Worship Service

At Mill Race

Marks U.S. Birth

America! America! God shed his grace on thee, And crown thy good with brotherhood, From sea to shining sea!

These words from the hymn, "O Beautiful for Spacious Skies," set the tone for the Bicentennial ecumenical worship service to be held early Sunday morning at the Mill Race Historical Village.

The service marking the 200th birthday of the United States will get underway on the village grounds at 8 a.m.

Citizens from both Northville and Novi will be participating in the service as will clergymen from both communities.

The greeting and call to prayer will be delivered by the Reverend Dr. Gerard Hadad of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church; the Reverend Karl Zeigler of the First United Methodist Church of Novi will lead worshippers in unison prayer; the Reverend James Andrews of the Full Salvation Union and Susan Bennett of First United Methodist Church of Novi will present lessons from the Holy Scripture; and the Reverend Lloyd G. Brasore of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville will speak on "Religion in American Life."

A community choir will perform under the direction of William G. Williams. It will feature soloist Kenneth Clume.

Participants will include the Bell choirs from the Methodist and Presbyterian churches of Northville, under the direction of Mrs. Stacey Becker of the First United Methodist Church.

Pianists will include Larry Przybysz, director of Our Lady of Victory choirs, and Joanne Vollenhorst of the First Presbyterian Church.

Playing trumpets will be Vick Purcell, Mary Jo Marburger and Mike Lockett; Mike Young will be the drummer; and Lisa Ward will play the flute.

Besides the hymn, "O Beautiful for Spacious Skies," those attending also will sing "Faith of Our Fathers" and "God of Our Fathers, Whose Almighty Hand..."

"The Battle Hymn of the Republic" will be MARATHON pinballers were well into their grueling exhibition Tuesday in their quest for a world record. The marathon got underway Monday at Arcade 5 in Northville Square. Staged here to raise monies for George Berryman, III, Northville teacher, the marathon involves participants who are playing pinball machines non-stop in hopes of breaking the current record of 80 hours.

A STUDY SESSION of the Northville School Board is scheduled for July 6 to enable newly elected members to hear a report on teacher negotiations and to discuss board positions in those negotiations. Neither side has made any announcement since it was disclosed several weeks ago that bargaining was producing little progress.

REPRINTS of two pages from the July 15, 1876 edition of The Northville Record will be distributed from The Record's booth in the July Fourth parade. The reproduction of the original newspaper includes two pages containing stories about the Centennial Fourth in Northville and "The Tragic End of Gen. Custer."

Parade to Kick Off Festivities

Fourth to Include Fun 'n Fireworks

Carrying the theme "Famous Events of America's 1st 200 Years," Sunday's Fourth of July parade will be an explosion of color as it kicks off Northville's big United States birthday celebration. More than 90 units will participate in the parade that will get underway at 10 a.m., followed by a day packed with fun and excitement.

"The way things stack up now," beams Parade Chairman John Buckland, member of the sponsoring Jaycees, "this Bicentennial parade will be the biggest and best event of its kind ever staged in Northville."

"If you like color in a parade, then you'll like this parade," he promises, pointing out that with all the floats and more than 20 floats have registered to enter. Still more are expected to join the nearly two-mile-long extravaganza, containing at least twice the number of floats and musical groups than in past Fourth of July parades.

He estimates the parade will last nearly 1 1/2 hours.

Take your pick from a host of participants, including the high school bands of Northville and Novi, the Trobadours Musical Corps of Taylor, the Plymouth Pipe and Drum Corps, last year's parade winner—the Milford High School band, Alma's Highland Festival winner—the Clan McRae Pipe Band, the Lions Band of Windsor, Ontario, and the Amherstburg (Canada) Band.

Still other music will be served up by a 50-year-old circus calliope from Dearborn, the 98-member music-drill team called the Brigadeers of Dearborn Heights, and the Frost Junior High School Tudor Singers.

Instead of the grand marshal who traditionally has led the July 4 parade for the Northville Jaycees, elementary-age youngsters in colonial costume will begin the Bicentennial march.

Any Northville elementary school child, age 7 to 12, who has an Early American costume and who wishes to help lead the parade is asked by the Jaycees to report to the Downs parking lot at 9 a.m. Sunday.

Parade participants will begin assembling at Northville Downs at 9 a.m.

The parade route carries participants from the Downs parking lot, east along Beal Street to Griswold north on Griswold to Main, and west on Main to Rogers to Cady east on Cady to Wing Street, and south on Wing to Fairbrook and back to the Downs.

The judge's reviewing stand will be located, as in the past, in front of the city hall.

Judges who will award 22 trophies to outstanding entries, not counting ribbons and patches for bicyclists, will include:

Lane and Richard Norton, past presidents of the Jaycees and Auxiliary; Florence Panattoni, retired assistant school superintendent; Marjory Cinader, president of the Chamber of Commerce; City Manager Steven Walters, and Township Trustee Dr. John Swienkowski.

Categories in which awards will be made include: junior and senior marchers, equestrian, musical and special groups, floats, antique cars, and bicyclists.

Judging of antique cars and bicyclists will occur prior to the start of the parade.

"I'm beginning to wonder if we'll have enough room on that huge Downs parking lot to line up our participants," said Buckland. "But that's a headache Jaycees will be happy to live with. It's far better than having a tiny participation."

Despite its large size, the parade most certainly will be dwarfed by the thousands of spectators who are expected to line the parade route.

Several churches have scheduled early services so that their members may attend.

Besides floats and bands, outstanding participants will include:

Bicentennial costumed paraders, the United States Marine Corps Color Guard of Selfridge, the St.

Mill Race Is Site for Activities

Mill Race Historical Village

will be the center of Bicentennial activity much of the day of July 4.

Following the ecumenical church service and the parade (see stories on Page 1) a flea market and craft show will open and the Jaycees will begin serving their "done to perfection" barbecued chicken dinners at 11 a.m. on the Mill Race grounds.

The barbecue area will be located south of the main entrance to the grounds while the flea market area will be located immediately west of the bridge, in front of the historical buildings.

Throughout the remainder of the day, a host of other activities are planned at the Mill Race.

At 12:30 p.m. a Jaycee watermelon eating contest will be held immediately south of the Wash Oak School. Awards will be given winners of this contest for competing youngsters who are accompanied by adults.

One of the most colorful of the events planned on the grounds will be the marches and drills of the Northwest Territorial Militia. They'll be performing at the northeast

NEW CITIZEN—Three-year-old Maria Gouin clutches the flag of her adopted country as she receives support of her brothers, John, 10, and Michael, 8, in order to manage a smile for the photographer.

3-Year-Old Alien

She's Fourth of July American

"She's an alien," reports three-year-old Maria's mother, Rosemary Gouin, adding, "But never think of aliens as being so little."

But Maria Gouin's status is going to change to that of U.S. Citizen in four more days.

She is one of 1,000 aliens who are scheduled to receive their citizenship papers in special Bicentennial ceremonies Sunday, July 4, in Detroit.

She is among the youngest of the new citizens. Mrs. Gouin has been told there will be 50 children, ranging in age from one up, becoming citizens Sunday.

Maria was adopted by proxy by the Robert Gouins of 19500 Pierson Road in Northville.

Mrs. Gouin's brother, then a missionary priest in Peru, found the little orphan in a hospital in that country.

"We started proceedings when she was three months old," Mrs. Gouin recalls.

For Special Education

Leases Dearborn School

A contract to use a school in North Dearborn Heights for institutionalized special education classes beginning in July was approved by the Northville School Board Monday.

Meanwhile, negotiations for possible leasing of classroom space in Livonia and Crestwood school districts continues.

Operating agent for the special education program for the Wayne County Intermediate School District, Northville plans to use most of its own classrooms for its traditional and ESY programs and therefore needs additional space elsewhere to house special education youngsters from the Plymouth Center for Human Development and the Northville Residential Training Center.

Only a minimal number of special education youngsters are to be housed in Northville.

In related action Monday, the board gave the green light for use of some classrooms at Cooke Annex, located next to the administrative offices, for blind and deaf special education youngsters.

The fact that the blind and deaf will be required to use stairways in the old annex building is seen as "exciting challenge" by special education personnel. It will give these children needed training in climbing stairs, which they would not receive in a one-level building, officials explained.

The board also authorized a one-year contract with Schoolcraft College for continued use of annex classrooms as well. In addition, the board is considering a request by Schoolcraft for use of some academic classrooms at the

Adolph Neumans Honored On 20th Anniversary

Twenty years ago today on June 30, 1956, Mrs. Martha Tessmer Mix, a widow, married her neighbor, Adolph C. Neuman, at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Northville. He also had been widowed.

Last Sunday they celebrated their 20th wedding anniversary with 82 well wishers at a buffet dinner party given by their children at the home of Mrs. Neuman's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace N. Licorish, at 46901 West Main Street.

From 3 to 10 p.m. area relatives and friends as well as relatives from the state of Washington and from Kendallville and Fort Wayne, Indiana, and Cheboygan and Gaylord, Michigan, visited and shared the three-tier anniversary cake.

In the ceremony 20 years ago Mrs. Neuman's daughter, Dolores, was matron of honor and her grandson, Kent Hunter, now the Reverend Dr. Kent Hunter of Our Saviour Lutheran Church, was ring bearer.

Allen Meisel, a friend of the bridegroom, was best man. He was among the guests Sunday.

An only son, Adolph C. Neuman, Jr., and his wife, Barbara, of Livonia also were on hand. The couple has a total of 11 grandchildren.

Former residents of Clement Road, the couple, now retired, lives in Livonia. He has 40 years of service with Chrysler Corporation while she had been employed at Maybury Sanatorium for 18 years.

They are members of Grace Lutheran Church in Detroit and are active in the church senior citizens' group and in Merri-Bowl and Plaza Lanes bowling leagues.

In Our Town

Sparklers on July 4 Mark Lisa's Birthday

By JEANDAY

SPARKLERS will be ignited on Lake Geneva, Switzerland, July 4 in honor of a Northville Girl Scout, Lisa Raycraft, who is on an Alps tour with Senior Troop 501 of Plymouth.

While the sparkler display will mark the United States' Bicentennial Independence Day, it really is to be part of a birthday surprise for Lisa, who will be celebrating her 16th birthday Sunday.

She is one of 14 area Girl Scouts who flew to Frankfurt June 16 on a long-planned trip with their leader, Mrs. Lorraine Hurtik. From Frankfurt they were to go to Munich and then on to the International Girl Scout chalet in Adelboden, Switzerland, for a week. After touring the Alps the girls are slated to fly home July 6.

Lisa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Raycraft of Thornapple Lane. Both she and her mother have been active in scouting and had worked previously with Cadets at Camp Linden where Lisa met the Senior Troop leader. Since there is no active senior troop in Northville, she joined the Plymouth group and began earning money toward the Alps excursion.

"They became 'handy girls' doing baby-sitting, helping the elderly and selling poinsettias to earn half or even all of their trip money," explains Mrs. Raycraft who has helped Mrs. Hurtik with troop activities.

Lisa, who is in her sophomore year on the ESY schedule at Northville High, also worked for the Northville Recreation Department to fund her trip.

Part of her Sunday celebration will be a packet of cards from her family at home.

A DIFFERENT celebration earlier in the spring honored Laura Jerome, a member of the Northville TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) group since its inception 16 years ago.

Fran Bissa, president of the chapter which meets all year at 7:30 p.m. Mondays in the scout-recreation building, reports that Mrs. Jerome was presented with a 15-year pin from TOPS national headquarters in Milwaukee for maintaining her weight for all those years.

"She is what everybody should be," praises Mrs. Bissa, telling how Mrs. Jerome lost 59 pounds in her first year with TOPS and has managed to keep the extra pounds off since by daily morning walks and exercising.

She adds that Mrs. Jerome "practically never" misses a meeting, except when she is volunteering with the Red Cross or has a senior citizen activity.

"When members say the scale is 'weighing heavy,' we say 'Wait until Laura comes, and we'll see' for her weight never varies," relates Mrs. Bissa.

She adds that visitors who may be interested in the chapter are welcome at meetings. There will be no meeting next Monday because of the holiday, but TOPS will continue through summer after that. Members range in age from teens and pre-teens through senior citizens.

THE MOVERS will be at 217 West Dunlap Street this Thursday to pack the David M. Biery family for a move to Staunton, Virginia, in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley.

The move is a major change for Dave Biery, a lifetime Northville resident, and his wife, the former Mary Byrne, who came to the community when she was only about 12 years old.

"We spent about two months making the decision," recalls Biery, "after visiting there last January." Biery, who has been with Manufacturers National Bank since April, 1960, also made the decision to change professions. He will be joining Coiner Parts Company, Incorporated, which is headquartered in Staunton, as assistant general manager.

The Bierys' daughter, Kathy, 17, who will be a high school senior in the fall, already is in Staunton teaching swimming at the "Y". The Bierys also have two sons, David, 15, and Michael, 11.

Good friends of the couple honored them at a farewell gathering at the Silchester Circle home of the J. Ray Jacksons Sunday, June 20. Biery's parents, the Elden Bierys, assisted.

Biery, his father and Ray Jackson have owned and worked together on three airplanes. They're also area antique car buffs.

The couple also was feted at a gathering last Saturday by a small group of friends at the Clamdiggers.

VISITORS here have been Mr. and Mrs. James Lusby, of West Newton, Massachusetts. Mrs. Lusby is the former Gail Luchman. They were enroute to Guadalajara, Mexico, and spent the past week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Luchman on Orchard Drive.

Following their Mexican holiday the Lusbys will spend August in Sausalito, California, before returning to the East where he is chairman of the social studies department at the Fessenden School in West Newton. Gail Lusby will continue her graduate studies.

Family visitors at the West Nine Mile Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Klocke last weekend were their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Klocke, with their children, John, Paul and Lisa, of Yale, Michigan.

TWELVE INTERNATIONAL visitors are among the 40 guests being entertained at a picnic tonight by the Richard Ambler, at their home on Timberlane. Their guests are personnel men who are attending a Chrysler seminar in Detroit. The overseas guests represent 12 different countries.

Hosting foreign visitors has been done previously by the Amblers who have opened their home to a boy from Mexico and also one from France for two weeks each. The boys were students at the University of Michigan.

"Each one was a very enjoyable meeting," says Mrs. Ambler, endorsing the student visitation program of the Ecumenical Campus Center, in Ann Arbor.

Margaret Weid, hospitality coordinator for the center, explains that the program permits the approximately 750 persons from about 50 nations to visit Michigan families in their homes on weekends or longer during vacations.

This week she is seeking a home for a mature (49 years old) social work student from Kent, England, who will be at Hawthorn Center from July 1 through August 12. This is a special request, she says, with the visitor offering reciprocal hospitality. She is the mother of three grown children and writes that she would be pleased to help with children in a Northville household.

Anyone interested in this request or in the international student visitor program may contact Ms. Weid at her office 662-5529, or evenings; 662-3705.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carroll of Stoney Creek.

They were married in a double-ring ceremony at 6 p.m. May 29 in Grace Lutheran Church in Redford Township. The Reverend V. G. Halboth officiated.

Special selections by Jan McCaffery, soloist, included "Twelfth of Never" and "With This Ring I Thee Wed."

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a princess-style gown of white organza of floor length. The lace-trimmed bodice was fashioned with long, full sleeves edged in lace. A pearl and lace headpiece held her long, cathedral-length illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisy mums and yellow sweetheart roses.

Diane Roy of Redford was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Melinda Needham of Novi, Linda Ouellette of Livonia and Lynda Brown of Bellaire, Michigan.

Their floor-length gowns of shaded blue jersey with floral print were fashioned with cape sleeves. Bouquets they carried of carnations, mums, statice, baby's breath and greens were designed to match the colors in the gowns. Allan Carroll of Toronto was best man.

Ushers were Del Ortwine of Commerce, Richard Hipskiss and Paul LaSalle of Stoney Creek.

A reception for 270 guests followed at San Soui Hall in Farmington. Out-of-town guests attended from Hamilton, Canada, Chicago and Rockford, Illinois, and Traverse City.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Novi High School and a 1970 graduate of Northwestern Michigan College. She was employed at Botsford Hospital in Farmington before her marriage.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Orchard Park High School in Stoney Creek, and she had met at a party in Toronto.

Miss Derrick to Marry

He is the son of Marvin R. Denison, Sr., of Monmouth, Illinois.

Both the bride-elect and her fiance are members of the U.S. Air Force and are stationed at Lubbock, Texas, base.

She is a records technician while he is in transportation services. She is a 1971 graduate of Northville High School.

Their wedding will take place here during their leaves. They expect to be living at the base in Texas.

Make Relish Mold in Can

A good supply of salad recipes is a "must" for most homemakers who always are seeking additions to their recipe box.

The tomato-relish mold pictured is an economical, easy-to-make salad that goes well with any meat main course. In addition, it has the advantage of utilizing the empty can from the stewed tomatoes, part of the ingredients, for its mold. The mold can be removed after the salad is firm by dipping it in warm water and then puncturing the bottom and unmolding onto a bed of leafy green lettuce.

TOMATO-RELISH MOLD
1 can (16 oz.) stewed tomatoes
1 3-oz. pkg. lemon or strawberry flavored gelatin
1/2 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. vinegar

Four tomatoes into saucepan, saving can. Bring tomatoes to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer two minutes. Add gelatin, salt and vinegar; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Pour into can. Chill until firm, about four hours. Makes about two cups or six servings.

Recipe for a pretty spring salad comes from the Western Suburban Junior Woman's Club:

7-UP SALAD
2 3-oz. pkg. lemon gelatin
10 or 12-oz. bottle 7-Up
1 No. 2 1/2 can crushed pineapple (drained)
3 large sliced bananas small marshmallows
1/2 C. sugar
1 egg
2 Tbsp. flour
pineapple juice whipping cream or commercial whip nuts

Dissolve jello in two cups boiling water. Add bottle 7-Up and cool. Then add drained pineapple, bananas and enough small marshmallows to cover. (Make sure gelatin is cold before adding bananas.)

Set aside until solid. Cook sugar, pineapple juice, egg (well beaten) and flour until thick and then cool. Whip half-pint whipping cream or use other whip and fold into cooled sauce. Spread over gelatin salad and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Apples make an excellent salad base.

RED AND GOLD SALAD BOWL
2 C. diced unpeeled red apples
3 yellow apples, sliced thin
1/2 lb. process American cheese, cut in 1/2-inch cubes
1 1/2 lbs. shrimp, cooked
1/2 C. french dressing salad greens
cream dressing

Combine first five ingredients; toss until other ingredients are coated with salad dressing. Drain off surplus dressing. Arrange on salad greens. Serve cream dressing separately. Serves six.

CREAM DRESSING
Combine two-thirds of a cup each mayonnaise and dairy sour cream. Fold in two Tbsp. cut chives.

Denise Sterner Wears Mother's Satin Gown

When Denise Louise Sterner exchanged gold wedding bands with Wesley D. Wegner in a June ceremony at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, she wore her mother's bridal gown of eggshell duchess satin.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sterner of 50124 Helfer, Wixom. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wegner of North Muskegon.

Denise's mother had worn the full-skirted gown adorned with lace and seed pearl trim almost 27 years ago in November, 1949. It was fashioned with a high neckline and long sleeves. The skirt extended into a full train.

The bride's mother had made the crown of seed pearls, which held the fingertip veil trimmed with lace. Stephanotis, snowdrift mums, baby's breath and grape ivy were used for the bridal bouquet.

The couple had written the marriage vows for the 5:30 p.m. ceremony June 12 at which Pastor Charles Boerger officiated. The symbolic lighting of one candle from two was included.

Arrangements of palms, carnations and mums decorated the altar while candles with lily-of-the-valley and white bows decorated the windows.

Mrs. Christine Lehl was organist with Janise Lehl playing the flute. Special music also was provided by Jim Christensen and Mrs. Sherron Went.

A former Northville resident, Colleen Deibert, came from Leesburg, Virginia, to be honor maid. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Darwin Wendt of L'Anse, Michigan, Mrs. John Hill of Charleston Heights, South Carolina, and Mrs. Al Sneeringer of Westerville, Ohio.

Their dresses were Qujana flower prints in blue-green, light blue and orange shades. They carried baskets of dried orange and blue daisy-type flowers with wheat and greens.

Ted Adiska of Marquette was best man. He and ushers Dennis Wegner, Vernon Wegner and Marvin Wegner wore light blue tuxedos.

A dinner followed in the church parish hall for approximately 185 guests, including out-of-towners from Ohio, Virginia, South Carolina, Illinois, and Marquette, Kalamazoo and Muskegon, Michigan.

After a trip through Northern Michigan, the newlyweds are living in the Upper Peninsula town of Ishpeming. They had met at Bell Memorial Hospital in Ishpeming where both are R.N.'s.

The bride, a 1970 Northville High School graduate, attended Michigan State University and is a 1974 graduate of Henry Ford Hospital School of Nursing. Her husband is a graduate of North Muskegon High School and of Northern Michigan University (1972) and now is working on his master's degree there.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN MILLER II

Deborah Pickren Pledges Vows

For her marriage to John Martin Miller II, Deborah Edith Pickren hand-embroidered pastel silk flowers on the ivory satin-crepe gown made by her mother for the occasion.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Pickren of 2118 1/2 East Chigwidden in Northville.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller of 18900 Valencia in Northville.

They were married in a double-ring ceremony at 3 p.m. June 19 at Lake Pointe Bible Chapel in Plymouth. Elder Frank W. Kierdorf officiated.

The bridal gown was fashioned with long sleeves and a square neckline bordered in satin. The neckline inset, cuff bands and sash featured the floral embroidery. The skirt extended into a chapel-length train. A headpiece of sweetheart roses held the bridal veil of illusion.

Sweetheart roses, mums, daisies and baby's breath of the bridal bouquet repeated the soft pastels of the gown accents.

Mrs. Mark Young, the bride's twin sister, was matron of honor in a cotton-gauze gown with predominately blue print. It was styled with a square neckline and long sleeves.

Bridesmaids were Marcia Pickren, sister of the bride, Stacy Schlegel, niece of the bridegroom from California, and Lori Tellam, a former Northville resident now living in Grand Rapids.

Their gowns were cut like that of the matron of honor's but were of a predominately peach print and trim. The bridal attendants all had made their gowns. Their bouquets of mixed mums, daisies and baby's breath continued the pastel color scheme.

The six-week classes are taught by registered nurses, and it is suggested they be taken eight to twelve weeks prior to delivery. To register contact Mrs. Kathy Gray, 427-1040. Enrollment is limited to 10 couples a class.

Charles Frogner was best man. Groomsmen were Richard Pickren, Donald Pickren, II, and Michael Ratliff. Ushers were Paul West and Bruce Boor. They wore ivory tuxedos with brown trim to match the bridegroom's tails.

Mrs. Dewey Gardner was organist. Soloist Irene Sadtler sang "One Hand, One Heart" from West Side Story preceding the processional. Accompanying himself on the guitar, the bride's brother, Richard, sang a medley of "Thank You" and "Marriage of the Lamb" to the couple.

A reception followed at the church with the 150 guests including visitors from California, Florida, New York and Illinois. The bridegroom's sister and her three children drove here from California while the bride's grandmother flew in from Florida.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length dress of cream, yellow and orange shantung which she had made. The bridegroom's mother chose a two-piece dress of green polyester with a lace tunic. After a wedding trip to northern Michigan the couple will live in Northville.

Patricia Dryer Becomes Bride of Wayne Loder

Patricia Ann Dryer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dryer of Milford, chose her parents' 34th wedding anniversary for her marriage to Wayne Robert Loder.

They exchanged vows and rings in a six p.m. ceremony June 19 in New Hudson Methodist Church. The Reverend Robert A. Mitchinson officiated at the altar decorated with candelabra and white floral arrangements.

The bridegroom, a Novi resident and editor of The Novi News, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Loder of Burton, Michigan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza over taffeta. A tiny, stand-up collar topped the sheer yoke. Lace applique adorned the bodice, the wrists of the flounced sleeves and the hemline ruffle. The skirt extended into a full train.

A camelot headpiece held her double-veil of illusion, which also was edged in lace. The cascade bridal bouquet contained sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath with fern.

Mrs. Debbie Nelson was matron of honor in a summer pink gown of organza and lace fashioned with a v-neckline and short, cape sleeves. She carried pink carnations interspersed with white sweetheart roses and wore a matching picture hat.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Geraldine Stipp and Mrs. Arvie Athas. They wore aqua gowns fashioned like the matron of honor's with matching hats and bouquets.

Kathleen Baker was junior bridesmaid in aqua.

Gala Days Crowds Top 25,000 Mark

In spite of a rainy opening night Thursday, Jaycee Gala Days crowds were even larger than anticipated. John Lee, chairman of the event, said about 25,000 people attended the weekend festivities.

Highlights of Gala Days included a fireworks display and a free "community breakfast."

Hundreds of children and adults watched in the dark Saturday evening as umbrellas of color exploded open overhead. The grand fireworks finale, staged by the Novi Fire Department, was a fiery red, white and blue "Happy Birthday America."

Lee said the Jaycees served nearly 1,000 complimentary pancakes and sausage brunches Sunday.

Jaycee the Clown strolled the grounds greeting children. On Saturday afternoon, Benjamin Franklin joined in welcoming Gala Days visitors.

Franklin, played by Ralph Archibold, regularly appears at Greenfield Village. His stint at Gala Days was sponsored by the Novi Lions Club.

Among the many games of skill was a dunk tank operated jointly by the Jaycees and Novi Little League. For a quarter, aspiring big-league pitchers got three chances to drench such usually dignified persons as Gilbert Henderson, Novi mayor.

Sergeant Dale Gross of the Novi Police drew the winning name Sunday evening for a 1976 Ford Granada donated by the Lions. Pat Clark of Livonia held the lucky ticket.

A television set will go to a person named Peterson, providing the Lions can locate him or her. The ticket,

Board Eyes Novi Athletics

The athletic programs at Novi Schools came under close scrutiny Thursday during a special school board study session.

Coaches, parents and board members exchanged views for nearly four hours on ways to protect the physical well-being of athletes, encourage more student participation and provide equitable extra-curricular opportunities for students not interested in sports.

Trustee James L. Helmer said he would like the school board to take a look at the program in terms of the physical and emotional well-being of participants.

He raised a question about the adequacy of physical examinations provided for students involved in sports. John Osborne, football coach, said that students going out for sports are examined by Dr. Lyle Fettig, who performs the service without charge for the school district. Students also have the option of examination by their own doctors.

No one in Thursday's meeting was certain what Dr. Fettig's examination consists of, but the doctor told The News Friday that he checks height, weight, blood pressure, chest, abdomen and looks for a hernia.

In Dr. Fettig's opinion, "The exam we have done is probably adequate for an average high school student going out for sports. These boys are athletically inclined, and the sports are not that much more intensive than their daily activities."

However, the doctor added that the question of what constitutes an adequate physical has become controversial in recent years due to the increase of malpractice actions.

Helmer also asked about record-keeping on athletes and said he would like to see a profile card on each student with a history of health, operations, injuries, and post-

Lord and Taylor Store Joins Twelve Oaks Team

Lord & Taylor of New York has announced plans for the simultaneous opening of three large department stores within the greater Detroit area including one at the Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi.

The announcement, which was released first to The Novi News, brings to four the number of major department stores which are to be located in the Twelve Oaks Mall, joining Hudson's, Sears, and Penney's. A fifth department store is in the works for the Novi regional shopping center although announcement of the store has not been made pending completion of negotiations.

Jerry Amundson, vice president in charge of development for Dayton Hudson, told this newspaper that as late as last week, conversations had been going on with Saks Fifth Avenue.

"It's not to say that's the store, but it is the type of store we'd like to have as the fifth," said Amundson. He added that the fifth store probably would be added in the mid 1980's.

As it stands now, the shopping center is originally planned to expand to the east approximately 50,000 to 70,000 square feet to accommodate the new 123,000 square foot Lord & Taylor, said Amundson. The store will be smaller than any of the other large department stores in the center.

Besides the Novi store, Lord & Taylor branch operations will open jointly March 1, 1978 at Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn and Lakeside in Sterling Heights.

According to Joseph E. Brooks, chairman and chief executive officer of

Royal Development Property

Zoning Is Subject Of Council Request

A new twist has been added to the Royal Development (Town Center) lawsuit seeking rezonings of the triangular section at 10 Mile, Haggerty and Grand River in Novi for a name brand neighborhood shopping center.

Novi city council last week voted 6-1 in favor of requesting the planning board to hold a hearing and to give a new recommendation on rezoning of the property.

Request for rezoning of the approximate 45-acre came from City Attorney David Fried who told The Novi News that the current R-4 (single family residential) zoning may be illegal. Fried said that the property should be rezoned before the question comes up for possible consideration in the circuit court of Judge Charles Thornburn.

The whole issue surrounds a December, 1974 vote by the city council on several rezoning requests necessary for the shopping center. Nearby homeowners in Old Orchard Condominiums had petitioned against the rezonings because of fears concerning phase 'development' of the parcel which included buffer areas. Also cited, among other items, was increased traffic.

Because of the petitions of more than 20 percent of what Fried ruled were fronting homeowners, a 4-3 vote by council in favor of the rezonings failed as Fried ruled four-fifths of the council had to vote in favor.

The lawsuit by Royal Development sought reversal of the ruling on the basis that the petitions were invalid and the single family zoning was unconstitutional because it was not a valid use of the property. Judge Thornburn ruled the petitions invalid, thus passing the rezoning. However, the city of Novi appealed the ruling and is waiting for a hearing and decision on the petition question.

According to Fried, if the court of appeals rules in favor of the city on the petition question, Thornburn will then have to rule on the question of constitutionality of the R-4 zoning. He added that if the city should rezone the property and the court of appeals upholds the lower court ruling on the petitions, the rezoning may not make any difference.

At the same time, Fried indicated that the planning board might be able to resolve the lawsuit if it should work with Royal Development on some sort of a compromise solution equitable to both sides, as far as rezoning.

Calls for Pollution Control

Lahde Attacks Korex

Following a council discussion launched by Councilman James Lahde Tuesday night, it would appear that Wixom City officials had come to the end of their ropes in dealing with the Korex Company and began "laying down the law."

Terming the "evident unsightly conditions surrounding the exterior of the soap factory" "disgusting," Lahde further remarked the company had "completely negated any provisions granted to them by the Board of Appeals."

Lahde had reference to the many variances given the company by that board over the past several years. Those variances included the erection of outside silos for chemical storage but did not include outside storage of any other materials.

The soap factory, located in the center of Wixom, has been the source of almost continual complaints from residents concerning trash lying around the building along with increasing charges of air and water pollution.

Lahde, saying he knew the company was in violation of any number of city ordinances, demanded that the building official compile a dated list of those violations and turn them in to the council by the next meeting.

The ire provoked by the rubble lying around the building was only one point of Lahde's attack. The pollution conscious councilman also directed that the Oakland County Environmental Health Department be called in to test water and air pollution in the area.

Building official William Tyler told council the waters in the catch basin located at the corner of the property had been recently tested showing no pollutants in the water caused by soap-making chemicals.

When asked by Lahde when the test was made, Tyler did admit it had been taken during the hot, dry period a few weeks ago. Lahde ordered another test be made "after a storm" pointing out that would be the only valid time in which to take samples.

Fumes and soap particles coming from the building also drew criticism from Lahde as well as other members of the council. Comments were made regarding the odors emitted as well as the "dusting" of the surrounding neighborhood by those chemicals.

Although those particles are said to be not caustic, Lahde said a box elder tree bordering the property was dead with reports that the paint on a car as well as a house next door were removed by the particles.

In referring to the tree, Lahde said seriously, "That's the first box elder tree I've ever seen killed." His remark

Kensington Prospered

'Ghost Town' Name Lives on at Metropark

"Ghost towns" are most frequently associated with the "Old West."

Anyone who has done much traveling around the state, however, knows that there are numerous "Ghost Towns" scattered about the Upper Peninsula, but not everyone knows that one of the most famous "Ghost Towns" of Michigan's early years was located in the South Lyon-Brighton area.

Over 130 years ago there existed in the southwest corner of Oakland County a prosperous little town known as "Kensington" which, at the time, eclipsed anything else in this section of the state.

The Town of Kensington was established in 1832, but was dwindling fast by 1850 and was declining further in 1871 because of the lack of a railroad. It became a ghost town in 1890.

But the name "Kensington" took on a brighter aspect on March 14, 1947, when the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority's Board of Commissioners renamed its Kent Lake Park Project "Kensington Metropolitan Park." The name has now been shortened to Kensington Metropark. Named after the once infamous town of Kensington, the large, 4,300 acre metropolitan park has gradually become one of the most popular parks in Southeastern Michigan since it opened in 1948.

Geographically, the town of Kensington was located at the junction of the Huron River and a toll road of the 1830's.

Historically, this route has always been important to Michigan: First to the Indians traveling by canoe, later, busy with the stagecoaches of the 1800's, then as a dirt road in the early 1900's leading over a hill and crossing a steel bridge that spanned the Huron River waters.

Later, after highway paving, the route became Grand River (US-16) Avenue and followed the same pattern with a wonderful view of the Kensington Park area from the top of the high hill. This changed, however, with the development of the I-96 freeway. But every route has converged at the junction of the highway and the Huron River, and the combination bridge and highway have undergone constant expansion as highway traffic increased.

In the days of the stagecoach, Kensington was a place of importance and the two taverns and hotels were prepared to rest weary travelers. One of the main buildings in the town was the Kensington Bank, a financial institution that flourished when Michigan's young and restless pioneers were boosting prosperity by making money on printing presses. Its career as a center of finance was short.

The Bank of Kensington was organized in 1838, by Henry Fiske, President; Frederick Hutchinson, Cashier; and the directors included A.A. Dwight, A.M. Brown, N.F. Butterfield, B.P. Hutchinson, C.F. Cooke, C.L. Crouse and S.D. Dix. Restrictions on the honesty of banking promoters were then very loosely drawn and it proved that most of the men were of questionable character.

Kensington Bank proved to be one of 46 wildcat banks in Michigan. There were six in Oakland County, half of which were in Pontiac. In 1838 the holders of Kensington Bank, after being certified by the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of Detroit, issued notes. When note sales did not proceed as well as expected, Sherman Dix and Alfred Dwight left (unknown to the remaining stockholders) for Milwaukee and disposed of several thousand bank notes, keeping the proceeds.

With notes being sold in Milwaukee, the Michigan Legislature passed laws requiring banking corporations to show real estate security and the bank was ordered to close since only two of the original holders owned land, namely, N.F. Butterfield and Chancy Crouse. The remaining holders had conveniently changed their land titles to their wives' names. Dix and Dwight were later arrested in Milwaukee and returned to Kensington.

As the bank closed and the town business declined, the merchants developed a propensity for not paying their bills. When the merchants couldn't collect their bills they often said, "The goods have gone to Kent," which was a local short term for Kensington. This accounts for the current reference to Kensington Park as "Kent Lake Park" which is still retained by many local residents.

Among the first buildings was a small sawmill operated by Joel Redway and constructed in 1834, with power coming from the Huron River and serving Kensington for several years.

Some of the buildings established by 1836 were two hotels, a large livery stable, three general stores, a doctor's office, a church, a post office, tavern, blacksmith shop, and as mentioned previously, the Kensington Bank, established December 27, 1837.

Perhaps the most outstanding person associated with Kensington Bank was Kinsley S. Bingham, who became the first Republican Governor of Michigan in 1854. He was of unquestioned honesty, served two terms as governor, and his home still stands near Kensington Park in Green Oak Township.

Other important dates include 1834 — when the first general store was opened by Alfred A. Dwight; 1840 — with the "Kensington Inn" besides serving as a tavern was also a doctor's office; and 1853 — when Kensington Baptist Church was erected on October 11th.

The Church endured for over 100 years and was razed in 1953 and the materials were given to the Reverend C.G. Morris, of Novi, who was building a new church.

A sketch of the Town of Kensington from an 1872 Atlas shows that the area included a cemetery, Bank of Kensington, Smith Store and Post Office, the Elder Blacksmith Shop, Richardson Hotel, Butterfield House and First Tavern. It was located with sections in both Oakland and Livingston counties. The river is marked "Clinton", but probably should be Huron River, and at one end is Kent Lake.

Some records indicate that in the late 1850's the Town of Kensington began to decline. There was early opposition to a rail route near Kensington from the town of Farmington and when the Pere Marquette line was constructed in 1871, it went to Plymouth enroute from Detroit to Lansing. The other reasons were failure of the wildcat bank and lack of poor credit.

In 1917, during the early days of the movie industry, wilderness areas were often used as a background. One such location was Labadie Island (now called Canoe Island in Kent Lake in Kensington Park).

It is said that by 1890 the Town of Kensington was a ghost town and little was known of the area for about 30 years. A brief newspaper description in 1913 was as follows:

"When traveling from Detroit on the old Grand River Road you go down a long, steep hill, about 35 miles from the City, and cross the Huron River on a steel bridge that spans the stream high above its waters. To your right, as you travel westward, lies Kent Lake with its broad expanse of bordering marsh. To your left is the picturesque gorge which the river, in its earlier days, cut through the hills that it might mingle with the lakes of Livingston County. A single farmhouse on the eastern rim of the gorge marks the site of what was the promising Village of Kensington when that part of Oakland County was mostly an unbroken forest."

In the 1930's, many area residents used Kent Lake, covering 60 acres, as a fishing site or swimming hole and through it the Huron River flowed.

It is interesting to note that in the 1940's when the Kensington Metropolitan Park project was just getting under way, another writer described the same location as "The 60-acre swampy waters of Kent Lake which could hardly be dignified by the term 'lake'" and pointed out that the average motorist passing along Grand River Road hardly noticed the site for scenic value or recreation.

A spadeful of Huron River bottom land, turned at a dedication ceremony on August 9, 1946, however, changed all this by marking the first construction project of what was then referred to as Kent Lake Park Project. Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority officials then looked ahead and forecast a time when thousands of residents of southeastern Michigan would be using the future park site. Many of these citizens would come from Oakland, Livingston, Macomb, Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

The first step in this gigantic undertaking was the building of a dam on land leased from the State Conservation Department, which was completed in 1947. It stretches 290 feet across the Huron River and helped transform the then-small Kent Lake into 1,200 acres of sparkling waters, which has since become a major attraction for fishermen, boaters and swimmers. One important step was the removal of thousands of trees from the new, enlarged lake bottom, which was flooded in the spring of 1948.

One of the predictions concerning park attendance came from the late George W. McCordie, then engineer-director of the HCMA, who said, "We should be able to accommodate 50,000 persons a day." The record day use for the park is over 51,700 and was established on May 30, 1969. Annual use has climbed from 94,000 in 1948 to over 2 million persons for the past six years.

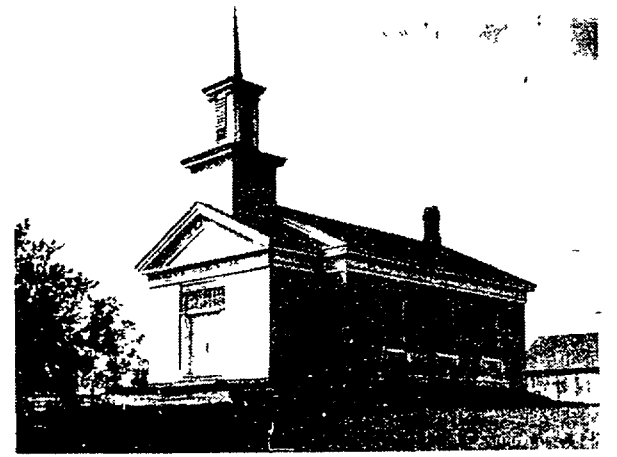

David O. Laidlaw, director of the Authority, pointed out that the aim of the HCMA is still to build recreational sites within easy reach of the citizens of the five counties comprising the Detroit Metropolitan Area. The Authority and its nine parks are supported by 1/4 mill tax on the assessed valuation of the general property of the area. Kensington Metropolitan Park is considered one of the finest playgrounds in Michigan and recognized by park planners throughout the country as a model park of excellent design.

Many persons consider it impressive and striking in appearance, well-planned and a mixture of intensively developed areas and natural beauty spots, but with its beauty not confined to the wooded areas or quiet ponds. The lovely beaches have extensive lawns that afford soft, cool places for relaxation after a swim or sunbathing. Park officials have used care in the construction of buildings, which combine durability with an esthetic appeal which enhances recreation. Then to keep all this in tip-top shape, the park is well cared for and well staffed, with about 50 year-around employees and over 150 seasonal workers.

"One of the surprising features about Kensington Park is that it has been developed fairly close to the master plan of design made over 25 years ago."

He Wins Award

Northville Township Constable James Schrot won a firearms award at the Michigan Constables Association conference in Flint recently.

THIS PHOTOGRAPH is of the Kensington Baptist Church, which was torn down in 1953. It was located along old Grand River.

remarked Laidlaw, who for 20 years was superintendent at Kensington Park (1949-1969).

"People coming to the park this spring can hardly realize what visitors found 20 years ago," said Laidlaw. He pointed out that then Kent Lake had just been opened for use and the park had just one bathing site, with the bathhouse and toilets constructed from rough-hewn oak from trees removed in the lake bottom clearing operation. "Even the fact that the roads were dirt and half the park was under preliminary construction did not keep visitors from using the park," remarked Laidlaw.

Kent Lake, plus the wonderful rolling hills of the acres, add an unmatched scenic appeal. Facilities now include a nature center, nature trails, boat rental service, launching sites, two bathing beaches with bathhouses, playground areas, an 18-hole golf course and several large picnic sites.

"Some of the early sites had just basic facilities, but refinements in design and landscape work have transformed these into first-class facilities, with many the product of 23 years of improvements. Much of the work has been done so gradually that few people notice the improvements made from year to year unless a major new facility such as a nature center, golf course, or a new boat rental harbor are developed," said Laidlaw.

high school during evening hours.

Plans for leasing second-story rooms at vacant Main Street Elementary School to a Plymouth Baptist school and to a Montessori school are going forward.

As the board authorized the latter step, Trustee Martin Rinehart informed members that they can expect to receive a recommendation from the citizens facility study committee to utilize classroom space for Northville's own children by the 1977-78 school year.

That recommendation also is expected to call for moving of central administrative offices to Main Street, with conversion of the existing central administrative offices building (former recreation building) back to a recreational facility.

In approving the North Dearborn Heights contract, the board fielded criticisms from citizens of that school district where housing of special education children has become an explosive issue.

Some of the same questions posed by Northville residents when the special education program was launched here this past school year were raised by the North Dearborn people.

But major concern involved what residents in North Dearborn considered to be inadequate payment by

The Northville Bicentennial Players will be performing 20-minute historical skits throughout the day in the old library building which now boasts a newly constructed porch. The short plays re-enact some of Northville's events of the past.

Members of the Mother's Club will provide refreshments in front of Wash-Oak School, and music will be provided by the Northville High School Band. Among the Historical Society's flea market area, a lemonade stand and kissing booth will be operated. The flea market will close at 6 p.m.

The Jaycee fireworks display, to get underway at dusk Sunday, will be held on the north side of Eight Mile Road in the high school athletic fields area. The high school parking lot is suggested as the ideal viewing area.

The hillside north of Eight Mile Road and the overpass will be closed to the public for reasons of safety, the Jaycees warn.

Jaycee tickets will be available throughout the fireworks, and the winner will be announced at the conclusion of the fireworks.

Concerning the Jaycee barbecue, spokesmen point out that the menu will include: one-half barbecued chicken, cole slaw, potato chips, roll and butter, and pop or coffee.

Servings will sell for $3 for adult portions, $2.25 for a child's portion.

Anyone interested in placing an advance order that will be ready to take out may call 349-1281.

"We pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor. . ."

The Declaration of Independence heralds the birth of our nation — and backs it up with something more than noble sentiment. The document ends with a mutual pledge, in which the 56 signers made a sweeping commitment — putting everything they had on the line — reputations, property, even life itself — in support of justice and freedom as God-given rights — the guiding principles of a new American way of life: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." It's 200 years now since those words were written, and men of each generation have given their lives to protect them. Others have lived their lives to affirm them — and to renew the pledge: that freedom is worth taking risks for, since nothing is safe without it.

Float Takes Shape

With the July 4 parade just around the corner, float builders were hard at work this week throughout the community. Among them is Steve Bergin, a South Lyon high school student (left), who is supervising the construction of a gigantic float for The Northville Record.

To be nearly 15 feet high, 12 feet wide, the float will depict Benjamin Franklin operating an 18th Century printing press. Some 25 floats are expected in the parade which gets underway at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Service Scheduled

sung by the community choir.

Serving as ushers will be members of Boy Scout Troop 755. The public address system is being provided by the VFW Post 4012, and the commemorative programs, to carry a cover designed by Donald Fee, are being provided by The Northville Record.

The ecumenical service is sponsored by the Northville Community Bicentennial Committee. Its members include: John Burkman, chairman, A.M. Allen, the Reverend Lloyd Brasure, John Carlo, Fran Gazlay, Mrs. Warner Krause, Charles Lapham, Florence Panattoni, Jan Reef, William Sliger, Dr. John Swienkowski, Paul Vernon and Mrs. Lawrence Wright.

In the event of rain the service will be held in the Presbyterian Church.

Parade's Sunday

Roberts Cardinales of Redford Township, block-long of antique cars, the always popular elephants, Wanda and Tulsa, a large number of horses and their colorful riders, unicyclists, the 40 et 8 Locomotive, the Farmington Elks motorized drill team, the Northwest Militia — a marching group dressed as Colonial soldiers, and Detroit Edison's electric car.

A half dozen or more hilarious clowns also will be participating.

Still other participants will include the city and township police, the Michigan State Police, city and township officials, Wayne County Sheriff and a sheriff color guard, county, state and national officials, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Brownies.

Among the floats will be these: 1

Bicentennial Restorations

July 3 dedication planned for recently relocated Witch's Hat in South Lyon

Greek Revival home ready for July 4 debut

Bicentennial restoration in Northville means work... and plenty of it. Ask any one of the members of the Northville Historical Society who have been busy this Bicentennial year in a flurry of activity to complete a major part of the Mill Race Historical Village.

Several of the community's historic buildings have been moved to a large parcel of land donated to the city by the Ford Motor Company, and restoration work has been underway for some time.

The 130-year-old white frame library building, which originally was built for a church and later used for a number of other purposes including a library, has been completed for some time.

Just completed, inside and out, and now ready for its Fourth of July debut is the handsome Greek Revival home, fronted by a new fence, which was formerly located on Main Street not far from Northville's historic Ford Valve plant. The carriage house (seen at the right of the Greek Revival home) is being

Hat's Relocated

The one project that has symbolized the Bicentennial Year in South Lyon more than any other has been the preservation and restoration of a unique old train depot, popularly known as the "Witch's Hat" for its unusual architectural design.

The city was able to obtain the depot from the Grand Trunk Western and Chesapeake and Ohio railroads and proceeded to make plans to move it to a site in McHattie Park off of Pontiac Trail.

The move was completed in April and various community organizations, headed by the South Lyon Historical Society, have been busy raising funds and restoring the fine old edifice.

A dedication service is planned for July 3. The building was constructed in 1909 after a fire had destroyed a previous edifice that had stood by the railroad crossing on Ten Mile Road since 1871.

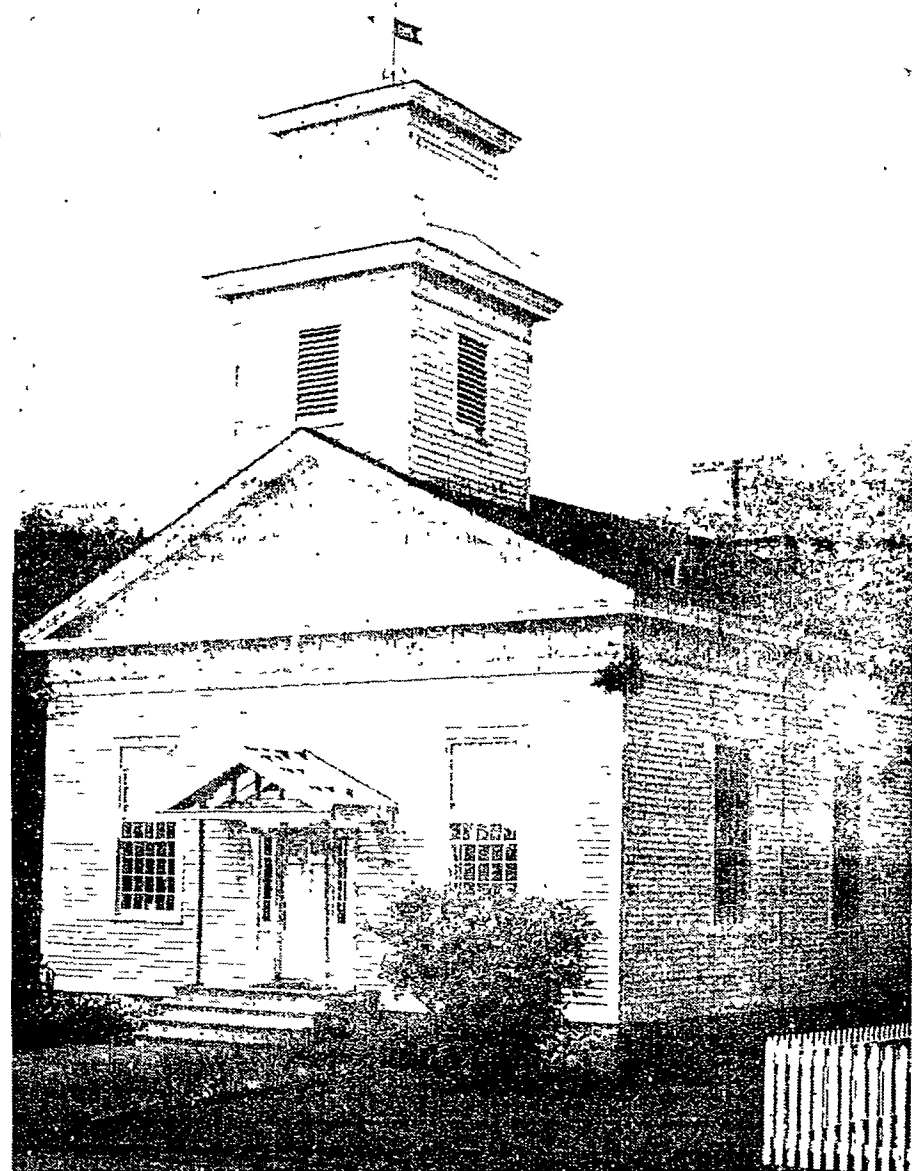

All offices of Sliger Home Newspaper will be closed Monday, July 4. See early deadline information above for July 7 classified advertising.

Birthdays Made Special At Wishing Well Manor

Birthdays are special. No matter how many you've celebrated, it's important that someone remembers.

With that philosophy a group of volunteers from First Presbyterian Church of Northville have been keeping track of birthdays of residents of Wishing Well Manor convalescent center at 520 West Main Street.

Once a month, for the past year and a half, members of the church have been giving birthday parties honoring residents who have a birthday during the month.

There are pieces of cake for everyone, Mrs. Alan Somershoe reports. She keeps track of the birthdays and does the calling necessary to make sure about five church representatives are on hand.

She also sees that there are little presents for the birthday honorees. Money is supplied for these from the church deacons' fund. Gifts might be cigarettes, powder, stationery or even knee socks — whatever the residents have indicated is needed.

A week ago Wednesday the party celebrated the birthdays of Ernest Simpson and Ida Barkwell.

It also marked the birthday of one of the project's most faithful volunteers, Jan Reef, who brought a special cake for the occasion.

"He's almost always there," notes Mrs. Somershoe as she lists other faithful volunteers as the Andreas Von Recums, who sometimes bring their children, Ruth Waterman, Gail McLaren, Ella Liebetreu and Gail Gross.

In addition to a decorated cake and presents the volunteers bring flowers and serve punch.

"This month was special," Judy Somershoe explains, with church choir members coming along for a song fest. In this way the choir honored Reef, a member of the church chancel choir.

"Usually, we have cake and punch and just talk," Mrs. Somershoe adds, "for the residents just like to visit. They're so appreciative and thank you so often that it's very worth while."

Some "Third Wednesday" celebrations have had other highlights, she says, mentioning the visit of the Von Recum children who played their recorders. And at Christmas, she recalls, there was a bigger party with gifts for all.

Mrs. Somershoe minimizes her part in the project, saying, "I just do the phone calling — I don't mind and somebody has to." Church secretary Margaret Nauman, however, agrees that Mrs. Somershoe is the one who keeps the monthly project on schedule.

For the past several months she's had no problems supplying a cake as Carolyn Coxon has baked and decorated them.

Judy Somershoe always is seeking additional volunteers for the third Wednesday of the month visits and invites anyone in the community interested in helping, even on a one-time-only basis, to call her at 349-3179.

She began her volunteering as a newcomer shortly after the family moved to their home on Westhill Road in Northville Township.

Northville. They are volunteers from First Presbyterian Church in Northville who provide monthly parties for residents of the center. The June event was special as it also was Jan Reef's birthday.

June Brides This Time

Baptist Couples Repeat Vows

Sunday was a special day for eight couples at the Tri-Lakes Baptist Church in Brighton.

That's when 16 husbands and wives repeated their vows in a special multiple wedding service conducted by church pastor, Dr. Kenneth Ouellette, at 7 p.m.

"June is the month for weddings," Mr. Ouellette explains. Most of the couples didn't have June weddings the first time around. Some were first married in civil ceremonies and will now remember church weddings, too.

"The couples were the ones who suggested it," says the pastor. He led them in repeating traditional vows.

The eight couples together claimed more than 207 years of married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Treganowan of South Lyon were the longest married couple repeating their vows. They'll celebrate their golden anniversary next year.

Other couples who participated in the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gates of Howell, married 42 years, and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hankinson of South Lyon, married two years.

Brighton couples who repeated their vows were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Risinger, 29 years; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Biddinger, 24 years; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hamilton, 24 years; Mr. and Mrs. John Timison, 32 years; and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Treganowan, five years.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church fellowship hall.

Eight Attend Convention

Eight local Lutheran ministers and lay delegates are among more than 600 representatives attending a three-day convention of the Michigan District, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod at Concordia Lutheran Junior College in Ann Arbor this week.

This is the 87th assembly of the 300 congregations which make up the Michigan District. Each congregation is represented by two voting delegates — the designated pastor (if the church has more than one) and one lay delegate.

Attending the convention from Brighton are the Reverend John Hirsch and lay delegate Carl Benling.

South Lyon representatives are the Reverend E. Michael Bristol and Ernest Brown.

Pastors Charles Boerger and Ralph Schmidt, Principal Kenneth Lehl and lay delegate Fred Sarnes are attending from Northville.

All boards, committees, and executives of the district will make reports to the assembly. The reports will be preceded by "1,000 Voices: One Mission", a presentation by Group media, Concordia College, St. Paul, Minnesota on the mission of the church.

Dr. Edwin C. Weber, formerly pastor at Fraser and now first vice-president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, is representing the Synod's president at the convention.

Dr. Oswald Hoffman, Lutheran Hour speaker, is delivering a special Bicentennial message. Dr. Gerhard Aho, professor at Concordia Seminary, Springfield, Illinois, is the devotional essayist.

Baptists Celebrate Fourth

First Baptist Church of Wixom has scheduled an all-day series of special events for Sunday, July 4, beginning with a film for the combined Sunday School classes at 9:45 a.m.

Pastor Robert Warren will lead the worship service at 11 a.m. which will be followed with a potluck dinner at 1:30 p.m. and an ice cream booth at 2:30 p.m.

A program, "Historical Reflections," will be presented by Mrs. Charlotte Banfield at 3:15 p.m. It will focus on early memories of Wixom.

Members may attend the events in historical costumes. More information may be obtained by calling 624-3823.

Speaker

Scheduled

Dr. Frederick C. Vosburg will be the guest preacher at The First United Methodist Church of South Lyon at 8:30 p.m. on Sunday, July 4.

He served as minister of Court Street Church in Flint for 10 years and has been the minister of First Church in Dearborn for the past 15 years. While in Flint, he was a radio preacher on WKMF and WMRP.

Topic of Dr. Vosburg's sermon will be "A Better Tomorrow."

Church Capsules

A special Bicentennial Church Service is being planned at the Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church in South Lyon on Sunday, July 4.

One festive service will be held at 9 a.m. The 11 a.m. service is being dropped on this day only.

The Reverend George Tiefel, Jr., reported that the congregation, choir, and Sunday School students, will sing special patriotic and early-American hymns. The Youth Group is preparing a patriotic banner for use in the festal procession.

A film entitled "We sing the Almighty Power of God" will be shown to the Sunday School at 10:15 a.m. The film makes use of the many God-created beauty scenes in our western United States to portray God's creative powers.

Pastor Tiefel, who also serves as chaplain at the Martin Luther Home in South Lyon, announced that the July 4 service at the home will be held at 10:15 a.m. and will be observed with special patriotic songs.

Worshippers at the July 4 service have been invited to wear early-American garb at the 9 a.m. service.

Donovan L. Moon, organist at the First United Methodist Church of South Lyon, will be leaving the local church after the July 4 service. In addition to playing the organ, Moon will sing "The Lord's Prayer" as a solo accompanied by Ron Smith.

He will present his Degree Organ Recital from the University of Michigan School of Music in Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor on Sunday, July 11, at 4 p.m.

Members of the South Lyon church are invited to attend the recital and participate in a potluck picnic in Gallup Park afterwards. Bring table service plus a lunch for yourself or a dish to pass.

Simple Solution

"This is God's picture"
Spoke a six-year-old tike:
Mom said of his drawing
"No one knows what He is like."

He continued word gnawing
"They will know for sure
'Cause I've made it here . . .

F.A. Hasenau

Faith

Each day is as a lifetime;
At dawn, we're born anew.
We greet each morning's freshness
With hope and strength to view.

We meet the daily challenge
Of the tests that come our way,
And in the glow of sunset
We rest at close of day.

We do not fear the darkness
Of the night, and sleep serene
In the faith, that in the morning
We will wake and live again.

Charles E. Hutton

By CLIFF HILL

The golden aura that clung historically to Monte Carlo, Nice, and other famous gambling and swimming beach resorts is gradually fading away.

They are being replaced by Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia and also by Sveti Stefan, Didva, Cartat and Mlini. — all also in Yugoslavia. — Istanbul with the Sultan Ahmed Mosque, the Blue Mosque, Top-Kapi-Serail is another new favorite for visitors. If you ever go there be sure to take the ferry to the Asia part of Turkey. Visit the nightclub, Kervansaray. Also spend half-a-day shopping in the Oriental Bazaar — suede coats — $40, meerschaum pipes $5 to $10, — beautiful jewelry of solid gold for the lowest prices anywhere.

A major attraction for the single swinging set in Dubrovnik are the hordes of beautiful blondes from Germany, Denmark, and Sweden that annually chose this place for their two weeks' vacations.

I think that the reasons the old places lost out was the artificiality of phoney background and dollar chasing that prevailed each season. Dubrovnik and all of Yugoslavia are genuine and realistic and very hospitable.

A Column About People, Places 'n Things

THE GREAT ATLANTIC and Pacific Tea Company, Inc. announces the start of a "Donation Days" program in the 106 stores in its Detroit division. "Donation Days" offers customers the opportunity to have five percent of the dollars they spend at A&P on designated shopping days donated directly to their favorite charity by A&P.

Advertisements in newspapers and on radio and television will encourage shoppers to apply to A&P for the assignment of "Donation Days" to their favorite non-profit causes.

"For some time, we have been looking for a way to participate equitably in fund-raising drives conducted by our shoppers," said James Madden, vice president and general manager of A&P's Detroit Division. "We think 'Donation Days' answers that need."

The Detroit Division of A&P comprises stores in the city of Detroit, all of Michigan's lower peninsula and Toledo, Ohio.

Organizations can receive more details and sign up for "Donation Days" by calling the following toll-free numbers between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Mondays through Fridays. In Michigan: (800) 572-1010; and in Ohio: (800) 521-5470.

THE M & B EQUIPMENT Company of Novi was lowest of 10 bidders at $5,052,959 to advance construction of Interstate 696 Freeway in Roseville and Warren, the Department of State Highways and Transportation has announced.

The project includes grading, drainage structures and paving 1.7 miles of eight-lane divided freeway between Wagner and Hayes streets. The bid was among those taken June 16 in Lansing on 52 highway construction and maintenance projects and one airport construction project.

Walter Toebe Construction Company of Wixom was lowest of seven bidders at $2,754,013 for construction of one-quarter mile of M-14 Freeway just north of Plymouth in Wayne County. The freeway is presently under construction from its terminus northeast of Ann Arbor to the Wayne County line.

NORTHVILLE SQUARE shopping center will mark the Bicentennial by having a "mystery shopper" give away six Bicentennial silver dollars to lucky shoppers in the square each day of a shopping celebration starting July 1 and running through July 3. Most of the stores are offering specials in honor of the occasion.

GUARDIAN INDUSTRIES Corp. of Novi announced it has entered into an exclusive agreement with Airco, Inc., whereby the Montvale, New Jersey based company will build a multi-million-dollar facility adjacent to Guardian's glass manufacturing plant in Carleton, to provide coating services for high performance reflective glass.

Under the agreement, Guardian will furnish the Airco plant with fabricated flat glass products for the application of thin, film, metallic-like coatings in silver, gold and bronze colors. Guardian will then market the finished products to the construction industry.

William M. Davidson, Guardian president, said this will mark his company's first entry into the reflective glass market, although it is a leading supplier of raw float, tempered, insulating and laminated glass to the construction industry.

Reflective glass is used by architects principally in buildings designed to reduce energy requirements for air conditioning.

Construction of the new plant, which will be capable of producing 10 million square feet of coated products each year, is expected to begin early this fall. When completed, it will employ up to 50 workers, according to Dr. L. M. Liggett, president of Airco's Temescal Division, which will operate the facility.

THE RECORD EXCHANGE, which buys and sells good used records, opened at 680 West Grand River, next to Brighton TV Service, on June 12.

"Prices for new records are getting very expensive," says Mary Muncie, operator of the Record Exchange.

"I buy used records for $1 and $2 apiece and sell them from $1.75 on up."

The records are in good condition, she said, and all reasonably priced.

"You can buy a record now and bring it in later on and sell it back," she said.

MICHIGAN SEAMLESS TUBE'S Board of Directors has declared a regular cash dividend of 25 cents per share on the $5 par value capital stock, payable August 25, 1976, to shareholders of record on July 26, 1976.

The Board of Directors also announced that F. James Farquhar has been elected Executive Vice-president of the Company. Farquhar was previously Vice-president of Michigan Seamless Tube Company.

A dividend investment program, previously approved by the board, will be offered to the company's shareholders in the next few days.

HERMAN FARRAND, president of American Real Estate Academy (A.R.E.A.), states that the D-2 intermediate course, specializing in more professional real estate salesmanship, is a sell-out already.

"Look for some real lively and interesting sessions every Wednesday from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. in Brighton, where classes will be held in the Boy Scout Meeting Hall at the Millpond, north of Main Street and west of Grand River," Farrand says.

The D-4 Brokerage Management Course, which is being held at the same location Wednesday mornings, is nearly sold out also according to Farrand.

A second D-2 class is forming for Saturday morning attendance. This also has probabilities of becoming filled for enrollments within the week. These classes are limited to approximately 20 persons and will run continuously for 16 to 24 weeks.

Beating Summer's Heat

It's Not Late for Hanging Baskets

By KATHY COPLEY

The heat of the summer is a little late to set out most plants, but it is never too late to put out hanging baskets. From awnings, tree branches, porches, they are cheerful spots of summer color.

Most flowers, vegetables, and small shrubs would get along in a basket watered daily, but the best choices are plants which are naturally pendulous. Within some species there are cascading varieties as well as upright standards, as in petunias, azaleas, and chrysanthemums.

A number of the plants recommended for an outdoor basket will be equally at home in a sunny window for the rest of the year: vinca vine, wandering jew, strawberry saxifrage, coleus, creeping Charlie, Spiderplant, wax plant, ivy, sedum, and asparagus springer. These foliage plants are good combined with non-vining standards like marigolds, pansies, ageratum, etc.

A sunny location has the best possibilities for flowers because the list is extensive: petunia, lantana, alyssum, chrysanthemum, verbena, vining geranium, gazania, morning glory, vining nasturtium, thunbergia, heliotrope, annual phlox.

Most of the shade plants also need cool temperatures so they will do well hanging from an awning but not in the heat of an enclosed porch: impatiens, begonia, fuchsia, lobelia, achimenes.

Planting a hanging basket is fairly easy. Plastic or wire baskets carried at nurseries are inexpensive and lightweight, and designed for good air circulation. Solid baskets don't allow the soil or moss inside to dry out as quickly as a mesh-type basket does.

Line the sides with a plastic or pressed peat liner or with a sheet of sphagnum moss to hold in the soil. Sterile potting soil is acceptable but it becomes very heavy when thoroughly saturated. A better choice is a soil-less potting mix which holds a generous amount of water and air.

Daily watering is essential, especially for hanging baskets in sunny locations. That and an occasional shot of fertilizer are enough to keep a hanging basket set for the summer.

It's Walk Into History

Guided walks are planned at Kensington Metropark soon.

The 19th Century Village of Kensington is the theme of a "History Walk" to be held at the park near New Hudson on Sunday, July 4 at 8 a.m.

The two-hour program includes a slide show and a guided walk on local human history. Persons should meet at the Nature Center. This walk is for individuals and families — no groups.

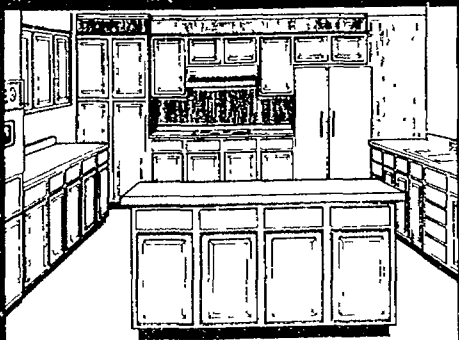

Another walk, this one carrying the theme of wildflowers, will be held at the park the following Sunday, July 11, also beginning at 8 a.m.

The program includes information about field flowers, other plants, Indian and pioneer uses of plants. Again, this walk is for individuals and families, not groups.

Persons interested in either walk who would like additional information or who would like to register for one or both are asked to call the park office at 685-1561 (Milford).

Congress 2nd District

Pierce...

The Huron Valley Central Labor Council AFL-CIO has recommended the endorsement of Ed Pierce for the Democratic nomination for United States Congress in the 2nd District.

The council is the umbrella organization for all AFL-CIO labor unions in Washtenaw and Livingston counties. Pierce is a family physician who operates the Summit Medical Center in Ann Arbor, a facility dispensing low-cost medical care.

Pierce said he was "elated" by the decision by the labor council. "I am very grateful for the support shown for me by the union people of the Huron Valley Council. They know me, and they know the work I have done in my community that has been of benefit to working people," he said.

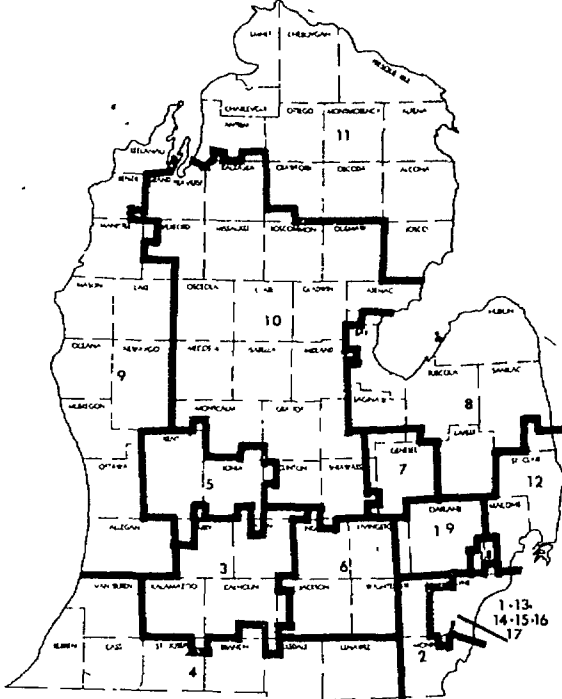

"Many of the people of my low-cost medical practice have been labor union members, and I have also spent countless hours of time meeting and talking with labor union members. Those efforts are paying off in the growing support I am receiving from labor in this race."

"People who know me know that I have always been a strong friend of working people. I believe, and apparently the Huron Valley AFL-CIO Council believes, that I can represent their interests very well in Washington," he concluded.

Stempien...

Marvin Stempien, campaigning for the Democratic nomination for the United States House of Representatives seat in the 2nd District, has called for a "realistic" federal role in reducing unemployment. Speaking favorably of the humanitarian goals of the Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill, which would commit the nation to ultimately reducing unemployment to three percent, Stempien recognized what he termed "practical problems" with the bill as it now stands. He suggested that amendments to the bill are necessary to provide for an inflation target as well as a jobs target.

Stempien suggested that wage-price guidelines are one approach that could be realistically added to the bill.

In addition, Stempien criticized the recent veto by President Ford of a different $6.2 billion jobs bill. Calling the legislation not just another "make work" proposal, Stempien described the vetoed package as a "step in the right direction" that will commit the federal government to putting people back to work.

The legislation, he said, would have put $2.5 billion into the hands of state and local governments, for the purpose of moving ahead on long-planned but unfunded building projects. An additional $1.5 billion would go to areas where unemployment is more than six percent, for communities to provide jobs where needed. The remainder of the money would be utilized in various specific ways, including water pollution control related jobs.

"Although some have criticized government spending to provide jobs as inflationary, the largest single increase in the federal budget this year is for unemployment insurance, now running more than $20 billion annually," Stempien argued. "Putting people to work would decrease such insurance spending, and would decrease the number of people on welfare."

Pursell...

The single business tax is restricting business expansion and job opportunities instead of stimulating them, 2nd district congressional candidate Carl D. Pursell has stated.

State Senator Pursell said immediate steps must be taken to substantially alter the new tax structure, and he is sponsor of a bill to do so. He opposes it as an unfair burden to small businesses, and particularly personal service companies which depend on people, rather than machines, for their productivity.

Pursell said he fought against the shift to the SBT because he foresaw the problems which are now apparent to most legislators.

The candidate for the GOP congressional nomination said he testified against the bill in committee, assisted local business people in their own campaign appearances, argued against the measure in the Senate GOP Caucus, and notified the Governor of his opposition.

Once the bill had passed both House and Senate, and was inevitably going to become law, Pursell said he fought for the least harmful version of the bill. He voted for a final conference report which contained amendments he sponsored and supported to soften the impact on business and jobs.

"I consistently opposed the single business tax, and still do," he emphasized. "Once it was inevitable a bad law was going to be passed, it would have been irresponsible to abandon the employers and employees of this state. I did not abandon them. I chose to continue fighting for amendments to improve this bad bill, and I was successful."

Trowbridge...

In speaking to influential Republicans of Ann Arbor recently, Ron Trowbridge, Ann Arbor city councilman who is seeking the GOP nomination for United States Congress in the 2nd District, reiterated a challenge to Carl Pursell to debate anytime and any place.

Only in this way, said Trowbridge, will the public be informed about the differences between the candidates on important issues — legalizing teacher's strikes, abuses of worker's compensation, and the already infamous single business tax.

An associate professor of English at Eastern Michigan University, Trowbridge said he combines a firm belief in the free enterprise system with a desire to hear all sides of an issue before making a decision.

Senate

Esch...

What is a tornado watch? What is a tornado warning?

Many citizens are confused over the difference between a tornado watch and a tornado warning, says Congressman Marvin L. Esch, candidate for Republican nomination to the United States Senate, and as a result he is calling for a new communications program to alert citizens to possible tornadoes.

"The number of tornado alerts and funnel sightings in the Michigan area is on the increase," Esch said. "The West Bloomfield tornado is an example of the disaster which can suddenly strike with little or no warning. Therefore, it is important that we have the most up-to-date explicit storm warning system available."

"Most people receive the severe weather information over their radio," Esch said. "Because of the closeness of the words 'watch' and 'warning,' it is difficult to immediately determine which alert has been given."

"I have found that in most cases the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration has done an effective job," Esch pointed out. "But I am convinced a more efficient and effective warning system could be developed that would provide citizens an easily understood alert which would allow them to take correct action in a timely manner."

Esch, ranking Republican member on the Environment and Atmospheric Subcommittee which has oversight of NOAA activities, said he would be looking into other aspects of the communications process as it applies to tornado and severe storm warning systems.

Legislature 24th Dist.

Brinker...

William Brinker, Democratic candidate for state representative in the 24th District, has announced formation of his campaign committee.

Thomas Brookover, a senior attorney for the Bendix Corporation, has been named his campaign chairman. Brookover also is a member of the Democratic State Finance Committee, the 19th District and the Oakland County Democratic Executive Committees.

Donald Lindemier of Northville has been named campaign treasurer. He is an international representative of the Communications Worker of American and president of the Southwestern Oakland County Democratic Club.

Liz and John Giese will serve as the campaign coordinators for the Milford area.

Montgomery...

"Local schools deserve more state aid, and they need it now," according to George F. Montgomery, Democratic candidate for State Representative from the 24th District.

Montgomery has suggested that newly elected school board members from the lakes area (Oakland County) join together and go tell state officials that "local taxpayers should not be expected to vote more and more school millage each year."

"It's time to take the needs of both our schools and taxpayers to the steps of the Capitol," he added, "and a group of locally elected, non-partisan school board members could carry that message to Lansing most effectively."

Montgomery warned that the Governor's extension of the fiscal year through September 30 might delay final approval of a new school aid formula until next fall.

"How can school districts plan realistic budgets for the 1976-77 school year," he asked, "if they must wait until the beginning of the state's 'odd ball' fiscal year before their state aid is finalized?"

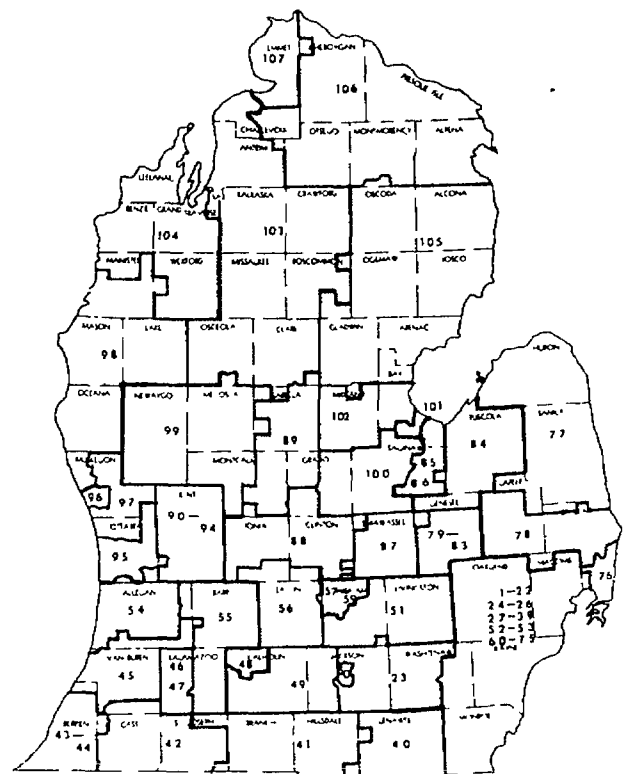

Montgomery disagrees with incumbent State Representative Richard D. Fessler's position on state aid to schools.

"Huron Valley, Walled Lake, Waterford and other school districts in the lakes area, need and should receive more state aid per pupil than industry-rich districts such as Dearborn and Warren Fitzgerald," Montgomery asserted.

Roberts...

Mayor William T. Roberts of Walled Lake says he will work to get the state income tax rolled back to 3.9 percent by circulating petitions to place on the November ballot an amendment to the state constitution. If approved, the measure would go into effect January 1, 1977.

REPRESENTATIVE DISTRICTS

"This proposal will give a much needed tax cut to 85-percent of the Michigan taxpayers," said Roberts, a candidate for the Democratic nomination in the 24th State Representative District.

"I heartily endorse the petitions that are being circulated for this proposal which will cut the Michigan income tax from 4.6 percent to 3.9 percent for all middle income and working families," he said.

"This proposal would cut the state income tax by 15-percent for people earning up to a total of $20,000 plus $1,500 for each family member."

"For example, a family of four would be able to earn up to $28,000 and still pay the reduced income tax rate. A family of six would be able to earn up to $29,000 and a single person could earn up to $21,500 and both classifications would still receive the full tax cut," Roberts explained.

Fessler...

State Representative Richard D. Fessler, who has announced his candidacy for re-election in the 24th legislative district, points to his performance during his first term in office to woo voters.

He brought a law suit against the House Democrat leadership for actions preventing the taxpayers from getting a $1,200 property tax reimbursement.

Another of Fessler's concerns is crime in society. He notes that he has sponsored many measures in the legislature to help curb that problem. One of these would reinstate the death penalty for violent crimes.

He also has called for legislation requiring prison inmates convicted of violent crimes to serve their minimum sentence before being considered for parole.

"I think stiff deterrent measures such as this are needed in our society today," Fessler said. "For too long now, we've been very lenient with criminals, bending over backwards to make sure their rights aren't violated. While we were concerning ourselves with protecting the rights of the criminal, we began to violate the rights of the victim."

"I think the time has come when we have to do something to protect the rights of these innocent victims. Maybe a person about to commit a crime will think twice if he knows he may face the death penalty or a mandatory prison term if he is convicted."

Fessler pointed out he has also introduced legislation to create a commission on carcinogens, cancer causing elements. The purpose of the commission would be to study potential cancer causing elements in the environment and make recommendations to the legislature on a yearly basis.

A new roof has just recently been erected, and interior work on the old school is scheduled to begin soon.
Besides two or three other historic buildings that are

The buildings, including those not yet completed, will be open for public viewing during the Bicentennial Fourth of July activities that will center on the village grounds Sunday.

A Trip into Amish Land

Follow the St. Joseph River by canoe or by car through the horse-and-buggy country of Michigan's Amish farmers and the factory towns of Indiana to the white sandy beaches of Lake Michigan's angler paradise, advises Automobile Club of Michigan.

While all but four of the river's 10 miles are rated canoeable, the nine-mile stretch from the river's headwaters at Baw Beese Lake near Hillsdale to Jonesville has received the most attention in recent years.

For the past two years it has been the site each May of the annual Jonesville Frontier Canoe Race. The race takes about 2½ hours and requires contestants to negotiate a 200-foot-long tunnel which runs under buildings in downtown Hillsdale. Other obstacles include 10 portages around water pipes, fallen trees, low bridges and Stock and Jonesville dams.

The serious canoeist will want to tackle the 60-mile stretch of the St. Joseph that runs from Sturgeon Lake near Colon in St. Joseph County to the river's outlet at St. Joseph-Benton Harbor.

This canoe trip takes two to four days and requires portages around dams at Three Rivers; Constantine; Mottville; Elkhart and Mishawaka, Ind.; Niles and Berrien Springs.

Farm country lines both sides of the river in Michigan. Campers must obtain the land owner's permission for overnight stays. Bring your own canoe because Gardner's Favorite Sports and Marine at Benton Harbor and Three Rivers Sportland are about the only canoe liveryes on the St. Joseph. It is easy to find a spot for picnicking since there are parks in almost all of the many towns along the river.

History buffs will find many attractions along the St. Joseph. At Centerville, the Langley Covered Bridge — a large red wooden structure — still carries traffic over the river as it has since 1887.

On the farmland around Centerville, many Amish plow the fields with horse-drawn plows and shun the modern world.

At Three Rivers' Seidmore Park, travelers can see the historical marker which identifies the junction of the Rocky, Portage and St. Joseph rivers as a favorite campsite for Indians centuries ago. The park has a spacious picnic area and a zoo with an extensive display of animals, including deer, elk, bear, wildcat and fox.

Following the river into Indiana, the canoeist paddles through densely populated stretches of land dotted with expensive homes and factories. At one point, the river runs adjacent to the Notre Dame campus at South Bend.

Still farther downstream at Niles is the site of Ft. St. Joseph, founded in the late 1600s on land given by the French government to the Jesuits for a mission. The fort later fell into English hands and for several days in 1791 was under Spanish control. When the American government came into full control of the Northwest Territory, the Niles area became the only place in Michigan to have been governed under four flags.

The Ft. St. Joseph Museum, headquartered in an 1882 carriage house, has collections that include relics from the original fort and artifacts relating to Chief Sitting Bull and the Oglala Sioux.

At the mouth of the river, where it empties into Lake Michigan, Father Jacques Marquette, became the first white man to set foot in Berrien County.

Ban Throwaways?

A Big Battle's Looming

By ELMER E. WHITE

LANSING—Ban the throwaway and take a chance on hurting the economy?

Or maintain the status quo of the bottle business and take a chance on hurting the environment?

Whichever side you're on, you're bound to hear more in coming weeks on the subject of banning throwaway bottles and pull tabs.

MICHIGAN UNITED Conservation Clubs, along with several other statewide organizations, recently completed what they consider a highly successful petition drive to put the bottle ban question on the ballot.

Petitioners collected some 380,000 signatures. (Only 212,000 were required, but supporters of the drive wanted a cushion to guard against challenges to any of the names they collected.)

Backers of the idea contend a ban would reduce litter and save tax money that's now spent on roadside clean-ups.

THE OPPOSITION, meanwhile, which includes the beer and soft drink industries and can and bottle makers, geared up to battle the proposal through a group called the Michigan Council for Convenience Packaging.

Council President Robert B. Healy said his people — who contend a ban could result in lost jobs and problems for the state's economy — would conduct an educational campaign concerning the proposal. They also challenged the petitions in court.

BOTTLE BANNING legislation has been under consideration in Michigan for at least the past 10 years.

But lawmakers, sensitive to the strong arguments and interest groups on either side of the issue, haven't taken decisive action on the question.

Summer Recreation Enrollment Declines As Township Fails to Meet Rising Costs

By STEVE RAPHAEL

Enrollment in Northville's summer recreation program has declined this year over last because the township isn't paying the added costs of an expanded program, says the recreation director.

"The declining enrollment can be traced directly to rising costs that aren't being met by the township," Charles Froberger says.

Froberger estimates that his program has lost 500 people this year.

The 26-year-old recreation director adds that "rising costs" are primarily attributed to his expanded program that now runs 12 months instead of three.

Froberger, though, is quick to defend the township.

"Spiritually, the township board is behind us. They understand our situation. It's up to the people to approve or reject the millage request."

On August 3, township residents will be asked to vote on a half-mill increase to support the recreation program.

The results of the vote should hit close to home since, according to Froberger, it's the township children who are most affected by money problems in Northville's recreation program.

Because of the financial shortfall, Froberger says he was forced to raise the cost of many of the children's programs which include archery, basketball, bowling, day camp, figure skating, mushball, pee wee baseball, tennis and track.

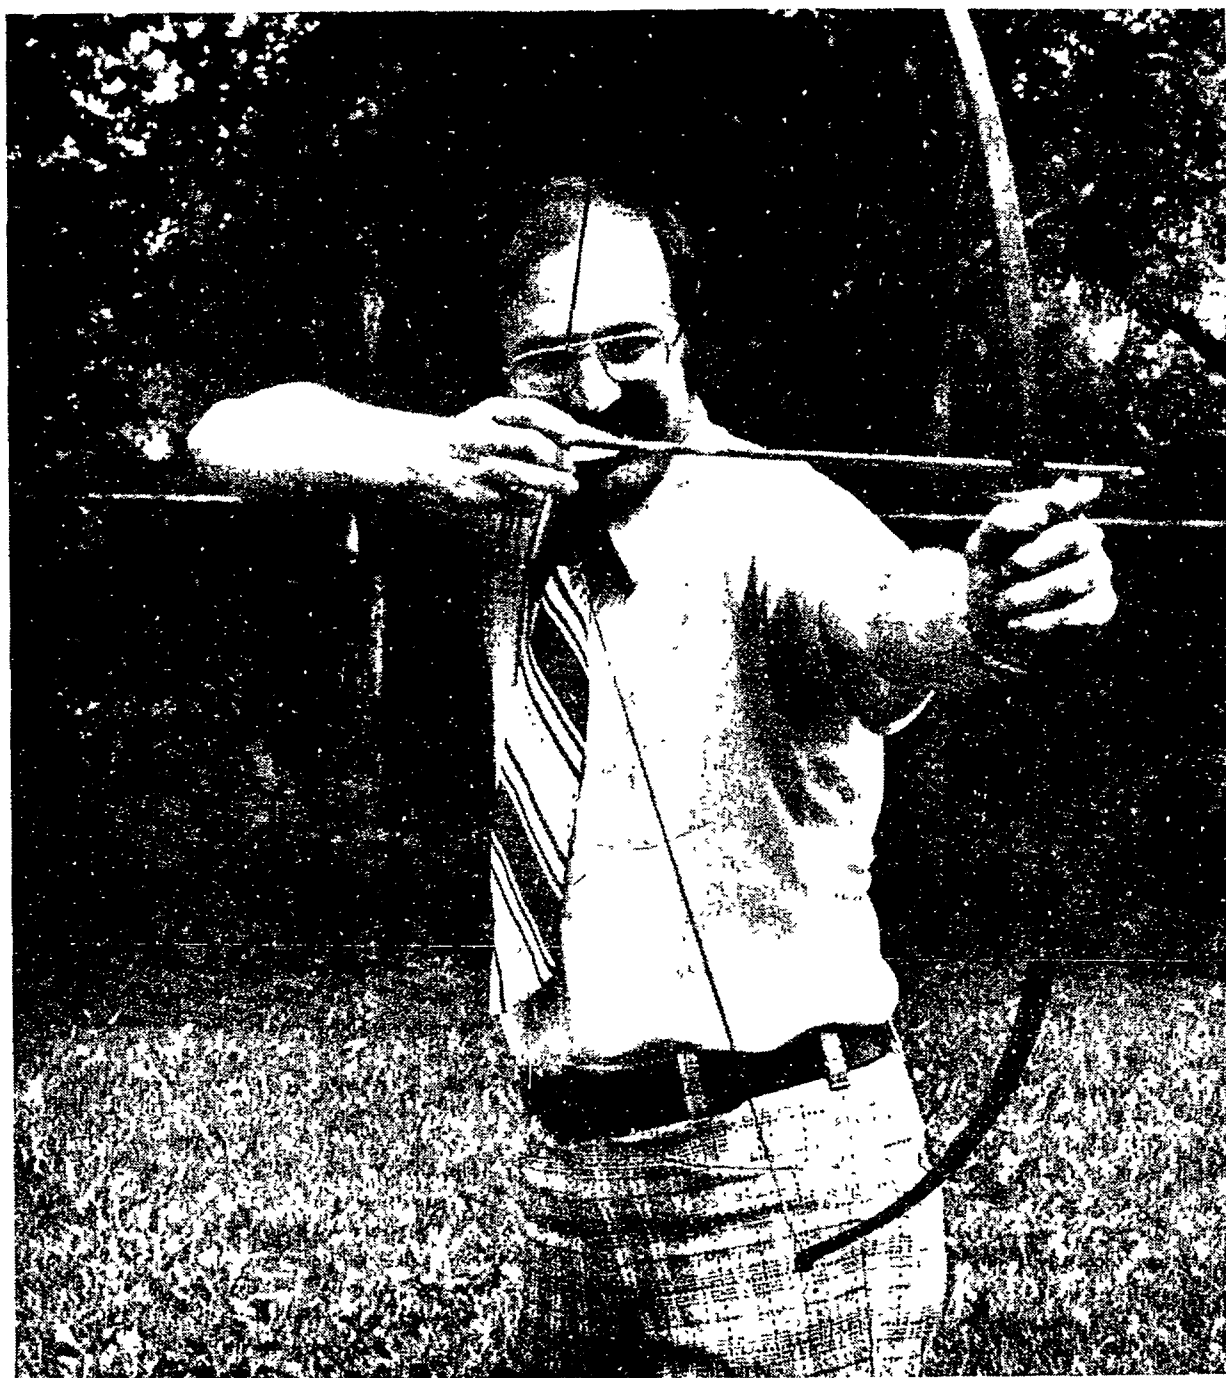

Since the city is paying its fair share, Froberger says he felt it only right that the township residents be asked to bear most of the cost increases.

Thus, the summer day camp program which cost a township resident $2.00 last year costs $10 this year. Similarly, archery lessons were free last year to everyone, but cost $3.50 to township participants this year.

But Froberger says the basketball clinic still costs $12, and swimming lessons are still free both to city and township residents.

It is the cost increases though, which Froberger believes has led to the still undetermined enrollment decline.

"For all of our summer programs, including junior baseball and men's and women's softball, we've lost nearly 500 people," Froberger believes. He says 2,765 people participated in all of Northville's Programs like archery are costing individual participants more, says Director Froberger, because Northville Township isn't providing enough money for support of the expanded program.

summer programs last year compared to 2,285 this year.

But Froberger feels the decline is even greater in the children's summer program, although he doesn't have complete statistics to back his claim.

He did say enrollment in the summer day camp was down to 123 this year compared to almost 370 last year.

Even though township kids are the ones being hurt by the financial problems, the township had been paying its fair share of the recreation program — before Froberger expanded his program.

Froberger says last year 56 percent of the participants in the summer recreation program were from the township, and the township paid 56 percent of his budget.

But last September the recreation department went to a year-round program with a 12-month budget. "The township continued to assume 56 percent of the budget and, in fact, even increased its payment by 5.2 percent, but it's paying 56 percent of our new fiscal budget," Froberger explains.

Froberger's financial woes apparently haven't discouraged him. He started a new 10-week bowling program for youngsters age 6 to 14 that has attracted 160 aspiring bowlers.

Held at the Plymouth Bowl Inc. in Plymouth, kids pay $1.90 a week to bowl two games while getting the aid of instructors. Free shoes, hot dog, coke, T-shirt and trophies also are part of the package.

The recreation department is registering youngsters for its summer basketball and gymnastics programs which begin July 12.

Jamie Wins A Trophy

Frustration Ends for 3 Soap Box Derby Victors

Frustration ended for three youngsters in Saturday's soap box derby sponsored by the Northville Jaycees and attended by scores of spectators.

Danny Yoder, Ray Paler and Jamie North all won the desired trophies for their respective races which were run on North Center Street between Ely and Galway.

Ten-year-old Danny Yoder won the most coveted prize, first place in the Class A division. Danny, who'll be attending Novi Christian School in the fall, turned back challenges by Dave Lenox and Jamie North in some of the closest of the 12 heats run on the warm, hazy summer morning.

"I feel real good," said Danny after the race. He drove a streamlined silver car made of wood, with a fiberglass finish. Spectators dubbed the car the "silver bullet." Danny had finished second the past two years.

Class A division was for cars built along national soap box derby specifications. Cars in Class B were the basement variety, built any way a youngster wished.

Danny said he may try and enter the car in a regional soap box derby race in Detroit. Winners of that race go on to Akron for the national championships

Dave Lenox, who finished second to Danny, won the second place trophy. The 12-year-old student at Meads Mill Middle School was a newcomer to the event. He vowed he'd be back next year.

Jamie North was a bit dejected with his third place finish, especially since he lost by less than a car length to both Danny and Dave.

"I'm not down, though," said Jaime, "I'm planning to race next year." The 12-year-old who'll be attending Cooke Middle School this fall, had entered the derby the last two years and had finished fourth both times. His goal this year was to win a trophy.

Ray Paler had an easy time sweeping the field in Class B. "I'm really happy about this," he beamed. "I entered the race last year and finished fourth."

Ray said it took him and his dad a week to build his tiny car which was painted in red stripes for the race. The 11-year-old student at Winchester Elementary School said he plans to enter next year's race.

Second place trophy in Class B went to Doug MacDonald, while Eric Naffy grabbed the third place award.

Another Vander Meer?

Dave Austin Pitches 2nd Straight No-Hitter

“E” LEAGUE — Johnny Vander Meer is a legend in major league baseball for pitching back-to-back no-hitters for Cincinnati in 1938, the only major leaguer ever to pull off the feat. Northville Junior League has its own Vander Meer in Dave Austin. The star pitcher for the Dodgers hurled his second straight no-hitter last week as the Dodgers whitewashed the Pirates, 16-0. Austin also struck out 10 batters.

Austin's teammate, Roland Tarrow, then hurled a one-hitter as the Dodgers upended the Giants, 6-1. The two victories kept the Dodgers in first place, one game ahead of the Reds who also won twice. Southpaw Bob Chapman came out of the bullpen and pitched a one-hitter as the Giants surprised the Reds, 5-0. Chapman whiffed 11 batters.

“H” LEAGUE — The Braves played once last week — and won — but it was enough to move them percentage points ahead of the Padres in the East Division. The Braves nipped the Giants, 8-6.

“G” LEAGUE — The status remained quo as the front-running Cubs in the East and Braves in the West each won three games to remain in first place. Kelly Romayne hit a home run to pace the Cubs to a 7-6 win over the Expos. Romayne then came back and hit three more four-baggers, teammates Jim Thomson added two and Mickey Newman one as the Cubs destroyed the Phillies, 26-0. John McGowan, Bart Lev and Mickey Newman combined on the shut-out. The Cubs made it a fun week edging the Mets, 6-4.

Scott Pence hit a home run to pace the Braves to a 15-4 win over the Astros.

“F” LEAGUE — The Dodgers remained in first place last week winning twice, 15-2 over the Astros and 15-3 at the expense of the Yanks. The Cards won twice, whitewashing the Pirates, 6-0, and walloping the Expos, GIRL'S SOFTBALL — The logjam in the Intermediates was broken last week as the Phillies burned the Red Devils, 16-5, and then moved into first place as the last place 76ers stunned the Super-chics, 9-7. The Super-chics and Phillies then squared off but the game ended tied at 5.

Leaders Beaten in Novi

Many of the league-leaders fell last week in Novi Little League play but still managed to hang onto first place.

PONY LEAGUE — Third place Merchants shocked front-runner J.S. Trudeau, 12-9, thanks to Jeff Roderich who made a game-saving catch with the bases loaded in the sixth inning. Carl Kakaley went the distance for Merchants but he did surrender a three-run homer to Don Courtright.

But J.S. Trudeau remains in first place as their closest competitor, Hardware, could only split a pair of games last week with Pete's Sunoco.

Sunoco upset Hardware 12-9, and only a grand slam home run by Hardware's Steve Sayer in the bottom of the sixth inning prevented a second defeat, as Hardware eked out a 13-11 win.

MINOR LEAGUE — David Beyerlin pitched the shutout and hit two doubles to lead Merchants to a 9-0 whitewash of Andy's Meat Hut. The front-running Merchants also lost last week but still remained one game in front of the pack.

Daryl Brockman denied Merchants a victory as the slugger for fifth-place Cardona's Pizza collected three hits, including a home run, and five RBI's to pace his team's upset 9-3 win over Merchants.

But second-place Auto Parts was unable to gain any ground on the front-runners as they, too, split a pair of games.

Meanwhile Century 21, the hottest team in the league, winning seven of its last eight, got great pitching from Kevin Raetz to beat Cardona's Pizza, 10-6. Kevin now has beaten the top three teams in the league.

Spartan Concrete then poured it on Andy's Meat Hut, winning 14-10 as Jim Gioia socked a four-bagger to pace the win. Firebaugh & Reynolds did what the leaders couldn't, win twice, as they moved up a notch in the standings to

Tourney Win For Fisher

Fisher's Sporting Goods of the Novi Men's Softball League tuned up for its showdown tonight, Wednesday, with league-leading Action, by successfully defending its Stockbridge Invitational Softball Tournament championship last weekend.

Fisher's scored 137 runs and hit 52 home runs as it won five of six games in the double elimination tournament held in Stockbridge. Three players led Fisher's home run barrage. Terry Trumble had 12, Bob Pisha, 10, and Mike Shearer, 8.

Trumble won a special home run derby contest by swatting five of six balls over the fence.

Eighteen teams were entered in the weekend affair. Fisher's beat Lipon's of Howell, 28-14, for the championship.

Leaders Coasting in Novi Men's Softball League

The four league-leaders in the Novi Men's Softball League are making a runaway of their respective divisions.

In the American League West, M&B opened up some ground between itself and second place Michigan Tractor with a pair of victories last week. M&B used the big sticks to wallop Novi Inn, 12-5, and Jim Storm Insurance, 19-3.

Meanwhile, unbeaten East juggernaut Action continues to maul the opposition, belting Quad Company, 27-1, and then blasting American Enclosure, 16-4.

J.P. Realty and Willowbrook Merchants remain the class of their respective divisions in the National League. Merchants in the West easily disposed of Goat Farm, 19-12, while East leader J.P. Realty had little trouble with N.N.C.A., 11-3.

Open swimming is now underway at the Northville High School pool.

The pool is open from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 1 to 3 p.m. Saturdays. Admission is $.65 for students, $1.00 for adults, and $2.00 for an entire family.

Swimmers must bring their own swim suits and towels. The program will end August 14.

Northville Junior League baseball coaches will be playing a softball game noon Sunday at Ford Field. The coaches invite their players out for a good time.

In T-Ball games last week, the Cardinals were flying high as they won twice, dropping the Giants, 16-10, and then the Phillies, 14-10. The Braves also were two-time winners, nipping the Pirates, 19-13 and then tripping the Reds, 23-15. The Dodgers upended the Giants, 16-15, the Pirates trimmed the Mets, 15-11, and the Cubs edged out the Astros, 22-21.

The Astros came back to squeak out a 19-17 verdict over the Phillies, while the Mets just got by the Reds, 21-20.

Lifeguards are now on duty at the Novi city beach. They'll be patrolling the waters from noon to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday through Sunday.

Lifeguards will watch the beach through Labor Day, September 6.

Robert Erb got off to a great start on the links Sunday afternoon.

Village Blues Take over First

League-leading Old Timers squared off against Village Blues last week in a battle for first place, and when the dust had cleared the American League had a new leader.

Parlaying outstanding defense and a home run by Gary Winemaster, the Village Blues stunned the Old Timers, 8-5.

Both teams scored a run in the first inning, but the Blues scored four times in the second stanza to gain the lead that they never relinquished. The Old Timers added four runs of their own in fourth inning, but the Blues already had their eight and hung on for the win.

In other games, Bud Daniels socked a three-run home run as Hamlet nosed out Zayti, 9-5.

Ross Northrop spotted Spagy's five runs in the first inning but came back to win easily, 17-6. Joe Watson had three hits, including an inside-the-park home run for the victors. Andy Walter and Steve Pauli also had three safeties.

Township Merchants edged the Jaycees, 9-6, while Zayti just got by Presbyterian, 4-3. Ross Northrop nipped Winner's Circle, 5-4, and St. Paul's shot down Eagles, 11-1. National League leader Rizzo-Belanger had an easy time with OLV, 17-2. Joe's Pantry whipped Foundry Flash, 10-0, while Casterline pushed across the winning run in the bottom of the seventh to edge Moonkin-Mach, 10-9.

Streaming down the hillside in his snazzy chrome bedecked racer, Michael Gladd caught the eye of most of the spectators. His handsome racer won first place for design.

Although his heart was set on a first place trophy, Jamie North was pleased nevertheless to pick up this third-place prize. Jamie came within a hair's length of taking second place. 'I'm not down, though,' said the youngster, who plans to enter the derby again next year.

Best designed car award went to Michael Gladd. The 13-year-old student at Meads Mill designed a colorful car with a bright yellow body accented by red flames. Snazzy chrome headers adorned each side of the racer.

"I picked red and yellow because I thought they'd be good colors," he explained. He said it took him and his brother and brother-in-law three weeks to build the car.

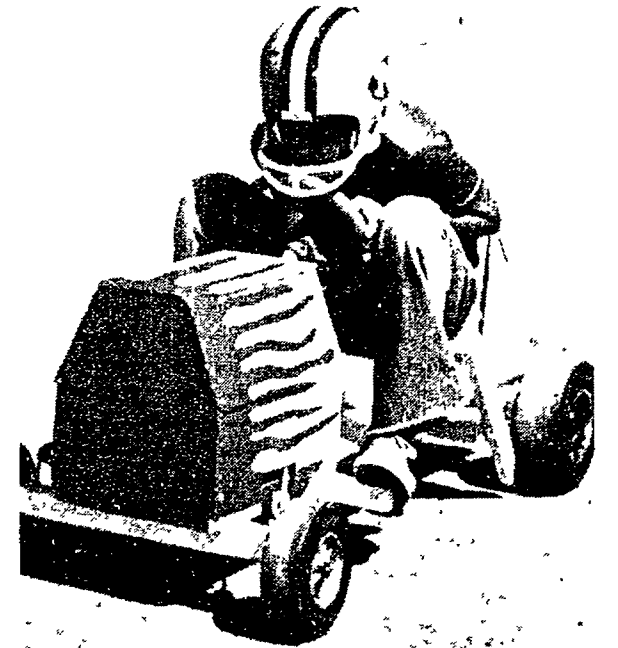

Mike said that next year he's going to fix up his Class B car so it'll be eligible for Class A competition.

Township Man Fires An Ace

Larry Andringa went to Cincinnati to score his first hole-in-one in golf.

The 39-year-old Northville Township man accomplished his feat on the 165-yard, par-3 hole at the golf course at King's Island in Cincinnati. The family was there on vacation. Andringa used a 5-iron.

It was the first hole-in-one for Andringa who's been playing golf for 20 years.

Ray Paler, replete with his junior league football helmet, awaits the starter's flag.

locate temporary parents for her in Chinabote, Peru.

Governmental tape took so long to cut to bring her to her waiting parents and brothers, John, 10 and Michael, 8, that Mrs. Gouin's brother had to locate temporary parents for her in Chiabote, Peru.

For five months an Indian family from his parish who had eight children of their own cared for Maria in their home in the poor bario section of the fishing village.

"But she was covered with affection," Mrs. Gouin reports.

The loving relationship was so strong, she mentions, that the family was baptized as her god-parents.

"We haven't lost contact with them," Mrs. Gouin stresses as she relates how much this caring relationship meant to little Maria.

In addition to parents and two big brothers, Maria has gained grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gouin of South Lyon, and Mrs. Elizabeth Egan of Farmington.

Since Maria's father, Robert Gouin, was one of 10 children, she has acquired lots of aunts and uncles who live in the South Lyon-Northville area.

Sunday's ceremony doesn't mean much yet to the dark-haired, brown-eyed little girl with the shy smile, but in the future she will be able to realize that her citizenship hearing coincided with her new country's Bicentennial observance.

The official hearing will be held outdoors at noon at the Civic Center at the foot of Woodward Avenue at Jefferson. In case of rain it will be held in Ford Auditorium.

As Maria's confirmation of the event states, "This hearing will be a most memorable occasion."

Area Teens Work

Figures released by the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency show that over 100 area young people took part in a work experience program last summer, including two from Northville and 22 from Wixom.

The program has continued for the past nine summers and is provided to give economically disadvantaged teenagers the opportunity to develop positive work habits and job responsibility.

Workers last year were paid through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). They received $2.10 per hour, the Federal minimum wage. Their earnings brought $1,134 into Northville and $12,474 into Wixom.

NEW FOUND FRIENDS—A mother beagle and her two puppies are receiving kind attention from Ann Cavender and her son, Robert. The dogs were found abandoned by Mrs. Cavender. She's seeking their owner, or a good home for the beagles.

Abandoned Beagles

Find Finder's A Friend

It was five o'clock Sunday morning when Ann Cavender was on her way to the 4-H horse show in Mason, Michigan where she would ride an Appaloosa for McPherson Farms of Plymouth.

Ann, 24, is a pre-veterinarian student, a young mother and a lover of animals. So it is quite natural that she would stop her car abruptly when in the dawn she spotted an abandoned beagle hound and two puppies on Northville Road near Five Mile.

Monday she called The Record to place an "absolutely free" advertisement to try to find a home for the abandoned trio. In addition, Ann placed an advertisement in the "found" column, just in case the mother beagle and her two puppies belong to someone who wants them back.

Meanwhile, Ann made arrangements to take the mother beagle to a veterinarian Monday afternoon. "She needs some care," Ann explained.

Ann has just completed her studies at Schoolcraft College and will enter Michigan State University next September.

By the way, after she had taken care of her new-found friends Sunday morning, Ann managed to do very well in Mason.

She won the high point trophy in the show at White Birch for the 19-and-over age group riding McPherson Farms' Appaloosa stallion "Kambi Lee".

Ann and her husband, Bruce, and their son, Robert, live at 16821 Franklin Road in Northville township.

Board Seeks Applicants For Two New Staff Posts

By a split vote, the Northville Board of Education Monday authorized the posting of two open administrative positions in the school system.

Voting against the measure because he felt the position of administrative assistant-operations should be tabled pending a formal personnel committee recommendation was Trustee Martin Rinehart. (Rinehart and Board President Dr. Orlo Robinson were attending their last meeting of the board. They are retiring from the board, and two newly-elected members — Mrs. Marjorie Sliger and Christopher J. Johnson — will assume their new positions at the next meeting.)

Besides seeking applicants for the administrative assistant-operations post, the school also will invite applications for the post of curriculum coordinator. Both are new posts.

In discussion of Superintendent Raymond Spear's proposed administrative organizational structure, which includes the two new posts, Rinehart also voiced objection.

Specifically, he disliked the fact that the chart suggested building administrators (principals) will be reporting to newly hired central staff administrators — Director of Personnel Burton Knighton and Director of Instruction Nancy Soper.

They should not have two bosses, he suggested.

Spear disagreed with Rinehart, taking the position that principals would report to Dr. Knighton in matters related to personnel and to Ms. Soper in matters of instruction.

Board representatives are to review the structure chart which has not yet been approved.

In related matters, Spear recommended to the board that the duties of athletic director, a post now vacant, be assigned to an assistant principal at the high school rather than hire an additional administrator.

Spear reasoned that with the reduction in high school enrollment (the ninth grade is to be moved to the middle school level) the duties of the AD could be assumed by an assistant principal without overtaxing administrative functions at the high school.

However, later in the meeting, citizens challenged the proposal, suggesting that the high school, with the elimination of the ninth grade, will be top-heavy with administrators (principal and two assistants).

It would be more prudent, it was suggested, to pump administrative monies into counseling and/or teaching. One citizen criticized the board for what she said was a priority mix-up. Upset because plans call for dropping of a beginner's grade program, at the sixth grade level, she noted that no similar cuts were being made in the athletic program.

Filling of the AD post was seen by her as an extension of this inequity.

The organization structure suggested by Spear, puts the board at the top as the policy maker, with the superintendent, as policy administrator, reporting directly to the board.

Next in the line of command, reporting directly to Spear, are the director of instruction, director of personnel and director of institutionalized special education.

Also reporting directly to the superintendent, but located slightly below the other three in terms of authority, are the administrative assistant-finance and the administrative assistant-operations.

Teachers would report to the principals, principals to the director of instruction and the director of personnel. Also reporting to the director of instruction in a separate line of command would be the ESY center director and the curriculum coordinator.

The building supervisor would report to the administrative assistant-operations.

Not included in the chart proposed by Spear were the assistant principals and the AD.

Trucker Escapes Death as Accident Closes I-96

In Novi

The I-96 expressway in Novi was closed for over three hours from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. last Wednesday when a semi tractor trailer rolled over spilling its double load of sand.

According to reports, the left front tire on the vehicle blew out causing the vehicle to veer across traffic and onto the shoulder of the road striking the guard rail and the bridge supports at Beck Road.

Both trailers dumped their loads of sand and the cab ended up strewn over the road in several places. The clean-up operations were conducted by the Oakland County Road Commission.

Injured was the driver of the truck Norris Lynn, 36, of Garden City. He was taken to Botsford General Hospital with assorted injuries including a broken hip.

Traffic was rerouted at Wixom Road and Novi Road to Grand River causing traffic problems on that road that old timers said was reminiscent of traffic along Grand River before the expressway was opened.

Novi police are conducting an investigation into the death June 27 of six-month-old Christopher White of 22658 Heatherbrae Way.

The child was found face down in a crib by an aunt who called police when she and a girl friend realized the baby was not breathing. Police administered artificial resuscitation before Novi Ambulance arrived and transported the infant to Botsford General Hospital where he was pronounced dead at 9:59 p.m.

Mother of the child, Karen White, 19, had left the infant with relatives and was away at the time.

Police are searching for a motorcyclist who June 25 allegedly attempted to run a 10-year-old youngster off the road in the area of 1400 Paramount. The child received a three-inch cut on his right leg when he jumped into some weeds and landed on a metal object.

According to police, the motorcyclist had a blue motorcycle with black handlebars and was wearing a blue helmet. A white plate attached to the handlebars had the number 55.

Two large windows and two storm windows were damaged by rocks at a home in the 43000 area of Westridge June 24. A subject was seen running eastbound on Westridge shortly after the incident occurred.

The Novi post office was broken into June 22 and 500 stamped business envelopes valued at $75 taken. The burglary was discovered by post office employees.

A safe was also pried but was not opened. The back door was pried open to gain entry.

Nine trucks parked at Spartan Concrete, 44922 Grand River had windshields cracked from BB shots June 26. Replacement costs were estimated at $1,125.

Lakeview Market, 2206 Novi Road was B&E'd Saturday, June 26 and approximately $90 in cigarettes taken. The culprits entered through a vent opening. A cardboard box was found near that opening with several items in it. Police are continuing their investigation.

Three guns with an undetermined value along with a pair of binoculars and a gold lady's watch were taken last week from a home in the 49800 area of Nine Mile. Entry was gained through a storm door.

A car parked for several days in the parking lot at Novi Inn was found to have been stolen June 21 from Royal Oak. The automobile, a 1976 Oldsmobile, showed some damage to its right side.

In Northville

Two mental patients from the Northville State Hospital left the grounds Friday. A 29-year-old male, who was in the forensic clinic for a 60 day observation period is still being sought.

The second patient was found and returned to the facility by Michigan State Police later the same day.

Summer also began with the escape of three young people assigned to Hawthorne Center. At various times during the week, the youths left the grounds. In two instances parents returned the patients. The third youth was found on the grounds of the center.

A 28-year-old female who escaped from the Plymouth State Home on Saturday is still being sought by authorities. The woman is not considered dangerous.

A tool shed at Hawthorne Center was broken into sometime Wednesday night. All that appeared to be missing from the locked shed was some gasoline taken from a tractor.

Two men entered the garage area of the Boron Station at Seven Mile and Northville Roads and made off with an air impact wrench while the attendant was pumping gas in another area of the station.

In the incident, which occurred at noon Monday, the alert attendant was able to supply Northville Township Police with the license number and description of the car used by the men.

The information, broadcast over the police radio, was used in the apprehension of the men at Seven Mile and Merriman Roads by Livonia police officers shortly after the theft.

ESCAPES DEATH—The driver of the semi tractor trailer from which these wheels came miraculously escaped death last Wednesday when the truck flipped onto its side and hit the bridge abutment at the Beck Road overpass on the I-96 freeway. A blow-out of a front tire was blamed in the accident. See picture, Novi-1.

Both men were lodged at the Northville Township police station and felony warrants obtained charging the two with larceny from a building. Both show lengthy arrest records throughout the area.

A Northville resident returned home after a Thursday afternoon outing only to find the front door of the home open with two men in front of the house. A car with the engine running was parked in the driveway.

As the woman saw the two men run, one from the house, the second into the house, she left to call police. When the police arrived, the car was still in the driveway with the engine running.

Many of the articles taken from the house were found in the car which was impounded by the police. Three watches taken from the home were later found by a young child on the front lawn of a house in Northville.

Police have obtained a warrant on one of the suspects and are currently seeking the man.

A Sears garden tractor valued at $1100 was reported stolen from a storage area behind a residence on Waterford Street. The tractor was apparently taken sometime between 7 p.m. June 23 and 6 a.m. June 24.

An International Cub Cadet tractor was reported stolen from an unlocked shed behind a residence on Seven Mile Road. Tire marks in the grass led police to theorize a truck was used to haul the $2400 tractor away from the area.

An AM-FM stereo tape deck was reported stolen from an unlocked car parked in the Innsbrook Apartment complex. Value of the missing tape player was listed at $125 in the incident that occurred between noon and 2 p.m. Sunday.

Three youths from the Plymouth State Home broke into a garage on adjoining grounds last week and took a car parked there. The joy ride lasted only to Wyandotte when police there apprehended the boys and returned them to the home.

It used to be that the farmer had to keep an eye peeled for thieves in the watermelon patch. But after a case of the missing watermelons in Northville Township, it became apparent that local store merchants had the watermelon patch moved to their front door.

An area security officer near the A & P Store in the township happened to see a group of teenagers involved in the heist of some melons from the store. And the township police were further advised by Northville City police that one of the way-laid melons had been turned in there.

Police were able to track down the melons which were found in the backyard of one of the suspect's homes. It was decided that justice was best served by recovering the missing melons and having them returned to the store manager by one of the red-faced youths.

And that other watermelon cooling its green skin at the city police station — it had to go back too.

Malicious destruction of property to the rear window of a motor home caused an estimated $500 in damages. The glass was shattered apparently by two steel balls shot through the window.

Northville police investigating the vandalism questioned four suspects who stated they had used a sling shot to launch the objects at the motor home. Police are also questioning the foursome on similar vandalism complaints in Novi.

A five-year-old child found three watches lying in the grass in the front lawn of her home on Clement Street. The two antique and one alarm style watch were later identified as those taken in a breaking and entering in the township.

Two female prisoners who had escaped from the Detroit House of Correction at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday were apprehended by Northville City Police at 11:15 a.m.

Police were notified by persons in the area that two women walking in the vicinity of South Main Street and Seven Mile Road might be escapees.

The two women were taken into custody and turned over to DeHoCo security people. The one woman was serving a life sentence on first degree murder charges.

The front door of the Good Time Party Store was broken out Sunday evening resulting in $300 worth of damages. Four subjects were questioned by police with one subject saying he fell through the door.

Police are investigating a rash of vandalism in the city. Slashed tires and broken windows accounts for many of the reports taken during the past week.

A large rock was apparently the tool used to smash a door wall at a home on Canterbury Wednesday night. Damage was estimated at $300.

The back window of a station wagon was broken out sometime during the evening hours Sunday. The car was parked in a driveway on West Main Street.

The right rear tire of a car parked in a driveway on Horton Street was slashed during the night Sunday. A knife was the possible tool used in that act of vandalism.

A window estimated to cost $125 to replace was broken Sunday night at Jeanette's Coney Island on Center Street. Police feel the shot from a B.B. gun was used to break the window.

In Wixom

A larceny of almost $800 worth of building supplies from construction sites in the Village Apartment complex was reported to Wixom police last week. The exact time of the theft is not known.

Five plate glass windows were broken or cracked in an apparent malicious destruction of property at Wixom Elementary School. Most of the damage took place in the north wing of the building.

A 23 channel citizens band radio was taken from a locked vehicle parked in the Ford Motor Company employee parking lot. The $109 unit was torn from its mounting brackets located under the steering wheel. The theft occurred between 5

In Township

Michigan State Police investigated the felonious assault of a patient at Northville State Hospital June 21. According to reports, a ward attendant intervened in a fist fight that had broken out between two patients.

After breaking up the initial fight, it resumed with one of the patients striking the other with a table leg. The patient gave up the instrument to hospital authorities without hesitation.

As the ward attendant turned away, the patient grabbed another table leg and began striking the victim again. The two men were separated with the victim treated for lacerations to the head and bruises. The table-leg-wielding patient went into voluntary seclusion.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

It all began 200 years ago with a Revolution.

In the intervening years the United States has recorded a history highlighted by:

The War of 1812, the Alamo, the Mexican War, the Civil War, the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln, the Battle of Little Big Horn, the assassination of President James A. Garfield, the Spanish-American War, President William McKinley's assassination, World War I, World War II, Korean War, Viet Nam and the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Conflict, too, has struck bitterly at Americans as they have struggled among themselves to achieve freedom and equality.

In contrast history reveals these American highlights:

Robert Fulton develops the steamboat; slavery in New York State abolished July 4, 1827; first use of anesthetic in Jefferson, Georgia, 1842; first message over first telegraph by inventor S. F. B. Morse in 1844 "What Hath God Wrought"; Jenny Lind's first concert managed by P. T. Barnum, 1850; Henry W. Longfellow writes "Son of Hiawatha," 1855; first railroad train crosses Mississippi, 1856; first Pony Express, 1860; Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation, 1863; transcontinental railroad completed, 1869; women's suffrage law passed in Wyoming, 1869; first commercial telephone exchange opened, 1878; Woolworth opens the five-and-ten store, 1879.

Henry Ford organizes Ford Motor Company, 1903; Wright brothers fly heavier-than-air mechanically propelled airplane, 1903; Admiral Peary reaches North Pole, 1909; Capt. Scott reaches South Pole, 1912; Ford Motor Company raises basic wage rate from $2.40 for 9-hour day to $5 for 8-hour day, 1914; first telephone talk, New York to San Francisco by Alexander Graham Bell and Thomas A. Watson, 1915; first sound-on-film talkies, 1923; Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh flies non-stop New York to Paris, 1927; Uranium atom split at Columbia University, 1939; United Nations formed, 1945.

Supreme Court unanimously rules racial segregation in public schools unconstitutional, 1954; U.S. launches first earth satellite into orbit, 1958; Lt. Col. John H. Glenn becomes first American to orbit earth, 1962; Astronaut Neil A. Armstrong becomes first man to walk on moon, 1969; the Salk and Sabin polio vaccines discovered in 1953 and 1955, respectively; and other American inventions and discoveries include the adding machine, airplane, automobile, the cotton gin, computers, Mason jar, microphones, parking meters, talking movies, phonographs, radar, radio, submarines, telegraphs, telephones, toasters, television, transistors, turbines, typewriters, vacuum cleaners and zippers.

Over the years there have been a lot of Americans who have found a lot not to like in America.

And there have been many Americans who have had bitter fights with their fellow Americans.

But there have been very few, if any, Americans who have not loved America, and their fellow Americans.

And maybe that's what being an American is all about. We're never really satisfied that things couldn't be better, shouldn't be changed.

But we know darned well that there's no place on this earth to compare with the U.S.A.

So we'll pause and celebrate our 200th birthday Sunday in good old American fashion.

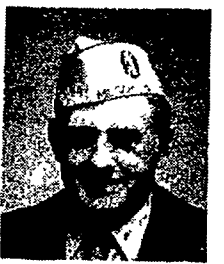

And next week we'll resume the fight to make things better.

Big Cars Versus Little

AL MILLER

BIG . . .

I'm growing tired of being criticized because I own a big car, especially by self-righteous individuals — mostly Volkswagen owners, it seems — who keep harping about the gas shortage, which I feel is non-existent.

We've owned a Cadillac for several years, and, frankly, I don't know how we got along without a big car before then.

You get what you pay for and big cars have many features, from a comfort, safety and engineering viewpoint, that far surpass the smaller cars.

First, comfort. It's no fun trying to wriggle middle-aged bodies into compact cars, with their hard seats and little leg room. And, if you travel a lot, like we do, then a big car is the way to go, comfort-wise.

Safety is another plus for larger cars. It doesn't take a genius to figure out that a heavier, bulkier car will absorb the impact from a crash much better than a compact.

And, from an engineering viewpoint, big cars are built better and will last longer. If you take care of a big car, it will provide luxury and comfort for many years.

Vivian Sauter
Brighton

LITTLE . . .

Small compact cars are good common sense in these days of high prices, cost of parts, labor, gasoline, etc.

They are no longer a cramped space affair, but a good sturdy body built with all the comforts in mind of larger cars and in some ways more.

Radios, roomy luggage compartments, large glove compartments, even extra shelves under the dash for convenience, seat belts, air conditioning, rear window defrosters as well as good large windshield wipers, adjustable visors, night and day rear view mirrors, side mirrors, reclining front seats — what more is needed.

When you figure the mileage coverage per gallon of gas in comparison with large cars, is there a comparison? I get 32 miles to the gallon and for covering the miles to and from work every day as I do, figure this out in savings in a year's time.

Parking is easy, especially with over-the-line parkers in crowded lots.

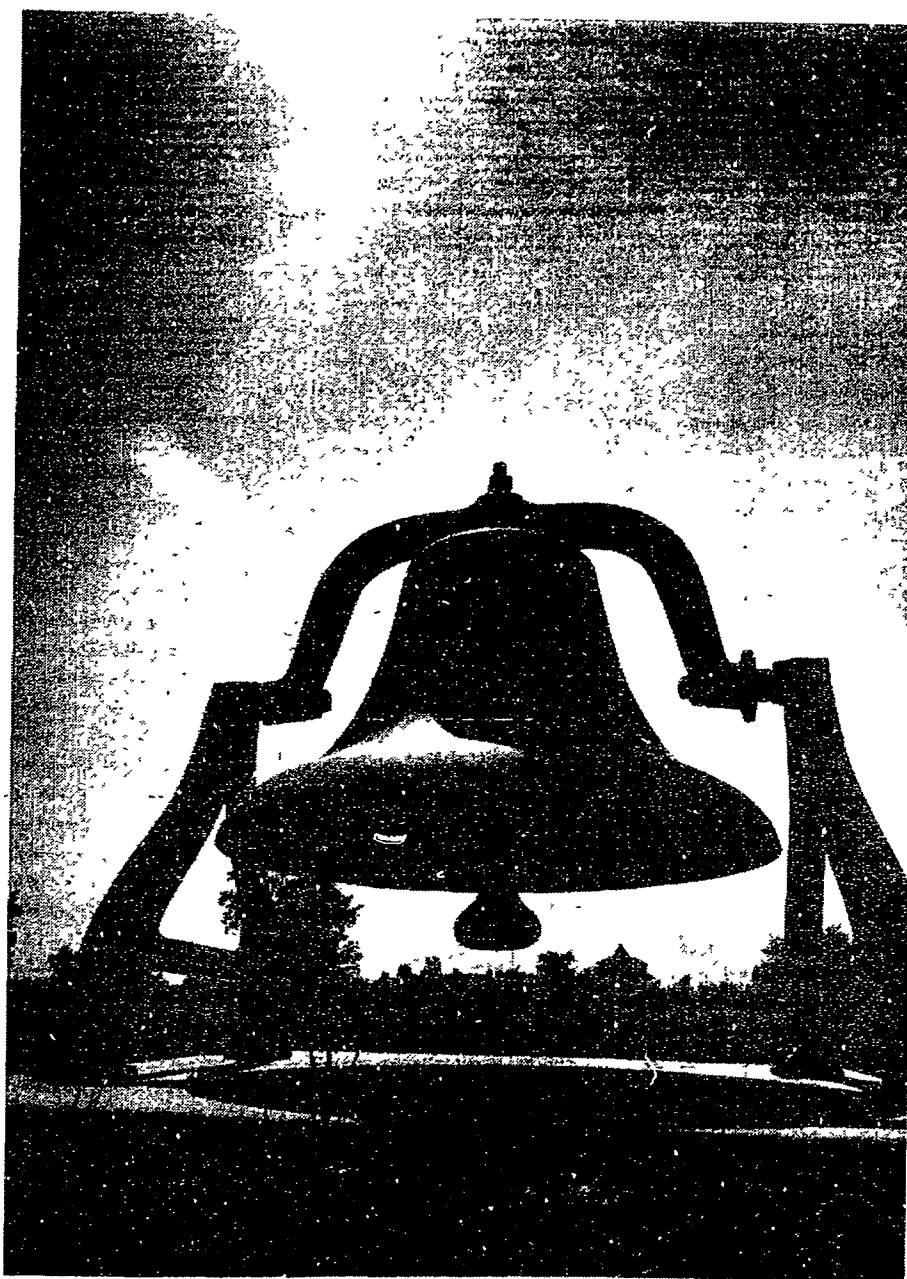

Some people claim small cars are a hazard; not so. A good head is needed to be a good driver these days and a good driver can handle a small car just as efficiently, effectively and as courteously as a large one, with less frustrations.

I know, I drive both; but for real economy and a smart financial difference, I prefer a small one.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Anyone who has had the job of putting together a parade has got to appreciate the task facing Jaycee John Buckland. He's in charge of what probably will be the largest parade ever seen in Northville.

If he's not a basket case by the time the parade's over I'll miss my guess.

About 15 years ago, in another town, an angry mother gave me the side of her purse, buckle up, to express her appreciation. "Don't tell me where my daughter must ride!" she snapped. "She rides up there or she doesn't ride at all!"

It happens in the parade staging area — the battleground of more confrontations than at Normandy.

If spectators wanted to see the real show, the one where the facade of smiles and waves and merriment have yet to be put on, they would forsake the curbside and take in this battleground. It's a riot . . . literally.

Even the best laid plans go awry.

They slid the paper lion in behind the handsome Morgan and its rider, just as directed, and the fun began. In a single, solid punch, the right rear hoof of the horse decapitated the lion. A week's work went sprawling across the school parking lot, while the horse, now frightened by the shouts and screams, tried climbing into the rumble seat of the vehicle up front.

The young rider understandably panicked, lost her self-control and washed the side of her horse which, by now, had one leg totally inside the rumble seat and the other on the shoulder of a terrified but otherwise unharmed occupant.

"Get down," I shouted at the animal, not really knowing how to address a horse. Surprisingly, the horse obliged, stepping on my foot upon extracting itself from the car.

"You'll pay for this," screamed the car owner.

"Momma, I don't want to be in the parade," cried the rider.

"You're going to have to fix my head," demanded the lion tamer, cradling the dislodged piece of paper anatomy.

And over the bullhorn came the fellow Kiwanian's alert, "It's time; let's get this show on the way!"

Into every life some rain must fall . . . and it started, a light drizzle of an excuse for delay.

There, in the rain, I lost my cool among the shouts and the complaints of my foot. Recalling it now, I must have been a raving idiot.

"You, car, stop your bellyaching and get ready to go. You, horse, back to the end of the line. You, tamer, give me your blankety-blank head," I shouted, jerking the armful of paper from his hands.

Book Larning Produces Prose Pretty as Pome

To the Editor:
Oooooee, that Mary Kelly shore can dish up a spate of lickety-split prose, now can't she? Book larning sure is grand. Why, her vocabulary is as pretty as a pome. And I learned a whole lot from it, too.

It took Miz Kelly to make me see that Marty Rinehart's swansong was hitting on an ontological dilemma. Heck, I didn't know that Marty even had a swan. All along I just thought that ole Marty was hitting on all eight cylinders about something that was mighty unjust and unfair and picky and all. But now — well, that's awful what you're doing to your swan, Marty. You could maybe hurt the poor thing.

Oh, and Marty, what the heck's the matter with you, anyway? Miz Kelly said that you bared a dialectic operative hereabouts. Don't you know no better than to go around baring a dialectic here in Northville? Shame on you; those are decent folks. From now on, you'd better draw a distinction first before you bare anything more, OK? Or else there's this grandiose libation out there just waiting to stifle your jargon with a gigantic bandaid. And, like I mean, there just ain't nothing worse than that, nohow, now is there?

Anyway, it shore appears to me from Miz Kelly's letter that when some folks in this here town can't have their own way about where the sixth and ninth grades should go, why then they just het up and start talking sassy to ever'body, and start talking about their ironic vision and such like stuff. Golly, I tell you, it shore makes a body run to a dictionary to find out why. But it was no use. I guess I just have to believe that because the School Board didn't agree with them, then the Board must be a bunch of villains. Aw shucks.

It shore would be nice if folks around here could just stop bickering so much. If only they could get rid of the hostility and the irony, maybe they could meet with good will. And then, maybe, they could abide by a consensus of opinion. Maybe, someday, folks will wake up and start working together like the way they should, shore enough.

Meah — and maybe someday porcupines will fly. But, man oh man, that'll be some weird bird.

Bikers' Delight

A bicycle trail is being constructed along the edge of Edward Hines Drive in the Middle Rouge Parkway in Northville Township. The trail, which eventually will run the entire length of the parkway system, is located on the east edge of Hines Drive. Although the trail for the time being will terminate near the Northville recreation area in the parkway, long-range plans call for its extension all the way to Maybury State Park.

News from Lansing

By R. Robert Geake
State Representative

Last week the Michigan House approved an appropriation for the Department of Social Services which is $215 million over this year's highest-ever spending level. Regular readers of this column will not be surprised to know that I voted against the bill.

The $1.23 billion appropriation for social service programs squeaked through with only one vote to spare over the 56 required for passage. Fifty-three Democrats and Four Republicans voted for the bill. When federal matching funds are included, we will be spending an incredible $2.3 billion on welfare in Michigan next year.

The largest portion of the budget goes to the controversial Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program. It is budgeted at $926.6 million to provide 227,000 cases with an assistance standard of $419.92 a month for a family of four. This is four per cent higher than the $408 monthly allowance currently being provided, keeping Michigan a "leader" in welfare benefits given each family when compared with other states.

I supported amendments which were offered on the floor to delay the 4 percent increase in the assistance allowance until July 1, 1977 and save the taxpayers some $10 million, but those attempts fell a frustrating one vote short of adoption. As the bill now

From somewhere rope miraculously appeared. We rammed home the head, binding the critter as well as could a cowboy. It was while standing back to look at the makeshift handiwork that the mother of the rider banged me with her persuasive purse.

The parade came off, finally, and so did the lion's head. But the crowd liked it just the same, some even commenting that muzzled lion looked life-like as its head swung back and forth as if it were watching the smiling, waving tamer.

And by parade's end the car and horse were friends, and the blessing of rain had washed away the rider's accident.

Watch and enjoy Sunday's big Bicentennial parade. But you might reflect upon the behind-the-scenes skirmishes that John and his fellow Jaycees most assuredly will encounter. To them go the purple hearts of the Revolution.

Reader Pans Movies

To the Editor,

I'm wondering if other mothers of Sixth graders have been hearing what I have from mine lately. Don't you think it's "terrific" that the tax dollars we spend for their education enables them to see three hours of Laurel & Hardy movies on Friday afternoons. The "excuse" I hear is "the teachers are there, but packing books and things for the movie." This has definitely happened the last three Fridays, and possibly more.

Now for another clincher — they can't afford to open the school, one evening, June 29th so the sixth grade band can perform. These kids have been practicing for two months specifically for this concert. Now it's off unless we can come during school hours.

Oh well, next year, sixth grade will be back at elementary level and there will be no band. Maybe the tax money saved on the band program will enable them to buy more Laurel and Hardy educational movies! By the way!!! Did you like sending in that self addressed, stamped envelope for report cards!!!!

County Reaffirms New Jail

To dispel what they said is growing public misconception, several Wayne County Commissioners called a special meeting to emphasize the decision of the Board of Commissioners to build a new County jail, and to reaffirm their individual commitment to the project.

The clarification was necessary, said Commissioner Samuel A.

Turner, because "recent reports in the news media, a lawsuit and a petition to the board have caused consternation and confusion in the minds of a large segment of the public."

"Because of the confusion aroused, we thought it was important to reassure the public that we have no intention to use revenue from the jail millage proposition for any reason other than a jail that is completely new, built from the ground up," Turner declared.

Turner said the public misunderstanding centers around the once-competitive Hudson warehouse renovation plan which has been twice rejected by the Board in favor of the new construction that commissioners chose by unanimous vote on April 21.

Turner stressed that the commissioners voted in favor of new construction almost a month before the one half mill $35 million jail tax was approved by the electorate in the May Presidential primary election.

"I know of no movement or support from the other commissioners that I talk to who want to change that decision," he stated.

The public is further confused, said Turner, by an advisory opinion from the three-judge Circuit Court panel which has led many citizens to erroneously believe that parts of the new jail design schematics are illegal.

"The court has not declared the schematic plans submitted by the board as legally invalid," said Turner. He also pointed out that "schematic drawings are not final plans, but the very opposite of final plans."

Turner also denounced speculation that necessary changes in the jail design would cost "several million dollars more as some have suggested."

"All kinds of figures and misstatements have been bandied about," he emphasized, "but to date, there has been no evidence to support these assertions."

"Not in any way is the Board of Commissioners backtracking on its commitment to build a new facility," said Turner.

The undersigned members of the Novi Board of Education are writing this letter in response to a recent editorial regarding former Board member Terrance K. Jolly, who was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Gilbert Henderson.

It is the feeling of the Board that Mr. Jolly has been a hard-working, conscientious and vital board member, deserving of great appreciation for his contributions during his term of office.

Earns Praise

To the Editor,

My compliments to Chief Nisum of the Township Police, certainly a fine gentleman and a very efficient chief. He and his staff have been very helpful to me and I appreciate it.

I think it is time for the township to give him the recognition he deserves with the limited resources he has to work with.

If the township raises the millage, that is O.K. as long as the police department gets the share they so richly deserve.

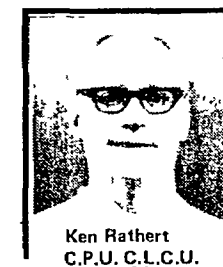

Sincerely,
William P. Madigan

'Found' Statue Smashed

The City of Wixom was threatened with a law suit over the weekend by a young man who claims the city was at fault by not properly caring for a piece of found property.

James Yager, a 24-year-old member of the Finnish Summer Camp created a statue which he transported to Wixom and placed in a pine-wood forest on Finn Camp grounds.

Yeager, unable to be reached for comment, reportedly said it was meant to be a memorial to the growth of the Finn Camp. Unfortunately, Yager did not mention the statue or the placement of it to anyone — especially the board of directors.

Although no one except Yager seems to know exactly when the statue was placed in the dense forest, someone found it shortly after midnight on June 23 — the night of the traditional Finn Camp Juhannus celebration.

Part of that tradition is the lighting of a huge "kokko" or bonfire in a clearing a short distance from the forest. People throng to the area and it was during that time that someone stumbled across the statue.

The almost ten-foot white plaster and metal statue was at first thought to have been stolen property, spokesmen for the Finn Camp said. And it took six sturdy men to pick it up and bring it out into the light of the bonfire for closer examination.

Some said it was obscene, others grotesque. But beauty, it is said, is in the eye of the beholder. It was a piece of "art" and should be viewed as just that — not its shape or what it meant or seemed to symbolize.

A member of the board of directors who was present, apparently told an on-duty police officer to remove the statue from the grounds. Since it was too large for the police vehicle, it was determined that a fire truck on the scene be used for transport.

It was decided to use the D.P.W. garage as a safe storage area for the statue. But according to police reports, the fire truck blew a water hose enroute to the garage and the statue wound up at Fire Station No. 1 on Wixom Road.

The statue was said to have been removed from the fire truck and placed on the ground on the north side of the building.

What happened after that remains a mystery. Sunday morning the statue was found smashed to bits in the driveway at the fire station.

What occurred, who destroyed the statue and the time are still being investigated by Wixom Police.

Jim Yager, however, is just a little upset over the loss and he claims he'll sue the city for damages.

"UNSIGHTLY SITE" — Clean is not necessarily clean when it comes to the refuse created by soap-making operations. Criticism mounted at the Wixom council table over what was termed the "disgusting mess" at the Korex Company. Refuse piled outside the company was only one problem discussed. The Oakland County Environmental Health Department has been contacted to test the area for water and air pollution stemming from mounting complaints of area residents. See story, Novi-1.

injury care, which would be passed from coach to coach.

Osborne said, "We're small enough that I know every boy in the program. I know his history. I know, for example, if he has knee problems. We (the coaches) are aware of weaknesses."

Helmer and Trustee Joel Colliu asked for more formal procedures, and Gerald Kratz, school superintendent, said a new filing system would be set up immediately. Kratz also said he would begin legal research into the board's responsibility for athlete injuries.

Trustee Terrance Jolly, an attorney said that the present state of law in Michigan is that students who play sports assume the risk.

The subject of student participation took the shape of an inter-scholastic sports versus intra-murals discussion. Colliu asked if perhaps more students would be served by having a smaller inter-scholastic program in favor of a broader intramural program.

Both Osborne and Helen Ditzhazy, high school principal, said that all students who wanted to play had the opportunity under the present structure, and that intramural programs usually don't excite the interest of inter-scholastic competition.

Kratz said that when the need arises, new activities are added, and that the school board would be asked to approve junior varsity tennis, junior varsity girls' track and freshman football and baseball.

The board also asked Kratz to recommend a fair allocation of extra-curricular funds to balance sports against other activities such as ski club, French club and band.

Kratz said he would prepare a proposal probably in the form of a "three-tiered" approach.

According to Kratz, one tier would represent activities so closely tied to the school program that the board should fund them unequivocally. The second tier would include activities that should receive partial funding and the third tier, activities to which the board would not contribute.

The board, with its three newly-elected members seated, will further study the extracurricular program in August.

Council Eyes Town Center Zoning

Planning Board Chairman John Roethel said Monday that the planning board had not yet received a communication from the city council requesting the recommendation. He added that the next meeting of the planning board is set for July 21 and that would put the date for any public hearing back at least to the first Wednesday in September.

Roethel indicated concurrence that the R-4 zoning might not be "valid".

Ed Gold, attorney for Royal Development told this newspaper that technically the courts, at this point, have already rezoned the property on the basis of the circuit court ruling. He added that the group could probably pull permits to begin building.

Gold said he could not comment on whether plans have changed as to what types of establishments would be placed on the property if his client prevails.

Only council member voting against requesting the planning board to hold a public hearing and recommend a rezoning was James Shaw. He explained that "I don't want to step on their toes in terms of their procedure."

Councilwoman Romaine Roethel replied that the request is not stepping on their toes because the council has the prerogative to call a public hearing.

Council had met in executive session prior to the council meeting to discuss the situation.

It is apparent company operations have outgrown the current facility with the resulting refuse piling up outside. Councilman Robert Dingledey did point out that the owners of the property made an attempt to clean up the outside area in May with a substantial sum of money spent on those operations.

How much longer the problem will exist and to what degree city officials will pursue the matter remains an unanswered question.

Korex has been granted an industrial designation which would allow for the construction of a larger facility away from the center of town at a substantial tax savings to the company.

Lord & Taylor, the capacity and readiness to take on such an adventurous goal as opening three stores simultaneously is a first for Lord & Taylor and a first for a retail store of this caliber.

Brooks said the Detroit market was chosen because, "Metropolitan Detroit is an exciting and vital community — a changing market — one of new optimism, of growth, of quality people. We are anxious to break ground and become a part of the greater Detroit area."

Each of the two-level stores will carry complete lines of men's wear, women's wear, children's wear and home fashions. Restaurant facilities and beauty salons will also be available to customers.

Lord & Taylor officials indicated that opening three stores in the greater Detroit market marks a "unique merchandising opportunity."

Mr. Brooks commented, "We are confident in Detroit's future and its commitment to the quality of life. We are happy to become a part of this mature, yet growing, community."

Dr. Michael K. Conley of Northville was one of 224 new physicians who received their degrees in the annual honors convocation and class night ceremony held recently at the University of Michigan Medical School.

Son of Mrs. Mary F. Conley of 302 Orchard Drive and Kenneth D. Conley of Farmington, Dr. Conley is a 1968 graduate of Northville High School. He received his AB degree at U-M in 1972.

He will begin his residency in obstetrics and gynecology at Indiana University Medical Center at Indianapolis on July 1.

With the presentation of diplomas by Medical Dean John A. Gronvall, M.D., the U-M School passed the 13,000 mark in the number of physicians it has graduated in the last 126 years.

Funds Aid State Hospital

State Senator Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) led the fight for approval of a $750,000 emergency budget request for the refurbishing of patient areas at Northville State Hospital.

The legislature approved Appropriations Committee recommendations to correct the deficiencies that led to Northville State's loss of accreditation.

The refurbishing funds will be used for fire safety corrections, paint, tile and plaster repair, installation of privacy partitions, cabinets and wardrobes, drapes, pictures and plants for environmental improvement. These corrections are expected to be sufficient to gain reaccreditation for Northville's facility, Pursell said.

Pursell, a member of the Senate Mental Health Subcommittee noted that this is only a first step towards improving the standards of the state's mental institutions.

Two visits to Northville State Hospital by Pursell and staff member Nancy Nirider of Northville resulted in a listing of recommendations for the improvement of the institution, once felt to be a source of state pride.

A last-minute call to Anaheim, California, resulted in the appearance of Albert Kohler at the 50th anniversary reunion of Northville High School Class of 1926.

He was among 14 classmates of the 31-member class who attended the dinner gathering June 19 at the Round Table Club in Plymouth. With spouses, the number attending was 21.

Weeks of checking beforehand by Mrs. Beth (Ponsford) Lapham and Mrs. James (Edna Kreeger) Huff resulted in contact with most members of the class.

Others coming from a distance included Mrs. Walter Brown (Marie Schultz) from Lake Worth, Florida, and Harry White from East Tawas, Michigan.

Kohler, who flew in the Saturday of the reunion, was a guest of the Huffs for a long weekend.

On the Monday he visited the Wagon Wheel restaurant, which had been the location of the Kohler family store, run by his grandfather and then his father. During the sentimental tour of the building Kohler recalled "helping out" in the store during his school years.

Kohler, semi-retired, now sells real estate in California.

Others on hand for the reunion were Mrs. Leland (Virginia Litsenberger) Smith, Mrs. T Harold (Elsie Schultz) Secord of Plymouth, Miss Eleanor Martz of Detroit, Mary (Chargo) Muntyan of Plymouth, Mrs. Forrest (Kathryn Wilcox) Hubert of Bloomfield Hills, Raymond Elliott of Auburn Heights.

Also, Mrs. Robert (Marjorie, Horan) Coolman, Lynn Fraser and Delbert Campbell of South Lyon, who served as master of ceremonies.

Leslie Fraser, who now lives in Highland, Michigan, was president of the class that graduated on June 23, 1926, from the old high school on Main Street. He also gave the salutatory address on that day 50 years ago.

He had planned to be present at the reunion, Mrs. Lapham reports, but had suffered a heart attack.

Regrets also came from Ruth Biery, now Mrs. William Black of Wheaton, Illinois.

who with her husband ran Black's White House here for many years. She had hoped to come but had a conflict.

The Lynn Frasers made a special effort to be on hand, arriving late after attending a reunion of Mrs. Fraser's class the same evening at Hillside Inn.

Miss Martz was among those still working. She is with station WJR in Detroit.

The reunion planners also were successful in locating Avis Brown, valedictorian of the class, who now is Mrs. Ford Beck and living in Howell, although she was unable to attend.

All women attending were honored with corsages made by Mrs. Donald Ware.

The evening was spent "just visiting," Mrs. Lapham explains, as members recalled that 50 years ago there was a "class day exercise" on June 22 at which the class prophecy was read by Marjorie Horan and the class will by Ruth Biery. The high school glee club sang for both the class exercise and the commencement the following evening.

"Wake Miss Lindy," "Rose of My Heart," "Land of Long Ago" and "A Summer Shower" were among the selections.

The program, saved for 50 years, also notes that diplomas were presented by L. A. Babbitt.

2 Receive EMU Scholarships

Two local area residents have received awards at Eastern Michigan University.

Kimberly I. Millington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Millington, 18823 Jamestown Circle, has received an upperclass residents scholarship for the 1976-77 school year, and Cheryl B. Wizinsky, daughter of Elizabeth Wizinsky, 40661 Oakwood Drive, has received a $325 upperclass award for leadership.

The latter award is made for demonstrating leadership ability and participation in campus and community activities.

The former is awarded on the basis of grade point average earned, according to the number of academic hours while residing in a dormitory.

Kimberly, a freshman majoring in home economics education, is a member of the Home Economics Club. She also participated in the fashion show for the Fashion Merchandising Club.

Cheryl, a senior majoring in social work, has participated as a volunteer for SOS, a community crisis center, in the Social Work Club, as president of the Stoic Society, in the Student Senate and as a member of the Student Affairs Committee. She is presently a resident adviser in Wise Hall at EMU.

Buses Going to Maybury Park

SEMTA's bus schedule into Northville has been extended to include Maybury State Park, it was announced this past week.

"We're really pleased with this service," said Robert Remer, park manager, who predicated increased patronage. "It will be especially helpful to senior citizens who would like to visit the park but who otherwise might not have any transportation."

Senior citizens, incidentally, travel for half fare Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. anywhere along a SEMTA bus route. Half fares also are in effect all day Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

First bus arrives at Maybury at 9:35 a.m., leaving Main and Center in Northville at 9:25 and Northville State Hospital at 9:17 a.m. The bus arrives again at Maybury 10:55 a.m., having left the state hospital at 10:37 a.m. and downtown Northville at 10:45 a.m. Next buses to arrive at the park are at 3 p.m. and at 7:20 p.m. They leave the center of Northville at 2:50 p.m. and 7:10 p.m., and from Northville State Hospital at 2:42 p.m. and 7:02 p.m.

Buses leave Maybury at 9:35 a.m., 10:55 a.m., 3:20 p.m. and at 7:20 p.m., arriving back at the center of Northville at 9:45 a.m., 11:05 a.m., 3:30 p.m., and 7:30 p.m., and then at the state hospital at 9:53 a.m., 11:13 a.m., 3:38 p.m., and at 7:38 p.m.

Fare from downtown Northville to the park is 50 cents. Exact change must be used because SEMTA coach operators are not authorized to carry change.

Correction

In making a presentation to the Novi School Board requesting that it provide $12,000 for bike paths along Taft Road, Clara Porter was representing the Novi Youth Assistance Committee and the Bicycle Trails Committee. This newspaper incorrectly stated that she was also representing Novi Parks and Recreation. Although she is a member of the Parks and Recreation Commission, Mrs. Porter was not representing that body. The newspaper regrets the error and offers its apology.

Boy Scouts accompanied by their scoutmaster Dave Crawford spent the weekend of June 5 & 6 as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Olson on their property near Fairview. The boys were assigned horses and went on a horseback campout during this time. The regular meetings will not be held during the summer.

However, other activities will continue. A canoe trip is being planned for up the Boardman River leaving from Ranch Rudolph near Traverse City. Other summer plans include getting the 1947 bus decorations redesigned with ideas being solicited from the boys through a contest.

BLUE STAR MOTHERS

The Blue Star Mothers will be meeting on July 1 at the home of Hildred Hunt on 11 Mile. Those attending the meeting on Thursday are reminded to bring a sandwich and table service.

NOVI SENIOR CITIZENS

Builders to Pay More For Novi Inspections

Builders in Novi will be paying more for utility inspection on new construction projects.

Johnson & Anderson, Inc., the consultants who do Novi's inspection work, asked for and received a raise from $110 to $125 for each "inspector day." Overtime, weekend and holiday work will increase from $18 to $19 per hour.

In addition, the city adds a 15 percent administrative charge to the inspection fee when billing developers. Rates, including the administrative charge, will be $143.75 an inspector day and $21.85 an hour overtime.

Novi City Council unanimously approved the increases June 21.

Most of the added cost will be passed directly to builders. In response to a question from Council Member Phillip Goodman, Harry Mosher, city engineer, said that only 10 percent of the consulting firm's income was derived from city projects.

City Manager Edward Kriewall estimated that the increased inspection fees would take $8,500 from Novi's budget.

All city contracts already signed with Johnson & Anderson will be completed at the old rate.

Current rates were set in April, 1975 at which time the city promised a review in one year.

Mosher, who is a member of the Johnson & Anderson firm, said in a letter to council that an increase was necessary because the consultants have been losing money at the current rates.

"The $110 per 'Inspector Day' rate is not adequate to provide reasonable wages for experienced personnel, cover necessary operating and overhead expenses and produce even a minor profit," Mosher said in his letter.

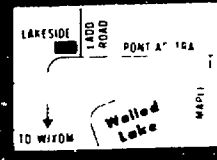

The City's Department of Building & Safety, directed by Everett E. Bailey, also requested increased fees for plumbing and heating inspections, based on rates charged in surrounding areas.

Councilman Robert Schmid expressed concern over the rising expenses of living in Novi and asked for a cost analysis to establish the need for a fee hike. Goodman moved that the plumbing and heating fees be reviewed by the Finance Department and brought up again at a later meeting. The council approved the motion unanimously.

RIGHT ON SCHEDULE—Twelve Oaks Mall, the new shopping complex on Novi Road is on schedule, a representative of Dayton-Hudson Corporation told Novi City Council Monday. Construction dust will settle by August 3, 1977, the planned opening date with about fifty to sixty stores ready to greet customers.

Birthday Theme Given Reading Club

"Happy Birthday to U.S." will be the theme of this year's summer reading club at the Northville Public Library. All children from beginning readers through the sixth grade are invited to join.

Registration began June 28 with the program slated to run for eight weeks. Children may join anytime through the end of July.

Participants are encouraged to read as many books as possible with those reading at least 10 books receiving a certificate at the end of the program. The children keep their own record with supervision of their parents.

The program will end with a party on Friday, August 20. The Friends of the Library will provide refreshments with the hour-long film classic "Johnny Tremain" the highlight of the afternoon party.

Children will be asked to dress in historical costumes representing the American Revolution for the afternoon party.

Library Needs Aid For Home Service

Greatly expanded since its beginning over a year ago, the Home Service Program of the Northville Public Library continues in its task of providing library materials to homebound patrons.

But according to program coordinator Anne Vargo, more volunteers are needed to maintain the regular visits to patrons, especially over the summer months.

Volunteers make visits to homebound patrons approximately once every three weeks. All that is required of a volunteer, remarked Vargo, is a van, an interest in people and books, and a few hours of time every month.

The Home Service Library offers books in large print, talking books, cassettes and cassette players to those with restricted vision.

This service is also extended to anyone who, because of lack of transportation, illness, or physical handicap cannot get to the library.

For more information on becoming a volunteer or on the use of the home service library contact Ms. Vargo at 349-3020.

Special Census Shows

Township Vacancy Rate's Low

In addition to showing that Northville Township is almost a third larger than it was in 1970, the special township census completed June 3 indicates that the community has a very low vacancy rate.

There are only 101 vacancies listed in a total of 3404 dwelling units throughout the township, amounting to a vacancy rate of slightly less than three percent.

According to preliminary information given Supervisor Betty Lennox by Francis M. Clark, special census supervisor of the Bureau of Census, the township now has a population of 12,489 — up 2,967 from the official 1970 figure of 9,522.

"To me, the low vacancy rate indicates that the community is a very desirable one in which to live," commented Supervisor Lennox as the figures were tallied.

For census-taking purposes the township was divided into 15 areas. The first three areas accounted for 46 of the 101 vacancies, or almost half.

Areas one and two were composed of Highland Lakes and had 8 and 20 vacant units respectively. Area three, Highland Lakes and Meadowbrook subdivision, had eight.

This also was an area of great growth, the census report indicates, having 1,249 residents in 1970 and 2,647 in the new census.

Area four, with Innsbrook apartments, grew from 35 residents to 440 and had 19 vacant units reported.

Area five, including King's Mill, grew from 760 residents to 1,061 with 12 vacancies.

The unofficial census returns also showed that institutional populations have had a decrease with Northville State Hospital area registering 1,469 patients in 1970 and 1,010 in 1976.

The area including the Wayne County Child Development Center, Plymouth State Home and Training School and Detroit House of Correction also saw a reduction in population with 2,120 listed in 1970 and 1,202 in 1976.

Only two residential areas — West Main Street with Taft and Bloomcrest subdivisions and Maybury State Park and also the West Main Street area including Beck and Seven Mile roads — showed population decreases. The former went from 633 to 599 and the latter, from 603 to 491.

This was viewed by township officials as part of the trend from large single dwellings to smaller apartments and condominiums.

The preliminary report, Mrs. Lennox points out, reveals an average of 3.179 (or almost 3.18) persons living in each dwelling unit.

The 1970 figure was 3.53. While SEMCOG predictions for township growth proved extremely close with a projection of 12,400 to the listed 12,489, the number of persons living in a unit was less than projected. SEMCOG had predicted 3.77.

Novi's old cemetery on Novi Road will receive a new look as part of a Bicentennial restoration by the Rotary Club. Repair of the wrought iron fence will be a major item, along with a new marker monument in front and repair of the walls in back. Rotarians Burt Harbin and Rev. Karl Ziegler look over the site. Another active member of the cemetery committee, Gene Pisha, was not available when the picture was taken.

Repeal of SBT Proposed

The only realistic solution to correcting the inequities in the state's Single Business Tax may be to repeal the entire act, State Senator Daniel S. Cooper (D-Oak Park), the Senate Democratic majority floor leader, said this past week.

"One of the most important tasks facing the Michigan Legislature is to correct the inequities that have placed an unfairly burdensome taxload on small businesses in the state," said Cooper, who is also chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

The 15th District Democrat said he is urging his colleagues to amend the Single Business Tax to make it more palatable, particularly to the small business groups that have been hurt so severely by it.

"But as time goes on, I'm finding that the solution to the problems created by that tax may not be nearly as simple as the adoption of amending legislation.

"There is a very real possibility that the only realistic solution will be repealing the entire act," Cooper said.

He added, however, that it would be very difficult to do that at this time because it would require the total reconstruction of the business tax structure.

"Because of the problems involved in completely repealing the Single Business Tax, I've decided to hold off on a final decision until I can determine whether any of the aims of the proponents of that tax have been accomplished," Cooper said.

"If what I suspect is true, however, I will not hesitate to propose to the legislature that the Single Business Tax as we now know it be totally repealed. The welfare of our business climate throughout the state might very well depend on it."

Cooper said it is his present opinion that the tax has failed to accomplish its stated goal of stabilizing revenue from business taxes.

"At least I have not seen sufficient data to prove its effectiveness."

The Senator added that sufficient, accurate data from the executive branch of government has become a scarce commodity these days.

"In fact, the statistics from the executive office are so bad that every projection I've seen the past year and a half has turned out to be not only inaccurate, but totally unreliable for developing a budget or making any other decisions."

Cooper said he still is waiting for factual data on which to base a responsible decision. "And this time it must be precise so that the Legislature will be able to develop meaningful solutions to the serious problems that are inherent in the Single Business Tax."

Local Girl Honored At Kentucky

Ms. Nancy Beth Lausten, daughter of Robert A. Lausten, 16944 Bradner Road, was recognized by the University of Kentucky College of Allied Health Professions as part of the University's 109th annual commencement Saturday, May 8.

A candidate for a B.H.S. degree in allied health education and research, Ms. Lausten was among 135 students recognized in a special program honoring the College's 1976 graduating class. Each student was presented individually by the department chairmen and awarded a certificate.

The program, held in Memorial Hall prior to the University commencement exercises, featured an address by Dr. Joseph Hamburg, dean of the UK College of Allied Health Professions, and the presentation of several awards to members of the class.

Following the special College program, graduates and their guests attended a reception in the President's Room of the Student Center.

I AM THEATION

I WAS BORN on July 4, 1776, and the Declaration of Independence is my birth certificate. The bloodlines of the world run in my veins, because I offered freedom to the Oppressed. I am many things, and many people, I am the nation.

I am 200 million living souls - and the ghost of millions who have lived and died for me.

I am Nathan Hale and Paul Revere, I stood at Lexington and fired the shot heard around the world. I am Washington, Jefferson and Patrick Henry. I am John Paul Jones, the Green Mountain Boys and Davy Crockett. I am Lee and Grant and Abe Lincoln.

I remember the Alamo, the Maine and Pearl Harbor. When Freedom called I answered and stayed until it was over, over there. I left my heroic dead in Flanders Fields, on the rock of Corregidor, on the bleak slopes of Korea and in the steaming jungle of Vietnam.

I am the Brooklyn Bridge, the wheat lands of Kansas and the granite hills of Pennsylvania, the fields of the West, the Gold and the Grand Canyon, Hall, the Monitor, Merrimac.

I am big, from the Atlantic to the Alaska and Hawaii. I am more than 5 million square miles, I am forest, field, mountain, desert. I am quiet villages, cities that never sleep.

You can look and see Ben Franklin walk the streets of Philadelphia, his broadleaf under his armpit see Betsy Ross with her, You can see the lights of Las Vegas and hear the strains of "Ang Syne" as the calendar

I am Babe and the World Series. I am schools and colleges, and churches where the lights of mass, and hear my people pray as they think best

I am a ballot dropped in a box, the roar of a crowd in a stadium and the voice of a choir in a cathedral. I am an editorial in a newspaper and a letter to a Congressman.

I am Eli Whitney and Stephen Foster. I am Tom Edison, Albert Einstein and Billy Graham... I am Horace Greeley, Will Rogers and the Wright brothers. I am George Washington Carver, Daniel Webster and Jonas Salk.

I am Longfellow, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Walt Whitman and Thomas Paine. I am a well driller, Wayne Claypool, working continuously since 1918.

Yes, I am the nation, and these are the things that I am. I was conceived in freedom and, God willing, in freedom I will spend the rest of my days.

May I possess always the integrity, the courage and the strength to keep myself unshackled, to remain a citadel of freedom and a beacon of hope to the world.

This is my wish, my goal, my prayer in this year of 1976 - two hundred years after I was born.

Wixom Council Gives Jaesic Go Ahead

Jaesic Industries was given the go-ahead by the Wixom City Council Tuesday night to apply for industrial development district status. The company becomes the second concern in the city to seek the tax benefits offered by the state act.

Jaesic, located on Beck Road on approximately four acres abutting C & O Railroad properties, are developers and manufacturers of electronic devices. The designation was requested for a two-acre section of the total parcel now owned by the company.

Although construction of a new facility on that two-acre parcel has already been completed and occupancy taken, firm owner Jerry J. Tomecek still has the opportunity to apply for the industrial development status.

Tomecek contacted council officials in May telling them that further information on the entire bill allowed him to apply for the status even though construction on the facility had already begun. Tomecek also said he was probably the first person in Wixom who requested information on the industrial act some 18 months ago. At that time he said he was turned down in his attempt by being informed the city would not be interested in granting the tax break. Since then the Korex Company has received the designation.

Industrial designation districts offer a tax break to Michigan concerns as an incentive for businesses to stay in Michigan. The break amounts to a 50 percent reduction in yearly taxes for a twelve year period.

Should Tomecek be granted the designation by the state, his firm could stand to save an anticipated $7,000 in taxes per year.

At the public hearing Tuesday night, the first step in the application process, no objections to granting the designation were voiced by residents.

Repeating past voting patterns, however, were Councilmen James Lahde and Robert Dingley who cast the only negative votes for approval of the Jaesic application. Both have consistently opposed the concept of industrial tax breaks.

Township Water Cost Up

Northville Township residents receiving township water will find their quarterly water bills in the mail this week higher than usual.

A rate increase, effective April 1, 1976, combined with highest township consumption in history is responsible, according to Supervisor Betty Lennox.

The new rate being charged for water is 53 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Mrs. Frances A. Mattison, manager of the township water and sewer department, explains that on December 15, 1975, the board of water commissioners of the Detroit Metro Water Department increased rates and charges for water service.

The increase of 39 percent applied to all customers and all levels of service.

As a result of this increase, she states, the township water commission studied Northville Township consumption and determined an increased selling rate of 10.285 cents per 1,000 gallons would be required.

This was recommended to the township board and the increase of 10 cents per 1,000 gallons was voted to meet the Detroit increase.

"In fact," Mrs. Lennox points out, "the township increase does not quite meet the Detroit increase. We're passing on as little as possible."

She adds that Northville Township feels it is getting "a pretty good deal" from Detroit as other communities have higher rates with the City of Novi now paying 74 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Township water users broke all records for water usage early in June as an average of two-and-a-half million gallons a day was pumped through the week of June 4-11.

Mrs. Mattison recalls that as the period when residents sprinkled more than usual to save their lawns during a hot, dry spell.

A record 17,800,000 gallons was pumped, surpassing the previous high of 5,800,000 in a week last year.
