Board to hire 3 teachers to reduce large class sizes

Faced with critically overcrowded classrooms, especially at the high school, the Northville Board of Education voted Monday to hire up to three additional teachers and three building aides.

The unanimous action taken at a special board meeting is intended principally to reduce teacher-pupil ratios at the high school and middle school level.

Cost of the additions has been pegged at $40,000.

Officials are hopeful monies for these additions can be obtained by budget adjustments, placing a cap on extra curricular staffing benefits, and eliminating one custodial position as part of a maintenance improvement project.

Action of the board followed by only one week a report by Superintendent Raymond Spear that the high school classroom size problems are the worst he has ever seen in Northville.

He emphasized, however, this week that the situation cannot be labeled a "crisis," as was reported last week.

Never the less, the situation had come under heavy public criticism, and last week the board ordered an in-depth study of causes and directed the superintendent to come back with recommendations to the board so that the board could consider corrective measures.

Less than a week after the traditional school year opened, the administration reported that several classes had in excess of 40 students and that many others had well over 30 students.

In algebra 2 classes, for example, two classes have 41 students, one 40, one 39 and another 37.

Class sizes in inorganic chemistry are smaller (31 to 32 students), but many students who intended to take the class could not because of space limitations. There's a waiting list of some 22 students for this course.

These class sizes occurred despite restructuring of grades, which sent the ninth grade to the middle school level. Despite fewer numbers in the high school, and despite the fact that the district's total enrollment is nearly 70 students under what had been projected and the numbers of teachers are up over last year, high school classes are more crowded than ever.

Spear told board members Monday that four factors have been identified as reasons for the surprising situation. These include, he said——All ninth graders switched to the middle school are now receiving six hours of instruction whereas most were receiving only five last year at the high school. This equates, he explained, to two additional full-time teachers.

—Widening of an equality gap between ESY and TSY programs has occurred. More specifically, it was explained earlier that a large number of ESY students switched to the traditional program this year, particularly at the high school level.

—Less flexibility in scheduling has been evident this year in the wake of the grade restructuring.

—High school students are required this year to take at least five hours of instruction, whereas last year, some 25 percent of the high school student body was enrolled in four hours or less of class instruction. This increase, according to Spear, equates to two full-time teachers.

Downtown drama

Their "busnapper" in custody inside the car following a chase into downtown Northville, armed DeHoCo guards take a breather as curious passersby take in the "cops and robbers" scene at Main and Hutton streets.

The DeHeCo escapee snatched the bus at the prison and fled towards Northville Wednesday afternoon with guards in hot pursuit. See story on this page.

Nab busnapper in DeHoCo escape

Late afternoon shoppers on Northville's Main Street Wednesday experienced an unexpected "cops and robbers" show, complete with sirens and guns.

The action began at the men's division of the Detroit House of Correction. An inmate there decided to attempt an escape using a retired DSR bus utilized to transport prisoners to the facility.

As the bus driver, Willie Thomas was engaged in a conversation with gate officer

James DuBose, inmate Wylie Etchison slipped into the bus parked nearby.

Hearing the bus motor start up, Thomas made a lunge for the door but was thrown against another parked vehicle as the bus turned onto Five Mile Road. The impact of Thomas' body against the parked car was enough to shatter the side window.

Recovering himself, Thomas jumped into the car

Teacher contract far from settled

Settlement of the teacher contract here appears little closer to fruition in the wake of a mediated bargaining session Sunday evening.

Until the schoolboard's report of negotiations was disclosed Monday, the teachers' chief negotiator, Rick Cross, was characterizing himself as "cautiously optimistic."

By Tuesday morning, however, he was expressing "deep disappointment," and challenging one segment of the board's reported proposal as "absolutely untrue."

Last Thursday's bargaining session, following by a day a meeting of teachers in which it was decided not to take a strike vote immediately, "settled nothing," said Cross. And in his report Monday, Dr. Burton Knighton, director of personnel, indicated that "as yet, there has not been a breakthrough on the two major issues which appear to be separating us; namely, economic issues and the Institutional Special Education Program (ISEP)."

Both the teachers' bargaining team and the full board of education had met with a state mediator Sunday evening.

"That the board members were present, in another room, came as a pleasant surprise," said Cross. "It meant that the mediator with whom we spoke was dealing directly with both sides and not the board's attorney. I don't know what he said to the board, but I'm sure he's aware that teachers really want to settle this thing."

For the first time since negotiations began, the board of education made public its

Ford striker Darrell Harris gets in some fun on picket line here

But money pinch hurts

Morale flies high on Ford picket line

Morale's "running high" as the friskie that strikers toss back and forth along the picket line at the Ford Valve Plant here.

"It's generally high now among the membership, but you can expect it to decrease as the strike drags on," predicts Fred Larsen, a Detroit worker with 15 years service at the plant here.

But Ed Lehto, 39789 Village Wood, doesn't play with the friskie. His face carries a frown as he puts in his four hours shift on the picket line.

Lehto's worried, "real worried," and his non-working wife shares his concern.

Having missed a solid five months of work earlier this year because of an illness, he was not able to sock away any savings as had most other Local 896 employees who had been working "lots of overtime."

Even a short strike will hurt the Lehtos.

"I got behind on my bills while I was on the medical (leave), so we're going into this thing already in the hole. The strike fund help won't even pay utilities and our food bill," says Lehto dejectedly.

Most of the 215 Ford workers here "are in better shape" than Lehto, observes Larsen. "I figure I've got enough to keep us going for a couple months. After that... everybody's going to be hurting," says Larsen, father of three.

"I hope it doesn't get too cold or rain," he says, rubbing the stubble on his face. "Last time Local 215 walked the picket line (in '67) it got awfully cold," he remembers.

Ford workers here appear to be supportive of the strike.

Last week 95 percent of the employees cast a strike vote, with only 11 voting no. They met in the American Legion hall where future information meetings of the Local are to be held.

"We want to settle," says Kenneth Lewis, "but we're not going back until we get a decent settlement."

Lewis strong backing of the union's position belies the financial plight he faces.

"It's bad, real bad," says Lewis, who has more than 20 years service at the plant here. "I'm going to have to give up my apartment over the Pizzeria 'cause I just can't afford it now."

Lewis is divorced and has a weekly $50 support payment to meet. "If I don't pay that $50 they'll toss me in jail. I get $50 weekly from the strike fund, so every bit of it goes for support. There's nothing left for housing, for food."

"I'll have to move out and just bum around. Maybe a friend will take me in... if not I guess I'll just have to walk the streets and sleep where I can find a dry spot."

"It's going to be tough, but I'll get by somehow. What's important is that we get a good settlement," he adds. "I'm not as interested in salary as in better benefits."

Larsen and Lewis are predicting the strike will run into November. "The way we see it, management is in no hurry to settle and the union's not about to cave in," they agree.

Even if a settlement is reached at the national level, Local 896 demands remain to be settled. And reportedly only about three of some 60 issues have been resolved to date. Local issues range from better restrooms and plant ventilation improvement to increased work-day relief.

Meanwhile, strikers here are looking for ways to help tide them over until a settlement is reached.

"They're (Local 896 leadership) trying to get food stamps for us, and I guess some of us will be doing some of our grocery shopping at the store run by Local 600. Prices there are about 20 percent less than at regular stores."

To qualify for strike funds, a worker must put in four hours of picket duty each week. The schedule means trips of longer than a week that some may have hoped to make "are out."

Best cooks

Northville Mothers' Club President Phia Johnson, left, inspects a first copy of "Favorite Recipes From Our Best Cooks," new cookbook of club members' recipes which came off the presses last week.

Cookbook chairmen Diane Schrader and Mary Esther Fountain hold other copies of the book, which, they report "have been selling like hotcakes!" See In Our Town.

In Our Town Second printing set for cookbook

By JEAN DAY

"FAVORITE RECIPES From Our Best Cooks," new cookbook of Northville Mothers' Club, has been out for just a week — and almost all 500 copies are sold.

Decision to order a second printing of 200 was made Monday night at the first fall meeting of the club.

The spiral-bound books with a bright kitchen depicted on the cover are the result of a recipe ingathering that began early in the year under the direction of Diane Schrader, Claire Lincoln and Mary Esther Fountain.

Each member of the 35-member club received 10 copies to sell at $3.50 each last week. A tally Monday showed many members had sold more than their allotted 10.

Part of the fun of leafing through the cookbook is reading the contributions from members and friends as all recipes are credited. Recipes are indexed and divided into appetizer, soup and salad, main dish, vegetable, bread and pastry, cake and cookies, dessert, candy, jam and jelly, beverage and miscellaneous categories.

Remaining books now are on sale from members or at Schrader's Home Furnishings at 111 North Center. Next Thursday, September 30, during the Northville Home Tour, books will be sold and orders taken at the home of member Martha Lyon.

Mrs. Lyon's three-story Victorian home on West Main Street is one of five homes that will be open from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on the 10th annual tour to benefit Northville Historical Society and the Women's Association of Northville Presbyterian Church.

Mothers' Club President Phia Johnson welcomed and introduced four new members at Monday's meeting, Roxanne Casterline, Carolann Ayers, Angie Baetz and Evelyn Maguire.

Mrs. Casterline became a second generation club member. Her mother, Ruth Mary Atchison, a life member of the club, attended the meeting.

Plans were made for the club's annual Christmas cocktail parties to be held December 6 and for a fall rummage sale October 30.

MILL RACE Historical Village will be a "hub" location at next Thursday's home tour as tickets for the tour will be on sale there for $3 in the old library building. Northville Historical Society will hold a bake sale in the building and also will have coffee desserts and — a festive touch — wine available during the tour.

For the first time, also, the society will be selling gourmet box lunches to be eaten, if the weather permits, outdoors on the grassy slopes by the mill pond. Members are preparing just 100 lunches that will contain imported ham sandwiches, fresh fruit kabobs, dessert and coffee for $2. They will be on sale from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. — or until sold out. In case the weather's not cooperative, the lunches will be eaten in the library.

The double-wing Greek revival Hunter House and the Victorian Yerkes house also will be open with members of the Northville Handweavers' Guild holding a sale of handwoven articles in the Yerkes house. It will include pillows, runners, wall hangings and place mats.

Tickets for the annual Maurice salad luncheon given by the women of St. Paul's Lutheran Church during the home tour are on sale now at Bruce Roy Realty and Northville Insurance. Any remaining will be sold at the Mill Race the morning of the tour. They are $2.

Mrs. William Hirth, Mrs. Norwood Balko, Mrs. James Taylor and Mrs. Orin Hove are in charge of the buffet which will be held in the parish hall from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and will include homemade rolls, beverage and for the first time a choice of desserts.

NEW NEIGHBORS were the reason for a welcoming coffee given last Thursday morning by Mrs. Annalee Mathes at her West Main Street home.

Honorees included her neighbor next door to the west, Mrs. John Hicks, who moved from Plymouth to the brick home occupied by the W. A. Bakes for several years, and more recently by Dorothy Wisz. Mrs. Joel Horner, who moved here from Windsor, also was honored. She lives next to Mrs. Hicks in the former Paul Hughes home that for many years belonged to the George Clarks.

Another newcomer at the coffee was Mrs. James Overbey who has occupied the former Joseph Petrock home for several months.

Mrs. Larry Sheehan, who moved into the colonial on Westview with its commanding view to the east, also was a new guest. The Sheehans formerly lived in Lexington Commons and have built a large, two-story addition on the pillared colonial.

NORTHVILLE couples who did not join Newcomers when they moved to town and now, perhaps two or three years later, find themselves wishing they could be part of the fun, still can become members of the Northville Newcomer Alumni Club.

Both residents who have lived in the community too long to join Newcomers and those who have been in the Newcomer organization for more than the permitted three years can become alumni, according to Mrs. Pat Laube, who invites inquiries at 349-3883.

Alumni, she explains, can participate in Newcomer Club activities this fall and also will have their own Christmas party in December. Dues are a bargain, she adds, at just $1.

TRIPS TO DETROIT to attend coffee concerts of the Detroit Symphony, begun last season by Mrs. Jerry Fowlledge, will be continued, beginning in October. Mrs. Fowlledge, who moved to Shadbrook just two years ago this fall, organized the project which she says has become "an ongoing thing."

The SEMTA bus, she says, will continue so long as women support the trips. This year tickets will be available individually for the bus rides at $2.75. They will leave at 9 a.m. from Northville Square to take women to the coffee concerts series II. The buses return about 1:30 p.m.

First outing will be October 15 when those attending will hear "Brahms Requiem" with Aldo Ceccato conducting, Mrs. Fowlledge reports. She may be contacted at 348-2498.

Mrs. Fowlledge's personal enthusiasm has added to the pleasure of many Northville women. She has placed new season subscription forms in the library. Last season she was responsible for a total of 3,002 new season subscriptions. "I happen to have been first of all sellers," she reveals now, "and was lucky enough to win the trip to the Bahamas for my husband and myself last spring."

SILVER SPRINGS, Questers sampled herb tea selections at their first fall meeting September 15 at the home of Mrs. Eugene Karrer. Mrs. Joseph Keese presented the antiques group's study paper on herbs.

New chapter president is Charlene Gobush with Carol Noffz serving as first vice president and Mrs. Keese as second. Martha Lyon is treasurer, with Jacqueline Riddell, recording secretary, and Sue Holstein, corresponding secretary. Cheryl Swayne is historian with Barbara Black handling publicity.

A fall tour is planned as the next meeting on October 20.

Woman's Club opener

Restaurant critic coming

Molly Abraham, who has earned the title of "happy critic" for her reviews of Detroit-area restaurants during the past 10 years, will be guest speaker at the Northville Woman's Club opening luncheon October 8.

The luncheon which begins the club's 8th year will be at Meadowbrook Country Club. Ms. Abraham writes about dining out in Detroit in her column that appears weekly in The Detroit News.

Naturally, she will be talking about food and the places that serve it when she appears here. Her book, "Detroit," published a year ago, has become an important guide to dining out in the Detroit and Windsor area.

In it, the author maintains that Detroit is a surprisingly good restaurant town. Her book reviews more than 100 restaurants. She has evaluated them as worthy of good, very good or excellent ratings.

Interestingly, this critic does not list in her book any restaurants that were "bad experiences." She says she feels that her goal, instead, should be sharing her dining out pleasures with those who look to her for guidance.

A native Detroit, Ms. Abraham is a graduate of the Academy of Sacred Heart here, Newton College of the Sacred Heart in Newton, Massachusetts, and the University of Detroit where she majored in English.

She worked for the Detroit Times, now out of existence, before going to New York as an advertising copywriter and then to San Francisco where she began her career as a restaurant critic.

She is the wife of a fellow staffer on The Detroit News, James Graham. They are parents of 11-year-old Jimmy and three-and-a-half-year-old Robbie.

Her book is dedicated, "To Jimmy, who gave up the children's menu when he was three, and to Jim, who got the ulcer."

She visits every restaurant she writes about at least twice before reviewing it, her book points out, and she does so anonymously by making reservations in friends' names.

Anyone scanning her book feels immediately that she does enjoy her work and is sharing her pleasure with her readers.

She has given 13 restaurants the top "excellent" rating.

Five restaurants near the Northville-Novl area have received her "very good" recommendation. They are Ah Wok, Bodega, Botsford Inn, El Nibble Nook, and Moy's Japanese Steak House. She also recommends in the general west side area Anchor Inn, Danish Inn, Francesco's, Hillside Inn, Huck's Bavarian Village, Red Lobster and Sundog.

At the luncheon Ms. Abraham will be introduced by the club's new program chairman, Mrs. William Davison.

Club members are receiving their program books and luncheon reservation information this week, according to Mrs. William Switzer, president. She adds that the tradition of honoring past presidents and honorary members will be continued at the luncheon, which will begin at 12:30 p.m. after a cocktail hour.

Because of the popularity of the speaker, she notes, the board expects a capacity attendance. Members may bring guests. All reservations must be in, however, by October 1.

Mrs. Switzer points out that for October only the club is departing from its usual meeting dates of the first and third Friday.

She's top in teen pageant

MISS LIVONIA CAROLYN BOHN

Carolyn Bohn, 14, a Northville High School sophomore, is wearing the crown that designates her as Miss Junior Teen of Wonderland.

She won the title in a Miss Junior Teen Pageant held by Montgomery Ward at Wonderland shopping center in Livonia September 3.

She went on to state competition in the Montgomery Ward contest at Tel-Twelve Mall and was chosen second alternate.

Carolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Bohn of 220 North Wing Street, was first of 12 contestants in the Wonderland pageant. The Tel-Twelve competition also had 12 contenders.

Through a local Girl Scout program Carolyn had attended the Wendy Ward Modeling School, her mother recalls. She then was chosen to be on the Teen Board of the department store, and is serving her third year on it now.

Her mother thinks the modeling was an asset in the competition. The competitors also had to write an essay on what they like best in America and how they would improve it.

Carolyn is a Pom Pon girl at the high school and also likes figure skating and gymnastics, her mother reports.

Meads PTA set

Meads Mill PTA will hold its fall open house at 7:30 p.m., Monday, September 27, in the school cafeteria.

Pastor James O. Banks officiated at the service which included a symbolic candle lighting ceremony.

Bill Jones was organist with Kathy Harris, sister of the bridegroom, singing "Sunrise, Sunset." Ann and Maggie Herndon also played three songs on their guitars.

The bride's gown of white nylon was styled with a deep scoop neckline, long, gathered sleeves and an Empire waistline. Scallop applique adorned the gown and edged the illusion veil.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies and roses.

The couple flew to Florida for a honeymoon which included stops at Key West, Orlando and Disney World. They now are living in Wixom.

Both are 1972 graduates of Walled Lake Western High School where they met. Both now are attending Oakland Community College part-time where the bride is studying art while her husband is majoring in commercial refrigeration.

Peggy Kampmann wed

Margaret Jean Kampmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kampmann of Stratford Court in Northville, chose September 3, her mother's birthday, for her marriage to Dean Michael Kelly.

She also wore the slipper satin gown in which her mother had become a bride in 1948, as did her sister Patricia (now Mrs. Ralph Karkoski).

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kelly of Lagoon Court in Northville.

Both sets of parents gave the couple in marriage in a double ring ceremony for which Father John Wittstock returned to officiate.

The altar was decorated with yellow daisies, white glads and pink roses tied with blue ribbons.

Organist was Beth Donner with Kathy Assenmacher, soloist. Music was "The Wedding Song," "If," "Irish Blessing," "We've Only Just Begun" and "We May Never Pass This Way Again."

The gown worn by Peggy featured long sleeves, an illusion neckline and a 10-foot train. She wore the headpiece which her sister also had worn. It was a band of three satin bows matching the satin of the gown.

She carried a cascade arrangement of gardenias, white tea roses, baby's breath and small blue statice.

As her sister's maid of honor Kelly Kampmann wore an Empire-waisted gown with yellow polyester skirt with print-chiffon sleeves and bodice overlay. She wore a yellow floppy hat and carried a yellow basket of yellow and white daisies, baby's breath statice and pink carnations tied with blue ribbon.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Karkoski and Katie Kampmann, sisters of the bride; Diane Kampmann, sister-in-law; Shirley Elsey, sister of the bridegroom; and Karen White, and Susan Hatch wore white hats and gowns styled like that of the honor maid but in blue as were the baskets they carried.

Curtis Karkoski served as train bearer for his aunt while Michael Kelly, brother of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Dennis Elsey was the best man for his brother-in-law. Ushers were William and Jim Kampmann, Ralph Karkoski, Patrick and Doug Kelly and William Barlow, all brothers or brothers-in-law of the couple.

area and also from Wisconsin, Florida, North Carolina, Ohio, New York and Grosse Pointe as well as from Canada.

After a wedding trip to Florida with stops at Daytona and Orlando, the newlyweds are living in Plymouth.

The bride and bridegroom are 1973 and 1974 graduates of Northville High School respectively. The new Mrs. Kelly attended Rosary High School previously while her husband attended Redford Union.

They met while working at the Northville Elias Brothers restaurant. She now is assistant manager of the Southfield store. Her husband is employed by General Motors Hydramatic Division in Ypsilanti.

Person to Person

By the First Lady of American Sewing Ann Person.

Q: How can a woman be sure that she is buying good quality fabrics when so many of them seem to look alike?

A: There is a touch and look difference if you put them side by side. When you pick up a piece of quality fabric, you will notice that it's supple, but when you cut it, it holds its shape. Quality fabrics have body and a richer brightness in color. Of course, there is another difference too. Quality fabrics will never wash away. And when you sew with them, they add a grace and a beautiful draping to the garment.

Some women talk as though quality were expensive. Most often you will find that a less expensive fabric costs you more in the long run. Your time is valuable and you are investing it in a beautiful garment. You want each garment you make to look good every time you wear it, and you want it to last and to fit past the first washing. One of the first lessons I try to teach is that quality and economy are synonymous at Stretch & Sew. I would never sell a woman a fabric that I would not be proud to use myself.

If you have any questions about a Stretch & Sew fabric, ask my associate who is selling the fabrics. And do be sure you are getting a fabric that is compatible with the pattern you are sewing. Then you'll know your garment reflects the quality and time you have put into it.

Romantic touches of yesterday added to the wedding of Susan Carol McCollum and Richard Freeman August 28 at Orchard Lake Community Church.

The bride, daughter of George McCollum of Novi, wore a gown of white peau de soie fashioned with original double-puffed Juliet sleeves that ended in wide cuffs at the wrists.

She carried a colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, baby's breath and star flowers, and wore her great-grandmother's sapphire ring and her bridegroom's grandmother's diamond necklace.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Freeman of Walled Lake.

Dr. John Vander Meulen officiated at the 7 p.m. candlelight service at which Jim Andrews played the guitar and sang original songs of love. A decorated trellis was used at the altar.

Sharon McCollum was her sister's honor maid while Renee Geary was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Trudeau, Kathy Doig, Dee Lilley and Vicki Skrompski.

All wore blue-check gingham gowns with matching shawls and carried half-open parasols filled with pastel flowers. Their hats were rimmed in the blue gingham and decorated with red, dried flower clusters.

Marvin Geary was best man. Ushers were Raymond McCollum, Doug Floto, Roy Coomer, Ken Skropski and Jim Lilley. They wore light blue tuxedos.

The meeting will be held in A auditorium. Those attending are to go to the hospital's main entrance where there will be directions to the auditorium.

The hospital staff is extending "a warm invitation" to the community to participate. Mrs. Jean Bachelder, community relations director, announces, in order to explore possibilities for service at the hospital.

The workshop also is designed to inform the community about policies and programs of the hospital and to help develop a better understanding of mental illness.

The program is arranged for anyone interested in volunteer possibilities which can be fitted to his schedule and also for volunteers who already are serving the hospital.

Mrs. Bachelder stresses that attending the workshop is not a commitment unless the volunteer wishes to continue. She may be contacted for more information at 349-1800.

Crowd happy as Aleccia's rezoning denied

Library opening delayed

Even as workers put books in the shelves of the new Novi Library, word has been received that the opening of the library, scheduled for September 27, will be postponed until early October. While no exact date has been set, librarian Dorothy Flattery said that it is hoped the library can be opened the first Monday in October. Delay on the opening of the $800,000 library is due to "construction delays", according to Mrs. Flattery. Patrons with books may drop them off in the book drop in front of the new library even though the library is not open. Books are reportedly completely moved from the old library on Novi Road to the new structure on 10 Mile at Taft.

School board, council meet

Discuss sewer payback, Novi El'

Some friction surfaced but a spirit of cooperation appeared to dominate the joint meeting of the Novi City Council and the Novi Board of Education Thursday evening.

Privately, however, an official observed, "some of them may not have expressed their real concerns."

With only two members absent (Councilwoman Romaine Roethel and School Trustee James Helmer), the two groups discussed a number of different subjects ranging from the scheduled swine flu vaccination clinic to the controversial sewer payback agreement.

The latter is slated to come before the city council early in October when the council will decide whether or not to approve a rewritten agreement.

It concerns front monies advanced the city by the school several years ago to expedite the installation of an 11 Mile Road sanitary sewer line to the present high school-middle school property.

At the time the board made its pact with the city, it was faced with the alternative of either enlarging its existing private sanitary disposal system or building a new one to accommodate additional school facilities on the Taft-11 Mile property.

Although the city had planned the sewer to service properties along the route to the school, it didn't have sufficient monies to build it.

The school board, faced with the problem of having to enlarge its own system at considerable cost and then later abandoning it when the city sewer line was eventually built, decided to "loan" in excess of $100,000 to the city to build the line in hopes of one day recovering a "substantial" amount of the money from fees accumulated as properties along the route tapped directly into the sewer.

Over the years, the school board has grown increasingly concerned that it might recover very little of its money. And, closer examination of the original agreement left them even more concerned.

A new agreement has been in the making for some time, in discussions between attorneys for the two bodies, and reportedly it basically satisfies most officials, but certainly not all.

Interest rate to be paid by the city, if any, is one of the key hangups at this time.

However, some council members strongly resent the school board's suggestion of a possible trade-off of monies owed for the sewer payback agreement for the school's share of paving costs on Taft Road.

City officials insist the two projects are completely separate, and some have interpreted the suggestion as a veiled threat, "either you give us back the sewer money or we won't pay anything for Taft paving."

School Trustee Robert Wilkins, in speaking to this alleged threat, insisted last week that it was not meant as a threat but rather as a "gentle nudge"—a reminder to the city council that money was still owed the school for the sewer project.

Concerning the flu vaccination clinic, Superintendent Gerald Kratz informed council members that the clinic is planned for November 10 in Novi Woods Elementary School from 3 to 7 p.m. It is only for adults, he emphasized, who are 18 years of age or older.

Sponsored by the Oakland County Health Department, the clinic was primarily arranged for city and school employees. However, any adult in the community or in neighboring communities is welcome to receive free shots.

Councilman Philip Goodman suggested that Dr. Kratz attempt to get the hours of the clinic extended beyond 7 p.m. to accommodate those citizens who may not have time to return home from work and still make the 7 p.m. cutoff. The superintendent said he would check into this possibility, but pointed out that the school's lone function in the project is providing the facility for the clinic.

$1 million restaurant debated

Rezoning for a $1 million Italian villa styled restaurant was turned down by Novi City Council Monday after a contingent of more than 150 residents showed up to oppose the rezoning.

To be known as Aleccia's, the restaurant was proposed to be located on the southwest corner of Novi Road and Nine Mile. The restaurant was to be a two story structure able to contain 600 patrons with lounge, dining and banquet facilities.

All had gone fairly smoothly for the proposed restaurant previously. The planning board had recommended the rezoning from residential to B-3 business conditional upon certain points including 10,000 square feet of ground space and that it would revert back to the previous zoning if the restaurant was not constructed.

In addition, the council had also granted a liquor license to the establishment contingent upon the rezoning.

However, opposition to the rezoning showed up in force at the public hearing Monday.

Owner Michael Aleccia tried to show the ways in which he had attempted to satisfy complaints of nearby residents raised at the planning board hearing. He pointed to trees which, along with either natural or man-made berms, would protect nearby homes from any intrusion or noise. He reassured that there would be no attempt to level the property.

"One reason we chose the site was the contour of the land," said Aleccia. With a rolling slope there, Aleccia said the restaurant would be built into the hill. Pointing out that all utilities are present, Aleccia contended even though there are plenty of correctly zoned property in Novi, none suited the facility as well as the proposed Nine Mile-Novl Road site.

Aleccia also contended that the restaurant would be a good transitional use between industrial property across Novi Road and the residential property which was located on three sides around the proposed restaurant site.

To the question of whether the restaurant would actually be built if rezoning was approved, Aleccia maintained that financing is available contingent upon the rezoning.

However, the large majority of audience participants appeared unsuayed by Aleccia's presentation.

John Begle, who owns property to the west of the site maintained that the city should not deviate from the current master plan which does not call for business zoning in that area. He added that other business zoned property is available which could service the restaurant.

"I think the naturalness and beauty is the strongest argument for retention of the residential zoning," added Begle. He pointed out that three of the five acres of the parcel would be covered by a parking lot.

Kalim Johnson, past planning board chairman who also lives near the site, presented a slide presentation which included proposals of ways in which the site could be developed for residential homes. This could take the form of single family, cluster, or multiple family structures, indicated Johnson.

Johnson maintained that while many people believe residential homes will not establish on a thoroughfare, this is untrue.

Robert Moore, chairman of the Novi Township planning board said that his body "looks upon the proposal as irresponsible spot zoning and we oppose it." He added that his planning board believes enough liquor licenses have been released along Novi Road and that the area did not need another "Goat Farm."

Donald Young maintained that passage would "undermine our master plan" and would result in more and more similar requests for rezonings.

Lawrence Kern, who lives on the north end of the city, had a petition to present to the council in favor of the rezoning stating "there's people who want to see it." However, he indicated after listening to the arguments some misgivings to the rezoning.

Entering into the conversation was the fact that conditional rezoning may be illegal, according to City Attorney David Fried.

Councilman Robert Schmid moved against the rezoning.

Entering into the conversation was the fact that conditional rezoning may be illegal, according to City Attorney David Fried.

Councilman Robert Schmid moved against the rezoning.

"I'm opposed to B-3 in a residential area," said Schmid. "B-3 is many things. It could be a restaurant or others. Once you zone B-3 it could spread."

Schmid added that the council should uphold the master plan. He also said he was opposed to the banquet hall concept because of traffic and noise.

"I'm opposed to spot zoning because it goes against my credibility and that of the council. I think we've got to protect the people," summed up Schmid.

He added that he hoped Aleccia would look for other areas within the city to develop.

Patricia Karevich supported the motion to deny the request.

Council voted 5-2 to deny the rezoning with Romaine Roethel and Martha Hoyer opposed. Because of petitions submitted

Schools to drop

Novi summer rec'

The Novi School Board is ending its sponsorship of the summer recreation program in Novi, Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz advised the city council during a joint school board-council meeting last Thursday.

For the past two years, the school system has sponsored the program because the city was unable financially to continue it, the administration explained.

"The board wonders what the council would think about the city running the program again," asked Dr. Kratz, who pointed out that the program has been costing about $2800. According to the board, school facilities would still be made available but the school can no longer afford to finance a function which belongs to the city.

"We simply wanted to let the city know of the board's intention now so that it can start planning in advance of next summer."

In a related matter, the board also advised the council that the school's community education director, Milan Obrenovich will be removed from his dual function as director of the city's recreation program.

Cost of Obrenovich's city involvement has been shared by the city, but school officials noted that the program has taken considerably more of his time than the 20 percent remuneration by the city.

Ad valorem tax to follow

Novi sewer tap sale lag?

An ad valorem tax is one alternative to a problem that's been mounting in Novi for the past three years.

Because the sale of sewer taps in the Walled Lake sewer arm has not been meeting expectations when the sewer was originally constructed, Novi is finding itself in the position of not being able to make debt retirement payments.

So far the city has been able to meet the problem — but just barely. Council Monday night, for the third straight year, agreed to loan money from the sewer fund to the Walled Lake arm. This year its $155,000. Last year it was only about $60,000.

And according to Finance Director Fred Todd, "The situation isn't getting any better."

While City Manager Edward Kriewall cited the ad valorem tax as one possible method of solving the problem, Todd, who estimates the tax would be half a mill or less, said he would rather not go that route.

"My preferred method is to do as we've been doing and to promote growth," Todd told The Novi News.

The problem is, Todd said, 300 taps a year for the next five years would be necessary to solve the short-term problem. At this time, tap sales are almost at a "standstill."

He added that Novi's Industrial and Commercial Development Committee is currently working on a plan which would encourage development in the area.

Todd said, however, that there is precedent to levying ad valorem taxes to solve the problem. He pointed out that killed by motorist

The fifth auto fatality of the year in Novi occurred at 10:25 p.m. Saturday as 17-year-old Mark Stein of Novi was struck from behind as he walked along 10 Mile Road east of Meadowbrook.

Stein, of 24517 Bashian Drive, was walking on the traveled portion of the roadway in the eastbound lane when struck from behind by a car driven by John MacLean, 59, of Westland, according to Novi traffic officer Charles Brown.

Brown said investigation showed MacLean was traveling along the flare lane past Meadowbrook Road and went onto the gravel portion when the flare lane ended. As he tried to get back onto the roadway, he struck Stein with the left front portion of the car.

Witnesses called police. Novi Ambulance which took Stein to Botsford Hospital where he was listed in critical condition. He died at 11:45 a.m. Sunday. An autopsy was to be performed to determine cause of death.

Brown said that alcohol was detected on MacLean's

One layer down...

Though a three-and-a-half inch asphalt base is down on Taft Road between Grand River and 10 Mile, a second three-and-a-half inch lift must still be placed down while the final one-and-a-half inch surface will follow that. According to City Engineer Harry Mosher, the complete paving project should be finished within two weeks. The road surface will be 24 feet wide with eight foot gravel shoulders on each side. Work currently is progressing on the 10 Mile-Taft Road intersection, although the Taft Road-Grand River intersection is completed.

Good Scouts' Day

Annalee Mathes and Pat Alkire, third and fourth from right, are honored with proclamations announcing that it was their "day" last Thursday as they were cited for their services as leaders of Junior Girl Scout Troop 234 at a surprise cookout at the Winchester road home of Tracey Miller, pictured next to Mrs. Alkire, who organized the party with Pam Mazurek and Heather McKnight, at right. Mrs. Mathes had been involved in scouting with the same girls for five years while Mrs. Alkire had been with the troop as leaders for three years. As they retire, the leaders point out that some of the girls will be going into cadet scouting. This is the troop that painted faces on local fire hydrants. Earlier this month the troop enjoyed a free weekend at Camp Linden for having sold the greatest number of cookies in Northville's sale last fall.

Bid for racing dates

Trotters lure many sponsors

The starting gate's crowded with would-be harness racing sponsors, but don't look for much change, if any, come the 1977 season.

That's the reaction of John Carlo, executive manager of Northville Downs, to the mountain of applications that have come across the state racing commissioner's desk.

Not only have two new sponsors requested harness racing dates, but there's a new one applying for thoroughbred dates and three new groups asking for quarter horse racing dates.

Parimutuel quarter horse racing is new in Michigan. It has been tried unsuccessfully, however, in Ohio and elsewhere.

"It just doesn't have the excitement that racing fans like," says Carlo. "It's so short a race — just a quarter mile — it's over before you know it. It's run on the straight-away only."

As for the two new entries in the harness racing field — Detroit Downs Racing Corporation and Kelly Downs of Genesee County — Carlo sees little likelihood of them securing dates for the 1977 season. "All Kelly has, as far as I know, is a plowed field at this time. No way could they be ready in time for racing. Detroit Downs doesn't have any facilities, only an idea."

Detroit Downs is an all-black organization that has talked about leasing the Michigan Fairgrounds at Eight Mile and Woodward. But state law doesn't permit parimutuel betting at the fairgrounds. Furthermore, the current law limits three harness tracks in the Detroit area — Northville Downs being one of them.

However, Detroit Downs has legislative clout in Lansing and it isn't altogether inconceivable that the legislature could be persuaded to change the laws.

Nevertheless, Carlo isn't worried about competition for dates from the new entries. He is concerned, however, about whether or not Northville will receive some summer racing dates next year.

In recent years the Northville Downs has had to satisfy itself with some longer winter dates handed down by the commissioner's office. It has been saddled with the winter dates primarily because the Downs is the only track completely winterized.

Northville's application suggests 84 racing days from April 18 to July 23, while Jackson at Northville has requested 60 days from October 24, 1977 to December 31, 1977.

However, Wolverine Harness Raceway also is requesting 90 days from April 4 to July 16.

Hazel Park has asked for 90 days, from July 18 to October 29, while Jackson Trotting Association has requested split dates — from April 29 to June 18 and from August 19 to October 22 for a combined total of 100 days.

Detroit Downs wants 82 days from January 1 to April 6 and another 60 days from October 24 to December 31, while the Flint area group wants 45 days from November 1 to December 31, 1977.

Detroit Downs also has asked for 82 days of thoroughbred racing, from January 1 to April 6, and another 60 days from October 24 to December 31.

Detroit Racing Association of Livonia wants 119 days for the runners, from July 19 to December 3, while Hazel Park has requested 122 days from February 22 to July 17.

The quarter horse applicants, who are seeking dates under a new law permitting quarter horse racing, have asked for a combined total of 277 days. One of the entries, Laverne Williams of Mt. Pleasant, did not specify the number of days, however, indicating only that it wanted dates for the "summer racing season of 1977."

The two other applicants include again Detroit Downs, who requested 82 days from January 1 to April 6 and 60 days from October 24 to December 31. Glendale Downs of Hillsdale wants 135 days (racing 5 days, Wednesday through Sunday) from April 27 to October 30.

With a record number of applications before it, the racing commission office, now located in Plymouth, must conduct some hearings on the requests later this month before indicating the 1977 thoroughbred dates by October 1 and the harness racing dates by October 15.

Action at the Northville track for the current 1976 season is scheduled to resume October 1 and run through December 31. This meet is sponsored by Jackson at Northville.

Although he's not entirely certain the state will meet its schedule to open the new north-south freeway, I-275, yet this year, Carlo is buoyed nevertheless by the nearness of the new freeway.

"It's got to help us," said Carlo. "Frankly, right now we're not a good situated track, particularly for winter racing, and that's why I think Northville should receive a break, but the day's rapidly approaching when we're bound to be right in the center of things. Once people have easy access to Northville, over new freeways, I think you're going to see a significant increase in attendance."

Meanwhile, however, Carlo is still firmly convinced Northville should receive a higher take of the revenues than it has been getting to offset the winter problems.

Presently, Downs receives 11 percent, the state, 5½ percent.

Direction finders

Signs authorized earlier this year from the Northville Township contingency fund now are in place and are making it easier for visitors to find their way at the former Wayne County Training School building on Sheldon Road. The sign at the rear points the way to the police department and room where public meetings are held.

Bottle bill group forms

Representatives of several statewide organizations have joined with the Michigan United Conservation Clubs to form a committee to map strategy in the "bottle bill" campaign, Rick Jameson, who represents the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, Inc., has announced.

The "Help Abolish Throwaways Committee," according to Jameson, a resident of Northville, is drafting plans for raising funds to disseminate information on the controversial proposal to require a minimum deposit on beer and soft drink bottles and cans.

Michigan voters will decide the issue in the November election.

The referendum, labeled Proposal "A" on the ballot, was spearheaded by MUCC in a petition drive last spring with 400,000 voter signatures — almost twice as many as were needed, to put the question to a vote of the people.

According to Jameson, the petition drive was the most successful ever conducted in Michigan, but it was only the start of the campaign to ban throwaways. Help of thousands of citizens is needed to assure a "yes" vote on the proposal, and that's why the Help Abolish Throwaways Committee was formed with a broad base of supportive groups, he explained.

Jameson contended passage of Proposal A will result in a reduction of litter and savings in energy and natural resources used in the production of nonreturnable containers.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

When Emperor Charlemagne noticed that the snow melted most quickly on a certain steep Rheingau hillside, directly opposite his palace at Ingelheim, he ordered a vineyard to be planted there. By 1100 a Benedictine Abbey flourished on the site, and much later, it belonged to the famous Metternich family. It was named after Johannisberg, and to this day it is Germany's most famous vineyard. The name Johannisberg is often appropriated to indicate light white wines for the German type. In California, the true Riesling grape is called Johannisberg Riesling.

Call on us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477 for all your wine, beer and liquor needs. Serve your guests genuine draft beer at your next party. Both ¼ and ½ barrels are available and we have all the equipment you need. "Good Time is your party store". There's a fine assortment of nuts including Pistachio, party crackers, pretzels and potato chips including a full line of Charles Chips in regular as well as the large party size. Open: Mon. thru Sat., 9 a.m.-10 p.m., Sun., Noon-6 p.m.

WINE WISDOM:

The Johannisberg Riesling, while it can not surpass its German namesake, produces a very adequate white wine.

Fire department discussed

Township board moves to start police youth unit

Initial steps toward a township police youth organization and to set testing procedures for the post of a police sergeant were taken by Northville Township Board at its September meeting last Thursday.

The board discussed fire department problems with Chief Herman Hartner, tabled library discussion and officially levied upcoming millage.

The township budget also was a concern. At the request of Treasurer Charles Rosenberg it will be reviewed to "try to get it back in balance" for the new board.

Rosenberg, Supervisor Betty Lennox and Clerk Clarice Sass were appointed to work on the budget together and to report back to the board by the next meeting.

Because he felt the accounting of bills payable was not complete, Rosenberg voted against the motion to approve them through September 13. The motion passed 6-1.

Approval was given unanimously to use Data Processing System for an automatic payroll for bi-weekly checkwriting of the employee payroll beginning October 14.

The board accepted the second high bid of Carroll-Stuart Company in Southfield of $6,695 for an emergency power generator, pointing out that it was only five dollars less than the low bid, which was from an Elkhart, Indiana, company. The board felt having a local firm in case of problems justified the small difference.

Landscaping for township hall signs, now installed, was deferred until spring.

Sole bid of $400 from John Mach Ford was accepted for a police car that is being replaced.

Police Chief Ronald Nisun was given an ok to try on a limited basis a youth volunteer program in the police department. He stressed that the students would not be paid but would learn about police work while assisting in the department. He said he had been approached by Trustee Richard Mitchell's daughter Carrie, who would be his first volunteer.

Nisun's request for direction on hiring police patrolmen, since the police millage had passed, however, was not granted as the board felt this should be left to the board that will be elected in November. It added that funding will not be available until the next budget.

The board allocated $200 from its contingency fund requested by Nisun for test materials for the post of sergeant, including in the motion that patrolmen with three years in the department would be eligible to take the tests. The board was told three would be eligible.

The board okayed $79 for Clerk Sass to attend a Michigan Finance Officers' Seminar at Bellaire, Michigan, October 17-19.

Agreeing that he would prefer to have the township fire tanker located in the city, Chief Hartner said, however, that the location in the former Wayne County Training School fire station was "as good a place as possible" in the township. It is checked daily, he told the board. It was pointed out that it was necessary to pay rent for a double space in the department of public works storage area if the tanker is stored in the city.

At the suggestion of Mitchell, Supervisor Lennox will investigate possibility of having a manually operated light to be used when the tanker is called out to a fire.

The board approved an earlier telephone vote to levy 2.5 mills, including the new 1.5 mills for police services, on the state equalized value, of $86,187,700 of taxable township property for a tax amounting to $215,470.

Official support was given unanimously to the upcoming United Foundation campaign. Complaint of Dennis and Barbara Gramer, who live on the southeast corner of Beck and Seven Mile roads, was heard regarding trespassers at the gravel pit next door to their property. Nisun was instructed to work with them although the solution, the chief said, lay in fencing as the Thomson pit since it was fenced.

Supervisor Lennox and William Mosher, township engineer, were named the board's representatives to attend a meeting of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources in Lansing September 24.

Resolutions supporting the raising of the legal age for consumption of alcoholic beverages (with the board to write to area communities urging it be 21 again); for local approval for renewal and issuance of liquor licenses; for approval of the bottle bill referendum and for rubble pickup at the door for the blind and handicapped were approved with Mitchell abstaining.

Construction inspection charges, at the recommendation of the water and sewer department, were raised from $105 to $115 daily.

The township attorney was to be instructed to prepare a plan to cover abandoned houses for an upcoming agenda.

Troopers moving

Tuition students to stay in school

Two non-resident students have been granted permission to continue school in Northville.

The board approved the tuition-student status upon agreeing that special circumstances warranted change from board policy in the two cases.

One student, a senior, is from a broken home and a teacher may become his guardian. In the other case a youngster's parents were to move into a new home in Highland this month, but the home is not yet completed. And temporarily, for perhaps a month, they've rented a home in South Lyon since their home here has been sold.

The latter student will continue school here only until the family moves to their Highland home.

The requests for special status came from Mrs.

Lorraine Woodard and Mrs. Edward Corcoran.

In a related tuition matter, the school board has learned that the school aid bill's requirement that state aid be paid to the district of residency very likely will be changed.

As the law presently stands, the district could lose state aid monies of students attending Northville schools who live in other communities.

In a letter received by the school board, key legislative leaders and the governor have predicted the law will be changed prior to the Fourth Friday count day to prevent the potential loss of local revenue.

Exchange of parcels to provide library site

With only one member dissenting, the Northville Board of Education last week agreed to exchange parcels of land with the city to provide a site for the proposed new public library building.

The lone member voting against the measure was Board Treasurer Dr. Robert Mandell.

Under the agreement, the district will turn over a corner of the school's property at the southeast rear of the administration building in exchange for city right-of-way property between the administration and Annex buildings.

The latter right-of-way is the old West Street, which long ago was abandoned on the south side of Main Street. At one time the street extended from Main to Cady. Although the street was closed, the city retained the right-of-way.

School officials look at the trade as an equitable way to obtain remuneration for the library site property without exchanging money.

Dr. Mandell objected to the exchange because the land on which the library would be built will be city-owned while the building itself will be jointly owned by the city and township. He expressed fear someday, if the township is not able to continue its financial support of the library, school children living in the township might not have access to the library.

Other board members took the position that the right-of-way property is owned by the city, not the township, and that the school could not therefore expect the township to share in the exchange.

The property exchange and the potential problem raised by Dr. Mandell are separate issues, stressed board members, who shared with him concerns about what might happen to school children's use of the library service if the township should one day cease financial support of it.

School board officials found the exchange of property more acceptable than earlier proposals that the library site land be donated to the city and township. Northville School District taxpayers living outside either Northville Township or the City of Northville might object to a "give-away" for a library that they might not be able to use, school board members reasoned.

The library is operated jointly by the city and township of Northville through the Wayne County Federated Library System. All residents of the community and those in communities where the federated system has member libraries are entitled to use the library.

Parts of Salem Township, which are located within the Northville School District, technically are not within the federated system. However, library officials have stated they foresee no difficulty in permitting Northville students from the Salem area use of the library.

Sam Kelly returns from Finnish stay

Sam Kelly, Northville High School junior, has just returned from a summer in Northern Europe.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly, he lived with a Finnish family just outside of Helsinki, Finland, for 10 weeks.

He travelled under the auspices of the Youth for Understanding Exchange Program.

While in Europe he toured Finland and visited Leningrad, Russia on a three-day cruise.

"The total experience for Sam and his American and Finnish families can never be measured to its full extent," a spokesman said. "The benefits accrue with time and enter into all facets of life from the individual to the general."

Mrs. Norman Endahl, area representative for Youth for Understanding, based in Ann Arbor, is now in the process of placing exchange students in this area and discussing applications for summer and year-round American students wishing to participate in the program.

Persons in this area who may wish to host a foreign student in their homes or who may be interested in Youth for Understanding exchange for their own children are asked to contact Mrs. Endahl at 464-2420 or the Ann Arbor office of YFU at 2015 Washtenaw, 769-7800.

Halloween plan

Need for a "safer Halloween" with alternatives to door-to-door trick-or-treating was pointed out by representatives of the Northville Jayettes at last Thursday's Northville Township Board meeting.

The board gave the concept its moral support with Clerk Clarice Sass named to work with the Jayettes in planning events.

Northville studies maintenance report

A far-reaching critical study of Northville's school maintenance program is now being analyzed by the school board.

The study, undertaken by the Exertia Systems Division of the MOP corporation under a $3,000 contract with the school system, was presented to the board last week.

Action on the study awaits the board's analysis and recommendations by administrators.

With MOP's findings and recommendations now in hand, the board is expected to decide soon whether or not to — —Implement some or all of MOP's recommendations.

—Utilize school personnel in implementing recommendations.

—Hire MOP, at a cost of nearly $35,000, to implement its recommendations.

MOP's proposal carries with it a guarantee that if it is allowed to direct and supervise implementation of its own recommendations, the district will recoup within a year $35,000 or more in savings resulting from changes.

Findings of MOP personnel, who visited and inspected school facilities over the past several weeks, critically point up shortcomings of the system. Basic findings include:

Organization Structure

Contending that the present organization structure "is fragmented and not effective," MOP noted that the structure falls short of — —Providing first-line supervision with responsibility and authority of custodial operations at each site.

—Coordinating, directing and achieving accountability of maintenance of grounds operations.

—Planning, developing and implementing programs designed to improve service.

Custodial

The study notes that present cleaning routines performed for classrooms and restrooms vary between school sites; that present work assignments are informal and inequitable between custodians; that workload analysis for structured cleaning indicates a range of four to five hours of actual work content in an eight-hour day;

That there is no employee development program; that present work shift schedules for custodians create inefficiencies at elementary schools; that impact of night activity upon the custodial operation is minimal;

That principals are not provided guidelines for participation in custodial operations; that the district is not receiving an acceptable level of quality workmanship; that planning and supervision of project cleaning tasks are inadequate;

That analysis of custodial equipment has revealed that repair or replacement of this equipment is required; and that present management records and reports are inadequate.

Maintenance

The study suggests that skill level of building engineers varies, resulting in good to unacceptable level of service delivered; that the absence of a scheduling program does not provide management with the controls to schedule, monitor and evaluate the maintenance operation; that absence of a district-wide painting schedule restricts the district from factually determining their painting needs;

That there is a lack of coordination and communication between building engineers, principals and supervision; that the position title of "Building Engineer" is not applicable;

Sets needy criteria

School to give free milk

Northville Public Schools has announced its policy for free milk for children unable to pay the full price of milk served under the Special Milk Program.

School officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

One-member family, earning $3,680 annually; two, earning $4,830; three, $5,980; four, $7,130; five, $8,190; six, $9,240; seven, $10,200; eight, $11,150; nine, $12,010; ten,

For each additional family member, the total income $12,870; eleven, $13,730; twelve, $14,590.

School officials to invest

A resolution authorizing the treasurer and business manager to invest funds of the school district at the best available rate has been adopted by the Northville Board of Education.

As provided by law, investments are limited "to bonds, bills or notes of the United States or obligations of the principal and interest of which are fully guaranteed by United States or obligations of the State of Michigan payable upon not more than 90 days notice or having maturity dates not more than five years from the purchase date..." according to Attorney Patrick J. Bernardo.

that work orders do not clearly differentiate between the categories of capital improvement and site repairs; and that evaluation of buildings revealed additional effort is required to upgrade maintenance activity.

Outside Maintenance

The study concluded that there is no formal lawn mowing or lawn maintenance program; that utilization of grounds personnel as backup bus drivers, substitute custodians and maintenance employees can be counter-productive;

That there is a lack of effective operating practices in the grounds department; that present lawn mowing equipment and storage facility is lacking; and that coordination is lacking between grounds personnel and building engineers.

MOP, which reportedly has done consulting work with Schoolcraft College and secondary school systems elsewhere in Michigan, makes the following basic recommendations: in Michigan, recommends realignment of the school system's maintenance organizational structure.

It further recommends:

Custodial

• Establish and install uniform district-wide housekeeping procedures.

• Develop and install formal custodial work schedules.

• Upgrade the role of head custodian, presently designated as building engineer.

• Develop and install a district-wide quality control program.

• Develop and install an in-service training program for custodians.

• Develop and install equipment, supplies and chemicals log.

• Develop and implement a formal evaluation program for operations personnel.

• Review and upgrade custodial equipment.

Maintenance

• Develop a central maintenance staff to assume primary responsibility for performance of maintenance activity.

• Install a formal maintenance scheduling program.

• Develop evaluation and accountability for management.

• Establish and define classifications of work requests.

• Provide communications to building principals regarding status of work requests.

• Develop and implement a master painting schedule.

Outside Maintenance-Grounds

• Develop and install a formal grounds scheduling program.

• Implement a two-fold program to effectively improve the aesthetics of the district's facilities.

• Review equipment needs and storage facilities.

Specific details of the findings of MOP and its recommendations were not disclosed to the press.

During a discussion of the matter last week with Earl E. Rosenka, vice president for operations with MOP, the board learned that implementation, if it is ordered, would take four to six months to complete.

Total cost of implementation by MOP was pegged at $34,912.

Based on data supplied by Rosenka, to develop a central maintenance staff would require an expenditure in excess of $25,000. Thus, in calculating savings that the district might experience with implementation, MOP puts the savings at from $41,800 to $47,400 if a central maintenance staff is developed.

Surprise visitor

Shoppers in downtown Northville did a double-take Monday afternoon upon seeing a bear enjoying the scenery from a truck parked on Main Street. It turns out the bear, "Snooky," was only a brief visitor as its owner, William Mayer of Westland and trainer, Dave Stankerich (in truck), made a stop in Northville. The Himalayan bear is one of a number of wild animals owned by Mayer. Feeding the bear is Gloria Teeters of Northville.

Speaking for The Record

Tribute to citizens

Novi will mark a proud moment in its history soon when operation of its public library resumes in a beautiful, efficient new building on 10 Mile Road near the new Novi High School at Taft Road.

We are very impressed as are other visitors with these large, functional quarters. The new building is a tribute to the men and women of vision who poured their hearts and energies into making the library a reality. To these people go our congratulations along with those of the community for a job well done.

It doesn't seem like many years ago (actually, it is 18) when we shared the community's enthusiasm with the opening of the library in the old building on Novi Road. A gift of the National Bank of Detroit, this little frame building had been used by NBD as its temporary Novi branch while its new facility was being built on Grand River.

Over the years this familiar white building served admirably, although as the library's volumes and patronage grew in number it became increasingly more difficult to accommodate patrons and their book demands.

By frugality and foresight, the library's directors saved its monies for the day when a new facility could be built. Finally, the library board purchased property from the school district and launched its building program. It chose, we think, an excellent site, immediately north of the new high school and adjacent to what hopefully will become the site for Novi's municipal complex.

Construction of the new library has not been without controversy, however.

Because bids on the first phase of building construction came in considerably under estimates, the library board decided to begin the second phase immediately — to build the superstructure of the east wing. Perhaps because of this decision — a decision we firmly believe was a wise, economical one — the library ran into a cash shortage and was forced to temporarily increase its millage levy, as permitted by law, and to seek a loan from the city. This cash shortage triggered a good deal of criticism aimed at the library board and particularly at its prime-mover, Dicon Tafralian.

In our opinion, much of this criticism was undeserved. In fact, we applaud Mr. Tafralian for his bold decisions, and we submit that he and the library board by moving ahead immediately with the second phase of the library will have saved Novi many thousands of tax dollars.

Squeeze relieved

Along with many others we find it difficult to understand why Northville High School classes are so deplorably overcrowded and why many students reportedly have been denied classes for which they had pre-registered.

We are buoyed, however, by recent developments which lead us to believe significant class size relief will occur soon.

Quite frankly, we were pleasantly surprised by the speed in which the board of education reacted to the situation. After last week's alarming report by the superintendent, the board in a special meeting this past Monday took steps to hire additional personnel to improve the pupil-teacher ratio.

We had found in the board's display of deep concern last week a disturbing lack of united urgency in solving the problem immediately. We sensed instead a feeling by at least some members that while the situation is critical it must be carefully studied so that the same problems can be avoided next semester or next year.

But we misjudged the board's intent. It wasted no time in meeting the problem head on. And instead of studying the matter to death, leaving students meanwhile to suffer, it approved measures that can be implemented yet this semester.

We commend the board for its forthright action, confident also it will be applauded by deeply concerned parents and students.

Obviously, the board's action cannot be interpreted as the final cure. It is rather a much-needed stop-gap measure. Now some careful studies are indeed in order.

Two issues that we believe the school board must seriously consider are continuation of the year-round program at the high school and the philosophy that leaves so many elective class choices to students with what appears to be little or no adult direction.

The board, of course, has already indicated it will take a close look at the ESY program at the high school. It has approved its continuation there only through the current school year.

Welcome, troopers

At last, they're here!

We're referring, of course, to the newest residents of Northville Township, the Michigan State Police.

Scheduled to move into their spacious new quarters on Seven Mile Road this week are the officers and personnel of District II headquarters, the crime laboratory team and the Northville Post contingent of troopers and employees.

Dedication ceremonies for the facility are planned in about two months.

Meanwhile, Michigan's finest are a welcome addition to the community of Northville.

BARBARA DONLEY

Speaking for Myself

RICHARD CLOSE

YES . . .

The 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States guarantees the right of all citizens to equal protection of the law. Presently, teachers throughout the nation are denied this right by their exclusion from the protection of the Taft-Hartley act.

Taft-Hartley is designed to protect laborers in the private sector from the capriciousness often displayed by management in contract negotiations. It provides labor bargaining power equal to that of management.

This means that union members, such as the steel workers at Michigan Seamless Tube, have the right to use a strike as a means of achieving a fair and equitable settlement in a labor dispute.

Without this protection, teachers are placed in a position which allows no possible redress against school board negotiators who refuse to bargain in good faith.

The Taft-Hartley Act should be amended to allow public employees the same rights private sector employees enjoy. Only in this way will public employees, including teachers, be given the equal protection of the law which the Constitution intended all of us to share.

Barbara Donley
South Lyon

NO . . .

Teachers are among a group of public service employees who must not be allowed to strike. Their occupation is vitally essential to the welfare of the government and contributes to the present and future stability of this country.

The law provides for the education of our nation's children and our government has rendered that public services cannot be legally withheld.

Those who enter the education profession do so with a high regard of community spirit, respect for individuals and motivation of service. They are thoroughly acquainted with the emenations and the many hours of work demanded to excel in the classroom.

As the boards are not profit making enterprises, they are not allowed to go into the "red" to meet employee demands and other expenses. Similarly, teachers should not demand more from their students than they are physically and intellectually able to provide.

Consequently, those in education recognize that their profession is one of service which cannot be altered.

Those who do so, negate the law, promote public defiance and tend to influence children towards the theory that respect for written authority can be collectively shattered.

Remember Robert Starnes?

ROBERT STARNES

With the 1976 high school football season now officially under way, a few of us were reminiscing the other day about former greats who played locally and we wondered what had become of them.

The young man who impressed me most as a high school football player here was Bob Starnes. He played during some of Northville's most successful football years — in the late 1950's.

Graduated from Northville in 1959, Bob was an exceptionally fine halfback when Ron Schipper was head football coach and Don "Dutch" VanIngen, now Moraine Elementary principal, was his assistant. Schipper, now one of the winningest college football coaches in the nation, is mentor at Central College in Pella, Iowa. He was replaced here in 1960 by another Ron — Ron Horwath, now principal of Meads Mill Middle.

Those were the days when home football games were played on Ford Field, and Northville players used the scout building that stood at the northwest corner of Cady and Hutton streets as their dressing room.

Going into his final season with the Mustangs in 1958, the local team was coming off two championship years of football in the Wayne-Oakland League. By season's end Northville had chalked up the school's first unbeaten, untied season in its history. They had won 25 straight league games and had lost only two non-league games — both to then arch-rival Plymouth — over a three-year span.

Playing at 175-pounds, as a senior Bob broke Northville's all-time rushing record by carrying the ball 91 times for 921 yards and a 10.1 average. Schipper called him "the greatest halfback I've ever coached."

He was more than an outstanding football player. As a reporter on the sidelines, I found him at 17 a gentleman off the field — a young man whose quiet, self-effacing demeanor was unlike many young excellent athletes I've known.

Naturally, Bob wasn't the lone outstanding player in those days. Names like Bill Juday, Bill "Spike"

Walker, N. C. Schrader, Wade Deal, Fred Mitchell, Bill Chizmar, Bill Boyd, Fred Schwarze, Larry Nitzel, Gary Morgan, Hugh Crawford, Joe Gotro and Jeff Goodrich come to mind. All shared in those "glory days" of the Mustangs.

But what happened to Bob after he graduated from Northville? I checked in with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rumley to find out.

Bob took a football scholarship at the University of Louisville where he continued his athletic career. It wasn't until his senior year as a defensive halfback that the Rumleys had an opportunity to see their son play college football. But what a day it was.

By the time the game was over, an excited radio commentator was calling a Starnes' interception "the most spectacular catch" he had seen, and Bob's coach was ecstatic: "Every team needs a utility man like Starnes." Coach Frank Camp was quoted following the game.

"I've played him at offensive halfback, offensive end, and now that Tom LaFramboise is hurt, he's safety... and he's been the team's No. 1 punter for the last three years."

Bob was one of eight members of the Louisville team who were married. He met his wife, Brenda Gaye, at Louisville. And it was at Louisville where he learned to fly. Upon graduation he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force.

His first tasks were flying transport planes. Later, however, he became a helicopter pilot, flying rescue missions in Southeast Asia where he won a chestfull of medals.

Today, at 35 (how time flies), Bob's the father of four children, Brooks 14, Natlie 12, Deana 10, and Brad 3. He's commander of the Mac Dill Air Force Base Rescue Helicopter Unit in Tampa, Florida. And today it's Mayor Bob Starnes.

News From Lansing

By R. Robert Geake
State Representative

House Republican leader Dennis Cawthorne last week urged action on three pieces of legislation which I believe are necessary to bring about an improvement in Michigan's criminal justice system.

One piece of legislation would take the nominating procedure away from the political parties for Supreme Court posts. Under the new proposal, supreme court justices and appeals court judges would be screened by a panel appointed by the governor in order to appear on the ballot. The panel would be called the Judicial Nominating Commission. Judges in office could run for re-election on their own records by nominating themselves. When this proposal was first introduced in 1971, half of the Supreme Court Justices and two-thirds of the appeals court judges supported the concept.

Another area where responsible legislative action is needed is that of the state Juvenile Code. Under legislation sponsored by Cawthorne, juveniles 15 to 18 years old who are convicted of a felony could be sent to jail. Presently, juveniles convicted of even the most serious crimes spend brief periods in detention facilities and then are released by social workers back into the environments from which they came.

The third proposal would limit the amount of "good time" a prison inmate could accumulate toward early release. The last time the good time law was revised was 1933. Since then many prisoners have actually served less time in jail than the minimum sentences provided in law and set by the court. It's all perfectly legal under present policies but this legislation would limit the amount of good time which could be accumulated so that no person convicted of a violent crime could serve less than the minimum sentence imposed.

Public health officials were not exactly pleased with me last week when I moved to strike the entire section establishing so-called mosquito abatement districts from the proposed revision of the state's Public Health Code.

Blames class sizes on restructuring

To the Editor:

Most of us dislike people who predict disaster, then — after the fact — jump up and shout: "I told you so!" They only call attention to the simple truth that their cries of "Wolf!" originally were not convincing enough to enough people to change the predictable outcome of the calamity they foresaw.

Nevertheless, it's difficult to resist the temptation to point out that your September 15th headline — "High school 'crisis' rocks board" — only underscores the predictable outcome of the misjudgments made by our Board of Education, our Superintendent of Schools and our administrators since early this year in attempting to cope with overcrowding and related problems at the high school.

Over a period of many months, a number of us repeatedly attempted to convince the Board and Northville school officials that splitting 9th-through-12th-grade teachers between three schools (Cooke and Meads Mill at the 9th grade level and the remainder at the high school) would seriously jeopardize the entire secondary program. But such pleas were to little avail.

So now we are forced to watch our children suffer through ridiculous and meaningless high school registration procedures and then wind up with only a portion of the courses they should be able to count on if they hope to obtain even a mediocre high school education...all this while the Board spends its time disavowing the necessity of involving itself in "administrative matters" such as curriculum and instead busies itself with such weighty concerns as whether or not to provide the Superintendent with a brand new car. (Guess what? The Superintendent's side won.)

Well, c'est la guerre. So long as the Superintendent and the majority of Board members who support him continue to pull the strings, the fortunes of the Northville school district and the quality of education it provides our children and yours will continue to decline.

And if some of us continue to be less than enchanted with this prospect, it's just that we

Barn dance set for Montgomery

The George F. Montgomery Campaign Committee has scheduled a Democratic Barn Dance from 8 p.m. until midnight on Saturday, October 9, 1976 at U.A.W. Local 36 Hall, 28700 Wixom Road, Wixom.

The Blue Grass music of the Sunnysiders will provide foot stomping entertainment. The Sunnysiders are a noted Bluegrass band and have played at many events of this type.

A donation of $6 is requested. Tickets may be obtained from Montgomery Campaign Headquarters, 528 North Pontiac Trail, Walled Lake, or by calling 624-4044. Montgomery is attempting to defeat incumbent State Representative Richard D.

are very tired of lame excuses, of patchwork curriculum, and of our kids being victimized by a helter-skelter system we're expected to support with more and more tax dollars. (And we all can be certain there will be more millage requests or "mini-bond issues" or the like coming up. Just wait 'til next year for another suspenseful Mary Hartman-like financial crisis.)

The question still remains: What can be done about this constant chaos and how much longer are parents as well as concerned citizens willing to put up with it?

The answer still lies — as it always has — in proper planning based on common sense and on greatly improved communication between Board, administration, teachers, parents and students.

But at the rate we're going now, school fans, there's not even the faintest flicker of hope that that kind of planning will even begin to take place.

Sincerely,

Three part-time teachers have been hired by the Northville school system.

They and their roles include:

Deborah Kurnick of Lincoln Park, a graduate of Central Michigan University who has student teaching experience, to teach half-time kindergarten at Winchester Elementary at a salary of $4,900.

Edith Pegrum of 45716 Clement, a graduate of State University of New York with four years teaching experience, to teach half-time art at Silver Springs and Moraine elementary schools at a salary of $5,980.

Janice Propst of Ann Arbor, a graduate of the University of Michigan who has student teaching experience, to teach half-time creative expression at Silver Springs at a salary of $4,900.

The school board unanimously supported the hiring based on recommendation of Dr. Burton Knighton, director of personnel.

There are two fellow poets that occur two or three times a week in your paper and I know for a fact that you receive more poems than that that a week.

Hot meals draw praise

To the Editor:

I would like to say a great big "Thanks" to all the people who are responsible for the weekly meal program for the Senior Citizens of Northville. A complete hot meal is served each day at the City Hall for a charge of 50 cents. Also meals are taken to homes of ones who are ill or don't have transportation. People in our community deliver the meals direct to the home. They have a birthday cake each month to celebrate all the birthdays that month.

My mother goes each day to this noon meal and I can't say enough about the wonderful meals and Mrs. Crowe, the lady in charge. My mother and the other senior citizens look forward to going and meeting and chatting with all their friends.

Last month a bus trip was provided to Belle Isle for them. The senior citizens from all around the metropolitan area went by bus too. A day of fun, enjoyment and music was provided along with a meal for them all.

To the many people who are involved in this program, I want to express my gratitude. Your kindness and happiness, to all these senior citizens, is greatly appreciated.

with DuBose joining in a second car. Together they chased the bus down Five Mile Road turning onto Northville Road. Units from the Michigan State Police and Northville Police completed the entourage.

Etchison, proving not too adept at driving the bus, hit a car on Five Mile, eventually ramming both DeHoCo cars during the final moments of his escape.

In a flurry of excitement, Etchison's escape route was cut off at Main and Hutton with police units penning him in. Shoppers witnessing the scene watched armed police officers make the capture.

An ambulance dispatched to the scene transported Thomas to St. Mary Hospital for treatment of the scrapes and bruises he suffered during the opening moments of the escape.

A former Northville State Hospital patient, Etchison had been serving a ten-day sentence at DeHoCo for violation of a Detroit City Ordinance. He was given an additional twenty-day sentence by Judge Dunbar Davis in 35th district Court, Plymouth, Thursday, for his escape attempt.

WRONG TOWN—When this "Woodward" DSR bus screeched to a halt at Main and Center streets last Wednesday, it wasn't to pick up passengers. Inside at the wheel was an escapee from nearby DeHoCo, who was quickly apprehended by armed guards who chased and cut off the bus at the intersection. The fleeing driver who hoped to make good his escape into Detroit made a wrong turn and ended up in Northville.

Parents welcome

The opportunity for the parents of students at the Novi Middle School to visit individual classrooms will come during an open house scheduled at the school Tuesday, September 28.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m. with a short general session in the school cafeteria, parents may then visit the classrooms and meet with individual teachers.

Programs of each student will be handed to the individual parent prior to the classroom visit to facilitate tracing the students steps through his school day.

Township board to discuss federal grant for building

Northville Township Board promised irate members of the audience at last Thursday's September meeting that it will review the possibility of applying for a federal grant for a township administrative building.

The subject will be on the agenda for the next regular meeting (October 14) or at a special meeting beforehand if one is called, citizens were told.

Discussion of plans for the federal grant was demanded by James Cernuto, a Highland Lakes resident, at the conclusion of regular business about 11 p.m.

"I'm angry — I feel we've been 'snookered' out of a building that the township is going to need badly," Cernuto told the board.

He accused members of "loading the meeting with city people and forcing people into supporting the library."

Cernuto referred to action taken at a special meeting September 8 when the board voted to give a first priority to a joint city-township federal grant project for a community library.

Trustee James Nowka told Cernuto that none of the grants which the federal government is expected to award for public works projects is "a sure thing" and that the board has "to look at the realities of the situation."

"I believe we made the decision with the greatest chance of success," he stated.

He added that after September 23 (when the government is expected to firm up guidelines for applying for federal funds) the township will know better if it has a chance for either or both projects.

The board pointed out again that it is aware about $157 million is expected to be allocated in Michigan and that $1 billion is being sought.

After being told that the township had "given away three-quarters of a million dollars — my bucks" by Cernuto, Trustee Dr. John Swienkowski reviewed steps taken by the board, stressing that the reverter clause on the land at Six Mile Road was the initial reason for action.

"The board is going to review its consideration for the building (township complex) and the fact that we have established the library priority won't stop us from considering another application," he told Cernuto.

"My concern," he continued, "is that the building (as now planned) won't accommodate the total structure of government. The solution would be for the design to be enlarged by 2,000 feet and the architect is prepared to do so."

The board answered Cernuto's accusation that it was "stacking" the audience with city people (last Thursday Paul Vernon, city councilman, and Steven Walters, city manager attended) by stating four of its members earlier had attended a city meeting dealing with the library project.

Dr. Swienkowski added that he would like to make the point that the board has not said "the library over anything else" but that the police have millage and space and that the priority was "for the grant."

This, the board declared, is a "priority of pressing need," adding that the library, unlike the police, will have no place to go if it can't continue to rent its present quarters. It was pointed out also that the intended location is as convenient a one as possible to all parts of the township.

In discussion, the board stated it understands that the grants may be awarded "in two waves" and that the building plans for a municipal complex might be enlarged in time to apply for a later grant.

"I guarantee you that applying for a grant for the building will be considered," concluded Dr. Swienkowski.

Board hires 3 teachers to reduce large class sizes basic proposals having to do with salary and the special education program.

The board, according to Dr. Knighton, has offered teachers a three-year economic package. It includes, he said, the following:

First year — 5 percent salary improvement plus long term disability insurance.

Second year — Board paid retirement, a cost to the district of 5-percent.

Third year — 5 percent salary improvement.

Relative to this three year package, Dr. Knighton emphasized that it does not include the cost of increments during the first and second years of the proposal. These he estimated at an average of 4 percent per year.

"Third year increments would be less (about 3½ percent) with more teachers reaching maximum and thus no longer receiving increments," he said.

"Although the cost to the board would average as so stated, individual teachers would receive incremental increases ranging from 4.4 percent to 8.7-percent (except those at maximum) in addition to salary improvements of 5-percent annually."

According to Dr. Knighton the cost of long term disability insurance varies with the coverage and carrier. The board, he said, has offered a plan providing basic coverage with a waiting period of 180 days. The plan would provide essential protection for the teacher, as far as income protection is concerned, with a maximum monthly benefit of $1,000 to age 65 in cases of long term disability.

The board's disclosure that the first year of the three-year package would include long term disability insurance stunned Cross.

"At no time has the board ever placed on the table a proposal for long term disability insurance in the first year. That's absolutely untrue. I'm afraid they are trying to place teachers in a poor public light by making this untrue statement."

"After Dr. Knighton gave his report Monday, we researched all of the minutes and documents to see if we had overlooked something," said Cross. "The offer was never made. I just can't understand why they would say something that is not true."

Concerning board paid retirement, Dr. Knighton said the increase for the individual teacher "is more like six to seven percent. The five-percent retirement payment is presently coming out of teachers' pockets, after taxes."

Teachers would pay no taxes on the board's contribution."

The director of personnel indicated that the cost of living in the metropolitan Detroit area has increased 5.1 percent over the past year.

"The board's offer more than compensates for this increased cost," he said.

"There has been a dramatic and alarming increase in the cost of health insurance," Dr. Knighton observed. "With no cap on the board's contribution, this becomes an uncontrollable cost."

"This cost to the board will range from four percent to 10-percent of individual teachers' salaries, with individual annual premiums ranging from $434 to $1,068. This year, health insurance costs to the school district have increased by 22-percent. For the average teacher, this means that the school district is paying an additional 1.8 percent of the teacher's base salary for health insurance over last year."

Relative to the district's special education proposal, Dr. Knighton said this:

• The board has proposed a program which is educationally sound and provides for continuity of program and staffing.

• The board's proposal meets the state requirements under state law by providing 230 days and 1150 hours of instruction.

• The board is proposing a program of 187 days of 5½ hours of instruction and 43 days in the summer months of 3½ hours of instruction. Teachers in the ISEP would be paid full salary for 187 days and 4-7 salary for 45 days (two teacher workdays).

Based on the board's proposal for 1976-77, beginning teachers in the program would earn $11,705 for 232 days work. Teachers at the MA maximum salary would earn $24,126 for 232 days work.

"The board feels," said Dr. Knighton, "that it has made offers to the (NEA) which are reasonable. The board also feels that the offers are fiscally sound and within the ability of the school district to pay. The board feels that it must be fiscally responsible to the Northville community. To go beyond what it has already offered the Association could have serious and detrimental effects on the education program."

Referring to public criticism, the superintendent reminded citizens and teachers attending Monday's special session that the administration had disclosed a need of 214 teachers as early as last January.

However, in view of the economic situation of the district earlier this year, the board shaved this figure to 206. Then when it was determined to go to the people for a 3.9 millage increase instead of 5.6 mills, citizens were informed that this amount of money would purchase 199 or 200 teachers, he explained.

As things turned out, the number of teachers was 201 prior to the board's action this week to add three more teachers.

In discussing the assignments for the three additional teachers authorized this week, the superintendent said two of them will be assigned to the high school. It will mean, he said, one additional inorganic chemistry class, and one additional American history class. It will mean also the addition of three hours of English, three hours of math, three hours of science and four hours of social studies.

Apple sale receives ok

Northville Civitan Club received approval to conduct an apple sale at the Northville Plaza shopping center on Seven Mile Road October 8 and 9 at last Thursday's meeting of the Northville Township Board.

Apples will be given in return for a donation with the proceeds earmarked for the club's Special Olympics Fund. Al Short, club president, explained in a letter of application to the board.

The olympics are competitive sports events for retarded youngsters. Last year, the club stated, it paid for services of a swimming instructor who prepared a group of boys and girls to participate victoriously in a statewide Special Olympics Swim Meet.

Members of the newly-formed Junior Civitan Club will be assisting in the sale with each seller wearing a special Civitan apron.

The third additional teacher, upon recommendation of the middle school principals, will not be hired until the beginning of the second semester.

By postponing this addition, it will mean that two full time teachers can be retained for the second semester—a situation that administrators find more meaningful than hiring a single teacher now for the entire year.

The building aides, or para-professionals who will assist teachers in large classes, are to be assigned to the elementary level, the superintendent said. More specifically, they are to be assigned to classes where loads exceed 28 to 30 in the lower grades and 30 or more in the upper elementary grades.

Most crucial of the classroom size problems at the elementary level reportedly exist at Amerman Elementary School.

According to the superintendent, no way could be found to divide two or three additional teachers between the district's elementary schools without disrupting several classes. Therefore, it was decided to retain aides to assist teachers.

Spear said the aides' time will be divided this way: eight hours at Amerman, five hours at Moraine and three hours at Silver Springs. The situation at Winchester Elementary, he said, "is in reasonably good order."

In questioning by the board, the superintendent indicated that Northville can expect a reduction of some $70,000 in state aid because the district's total projected enrollment did not reach 4500, but rather is closer to 4,430.

Relative to the number of classes being taken by students at the high school, Spear said that computer read-outs may not yet have been entirely accurate because of a good deal of rescheduling that has been occurring there.

However, based on data now available, he said, it appears that 210 TSY students are taking six hours of instruction, 57 ESY students six hours of instruction.

They're just plants out of place. . .

Weeds.

They are the obnoxious plants searing that well-manicured lawn in front of your house.

They're the plants that deposit thistles on your clothes as you walk through a field.

But would you believe that weeds may also be corn, or wonderful Kentucky Blue Grass that people normally cultivate with such care every spring and summer?

It all depends on the definition, of course.

But Dick Miller of the Livingston County Cooperative Extension Service offered a definition that seems to have merit.

"A weed," he says, "is nothing more than a plant out of place."

Corn, he points out, may be a weed — if it's in a bean field.

"White clover," he says, "is considered a weed in a lawn. But in a pasture, it's not. And as ground cover, it can prevent erosion."

A beautiful and rare wild flower, under Miller's definition, would be considered a weed, if it grows uncontrolled on an otherwise manicured lawn.

Miller concedes weeds might be defined as obnoxious plants, but here we're getting into personal tastes.

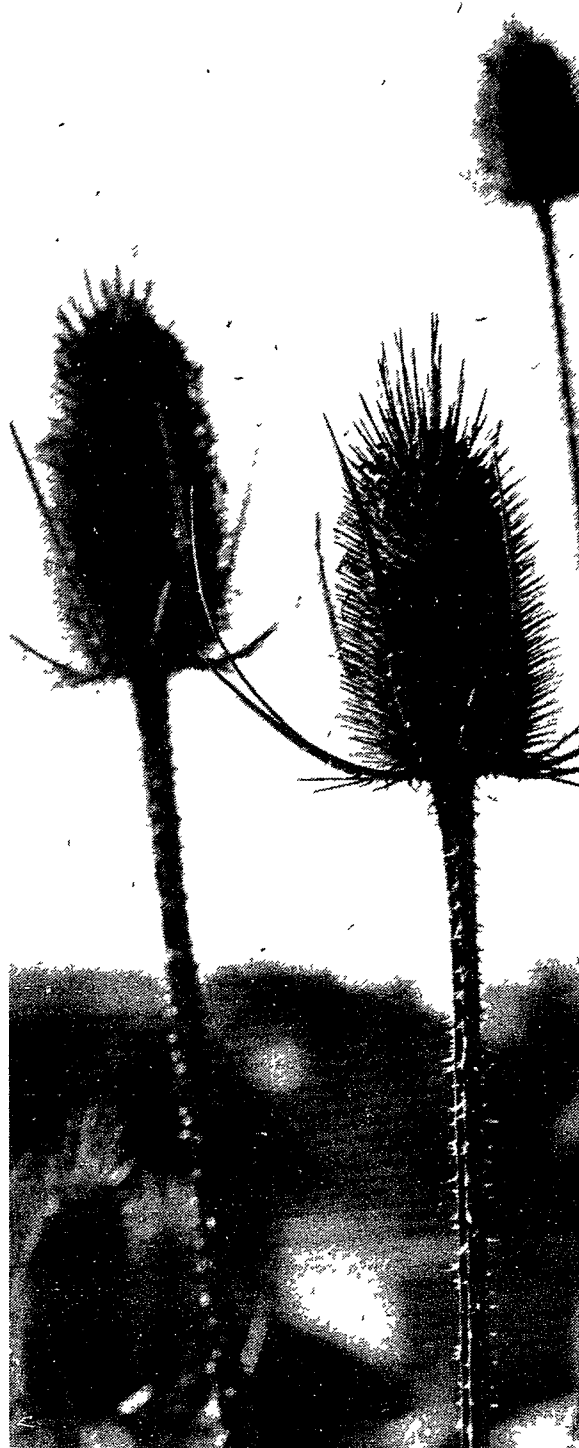

Ragweed, that scourge to the allergy-prone, would rank high as a noxious plant. Less well known Stinging Nettle, which gives off a rash inducing toxin, would fall into the noxious weed category.

But then, what of clover?

A weed is a weed — or maybe it's not.

Goldenrod — the scourge for asthma victims

Teasel — blue, beautiful and prickly

Thistle — wilderness beauty

To Observer-Eccentric Group

Sliger sells newspapers

An agreement to sell Sliger Home Newspapers, Inc. to Suburban Communications Corporation was announced today by the principals of the two suburban newspaper groups, William C. Sliger and Philip H. Power.

The Sliger Home Newspapers include the Northville Record, the Novi News, the South Lyon Herald, and the Brighton Argus. The Northville-based company also owns one-third of the stock of News Printing, Inc., a central newspaper printing company housed in the Northville Record Plant.

All of the stock in Sliger Home Newspapers, Inc. was owned by Sliger. Power is the chairman and owner of Suburban Communications Corporation and, together with Henry M. Hogan, Jr., of Birmingham, is co-publisher of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, a wholly-owned group of suburban newspapers circulating in Plymouth, Canton Township, Livonia, Farmington, Southfield, Birmingham-Bloomfield, West Bloomfield Township, Troy, Rochester, Redford Township, Westland and Garden City.

Power, 38, of Ann Arbor, purchased Observer Newspapers, Inc., in 1965, from Mrs. Myra Chandler, the widow of former State Senator Paul Chandler. In January, 1974, the Observer group merged with Synercom Communications Corporation, headed by Hogan, to form Suburban Communications Corporation, now based in Livonia and Birmingham.

Sliger, 53, of Northville, purchased the Northville Record and the Novi News in 1956. From 1951 to 1956, Sliger had been the general manager of the old Plymouth Mail, at that time owned by the late Sterling Eaton, of Plymouth.

Sliger purchased the South Lyon Herald in 1961 and the Brighton Argus in 1969.

All Sliger newspapers are published weekly, on Wednesday. All Observer & Eccentric newspapers are published twice-weekly, on Monday and Thursday.

Both Sliger and Power emphasized that no changes are contemplated in the present operations or personnel of the Sliger Newspapers. "Each will continue to carry its present name and each will continue to be run by local management, whose goal is to serve the needs of each local community," Sliger and Power said.

Sliger will continue to be actively involved in the management of the newspapers, serving as president of a newly-formed corporation, SHNI, Inc., a subsidiary of Suburban Communications.

"We are delighted that Bill Sliger has decided to join our organization," Power said.

"For many years, his newspapers have been of the very highest quality, and with his help, we intend to continue that tradition of excellence and community service."

Power and Sliger said that negotiations leading to the purchase agreement took place over the last nine months. The formal closing of the agreement will take place in mid-October.

By CLIFF HILL

This is the time of year when forests of Michigan splash colors from the palettes of frost across the countryside. Colors range from quiet yellows, soft blues and browns to exciting reds and oranges and a medley of blended violet and challenging rainbows.

The kaleidoscope of hues begins about the fourth week in September in the Upper Peninsula. Easily accessible to local residents are the counties of Mackinac, Chippewa, Luce and Schoolcraft. Here frost-flamed hardwoods are interspersed with spruce, hemlock, tamarack and pine. The restfulness of these evergreens seems to soften the impact of the sharp colors of walnut, beech, ash, oak and maple.

Summer retreats nostalgically down the Lower Peninsula through Cheboygan, Otsego, Crawford, Presque Isle, Montmorency and Alpena Counties. The parade of seasons seems stuck as September delays a triumphal pilgrimage down the state with migratory birds leading the marchers. The average speed is about 100 miles a week.

By the first week in November, the leaves have fallen and the rains are here to wash out the artists' brushes. Spring arrives and we hear wild shouts of "Stir the pigments — swing the brushes — get ready for the art shows" and the trees humbly hold out their arms to the artists.

I sometimes think that the art shows of nature surpass those of contrived artists. The only ticket of admission we need is a gentle heart and an appreciation of the great out-of-doors.

The next five or six weeks are ideal for a mini-vacation to Newberry, St. Ignace, Rogers City or Alpena. I hope that the dry spells of the late summer will not lessen the beauty of this display.

'Minor' spring bulbs important, not big

By KATHY COPLEY

Spring's minor bulbs certainly don't get their name from the fact that they are unimportant or are little noticed. Rather, they get their name from the fact that the bulbs are small in comparison to the more well known spring bulbs like tulips and daffodils, and the flowers are generally smaller, though no less interesting.

Best know of the minor bulbs is probably the Crocus,

Kids and adults form club

Teens of the South Lyon Methodist Church enjoy choir practice with director Virginia Smith and her guitar

"The Fisherman's Basket" at the South Lyon United Methodist Church was "filled and running over" Thursday night as this new endeavor to meet the total unified needs of the varied groups in the church was launched. Nearly 100 persons gathered to participate in one or more of the diversified offerings.

The new concept is an outgrowth from a highly successful Youth Club program which has been in operation at the church for the past two years. This year an Adult Club has been added to provide a "something for everyone" evening of Christian love, fellowship and learning.

"We have all been in Christ's equal basket of love and control regardless of our status in life, our sex or our age," explains Linda Stevens, co-director of the program. "Now Thursday night will have a program specifically for adults, thus making this mid-weekly night a total all-church event. This may be the first such club in the nation," she adds with a smile.

The Thursday night offerings begin with Cherub Choir practice for first through third-graders from 3:30 to 4:15 p.m. with Sharon Cutler directing. Youth Club members in grades four through 12 arrive at 4:30 p.m. to begin a full schedule which includes choir, Bible study and dinner.

The adults, "19 years to 109" join the group for dinner at 6:10 p.m. when everyone "break's bread together" in the fellowship hall.

Following dinner Thursday, 18 adults met in the church parlor for their Bible study class taught by Dr. Milton Bank, pastor of the church. The pastor has chosen the book of Mark for this first 15-week study.

Theme for the study is "Believe the Good News" based on the first Gospel written.

According to Dr. Bank, "The objective of the study is to help all persons be aware of and grow in their understanding of God, especially of His redeeming love as revealed in Jesus Christ, and to respond in faith and love, to the end that they may know who they are and what their human situation means."

The adult choir, directed by Virginia Smith, a vocal music graduate, practices from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The evening winds down to its conclusion with a variety of optional activities for youths and adults also from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. These activities, planned by Karen Smith and Betty Bunnell feature archery, golf practice, making of stuffed animals, cheerleading, cards and arts and crafts.

Actually, the day's activities began around 9 a.m. in the kitchen where a crew of parents set rolls and made spaghetti sauce for the evening meal.

At least one parent per Youth Club child must serve on the kitchen food preparation or clean-up crews once each month. Parents also take on one other job each semester to fulfill the obligation of this all-church cooperative program.

Scholarships and foster parents are available for any child whose parents are unable to serve. According to Mrs. Stevens, this option is rarely taken up since most parents really enjoy the fellowship of the kitchen work. In fact, she adds that some church members volunteer to help even though they have no children involved in Youth Club.

"With Christian goals in mind regarding educational growth, creativity, worship, fellowship and musical talents, we feel everyone's needs can be met on one night now that we have Adult Club," says Mrs. Stevens, cautioning that, as yet, the program is still in its trial stages.

"We may have some problems to work out but really, the first night went more smoothly than I had anticipated," she concluded.

Emphasis this year is on Bible study and choir with time for fellowship during the dinner hour and the optional activities. All Youth Club members are expected to attend the 9:30 a.m. worship on Sundays to fulfill their choral obligations. The Sunday School hour and a second worship service follow at 11 a.m.

In order to make it possible for all adults who desire it to participate in Adult Club, a sitter is hired to care for pre-Youth Club children until the last activity is completed.

An interdenominational program, "The Fisherman's Basket" is open to all regardless of church affiliation.

Dale Borders and Judy Misslitz are two of the program's participating parents though it isn't the first to bloom each year. That honor belongs to Galanthus, which begins blooming with white bell-like flowers in early March. The plants look best in colonies of 30-40 bulbs.

About two weeks later come the yellow buttercup flowers of Eranthis (Winter Aconite). It is possible to start colonies from seed, but they are slow. Much better to start with a dozen bulbs, which spread quickly, into a dense mat. Eranthis blooms for about two weeks and leads up to the Crocus.

Because Crocus have few pests or diseases, they last for years, multiplying freely and blooming cheerfully. They are often sold in mixed colors (purple, white, yellow, cream, stripes, etc.) but are most effective if 5-10 bulbs (or corms) of one color are planted together.

Crocus naturalize beautifully, but use them only in a spot that won't have to be mowed until the crocus foliage begins to turn yellow (in June).

As Crocus begin to fade, Scilla begins. In size it is similar to Grape Hyacinth but the flowers are blue stars.

For a fragrant border for larger bulbs, Grape Hyacinth is ideal. The plants make a neat, low edging and the deep purple spikes, 4-6 inches tall, complement other early flowers. They do well in coarse soil where other bulbs often fail.

Next blooms Puschkinia, or Lebanon Squill. Growing 5-6 inches high, it bears light blue flowers which last 7-10 days in the shade.

(Planting any bulb in a shady spot will prolong its bloom, but it also means that the plants will bloom later than those planted in the sun because the soil will be slower to warm up. Bulbs planted where the soil will receive heat reflected from a house or other building will also bloom earlier than those planted in an unprotected bed.)

Just before tulips begin, Glory of the Snow shows its blue stars. The bulbs are short-lived out of the soil so they should be planted as soon as they are available.

These minor bulbs require the same type of planting treatment as the large spring bulbs. The soil should be enriched to 6-8 inches and each bulb or corm should be planted so the tip is 2½-3 times its height beneath the soil. A corm ½ inch high should be planted so the tip is close to 1½ inches below the surface of the soil.

Firm the soil around the bulbs gently so there are no air pockets, but so that the soil's natural air passages are not destroyed. Eliminating these air passages also eliminates the natural channels through which excess water drains away. Bulbs are more sensitive to waterlogged soil than most other plants.

Selecting a variety of minor spring bulbs helps end winter a little sooner. Planting them properly will help rush spring for years to come.

PROCESSING the most expensive canoe paddle was no problem for Manufacturers Bank. The committee in charge of the Meet the Lions benefit dinner decided to write the check for the proceeds raised in the benefit, $15,500, on a canoe paddle. Northville resident Paul L. Hussey (right), executive vice president Manufacturers Bank and chairman of the Meet the Lions banquet, turned the check over to Detroit City Councilman Ernest C. Browne, Jr., president of the Detroit Area Council Boy Scouts of America, who in turn presented it to bank teller Myra Williams for payment. Although the check could not be processed through the electronic banking equipment, it was promptly honored with $15,500 in one dollar bills. As far as the bank knows, this paddle will not be used to paddle a canoe.

LARRY AND BILL McNISH have launched a trophy, award and gift company in Novi.

The store, which had its grand opening on September 2, is located at 43343 Grand River. It is the first for Larry in his own store, but for the previous 15 years he was employed by Spike Lawrence Trophies in Detroit.

Larry will manage the store while Bill will be handling the financial matters of the business and outside sales.

McNish's, Inc. offers all types of awards such as plaques, gavels, pewter mugs, desk items, etc. Trophies in stock range in cost from $1.75 to $300.

"We're especially able to service Little League, recreation programs, school and business awards," the two men point out. "Naturally, sports trophies are our specialty."

Engraving is done in the store.

APPOINTMENT of Harvey W. Barkley as Central Division regional sales manager for the company's Mechanical Products Division has been announced by James E. Slanaker, vice president-sales for Wheel Trueing Tool Company, 13801 Lyndon Avenue, Detroit.

The Mechanical Products Division manufactures and markets diamond products used in the metalworking, glass and electronics industries. The Central Division sales territory includes Michigan, Indiana, West Virginia, Kentucky and western Ohio.

Barkley, who is active in Salem Township civic affairs, attended Michigan Technological University, and received his mechanical engineering degree from Detroit Institute of Technology. He has been with Wheel Trueing for 21 years, the last 10 in management positions in product service, product research and development, manufacturing and sales. Prior to his new assignment, he had been administrative manager for the Mechanical Products Division. Barkley is a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

THE FACE of S & E Automotive in South Lyon took on a sharp new look recently with the addition of this painting of a 1934 Ford sedan. The art work was done by Ken Taylor of South Lyon, a "good friend" of S & E owners Tom Snell and Jeff Eckert. Taylor, a commercial artist, will redo the company signs on the ends of the building later this year, according to Eckert. Snell and Eckert, lifetime residents of the area and members of the Spark Plugs, a local street rod car club, bought the business from Scotty and Fritz in December, 1973.

BRIGHTON'S THOMAS E. HERBST (center) holds the award he received after being named salesman of the year during 1975-76 for Frigitrone of Connecticut. Herbst received the award from Derek Pomfret (left), eastern regional manager, and Harold Lee, company president. Herbst joined Frigitrone in April of 1972 and has continually shown outstanding abilities as a leader in sales. He resides in Brighton with his wife, Eileen, and their two children, Michele and Johathan.

GRAND OPENING of the Stok Photographic, 355 East Main Street in Northville, has been scheduled for Saturday, October 2. A live swing era band will perform in the afternoon, and a free iron-on scene of Northville will be available for visitors. Month-long grand opening specials are planned.

Owner and photographer of the new Northville Framery business is Mark C. Stock, a 22-year-old professional photographer since 1972. He is the brother-in-law of Dr. Slatting of the Millstream Animal Hospital in Northville Township.

His works have been shown in Boyne City and in Charlevoix.

The gallery will feature photographic art by the owner; drawings and paintings by Norman Jean Curran, who recently won top honors in the Northville Fair Art Show for drawing; works by Caroline Dunphy and by Chicago artist Roland N. Stock (father of the owner); and custom jewelry by Matt Hoffman.

Consignment inquiries are welcome.

The studio features portraiture in customers' homes or in natural settings. The business also will feature custom picture framing.

Stock intends to fill the void of galleries in the metropolitan area which specialize in permanent exhibit of photographic art. One critic has noted that until now only two such galleries existed and both are located in Birmingham.

Northville converts Novi errors into win

Opportunity is the name of the game in football.

Northville proved that point again last Friday evening as the Mustangs, led by senior quarterback-defensive back Greg Armstrong, parlayed numerous Novi mistakes into a 41-6 win.

The game, played before a packed house on a warm, breezy evening at Northville, knotted the series between the two neighborhood rivals at three victories apiece.

"Westayed with them in the first quarter, but breaks had a lot to do with the outcome," said a dejected Wildcats coach John Osborne.

Indeed, Novi took the opening kick and moved on the ground 18 yards before the Northville defense stiffened, forcing the Southeastern Conference team to punt.

Then the Mustangs' Pete Wright gave coaches, players, and fans alike a hint of things to come when he broke through the Novi line from the right side and blocked an attempted punt by Dave Pisha.

Dave Boor recovered the ball for Northville, at the Wildcat 20.

But two plays later Northville fumbled away the ball on an option play.

John McMurray recovered the ball on his own 20-yard line and the Wildcats took over.

Five plays later quarterback Randy Wroten faked a pitch out, darted through the right side of the Northville defensive line and sailed down field on an apparent 59-yard touchdown run.

But Novi was detected off side and Northville was caught clipping, so the play was called back to the line of scrimmage and run again.

The Novi drive then stalled and the Wildcats were forced to kick.

Novi got the ball back four downs later on its own 27-yard line.

There, Mustang defensive end Doug Harding hit Wroten as he was about to pitch out.

Novi recovered the ball but lost the momentum on fourth down, the Oakland County school was forced to punt again.

Novi got the ball back with 1:11 left in the quarter when Armstrong intercepted a Wroten pass at Northville's 43-yard line and ran it back 15 yards to the 28.

The Mustangs were able to move the ball and on the second play of the second quarter Armstrong took the ball in from the 5-yard line to make the score 8-0. Dennis Singleton added the conversion to up the count to 9-0.

The big play in the six play drive was an 11-yard pass from Armstrong to wide receiver-linebacker Kevin Corcoran.

Novi got the ball but the Mustangs' defense tightened forcing the Wildcats to punt again.

Northville took over at its own 20 and then the fireworks began.

Following a four yard run, Armstrong dropped back and fired a 49-yard pass to Corcoran streaking down the field.

Five plays later, Armstrong found junior split end John Horwath in the end zone for a touchdown which covered five yards. Singleton's conversion was no good and with 6:33 left in the half Northville led 15-0.

Novi got the ball again, but again Harding, a 215-pound junior, made his massive presence felt.

The youngster, whose brother Dave plays tight end for Michigan, hit Wroten as he was pitching out on his own 22-yard line.

Corcoran was Johnny-on-the-spot. The 190-pound senior scooped up the bouncing ball and sped 78 yards down field to notch another six points for the Mustangs. Singleton's kick was good and Northville led 22-0 with nearly four minutes to go in the half.

But the Mustangs weren't through yet.

Moments after Corcoran's score, senior Mark Gross intercepted an errant Wroten aerial at the Wildcat's 46.

On its very first play from scrimmage, Armstrong dropped back and fired the ball to Horwath who juggled and then caught the pass at Novi's 10-yard line and went in for the score.

Singleton missed the conversion but Northville had an insurmountable 28-0 halftime lead.

"The second half was just fun for us, everybody played," said delighted Northville coach, Chuck Shonta.

Northville added its fifth touchdown of the night in the third stanza following another Wildcat miscue.

Junior tackle Chris Missel hit Wroten, causing a tumble. Senior tri-captain Mark Morland fell on the loose ball at the Wildcat 28-yard line.

It took the Mustangs 10 plays to gallop into the end zone with Armstrong hitting Horwath for his third touchdown of the game, giving the Mustangs, following Singleton's conversion, a 35-0 lead.

Novi finally scored with 5:50 left in the game when Dave Pisha grabbed a six-yard pass from quarterback John McMurray.

The tally culminated a 77-yard drive by the Wildcats. The extra point was wide.

Northville added a final touchdown with only four seconds left in the game when second string quarterback Pete Wright kept the ball on a bootleg and ran 11 yards for the score. A two point conversion failed.

"The game wasn't as lopsided as the score indicated," said Shonta, who now has won three games in a row from rival Osborne.

"They outplayed us in the first quarter, and except for a few things, like having their first touchdown called back, things could have been different."

Shonta was pleased with the way his team played after that shaky first quarter.

"For some reason we've never played well against Novi. I guess the kids are too high and tight. We didn't play well until that safety," said the former college and professional star.

"They gave us some things in passing. We knew about them before the game so we took advantage of them."

Osborne, whose team entered the game with minor but nagging injuries, wasn't pleased with his defense.

"We didn't get a decent pass rush all night, and our secondary didn't play exceptionally well."

"The whole thing was pretty embarrassing. We got torn apart. I just hope we can recover in time mentally for Dexter Friday night."

Novi opens Southeastern Conference play against Dexter at Dexter Friday evening.

Northville journeys to Livonia to play Clarenceville, also Friday night. Osborne had special praise for Armstrong, Corcoran and Horwath.

Statistically, Novi rushed for 121 yards (but lost 42 yards in a blocked punt and wild snap from center) in 37 times.

The much-beleaguered Wroten gained 56 yards in 10 carries. Wroten and other quarterback John McMurray hit 7 of 18 passes for 60 yards. The Wildcats made 16 first downs.

Northville rushed for 143 yards in 40 carries, with tri-captain Dennis Singleton gaining 40 yards in 12 carries.

Armstrong hit on six of 11 passes for 147 yards. Horwath caught three of those passes, all for touchdowns, for a total of 62 yards, while Corcoran caught two passes for 67 yards

Ladycats claw Northville

Their two tallest players were sidelined with injuries and the new uniforms arrived stained, but otherwise it was business as usual for the Novi Ladycats.

The girls' cage power overcame a stubborn Northville defense in the first quarter and then rolled to an easy 40-9 win over its neighborhood rival.

The game, played in Novi's gym, marked the coaching debut of the Mustangs' Muriel Bedford.

"The green machine really rolled Thursday night," said the Ladycat's enthusiastic coach, Chris Hayward.

"We were moving so fast it was just a green streak across the floor. I was really proud of my mighty midgets."

That the Ladycats were short and had to resort to a fast break offense was unusual.

Ms. Hayward, with two 5'11" players, sophomore Annie Robinson and junior Laura Birou, had planned to play a more deliberate offense this year to take advantage of the new-found height.

But Birou sprained an ankle, and the night before the Northville game, Robinson broke her finger, sidelining her for perhaps the entire season.

But even with the old reliable fast break, which has become a Ladycat trademark, the Novi five had a hard time getting untracked in the first quarter.

"Defensively we did fine, especially in the first quarter," said 20-year-old Ms. Bedford.

"We used a man-to-man defense and I think that confused them for awhile. We held them to six points."

Northville failed to score, though, in the first period.

The Mustangs went to a zone in the second quarter but the Ladycat's Sue Beall, hitting from the baseline, sparked a Ladycat surge of 15 points which was responsible for a Novi lead of 21-2 at halftime.

"We loaded up on the left side of their zone in the second quarter and sent Sue to the baseline," explained Ms. Hayward.

Sue hit six of nine shots from there for the game and led the team in scoring with 12 points.

Meanwhile, the Ladycats' defense kept the young, jittery Mustangs off balance all night until the green blitz began.

"Our defense played real well and our plays were working, but we just couldn't seem to score," said Ms. Bedford, who attributed part of her team's offensive lapse

Fullback to fencer—Ed Kricitzs

To Ed Kricitzs, fencing was something you hopped over when you were a kid.

So who could blame him for playing fullback on the football team, or junior varsity baseball, or even toying with the idea of shot-putting when the now 31-year-old township resident was attending high school in Saginaw 15 years ago.

After all, for a stocky but coordinated 5'7", 175-pounder those were the sports he should have been playing.

Yet today, some of Kricitzs' fondest memories are those of his days as a collegiate fencer at one of the nation's fencing powerhouses—Wayne State University.

"That business about being thin and nimble is all a myth," says the soft-spoken Kricitzs, who now is the assistant recreation director at the Northville Parks and Recreation Department.

In his senior year at Wayne in 1971-72 Kricitzs fenced on a team that lost just one dual meet and finished fifth nationally.

He weighed 200 pounds.

The Tartars won the NCAA fencing championship in 1974 under the coaching of Istvan Danosi, called the "maestro" by players and friends.

"In order to be a fencer you have to be physically fit, have good timing and eye-hand coordination, and good reaction time," Kricitzs explains.

So even though he bore no resemblance to Errol Flynn, Kricitzs had the physical tools to touche.

He was no superstar or even a star. In fact when Kricitzs joined Danosi's team as a non-scholarship player, he had exactly two 10-week classes in fencing behind him.

"Maestro's players come from all over the world," quips Kricitzs, singling out players from Russia, and Australia.

"I came from Saginaw," Kricitzs' route to Wayne State was circuitous.

After high school graduation he went to junior college in Saginaw, worked, went back to junior college in Ann Arbor where he met his wife, Virginia, now a kindergarten teacher at Amerman, and finally settled on Wayne State where he enrolled in the fall of 1970.

"By then I decided to major in physical education and I thought I'd take a fencing class," Kricitzs recalls.

"I decided to take a beginning fencing class because it looked exotic to me. Besides I had decent luck in most sports."

He had pretty decent skill too, for instructor Danosi gave Kricitzs an A.

Encouraged, Kricitzs took an advanced class, also from Danosi in the spring of 1971. He got another A.

"He also got a phone call from the teacher."

"Occasionally, the maestro sees someone in his classes who he thinks is a good fencer and invites him out for the team."

"I don't know what he saw in me," Kricitzs says humbly, "but he asked me to try out."

So with 20 weeks of fencing under his belt, Kricitzs tried out and made a team consisting of some of the finest amateur duelers in the world.

That fabulous year for Kricitzs he competed in foil, a four-sided weapon. The other two weapons are epee and sabre.

In foil competition, the object of the fencer is to score a touch on the torso of his opponent. The winner must score five touches to win. A match lasts from a few minutes to 10 minutes. Each fencer competes in three matches a meet.

In foil, timing and hand-eye coordination are vitally important, and Kricitzs had enough of both to compete at the national collegiate level.

His record wasn't very good, but the coach of Northville's Blues softball team says his greatest moment came in practice.

"I was practicing against Rick Milazzo, a three-time all-American, and I beat him," says Kricitzs, suddenly becoming animated in his face and gestures.

"I was absolutely ecstatic, I was going bananas. I beat a three-time all-American!"

to the Ladycats defense. "But we definitely have to work on our shooting. After awhile, if the team isn't scoring, the defense will collapse."

It was also the Mustangs' first action of the year, since Ms. Bedford's late hiring meant the team didn't have time to scrimmage.

"I guess you could say that was our first scrimmage last night," joked the Eastern Michigan University student, who said her girls were jittery.

Ms. Hayward wasn't joking when she complained about her scrimmages. That's where she lost Birou and Robinson.

Meanwhile, the Ladycats wore green uniforms because their new white ones arrived stained.

Thursday's victory was the second of the season for Novi. A week ago Tuesday, the girls' outmanned Livonia Clarenceville, 48-17.

With 3:38 left in the first quarter, the Ladycats had a 19-0 lead and were never headed as Ms. Hayward emptied her bench.

Annie Robinson, who probably saw her only action of the year, played the first half and scored 12 points while pulling down 16 rebounds.

Elaine Maki chipped in with 11 points.

The Ladycats have an early season showdown in South-eastern Conference league play tomorrow when the girls travel to Dexter to play co-champion Dexter at 8 p.m.

Novi and Dexter shared the conference crown last year.

Ms. Hayward's junior varsity team won twice last week, whipping Northville, 22-3, and beating Clarenceville, 24-10.

evening when they arrived at the football field only to find that the grass had just been cut that morning and all the clippings were still on the field.

"I want to apologize to Novi for the problem," said an embarrassed Chuck Shonta. "It was deplorable. A game of this stature shouldn't have to be played under those circumstances."

The yard lines also weren't marked, making it extremely difficult for the statisticians.

Northville athletic director Ed McCloud refused to comment on the situation except to say that Osborne was understanding and that the problem didn't affect the outcome of the game.

Scores of boys carried grass off the field by hand in order to make the gridiron playable.

Northville's next opponent,

Livonia Clarenceville, lost to Dearborn Heights Robichaud in overtime last week, 19-12. The Livonia school gave up two touchdown passes in the defeat.

But the team, which Northville handled easily last year 35-0, boasts two fast runners and a veteran small but quick line.

Novi's next opponent, Dexter, squeaked by Pinckney, 15-14 and Osborne will enter the Friday night affair weary. Novi won last year, 12-0.

In other SEC action last weekend, Brighton blasted Woodhaven, 45-0, Milan whipped New Boston Huron, 21-12, Saline squeaked by Taylor Center, 7-6, Chelsea was blanked by Tecumseh, 23-0, and Lakeland shut out South Lyon, 6-0.

Western Six teams won four of six games last weekend. Harrison edged city rival Farmington, 28-20. Mott won its inter-city championship with a double overtime win over Kettering, 9-6, Walled Lake Central came from behind to beat Milford, 12-6. Canton, trailing at halftime, Livonia Bentley, 24-0, fell 32-22. And defending Western Six champ Churchill fell to Dearborn Fordson, 22-0.

Mike Bowden the big running back for Harrison, is a pre-season all-state pick by one football magazine.

The youngster proved why Saturday afternoon as he rushed for 262 yards in 37 carries to lead the Hawks to victory.

Gould runs hurt

A tree branch cost Northville cross country star Bob Gould the chance to defend his Schoolcraft Invitational title last Saturday at Cass Benton park.

As a team, however, the Mustangs finished third out of 22 Class A entrants with 150 points. Garden City was first and Farmington second, just five points ahead of Northville.

"Bob was running in the top five when the accident happened," said Mustangs' coach Ralph Redmond, recounting his star's fine, but heartbreaking 11th place finish.

"He was at the mile and one-half mark when two kids tried to run through a narrow squeeze on the course. Apparently, one of the runners brushed a branch and, like a whiplash, it sprang back and hit Bob in the face as he ran through that squeeze."

Gould finished the final mile and one-half with blood streaming down his face in what one physician at the scene called a "guttery performance."

He was then taken to the hospital for a check-up where Redmond said he was told the senior captain suffered some broken blood vessels in his nose.

Gould finished the race with a time of 16:04, 35 seconds behind winner Tim Unold of Westland John Glenn, but an incredible 26 seconds ahead of his 16:30 championship time in last year's race.

"The kids would rather have finished 50 points behind Farmington."

"We figured that each of our runners had to pick up a position in order to finish second," explained Redmond, who was frustrated because his team failed to win the big second place trophy.

"It was also a moment of realization for them too," Redmond quickly added. "They learned they're as good as anybody else out there."

Don Wilber placed 22nd, Phil Reed 24th, Brian Turnbull 45th and Jim Bedford 48th for the Mustangs who were competing against 147 other runners.

In individual meets, the Mustangs galloped home to two victories last week, beating Bishop Borgess, 21-34 and in an exciting match-up, edging North Farmington, 24-31 a week ago Tuesday at Cass Benton.

The Northville-North Farmington meet featured the match-up between two runners who Redmond labels two of the best in the state, his own Bob Gould and the Raiders Dave Good.

Good opened up a lead after a mile and one-half until Gould, who has unlimited endurance, caught his rival at the two-mile mark. Gould then opened up a 30-yard lead over Good.

But in the last 300 yards Good put on a strong kick and edged Gould at the wire by 10 yards. His time was 16:03 compared to Gould's 16:09.

"Bob doesn't have a good kick and that's where he can be beaten," admitted Redmond. "But he's getting better at it. I'd say both runners are equal."

Northville won the race thanks to its depth.

Football contest

O'Leary wins

Who would have figured that sixth-ranked Missouri would take it on the chin in its clash Saturday with Illinois?

Maybe Illinois, but certainly not contestants in the opening week of this newspaper's annual football contest.

The 31-6 upset surprised nearly everyone who entered the contest. For 14 contestants it was the lone flaw in otherwise perfect entries.

Because 14 persons missed just the one game, judges turned to the tie-breaker — the score between Ohio State and Penn State — to determine the winners.

Even here, few contestants figured the Buckeyes would have such a difficult time in edging the Nittany Lions, 12-7.

Closest guess was submitted by Mickey O'Leary of Westland, who picked the Buckeyes to win by a score of 21-10. Mickey, therefore, picked up the first place prize money.

Second place money went to Gary Beason of 1840 Valencia, while Dave Knauss of 41808 Sunnydale Lane, took third.

Others who submitted entries containing only a single error, but who finished out of the money because of their predicted scores, are:

Thomas Wick, Tony Hamp, Greg Suckow, David Hooten, Bobby Poole, Charley Johnston, Doug Castillo, Arydce Feole, Patrick Ismon, Ron Barnum, and Fred Robinson.

Twenty-seven entries contained two mistakes, 18 three mistakes, 12 four mistakes and all the others had five or more errors.

Among the other games that caused problems for contestants this week were:

Notre Dame's 23-0 shutout of Purdue, Minnesota's 28-14 win over Syracuse, the Northville Mustangs' 41-6 triumph over Novi, and Michigan State's 21-10 victory over Wyoming.

Athletes of the Week

Golfers roll on links

GREG ARMSTRONG

Two way football star Greg Armstrong sparked for the Mustangs in its impressive opening game victory over Novi, 41-6. The senior passed for three touchdowns and completed six passes for 147 yards. He ran five yards for another touchdown and intercepted a pass while playing in the defensive secondary.

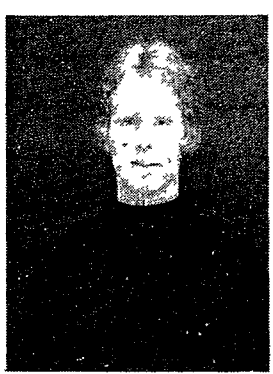

CATHY FOUST

For the second year in a row, Cathy Foust has been chosen by her Northville swimming teammates as a captain. And last week the senior showed why Cathy grabbed four first places in two meets and swam legs of winning relays. She captured the 200 and 500 yard freestyle and swam a leg of the 400 yard freestyle.

JEFF JOHNSTON

Jeff Johnston has put together two outstanding weeks for the Novi cross country team. Only a sophomore, he already has set a school record for the grueling three-mile course at Cass Benton Park. Last week Jeff took first place in a meet against Milan and then finished second in a four-team invitational at Manchester.

ANNIE ROBINSON

Annie Robinson only played 12 minutes of basketball in Novi's opening game rout of Clarenceville. But the 5'11" sophomore showed why her coach changed the Ladycat's style of play to a slowdown offense. Annie scored 12 points and pulled down 16 rebounds. Unfortunately, she'll miss at least the next six weeks with a broken finger.

Experience and consistency paced the Northville golf team to four victories last week.

"No one's played outstanding golf but everyone's been playing good golf," said a pleased coach, John Edwards.

The first year coach saw his senior loaded team whip four opponents last week, Livonia Churchill, 191-209; Redford Union, 199-209; Dearborn Heights Crestwood, 197-205; and Walled Lake Western, 201-227.

In the Western victory, medalist was Don Dales, a senior, who shot a 39 for nine holes while the team averaged a 40.2.

It was Chip Chamberlin's turn to be medalist in the Crestwood battle. The senior shot a 37 while the team was averaging a 39.2.

Senior Kirk Mack was medalist in the Redford Union win with a 38, one and one-half strokes better than his teammates' average.

Against Churchill, Dales and Mack tied for medalist, shooting 37's. The team averaged 38.2.

"Just a look at who our medalists are indicates how balanced we are," said Edwards of his defending Western Six champions.

Novi's varsity cheerleaders had reason to be proud of their recent rip to the Grand Nationals held by the United States Cheerleading Association (USCA) in Lansing. Novi's team placed sixth among the 80 squads from throughout the United States participating in the event. Only squads which had previously won competitions from cheerleading camps sponsored by the USCA

New coach debuts

Mustang tankers win two

Debbie Brinkman's baptism of fire went swimmingly as Northville's new girl's swim coach saw her squad roll up two impressive victories last week.

The 20-girl squad squashed Redford Union, 56-27 last Thursday after winning its first meet of the season two days earlier at the expense of Walled Lake Central, 54-28. Both meets were held at the Northville High School pool.

"I think we made a pretty good showing this week," said the 22-year-old coach who is fresh out of Western Michigan University.

"Our spirit is up and we're starting to come together as a team."

Against Redford Union, the defending Western Six tankers lost only one event, the individual medley.

Cathy Foust, a senior co-captain, grabbed two first places in that meet, winning the 200 and 500-yard freestyle events. She also swam a leg of the winning 400-yard relay team which included Lori Herguth, co-captain Carol McLaughlin and Kyle Roggenbuck.

enough for first place, as the tankers lost that event and only one other, the individual medley.

Cathy Foust again won twice, in the 200- and 500-yard freestyle. Mikalonis took the backstroke and butterfly, both at 100 yards.

The 400 yard relay team, comprised of Foust, Mikalonis, Robbenbuck and Shaw sizzled in the water with a time of 4:07.6, a clocking that impressed Ms. Brinkman.

Northville has a big meet 7 p.m. tomorrow night when Livonia Churchill invades for an early season showdown in the Western Six.

Johnston, McKenney pace Novi as Wildcats get slowly better Things are looking up for Norm Norgren and his young Novi cross country team.

Although the harriers lost twice last week, the team's two top runners continue to win while the times of the team's other runners improved.

Further, Norgren's recruiting efforts payed off as seven youngsters joined the squad last week.

Novi lost to Milan last Thursday, 25-36, but sophomore school record holder Jeff Johnston, and senior captain Jeff McKenney took one-two in the race.

Earlier last week, Novi finished fourth in a four-team invitational at Manchester.

Johnston finished second in that meet with a time of 16:40 while McKenney finished fourth in a close battle with a clocking of 17:02.

Both boys earned medals for their performances, while McKenney earned special praise from his coach who noted that the 12th grader knocked 90 seconds off last year's time.

"Our other boys finished last but we're getting close to our goal of getting those kids into the 18-minute mark," said a more confident-sounding Norgren.

Manchester won the meet, Dexter was second and Ann Arbor St. Thomas finished third.

Norgren was pleased with the performance of sophomore Gary Anthony in the Milan meet.

Running with only four days of practice, the newcomer turned in a highly respectable time of 20:36. The youngster had never run cross country before.

Netters ready for Churchill

Northville girls' tennis coach, Uta Filkin, is confident as her tennis team prepares to enter Western Six competition Thursday with a home match against Livonia Churchill.

The girls finished pre-season play with a 2-2 record, but improved greatly in their main weakness, doubles, Mrs. Filkin

"The doubles are shaping up fine," said the seven-year coach.

Even so, the Mustangs lost to Livonia Franklin Monday in close, marathon matches, 5-2.

Northville's only winners were singles players. Number one singles Lori Hopping had little trouble with Bea Grechcumbo, 6-3, 6-2, while number four singles Marie Maglia took a two and one-half hour match from Sandy Chavey, 7-5, 5-7, 6-3.

Number two and three singles players, Becky Albus and Paula Horst found their games hampered by the gusty, windy conditions. Both girls consequently lost close matches.

Novi golfers improving

Novi's young golf team journeyed down to Concord Monday to compete in the 15-team Western Invitational Golf Tournament.

The Wildcats were teeing off against some of the finest Class B golf teams in the state, including defending state champ Parma.

When it was over, Lumen Christi grabbed the title with a 303, almost par, and Novi finished in 13th place but only 41 strokes behind the champs with a 344.

Richard Ling shot an 80 and Phil McCarty an 85 for the Wildcats.

"We're slowly but surely getting our scores down. We're young and that causes our inconsistencies," said Novi coach Tim Falls.

Mustang JV's win

Not to be outdone by the victorious varsity, Northville's junior varsity team won its first game of the season last Saturday evening, edging a tough Dearborn squad, 14-8 at the Northville football field.

Coach Darrel Schumacher's squad spotted the visitors an 8-0 lead in the first quarter.

The Pioneers scored on a 59-yard play action pass with 8:50 left in the quarter.

But the second quarter was all Mustangs.

Quarterback John Marzonie culminated a 35-yard Mustang drive with a six-yard run around right end. Marzonie then hit end Jeff Norton with a two-point conversion to knot the score at eight with 10:33 left in the first half.

Six minutes later Mike Lurvey took a pitchout from Marzonie and scampered 18 yards for what proved to be the winning touchdown, 14-8.

Northville also won the statistics battle with 207 total yards and 22 first downs, compared to Dearborn's 168 total yards and 17 first downs.

Wildcat JV's win

Novi's junior varsity football team opened its season on a successful note last Thursday evening, ripping Willow Run 22-8, at home.

The young Wildcats scored first in the second quarter when defensive tackle Bob McAllister picked up a fumble in the Willow Run backfield and raced 50 yards for the touchdown. The extra point was missed.

Sophomores Duane Pohlman and Jeff Laverly combined for the team's final 16 points in the last stanza. Halfback Pohlman galloped 50 yards from the line of scrimmage for Novi's second score. Then quarterback Laberty picked up two points on the conversion with a two-yard run, upping Novi's lead to 14-0.

Later in the quarter, Laverly sneaked over for Novi's final touchdown with Pohlman adding two points on the conversion.

Willow Run's touchdown came with 1:08 left in the game on a pass play. The point after attempt failed.

Jeff Arbour intercepted two passes for Novi while teammate John Williams, a 120-pound noseguard played outstanding defense.

Recreation sports round-up

Northville boys and girls get a real kick out of soccer.

Ten days ago 210 youngsters began competing in five soccer leagues which compete against teams from leagues in Farmington, Livonia and Plymouth.

Northville is fielding one team in the boys 16 and under age group; two teams in the 14 and under age bracket; three teams in the 12 and under age division; and five teams in the 10 and under age category.

Two girls' teams are competing in the 12 and under age group.

In girls' play last week, the Foxes edged Livonia Two, 1-0, while the Livonia One team blanked the Rovers, 4-0.

In 16 and under play, Livonia Arsenal nipped Northville Arsenal, 3-2.

Northville teams in 14 and under had a rough time, losing twice to Livonia teams. Arsenal fell, 7-2 to Livonia One, while Livonia Two upended Hotspurs, 4-2.

Boys in the 12 and under age category had better luck for Northville, Hotspurs just got by Livonia Two, 3-2, Rowdies blanked Livonia Eight, 1-0, but Arsenal fell to Livonia Nine, 2-1.

In the boys 10 and under, Arsenal brought out the heavy artillery and easily disposed of Livonia Nine, 6-0.

There'll be an organizational meeting 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, September 29 for all people, age 19 and over, interested in playing in the Novi Recreation Department's co-ed volleyball league.

The meeting will be held in Room 1 in Novi High School.

frequently assumed menial tasks because he was unable to find others to do them and because "he'd rather do it himself than have it done at all (chalking fields, carrying equipment, etc.)." And as he began doing some of these things people began to see it as his duty when in fact, his duty was that of an administrator.

"For the good of both programs — the city recreation program and the community education program — we just think it would be better for Milan to limit his activities to community education and that the city use its share of his salary ($4,000) to hire part-time help for recreation," said the superintendent.

"We feel he has been overburdened, and we need him full time (for community education)."

Council members indicated that they will study the summer program, assessing its costs, and determine what can be done to continue and perhaps expand it. One council member observed, that the school's decisions may in fact prove a blessing since it will force the city to come to grips with parks and recreation responsibilities.

Tax to solve sewer problem?

other communities have done so and pegged the tax on the fact that the sewer services the entire community by improving water quality since septic tanks would not be seeping into the water system.

Council unanimously approved the transfer of $155,000. The money is to be repaid, as much as possible, when residents using the system make their next debt retirement payment. Todd did not say what would happen if there is insufficient money generated.

Novi to rescind tuition action

Novi will probably be rescinding in the near future its passage at the last regular board meeting of tuition figures for students for the 1976-77 school year.

The board had approved tuition costs for elementary students of $1,285 and for secondary students of $1,478. The figures were in line with a state tuition bill amendment requiring school districts to charge the full per capita rate to each student attending the district while living in another school district.

But the Novi Board will probably be lowering that amount to $300 to $400, according to Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz, as the result of a letter from the governor and top senate and house leaders reassuring the expected postponement of the bill.

According to Dr. Kratz, House Bill 6407 has been introduced and is the legislation which, if passed, would ultimately postpone the full per capita charge for a year. That full per capita charge amendment was signed into law earlier this year by the governor but received stiff opposition.

The bill, intended to help school districts hurt by large numbers of tuition students, would have had the effect of making the cost of tuition prohibitive for families which intended to move into a new district, but not by the required fourth Friday. Thus, those families would have to keep their youngsters in their former school district and transfer them once residence was established within the new school district.

Both Dr. Kratz and Northville Superintendent Raymond Spear opposed the bill, noting it was not good for students to be moved from one school district to another in the middle of a school year.

It also presented particular problems for Novi which had earlier agreed for 35 students to attend Northville High School on a tuition basis. Those students were in an area annexed recently by the Novi School District from the Northville School District.

Over the three years the agreement would encompass, Novi could have found itself losing an undetermined amount ranging upwards of $50,000 because of the law.

Dr. Kratz said that with the postponement for a year, he is hopeful an equitable solution will be reached on the state level to the tuition problem. "Our input will be there," assured Dr. Kratz.

Spear, however, was cautiously optimistic because of the postponement, noting that only a concerted effort of affected school districts can bring about the necessary change before the next school year.

Hearing set

Walled Lake Western High School has been selected as the site for the October 4, public hearing to be conducted by the State Highway Commission on the M-275 proposal.

The hearing will begin at 10 a.m.

The board and council also discussed the summer recreation program and discontinuance by the city of the use of Community Education Director Milan Obrenovich (see related story).

The last matter to come before the two bodies concerned the community building.

The school board wants to sell the old Novi Elementary School and it requested an option from the city on the community building so that the total complex can be sold as one package.

Related issue is that of heating the community building when the school decides to close down the school, now temporarily and partially being used for a special school program.

The two buildings are connected, with the school's heating plant serving the community building. The school occupies approximately 11 acres, the community building one acre.

School board members contend that in selling the property, neither building has much value. A potential buyer, they argue, will be interested in raw acreage and probably will remove both buildings for a new development.

Sale of a single package, they reason, will generate greater revenue.

However, it is the method of placing a value on the community building that sparks differences of opinion by city and school officials.

The school suggests that in the event of sale, the school district and the city should receive shares equal to the amount of acreage owned by both. Last week, however, Councilman James Shaw proposed that an independent appraisal of the community building might be a more equitable method of arriving at its value and the city's share of the sale price.

And Mayor Gilbert Henderson wondered aloud if a trade-off of the community building for optioned land in the 10 Mile city-school complex area might be feasible.

To this latter suggestion, however, Dr. Kratz observed that in his opinion the city's chief concern upon sale of the community building should be to replace the facility — not use sale monies for other purposes, i.e., trade-off.

Former board member Ray Warren urged the council to consider the fact that the community building was financed originally by public contributions, spearheaded by the board of commerce, and that morally, therefore, the city should not through technical ownership hold out for a larger share of the money. "Basically, the city and the school serve the same people."

Councilman Robert Schmid, however, reminded Warren that while it may have been a cohesive community that built the facility, "times have changed," and today the city must also look out for the welfare of city taxpayers who are not part of the Novi School District.

Pit problem

Mrs. Barbara Gramer, a Northville Township resident at 18831 Beck Road, illustrates the problems of living next door to a gravel pit as she picks up litter on her property. Mrs. Gramer and her husband, Dennis, appeared at last Thursday's township board meeting to seek help with trespassers who, they complained, regularly visit the open pit owned by Dearborn Realty. Signs and even the couple's dog, Heidi, have not deterred violators. Township police promised to continue cooperating but stated fencing seems to be the only way to keep swimmers from area pits.

Happy birthday 'mama'

By NANCY DINGELDEY

On the guise of attending a library board meeting, Rose Victory was led like alamb to what she thought was a tour of the City Annex facilities.

LaLeche meets

La Leche League of Plymouth-Northville will hold a new series of meetings beginning September 21 at 8 p.m. at Geneva United Presbyterian Church, Sheldon Road north of Ford Road in Canton Township.

Topic of discussion at the first meeting will be "The Advantages of Breastfeeding to Mother and Baby."

La Leche League states it is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping interested mothers give happiness and security to their babies through breastfeeding.

Meetings are scheduled in a series of four monthly ones. Format for each will be an informal discussion of the different phases of breastfeeding.

But instead of a tour, she was shaken with calls of "surprise" as the expectant mama was feted with a baby shower. Some 50 friends and relatives joined in the fun honoring a new little Victory expected in early October.

Coupled with the baby greetings was a rousing chorus of "happy birthday" to Rose who says she was celebrating her "19th" that same day.

A beautiful assortment of gifts were chosen for the little one including three baby books. A quip from Rose said she hoped that didn't indicate something she was unaware of, triplets.

Gathering admiring glances was a lively hand-quilted and appliqued crib quilt presented by Rose's sisters and nieces. All had a hand in making the beautiful multi-colored covering.

Rose, of course, was asked if any names had yet been chosen for the little one which is a great subject for conversation. People just love to add their thoughts to baby naming.

One, that we're sure will never be used was suggested by good friend Pam Dodge.

She suggested "Anne Autumn" Victory.

Things coming up... This Saturday at the ball diamonds behind City Hall is the annual Decathlon for all Wixom youngsters from first through sixth grades.

Sponsored by the Wixom Parks and Recreation Department, the event always turns out the kids in droves. Athletic events are divided into lower and upper elementary classes with some adjustments made in events for the boys and the girls.

One minor change will occur in the bike races scheduled for the upper elementary boys and girls. In the past, each child had to bring his or her own bike.

Not so this year. The bikes this year will be provided by parks and rec. The events are scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. with medals and ribbons awarded to the winners immediately following the conclusion of all events.

A general membership meeting that could be entitled "What is a Friend?" is scheduled for Thursday, September 30 at 1 p.m. in the Wixom Library.

The meeting is the first of the new year scheduled by the Friends of the Library and is open to anyone who has an interest in the workings of the programs offered at the library.

For those of you who perhaps are not acquainted with just what the Friends do, it might be well to reiterate. The only channel through which anything "extra" gets done at the library is through the Friends. As stated by the library board, the friends are an extremely important facet of the "life" of the library.

Any additional children or adult programs offered at the library are through the efforts of the Friends organization. Any additional supplies or equipment come through donations by the Friends.

If you have an interest in the library or a stake in continuing the work offered through the library, please plan to attend the meeting. Learn more about "What is a Friend."

And another special something to do this Saturday... visit the Arttrain in Milford. Sure to be a delightful Autumn-day visit, one train not only holds many cars of displays but local artisans demonstrating their respective art or craft or musical ability, throughout the weekend.

Here's an offer from Uncle Sam that area motorists can't refuse.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is offering a $50 bond, a full tank of gas and a free rental car to motorists in Northville, Novi and South Lyon who are willing to have emission tests conducted on their late model cars.

Olson Laboratories of Livonia has been contracted to do the testing which will run from two to five days.

The only restrictions on the cars are that they must be registered within 15 miles of the Livonia city limits; they must have less than 15,000 miles on them; and they must be less than 12 months old.

Pat Clements, project engineer for Olson Laboratories, says his company is even looking for cars whose emission controls systems have been tampered with.

Clements assures that that information will be kept confidential.

The purpose of the tests, according to Clements, is to develop emission estimates. Test results from any individual car will be used only by the EPA in comparison with test results from other automobiles.

"Test results also are to be used for legislative planning and auto research," Clements says.

In addition to the $50 bond, free loaner car and tank of gas, the participants' cars will be fully insured while in Olson's possession and will be kept inside a secure, closed building.

For more information, call Clements at 422-3160.

Police Blotter

Victim escapes hanging attempt following beating

In township...

A young Detroit man, subjected to a severe beating, knifing and almost the victim of a hanging, appeared bloodied and completely nude on the front porch of a residence on Six Mile Road late Friday night.

The bizarre tale related to Northville Township Police began sometime around 8 p.m. as 22-year old Anthony McGee was hitchhiking in the Ford Road-Wyoming area. A car with five white males stopped and picked up McGee, then proceeded west on Ford Road.

When the car turned north on Telegraph Road, McGee told police he asked to get out. He was told to "shut-up" with the passengers suddenly turning on him, hitting him in the face.

During the ensuing ride towards the township, McGee was subjected to beatings to his head with a rusty pipe as well as having paper cups of caustic liquid thrown into his face and eyes.

Reaching a field on Six Mile Road between Ridge and Napier, McGee was dragged from the car by his assailants where he said he received further beatings with the pipe.

McGee related the five men kicked him, beat him with their fists, stabbed him in the face and body with a small kitchen knife and burned his face and eyes with a small lighted cigar.

The men then stripped him of his clothing, put a rope around his neck and forced him to climb into a tree where the rope was then secured on several tree branches.

According to McGee, his assailants tried to force him into jumping from the tree in an apparent attempt to hang him.

Once in the tree, McGee said he began yelling for help and kicking at the men as they approached him. A car travelling long Six Mile Road slowed down causing the five to flee to their vehicle, taking with them $250 in cash McGee said he was carrying.

The shaken McGee said he then made his way down from the tree and through the wooded area to the residence for help. He was later transported to St. Mary Hospital for treatment and observation.

During the daylight hours Saturday, township police retrieved several articles of clothing found in the field as well as other articles thought to belong to the assailants.

Police are currently searching for the car and its occupants aided by a thorough description supplied to them by McGee.

The brother of a township resident who had been previously diagnosed by U.S. Army doctors as being schizophrenic, had to be forcibly restrained by officers of both the Township and Michigan State Police. Police were summoned after the man became violent and began threatening members of his sister's family early last week.

In the scuffle that followed in the road in front of the residence, the man almost succeeded in grabbing one of the patrolmen's service revolvers.

Medical attention was sought at Northville State Hospital where he was committed. Less than two days later, the now considered dangerous patient escaped from the facility, returned to his sister's home and stole her car.

The man was located later in Midland, Michigan and was subsequently taken into custody by authorities there.

A 1973 Jeep was vandalized by unknown assailants with the owner reporting some $200 in damages to the vehicle.

According to reports, the Jeep was parked at a residence on Nottingwood Court. Sometime Wednesday night, the roof, rear plastic window and right front tire were slashed.

In another case of vandalism, a 1976 Buick had its windshield smashed and the roof dented in with damages amounting to $250. The incident occurred on Hayes Court sometime between 10:30 p.m. Thursday and 7:30 a.m. Friday.

Damage amounting to $200 was claimed by the owner of a residence on Baintree Circle after someone drove across the front yard destroying the sod. Township police investigated the incident which took place at 11 p.m. Saturday.

A Realistic stereo cassette tape player was taken from a reportedly locked vehicle parked on Lagoon Court. The owner, who placed a value of $150 on the equipment said the incident occurred between 7 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. Sunday.

A 16 foot fiberglass outrigger canoe valued at $500, was stolen from its berth on the shore of Swan Harbor. The owner told police the canoe was taken sometime between August 25 and September 8.

In city...

A forcible entry burglary on East Street, apparently done during the daylight hours September 14, netted thieves an AM-FM stereo tuner amplifier.

Entry was gained by throwing a rock through a side window of the house. A search by city police of the area revealed the equipment hidden under some brush in a nearby wooded area.

Through further investigation, a male youth was later taken into custody, charged with the B & E and lodged at the Wayne County Youth Home where he remains pending examination.

A 19-year-old Livonia man, Serge Seguin, was arrested and charged with larceny from a building after taking the U.S. Seal plaque off the east wall of the 35th District courtroom in Northville.

Seguin was seen by two court clerks leaving the building concealing what was thought to be the plaque under his jacket. Realizing he was under observation, Seguin dropped the seal in the bushes in front of city hall.

After being contacted by one of the clerks, police questioned both Seguin and his female companion who denied any knowledge of the incident.

Seguin finally admitted to police that he had taken the plaque saying his girl friend said she wanted it.

Eight-year-old Thomas Walters of Langfield Street was transported to St. Mary Hospital with apparent head injuries following a car-bicycle accident on Allen Drive and Canterbury early Friday night.

According to witnesses, the boy was riding his bike in the left lane of the street towards the approaching vehicle driven by 19-year-old David Harrison of Shadbrook Road when the collision occurred.

A carved green and gold sign announcing "antiques" was reported stolen from the Village Pump Antique store on Main Street.

The sign had been removed by the owners to do some repair work on it. The theft was not reported until the owner thought she saw the sign elsewhere for sale.

Value of the sign was said to be $200.

In Novi...

Quick police work netted the arrest of three individuals allegedly involved in the armed robbery of the 7-Eleven store in Novi Tuesday morning.

According to officer Jack Grubb, police were called at 3:35 a.m. in response to an armed robbery at the 7-

Eleven which is on Meadowbrook road just south of 10 Mile. A lone subject reportedly entered the store holding a rifle and wearing a mask. He was given $146 from the safe and the till before fleeing to a waiting van parked in the nearby Novi Plaza on 10 Mile.

A former security guard at the Frito-Lay Company in Novi was arrested September 9 and charged with the breaking and entering of the business in August.

Taken from the Frito-Lay office in the B & E were several books of "travel orders" which resemble checks. They are issued to truck drivers to make cash available to them while enroute. Detectives received reports of these checks being cashed.

Detectives were able to trace some of the cashed checks to Abdon Cardona, employed at one time as a security guard at the company. Found in his possession at the time of his arrest were three books containing 50 travel orders each. Cardona had already cashed $3500 of the vouchers.

Officials from the Travel Order Company told Novi Police they felt the total amount of checks already cashed will amount to over $10,000.

Cardona was lodged in the Oakland County Jail with personal bond set at $10,000. Examination is scheduled for September 27.

If convicted, Cardona faces a five year jail term plus a $2500 fine.

A construction worker received serious leg injuries Thursday morning when the wall of a building he was working on at 50577 West Ten Mile Road collapsed. The worker, 32-year-old Dwight Gregory asked Novi Ambulance attendants to take him to Henry Ford Hospital West in West Bloomfield.

"Doctors at the facility told Gregory his injuries were too severe to be treated there with ambulance attendants subsequently transferring the injured man to Sinai Hospital in Detroit.

While enroute to that hospital, the ambulance was involved in a collision with a car resulting in injuries to an ambulance attendant.

The ambulance was able to complete its run with Gregory finally arriving at Sinai. The injured attendant was then taken to Botsford Hospital for treatment.

A U-Haul trailer rented from the I-96 Sunoco station was stolen from its parking spot in the Watervliet Apartment complex. The trailer disappeared sometime between 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and 5 a.m. Thursday.

The trailer had a value of $200.

A 1971 Ford Torino was stolen from a parking lot at Paragon Steel Friday night. The owner told police he saw the car at 11 p.m. but found it missing at midnight.

A portable radio-tape deck was reportedly stolen from a car parked at the Beachwalk Apartments. Value of the items was placed at $120.

The incident occurred between 3 a.m. and 5 a.m. September 11.

No visible signs of forced entry were found to a car parked on the east side of the Star Cab Company building on Ten Mile Road, but a CB radio valued at $165 was taken nonetheless.

Police were told the theft occurred between 9 p.m. September 11 and 8 a.m. September 13.

The van then fled eastbound on 10 Mile.

According to Grubb, he and officer Wer Wirwille responded down Haggerty from Grand River hoping that the van had doubled back into one of the subdivisions.

Spotting a van matching the description of the getaway vehicle on Cranbrook, Grubb and Werwille stopped it and placed three subjects under arrest. Found inside a homemade bench was the rifle, two money bags and the jacket worn in the holdup.

Police yesterday were seeking a search warrant for further search of the vehicle.

The three men taken into custody were scheduled for arraignment yesterday. One is a 20-year-old from Brighton. The others, 18 and 23-year-olds, are from Novi.

In Wixom...

Wixom Police Officers Bruce Kirby and Timothy O'Shesky had no idea a check on a lone car at Marty's Texaco Station at I-96 and Wixom Road would net them, a short time later, with a prime suspect in a series of breakings and enterings to vending machines.

The two officers spotted a car parked in the station lot at 12:20 a.m. Thursday. On checking the car, the woman occupant told the officers she was tired and had pulled off the road to get some sleep.

The officers cautioned the woman, later identified as Irene Berkepile, 34, of Lansing, to lock the doors of the car. She did so and then lay down in the back seat of the car.

After checking other businesses in the area, the two officers again passed the service station and noticed the car pulling away, but being driven by a man. The time was 12:35 a.m.

Since no one else had been seen in the area when they first questioned the woman, the officers said they became apprehensive for her safety and pulled the car over. They noticed the driver make movements in the car as if he were hiding something under the seat.

Upon checking the car, officers found a ring of keys for all types of vending machines and a pair of white gloves hidden under the front seat. A lien check revealed the man, Kenneth Smith, 37, also of Lansing, had a long prior arrest record.

Smith was arrested and charged with the possession of vending machine keys with the intent to use. The woman, who had been asleep in the back seat, was also taken into custody. She was later released on $5,000 personal bond.

Smith was arraigned before 52nd District Court Judge Gene Schmelz and lodged at the Oakland County Jail in lieu of a $10,000 cash or surety bond.

Wixom Police have been contacted by the Ferndale, Livonia and Pontiac Police Departments as well as the Detroit News to determine if the pair are connected to a recent series of vending machine losses.

Someone made off with a green John Deere rotary chopper from a field adjoining a residence on West Road. The incident was reported to police on September 13.

Value of the rather large piece of farm equipment was set at $600.

A diamond ring valued at $300 was recently reported missing from a residence in the Maple North apartment complex. The exact story surrounding its disappearance is not clear and is still being investigated by police.

Three citizen band radios were reported stolen from cars parked in the employee parking area at the Ford Motor Company. All occurred on September 13 between 5 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

In all cases, forcible entry was made to enter the cars and remove the radios valued at approximately $180 each.

Township gets library warning

Northville Township has been warned that, because the Wayne County Federated Library System year begins December 1, if any substantial change in the level of services or support are to be made, it be done about that date.

The notice came to Supervisor Betty Lennox from Leo T. Dinnan, system director, and was announced at the township board meeting last Thursday.

Action was tabled until the next meeting when Dinnan is to be present.

Dinnan stated he was notifying the township as its situation following the recent millage vote "is unclear" and he, therefore, was seeking a statement of intent from the township.

Dinnan included a seven-point statement clarifying possible changes in the three-way relationship between the city, township and the system.

It points out that the millage rejection did not, in and of itself, change any existing relationship or commitment.

Until such time as the Wayne County Federated System is informed otherwise, it will be assumed that existing relationships are to be maintained at approximately existing levels.

The practice of submitting budget plans to the city and township will be continued with an attempt now being made to determine whether the township expects to continue its proportionate participation.

Dinnan points out that the federated system "must recognize the equities of all local communities and cannot compel one to assume costs rightfully chargeable to another."

If the township indicates an intention to freeze or reduce payments for library services at Northville library, including maintenance, the township was warned that the following measures would be taken immediately:

Some limitation on borrowing would be imposed to bring the ratio of use down to the level set by the funds made available by the township.

Under no circumstances will individual residents of Wayne County be able to purchase non-resident cards to borrow books from any library administered by the WCFLS.

By long-established system policy, residents of any community not participating at its full unhindered use ratio in the support of one or more libraries is not entitled to full reciprocity at other libraries in the system.

Township residents would, therefore, also be restricted at Plymouth, Livonia and Novi as far as borrowing books, but not in library use.

Dinnan spelled out amount of use township residents would be entitled to, as Wayne County residents, by reason of state aid and penal fines, even if all local support were withdrawn.

Continued would be county services to organized groups and eligible blind and handicapped residents. There would be general system services "to some degree" based on state aid, now at a dollar figure of $1,904. Some local service would be available based on $2,857 state aid and $667 in penal fines.

Alternatives of turning over these funds to the Northville library in exchange for limited borrowing or retaining them and offering walk-in service only at all member libraries were listed.

Dinnan said that the system would "hope for the best but prepare for the worst."

'Friends' set programs

Friends of Novi Library at its meetings on the first Tuesday of each month will be having programs, beginning with the October meeting.

Book reviews, a discussion of genealogy, a book sale, decorating for Christmas, a talk on covered wagon living today and tips on uses of wild plants and herbs will be topics. All programs are open to the public with times to be announced.

Friends meetings are held in the meeting room of the new library.

A new-used book sale will be held November 6 with anyone who has books not being used asked to consider donating them to the sale. They may be dropped-off at the library or at a home of a member.

Anyone interested in the Friends group may leave her name at the library, or may contact an officer. Dues are $3.

Officers are Peggy Junker, president; Stacey Chaudoin, vice-president; Nona Duffy, secretary; and Claire Ronke, treasurer.

'Traffic matters' top Northville City Council meeting

It was strictly routine business for the Northville City Council Monday night at a regular session lasting slightly more than two hours.

Traffic matters consumed most of the agenda.

The council adopted the recommendation of the police department as presented by Captain Louis Westfall pertaining to traffic on East Street at the Walnut Street intersection.

Instead of installing stop signs for north and south bound traffic on the steeply-graded East Street, Captain Westfall proposed the installation of "speed bumps" both on East Street and on Baseline Road adjacent to the high school.

Citizens from the area favored the proposal as a means of controlling speeding vehicles going to and from the high school. The council unanimously approved the installation along with warning signs informing motorists of the "speed bumps".

At the suggestion of Councilman Paul Vernon a warning sign will be installed at the intersection of North Center and Eight Mile roads where vehicles now make a righthand turn at the red light. Councilman Vernon noted numerous school children cross Eight Mile and Center at this intersection and that motorists turning right on a red light should exercise caution.

Captain Westfall also recommended better use of "one-way" signs in Mary Alexander Court to prohibit motorists from exiting onto East Main street from the one-way court and the parking lot adjacent to the First Presbyterian church.

The council also instructed the city manager to request a study of the intersection of Main and Griswold streets by Wayne County for the possible installation of a traffic light.

An appearance before the city council by representatives of the City's auditors to review the annual audit recently completed for the fiscal year ending June 30 brought words of praise for the city's financial status. "Although we normally don't pass out compliments," the auditing firm's representative told the council, "it should be noted that few cities show a general fund surplus these days." He noted that Northville had a fund balance of some $33,000 to extend into this year's budget.

The auditor also commended the city manager for his budget presentation for the upcoming year, specifically citing its clarity and completeness "normally found only in much larger cities".

The council was reminded by City Manager Steven Walters, however, that water rate hikes imposed by the City of Detroit have not been passed along to local users by Northville. The increase, which would mean an 11 percent hike to local water customers, is being contested in the courts.

It will be necessary, the council concluded, to raise local rates soon to maintain necessary reserves for system maintenance. If the hike is later reversed by the courts, a rebate plan would have to be adopted.

In other business the council heard an appeal from a resident of Allen Drive to permit the installation of a fence. The request has been turned down by the board of appeals on the basis that the fence does not conform with an ordinance prohibiting such installations on corner lots where motorist vision is impaired.

The resident explained that the lot is on a rounded corner and that a fence would prevent trespassing across the yard. Mayor A. M. Allen suggested that the council examine the case to see what may be done to alleviate the problem.

Another ordinance violation was appealed by a representative of John Mach Ford Sales. He said police had informed the company that banner displays are in violation. He noted that such displays are traditional with the auto sales' business and that they have been used at Mach's since 1965 without questioning. The ordinance prohibiting such signs was adopted in 1972.

The council ruled that the problem should be taken to the board of appeals for a possible variance.

No performance bonds necessary

Homeowners in Wixom no longer are required to post performance bonds with the city building department for construction projects to their homes.

The total removal of the performance bond came at the Wixom Council table last week in a unanimous decision with the main proponent of the measure absent because of illness.

The fight to remove this section of the building ordinance was begun several years ago by Councilman Robert Dingeldey. He strenuously objected all along to homeowners being forced into posting performance bonds for construction projects at their own homes.

Up until last May, homeowners were required to post a $100 bond before building permits would be issued for any type of construction project.

Dingeldey maintained, "For the do-it-yourselfer, the extra $100 the homeowner had to shell out could either make or break the project."

Other arguments he offered for the removal of the bonding included the thought that residents would be more willing to be "legal" and apply for building permits if they knew the additional fee was not required. He also said he felt the homeowner would be responsible for cleaning up after completion of any project.

The building department had maintained the performance bond was the only assurance they had that the homeowner would clean up and complete a job after it was begun.

Upon final inspection, the complete performance bond was returned to the homeowner.

Council did take one step in changing the bonding procedure as early as last May. At that time the ordinance was amended allowing the bonding to be done on a fee schedule based on the evaluation of the project. Dingeldey voted against adoption.

The new measure adopted last week allows homeowners to undertake projects at their own homes without posting a bond. Building permits are still required.

Covering any construction, addition, repair or improvement to the home, stipulations to the ordinance are that the homeowner do the work himself and the value of the project is lower than $5,000.

Council approves multiple zoning

The rezoning of a three acre parcel of property on Nine Mile Road west of Haggerty from B-1 (local business) to RM-1 (low density multiple-family residential) was approved Monday despite strong arguments from representatives of the owner.

The parcel was zoned in 1970 to local business as part of an RUD (residential unit development) plan which expired two years later without being instituted. Sharon Gold subsequently purchased the property in 1975 with the intent of placing a neighborhood shopping center there.

In late 1975, the council attempted to rezone the parcel to multiple on the new zoning map. Owner Sharon Gold through her attorney later requested a public hearing on the zoning change stating that proper notification was not given.

City Attorney David Fried indicated that because of the circumstances surrounding the attempted rezoning, the parcel was not rezoned and thus the council had to take action again.

Planning consultant Charles Cairns recommended in favor of the rezoning. He contended that the RUD had provided a guarantee of multiple around the shopping center, but without the RUD, zoning of business for the property could cause neighboring property to go commercial and develop a strip of commercial.

In addition, Cairns indicated a fear that the proposed neighborhood shopping center could be turned around to face Nine Mile instead of into the property to service surrounding residential which does not yet exist. Planning Board recommended in favor of rezoning the property.

James Ginn, attorney for the owner, argued that residential traffic would be decreased because of the shopping center as it would service people who could walk or ride bikes to the center.

Representatives of nearby Lakewood Condominiums said that surveys of nearby residents indicated they were almost unanimously not in favor of the shopping center.

Council voted 6-1, with mayor Gilbert Henderson opposed, to rezone the property to RM-1 multiple.

Chamber pushes tree plan for downtown Northville

Having been away for awhile, your car passes the familiar Northville spring, rounds the Jaycee park bend, moves by the duck crossing and the Ford plant and into the central business district.

Almost immediately you notice the change. Northville's Main Street is accented by trees — trees that are growing from handsome curb-side planters. Shrubs and flowers grow at the base of the trees.

It's been nearly a hundred years since trees have grown along this stretch of Main Street, but if the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce has its way your trip into the downtown area will indeed be met by green foliage.

The idea of planting trees in the downtown area to make it a more pleasant place to visit and shop has surfaced periodically for years.

But not until now, in the face of a concerted push by the Chamber, has the idea moved so close to reality.

Beautification of the downtown area is one of several shopping enhancement projects proposed by the Chamber and a retail merchants committee last month, discussed again last week, and now being packaged for formal presentation to the city council.

The efforts received another boost Thursday when Mayor pro tem Paul Vernon pledged his support to the chamber in a meeting at the city hall.

"I welcome the activity being undertaken by the Chamber," Vernon told its members, "because I think it certainly is a progressive step in the right direction..."

"I think your goals are commendable, and I want to express my willingness and desire, as chairman of the Northville Beautification Commission, as chairman of the Northville Historical District Commission, and also as a city council representative, to work very closely with you in these endeavors."

The proposal of the chamber calls for trees to be planted on both sides of Main Street, from Hutton to Center, and on Center Street, from Main to Dunlap.

Perhaps 10 parking spaces would be removed to permit planters to be inbedded in the streets at strategic points. Professional advice will be sought to determine the kinds of trees to be planted.

According to a spokesman for the Chamber, the tree planters would be similar to those in downtown Ann Arbor.

Although a few merchants have voiced concern about possible loss of parking spaces in front of their buildings, most appear to favor removal of them to permit the tree planting.

Meanwhile, the Chamber is pursuing its recommendation of a month ago that deteriorating curbs and sidewalks in the downtown area be replaced by the city.

Also it has been confirmed that the city council already has plans on the drawing boards for beautification of the median area along South Main Street. Curbing, brick-work, drainage and plantings are planned.

At its meeting last week, the Chamber heard a report that its proposal that special movies be shown for children of shoppers has received confirmation by the owner of the P&A Theater.

Initially, a 90-minute showing is to be held on Saturdays beginning October 9. Time of the movies and the manner in which children will gain admission have not yet been finalized.

A proposal now under consideration calls for participating merchants to be assessed $5 monthly by the Chamber to pay for the movies, which reportedly will cost $90 to $120 per showing. Participating merchants, according to one plan being considered, would be given a number of tickets which could be given to customers a few days before the shows.

THE NOVI NEWS

Seating capacity is 300, it was noted, so the number of tickets made available will be limited. Shows will be especially tailored for children.

To help get the project off the ground, the Chamber has pledged $100 as back-up funds to be used in the event initial participation by merchants is slow to materialize.

Among other matters to be discussed Thursday by the Chamber are:

- A general consensus that the interior stairwell on the Cady Street parking deck should be closed immediately for the safety of patrons, and that some kind of clear plastic covering should be installed over the exterior stairways.

- General consensus that maps outlining location of stores, businesses, crafts shops, and points of interests should be developed and displayed in stores, and that the city should be approached about possibly building a kiosk in one or more of the municipal parking lots where maps and activity information could be displayed.

- Decision to investigate the possibility of obtaining postcards of Northville trademarks.

- Paul Folino reported that buses for children can be obtained for $150, including driver, per day, that the owner of Northville Lanes has pledged financial assistance to landscape the parking lot at the southwest corner of Main and Center, and that the owner will grant permission to the chamber for installation of a drinking fountain at this corner if it is desired.

Enrollment here below projections

Projected enrollment in Northville schools fell 69 students short of actual enrollment on September 10.

The total number of students in the system is 4,432, while last January's projection for the fall 1976 enrollment was pegged at 4,501.

Kindergarten — 262 projected, 280 actual for an increase of 18 over projection.
Second grade — 304 projected, 279 actual or 25 under projection.

Third grade — 303 projected, 290 actual, minus 13.

Fourth grade — 336 projected, 323 actual, minus 13.

Fifth grade — 354 projected, 338 actual, minus 16.

Sixth grade — 358 projected, 351 actual, minus seven.

Eighth grade — 366 projected, 355 actual, minus 11.

Ninth grade — 386 projected, 381 actual, minus five.

'Used Fair' set in Novi

A "Used Instrumental Fair," sponsored by the Novi Foundation for the Performing Arts and the Novi School District's music department, has been scheduled for Tuesday, September 28.

The fair will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. in the high school commons area.

Persons who have musical instruments they would like to sell or those who are interested in purchasing a good used instrument are particularly invited to attend the fair.

Trained musicians are to be available at the fair to help sellers price and buyers choose instruments.

"We're asking that those persons selling instruments to bring them to the school at 6 p.m.," a spokesman said.

In addition to the fair sale, entertainment is planned and refreshments will be served.

Those wishing additional information are asked to call 349-0036.

Novi High School is located on Taft Road between 10 Mile and 11 Mile roads.

"When you're sick or hurt, I can give you some old-fashioned attention."

Northville greenery

Trees dot the Northville landscape, but in the block-long central business district trees have been absent for many years. A project being pushed by the Chamber suggests that trees be planted on both sides of Main and Center streets in the CBD to make it a more pleasant place to shop. Main Street, in this aerial photograph, curves past the Jaycee park and the Ford plant, and into the downtown area. The open area at the left (middle) of the picture is the parking for Northville Downs.

Beautiful sculptured rugs are possible today and can be found both plentifully and inexpensively. But it was not so very long ago when those lovely sculptured effects were very rare. This is because the sculpturing was done by hand, by a method called hand carving. It took a sure hand and a good eye to keep the patterns running evenly throughout the work. Today, the same patterns are worked on the looms and woven into carpets as they are being made.

Official Northville City Council minutes

Northville City Council Minutes,
August 30, 1976

In the absence of Mayor Allen, Mayor Protem Vernon called the meeting to order at 8:00 p.m.

ROLL CALL Present: Folino, Johnston, Nichols, Vernon. Absent: Allen, excused, out of state.

MINUTES OF PREVIOUS MEETING: The minutes of the August 16, 1976 meeting were reviewed with the following change: Page 5, paragraph 5, should read, "front entrance and commercial vehicles in residential areas."

The minutes were approved as corrected.

MINUTES OF BOARDS & COMMISSIONS: The minutes of the Northville Planning Commission meetings of July 20 and July 6, 1976 were placed on file.

Mayor Protem Vernon had a question concerning the Planning Commission minutes of July 6, the second page first paragraph. He questioned the conditional site approval of Mr. Gerald Stone, 255 E. Main, pertaining to the lack of parking space.

The City Manager explained about the parking spaces and stated Mr. Stone had applied for a variance on the site width and would provide the net requirement by a cash payment.

Councilman Folino asked if Mr. Stone had the right to stack lumber on the property. He has stacked lumber outside of the building before.

Councilman Folino asked if the building inspector would check and make sure he is complying with the code.

APPROVAL OF BILLS: None presented.

POLICE REPORT: Not prepared for this meeting.

COMMUNICATIONS: A resolution from the City of Royal Oak pertaining to raising the legal age to 21 for the purchase and consumption of alcoholic beverages was read.

The City Attorney commented lowering the legal drinking age has given nothing but problems and requested that the Council take action.

Motion by Councilman Folino support by Councilman Johnston to adopt a similar resolution in support of raising the legal drinking age to 21 and send to the appropriate leaders in the Michigan Senate and House of Representatives.

Carried unanimously.

COMMUNICATION: From the Wayne County Board of Commissioners concerning adopting a policy of authorizing "at-the-door" or "in-yard" garbage pickup service for all blind, aged or handicapped citizens if they are the sole occupant of a residence and are so disabled that they are unable to perform the chore without endangering their health and safety.

Mayor Protem Vernon stated we have been doing this and suggested we write a letter to Wayne County so stating.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM CITIZENS: Mr. James Thomas, 605 East St. and Mr. Richard Warner, 146 Walnut, presented a petition signed by 24 residents living on the two streets.

The petition asked for a 3 way stop at Walnut and East to help the speeding problem on East. Mr. Warner explained the reasons precipitating the petition. He also stated most of the traffic were going to and from the school.

Mayor Protem Vernon queried if there would be a problem with the starting and stopping from snow and ice in the winter.

Councilman Nichols also mentioned the shrubbery on the northeast corner obstructs the view and should be cut back.

Mr. Warner stated that was his house.

Councilman Folino stated he felt the cars would have to be brought to a standstill and that winter conditions shouldn't be a problem because the intersection is among the first ones the DPW crews work on. He further stated this petition should be referred to the police department for study and a report back for the September 29th meeting.

The report was then directed to the Police Dept. for a report.

PUBLIC HEARING ON AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SEC. 2.02 OF THE ZONING ORD. & ZONING MAP: Mayor Protem Vernon read the notice and opened the Public Hearing. He asked for any comments.

Mr. Carl Folmer, owner of the property on 525 River St., asked if there was any need for an explanation for the rezoning.

There being no further comments, Mayor Protem Vernon closed the Public Hearing.

Motion by Councilman Folino support by Councilman Nichols to adopt the amendment to the Zoning Ordinance, Section 2.02 and the Zoning Map of the City of Northville, to rezone from LCD (Local Commercial District) all of East and West Main, Assessor's Northville Plat No. 1, located north of Seven Mile Road between Main St. and River St. Carried unanimously.

LIBRARY PROJECT SITE: The City Manager explained the communication and stated there are two matters before the Council. One is response to the school districts letter on the Library Site transfer.

The City Manager stated that the water main runs from Main to Cady and could be relocated if future school development needed it. It should be clarified to the school that the City would be willing to allow the school district to change the location.

Motion by Councilman Folino support by Councilman Johnston to adopt the following recommendations: To authorize the Mayor and Clerk, (1) sign the required documents for the transfer and (2) to approve the City's intent to vacate West Street right-of-way between Main and Cady to the School District for school purposes, with reservation of a sewer and water utility easement and with the understanding that the City will permit the school to relocate the existing utilities if necessitated by future school development, and (3) to approve a provision that both properties shall revert back to the previous owners if construction of a public library has not begun on the proposed site before December 31, 1978.

Carried unanimously.

Councilman Johnston stated he would like to see the property. The City Attorney said he would look into this. Also he will look into the wording for school purposes only and the City retaining a utility easement.

The second matter to consider is the Township's intentions regarding the joint library grant.

Betty Lennox, Township Supervisor, introduced Clarice Sass, Township Clerk, Township Trustee John Swienkowski and Treasurer Chas. Rosenberg. Mrs. Lennox discussed the Township's plans for the 89 acres deeded with a 5 year reverter clause with Thompson Brown. The five years will be up in April, 1977. She explained a Special Meeting was called by the Trustees to try and save the property by applying for a Federal Grant for a Township Fire and Police Building to be built on said property.

Mr. Swienkowski stated that there was a good reason for the rapidity of calling the meeting because there was a need to get it on the November ballot for a vote of the Township.

Three options may be considered:

1. Put it on the ballot
2. Put up an Administration building
3. Enter into a new agreement with Thompson Brown.

Their attorney felt the third item was subject to risk.

Dr. Swienkowski also stated they did not want to jeopardize the fire agreement with the City. He commented they cannot afford to have a separate fire department.

Mayor Protem Vernon stated that he felt a Township hall project grant application would jeopardize the chances to get a grant for the library.

Councilman Folino agreed that putting in a grant for the fire station would affect the library grant.

The City Manager explained the EDA regulations. It is doubtful we would get two grants. The EDA will try and distribute the monies throughout the County. Northville City and Township could not expect to get two to three times the amount that other Wayne County communities will.

Mrs. Sass commented she had attended a Seminar in Washington D.C., in May and it was stated that each project would stand on its own merit. She also commented that the Township is growing and they will have to go to the people for millage for a fire hall if a grant is not available.

Mr. Rosenberg stated the Township is still intending to apply jointly for a library. The Township does not want to jeopardize their relationship with the City for joint services.

The City attorney asked which would be the Township's first priority. Would it be the Library?

Dr. Swienkowski stated he thought that was the way it would go.

Dr. Swienkowski stated that at a meeting in Lansing it was mentioned again that all applications were to be judged on individual merit. He mentioned that Plymouth was going for a municipal complex. He further stated the reason the whole thing came up was because of the reverter clause with Thompson Brown. He felt that without actual guidelines it was just a supposition that we could not get the funds for both projects. He did not feel it would jeopardize the library.

The question was raised, would the Township people were all in favor of a library and was concerned where the money would come from in the future to operate the facility.

Treasurer Rosenberg felt the next fiscal year would be a tough one for Township finances. He would like to get representatives from the Township and from the City to work together on a close relationship. He feels there is a lack of communication between the two bodies.

Mayor Protem Vernon indicated the City would be happy to participate in such meetings.

Treasurer Rosenberg stated that the Board members had not come to ask

City approval of their action, but rather to make sure that it would not jeopardize the relationship with the City and to find out if the City had any strong feelings.

Trustee Swienkowski maintained that their equipment at the proposed fire hall would be a backup to the City service and because the Township could not afford a separate fire department.

Clerk Sass thought that the proposed hall would not have any effect on our joint services because the Township is happy with them.

Mayor Protem Vernon commented that he was pleased at the Township's concern to the meeting. Our concern is with the library. We believe the community needs one.

Clerk Sass stated that they also have an obligation to their voters.

Councilman Johnston stated the City Council became concerned after the last Township millage election where the Township did not approve millage for joint services.

Mayor Protem Vernon stated he feels that therein lies the danger. As far as wanting to, we want to continue sharing services. We also want to be prepared to cope with a single effort. We try to anticipate problems with advanced planning whenever possible.

Councilman Johnston stated that the majority votes indicated that the police department is the No. 1 Township priority. Is this the direction that they would want to go?

Trustee Swienkowski stated the people in the Township are not prepared to pay for these services. He did not think the Township wanted to go their separate way.

The City Council was extended an invitation to attend the Special Meeting on September 8th.

EMPLOYEE BONDS: The City Manager stated the price quotations were in a communication before the Council. He also stated he thought the prices were high. He stated you're talking about $600 a year additional coverage for the City Manager, Treasurer and Deputy Treasurer.

Councilman Nichols commented this should be done.

Motion by Councilman Folino support by Councilman Nichols that the employee blanket bond be increased from $2,500 to $10,000.

Carried unanimously.

Motion by Councilman Folino support by Councilman Johnston to increase the individual bond on the City Manager, Treasurer and Deputy Treasurer, Controller from $5,000 to $25,000 and that it be a one-year policy.

Carried unanimously.

Motion by Councilman Folino support by Councilman Johnston to pass the Depository resolution indicating Manufacturers National Bank stating that Treasurer Steven L. Walters will deposit all public monies, including tax monies, now in or coming into his hands as Treasurer and that said resolution be signed by the City Clerk.

Motion carried.

Meeting was recessed at 9:55 p.m. Meeting resumed at 10:25 p.m.

HOUSING PROJECT: The City Manager explained the letter from Richard Burton, the recommended Allen Terrace field superintendent. Also an additional application from Richard Warner was looked at.

Motion by Councilman Nichols support by Councilman Folino to hire Richard Burton as Project Superintendent.

Carried unanimously.

The City Manager maintained the time schedule to start construction this fall. Also there would be a meeting on September 1st of the Building Authority to authorize taking bids.

However, construction contracts will not be signed until the bond bids are in and the total financial picture is known.

1975-76 AUDIT: The City Manager will invite the Auditors to the next regular meeting on September 20th.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH PARKING AREA: A communication from the Church stated that cars entering the parking lot from Cady and going the wrong way and exiting on Main causing congestion.

Discussion followed on the ingress and egress and suggestions of better signing.

Councilman Folino asked that this be turned over to the Police Dept. for study.

City Manager mentioned he had been contacted by Farmers' Cider Mill concerning putting up appropriate signs directing traffic to the Cider Mill on the City right-of-way at Center, Novi and 8 Mile, Baseline and 8 Mile for perhaps three months. Also Griswold and Main St.

Council agreed it would consider an appropriate temporary sign.

SETTLEMENT WITH POLICE SERGEANTS & CORPORALS: Motion by Councilman Johnston support by Councilman Folino to ratify the Agreement with the Sergeants and Corporals as presented.

Carried unanimously.

MISCELLANEOUS: Councilman Nichols commented on the Petition on East and Walnut Streets and stated that the shrubbery on the corner of Walnut and East was a hazard and should be cut back and that this be included in the recommendation.

The City Attorney commented on a proposed ordinance on parking between the front building set-back line and the street.

The City Attorney asked for any thoughts or ideas. He said there would be a copy in the next packet.

The City Attorney also discussed parking of commercial vehicles in residential areas. He asked how far the Council wants to go with this? The City Attorney asked do you want to say they cannot park more than two hours? He would prefer putting up a sign stating times to park.

Mayor Protem Vernon stated there was a question raised about commercial vehicles parked in residential areas. Would they be allowed to park if they were under cover; they could not be left on the street.

Also discussed was limiting to what size vehicle?

Councilman Folino mentioned the deterioration of the sidewalks and curbs in the business district. He would like to see these repaired.

Mayor Protem Vernon felt it was a very real concern. The City would also be receptive to listen to plans from the Chamber of Commerce.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 11:20 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Joan McAllister

Township minutes

Northville Township Board of Trustees—Special Meeting, August 26, 1976—8 p.m.

1. Roll Call Present: Mrs. Lennox, Supervisor, Mrs. Sass, Clerk, Mr. Rosenberg, Treasurer, Trustees Richard Mitchell, John MacDonalld, Dr. John Swienkowski. Absent: Trustee, James L. Nowak.

2. Thompson-Brown Property—Application for Public Works Grant. The special meeting was called by Trustees, Swienkowski and Mitchell for the purpose of discussing the status of the 89 acres on Six Mile Road, given to the Township in April, 1972, with a reverter clause that if at the end of five years from the date of execution title to the property shall revert to the grantor unless said property is at that time in the process of being put in use by the grantee as a Municipal Administration Center. Once the grantee commences use of the property as a Municipal Administration Center, then the reverter is of no force and effect.

Thompson Brown has gone through some changes and is desirous of receiving approximately 18 acres which abuts Six Mile Road providing the Township with a 60 foot easement back to the property.

The only way the Township could return the approximate 18 acres to Thompson Brown would require a vote of the electorate. The Township is facing a deadline on putting the question on the ballot for the November election.

The Township has plans that were drawn up in 1971, at a cost of near $10,000 for a Municipal Building and an application can be filed with the U.S. Government for 100 percent funding of this Municipal Center under the Accelerated Public Works Act.

The question was raised, would this put the library application in jeopardy? Dr. Swienkowski said that each application stands on its own merit.

Moved by Rosenberg, supported by Mitchell, to authorize up to $500 to develop plans which were prepared by Rafis, Hamill, Becker & Carne, Inc. for Township Fire and Police building and to file for a Federal Grant when the application comes into the Township but to not submit the plans until authorized by the Township Board.

The Board will consider possible approval at the September 8th, 1976 Special Meeting or before if applications are available. Also to have more specific costs secured for equipping and operation of the building, including all utility costs. 2. Discuss possible approving of grading plan for property with Thompson Brown. 3. Discuss with the City government their reaction to our application for a federal grant for a Township Fire and Police building, and their feeling of how it would impact shared fire and library services.

4. Take action on establishing a ballot item in the November 2nd election on selling or trading the 89 acres deeded with a reverter clause to the Township by Thompson-Brown in 1972, with a necessary access on the property to Six Mile Road for facilities. 5. Look into an escrow agreement with Thompson-Brown by putting a deed in escrow that will become effective April 15, 1977. Ayes. All motions carried.

Moved and supported that September 8, 1976 be set for a special meeting. Ayes. All Motion carried.

3. HUD Funds—Status of Fire Station and Equipment at the Wayne County Child Development Center. The question was raised regarding HUD funds and the relationship to the Zoning Ordinance. It was pointed out that any time you take Federal funds you are under Federal guidelines. This matter to be discussed at a future meeting.

Moved and supported to adjourn. Meeting adjourned at 10:45 p.m.

This is a synopsis of the meeting. True copy may be obtained at the Township office.

Painting honors late friend

"She was very important to her community," recalls Mrs. Audrey Murphy, a fellow resident of Novi and friend of the late Ina Gorman in whose memory an oil painting has been hung at Novi City Hall. "For five years," Mrs. Murphy adds, "she represented her homeowners' association (Orchard Hills) at all council meetings and really was responsible for the subdivision being paved."

Mrs. Murphy mentions also that Mrs. Gorman served on the city's beautification committee and "worked in every millage campaign."

The oil painting depicting graceful Queen Anne's lace and other flowers is the work of artist James D. Ross, who was born in Howell and attended University of Michigan and Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts.

He moved to New York City in 1949 and for 10 years worked in display work, free-
