

Out for bids

General, mechanical and electrical bids for Northville Township's new municipal complex to be built on Six Mile with EDA funds will be opened at 3 p.m. April 28. They then will be reviewed by Ralls-Hamill Architects, Incorporated, according to Supervisor Wilson Grier. A fire station as well as offices and meeting rooms are incorporated in the building, shown here in the architect's revised rendering. The office area interior features a diagonal layout with a central core reception center. Above is the latest exterior artist's sketch of the new township building.

Joint services contract approved

Fire service in doubt, so city may buy truck

City Manager Steven Walters was authorized to place an order for a new fire truck this week, thus signalling the possibility that the jointly operated city-township department may be dissolved.

"Because of the critical timing involved in ordering a fire vehicle, it's imperative that an order be placed now if it is to be available by July 1," Walters told council Monday night.

The joint department currently is being operated under an interim agreement through June 30.

If that agreement expires with no new contract being consummated, the township has first option to buy out all jointly owned fire equipment.

Meanwhile, negotiations for continuation of this service have been shelved pending completion of a study to determine if a jointly operated department is economically more advantageous than separate departments.

Both city and township officials have agreed that sufficient unanswered questions exist to warrant the study.

Two of these questions concern eventual utilization of the new township fire hall slated for construction on Six Mile Road and the hiring of a full-time fire chief.

Hiring of a full-time chief has been a prime ingredient of the township proposal, while city officials have been reluctant to agree to this provision if it means the city must pick up the cost of this person.

Although the department is jointly operated, it is administered by the city.

As for the new township fire hall, city officials are wondering how this facility will be serviced — manpower, equipment, maintenance, etc., if it is to be incorporated into a joint fire department budget.

"If the city and township do not reach agreement on continuing fire service beyond June 30, the township has the right to buy out the jointly owned equipment, in which case the city will be in need of an additional pumper," the manager has stated.

Equipment that will need to be replaced, in addition to a 1970 White fire truck, according to the manager, includes an equipment van and the equipment associated with it.

"The township insisted on retaining (its) buy out provision in the interim

City budget: tax increase?

City councilmen began sharpening their paring knives this week upon receiving a proposed 1977-78 budget from the city manager.

A series of budget sessions to go over the budget in detail before its adoption next month are in the offing.

Meanwhile, City Manager Steven Walters has warned council that on the basis of anticipated income in the next fiscal year an increase in city taxes may be a necessity.

As initially presented, the budget is balanced at $686,095 or 14 mills — an increase of 3.2 mills over the 1976 levy of 10.8 mills.

"This increase reflects the cost problems experienced in 1976-77 continuing into 1977-78, plus the end of CETA funds in September, 1977," the manager told councilmen. "The proposed general fund budget does not include any reductions in the level of service, although such reductions can certainly be considered in our discussion on the budget."

The current general fund, according to the manager, projects "a serious deficit for the end of the current year, in the amount of $70,000 if all other funds are maintained

Fire excluded

City-township marriage of five joint services will continue for at least another two years — but joint fire service could be headed for the rocks.

A pact for library, recreation, fish hatchery park maintenance, senior citizens facility, and ambulance service has been ratified in principle by both the township board and the city council.

Formal action followed last week's joint meeting of the two bodies.

In reference to the fire department service, however, the two sides agreed that there are too many unanswered questions to formalize continuation of this service at this time.

Although officials are still hopeful a mutually satisfactory pact for fire protection service can be developed, they also have stated that studies could possibly show that this kind of service may be more advantageous to operate separately.

A fire study committee has been authorized by the township board, including a number of retired Detroit firemen who live in the township, to study the practicality of the township operating its own fire department.

Meanwhile, the city council has authorized the ordering of a new fire truck in the event that separate departments become a reality. See related story on this page.

As another part of the pact for the five agreed upon services, the two bodies have appointed representatives to a joint finance committee to review the library and recreation budgets. Trustee Mark Lysinger and Treasurer Richard Henningsen have been named to

Many candy treats still cost less than a dime

Dime's awfully thin today

By RICH PERLBERG

Remember when carnival barkers would try to lure you into sideshow tents with the promise that great mysteries of life would be revealed for the mere cost of "one thin dime, one-tenth of a dollar?"

Today, that same dime won't even buy you the newspaper that tells where the carnival is playing.

It's sad, but true. The phrase "That and a dime will get you a cup of coffee" is as outdated as penny candy.

There used to be a jillion things that could be bought with a dime. No more. Not only are dime novels forgotten relics, but comic books that once cost 10 cents have tripled in price.

The single-dip ice cream cone and the 6½-ounce bottle of Coke have taken similar inflationary routes. Life Savers, chewing gum and candy bars, all which cost a dime or less for many years, now cost 15 cents or more.

Even the price of a pay phone call has doubled.

But don't throw the dime into the trash barrel of obsolescence just yet. If you look hard enough in Northville, you can still make purchases for ten cents.

At Black's hardware, there are flat-head steel wood screws for as little as two cents, S-hooks for six cents, washers for 10 cents and a foot of white, brown or black lamp cord for only eight cents. (Clear, silver or gold costs two cents more.)

String licorice is another product that is sold by the foot and a thin variety goes for a penny per 12 inches at the Kandy Kettle in Northville Square.

The Kandy Kettle is a bonanza for people looking for sugary treats that sell for 10 cents or less.

An entire wall is lined with 100 different candies that cost two cents apiece. Penny candy has been gone for three years, according to Sharon Daugard who, with husband Frank, own and run the store.

Suckers, bubble gum, candy canes, Slurpees, Whistle Pops, Kraft caramels, Hershey kisses, Reese butter cups and Blow Pops are just some of the goodies that run from two to 10 cents.

Chocolate chip cookies are also sold for a dime.

That old favorite, a Tootsie Roll Pop — with a sucker on the outside and a candy on the inside — can be had for a nickel at Lorenz Pharmacy which also sells bags of Fanny Farmer candy for seven cents.

Although Life Savers cost more than a dime, the company makes a sucker with a hole in the middle (just like the candy) that costs a dime at American Discount.

Those baseball trading cards now cost 15 cents, but a package of Welcome Back Kotter cards and a slab of cardboard bubblegum is only a dime at D & C.

The list so far has been super sweet, but you don't have to risk cavities to spend your dime.

Five cents can buy 60 minutes of parking on Northville streets. Eight cents will buy a small travel-pack of Kleenex tissues at TG&Y.

And a penny will purchase an envelope at the Book Mark. But it's going to cost you at least 13 cents to mail it anywhere.

Nutritional food such as oranges, carrots and bananas can be picked up for less than a dime at area grocery stores and super markets.

And, of course, there is something that you will always be able to buy for a dime — a pair of nickels.

Novi departments increase services

Significant progress has been made in the DPW and Water Departments during the past two years according to Novi DPW Director Edward Smiadak. He reported to Novi City Council recently as another in a series of department head reports on progress, problems and planning.

According to Smiadak, the DPW and Water Departments have progressed extensively by accomplishing some of the following items which previously were done by specialized contractors: Repair sidewalk, repair concrete pavement; repair asphalt pavement; build drainage structures; carpentry work; paint indoors and outdoors; install steel beam guard rail; repair hydrants; repair water main breaks and place sewers of all sizes.

"When the DPW does it's own work it accomplishes two things," according to Smiadak. "The DPW dollars go further and secondly the work can be programmed more efficiently because there is no waiting for others."

Among problems cited in the report were water pressure problems in North Hills and Meadowbrook Glens subs. "The other problem which we address ourselves to is the maintenance of gravel roads," he added. "This is a difficult problem especially when the freeze-thaw cycle is in effect in the spring and fall. The road is frozen in the morning and thaws in the afternoon. The grader blades will not scarify the frozen roadbed so a special effort is made to do more work in the afternoon without altering the working hours of the men."

According to Smiadak, the department has two goals to meet during the upcoming year.

One is to set up a sign shop in the DPW garage, thus enabling the DPW to buy the basic material and fabricate the signs at a savings of approximately 25 percent per sign. It would also make the signs available immediately as opposed to the four weeks necessary when an order is placed.

The second goal is to set up a water department test bench to test water meters.

"The utility of that department has expanded significantly over the past two or three years," commented city Manager Edward Kriewall.

"The complaints have become practically non-existent," praised Council Member Romaine Roethel.

Council also discussed briefly with Smiadak his need for additional personnel during the upcoming budget year.

It's homier

Visitors to the Novi DPW garage on Grand River will find the atmosphere a little more homey today thanks to the carpentry skill of some of the DPW employees. The office areas were just roughed in when the building was constructed in 1970 but the council this year budgeted money to the DPW for paneling the offices, locker room and bathroom areas. Above Leon Lusk (left) and Tim Bell take some measurements during final stages of the renovation to the office area.

Question recreation offerings

Few attend hearing on services

Perhaps because the impasse in agreeing on formulas for joint fire, recreation and library services appeared to be ending between the City of Northville and Northville Township, only a handful of people attended the public hearing on the subject scheduled by the township a week ago Tuesday night.

At a joint session of the township board with the city council afterward recreation and library sharing formulas were agreed upon with fire protection under negotiation.

Supervisor Wilson Grier opened the hearing by pointing out that the negotiations were in process. He stated that he felt "when it comes to the bottom line of dollars" police and fire protection are the "musts" with recreation and library the luxuries.

Grier stated that if the township had to "go its own way" with fire services he felt a fire department could be manned with reciprocal services and would hope to join the Western Wayne County group pact. He said a full-time chief would have to be hired but that three men in the township water and sewer department and several policemen are "committed" to helping out if needed.

With himself, Grier added, he felt there could be nine or ten volunteers available at the township. He stressed that he was "throwing out possibilities if we have to go that way" and explained that the township has two pumpers and should have a third and that by next April or June at the latest the new hall with fire station would be occupied.

That board members had individual opinions was apparent as Trustee James Nowka observed that he didn't feel the supervisor "completely reflected" the interests of all board members, saying he and others think "it makes good sense to work to improve shared services."

Trustee Michael Wilson said he was convinced that more fire protection was needed in the township but was concerned that, in event of separate services, he was concerned about the protection for residents of the northwest section of the township. He wondered if an arrangement could be worked out so that the station in the city might be limited to home fires.

In discussing the fact that the library budget was up 50 percent, Nowka agreed that rising costs have been "another torpedo" toward joint services.

In regard to the recreation program, Rose Williams of the audience questioned the number of offerings in the recreation department saying that many adult classes were duplicated at such places as Schoolcraft College.

Offerings like karate and belly dancing, Nowka, a member of the recreation commission, replied are financed completely with class fees. The recreation department merely "supports the opportunity" of having the classes and offers the administration to do so.

Critical and popular areas, he said, like junior baseball, are funded. Ski outings, he added, also have been extremely successful.

In response to a question from James Cernuto on differences in approval of recreation projects for which to seek state funding between city and township, Trustee John Swienkowski explained that it had been agreed that the city would refurbish Ford Field and the township would develop its Six Mile site.

The fish hatchery site is a joint project with a joint 99-year lease. The hearing was adjourned at 8:25 p.m. about an hour after it convened as Grier waited to begin, hoping for a bigger audience than the 11 on hand at the start.

Township to hire legal specialist

Northville Township Board of Trustees voted unanimously last Thursday to spend up to $5,000 to retain a legal specialist in the Lansing area as a consultant in its fight to keep Northville Child Development Center from becoming a state prison.

Supervisor Wilson Grier asked for authority to add a specialist, which he indicated would be in the area of zoning, to fight locating the prison here should Governor William Milliken give his approval.

Grier said the township then would be in a good position to go into court to prevent the site from being occupied as a prison. Funds were to be taken from the contingency account. The board also authorized donation of $100 from the account, if its attorney approves, to the Western Wayne Residents' Association fighting the prison.

Asked if surrounding governments might be contacted for legal funds to fight the prison, Grier said they had given moral support, but that, "when it comes down to the bottom line, it's in Northville Township that the prison will be located."

He asked Eunice Switzler, a member of the audience, and recording secretary for the residents' association, what response the public had made to its appeal for funds.

She reported that donations from the public, including those received Thursday, totaled $1,260.

The board, with all present except Clerk Clarice Sass who was reported hospitalized, asked the supervisor to keep it apprised of any developments in the prison situation.

Grier warned that it eventually could cost between $20,000 and $25,000 in legal and court fees to fight in court if the decision is made to locate in the township, but he has been told it could tie up occupancy for one to two years.

New Eagles home planned

Architectural approval of the proposed new Fraternal Order of Eagles building has been granted by the Northville Historical District Commission.

The approval was by a split vote, with John Burkman casting the dissenting opinion. The city planning commission was scheduled to take final action on the proposed new building at its meeting yesterday.

Current plans call for the building to be located on the site of the building that was destroyed earlier by fire — on Center Street, just south of Main Street.

The new building is to include a brick front, and it will include a wood shake mansard roof.

Meanwhile, the owners and the Northville Economic Development

Northville teachers can veto 'modified' program

Northville's board of education may be committed to a "modified" school calendar, but the compromise between the year-round and traditional school years can't become a reality without the consent of the teachers.

And it's not certain if that approval is forthcoming.

"Everything is so iffy," says Barbara LeBoeuf, president of the Northville Education Association, which can veto the proposed calendar change.

In a 4-3 vote last month, the school board moved to do away with a dual calendar which has allowed some students to attend year-round classes while most of the district was on the traditional system of nine months in school followed by a three-month summer vacation.

The practice is thought by many to be inefficient, especially at the high school where the small number of year-round or extended school year (ESY) students has contributed to a large disparity in teacher-pupil ratios between classes in the two systems.

But ESY is popular at the elementary level where half of the students are on year-round school. Surveys have shown that as many people would be opposed to completely dropping ESY as TSY (traditional school year).

As a solution, the board adopted the administration's recommendation of a "modified" or "unified" calendar which was billed as a hybrid that combined the best of both worlds.

Summer breaks would be longer than the five weeks given to ESY students, but shorter than the long TSY vacation. Three one- to two-week breaks would be sprinkled throughout the school year.

Families could still plan extended summer vacations, kids could get summer jobs and the mini-breaks would ease the school routine, backers say.

The fly in the ointment is the NEA, which is in the first year of a three-year contract. The agreement, ratified late last year, specifically defines the calendar for the next two years as either TSY or ESY.

Teachers will meet next Wednesday to talk about the modified calendar and Ms. LeBoeuf admits she doesn't know what direction the rank and file will take.

Feelings are mixed, she says, between those who like the idea and those whose employment, education or vacation plans would be jeopardized by a shorter summer.

Plans may have been made that were based on the calendar in the present contract, says Ms. LeBoeuf.

Wednesday's meeting is exploratory since no formal "modified" proposal has been submitted to the NEA.

"We're surveying the membership to find out if they want to discuss a change in calendar," says Ms. LeBoeuf.

If so, the NEA and the administration would meet to devise an agreeable "modified" schedule. The most frequently discussed proposal would have a nine-week summer vacation beginning late in June, two-week breaks at Christmas and Easter, and a week off in October.

If teachers don't want to discuss a calendar change, Superintendent Raymond Spear says the board has three alternatives.

It can revert back to the dual calendar, or it can choose either ESY or TSY exclusively, he says.

Until the teachers meet, "We're proceeding as if we have a modified calendar" for next year, says Spear.

In Northville schools

Vacation spurs clean-up

Spring clean-up is being taken seriously in the Northville school district.

With teachers and students enjoying a week's vacation, the maintenance and custodial staff took advantage of the empty buildings to do some much-needed sprucing up last week.

Walls were scrubbed, halls were cleaned, floors were waxed and windows were washed.

And, because of the balmy weather that coincided with the Spring Break, outside work was also tackled.

"The weather is definitely an asset," said Michael Janchick, administrative assistant in charge of operations.

The appearance of the district's buildings—particularly the high school—has become the whipping boy for anyone who finds fault with the school system.

The criticism is not unwarranted.

Part of the mess—particularly the cigarette butts, the waste paper carelessly discarded and the trash that is almost daily deposited in one rest room—can be blamed on students who are vandals, sloppy or just plain bored.

At the high school, however, it is not uncommon to find cobwebs draping from ceiling beams, dirt and wax caked into corners and paper scraps stuffed into air vents.

These conditions are the results of poor or non-existent cleaning habits and it is hoped that this week may start a new era of maintenance procedures.

On paper, it's simple. If the buildings can be spruced up into satisfactory shape, a regular cleaning program will keep them that way.

"We just haven't had a program like that," said Janchick.

said they can stay relatively dust-free as long as someone knows he is assigned to mop the locker-tops at a regular basis.

A new organizational set-up—with head custodians in each building, and two district-wide supervisors who report to Janchick—has been designed to clearly define tasks.

Some problems are difficult to solve, however, because of the construction quirks in each building.

Hall floors at Cooke, for instance, can be kept clean with far less maintenance than is required at the high school.

At Moraine, there are several instances where small bathrooms serve only two classrooms. It takes longer to clean these than the larger bathrooms in a school like Silver Springs.

The outside appearance is a sore point, too. Last week, Janchick set aside at each school "at least one day and hopefully two for everybody to be outside picking up trash. Later, we'll mow and trim."

Cleaning up faster than students litter can be a losing battle.

On a recent weekend an angry parent called the administrative offices to complain about the trash at the high school parking lot which, she said, looked as though it had never been cleaned.

Little did she know, it had been thoroughly picked up just three days earlier.

County sets up Skywarn

Wayne County officials have set up a 51-station tornado watch network which includes Michigan's highest vantage point—the roof of the 73-story Detroit Plaza Hotel in Renaissance Center.

"Within 30 seconds of a funnel sighting, our Skywarn program is capable of broadcasting a warning throughout the six-county area containing over half of Michigan's population," declared John Barr, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, in announcing the network.

The tornado watch network will be manned by specially-trained volunteer ham radio operators when severe weather conditions indicate a danger of tornados in the vicinity.

"The 719-foot height of the Detroit Plaza gives us what is probably the best view between New York and Chicago," Barr commented. "This could mean an important time advantage in getting the warning out when every second counts."

Those manning the tornado watch stations will be equipped with radios giving them immediate two-way voice contact with their base station at the Wayne County Emergency Operating Center in Westland.

Other skywatch volunteers will man lookout points throughout Wayne County's 622-square miles when a tornado watch is declared by the National Weather Service (NWS). Most will be located in shopping center parking lots and along open roads with mobile radios in their cars.

"The human eye is the only effective instrument for spotting tornado funnels. Radar can identify the turbulent thunderheads which breed tornados, but cannot pick out a funnel unless it has already hit the ground and picked up a lot of debris," explained George Young, director of the Wayne County Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP).

With the base station linked to the Wayne County Sheriff's radio transmitter, a spotter's warning can be broadcast immediately over an inter-county police radio network covering Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, Washtenaw and St. Clair counties.

Completing the Skywarn network, a ham radio operator will be posted at the National Weather Service (NWS) radar station at Detroit-Metropolitan Wayne County Airport to relay information between the field spotters and the radar operators.

Barr said 110 amateur radio operators have joined the Skywarn program so far, but that at least 150 are needed to insure coverage of every spotter station. Barr added:

"There are about 2,000 ham radio operators in Wayne County. If we get more than 150 volunteers, we can set up additional spotter stations to provide more complete coverage."

Use of the Detroit Plaza as a Skywarn location was requested because it provides an unobstructed view to the west and southwest, the general direction from which most tornado-spawning storms move in, Barr said. "The citizens who have volunteered as spotters and the management of the Detroit Plaza Hotel deserve to be commended for their public service."

Citizens ponder prison decision

Anticipating a decision by Governor William Milliken this week or next on where to locate additional state prison facilities, the Northville citizens' group opposing the prison met Sunday afternoon to discuss strategy.

Meeting with officers of the Western Wayne County Residents Association was James Karoub, state lobbyist retained by the group to help in the fight against locating the prison on the 300-acre Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon Road.

Also attending the session were co-chairmen William Miron and Blake Northrop, Secretary Eunice Switzer, William Phillips, James Littell, Mayor A. M. Allen and Supervisor Wilson Grier and Ben Northrop.

Legally, it was noted, Northville Township can oppose the prison at the former training school site on the basis of zoning. Presently, the site is zoned R-2 (residential). A court decision supporting the right of the local community in a similar case has been upheld by the appeals court, but could face a state Supreme Court test.

The committee discussed with Karoub other alternatives in case the Governor recommends Northville for the prison. Funding of the project would require legislative approval.

Committee members expressed disappointment over the relatively small response from the public for financial support. Less than $2,000 has been contributed.

Area residents were urged to help the volunteer group meet its expenses by sending contributions in any amount to: Western Wayne County Residents Association, Box 49, Northville, Michigan, 48167.

The committee noted that letters to the Governor are also important. "It's not too late to write the Governor and let him know you oppose a prison here," pointed out Blake Northrop.

Letters may be addressed to: The Honorable William G. Milliken, Office of the Governor, State Capitol, Lansing, Michigan 48903.

Officer Ralph Fluhart responds to call on mobile CB in police car

More than $1200 raised

Novi police 'on the air' as CB radio drive ends

Senior Novi Police Dispatcher Francis Kohl admits she was dead set against having a CB base station in the police department when the idea was first suggested in early March.

"I was so set against them I wouldn't have had one for anything," she says. "Now I'm really debating getting one for myself — just so I could use channel 9."

Thanks to a group of CB enthusiasts who believed the police department needed communication with CB'ers on the road, the police department is in its fourth week of utilizing a base station which has been purchased for the department. In addition, several mobile CB's have been placed in the police cars by the citizens group while the remainder of eight patrol vehicles will be in operation with the CB's within a week.

The base station strictly monitors channel 9 on a 24 hour basis while the mobiles monitor the traffic channel, 19.

"We believe the community will see a lot of benefits as the CB program gets into full swing and the CB'ing public becomes more aware that there's never a policeman around when you need one. Now they can be — they're just as far away as the microphone on your CB."

Loder, editor of The Novi News, said that he organized the successful drive after writing an article concerning the growing use of CB's by police departments.

"Many departments have them including the State Police. But Novi's department had none, even though some of the officers who are CB'ers during their off time supported the concept," said Loder, a Novi resident.

The announcement of the drive brought good support from many individuals and businesses as well as Novi's service organizations. The Chamber of Commerce, after careful consideration, unanimously approved contributing $200 earmarked for the purchase of the base station. The Novi Lion's Club and the Business and Professional Women of Novi both contributed $100.

"Without their support the drive would have been a lot longer and a lot harder," said Loder. Two

Dispatcher Francis Kohl takes a call on Novi's new CB base station

There is officially cab service again in Novi.

For stranded residents, that could signal a real sign of relief.

Officially, no cab company has been licensed to do business in Novi for the past two months, ever since council refused in February to renew the license for Star Cab Company. But Monday, Novi Council voted unanimously to reverse that decision. At the same time it also voted to give a license to Community Cab.

The council had decided in February not to renew Star Cab's license because of violations of the ordinance. Those included vehicles which could not pass inspection, use of vehicles not insured with the necessary carrier, and use of a driver without license approval to drive a cab.

Attorney for the Star Cab Company, Edwin Snyder, told the council that the individual driver in question is no longer with the company, that the vehicle not insured with the company's carrier is no longer in use, and that the vehicles to be used had undergone inspection again. He did not address complaints by a resident concerning service by the company.

Detective Lieutenant Richard Faulkner reported to the council that two of three of Star Cab's vehicles did pass inspection while the third failed because of defective tires and a light. Snyder informed the council that since the inspection that day, four tires had been purchased and placed on the vehicle in question. He pointed out further that the defective light was the one over the license plate.

"Mr. (Charles) Henry is willing to provide this community with the best possible taxi cab service," said Snyder. "Star Cab should have an opportunity to compete with any other companies."

At the same time, the council heard a presentation from Linda Turner and Mitchell Roberts of Community Cab in South Lyon who informed the council that they intended to provide service from two points in the city on a 24 hour a day basis. They added that they have only one vehicle and did not explain if they intended to add further vehicles to provide that service from two areas.

According to Roberts, it is his first venture into the cab business.

Police Chief Lee BeGole recommended that both companies be granted licenses.

"The business is here if people get the service. Whoever's in the cab business here when the shopping center opens has a goldmine. I'd just as soon have two companies. If there are any problems, we'll let the council know it," said BeGole.

He noted further that other cab companies have inquired and he expects further applications for licenses after the mail opens.

"The marketplace is right. I think competition is good. Both should have a stab at it and let's see what happens," seconded Councilman James Shaw.

"I think the competition will take care of itself. If you don't get good service, you won't get called," Council member Romaine Roethel told both companies.

Council approved unanimously both licenses but Mayor Gilbert Henderson left both cab companies with the advice that "when you come in next year, your cars had better be in order. Have your act together or don't bother us."

In another matter to come before council, City Clerk Geraldine Stipp said that it appears enough signatures are on petitions submitted to the city to provide for a referendum vote on the sale of special assessment bonds for the 1977 road paving program.

City Attorney David Fried, responding to the petitions, pointed out that "It has nothing to do with the validity of the special assessment district. It has to do with how they're financed. People (being specially assessed on the roads involved) will pay whether the bonds are sold or not. It's going to cost them nine percent (interest) if the bonds are not sold and six to six and one-half percent if they are sold."

Fried said further that the only potential benefit nonissuance of the special assessment bonds would have for the affected homeowners is that a portion of the road program could not be paved until the special assessment is paid over the years by the homeowners. If bonds were sold, the roads could be paved in the very near future.

The city's bonding attorney is to report to the council on what impact to the road paving program the defeat of the special assessment bonds would have.

Council member Patricia Karevich contended that the petitions were misrepresented.

"I was told (by a person gathering signatures) the council was trying to slip something through and tax people without their vote," she said.

Council also briefly wrestled Monday with the question of what type of guarantee is necessary that a proposed Lincoln Mercury dealership, to be located north of the I-96 interchange on Novi Road, will pay its share of the cost for a needed access road.

The access road was decided on earlier to lessen the number of access points onto Novi Road by businesses establishing on the large parcel which lies to the west of Novi, south of 12 Mile and north of I-96. The access road will also allow landlocked property near the freeway to have access to Novi Road. However, the highway department, which is paying for the cost of a portion of the access road, has not determined a timetable.

In addition council is faced with the problem that because lots will be developed along the access road at different times, it is necessary for each company establishing there to provide some guarantee of the cost of the access road fronting the parcel.

Joseph Prunty of Ford Motor Company told the council that a letter of credit for $30,000 was out of the question.

"How long will it be held? Why is it needed?" he asked. Council had decided earlier on the letters of credit as a means of assuring that businesses would pay for the access road.

Prunty instead asked that a letter from the secretary of Ford Motor Company be allowed as a replacement — or a check to be held in escrow until construction.

Council member Martha Hoyer indicated opposition to the letter because it would be precedent setting. The city attorney objected to the check noting that payment could always be stopped on the check.

Prunty pointed out that construction is planned within six months necessitating a quick decision. He added that one of the problems is that Ford would in effect have to pay to put in its own access road to Novi Road for use until the permanent access road is paved.

"I don't mind pioneering but this makes me shiver," he said.

The mayor told Prunty that "We'll try to work something out and see what we can do."

SEMCOG explains Wixom land use plan

Wixom council and planning commission members left a joint meeting with Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) representatives, apparently relieved that a 1990 land use plan would reflect city thoughts for the future.

The meeting Thursday night was called as the result of a letter and map sent to the city by SEMCOG in March graphically showing that agency's "plans" for Wixom.

The map, when presented to council, brought criticisms from the officials, with council calling for the joint meeting.

Questions were raised over the placement of residential areas in the industrial portion of the city with the Ford Motor Company complex "sprouting homes instead of cars." Further, a large section in the northeast quadrant of the city, currently housing residents of Hickory Hill and the Finnish subdivision, were shown as "fragile" land areas — those portions of land that are generally thought unsuitable for building — in essence, swamps. SEMCOG said it was unaware that the area was residential.

SEMCOG member Gerald Rowe provided an explanation to those assembled for the meeting and clarified the sources used by SEMCOG for their configurations. Rowe noted that at a March general assembly, representatives to that body were told

Maxwell pleads guilty to insurance fraud

Insurance salesman Kenneth M. Maxwell, 36, of 41431 Glyme in Novi has pled guilty to one count of mail fraud, a crime punishable by five years in prison and/or $1,000 fine.

Maxwell pled guilty in federal court April 6 to illegally obtaining over $17,000 from Banker's Life Company of Des Moines, Iowa through a fraudulent change in a client's insurance policy.

Maxwell was indicted in February by a federal grand jury on 12 counts spanning 1972 to 1976.

The scheme, according to Haber, was one in which Maxwell would have his clients sign a change of policy form without actually filling in the change. While a client might have wanted the limit on a policy increased, Maxwell allegedly sent in the change of policy form but would lower the limit or cancel the policy. Upon receiving a check back for the cash surrender value of the policy, Maxwell allegedly would forge them and cash them in.

Though Haber had previously called the alleged offenses "a vicious scheme" which was "robbing orphans and widows," he said that it was decided to go for a definite guilty plea on the one count instead of battling for a guilty verdict on all 12 counts, each of which would have carried a five year, and/or $1,000 fine.

"It's common for sentences to run concurrently," said Haber. "Consequently as a means of insuring a conviction and to preserve the prosecution's efforts and manpower, we allowed him to plead guilty to one count."

Haber said that Maxwell could get probation or be sentenced to the full five years.

Referring to the hearing where Maxwell pled guilty, Haber said, "Mr. Maxwell indicated he had withdrawn client's money from various insurance accounts and had intended to pay them back. Maxwell indicated he had paid some back."

According to Haber, Maxwell when questioned further by federal magistrate Charles W. Joiner admitted that he paid back some of the money when he was caught. Maxwell is to be sentenced May 31.

Haber added that Banker's Life has paid back all claims from clients. "They are assuming the responsibility," he said. Those claims totaled more than $64,000, based upon the indictment.

Maxwell is also awaiting trial for his alleged involvement in an "arson for profit" scheme involving the April 4, 1976 fire which destroyed the vacant "Duke's by the Sea" bar on South Lake Drive in Novi.

Maxwell ran unsuccessfully for Novi City Council twice in 1975.

Eliminates one mill difference

School tax question backed by Novi board

Novi School Board has gone on record favoring a ballot question for Oakland County which could eliminate the one mill difference in school taxes paid by township residents as compared to residents of municipalities. Township residents currently pay one mill less to the school district than city residents.

The question was proposed by the board of commissioners and would be put on the ballot, probably late this year, if the tax allocation board gives its approval.

The question as proposed by the board of commissioners would mean an increase of $1,682 paid by Novi Township residents living in the Novi School District. It would not affect Novi Township residents in the Northville School District.

It would also mean no change for residents of the cities of Novi and Wixom.

Gerald Kratz, only residents along old Novi Road and residents in the township on Wixom road near Grand River in the Novi School District would be affected locally. Their millage would be upped by a maximum of 1.40 mills.

According to Novi Superintendent Dr.

According to James Brennan, director of management and the budget for Oakland County, the board of commissioner proposal which is supported by his office would create a fixed allocated county millage, thus eliminating the need for a county tax allocation board. Townships would be able to levy up to 1.40 mills without a vote of the people where currently they can levy only 1 mill.

In addition, the township residents would pay the same to the school districts as their counterparts in the city. In Novi Township, residents only pay 8.53 mills. This would put them up to 9.53, the same as city residents.

The one mill difference between the township and city allocations for schools had been necessary, said Brennan, because it was realized by the state that all governing bodies must have taxing abilities. Therefore one mill was allocated to the township while it was decided that so each resident, whether in the city or township was taxed equally, that one mill in the city would go to the school district and not city governments since they have their own taxing ability.

Brennan said that the question definitely will not be on the June school ballot and that a special election might have to be held later in the year. Another possibility would be to wait for a county election next year.

He added that "This fixed millage has been talked around for years but we get tied up in more than one proposal and it gets complicated and ends up being held over for the next year."

Brennan said he believes that persons should be paying the same amount for the same services but that the board in the past has been faced with the impossible task of equalizing tax payments to schools while not cutting any of the school district's taxes or raising taxes for township residents.

In a related matter, Novi School Board approved the budget for the 1977-78 school year required by the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board. Though it is only an estimate with many variables remaining unknown including state equalized valuation and student enrollment, the estimate is still required.

Submitted as the budget was a figure of $5,258,038 which Assistant Superintendent Dr. William Barr said would allow the school district a $50,000 balance.

The figure was arrived at based upon a state equalized valuation of $134,000,000 and an enrollment of 3088 students which would represent a five percent increase. Dr. Barr noted that because of the increase in students and SEV, the district would lose a lot of state aid.

Novi approves two for tuition

Two tuition students including the oldest son of the superintendent have been approved for entrance as tuition students into the Novi School District.

Kent Kratz, son of Dr. Gerald Kratz, requested approval to attend his senior year at Novi High School. His family lives in Brookland Farms contiguous to the new Novi High School property but in the Northville School District.

Meanwhile also requesting that her son Michael be allowed to enter as a tuition student was Mrs. James Durham. She requested the tuition status for her son who is in Village Oaks because she purchased a lot to build a home on Beck Road just south of 9 and a half mile road. She had believed that it was in the Novi School District. Instead it was 150 feet into the Northville School District.

She told the board at a previous meeting that she will work to get her area annexed to the Novi School District.

Board members indicated agreement with both requests although they said they hoped it would not create a flood of requests. Approximate cost for tuition would be $1,200 per year.

Registrations now are being taken for both a "summer fun" program and a fall class at Novi Nursery on Willowbrook Farm, 21633 Beck Road in Novi, Director Lane Norton announces.

A parent open house will be held in the school at 7:30 p.m. this Thursday, April 21, primarily for those interested in the fall class. However, summer applications also will be available.

The fall class, which meets Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, is limited to 20 children three to five years old. "Summer fun" is for the same age group and will be held July 5 through August 12. Flexible scheduling is available. The class will meet from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Early enrollment is advised as the class is limited to 20 each day. Mrs. Norton may be called at 349-7023 or 349-2467.

Corporation reportedly are continuing their search for a building location outside of the central business district. Several sites have been considered, including one near the Gerald Avenue entrance to Highland Lakes subdivision.

If purchase of an alternative site cannot be consummated, Eagles spokesmen have stated they will rebuild on the old site.

councilmembers and several city employees also contributed on their own to the fund.

"It's ironic that a contribution from 52nd District Court Judge Gene Schelz put us over our goal," he added. "Gene said he thought it was a terrific idea."

Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole agrees that in the short time the base station has been in use, it has enabled the department to provide needed assistance.

"We're dependent a lot on CB's to report accidents and breakdowns," says BeGole who notes that the CB allows the police department to keep an eye on what is going on along I-96 even when the patrol cars are several miles from the expressway.

Only a week after the base station was installed, BeGole found out exactly how important it was. The basement to the police station flooded, shorting out the antenna wire for the regular police radio.

But because some of the officers were able to provide their own CB's for use in the patrol cars, the police department was able to dispatch those cars using the CB base. Without it, there would have been no way to dispatch the cars.

"I'm very pleased," said BeGole. "The base station has been well worth the effort. I think it gives you a feeling of that much added security."

But according to BeGole, once all of the mobile CB's are in the cars, strict rules will be enforced on their use by the officers.

"The number one rule is police business only. This idle chatter we don't want," he said. But BeGole admitted that if someone wants to say "hi" to the Novi smokey, that's more than allowed.

According to Mrs. Kohl, the department has been receiving two to three calls on an eight hour shift.

"Just last night I understand they got a call on a DUI (driving under the influence of liquor)," says Mrs. Kohl. The Novi Police located the car from a description and license number provided by the reporting CB'er.

"He (the driver of the car) blew a .25 on the breathalyzer which means he was almost out of the picture," she says.

On another occasion, a trucker ran out of diesel fuel on I-96 and informed the Novi Police of his problem. Not only did police find some diesel fuel for the stranded trucker, the greater range of the base CB was used to locate another trucker who provided the first truck driver further assistance.

Because the range of the base is at times far beyond Novi's borders, Mrs. Kohl says that she has responded at times to help persons in distress calling from other communities. At least two times, Wixom CB calls were routed through Novi while Farmington has also been helped out.

She even heard a call of a car fire in Milford. But by the time she was able to call Milford Police Department, a Milford dispatcher was already putting the call on the air.

Mrs. Kohl admits that there have been calls where no one could be found when police arrive, but they have been minimal. And at times she has informed errant CB'ers that channel 9 is to be used for emergency communications only.

But all in all, the base has really helped, she says. Mrs. Kohl notes that more and more CB'ers are becoming aware that Novi Police Department does monitor the emergency channel and because of that, the calls seem to be picking up.

According to Be Gole, his next step will be to request the state highway department to put up signs along the expressway announcing that Novi Police Department is monitoring.

"We always encourage citizen participation — let us know what's going on," says BeGole.

Summer band program considered in Novi

A summer band program may be instituted in the Novi School District. The proposal both for beginning band and concert band summer programs was before the Novi School Board Thursday night as an information item. It will probably be acted on at the April 28 session.

Specifically, the program would be for six weeks at a cost of $30 or $5 per week. High school students attending all six meetings would receive a quarter credit, netting them a full credit if they participate every summer.

The beginning band would be for students from grades 7-12 who have had no experience while the concert band would be for students in the eighth grade through the twelfth grade who have had previous experience.

Craig Strain, music coordinator for the district, said that with three bands in the middle school and two in the high school, there will be more than 200 students to draw from.

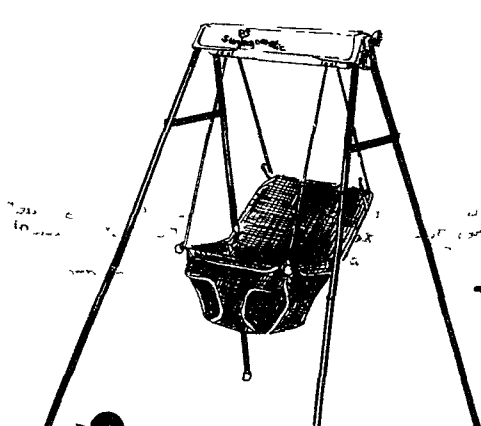

"I would guess we could safely offer the program and make it work," he told the board members.

"Ultimately the purpose is to keep them in the program," he explained. Referring to the quarter credit hour suggested, "It's an incentive to push a few more kids into the program."

Strain noted that the program would be worked so that students could go on vacation and not have to pay for a lesson missed.

to go out and reevaluate areas since there was suspicion of "potential misuse of the map."

Gary Krause also of the SEMCOG staff, pointed out that "what was set down as policy of SEMCOG in writing sounded very good but looks quite different now drawn on a map. Communities are having second thoughts on the land use policy." But, Krause added, "the significance of the land use map is to graphically illustrate and is not to be interpreted as policy."

"The potential danger, as seen by Wixom officials, is that SEMCOG is the regional clearing agency for federally funded projects. Because of that reason, council and planning members got the idea that should Wixom not follow the SEMCOG plan "any future federally funded projects could go down the tube."

Councilman Fred Morehead asked of Krause, "If we don't follow your policies or directives, what you are saying is, if we decide on a project for the betterment of the community and it isn't in line with your plan, we are rejected."

"Don't construe a rejection from the staff as a thumbs-up, thumbs-down method. But," cautioned Krause, "if you are going to use resources of state or federal agencies, you have to play by their rules."

Council was chided for their non-active participation in SEMCOG. "You get out of SEMCOG what you put into it," said Krause. "Wixom is not an active participant and the input is at that level. However that does not excuse SEMCOG from investigating and gathering true data."

Councilman Robert Dingeldey pointed out that "As non-professionals in the field and what's going on and what is expected of us, it behooves SEMCOG to notify, especially the smaller communities, of just what is expected."

Still concerned with apparent inaccuracies in the land policy map, Councilman James Lahde told the SEMCOG people that the "techniques used for their inventory was poor and could have been done better, especially in reflecting the decisions made by communities. Those are the decisions that should be reflected in the SEMCOG policy."

Rowe said aerial photographs and current land use maps were used to devise policy. He added that data at the county level is also used.

It had to be pointed out that the map did not show Wixom to be sewer, which caused questions from the city. Krause, apparently surprised, said it was probably because the city was only "partially sewer."

"Your information and where it's coming from is poor," said Mayor Val Vangieson. "This city has been totally sewer long before any adjoining community ever thought of it."

Why the county did not supply SEMCOG with sewer information drew a few mumbled comments from city people. "Wolverine, Walled Lake and Novi are currently tied into the 'super sewer project' and for a time Wixom was included. Now we're out of it, for whatever reason — maybe we're just lucky," commented Vangieson.

Undercurrent comments were "Wixom, where's that . . . try Livingston County."

Vangieson informed SEMCOG that the city was adequately covered with detailed maps, wetland ordinances and recreational areas that were available to SEMCOG for inclusion in their planning. Krause assured the city the changes would be incorporated in a revamping of the map and that SEMCOG would return to review those changes with city officials.

And with final reassurances that SEMCOG did not plan to supercede any local planning, Assistant to the Mayor Bernard VanOsedale said, "I'm breathing a little easier."

VanOsedale added he was encouraged to know that the map was only a graphic representation of policy and not one of iron-clad decision.

"I feel much better knowing the city will have input into the planning and that what we have already done here in the city will be taken into consideration on the redrafting of the maps."

Novi taxes, debt scored

To the Editor:

Dr. Milton Friedman, Nobel prize-winning economist, in a conference at Dartmouth College, stated that "40 percent of the national income is being spent for us by the government" and that, in contrast, national and local government spent only 10 percent of the national income during the 19th century. He also stated that he was hopeful that "a popular crusade against big government, against bureaucracy, heavy taxes and wasteful government spending" will occur.

At the local level, such a crusade seems to be needed in the City of Novi. Local taxes are soaring to a point approaching confiscation of houses; schools are being built with borrowed money and staffed without regard to the ability of members of the community's ability to pay. Borrowing is resorted to in order to make present payment possible without regard to the fact that debt service requirements place a lien on the future taxpaying ability of property owners.

Of course Novi is not the only community in which "public servants" are becoming "public masters", dictators on economic questions yet apparently having no knowledge of economics. As Dr. Friedman stated, the problem is national and a popular crusade to correct the economic mismanagement is necessary. Such a crusade should begin at the local level.

An individual who does not live within his income is headed for serious financial trouble and the same is equally true of communities. Of course our "public servants" seem to feel they have an inexhaustible source of income — the pocketbook of the taxpayer — and pursue their fiscal policies as though this were true, which is definitely not the case. With 40 percent of the national income already being spent for him by the government, little enough is left to provide food, clothing, medical care, transportation and other necessities! The pocketbook of the taxpayer is approaching exhaustion. Extravagant spending for school structures appears to be not for the benefit of students but for the ego satisfaction of administrators and officials.

The "popular crusade" against heavy taxes and wasteful bureaucratic spending that Dr. Friedman hopes for should start at the local level. We have "bureaucrats" in Novi; we have wasteful spending in Novi; we have heavy taxes in Novi — and we have a debt structure for the city which will increase the tax load for property owners in the future.

We apparently need a "house cleaning" in our city government which taxpayers should keep in mind at the next election.

The names, occupations and property ownership of Tax Review Board members should be published in the Novi News by the city together with how they are appointed and by whom. Taxpayers are entitled to know who is sitting in judgment on them and what their interest and qualifications may be.

The present policy of the "Review Board" seems to be "get all you can out of the taxpayer" rather than an objective consideration of the facts.

I have not seen it published that if a taxpayer is dissatisfied with the findings of the Review Board he can appeal his assessment to the Michigan Tax Tribunal, 808 Southland Ave., Lansing, Michigan. Mr. Merrifield gave me this address when I told him I wasn't happy with the Review Board's findings.

It seems to me that your readers would greatly appreciate a detailed statement on where their tax money goes. Such a statement could include:

- (a) total of city debt
- (b) annual cost of debt service
- (c) salaries paid by the city by name and job
- (d) automobiles furnished to city employees and costs
- (e) other

The city should publish these facts as every taxpayer has the right to know how his money is spent and what he is getting for it.

City orders fire truck

extension agreement, so we should assume that they intend to buy out the jointly owned equipment if we do not continue fire service together."

Supervisor Wilson Grier, who attended Monday's council meeting, assured council that it need not immediately order a new fire truck because he personally would guarantee that jointly owned equipment would continue to be shared with the city beyond the end of the interim agreement.

However, in the absence of a contract, the council concluded it could not "take the chance" of leaving city residents without adequate fire protection.

Council action Monday granted a waiver of bids and authorized the ordering of a fire truck pending inspection of vehicles by the city manager and fire department officials.

Under consideration are vehicles offered by American Fire Apparatus, John Bean, and American LaFrance.

These vehicles include:
LaFrance—750 gallon tank, Ford C-900 chassis, estimated cost of $50,199.
Bean—1000 gallon tank, foam system, high pressure pump, estimated cost of $53,332.

American—1000 gallon tank, high pressure pump, foam available, estimated cost of $48,000.

All are stock model vehicles, slated for construction in June.

What are your children doing?

To the Editor:

For the second time in less than two weeks we have had objects hurled through the front windows of our home. In these incidents one large picture window and three smaller windows were broken with potentially deadly weapons (rocks and pop bottles). Fortunately no one was hurt in either incident, but the potential for bodily harm was there. We are proud of our home and have been working very hard to improve it.

I would like to make a statement to the parents of Northville. Why do you not know where your children are? I feel that both of these events were done by school age children. Can't you impress upon your children the cost of replacement of damaged windows, aluminum siding, or garage doors. Yes, all of these items of my home have been hit with eggs, beer bottles, rocks, and various other items. Yes, insurance covers part of the cost of replacement, but the inconvenience and wait for the replacement item is very distressing. Perhaps next time one of my family will be hurt.

Yes, I am angry! I have children, one a teen ager, but none of them leave home without my knowing where they are going or who they are with. Can all of you parents say the same? Question your children, demand their respect, make them understand the consequences of their actions. Do not allow them to continue these acts of vandalism!

I am asking that my name not be published because I fear reprisals for writing this letter. I am hoping that this letter will help to stop some of the vandalism that we and other citizens of the city of Northville have experienced.

Plan to enter kindergarten?

Parents who have children who will be entering kindergarten next fall in Northville should register now by calling one of the four elementary schools.

All children who will be 5 years old on or before December 1 are eligible to start school next year, according to Donald "Dutch" Van Ingen, principal at Moraine Elementary.

Once they register their children, parents will be notified by mail about the day and time of a short orientation program.

Those programs will involve a visit to the school by parents and their children on either the afternoon of May 12 or the morning of May 13.

A child must take a physical examination and the school must see each child's birth certificate before he can start school, said Van Ingen.

The four elementary schools in Northville and their phone numbers are: Ammerman, 349-2235; Moraine, 349-2084; Winchester, 348-9020; and Silver Spring, 348-9071.

Plots ready

With a little help from friends, such as Northville Rotary Club, Northville Township Senior Citizens will be able to grow their own fresh carrots, peas or cucumbers this summer.

Sixty garden plots 450 by 125 feet are available to the township's senior residents on a three acre site across from the township offices on Sheldon Road.

Lahr may be contacted for plot assignments at 349-1300.

Student-run stores open

Two new businesses are springing up next Monday at Northville High School.

One, The Hill-Top Shoppe, will be selling school supplies, novelties and stationery items.

The other, The Mustang Mart, will be selling arts and crafts made by students.

Both stores will be run by students from merchandising classes taught by Wayne Saunders.

The businesses will open Monday morning with an open house at the high school cafeteria which will include coffee, cake, punch and the school band.

It starts at 10 a.m. and runs until 11:15 a.m.

Saunders says the open house will give the public a chance to see the merchandise that will be peddled at the two stores.

His classes, he says, are gaining valuable experience in buying, selling, bookkeeping, merchandising and other business traits.

The on-the-job training will come in handy when students apply for jobs after high school, he adds.

The Hill-Top Shoppe will sell school supplies, greeting cards, T-shirts, jewelry and other items from 8 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Any profits will be plowed back into the store for more merchandise or to improve the display area.

Each student has a title, such as a buyer, salesman, or shipping and receiving clerk.

The first-year store was limited in funds, but has benefitted from donations from companies and individuals in the community.

The Mustang Mart is open for all students who wish to display and sell their work. The Mustang Mart will take a small cut out of each item sold.

Both stores will be manned by students on a rotating basis — two days at the store and three days in class each week.

Saunders says most of his students are "gung ho" about the store.

"It really helps these kids who don't like to sit in the classroom," he says.

GOOD TIME WINE
by Jim Roth

The best white wines in the world come from southwestern Germany. They are known for their light, dry, sweet powerful taste. Generally, white wines are served with lighter foods since they are lighter than red wines. So with a light meal, or as the first wine with your meal, with the earlier, lighter foods, a white wine would be perfect. Though they go down easily, the white wines are not easily produced. Since they come from the northernmost European wine growing country, the white wine vineyards must be careful of early frosts, lack of sun, and very steep vineyards. In bad years, sugar has to be added to increase the alcoholic content of the wine. But do not worry about this. With years of experience, the German wine growers know their business and one of their Rhine wines can be served without apprehension.

Our many years of experience enables us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477 to give you the proper advice and suggestions on selecting wines for various foods and occasions. Hot sandwiches, submarines, ham and cheese sandwiches are available. We stock a large variety of inexpensive but good half gallon and gallon table wines. Open: 9 a.m.-10 p.m. Monday thru Saturday, Noon - 6 p.m. Sunday.

Speaking for The Record

Disclosure law good local idea

Michigan Citizens Lobby has launched what we consider to be a worthy campaign to encourage local municipalities to develop and adopt their own conflict of interest ordinances.

You will recall that the Michigan legislature enacted a conflict of interest statute in 1975 as part of the Political Reform Act. But the Michigan Supreme Court overturned the act on technical grounds that the act attempted to accomplish too many different objects in a single bill.

The act's demise was widely applauded by governmental officials, especially local-level office holders who feared the law would force them to disclose the size of their bank accounts.

Contrary to general belief, the law would not have required disclosure of dollar amounts.

Because so much pressure has been placed on the now gun-shy legislature, there appears to be little likelihood that it will enact a substitute in the near future even though there is a clear need for legislation.

For example, when a planning commissioner votes on a rezoning matter, we think it is important that the public knows whether or not that commissioner has a financial interest in the property.

Local municipalities should take the initiative by developing their own local controls. By doing so officials can be sure of the law's intent, and they can be sure that the feared disclosure of one's financial worth need not be required.

The Citizens Lobby suggests city councils, township boards and school districts consider ordinances or policies that —

- Prohibit use of confidential information received through holding a public office for private financial gain.
- Prohibit public officials and employees from participating in a government decision that will provide them or their immediate families or their businesses with financial benefits.

—Prohibit public officials and employees from using personnel, resources or property under their control for personal financial gain.

—Prohibit a public official or employee from acting as the paid attorney or representative for someone before a city agency.

—Prohibit a public official or employee from receiving a gift from anyone doing business with the agency or board of which he is a member or employee.

As for financial disclosure, the Citizens Lobby suggests the following financial information be disclosed by public officials annually:

—Description, location and size of all real property in the community in which the individual or a member of his immediate control has a direct or indirect interest.

—Name and address of any business with which the individual or a member of his immediate family is associated that has dealing with the governmental agency of which that individual is a member or employee.

—Name and address of any business that has dealings with the government agency of which the individual is a member, and that provided the public official or his immediate family with $1,000 or more in income over the past year.

We see nothing in these disclosures to embarrass honest public service officials.

Joint fire service on way out

A joint pact covering recreation, library and ambulance services as well as maintenance of the senior citizens' center and fish hatchery recreation grounds has been agreed to between the city and township.

Fire service is another matter.

There's at least an even chance the city and township will decide to part on fire protection.

Because the township has the first option to purchase jointly-owned equipment, the city has placed an order for new fire-fighting equipment — just in case the interim agreement terminating June 30 is not extended.

City officials are convinced that ultimately the township intends to provide its own fire service. Perhaps a majority of the township board members believes the township can offer improved service more economically alone.

While the township board has not revealed its plans, there's reason to believe that a public safety department (combined police-fire force) ranks high with some members. And an agreement with Plymouth Township is another possibility that

BOB WHITE

YES . . .

The question of whether saccharin or any other product offered for human consumption should be banned must ultimately be decided by the Food and Drug Administration.

Such a decision would be based on the results of objective testing conducted initially by the manufacturers of their respective products and followed up by the FDA in its capacity as the consumers' last link with quality control.

Such a decision should be a relatively easy one: either tests provide no evidence of any potential harm to consumers or there is question as to the potential danger of a given product, which should be immediate cause for banning the sale of said product until further tests can provide conclusive evidence one way or the other.

I base my position for banning saccharin on the fact there is indeed a question as to its potential harm, such question arising as the result of animal studies which have implicated it as a cause of bladder cancer. Sure, such studies are naturally suspect since it is commonly thought that the test animals are injected with enough of the alleged carcinogen to create cancer simply because of the large quantity injected.

Placing the medical uncertainties aside as to how many tons of this or cans of that would be required to cause cancer, you can be sure of one thing: it will be a warm day in Siberia before the FDA or anyone else comes out with the statement that "product X definitely causes cancer." The flood gates of litigation would be wide open and the medical person willing to testify to such a factual statement would have more expert witness appearances than Carter has liver pills or peanuts or whatever. Naturally though, we can rest assured that "they" would tell us if they knew, right?

Speaking for Myself

Ban saccharin?

KATHY REESE

NO . . .

I'd never paid that much attention to saccharin until it jumped up and kicked me in the shins recently. This artificial sweetener, which diabetics and — what's the correct term now — pleasingly plump people rely on is infringing on my freedom of choice even though I choose not to use it.

Results of its use aside, let's look at the basic issue. Saccharin is dangerous if used in large quantities. But so is smoking. And that's why I have the bruised shin, and what's worse, bruised freedom of choice. I smoke.

What would Guy Lombardo's "Auld Lange Syne" be without tipsy people enjoying themselves drinking and partying. But, isn't alcohol dangerous, too?

If saccharin is banned, then smoking should be illegal and alcoholic beverages should contain no alcohol.

I believe the Food and Drug Administration should have studied the long term effects of saccharin before it was made available to the public to begin with.

Don't tease our taste buds with artificial sweeteners and then take them away from us, and don't give us the old double standard, either. It's all or nothing.

There's no such thing as being kind of pregnant and no such thing as taking one crutch away and leaving us others to indulge in.

How's this? "The surgeon general has determined that saccharin is hazardous to your health." Fat city is slim once more.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

Having counted off another 4,800 steps in a hike around the block, he grips his visitor's hand firmly, looks him straight in the eye and says, "Look good? Why, Jack, I feel good . . . never better."

So what if he's lost most of his sight. So what if surgeons have cut away chunks of his bladder. So what if he's just out of the hospital for the eighth time since June.

Amazing Fred Wendt is still as healthy looking, as cheerful, and as vibrant in his conversation as ever. And as usual, I'm spellbound by this man who bowed into the world in a log cabin when a man named Chester Alan Arthur was president of these United States.

Fred's not a native of Northville, but he's been around long enough to know that it took a dray and a team of horses to move his furniture here.

Long enough to remember digging potatoes on the farm that today is a subdivision and the site of Our Lady of Victory Church.

And long enough to recall Mr. Filkins daily driving his horse and buggy from his home at Dunlap and Rogers to a five-acre pasture at the edge of town — between what now is the VFW Post and John Mach Ford — to milk his cow.

Fred and Jeanette Wendt have been married for 40 years. They have one daughter, two grandchildren.

But Jeanette is the third Mrs. Wendt. Fred's first wife died with diabetes, his second was fatally injured in a freak automobile accident here.

Retired in 1956 at the age of 70 after 28 years with the Northville Post Office, he worked under four postmasters. By the time he joined the post office, originally as a substitute mail carrier, he already had "put in a lot of time at a lot of different jobs."

Here in Northville he had been a potato digger, an apple presser at Parmenter Cider Mill, a jelly stuffer in the local bakery, a coal loader, a production-liner at Ford Valve Plant, owner and operator of early auto garages on Main, Hutton and Cady streets, and a metal craftsman for Simpson Scale Works.

And before arriving in Northville he had spent a number of years as a shipbuilder, a brass works specialist, a farm owner, a coal yard employee, a sugar beet worker, and a clerk in his father's furniture-undertaking business in Sandusky.

Fred is proud of the fact that he never was without a job. If a factory closed, a job was eliminated, or if he quit, he was on the job at another place the very next day. He worked hard and regularly. In his 28 years with the post office, he never missed a day of work.

"I've always believed in giving a dollar's worth of work for a dollar's worth of wages. If I didn't like a job, I didn't stay around and goof off. I quit and went on to another one. Whether you're working for yourself or for someone else, it's important you do your best."

One of those jobs he quit was at the Ford Valve Plant, not long after Henry Ford established it here. "They wanted quantity, not quality in those days. They'd put your name and the number of valves you'd turn out on the board. I was always last.

"I told the boss, 'Sure, they're making 300 valves, but half of them are being rejected. I'm making 200 and they're all good. Who is doing the better job?'"

"Those making 300," he said, so I quit and bought the old stone garage-blacksmith shop at Main and Hutton." Later, ironically, Ford

Pursell explains decision to co-sponsor bottle bill

To the Editor:
I've received a number of inquiries on national legislation dealing with throw-away bottles.

After considerable consultation with people in our district, careful review of opinions expressed to me pro and con, and serious personal thought on this issue, I have decided to co-sponsor the national bottle legislation. If the bill comes to a vote this session I intend to vote for it.

Despite my consistent leadership position on environmental issues, I was not willing to make a snap decision on expanding the bottle law nationwide. Such a step is much more serious than state legislation, such as we passed in Michigan.

I considered it my responsibility to weigh anew arguments on both sides of the issue in a national context. And I felt an equal responsibility to review the impact of established state laws, and the potential impact of new ones.

Most of all, I wanted to carefully judge the relationship of national bottle legislation with two great priorities facing this nation: energy and employment.

I'm aware that some people were impatient with this deliberate approach. This led to some terrible erroneous statements about my presumed intention to delay the legislation for years on end. Surely these were mistakes born of sincere dedication to this cause, rather than deliberate misrepresentations. Nonetheless, I commend their zeal, and feel sure that they would be disappointed in me if my decisions were shallow ones, not based on the logic and homework I am determined to apply to important issues.

I would like to see some of the dedication and concern evident in the bottle movement also focused on our critical energy problems, which have been occupying a major portion of my time this year.

For instance, I would encourage their support for my effort to take a leadership role in funding laser fusion research for civilian energy purposes. This effort, plus solar energy and other forms of non-polluting energy must stand as the top priority for our nation's future. It would also be encouraging for me to see bottle law supporters broaden the scope of their concern to encompass recycling and resource recovery programs, which are another major focus of my personal efforts. Working together on these issues we can have an enormous positive impact on our environmental, energy and employment problems.

Sincerely,
Carl D. Pursell

Says need M-275

To the Editor:

The dust has started to settle on the controversy over the cancellation of M-275 thru western Oakland County. Some amazing facts have surfaced as the dust is settling.

It is rumored that the Highway Commissioners were requested by Lansing to cancel M-275. This makes sense, because the Governor's transportation package (rapid transit for Detroit) was being presented for consideration at this time. What better means of mass transit can be found in both time and money than using busses on the freeways.

If the "rumor" is true, Mr. Milliken has just lost his voter base in Oakland County and many others that would have been elected with him.

The referendum vote in Commerce Township, with only a small percentage voting, was a charade on the voters by the opponents of M-275. Most voters believed that they were voting against one route proposal and not the M-275 highway itself.

Many of the local politicians truly showed their understanding of what they are elected for. They actually believed that if M-275 were not built that the funds could be used for local road improvement. Not so, funds can only be used for state trunk lines.

Oakland County is the highest per capita property, auto license and income taxpayers in the state. Yet, when it comes to receiving anything from the state, we are told that we should do everything ourselves and not look to the state.

M-275 makes dollars and sense, so let's do it. Be at the April 27th meeting and let out your feelings.

Who is wagging tail?

To the Editor:

As your front-page story on the wind-up of the Regenes probe pointed out, there were no comments from the audience as School Board members read their April 11th statements and, to use the words of T. S. Eliot, the 11-week investigation ended "not with a bang, but a whimper." Somehow, it hardly seemed a moment for instant conclusions to be drawn.

From the parents' viewpoint, the Regenes resolution satisfied only the first two recommendations made by eight parents to the Board on March 7th. Just this past week Regenes parents and students received promised letters from the Board apologizing for the "apparent labeling" and "unintentional stigma" attached to the program and stating that student records are being "appropriately altered" to remove "the word Regenes." The board also has indicated it will more closely supervise future special programs to be sure they adhere strictly to funding guidelines.

However, the parents' three remaining requests wound up somewhere out in left field. While regretting the improper funding practices that led to the eventual demise of the alternative school program, the board only indirectly admonished administrators for their roles in this drama and, by its action last Monday night, in effect rewarded two of them — the director of instruction and the curriculum coordinator — with two-year contracts and increases in salary. At the same time, the Regenes teacher appears to have been damned with faint praise and left somewhere in limbo as to her future in the District.

Many of us believe the final chapter on the real issue involved in Regenes — the accountability of administrators and their license to manipulate people and programs behind the scenes — has yet to be written. Certainly the Superintendent should be held accountable for his proposal to the Board last Monday that the next move on the future of an alternative school program in Northville is up to the administration. The board's instruction to him to pursue this exploration and report back by mid-May should definitely be followed up on. How else can we determine the accountability of an administration that, to many of us, has not been responsive or accountable enough to taxpayers who continue to pay for all those long-term contracts with increased salaries and fringe benefits they don't have much voice in authorizing?

Who, we ask, is responsible for the evaluations that promote questionable administrators on the one hand and, with the other, banish to Siberia a teacher who attempted to deal honestly with the public? How many Board members reviewed these evaluations before being pressured into awarding two-year contracts and increases in salary? Or, again, was this the result of collusion between the superintendent and those subordinates who do his bidding without fail and are rewarded regardless of whether the Board's or the public's best interests are served?

In the final analysis of last Monday's actions, was the superintendent directing the board or the board the superintendent? Once more, one is reminded of the old truism about the tail wagging the dog.

Sincerely,
Jim and Ginny Lewis

Plan tot lot at hatchery

A tot lot where small children can build sand castles safely while their parents play tennis or watch a ball game at the fish hatchery recreation site will become a reality in a few weeks.

The tot lot is the project of the Northville Jaycee Auxiliary, which is getting an assist from Northville Township hall awards. It has the blessing of both the City and Township of Northville.

Designed for use by toddlers and children up to eight years old, the 55 by 70-foot area is to be located at the east end of the tennis courts with the court fence forming one side of the lot, which will be fenced completely and have a latch gate.

Tentative plans of the Jaycettes include pieces of safe climbing equipment and tractor tires as well as the sand box.

It will be financed with a $1,500 donation from the Jaycettes and $100 from Town Hall. Gwen Magnan, representing the Northville Jaycee Auxiliary, told Northville Township board last Thursday that the expected completion date will be the end of May or by the end of the second week in June.

Township ok's subdivisions

Approval of preliminary plats for 300 homes to be built in Northville Colony Subdivisions 3 and 4 was given developer Fred Greenspan at the April meeting of Northville Township Board last Thursday.

The board acted upon recommendation of the planning commission, stipulating that approval be contingent upon satisfactory resolution of a maintenance requirement of the storm water retention basin.

The developer told the board that he expected the two-part development to take three years to build about 100 homes to be built each year.

bought his shop and moved its equipment to Greenfield Village.

One of Fred's early homes was located on what was then called Plymouth Avenue (South Main). It was situated on the east side of the street — the railroad running behind it, the streetcar past the front door.

When the county turned the street into a boulevard, his house was moved to River Street where he continued to live until the property was purchased by Northville Downs and the house torn down.

"Living next to the track was great," says Fred. "I don't think I missed a night of racing all the years I lived there. I knew every driver, every groom, every horse around."

He bought stock in the Driving Club primarily to get a free pass to the races. He wore a path to the track.

Fred played trumpet in some of Northville's earliest bands. Volunteers from farms, factories and stores, they practiced above the streetcar waiting station and performed Saturday nights at the intersection of Main and Center.

"Oh, we had some sweet sounds in those days. So many people turned out to hear us a horse or a car couldn't get down the street," he remembers.

The Northville Band continued for years, playing regularly as far away as Sand Hill (Redford). It broke up about the time a bandstand broke and a member almost swallowed his trombone.

It's been years since Fred Wendt touched a trumpet to his lips, but the vitality of this fascinating man suggests to the visitor he could step outside his Butler Street home and blow his once familiar call to practice. But the years have erased too many bandmen to answer.

City - township Tax hike possible approve pact represent the township, while Mayor pro tem Paul Vernon and City Manager Steven Walters are to represent the city on this committee.

The formula finally agreed upon at last week's meeting substituted state equalized valuation (SEV) for population as one of the formula's ingredients, and it reduced the percentage of the burden from 50 percent to 45 percent.

That formula is based on a 45 percent burden and a 55 percent SEV, which means that 45 percent of a service's cost, referred to as "burden", is to be shared equally by the city and township, and it means the remaining 55 percent of actual costs is to be shared by the two in the same proportion as their respective SEV.

On the basis of estimated costs of the five services during the 1977-78 year, the township would contribute $92,958 of the $160,039 total while the city could contribute $67,081.

"While the proposed budgets reflecting the city-township contributions are recognized as being essentially reasonable, it is also recognized that the finance committee recommendations may result in increases or decreases," City Manager Steven Walters noted.

Here's the break-down of shared costs for each of the services:

Fish Hatchery — $2,323, township; $1,677, city; for a total of $4,000.

Senior Citizens — $2,323, township; $1,677, city; for a total of $4,000.

Ambulance — $1,975, township; $1,425, city; for a total of $3,400.

Officials have stressed that the $4,000 outlay is for maintenance of the senior citizens house — not the senior citizens program, which is financed through the recreation department.

A single written agreement is to be developed covering all five of these services. It is to be irrevocable for a period of two years, and it is to continue indefinitely thereafter unless terminated by either party with written notice.

Number of days of prior notice for termination has yet to be determined.

Although Supervisor Wilson Grier and Clerk Clarice Sass earlier had opposed a multi-year contract, both seemed satisfied with the two-year pact when it was decided that budgets of the service departments would be reviewed annually by a joint-finance committee.

Both city and township officials considered it advantageous to review the budgets jointly to determine if they should be reduced, increased or accepted as presented. The proposed 1977-78 budgets, which were received several weeks ago, are to be included in this review.

Grier and Sass also recommended that the agreement include a specification that the township be provided with vouchers also with bills by the city.

The five services are to be operated as they are presently being operated — namely that the library service will be operated by a jointly appointed library advisory board, the recreation department by a jointly appointed recreation commission, and the fish hatchery maintenance, senior citizens facility and the ambulance facility being administered by the city.

Concerning the makeup of the library and recreation boards, Grier tossed out the suggestion that representation be based on population. His suggestion, which would mean that a majority of both boards would be township residents because of the township's greater population, was shot down by Trustee James Nowka.

When it was decided to base a portion of the formula on SEV rather than population because annual SEV figures are more easily obtained than are population figures, city councilmen insisted the burden percentage be reduced to 45 percent.

SEV plus the 45 percent burden, Councilman Paul Vernon and the city manager argued, produces about the same sharing costs as does a 50 percent burden and population. To leave the burden at 50 percent and using SEV, they noted, would boost the city's share beyond the earlier agreed upon level.

Relative to the net costs shared by the two municipalities under the approved formula, the net effect is a very nearly compromise by both the city and township from their initial demands.

at a balanced level at the end of the fiscal year.

"This is not an acceptable actual year-end position, of course, and I will present an additional report dealing with adjustments and revisions to bring the present fiscal year into a balanced position if at all possible."

The manager cited a heavy DPW overtime burden during January-March because of the severe conditions, very high insurance bids compared to budget estimates and increased non-reimbursed police service at the track as reasons for the projected deficit.

Here are some of the manager's general observations as council prepares its cutting knives:

Streets — the major and local street funds include normal maintenance, plus the Wing Street extension under Wayne County CD funds and the Hutton Street improvements under a bonding issue.

Equipment — The equipment fund projects equipment purchases which should be reviewed in terms of cash flow demands on the public improvements fund.

Public Improvement — The public improvement fund is facing increasing demands to meet previous commitments extending over more than one year. Particularly, the potential demands of the Allen Terrace Project should be kept clearly in view in terms of other project commitments for the next two to four years.

Parking — The parking fund is projected to develop the Main-Hutton lot in 1977-78 with a special assessment bond issue. The cash flow for this fund may become critical unless the full parking space credits resulting from the project are sold at the time the project is bonded.

Walters recommended to council that a comprehensive six-year capital outlay budget be prepared this year because of the increasing multi-year commitments which imply demands on future years' revenues.

"I am ready to work with the city council to balance the needs of the proposed service levels against the burden of increased millage in order to reach a conclusion in the best interests of the taxpayers of the city," the manager told council in presenting his 45-page budget proposal.

Public hearing on the budget is tentatively scheduled for mid-May, with adoption and the setting of the tax rate slated on or before May 23.

The city's fiscal year runs from July 1, 1977 through June 30, 1978.

PTSO seeks nominations

Annual meeting of the Northville Parent, Teacher, Student Organization (PTSO) will be held at 8 p.m. May 18 in the high school cafeteria. Executive board members for the 1977-78 school year are to be elected.

The nominations committee has selected the following members for nomination: Helen Schneider, Elizabeth Lockwood, Margaret Renaud and Donald Lindemier for parent representatives; Elaine Heineman, Lori Hopping, Carolyn Eltinge and Richard Bookwalter for student representatives. To date there have been no teachers consenting to nomination. A. J. Geisler, PTSO president, reports.

PTSO members may nominate candidates for the executive board at the meeting or may submit names in advance to Geisler at 866 Yorktown Court in Northville.

Mustang softball starts today

This year (they hope) no late-inning losses

Last year's Northville softball team "started out like crazy," said coach Mary Minor, but then the roof fell in. "We'd have the whole ballgame until just about the end," she said. "We'd have the team by one run, but lose it at the end."

The last game of the year in the pre-districts was the same kind of one-run loss and left the Mustangs with "about a 500 record."

"I expect to improve on that this year," said coach Minor.

She'll be starting a 20-game regular season today at Brighton with a brand-new battery, a fast but inexperienced outfield and a solid infield.

Even though strong-hitting first baseman Kim DeRusha is recovering from surgery, the Northville infield is still a good one.

Another good hitter, Sheri Metz, will start at first, singles-hitting Becky Albus is at second, an excellent young player, Suzy Heinzman, is at shortstop and third-year veteran Chris Suddendorf is at third.

Suddendorf and Metz are juniors, Albus is a senior and Heinzman a sophomore.

The defense is solid, said Ms. Minor, but "you have to be able to put the ball over."

That job will fall to junior Kim

Tromans, the number-two pitcher last season. She'll be pitching to sophomore Nancy Schlacter, an infielder last year who is showing the aggressiveness needed to be a good catcher.

The outfield has potential as long as no one shoots a starting pistol. They may forget which sport they are in.

Because freshmen have been moved from the high school to the junior highs, Ms. Minor didn't get the 30 or so that usually try out for the team.

"We had to scramble," she admitted. But there is depth. Julie McDaniels at second and Kathie Rich at third are examples.

Should Tromans falter, Diana Perpich and Hopping are waiting in the wings for a chance to pitch.

Hitting was a weak spot last year, and Ms. Minor is hoping that Metz, Schlacter and Heinzman will lead a turnaround. DeRusha will be available for pinch-hitting duty (there is no designated hitter in softball) until she can work herself back into the line-up.

If the hitting improves, the outfield comes around as expected, the infield is as sharp as it should be and the pitching comes through, the Mustangs will improve on last year's record.

Will these "ifs" come through? The answer begins this afternoon at Brighton.

Win one, lose one, bad then good, Northville fights 'split' personality

Talk about a split personality.

Even though they were basically the same ballplayers, there was no resemblance between the Northville baseball team that got clobbered in the first game of two double-headers last week, and the Mustangs who bounced back to take the nightcap each time.

Wednesday, Northville rebounded from a 12-3 Plymouth Salem shellacking to salvage a split, 9-3. Friday, the Mustangs were trounced 11-0 by a fine Livonia Franklin team, but then won the second game, 7-4, in 10 innings.

"Which is the real Northville team?" asked coach Bob Kucher.

"It depends upon the mental discipline that they have," he answered. "They did prove they could come back, though."

The two splits end a season-opening string of three double-headers — they split the first one against Brighton, too — for the Mustangs who have two more non-league games before opening

Western Six play at Livonia Churchill Friday at 3:30.

Easily the best game of last week was the second Franklin contest. It had all the elements — good hitting, fine pitching, exciting plays and, from Northville's standpoint, a Mustang win.

Scott McMillen, pinch-hitting for winning pitcher Dave Heckerl, started the winning rally with an infield hit. The Mustangs put runners on first and second when Franklin unsuccessfully tried to turn Nick Hamp's bunt into a force out.

Doug Marzonie bunted the runners along and Don Dales walked on a 3-2 pitch to fill the bases.

Then catcher Greg Armstrong, who leads the team with a .450 batting average, dumped a suicide squeeze bunt to score pinch-running Kevin Lindley with the winning run.

Ed Talbot iced the game with a two-run single that gave him a team-leading six RBIs.

John Wizgard, who picked up his first win of the year Wednesday at Salem, finished Franklin by putting the side down in order, fanning two.

Heckerl pitched the first nine innings and — after giving up three runs in the first two innings — was nearly untouchable.

In the last seven innings, Heckerl gave up only two hits and one run and at one point — in the sixth through eighth innings — struck out seven straight men.

There's not much to talk about in the first game which was over after a seven-run first inning in which Franklin used three hits, four walks and an error to open the flood gates.

The Mustangs were held hitless until Armstrong and Marzonie picked up singles in the last two innings.

It was a similar day Wednesday when Salem got to Heckerl early and coasted to a 12-3 win in the first game.

It was reversed in the second game as Nick Hamp's four hits and two apiece by Armstrong, Talbot, Rick Marroni and McMillen paced the offense.

The big hit, though, was a three-run homer by Don Dales in the sixth inning to break open a 5-3 game.

"It was a line drive to right-center, about 365 feet," said Kucher. "It jumped out of there."

With most of the double-headers behind them, the Mustangs are apt to settle down and be more consistent, said Kucher.

"Playing one game a day is going to make a little difference," he said. "But the double-headers were good. Everybody gets a chance to play and we find out a lot about the team."

One thing he has discovered is that Heckerl and Wizgard appear to be the strong one-two pitching combination that Northville needs to challenge for the title.

He also has to be pleased with Dales, who leads the team in runs and is second in RBIs and tied with Marzonie for most walks.

Novi's Bill Withers flags down Northville shot

Game Novi is blanked by neighborhood rival

Illness and vacation plans prevented Monday's Northville-Novis tennis clash from becoming a hotly-contested neighborhood rivalry, but Doug Castillo and Barry Ouellette made sure the afternoon was interesting.

Castillo, a slim Northville junior, and Ouellette, a diminutive Novi freshman with a promising future, went at each other tooth and nail long after everyone else had finished.

Castillo finally ended things by taking the last two points of the match's second straight tie-breaker to win 7-6, 7-6. The score of the first set's tiebreaker was 5-3.

The win finished a perfect 7-0 day for Northville in the season opener for both schools.

The contest was supposed to be much closer, but that was before Wildcat coach Bob Haywood saw much of his strong singles contingent disappear for the week.

Greg Goff is in Florida for a family vacation and Tim Kelly is ill, leaving only Ouellette from Novi's top three netters.

The absences — which come at the start of a solid week of Novi matches — forced Haywood to move a doubles team into single competition.

The result was that Northville coach Bob Simpson saw his Mustangs breeze through the first six matches, losing more than two games in only one set.

In singles it was Greg McFadden beating Bill Wilkens, and Rudy Horst over Barry Skown by identical 6-1, 6-0 scores, Charlie Whiteside beating John Debrule, 6-1, 6-1 and Castillo edging Ouellette.

In doubles, Steve Laffler-Steve Pyett beat Bob Rank-Steve Jones, 6-2, 6-2, John Dyer-Jeff Hodge beat Gary Anthony-Brian Todd, 6-4, 6-0, and Lance Carter-John Marzonie beat Gordy Bergstrom-Dave Bohmer, 6-1, 6-0.

227 N. BARNARD, HOWELL. (517) 546-93207th grade football approved at NoviIntramural seventh grade football will be instituted at Novi Middle School as a result of board action last Thursday.The program approved calls for two leagues of three teams. The game is six man tackle football."The rationale for this proposal is based upon a void which some people insist has existed in the football program since the beginning of the middle school in 1971," said a board report. "The lack of adequate preparation of a feeder program prior to eighth grade football is often cited for the disappointing seasons the youngsters have had."The new program is intended, according to the report, to stress: every student plays; sportsmanship; conditioning; position blocking-tackling; familiarity with football terms; play calling-strategy-pass patterns; fun.Board members had heard about the proposal at their last regular board session from teacher Gary Kelly, who originally suggested the idea. According to Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz, Kelly had gone away from the meeting feeling that some ideas given concerning the program were getting away from the idea of the program as suggested. Dr. Kratz did not elaborate."We should never be in the position of designing a program for staff convenience," he said, explaining why he had brought back the matter for consideration. He asked that it be a pilot program for 1977-78.Board members, except Ruth Waldenmayer, appeared in favor of the program. But they insisted that the program had to be carefully monitored and that all students in the program had to receive equal attention.Mrs. Waldenmayer questioned reports from doctors that bones of young children can be broken easily and do not heal properly."At this age the bones are not developed," she maintained. Shesuggested that the program should be touch instead of tackle."A six man team be it touch or tackle is in motion continually," maintained Joel Colliau. "There isn't a mall of blockers or tacklers squaring off in the pits. I'd rather have my son running around helter-skelter with equipment so if he does hit the dirt he's protected. I don't see this as a dangerous program."Trustee Joan Daley suggested that possibly the eighth graders who prefer not to be in interscholastic football might want to be involved also.Board approved the program, which will cost $600 to $800 for equipment, by a 7-1 vote with Mrs. Waldenmayer opposed. The motion established a minimum of 24 students in the program with an interim report during the season, a record of injuries will be kept and re-evaluation of the program will be by the end of 1977.Work begins

PLYMOUTH • 459-6060

LONG DISTANCE—Secretary-treasurer Ed Welch looks down the fairway at Salem Hills in the direction that he wants his ball to travel as he tees up for the opening of the 29th Northville Golf League last Tuesday. Standing by in

Golfers tee off for 29th season

Mailmen should deliver through the snow, sleet, rain and wind with the consistency that the Northville Golf League completes its opening round each spring.

"We've only been rained out once or twice," says Ed Welch, the league's secretary-treasurer. "We've played some times we probably shouldn't have. A couple of years ago, we were hitting out of snowdrifts."

Last week was no problem, however, as Tuesday's sunny skies and 80-degree temperatures greeted the 18 teams who opened the league's 29th season at Salem Hills Golf Course.

"At one time, I thought we were the oldest, continuous golf league in the state of Michigan," says Welch. "Somebody else wrote to the newspaper and said they were older. We're either second or third."

Welch, who has been secretary-treasurer for 19 years, and Bill Williams are the only two original members who are still playing in the league formed at Bob-O-Link 29 years ago by Dr. H. G. Godfrey and others.

Since then, the league has moved to Hilltop, Brae Burn, Salem Hills, Godwin Glen and, last year, back to Salem Hills.

Some other long-time members of the league include Stan Johnson, Bill Kinnaird, Ray Williams, Charlie Huff, Dr. Pat Buoniconto and Ken Wolfe.

This year's board of director's includes Charlie Bakkila, president; Mike Zinn, vice president; Welch, secretary-treasurer; Al Horton, director; and Denny Armstrong, past president.

The 24-week season will provide trophies for the first place team (Denny Armstrong and Mike Zinn), defending champions, second-place team, low gross, most points by an individual, most improved player and the "We Tried" trophy for the team that wins the battle for the basement. Ray Williams, with a 40.6 average, was the best on the links last season. There is also an annual tournament, complete with trophies for several events.

Thinclads p after Ohio

It's a long trip from Northville to Mansfield, Ohio, but John Coram thought it was worth every mile.

The Mustang distance runner, who has been struggling because of injuries since a strong freshman year, turned in a 10:02 two-mile race last weekend that was the best of his career.

Coram was one of several reasons that coach Ralph Redmond was pleased even though Northville returned from the prestigious track meet without any points.

"We always go down there thinking that if nothing else, the kids will get good solid competition," he said. "We came home feeling pretty good."

Bob Gould (9:43) in the two mile, Bob Sweeney (52.6) in the 440, tri-captain Rick Rose (2:05) in the half mile and Earl Bingley (23.0) in the 220 each matched his peak performance for last year "white" Redmond hit their early."

Dennis Sweeney to get any hurdles preliminary time was eventual star.

The two three under the school record certainly in race last weekend dropping his.

Lobbying for plants

Anyone who walks into the lobby of Orchard Hills School won't take long to notice the work of Ann Luce, Secretary of the Orchard Hills Booster Club. She has been caring for the plants in the lobby, cutting them back, fertilizing and providing regular waterings. The many colored blossoms greeting visitors include nasturtiums, geraniums, crown of thorns, hibiscus and begonia.

Vandalism climbs in city

Vandalism continued to climb through the first two months of this year, the February monthly report of the Northville (city) Police Department showed.

Sixteen cases of vandalism were reported in February, up four from the same month in 1976. The increase boosts the total for the first two months of the year to 25 — 15 more than were recorded during the same period last year.

Monetary loss value for vandalism in February was put at $1,665. Total for the first two months of the year was $2,890.

Other crimes or reports of crime were occurring generally at a lesser rate in February 1977 than in the same month last year.

Exceptions include:

Rape (included attempted), up one from zero; motor vehicle theft, up four from zero; arson, up two from zero; fraud, three, up from two; sex offense, up from one; and narcotic drug violation, three, up from one.

Robbery was down to zero from two; aggravated assault down to zero from three; burglary was the same at three; larceny, was down to 14 from 22; assaults, were down to three, from seven; forgery-counterfeiting was down to zero from two; and possession of stolen property was the same at one.

Drunk driving was up to three from one; liquor law violations was up to three from zero; and other offenses were up to 16 from 13.

Drunkness was down to nine from 17; and disorderly conduct was down to six from 19.

Through the first two months of the year, these offenses were up from the same period the previous year:

Rapes, burglaries, motor vehicle theft, assaults, arson, fraud, embezzlement, stolen property, vandalism, weapons offenses, sex offenses, narcotic drug violations, drunk driving, liquor law violations, vagrancy, and other offenses.

These offenses were down for the same period:

Robbery, aggravated assault, larceny, forgery, drunkenness, and juvenile complaints.

In the area of traffic complaints, three were charged with reckless driving, 15 with improper license-registrations, 17 creating road hazards, and four abandoned autos were reported through the first two months of the year.

Fines sharply increased Township dog census set

Just as Northville Township has had a surge in its human population, officials suspect it has had a corresponding growth in its canine one.

At last Thursday's board meeting trustees voted unanimously to conduct a dog census throughout the township, appropriating funds not to exceed $500 from the treasurer's budget for it.

As in a previous dog census in the early 1970's, however, Supervisor Wilson Grier suspects, more than the cost will be recouped in additional dog licenses.

In seeking board approval to conduct the census, Grier also presented an amendment to township ordinance No. 50 steeply increasing fines for dogs impounded. This also passed by unanimous vote of the trustees present.

First time that Rover or Fido is impounded the fee will be $10, instead of the previous $3. For a second offender the fine will jump to $25, instead of the previous $5.

A charge of $4 a day will be made during the days the dog is impounded. "Seventy percent of the dogs we are apprehending are not licensed," Grier told the board as he asked for the new ordinance and the census.

The census, he said, will result in more licensing so that dogs picked up can be identified and owners contacted. At present, he added, about 3,000 township dogs are licensed. If another 1,000 are registered as a result of the census, he estimated, an added revenue of $3,000 could result.

Dog licenses, whether male, female or unsexed, are $3 if purchased by the annual June 1 deadline for dogs over six months old. An added $3 is charged for late registration.

Grier proposed that about 160 man hours be spent to have the census conducted throughout the township by Constable Jame Schrot.

Not all trustees were certain Schrot would locate unlicensed dogs as it was pointed out that owners previously had hidden them when the census taker was in the neighborhood.

But if Rover barks when the census taker knocks at the door, you can bet he'll be counted — and licensed.

Novi ok's rescue plans

A dispatching procedure in emergency response situations has been approved by Novi City Council.

The procedure was created by Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole and Fire Chief Duane Bell following a request for guidelines from the city council. The plan includes three primary categories each of which involves differing dispatch procedures.

Following are the three categories:

1) Complaints requiring initial dispatch of only a patrol unit and an ambulance: breathing difficulty, heart problems, unconsciousness, home injuries, personal injury accidents (vehicles), industrial accidents, attempted suicides, gunshot, knife, carbon monoxide, etc.

2) Rescue tasks in which a police unit and fire department rescue unit will be dispatched — ambulance will be placed on standby and requested from scene ("jaws of life" may be needed): cave-ins (sewer, water, basement, etc.); construction accidents (walls, roofs, or ceilings collapse, elevators fall, etc.); trapped victim (pinned in vehicles, trapped in machinery, etc.); drowning (lakes, ponds, swimming pools, not bathtubs); inaccessible areas (victim in field or other location where four-wheel drive needed or in high places or elevated structures where ladders, winch or manpower essential).

3) Police assistance with fire response, when necessary: traffic direction at major accident scenes; traffic signal malfunctions; road blocks during snowstorms, windstorms, floods, etc.; trees down, DPW not available; flood conditions; crowd control — Gala Days, Halloween, civic events in general; tornado touchdowns; missing persons, search of area.

John Early, owner of Novi Ambulance Service was available at the council meeting and the use of Novi Ambulance's extraction unit was discussed. The extraction unit, he said, contains many different items designed to help free people. He noted that it does not include a "jaws of life" which the city recently purchased. He explained that in many circumstances where space is limited the "jaws of life" could not be used.

Council members questioned whether the city is billed by Novi Ambulance if it calls Novi Ambulance on a call, a person is transported to the hospital and Novi Ambulance is unsuccessful in getting that person to pay. Early responded that the city would be charged. He added, however, that the city would not be charged if Novi Ambulance is called and it turns out to be a false alarm and no one is transported.

Garbage truck injures driver's 13 year-old son

In Township . .

A 13-year-old Livonia youth remains in critical condition in Botsford Hospital following a freak accident in the Highland Lakes complex early Friday morning.

Glen Neely was helping his dad, Andy Neely, owner of Neely Rubbish Removal, as a "garbage jumper" during Easter vacation. It was Glen's job to stand on a rear platform of the rubbish truck and jump off to collect rubbish containers and dump them in the hopper of the truck.

Since dumpsters are used in Highland Lakes, Glen was sitting rather than standing on the platform when his father was in the process of backing up to one of the dumpsters.

A moving van parked in the area made the process more difficult with Neely according to Northville Township Police apparently more intent on missing the van rather than to the closeness of the dumpster.

Glen, wedged between the truck and the dumpster, was impaled on the lever of the dumpster and also suffered a severe gash in the groin area caused by a piece of metal.

Glen was immediately transported to the hospital by ambulance where reports indicate he has undergone three operations since the accident.

Terry Priest, 23, of Northville was injured last week in a motorcycle accident on Seven Mile west of Valencia and later arrested for driving under the influence of liquor.

Priest told police he was riding his cycle eastbound on Seven Mile when a car pulled out from a driveway in front of him. When he attempted to avoid a collision by hitting the shoulder of the road, he lost control, skidded into a guard rail, and finally collided with a mailbox.

First aid was administered on the scene by responding officers before Priest was transferred to St. Mary Hospital for treatment of a severe cut on his arm and multiple abrasions on both hands and arms.

Priest, who admittedly had been drinking, was later arrested.

A driver, originally stopped for reckless driving on Eight Mile and Silver Springs Thursday evening, was arrested for carrying a concealed weapon. Chester Chroniewicz of Dearborn was arraigned in Livonia on the charges and stood mute. He was provided with a court-appointed attorney.

Chroniewicz, police said, was carrying a semi-automatic pistol in his pocket along with a clip containing six live rounds of ammunition and a knife. He told police he was not licensed to carry the gun nor was it registered.

A pickup truck stolen from an Innsbrook Apartment parking lot April 12 was recovered in Canton Township the next day by the Sheriff's Department after it had been stripped of $342 worth of equipment.

Both a slide mount and hidden converter antenna along with a CB radio, AM-FM stereo unit and a variety of tools were found missing from the truck.

A glass sign at the A&W on Northville Road was broken by unknown persons throwing liquor bottles. In the incident that occurred sometime after 8 p.m. April 19, police found one bottle lodged inside the sign with a second found in a compartment of the sign pole.

A sergeant manning the front desk at the Michigan State Police Post in Northville said he was just a little startled when a man dashed through the lobby Friday night yelling that a crazy man behind him was going to kill him and vaulted onto the counter of the five-foot desk.

Seconds later a second man dashed into the lobby yelling "He's crazy, get him."

When peace was restored, the first man, accompanied by a trooper went to his car for identification. Troopers found the car had been driven almost to the front entrance of the post.

Sorting out the facts, troopers learned the complaint began in Southfield when Lawrence Malo of that city said a car with four extremely bright lights began tailgating. Malo said he used several techniques to rid himself of the other driver in the ride that eventually brought the two men together in Northville.

The second driver, Frank Cipelle of Detroit, who told troopers he taught pursuit driving to the Detroit Police Department, gave an opposite story. Both men volunteered to take polygraph tests.

After interviewing both subjects, troopers indicated both men had overreacted to the situation and made the problem progressively worse due to their driving actions.

Troopers added that Malo was frantic and to the point of hysteria when he first reached the post. Malo offered to pay for the damages to the lawn. Investigation into just who was at fault is continuing.

A Law Enforcement student attending a meeting at Northville State Hospital Wednesday evening left the facility only to find his car missing from the parking lot.

The 1974 Oldsmobile was found stripped and totally gutted by fire in Detroit early the next morning.

Four patients from Northville State Hospital were listed as escapees from the facility last week. One court-ordered patient, considered dangerous, was discovered missing at 3 p.m. April 11. He was returned later the same day by the Detroit Crisis Center.

A second patient who failed to return from a visitation leave the same day was also listed as an escapee. The court-order male, considered dangerous to himself, is still sought by authorities.

A woman patient is still missing and sought after she slipped away from the hospital about 5 p.m.

A forensic patient, considered dangerous to himself and others was found missing from Northville State Hospital at 11:30 p.m. Friday. The man has yet to be located.

Two female inmates of the Detroit House of Correction made good their escape Wednesday night. Police are still seeking their whereabouts.

A woman, serving a 30-day sentence for larceny escaped from the Detroit House of Correction early Saturday morning. She too, is sought by authorities.

the second car. The owners placed a value of $125 on that equipment.

Two windows were broken at a home on Hill Street April 12 by vandals throwing rocks. Police investigating the incident noted it was the second incident of glass breakage at the home in two weeks. Damage was placed at $100.

A Tecumseh minibike engine and a variety of parts for such a vehicle were taken during a breaking and entering at John's Mower Service on Center Street sometime after 6 p.m. April 11.

Pry marks were found on a rear door to the business and was thought to be the entry point to the building. The owner placed a value of $429 on the missing parts.

Three maple trees on Clement Street were found to be cut and peeled by someone using a sharp instrument. The incident occurred sometime between Thursday and Saturday. It was hoped the trees could be saved although damage was estimated to be $300.

A Honda motorcycle valued at $1500 was taken from the main parking lot at Northville Downs during the forty minutes the owner was inside the building Sunday afternoon.

The death of 45-year-old Robert Maisonneuve of Allen Drive Saturday morning was attributed to suicide according to Northville City Police reports. Maisonneuve died as a result of a gunshot wound.

In Novi . . .

A home in the 1400 area of East Lake Drive was broken into April 14 and $720 worth of goods taken.

According to police reports, taken were a sleeping bag, backpack, electrophonic stereo, Gerrard turntable, RCA color television, Cypress Gardens water skis and $40 in pennies.

The burglars apparently entered by breaking through a rear door.

Police are investigating a breaking and entering April 14 in the 31000 area of Waldon Court in which a home was completely cleaned out of everything

KEEN EYES—Flanked by Sergeant Gary Sauer on the right and receiving citations from District Commander Captain Walter Anderson, left, are Michigan State Troopers Theodore Nelson and Donald Worden. It was through the troopers' keen observation that two stolen vehicles were recovered in two consecutive days last June. The troopers, assigned to the Northville Post, were able to arrest both drivers for receiving and concealing stolen property.

In Northville . . .

Thieves attempting to remove an 8-track AM-FM stereo unit from a locked car parked near Cady Street Thursday night, ripped the dashboard of the car and damaged the ashtray in the incident.

Value of the missing sound equipment was listed at $300.

Earlier in the week, two additional larcenies were investigated by Northville City Police in incidents that occurred on Yorktown Court. In both instances, the cars were parked in driveways.

Taken from a Volkswagon was an AM-FM stereo unit valued at $200. An additional $200 damage was incurred when thieves broke portions of the dashboard and heater vents in order to remove the unit.

Pliers were used to clip the wires to remove a radio from the dashboard of Troopers get citations

In ceremonies last week at the Northville State Police Post presided over by Captain Walter Anderson, commander of the district operation, two troopers from the post were presented with honorable mention citations.

Troopers Donald Worden and Theodore Nelson received the citations for their work last June in recovering two stolen vehicles in two consecutive days.

It was through the troopers "keen observation", the award stated, that the vehicles were recovered and their drivers arrested for receiving and concealing stolen property.

It was further noted that both occurrences might have escaped detection had it not been for the observations of the officers during the routine traffic stops of the vehicles.

In both instances, a check of registration and vehicles numbers on the automobiles and those carried by the driver did not match. The certificate further stated that a careless comparison of those numbers could have been assumed to be a misprint in transfer or totally overlooked.

Motion by Councilman Vernon support Councilman Folino that the proposal of the Jaycettes be accepted with the Council's thanks, and referred to the Recreation Dept. for supervision and development.

Motion carried unanimously.

PUBLIC HEARING TO CONSIDER TERMINATING CITY WATER SERVICES TO CERTAIN TOWNSHIP CUSTOMERS (ADJOURNED FROM MARCH 21, 1977) Mayor Allen reopened the Public Hearing for discussion. He asked if anyone in the audience had anything to add.

Mr. Sugrue commented that the DPW had found new information concerning the water lines. He asked that Mr. Mapes be permitted to explain and identify the findings of last week on the map. Mr. Sugrue stated the 4" line is actually a 6" line.

Mayor Allen asked Ted Mapes to identify lines and state the findings of last week.

Ted Mapes responded our maps show a 4" line running east of Main St. However they found a 6" line across from Mr. Sugrue's house and a 1 1/2" line on the opposite side of the street. At least part of the Main Street customers are tied into a 6" line. The 1 1/2" line was shut off and apparently none of the present water users were affected.

Mr. Sugrue commented by your own statement some of these lines existed for twenty nine years and Mr. Vernon has emphasized that the water termination was not a hasty decision, that the service has been ineffective and costly. The City has been maintaining a water line that went nowhere and services no one. Further, a 4" line, in fact a 6" line, contrary to the Resolution, were discussed this evening.

Mr. Michael Kalis, Attorney representing some of the Township customers, stated he has had the occasion to discuss this with Mr. Herbert Bloom. He contended the Village did approve the extension of the water system. It was also Mr. Bloom's understanding the Village would be responsible for the care and maintenance of the lines. Past history of the Village and City have done so.

Mayor Allen asked what he based this on.

Mr. Kalis responded first hand information. Mr. Bloom is in the area and when he returns, Mr. Kalis will ask him to supply documents. He also commented that there obviously seems to be some confusion on what mains run where. He asked that the Mayor, City Attorney and City Manager meet with him prior to taking final action.

Councilman Johnston asked if Mr. Sugrue served on the Water Commission and how long had he lived on up there.

Mr. Sugrue answered 15 years.

Councilman Johnston asked why this wasn't brought up before.

Mr. Sugrue stated he would go back to 1976. City and Township officials met with the Dept of Health. A decision was to be made by the State Board of Health. They have not done anything in writing. He also stated they drove through the area and made their decision. The line in question is the 1 1/2" line on Clement.

Mayor Allen asked if Mr. Sugrue would stand by his statement that the Health Dept. only drove through the area before making its determination.

Mr. Sugrue said he would.

Mayor Allen stated the City Manager and Ted Mapes had kept track of the amount spent on the last meeting on repairs. The total was $1,584.29.

Mr. Sugrue asked if most of the lines in the City were 4"?

Ted Mapes responded the older lines are but the new lines are either 4" or 6", and nearly all are looped for pressure.

Mr. Sugrue remarked that a 6" City line froze this winter. He then asked if the City wasn't being discriminatory.

The City Manager commented if the properties under discussion were in the City there would be a special assessment, but since they are in the Township we can not do this. The Township should do it.

Mr. Sugrue stated you have six City customers who are complaining, you aren't cutting off their water. We are water customers and not a penny of mileage has been paid on those lines.

Mr. John Crofteau, Bloomcrest, spoke of the agreement terminated with the Township has nothing to do with the problem. As far as the water goes deal, with the City unless you contract with the Township to give them the line. As far as the health problem it is just a potential hazard, also how can you have back sponing with a check valve.

Mr. Kalis asked if the City has received a letter from Wayne County Health Dept. describing the defects.

The City Manager stated it has not been received.

Mayor Allen mentioned if the City put in the lines they would know where they were. The City is trying to get the township to take these over. We can not go out and assess the people it is up to the people of the area to try to do something for themselves.

Mr. Kalis remarked on the double rate which was supposed to take care of this.

Mayor Allen responded if the lines had been properly put in in the first place. Those lines will not take care of the people.

Councilman Vernon replied he did not like the implication that the City was now terminating service because of the health hazard question. In 1972, the City and Township acknowledged that the water system was inadequate and was considered a potential health hazard.

The City Attorney stated he was making a statement on his understanding of the situation. The water system, according to his understanding, is inadequate and a potential health hazard. The City is leaving itself wide open if it allows it to continue. There are a number of lines installed by subdividers and residents. Back in the early 1960's the City of Northville had a number of problems because of dead end lines. These lines are now looped. A general bond issue that every citizen paid for was issued. He also stated we have the township of Northville who has a water department who will supply the water or wells can be drilled. The water by township have two viable alternatives. Based on these understandings, the City Attorney can find nothing to prohibit the City from terminating service.

Motion by Councilman Nichols support Councilman Folino to adjourn Public Hearing until April 18, the next regular meeting, to allow opportunity for further discussion before taking final action.

Mr. Kalis asked to meet with the City Attorney, City Manager and Mayor Allen.

Meeting was recessed at 8:55 p.m.

Meeting was reconvened at 9:00 p.m.

1977-78 CITY BUDGET: The City Manager summarized the City's financial condition and advised that he would distribute copies of the complete proposed budget in a few days.

SITE PLAN REVIEW PLANNING COMMISSION: Next meeting.

RESOLUTION ON HOUSE BILL NO. 4030: Motion by Councilman Vernon support Councilman Folino to adopt a Resolution opposing House Bill 4030 concerning annexation proceedings as follows:

Carried unanimously.

MISCELLANEOUS: Councilman Johnston asked for input into the Chamber of Commerce proposal for beautifying Main Street by planting trees in a decorative manner in the street.

He stated the project has merit but would have to see the parking places taken over. You are talking about $2500 a piece. He also suggested hiring a retired gentleman to act as street sweeper.

Councilman Vernon stated he would like to see landscaping in parking lots continue to be encouraged.

Councilman Folino stated he would like to commend the DPW for the fine job they did this winter.

Mayor Allen instructed the City Manager to write such a letter.

Memo from Northville Recreation Department notifying the City of their intent to change the name from Northville Recreation Commission to Northville City and Township Recreation Commission.

Councilman Vernon suggested Northville Community Recreation Commission was more fitting.

EAGLES: Mayor Allen commented he had an opportunity to talk with the Eagles and perhaps they may not rebuild on their property but relocate elsewhere. He suggested the City might take a look at acquiring property.

HB 4238: The House of Representatives passed House Bill 4238 which would notify all persons living within 1500 feet of any residential property which provides resident services for 6 or less persons under 24 hour supervision or care 45 days prior to licensing.

Council by consensus agreement agreed to adopt the Fessler Bill 4238 and notify him by letter.

Meeting adjourned at 10:10 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

City Clerk

Loss is feared on house sale

Plans for building and trades students at Novi High School to construct a home next year in the Novi Heights Subdivision met a snag last week when board members indicated fear that the home might sell for a loss.

"What happens if cost overruns make this $8,000 more?" asked trustee Robert Wilkins. "I'd like to know if we're going to end up with something that's going to be egg on the school district."

The board has already approved spending $7,400 to buy the lot which is located at 11 Mile and Clark roads. But the cost estimates for construction of the home were presented to them at the board meeting last Thursday for the first time.

Those estimates show a cost to the school district of $36,400.

I really wish they would build a house that is more in the means of the community," said Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz.

"If the construction of the home is too much for the neighborhood it should be redesigned smaller," added Trustee Joel Colliau. "There's a ton of dollars involved in a 1700 square foot home." The home will measure 1400 to 1500 feet, according to Dr. Kratz.

"It's value to the kids is enormous," said Wilkins. "The problems are also."

Colliau pointed out, however, "Going into this program I went in realizing that it was a substantial risk effort." Though nothing appeared to be decided on the home, Wilkins suggested that a concise report by those involved be submitted within a month.

"I'd say call a halt to anything being done," he said.

Dr. Kratz also suggested a building committee be created with experts from the various fields involved overseeing the project.

Dr. Kratz said later that a citizens' committee is being set up and will report May 12 in an information item on cost of the project, timetable, and checks and balances involved. He added that it is doubtful the group, which will be made up of people in the field, will recommend construction of a smaller home since 1400-1500 feet is not an overly large home.

Ride 'up, up and away'

By NANCY DINGELDEY

The gadabout gadflies are finally home... I think. Lillian Spencer and Hilda Furman returned home from an Easter week jaunt to their favorite spot in Bermuda, took three deep breaths and were off again.

Together with an old friend from Milford, the ladies drove to Gatlinburg, Tennessee for a four-day stay in the beautiful rolling countryside... fresh and green and alive with spring flowers.

Back in Wixom late Sunday, hopefully for a few more deep breaths, Lillian and Hilda thought they might rest a bit before another excursion.

Paul and Elna Salo also returned home Sunday after a three-day trip to London, Ontario where Elna and her Sweet Adelines compatriots participated in a regional competition.

Elna's group gathered in Windsor Friday and then proceeded to London by train. Paul said the train ride made the trip just that much more fun.

For the group itself, there were practices and competitions. Elna said it was like being on vacation and having "built-in entertainment" anywhere they went. There were parties and sing-alongs... in other words, enough singing to make one hoarse.

The Girl Scouts of the Walled Lake School District are planning a shindig this Sunday in Wixom's City Park. Beginning at noon and running until 4 p.m., everyone is invited to a "Trailside Championship".

Father-daughter teams (but mothers, uncles and brothers are invited too) will combine their skills on ten related scout crafts. There will be an obstacle course, safety station, camp skills, and knot-tying as well as first aid, observer and even a scuffle or two setting up a tent.

Girls are asked to bring a beautiful box lunch filled with goodies to share with her partner during the afternoon outing.

And those teams gathering up higher than 80 points during the competition will earn the chance to win any number of prizes.

An extra-special feature of the day will be the arrival of a "really truly" hot-air balloon which makes me want to break into song... "up, up and away".

If the winds and weather permit, the owners will even take people for rides in the beautiful balloon. Sounds like a neat idea except I wonder if I could gather the courage to go up. Nonetheless, I think it would be super to see one close at hand and maybe, just maybe even take that ride.

One of the main planners of the event is Faith Ewald of Maple Road. Faith, a troop leader at Wixom School, planned the championships so that the public might see the Girl Scouts in action and learn that the girls in green do a lot more than sell cookies and calendars.

The afternoon outing also is the kick-off to a sustaining membership drive for Girl Scouts in Oakland County. Bill Bonds, channel 7 newscaster, is the general chairman of the countywide appeal.

It doesn't matter if your girl is in scouting or that you have any interest in being a sustaining member. Anyone is invited to participate and possibly learn a little more about the scouting movement.

If it should rain, perish the thought, the entire outing will be rescheduled for May 1.

Legion to install

A new-member initiation for Lloyd H. Green American Legion Post 147, its auxiliary, juniors and sons will be held at 3 p.m. this Sunday, April 24, at the post home on Dunlap.

Any members of these groups who have not been installed previously are invited to attend the initiation, Pat Jordan announces.

Luncheon will be served following the ceremony.

including clothes, furniture, telephone and even kids' toys.

The owner of the home said his wife had left four weeks ago and he had left three weeks ago himself. He returned to find the B&E. A door was kicked in to gain entry.

April 13 a Westgate VI apartment was broken into and a $300 Sanyo 19-inch color television taken from a bedroom.

A 22-year-old Farmington man is being charged with assaulting a police officer after he became involved in a fracas with two Novi officers April 10. According to police reports, officers responded to a call of a subject beating up his girlfriend at a home in the 39700 area of Villagewood.

When police arrived, they found a subject pounding on a door of a residence.

When police attempted to question him, he started to walk away. Officer Vere Werwille attempted to follow the subject and talk with him but reportedly found himself grabbed by the man and swung at.

Officer Jack Grubb came to Wirwille's assistance and together they were able to handcuff the subject, although he allegedly struck both officers during the incident.

The subject, identified as Terry Heriman, 22, of Farmington Hills, was booked for assaulting a police officer.

A car parked in a Beachview parking lot was stripped of four tires, rims, and a moonroof with a total value of $700 April 7. Estimated damage to the trunk was set at $100.

A malicious destruction of property was reported April 11 to a tractor trailer. According to reports, the owner of the vehicle said that some youngsters from another vehicle had thrown rocks at the tractor trailer, breaking a $100 windshield. Upon being contacted, the owner of the second vehicle said that her car had kicked up gravel which was thrown through the windshield of the truck. The matter was not pursued by the owner of the truck.

Last week's Novi Police Blotter incorrectly stated that two newspaper carriers accused of stealing keys from homes and cars in the Novi area were carriers for The Detroit News. In fact, one was from The Detroit Free Press and has been reportedly relieved of his job.

In Wixom . . .

A Wixom mother termed it a "freaky accident" but Wixom Police were notified Easter Sunday afternoon when a straight pin was found to have been lodged in the ear of a chocolate bunny. Scott Coulter, 8-year-old son of the Tom Coulter's of Potter Road bit down on the ear of a hollow chocolate bunny found in his Easter basket. What he came up with was a straight pin stuck in his mouth.

Since the candy was boxed and did not appear to be tampered with, Wixom Police and the child's parents thought the pin could have found its way into the chocolate during the time of manufacture.

The Walled Lake store from which the candy was purchased was notified of the event. Store officials there thought the incident was an isolated case since no others had been reported.

A high-speed expressway chase taken up by Novi Police at Meadowbrook Road wound up with the elusive driver crashing into the rear of a gasoline truck just west of Wixom Road.

According to Novi Police reports, a van, clocked at 74 mph on radar was seen weaving in and out of traffic in the westbound lanes of I-96 at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday.

With the Novi car in pursuit, the van continued west with speeds of 88 mph. At Wixom Road, the van pulled in the lane behind a double gasoline truck, then suddenly swerved towards the center lane but struck the tanker instead.

Despite the crash, the driver of the car, 21-year-old Timothy Fitzpatrick of Milford received only slight injuries and refused medical attention. His passenger, 21-year-old Timothy Lantto, also of Milford, required first aid attention and was transported to Botsford Hospital for further treatment.

Fitzpatrick was arrested by Novi Police officers, charged and later released on $100 cash bond pending his court date April 21.

PROCLAMATION—In separate but similar ceremonies Mayor A. M. Allen of Northville and Mayor Gilbert Henderson of Novi signed proclamations designating April 17-23 as Private Property Week here. Seated next to Allen (above) as he signs the proclamation is John J. Kelly, president of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors. Below Kelly shakes hands with

The current record-setting demand for existing homes should assure a continued strong real estate market and low vacancy levels in Northville and Novi through 1977.

This was the outlook reported by John J. Kelly, president of the Western Wayne County Board of REALTORS to Mayor A. Malcolm Allen of Northville and Mayor Gilbert Henderson of Novi in local ceremonies proclaiming April 17-23 as Private Property Week.

Kelly said Northville and Novi homes continue to rate high with prospective buyers and that local home values are continuing to appreciate.

He reported that the average sale price for existing homes in Northville reached $53,754, while those in Novi climbed to $44,754 at the end of March according to statistics of the United Northwestern Realty Association.

"With continued growth in the area, we expect land values to rise and most owners should realize a substantial return on their home investment when they elect to sell in the future," he added.

"The current boom in home sales is aided by plentiful supplies of available mortgage money and softened interest rates. With the continuing rise in prices, prospective owners are concerned about future costs and hope to take advantage of present good conditions to move into the market."

Navy Seaman Hospitalman Recruit Christopher D. Polak, son of Alice R. Polak of 19547 Dartmouth, Northville, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Florida.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

He attended Schoolcraft College, Livonia, and joined the Navy in January 1977.

Private John A. Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert DeBoutte, Sr., of 117 South Rogers, is now serving in Germany after having completed training in field artillery with the United States Army.

He was graduated from basic training March 3 during which time he served as a platoon guide. He left for Ansbach, Germany on March 8.

His address is: 379-72-7789, C. Btry., 2nd BN, 28th Artillery, A.P.O. New York, 09177.

Lloyd Ross, 17, 825 Horton Street, has entered the Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to Staff Sergeant Bill Ney, the Air Force recruiter here, Ross' entry into the DEP serves two purposes.

First, it allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic military training and be assigned to a job or skill area. Second, the DEP enables Ross to complete his high school education and wrap up personal affairs before commencing four years active duty.

Ballooning

'Like riding soap bubble'

By CARL T. DAVIES

Spring is a season of romance, fanciful adventure, daydreaming — a time to break away from everyday routine, to explore new horizons.

The time could be ripe this spring for the daring romanticist seeking a rekindling of the spirit to try his or her hand at a 200-year-old pastime experiencing a renaissance in America — the ethereal sport of hot-air ballooning.

What does it feel like to ride in a balloon?

"A whole fleet of balloons, fixed in formation by a monolithic wind, is like a flotilla of faeries riding soap bubbles in harness," mused one aviation writer in a flight of poetic fancy as he described a national ballooning competition.

To Gary Grzebenik, a modern aeronaut, as some balloonists describe themselves, riding in a balloon "feels like standing on a platform somewhere in the sky and watching the world go by."

Like a canoe on a gently flowing stream, a balloon rides with the wind. When the propane burners that heat the air to provide the balloon's lift and to control altitude are shut off, the balloonist perceives no wind and no vibration.

Grzebenik, who teaches a ground school course in ballooning at Oakland University, Rochester, says the ultimate satisfaction of the sport is derived from the sights and sounds below.

The visual and aural flurry of human activity rising upward from the earth provide the balloonist with an ever-changing panorama of experiences and sensations.

Considered by some to be the first successful form of manned flight, ballooning goes back nearly 200 years when Joseph and Etienne Montgolfier filled a linen bag with hot air and watched it float away over the rooftops of Paris.

Soon, a duck, a rooster, and a sheep were sent aloft and returned to earth unscathed.

On November 21, 1783, two French gentlemen, the Marquis D'Arlandes and Pilatre de Rozier, gallantly stepped into a wicker basket harnessed to a bulky, quivering bag of wind, and earned their place in history as the first aeronauts.

In the subsequent half century ballooning became the rage of Europe and the sport of the idle rich.

Eventually, hydrogen and later helium replaced the cumbersome process of inflating a balloon with hot air as the major source of lift.

The invention of the airplane in 1903 coupled with the high cost of helium and the highly explosive nature of hydrogen contributed to ballooning's demise as a popular sport.

With the resurgence of individualism, the search for freedom, and the quest for adventure and escape in the early 1960's, aided by the invention of portable propane burners, ballooning experienced a modern-day renaissance.

According to Ann Arbor's Bruce Comstock, reigning national ballooning champion and fourth-place finisher in international competition, ballooning was introduced to Michigan in 1967.

Ann Arbor plastic surgeon William C.

Grabb was the first to decorate the skies of Ann Arbor with his giant soap bubble providing a source of amusement and excitement to the spectators below.

It was Grabb who trained Lindon Harding, now president of the HighAmerica Ballooncenter in Rochester, where Grzebenik works as an instructor.

Grabb also trained Comstock, who gained his introduction to the doctor-turned-aeronaut by tracking Grabb's balloon by automobile.

While Ann Arbor and Rochester are the centers of ballooning in southeast Michigan, Troy grabbed national headlines last year when aeronaut Carl Thomas attempted his daring and foolhardy feat of crossing the Atlantic in a hot air balloon.

He had to be fished out of the choppy waters barely alive by a Russian trawler.

Although balloonists generally tend to be flamboyant individualists, most would not condone Thomas' derring-do, Comstock said.

Thomas' exploits notwithstanding, the reasons behind the resurgence of ballooning appear to lie more in the exhilarating sense of freedom and detachment from worldly problems resulting from floating from 500 feet to a mile in the sky.

Both Comstock and Grzebieńnik are computer systems analysts.

None will admit, however, that ballooning might appeal to his need to escape from the pressures of his work.

Whatever the need for the balloonist to transcend his or her earthly constraints, the sport provides the aeronaut with numerous opportunities for fresh experience.

Comstock and Grzebieńnik each have caused vehicles on expressways to pull over for a look as they floated by.

Grzebieńnik once had a cortege of 100 automobiles following him along a country road, and honking their greetings.

He once flew over a subdivision near Pontiac in the early morning hours and excited neighborhood dogs into barking.

By the time he passed by, children and housewives in housecoats were outside greeting him in unison.

Since landing sites are usually picked at random, Grzebieńnik gives his students a lesson in crowd control, as a throng soon gathers when a balloon alights in a populated area.

Comstock estimates that there are 50 active balloonists in southeast Michigan and some 500 nationwide.

A would-be-aeronaut usually asks "Is ballooning difficult?" or "Is it dangerous?"

The experienced balloonist will usually respond that the hot-air balloon is an inherently stable and crashworthy (or crash survivable) aircraft.

The cautious balloonist will not fly when winds exceed 12 knots. That's why you'll usually find balloons aloft in the early morning or late evening hours when the air is cooler and consequently more stable, Grzebieńnik says.

Should the propane burner fail at 1,500 or more above the earth, the balloon will reach its terminal velocity of 850 to 900 feet per minute on impact—a little faster than the safe descent speed of a parachutist.

Most flights are made close to the ground at 500-1500 feet so that the air travelers can see what's going on and perhaps exchange greetings with the people below.

The most constant threat to balloons at low levels are power lines, which can entangle the balloon and electrocute its passengers.

Fire and wind also pose potential threats to balloonists.

In the half hour it takes to inflate a balloon it is important to keep the burners which spew out a 10-20 foot flame, from damaging the fabric.

On landings the balloonist must completely shut down the burners before touching down. If a wind drags the balloon, it, and possibly a wheat field, can erupt into a conflagration.

Most balloonists get hooked on the sport after they take a demonstration ride, Comstock says.

A two-hour ride costs approximately $100 per person or $150 for two persons.

A ground crew of two to three persons is needed to inflate the balloon. In addition, a tracking vehicle, usually a van, is required to retrieve and store the balloon once it alights.

Both Grzebieńnik and Comstock provide lessons.

If the student does not own his own balloon, lessons cost $100 per flight hour, the actual amount of time the balloon spends in the air.

This does not include ground preparation time, inflating the balloon, retrieval, and, of course, the inevitable socializing after the flight.

Figure on a $1,000 investment for lessons alone if you don't own a balloon.

If you do own your own balloon, lessons will amount to $500, says Comstock.

Grzebieńnik, whose employer deals in the popular Piccard line, says you can expect to pay $5,000-$7,000 for a simply decorated balloon.

Elaborate balloons, such as an intricately stitched model decorated like the globe that he once saw at a national competition can cost $20,000, Grzebieńnik said.

Balloons can only be flown under VFR (visual flight rules) conditions. All manned balloons that are not tethered require the presence of an FAA certified pilot.

A person must be at least 16 years of age to obtain a pilot's license.

Before taking the FAA qualifying test, the student must pass a written examination on ballooning and general aeronautical concepts.

The student must have logged a minimum of six balloon flights, including one solo, totaling at least 10 hours, under the supervision of an instructor holding a commercial balloon rating.

To get started contact Grzebieńnik at Highamerica or Comstock, who handles the Cameron distributorship in Ann Arbor.

Grzebieńnik is starting a new round of ground school classes at Oakland University April 23.

You can register for the 10-week course, held Saturday mornings, by contacting the university's department of continuing education.

You may never have the chance to circumnavigate the globe in 80 days, but a breathtaking ride over Michigan's rolling countryside could lift your spirits to new heights.

Carvings go on sale 2nd time

A repeat sale of hand carvings in various woods is scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m. this Saturday, April 23, at First United Methodist Church in Northville at 777 West Eight Mile.

The Reverend Guenther Branstner reports that a similar sale of these one-of-a-kind hand carvings by artisans of the world was a sell-out success in March. The sale is open to anyone interested, he adds.

Most items, he says, are priced under $5 with a few large pieces in a higher range.

From Africa, India, Thailand and the Philippines, the carvings and a few pieces of onyx and some jewelry represent an excellent value, the minister states, and such sales are the only outlet the carvers have. The shipment on sale Saturday is a huge one, according to Branstner, and was obtained from the Church of the Brethren Warehouse.

Sights set on the sky

The lives and legends of the "stars and other sky objects" will be discussed at a special "Star Walk" program to be held at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Thursday, April 21 at 7 p.m. The program will consist of an indoor slide show and an observation session outdoors (weather permitting). Each participant should wear warm clothing and bring a flashlight. The 1½ hour program is free, however, advanced registration is required.

All-American vegetables

Savoy's a cabbage — not a ballroom. And it's also a top winner in the 1977 All-American vegetable selections.

Other vegetable selections include a summer squash called "Scallopini", a pumpkin hybrid named "Spirit" and a spinach hybrid named "Melody".

Here's what the All-American Selections judges had to say about these winners:

Savoy Ace Hybrid

Within just 60 to 70 days after setting plants, you can begin harvesting this prize winner. Take the first heads at one-pound size and continue harvesting for four to five weeks or until the cabbages reach their maximum size of about five pounds.

At all stages of maturity, the deep blue-green heads of the Savoy are solidly packed with crumpled leaves. The color extends deep into the head. Vegetable experts rate the taste of Savoy Ace, cooked or in slaw, as "excellent", free of bitterness.

Gardeners can grow a late spring crop of Savoy from transplants, but the best growing time is fall. Start seeds in the garden in late summer and transplant seedlings two feet apart. The heads will hold until early winter if protected from heavy freezing.

Spring transplants will tolerate light frosts if acclimatized gradually to garden conditions. Cover fall crops with straw or leaves to protect against freezing.

Spinach Melody Hybrid

Spinach is distinctly a cool weather vegetable, planted in very early spring and again in late summer or early fall. During these periods, spinach plants are subjected to many weather stresses and plant disease.

Melody spinach has the hybrid vigor necessary to produce large plants quickly under adverse conditions. Resistance to downy mildew and the virus disease called cucumber mosaic

No. 1 are bred in.

The flavor of Melody spinach is superb, whether harvested young for fresh salads or cooked or frozen when leaves are large and mature. For maximum production, don't pull the plants; instead, harvest only the outer leaves.

Spinach seeds are large and sure sprouting even in cold soil. Plant short rows at two-week intervals to assure a steady supply of leaves.

Pumpkin Spirit Hybrid

One of the earliest of all Jack O'Lantern type pumpkins to mature, Spirit will ripen reliably in northern states. Farther south, it can be planted after you have harvested a spring crop, giving double value from the land.

With Spirit you don't need a lot of room. City people can grow them in smaller garden spaces because vines of Spirit are compact, with most foliage and fruit concentrated within a four to five foot circle. A few short runners will form after fruits have set.

The hybrid vigor of Spirit produces remarkably uniform fruits of 10- to 15-pound size, smooth and symmetrical, ideal for Halloween carving.

Summer Squash Scallopini Hybrid

What do you get when you cross a scallop squash and a zucchini?

Why, a Scallopini, of course! Scallopini inherited the best of both parents, the distinctive crown-shaped fruits and excellent flavor of scallop or Patty Pan squash, and the dark green skin and heavy production of zucchini.

Plant seeds of Scallopini in late spring or early summer; within 50 days you'll be harvesting tender, succulent fruits for casseroles, fried, and steamed squash.

Cooks can slice Scallopini thin and dry it in a warm oven for dip chips or use it fresh in salads.

Scallopini bushes are vigorous and large-leaved but compact — three to four feet across at maturity and 2 to 2½ feet high. Three bushes will provide all the squash needed for a small family. Hybrid vigor sustains Scallopini production over several weeks.

Lily-like flower's an eye-catcher

Large, lily-like flowers on one- to two-foot stalks make the amaryllis (Hippeastrum hybrid) a real eye-catcher.

Michigan State University horticulturists point out that this large, tropical bulb is not your typical, one-time potted florist's plant — it can be re-flowered several times.

Pot the bulb in a container two inches bigger than the diameter of the bulb, the MSU experts advise. Good drainage is necessary to Growing roses easy, but it requires care to grow as some would have you believe. They do require regular care —

Rose are not as difficult

more so than many other plants, but this preventative care is well rewarded in dense green leaves and blemish-free blossoms.

The best growth results from good soil, which means that it is loose for good drainage of excess water, but rich in humus to hold sufficient moisture for roses' succulent growth. Humus also provides some nutrients missing in both sandy or clay soils. Prepare a planting hole 18-24" deep and equally wide, adding sand and humus to the soil as needed.

Rose leaves are susceptible to both black spot and mildew, both of which thrive in areas with poor air circulation. Each plant needs a square yard in which to grow without competition from other plants.

This type of planting may not look really great, but it is best for the individual rose bushes. If looks take precedence and you plant the bushes closer together, offset the decrease in air circulation with more frequent antifungal treatments.

More than 25 insects think rose bushes make marvelous meals, so they require vigilant spraying to prevent infestations of aphids, leaf-cutter bees and the like.

For more specific care of feeding roses: At planting time, work in several hands full of bone

Daisy-like

For years, many gardeners have preferred "single flowered" marigolds with their simple, daisy-like blossoms and long stems that curve up from low mounds of foliage. Now, the yellow flowered 'Marietta' varieties have been joined by some of the reddest colors yet developed: 'Cinnabar', 'Burgundy Ripples' and 'Chippendale Daisy'. Try them; they are distinctly different from the double-flowered dwarf marigolds.

State salutes 'priceless gift'

In case you haven't heard, you're half-way through the annual observance of Arbor Week. And tomorrow, April 21, is Arbor Day. It's the time state and local officials emphasize the importance of trees to Michigan.

In issuing his proclamation, here is what Governor William Milliken had to say:

Michigan is uniquely blessed with an abundance of green and beautiful forest land — land that has been the basis of great industry throughout our history and contributes much to the splendor of the "Water and Winter Wonderland."

As the population of Michigan and the nation had increased over the past few years, so has the need for lumber. Industries such as housing, recreation, and paper are pressuring our forests for more and more trees.

Because Michigan's more highly populated areas have the most crucial need for trees, it is to the advantage of all of us that our natural resources in those areas be preserved and enlarged and that conservation and restoration of trees be considered a major step in continuing the benefits of our great natural heritage.

Therefore, I, William G. Milliken, governor of the State of Michigan, urge all citizens and community and civic organizations to plant trees during Arbor Week, 1977, so that they will be a constant reminder of the priceless gift which we must preserve for this and ensuing generations.

meal. After that, fertilize three times a year — on the major summer holidays: Memorial Day, Fourth of July, and Labor Day. Include Easter in that list if you feel like it. Use a fertilizer with a 1-2-1 ratio of nutrients. The greater proportion of phosphorus is for large, well-colored flowers.

Natural protection against insects includes companion planting with garlic, lavender, marigolds, or chives. For emergency natural controls, spray with 1 teaspoon of Black Leaf 40 and 1 cubic inch of soap diluted in 1 gallon of water.

Systemic insecticides give the best insect control with the least effort. Work the granules into the soil every 6 weeks. (or more often, according to package directions). The insecticide is absorbed into the plant tissue itself. Chewing and sucking insects ingest it and soon die.

For spraying plants, malathion is probably the best single insecticide for a wide variety of insects.

prevent bulb rot, so it's a good idea to pot in a container with a drainage hole in the bottom. Use a commercial houseplant potting soil or make your own from equal parts soil, sand and peat. Cover one-half to two-thirds of the bulb with soil.

The first sign of growth is the appearance of the flower stalk. It will grow rapidly, forming one or more flower buds. Leaves appear after the plant has begun to bloom. Keep the soil evenly moist but not soaking wet throughout the growing period.

Remove blossoms as they fade. Continue to water regularly through the spring and summer, and fertilize monthly to build up the bulb for next year's blooms. At the end of the summer, when the leaves turn yellow and dry, gradually reduce watering and let the soil dry out thoroughly. The bulb will stay dormant through the fall and early winter.

Merit Sparks Low Tar Boom!

'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco seen as major factor in unprecedented smoker move to low tar

Since its introduction, MERIT has become one of the most popular new cigarettes in twenty years.

A popularity largely responsible for a significant growth in low tar smoking.

The reason: 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco that delivers extra flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The kind of flavor smokers can switch to—and stick with.

Here are the taste-test results which show why smokers are switching to MERIT. If you smoke, you'll be interested.

Kings: 8 mg. "tar," 0.5 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Dec '76 100's: 12 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Tests Prove Taste

MERIT and MERIT 100's were both tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes. The results proved conclusively that 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco does boost taste without the usual increase in tar.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Preschoolers learn 'good snacking' habits

By JEAN DAY

If you were the mother of a preschooler in Northville Cooperative Nursery a few years ago, when it was your turn to bring snacks, you hurried out to buy some chocolate Oreos and a red punch, right?

Today's young nursery mothers wouldn't consider offering "empty-calorie" treats. Instead, they're spending time making nutritious honey nut bars and cutting up carrot sticks for children to dip into creamy peanut butter.

Convinced that "nutrition is an integral part of the nursery experience," mothers in the cooperative have just prepared a 16-page "Fun and Food" booklet they hope will inspire both "creative nutrition and creative expression."

To highlight this emphasis on nutrition the cooperative mothers plan to begin their guest night program at 8 p.m. next Monday, April 25, with a refreshment-social period.

New membership chairman Dorie Garzia explains that there also will be a slide presentation of a typical day at the cooperative, and teachers will be on hand to describe the program. All parents of preschoolers are invited.

New President Peg O'Doherty cut up carrot treats for preschoolers last week and mentioned that they are more willing to accept such snacks at home once they have enjoyed them with their peers.

"There are some really great snacks that are so nutritious," JoAnn Dalziel, who helped compile the "Fun and Food" ideas, comments enthusiastically.

Mothers may not realize it but many snacks are more appealing to little ones if they involve some activity for them, the authors explain, illustrating that peeling tangerines or bananas, slicing bananas, spreading peanut butter, butter or a soft cheese, is fun for youngsters.

peas or hard-cooked eggs or even pouring a drink (use a small pitcher) should be part of the treat.

These "aware" mothers suggest slicing vegetables like carrots and celery in slender strips which are less tiring for small mouths to chew.

They warn, however, that it's not a good idea to offer just these two vegetables and suggest also green pepper strips, cauliflower whole flowerets, cherry tomatoes, broccoli flowerets, radishes, slices of cucumber and pieces of crisp lettuce. Place such treats in a small bowl or standing in a glass.

Appropriate dips to offer with the raw vegetables, it is suggested, are peanut butter, yogurt, cottage and cream cheese and even plain salt.

Mrs. Dalziel emphasizes that at the Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning sessions of the co-op, held in the scout-recreation building at 215 West Cady, only three beverages are served.

They are white milk, frozen orange juice and sugarless apple juice. She points out that these are without coloring or additives.

Other treats in the new program originated this year in the nursery by Mrs. O'Doherty, who has been serving as nutrition chairman, include fruit kebabs, applesauce, pieces of cubed cheese and olives.

"The children also liked being able to spread their own bread when we served banana, zucchini and pumpkin breads," Mrs. Dalziel recalls, mentioning that a honey-walnut variety was especially popular.

"We felt rewarded," she adds, "when one mother called to thank Mrs. O'Doherty, saying that her child was being introduced to something other than the junk foods eaten at home."

The bread recipes are among the many recipe ideas in the new booklet. Its first 12 pages are devoted to good eating while the last four give mothers of preschoolers suggestions on ways to keep them occupied with dramatics or creative crafts at home.

SNACK TIME—Northville Cooperative Nursery President Peg O'Doherty checks to see that, from left, son Jimmy, Susan Bickner, Jed McDaniel, Michael MacDonell and daughter Bridget have tasty dips for their carrot sticks and celery stalks for "good-and-good-for-you" snacking at the co-op which meets in the scout-recreation building at 215 West Cady.

In Our Town

Local telephone book is going to press

By JEAN DAY

Fifth edition of the Northville Community Telephone Directory, compiled biyearly by Northville Mothers' Club, is on its way into print and will be distributed free to Northville residents listed therein by late summer.

Club members this week are completing contacts with local merchants for the classified index, which pays for publication and distribution of the directory. Any business not contacted to be in the much-used local book may call Connie Conder, 349-6546.

Mrs. Conder received first reports at the club meeting Monday. She and husband John had just returned from an Easter Week visit to England. She reports that London, and even the Cornwall-Dover area, really are invaded with "tons of tourists" for the jubilee and advises anyone Britain-bound to have hotel reservations in advance.

They paint pets, scenes on china

"It's not just the old flowery things, but it's everything you can think of — scenes, fruit, dogs, cats, horses — that somebody paints," explains Donna Martines, a member of the Northville Spring Chapter of China Painters.

"It's whatever turns you on," She continues as she recalls that she became interested in china painting as a hobby when she "got to the stage where I was looking for something to do." Her husband bought a kiln for their home at 26825 Timberlane, and "that was the start of my downfall."

Mrs. Martines says she paints many scenes on pieces of china. She now teaches a class at her home. Other area residents and members of the local chapter considered expert painters are Goldie Latchford of Northville, Mary Stricker of Walled Lake and Janine Van Ameyde of Detroit.

The chapter is one of the hosts of the Michigan China Painters' convention being held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. April 29 and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 30 at the Michigan Inn near Northland. About 1,000 are expected for the display and sale to which the public is invited (there's a $1 donation), Mrs. VanAmeyde reports. Teachers will give demonstrations at 10:30 a.m. and at 12:45 and 2:30 p.m. both days.

Newcomers to tour Fairlane mansion

Northville Newcomers' last ladies day activity of the year will be a tour of Fairlane mansion, which was the home of Henry Ford, founder of Ford Motor Company, in Dearborn May 4. Those attending will gather at Northville Square at 9:45 a.m. and will lunch together at Chicago Road House. Since reservations are limited, they should be made as soon as possible before the April 27 deadline with Sherry Spaman, 348-2772, suggests President Claudia Berry. In announcing the outing, she stresses that the year's successful program has been due to Carol Halverson and Kathie Landrum, co-chairmen.

Mill Race docents in uniform

This weekend will be the fourth this spring that buildings in the Mill Race Historical Village off Griswold will be open to visitors from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Members of the village docents, a group organized last year, will be on hand in new "uniforms" of white blouses, long black skirts and capes to give information.

A general meeting of all docents is scheduled for 1 p.m. May 1 in the Mill Race library building, chairman and founder, Sue Holstein announces. New officers will be introduced. Claudia Berry, who is just completing her term as president of the active Northville Newcomers, is the new chairman, but Mrs. Holstein has agreed to serve as assistant chairman of the new group.

Duplicate sessions daytime lure for housewives

Open bridge Wednesdays in Northville Square offers stimulating play

Quietly placed bids and the soft thud of cards being played were the main sounds emanating from a room in the lower level of Northville Square for more than three hours last Wednesday from 11:30 a.m. until about 3 p.m. as four tables of women played duplicate bridge.

Noticeably absent was the chatter of women gathering for party bridge. These were serious bridge players playing a series of identical hands in teams with the winners being the couple making the best total score.

The scene is repeated each Wednesday at the square at the open, or walk-in, bridge sessions. No reservations are necessary, says Rosemary Mentag, a Northville Township resident of Winchester Drive, who volunteered to hold the weekly duplicate sessions a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Mentag had taught beginning bridge at Winchester School last year and has been going to Livonia to play duplicate.

Because she enjoys the challenge of duplicate, she decided to volunteer to direct the sessions here, she says. During this beginning period the Northville Square is offering meeting space without charge.

Players each pay $1.25 a session with funds being used to pay money prizes and buy coffee, tea and snacks. Any money left, Mrs. Mentag points out, goes back to the Northville Recreation Department, but in the future may have to pay for meeting space.

For experienced players, the competition of duplicate is considered more stimulating than party bridge, but, as Virginia Hayward of Northville who dropped in to play observed, it isn't necessary to be an expert player to participate.

It's considered a good learning experience to see how opponents play hands as mistakes become apparent at the end.

It's not necessary to come with a partner, Mrs. Mentag points out, although uneven numbers (there were 18 two weeks ago) make it necessary for some to sit out some sessions.

While there are several private groups playing duplicate bridge in the area, there is no duplicate available to the public, except for the new sessions begun by Mrs. Mentag.

"Newcomers dropped its duplicate this year because there seemed to be no interest," Mrs. Claudia Berry, Newcomers president explains.

Northville Mothers' Club also has no duplicate leagues in its marathon bridge tournament this year.

Mrs. Mentag mentions that men are welcome to play in the open duplicate, and two have in previous sessions.

Crackers, candy nibbles and filled celery snacks were placed by the coffee and tea pots for hungry players at the first Wednesday session in April.

"Rosemary does all this because she likes the game so much and wants to get duplicate started here," a bystander waiting to play explained.

Bridge enthusiasts like Nancy Wistert and her mother, Mrs. Ellen Scott, agreed that the open bridge is a good addition to Northville offerings and hope that more women will try it.

Duplicate players say that six tables would make play more interesting and competitive. With four-and-a-half tables at the sixth session Mrs. Mentag gave $9 back in prizes—first place, $3; second, $2.50; third, $2; and fourth, $1.50.

But it wasn't the prizes or the snacks that had brought returnees to the session in the square.

For bridge players who consider their responses and weigh their opening leads, the challenge of duplicate lies in knowing how they pay off in points.

Players concerned about their abilities can take heart. Rosemary Mentag stresses that "you learn by playing." She may be contacted for more information at 348-1089. Or just drop in to play duplicate Wednesday.

Adams, Pat Kennedy and Beverly Dietrich. Players vary each Wednesday as play is completely open with no reservations necessary.

We know what money is for and there's nothing wrong with wanting more than you have.

"Money can't buy happiness," the old saying goes, and we suspect that might be true

We also suspect that money can't buy world peace, eternal life, or a puppy that never has an accident

But it's too bad that so many people think about all the things money can't do. That makes them think there's no point in having any more than they have

And, after more than 40 years of helping people save money, we see many of the things money can do. You know what money can do? It can help you buy things you need and want—now or in the future.

At First Federal, our job is helping people have more money than they have. We do that by offering a variety of savings plans, high interest rates, and many special services not available elsewhere.

We enjoy doing it. So if you want to have more, tell us We'll show you how.

We know what money is for.

...NOT TO SQUANDER YOU UNDERSTAND. I'D PUT IT TO VERY PRACTICAL AND WORTHWHILE USES. FOR EXAMPLE, WE HAVE THIS LITTLE COTTAGE ON A LAKE, AND THE KIDS JUST LOVE SPENDING THE SUMMER THERE. BUT IT NEEDS A LITTLE FIXING UP. I'D JUST LIKE ENOUGH EXTRA MONEY TO FIX UP THE COTTAGE. AND MOVE IT TO TAHITI.

Fashionably expectant

"Stretch and Grow into Summer" is the theme of a fashion benefit planned with mothers-to-be in mind by Judy Beyersdorf, right of Northville and Annette Hill of Novi, chairman and co-chairman of Plymouth Childbirth Education Association-sponsored event to be given at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, May 7, at the Watermelon Seed shop in Northville Plaza on Seven Mile Road. Lots of door prizes are promised as members of the group model maternity fashions and clothes for nursing mothers. Mrs. Beyersdorf may be called at 349-0637 for tickets, which are $1.50. They also will be available at the door. Mrs. Beyersdorf is a teacher in the childbirth education program.

SPRING CLEANING—Not all of the "spring cleaning" done at Northville last week during the Easter vacation were mundane chores such as washing walls, cleaning halls and picking up trash. Workers at Moraine Elementary were able to put up this new Jungle Gym contraption.

Carolyn W. Calmes, 45295 Clement Court, Northville, is one of five high school students who will represent the Southeastern Michigan region at the National Junior Science and Humanities Symposium, to be held May 4-7 at the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, New York.

DANIEL McPHAIL

32nd degree Energy sources to be talk topic

Daniel T. McPhail of 30403 Old Plank Road, Wixom, will receive Scottish Rite Freemasonry's 32nd degree at Detroit's 282nd Scottish Rite Reunion at the Detroit Masonic Temple on Saturday, April 30. He received the degrees of Detroit Lodge of Perfection, Carson Council of Princes of Jerusalem and Mt. Olivet Chapter of Rose Croix at a one-day reunion in Jackson in February.

"Alternate Sources of Energy" will be the subject of a talk next week Wednesday at the April meeting of the Plymouth-Northville American Association of Retired Persons.

According to the organization's reporter, Harriet Gibson, the program will get underway with a sack lunch at noon in the Plymouth Presbyterian Church.

Following a sing-along and a business meeting, a Consumers Power Company representative will speak on energy, illustrating his points with slides.

An employee carrying this card is no stranger.

When strangers knock on your door saying they're from Consumers Power, how do you know they're telling the truth? Easy. Ask for an Identification Card. If they do not have one, they're not from Consumers Power. So don't let them in. Unfortunately, some people try to get into homes by passing themselves off as our employees. Consumers Power employees all carry Identification Cards so they can prove their identity right on the spot for your safety.

I'm a Consumers Power chief meter man and I go into homes every day. When someone answers the door, I tell them I'm from Consumers Power. But you know what? When they ask me for my Identification Card, I like it. Because it's exactly what my family would do.

ADVERTISED ITEM POLICY

Each of these advertised items is required to be readily available for sale at or below the advertised price in each A&P Store, except as specifically noted in this ad

Prices effective Wednesday, April 20 thru Tuesday, April 26, 1977. We reserve the right to limit quantities. Items offered For Sale Not Available to other retail dealers or wholesalers.

April 21st is Food Day, 1977

Food Day is the time for us all to take stock of our eating and buying habits. At A&P we have pledged to use Food Day as an opportunity to draw your attention to nutrition information. There are some things you, the consumer, can do that will help you to make the most of the food you eat and the money you spend for that food. We at A&P can help you to shop wisely. And we can work towards seeing that good nutrition is for everyone.

What You Can Do

- ... Read and compare the nutrition information labels on packaged and canned goods.
- ... Check "freshness dating." Buy only the amount of a product you will use while it's still fresh.
- ... When you write your weekly shopping list, plan well-balanced meals for your family based on the featured specials in newspaper food ads.
- ... Compare the price of similar items by using the information on Unit Price tags.
- ... Stock up on advertised specials.
- ... Carefully follow any special diet your doctor recommends to maintain or restore good health.
- ... Use federal food stamps if you are eligible for them. If you are uncertain about your eligibility, check your local welfare office.

What We're Doing at A&P

Every day, we at A&P are committed to providing our customers with a wide variety of nutritious foods. We want to give you the widest choice when you shop for meals for your family.

On behalf of Food Day 1977, A&P has contributed a grant to a nutrition intern program. This grant will make it possible for a graduate dietician to train to become a member of a medical team bringing in-depth nutrition knowledge to the diagnosis and treatment of disease.

Food Day. Because better nutrition depends on all of us.

Pewter is in. Until 1840, the making of pewter was big business in America and pieces were designed to be simple and sturdy. They were used in churches, taverns, and all around the house, even melted down to make ammunition for the Revolution and War of 1812. Today, it can be found in lamps, furniture, plates and accessories of every kind. Put a little pewter in your life and learn how easy it is to care for. Shine to a high finish with a good commercial polish or leave it dark, if you prefer. Some of the new pieces need no attention at all and add a warm, mellow touch to your modern or traditional home.

We have wallcovering for your modern home, colonial, traditional home or apartment, right here at GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. We can also coordinate your walls with our fine line of FULLER O'BRIEN PAINTS which comes in more than 1,000 possible colors. Let us complete your window treatment with custom-made window shades or woven wood shades, and custom made draperies.

HANDY HINT: When old pewter is deeply pitted do not attempt to salvage it.
