinde, a former Northville Methodist minister, now retiring.

Director Kinde explained that "Godspell" is moving to Plymouth this weekend as it has been difficult to find a location for the repeat performance as at least a 10-foot ceiling is needed.

Such innovative arrangements as bringing the cast from the audience were utilized by the director to accommodate the production in the square facilities.

Doug Webster, excellent in the star role, also received praise for keeping the action moving and ad-libbing when arrangements made it necessary.

Friends point out that the play has been made possible because of donations from patrons, sponsors and businesses.

Patrons who have supported Godspell include Our Lady of Victory and Northville Presbyterian churches, Milo Hunt, Thomas E. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Kinde, Nicolina and Candida Martella, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Miron, Miss Florence Panattoni, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sitarski, Tim Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Vargo, Dr. and Mrs. W. Dean Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Willoughby and Father Gerard Hadad.

All patrons contributed $25 or more to enable production to begin.

Sponsors, who made a contribution of their choosing, include Mr. and Mrs. Robert Assenmacher, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred C. Becker, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Benoit, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beuter, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bidwell, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bohn, David Duey, Mr. and Mrs. Daryl K. Egeland, Mr. and Mrs. Lamont Eltinge;

'GODSPELL' STAR—Doug Webster makes an appealing lead in the Northville Friends of Drama-Recreation Department sponsored production of "Godspell."

Set Meeting

A meeting on smoke detectors and fire safety will be held Wednesday, May 19 at the Country Cousin Estates clubhouse from 7-10 p.m.

Wixom Prepares Exchange Day Plans

Michigan Week festivities in Wixom, says chairlady Carolyn Morehead, are many, varied and cover virtually every segment of the community.

Kick-off this Saturday, May 15, celebrating Youth Day, begins with a city parade at 10 a.m. The parade route follows a path from Maple Road, west of Wixom Road, then south on Wixom Road to Pontiac Trail.

There the line of marchers, floats and bands will turn east and proceed to City Hall. A judges and reviewing stand will be set up at City Hall.

Throughout the day there are scheduled events for the whole family. The Wixom School fair, a pet show, and an hour long exhibition by police dog Kojak will be followed by a free mini-performance of a wild west show.

Further into the day, the Police Department will host a chicken barbecue with dinner tickets available on the grounds. Pop for the children and 10 cent beer for the adults will also be featured.

A second, grand performance of the wild west show will be staged at 7 p.m. That performance will have a $1 adult and 50 cent children admission charge.

Dancing on a specially erected dance floor under a grand tent will complete the day.

The entire community is invited to the Finnish Summer Camp on Loon Lake Road for an open house Sunday. Tours of the sauna and a summer "camp" as well as a program and Finnish pastries are offered.

The open house is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. with no charge. Government officials of Wixom will exchange with the City of Hastings during the observation of Government Day Monday, May 17.

Welcoming ceremonies will be held at City Hall beginning at 9:30 a.m. The community is invited, with coffee and rolls served following the program. Later the same day an all city dinner is planned at the U.A.W. Hall. The banquet honors Wixom's graduating high school students and visiting officials.

A social hour will be held at the hall beginning at 6:30 p.m. with dinner following. Tickets are available at $2.50 per person.

Wixom's Senior Citizens will be feted with a luncheon on Tuesday, May 18. A program is planned for the seniors following the luncheon.

Livelihood Day, May 19 will be celebrated with an all city potluck ladies' luncheon at the V.F.W. Hall. The program begins at 11:30 a.m.

Children at both Wixom and Loon Lake Elementary School will find a full-length feature movie shown for them during school hours on Education Day.

The week will conclude with an open house at the Wixom Public Library on Saturday, May 22. The event will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Final attraction to the entire week is the Wixom Treasure Hunt, Saturday night. Those festivities are planned by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Haight and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Dodge.

Driver Confession Reported in Fatal Novi Hit-Run

In Novi

A 45-year-old Milford man has reportedly confessed to being involved in a hit-run accident April 26 in Novi which took the life of a Farmington man riding his bicycle along Grand River. Waiving examination in district court last week was Carl Kutzli of 4767 Ravinewood Drive on Lake Sherwood. He is being charged with failure to stop at the scene of a personal injury accident. That charge is a felony and carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and $5,000 fine. Oakland County Prosecuting Attorney L. Brooks Patterson told The Novi News that Kutzli could not be charged with manslaughter, a 15 year maximum felony, because gross negligence and malice, as well as wanton disregard for the safety of the victim must be proven. Patterson described Kutzli as a businessman who "compounded his problem" when he took off from the scene of the accident. According to Patterson, Kutzli has never been in trouble with the law previously and "he did admit it was an accident." Patterson would not release further details of the confession.

Kutzli waived his exam before 52nd District Court Judge Gene Schnelz and will appear in circuit court June 7 at 2 p.m. in the court of Judge Robert Webster.

He was released on $5,000 personal bond.

Kutzli is being charged in the death of 25-year-old Ronald Kelly who was struck and killed as he rode his bicycle along the shoulder of Grand River near Taft. The hit-run car reportedly had just passed another car on Grand River over the speed limit and apparently overcompensated when it pulled back into the lane, striking Kelly from behind.

The car slowed down for a moment and then sped off. Kelly died early the next morning, approximately six hours after the accident.

According to Patterson, "The citizens came forward with a great deal of information which helped." Tips led to discovery of the car in Kutzli's garage at his Lake Sherwood home.

An inspection and tests by the state police crime lab established that the car, which had a gaping hole through the passenger's side of the windshield, was involved in the accident. Kutzli later turned himself into police after being contacted at the request of police by a neighbor.

According to police reports, the woman was arrested after a fellow employee observed her taking narcotics from a box and hiding them on her person.

Conviction on the embezzlement charge carries up to 10 years' imprisonment and $5,000 maximum fine.

A Northville Township Police officer on routine patrol making building checks spotted a broken lower window at the station.

The owner was called and with the officer, made a further check of the premises. It was observed that an attempt to enter the safe was made. The cash register and drawers were also rifled. The owner told police it appeared nothing had been taken in the robbery attempt but would continue checking for any missing property.

A 10-speed bicycle valued at $150 was reported stolen from a garage in the 46200 area of Sunset. The owner told police the bicycle was apparently taken between 5 p.m. May 7 and 10 a.m. May 8.

A woman prisoner being transported from the Wayne County jail to the Detroit House of Correction escaped custody by starting a fire in the back seat of the police vehicle in which she was riding.

The escape took place in the vicinity of M-14 and Lilley Road at approximately 10:45 a.m. May 3. The handcuffed prisoner escaped on foot when the rear door was opened to reach the fire.

Garrison, who has been a trooper for four years, leaves the Plymouth post to accept a position as a probation officer in Kalamazoo.

In Northville

A home on Williamsburg in the Northville Estates area was broken into and ransacked while the owner was at work Wednesday. Entry to the home was made by prying open a door wall.

A total of $700 in valuables was taken from the home including a portable color TV, luggage, jewelry as well as bed linens.

At least 12 mailboxes were damaged and a lawn destroyed in Northville Estates recently. Only a few of the residents had reported the damaged property to the police.

Northville City Police questioned three suspects who admitted destroying the property in the area. Involved in the incidents were Michael Mitchell and Bruce Findling, both 18 and Northville residents and Dennis Myers, 19, of Plymouth.

The three said they would either fix or pay for the repairs of the damaged mailboxes and supporting posts. The property owners will notify the police as soon as the property is repaired to their satisfaction.

A 10-speed Schwinn bicycle was reported stolen from the Northville Square May 9. According to the actual owner of the bike, he said he had taken it to the house of a friend around 6:30 p.m.

The friend then rode the bike to the Square, parked it and went into the Square. The bike was taken sometime between 8 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Value of the bike was listed at $135.

A 6' x 10' window at the Arcade 5 in Northville Square was broken recently causing $500 in damage.

According to the owner of the Arcade, a Northville juvenile may have broken the window with his fist.

An Edison electric meter was torn off the rear wall of the building housing Freydl's Cleaners on East Main Street. In the incident which occurred May 4, the meter was totally destroyed by unknown persons.

In Wixom

Two late model Ford Granada's stolen from the parking areas at the Village Apartments on May 6 were recovered later the same day in the fields behind the Hickory Hills Golf Course.

In both cases, the owners of the cars told Wixom Police they were taken sometime between 8:30 p.m. May 5 and 7:30 a.m. May 6.

The cars were found when a Pontiac couple who were riding in the fields saw the vehicles and contacted the police.

One of the cars had all four tires and wheels removed while the other was completely stuck in the mud. A bulldozer had to be used to remove the vehicles.

A Pontiac man who rented a piece of equipment from the Body-Harrison Company on Wixom Road April 23 now faces a larceny by conversion charge made against him by the company.

Company officials told Wixom Police the man rented a fork lift valued at $8900 for one day and paid cash for the rental charge. He was to return the equipment the same day.

On May 4, when the equipment had not yet been returned, a company official went to the man's home. He was told by a woman answering the door she didn't know anything about the equipment but promised to have the man call the company.

When the company did not receive the phone call they contacted the police and lodged the complaint.

Louis Turner of Highland was injured when the car he was driving jumped the median section on Wixom Road, crossed the other two lanes of the road and crashed into a chain link fence.

Turner told police he had made a right turn onto Wixom Road from West Road and was traveling northbound when a car traveling south crossed the cement median in front of him.

Turner further stated he swerved his vehicle sharply to avoid hitting the other car and went out of control. Police could find no skid marks or other evidence to substantiate Turner's story.

Doctors at Botsford Hospital treated Turner's injuries and released him.

A storage tank at a residence on Beck Road was siphoned of 800 gallons of diesel fuel. The owner told police the oil was taken between 6 p.m. May 1 and 12 p.m. May 2.

building in the Village Apartment complex.

A Wixom man told police someone had broken into his pick-up truck and stolen all the masonry tools stored in the cab of the truck.

The truck, which was parked near the man's apartment in the Village complex, was broken into between 5 p.m. May 4 and 7 a.m. May 5. Value of the tools was $135.

A 10-speed bike was taken from a garage of a residence on Potter Road. The incident was thought to have occurred between 2:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. May 6.

An extortion complaint has been lodged against a Northville man by another Northville resident. Both men are employed at the Ford Motor Company on Wixom Road.

According to the complainant, Joey Stodulski, co-worker M.C. Haney offered to do him a favor which would cost him $30. Stodulski paid Haney the money.

The next day Haney told Stodulski he needed more money at which time Stodulski paid him an additional $40. By the end of the day Stodulski told police he had paid Haney a total of $150 in cash.

Haney then told Stodulski he should learn to play cards and gamble and met him later at Stodulski's home reportedly to teach him to play cards.

Although Stodulski told Haney he didn't play cards for money, Haney kept score of the game. Haney reportedly told Stodulski later that he owed him $400.

Both men then went to a pool hall with Haney offering Stodulski the chance to get his money back by playing pool.

The men began playing the game with Stodulski saying he told Haney he didn't owe him any money but would like to learn the game.

According to Stodulski, Haney again kept score of the game. Haney later told Stodulski he owed him $1400 but would "knock off $500".

Now says Stodulski, Haney has asked him when he plans to pay him the money he owes him.

Firemen's Equipment To be Purchased by Novi

Novi City Council has agreed to purchase equipment from the Novi Firemen's Association at a cost of $5,400.

The agreement still must be approved by the firemen's association, but if it is, the city will have purchased several items including two tankers, a hydrant on wheels, a pumper, Econoline van and other assorted items, many of which are vintage equipment.

If the purchase is agreed to by the firemen's association, the city administration has recommended that the money come from the following places in the budget: consulting engineer, $200; radio maintenance, $400; auto and truck maintenance, $4,000; and equipment rental, $800.

Only person to vote against the agreement was Robert Schmid who questioned purchasing equipment from a voluntary organization working for the city.

"This could be a power conflict which isn't a healthy situation," he said.

The agreement carries with it the stipulation that "from this day forward no fireman or firemen are to receive or purchase equipment in the name of any agency other than the City of Novi except in the instance of equipment and uniforms normally associated with individual assignment and use."

That statement was included to quell previous objections by councilmen that some of the equipment owned by the firemen's association had been donated by people who intended that the equipment actually be used by the fire department.

Novi Firemen's Association President Gregory Wisner said Monday that he soon will bring the agreement to the association members for a vote.

Water Bonding OK Sought on Ballot

The bonds are to be repaid through collection of tap fees as development continues in Novi. The city council last week approved raising tap-in fees from $200 up to $500 to accommodate repayment of the bonds. The city will have to sell 500 taps a year to pay back the bonds, according to the city manager.

Because the city would be pledging its full faith and credit, if for any reason enough taps are not sold, the city could levy a millage to pay off the debt. Kriewall said he expects little problem in tap sales, pointing not only to periphery commercial development near the shopping center, but also to expected further residential development.

Dayton Hudson, developers of the Twelve Oaks Mall, has already agreed to pick up 450 taps while the high school would pick up approximately 88 more. Dayton Hudson will also be paying for its share of the water line along its site with the city paying only for over-sizing.

According to Kriewall, he is hopeful of having the line down to the Twelve Oaks Mall from 14 Mile by the end of the year. The line should be to the high school by March or April of next year he estimated.

The problem, according to Kriewall, is that the city must get moving on the project without delay to meet those deadlines.

Current bonding problems on the county level have left the sale of bonds by the city as the only alternative if construction is to take place this year.

On the same ballot, filing for precinct delegate in the Republican party have been: precinct one, Donald Campbell, Jr., 43589 Galway; and precinct four, Melvin Stephens, 135 DeGross.

Novi residents will vote at the following locations: Precinct one, Fire Station One, 25850 Novi Road; Precinct 2, Novi Middle School, 25299 Taft Road; Precinct 3, Novi Community Building, 26360 Novi Road; Precinct 4, Fire Station II, Paramount Road at 13 Mile; Precinct 5, Orchard Hills School, 41900 Quince; Precinct 6, Fire Station, I, 25850 Novi Road; Precinct 7, Village Oaks School, 23333 Willowbrook.

necessity of the project, the proposed plans call for total renovation of the existing 4,500 square foot city building. New construction would equal 9,000 square feet.

City officials have long eyed the cramped quarters and lack of storage space as a priority problem. According to those officials, the building as it now exists is undersized for today's population.

Architect Ronald Winebrenner further added, "The plans not only accommodate today but take care of space requirements of the future. It is most important for the city to look down the road."

By combining several city functions in one municipal complex, council members expressed the feeling that the public's exposure to city government would also be increased.

Included in the complex would be the city library as well as Parks and Recreation facilities and meeting space for public functions.

The police department, probably the most severely cramped would be greatly enlarged. Further, the plans call for revising all those spaces now available to create better adapted and more efficient working area.

Major maintenance problems in the current structure would be alleviated with renovation.

Of prime importance is the correction of a reportedly weakened roof. Water leakage from the roof appears to be a constant problem in at least three areas.

Heating, air conditioning and ventilation systems considered sub-standard would be brought to code.

Bernard Van Osedale, Assistant to the Mayor, said the cost of the project equates to an average .868 mill tax increase per year.

running start, made it into their driveway and the engine stalled just as they reached high ground on the other side.

"My husband tried three times to start the car and the third time it started," recalls Mrs. Hersh.

Adds Mrs. Hersh, "We say a prayer when we go through it."

The Hershes have been luckier than many people. When the area floods, the entrance to Ennishore Drive disappears and more than one car trying to make it into Meadowbrook Lake Subdivision has ended up with the car in the ditch after miscalculating the location of the entrance.

The flooding also is blamed by the Hershes for rusting out the underside of the family car and causing costly repairs.

However, many times instead of driving the family car through the water, the Hershes have decided not to tempt fate and have tried to walk in.

"To get to the house we had to walk through 50 acres of cornfield," recalls Mrs. Hersh. "You're taking your life into your hands when you do it because there are dropoffs and huge boulders out in the field."

The flooding, which makes the driveway impassable an average of six days a year, also poses a problem for the five Hersh children. While Mrs. Hersh admits that she doesn't like her kids missing school, usually there isn't much choice as the water is deeper than their boots and they can't reach the bus stop on Ennishore.

"I keep kidding them that we'll have to get them hip boots or a rubber raft," says Mrs. Hersh. "But a rubber raft wouldn't work because the current carries toward the house and away from the road."

So far the children have missed five days of school this school year because of the flooding.

Mrs. Hersh recalls that one time one of her youngsters rode his bicycle through the water to get out to the store. While he made it through on the way out, his bicycle tipped over on the way in and he ended up completely drenched.

Husband Ron Hersh says that he's investigated raising the driveway to try and remedy the situation, but says it would cost him $1,800. And then there is no guarantee it would work.

According to Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall, the only solution to the problem is the expansion of the Patnales Drain which will allow the water to flow freely south of Nine Mile. Kriewall blames the restriction of the water south of Nine Mile for the flooding.

"By the time we're through hearings, we can look for construction in the summer of 1978," said Kriewall.

But for the Hershes, the problem continues. Says Mrs. Hersh, "I like this place and we're planning on sticking it out."

the different circumstances involved had changed, "I expect the school district to assume the responsibility to pay its share only."

The board unanimously approved asking the attorney to draw up a resolution allowing payment of up to $10 a front foot from the general fund and loaning the $58,000. Board indicated, however, that by not joining in the assessment district, it is not precedent setting. The school district also owns a half mile of frontage on Taft Road south of 10 Mile which is scheduled to be paved under the paving program.

The board's share would be $2,640 a year under the agreement approved.

Board also approved 4-2, with Joel Colliau and Sharon Pelchat opposed, the expanded sewer payback agreement which includes payback for indirect taps.

Friday—Potato salad, tuna or peanut butter sandwich, baked beans, dessert and milk.

LENDING A HAND—Bruce (left) and James Starnes hold the puppies which they fished out last Friday from underneath the Novi Library building. The puppies were born under the library about six weeks ago to Tramp, a local dog which had become the mascot of National Bank of Detroit on Grand River in Novi and is fed throughout the community. Because of complaints from the library because of the mother barking at patrons and in order to keep the puppies from running wild, the Starnes brothers crawled under the library and promised that good homes will be found for the puppies after they are weaned.

Wixom Newsbeat

John Kelly's in Parade

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Wixom is moving into one of its busiest times of year — Michigan Week. If you are new to Wixom, it's a perfect opportunity to become acquainted and join in on the many activities planned throughout the week.

Chairlady Carolyn Morehead has dreamed up some whoppers (not served between two buns) which should put this Michigan Week celebration as the biggest and best yet.

There aren't many communities that go all out in observing Michigan Week like Wixom does... it is something everyone can get involved in and should.

If anything, plan on spending a gorgeous sunny day this Saturday enjoying the kick-off to Michigan Week... the Youth Day parade.

Channel 7 newsmen John Kelly reportedly will ride his horse in the parade which will give the added interest of a celebrity. That, plus free hot dogs and pop should be further enticement.

The Wixom School Fair will be on the grounds of City Hall to entertain the kids along with a scrumptious cake walk sponsored by the Historical Society. You'll also be able to see the Society's slide show of Old Wixom.

There'll be a pet show for all our waggy-tailed friends and a pet rock show for the more sedate. Roger DeClercq and friend Kojak will put on a show... I'm told that Bruce Kirby will be the "bad guy" in the thriller "to catch a thief."

But, the star attraction is when Duke Dennison and his band hit town! That's when you'll learn the truth about the gunfight at the O.K. Corral complete with the cold hard facts about the old west.

In the cast are Fred "Billy the Kid" Morehead, Vern "Doc Holliday" Darlington, Phil "Wyatt Earp" Leonard, and June "Mattie (that's Wyatt's sister) Earp" Buck.

The rest of the "low-down critters" are made up of a few non-descript councilmen and policemen. There's live action and horses and gunfire... the real thing!

The first performance, or that which leads up the real biggie, is free and will begin at 3 p.m. The second performance at about 7 p.m. (the biggie) has a ticket cost of $1 per adult and 50 cents for kids.

There will be delightful aromas coming from City Hall too. How could you pass up the delicious, mouth-watering smells of chicken cooking on outdoor grills.

Served up by the Wixom Police Department, dinner will be served around 5 p.m. On the plate you'll find baked beans, potatoe salad, tossed salad and a roll.

Adult portions for $2.50 include a half chicken. Kids 12 and under will find a quarter chicken with the tab set at $1.50.

Why cook... let the Police Department do it for you. There'll be 10 cent beers too. Or you can buy it by the pitcher or the can. There'll be pop... and lots of full tummies!

Now if that's not enough... you'll find a dance floor constructed under the big top and everyone can dance to the strains of the Blue Ribbon Boys. There'll be a hot time in the old town Saturday and you'll certainly want to be there!

The kids at Wixom schools got involved in Michigan Week too. The third and fourth graders designed posters to be used throughout the city advertising Michigan Week.

Special gifts will be presented to the following poster winners following the parade Saturday... Melissa Schenk for her top prize winning drawing, second place went to Cheryl Resnick, Jay Westervelt took third and Julie Terwilliger placed fourth.

Wixom will be having its own version of the great garage sale... scaled down perhaps from that which was held at Cobo Hall... but a grand offering at any rate.

Also occurring during Michigan Week, the Historical Society will be holding a yard and house sale at the Tiffin House. Dates for the sale are May 21 and 22 with all proceeds going towards the Tiffin House restoration.

If during the next week or two you do some spring cleaning and come across a usable item, why not donate it to the sale. It will help make the event that much more interesting.

Books, clean clothing, especially children's sizes, furniture, toys, baby items... anything, would be a welcome addition to the sale.

You can drop your items off at City Hall or call Margaret Ladd at 624-1297 for pick-up.

A historical marker to be set at the "four corners" of early Wixom (Maple and Wixom roads) will be a reality thanks to the efforts and outcome of Wixom's second Orgy last Saturday.

Although the numbers of people attending were down from last year, the group that did attend had a great time and responded to buying male slaves with much gusto.

A "cartel" of Hurst, vangieson, Dingeldey and Morehead brought Police Chief Phil Leonard while Dave Schwanky went to Bonnie Haight. Howard Hollister bought Russ Hoffmeyer but wouldn't commit himself to what job Russ would have.

Martha Tuorin and Helen Mack bought Dingeldey, me-thinks he'll be pushing a lawnmower during vacation time. Dingeldey buying Lillian Spencer brought an airplane for their kids.

Everett and Jan Dulek bought Dr. Ron Hackett... that slave is a useful one! Lillian Spencer outbid the pack for Fred Morehead... a good specimen for odd jobs around the barn.

And for whatever purpose in mind, Dingeldey again outbid the group for both Roger DeClercq and der Mayor Vangieson.

Joan Hollister and Michele Hoffmeyer did a fine job of auctioning on the "slavius bodius blocitus".

Come to think of it, "Cicero's Pub" with Bonnie Haight as "maid in charge" didn't do a bad job either.

Patricia Dryer (left) and Arvie Athas plan Michigan Week activities

Novi Awaits Manistee Mayor

A full day of activity is planned as Novi hosts Manistee officials during Mayor's Exchange Day Monday, May 17.

According to Mayor's Exchange Day chairman Arvie Athas, Manistee officials arriving Sunday night include Mayor Vickers Hanson and councilmen Bernard Shieras and Raymond Wissner. They will stay at the Holiday Inn in Farmington during their visit.

Monday's activity begins at 9 a.m. at the city hall with coffee and rolls. Officials from Manistee along with Novi council members and administrative personnel will tour city offices including the police department and building department.

After that, the group will take a look at the new high school and municipal library buildings.

Bicentennial headquarters will be the site of a catered lunch before the entourage goes out again to tour the Twelve Oaks Mall site, Multi-Elmac and Guardian Photo.

After the tour, visitors will have a few hours of rest at their hotel, a dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. at Novi's Saratoga Trunk and special guest speaker afterward will be Dean Baker, a candidate for the United States Senate who is also a Regent at the University of Michigan and just returned from a trip to Red China. Attending the dinner will be chairmen of all the city boards plus department heads.

According to Mrs. Athas, "I have invited two of the former mayors. In the past they've always been out of town on mayor's exchange day." Invited are former Mayor Robert Daley and past mayor Joseph Crupi.

"It's going to be exciting and informative," summed up Mrs. Athas.

Mayor Gilbert Henderson will be going to Manistee.

Patricia Dryer, secretary to the city manager who is helping in coordination of Michigan Week activities, said that the city will combine government and education days on Thursday when the mayor, council and department heads will exchange places.

A mock council meeting will be held at approximately 8:30 a.m. when the student counterparts will take over the reins for the meeting.

After that, each student will learn about the duties of his counterpart during the rest of the day.

Home Decorating with Lois & Howard Green

Ever wonder what picture to choose for what room? If you specialize in Windsor chairs and Chippendale sofas, you may need Colonial prints, samplers, bird and botanical prints. Spirited rooms, such as game rooms, require spirited pictures: a handsome poster of a fire engine, for instance, something brilliant in color and valiant in action. Godey prints are fine for bedroom corners where a touch of femininity is relevant. The children's room? Highly colored posters and colorful maps are fine. And why not finger paintings and crayon sketches that they have done themselves? Another hint: teenagers are best left to their own creative devices: which will let them keep up with the creative climate of their own society.

GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 348-7110, is known for its expert picture framing business. We have our own custom picture-framing workshop right on the premises. Just bring in your picture and we will make a custom frame for it of the type you select. Let us color-coordinate your room or entire house — we will help you select just the right colors and shades of our FULLER-O'BRIEN PAINTS.

Lefty Fights Bigotry

Northville city manager, Steven Walters, has taken to the soapbox and I think what he has to say may be left of center.

In a jab at bigotry during an illustrated address to Northville Rotarians last week, he demanded equality for the third largest minority in the United States—left-handers.

What's more he left the clear impression with Rotarians that unless something is done and done soon to left a terrible injustice, it will be a long hot summer.

A lefty himself, he warned that he and his cohorts recently organized and earlier this year held their first international convention on the "left bank" in Paris. His group is calling itself Workers Against Right-handed Tyranny. And, he added menacingly, "we are getting more WARTS every day."

Said the manager: "Art Radford, who has been my left-hand man during these early stages of WART growth, can attest to the thrill of seeing hundreds of left-handed comrades chanting 'Rights for Lefts' with their left fists raised, their left thumbs pointed defiantly leftward in the official gesture of WART solidarity."

Active and posthumous membership, he said, covers the entire spectrum of achievement: Gerald Ford, Harry Truman, Ben Franklin, Alexander the Great, Charlie Chaplin, Judy Garland, Cole Porter, Rex Harrison, Babe Ruth, Sandy Koufax, Pele, Michaelangelo, and Pablo Picasso.

Using charts to drive home his points, the manager outlined for Rotarians some of the root causes for today's bigotry. He noted, for example, that right-hand arrogance began to emerge as early as the stone and bronze ages when prehistoric man showed a preference for right-handed tools that could be more readily shared and passed on to the next generation.

In those days, however, social prejudices against left-handers had not yet reached prominence. In fact, said the manager, "The Roman empire considered the left side the lucky side. Roman augurs, or fortune tellers, faced south during their rituals, and thus the sunrise in the east, the sign of good fortune, was on their left."

Citing some verses from the Old Testament, he noted that left-handers were considered unusual but nevertheless they were placed in positive roles. For example in Chapter 20 of the Book of Judges, verse 16 reports that "Among these people were seven hundred chosen men, left-handed, and every one could sling stones at a hair's breadth and not miss."

Commented the manager: "You get the picture from the Old Testament that left-handed people were handy to have around, to do the dirty work."

Left-handers are understandably disturbed by developments in the New Testament, particularly in Chapter 25 of Matthew when Jesus pointed out that at the final judgment the sheep will sit on His right hand, but the goats on His left.

Over the next several centuries the right came to symbolize the righteous, the side of God, and good things in general. In contrast, the left came to symbolize the unjust, the side of the devil, and bad things in general, the manager noted bitterly.

"Christian rituals became based on right-handed and counter-clockwise patterns, while witchcraft and devil-worship became based on left-handed and clockwise patterns.

"Arts, of course, followed right along, and the devil was universally pictured as left-handed. It has never actually been proven that the devil is left-handed, but what other assumption could right-thinking, right-handed men make.

"This sinister and devilish bias against left-handedness worked its way into our language as well as our culture," the manager said, pointing out some lamentable linguistic. He noted, for example, that the Latin word "sinistras" means left side, and "dextras" the right side.

Sinister, by Webster's definition, means dishonestly underhanded, singularly evil, leading to disaster, and related to or situated on the left side. Dexterity, on the other hand, means grace in physical activity, skill in using the hands, mental quickness.

In French, "a gauche" means to the left, while "a droit" means to the right. Translated to English, "gauche" means lacking social grace, and "adroit" means dexterous in the use of the hands, shrewdness or resourcefulness.

In Russian, the word "nolevo" means left side and also awkward, while "pravda" means right side or truth—as in the newspaper, he added sarcastically.

"I am sad to have to report that in the face of all this sinister oppression, only three men have come to the defense of left-handers over the centuries—and none of them did any good," said the manager.

JACK W.
HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

"The first of these was Sir Thomas Brown, who wrote a book in 1648 entitled Vulgar Errors, in which he attempted to dispel various false beliefs and old wives' tales," he told Rotarians. "You have to give him his due for permanently laying to rest such false beliefs as: an elephant has no joints; and the left eye of a hedge hog fried in oil procures sleep."

The next defense of left-handedness appeared 125 years later when Benjamin Franklin, himself left-handed, pleaded with educators to allow the left hand to achieve its true potential.

Third would-be champion of left-handedness was John Jackson, who founded the Ambidextral Cultural Society in 1905. The Society preached that the left hand could be cultivated to a much higher degree of dexterity, and its battle cry became, "Justice & Equality for the Left Hand."

"Well, this started sounding pretty good to left-handers, but it was too good to last, for the oppressive right-handed majority soon mounted a counterattack. Dr. G. M. Gould wrote in the Boston Medical Journal against 'ambidextral cranks, sillies & mongers'.

"And the famous surgeon Sir James Critchton-Brown argued in a series of lectures in 1909 that since man had been primarily right-handed for a long time, right-handedness was obviously a terminal form of evolution, and that the ambidextral effort to undo dextral pre-eminence was in conflict with man's evolution.

"Well, this was too much for John Jackson. He caved in, sold out to the right-handed majority, and tried to defend his society by saying, 'Ambidexterity does not mean two left hands—nobody has ever contemplated making himself ambisinistrous! Ambidexterity means two right hands!'"

According to City Manager Walters, the preference for right-handedness or left-handedness is hereditary and has to do with which side of the brain is dominant.

"The right side of the brain controls imagination and creative thinking, and also the left side of the body. If the right side of the body is dominant, the person is left-handed. The left side of the brain controls reasoning and calculating, and also the right side of the body. If it is dominant, the person is right-handed.

"Scientists believe now that there is no such thing as a truly ambidextrous person, and that such people are really natural left-handers who have been socially pushed toward right-handedness."

"Enough!" shouted the manager. "The left-handed people of this world have had it with right-handed tyranny."

And then in conciliatory tone, he pleaded with "some of you right-handed people" to consider the concerns of WART and join the assault on bigotry.

WART's goal in the coming year, he explained, "is to establish AA centers throughout the country. The purpose of AA—'Ambidexterity Anonymous'—is to aid all ambidextrous persons, the so-called 'closet lefties', to come out of the closet and reveal their sinister nature to the world.

"We extend the left hand of fellowship to all who will join us, and we will not shirk from our goal to achieve rights for lefts."

"After all, it's the left thing to do."

It was a moving address and I, for one, offer my services. However, I challenge the local WART to put its left shoulder into a serious problem brought to my attention by another citizen against right-handed oppression, Dave Heinzman.

The city came to the defense of left-turning motorists in persuading the county to install a traffic light at the multi-corner of Eight Mile-Novi Road-Novi Street last year. But now, because of an atrocious right-turn on red law, the safety again has been placed in jeopardy at the intersection.

And since Northville's chief WART, the city manager, is a neighbor of Heinzman and myself, he must recognize that the right-turn on red at this corner is a sinister breach. We accepted without a whimper the "no-left" turn at Novi Street, but the right-turn on red simply cannot be tolerated.

Novi Board Attacks Fee

lose $27,450 acting as the tax collection agency for the other bodies.

He contended, however, that instead of just using general fund monies to bear the cost of collection, "I'm saying why not call it what it is?"

Council members appeared mixed in their reception to the change in philosophy.

Councilman Philip Goodman, commented, "We're not out to make a profit, but we're not out to make a loss."

He noted, however, that the previous council had the philosophy of not adding the collection fee without the vote of the people. Todd added that, in actuality by approving their legislators who passed legislation allowing the levy of the one percent collection fee, the residents had in reality approved it.

Council member Patricia Karevich recommended waiting on instituting the one percent fee.

"If they don't want the tax we should layoff or do whatever is necessary until they vote that one percent. I agree with the concept, but not now."

Todd also pointed out that in Oakland county 19 communities already levy the one percent fee with only five which do not. Todd added that the final community, Keego Harbor, gave different answers when he contacted it, so he did not include it in his count.

Council during the budget session also discussed briefly the library board request for a half mill additional and its effect on the budget as presented by the city manager. Todd said that "I think we can crack the nut, but it will be a tough one." He added that a request for funds by the library board to pay bills on the new library, "is going to make the cash flow situation tight."

Council also discussed where overall increased revenues and expenditures will come from during the next year.

Todd said there will have to be $21 million in growth in the city to allow the city to pick up the $130,000 cost of police grants that will be running out.

"It will be tough to make it," said Todd of the necessary increased valuation of the city.

Futher budget study sessions are planned for tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. at the administration building, Wednesday, May 19 at the Bicentennial office on 12 Mile and Friday May 22 at the administration building. The budget is expected to be adopted at the Monday, May 24th regular council meeting.

Kids Salute State

Special Michigan Week programs have been slated at all Northville schools, beginning with flag raising ceremonies Monday.

Moraine Elementary School will hold an appreciation tea for mother helpers on Tuesday, followed by a careers breakfast Wednesday. On Thursday, Jack Hoffman, assistant to the publisher, The Northville Record, will talk on the history of Northville. A talent show will be held Friday.

Silver Spring Elementary will recognize Michigan Week with a Bicentennial assembly, recognition of mother helpers and a clean-up, fix-up program. Students will also plant a Bicentennial garden around the flag pole.

Amerman Elementary School will hold an Amerman day luncheon honoring Mr. Russ Amerman and mother helpers. Other events will include a PTA luncheon honoring teachers and a mother appreciation tea. The school will plant 500 pine seedlings.

All classes at Winchester Elementary will concentrate on the Michigan Week theme. Winchester will also sponsor a clean-up, fix-up campaign, a Bicentennial flower planting, a career breakfast, old fashioned dress-up day, grandparent's day and PTA plant-a-flower sale.

The eighth grade at Meads Mill Middle School will have a special week-long study unit on Michigan. All social studies classes will concentrate on Michigan and art classes will make posters commemorating Michigan Week and the Bicentennial.

Other Meads Mill activities will include tree planting and the making of a Bicentennial quilt.

Northville High School has invited elected state officials to speak to their social studies classes.

Part of state-wide Michigan Week activities will include the annual Michigan Youth Arts Festival at Central Michigan University. Patricia Dorrian, an English teacher at Northville High will receive the state creative writing teacher award there Wednesday.

Festival was designed by a Northville student.

Michigan Week begins with Civic Pride Day Saturday and runs through next Friday.

A pre-Michigan Week program, "In America—In Michigan" is being presented in Northville schools this week by the Consumers Power Company.

'Lake Incumbents To Seek Re-election

Two incumbent members of the Walled Lake Board of Education apparently will seek re-election to that board in June.

According to a school district spokesperson, both incumbents Robert Cooper and Warren Williams have taken out nominating petitions.

Along with Cooper, who would be seeking his second four year term and Williams, aiming for his first full term, are an undisclosed number of residents circulating nominating petitions.

First appointed to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of John Clark, Williams ran successfully last June for a one year stint to complete Clark's term.

Also appearing on the school ballot June 14 will be the third try at a millage proposal approval. Prior millage elections in October and April were defeated by district voters.

All residents of the Walled Lake School district are able to circulate petitions and have until 4 p.m. May 17 to turn in nominating petitions. Forms are available at the administration office.

Park Question On Oakland Ballot

Oakland County voters will be asked on the Tuesday presidential primary ballot to approve a request for renewal of a quarter mill for Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

If approved, the quarter mill would raise $1.8 million a year for the next five years, according to Erick Reickel, director of the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission.

"The purpose of the millage is to provide a series of Oakland County Parks through acquisition, development and operation," said Reickel.

While there are no county parks in the Novi-Wixom area of the county, Reickel pointed out that parks in the northern portion of the county can be used by southern residents.

The parks commission operates seven parks basically through the quarter mill plus additional revenue from charges for using the parks and grants from the federal and state governments.

The quarter mill was originally approved in 1966 and was renewed in 1970.

Laud Blood Bank Worker

Working at the Northville Community Blood Bank Friday was only the most recent assignment in Mae Winter's long career as a Red Cross volunteer.

To reward her 35 years of service, Mrs. Winter will receive a pin as part of Red Cross 1976 Volunteer and Staff Recognition Week (May 9-15). The pins are awarded only to those who are always willing to work when called, according to Mrs. Elden Biery, organizer of the blood drive.

Mrs. Winter's Red Cross service began in 1940 as a production volunteer making layettes. In 1942 she took a Red Cross nursing course and worked during World War II in Sessions Hospital, Northville.

Mrs. Winter's current job at the blood bank is that of an observer. She serves refreshments to donors and makes sure they feel in A-1 condition before they leave the blood bank.

Mrs. Biery says Mrs. Winter is excellent in this job because she is so attentive. "She talks to them (the donors) to get their minds off themselves," Mrs. Biery says.

Mrs. Winter is also an active member of the First Baptist Church of Plymouth and she is chairman of the blood bank there.

Friday's drive at the First Presbyterian Church collected 72 pints of blood for Northville and Northville Township residents.

35-YEARS—Mae Winter of Northville gives a Red Cross blood donor the thoughtful attention that has marked her 35 years as a volunteer.

Michigan gets into the presidential primary act next Tuesday. And at this stage it's ironical that the wide-open Democratic race (seven candidates appear on the Michigan primary ballot) has turned into a Jimmy Carter runaway, while the two-man Republican contest is a too-tight-to-call slugfest between President Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan.

But there are more issues on the May 18 ballot than ones involving presidential hopefuls.

These include important local questions for voters in Northville, Novi and Wixom.

Wayne County residents of the city and township of Northville will be asked to approve a half-mill levy for five years to provide funds to construct and operate a 400-cell jail annex for Wayne County.

It would be impossible to contend there is no need for the facility. Sheriff William Lucas is pinned between a rock and a hard place as he struggles to comply with court orders from two sides. On the one hand a 720-prisoner limit has been imposed at the present jail. Cells for 1,200 inmates are needed this year.

County commissioners have been forced to spend more than $2 million to provide temporary jail facilities at DeHoCo and one building at Wayne County General Hospital.

This emergency diversion of funds cuts into the budgets of other county services.

The half-mill levy proposal would raise some 35 million dollars over the next five years. It would permit the county to build the new facility on a pay-as-you-go basis, thereby eliminating perhaps $40 million in interest payments that normally accompany a conventional 25-year bond issue.

To the average homeowner in Northville cost-per-year amounts to about $10. That's $50 for the five-year levy.

The alternatives are not very pleasant. As noted, a bond issue would be far more costly. And delay increases the opportunity for grave and serious incidents involving both society in general and the imprisoned.

While we deplore crowded jails, we hardly welcome the prospect of high-risk offenders walking the streets. And there's evidence that this is happening more frequently because of the jail capacity crisis.

Under the circumstances, Proposition A on Tuesday's special election ballot in Wayne County should receive support of all citizens.

Vote YES for Wayne County jail facilities.

In Novi voters should lend their support to the $3,600,000 water system improvement proposal.

Water tap fees should offset any direct tax cost to property owners. But by guaranteeing the faith and credit of the community the bonds will attract lower interest rates.

Water service is essential to the growth of any community, and in this particular instance Novi has a high school, library, a huge shopping complex plus present and future residential areas that will benefit from the extension of water lines.

The council and manager have chosen a course that would have those who benefit most directly from the service pay for its installation.

While taxpayers should be mindful that their support of the proposal does make them responsible for payment, there's soundness in the basic premise that revenues from those who pay to tap into the system will finance the improvement.

Furthermore, the council can adjust tap fee rates to assure revenues meet financing obligations, should that become necessary.

Novi residents should vote YES for the "Water Supply System Improvement Bonding Proposition".

Wixom voters will decide Tuesday whether or not they wish to add .868 mills to their tax rate to renovate and expand their city hall facilities.

The 9,000-square-foot addition to the 4,500-square-foot building would include a library, which is now housed in converted retail store space.

Taxpayers in Wixom submitted petitions calling for an election on the proposal, which has full council support. It's a $750,000 project that will cost the average homeowner about $15 annually.

Admittedly, Wixom's city hall is too small for its present operations. In 1970 the city had a population of slightly more than 2,000. It is conducting a special census estimated to reveal a population of some 6,000.

But opponents of the expansion believe that adequate remodeling can be undertaken for around $100,000.

What the new structure would provide is adequate space for police, building department, community services, council chambers and a library.

These kinds of improvements hold little attraction for the average dollar-conscious taxpayer.

While Mayor Val Vangieson says he won't be heartbroken if the proposal fails, it's obvious he wants very much to have the people of Wixom support the "community services center" concept.

"We'd be foolish not to do it now. The need is there and it won't go away," the mayor contends.

Mayor Vangieson doesn't view the city hall expansion as an office building for city employees and elected officials. He sees it as a community center of activity for the citizens of the 9-square-mile city ... a needed addition that will pay for itself in important services to people for decades.

Practically speaking, the citizens of Wixom will put a price-tag on it and decide if the council's dream is worth their dollars.

Also practically speaking, it will never come cheaper and by far the biggest share of the cost will be borne by the city's number one taxpayer — Ford Motor Company.

ALFRED SHERIDAN

Speaking for Myself

TEDD WALLACE

GOOD . . .

Michigan's Presidential Primary is indeed a "popularity contest"—but in the finest sense of the words. It is a popularity contest just as is the Presidential Election itself.

The Michigan primary gives the people of Michigan an opportunity to play a very real and effective role in helping to choose the party nominee for President. And for that reason I think it is an excellent primary.

Unlike the Pennsylvania primary, for example, the people's choice is reflected in the commitment of the delegates. In Pennsylvania, a candidate can win a big majority of votes and yet not win a correspondingly large majority of delegates.

If Mr. Carter, for example, should win 75-percent of the popular vote in the Michigan Presidential Primary, he will command a like percentage of the Democratic delegates at the convention. In that respect "popularity" or the voice of the people does indeed mean something.

I agree that the timing of the primary is poor so far as expense is concerned, and for that reason, if I am still around, I will do what I can to get it changed. It would be far better, in my opinion, if the Presidential Primary were tied in with the primary for state offices.

Nevertheless, the Presidential Primary as it exists in Michigan today is an improvement over what we had in 1972, and certainly it is better than choosing candidates in smoke filled rooms.

Rep. Alfred A. Sheridan
Chairman, Elections Committee

BAD . . .

It's not so much the question of whether Presidential Primaries are good or bad, but whether they are worth the revenues spent out of the state's tax coffers.

I'm sure I speak for the majority of the taxpayers when I say this money should not be wasted on primaries so that candidates can find out how popular they are. Polls can serve that function, and I also think it is wrong to commit delegates to certain candidates months before the political conventions.

Frankly, I can't get too excited over voting in a primary that is full of name-calling, back-stabbing, two-faced, but always cordial, candidates. And who cares if people don't vote for their parties' candidate, as recent primaries have shown to happen?

There have been suggestions that primaries should be run on a regional basis, but certainly there still would be high costs. I feel we should get rid of primaries and have the candidates earn their delegates' votes at the political conventions. By then most of the mud-slinging will have taken place and the best candidates will be there for the delegates to choose from.

I understand that Michigan is going to have a primary on May 18. I can hardly wait.

Readers Speak

Homeowners Fault School

To the Editor:

Do you know where your children are? Are they safe? Clashes, to be sure, but important for each and every one of us to consider.

Like many of us, you probably send your children off to school secure in the knowledge that he (or she) will return safely home. You probably also believe that the discipline in the school is such that your child will stay out of trouble.

There is no guarantee if your child attends Meads Mill School. On April 14, six boys attempted to hop a freight train at the Mill Street crossing—fortunately no one was hurt. Throughout the winter, students were shagging cars and busses. The weather cleared, the ice melted, and the problem solved itself—no thanks to school authorities.

With the coming of spring, the car shagging has stopped, but other problems are still there.

Now the residents in the Meads Mill School area are again plagued with students in their yards littering, smoking and in some cases, damaging property. At least two homes have been egged recently. One homeowner has had an old barn torn apart by students. More than a few mailboxes have been damaged by students throwing rocks.

How would you feel if you came home to find a group of students on your front lawn eating their lunches, smoking and leaving their litter on your front yard as they ran back to school property? This very thing happens all the time all along Franklin Road. Large groups of students walking to the store on Northville Road at Six Mile have on more than a few occasions blocked the road, refusing to yield to traffic and then shouting obscenities when they finally allow the cars to pass.

On at least one occasion, Meads Mill students stopped a five-year-old boy who was walking to a friend's house and offered him a cigarette. Only last Thursday, students threw stones at a child as he ventured outside his house. Fortunately, again, no one was hurt.

When residents call the school with a problem, the answers are varied. Some of the most frequent responses are, "That is a police problem, call the police." (This in response to the students shagging cars. The resident is supposed to run into the house and call the police and expect the students to wait until the police arrive even if it means missing the bus.)

"There are just too many students for us to keep track of." (This in response to a call concerning the chronic smoking problem.)

"I'll have someone call when they get in from lunch." (This was in response to the stone throwing episode.)

"Did you get their names?" (This is the most often asked question. It is the resident's fault if they don't get names from students as they disappear into the woods after being discovered in the act of damaging property.)

A solution? No letter of complaint should ever be written without offering solutions as well. The sad thing about these problems is that they never would have happened if promises had been kept.

1. A fence was promised along Franklin Road and the buses were supposed to have been routed in off Waterford Road with the "overflow" parking lot being used only for extra parking during school functions.

2. The closed campus rule should be enforced. The excuse for not enforcing it is that there is no fence to keep students in.

3. The school authorities should come up with a workable method for supervising students during school hours—particularly during lunch and before and after school.

4. Stick to the rules already claimed by the Meads Mill office. If smoking is punishable by suspension, then at least make some effort to look for the offenders and see they are punished. If the campus is closed, then at least make some effort to see the rule is followed.

Hopefully, problems such as these can be speedily remedied and the close

News From Lansing

By R. Robert Geake
State Representative

When you go to the polls to vote in the presidential primary next Tuesday, May 18, readers of this column who live in Wayne County will also find on the ballot a proposal to increase property taxes by 1/2 mill to build a new 400 bed Wayne County Jail. Because the proposal is described as a "new" jail, many voters are under the mistaken impression that it is to replace the present jail.

Actually, the new facility would be more properly described as a new jail annex because it is planned for a site just one block south of the present jail in downtown Detroit and will provide space for 400 prisoners in addition to the 720 beds in the present jail. The building has been planned in such a way that it may be expanded still further in the future.

Many people have written to me asking why so many persons charged with violent crimes are released on bail pending trial. The question is especially important in view of the large number of crimes committed by persons who are already awaiting trial for one felony when they are caught committing another. One answer in Wayne county is that the county jail is presently filled to capacity and has been for many months. When new arrests are made there is no place to hold them and thus the judge frequently has little choice but to grant bail, oft times against his better judgment.

The cost of the half mill is fifty cents per year for each one thousand dollars of state equalized valuation. Thus homes in the $30,000 range could expect to be taxed (assuming they are properly assessed at 50 per cent of true market value) an additional $7.50 per year. Similarly, homeowners of property in the $40,000 range would pay $10 more per year, homes in the $50,000 range would yield $12.50, etc.

Of course, the same property tax relief provisions which I wrote about in this column during the school millage campaign will apply to this millage too. You will recall that the property tax relief provided by the state applies to all homeowners whose homestead property tax exceeds 3 1/2 per cent of their income, up to a ceiling of $500.

Last month the residents of the Northville School District voted additional millage so that our children might have a better education. Doesn't it make sense to vote to tax ourselves one more half mill to help keep those children, and all of us, safer by making it possible for judges to have a place to send dangerous criminals while they are awaiting trial and sentencing?

Lewis Seeks Post

To the Editor:

The years immediately ahead of us are, in my opinion, critical ones for education in the Northville school district. Because I am personally concerned about the quality of education in general and about educational decisions to be made in Northville in particular, I have decided to resign as Acting Chairman of the Society of People Interested in Demanding Educational Responsibility (S.P.I.D.E.R.) and become a candidate for the board of education.

Since I have been openly critical of the board and administration on numerous occasions, it now will become my responsibility as a candidate to propose positive and meaningful solutions to educational problems as I see them. Therefore, I will, in the next few weeks, submit to your newspaper and to the public my planned solutions in the areas of grass roots involvement by board members, more open participation by the public in board of education meetings, and common sense changes in curriculum and inter-communication in the school system.

I am sure The Record will afford equal and responsible coverage to all candidates for the board so that the issues in the June election can be thoroughly and thoughtfully debated and then decided upon by the community.

EXCHANGE—Mayor Fred H. Beck of the City of Utica will be Northville's guest Monday on Michigan Week Mayor Exchange Day. Mayor Beck, 60, was elected to the post in 1961. He is enjoying semi-retirement after owning and operating the Beck Insurance Agency presently operated by his son, Bob. He is married, the father of a son and daughter, and the grandfather of nine. Hobbies are hunting, fishing, golf and bowling. Councilman and Mrs. Floyd Thormann will accompany him to Northville.

Building Inspector Resigns

Resignation of Northville Township building inspector Carl Lundquist has been received by Supervisor Betty Lennox.

He will remain in the post two to three weeks, Mrs. Lennox stated, as the township seeks a replacement for the full-time position.

In announcing his intention to leave last week, Mrs. Lennox reported, Lundquist indicated he would like to spend more time in northern Michigan where he has retirement property. She added that his services will be missed.

A committee is being formed to take resumes from qualified people to fill the vacancy. The supervisor then will make a recommendation to the township board.

Mrs. Lennox said that the committee will include herself, township clerk Clarice Sass and township engineer William Mosher. She added that she hopes Northville City Manager Steven Walters also will serve as the city contracts for his services.

Persons interested in the position, she said, should send their resumes to her. She indicated that the national BOCA building code qualifications for the post would be used in filling it.

Lundquist had served as township building inspector for six years.

College Refusal Draws Ire

To the Editor:

On April 28, the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees passed up a golden opportunity to become innovators in the area of student participation. The Schoolcraft College Student Senate, headed by its president, Jeff Stabenau, had requested a "student advisory" seat on the Board of Trustees to enable the students equality of representation in the policy making process. It simply is not possible to run a college properly unless the people whose lives are effected by the decisions are involved in making those decisions. Stabenau elaborated further in stating that the creation of a student advisory seat to the Board of Trustees would further serve to develop a personal and functional relationship between the board and student body.

The request, which fell short by one vote, was rejected by Trustees Ronald Cowden, an administrative assistant in the City of Livonia and also a past vice-principal in a local area high school; Leroy C. Bennett, a teacher; and Dr. Gerald L. Cox, a teacher in the Detroit school system. All of the above are or were educators and presumably progressively in touch with today's trends toward student involvement. But their reasoning was faulty in this case.

Mr. Cowden's reasoning was that "the inclusion of a student advisor would prolong the meetings." As if the student would comment on everything on the agenda. Mr. Bennett rejected the proposal on the grounds that other special groups (in particular labor) would then request a seat also. What he failed to realize was that students have no bargaining power as do the unions with their contracts and ability to withhold services, and insure their rights.

The third dissenter was Dr. Gerald L. Cox, whose reasoning could not be followed by the students in attendance or his fellow trustees on the Board, but voted against the proposal anyway. It must be pointed out that the seat requested by the students was a non-voting seat (as that would be illegal) and the student advisor could only be included in the Board's executive meetings at the pleasure of the Board. This seat would initially be for a one year trial period. Needless to say, the matter is not dead and the students plan to present their plan at a later date.

Criticizes Police

To The Editor:

I am beginning to wonder what has happened to this city. Can't we have some educated police on this force?

On the afternoon of April 30 as I was coming home from town, I saw a scruffy looking black and white dog laying on my lawn. It did not move as I came near and only when I went up on my porch did it get up and walk slowly up the street; then it lay down on the lawn of the Paul Folino agency so I called the police and asked them to come down and pick it up; I told them it looked either sick or as if it were going mad; a police car did come down and followed it up the street.

About a half hour later I called the station again to check on the dog and was told that the police saw the dog and "it looked like" he went down Eight Mile Road but by the time he went back to the station for the pellet gun he had lost track of it. This sort of thing should be regulation, should be carried in every police car on the chance it may be needed. Don't they teach them anything any more in police school?

A few years ago, after the description of the dog I gave, a policeman would have known enough to bring the pellet gun and some gloves in the first place.

If you want any more information, please call me.

Scores 'Hogs'

To the Editor:

Today, I went to play tennis with my teenage daughter and her friend at the courts on Seven Mile. My daughter's friend lives close by and the courts are visible from her house. She had been over to play with some other kids earlier in the day. When we got there the courts were all full and people were waiting. My daughter's friend commented that the two older couples playing one another, had been there all day.

She went over and reminded them that others were waiting and that there is a 45 minute playing limit if others are waiting — nasty reply.

After waiting in the car for 40 minutes, we stood behind them and they turned and said we needn't wait because when they finished their set they intended to volley — much laughter.

Others left and we took the vacant court. These swell people left at 8:40 p.m., and as we were already on a court, sarcastically offered us their court — more snide comments. We played only 15 minutes because of darkness and after waiting an hour.

As a taxpayer I resent No. 1 the fact that classes take up most of the weekly court time and No. 2 that there is no signing for the use of the courts and therefore no way to prevent these HOGS from monopolizing the courts all day if they so desire — and they knew it.

What a shame these teenagers had to witness such rudeness and bad manners. They had their fun whatever it cost anyone else. Happy Mother's Day you four champs.

11th Hour Appeal

Super Sewer Approved
By Northville Council

Super sewer, the proposed regional sewage treatment plan, was unanimously endorsed by the Northville City Council at a special meeting Monday.

The action followed an "11th hour appeal" by Duane Egeland, chief engineer of the Wayne County Department of Public Works (DPW), which is trying to line up local community support in its long-standing battle with Washtenaw County.

The Northville resolution specifically exempted the city, which now owns adequate sewer capacity in the Rouge River system, from any financial obligation for the new sewer.

Council carried the proposed DPW resolution one step further by going on record opposing any sewage treatment alternative which would expand the Walled Lake treatment plant. Treated waste from the Walled Lake plant is discharged into a stream which flows through Northville.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has set hearings for May 20 and 21, at which time a final plan for the three-county study area will be selected.

Egeland said that Washtenaw County has resolutions from all its local communities opposing Alternate I or super sewer. Washtenaw County favors local treatment alternatives which call for expansion of the plant in Walled Lake.

The super sewer plan projects Northville population at 9,000 in 1995, and provides capacity for that number of people. But City Attorney Phillip Ogilvie pointed out that Northville now owns capacity for 9,000 in the Rouge River system, which was purchased in 1955. Current population of Northville is 5,500, with little undeveloped land to support additional growth, Ogilvie added.

Egeland assured the council, "We're not asking any community to commit themselves to buy capacity." He said that some communities will need more capacity than allotted in the projections, and that Northville will not have to take part in the system.

Several council members expressed concern for the "mushrooming" growth of Novi, which is now approaching the limits of its present sewer capacity. Novi sewage passes through Northville by pipeline, and Mayor Allen commented that with the new Dayton-Hudson complex at 12 Mile and Novi roads, "We'll have to nail down the manhole covers."

Egeland responded that Novi is counting heavily on the regional sewer to meet its needs. Should that not be approved, they have a contingency plan to pump their excess sewage to Walled Lake for treatment there.

Egeland said that any expansion of the upstream plant will cause serious environmental problems in Northville.

Township Advisory Group Progressing

The citizens' advisory committee appointed last month to study Northville Township millage needs is "making some progress," according to Mrs. Dora Rubenstein, who has been named co-chairman with James Terrasi.

Three subcommittees, she explains, are studying the needs for which extra millage may be sought. She is chairing the library study group while her husband, Abe, is heading the police group and Terrasi, the recreation.

Reports from the subcommittees, she said, will be ready for the next committee meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 17, at the township office. The following meeting will be used to consolidate these, she stated.

Mrs. Rubenstein pointed out that the committee is meeting almost weekly to meet the deadline of the first week in June to give its findings to the township board.

Subcommittees are getting information from representatives of the organizations being studied presently. Citizen input is welcome, she added. She may be contacted at 349-6075.

Meads Mill Band Tops

Meads Mill Symphonic Band under the direction of John Mason, participated in Michigan Junior High Band Festival May 8 and earned first division rating in the state.

The band received three top "1" ratings in concert and a "2" in sight reading for an overall first division rating. The band performed "Thundercrest March" by Osterling, "Kensington Overture" by Whean and "Toccata for Band" by Erickson.

The festival was held at Pioneer Middle School in Plymouth with parents and friends attending.

Mason credited both parents and students with the band's success, pointing out that many long hours of work had been put in "willingly and enthusiastically."

DiComo Picked as CM

to analyze costs differently." But Walters added that with an outside CM many costs are duplicated and "there is a real question of what a CM can do at this point on a building so simple."

Councilman Paul Vernon moved to approve the Kamp-DiComo bid based on the city's experience with the Northville Township firm to date. Vernon expressed the belief that the architect "will put more of his heart in it."

Two of the rejected bids were lower than the one from Kamp-DiComo. Engineer Construction Management, Inc. for $90,300 and Northville Contracting Company bid at $87,750.

Both these firms, however, had time schedule limits in their proposal after which the city would have to pay an additional hourly fee for work.

Walters warned that if the city couldn't meet their schedules, final costs would go higher than those in the bids. Kamp-DiComo's contract has no schedule limitations.

Under the CM approach, the city acts as general contractor, letting sub-contractors on a competitive-bid basis. The CM schedules work and materials and supervises sub-contracted work.

that whatever district assumes the operating agent role it will seek a long-term agreement so as to develop a smoother, continuous program, thus allaying concerns voiced by the board at a previous meeting.

Concerning the Intermediate District's reported objection to assuming the labor contract while giving a school district the operating agent role, Rinehart said he could not understand how this split would be any less advantageous than having a local school district work out a labor contract for which it, the Intermediate District, would have to provide the monies without having any say in the expenses of a locally-made contract.

According to the superintendent, Intermediate District officials have indicated that if Northville opts out of remaining the operating agent it will seek an agreement with another local school district. And if no local operating agent can be found, it will assume the role itself.

Even if Northville retains the operating role for the program, it is a certainty that the majority of students presently housed in Northville schools will have to be accommodated elsewhere since the district plans to use Cooke Middle School for traditional students next fall.

In this regard, Spear reported that the Tuesday morning with representatives of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners in an attempt to secure temporary quarters in the Wayne County Child Development facilities near Sheldon and Five Mile roads.

Also, he said it appears likely that some 150 youngsters will be housed in a vacant elementary school in Livonia, while the remaining estimated 50 mentally retarded children probably will continue to be housed at Moraine and Silver Springs schools.

Meanwhile, discussions with state mental health department and state department of education officials in Lansing last week indicate that state officials now believe provision for permanent housing is essential, said the superintendent. Additional discussions, he said, are planned between state departmental officials and representatives of the state legislature.

If approved, the half-mill would raise a total of $35 million county-wide over a five-year period to fund construction and operation of a new jail annex, adding 400 cells to the present Wayne County Jail capacity.

Millage was placed on the ballot because the county cannot meet the cost of present revenues without making unacceptable cutbacks in vital public services, members of the county board of commissioners explain.

A new seven-story building is planned for a site one block south of the present jail in downtown Detroit. The likely need for future expansion was planned for in designing the jail. Construction cost has been estimated at $20.6 million, with the balance of the millage being used for staffing and operation.

Hartland's Mike Cain gets set to hurl the discus

Michigan Caves in After 13-Year Hold-Out

Discus—Newest Star in Prep Sports

By WILLIAM McMILLAN

It weighs three pounds, nine ounces. Its diameter can vary from 8 1/4" to 8 5/8". A lot of boys and girls are throwing it around.

No, it is not an overweight frisbee, but the discus, a flying saucer shaped object made of wood and metal or rubber that is the "newest" star in high school track.

The discus throw was approved last May by the governing board of the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) after rejecting it for 13 years to join the other field, and running events that make up high school track competition.

Michigan was the second from the last state to accept the disc. Nevada is the final hold out.

Basically what you do with the discus is hold it in one hand, spin your body in a specified circle to get up speed, and hurl it as far as you can within a 60 degree radius.

The discus is almost two inches thick at its center and tapers down to one half inch on the end. The bulging, round object costs anywhere from $7 to $55.

Why did it take so long for the discus throw to be accepted in the state?

"There was a fear that someone would get hit and hurt by it," explained Vern Norris, associate director of the MHSAA. "Also, since the kids can throw the discus over 100 feet, a lot of room is needed to make it a safe event."

Most schools run it far away from the track, but many urban schools did not have the room or facilities to handle it.

Norris added that the okay was finally made to get more athletes involved, especially the big slower trackster who was locked into only one event — the shot-put.

The discus throw has been around for a long time in amateur sports. It was introduced to the Greek Olympic games about the year 400 B.C. and shared the spotlight with chariot racing.

Men and women both toss the discus in the modern games, and it is a part of the decathlon competition for men.

The world record hovers near 200 feet for men and 187 feet for women.

On the high school level, the boys are averaging about 110 feet and the girls in the 90 foot range. The unofficial record in the state now is 157 feet, according to Northville High boys' track coach Ralph Redmond.

The girls' discus is smaller and about a pound lighter.

Since it is a new event, the school record for the throw is almost broken every week at many schools as the participants gradually improve.

The discus is not new to Michigan either, Lee Donley, South Lyon High boys' track coach explained.

"We threw it when I was in high school 40 years ago," Donley said. "It was dropped for safety reasons when urban schools began sprouting up."

Donley is against the discus throw and voted against it when he was on the MSHAA committee that decided such matters.

"It is a dangerous event and slows down the meet," he pointed out. "I don't think the public gets to see it anyway."

"It is also possible now to end with a tie meet. It was accepted because everyone said 'everybody else has it, why don't we?'"

Brighton coach Doug Falan and Northville's Redmond both indicated their approval of the discus, saying that it gives their big boys a chance to compete in another event.

Del Munson, Novi boys' track coach, was against it but has changed his mind.

"We are a small school and have enough trouble getting kids to come out to fill the existing events," he explained. "But I'm happy with it now. It gives the kids that are not successful athletically a chance to do well and gain confidence."

The introduction of the discus did cause a problem — how to coach it.

"I had to read a lot and attend seminars," said Redmond.

"The discus is a technique event," Falan pointed out. "I threw it a little in college and knew what it was about."

Redmond added that timing and agility are the key factors needed for a successful toss.

Munson stated that his squad got its discus the day before the first meet so practice was nonexistent.

Hartland High track coaches Janel Horrocks and Mark Lawrence had the help of a girl on the team who mastered the fundamentals quickly and ended up instructing the boys on how to hurl the disc.

"I don't feel comfortable about teaching something that I don't know much about," Donley said about coaching the new event.

He added that he has a half a dozen tracksters trying to learn to throw it, but only one that has mastered it successfully.

"The kids picked up by imitation," said Falan. "They got the general gist of it from television."

Redmond explained that discus throwers are flinging the saucer farther and farther as the season wears on and more experience is gained.

"They are really starting to pop it," he said. "All you need is a dedicated kid that is willing to put in the time and effort."

High school coaches may argue about the need for the discus throw and worry about how to coach it, but they soon may have something else to contend with.

Some states already have the javelin throw, and some coaches feel that it may be the next new event on the high school track scene.

At a group discussion of gourmet eating in this "neck of the woods", many different classifications and measuring sticks were employed. What's It Like Growing Up as A 'P.K.'?

The following is the second of a two-part series on the families of ministers.

Last week, several local women talked about their special responsibilities as wives of ministers.

This week, four area men tell it like it was about growing up as "p.k.'s", or preacher's kids, as they call themselves.

The first story below is a first-person account written by South Lyon Herald Managing Editor Phil Jerome, son of The Reverend George P. Jerome of Northville.

Most Are Proud

We ministers' kids have our own little secret society going.

We're called "P.K.'s" (Preachers' Kids), and, as a general rule, the only people who know what those call letters stand for are other P.K.'s.

Thus, something of a bond is established when the question "Are you a P.K., too?" receives an affirmative answer.

This is an article about the special problems and pressures with which a minister's kid is confronted, but at the onset it should be noted that I seriously doubt that there are many — if any — of us P.K.'s who regret having been born to a man who has decided to make the ministry his life's profession.

In fact, I dare say that the overwhelming majority of us are proud to be the sons and daughters of ministers. My father is Rev. George P. Jerome and he is the chaplain at Northville State Hospital and the Detroit House of Correction. And I'm awfully proud to be able to tell you that.

There are certain things that are required of P.K.'s that "normal" kids just don't have to do. In the first place, there are the chores.

Since we always seemed to be situated in small farming communities in small churches with small budgets, my brothers and I were expected to perform such tasks as mowing the church lawn on Saturday afternoons and folding the bulletins early Sunday morning.

But the performance of those tasks was easily offset by our presence at every potluck dinner that came along. And I doubt that there's anything in the world that can match a church potluck dinner for good eating.

It's a far different aspect — the psychological aspect — of being a minister's kid that can lead to problems.

There's an almost universal tendency to regard ministers as being something special, something over and above a normal human being.

Everybody knows that all ministers are pillars of strength, not susceptible to the moral dilemmas which confront normal human beings.

The revered position afforded ministers by most members of the congregation does not go unnoticed by us P.K.'s. I can still recall the amazement I felt, for example, when I first heard my father issue forth a "damn" one harried Sunday morning.

For some reason, the same esteem which is afforded our fathers is also bestowed on us P.K.'s. As a third grader, it was not unusual for other third graders to bring their arguments to me for a resolution.

"You're a minister's kid," they would say. "You'll be fair."

And there was a definitely audible stir of disbelief in the classroom when the teacher decided that I was guilty of an infraction which merited the ministration of one of her yardsticks.

And other children are not the only ones who can help a P.K. get the false impression that he or she just might be a bit superior to "normal" kids. For some inexplicable reason, minister's kids are expected to be brilliant students who consistently do well in school.

The moral expectations are even greater. For example, P.K.'s frequently hear such comments as "I can't believe that a minister's child would use language like that," or "I don't understand how the son of a minister could allow himself to get involved in such monkey business."

Let a minister's kid do something illegal, and such comments as "...and he's the son of a minister" are invariably evoked.

The point is, that few people are willing to let a minister's kid grow up just like any other kid. There are additional factors which work on the psychological development of a P.K.

All of these elevated expectations can produce any number of results, of course. Some P.K.'s bask in the glory of their special status, while others may become totally rebellious.

One personal compliment which I shall always remember was given me by my college roommate.

'Fish Bowl' Living

People have a lot of stereotyped ideas about a preacher's kid, according to Kurt Kinde. And he should know. He grew up in a parsonage in Northville, where his father, S. D. Kinde, was the pastor of the United Methodist Church.

Roger Nieuwkoop, the son of a Baptist minister, agrees.

"People expect you to be super-straight — super-good," Nieuwkoop says. "Or, they expect you to go way off the other end."

"I was supposed to act differently than my friends," he says. "You can't act up in Sunday School when you're the preacher's kid."

Kinde was always amused by the assumption that living in the parsonage automatically made him a Biblical scholar.

"Some people were surprised when I didn't know all the answers," Kinde recalls. "I always wondered why they didn't just ask my father in the first place."

Kinde says that the complaint of most ministers' children is that of living in a "fish bowl." A pastor's family may feel that they are on display and attract more than their share of community attention.

Kinde himself felt that way only once. "I came home from college with a moustache and the rumor went through Northville that I had become a hippie. But I hadn't really changed. I grew it for a play."

Whatever he does, the child of a minister is acutely aware that his actions reflect upon his father. There is a general feeling says Nieuwkoop that if a pastor can't line up his own household, he can't be expected to reach others.

Nieuwkoop believes it is best if children are allowed to formulate their own beliefs. "It's not something that parents should force on their kids, but preachers have no choice. How could they explain to the congregation that their own kids don't go to church?"

Now that they are adults, both Kinde and Nieuwkoop feel that the advantages of growing up in a parsonage far outweighed any drawbacks.

Reflecting, Kinde has many pleasant memories. "We always had big, old homes to wander in," he says. "We moved about every 10 years, and there were lots of people to meet."

Neither man followed his father to the pulpit. Nieuwkoop is now a labor relations supervisor at the Dodge Truck Assembly plant in Warren.

He said that when he was a boy, visitors to the parsonage would put their arms around his shoulders and ask when he was going into the ministry.

"My father would have been very proud," he says, "but I never felt that kind of call."

Kinde teaches drama at Northville High School, a natural outlet for his childhood preoccupation with the theater.

"I have one $50 bet with a friend who said I would be a minister by the time I was 30," Kinde says. Now 27, he won't predict whether or not he will ever collect that wager.

"I may not," he says. "Every now and then I feel a tug to the ministry."

KEN EVERETT (1) OF BRIGHTON

Not Ordinary Kid

Brighton's Ken Everett, owner of Ken's Barber Shop, says age has tempered some of his feelings about growing up as a minister's son. The embarrassing or uncomfortable times as a child now seem like positive experiences.

The son of Methodist minister Myron R. Everett, now retired and also living in Brighton, the younger Everett points out that he attended nine schools in 12 years of public education as the family moved from parish to parish.

"At the time, I remember always hating to leave my friends and make new ones," he said. "But now I think it was really good because I can meet people and accept changes probably easier than most people."

Unlike most other kids, Everett says "I resented having to say what my dad did because as soon as I'd say it, the kids would look at me different. I wasn't an ordinary kid then. I was a p.k. (preacher's kid)."

The distinction meant both more harsh and more lenient treatment, Everett says.

To make an example of him, Everett says, he was sometimes punished more severely. Laughing, he recalls misbehaving in a church pew with his brother and sister as his father delivered a sermon.

Suddenly, the sermon stopped. His father brought the three kids up to the altar where they sat next to him as he finished the service.

But, other times, he says, teachers tended to overlook his shenanigans, not wanting to get the preacher's son in trouble.

Both Everett, now an elder in Brighton's First Presbyterian Church, and his wife, Sally, say being in the family of a minister has taught them one invaluable quality — compassion.

"You know, a minister sees so much of the tragic, pathetic side of people's lives," Mrs. Everett said.

By KATHY COPLEY

With the exception of croustons and dressing, you can grow everything necessary for a green summer salad in a 4' by 8' plot.

Lettuce is a basic, and the variety increases every year. This is one crop which grows best in cool weather but vigilant watering can keep it sweet longer, as can planting it in an area which will be slightly shaded from direct mid-summer sun.

Lettuce which has too much heat or too little water becomes bitter. When lettuce bolts, or goes to seed, it also becomes bitter. Planting a crop every two weeks during the spring will keep you supplied with young, sweet lettuce. When a row starts to turn bitter, tear it out. You will have another crop coming along to replace it.

Leaf lettuce is easier for amateurs than head lettuce. Because weather is a factor in heading, it is difficult to control. Leaf varieties are more foolproof and, because each leaf receives sunlight, leaf varieties have a higher vitamin A, B1 and C content. Leaf varieties have the additional advantage of being table size earlier.

Color and leaf shape are the chief differences between leaf lettuce varieties. Plant colors ranging from maroon-red or deep green through chartreuse to have a simple salad with gourmet appeal. Endive takes longer than lettuce from planting to table, 90 days rather than 50-60 days. The immature leaves have a very strong flavor but mature, blanched inner leaves are more mild and tender.

Romaine, the stuff of which caesar salads are made, matures a little later than the leaf lettuces (80 days), but is simple to grow. Its appearance is far superior to the grocery store variety and picked 10" leaf by leaf, it lasts several weeks. It is quite frost hardy so an August planting lasts well into the fall.

The deep green leaves of spinach look good in any lettuce salad and are delicious in a salad by themselves. Like lettuce, spinach is a cool season crop and, also like lettuce, succession planting every two weeks until late June keeps the crop coming. Sow again in late summer for a fall crop.

Spinach is table size in 45-50 days so it will be in your salad bowl in time to put another quick-to-mature vegetable in the same spot.

Add interest to a green salad with radishes, peppers, onions, zucchini, cucumbers, and tomatoes.

A row of radishes matures in 25 days, but what can you do with a row of simultaneously ripe radishes? Plant 1' now, 1' in two weeks, etc., or you will be inundated. Left too long, they quickly become large, pithy, mushy, and bitter.

Peppers need light soil and plenty of sunlight. Picked green, their flavor is mild; allowed to ripen to red, they become more spicy. Hybrid varieties have a higher yield on stronger plants than do standards.

Onions are slow from seed, reaching green onion size in August. If it is hamburger size onions you are after, start with sets rather than seeds. They will grow best in loose soil. Heavy clay keeps them small and misshapen.

Zucchini squash, green or yellow, is prolific, easy to grow, but a real space stealer. A single bush-type squash requires 4 square feet so put it somewhere its large leaves won't smother other plants.

For some reason, cucumbers become bitter from the blossom end first, so cutting off the blossom section often helps for better salad flavor.

Tomatoes are the most widely grown garden vegetable. Ranging in color from red to pink or yellow, in size from baseball to cherry, and in shape from spherical to square and tear-drop, there is a tomato for every taste. Two plants are sufficient for a salad garden, but whoever plants just two tomatoes?

Choosing a variety of lettuces and succession planting can keep you in salads for most of the summer.

Cucumbers are another space hog but they also do well on a trellis or fence. Drought turns them bitter so, once the fruit begins to develop, keep them well watered. Lemon cucumbers, which look like large lemons, are slower to develop any bitterness.

Chives tuck neatly around rocks and in other nooks and crannies around the garden.

Spearmint does well in a sunken pot beneath a garden faucet. Add to the effect with a ground cover of baby tears and a rock.

THE LIGHT TOUCH

Women's faults are many. Men have only two: Everything they say, And everything they do.

And from the depths of the sedan, There came a muffled curse, He was trying to fold a road map, Same as it was at first.

It's easy enough to be pleasant When life flows round & round, But the man worthwhile is the man who can smile When his garter's comin' down.

Mary had a little lamb, A lobster & some prunes, A glass of milk, a piece of pie, And then some macaroons; It made the naughty waiters grin To see her order so; And when they carried Mary out, Her face was white as snow.

I never see my rector's eyes, He hides their light divine; For when he prays, he shuts his own, And when he preaches, mine.

When Venus vamped Adonis-tried to string him as her beau, He grabbed his hat & left her flat; a-hunting he would go, A wild, wild boar bore down on him, & with his dying breath, This clever youth cried, "Ve, forsooth, I'm simply bored to death!"

BEFORE THEY begin excavations, contractors in the Novi-Northville area call "Miss Dig," a statewide utility clearinghouse that prevents excavation accidents.

So successful has been the "Miss Dig" program in the Novi-Northville area and elsewhere in Michigan that a national symposium on one-call excavation notification systems will be held June 7-8 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Dearborn, with a highlight of the meeting to be a tour of the "Miss Dig" Communication Center at Royal Oak. Symposium sponsors are the American Public Works Association and the American Gas Association.

The "Miss Dig" control center in a Consumers Power Company building in Royal Oak has a computerized communications system that processes information phoned in to the "Miss Dig" telephone number (800-482-7171) and notifies participating utilities where contractors or individuals plan to excavate. Utilities then mark the location of underground facilities.

More than a quarter of a million calls have been received at the center since the program began in 1970, with substantial reduction in excavation accidents to utility lines.

GUARDIAN INDUSTRIES Corporation reported record sales and earnings for the first quarter ended March 31, 1976, with profits up 171 percent and revenues up 47 percent.

Net income for the quarter was a record $2,619,000, or 43 cents per share after allowance for preferred dividends, a sharp increase from a net of $965,000, or 14 cents per share, earned in the same period a year ago.

Sales for the quarter were a record $30,197,000, also a sharp gain from sales of $20,569,000 in the first period of 1975.

William M. Davidson, president, said pre-tax earnings for the period were $5,126,000, highest for any quarter in Guardian's history, and 195 percent ahead of pre-tax income of $1,738,000 for the first quarter of last year.

rooms all decorated in Early American style. The Stremich family still own and operate the place — lovely Betty, "Fat Boy" Robert and Mrs. Margaret Stremich.

I first started eating here 32 years ago — warm hospitality, wonderful food, cordial service. In this year of America's Bicentennial I salute Hillside Inn as a part of our past and of our present day "eating out."

There is a new organization being formed that costs $25 to belong for a single purpose, i.e. if you stay at one of the listed motels for two nights, the first night is full price and the second night is only half-price. Might be a good idea for tourists on the go — and as soon as someone gives me the address I'll supply it for you.

Reports indicate that Tahiti has shown the highest percentage gain in arriving tourists for 1975. However, you must consider that this doesn't indicate anything since the total was very low at start of 1975 season and it doesn't require very many tourists to show a large percentage gain. I understand the most popular route to Tahiti is on the French Airline-U.S.A.

Disney World has a new attraction opening June 21 where Americans can find "rollicking, old fashioned, good, clean, yet fun" — (the quotes are theirs). It will be the Ol' Swimming Hole, complete with a twisting 260 foot flume at "Whoop-N-Holler Hollow".

When I was there, I liked Sea World, located nearby, for a close second.

"Jerome," he said, "I've known a lot of minister's kids and most of them are either totally wild or holier-than-thou pious. You're the first one I've ever met who came out almost normal."

The "Solomon" of the third grade thought that was a pretty nice thing to say.

"Some of what he sees is bound to come back to the family, and I think we've gained real compassion through his experiences."

Did he ever consider entering the ministry? Everett says without hesitation, "No." "When you've seen it from the inside out, you know it's not an easy life. Your life is really not your own, what with always scheduling your activities around others and all the phone calls and visits. I wanted something different."

A Willow Can Cry

the moon came through the window just to touch your glowing face your long, brown hair a wave flowing through all space

a flower grew, a hope to compete with you — my shining star not knowing Aphrodite envied you afar and now the weeping willows shed real tears for you and now the earth no longer lays down its morning dew they've opened dark, brown ground tomorrow that's your place and I know He only wants you to look upon your face.

Shangri-La

Ah, for the blossoms of spring!
Away with the brutal past.
Too long 'til the prism of summer—
Too short, that its facet will last.

Ah, for the springtime of youth!
Away with the shackles of age.
Too brief, the time of our lives—
Too soon, the end of the page.

Ah, youth—its vigor and prime,
And its visions of life ahead.
Let's blend spring and summer with fall
And forever leave winter's dread!

Outlook

It's funny that on Monday
We trust the world much more;
On Tuesday and on Wednesday
We're closing up the door,
On Friday you'll see us
Put on the deadbolt tight,
On Saturday, newspapers fill us
With stories fraught with fright;
On Sunday, back to church and God
And hope next week will be alright!

Great Girds

A tight girdle can Make a woman a fiend;
It pinches and mottles
If one ounce is leaned

Across the waist band.
It doubles the heart's pump—
While taking away one place
To make another one plump.

It's the bane of most women
Grown ruddy-faced trying
To squeeze into a Large—not X,
Whenever they're buying.

So back to one that has Lost elasticity—
Let them see the wrong lumps,
Oh! What bites to be free.

William M. Davidson, president, said it is the intention of the board to continue payment of a like dividend on a quarterly basis, which would represent a 50 percent increase over the semi-annual dividend of 10 cents per share that has been paid since October 1, 1974.

CONSUMERS Power Company's Bicentennial job safety theme is receiving national recognition according to James P. Thomas, West Wayne division manager for the utility.

The slogan, promoting on-the-job safety and designed by Consumers Power employees to tie in with the nation's Bicentennial, has been honored by safety officials and is being used as the theme for safety campaigns by a number of utilities across the country.

The slogan, which depicts a Minuteman as part of its overall theme, is "SAFETY, the spirit of '76." It was conceived to promote job safety awareness among the more than 10,000 Consumers Power Company employees in Michigan, including 280 in the West Wayne division.

Tim Kelly and Ron Angell remain undefeated as the number one doubles for Northville

Doug Marzonie gets congratulated after leading off the nine run fourth inning with a homer

Baseball Squad Rips Churchill

The Northville baseball team has won six out of their last seven games but none were more important than the near perfect game they played—Monday—against Churchill.

Churchill was undefeated in league play and they were throwing their top pitcher against the Mustangs. But Northville thrashed Bill Bardwell like he was their batting practice pitcher as Bob Kucher's club triumphed, 11-2, to move into first place in the Western Six League. "It was a great ball game; you can really see the progress we've made. We played up to our ability and our execution was good," proudly stated Kucher.

Dave Heckerel scattered seven hits and struck out seven.

Northville sent 15 men to the plate in the fourth inning scoring nine runs to break the game wide open.

Northville rapped out 17 hits with six players collecting at least two. Bill Piccolo and Tim Conder had three hits.

runs while catcher Greg Armstrong, Piccolo and Conder each drove in a pair.

The victory lifts the Mustangs' league record to 4-1 and definitely makes them the team to catch. Canton is at 3-1 and Churchill 2-1.

Saturday the Mustangs took a twin-bill from Lutheran West, 4-2 and 12-6.

Jim LaPlante was the winner in the opener with a save being credited to Heckerel. The Mustangs collected all four of their runs in the fifth inning.

In the nightcap it was a nine run outburst in the first two innings that allowed Don Funk to coast to the victory.

Funk allowed but five hits while fanning 11.

Last Wednesday Northville ripped Mott 7-2 as eight starters had at least one hit.

"Lately these games have been total team efforts. Before only two or three players were doing all the hitting, now everybody is hitting," Kucher said.

Kucher announced last week that the Mustangs will

The league leading Mustangs take on Walled Lake Western today.

Defeat Chargers Soundly

The Monday afternoon match between Northville and Churchill was built up as the battle of the undefeated in Western Six tennis.

When it was over Northville was boasting a perfect 5-0 record and Churchill had fallen to 4-1 as the Mustangs had a relatively easy time taking the visiting Livonia squad 6-1½.

"I thought it would be tight but the 'Ville' was ready," happily claimed Coach Bob Simpson.

"Greg played well against a good player; it was good to see him win," stated Simpson.

Doug Castillo, at the number two doubles spot, went three sets before coming away the loser.

Rudy Horst and Charlie Whiteside, playing third and fourth singles both posted impressive wins. Horst had to go to a tie-breaker in the first set before winning the second 6-2.

Number one doubles, Tim

Kelly and Ron Angell won their sets 6-2, 6-0 to keep their unbeaten string in tact. Simpson claimed that the pair will most likely get the number one seed when regional play comes later this month.

Steve Laffler and Steve Pyett made it look easy ripping their opposition, 6-1, 6-1.

Tom Folino and Jeff Hodge lost the number three doubles match in three sets despite a strong comeback attempt.

"We still have tough matches with Harrison and Churchill at their courts, so it should be tougher the second time around," cautioned Simpson.

"I am very pleased with all the youngsters, they've been consistent all year," praised the coach.

Earlier in the week the Mustangs topped league foes Harrison and Mott both by a score of 6-1½, to set the stage for the Churchill match.

McFadden was the only loser for Northville as Castillo, Horst, Whiteside all won at the singles as did the doubles teams of Kelly and Angell, Laffler and Pyett and Folino and Hodge

Laffler and Pyett were the only winners that had trouble as the match went to a tie-breaker in the third set

Parsons Wins Two Games

By KEVIN BRAZELL

The Novi nine sandwiched a non-league defeat between a pair of conference victories last week.

Novi had an easy time disposing of South Lyon last Tuesday, 11-3.

Scott Parsons, the top Novi hurler, went the first five innings pitching shut-out ball and striking out five in posting the victory. Dave Beall pitched the last two innings and gave up all three South Lyon runs.

Novi opened the scoring quickly in the first inning. Leadoff batter Greg Porter walked and moved to third when Rick Pretty was safe on an error. Randy Wroten was safe on a fielder's choice, scoring Porter.

Wroten then proceeded to steal second and third and then scored on Parsons' sacrifice fly. Novi scored its third run of the inning after Beall walked and stole second before an error allowed him to score.

Wroten doubled with one out in the third and scored on Parsons' single.

The Wildcats came up with five consecutive base hits by Biff McAllister, Norm Free, Porter, Pretty and Wroten before making an out. Then Beall collected a single and when the inning finally ended, Novi had scored three more runs.

Porter had a base hit in the fifth to drive in McAllister and Pretty drove in a pair with a single.

Porter, who went three-for-four with four RBIs, drove in the final Novi run in the seventh.

The 11 run production and 13 hits gave Coach Rick Trudeau cause to claim it was Novi's best hitting game of the season.

Against North Farmington last Wednesday Novi continued hitting but unfortunately lacked pitching as they lost, 15-9.

Wroten, in his pitching debut, relieved Beall and gave up eight runs in two innings.

Beall, Wroten and catcher John Buck all collected a pair of hits and Free was the only Wildcat to drive in two.

Friday against Dexter, Novi got the pitching, winning 3-2, in what Trudeau called the most exciting game of the year.

Parsons again took to the hill and tossed a six hitter and struck out eight in recording his fourth victory of the year.

After Dexter picked up spoils in the first and third innings, Novi notched one in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings to pull it out.

Free led off the sixth with a bunt single and moved to second when the third baseman for Dexter threw wildly to first. Beall then connected with a base hit to cut the Dexter lead to one.

In the seventh with one out McAllister singled. Bill Giorgio came in to pinch run and immediately stole second but was then caught leaning the wrong way for the second out.

Jeff Lavery then walked and again Trudeau called on a pinch runner. Andy McComas was successful in his role and stole second. The throw went into center field and McComas was able to make it all the way home with the tying run.

Dexter loaded the bases in the seventh with nobody out. Parsons then struck out the next batter and then "pitched out" on an attempted suicide-squeeze to get the runner at the plate for the second out. Parsons then speared a hard hit line drive right back at him with a good defensive play to squelch the rally.

Free walked to start the eighth and moved to second on Wroten's sacrifice bunt. Beall ripped a base hit to right center to score what proved to be the winning run.

The Harrison game was rained out. The Wildcats will try to improve on their 4-4 conference mark this week against Chelsea and Saline.

JV's Beat Lions

The Novi JV baseball team won its second game of the year downing South Lyon, 11-4, last Tuesday.

Jeff Lavery notched the victory allowing six hits while striking out seven.

Rick Faulkner was the hitting star for the Wildcats with a home run and a triple, driving in five runs.

Duane Coda and Tim Smith each collected a pair of hits to supplement the Novi hitting attack.

The thrill of victory was short lived as North Farmington trounced Novi, 20-0, on the following day.

"The pitching was not that bad; a lot of balls just fell in," claimed Coach Brian Howard.

"The wind really helped them but they did not need the help. They hit two home runs that would have been caught if it weren't for the wind," explained Howard.

Even after the 20-0 drubbing, the Novi mentor was still optimistic.

"We are really starting to improve, especially in our hitting," stated Howard.

The Northville Junior Football Association will be holding registrations Thursday, June 3, from 7-8:30 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church at Main and Church Street.

Fritz Wenson a successful coach from Farmington will be on hand to help with the batting and bunting instruction.

Sports Shorts Times Improve; Girls Swamped

The Northville girls' track team is still looking for its second victory of the season. They did not come close to finding it last week.

Wayne Memorial downed the Mustangs, 74-40, last Monday and then they had an even tougher time in a double dual meet two days later.

Plymouth Canton ran past Northville 83-13 and Ladywood tripped them 78-36.

Ann Dayton and Denise MacDermaid continued to give their usual strong performances. MacDermaid placed first in the shot-put against all three teams and Dayton showed well in the 440 dash and in the hurdles.

Lisa Raycraft and Marie Johnston both posted their best times of the year to earn praise from Coach Steve McDonald.

"The girls' times are getting quite a bit better every meet even though we are not winning," McDonald explained.

Amy Perry had the outstanding performance of the week, breaking the school record in the two mile run with a clocking of 12:29.2 which was over six seconds better than the old mark held by Muriel Bedford last year.

Linda Prom, Sharon Broderick, Kathy Belkowski, Kim Kratz, all finished second in at least one event.

The Mustangs are 1-8 overall and carry a 0-3 record in league action.

Walled Lake Western is the team to beat as they boast a 3-0 mark.

Athletes of the Week

NICK HAMP, the center fielder for Northville had a week that most players only dream about. In four league games, Hamp went to the plate 17 times and 14 of those times reached base safely. Officially the junior was eight for 13 for a .615 average. Hamp had a trio of walks and was safe on errors three times. In addition to his outstanding defensive play, the lead off hitter stole three bases and scored six runs.

DAVE BEALL collected a clutch base hit in the eighth inning to drive in the winning run against Dexter to earn Wildcat of the week honors. Beall with his two-for-four performance against Dexter lifted his batting average to .455 and has collected five RBIs. Beall was also hot with the bat against North Farmington collecting two hits in three trips. Currently, Beall has collected 10 hits in 22 at bats.

Gardner Resigns; Girls Lose Again

South Lyon tallied seven runs in the seventh inning to take a 15-12 victory over Novi in what might well have been Coach Russ Gardner's last game.

Gardner was ejected from the game in the fifth inning for vocally disputing the umpire's decision.

The next day Gardner was informed by principal Dr.

Helen Ditzhazy that he would be suspended for one game. As a result of this, Gardner announced his resignation.

"We just don't see eye to eye, but I will stay until they find someone qualified," Gardner explained.

Novi collected only five hits and committed 10 errors in the South Lyon defeat.

Ricci Mulligan was the most successful Ladycat, thrashing out three hits. Jeanny Brown collected four RBI's.

Sue Beal, who came on in relief in the seventh was tagged with the loss.

Sue Thomas leads the team in batting with a .500 average. Brown is tops in RBI's with 18 and 13 hits. Lilli Jolgren leads the squad in stolen bases and walks.

Wildcat Netters Shutout

The rain and wind kept the Novi tennis team out of action twice last week when matches were scheduled but postponed. Despite the inclement weather they went ahead and played Plymouth Salem last Tuesday. The weather seemed to have no effect on Salem as they skunked Novi, 7-0.

"We just had a bad day. The only close match all day was the doubles team of Mike Tuck and Scott Spielman," stated Coach Dave Haywood.

The netters also received bad news when they learned singles player John DeBrule will miss at least a week with a twisted knee.

Greg Goff, Tim Kelly, Bill Spencer, Bill Withers and Barry Skown all showed well at the Lansing Waverly Tournament on Saturday according to Haywood.

Although final results were not available, Haywood figured the Wildcats finished somewhere in the middle of the 22 team invitational.

Novi currently stands at 3-2 and will be very busy this week, playing every day except Thursday.

Novi Girls Clobbered

Chelsea triumphed 73½-40½ last Tuesday and Brighton routed the Ladycats, 80-34, Friday.

Janet Cook captured four firsts against Brighton in the long jump, shot-put, low hurdles and high hurdles.

Novi slammed the two mile run with Mary Cardell first.

Bishop Borgess Too Powerful; Mustangs Surprise Harrison

A strong and balanced Bishop Borgess team routed the Northville tracksters Tuesday, 97-34, but the Mustangs bounced back two days later with an impressive, 70-62, win over Farmington Harrison.

Dennis Singleton topped six feet in the high jump for the first time yet finished second as Gary Hix of Borgess matched Singleton's performance and had fewer misses.

In the high hurdles it was again a battle between Hix and Singleton. Hix is ranked number two in the state and Singleton 10. Hix came out the victor with a clocking of 15.7 compared to Singleton's 15.9.

Northville gained 10 firsts with several strong and unexpected showings to edge Harrison.

"On paper their times were better than ours. We had figured it would be a close meet but that they would probably win by five," Coach Ralph Redmond said.

The turning point in the meet was when Bob Sweeney and Frank Nelson unexpectedly finished one-two in the 440 according to Redmond.

Singleton again cleared six feet in the high jump finishing first. Apparently completely recovered from an injury he also placed first in both the high and low hurdles.

Mark Morland heaved the shot-put 44'6" to place first and surpass the best toss of the year for a Northville putter.

Bob Gould and Don Wilber turned in fine times in placing first in the mile and two mile run respectively.

"Kevin Corcoran was another big surprise running a 23.8 and taking first in the 220," commented Redmond.

Northville is tied for second with Waterford Mott in the Western Six with a 2-1 record.

Rain Hurts Girls

The Northville girls' softball squad was rained out last Thursday against Waterford Mott. Unfortunately, the girls wish the weather was bad earlier in the week as Farmington Harrison tripped the Mustangs, 12-9.

Pat Brown pitched the entire game striking out five and yielding five walks.

Coach Mary Minor had special praise for Chris Suddendorf. Suddendorf's .720 batting average tops the team as does her .750 fielding average and 20 stolen bases. "Chris is usually a third baseman but earlier she filled in at catcher for us and made some big plays," commented Minor.

Thinclads Beaten

The script has been the same for the Novi track team all year. They show well in the field events and hurdles and then play dead in the distance events, with the usual result being defeat.

Last Friday's meet with Brighton was no different as the Wildcats lost, 80-52.

Ben Galyon continued his fine record, placing first in both the shot-put and the discus.

Andy Raddant topped all long jumpers and Tom Morris and Don Moore placed second in the high jump and pole vault respectively.

Bryant Hammond was first by a wide margin in the high and low hurdles but Brighton swept the mile and two mile run and finished first in the mile and 440 relay.

Geoff Morse finished third in the 440 which was a disappointment to Coach Del Munson.

"Geoff is capable of running a 52 flat and he ran a 56.4. He is running below his level of ability," analyzed the coach.

"Brighton has good quality and depth and is a very well coached team," appraised Munson.

Novi stands at 1-3 while still looking for a win in the conference circuit.

Fire battle was a futile effort

Fire Destroys House

A fifty-year-old frame farm house was totally destroyed in a fire which swept through the structure Saturday night.

Located in an overgrown apple orchard east of Northville Estates on Eight Mile Road, the two story structure was apparently abandoned.

The first call to the Northville Fire Department reported a large brush fire near Eastlawn. Fire equipment was dispatched to that area before the actual location of the fire was called in by another citizen.

According to Assistant Fire Chief James Allen, the resident calling in the second report used the water tower at the high school as a visible landmark to the fire location. The Fire Department responded at 10:15 p.m.

Allen said it was amazing no one closer to the area had spotted the fire since it apparently was burning for some time. By the time the Fire Department reached the location, the entire roof had collapsed into the building.

The fire, was contained to one structure with firefighters remaining on duty beyond 3 a.m. The department returned Sunday morning to recheck the area.

Although the cause of the fire is yet undetermined, Allen said he felt it was a case of arson.

JEFF STABENAU

He Exerts Quiet Push On Campus

By PATRICIA BERNARDO

To those of us who went to college in the sixties, the words "student activist" conjure up memories of Tom Hayden and Rennie Davis — of demonstrations and occupied administration buildings.

It is with some surprise then that one encounters Jeff Stabenau, the president of the student senate at Schoolcraft College and a student activite from the quiet campus milieu of the seventies.

Jeff, 18, is a 1975 graduate of Northville High School. Soft-spoken and self-assured, his primary tactical weapons are letters and petitions to the school administration, all of which close, "respectfully submitted."

Jeff was elected to head the 15-member student government at the end of the fall semester last year, and has been working since to make the body a "political action group and a lobby for students."

Jeff's primary goal is "greater participation for students and more student involvement in decision-making." He believes students should have a voice in all matters that directly affect them.

He divides current campus concerns into "learning conditions" and "living conditions."

Learning conditions were listed in a recent letter to school officials as "teacher evaluations, required courses, the scheduling of final exams and holidays, registration procedures, attendance requirements and the grading system."

"Living conditions," the letter goes on, "involve the available space per student — library space and services, study rooms and areas, cafeteria food quality and atmosphere, bookstore operations, student service fees and disciplinary proceedings."

To get students more involved in these decisions, Jeff petitioned the college's board of trustees to seat a student advisor on their board. He also requested that a committee of students join in collective bargaining between the faculty and the administration.

Both requests were denied, but Jeff says, "I don't consider it losing, because we're learning something out of it."

Issues affecting students are not limited to the campus, and Jeff is trying to organize student participation in local, state and national politics.

A campus voter registration drive made electors of 250 students and Jeff hopes they will exercise their new franchise in the fall by voting for candidates supported by the Student Senate.

Jeff says that the politicians who receive the group's endorsement will be those

Major Horse Show Coming Soon

Manes flying, tiny hooves pounding, sulkies churning, silks sparkling under the light at Northville Downs.

Another race? Not at all, say Northville Kiwanians, it's a class for roadster ponies — part of the ASHAM Horse Show to be co-sponsored by the Kiwanis Club on May 28, 29 and 30. Conducted in conjunction with the American Saddle Horse Association, the show will attract horses from throughout Michigan, Indiana, and Ohio who will compete in 93 events for saddle horses, ponies, Arabians, and half-Arabians. The show is a major qualifying event approved by the American Horse Show Association, the Michigan Horse Show Association, and the Tri-State Horse Show Association, Inc.

To be held at Northville Downs, the show is a repeat of a successful first show of its kind held here last year.

The roadster pony division is judged on speed, brilliance and conformation. The exciting burst of speed as the ponies are asked to "drive on" at the end of the class brought the crowd to its feet last year and proved to be a high point in competition.

Roadster ponies will be competing both Friday and Saturday nights along with other pony classes as well as classes for American saddlebreds, Arabians and half-Arabians.

The Arabian mounted native costume class is a flashback in history with bright jewels gleaming on exquisitely costumed riders and horses, according to Kiwanians.

American saddle horses are popular for pleasure riding, driving, as a hunter or jumper, parade horse, cow horse as well as a show horse. Spectacular five-gaited, three-gaited and fine harness classes as well as pleasure classes (English and western equipment) will be featured here.

Pet Show Set May 23

Next Monday, May 17, is the deadline for advance mail registrations for the children's pet show being sponsored by the Northville Jaycees.

The show will be Sunday, May 23, on the scout recreation building grounds with proceeds to benefit the Wayne County Anti-Cruelty Association.

Show sponsors encourage children in sixth grade or younger who are Northville residents to mail the entry blank found in this week's Northville Record on page 5-A to Mrs. Peggy Thies, 9064 Marlowe, Plymouth, 48170.

guarding demonstration.

Categories for which ribbons and Bicentennial coins will be awarded include best dressed pet, tallest dog, biggest cat, smallest dog, longest dog, longest tail of a cat, most spots on a dog, longest ears on a dog, and dog obedience.

There is an entry fee of 50 cents per category for each pet if made by mail in advance. Registration from noon to 1 p.m. the day of the show will be 75 cents.

Jaycees may be contacted at 349-5706 or 349-7767 for more information.

Local Horse Big Winner

Poplars Sugar Cube, a three-year-old Morgan mare, and her rider and trainer, Kevin Connolly, took the pleasure driving championship at the Michigan Spring Horse Show at the State Fairgrounds last weekend. Connolly and the horse, owned by Mrs. Frank Beckman of 42801 Itham Court, also took the western pleasure championship and,

with Elizabeth Beckman in the driver's seat, took fifth for amateur owner western pleasure.

Student Advisory Seat

Defeat College Proposal

A student advisory seat on the Schoolcraft Board of Trustees came within one vote recently of becoming a reality.

Initiated by Student Senate President Jeff Stabenau of Northville, the measure was defeated by a single vote even though it was approved 4-3. Passage required five positive votes.

The measure was introduced and supported by Trustees Nancie Blatt and Rosina Raymond. Supporting votes also were cast by Trustees Paul Kadish and Mark McQuesten.

Passage, according to Stabenau, would have established a non-voting seat to be filled by the Senate's president or a designee.

The advisor would be allowed to speak on any issue before the board but the advisor could not move, second or vote on any matters, he said. Its creation would have indicated the board understands it is not possible to run a college properly unless the students whose lives are affected by the decision are involved in making those decisions, the Senate president explained.

Opponents of the proposal said free and open audience participation at all board meetings already exists, and expressed concern that approving a seat for students would lead to many similar requests from other special interest groups.

They also contended that trustees are elected to represent all who reside within the college district, including students.

Voting against the measure were trustees Leroy Bennett, Gerald Cox and Ronald Cowden. Absent was Trustee Archibald Vallier.

with a "commitment to funding for higher education."

Jeff is enrolled in the liberal arts program and plans to transfer to the University of Michigan after he completes his two years at Schoolcraft. He objects to pressures to make community colleges more technically and vocationally oriented.

The liberal arts may or may not ensure a job, but they enhance personal development," he points out.

Getting Schoolcraft's 8,000 registered students together is not an easy job because people do not live on campus, but commute back and forth to school. "Most students are part-time," Jeff says. "They walk from the parking lot to the classroom, take a couple of classes, and they go back to their cars and go home. They have jobs and other commitments."

Still Jeff thinks interest in student issues is growing on the Schoolcraft campus. He says he talks to as many people as he can, and involvement increases as interest in his ideas spreads.

Enthusiasm for Jeff and his policies is not limited to the young and idealistic, even though he is both.

"People (students) up to their 40's are involved in our Student Senate," he notes.

Ice Cream Social to Spotlight Miss Grace Pollock

'I started in a rural school with one year of training and received $20 a month,' recalls retiring Grace Pollock

By JEAN DAY

After 33 years of teaching an estimated 1,800 kindergartners in Northville, Miss Grace Pollock is retiring.

And her friends have hit upon a most appropriate retirement get-together in her honor.

Present and former pupils, young and old, and Miss Pollock's many other friends in the community all are invited to an ice cream social-recognition night to be held June 3 on the grounds at the board of education offices on West Main Street.

"Initially," explains Mrs. Evelyn Zeuner, secretary at Moraine Elementary where Miss Pollock now is teaching, "we hoped to open her classroom at Main Street School for the reception, but part of the ceiling has fallen and it's not possible."

Grace Pollock had taught in the same Main Street kindergarten room for 32 of her 33 teaching years here. This year she is teaching a kindergarten-first grade split at Moraine.

"It was just like losing my home after being in the same room for 32 years," admits Miss Pollock, but adds that her new class of 24 youngsters is "a good split."

Her room at Moraine last week boasted a wide window filled with tiny plants that were to be part of a Mother's Day project. A table held flowerpainted pin dishes created of typewriter ribbon containers and also destined to be gifts for mother.

Bright yellow solid geometric shapes filled a table as accessories to a workbook project involving the kindergartners. The youngsters were able to differentiate cubes, cones, cylinders, rectangle prisms.

"There are more toys to work with today," the veteran teacher notes, pointing out a box of wood blocks in varied shapes used to play games, make forms — and in the process teach forms.

Miss Pollock agrees that children come to school today knowing more than they used to, noting that — as much as television is criticized — preschoolers have learned their alphabets from Sesame Street.

She qualified this by mentioning that there still are children enrolling in school who do not know the alphabet — "some can't even hold a pencil."

But they learn. They also are fast to know that "we fuss about books and are careful of them."

Miss Pollock made this observation as a first grader came to her very concerned that the spine of a worn paperback was giving out.

This year is not Miss Pollock's first in teaching a split classroom. Before coming to Northville, she taught in rural schools in her native Minnesota.

"I started in a rural school with one year of training and received $20 a month," she recalls, remembering also that this sum was not enough to provide for a new pair of shoes.

For a time she collected tablet backs from her children and used them to patch the worn soles.

"Two just about took me home the mile and a half away where I boarded."

After teaching for three years, she went to St. Cloud Teachers College to get her bachelor of science degree.

She then taught the spring session of kindergarten ("There was only one a year") and afterward second and third grades.

She remembers some of the early Minnesota

THE NOVI NEWS

contracts she had to sign. "One was for $49 a month plus $1 for janitor services," she says, "and another stipulated I had to prepare lunch for the other teachers."

It may have been this kind of demand that caused her to join the school employment service for teachers and eventually take the kindergarten job in Northville.

"I always wanted to teach kindergarten," she explains, adding that it has been a most satisfactory experience in Northville.

"Northville has been good to me and it's a fine place to teach."

Last fall, when she had to organize her classroom at Moraine quickly and was handicapped by having both arms broken, other teachers pitched in to help, she recalls. She slipped while taking a class at Silver Springs school and the broken arms were a result.

"However, I didn't even consider retiring until this March, although I had talked about it for a long time," Grace Pollock declares, stressing that she wants to leave her profession before she feels she's failing in her teaching.

Prime motivation, she says, is the great number of young teachers graduating and "so blue because they can't get jobs." Some of those she's helped train have indicated they are trying now to go into other fields and she's concerned that good teachers are being lost.

She found, too, that she has a hefty 37-and-a-half years retirement credit.

Retirement will mean staying right in Northville in the home she had built in 1958 at 120 West Street by Michael Willing for herself and her mother, who has since died.

Retirement will mean also "catching up on all the things I haven't had time for — gardening, sewing and handicrafts I like."

If she misses being the hub in a classroom of children, she will volunteer her services. She doesn't plan to substitute teach — "unless they need someone in a hurry." She mentions that for most of her years in Northville she has been a Sunday School teacher at Northville United Methodist church.

Miss Pollock can claim the title of "second generation" teacher as many families have had children of children in her classes.

Carmen Rayl last week volunteered that her father, Richard Rayl, and her Uncle David, as well, had been taught by Miss Pollock. Wendy Buda's uncles, Brian and Bradley McAllister, also were in her classes.

Present staff members Michael Janchick and Bonnie Martin, too, were her pupils.

Her retirement party planners are sure that they — and many, many others in the community — will want to circle the June 3 date. Because it is an open house without reservations required, they are hoping that it is calendared.

"We'd like the whole town to come," invites Mrs. Zeuner.

A token donation will be taken to cover ice cream and cake and gift costs. In case of rain, the celebration will be held inside the board offices.

'Share Time' Classes Labeled A Success

The federally funded "Share Time" program is in its third year and the Northville High School coordinator, Alta Olson, has termed it a success as the school year draws to an end.

Basically the program is a set of four vocational classes at the entire level using the facilities at Plymouth Canton High School

State highway officials remain hopeful that part or all of the I-96 (I-275), between Novi and Plymouth will be opened for traffic yet this year. The new expressway, which ties into the existing I-96 and I-696 interchange at the east edge of Novi, will parallel Haggerty Road on the east in its dash towards Schoolcraft Road where I-96 will turn east and head into Detroit while I-275 will continue south toward Monroe County where it will tie in with I-75. The interchange above is at Eight Mile Road. In the foreground is the National Bank of Detroit branch. The first road beyond it, west side of the expressway (where the two overpasses are located), is the rerouted Haggerty Road. Haggerty north of Eight Mile Road is newly paved, but Haggerty south of Eight is paved only for about a quarter of a mile. Wayne County officials do not expect the remainder of Haggerty to Seven Mile Road to be paved for two or three more years.

Fight Vandalism

Reward Resolution Adopted

Following is the resolution concerning the $1,000 reward policy for vandalism unanimously adopted by the Northville City Council:

Whereas, the City of Northville has received nationwide acclaim for the attractive appearance of both private and public property within the city; and

Whereas, this attractive appearance is enjoyed by many visitors to our city as well as adding to the pleasure of those who live here; and

Whereas, the City of Northville has been suffering from acts of malicious damage and vandalism of public property; and

Whereas, such property belongs to taxpayers in the City of Northville; and

Whereas, restoration and repair of damage resulting from these unlawful acts are becoming a heavy burden to those taxpayers; and

Whereas, every effort must be made to bring the perpetrators of this malicious damage and vandalism to justice; and

Whereas, the cooperation of every citizen is important in order to accomplish that goal;

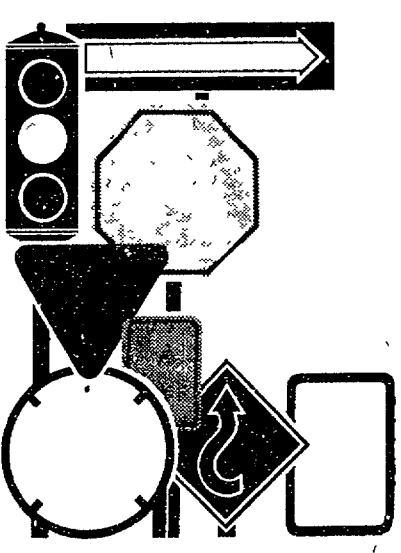

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that the Northville City Council does, hereby, agree to pay a reward of

$1,000.00 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of violators of TITLE 8, CHAPTER 1, Section 8-109 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Northville; and

Be it further resolved, that the City Manager be directed to develop a procedure acceptable to City Council for establishing eligibility and for payment of rewards; and

Be it further resolved, that copies of this resolution be forwarded and made available to any and all interested parties.

EQUAL MONTHLY PAYMENT PLAN

It can help you, too!

Balancing the budget is not easy, but it certainly helps when I know that my utility bill will be the same amount each month—and budget for it. You can enjoy this convenience, too, if you enroll in Consumers Power's "Equal Monthly Payment Plan." Under this Plan, the total cost of the energy you use is averaged over a period of a year. Then this cost is divided into twelve equal payments. You pay that amount each month. May is the final month of the "Equal Payment Year," and at that time your account is adjusted for any overpayment or underpayment. There's no extra charge for this extra service. You can sign up at any time, but your monthly payments will be lowest if you start the Plan in June.

A quick phone call to our Customer Service department can answer your questions about the "Equal Monthly Payment Plan." Brochures also are available at all Company offices.

Mailbox Saluted

"Mailbox Improvement Week," a traditional Spring observance which contributes to improved security and appearance of the nation's nearly 24 million mailboxes, will be held May 17-22 this year, Northville Postmaster John Steimel has announced.

"Because more Americans receive their mail today on rural routes than ever before, 'Mailbox Improvement Week' is more important than when first observed generations ago in rural areas and small communities," Steimel said.

Postal Service rural carriers serve approximately 13.5 million families along some 32,480 rural routes.

Rural mail service began in 1896. In those days many makeshift receptacles were used as mailboxes. One favorite was a tin can nailed to a tree.

"Customers who prefer other designs than the traditional mailbox may check with me for a list of manufacturers making approved optional designs," Steimel said.

With your vote, you can help Novi and yourself.

VOTE YES ON THE WATER SUPPLY SYSTEM IMPROVEMENT BONDING PROPOSITION TUESDAY, MAY 18, 1976.

You have the chance to vote for your City and your neighborhood. By voting Yes for the Water Supply System Improvement Bonding Proposition on Tuesday, May 18th, you can help your community and yourself.

The new water supply system, when it's finished, will provide water to your new High School, new library, and the new Twelve Oaks Mall. It will also increase water pressure to those subdivisions where water pressure is poor. It will be the primary source of water for years to come.

How will it be paid for? Not with increased millage. THIS IS NOT A REQUEST FOR MILLAGE. The new water supply system will be financed with $3,600,000 of general obligation bonds issued by the City of Novi. It is anticipated that the debt will be paid for by new development through the collection of connection charges. Is it important that you vote Yes? If the proposition is not passed, here's what will happen:

- First, the new High School scheduled to open in September, 1977, cannot open.
- Subdivisions with a poor water supply will get no help.
- The new library will not have water.
- The Twelve Oaks Mall will not get the water it needs and important income and jobs may be kept from the area.
- Even continued growth of the community may be jeopardized.

Vote Yes! It's very important.

This is how the proposition will appear on your ballot:

Shall the City of Novi, County of Oakland, Michigan, borrow the principal sum of not to exceed Three Million Six Hundred Thousand ($3,600,000) Dollars and issue its general obligation unlimited tax bonds therefore, for the purpose of defraying the cost of acquiring and constructing improvements to the water supply system of the City, consisting of water supply facilities and all appurtenances and attaching relating thereto?

This is not a request for millage.

Valuation Dips in Wake of Inventory Exemptions

Because of a State statute enacted last year which exempts business inventory from property taxation in 1976, the total equalized value of property in Wayne County is $1.1 billion less than in 1975, the latest figures show.

A total equalized value of $13,167,822,000 for taxable property for 1976 was approved by the County Board of Commissioners April 29. The sum represents a decrease of $1,172,083,850 from 1975.

"The loss is directly attributable to Public Act 234, and could be misleading if not understood in context with other legislation," said George E. McEachran, acting director of the county bureau of taxation.

He explained that another state law also enacted last year, Act 228, provides for later reimbursement from the State for losses based on inventory certified on 1975 tax rolls.

The certified loss for Wayne County is $1,503,452,722. When this sum is added to the 1976 total property value, it exceeds the 1975 amount by $331,368,872, said McEachran.

The exemption of business inventory from property taxation this year relates to budget advantages for the Legislature, explained McEachran. "It's my understanding that the method of exempting the inventory, then later reimbursing for the loss provides more flexibility in the fiscal year."

The equalized property valuations for the 43 cities and townships in Wayne County were approved by the board after recommendation from the general government committee which held a public hearing on the rates April 26. Only Huron and Sumpter townships raised objections. The state-imposed equalization process is designed to ensure that each local community has assessed its taxable property at the constitutionally-required level of 50 percent of its true cash value.

When analysis by bureau of taxation appraisers shows property in a particular city or township is under-assessed, an equalization factor is applied to that community's total assessed valuation. Unless that is overturned by the state tax commission, the local assessor must increase assessments accordingly.

Locally, here is what has happened in Northville:

City of Northville
(Wayne County Section Only)

Assessed valuation in 1976 is set at $25,931,120, the equalized value at $28,728,440.

LOUIS H. FUNK, WAYNE COUNTY TREASURER

JAMES R. KILLEEN, WAYNE COUNTY CLERK

CLARICE SASS, NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP CLERK

JOAN MCALLISTER, NORTHVILLE CITY CLERK

THIS NOTICE is given pursuant to the statutes of the State of Michigan in such case made and provided and pursuant to resolution of the Board of Commissioners herein set forth.

THIS NOTICE APPROVED AS TO FORM AND SUBSTANCE

ALOYSIUS J. SUCHY, WAYNE COUNTY CORPORATION COUNSEL

Louis Hopping Named Magistrate

Louis M. Hopping of Northville has been appointed magistrate of the 32nd District Court, Judge Dunbar Davis announced this week.

The appointment is subject to confirmation by the cooperating units of government within the district court system.

The position of magistrate is new in the 32nd District Court, having been provided by a recently approved amendment to the Michigan district court law.

Heretofore, magistrates had been authorized only in first and second class district courts located in outstate areas where the judge's district covered very large areas.

According to Judge Davis, who made the appointment, Hopping's role will be implemented whenever he, the judge, is away on vacation or business.

Hopping, an attorney by profession, is expected to hear his first cases when Judge Davis takes a three-week vacation in June. Meanwhile, he has been sitting in district court cases here as an observer.

The Northville resident, who lives at 18165 Jamestown Circle, recently attended a seminar for magistrates in Lansing to acquaint himself with the duties of the magistrate.

Courtroom activity is not a new experience for Hopping, however. He served for 15 years as assistant United States District Attorney while also holding down the dual role of chief clerk out of the Bay City District.

He is a retired partner in a Detroit law firm, having received AB and JD degrees at the University of Illinois and George Washington University.

Prior to serving in the United States District Court, he was an administrative assistant to Congressman Clarence McLeod out of an old Congressional District in Detroit. Earlier, he was secretary to the managing editor of the Washington Herald.

As magistrate, Hopping has broad powers, prohibited only from hearing five divisions of traffic offenses. Basically, he is empowered to hear just about any kind of case assigned to him by Judge Davis.

He will hear cases in both Northville and Plymouth.

Former national president of the Civitan organization and a charter member of the Northville Civitan Club, he is married with four children and 10 grandchildren.

Louis Hopping (left) is to become Judge Davis' helping hand soon

Annual Journalism Contest

High Schools Compete

Schoolcraft College is sponsoring its second annual high school journalism contest this spring, open to public and parochial schools within the College District and adjoining areas.

Organized by the College's office of student affairs, the contest will honor the best in newspaper writing through recognition of school newspapers and of individual writers.

Last year's winners in the five categories of competition were Southfield-Lathrop's "Dimensions" for best paper; Craig Newman of North Farmington for news writing; Brian Lynch of Stevenson for opinions; Joe Centers of Stevenson for sports and Kim Overton of Churchill for features.

In addition to these categories, this year's competition will include three new areas. They are sports column, analysis-interpretive or investigative reporting, and photography.

Participants are encouraged to mail entries to: High School Journalism Contest, Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, Michigan 48151. Entries should be postmarked no later than May 14, however they may be delivered in person to the student activities office in the Waterman Campus Center until 8 p.m. on May 18.

For the best newspaper category, the College requires three consecutive editions from 1975-76 be submitted. Editions from previous years will not be accepted. Students may enter up to two articles in each category, and there is no limit on the number of individual articles which may be entered from any school.

The contest is open to students and high schools in the Clarenceville, Farmington, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Northville, Novi, Plymouth, Redford Township, Southfield, South Lyon and the Wayne-Westland school systems. Entries will be reviewed by a panel of judges selected from the media.

Deadline Nearing For Town Hall Fund

June 1 is the deadline for charitable organizations to make application for funds from the Northville Town Hall Board of Awards, Mrs. H. F. Wagenschütz, chairman, reminds this week.

More than $3,000 is available to be divided among organizations in communities which support town hall. In the past such groups as King's Daughters and Big Sisters have benefited, she illustrates.

Applications from Northville and South Lyon may be made through Mrs. Wagenschütz, Mrs. Roy Mattison and Herman Mohlman. Board members from other areas are Mrs. E. Q. Proctor, Farmington, 474-3698; Mrs. M. M. Hough, Plymouth, 453-2814; Mrs. Francis Hensley, Livonia, 421-7095. Mrs. Wagenschütz may be contacted at 349-2976.

Sponsored by Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church, town hall profits are divided equally with the church and community. Each this year will receive $3,000.

Labeled A Success

There are hospital facilities, a complete dental lab and building and auto shops that the students use for their classrooms.

The program is open to both boys and girls who are juniors or seniors. Students from Northville, Belleville and Livonia make up the enrollment.

The pupils meet four days a week for two and a half hours after school from September to June. The students receive a grade, 20 credits, and a certificate saying they have completed the vocational training

Hopefully their training will lead to jobs or provide the necessary knowledge to allow the students to continue their education on a higher level.

Olson claimed that Miss Florence Panattoni deserved the credit for the program getting off the ground.
