

It will be 'Mrs. Mayor' in Michigan Week exchange

The City of Northville will have a woman mayor for the day as Mrs. Stuart Rogers, president pro tem of Franklin Village, is to be proclaimed mayor when she visits city hall at 9:45 a.m. on the traditional Michigan Week Mayor Exchange Day.

As has become a tradition, Michigan Week here will begin with a street washing at 7 a.m. Saturday by city firemen. Girl Scouts will sweep sidewalks. At the conclusion city police will have a flag-raising ceremony, and Michigan Week promotional material will be distributed under the direction of Wilson Funk.

Michigan Week chairman Ann Brueck announces that all churches have been asked to join in prayer for civic and religious leaders of both state and local programs and to thank God for the beauty as well as the prosperity of our state on Sunday, Heritage Day.

Monday Mayor and Mrs. A. M. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Mapes will visit Franklin Village while Mrs. Rogers, accompanied by her husband, is welcomed here by Mayor Pro Tem and Mrs. Paul Vernon and as many council members and their wives as possible. Flag-raising ceremonies will begin at 9:30 a.m. at city hall conducted by city policemen and assisted by Northville High band members under the direction of Michael Rumbell.

After Mrs. Rogers is proclaimed mayor in the city council chambers, there will be a tour of city hall and of historical areas, including a stop at the Royce Ziegler home on West Main to inspect progress of his addition.

A tour of Northville Laboratory is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. with luncheon at noon given by Northville Rotary at First Presbyterian Church.

At this time Northville Beautification Commission will present annual awards to business and professional people of Northville. John Wortman and Robert Reed will be honor guests as they have been responsible for many of the community's beautification scrapbook covers, Mrs. Brueck announces.

A tour of Mill Race Village is slated for 2 p.m. with docents to give background on the buildings for the guests. Mrs. Rogers' husband is an architect and both are responsible in part for the restoration of the village offices being restored in Franklin.

They also restored their own home and have been active in historical efforts in Franklin where both have served on the village council.

Franklin Village Clerk Sharon Riley, who will be greeting the Northville party, is the wife of Duane X. Riley.

Visitors here will visit the John Burkman home on Base Line and Northville Downs in mid-afternoon before a dinner meeting with people of both communities to exchange ideas and discuss problems. Northville City Manager Steven Walters will serve as master of ceremonies at the dinner.

At 3:30 p.m. Monday the third annual Northville High Jazz Band Concert will be given in front of the Old Mill Restaurant and Northville Pharmacy on Main Street. During the day Wilson Funk, official photographer for the beautification commission, will be taking candid shots.

Three trees donated by John Miller and Greenridge Nursery will be planted at the Mill Race for Michigan Week.

Northville's official tree, a flowering crabapple, will be presented to visitors from Franklin, as has become tradition at the dinner, to be planted on public land in their community. A copy of Jack Hoffman's book, "Northville — the First 100 Years", also will be given for

'Sale' involves 728 acres here

The controversial prison proposal treaded water on two fronts this week with the formal request of the state to buy the Wayne County Child Development Center.

A letter asking Wayne County to sell the property to the state for establishment of a prison is under study now by county agencies.

Hearing on the state's offer to purchase the Child Development Center for a prison has been scheduled for Monday, May 23 at Northville High School gymnasium beginning at 7:30 p.m. Conducting the hearing will be the county board's public works committee.

Following the hearing the committee will report its recommendation to the full board so that the latter can make its decision and reply to the state by Friday, May 27.

"I can't believe it," declared County Commissioner Mary Dumas upon learning of the state's letter.

"The idea of establishing a prison, even temporarily on the buildings' side of the Child Development property, was bad enough. But the state's proposal to also buy all of the property on the west side of Sheldon Road — all the way to Beck — is sickening."

State officials propose to build a permanent prison on the property west of Sheldon, using the existing buildings east of Sheldon for a temporary — up to five years — prison facility.

Mrs. Dumas, who along with Commissioner Royce Smith also represents Northville on the county board, said the state's purchase request has been referred to the corporation counsel to determine legal ramifications, to the bureau of taxation to check the value of the property, and to the public works committee.

Mrs. Dumas is even more convinced that the board chairman, John Barr, has been secretly negotiating with the state for the property transaction.

Since formal receipt of the letter last week, Barr has stated that the state's offer appears reasonable.

Meanwhile, the governor's all-encompassing prison package, which included the provision for the penal institution in Northville, is still kicking around in committee at Lansing where the legislature holds the life and death of the proposal in its hands.

To become a reality, the legislature must fund monies for the prisons proposed by the governor.

At last week's meeting of the joint capital outlay committee, the proposed prison near Holland held all the attention. Members approved a request for a $10,000 review appraisal of the Holland site.

A spokesman said this same kind of step is likely to be taken on the Northville site.

Representative Gary Owen of Washtenaw County tacked an amendment on the site review measure that instructed the corrections department to seek other prison sites—particularly on property in Oakland County and on land near Battle Creek, originally considered, but recently abandoned for the site of a large amusement park.

Referring to L. Brooks Patterson, Oakland County prosecutor, Owen told fellow members of the committee that the prisons should go where people are clamoring to lock up more prisoners. "I think we ought to start looking in

2 mill increase in city budget

A two-mill increase in taxes — down one from the increase originally proposed — will be reflected in the $1,536,280 budget that goes to public hearing in the city Monday, May 23.

The hearing will get underway at 8 p.m. in the city hall.

Northville council, meeting Monday in another budget study session, concluded it could not cut the increase further without jeopardizing existing services.

As originally proposed by the city manager, the budget would have meant an increase to 14 mills.

Even with the cut ordered by the council

If you've been wondering why Seven Mile Road has been closed between Sheldon and Rogers, this crater should answer your question. A sewer line collapsed, forcing digging up of the roadway to make the necessary repairs. The city hired Constantine Brothers to do the work, which is expected to cost approximately $5,000. The DPW reports that Seven Mile may be closed for another week.

Here's why

'Harmony' is desired

School seeks new principal

Three years ago, Michael Tarpinian was selected over nearly 50 other candidates as the new principal of Northville High School.

Although Superintendent Raymond Spear said at the time that Tarpinian was "kid oriented", the Detroit administrator's biggest asset was believed to be his ability to restore discipline in the high school.

Last week, Spear told Tarpinian that he would not be returning as principal next year. Instead, candidates will be sought who can "restore harmony" among disgruntled teachers, parents and students.

The school board was informed of the decision last week and Spear made a short public announcement of "staff realignment" at the high school at the conclusion of Monday night's board meeting.

Spear said that Tarpinian would be offered a teaching position within the district.

Tuesday morning, Tarpinian said he wanted to make no comments other than to say he had not made a decision regarding the teaching position.

Tarpinian's predecessor, Fred Holdsworth, is currently a high school teacher.

Spear's decision is an apparent move to turn around the growing dissatisfaction in and about the high school. He did not say what role, if any, Tarpinian played in the general school attitude.

The low morale was evident last week when sophomores were unable to find two teachers who would chaperone a dance.

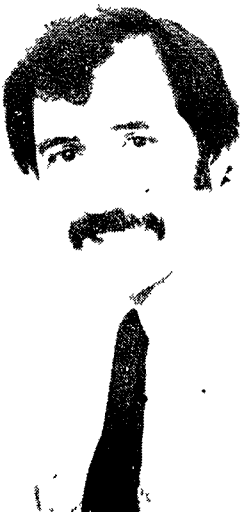

Tarpinian became Northville's high school principal in August of 1974 when he beat out 47 applicants for the job. Prior to that, his education background was in Detroit.

He received both his BA and MA from Wayne State University and taught English in the Detroit school system from 1952 to 1963.

For four years, he was a counselor in Detroit and took his first administrative job as assistant principal in Henry Ford High School in 1967.

He was named Finney High School principal in 1970 and became Cody High School principal in 1973, a year before coming to Northville.

Spear said that posting for the principal's position would be done immediately.

Gardening nears

Planting is expected to begin within a week or two with completion this week of plowing of 60 garden plots for senior citizens on Sheldon Road, north of Six Mile. According to Hans Lahr, coordinator of the project, 34 reservations for garden plots have already been made. Senior citizens wishing to have a garden should call him at the Northville city hall, 349-1300. Here Ken McMullin begins the plowing as Henry Grates of the Plymouth recreation department, and Lahr look on.

Sponsor forms available

Sponsor forms are available now for the annual Walk for Mankind planned by Northville Jaycees on Saturday, June 4.

According to project publicity chairman, Alan Scroggin, the forms may be picked up at the Northville Police Department, the Northville Library, at Northville public schools, and at Our Lady of Victory and St. Paul's parochial schools in Northville.

Persons with questions about the walk or the gathering of sponsors may call Bill Zapke at 349-5647.

Participants will walk over 20 miles on a route that will wind through the city and township of Northville — beginning and ending at Northville Downs.

Participants will solicit sponsors who will agree to donate a certain amount of money to aid the program for each mile covered in the walk.

Walkers, explained Scroggin, may earn money for a good cause in Northville as well as for the 22 hospitals and medical programs supported by the Walk for Mankind. Each may name a local charity to receive 20 percent of the money he or she raises by walking.

Honorary Chairmen of this year's walks in eight different communities will be Shawn Cassidy of the "Hardy Boys" and the Osmond Brothers. They'll be making appearances in the walks at Northville, Dearborn, Down River, Livonia, Monroe, Livingston County, Windsor, and Ypsilanti.

As Northville Jaycees step up their campaign to encourage participants in the walk, they're also trying to obtain station sponsors at various locations along the walk.

Mayor A. M. Allen has already agreed to walk the first mile with the group, and the remaining members of the council, the city clerk and the city attorney have volunteered to man the first station at Northville's historic well site on South Main Street.

At stations, refreshments and first aid (for blistered feet) are provided.

Sheehan renamed to jury

Lawrence W. Sheehan of Northville has been reappointed to the Wayne County Jury Commission by Governor William Milliken. His reappointment and that of two other commissioners, Mrs. Eleanor J. Fitzgerald of Detroit and Mrs. Norma J. Laskey of Detroit were first appointed in 1971. Sheehan, 45820

Bloomcrest Drive, is executive vice-president of Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc. and serves as president of the Irish-American Republican Club.

ISEP in reflection

Given choice, would they choose to be retarded?

(Last month, the Northville board of education agreed to continue to run the state funded and mandated education of nearly 800 mentally retarded people at the Plymouth Center for Human Development and the Northville Residential Training Center at the Northville State Hospital. These students regularly attend classes at the Main Street Annex, Moraine Elementary, and in buildings in the Livonia, Dearborn Heights, Crestwood and soon, Garden City school districts. Recently, The Record conducted this interview with Leonard Rezmierski, director of the Institutional Special Education Program or ISEP.)

Record: Eighteen months later, how do you feel about the district's decision to assume the responsibility for educating the mentally retarded of area institutions?

Rezmierski: They made a wise decision. It may not be obvious to all people, but it certainly will be. It's a bench mark operation in special education and I would guess it will be viewed so in some time.

Record: What are the benefits for the community?

Rezmierski: We have a staff of 473 of which 16 percent are residents of the area.

It could be a tremendous emotional growth for regular students to learn more about their fellow man. Kids from the high school have helped blind kids walk the steps at the Annex. Plus, we can share resources with the K-12 staff. We have all kinds of great inservices because we have to. We have had two kids die at the home, and we had to learn how to deal with that. We can also share our psychologist and social workers.

Financially, we're using schools emptied by declining enrollment rather than $30-$40-$50 million new buildings.

Record: There isn't that much use of the local district's buildings despite available classroom space.

Rezmierski: Except for Moraine, all of the buildings we use are exclusively for special ed students. I would like to integrate into Northville more. As we expand into other buildings, we will be looking at using those kids who could profit from an (integrated) program.

Record: Reducing building costs for area school districts obviously isn't your main reason for supporting the education of the handicapped.

Rezmierski: In the final analysis, it is the child. It's our human right and responsibility to help that person who can benefit by what limited knowledge we have. Mutual respect is the key. What you give is what you get back. In the past, labelling has hung us. Labelling should be done carefully so that we realize the impact on human beings. That's why institutions were built in the first place (to get the unwanted out of sight). These kids have a right to go to school.

Record: What is accomplished in school?

Rezmierski: An individual prescription is written for each child and involves his teacher, paraprofessional, occupational and physical therapist, speech and language instructor, deaf counselor, psychologist, cook and bus driver. We can't get the job done any other way. We may start with toilet training, feeding themselves and recognizing safety feature (stop signs, for example) and work into areas of self-esteem such as dressing and bathing themselves. It's an upward spiral to a higher plane. We've got a bunch at Moraine who can read at the eighth grade level. I'll bet as we integrate, we'll find more who could.

Record: How far can you go?

Rezmierski: How high is up and how big can you dream? If you believe that they are retarded and that's the end of it, then that ends the question. But if you believe they are human beings first... I'm amazed everytime I turn around; blind kids riding tandem bikes, for instance.

Record: Couldn't this entire experiment of educating the mentally retarded end up as a failure?

Rezmierski: It's possible, but we don't know that. Before we can say that, we've got to have the facts to back it up. If they had the opportunity, would they have chosen to be handicapped? That's a fair question. Would I choose to be blind and retarded?

It betters me that I can maintain my zeal and determination to work with my fellow citizens whom I feel I can help. I really owe these kids an awful lot.

Record: How so?

Rezmierski: "Whenever I feel down because I've got to do another report or because it's 'do this, do that' or there's another complaint, all I've got to do is go over to the Annex where there are a bunch of kids dancing at a sock hop or watch kids at Brinnard putting on a dance and I'll tell you, I've got no problems.

Record: Does that mean that television's romanticized view is correct? The view is that a child's problem can be solved before the final commercial.

Rezmierski: Improvements don't happen in steps quite that neatly. You quickly lose romance when you change a 24-year-old's diapers and end up with BM (bowel movement) all over you. It's not glamorous.

Record: Then why do teachers go into this field?

Rezmierski: I think it's fundamental with teachers. I really believe that most teachers love what they do.

Record: Does that mean you have a sufficient professional staff?

Rezmierski: No. We've had positions for a physical therapist and a mobility specialist for the blind that have been open for a year. These are new positions in education and the question is, 'Where do you train these people?' (The 'Northville teachers' contract, which includes ISEP instructors, prohibits the use of student teachers beyond the number of teachers that are retiring). We're going to have a lot of young teachers with very little experience in a demanding field.

It's going to get worse. Michigan is far advanced in special education and one of the few states that is prepared to handle the new federal law that will mandate education for the mentally retarded between the ages of 3 and 18. There are 40 to 50 million handicapped people in the country, 8 million are children, and only 2.5 to 3 million are being served. The need is overwhelming.

Record: What do you see in the future?

Rezmierski: I don't think either the women's or the minority movement will match the impact of the handicapped movement. If handled well, it will be a breath of fresh air.

PILGRIM'S PROGRESS—Fourth graders from Orchard Hills shoot a scene from a documentary film they have been making on the story of the Pilgrims and the Indians. Taking part in the production of this particular scene are: (from left) Teacher-director George Culbert, (hidden) timer Ziad Takla, script person Staci MacKertcher, photographer Sally Szuma, Pilgrims Dean Coon and Kjell Johnson, and Indians Donald Hykal and Donald Prine.

Youngsters produce documentary

Film's on the Pilgrims

Want to watch the Pilgrims land at Plymouth Rock? Or the Indians showing the Pilgrims how to start a fire?

A 10-minute documentary filmed on location in the woods behind Orchard Hills Elementary is just the ticket as 25 fourth graders have produced and filmed their own version.

According to teacher George Culbert, "I had wanted to do a film that would be a learning experience for them, their parents and even myself."

The class decided on the Pilgrim's landing at Plymouth Rock and surviving the first winter with the help of the Indians.

"The kids did everything," said Culbert. That meant writing the script, filming the scenes and even timing the sequences. Parents provided help in the form of authentic-looking costumes.

And Culbert admits he acted as the director — but only because he didn't have time to teach all the ins and outs to the students.

"What really amazed me was the interest and responsibility that came out — as well as their creativity," he says. In one scene which depicted the Pilgrims crowded in the hulls of ships, the kids wanted to show that the ships leaked water.

So what better way to depict it than to use real buckets of water with which to slightly soak the hapless "Pilgrims". And shots of the ship at sea were accomplished through the use of a model filmed in water.

The youngsters also didn't seem to mind the feast scene too much either as they were treated to all sorts of goodies including home-baked pies.

According to Culbert, plans are to tape a narration of the event depicted in the film, after the youngsters do the final editing, and to put music in as background.

The final film will then be put in the school library for the benefit of future classes.

By the way, the little Pilgrims and Indians even financed the venture as they held an auction in their class which raised the needed $15 for film.

Kathleen Densmore, the teacher of the alternative education class that was the object of a two-month school board investigation, resigned last week as a member of the Northville school staff.

A self-admitted "alienated teacher", Miss Densmore had taught a "Regenesi" class for students who were "burned off" by traditional school techniques.

The class ended abruptly in January in the midst of charges that, because of state-funding applications, students had been improperly labelled as juvenile delinquents and that Northville administrators had harassed Miss Densmore because she tried to inform parents about the problem.

The board eventually agreed that the district should not have applied for the controversial Section 48 funds and that district-prepared applications for the money did not present an accurate picture of the program.

The board, however, did not substantiate the harassment charges which, it was decided, were based on hearsay and private conversations which could not be confirmed.

Miss Densmore was then assigned to work with administrators who were to determine if an alternative program should be offered next year.

She was working under the supervision of Nancy Soper, the director of instruction whom Miss Densmore had charged with the harassment.

Superintendent Raymond Spear said he tried to talk her out of her decision and encouraged her to apply for a leave of absence, but she refused.

Miss Densmore is in northern Michigan and couldn't be reached, but she did submit a typewritten "supplement" to her resignation to the board.

She charged that Mrs. Soper and Michael Burley, curriculum coordinator, had "behaved most unprofessionally" and had given her responsibilities that were "demeaning and difficult, if not impossible, to carry out."

'Rescue' is name of the game for Novi Ambulance crew

Robert Burgess clips Volkswagen with Jaws of Life

The two "rescuers" jumped onto the crumpled Volkswagen and peeled back the roof like a tin can in a can opener.

Fortunately there was no one trapped in the wreck this time. Instead the rescue was done last week for the benefit of Novi Ambulance employees, police officials and photographers to demonstrate the new Jaws of Life which Novi Ambulance has purchased.

Novi Ambulance is the official ambulance service of Northville and Northville Township and is seeking a contract in Novi.

Only a few weeks ago Novi Ambulance was called to rescue a trapped victim in the same Volkswagen in Farmington. According to Novi Ambulance owner John Early, "We have the vehicle here to show how we could have got the guy out faster with the Jaws of Life."

The wreck, donated by Green's Towing for the demonstration, was set in front of the Novi Ambulance building on Novi Road before Robert Burgess of Michigan Fire Rescue of Fraser, the lone distributor in Michigan of the Jaws of Life, fired up the new tool. He quickly peeled off the doors of the Volkswagen and then used power shears to snip through the roof supports and allow the "rescuers" to peel back the roof.

According to John Early, owner of Novi Ambulance, the Jaws of Life purchase helps to round out Novi Ambulance's extrication unit, a Board decision necessary

Novi El' to shut down?

Within the next month, the Novi School Board will probably make a final ruling on the closing of the old Novi Elementary.

And if the recommendation of the administration is accepted, several organizations currently using the building will probably start seeking other accommodations. The decision would not come as a surprise to the Senior and Youth Employment Service and the Lakes Area Senior Citizens as well as some other groups that store equipment there.

All were notified when they first started using the facilities that the board last summer had decided that it would continue using that structure only until June 30, 1977.

"We now, by moving the high school to the new building, have an entire building to move the alternative education program to," said Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz.

The alternative education program, the last vestige of classroom education at Novi Elementary since the spring of 1976, has been using the structure for its program. But, according to Dr. Kratz, the students will either be able to use the current high school while it is being renovated for use as a second middle school, or those students will be able to use the portable classrooms behind the high school.

According to the superintendent, since taxpayers' money is being collected to educate children and since use of the old elementary would be restricted to community groups, it would not be fiscally responsible to continue paying the $16-$17,000 per year utility cost for the building.

Dr. Kratz told The Novi News that he intends to discuss the matter with his staff further but that he expects to bring a recommendation to the board May 26 that old Novi Elementary be closed probably in August when heating bills start to increase.

Dr. Kratz indicated that the school district will try to accommodate the displaced organizations if possible.

Adding into the problem is the Novi Community Building, owned by the city, but living off the heating system of the old elementary. Dr. Kratz said he has discussed the matter with Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall.

"I've told Ed the school would lease them the building for $1 a year but they would have to pay for utilities," said Dr. Kratz. He added that Kriewall had said it would have to be discussed at budget time.

Dr. Kratz pointed out that the school is zoned in three heating sections and that it might be possible for the city to maintain the community building and use the common heating plant while cutting the $16-$17,000 cost considerably by leaving the other areas unheated.

Kriewall recommended to the city council at a budget session Monday night that the city pick up "a portion"

Michigan Week activities varied

Michigan Week, May 14-May 21 marks big doings for the community of Novi.

In fact, the list of activities is so large this year, the Michigan Week Committee decided to kick it off on Friday, May 13 with a Youth Art Show at the public library.

"We all felt we wanted to really unite the community in building a community spirit," said Michigan Week Chairman for Novi, Kathy Crawford. "We want to show other communities that we have an identity of our own. Even though we don't have sidewalks and a real nice downtown, we do have a lot of spirit."

Though working on a budget of only $2,500, the Michigan Week Committee came up with just over 30 events for the week's activities.

"We feel we have something for all ages be it 9 months to 90 — activities we haven't had before like the first community picnic, a citywide sidewalk sale and bicycle races," said Mrs. Crawford. "One thing we're proud of is our international potluck. We've had terrific response from various cross sections."

She pointed out that the theme of the international potluck, where authentic dress will be featured and ethnic-style dishes will be served is "Novi: Where the world becomes a community."

City officials this year will be traveling to Pontiac for the government day, as Pontiac officials, including Mayor Wallace Holland come to Novi. City officials from Novi going to Pontiac will be Mayor Gilbert Henderson and his wife, Mayor Pro Tem Martha Hoyer, and Councilman Robert Schmid and his wife.

Though a complete list of all activities, locations and times are included in the Michigan Week Tab included in this week's edition of The Novi News, following are some of the highlights.

Community Pride Day, Saturday, May 14 will feature a pine seedling giveaway in which 1000 pine seedlings will be handed out throughout the city by Michigan Week Committee members. They will be concentrating on the subdivisions. To reserve a pine seedling, call Mrs. Crawford at 349-5079.

Heritage Day, Sunday, May 15 will feature the dedication of Novi Woods Elementary at 1:30 p.m. followed by an Ice Cream Social. The community band will entertain.

Government Day, Monday, May 16 includes a tour of the city for the visiting dignitaries, as well as a luncheon at which Novi School District Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz and Novi High School Principal Dr. Helen Ditzhazy will speak. The government day banquet will feature as speaker Oakland County Undersheriff John Nichols.

Tuesday, May 17, Livelihood Day will feature students at Novi High School assuming for one day the roles of various city officials. They will have a mock city council meeting at 7 p.m. at the Novi Schools administration building prior to the regular city council meeting.

That same day from 4-5 p.m. will be a workshop for fourth and fifth graders on "A Touch of the Theater" at the city library.

On World Community Day, May 18, there will be an International Potluck beginning at 6:30 p.m. at Novi Woods. It will be by invitation only.

Education Day, May 19 will feature a 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. "creative dramatics" workshop at the city library for preschoolers. At 7 p.m. Tom Dale will present a program through slides on "Michigan". The program will be at the city library.

Hospitality Day, Friday, will feature an open house of most city facilities from 4-7 p.m. Citywide sidewalk sales will be held by local merchants while plants will be sold from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Novi-10 Shopping Center at Meadowbrook and 10 Mile. Good Driving certificates will be awarded while a hospitality booth featuring donuts and coffee will be hosted by the Lakes Area Senior Citizens at the old Novi Elementary.

Capping the Michigan Week festivities will be several events of note on Saturday.

Adult tricycle races featuring city officials but open to anyone 18 or older will be held from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Novi High School.

At the same location, a "Super Stars Contest" for youngsters 6-17 will be held. It will feature a softball throw, 50-yard dash, quarter-mile run, push ups and an obstacle course. Trophies will be awarded.

A community picnic will be held at the school from 4-6 p.m. At 4 p.m. music will be provided by the Michigan Fifth Regimental Band. Recreational equipment will be available. While brown-baggers are encouraged, the Boosters Club will have a refreshment stand.

The final activity of the day will be a kite-flying contest for all ages at 6 p.m.

Throughout the festivities prints of pen and ink sketches of some of Novi's landmarks will be sold to offset costs of Michigan Week and to pay for the efforts of local artist Jill Mullendore.

One is of the Fruit Ridge Farm known as the Simmons Farm on 10 Mile which is unique because the building has 20-inch thick solid masonry and dates back to the early 1800s.

Another is the Novi Inn at Grand River and Novi Road. Originally scheduled to open in 1927 as a bank, it never did because of a bank crash.

The Washington Farm, today known as Whitehall convalescent home on Grand River, was at one time a restaurant.

The final drawing is of the original Novi Church dedicated in 1876 at a cost of $1,750. Located on Grand River west of Novi Road, it was in 1950 moved back from the road.

The prints sell for $5 each or three for $15.

Wixom's Lahde says he'll resign from council

Calling it quits with just seven months remaining in his four-year term, James Lahde has announced his resignation from the Wixom City Council.

Currently the Mayor Pro Tem as a result of his election in November, 1973, Lahde gained the highest number of votes in an impressive victory over six other contenders for a council seat.

As of Tuesday press deadlines, the resignation had not been submitted in writing although there was still time for it to be handed in for action at Tuesday night's council session.

Wixom Mayor Val Vangieson refrained from commenting on the resignation "until I see it in writing."

Lahde was considered an "absentee" member at the April 19 council meeting since he did not inform City Clerk June Buck that he would not be in attendance. The councilman has also been absent from the budget study sessions held last week.

Word of the pending resignation was by telephone to Mayor's Assistant Bernard VanOsedale the following Monday. VanOsedale said he informed Lahde at that time, that should his decision be final, it would have to be submitted, in writing, to the mayor.

Lahde told this newspaper his reasons for resigning the post were mainly ones of interest and changing priorities. He candidly stated, "I just ran out of interest ... the kinds of interests I think are necessary for a person on the council."

"I think a person should be aggressive. I feel badly about resigning but I just felt I wasn't doing anything. I have been remiss all these years, in letting the ring road fall by the wayside ... maybe I was just disillusioned with everything I thought I could do on the council."

Saying he was talked out of resigning six months ago, Lahde said, "Maybe a new face with a new approach is what the council needs."

Currently working on his Ph. D. in conservation and writing a book along with holding a position in the Southfield School District, Lahde said the decision to resign was also one of priorities. "My involvement in other areas of interest are more demanding now...I guess I just ran out of hours in the day."

Although stating that he didn't feel as though he was accomplishing anything, Lahde did say the council has made some very big steps forward in the past three to four years...steps he considered significant and with impact.

Coming to the council with five years on the Wixom Planning Commission and three years on the Environmental Studies Commission, Lahde's main fields of interest were in conservation and planning.

Pointing to the wet-lands and waterways ordinance passed by the city as one of significance, Lahde said, "To my knowledge it was a first in the state. Since then other communities have started, in one way or another, to follow suit, but Wixom led the way."

Wixom budget proposal tops $1.24 million

Increases in salaries, higher utility bills and suggested road contracting work were reflected in the proposed fiscal 1977-1978 budget presented to the Wixom City Council last week by Mayor Val Vangieson.

Totaling $1,242,957, the budget, as proposed, tops last year's actual figure by $137,288. Still under scrutiny and discussion by the six member council at meetings scheduled throughout this week, the increased figure will not necessitate a hike in city taxes.

Revenues to the city include a projected $548,675 in property taxes making up 48 percent of the city operating funds. State shared revenue, federal revenue sharing, CETA grants, court fines and other fees make up the remaining 52 percent.

Topping all departments in proposed expenditures is the police department with a budget figure of $370,361.

of the costs for heating and electricity for the building. He told the council that since Dr. Kratz had indicated to him that the temperature would have to be kept at 40 degrees even if the building is shut down, the city should be willing to pick up the difference in cost.

"It really doesn't cost them anymore since they'd have to keep it heated anyway," Kriwall told The Novi News. "If the community is going to have to heat the building if it's closed down anyway, let's spend a few more dollars and use it for something."

Kriwall estimated the city's share would be 30-50 percent of the $16-$17,000 cost and told the council that he would come back later with firm figures. Council member Patricia Karevich pointed out that the city has not allocated funds for maintenance of the community building, which reportedly has some roof leaks.

Meanwhile, the superintendent indicated that the district will probably advertise for purchasers of the property. In the past, the school board had indicated it wanted to sell the building and property for enough money to construct a new elementary building.

According to Dr. Kratz, that cost would currently be $1.5 to $1.6 million. He added that he could not place an estimate on the current worth of the property but that the last offer was in the $700,000 to $800,000 range two or three years ago.

"I suspect the property is the valuable part," said Dr. Kratz. "When the interchange (I-96 and Novi Road) is completed, the value will increase dramatically because it will be the largest piece of property south of the intersection."

Dr. Kratz said he could not estimate when the property would have to be sold to pay for construction of another elementary. A lot, he indicated, would depend upon the results of a districtwide census currently under way plus the outlook on development in the city.

"If all of the homes planned for Novi are developed by next September, we'd be very crowded," he said. But he added that he doubts many of them will be constructed as planned and the lack of sewers in portions of the city could inhibit immediate further growth.

"I don't need an elementary tomorrow," he summed up.

Dr. Kratz indicated that as far as the old Novi Elementary, he hopes that with the city budget currently under discussion, that there may be some proposal for the city to take over utility costs.

"I just hope reasonableness will reign and someone will pick up the cost of utilities," he said. "I would hope these two public bodies would lock arms."

The city, meanwhile, is eyeing property at Taft and 10 Mile near the new high school for a municipal complex which would include a community building to replace the one connected to the old Novi Elementary. The city has an option to buy the property.

An August ballot question seeking funding by the city for development of the property to the tune of $2.7 million over the next five years does not seek funding for a community building. That structure would be in the third phase, to be constructed in 5-10 years. The priorities were set by the Novi Needs and Priority Assessment Committee.

The first phase calls for purchase of the planned municipal property, moving city offices to the vacant second phase of the new library, completing the second phase of the new library, expanding police department facilities to the vacated city complex and completing plans and specifications for the entire municipal complex.

The second phase calls for construction of a police facility. The third phase calls for completion of the city hall, community building and municipal complex as well as development and expansion of DPW site and facilities. The first phase would cost $685,000, the second phase $2 million and the third phase $3 million.

Significant increases in salaries as well as gasoline and oil created the budget figure of some $24,278 over last year.

Decreases in the same department were noted. Proposed expenditures for police vehicles along with communications equipment and maintenance dropped $17,310 over last year.

The Department of Public Works (DPW) entered a request for an equally significant increase in spending from $152,626 to $254,037. Most of the projected expenditure of $62,800 for road contracting contained in the budget is allocated for use at Beck Road and Pontiac Trail.

Long the topic of council discussion, DPW chief Robert Trombley said the dog-legged intersection is ranked a first priority for road construction. A marked rise in vehicle accidents and tie-ups have been created by increased traffic on Beck.

Trombley also asked for $43,145 for new operating equipment and vehicles suggesting that the city retire a 10-year-old dump truck and 8-year-old pick-up truck. Besides purchasing the new equipment, the budget request amount included payments due on a new piece of equipment purchased last year.

Revenue sharing funds totalling $53,947 are earmarked for two line item requests carried in the fire departments proposed budget of $106,578.

Along with a scheduled $15,000 payment due on a new piece of fire equipment received earlier this year, an additional $10,000 was included for the first installment on a new pumper requested by the department.

Deliberations on the new pumper, first requested three months ago by Chief Robert Potter, were delayed until the current budget talks. Both Potter and Assistant Chief George Spencer claimed the 16-year-old pumper now being used by the department can no longer be considered an "attack" vehicle because of its age. They added the pumper is subject to break-downs and because of its age is not reliable.

Potter stated also that the department has included the request for the new vehicle in their budgets for the past three years but that the request has been denied by council because of other spending priorities.

Further reviews of the budget are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday of this week. A final public hearing slated for the May 24 council meeting at 8 p.m. in Fire Station No. 1 located on North Wixom Road, will be held prior to adopting the proposed budget.

11 Mile land is sought

Approval to acquire land for the vacating of 11 Mile Road at Grand River was given by Novi City Council last week following the continuation of a public hearing on vacating the land. Approximate cost to the city will be $40,000. The purchase consists of buying the property of Hildred Hunt on 11 Mile and exchanging portions of her lot with MHD and David Fullington for pieces of their property along Grand River, which are also required. The relocation is 1200 feet east of Novi Road. The relocation of 11 Mile at Grand River is part of a renovation safety project which includes the widening of both Novi Road and Grand River near their intersection. Cost of the project will be $296,000 of which the federal government will pick up 90 percent. Novi and the Oakland County Road Commission will split the remainder. The city, however, will have to pay for any right-of-way required. The project is expected to be started this year and completed early next year.

Hines closed to autos

The King of the Road will be riding a bicycle this Saturday on the Edward N. Hines Parkway. Or he won't be riding anything at all. For eight hours Saturday, about 11½ miles of the winding highway through the Middle Rouge Parkway will be closed to motorized vehicles. Travel will be restricted to "biking enthusiasts," according to Lou Sugo, PR director for the Wayne County Road Commission. From 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., cars will be banned from Hines between Ford and Haggerty roads. "There will be four days set aside for Bike Days this year," said Sugo. "It was started about four years ago by (state) Representative John Marks." Other Bike Days this year will be on June 11, September 10 and October 8. In the years, as many as 7000 cyclists have been counted by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

vehicle now equipped with over $12,000 worth of equipment. The Jaws of Life cost $5,300.

The Jaws of Life, said Early, will be available for use in any nearby community. However, in Novi it is a back-up for the city's Jaws of Life. Both own the same Jaws of Life unit, although Novi Ambulance's is a newer model with slightly more power.

"With us handling the expressway, if we get a truck rollover, we can handle it," said Early. "It's available for any city that needs it. If Novi's is out, this will be the back up."

Besides the Jaws of Life, the extrication unit is equipped with dozens of items such as air cutting chisels, hammers, axes, equipment to open jammed doors, porta power machines, harness equipment, Stoke stretchers, come-alongs, and what is called a Bull Bag, which is an inflatable plastic bag which attaches to the exhaust of a car and inflates to lift the vehicle off a trapped victim.

According to Early, the unit will also carry a heart thumper machine for cardio pulmonary resuscitation and will be driven by an emergency medical technician.

Citizens of Northville Township are being formally notified of their right to petition for charter township government.

In compliance with a new law, Township Clerk Clarice Sass last week and this issued notices relative to charter township petitioning.

The notice does not necessarily mean that charter township government is in the offing, she explained. It simply is a requirement of the law when a township's population reaches 5,000 or more.

Northville's population exceeds 5,000 as shown by the recent special census conducted in the township.

With formal notification, these options are open to the township board:

- It may adopt by majority vote a resolution opposed to incorporation as a charter township.
- It may adopt by majority vote a resolution of intent to approve incorporation and if a petition of disagreement to the intent resolution relative to the incorporation is filed within 60 days before final passage of the resolution, the electors have the right to a referendum on the incorporation question.

It may adopt by majority vote a resolution to place before the electorate the question of incorporation at the next regular or special election. Citizens themselves may, by petition, initiate a charter township election.

Although a charter township is not significantly different than standard township government, it provides for greater taxation flexibility, and it suggests a more formalized municipal government structure. It specifically provides, for example, that the township board may appoint a township superintendent, the equivalent of a manager in city government.

Relative to taxation, it provides that a township board may levy, without a vote of the people, a tax of up to 5 mills.

Newspapers to hold State Rep' forum

Where do the state House of Representatives candidates on the special June 1 primary ballot stand on the issues important to you?

To find out, The Livonia Observer and The Northville Record will sponsor a meet the candidates' program at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 17 in Room F of the Livonia Senior Citizens' Center, 15218 Farmington Road, south of Five Mile. The meeting, open to the public, will have the three Republican candidates and a single Democratic hopeful on hand to answer questions.

Mrs. Margaret Thomas, active in the Livonia League of Women Voters for many years, will be moderator.

The candidates invited to the forum are Livonia Republicans Mary Dumas, in her third term as a county commissioner; Jack Kirksey, Grant Elementary principal and former chairman of two successful Livonia school district millage increase campaigns; and Harvey Moelke, former four-term Livonia mayor.

The winner of the GOP primary will face Nancie Blatt, treasurer of the Schoolcraft College board of trustees who is unopposed in the Democratic primary.

The general election will be held Tuesday, June 28.

The special primary and general election were forced by the resignation of R. Robert Geake, who was elected to the state senate in a special vote March 23.

The 35th House district included the city (Wayne County section) and township of Northville and the half of Livonia generally north of Plymouth Road, east of Farmington Road and north of Six Mile.

Northville School candidates night set

Residents of Northville School District will have their first opportunity to meet candidates for the June 13 election to fill three board posts at a Candidates' Night at 8 p.m. next Wednesday, May 18, in the high school cafeteria.

It is sponsored by the Northville High PTSO. A. J. Geisler, PTSO president, urges citizens to attend and to express their concerns before the election.

"Often concerns about past issues and those on the horizon are expressed where the voices are not heard. This is an opportunity to quiz candidates in an informal atmosphere and to determine how each candidate compares with values set by voters," he said.

Candidates, he announced, will draw numbers out of a hat to establish the order of their initial statements.

Each candidate will be allowed five minutes for the statement, after which written questions will be taken from the audience. Answers will be limited to one minute.

Coffee and lemonade will be offered while questions are categorized. Every candidate will be given opportunity to respond to every question.

If time allows, questions will be taken from the floor, but the session will end at 10:30 p.m., Geisler stated.

All members of the community are invited and urged to attend by the PTSO. Prior to hearing the candidates, the executive board will be elected for next year.

College hopefuls to speak May 24

League of Women Voters chapters in Plymouth-Northville and in Livonia have teamed up to offer a special candidates night for nine persons seeking Schoolcraft College trustee seats.

The meeting will open at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 24 in the Liberal Arts building theater. Visitors should use the south parking lot of the campus at 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

This special meeting is a departure from past League of Women Voters practice. In the past, each chapter has held its own separate meeting with Schoolcraft candidates either preceding or following candidates for local K-12 school boards.

"We think it's especially important this year to set aside a separate meeting for Schoolcraft candidates," said Judy Fod of the Livonia league and Jane Watts of the Plymouth-Northville league.

"First, there are nine candidates for three positions. There's no way the average voter can listen to them all and ask questions at the same time one is concentrating on K-12 candidates.

"Second, Schoolcraft has a tax question on the ballot—a request for an increase of 0.8 mill in the property tax rate. We've asked Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote to give us a brief explanation of the facts.

"Third, it's just a good idea for people to vote on Schoolcraft issues to see the campus — good points and bad.

Observer Newspapers and The Northville Record are assisting the two league chapters with arrangements.

Harry G. Greenleaf, 35936 Pinecroft, Livonia; George Gravala, 18732 Merriman, Livonia; Michael M. Cicchella, 9063 Adams, Livonia; and G. J. (Jack) Bologna, 12275 Appletree, Plymouth.

Safety check for bikes set

In conjunction with Crime Prevention Week May 15-21, the City of Northville Police and the Michigan State Police will be joining with a host of other groups in the Northville Downs Parking Lot May 21 for a crime prevention program.

The program will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. as the Northville American Legion Post and the Northville Kiwanis Club assist in "Operation Identification" in which bicycles will receive a safety test and be licensed by the city for $50. Bicycles will also be inscribed with a driver's license number and youngsters are asked to bring a driver's license number from a parent.

In addition, the Northville CB Club will assist in engraving CBs and other items.

The city and state police will also provide pamphlets on home security.

Memorial parade needs participants

"Taking part in a parade is as much fun as watching it."

And with that observation, spokesmen for the Northville posts of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, began inviting participants for the annual Memorial Day Parade.

This year's parade will be held at 10 a.m. on Monday, May 30.

Parade participants will assemble in the Ford Valve parking lot at 8:30 a.m.

What kind of units?

"We'd like to see marching units, floats, musical groups, automobiles, mounted units, decorated bicycles," spokesmen said.

Interested persons should contact either the Legion post, 349-1060, or the VFW post, 349-9828.

Deadline for entering a parade unit is May 25.

Plans call for the parade to travel through the downtown section of Northville, ending up finally at the veterans' grave plot at Rural Hill Cemetery where a ceremony in honor of war dead is scheduled.

Pancake breakfast May 22

Plenty of good eating's in store for Northville area residents on Sunday, May 22 as Northville Civitan Club holds a pancake breakfast at the Park Haus restaurant.

"It's our way of raising funds for the Special Olympics for handicapped children and for the movement to head off establishment of a prison in Northville," explained Al Short, Civitan chairman of the breakfast.

The senior and junior divisions of the club will be assisting in the project, he said.

The breakfast, which will include "all the pancakes you want to eat and sausage," will get underway at 9 a.m. and continue until 1 p.m.

Proposes two mill increase

Last year's tax rate generated nearly $527,000 of revenue, based on an SEV of $46,918,890.

Although it has yet to cut proposed specific expenditures to reflect the smaller than anticipated millage increase, council has stated that services will remain at their present levels — provided union wage demands do not come in over available monies.

Generally, the budget reflects a six-percent increase in wages and fringe benefits.

Should demands exceed this level, according to council, reduction of personnel will be required.

Council will meet again prior to the hearing to complete its budget proposal. As it stands now, only major categorical allocations have been confirmed. These include:

Administration, $243,900; public safety, $583,790; public works, $354,200; recreation and library, $93,200; and insurance, fringe benefits, etc. $261,190.

This general fund expenditure totals $1,536,280.

The council also projects these fund expenditures:

Major street fund, $119,500; local street fund, $56,800; equipment fund, $165,890; water and sewer fund, $320,000; and public improvements fund, $649,000.

Revenues for the latter fund are generated by pari-mutuel racing their back yards," he declared. His reference was to Patterson's campaign to curtail early paroling of prisoners.

Senator Charles Zollar of Benton Harbor, referring to state corrections department warnings that overcrowded state prisons could create a crisis, remarked, "All we need is another Attica where everybody gets aroused and we'll end up with Perry (State Corrections Director Perry Johnson) in a back cell."

Among comments made by Johnson at the meeting were that each prisoner costs the state $50,000 to house — not including utilities, and that "Our escape rate for minimum security is too high; there's no question about that."

With a recommendation still not formulated by the joint appropriations committee, State Senator R. Robert Geake observed that there's still a chance Northville can win its battle against the prison in the committee. "It still stacks up to a four-four vote," he said. Geake noted, however, that Zollar appears to be wavering. Zollar originally was counted as one of those who would oppose the Northville prison.

On Monday Geake said reports that the Northville site has been scuttled in favor of a prison in Oakland County or elsewhere were erroneous.

In his letter to Commissioner Barr, dated May 4, the director of the state department of management and budget, Gerald H. Miller, made these two requests:

"1. A proposal for the purchase of Parcel A (east of Sheldon Road for the sum of $6,000,000, including buildings, appurtenances and land containing approximately 121 acres, with 120-day option.

"2. A proposal for the purchase of Parcel B (west of Sheldon) for the sum of $3,000,000, including buildings, appurtenances and land containing approximately 607 acres, with an option to terminate an October 10, 1977."

Miller requested a county decision no later than May 27.

He emphasized that the state's offer to purchase the property at the state prices, is contingent upon the tax commission finalizing its determination of value, the legislature appropriating the necessary funds, and the approval by the state administrative board and the attorney general.

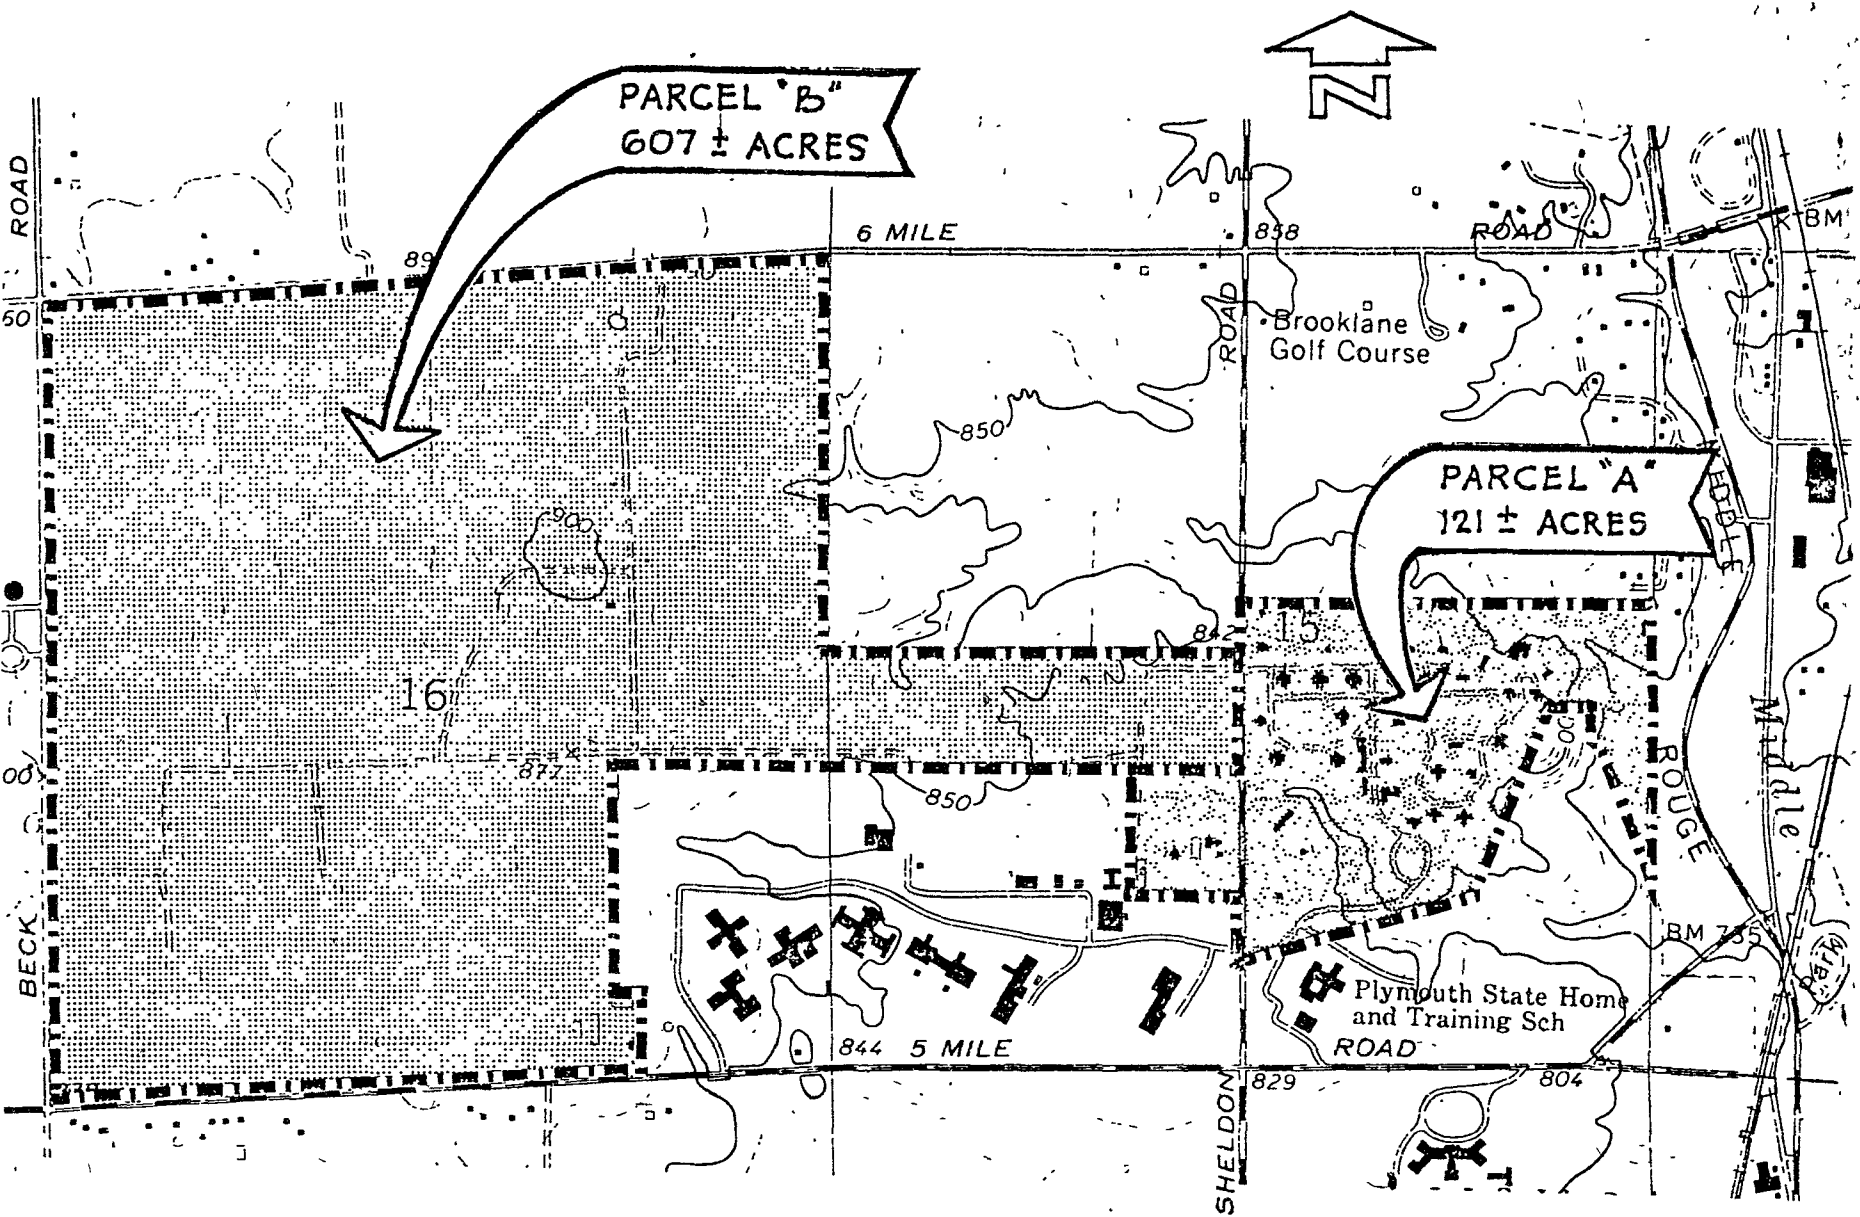

The governor's chief budgeting official noted that "the purpose of state acquisition is to make use of the present facility as a medium security correctional institution to help relieve the overcrowding in the state prisons."

Although he makes no specific reference to a permanent new facility in his letter, Governor William Milliken earlier stated the state would use the existing buildings for a temporary prison and build a new, permanent facility west of Sheldon Road.

The property west of Sheldon extends to Beck Road and borders on both Five Mile and Six Mile roads. It is essentially woods and vacant farm land, all of which is owned by the county.

It nearly surrounds the Plymouth Center for Human Development — a state facility for mentally retarded children along Five Mile Road, and it is across Six Mile Road from land owned by the Northville School District.

Superintendent Raymond Spear expressed grave concern about the value of the school property in view of the close proximity of prison. Long-range plans for development of a school on the property could be jeopardized should the prison become a reality, he said.

Plan anti-prison campaign

The first step in organizing an area-wide campaign for funds to meet expenses associated with opposing the state's plan for a new prison in Northville was taken Monday night.

Called by leaders of the Western Wayne County Residents Association, the meeting was attended by 25 citizens and was held at Northville township hall.

City Councilman Paul Vernon, who was unable to attend the session, has been asked to head up the drive for some $30,000. Vernon said Tuesday morning that he was deeply interested in the anti-prison effort and would confer with officers of the residents association on the development of a fund-raising organization.

He said he would then decide whether or not to accept the responsibility. Thus far the volunteer group opposing a prison at the Wayne County Child Development site on Sheldon Road has spent $20,000 and collected donations totaling $3,880.

Eunice Switzler, secretary for the citizens group, reported the following expenditures to date:

Advertising and printing — $3,220.34; legal fees, including advice and assistance by an attorney and a lobbyist — $7,585; transportation, including buses to take citizens to Wayne County hearings in Detroit, sound system, mobile signs and a helicopter sign advertising a protest rally — $1,900.

Added to this total of $12,705 is legal and lobbyist obligations of $7,000. Mrs. Switzler explained that the Lansing lobbyist was paid a retainer fee of $5,000 with $1,000 per month for a minimum period of five months guaranteed.

While at this point the fate of the Northville prison proposal rests mainly in the hands of the legislature (which must appropriate the money for the purchase of the property should the Wayne County board of commissioners decide to accept the state's offer), it was pointed out Monday night that legal action will certainly follow if the Northville property is purchased for prison purposes.

Township Supervisor Wilson Grier explained that township attorneys will represent the township in legal action should it develop. But the supervisor explained it would also be necessary for citizens to join in the action and expenses involved with legal representatives for the citizens' group would have to be supported by donations.

Supervisor Grier along with Mrs. Switzler, Blake Northrop, William Phillips and William Miron, all officers of the Western Wayne County Residents Association, conducted the public meeting.

They emphasized that property values are threatened by the intro-

Police Blotter

Conviction given in Novi murder

Jerome Golochowicz, 23, of Hamtramck was convicted by jury May 6 of first degree murder in the strangulation death of Donald H. Mitchell, 22622 Woolsey in Lakewood Condominium.

The conviction came in the circuit court of Judge Frederick Ziem and followed a four day trial. Sentencing will be later in the month.

Golochowicz who is also facing a murder charge in Detroit in a similar murder case, was convicted of killing Mitchell who was found November 1 with a bathrobe belt wrapped around his neck.

According to Detective Lieutenant Richard Faulkner, detectives John Johnson and Robert Starnes are being recommended for a citation in the investigation which followed the murder and the subsequent conviction of Golochowicz.

According to Faulkner, robbery was the apparent motive in the murder as Mitchell's car, as well as wallet, speakers and miscellaneous other items were stolen. The car was recovered later in Monroe where attempts had been made to burn it.

A safe which had been taken during an armed robbery in Taylor was found May 2 by a Novi resident walking on the beach on East Lake Drive. The safe was empty.

An antique statue valued at $400 was taken from in front of a home in the 21700 area of Kilrush May 1. The statue weighed 200 pounds.

A 14-year-old youth is being lodged in Oakland County Juvenile Home in lieu of $2,500 cash bond after he reportedly confessed to taking a billfold.

According to police reports, a resident on Jason Court saw the youngster on the grass in front of her home stuffing something into his pocket. When she questioned him, the youth fled.

The woman noticed that her purse was missing from a table inside a sliding door.

The 14-year-old was identified to the woman by other youngsters. The youth turned over the billfold.

Only minor injuries were received by three persons in two cars which were involved in an accident last Wednesday, in which they plunged over a bridge and landed in a deep gully.

According to police reports, a car driven by Jacqueline McQuade, 16, of Detroit was passing a second vehicle on westbound I-96 when she struck the second vehicle on the side sending both cars through a guard rail and down into a gully to the north of eastbound I-696.

Although the second car rolled onto its roof while plunging into the ravine, the driver, Robert Jackson, 36 of Taylor was not injured. The driver of the first car and a passenger both received possible injuries. The driver was cited for improper passing.

Only notification of police about the accident, which occurred at night, was via a CB'er.

A CB'er also helped Novi Police to stop last Wednesday an orange pick-up truck which reportedly ran several vehicles off the road and was traveling down Novi Road at speeds approaching 60 miles per hour in a 30 mile zone.

According to police, the call came from the CB'er who was on Novi Road near 10 Mile. The complainant told police that the vehicle was weaving on the road and was forcing cars off the road.

Police sighted the vehicle at Grand River where they reported it disregarded a traffic signal and continued north. Officers pursued at speeds up to 60 miles per hour before stopping the vehicle just north of I-96.

Arrested and charged with driving under the influence of liquor was Richard Bills of Union Lake.

A motorcycle in a parking lot in the 45300 area of Wilshire had its gas and fuel system valued at $120 stolen May 3.

A mini motor home was broken into last week as it sat in a driveway of a home in the 40700 area of 10 Mile. An AM-FM 8 track stereo was removed from the dashboard. All of the cupboards were also ransacked.

A $250 thermopane window was broken by vandals at Orchard Hills School April 30.

A $100 Holly carburetor was removed from a car parked in the 24800 area of Applecrest May 3.

A pistol from a display case in Jovs Gun Shop, 25901 Novi Road was taken sometime during business hours May 4-5.

According to an employee, two men seen near the display case may be involved. Police are investigating.

In Wixom . . .

Three cases of vandalism were reported in the Birch Park area of Wixom during the last weekend in April. Although Wixom Police are continuing their investigation of the cases, there are no suspects in the rock-and-egg-throwing incidents.

A resident on Nightengale told police the large double-pane window in the living room area of their home was broken by someone throwing a rock. That episode occurred at 11 p.m., April 30.

A second report from a resident on a nearby street informed police that eggs had been thrown at a car parked in the driveway of his home.

Police reports indicated the incident on Flamingo Street took place at approximately the same time as the Nightengale event. Minor paint damage to the car was caused by the eggs.

A second call to the Flamingo address the next day found vandals breaking a front window at the house. The rock broke the first portion of the double-pane set of large living room windows. The resident had no clues to offer police in either case.

In Northville . . .

A fire detector that activated after a grease fire had been extinguished in the kitchen area of a home on Summerside alerted a Northville woman to the possibility of yet another fire.

Officers responding to the scene said the wall behind the stove was hot enough to activate the alarm even though the initial fire had been put out prior to the fire call. A fire unit responding to the home thoroughly checked the area but found nothing.

A front bay window of a home on Hill Street was broken out Wednesday night by unknown vandals throwing a chunk of asphalt. The double pane glass was estimated to cost $200 to replace.

Northville City Police are continuing their investigation of the case as well as several others that have occurred on the same street during the past month.

Vandalism complaints continue as police took a report of a car window that was broken by someone apparently throwing a rock. The incident occurred sometime late Wednesday night in the parking lot at the apartments on Randolph Street.

In Township . . .

Northville Township Police are investigating the case of some missing engine parts taken from a car parked on Jamestown. The owner told police he had been working on the car Wednesday until 9 p.m.

Returning to continue working on the car the next day, the owner found the intake manifold, carburetor, battery and distributor missing from under the hood. Value of the items was placed at $385.

Approximately $100 in cash was taken from various rooms in a home on Timberlane during a breaking and entering which occurred between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Thursday.

Police said a window at the west end of the house was broken to gain entry. A clod of mud with a heel impression was found in the house. Investigation of the case is continuing.

Two sterling silver bowls and a vase valued at $250 were taken from a home on Clement last week although owners of the items were not too sure as to how or who may have taken them.

The owners told police they noticed the silver pieces missing after a handy man was at the home doing some odd jobs.

A $140 men's 10-speed bike was reportedly taken from the back yard of a home on Six Mile Road. The bike was thought to have been taken sometime between 5 p.m. April 30 and 8 a.m. May 2.

Three patients at the Northville

State Hospital and three female inmates of the Detroit House of Correction all made their escapes to freedom last week. All are currently sought by the Michigan State Police.

Between Thursday and Saturday, Northville State Hospital officials notified the troopers of their missing patients. A female patient, considered not dangerous, failed to return to the facility from a visitation leave. She was put on escaped status at 11 p.m. Friday.

A male patient said to be dangerous and committed on a 60-day court order walked away from the hospital Saturday. He was last seen on the grounds at 3 p.m.

A second male patient, given an afternoon ground pass failed to return to the hospital Saturday.

Between May 3 and May 5 three inmates of DeHoCo made good their escapes and are still being sought by authorities. A woman serving a eight month to 10 year sentence for assault was found missing from her cottage during a routine check. The escape was discovered at 7 a.m.

The second inmate slipped away from the Wayne County General Hospital while being treated there as a patient. She made good her escape at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

A woman serving up to four years for larceny was discovered missing from the facility and presumed to have escaped sometime Thursday.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE
by Jim Roth
What do you know about chablis? It is true that it is one of the most famous wine names in the world. In France the chablis wines are produced from grapes that grow in and around the town of Chablis, which is 110 miles southeast of Paris. The soil is hard with very little topsoil. Julius Caesar found vines in this region during one of his conquests. The vineyards must rest for up to twenty years before they can become productive again. Despite this, this one region supplies the entire world with French Chablis.

Commissioners talked in Lansing two months ago about prison

Speaking for The Record

Commissioners deceive people

We've suspected it for sometime, so it comes as no surprise that county officials have been deceiving taxpayers of Northville.

It's their calculated method of minimizing opposition to the controversial prison proposal.

As early as March 1, following media stories about plans of the state to purchase the Child Development Center for a prison, county commissioners were telling taxpayers they knew nothing about such a proposal.

And as late as two weeks ago, the chairman of the county commission's public works committee was vehemently denying again that the state had been discussing the prison proposal with the state officials.

On March 17, as angry Northville citizens denounced prison plans, the "we-don't-know-anything" board killed the Dumas-Smith resolution supporting opponents of the prison, on grounds that the resolution was premature.

To help kill the resolution, Commission Chairman John Barr sent a memo to each commissioner saying it would be improper to reject a state proposal before it is made. Yet, at the same time he was reminding commissioners that the Child Development Center "represents a possible answer to most (or all) of our fiscal problems."

It is interesting to note that despite commissioners' disclaimers of knowing about the prison plan, the county's own PR staff snapped the above picture in March. It shows county officials, including Barr, meeting in Lansing with Perry Johnson, director of the state corrections department.

At the meeting Johnson told commissioners, according to the commission's own PR staff, that the prison was "almost certain" to offer a proposal for a prison on the Child Development Center site.

Despite Barr's public statements to the contrary, Commissioner Mary Dumas, who represents Northville, repeatedly charged that "Barr's been dealing behind our backs."

He was indeed.

On May 4 in a letter to Barr, the director of the (Michigan) department of management and budget begins by saying: "This letter will further pursue our previous discussions relative to the State of Michigan's desire to purchase part or all of the Wayne County property known as Wayne County Child Development Center..."

'Perpetual' contract is the issue

One day soon the Northville board of education will complete its annual evaluation and contract review of the superintendent.

At least 1,160 residents of the school district will view with considerable interest the board's decision regarding the "perpetually renewing" provision of the district's contract for the position of superintendent.

They are the people who signed petitions objecting to the current contractual arrangement that provides for an automatically-renewed three-year contract every year, unless formal written notice is submitted by the board of education by April 1.

Boardmembers are well aware, of course, of this comm-

YES . . .

Certainly, now! It should begin as rapidly as the two governments can arrange it — complete Diplomatic and Trade relations with all the cultural exchanges we would offer any Latin or Caribbean American country.

It's time both countries think of a long-term peace plan. Sure, it is hard for us to forget the Cuban stings we experienced in 1961-62. This little island country (whose population is about the same as, and, whose size is only 75 percent as big as Michigan) made itself seem much larger.

It was big stuff to appropriate U.S. owned businesses, move into the Soviet bloc, embarrass us at the Bay of Pigs, and, play brinksmanship with us on a missile crisis.

A series of events,unseemly for such a small country. But, the sooner we realize that these and other recent actions are the political tools of a despot regime to rally it's populace to "nationalism" the better we will be able to realize that Diplomatic and Trade relations could well "5th column" this despot.

This past decade shows that the U.S. hasn't been very selective on restricting our Diplomatic relations with despots. And, as to that fear-laden word "communism" we're having difficulty figuring what brand we like best — Russian or Chinese.

Cuba has needs that no longer require the political takeover a Soviet offers. She has industrial needs United States should offer through free trade. In exchange, Cuba can give us food stuffs, sugar, minerals and ores.

In this manner Cuba will return to the economic, political and military size it actually has in the world of governments. With full Diplomatic relations we should lesson the tensions of any future Cuban stings.

NO . . .

Neville Chamberlain, returning from Munich, Germany, in 1938, met by a tumultuous crowd at London's Heathrow Airport, symbolizes the awful course of appeasement.

Had there been motion picture cameras when Union General David Twiggs surrendered all United States Army posts, arsenals, and accoutrements to the Texas Militia in 1861, another case of trusting a suspicious character (and its sad result) would be forever on celluloid.

What has the Marxist Castro done to deserve the recognition of the leader of the world's democracies? He took United States money, military help, and political encouragement, and once having achieved his objective threw the United States out of Cuba. He has allowed his own country and its politically naive people to be used by the Soviets as a base for launching missiles against Cuba's oldest friend in the Western Hemisphere — the United States.

Cuba's economy is in a state of ruin. Her own people are living in a condition just above that of Haiti. Medical schools in Cuba are below most standards anywhere in the world. She exports revolution to South and Central America as well as Africa. In those countries, Castro has taken advantage of these unfortunates in typical Communist style.

Freedom of opinion is so limited in Cuba that Miami holds the largest colony of Cubans outside of Havana. If the Castro-Cuban syndrome is so successful why did these thousands upon thousands leave their own native land?

Why is what Castro has been preaching all these years is true about the evils of the United States — its cruel treatment of workers, its exploitation of the masses, the "big business" interests controlling everything — why did all of these thousands of Cubans come to the United States?

Wayne County Intermediate School District's new "Databook" is out and it gives some interesting information about Northville schools.

Much of the data isn't surprising, but for purposes of giving us comparisons with the 35 other school districts in Wayne County the book is a gem even though much of it represents year-old figures.

Let me review some of them:

Northville, with a 5,188 pupil population, is only 17th in size — but it is one of only eight districts in the county that have experienced growth over the past four years. Enrollments of all other districts have dropped — from 23 percent reduction in Dearborn Heights to 1 percent reduction in Flat Rock.

Northville's enrollment is up 18 percent over four years ago (same as Plymouth). Biggest gain (26 percent) was in Woodhaven.

Northville has one of the smallest enrollments of racial-ethnic minority students in the county — but not the smallest. One percent of its students are categorized as minority students, compared with the biggest percentage in Highland Park (95.1). Plymouth's percentage is 4.1, Livonia 1.0.

Our school district has one of the lowest dropout rates in the county (1.7), compared with 3.4 in Livonia, 6.3 in Plymouth and 12.8 in Detroit.

Pupil teacher ratios: Northville has a 22.97 PTR in the 1-6 grade level, 23.83 in the 7-12 grade level. Plymouth is 23.33 and 25.51; Livonia, 24.09 and 27.01; and Hamtramck, 26.99 and 29.70. Detroit is 29.45 and 24.01.

Average years of experience for Northville teachers is 6.1, compared with 7.7 in Plymouth, 8.8 in Livonia, 15.5 in Hamtramck, 5.4 in Woodhaven, and 13.8 in Detroit.

Percentage of teachers with master degrees and above: 45.1 in Northville, 43.8 in Plymouth, 56 in Livonia, 73.2 in Dearborn, 46.2 in Detroit, and 28.7 in Woodhaven.

Northville has 45.8 teachers per 1,000 students. Plymouth is 42.3; Livonia, 37.0; Detroit 38.8.

Our teachers rank 31 in average salaries ($15,228), compared with Plymouth (33 at $14,431); Livonia, 8 at $18,984; and Detroit, 22 at $17,237. Highest is Highland Park, $20,878, and lowest is Crestwood, $12,824. (These are 1975-76 figures).

Percentage of the total general fund expenditure: In Northville it's 73.1 instructional, 3.5 administration, 3.5 transportation; in Plymouth it's 71.3 instructional, 3.3 administration; and 4.2 transportation; in Livonia it's 74.5 instructional; 2.7 administration; and 3.1 transportation.

In Northville 10.2 percent of its general fund goes for plant operation; 2.5 for plant maintenance; and 7.2 for fixed charges. It's 12.5, 2.6 and 5.8 in Plymouth; 11.4, 3.4 and 4.9 in Livonia; 11.0, 4.2 and 4.8 in Detroit.

Northville receives 56.4 percent of its revenues from local sources, 42.6 from state aid, and 1 percent from federal aid.

In Plymouth, it's 84.1 from local sources, 14.2 state aid; and 1.7 federal aid; in Livonia it's 74.6 local sources, 1.0 intermediate school district, 23.2 state aid, 1.2 federal aid; and in Detroit it's 43.5 from local sources, 45.1 state aid, 7.5 indirect federal aid, and 3.9 direct federal aid.

Declares teachers are 'uninvolved and uninterested'

To the Editor:

As the mother of three teenagers, I don't need anymore headaches! But when I discovered that our sophomore class was unable to hold a dance at our high school on Friday, May 6th because only one teacher volunteered his time to chaperone, it really upset me! All class officers and some student congress reps contacted our high school staff. One student asked 15 teachers personally. These enterprising students approached Fr. Haddad (God bless him!) at OLV and the dance was held there, with only parent chaperones.

In order to have a dance at school, it is necessary to have two teacher chaperones. Parents also chaperone. Saturday evening a softball game between the seniors and our high school faculty was scheduled to kick-off the Muscular Dystrophy week's activities. As of Thursday night, one teacher had signed up. The game was played — Juniors against Seniors. You can't field a team with one teacher.

The only inference I can draw from these two examples is teacher indifference.

Many clubs are without teacher sponsors at the high school. This simply means these clubs no longer exist. It is really a shame when we have enthusiastic youth willing to become involved and not allowed to because teachers fail to come to their assistance.

Maybe it's time we started cleaning house both literally and figuratively at the high school — and on down. Let's get rid of the dead wood. There are lots of teachers without jobs out there who not only might be super in the classroom but might be super outside the classroom as well. Don't make any mistake. We have some great teachers at NHS. I can name them. But don't believe me! Ask some students — then compare their lists to mine. We all know who they are!

I feel that many of the teachers are uninvolved and uninterested. A student is more than a body at a desk. Well-rounded activities make for a complete student. I feel teachers have an obligation to share in that development. Students should be encouraged and helped if they have the initiative to undertake a project.

Trying to set up a dance at NHS is a hassle — so why bother? The "Gong Show" was darling, but the administration gave the students a hard time — so why bother? Spirit week was over before anyone was aware it was spirit week. Kids try — but they're only kids, and I'm sorry but I don't think they should have to put up with the seeming lack of concern displayed by our superintendent, principals and teaching staff.

Perhaps the rules will have to be changed. If we can't get teachers, then let's amend the rules so that parents can be sponsors of clubs, dances, whatever. There are a lot of parents out there who care and who will become involved.

Sincerely yours,
Constance J. Conder

Wacky ad 'goof'

Being one of the contestants in your recent Wacky Want Ad contest I, of course, took extra interest in the results.

I believe the winning entry went like this:

Which is really good, but it either means George was married to his mother, or was illegitimate. You see George's father's name was Augustine.

Trees insulate, too

To the Editor:

Anyone wanting to conserve our energy resources needs to know that there are ways to use trees and vines and other plantings to make really important differences in fuel consumption in the winter and air-conditioning power in summer.

Careful tests have shown that a green, growing wind-barrier in the right location can cut heating fuel use anywhere from 10 percent to as much as 40 percent. Shade trees and vines can keep temperatures as much as eight degrees cooler on hot days.

Since that is true, I wonder why President Carter didn't offer the same kind of incentives for people who insulate their homes in other ways. But even without those incentives, there are plenty of good reasons to enjoy natural beauty in our surroundings, and saving energy is just one of them.

Sincerely,
John Miller

Poem lauds teacher

To the Editor:

An exceptional teacher, under duress, has resigned her position in the Northville School District. If somehow seems fitting to mark her passing with these words, paraphrasing Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar":

Friends, students, citizens, lend me your ears;
I come to praise Kathleen Densmore, not to bury her,
Though she has fallen to the slings and arrows of her elders.
The influence of a teacher doth live after her;
Yet the good's oft overlooked till it's too late.
So let it not be with Kathleen.
The noble Superintendent hath indicated that she was inflexible.
And our Superintendent is an honorable man,
Long-suffering, but with a long-term contract.
The noble Director of Instruction implies Kathleen was insubordinate.
(If truthfulness is "insubordinate," would that we had more of this!)
Still the Director is an honorable woman,
Tenacious in pursuit of righteous ways,
Unwilling to be sorely questioned in her right.
The noble Curriculum Coordinator cites her as uncontrollable.
And the Coordinator is an honorable man,
Having brought many funded programs home to Northville
Whose guidelines, validly or not, did the general coffers fill.
Did this in Kathleen seem inflexible:
That when our children were turned off, she gave them hope
And taught them to seek out alternatives?
But thus she is described, and also insubordinate and uncontrollable.
And those who thus describe her, They are honorable all.
I speak not to disprove what they have spoke,
But here I am to speak what I do know:
You all did respect her once, not without cause,
For she turned student disenchantment

Prison costs home sale

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mayor A. M. Allen of Northville offered the following letter as evidence that the proposed prison here may indeed have an adverse effect upon the community. He notes that the home in question, located adjacent to the proposed prison site, was appraised at $80,000 but reduced to $66,000 after being listed for eight months. The writer of the letter is a Westland policeman.

Dear Mayor Allen:

On March 3rd, 1977 I, Paul H. Frost, made an offer to you and to your wife to purchase your home at 18181 Homer Street, Northville Township. The purchase offer was accepted by you and I made a $2,000 deposit on the purchase with the realty company that was handling the sale and applied for a mortgage to purchase the property.

On Monday, April 25th, 1977 the bank informed me that my mortgage had been approved and that I would be able to purchase your home.

During the intervening time I kept reading and hearing about the possibility of the Northville Township Child Development property, which abuts your property at the rear, being proposed for use as a prison facility of which fact I was not aware of at the time I made my offer to purchase. On April 27th, 1977 my wife and I heard and read about the governor positively recommending the property as a medium security prison.

At this point it was my feeling that if this occurred it would have a disastrous effect on property values in Northville Township and Northville City and that also my wife would not be safe living behind a prison facility which would house prisoners convicted of felony crimes.

At this time even though we stood a chance of losing our $2,000 deposit we decided that under no circumstances would we go ahead and buy your home. On May 2nd, 1977 we withdrew our offer to purchase.

Due only to your and Mrs. Allen's kindness and generosity you refunded our entire $2,000. My wife and I can only say once again, thank you.

My wife and I had our hearts set on buying your home and what occurred makes us heartsick. I think any homeowner or citizen wanting to buy a home knows what it is like to find your dream home and be able to buy it and then have circumstances like a proposed prison site keep you from completing the purchase.

I cannot understand how the governor and/or the legislature of this state can allow something like this to happen in such a fine community as Northville and Northville Township. I think that it is a proven fact that a prison in a residential area and community will have a most adverse effect on both property values and the spirit and feeling of the entire community so affected.

My wife and I feel so strongly about this that while the Northville community was our first choice when selecting a new community in which to live we are now forced to look elsewhere for our new home.

Sincerely,
Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Frost

Jaycettes celebrate

Novi's Jaycee Auxiliary is joining with jaycette organizations throughout the country this week in celebrating National Jaycette Week, May 8-14.

The National Jaycette organization was formed in 1974 to coordinate projects and opportunities for young women throughout the United States. Meanwhile, the Michigan Jaycette organization was formed in 1944 and serves as coordinator and clearing house for local chapter activities and ideas. Presently there are 200 local Jaycette chapters in Michigan.

The Novi Jaycee Auxiliary is celebrating its 10th anniversary. It has 30 members which includes Farmington Jaycee Auxiliary members who were added in 1967.

The Novi Jaycee Auxiliary, which is open to women age 18-35 has joined in several community service projects including:

- Helping Hands—placement of "bluehand" posters in neighborhood homes so that children who may be sick or in trouble know where to go for help;
- Patch the Pony—a program, using film strips, pamphlets and buttons which warn youngsters in nursery schools and kindergartens to beware of strangers;
- Babysitting Clinic—a series of sessions for youngsters to teach them to be competent babysitters;
- Sponsorship of CPR classes—to inform the community and demonstrate Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation. Classes are taught by the Novi Police;
- Learning Tree—a puppet show and tape recording warning children of the dangers of drugs, smoking, alcohol, playing with matches, etc. This is shown to young elementary children;
- Scholarship Fund—presentation of $200 scholarship (which is matched by the Novi Jaycees) to a Novi High senior to further that person's trade or college education;
- Woman of the Year—honors a local woman for her service to the community;
- Raising Money for causes—to help the Burns Institute in Ann Arbor; collect Betty Crocker coupons to buy medicine for the underprivileged around the world; donate money to the Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children; purchased the Resusci-Annie and Resusci-Baby for use in CPR classes throughout the area.

The Novi Auxiliary also answers letters to Santa, sponsors parties for Novi nursing homes, sponsors outings for youngsters at the Northville State Hospital, throws a health fair at the Middle School and raises money to help in a statewide project developed by a Novi Member to help chronically ill children and their families.

The Novi Jaycee Auxiliary supports its many projects by running money-makers throughout the year including the annual art auction, a concession stand at the Jaycee Haunted House and Gala Days, as well as holding the Elves' Workshop at Christmas.

Northville students win

Two Northville students who believe in music were rewarded for their faith last month by the Farmington Musicales.

Dee Christian and Kathleen Settles each won money to further their musical careers at the April 23 competition sponsored by the Musicales at North Farmington High School.

Miss Christian, an eighth grader at Cooke Junior High School, finished first among 36 entries with her performance of the first movement of Mozart's Clarinet Concerto.

Her scholarship was for $75 and she also earned the right to play at the National Music Week Concert held May 1 at Farmington Harrison High School.

Miss Settles, won a $50 scholarship in the senior high division. The Northville junior is a pianist and played Chopin's Nocturne, Opus 32, Number One Another Northville student, pianist Mike Groves, was one of four contestants in the Young Artists competition which is limited to high school seniors who are going to be music majors in college.

From Lansing

BY R. ROBERT GEAKE
STATE SENATOR

Those of us who favor establishing a state Toxic Substance Control Commission have won a two-month battle in the Michigan Senate.

Approved on a bi-partisan vote of 22-13 was a bill, Senate Bill 63, creating the Commission and giving it broad powers to protect the public and the environment from chemical contamination.

The bill has been on the Senate Calendar for several weeks and was nearly killed on two occasions as opponents attempted to refer it to the Senate Appropriations Committee, a move which would have delayed, if not halted, action on the measure.

Supporters of the bill believe the Commission is needed in order to head off chemical contamination crises like the one triggered by the PBB accident in 1973.

Those opposing the bill, however, spoke out against the estimated cost of a new commission, between $440,000 and $775,000 annually according to Senate fiscal experts, and said existing state agencies could do the job just as well without giving such sweeping powers to the commission.

Under the bill, a 13-member Toxic Substance Control Commission would be established to inventory, test, and determine the safe use of all toxic substances in Michigan, to ensure their safe use, and to prevent contamination from hazardous chemicals. The Commission would investigate reports of chemical problems, including illnesses in humans or animals, compile data and information on toxic substances, alert state officials to any problems, and coordinate state activities on such chemicals.

On a two-thirds vote, it could declare a "toxic substance emergency." If the Governor agreed an emergency existed, the Commission would rule on the sale, use and disposal of toxic substances, work with the federal government, and conduct tests to determine the nature and scope of the emergency.

As the result of an amendment adopted by the Senate just prior to passage of the bill, individuals or corporations who know about potential toxic substance problems but fail to report them or to comply with regulations would be guilty of a misdemeanor rather than a felony.

The measure now faces scrutiny by the House and must, if it is to become law, be approved in the same form by both chambers and signed by the Governor.

Gets committee post

State Senator R. Robert Geake has been named to the influential senate education committee.

Geake, an educational psychologist by profession, was a member of the House Education Committee prior to his election to the Senate in March, 1977.

While serving in the House, he earned a reputation as an outspoken advocate of special education, particularly programs for the academically gifted.

"I am looking forward to applying my knowledge and experience in education to my duties as a member of the Senate Education Committee," Geake said.

"I am particularly interested in working on legislation designed to reduce or eliminate teacher strikes, to protect school systems with declining enrollments, and to strengthen vocational education programs in our state," he explained.

As a member of the Senate Education Committee, Geake will be responsible for reviewing legislation relating to both K-12 and higher education.

Geake also stressed his commitment to maintaining local control over education in Michigan.

The average Wayne County district receives 57.2 percent of its money from local sources, 35.5 from state aid.

Northville's state aid per-pupil jumped significantly between the 1974-75 and the 1975-76 school year — from $265.62 to $646.10. This increase meant ranking went from 22 to 7. Plymouth's ranking remained constant at 24, while Livonia's ranking dropped from 19 to 20.

Our school tax rate is one of the highest in the county: 8.90 allocated, 23.90 extra voted, 7.10 debt retirement, for a total of 39.99 and a fifth place ranking.

In Plymouth, it's 8.90 allocated, 24.86 extra voted, 6.19 debt retirement for a total of 39.95 and sixth place; in Livonia it's 8.90 allocated, 27.80 extra voted, and 4.97 debt retirement for a total of 41.67 and third place; and in Detroit it's 8.65 allocated, 14.50 extra voted, 6.03 debt retirement for a total of 29.18 or 28th place.

Low morale, high apathy in high school

A study by area educators paints Northville High School as a poorly maintained building filled with frustrated students, apathetic teachers and widespread distrust between staff and administrators.

"Neglect, callousness and abandonment," were terms used to describe the high school and one assistant principal said the community feels the superintendent "manipulates" situations and people.

The same 55-page report from the North Central Association Evaluation team generally praises faculty and says that most Northville parents think their children are getting a good education. It also says that staff and administrators are experienced and well qualified.

The report, issued to the school board last week and presented formally Monday night, is the result of self-evaluation studies within the high school and the observations of 20 area teachers, counselors and administrators who visited the district for three days in early March.

High school students, who were depicted as "well groomed, friendly and very honest," displayed "definite negativism" about the school and the "don't-care-about-the-kids attitude of the staff and administration," according to one committee member, Jean Sharrard, assistant principal at Birmingham Groves High School.

"They resent having to live 7½ hours in a building which has not had proper maintenance in four years that seniors can remember," she wrote.

"They resent not having enough books for classes in chemistry and social studies; they resent not being able to have calculus due to cut in staff."

Students want answers rather than "hoods pulled over their eyes," she said.

"When kids tell an evaluator that the system is wrong that allows kids to have 15 absences from class, it shows their concern."

Mrs. Sharrard found the community

"complementary and supportive" of the high school and cited an active PTSO, Mothers Group, Boosters Club and the Community Action Committee.

But, she said, there is a "definite unrest" between the community and both the school board and Superintendent Raymond Spear.

"Parents feel the superintendent manipulates situations and people to coincide with his ideas and desires... closing of elementary schools, Regenesis program, millage promises not kept, cutting programs and ignoring the unsavory physical condition at the high school."

The appearance and maintenance of the high school, from a long-time leaky roof to poor day-to-day custodial care, frequently came under attack.

The school fails to provide a "clean, well-lighted, attractive building which is safe, adequately heated and well ventilated," wrote William Dahms, from the state Bureau of School Services.

"Symbolically, to both faculty and students, the existing conditions represent neglect, callousness, and abandonment. The deleterious effect on student and staff morale is obvious and the destructive impact on the learning and teaching process cannot be ignored."

Novi Principal Helen Ditzhazy, who chaired the evaluation team, asked, "Why has the building been allowed to reach such a point of deterioration?"

She said students at Northville were getting a good education, "but at a great cost in terms of morale and environment."

The poor condition for the building was not the only reason given for low staff morale.

"One of the concerns that is most disturbing is that of general distrust and lack of communication," reported William Weber, assistant principal at Thurston High School in South Redford.

The distrust can be traced to negotiating problems over the years, he said.

He also noted a "feeling of frustration" from teachers and administrators about the weight of their input on district decisions.

"The building administrators feel cut off from the central administration in communication which affects them," agreed Dr. Ditzhazy.

It was agreed that the absence of department chairmen was a problem, but teachers were warned not to use this argument as a "rallying point" of dissent.

"There is a lack of leadership within the school among staff and should not be blamed on lack of chairmen," wrote Mrs. Sharrard. "Apathy abounds," she added.

Department-by-department reports generally said that teachers were doing a good job, but could be assisted by additional supplies and lower student-teacher ratios.

"The solutions to these problems are essentially monetary and are beyond the scope of this report," conceded Thurston's Weber.

Somewhat ironically, the board has already acted on one recommendation — expanding the physical education requirement from one semester to two — but has taken another course — not requiring math in the high school (it is still required in ninth grade) — which is in opposition to the recommendation of two years of required math.

The prevailing theme, however, was the condition of the high school which many members of the committee felt contributed heavily to poor attitudes.

"The physical environment affects the behavior and pride of the students quite strongly," argued James Geiger, principal at Farmington Harrison.

After noting that school leaks "never seem to get repaired," he wryly added, "I have seldom seen an executive office, or school administrative offices even, that is inadequately cleaned or maintained." (Since the committee's visit, repair work on the roof has begun.)

The reputation of the high school is a good one, said Dr. Ditzhazy, but Mrs. Sharrard noted, "The situation at Northville High School is an unhappy state."

Spear tells board

Increase taxes or cut services

The Northville school district needs to levy nearly two additional mills in order to maintain the education program it offered this year, school officials told the board of education Monday night.

If no additional revenue is found, the current teaching staff will have to be cut by nearly 15 people, purchases of teaching supplies and materials would have to be significantly cut, and capital outlay funding would be eliminated, according to a budget forecast prepared by Superintendent Raymond Spear and Thomas Goulding, administrative assistant for finance.

Hiring enough teachers to offer six hours of classes at the high school rather than five would necessitate a tax increase of nearly three mills, the report concluded. The district currently levies 32.9 mills ($32.90 for every $1000 of state equalized valuation or half of a home's assessed value). A 3.9 mill increase was approved by voters in April of 1976.

The prospect of reduced services came on the heels of a plea by music boosters to re-establish band in elementary schools.

Spear said the prospect of seeking higher taxes is "distasteful" but he told the board he warned them last December that a millage request would be necessary.

"The Northville public schools cannot operate the program we have now... within the framework of the anticipated revenue that is presented to you," Spear said Monday night.

"We can sit and nit-pick a budget from now until hell freezes over, and no more dollars will be made available," he added.

The board has scheduled a budget study session for Saturday morning, May 21, at 9 a.m.

There, they will study Goulding's estimate that the school district will have $6.9 million of revenue next year, an increase of about $265,000 from this year's income.

His projection is based on the current tax levy, a school enrollment of 4273 (down 137 from this year) and Governor William Milliken's proposed school state aid package.

Under those conditions, Northville could hire 190 teachers, down 15 from this year's level; maintain 16 administrators; cover increased employee benefits and unemployment compensation for laid-off teachers; and completely eliminate the $42,000 that was budgeted this year for capital outlay.

A second option — which would maintain the present 205 teaching positions, add a junior high school assistant principal and restore some of the cuts for capital outlay and teaching supplies — would cost an additional $265,000. That would mean about 1.75 mills or $43.75 on a home that's worth $50,000.

A third option, which would increase teaching positions by 10 and allow six courses for high school students, would cost $415,000 more than the projected $6.9 million revenue. About 2.75 mills would be needed for that money or an additional $68.75 tax on a $50,000 house.

Goulding said that 71 percent of the budget is taken up with salaries. Salaries and benefits account for 80 percent of the budget.

Employee benefits, which cost the district slightly less than a half-million dollars last year, will cost more than $700,000 next year. That's because the state now requires school districts to contribute 5 percent of employee wages into a retirement fund.

The decreasing school population costs the district about $180,000 since state school aid is based on a formula that insures a fixed amount per student.

Spear said a millage proposal should be made by late August or early September, but some board members doubted its chance of success.

"I don't think we're going to get any more money in terms of millage," said Secretary Chris Johnson. He suggested the board will have to make priority decisions.

"We could let the public decide for themselves," by "asking for millage," said trustee Marjorie Sliger.

Trustee Douglas Whitaker asked for an analysis of the reasons that students are leaving the system to enter private schools.

On Wednesday, Heritage Day, Mill Race Village will be open with demonstrations of crafts being given for residents and classes of school children (See In Our Town, page 2-D).

Northville's four elementaries and two junior highs have planned Michigan Week festivities, including plantings, clean-up projects and music or art programs.

A special tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Amerman is scheduled at Amerman School with the former superintendent for whom the school is named, and his wife to be honored at a luncheon and assembly Wednesday.

At the assembly Mrs. Amerman will be presented with a corsage and Mr. Amerman with an Amerman sweatshirt.

Children in the dramatics portion of the Plus Program will present a program on their life. Afterward the honorees will visit a number of classrooms, William Craft, principal, explained.

He added that each classroom has scheduled programs. The music teacher is teaching Michigan songs while art projects emphasize Michigan.

Students at both Amerman and Winchester schools will receive Michigan Week pins.

A clean-up of school grounds is scheduled for Monday at Winchester with a classroom emphasis to be on "Hospitality" May 17-18. A career breakfast and career people presentation will be May 19. May 20 will be a PTA plant sale and grandparent, neighbor, friend visitation planned for the afternoon to be followed by an outdoor assembly, Milton Jacobi, principal, stated, with winning clean-up classrooms honored.

At Moraine Elementary a Festival of Arts is planned for Monday evening. Tuesday there will be a morning kite-flying contest with Wednesday to be clean-up day and Thursday, planting day.

Friday, Donald VanIngen, principal, reported, city and township officials and board officers have been invited to a breakfast.

Michigan poems will be read at a flag-raising program Monday at Silver Springs Elementary with special displays to be set up at Highland Lakes, King's Mill and Northville Square of student work. A grounds clean-up is slated for Tuesday. An assembly focusing on projects and songs will be held Thursday, Nancy Fieldman, principal, announced.

Seventh grade classes at both Cooke and Meads Mill schools will place emphasis on Michigan next week. David Longridge, principal, has announced an outdoor clean-up for Cooke to be followed by new planting in the courtyard area.

At Meads Mill, Ronald Horwath, principal, reported, there will be planting projects of several hundred blue spruce and white pine seedlings as well as of marigolds, phlox, alyssum and other flowers by students around the building.

Advanced food classes are preparing products raised in Michigan.

Parents are invited to visit the school Friday.

Board to air Spear's contract

The Northville board of education will be holding a special study session Monday night to discuss the contract of Superintendent Raymond Spear.

Among the topics will be wage considerations and the term of contract.

Currently, the superintendent is awarded a three-year contract which automatically renews itself each year unless the board takes positive action to the contrary.

That style of agreement was criticized by 1160 school district residents who signed petitions asking that the form be changed.

Monday night's meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

Summer band okayed

A summer music program for Novi youngsters has been approved by the Novi School Board.

According to Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz, "It's another indication of our music program as it moves forward and its total quality."

Novi School District students will have first priority although students from other school districts can be included.

The summer music program calls for beginning band for students grades 7-12 and a concert band for grades 8-12 for students with previous band experience.

Cost is $30 for six weeks and the program is expected to be held June 20 through July 29.

Quilting bee set May 18

A marathon quilting "bee" will be held at the Northville Library, Wednesday, May 18, by the Friends of the Northville Library.

An experienced quilter will be on hand between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m. to assist any new quilters. All are welcome to spend an hour or two at the library working on the project.

When completed, the red, white, and black patchwork quilt will be used as a fund raiser for the library.

State police open house set Monday

A blizzard and sub-zero weather was thought to have had a deterrent effect on many people who may have otherwise attended an open house at the Northville State Police complex in January during dedication ceremonies at the sprawling new complex.

With that thought in mind, Post Commander Lieutenant William Tomczyk has planned a second open house slated to coincide with Michigan

Week festivities in surrounding communities.

The open house to which the public is cordially invited, will be held Tuesday, May 17, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Seven Mile complex.

Former Novi great chosen in pro football's draft

Jim VanWagner is jetting to California today for the first step in a journey that he hopes will lead to a professional football career.

VanWagner, an all-state back at Novi High School and a NCAA Division II all-American at Michigan Tech, was a seventh-round draft pick by the San Francisco Forty-Niners in last week's annual talent grab (also known as the "draft") by the National Football League.

"I'm very happy," said VanWagner

Saturday in a telephone interview from the Upper Peninsula home of his fiancée. "I've heard a lot of good things about the club."

He's flying to San Francisco today where he and other draftees will undergo physical and agility drills. Contract negotiations will be left to his Detroit-based agent.

"They (San Francisco) have a couple of really good backs in Jackson and Williams," said VanWagner. "They complement each other well. Last year, they were the pre-season rushing leaders.

"I think I'm a different type of runner. I could add to their versatility."

VanWagner was confident that he would be drafted, but admitted to a few "anxious" moments before the phone finally rang.

"I was told (by coaches and agents) that I would go somewhere between the fourth and sixth rounds, give or take a round," he said.

"They were supposed to draft through the seventh round on Tuesday, but they only got to the fifth. I certainly didn't spend a very good night's sleep."

About noon on Wednesday, though, he got the call from the new Forty-Niner head coach.

Until then, VanWagner monitored the draft with the help of news reports and the college. "They followed it quite closely up here," he said.

Small wonder. Since he broke into the starting line-up as a freshman, VanWagner has gained more yards rushing than any other back in Michigan collegiate history.

In both his sophomore and junior years, he was the Division II rushing leader. He finished second his senior year, losing the title on the last play of the season.

Last year, he was named to the first team on both the all-American and Academic all-American teams.

Local fans remember VanWagner best as part of the dream backfield that led the Wildcats to their first league title in the school's history.

With VanWagner rushing for 941 yards in 95 carries, Pat Boyer gaining 852 yards in 85 carries and quarterback Steve Lukkari passing for 1000 yards, Novi blasted the nine straight opponents, never scoring fewer than 28 points.

The first of four SEC champions for coach John Osborne were rated second in the state that year, finishing behind only Hudson which was in the middle of its national record-setting winning streak.

If VanWagner wears a Forty-Niner uniform next fall, he'll be playing alongside another good throwing quarterback, former Stanford all-American Jim Plunkett.

'Fire and Ice'

Tammy Purdy (left) of Northville and Terri Discher of Novi are two of the performers in this weekend's "Fire and Ice" show at the Novi Ice Arena. Show times are Friday at 8 p.m. and Saturday at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. Tickets cost $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students.

It's 'Magic'

All-stars at Schoolcraft

The state's top high school basketball star, Earvin Johnson, will be bringing his magic to Schoolcraft College Saturday night.

Johnson, the most heralded Michigan prepster since Pontiac Central's Campy Russell, will head a suburban out-state squad against a team of Detroit all-stars in a game that begins at 7 p.m.

Johnson, who led Lansing Everett to the state championship in March, will be joined by all-stars Kevin Smith of Birmingham Brother Rice and Jay Vincent of Lansing Eastern as past rivals become allies.

Smith, who will attend the University of Detroit, starred on the Brother Rice team that lost the state title game to Everett in overtime.

For three years, Vincent and Johnson clashed in battles between their Lansing schools. The two are fast friends and both will play for Michigan State next year.

Northville's Tony Armada, who was an all-league and Sliger All-Area selection, and Livonia Churchill's Tom Bey are among the suburban supporting cast.

Starting for Detroit will be Eric Duhart of St. Martin DePorres, Raymond Murdoch of Southwestern, Gregory Palm of Mumford, James Newman of Denby and Edgar Merchant of Northeastern.

The main attraction, however, is the 6'7" Johnson who earned the nickname "Magic" with his wondrous basketball skills.

His announcement that he would play for State next year has already boosted sagging ticket sales and has fans thinking of the Big 10 title even though the Spartans were 10-17 last year.

Tickets for the Schoolcraft game cost $2 for adults and $1 for students. Profits will benefit the athletic department.

Dales leads diamond win

Don Dales had three hits, drove in three runs and scored a fourth to lead Northville to a 7-3 win over Livonia Churchill for the Mustangs' first league win of the year.

Dales' lead-off single in the first sparked a three-run rally that matched Churchill's three runs scored in the top of the inning.

Don Borthwick's sacrifice fly scored Dales and Dan Thomas brought in two more with a two-run double.

Dales' single in the second scored Pete Wright with the go-ahead run and then his two-run double in the third staked winning pitcher Dave Heckerl to a 6-3 lead.

Dales hit a sacrifice fly in the fifth to round out the scoring.

Heckerl allowed only three hits, but walks and errors kept him in jams the entire game. Churchill loaded the bases with less than two outs in the second, fourth and sixth innings but couldn't score.

Mustang Express rolls on Grab your tickets and climb on board. The Northville tennis express is leaving the station. Destination: another Western Six championship.

The Mustangs upped their record to 10-0 last week by dumping league foes Waterford Mott and Livonia Churchill and edging non-conference North Farmington, 4-3.

The league wins put coach Bob Simpson's netters in reach of wrapping up the dual meet portion of the league race.

First, however, there's Wednesday's not-so-small matter of Farmington Harrison, whose only league loss came two weeks ago when Northville came from behind to win, 4-3.

Last Monday, the Mustangs had little trouble with a Churchill team that, after Harrison, was supposed to press Northville for league honors.

Mott did not put up any struggle as Northville won 7-0, winning all matches in straight sets and taking 34 games while losing only 17.

North Farmington, however, was another story and the Mustangs needed two wins in the doubles matches to win.

Number one singles Doug Castillo and number two singles Greg McFadden, both 2-1 for the week, lost to North Farmington. McFadden lost in a pair of tie-breakers.

Rudy Horst and Charlie Whiteside, both undefeated for the week, tied things up.

Then doubles wins by Steve Laffler-Steve Pyett and Lance Carter-John Marzoni clinched the win. John Dyer and Jeff Hodge lost their match, but won two others during the week.

Split with Howell '9' breaks skid

Northville's baseball team had to go west to find a dry field, but the Mustangs were happy to make the trip. After having two games postponed because of rain or wet ground, Northville went to Howell Friday and split a doubleheader, winning 7-3 and losing, 9-4.

The first-game win, sparked by Don Borthwick's five RBIs and Dave Heckerl's pitching, snapped a four-game losing streak against a "pretty good ballclub in the Lansing area," said coach Bob Kucher.

"I was extremely pleased. The kids played hustling ball all the way. I was pleased and I think they were too." Borthwick was a one-man wrecking crew, singling home Don Dales for the game's first run in the first inning and then breaking a 1-1 tie in the third with a three-run homer following walks to Doug Marzonie and Dan Thomas.

After Howell had cut the lead to 4-2, Bostwick went to the other extreme by dumping down a perfect suicide squeeze bunt to score Marzonie from third.

Marzonie drove in Northville's sixth run in the sixth with a single and a bases-loaded walk to Pete Wright forced in Dan Thomas in the seventh.

Heckerl, who pitched batting practice the day before, scattered six hits and struck out 10.

"He threw the ball with some authority," said Kucher. "The more work he gets, the better he pitches."

Heckerl got a rare chance to bat Friday and responded with two hits.

In the second game, Howell jumped on John Wiggard with three homers in the first five innings to take a 5-0 lead in the Highlanders' bandbox ballfield.

"Only one of those homers was legitimate," said Kucher.

CHARLIE WHITESIDE

RICKI MULLIGAN

Athletes of the Week

Northville's Charlie Whiteside and Novi's Ricki Mulligan were named as this week's athletes of the week.

Whiteside, a senior for Northville's tennis team, upped his record to 10-0 with three wins last week, including one in a 4-3 Mustang victory. Coach Bob Simpson said Whiteside is likely to be top-seeded in number four singles at both the league and regional meet.

Mulligan has been a shining light in the thus far winless Novi softball season. She's the team's leading hitter with a .454 average. She's only a junior so she'll be slugging the ball for Russ Gardner's Ladycats for another year and a half.

Healthy netters are winning big

Once he got his full team together, coach Dave Haywood was sure the Novi team would be a winner.

He was right. The Wildcats, who suffered consecutive 7-0 blankings without the services of two of their top three singles players, have ripped off six straight victories. In most cases, they have been administering some 7-0 whippings of their own.

Clarenceville, Brighton and Chelsea all fell 7-0, before Walled Lake Western won a match, but that was all, in a 6-1 win.

Thursday, it was another 7-0 win over Chelsea.

"I've got all my team here finally and the kids are getting confident," said Haywood.

The lopsided wins have almost made the battle for number one singles the most interesting duel. Freshman Barry Ouellette won the spot by the time the season started, but senior Greg Goff wrested it away last week.

Either way, they spell trouble for their opponents. Goff started the week 4-0 and Ouellette, after a couple of tough, season-opening defeats, is 5-2.

Other records are Tim Kelly, 5-1, John DeBrule, 4-3, the doubles team of Barry Skown and Withers, 5-2, Bob Ronk-Steve Jones, 5-2, Gary Anthony, 4-2, and Dave Boehmer, 4-2.

Walks still do damage

It's beginning to sound like a broken record, but Russ Gardner is sure that the Novi softball team will be winners once the pitchers find some control.

"We're 0-9, but we've outit, and outfielded all but three teams," he said. A ton of walks, however, have generally kept opposing base runners busy.

Last week, the Ladycats dropped games to South Lyon, 17-9, and Dexter, 19-15, in which Novi pitchers issued a total of 26 walks.

In between was a 7-1 loss to Chelsea, which Gardner called the best game of the week.

"They had a pretty good pitcher and we only had four walks," he said.

Chelsea only outit Novi 6-5, but the hits and walks were bunched together and Novi's weren't.

Gardner insisted that the walks will soon become a nemesis of the past.

"We're working on it everyday," he said. "The girls are coming in at a quarter to 7 every morning for 45 minutes of practice."

Ricki Mulligan continues to lead the team in hitting with a .454 batting average. Shelly Brough, with one error in 18 chances, and Heather Barr, with three errors in 47 attempts, are the fielding leaders.

Novi grapplers in nationals

Two Novi wrestlers have qualified for the Junior World Freestyle National Championships which will be held at Central Michigan University later this month.

Bob Sasena, who now attends Adrian College, and Mark McKenny, a Novi High School student, qualified by finishing in the top six at the state tournament at Michigan State University last Saturday.

Sasena, wrestling at 149½ pounds, reached the state meet by taking first in his weight division at regionals held in Trenton two weeks ago.

McKenny, wrestling at 135 pounds, finished fifth in the same regional to reach the state meet.

Top wrestlers from all over the country will be at Mt. Pleasant on May 27 and 28 for the AAU-sanctioned championships.

The winner in each weight division will advance to the world championships to be held in Las Vegas.

Wildcat pitching fails

The frustration that marks the Novi baseball season can be described in the Dexter contest last Friday.

Opposing teams have been jumping off with first-inning leads, leaving the Wildcats with deficits of one, two, four runs and more before they go to bat.

"Our goal was to prevent them from scoring in the first," said Novi coach Rick Trudeau. "We didn't quite do that."

The Dreadnaughts, who are tied with Saline for the SEC lead, scored seven runs in the first and led 9-0 before Novi finally got on the scoreboard.

The Wildcats then had an inning of their own, putting together five straight hits and scoring six runs, but Dexter went on to win, 12-6.

The loss left Novi with an 0-9 record and ended a week of three losses where the Wildcats were outscored, 31-9.

"Pitching is our number one problem, but hitting is a close second," said Trudeau. "And we're scoring all of our runs in one inning and not getting any the rest of the game."

That's what happened against Chelsea when Novi scored all of its runs in a 9-3 loss in one inning. Chelsea took advantage of a lot of walks and some timely hitting to take the win.

Northville competitors won 12 medals in the Wayne County Special Olympics swimming meet held Friday at Livonia Stevenson High School.

John Katke and Tiffany LaBue each won two gold medals. Gold medals were also won by Mark Demrose, Linda Troth, Beth Norton and Paul McGuire. Silver medals were won by Mike Genge, Beth Norton, and Bill Donovan. Winning a bronze was Mike Genge.

Participation ribbons were earned by Richard Johnson, Bill Donovan, Paul McGuire, Linda Troth, Karen Tallmap and Karen Veresh.

Trudeau tried to shake up the line-up that day and it worked well. Tom White started his first game at third base where he made a couple of good defensive plays. He also got a hit.

Likewise, Jeff Bunker started in left field and had a pair of hits and an RBI. Nobody did anything in the first game of the week, a 10-0, five-inning loss to South Lyon.

"Our key people haven't been hitting for us and the pitching has been consistent — poor," said Trudeau. "I still haven't lost hope."

"As far as having a team respect us, I still think we can develop that fear. I don't think we have that respect now."

Blues repeat as champions

Northville's Village Blue softball team, sponsored by Joe's Little Bar, successfully defended its title in the South Lyon tournament held by the community education department last weekend.

Village Blues won all four games in the double-elimination tournament, outscoring its opponents, 81-28.

Jeff Moon, Village Blue leftfielder, was named most valuable player and it's not hard to see why. His record makes Babe Ruth look like Ray Oylar.

Moon had 13 hits in 14 official trips to the plate and three walks for a sensational .928 batting average. His hits included seven homers, two triples and three doubles for an astronomical 2.928 slugging percentage.

He also scored 14 runs, had 14 RBIs and was the league-leader in causing heartburn in opposing pitchers.

Village Blue beat Jimmy's Bar, 16-13 in the title game. Earlier, Blue routed Jimmy's, 23-6, and won the other games by scores of 24-4 and 18-5.

Mayoral pitch

Mayor Gilbert Henderson gets ready to fire the ceremonial first pitch as the Novi Men's Slo-pitch Softball League got underway Monday night. Watching "hiz honor's" form is Richard Elie who plays for Fisher's, the defending champion.

Novi's 'fun in the sun'

There is no excuse for the summer blahs in Novi. Parks and Recreation Director Barry Smink has announced a varied and exciting list of activities which cover, as he puts it, "everything under the sun".

Registration begins immediately and can be done by mail (43325 12 Mile Road, Novi 48050) or in person at the office on 12 Mile near Novi Road. Hours are 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Most of the activities begin in June but interested people should register now so classes won't be cancelled for lack of interest.

If enrollment fees are not sufficient to support an activity, it will be cancelled but those who have already signed up will have their money refunded.

The events range from instructor-related courses such as tennis and golf to individual activities such as swimming and sailing.

Here is a rundown of the choices available to those who live or work in Novi. For further information on starting dates, instructors, costs or whatever, call the recreation department at 349-1976.

Summer Playgrounds — Includes both organized and informal recreation; gymnastics, arts and crafts; field trips, tennis, soccer.

Day Camp — One-week camps at Lakeshore Park; crafts, nature lore, terrestrial games and sports, campfire program, swimming and boating.

Preschool Play Camp — Designed for children ages 3 to 5 years; three mornings a week to enjoy nature, sports and crafts.

Youth Basketball — Novi basketball coach Ron Flutur teaches fundamentals.

Swimming — Includes lessons from beginner through advanced and lifesaving; swimnastics for shaping up while improving skills; open swimming also with lifeguard on duty at specified hours at Lakeshore Park Beach.

Sailing, Canoeing, and Catamaran — Courses in the first two, rental in both.

Need girls team

One more team is needed to fill the six-team women's softball league in Novi, according to recreation director Barry Smink.

Games will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays and the season begins on June 14. The sponsor's fee is $200. Interested parties should call the recreation department at 349-1976 or 349-1990.

Summer Theater for Teens — A first for local drama enthusiasts.

Tennis Tournament — Set for August with singles and doubles for men, boys, women and girls.

Community Band — No marching or fee, just good music.

Camping Equipment — A limited amount of backpacking and camping equipment is available for rent.

Special rates for fun parks

Since Cedar Point kicks off its fun-filled season this Saturday, people planning to attend this or other amusement areas should be aware of money-saving specials offered by the Northville and Novi recreation departments.

Tickets that are discounted by as much as 18 percent are available for Cedar Point, Sea World and Bob-Lo.

Cedar Point tickets, which normally run $7.50 for children and $8.50 for adults, cost $6.10 and $7.10 if purchased at one of the recreation departments before you leave for Sandusky.

Sea World tickets can be purchased for $3.50 and $4.95, compared to normal prices of $4.25 and $5.95.

Closer to home, the regularly priced Bob-Lo tickets of $8 for adults and $6.50 for children are 50 cents cheaper if purchased through the recreation department.

Northville's recreation department is at the Wing Street entrance to City Hall. Novi's is on 12 Mile Road near Novi Road.

is his first

Bill McMillan, 27709 Echo Valley, scored the second hole-in-one of the season at Brooklane Golf Course Saturday.

McMillan, 54 and a second-year golfer, used a nine-iron to ace the 122-yard seventh hole. He carded a 46 for his nine-hole round.

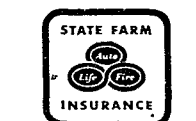

Witnessing the shot were Doris and Gordon Macorkerdale.

Wixom Newsbeat: Michigan Week's not forgotten

By NANCY DINGELDEY

Michigan Week may have been axed from the list — at least for this year — but the annual celebration is far from being forgotten... thanks to the efforts of several people in town.

To clear up a few questions on just why there won't be the usual festivities this year, it's really and truly because of city hall construction and nothing else.

The city fathers said they felt it would be difficult to hold any planned activities with everything so messed up. That, of course, is contrary to what was reported in a daily paper. The reason they gave is that no city wanted to exchange with Wixom on government day.

Be that as it may, Wixom has always gone way out for visiting officials and even though our city may lack in a lot of things other places may have, we certainly make up for it in hospitality.

However, there is the spring treasure hunt planned for May 21, which would have been the kick-off to Michigan Week... and as many people know, the hunt is something to look forward to.

The Dodges and the Haight, who won the hunt last fall, have planned the upcoming spring event... and with those two couples at the helm, it should be a goodie.

Deadline for reservations is this Sunday and may be made by calling Bonnie Haight at 624-5135 or Pam Dodge at 624-0520. Cost for the evening is $13.00 per couple which includes a meal. B.Y.O.B., is suggested. Cash prizes and other remuneration will be awarded to the top cars.

Suggested junk to bring along for the hunt includes a pair of scissors (not mentioned in the mayor's newsletter), pencils, paper, and a AAA map of Detroit, Northern suburbs and Oakland County.

Other suggested paraphernalia... a dictionary, phone books, World Almanac and a AAA map of Detroit Western suburbs and Wayne County.

There are still a few days left to scout up one or two couples for a happy carload and sign up for a fun evening. Check-in time is 7 p.m. at Loon Lake School with all cars off and running at 7:30 p.m.

Just how the group plans to answer such questions as, "do you really know your husband, wife, lover, children, boss, employee or self" remains a mystery, but it should be fun finding out.

For additional pleasure, there will be door prizes and, I suspect, a good deal of laughter. For more information, contact Jane Fitzgerald at 624-6030.

And for the kids, the library has designed a contest putting their artistic talents and imaginations to work. All youngsters at Wixom Elementary and those attending Loon Lake School were invited to design a bookmark.

The winning designs, to be chosen by the library board, will be printed as they were drawn by the child, and then passed out at the library during Michigan Week.

The topic... well, the range of books is a large one therefore, the range of designs was literally gigantic. All the designs turned in will be on display at the library. Be sure to take a look during your next visit for the rising young "Picassos" and "Van Goghs".

Work bees are on the schedule for every Tuesday beginning May 17 from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Tiffin House. It is suggested that you bring a brown-bag lunch and something to wet the whistle along with a great deal of enthusiasm.

Historical Society President Margaret Ladd said there's lots to be done at the place so the work bees will be held rain or shine.

If it's outside work that turns you on, bring a shovel or other gardening equipment. There's still a lot of outside painting and scraping in order so appropriate tools are needed there.

And inside, there's plenty... spelled with a capital P... that needs to be done from top to bottom. Everyone is invited... the more the merrier and the faster the job gets done.

The Society has planned another rummage-white elephant yard sale at the Tiffin House for June 3 and 4. All usable "goodies" are welcome and donations of those items may be made either to Margaret or Helen Tillman.

Last year's sale was great... this one can be even bigger and better. But the Society needs your help. All proceeds from the sale will go to the restoration of the historical house.

Hospital, area youths helped "Contributions help all children but it's especially nice to know that children of our own community benefit, too."

That's the word from Hugh Lockhart, president of the Northville Club, upon being notified recently that two Northville children were treated at the C. S. Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Medical aid given these youngsters — Julianne Stone and Joseph Crews — reflects the local club's on-going program of contributing to the Forney W. Clement Memorial Foundation, he explained.

The Forney W. Clement Foundation supports the children's hospital.

The Friends of the Wixom Library have scheduled a real whopper for this Friday at the V.F.W. on Loon Lake Road. Called an "Astrological Affair", it was aptly planned for Friday the 13th.

Beginning at 11:30 and running 'til 2:30 p.m., there will be a delightful luncheon of Maurice Salad and all the trimmings for only $2.50.

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES
Special Meeting
April 25, 1977

Meeting was called to order by Mayor Allen at 8:00 p.m.

ROLL CALL: Present: Allen, Follino, Johnston, Nichols, Vernon

PUBLIC HEARING TO TERM INATE CITY-TOWNSHIP WATER SERVICES (ADJOURNED FROM APRIL 18, 1977): Mayor Allen reopened the Public Hearing. The City Manager was asked to review the Township water plan as developed by Mr. Mosher. The proposed plan would cost $190,000 and would be essentially a new system. The installation fee per house would be approximately $2900 assessed to all properties potentially served by the system.

The City Manager had Mr. Penn work a plan to tie the existing lines to the Lexington Commons system, the purpose of which is to increase water pressure.

Councilman Nichols asked if the pipes were in good enough condition to hold the extra pressure. The condition is not specifically known, but the pipes are 30 to 40 years old.

Discussion followed on the proposals.

Mayor Allen and Ted Mapes attended a meeting with the Health Department if the Health Department approved, the City would install a temporary set up for 30 days.

Motion by Councilman Vernon support Councilman Follino to adjourn the Public Hearing until Tuesday, May 17, 1977, at 8:00 p.m. In the Council Chambers. Carried unanimously.

The City Manager commented on a communication he had sent to the Township Supervisor concerning the Western Wayne Mutual Fire Aid Association meeting attended by the Asst. Fire Chief and himself. He spoke of the concern expressed by several fire chiefs because of the potential burden on their departments for aid to our department when serving the Township. The City's request to join the mutual aid pack was tabled until the June meeting so that mutual aid responsibilities for the Township and its large institutional facilities can be studied.

Councilman Vernon attended a meeting on the Super Sewer at the Romulus Municipal Building, April 22, 1977. He stated appointments were made to the decision-making committee from communities not involved in the sewer project.

Councilman Vernon stated he committed the City of Northville to support a uniform resolution that will: (1) register dissatisfaction with the committee appointments because of no representation from western Wayne County (2) remind Chairman Barr that the appointees need not be County Commissioners but can be government officials or their delegates and (3) request that the appointments be reconsidered to include at least 5 representatives from the communities in western Wayne County.

The Council concurred.

Councilman Johnston stated he attended a meeting of the Retail Merchants where they voiced concern about the "surrounding malls and the effect they may have on future business in Northville."

Councilman Vernon concurred that the merchants are concerned and suggested perhaps they could use the good faith and credit of the City in bonding which could provide money for downtown development under the 1974 state law.

Mayor Allen asked Councilman Johnston to pursue with the merchants any ideas to improve the downtown area, and the Council agreed they should meet soon with representative of the Chamber.

Meeting adjourned at 9:45 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Joan Calhoun
City Clerk

NOTICE OF ENACTMENT

ORDINANCE NO. 77-45.2

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 4.02 (1) OF ORDINANCE NO. 70-45.1, AN AMENDMENT TO THE SUBDIVISION ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF NOVI.

THE CITY OF NOVI ORDAINS:

PART I. That Section 4.02 (1) of Ordinance No. 70-45.1, an amendment to the Subdivision Ordinance of the City of Novi, is hereby amended in its entirety, to read as follows:

4.02. STREETS:

1. Relation to adjoining Street System. The arrangement of streets in a new subdivision shall make provision for the continuation of principal existing streets in adjoining or adjacent subdivisions, insofar as they may be necessary for public requirements. In general, such streets shall be of a width as great as that of the street so continued or projected. The center line of such streets shall continue with the center line of existing streets.

In general, the streets shall extend to the boundary of the subdivision to provide the proper access to adjoining property, and provide for proper connection with the highway system for contiguous land. In general these extensions shall not be more than one thousand three hundred (1,300) feet apart.

Minor streets shall be laid out so that their use by through traffic will be discouraged.

A tangent at least one hundred (100) feet long shall be introduced between reverse curves on arterial and collector streets.

Where the Board has adopted an Area Development Plan or plat of a neighborhood or area of which the subdivision is a part and the proposed plat provided co-ordination with the street systems of the City different from that of said continuations or projections of existing streets and the subdividers' plat conforms in general to such neighborhood or Area Development Plan of the Board, the Board may approve the Subdivider's Plat.

Where the plat submitted covers only a part of the Subdivider's tract, a sketch of a proposed future street system as a part of the Area Development Plan of the unsubmitted plat shall be considered in the light of adjustments and connections with the street system of the part not submitted.

Where a subdivision abuts or contains an existing or proposed arterial street, one hundred twenty (120) feet or more in width, the Board may require marginal access streets, reverse frontage with screen planting contained in a no access reservation along the rear property line, deep lots with rear service alleys, or such other treatment as may be necessary for adequate protection of residential properties and to afford separation of through and local traffic.

Proposed streets shall be so arranged in relation to existing Topography as to produce desirable lots and streets of reasonable gradient.

PART II. This Ordinance is hereby declared to be immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health and safety and is hereby ordered to take effect immediately after posting and publication in full in a newspaper circulated in the City of Novi.

July 4th parade theme set

Theme for this year's Fourth of July parade will be "Northville — 150 Years old."

That's the announcement from Northville Jaycees, who established the theme upon being reminded by the Northville Historical Society that 1977 marks the sesquicentennial of the community.

(Northville was part of Plymouth Township in 1827 when the township government was organized. The first supervisor of the new Plymouth Township at the time was a farmer who lived in what today is part of Northville Township near Eight Mile and Haggerty roads).

"We're hopeful that floats entered in this year's parade will reflect the community's 150th birthday," said Jaycee Parade Chairman John Stilson. Persons wishing historical float ideas may contact the Historical Society, he said.

The parade will host local officials, politicians, horses, marching bands, floats, antique vehicles, local club units, and cyclists — "all in colorful array for the judging and awards.

Last year's parade celebrating the nation's bicentennial was the largest in Northville's history "and this year's celebration will include several of these attractions plus some new ones," he said.

Anyone wishing to participate in the parade should write or contact Stilson, 500 Maplewood, Northville.

Meanwhile, the Jaycees are requesting financial assistance from the community to offset the expense of sponsoring Fourth of July activities.

In addition to the parade, a full day of activities — including a barbecue and evening fireworks — are planned.

The parade will get underway at 10 a.m., moving along a one-mile route through the city. Following the parade the barbecue, dunk tank, and watermelon eating contest are tentatively scheduled at the Mill Race Historical Village.

With dusk, the always popular fireworks display will be held just north of the high school.

Two help Easter Seals

Two area residents participated in a recent Coffee Day to help raise funds for the 1977 Wayne County Easter Seal Society campaign.

They are Northville Charley's and the Plymouth Hilton Hotel restaurant.

All monies collected from the sale of coffee are to be used to support the on-going programs for handicapped persons of the Easter Seal Society.

NOTICE TO NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP RESIDENTS

Any resident desiring to review the 1977-78 Township Budget and Federal Revenue Sharing funds as allocated within the Budget Notice is hereby given. This information is available at the Northville Township Hall, 16300 Sheldon Road, Northville Township, Wayne County, Michigan.

League registers area students

Special registration of Northville and Novi High School students is planned for Michigan Week's Our Government Day on Monday, May 16. Sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi, registrations are planned at both high schools as part of the student government activities during Michigan Week. Students registering, who will be 18 by June 13, will be eligible to vote in the June 13 school election, according to League President Annalee Mathes.

To register students must bring with them their driver's license or a birth certificate.

In Northville, the registration will take place at the high school cafeteria from 10 to 1 p.m. And in Novi, it will take place from 11:15 to 12:20 at the high school.

Students attending Northville High School from Novi will be able to register at Northville High.

Buddy Poppy Days May 19-21

Mayor Gilbert Henderson has proclaimed May 19-21 as VFW Buddy Poppy Days in Novi.

In proclaiming the event, Mayor Henderson urged support of Grand River Post No. 1519 and its Ladies' Auxiliary through the purchase of Buddy Poppies. Buddy Poppies are symbols of appreciation for the sacrifices of the nation's honored dead.

Post Commander Bronko Krivokucha and VFW Buddy Poppy Chairman Peter Radowick point out that a tremendous amount of good work is accomplished with the funds derived from the sale of VFW Buddy Poppies.

"More than one-half of the net proceeds received from the sale of Buddy Poppies remains here in our own community to meet the calls from needy veterans," said Commander Krivokucha.

"The post maintains a relief fund into which is placed all net profits received from the sale of Buddy Poppies.

Clouds hold weather clues

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

Forecasting weather by cloud formations is more luck than reality.... but it's not fiction by a long shot.

It is built on centuries of sky watching, and for the novice it remains as useful a tool as is the satellite camera for today's meteorologists, says Gordon Thiel of Plymouth, supervising forecaster of the United States weather station at Metro Airport.

Clouds are deceiving.

And yet, Thiel's no different than the rest of us. If he's out driving, spots a particular cloud formation, he's just as apt to tell himself, "Well, Gordon, looks like we're going to get some rain."

That's because even though clouds are often deceiving, they're still a pretty good gauge of weather.

"Clouds aren't used much any more by forecasters," Thiel explains. "We've got so much sophisticated equipment today that is far more reliable than clouds that a lot of us (meteorologists) have forgotten what we were taught about clouds."

Not even the maps, fresh off the computer and hanging on the walls of his second-floor executive terminal office, indicate the kind of clouds in the sky.

"Use to be that our maps included that kind of thing regularly! Now look, not much if any of that," he says pointing to a large still damp weather map of the United States.

According to Thiel, all known cloud formations are common to Michigan. Some, however, such as stratocumulus, occur in Michigan more than in western states — "particularly in winter because the lakes are warmer than the air above them."

There are three main types of clouds, each carrying latin names: cirrus (a tuft of hair or feathers in Latin), cumulus (a heap) and stratus (a spreading out, as a layer).

In addition to their shapes, clouds are classified by their altitudes.

Cirrus clouds, for example, occur at very high altitudes where, because cold temperature turn moisture into ice crystals, strong winds blow these crystals into fibrous, windswept appearances. Cirrus, therefore, means windswept cloud shapes at high altitudes (from 20,000 to 40,000 feet).

The prefix "Alto" denotes middle clouds ranging from 8,500 to 20,000 feet, while other prefixes denote low clouds having vertical development from the surface up to 8,500 feet, explains Thiel.

Pointing out that one cloud type may follow another, Thiel offers the following example of how cloud formations may be indications of an approaching weather change in this area.

"You might see cirrus clouds, with the sun shining through and a glorious blue sky behind them. They are frequently followed by altostratus in which the sun appears to be behind frosted glass. Generally, you can expect precipitation in 10 to 15 hours. These may be followed by nimbostratus clouds, generally referred to as rain or snow clouds, which suggest rain of long duration if the winds are northeast to south or shorter duration if winds are from the southwest to the north."

It is highly unlikely that "clouds you see overhead are the same ones that passed over an adjacent state. They are constantly changing, and no cloud stays the same for very long," he points out.

Similarly, a storm cell that dumps rain here is not the same one that dumps rain 50 miles away. Where rain sweeps across the state, it is resulting from a series of cells. "Once a cell is emptied of moisture, usually in never more than an hour, it soon disappears... so if rain continues beyond that period you can be pretty sure a new cell has arrived."

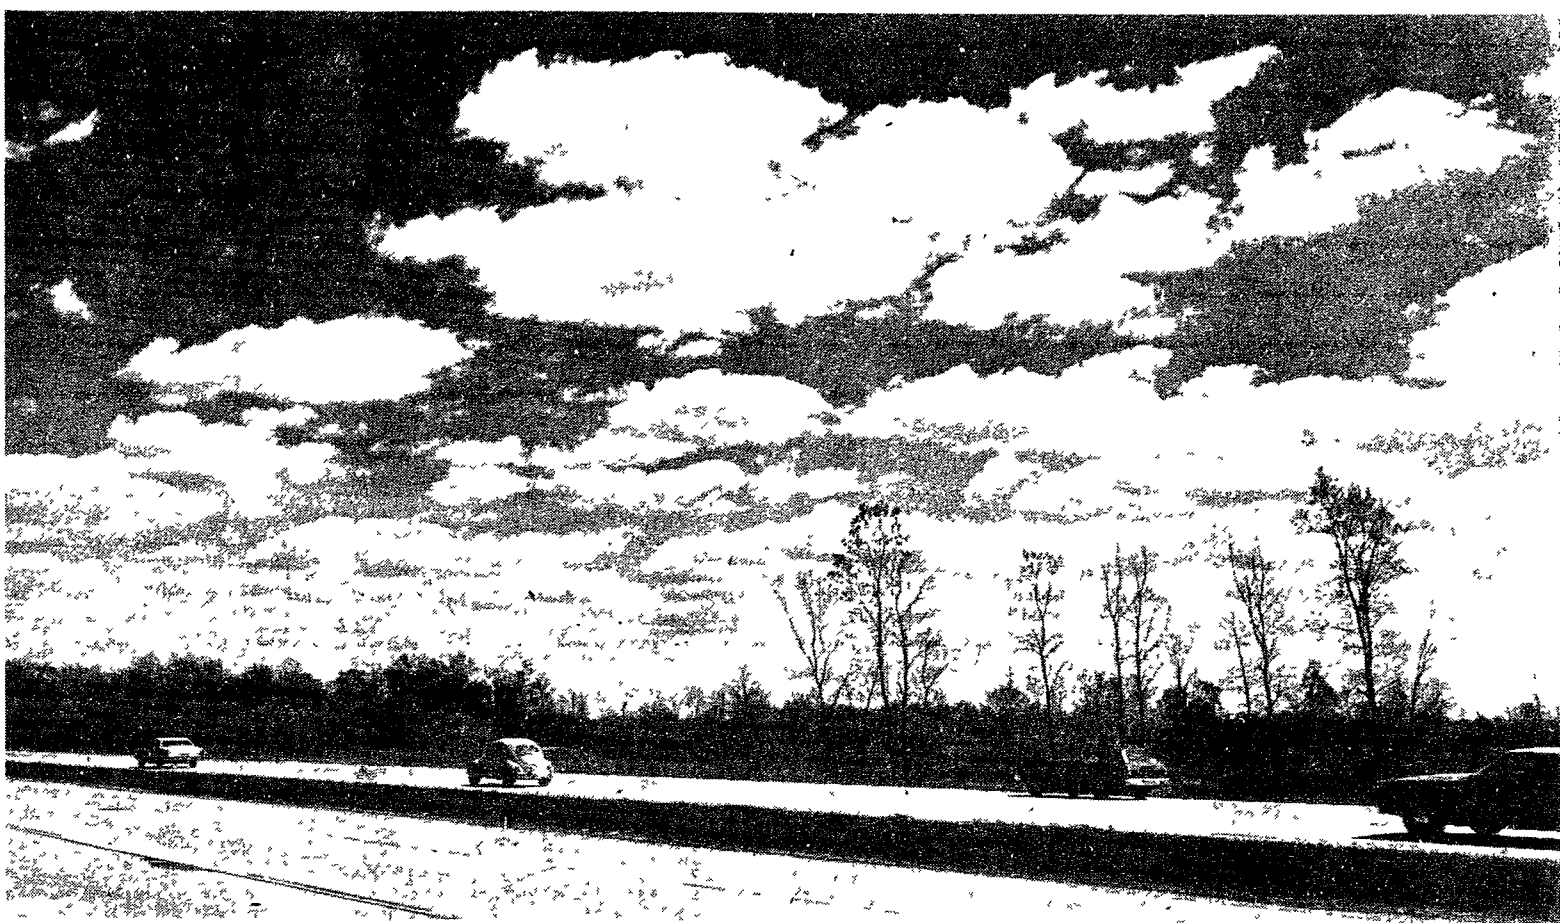

Successful forecasting by cloud formations, according to Thiel, requires taking into account the direction of the clouds and the direction of the wind.

For example, rapidly moving cold fronts usually mean showers of short duration.

ALTOCUMULUS undulatus
Rain likely within 15 to 20 hours if wind is steady NE to S. Other winds bring overcast sky. Mostly threatens precipitation.

CUMULUS congestus
If clouds form from SW to NW precipitation with gusty winds and thunderstorms or only winds are likely with 5 to 10 hours

CUMULUS humilis
Fair weather clouds if they show no vertical development. Can build up and develop into cumulus congestus or cumulonimbus clouds.

STRATOCUMULUS

approaches the wind will be from a southwesterly direction. Cold fronts move more rapidly than warm fronts (averaging 20 to 25MPH). Clouds will be moving more rapidly — beginning, perhaps, with cirrus, followed by cirrostratus and then altostratus or altocumulus. Changing cloud formations occur in only a few hours. Rain may occur 12 to 30 hours after the first cirrus clouds are spotted. Warm fronts are generally preceded by southeasterly winds. Cirrus clouds will be seen approaching from the west. They'll generally thicken, changing from cirrus to cirrostratus, then altostratus or altostratus and finally to nimbostratus or cumulonimbus.

In summer, afternoon thunder-showers may follow behind a warm front.

"There's one problem with forecasting by clouds," cautions Thiel. "It's the same problem professional forecasters have in forecasting with computers. And that's the fact nature often changes her mind."

Northville's ASHAM horse show to focus on four breeds May 27-29

Five hundred to six hundred horses will converge on Northville Downs late this month... but they won't be marking the start of another harness racing season.

They'll be in Northville to compete in the third annual ASHAM Horse Show — largest of its kind to be conducted in the nation over the Memorial Day weekend.

Only one other show — that one being in Kentucky — is likely to draw more participants.

The Northville show, co-sponsored by the Northville Kiwanis Club, will focus on four breeds of competitors — saddle horses, Arabians and half-Arabians, and Shetland ponies.

And even though ASHAM is a saddle horse association, Arabians probably will represent the largest number of entries, says David Ryan, president of ASHAM (American Saddle Horse Association of Michigan).

Horses will be trucked in from five states — Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania — and they'll be accompanied by an entourage of perhaps 2,500 owners, trainers and riders.

Thirty-percent of the entries will be from out-state, with the remaining entries coming from throughout southern Michigan — a significant number of the latter from the South Lyon-Brighton area.

The show is attracting more out-state entries this year because for the first time it has Tri-State Approval (Ohio, Illinois and Indiana).

The show kicks off at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, May 27 and concludes late Sunday afternoon on May 29.

"We're really excited about this show," says Kiwanis Club President Hugh Lockhart, "and we're proud to be a part of it. It gets bigger and better every year."

Special attraction this-year, Ryan explains, will be the exhibition "by a brand new breed of horses called Paso Fino. It's a small animal of Spanish ancestry. The exhibition will be accompanied by music."

"As has been the case in the past, the Shetland competition and the costume classes probably will be favorites of the spectators. They're always exciting and colorful."

"But every division will offer something special for the viewer — be they horse people or Joe Does who just want to see what a horse show's all about."

A $2 daily admission will be charged, or spectators may purchase a $5 weekend pass. Free parking will be provided.

Northville Downs is located on Northville's Center Street at Seven Mile Road. The show itself will be conducted near the starting line of the Downs' track.

Horses will be stabled in the Downs' barns.

Concession stands will be provided in the barns area as well as in the area of the spectators.

While competition in each breed category will vary, the basic categories will involve pleasure, harness, performance and equitation.

For the first time, a challenge trophy is to be awarded the horseman — regardless of breed — by the United Professional Horseman's Association. Judging will be handled by Donna Moore of Kentucky and Hope McQueary of Pennsylvania.

Trophies and ribbons will be presented winners, many by sponsors of competition divisions, and specially prepared flower wreaths will also be presented to championship class winners. And, of course, for horsemen and women those all-important points for year-end standing are in the offing for top entries.

Michigan Mirror

By WARREN M. HOYT

Michigan's presidential primary, which has cost the state nearly $4.5 million since 1972, is a step closer to extinction.

The state House approved ending that election with almost no debate and the Senate, which votes next on the idea, has no savours in sight.

Lawmakers have objected to the primaries, held in 1972 and 1976 in recent times, for a variety of political reasons in addition to the cost. But it's the cost — nearly $2.4 million in 1976 — that most opponents have pointed to.

It's not certain if the presidential primary actually will be repealed. Any bill to do so would need the signature of Gov. William Milliken, who's remained quiet on the question so far.

IT WAS with Milliken's push that the primary was resumed in Michigan in 1972 after a long absence.

Some lawmakers, like Representative Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor, say they'll try to win approval for legislation that would give the state a presidential primary, but on the same day as the state primary to save money.

That's when lawmakers' real motives will emerge.

GOV. WILLIAM MILLIKEN selected sites for new state prison facilities Wednesday, April 27, confronted with the spectre of both a burgeoning inmate population and local opposition to nearby prisons.

Michigan prisons now house 13,000 inmates, nearly 2,000 more than the system was built to hold. Another 1,000 prisoners probably will be put behind bars by the end of the year.

SO MILLIKEN AIDES were thinking about more than one site to expand the system's capacity. These were the four sites given the heaviest consideration:

- Kincheloe Air Force Base at Sault Ste. Marie, which could hold 400 inmates and restore some jobs to the severely depressed Upper Peninsula area. There's been little public opposition, but inmates' families would likely have to travel long distances to visit them.

- St. Augustine Seminary in Allegan County would provide 400 beds, but thousands of area residents have written to Milliken to protest the idea.

- The former Wayne County Child Development Center near Plymouth also could hold 400 prisoners. Local residents in Plymouth and Northville are upset, however, because the area already has prisons and mental hospitals.

- The J.L. Hudson Co. warehouse in downtown Detroit would take two years of work to become a prison. It was being considered as only a long-range possibility.

Each of the sites, however, needs work. Corrections officials already are looking for smaller sites that could be used for a few months to house inmates while modifications are made to other major sites.

A federal scientist has been unable to conclude that PBB is causing severe health problems among 19 farm families he interviewed. Dr. Clark Heath of the Center for Disease Control said that the families' health problems — mainly a lack of energy, strength or stamina to do once-routine farm work — are real. But they may be related to health problems that existed before PBB, Heath said.

Poet's Corner

First Flight

Today I rode man's great winged bird, roaring swiftly though the skies, Found a place where I could peek, through one of its small eyes.
The scenes that I beheld were some I never dreamed I'd see,
For now I'm in my golden years and gone past seventy-three.

Seemed scores of little cotton balls were dotted all around,
Though bits of blue were peeping through, not a sign of ground.
Then that picture merged with a mass of billowy white,
Like a tufted coverlet you'd need a zero night.
Seeing now the clouds topside was a most marvelous sight.
Now another picture came like none I'd ever seen:
The mountains were so tiny, so ribbon-like the streams,
The railroads and highways were like the earth worms' trails,
And the vehicles upon them moved much like tiny snails.

Then my eyes fell upon a piece of modern art:
Straight lines and circles, many twists and bends,

Not a sign of where they'd start, or where each one would end.
Now a mammoth puzzle lies, way down there out-stretched.
How these pieces fit together is anybody's guess —
Small ones, large ones, narrow, curved or wide;
Special plots for every need, to play, to work, or maybe just abide.
The trees appeared like chessmen when the games half-played,
Wee wood lots too were spotted about, spared from the woodman's blade.

Thought I'd always stay at home, in lavender and old lace.
Now I can feel this huge bird gliding in its descent to land,
And staring out the window, the landscapes changed again.
Skyscrapers seemed to stand to guard the city far below,
I can hardly believe I've come to the end of this great show.
Seeing all these wonders has stirred within my heart
The strains and words of that old hymn,
Oh God! "How Great Thou Art."

Fertilizing lawn's best during June

Spring of 1976 gave Michigan unseasonably warm temperatures followed by a devastating freeze. Michigan State University horticulturists can't guarantee that it won't happen again, but they're assuming it won't as they offer these tips on timely lawn and garden activities:

—Do not fertilize lawns now. Research has shown that early spring fertilizing increases some lawn disease problems. Wait until June to apply nitrogen at one-half pound per 1,000 square feet.

—Sow the seed of fast growing annuals like cosmos, marigold and calendula for transplanting outdoors

—Fertilize perennial flowers.

—Plant lily bulbs, dormant roses, trees, shrubs and fruit trees.

—Remove half the mulch from roses, strawberries, bulbs and perennials. The rest can come off in late April or early May.

—Fertilize blackberries, raspberries, currants and gooseberries. Do not fertilize strawberries now — wait until after they have flowered and borne fruit.

—Apply weed control sprays in raspberries.

—Work the garden soil as soon as it's dry enough. Add fertilizer and lime, if necessary, following the recommendations of a soil test.

—Seed tomatoes, melons and other tender garden crops indoors to transplant outdoors after the danger of frost is past.

—Prune deciduous trees and shrubs that flower after June 30. Do not prune spring flowering shrubs now — that would remove the flower buds and prevent blooming.

—Inspect trees and shrubs for scale insects and bagworms. Hand pick and destroy bagworms. Each little bag contains hundreds of eggs that will hatch around June 1. Spray trees and shrubs with scale with a dormant oil spray when temperatures are above 45 degrees F.

Cutting fuel consumption

Trees, shrubs save energy, too

Energy conservation in the home and office not only makes good sense, but it pays off in real benefits. Congress has even voted tax incentives for home-owners who add insulation to their homes to reduce fuel consumption.

The amount of money saved in home or office utility bills from turning down the thermostat, insulating more effectively and cutting down on air conditioning can make a big difference in the family or business budget over a year's period.

Proper landscaping can also have an important impact on utility bills when you tally up all the things trees, shrubs, evergreens, and other green plants do to regulate the climate in and around your home. And the little side benefits they provide also help save money as well as increase property values.

A few shade trees, for example, properly located along the southern or western sides of your home, help reduce air conditioning needs by blocking out the hot summer sun's rays and adding cool moisture to the air.

According to the American Association of Nurserymen, as much as eight degrees reduction in temperature has been recorded between shaded and unshaded areas in tests. Even three or five degrees difference in the inside heat of a house in summer can affect how much the air conditioner will have to operate to maintain a comfortable temperature. And because trees and other living plants help reduce noise, purify the air and produce oxygen, the windows of your home can be left open on many summer days, further eliminating the need for costly air conditioning.

A few well-placed trees in the back yard are not only pleasing to the eye and fun places for kids to play, but a clothesline strung between them offers the benefit of fresh-air drying of clothes and helps cut down on the use of hot laundry dryers that use precious electricity or gas.

Anyone who has ever noticed the coolness of the inside of walls covered with ivy on a hot summer day knows how much a proper planting on masonry or brick walls, or on trellises if your walls are wooden, can help cool the interior.

A whole variety of attractive ivies is available, like the popular English ivy, and can be planted and maintained easily. When planted on the sun-bearing sides of a building vines are effective shields from sweltering summer sun. They give off cooling moisture and set up a convection current that circulates warm air away from the wall.

When planted on the northern or eastern sides of a house, they act as effective insulators from chilling winter winds, thus keeping heat loss at a minimum. Vines also serve as a sound abater as well as an air purifier, and that helps make the home more comfortable in other ways.

When the winter winds start to beat down from the north and east, a good windbreak of hedges or evergreens can reduce

Geranium giant

When fall arrived last year, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Libby of 18564 Jamestown Circle saved a geranium from the frost by moving it indoors. With some tender care the plant has grown into a flowering giant that has become a conversation piece in their Northville home. Life of geraniums, as well as other flowers that homeowners will grow this season, may be extended by moving them indoors during winter. One such flower is the weather-vulnerable impatiens. Not only will they last through the winter, their numbers can be increased by simply pinching off stems and starting new plants.

NORTHVILLE RECORD—NOVI NEWS—SOUTH LYON HERALD—BRIGHTON ARGUS

Garden flowers vary all over the lot in their ability to bloom despite prolonged hot weather. Much depends on:

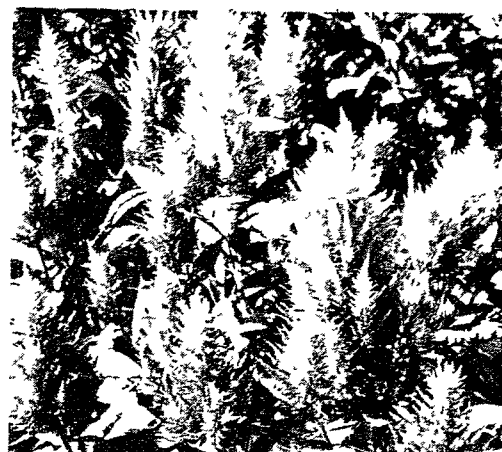

Age and maturity of plants—if they are mature, flowering heavily, and setting seeds when hot weather sets in, plants may cease flowering or perish under the stress of seed formation.

Size and inherent vigor of plants—small or delicate plants lack the food reserve and extensive root system needed to sustain them through energy-sapping weather.

Resistance to foliage and root diseases—mildew and certain blossom blights can damage leaves and flowers during humid weather. Root diseases can be minimized by not growing the same kinds in beds in successive years.

Relative humidity of the air—however intolerable muggy weather may seem to humans, humidity acts as a brake on air temperature which might otherwise soar beyond the 100 degree F. mark.

Soil Temperature—insulating mulches, the cooling effect of surface evaporation, and afternoon shade can add weeks to the life of flowers in extremely warm climates.

All-American Celosia 'Red Fox'

How does a parrot stay on his perch? "Polly Grip"

"You wouldn't believe it," cried Sam to the Policeman, "I was robbed by an elephant!"

"By what?" asked the Policeman. "An elephant!" said Sam. "A big truck pulled up in front of the store, an elephant got out — broke the window and took all the jewelry and left."

"An elephant from India has short ears and an African elephant has long ears — what kind was it?" asked the Policeman

"How the heck do I know?" screamed Sam. "He had a stocking over his head!"

Trees and shrubs save energy, too

the impact of the cold wind on your home.

Hedges, for example, not only serve as good sound barriers and privacy screens, but are also effective in reducing the damaging effects of all types of winds, especially in the winter when arctic winds in certain parts of the country are fierce and drive up heating bills.

Planted materials are much more effective windbreaks than fences or masonry walls because they are flexible and break up the wind, reduce its velocity, and take out some of the chill. A solid barrier, on the other hand, tends to force the wind up and over to create a new current, rather than "spoiling" wind currents by letting some of the force pass through.

A good hedge, ivy, trees, bushes and other plantings to separate your house from an adjacent road, open field or play area also help keep your house cleaner all year 'round. Proper landscaping reduces outside maintenance as well as inside cleaning since the plantings will catch dust and soot particles in their foliage and branches and hold them until a rain comes along and washes them to the ground.

Inside the home, too, plants can add not only a pleasant dimension to decorating, but help produce oxygen to keep air fresh and clean. In the dry winter months, a proper selection of house plants, with attractive foliage, can add moisture to the air which helps keep the home warmer, preserves furnishings and reduces static electricity. Even pets are more comfortable when nature's green, growing gifts are part of your interior decor.

The little things plants do for us to help save energy here and there add up over the period of a year or a few years, and that's what energy conservation is all about.

are somewhat less durable, the second in late summer.

Flowers classed as Heat Resistant, when spring planted, will bloom all summer long across the middle Atlantic states, the mid-south, lower midwest, central Great Plains, and moderately warm intermountain areas.

In cooler parts of the USA and Canada, virtually all flowers will survive most summers. Even the flowers with a strong preference for cool weather — pansies for example — can be trimmed back in late summer and revived with plant food and water.

Proper watering can do much to maintain summer flower color. Once or twice weekly during dry periods, water by flowing a hose gently between rows or build basins to impound water. One inch of water will moisten the soil to a depth of about five inches. Let the water run long enough to wet the soil to a depth of 12 to 18 inches, roughly three inches of ponded water.

Local artists create originals for show

By JEANDAY

By definition, artists are those special people who create beautiful things, especially paintings and sculpture, for the rest of us to enjoy.

Results of the artistic activity of several area artists are to be on view at a two-day show of Three Cities Art Club this Friday and Saturday at the Plymouth Credit Union. Everyone interested is invited to see the juried show without charge from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

Club President Cuyler McCutchan and his wife, Northville residents of 19763 Hayes Court in Highland Lakes, both are painters and will have works in the show.

Dorothea Shafer, a long-time Northville resident of Sheldon Road, who says she has painted "on and off" for several years, has been spending more time at her easel and expects to have floral watercolors on exhibit.

Joseph Michrina of 18451 Jamestown Circle in Northville Township is known for his paintings of scenery. Painters Elv Chaffee and Jean DeWaard of Novi also are active Three Cities members. Another is Marie Bonamici, owner of the Sunflower Shop in Northville, whose specialty is crafts.

Mrs. Shafer works in three mediums, oil, watercolor and acrylics, but says she especially likes watercolor which lends itself to florals.

"But," she says, "I do a bit of everything." When The Record photographer visited, she had a portrait of her son, Bob, with his string bass, on the easel.

Mrs. Shafer mentions that her art has been a "good therapy" since her husband's death. She had studied art but given it up as there was no time when her children were young. Recently she resumed studies at Madonna College and is working with Northville artist Carolyn Dunphy.

Lorraine McCutchan, whose friends and fellow artists know her as Fifi, only started painting a year and a half ago. "I'm a goer," she explains, "so when I broke my toe, I had to find something to keep me busy."

She especially likes working in acrylics and mentions that she recently painted a barn scene for her daughter. A painting of a butterfly lighting on a thistle won a ribbon at Northville Fair last year. Mrs. McCutchan also is serving as Three Cities secretary.

Her husband is a watercolorist and has his work featured in a display in the window of the Plymouth Detroit Edison office this month. He particularly focuses on outdoor scenes.

Adding interest to this weekend's show will be prizes from Nelson's Art Supply on Five Mile.

Final arrangements are being made at the club's May meeting at 8 p.m. today (Wednesday) at Plymouth Credit Union. A demonstration of sculpture will be given by Betty Steinmiller. She will work with different kinds of clay in various stages. Theme for the month, the club reports, is flowers.

Visitors are welcome at the meeting also.

Fellowship plans breakfast

A May family-style breakfast to which husbands are especially invited is planned by the Women's Aglow Fellowship for 9 a.m. Saturday, May 21, at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

The Reverend Earl Sharp, pastor of the First American Baptist Church in Flat Rock, will be guest speaker. He spent two weeks in March of this year in Haiti visiting an American Baptist Mission and leading a four-day seminar for 265 Haitian pastors. His message is to hold special interest for men.

Also ministering at the May meeting is a well-known singing group, "Blessed Hope."

Because of very large turnouts in past months, with 150 attending in April, early reservations are asked. Breakfast is $4 with reservations to be made with Sybil Beetler, 349-0006, or Ellen Louis, 453-3038.

Aglow is a growing international fellowship of Christian Women, representing all denominations, who believe in the Full Gospel of Jesus Christ, including Jesus as Baptizer in the Holy Spirit and as Healer.

Their creed and name are taken from Romans 12:11 (Amplified), "Be Aglow and burning with the Spirit."

Mary Ann Zotto Beltz prepares rug fibers

Handweavers schedule demonstration program

A slide program on rug-making techniques is planned for the May meeting of the Northville Handweavers Guild at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Mill Race Village library.

Mary Ann Zotto Beltz will speak and show the slides.

She is a full-time working crafts-person who both lives and works in the Northville area on Nine Mile Road. She has been involved with fiber tapestry, mixed media-relief, finer and-clay for the past 18 years.

An accomplished weaver, she has been teaching at Oakland Community College and at Schoolcraft College in addition to working in her Nine Mile studio and displaying her work at various shows and galleries.

Both men and women interested in the art of weaving are invited to join the Handweavers at the May 17 meeting.

New officers for the 1977-78 year were installed by the Northville Handweavers Guild at the April meeting.

Martha Dollens of Plymouth is the new president with Jane Brown of Northville vice president.

Others are Eileen Cook of Plymouth, treasurer, Dianne Little of Livonia, recording secretary, and Julie Stowe of Walled Lake, corresponding secretary.

After the installation, officers appointed new committee heads and presented the proposed agenda of programs and workshops for the new year.

Ms. Little then gave a talk on the many beautiful antique coverlets she had brought to the meeting. She reported on different styles and characteristics, fiber content, methods of weaving and color compositions which go into the weaving of coverlets which become treasured possessions.

Sarah Clark speaks vows with Royal Oak man

Sarah Jean Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Clark, former Northville residents now living in Livonia, became the bride of Daniel L. Zuhlke in a 1:30 p.m. ceremony April 30 at Ward United Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Bartlett Hess officiated at the double ring rites.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Zuhlke of Royal Oak.

As she was given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a cream gown of sheer organza with Chantilly lace accents. A lace headband held her full-length veil of illusion. She carried a white bouquet interspersed with pastel flowers in colors of the bridal attendants' gowns.

Honor maid Terri Moffit wore pink and carried a matching bouquet. Bridesmaids Sheree Scott, Sue Clark and Mrs. Jayne Zuhlke wore pale yellow, blue and green gowns respectively.

Dave Tangen was best man. Ushers were Dwayne and Dave Zuhlke, and Wiley Fan.

After a wedding trip to Miami Beach, the couple will live in Troy.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Northville High School and attended

Michigan State University. Her husband is a graduate of MSU and is personnel manager of Parker Hannifin Company.

Mill Race hums with craft activity

By JEAN DAY

Next Wednesday, during Michigan Week, for the first time four buildings in the Mill Race Historical Village will be open with displays and demonstrations for visitors. The craft day is being arranged by Marilyn Kastner, assisted by Sharon DeAlexandris. Anyone in the community is invited to drop by and classes of local school children are scheduled to watch quilting, doll making, rug hooking and other demonstrations. Last fall, at a similar program, 370 children visited.

"It's not just a walk through," emphasizes Mrs. Kastner, "the crafts people will be giving talks on their skills." In addition to having the old library, Hunter and Yerkes houses open, there will be opportunity to view the inside of the Gothic cottage donated by Paul Folino to be used as a crafts studio.

Craftsmen who will be demonstrating their skills between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. are Jo Krause and Lois Winter, quilting; Carol Noffz, old-fashioned doll making; Joyce Pew of Milford, weaving; Helen Maki, basket making; Terese Whitten of Studio Ellice in Plymouth, rug hooking; Charles Wheatley, candle-making. Three Northville High students who will take turns demonstrating pottery making are Andrea Conder, Michelle Anusbigian and Lisa Bilinsky. In addition there will be a display of yesteryear clothing in the Hunter House and Mill Race docents will be on hand to give background on the buildings.

At their May 1 meeting in the Mill Race the docents made plans to help welcome visiting Michigan Week dignitaries Monday by serving coffee at ceremonies there. As Sue Holstein, who last year founded the docent group, turned chairmanship over to Claudia Berry, she commented, "This is what we intended it to be — a living park." She announced plans for the July 4 celebration, which will include an ice cream social by the Junior Docents.

Council honors Heidi Crissey

Northville City Council at its May 2 meeting paid unusual tribute to an active, lifelong resident. Because Heidi Crissey's husband, Fred, is being transferred to the main office of Burlington Northern Railroad in St. Paul, Minnesota, they are moving from the community.

The resolution stated that Mrs. Crissey "has given generously of her time and talents in support of projects and organizations dedicated to the betterment of the community" and resolved that the city "extends its sincere appreciation to Heidi Crissey for all of the time and effort she has expended." She has served as council League of Women Voters observer and as chairperson of absentee ballots, City Clerk Joan McAllister points out, noting that Mrs. Crissey has taken a great personal interest in Northville.

This week Heidi Crissey has been in Minnesota house-hunting. As a faithful LWV member, she contacted the Minnesota state league to see in what communities there are chapters.

It's Nurse Karen Tafel

Karen Tafel of 19810 Irongate Court in Highland Lakes is a determined young woman who received her associate degree in nursing in ceremonies at Schoolcraft College May 1. Her husband, Ralph, proudly notes that she is the only Northville resident among the 68 receiving the registered nurse degree.

This is Karen's second associate degree from the college. While waiting to be admitted to the nursing program, she earned a general studies degree in 1974. The former Karen Stuyvenberg, she's a long-time Northville resident and the mother of one son, Scott. She will be taking her state board examination for registration in June and plans to continue specialized nursing studies in pediatrics later at University of Michigan. She already has been hired by Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

Mary Alexander returns

Mary Alexander, who was Northville Village clerk and then first clerk of the City of Northville, now is a resident of Wishing Well Manor at 520 West Main. She had been living with her daughter in Boyne City. Mary Alexander Court was named in her honor when she retired as city clerk.

She's administrative assistant

Meet Senator Geake's 'right hand' in Lansing

She's a problem solver. She's a good listener. And she knows the 14th Senatorial District like the back of her hand.

"She" is Mrs. Reva Miller, now administrative assistant to State Senator Robert Geake. Mrs. Miller is Senator Geake's right hand when it comes to his constituents, their needs and their problems.

And she has served the people of the Northville, Redford, Livonia and Plymouth areas for the past six years. Mrs. Miller had been secretary to former Senator Carl Pursell, who was recently elected to Congress. She has now been promoted to administrative assistant by Senator Geake because of her great wealth of knowledge about the district and its people.

"I am really excited about my new responsibilities in the area of constituent and community involvement," Mrs. Miller relates. "Our office can do much to help people with their problems, especially when the problem involves state government directly. I have a great opportunity to meet and talk with people from all walks of life and it makes my job interesting and rewarding."

Some of her new duties will include meeting with residents of the 14th District in the Senator's absence. She will also be responsible for management of the Senator's Lansing office and most importantly, she will be responsible for constituent correspondence and problem solving and question answering.

Mrs. Miller says that constituent problems, such as taxes, social services, veterans affairs and personal problems with state government will be of high priority to their office during Senator Geake's tenure in the Legislature.

"Right now, possible location of a prison in Northville is taking up a great deal of our time. We understand the area's reluctance to accept another state institution within such a relatively small area and our office is doing everything possible to lobby against this proposed site," Mrs. Miller said.

"When working for Senator Pursell, education was probably one of the most important areas to us because of the Senator's involvement with education.

Senator Geake, however, is very interested in public and mental health as well as education, thus opening up an entirely new area of emphasis for me. I am finding it to be very interesting and well worth the extra time I've had to put in to familiarize myself with the problems and solutions that are unique to this field."

Reva, as she is known around the Capitol, has worked for the State Senate for 20 years. She relates that when she first started working for the Senate, each secretary was assigned to cover at least three senators. And there were no private offices. There was a secretarial pool which often times got very difficult to work around.

But as those conditions have changed, so has the Legislature. Up until about 1962, the Legislature was in session only five or six months out of the year, from January to June.

"The part-time Legislature made it very nice for me," says Mrs. Miller. "I was able to be home during the summers with my four children and I still had a career of my own which I have thoroughly enjoyed over the years."

Mrs. Miller, who came to Lansing from Mt. Pleasant in her teens, now lives with her husband, John, a production engineer for Oldsmobile, in Lansing.

Cast members hold signs "The New Covenant," a contemporary folk musical to be presented at Northville United Methodist Church Sunday

BOB MORLEY

Bob Morley, an ordained United Methodist minister whose musical ministry has made him a popular performer, is returning by popular demand to entertain at the banquet which will end the year for the First United Methodist Youth Club of Northville at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 17. Planners hope to have about 200 at the banquet program at the church for the 85 members of the youth club and their parents.

The program will follow the dinner and is to begin at 7:30 p.m. It is open to anyone in the church or community. Morley sings and plays the music of today, music that reflects life, he says, "with beat and feeling." Through this medium he deals with the complexity of life and the relevance of faith in a way that is both optimistic and challenging. He combines his musical talent and experience with down to earth theology to present the Gospel in a new way.

He was appointed by his bishop as Southern California-Arizona conference evangelist. After graduating from Pasadena College, he went on to United Theological Seminary where he became interested in contemporary music as a relevant form of expression.

With two other ministerial students he formed a singing group that performed across the country.

The Reverend Morley served a year in the local parish ministry in California and then went back to Ohio to form The Light Company under sponsorship of the General Board of Evangelism.

After two years of traveling, he returned to Southern California to continue his musical ministry as a solo.

His audiences are moved to laugh and, sometimes, to cry but always to rethink their own commitment to God and to one another.

His emphasis is on the message of love and the good things of life. There is plenty of good humor designed to appeal to all ages.

CHARLES J. MANNILA

She'll talk on women in ministry

A member of the faculty at St. John's Provincial Seminary will be part of the faculty team for an institute slated to explore the subject of "Women and Ministry" next month in California.

Sr. Mary Ellen Sheehan, IHM, associate professor of systematic theology at St. John's and a member of the board of trustees of Marygrove College in Detroit, will join with three others in exploring the present situation of women in church ministry.

The institute will also study some biblical and historical perspectives on the subject.

The conference will be held June 13-22 in San Diego and July 5-15 at Marygrove College in Detroit.

St. John's is located on Five Mile Road, just east of Sheldon Road.

DON'T WASTE YOUR TIME

There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death. Proverbs 14:12

If by living a good life, reading a Bible, belonging to any church, helping others or other such activities, you think you can please God and get a place in heaven for you, then you are wasting your time! Jesus said, 'I am the way, the truth and the life, no man cometh unto the Father but by Me'—John 14:6

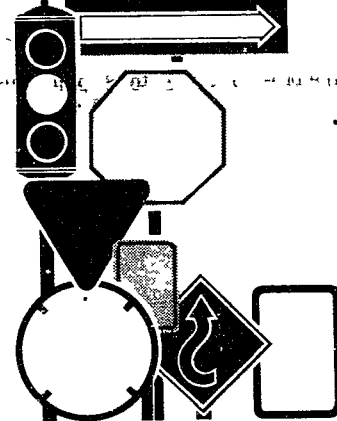

Ask Him to forgive your sins and be your saviour right now!

Blood pressure tests offered free in Novi

Free blood pressure tests will be offered in Novi, Walled Lake and Southfield by Providence Hospital as a special service project during National Hospital Week. A large motor home, made available to the hospital at no cost, is being utilized to make the tests easily accessible to area residents.

Tests will be given from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the following locations:

Wednesday, May 11, Maple Plaza, Walled Lake;

Thursday, May 12, Southfield Plaza on Southfield;

Friday, May 13, West 10 Plaza, Novi.

The blood pressure testing is being offered in light of estimates that hypertension affects one every seven Americans. Hypertension (high blood pressure) is called the "silent killer" because it generally produces no symptoms. Left untreated, it can lead to stroke, heart failure of kidney disease. Successful treatment begins with detecting the condition.

Theme for the 1977 observance of National Hospital Week, sponsored by the American Hospital Association, is "We Put the Care in Health Care."

Celebrate week with 'state' meal

By now, you've no doubt seen the happy little robin wearing the Indian headdress telling everyone to "Enjoy Michigan Hospitality." That's the theme of this year's Michigan Week, to be observed May 14-21, Michigan Department of Agriculture points out.

Michigan Week offers a brief opportunity to "think Michigan," to show the world we're proud to live here, and to tell the world we care.

It would be an excellent time to involve the family, especially the children, in creating a day's, or a week's, menus from only Michigan agricultural products. It certainly won't be difficult because almost 50 commercial food crops are grown in our state. As an added learning experience, have the youngsters try to identify where in Michigan the food came from and why. For example, cherries come from the western side of Michigan and they grow best there because of the affect Lake Michigan has on the weather. The lake cools the region in the summer and warms it in the winter.

Soils in the Thumb area are ideal for sugar beets, beans, wheat, and forage for dairy cows. Again, it is the soil — rich and black — that makes Central Michigan an excellent place to grow onions, celery and lettuce. You might just call it Michigan's "Salad Bowl."

College to host advising laymen

Schoolcraft College has invited the 250 persons who serve on its Applied Science advisory committees to a dinner in their honor at the Waterman Campus Center at 7:15 p.m. on May 12.

It will be the fourth annual appreciation dinner for the men and women who advise the 43 applied science or career education programs Schoolcraft offers.

Lowell A. Burkett, executive director of the American Vocational Association (AVA), will be the evening's keynote speaker. He will discuss the interrelation of the academic community with the world of work and the impact of federal legislation on the education, business and industry relationship.

As executive director Burkett is responsible for influencing the federal legislature and promoting vocational education at the national level. He directs the business affairs of the AVA which is comprised of teachers, coordinators, supervisors and administrators of vocational education throughout the United States.

Holder of bachelor and master's degrees from the University of Illinois, Burkett assumed his present post in January, 1966. Prior to his coming to the AVA he taught at the K-12 and college levels and served at the state level as supervisor of trade and industrial education on the Illinois State Board for vocational education.

Schoolcraft President C. Nelson Grote and Applied Sciences Dean Thad E. Diebel will host guests at a 6:15 p.m. reception.

Chairperson Paul Y. Kadish will present greetings from the board of trustees, and the Schoolcraft College String Quartet will entertain the gathering.

State Police post makes promotions

Promotion of two Michigan State Police officers and transfers affecting the Northville State Police complex were recently announced by department director

Colonel Gerald L. Hough. Promoted to the rank of detective sergeant with the Northville scientific laboratory is Osler Rowe. Rowe, currently stationed in Northville, has also served in Cheboygan and East Lansing.

Joining the fire marshal division, second district, is Thomas Majeske. Majeske, formerly with the Bad Axe post was promoted to the rank of detective sergeant at the time of his transfer.

From the Northville district to the division fire marshal's office at East Lansing headquarters is Ronald Kenyon. Past assignments include East Lansing, Rockford and Detroit.
