

Recount likely as Carl Pursell squeaks to win

One final question: "Any regrets?" asked The Record reporter.

He smiled, thought for 30 seconds, then squirmed, finally standing as he said, "The only regret is that my father isn't here. He would have been proud. I..." and the words trailed off as the campaigner turned his head, ashamed of the tears.

An emotional man, Carl D. Pursell was winding down a rigorous campaign for the United States Congress. And his father, the man who more than any other had encouraged his son to enter politics, was no longer living.

Pursell had served on the Wayne County Board of Supervisors and now, serving his second term in the State Senate, he was intent on going to Washington where many years earlier his father had taken him to experience the electricity of the place.

But before this election would be over, Pursell would be emotionally drained.

In what may have been the closest Congressional fight ever waged in Michigan, Pursell cannot be certain even today—eight days after the election—that he is indeed headed for Washington.

The latest count gives him

CARL D. PURSELL

He's emotionally drained

a scant 337 vote edge over his opponent, Dr. Edward Pierce of Ann Arbor.

And even after the official canvass has been completed, there's the likelihood that a recount of the ballots in the Second Congressional District will be requested—either by Pursell, should the canvass show him losing, or by Dr.

Pierce should he lose.

Election night, 1976, will be forever etched in the mind of Pursell, who lives in neighboring Plymouth.

The night began with a visit to his Wayne County campaign headquarters.

"I knew I was in trouble within an hour after the polls closed," said Pursell. "The pollsters were already giving (Donald) Riegle a victory over (Marvin) Esch (in the race for the U.S. Senate). It could only mean that many voters casing their ballots for Riegle, a Democrat, would not switch to the Republican side when they came to my name."

"I pointed this out to people from Plymouth and Northville."

Admittedly worried, Pursell now headed for his headquarters in Ann Arbor—the heart of Dr. Pierce's strongest support.

With him were his wife, Peggy, and their children, Phil 15, Mark 14, and Kathy, 11.

Throughout the remainder of the night and deep into the following morning they were both buoyed by the returns coming in and disappointed. First Pursell was ahead, then Dr. Pierce, then Pursell, and then Dr. Pierce again.

When The Record deadline arrived and reporters began writing their election stories shortly after 3 a.m., Pursell was trailing by 184 votes—78,379 to 78,195.

When the children returned home, their father was losing.

But by 4 a.m. when Pursell and his wife turned in, the senator was barely ahead.

As sun came up that morning, it shone on a Pierce victory. Newscasters gave the Ann Arbor physician the triumph, so did the Monroe Evening (daily) News, which carried the streamer headline spelling out Pursell's defeat.

Governor William Milliken and the Republican party sent him their condolences.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Long wait's over

Opening of the new I-96 and I-275 expressway between Novi and Livonia will be officially opened today at 11 a.m. That section of the freeway from Schoolcraft to Ford Road has been open for a year, which means motorists may now travel between Ford and I-696 in Novi over this new ribbon of concrete which parallels the east side of Haggerty Road. Several access ramps exist along the route, including the one at the Eight Mile Road intersection shown above.

Competes with library

School applies for grant

Northville School Board voted Monday to apply for more than $600,000 of federal public works monies to renovate Main Street Elementary School.

Decision to apply for the money comes on the heels of a change in federal regulations that now permit school districts to apply for grants under this "jobs program" of the government.

It is under this same program that the city and township are applying for in excess of $700,000 for a new library, and it is under this same program that Northville Township had considered applying monies for a new municipal complex.

To date, however, the township board has not agreed to submit an application. Should the board reconsider applying for grant monies it probably would approximate $760,000.

In discussing the matter with the board Monday, Superintendent Raymond Spear said he had spoken with City Manager Steven Walter about a possible school application and had learned such an application would not conflict or jeopardize the city-township application for library monies.

However, when contacted Tuesday, Walters said that his discussion with Spear had occurred prior to the change in government regulations.

It seems obvious based on the new guidelines that in the final analysis additional applications from the same community could jeopardize the library grant application, said Walters.

"I really feel that as a community multiple applications would be a mistake. Politically, EDA and congressmen who eventually decide who gets money are not going to tolerate several projects in the same community of this size being funded."

New federal regulations concerning these grant monies puts applications of school districts on about the same footing as the city and township, Walters observed. On weight, the later date of the school application doesn't mean that it has lesser chance of approval than the library application that was made some time ago, he said.

During school board discussion of the matter Monday, Trustee Marjorie Sliger pointed out that a conflict could possibly occur.

"I think both (school application and the library application) are good ideas," Mrs. Sliger said. "I'm not saying no to this application. I'm simply pointing out that we should be aware what might

New I-96 opens today to Livonia

A long wait ends today with the opening of a major section of the new expressway bordering the east edge of Novi and Northville.

Under construction for several years, the new ribbons of concrete will carry traffic from I-696 into Livonia where a section of expressway from Schoolcraft Road to Ford Road was opened last year.

Carrying the dual designation of I-96 and I-275, the new expressway parallels the east side of Haggerty Road.

State Highway officials are still hopeful that the remainder of the expressway from Ford Road into Monroe County where it will tie in with I-175 will be opened yet this year. "It all depends on how the weather cooperates in allowing us to complete construction," a spokesman told The Record.

The opening is particularly welcomed by Northville officials, who are hopeful that it will reduce some traffic through the city that previously funneled into and out of Novi Road at Eight Mile Road.

One reason (other than the major one of expense) that county road department officials have been less than enthusiastic about Northville's proposal for a new north-south route through the city, generally following the railroad-Griswold Street right-of-way, has been their contention that the new expressway will accomplish the same traffic relieving goal as the new route.

City officials, however, have been doubtful that the driving habits of motorists can be so easily changed. Furthermore, they point out that many motorists traveling south from Walled Lake want a more direct route to Plymouth where many work in the Ford plant.

Presently, many of them are using Novi Road and Center Street-Sheldon Road for this purpose, which has caused traffic congestions at Eight Mile and Center.

Even with the completion of that portion of the freeway from Livonia to Monroe a major part of this freeway network will be incomplete.

Still under construction and not expected to be completed until late next year or early the next is the freeway along Schoolcraft Road into Detroit.

It is at the Schoolcraft intersection with the expressway that opens today where I-96 will turn east

Allow more citizen input

More citizen comment at future school board meetings is to be allowed following action of the Northville Board of Education Monday in adopting a policy change.

Until now, board policy permitted citizen comments on agenda items at the beginning of each meeting and it permitted citizen comment on any subject at the conclusion of the meeting.

With the policy change, recommended by the board's subcommittee and approved by a 5-0 vote of the board (Vice-President John Hobart and Trustee P. Roger Nieuwkoop were absent), citizens are to be permitted to speaking on subjects as they are being discussed by the board.

The revised policy carries no limit on the time a citizen may speak, but it was noted that the board subcommittee had considered a four-minute time limit, finally leaving to the board president the right to limit it at her discretion, said the subcommittee chairman, Dr. Robert Mandell.

According to Dr. Mandell, the subcommittee unanimously concluded that it is vital to permit more citizen input at board meetings.

The first paragraph of the original policy statement said:

All regular board meeting agendas shall be organized so as to allow for up to a 30-minute period immediately following the adoption of the agenda for the purpose of allowing interested citizens to make suggestions, express concerns, and/or discuss specific items which were adopted as part of the board's evening agenda.

In the revised policy, the first paragraph reads:

"In keeping with this purpose, it shall be the practice of the board to allow for time, immediately following the adoption of the agenda, for citizen comment regarding specific items on the agenda, or for citizens to request an opportunity to address a specific agenda item at the time actual board discussion takes place."

The revised policy also contains this new key paragraph:

"Citizens requesting an opportunity to address a particular issue at the time of actual board discussion shall file with the secretary of the board, immediately following this stated intent to speak, a 'Visitor's Comment Card' appropriately completed."

It was explained that these cards are to be made

Cyndi Wright wears lei

When Cyndi Wright became the bride of Dr. Dexter K. C. Wong at First Presbyterian Church in Northville, the ring she received in an old Hawaiian style, single ring ceremony was hand tooled with her Hawaiian name, Kini.

The Reverend Lloyd Brasure officiated at the 7:30 p.m. service October 15.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Wright of 40241 Fairway Drive III. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. C. Wong of Kaneohe, Hawaii.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Elizabethan-style dress of softly gathered antique white crepe-radiance. Fashioned after an original design by Ruskin and Sample of London, the gown featured a bodice of silver-etched brocade.

She wore a four-strand pikake lei. A double strand of pikake formed her headpiece. She carried a cascading bouquet with giant white orchids.

The jade heart necklace and earrings worn by the bride were given to her by the bridegroom's mother, who wore them at her own wedding in Hawaii.

Mrs. Robert McLaren, the former Ann Davis, was matron of honor in an apricot floral print gown, styled to match the bride's. She carried an apricot orchid cascade. All the bridal flowers were flown here from Hawaii.

Thomas K. Wright, brother of the bride, was best man. Another brother, Lawrence A. Wright, Jr., and Robert H. McLaren ushered. They and the bridegroom wore brown tuxedos with apricot shirts and apricot orchid boutonnieres.

A reception followed at Meadowbrook Country Club for 85 guests from Hawaii, Florida, Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma and Michigan, including Marquette.

After a wedding trip to the west coast, including stops at Las Vegas, Lake Tahoe and Los Angeles, the couple will return to Hawaii.

They met in Honolulu where Dr. Wong, endodontist, has his practice. He is a graduate of University of Illinois and University of Pennsylvania.

His bride is an alumna of Schoolcraft College and Eastern Michigan University. She plans to teach nursery school when they return to Hawaii where they have a new home at 340 LaLa Place in Kailua.

Jack Hoffman signs 'Northville-the First 100 Years'

In Our Town

Community, friends to salute author

By JEAN DAY

THIS SUNDAY is Jack Hoffman's day. The author of "Northville...the First Hundred Years" is being honored at a reception from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday in the Mill Race library.

It is being given by local Questers as the distribution of the long-planned and awaited history begins this Thursday to those who ordered by presale. Additional copies also are available for anyone who did not order in advance.

The 314-page history of our community is a hardcover book with many photographs and is carefully indexed. Credit for its beginnings must go to Silver Springs Chapter of Questers who piloted the idea for the Bicentennial and was assisted by other local Quester chapters.

Credit for its completion, however, is all Jack Hoffman's. The entire project was a volunteer effort, as Sue Holstein, Quester co-chairman with Virginia Hayward, emphasizes. He received no remuneration except the satisfaction a writer derives from being able to compile an emerging picture of the early days of this community.

Beside Jack at the reception Sunday will be his wife, Joan, who, he reveals, "checked and rechecked references, who typed and retyped each page several times, who painstakingly assembled the 1,850 name index, and who kept smiling through it all despite her husband's intemperate demands."

The author notes, too, that much of the material in the book came from back issues of the 107-year-old Northville Record, as well as from interviews. He is editor and assistant to the publisher of the newspaper.

By Sunday many of those at the reception will have picked up their copies of the history at Northville City Hall, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., with post cards that went in the mail this week to presale subscribers.

Others may collect their books from 5 to 8 p.m. Monday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. next Saturday, November 20, at Northville Public Library. All presale books are signed by the author and numbered. Remaining books are on sale for $13 including tax and may be obtained at the Main at Center Street office of The Northville Record or from Northville Historical Society, 349-2549.

From the first words in the preface, "The Time of Daffodils," readers will glean the feeling of the book: "Switzerland of Wayne County. Hamlet of the Hills — Both names were used often in years past to romanticize the place we love and call Northville."

INVITATIONS are in the mail this week for the annual benefit Christmas cocktail party hosted by Northville Mothers' Club. This year nine homes will be open for the concurrent parties that for the second year will have proceeds go toward restoration of the Wash Oak School in the Mill Race Historical Village.

This is the fifth year of the club-sponsored parties, which originated after member Bonnie Rinehart reported upon the success of a similar venture of her mother's in Denver. Exact hours of this year's parties vary according to hostess, but are from approximately 5 or 6 p.m. until 8 or 8:30 p.m. Many couples extend the evening by having dinner together later.

This year's hosts will be the Nathaniel Whitesides, Martin Rineharts, Kalin Johnsons, John Browns, Ray J. Casterlines II, Donald Willoughbys, Ned Lincolns, Walter Carters and David Longridges.

Mrs. Keith Wright, party chairman, mentions that invitations were printed in the graphics department of Northville

High School this year. The club asks that return cards be mailed back to the designated assisting hostess (each hostess has at least two assisting club members as co-hosts) by November 20.

A COOKBOOK that "sells like hotcakes" is the new one published this fall by Northville Mothers' Club. Containing recipes of members and friends, the book, which costs $3.50, was a sellout within days of the first printing of 500. An additional order for 400 more was placed by Diane Schrader.

With fewer than 50 remaining Monday, the club voted to place a third order for 300, bringing the total to 1,200. Books presently are available from members and at Schrader's Furnishings on Center Street.

"They make an excellent Christmas gift," suggests Mrs. Schrader, who also may be called for copies at 349-5163.

Location of the club's next meeting November 22 was changed to the home of Mrs. Charles Fountain in Shadbrook.

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS Walk, another holiday-season tradition in Northville, will be held from noon to 5 p.m. November 21 in downtown Northville. On this Sunday before Thanksgiving merchants hold open house to display their stocks of Christmas gifts and decorations.

The holiday greens mart of the Northville branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will be held during the walk in three places, chairman Julia Woodard announces.

Fresh green wreaths, cedar and white pine roping and balsam will be sold at Northville Plaza Mall, in Northville Square where members will be making red and gold bows for wreaths and delivering special orders, and at Miller car lot on Main Street.

Special orders may be picked up the day before the sale in Ann Miron's garage but all bows must be obtained at the square, the club states.

Furniture instead of plants captured members' attention at Monday's meeting of the WNFGA branch at the home of Evelyn Harper. Billie Crow, a manufacturer's representative of Homer Formby products, demonstrated how to strip and give an oil stain with products of the master antique restorer.

She also gave practical hints for members, suggesting that toothpaste be used with a toothbrush to brush away rings caused by wet glasses on furniture.

BAND PARENTS of Northville High Marching Band will conduct their annual pumpkin bread sale during the Christmas Walk a week from Sunday. It will be held in the parking lot next to Northville Pharmacy.

Also available will be the luminarie kits which make five lanterns to "light the Christ child's way" on Christmas Eve. Mary Whiteside, who originated the project three years ago in the community, suggests that the lights may be used any time during the holidays; when people entertain.

A popular custom in the Southwest, the lighting of candles placed in sand in paper bags is spreading. The kits are five for $1 and may also be ordered from Mrs. Whiteside, 349-8472.

SWAPPING, SELLING and buying is what it's all about at the annual resale of sports equipment conducted by the Northville Business and Professional Women at the upcoming Tivoli Fair.

Homeowners are invited to bring summer or winter equipment to the lower level of Northville Square Thursday evening, November 18; club members will be on hand to accept goods to be sold during the fair November 19 and 20 at the square. They suggest thinking of sleighs, sleds and toboggans.

Marnie Robinson weds

Marnie A. Robinson, daughter of former Northville residents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Robinson now of Mio, became the bride of Michael E. O'Brien in a double ring service here October 16.

They exchanged vows in a 4:30 p.m. ceremony at First United Methodist Church with the Reverend Guenther C. Branstner officiating at the altar decorated with candelabra and flowers.

Candle and flower arrangements also decorated the aisle. Organist Gary Becker played the wedding march from "Sound of Music." Accompanying himself on the guitar, Richard Pickren sang "If."

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. O'Brien of Ridge Road in Northville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of satin-faced organza fashioned with lace panels embroidered with seed pearls. She wore a lace mantilla and carried a cascade of sweetheart roses, stephanotis, snowdrift, miniature carnations and spring lily.

Cathy Slotnick, a former Northville resident now living in Frankfort, Michigan, was honor maid in a rust halter dress of Qiana knit with a floral sheer polyester jacket.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jeanne Simmons Of Indiana and Sue Dye of Flint, college classmates, and Mrs. Lori Osler. They wore gowns like the maid of honor's but with jackets in a different shade.

All carried natural reed baskets filled with autumn-colored dried flowers and coral sweetheart roses and tied with velvet streamers.

Kath Adams in a floral sheer polyester dress and Jeremy Adams, cousins of the bride, were flower girl and ring bearer.

Kevin O'Brien was his brother's best man. Ushers in rust tuxedos were Richard Ording, John Koenig, cousin of the bride, Mark Young, Santa M. Gubbaja and Edward D. O'Brien, a brother of the bridegroom. The bridegroom wore a camel-colored tuxedo.

A reception at Botsford Inn followed with 230 guests attending from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York, North Carolina and Florida cities and Washington D.C.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls the couple is living in Walled Lake.

The bridegroom, a 1970 Northville High graduate, is employed at Carlite Distribution Center in Wixom.

The bride, a 1973 graduate of Northville High, attended John Wesley College for two years.

Alpha Nu at festival

A group of members from the Alpha Nu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma attended a Festival of Arts program in Ann Arbor November 3.

Highlight of the festival was a lecture by Margaret Mead, anthropologist and author. She spoke to a full house at Hill Auditorium on the subject, "Youth and Aging, A Sharing of Values Through the Arts."

The Teaching-Learning Communities and the Institute of Gerontology co-sponsored the festival. The program brought the youngest and the oldest generations together in an art setting.

Miss Florence Panattoni, who now is affiliated with the Teaching-Learning Communities, was a member of the planning committee.

She was co-author of "Seven Bends of the River of Life", a part of the festival that involved dance, drama, poetry and music.

Delta Kappa Gamma members attending were Jan Hobart, Barb Le Boeuf, Gayle Fountain, Eunice Martin and Miss Panattoni.

For Tivoli Fair

Her handwork's a gift

"My time is my own. I'm just working for myself and the people I'm doing them for," explains Mrs. Ruth Starkweather of the more than 100 afghans she has made.

Now in her eighties, the long-time Seven Mile Road resident still keeps her fingers creating with a crochet hook and strands of yarn.

The result, she estimates, has been about 10 afghans a year for many years.

"I've given them away to young girls getting married, to sick and old folks and to organizations," she relates.

Most recent recipient of her generosity is the Tivoli Fair being sponsored by Northville Historical Society November 19-20 in Northville Square.

This is the fifth Tivoli Fair and the fifth time that Mrs. Starkweather has donated an afghan as a door prize.

Mrs. Gordon R. Merritt, who heads this year's fair, lauds the octogenarian's gift. It is one of two prizes which those attending have an opportunity to win with their general admission ticket of $1.

Children and students are admitted free with parents; they are 50 cents if unaccompanied. Historical society members are admitted with their membership card and may pay 25 cents for a chance to win the afghan.

Mrs. Starkweather explains that while good yarns always have been expensive she feels "it's not so much when you consider the finished result."

"I learned how when I was a little girl in England," she recalls, adding that after she came to the Northville area in the early 1900's she crocheted many for King's Daughters. She served on its board at that time.

"I've really always crocheted," she adds, recalling how her late husband, Edwin Starkweather, commented that she always had work in her hands.

"I could make an afghan in a week," Mrs. Starkweather says, "but I do one while doing other things; so it takes longer."

The other things today include lots of reading.

"I don't keep at it every day because it can be a warm job working with wool in hot weather," says Mrs. Starkweather.

She explains that she crochets a double ring to start each of the blocks which, when finished, are laid out on her dining room table in rows.

With much more time now than when her husband operated the farm on West Seven Mile Road with seven or eight farm hands, Mrs. Starkweather has a surplus of five afghans stored in her cedar chest awaiting worthy recipients.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Darnell and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith, Sr. Maternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Hoyt. All are of Northville.

Birth of their first child, Bradley Ryan, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Danny Larkin of Sterling Heights. Their son arrived November 3 at Hutzel Hospital in Detroit and weighed six pounds, twelve ounces.

Homeowners approach council

Nonbusing causes furor

Though Novi City Council last week rejected responsibility for busing Westridge subdivision students to Amerman, it indicated that it will look into the possibility of requiring sidewalks in all subdivisions under construction.

The council faced a contingent of Westridge subdivision parents referred to the city council by the Northville Board of Education. They were upset by a Northville School Board decision not to bus elementary students beginning November 8, from Westridge sub to Amerman Elementary, just under one-and-a-half miles away. State law requires busing for students living one-and-a-half miles away or further.

Representatives of Westridge Downs pointed out that while their subdivision has sidewalks, North Hills Estates through which the elementary students must walk to get to Amerman, does not have sidewalks. Without buses, the students will have to walk in the streets of North Hills.

Robert Jones, president of Westridge Downs Homeowners Association, pointed out that traffic counts made on four days along Galway showed that between the hours of 7:45 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. there were 41, 71, 54, and 116 cars on various days.

"This is the type of traffic our children must face," said Jones. He also pointed out that during the winter the street oftentimes becomes a narrow one lane and there are blind curves.

"Before long the kids will be going to school in the dark and there are no lights," added Jones. "We're hoping for some help by urging continuation of busing or further police controls."

"The last word was to go to the city of Novi and see what they can do for you," said Jones, referring to the Northville School Board.

A letter from Northville School District Superintendent Raymond Spear to the city of Novi explained, "The district knew . . . that the service would eventually be eliminated because of the close proximity of the homes to the Amerman Elementary School, but maintained the program until development of that portion of the school district was reasonably completed. Discontinuation of

Okay fulltime parks director

Responding to the responsibility of taking over the recreation program throughout Novi January 1, the city council last week approved hiring a full time recreation director.

But the approval was given with the full knowledge that come June the odds are the city will be unable to afford to continue that post.

Hiring of the recreation director became necessary when the Novi School Board recently announced it would no longer share community education director Milan Obrenovich with the city (see related story).

The Novi Parks and Recreation Commission subsequently approached the city council with a proposal to hire a full time recreation director.

"In order to meet the recreation needs of this community, we feel a full time director is essential," said a letter from the parks board. The group proposed that the current budget could be juggled enough to allow the hiring of a director at a salary of $12,000 a year with benefits and other costs bringing the real figure to $16,000.

City Finance Director Fred Todd told the council that he does not foresee funds available in the next fiscal year's budget for a recreation director because the city will be faced with picking up the complete salaries of many employees previously funded by grants.

"It's going to be real difficult for the city to pick that up," said Todd. "It will be tight to 1980."

Council member Patricia Karevich contended that even if a full time recreation director is hired, there wouldn't be any money to fund the activities and programs. She suggested hiring a part time director.

"I don't see where we can't approve it," said Councilman Robert Schmid. "It's a stopgap measure."

Mayor pro tem Martha Hoyer added hiring a director "is disillusioning the public. We're saying we have enough. Then suddenly we blew it and we can't continue it."

Councilman James Shaw suggested hiring a person who has the expertise to find grants so that the program could continue.

With five council members present, the original vote was 4-1 in favor of hiring a parks and rec director. However, Mrs. Hoyer, the lone no vote changed her vote to a yes vote because five affirmative votes are needed for a budget amendment. She indicated she did not want to stand in the way of the wishes of the majority.

The Parks and Recreation Commission afterward set up requirements for the position and is requiring that the applicant have as a minimum a degree in parks and recreation or related field. Interested applicants should send a resume to the Novi City offices parks and rec department, 43305 Sixth Gate in Novi no later than November 22.

Second site nixed

Fire station land purchase set

The thumbs up sign has been given by Novi City Council for the purchase of one fire station site in the north end, but the purchase of a second site on Meadowbrook Road near Nine Mile fell by the wayside before reaching council table.

Council was seeking the immediate purchase of two sites in order to put in an application by Friday, November 12 with the federal government for construction of two fire stations under the public works grant program which will be funding probably hundreds of projects throughout the country.

Up until last week's council meeting, the city had planned on seeking the public works funds to complete the second phase of the Novi Public Library. However, the city learned it had to own the building to apply for the grant. Attempts to work out some sort of an agreement with the library board to temporarily deed over ownership failed as the library board decided to seek the grant on its own.

Moving to what had been chosen at a previous public hearing as the second priority, council immediately sought the purchase of two sites of property on which to construct fire stations. The fire department planning committee recommended two parcels of property after an intense search that had taken several months to complete.

One of the proposed sites was on the east side of Meadowbrook Road immediately north of Village Lake. Intent was to purchase three adjoining lots which had previously been platted as part of Heatherwoode Subdivision, a portion of Village Oaks.

Word of the attempted purchase apparently leaked out to Village Oaks residents who turned up en masse at Monday's council meeting to oppose the purchase. But even before they had a chance to voice their views, City Manager Edward Kriewall informed them that City Attorney David Fried, who was absent from the meeting, had rendered an opinion earlier in the day that the lots could not be used for a fire station.

Kriewall explained that Village Oaks Subdivision protective covenants protected the use of the parcels in question.

"There's really not much point in belaboring the point," summed up the city manager. It was indicated that the next search for sites would take place on Meadowbrook north of 10 Mile and Nine Mile west of Meadowbrook.

Council member Romaine Roethel, a resident of Village Oaks herself, commented that "These types of buildings should be located where they are not inconvenient to residents in the community."

She noted that the area of the sewage treatment holding tank on Nine Mile had been investigated and that this area should be looked at again.

Brent Canup, chairman of the fire department planning committee explained that the committee rejected that area both because of the high price of land in that area and that the site might provide problems of maximum coverage for both of the elementary schools in the area.

Council was more successful in the search for a fire station site on the north end. The city manager informed the council that Meyer Leib had indicated he would deed seven-tenths of an acre of property to the city on the southeast corner of South Lake Drive and West Road for $1.

"If the city council elects to take title, it would be ours in two or three days," advised the city manager.

Members of the fire department planning committee explained that even if the grant money had not been available, this site would have been the prime location for the next fire station.

"The road between the existing fire station (on Paramount Drive) and the suggested fire station is congested in summer, it's narrow and hard to get down. We'd like to have something in that area," explained Canup.

Donald Arnett, owner of the property across from the proposed fire station said that "I haven't decided if it would be a detriment being across the street from the fire station. I imagine if your house is on fire it would be an asset."

Mayor pro tem Martha Hoyer moved in favor of purchasing the property "since the firemen's interest lies in minimum response time to populated areas and apartments are being built there." Patricia Karevich supported the motion which was approved unanimously.

Council also approved expenditure of $1,500 for an impact study to be done by the architect, a requirement under the grant program. The money for the study is to come from revenue sharing and not from the one mill fire department capital improvement fund because the study would not normally be required to this extent, said Finance Director Fred Todd.

Todd said after the meeting that he would not go ahead with the impact study until he had the deed to the property in his hands. The grant application must be in Friday and Todd said that failure to come up with a suitable fire station site in the south end meant that any chances of receiving federal funds for that fire station under the public works program are nil.

No bus stop for Wixom

Finnish area

After waiting nearly a month for the promised review, some Wixom mothers finally got an answer from the Walled Lake School Board on what was termed by the mothers to be a "serious situation."

Following prior decisions made by school administrators, the board denied an appeal by the mothers for a new bus stop.

The mothers of eight lower elementary-aged school children from the Finnish subdivision located in the northeast corner of Wixom, appeared before the school board early in October in an attempt to secure a bus stop in their area for those children. Led by spokeswoman Nancy Tucker, the mothers

Motive remains unknown in possible condo murder

Novi detectives this week are continuing their investigation into a suspected strangulation homicide, the first apparent murder in the city since 1971.

Dead is Donald H. Mitchell, 48, of 22622 Woolsey. His body was found early last week in his Lakewood Condominium home when a friend became suspicious after failing to see Mitchell for several days.

According to Novi Detective Lieutenant Richard Faulkner, Woolsey was last seen alive the previous Friday when he left for home from his job at Excella in Howell.

"We strongly feel it's a homicide," said Faulkner. Though reluctant to discuss details of the case, Faulkner and detective John Johnson revealed that Mitchell was found on the floor of his home with a bathrobe belt wrapped around his neck. Woolsey's neck was covered with deep burn marks, apparently made from the belt.

The Oakland County medical examiner's office performed an autopsy on Mitchell and declared the preliminary cause of death as strangulation.

Mitchell's car was missing from his home and subsequently found in Monroe county where Johnson said the car had been burned in several attempts to destroy the vehicle.

Other items may be missing from the home but both detectives refused to discuss those items in order not to jeopardize the case.

Johnson refused to rule out the possibility of self inflicted strangulation. Faulkner said that several motives for the possible homicide have emerged including the possibility of a simple breaking and entering. He would not discuss other possibilities.

Several persons have reportedly been interviewed in the case but no one has been arrested.

Mitchell, who lived in Novi two years, had lived in Southfield previously according to officials at Wilkie Funeral Home in Detroit which handled burial arrangements.

Mitchell was survived by an aunt in Florida and cousins in Toronto. He was buried Friday at Roseland Park in Berkeley following services at the funeral home.

Mitchell's apparent murder is the first in the city since April of 1971 when Clyde LaLonde, who was involved with narcotics, was killed by a shotgun blast in an apparent execution, according to Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole.

No one was ever convicted of that murder.

Building up

Novi DPW Superintendent Edward Smiadak joins Ann Damron and Judy Mooradian in the new modular office building which now houses the water and sewer department. The building, located east of the current city hall on Sixth Gate, is where all water and sewer bills will be paid in the future. Besides the water and sewer department, the finance department and the city computer will be located in the structure. The building was purchased for $5,000 from Security Bank of Novi.

Heads on view

"Get it as dry as you can and then brush with a rolling motion while blowing. Choose a page boy, a wedge or a curl, but keep it short."

Novi Council backs Westridge in dispute over busing

transportation also reflects our desire to maintain a neighborhood school concept which serves both the family and the taxpayer, as well as reducing overall operational costs through minimizing the busing of students.

"Although the district does not consider student safety in this instance to be of a serious nature, we do share the parents' anxieties over the fact that no sidewalks exist on Galway Drive and, as such, children must walk in the street. This perhaps would not be a problem except for the fact that the children have sidewalks in their subdivision and must walk through a subdivision without them, thus, emerges the concern for children's safety.

"The Northville Board of Education has reviewed this matter carefully and has determined that a deviation from Board policy is not in order and requests, in behalf of the school children in this area, that the City of Novi take a close look at the conditions which exist in this section of its community and assist citizens in bringing about some form of reasonable security for their children."

The letter pointed specifically to the need for sidewalks and traffic control. "During the initial stages of the development of North Hills Estates, which is located immediately west of Westridge Downs, the question of sidewalks on the main roads was brought to the attention of both Mr. Greenspan and the City of Novi, but sidewalks were not forthcoming."

During the city council meeting, residents maintained that they were never aware during the six years that Westridge Downs has been in existence that the board of education planned to eventually discontinue busing. In fact, they said they had received no official correspondence from the Northville School Board that busing would be discontinued November 8, and that their knowledge of the step was based upon a Northville Record-November article.

Jones said busing was stopped because of "petty jealousies from some of the other subs that weren't being bused."

"I'm a little outraged, not so much what was done but the way it was done — dropping it in the middle of the school year with such short notice nothing can be done," chided Councilman Philip Goodman. He maintained the matter should be brought to the attention of the state "as an abrogation of duty to safety."

Miles Tuttle, who lives on Galway, maintained that while a special assessment district for sidewalks is a possibility in North Hills, "I can't help but think they'll object to another $100 a year for sidewalks."

He suggested instead that since poor planning by the city in requiring sidewalks was at fault, the city as a whole should bear the costs.

City Clerk Geraldine Stipp said after the meeting that the current subdivision control ordinance requires that all subs with 80 foot lots and under have sidewalks. She added that the front footage of the North Hills Estates is over 80 feet and thus is not required to have sidewalks.

The council currently is working on a new subdivision control ordinance and Mrs. Stipp said that consideration is being given to requiring sidewalks in all subdivisions regardless of lot size.

Council member Romaine Roethel suggested that petitions should be submitted to change the ordinance so that sidewalks are required throughout the city.

Councilman James Shaw, responding to the request for the city to fund sidewalks said, "I think we do have some responsibility there in terms of the planning process. We have made an error."

Mayor Gilbert Henderson, who appeared dismayed at the attempt by the Northville School District "to dump this problem in our laps" pointed out not only that all ordinances have been followed, but also that many areas in the city need sidewalks besides North Hills.

City Manager Edward Kriewall was directed to send a letter to Spear saying that the city rejects responsibility for transporting students, will look into the possibility of sidewalks, but urges that the students be bused until an alternative can be implemented.

Northville Superintendent Spear said after the meeting that he would not comment on the request to continue busing of students "until I have a communication officially from Novi. I want to see what the content of their communication is."

Commenting to criticism from parents of inadequate notification of the stopping of busing, Spear said "I would say there should be no doubt in their minds transportation was to be terminated."

The letter from the Novi city manager's office was reportedly delivered to Spear's office Monday.

It said, "The action taken is a change of policy that certainly deserves more consideration than simple adherence to a radius cut-off of service. There should obviously be overriding factors that enter into specific situations. We should think that the non-existence of sidewalks along a pedestrian route might reflect an extenuating circumstance. Blind disregard for this factor is certainly evident."

The letter also criticized the school board for not giving advance notice to the City of Novi so that a study and implementation of sidewalk construction could be considered.

"We therefore urge that busing be reinstituted for the school children of Westridge Downs interminably and notwithstanding this, that at least one year's notice be rendered to the City of Novi," ended the letter.

Few schools are lucky enough to escape the closing of classes at least once or twice as old man winter plays its usual havoc on the school schedule.

In an information report to the school board, the Novi

School Administration disclosed that school closings because of severe weather will be announced on WJR, CKLW, WXYZ, and WWJ radio stations.

Before school is closed, school officials check with the Oakland County Road Commission, state police and Novi police to learn of road conditions. Administrators also drive through the school district to make road checks.

"No matter what you do you lose," commented Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz. "You get calls if you call it off and you get calls if you don't. We make every effort not to close the schools but if the danger and health of the youngsters is impaired, we'll call it off."

Rights of institutionalized to cast votes explained

Questions arising from the casting of votes in the November 2 presidential election by young residents of Plymouth Center for Human Development were answered this week by Mrs. Celestia Adams, resident affairs advisor for the state institution located on Sheldon road in Northville township.

A number of the youngsters, both physically and mentally handicapped, cast ballots at the township precinct in which their center is located. One citizen, observing the procedure, was critical. It was noted that the young voters had to be assisted with ballots outside the booth and that one voter signed the name "Superman". According to Township Clerk Clarice Sass a letter of protest was submitted to the township questioning the voting qualifications of the young hospital residents.

Mrs. Adams explained to The Record this week that the new mental health code for the state, Public Act 258, holds that all institutionalized residents have the same rights as any other citizen.

"In our classes we offer them the opportunity to learn about the election procedures," said Mrs. Adams. "If they are old enough (18 years of age) and express their desire to vote, we provide them the opportunity," she explained.

Mrs. Adams noted that because of physical handicaps, some of the youngsters could not use the voting machines. She said that they were assisted in completing their ballots by two adult aides, a Democrat and a Republican. She noted that the youngster who signed his name "Superman" was simply joking and that later he signed his name properly.

"The law says our residents have the same rights as all citizens, so if they express a desire to vote, we try to help them. They watched the TV debates and learned in the classroom," she added.

Clerk Sass noted that the precinct worker in charge where the youngsters voted reported "they were orderly and knew how they wanted to vote."

Emphasis to change

An increased emphasis on educational offerings instead of recreational is what Novi School Board is seeking as shared time of the community education director with the City of Novi ends in January.

During the last school board meeting, Novi School Board, led by trustee Ray Murphy, indicated that the emphasis upon recreation should be changed to educational.

"I'm personally disappointed with the number of programs we've got in education," said Murphy. "Once you pull recreation out, we have a pretty skinny offering."

"My contention is that 'anything competitive should be the responsibility of the parks and recreation commission,'" added Murphy.

Community Education Director Milan Obrenovich admitted that in the past much of his input on suggested offerings had come from the parks and recreation commissioners interested in recreation as opposed to education. But he said input will change and the education end of the community education department can be successful.

"If we concentrate in these areas and have more publicity, we could make a go of it," said Obrenovich. "I'm striving to meet with community members to find out what they want."

Because the job of community education director had grown too large, the school board recently decided to stop dividing his time with the city. Previously duties included running many competitive sports such as softball.

But Dr. Kratz said he has fears of what will happen when the city is completely on its own with its new responsibilities.

"In my experience I've learned the slack may not be taken up. Somebody is going to take the flak and I have the feeling the city may not move fast enough or have money enough. If there's no baseball program, we'll get the flak."

"I don't want for January 1 to come and us just pull out," said Trustee Joel Colliau. "But I agree we should put an emphasis on education. I'd like to see a good smooth transition but I don't mind making it as fast as possible."

Obrenovich noted that one problem is that much of the recreational facilities are owned by the school district and thus the district must police those facilities and when they are available for use outside of school activity.

Pursell wins squeaker

The dream of going to Washington appeared over. Pursell commanded a big vote edge in the Wayne County sector of the district and it appeared he had managed to garner a commendable 30 to 32 percent of the vote in Dr. Pierce's Washtenaw County stronghold where Esch, who hails from Ann Arbor, dropped to 15 percent.

Monroe County was another matter. "We didn't do well there, not nearly as well as I thought we would with all the work we put in there," said Pursell.

Suddenly, some voting errors began showing up, and some of the absentee ballots had yet to be counted. At 9 a.m., it appeared that about 22 votes separated the two candidates and Washtenaw County Clerk Robert Harrison announced he would conduct an internal audit of the votes.

Dr. Pierce and Pursell and their followers met in the county building to await the results. By now Dr. Pierce thought Pursell had possibly won, Pursell figured Pierce had it wrapped up.

Special election experts representing the two major parties arrived.

The building was jammed with political bigwigs, campaign followers and workers of both men, and news reporters.

Finally, Harrison came out of the closed doors and said, "Well, here it is."

He gave Pursell a 369 vote edge, shaved to 337 with still later tally refinement.

The county building erupted in a wild, cheering applause by Pursell backers. Those backing Dr. Pierce were glum, some wet-eyed. Reporters raced for the telephones.

The noon WJR radio report giving Pierce the victory was updated to show Pursell out front.

"I cannot describe the feeling," said Pursell. "I was elated, of course, but still apprehensive. Neither of us are claiming victory or loss yet, and I won't do that until after the canvass is completed. The canvass probably won't be completed until 14 days after the election."

"Just say I'm cautiously jubilant."

Out of 190,449 votes cast for the two men, just 337 separated the apparent winner from the loser in the huge Second District that stretches from Livonia and Northville to the Ohio border.

The district includes all of Monroe County except Ash Township, Ann Arbor Township, August Township, Northfield Township, Pittsfield Township, Salem Township, Superior Township, York Township, Ypsilanti Township, Ann Arbor, Milan (Washtenaw County portion), Saline, Ypsilanti, Northville Township, Northville (Wayne County portion), Plymouth Township, Plymouth, and most of Livonia.

Two years ago when Esch won re-election in the Second District, a total of 138,160 votes were cast, giving Esch a 9,490 edge over his Democratic opponent, John Reuther.

Here's what the unofficial vote by county shows this time:

Wayne — Pursell, 39,600; Pierce, 21,346.

Washtenaw — Pursell, 38,929; Pierce, 51,991.

Monroe — Pursell, 16,864; Pierce, 21,719.

If a recount is requested, the party of the candidate making the request very likely will foot the bill.

Recount cost is $5 per precinct. There are approximately 700 precincts in the Second District.

Northville names new administrator

A new administrator to coordinate Northville's special education program has been hired.

He is Donald McGahan of Plymouth, who for the past two years has served as psychologist for the Northville system. Pending his replacement, McGahan will function in both roles.

McGahan's position is not to be confused with that of the special education program for institutionalized children. His responsibility will be for special education children within the district's own K-12 program.

He replaces Clark Kelly, who has moved to ISEP as coordinator of that program, under the director of Leonard Rezmierski.

Objecting to the filling of this post was Board Trustee Marjorie Sliger, who took the Kids go through fence

Board denies Wixom bus stop

EASY DOES IT—Making their daily trek through a wire fence to reach their scheduled school bus stop are (right to left) Greg Aho, Jennifer Junnola, Mark Tucker and Jill Junnola. They are four of the eight school children from the Finnish subdivision in Wixom who must cross through the old fence separating their sub from Hickory Hill.

were attempting to induce the board into overturning a decision against establishing a new stop made by the school transportation department and Superintendent Don P. Sheldon.

The original request for the bus stop was made in August, prior to the beginning of school. At that time, the transportation department was told the children had been crawling through a hole in a wire fence separating their subdivision from Hickory Hills, in order to reach their assigned bus stop.

Besides crawling through the fence, the children were forced to cross private property abutting both sides of the fence.

Although a school bus has never previously entered the subdivision, young families moving into and new construction in the area have found children boarding buses from what had previously been known as a neighborhood of retired people.

The school district transportation department headed by Nelson O'Shawnessy did attempt to institute a stop at the corner of Lyonia and Evona streets — a stop which the mothers said they felt was both unsuitable and unsafe.

That location, they said, was at the end of a long S-curve in the road the children would have to travel before reaching the stop. The mothers also contended the stop was completely out of their view.

The mothers asked O'Shawnessy to consider having the bus complete the S-curve, a distance less than two-tenths of a mile and institute a stop within the subdivision on Fairfield.

O'Shawnessy, after viewing the situation first-hand, determined that the children should continue walking to the stop at Lyonia and Evona saying he felt the road and area was safe for foot traffic.

Disagreeing with O'Shawnessy's view, the parents then directed a letter to Sheldon asking for a reevaluation of the problem. Sheldon upheld O'Shawnessy's decision stating in a letter to one of the mothers, Sharon Junnola, that all aspects of the situation involving the children, road conditions, neighborhood surroundings, and safety, had been observed. Sheldon, too, denied the request.

Saying they felt they had no alternative, the mothers went to the school board. Reaction to their pleas was varied.

Agreeing, basically, with what the mothers were saying, Assistant Superintendent Roland Langerman pointed out that their problem was not unlike those suffered all over the district. Langerman said their problem had been reviewed with the final decision based on needs and safety saying, "We try to make each trip as reasonably safe or as safe as possible."

Langerman also said the school district could be penalized by the state for what he termed "back tracking."

Clarifying the term, Langerman said the bus would have to travel the same route twice in order to pick up or discharge students.

He further pointed out that it is considered dangerous for a school bus to have to back up in order to initiate a turn-around. Both situations would come into being if a bus stop within the subdivision was established.

Arguing against those points, Mrs. Tucker said the transportation department could alleviate a portion of the distance they say they must now back track in order to pick up the students in Hickory Hill simply by taking a different road.

Saying she understood there was no easy way out of their subdivision without having the bus back up first, Mrs. Tucker also stressed the fact that school buses do, in fact, back up in many cases throughout the district.

Having the children cross private property is actually the closest and best watched route to the bus stop, Mrs. Tucker admitted.

Since the children have waited for the bus only one day since September at the Lyonia-Evona stop suggested by the district, parents have cut away the wires of the fence to avert any casualties. And the kids continue cutting their path between the houses.

Apparently not satisfied with the outcome of their first appearance before the school board, the mothers made their second appearance before them Monday night.

Said one mother, "The whole situation could be corrected so easily but I really think they're just being stubborn."

"We feel we have been avoided — the whole problem has been handled in such a way that we feel put off," said Mrs. Tucker.

The board was asked at the Monday meeting to reconsider the situation or the mothers said they were prepared to file a grievance with the State Board of Education.

Deny Almas rezoning for 10 Mile property

A request to rezone 4.6 acres from office service district OS-1 to local business district B-1 on 10 Mile Road in Novi was rejected by the city council last week.

The site includes 950 feet of frontage along 10 Mile Road on the south side beginning 375 feet west of Haggerty Road. Victor Almas, owner of the property, was requesting the B-1 classification to permit a bakery shop, meat market and shoe store. He had told the planning board that there would still be some office use.

City planning consultant, Charles Cairns of Vilcan Leman, had recommended against the rezoning noting that the office space was intended to be used as a buffer zone with property to the south and west and would be more compatible with residential than commercial would be.

The planning board had unanimously recommended against the rezoning.

Last week, the rezoning was before the council and it did not take long for the council to reject the request. Petitions from nearby homeowners against the petition were submitted.

Audrey Murphy, Village Oaks representative said that "we have opposed C-1 rezoning since it was first suggested for this property in 1973. We don't want added traffic to that area."

Denial of the rezoning was approved 7-0 by council.

Speaking for The Record

Sidewalks needed in new subdivisions

Complaints of parents that the lives of their children being threatened because they are forced to walk in streets on their way to and from Amerman Elementary School point up a recurring problem in many growing suburban communities where sidewalks are not required in newly-developed subdivisions.

The case in point involves the North Hills Subdivision in Novi along Center Street between the border with Northville and Nine Mile Road.

Novi's present ordinance does not require sidewalks in subdivisions with lot sizes exceeding 80 feet in width.

City officials recognize the safety problem and are now re-examining the city ordinance with an eye towards mandating sidewalks in future subdivisions.

We hope the contemplated ordinance change becomes a reality.

Novi isn't alone in this respect. Neither Northville Township nor Wixom require sidewalks in their new subdivisions. Developers may or may not include them.

Although we have heard no large number of complaints of property owners, as in the case in Novi, the potential safety problem is no less serious.

The often heard argument that sidewalks destroy seclusion and the rural atmosphere pales in the face of the safety and convenience. Good planning, it seems to us, not only should deal with the size and location of subdivision lots and streets but also with sidewalks.

Township and Wixom officials, like Novi, should also seriously consider making sidewalks in new subdivisions a requirement.

Project deserves aid

For years American Legion Lloyd H. Green Post No. 147 and its auxiliary have provided young men and women from Northville and Novi with the opportunity to understand "government by doing" at annual Boys and Girls State programs.

Recently the 21 participants in the June, 1976 programs had an opportunity to tell their parents, post and auxiliary members who work hard to organize the programs and the clubs and businesses who sponsor them what they had learned about state government and themselves during a 24-hour-a-day, week-long immersion in mock politics.

As have high school students chosen in previous years, they used terms like "One of the most meaningful experiences of my life."

Because it is necessary to sign up sponsors for next year in the coming weeks, the post and auxiliary are asking clubs and organizations to consider the project which costs $90 a week to send a boy to Boys State at Michigan State University and $95 to send a girl to Girls State at Olivet College. It's possible to give this "positive" experience to more youngsters of the community, they point out, if more organizations can provide backing.

Tribute to Nov. 11

The government may have celebrated Veterans Day on Monday, October 25 but at the American Legion Post in Northville it will always be November 11.

On that day in 1918 near Compiegne, France the armistice was signed ending World War I. Exactly at 11 a.m. on the 11th day of the 11th month bugles sounded "cease firing".

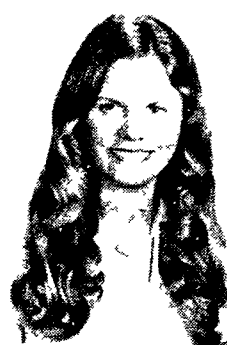

That was two generations and at least two wars ago. But even those who served their nation in World War II, Korea or Viet Nam revere the memory of those who went "over there" in what is regarded as the grand-daddy of modern day conflicts.

Wars are terrible things. They should not be held in high esteem as examples of historical achievement.

But the victims of wars are for the most part muddled, nameless and forgotten. No matter how many acts of congress are adopted, November 11 clings as the day these doughboys climbed out of the trenches.

And again for the umpteenth year the Legion will serve pancakes and sausage tomorrow morning to all citizens of all ages in memory of Armistice Day, November 11, 1918. You're invited.

FRIDA THORLEY — WAARA

YES...

Society makes an automatic assumption after every wedding that a bride will resign her unmarried name to become her husband's name headed by a Mrs. Some new wives rebel at losing their identities and the argument centers on moral convictions.

Ruth Hale, a suffragette, lived when a man could put his name on everything he owned, his land, his house, his wife, and his children. In 1855, when Lucy Stone married, she saw the principle behind the name tradition. She made her own decision and became the first American woman to retain her surname.

Stone broke no law. Only custom compels women to take their husband's title after the wedding.

In the 1970's couples struggle to catch up with her humanistic approach to marriage, but social hostility intrudes. To most people only a man-hating, women's libber would ever change the way things have always been done.

They don't see the reason. Combined names, or couples with different surnames don't signal anti-marriage, men, or American sentiments, it only shows partners who found a principle to outweigh a tradition. Most encouraging, it represents marriages operating on love, not roles.

Speaking for Myself

Wives retain last names?

NORMA PELTZ

NO...

The use of double names for marriage appears to be a means of asserting personal identity for career-oriented women. It is evident in business and among actresses such as Patty Duke-Astin and Farrah Fawcett-Majors.

In contrast, I began my professional career as a married person. I did not then, nor do I now, feel a need to maintain my maiden name. After twelve years of marriage with my husband's surname, I have a strong feeling of personal identity. A hyphenated name would not necessarily make me more of an individual.

I would want to avoid the confusion a double name would invite. Would I oppose the use of "Mr. and Mrs. Peltz" in introductions, conversations, and mailings?

Would I address Christmas cards with a separate name for myself?

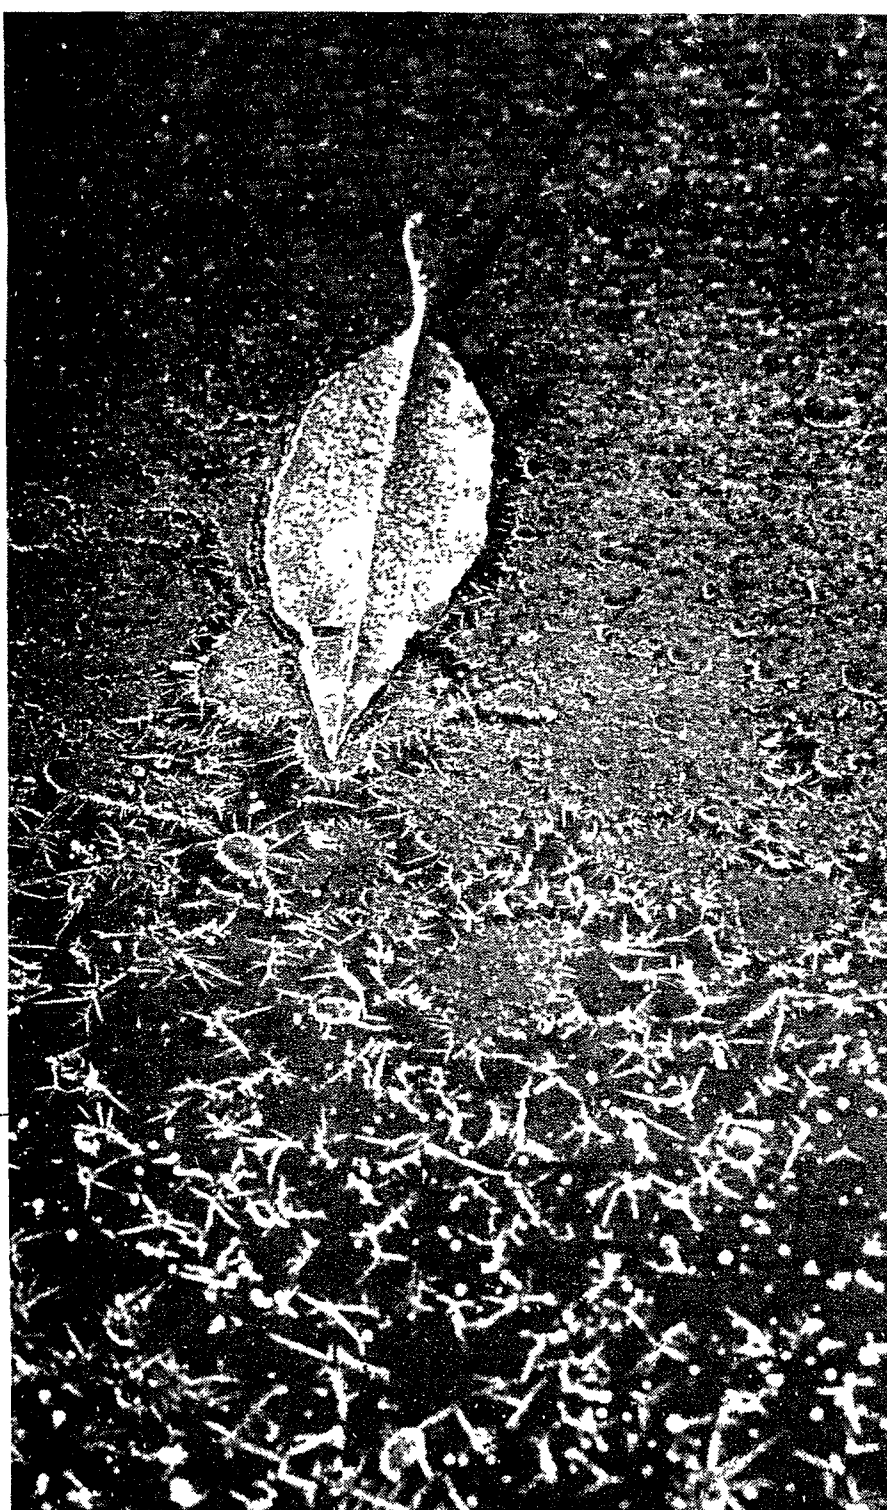

Also, consider the predicament of a woman with a difficult to pronounce maiden and-or married name. In such a case, a double name would be awkward and annoying. One surname would be much more simple.

Today's woman already has the flexibility to express her identity without a hyphenated name. In written or verbal form, she is free to include her maiden name and refer to herself as Ms. or Mrs. Each suits a particular role she assumes as wife, co-worker, mother, volunteer, etc. In my opinion, a double name would be unnecessarily complicated when most women are looking for ways to make their lives less so.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Some rumors are just too good to let them die.

Jean Day, our women's editor, snagged a delightful one the other day while bidding in a game of bridge.

All of us at The Record-Now News agreed it was a story that warranted investigation. So with the determination of a Bernstein, Jean set out to find some truth to the rumor.

Meanwhile, the same story surfaced in South Lyon where our editor there, Phil Jerome, also began bird-dogging it.

What followed is almost as interesting as the rumor itself. But first the story:

"It just happened to the daughter of a relative of a good friend. Having just learned to drive, she was careful but still a little nervous. Anyway, she came home one evening heartbroken. She told her father that while backing her car in a shopping center lot in Eastland, she accidentally backed into a beautiful new Mark IV.

The damage was relatively minor, but nevertheless she was worried. The owner of the Mark IV was not around, so she wrote a note telling the owner that she was very sorry about having backed into the car and that he or she should telephone her.

Next day the expected phone call came and a man identified himself as the car's owner. He asked the girl where she lived. She was hesitant to tell him and asked why he needed to know. "Just give me a general idea," the man said. She complied.

"Well," said the caller, "I'm Henry Ford and you've restored my faith in young people. I want you to go to . . . dealership near where you live and pick out a car for yourself."

Stunned and still a little disbelieving, she went to the dealership, picked out a Pinto, and told her story. The dealer also doubted it but called Henry Ford's office. Ford himself confirmed it, but upon learning the young lady had picked a Pinto, Ford said, "You be sure she picks something nicer."

End of story.

After discussing it with our staffers, who agreed it would make a delightful feature story together with a picture, Jean called the acquaintance of the girl and was told to check with a businessman in Novi. That person said he had heard it from a partner, who would call her back. He called but said his wife also had heard the story at a bridge game.

Jean called her on bridge day when the gal, from whom the businessman's wife heard it, would be there — but she was instead at a charity bazaar. So Jean called her at home. She had gotten the story from her husband who was out of town until the weekend. Jean called Sunday and the husband explained he had heard it from a neighbor.

To the Editor:
The American Legion Post No. 147 and its auxiliary held their annual Michigan Wolverine Boys State-Girls State Banquet at the post home on Thursday, October 28.

The dinner is held to recognize the boys, girls, their parents, sponsors and school officials who are all a part of the program of learning all about government by practical application.

The students spend one week in June at designated colleges campaigning and running for various offices with final elections and an inauguration night.

The program will again be held in June of 1977 under the direct sponsorship of the Legion and its Auxiliary with the help of outside sponsors.

Deadline for sponsorship fees is January 10, 1977. Anyone wishing further information about the program may contact this year's chairman, Patricia Pohlman at 474-7048.

condition of Northville High School.

It seems strange to me in view of the fact Northville is a so-called concerned community that our high school is in such bad condition.

Don't the people of Northville pay high enough taxes so that at least one school could be cleaned and repaired?

While visiting two local area high schools—Plymouth Canton and Farmington Harrison—I noticed how clean and well cared for they were. What makes their students respect their schools? What makes our students have no respect? There has to be a reason!

Is it because Northville High School is so run down, and has not been remodeled for years, that they feel they have nothing to respect?

The millage passed last year and we have still seen no improvement in the condition of one school.

I am a student at Northville High School and I care! Will you please help us. We need your support!

Sincerely,

WAYNE COUNTY'S first suburban circuit courtroom, located in Westland, was recently put into service as part of a pilot program aimed at "putting the services where the people are." Outcounty commissioners say, if successful, it will be extended to all suburban communities. The new courtroom is in Building "A" on the grounds of Wayne County General Hospital. Western Wayne County commissioners were congratulated

New building planned

Rubble from the recent fire that destroyed Stone's Unfinished Furniture store at the corner of Main and Hutton streets has been removed and owners have announced that construction of a new building, which will feature a brick front, received preliminary go ahead from the Northville Historical District Commission. The commission reserved final approval, pending presentation of a site plan and description of brick colors. Meanwhile, the plans are being studied by city officials to see if they will permit the widening of the Hutton Street turning lane at Main.

The neighbor was away, then came down with the flu. Four phone calls were not returned.

Meanwhile, Jean also checked with Ford Motor Company's public relations staff. A representative said he had not heard the story but would check into its reliability. He called back with a denial. "It's a story that's been going around but it's untrue," he reported.

In South Lyon, Phil's investigation took him as far as a dental assistant in Plymouth. Jean called the assistant, who would neither confirm nor deny it. She declined to discuss it and finally hung up when Jean tried to persuade her to acknowledge if she had indeed received a car from Ford.

So there you have it: a nice story, but apparently untrue.

If Henry Ford gave the young lady a car, it wouldn't be a first.

Greatest of the gift-givers was Mr. Ford's grandfather, Henry Ford I. Several citizens of the Northville area were given automobiles by the pioneering auto-maker. Ford, who spent his honeymoon in Northville, gave several new cars to his good friend Marvin Bogart, a Wixom farmer and Civil War veteran, and to John Tinsam, a Northville fiddler and square dance caller who often entertained the Fords.

available as visitors to board meetings arrive. Also to be provided will be a welcoming informational sheet containing procedures of the board.

The revised policy goes on to say:

"It shall be understood that the board president has the right to limit citizen comment and discussion, including the establishment of time per individual, time per issue and/or number of persons allowed to speak to either side of an issue."

The final two paragraphs of the policy remain unchanged.

"Citizens wishing to address the board on a particular topic of interest or concern not already scheduled for agenda consideration shall so notify the superintendent of schools of their intent no later than noon on the second Friday preceding the board meeting."

"All regular board meeting agendas shall also be organized so as to allow for reasonable citizen comment, questions or suggestions at the conclusion of the agenda, but prior to adjournment."

On balance, the policy change represents "a healthy compromise," observed Board President Sylvia Gucken. She said it gives both the board and the citizen responsibility to keep meetings from becoming out of hand and delaying orderly action of the board.

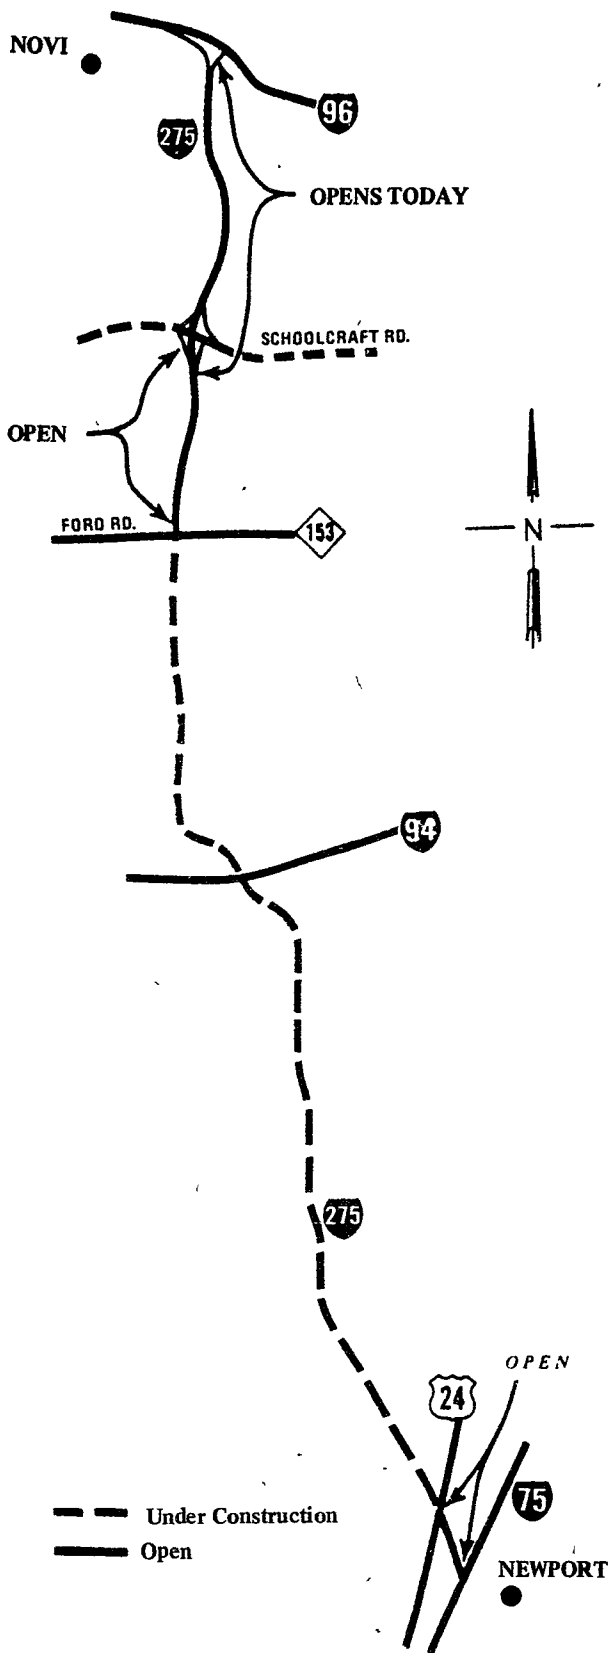

Motorists ignore lights

Traffic signals installed at the railroad crossing intersection in Wixom last week, for the most part, were unheeded by many motorists as they continued to charge across the railroad tracks — especially after a train had blocked the crossing.

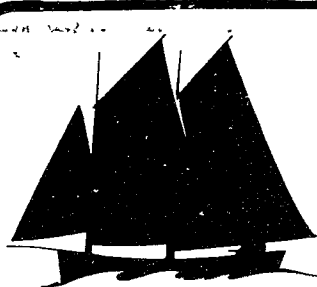

Like an unbelievable fiasco, cars continued through the intersection, making turns, never appearing to see the bright yellow devices above their heads changing from red to green in regular fashion.

The devices are set to change at regular intervals until a train approaches the intersection. The lights then turn to a blinking red and remain blinking until the train has cleared, finally returning to their regular sequence.

Wixom Police report motorists became aware of the signals "after about a day." The worst offenders? — those people travelling the route daily.

happen if two or more applications are made from the same community."

Michael Burley, the school district's curriculum coordinator who researched the grant possibility, advised the board that "we do have a chance" of obtaining monies even though the application is being made late in the game.

He said the school's application for some $648,000 would cover complete renovation of all floors at Main Street, plus a new roof and development of the parking lot.

Burley indicated that it making grants, the federal government will fund all or none of the project for which an application is made. Purpose of the grant monies is to create jobs for unemployed.

Main Street School presently is closed (although rooms in the building are being rented out to other groups) and board members earlier have expressed a desire to reopen it next fall primarily for walking students living in the neighborhood.

Also being considered is a proposal to move the board offices to a portion of this school building and returning the present board building to a community recreation use.

All five members of the school board present Monday, including Mrs. Sliger, voted to submit an application for monies.

on its route into Detroit. I-275 is that portion of the freeway that continues south into Monroe. Thus, the expressway carries the dual designation of I-96 and I-275 between Novi and Livonia. In Livonia I-275 continues south while I-96 will turn and parallel Schoolcraft into Detroit.

Meanwhile, construction of still another expressway continues from Schoolcraft-I-96 west into Washtenaw County. It's part of the M-14 freeway system. Completion of this freeway is still two years away.

Malnutrition

Nobody's starving but junk foods keep many from getting balanced diets

By CARL DAVIES

Very few residents of western Wayne, Oakland, and Livingston counties go to bed hungry at night.

It is highly improbable that anyone in our relatively affluent suburbia suffers from severe malnutrition of the degree seen in familiar photographs of starving children in the so-called third world countries.

Yet our fast-paced modern existence exacts a

Junk foods: modern man's nutritional nemesis

Awareness

He knew not what it meant to live,
Because he couldn't;
He knew not what it meant to give,
Because he wouldn't.

For fear there would be nothing left
To meet his needs,
He found himself bereft
Of life and deeds.

And then, down in his lowly niche
He heard a call
From one who'd reached still lower
In their fall.

He listened, and forgot his own Concern,
In giving help, and doing so,
To learn
That selfishness will always
Lead the way
To life and manna and fulfillment
Of each day.

When I Die

I hope that I shall have a Mockingbird to sing at even-

A Robin to sing his rain song, just before the night.

When I die

I hope that I shall have early Violets nearby, with Iris blooming at my feet.

large price on our time, and our penchant for convenience has given rise to readily available, easily prepared forms of nourishment known as junk foods.

Junk foods are merely another in a series of conveniences designed to permit us to save the time necessary for those endeavors we deem important.

However, junk foods — the pretzels, potato chips, pies, cakes, and candies — exact their toll on our bodies, our health, and our energies.

In an informal survey of public health officials, school nurses, and social workers, Sliger Home Newspapers was unable to turn up any official who knew of, or would talk about, any case of severe malnutrition in western Wayne, southern Oakland, or eastern Livingston counties.

Public health officials also said they knew of no studies relating to malnutrition in the area.

But all surveyed singled out junk foods as the major contributor to malnutrition among the relatively affluent, for convenience foods have become substitutes for those foods necessary for a balanced diet.

Grace Erwin, public health nurse for the South Lyon Community Schools, said that lack of food is no problem for school children.

The problem Mrs. Erwin said she sees most, especially among young parents, is lack of proper budgeting and meal planning.

"The little ones are fed high cost, easy-to-fix snack foods," she said, pointing out that because of their disproportionate amounts of sugars and fats, junk foods are the most expensive foods in the long run.

Mrs. Erwin explained that parents often become defensive when the school nurse informs them of suspected malnutrition in their children.

"Parents don't look at their children objectively. They get defensive, and feel guilty and suspicious."

"Sometimes we have to go in the back door to help them understand that to produce a healthy child they have to learn about nutrition," she said.

Although there are degrees of malnutrition, Mrs. Erwin said that she can usually spot an undernourished child.

"Teachers will refer to me a child who doesn't have the energy to work. He may have a droopy look with circles under his eyes."

Mrs. Erwin cautioned, however, that symptoms of malnutrition may also be symptoms of other disorders. When in doubt, contact your physician, she said.

Noting that "all children need at least two-ounces of protein each day," Mrs. Erwin said that all too often she sees children at the school cafeteria dumping out good food and proceeding to eat a candy bar or bag of potato chips.

Virginia Baumgardner, a social worker for the Northville schools, said that she knows of no serious cases of malnutrition in the Northville area.

"There are several children I'm concerned about, but there have been no cases of serious on-going nature brought to my attention," she said.

Norma Chambers of the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service in Livingston County, said that she has come across "quite a few" children who she suspected of being malnourished.

"I see children with telltale signs. They are pasty looking with sometimes a bad complexion, sometimes dull and listless," said Mrs. Chambers who teaches nutrition and meal planning under the extension's expanded nutrition program.

In teaching nutrition, Mrs. Chambers said that she tells parents to take such simple measures as substituting fruit juices for pop.

"If you're going to give the child a cookie, give him an oatmeal or molasses cookie."

The MSU nutritionist urged parents to substitute cakes, potato chips and candy bars with oranges, apples, and bananas.

"I try to teach around the basic four food groups: meat, fish and eggs; cereals and breads; fruits and vegetables, and milk and cheese," she said.

The most severe case of malnutrition in Oakland County was reported by county chief nutritionist Kay Claus who told the story of an immigrant family in Pontiac which was starving primarily as a result of a series of misunderstandings.

The father, an autoworker who did not speak English, had lost his job.

The mother was a diabetic.

Neither knew of the existence of food stamps and other avenues of immediate relief, but fortunately the health department learned of the case, Mrs. Claus said.

When asked to express some of her chief dietary concerns, the county nutritionist urged residents to cut back drastically on sugars and fats and to eat more fruits and vegetables.

"For us, malnutrition is (synonymous with being) overweight. There are too many fat people walking around," she said.

Although we live in a land of affluence, these are still economically troubled times.

Persons who need food or who know others who need food need not go hungry.

The most convenient way to get plugged into the social services system is to contact the Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency.

OLHSA has service centers at Walled Lake, phone 624-5520, Novi, phone 349-3780, and Howell, phone 517-546-8500.

For food stamps, contact the Oakland County Department of Social Services at 858-1484.

Here's how

Moving plants made easier

By KATHY COPLEY

Most movers won't become involved in moving plants, but they do have some supplies which make the move easier on you and your plants. Since most houses have at least five plants, a little information on the subject is appropriate.

Several weeks before the move, repot every possible plant in a plastic pot with drainage holes. This is just a temporary measure, so use the cheapest ones available, even styrofoam. Choose plastic or styrofoam because they are unbreakable, and pots with drainage holes so that the extra water they receive just before packing won't collect at the bottom of the pot.

Use pots close to the same size as the original pot. This measure is purely temporary, to save the decorative pots from being broken or dented and to facilitate easier packing. It also protects the plant roots from being exposed to the air should the pottery pot break.

At the same time, trim away any damaged growth, leggy stems, etc. Give the cuttings to friends as a going away present in reverse. The smaller the plant, the easier the move.

Let the plant adjust to its new pot and then treat it with a mild general purpose insecticide. In their new environment the plants are likely to suffer setbacks, but one of them needn't be insect damage.

One week prior to the move, get several cardboard cartons of the kind the movers use to pack glassware. The stiff inner dividers make good spaces in which to slip small pots. The boxes in which liquor bottles are packed are equally serviceable.

Some dividers may need to be bent out of the way and others trimmed down to accommodate the pot and the overhanging branches.

Movers can also supply rolled corrugated cardboard. From this or any stiff paper, make paper cones into which to slip plants. These collars work like the green, waxy paper into which florists slip plants and bouquets. The leaves and branches are held upright and are protected from being knocked. Trim off the bottom of the cone so the plant sits flat.

For delicate or large plants, wads of crushed wrapping tissue tucked around the base of the plant and between the leaves and branches gives added support.

To wedge pots and branches firmly in place, whether in an individual box, as part of a segmented bottle box, or in a cardboard cone, wads of moist newspaper are helpful and provide extra moisture for the trip.

Hanging plants are a special problem so an ingenious solution is required.

FISH seeks volunteer drivers

A specialized membership drive to recruit people who can provide transportation is being conducted by the Northville-Novi FISH, the emergency help organization.

"We have 70 telephone volunteers, but we desperately need drivers for local or long distance trips," reports Mary Archbold, co-chairman of membership.

"You volunteer your car, gas and time and do as much or as little as your schedule permits," she continues, pointing out that the reward is the satisfaction of helping others who have no other place to turn.

Many of the FISH volunteers are area church members. The organization, which is international, takes its name from the ancient symbol of the Christian church.

Mrs. Archbold urges people who work to consider this kind of volunteering as they often are available nights or weekends.

"You are free to say 'no' 10 times in a row and 'yes' the 11th, and we're still glad to have you," she says.

Senior citizens today have more agencies to which they can turn for transportation and other emergencies, she says, as she cites the type of person that FISH helps. It is more likely to be a young mother alone with a child who has no way to get the youngster to the doctor or it may be someone needing medical treatments.

One Northville volunteer driver, Gudrun Von Recum, responding to a call for a patient in chemotherapy, tells why she is willing to help:

"My mother is in Germany and others there help her because I'm not able to. So I'm helping someone here."

Anyone with this type of motivation is needed, Mrs. Archbold continues, mentioning that the longer distance runs usually are to Detroit, Ann Arbor or Pontiac.

FISH workers know that winter always brings a bigger demand for help, not long-run kind that can be referred to agencies but the emergency help that is their purpose for existing.

Anyone who can give this is invited to call Anne Rogers, FISH-for-the day coordinator, at 349-7337.

OLV bazaar boost

Displaying the top winning poster made at Our Lady of Victory School to promote the church Christmas bazaar are, from left, Karen Sledz, Carolyn Kummer, creator of the poster, and Lisa Wooden. Karen was second place winner and Lisa, third. The PTO-sponsored bazaar will be held at the church in Northville from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. November 19 and 20. Mrs. George Zeleznik is chairman.

Coin collector speaks in Salem

The Reverend James Missildine of Farmington, a collector of Judaic coins, stamps and medals, took an interest in Jewish heritage six years ago and has since become a defender of Israel's right to exist. He will be the guest speaker at nightly missionary conference meetings at Salem Bible Church November 14-21.

The public is invited to attend the meetings which begin at 7:30 p.m. each week-day evening. There will be no meetings on Friday and Saturday nights.

"The Coming Invasion of Israel," a prophetic film, will be shown at 7 p.m. November 21. At the morning worship service that day, the Stevenson High School Symphonic Choir will offer special music.

Missionary color slides and news of mission fields will be presented during the conference also.

Executive director of Elim House, a Christian information service in Detroit, and corresponding secretary for the Israel Numismatic Society of Michigan, Mr. Missildine believes in a United States commitment to support Israel's existence.

"We need Israel," he has said. "For America to be blessed, we need to support Israel. You can trace a nation's rise and fall in its treatment of the Jews."

Mr. Missildine brings his slide presentation to churches and synagogues alike. It traces the history of Israel through its stamps, coins, and medals.

Natives of California, the minister with his wife Darlene and their children Merrilyn and Jimmy were "transplanted" to Detroit when "God undertook" a change in their lives.

He testifies to the fact that after many years of frustration, bondage to alcohol and a marriage on the brink of ruin, that "God revealed through His Word the fact that I was really lost and needed to be found." His personal relationship with Christ began six months after his wife accepted Jesus Christ as her Savior and Lord.

"Her witness was, in large part, responsible for my conversion," the pastor admits.

"The Lord has led us in many paths since my conversion. As we look back, we can see those paths have continually led in a positive direction 'to the Jew first, and also to the Greek'. We share a love for God's chosen people, the Jew, and rejoice in working under Baptist Mid-Missions, seeking to reach many of the 100,000 Jewish souls in Detroit.

Shelley Millard wins with "Dapples" at Grand National in Oklahoma City

She cops awards at 2 big shows

Sixteen-year-old Shelley Millard of Northville with her horse "Dapples" was a winner at two big shows in October.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Millard of 49041 Ridge Court has only had "Dapples" since May. He is a five-year-old Morgan gelding more formally named Mr. R's Highview King.

His owner placed top 10, Grand National Champion Pleasure Driving, junior exhibitors to drive, top 10 champion English pleasure horses, junior exhibitors to ride and top 10 Grand National Champion Pleasure Driving horses at the Grand National Morgan Horse Show held in Oklahoma City October 14-17.

When Shelley arrived at the Grand National, she had to become a finalist in each of the classes before she could compete for Grand National Champion.

The weekend of October 29-31 at the Michigan State Fairgrounds she and her horse "Dapples" were Grand Champions in the Detroit Junior Horse Show in showmanship for 18-year-olds and under

While winning trophies with "Dapples" Miss Millard also has three other horses she cares for. One of these, "Amber", also is a show horse.

Plant move made easier

Loosely tie a string loop around each of the pendulous branches, leaving a 12-18 inch tail on each piece of string. With another person assisting, lift the branches above the pot and lower the pot into a large box with high sides. With the branches still held aloft, pack newspaper around the pot to prevent it from shifting.

One by one, tape the string loops to the top edges of the box, using the string tail if necessary to elevate the hanging parts above the pot. Taping them in this fashion keeps them from being squashed beneath the pot or crushed around the sides.

Once successfully moved, untape, gather up the string tails to lift the branches above the pot once again and lift the pot from the box.

On the day prior to packing day, water all plants well. On packing day, slip a plastic bag or tin foil dish beneath each pot to keep the moisture from soaking through the cardboard moving boxes.

Slip each plant into its protective case, poke holes for air circulation, put on the lid, and pack. A day or overnight in the complete darkness of a movers' carton won't hurt the plants.

What will hurt is many hours in a roasting car or an overnight stay in a car traveling from Detroit to Boston in December. The less water in the soil, the less danger of freezing; but this time of year, a plant that spends the night in a car probably won't be fit to spend the day anywhere.

Pack in such a way that at least the prize plants can be warm in a motel during an overnight move.

In their new home, let the plants adjust for several weeks in the high humidity which comes from daily misting. When they are past the stage of wilting, dropping leaves, etc., re-pot them in their original pots. This is a good time to replace old soil, add humus, and pot in the next larger pot.

As much as possible, duplicate what made the plants happy here. Eight hours of full sun, one hour of partial sun, or whatever. Do remember that eight hours of November Detroit sun won't equal eight hours of winter in La Jolla sun.

Moving companies provide some additional information on moving plants, including the requirements of some states and Canada about plant inspections or plant bans. A border patrol guard doesn't deserve the plants you have so lovingly cared for and packed, so check before you start out.

AMC announces a $253 price reduction on a 1977 Gremlin now listing for only $2995.*

Here's why AMC is taking this action.

For a number of reasons, the small car market has substantially contracted during the last two years. This has hurt American Motors which is exclusively a small car producer. Due to increases in costs, small car prices have risen over $1000 in the last five years. These price increases have driven many small car buyers out of the market place. In order to convince these buyers to return to the market and look to American Motors, we've reduced the price of the 1977 AMC Gremlin by $253.

What's in it for AMC?

By reducing prices we expect to significantly increase our sales volume to offset the effect of the price reductions. In fact, we are banking on a 30% increase in Gremlin sales

What's in it for small car buyers?

This reduction in Gremlin price means that now the AMC Gremlin lists for $254 less than Chevy Vega and for $104 less than the Ford Pinto Pony.

The base list prices are as follows:

Gremlin	$2995
Vega	$3249
Pinto	$3099

Compare Gremlin's performance.

Gremlin gives you a 6 cylinder engine as standard equipment for superior acceleration to pass at city or highway speeds. The Pinto and Vega come standard with 4 cylinder engines.

The Gremlin has a wider track for greater stability, and at 2806 pounds Gremlin has more road-hugging weight.

Compare room and comfort.

Gremlin has the greatest overall width for more hip and shoulder room. Gremlin also has the longest wheel base which combined with its wider track and road-hugging weight gives you a smooth, stable ride.

Compare Gremlin's versatility.

The Gremlin is no ordinary 2-door sedan. Only the Gremlin comes standard with a big wide hatch, fold down rear seat and even a carpeted cargo area, making the Gremlin a great small car for people who use a car for more than just transportation.

"Merit Delivers More Taste Than Higher Tar Cigarettes."

—American Institute of Consumer Opinion

Extensive taste testing shows Merit delivers flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

The bottom line was conclusive:

In a series of taste tests conducted for MERIT by the American Institute of Consumer Opinion,* smokers from across the country judged MERIT to have more flavor than five leading low tar cigarette brands.

What's really startling—and of major importance to all smokers—is that MERIT has less tar than these five brands.

Novi wins title; playoff berth almost certain

Novi roared past outmanned South Lyon, 27-0 Friday night to win the Southeastern Conference championship.

The Wildcats win at home on a miserable winter night, combined with Southgate Aquinas' thrashing of Detroit Austin, 27-19 should vault Novi into first place in Region Four of the Class B state playoffs. Official point totals weren't available until early today.

If Novi can handle a good Airport team Friday night, it should be able to wrap up a state playoff berth.

"Our chances look pretty good," said coach John Osborne, who admitted he had a friend scout the Flint Ainsworth-Fenton game last Friday evening. One of those two teams will probably make the state playoffs. Ainsworth won the game.

"But we can't overlook Airport. All we have to do is tell the kids about Michigan last Saturday." Airport is 4-4 on the year and has a fine passing combination of quarterback Tim Duffy and wide receiver Terry Shropshire.

The Wildcats were ready for South Lyon. But only fumbles and penalties prevented the league champs from totally demolishing the bigger but slower Lions.

On the Wildcats second play of the game, Wroten fumbled a hand-off on the turf made slippery by an afternoon snow shower.

South Lyon got the ball and was thwarted by the tough Wildcats defense.

On Novi's next possession, senior halfback Andy Raddant scampered 55 yards to the Lions' five-yard line where he coughed up the ball after being hit from behind.

South Lyon took over but on its second play it fumbled and John McIlmurray was Johnny-on-the-spot to recover the elusive pigskin.

On the first play following the recovery, Wroten kept the ball on the option play, scooted around left end and went into the end zone for what was to prove to be the winning score.

Steve Madeiros booted the extra point and with 6:04 left in the first quarter Novi led 7-0.

Novi's second score was aided by its sticky defense.

South Lyon had the ball fourth and three on its own 32-yard line and chose to go for the first down. Junior halfback Chris Green tried to run for the first down off tackle but was stopped by Bob Bannatz, Geof Garcia and Andy McComas.

It took the Wildcats just four plays to punch the ball in with McComas rambling through a big hole off tackle into the end zone with 5:58 left in the half. Madeiros' extra point was good.

The big play in the drive was a 17-yard pass to Dave Pisha from McComas.

The Wildcats closed out the scoring with two touchdowns in the third quarter.

Novi went 80 yards in three plays thanks to a 44-yard run by McComas and a 22-yard run by Wroten. The drive almost stalled thanks to a clipping penalty.

Tom Morris went the final

31 yards on a similar play which McComas scored on earlier. Halfback Tony McCarty provided outstanding blocking for Morris, McComas and Wroten all evening.

McComas scored his third touchdown of the game with just seconds left in the third quarter when he ran off left tackle 23 yards for the score.

The run climaxed a four-play, 39-yard drive. Madeiros started a new streak with the conversion.

"It feels great, it feels sweet, I love it," said an exuberant Osborne. "The kids were all pumped up."

Osborne admitted that after the opening game debacle at Northville he had doubts about his team, but now he's calling the 1976 Wildcats one of his better squads.

"We had more depth on the VanWagner teams, but I think this team is excellent defensively. And Wroten makes us go. His speed overcomes a lot of mistakes."

Novi rushed for 371 yards in 36 carries. McComas gained 147 yards in nine carries and Wroten had 120 yards in 14 attempts.

McComas and Wroten combined to hit on two of three passes for 27 yards.

South Lyon, on the other hand, could only muster 79 yards rushing and 67 yards passing.

Novi was penalized seven times for 85 yards and lost four of five fumbles.

Mustangs wallop Milford

Milford tried to shut off the running game, so Northville went to the air in a big way last Friday as they whipped the visitors 33-7 at home on a slippery, wintry night.

The non-league victory upped the Mustangs' overall mark to 6-2. They finished 3-2, tied for second with Waterford Mott in Western Six play.

"I thought it was a nice game, everybody got a chance to play and everybody played well," said coach Chuck Shonta. "We did what we wanted to do offensively and defensively."

Senior quarterback-defensive back Greg Armstrong had an outstanding night for the winners. He hit on eight of 16 passes for 174 yards and three touchdowns and intercepted one pass. He picked up 27 yards in seven carries and had a long touchdown run called back.

Armstrong started Northville out midway in the first quarter when he hit senior fullback Rick Marrone on a 41-yard scoring pass. Kicker Matt Davis had his string of 22 straight extra points stopped when Milford blocked the extra point try.

Wary Dennis Singleton

The second time the Mustangs had the ball, Dennis Singleton climaxed a 45-yard drive with a 13-yard dash into the end zone with 3:11 left. Davis made the extra point to give the Mustangs a 13-0 lead after one quarter.

Milford's defense tightened in the second quarter allowing no points. At the half Northville held onto its 13-0 lead.

But the fireworks began again in the second half. On the first play following the third quarter kickoff, Armstrong hit end Kevin Corcoran streaking down the field for a 70-yard pass and touchdown.

Davis' kick upped the count to 20-0.

Midway in the third stanza, Northville began a 70-yard drive. Armstrong's deadly arm finished up the drive when he hit receiver John Horwath in the end zone for an eight-yard touchdown. Davis was perfect and the score was 27-0.

Ladycats, too, win SEC

Novi's Ladycats rode the hot shooting hands of Annie Robinson and Maryann Wizinsky to the Southeastern Conference title last week.

It was the fourth straight time Novi has won the basketball title, although the team had to share the crown with Dexter last year.

Robinson scored 16 points and Wizinsky 13 in the title clinching 48-45 win over Brighton at the Bulldog's gym last Thursday evening.

Two nights earlier at Novi, Robinson sank a pair of free throws with 23 seconds left to lift Novi over Saline, 50-49 and give the Ladycats a share of the SEC title.

Against a well-prepared Brighton team, the Ladycats played even with the hosts in the first quarter and could only manage a 25-24 halftime lead.

But in the third quarter, paced by 5'11" Robinson and 5'4" Wizinsky, Novi managed to open up a four point lead, 34-30. Brighton outscored the visitors in the fourth quarter

"It was an evenly matched game," said Novi coach Chris Hayward. "They played us body-to-body coverage and the girls did a good job adjusting. They used their heads and played consistently."

Two nights earlier against Saline, sophomore forward Robinson and junior guard Wizinsky again paced the Novi scoring attack, firing in 18 and 14 points respectively.

Down by 11 points at the half, the Hornets came buzzing back to actually forge ahead of the eventual league champs, 49-48. But Robinson calmly went to the line and hit her two charity tosses to sew up the victory.

"I wasn't nervous until those final 23 seconds," said Ms. Hayward. "We outscored them from the floor but they killed us at the free throw line."

Referees called 49 fouls in the game. Saline hit 15 of 22 at the line, while Novi only made 4 of 17. The Ladycats made 42 turnovers.

"Saline was well-coached but at the end their kids got nervous and started putting up some bad shots," added Ms. Hayward, who said her team's challenge now is to go through the SEC unbeaten, a feat never accomplished in the league.

The Ladycats have two SEC games left, against Milan and South Lyon.

The two victories upped Novi's record to 15-0 overall and 10-0 in league.

Meanwhile, the junior varsity saw its record drop to 5-5 in league and 7-7 overall as it dropped a pair of games, falling to Brighton, 33-23 and Saline, 26-18.

Peanut Bowl Saturday

What sponsors hope will be the first annual Peanut Bowl will be played starting at 4 p.m. Saturday at Northville High School's football field. Admission is free to the tripleheader which features the varsity, junior varsity and freshman teams of the Northville Colts tangling against similar teams, all league champs, from suburban Chicago. The Illinois players will stay overnight with Northville players. Mutual friends in Northville and Chicago arranged for the games. Pictured above, Jeff Allen pitches out to Dave Greer as Tom Hanson moves out to block.

Athletes of the Week

ANNIE ROBINSON

Six weeks ago it looked as if Annie Robinson's season had ended before it began. The sophomore basketball player for Novi broke her finger and moved to the sidelines. But she came back. Last week the 5' 11" sophomore forward scored 34 points in two games to pace the Ladycats to two victories and a league title. She won one game with a pair of free throws with 23 seconds left.

JON BUCK

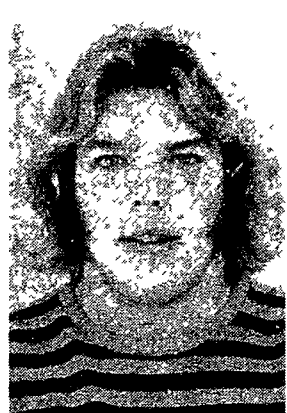

Jon Buck lives a doubly anonymous life for the Novi Wildcats. The football star plays offensive and defensive tackle for the Southeastern Conference champs.

In Friday's title clincher, Novi ran three touchdowns over the tackle spot manned by the 5' 11", 210 pound senior captain. On defense, Buck played his usual consistent game, making three first hits and assisting on four tackles.

VIDA MIKALONIS

All season long, swimmer Vida Mikalonis has quietly been winning her races for the Northville swimming team. An All American swimmer as a sophomore last year, Mikalonis has been even better this year, already qualifying for the state championship meet in Mt. Pleasant. Last week, Mikalonis tied her own school record in the 100-yard butterfly when she was clocked in 1:01.7 seconds.

CHRIS MISSEL

Defensive tackle Chris Missel played one of his finest games of the season for the Northville football team against Milford last Friday night. The 6' 0", 205 pound senior made 13 tackles and assisted in eight others as the defense held Milford to 77 total yards. Missel received a further honor last week when he made Western Six honorable mention, even though he missed one league game.

Greg May grid victor with 3 wrong

Michigan's stunning upset at the hand of the Boiler-makers was a standoff for contestants in the weekly football contest conducted by this newspaper.

Not a single one of the more than 100 contestants in last week's grid contest figured Purdue would knock off the nation's number 1 team.

Also, no one figured Arkansas and Baylor would battle to a tie.

Thus, the contest winners were those who made fewer mistakes in the remaining 14 games.

The two top winners had three mistakes (counting Michigan's loss and the tie), so the order of their wins was determined by their guessed scores of the Georgia-Florida game.

Taking first place was Greg May of 45765 Fermanagh, who guessed Georgia would win by a score of 28-17. (The score was actually 41-27).

In second was Anne White of Plymouth, who picked Georgia 21-14.

The third place winner, Steven Kroetsch of 42052 Loganberry Ridge, was a good deal closer in his guessed score (35-28), but he had four mistakes.

Twenty-eight other contestants submitted entries with four mistakes but their guessed scores put them out of the money.

Of the remaining entries, 46 had five mistakes, 15 had six mistakes, and the remainder had seven or more errors.

Other games causing most problems for contestants last week included Duke's loss to Wake Forest and Texas' defeat at the hands of Houston.

Mustang cagers almost win one

Foul trouble stopped Northville's girls' basketball team from winning its first game of the season last Thursday night.

The squad hosted Farmington Harrison and played back-and-forth basketball with the Hawks for the first 22 minutes of the game. The teams were never more than two or three points apart.

But the Western Six visitors took advantage of the fouls and foul trouble of their opponents to open a lead at the end of the game, finally winning 43-31.

"It's the first time I saw everything go right for us," said a delighted coach Muriel Bedford.

Senior Debbie Korte led the Mustangs in scoring with 10 points while Kim Tromans and Donna Korte were demons on the boards, pulling down six caroms apiece.

Two nights earlier, Livonia Stevenson invaded the Northville gym. The hosts were more than gracious as they dropped a 60-28 verdict to the guests.

Kathy Belkowski and Debbie Korte fired in 10 points each for the Mustangs, while Donna Korte continued her fine rebounding, hauling down 12.

"We played real good the second half," said Ms. Bedford.

Salem sinks tankers

Northville's swimming team extended Plymouth Salem before falling to the state power, 48-35 in a meet held on Election night in the Mustang pool.

Outstanding performances were turned in by Kyle Roggenbuck who broke her own school record in the 100-yard freestyle with a 55.8. Vida Mikalonis was clocked in 1:01.7 in the 100-yard butterfly. The 200-yard medley relay team of Lori Herguth, Mikalonis, Roggenbuck and Janet Shaw, was victorious. Andy Conder continued to impress in diving as she grabbed a first. Diane Dechape took a second in the 100-yard backstroke in a time of 1:14.9, a performance which pleased coach Debbie Brinkman.

"I was happy with the entire meet," Ms. Brinkman said. "I really didn't expect we'd do as well as we did."

"This meet is good for us and it doesn't break our spirit," added the first year coach, who was especially pleased with the continual dropping of times by her squad.

First half does in Novi JV's

First half flurry of points did in the Novi junior varsity football team last Saturday. The junior Wildcats fell to the South Lyon JV's, 21-8, at South Lyon.

The Lions scored two touchdowns in the first quarter on drives of 50 and 30 yards. The extra point was missed both times, but the industrious hosts got back the two points on a safety in the opening stanza.

A 40-yard run in the second quarter and ensuring point after gave South Lyon a 21-0 half-time lead.

"We played like winners in the second half," said Novi coach Brian Howard. Indeed, his team held the Lions scoreless while scoring themselves.

Duane Pohlman climaxed a 60-yard drive with a one-yard scamper. The big play in the march was a 40-yard pass from quarterback Jeff Laverty to end Jeff Clark. Jeff Arbour ran for the two point conversion.

Novi's record is now 2-5 overall and 1-5 in league play.

Baby Mustangs beaten

Waterford Mott scored twice in the first quarter and went on to down Northville's junior varsity football team, 28-6, at Northville last Thursday night.

The baby Mustangs closed out the year with a 6-2 record and 3-2 in Western Six play. There was no scoring in the second quarter and Mott added a third touchdown in the third quarter. The first three scores climaxed long drives.

Northville scored in the fourth quarter on a 65-yard pass from quarterback John Marzonia to end Jeff Norton. Mott then added a final score. "We had no offense," moaned Mustang coach Darrell Schumacher, who praised the defensive play of tackle Tim Marshall.

Quick feet enable Wroten to avoid tackler and pass the ball while in the air

Wildcats' Wroten pure thoroughbred

Randy Wroten's been riding horses at his parents' horse stable since age four. This fact alone may explain why the 17-year-old Novi High School senior has blossomed into the area's finest football player.

He's been copying the horses' form.

Wroten can run. He does the 40-yard dash in 4.7 seconds, which is fast enough for big time college football.

"I see the hole, cut out and to it," explains the son of Moe and Joan Wroten.

But Wroten, who'll probably wind up in college with a baseball scholarship, has little time for the summer sport now. He's in the midst of quarterbacking his team to a Southeastern Conference title and a possible berth in the state football playoffs.

"I think we have an excellent team. The championship is our number one goal," says the tall, 6' 0", thin, 170-pound senior.

"We have to wait on the playoffs, though. Everyone has a shot at it right now."

That Novi has a shot at a Class B berth is a surprise to most; that Wroten is the catalyst behind that surge does not surprise the softspoken but confident youngster.

"I knew I could do it. I knew I could put it together, but I didn't expect to have THIS kind of a year."

In Novi's first seven games, Wroten has rushed for 680 yards in 112 carries, scored 13 touchdowns, and hit on 38 of 63 passes for 640 yards.

"I'm pushing him for all-state," says Wroten's coach, John Osborne.

Wroten is flattered by Osborne's support but quickly gives his fellow teammates credit for much of his success. He praises his coaches too. "Osborne and Trudeau (Rick Trudeau, assistant coach) really helped me a lot during the summer, especially with my passing. We even started after our last game last year."

Before the current season began, Osborne was confident about Wroten's ball handling and running ability in the veer option offense, but it was Wroten's passing he was concerned about.

"Randy wasn't a polished player, but he's improved a tremendous amount. He's not a great passer, but he demands excellence of himself and that's what's made the difference," Osborne says.

Osborne says Wroten's "raw bone speed" was one reason why he was moved from split end to quarterback following his sophomore year.

"The impressive thing about Randy's success," Osborne adds, "is that he had to learn the quarterback role in a short time."

Wroten says his running comes naturally and that he probably picked up that speed because riding strengthens his legs. He adds that he's a late bloomer as a quarterback because the position takes a while to learn.

In fact, Wroten has come late to football. When he was younger he entered and won many horse shows.

But his real love is baseball. "I expect to get drafted by the pros," he says noting that Cincinnati has already contacted him about the free agent draft.

But Wroten, who carries a 3.3 grade average at Novi and plans to major in business in college, has a stop to make first before he turns pro.

University of Michigan baseball coach Moby Benedict has expressed a keen interest in the slugging centerfielder. And the feeling is mutual.

"Don Lund (Michigan's associate athletic director) sends me tickets to the football games. I like it there. I'd like to go there. But my goal is to play pro ball."

This summer Wroten will sharpen his baseball skills in the tough Adirondack League.

Playing football in college is a very slim possibility, although Wroten feels he could play for a smaller school, or move back to wide receiver at a bigger school.

But that's all in the future. Wroten has one more, and possibly two or three more games before he can concentrate fully on his first love, baseball.

Buck, McComas, Pisha and Wroten served as captains for the 1976 Wildcats.

Mustangs win big

Unnoticed Greg Harper made himself known in the drive. The senior flanker who is an outstanding blocker, caught two Armstrong aeriels for 18 and 20 yards.

Shonta went to his bench midway in the third quarter and the reserves responded well. Milford did score with 4:51 left in the game with Steve Solon climaxing a 69-yard drive with a one-yard plunge into the end zone.

Although Northville had its third string in for most of that drive, Shonta inserted the front line troops when Milford got down to the Mustangs seven-yard line.

Northville's final score came with time running out as senior Dave Puzzuoli ran the final yard for the score and his team's 33rd point.

The big horse in the Mustangs' final 62-yard march to the goal line was junior Dave Duquid who picked up 52 of those yards in five carries.

Defensively, tackle Chris Missel played outstanding, making 13 solo tackles and adding eight assists. He was backed up by noseguard Mark Morland with six solo tackles and 12 assists, and end Doug Harding with five solo tackles and 10 assists.

"It was one of our better games. We made few mistakes and executed well," said assistant coach Chuck Apap.

Statistically, Northville made 12 first downs, Milford eight. The Mustangs rushed for 161 yards and passed for 174, while Milford gained 47 on the ground and 30 in the air.

Northville closes the season this Friday at South Lyon. Twenty-four seniors will be playing their final game. They are:

Greg Armstrong, Dave Bartels, Earl Bingley, Dave Chio, Tim Conder, Kevin Corcoran and Joe Crane.

John Federspill, Mark Gross, Greg Harper, Kevin Kratz, Bruce Lampella and Mike Long.

Rick Marrone, Paul McDonald, Chris Missel, Don Morelli, Mark Morland, Norm Pratt, Dave Puzzuoli, Dennis Rice, Dennis Singleton, Steve Smith and Kerry Steele.

Kevin Corcoran (left), and Mark Morland made the all-Western Six team

4 gridders all-league

Northville placed four players on the Western Six all-league football team picked by the league's six coaches.

Conference champion Farmington Harrison had nine gridders named to the 22-man team which includes an offensive and defensive team.

Mustangs honored were flanker Greg Harper, a 6'0", 175-pounder; defensive noseguard Mark Morland, 6'2", 190 pounds; Kevin Corcoran, a 6'2", 190-pound linebacker; and defensive back Greg Armstrong, 6'1", 170 pounds.

All are seniors and Armstrong and Morland are tri-captains.

Northville's third captain, defensive back Tim Conder, made honorable mention. Eight other Mustangs joined Conder in receiving honorable mention.

They are linebacker Mark Gross, defensive end Doug Harding, wide receiver John Horwath, offensive tackle Kevin Kratz, fullback Rick Marrone, defensive tackle Chris Missel, halfback Dennis Singleton, and offensive guard Kerry Steele.

All are seniors except for juniors Harding and Horwath. Waterford Mott placed four gridders on the first team, Livonia Churchill three, and Walled Lake Western two. Plymouth Canton was shut out.

Only three juniors were named to the top 22, halfback

Rance Hafner of Western, tackle Scott McCarthy of Harrison, and linebacker Pete Lambert of Harrison.

Gould, Johnston star in meets

Senior Bob Gould and sophomore Jeff Johnston ended the cross country season with impressive showings in the state championships last Saturday.

In Grand Rapids on the Indian Trails course, Gould, a Northville senior, finished ninth out of 107 runners in a time of 15:32. Last year Gould finished 14th.

State champion was Tim Proulx, the Southeastern Conference champ from Brighton who blazed across the Indian Trails in 15:06.

Northville's other entrant, junior Don Wilber finished 35th in a time of 16:02.

Meanwhile, on the Grand Valley Golf Course in Sturgis, Johnston indicated that he has quite a future as a harrier for Novi.

The youngster finished 35th out of 70 entrants, virtually all of whom are seniors or juniors. Johnston's time was 16:24.

At the Royal Oak Kimball Invitational, held for ninth and 10th graders, Johnston finished fourth out of 120 in a meet which attracts primarily Class A schools.

Northville's team pulled off a whale of an upset a week ago Tuesday, when it whipped Livonia Stevenson 25-30. The Livonia school finished fifth in the state meet last Saturday.

Northville finished the season with a 13-2 mark, causing coach Ralph Redmond to call his harriers the finest cross country team in Northville history.

Manager sees Haggerty arm of Super Sewer coming

Reporting back from a meeting he attended last week with the Wayne County Road Commission, Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall appeared enthusiastic about the possibility of super sewer being constructed in the near future.

Kriewall said that the Wayne County Road Commission, which owns the sewer system in Wayne County, "has tentatively decided not to proceed in the fight with Washtenaw and Ypsilanti." Those communities had decided previously to opt out of super sewer and the state Water Resources Commission had okayed that plan.

Wayne County had indicated at that point in July, that it might seek legal relief to stop Washtenaw County and Ypsilanti from dropping out of the plan.

According to Kriewall, alternate III of the super sewer plan is going to be used, thus salvaging the remainder of super sewer which could ultimately service all of Novi, providing taps within 3-4 years which the city desperately needs.

Alternate III, which Novi City Council had previously asked be considered as an alternate to the total super sewer concept calls for the exclusion of Washtenaw County. All local treatment plants would be abandoned and one large plant would be built at the mouth of the Huron River discharging into Lake Erie.

This would satisfy Northville which had been opposing expansion of the Walled Lake treatment plant or creation of a second treatment plant in Novi.

However, Kriewall maintained that "we could still pursue our treatment plant or go with Wayne County. We'd rather go with Wayne County which is what Northville Township has wanted to see."

In particular, Kriewall said that a Haggerty Road arm, which Northville Township has been seeking, could go as far north as Nine Mile and, if Novi chooses, could be extended as far north as 14 Mile Road.

"If it only goes up to Nine Mile, the only thing it would serve is the area between Eight and Nine Mile along Haggerty," said Kriewall. He indicated he wants the sewer extended as far as possible which could then service some existing subdivisions on the east side.

"The big impact," he added "would be from Grand River north. All of the property to the east of M-275 would be served."

He said that engineering problems such as the grade could determine exactly how far the sewer would go. He added that the Haggerty Road arm would be the first portion of super sewer constructed to serve Novi because preliminary plans were drawn up for it in 1967. Other portions of Novi will be added later, he said.

If super sewer does go through, as Kriewall expects, the federal government would pick up 80 percent of the cost with the city and involved communities paying the remainder, probably through sewer taps.

Kriewall added that new Environmental Protection Agency guidelines will also make it possible for any existing subdivision within the super sewer service area to receive 80-20 funding for a new sewer system if sewer problems are being experienced. This could affect Novi Heights subdivision and Burton Drive homeowners, Kriewall said.

Another boon for Novi is the fact that "the federal government has made the determination they cannot simply study sanitary sewers. Storm water goes hand in hand because they both affect drainage in the area, especially if you have a pollution problem caused by sanitary waste discharge into the drainage stream."

This means a storm water runoff study, something Novi has been seeking for years, could be funded almost totally by the federal government.

Kriewall added that implementing a storm water runoff plan would not be federally funded but at least the target areas could be identified.

Kriewall said he will be meeting with the Oakland County DPW and Wayne County Road Commission within a month concerning extension of the Haggerty Road Arm, storm water runoff plan and application for funding for local subdivisions with sewer problems.

Betty Lennox, Northville Township Supervisor did not appear quite as optimistic as Kriewall as to the construction of super sewer.

"We are working on trying in the Haggerty Road arm to the super sewer plan. We think we've persuaded them. We need it very badly."

She added that alternate III does not specifically include Novi, but Kriewall said he has received reassurances that it will be tied into super sewer.

European trip proves exciting

By NANCY DINGELDEY

A well-informed guide, a good bus driver, a delightful group of people and lots of peas and carrots are just a few of the recollections of Lillian Spencer's 25-day European trip.

Joining with other members of the Brown Swiss Cattle Association, the tour took the group "off the beaten path" and into the gorgeous countryside that is so often missed in usual tours.

And what was so super about this trip, Lillian commented, is that the pace was leisurely and she really felt that she had seen and learned about Europe. A good, knowledgeable guide is the secret.

The young Welshman, who joined the group in Amsterdam, was a virtual walking history book, Lillian said. "We went into the countryside and met and visited with the people and really learned something."

The group made a full circle through Europe beginning and ending in the Netherlands. "The weather was beautiful with the sun following us every step of the way."

After a trip down the Rhine River to Bonn, it was onward to Heidelberg, Austria and the Black Forest. The area has some beautiful summer resorts, according to Lillian.

While in Innsbruck, they visited a mountain farm and one of the picturesque chalets that dot the hillsides. There was lunch in the Principality of Lichtenstein before heading on to Switzerland.

Entertainment one evening in that country was provided by a troupe of family musicians. There was grandpa thumping the base violin while other family members played mountain horns. And all joined in on rounds of beautiful yodelling.

Italy seemed to capture Lillian's heart with good weather smiling on her this time during the visit to Venice. There were gondola rides complete with accordion player and Italian singers, there was St. Mark's Square at night with an orchestra playing beautiful Viennese waltzes.

Florence, with its museums, and Michaelangelo's statue of David were sights to behold before heading on to Rome. There the group toured the Vatican and the Sistine Chapel. "It was unbelievably beautiful — you have to see it yourself and when you do, it gives you chills."

"And oh, the Italian ice cream," Lillian said it was the most delicious thing she ever ate, ranking it higher than the pastries served each night at dinner. "But, we had more peas and carrots than I ever hope to see again." The tour guide insisted that there be no fresh vegetables — hence, peas and carrots — everywhere!

Collision hurts couple at new Wixom signal

In Wixom

Although not seriously injured, Frances and George Morris were involved in the first automobile accident at the railroad crossing on Pontiac Trail and Wixom Road since the intersection was signalized.

The elderly couple both received bruises and were shaken up in the 5 p.m. accident October 29. The collision occurred as Morris was attempting to complete a left turn on a green light onto North Wixom Road.

A car driven by Philip Wallace of New Hudson, heading west on Pontiac Trail also had a green light. Witnesses to the accident said the Morris car turned in front of Wallace. Morris, cited at the scene, said he was just following the traffic.

Wixom Police emphasized the need for motorists to heed the traffic signals noting many drivers are proceeding improperly. This is especially true, they say, prior to the approach or following the clearing of a train from the intersection. At those times, all signals become flashing red lights.

The intersection, at those times, becomes a three-way stop situation. Police pointed out that motorists are not coming to a complete stop before proceeding. Those motorists may expect to receive traffic citations, they added.

Wixom Officers, responding to a call of a sick person, were right on hand for a three-car collision at the same location.

The accident, attributed to a passing motorist more interested in the ambulance than the road, apparently crossed the center line, colliding with an on-coming car.

Police related the ambulance call had been to the home of Steve Chester at Loon Lake and Wixom Roads at 6:30 p.m. November 1. Nelson Profit of Milford passed the scene heading south on Wixom Road. Profit apparently veered across the center line striking a car driven by Alfred Aughton of Highland.

The impact of the two cars caused the Aughton car to spin around, crashing into a car driven by Kaye Abbotts of Milford. The Abbotts vehicle, also headed north, was directly behind Aughton. Although he was the cause of the accident and charged with it, Profit escaped injury. Both Aughton and Ms. Abbotts required treatment of their injuries and were transported to Botsford Hospital by ambulance.

A second accident at the railroad crossing in Wixom occurred last week, during a period of construction in that area. Jeffrey LaChance of South Lyon was injured when his car was struck in the rear by another driven by Shirley Kahrl of New Hudson.

The impact of the two vehicles pushed the LaChance car into the side of a passing vehicle driven by Julius Goover.

LaChance, eastbound on Pontiac Trail, was attempting to merge into the left lane due to a road barricade at the railroad tracks when the accident occurred.

Wixom Police investigated two separate larcenies at the E and L Transport Company on Wixom Road last week.

A CB radio was reported missing from the cab of an unlicensed transport vehicle parked at the company. The incident occurred between 3:30 p.m. November 2 and 6 a.m. November 3.

Later, police investigated the disappearance of the tires from two new Lincoln Continental parked near the gate of the company. According to company officials, the main gate to the holding area was checked and found secure at 3:55 a.m.

At 5 a.m., the gate was found unlocked and open with the trunks of the two cars open. Both the keys to the cars and tires were missing.

In Novi

Corporal Ralph Fluhart and officer Dennis Jelley on patrol at 3:30 a.m. November 3 arrested two men in connection with the theft of nine tires missing from a truck transport carrying four trucks piggyback.

The officers had stopped to give aid to a car with apparent motor problems parked at Grand River and Seeley Road when they discovered the nine tires, valued at $2,000, missing from the truck transport parked nearby.

Because lug nuts, apparently from the missing tires, were in the vehicle officers arrested John Coram, 41, of Dearborn Heights and John Saylor, 25, of Detroit. Both were arraigned before 52nd District Court Judge Gene Schnelz and returned to Oakland County Jail in lieu of $5,000 cash bond for Coram and $2,000 cash bond for Saylor. Exam is set for November 12.

Detectives theorize the tires, which were not recovered, had previously been taken away in a truck before officers arrived.

Arrested at 10 p.m. November 2 and charged with possession of burglary tools were Lucky Hensley, 22, of Detroit (formerly of Walled Lake and Novi), Steven Godfrey, 22, of Detroit and a 16-year-old Detroit female.

The arrests were made by Novi police as the result of a surveillance. Hensley and the others were reportedly observed at the Boron Station at Novi Road and 10 Mile working in the area of the tire rack and cutting the chain with a pair of bolt cutters.

The two adults were arrested and arraigned before Judge Schnelz. They were returned to Oakland County Jail in lieu of $5,000 cash bond each. Exam date was set for November 12. The juvenile is being petitioned into juvenile court.

Four cushions and a power stove vent valued at $165 were stolen October 29 from Thompson Trailers, 42970 Grand River.

A 1971 Plymouth was found October 28 on Wixom Road south of 11 Mile after it had been burned. Apparently railroad flames had been used to set the tires on fire. The car had not been reported stolen previously from Detroit, where it was registered. Attempts were being made to locate the owner.

A car owner walked out to his car in a parking lot on Woodstone lane and found the bumper of his 1974 Mustang missing. The only thing left of the bumper, which was valued at $100, was one holding bolt.

A home under construction in the 1400 area of Paramount Street suffered $300 damage when vandals threw paint on the house.

A neighbor who observed two males breaking into a garage in the 47800 area of Nine Mile last week called police who found a breaking and entering of the garage and the home. According to detectives, a pick axe was used to smash the door between the garage and the home. It was not determined if anything was missing.

About 20 minutes later officers saw a juvenile running through a field at Nine Mile and Napier. Officer Thomas Hesse chased the youth and caught him. The youth, age 15, from Lyon Township reportedly admitted to the breaking and entering. He implicated a 17-year-old, also of Lyon Township. A warrant is being sought for his arrest.

The 15-year-old was petitioned into juvenile court and released to his parents.

Northville City Police considered a breaking and entering to a shed on Holmsbury to be "a very neat job" in that the assailants were very tidy about returning the shed to its original condition, minus a $416 snow blower.

The shed was entered by someone neatly cutting the hasp and removing the snow blower, taking the snow blower, then replacing the hasp and padlock in such a way that the shed looked secure.

The owner reported the incident which was thought to have occurred during a two week period prior to November 3.

A car involved in a fatal car accident in the township last week and stored at Phil's '76 Station was broken into shortly after it was towed away.

Between 4 p.m. October 31 and 2 p.m. November 1, someone entered the car and removed an AM-FM stereo from the dashboard. The radio was valued at $100.

City Police are investigating what they term a case of arson at the Presbyterian Church on Main Street Wednesday night.

The fire was started in a classroom at the church engulfing the drapes, walls and ceiling in flames.

The dollar value of the incident is not yet known. Continuing investigation is being handled by the detective bureau.

During the past month, assorted tools and equipment have been reported disappearing from the Northville Office of the Novi Ambulance Company. Value of the tools is placed at over $100.

City Police have a suspect in the case with the investigation continuing.

A 63-year-old man was injured at the Northville Downs last week when a horse reportedly ran over him. Gayle Smith of Dryden suffered a small gash on his face along with other injuries to his arm and groin area, when the horse stepped on him.

Smith was taken to St. Mary

A & P to open Sunday in Novi

A&P, the first full-fledged Novi super market, will open its doors for business at 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

While no elaborate grand opening ceremonies are planned, Norman Mahle, Director of Supermarkets for the Detroit area said that "Sunday we will be open as normal."

The new store, which is located in the Novi-10 shopping center at Meadowbrook and 10 Mile Roads, is a 24-hour store which closes during the week only from Saturday midnight to 9:30 Sunday morning.

Manager of the store, which will employ approximately 120 people, is Patrick Crowe while co-manager is Thomas Alfano. Crowe has been a successful store manager for A&P, previously managing the A&P at Eight Mile and Lahser in Detroit and the Telex shopping center at 10 Mile and Telegraph in Southfield.

Mahle, director of approximately 103 Detroit area stores, appeared enthusiastic about A&P opening the first Novi grocery store.

"We feel good," said Mahle. "It's a move in the right direction and we feel it will be successful."

"I think over the last few years, we've seen a lot of changes in A&P, closing the small outmoded store where we couldn't give the customer full-fledged shopping. We feel this is a growing area, coming on strong, and there is a need for service."

With 31,000 square feet, approximately the same as the Northville Store which opened earlier this year, the Novi A&P appears to have the room to fulfill its promise.

The store will feature a complete line of grocery products and will feature a bakery department with Saunders and Awreys baked goods, as well as complete frozen food, dairy, and meat departments.

In addition there will be health and beauty aids departments.

"We will also have a service center where we will feature film developing, cigarettes, small appliances, money orders, and any other related items," said Mahle.

"The store is laid out so it is convenient for Mr. and Mrs. consumer to shop throughout the store."

One interesting feature will be the package pick-up. This will allow a customer to go through the check-out counter as normal. Then the customer will take a number and while he or she gets the family car, an employee of A&P will wheel out the groceries to the waiting car. The tags will be used to match the right groceries with the right customer.

Mahle said that he considers the mixture of stores in the Novi-10 Shopping Center to be very complementary.

"From what I see, I would say the whole complex will be relative to encouraging the customer to want to shop there," said Mahle.

The A&P joins five other stores in operation at the center currently. They are TG&Y, Sundae Inn Novi, Radio Shack, Brown's Drugs and American Hobby.

Other businesses yet to open are: Hook's Jewelry, Head and Hair Salon, Book Mark, Fisher's Sporting Goods, Denny's Restaurant, William's Men's Wear, Random House Interior, Ridley Cleaners, Maternity Factory Outlet, Dr. Burton Davis, Podiatrist, and Dr. Paul S. Keller, optometrist.

From Rome, the group made its way to the Italian Riviera, then went on to Monaco which received a "pretty but really over-rated" notation. But Nice, and the view across the bay to Portofino, drew a five-star rating. Lillian claims it is really and truly a beautiful place most deserving of a return trip.

Three days were spent in Paris with the stageshow at the "Moulin Rouge" quite some thing! The group also visited a farm and its charming French chateau filled with exquisite furnishings.

The French food, especially in the small restaurants out in the countryside also gathered rave notices. "What a pleasure — it was the only country whose rolls didn't break your teeth."

Winding up their lengthy stay, Lillian joined with the others of the group at dinner with a representative of the Common Market. She said it was quite informative as well as interesting.

A final stop was made in Rotterdam with a tour of the huge harbor before returning to Amsterdam for the flight home.

An eight-country, 18 day tour of Europe found the Dave Schwanky's breathless and probably wondering "if this is Thursday, then we must be in..."

According to Dave, it's just too much to see in too short a time. "We'd like to go back and spend our time in Italy" with both Helen and Dave indicating a preference for Rome and Venice.

When going at that fast a pace, Dave said there were many times when they just took a change of clothing into the hotels. There wasn't enough time to rummage through a big suitcase.

Merchandise was terribly expensive throughout the countries with the best bargains found in England. Dave said it was a wonder anyone could subsist in Germany since everything is "way out of sight".

What did they miss most? Dave said water — he just couldn't wait to get home for a drink of water. The other — food.

Avoiding European water and the food situation didn't dampen their enthusiasm for travelling however. Helen and Dave were in total agreement with Lillian — pick a country or two and enjoy it. Says Dave, "There's so much you miss whizzing by."

Our sincerest sympathies to Lillian Byrd on the deaths of a sister and sister-in-law, both of which occurred Sunday. Lillian's sister passed away during surgery to repair a broken hip. She was 85 years old Sunday.

YOUR BODY WAS BUILT TO LAST OVER A HUNDRED YEARS!

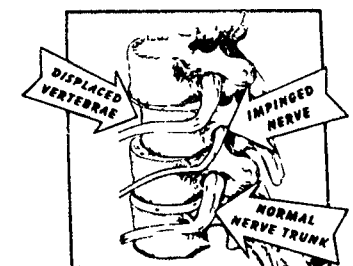

Scientists tell us that the body is designed to last over a hundred years. That means each part of your body was built with the same life span, be it heart, lung, muscle or bone. Then why, at the age of 40, would a heart give out—stop working or become diseased? Why at the age of 60 or 70 is it common to say of someone, "they have one foot in the grave"?

The reason in 90% of the cases is neglect. Neglect of the most important system in your body. The system that directs and coordinates ALL bodily functions. The system that directs repair of broken bones, that directs healing of cuts and bruises.

The system that at this very moment gives you the ability to read this article. The system that we speak of is the central nervous system.

If it is free of interference, it keeps your body functioning, if not, sickness and disease are the result.

The spine is the only place in the human body where, under normal circumstances, this interference can exist. The bones of the spine twist, placing pressure on the nerves. This twisting is caused from some accidental force on the spine (i.e.—car accident, fall, etc.) They can exist without you being aware of them.

This is what a twisted vertebra looks like.

The Chiropractor removes this interference by gently applying pressure to the spinal bones that are twisted, correcting the problem. The nerve flow is then re-established allowing the body to return to health.

Lands on porch

Jim Allen had planned on selling his 1974 Ford and so advertised the fact by parking the car in the front area of the family business on Northville Road. Moments later, the car was a mass of broken glass and smashed metal. A car (above), piloted by Daniel Gregory of Royal Oak, was being pursued by Michigan State Police Troopers in a high-speed chase down Seven Mile Road. Hitting the railroad tracks, Gregory became airborne, catapulting the vehicle out to Northville Road. The car crashed into the guard rail with the rail then crashing into Allen's car. After hitting the rail, the Gregory car travelled an additional 113 feet landing on the front porch of the custom van shop next door. Several large slabs of concrete were demolished along the way. Gregory, suffering no apparent injuries, was arrested by the State Police for drunk driving while City Police cited him for failing to have his vehicle under control.

Hospital for treatment of those injuries.

Vandals attacked a car parked in the Northville Downs parking lot, smashing out the left rear window with some unknown object.

Damage to the car was estimated to be $100, in the incident which occurred between 3 p.m. and 11 p.m. Saturday.

Another car parked in the lot was broken into with a radial tire valued at $80 and tool box and equipment valued at $175 reported missing from the trunk.

The incident occurred at some time between 8:45 p.m. October 30 and noon the following day.

Four mail trucks parked at the Northville Post Office were vandalized over the Halloween weekend. Wires were pulled on three trucks while the wires on the fourth truck were cut.

Northville City Police apprehended Danny O'Driscoll in Farmington last week, on a check forgery charge. The original complaint came from Joe's Bar on Main Street.

Preliminary examination on the charges are scheduled for Monday in 35th District Court in Plymouth. O'Driscoll is currently free on a $1500 cash bond.

In Township

What began as a routine traffic stop for defective equipment wound up in a scuffle involving four Michigan State Police troopers and two township residents.

Daniel Coyne of Pierson Road was stopped at 9:30 p.m., October 30 on Seven Mile Road. Coyne asked the troopers to allow him to take some warm food to his father before going to the Post.

While at the Pierson Road address, a check on the driving status of Coyne was run. He was found to be driving while his license was suspended.

Coyne's father, Patrick, tried to persuade the troopers not to issue a citation on the suspension and attempted to block the troopers efforts to reach the son.

A scuffle ensued with troopers requesting a back-up unit. With an additional unit responding, the four troopers then engaged in the melee with six people involved suffering minor bruises and abrasions.

A search of the Coyne car revealed a hunting knife, machete, heavy link chain and tire iron inside the car. Those items were confiscated.

Both men were finally subdued and arrested, charged with carrying concealed weapons and resisting and obstructing arrest. They were housed in the Westland City Jail pending arraignment.

Additional equipment stolen during a breaking and entering to the Meadowbrook Golf Club was reported to the Northville Township Police.

A member who had stored his golf equipment in the "bag room" discovered the missing items November 2. A full set of golf clubs and bag valued at $700 was added to the list of stolen articles.

At some time between 11 p.m. October 27 and 1 a.m. October 29, vandals smeared glue on three windows, their screens, the aluminum siding and shrubs of a home on Old Bedford Road. The damage was contained to the rear of the home.

It's a royal $4,000

Peter Couse, Northville High senior who has the role of Henry VIII in the current high school drama club production, "Royal Gambit," models his mink-trimmed royal costume made from an original design and used for commercial television. Valued at $4,000 the costume is rented from Costumes Unlimited of Chicago for $150 a week. This is the first time, according to director Kurt Kinde, that it has been worn in a theater production. The story of Henry VIII and his six wives will be given at 8 p.m. this Friday and Saturday in the high school auditorium. Last Thursday was opening night. Tickets at $2.50 for adults and $2 for students are sold at the door.

Students, teachers split

It's Ford by landslide

Apparently Northville students are more in line with the political preferences of the American electorate than their teachers.

Last May in a mock election held at the high school, Democratic students voted for Jimmy Carter while Republican students opted for Gerald Ford.

On the other hand, Democratic faculty favored Morris Udall while their Republican counterparts preferred Ronald Reagan.

In another mock vote election held on Election day last Tuesday at the high school, President Ford received over 70 percent of the vote, Marvin Esch 62 percent, and Carl Pursell 70 percent.

Meanwhile, Jimmy Carter received 65 percent of the faculty vote, Donald Riegle 57 percent, and Dr. Edward Pierce, 60 percent.

Students wondered where the Republican faculty vote went between May and November.

They theorized that the vote went to the middle schools when ninth grade teachers were reassigned to those schools.

They felt the moderate teachers were transferred, while the remaining conservative teachers shifted to the President.

Meanwhile, many students at Meads Mill got their first chance to express their political views and choices when they participated in a mock election last Tuesday.

Both students and faculty voted Republican, with the students supporting Ford by 80 percent and the faculty backing him by 52 percent.

Douglas Dent, a government and history teacher at the high school supervised the May primary vote, the Meads Mill vote and high school faculty vote.

And by squeaker

While Gerald Ford was squeaking through in Michigan with a 51-48 percent majority, students at Novi's Village Oaks Elementary elected him by a 2-1 margin on election day.

With 99 percent of the student body participating, the voting booths were kept busy all day. Ford eventually received 310 votes while Carter earned 166.

Student interest was also high on proposition A, on non-returnable bottles and cans. Final results showed proposition A winning strong

Santaland's coming

Holiday fantasy trip planned for children

Creation of a Christmas wonderland for children is underway in Northville.

The project, sponsored by retail merchants of the community, got underway last week with the painstaking task of repairing and refurbishing the delicate faces, arms and hands of the figures that will play a featured role in a Santaland adventure to be staged in Northville Square.

According to Judy Whitmore, director, the exhibit will be a combination of the Santa Workshop that for years was set up in the American Legion building and groups of mechanical and stationary figures set up in a series of holiday settings.

The displays will be exhibited in the northwest section of the upper level of the Northville Square shopping center.

"Our idea is to make it into an appealing, non-commercial series of exhibits similar to but smaller than the popular Christmas exhibit at Cobo Hall, Hudson's, etc.," Ms. Whitmore explained.

Children and their parents will enter the large, completely decorated rooms to be greeted by a giant Christmas tree. "We're hoping to decorate it with ornaments made by school children and with special ornaments contributed by merchants."

A designated walk-way will take visitors past one display after another, each carrying some kind of Christmas theme. Several are expected to be sponsored by civic organizations in town, each fashioning a special holiday setting aimed at thrilling youngsters.

The first exhibit along this walk, for example, will depict an ice-skating scene, complete with skaters, a blue sky, soft snowbanks and the pond. Colored lights will play on this exhibit and others, Ms. Whitmore said, "to give them a special fantasy effect."

The Santaland exhibits will culminate with a living room setting for Santa Claus himself, who will welcome youngsters and pose with them as their parents snap pictures of them if they like. "We're going to make it as convenient as possible for parents and children," she said.

Plans call for Santaland to open on Sunday, November 28 — after the traditional Christmas Walk in town.

Display inspection

Unpacking of Christmas decorations and figures began this past week as Santaland assistants began refurbishing materials for the large display planned for children in the Northville Square shopping center. Inspecting three of the figures are (l to r) Judy Whitmore, Santaland director, Edie Cole and Shirley Jallad.

Take a shower and save.

A tub bath uses about twice as much hot water as a shower.

A normal tub bath uses about twice as much hot water as a three to four-minute shower. So, save energy and money, switch to short showers instead of tub baths. Another needless waste of energy and money is letting the hot water run while shaving or when hand-washing dishes. Avoid this waste by using sink stoppers and dishpans. And in the laundry, save by using cold water at every opportunity. Remember, the energy you save is everyone's, the money you save is your own.

Kids aid charity by scaring others

A neighborhood project of children, started last year, blossomed again this year and it appears now the "Haunted House" in a Maxwell Road garage is likely to become an annual event.

Last year the children raised $25 for the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities and this year they came up with $76.04 for their favorite charity.

The "Haunted House" was staged during the week of October 30 in the garage of the Brian Buckmasters of 19677 Maxwell. It featured "spooky music, spooky lights, weird apparitions depicting horror characters guaranteed to send chills up and down spines of the bravest and fearless visitors."

Co-captains of the event were Brian Buckmaster and Graeme Bicknell. Other participating youngsters were Steve Chisnell, Rusty Carpenter, Nicky Kolb, Brian Hicks, Will Carpenter, Betsy Buckmaster, Marty Kramer, Kevin Kolb, and Glen Hicks.

Assistance was given the children by Don Buckmaster, Jimmy Thomson, and Stuart Bicknell.

Area vote results

Minor parties garner few votes

Minor party candidates were very minor in terms of vote support from Northville city and township voters, and voters in Novi, Novi Township and Wixom.

Incredibly enough, not one Novi Township voter cast a ballot for any of the minor candidates seeking the offices of president, senator, congressman, state representative, county commissioner or county executive.

Candidates for these offices fared only slightly better in other areas.

In Northville Township, voters gave the Independent candidacy of Eugene McCarthy and Patricia P. Weymouth 51 votes.

Margaret Wright and Benjamin Spock of the Human Rights Party received seven votes, as did the Libertarian candidates Roger L. MacBride and David Bergland.

U. S. Labor Party candidate Lyndon H. LaRouche received four votes, and Socialist Workers Party candidate Peter Camejo just one.

Senatorial candidates didn't do much better among township voters. Theodore G. Albert of the HRP pulled in two votes, SWP's Paula L. Reimers tallied four, Socialist Labor Party's Frank Girard, two, and Libertarian candidate Bette Jane Erwin, 14.

In the second congressional district, HRP's Phillip S. Carroll received five votes, U. S. Labor's Ronald G. Ziegler, six, and Libertarian's Lawrence McKenna, eight. In Northville, Ms. Wright mustered eight votes, Camejo, one, and McCarthy 44.

In the senate race, HRP's Albert got eight votes, SLP's Girard, one, and the Libertarian's Ms. Erwin, two. Kenneth Hellonen of the Libertarian Party received three votes running for state representative in the 24th district.

Carroll received two votes in the second congressional race, while Louis Barbone of the Libertarian Party won two votes in the Oakland County Executive's race.

Someone with a strong sense of loyalty or strange sense of humor wrote in Richard Nixon for a circuit court judgeship in Oakland County, while Joe Slabets got one, write-in vote for president.

Voters in Novi gave former Senator McCarthy his greatest support in the area with 95 votes. Ms. Wright received eight votes, Socialist Labor Party's Julius Levin, one, LaRouche, one and MacBride, 15.

In the senatorial race, Albert pulled in 17 votes, Reimers, five, Girard, four, Peter A. Signorelli of U. S. Labor, one, and Ms. Erwin, 23.

Hellonen got the support of 20 voters in the state representative race.

In the 19th congressional race, John O. Muotka of the AIP tallied 33 votes, Thomas Simpson of U. S. Labor, nine, and Therese S. Barbone of the Libertarian Party, 16.

Louis H. Barbone received 16 votes in his battle for the county executive.

Wixom voters gave the cold shoulder to minor candidates.

McCarthy did get 39 votes, Ms. Wright, three, Camejo, two, LaRouche, two, and MacBride, three.

In the 19th congressional race, the only two vote getters were the AIP's Muotka with 10, and U. S. Labor's Simpson with one.

It's a lifesaver

Operation Red Ball — a possible lifesaver. That's the hope of the Novi Jaycees as they have announced a restart of the Operation Red Ball project. Novi School Board at its last meeting gave the Jaycees permission to send notice of the program home with students.

Specifically, according to Jaycee Wayne Woodall, "all that it involves is placing this Red Ball on your bedroom window. In case of fire this would tell the firemen that a child, an invalid or an elderly person sleeps in that room."

According to Woodall, the use of the Red Ball is an idea of a former Novi Jaycee who was trapped in a fire as a young man and was severely burned.

Besides distribution through the schools, Woodall said, pre-schoolers will be contacted through Scout programs. In addition, stickers will be available from any Jaycee. For more information, call Woodall at 348-1074.

3,706 get shots at college clinic

In a report released by the Wayne County Health Department today it was disclosed that 3,706 people received their Bivalent-High Risk Swine Flu shot at Schoolcraft College on October 20 and 23.

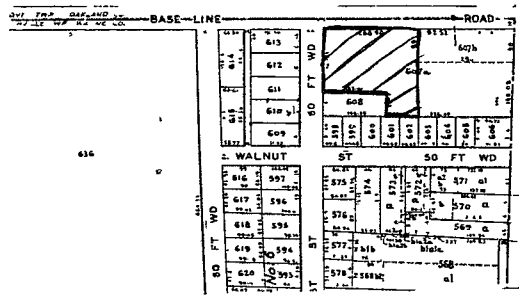

A total of nearly 31,000 high risk people received their bivalent flu shot in the two day out-county program held two weeks ago.

According to Dr. Perry Stearns, Wayne County public health director, the exceptional turnout represented an "encouraging vote of confidence" in the National Influenza Program and verification that cooperative community efforts can "get the job done."

Northville woman cited by realtors

"Recognition by your peers has to rank as one of life's most rewarding experiences," states Ann L. Roy, selected as "Woman of the Year" by the Women's Council of the Michigan Association of Realtors.

The honor is annually given to the one woman in the state judged to have done the most to promote women in real estate and the real estate profession in general.

But it has been no single year effort for the Realtor-Associate who works with her husband's firm of Bruce Roy Realty in Northville. Her service to the profession dates back more than 27 years when she joined the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR) and its sister organization, the United Northwestern Realty Association (UNRA).

She has served on all committees of the two organizations at least once and currently works with those on by-laws, membership, and political activities. She was charter president of the women's council of the local board and served two full terms. Such activity helped win her the 1976 "Realtor-Associate of the Year" title from the WWOCBR last spring.

Her willingness to become involved has continued to broaden the scope of her activities throughout her career. Long a member of the Detroit Board of Realtors, she is currently a director and last year served as president of its Women's Council following numerous committee appointments and chairmanships.

Leaders of the state and national real estate associations also have tapped her mind and organizational ability through appointment to numerous committees including those for membership, ethics, and public relations.

Despite her busy schedule, however, she still makes time to lend a helping hand in her own community. In recent years, she was seen as an officer or active member of such groups as the Northville Chamber of Commerce, Northville Business and Professional Women's Club, the Northville Women's Club, the Baseline Questers and the Northville Historical Society.

With a strong interest in government and the political process, she also has served as recording secretary of ARCO, an organization formed to keep abreast of legislation and candidates for office. Her patriotism shows clearly in her work through her practice of giving out some 1,500 large American flags to her clients during the past 10 years.

"Somehow she makes it all seem like fun as she steps beyond official duties to add such extras as writing, directing and acting in a humorous skit for a luncheon meeting or organizing a car pool of fellow professionals to appear at a public hearing," said WCMAR in announcing the award winner.

ANN ROY: Woman of the Year in business

Women's rights author

Carolyn Bird to speak

"As long as women think money and power are unfeminine interests, they won't make it to the top."

That's what popular women's rights author Carolyn Bird, who will speak at Schoolcraft College November 17, advocates in most of her books dealing with economic problems and opportunities of women.

Gloria Steinem called Ms. Bird "the Malcolm X for women" after reading her book, "Born Female".

"Carolyn Bird's very serious and heartfelt book," wrote Ms. Steinem in the New York Times Book Review, "is enough to convince anyone...that restrictive prejudices...are depriving the country of nearly half its talent."

Ms. Bird will be presented in Schoolcraft's Waterman Center at 8 p.m. next Wednesday to speak on "The Two Paycheck Marriage", the topic of the book she's currently writing dealing with the effects on love, marriage and children of the women returning to work.

Her appearance is being sponsored by the College's Cultural and Public Affairs Committee.

Tickets are priced at $2 each for the general public and are available at the college bookstore. Schoolcraft students will be admitted free, but must pick up a ticket before 3 p.m. on the day of the lecture.

Tickets will be sold at the door if available. Phone 591-6400, Ext. 368, for more information.

Straight line modern sofas and chairs are always good companions for the ornamental shapes and decorative details of old wood furniture. Window treatments go a long way toward making the graceful adaptation. Perhaps that is because it is careful treatment and choice of fabric that can make a good arrangement much better. Draperies that mix and match with modern upholstery can really create a unified whole, in which antiques and curiosities create welcome areas of contrast.

If you have a piece of material from your sofa, bring it in to GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. In the second of three, free open forums at Schoolcraft College at 8 p.m. today Les Zalewski, a marriage counselor and therapist, will speak on "Not for Men Only". He is in private practice in Farmington.

Discussion will center on the role of the male in society and family.

The programing that makes some men into "workhorses — unfeeling and divorced from their own feelings" — will be covered.

"The Corporate Wife" will be discussed November 30 by facilitator Audrey Brosnan.

A corporate wife herself, Mrs. Brosnan will outline the burdens carried by women who are married to successful men and how they can cope in a healthy way with problems that may include their children, his ego and their own loneliness.

Open forum sessions are held from 8 to 10 p.m. in Room 200 of the Liberal Arts Building without charge and no registration is necessary.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Women's Resource Center at 591-6400, extension 370.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE
by Jim Roth

Wine is a valuable in new abundance these days, and one benefit to the consumer is better quality. It turns out that new plantings for the most part have been varietal grapes best suited to the land and the climate. Another advantage in this country is the introduction of new wines. In the southern San Joaquin Valley, 43 percent of California's total plantings were made last year. Such grapes as the rubied, ruby cabernet, French colonard and barbara promise to provide us with new and exciting tastes for exploration in the near future.

Let us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 587 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477 provide you with wines, other beverages, hot sandwiches, submarines, ham and cheese sandwiches, nuts, crackers, potato chips and lobsters for all your needs. We have 2500 to 3000 cases of cold beer on hand at all times as well as cold wines and champagnes. Hours: Mon thru Sat 9 a.m.-10 p.m., Sun Noon-6 p.m.

WINE WISDOM:

Champagne for a special occasion? Almaden's Le Domaine is a very good wedding and reception champagne.

Mayflower Meeting House invites you to participate in an Authentic Re-creation of

The First Thanksgiving Dinner

The Pilgrim heritage has long been a tradition not only in Plymouth, Michigan but especially at the Mayflower. To continue this practice, we have meticulously researched the service and preparation of the Pilgrim Fathers' First Thanksgiving Dinner. With certain liberties, the menu is a duplicate of that Thanksgiving Dinner menu used by the Pilgrims in 1621.

Join us Thanksgiving Day, November 25, 1976
12 noon - 6:30 p.m.
