Whether they're of human or wildfowl variety, this Sunday's the day to pay tribute to mothers. Mrs. James Richardson and son, Scott, 6, of Fonner Road in Northville Township have been among the many area parents and children who have been enjoying feeding ducks at the stream by the Ford Motor Company plant on Main Street. This is the nesting season, they report, with the hundreds of ducks who summer there getting ready to parade a new flock of little ones.

Lawmakers consider prison plan tomorrow

"It's going to be a tough, close fight," predicted State Senator Charles O. Zollar of Benton Harbor as the State House Appropriations Committee prepared to take up Governor William Milliken's prison proposal tomorrow.

Nevertheless, the veteran lawmaker predicted the committee's recommendation will be made before the week is out and both houses of the legislature will act on that recommendation within two to three weeks.

The governor's proposal, which includes plans to convert the Child Development Center here to a prison, was to have been taken up last week by the joint appropriations committee but, according to Zollar, "we didn't have a quorum so it was tabled until (tomorrow)."

Zollar said his committee has no intention of delaying its decision.

"It's too vital a matter to be bottled up in committee," asserted Zollar. "We can't afford to dilly-dally on this one."

Zollar, who earlier was tagged as an anti-Northville prison advocate, certainly could not be placed in that category as he spoke with The Record.

"Public pressure isn't going to mean much on this one," he said. "We're (Appropriation Committee) going to make a decision on need."

"Sure, I don't like the idea of Northville getting another institution when it's got all those others, but damn it, we've got to put these people someplace. My constituency is saying, 'Get 'em off the streets.' We've got to put 'em someplace."

"The time element's absolutely important. Whatever we do, we've got to do it damn fast."

According to Zollar, the committee will consider a number of different alternatives — besides the four suggested prison locations of Governor Milliken. "But they're not particularly good because they can't be ready quickly as Northville," he added.

He envisioned little difficulty with the proposed prison at Kincheloe, "but that one's not all that good because of the time frame."

Zollar declined to give a line-up of those for and against the Northville prison on his committee. He did say, however, that it's about evenly split. The senator said it would be wrong to put him on one side or the other, and he suggested that others on the committee feel about the same.

Asked why the legislature won't consider utilizing the women's division of DeHoCo when it's phased out later this year, the outspoken senator bristled, "Goddamn it, the place has been condemned. That's why we're moving the women out of there."

Zollar refuted contentions that the Child Development Center couldn't be readied in time to fit the governor's

Western Wayne angered

Eye super authority

Establishment of an authority to take over the long-delayed Super Sewer was in the works this week in the wake of a defeat handed Western Wayne County communities by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners on Thursday.

Communities of Western Wayne County and those communities in Oakland County to be served by the Super Sewer probably will be presented a formal authority proposal early next week.

The authority is Western Wayne's angry answer to insistence by the board of commissioners that Super Sewer plans, construction, and operation be placed under the direction of a newly-created county board of public works.

Specifically, Western Wayne is upset because membership of the public works board is "centered in Detroit."

The authority, if it becomes a reality, would place the Super Sewer in the hands of Western Wayne and Oakland County members.

Drawing up of the authority paper work under the guidance of legal advice is taking place this week.

"It's a power grab," declared James Stewart, mayor of Romulus who chaired last week's meeting of Western Wayne Officials. Pointing out that Detroit controls water and transportation and now, apparently, is seeking to control sewers, Stewart said, "We're damn tired of being kicked around."

He warned that the county action means Detroit commissioners not only will be calling the shots for the Super Sewer serving Western Wayne County but they also will have control of existing out-county sewer lines.

Western Wayne officials adopted a resolution urging the board of commissioners to reconsider its action and to make membership on the public works board reflect the area to be served by the Super Sewer.

Since Western Wayne is the area to be served by the sewer, officials of this section of the county insist that they be given controlling membership on the board.

However, on the following afternoon,

Three trustee seats up

Nine in college race

It's official: nine candidates have filed to run for the three seats on the Schoolcraft College board June 13, and the board's size will remain at eight for the next two years.

The State House of Representatives last week gave 94-0 approval of a bill to increase the college board's membership to nine, as the present board of trustees had requested.

But the senate earlier had passed 32-0 a bill to reduce the Schoolcraft's board size to seven, a move at making Schoolcraft and Delta colleges conform to the other 27 in Michigan.

Because of the differences, legislative leaders will appoint a conference committee, probably no earlier than next week.

Even if the conferees can agree, however, it's too late for the bill to take effect in time for the June 13 election.

"Our attorney and the elections office tell us that action had to be taken by 4 p.m. on April 26," said Schoolcraft College President C. Nelson Grote.

That was last week Tuesday — which was also filing deadline for candidates for three board seats. Those who filed had until 4 p.m. Friday to withdraw, if they wished to do so.

One new name is on the candidates list: George Gravila of Livonia.

Incumbent Arch Vallier of Plymouth failed to file for re-election, and incumbent LeRoy Bennett earlier announced he would retire after two terms. So at least two new trustees will be elected.

Vice-chairperson Rosina Raymond is seeking re-election to a second term. The other seven candidates are: Karl Sjogren of the Clarenceville School District; Laura Toy, Len Wozniak, Harry Greenleaf, Michael Cicchella and Richard Hayward, Livonia School District residents; and G.J. (Jack) Bologna of Plymouth.

If Treasurer Nancie Blatt should be elected state representative in the 35th House District June 28, the remaining two years of her six-year term would be filled by a board appointment.

Meanwhile, trustees resolved last week to continue seeking legislative approval of nine seats for their board. If the House-Senate conference committee favors the senate's seven member version, Schoolcraft trustees will seek to have the bill killed.

Board Chairman Paul Y. Kadish summed up the college's political strategy:

"First, we make sure the votes are there in the house." (That has been accomplished).

"Second, we influence the conference committee. Dr. Grote, myself and any board members who wish will work on that."

"After all of that is done — and hopefully the conference committee will recommend nine — we're OK."

"If the senate plan wins, then we lobby Bill Faust (senate Democratic leader and a Westland resident). I have every indication that, as Bill Faust goes, so goes the senate."

Township hall costs studied

If low bids of electrical, mechanical and general contractors are accepted for the new Northville Township administrative-fire department complex, they will total $724,642.

Bids from a total of 22 contractors were opened last Thursday at the township offices and are being reviewed by the architect, Gene Ralls of Ralls-Hamill Architects, Incorporated.

The new township building on Six Mile is to be constructed with a grant of $761,000 from the Economic Development Act. To date $13,800 has been used for site improvement by Cooke Construction.

Low bidder of eight mechanical contractors was Long Plumbing Company with a bid of $178,400. Mechanical bids ranged up to $285,320.

Low among seven electrical bidders was Sam Russell with $87,242 with bids ranging to a high of $117,000.

Among seven contractors bidding for general construction low bid was that of Waterford Construction Company with $459,000.

Hillyer Construction Corporation was second low bidder at $462,200. Base bids ranged up to $650,000.

After the bids were opened Supervisor Wilson Grier stated that he would be conferring with the architect this week and that he has not ruled out possibility of using construction management for the project.

City tax hike remains an uncertainty

Northville City Council is scheduled to resume its budget discussions tonight at the city hall.

As presently proposed, the budget is balanced at $1,596,775 — but that suggests the city's tax rate be increased, and council is not yet prepared to concede necessity of the 3.2 mill suggested increase.

It is a pretty safe bet that before council concludes its budget deliberations and holds a public hearing on May 23, chunks of the budget will be reduced.

As it stands now, the proposed budget calls for these outlays (compared with budgeted 1976-77 figures):

Administration — $253,525, up from $234,750. It is estimated that actual expense by the time the fiscal year ends June 30 will approximate $240,000.

Police — $408,600, up from $368,300. Actual expenditure this year is expected to approach $393,000.

Fire Department — $61,850, up from $46,890. Actual expenditure this year is pegged at $60,283.

Public Works — $368,200, up from $319,700. Actual expenditure this year is anticipated to be $346,800.

The proposed budget, according to City Manager Steven Walter, provides for the same level of city services as are included in the present budget.

It suggests an overall salary increase of six percent. Specific salary figures have not yet been proposed, however.

As presently proposed, the general fund budget calls for a tax levy of $686,095. This suggests a millage increase of 3.2, boosting the total rate to 14 mills from the current 10.8 mill level.

"WE'RE TICKLED with the job they did Saturday, and we're overwhelmed by their plans to make this an on-going club project," said Assistant DPW Superintendent Ted Mapes as he praised the Northville Snow Drifters Club for its cleanup Saturday of the side of South Main Street. After Saturday's performance the club, under the presidency of James Waterman, announced plans to make periodic clean-up of the roadside.

REPAIR of a sewer cave-in near Seven mile and Rogers street was underway this week. Caused apparently by the breaking of an underground concrete sewer, the cave-in is expected to cost a minimum of $6,500 to repair. Temporary closing of Seven Mile was expected.

DESPITE REPORTS to the contrary the Western Wayne County Residents Association has collected only $2,000 (not $20,000) in donations to help the citizens' group in its fight against a state prison at the Wayne County Child Development Center. More money is needed, says Eunice Switzer, secretary for the group. Donations may be sent to the group in care of Box 49, Northville, Michigan 48167.

Fire pact threatens mutual aid

Another wedge has been rammed into the split between the city and township over joint fire service.

Western Wayne Mutual Aid Association has indicated reluctance to accept Northville into the mutual aid pact because of the agreement between the city and township.

The association tabled Northville's request to join the mutual aid group.

Concern was expressed by several fire chiefs concerning the potential burden on their departments for mutual aid should Northville be permitted to join the mutual aid pact — primarily because the local department serves the large township area where several large public institutions are located.

Spokesmen for the association met with Assistant Fire Chief James Allen and City Manager Steven Walters.

"They asked whether we had service contracts with these institutions which resulted in us being paid for these fire runs, and whether the departments responding on mutual aid requests would also be paid for the

Building growth still on horizon

If there is any question about the potential growth in Northville Township, it wasn't apparent from three developers at the planning commission meeting last week.

If all the plans that were discussed Tuesday night come to fruition, there will be another 550 to 570 homes, and 270 multiple-dwelling units in the township.

And that's not including those developers whose projects weren't on the agenda last week.

One of the projects is a joint venture by Fred Greenspan and the Elro Corporation which involves 188 acres east of Northville Road and abutting the site of the new township hall on the east.

According to George Orley, who represented Elro, the plans include 300 to 325 single-family homes, 270 multiple-family units and an 11-acre business area.

The plans are much different than those once proposed by Thompson-Brown which envisioned more than three times as many multiples, a smaller residential area and 16 acres for office buildings.

"There's no way that property's good for 700 to 800 multiples," said Orley.

The land, however, had been zoned to meet Thompson-Brown's needs. Orley was before the planning commission to seek rezoning which would double the single-family residential from 60 to 128 acres, halve the multi-family residential from 101 to 48 acres, and eliminate the 16-office service acres. The 11.5 general business zoning would not be changed.

Orley and Greenspan are looking for quick action on the matter because they hope to start work on the single-family phase this winter with sales planned to begin in the summer of 1978.

The planning commission agreed to hold a public hearing on June 13, two weeks earlier than the normal June meeting, to accommodate the developers.

The land has as its western border Waterford Pond which planning commission chairman John Dugan noted would be an attractive asset to the property.

Orley said the business area would probably include neighborhood food and drug stores and "not a K-Mart or anything like that."

Earlier, the planning commission had approved the proposed preliminary plans, stage two, for Northville Colony Estates Number 3 between Five and Six Mile east of Northville Road, and for Highland Lakes Subdivision Number 3 between Seven and Eight Mile roads.

The Colony Estates subdivision is being developed by Greenspan and Tuesday's approval was for 211 lots.

Levitt and Son are developing the 42 lots at Highland Lakes.

The planning commission also approved the proposed site plan submitted by the township for the new town hall that is being built with federal public works money.

Says 74-75 survey

Northville teachers are paid well

Northville teachers have less experience, more education, smaller classloads and higher salaries than most teaching staffs in Michigan, according to a state Department of Education survey.

The report, based on data from the 1974-75 school year, also indicates that

Wixom talks bog down

Contract talks between the City of Wixom and its police department will continue even though both sides thought the end was in sight after a year of negotiations.

Talks between the city and police union began in April, 1976 and have continued on a regular basis during the entire year. The actual contract ran out July 1, 1976 with the police working since then under the terms of the old pact.

Both sides apparently thought major terms had been reached on a new contract during a bargaining session in late March. Labor attorney Steven Rynecki of Milwaukee, Wisconsin met with council Thursday night to explain the terms of what was thought to be the new agreement.

But a session Friday morning which brought all sides together found the police department representatives choosing to disagree with certain portions of the contract.

Although actual terms of the agreement were not discussed, a police department spokesman said "things were left out" from the final draft of the contract.

A meeting between the union representative from the department, their attorney and a representative from the police union to discuss those items was called for Monday morning.

A terse comment from Assistant to the Mayor Bernard VanOsdale told this newspaper to contact Rynecki for a statement. Rynecki, who is also negotiating with Milford in their contract talks with the police department, could not be reached.

According to Mayor Val Vangieson, however, the snag in the talks appears to be over portions of contract language. Vangieson would not qualify whether he thought the problem a major stumbling block.

Northville has a high tax rate and spends a lot of money instructing a student when compared with the rest of the state.

The information was presented by administrators to the Northville school board last week.

The average Northville teacher in 1974-75 had taught for 6.1 years which puts the school district in the 10th percentile. That means that 90 percent of Michigan school districts have a teaching staff with a longer average tenure. The statewide average was 8.8 years.

The average Northville teacher's salary, however, was $13,605, higher than 80 percent of the state staffs and $1300 more than the state average of $12,296.

At least part of this can be attributed to the fact that nearly half (45 percent) of Northville's teachers have earned a master's degree. That's well above the state average of 28 percent and higher than all but about 10 percent of the state's school districts.

Since these figures were compiled, Northville teachers have ratified a new three-year contract and there has been some grumbling among the rank and file that the agreement was not a particularly good one.

There were 45.8 teachers for every 1000 Northville students, higher than the state average of 44.2 and in the 70th percentile.

The then operating tax rate of 28.07 mills was higher than all but 15 percent of Michigan's school districts. The state average was 24.4 mills. Northville now levies 32.8 mills for operation.

However, Northville spent $916 per student, far above the $763 average and more than all but 10 percent of Michigan's 530 school districts.

Oddly enough, the elementary instructional expense of $648 per pupil was slightly below the state average of $669.

Not surprising is Northville's small number of "racial-ethnic minority students". Only one percent of Northville's student body fell in this class which was still more than 20 percent of the rest of the state.

An upbeat statistic was the dropout rate of 1.7 percent, one of the lowest in the state (10th percentile).

The total student membership of 4472 (1975-76 figure) places Northville among the top 25 percent largest schools in Michigan, a position that is likely to remain secure despite current enrollment drops.

Teachers, Spear to meet Monday for modified talk

A committee of teachers will be meeting with Superintendent Raymond Spear Monday afternoon as the beginning of discussions that will determine if Northville is going to be on a new "modified" schedule next year.

The school board has already approved a "modified" school year which is a compromise between the traditional and year-round calendars that have been running side-by-side in Northville.

Before such a plan can be implemented, the education association would have to agree to a change in the calendar that is spelled out in a three-year contract ratified in November.

Following a meeting of the Northville Education Association last Wednesday, teachers were surveyed about the modified schedule.

The survey results were discussed Monday night by the association's executive council who then decided to appoint a committee to meet with Spear.

The committee will include one teacher in favor of the switch, one who is opposed and one who is neutral.

"We're just going to see what they have to offer," said NEA President Barbara LeBoeuf.

The "modified" schedule was approved by the board in March as an answer to growing dissatisfaction with the inefficiency of running two calendars.

No specific calendar was adopted, but the example most cited calls for a nine-week summer vacation beginning late in June, two-week vacations at Easter and Christmas and a one-week break in October.

Such a calendar, it is argued, would allow families to take lengthy summer vacations without the long three-month vacation now taken by traditional school year students.

It would also break up the school year as a concession to extended school year advocates.

The extended school year, based on the concept of 45 days in school and 15 days off, has been popular at the elementary level where about half of the students have volunteered for the year-round program.

But only one-fourth of junior high students are on ESY (extended school year) and only 104 of 1150 high school students go to school year-round.

The dual calendar would put all of the students on the same schedule and would eliminate the disparity in student-teacher ratios that now exists in the high school.

Teachers have not formally opposed the change but, as LeBoeuf said last month, some may have formed education, employment or vacation plans based on the calendar that is now in the contract.

Oddly enough, much of the informal opposition to the plan has come from high school teachers who were the most vocal critics of the inequities of the dual calendar.

Whether these opponents have enough support to thwart the modified plan remains to be seen. As one teacher said after last week's district-wide meeting, "The modified schedule is still alive. It's not alive and kicking, but it is still alive."

4th and 7th grades

Northville aces statewide tests

The question of the value, accuracy and, in some instances, legitimacy of standardized tests is hotly debated among educators these days.

Some say the tests, such as the Scholastic Achievement Test, are widely used in college admissions — are an accurate indicator of a student's knowledge.

Others say that tests are more likely to be indicators of which students are good at test-taking and, they add, the tests are unfair to minority students.

Critics of standardized testing often imply that test scores are given unwarranted importance by parents who want to hold their school system accountable. Conversely, critics say, administrators in districts where students traditionally score high use the tests as justification for high tax rates.

Into this controversy steps the Michigan Educational Assessment

Program — or, as it's known in the acronymic school world, MEAP.

MEAP is a statewide test given to fourth and seventh graders with the intent of judging performances in reading and mathematics.

Test results, according to Northville curriculum coordinator, Michael Burley, are supposed to indicate how many students in a school district have mastered the minimum skills.

The scores from last year's testing have been compiled and for anyone who puts faith in such tests, the story is a good one.

On the average, far more Northville students achieved 75 percent of the objectives than did statewide test takers.

The breakdown goes like this: Fourth grade reading, in Northville 76.9 percent mastered 75 percent of the objectives compared with 55.4 percent statewide; fourth grade math, Northville 90.7 percent, state 79.3 percent; seventh grade reading, Northville 77.3 percent, state 55.6 percent; seventh grade math, Northville 74.4 percent, state 53 percent.

The impressiveness of these figures is open for interpretation. Superintendent Raymond Spear told the school board last week that, based on the socio-economic make-up of the community, "we expect" to do better than the state average.

In the past, districts whose students come from more affluent and better-educated homes have usually recorded the highest test scores.

Thus, if the test is going to be used as a valid indicator of a school district's competence, it could be argued that scores from districts such as Northville should be compared with other suburban districts rather than with statewide averages.

Then there is the question of the questions themselves.

A student is judged to have mastered a minimum objective if he can answer four of the five questions posed on each concept.

If a large number of students are answering four of the questions in a group correctly, but missing on the fifth, it may mean that the question is defective and another could be substituted in later tests.

MEAP is only eight years old and the effort to improve the test is evident in the steadily rising scores — a statewide average of 2½ percent a year for the past four years.

It's also noteworthy that scores — both local and statewide — were much higher for fourth grade math than in the other three tests.

Burley says that's because the other three tests are still striving to reach a point where 80 percent of the Michigan students can attain 75 percent of the objectives.

He agrees that it is possible to rework the tests down to the students' abilities rather than maintaining a consistent measuring stick over the years.

Locally, he says, the tests can indicate if students in different buildings are scoring better or worse on certain concepts. Then, teaching methods can be studied to see if they should be changed or emulated, he says.

Northville administrators, needless to say, are happy that local scores are high. Regardless of the debate over their values, low test scores are the surest way to raise a ruckus in a community that takes an active interest in its children's schools.

'Buddy Poppy' sale approved by council

The annual sale of "Buddy Poppies" by the Northville VFW and American Legion posts were given a boost this week by the city council.

A proclamation supporting the sale May 19-21, signed by Mayor A. M. Allen, was endorsed unanimously by the council.

Noting that the miniature, paper flowers are assembled by disabled veterans and that proceeds from their sale are used exclusively for the benefits of disabled and needy veteran and the widows and orphans of veterans, the proclamation urged the community's support of the annual sale.

The proclamation urges citizens "to recognize the merits of this cause" and to support it "through the purchase of Buddy Poppies."

"I urge all patriotic citizens to wear a Buddy Poppy as mute evidence of our gratitude to the men of this country who have risked their lives in defense of the freedoms which we continue to enjoy as American citizens," said Allen in the proclamation.

In another proclamation issued this week, the mayor proclaimed May 9 through May 19 as Municipal Clerk's Week "in recognition of the vital services the municipal clerk performs and the outstanding dedication to the community that he or she represents."

Police plan open house

As a part of Michigan Week Festivities in the area, the Michigan State Police will host an open house at their facilities on Seven Mile Road.

The invitation to the open house is extended by Post Commander Lieutenant William Tomczyk on Tuesday, May 17 from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. Tomczyk said the inclement weather suffered during the January dedication and open house prompted the second celebration.

Tours of the complete complex including the scientific laboratory, district and post headquarters along with movies and information will be supplied by troopers assigned to the facility.

City budget sessions May 9, 11

Proposed budget totals $2.47 million

A $2.47 million budget has been proposed by Novi City administrators for the 1977-78 fiscal year.

The proposed budget was handed to the council at Monday night's meeting. The council approved budget sessions for 7:30 p.m. May 9 and May 11 at the school administration building. Other budget sessions are to be set later. All are open to the public.

City Manager Edward Kriewall who told the council jokingly that "due to financial restrictions the highlights are limited," said that seriously "We found this year our revenue will be severely limited."

Kriewall indicated that additional revenue from taxes at the Twelve Oaks Mall will not help significantly because "It was assumed in years past that increased revenue from the shopping center would go to pick up the surveillance bureau" which had been funded under federal grants.

According to Kriewall, "significant cutbacks" are being faced in the building department where as many as seven inspectors may be laid off.

"The big picture is unless there is a significant flow or increase in that area, there will be significant cutbacks," he said.

According to a letter from Kriewall included in the budget proposal, "This budget provides for the hiring of seven new general fund positions as follows: two patrolmen in July, another patrolman in January, a dispatcher, a police clerk, an administrative assistant and one account clerk. It also provides for a cutback of seven persons in the building department in November unless revenues in this area are increased. After considering both increases and decreases in personnel, the net authorized number of employees will remain the same as this year."

The proposed budget is $206,000 greater than the current budget. This is largely due to an increase in state revenue sharing. The reason is that the city has received word that its 1975 special census will be allowed for the purpose of determining state revenue funding. That increase in state funding begins with the 1976-77 fiscal year. Kriewall indicated that without the state revenue sharing additions, totaling $176,000 next year, the city could not have added any personnel in the police department.

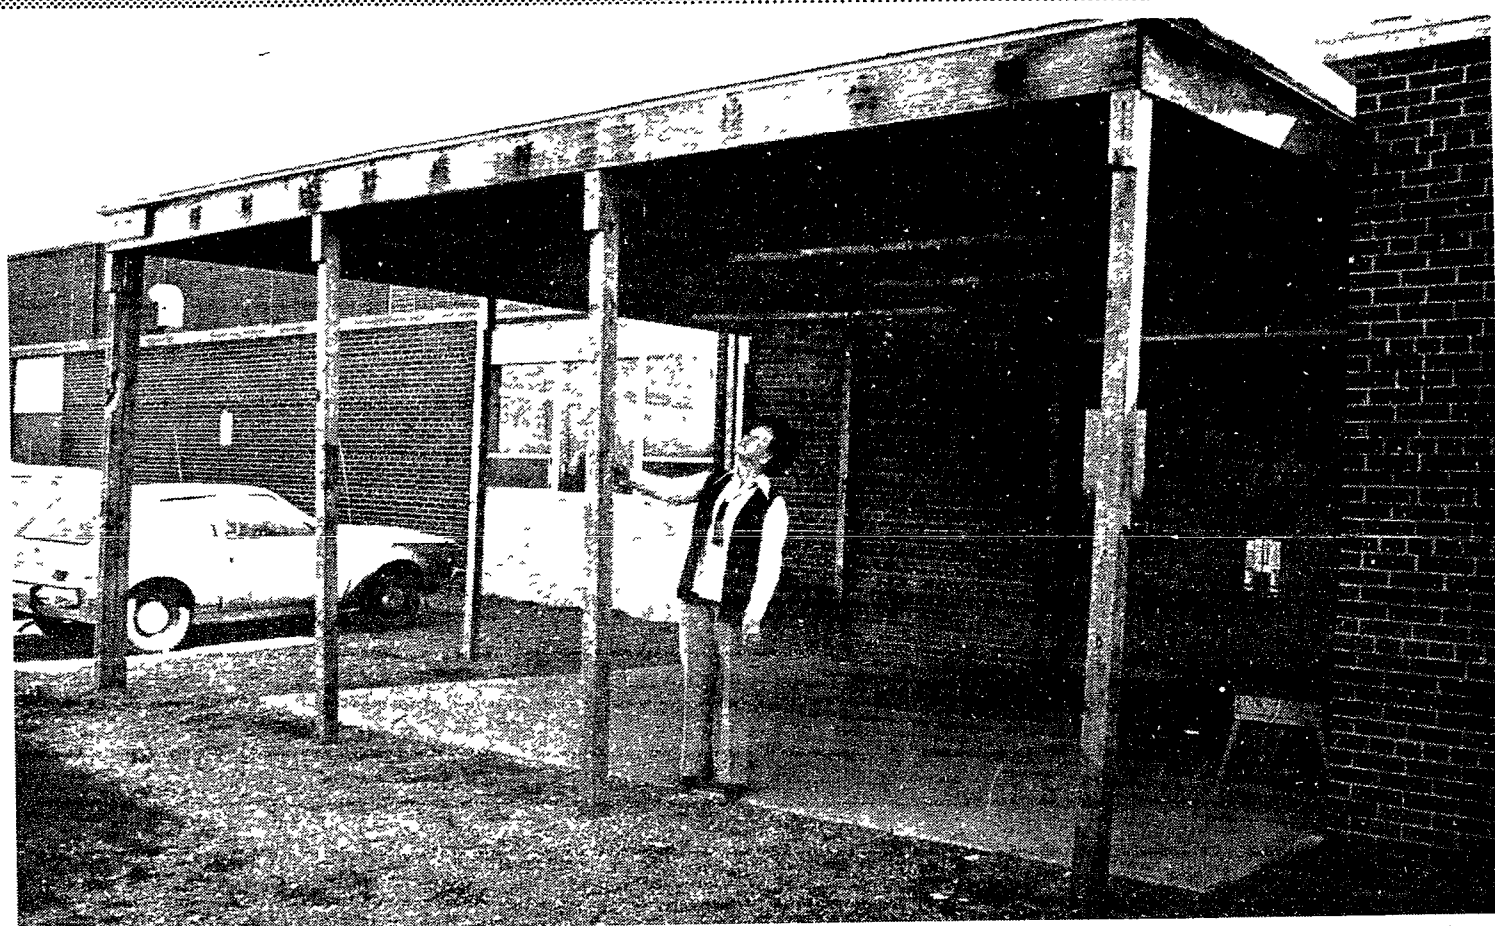

According to Kriewall's letter, there will be many changes both in revenues and expenditures next year. On the revenue side the following changes will be seen: taxes will be increased by $180,000 because of increased state equalized valuation; building department revenue will decrease by $80,000 due to decreased building activity; federal government revenue will decrease by $36,000 because of decrease in surveillance grant funds and increase in court service officer revenue; state revenue increase of $176,000 because of special census funds; charges, other and reimbursements will increase by $55,000 because of increased interest and reimbursements; prior years' surplus will decrease by $89,000 because there are no funds available.

Under expenditures, the following increases and decreases were noted: assessor expenditures will increase $23,000 because half of the assessor's salary will go back to the assessor's office (previously picked up by the manager's office); city hall increase of $21,000 because of increased utility costs; police increase of $33,744 for hiring two and a half patrolmen, one dispatcher and one clerk; court service officer expenditure of $41,000 which will be refunded except for five percent under the grant; building department expenditures will decrease $70,000 because of reduction of work force in November; CETA will increase $50,000; while "others" will increase $107,000.

Both revenues and expenditures will increase $206,705.

The current budget totals $2,265,000 while the recommended budget is $2,472,000. Interestingly, if all departments had received the budgeting they requested, the budget would total $3,134,000 or about $700,000 more than suggested by the city manager.

Offers $26,400 to pave 800 feet

School asks Taft paving

A proposal to make a lump sum payment of up to $26,400 to the City of Novi so that Taft Road can be paved from 10 Mile south to the new high school entrance was approved last week by the Novi School Board.

But, according to City Manager Edward Kriewall the school board will have to cough up another $8,000 if it expects the city to add the 800 feet of Taft Road in question onto its contract for the paving of Beck Road.

Though it was not brought up at the school board meeting, Kriewall said he had discussed with Novi Assistant Superintendent Dr. William Barr the fact that the city would lose its special assessing abilities on the 800 front feet of property on the west side of Taft Road. Because going through the special assessment process would have made it impossible for the paving to be done by the time school opens in September, the only alternative was to simply have the school district pay for the paving.

But this meant the property across the road could not be special assessed, at this time or in the future. And thus the school district would have to make up the $8,000 lost.

"They'll have to pay that cost because it's not to our advantage to do it unless they pay it," Kriewall told The Novi News.

Kriewall estimated the cost of paving the 800 feet of road at $40,000. He said that the school district would be expected to pay about $34,000 of that cost. The remainder, he said, would be picked up by the road paving program.

The school board in offering $26,400 was following its earlier lead of paying $10 a front foot for paving of Taft Road in front of the three schools between 10 and 11 Mile. In that case, the board had

Twelve Oaks update given

August 3 has been set as the grand opening date for Hudson's and the first stage of the tenant portion of the Twelve Oaks Mall, according to Project Director Richard Yetke who reported on progress at the mall to Novi council last week.

According to Yetke, Hudson's will be opening jointly with approximately 40 percent (on a square footage basis) of the tenant portion of the mall, which is located at Novi Road and I-96.

Timetable on the other three main tenants is: October 1 for Sears; May, 1978 for Penney's; and March, 1978 for Lord and Taylor.

Yetke estimated that by the end of 1977 approximately 70-75 percent of the non-major tenants should be open. An expansion portion of the tenant portion connected to the Lord and Taylor wing is supposed to open at the same time as Lord and Taylor.

Referring to the peripheral property owned by the developers of the shopping center, Yetke said that "there's been a great deal of interest. We have eight deals somewhere in the process. Some are closer to closing than others. The thing that keeps us from closing are improvements to the land."

Yetke revealed also that "We've been talking to Michigan National Bank to put this piece together with what we own."

However, he added that if the deal is consummated, there may be access problems to the inner portions of the property, possibly necessitating some type of access road. Michigan National Bank is located on the corner of 12 Mile

Novi High Smoking canopy becomes hot issue

A canopy behind Novi High School where students are allowed to smoke will stand until the end of the school year even though the state police fire marshal's division would have ordered it torn down had an inspection been made this winter.

The canopy was constructed by building trades students three years ago and remained standing without any problem until last week when a parent noticed the structure and complained about it to the city fire marshal's office which contacted the school district.

"He said his concern was that the structure was not safe and could fall down on students' heads," explained high school principal Dr. Helen Ditzhazy.

According to Novi Fire Marshal Edward McBride, he was concerned about the structure from a fire standpoint. He pointed out that in his opinion the structure violated the state fire code concerning school buildings. The fire code, he said, does not allow the attachment of a combustible structure to a non-combustible building. In addition, the combustible structure is over a fire exit.

However, the city has no jurisdiction over the school district in enforcement of the fire code, according to McBride. The state police fire marshal division was called in then to follow-up.

According to State Police Detective Sergeant Allen Eichenberg who inspected the structure Monday, "although it's not in good repair and leaks, it's probably structurally sound enough to make it through the end of the year."

"From a fire standpoint, it doesn't belong there because it is a combustible structure attached to a non-combustible building," he added. "If it caught fire it would burn so it would impede anyone trying to leave in the case of a fire."

Eichenberg admitted that "If I had been out there in January or February, I would have had them tear it down."

He indicated further that while the four-inch by four-inch boards holding up the structure appear sound enough, the ceiling, which sags about two inches, could not safely have held a heavy snow, had it still been winter.

Eichenberg learned from Dr. Ditzhazy that the school district intends to have the structure torn down as soon as school is through and said that he would give the district one week after school is over to have the structure torn down.

"It's our intent to destroy it the day after school is over," Assistant Superintendent Dr. William Barr told the school board last Thursday. "We feel there's no immediate concern. Our only concern is the wind might take it away and would blow it onto the roof of the building."

"We'll keep our eye on it and if there's any reason for alarm, we'll shore it up."

According to Dr. Barr and Detective Sergeant Eichenberg, the structure was never reviewed by the state police when it was first constructed.

Eichenberg said he thought it was an oversight on the part of the school district because "They felt it was a minor enough addition."

"I would not view that as being an addition to the building," agreed Dr. Barr. "It doesn't house anything."

What it does do is provide a place for students to smoke. But

Icing on the cake

Topping off the Twelve Oaks Mall certainly turned out to be the icing on the cake at a recent construction meeting. Members of the construction team found themselves treated to the sight and pleasures of the Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi done in pastry replica. Present for the occasion were: (from left) Vice president of construction management for Dayton Hudson Properties Ralph Martinson, project manager for Dayton Hudson Properties Richard Yetke, project director for Homart Development Company Frank Comber, and vice president of architecture for the Taubman Company William Hiotaky.

Injuries are recorded

In Northville . . .

Northville City Police are continuing their investigation of a three-car pile-up on Seven Mile and South Main Thursday afternoon. Investigation so far has revealed that Virginia Humphrey of Northville apparently failed to yield to oncoming traffic causing the accident.

The Novi Ambulance extraction unit was called to remove Mrs. Humphrey from the wreckage of her car. She was then transported to St. Mary Hospital where it was later revealed that she had suffered a broken neck and other internal injuries.

Police reports indicate Mrs. Humphrey, northbound on South Main, was attempting to turn left onto Seven Mile. For reasons yet unknown, traffic southbound on South Main was backed up in the left turn lane. It is thought Mrs. Humphrey did not see the car travelling south in the right lane and proceeded to complete her turn.

Walter Carlson of Northville, driver of that car and Margaret Tegge, of the township, driver of the third vehicle involved were not injured in the accident.

A driveway gate and approximately 20 feet of chain link fence enclosing a rear yard of a home on Main Street were damaged Friday night. The fence was thought to have been wrecked by a car being driven into it.

In Township . . .

A one-car accident on Clement between Bloomcrest and Main Street Sunday night sent two Northville Township youths to the hospital while their companion and driver was arrested by Northville Township Police for felonious driving.

Facing charges and arraigned Monday in Plymouth Court before Judge Dunbar Davis is 17-year-old Kevin Jones, also of the township. Jones, along with the felonious driving charge was arrested for driving without a license being issued, drunk driving and taking a car without permission.

According to police reports, Jones, with three passengers in the car, was southbound on Clement at a high rate of speed. Jones apparently lost control of the vehicle and went into a ditch, plowing along some 21 feet before the front end of the car nosed into the ground.

The impact threw the back end of the car up striking trees and branches before flipping end over end, sailing airborne 33 feet before coming to a halt.

Only Jones and passenger Brian Ludasher escaped without injury. Stanley Bruce suffering from a fractured pelvic bone and Lois Price, with several broken ribs, abrasions, contusions and facial cuts remain hospitalized at Botsford Hospital.

Jones was lodged in lieu of $10,000 cash or surety bond with examination set for May 12.

Another 17-year-old Township youth escaped with only minor injuries striking two trees and a lamp post on the median at Silver Springs near Eight Mile early Sunday morning.

After the accident, George Cairns left the car and walked home reporting it sometime later to township police. Cairns said he was southbound on Silver Springs when he swerved to avoid a parked vehicle.

Police are continuing their investigation of a stolen truck taken from a parking area on Jamestown Circle sometime early Wednesday morning. The 1976 Ford pickup with a white camper cap has yet to be recovered.

The owner told police there was approximately $150 worth of tools in the vehicle when it was taken.

A youthful driver, who apparently thought he could weave in between traffic to avoid stopping for a car turning left, found himself crashing into the car instead.

Both Bryan Mitnick, 16, of Union Lake and his 15-year-old passenger, Robin Hoque of Livonia, were taken to St. Mary Hospital following the accident on Seven Mile Road in front of the shopping plaza.

Michigan State Police reports indicate Mitnick failed to stop for a vehicle making a left turn into the Innsbrook Apartments, choosing instead to speed up to weave around the car. Mitnick told police he realized he couldn't make it and hit the brakes. The car skidded 20 feet before hitting the rear of the stopped car.

Mitnick was cited for violation of basic speed laws.

A female inmate considered dangerous, hostile and combative was found missing from the Northville State Hospital at 7 p.m. Thursday. Police from Joliet, Illinois contacted the Michigan State Police Sunday reporting the patient in custody in that city.

In Wixom . . .

Improper lane usage was cited as the cause of an accident on the I-96 expressway April 25 involving a car and two semi trucks. One person was injured in the pile-up which occurred at 10:50 a.m. in the west bound lanes just east of the Wixom Road overpass.

Wixom Police reports indicate the driver of the car, 21-year-old Laurie Young of Bloomfield Hills caused the accident when she pulled into the middle lane from the fast lane.

At precisely the same time, Larry Simpson of Midland, driving a Great Lakes Express rig, was moving from the right lane into the center lane to pass a slow-moving rig hauling a steam shovel, driven by Michael Mc Bride.

Simpson said later that the center lane was clear when he began moving over and was checking his mirrors for oncoming traffic. He failed to see the Young vehicle move in front of him until it was too late.

Attempting to avoid the car, Simpson said he cut back too sharply, hit the car and then struck the rear of the second truck. At impact, Simpson lost consciousness resulting in the truck veering across all three lanes of traffic.

Mc Bride told police he realized an accident was about to happen and had begun moving his vehicle toward the shoulder prior to impact. After the accident he removed the unconscious Simpson from his truck.

Neither Ms. Young or McBride were injured. Simpson was taken to Botsford Hospital for treatment and observation of his injuries.

The Wixom Fire Department was called to wash down the freeway due to leakage from ruptured diesel tanks and hydraulic fluid spilling on the roadway.

A Plymouth man was charged with failing to yield the right of way after being struck by a train at the C & O railroad crossing at Beck Road Thursday morning. The accident marked the third accident at the crossing in four months.

Robert Carrie told police he was driving south on Beck, stopping for the stop sign. He indicated he saw two trains but apparently thought both were stopped.

As he crossed the second set of tracks, his car was struck by the engine of the train which was already proceeding across the roadway. The engineer of the train said he had sounded the whistle and that all lights on the train were activated.

Carrie was uninjured in the collision. Only his car was damaged.

At some time during last week a storage locker belonging to a resident of the Indian Lodge was entered by removing the lock. The owner said a three piece pewter tea set and silver tray was missing from the locker. The items were valued at $250.

In Novi . . .

No charges have yet been lodged against a Highland man, an employee of Novi Plastics on Grand River who is being investigated regarding the B&E of several vehicles in the Novi Plastics parking lot April 27.

According to police, a foreman of Novi Plastics was returning to the building when he saw a man in between two vans attempting to pry open the window on one. When the foreman yelled at him, the man fled carrying something under his arm. The foreman attempted to follow him to another building in his car but lost him. He returned to the Novi Plastics parking lot and spotted two employees in a vehicle. One, he reportedly identified as the subject involved.

The employee did not resist and police were called. Missing from one van were a stereo radio, speakers and a bean bag chair. The chair was found by police behind American Enclosure Corporation. Some other smaller items were found west of the building while a pack of candy in one of the vans was found between the chair and the other items.

The radio was later found under a pallet on the west side of Gallagher Fire Equipment. Police are investigating.

William Merrill Greene, 22, of Plymouth was arraigned and released on $2,000 personal bond on a charge of possession of stolen property over $100. Greene was reportedly driving a truck which had been stolen from a Milford construction company and was stopped by police after he was seen driving erratically Saturday morning.

A 1973 Harley Davidson motorcycle valued at $2,000 was taken from a garage in the 23300 area of Meadowbrook Road April 27.

A construction trailer lowboy valued at $750 and reportedly owned by the City of Novi as the result of tax lien against Herbert Strack who went into receivership, was stolen from a fenced area in the northwest corner of his mobile home park.

A Sony tape deck valued at $130 was taken from under the dash of a car parked in the 24000 area of Willowbrook Drive April 26.

A 140 Regency CB radio was stolen April 26 from behind the driver's seat of a vehicle parked in the 24000 area of Cranbrook.

An apartment in Westgate VI was broken into April 24 and a 19-inch $400 RCA color television taken. In addition, $110 was taken from a wallet in the apartment.

David R. Gloer of Northville was inducted May 6 into the Central Michigan University chapter of Sigma Iota Epsilon, scholastic honorary society in business and administration.

'Shoot the varmits'

BY NANCY DINGELDEY

A simple hello on the telephone can say a lot. It can say, "I don't have time, I'm ecstatic, I'm sad, scared, or just plain disgusted."

It didn't take long for me to realize the tone of voice on the other end of the phone Tuesday morning was the "plain old disgusted" sound.

Since it was Tuesday, hence rubbish day in the north area of town, my automatic presumption was that the dogs had gotten into the garbage...after all, dogs and garbage do raise the blood pressure.

Sympathizing, I queried, "What's wrong...did the dogs get in your garbage?"

"Heck no...I'd almost take that any day of the week."

"What's more wrong than dogs in the garbage?"

"Varmits...rabbits in my garden," she hissed.

"Oh-h-h..." Seems my industrious neighbor had planted a couple dozen plants of broccoli and cauliflower and a smattering of spinach in her garden patch. And she added a dusting of "rabbit and dog no-no"...a substance guaranteed to keep four-legged critters from munching the greenery.

Her look at the garden Monday found 24 plants and the spinach gone...completely demolished...chomped to the ground.

My neighbor is absolutely the most determined person I know. Totally irritated, she marched back to the garden store and purchased one dozen plants, redug the holes, punched them in the ground and sought refuge and answers in her organic gardening book.

Flipping to the pest control section of the book she found the heading for the demolition of rabbits. First order of control for rabbits in the garden...shoot 'em!

The book further counselled that if a local ordinance forbade such activity there were other methods that could be initiated. Those methods called for sprinkling the plants with hot pepper sauce and talcum powder.

Grabbing a bottle of Tabasco sauce and the can of powder, the good neighbor hit the garden with a vengeance, using a half bottle (large size) of the sauce on the plants, followed by an equal dusting with the powder.

"Won't that do something to the taste of the vegetables...I mean you might come out with the weirdest tasting greens in town."

"Nope, won't do a thing to 'em except keep the critters out of the patch. But to be on the safe side, I'm erecting a fence!"

Later, to satisfy my own curiosity as to whether or not bunnies like hot sauce, I made another call to the local gardener. This time she was laughing.

"Must have worked," I said. "Well, sort of." And then breaking into gales of laughter she said the furry monsters came back for a second feast, and chomped down on two plants...but that was all!

"I found all these funny holes pushed into the dirt in other parts of the ground. Took a while to figure out what they were and then it dawned on me...the hot sauce must have gotten to 'em and they were trying to rub it off in the dirt."

"Serves the little monsters right...hope they got blisters," she crowed. "But just to make sure, I'm soaking dried red peppers in water."

"Got any good solutions for the eradication of moles?"

Old eyeglasses can help others

Old eyeglasses you no longer use can help some poor person have better vision.

J. Albin Jackman, director of family services for Harry J. Will Funeral Homes, said the firm is again collecting old eyeglasses for New Eyes for the Needy, Inc., a non-profit, non-sectarian organization in Short Hills, N.J.

Eyeglasses you no longer need may be taken to the funeral homes at any time. They are located at 37000 Six Mile, Livonia; 25450 Plymouth Road, Redford Township; and 4412 Livernois, Detroit.

A quantity of glasses has been collected, the firm will carefully package and ship them to New Eyes, which will sort and test the glasses, distributing them to persons too poor to purchase visual aids.

Boxes for donations of glasses are being placed in many area churches May 1 and 7. (New Eyes solicits no funds.)

"Our last New Eyes drive was tremendously successful," said Jackman. We are beginning another drive because we're certain that many more pairs of useless glasses have been accumulated locally, and people would like the opportunity to give these glasses a useful purpose."

Meanwhile, county commissioners are still insisting that no proposal has been submitted to them by the state to buy or lease the Child Development Center.

Nevertheless, a picture sent out by Commissioner Mary Dumas, who represents this area, is convinced that Board Chairman John Barr has been dealing with the state behind the backs of other commissioners.

Harris told The Record last week that even if a formal proposal is presented to the county by the state, he will fight to see that it goes to public hearing, as earlier promised by the board, before any final action is taken on it.

Dumas joins race for state rep' Dog 'sanitation' control okayed in Novi

Mary Dumas, who is serving her third term on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, is one of three Republicans in the special primary on June 1st for the vacancy in the State House of Representatives.

Prior to her election as commissioner in 1972, Mrs. Dumas served a term on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees.

Commissioner Dumas has served four years on the Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice Coordinating Council which plans funding for crime-fighting programs in Wayne County, is a member of the National Association of Counties Crime and Public Safety Committee and an appointee of Governor Milliken on the Michigan Juvenile Justice Advisory Committee.

She has assisted efforts of Northville residents to stop the establishment of a state penal facility at the Northville Child Development Center and supports use of the properties for educational purposes or a senior citizen housing.

Legislation should be enacted to reimburse or provide tax credits to communities which have a high percentage of their property in state or public lands and institutions," she contends.

A Livonia resident for 14 years, Mrs. Dumas has a long record of community service. She is a member of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, Livonia Rotary, Secretary of the Livonia Business and Professional Women, the Schoolcraft Advisory Committee and in 1975 she was named Livonia Woman of the Year by Soroptimists. Currently she is a member of the United Communities Services Western Wayne County Division.

She was a member of the Livonia Bi-centennial Horizons Committee, Co-Chairman of the District Court Bond Drive, a volunteer probation officer and past president of the Livonia School Board Advisory Council.

During her terms on the Wayne County Board she has served as vice-chairman of the general government committee, chairman of the rules committee, chairman of the Wayne County rape task force and member of the emergency medical services executive committee.

Her political background ranges from 12 years past Republican precinct delegate to vice-chairman of the Republican Congressional District Committee and founding president of the present Republican Womens Club.

Dog 'sanitation' control okayed in Novi

No one can say that Novi is going to the dogs.

Not after Novi council Monday passed a strict sanitation ordinance to stop dog owners from allowing their pooches to "soil, defile, or defecate or to commit any nuisance on any public thoroughfare, sidewalk, passageway, bypass, play area, park, or any place where people congregate or walk." In addition, the council will soon be faced with an additional dog ordinance amendment which will limit the number of dogs allowed based upon zoning restrictions.

Prime mover behind the ordinance was Councilman Philip Goodman who said that "It's a good time of year to get going." He explained that particularly in common areas in condominiums dogs create a real nuisance and sanitation hazard.

The ordinance would force dog owners to remove droppings deposited by their dog and requires dog owners to carry a container to collect the dog droppings. It also requires that the dog owner exhibit the container if requested to do so by an official empowered to enforce the ordinance.

Actually, according to Goodman, the ordinance gives persons complaining about dog problems a method of carrying through without having to hire a lawyer and go to circuit court on their own. The ordinance allows the complainant to contact the city prosecuting attorney who will then follow through.

Goodman met resistance from Council Member Martha Hoyer who maintained that it would be another ordinance which could not be enforced.

"I have seen ordinances like this and they are effective. It's the citizens who now have some kind of tool," responded Goodman.

Also up for discussion was a proposal to limit the number of dogs owned by any person in the city to three but council members indicated that with the diverse sizes of property, there might not be anything wrong with having more than three dogs on a larger parcel of property.

Your new car will self-destruct in three years.

Or less. From rust.

No, your car is not rustproofed at the factory. Any factory. And undercoating alone may do more harm than good.

Have your car rustproofed by Ziebart.

We start by covering the entire underside with a sealant that locks itself in place and remains moisture-proof indefinitely.

Then our factory-trained men use special tools to spray our sealant into all the hidden, boxed-in sections of a car's body, where rust damage begins.

And that helps to keep your new car from self-destructing before it's even paid for.

Nancie Blatt asks for area hearing

Speaking in Livonia, Nancie Blatt, Democratic candidate for State Representative in the 35th District, has called for public hearings to be held in the district, perhaps at Schoolcraft College, so that the Legislature can find out first hand the feelings of the people in Livonia, Northville and Plymouth on the proposed jail at the Wayne County Child Development Center.

Mrs. Blatt, treasurer of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees has strongly opposed the use of the facility for a prison site since it was first proposed.

Mrs. Blatt said, "This is a perfect indication that although our district is represented by a Republican State Senator, State Representative and a Republican County Commissioner, they do not have adequate influence with the governor either individually or collectively to change his mind on using the Wayne County Child Development Center for a penal facility.

The candidate suggested that it may be wise for the voters of this district to be represented by both of the major parties in the legislature.

Mrs. Blatt who also serves as vice-chairperson of the Michigan Community College Association believes that a better use for the Facility would be an "Educational Consortium" between Schoolcraft College and Wayne State University. "This would bring a new dimension to the cultural and post-secondary educational needs of our community", she stated.

Northville eyes Michigan Week

May 10

Preliminary plans for Michigan Week in Northville were announced Monday.

Northville has been paired with the Village of Franklin, an historic Oakland County community. Officials of the two communities will exchange mayors on Monday May 16.

Mayor A. M. Allen of Northville will be traveling to Franklin, accompanied by Assistant DPW Superintendent Theodore Mapes and their wives.

Serving as official host to the visiting dignitaries from Franklin will be Northville's mayor pro-tem, Paul Vernon, who announced this week that theme of the Mayor's Exchange Day program will be Northville's sesquicentennial — the 150th anniversary of the community's founding in 1827.

Kicking off Michigan Week here on Saturday, May 14 will be the traditional Main Street washing by Northville firemen and the cleaning of sidewalks by Girl Scouts.

Distribution of clean up material is planned, under the direction of Wilson

Funk, and refreshments are to be served participants following a flag-raising ceremony at the city hall Saturday morning.

On Sunday, May 15, churches of the community are being asked to include the theme of heritage in their sermons or bulletins.

Following a flag-raising ceremony and performance by the high school band on Monday morning, visitors from Franklin will be taken on a tour of the community and later be hosted by the Northville Rotary Club.

Beautification awards are to be presented to outstanding businesses, churches and public facilities at the Rotary luncheon as part of the on-going program of the Northville Beautification Commission.

Afternoon tours for the visitors also are planned.

On Thursday, May 19 education day exhibits and programs are planned in Northville schools.

Still to be announced is the date and time for a jazz band performance in the downtown area.

Fieldbrook group to meet

The first Annual Meeting of the Fieldbrook Community Mental Health Association will be held on Tuesday, May 10, 1977, at 7:30 p.m. at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 39020 West Five Mile Road, Livonia.

The Fieldbrook area includes the townships of Canton, Northville, Plymouth and Redford, and the cities of Northville, Plymouth and Livonia, and anyone living in this area with an interest in Mental Health is cordially invited to attend, as are all agency personnel who offer Mental Health services.

Purpose of this association is to coordinate and implement Mental Health services in this large Northwestern Wayne County area, and a report on the first year's activities will be made by the board of directors.

Forensic team soars

The Cooke Forensic team may have been a beginner, but the Northville Junior high school came off as anything but novices last weekend.

Competing in the State Junior High Forensic tournament in Ann Arbor, Cooke's first forensic team won six all-state awards and 19 certificates of excellence.

That meant that 25 of 27 participants in the three-round, all-day tournament came home with awards that were presented in an assembly by the Michigan Interscholastic Forensic Association.

Mary Freydl is the Cooke coach.

State-level awards were given to the following:

Kelly Schulz, second-place trophy and superior rating in Serious Interpretative Reading; Holly Rinehart, second-place trophy and superior rating in Extempore Speech; Laura Willoughby, fourth-place pin and superior rating in Serious Interpretative Reading;

Robin Georgoff, fourth-place pin and a superior rating in Extempore Speech;

John Wagner, fifth-place pin and a superior rating in Serious Interpretative Reading; and Earl Renaud, fifth-place pin and a superior rating in Original Category.

Certificates of excellence were awarded to those contestants receiving an overall average of 85 percent or better in the three rounds of competition.

From Cooke, these were: Karen Kluesner, Kriss Van Gieson, Bob Crisan, Matt Steward, Jeff Campbell, Elizabeth Bohan, Maureen Schimpf, Liz Chamberlain, Cheryl Didyk, Nancy Joslin, Marci DeRupa, Julie Abraham, Scott Freydl, Mike Settles, Tim Potter, Kay Manley, Jim Stoddard, Pam Bingley and Brian Havanen.

Thirty-one students, including four alternative team members, also received certificates and Forensic pins from the school district Saturday.

Mrs. Freydl said that State Executive Director Jon Fitzgerald complimented Northville on its fine showing in its first season of junior high competition.

Federal money for curbs urged

An appeal by representatives of downtown Northville businesses that some of the city's federal revenue sharing funds be used to repair curbs was taken under advisement by the city council Monday.

Some main detours

Travelers first on Grand River and then later Novi Road found themselves facing detours over the week-end and the early part of this week as the water main on its way to the new high school was put into the ground. While the main will travel down the west side of Novi Road, a 16-inch spur was sent across Novi Road at Grand River so that at sometime in the future, water can be provided to the east along Grand River.

establish a special planning committee of merchants, councilmen and citizens-at-large upon completion of budget reviews.

(Study of the budget proposed by the city manager resumed following Monday's council meeting and after council set May 23 as the budget hearing date.)

Among those speaking at the hearing Monday on proposed uses of an anticipated $32,207 in federal revenues were businessmen Kenneth Rathert, Glenn Long and Dewey Gardner.

Long told council members that CBD merchants are growing increasingly worried about the potential adverse effect that Twelve Oaks Mall, a regional shopping center in Novi, will have on Northville business. He urged council to use some of the federal revenue monies for financing downtown improvements, such as curb repairs.

Beyond immediate repairs, Gardner advised council that "long-term planning" to enhance the CBD be undertaken. He stressed that if a committee for this purpose is established, councilmen should play an active role on it.

In addition, he suggested an educational program aimed at informing merchants of existing statutes, such as the law prohibiting merchants from sweeping sidewalk debris into the street.

Major support for the merchants' suggestions came from Councilman Stanley Johnston, who has been serving as liaison between council and the central business district business people.

Commenting on merchants' suggestions, Councilman Paul Vernon agreed that "we need a concerted effort so that we move in the same direction."

He supported the committee idea, envisioning this group as the one to formulate plans and establish timetables for their implementation. He suggested that perhaps low-interest monies to assist in the upgrading of stores, private parking, etc. can be obtained through bonding which the city could pledge its full faith and credit for repayment.

The latter suggestion was made when one merchant suggested that although she wanted very much to refurbish the front of a store building, she simply did not have the money to undertake it.

Relative to the poor condition of the alley roadway and parking areas behind stores on the north side of Main, officials reminded merchants that the city is unable to undertake improvements there because of private ownerships.

Mayor Allen urged again that the city be given leases for these properties so that it can legally undertake improvements there.

Johnston, who has been meeting with CBD merchants periodically, said he would begin visiting next week with owners of property behind the stores in question to determine if a leasing arrangement can be secured.

Previous efforts in this direction have been rejected by merchants.

Novi Honor Society will install members

New members of the Novi chapter of the National Honor Society will be inducted at a formal ceremony May 9 at 7 p.m. in the Novi High School Library.

Membership in the National Honor Society is open to sophomores, juniors and seniors. Only students carrying a grade point average of 3.7 in grade 10 and 3.4 in grades 11 and 12 are eligible. Prospective candidates must complete a questionnaire describing extracurricular activities, work experience and personal activities which is passed on to a faculty council. The council then proceeds to tally the faculty's character rating for each applicant and makes the final decision on who will be selected as a member.

Following the screening process, students and parents are invited to attend the induction ceremony at which time new members are presented with pins.

Taft proposal

agreed to pay the same amount as homeowners who were being specially assessed $10 a front foot. Because it is a governmental body, the school district cannot be forced to be included in a special assessment district.

Dr. Barr, approaching the school board on whether it wanted to also pay $10 a front foot on Taft Road in front of the new high school, suggested that if the district paid that amount up front, there would be no problem (based upon his conversations with Kriewall) in the city paving that portion.

"If they don't pave it, we're going to have real problems next year," said Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz.

The board had indicated long ago that it hoped to have Taft Road paved in front of the new school because that entrance will not only service student parking, but also buses.

The city council had included Taft Road from 9 to 10 Mile on its 1977 road program but later dropped it. By providing up front money, the board hoped not only to have Taft Road paved to the high school entrance, but also to escape the added burden of twice having to pay for work on the approaches to the high school driveway.

"This needs to be paved. But the reason is because the city decided on its own without consultation with us or anyone else to eliminate it," charged trustee Joel Colliau. "I question when the road will be done under the present priority of the city."

"We have to be sympathetic to a fellow governmental body," responded Trustee Robert Wilkins. "The advent of a Taft Road citizen's lawsuit and the loss of money has created a serious deletion of roads. No one lives between 9 and 10 Mile and it's a question of priority. The suit has opened a Pandora's Box to every other stretch of road paved."

"It seems to me we're getting off lightly in getting our entrancing back. If we delay too long we won't have an approach and I question what it will be like next year."

Colliau, the lone trustee to vote against the expenditure of funds called the proposal "too premature." Absent was Ray Murphy.

Kriewall estimate that Taft between 9 and 10 Mile will not be paved under the road paving program until 1979 or 1980.

He added that if the school district tacks on the additional $8,000 to its resolution, he would recommend to the council that it approve the request.

Wixom budget sessions

Open Meeting Act opinion given

Although Wixom has "been abiding by the open meeting procedure now prescribed by law moreso over the years than any other community in the area," City Attorney Harold Bulgarelli gave his legal opinion on that law to council members at the Tuesday night meeting.

The opinion came after council questioned if the open meeting law also covered budget study meetings slated to begin this week.

In his interpretation of that law, Bulgarelli stated, "If those deliberations lead to rendering a decision on any public issue or policy, the meeting must be open to the public."

Bulgarelli also pointed out that if any question exists as to whether a meeting is to be open or not, hold an open meeting since the law was designed "to encourage public participation and attendance rather than discourage it."

Councilwoman Lillian Spencer said she found nothing wrong with the open meeting concept and welcomed comments at budget time remarking, "It is their money we're spending." Mrs. Spencer did add, however, that past sessions have been completely informal "and sometimes we can be quite frank. I hope that will not be lost now that everything must be recorded."

According to the rules of the act, council appointed City Clerk June Buck as the designated person to give notice of all public meeting.

Bulgarelli said it was important for the city to draft rules for the orderly conduct of meetings and that they be carried in the minutes of those meetings.

A group session arranged by Bulgarelli with representatives of other cities to formulate those rules was scheduled for Wednesday. Assistant to the Mayor Bernard VanOsedale was appointed by council to represent Wixom.

The first budget study session was held Tuesday night with no actual rules in effect to govern the meeting. Ms. Buck said unless the new rules were completed, the study session Thursday would be conducted in the same manner.

Further budget study sessions are slated for Wednesday, May 11, and Thursday, May 12. All meetings are held at Fire Station No. 1 on North Wixom Road beginning at 8 p.m.

12 Oaks update

and Novi Roads and its parcel juts into the shopping center property.

Yetke publicly thanked the city for its help, noting that great assistance had been provided in getting water and sewer to the site in time.

"It was about a year ago we were concerned," he said. "There were three laws allowing construction of public utilities, and they were clouded by lawsuits. Right now we're in the final throes of completing both sanitary sewer and water. Right now my major concern is that Hudson's plans on putting in fulltime people May 1."

Asked when construction would be lessening on the site, Yetke responded that "parts of it are quieting down right now. But some is just gearing up. By March 1 the only construction activities will be Penney's."

Patricia Hobar, public relations director for the eastern region for Dayton Hudson, told the council that a press conference is planned for July.

"All five sculptors will be here to install their own works," she explained. She also gave details of a benefit planned for the opening.

Referring to Yetke, she said, "He's probably constructed one of our most attractive developments."

Smoking canopy

According to Dr. Ditzhazy, it really is not a place designated for students to smoke. It's the only place in the building or the immediate grounds around the building not designated as a no-smoking area.

"The only area not designated as a non-smoking area was the end of the library to the beginning of the loading dock about a 100 feet away," she explained.

According to Dr. Ditzhazy, she recommended construction of the structure three years ago because students were smoking in the bathrooms making them a "littered mess."

"It's been here for three years and hasn't fallen on anyone's head," she said. "But on the other hand he (the parent) has a point. I don't know it won't fall tomorrow. I'd like to see it stay. If we take it down, on a rainy day we're saying we'll chase the students out of the bathroom."

Speaking for The Record

Prison decision tragic mistake

Certainly Governor William Milliken is in a better position than we to know of the state's desperate need for additional prison space. And certainly he is in a far better position than we to know of the facilities available for immediate occupancy in Michigan.

But he is in no better position than Northville and her citizens to judge the merit of turning the Wayne County Child Development Center into a prison. And in our opinion, his decision to do just that is unwise, unnecessary, illogical and fiscally irresponsible.

The Child Development center is too precious a commodity to hastily sacrifice as a temporary safeguard against a possible repeat of New York's Attica.

That state corrections officials have successfully persuaded the governor that the Child Development Center is an ideal location for a prison doesn't surprise us. They grabbed for the choicest of plums, ignoring less attractive but satisfactory alternatives.

Given the opportunity to choose, without thought of a community's zoning laws, costly planning and its citizens' welfare, anyone might argue strongly for the Child Development Center. After all, it is a very attractive, largely vacant facility.

Northville, it appears to us, is being made the scapegoat for a state's failure to properly plan the housing of its burgeoning prison population. It has procrastinated itself into a crisis corner and now it seeks to justify theft of local rights by beating the drums of alarm.

If the "hot summer of '77" in the state's penal institutions is predictable now, it was predictable last year and earlier. But we saw no concrete planning then to head off the inevitable.

It seems the height of folly to us that on the one hand the state proposes to spend upwards of $10 million on the Child Development Center as a temporary prison while on the other it plans to abandon an existing penal institution less than two miles away.

The argument proponents use, of course, is that the Detroit House of Correction is inadequate and rapidly deteriorating. Yet, no one has been able to show why, with an equal amount of ingenuity and expenditure, DeHoCo's life cannot be extended at least for the so-called temporary four of five years until new, permanent facilities can be built.

Would DeHoCo be any less accommodating than the mobile units planned for prisoners at the Child Development Center while the latter facility is being renovated? We think not.

If raping the Child Development Center while closing another nearby existing penal facility isn't illogical, certainly the plan to build a permanent new prison on land adjacent to but not on existing prison property fits the description. It is neither logical nor necessary.

If the state legislature and Wayne County support the governor's proposal — and we strongly suspect they will — two branches of government will have made the same tragic error. It will remain for the third branch of government to make the final decision.

The inevitable confrontation pits the state and its inexcusably poor planning against the zoning laws and sound planning of local government. If the courts rule in favor of the state in this case, the right of self-determination by communities throughout Michigan will have been dealt a stunning, irrevocable defeat.

The irony of this costly confrontation and community unrest is that incarcerated people who disregarded laws will have persuaded sensible people to break other laws.

Peonies stirring

Just as we were applauding the early array of colors in the garden, marveling over the brilliance of this year's flowering crabs and cherries, and anticipating the early explosion of the tulips, nature sneaked up on us and painted our joys with a devastating stroke of white.

Not even a hurried Midnight sortee into the garden to cover the choicest colors was altogether successful.

Last week's frost may not have been as deadly as nature's April surprise of 1976, but it momentarily dampened our spirits and gave us reason to reflect on the incongruities of life.

However, we take stock in the fact that nature also carries pleasantries in her bag of tricks. April is behind us, and we suspect May will soon rekindle the beauty of this new season. Stout lilies are still inching upward, the forget-me-nots, poppies and peonies are stirring, and someone has said there's nothing better for petunias than a spring frost.

GOOD . . .

Yes on the Carter Energy Plan, I don't mean by this that the Plan is the whole answer, but finally someone took a stand on this subject. I believe that what he is trying to show us is that it took everyone to create the problem and it is going to take sacrifice from everyone to solve it.

The ones that are crying the loudest seem to be the ones that would be in the best position to help solve the problem. Fifteen years ago the car industry was able to put a full-size car on the road that would get 25 to 30 miles to a gallon of gas.

Why not today? Because the car companies convinced everyone that they had to have power steering, windows, air conditioning, etc. Thus the drop in gas mileage.

The utilities have reaped the highest profits of all and if anyone should have realized the coming problem they should have years ago, but it seems that the money meant more than the people. Lastly the consumer was caught in the middle as usual, for year now the industries have pushed for labor-saving devices that use energy and now at a time that almost everyone has at least one of these devices, they are being told you can't use them.

So as far as Jimmy Carter's Energy Plan is concerned, let's see who will suffer.

His plan will make everyone give a little but I am sure that congress as usual will give in to the money people and the consumer will get it in the neck.

Or will they? If they are smart, they will look at the whole problem and work with the President of the united States to come up with a solution that we can all live with.

BAD . . .

Although I believe that it is very necessary that the people of the United States need some type of energy conservation plan, I cannot foresee that penalties for the working persons of this country will accomplish what is being sought.

The increase proposed in taxation at the gasoline pump will only penalize the people that have to have gasoline to commute to work and will not penalize the luxury user. I believe that some system must be devised to separate the necessity from the luxury.

The gas guzzler concept is not a true concept in the use of energy in the form of gasoline. The car that will only transport 2 or 3 persons and is able to derive 20 miles per gallon does not conserve energy along the same ratio as one that attains mileage of 15 miles per gallon and will transport 6 persons. And also the bureau that will have to be conceived to manage the rebates will without a doubt consume more energy in heating, lighting, etc. in offices that will be established than the total savings in gasoline.

The rebate is totally another question. How does the United States Government justify the rebates to persons purchasing foreign manufactured automobiles?

To help to solve the problem let's remove the price controls on oil, natural gas and let the private sector come up with the answers. It will not only solve the energy problem but will put more people back to work.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

"I didn't know you had so many institutions in Northville," said Alex Sibley, supervisor of Easton Township, during a visit to discuss the book, "Northville — The First Hundred Years".

John Wortman of Novi, long-time former Northville resident and former businessman here, brought his friend Alex to my office to specifically talk about our mutual interest in the old "Salem Train Wreck" but we ended up talking more about the proposed Northville prison.

Easton Township is where two of the state's major penal institutions are located — even though they are popularly referred to as Ionia institutions.

Until his visit and a tour of the Child Development Center property and the nearby Detroit House of Corrections, Sibley couldn't understand "why you people are so opposed to a prison." When he saw how many institutions are already located in Northville, however, he returned home with an altogether different impression.

Supervisor of Easton Township for 20 years, Sibley said the two prisons in his township have created "very few" problems for the community while providing a beneficial $11 million payroll for the largely rural township.

Told of a recent house-to-house canvass of a subdivision near the Easton prisons by Carl Johnson of Northville, Sibley agreed with Johnson's findings that "some people" there don't like the prisons. But, insisted the Easton supervisor, they are a small minority.

The fact that the prisons have been located in Easton for a long time — nearly 100 years for the Michigan Reformatory and about 18 years for the Michigan Training Unit — may account for the public's acceptance of the institutions, he explained.

He remembers, however, a "real clamor of opposition" in Easton when the state proposed to move the Boys Training School from Lansing to his township. Perhaps partly because of this vocal opposition, the school was eventually located in Green Oak Township near Whitmore Lake. Much of the opposition, he said, was generated because of the high rate of escapism from the training school. On the other hand, he said, there are relatively few escapes from the Easton prisons, which house adults.

"Frankly, there has been no public outcry about the two new prison units they're planning to locate in our township in the next three or four years. Maybe that's because they intend to cluster them in the same area as the existing ones.

"I don't think our people would object if they put the prison in Easton instead of Northville. But our problem is that we don't have enough buildings."

Sibley was astounded by the amount of Northville lands and buildings already committed for institutional use, and he guessed if the situation were reversed Easton might not like it either.

As long as the proposal suggests using the Child Development Center only temporarily, he supported location of the prison on the existing prison property of the women's division Detroit House of Correction, which is scheduled to be closed this summer.

Sibley said a group representing opponents of the proposed Holland prison visited his township recently to inspect the penal institutions there. And another group from the Kincheloe Air Base area, where another prison is planned, was scheduled to visit Easton this past Monday.

"The Kincheloe people are opposed, too, but not nearly as much as those from the Holland area," he said.

We sort of voted against the Congressional pay raise last week. That's right — "sort of" voted against it.

I say that because even though 236 members voted against the raise (to only 179 for it), the action did nothing to actually stop the raise. The vote added an amendment to the resolution projecting federal budget levels for the coming year, subtracting $7 million for the Congressional spending target. Nothing in the action we took is binding.

That target is only an expression of intent and guidelines for the actual appropriations we'll vote on later. Besides which, after the "anti-raise" amendment had been adopted, the entire budget resolution containing the amendment was defeated. So even this small symbolic victory will have to be re-fought.

In the meantime, the raise rolls on. Nonetheless, as an expression of intent the House vote was encouraging. It indicates what I've contended all along: if the House were to have an open vote on raising its own pay, it would vote "no".

You may recall that the major pay raise took effect earlier this year without a vote in the House. I had joined with a group of other House members to sponsor resolutions to defeat the pay raise. If the House were serious about stopping the raise, that's when it could have done it. But those resolutions were managed by the House leadership so they were carefully buried in committee.

I said at the time it was an unseemly way to act. I haven't changed my mind. The "real" vote on rescinding the pay raise will come (if it comes at all) when the appropriation bill comes to the floor later this year. That's the bill with the legal authority to spend the money or not spend it.

The really interesting thing will be to compare the two votes. How many members of the House who voted against the pay raise on the symbolic resolution, will actually vote against it when their paychecks are really on the line?

And then there are 100 other things to consider. They're called Senators. No matter what the House may do, the pay raise remains in effect unless the Senate agrees to stop it as well.

Readers Speak

They're glad traditions survive

To The Editor:

Congratulations to those parents who appreciate the value of "tradition" and who are not apathetic. We refer to recent articles in the Northville Record regarding Northville High School graduation and the traditional events and ceremonies that are associated with it.

The graduating honor students of the class of 1976 nearly didn't have the annual Honors Buffet last year, for at that time Mr. Tarpinian did not make it public that he planned to cancel that event. This year, although he went to the school board to bless his decision, the proposed cancellations were made known to the public through good reporting by The Record and thus Mr. Spear and Mr. Tarpinian were vetoed as the school board obviously reconsidered their concurrence to cancel the Buffet and Baccalaureate.

As we pointed out to Mr. Spear last spring, the honor students, high academic ratings and high average SAT scores are treasured and noteworthy when school administrators (and school board) are having promotional meetings seeking new millage. The very least we can do to honor these young people and their day in, day out efforts is the annual, traditional Buffet preceding the awards.

As to Baccalaureate, possibly the "minority" who attend are the very students and their parents who should be shown the most consideration. "Billy-bedammed", Mr. Spear and Mr. Tarpinian, to your "hot weather, students new-found rights" and majority and-or minority. Tradition, indeed, dies hard — as reported by The Record. And we are grateful for that! (We wonder if the administration would seek to cancel a late spring base ball game or track meet because it is "usually" hot or because a "minority" participates by competing or attending?)

A suggestion to parents of 1978 graduates: Vigilance is the only way to preserve the things you hold dear, and important.

Lastly, even though we do not know Mr. Whitaker, our thanks, our applause, and our vote to this board member who echoes the statement we made last year at this time to Mr. Spear and Mr. Tarpinian regarding graduation and specifically the Honors Buffet — when he said that this entire evening is "one special thing we do to recognize academic achievement" and "it is one of the best public relations things we do in the district all year long."

To The Editor:

If you read in the Northville Record under a "School Board Agenda" headline that Item 13 would be "Honors Convocation — 1977 Program Plans" you would assume that the trustees would be discussing plans for the traditional honors banquet and convocation.

Wrong.

What was discussed at that meeting was whether to have such an event AT ALL. Who knew that? Who knew that also under discussion would be whether to have the traditional Baccalaureate ceremony for this year's graduates? That was thrown in as an after thought, an incidental.

Technically, according to board rules, at this point, there could be no public input from the students, their parents, or anyone else who pays a school tax bill.

(In order to address the board on any agenda item, first one must fill out an application to speak prior to the meeting. The question is, how does one know what the board is going to discuss?)

These two traditional spring graduation events nearly went the way of pep rallies, school dances and school pride... right down the drain.

Here's what happened. At the first mention of scrapping the honors banquet Connie Conder rose from her chair, went back to the entrance, picked up an application to speak, filled it out, went to the front of the room and handed it to the director of instruction, who handed it to the superintendent, who handed it to the board secretary, who handed it to the next trustee, who handed it to his neighbor, who handed it to the board president. He read it and after board members discussed it, called upon Mrs. Conder to speak.

She eloquently appealed to the board not to scrap tradition; citizens in the audience applauded; the board voted; and there will be an honors banquet for one more year.

Next, out of the blue, came the discussion on the Baccalaureate ceremony. Keeping a perfectly straight face, Mrs. Conder went through the same outlandish procedure a second time, adding only "I don't believe this!" The only thing missing from the established procedure was the customary request from the board, "Would you please come up and use the microphone and state your name?" The rest of the scenario was the same and yes, there will be a Baccalaureate service for one more year.

The superintendent said that only a minority attended anyway. For heaven's sake, we've been running a whole separate school calendar for a minority for the past four years! Like the lady said, I don't believe this.

Sincerely,
Helen R. Geisler

1976 grad views board

To The Editor:

Public school systems recently have been under attack by the electorate. Major criticisms are that administrators are inept, teachers incompetent and facilities inadequate. These accusations may very well be valid; they must be reconciled.

At the apex of this commotion sits the local school board, whose members should be objective and impartial. Board members set policies. They represent the communities. However, they are elected and this precludes the fulfillment of their responsibilities.

No matter how noble a stand a candidate might take during a campaign, once elected that candidate becomes a politician. When a person is in a position which generates power and prestige, he will not do anything that might jeopardize that position.

Locally, some of the issues that our own school board will not take a firm stand on because of political considerations are:

1. Reprimanding severely the superintendent as the person responsible for the alternate school funding scandal;
2. Demanding accountability of teachers and building administrators;
3. Solving the smoking and drug problems at the high school;
4. Abandoning a controversial and costly "temporary experiment"... Year Round School, Extended School Year, Modified School Year, or whatever they have decided to call it this week;
5. Protecting the value of school property by continued maintenance.

In fact, any and all issues that come before the board are full of political ramifications. What are some answers? Possibly, voters should:

1. Elect school board members to only one five year term.
2. Board members only should make policy decisions, leaving the implementations of the recommendations up to the superintendent and the rest of the administrators. (If this is not done, the board should re-evaluate its position or replace the superintendent.)

3. Remember the superintendent is only an administrator, not a policy maker. (If he insists on taking part in policy making decisions, he should run for election to the board.)

4. Pay school board members a decent reimbursement for their time so the job will attract additionally motivated and qualified people.

5. Remember that they (board members) are involved in education and that everything they do or say is being watched by the students.

Sincerely,
John M. Geisler

'Attend before June 13'

To The Editor:

I don't care much for Monday night television and since there is not much else going on Monday nights, I like to watch the intrigue at the Northville School Board meetings.

Like any spectator sport, there are the issues of endurance and maneuvering for position. Sometimes pathetically funny, and often alarmingly informative.

Per participant, the cost is relatively high... a six million dollar budget divided by the number of people in attendance.

(Naturally one does not expect the spectators to jump in and help call the plays since we elect people to do that, but Monday morning quarter-backing is a time-honored American tradition. Tuesday's okay, too. So is June 13.)

Northville's strong opposition to the prison here is well known in Easton, according to Sibley.

Sibley reminded me that this summer will mark the 70th anniversary of the Salem Train Wreck which, incidentally, occurred not in Salem but in Northville Township on the railroad that runs through the DeHoCo property near Five Mile and Ridge roads.

The train wreck has special significance for Sibley because his brother, Burton, and his aunt, Nell Sibley, were aboard one of the trains that crashed here in July, 1907.

Burton and his aunt miraculously survived the crash, even though their train car was splintered and tossed on top of the engine. "Aunt Nell saved my brother's life by flopping on him as the engine's steam gushed out on them. He wasn't injured at all, but she was badly burned by the steam. She was in bed a long time afterward."

Burton died in 1964 at the age of 63. He was five at the time of the crash. His aunt died in 1940 at the age of 65.

Most of the 33 people killed in the head-on crash of two trains and most of the scores of others who were injured were from the Ionia area.

"If I'm not mistaken, the last Ionia survivor of the crash recently died," said Sibley, who recalled a few sketchy comments made by his aunt and brother about the crash which today remains one of the worst railroad disasters in United States history.

And Wortman, an Ionia native, remembered comments of his father, who operated an Ionia hardware store at the time.

'Super Sewer' authority planned

after having received a letter from the UAW to not change the board's make-up, commissioners voted down Western Wayne's request.

Charging that the make-up of the Public Works Board did not adequately represent Western Wayne County, Commissioner Edgar Harris of Taylor had filed a motion to reconsider the issue which brought the matter before the full board again on April 28.

"I believe that the present make-up of the Public Works Board is an inequity to those people living in Western Wayne County who pay for the building, maintenance and operation of their sewage systems and treatment plants," Harris declared.

"Three of the districts which will be governed by the new board are in Western Wayne County and would be the participants in the $140 million proposed 'supersewer' project," he said.

The Super Sewer project, formally known as the Huron Valley Wastewater Control System, involves 13 outcounty communities. Wayne County is presently seeking federal and state funds for the design and construction of this system.

Harris asked that the board of commissioners refer the public works board nomination back to committee to "work out an adequate representation formula" that would "give Western Wayne County more direct control over sewer projects."

His motion to reconsider was defeated by a vote of 14-10, with most of the support for referral coming from Western Wayne County commissioners.

When the new public works board was created, the plan required that four of the members reside in the proposed wastewater control districts and that the remaining three be appointed to represent the county-at-large.

John Barr, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, appointed Commissioners Chester Wozniak of Hamtramck, Richard E. Manning of Redford, William Sullivan of Wyandotte for three-year terms and George F. Killeen of Detroit and Clarence R. Young of Ecorse for two-year terms.

In addition, he appointed Wayne County Road Commissioner Freddie G. Burton and Charles N. Youngblood, county drain commissioner. The drain commissioner's appointment is required by state statute.

Responding to the concerns of commissioners, mayors, and township supervisors from Western Wayne County, Barr advised the Board that he would "take action to guarantee" a stronger voice to the Western Wayne County communities involved in the Huron Valley Waste-water System."

He said he would begin immediately "to establish a Super Sewer task force and invite every community involved in that project to send a representative to serve."

"The future growth and prosperity of these several Western Wayne County communities depend, to a large extent, on the success of the supersewer project. Their investment is so great that common sense dictates they have a strong voice in the construction and operation of this project," Barr declared.

Barr said part of the charge given to the task force will be to make recommendations to the Public Works Board on the following responsibilities:

- the establishment of rates
- reviewing formula for construction costs

- acting as liaison to Congress and federal agencies

- acting as liaison to state administrative agencies

Barr said that the new structure of the Public Works Board is expected to attract more federal dollars and "because elected officials are involved, it will be more responsive to citizen need."

Western Wayne County Commissioners Harris, Royce E. Smith of Belleville and Thomas Presnell of Westland expressed disappointment and apprehension about the future of sewers in the outcounty areas.

They state jointly:

"If only four of the thirteen communities involved in the Super Sewer project withdraw, it would mean $140 to $168 million worth of work lost to the county."

In addition to Harris, Smith and Presnell, all democrats, the following outcounty commissioners voted to reconsider the public works board appointments: Mary E. Dumas (R-Livonia), George Z. Hart (D-Dearborn), Alex Pilch (D-Dearborn), Ervin A. Steiner (R-Grosse Pointe), William Sullivan (D-Wyandotte) and William G. Suzore (D-Lincoln Park).

Dearborn and Detroit have their own sewer authorities.

Out-county officials have emphasized that contrary to published reports, objection to make-up of the public works board and intention to establish an authority are not aimed at killing the Super Sewer project.

Quite the contrary, out-county officials see their action as promoting the Super Sewer. "We want it, and we intend to see that it becomes a reality," said the Romulus mayor.

It is a move, he explained, to head-off any intention by Detroit based officials to stifle the project.

He voiced suspicion that Detroit commissioners want to tell business people thinking about moving from Detroit to the suburbs that "it will do you no good because they don't have the sewer capacity to accommodate you."

Furthermore, he warned that sewer rates will be in the hands of Detroit officials, who may exercise their power to increase rates over the objections of out-county communities."

"The Super Sewer is to be located in our communities to serve our communities, and its control should be in our communities."

As for Barr's task force proposal, Stewart and other Western Wayne officials contend it is a meaningless effort "not worth the cost of the paper its written on." The task force won't be in control; it will be just a puppet of Detroit commissioners," the mayor declared.

The Super Sewer as presently planned would stretch from Commerce Township in Oakland County to Brownstown on Lake Erie. It represents a smaller alternative proposal adopted when Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti decided to withdraw from a far more encompassing project.

Fire pact threatened

fire service provided," said Walters.

"I indicated, of course, that the contract between the city and township for fire service provides for the township to pay its cost of township fire calls, but that the institutions did not pay directly for fire service under individual contracts."

The manager said he came away from the meeting with the impression that the association would prefer dealing with separate Northville fire departments.

Although the department here operates jointly with the township, the association doesn't like the idea that the city should receive township payment for fires occurring in the township when it, as a mutual aid group, would be required to provide free service when called upon in emergencies in the township, it was explained.

"Apparently, part of the concern stems from a request made to the Livonia Fire Department last year to provide fire service to Hawthorn Center (located in Northville Township), which was not resolved because of the question of payment for service."

The manager expressed concern that continuation of the joint service, at least under the present financing arrangement, could jeopardize the city's ability to join the Mutual Aid Association.

The questions raised by the association, said Walters, "will have to be resolved as part of our (city) negotiations for fire service" with the township.

Although the Northville Fire Department has not been a formal member of the mutual aid pact, it has been responding to fires in adjoining communities represented by Western Wayne Association and they, in turn, have responded to emergency situations in Northville.

It wasn't until the department formally applied for membership that any serious questions were raised.

Meanwhile, city and township officials are studying the various ramifications of continuing joint fire service—particularly in light of the township's plans to build its own fire hall as part of the municipal complex.

Officials were unable to reach agreement on this joint service last month when it hammered together a new agreement for other joint services.

Netters come through for clutch victory

It was just a short time ago that Lance Carter was asking Northville tennis coach Bob Simpson if the results of a number three doubles match ever mattered.

Carter and his partner, John Marzonie, discovered the answer Monday when they were placed in a must-win situation as the clash with Farmington Harrison came to a close.

Simpson had picked Harrison as one of two teams that Northville would have to beat to successfully defend its title and the Farmington school made that prediction look good by winning three of the first four matches.

Only number one singles Doug Castillo had been successful which meant that Northville had to sweep the last three matches.

John Dyer and Jeff Hodge had little trouble in number two doubles, but fourth singles Charlie Whiteside lost his second set, 6-0, after a first set, 6-3 victory and the Carter-Marzonie team lost the first set in a tie-breaker.

"I thought we were history," said Simpson.

But Whiteside came back to win the third set and Carter-Marzonie, the last match to finish, won the last two sets, 6-4, 6-3.

The two sophomores have been playing well all year, said Simpson.

The win ups the Mustang league record to 3-0 and stretches their unbeaten string this year to seven.

Earlier last week, Northville dumped league foes Plymouth Canton (7-0) and Walled Lake Western (7-0) and non-league opponent Fenton (6-1).

After the Wester win, Northville had five straight 7-0 victories and stretched the unbeaten string of matches to 36 before Greg McFadden was beaten in second singles against Fenton.

Other than McFadden's loss and a close (7-5, 6-4) first doubles win by Steve Laffler and Steve Pyett, Northville had little trouble with Fenton.

The Mustangs had no trouble with Western, losing only 11 games and no sets in the sweep. The Canton sweep was a bit closer, but none of the matches went three sets.

Monday, Northville has another big test when it hosts Livonia Churchill. A victory would give the Mustangs an early lead on the rest of the pack.

Overall, the Mustangs have a 45-4 match record after seven meets.

Number one singles Castillo and number four singles Whiteside are both 7-0, number three singles Rudy Horst, whose only loss was to Harrison, is 6-1, and number two singles McFadden is 5-2.

In doubles, Laffler and Pyett are 6-1, while number two doubles Dyer and Hodge and number three doubles Carter and Marzonie are both 7-0.

Futile stretch

Novi catcher Steve Weber stretches high for a throw as a Milan player slides home safely during the Wildcats' 9-1 loss last week. Mistakes, errors and mental mistakes have contributed to six straight Novi defeats. See details on page 2-B.

No clutch hitting dooms Mustangs

A few timely hits could have brightened up the week for Bob Kucher.

But the hits weren't there when most needed and the Northville baseball coach now finds himself in an early season must-win situation.

"We've got to start winning," Kucher said after the Mustangs lost their first two league games of the year to Livonia Churchill and Plymouth Canton, stranding 20 baserunners in the two games.

Most of the nine men left on base in the Canton game would have had to score to make any difference in the 10-2 loss, but a key hit or two would have turned the 3-2 loss to Churchill around.

As it was, John Wizzgird had to take the loss despite another excellent performance on the mound.

Wizzgird gave up two unearned runs in the first and another in the third and that was it as he has now hurled 24 straight innings without giving up an earned run.

The last—and only—team to score off Wizzgird without the aid of an error was Brighton who scored twice in Wizzgird's first inning of the year. His earned run average is now a microscopic 0.56.

Despite numerous chances, Northville only scored in the fourth when Doug Marzonie singled, Bob Kain reached first on an error and Rick Marrone bunted to load the bases.

A sacrifice fly by Dan Thomas brought one run and a single by Nick Hamp scored another. Don Borthwick walked to load the bases, but Don Dales was thrown out on a grounder to short on a contested call.

Northville stranded 11 runners including a runner on third when the game ended.

The Mustangs had men on base against Canton, too, but the Plymouth school had more. Twelve hits, 15 walks, two hit batters and two errors put 31 men on base and 10 scored for Canton.

The game was close until Canton broke a 2-2 tie with two in the fourth, two in the fifth, one in the sixth and three in the seventh.

Friday, in a non-league game, Clarenceville got three runs off Dave Heckerl in the second and they stood up for a 3-2 win.

Hamp, who was 7-for-12 for the week (.583), tripled and scored one run and singled in another run in the seventh.

In the three games, Hamp had six singles and a triple, scoring three of Northville's six runs and driving in two more.

Novi's girls track

Small in numbers, big in spirit

Novi's girls track team isn't entering Thursday's meet with league powerhouse Brighton under any illusions.

Brighton has already trounced teams that have easily beaten Novi and the Bulldog girls having winning times in most events that exceed the best of the Ladycats.

"This is a development year," says first-year coach Gene Gutierrez. "I'm looking for improvement. If we can get all the team to come out next year, I think we'll have a pretty tough team."

The improvements have been steady, he maintains, noting that he rewards best times as well as firsts and school records with Starburst candies.

"I'm going through about two packs a meet," he laughs.

It's the individual efforts that Gutierrez has had to concentrate on. Since an easy win over Northville, the Ladycats have been on the short end of lopsided defeats to Chelsea, Saline and Dexter.

Gutierrez, however, feels his team will do much better in the league meet where the lack of numbers — there are about two dozen members on the team — won't be such a hindrance.

By that time, many of the newcomers to the team may have found their best events.

With only one senior, co-captain Dede McAllen, and two juniors, including co-captain Kathy Breznjak, Gutierrez has to depend on sophomores.

He's got a solid start in Ginger Hensel, Ann MacKay and Janet Dinser who he hopes will be providing the base for the future.

Hensel, who set the school's 440 record on a Tuesday and then broke it two days later, could be a threat in most every event. Besides the quarter mile, she's the leading high jumper and starts off both the mile and 880 relay teams.

Another sprinter, Dinser anchors the 880 relay team and is concentrating on the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

MacKay is a consistent point-getter and is the team's best hurdler.

Another promising sophomore is Melissa Hammond who is looking good in the long jump, hurdles and mile relay team and who may add depth to the distance events.

Co-captains McAllen and Breznjak are the distance specialists, alternating in the one mile and the two mile. Other milers are Polly Sinclair, who lettered last year as a freshman, and Barb Madigan, who started out as team manager.

The half-mile is the domain of Ginny McCutcheon, a sophomore who came out for the first time this year. No one on the team has beaten her in the 880.

Rounding out the sprinters' ranks are

Maura Reynolds, Kelly Mills, Lori Thompson and Magan Raddant.

Holly Johnson in the shot put and discus and Yvonne Crawford in the high jump add to the field events.

Gutierrez and assistant coach Jim Ladd are encouraged by both the attitude on this team and the middle school

'I can't believe we're 0 and 6'

Rick Trudeau, just finished with a long walk through the Novi outfield after another loss, paused a moment to shake his head in disbelief.

"I just can't believe this team is 0 and 6," he said.

But it's true. The Novi baseball team, which Trudeau thought had a shot at challenging for the SEC title, had just lost its sixth straight to Brighton, 6-3. It was the Wildcats' fourth league loss.

And the knowledge that, with one exception, all of the defeats have been to good teams has been little consolation.

Monday night, the Wildcat play improved but they still beat themselves.

Walks, some errors, a few hits and the failure to execute properly when two Bulldogs should have been thrown out at home resulted in a 5-0 Brighton lead after only an inning and a half.

Novi got one back in the second when Rick Pretty singled and Jeff Laverly doubled him home. From the third on, Novi pitcher Rick Faulkner settled down, escaping from some jams with only one run in the last five innings.

Novi cut into the lead in the sixth when, after Greg Porter singled, Dave Beall tripled and then scored on Tim Putnam's ground out.

The Wildcats threatened with two runners in the sixth but couldn't score. A base-running error prevented them from loading the bases with no outs.

The loss was still an improvement over an 8-1 defeat to a Milan team last week that had only one win to its credit.

Pitcher Bill McCauley was the victim of "about nine errors," according to Trudeau. A five-run second put Milan up 7-0 and settled the matter.

"We got very little D (defense) and very little hitting," said Trudeau succinctly.

Later, he said he was looking for leadership.

"I still believe we've got the tools to be a good ball team, but I don't think they are taking the initiative to be a leader," he said.

"Everyone follows. No one is putting out to be a leader. We're just showing up to the ballgames."

The problems, as Trudeau sees them, are nothing that a victory couldn't cure.

"I'm looking for a win to break the ice," he said. "I don't think they believe they are a good team."

In last week's non-conference game, Milford Lakeland scored four in the fourth and took a 9-4 decision.

Putnam, who had two RBIs, and Randy Wroten, each had two hits and pitcher Tom Blakesley doubled in a run.

BOB GOULD

Quantity hurts Wildcats

Novi's track team is playing the numbers game. And the Wildcats are coming out the losers.

Coach Del Munson's squad had been able to match most opponents in the front ranks, but has lost its dual meets to teams with superior numbers rather than talent.

A case in point was last week's Dexter meet where Novi won 10 of 17 first places, but still lost by 10 points, 83½-73½.

"We've got the quality, but not the quantity," said Munson. "And with the new point system for four places, they kill us with seconds, thirds and fourths."

This year, for the first time, points are awarded to the fourth-place finisher in dual meets. Previously, five points were given for first, three for second and one for third.

Now, points are awarded on a basis of five for first, three for second, two for third and one for fourth. That means a team can have the first-place finisher in an event and still lose ground if the other team sweeps the next three places.

The system heavily favors large teams as does the SEC's method of determining league champs, a sore point for Munson.

"I think it's a garbage formula to use," said Munson, when asked about the practice of giving equal weight to the dual-season records and the league meet.

"They don't determine the NCAA that way. I disapprove heartily, but I'm the only one in the league that does."

But don't get the idea that Munson is a chronic complainer. He found plenty of bright spots even though the most successful match of the week was a rain-out against Saline.

Besides losing to Dexter, the Wildcats were also dumped by Chelsea and finished a distant second to Pinckney in a triangular meet that also included Fowlerville.

Leading the way against Dexter was Jeff McDermott who set a school record in the pole vault with a winning height of 12'1".

Andy Raddant, who won the long jump in the Pinckney triangular, did the same against Dexter and also won the 100-yard dash, took second in the low hurdles and was on a winning relay team.

Novi completed its sweep of the field events as Tom Yakel won the shot put (Paul Cartwright took second), Tom Morris and Andy McComas took one-two in the high jump and Dwayne Ridenour and Joe Sylvestri took one-two in the discus.

McComas won the 880 and Morris won the 440 and the 200.

The 440 relay team of Tim Morris, Sylvestri, Raddant and Yakel was also a winner. But, despite the firsts, Dexter's depth proved to be too much.

The front-line performances in the triangular were impressive even though the final score was Pinckney 87, Novi 43½ and Fowlerville 36½.

Besides Raddant's win, the 440 relay team, Jeff Johnston in the two mile and Yakel in the shot put were winners. Novi also had six seconds including two by Tom Morris who was edged at the tape in both the 220 and 440.

A couple of high points included the performance of McComas, who placed second in the 880 after returning from surgery, and Raddant, who took second in the low hurdles in his first try at the event.

Benefit to build fence

A new fence at the Thomson baseball field is one of the benefits that the Northville baseball program will receive because of an exhibition game between the Detroit Tigers and the Cincinnati Reds last week.

About $800 was raised from the sale of 208 tickets by the Northville Recreation Department, according to director Chuck Froberger.

All the proceeds stay in community where the tickets are sold as the Tigers and Reds donate their services to boost amateur baseball.

Gould breaks 2-mile mark

Bob Gould changed tactics last week and the talented Northville distance runner ended up breaking his own school record for the two mile. In running a 9:37.7, Gould—who finished 11th in the state meet last year—also beat the holder of one of the area's fastest times.

Injuries sideline sprinters

Thinclads set records, but lose

A record-setting performance by two-miler Bob Gould and strong showings by Tim Ellis, Brian Turnbull and Dennis Singleton helped to ease the pain of a pair of defeats suffered by the Northville boys' track team last week.

And pain is the correct word to use since several Mustangs missed some or all of the action because of various aches and pains.

"We're not running kids with injuries," said coach Ralph Redmond. "It's just too costly for us right now."

Thus, the Mustangs were without Gould, Bob Sweeney, Earl Bingley, Kevin Corcoran and Jim Nowka when they were dumped by North Farmington, 94-64, Tuesday.

They weren't in much better shape Thursday when Western Six foe ran up a 116-42 victory.

One of those who was back for the Churchill meet was Bob Gould who shattered his own school record by more than two seconds by running the two mile in 9:37.7.

In doing so, he beat rival Tobin Jones who has one of the best area times and who won the Spartan Relays earlier this spring.

Gould, who finished 11th in the state last year and who was a star in cross country, usually tries to set a blistering pace to wear out his opponents but he switched tactics against Jones.

The two went practically stride-for-stride for six laps before Gould made a move which Jones successfully fought off.

But with about 330 yards to go on the final lap, Gould again kicked and this time passed Jones and raced home the victor on the strength of a 64.7 second last lap.

Sophomore Tim Ellis also has his eyes on a school record after bettering his personal best by two feet Thursday.

His put of 50'8" was more than two feet better than his previous best of 48'4" which was good for first against North Farmington.

Against Churchill, however, DeWitt edged Ellis with a 50'9 1/4" put.

Cracking the 50-foot barrier has put visions of Jim Porterfield's school record of 52'9" in Ellis' mind.

"Each week, he (Ellis) establishes a new goal," said Redmond, who said the toss was the result of "strenuous workouts".

"He throws a 16-pounder in practice and that gives him more speed and explosion in the circle with the 12-pounder," said Redmond.

Dennis Singleton also provided a high point when he showed signs of last year's form by beating Lloyd Austin in the high hurdles with a 15 flat. Austin has one of the top area times.

Other than that, there was little to cheer about except for John Coram's win in the mile and the mile relay team winning with Robinson, Prom, Rose and Weston.

Highlights in the North Farmington loss were double wins by two sophomores. Ellis won shot put and the discus and Turnbull won the mile and the half mile.

Although the sprinters' ranks were depleted by injury, the distance performance — even without Gould — was solid.

Phil Reed's win in the two mile gave Northville firsts in the three longest races and Mustangs took two of the other three places in each of the distance events.

Coach is confident

Opponents 'walking' over Novi

Jimmy Carter may think walking is a great way to conserve energy, but Russ Gardner isn't thrilled with the idea.

The Novi softball coach thinks his team's 0-6 record could be 4-2 if it wasn't for severe control problems with his pitching staff.

In the six losses, the Ladycats have issued 84 walks — an average of 14 a game — including an incredible 26 to Pinckney Monday.

Only against Brighton were the walks at an acceptable level. Only four Bulldogs got free passes and Novi had a victory wrapped up until an error opened the doors for three runs and a 5-4 Brighton win.

The harm of the walks is illustrated in a 10-6 loss when Oak Park got only one hit, but 19 bases on balls.

Gardner, however, is patient and optimistic.

"We just lobbed the ball across last year and we won eight games," he said. "We could do that this year, but we've got a lot of freshmen and sophomores and they should learn to do it right."

"It's tough to learn the windmill without junior high experience, but they'll get it. They are all willing to work hard. By the districts, a couple of these girls will be coming right along."

When the control comes, Gardner expects the wins will follow naturally. Several times, he said, Novi has out hit and outfielded teams it has lost to.

Even Pinckney, which bopped Novi 23-8, only got six hits and six of the Pirates struck out. "When they get it over, they are winging it pretty good," said Gardner. Some of them have been hitting it well, too.

Sue Beall is the team's leading hitter with a .461 average and Ricki Mulligan, one of the most consistent players, is batting .400.

Heather Barr, with only one error in 28 chances, leads the team in fielding with a .965 mark.

In other games, Novi has lost to Saline, 18-5, Clarenceville, 12-6 and Milan, 10-3.

track program which has drawn a large number this year.

The need for depth was evident against Saline which had 10 sprinters in the 100 and seven in the 220. By contrast, Gutierrez feels he has eight sprinters to try and cover the many short distance races and relays.

"A lot of good ones from last year didn't come out this year," says Gutierrez who faces competition from jobs as do other area coaches.

"But we've got some strong kids and the attitude is super. The kids are great to work with."

He points to the excellent attendance at the daily practices during Spring Break as evidence of his team's dedication.

Golf tourney seeks entries

Young area golfers who want to compete for state and possibly national honors should start getting their game in shape for the 1977 Insurance Youth Golf Classic.

Registration deadline for the tournament, sponsored locally by the Talmay Agency along with the Goddard Agencies of Walled Lake, is May 27.

For more information or for an entry form, call Tom Bingham at 624-1531 or John Marshall at 624-4544.

Winners in the local tournament will play 36 holes in the state qualifying round at Bay Valley Inn in Bay City on July 25.

Collecting Koi for your garden pool is a fascinating hobby. They are the exotic Japanese fish that respond to your call, love to be fed by hand and make ideal pets. A Koi pool must be at least ten feet across to allow the fish room to swim. The depth is important—at least 18 inches, ideally 24-36 inches or deeper. Some shade is good for the fish and keeps down the algae. Keep your pool water clear with filters to enjoy the brilliant jewel-like colors and patterns of this delightful fish. Start with a good quality pond Koi (also called Carp) about 6 inches long. You'll pay about eight dollars from a reputable dealer and be on your way to enjoying a new art form.

We have many fascinating ideas for decorating your home, here at GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. We are your one-stop-shop for all your wall-coverings, FULLER O'BRIEN PAINTS, painting accessories, unpainted furniture, custom draperies, etc. We could like you to find out what we have and what we can do for you. Let us help you avoid the costly and disappointing mistakes so common in decorating your home.

HANDY HINT:

Keep water temperature between 65 to 70 degrees for maximum growth of Koi and don't overfeed.

Late rally tops Mustangs

Farmington Harrison scored three times in the last inning to beat Northville 4-3 and leave the Mustangs winless in Western Six play.

sixth when Nick Hamp walked, Don Borthwick was safe on an error and Thomas singled home another run.

Borthwick then stole home when, after a suicide bunt attempt failed, the Harrison catcher was so engrossed in the runner at first that he missed the runner coming in from home.

"I thought at that time our luck was changing," said coach Bob Kucher.

Northville had overcome an early 1-0 deficit in the fourth when Greg Armstrong singled, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on a single by Dan Thomas.

Plan to give blood

Northville's annual community blood bank will be held from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday, May 21, at First Presbyterian Church, 200 East Main.

Mrs. Janice Dyke is the new blood bank head, taking over duties from Mrs. Elden Biery, who served as chairman of volunteers for several years.

Anyone wishing to donate blood is asked to call

Lynne Hahn, 348-2472, or Mrs. Dyke, 349-9939, to make appointments.

They point out that the earlier donors call the better chance they have of getting the time they wish.

Mrs. Dyke has been advised that there are new changes in the screening criteria for potential donors. A final list of these changes is to be released this week and will be given next week.

TO: President Jimmy Carter

We applaud your courage and vision in bringing the nation into confrontation with the sober realities of the future of our energy resources.

The gifts of nature which provide beauty for our land, clean pure air, protection from noise pollution, clear waters — the trees and plants and shrubs with which we spend our days — can be most efficient energy savers, too. Making use of this fact is something each individual can do.

Careful tests have proved that a wind-barrier of trees, vines and other plantings on the north and west sides of a dwelling can reduce winter fuel consumption from 10% up to as much as 40%. On the south and west they can save air conditioning energy by reducing inside temperatures as much as 8-degrees on hot summer days.

In view of this, Mr. President, we propose encouragement of the addition of these natural conservation steps, much in the way your proposal includes incentives for other means of insulation. We suggest this be an important factor, as well, as the Congress makes its decisions.

Green Survival
...it's something you do.

Nature has been providing this service since the very beginning ... but it has never seemed as vital as now. Now it may be a matter of survival. Survival that is dressed in green.

NOTICE OF RIGHT TO REFERENDUM ON BECOMING A CHARTER TOWNSHIP

Official information has been received from the Secretary of State of the State of Michigan, indicating that the township of Northville, has attained a population of 5,000 or more. This being the case, the township board has the right to exercise one of three options concerning township status as a charter township under the provisions of Act 90 of 1976.

- (1) Adopt, by majority vote, a resolution opposed to incorporation.
- (2) Adopt, by majority vote, a resolution of intent to approve incorporation.
- (3) Adopt, by majority vote, a resolution to place before electorate question of incorporation at the next regular or special township election.

In the event option (2) is adopted by the township board, the citizens of the township have the option to file a "Right to Referendum Petition". This petition must be filed within the 60 days which must lapse between the passage of a resolution of intent to incorporate and the final passage of the resolution to incorporate as a charter township.

The petition will follow, in general form, the nominating petition form as prescribed in the Michigan Election Law, Section 168.544(c), and in the heading will indicate "disagreement of intent to incorporate as a charter township". The petition must be signed by not less than 10 percent of the registered voters of the township based on the vote cast for all candidates for supervisor at the last election at which a supervisor was elected.

If the petition is successful, the question of incorporation will be placed on the ballot at the next general township or special township election.

revolt, though. It's a new benefit softball game aimed at generating momentum for a big muscular dystrophy fund-raising drive.

The game will start at 7 p.m. at Ford field and donations will be accepted from spectators.

The game is a prelude to an even bigger contest — an old-fashioned dance marathon that will pit Northville against Novi high school.

Students from both schools are soliciting pledges from people in the community who will pay an agreed amount for each hour the students dance.

The 24-hour marathon will be at Novi High School on May 20 and 21 with a trophy going to the school that raises the most money.

Saturday's softball game is aimed at raising some money and boosting interest in the fund-raising efforts.

"We're hoping to get as many people there as possible," said Northville's chairman, Bob Krinsky.

Drive ok'd

A house-to-house solicitation for the Muscular Dystrophy Association has been approved here by the Northville City Council.

The campaign will occur on Tuesday, June 7 between the hours of 5 and 9 p.m.

Jack Bologna, a candidate for election to the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, told an audience of his supporters at the Hillside Inn (April 28, 1977) that the average American parent's dream of a four-year away-from-home college education has become a pious myth — the "impossible dream".

"With typical tuition, books and boarding costs now running about $4,000 per year and little hope for hardship grants if family income exceeds $20,000, the only recourse for most middle-class parents is the community college."

Bologna added, "The importance of community colleges in general and Schoolcraft College in particular, should not be taken lightly. The continued growth and development of our communities, our youth and our adult learners depends largely on the quality of decisions made by the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees. Trustees must provide vision, guidance and direction so that priorities are based on the changing needs and demands of the learners — both youth and adult."

Bologna is a Plymouth Township resident and a self-employed management consultant. This is his first bid for public office.

Police cars are purchased

Purchase of two patrol vehicles has been approved by the Northville City Council.

The police cars are to be purchased from John Mach Ford at a previous bid price of $5,876.41 each which was received on February 4.

Both are replacement vehicles, with delivery to occur sometime in July.

Proclaims MD week

Michigan Week marks the beginning of Muscular Dystrophy Month, which runs officially from May 15 through June 15, in Northville Township.

In making the proclamation Supervisor Wilson Grier urged township residents to join with the Muscular Dystrophy Association in the fight to find the cause and cure for this crippler.

Annual house-to-house campaign, known as Dystrophy's March Against Time, was approved by the township board. Funds collected by volunteers are to be used by the association to finance an extensive medical research program.

The disease, the association points out, strikes primarily children, "dooming them to a complete crippling and untimely death."

American Cancer Society's annual Cancer Control Month was proclaimed for the township in April with residents urged to check for warning signs and have annual physical check ups.

Information act policy approved

Novi School Board has approved a policy statement concerning the Freedom of Information Act and the school district's obligations under the new law.

The act, which went into effect April 13 provides that any person has a right to inspect, copy or receive copies of a public record — any writing prepared, owned, used, in the possession of, or retained by a public body in the performance of an official function from the time it is created.

However, the law provides that certain records are exempt from disclosure. Those include such items as test questions and answers, personal information where disclosure would clearly be an unwarranted invasion of the individual's privacy, and certain law enforcement records, according to the Novi Administration.

According to the school board report, requests can come either in person during normal business hours or by writing. The district can then: Grant the request; deny the request in writing; grant it in part and deny it in part; or issue a notice extending for not more than 10 business days the period during which the Board shall respond to the request.

If the request is granted, the following costs must be paid by persons requesting the information: Any actual mailing costs; the cost of copying the materials at the rate of 10 cents a page plus any labor costs; and the cost of searching for and examining and reviewing records at the rate of $5 per hour.

Persons who are unable to pay and submit an affidavit to that effect will not be charged for any reasonable request.

According to the board report, disclosure items are as follows:

• Personnel Files — Only employee's name and salary are disclosable. Information invading the privacy of the employee is not. These include: telephone numbers, addresses, charitable contributions, marital status, reputation, medical condition, welfare payments and other personally-identifying information.

• Student records — Only enrollment figures are available for public disclosure. No personal student data will be released and names of students are not disclosable unless it is directory information. Student records which may be held to comply with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act will not be disclosed under this Act.

• Budget Files and Budget printouts — Information concerning Board of Education approved budget(s) is available to the public under the Act.

• Memo files — Memoranda which concern students or staff and which would be an invasion of privacy are excluded from public review. Also excluded from public review is any memorandum that is preliminary in nature, leading to some final action.

• Minutes of School district meetings — Minutes are available including such meetings as secondary and elementary councils and other similar committees which keep minutes.

• Departmental files — information that is a final action is available for disclosure. Files relating to students or staff remain exempt.

• Conference costs — This information can be requested and required under the act.

• Interoffice and Intraoffice Communications — notes and communications between school district offices and employees which are advisory in nature and preliminary to a final decision of policy are exempt from disclosure. Memos containing factual information upon which an agency policy or action is premised may be available for disclosure.

• Board of Education Packets — The agendas and enclosure material, as well as the meeting schedule will be available for disclosure. Superintendent's memos which may include advisory and preliminary information are not disclosure items. Also excluded from disclosure are information memos attached.

• Monthly reports — Those building level and departmental reports concerning activity in the reporting individual's area are not eligible for disclosure. This includes reports made by principals, department heads and board committee reports. Such reports as attendance reports, payroll time sheets, and expense reports are available for public review.

• Correspondence to and from board members — This item is disclosure information unless there is an invasion of privacy or if the content is preliminary in nature, excluding a final decision.

• Legal opinions — These items fall in the attorney-client relations and are exempt from disclosure.

• Administrative guidelines (directive, interpretations and survey results) — unless they are preliminary in nature or an invasion of privacy, such documents will be available for disclosure.

According to Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz, other school districts and legal interpretations have been utilized in preparing the administration's policy.

School Board Attorney Frederick Knauer, asked his opinion, said that "as you can well imagine, with any new act you have different interpretations but you should have a uniform approach."

He indicated that what the board was adopting is a good approach.

"I suspect all the attorneys who worked on this didn't agree. This is a compromise."

He added that until there is a specific point on which he is asked to give an interpretation, "I have no quarrel with it."

‘Mankind Walk’
slated June 4

“You don’t have to go to the Orient to find the pangs of hunger. They’re as close as the Appalachia,” emphasizes Alan Scroggin, publicity chairman of the Jaycees’ planned annual Walk for Mankind.

Scroggin was out drumming up support this week for the Jaycee walk slated this year on Saturday, June 4.

Emphasizing the value of monies collected in this annual walk, Scroggin urged area residents to keep in mind that walkers will soon be soliciting pledges that will go along way toward attacking poverty that still exists in Bicentennial America.

Additionally, he points out that monies also are channeled back into the community as earmarked funds by participating walkers.

This year’s walk is to be coordinated with Jaycee walks slated in other communities. Livonia Jaycees, for example, will be conducting a similar Walk for Mankind on June 4 as will the Pinckney Jaycees in Livingston County.

Walk for Mankind primarily involves young people who sign up to walk a certain amount of miles and who are sponsored by local citizens and businesses.

These sponsors agree to contribute a certain amount of money for each mile the participant walks.

Route for this year’s Northville walk has not yet been established, but Jaycees do know that the starting point will once again be Northville Downs and it will pass through large sections of both the city and township.

Jaycee Bill Zapke, 349-5547, and Jaycette Marcia Booth, 348-2566, are the local coordinators.

GOOD TIME WINE
by Jim Roth

Wine-tasting is an art! First, pour the wine into a clear glass and hold the glass up to the light. The liquid should be clear, not hazy, and its color full and rich, not watery. Second, twist the glass around so that the wine covers the sides to release its bouquet. The best aromas are delicate and fragrant, not harsh. Take a small sip. Savor it. Let the wine react on your taste buds and inhale slightly to release the bouquet throughout. This process will give you the full flavor of a particular wine.

If you would like to have a wine-tasting party contact us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477 and we’ll be happy to help you select the wines you’ll need. We give one 10% discount off of our already low prices when you buy wine by the case, whether a mixed assortment or all of one kind. Open: Mon. thru Sat. 9 am-10 pm, Sun. Noon-6 pm.

Chaffee grinds a side of one of the supporting ribs of the sculpture

Fork-lift is used to move sculpture from Chaffee's Nine Mile Road workshop

'Cupped hands' moved

14 months' work ends for Novi sculptor

By WAYNE LODER

There may have been some skeptics when a giant sculpture was proposed for the court near the entrance to the new Novi High School.

But 14 months and thousands of man hours later sculptor John Chaffee says he still has not met any. If there are any skeptics, and odds are they'll surface soon since the eight foot, 4000 pound sculpture is in place for all to see after being gingerly moved to its new site last Friday.

Likened to a pair of giant cupped hands, the sculpture was actually in two pieces when it was moved from Chaffee's workshop barn, less than a mile from the new high school. The moving process and connection of the two pieces with a high strength bolt took almost all day.

But for Chaffee, whose works have appeared in many art shows around the country, the move and final assembly of what is his most ambitious work of art mark the culmination of hours and hours of engineering design, roll forming of the metal, and hand forming of some of the more difficult areas.

The whole thing began when Chaffee approached the school district concerning construction of a sculpture that would complement Novi's new $11.5 million high school which will open this fall.

The school board received two proposals and settled on one.

"It was purely for the kids to get them some feeling of art appreciation," explains school board president Sharon Pelchat. "We thought it would be nice to have a piece of art the kids could feel and touch."

A CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) grant provided $6,700 for Chaffee's salary. The Michigan Council of the Arts followed through with a first $1,000 grant to help the project and when all of the funds ran out because of some technical delays, added a second $500 grant, unprecedented in the history of the grant program. And there was plenty of in-kind help as West End Welding and Fabricating also provided help. Ray Warren and Sons and Michigan Tractor helped to move the structure while Federal Mogul provided publicity help.

The school district itself provided $2,200 from its building and site fund for the cost of the steel and has paid another $800 for incidental expenses—welding gas, replacement grinding wheels and other necessary tools.

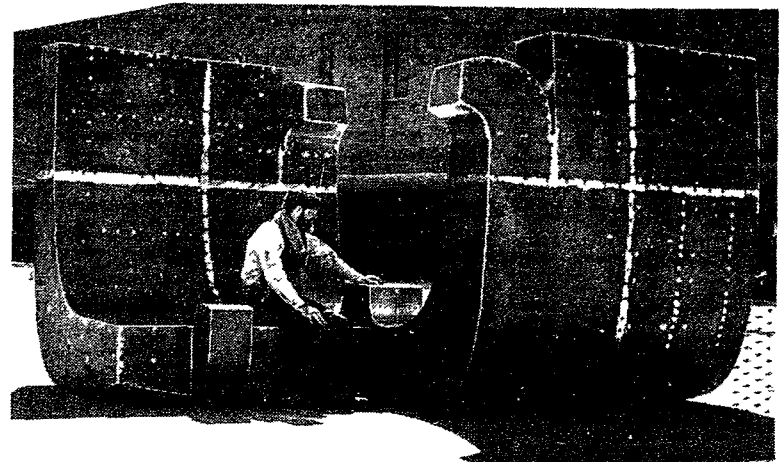

Considering that Chaffee estimates the sculpture would have cost $65,000 if done by a world famous monumental sculpture fabricator, Chaffee says he believes that the district got a real bargain for its money.

The structure is made out of high tensile strength Cor-Ten Steel, a highly corrosion resistant structural steel which Chaffee says was the thickest he could have worked with.

"We did not have the equipment available to us to work on stock any thicker and we couldn't have done any hand forming," says Chaffee.

According to Chaffee, the fact that thicker metal could not be used made the engineering of the sculpture even more important in order to keep the surface smooth when it is welded to the inner supporting ribs.

"Often they use a very thick metal to stop from getting ripples," says Chaffee. "If it was done like that, this would have weighed six tons."

As a result an elaborate system of supporting ribs was first constructed. Then the skin of the structure was rolled by Chaffee thanks to help from the Waldinger Corporation of Novi which supplied the roll forming machines.

The problem was that the roll forming machines are intended to make cylinders, or cones — not the hyperbolas necessary for the sculptures.

"This is quite uncommon to see sheet metal rolled other than into a cone or cylinder because it takes too long and is too tricky," says Chaffee. "You have to roll little bits and then adjust the machine and do a little more. There were some very definite technical problems and it ended up taking longer than I thought."

"There was some kinking but I found out I could get rid of it by hammering it out by hand."

According to Chaffee who used drawings and then a full scale cardboard model to determine angles and their effect on the site of the structure, parts of the skin which could not be rollformed had to be pounded out by hand.

"Certain parts had to be hand hammered over dies to get a convoluted surface," he says.

The final step was welding the surfaces together and then grinding down the welds and seams so they would not show.

Within a week the sculpture will be sandblasted to give it an even matte gray surface. Weathering will then begin and Chaffee estimates it will take two years before the rusting effects put the piece of art into its final visual form.

"Hopefully this will improve as people stay in contact with it. It will be like a manhole cover in the street—it's rusted but yet the tires keep it smooth. The lower portions will be smooth but the upper portions will be matte. "During the winter the smooth surfaces will become matte because the kids won't be playing on it. It will change with the season. It's like it's alive or has

Phone bill's going up

LANSING—Some three million Michigan Bell customers will pay a few dimes more each month for basic service, but face another certain rate hike this fall under a recent decision by the state Public Service Commission.

The PSC, on a 2-1 vote, gave Bell authority to collect $37 million more annually from customers. That's on top of a $22 million more annual rate hike the company got in November while the PSC was pondering its final decision on Bell's total $178.2 million request.

Although the total $59 million Bell won from the PSC is only about a third of what it asked, the PSC left open a door that will mean another certain boost in bills this fall.

IT TOLD THE COMPANY that when it renegotiates a wage contract with some 20,000 employees, it can come back and charge customers almost automatically for the higher expense.

Customers with one-party basic service will pay 35-47 cents more next month than they did this month. But come fall, that increase could be duplicated again.

In the past 11 months, Bell has been given permission to raise rates to collect in excess of $100 million more each year.

THESE ARE THE STATISTICS: More than half of delinquent male youths released from state institutions get in trouble again with the law within a year.

This is a partial solution, says Dale Shears, Coordinator of the office that evaluates the state's youth institutions: JOBS.

"If you're not an academic kid the work world is the only thing, and if that's not there, then there's nothing there," says Shears. "When you're a poor kid from a poor family, and you don't have job skills, the temptation to turn to illegal means is strong."

HE'S SUGGESTING legislation to help those young people into the job world.

His numbers show that 30 percent of male youths are arrested again within just 30 months after their release from state institutions, and 52 percent are arrested after a year — most for felonies.

A STATE SENATOR pushing for limits on lawmakers' mailing privileges was the top spender on postage in the Michigan legislature last year.

Records show that Senator David Plawecki, D-Deerborn Heights, spent $29,334 on newsletters and other mailings — three times the average spent by his Senate colleagues.

PLAWECKI is sponsoring a bill in the Senate to limit the amount of mail lawmakers can send out in the three weeks before an election.

He doesn't think his own record is excessive, saying those who spend little on postage must not be answering their mail.

The Senate's lowest spender was Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, who rang up a meager $574.71 in 1976.

House members cannot exceed their self-imposed limit of $10,000 a year.

TORNADOS that ravaged the Michigan communities of Augusta, Comstock, Olivet and surrounding areas left an estimated $4.5 million in damages, mainly to homes and crops. Governor William Milliken has sought federal financial aid.

A BILL that allows police wiretaps in major heroin and cocaine investigations has won House approval. It still needs the Senate's okay.

A MEASURE that would again let adult motorcyclists ride without helmets is pending before the House.

STATE PUBLIC Service Commissioner William Ralls, who's made a name for himself by opposing utility rate hikes, has jumped into the governor's race while still sitting on the PSC.

That idea is irking Governor William Milliken, who says he may ask Ralls to resign from the commission.

Ralls, 38, announced last week that he would quit the PSC on June 1, the same date that he will file papers with the state creating a formal fund-raising committee. Ralls says he intends to be the next governor of Michigan.

BUT BETWEEN now and June 1, at least one major rate case is expected to come before the commission. Ralls says he sees no problem in voting on the case — Detroit Edison's request for $130 million in higher rates — because he's not yet a formal candidate for governor.

Milliken, however, bristles at the political mileage that Ralls would get out of opposing the Edison rate hike that his two Republican colleagues on the PSC would approve. The governor also is known to have been unhappy with Ralls' past use of the PSC job to brighten his political future.

But Ralls says he's got too much to do to quit before June 1. So if Milliken wants him out, he'll have to boot him out.

a mystery or soul to it. Much of its soul will depend on how the kids interact with it."

It's hard to say exactly what the sculpture represents, indicates Chaffee.

"This whole thing's been likened to two cupped hands and that's a nice analogy. This is a warm sheltering human sized creation that the kids should feel they will want to lie on and play on."

"The two big horns (at the top of the sculpture) are different to keep you from getting static. People can see one as female, one male or one old and the other young. It gives you interaction. Like it has its own life, its own personality."

While Chaffee freely admits that the structure is built "like the Rock of Ages" and that it will be around long after he is gone, Chaffee says, "that knowing something he has constructed will be around for other ages to see is no longer an ego trip for him, although it was at one time.

His reward, says Chaffee, is the "People's lives have become enriched by what I've done."

Chaffee, who has items on display throughout the United States including a permanent piece in the new Renaissance Center in Detroit as well as one owned by the Hartland Art Council, is looking forward to a possible second sculpture which the Novi School Board may commission him to do.

According to Mrs. Pelchat, the district is seeking another grant which could enable Chaffee to construct a second sculpture which he had also designed. Being sought are further CETA funds.

But for the time being Mrs. Pelchat indicates that the board members are more than happy about being the only school district anywhere in the area with a work of art like Chaffee's that it can call its own.

"That's another reason we're so excited," she says. "A town the size of Novi and we have a piece of sculpture at the high school."

Contols pests

Give 'em some beer

It's not just the bugs you see that damage your garden. Insects in the soil can also be devastating. Jim Liebherr, Extension entomologist at Michigan State University, points out that soil insects are often a special problem in new gardens. Insects like cutworms, wireworms and white grubs are often abundant in grassy areas. When sod gives way to garden, the insects adjust their eating habits accordingly.

Slugs are not insects, but they live in the soil and come out at night to feed on garden plants. Chemical baits can be used against slugs, but the usual control recommendations are cultural. Removing mulches eliminates the dark, moist hiding places where slugs like to hide during the day.

A saucer of beer placed in the garden will attract the pests; they then ooze into the brew and die. Boards placed between the rows of crops will also act as a slug trap. Slugs that crawl beneath the boards will be killed by the sun when the boards are removed.

The best way to control grubs and wireworms is to treat the entire garden area with the insecticide diazinon. Cutworm collars made from tuna or cat food cans with both ends cut out or heavy cardboard rings set around young seedlings and transplants will help protect crops against cutworms. They may not work 100 percent, however. The cabbage maggot, seed corn maggot and onion maggot are the larvae of various kinds of flies. The cabbage maggot feeds on the underground parts of

NEW—One of the exciting new flowers featured this year by George W. Park Seed Company is the Begonia Pink Ruffles — a super size, double semperflorens begonia. Individual flowers measure two inches across in full double, fluffy balls. They hang

Tracing history of our vegetables

By KATHY COPLEY

Among the earliest cultivated plants in American gardens were members of the squash family. The Indians were proficient squash growers long before the Colonists landed; thus, squash is considered by many experts to be a native American vegetable.

More winter squash, the kind with the hard rind, were grown than summer squash varieties. Winter squash have excellent keeping qualities which made them ideal. Because of their tough rind, they need only a frost free but cool spot to keep for several months.

Pumpkins were a major garden crop, with a tasty way to prepare them being to cut a hole just large enough to scoop out the seeds and strings. The cavity was filled with apples, nuts, and spices, and baked whole.

Onions, shallots, and garlic had the easy-keeping qualities essential to early popularity. Dried thoroughly in the sun, their tops braided into a rope, they could hang by the fire or over the stove and be both decorative and functional.

Potatoes, so closely associated with Ireland, were actually grown here before they became a popular European vegetable. Two varieties popular in the late 1800's were Burbank's Seedling and Russet Burbank, the latter of which is popular today.

Settlers introduced cantaloupes, which were soon popular with the Indians. In the 19th C., 22 varieties were offered in one catalog.

Carrots are another plant with good keeping qualities, giving them great early popularity. Like squash, they need only a frost-free spot to keep for weeks. Colonists considered them essential for soups, stews, and as an excellent winter feed for livestock.

In 1620, the Indians presented the Pilgrims with a gift — a bag of beans of the types already growing in America. Snap beans, kidney beans, and, in warmer climates, lima beans, are native American plants. The early bean varieties were largely pole beans and the early settlers learned to plant them with corn so the beans could climb the stalks.

Because beans were so easy to dry and so compact to store, they were grown widely.

By the end of the 1700's, cabbage was so widely grown and so popular that there were many varieties to choose from, both early season and late season. In 1900, there were 40 or more varieties offered by seedsmen, with size being their chief drawing card.

Some plants used widely in America's early days are no longer considered to be so palatable. Burdock is generally considered to be a weed, but the root was boiled and the stems, with their asparagus-like flavor, were eaten as salad.

Another root highly prized was that of the dandelion, though there were suspicions even then that it was a weed. The greens were used in salads, were boiled, or were used as a main ingredient in wine.

Caraway is now grown as a herb, but it was once grown exclusively for the roots (which were cooked like carrots) and the leaves for salads.

Nasturtiums were popular in salads, and the seeds could be pickled and used like capers, which their flavor resembles.

Garden success depends on site

The success of a vegetable garden depends largely on its location, says Jesse Saylor, Michigan State University Horticulturist. He has made the following suggestions for choosing your garden site:

Plant your garden in a location that gets full sunlight all day. If the only available site is shaded during part of the day, plant foliage crops like lettuce and spinach there. They require less sunlight than tomatoes, cucumbers and other plants that bear fruits.

Be aware that you may have more disease problems in the shade. The moist soil conditions and less air movement characteristic of shaded areas provide a better environment for disease organisms to get established.

A well-drained loam type of soil is best for vegetable gardening. You can adapt clay soils for gardening by mixing in organic matter and sand. Sandy soils can be improved by adding peat or other organic materials.

Or you can construct raised beds for vegetables made from good quality topsoil or loam. These will provide good drainage if the beds are at least six inches deep.

Soil tests for prospective garden sites are recommended. Results will show which nutrients your soil lacks and indicate an appropriate fertilizer. Tests and information are available through your county Co-operative Extension agent.

If available sites have poor soil and drainage and you cannot use the raised bed method, you might want to consider a container-grown vegetable garden. Containers kept in a mobile planter or wheelbarrow can be easily moved during the day so plants receive maximum sunlight.

Choose a site that is easy to visit — this will affect how often you can work on it. The site should also be near a stable water supply for times of drought.

Avoid planting near trees and shrubs — they will compete with your garden crops for available moisture and nutrients. If you must plant near trees, plant beyond the outermost tips of branches and leaves. Avoid planting near black walnut trees. Their roots contain a toxin that can kill vegetable plants.

Knowing what you are going to plant may make one site more appealing than another. For instance, if you want to grow perennial crops such as strawberries or rhubarb, consider the permanency of the site.

THE WEE LITTLE ZINNIAS

Want a midget in your yard?

Then fast-blooming midget varieties of zinnias may be the answer.

Growing to a height of only four to eight inches, this flower was introduced a few years ago. It is a small-flowered, ultra-dwarf that is surprisingly durable and long lasting.

Separate colors and a wide-spectrum color mixture are available in the "Thumbelina" series. All grow quickly and easily from seeds grown in warm soil in the garden.

Midget zinnias are ideal for edging beds of summer blooming flowers. The tiny plants and flowers display best if you mulch with a dark colored material such as pulverized bark or forest compost.

The mulch also prevents mud from spashing on the plant and disfiguring leaves and flowers.

QUANEX CORPORATION has supplemented a statement issued January 21, 1977, reporting that the company has engaged a consultant for the purpose of reviewing computer data to determine if there is a possibility of finding natural gas.

Quanex has identified the consultant in the project as Wenner Petroleum of Denver. The company further stated that on the basis of Wenner's findings and recommendations a subsidiary, Arbuckle Corporation, has been formed and is engaged in acquiring oil and gas leases on property in several counties in southeastern Michigan.

Carl E. Pfeiffer, President of Quanex, said the company expects to continue the lease acquisition program and anticipates that Wenner will soon file a request to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for a drilling permit. Wenner estimates that there will be a period of 30 to 60 days between applying for the permit and its issuance, and a further period thereafter before test drilling can be completed and results studied.

Smokers face restaurant restriction

By WARREN M. HOYT

LANSING—New laws that took effect Thursday (March 31) will restrict smokers to certain sections of restaurants, grocery stores and nursing homes in an effort to keep harmful fumes from non-smokers.

The laws, approved last year, ban smoking in food areas of grocery stores, in nursing home rooms and in certain non-smoking sections required to be set up in restaurants.

THE THREE NEW LAWS bring to 11 the total number of Michigan statutes aimed at limiting smoking. Most, however, have not had the impact that the three new laws will have on smokers' habits. An old law that bans smoking in elevators for example, is routinely ignored and violators are rarely, if ever, caught or fined, officials say.

But under the new laws, the grocery stores, restaurants and nursing homes will be liable if they do not enforce the laws. They risk losing their state licenses if enough violations are found, officials say.

IT'S NOT at all clear whether Governor William Milliken's veto of Project Seafarer did any good at all.

The White House says it won't take any position on the matter until U.S. Secretary of Defense, Harold Brown, makes a recommendation.

But Michigan officials are counting on Carter to nix the Seafarer project in Michigan. They recall a statement of his on October 25, while campaigning for the presidency: "If I am elected, Project Seafarer will not be built in the Upper Peninsula against the wishes of the citizens."

U.P. RESIDENTS have stated vociferous opposition in general to the project, which would install a massive underground grid to be used to communicate with submerged submarines.

"The President ... said during his campaign that he would never lie to the people of Michigan and America. We're taking him at his word," said George Weeks, Milliken's top aide. "We don't believe he would go back on his word."

But already various officials are saying that Michigan should prepare its arguments now for the time when it may end up in court over the Seafarer issue.

QUARANTINES on milk sales from six Michigan dairy herds have been lifted after federal tests showed no toxic dioxins in the milk. But agriculture officials had to go back and re-quarantine one of the herds Friday (March 25) after tests done by Dow Chemical Company revealed trace amounts of the dioxins.

Altogether eight herds had been quarantined. Dioxins have so far been found only in the tissues of one herd, but milk samples could not be taken from that dry herd.

Tests of milk from the other seven herds at first revealed no dioxins in six, while tests on a seventh remained inconclusive, agriculture officials said. Later, test results from Dow showed 25 parts per trillion dioxins in the milk from William Susko's farm in Standish, and his milk sales again were banned.

ALTHOUGH the other farmers were allowed to resume selling milk, it's still not clear what the health situation is with many other Michigan herds that are exposed to a common wood preservative, pentachlorophenol.

Agriculture officials are guessing that cows lick and breathe the wood preservative, some of which may contain the highly toxic dioxins. The problem could be national in scope, they say.

Miracle for You

I believe in miracles!
This was not always true.
I half-heard many oracles
But never really knew
Of the blessings that are ours each day
That we for granted take;
A accepted but did not assay
The bounties in their wake.

The miracle of life is one,
If we would only see;
It is God's gift to everyone
Forever to be free!
The bondage to our ways of life
Is difficult to lose,
Until we overcome the strife
With other ways to choose.

The miracles of selflessness
Are mighty in themselves
To open doors of happiness
With the burdens they dispel.
To help our fellowman to know
The love of Spirit true,
Is a miracle we can bestow,
And inspire all life anew!

Charles E. Hutton

A Duck

I would love to be a duck and waddle my right of way across a busy thoroughfare.
Paddle a jet stream in a pond and quack my disputations uninterrupted by boorish sages.
Settle my downy stomach on a grassy bed and nap under an afternoon sun wasted by appointment keepers.

And then,
unfettered by scheduled time departures,
take off on wind and wing.

How I'd revel in such freedom unless, of course,
I wandered into a restricted zone inhabited by roasting pans and wild rice stuffing.

Jo Bango

A Sonnet

Oh yes! I'd really like to be your friend!
I'd love to laugh and talk and walk for hours
In happy contemplation, and transcend Despondent thoughts with all their awesome powers
That stifle minds. We love green pines, Beige sand, blue lakes, small clouds, and summer's breeze.
And if our beings grow, that's good. But lines
Of friendship always must be loose: To seize Prevents affection from the heart. Thus you Will be an independent soul, and I Shall truly try to understand your view Which sometimes seems so veiled. But then I sigh:

Accept me as I am, or let me be,
Just like a bird, unfettered; let me free.

Ruth Burlas

To My Children

I love you children one and all
Please remember this;
Lest you forget let's try to reminisce
About the love and happiness we've known
And other things we've shared.
But most important
Is that each of us has cared.
Take each day and don't do things in haste.
It's certain if you do You'll take one step forward and then go back two.
You've heard this through the years
As I write I can't help
But shed a few tears.
I leave you with this thought in mind,
Look forward to all your tomorrows

Mrs. Thomas Devlin

Procession

Where do the "Elegiac fisherbirds" pray in their spare time?
One hearse, five cadillacs, thirteen taxis and countless autos file neatly to a place near I-275 where Ol' Frankie's to be buried.
"Yeah. Frank; he was a good ol' boy who filled our lives with countless joy, and never seemed one to complain throughout his final months of pain.
Yeah. Frank he was a good ol' boy."
So now innumerable people stand around this pit they'll hand o'er hand his casket down into the tomb of Mother Earth's great grainy womb.
With obsequies been duly said about the newly-anointed dead they regroup in their caravan to forget that, "Good ol' boy," the man; Old Frank.

radishes, turnips and cole crops such as cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli. The seed corn maggot is a pest of corn, pea and bean seeds. The onion maggot feeds on onions and scalions. Liebherr recommends dipping transplants in a solution of diazinon at planting time or treating the holes or seed furrows with the chemical. Waiting to plant corn, peas and beans until the soil is warm so that seeds germinate quickly will also help thwart the seed corn maggot.

Brand Loyalties Shaken By Taste Impact Of Low Tar Merit.

MERIT taste delivery switching high tar smokers away from age-old favorites.

---

There is a taste alternative to high tar cigarettes.

Modern technology created it.

Tests proved it.

Smokers are confirming it.

Today most MERIT smokers are coming from high tar cigarettes—many from brands they had been loyal to for years.

Yet they're switching to—and sticking with—MERIT.

The reason is a real advance in tobacco technology that resulted in a way to boost natural tobacco flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

Name Jane Watts 'Woman of the Year'

Northville Township resident Jane Watts has just finished proofreading a new, expanded version of the League of Women Voters' handbook, "They Represent You," a listing of officials who represent Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi residents at local, county, state and national levels.

As applied to Mrs. Watts, a past president of the local league, the title might be paraphrased to "She Represents You," for last week a panel of judges named her Northville's Woman of the Year for the high quality of her community volunteering.

The Northville Jaycee Auxiliary, sponsor of the annual award, will honor Mrs. Watts and the nine other nominees at a tea at 8 p.m. May 11 at the home of member Carol Anne Beier on Stratford Court.

For the past year Jane Watts has served as voter service chairman of the league. Her term extends to 1978, and her duties include making available voter guides for elections and organizing and presenting candidates' nights.

She was nominated for the Woman of the Year honor by Annalee Mathes, president of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Watts is a charter member of the league, joining in 1969 and serving as human resources chairman from 1970-73. In this capacity she headed a committee which presented an informative program on the controversial topic of busing, which was presented to various groups in the community and was well received.

But Jane Watts' involvements also include the United Foundation Torch Drive for which she has volunteered since 1966, beginning as a door-to-door collector and serving subsequently as neighborhood leader, area chairman and, presently, as division leader for the Northville area since 1975.

As the mother of Sarah, 11, Jonathan, 9, and David, 7, who are in the Plymouth school system, Mrs. Watts became newsletter chairman for the Tanger Elementary PTO. Her effort at improving communication between school officials and parents has been to initiate a newsletter that she edits and publishes.

This volunteer effort alone, Mrs. Mathes points out, entails many hours of writing articles, typing and distributing.

"There are moments when it gets hectic," admits the honoree, "but basically my husband and children support me, and I think they are very pleased."

"I feel strongly about volunteering. When we are so comfortable I believe we should be giving something back to the community in which we live."

The Watts family lives at 15450 Lakeside Drive off Bradner Road in the township. Mrs. Watts points out that she has lived in the neighborhood since 1966 but that "things didn't all occur at once. When they do, though, each is the most important to me at the time I'm working on it."

As the league stated in nominating Jane Watts, she has done her volunteer work with graciousness and sincerity. "Perhaps her most outstanding qualities," the nomination read, "are enthusiasm for and belief in what she is doing. Her energy and spirit affect everyone working with her, and her life reflects in every way her sincerity."

Mrs. Watts has been an American Association of University Women board member for several years, is founder of the Plymouth Ski Club, a Plymouth Symphony League worker, on the Northville Township Board of Canvassers since 1972 and a Northville Township deputy registrar since 1975.

This past year Jane Watts also took on a special family responsibility. To help in an emergency situation she had total care of two nieces, aged seven months and 19 months, for four months.

"Even with this responsibility," wrote Mrs. Mathes in her nomination, "she was able to carry on with each of her outside activities with thoroughness and care."

Cite nine other volunteers also to be honored by Jaycee auxiliary

Nine other outstanding women who care deeply about community and people also will be honored at the Northville Jaycee Auxiliary Woman of the year tea May 11.

"It was a delight to read their accomplishments," says Judy Sinkwits, co-chairman of the auxiliary project with Sue McManus, as she points out that the tea traditionally honors all nominees.

"I'm sure that it was difficult to judge," she adds. Judges were last year's honoree, Carolann Ayers; Peter Magnan, and Northville Jaycee member; Betty Lennox, former township supervisor; Steven Walters, city manager; and Jack Hoffman, Northville Record editor and assistant to the publisher.

The women, nominated by local organizations, will be cited at the tea by Lesa Buckland, who served as nomination chairman.

Claudia Berry

Claudia Berry of 628 West Main, nominated by Judy Kohl of Northville Newcomers, is a young woman who has become involved in her community ever since moving here. She is finishing her term as president of Newcomers.

In addition to opening her home for a Northville Home Tour, she has been co-chairman of last year's tour and has worked on the Tivoli Fair as a member of Northville Historical Society. She has been recording secretary for Amerman PTA, a Brownie leader and member of the Northville-Novu Fish program.

"She is a clear thinker and can see many sides to a given situation," says Mrs. Kohl in her nomination. "Above all, she has many varied talents and interests and enjoys and is more than willing to share them with her community in order to make it a better place."

Mary Louise Cutler

Mary Louise Cutler, new president of the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club, was nominated for the Woman of the Year honor by the retiring president, Vivian Blake. A realtor, she is a member of the board of directors of United Northwestern Realty Association of Western Wayne-Oakland County Board of Realtors.

She has been elected a deacon of First Presbyterian Church of Northville, is a member of the Schoolcraft College citizens' advisory committee and since 1973 has served as a volunteer probation officer.

"She is an energetic woman who cares about people," says Mrs. Blake, adding, "She is a woman who gives of herself for the betterment of the organizations to which she belongs and their members."

"It takes time management and a willingness to give of yourself."

Amy Grieger

Amy Grieger of 16070 Northville Road was nominated by Elaine Smith, president of the woman's association of Northville Presbyterian Church where

Peg Beard

Peg Beard of 41261 Eight Mile, a Northville resident for 30 years. "During this time," reports Rosemary Smith, president of Baseline Questers who nominated her, "she has conscientiously worked for the welfare and advancement of the Northville community."

A charter member and president of the Baseline chapter, Mrs. Beard presently is state treasurer of the Questers antiques society.

She has been most active in the United Methodist Church, both in women's organizations and in the district. As a member of King's Daughters she aided in building a nurse's station at St. Mary Hospital. She's also been involved in Girl Scouts, Mothers' Club, Woman's Club and is co-chairman of the Docents at Mill Race Historical Village.

Anne Brueck

Anne Brueck of 47129 Dunsany is serving for the third consecutive year as chairman of Northville Michigan Week, but it was for her contributions to Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church that the league nominated her.

Beverly Walsh states that as a past president of the league she enjoys the full confidence and respect of the board and has earned this respect "through many years of dedicated service...Anne is a team worker and continuously gives of her time and talents."

Mrs. Brueck has served as chairman of Northville Town Hall and has been an active Republican, Girl Scout leader, PTA president active Woman's Club member and served as chairman of the 1977 Northville Historical Society benefit dinner dance.

AAUW views women's role

"The Changing Role of Today's Woman" will be the program topic of the May meeting of the Northville branch, American Association of University Women, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Dr. Sun Ran Cho, director of adult psychiatric services at Northville State Hospital, will be guest speaker at the meeting to be held in the Northville High School cafeteria.

Included also in the evening's program will be installation of new officers.

Prospective members are welcome. Those wishing additional information may contact membership chairperson, Joyce Murdock, at 455-3059.

The Northville branch, chartered 18 months ago, and now numbering 71 members, recently announced study topics for the 1977-79 biennium as set forth by the national association. They are: Women as Agents of Change, The Politics of Food and Redefining the Goals of Education.

The current community undertaking is "Project Share," the compilation of a human resource file for use by groups in schools, churches and civic organizations or for use by individuals in the community.

Copies of the master file will be placed in each of the local public and school libraries and these are expected to be ready for use in September. Resource volunteers are welcome and should call Shari Clason at 349-8175 for additional information.

AAUW is open to any area woman holding a baccalaureate, or higher degree from an accredited college.

She's prexy

Mary Esther Fountain of 46119 Pickford in Northville, wife of Dr. Charles Fountain, will become president of the Wayne County Medical Society Auxiliary this Friday. She will be formally installed by Norma Henderson of Farmington, a past president. A new Northville member, Barbara Yoder, will be on hand for the ceremony. For the past year Mrs. Fountain has served as corresponding secretary of the auxiliary. As president, she plans to emphasize scholarships. A former nurse, Mrs. Fountain also has been active as a member of the Oakwood Hospital Guild, as a Red Cross volunteer regularly taking senior citizens' blood pressure and a Health-o-Rama United Foundation volunteer. Locally, she's presently involved in the 1977 Northville Home Tour as hostess chairman and the high school senior party as buffet co-chairman.

Wedding trip south recalls beginning of Naval careers

Because both Anna M. Slayton and Francis Edwin Steinberger are Naval Reserve officers, music at their wedding April 2 at First United Methodist Church of New Hudson included a Navy hymn.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, James E. VanVleet of McCluskey, North Dakota.

She wore a white poly sheer gown with high-rise circular skirt with light blue ribbon accents under the Venice lace on the bodice, high crown collar, sleeve edges and skirt hem. Her train was chapel-length, and she wore an elbow-length veil. She carried a bouquet of white daisies and roses.

Mrs. Sharon Jackson, matron of honor, and bridesmaids, Mrs. Daniel White, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Craig Clark and Mrs. Donald Lawson, wore light blue sleeveless knit dresses with Empire waists and bias skirts.

They had long, fitted-sleeve jackets. They carried bouquets of blue and white daisies.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Steinberger of 23977 Meadowbrook in Novi. He asked Gordon J. Bosch of Norfolk, Virginia, to be his best man. Ushers were Daniel White, Ron Zeilinger and Jamie Jameson.

Guests attended from Holland, Adrian, Flint and from North Dakota, New York, West Virginia and Virginia. The couple, who had met on Naval Reserve duty at Selfridge Field in Mt. Clemens, chose Pensacola, Florida, for their honeymoon as they were based there in 1968 at the beginning of their Naval careers.

Both are members of the Naval Reserve Association and Reserve Officers' Association. The bride is a member of the East Lansing, Michigan and National Education Associations, Phi Kappa Phi, Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Theta Kappa.

They are living in Lansing.

Anniversary party, showers set

The seven children of Jim and Ginny Lewis of 836 Yorktown Court in Northville began planning the 25th anniversary surprise party they gave last Saturday for their parents in February.

Neighbors cooperated, and when the couple and their children returned from having dinner out, they found 25 friends on hand to give congratulations and share the cake.

The party was a joint effort of Kathy, who came from Berkeley, California, where she has been working since graduating from University of Michigan; Steve from Michigan State University; Roberta (Bobbie) from Grand Valley College; and Mark, Eric, David and Patrick, all at home.

Steve, who had injured his knee playing softball, was on crutches, and David was in a walking cast from a sports injury, but participated in the joint surprise. The Lewises were married May 3, 1952, in Saginaw.

Several showers are honoring Karen Sue Skinner, daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Raymond E. Skinner of Northville, whose engagement to David Owen Horsfall was announced late last summer.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen C. Horsfall of Northville.

A June 18 wedding date has been set.

Karen's maid of honor, Lucina Svatora, is planning a shower, as is Mrs. Horsfall. The latter will be a linen one. Theresa Brady of Houghton Lake is planning a personal shower to be given at an aunt's home here.

In Our Town

Here's six homes to be open on tour

By JEAN DAY

It's now definite. Six homes, including a condominium, will be open September 22 on Northville's 11th annual home tour. In addition, Northville Historical Society, co-sponsor of the tour with the Northville Presbyterian Women's Association, will have its Tivoli Fair on the same day.

The three-day fair will begin Thursday, September 22, and run through Saturday. It will be held for the first time at Northville Downs.

Two homes in Northville's historic district are on the 1977 tour. The white, Victorian home of the Elroy Ellisons at the west end of tree-shaded Dunlap Street will be open for the second time, as will the brick Italianate home of David Sicary located around the corner on North Rogers. Tour visitors will be able to park and visit both, Gladys Evans, co-chairman with Margie Davis, Jackie Daniels and Joanne Kissel, points out.

The beautifully detailed home of the Eugene Karrers on Pickford at the entrance to Shadbrook subdivision will be open, as will the Walter Rohde home in the same subdivision on Shadbrook. The new home of the John Dugans on Sutters Lane Court in Northville Commons, which sponsors say, offers a host of decorating ideas, and the Highland Lakes condominium of the Charles Rosenbergs complete the list.

Again this year St. Paul's Lutheran Ladies Association will serve lunch, as will the Northville United Methodist Women, at their respective churches. The Mill Race Historical Village will be open with the Docents offering lunch.

Student inspires lacrosse benefit

Because of a Northville student at Detroit Country Day School, the Michigan Juvenile Diabetes Fund will be the recipient of proceeds from a lacrosse benefit May 12. Twelve-year-old Ray Green, whose friends have always called him "Boo," has suffered from diabetes since he was six years old, but participates in sports at Country Day. Through him, Athletic Director Eugene Reilly became interested in the disease and planned the benefit at Andover High School field, Long Lake and Telegraph roads.

Boo's mother, Mrs. Raymond Green, has tickets, which are $1. She may be called at 349-1496. She's hoping local residents may want to attend as monies donated go to research. Tickets also will be available at the gate. The first game at 6 p.m. will be Cranbrook versus St. Clair Shores' South Lake. At 7:30 p.m. Charlie Sanders and other members of the Detroit Lions will sign autographs. At 8 p.m. Country Day will play L'Anse au Lac of Mount Clemens.

May 31 is deadline for Town Hall awards

Northville Town Hall Board of Awards, which decides upon charities that will share profits from the lecture series, already has received applications from eight groups. Deadline for organizations to apply for funds is May 31 with letters of application to be sent to Northville Town Hall, Box 93, attention awards committee. Applications for 1977-78 season tickets at $15 also should be sent to that address. Jack Anderson and Olivia DeHavilland are among the four coming attractions.

Because the area has supported the Town Hall so successfully, the sponsoring Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church shares half its proceeds with charitable groups, who now are asked to apply for funds for their projects.

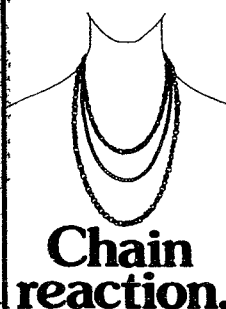

Past recipients have included King's Daughters, Northville Historical Society, Northville and Novi libraries, Northville State Hospital clothes closet and Northville PTA. At present, Northville Jayettes are using a TH donation to help build and provide play equipment for a tot lot at the fish hatchery site.

Couples 'vacation' in Detroit

Five Northville couples are among those taking advantage of the special opening offer at the new Plaza Hotel in Detroit's Renaissance Center. The Kenneth Sewells, William Gaineses, William Kellys, E. G. O'Briens and Dean Lenheisers all found themselves in adjoining rooms on the 61st floor for the weekend of April 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaines and the Sewells ate in Greektown on the Friday night. All attended a DuMochelle auction Saturday, ate in the revolving Summit Restaurant with its breathtaking view of the river and then returned home by way of Dearborn Sunday to have brunch at Dearborn Inn. "There's lots to do in downtown Detroit," reports Marge Lenheiser, mentioning that the festive weekend happened to be their 28th wedding anniversary celebration.

Cooperative Teacher Rae Deibert plays outside with "friends"

Friend of little boys—and girls

Co-op teacher Rae Deibert retires

By JEAN DAY

Ask Rae Deibert of Northville about her most lasting impressions of preschoolers as she retires from 14 years as a teacher in the Northville Cooperative Play School, and she will tell you thoughtfully that she's constantly surprised at the patience of little children.

"Little children are really sweet," she says, "and they'll wait so long to get your attention."

All mothers who have had children in the cooperative during the years Mrs. Deibert has been teaching are invited to a farewell get-together planned by current officers from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. next Thursday, May 12, at the Northville Estates home of Sharon DeAlexandris at 47250 Chigwidden.

Anyone not contacted may call Mrs. DeAlexandris at 349-2936 or Diane Hubbert, president, at 349-7743.

Mrs. Deibert knows she's really going to miss the little ones and her fellow teacher, Elizabeth "Biz" Gazlay, with whom she has worked three mornings a week during the school year.

She's retiring now, she says, because all but one of her children are in the area and she wants to be free to play more tennis with daughter Kris and, should her husband, Glenn, decide to retire early, she'll be ready.

"I'm getting slower and slower," she admits as she tells how she and Kris have been playing tennis on her daughter's lunch hour. Kris, who is a car salesperson at John Mach Ford, plays in nylons and a dress, and hurries back to work afterward. She moved last weekend to the home of her late grandparents at White Lake.

Daughter Lori Bartlett is nearby in Brighton, and son, Skip, is in his first year of residency in Ann Arbor. Only daughter Colleen is away. She is teaching fifth grade in Leesburg, Virginia.

Through the years, Mrs. Deibert mentions, the teaching job in the cooperative has been an ideal one for a mother as she always was able to be home when her children were.

Noting that there presently is a trend away from cooperative-type preschools to day care centers, Mrs. Deibert expresses concern that so many mothers of young children are working.

She wonders if the generation of children now being placed in day care centers will want this for their children in the future.

"I think children understand dire necessity," she says, but she doesn't feel it is good for little children not to have a mother at home if possible.

Rae began teaching in the cooperative the year it moved from the basement of First Presbyterian Church to the scout-recreation building on Cady Street, where it has been ever since.

"As a first year teacher," she recalls, "I really appreciated the help Biz Gazlay gave me. She's great and it's her personality to help.

Sonya Prystash named 'Merit Scholar' winner

Sonya E. Prystash of 45320 Galway Drive, a senior and president of the National Honor Society at Northville High School, is among the 1,500 winners announced April 27 of college-sponsored four-year Merit Scholarships.

A biology major, debate team member and German club member, Miss Prystash has been awarded a Merit scholarship to Oakland University.

She took first place in the German Language Contest at Eastern Michigan University in 1975 and is student-life editor of the "Palladium" at Northville High.

College-sponsored Merit Scholarships are offered with the stipulation that they must be used at the sponsoring institution. They are renewable for up to four years of undergraduate study but are not transferable to another college or university.

Winners were selected by officials of the sponsoring college who also computed the student's financial need and determined the individual annual stipends. Dollar amounts, which can range from $250 to $1,500 a year, are not made public, but the annual stipend currently is about $725.

The Merit program is supported by about 575 individual organizations and institutions. The 1977 Merit competition began in 1975 when over a million high school juniors took preliminary scholastic aptitude-Merit qualifying tests. Highest scorers were named semifinalists, and represented less than one-half of one percent of the seniors in the United States.

About 14,000 semifinalists advanced to finalist standing by meeting requirements that included confirming their earlier high test performance and being recommended by their high school principals.

DON'T WASTE YOUR TIME

There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death
Proverbs 14:12

If by living a good life, reading a Bible, belonging to any church, helping others or other such activities, you think you can please God and get a place in heaven for you, then you are wasting your time! Jesus said, 'I am the way, the truth and the light, no man cometh unto the Father but by Me'—John 14:6.

Ask Him to forgive your sins and be your saviour right now!

FR. ROBERT J. ROSE is joined in procession by Bishop Joseph L. Imsch of the Archdiocese of Detroit and Msgr. Charles D. Brophy of Grand Rapids for a mass marking Fr. Rose's completion of his assignment as rector of St. John's Provincial Seminary on Five Mile at Sheldon. The celebration followed by a dinner, a concert and a reception, was held at St. John's. Fr. Rose will be succeeded as rector June 15 by Fr. Kenneth E. Untener of the Archdiocese of Detroit.

St. John's Seminary testimonial

Out-going rector honored

St. John's Provincial Seminary honored its rector of the past six years in a testimonial celebration at the school recently.

Father Robert J. Rose, who completes his assignment as rector on June 15, was saluted by faculty, students, staff and other members of the Seminary community and members of his family.

The celebration began with the Eucharist in the seminary chapel with Father Rose as principal celebrant and homilist.

Father John W. Troester, St. John's Spiritual Director, served as a toastmaster and host for the more than 150 guests at a testimonial dinner in the seminary dining hall.

Arthur Kirchner, seminary business manager, spoke on behalf of the staff in praising Father Rose for his leadership and for his "love of people."

The celebration ended with a reception in the faculty lounge.

In expressing his gratitude to all the people involved with St. John's for their cooperation and friendship during the six years of his administration, Father Rose said, "I have thoroughly enjoyed my years of seminary ministry. They have never been dull and were sometimes more exciting than necessary. I am now looking forward to taking up the work for which I have helped to prepare men for so many years."

On June 15, Father Rose begins his ministry as a pastor in the Grand Rapids Diocese.

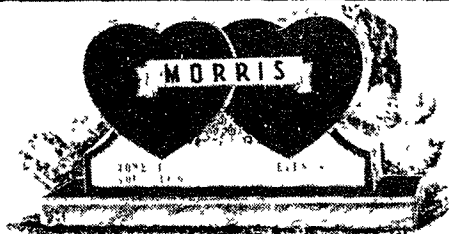

Including his own training and formation, he has spent the last 33 years in seminary surroundings; and he considers his six years as rector and professor of New Testament Greek at St. John's as the most challenging.

When he was appointed in 1971, the seminary had just begun a major and sudden transition from staffing by the Sulpician Fathers to a totally new faculty of Michigan diocesan priests and other men and women in pastoral ministry.

Since that time, major changes have been made in many areas. The academic program now includes a wide range of theological courses as well as pastoral field experiences and many people involved in parish work throughout the state attend classes along with the seminarians at St. John's.

The seminary is being considered for accreditation by the Association of Theological Schools and the North Central Association, largely through the guidance of Father Rose.

'Showboat' builders

Working on decorations to transform Northville High School cafeteria into a Mississippi showboat of the 1800s for the 1977 senior party that traditionally follows graduation are Anne Dales, left, and Gail Harrison. They're painting river scenery for the portholes. "Showboat '77" is the theme of this year's party being given by parents for graduates only following ceremonies June 9. More than 397 graduating seniors will be receiving invitations for the party which will include dancing to the Contraband orchestra, swimming in the pools, snacks and, finally, breakfast. Parents fund the party by sending their checks for $10 to Kenneth Harper, treasurer, at 47010 Dunsany.

Jaycee Auxiliary honors outstanding women

Jan Purcell

Mrs. Grieger is a past association president and a deacon. She is area chairman for the United Foundation Torch Drive, and a Fish emergency help caller. "Although world missions might be considered part of her church activities, this is a deep concern with her. The woman's association honored her with an honorary membership in its mission agency," writes Mrs. Smith. "Amy is a quiet, loving person who gently touches the lives of many — she leads in the same way, bringing out the best in others," Mrs. Smith adds.

Jan Purcell of 44855 Thornapple Lane was nominated by the American Association of University Women in which she is a charter member of the Northville branch and present legislative chairman. She has worked previously for many years with the Plymouth branch on book sales and children's plays. She has been a Brownie and Girl Scout leader and is an active Republican worker and has served as a challenger at the polls. She has been a driver for the blind and elderly and a volunteer tutor in reading skills.

"Those of us who have worked closely with Jan in AAUW-related activities admire the enthusiasm and thoroughness of preparation she brings to each new challenge," states the AAUW nomination.

Joan Schroeder

Joan Schroeder of 15800 Fry Road, who has served as clothes closet chairman for the Novi-Northville Fish emergency help organization for four years, was nominated by its chairman, Rita Byrd.

She is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Plymouth and a room mother for the day school's seventh-eighth grade. As a mother of six children, she says, "I feel that raising my children so that they can make a worthwhile contribution to society in whatever field they choose is the most important thing I could ever do."

Helen Single

Helen Single of 42261 Scenic Lane was the nominee of Nancy Fieldman, Silver Springs principal, for the Silver Springs PTA. "We would like to nominate Helen Single," she wrote. "She has shown a real love and desire to help children by volunteering endless hours coordinating and working in the Bucket Brigade Program at Silver Springs School. "Helen is a retired teacher and principal from New York with no children of her own attending our school....When working with children she is patient and very sensitive to their needs. She bubbles when they bubble and is sympathetic to their problems in a truly honest manner."

Betty Willing

Elizabeth (Betty) Willing of 1026 Bristol Court was nominated by Juanita Smith, president of the Past Matron's Club, Orient Chapter No. 77, Order of Eastern Star. In addition to being its organist for 13 years, she has held the post of Worthy Matron.

She has been active in the Order of Rainbow for Girls, an affiliate to the Masonic Order and been a state chairman. At the local level she has worked with the teenage girls, helping with their charitable projects which include visiting nursing homes locally, making gifts for residents and collecting food for needy families.

She recently retired after working for 19 years in Northville schools. She served as president of the Wayne County Association of Educational Secretaries and still is an ex-officio board member.

Nancy Beaupre and new owner Valerie Hambleton

Red Schoolhouse head's English

An open house at both 4 and 8 p.m. this Thursday at the Little Red Schoolhouse Nursery at 49875 West Eight Mile Road signals a change in ownership.

Nancy Beaupre, who is ending her fifth year as owner of the nursery, has sold the business to Valerie Hambleton whose daughter had been a pupil in the school.

Mrs. Beaupre, who previously operated a nursery in Rochester, Michigan, bought the building, then a residence, and returned it to its original schoolhouse use. During the five years she refurbished the building, built an addition and landscaped the grounds.

Now, she and husband Larry and children are moving back to Rochester to be closer to her family. She plans to teach for her sister, who took over her nursery there. Mrs. Beaupre's mother first had the nursery in her home in the country in Rochester.

Both Mrs. Beaupre and the new owner, who comes from England, are from "teaching families".

Mrs. Hambleton is a graduate of University of Manchester and taught in England. She, husband Frederick and children, Elizabeth and Paul, live on Galway Drive.

"I'm excited," she confides as she tells how she felt the time was right for her to take such a venture. Her three- and a half-year-old son will be able to be a student in the school.

She says she plans to keep the program as it now is with only minor changes, such as offering milk as the snack. Her staff will stay the same with Carol Huey, program director continuing. She has a bachelor of arts degree with distinction from George Washington University.

At Thursday's open house Mrs. Huey and other staff members will be available to describe the nursery program and answer questions.

Christian Women set 'Rainbow' lunch with program on stained glass

A "Rainbow Reflections" luncheon is planned by Christian Women's Club for noon Thursday, May 12, at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth.

Speaker will be Janet Price, whose topic is "Glowing Reflections." Soloist will be Yvonne Spencer with another feature, "Colorful Reflections," dealing with stained glass, to be given by Ken Jodouin. Luncheon reservations at $4.25 and nursery ones must be made by this Thursday with Ronnie Przybylowicz, 425-8474.
