Spring construction

Eight stores seen at Hutton

Architectural approval of the first of a three-phase store development at the northeast corner of Main and Hutton Streets was approved by the Northville (city) Planning Commission last week.

The planners' action followed the Northville Historical District Commission's recommendation that the architectural plan for refurbishing an existing building near the intersection be approved.

The building is to house Stone's Unfinished Furniture business, now temporarily housed in Northville Square because Stone's store was destroyed by fire last October.

Refurbishing of the building, which was sold to Stone's owners Robert Boshoven and Matt Twomey, by Gerald Stone, represents the first phase of development.

Second phase is to involve an addition to the rear of the building, probably this coming spring, followed shortly by a third phase involving the construction of a row of small stores along the north property line.

The new stores, which according to Boshoven will house a number of specialty shops, will stretch from the planned addition along the crest of the Ford Field hill to Hutton Street.

Boshoven told The Record that construction of seven small retail shops will begin probably in April. By Friday of last week, the windows of the existing building had already been cut and the owners were hopeful that the building can be occupied by mid March.

The city has purchased much of the property where Stone's store stood before it was destroyed by fire. Purpose of the city's purchase is to provide municipal parking and to allow for the widening of Hutton Street and the turning radius at the corner of Main Street.

Thus, the refurbished existing store, the addition, and the proposed new stores will face on this parking lot.

Extensive face-lifting of the existing store building, particularly the west side, will provide for a pitched roof addition to the building, windows, a double doorway, portico and a covered walkway along the west side of the building.

Face-lifting of the Main Street side of the building also is planned, but no door is to be provided here. Customer entrance to the building will be along the west wall.

Plans for the new store buildings and the addition, which have yet to be approved by the historical commission and the planning commission, call for the architecture to complement the design of the refurbished existing building.

Architect for the development is Kamp-DiComo Associates — the same architectural firm that has designed the Allen Terrace senior citizens apartment complex. Donald Di Como, who lives in Northville Township, also is the historical commission's volunteer architectural consultant.

According to City Manager Steven Walters, invitation for bids for widening of Hutton Street and improvement of the parking lot, probably will be ordered by the city council within a month with the actual improvements to take place in May or June.

The unfinished furniture store originally was owned by Gerald Stone, hence its name. To house his business he acquired the building that formerly was the A&P store and subsequently built the adjacent building for storage and construction of furniture. The former building is the one destroyed by fire, the latter the one that Boshoven and Twomey now own and will refurbish to house the furniture store.

Coincidentally, the name "Stone" had been synonymous with the property long before it was purchased by Gerald Stone. It was near the intersection where one of Northville's first school buildings was located. Made of cobblestone, it was referred to as the Stone Schoolhouse.

Years after its construction, the school was abandoned and the stone building was acquired by Lewis W. Hutton and used in connection with his carriage-making and blacksmith business. Hutton Street at the time was called Atwater.

Expensive 'red tape' delays Allen Terrace

Contracts have been signed and the site has been cleared, but construction of Allen Terrace senior citizens development has been delayed by county red tape.

Delay involves a $10,000 "needless cost" for a soil erosion order handed down by Wayne County, according to City Manager Steven Walters.

The order requires the installation of protective soil erosion devices prior to construction.

Cost of the devices is relatively small in relationship to the overall $2.5 million plus cost of the project, but it's "the principle of the thing" that disturbs the manager.

Even though the soil composition of the Allen Terrace site is substantially different from that of the Northville State Police site, the county is insisting on additional protective measures at Allen Terrace because of erosion problems encountered during construction of the state police post.

It assumes apparently, said the manager, that because both projects are located in Northville similar problems could occur.

Differences in the soil composition has been verified by a soils engineer, recognized as an expert in the field by even the county soil erosion agency, but that agency refuses to lift its requirement for Allen Terrace.

Initially, soil erosion protective procedures, at the time required by the county, were included as part of the excavating contractor's bid specifications. After the contract was awarded, however, the county changed its specifications to require the laying of an expensive filter fabric fence in a covered trench along the entire south edge of the building site.

The county's original requirement, which it had approved, called for construction of an earth berm and a collection swale.

Because cost of the fabric fence procedure represented an additional, unexpected $9,000 expense, the city appealed the county's requirement and "won" a modification. That modification, however, boosted the cost to $10,000.

Again the city appealed but the county refused to budge, citing problems that had occurred at the state police post.

McLAUGHLIN

Those grueling trips from Northville to Lansing and around the state will continue for at least another two years.

But William McLaughlin doesn't mind.

Matter of fact, he's relieved the travel didn't come to a screeching halt Saturday.

Withstanding his greatest challenge, McLaughlin won another two-year term as the state's Republican chairman when GOP delegates gave him a 128 victory margin over former state Representative Robert Edwards of Flint at Detroit's Cobo Hall.

Edward's strong showing proved to be McLaughlin's greatest test since first winning the job at the 1969 party convention. In six elections (including two for vice-chairman) he had competition only one other time.

McLaughlin, 44, was the hand-picked favorite of Governor William Milliken. He had urged McLaughlin to seek re-election to the $35,000 post.

Edwards, 36, garnered support of GOP conservatives, party dissidents, and young Republicans going into the weekend convention.

When the voting ended after political in-fighting and pressured support of the governor, McLaughlin came out on top, 818 to 690.

McLaughlin, who commutes daily to the GOP Lansing office from his Northville home at 592 Reed Street, has been the party chairman ever since Milliken was first elected as governor. His victory is seen by political pundits as a signal that Milliken intends to seek re-election as goernor.

He has been commuting from Northville for 12 years, having been elected party chairman in 1969 after serving a four-year stint as vice chairman.

"Whew! Mom, it was close but I won," quipped McLaughlin after winning re-election. "It was a good, healthy campaign."

City orders safety steps at 8 Mile-Center crossing

State prison proposal near

Plans to convert the Wayne County Child Development Center in Northville Township into a medium security prison were approved last week by the Michigan Corrections Commission.

Barry Mintzes, a state corrections department official, said the Michigan Department of Management and Budget will now attempt to work out an agreement with Wayne County for the property on the east side of Sheldon Road, north of Five Mile Road.

No timetable has been established, he said. The state hopes to alleviate crowded prisons by moving about 500 men and 50 women inmates into the center where many of the 45 buildings stand vacant.

Maintaining the property — 300 acres east of Sheldon Road and 500 acres on the west side — has been an annual $300,000 drain on the county budget since the center was phased out in 1974.

Many local residents and government officials have banded together to vigorously oppose the prison because, they say, it would lower neighboring property values and inhibit further residential growth in the township.

Supervisor Wilson Grier, noting that one-third of Northville Township's land is non-taxable government property, wants the county to sell the 800 acres to a private developer.

If not that, he and several others strongly favor the revived college "consortium" campus which is jointly pushed by Schoolcraft College and Wayne State University.

The already overcrowded state prison system is expecting a further space crunch because of the new mandatory two-year sentences which must be handed out to anyone convicted of committing a crime with a gun.

Under the plan approved by the corrections commission, minimum- and medium-security male prisoners would be housed in eight cottages at the center.

Another three cottages would be needed for about 50 female inmates who would be the overflow from the state's first women's prison

Six safety precautions have been ordered immediately for the intersection of Center and Eight Mile roads.

Northville City Council took its action Monday night in the wake of a recent accident at the intersection in which a five-year-old boy was injured.

All six of the steps were recommended by Police Captain Louis Westfall:

- Establishment of "no right turns on red" during the hours that school children are crossing at the intersection.

- Hiring of a second adult school crossing guard on a temporary basis, with a request to the school board that the second guard be made permanent.

- As soon as weather permits, paint all school crosswalks with crosshatching.

- Placement of school advance signs and the school crossing sign on Center north and south of Eight Mile Road.

- Through the police department establish a strong traffic safety program in the elementary grade schools.

- Request the county and Michigan State Police to conduct a traffic survey at the intersection to determine if it warrants installation of a special speed limit beacon.

In addition to these immediate steps, the council also accepted the police recommendation that —

- Concurrence be sought from the county

Election today!

In case you've forgotten, today's election day — in Northville Township and in the Wayne County portion of the City of Northville.

Ten persons — five Democrats and five Republicans — are seeking their party nomination for the state senate seat of Carol Pursell, who now is a United States congressman.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. and close tonight at 8 p.m.

Democrats running are Patrick McDonald, serving his second term as supervisor of Redford Township; Paul Kadish of Livonia, who serves as chairman of the Schoolcraft College board of trustees; Josephine Hunsinger, a former state representative out of Detroit who moved to Plymouth to become eligible for the "ABSOLUTELY NOT, it must be open to the public," declared city council Monday when informed that township Supervisor Wilson Grier had requested that the council's joint meeting (last night) with the township board be closed to the public. "I for one would not attend the meeting if it were closed," asserted Mayor Pro tem Paul Vernon, acting in the place of vacationing Mayor A. M. Allen. Other councilmen voiced similar comments.

HIGH SCHOOL parent-teacher conferences will begin Tuesday, March 1. Classes will be held on that day from the first through the third hour, with parent-teacher conferences from noon until 3 p.m. Conferences also are slated from noon to 3 p.m. and from 6 to 9 p.m. on the following day, March 2. No classes will be held on March 2.

ONE OF FIVE candidates will be selected Monday night to fill the vacancy created by Dr. Robert Mandell who is resigning from the Northville school board because he is moving out of the district. Each of the five — Stephanie Ruiters, David Totten, Julia Meeks, James Lewis and Douglas Whitaker — will have an opportunity to be interviewed by the board tonight (Wednesday) beginning at 7 p.m.

Directors reprimanded over increase

'Landmark' decision won by King's Mill residents

"Fighting city hall" does not necessarily mean an exercise in futility.

Not at all, insists Ruth Cannon of Northville Township, who is involved in two separate, unrelated legal cases that could have far-reaching implications.

The cases involve a recently concluded lawsuit against the King's Mill cooperative board of directors and another lawsuit launched Friday against state mental institution officials.

"Too many people say they can't fight city hall. Well, I don't believe that," Mrs. Cannon commented Saturday, a day after the latest lawsuit was filed in federal court.

"It's just a matter of having enough confidence in fighting for causes you believe in.

"Sure, it's much easier to follow the path of the silent majority. I'm just too vocal to take the easy way out; if something is wrong, it requires someone willing to get involved to correct it."

But Mrs. Cannon does not view herself as an activist or a rebel.

Rather she sees herself as "just an active citizen."

Divorced, mother of one child, Mrs. Cannon and other residents of King's Mill, located in Northville Township between Northville Road and Edward Hines Drive, were angered in 1971 when the directors of the cooperative in her housing development raised their monthly payments by $26.

But instead of just getting angry, they set out to do something about it.

They took the directors to court, and after more than four years of legal argument, Circuit Court Judge John M. Wise handed down his decision in favor of Mrs. Cannon and the estimated 170 other original King's Mill residents.

Not only did Judge Wise throw out the $26 increases, he also fined the directors $12,000 in damages, ordered them to pay attorneys' fees, and severely reprimanded them and cooperatives in general.

If his ruling stands unchallenged it means, residents who have been paying their increases over the years must be reimbursed. And that means, in effect, other cooperative owners in King's Mill must pay for the board of director's decision in raising the payments four years ago.

Directors are (or were) residents of the development. They and other residents are responsible for their actions.

Attorney for the defendants, Lawrence A. Thompson of Livonia, refused to comment on the case when contacted by this newspaper last week. He declined even to say if his clients intended to appeal Judge Wise's decision. The current president of the board of directors, Nathan Weiner, was unavailable for comment as was the former president, John Kuenzel.

"The real upsetting part of this case," said Mrs. Cannon, "is that the board of directors have not kept King's Mill residents informed about the court case. People have moved in here, totally unaware that the court case was under way and they now, as I understand it, must help pay for the directors' mistake made before they moved in.

"Even those who have lived here all along have been uninformed. I'll bet if you took a survey most people still don't know what their board has gotten them into. Do they know, for example, that if this case is appealed and they lose they'll end up paying for that, too?"

"Your newspaper has written about executive meetings in government. Well, they can't compare with the secrecy that goes on here."

Mrs. Cannon and the others who shared in the court fight against the increases were those residents who first moved into King's Mill — long before all 455 units were completed.

Their monthly costs, according to Mrs. Cannon, were to remain the same except for normal cost of living increases. As other units were built and purchased, however, buyers were charged higher rates than original buyers because of higher construction costs.

Eventually, the newer owners paying higher costs outnumbered the older ones. Their majority led to a majority make-up on the board of directors.

Then in 1971 the board ordered an "equalization" formula in which payments of older residents would be increased to the level of newer residents. All but one member of the board voted for the increases. The dissenting member, who was not fined by Judge Wise, has since died. He was Herb Pyle.

Other members of the board were John Kuenzel, president, who has since moved to Novi, Richard Brown, Carolyn Carty, Rick Harbour, Mike Hogan, and Phil Krahn. Only Brown remains a member of the board today.

Mental health suit starts

Because nobody in authority listened, a handful of mental health officials — including the state director — were served with subpoenas Saturday.

They are targets of a class action lawsuit filed in federal court on behalf of a 48-year-old mental patient in Ypsilanti State Hospital.

The patient is Faith Hildenbrand, sister of Northville's Ruth Cannon who triggered the suit by enlisting the aid of University of Detroit law students and their professor.

Filed in U.S. District Court, the case has been assigned to Judge Robert E. DeMascio.

The lawsuit seeks to force state mental health officials to stop discharging mental patients without court order.

It was what Mrs. Cannon terms as "the unlawful eviction and total disregard for the welfare" of her sister by Ypsilanti State Hospital last year that so infuriated the Northville woman that she vowed to seek recourse in the courts. Legal costs are expensive, however, so Mrs. Cannon took the matter to the U-D law school. And there she found young men and women who shared her concern.

They spent hundreds of hours investigating and documenting the case before finally filing the lawsuit.

"I can't say enough for these young people; they gave up their nights and weekends, even their Christmas holiday, to take up the cause of a mental patient they didn't even know.

They did it because they believe, as I do, that the law must be upheld for everyone.

Miss Hildenbrand became mentally ill at the age of 23. At first her family failed to recognize her illness.

"When it first happens you can't really tell. She's just being funny, we thought. I remember laughing at some of the wild stories she would tell. Later, it became no laughing matter," says Mrs. Cannon, a hearing aid salesperson who lives with her daughter in King's Mill subdivision.

Miss Hildenbrand's family obtained the best private care they could find. Her health failed to improve, however, and finally, when the family's financial

Regenesis study

Only list destroyed, says Spear

The only list that labels 30 Northville students as chronic lawbreakers or juvenile delinquents has been destroyed, according to Superintendent Raymond Spear.

He said the list was prepared by teacher Kathleen Densmore and given to then assistant superintendent Florence Panattoni for use in applying for state funds.

Spear, speaking at a school board study session Monday night, said that Miss Panattoni told him she destroyed the list at the end of last school year when she retired.

"There is no list to my knowledge," said Spear.

Such a list is a primary concern to the parents of students who took an alternative education class called "Regenesis" because they were disinterested in the traditional classroom. Last fall, the parents discovered that the class was partially funded in 1975-76 by Section 48 of the State School Aid Act which is designed for juvenile delinquents.

The school's application for those funds said, in part, that 14 of 30 students in Regenesis had "repeated contacts with police" and the other 16 were "potential drop-outs" or "high-risk juveniles."

Parents said both the funding and the application have unfairly jeopardized the reputations of their children, who volunteered for the class and were not selected because of criminal backgrounds.

The school board has begun an investigation into the matter which has grown into a full-scale probe to discover — among other things — if Densmore was pressured by administrators to alter the class to fit Section 48 requirements.

Following Monday's meeting, Densmore told The Record that she had never prepared a list that specifically listed her students as either having repeated police contacts or being juvenile delinquents.

Miss Panattoni is on vacation and unavailable for comment.

The school board will begin hearing testimony about Regenesis on Wednesday night when parents have been invited to speak. There will be another session Saturday morning although the topic has not been determined.

Even if no list exists, the school board is also investigating the chance that students may be indirectly labeled on their school record.

If "Regenesis" is on a students record and if school records show it was funded by Section 48, the inference could be made in the future that the student has had trouble with the law, the reasoning goes.

Some parents objected Monday to students' records becoming part of the probe, but board members said it was necessary although confidentiality would be assured.

"I personally don't even want to know the students' names," said trustee Martin Rinehart.

Vice President Roger Nieuwkoop agreed, saying the board must discover how the district justified using the information on the application.

"There should be some record to support that type of conclusion," he said.

Golf day is planned by Jaycees

A golf program will highlight a membership meeting of the Northville Jaycees next week Wednesday.

Purpose of the meeting is to attract new members for the local Jaycee chapter — one of the most active, community service organizations in Northville.

The program will focus on video-tape golfing tips featuring John Koch, golf pro and indoor driving range expert. It will get underway at 8 p.m. in Brooklane Golf Course clubhouse.

Brooklane is located at the southeast corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads.

All Northville area men between the ages of 18 and 36 are invited to attend the meeting, which will include an introduction to Jaycees and an explanation of what the organization does in the community.

Ben Northrop, owner-manager of Brooklane, is in charge of the program.

Al Qualman, membership chairman for the Northville Jaycees, notes that the local membership "comes from all walks of life...we have doctors, lawyers, farmers, accountants and auto designers."

Among the projects sponsored by the chapter are the July Fourth annual parade, chicken barbecue, fireworks display, Junior Miss competition, Toys for Tots, and until recently the restoration of the fish hatchery building destroyed by fire.

"Service to humanity best describes the goal of the Northville Jaycees," says Qualman. "And we'd like as many young men from 18 to 36 years old as possible to join us and work for the betterment of the community."

Persons who may wish to learn more about the Jaycees may call either Qualman (349-8437) or Northrop (349-5706).

Limelight is on future scientists

There's big doings going on next week at Northville's two junior high schools.

Both Cooke and Meads Mill will be hosting the annual science fair which will be open for public viewing from noon until 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 3.

In addition to projects from their own schools, Cooke will also show the exhibits from Amerman and Moraine elementaries and Meads Mill will host Silver Springs and Winchester elementaries.

Few, if any, high school students have entries.

But there is much interest at the junior high level where Cooke alone will have 240 displays.

"We're trying to get students to investigate something that is interesting to them," said Marilyn Collins, a Cooke science teacher.

"We want them to prove an idea by making up their own experiment."

Projects may fall into one of several categories ranging from physical science to engineering to math.

Engineering is generally the most popular division, according to Mrs. Collins, with physics in second.

Other exhibits will flourish including those concerning plants, telegraphs, solar heating, computers, crystal radios and burglar alarms.

Awards — depending on the number of entries in each category — are given out. Often, originality plays a big part in determining the winner.

A couple of years ago, the winner was an experiment designed to show which toothpaste was the most abrasive.

"The students are not there for the judging so they have to rely on how well the project explains itself," said Mrs. Collins.

The library and slides from past shows help students decide on their projects, which must be outlined a month before the fair.

"For the most part, kids are pretty good about doing the projects themselves," said Mrs. Collins.

FAIR DISPLAY—Cooke students Sean Goscinski, Laurie McLeod, Greg Ayers and Elizabeth McMillian stand behind several of the nearly completed exhibits which will be on display at Cooke and Meads Mill junior high schools next week.

Busing survey set for area

Volunteers will be knocking on doors beginning March 1 to ask residents of Novi, Wixom, Commerce Township, Wolverine Lake and Walled Lake questions regarding transportation in the lakes area.

Intent of the survey, which will cover 1,500 households, is to determine how many persons would make use of a small bus system such as the Dial-A-Ride proposal.

Interviews will be conducted the entire month of March.

Arts scholarships approved

A yearly award of $200 to the outstanding student in the area of Fine Arts was approved by the Novi School Board last week after the gift was offered by John and Carol Mengel, owners of the Mengel Art Foundry and residents of Novi.

The gift is to be known as the Mengel Art Foundry Fine Arts Scholarship Award. Stipulations of the award called for it to be used toward tuition of the selected student who must plan to attend the Center of Creative Studies in Detroit, the Cranbrook Academy of Arts in Bloomfield Hills or a comparable institution.

The scholarship is to be awarded on the basis of outstanding ability and talent and not necessarily on the basis of economic need.

If there is no student who meets the qualifications, the monies are to be carried over to the following school year to be awarded to the winner of that year's award.

Scholarship awarded

Mary Lane, 17, a senior at Novi High School has been named to receive a "Presidential Scholarship" at Eastern Michigan University.

Miss Lane, formerly of Novi but now living in Brighton, was one of 50 Presidential Scholars and was selected "after careful review of the academic records and recommendations of the outstanding high school seniors considered", according to a letter from the president of EMU, James Brickley.

The scholarship will provide approximately $900 per term and is renewable. Miss Lane, according to the guidance office at Novi High School is in the top three of her class and will be majoring in home economics or liberal arts.

Burch home leaves its old site on Charms Road

Old home gets new life as 'landmark' is moved

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Thought by many to be decrepit and ugly, thought by others to be a treasure, the old, weatherbeaten house which has stood somewhat forlornly on Charms Road, has been saved from the wrecker's bulldozer.

The old Burch home faced a sentence of sure destruction had it not been for the dream of Pam and Dean Nicolay. The young couple from Waterford see in the house a place of charm and dignity, hospitality and grace.

The story of the Burch home dates back to the pre-Civil war days. It has stood the test of time and some thought, its usefulness. Its last inhabitant, C. F. Richter, moved out in 1974.

Since then the house has stood vacant, boarded up, subject to attacks by vandals and stoically awaiting its fate. One barn at the residence caught fire several years ago and burned to the ground. Its outdoor privy collapsed.

The property on Charms Road including the house was purchased in 1967 by the Walled Lake School District as a future school site. When the property was acquired, Richter was allowed to stay on as long as he wanted.

When Richter moved out, the City of Wixom was offered the home for $1 provided they move the home from the site and restored what a school district spokesman described as a landmark.

Wixom turned the offer down.... some council people questioned whether the house would withstand the move. But more importantly, the city, at that time, had no place to put the house or the funds needed to move it.

The house became the subject of television news coverage. It was, according to the television stories, a classic example of a type of Greek Revival architecture and was reported to be one of only a few of that type remaining in Michigan.

The Commerce Historical Society stepped in and offered $1 for the house and announced plans to move it to a new site. The idea was dashed when the Society could not raise the money to move the house.

In one last effort to save the house, the District called for sealed bids from any interested party. Nicolay, a counselor at Walled Lake Central High School, submitted the high bid and purchased the house for $700.

A five-acre tract of land on West Maple Road between Wixom and Beck was purchased and the Nicolays began planning. They envisioned restoring the complete exterior of the house to its original look, even to roofing with wooden shake shingles.

Many windows have been broken through the years but Nicolay says any solid panes remaining in other frames will be used in the front of the house. It will be painted white with black wood shutters and for contrast, will have a bright red door.

According to Nicolay, the house is very structurally sound. "The 8x8's and logs that were pegged together have held up well. Termites have done some damage through the years but that damage can be repaired and the exterminator can do the rest," he said.

The eight-room house is scheduled for a total interior face lifting with the walls in each room stripped to the studs. That will be followed by complete wiring, plumbing and insulating. "I've had some personal experience in building so I'm not going into this blind," said Nicolay who intends to do most of the work.

Although the woodwork is considered a "disappointment", it too will be brought back to its original shape. Most of the house will be carpeted with the exception of the master bedroom. The floor boards in that room measure up to 16" wide and are thought by Nicolay to be in great shape.

Final touches to the interior will find period decorating highlighted by primitive antiques the couple has collected.

By working through the summer, the Nicolays hope to take up residency by September 1 "but absolutely no later than December 1." A garage and landscaping will complete the picture of an old house given a breath of fresh life. Total cost is estimated to be $70,000.

"Call it determination... call it even stupidity but we're doing this as a labor of love... not of toil," said Nicolay when the house was finally lowered on the new basement walls Wednesday.

And with real joy, Nicolay said, "I can't wait to get started."

Forget tipping—there's no cabs

If you're stranded in Novi and need a cab, you might as well get ready to suck out your thumb.

Action by Novi City Council last week terminated the license of the Star Cab Company to do business in the city.

Though Novi's ordinance allows more than one cab company to do business in the city at the discretion of the council, Star Cab Company has been the only company which has applied and been granted license to do business in the city in several years. It was purchased in 1975 by Charles Henry of Detroit.

The Star Cab Company was refused an extension of its license basically because of a list of complaints on its performance along with violations of the ordinance.

An investigation by the Novi Police Department said that Judy Moore of 24717 Applecrest in Novi had complained about service of the company. One time no cab was available because a gas tank fell off. Another time she was picked up by a van full of batteries and car parts when she requested a cab. There were also complaints of no cabs being available or not showing up.

In addition, the Novi Police Department reported that none of the three Star Cab vehicles insured to do business in the city were able to pass inspection.

Another problem occurred when one of the drivers who had a temporary taxicab driver permit to operate in the city until December 8 of 1976 continued to operate past that date and failed to comply with several requests from the police department to come in to discuss the permit. This was reportedly done with the knowledge of the owner.

"Therefore, it is the opinion of this investigator, as a result of the above mentioned facts and the many hours spent dealing with this company, that the City of Novi and/or its police department do not have the time to assist Mr. Henry with his daily operation," summed up Detective Lieutenant Richard Faulkner in his report on the matter.

A resolution to allow the owner, Charles Henry of Detroit to Tuesday of this week to bring his vehicles up to code failed 4-2 with councilmen Robert Schmid and Philip Goodman in favor. Romaine Roethel was absent.

A motion to deny the license completely was approved 4-2 with the same council split.

Judge to rule today

Taft decision near

A ruling is expected today (Wednesday) from Circuit Court Judge William Beer in the Taft Road paving assessment lawsuit.

Based upon the answer to an advisory question given by Judge Beer to a five member jury, Novi City Attorney David Fried said he expects the ruling will be in favor of the homeowners and against the city.

Such a ruling could potentially cost the city $110,000 in special assessments. That figures out to the $10 a front foot required of homeowners under the road program as approved by voters. Taft Road between 10 and 11 Mile and 11 Mile and Grand River are both included in the road program.

The question asked of the jury concerned whether the Taft Road homeowners received benefits above and beyond those benefits received by the public at large. The jury ruled that the Taft Road homeowners did not receive special benefits.

"I would expect the judge (based upon the jury decision) will rule there is no special benefit," said Fried referring to a charter requirement which says there must be special benefit for homeowners to be specially assessed.

The question was submitted by the judge to the advisory jury at the request of Edward Draugelis, representing the 30 families involved.

Fried said he felt the correct question should have been whether or not the council had a reasonable basis for determining if there was any special benefit to the property owners.

"If the court determined the council had a reasonable basis, if the court agreed or not with the council, it must uphold the council," said Fried. If the court had determined there was not a reasonable basis on which to special assess, Fried said it could then have ruled against the assessment.

Fried also held that there was special benefit to the homeowners and cited the areas which were presented in court:

- less dirt, mud or noise.
- general aesthetic uplift of the area by eliminating unsightly vegetation along the ditches because a general sloping of the ditches allowed homeowners to cut the grass in ditches.
- safer ingress and egress by eliminating dangerous grades in the driveway and in the road.
- shoulders allowed children a safe place to walk which was special benefit because only students within 1 1/4 miles of a school have to walk.
- new smooth road on which to travel to shopping and work which they use more than the general public.

• better access for fire and police vehicles, especially during heavy snowstorms.

"There was a reasonable basis for concluding that it would be a benefit. It is a danger to allow a court to determine in the first instance if benefit will apply since that is the job of the council," said Fried. "I think it would be a poor state of law for a jury to determine to levy or not levy tax on special assessment because they don't have the responsibility of legislating for a municipality. They'd be legislating without taking in concerns of the other residents."

"Judge Beer has totally changed the law if it is upheld by the appellate courts," said Fried.

Fried explained that the city definitely will appeal the ruling if it is unfavorable and he expects more success at the appeals court level. Fried said that because of the movement of the road program, he would request an early hearing and decision by the appellate court.

Draugelis would not speculate on the outcome of the suit although he did say that the suit appeared to be going favorably in light of the advisory jury ruling.

While Fried said that a ruling against the city would have a detrimental effect on the total city road program, Draugelis opposed that view.

Ten Mile commercial elimination directed

Novi's planning board has been directed to begin public hearings to eliminate commercially zoned property west of Glenda on 10 Mile.

The rezoning proposal would do away with 28 acres of B-1 and B-3 where Taft, Beck and Wixom meet 10 Mile Road. This involves nine parcels including all four corners of Beck Road.

The council had become concerned several months ago about the many corner parcels of property that were zoned commercial.

Because the master plan had indicated that some convenience shopping centers would be required in the area, the planning board when approached by council on the problem suggested that council could:

• remove all commercial zoning within the subject area until an obvious residential demand exists for a convenience commercial center.

• remove all commercial zoning within the subject area which is contrary to the city's master plan.

• permit the existing non residential zoning districts within the study area to remain; upgrade the general commercial district to a local commercial district to more closely relate to the overall intent of the master plan for the area and to permit future convenience commercial districts, only when an obvious need exists and only at the locations proposed in the master plan.

Train complaint method changes

The universal groan in Wixom could easily be, "oh no, another train!"

"Another blankety-blank train" could mean hours, or so it would seem, of waiting while the train goes back and forth, back and forth, switching and reswitching, always managing to block the crossing.

While motors idle and tempers flare, the red crossing lights blink and blink. The time on the watch ticks way beyond the legal five minute period for blocking a railroad crossing.

Up until recently the procedure to lodge a complaint against the railroad for exceeding the five minute legal limit was almost as bad as waiting for the train itself.

A motorist or pedestrian needs paper and pencil, or the facility to remember numbers, to jot down both the engine and caboose number of the train.

Also needed is the date of the occurrence and the "from-to" times that the train blocked the roadway.

With all those numbers, a complaint is then lodged with the Wixom Police Department against the railroad.

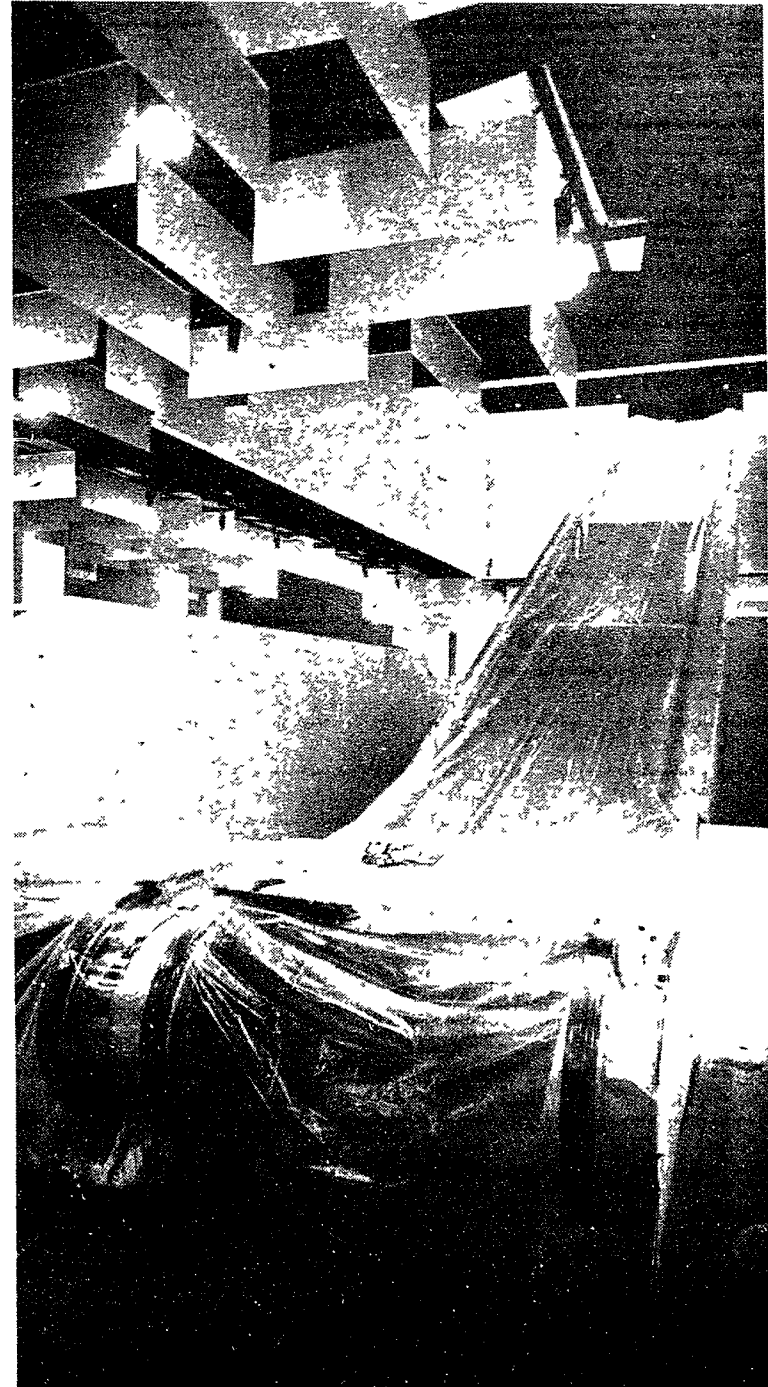

Making that complaint required additional time with the city's prosecuting attorney Thomas Connelly at the law offices of Bulgarelli, Allen and Connelly in Walled Lake.

The signed complaint would then go to court, requiring possibly a day off from work for the complainant to appear in court — that is, if the case wasn't postponed.

The situation of the trains making life appear to be unbearable at times prompted the Wixom City Council to favor increasing the fine levied upon the railroad company and its balking behemoths from $100 per incident to $500.

During recent discussion on the problem, Police Chief Philip Leonard

Moving ahead

A plastic sheet covers the escalator shaft in the Hudson's store being readied at the Twelve Oaks Mall. Work at the Hudson's store is reportedly on schedule as the carpeting has already been laid and the ceiling appears to be in a state of readiness. The Twelve Oaks Mall is scheduled to open near the end of July or the beginning of August although no exact date has been set. Other major stores will include Sears, Penney's and Lord and Taylor.

North Central study

Teachers rate school

"Teachers are involved in the decision-making process," began Northville High School Principal Michael Tarpinian.

"Minimally," he added, thereby squelching the protests that were about to be voiced by many of the teachers gathered at the cafeteria last Thursday.

They were there to read several reports they had compiled on the high school which will be submitted to a North Central Accreditation team before it visits Northville next month.

The reports are self-evaluations of the strengths, weaknesses, needs and future plans of both academic departments (such as English of science) and related areas ranging from food services to counseling to building maintenance and appearance.

These reports and a three-day visit by the evaluation team — which begins

March 8 and is headed by Novi High School Principal Helen Ditzhazy — are the main ingredients of the final North Central report and recommendations which will be completed later this school year.

The evaluations are done every seven years and there are mixed reactions to their value.

Some teachers said they were listing the same deficiencies that have gone unattended since they were identified at the last evaluation.

Tarpinian conceded that in many instances, "we do a lot of paperwork and then it is filed for seven years."

He also noted that some districts have ignored North Central citations because of money problems.

Nevertheless, he added, the "ideas and values are good if they are implemented and some of these things don't take money."

The need to lessen the teaching load and to expand and to acquire necessary facilities was an off-spoke complaint.

So was the charge that teacher input was neither sought nor heeded in many decisions. A request for increased "sensitivity" by the central administration for the high school's problems was expressed.

Other highlights of various reports were:

—Counselors are handicapped not only by a huge caseload, but also by ancillary responsibilities.

—There are only two psychologists for the entire district including the special ed (ISEP) program and the district's lone social worker is available just one day a week.

—There are no chairpersons for the various departments. Instead, Tarpinian and Vice Principal Barbara Campbell share the responsibility.

—Traditional school year teachers resent the fact that their class size averages 30 students while extended school year classes have enrollments under 20.

—Girls have fewer athletic options than boys.

—On the plus side, 80 percent of the teachers have a master's degree and, said Tarpinian, the staff's effort is good despite the many problems.

New dump trucks

Tim Loynes (left) and Michael Deaton prepare to use the two shiny new dump trucks which were delivered to the city last week. The trucks cost $21,845 each and included in that price were an underbody scraper, salt spreader on back and a snow plow on the front. Each truck will hold eight cubic yards of material and, according to DPW Superintendent Edward Smiadak "will be utilized for normal DPW functions". The trucks are made by Ford and equipped by Astro Equipment Company in Detroit.

Northville students win

Grier chides county

Wayne County Sheriff's Department has been declining to jail township prisoners — a service, according to Northville Township Supervisor Wilson Grier, that should be provided for the $649,727.35 in county taxes paid by the township.

Grier, speaking to the Northville Republican Club last week, objected to the sheriff's department's policy, noting that the township is being forced to pay for jail space in Westland.

This is a service the county should be providing, he declared.

Concerning the proposal to establish a prison on the Wayne County Child Development Center property, Grier said it is important that people voice their objections.

He noted that the planned prison would be a medium security facility where prisoners within two to eight years of being paroled would be housed.

Should such prisoners escape and commit a crime, the local government wherever the crime occurs would be required to pay the expense of jailing such persons.

The supervisor also outlined the need for a new water system in the township that would provide 16-inch main lines and an eight-inch line at the curb which would provide adequate water pressure for fire protection.

In uniform

Navy Fire Control Technician Third Class David H. Ritchie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Densmore of 9316 Six Mile, and whose wife Cheryl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hillis of 654 Thayer, all of Northville, was graduated from Fire Control Technician School.

During the 23-week course at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois, he received instruction on the electronic weapons systems installed aboard current U.S. warships. He studied the operating principles and procedures of radar, digital computers and related shipboard equipment used to control the firing of guns, missiles and torpedoes.

A 1974 graduate of Northville High School, he joined the Navy in March 1976.

Board need not reveal line budget, says state

A school board can use its own discretion about releasing a detailed line item budget, Superintendent Raymond Spear told the Northville school board Monday.

The 1976-77 budget filed with the state and displayed at public hearings is in "full compliance with the laws of the State of Michigan," he said.

Spear based his comments on a phone conversation with Robert McKerr, the state education department's associate superintendent for business and finance.

Spear made the report after trustee Marjorie Sliger, in a meeting last week, said the school board was breaking the law by not releasing the line item budget.

The board has declined to release a detailed budget until negotiations are completed with all of the district's bargaining units.

Mrs. Sliger, who said that Spear's report left her with "egg on my face", said she felt the school board was getting "conflicting information" from the state department of education.

"I feel very strongly about getting the budget out," she added.

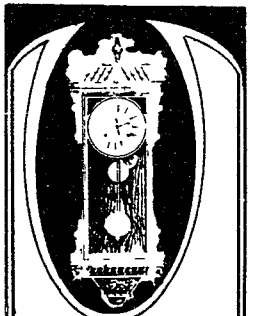

When that remark was met with applause from the audience, Spear said that the board is not "hiding anything" by not releasing the budget.

"School officials have said the district could risk unfair bargaining charges if it released a line item budget before all contracts were settled.

Mrs. Wood died unexpectedly February 16 at Botsford General Hospital.

The Reverend William H. Hass of the Livonia Christian Church where Mrs. Wood was a member officiated. Cremation was at Michigan Memorial Park in Flat Rock.

Mrs. Wood was born January 22, 1927, in River Rouge, Michigan, to Charles A. and Ida F. (Green) Smith. Both Mrs.

Mrs. Wood married Lawrence H. Wood August 24, 1946.

In addition to her husband and parents she leaves four children, Larry Jr. of Portland, Oregon, Robert of Ypsilanti, Charles and Linda of Novi; two sisters, Mrs. Neora Callard and Mrs. Nadine Walker, both of Yakima, Washington; a brother, Charles A. of Detroit.

A housewife, Mrs. Wood had been an area resident since 1953. She was a member of the Northville Tumbleweeds.

Arrangements were by Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, of Northville.

The family expresses its appreciation for the generous tributes given in memory of Jeanne L. Wood to the Livonia Christian Church.

Monday's deadline in bookmark contest

Students in grades one through 12 are invited to submit designs for a bookmark in a contest now going on at the Northville Public Library.

Using any topic relating to the library, its services and uses, students are urged to submit as many entries as they wish. All entries must measure 2½ by 8½ inches and must be drawn in black pen in a white background.

One winner will be chosen from each of four categories including grades 1-3, 4-5, 6-8, and 9-12. The four winners will then see their designs in print during National Library Week in April when the bookmarks will be distributed at the library.

Detailed information is available at the library in the Northville Square shopping mall. Deadline for entries is Monday, February 28.

UP trail's exhilarating

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Snowmobiling, skiing and golf along with a mention or two about St. Patrick's Day celebrations coming up are in the news this week.

The Dan Fair's and the Hillard Posey's, with kids in tow, headed northward to the Upper Peninsula for a week of snowmobiling fun.

The original plans were to do the 50 mile trek of trail laid out by the DNR from Calumet to Copper Harbor. The group never quite made it to the tip of Michigan and Lake Superior because they were just having too much fun zipping around in what Rochelle Fair called "the lost continent," in and around Lake Linden.

The trails are laid over old mining tracks lacing the countryside. Old railroad trestles, long crumpled with time send the drivers up and down on natural roller-coaster rides.

The couples agreed it was a super great week. The weather was good and the "natives" were described by Rochelle as simply fantastic people.

A busload of Wixomites headed to Sugarloaf Mountain and a weekend of skiing, returning home late Sunday night. Even if it poured down rain, the fun-loving group would have had a terrific time.

As it was, mother nature was kind, giving the area a light dusting of snow and even a little sunshine. What more can you ask.

Sugarloaf was chosen as the annual outing for those belonging to the Teeple Hill Ski Club and their guests. A good many Woxomites, especially those along Hopkins Drive belong to the close-at-hand ski area.

Among those loaded down with gear were Rose and John Victory, Joan and Howard Hollister, Jeannie and Dennis Andrews, and Bonnie and Dennis Haight.

With a group like that, it is unlikely there was much sleep-time...but lots of skiing and even more important, apres-ski time.

A third Wixom group headed to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina for a week-long outing on the golf links. The "fearsome 16" sound it necessary at the beginning part of the week to wait for the frost to leave the fairways but by the end of the week, the temperatures were in the 70's.

Wouldn't you know... For the men, the trip was their annual mid-winter trek towards the sun to chase golf balls. The 12 "regulars" have done the same thing for the past dozen years always followed by a house party in May.

Top flight champ and overall winner of the "regulars" this year was Ray Mustonen. He joined the group from a winter vacation in Florida. Nobody is saying who the duffer is.

Looking on to March, two Wixom groups are planning bang-up celebrations honoring St. Pat. Coming up first on the calendar is the annual "green suds" wing-ding put on by the v.f.w.

There'll be food and dancing an lots of Irish singing as the post will be "coming up green" on Saturday, March 12.

With the ace Irishman' of all Art Cronin pushing the ticket sales, the post will surely be packed with Irishmen of all nationalities. Art says the tickets are available now at $6 per leprechaun and all are welcome.

And the Wixom Senior Citizens are hard at work for their own special celebration set right on St. Patty's Day. Theirs is a luncheon-card party featuring a scrumptious repast provided by "Luncheon is Served."

The U.A.W. Hall on Wixom Road will be decked out in emerald green roses and sprite little leprechan's for the 12:30 p.m. offering on March 17. Tickets are available from any Senior for $1.50 each.

Do not forget people... unfortunate but true, your taxes are due by this Monday. City Hall is open only until 5 p.m. After that, there's a penalty tacked on.

Do not forget people... unfortunate but true, your taxes are due by this Monday. City Hall is open only until 5 p.m. After that, there's a penalty tacked on.

Trailers to be costly in Wixom renovation

Wixom officials learned Tuesday night that what appeared to be an easy solution to the relocation of city employees during construction of the new municipal complex just wasn't going to be that easy.

Two weeks ago the council was told trailers would be available from Barton Malow, the project's construction managers. The trailers would be used to house the city offices and equipment to expedite work at the existing building.

What appeared to be the only problem up for discussion at that time was where to locate the trailers. The DPW space on Charms Road was thought by council to be the logical place.

The complexion of the picture has now changed. Mayor's assistant Bernard VanOsedale said he was under the impression the trailers would be made available to the city.

"Well, they are available but at a price of $300 per month per unit. At the time I didn't realize there was a cost attached to the trailers," he said.

VanOsedale said it is now apparent the Community Building and both fire stations will be pressed into service to house the various departments currently at city hall.

Seek zoning change

The planning board had gone on record favoring the third alternative. The council, however, indicated a fear that the commercial zoning could dictate future commercial development and approved instead the first alternate.

Planner Charles Cairns of Vilcan Leman noted that of nine corners involved, only one on the northeast corner of Beck and 10 Mile conforms with the master plan.

Planning Board chairman Robert Bretz backed up the recommendation of the planning board by stating that to prevent strip zoning on 10 Mile, there must be commercial on the corners.

"We don't feel we can have residential on the corners so we feel we might as well leave it as change it to something it might not be able to be used as. We should leave it with the idea it may be changed someday.

Council member Patricia Karevich responded that particularly on the southwest corner of 10 Mile and Taft Roads, if commercial is developed there in close proximity to the high school, the traffic problems could be dangerous for students. She suggested the various parcels be rezoned back to residential and then be rezoned at a later date based upon surrounding zonings.

Cairns noted that it was felt that if the commercial zoning was taken away, "you could have a hard time" — in court.

Council member Martha Hoyer questioned if the council was going to pick on one particular zoning problem in one particular area of the city and ignore problems elsewhere.

"Let's not take a first step and then drop it," she said. Cairns indicated that the planning board will continue to investigate the problem and that a planned marketing study in the future would help in terms of zoning divisions.

Council approved unanimously directing the planning board to begin hearings. Council member Romaine Roethel was absent.

said there is an improved method for a complaining motorist to complain which caused council to adopt a "wait and see" attitude on the upping of the fine.

Judges at the 52nd District Court in Walled Lake suggested the C & O Railroad appears to pay the $100 fine per incident without protest when the city attorney provides unsigned complaints and warrants to the court. The court has agreed to collect the warrants and forward the railroad a listing of the mentioned complaints.

Mental health

resources were completely drained, she was committed. She has been in and out of mental institutions now for 25 years.

In recent years, the Michigan mental health philosophy of returning patients to society sprang up. Patients were admitted and released as quickly as possible.

In Mrs. Cannon's opinion, this philosophy was triggered more by the state's effort to cut costs than to assist patients. Once outside the hospital, part of the patient cost is assumed by federal monies — "and that's what they're interested in, not the well-being of the patients."

One day last summer, Mrs. Cannon learned that her sister was to be quickly transferred to a Detroit foster care home. "No one notified me, as my sister's guardian, nor had any hearing been held to determine that she was well enough to be transferred."

"My sister didn't want to be moved, and I didn't want her moved — certainly not to a home on Detroit's east side. If you've ever seen those homes you'd know how pitifully inadequate they are. It's like a foster care ghetto."

Mrs. Cannon said she was frantic with worry, and pleaded with Ypsilanti personnel to reconsider. She was rebuffed at every turn. "I got the feeling the more I probed that mental hospitals were moving patients like sticks of furniture with absolutely no concern about the patients' health."

"My sister was not only mentally ill but also physically ill. But no one listened."

"I called everyone, even the state director's office. Even enlisted the aid of Senator (Carl) Pursell and Representative (R. Robert) Geake. They looked into it, and the transfer was temporarily delayed."

Eventually, however, Miss

Hildenbrand was involuntarily transferred to the Detroit home "without proper hearing, in direct violation of her constitutional rights," charges Mrs. Cannon. She had been admitted by court order and only by a court order could she be released — "and I don't care what the state's mental health code may say to the contrary."

It was while at the foster care home that Miss Hildenbrand was assaulted by another patient during a robbery attempt. She was hospitalized with a skull fracture and then returned to the home.

According to Mrs. Cannon, the assault was made by a patient, who was influenced by friends visiting from the outside, who intended to rob her. Detroit police, plagued by "far worse grime in the outside world, could care less. They called it a patient-against-patient case and dropped it," said Mrs. Cannon.

"My sister was then and still is very ill. It wasn't until she set fire to the drapes in her room that they finally returned her to Ypsilanti."

Mrs. Cannon hopes "this case can be settled quickly. If mental health officials recognize their responsibility, it can be settled without delay. The lives of mental patients everywhere are at stake, not just the life of Faith. These people need professional care, not care in foster homes that have sprung up as overnight businesses operated by laymen."

Meanwhile, the Northville woman grows increasingly worried about the welfare of her sister at Ypsilanti.

"I'm convinced they are making it so miserable for her there now that she'll demand to be let out. They'll do anything to force a patient out."

"Last week Faith called me to say she hated the place. Someone had hit her in the face with an ashtray, bloodying her nose."

With this new system all the motorist need do now is appear at the Wixom Police Department and make the initial complaint.

Still necessary, however, is the number of the engine or caboose, the date and times of the incident.

Connelly said if the C & O continues to cooperate in paying its fines without trial, the new approach to an old problem would no longer make it necessary for complainants to appear in court or at his office.

There remains a wrinkle, however. Should the railroad contest any complaint submitted, it would be necessary for the complainant to appear before Connelly and swear to the warrant as in any normal prosecution.

Since January, 15 complaints have been lodged against the railroad, five of which were made last week.

And, so far, the system seems to be working.

Council accepts resignation

The resignation of Dicron Tafrahan from the Novi Library Board was accepted by Novi City Council last week.

"I feel badly about Dic's resignation and some of his attitudes," said Mayor Gilber Henderson. "I respect the library board — they're hardworking dedicated and, I believe, ethical."

Henderson added that Tafrahan's hard work helped to make the new library a reality.

"He's donated a lot of hours without compensation to this community. A lot of that library is due to his perseverance."

Tafrahan in his letter of resignation, as reported previously in this newspaper, blamed the city council-library rift for his decision to resign.

An appointment to the library board to replace Tafrahan was to be made at a meeting set for last night. Council indicated that since it had so recently interviewed applicants to fill another vacant seat on the board that it would not be necessary to hold more interviews.

Schoolcraft

The Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees has changed its next regular meeting date from February 23 to March 2.

Reason for the change is the special 14th State Senate District primary election on February 23

Four of the 10 candidates in the primary have served on the Schoolcraft board — current Chairman Paul Kadish, former chairpersons R. Robert Geake and Jane Moehle, and former trustee Mary Dumas.

An election for Schoolcraft board seats will be held June 13 at the time of the regular K-12 school elections. Terms of Vice-Chairperson Rosina Raymond and trustees Leroy Bennett and Archibald Vallier are expiring. Only Mrs. Raymond is expected to seek re-election

Court decision on Taft Road is due today

"My own opinion is Taft Road is unique and is unlike any of the other roads in this paving program," said Draugelis. "Assessments are unique to the individual roads."

Draugelis said that if his clients are successful, he does expect an appeal from the city. He was uncertain, however, if his clients would appeal the case if the city was successful.

Ironically, while Draugelis maintained the school district and city at large benefitted more than the homeowners, the school district may end up not paying any portion of the paving if the homeowners win based upon the last action by the school board.

The school board May 6 of last year approved a resolution offering to pay the same as homeowners up to $10 a front foot for the paving of Taft Road.

The setting of the $10 a front foot figure had received criticism from city council members who maintained that the school board had never withdrawn a promised $22 a front foot made in early 1975. The school district has 2,640 front feet along Taft Road from 10 Mile to 11 Mile Roads.

Fried said that he planned to fill the city council in on the progress of the Taft Road lawsuit at last night's council meeting.

City Finance Director Fred Todd had said some time ago that if the city should lose, the $110,000 special assessment monies could come from the road fund or from the road bonding program as a whole.

He said that if the money was taken from the one mill road fund, it could jeopardize the city adding its usual 20 percent share to some requested paving job in the future. If the money is taken from the road bonding program, it would require something being eliminated at the end.

The paving of Taft Road which was completed late last year, cost $26 a front foot for a total bid cost of $359,000

This earlier board, then, is the target of Wise's decision, not the current board.

Older residents of the community protested the equalization, but their protests were ignored, said Mrs. Cannon, hence the decision to bring suit. About 70 residents agreed to pay $75 each for an attorney.

At one point, Mrs. Cannon and one or two others were served eviction notices because they refused to pay the increases. Most of the other 170 paid under protest or indifference. In her case, therefore, she will not be reimbursed because she steadfastly refused to pay. Many others will be reimbursed, however, even those who have long ago moved.

Attorney David R. Kratze of Southfield was hired by the 75 residents and the class action court battle was under way.

In his stinging decision handed down two weeks ago, Judge Wise noted that the six board members who voted for equalization all benefited financially. "It is abundantly clear," he said, "that none of the directors who voted for equalization paid any increase as a result of that decision and the one director who was affected voted against the proposal."

In Kuensel's case, for example, it meant in essence that other residents were paying a portion of his living expense, the judge said.

As for cooperatives in general, Judge Wise said he found it difficult to conceive "that the federal government will finance a 'commune' of 455 units with the developer-builder obtaining all of their funds and substantial profits and the individual 'purchasers' never receiving any evidence of title. This concept of cooperative housing seems incredible."

Cooperative residents do not have title to the units in which they live. Rather, they share an interest in the entire development which entitles them to occupy units within the development.

On the other hand, condominium residents, such as those in Highland Lakes, own the units in which they live.

King's Mill was a development of the Smokler Company, which according to Mrs. Cannon encouraged early purchasers to take advantage of initial low costs by buying before the development was completed.

Lawyer Kratze, who was confident from the outset of the case that his clients stood on sound legal ground, sees Judge Wise's decision as a "landmark" ruling that conceivably could affect similar cooperative developments throughout the United States.

Solar site choice expected in week

Federal officials may decide within a week which of six states will be the site of a $20 million solar energy research center, according to the man in charge of attracting the plum to Michigan and, perhaps, Northville Township.

"We have every reason to believe that the National Solar Energy Research Institute (SNERI) decision will be made by the Carter Administration before the end of the month," said John Mogk, president of the Michigan Energy and Resource Research Association (MERRA).

MERRA is a research, development and demonstration partnership of Michigan government, universities and industries.

The association has prepared a 34-page "white paper" as a final argument for locating the research center in Michigan.

Basically, MERRA states that southeast Michigan has the experienced management, manpower, technology and research centers needed for the facility.

It also notes that Michigan has been hard hit by unemployment and has been traditionally slighted by federal research and development funds even though it is third nationally in patents produced.

Earlier this year, Mogk said that Michigan along with California, Massachusetts, Arizona, Minnesota, and New Mexico were the front-running states.

If Michigan is selected, one of the locations for the 400,000 square foot center would be on 500 acres off the northwest corner of Sheldon and Six Mile roads.

The other Michigan sites in the competition are in Romulus, Superior Township, Rouge Park in Detroit and near Willow Run Airport.

The completion of I-275 and the pending construction of the M-14 expressway would give the Northville location easy access to all major highways, airports, universities and other research centers in southeast Michigan.

SNERI's function will be to study and develop a solar energy system that can be used economically by industry and government.

It is expected to employ 2200 persons and create another 1500 spinoff jobs.

In its "white paper", MERRA says that "with its outstanding technical programs and experienced management team in the Bendix Corporation, Michigan's proposal is second to none."

It also said the Michigan's highly-skilled labor force and "abundant supply of research scientists and engineers" have combined to produce the third largest number of the nation's patents with only one percent of the federal research and development funds.

California and Massachusetts, by contrast, receive nearly half of the federal monies.

Although Mogk expects the decision to be made this month, there is no indication that an official announcement will be made before March.

Traffic safety steps ordered

for establishment of a "tow away zone" for 150-foot east and west on Center Street on Eight Mile.

Existing traffic control above the intersection be maintained, but check with the Wayne County Traffic & Safety section about the feasibility of having new poles set and the installation of "walk", "don't walk" signals on these poles.

Many of the recommendations made by the police department also were mentioned by members of the audience, most of whom were parents with children attending Amerman Elementary School.

Council took all of the citizens' requests for other safety precautions under advisement, noting that these are to be studied while the foregoing immediate steps are to be taken.

One of the citizens' requests included the erection of an overpass walkway.

In his written communication to council on this subject, Captain Westfall said that cost of such structures have increased significantly over the years. Under the state's new barrier free law for the handicapped, such overhead walkways may no longer have only steps leading up to them. They must now also have ramps with grades not exceeding eight percent, which can result in costs as much as the overhead walkway itself, he noted.

Current prices of these pedestrian bridges over a 60-foot roadway approximate $70,000.

Most of the citizens present seemed to favor banning no right turns on red at all times, as did Mayor protem Paul Vernon. However, other members of the council warned that total ban might force motorists to seek alternate routes through residential areas to avoid the Center-Eight Mile congestion.

Councilmen pointed out that they had lifted the no-turn ban last year when traffic waiting for the light to turn, especially late in the afternoon, was backed up south to and beyond Base Line. To avoid this congestion, motorists began driving through subdivision streets — Grace, Carpenter and Horton, triggering complaints of homeowners in this area who cited danger to their children.

The no-turn on red during school crossing hours was seen by the majority of the councilmen as the better solution. Special signs are to be erected that can be readily changed during school crossing hours. Two of the signs already have been made and were to be erected Tuesday.

Painted crosshatches recommended by the police department are to be located at the Eight Mile intersection, across Center Street at Hill Street, and across Ely Drive at Center.

Parents also pressed council to launch a ticketing drive to discourage motorists stopping their cars along the Center Street near Amerman to drop off and pick up their children. This practice, they said, makes an already congested area even worse.

It was noted by parents that this kind of stopping has increased since the school discontinued busing of children from Westridge Downs subdivision.

Concerning a question of a parent as to why the school does not make one Amerman drive an exit, the other an entrance only, Councilman Stanley Johnston, former school board member, pointed out that such a traffic routing would mean that cars would have to cut through Amerman's playground.

When a parent noted she had counted 230 east-bound vehicles and 170 west-bound vehicles during a half-hour period and then scolded council for lifting the no-right turn, Johnston replied, "Maybe it was a bad order... but at the time there was a lot of pressure to change it."

He noted that Councilman Vernon had favored the ban, and that now he (Johnston) agreed that it is needed — at least during school crossing hours.

During the discussion, councilmen emphasized that safety precautions on Eight Mile Road are subject to decision of the county road commission which has jurisdiction of the roadway. Center Street, on the other hand, is controlled by the city. This means, therefore, that lower speed limits cannot be ordered by the city on Eight Mile Road — even though council long ago favored the reduction.

"We've been turned down everytime." in requesting the reduction, said Councilman Paul Polino, who favors a controlled speed zone along the entire stretch of Eight Mile to the city limits at Beck Road.

Despite previous county rejections, Vernon told citizens the council will press again for the reduction.

Although adult traffic guards are paid for by the school district, council ordered the immediate temporary second guard at the crossing, taking the position that it could not wait for action by the school board. Instead, it decided to hire the guard on an immediate temporary basis and then request the school board to make the position a permanent school financed one.

Similarly, it was noted that overhead walkways are financed by the school district.

Concerning a rebuke of a citizen for what appeared to be the city's greater concern for the safety of horses crossing at Eight Mile and Seven Mile roads than for children crossing at Center and Eight Mile, Vernon said he has a great deal more concern for the safety of children.

Johnston said he "resented" the charge, pointing out that the crossing guards at Center and Seven Mile roads are retained and paid for by Northville Downs — not the city.

Prison pushed

near Ypsilanti which is expected to open later this year.

Women are now jailed at the Detroit House of Corrections (DeHoCo) which is also, in Northville Township, about three miles west of the center.

Local opponents of the prison say the lack of residential building in that area is due to DeHoCo.

Several of the center's buildings — including the administrative center, the school and the hospital — would be used by the prison.

Mintzes said the state does not have a target date for moving prisoners into the center.

"It's really in too much of a preliminary stage to get a handle on it," he said. "A lot of bureaucracies have to be overcome."

Once the state and the county agree on a lease, the matter will be turned over to the state legislature, he said. At that time, there will be public hearings.

senate race; Daniel Gills of Redford Township, an hourly employee at Ford Motor Company's national parts depot; and Douglas Mackenzie of Livonia.

Republicans running are R. Robert Geake of Northville, who is serving his third term as state representative; Mary Dumas of Livonia, a former Schoolcraft trustee who is serving her third term on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners; Joseph Bida, mayor of the City of Plymouth, who previously served two years on the Plymouth commission; Jane Moehle of Plymouth, who was a charter member of the Schoolcraft board of trustees serving 11 years, three as chairman; and Raymond Kimble of Plymouth Township, who formerly was a city councilman in Linden.

Warehouse gets boost

Conditional approval for construction of a factory warehouse on the property of Belanger, Inc. has been granted by the Northville (city) Planning Commission.

The warehouse is to be located west of Belanger's factory located at 455 East Cady Street.

Approval means Belanger can begin construction immediately.

Still required by the commission, however, is a plan to show parking arrangement on the land adjacent to the warehouse.

Belanger plans to use the new building for housing equipment and supplies presently stored outside. To permit its construction, the firm had to secure a sideyard variance from the Northville Board of Appeals.

In other business last week, the planning commission concluded its work in beefing up site review provisions and then voted to recommend that the zoning ordinance amendment be approved by the city council.

Among other things, the amendment extends the deadline for implementing approved site plan work from six months to one year.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

In ancient Greece and Rome, wine was stored in decorative pitchers called amphora. They were nonporous, which protected the wine from contact with the air. When the Dark Ages began, the secret of making amphora was lost and wines that required aging were no longer available. It was not until the end of the eighteenth century that it was discovered that a bottle with a cork that was kept constantly moist by the wine would serve the same purpose as the amphora. Interestingly, the Portuguese discovered the use of the cork in their efforts to create a wine market to compete with the French. The winner of this contest is well known — French wines still rule the world.

...that may be, but there are many fine wines available in other countries including the U.S.A. and they're easy to find by coming to us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. Plenty of convenient parking available. We have an assortment of live lobsters. Pick your own from our tank and we will explain how to cook and serve. Film set on 1930's

A film documentary highlighting the famous events and personalities of the decade 1930-40 will be the subject of a Senior Citizen program at the Northville Public Library on Thursday, February 24.

"Life in the Thirties", covers events such as the 1929 Stock Market crash, the abdication of Edward VIII and humorous anecdotes of that turbulent era. The program begins at 2 p.m.

Though especially selected for Senior Citizens, all age groups are welcome. Refreshments and discussion follow the film.

Anyone who wishes to attend the program but lacks transportation may call for a volunteer driver who will provide rides to and from the program.

DAR Good Citizen

Novi High School senior Patricia Pohlman, left, is congratulated by Mrs. Albert Heindryckx, center, vice regent of Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, as she is presented with a Good Citizen award of the chapter by chairman Laura Baumhart. She was honored at a luncheon-awards ceremony February 16 at King's Mill Clubhouse. High school seniors, recommended by their schools, are cited for outstanding leadership, dependability, service and patriotism.

Jaycees seeking Man of Year

The awards ceremony and dinner honoring the Young Man of the Year has been tentatively set for March 31 at the Northville Park Haus restaurant, Northville Jaycees announced this week.

Meanwhile, the Jaycees are soliciting nominations for the award. Any young man between the ages of 18 and 35, who lives in either the city or township of Northville, is eligible. He must also have been a United States citizen before January 1, 1976.

Persons nominating young men are asked to submit the names, address, city and zip, birthplace and home phone number of the nominees to the Jaycees. Nominations should also include reasons why the young men in question should be considered for the award.

Those making the nomination should include their own names with the material in sending it to O.Y.M., 500 Maplewood, Northville 48167.

Deadline for submission of nominees is March 26, with judging slated to take place on March 28 and 29.

A public invitation and ticket sales will be initiated soon. Tickets also may be obtained by writing to O.Y.M. Dinner, 500 Maplewood.

Kinde lists cast for 'Fiddler'

The cast has been chosen and Northville High School's spring musical, "Fiddler on the Roof", has gone into rehearsal, director Kurt Kinde announced Monday.

It will be given at 8 p.m. May 6-7 and 13-14.

Others are Kurt Kastner, Motel; Richard Bookwalter, Perchick; Ray McLaughlin, Fredrika, Frank Bustmante, Lazar Wolf; Steve Massel, Sasha; Dave Nyquist, the Rabbi; Mark Yanoschik, Mendel; Paul Soucy, Nahum.

Still others are David Iversen, Avrum; Marty Redilla, Mordcha; Anders Dinglsson, Yussel; and Peter Couse, constable.

Debby Meila will be Golde while Jan Kalotta has the part of Tzeitel and Paige Lysinger, Hodel. Chris Stephens is Chava, and Peggy Sitarski, Yente with Lisa Ward as Fruma Sarah.

Warming up

Jeff Johnston (left) and Tim Smith warm-up during a practice round as they prepared for competition Monday at Novi High School to determine the best nine table tennis players in the school. Those students winning will be on their way to a Cobo Hall tournament Saturday, March 5 as teams from many Detroit metropolitan area high schools will be competing. It is sponsored by the Detroit Table Tennis Association.

In Uniform

Army Sergeant Robert E. Dobek, whose wife, Patricia, lives in Orlando, Florida, recently was presented the Good Conduct Medal in Bamberg, Germany. Sergeant Dobek received the award while assigned as a supply sergeant with the 1st Battalion of the 72nd Field Artillery Group's 75th Field Artillery.

He is a 1970 graduate of Novi High School, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Dobek, 44100 12 Mile Road, Novi.

Speaking for The Record

Supervisor errs seeking secrecy

It's only fitting that a brand new elected official should be allowed to get his feet on the ground and his program in progress before the press or public start forming opinions.

And that's why this newspaper has taken a "wait and see" attitude with young Mr. Wilson Grier, the new supervisor of Northville Township.

Actually, we wish him well. But we admit to being apprehensive. His youthful enthusiasm and inexperience could be assets if he permits them to serve him thusly. But if he ignores what history offers and listens only to the tune of a single trumpet, these potential assets become dangerous liabilities.

In our opinion, Supervisor Grier is still on public probation. We're waiting and hoping.

But on one issue we cannot wait.

It's the matter of closed meetings. We shouldn't have to remind Supervisor Grier that (with few exceptions) they are illegal and beginning April Michigan's open meeting laws will be given teeth they have previously lacked — penalty for violation by fine or imprisonment.

Several weeks ago at a meeting held between the city council and township board to discuss joint services (recreation, library, fire) Supervisor Grier blocked the press at the township hall door. He also turned away two citizens — appointees to the recreation commission, one from the city and the other the township.

Unlike the determined member of the press, the citizens started to leave. They met City Manager Steven Walters and Councilman Paul Vernon at the door and told them why they were leaving. The citizens were urged to return to the meeting and they did so.

Supervisor Grier then quickly huddled with Mayor A. M. Allen, but was unsuccessful in convincing the mayor that the public and press should be barred from the discussions.

Originally the township supervisor had attempted to hold the meeting on how the city and township should spend taxpayers' money for joint services at the Park Haus.

The city council would have no part of holding a public meeting at a private restaurant. Admittedly, such an arrangement would have made it more difficult for the public and press to barge in where they were not wanted.

What bothers us now is that Supervisor Grier does not give up easily in his quest for secrecy. Last week he called the city manager to ask that the public and press be barred from the second meeting on joint services between the two elected bodies. It was held last night (Tuesday) at city hall.

We must assume Supervisor Grier is speaking for his seven-member board and that they would prefer to discuss services in secret, clearly an illegal act.

Apparently the city council has nothing to hide. Or maybe its five members are reluctant to break the law. Anyway, Supervisor Grier lost his bid for secrecy a second time.

We have some advice for young Supervisor Grier. The words are those of Candidate Grier published in a paid advertisement in The Northville Record on July 21, 1976.

"Government must talk to the people, be first to admit a mistake and immediately initiate actions to correct them."

It's review time

Property owners should be reminded this time of the year of the annual board of review hearings.

What's reviewed by the boards of review are assessments for property tax purposes.

If you think your property is assessed too high, and consequently your taxes are too high, you may appeal to the board of review.

If you do not know what the assessment on your property is, you may find out by going to the treasurer's or assessor's office of your city or township hall.

At any rate, this is the one time of the year when the taxpayer can be heard by a board of fellow citizens for the purpose of discussing an individual assessment on a home, lot, or building.

If you have questions, air them.

Most hearings are held in March. Specific dates and times appear in legal advertisements published in this newspaper.

Speaking for Myself

Mass transit for suburbs?

YES . . .

It would be nice if no members of our society were mobility impaired, if none of us were handicapped and we were all able to move about freely whenever we choose. It would also be nice if we all had unlimited clean air, unlimited energy, unlimited space and unlimited funds to purchase and maintain unlimited private vehicles to move about in our unlimited space.

But unfortunately, none of us are blessed with all of the above. Not in the cities, and not in the suburbs. If we pretend that we are, and try to live that pretense, we would only be playing a cruel joke on ourselves.

In terms of transportation, suburban residents are not so different from everybody else. Many are too old or too young or physically unable to drive. Not all suburban households have two cars, and suburban residents are not immune from energy and environmental problems.

We know that everyone will not completely abandon their cars, and we do not advocate that. But we also know that our very limited society cannot continue on its present course without creating transportation alternatives. Good public transportation is a necessary and viable alternative for suburban as well as city residents.

The Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority was created to provide leadership in solving the public transportation problem in this region. The federal government has committed $600 million to help us build a good transit system. As yet, we do not know what form that system will take, but we are currently engaged in a study designed to insure that whatever form it takes, it will be the best one possible for us all, suburbanite as well as city dweller.

NO . . .

There is no question that a mass-transit system is needed to help increase property valuations, move people faster and arrive at work safe and on time. Mainly, during these emergencies on energy, the big savings is on gasoline and the cost of parking.

All this is fine, but not at the taxpayers' expense.

The reason I voted "no" when I was in the legislature was because I did not want to give the power of the Transit Authority to impose a tax on the citizens without the approval of the taxpayer, and I still feel this way about it.

Our people have seen their utilities go up and up, they have seen public officials continue to get increases in salaries. I'm also tired of studies that are nothing more than a dollar giveaway of the taxpayers' money just to try to convince the public of the need to take away more of his tax dollars — as an example, the $1.2 million study conducted by the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA).

Yes, we need a mass transportation system, but not at the expense of the taxpayer. Construction of the system in the Detroit area would be good because of the 44 percent unemployment within the building trades and I'm in favor of anything that can produce jobs and a job training program. But what about the cost of purchasing and building a mass transit system?

In an informal poll conducted by The Detroit Free Press, over 80 percent of those responding said they did not favor a $4 vehicle tax as a means of providing better transportation in the Detroit metropolitan area. They argued that only the users of mass transit should pay for the system, and it would be unfair to tax a person for a system he or she is not using.

Yes, I feel the metropolitan area has suffered steadily in the past several years. The question is how to develop the system without going into the pockets of the taxpayers.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

AT&T obviously has been eavesdropping on our home.

How else could it have made this deduction in its latest edition of "The World's Telephones" booklet:

"Since (Americans) have the most telephones by far (148,983,000 compared with second-place Japan with 44,789,101), it follows that Americans are the most talkative."

The same kind of logic should have persuaded AT&T to add: since Americans are the most talkative, it follows that most of them claim squatters rights beneath the two wall extensions in the Hoffman place.

So many kids use our phones they've worn foot grooves in the oak floor. I used to complain about the grease their heads left on the wallpaper, but now that they've worn through the paper and are well into the plaster my worry is they'll soon be greasing the back side of the paper on the opposite wall.

Their sentimental mother waives aside the grooves and the grease. "Someday," she sighs, "when they're all grown and gone those marks will remind us of the pleasure our children gave us."

She's gone bananas!

The only pleasure of it is the thought that one day I'm going to scribble graffiti on their walls. Such scribbled notes as, "Get me up if it's Paul; I'm out if it's Mike." Or, "Let the phone ring three times then hang it up so I'll know who it is if it rings twice more."

They're so hooked on the phone they can carry on an hour conversation with an answering service.

I found the phone dangling on the floor the other day. When I picked it up a voice on the other end said, "I'm talking to Mary but she's taking a break to wash her hair."

"Get your feet off the wall," I ordered a youngster lying on his back with the phone.

"I'm just letting the blood rush back to my head," he replied.

Some of them insist on privacy... behind the couch, under a chair, and even in the cardboard box the television set came in.

Once I opened the closet to find the phone and a stranger to which it was attached. Why a parent should be embarrassed to open his own closet escapes me now, but I apologized and closed the door.

"Who's using the phone in the closet?" I asked.

"Nobody," came the reply, which, roughly interpreted, means "none of your business."

"Well, will you please tell Nobody she's crushing my Christmas cactus."

To the Editor:
Assuming that the meeting in the township offices on Thursday, February 17th at 4 p.m. was an "open" meeting with our township supervisor, Wilson Grier, and citizens of our community, I walked in, sat down, and took part in a discussion that affects many of us. And I'm very glad that I did attend because being directly affected, I also learned how our citizens are served.

This meeting was called by Mr. Grier to assist families who need help in our community. They have no water or the water pressure to their homes is low, and quoting you, Mr. Grier, "They asked for my help and that's what I'm giving them."

And I believe you, Mr. Grier. You even went so far as to say, "I want the new water main in our community because of long range plans...you go out and get 51-percent of your people to sign a petition and I'll see that you get this new water main by fall."

Mr. Grier, I know God has power and I know you have power but you, I can take on verbally. According to what you stated to the waterless citizens (and I say this with respect), "The cost will be about $2400 per lot..."

In other words, the assessment for the water pipe going across each piece of property or building site. And dear waterless citizens, that's all he said it would cost until I asked about the tap-in fees and hook-up costs. He replied, "Just recently I paid only $1.10 a foot for labor and material to have a contractor hook up my water to my house."

And I said, "You 'stole' the job didn't you, Mr. Grier. Did someone owe you a favor?" Because you, citizen, can't get it done that cheap!

Fact: The assessment is "about" $2400.

Fact: The tap-in fee — the permit fee to use that new water line — is $580.

Fact: The "hook up cost" — that's the cost to hook up by digging a trench five feet deep and installing new pipe from the water main to your house — is about $3 to $4.50 a foot.

Mr. Grier, you've gone to school. Add up these costs and see if it totals "about $2400." Quit counting on your fingers and get a calculator (for further long-range plans).

Some other facts:

1. Many of us living in the affected area — Taft Colony, Hillcrest Manor and Northville Gardens — have our own private water systems. In simple language, we have our own wells.

2. There's more people in the aforementioned "subs" that don't want city water. We're happy with our wells and we aren't going to pay twice for H2O.

3. There are, however, one or two property owners with wells that want city water. They want it so they can sub-divide their acreage and sell them as lots with utilities. They aren't dumb.

4. Neither am I. According to our township supervisor, "Yes, a well would be cheaper but for long-range plans we will have adequate fire protection with city water and hydrants for this entire area."

Well, here's another fact: We don't have enough fire hoses to reach some of these homes. Besides the fire fighters, the most important piece of equipment we have in this community is the "pumper". So we better keep it in good repair or a lot of us will suffer — city water or not.

I sincerely sympathize with you, my neighbors and residents of this area without proper water pressure. I know it's going to cost you one way or the other, but the most inexpensive way for you and all of us is to install your own wells. That, too, is a fact.

And for me personally, fact: What is flushed away is what comes back as "pure city water" and I don't want to drink it!

Echoes of Chamber

Extends date for 1977 dues

By ANN ROY

President, Northville Chamber of Commerce

I have both good and bad news to report.

Bad news is that not all of the Chamber members have paid their 1977 dues and delinquent members will not be included in our 1977 Business Directory.

Good news is that the 1977 Chamber board of directors has extended the dues deadline to March 15, 1977.

Business directories will be distributed by mail, at the Chamber office, member's business places, the Mill Race, etc.

Business firms in other Chambers have found the concept of a membership business directory an ideal advertising vehicle that has increased sales. There is still time for those interested in becoming a member of your local Chamber of Commerce to join. You may do so by mailing your dues or inquiries to the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, Box 5246, Northville, Mi.

The public service meeting that was sponsored by the Northville Chamber of Commerce on January 20 in the City Council Chambers was well attended. Approximately 55 people were on hand to hear Supervisor Wilson Grier speak of the future plans for Northville Township.

Another public forum meeting is scheduled for March 17 and Steven Walters, Northville City Manager has accepted our invitation to be guest speaker.

Orchids to Edie Cole, owner of Paper & Spice Shop, for accepting the leadership of the Northville Retail Merchants. I had lunch with Edie the other day and this little lady is enthusiastically bubbling over with progressive ideas for the business community. With the cooperation of the Retail Merchants, this writer has confidence that the job will be done successfully.

Three representatives from the Chamber met with a representative of "United Chamber's Insurance Trust" to discuss the possibility of making available to Chamber members a broad coverage insurance plan. United Insurance Trust is affiliated with over 500 Chambers in the United States.

including 80 in the state of Michigan. This program is under consideration by your Chamber directors and will be presented to the general membership in the near future. It will be available to Chamber Members only.

BAND CONCERT

The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce has approved a "Band Concert" project for the enjoyment of the community. Area bands will provide the music and the concerts will be held during the months of July and August on Wednesday evenings. These concerts will be free to the public. Guests will be able to bring lawn chairs and relax in a quaint small town musical atmosphere.

Our Community Chamber of Commerce is strongly opposed to the establishment of another penal institution here. Petitions are being circulated by Chamber members in their places of business and a resolution from the Chamber in opposition to another prison was sent to the Wayne County Board of supervisors. Anyone wishing to sign or circulate a petition may do so by contacting the Northville City Hall, the Township Hall or a Chamber of Commerce member.

SINGLE BUSINESS TAX: This legislation was passed and became effective January 1, 1976. This tax has become a burden on many small businessmen. Amendments will be proposed this year. The State Taxation Committee will evaluate the proposed amendments and introduce others that may be required.

INCOME TAX: Non-residents who work in Detroit would be required to pay a higher income tax if H.B. 5329 is passed by the Legislature. This bill will be reintroduced in 1977.

LAND USE: H.B. 4234, the Land Use bill, will be reintroduced in this session. We would hope that our elected representatives will adopt fair and definitive land planning standards for future proposed land use legislation in Michigan and not merely attempt to establish another regulatory commission to hinder development.

Welcome new Chamber members: Summit Gift Shop, Belanger Car Wash, and Northrop Funeral Home.

Cite coach for basketball slump

To the Editor:

In today's paper there is an article about the Northville Mustang loss to Plymouth Canton. If it is like most of the previous post-game, post-mortems, it will quote Mr. Koepke to the effect that he "cannot understand what is wrong with the players — their lack of spirit, their lack of hustle, etc., etc..... I am getting sick and tired of reading his excuses each week. Perhaps it is time we took a long, hard look at what many feel is the heart of the problem — namely the coach.

A coach contributes the major part of building attitude and morale, which are a necessity for any successful undertaking — sports or everyday life. The coach must cope with the problem athlete, the moody, the comedian, the introvert, the extrovert. He must earn their respect, their devotion, even their love. He must be tough but compassionate. He, of course, must know all about the sport he is coaching, but also be quick to insert new ideas and techniques. He must be quick to adapt a style of both offense and defense that best suits the size and ability of the players available each year. There are a lot of things that go into making a successful coach.

Mr. Koepke's inability to change is, in my opinion, the reason for the sad situation we have today. His methods of handling individual athletes do not work like they did a few years ago. The offense, which he refuses to change, is outdated and doesn't work because every team knows exactly what we are going to do. The championship team of three years ago worked the current offense as well as it can be done and yet that team had lots of problems with it. Keep in mind that the Western Six Conference is not a very talent-laden league. As bad as the current team seems, no other team (except Divine Child) has had better overall talent. They simply execute better and display better attitude. Why?

Why do our boys seem to wilt at the end of every game? Fatigue. The players who are having a good night play the entire game, consequently there is no spark left at the end. Most successful teams have a steady stream of substitutes throughout the game so that in the stretch the starters are still strong.

There are only two ways a player gets rested on the Mustangs. Obviously one is an injury. The other is when the player makes too many mistakes. This is where morale and attitude come into play. Our boys are so uptight about mistakes or about carrying out Koepke's instructions right to the letter that they make more mistakes. It is a vicious circle. The boys know if they make mistakes they will be yanked out. So they try harder and they do not play

Seeks class alternates

To the Editor:

In mid-December, a meeting was held at Silver Springs school. Attending this meeting, were parents who were concerned with the education of their children. (a letter to the editor of your paper, prompted the formation of this group.) Approximately, twenty parents attended this afternoon meeting. We contacted one another through word of mouth. The principal, Mrs. Fieldman, chaired the meeting.

At this meeting, the parents voiced their concerns, which included educational alternatives, structured classrooms, lack of order or discipline in the school, methods of presenting curriculum, etc. The meeting lasted approximately two hours. We left this meeting with the understanding that another meeting would be scheduled and we could further discuss our concerns.

Another meeting was held several weeks later, February 17, at 7 p.m. Nine parents attended this meeting. I really couldn't understand the poor attendance, because it seemed to me that the parents were very concerned and wanted to continue this discussion. I later learned that some parents received notices of this meeting only three hours before the scheduled time and others received no notice at all! I received my notice twenty-four hours prior to the meeting. This struck me as strange because I am notified of Hot Dog Days six months in advance! Perhaps poor attendance was the intent.

To get back to this second meeting, Mrs. Fieldman informed us that we were there to discuss "open" classroom information articles and to ask for volunteers to help develop a student behavior code. I thought the original intent of the group was to obtain an alternative to the "open" classroom. Granted, we did discuss the lack of discipline in the school but our point, I thought, was that the "open" classroom might be contributing to the discipline problem.

Now, I do not believe that our children at Silver Springs are so poorly behaved or undisciplined, that we need a student behavior code to hold over their heads or ours. The teachers and principal should do the disciplining in school, we, the parents, should do it at home. If a severe or continuing problem arises, parents should be consulted.

I have been told that the "open" classroom promotes self-discipline, self-motivation, self-control, and self-direction. If this is true, why then, such chaos in the lunchroom and playground? Surely, our children should be relating these "self-wonders" from the classroom to these other areas.

This group of parents are concerned about their children. All we want is an alternative for our children. For those of you who feel the "open" classroom is just what your child needs, fine! I would not take that from your child. But on the other hand, should I have the "structured" classroom taken from my child?

You want what is best for your child, I want what is best for mine. Is this too much to ask?

If you are interested in an alternative for your child, please call a board member or call me.

Sincerely,
Christina Pettit

Don't blame students

To the Editor:

We would like to comment on Northville High School conditions. Many people say that the students of the high school are to blame for its falling apart. How can students get on the roof to make it leak? N.H.S. is slowly, but surely falling apart all by itself. Because of the leaking, there are puddles on many of the hallway floors. This becomes dangerous especially between classes when the hallways are crowded with students. In one of the biology classes there is a leak that drips onto a table from a crack in the globe of the light fixture above. This is very distracting and dangerous.

Take a look at the grime along the mop boards of the walls, you can actually see it growing. This should be cleaned by a janitor and it's an officials job to see that this is taken care of, however it is being over looked.

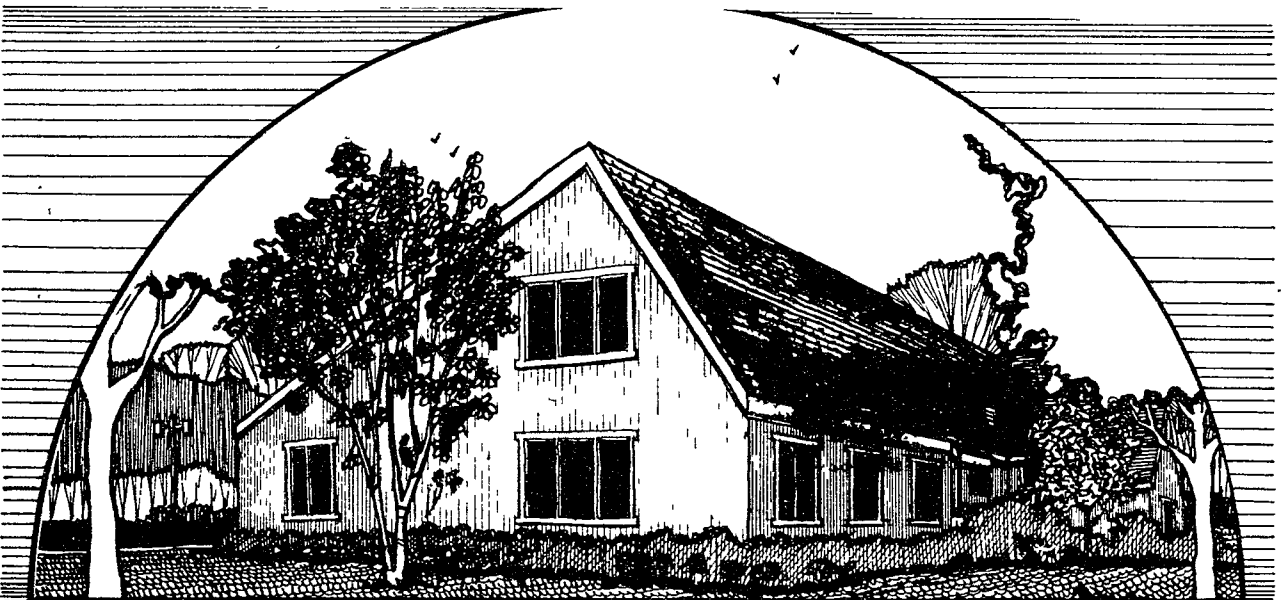

We took a walk around the school to count all the fire extinguisher cabinets, we found eighteen cabinets with only seven occupied with extinguishers. We would hate to see what might happen to the students and the school if a fire were to start. We understand that the Michigan State Fire Marshall has been notified of this matter, which should be taken care of in the very near future.

The schools are supposed to supply students with materials. It ends up that the students or their parents have to buy the materials. Where is the tax money??? You can bet that the superintendent has all the supplies he needs. (Without taking it out of his own pocket.) I wonder how many times he has had to borrow a pen, pencil, or paper? Which is more important, making sure the superintendent has his supplies or making sure the students have their supplies? Who is learning?

If the student's parents do want to help their children be safe and get a good education at the same time, they should start at the top by eliminating the superintendent and find someone who cares about student education and not his own welfare.

Sincerely,
2 Northville Students

It's 57 years old

To the Editor:

On the occasion of the League of Women Voters' 57th anniversary, we feel it is fitting to remind the nation that while we won the right to vote a half century ago, we are still struggling for equality in many other important areas.

More than 57 years ago we were able to overcome insurmountable odds because we believed that failure was impossible. Today as we celebrate our anniversary, we call upon the public to rekindle this spirit of determination which gave women their franchise and helped build a nation.

The Congress of the United States along with 34 state legislatures has voted to ensure the legal rights of women in the Constitution through passage of the Equal Rights Amendment. This year's state legislatures have the opportunity to make the final decision, to end two centuries of sex based discrimination in the law once and for all.

This nation was founded on the belief that given the opportunity citizens will offer their best to the country. We can renew this optimism in 1977 by passing the Equal Rights Amendment, for only through its passage can the full potential of all our citizens, men and women, ever be realized.

We urge Governors, state legislators and all those who feel as we do that much of this nation's potential has yet to be realized, to speak out on behalf of ERA and to assist supporters in the states that have yet to ratify.

This year we can and must set aside needless fears and pessimism which have permitted sex based discrimination to continue. We can and will ensure women the opportunity for full participation in American life and equal opportunity under the law.

relaxed. Sure enough they make mistakes and sure enough they get yanked out. Their confidence is gone.

Another contributing factor to the decline in morale is Koepke's conduct during the game. I have watched a lot of coaches and none display the obvious disgust that he shows at practically every mistake our boys make. During time-outs he rants and raves at the boys while the other coaches are giving encouragement. As the game goes on you can tell how we are doing by merely watching Koepke. He usually has his head bowed and his hand over his eyes — a picture of confidence and support to the team.

If your sports writer had interviewed a player, his statement might have gone like this: "We can't understand what has happened to our coach this year. At the start of the season we expected great things, but he hasn't come around. We just don't know what to do about it. Maybe we will have to bring up someone from the JV squad."

The sad thing about the whole thing is that there is no next year for the seniors.

Criticizes smoking stand

To the Editor:

It is happiness, indeed, to learn that our esteemed Novi Council member, Schmid, is a positive believer — against legislating the rights of people!

Now that he has, so strongly, asserted himself in that concept — I have several questions to ask him: Why then, are you legislating, NEGATIVELY, the right of other people to BREATHE — just to pursue your "own right to smoke" in a public meeting place?

Tell me, Robert, which came first — breathing or smoking?

And will you undertake (submit) a personal exchange of your good, strong, healthy lungs, for a pair of emphysemic, "deteriorating ability to breathe" lungs, (condition not caused by smoking), but adversely affected by smoking by others?

Well?
When?

Lewis to seek board seat

To the Editor:

To further clarify my position as stated in a letter you published on February 9, 1977, I have this past week indicated to the Northville Board of Education that I would like my name considered for the Board seat vacated by Dr. Robert Mandell.

My decision is based on the board's evident desire, as stated at last Monday's board meeting, to speedily and judiciously dispose of this issue involved in the current Regenesis inquiry. I have indicated to the board that, should I be selected and in the event the regenesis issue had not been settled by the date I might take office, I would pledge myself to adopt a fair and reasonable position on this issue consistent with the fair and objective stand Dr. Mandell himself has taken on this matter.

Sincerely,
Jim Lewis

police post, argued the manager, resulted because of soil that was basically sandy loam. Allen Terrace soil is altogether different in composition, much of it being a gravelly and heavily tree-rooted soil. Even a soils expert attested to the difference in composition, he added.

It appears the city either must cave in to county demand or risk further delay in start of construction, said the manager, who added that the only other recourse would be for the city to become the policing agency for soil erosion procedures throughout the city. Earlier the city had opted out of this responsibility, figuring the county had more expertise in these matters.

Until recently the delay resulting from the soil erosion hang-up did not particularly worry the city since it was assumed that a deep frost made start of construction unlikely. However, in having stumps removed from the site recently, the city learned that because of the gravelly soil composition the frost on the site is only about 6 inches deep as compared with five-foot frost depths in other parts of the city.

In other words, excavation now appears feasible — except for the erosion hang-up.

Start of construction was to have begun last month, with completion slated for October. Now, however, it appears that completion may not occur much before Christmas — if then.

The development is to include 101 apartment units, one of which is to be occupied by an apartment manager.

More than 300 applications already have been received from persons who want to live in the apartments. Members of the Northville Housing Commission presently are drawing up criteria for determining priorities for those to whom residency is to be awarded.

Recently, housing commission members visited other senior citizens housing developments to secure information about the rental system in those units for possible application here.

Meanwhile, Commission Chairman John Stewart has developed cost estimates that show, based on the Northville Building Authority's bonded indebtedness for construction, that rental costs probably can be kept beneath $225 a month per unit initially, with modest increases over the years to reflect increasing costs and increasing social security benefits.

Such rents, his figures show, would be sufficient to provide maintenance, some major repairs, and easily meet repayment of the construction debt.

Next month, the building authority will receive bids for "extra" fire protective devices for the development. Under consideration at this time is possible inclusion of a sprinkler system in each room and in the hallways of the building.

Estimated costs, including land acquisition, bonding attorney and architectural fees, plus construction and furniture, are presently pegged at $2,645,000.

Tickets available

Dinner theater slated

Dinner theater-goers will have the pleasure of Edgar Selfridge's company, straight from the past pages of the "Saturday Evening Post," on March 4 and 5 at Schoolcraft College.

Selfridge, is the title character in the Alpha-Omega Players' new comedy hit, "Hackberry Cavalier." Its performances here are part of the play's national premier tour.

The players are from the national theater company which delighted Schoolcraft audiences last year with their Bicentennial hit, "Heroes and Hard Cases."

A gourmet dinner by Master Chef Robert Breithaupt will be served at 7:30 both nights, with curtain time at approximately 9 in the Waterman Campus Center. Tickets are $10 per person.

People who remember the "Saturday Evening Post" will no doubt recall the humorous short stories that appeared in most issues. These stories, like the Norman Rockwell paintings on the cover, celebrated what was then, and still is, the basic strength of the country, the warmth and generosity of ordinary people.

One of the series depicted a mythical town in the Texas hill country — Hackberry. Hackberry's cupid, Selfridge, was forever acting as a go-between, uniting young lovers despite outlandish obstacles. He was the "Hackberry Cavalier."

Selfridge is joined by other colorful Hackberry residents including Granny Tucker, Two-Duce, Fanny Whittaker, and Polecat Crittendon.

March 4-5 promises to be a complete evening of dinner and excellent theater, full of reminiscence, fun, music and laughter at Schoolcraft. A table is reserved with ticket purchase available at the College Bookstore, located at 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia. Phone 591-6400, extension 217 for further information.

Billing machine sought

At its February meeting Northville Township board gave Supervisor Wilson Grier authority to investigate purchase of a water and sewer department billing machine estimated to cost more than $25,000 but less than $27,000.

Presently, bills are done by hand and there are 1,000 of them. The machine, it was pointed out, could be used in other areas of township operation.

The department also was given permission to purchase a snow plow from John Mach Ford at a cost not to exceed $1,100. Funds, the board was told, are available in the water and sewer department operating budget.

Symphony lists local students

Four Northville students will be participating in a special, combined presentation by the Livonia Youth Symphony senior orchestra and the new Livonia Regional Ballet at 8 p.m. Saturday.

It will be given in the Louis E. Schmidt auditorium of Clarenceville High School.

Lester Farkas, also a Northville resident, directs the 19-year-old Livonia Youth Symphony senior orchestra.

Senior orchestra members performing Saturday include Pamela Karody, Masako Kono and Leslie Farkas, all of Northville.

Vickie Genendlis of Northville will be among the guest artist dancers.

The Livonia Youth Symphony boasts three separate orchestras, all of young people who practice every Saturday morning.

The senior orchestra will be playing "Zampa Overture" followed by a flute duet, "Concerto for Two Flutes and Orchestra", followed by a French horn solo, "Second Horn Concerto in E Flat Major".

Following intermission the Livonia Regional Ballet members will dance variations of "Ballet De Sylvia", a suite in four movements.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students and senior citizens. They will be on sale at the door and in advance at Hammell Music, Incorporated and by calling 422-7712.

'A little bit of policeman in all of us'

'Smokey' sees CB chatter as big assist

By WAYNE LODER

Everyone's heard some version of the story about the observant freeway traveler who put out a smokey report on his CB but then ended it by adding that there was nothing to worry about because the smokey was full up with prisoners.

A low voice growled back over the CB "We can always make room for one more."

Today, that joke has more basis in fact than fiction.

With a half-million new "good buddies" being added each month in the United States, police departments have become more and more aware of CB'ers and especially the impact that conscientious CB'ers can have on a good law enforcement effort.

Many state police departments throughout the country are pushing CB's in police work so that the eyes and ears of millions of non-paid private citizens can be used.

"There's a little bit of policeman in all of us and people get satisfaction out of helping other people," says Lieutenant Roderick LaMore, who heads the Michigan State Police CB operations.

That's been more than a little evident since the state police CB program got off the ground in June of 1976. From that month through December the state police had 8,061 contacts with CB'ers, whether travelers or base station watchdogs relaying information.

Among the reports were: 795 speeders; 718 driving under the influence of liquor; 61 driving the wrong way; 1,646 accidents; 224 fires; 165 ill or injured persons; and 1,755 stranded motorists.

The state police today are continuing to concentrate on I-96, I-94 and I-75 but have expanded to other freeways as their equipment allows.

According to LaMore, there are roughly 30 base stations and 100 mobile units in use by the state police. That, of course, does not include units operated by local police departments or base stations of various REACT-type citizen CB organizations.

But even with the limited equipment of the state police, the program has proven so successful that the department puts out a monthly newsletter called "Michigan State Police CB Feedback". Each issue includes the latest figures on help provided by CB'ers, as well as reports of specific instances where CB'ers played crucial roles.

"There are many cases," says the editor of that newsletter, Sergeant Frank Korpala. "There was an airplane crash on I-75 in Flint and CB'ers reported it first. They saved a lot of property and personal injuries."

In a case which happened in January the Montcalm County REACT team actually provided gasoline to an ambulance which had run out of gas while transporting a patient to a hospital.

"If it hadn't been for them, the doctor said the person they were carrying in the ambulance would have died," says Korpala.

In December, CB'ers were notified of the robbery of a local bank in Bloomingdale near Paw Paw. With a description of the vehicle in hand, CB'ers spotted the car going down a nearby street.

"They followed him and kept us posted on his whereabouts until we could arrest him," says Korpala.

Most of the help provided by CB'ers may not be quite so dramatic, but many state police posts have still become equipped to monitor CB's for emergency calls.

At the Brighton State Police post, the department utilizes a base station which has a range of about five miles in any direction, according to Lieutenant Roger Snow, post commander.

Referring to CB groups such as the Brighton Community Watch, Snow says "Those people who cannot raise us can raise one of these other bases."

About two to three calls per day

BASE OF OPERATIONS—Sergeant Fremont Grimes takes a call on the Brighton State Police Post's CB base station. With the extended range of a good base station-antenna arrangement, police departments are able to take calls up to seven or eight miles away from the station, cutting response time considerably.

LENDING A HAND—Trooper Gary Butth from the Northville State Police Post prepares to help a stranded motorist after being summoned on his car's CB, the only one the Northville post owns.

require a response from a police car, estimates Snow, who considers the total effort a real success.

"All you have to do is save one person's life..."

The same thing applies to the Northville State Police Post. Currently the department has only one permanently mounted mobile CB. And the department would not have had it had it not recovered the CB and then been unable to locate the owner.

"Normally it's turned over to the state and auctioned," says Post Commander William Tomczyk. A request from the post for permission to keep the CB netted a positive response.

Besides that CB, one of the post's troopers uses his own CB with a detachable antenna and a cigarette lighter power plug.

"We like somebody to hear what's going on as far as who needs assistance and reports of violations," says Tomczyk. "It cuts down the response time over the person having to call a base and then the base telephoning us."

Though the Northville post does not have a base, Tomczyk says that the post is currently talking with a concerned Plymouth-based CB group over the possibility of donating a base.

"We're in the program one hundred and one percent," adds Tomczyk. "Initially we were opposed because of a fear of using it against traffic enforcement. But now it's a definite asset."

Many local police departments have also recognized the value of the CB though many cannot afford the expense of the equipment.

One department which has developed an extensive CB program while owning very little equipment of its own is the South Lyon Police Department which handles police activity in the city, as well as Lyon Township.

The effort began in May of last year when the police department helped establish a watch team which became, eventually, 60 members strong. Citizen band radios were loaned by the group to the police department for use in the two police cars.

At Brighton Wesleyan

Youth's an advantage for pastor

At 23, The Reverend Chris Hinterman admits he doesn't bring much experience to his job as assistant pastor at the Brighton Wesleyan Church.

But Mr. Hinterman sees his youth as an advantage in doing an important part of his work, ministering to young people.

"I'm not so far away in age from these teenagers," he said. "I think I know the pressures they have in high school, and I can try to help them get past them."

Mr. Hinterman came with his wife and infant daughter to the Brighton church last September, fresh out of church seminary at Marion College in Marion, Indiana.

As a college student, he gained unique experience pastoring. His last two years in school, Mr. Hinterman served as the only minister to a congregation in a small town near Marion.

That experience, Mr. Hinterman recalls, was a 'pioneering one' because the small church was recently organized and floundering. In Brighton, he says he has the opportunity to work with a very friendly, stable congregation and an experienced pastor, The Reverend T. D. Bowditch.

"Part of becoming a minister is just doing it," he said. "I'm lucky because Mr. Bowditch has been here 13 years, and I can learn a lot from him while I'm working."

As assistant pastor, Mr. Hinterman says he does a little of everything. He delivers the sermon occasionally, counsels, and ministers to youth.

Born and raised in a small town near Saginaw, he grew up as a member of the Wesleyan Church. But he didn't think of making his career in the church until late in high school.

"I had planned on going to General Motors Institute in high school," he said. "Then, it seemed the Lord has something else for me to do."

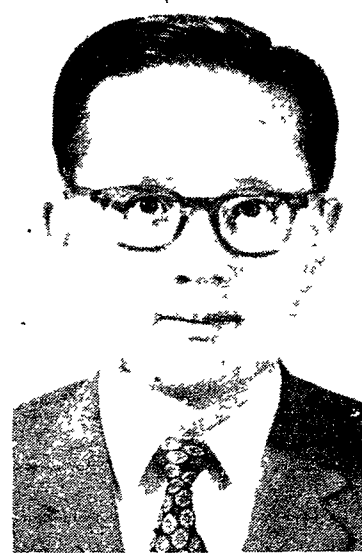

"Considering what's happened to the auto industry," he adds, laughing, "I guess He knew what He was doing."

Mr. Hinterman believes the institutional church has failed in some ways. Revitalization, he says, must happen through members' developing personal relationships with the Lord.

"I think the church has gotten stale and stagnant in some ways, probably just because we're human. People go to church because they're expected to and they find the rituals dull and dry and boring," he said.

Rather than "playing church," he says, Christians must commit themselves to relationships with the Lord. In that way, he suggests, ritual becomes meaningful and church an exciting place.

Panel topic focuses on Korean church need

Because "Lent is the time of preparation for the joy of Easter," a six-part Phase II Adult Enrichment Series has been scheduled at First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Guest speakers, a drama guild presentation, a hymn sing and a panel discussion under the leadership of a Korean pastor and missionary are planned and, the church notes, are made possible by the Bryan Memorial Fund.

Beginning February 27 they will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on successive Sundays throughout Lent.

A panel discussion on "How Can We Help the Church in Korea?" this Sunday will lead off the series.

Present standing of the church and of Christianity in Korea in view of the government's imprisonment of Christian missionary workers and its effect on free church expression as well as what can be done to help will be covered.

Guests will be Tuk-Yul Andrew Kim, pastor since 1972 of the Korean Community Church of Detroit, United Presbyterian. He is a graduate of Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Seoul, Korea, as well as of the New York Theological Seminary, Hartford Seminary Foundation and Hartford School of Religious Education. In Korea he served as college chaplain, pastor and professor of religious education. Second guest will be Raymond Provost, missionary to Korea and pastor of the Church of the Straits (United Methodist and United Presbyterian) in Mackinaw City. He is a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary and was a founder of the Moon Wha Presbyterian High School in Kyungju and its first principal.

He founded the Korea Scholarship Fund, a non-profit corporation which finds sponsors who provide tuition scholarships for 300 high school students in Korea each year.

A hymn sing is scheduled for March 6.

March 13 Dr. Ruell L. Howe, associate director of the Institute for Advanced Pastoral Studies, Cranbrook House, Bloomfield Hills, will present "Thoughts on Lenten Season."

He is a teacher, lecturer and author. His books include "Man's Need and God's Action," "The Creative Years," "Heres Is Love" and "How to Stay Younger While Growing Older."

March 20 the Reverend Robert E. Sanders, senior pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Ann Arbor, will speak on "Putting Religion to Work in Your Life."

March 27, "Were You There?" — a drama of the Crucifixion will be presented in "Chorologue" by Westminster Presbyterian Church Drama Guild.

April 3 Dr. Frank Marvin, senior pastor of Cherry Hill Presbyterian Church, Dearborn, will discuss "Meaning of Lent . . . 1977"

St. George Lutheran Church and Lord of Life Church, both of Brighton, will hold joint weekly Lenten services beginning Ash Wednesday, February 23 at 7:30 p.m. at St. George Lutheran Church, West Main and Fourth Street in Brighton.

Pastors Richard Anderson and David Kruger will share in the leadership of all the services which will center on the theme, "The Trials of Jesus". A film strip and dialogue sermon will be featured each week. The service of Holy Communion will also take place.

Miss Esther Leibfarth will accompany the services on the organ.

The United Presbyterian Women of South Lyon are offering a "quiet place for anyone who feels the need to pray in a church setting". The ladies are taking responsibility for opening their church at 205 East Lake Street from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. each Tuesday for anyone to come in for prayer or counseling. "We're not setting ourselves up as professionals but if someone needs a good listener, we'll listen," says Charlotte Thorne, president of the UPW. "If they need to be referred to a professional, we can do that too. But sometimes just telling your problem out loud helps to put it in perspective."

A prayer group, open to everyone, also meets at the Presbyterian Church on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 p.m., Mrs. Thorne stated.

The new morning program was adopted at the February 16 meeting of the UPW and went into effect yesterday (Tuesday). It is open to everyone, regardless of church affiliation.

The Plymouth Christian Academy of Northville presented a special program to the Jet Set at Calvary Baptist Church on February 22. The Jet Set is a senior citizen group lead by the Reverend Frank Smith that meets the fourth Tuesday of each month at noon for a pot luck luncheon and program. This non-denominational group, made up of members who are 55 years of age and older, had a program on the theme of "Love" presented to them by the students under the direction of Paul Bechler. The Academy's first year elementary band also performed in the program.

Free film to relate escape from Nazi raids

"Corrie: Behind the Scenes with The Hiding Place," a new full-length color release from World Wide Pictures, will be shown Sunday, February 27, at 7 p.m. at the South Lyon Assembly of God Church at 62345 Eight Mile Road.

The single showing is open to the public free of charge.

"We encourage families to plan to attend together, for what we believe will be a memorable experience," commented the Reverend Ronald L. Sweet, pastor of the church. "The Hiding Place," a true story filmed in Holland and other European locations, is based on the experiences of Corrie ten Boom, who, with her father, sister, and brother, provided refuge for countless Jewish families during the Nazi occupation. A secret room was constructed in their home as a hiding place for use during Gestapo raids. The ten Boom's activities were discovered, and they were sent to prisons and concentration camps.

"Corrie" was produced to give people who have seen "The Hiding Place" or read her many best-selling books an opportunity to hear her share many of her memories about her life in Holland, her family, and her lifetime of service to others.

According to Kenneth Bliss, director of distribution for World Wide Pictures, the film "offers a great lesson in the perseverance of a personal faith in a very dark and trying period of world history. Corrie ten Boom, now in her eighties, has a tremendous vitality, a deep spiritual commitment, and a profound love for her fellow man."

Bliss notes that the film includes "sidelights on the experiences of the cast and crew during the filming of 'The Hiding Place'."

St. John's launches long-range planning

The Rector of St. John's Provincial Seminary has announced the formation of a Long-Range Planning Committee for the school.

In making the announcement, Fr. Robert J. Rose said the group will be responsible for making recommendations affecting the development of seminary life and programs.

"Members of the committee," Fr. Rose said, "will receive suggestions from various sources, set goals and priorities and establish time-lines for reaching those goals."

The committee, which was appointed for the calendar year of 1977, includes the seminary's academic dean (Bro. Leo Gilskey, FSC); two elected faculty members (Fr. Harry Benjamin and Sr. Mary Ellen Sheehan, IHM); the development director (Van Vandagriff); a student (Ray Bucon); and two members of the seminary advisory board (Maurice Tessin of Midland and Dr. John Meara, Jr., of East Lansing).

Fr. Rose is an ex-officio member of the committee and Fr. Kenneth Untener, who will succeed Fr. Rose in the rector's post in June, also attends the committee meetings.

In commenting on the formation of the committee, Fr. Untener said, "I am relieved to know that this group will be actively involved in the planning process for St. John's."

Lawmakers beware!

By WARREN M. HOYT

LANSING—A Michigan citizens group that had phenomenal success repealing the sales tax on food and drugs and winning approval of a law to license auto repair shops has a new target — state lawmakers who spend money indiscriminately on travel, office furniture and pre-election mailings.

The Michigan Citizens' Lobby says it's launching a campaign to win approval of what it calls a Legislative Accountability Act. The point is to keep closer tabs on member's spending and, in some cases, to limit it.

"IT'S TIME for the people of this state to send a message to some senators that the party's over," is the way lobby co-director Doug Ross put it. Senators are more guilty of abusing taxpayer dollars than are House members, Ross claims, guessing that is so because they are a smaller group, hold higher office and are more jealous of their prerogative to spend.

BY THE LOBBY'S way of thinking: Lawmakers should have to itemize every travel expense and write a report on what they did and learned on the trip. House members already do this, but senators don't. Senate rules also allow members to spend up to $40 a day in taxpayers' money without saying where the money went.

All office furniture and decorations should be standardized and available from a state-run warehouse. Ross says he wants to get rid of exotic mirrors and custom wallpaper that now can be seen in some senators' offices.

No legislator should be able to send a mailing, at taxpayer expense, to his or her constituents within 60 days before an election. The argument is that such state-paid mailings give an unfair advantage to an incumbent to advertise himself to voters. House rules already prohibit mailings 30 days before an election, but the Senate had no rules on the matter.

Information on how much legislators spend for such things should be easily available to voters. Now, Ross says, bureaucrats realize it's expected of them to make it difficult for such expense sheets to reach the public eye.

IF YOU or your car were stranded during the late January blizzard that buffeted Michigan, don't fret. You had plenty of company.

According to the governor's office, at the peak of the January 26-31 blizzard, more than 229,000 persons were isolated in their homes and about 27,500 vehicles were stuck in the snow.

What's more, as of February 4 some 50,000 persons were still stranded due to more than 1,300 miles of impassable roads and 12,000 cars still stuck.

IT'S UP AGAIN, the issue of whether or not to raise the state's legal drinking age back to 21.

Last year, several bills before the legislature got no action, although the State Board of Education endorsed the idea to help school administrators who complain they're having more trouble than ever with students drunk in the classrooms.

A BILL to raise the age from 18 to 21 has already been introduced this year by state Senator Alvin DeGrow. He says a big problem is that 18-year-old high school seniors are buying liquor for their younger friends.

But the issue is a touchy one. At stake may be the votes of hundreds of 18 to 21-year-old constituents.

training and they (team members) worked very effectively through the summer," recalls South Lyon Public Safety Director Joel Allen. The watch members patrolled on selected nights and in areas pinpointed by the computer as problem criminal areas. "They had a real influence on the crimes we had them targeted into," says Allen.

And he backs up his statements with figures. In 1975 there were 109 breakings and enterings. In 1976 that figure dropped to 90. In 1975 there were 92 thefts of auto accessories, in 1976 only 70. In 1975 there were 31 bicycle thefts, in 1976 only 12.

One of the mobile radios loaned to the department was returned. A second was converted to a base and is now on a "permanent loan" basis to the department from its owner.

The base picks up CB calls all the way to I-96 which Allen notes can be extremely helpful since the city has to cover about seven miles of freeway.

Allen says that eventually the department hopes to equip both police cars with CB's.

"We're open to donations," he says. Even if donations do not filter in, Allen is hopeful money might be found for that purpose in next year's budget.

Interestingly, because of the tight money squeeze which many departments have suffered, donations may be about the only way many of them will be able to afford to equip either their vehicles or their stations. According to LaMore, most of the 100 mobiles, as well as the 30 bases in use by the state police today were donated by CB groups.

The cities of Novi and Northville are two communities which currently do not own any CB's for monitoring. But both police departments have shown an interest in becoming involved.

"You have more eyes and ears with it," says Frank Barabas, Novi's traffic officer. "The smokey reports are fine and dandy — you get people to slow down."

Barabas recalls that the Michigan Emergency Patrol which works out of the Fisher Building in Detroit and is one of 80 Michigan REACT-type groups used to come to the I-96 rest area on holidays to provide assistance to the police.

"Since we couldn't monitor them, we'd assign them a prep radio and if there was an emergency they'd contact us," says Barabas.

Barabas, who freely admits he has a CB in his own personal car, says he favors CB's for the department and feels the cost would be justified. Without CB monitors, "If something does occur, you're losing valuable time in rebroadcasting."

Captain Louis Westfall of the Northville City Police agrees that "in a lot of ways it's a good idea to at least have a base at the police station. I think it would be a real good idea because the CB's are on the road and they see things. They might late at night see someone breaking in somewhere and it would be a means of letting us know."

Michigan State Police Sergeant Weldon Greiger who coordinates CB activity in the seven-county area of southeastern Michigan sums up the CB effort saying, "It's probably been more successful than we had hoped for. We've just scratched the surface. For years people haven't wanted to get involved, but now they're doing it."

Portable garden

It's barrel of color!

Portable gardens planted in barrels, kettles, or other large containers can brighten some otherwise dull or unproductive outdoor area. A reader has requested information on this type of gardening, so here goes.

The barrel or other container should be large enough to accommodate the root system in an uncrowded fashion, and stable enough that the wind will not catch the plant and knock the container over.

If it is reasonably water-tight, a few drainage holes should be drilled in the bottom and around the base. Don't drill the holes too close to each other, or in a line, or it will weaken the base of the barrel.

Add drainage and stability with coarse gravel or pot shards; fill the bottom 1-4 — 1-3 of the container. Sand is not a good choice because it holds too much moisture and the intent here is to be sure no water accumulates in the bottom of the barrel.

The soil used in a large container should be high in humus — compost, peat moss, etc., so that it will be reasonably light for better mobility, and will hold sufficient moisture. It will be between difficult and impossible to cultivate this soil, so put the best in at the time of planting. A good mixture is 1-3 humus, 1-3 potting soil, and 1-3 sand for additional drainage. The addition of agricultural vermiculite increase the soil's capacity to hold moisture but will not add to its dry weight. It has no nutrients so a potting medium high in vermiculite will need more fertilizer than one which has no vermiculite.

Add a few hands full of charcoal to the soil to keep it "sweet."

A strawberry-type barrel with holes in the sides for the placement of individual plants needs something which most other containers do not

When a strawberry barrel is watered, the excess water usually runs out the top set of holes, the lower plants do not get enough or, in some cases, any water. To alter this situation, place a length of clay drain pipe or plastic pipe 2 or more inches wide in the center of the barrel with one open end resting on the lower level of soil and the top end even with the rim of the barrel. Do not put any soil in this tube; it will be used to water the barrel, assuring that water will reach all the soil.

Fill the container with enough soil to begin placing the plants at the same level they were previously growing; the soil should be neither higher nor lower on the plant than it was while the plant lived in another pot.

Most plants, even shrubs, vegetables, roses, and small trees can be grown in barrels, kettles, or other containers.

History walk slated Sunday

A history walk will be held at the Nature Study Area of Kensington Metropark near New Hudson on Sunday, February 27 starting at 9 a.m.

Park Naturalist Dave Molanen will discuss the history of the Village of Kensington, the development of Kensington Metropark and an early history of the area, including animals that first inhabited the site.

The program is free, however, advance registration is required. For details of registration contact the Kensington Metropark Nature Center - Phone 685-1561 (Milford).

1-3 Card Of Thanks

THE family of Richard Labuschewsky would like to express their deepest appreciation to all their wonderful friends, neighbors and relatives who gave their love, help and support in our time of sorrow and loss. For the beautiful flowers and the memorial contributions to the cerebral palsy. To each and everyone who prepared and delivered delicious food to us.
Many thanks to Pastor Anderson,
Keehn Funeral Home and St.
George Lutheran Church.

away 8 years ago this week. Today is a day of remembrance and many sad regrets and days we shall always remember when the rest of the world forgets. You made no one a last farewell, not even said goodbye, they were gone before we knew it and only God knew why.

The Light Touch

by ANN L. ROY

Judge: "Have you ever been up before me?"
Accused: "I don't know, what time do you get up?"

"Have you ever appeared as a witness before?"
"Yes, your honor."
"In what suit?"
"My blue serge."

Mrs. Jones let a can opener slip last week and cut herself severely in the pantry.

There's no justice — if you make out your income tax correctly you go to the poor house — if you don't you go to jail.

Make your best deal on a new Pacer, Pacer Wagon, or Hornet Wagon and AMC will make it $253 better.

We've extended our $253 Cash Rebate on Pacers and Pacer Wagons and expanded it to include Hornet Wagons.

Now you can get a $253 Cash Rebate on your choice of three great cars. The wide and roomy Pacer. The all-new Pacer Wagon. Or the hard working sportily styled Hornet Wagon. And you've got until March 10 to make your choice. All you have to do is pick your car and make your best deal with your AMC Dealer. AMC will send you the $253.

Or you can apply the $253 to the down payment. After you've made your best deal of course. The $253 Cash Rebate offer is good on all new 1976 and 1977 AMC Pacers, Pacer Wagons and Hornet Wagons delivered from dealer stock by March 10 or ordered by February 10.

Sorry, but no fleet sales or overseas military purchases are included.

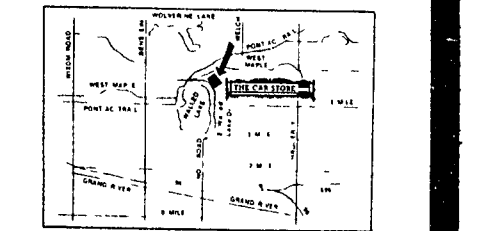

BUYER PROTECTION PLAN II
 The only full 2-year, 24,000 mile warranty on engine and drive train.
 The only full 1-year or 12,000 mile warranty protecting everything else on your car except tires.

PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY Federal Credit Union has been granted extension of its charter area to include the city and township of Northville.

Established initially in 1951 by Daisy Manufacturing Company employees, credit union members who chose to remain in the community when Daisy moved from Plymouth in 1958 voted to reorganize into a community credit union.

With the direction of several prominent Plymouth residents and George F. Lawton, who was hired to manage the credit union, Plymouth Community Federal Credit Union was established.

In the beginning, the credit union served only the city and township of Plymouth, but over the years, its field of membership was extended to include all of the Plymouth School District.

On the north, its boundary was Six Mile Road, which included some Northville Township residents.

"In recent years, we have had many requests from residents north of Six Mile Road to use our financial services," according to Dorothy F. Chandler, marketing director. "The exclusion of these residents didn't seem fair. Therefore, last August, we petitioned National Credit Union Administration to extend our boundary to Eight Mile Road and that part of the City of Northville that extends beyond Eight Mile. This extension was granted last week."

The credit union's board of directors approved the extension at its February 17 meeting.

"This means," explained Ms. Chandler, "that any person who lives or works within this area is eligible for credit union membership. Also, any family member in that person's household will be eligible for membership."

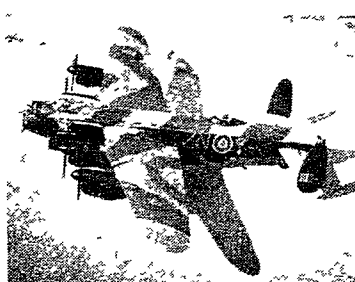

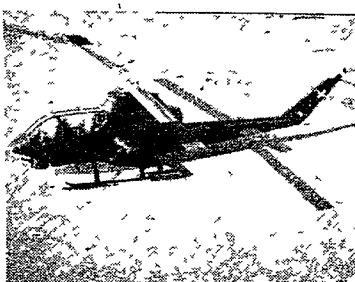

Because there are an insufficient number of Northville members at this time, no office is presently planned to be located in Northville. However, when the membership grows to support it, a Northville office will be established, Ms. Chandler said.

As of January 31, the credit union had 8,677 members, with assets of $10,080,736.41 — a two million dollar growth over the past two years.

The credit union recently opened a unique drive-in service. It is the first closed circuit TV banking operation in the area.

JIM CAREY of Farmington Hills (above) took second place in the model airplane building contest sponsored by American Hobby arts and craft store located in Ten-Meadowbrook Plaza, 41728 10 Mile Road. Jim was awarded a $5 gift certificate for his fighter plane entry. Other winners were: William Pelegrino of Farmington Hills, first place and $10 with a bomber, and Chris Johnson of Novi, third place and $3 with a helicopter entry. The two other entries are pictured below.

N.J. AND MARIE McPHERSON, franchise operators of the Dairy Queen store at 321 West Grand River, Brighton, have received American Dairy Queen Corporation's Silver Cone and 25-year service awards, according to Harris Cooper, president of the corporation.

The Silver Cone is a plaque awarded to all franchise operators whose store records a 500-gallon increase in soft-serve mix sales over the previous year. The 25-year service award is a certificate and emblematic jewelry commemorating service to the Dairy Queen system.

The McPherson's store is one of more than 4,800 Dairy Queens in the United States and eight foreign countries. The Minneapolis-based corporation is one of the world's largest retailers of fast food and soft-serve dairy products.

A SOUTH LYON RESIDENT, David Z. Pusz, of H.A. Smith Lumber in Farmington has recently returned from a two-day seminar on engineered floor trusses. The floor trusses replace conventional joists and allow for clear span basements with no posts or beams.

Thirty lumber dealers from all parts of southern Michigan were represented at the seminar. Heart Truss and Engineering of Lansing sponsored the meeting.

THE CONSULTING engineering firm of Halpert, Neyer & Tiseo of Farmington Hills has submitted their work as soil consultants on the Novi water supply system as an entry in the annual "Engineering Excellence Awards Competition" sponsored by the Consulting Engineers Council of Michigan.

Halpert, Neyer & Tiseo recommended the use of a displacement surcharge to remove unstable soils along the alignment of the Novi water supply system. Working together with Johnson & Anderson, design engineers for the project, they developed plans and specifications for the surcharge operation and provided engineering control during construction.

The displacement surcharge technique has been used by the Michigan highway department to construct major roads through swamps. However, the application of this procedure for the installation of a major utility line represents an innovative solution to a problem common in many areas of Michigan.

The technique involves the construction of a high embankment upon the surface of the swamp, deliberately causing a shear failure in the swamp soils. As the shear failure occurs, the soft soils are displaced to the ground surface where they are removed by conventional construction equipment.

The embankment, which is constructed of sand and gravel, slumps downward and displaces unstable soil.

In addition to the main function of providing support for the pipe, the displacement surcharge provided a stable roadbed so that truck access to all portions of the water main will be available throughout the life of the main. Since only soil materials were used and the swamp soils were not removed from the area, very little ecological disturbance took place.

BRUCE ROY Realty, Inc. in downtown Northville is announcing the addition of Sylvia Stone to their staff of real estate personnel.

NOVI RESIDENT Kevin Killeen has been appointed director of Safety Programs for the Wolverine Division of the American National Red Cross. The new director took office early last month.

As director, Killeen will supervise Red Cross safety programs on local and statewide levels. The programs are designed to teach specific safety skills and techniques, to increase basic safety awareness and to prepare people for emergency situations. Training courses include instruction in first aid, water safety and boating safety.

A graduate of Eastern Michigan University and a former Safety Programs field representative for the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of Red Cross, Killeen has worked for Red Cross for nearly four years.

CHRISTIAN A. KRAUTER of 26000 Philcrest Drive, South Lyon, was elected to the position of Vice-President of Sales for U.S. Operations by the Board of Directors of Easco-Sparcatron, Inc., Ann Arbor.

Krauter, who was national sales manager for the past three years, succeeds Mr. Vincent Cassone of Stamford, Connecticut, who was elected president of this international firm, which is recognized as a leader in the manufacture and distribution of Electrical Discharge Machines (EDM) and Total Form Machines (TFM), on a worldwide basis. These machines are used extensively in the tool & die industry to manufacture molds and dies, as well as in the production machining of parts including exotic metals for use in aerospace, nuclear propulsion, and reactor systems.

Krauter, who is the son of Herman and Katherine Krauter of 373 Rayson Street, Northville, is a 1960 graduate of Northville High School. He holds a bachelor of business administration degree from Eastern Michigan University and is a specialist in the industrial marketing field. Krauter was originally employed by Easco-Sparcatron, starting as an apprentice in 1958.

WILDWOOD ANGUS GRAND TRAVERSE, with headquarters in Novi, has been elected to membership in the American Angus Association at St. Joseph, Missouri, announced Lloyd D. Miller, executive secretary.

The herd is located in Grand Traverse with headquarters at Lyon Farms, 27141 Novi Road. Owner is Russell Lyon.

There were 225 memberships issued to breeders of registered Aberdeen Angus in the United States during the past month.

Winter

The heavy sky of early morn
Dark grey draped, a shroud
The sky a mass of darkness
Swollen snow-filled cloud.

A cat streaks by on winged foot
Not seeming on the ground
His nightly stalking fruitless
His quarry never found.

The earth, blanketed in white
A heavy, clean white snow
A single street lamp beacon
The light a paltry glow.

So winter sits
And broods and grows
The trees empty and forlorn
Their naked limbs raised Skyward
Their lovely limbs are shorn.

So winter creeps
The cold crackles; sharp
Sounds rend the air.
So winter-kills
And human ills
Are preying on the fair.

The following poem was written by Private Bruce Gow serving in Wertheim, Germany as a tribute to his friend, Bill McLeod, of South Lyon who was killed in an accident last year.

"Cowboy"

There are places I'll remember
All my life, though some have changed!
Some forever, not for better
Some have gone and some have remained,
All these places have their moments.
So with lovers and friends I still recall,
Some are dead and some are living.
In my life I've loved them all.
Though I know I'll never lose affection
For people and things that went before
I know I'll often stop and think about him.
In my life I'll love him more.
I'll remember what he stood for Knowing some day we'll be Standing side by side again as brothers.

What is Laughter?

Laughter isn't laughing "at".
Laughter's sharing goofs we make.
We all do — no myth.

An example I will share,
Proving what I say.
Think about it, will you please?
Worries fade away.

Did you ever have the urge,
To shoplift or steal?
Ever been put on a dare?
"Chicken", all that speel?

Well, I did. I really did.
Many years ago.
It was, "Hey, I dare ya!"
So I sold my soul.

One day, on the telephone,
Daughter — she did too.
Caught! Right in the action.
Now what do I do?

In she comes all tears and shame.
Take her in my arms.
Time has come, I must confess.
Erase any harm.

She knew it was not a sin.
It was a mistake.
Took a lot of courage.
Trust, that's what it takes.

Would she learn her lesson?
In she came one day,
"Mom, a girl asked me to steal.
I told her — no way!"

Laughter filled the room to tears.
We both saw the light.
"Little Children, do not steal."
"Hey God, you are right!"

Merit 100's Here!

MERIT taste science applied to new low tar 100mm cigarette with impressive results.

The MERIT breakthrough technology that produced a whole new taste standard in low tar smoking has now been applied to a 100mm cigarette.

New MERIT 100's. Only 12 mg. tar. Yet packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco fortified with certain key flavor-rich ingredients isolated in cigarette smoke and proven to deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

If you smoke but haven't chosen to take advantage of the MERIT breakthrough because you prefer a longer length cigarette, you'll be interested.

Andover is hurdle

All right, guys, the fun and games are over. The patsies are all behind you. The mothers are duly impressed. And now it's time to get serious. After all, an undefeated season is on the line.

And all that stands between the Northville Mustang swimming team and a 15-0 dual meet mark is a Bloomfield Hills Andover squad which may only be the toughest opponent of the year.

Jim Cahill rests after relay

Mustang swimmers did well when stacked against Andover's best in the Detroit News swim meet earlier this month, but coach Ron Meteyer is worried about the Oakland County school's depth.

Speaking of deep, that's where Northville buried its two opponents last week. North Farmington, of whom Meteyer warned of a close match, fell 50-33 and Farmington Harrison, Northville's victim on Senior's Night where mothers are the guests of honor, was beaten, 54-29.

Several seniors put on quite a show Thursday. Randy Roggenbuck broke his own school and pool record in the butterfly with a 55.1. Jim Cahill won the 200-yard freestyle and took second in the butterfly.

Jim Wright won the individual medley, taking seven seconds off his time of a week before and Brian McSeveny posted his best time in the 50-yard freestyle.

Mark Yanoschik isn't a senior yet — to Meteyer's joy — and he broke his school and pool record in the 100-yard freestyle with a 50.3. That was with a double ear infection.

Derek Gans had his best time in the IM, as did Jim Cahill in the butterfly, Tim Cahill in the 200-yard freestyle, and Bruce Hackman in the 500-yard freestyle.

Tuesday, North Farmington's lone bright spot was Clay Scowcraft who set the pool record in the 500-yard freestyle with a 5:05.9.

Yanoschik, Roggenbuck and Tom and Jim Cahill combined for a pool record 3:28.4 in the 400-yard freestyle relay but it was three seconds off the time needed to qualify for the state meet.

John Markatus had his best diving day.

Jim Cahill and Hackman took 1-2 in the 200-yard freestyle, Yanoschik won the 50-yard freestyle, Roggenbuck took the butterfly, Jim Cahill the 100-yard freestyle, Carl Haynie the backstroke, Matt Sullivan the breast stroke

Nip and tuck

Mustang cagers play close ones

They may not always be artistic successes, but Northville basketball games are almost always thrillers.

The Mustangs waited until the final seconds to win two games last week — beating Milford, 60-59, and Walled Lake Western, 52-49 — putting together back-to-back wins for the first time since the first two games of the season.

The two close games make it nine times in the last 10 contests that Northville has won or lost by four or fewer points. Three games have gone into overtime.

In fact, the three-point win over Western was the largest Mustang margin of victory since they beat Milford Lakeland, 65-56, on December 3, the second game of the year.

Northville now has won three of its last four to up its season record to 8-10 with two games left. The Mustangs, 3-5 in Western Six play, had a game with league leading Livonia Churchill last night and close out the regular season at Waterford Mott Friday.

and nine against Western. Harding had 31 points in the two games, including 21 at Milford.

Tony Armada dumped in 22 points to lead the effort against Milford but the most important were the last two.

Milford, leading by one, missed a free shot with eight seconds left. John Horvath, who scored 12 points, grabbed the rebound and hit Armada at mid-court.

Armada drove in for the winning bucket at the buzzer.

It was more of the same against Western, a team Northville beat in overtime at Western earlier this year.

This time Horvath hit Harding with a long pass to set up the big basket. Armada then hit two free shots to ice the game.

Shooting was cold and the scoring was led by Horvath with 15 and Armada and Harding each had 10. Dan Duey pulled down seven rebounds.

Turnovers continue to be a Mustang problem as they committed 16 in the first half alone against Western.

"We turn the ball over a lot trying to fast break," explained Koepke. Although the Mustangs fast break well when they manage to hold onto the ball, they have slowed the pace down to avoid errors.

Otherwise, Northville, which lost nine of 12 before these current winning ways, is "showing improvement in a lot of areas," said Koepke.

In all, Northville has played 11 games this year settled by fewer than five points and has won six of them.

Salem is chosen

Northville's basketball team starts out with a tough assignment in district tournament play at Southfield High School Tuesday night.

The Mustangs (8-10) battle powerful Plymouth Salem (14-3) in an 8 p.m. game.

The winner of that game takes on Plymouth Canton on Thursday, March 3 with the championship game, also at 8 p.m., on Saturday.

Thank goodness for the state basketball tournament. If it weren't for Match Madness, Novi would be going through the motions as its regular season dwindles to an end.

"We're getting ready for the new season coming up," said Wildcat coach Ron Flutur, after Novi dropped a 76-61 decision to co-league leaders, Milan.

"This gives us something to shoot for."

Novi will join three other SEC teams along with Willow Run and Pinckney in the districts next week.

Although Dexter's wins were by 58-49 and 76-65 counts and Willow Run won by 20 points, Flutur thinks there is reason to hope Novi can be the surprise winner.

Before that, the Wildcats have to take care of South Lyon on the road Friday. Earlier, the Wildcats beat the Lions 75-65 and a similar victory would pull Novi into a fourth-place tie with Brighton.

Last Friday, foul trouble and the fact that Milan was a fine team combined to beat spell Novi's loss.

"Eric Wurster is the best player we've seen all year," said Flutur. Wurster scored 20 points and Curt Dingman added nine assists to pace the Big Red.

Bill Giorgio led a balanced Novi attack with 14 points. Bob Bannatz and David Pisha each added 12 and four other Wildcats broke the scoring column.

David Pisha had 17 rebounds but his brother, John, and Andy McComas both ran into foul trouble.

The Wildcats had whittled an eight-point halftime deficit to five when those two went to the bench with their fourth fouls. Milan, tied for first with Saline, then went on a 15-3 spree to clinch the game.

It didn't help that Novi, a team that does best when the ball is moved inside, got called for several three-second violations.

"It didn't seem like we were in there a second," said Flutur.

Novi is now 4-7 in league play and 7-11 overall.

Novi does well

in tourney draw

Coach Ron Flutur, who hopes the state basketball tournament will be a new season for his Novi Wildcats, has to be happy with the draw for the districts at Dexter.

Novi drew a bye for the first round and will play Thursday (March 3) at 8 p.m. against the winner of the South Lyon (2-16) — Pinckney (10-9) game.

Thursday's winner will meet the winner in the Willow Run (11-5), Chelsea (6-17) and Dexter (11-5) bracket in a 7:30 p.m. title game Saturday night.

Rec classes are trying to promote gymnastics

Olympic performances by cute, sometimes pixie-like East Europeans with first names such as Nadia, Olga and Nelli have made the 1970's an era of unparalleled popularity in this country's gymnastics history.

Just recently, for instance, Notre Dame's basketball arena was filled to capacity for a gymnastic exhibition by a touring Russian team.

Only a few years ago, a similar exhibition would not have drawn much more than a yawn. Similarly, a few years ago, nobody would have seriously thought there would be a Northville High gymnastics team.

"The Olympics showed people what gymnastics are all about," agrees Debbie Davis, the second-year coach of the Mustangs.

What the Olympics didn't show was that all those graceful, seemingly effortless moves were the result of years of intensive practice.

"It's not easy to learn once you are past a certain age," says Davis.

For gymnastic teams to do well at the high school level, Davis says the sport should be offered to youngsters.

But, like several sports in the Northville system, it isn't financially feasible to offer gymnastics at the junior high level.

However, the Novi and Northville

Call miffs coach; Mills on to state

Does Kevin Mills have a wrestling record of 47-7 as the record book implies? Or is it really 48-6 as his Novi coach, Russ Gardner, declares? You be the judge.

Mills, wrestling in the finals of state regional competition Saturday at Riverview High School, battled Clarenceville's Jeff Heidelberg to a scoreless first period.

In the second period, Mills was using a method called the guillotine which the referee, according to Gardner, mistakenly interpreted as a stalling procedure and gave Heidelberg a 1-0 lead.

"I argued, but to no avail," sighed Gardner.

Mills escaped in the third period to tie the score, 1-1. With 10 seconds left, he tried a lateral drop whipover, slipped, and lost 3-1.

Had it not been for the stalling call, Mills would have led 1-0 at that point and would have been content to hold on for the win.

After the match, Gardner said the referee admitted his error.

Even though he finished second, Mills will still advance to the state championship meet at East Kentwood High School in Grand Rapids next weekend since the top four finishers in each regional qualify.

To reach the finals, Mills had blanked a Carleton Airport wrestler, 12-0, and pinned Norm Lampe — a Dexter wrestler whose only three losses this year have been to Mills.

Two other Wildcats — Mike Slasor and R.J. Bayne — qualified for the regionals but each lost his first two matches.

Teacher needed for swimming

A water safety instructor who would work eight hours for 10 Saturdays beginning April 2 is being sought by the Northville Parks and Recreation Department.

The job pays between $7.50 and $8 an hour, depending on experience, and the applicant must hold a current Water Safety Instructor's card.

The instructor will supervise open swimming, handicapped swimming and lessons for beginners through swimmer divisions.

Applicants should call Chuck Froberger at 349-0203.

Wrestlers win

Rick Bergain took a first place for the Novi Wrestling Club Sunday in the 126-pound division for 11 and 12 year olds at an invitational meet in Wayne, Sunday.

Rick Letourneau, Brian O'Hara and Kjelle Johnson all took seconds and Wally Waselewski and Joe Parent each took thirds during the meet.

Two days earlier, Johnson had taken a third in a special novice meet at Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

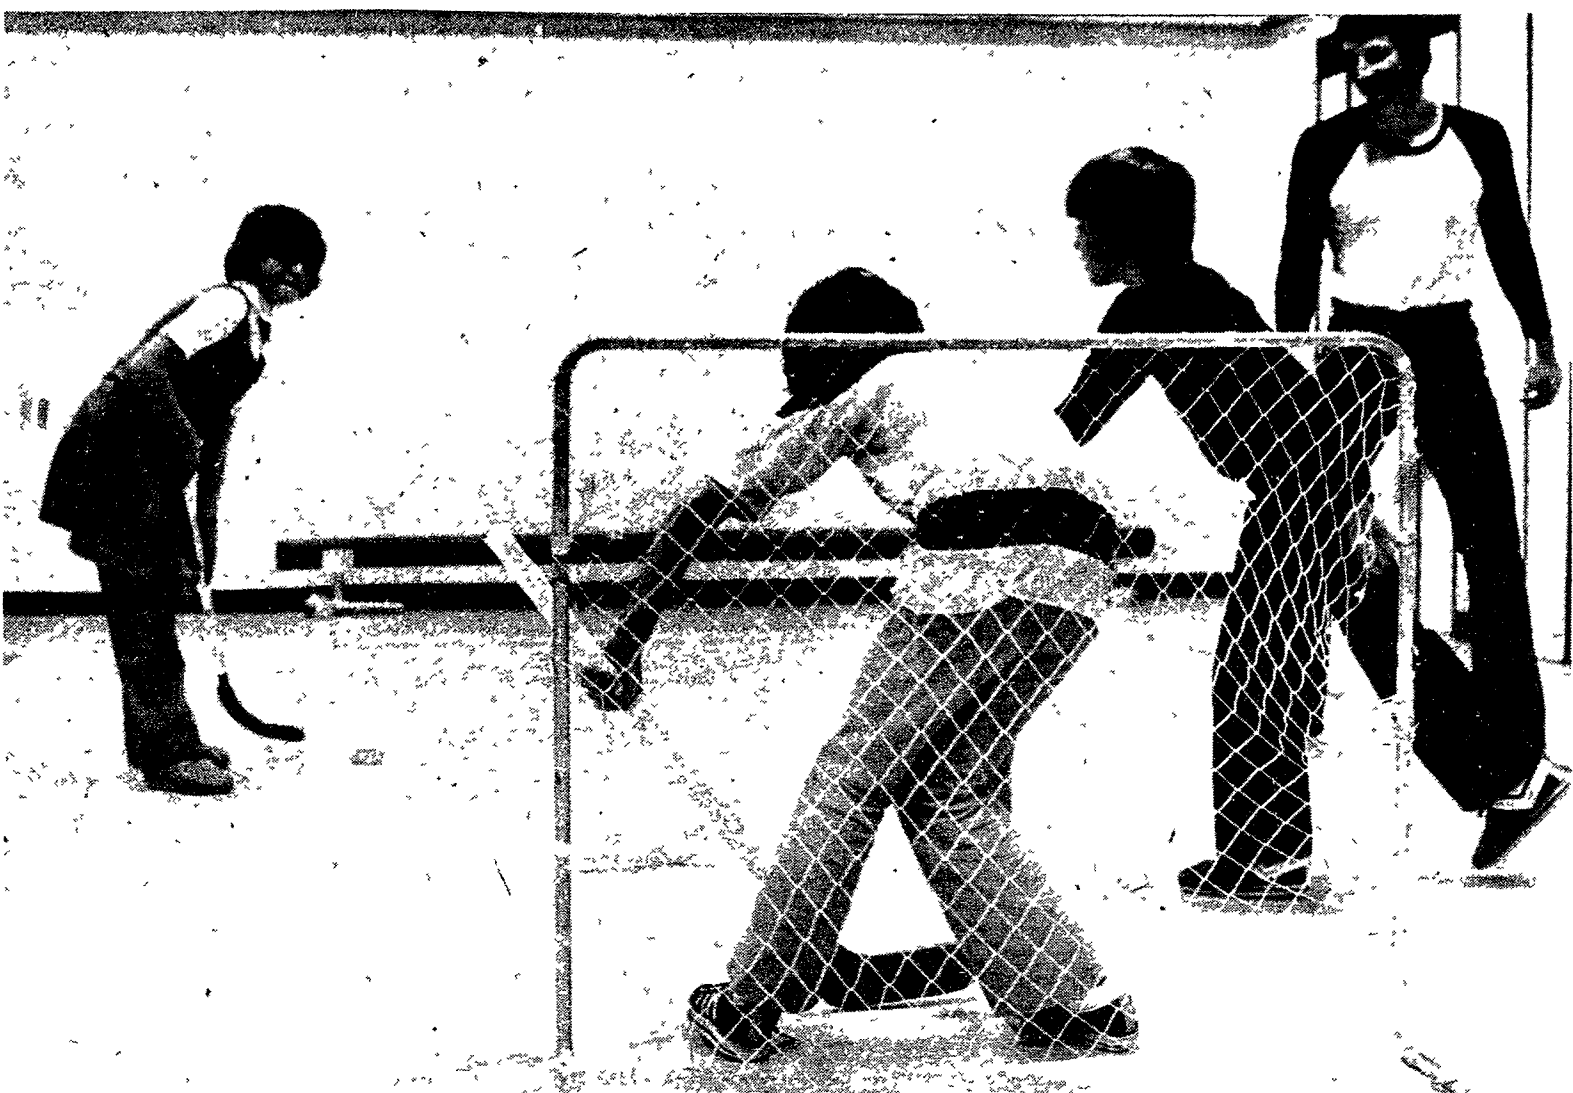

Close defeat drops Talbot

Northville's Ed Talbot won his first match, but then ran into two first seeds from the districts and was eliminated from the state wrestling tournament in regional action Saturday.

Talbot beat a second seed from Trenton, 7-1, but lost a tough 6-4 decision to a first seed from Westland John Glenn before being eliminated by another first seed, from Temperance Bedford, 9-1.

Had he won the John Glenn bout, Talbot would have been assured of a berth in next weekend's state finals.

Coach Gary Emerson reminds local wrestlers that the first meeting of the AAU club is next Tuesday at the wrestling room. The first tournament is the following Saturday.

Iceless hockey

The newest rage in Novi is floor hockey which is attracting youngsters in droves to three Novi elementary schools. Run by the recreation department for second through sixth graders, floor hockey is played just like ice hockey — except there is no ice. Kids practice twice a week for games on Saturday.

School soccer team gets a boost, but decision delayed until March

Soccer may be better than a kick in the head and the Northville school board isn't about to boot it out the door, but it's going to take awhile before the sport takes a toehold in the school system.

The school board has delayed until at least the middle of March a decision on whether to establish soccer as a new interscholastic sport.

Marvin Gans, athletic director at Schoolcraft College, and Ben Lauber, a Northville teacher, contacted the board last fall with a proposal to start soccer at the high school.

They said Northville could compete against teams from a 10-school suburban area with most squads from the Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills area.

The approximate first-year cost was pegged at under $2000 plus bus transportation. Gans said he would donate shirts and socks for the first-year team.

They also noted that there was a natural "feeder" system from the Northville recreation department league.

Most board members said last week that they approved of the sport, but several wondered if they could justify starting the program.

Roger Nieuwkoop said he was in favor of the program "if it could be justified", but expressed concern about the "boys versus girls" problem.

"I think we would be asking for trouble if we didn't make an effort to balance the program," he added.

Chris Johnson suggested that the entire extra-curricular program within the school district be studied.

Robert Mandell said that the advantages of soccer — the large number of kids who can play for a relatively moderate cost — outweigh the concerns.

If the board makes a decision by its March 14 meeting, Northville could still schedule opponents for next fall's season, said Gans.

JVs are perfect in league

Illness helped bring a temporary end to the winning ways of the Northville junior varsity cage team, but the young Mustangs bounced back to remain unbeaten in league play.

A couple of players out sick and foul trouble plagued Northville last Tuesday when it dropped a 71-63 decision to Milford Lakeland.

The Mustangs led 47-45 after three quarters but didn't have enough depth to pull out the win.

"We weren't figuring on guys getting sick," said coach Omar Harrison.

Joe Schimpf scored 26 points and had 14 rebounds, Jeff Norton added 14 points and Mike McLaughlin scored 10.

Friday, Northville made it eight-for-eight against Western Six foes by running away from Walled Lake, Western, 77-57.

Norton with 25 points and 10 rebounds, Schimpf with 23 points, Steve Bartels with 10 points and 10 rebounds and Chris Campbell with 10 points led the Mustangs.

Two Mustangs were still ill but Norton, who hit 12 for 17 from the floor

Wroten to play baseball at 'M'

Randy Wroten, a standout athlete at Novi High School, has been offered and accepted a baseball scholarship at the University of Michigan.

Wroten was the starting quarterback on the Wildcat team that qualified for the state football playoffs, but his first love is baseball and he was hoping for the Michigan offer, said his dad.

"They've been watching him since he was 14 years old," his father said of the fleet centerfielder who has had professional feelers from the Cincinnati Reds and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Wroten was told of the scholarship last Thursday following the Michigan-Iowa basketball game he attended with Wolverine baseball coach Moby Benedict.

Michigan has won the Big 10 baseball title the last two years.

Young swimmers to clash

Cooke Junior High's swim team warmed up for Thursday's big meet with cross-town rival Meads Mill Thursday by whipping Willow Run, 51-25, and turning in several fine performances in the Belleville Invitational.

Gary Lauber, who cut nearly six seconds off his time in the individual medley, was a top performer.

Others doing well were Doug Iverson, Nancy Donovan, Joe Trout, Pat Cahill, Paul Whitwer, Scott Spaman, Sharon McFadden, Rick Getzen, Shelly Stephens, John Zimmerman, Dwayne Sherry, Carolyn Sahrot and Christie Iverson.

"The times were really great," said coach Ed Erdos. Cooke tangles with Meads Mill Thursday at 4 p.m. at the high school swimming pool.

Saturday is last day to sign up for soccer

Saturday will be the last day to register for Northville's fast-growing soccer program.

About 200 played on Northville teams last year and participation may be even greater this season.

The registration for boys and girls, ages 5 to 19, is from 9 a.m. until noon at the Scout Building on Cady Street.

It is important to register to allow league officials to properly form the teams.

Those interested in coaching, especially those with experience, should call Dale Sherry at 348-1934.

Soccer interest in this area is strong enough to support two seasons — one in the fall and one in spring.

A draft and practice will be held at Winchester Elementary school for all new players and for all players who are changing age groups.

Boys aged 8 to 10 meet on Tuesday, March 8; boys aged 11-12 meet Wednesday, March 9; and all girls, regardless if they played last season, practice Thursday, March 10.

All practices are from 7 until 8:30 p.m.

Canton upsets

Title still in reach after loss

Don't say that the Northville volleyball team doesn't learn from its mistakes.

The Mustangs dropped only their second league game of the season last Wednesday by losing to Plymouth Canton, 7-15, 11-15.

"We weren't aggressive on the attack at all," said coach Jane Stubenvoll. "We weren't hitting it back hard, so Canton could set it up. We had no back row consistency."

That changed two nights later when Northville played its "best game" by whipping Walled Lake Western, 15-11, 15-2.

"We hit harder, the back row played well and the blocks were good," said the coach.

The win means that Northville can still wrap up the western Six title by beating Farmington Harrison and Waterford Mott this week.

Lori Hopping had eight straight serves to help Novi top Western and ended up as the night's top server with nine.

Margo Baronowski and Debbie Maguire were named as the top hitters by Stubenvoll. Baronowski and Kim Kratz shared those honors in the Canton loss.

Earlier last week, Northville dumped non-league foe Wayne Memorial, 15-7, 15-12 with Hopping getting 18 scoring serves, seven on aces. Maguire, Hopping and Baronowski were the top hitters.

High point of the night was when Maguire and Becky Albus teamed for a short set, an advanced technique that Stubenvoll said was "just perfect."

Novi volleyball had been up and down

OLV boys stay on top

Our Lady of Victory's 7th and 8th grade boys basketball team completed its second straight unbeaten league championship season Friday by edging St. Bernadines, 37-34.

Jim Harding scored 12 and Tim Sullivan 11 to help OLV hand St. Bernadines its second loss of the year.

OLV is now 18-1 for the season and has won 20 straight league games over the last two years.

OLV begins play in the single-game elimination citywide playoffs this weekend. Only teams who won more than half of their games are competing.

Even though it gets a new volleyball coach every year, the Novi squad is still in a position to post a respectable season.

The Ladycats, after an opening-game loss to Northville, won five of their next seven before hitting the skids with a three-game losing streak.

Their record is now 5-6 overall and 2-3 in league play and they hope to even both slates with a match against South Lyon Friday.

"They've been at a disadvantage," said coach Rose Riopelle. "In three years, they've had all new coaches."

She said she had a lot to learn about the game when she took over.

"I would like to start the whole thing over right now," she said. "With what I know and what they know, we could have a much better season."

Novi beat Dexter and Chelsea in league play, but lost to Brighton, Saline and Milan.

"The Milan coach said that was the first time they had played well," she said

That's because they won a thriller from Dexter that included a 19-17 score. Sue Beall and Sheri Alexander have recreation programs — with the assistance of Mustang gymnasts — are taking up some of the slack.

Interscholastic gymnastics is not offered at Novi High School, but the response to the local recreation department program may someday change that.

About 70 youngsters are taking one of four gymnastic classes, according to the department's director, Barry Smink.

Northville gymnasts Andy Conder, Dena Irwin, Britt Evans and Yvonne Swayze are doing a "fantastic job" as instructors, he says.

There are about 24 involved in the Northville program, which is limited to tumbling and floor exercises, taught by Natalie Folino and Joan Davis.

"They do a great job," says director Chuck Froberger. "I've had a lot of luck with high school students. They are really a good group."

There are also classes at Schoolcraft College, but they fill up quickly.

Early training is vital, according to Davis, because it is important to develop strength in the shoulders and arms.

"You have to be stronger to do gymnastics than any other sport," she says.

Northville, Novi recreation scorecard

Art Moran Pontiac dumped Northville Charlie's in the second half last week to turn the Northville Recreation basketball race back into a two-team contest

Athlete of the Week

JIM WRIGHT

Northville's Jim Wright started last week off well by cutting three seconds off his time of the week before in the 200 yard individual medley, but that was only the beginning. Two days later, he chopped off another four seconds for a total week's improvement of seven seconds between the Hookers and Moonkin Toys.

Those two teams remain tied for first as Moonkin swamped Fairway, 89-46, and the Hookers stopped Zayti, 67-46.

But Charlie's, who had moved within a game of the leaders, fell two games off the pace and into a third-place tie with Art Moran.

Trailing 35-30 at half, Moran shot into a 48-44 lead after three quarters and went on to win, 66-62.

Howard Boyer, Doug Rooney and O'Brian all had 14 points and Tim Rowayne added 10 for the winners. Dennis Mendyk with 17, Howard Inch with 14 and Tom Cusick with 13 paced Charlie's.

Moonkin tuned up for this week's showdown with the Hookers by outscoring Fairway 50-23 in the second half.

Howard Bennet led all scorers with 29, Jeff Moon added 20 and Steve Utley had 15 for Moonkin. Chuch Frogner and Ron Hubbard combined for 30 for Fairway.

The Hookers got 26 points from Mark Smolenski, 19 from Ron Denstedt and 12 from Rodney Lawrence to stay tied for first. Dale Griffith and Rick Bingley scored 18 and 16 for Zayti Fishers lost its last game of the season but still won the Novi Recreation basketball title with a 9-3 record.

Alma, which dumped Fisher in the last game of the year, tied for second with Moonkin Toys which dropped Masonary into fourth with two straight defeats.

S&S edged the Barrucas to stay out of the cellar, but neither team qualifies for the four-team tournament that has the semi-finals on Wednesday and the finals on Saturday.

Alma's Don Sheffield, who led the league with a 25 3 scoring average, poured in 31 in the 93-81 win over Fishers. Chuck Uhlinger and Billy Hall each added 21.

Glen Neimi and Phil

McMillan, the second leading scorer with a 21.5 average, combined for 35 for Fishers.

S&S got 18 points from Kevin Schultz, to get by the Barrucas, 62-57. Pat Patterson had 24 for the 'Cudas.

Howard Bennett scored 31 points, the first game and 20 the second to lead Moonkin to 97-82 and 94-76 wins over Masonary. Jeff Moon scored 41 in the two games to help the cause.

Masonary was led by Mike Campbell who had games of 30 and 29 and Greg Walker, who also scored 28 in one game.

In the first Novi invitational tournament, Dean Construction of Saline downed Leist Associates of Howell, 58-47 to win the title.

Police Blotter

One captured after police chase

In Novi . . .

Novi's Special Investigation Unit (surveillance unit) captured a Farmington Hills resident in possession of a stolen automobile after a high-speed chase back to his home.

According to surveillance officers, while on duty in the early morning hours of February 18 they learned that a car parked at a residence at 37515 Grand River in Farmington Hills was stolen. Officers contacted Farmington Hills Police who were tied up on other cases and could not assist.

At about 1 a.m. one subject entered the stolen vehicle while a second entered another car. Both cars were followed by the surveillance team into Livonia where they went down a dirt road called Northland on the west side of Newburgh between Eight and Seven Mile Roads.

The cars stopped and the subject in the stolen vehicle entered the second car. When surveillance officers tried to set up a roadblock to stop the car, the vehicle escaped by driving over a snowbank. A chase ensued at speeds up to 100 miles per hour to the Grand River residence where surveillance officers captured one of the subjects, later identified as Arley Cain, of that address, as he entered the house. The second subject, who is still being sought, escaped by fleeing into a field.

The case was turned over to Farmington Hills Police for follow-up and disposition. Cain was arraigned in 37th District Court of Michael J. Hand and released on $1,000 cash or surety bond. He was charged with receiving and concealing stolen goods.

The car had been stolen out of Detroit at about 8 a.m. February 17.

An escapee of Arizona State Prison, Harvey Lee Noles, was arrested by Novi Police in the area of Novi Road and Iva February 8 after he briefly tried to elude police in his car.

The police, who had been investigating the possibility Noles was in Novi, found a fully-loaded five-shot revolver on the driver's seat of the Noles vehicle. The gun had been stolen in Detroit December 11 of last year.

Noles was turned over to Southfield Police to be processed on a charge of armed robbery of the Franklin Pharmacy. Noles had escaped from Arizona State Prison on December 29.

Kenneth Maxwell, 36, of 41431 Glyme was arraigned before a United States Magistrate February 18 on a charge of mail fraud and was released on $10,000 personal bond after a plea of not guilty was entered.

Maxwell is being charged with 12 counts of mail fraud in connection with allegedly fraudulent attempts between 1972 and the present to receive funds from Banker's Life of Des Moines, Iowa by making modification or cancellations of insurance policies owned by his clients. Maxwell was an insurance agent in Southfield until last year.

February 16 between 8 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. a garage was entered in the 41000 area of 11 Mile Road and two tool boxes and a Wards' air compressor stolen. Total value of the items was $250.

According to police reports, a car had been stolen from the owner several months ago and the garage door opener was never recovered. There were no signs of forced entry in the latest incident.

A home left unlocked in the 24000 area of Olde Orchard was entered February 16 and $56 taken from the kitchen.

A 1975 Yamaha snowmobile was taken from a garage in the 40000 area of West 13 Mile Road February 16. The snowmobile, valued at $800, was taken from an unlocked garage.

Fire destroyed an $800 Pontiac Ventura parked at Guernsey Dairy, 21300 Novi Road February 16. Northville City Police Dispatchers informed Novi Police of the fire.

A stolen auto was recovered February 13 parked on the south shoulder of eastbound I-96 west of Haggerty Road. The vehicle, a 1972 Lincoln Continental, had been stripped on the interior and one of its rear tires was missing. The car had been stolen February 11 from Trevis Pizzeria in Livonia.

A CB in a parked car at 31336 Beachwalk was stolen after thieves February 15 smashed a rear window to gain entry. The CB, a Midland, was valued at $125.

Four spoke hubcaps valued at $195 were stolen from a 1977 Mercury February 10 parked in the 24200 area of Wilshire Court.

In Wixom . . .

A garage on West Maple Road was broken into with the owner reporting $200 in old coins and antiques taken. The incident was investigated by Wixom Police February 10.

Among the missing items were two small clocks and three old lamps along with a variety of old coins. Police have no suspects in the case.

Spare tires and their wheels were discovered missing from three new pick-up trucks parked in the salaried parking lot near the Wixom Road fence at the Ford Motor Company February 10.

In each case, the tire and wheel was removed from the holding bracket underneath the bed of the truck.

A locked station wagon parked at the Village Apartment complex was broken into with the owner reporting $247 in items missing from the car. The incident occurred sometime after 4 p.m. February 14 and 7 a.m. the following day.

A case of motor oil, four aluminum mag wheels, two tires and two stereo speakers were taken from the car.

Wixom police are investigating motives behind the firing of six shots into a car parked at the Ted Center home, 3128 Branch Drive.

Police theorize the shootings took place at about 11:30 p.m. Monday when one of the members of the Center home reported hearing some funny noises but failed to investigate.

The shots were fired through the rear window and trunk of the car. Rubber on the road indicated the culprits fled quickly after the shooting. Police so far have found only a fragment of a bullet and do not know what type of gun was used.

Living at the home is John Center, 18, who has been arraigned on charges of dealing with narcotics. The Internal Revenue Service is also investigating him concerning possible tax evasion.

The car was processed by Wixom police for evidence.

In Northville . . .

Northville City Police officers nabbed three men suspected of vehicle theft on a traffic arrest at Eight Mile and Beck Roads Sunday night.

The Northville Township owner of the stolen truck told police he had parked his vehicle at the Innsbrook Apartment complex at 9 p.m. Saturday and discovered it missing the next morning.

City officers saw a truck similar to the one described in a police bulletin issued by the township. They began tailing the truck at Eight Mile and Taft resulting in the traffic stop at Beck.

The driver of the car, David Ramsey, 21, of Plymouth was arrested and charged with receiving and concealing stolen goods valued at over $100. The felony charge carries a five-year sentence.

Ramsey, who police say did not attempt to flee and offered no resistance on arrest, was arraigned Tuesday morning in 35th District Court, Northville. His two passengers, also taken into custody at the time of the arrest, were let go with no charges pending.

Evidence found at Black's Hardware Store on Main Street disclosed a beer bottle had been used as the tool for the window smashing episode.

The $300 window was thought to have been broken sometime between 11:30 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. the next morning.

A second window at a residence on West Dunlap Street was thought to have been broken by a snowball. The owner reported the incident at 8:45 p.m. Friday.

In Township . . .

A house under construction on Winchester was entered through an unlocked garage door last week with vandals splashing paint on both the walls and woodwork of the front room.

Paint was also poured in the middle of the floor. Police reports indicate someone attempted to light the paint with matches.

The windshield of a car parked in the 19800 area of Crystal Lake Street was smashed with what appeared to Northville Township Police to be a heavy object.

In the incident, which occurred Saturday sometime between 2 a.m. and 11:30 a.m., damage was estimated to be $100.

Nine patients at the Northville State Hospital left the grounds by various methods last week. Of the nine, three are still sought by the Michigan State Police.

One patient committed on a 60-day court charge failed to return from a visitation leave. That patient, considered not dangerous, has not yet been located.

The female patients were found missing. The female walked away from the hospital grounds while the two male patients left the training center.

The men were located and returned to the facility. The female patient is still sought.

A court-committed female patient, considered dangerous, left the hospital grounds and is still sought. Her disappearance was discovered at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Four male patients broke a window in their unit to gain freedom from the hospital. All four, who were considered dangerous by authorities, were apprehended by the Livonia Police Department just hours after their escape.

Alcohol Awareness classes to begin soon

Another in a series of alcohol awareness programs will begin March 10 under the sponsorship of the 35th District Court and the Northville Jaycees.

Programs will be held in the court facility located on the second floor in the Plymouth City Hall, 205 South Main Street.

Programs are open to the public. Each begins at 8 p.m.

"Anyone curious about alcohol or alcoholism and the effect it has on the mind, body and lives of people is welcome to attend," said a Jaycee spokesman.

"Most of the meetings are of the discussion type and questions will be answered regarding treatment facilities in this area."

The March 10 program will feature a discussion by Dr. Frank Hollingsworth on "Pharmacology of Alcohol — Effect on Body-Physical."

Dr. Hollingsworth also will address the second session on Thursday, March 17. His topic: "Progression of Alcohol-Disease Concept."

The third and final session in this March series will be held on March 24. Planned is a panel discussion on how alcohol affected the lives of alcoholics and how AA and Alanon helped them.

Novi Senior Citizens

About 50 members attended the potluck covered dish luncheon at the Novi United Methodist Church on 10 Mile on Wednesday. Plans were made for assistant tour director Nat Adams to accompany 16 members of the group to the Shrine Circus on Wednesday, February 16.

The next meeting will be February 22 Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Novi Community Building, 26360 Novi Road. Those in charge of the refreshments were Dollie Alegnani, Irene Neutz, and Wilma Wagonis. Plans were made for the trip to the Ice Capades Saturday, March 19.

Reservations cost $3.75 and include bus transportation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Klasener of Beck Road have returned from spending the winter in Dunedin, Florida. Mrs. Klasener is convalescing at home following an extended illness in Neece Hospital in Florida.

Snowmobile group at St. Ignace this weekend included Mr. and Mrs. Tymensky, Mr. and Mrs. Harbin, Mr. and Mrs. Hesse, Herb Harbin and Dave Tyler.

Mr. Edwin Steinberger of Meadowbrook has returned home following surgery at University Hospital and a stay of five days. He will be convalescing at home for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. William Fox of Glenda Street entertained their pinocle club on Saturday evening. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bristol of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Johns of Livonia, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schingbeck of Novi.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ortwin of Stassen Street have returned from visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ken Faulkner, former residents of Novi, now living in Rockford. Mrs. Rich (Cheryl) Ortwin of Seeley Road was guest of honor Monday evening at a baby shower at the home of Mrs. Marvin Tobel of Strathaven. About 15 guests were present.

Mrs. Millie McHale entertained the Birthday Club at her home on Clarke Street Tuesday evening.

The North Novi Civic Association met at the Community Building on Tuesday. Discussion was held regarding sponsoring a Baseball Team this year. Plans were made for Gala Days.

The NESPO group met on Tuesday evening and made plans for its March 11 cup cake sale at 10 cents apiece with proceeds to go into needs for the school.

A reminder of the new American Legion Post Number 19, Novi meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow night, February 24 at the American Legion Post No. 147 in Northville.

Athletic Booster Club

March 2 is the date for the next meeting of this group which is open to anyone interested in helping the athletic program in the Novi Schools. Meetings are held at the high school and anyone with questions regarding the aims and goals can call 349-0228. Final plans will be made at this meeting for the dance scheduled March 5 which is open to the community. Tickets are available but members are asked to get their money and unsold tickets in as soon as possible. Plans will be worked on for the Winter Sports Banquet to be held March 21.

Novi Boy Scouts

At the Court of Honor meeting in January, the following Service awards were given: One year to Wayne Limbriht, Steve La Rievre, Mike Kamish and Mike Brewster; two year awards — Mike Rice, Greg McComas, Jim Madgan; three year awards — Terry Smith; and five year award to Randy Tharp. Community Service awards were given to the following adults: One year — Bob Limbriht, Dave Kamish and Elaine Smith; two years — Andy McComas and Gordon Wilcox; three year — Diane Smith and five year — Norman Young and Bill Rice. The boys are continuing to grow in number and now have 20 paid up members for the coming year.

Friends of the Library

Friends of the Library is sponsoring a full length Disney movie "Hound Who Thought He Was a Raccoon" Saturday, February 26, at 2 p.m. This will be an hour long. There is no admission, but please call the Library if you plan to bring your children. There has been some interest shown in a book discussion group in the area. If you are interested, please call Mrs. Flattery at the Library.

Novi Girl Scouts

All Scouts will be receiving their camp folders about March 15 for both Camp Narrin with overnite camping and Camp Arapho for day camp participation. There is still time to get those gift certificates from the Girl Scout office to help defray the cost to camp for your favorite Girl Scout or Brownie. One week has been set aside this year for Brownies to go to overnight camping at Narrin which is new. Day camp in our area will be July 11 - 18 with a cost of $15. Workers are needed. Contact Mrs. Shirley Brooks at 349-5377.

Girl Scout cookies will start being delivered on March 5. If you didn't get your order in or need more, contact your leader for information.

Novi Jaycee Auxiliary

The general membership meeting was held February 22 at the Novi Woods Community Room. Reports were heard of the very successful "Mystery" dinner and Gong Show held February 12 and attended by 110 people. Members of the auxiliary are presenting the Learning Tree to the Kindergarten and First Grade at the Elementary Schools February 23 - 25 both morning and afternoon classes.

National Campers and Hikers

A reminder of the next meeting of this group February 26 at the home of Russ Fertitta on Ennishore. If your family enjoys camping, whether it's tents, motor homes, fifth wheelers, etc., this group is interested in hearing from you. Plans will be made for their first campout in the very near future. For information call president Robert Letarte at 349-2064.

Orchard Hills Booster Club

The officers would like to thank all their parents for a very successful meeting last week when teachers and parents discussed new teaching techniques. Starting very soon under the direction of Joan Bushman will be the Art Appreciation project when copies of well known prints will be available for them to look at. Again, March 24 - 25 will be the Book Fair. Books will be available for sale for self or for gifts. The Booster Club has decided to purchase a new copying machine for the school with the money from their bazaar profits.

Novi Rebekah Lodge

Noble Grand Evelyn Cotter has made the following appointments to committees: Finance — Chairman Laree Bell, Alice Hopkins, Doris Darling; Memorial Staff — Kathryn Bachert, and Doris Darling; Wixom and Walled Lake Area Flower Fund — Lillian Byrd; Hospital — Nellie Rackov; Publicity — Eileen Campbell and Cathy Crawford. The next regular meeting will be Thursday, February 24 with plans being made for the next visitation to be held March 7 at District No. 6 at Royal Oak No. 393. Sisters Evelyn Cotter, Frances Curtis and Betty Harbin attended the Deputy Study Club for luncheon and School of Instruction. Sister Elsie Brooks is now staying at the home of her daughter Opal Ramsey while convalescing.

Business and Professional Women

Phyllis Harrison, who owns her own insurance agency, will be the guest speaker February 24 at 6:30 p.m. at the Michigan National Bank, West Oakland, on 10 Mile. She is a member of The Royal Oak B.P.W. Club, past state president of the Michigan Federation, and has been recently chosen Woman of the Year. Reservations can be placed by calling Carolyn at 349-7200. Cost is $4.50. This group is interested in new members, and any woman who is gainfully employed is eligible for membership. Plan now to come to this meeting, have dinner and become acquainted with the present membership.

Novi Youth Assistance

Barry Smink, the new Parks and Recreation director was guest speaker and gave a very informative talk regarding the opportunities open to youngsters in the community for the summer, months in the way of recreation. Discussion of opening a teen center similar to the one sponsored by this group several years ago was held and will be looked into. There is a need for workers on the camp committee. Call Clara Porter.

Parents Without Partners

Family skiing is available tonight at the Kandahar Ski Club near Brighton. You can pack and cook your dinner in the club house. Maps are available by calling 349-7068.

Urges Novi school boundary change

At least one person is in favor of removing Brookland Farms from the Northville School District and adding it to the Novi School District.

At last week's Novi School Board meeting, Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz read a letter from Robert W. Simpson of 43588 Cottisford in Brookland Farms asking about procedures which must be followed to change to the Novi School District.

"It seems only natural for Brookland Farms to be part of the Novi School System," wrote Simpson.

"We live in either the City of Novi or Novi Township. We would be closer geographically to Novi High School rather than Northville High.

"It also seems odd that the Meadowbrook Lake people will be attending Novi High School when we in Brookland Farms are of a less distance.

The Report Card

Novi school events reviewed

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the first in a series of monthly columns by Jackie Lawrence of the Novi Education Association reporting on activities of interest at each of Novi's schools. She can be contacted at the high school, 349-5155.

Novi High School

On January 21, 38 Novi High School seniors completed "early completion requirements". Of these students, 10 have gone directly into full-time permanent employment, 16 into full-time employment with the intent of entering college in the fall, four are in college full time, and three are attending college part-time. Most of these early graduates will return in June to participate in graduation exercises.

The 32 members of the French, Spanish and German Clubs visited Livonia's Ardmore Hospital in December. The group made wreaths with the patients, provided refreshments and sang Christmas carols.

French, German and Spanish Club representatives Sherie Robbins, Heidi Piosch, and Joanne Kazmireczak visited the Northville State Hospital in December to spread some Christmas cheer. They took presents, cookies and punch. Teacher Rosemary Crippen accompanied the group.

High School Principal Dr. Helen

Ditzhazy attended the National Association for Secondary School Principals convention January 14-19 in New Orleans. Dr. Ditzhazy was a speaker at the convention.

Novi Middle School

Eighth grader Sherrie Crowe and seventh grader Ralph Beebe were recently honored by the Novi Jaycees for their contributions to the "What America Means to Me" essay contest. Each received a $25 savings bond.

Sherrie's topic was "Expand the Government's Program in Aid for the American Indian" while Ralph's topic was "Help Prevent Crime — Strengthen our Gun Control Laws".

Novi Woods

The kindergarten and pre-school teachers, Marianne Aldrich and Dennis Lampron have been working with students on "What Foods Help Us Grow Strong?" The children have been learning that fruit, vegetables, meat and cereal grow strong bodies while sugared cereal, pop and candy do not. For emphasis, the teachers serve carrots, apples, bananas, raisins, cheese or the like as daily snacks.

IDEAL, of Introduction to Decision Education Through Affective Learning, was a series of workshops on decision-making skills for teachers to use with students in the classroom. The workshops, held during the entire first semester and attended by the entire staff, were aimed at improving teacher effectiveness.

The Book Fair is coming: March 23, 24, and 25.

Orchard Hills

A kitchen poster contest was held the week of January 17 to celebrate International Week. The contestants were to create a poster which represented a particular country.

Winners were: first grade, Jill Sobkow — Claire Gaisert teacher; second grade, Mathew Kamish — Mary Knauer, teacher; third grade, Laurie Drogmiller — Cathy Carangi teacher; fourth grade, Teri Moritz — Ruth Tait, teacher; fifth grade, Susy Mooney — Roc Fuentes, teacher.

A free lunch was given to each winner. Judges were Dr. Gerald Kratz, Dr. William Barr, Ella McMillan, and Yvonne Stevens.

Village Oaks

Gregg Balko's fifth grade class has been working on colonial projects to emphasize what life was like prior to the American Revolution.

Sara Sass and her fourth grade class visited the Michigan State Capitol January 25. There the students met state Senator Daniel Cooper and Representative Richard Fessler. The students also observed both houses of congress in session.

+++++

Mrs. Sass's class recently completed national genealogies, a beginning to ethnic studies unit which culminates in the annual International Festival planned for May 13.

Township rejects field light funds

A proposal to apply for shared federal and state funding for lighting for tennis courts and ball diamonds at the fish hatchery property at an estimated cost of $150,000 was shot down by the Northville Township Board at its February meeting.

Recreation Director Charles Froeberger had asked permission to apply for a HUD grant. Cost to the city and township, it was estimated, would then be $37,500 each.

Supervisor Wilson Grier pointed out to Froeberger that the township already has committed itself to giving a library building on township property at Six Mile Road top priority for HUD funding.

He said he also, "is not particularly interested in lighting fields."

Trustee John Swienkowski agreed, stating, "I think we could have many other (recreation) priorities than lighting. Board members also questioned the amount the lighting would cost, indicating it seemed high.

Froeberger said it was just an estimate.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen said there would be increased recurring expenses with night lighting bills. It was agreed that lighting would benefit adults more than youngsters.

Froeberger asked for direction from the board regarding priorities. Dr. Swienkowski suggested rest room facilities, water and seating at the hatchery property, and added that development of a nature trail would be fine with him.

Margaret Tegge pointed out that there is little recreation facility in the Six Mile area where she lives and suggested tennis courts for the township property.

Grier said he was "taking a look at recreation for the east side of the township."

Clerk Clarice Sass reported that she had just been appointed to serve on the recreation subcommittee of the Council on Regional Development to fill out a term to June 30, 1977, by Conrad L. Mallett, chairperson of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

She asked for input with the item to be placed on the agenda of a special meeting set for March 3

In discussing recreation facilities, Dr. Swienkowski observed that he feels local schools are being used only marginally and that he would like to see groups using meeting rooms in schools rather than having to build structures.

New president

NEA picks LeBoeuf

Barbara LeBoeuf, a high school social studies teacher, was elected as the new president of the Northville Education Association in elections held last Wednesday.

She replaces outgoing president Naomi Poe.

LeBoeuf was one of five high school teachers elected for six posts and that may be significant in setting the tone of teacher - administrative relations for the upcoming year.

Although the current three-year contract was narrowly ratified throughout the district, it was emphatically rejected by the high school staff.

Other officers elected were Stephanie Kelly, first vice-president; Cheryl Mallette, second vice-president; Marilyn Dwyer, secretary; Robert Trombley, treasurer; and Robert Sharrar, regional council representative.

All but Mallette, who teaches at Winchester Elementary, work at the high school.

Residents involved with guild play

Patricia Bray and Robyn McLean, both Northville residents of King's Mill, have been very involved in the Plymouth Theatre Guild's upcoming production, "We Have Always Lived in the Castle."

Ms. Bray is directing the guild's third production for the 1976-77 season this Friday and Saturday and March 4 and 5.

It will be given at Plymouth Central Middle School with an 8 p.m. curtain for all performances. Tickets will be sold at the door at $2 for children under 12 and senior citizens and $3 for adults.

Ms. McLean has the role of Mrs. Wright in the play, described as an intense drama in the macabre style about a family named Blackwood. Years ago the Blackwoods were victims of what was termed an "accident". There was arsenic in the sugar bowl with three survivors and four fatalities.

A series of events throughout the show lead to the discovery of what really happened on the tragic day.

Seven Novi teachers apparently will be pink slipped by the Novi School Board.

That was revealed at last week's school board meeting when it was announced in an information report that 13 tenure teachers remain who could request a return to duty when their leaves expire after this school year.

To be pink slipped are elementary teachers Susan Besneatte, Cynthia Howsom, Frank Rayburn, Michael Trumbull and Kate Wilson. High School business teacher Pamela McFarlane and speech therapist Kathi Cohen are also included on the list. All seven of the teachers are probationary teachers and under contracts can be bumped by returning tenure teachers.

Based upon contract with many of the 13 tenure teachers whose leaves of absences expire, the administration determined that at a maximum just seven teachers would be replaced. The number could be less and which teachers would end up being laid off depends upon the area of expertise of any returning tenure teacher.

Based upon contracts, any teachers who may be laid off must be notified of that possibility by 90 days before the end of the school year.

Contest focus on physical ed

Posters bearing the theme of movement activities, sports, physical fitness or recreation will be displayed at the Northville Square as part of National Physical Education and Sport Week, March 1 through 7.

The posters, which are being made by students at Silver Springs and Winchester elementary, are being judged and the five winners will compete for state and national honors.

The contest, sponsored by the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, aims at promoting good physical education programs.

The theme of the poster display will be "Get Moving America".

Square hosts antique show

An antique show will be held Thursday through Saturday in the community room of Northville Square shopping center. The free show will be under the direction of Helen Meisel and Ruby Fleming.

The amount of daylight in living rooms is affected by the placement of glass areas, the finishes of walls and ceilings, as well as draperies, curtains and shades.

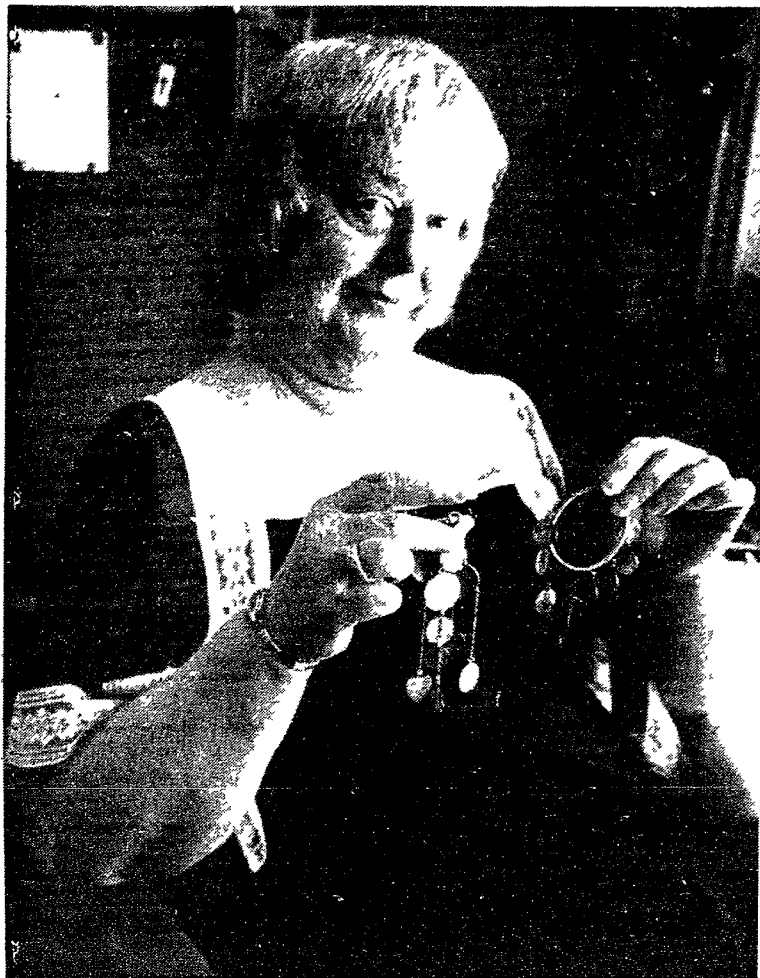

In general, the upper half of a window admits diffused light from the sky; the lower half from the ground and nearby shrubbery which are much darker than the sky. It is good to group windows in the living room so as to have a naturally lighted expanse, which reduces spotty interior effects, and gives an unbroken background for the furniture.

Brighten up your walls with a new coat of paint or beautiful wallcoverings from GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. Engraved coins treasured as love tokens

Norma Killinger displays tokens

Canadian Victorian coin's a sentimental love token

By JEAN DAY

February is the month for lovers. It's the time for tokens of love.

In olden days betrothals and weddings were occasions for the exchange of love coins, more frequently called love tokens.

Created by grinding one side of a coin smooth, usually a silver one, the tokens later were engraved with initials of the giver and presented to family and friends as the symbol of a different type of love.

Today these tokens are collectibles.

Last Wednesday Norma Killinger brought her large collection dating to the 16th century to the meeting of Silver Springs Questers at the home of Martha Lyon and talked about this little-known type of folk art.

"Dimes most frequently were used when the fashion appeared in the United States and Canada after becoming popular in Europe," she explained, giving us the peak of its popularity here from 1880-1890.

Mrs. Killinger has been collecting the coins, sometimes made into necklaces, watch fobs and bracelets, since 1960.

"It's not the cost," she said, mentioning that she has not added many to her collection recently, "but you just can't find them."

Numismatists (money and medal collectors), she said, sometimes have such coins in their collections. Some dealers, she added, have personal collections, but the coins, considered defaced, actually are low in intrinsic value.

As with most antiques, she pointed out, they are most valuable to collectors of them.

Her collection includes love token bracelets that were a craze of Victorian schoolgirls who exchanged tokens with initials of the giver. A dime token in her collection, finely engraved with the name "Maud," also boasts a tiny, engraved bird, as does a Canadian silver coin of Victoria Regina in her middle years.

Some coins are engraved on both sides and are considered love tokens, also.

"If this is the case," Mrs. Killinger instructed, "look for the reeding on the edge that indicates it was a coin."

Sometimes initials or designs were enameled on coins. These colorful pieces are included in her collection of tokens, but she pointed out that not all collectors consider them valid love tokens.

Coins with the head or design cut out she called "whimsy pieces." There's a current popularity of silver dollar or half-dollar coins so cut.

After 1900, the speaker recalled, it was illegal to deface or melt coins in this country, and love tokens no longer were made here. This ruling has been changed, she added, and now is not illegal if there is no intent to defraud. "It has been determined," Mrs. Killinger explained, "that the coin belongs to you."

There is a great variance in the quality of engraving on the tokens, some having been the fine work of a jeweler and others the pin-hole work of English sailors or prisoners.

Mrs. Killinger has a dime-size coin minutely engraved with the Lord's Prayer as an example of the former and a sketch of the Morro Castle as an example of the latter.

Many young girls in the second half of the 1800's must have acquired their love tokens at fairs and carnivals where the pitchman or a jeweler engraved a beau's initials.

During World War II American soldiers overseas resurrected the art with foreign coins, often making them into bracelets.

While some of the speaker's tokens have been used to make stickpins, necklaces and bracelets, most of her collection is of coins alone. They are neatly displayed in boxes catalogued by design and type. Since so little is known or has been written about the love tokens, she hesitates to place a value on the collection but does not keep it at home.

"When I wrote the Smithsonian to ask if it had any information," she said, "there was nothing, but I have been invited to display my collection there for a month."

She has acquired some tokens by advertising in hobby magazines.

Mrs. Killinger particularly treasures a bracelet she acquired as the result of an ad from a woman in Seattle, Washington. It was created with 11 dimes with interesting engravings. But it is having its history that most appeals to Mrs. Killinger.

The bracelet had belonged to the seller's mother and was given to her when she was a girl in Cheyenne, Wyoming, about 1872. The initials were those of friends. One token, engraved with the name "Dick," the former owner thought, might have been her father, who was a captain at Fort Laramie.

The younger sister of the bracelet owner married Duncan Hines.

Another piece, a three-token necklace, must have held special sentiment as "Mama," "Papa" and "John" are engraved.

A large Spanish Hispan coin must have celebrated a birth as the engraving reads, "Mary Nickson, born May 11, 1769."

"When a love token collector finds a coin with his own initials," Mrs. Killinger observed, "the seller can almost name his price."

Token marked birth

She has a coin with her initials but all her sentimental coins are treasured. A true collector, she noted that "I've never sold a love token."

'You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown'

OLV plans dinner theatre

Dinner theatre is making its debut in Northville with students at Our Lady of Victory school presenting "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" at 7 p.m. March 4.

The roast beef-baked haddock dinner at the church will be catered by the Northville Park Haus with proceeds from the event going to the National Fund for Sister Arline Schmeer, a Dominican Sister working in research on anticancer agents of marine origin.

Cast as Charlie Brown in the musical comedy is Scott Faustyn with Beth Mellish as Lucy and Donna Olson as Snoopy.

Philip Beaudoin is the pianist, Schroeder, and Jim Rose is Linus.

Martha Alsbaugh and Maureen McGillis are student directors.

Tickets now are on sale at the OLV school office at $8 for adults and $6 for senior citizens, who are 62 or older or are a grandparent.

The dinner also is to include whipped potatoes, corn O'Brien, three-bean salad, tossed salad, a relish try, rolls and coffee or tea.

Staging for the musical is being handled by Jane Westervelt, chairman, and Beth Storm, co-chairman, assisted by Richard Steele, Christopher Schrot, Paula Witmer, Karen Sledz, Amy Turnock, Leshe Nadeau, Heidi Wagner, Carrie Oswald, Lisa Dewan, Peter Byberg, Todd Krygier, Sean Morrissey and Nancy Bustamante.

Working on the program are Mrs. Roxanne Secrest, Lisa Wooden, Aimee Jacques, Sharon Dotson, Carolyn Kummer and Susan Koziara.

Jackie Brielmaier is ticket chairman with Michelle Marino, co-chairman, and Candy DiComo, Suzette Beaudoin, Kim Assenmacher and Diane Drolshagen assisting.

Handling publicity are Mrs. Secrest, Therese Kewel, chairman, Marie Gannon, co-chairman, Cathy McSweeney, Gretchen Mellish, Sandra Klocke and Donna Schlachter.

The dinner theatre has been planned to raise funds to send to Sister Schmeer, whose long-term interest in cancer began during her undergraduate studies at the College of St. Mary of the Springs.

Her background includes a Ph.D. from University of Colorado Medical Center's School of Medicine and research at the University of Wurzburg, Germany, and serving as an international consultant as well as active participation in the International Cancer Congress.

A fellowship study at Woods Hole, Massachusetts, in 1962, led to her discovery that spontaneous cancer is an extremely rare occurrence in marine invertebrate animals.

The marine clam, commonly known as the little neck and cherrystone, was found to have the greatest concentration of anticancer activity and the least toxicity in experimental animals.

It is reported that the clam extract is effective in other animal models and human tissue culture.

In October, 1972, Dr. Schmeer joined the American Medical Center research team at Denver and for the past three years has been supported through the hospital's regular funding sources.

She now is seeking outside financial sponsorship.

Rehearsing are Beth Mellish, Lucy; Donna Olson, Snoopy; and Philip Beaudoin, Schroeder

Home tour to feature Highland Lakes condo

Condo owner Pam Rosenberg welcomes Glad Evans, left, and Margie Davis, tour co-chairmen, as she agrees to open her home in September

By JEAN DAY

For the first time, a condominium will be included among homes to be open on the annual Northville Home Tour. Pam and Charles Rosenberg have agreed to open their home on Leidel Court in Highland Lakes for Northville's 11th tour to benefit Northville Historical Society and First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

While the tour isn't until September 22, co-chairmen Glad Evans and Margie Davis of the Presbyterian Church with Jackie Daniels and Joanne Kissel of the historical society already are finalizing homes to be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. that day.

Because of last year's day-long crowds, it has been decided to have seven homes on the tour this year, giving those attending choices. While the list isn't completely finalized, the chairmen promise it will include a blend of historic and new houses.

Last year's tour broke both attendance and profit records with 1,791 tour visitors making possible a profit of $5,100 with each sponsor receiving $2,550. The first home tours were sponsored by the Presbyterian women. When they became an instant success with many vintage homes open the historical society became co-sponsor.

Through the years the women of St. Paul's Lutheran Church have served a luncheon the day of the tour. This year the Methodist women will do so, also, and the docent group at the Mill Race Village will offer luncheon and a tour of the village buildings.

Committees already are at work on this year's arrangements. Chairmen and officers are Mary Esther Fountain, hostesses; Pat Wright, Jean VanDam, tickets; Martha Nield, Pat Stringer, publicity; Rose Beaudoin, Jewel Luckett, corresponding secretaries; Grace Reed, treasurer; Nancy Wistert, Carol Forrer, staging; Carol Butske, posters.

A highlight of the 1977 tour is certain to be the Rosenbergs' condo where interior shutters and checked wallpaper are background for their Quimper china and antiques. Mrs. Rosenberg's parents, Alice and Richard Kay, are former Northville residents now living in Grosse Pointe and long have collected antiques.

Are you going dancing?

About 400 are expected to attend the annual Northville Historical Society dinner dance this Saturday at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. Chairman Ann Brueck reported Monday that she is receiving a flurry of last-minute reservations and will accept any and arrange for tables through today. She may be reached at 349-2250. Proceeds of the $25-a-couple event are used for Mill Race Village restoration work.

A feature of this year's dance, Mrs. Brueck added, will be five special door prizes of copies of "Northville — the First 100 Years," a history of our community by Jack Hoffman.

Florida reunion sets record

Temperatures in the high 70's are credited with helping make the annual florida reunion of past and present Northville residents wintering in Florida a success. The Leonard Kleins, back from a southern vacation, report that a record 118 people gathered February 11 in the terrace room of the Crown House Restaurant in Bradenton.

Chairmen John and Versal Blackburn were so pleased that he agreed to plan next year's reunion. Among those present were former township supervisor Gunnar Stromberg and his wife, Kenneth Ratherts, Donald Wares, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cummings, Bob Frost, Peg Weidner, Lillian Herbstreit, the Russell Clarkes, Roy Stone and the Fred McLeans.

Sally, Chris, Tim make music

A folk night held last evening in Buell Hall on the Eastern Michigan University campus starred three children of the Thomas Johnsons of 47234 Dunsany in Northville. It was organized by Sally Johnson, a junior at EMU and a residential advisor on fourth floor of Buell Hall.

She and her brothers, Chris and Tim, played their guitars. All have performed in past folk nights there as individuals and groups who play guitar and sing are brought together. Chris, a member of the Northville Board of Education, is a senior at University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Tim is a junior at Northville High and a member of the band here.

It's tennis for Newcomers

The tennis balls will be provided at a tennis party planned by Northville Newcomers Club for 7:45 p.m. (sharp) March 12 at the Farmington Racquet Club. There also will be pop and beer included for the $15 a couple charge, reports President Claudia Berry. Cathy Coultrip, 348-1676, is taking reservations until March 1.

Christine Sorenson wed

Christine Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Sorenson of 48227 West Seven Mile in Northville, became the bride of Robin Lee Billings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Billings of Stanton, Michigan, January 29.

Reverend Phillip Magee of First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth officiated at the afternoon, double-ring ceremony in the church chapel.

The bride chose a long, white gown of silk jersey fashioned with v-neckline and full sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and white carnations tied with streamers.

A reception followed for friends and relatives at the home of the bride's parents.

MR. AND MRS. BILLINGS

League lists luncheon for prospects

A luncheon for prospective members as well as an orientation for new members is being planned by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi.

It will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. next Tuesday, March 1, at the Plymouth home of Sally Posthill, 12127 Arrowhead Court.

Anyone interested in attending this informational meeting and luncheon is invited to call membership chairman Karen Miller, 455-0630, or President Annalee Mathes, 349-7334. Child care will be provided.

Energy will be among the topics discussed at an open meeting of the league at 9 a.m. March 9 at the home of Bev McAninch, 539 South Sheldon, Plymouth.

A movie on energy will be shown to help inform the league and guests on solutions as well as problems relating to energy. The U.S. League of Women Voters has been conducting a two-year study of energy.

There also will be a slide presentation about women running for political office, entitled, "Are YOU a Potential Candidate?"

Child care will be provided. The public is welcome and asked to call Mrs. Mathes for more information.

Meghan Stephan joins family

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Stephan of 21717 North Center in Northville have named their new daughter, born February 8 at St. Mary Hospital, Meghan Christine.

She weighed seven pounds, fourteen ounces and joins a sister, Robin, 8, at home.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Case Kalinski of Dearborn Heights and Mrs. Dorothy Stephan of Livonia.

B. W. Behrman takes bride in Rhode Island

Bradley Ward Behrman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Behrman of 18275 Jamestown Circle in Northville, took Veronica Lee Barks as his bride in a 4 p.m. candlelight ceremony February 19 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester R. Barks, in Narragansett, Rhode Island.

Chief Justice Edgar J. Timothy officiated. A reception was held at Quiddeset Country Club in Warwick.

Attending from this area were his parents and Dr. and Mrs. Donald Nafe and their children of Plymouth. Mrs. Nafe is the bridegroom's sister.

Mrs. Gary Marks was matron of honor for her sister. Ronald Sharpin of Wellesley, Massachusetts, was best man. Ushers were Gary Marks and Alan Shuman.

The bride, a graduate of Rhode Island College, received her master's degree, summa cum laude, from Providence College in elementary and secondary school administration. Presently she is an elementary education teacher in the Warwick School System.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He received a bachelor's degree in civil engineering and a master's degree in water resource engineering. He currently is a project engineer associated with Metcalf and Eddy Environmental Engineering Company in Boston.

After vacationing in Hawaii, they will live in Massachusetts.

Northville PTA News

Bette Nowka serves as curriculum council 'voice'

Northville PTA news is compiled by volunteer Joan Mandell, 349-6563. It appears on the last Wednesday of the month during the school year.

K-12 CURRICULUM COUNCIL

Bette Lynn Nowka is the PTA Coordinating Council's representative on the Northville Public Schools' K-12 Curriculum Council.

It is significant to note that this is the first time there has been a parent representative on the council, composed of teachers and administrators from each school in Northville.

Mrs. Nowka has two children at Winchester Elementary and two at Mead's Mill Junior High.

After passage of the millage last year, the council was re-formed with the purpose of acting as a sounding board, to review and recommend programs that come before the council, to review and evaluate innovative programs and to make recommendations on a district-wide basis for program improvement.

The council serves as a body that has a voice in planning, developing, implementing and evaluating a K-12 district-wide curriculum program.

"I am excited and impressed with the progress of the council at this point in the school year. Each member is working hard to improve and develop a curriculum that will truly meet the needs of our children."

"In-depth studies of curriculum subject areas are being conducted at the elementary, junior high and high school levels. Strong and weak areas are being defined. Evaluations of existing curriculum and requirements are being made to determine need, continuity and uniformity of subject matter.

"The K-12 Curriculum Council is a positive force in our school community and a vehicle for parent and educator input to provide the best education for our children. The council seeks and encourages the community to voice views on curriculum needs and to provide positive input," reports Mrs. Nowka.

For further information call Mrs. Nowka at 455-0128.

SILVER SPRINGS

February is known to be a dull month, but the children, teachers and parents at Silver Springs are making it an active one.

Some of the students took field trips to Greenfield Village to see a weaving demonstration that explained where our fabrics come from and how they are made into cloth.

Another group went to the Detroit Science Center and had an informative trip.

Last week all celebrated Valentine's Day with sweet-treat parties.

The Science Fair at the end of the month is coming up fast; so students entering are working extra hard on their own special projects.

Teachers and students together are beginning to make plans for their June PTA Fair.

The PTA will hold a Special Services Personnel Presentation at 7:30 p.m. today for all interested parents. This evening special education teachers and the reading specialist will discuss the services available to the children.

Plans are also in the works for a

WINCHESTER

"Too bad we have to stop so early" was the lament of many of the 186 fathers and daughters who attended Father and Daughter Night February 9 at Winchester Elementary. The girls surprised their dads with neckerchiefs as favors. Then Mrs. Nicole Anderson, who was in charge of the event, surprised the girls with neckerchiefs for them also.

Mike Trombley, a professional caller, directed the square dance activities. He included the Hokey Pokey and the Bunny Hop on the program.

The enthusiastic dancers sat at tables covered with checked tablecloths munching pretzels and potato chips, and quenching their thirst with lots of pop between dances.

Each school will be setting up its own Plus Program for the rest of the year. The Plus Program at Winchester will begin February 28 under the direction of Miss Diane Madej.

Mrs. Carol Schaal, a first grade E.S.Y. teacher, is forming a publication company for grades one, two, and three. Each child will compile and publish his or her own book. All the children will have the opportunity to read the books published by their classmates.

March 3 will be Mother and Son Night for the fourth, fifth and sixth grades with the activities beginning at 7:30 p.m. Relay races and the Walt Disney cartoon movie, "Ben and Me," are on the agenda.

Election for the executive offices of Winchester PTA will be held in the afternoon of March 24. Following the election a program tracing the history of education will be presented.

March 4 Mrs. Carol Swienkowski will present a first aid program to the service squad.

Joyce Murdock, publicity

MORaine

Several activities are being planned by Moraine PTA for children and their fathers.

On February 24 a square dance for fifth-sixth grade girls and their fathers will be held at Moraine after dinner.

March 8 will bring a pool party at the high school for second, third and fourth grade boys and girls with their fathers.

A pool party for fifth and sixth grade boys and their dads will be held March 15. Cakes and chips will be served at all these functions.

Moraine will host a pre-science fair for its own students Thursday. All children are encouraged to display their science fair project at Moraine before taking it to Cooke Junior High school Monday.

More noon hour aides have been requested by the PTA board because of the tremendous amount of students who stay for lunch each day.

Money earned from the various fund raisers this year at Moraine is being applied towards the purchase of a new piece of equipment for the playground. Hopefully, this can be installed before the end of the school year.

COOKE JUNIOR HIGH

A new elective class is being offered to Cooke E.S.Y. seventh, eighth and ninth grade students. It is called S.E.A. R.C.H. and replace, yet includes home economics and the Cooke newspaper.

The initials stand for the full name: Selective Elective and Resource Class Hour. This title was chosen by the students themselves.

The class, taught by Ms. Marilyn Collins and Mrs. Carol Pasco, will include mini-courses lasting one to three weeks. Planned subjects are Spanish, novels, debate, careers, speech and drama, model building and hobbies, photography, exercise, bird watching and making a movie. There are 35 students in the class and it meets once a day.

Student Council of Cooke sponsored an activity day February 18 after school. A variety of activities were offered including dancing, and gym-related sports. Soft drinks and snacks were sold. Students from the seventh, eighth and ninth grades attended.

DECEMBER POLICE REPORT Mayor Allen asked for any questions.
Councilman Vernon asked if there was any particular age group involved in the D.U.I. Captain Westfall commented the persons involved were generally not the lower age group, rather usually 25 and older.
Councilman Folino commented vandalism is on the increase and asked if the figures in the report submitted by Cadet Marks represented the City's loss.
Captain Westfall commented the figures represented all losses reported to the Police officers and he commented there were probably half again as many were not reported.
Mayor Allen commented that is almost 1/2 mil and that comes out of taxpayers pockets.
Councilman Nichols commented on the increase in aggravated assault and battery and asked if they took place in bars or the racetrack.
Captain Westfall stated more incidences occur in the bars and older people not juveniles were involved.
Councilman Folino also stated Suspicious Circumstances, Person and Vehicles showed an increase of 284 over last years (1975) yearly total. He queried if the Police Dept was getting more reports from citizens.
Captain Westfall said he believed people are calling in more on suspicious circumstances.
Councilman Johnston asked if almost one bar in town gave the police department more trouble.
Captain Westfall commented 111 E Main Street. He also commented the Police Department has received phone trouble alarms with just the address.
Sgt. DeLauder stated when the alarms are received the Police Department has no way of knowing what kind of trouble they might be getting into.
Mayor Allen instructed the City Manager to get a list of trouble runs to all bars in the City and send a letter to 111 E Main and copies of the statistics to the Communications.
The City Manager explained the Silent Observer 1976 Report and the one reward paid. He commented the report saved time and investigative money.
Councilman Folino asked if the City should advertise the Silent Observer Program again.

The City Manager commented yes we should try to get more publicity.
Memo from SEMTA on future plans. Meetings were scheduled February 8, 9, and 10th if anybody was interested.
Resolution received from the City of Troy concerning the reward of $2,000 for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of person or persons involved in the murder of Jill Robinson.
Communication from the Knights of Columbus, Northville Council No. 4522 requesting permission to solicit funds to help mentally retarded children and citizens within the City limits on April 1, 2 and 3, 1977 by selling "Tootsie Rolls" on street corners, shopping centers and business establishments.
Motion by Councilman Vernon support by Councilman Johnston to approve the request of the Knights of Columbus, Northville Council No. 4522 to solicit funds through the sale of tootsie rolls, for mentally retarded children and citizens, within the City limits on April 1, 2 and 3, 1977 on street corners, shopping centers and business establishments subject to approval of the City Manager and Police Department.
Carried unanimously.
Communication from the American Cancer Society requesting permission to solicit funds through a residential campaign from April 25 May 1, 1977.
Motion by Councilman Folino support by Councilman Vernon to approve the American Cancer Society's request to solicit funds through a residential campaign from April 25 May 1, 1977 subject to the City Manager and Police Department approval.
Carried unanimously.
Communication from Board of Commissioners on the Proposed Wayne Penal Facilities to be located in the Township. Also attached was a Resolution on this proposal expressing, concerning and suggesting other proposals for use of the land. This will come up in Committee within two weeks and the Board of Commissioners have asked for support.
Mayor Allen stated as many people as possible should attend to be effective.
COMMUNICATIONS FROM CITIZENS. There were none to report.
PUBLIC HEARING ON UNIFORM TRAFFIC CODE. Mayor Allen opened the Public Hearing on the Uniform Traffic Code and asked for any comments.
Mr. Paul Schelp, 1054 Bristol Ct., representing the Lexington Condominium homes, was in favor of the Traffic Code being accepted. He commented this gives the Condos an indication of a solution to their problem of people cutting through their subdivision at unsafe speeds.
The City Attorney advised Mr. Schelp to have the President of the Condo Association write a letter to the City Manager designating what you want, i.e., stop signs, speed limit signs and where the City can come back with a traffic control order. The City has to have a specific request. He also mentioned the cost of the signs would be borne by the subdivision and the DPW would install them. He suggested they may want to adopt a maximum speed limit of twenty or twenty five miles.
Mr. Schelp stated the Subdivision was told to consult with Oakland County against the turn restrictions might be involved.
Mayor Allen asked for any more comments, there being none, he closed the Public Hearing.
Motion by Councilman Folino support by Councilman Nichols to adopt an ordinance by reference, the Uniform Traffic Code.
Carried unanimously.
TOWNSHIP 911 EMERGENCY INSTALLATION. Communication from the Township of Northville concerning the 911 Emergency number and an invitation to the City to join with them on a cost sharing basis.
The City Manager stated it was not practical at this time. There are areas overlapping such as Novi, Plymouth and Canton. Also, all fire calls would be going to the Township and then would have to be relayed back to the City.
Novi also feels that this is not a very workable situation.
Councilman Vernon felt we should refrain from getting into this situation and to remind our residents through the water billing not to call 911 to alleviate any confusion.
Mayor Allen directed the City Manager to write a letter to the Township stating the 911 Emergency call system is not practical at this time.
MAYORS EXCHANGE DAY DRAWING & RESOLUTION. Motion by Councilman Vernon support by Councilman Folino to reappoint Ann Brueck as Chair man of Michigan Week, May 12, 1977 and that we choose our own City to exchange with as we did last year.
Carried unanimously.
MICHIGAN MUNICIPAL LEAGUE ANNUAL LEGISLATIVE CONFERENCE. The City Attorney stated Representative Geake will reintroduce his bill on local jurisdiction of our City Ordinance Violation Bureau and asked the Councilmen to let the Clerk know if they planned on attending the February 23 or 24 sessions.
Councilman Folino and Vernon stated they would be attending CITY ELECTION DATES. The 1977 City Election will be held on November 8. The City Clerk stated she would keep the Council up to date on changing procedures.
NEW ROADS IN NORTH VILLES ESTATES. A signed petition was presented by the Northville Estates requesting an investment into establishing new streets in the subdivision.
Councilman Vernon suggested having a study done on putting asphalt over old road without putting in curbs and gutters.
Mayor Allen agreed that a study should be made and a report back to the Council and perhaps hold a public hearing on it.
Also a request for stop signs was received. The City Manager would write a letter to the President of the Subdivision.
POLICE CAR BIDS. The bids for a 1977 Full and intermediate size police car were opened as advertised at 11:00 a.m. on Friday, February 4, 1977, at the Northville City Hall, in the presence of the City Manager, Deputy Treasurer and City Clerk. The bids were as follows:
John Mach Ford, Northville F.S. 5,464.20 minus T 1 200 equals 5,264.20 I.S. 5,183.77 minus T 1 200 equals 4,983.74
Lou LaRiche Chevrolet, 40875 Plymouth Rd., Ply. F.S. 5,668.98 minus T 1 400 equals 5,468.98 I.S. 5,248.37 minus 201 equals 4,848.37
Dameron Motor Sales, 29301 Grand River, Farm. F.S. 5,469.45 minus T 1 250 equals 5,219.45 I.S. 4,637.85 minus 250 equals 4,387.85
North Bros. Ford, 33300 Ford Rd., Westland F.S. 5,648.00 minus T 1 200 equals 5,448.00 I.S. 5,025.00 minus 201 equals 4,824.00
G.E. Miller Sales, Northville F.S. 5,464.20 minus T 1 200 equals 5,264.20 I.S. 5,183.77 minus T 1 200 equals 4,983.74
Plymouth Fury (I.S. on State Bid 4,596.94 minus T 1 200 equals 4,396.94)
(Purchase of used vehicle, Jerry Ryan, $201.00)
Captain Westfall commented some officers like to drive the intermediate size while other officers because of their size (officers) like to drive the full size.
Mayor Allen asked the City Manager if he had any recommendations.
Captain Westfall gave the breakdown on the Ford's and their maintenance expenditures which were not out of line and commented they had a bad experience with Plymouths.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING CITY OF NOVI OAKLAND COUNTY, MICHIGAN

FLOOD INSURANCE STUDY

Flood Insurance Study has recently been completed for the City of Novi. This study includes Flood Plain Maps showing the area that will be inundated by a 100 year flood, flood elevation profiles, and flood insurance rate maps for the use of financial institutions and insurance agents in determining who must purchase flood insurance and the cost of the insurance.

Final issuance of the study will mark a change in the City of Novi status in the Flood Insurance Program from the "Emergency Phase" to the "Regular Phase".

At that time, the amount of flood insurance now available to homeowners and businesses in the City of Novi will be doubled. The additional amounts of insurance will be subject to actuarial risk rates rather than the federally subsidized rates which are presently available.

In addition, the Novi Community will be required to adopt and enforce a Flood Plain Ordinance to regulate all new construction and substantial rehabilitation in the flood hazard areas designated in the report.

This study was funded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and covers the following areas:
Flows caused by the overflow of the Patnales Drain, Thornton Creek, Walled Lake Branch of the Middle River Rouge and two (2) unnamed tributaries, the Novi-Lyon Drain and its unnamed tributaries and the Bishop Creek.

The people who are directly affected by the issuance of this study are those living near these areas. They and other interested persons are invited to attend a meeting to be held on Wednesday, March 2, 1977 at 8:00 p.m. EST, at the Novi Middle School, cafeteria, 25299 Taft Road, Novi, Michigan, 48050, where the study results will be presented for public inspection.

Representatives of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the firm of Johnson and Anderson, Inc., and the State Department of Natural Resources will be on hand to explain the study and answer questions.

Mayor Allen asked if the Ford dealer makes every effort to repair cars quickly.
Captain Westfall answered they do try. He explained what happens when both patrol cars are out of service and they have to use the CSO car, also the man hours involved if the Police Dept have to go any distance for repairs on cars bought out of town.
Councilman Nichols asked how Miller Dodge was for service.
Captain Westfall commented they did a satisfactory job.
Sgt. Dave DeLauder commented the Police Dept have had a problem with brakes fading on the Plymouth. He felt the Ford's were a superior police car.
Councilman Folino asked about the trade-in bid.
The City Manager said the bid came in with the other bids, it was not solicited.
A discussion on the color of the cars issued, also marked and unmarked cars.
Mayor Allen state recognition of police cars placed a big part in the safety factor, and also in their impact as a deterrent.
Motion by Councilman Vernon support by Councilman Folino based on the City's past experience, to accept the bid from John Mach Ford on the full size Ford. Carried unanimously.
The City Manager commented on the trade in of $250.00 from Mach Ford and suggested perhaps we can sell it for more than that price. He stated the City needs to look at this in terms of financing.
Captain Westfall discussed the memo asking for consideration to purchase an additional marked patrol vehicle and his reasons for the request.
The report was referred to the budget study.
RECREATION DEPT RE LAWCOR. Communication from the Recreation Dept requesting the City apply for assistance from HUD to support the lighting of the Fish Hatchery Park for tennis, baseball diamonds and a soccer field.
The City Manager asked for any specific questions.
The Council concurred that it would be interested in participating with the Township.
NORTHWEST SANITATION AUTHORITY. Communication from the Township Supervisor asking the City Council to disband the Authority and authorize Paul Vernon to close the account.
Councilman Vernon commented on May 5 of last year a decision was made to continue with the Sanitation Authority. He also commented that Canton Township had initially withdrawn. The memo from Northville Township suggested sharing with Canton.
The City Attorney asked if the by laws spoke to the problems.
Councilman Vernon stated there was nothing about dissolution. He also mentioned he had no objections to giving money back but opposed disbanding the Authority. He asked the City Attorney to check and see if returning money disbanded the Authority.
Mayor Allen asked the City Attorney to bring back this information for the next Council meeting.
FROZEN WATER LINES. Communication from the Superintendant of the Zoning and Asst Superintendent of the DPW concerning the frozen water lines and the cost so far to the City. The old welder used to defrost the lines is no longer workable and the City has rented one at the cost of $2,000 so far.

The DPW recommended purchase of a welder from Jackson Welding Supply of $3,130, delivery within one week.
Councilman Folino asked if we had the money available.
The City Manager suggested the City could buy the welder from the Equipment Fund.
Motion by Councilman Folino support by Councilman Nichols to waive going out for bids in the best interest of the City.
Carried unanimously.
MISCELLANEOUS. Mayor Allen asked if the City Manager had made a proposal to Mr. Rich and Davis for the purchase of his property on Grace Street.
The City Manager stated an offer had been made in August for $5,600 which he turned down.
Mayor Allen asked for a motion that a final offer for $5,600 be made for Mr. Davis' property.
Motion by Councilman Johnston support by Councilman Folino to make a final offer to Mr. Davis of $5,600 for his property on Grace Aves. Allen, Folino, Johnston, Vernon.
Nays: Nichols.
Councilman Folino mentioned the chukholes on Eight Mile near Amerman School.
Councilman Nichols discussed a meeting he attended with Ted Mapes, Asst Supervisor DPW, concerning the Detroit water rates suit.
Councilman Vernon discussed the traffic at Amerman School parents driving children to and from school—and a report being done by the Police Department and AAA. He commented some things need to be done.
STONES. The City Manager explained the memo on the proposed development at Hutton and Main concerning a problem involving the Zoning Ordinance. The Ordinance requires a 20' rear yard and the proposed building would be built against the rear lot line. A variance will be sought.
JOINT SERVICES. The City Manager presented a joint services proposal which Mayor Allen suggested sending to the Township for their comments.
Mayor Allen mentioned that he and Township Supervisor Grier discussed the frozen water lines. Supervisor Grier will have the Township Board take action that all people west of the City will be serviced by the Township. The Township will work out arrangements and details for improving water services.
This is to be put on the next meeting agenda.
Meeting adjourned at 11:00.
Respectfully submitted,
Joan McAllister
City Clerk

SUMMARY OF CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

The Council of the City of Novi met in special session at the Novi School Administration Building, on Monday, February 14, 1977 at 8:00 P.M. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Henderson. Council Members present were Goodman, Hoyer, Karevich, Schmidt and Shaw. Councilwoman Roethel was excused. Others present included Edward Kriewall, City Manager, Gerry Shipp, City Clerk, and David M. Fried, City Attorney.

The Council considered the rezoning request of Max Sheldon Realty Company and adopted Zoning Map Amendment No. 18-247. The recommendation of the Planning Board was received with regard to the removal of commercial zoning along Ten Mile Road, west of Glenda Street. Council requested the Planning Board to schedule a Public Hearing to consider this matter.

An amendment to Ordinance No. 67, the Pinball Arcade Ordinance, was adopted. The amendment allows tournaments with up to $100.00 in prize money and removes the requirement for guard service.

A license to operate a Taxi Cab Service was denied to Star Cab Company.

A request to install street lights at the intersection of Bashian Drive and Grand River and Bashian Drive and Ten Mile Road was approved.

A budget amendment for the Parks & Recreation Department was approved.

A Resolution was adopted providing for the enlargement of the Walled Lake Sewer District. The bid for the demolition of the dwelling located at 1123 East Lake Drive was awarded to Capitol Wrecking Company in the amount of $1190.00.

Council appointed Peter Romanow to fill the vacancy on the Planning Board. Louis Bonamy and John Roethel were appointed to serve on the Board of Appeals. Isabel Collins was reappointed to serve on the Election Commission. Cathy Crawford was appointed to serve as Michigan Week Chairman.

Council scheduled public hearings on the rezoning request of Wm T. Williams and John Malamus for Monday, March 28, 1977, at 8:00 P.M. at the School Administration Building.

Council adopted a resolution to ban smoking at City Council Meetings.

Council accepted the resignation of Dieron Traffail from the Library Board.

Gerardine Stipp, City Clerk

Winning design

Christine Sanders, a fifth grade student at Amerman Elementary, wears a sweat shirt with her winning design. It was chosen in a contest for students at the school. Shirts, T-shirts and tote bags with the design now are on sale at the school through March 4. Order blanks have been sent home with youngsters.

It looks like brick. It shines without wax.

It's Armstrong Solarian®

The authentic coloring of real brick...with the sunny Mirabond® wear surface that holds its brilliant shine, without waxing or buffing, far longer than an ordinary vinyl floor. Just mop it clean, and it really does look just-waxed! The miniature-scale brick pattern comes in a variety of colors and works beautifully in large areas or small!
