FOURTH of July Sidewalk Sales and now the Northville Community Fair. Next summer extravaganza, the annual fair is scheduled for the weekend of August 13 at Northville Downs Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, the fair sponsor, has begun the count-down to fun and excitement reminding area residents that one of the highlights will be an auto thrill spectacular - a demolition derby.

SCHOOL STARTS for Northville's year round students next Tuesday. Teachers report on Monday. Starting and closing hours for all schools are as follows: High School—7:55 a.m. and 2:50 p.m.; Cooke—8 a.m. and 2:35 p.m.; Meads Mill—7:50 a.m. and 2:25 p.m.; all elementary schools—9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.; Kindergarten—9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. The bus schedule for ESY appears on page 7-D.

ADVERTISEMENT for a field manager for construction of the senior citizens housing project, Allen Terrace, has been authorized by the city council. The council is expected to hire a field manager at its next meeting on August 16.

JAMMED VOTING MACHINES discouraged about 10 voters in the township early yesterday morning. The machines, rented from Dearborn, required adjustments before voting in precinct three could begin. The voters who couldn't wait told precinct workers they would be back later in the day. Precinct six experienced the same problem with another of the rented machines.

STEPPED UP police surveillance of traffic turning left illegally off Eight Mile Road on to Horton and other streets in the northeast section of the city has been ordered by the council in the wake of another citizen complaint lodged by Mrs. Kenneth Meyers of 355 Base Line.

STOP SIGNS will be switched from Linden Street to Dunlap Street, thus meeting state requirements designating Linden as a major street. The change order means north and southbound Linden motorists can drive between Main and Randolph streets without stopping. And Dunlap Street motorists will now have to stop at Linden.

DPW-clerical

Contract ok'd with city union

A new DPW-clerical one-year contract has been ratified by Northville city employees.

City council meanwhile has authorized formal signing of agreement after having accepted the negotiated terms of the contract.

Still under negotiation is a new contract with city policemen.

Terms of the DPW-clerical union contract are:

- 1 Wage increase of 7 1/2 percent across the board.
- 2 Same cost of living formula as last year.
- 3 A provision for cash payment of a portion of vacation earnings.
- 4 Vacation bonus for non usage of sick days as in the present police contract.
- 5 Addition of an OB rider to Blue Cross coverage.
- 6 A 50-50 dental provision as provided in the present police contract.
- 7 Replacement of the present $1,000 life insurance cash annuity plan with a $10,000 term life insurance plan.

8 City payment of retroactive hospitalization for employees.

9 Provision of an enclosed heated lunch area at the DPW yard.

10 Provision of suitable gloves for DPW employees.

This settlement, according to City Manager Steven Walters, takes into consideration the inflation rate for the past 12 months and consideration of benefits given to other employees.

It exceeds the budget estimate on wages and fringes by approximately $10,000 which will have to be absorbed by expenditure adjustments he said.

I feel it is realistic to expect to be able to make the necessary adjustments over the next 11 months and that we can accept this settlement without being forced into a deficit budget balance, the manager told councilmen.

DPW and clerical employees are represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Council 23 AFL-CIO.

Backseat driver

Turnout at Northville's annual sidewalk sales was easily the largest in history. "It seemed like everyone in the whole town was here," one of the participating merchants commented. Even Mark Vaningen and his pet raccoon, a backseat driver, bicycled down to the fun. Below is just a portion of the thousands of people who flooded both of Northville's downtown streets in quest of bargains Saturday.

Northville Township voters unseated Supervisor Betty Lennox in Tuesday's primary election in what most observers termed a surprising upset.

Wilson Grier, a 29-year-old employee of Park Haus Restaurant defeated the incumbent supervisor in the Republican primary 1,058 to 946.

The primary victory assures Grier of election in November. Only one Democrat is seeking township office, Margaret Cramer, a trustee nominee.

Elected along with Grier were Incumbent Clerk Clarence Sass, Richard Henningsen as treasurer, Incumbent Trustee Dr. John Swienckowski and Michael Wilson, and for constable, Incumbent E.F. Peterson Jr. and James Schrot.

Three millage issues (see story below) plus the hotly-contested Republican primary races in Northville Township brought some 2,705 voters to the polls a 47 percent turnout.

Supervisor Lennox defeated Grier in five of the eight precincts. Both candidates received 127 absentee votes each.

But Grier soundly defeated Mrs. Lennox in precinct 5 (142-67), precinct 7 (118-82) and precinct 8 (117-29).

Precinct 5 is Kings Mill, precinct 7 the southeast section of the township, and precinct 8 includes the Seven Mile Road area near Northville State Hospital.

In other Republican races Clerk Sass rolled up the top vote total with 1,246 votes to 581 for Rosemary Zillich.

Henningsen defeated Constantine Carson in a close contest, 889 to 804 for treasurer.

In the contest for two four year trustee seats on the seven member board Dr. Swienckowski topped the candidates with 1,002 votes. Wilson edged out John Unger for the second trustee seat, 789 to 717.

Arthur Munzinger received 615 votes and Wesley Rogalski tallied 282 in losing efforts for the four year trustee seats.

R.M. Lyssenger was unopposed for a two-year trustee seat on the Republican ticket. He received 1,143 votes.

In the constable race Schrot led the ticket with 797 votes to 728 for Peterson. Only two were elected. Roger Essing received 454 votes to 319 for Ronald Fader.

Democrat Cramer received 273 votes for nomination to the board in the four year term trustee race.

In heavily Republican Northville Township Cramer's chances against Swienckowski and Wilson in November would have to be termed slim.

Tuesday's results means only three of the present township board's seven members will remain on the board after November.

Gone with Supervisor Lennox will be Treasurer Charles Rosenberg and Trustees Richard Mitchell and John MacDonald. None of the latter three sought reelection.

Trustee James Nowka is the only hold-over who does not face election this year. His four year term has two more years to run.

Sass and Swienckowski were both appointees and as such had to stand for election following their appointments in 1975.

Police wins big; library, rec. fail

Northville Township voters indicated by their ballot Tuesday that they want increased police protection but are not willing to pay more for recreation and library services.

They approved the 1.5 police millage proposal by a wide margin 1,458 to 814 but soundly defeated the library and recreation millage proposals.

Almost half 7705 of the township's 5643 registered electors cast ballots in the election—a decided increase from the 35 percent who voted in the last primary two years ago.

The 0.5 mill for library services was voted down 1474 to 1011. Recreation request for 0.5 mill also went down to defeat 1530 to 905.

The police millage passed in all precincts except one three and eight Recreation and library millage failed in all precincts with library millage getting a tie vote of 13-13 in precinct four which had the highest vote cast. Even the higher than usual absentee ballot vote reflected the overall vote with police winning 195 to 147 and recreation going down 214 to 195 and library down 191 to 142.

In all 352 of the 370 absentee ballots taken out were returned.

The vote early in the day was very tight. Clerk Clarence Sass said but it became heavy later with election workers reporting 40 people an hour in precinct two (Highland Lakes) at the 8 p.m. closing time. Anyone in line at that hour was able to vote, officials stated.

Long lines of voters also were reported in precinct six (Northville Commons and Colon) which was the last to report its tally.

New signs point out city historic district

For almost exactly four years the City of Northville has had its historic district protecting homes and business places but the district and its boundaries recently gained new awareness with the erection of distinctive markers.

As the white lettered brown signs with the Northville Historical Society's emblem depicting the Mill Race library were placed at intersections at the edge of the district, many area residents became aware of the boundaries for the first time.

Generally the high hanging signs have been placed just before the boundary line so that anyone approaching the district knows he is entering, according to the Northville Historical Commission. In a sweeping triangular shape, the district is outlined by Cady, Rogers, Randolph, the east end of Dunlap Church and Main to Park streets.

"The reason we didn't include the whole city at the time," recalls John Burkman, historic district study committee chairman, "was that at the time the state program was in its early stages and in 1971 this was the largest district ever requested."

We were told that we had a better chance of getting approval if we were limited."

The study committee originally had included the properties in the northeast section of the city, including Old Base Line where the Burkman home is located.

Since Northville gained approval however, Burkman points out areas as large or larger, including the entire City of Marshall, have been declared historic districts.

He adds that there now are many such districts designated in Michigan, but that Northville was among the first few.

Any individual himself may petition to have his home declared a historical preservation Burkman mentions, noting that he and his wife have done so Age, he says, is not the only significant reason. The home may have details worth preserving or have been associated with a particular family.

"People didn't understand the significance of the historic district at first," Burkman comments, adding, "Now they're proud of it."

"People need to understand we had to delineate somewhere and that there are other noteworthy homes outside of the 60 researched within the district."

A check with local realtors shows that some bear out the commission's thinking.

Louise Cutler of James C. Cutler Realty says that appraisers do give a home more value if it is located within the historic district as they feel people have the assurance the community is going to stay the same. "It makes a difference even on Main Street property."

Mill Race scene of Comfort-Szarnowski wedding

Wedding guests gather in Mill Race Historical Village for Sunday ceremony

Susan Cranfield marries in Village chapel

Martha Mary Chapel in Greenfield Village was the setting chosen by Susan Lynn Cranfield and James Edward Riley for their candlelight wedding June 22. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. Howard Cranfield of Davidson and the late Mr. Cranfield.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Riley of Grace Street in Northville. Dr. Frank Marvin officiated at the double ring ceremony for which the altar was decorated with arrangements of light blue-tipped carnations, mums and daisies. Special music included "The Wedding Song" and "We Only Just Begun." Given in marriage by her brother, Captain Steve Cranfield USAF, the bride wore a gown of white dotted voile trimmed with Venice lace at the scoop neckline and caplet sleeves of the bodice and at the flounced hemline.

Matching lace trimmed the white picture hat which had blue streamers.

White roses, miniature blue-tipped carnations and baby's breath tied with blue streamers formed her colonial bouquet.

Laura Bosh was honor maid in an ivory knit halter dress with chiffon capelet and beaded with peach and beige silk flowers. She carried a colonial bouquet in peach and white.

Dan Henderson was best man.

A dinner reception followed at Dearborn Inn. After a wedding trip to Grand Cayman Island the newlyweds are living in Inlet.

The bride a graduate of Eastern Michigan University is a junior high teacher in the Dearborn school system. Her husband who attended Ferris State College is a sales engineer for Forberg Scientific Incorporated.

WHEN AUDREY L. Comfort spoke her marriage vows with Paul M. Szarnowski last Sunday afternoon in the old library building in Northville's Mill Race Historical Village, it was probably the first time in more than 125 years that a wedding had taken place there.

The restored white frame structure was built as a Presbyterian church in 1845 during a split within the denomination. It was used for services here for only four years. It then in turn became a school, community hall and library.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Comfort of 13225 Nine Mile Road in South Lyon, explains that she passed the building daily on her way from her work as a department manager at Farmington K Mart.

She watched workmen restoring the tower and entrance and visualized the building as a setting for a wedding and reception.

She approached Northville Historical Society about the possibility and its officers were most agreeable, she recalls.

Last Sunday about 2 p.m. her planning materialized with even the sun cooperating so that the 120 guests could visit outdoors.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Agnes Szarnowski of Northville.

Judge Dunbar Davis officiated at the double ring service in which the bride's brother, Alan, read an original poem she had written.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gown of Irish type lace lined with white satin. The long lace sleeves, y-neckline and hem were edged with a lace ruffle. Matching lace also edged her waist-length veil held with a lace headpiece.

She carried a nosegay bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, green tipped miniature carnations, baby's breath and English ivy.

Vickie McNett of Dearborn was maid of honor in a long, pastel green gown, with matching floppy-brim hat adorned with matching ribbon and flowers. She carried yellow daisies and baby's breath.

Donna Nolte in pastel yellow with matching hat and flowers was a bridesmaid.

Skip Nolte was best man with the bride's brother, Alan, serving as usher. They wore white tuxedos with shirts coordinated with the bridal attendants' gowns.

Wedding guests gathered outside on the Mill Race green while the reception tables were set up in the library for champagne punch, cake and ice cream. The wedding cake was decorated in the green and yellow colors used as the wedding theme.

The newlyweds then left for Weber in Ann Arbor.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of South Lyon High School. Her husband is a 1972 graduate of Northville High School. He received his associate degree in applied sciences from Schoolcraft College.

They are living in Northville.

Since her wedding in the white frame structure was a present-day first, the new Mrs. Szarnowski had to decide upon many arrangements herself.

We went to the city hall and found that Judge Davis could marry us. The bride recalls (Northville's mayor A. M. Allen also can perform civil ceremonies according to city officials).

Friends of the bride moved an organ to the library. Jean Fietz of South Lyon played the "Wedding March," "Color My World" and "Time in a Bottle," as requested by the couple.

As she completed her pre-wedding details, the young bride commented that using the restored building "made it possible to have a very nice wedding at a price anyone could afford."

He's starring in Charlevoix

By JEAN DAVY

Dinner theatre the entertainment innovation that co-stars food has two strong proponents in Northville's Daryl and Ellie Egeland.

In recent months, both have promoted the dinner theatre concept—but from opposite sides of the stage.

He is an actor and has just taken vacation time from his job to play his favorite role of Sancho in Man of La Mancha in the Charlevoix Theatre. He will continue to perform as the faithful friend of Don Quixote on weekends throughout August.

His life shows food service instructor duties at a Wall Lake Western High School provided the seed idea for what is thought to be the first dinner theatre in a high school in the state.

Ellie Egeland, a 1965 graduate of Northville High School, is currently in the school's performing arts department. You're a Good Man, Charlevoix, her following roast beef and barbecue chicken dinner for Masses Ferguson Incorporated has been involved with community theatre for 14 years.

He attended with the stagecrafters in Troy where they lived before moving to 47000 South Chig viden in Northville Estates three years ago. He began with the Berkley Music Theatre.

He also has worked with the Ulster Music Theatre. After Players in Rochester, Southfield. Players and was involved with a brief attempt to start a dinner theatre in the Shelby Hotel in downtown Detroit.

"It's always been just a hobby," says Eleanor Egeland as she recalls how her husband started in chorus work then worked into supporting musical leads and now is in serious acting leads which he likes best.

Other roles included the male lead in Mary Mary and this past spring a stint in Six Men in Search of a Woman. Acting has never been his profession. Mrs. Egeland notes adding that her husband is just a busy amateur.

He became a part of the Man of La Mancha because he always has played Sancho to John Raleigh's Don Quixote. Raleigh, a 34-year-old Detroit resident, asked him to join him and members from the Michigan Opera Theatre in the Charlevoix dinner theatre project.

It is produced at the Grey Gables with the $12.50 including dinner at 8:30 p.m. and the theatre following.

Beginning next week the Man of La Mancha production at the Grey Gables will perform on the 11th of the Camelot evenings, which will be the 11th of the Camelot evenings.

Mrs. Egeland explains that the Charlevoix Theatre is fortunate in having financial backing through the owner of a chain of furniture stores.

Theatre-only perform times are scheduled at 10:00 p.m. The famous former Lobb estate on N-56 two miles south of Charlevoix. Man of La Mancha will be done there in an evening performance August 15.

Members of the Egeland family went north the weekend of July 10 to see Egeland and spend a few days in the Charlevoix area. Of the couple's three children only Eric who was 18 July 22 has been active in amateur theatre. A June 1970 graduate of Northville High he took a major role in the spring performance of Godspell here and was also in the Northville Presbyterian Church production of the same play.

He was David in the high school presentation of David and Lisa, and also had parts in Hello Dolly and Wizard of Oz.

The Egelands also have two daughters, Karen 16 and Kris 14. Mrs. Egeland now is on summer vacation from her food service job at Wall Lake. Western a position she assumed last fall.

coming from the Royal Oak vocational center.

A graduate in foods and nutrition from Wayne State University, Mrs. Egeland did her graduate work in education at Michigan State University.

As part of her program at Wall Lake, food students actually run restaurant. The Wall Lake room in the school.

We are a restaurant at the school, she affirms, serving the lunch and dinner for the students and faculty during the school year.

Serving lunch, she performing arts food alliance can be the start of an annual event. Mrs. Egeland points out that she feels that the cooperation among diverse educational arts in the school in the dinner theatre endeavor is what's very important.

So many departments in a large school like Wall Lake she points out, isolate themselves from each other that getting the graphic printing department to do the Charlevoix cover and the business department to do menus was a step in the right direction.

In addition, the floral department in the vocational education program made centerpieces for the cloth-covered candlelit tables at the buffet.

As Charlevoix concluded in the second act of the musical based on the Charles Schulz comic strip, Peanuts, such friendly cooperation is happiness.

That's the way Ellie Egeland views the evenings of extra work she devoted to the dinner theatre as well as the nights her husband spends in amateur theatre.

After all, she points out, it's no different from baseball or any other sport that takes time.

Churchwomen serve German meal at fair

Lovers of such traditional German food as sauerkraut, spatzle, knackwurst and food chocolate cake again this year will have the chance to enjoy it at the Northville Fair.

Next Friday and Saturday, August 13 and 14, women of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will hold their second annual German dinner at the track kitchen at Northville Downs during the final two fair days.

All the food the women are serving in the dining room and under an awning outdoors by the kitchen is to be homemade, even the knackwurst buns. Hours will be 5 to 8 p.m.

Planned by the fellowship circle of the church, the project, its planners point out, involves all people of the church. Hoping are to raise $1,100 this year, which would exceed last year's profit of $1,100, with proceeds earmarked for the new kitchen in the church expansion program.

Last year the women served 500 people. This year they are offering a complete dinner at $3, which will include the knackwurst, sauerkraut, spatzle, German potato salad and German chocolate cake with icing for dessert.

It also will be possible to buy the knackwurst-on-a-bun for a dollar.

Mrs. Ellie Hirth is in charge of arrangements.

Montessori program set

Northville Montessori Center will hold an open informational meeting at 3 p.m. this Sunday in Northville First Presbyterian Church with parents and interested teachers invited.

The school is to open September 8.

Good-bye Novi El'

Principal Roy Williams takes a look at the old Novi Elementary which will no longer be used for classroom space. The school board is currently seeking a purchaser for the school building and property. Expected selling cost could be $1.25 to $1.5 million. Williams, principal of the old Novi Elementary for 12 years will be moving over to the same position in the new Novi Elementary on Taft Road. Williams was also a teacher at Novi Elementary for three years.

Nibbles but no bites

Novi El' needs purchaser

FOR SALE Two story cement structure with basement, 28 rooms, office, cafeteria space several bath rooms, large attached recreational building, spacious 11 acres prime commercial property. Price only $1.25 to $1.5 million negotiable.

This might be the way an ad for the sale of the old Novi Elementary on Novi Road would read.

The building, which was abandoned for classroom use after the last school year, is up for sale, but so far the district has been unable to come up with a buyer, according to Superintendant Dr. Gerald Kratz.

While sale of the building is the big hope of the administration, a renter willing to pay enough to maintain the structure is a secondary consideration.

So far, Dr. Kratz told The Novi News, two different organizations have looked at the possibility of renting the building. Detroit Bible College which Dr. Kratz said is relocating out of Detroit, considered renting. But the college decided against it because it was too far from the proposed West Bloomfield relocation area.

The Wayne County Intermediate School District also considered renting the structure for use of special ed students. According to Dr. Kratz, a rental fee of $2 a square foot or approximately $80,000 a year for the 40,000 square foot structure was discussed. But Wayne County Intermediate Schools later dropped the idea.

While first preference is to sell the structure and second is to rent the structure, Dr. Kratz said the school district would, as a third alternative, allow non-profit community organizations to use the structure.

"We feel the building should be occupied from a vandalism standpoint," explained Dr. Kratz.

Another problem adding to the situation is the attached community building which is owned by the city but has the same heating plant as the Novi Elementary.

Dr. Kratz said it would be best for the school district to purchase the community building from the city and sell the elementary and community building as a single package.

"I think that would be the smart thing," said Dr. Kratz. "I'm waiting for someone (at the city) to tell me what they want."

Dr. Kratz said he has verbally discussed the matter with City Manager Edward Kriewall, but nothing in writing has come from the city as to cost of the community building.

Kriewall said this news paper that he expects a meeting of city officials and school board members in September. Council members will then have to make a decision on a sale price for the structure.

Kriewall said that money from sale of the community building would be used to construct a community center on municipal property at 10 Mile and Taft Roads.

"I think we could probably have one under construction next year if it goes through quickly," said Kriewall.

A Novi council policy calling for the retention of storm drainage has been passed which will allow for immediate creation of plans for expansion of the Patnales Drain.

In a unanimous vote of the six members present, council decided in favor of retaining water on developed property rather than going the possibly financially disastrous route of sending additional drainage downstream.

In a report to the council, City Engineers Johnson and Anderson who are also doing the design for the Patnales Drain for the County Drain Commission, indicated that constructing facilities in Novi to handle unrestricted runoff in the city could cost in excess of $60 million. And the cost to update downstream drainage facilities "to accommodate unrestricted stormwater runoff from completely developed city of Novi is staggering."

The report doubted the feasibility of a project to send water downstream.

"We're all aware of Super Sewer problems," said City Engineer Harry Mosher. "This could be even worse."

Council decision to go with retention facilities was intended to speed work on improvements to the Patnales

Drain which services two-thirds of Novi. Main problem surrounded the bottleneck of the Meadowbrook Lake Dam which will have to be reconstructed in conjunction with the drain improvements.

Johnson and Anderson has proposed that a dam of unknown length be constructed which could handle maximum runoff without accelerating water downstream.

The council still must wrestle with several concepts concerning the Patnales Drain and drainage in general.

First, the council must decide the method of apportionment for cost of the Meadowbrook Lake Dam. Council appears to be leaning toward an ad valorem tax on all residents of the city.

The alternative would be a special assessment of only 12-14 acres directly contributing to the Patnales Drain, approximately two-thirds of the city.

"It would be a complicated task to special assess, but it could be done," commented engineer Harry Mosher.

Cost on an ad valorem basis could be a half mill for several years indicated City Manager Edward Kriewall. Apportionment method will be determined at the hearing of apportionment later in the process.

The city engineers and council will also have to wrestle with a design criteria for retention ponds.

"If stormwater holding basins are to be utilized, design criteria should be developed and enforced to achieve acceptable aesthetics and minimized main lineance," said the report from Johnson and Anderson.

In addition, the question of who will be responsible for maintaining retention ponds is another point to be answered.

The city engineers are to report back to the council in a month with design criteria for retention ponds - from both engineering and administrative standpoints.

But, according to Mosher, ultimately the city will have to have a complete master plan drainage plan for the entire city so that retention will not be on a piecemeal basis.

Novi Council approves drainage retention policy

Council takes first two steps toward 1977 paving of city roads

Resolutions 1 and 2 in the road paving process were approved by Novi Council Monday for each of the six roads to be paved in 1977 under the road paving program as approved by voters.

Resolution 1 requires cost estimates and plans be drawn up. However, because that had been done previously, the council was able to breeze through that resolution and also pass the second resolution which sets the first public hearing. All public hearings will be September 27.

According to City Manager Edward Kriewall, actual work on the roads could begin as early as April or May of 1977. Work could be done simultaneously on several or all of the projects depending upon the successful bidder or bidders. Three inch asphalt surface is planned with roads 24 feet wide.

Following is a list of roads to be paved and cost estimates on each:

- Meadowbrook Road, 10 Mile to 11 Mile, total cost $400,000, special assessment portion $104,000
- Meadowbrook Road from 11 Mile, total cost $281,000, special assessment portion $46,000

- Beck Road from 10 Mile to 11 Mile, total cost $367,000, special assessment $104,000

- Beck Road from 11 Mile to Grand River, total cost $157,000, special assessment $71,000

- Taft Road from Nine Mile to 10 Mile, total cost $324,000, special assessment $79,000

- 13 Mile Road from Novi Road to Meadowbrook, total cost $348,000, special assessment $84,000

Because part of Novi Township lies along the 13 Mile Road stretch to be paved, the city has requested that the township pay half the cost of paving the portion of road fronting its property.

According to City Manager Edward Kriewall, cost to the township would be $30 a front foot for approximately 1700 feet or nearly $51,000 of the total cost. If the township does not agree to the cost, Kriewall said the road may not be paved. The city cannot legally require another municipality to contribute to a special assessment district.

Kriewall noted that Pete Ministrelli, owner of

Rebukes attack on Korex

An unusually long but placid Wixom Council meeting which ended with one council member walking out before adjournment.

near shooting match Tuesday

Councilman Fred Morehead

shattered the final moments of the meeting by charging the following council members with waging "a personal vendetta" against the Korex Company.

Morehead's attack, aimed at James Lahde and Robert Dingledy, appeared to echo similar statements made by Korex owner Peter Paisley in response to questions of alleged harassment by the city in past months.

Morehead, who refused to either rephrase or "take back" his statement as demanded by Lahde and Dingledy instead chose to continue his denunciation of the two Dingledy, calling the situation "stupid," left the meeting at that point.

Asked later why he felt it necessary to leave, Dingledy said, "I'm afraid I was at the point where I could have made some comments which I would have later regretted. It was just better they not be said."

The on-going problem of the city versus Korex came to a head two weeks ago when the council, minus Morehead and Martin Green, heard a list of ordinance violations compiled by building official William Tyler. That list had been caused by Lahde.

In a 3-1 vote, the council directed City Attorney Harold Bulgarelli to confer with the company and come up with a

Wixom ballot set on charter changes

Wixom voters may be able to vote on two charter amendments in November. If the ballot wording is accepted by the state.

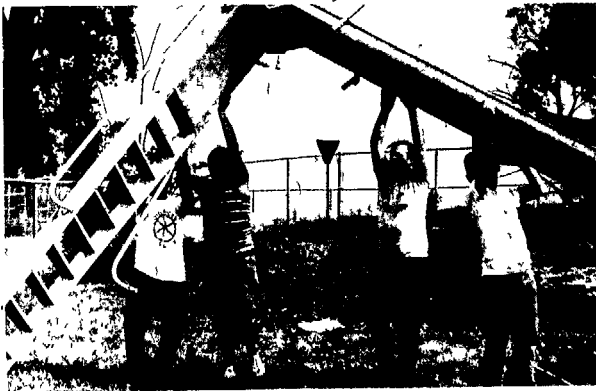

The charter amendment committee, headed by Councilman Fred Morehead, reportedly has spent months sifting through the pages of the city charter, writing suggested changes to that document.

Four of those proposed changes were discussed and voted on by the council Tuesday night. Two received council concurrence and will be forwarded to the state for their approval.

Although the existing charter is said to be out-of-date in many instances, even a simple date change in the text would require the election of a charter revision committee.

Council agreed the city was not ready for a complete charter change at this time. Amendments can be attached to the document but those amendments must be voted on by the council. Depending on the time necessary for proper working and final okay from

No fooling around

There was no playing around as the Novi Jaycees joined north end residents and civic association members in work at the Lakeshore Park in Novi last Saturday. The workers put together a better toilet, monkey bars, two slides and a swing set, as well as seven picnic tables. The city DPW was to anchor the playground equipment into the ground early this week. The equipment, which was purchased under federal revenue sharing by the city, will be located to the east of the entrance to the park and will be visible from the road. Jaycees helping out in the project Saturday were (from left) Pat McGuckin, Richard Hayoah, John Whinnle and Steve Dufala.

Taft bicycle path receives final kayo

Bike trails appear to be a dead issue in Novi - at least as they relate to the paving of Taft Road.

By a 3-3 vote, Novi council defeated a motion to get a definite cost figure on a change order to allow paving of four feet of the shoulder on each side of Taft Road.

The vote came after a plea by Clara Porter representing the Bicycle Path Committee who argued that "I'm concerned with children in this area. I'd just like for them to have a haven so they don't get run off the roads."

Several other residents spoke in favor of bike paths while Mrs. Jack Wixom lives on Taft Road encouraged the council not to pave the path.

Bike trails came before the voters and it was voted down by two-thirds of the voters indicating they did not want their money spent on bike trails," said Mrs. Wixom.

Joe Brett reported that the Meadowbrook Glens Board of Directors had discussed the Twenty years ago this week the front page of The Northville Record reported that Police had received a 7 a.m. call informing them that two pigs were running loose in the business district. The story revealed that "Patrolman Roman Nowicki caught one pig between the public library and 109 Wing street. The other pig is still at large."

Another story compiled new occupied dwelling units during the six-year period from April 1, 1950 to July 1, 1956. In the city of Northville the number of new units was 107; in Northville Township, 214; Novi Township, 534; South Lyon, 96; city of Plymouth, 488; Plymouth Township, 460; and Livonia, 7,368.

Hearings were being held by the less-than-one-year-old city on the question of hiring a city manager.

Claude N. (Pete) Ely was mayor. The only citizen at the hearing opposing a city manager as provided by the new charter was Sidney Frid. Those arguing it would save the city money included John Canterbury, Francis P. Gazlay, Tom Carrington, Nelson Schrader and Harvey and Richard Ritchie.

It was also announced on page one of that 12-page August 2, 1956 edition that The Northville Record-Novis News had a new owner. And the outgoing publisher, Glenn H. Cummings, wrote a front page editorial reminding his successor of his responsibilities "to report a factually accurate record of events that will transpire in the area and of undertaking through the editorial columns to influence public opinion for the good of the entire area."

Just getting out a paper seemed like an almost impossible task in those days. All the display and headline type were set by hand. A couple of linotype machines provided body copy. The handfed press had a four-page capacity. A 12-page paper required three press runs, three turns through a folding machine contraption that defied description, then hand-stuffing of each section into a single publication.

Gazing at the collection of equipment, it was frightening to imagine how to go about getting out a paper. My lone memory of the beginning was the thought that if they had been published each week, then that was proof it could be done.

The first project for the new Record crew was to publish a special "back-to-school" edition the end of August.

It was a whopping 16-pager. And that day it came out I must have leafed through its pages a dozen times. What a paper...what a great special edition.

In 1969 we observed The Record's centennial with a special six-section, 144-page edition plus the week's regular newspaper publication. And there have been normal weekly editions more than three times the size of that August, 1956 back-to-school paper.

Better equipment, more people with more talent and added customers have contributed to improved editions of The Record.

But I'll always remember that first special edition effort, August 30, 1956.

And I'm sure Mrs. Fred Hicks remembers, too. She's pictured on the front page waving to her daughter Patty, 9, and her son Bobby, 5, as they leave their Horton street home to attend the first day of school. Patty's a graduate nurse, married to a school teacher, and Bob's a physical education teacher in Sandusky, also married to a teacher.

Looking through those 1956 newspapers of late summer and early fall, you find the Reverend Peter Nieuwkoop was pastor at the First Baptist church. Reverend Father John Wittstock was at Our Lady of Victory, Ivan E. Hodgson, pastor of the First Methodist church, the Reverend B. J. Pankow at St. Paul's Lutheran and the Reverend John O. Taxis, linesman for all Mustang football games, was pastor at the First Presbyterian church.

It was the first year of city incorporation and thus the first time the city received rebates from the state from pari-mutuel betting at Northville Downs. The city's take for the 35-night season was $84,000.

Joe Denton was chief of police and Gill Glasson was his sergeant. Mary Alexander was city clerk and Philip Ogilvie was still city attorney way back then.

On the council with Mayor Pete Ely were A. M. Allen, John Canterbury, John Stubenvoll and Earl Reed.

The township board included Mollie Lawrence as supervisor, D. J. Stark, clerk, Roy Terrill, treasurer, and Alex Lawrence and R. D. Merriam, trustees. James Littell was both township and school board attorney.

R. F. Coolman was president of the school board and other members were E. F. Clark, Nelson Schrader, Robert Shafer and Donald Severance. Russell Amerman was superintendent of schools.

It was the year that plans began for construction of the high school. A total school enrollment of 1,600 students was anticipated for the new year and two of the 12 new teachers on the staff were Pat Bubel and William Kinnaird.

Cap Pethers would break his leg in the season football opener against Plymouth, which the Mustangs lost, 13-12.

The 120-year-old country-estate home of the Robert Haass family (Farm Crest Farms) at Bradner and Six Mile road was struck by lightning and was a total loss despite the efforts of six area fire departments called in by Northville Fire Chief William McGee.

E. V. Ellison was principal of the high school. The system had two elementary schools, Amerman and Main Street.

John Robertson was hired as the first city manager, the fall presidential election saw voter turnouts of 92 and 82 per cent respectively in the city and township.

Ed Bogart was the justice of the peace, Leland Smith was postmaster. Rotary hosted 26 departing German exchange students and one lamented to the audience that it was too bad teenagers in America could not drink beer. He reported that his tests while visiting America had proven that "Stroh's smells best."

The Record telephone number was 200. Russ Clarke was president of Depositor's State Bank, A & P advertised chuck roast for 33 cents a pound and Kroger was selling bacon 3 pounds for a dollar.

YES . . .

I did not think about the need for national health insurance until I heard Dr. DeBakey, world famous heart specialist, discussing the horror of deciding which of his patients would live or die according to their insurance coverage.

Until four years ago, when the government stepped in, kidney dialysis patients were left to die when their insurance or finances ran out.

The state of health care and, indeed, of the medical profession is the American tragedy of 1976. The Hippocratic Oath might better be called the oath of hypocrites as witnessed by bold print signs in many doctors' offices: "Payment at time of service."

Upon seeing that sign I do not return convinced that the doctor's high standard of living (ever see a starving doctor?) is less important than his patients' immediate health needs.

Our sick health drama is brought to you through the conscious efforts of the most powerful lobby in Washington, the American Medical Association. The fat-cats of this organization have viciously fought every attempt to offer a national health insurance plan with adequate care for all citizens.

Many years of school and training (a luxury, not a right) do not give anyone the right to exploit the people in this country who make their education possible.

After national health insurance let's get national legal information insurance. Attorneys are the second biggest rip-off, refusing every attempt to provide adequate legal services for all citizens.

Speaking for Myself

National health care?

NO . . .

"There's no such thing as a free meal" . . . someone once said! Who will pay for National Health Insurance (NHI) when it comes? The answer will be, "you and me and all the rest of us."

The reason we don't already have NHI is the huge cost projected and concern over our experience with Medicare and its administration. Today, most persons have some type of coverage through private insurance along with Medicare and Medicaid.

The mere shifting of the cost presently in the private sector to that which would be entirely paid for by the government, will not eliminate or reduce the costs.

The public should be highly concerned about total government health care because of the experience in Great Britain.

Problems under that system have been found to be (1) under-investment in medical care, (2) crushing over-supply of rules, regulations, paper, and red tape, (3) a stifling, irritating, arbitrary, and impossible bureaucratic management, (4) a reduction in the productivity of physicians and personnel, and (5) health care system and administrative costs that exceed those that you would have if the present pluralistic and variable financing of health care was retained.

If the government becomes totally involved, I predict we will have one-half the productivity at double the cost!

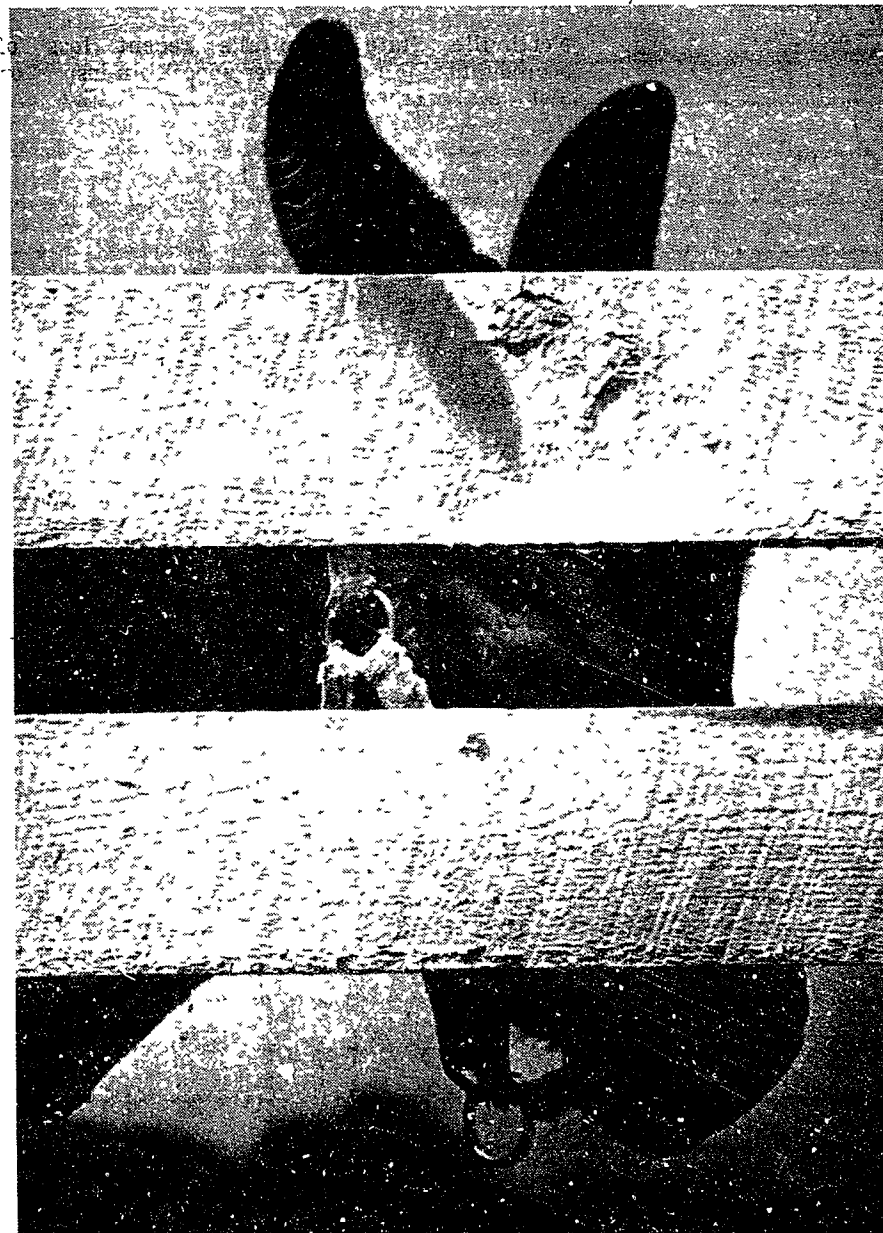

To afford NHI, this country must redetermine its priorities between health, defense, education, or welfare as well as all the other demands.

If we do eventually have a total government organized, operated, and financed system of health care, I predict the "cost of care" will be more painful than the disease!

He likes The Record

To the Editor:

The Record is certainly gifted in scribes with uncommon talent for gleaning and expressing the substance of a topic.

It is satisfying reward to read the unstuffed editorials so clearly and fairly given by Bill Sliger, on the issues that are ever of vital interest to townfolk.

I await each week for Jack Hoffman's homespun articles, which search and find the backgrounds of his community. He grasps the picture and puts it in words of true color, with the brush of his pen.

Pat Bernardo did a fine piece on a subject of absorbing interest to us, Ted Strasser. She caught his aura, which surely glows with the kind of feeling that can best be heard, unless one is blessed with Pat's writing sensitivity.

Jean Day's "Our Home Town" keeps me interested in her scoops about everybody, and sometimes of someone I used to know!

Those "Jet Trails" Cliff Hill talks about makes me wish I could try them all.

I like Northville's "Record". Always have. Besides, Northville is my home town.

Charles E. Hutton

Floridian Ken Adair sat in his plush air-conditioned car in the shadow of the 135-foot high Lake Pointe water tower while his 37-year-old son, Mike, sweated over a shovel.

"They don't mean a thing, not a thing," laughed Ken, pointing to the guy wires that appeared to be keeping the tower from toppling during its 570-foot upright move from near Schoolcraft to near Wilcox Road in Plymouth Township. "They're only there to give the people a feeling of safety," he confided, "and to satisfy our insurance company."

You've seen the Lake Pointe sphere in your travels between here and Livonia. It's the same kind of graceful giant that reaches skyward next to Northville High School.

The Lake Pointe tower was moved last week to make way for the new M-14 expressway that will zip west from I-96-275 running along Haggerty. The tower move was the first of its kind ever accomplished in the United States.

But moving big objects is nothing new for the Adairs, whose Florida-based family has been doing this kind of thing for 96 years.

They've moved everything imaginable in that time, from six-story buildings, two whole towns, and the Texas Tech football stadium to a 1,500-foot-long bridge over the Savannah River and a World War II German submarine.

"Don't just say it was a sub," the senior Adair told me as my pencil worked its way across the paper. "Give it some color. Say, 'it was the first vessel captured on the high seas since the War of 1812, and it's a naval monument now in the Chicago museum'. Now that's got a real ring to it."

His son, who had leaned his dripping face into the cool of the car to complain about the bulldozer operator who had just buried the Adairs' tools, also was pregnant with advice:

"Got a camera, eh? How about climbing up on the tower and shooting some pictures from there. Great view. Aw, come on, you can do it."

Having flirted with disaster up on top of Northville's tower a dozen years ago, I respectfully declined, and instead I asked, "How much you charging to move it?"

"Now what kind of question is that. Haven't you got any respect? Would you tell me if you were doing the work? ...Well, I'm not telling you," said Ken, inviting another question.

So I went back to the guy wires. "If they're only

Novi under fire for Taft Road work

To the Editor:

As an irate homeowner on Taft Road I feel that I must speak out against the City of Novi and make other residents aware of the way in which our city is manipulated by a few select members.

After much deliberation and inconvenience we lost our right to have a rural atmosphere, for which we pay dearly. We were forced into a road we don't want, can't afford and voted against. Today these men won their battle by sending in men and machinery to destroy a once rural and peaceful road. They assured us that Taft Road would become unchanged except for the addition of a black-topped surface. However, true to their character, they ripped us off again. Taft Road is now a barren wasteland. The road I once was proud to have leading to my home now turns my stomach to drive down. Oh yes, this wonderful change was to increase the value of our property. Wrong again, it will decrease it by thousands of dollars. Again, a promise unfulfilled.

Is this what democracy is all about, the right to vote by the people and for the people? Our fate was decided by a handful of men who are working for another stripe on their shoulder — not for the individual homeowner.

Let this letter serve as a warning to Novi residents so that you will be aware of how things are done in this community. Beware of small changes and zoning, for tomorrow you may be living on a major highway with an industrial park for a neighbor. This city has no real future planning. It is growing sporadically in all directions. If we continue to be manipulated by a few you will be the losers.

Softball story

'facts' disputed

To the Editor:

As I read your article, "Co-ed Softball League Attracts Friends, Lovers," which appeared in your July 21, 1976 edition, I was very disgusted with your so-called facts. There were several discrepancies in the story.

Your article stated that the co-ed league was the brain child of Chuck and Marjorie Froberger. The true story behind the beginning of the league goes like this:

As bowling season in Northville was nearing its close, Deborah Davis, coach of Northville High's Gymnastic Team and Pamela Soncrant decided that softball should be shared with the guys. These two women approached four different city recreation departments seeking to start such a league. They were turned down by Plymouth, Livonia, and Farmington, all of which said that it was a good idea but it was not feasible this year.

People are not ready for co-ed sports as such. When the women approached Chuck at the Northville Recreation Department, he was very skeptical of the idea. Chuck felt that the interest may not be enough to constitute a league. Chuck was finally persuaded to give it a try, providing that there were four teams. Two of the teams were formed and organized by Debbie and Pam.

It was also stated in your article that Froberger couldn't play without his wife as this was part of the league's uniqueness. This is incorrect. The team that I play on, the Goat Farm, has only two married couples, the rest are just friends that are out there to have a good time together. I also know K & G Electric has as many singles playing as they do married couples.

I should also add that while Pam did The Record a favor by taking photographs to accompany your article, no credit whatsoever was given to her. As far as the photograph was concerned, you used the worst one taken, it was a posed shot instead of a true action shot.

Thank you for taking the time to read this letter. I don't mean it as a criticism of Steve, his reporting ability, or your newspaper, but its important to me that I clarify the facts. Debbie and Pam have also brought it to Chuck's attention that co-ed volleyball is wanted for this fall.

Sincerely,
James E. Slater

News From Lansing

By R. Robert Geake
State Representative

Northville State Hospital will be both the site and the subject of a public hearing this Friday, August 6. The House Mental Health Committee, on which I serve, appointed a special subcommittee earlier this year to visit each of the state mental institutions where problems have been reported for firsthand inspection and investigation.

The hearing, which is open to the public, will center on reports alleging unsafe conditions, understaffing, and mismanagement of staff. At my request, considerable attention will also be given to the continuing high escape rate at the hospital.

Another concern of the subcommittee is Northville State Hospital's recent loss of accreditation, presently under appeal. An inspection team sent earlier found significant staffing and physical plant deficiencies in spite of the fact that Northville State Hospital is the state's most recently constructed major facility for treatment of the mentally ill.

Allegations of unsatisfactory conditions in state mental health facilities have prompted a series of unannounced visits by Governor Milliken and, independently, by Speaker of the House Bobby Crim. The House Mental Health subcommittee operates differently by announcing its visits in advance in order to give hospital officials as well as members of the general public a full opportunity to present their cases.

I believe that the two methods of investigation complement each other and that both are necessary. Some conditions are most easily discovered in surprise, unannounced visits. Others come to light only through the testimony and cross questioning of witnesses who are familiar with the day to day operations of the hospital.

The subcommittee members will tour the hospital and grounds Friday morning. The hearing, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. in the Administration Building auditorium, will be open to all.

window dressing what's keeping it from crashing down on top of us?"

"Luck," said Ken.

"Naw, dad, counterbalance," interjected Mike as his father tenderly wiped the sweat from his son's brow with The Plymouth Mail. "We've moved the center of gravity from up near the base of the sphere down the stem to about there," the civil engineer graduate said, pointing to a place about one-third way up the stem.

What the Adairs did was simply poke giant steel beams through the base of the tower in criss-cross fashion and then welded them to the base. These beams together with the other steel rigging put a heck of a lot of weight near the base, thus lowering the center of gravity.

It's like sticking a pencil into a heavy eraser. The pencil will stand upright if the eraser rests on the table, but chances are it will topple over if you try balancing the pencil with the eraser on the top.

Welded to the rigging, called "grilling," the whole works was raised three feet off the ground. Railroad ties were laid along the path from the site where the tower originally stood to the site where the tower now stands. The grilling rested on 24-pound steel bars which in turn rolled along the tracks. It was pulled by a Ford tractor and a 30,000 pound capacity winch and three-part line.

"The real trick" was to get the tower directly over its new concrete base so that the holes in the bottom of the tower lined up perfectly with the 20 bolts set in the concrete base. The tower, moving along the tracks, cleared the bolts by only three inches.

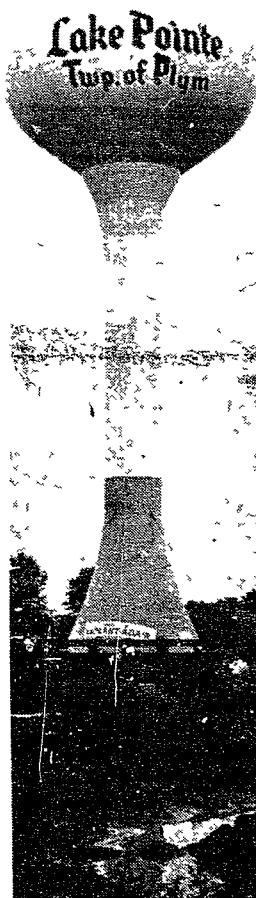

"Sure, balance is important, but so is this," said Ken holding up two crossed fingers. "We can move anything so long as we've got the proper tools and equipment...and equipment also means the stuff between your ears."

The interview finished and the mud on my shoes sufficiently wiped off on the carpeting of his car, I started to leave.

"Thanks," said Ken, holding out his hand. "You ask good questions; I like you."

Pausing, I tossed him one more: "What's your age, Ken?"

"None of your damn business, goodbye."

Moved

This giant tower, similar to the one that stands in Northville, was moved last week in Plymouth Township to make way for the new M-14 freeway. The move was a spectacular one, with the structure being raised and then placed on specially built railroad tracks. See Jack Hoffman's column that starts on 6-A.

New signs outline historical district

Ann Roy of Bruce Roy Realty, Incorporated, feels that the historic district has special prestige only for local people who know what it means.

"Local people who live elsewhere in this area who are buying feel it gives added prestige," she says, "but outsiders just want the best they can get for the money no matter where it is located."

Stan Johnson of Northville Realty said his firm hadn't noticed any impact whatsoever yet on home buying and selling in the district.

Still, the signs have just gone up and the awareness is recent, it is pointed out.

When the Northville Historic District Commission sought the historic district designation, it wrote in its application:

"The buildings we are trying to protect in the proposed historic district are largely of the Victorian period, not great architecturally but 'carpenter gothic' typical of that time.

"Others are much later but represent changes in taste common throughout the United States. However, since they all mark steps in the history of Northville, a typical country town, we hope they can be preserved."

By terms of the Northville Historic District Ordinance of 1974, at boundary lines both sides of a street are included, as, homes on the west side of Rogers Street along the western boundary.

The ordinance provided for the establishment of a seven-member Northville Historic District Commission to be appointed by the council and to include the mayor, councilman, planning commission members, three representatives of the historical society and an architect if available.

The commission reviews changes planned for all residential and commercially owned property within the district. It may pass upon only exterior changes planned. It covers construction, repair, alteration, demolition and moving.

Chairman is Paul Vernon who represents the Northville Council. Others are Mayor A. M. Allen, Francis Gazlay, Elizabeth Chapman, Richard Bohn, Jack Hoffman, and Burkman. Donald DiComo, an architect, is an ex-officio member.

Refrigeration pan filled with crud

At least one area housewife was appalled recently when she discovered the removable drip pan of her refrigerator was "filled with crud."

After reading a warning that drip pans breed a dangerous type of bacteria responsible for an allergy infection which "could lead to deadly emphysema," Mrs. Nettie Leavenworth of Northville began checking with neighbors.

She reported last week that others besides herself were unaware of the pan and its need for cleaning.

An article quoting Dr. Benjamin Becker, professor of biological sciences at Indiana-Purdue University at Fort Wayne, Indiana, advises monthly scrubbing of the pan with some form of detergent or disinfectant.

He called the drip pans in most modern, self-defrosting refrigerators a "horrendous risk."

The bacteria they breed, he stated, can cause infection leading to emphysema, a disease that causes shortness of breath and weight loss.

This heat-loving bacteria, he said, thrives in moist and dusty drip pans as the refrigerator coil just above a pan gives out heat over 100 degrees F.

He estimated that at least 50 percent of the people with refrigerators are not aware of drip trays.

Storm sewer drain

A steam shovel digs a trench along Novi Road Monday for a storm drain designed specifically to handle runoff from parcels on the west side of Novi Road across from the Twelve Oaks Mall. The drain will run into a retention area on the Twelve Oaks Mall property and eventually will find its way into the Patnales Drain system, according to City Manager Edward Kriewall. Road runoff in the area will also be handled by the new drain.

News Briefs

CIVITAN Club of Northville has been granted city permission to sell apples on Main Street in October. Voting against the measure was Councilman Wallace Nichols, who, as in the past, has objected to the numbers and frequency of organizations dunning citizens for money.

NEGOTIATIONS to purchase a lot adjacent to the block of city-owned wooded open space bounded by Hill and Maplewood streets, has been authorized by the Northville City Council.

It's blueberry time on Michigan's farms

Blueberry pancakes or blueberry pie — visitors to Michigan's 82 "pick-your-own" blueberry farms should find plenty of the luscious fruit to satisfy their wildest cravings, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

At least one of the "you-pick" blueberry farms — Dowd Orchards near Hartford — is a centennial farm established in 1844. Some farms give tours of their mechanical harvesting and automated packing systems. Others have farm animals for the youngsters to ooh and aah over.

Michigan's blueberry season runs from the second week of July to mid-September. The fruit is sold by the pound with the price set by prevailing market conditions. Last year, the average price for "you-pick" blueberries was 35 cents a pound.

Most farms provide picking pails but you are expected to bring your own container to carry the fruit home.

The "you-pick" blueberry farms listed by Auto Club range in size from one to 185 acres.

Area youths grab 3rd at metro track meet

Northville's Parks and Recreation track team captured third place at the Metropolitan Youth Fitness meet held last Thursday on the campus of Wayne State University.

Last year's team, coached by high school track coaches Ralph Redmond and Ed Gabrys finished fifth.

"We're extremely happy with the results," beamed Redmond who noted that over 2,500 youngsters, age 10 to 14, representing 61 cities in the state participated in the one-day track meet sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Northville's highest finishers were 12-year-old Leslie Nadeau, who took first place in the long jump with a leap of 28 feet, three inches; and Leslie Dilts, 13, finished second in the 50-yard dash with a time of 6.5 seconds.

"Leslie Nadeau's victory was really exciting," Redmond related. "She fouled on her jump and then leaped 27 feet, 10 inches on her second one to move into second place.

"She won the event on the third jump," Redmond said. Northville did extremely well in the shuttle relays.

Three teams were entered in each of the three classes, and each team made it to the finals, Redmond said.

"Our 14- and 15-year-old relay team had a five-yard lead in the finals but one of the kids slipped on the wet grass," Redmond said.

He said the field was extremely wet because of heavy rains the night before the events.

Redmond took 42 youngsters to Wayne State for the track meet.

The team from Roseville was awarded the Constandine Award, presented to the team that not only does the best on the field but who displays good sportsmanship.

Redmond and Gabrys have been running a series of weekly track meets at the high school over the summer. The meets end tonight, Wednesday, with an octathlon.

Two teens seeing America by seats of their pants

By STEVE RAPHAEL

On the morning of June 14, David Gulassa and Andy Carl left their bicycles just outside of a public beach in Oakland, California, dashed across the sand, symbolically stuck their hands into the Pacific Ocean, raced back across the beach and hopped on their bikes and took off.

They literally haven't been off their bikes since, as the youthful adventurers continue to see America by the seat of their pants.

Within two weeks, the boys will reach Boston, jump into the Atlantic Ocean and symbolically end their two-month long bike trip to see America.

The boys, 16 and high school students, have completed nearly two-thirds of their 4,500 mile odyssey across the states.

But, for a couple of days, the pair were content to stay with David's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Stockhausen of Northville, and take advantage of some home cooking and a comfortable place to sleep.

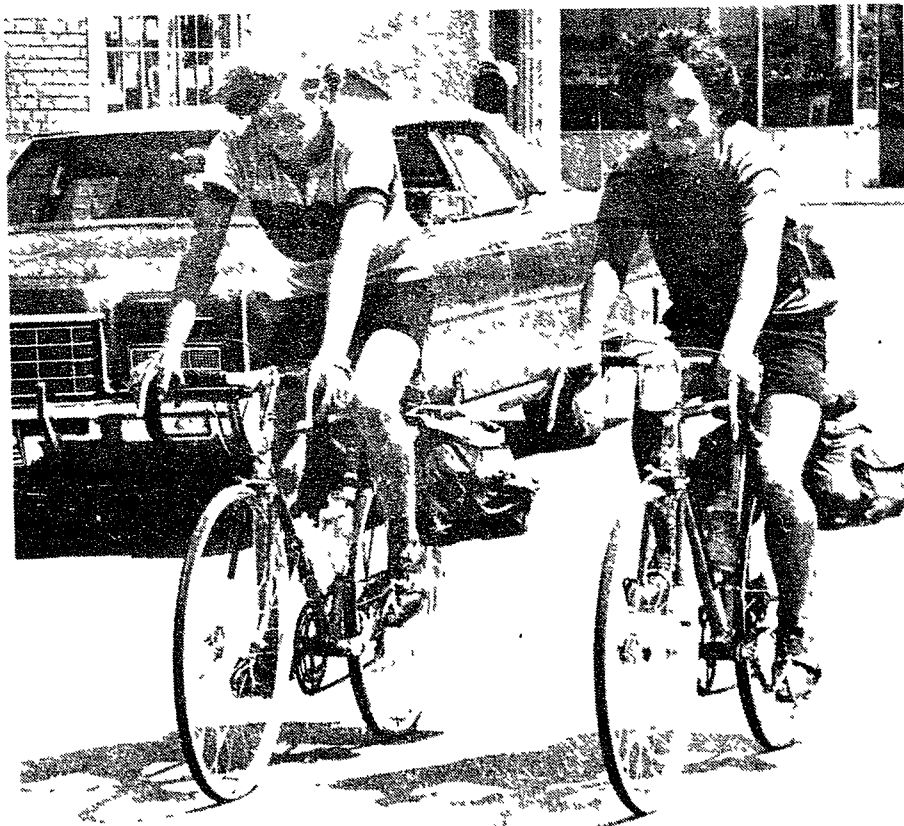

"We did let a few mosquitoes into the house to make us feel at home," joked Andy, the tall, thin blonde part of the twosome.

The boys were more than eager to share their growing number of experiences which began almost the minute they left Oakland with parental encouragement and a letter of support, the latter for a policeman who might doubt the boys' motives.

Home for the boys the past five weeks has been the open road, with its adventures, both good and bad.

"One night we slept on the side of the road," recalled David, who is thin, muscular, dark and a bit shorter and more serious than Andy.

"When we woke up the next morning we saw an empty whiskey bottle lying near us. I guess a wino spent the night with us."

Since that experience the boys have been staying at campsites or on the property of friendly natives.

There were some dangers the duo couldn't do a thing about.

Like the huge tanker trucks that got a kick running the boys off the road.

"We've become expert driving on gravel," sighed David.

Or the impatient motorists who honk and honk and honk.

Then there's the weather. "You haven't lived until you've ridden your bike in a thunderstorm with bolts of lightning crashing around you," David said.

In some cases, the boys can guard against the elements. They have special ponchos they wear when it rains, and they wear bike cleats that lock their feet into the pedals.

"It allows us to save energy while preserving strength," said Andy.

And the boys wear special pants to guard their posteriors. The pants are worn.

But the pair said they wanted to see America, be on their own and have some adventure, and adventure they got.

The bikes, David's 10-speed Chiorda and Andy's 10-speed Legnano, have caused some scary moments.

While in the desert in Washington state, the axle on David's bike broke. The boys were 200 miles from the nearest town and the tool used to fix the axle broke.

David, who, like Andy, is a carpenter and skilled with his hands, improvised and fixed the bike. And the boys pedaled nervously through the desert until they reached a bike shop to have the axle fixed completely.

Andy suffered a near fatal disaster when the zippers on his knapsacks broke.

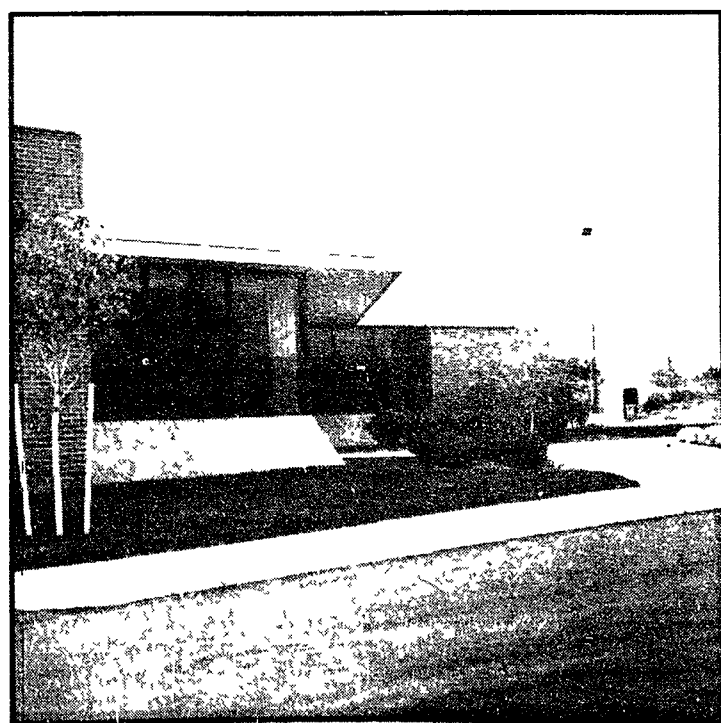

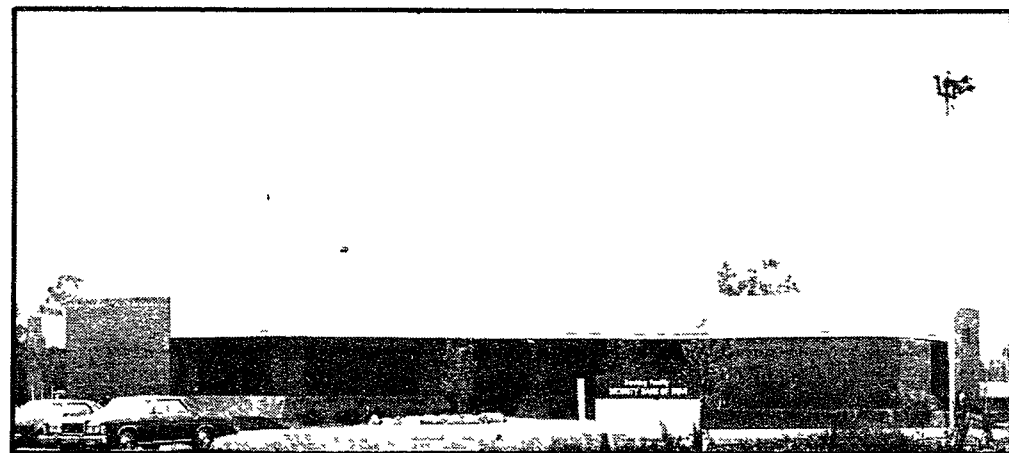

The boys are carrying 16 pounds each of food, clothing, tools, books, maps, camping equipment and even a small stove in the knapsacks. So when the zipper broke the boys could see their gear — and their trip — slipping away.

But, again they improvised and the gear was saved.

The summer doldrums were setting in so 10-year-old Michael Kaczocha had a neat idea, Olympic Games right in his own backyard. So Mike invited two other boys and three girls, ages 8 to 12, to his home on Winchester Drive last Saturday for a multi-event Olympics which included standing and running long jump, high jump, running, shot-put and javelin. It was boys vs. girls and the contest ended in a tie. Mike, who got the idea from watching the real thing on television, said his junior Olympics, "was nothing real fancy." Here, he's shown high jumping.

Fisher's ends Action's unbeaten string, 15-12, in Novi play

Fisher's Sporting Goods shattered Action's dream of an unbeaten season Monday night with an exciting 15-12 victory over the American League East front runners. Second place Fisher's had lost twice before to Action this year, 16-5 and 19-6.

Some of the players on Action played for Fisher's last year, intensifying this year's rivalry.

Fisher's got three three-run home runs from Phil McMillan, Bob Pisha and Tim Fisher. Rich Ely rapped out four hits and had four RBI's for the winners.

Fisher's was playing without three starters, two of whom were injured and a third who moved out of state.

The team's 50-year-old manager, Mick McMillan, was forced to catch the first inning while Fisher's waited for a tenth man to show up.

Both teams scored a run in the first inning, and the game then saw-sawed until the fifth when Fisher's scored four times.

The second place team then added six more runs in the next inning to salt the victory.

"We finally played up to our potential," beamed team captain Rich Ely.

There are three more games left in regular season play before the playoffs start next week.

Casterline fell out of second place in the National League last week after they were surprised by also-ran Eagles, 9-8. The upstarts scored three times in the last half of the seventh inning to win the game.

Casterline scored six runs in the very first inning but couldn't hang on for the victory. Rod Runke hit an inside-the-park home run for the winners.

Otherwise, the front runners continued to roll in slo-pitch play.

American League leader Old Timers had to overcome an inside-the-park home run by Winner's Circle's Steve Utley. The victors scored the winning tally in their last at-bats for the 5-4 triumph.

Village Blues remained half a game off Old Timers' pace, with a 23-5 clubbing of Ross Northrop-Northville Drugs. Village Blues rode the home run hitting of Doug Crisan. Jeff Moon, Jim O'Brien and John Boland to the win. Moon added three RBIs.

National League leading Rizzo-Belanger easily won twice last week, chewing up Little Caesars, 17-9. Gary Lisowski had a round-tripper for the winners while Bob Martin had an inside-the-park home run for the losers.

Rizzo-Belanger earlier pounded Joe's Party Pantry, 15-2. Gary and Mark Lisowski had three safeties apiece for the victors.

In other games, Jim Fendeleit's three-run home run paced Hamlet to a 12-3 romp over Presbyterian. Bubba Daniels added a two-run shot for Hamlet.

C.D.S. had an easy time with Hamlet, 15-2, thanks to a four-bagger by Tim Kammer. Jim Fendeleit hit his second home run of the week.

SENIOR DIVISION—Novi Police grabbed the championship in the Girls' Senior Division softball league.

Police entered the final week of action last week in second place, one game behind first place Jamaican Pools but just percentage points ahead of third place Typewriter Shop.

But any hopes Jamaican Pools had of a league title were dashed by upstart Typewriter Shop who pounded the then front-runners, 15-7.

The upset victory set the stage for a showdown between Police and Typewriter. Police got four runs in the top half of the first inning. Typewriter Shop added two in their half of the first and two more in the sixth. But in the top of the seventh Tracy Grubb, who already had two RBI's, scored the winning run for Police. They held on to win, 5-4.

An all-star team was then picked to play against the girls' mothers and coaches. The girls won, 9-5.

WOMEN'S DIVISION—League play ended with position night, games played to break ties in the regular season standings, or just for fun.

In the major game, Pat Wellings' four hits led Michigan National Bank to 11-5 win over Fisher's Sporting Goods.

Lorraine Tool & Die players switched positions, had a good time—and lost to Rexall Drugs, 18-8.

Holdsworth blanks Tigers for victory

It was a satisfying weekend for Fred Holdsworth of the Baltimore Orioles.

The class valedictorian and star pitcher for Northville High School in 1970 pitched three, and two-thirds innings of shutout ball Saturday and Sunday against the Detroit Tigers, the team that uncereimoniously traded him a year ago.

"Beautiful. I wouldn't call it revenge, I'd just call it deeply satisfying," said the hurler's father, Fred A. Holdsworth by phone.

"We talked to Fred by phone Saturday night and he was real happy. I'm sure he felt just as good Sunday," Holdsworth added.

On Sunday, Holdsworth pitched to just one batter, Alex Johnson, in the top of the ninth and got the Tiger outfielder to bounce into a force play with the bases loaded to end the inning.

The Orioles scored a run in the bottom of the ninth to hand Holdsworth his second victory since being called up from the Rochester farm club on July 2.

Holdsworth was even better Saturday night, hurling three and one-third innings, allowing one hit, no runs, striking out three and walking none.

Baltimore trailed the Tigers when Holdsworth entered the game, but the Birds couldn't touch Tiger reliever John Hiller, who took the win.

Hiller was the loser on Sunday, however.

So far, Holdsworth has pitched 12 and two-thirds innings, giving up one earned run for an earned run average of 0.71. He's allowed just three hits. All his appearances have been in relief.

"Fred would like to beat all teams, but I think he has something to prove and he's proving it right now," added his proud father.

Young Holdsworth was a spring phenomenon in 1972 for the Tigers but in his brief appearances was hit pretty hard.

The Tigers traded Holdsworth to the Orioles in May, 1975 for a much-heralded but never-used relief pitcher.

Holdsworth, a starting pitcher for most of his career, is now pitching relief for the Orioles.

"Fred likes relief," his father said, "but Baltimore has a tendency to start their pitchers in the bullpen and gradually move them into the starting rotation."

Novi's second annual Invitational Slo-Pitch Tournament for girls age 14 to 16 will start Friday evening at Novi High School baseball diamond.

The three-day, double elimination event will draw all-star teams representing leagues from six communities in addition to Novi.

Swimming at early age: Stephanie Bach teaching 2 Northville toddlers how to swim

Swim club takes 4th in state meet

The Bulldog Aquatic Club (BAC) finished fourth overall in the Michigan State Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) swimming championships held in Southfield last weekend.

BAC's 11-12-year-old age group boys captured first place in their division. There are four other age groups, 8-and-under, 9-10, 13-14, and 15-18.

The meet marked the end of the 13-year BAC coaching career of Keith Wright, founder and head coach of the swim club. Wright is retiring from the hectic grind of coaching.

Wright's teams have been ranked nationally in the top 10 for the past 10 years. In 1969 Wright, who has coached over 1,500 swimmers, was named AAU age-group coach of the year. He'll be succeeded by Marie Santo.

Northville youngsters were busy writing their own success stories.

Susan Cahill, 14, swimming unattached, set a state record in the 200-meter fly at 2:29.8. She also finished second in the 100-meter fly, third in the 400-meter individual medley (IM), fourth in the 200-meter IM, fourth in the 200-meter backstroke, sixth in the 200-meter breaststroke, and seventh in the 100-meter backstroke.

David Malinowski, 11, of BAC, captured the 200-meter freestyle relay, was runner-up in the 200-meter medley relay, third in the 50- and 100-meter backstroke, took a pair of fourths in the 50-meter freestyle and 200-meter IM, wound up fifth in the 200-meter freestyle, and seventh in the 100-meter freestyle.

Other BAC swimmers fared well too. David McDonald, 13, took a third in the 400-meter medley relay and a fourth in the 400-meter freestyle relay. Kathy White, 11, grabbed a fourth place in the 200-meter medley relay.

Duane Sherry, 12, swimming for the Clarenceville Swim Club, took a third place in the 200-meter freestyle relay and a fifth in the 200-meter medley relay.

Allyson Farquhar, 13, who set the state 100-meter breaststroke record in Toledo two weeks ago, finished third in that event last weekend and fifth in the 200-meter breaststroke. She swims for the Livonia Spartans Swim Club.

Ms. Bach, who is majoring in child development and early elementary education at MSU, undertook an exhaustive research project for a class.

Michigan State and other organizations in the East Lansing area have water baby programs, so the soft brown-eyed Ms. Bach interviewed the parents of children in those programs.

Casterline are water babies, youngsters taking swimming lessons at an early age, too early some say. Others, like Stephanie Bach, say no.

The 21-year-old Northville native and senior at Michigan State University is earning money for school this summer by teaching the two babies how to swim.

"There was a controversy over whether or not children should be swimming at an early age," says Ms. Bach who has a hairdo similar to that of ice skater Dorothy Hamill.

"So I decided to find out what factors enter into a family's decision to let their babies swim."

Ms. Bach, who is majoring in child development and early elementary education at MSU, undertook an exhaustive research project for a class.

Michigan State and other organizations in the East Lansing area have water baby programs, so the soft brown-eyed Ms. Bach interviewed the parents of children in those programs.

And through her readings, she also learned that the Council for National Cooperation in Aquatics, which includes the Red Cross and Boy Scouts, recommended in 1972 that a child begin swimming no earlier than age three.

That policy is under review now, says Ms. Bach, who wasn't convinced by the 1972 report.

"I read a couple of books this spring on water babies and I'm convinced that under certain circumstances you can teach a small child to swim."

"A family has to have direct access to facilities," she enumerates.

The Casterline children use the pool of next-door neighbor John Swallow.

"My philosophy," Ms. Bach continues, "is that you have to teach the baby to be comfortable in the water. Babies don't have a natural fear of water. It's a natural, relaxing feeling for them. It's like taking a bath."

Ms. Bach, who says she has lots of things to do before marriage and motherhood, has developed an outstanding rapport with the Casterline children. "She's just a terrific person, and the kids love her," says Roxanne Casterline enthusiastically. Often, she joins the trio in the pool.

"I was really fearful at first living next door to a pool but the kids have made terrific progress."

Kelly is able to dog paddle four feet while Courtney dog paddles six feet.

"All you really have to do is be there with a smile," says Ms. Bach of her success, "and the kids have to trust you."

"It's really a slow process but in the end it's ideal for the parents because they don't have to worry when their children are around water."

Ms. Bach doesn't teach the kids alone. She often calls on the help of a couple of familiar friends, Big Bird and the Cookie Monster from Sesame Street.

"The kids just love those two," she says displaying her talents with the hand puppets.

Ms. Bach's ability to teach swimming to youngsters goes back over six years when she began teaching children at the Northville Swim Club.

She has senior life saving and water safety instruction certificates from the Red Cross and is able to teach swimming to virtually anyone.

In addition to giving swimming lessons, Ms. Bach is director of arts and crafts for the Novi Recreation Department.

journey.

"I started writing every state in the union for road maps in April," Andy said. In addition, he bought wind charts and he and David read books about cross-country biking.

"What we found, though," added David, "was that you really don't have to plan that much."

"We followed roads that aren't on the map and asked people for directions."

The trip itself started in Oakland and included a 30-mile jaunt on a California freeway. Then it was up the coast to Washington where the axle broke in the desert, and then on through the Dakotas.

"We were really surprised at how nice North Dakota was," David recalled. "It had gentle hills, a lot of trees and was real green."

The boys biked through and over the Rockies, a feat they said wasn't all that hard, although both suffered illnesses because of it and were forced to rest a couple of days.

Then it was on to Minnesota and then over to Wisconsin.

The boys visited small towns only. "Sometimes the only things in the town were the funeral home and TV repair shop," Andy quipped.

Throughout the journey, David and Andy stopped off to visit places of interest, like a giant TV tower, or read books like "Harpo Speaks," swim and talk. Especially talk.

The pair started out with $700, pedaling 65 miles a day. They said they're way ahead of themselves financially, opting to make their own meals, and have upped their traveling time to 100 miles per day.

Although, as Andy said, "we have three weeks of travel and one week of energy left."

The adventurers decided to conserve some energy by taking a ferry from a small town in Wisconsin across Lake Michigan to Ludington, Michigan. "We pretended the lake was the Atlantic and now we're in Europe," laughed David.

There they sprinted across the state taking Highway 10 to a gravel road to Baldwin, then Highway 37 to Newaygo.

Then they cut across on Highway 46 eastbound to Howard City to Stanton, due east to Chessmaning. They pedaled north above Ann Arbor through Howell to Lakeland and hit Highway 36 before hitting Eight Mile to Northville.

They left last Saturday, taking Ontario to upstate New York to Massachusetts where the boys said they'll sprint 125 miles a day to the Atlantic Ocean.

"When we get there we're going to jump in and start screaming," David said.

After the bath, Andy will hop on a jet and fly home.

David will hop on his bike and ride back to central Massachusetts where he'll join his family who are renting a farm there for a year, while David's English professor father enjoys a sabbatical.

Andy noted, a bit disbelievingly, that he'll be back in Oakland before David gets to the farm.

It'll be quite an ending for Andy, who's never been east of Nevada, and David, who's never made it past Pennsylvania, but a worthwhile and rewarding one.

"I've never done anything on my own before and I may never have the chance again," reasoned David.

Were the boys as impressed and awed by the adventure as much as the listener?

"People we met were impressed and amazed with what we're doing," said Andy, who quickly added, "so are we."

Northville Council ok's new library proposal

Proposed plans for a new library near the city hall have been approved by the Northville City Council.

Approval came Monday night, along with a decision to allocate $2,000 for the city's share of design development costs.

Similar approval is expected to be taken later this month by the Northville Township Board.

Meanwhile, the school board is weighing the pros and cons of the library proposal since it involves school-owned property southeast of the school administrative offices. City council action was four-fold:

- Approval of the library site on Cady street, adjacent to the west side of the public park at Wing and Cady, as the most feasible site for a new public library involving a federal public works grant.

- Direction to the library commission to request the school board, on behalf of the city and township, to agree to lease or transfer the portion of school property and interest in parking spaces needed for the new library.

- Approval of the preliminary design concept as an acceptable basis for making a federal grant application.

- Direction to the library commission to process "an application from the city and township to the federal government for public works funds to build the library."

Cost of the new facility has been estimated at between $500,000 and $600,000. Officials here are hopeful that the building can be completely financed with federal funds made available in a newly approved public works law.

The library is jointly operated by the city and the township, hence approval is required from both governing bodies and the application for federal funds is to be jointly submitted.

It appears that some concern is being raised about the exterior construction of the building. Some library commissioners reportedly are not entirely satisfied with the exterior appearance, and Councilman Paul Folino commented Monday that he hopes the final plans will call for more use of brick.

As currently envisioned by the architect, the lower portion of the two-story building would be of brick construction while the upper level would be of aluminum siding.

"My first impression when looking at the plans was that it was a beautiful looking building," said Folino. "But the more I look at it the more I think some exterior change is necessary."

Other council members predicted that final drawings will show more refinement, and they added that they expect to have some input into the final drawings.

What is black with yellow spots?

What's black with yellow spots on its back, shiny and a fourth-inch long?

If it's in your garden, it's probably the sap beetle.

According to Michigan State University entomologists, the sap beetle or picnic beetle is attracted to overripe or rotting fruits and vegetables. There are no chemical insecticides labeled for use against it. To control it, control the insects that damage crops and remove all damaged or overripe plant materials.

Two bikers hurt on 8 Mile Road

In less than two hours Saturday afternoon two Northville youngsters were injured in separate bicycle-car mishaps on Eight Mile Road.

Eleven-year-old Lisa Weathered suffered a slight concussion, bruises to her back and a sprained right ankle when the bicycle she was riding was struck by a car just west of Lexington Boulevard.

Witnesses to the accident said the young girl was riding west on Eight Mile Road, changed lanes and swerved into the car. She was taken to St. Mary Hospital for treatment of her injuries and was released a short time later.

Diane Hinman was struck as she crossed at the intersection of Eight Mile Road and Novi Street as the traffic light was changing.

The 12-year-old girl could not be seen by the westbound motorist on Eight Mile as Diane entered traffic from behind a parked van, witnesses said.

Shaken up and somewhat bruised, Diane was taken to St. Mary Hospital for observation and treatment of her injuries.

Thieves hit area homes, autos

In Township

An apartment in the Innsbrook complex apparently was broken into Wednesday night with $150 in rolled coins reported missing. Entry to the apartment was made through the bedroom window.

Since similar incidents have occurred in the same area in the past Northville Township Police theorize juveniles are involved.

Two men are playing golf without their favorite clubs this week. In two separate incidents, thieves made off with two full sets of clubs taken from locked vehicles.

The first incident occurred Wednesday night between 9:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. in a parking lot at Northville Charley's.

When the owner returned to his car he found the clothes hanger used to pry open the door lock still in the window. Missing was a set of MacGregor Tournament clubs, the golf bag and accessories valued at $400.

The second theft took place at the Dun Rovin Golf Course Friday night. The owner told police he had locked his set of Spaulding Tournament clubs and bag in the trunk of his car. Value was placed at $375.

A FM tape deck and approximately 20 tapes valued at $225 were reportedly taken from a car parked on Longwood Court. The incident occurred sometime between 2 a.m. and noon July 27.

A radial tire and wheel were taken from a car parked in a Northville Forest parking lot. Police investigated the incident which took place sometime between 11 p.m. July 27 and 5 p.m. July 28. The trunk lock had been punched out to gain entry.

A 10-speed bike, valued at $175 was stolen from a garage area on Winchester while the owner was visiting a friend at the residence. The bike was thought to have been taken between 10:45 p.m. and 11:15 p.m. July 25.

A gas barbecue grill, propane tank and cart were removed from a patio at the Innsbrook Apartment complex sometime Sunday night. The owner placed at $265 value on the equipment which had been used only one time.

Michigan State Police are continuing their search for a male patient from Northville State Hospital who did not return to the facility after a leave ended July 28. Hospital officials said the patient could be considered dangerous.

A second patient also failed to return to the hospital after a leave expired July 30. The male patient could be dangerous, according to hospital authorities.

Another patient granted a leave, who failed to report back to the facility, was considered an escapee for several hours. However, that patient finally returned July 27, many hours late.

In Novi

Frank Gulacy and Kenneth Copleigh, both 16, of Birmingham, were taken to Botsford Hospital Tuesday, July 27 after their car struck a guard rail under the west-bound I-96 overpass. Gulacy was charged with improper lane usage.

Priscilla Woods, 17, of Milford received a non-incapacitating injury and was taken to Botsford Hospital Saturday, July 31. She was in a car driven by Colette Woods of Milford which was traveling on Novi Road and was struck on the side by a car driven by David Colver, 25, of Detroit. He was eastbound on 10 Mile Road and failed to stop for a blinking red light at Novi Road. Colette received a possible injury.

Robert Driskill of 47907 Hickory Lane in Wixom received a non-incapacitating injury July 24 and was taken to Botsford Hospital when he lost control of his car as he proceeded southbound on Beek Road and tipped the car over.

A glass window was broken at Jack's Meat Market, 41527 Novi Road July 29. No entry was apparently gained. The window was valued at $150.

In Northville

No signs of forced entry were found during the investigation of a breaking and entering to the Cloverdale Dairy on North Center Street by Northville City Police.

The back door to the business place was found open by two people reporting to work at 1:45 a.m. Time of the incident was set between 11:45 p.m. July 27 and 1:45 a.m. July 28.

Page 3, paragraph 4, Bellevue should be Belleville.

Page 4, second paragraph from the bottom should read: "Councilman Folino mentioned trailers being parked (illegally) 'by the Northville Laboratory'."

"The minutes stand" approved as corrected.

MINUTES OF BOARDS & COMMISSIONS: The Northville Planning Commission meeting of June 15, 1976; Northville Historical District Commission of May 25, 1976; Northville Library Advisory Commission Special Meeting of June 30, 1976 were placed on file.

POLICE REPORT: The City Manager stated the June report was complete except for the accident statistics.

Councilman Johnston asked if there were any accidents on right turns on red due to confusion.

Councilman Westfall said no.

Mayor Pro Tem Vernon asked Councilman Westfall for an explanation on the alarming increase in vandalism. He mentioned there were 8 vandalism crimes committed in June of '75 as compared to 26 in June of '76.

Councilman Westfall explained these acts included broken windows, driving over lawns, slashing tires. He also explained the same amount of vehicles were patrolling as last year.

Mayor Pro Tem Vernon mentioned the young people (vandals) obviously saw the police coming and eluded them. He asked where the police got their figures and who reported the vandalism. He was told property owners for the most part called in the reports. Councilman Westfall also stated the figures represented known cases only.

Mayor Pro Tem Vernon asked if there was any particular time of day these occurred.

Councilman Westfall stated most of these occurred after dark.

Fireman injured

A Novi fireman was injured while fighting a blaze in an unoccupied house on Grand River, east of 11 Mile, Monday. Gerald Race fell off a ladder and sprained his ankle, requiring treatment at Botsford Hospital. Firemen suspect an arsonist was responsible for the fire.

Salem celebrates

Salem Bicentennial Committee decided not to compete with surrounding communities in celebrating the nation's Bicentennial festivities until last weekend. The wait was well worth it, however, as the small community to Northville's west put on quite a show complete with air shows, parades, carnivals, tractor pulls and just about anything else you can imagine. One observer estimated the crowds at 2500. In three days, more than 1200 beef dinners were sold. Another treat was the watermelon eating contest that delighted participants and spectators alike.

Bicentennial recipes packed into books

It's no coincidence that the history of our nation and that of the food industry are intertwined, points out the Michigan Beef Industry in announcing a special Bicentennial beef cookbook. It joins a growing list of organizations who are aware that good eating is part of our heritage.

Locally, Northville Mothers' Club has a cookbook at the printer. Co-chairmen Mrs. N. C. Schrader and Mrs. Ned Lincoln expect it to be available the end of August. "Presbyterian Potluck" under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Straub is being compiled by women of Northville First Presbyterian Church and also should be out by the end of summer.

"The Bicentennial Beef Cookbook" features 100 beef dishes from America's first 200 years," announces Reba Stagg, director of home economics for the National Livestock and Meat Board.

It is pointed out that beef cattle first appeared in the American Southwest in 1540 and in the east the first cattle arrived in 1624 — only four years after the Mayflower.

"Some of the recipes in the beef cookbook originated in pioneer kitchens, some traveled to our shores with our European, Asiatic or African ancestors, but they all are uniquely American," sponsors report.

"It's an ideal way to encourage people to try new beef dishes," says the Michigan Beef Industry Commission.

Recipes included range from Beef Jerky to Beef Wellington and from Red Flannel Hash to Rib Roast with Yorkshire Pudding.

Copies can be purchased by sending a check or money order for $2 to the Michigan Beef Industry Commission, 805 Stoddard Building, Lansing, MI 48933.

Northville tables hearing on swimming ordinance

Public hearing on a new Northville city ordinance to regulate use of swimming pools and other bodies of water has been adjourned until August 16.

Mayor A. M. Allen ordered the adjournment this week, following expressions of concerns lodged by Allen Ingle, a Northville attorney.

Ingle viewed the ordinance as an intrusion upon the rights of individual property owners. He argued that if the problem the ordinance seeks to solve involves unauthorized use of pools and bodies of water the city would be better suited to consider adoption of a trespassing law.

He called the proposed ordinance illegal, predicting that a similar ordinance recently adopted by the Northville Township Board will be contested all the way to the Supreme Court.

Councilmen, while maintaining that the ordinance is legal, agreed that sufficient question about the purpose of the ordinance was raised to warrant a new study of the proposal by City Attorney Philip Ogilvie.

It appeared to councilmen, as noted by Ingle, that a person might trespass and not be in violation if he did not physically enter the water.

Triggering the proposed ordinance is a growing problem involving swimming in the gravel pit at the eastern edge of the city just east of the railroad tracks and north of the DPW yard.

Property owners have complained that people swimming in the gravel pit are creating a continual nuisance, littering property with beer cans, engaging in sexual activity, and vandalizing adjacent buildings and equipment.

The ordinance does not, however, limit itself to this gravel pit. It covers all swimming and wading pools as well, requiring that persons using such water obtain written permission from the property owners

Novi industrial group to bring in new business

In its few short months of life, the Industrial and Commercial Development Committee of Novi has been working out a plan of attack in bringing new business into the city.

According to Donald Greengood, chairman of the group, the committee has been mapping out its goals and figuring out a strategy to accomplish them.

First and most important, said Greengood, is to map out the route a potential Novi businessman must take in locating in Novi.

"When someone wants to establish in Novi, where does he go first?," asked Greengood. "Hopefully this will help a businessman avoid going in the wrong direction."

Specifically, the committee is composing a brochure mapping out the steps to be taken.

While there are many other facets of the problem the group is working on, another important one, said Greengood, is to determine what would be the best types of business and industry to locate in Novi based upon what the city has to offer.

Then, the committee will contact suitable businesses and provide them information on why they should consider locating in Novi. That information will also take the form of a brochure.

Among other goals the committee has are: 1) communicate with existing and potential business and commercial concerns regarding growth, utilities, legislation, development control and zoning; 2) recommend to city council ordinance and effect of industrial and commercial legislation; and 3) study the possibility of an industrial and commercial development commission.

The committee strategy includes plenty of advertising about Novi, creation of a short narrative film, talking with existing business to find out what problems are encountered in locating in Novi, and overall taking out the roadblocks to locating a business in Novi.

During its preliminary discussions, the group has had in as a speaker Richard Warfel of the Michigan Department of Commerce Office of Economic Expansion.

"He goes throughout the state helping business get going and helping development committees," explained Greengood.

On the Novi committee are Councilman Martha Hoyer, Finance Director Fred Todd, Planning Board member Jim Koster, City Manager Edward Kriewall, Chamber of Commerce Representative Byron Schimpp and citizen at large Fred Madley.

"We're very optimistic," summed up Greengood. "We see the committee as being a step in the right direction to making the kinds of recommendations that will induce new business to come into our town and help it to grow."

Charter changes eyed in Wixom

the state, the two amendments could appear on the November ballot.

City residency, which is currently required from all department heads, could be changed by voter approval to include residency in a contiguous community.

A contiguous community is defined to mean a community contained within the original townships of Novi, Commerce, Milford and Lyon. Outside that limitation, the department head would be required to receive a majority concurrence of council.

Council also approved a proposed change to the limit on expenditures. Currently the limit is $500 with the suggested change upping the figure to $1,500.

As it stands now, the mayor can sign for expenditures only to $500. Beyond that figure, the city must advertise for competitive bids. The change would allow the mayor to sign up to $1,500 with advertisement for bids required after that limit.

Other possible charter changes discussed included extending the term of the office of mayor from two years. The suggestion was put into the form of a motion which was defeated.

The other major area under discussion was the naming of a successor to a vacancy on the council. It was suggested that the successor be named by referring to the next highest, but losing person running for a council seat in a succeeding election.

The motion to place that issue on the ballot was also defeated by the council.

The proposed charter amendments are now in the hands of City Attorney Harold Bulgarelli for review before submission to the state attorney general's office.

Italian battleship sailor spends liberty time here

Sora, Italy is a small town near Rome, like Northville in many ways, says Rose Zaino. It's where her husband, Ernest, was born.

So naturally, when the Zainos, who now live in Bloomfield Hills, met someone from the old home town, there was cause for celebration.

Antonio Januzzi, of Sora, Italy, came to Detroit on the Italian battleship San Giorgio, His voyage was part of Operation Sail, the salute to the American Bicentennial.

The Zainos went down to the riverfront Sunday (July 25) to tour the ship and met Januzzi, one of 486 men on board. To their surprise and delight, they learned he was from Sora.

Mr. and Mrs. Zaino invited Januzzi to spend his liberty time the next Tuesday with their family at the Northville home of their daughter Delores (Mrs. Jerry) Tuggle. Mrs. Tuggle provided her foreign guest an all-American welcome — a family picnic complete with hot dogs, baked beans and potato salad.

Januzzi speaks no English, but Zaino, who came to the United States 50 years ago, still speaks fluent Italian. Other family members know a smattering of the language, and as at any gathering of Italians, the conversation flowed easily.

Januzzi, 24, is making a career of the navy. A sergeant, he's already spent six years in the service, including three years on a submarine.

After leaving Detroit Thursday (July 29) the San Giorgio was scheduled for stops in Buffalo, Halifax, Philadelphia, and Norfolk. Januzzi's next tour of duty will take him to the Orient. What Januzzi said he likes best about America is the women. Elaborating on that choice with exuberant Italian gestures, he said, "I like the women best, because that is the Italian way. American sailors only think about drinking — beer, beer, beer. But Italians think only about women."

CITY OF NORTHVILLE STREET PAVING REQUEST FOR BIDS

The City of Northville will receive bids for asphalt street resurfacing until Friday, August 13th at 11:00 a.m. at the Northville City Hall.

Bids should be submitted on special forms with specifications available at the City Clerk's office, 215 W. Main Street.

time table for correction of the violations or face legal proceedings.

Gunnar Mettala cast the only negative vote in that call.

Lahde insisted Morehead had the wrong picture of the meeting and was taking some comments out of context. Asked why he had the attitude of a personal vendetta, Morehead shot back, "When you pick on just one, it's personal."

Although the two councilmen have been the most vocal in the council's attempt to rectify the situation at Korex, both were quick to point out their actions were justified. Both also added their intent was not meant to be taken personally.

Dingeldey, as well as Mayor Val Vangieson pointed out that all remarks from the previous meeting, especially those from the audience, were not fully contained in the minutes. "People were complaining and 'hot' over the apparent disregard of the company towards the city. We had to do something," insisted Vangieson.

"Their remarks don't bother me at all," retorted

Morehead. "The same things should apply to all the rest of the businesses in the city."

Telling Morehead he was acting "a little irrational," Vangieson attempted to clarify the happenings of the previous meeting, saying the council had discussed the overall problem of code enforcement throughout the city.

Lahde called the situation "ridiculous and absolutely asinine. It was the intention of this council not to run the man out of town or in any way harass him. Instead, it was to say we were tired of the exterior features of the plant and made an attempt to rectify the total situation."

"Are you saying that our action was a wrong step to take?" questioned Lahde.

"No—it was justified but it should not have been directed at one person," answered Morehead.

Councilwoman Lillian Spencer said she felt the city was acting on good cause for the citizens. "The people have had enough of Peter's mess." Green, on the other hand, said it was the "failure of us (the council) to enforce the ordinances that created the problem."

Still insisting that all businesses had violations that should be corrected, Morehead called for written reports submitted to him in respect to those ordinance violations.

Consisting of the same departments called in to investigate the Korex Company, they include the fire marshal, building inspector, Oakland County Health Department, Wixom Police Department, air pollution division and the Department of Natural Resources problem and "If the council approves of the concept of bike trails, Taft Road would be a good one to start with," he said. Brett added that if Taft Road was to be the only one with a bike path, the homeowners association could not favor the move because it would not connect with other paths.

Mrs. Porter blamed the bike path millage failure on there being too many millage requests on the ballot at the time.

Council was split in its reception to the possibility of paving a bike path. Main council concern seemed to rest on whether the voters had really okayed the council to construct paths for all vehicular traffic, including bicycles. In addition, the safety aspect concerning not having bike paths available with which to reach Taft Road paths was also discussed.

Mayor Gilbert Henderson indicated that he would be willing to examine each street within the proposed road program to determine whether a bike path would be a benefit to that community.

Councilman Philip Goodman noted that if bike paths were put in for all of the streets under the road program, cost would be $200,000. He also noted that no real planning had been done as to bike paths and that bike paths should be constructed as safe as possible.

Originally, the difference between paving the bike path and not paving was estimated at $12,000, but according to City Manager Edward Kriewall, the contractor did not take into account that gravel has to be used at a cost of $3,000, making the additional cost for bike paths only $9,000. The motion was to get a final figure for a change order. Voting against the motion were Martha Hoyer, Patricia Karevich and Philip Goodman. In favor were Robert Schmid, James Shaw and Gilbert Henderson.

Council members also indicated an interest in sidewalks along Taft, but suggested the school district should pay for the paths along their property.

Novi moves fast

Chateau Estates Trailer Park in the township had offered to put up the cost of some of the asphalt for paving in past years and Kriewall said the offer may still stand. If it does, Kriewall said anything offered would go toward paying the township share.

Kriewall said that a meeting will be held with Novi Township Supervisor Leo Kalota soon to discuss the special assessment.

Regrading the paving of Taft Road from Nine to 10 Mile, Kriewall said that the council will have to decide whether to approach the school district to pay a portion of the cost. The school district has indicated it will pay the same as property owners for its frontage on Taft Road from 10 Mile to 11 Mile.

Novi homeowners on roads to be paved will pay $10 a front foot with the difference to be picked up under the road bonding program which was approved earlier by voters.

Cutlers receive historical award

James and Louise Cutler of Cutler Realty received a certificate of appreciation Monday from the Northville Historical Society in recognition of the couple's efforts to preserve one of Northville's old homes.

The historical society chose Cutler Realty office for the preservation award because it retains its original charm while functionally serving the community.

"It's a perfect blend of commercial use and historical preservation," said John Teeter for the society's board of directors. "It's another beautiful example of Northville businessmen preserving historical architure and still having attractive, utilitarian offices."

The distinctive 1890 vintage home, located at the corner of Rayson and North Center streets, was salvaged in 1973 and remodeled in keeping with the era.

"Northville has a small town quaintness that many people are looking for today. It really has a lot to offer with its attractive downtown stores, beautiful newer homes, and charming historical homes. We are really glad we restored this home. It makes a nice transition from showing homes to this office-home," Mrs. Cutler said.

He attends convention

Dr. Gerald B. Kratz, Superintendent of Schools, Novi Community School District, was one of 50 chief school officers from across the nation who attended the 35th annual Superintendents' Work Conference at Teachers College, Columbia University from July 18th to July 30th.

The conference reviewed the important developments in selected fields of educational administration and participants discussed current trends and problems in school systems, covering a broad array of issues and problems confronting education and chief school administrators. Members and speakers focused on the social, economic, fiscal and educational issues affecting our nation's public schools in the 70's and implications for future planning.

Seek buyer for Novi El.

As far as sale of Novi Elementary itself, Dr. Kratz said that the cost will be negotiable, but the district is looking for enough money from the sale to construct a school in a planned Kaufman and Broad subdivision between Meadowbrook, Haggerty, Eight Mile and Nine Mile. Eight and a half acres have been set aside in the plan for a new elementary, said Dr. Kratz.

The old Novi Elementary should bring $1.25 to $1.5 million, said Dr. Kratz. He noted that he expects little difficulty in eventually selling the school to "some sort" of commercial development which will probably tear down the old school.

Students assist area physicians

Institutes of Health, it is the nation's largest office-based education program for medical students.

About 325 community physicians are serving as volunteer preceptors or instructors. Joining 200 of them this summer are 300 medical students from the Michigan State University College of Human Medicine, University of Michigan Medical School and Wayne State University School of Medicine. The other doctor-preceptors take students during the regular school year.

The medical schools have sponsored the program for the past four years. By the end of the 1976-77 academic year, nearly 1,800 Michigan M.D. students will have gained personal "on-the-job" experience, sharing the kind of professional lives led by today's primary care practitioners.

Generally, preceptorship training with the community doctors lasts from four to 10 or 12 weeks.

The students take part in the program at various stages of their medical training — some have just completed their first year of medical school, and some are third and fourth year students. For some, the preceptorship experience is required, for others it is elective.

Although individual arrangements between physicians and their medical students vary, all are planned to provide ample firsthand knowledge about comprehensive, continuous primary health care and how it is provided.

For the medical students, sharing the doctors' workdays means interviewing patients, taking health histories, assisting in physical examinations, learning about appropriate laboratory tests, and gaining insight into the decision-making in determining patient care.

For the physician-instructors, sharing their workday means lengthening that day by as much as 20 to 30 percent to accommodate extra time needed for teaching.

Most patients don't object to their doctors asking to bring in medical students to assist in patient "work-up", diagnosis and treatment. Some have voiced enthusiasm about having another professional to talk to.

When objection is raised about intrusion of a student in the doctor-patient relationship, patients' wishes nearly always are honored.

An important goal of the program is to provide impetus for medical students to select primary care for their medical practice after graduation and a Michigan community as a locale for that practice.

Sophomore class plans car wash on Saturday

A car wash next Saturday, August 14, in First Presbyterian Church parking lot will be the third money-raising project of Northville High School Class of 1979.

The sophomores sold Bicentennial balloons during the Fourth of July celebration to make almost $50.

Last Saturday, reports Sheryl Wissman, vice president of the class, a lemonade stand at the sidewalk sale also netted about $50 for the treasury.

Car washes set by Novi 7-11

Car washes will be held at the Seven-Eleven Store at 10 Mile and Meadowbrook roads on the next four Saturdays as a means of raising money for the Jerry Lewis muscular dystrophy campaign.

According to Darrell Holliday, manager of the store, he will be assisted by Little League youngsters in providing car washes from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Car wash price is $1.25, with all money going to fight muscular dystrophy.

Camp Brighton's no place to send your children

One of 12 minimum security prisons

By BILL McMILLAN

You would not want to send your child to Camp Brighton this summer.

That's because it is a prison, not a youth camp.

Located in Hamburg Township between Pinckney and Brighton, Camp Brighton does indeed look like a boy scout summer camp.

Picnic tables and swings sit in one corner, a volleyball net in the other. In between is a pleasant looking white brick building complete with flowers and whitewashed rocks lining the walk.

Camp Brighton is one of 12 minimum security prisons or facilities scattered around the state. About 97 of the 14,800 people being held by the state department of corrections as punishment for some crime inhabit the camp.

There are no high electrified fences topped with barbed wire but signs posted here and there saying "camp limits".

There are no gates with guards. Only two officers work at one time with the inmates. They do not have guns.

"Most people around here do not even know that we exist," said Paul Mendelsohn, supervisor of the camp. "Those that do know about us want to know where the gas chamber or whipping post is. They think I should look and act like the warden in the movie 'Cool Hand Luke'."

Camp Brighton was opened in the early 1950's primarily as a delinquent youth camp. Now its prime tenants are males anywhere from 17 to 55 years old. The crimes they committed vary from murder to robbery. Two thirds of the inmates are black.

About 51 of them work at the nearby tree nursery for the Department of Natural Resources. They also keep the Brighton, Proud Lake and Island Lake recreational areas in shape by cutting grass and cleaning up the litter of picnickers.

This is the interior of Camp Brighton's barracks for inmates

During the winter months, they construct the familiar brown and white wooden signs with routed out letters used by state parks.

Other inmates work in the carpentry shop constructing roadside park outhouses and refinishing weathered picnic tables.

For these chores they are paid 50 cents a day. Most of the minimum security camps deal with DNR work although some specialize in various sorts of vocational career training.

They are the third phase of a four-part organization involving, maximum, medium and minimum security prisons and correction centers.

Most of the men are either ending up long terms or serving short sentences and do not have any recent record of assaultive behavior. They usually remain at the camps for three to six months.

Camp Brighton is popular with state inmates for two reasons — it is close to the Detroit metropolitan area, where most of the inmates come from and have families, and it has the highest rate of "work pass" assignments.

"We are a decompressing center," explained Mendelsohn, who has been head of Camp Brighton for two years and was a guard and counselor at Jackson State Prison for 11. "We are working with failures. They even failed at crime. Our job is to teach them responsibility so that they can make it out on the street."

Camp Brighton does this by allowing men to work for local firms for regular pay. So far 27 carefully screened men are washing dishes at restaurants, doing maintenance at a car dealership or doing other jobs.

Tony Purcell retreads tires for Carolina Tire Company in Brighton. He will get out in November. He wants to go to school to learn art.

"These men have been told when to eat, sleep and work," Mendelsohn pointed out. "They have to now learn to start making their own decisions."

Half of the pay earned by the work pass inmates is withheld by camp officials and given to the workers' families. Many of the men turn over their entire paychecks.

The men are also given furloughs in which they can go home for 48 hours every month if their behavior warrants it. Sometimes they do not return — voluntarily.

"We don't get too many 'walkaways', men who escape," Mendelsohn said. "I show them the pay phone outside and tell them to call a cab and leave."

But we get them back. Sometimes they turn themselves in, sometimes the family helps us out."

Camp Brighton has its own barber shop, gym, pool room, woodcraft shop and television rooms in which a committee decides what channels will be tuned in.

A portable classroom and library is located next to the barracks and mess hall. The men can finish getting the high school diploma they never got or just learn how to read and write.

Despite the summer camp atmosphere, Camp Brighton is still a prison and Mendelsohn says that "apprehension", if not fear, is a cloud that hangs over his staff of 10 men.

"Sure I get scared at times, but you have to just go in and mingle with the inmates to keep security control," he said.

All mail and packages are opened and checked including lunch baskets when families come to visit on Sundays.

Novi club forming

of new youth group

A youth club which will provide fellowship as well as Christian study is close to being a reality for Novi United Methodist Church.

The club is similar to others in the area and will be joining approximately 1000 churches across the United States under the Youth Club Program Incorporated.

"It's a sign-up type of program which will include Bible study, choir rehearsal, recreation and crafts plus dinner," explained Reverend Karl Ziegler. Current plans call for the club to meet for the first time September 22. Time will be 4 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday.

For students in the second through 12th grade classes, the club will have a two-fold purpose.

"The first purpose is to provide a group learning experience with a consistent group of people," said Reverend Ziegler. "The second purpose is for a more regular study of the Bible."

The program will run over the school year and will cost each participant about $30 for meals, study materials and crafts.

"One of the strengths is that for a student to be involved, a parent or guardian must also be involved in food preparation, teaching or as a choir mother or father on an occasional or regular basis," explained Ziegler.

The group will be divided up into six different classes with each of three teachers conducting two classes. At the moment only one teacher has been lined up and the church is seeking two other volunteers.

One of the activities is choir rehearsal and the group will divide up into three choirs which will perform for Sunday services. There will be a children's choir, junior high and senior high choirs. Two of those choirs will sing at the 9:30 a.m. service while the remaining choir will join the chancel (adult) choir at the 11 p.m. service. First Sunday at which the choirs can be heard will be September 26.

An interesting note is that the senior high choir will actually say the words of songs in unison instead of singing the choral hymns, according to Ziegler.

Ziegler added that the hope is for students who are members of the Novi church, constituents of the congregation, or people in the community seeking membership in a church, to become involved in the youth club.

The program came about as

planning material to absorb as they plan for the Youth Club to be held at Novi United Methodist beginning this fall.

Marketplace set in Bible times

A "Bible Times Marketplace" will highlight this year's Vacation Church School at the South Lyon United Presbyterian Church August 9-13.

The students will be transported back in time some 2,000 years. This exciting marketplace will offer students a chance to learn firsthand how the early Christians lived by observing, sampling, and doing some of the same things that Jesus and his followers did.

Planned for daily adventures are: making objects out of clay at the potter's booth, baking and eating leavened bread, learning to weave on a simple loom, dyeing cloth, sitting on the floor to eat a Bible times

THE HOUSE, a new antique shop that will also specialize in stamps and coins, will open Saturday on Northville's East Main Street.

Owned and operated by Florence Leikett and Dale Randall. The House is located in a large two-story home that is being completely remodeled and decorated inside and out.

Randall is moving his stamp, coin and supply business from Westland.

Plans call for functional sales areas within the building so that antique living room furniture is located in the living room, antique bedroom furniture in the bedrooms, etc.

Besides antiques, collectables and primitives, the business also will carry some Boy Scouting materials.

Business hours will be 10 to 6 p.m. daily, Monday and Friday evenings (evening hours will be flexible), and 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Longer range plans call for establishment of a series of classes for the public, covering such areas as antique staining, basic homemaking maintenance, and correct procedures for collecting and maintaining stamps and coins.

Mrs. Leikett has been a resident of Northville for seven years. Randall is presently a resident of Redford. Spouses of the two new business partners eventually may join the operation.

DESPITE SUBSTANTIAL increases in home prices over the past two years, United States still offers the most affordable homes in the world for the average worker.

Nationally, the median price of a new single-family home last year was just over $40,000 and existing homes, which accounted for about four of every five sales in 1975, ran about $5,000 less.

Locally, where prices tend to run below the national average, the United Northwestern Realty Association (UNRA) reported an average existing home price in 1975 of $30,073.

On an equivalent dollar basis, these prices are at least 12 percent lower than in most European nations and in some cases are less by 25 percent or more. But with the fluctuation in currencies, UNRA says lower U.S. prices are better appreciated in terms of how much work is required to own a home.

One survey last year found that a typical U.S. factory hand could buy a low-priced home at a price equal to 3-4 years total income. An equivalent worker in Britain would work 4-5 years, in Sweden 5-6 years, in France 8-9, in Germany 9-10, in Japan 10-11, and in Switzerland 12-14.

And this, reports the UNRA, is only a small part of the picture. In the U.S., mortgages are obtainable with as little as five percent down, although most lenders require 10 percent. In Europe and Japan, prospective homeowners face the likelihood of required down payments of 40 to 50 percent. On the average, their down payments in 1975 were about $23,000, nearly $20,000 more than required by U.S. lenders.

BEVERLY MANOR Convalescent Center, a 144-bed facility in Novi, has received the "E" award for nursing home excellence sponsored by the American Health Care Association.

The national award is given to facilities which demonstrate ability to consistently surpass state licensure and accreditation standards and maintain a healthy, attractive environment.

Verification and monitoring of those under consideration for the award is handled by a peer review group of the Health Care Association of Michigan, which represents 275 nursing homes throughout the state.

"We were certainly delighted to receive this recognition of our record," says Michael G. Ardelean, who was administrator of the Novi Beverly Manor when the award was announced. Ardelean recently was transferred to the 275-bed Beverly Manor Center in Pontiac.

"In fact," Ardelean says, "the flag which is emblematic of the award is hanging in the home right now, displaying the pride which the staff and residents take in being nationally recognized for excellence."

THREE BRIGHTON AGENTS of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company will be cited for outstanding life insurance sales among the company's more than 3,500 agents nationally during the 1975-76 agents' honor year which ended May 31.

Ronald H. Dillingham, John J. Jones, and James A. Winchel will receive their honors on August 2. They are associated with the Gary Holvick district agency, Brighton, of the Steve T. Meillinger Jr. general agency, Flint.

All three received awards based upon their increase in sales over the previous year.

Honor presentations will be made at the 96th annual meeting of the Association of Agents of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company at the firm's home office in Milwaukee.

Northwestern Mutual is the nation's seventh largest life insurance company with assets of over $8.1 billion.

There have been many complaints from various airlines about the lack of rapport between the traveling public and management side of the industry. It is my belief that the sins of omission have been committed by the airlines themselves.

What we need is a passenger's "Bill of Rights" which clearly sets forth the duties of operators toward passengers under varying sets of circumstances.

What does management offer passengers when they are stranded in a remote airport, half-way home, because of bad weather, late or delayed connecting planes or non-arrival of any planes going in your direction? Why can't these things be spelled out without a lot of "whereases and legal gobblede-gook" and bulletinized for circulation amongst the passengers?

I note airlines here in this country are raising ticket costs two to four percent every 60 or 90 days hoping the traveling public won't notice the overall results. This compares with European airlines that employ ten percent raises and permit them to exist for at least two years.

Another personal gripe I have is that under some O.T.C. plans you must pay for your ticket in full 65 days in advance. On a thousand dollar ticket you lose $15 interest. Yet, if the fare is increased before take-off time you must make up the difference in cash at once. In other words, you are purchasing a ticket two months in advance with no security as to the total cost and, in addition, you are losing interest on your money.

If you are traveling to London and then to some place like Denmark or Austria or Italy, it would pay you to buy a ticket to London. Then once there buy your ticket to your furthest destination — because of different rates and the falling English pound you could save about $100 U.S.

STUMP REMOVAL $1 PER INCH

75 cents per inch if total inches are over a 100". Adding all stumps

All debris from the stump is picked up and the hole is filled with dirt

Stumps are measured by taking the average of the widest to the narrowest measurements of the stump not more than six inches above the ground. Ten dollars is the minimum charge

It makes good sense and it won't cost you a cent if you give us a call.

Nursing home: is it your answer?

By ELMER E. WHITE

LANSING—You're getting older. Your sight isn't as good as it used to be. You can't get around too well. You'd like more than anything to spend the rest of your life in your own home. But you can't make it by yourself.

An institution may be the solution.

But must it be?

Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, and others think there are alternatives.

"UPWARDS OF 25 PERCENT of those in nursing homes right now do not need that kind of care," Fitzgerald said in a speech before the Michigan Hospital Association.

"And if you ask the elderly they will more often than not say they want to stay in their homes."

Day care nurses are one answer.

"There is a need," Fitzgerald said, "to expand the availability of home health care and other less expensive alternatives to institutional long-term care by expanding Medicaid reimbursement options."

SUCH ACTION could cut the Medicaid budget while it also helps older folks who don't want to be institutionalized.

Fitzgerald pointed out that the 5 percent of Medicaid recipients in nursing homes account for almost one-third of the program budget. And, he said, "the size of the elderly population in this state is expected to increase by at least one-third in the next 20 years."

CONCERN GROWS in some state government circles over the proposed constitutional amendment to cap the amount of taxes Michigan can levy on its citizens.

Supporters of the amendment—in effect a spending limitation aimed at forcing lawmakers to reorder priorities and keep a tighter rein on the state pursestrings—recently turned in petition signatures to put the question on the November ballot.

And opponents fear that a sufficient number of valid signatures could be disastrous. Chances are, some say, that if the question is on the ballot—it will pass.

TAXPAYERS UNITED, the group behind the petition drive, wants to write into the constitution a limit on the amount of money lawmakers can work with each year—8.3 percent of the personal income of Michigan reported for the previous fiscal year, or the average of personal income of Michigan for the previous five calendar years, whichever is greater.

Such a system, supporters say, would give taxpayers a handle on spending and help ease the constant increase in taxes.

BUT THOSE AGAINST the limitation warn of complicated fiscal problems that would result from the 8.3 percent lid. What about years when the state needs more money to take care of serious, unexpected problems? What about the talked-of property tax reduction ideas? How would that be affected by a tax and spending cap?

Don't tie the hands that handle the money, opponents seem to say.

They may have a hard time convincing the taxpayers who themselves live on limited funds.

And it certainly won't help when some amendment backers start reminding voters about the pay hike—deserved or not—that legislative leaders have mentioned in recent weeks.

ADDING 40 MORE birds to the total population doesn't seem like much. But when it's Kirtland's warblers you're counting, that's a different story.

Michigan—the summer nesting ground of the endangered bird—reports the latest beak count at 199 nesting pairs, 20 pairs more than last summer's estimate.

"This upturn may not seem very significant at a glance, but we are encouraged by it," says John Byelich, a wildlife biologist with the Department of Natural Resources. "In face of the fact there are less than 400 of these birds left in the world, every one of them counts precious in our efforts to save this species."

THE KIRTLAND'S WARBLER winters in the Bahamas, then moves to northern lower Michigan for the summer.

Nesting grounds, in areas posted against trespassing through Aug. 15, can be found in Crawford, Oscoda, Roscommon, Ogemaw, Kalkaska and Wexford Counties.

The Years That Were

Seventy years ago, or more
We walked, wherever we wanted to go;
Be it school or church or general store
Or for fun, to a home talent show.

A few had horses and buggies to ride,
But other folk used the livery stable
To rent a rig and a horse named Clyde (Provided they were financially able.)

But if they planned to go very far
They boarded a coach on the Pere Marquette,
And a few years later, the trolley car
To go where they wanted to get.

Most of us filled our needs at home;
Our pleasures were simple, like "socials" and "bees",
A Sunday stroll, if you wanted to roam,
Or a swing in a hammock for our afternoon's ease.

The tempo of life as we find it today
Is not like it used to be;
I've lived both ways and am glad to say
My personal choice is still free!

Charles E. Hutton

Morning

Love may set you going in the early morning, just as the alarm clock that buzzes you awake,
like a fast shock in time.

Take your place within the elements of people, time, places of learning or of work.

The reflections will go on during the day... reflecting your movement and involvement in the day alone, and its experience...

And then at night comes the rest from the excitement or boredom, as you may look out the window into the darkness, with your thoughts piercing it...
swallowing back the fullness of time...

as you climb back into the depths, only to begin again...
another morning.

Patricia Kotlarczyk

Early Summer Morning

Rolling down the hill and enjoying the dew of the grass...
so cool upon my skin...
refreshing my mind.

I reached the bottom, lay there and looked at the sky, and began to dream...

Patricia Kotlarczyk

No Title

How still it is in the quiet of the night,
By thoughts unreasonable, by no right
Do I linger before falling asleep,
But the silence is invitingly deep
Calling me into its realm of true thought
Where I am considered what I am not,
To be considered as a part of all,
To entrust mind to the universal,
By my consent or nor I am subdued,
By the God's command I cannot elude.
How sad it is to sink in death alone.

Louis Leander

Air Affluence

Air is free—
Rain-barrel it
Through windows
In the morning's cool;
Smelling better than Fresh bakery,
Clearing noses
Stuffed by house closting;
Shut it in
Before the hum of day
Grabs it back
To diffuse and pollute.

F.A. Hasenau

Born Blithe

In a chapel church
I praise your trees,
Your grass blades,
Your butterflies,
Your red-winged blackbird:
How else to pray
But fold bird wings
To praying hands,
And my heart
Into its body.

State Artrain's coming to Milford

When Michigan Artrain glides into Milford next month, its arrival will signal the start of a six-day arts and crafts festival with participation from surrounding areas.

Artrain, a seven-car touring museum, houses a collection of American art of the past and present. Milford festival planners now are lining up weavers and spinners, potters, jewelry designers, painters, dancers, singers and musicians to share their work during the festival, September 25-30.

Artists and their displays will be set up in historic areas throughout the village with visitors invited to browse on a walking tour. The working artists will complement the Michigan Artrain exhibits of decorative and folk arts, landscapes and scenes of everyday life. Included will be contemporary paintings, prints, photographs and sculptures.

Such nineteenth century objects as tools, utensils and furniture will be compared with modern-day counterparts. Judge Martin Boyle of Highland is serving as general chairman for the Michigan Artrain visit with Joan Foster of Milford his assistant manager.

Sponsors stress that while Michigan Artrain physically will be located in Milford, its visit is intended as an area-wide event. Festival chairman Alice Davies and her committee are conducting a search for craftsmen, artists and entertainers to share their talents.

A special exhibit demonstrating colonial and folk arts is planned. It will include woodworking, caning, meal or dressing in costumes to present a dramatic happening.

Bible classes, set in an overall theme of "God's Love in Jesus", are planned for all youngsters who are beginning kindergarten through those who will be entering eighth grade. Featured will be stories, songs, puppets, recreation and a watermelon party.

Students and staff members should bring a snack lunch for the Friday noon watermelon party which will be followed by Olympic games in the Bible times tradition.

A program on Thursday evening will include a dramatic presentation under the direction of Pat Canfield with singing and displays of crafts by the children.

"The Merry Potter," Merry Derrick of Walled Lake, will climax the week by visiting the Church School and presenting a Bible story while molding articles in clay.

The daily offering will be sent to the Christian Children's Fund. There is no registration fee for the classes.

Pre-registration may be accomplished by calling Charlotte Thorne, 437-1343, or Linda Hansen, 437-1426.

Cookies are needed for mid-morning snacks. Those wishing to donate may call Mrs. Hansen.

Don't take chances

Don't take unnecessary chances with your family's health: process all home-canned, low-acid foods in a pressure canner.

Food specialists at Michigan State University warn that the hot water bath method of canning used for acid foods will not get low-acid foods hot enough to kill the spores of the organism that causes botulism poisoning. With a pressure canner, you can heat the food to 240 degrees F, the temperature necessary to destroy the spores so the organism cannot grow.

For an extra measure of safety, boil all home-canned low-acid food for 10 to 15 minutes before eating. Never taste such foods straight from the jar.

Plants may tire

Tomato plants producing a lot of fruit tend to get rundown and become susceptible to several plant diseases. Michigan State University horticulturists advise protecting tomato plants during late summer with fungicide sprays to prevent defoliation.

Camp Brighton

"We want to make sure that the punch mama brought isn't spiked with vodka," Mendelsohn pointed out, adding that some girl friends or wives hide booze or drugs in the bushes for their men to scoop up later.

When fights break out among two inmates the men are usually transferred to separate camps. If someone gets too rowdy or tries to escape, it is back to Jackson. The inmates lose furlough and other privileges for minor infractions.

"Sometimes a kid has to be told that this is not a summer camp, a joke or a plaything, but something that may haunt him the rest of his life," said Mendelsohn. "But most of the inmates are cooperative because they know that they are too close to going home to start screwing up."

Mendelsohn would like to see more officers on duty than the two assigned to each shift now, but he understands the monetary situation.

He would also like to get more employers to hire his men. The economic slump has cutback the number of work passes.

The image of prisons bugs the supervisor also.

"People ask me why I don't weigh 250 pounds and carry a club," he chuckled. "Four of my officers have college degrees. I have one in sociology and will be starting soon on my graduate work."

If trouble did break out, the camp would have to depend on the state and county police for help. But Mendelsohn said that the fact that most area residents do not even know that the camp exists is proof that it has been trouble free.

"One time some campers came in here and asked where they should set up their tent," he said.

Mendelsohn, who reminds you of the happy, joking teacher you had in school who would come down hard if you crossed him, added, "We have a baseball team that is willing to take on any team in the area."

"Two things, though. We don't play away games and you are guaranteed a captive audience."

Mendelsohn is also guaranteed a captive audience as a new shipment of prisoners arrives every Thursday keeping Camp Brighton full.

"Too full," concluded the camp supervisor.

Camp Supervisor Paul Mendelsohn gives some directions

Garden pests

Beetles most common

By KATHY COPLEY

Forty percent of all insects are beetles, so it is no wonder that beetles are among the most numerous garden pests. Of the more than 1.4 million species, the Striped Cucumber Beetle is one of the most destructive.

These beetles feed mainly on cucurbits (melons, squash, cucumbers) but will attack almost anything in the absence of their favorite foods. On ornamentals they eat a pin-head size circle on one leaf surface, not eating completely through. At the least, their damage is unsightly, at most, it may kill the leaf.

Recognize these pests by their yellowish body one-fifth to one-tenth of an inch long, with three black stripes down the back. The underside of the abdomen is rusty orange.

In cucurbits, cucumber beetles are harmful in both the larva and adult stages. As larvae one-third inch long, they feed on roots and may destroy the entire root system. In midsummer the adult emerges from the soil and feeds on leaves, flowers, and fruits for another six weeks. In this area, there is only one generation of beetles a year; in the South there may be as many as four generations.

The real problems with this native beetle are the two diseases they transmit: bacterial wilt and cucumber mosaic. Wilt is carried in its digestive system. Some of the products known to control fusarium wilt should not be used on food crops, so it is better to prevent the beetle than cure the disease.

Many cucurbits are specially bred to resist wilt and mosaic, but once the plant is infected, it should be removed to minimize the chance of disease spreading. In both cases, the fruit is damaged.

Control of cucumber beetles is through weekly dusting with methoxychlor, rotenone, diazinon, carbaryl, or malathion, beginning as soon as the bugs appear. Avoid any products which contain sulfur since cucurbits are more or less allergic to it. Organic control includes dusting with wood ashes, rock phosphate, or granite dust, or spraying with a solution of wood ashes and hydrated lime in two gallons of water.

'Mom, I don't like you anymore, you're an alcoholic'

By JOHN BECKETT

Marianne Brickley sits at her dining room table, alternately sipping hot coffee and smoking a slim, feminine cigarette.

Outside, what began as a cloudy, sultry morning is dissolving into a sunny, humid afternoon. Inside, coffee perks quietly on the kitchenette counter. The scattered sunlight sneaks through the dining room window and illuminates Mrs. Brickley's fashionably-coiffed blond and brown hair, the white-and-blue decor of her condominium home and the collection of china teacups which lines one wall. Upstairs, Mrs. Brickley's two teenaged daughters can be heard rummaging about, talking, laughing, starting another day.

Mrs. Brickley's blue eyes are earnest, yet good-humored. She is a small woman, a thin woman but she wears her 47 years well. She smiles frequently and often lets out with a throaty laugh. She speaks in confident, casual tones, rapidly, like a neighborhood friend talking to another neighborhood friend over morning coffee.

Somehow, it's hard to believe that Marianne Brickley, a Brighton resident, is a recovered alcoholic.

Five years ago, Mrs. Brickley, the wife of then Lieutenant Governor James Brickley, was an acute alcoholic. By her own estimation, she was drinking three fifths of liquor a day. She began each day with a drink, often at 5 a.m., and continued drinking all day long, often until she passed out. Her health was poor, her appearance sometimes disheveled, her family relationships strained. She had been an acute alcoholic for three years and a problem drinker for eight years before that.

Hard to believe, perhaps, but true. And Marianne Brickley still remembers it all. Right down to her very last drink.

It was a Sunday afternoon, a July Sunday afternoon in 1971. The Brickleys lived in Dimondale, a small community near Lansing. Only days before James Brickley had left his wife, Marianne, because of her drinking problem. The story had just made the papers that day, although no reference was made to Marianne's drinking.

Midway into the afternoon, Marianne Brickley was midway into her drinking routine. She had started the day the way she started every day, sipping vodka and grapefruit juice. By afternoon, she had graduated to the more socially acceptable martini.

"That just shows how muddled my thinking was then," Mrs. Brickley now recalls. "I used to drink vodka in the morning, because I had heard no one could smell vodka. Then in the afternoon, I would drink martinis because it was okay to drink them during the cocktail hour, but not before."

"I don't know why I thought vodka was acceptable in the morning whereas gin wasn't, but that's what I thought," Mrs. Brickley recalls.

Marianne Brickley was in the middle of a drink when her eldest daughter, Janice, then 19, spoke to her.

"Mom," she said firmly, "I don't even like you anymore. You're an alcoholic."

"Suddenly, it was like a light being turned on," Mrs. Brickley remembers. "What she said just hit me. When my husband had left, and he had gone in a constructive manner to try to encourage me to stop drinking, I had just been glad to get him off my back, so I could go on drinking.

"I guess I had told myself I could always get another husband. But when my daughter said that, I didn't know what to do. I knew I could never get another daughter."

"It was then that I decided I had to quit," Mrs. Brickley says. "That was my last drink."

Setting down her martini, Marianne Brickley picked up a Lansing area phone book. She found the number for Alcoholics Anonymous and dialed it. An answering service came on the line in response to her call.

"Are you calling for yourself?" the operator asked.

Mrs. Brickley hesitated. As she remembers it now, that was a particularly awkward moment. But, after a few seconds, she admitted she was calling for herself.

"Someone will call you back in a few moments," the operator said.

Marianne Brickley hung up, then picked the phone back up and placed a call to William Cahalan, Wayne County prosecutor, a friend, and himself an admitted alcoholic.

Cahalan was reassuring. He asked if Marianne was all right. She said she was. Cahalan urged her to follow through with A.A. and promised to call back later.

No sooner had Marianne replaced the telephone than it rang. A woman's voice asked if Marianne were all right, and if she could drive. The woman couldn't come to the Brickley's, she said, because she couldn't get a babysitter. Could they meet somewhere?

Mrs. Brickley agreed. She drove into Lansing, where she met the woman she had talked with and another woman in a parking lot.

"I almost turned around three or four times on the way," Mrs. Brickley says. "But I got there, and when I did, this woman wrapped her arms around me and said, 'You're one of us.'"

"It was so wonderful to have someone caring for me. They took me to their home and we chatted for hours. They were kind and loving, and they had serenity where I was seething inside. I envied them so," Mrs. Brickley recalls.

The three women talked on into the evening. They took Mrs. Brickley to a restaurant and ordered dinner. When she found she was unable to eat anything, they reassured her.

"That's the same way we were," one woman said.

Finally, Marianne Brickley drove home. When she opened the front door, her phone was ringing. It was one of the A.A. women, checking to make sure she was all right. Later, Cahalan called again, and still later, another A.A. woman called once more.

Marianne Brickley went to bed sober that night. But after a few hours, she awoke.

"I was shaking," she recalls. "The tremors had started. I prayed that they would go away, but they didn't. I kept shaking, and I kept craving a drink. I prayed that the craving would go away. I felt I could take the tremors but not the craving. But somehow, I made it."

The next day, her two new friends took Marianne to her first A.A. meeting.

"I could tell you every pair of shoes that were there," she says now. "I was too humiliated to raise my head."

That night, her second of sobriety, Mrs. Brickley returned from the meeting and went to bed. During the night, she awoke again, with tremors and hallucinations.

"I swore there were ants crawling all over me. I could see them, and they crawled all over me all night. It was then I made a foolish mistake. I decided I was going to lick it all alone. I was going to stay in bed until the tremors passed. I did, for three days. But now I know that one of every 100 people who go into tremors untreated dies."

For three days, Marianne Brickley lay in bed, "shaking so badly that the whole bed shook." Then, the tremors subsided. She attended more A.A. meetings, her husband moved back in, and together they began receiving counseling.

"Gradually, I just started taking it one day at a time," Mrs. Brickley says. "Then, three months after I cried for help, I went on the radio and announced that I was an alcoholic."

"People couldn't believe I would do that," she recalls, "but I told them that helped, because since more people knew I was an alcoholic, there was more pressure on me to stay sober."

An alcoholic remembers

In the past five years, Marianne Brickley has remained sober. She has become a prominent figure in the fight against alcoholism, she has become a highly sought-after speaker and she has spent the past three years championing the cause of female alcoholics.

Not everything has been a bed of roses for Mrs. Brickley, however. Her 26-year marriage is now ending in divorce and she and her two youngest daughters are now striking out on their own in Brighton.

"Part of my problem was that, all the while my husband was climbing up the political ladder, I was at home, washing dishes and changing diapers," Marianne Brickley says honestly. "I just wasn't cut out for the political life, although some people are."

"I had a 'husband image' problem, just as many wives do. But I had other problems, too. My father was an alcoholic, and I came from a strong drinking background."

"Still, I learned to do without it. Now I want to help other women do what I've done. And if I can do that, I'll be happy."

Last Sunday, Brighton's Marianne Brickley held a "Share Your Fifth" party. But the fifth she shared wasn't a fifth of liquor. It was a fifth anniversary.

The fifth anniversary of her sobriety.

Actually, Mrs. Brickley said, she had decided to hold her party for two reasons — first, to celebrate the fifth anniversary of her sobriety, and secondly, as a means of attracting some "respectable recognition" for the plight of the female alcoholic.

"There is so much need for respectable recognition of the female alcoholic and her problems," Mrs. Brickley said. "These women are hurting, and hurting hard, but very few female alcoholics speak out, because if she admits she's an alcoholic, what will it do to the man in her life? Will she lose him?"

"In too many cases, if a woman is an alcoholic, the family covers up for her. If she does get into a rehabilitation program, she usually drops out."

"And if she starts going to A.A. meetings," Mrs. Brickley continued, "many times, her husband will get mad. He doesn't want her seen going there, or else he accuses her of not spending enough time with the kids."

Planners ok apartments

Northville Township Planning Commission gave tentative approval to Northville Investors for the construction of a 224-unit apartment building at Seven Mile Road, just west of Marilyn.

The commission okayed the complex at its monthly meeting a week ago Tuesday contingent upon widening of driveways in the blueprint. Professional Associates, a Southfield-based architectural firm, drew up driveways 20 feet wide in the plans. The commission requested 24-foot wide driveways. Architect Dan Tosch said there would be no problem meeting the commissioners' request.

Northville Investors has been waiting three years to build an apartment complex on the parcel of land near the Northville State Hospital.

Plans were delayed, said James Littell, attorney for the group, because of high interest rates.

Littell said the units will be built in a garden court style which allows for much open space.

Each two-story, 22-foot tall building will have eight apartments. Upon completion of the total complex there will be 56 one-bedroom and 168 two-bedroom apartments.

The one-bedroom apartments will have 710 square feet and rent for $245 a month, while the two bedroom apartments will have 910 square feet and rent for $285 a month.

Barring the unforeseen, Tosch said ground will be broken December 1 of this year. Completion of Phase I of the project — 28 one-bedroom and 84 two-bedroom units — is expected one year later.

In other planning commission action, the rezoning of a parcel of land to accommodate the Federal Solar Energy Research Institute was approved.

The change rezoned 320-plus acres of land bounded by Five and Six Mile roads, and Beck and Sheldon roads, from residential to research and development.

A second change allowed an increase in height of structures to be built on the rezoned land.

Previously, the maximum height of a building was 2½ stories or 30 feet in height.

The footnote now reads, "The maximum height... may be exceeded when all buildings or structures are no nearer to the outer perimeter (property line) than a horizontal distance equal to 2½ times the height of the building or structure."

"We're just proposing additional (prerequisites be placed on heights, we're not removing restrictions," stressed John Dugan, planning commission chairman.

The township board of trustees must approve these changes at its meeting August 12.

A proposal to increase fees incurred while reviewing subdivision plans was proposed by George Mosher, engineering consultant to the planning commission.

Mosher said that the fees assessed for reviewing the plans of land developers who want to subdivide parcels of land is too low in terms of the time and money spent by the

Last summer

An announcement is expected shortly by the Novi Library Board of the grand opening date for the new Novi Public Library to be located at 10 Mile and Taft Roads. The new library will be replacing the current library located in the tiny building on Novi Road just south of Grand River. Crowded conditions in the present library were one factor leading to construction of the new library. Approximately 14,000 books from the current library and 70 boxes of books in storage will be transferred to the new library. In this picture, librarian Dorothy Flattery takes time out from her schedule during a summer reading program to help (from left) Cheryl Junker, Danny and Chris Mailloux, Nicki and Tanna Chaudoin, Shannon Kelly and Michelle Junker.

Howard aims
for big prize

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Horseshoes for Howard Croft. In fact, a ton of horseshoes for Howard Croft if that's what it takes for good luck tomorrow night (Thursday) in his second chance at the lottery.

Not a normal lottery winner show watched, the entire family was glued to the tube when good fortune smiled upon Howard. The suspense was terrible when the field of six was narrowed to two... Howard and another contestant.

That other guy was holding a horseshoe and he won the $200,000. Howard won $5,000 and now has the opportunity to try his luck one more time this week.

Other fact is, the whole show appeared to be dominated by the Croft-McCall clan. Howard's sister-in-law, Denise McCall, was chosen from the audience to draw the winning lottery numbers at the beginning of the program.

Then there was beaming Chuck McCall out in the audience. His smiling face was picked up by the camera along with Howard's young son Charlie. Charlie later joined his dad on stage during the last crucial moments.

We can almost taste success for you Howard...go to it!

Planners

township to review those plans.

The commission sent the proposal to the township layer for review.

Finally, the commission asked the trustees to review the possibility of sharing in the cost of a master plan which would determine the feasibility of taking over the Salem Airport.

The tragedy-marred airport in Salem Township is up for sale because the owner was losing money, said commission member John Unger. Last October, the tiny airport was the scene of a fiery mid-air plane collision that killed three people. In September, a Westland man, plummeted to his death after his parachute failed to open while skydiving.

Unger said that the airport may benefit the townships' in its attempt to win the solar energy laboratory. He did add that Betty Lennox, township trustee, contacted the federal energy people in Washington who expressed little excitement over the airport. Unger merely suggested that the township might be interested in looking into the possibility of helping pay the cost of a master plan which would determine the feasibility of purchasing the airport.

He said 95 percent of the $80,000 cost of the plan would be picked up by the state and federal government.

The other five percent would be picked up by local communities who are interested in buying the airport.

Police Chief Phil Leonard has added two heads to his family...two critter-type heads that is. The Chief bought a couple of horses and has dubbed them "Starsky" and "Hutch."

And not only do we have dog-type "Kojak" around town, Roger DeClercq is currently in the process of training "Bronk."

Now don't tell me our lives are now somewhat dominated by the tube.

The Olympics...a great impact on sayings. You no longer say "I'm feeling okay" in response to "How are you." The current phrase is "Oh, I'm about a nine point three," or whatever.

The other day I stopped at the local gasoline emporium with my car. "Peggy Putt-Putt" was suffering from lack of gas, a low tire and a turn signal that wouldn't work.

Smiling Stan, in his usual drawl, asked cheerily, "How are you?" My answer, "Right now about a three point five." "Gee, things must be pretty bad...even Olga got a nine five when she fell on her tail."

Denny Haight of Hopkins Drive is recuperating after surgery at Providence Hospital. It's a known fact that you can't keep a good guy down so I'm sure it won't be long before he's up and at 'em again. At least he timed his surgery right...ski season is on the other side of the hill...and a few months off in the distance.

Our neighborhood is back to its lively self again. For a while we were a little lonely what with everyone vacationing.

For sure the Finnair jet list almost read like a who's who in Wixom. On board for a month's soiree to Finland were Helen and Hank Mack and Eleanor and Ray Mustonen, both of Evona Road.

Then there was Aloni and Jack Karell of Nalene, Siiri Haverstick of Bruce, Bertha Aro of Fairbury and Irja Salo of Lyonla.

So far I've only been able to track down the Macks for a rerun of the trip. The Macks were looking a little blurry-eyed. Seems my "jet set" friends were trying to readjust to the time zone.

After reaching Finland, the Wixomites scattered throughout the countryside with the Macks spending quite a bit of time visiting what must have been several hundred relatives...or so it seemed
