

Graduation gift

The Northville class of 1979 gave the class of 1977 a graduation gift last week. First, the sophomores gave the water tower that overlooks the high school a needed paint job (which, unfortunately, was marred with graffiti by the next morning). Then, they draped a large banner (above right) from the tower which was plainly visible as seniors went through commencement exercises Thursday night. President of the sophomore class is Greg Bach.

NEWS BRIEFS

ALTHOUGH the deadline's still a long way off, petitions for city council office are now available, according to Clerk Joan McAllister. Petitions must be filed no earlier than September 1 for the November election. They must contain no fewer than 50 signatures and no more than 75. Seats up for election this year include that of Mayor A. M. Allen (two year term), Councilman Paul Folino and Councilman Wallace Nichols (four year terms).

THREE members of the appeals board in the City of Northville have been reappointed by the council for three-year terms. They are: Mary Conley, 302 Orchard; John Hinman, 916 Novi Street; and John Sanders, 330 Eaton Drive.

THE RAINED-OUT ball game scheduled for last Sunday involving youngsters from Northville Residential Training Center and Northville Rotarians will be played Sunday, July 10 at 2 p.m. at Thomson Field, Six Mile near Beck.

IT'S STILL more than a month away, but registrations are already coming in for Northville's highly popular annual sidewalk sales day. The sale, which takes place on downtown Northville streets which are blocked off to traffic during the day. Persons or organizations wishing to reserve sale space on the street are asked to call Lapham's Men's Shop, 349-5175.

Charles Peltz, Douglas Whitaker and James Lewis won easy election to the Northville Board of Education Monday as 19 percent of the 11,149 registered voters went to the polls in the annual school election.

The turnout approximated the 17 to 19 percent figures of the past two years.

Two of the newly-elected members, Peltz and Whitaker, are newcomers to the board. Whitaker was appointed to the board three months ago to fill the seat of former trustee Dr. Robert Mandell.

Peltz won a four-year term, Whitaker a two-year term, and Lewis a one-year term.

The three officially take office July 1 — the start of the district's fiscal year. Stepping down from the board at that time will be Roger Nieuwkoop and Martin Rinehart.

Election of the new members means a majority of the seven-member board will have one-year or less experience. They'll be joining Marjorie Sliger and Christopher Johnson, who were elected last year, and veteran members Board President John Hobart and Karen Wilkinson.

The election also means Superintendent Raymond Spear's job may be on the line, and it could result in a board split over the proposed millage increase. Two of the three newly-elected members — Peltz and Lewis — have indicated the increase proposal at this time is a futile idea.

Election on the millage increase — the amount not yet determined — is scheduled for July 30.

Of the new members, Lewis has been most critical of the board and especially of the superintendent. Both he and Peltz have stated they will ask for Spear's removal.

Although Whitaker and Peltz polled more votes than did Lewis, neither faced the number of opponents as did Lewis.

In his race, Lewis easily outdistanced his three opponents, garnering 973 votes. He was followed by William Downs with 462, Stephanie Ruiter with 325, and Sharalene Thompson with 273.

Whitaker grabbed 1,593 votes to win handily over his lone opponent, Phyllis Lemon, who picked up 427 votes. And Peltz polled 1,517 votes to Richard Herbel's 566 votes.

Lewis, who previously ran unsuccessfully for the board, served as acting director of S.P.I.D.E.R., an organization of school district residents who found fault with a number of different actions or inactions of the school board.

An executive with Stockwell-Marcuse Advertising in Birmingham, he is married and lives with his wife and their seven children at 836 Yorktown Court.

Whitaker, deputy director of the Wayne County Library System, was appointed to the board following a series of interviews of potential candidates for the board seat of Dr. Mandell. He is married and lives with his wife and their three children at 1068 Grace Court.

The other appointee to the board, made within a month period, was 'Lacked authority'

Principal claims his removal is unjustified

Michael Tarpinian told a sympathetic audience Monday night that he lost his job as Northville High School principal because he was not given the authority to carry out his job.

"There's nothing more frustrating than to be assigned the responsibility for a task and then be denied the authority for that task," he told more than 200 people who gathered for a public hearing in his behalf at the First Presbyterian Church in Northville.

The hearing was sponsored by the Northville Association of School Administrators who object to the methods used to reassign Tarpinian to the classroom for the last year of his two-year contract.

Tarpinian, who is finishing his third year as Northville High School principal, said he was never formally evaluated until last March. Two months later, Superintendent Raymond Spear told him he was being reassigned.

Spear, who did not attend the public hearing, said after a board meeting last Monday night that he had informed Tarpinian of his problems at the high school last summer.

Documentation of those discussions are in "black and white," he said.

Tonight (Wednesday), the school board will hold a closed hearing to allow Tarpinian to appeal his reassignment.

Previously, Spear had denied such a hearing, saying that school board policy and administrative contracts gave the superintendent the right to assign and reassign administrators.

Spear, however, apparently overlooked a 1963 policy that says school employees have the right to appeal decisions to the next highest authority all the way up to the school board.

When this policy was noted by board Vice President Roger Nieuwkoop the school board — with Spear's endorsement — set up tonight's private hearing.

Amerman Principal William Craft stated at Monday night's public meeting that it was the initial denial of a hearing by Spear that prompted the open forum. He termed it "distasteful" but necessary to talk about the

Tax hike vote set July 30

Northville school district voters will be asked to approve a tax hike on July 30.

The amount of the millage request won't be determined until June 27, but board members agreed last Wednesday that some increase is necessary to provide the programs that the community desires.

Board members are also aware that there is a large anti-millage sentiment, but they felt the choice had to be offered.

"It is imperative that people in the district take a look at the line item budget and study it," said trustee Marjorie Sliger. "I think that they will understand the need for funds."

The vote for the millage try passed 6-0 with one member, Martin Rinehart, absent.

School officials say the tax increase is needed because it will take about $7.2

Voters reject Schoolcraft tax increase

For the second time in as many years, Northville backed Schoolcraft's millage proposition only to have the other school districts turn it down.

At the same time, voters returned Rosina Raymond to the college board of trustees while electing two newcomers — Harry G. Greenleaf and Leonard E. Wozniak.

All three are Livonia residents. The 0.8 tax hike proposal (80 cents per $1,000 of state equalized valuation) went down to a 7,659 to 6,156 defeat district wide.

Schoolcraft College district is made up of the K-12 districts of Northville, Plymouth, Livonia, Garden City and Clarenceville.

Northville voters endorsed the tax hike by a narrow 1058-977 vote.

Elsewhere, the proposal was defeated in Livonia, 3,037-3,479; in Plymouth, 1,142-1,616; in Garden City, 750-1,399; and in Clarenceville, 169-188.

Mrs. Raymond led the ticket by garnering 5,578, followed by Greenleaf with 4,417, Wozniak with 4,540, Jack Bologna with 4,318, Laura Toy with 4,065, Richard Hayward with 2,946, Karl Sjogren with 2,928, Michale M. Cicchella with 1,577, and George Gravella with 935.

Mrs. Raymond was the only incumbent seeking re-election. The other two seats filled are those of Leroy Bennett (who announced his resignation this week) and Arch Vallier, who is retiring. Both are residents of Plymouth.

In Northville, Greenleaf polled the most votes, 859, followed by Raymond with 734, Bologna with 678, Wozniak with 532, Hayward with 457, Toy with 400, Sjogren with 334, Cicchella with 176, and Gravella with 136.

Last year a slightly smaller tax hike proposal was defeated 11,002 to 16,443. Only Northville and Clarenceville

Graduation night

Graduation ceremonies for 384 Northville seniors went off without a hitch Thursday night. Even though the weather was threatening early in the day, the seniors said they wanted to chance the outside exercises and the gamble paid off with fine dividends. The sun was shining brightly as the graduates-to-be marched in under the direction of senior adviser Douglas Dent, and sat patiently listening to commencement speakers (above). Included among the orators were Valedictorian Elizabeth Harrison (above, far right) and Salutatorian Mary Wertheimer. Also speaking were high school Principal Michael Tarpinian and Superintendent Raymond Spear. With diplomas firmly in hand, it was time for good eats (right) at the all-night, seniors-only party at the high school which featured a "Showboat" theme. Parents sponsor the annual party which came under study this year by the school board because of damage caused by vandals and party-crashers at previous parties. The board, however, ruled that the party was too valuable to cancel and suggested stronger supervision. It was also a memorable night for Principal Tarpinian who was told two months ago that he was being reassigned to the classroom. Tarpinian received a warm ovation that, he said, proved to him that he was doing something right "if not as an administrator, then as a person."

Consider economic development corporation

Township hearing set June 23

A public hearing to consider an application to incorporate an economic development corporation for Northville Township and to invite any competing applications has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, June 23, at the township offices.

Action was taken at a special meeting of the board May 31 after the township had received application from William Miron, Ross Northrop and John Dugan. Through such a corporation, it may be possible for the township to buy the 728 acres of the Wayne County Child Development Center and eliminate the threat of a state prison there.

At the special session the board also heard a proposal by Joseph Fiorelli that a bond issue be floated to purchase the property at a cost estimated at upwards of $9 million and then work out details of selling it to an established EDC.

Any action on the second proposal was tabled until the regular June meeting, which has been postponed a week because of high school graduation to Tuesday, June 14.

Supervisor Wilson Grier, who has been conferring with proponents of both proposals, said he is "hopeful the two positions could marry" and stated he did not feel either is impossible.

As required by law, the township officially is advertising that it is considering the application to form the economic development corporation under Act 338, public acts of Michigan, 1974. It also is required to invite any competing applications.

The township would be able to condemn and collect parcels of land under the eminent domain proceedings.

It was pointed out that the township is not liable for and cannot make guarantees on securities.

Only one economic development corporation may be formed in a township.

If Wayne County decides to sell the development center on the open market to the highest bidder, the township would be in a good position, Grier told the board, as he understands the state cannot pay more than assessed valuation. This is pegged at the $9 million.

The township then could lease back most of the buildings of the center on the east side of Sheldon for development of a proposed college campus consortium sought earlier by Wayne State University and Schoolcraft College.

Tracts of land from the piece west of Sheldon could be sold to private developers to recoup the investment.

Fiorelli proposed that the people of the community could vote to purchase the center, stating, "If we as people want not to have a prison, let's see if people are willing to spend money."

Grier said he was notified by Royce Smith of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners that the township has until July 19 to follow up the letter of intent to purchase and to make an offer.

June 'Kiddie Kamp' starts

A Kiddie Kamp and preschool summer camp will be held by the Farmington YMCA at Novi Methodist Church starting June 20.

Both programs, designed to provide away-from-home experiences for young children, will be duplicated at the Farmington City Park.

Program plus leadership equals positive experience is the Farmington YMCA's formula for summer fun applied to the camps. They center around crafts, games, singing, stories, creative expression and fun.

Kiddie Kamp, for children ages 5-6, will be conducted at Novi Methodist Church from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with milk provided to supplement their packed lunches. Eight one-week periods are offered for registration at $15 for members and $21 for non-members.

Barbara Dimanno of Livonia, a nursery school teacher and graduate of Madonna College, and Carol Robie of West Bloomfield, a teacher at St. Benedict Elementary with a master's degree, will be leaders.

The preschool camp for co-ed youth from 3-4 years old will be held from 9:30 a.m. to noon. The Y will sponsor a variety of two-day, three-day, or five-day sessions. Reservations may be made on a first-come basis with the Farmington YMCA at 553-4020.

I-96 renovation delayed

Temporary bridge opens

According to state highway officials, the temporary bridge over I-96 on Novi Road should be in operation by today (Wednesday).

But that does not mean that work will begin on the revamped interchange. In fact, work probably will not begin until February of next year.

The temporary bridge was constructed last year at a cost of $647,000 but was not put into use as the highway department sought right-of-way, a factor which has proved to be a major headache to the $9 million project.

According to Frank Simmons, administrative aid for the Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation, the temporary bridge is being put into use at this time at the request of the Twelve Oaks Mall, which is located just north of the interchange. The mall will be opening in August (see related story).

"We won't be totally closing the old bridge," said Simmons.

Instead, two northbound lanes will be left open. However, on the temporary structure only the two lanes closest to the old bridge will be open and used as southbound lanes.

"Then we can use one additional lane of the old bridge for left turns (from northbound Novi Road) onto westbound I-96," said Simmons. This would mean that one lane on the old bridge would remain closed, as well as two lanes of the temporary structure.

This will increase the northbound capacity of Novi Road as two lanes will be open to through traffic where currently one lane is often times blocked because of left turn traffic.

According to Simmons, the highway department will be finishing its acquisition of right-of-way by February at which point the contract for construction of the new bridge will be let. That bridge will cost an estimated $2.3 million and will be a seven lane structure. To comply with current interstate standards, the bridge is to be raised approximately three feet.

Simmons said that the highway department is in the process of demolition with some property owners. He said that problems with getting the property right-of-way has delayed the project six months.

He estimated that the entire project should be completed by the summer of 1979. It includes free flow entrance onto both directions of I-96.

Diploma time

One hundred and ninety five Novi High School students anxiously await the opportunity to walk up to the podium to receive the high school diplomas they worked so many years for. Hundreds of friends and relatives viewed the commencement celebration last week held on the athletic field. Next year's graduates will walk down a different aisle in the auditorium of the new high school when they receive their diplomas.

Promises Cox

Jeffries to open by November

The Jeffries freeway (I-96) which runs the length of the Schoolcraft Road corridor through Redford Township and Livonia will be open November 1, 1977, pledged Warren F. Cox, senior district engineer for the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation.

Cox, who supervises highway construction work in the area, made a statement Monday at a public hearing of the Michigan House Roads and Bridges Committee at Schoolcraft College.

The department had previously, as early as February 1976, explained that I-96 was "vastly more complex than most parts of I-275." This complexity accounted for the apparent slow progress in construction with the then steady headway in building I-275.

State Representative Robert Law (R-Livonia), prior to the meeting said, "I feel it is about time we got some answers from the (Michigan) department of highways and transportation as to when they plan to complete this project." I-96 has been in the construction stage for eight years.

Livonia City councilman, who has long been critical of the "inordinate amount of time" spent on the construction of I-96, said, "We in this city have been watching the snail-paced construction of this project since June 1970. The original completion date was scheduled for 1972."

"It has taken longer to build six miles of freeway in Livonia than it took the Americans to build their portion of the

"Here it is June 6, 1977," he said, "and not one pound of concrete has been poured west of Merriman Road." He said that if paving has not been started yet, builders will not have enough time to prepare shoulders, signs and lighting before the end of the construction season.

"Unless schedules are expedited, our investment in this road will go wasted for another year. I would hope the committee and the department will work to assure completion this year," Bennett said.

Cox, in response, said, "I plan on standing out there holding one end of the ribbon and you (Bennett) holding the other while somebody else cuts it to formally open the road in November."

"To show you how serious we are about opening the freeway this November, we have already begun discussing the turnback of the service roads to the City of Livonia," Cox added.

Cox said one reason was that the department had tried to tie other aspects of the project to the completion of grading construction. Corresponding drainage work was held up by the severe winter, he said.

Cox said poor soil conditions west of Southfield Road had been responsible for the "slow going."

Township violations

It's time to 'sign off'

Northville Township officials are about to send a "sign off" message to some local businessmen.

Spurred by complaints from the township planning commission, the township board was expected last night (Tuesday) to take action on a dozen signs that do not comply with the zoning ordinance.

Most of the offending signs are either at the Northville Plaza on Seven Mile Road east of Northville Road or on Five Mile Road on the east side of the township.

Since he compiled a list of signs that violate the ordinance, township building official Troy Milligan said two of the structures have been voluntarily removed.

He said he expected the township board to instruct him to write or contact the others on his list.

Milligan prepared the list at the request of the planning commission and, especially, one of the board members, Kenneth Sewell.

"As you know through the years, I've got a real thing for signs" Sewell said at last month's planning commission meeting.

Some of the signs are too tall, others are the flashing, movable bulletin board type that are banned by the township, and several are wall signs at the mall.

For several months, the township planning commission has tabled a discussion of rewriting the sign ordinance to cover the special needs of mall businesses.

Several of the mall tenants do not have entrances to the Seven Mile Road side of the structure and must depend on exterior signs for recognition and identification.

The signs still in violation of the zoning ordinance are:

"Sheehan's on the Green," 39500 Five Mile Road, not installed according to permit, seven feet too tall; Cap N Cork Party Pantry, 40644 Five Mile Road, no permit for flashing arrow.

Debate ends as city okays Taft paving

1000 feet of road at new high school

A 1,000-foot stretch of Taft Road in front of the new Novi High School apparently will be paved by the City of Novi as the result of a formal request by the Novi School Board.

The decision to approve the request and pave the road came at Monday night's city council meeting following a long debate on the matter. The school board had requested the paving several weeks ago and offered $26,400 ($10 a front foot) as its "share" of the paving cost and an incentive to pave the road portion.

Originally the city council was told that the cost of paving the 800-foot stretch from 10 Mile south to the high school entrance would be around $35,000. But city engineer Harry Mosher of Johnson and Anderson told the council Monday that the price is now estimated at $61,000 because grade changes would require the paving of at least 1,000 feet. In addition the intersection approach south of 10 Mile on Taft will have to be torn out because it does not match the necessary grade.

Discussion at the council table involved whether the paving was warranted since the cost could be 20 percent higher than if the stretch was included later as part of the entire paving of Taft from 10 Mile to 9 Mile. A proposed contract between the school district and city was also discussed. The mile stretch of road was originally to be paved under the city's road paving program this year but was moved down on the priority list by city council. Because the school district wanted the road paved this year, the special assessment process was impossible due to time requirements. Consequently the city will be losing $10,000 ($10 a front foot) from the property owner across the street since he will not be special assessed on the 1000 feet to be paved.

However, the school district had pointed out previously that the city has an option on 800 feet of property owned by the school district fronting on Taft Road and the school will not tack the $10 per front foot figure it is paying for that onto the cost if the city does exercise its option.

Councilmembers appeared concerned about whether the additional cost to be tacked onto the road program bonding will decrease other roads that are planned to be paved under the program.

City Manager Edward Kriewall responded that while $34,000 appears to be a lot of money, it will not affect the miles of roads paved. "We could lose that much on one easement," he said.

Councilman Robert Schmid added that it couldn't have much effect since that money couldn't pave more than a few hundred feet of the Taft Road portion under consideration.

Councilmembers Patricia Karevich and Romaine Roethel pointed out that the other roads moved above Taft Road on the priority list would also benefit the community because the buses also travel on them.

"You're still helping out the school no matter what road you pave," said Mrs. Karevich. "I think we should not be rushed into something."

Mayor Pro Tem Martha Hoyer added that "Those buses travel so many miles over gravel roads and chuckholes in this city, I don't think this 800 feet will make any difference."

"My concern is you'll have a huge volume of traffic there," responded Councilman Philip Goodman. "The added cost of paying for this small job when measured against the cost of not paving is minimal. Look at the cost of wear and tear on the buses and automobiles. This won't affect the road program in its totality so it makes sense to get it out of the way now."

Councilman Schmid added that "The 50,000 expected

Gala Days June 22-26

If organizers have their crystal ball in tune, Novi can expect a lot of visitors for the annual Gala Days, this year slated for June 22-26 at 10 Mile and Haggerty.

According to Gala Days Chairman Steve DuLac, the sponsoring Novi Jaycees are anticipating a record crowd of 50,000 people. With Novi's population only 15,000, the Jaycees appear to be expecting plenty of out of town visitors.

Last year, between 30,000 and 40,000 spectators turned out for the three-day affair. One of those days was pretty much rained out — a factor that DuLac says should help people to understand why a crowd of 50,000 is not out of the question. This year the event lasts five days.

"If we get two days of rain, we'll still have three days for the carnival," says DuLac. "If we pushed 30,000 people through last year, with the growth of the community and being in the same site, and having the 1-275 open, people from Dearborn could hop on the expressway and be here in 15 minutes. We expect to draw people from a lot further away."

Though the site may be the same, DuLac promises more to do.

"This year we tried to get in a few larger and more exciting rides — 10 in all," says the Gala Days chairman. "And, of course, we will have the smaller ones for the younger children."

Ingall Amusement of Jackson will be back providing the rides. DuLac says he is hopeful that this year a fullsize ferris wheel will be up.

One of the big highlights of Gala Days will be skydiving. Two shows are scheduled, one at 6 p.m. Saturday and the second at 4 p.m. Sunday as professional skydivers aim for a target just east of the site.

Live pony rides will be featured. There will be a game and merchant tent, as well as one for pinball enthusiasts. The Lions Club will be back with the beer tent and will be raffling off a recreational vehicle Sunday afternoon. A dunk tank is also being run by the Novi Little League.

A car smash is tentatively planned for Friday and Saturday when a quarter will buy three swings at the old clunker.

Fireworks this year are co-sponsored by the Novi Fire Department and the Jaycees and DuLac promise an aerial show that will thrill even fireworks aficionados. The display begins Saturday at 11 p.m.

DuLac promises that Sunday will not be a dull day either.

A free community breakfast sponsored jointly by the Jaycees and the Auxiliary starts the doin's at 10 a.m.

"How can anyone miss a free Sunday morning breakfast of pancakes, sausage and milk?" asks DuLac.

A new attraction this year is the community auction — an event which will start right after the breakfast. All money made from the auction will go directly to National Cancer Foundation. Anyone interested in donating an item for the auction should call Tom Sumiec at 349-5350.

According to DuLac, all money which is made by the Jaycees from Gala Days will in some way come back into the community.

"Last year some of it went into the police ID camera and the power washes for the city vehicles," explains DuLac.

According to the chairman, Gala Days has been at the forefront of a committee of Jaycees since January and it has taken help from merchants both in the form of time and money, as well as the City of Novi, and the Parks and Recreation Department to bring about another successful Gala Days.

"Our objective is to do something in the community that the community can remember, to work with different organizations and to get as much involvement as we can — which is harder and harder as the project grows bigger and bigger."

Daley, Pelchat,

Wilkins retain board seats

Three unopposed incumbent candidates found themselves re-elected to office on the Novi School Board, but not without some competition from two write-in candidates.

Re-elected to the two four-year seats up for grabs were Joan Daley with 292 votes and Sharon Pelchat with 274. Robert Wilkins won the lone one-year term with 271 votes.

Meanwhile, write-in candidate Brent Canup received 72 votes for the four-year term while Ruth O'Rear received five. For the one-year term Mrs. O'Rear received 79 votes while Canup received five votes.

Canup was an unsuccessful candidate in last year's school election while Mrs. O'Rear was the chairman of a citizen's advisory committee on the middle school. Both have been involved in other school district activities.

Interestingly, Mrs. Daley, 22665 Shadow Pine who was the lone school board member appointed to her seat came through with the strongest showing of any candidate. She had been appointed last October to a vacant seat held previously by James Helmer.

Mrs. Pelchat, 41910 Aspen, is the current president of the board and a five-year veteran. Wilkins, of 23803 Ripple Creek has served on the board eight years.

In total, 424 of approximately 5000 registered voters came to the polls, representing about nine percent of those registered.

The organizational meeting of the new board will be July 7.

Meanwhile in the Walled Lake School District only two percent of the registered voters showed up as Chester Gerbensky, 1935 Dawn Ridge in Walled Lake was elected to the lone four-year seat up for grabs. He received 250 votes while his single opponent, Kenneth Tucker, 335 Arvida also in Walled Lake received 183 ballots.

In total 433 voters of 22,455 registered came to the polls.

Musical treat kicks-off mall

A $10 per person benefit for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will herald the opening of Novi's giant Twelve Oaks Mall.

Entitled "This Classic Night," the benefit will be held at 7 p.m. Monday, August 1. As listeners travel the magical road of the six tollgate coach stops believed by some to be how Novi gained its name, they will be treated at each imaginary stop to selections played by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's Strings, Brass, Percussion, Woodwinds and Chamber Artists. At the sixth tollgate, Novi, the entire Detroit Symphony Orchestra will play a tribute to the city and its newest addition — The Twelve Oaks Mall.

Conducting the orchestra will be former Detroit Symphony Orchestra music director, Sixten Ehrling. Choreographed fall fashions from the new Hudson's Twelve Oaks store will be featured.

The event is sponsored by Dayton Hudson Properties and Novi Associates along with the Women's Association and the Junior Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

Tickets can be purchased at Hudson's ticket offices or by writing "This Classic Night", Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Ford Auditorium, Detroit, 48226.

Details of the opening day ceremonies August 2 have yet to be finalized but will include formal ceremonies with city officials present. Also attending will be officials from the mall's developing company Novi Associates, a

Vandalism

Novi Police Officer Herb Harbin examines some of the damage caused by vandals last week to a home which had burned down at 9 Mile and Taft Roads. According to Harbin, several windows were shot out with pellet guns and the outside of the house was spraypainted, as were many salvageable items inside the house. Two out-buildings on the premises were also damaged with paint.

The vandalism happened the night of Novi graduation and some of the paint said "class of '77". The damage was estimated at well over $100 and Harbin is seeking help from anyone with information. Found on the scene was a red K-Mart spray paint can which Harbin says is being processed for fingerprints.

Nowka is Northville track MVP

Northville's track and field members selected senior Jim Nowka, the team's star sprinter and low hurdler this season, as their Most Valuable Player last week.

Nowka was a state finalist in the 330-yard low hurdles this year and won both the low hurdles and the 220 at the Western Six Conference championships June 1.

Other awards selected by the Mustang team went to junior distance ace John Coram (Guts Award) and sophomore middle distance runner Brian Turnbull (Most Improved Player).

All-State high hurdler Dennis Singleton won the High Point Race for most points earned (132) while senior high jumper Anders Bengtsson was recipient of the Scholar Athlete Award for his 3.8 grade point average.

August 1 date set

Novi elementary to close

Use of old Novi Elementary will be abandoned August 1 as the result of Novi School Board action last Thursday.

The Board voted unanimously 7-0 to close the building completely and turn off the heat August 1, ending what has been the gradual demise of the structure since elementary students stopped attending there last year.

Meanwhile the decision may mean that the city's connected community building will also be useless because it does not have its own heating plant.

"We're going to come out looking like the bad guys because we're closing the community building while the city is going to come out smelling like a rose," complained School Board President Sharon Pelchat.

The city had allocated in its 1977-78 budget some $4,000 to heat the community building, but school district administrators questioned if that would be enough. The $4,000 was arrived at by the city as the difference between 40 degree temperature and the temperature needed to continue activities. However, according to school district administration, the building will be shut down completely and all heating pipes drained.

Several organizations are using Novi Elementary to meet and they will be displaced come August.

"I support our closing of it but I hope those groups can feel free to come and ask for our help in relocating," said Board Member John Milam.

"We're concerned but I don't see much concern from any other governmental body," said Trustee Joel Colliu. He asked that the city be sent a letter advising it that its lifeline from the community building to Novi Elementary will be cut August 1 "so that they will know they must come up with some money".

Novi Elementary is being closed because all classes are ceasing there. While elementary students moved over to Novi Woods Elementary last year, the alternative Education Program continued in the old elementary. That program is now being moved to a relocatable classroom at Orchard Hills School.

The move also will give the board more freedom in selling the old building. The district is seeking enough money from the sale to build a new elementary — $1.5 to $1.6 million.

"The land is spiraling in worth," commented Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz. The property is located on Novi Road just south of I-96 and the new Twelve Oaks Mall.

The board discussed whether it would be in the district's best interest to lower the amount of insurance the district has on the structure since it is basically the land which is valuable. No decision was reached.

Bennett resigns post

Leroy C. Bennett made good his threat and resigned as a Schoolcraft College trustee just three weeks from the end of his term.

"I'm forced to take this action," said the Plymouth resident and Livonia junior high math teacher, citing a new state law which requires all incumbent board members to file candidate statements.

Bennett said he filed the statements with the words "not applicable" in several places, including the name of his campaign committee's treasurer. But the Wayne County clerk's office on June 8 sent him a printed notice that his statement of organization "is incomplete and, therefore, does not constitute a proper filing according to the law".

The two-term trustee was vehement in his objection to the new state law, which requires incumbent board members to file organization statements and to reveal where their campaign funds are banked, even if they have no intention of running again, no organization and no bank account.

Bennett said the law forces him either to file an inaccurate statement "or subject myself to the penalty of the law for non-compliance with its provision."

"This act took effect June 1, 1977. I regret that I am not able to complete the final 21 days of my term, but the administrative regulations would make even a non-candidate like myself form a re-election committee and declare where bank accounts are established. If no account exists, you must fill in a fictitious account, according to administrative regulations.

"Those of you who know me realize that I have no choice. I have no committee, no bank account, and have never had either. I have nothing to hide, but the law would make me tell untruths and certify their accuracy! I will not file an untrue statement, nor will I violate the law," said Bennett's letter of resignation.

At present time there was no immediate word on whether the remaining seven board members would act to fill the vacancy by appointment.

Bennett said the only important unfinished business of the current term, which ends July 30, is the 1977-78 budget, "and everyone has to vote yes anyway."

Bennett is one of two members on the board whose terms are expiring July 30. The other is Arch Vallier. Harry Greenleaf and Leonard Wozniak were elected Monday to replace them — but they won't officially take their seats until July 1.

Egg holders, balsa planes get tested

Engineering skills are important in mechanical drawing classes. And when it comes to creating working gliders or egg drop containers, engineering can make the difference between success and failure.

That's what Mechanical Drawing I students at Novi High School found out when they took their creations to the top of the gym recently and dropped them off.

Intent of the balsa-wood glider project was to design and build the longest flying vehicle. Chris Johnston proved to be the winner with a time of 8.32 seconds. Dwayne Ridenour's bi-wing entry was second at 7.33 seconds while Tom Peterson and Ed Belerion rounded out the winners with times of 6.08 and 5.36 seconds respectively.

While the glider competition is new this year, the egg drop contest for Mechanical Drawing II students was continued from past years.

Object of the egg drop contest is to draw, design and build a container or vehicle using only paper and glue in which an egg may be safely dropped from the gym roof to the concrete sidewalk. The lightest entry is the winner.

Bob Blackmere set a new record with his "Huevo Copter" at 8.89 grams. Brian Cornett finished second with the "Flying Funnel" at 10.82 grams, Andy Anton third with the 12.5 gram "Cone Zone Special" and Scott Moffat fourth with 17.9 grams in the "Sunday Morning Special".

"Entries varied from copter type devices and gliding craft to parachuting type designs," said instructor David Haywood. "Many variations of shock absorbing devices were also used."

"The contests provide excellent educational tools for various areas of drafting such as pattern development, assembly drawing, sectional drawing and pictorials. Entries require up to 6-8 pages of drawings before building begins."

About our servicemen

Army Private John H. Ledford, son of John C. Ledford, 47671 Ten Mile, recently was assigned as an equipment operator with the 19th Support Command in Pyound Taek, Korea.

Private Ledford entered the army in January of this year.

Airman Charles J. Mannila, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Mannila of 24321 Willow Lane, has graduated at Lackland AFB, Texas, from the U.S. Air Force technical training course for security police specialists.

Airman Mannila, now trained in security and law enforcement, is remaining at Lackland for further training. The airman is a 1976 graduate of Novi High School.

Marine Private James V. Dery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Dery of 40928 Hollydale, Novi, has completed the Tracked Vehicle Repairman course.

The six-week course was conducted at Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

He joined the Marine Corps in October 1976.

Air Force Major Henry D. Hoffman, III, son of Mrs. Leo J. Walsh of 42229 Scenic Lane in Northville, has been awarded the Meritorious Service Medal at the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk.

Hoffman, who is currently a student at the staff college, received the award for his distinguished service while assigned to the 4950th Test Wing and later to the Directorate of Development Test and Evaluation for the B-1 Bomber at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio.

His managerial skill and superior technical knowledge was instrumental in the successful development of the B-1 strategic bomber offensive avionics systems.

A 1963 graduate of the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., Hoffman has a master's degree in industrial engineering from Arizona State University in Tempe. He has received various awards and decorations for his outstanding service, including two Distinguished Flying Crosses, 18 Air Medals, and numerous Vietnam combat medals.

If the man in your life has a favorite hobby or interest, give him room! If he is an executive, mechanic, bookworm or budding artist, plan his space together. Will the area available satisfy his hobby needs, his work or provide comfort and relaxation? Start out with a few basics; good light, extra electrical outlets, a sturdy table or desk, and shelves and cabinets to hold whatever is best kept out of sight. Color is important to him and he may choose mellow earth tones or strong bright reds and blues. If he prefers wood paneled walls and dark floors or vinyl stripes and chrome, easy care and upkeep is the name of the game. Help him design a happy place where he can do his thing. Then do the same for yourself.

THEMSELVES

Most young people want to be independent.

They also want to be treated as individuals. And they want to be trusted.

As family-orientated organizations, credit unions offer young men and women individual membership and individualized services for handling many of their own financial needs. It's an opportunity for establishing identity and building independence.

Certainly there can be nothing wrong in young people wanting to do things for themselves.

Credit unions help give them that chance.

Geake out-spends McDonald in campaign

Was campaign spending the key? Republican R. Robert Geake of Northville outspent Democrat Patrick McDonald nearly 2-1 in winning a March 23 State Senate special election by the same vote ratio.

Yet Geake invested a rather small amount in the February 23 Republican primary compared to the heavy investment of second place finisher Jane K. Moehle of Plymouth.

It seems clear that Democrats used up their money resources in the primary. Five candidates for the Democratic nomination poured out more than $30,000 to win it. Five candidates for the Republican nomination spent a total of less than $13,000.

These figures emerged from an Observer Newspaper's study of campaign expense and receipt reports filed with the Wayne County clerk's office.

They showed that Paul Kadish, runnerup to McDonald in the Democratic primary, got more than half his $8,300 from the Michigan Education Association, a parent organization of local public school teachers unions. In the general election, however, MEA switched its support to Republican Geake.

Mrs. Moehle, a former Schoolcraft College-board chairman who has been politically inactive for the better part of a decade, spent the largest amount of any of the primary candidates — just short of $10,000. She ran second to Geake, who was serving his third term as a state representative when he won the special senate election.

Geake had most of the traditional Republican business and professional support. Organized labor was heavily behind Democrats McDonald and Josephine Hunsinger, a former state representative from Detroit who moved to Plymouth after being defeated in her old bailiwick.

Here is a candidate-by-candidate rundown:

Geake reported spending $26,629 through the Geake Senate Committee, Citizens for Geake and himself. Only $1,600 was spent in the primary.

His biggest sources of funds were the state Republican Campaign Committee, $10,000 and the MEA, $3,500.

Other major donors were: Livonia Chamber Political Action Committee, $1,000; Real Estate PAC of Lansing, $1,000; Michigan Doctors PAC of East Lansing, $900; D. M. Clark of Plymouth, $500; the Michigan Podiatry PAC, $500; Committee of Auto Retailers, $450; Michigan Psychologists PAC, $400; the 2d-Wayne Republican Committee, $400; Livonia Police Officers Association, $300.

Contributing $200 or more were: Life Underwriters, Redford Educators PAC, Michigan Thoroughbred Owners and Trainers, Industrial Michigan PAC, Construction Industry Management PAC, Savings Association PAC, Charles A. Bublin, J. A. Young of Jackson, Michigan Ophthalmology PAC and J. J. Swienchowski of Northville.

Fifteen individuals and organizations donated $100 or more each.

McDonald spent $24,579 through the Committee to Elect Patrick J. McDonald, with about $11,000 of that being spent in the primary.

Fund-raising events brought in $14,200.

The Michigan State AFL-CIO gave twice for a total of $2,000; Retail Store Employees Local 876, $500; Michigan State Council of Service Employees, $300; and United Auto Workers CAP, $500.

Donating $200 or more were: Teamsters Local 299, the Michigan Community Education Commission, American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees Councils 12 and 23.

Other Republicans in the February 23 primary reported these figures:

Mrs. Moehle, just under $10,000 total including a $4,400 loan from her husband, Jack, and $3,500 of her own funds; Gordon Forrer of Northville, $300; five other donations of $100 or more.

Mary Dumas, Wayne County commissioner from Livonia, a total of $1,257 spent and $1,107 in contributions. These included $422 from her husband, Victor, and $100 from a Citizens testimonial Committee.

Joe Bida, mayor of Plymouth, $845; largest contribution was $110 from Robert Plickett of Plymouth; four others gave $100 apiece.

Howard Kimble, $193 in expenses and receipts.

Other Democrats in the primary reported these amounts:

Paul Kadish of Livonia, $8,289 spent; $4,500 received from the MEA; $2,000 of his own money; seven other contributions of $100 or more.

Josephine Hunsinger, almost $8,700 in expenses; contributions of $3,940. I. Grassam of Garden City contributed $1,435; six others gave $100 or more.

Dan Gillis received a total of $385, including $322 from his wife, Delie.

Douglas MacKenzie, $100 spent with no contributions.

Republicans appeared to get better political mileage for their money. GOP candidates spent a total of $38,470 in both elections and got a total of 22,210 votes, at a cost per vote of $1.73.

Democrats got 14,290 votes from an investment of $44,150, for an average of $3.09 per vote.

The special elections were called by the governor when State Senator Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) resigned upon being elected 2nd District congressman in 1976.

The district covers Northville, Plymouth, Livonia, Redford Township and a portion of Westland.

Mediator is called in ISEP aide strike

A one-day strike by 175 classroom aides for the mentally retarded has brought a state mediator into contract negotiations between the aides and the Northville school district.

A mediator assigned by the Michigan Employment Relations Commission is expected to call both sides to the bargaining table early next week.

The aides work in ISEP, a locally-administered but state-financed program for educating the mentally retarded in two institutions located within the Northville school district borders.

Aides, who are represented by the Michigan Federation of Teachers, organized last summer. They are paid $3.65 an hour and have not had a raise in 18 months.

Last Thursday's strike, called a "work stoppage" by the aides, was designed to show the union's solidarity about the need for a contract, according to the local's president, David Johnston.

A strike was chosen rather than an epidemic of "blackboard flu" because it was a more honest way to go, he said. All aides were back to work Friday.

Johnston, however, said that the two sides may be too far apart for a mediator to do any good. He said that future one-day strikes are a possibility even though it means the loss of a day's pay and the risk of a job.

Each of the aides who failed to show for work Thursday received a letter from the school district that said those not returning to work could face dismissal.

Thursday's walk-out forced some changes in the daily routine of the Institutional Special Education Program (ISEP), according to Burton Knighton, Northville's director of personnel.

No students were bused Thursday to the classrooms that ISEP rents in Northville, Livonia, Crestwood and Dearborn Heights.

Teachers either worked with students at the Plymouth Center for Human Development or the Northville Residential Training Center or held in-service days, according to Knighton.

Knighton has been meeting with ISEP aides at the bargaining table for an average of three nights a week since February. He said first-time contracts are always difficult to negotiate but he added that progress was being made.

Last May, ISEP aides picketed outside the board of education offices, both the demonstrations were held after aides got off work and did not affect classes.

There were no demonstrations Thursday, but about 20 aides picketed Monday night's board of education meeting.

Principal Tarpinian claims his removal is unjustified.

"fundamental rights of due process."

Craft was aware prior to calling for the forum, however, that the board had agreed to consider a private hearing for Tarpinian.

At Monday night's forum Martin Kalish, vice-president of the American

PRINCIPAL MICHAEL TARPINIAN

Federation of School Administrators said the "cavalier and unprofessional manner" in which Tarpinian was treated has caused concern among the nation's administrators.

He said his executive board will consider a resolution on June 28 to condemn Spear and the board of education and to inform its affiliates, colleges and universities that Northville is not a "good place to work."

Robert Hall, executive secretary of the Michigan Association of School Principals and a Northville resident, was also at Monday's hearing and deplored the action.

But the featured speaker was Tarpinian who told the audience that, in spite of news stories and rumors, "you have a good high school."

He said the physical condition at the high school was a "disgrace" but said "this didn't take place in one year, but in six or eight or 10 years."

Noting that a grievance was filed against him when he told custodians what to do, he said this was the first time in his career that he did not have "direct control over very facet of the high school."

Tarpinian has been in education for 26 years and was a principal for four years in two Detroit high schools before coming to Northville in 1974.

He said the custodial staff was undermanned, undertrained and under-supplied to do an adequate job at the high school. He said he had sent Spear memos to this effect for three years.

Noting that neighboring North Farmington has three assistant principals, department heads and an attendance officer for a similarly-sized high school, Tarpinian noted that Northville High School lacks sufficient administrators.

There is only one assistant principal and there are no department heads or attendance officers at Northville.

The combination of two free hours at the high school and an open campus could cause chaotic conditions, but "fortunately, we've got beautiful kids," he said.

However, he added, teachers and parents are justified when they complain about an inadequate supply of textbooks.

It was this lack of support and supplies that led to morale problems at the high school, he said.

"I have not had one black mark (in 26 years)," he said. "I have not once been accused of not doing a job."

That's why he refused to sign a PRINCIPAL Michael Tarpinian addresses public forum, defending his role at the high school.

March evaluation by Director of Instruction Nancy Soper that said "careful consideration" should be given to his continuance as principal.

The evaluation, he said, stated that Tarpinian was not effective in dealing with the high school's problems.

Tarpinian was given a long ovation from the crowd, many of whom signed a petition to remove Spear as superintendent.

Many in the crowd were teachers or school administrators.

Readers Speak

Where does The Record stand?

To the Editor:

Concerning your June 8th editorial on the Northville School Board election, and in the interest of fairness, I'm compelled to challenge your "toss-up" assessment of the one-year candidates for office.

You qualify your appraisal in advance with the statement that you are "not comfortable" with any of the four candidates, that this "callous-like appraisal" is intended as "constructive criticism," and that the winner of this race should be cautioned "to test pre-conceptions against conditions as they exist." You then proceed to damn all four of us for somehow not measuring up or making you feel "comfortable".

Frankly, this appears to me to be rather ambiguous journalism because: a) your criticism appears negative, not constructive; and b) you do not define "conditions as they exist" nor do you suggest any criteria by which your "staffers" measured equally the qualifications of all candidates for the Board. (For example, if demonstrating "keen interest in local school affairs over a period of time" is one of your criteria, exactly how have both four-year candidates demonstrated this better than any of the one-year office seekers? Be specific, not nebulous.)

This letter is being written before the election. It won't change the results. But I strongly resent having my campaign statements labeled as not offering realistic solutions, whether they match your apparent Dale Carnegie overview or not. And I regard all four of us who ran for the one-year term as "keenly interested in" and willing to get deeply involved in changing the, Northville school system for the better.

Being blunt about it, it's easy for you to sit in Olympian judgment on the candidates and their replies to your questions, but — now that the campaign is over — isn't it about time you fulfilled your journalistic commitment to the community by addressing these same issues? Frankly, I don't know where The Record stands any more, though there was a time where your common sense gutsiness made this perfectly clear. So I'll put the question directly: Where, exactly, do you stand?

Where do you stand on Superintendent Spear? On more millage? On the North Central Report, which bore out much of what I've been zeroing in on at the high school for the past two years and which your May 11th issue buried on page 12? On administrative leadership? On our severe budget problem and teacher professionalism vs. student expectations, and all the other vital issues that validly concern the parents in our community? What are your suggested solutions?

Our school system is sick and it needs more than sugar-coated platitudes and superficial periodic examinations from all of us to help it recover.

In endorsing last year's school millage editorially (March 31, 1976), you acknowledged our district's administrative problems and wrote that, upon passage of the millage: "If internal problems cannot then be resolved after a reasonable period, then appropriate action must be taken."

Is 14 months a reasonable enough wait? What appropriate action do you mean? And how much longer must we wait to find out?

Your tossing-it-back "toss-up" candidate, Jim Lewis

'Give teachers credit'

To the Editor:

In the June 8, issue of this paper, an apparently concerned parent or taxpayer took the teachers to task for the amount of money they're making for "180 days". Now, as a concerned teacher not of the Northville School System but of one nearby, I am going to give you some facts and figures from my own personal experience! A teacher is required to be at school 7½ to 8 hours a day by contract. How glorious that would be to work 7½ to 8 hours a day and be paid $34,000 a year was it?

Open your eyes! How many teachers in your school stay an hour or more after school or are seen carrying a load of books or papers home to be done after supper or on weekends? I work 7½ hours a day by contract, 2-3 hours a day on my own time and 3-5 hours a day on weekends to be sure those children are receiving my attention while they are in my classroom.

It is not unusual to see 70-80 per cent of your teachers putting in that much time. By my figures that is 56-65 hours a week, just to keep activities and learning going for 25-30 children. A junior or senior high teacher is given one planning period a day to plan lessons and activities for 150-200 students, grade papers, make parental contacts, gather materials, and take care of other activities such as departmental meetings, conferences, lunchrooms or studyhalls.

Now, getting to the economics of the issue: 60 hrs.-wk. (avg.) times 40 weeks is 2400 hours work approximately (not including work done during "unpaid vacations"). 40 hours-week times 48 weeks, (an average work week for industry) is 1920 hours a year, with vacations unobstructed by buying materials for classes etc.

A teacher spends approximately 500 more hours in the 10 month period on work or work related activity than most people do in a full year on a job.

Oh, lest I forget, teachers are expected to go to curriculum meetings and workshops, held after school hours, P.T.A. meetings, attend university classes as required for state certification and for keeping current, and go to summer school classes. This must be done free gratis or at an expense to the teacher as classes are not subsidized by school districts as one finds in industry.

We are not paid time and a half for overtime spent on weekends and holidays, nor are we on bonus roles or company plans. We spend $300-500 a year to buy materials to enrich the classrooms and are not reimbursed nor asking to be reimbursed and those same materials and supplies which are used for your children, if lost, damaged, or destroyed by fire are not covered by insurance.

Now Mr. or Ms. Taxpayer or whoever you are, tell me you are not getting your moneysworth! Open your eyes

Speaking for The Record

Change needed at high school

It would be difficult in these times to imagine Northville School Superintendent Raymond Spear taking any action, short of resigning, that would win public majority approval.

But it would be equally difficult to believe that any proven administrator can fall into such a slump that he is 100 percent wrong in everything he does.

For whatever reasons, Spear has fallen into disfavor. We think he must share the responsibility for this obvious condition with boardmembers who failed to harness the energies of a dynamic personality. In any management role, be it as a boardmember or a parent, it is far more difficult to provide discipline than acquiescence.

The subject of this opinion is not the superintendent. It is the action taken by the superintendent to make a change at the high school.

His right to transfer the principal is undeniable. And to the best of our ability to judge the action, we find it justified.

If Spear erred in his shake-up at the high school, it was by stopping short of a complete sweep.

This newspaper has editorialized previously on the administrative sloppiness at the high school. And numerous letters-to-the-editor provided ample evidence that the principalship was on the carpet.

That there should be any surprise at the proposed reassignment is itself a monumental surprise.

While we can understand the concern by fellow principals (administrators' union) for the high school principal's right to due process, we are dumbfounded by their efforts to demand that, regardless of facts or circumstances, the principalship should remain as it is for another year.

Ironically, we have heard principals argue that teachers' unions have made it virtually impossible for administrators to remove bad teachers. Now, in our view at least, they demand that an ineffective principal should be "eased out" to save face.

And one must wonder if the administrators' union has not, by design, chosen a most opportune time to take this stand: when the superintendent is under fire; and when the principals themselves are negotiating for more favorable contracts.

We wonder, too, if due process and regard for the principal are their concerns, why they would hold a public forum when they were well aware that a private hearing before the board of education was pending?

The problems of the high school do not lie entirely at the doorstep of the principal. One administrator, who would admit to the shortcomings of the high school principal, opined that Jesus Christ could not resolve the high school problems.

The superintendent, teachers, the board of education and we, the public, must share much of the blame.

Many teachers (not all, by any means) have undermined the administration and thwarted attempts to deal with the problems at the high school. We have also heard evidence of by-passing the authority of the principal, which speaks poorly for those doing the by-passing as well as those accepting it.

Many parents have condoned and defended their children's misconduct. The appalling filth at the high school is always blamed "on some other kid, not mine."

When a parent will call this office, as happened last week, and applaud pranksterism and encourage the newspaper to take a picture of "all those funny 'for sale' signs on the high school lawn," it is time to assess our own blame in what is happening.

Don't lose heart

Don't lose heart, sophomores. Painting the base of Northville's water tower last Wednesday to remove graffiti may have seemed like an exercise in futility when you awoke the next morning to find it emblazoned with "78's".

However, City Manager Steven Walters looked at the project as "fantastic" when approached and offered to have the city buy the paint. Ely's, when you explained what you were doing, provided the paint at a special, bargain price.

(Those responses from the community may have seemed more positive than the administration's when Northville High's Student Congress asked to paint the school bathrooms last fall.)

The community now knows that there are students who care at the high school. You and art class seniors who a couple of weeks ago wielded paint brushes and rollers to create "super graphics" on walls of the art room have to be the beginning of a sorely-needed turn-about. Those juniors who spoiled the effort really weren't a majority. You're on the right track. Let's hope others get on board.

COL. GERALD HOUGH

YES...

The current issue as to which agency should patrol the Detroit expressway system, the Michigan State Police or the Wayne County Sheriff Department, should not be an issue at all. It is clearly the responsibility of the State Police and the troopers have responded to this assigned duty in an exemplary manner.

The Governor's Commission on Criminal Justice stated earlier this year that the prime responsibility for policing the interstate highway system in Michigan rested with the State Police. The 62½ miles of freeway we have patrolled for nearly a year is a vital part of this system. The city, in the County of Wayne, is not an island unto itself — it is a part of our state and a part of our responsibility.

We are not in a contest with any other law enforcement agency. We have, in the judgment of the public and the citizens who use the freeways, done the job asked of us. We have proven equal to the task and we wish to continue doing the job in a positive manner. It is our duty to preserve, protect and defend the lives and property of all Michigan citizens — no matter where the assignment may be.

Col. Gerald L. Hough
Director
Department of State Police

NO...

Colonel Hough, in a recent television interview, was asked why he thinks State Police troopers should be patrolling Detroit freeways.

Troopers patrol freeways?

ANDREW PRUNER

He replied by saying the shoulder epaulets on his troopers say "Michigan State Police", and that "Detroit is in the State of Michigan."

Incredible.

This mentality suggests an attitude on the part of the State Police director that his department may, if it chooses, run roughshod over local police and sheriff's departments.

The Wayne County Sheriff is the constitutionally authorized law enforcement officer in Wayne County. The department not only patrols expressways in the county (outside Detroit), but conducts criminal investigations, maintains a Narcotics Prevention Unit, a Marine Enforcement Division, an Aviation Unit, a Scientific Crime Lab available to all police departments in the county, and a polygraph service which is used by police agencies in Southeast Michigan.

To suggest that our deputies are "second-class police" and "former unqualified jailers" as the head of the State Police Troopers Association has done, is an insult to me and my fellow officers.

We are professionals. We are involved in continuing education to maintain that professionalism. Over 100 of our officers have bachelor's degrees; half are taking college level courses; several are attending law school and one has his Ph.D.

We can handle the Detroit freeway patrol.

And, since the Detroit Police have elected not to do it, it is our duty.

Andrew R. Pruner
Deputy Sheriff
Wayne County Sheriff's Department

The women's division is slated to be phased out this summer and the prisoners are to be shifted to a new prison near Ypsilanti. Government officials reportedly are taking another look at the women's division as a possible state prison.

DeHoCo is and always has been owned by the City of Detroit. The state, however, has leased space in the women's division — located entirely in Northville Township — for housing female prisoners — from robbers to murderers. It is located on the north side of Five Mile, near Ridge Road.

The men's division, on the other hand, is exclusively for "short-timers" doing time for lesser crimes. It is located on the opposite side of Five Mile Road in Plymouth Township.

Originally located in the City of Detroit, the transfer of this prison to western Wayne County began in 1920 — about the same time bids were being let for another Detroit-owned facility here — Maybury Tuberculosis Sanitarium, now a state park.

The original prison property was located entirely in Plymouth Township, just south of Five Mile Road. Here the prison superintendent, Edward Dennison, took five inmates from Detroit in the summer of 1920 and began the grueling task of converting farm land and buildings into a "prison work farm".

At the outset the vanguard of prisoners lived in tents. Dennison lived in the farmhouse on the property then known as the O'Bryan Farm.

Soon 20 more prisoners arrived and construction of two temporary buildings, each 35 x 75 feet in size, was begun. Except for the foreman, all of the construction personnel were prisoners. The two buildings were used as kitchen, dining and sleeping facilities. Construction of another building was begun a short time later — this one for storage and for housing a "Delco lighting system."

Late in October of 1920, The Record reported that "next spring work will be commenced upon the permanent prison buildings, which will cost in the neighborhood of a million dollars and will take five years to complete. All of the construction work on these buildings will be done by prison labor. The prison will be modern in every way.

"The Grand Rapids division of the Pere Marquette passes through the farm, and a siding will be constructed at this point. When the prison buildings are completed, the Detroit House of Correction will be moved from Detroit to the new location."

Establishment of this prison farm in Wayne County drew attention of corrections officials throughout the United States. The farm concept was a new one, and it was expected that if DeHoCo proved successful it would be implemented elsewhere in the nation.

Prisoners sent to the farm were deemed "ambitious and more hopeful" than most.

The alternative to working was lock-up in Detroit.

By the spring of 1921, many acres of crops had been planted on the 800 acres of land carved from the Plymouth Township farms. By September of that year, 351 prisoners were housed in the temporary buildings and tents.

After visiting the prison farm, F. S. Neal of The Record wrote:

"To get the proper work out of men they must be well fed, properly clothed and have a comfortable place to sleep. That rule seems to be carried out to the letter here. The men are allowed considerable liberty. They may talk to each other, and when not at work they are allowed to indulge in baseball games, athletics, etc.

"The only punishment for infraction of the rules is the return to the Detroit prison, and that is effective. A returned escaped prisoner is

So many strange things happen in this world of ours, it takes a lot to really shock me anymore.

But a county judge in Madison, Wisconsin has succeeded in shocking me to the point of disgust.

Judge Archie Simonson sentenced a high school student who raped a fellow student in a school stairwell to one year at home under court supervision. He was quoted as saying the rapist was responding "normally" to the sexual permissiveness of our society, including the provocative way women dress.

The victim of the assault was clothed in blue jeans, tennis shoes, and a blouse over a turtle neck sweater. Hardly "provocative" attire.

But the young woman's clothing is not the point. Nor is the permissiveness of society.

The point is there is no excuse sufficient to justify leniency in a wanton and brutal attack of rape.

Rape is one of the most violent and reprehensible acts, both physically and psychologically, that one human can inflict on another.

Rape is a crime. Pure and simple. It must not be allowed to be considered as anything else. And those who commit rape must receive the full measure of the law, with no misplaced sympathy.

And any judge who can find a rationalization — especially one as blatantly fallacious as the Madison decision — is not fit to pass judgement on members of our society. In my opinion, Judge Simonson should be removed from the bench, and people in Wisconsin are currently engaged in an effort to do so.

Another incredible aspect of the judge's decision to release the rapist was his rationale that the attacker came from a well-disciplined family, had been involved in church activities, and had never been in serious trouble before. In fact, the boy's previous record includes six shoplifting incidents, and one reported injury by negligent use of a weapon (a BB gun). To call this a well-disciplined, God-fearing, law-abiding background is not only inaccurate, it's asinine.

The Judge — and I use the term with greatest reluctance — has acted in a way to outrage every facet of my understanding of law, justice and judicial temperament.

Beyond that he set a very dangerous precedent which I pray will not be followed in any other courtroom in America. It seriously jeopardizes women, both legally and physically.

The victim of rape has forever been at a disadvantage in our legal system. There have been numerous examples where vicious rapists have been set free on the flimsiest grounds; where victims have suffered unconscionable humiliation during a trial and insensitive and inadequate law enforcement; where laws have worked to the advantage of the criminal instead of the victim.

We have in recent years seen a laudable effort on the part of enlightened police agencies, courts and legislative bodies to undo the legal wrongs that have been suffered by women in the past. Michigan's Legislature recently enacted what I consider an extremely good law on rape.

But decisions like the one in Madison threaten to take us back to the legal dark ages.

Some have called this an outrage against women. But it even more serious than that. It is a direct assault on the rule of law itself, and in that sense it is an outrage against all of us, and everything I believe America stands for.

My concern is for the young lady who suffered this horrifying attack. Can this so-called judge have any conception of what his incredible decision means to her?

I am currently researching the possibility of federal legislation to attempt to remove this kind of capricious non-judicial action from our legal handling of the crime of rape.

There are a number of activities which have worked their way into our social fabric which do not please me. I do not contend that the trend to greater permissiveness is necessarily an advancement of our culture.

But no matter how permissive parts of our society become, we can never excuse the crime of rape as "normal" reaction to societal stimulation.

Since Judge Simonson's inexcusable "logic" forgives people for reacting "normally" to the stimulating atmosphere around us, perhaps he will also forgive those who consider removal from the bench a "normal" reaction to the stimulus he provided with his rape decision.

Readers Speak

Defends ambulance service, fees

To the Editor:

A letter which appeared under the "Readers Speak" in the Wednesday, May 25, 1977, from Mr. M. Arno, I feel that our company must answer as the remarks I feel were not called for.

First, let me take the letter from the beginning. On May 1, 1977 at 12:18 a.m., our dispatcher received a call from the Novi Police Department, requesting an ambulance to be sent to 22675 Winfield, which in turn our company did send an ambulance. The nature of the call was a family may have food poison. It took our ambulance 5 minutes to arrive at the house. After loading 3 patients down on stretchers, it took the ambulance 9 minutes to arrive at St. Mary Hospital. Just what does Mr. Arno mean by "reasonable time"? Some towns or cities are lucky to get an ambulance within 15 minutes, therefore I feel Mr. Arno and family got very good service.

As for the billing on the patients of $252, I feel it is not an unfair bill considering what an ambulance cost these days, plus insurance, plus salaries, plus equipment, etc. Let me cite a few of our expenses: one ambulance $25,000 without any equipment; equipment $8,000 per ambulance; salaries $12,000 per month; insurance $14,000 per year; rent on building $500 per month; phone bill $900 per month; and I could go on and on, but I won't.

Our company has highly trained personnel "paramedics" to be exact. They cannot work for nothing and we receive no funds from the city of Novi. In fact the city of Novi is very lucky to have such an ambulance service in their city.

Most cities pay for an ambulance to be on stand-by in the city. And still the people pay for ambulance runs on top of the stand by fees. For instance, the city of Southfield sends out the fire department and then an ambulance. The people of Southfield pay for the fire department and yet they still pay for the ambulance. The city of Lincoln Park pays a fee of approximately $11,000 a year for an ambulance to be on stand-by in their city plus the people still pay for an ambulance if they need one.

It is a thorn in the side that our company is put in the same class as the movie "Mother, Jugs and Speed." In that movie the ambulance personnel were drunks and took dope. They even raped their female patients while enroute to the hospital. Maybe this is why they only charged $42.50, and that money had to be paid in advance before the ambulance personnel would even load the patient in the ambulance. We did not ask for anything in advance because the Arno family needed medical attention at a hospital. Believe me, our personnel are not drunks, nor do they take dope or rape their patients while enroute to the hospital. With this I feel our company and personnel deserve more credit than the public is giving them. It is this kind of movie that hurts ambulance companies and puts a bad taste in the public's mouth towards ambulance service.

Yes, I agree with Mr. Arno when he says that the cost should be considered in deciding upon a contract for ambulance service in the city of Novi. Why do I say this is because our company receives no funds from Novi for the type of good service we give the city. In fact the city of Novi owes our company approximately $2,500 for ambulance service since 1974. The amount of ambulances calls that we cannot collect on runs amount in the thousands of dollars. Are we supposed to refuse people ambulance service who don't have the money at the time of service. No, our company cannot do that because we believe that the public's welfare comes first, and all of our personnel believe that "service to humanity is the best work of life."

In God we pray that the communities we service, the people will see and respect the professional service we offer to their community, and not judge us by the movie "Mother, Jugs and Speed."

I sincerely request that you print this article in your newspaper so that the public can judge for themselves and maybe get some of the bad taste out of their mouth that this article left with people who read the letter from Mr. Arno.

Jaycee walk lauded

To the Editor:

On behalf of Project Concern and our many patients throughout the world, I want to express warmest thanks to all who contributed to the success of last weekend's Walk for Mankind.

I especially appreciate the months of hard work and dedication on the part of volunteer Walk Director's, Marcia Booth and Bill Zapke, and their committee. They, along with the support of CKLW, The Michigan Jaycees and the countless walkers, workers and sponsors, have done two important things:

First, they have provided us with tools with which to extend life saving care to countless people who's very future, in many cases, rests in our hands. Improved health care and basic medical-nutritional education were made available by us last year to over one million of the world's poorest people in some seventy seven countries. This work will be greatly enhanced by Northville Walk for Mankind.

Secondly, the Walk for Mankind is a worthwhile, needed community event which confronts each of us with an opportunity to become personally involved in a positive, constructive effort to benefit others.

We're grateful for the support of your community, and salute your work to serve the needs of so many both at home and abroad.

Sincerely,
Robert P. Lowell
Chairman of the Board

Defends unionism

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the two (2) unsigned letters in the 6-8-77 edition of the Record as well as the editorial endorsements for the Northville Board of Education. My hope is that Phyllis Lemon would consider these comments rational, even though she may disagree with them.

Section 1, of the Taft-Hartley Act, says in part — "It is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States to eliminate the causes of certain substantial obstructions to the free flow of commerce and to mitigate and eliminate these obstructions, when they have occurred, by encouraging the practice and procedure of collective bargaining and by protecting the exercise by workers, of full freedom of association, self-organization, and designation of representatives of their own choosing, for the purpose of negotiating the terms and conditions of their employment or other mutual aid or protection."

Further, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, of the U.S. Supreme Court, said, "Long ago we stated the reason for labor organizations. We said that they were organized out of the necessities of the situation; that a single employee was helpless in dealing with an employer; that he was dependent ordinarily on his daily wage for the maintenance of himself and family; that if the employer refused to pay him the wages, that he thought fair, he was nevertheless unable to leave the employer and resist arbitrary and unfair treatment; that union was essential to give laborers opportunity to deal on equality with their employer."

Now, I don't mean to write a chapter on history, but I believe some background is necessary for the readers to think about, what with all of the rhetoric of the past few weeks, some of which, the Record perpetuated by printing those two unsigned letters. It's too bad this conservative element in our community must indulge in an organization assassination with such a misrepresentation of the facts.

Anyone can play with figures all they want to, but that annual rate of pay is the bottom line when it comes to money, and, the figure that was published is still below the 1970 median income for the Oakland part of Northville, which should be fairly representative of the rest of the school district.

Anyone even remotely connected with industrial relations, or the union movement, recognizes that delicate balance of power that exists between companies and unions, and to my knowledge, those people have never said that the NEA, or its affiliates, hold any kind of wide edge over school districts. If they had all this supposed political clout, do you really believe they would be burdened with the current state law that takes away any right to strike? And, who is naive enough to believe that any organization doesn't support candidates for elective office who support their ideals. If it's good enough for doctors, lawyers, and corporations, why not teachers' unions?

I also noticed that the Record didn't endorse either candidate who is currently a union member. Was that intentional, because of those terrible latent, preconceived notions on a single subject? I hope your endorsed businessmen don't have any of those preconceived ideas. They can also destroy a set of negotiations, and make life miserable, you know.

By the way, the Tenure Act doesn't protect bad teachers. It makes the administration prove "just cause" before they act. Most sincere people agree that if an administration can't get his act together and prove his case, it's his own fault, not the teacher's.

Don't forget, everyone is a product of our society. Sure we have mediocre teachers, just the same as mediocre bankers, druggists, doctors, and even mediocre parents. Like it? Hell no, I don't like it. But I know a lot of serious-minded people that are working hard to try to see both sides of all the issues we're concerned with, and they're trying to change things for the better.

My real hope is that we have elected a school board that will again give this community the necessary confidence that we're getting all the facts, and then just maybe the taxpayers will again come through and give our kids a chance to help change this mediocrity we're living in.

Sincerely,
Don Lindemeyer

Firemen answer critics

To the Editor:

We want to take exception to some of the statements given at the recent township meeting and reported in your edition of June 8, 1977.

First, the reason Northville Fire Dept. was rejected by the Western Wayne Mutual Fire Aid Association was not, as given, because of short comings in the areas of training, inspection, and flexibility. The reason was that the Township of Northville paid for services rendered by the Fire Department. Members of the Association thought they should be paid also. Another point was because of the large number of institutions in the Township which do not have fire agreements with the township.

Second, there have been calls on a house fire when a small number of men show up. We are not on call some of the time, we are on call "All" the time. There is a balance that works out over a period of time. Sure, we're paid per run. But, it doesn't hardly pay for the clothes ruined, wear on personal cars, or the hot meal left on the table at home.

Third, if the fire report was looked up on the grass fire which reportedly took "20 Minutes to get to", you would find that the fire call went first to the township police, who dispatched a car to the scene. When that car arrived he notified his office to notify the fire department. The above may well be in the prerogative of the township police, but don't blame the fire department for a "20 minute" delay. Franklin road would normally be a 4-5 minute run from time of notification of the volunteers to time on the scene.

Fourth, the training referred to as "none per se" is held on every Thursday night at 7 p.m. (except holidays). While maintenance and cleaning of equipment and the fire hall is done on these nights, there is also training. If we don't attend the meetings or respond to the fire calls, we are subject to dismissal. You can't be trained in abstention.

She's disappointed

To the Editor:

Each election I look forward to reading the League of Women Voters' questions and the candidates' answer prior to voting.

The candidates referred to the questionnaire and mentioned we should again look for it published in The Record. How disappointing to open The Record again today and find once again only The Record's summation.

This non-partisan organization does the voters a service with their pertinent questions. The candidates respect the questionnaire for its impact.

How sad that our local paper didn't allow, we the voters, to have this background information prior to going to the polls.

Regretfully,
Susannah Holstein

EDITOR'S NOTE: No arrangement was made by the League to have the material published in The Record. The newspaper, therefore, asked for and published the answers to its questions, together with biographical material and pictures, on June 1.

and ask some of your teachers how much time they spend doing their job in and out of school, to give your child the best education possible. Now let me ask you, would you willingly give up one or two more hours an evening to supervise 50-150 children in extra-curricular activities for $5 an hour? Many teachers do!

All I ask is that you give teachers credit for what they are doing many times of late, without contracts (which industry would not tolerate for five hours)-Why? Because we believe in the worth and potential of people!

News From Lansing

BY R. ROBERT GEAKE
STATE SENATOR

Legislation raising the legal drinking age in Michigan to 19 cleared one hurdle last week as the Senate gave overwhelming approval to two measures amending the state liquor law and criminal code. I voted YES on both bills.

The bills (SB 31 and SB 32) face two more hurdles — approval by the House of Representatives and signature by the Governor, before they can become law. Indications are that those will both be major hurdles.

Both the chairman of the House Civil Rights Committee, which will probably be considering the bill there, and the Governor have expressed strong reservations about the bills.

A majority of Senate members, however, responding to strong public sentiment in favor of raising the legal drinking age, voted in favor of setting the 19-year-old limit for a trial period of three years. It would take effect December 1, 1977 and apply only to teenagers who turn 18 after that date. It would expire December 1, 1980.

The drinking age was lowered from 21 to 18 in 1972 as part of a comprehensive "Age of Majority" package granting 18 year olds full rights and responsibilities as adults.

Most members of the Senate who voted for the change seemed to believe that the lowered drinking age has caused an increase in drinking by students in high schools. Whenever I have spoken to high school government classes in Northville and elsewhere around the district, students readily admitted that 18-year-olds were buying alcoholic beverages for their 17 and 16-year-old friends.

Several people have asked me why the bills do not raise the drinking age all the way back up to 21. An amendment to accomplish this was offered on the Senate floor but there were not enough votes to approve it.

The bills as written would provide misdemeanor charges against anyone who gave alcohol to anyone under 19, bought liquor despite being under 19, lied about his age in order to buy liquor, or furnished identification for use by others. Various penalties are contained in the bills, ranging up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine for selling liquor to those underage.

Michigan voters may have a chance to vote at the polls on the question of raising the legal drinking age further. A citizens group has announced it will launch a statewide petition drive in mid-June to hike the minimum age to 20.

supported it. Northville endorsed last year's proposal 963 to 715.

Northville's margin of support was smaller this year. But the margin of defeat was also smaller elsewhere, especially in Livonia.

In coming back with the tax hike proposal again this year, trustees were hopeful it would have a better chance of passage because of the lack of local district millage elections. The proposal also was supported by all nine college board candidates.

College officials stated prior to the election that the additional taxes were needed to avoid a deficit of nearly $400,000 in the new budget and to finance the operation of proposed new buildings on the campus.

Defeat of the millage effectively kills the $10 million bond issue that would have provided a fine arts performing and instruction center, a new resource center, remodeling of the present library, a culinary arts addition, and an addition to Waterman Center.

In the face of the millage defeat, the board of trustees will have to tighten financial belts and very likely increase tuition rates, a spokesman said.

The overall millage levy of the college presently is 2.13 mills (operation and debt retirement).

Set July 30 election

Board members, however, may opt for a three- or four-mill request rather than confront the voters with another plea for funds next year.

The district will need an extra $1.5 million to $2 million over the next three years, according to Superintendent Raymond Spear.

Northville schools currently levy 32.8 mills for operation and 7.19 mills for debt retirement for a total of nearly 40 mills or $1,000 on a $50,000 home.

A 3.9 mill request was approved in April of 1976 after two earlier issues were defeated.

If there is no millage increase, school officials say they would have to eliminate 10 teaching positions, and make cutbacks in many areas including athletics, transportation, maintenance and capital outlay.

They would also be unable to implement an expanded junior high school program approved by the board earlier this year or to offer instructional music in elementary grades.

Much of the property in question is located opposite Northville Commons Subdivision, between the intersection of Waterford and Six Mile roads and Winchester Drive.

In acreage, the petition suggests changing 16 acres from the office service classification to single family residential (R-3) and approximately 52 acres from a multiple unit classification to single family.

As now proposed, the planned multiple units would be "high class" apartment units rather than townhouses.

It's magic with books

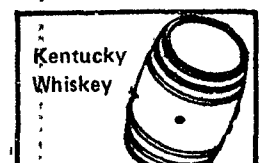

Beginning Monday, June 20, the Northville Public Library will be registering children for the annual Summer Reading Program.

"Magic in Books" is the theme of this year's program which will run for six weeks through July 29. All those who read ten or more books during that time will receive a certificate at the end of the program.

Registration will continue for three weeks. However, the library urges children to register early in order to have more time to reach their reading goal.

Thriving in Northville, Novi

Kids are getting a boot out of soccer

For years soccer has been known as the sport for everybody OUTSIDE America.

If the Northville-Novu area is any indication of things to come, however, those years are long gone.

Since its dubious introduction three years ago in Northville, organized soccer has become one of the fastest growing sports around. In the past year alone the number of players participating in the Northville Recreation Department program has leaped from 189 to 410.

In Novi the response has been "phenomenal", according to the city's Parks and Recreation director. In its first season this spring the program has attracted 140 youngsters from seven to ten years old.

It all started in Northville three years ago after Norm Davis moved here from Dayton, Ohio. Davis' sons had been involved in Dayton's soccer program and wanted to continue playing in Northville. So Davis set about developing a program.

He organized the area's first "league" by putting out ads for participants in mid-1974. Sixty-six youngsters responded to the ads, and in the fall they were divided into three teams. Don Swayne and Ray Smith helped Davis coach the squads, which played out a schedule among themselves at Ford Field.

The Arcade 5, which offered to sponsor the teams, provided them with shirts with pictures of ducks on them. Thus the three teams became known as the Blue Ducks, Yellow Ducks and Green Ducks. Swayne's Green Ducks won the first league championship that fall.

By the following spring another team had been added, and the four were split into two age groups, one for kids 12 and under and the other for those 14 and under. This time the recreation department helped support the program, and the Northville teams joined the Western Suburban Soccer League (WSSL), a circuit consisting of age group divisions from Plymouth, Livonia, Farmington and Northville.

Since then the number of participants in the Northville program has ballooned to over 400, with 24 teams competing in 15 different WSSL divisions. The WSSL, with 12-week seasons every spring and fall, now has 34 teams with over 2000 players between the ages of eight and 19 competing. The Northville Recreation Department also conducts a Saturday clinic for children under eight.

In Novi, too, a soccer boom of sorts is unfolding. Because the recreation department opened just last January, there hasn't been time to develop a program as extensive as Northville's. With its first season just completed, however, Novi's soccer league has progressed well beyond the expectations of Parks and Recreation Director Barry Smink.

Last winter Smink sent out flyers to Novi residents announcing the establishment of a soccer league for boys and girls between the ages of seven and 10. He estimates that 140 kids signed up by the end of March. They were divided into 10 teams that began practices April 11 and a five-week intra-league playing schedule on April 30.

Novi's response to the program has been "phenomenal", says Smink. "A lot of the success of this first-year program is due to the parents helping so much to coach and organize the teams." Smink also attributes much of the program's success to the local business people who are sponsoring the teams.

By next fall Smink hopes to get Novi's teams into a league like the WSSL, but asserts that the program will expand to more age divisions even if they don't join a league.

Why is soccer enjoying such a growth in popularity? Those involved in the local programs point up several good reasons.

According to Chuck Froberger, director of Northville's rec department, "one of the basic reasons is that the sport incorporates so much running around." The more fast-moving a sport, the more appealing it is to the younger set, he notes.

Swayne, who is still actively involved in the Northville program, suggests that "kids love it because every kid plays and is involved in the game." At any given moment during a game the player controlling the ball is at the center of attention, and this gives him a sense of being important, of being a part of the game even if he isn't a great player.

Smink points out that "it's a real fundamental sport. There's not a lot to learn," and so there's no getting swept up in complicated rules before starting to play. He also notes that soccer provides "good exercise".

Novi's league director, John Cowing, feels that soccer is "a more participatory game" than most other sports. He also stresses that no outstanding physical characteristics are needed to play, that it's a game for "everybody". Cowing at one time taught soccer in Australia.

One point everyone seems to agree on is that soccer is an inexpensive sport.

Northville boys and girls alike are finding out that soccer is better than a kick in the head

No special equipment is needed, no unusual surfaces are required to play on. A ball, a net, a field and a group of eager players are all that's needed to start the action.

That helps explain why Novi's program was able to get off the ground so soon after the rec department opened. Using three local parks for their weekly Saturday contests, Novi's teams regularly kick goals into old traffic cones that have nets strung across them. According to Smink, the netting for the cones has been the only major expense Parks and Recreation has encountered.

How about the future? Will soccer continue its dramatic growth in the years to come?

Froberger and Smink seem to think so. The only serious obstacles they foresee in this area are shortages of coaches and facilities. In Northville, for instance, there are presently only five fields to accommodate the city's 24 teams, with a possibility of three of them being swallowed up by a state prison next fall. Novi's league started out the spring with only four coaches serving the entire league.

These are problems that can be worked out, though. One problem that can't be worked out by coaches and recreation departments is a lack of enthusiasm. And it's a problem that's apparently non-existent right now.

American soccer will probably never reach the levels of popularity it enjoys in Europe and Australia because, as Cowing points out, there are too many other major sports competing with it. But, it certainly has the potential of becoming another major American sport.

Just ask your local rec department organizers

Winchester soccer saved

Sunday soccer on the Winchester Elementary school grounds was given the nod of approval by the Northville board of education Monday night.

Neighboring residents of the field had objected to the games between Northville teams and squads from Plymouth, Livonia and Farmington because of problems caused by crowds.

Depending on who's talking, the field is used for soccer from four to six hours for nine weeks in both the spring and fall.

The Northville Recreation Commission was notified by the school district recently that it would have to quit holding contests at the Winchester field because of the complaints.

At Monday night's board meeting, recreation department officials and soccer supporters came armed with the signatures of 391 Winchester area residents who supported the soccer program.

The motion to allow soccer at Winchester passed, 7-0.

Weather can't dampen Jaycee track spirit

Threatening weather didn't stop 141 competitors from turning in some exceptional performances at the annual Jaycee track meet in Northville Saturday.

Bob Gould set a school record in the mile run while Jim Nowka, Ruth Hubbard, Sue Reimer and Laurie Jacobson were all triple winners.

Although Gould's 4:29 clocking didn't occur during the Northville High track season, Northville track coach Ed Gabryes, who helped coordinate the Jaycee meet, said it will probably be officially recognized as the new school record. Gould also finished first in the two mile with a time of 9:41.8, just four seconds off the school record he set earlier this year.

Nowka posted victories in the 120-yard low hurdles (14.7), 330-yard low hurdles (46.0) and 100-yard dash (10.6) as the only triple winner in the boys' categories. The 100-yard dash was particularly close, with Nowka nipping Novi's Andy Raddant at the wire. Raddant came back to upset Nowka by a second in the 220, though, with a winning time of 23.6.

Double winners in the boys' five age divisions included Raddant (who also won the long jump), Gould, Toby White, Brian Turnbull, Brian Prom, Anthony Armada, Scott Robins, Keith Akins, Rick Paler, Gregg Artley and Mike Wissman.

In the girls' competition Hubbard won the 440 for the intermediate (15-16) age division in 60.0, almost nine seconds faster than the winner of the senior (17-18) division race. Hubbard, who ran a 57.6 in the 440 at last year's Jaycee meet, added victories in the 100-yard dash (12.2) and half mile (2:21.2) to make her one of three triple winners in the girls' events.

Jacobson in the senior division won the mile (6:44), two mile (14:21.2) and 100-yard dash (12.9) while Reimer, another senior, posted wins in the long jump (17'4"), 110-yard low hurdles (16.0) and half mile (2:32.5).

Double winners in the girls' brackets included Kim Miller, Ann MacKay, Tracy Hopeck, Sherry Robins and Vicki Robins.

The nub of participants in this year's meet was about 50 less than last year's, but Jaycee President Tom Barber considered it a "fine" turnout considering the poor weather.

Following is a list of Saturday's Jaycee meet winners:

League champions

Hard workers reaping rewards

Tick, tick, tick... Like a finely tuned watch, the Northville tennis squad advanced through its 1977 schedule without flaw. First it was 7-0 over Novi, then 7-0 over Brighton...in fact the Mustangs shut out their first five opponents on their way to a perfect 17-0 dual meet record, a Western Six league championship and a select spot in Michigan's first team tennis tournament at the state level.

Ten of those victories were shutouts, in four others Northville's foes won only one match, and the league title was the Mustangs' third in the last four years.

Why such dominance from a school with the lowest enrollment figure in the Western Six?

"We've got good, hard-working, enthusiastic kids out there," explains

Bob Simpson, head Mustang tennis coach for the past eight years.

Although their first meet isn't until mid-April, Northville netters start working out at the start of March. While snow still covers the ground outside the Mustangs go through tough calisthenic workouts in the wrestling room, run two or more miles in the gym, then return for more calisthenics.

When the warmer weather sets in they go outside for vigorous workouts on their service and returns, then jog a mile and a half and run wind sprints.

"We probably work harder on conditioning than any of the other teams (in the Western Six)," Simpson says of his team's success in league competition. Northville has won each of the last two Western Six titles with a 10-0 dual record plus a first-place finish in the season-ending league championships.

As an example of his netters' dedication, Simpson noted that last April they came and worked out every day over their Easter breaks. Simpson, who stayed himself to help out, says he "doesn't mind doing that (coaching throughout Easter break)" with a crew as spirited as his.

He also points with pride to the academic standing of his team members. "We're getting good quality players out there, kids with 3.0 and better averages," he says. "There's just so much negativism about our schools, but we have a lot of first-rate players here, some of the best in the state."

Simpson felt the high point of this season was qualifying for the state finals May 21, but added that winning the league championship and having a 17-0 dual record were nothing to sneeze at.

Northville was particularly impressive in those 17 meets, with number four singles Charlie Whiteside (17-0), number one singles Doug Castillo and number three singles Rudy Horst (both 16-1), number two singles Greg McFadden (12-5), number one doubles Steve Laffler-Steve Pyett (13-4), number two doubles John Dyer-Jeff Hodge (15-2), and number three doubles Lance Carter-John Marzonie (17-0), combining to give the Mustangs an overall match record of 106-13.

Carter and Marzonie also won their flights in both the regionals and the league meet, finishing with an overall, 23-1 match record. Their only loss came in the second round of the states.

The Mustangs will return seven of their 10 starters next season, including all six members of the doubles teams and Castillo. That means experience as well as hard work will be on the Mustangs' side—and it means another finely tuned watch for the Western Six meets next year.

Rec programs are all ready to go

Summer programs at both the Northville and Novi recreation departments get into full swing next week.

Classes beginning next week in Novi include swimming, sailing, archery, gymnastics, golf, tennis and tee-ball. There are still plenty of openings in each.

In Northville, programs will get under way next week in swimming, tennis, and track and field.

Details on times and locations are available in brochures that can be picked up at the rec departments.

Registration for all summer programs sponsored by the Novi Parks and Recreation Department has been extended through June 24.

The original deadline, June 17, was changed because the high school was unable to pass out brochures earlier this month. Additional brochures can be picked up at the Parks and Recreation Department on 12 Mile.

Novi Parks and Recreation, in cooperation with the Novi Little League, will sponsor a free baseball clinic June 25 at Bosco Fields on Beck Rd.

The clinic, which lasts from 9 a.m. to about 4 p.m., features former major leaguers Dick Raditz of the Detroit Tigers, Harvey Wilson of Minnesota, and members of Eastern Michigan's baseball squad, last year's number two NCAA college team.

Youngsters between the ages of six and 15 are invited to attend.

The Northville Recreation Department is co-sponsoring the 15th annual Tom Sawyer-Becky Thatcher Fishing Derby this Saturday at Newburgh Lake in Livonia.

There's no admission charge to the derby, which lasts from 7 a.m. to noon. Prizes will be awarded to the most successful fishermen and to the most authentic Tom Sawyer or Becky Thatcher costume.

The Northville Recreation Department's "Summer Fun in the Sun" program has been reinstated at Silver Springs Elementary School.

Classes include seven weeks of organized games on the playground, some arts and crafts and a trip to the Detroit Zoo. Cost of the program, which starts July 1, is $15.

'Cinderella' Novi falls in regionals

Midnight struck a week early for Novi's Cinderella baseball team. Paralyzed by a lack of hitting and a sudden letdown in pitching, the Wildcats suffered a 9-3 pasting at the hands of Fenton in Saturday's regional opener at Hartland.

A month ago the loss would have been a foregone conclusion. After stunning two notable district opponents with a remarkable blend of hitting and pitching, though, the Wildcats, who entered the pre-districts two weeks ago with a 4-15 record, seemed ready to compete with the best of them.

Their hopes came crashing down against Fenton, a club with a 22-8 record. All-League outfielder Randy Wroten cracked Novi's only hit in the game, a fifth-inning single, while Fenton's two pitchers mowed down 16 batters on strikeouts.

Even pitcher Jeff Laverty lost his magic as he gave up four runs to the first eight hitters he faced in suffering his only loss of the season.

The Tigers unloaded three of their runs off Laverty in the first inning on four hits, including a two-run single and a run-scoring double. They followed with a lead-off home run in the second.

Novi responded with a third-inning run on a walk and two errors. Two innings later, though, Fenton scored again on an error, a wild pitch, a passed ball and an RBI single.

Rick Faulkner relieved Laverty in the sixth, but the Tigers immediately pounced on him for three runs, then struck once more in the seventh on a triple and a single.

Novi added two runs in their last turn at bat on four walks and a fielder's choice, but by then the game was out of hand.

Probably the most disappointing aspect of the game was Novi's hitting. After scoring 22 runs in their last three must-win ballgames the Wildcats hit only nine fair balls against Fenton. Their 16 strikeouts were "just too much" to overcome, according to Coach Rick Trudeau.

Wroten drafted

Novi High's Randy Wroten was selected by the Philadelphia Phillies in round 32 of last week's major league baseball draft.

Win key softball game

One big inning was all it took to determine the second-best team in Northville's American Softball League.

C.D.S. erupted for six runs in the second inning and held on for a 7-5 victory over Grecian Palace at Thomson Field last Wednesday. Each team entered the game with only a loss to the first-place Village Blues.

Grecian Palace took a 2-0 lead into the bottom of the second, but then came the fireworks.

Tom Ridley opened the inning with a double and came home on Dan Taylor's single. Two outs later Jeff Mills and Don Phillippi punched out run-scoring singles to put C.D.S. in front 3-2.

After a walk to Iain MacDonald put two runners on, Grecian Palace's second baseman flubbed a grounder by Gary Hopkins and Phillippi came in from second. Bill Barnes followed with a two-run single, and C.D.S. had a 6-2 bulge.

Palace added single tallies in the third and fifth innings to cut the gap to two, but C.D.S. bounced back for a run in the bottom of the fifth to make it 7-4.

Three straight singles to start the seventh brought Palace back within two, but a fly out to left and two long drives to the center field fence snuffed the rally.

In other American League games last week Village Blues crushed Harding Realty 14-4 and Jim Storm Insurance 14-2, Grecian Palace merced Hamlet Food 20-2, Zayti's downed Sheehan's-On-The-Green 20-3 and C.D.S. crunched Jim Storm 21-2.

Northville boy on title team

As if Northville's tennis prosperity at the Mustangs' high school this season wasn't impressive enough, Ron Angell tacked on a state championship.

Angell, a Northville resident who transferred schools this season after spending his freshman year at Northville High, was part of Detroit Country Day's number one doubles team that won the Class C-D state title at Holland June 4.

Last year Angell and Tim Kelly, a senior, formed the Mustangs' league champion number one doubles team.

This season Angell teamed up with Yoost Korsten to defeat Grosse Pointe University-Liggett's first-seeded doubles 7-5, 2-6, 6-3 in the finals of the state tournament.

Angell, who attends Country Day on a leadership scholarship, also lettered in soccer and hockey this year. He helped Country Day to a second-place finish in the state tennis tournament.

Strong finish for green JV's

Lacking experience at the start of the season, Northville's junior varsity baseball squad closed out its 1977 with a 9-8 record. They were 4-6 in the Western Six.

Coach Dennis Colligan said he was basically "pleased with the way we played," pointing out that four players hit .300 or better.

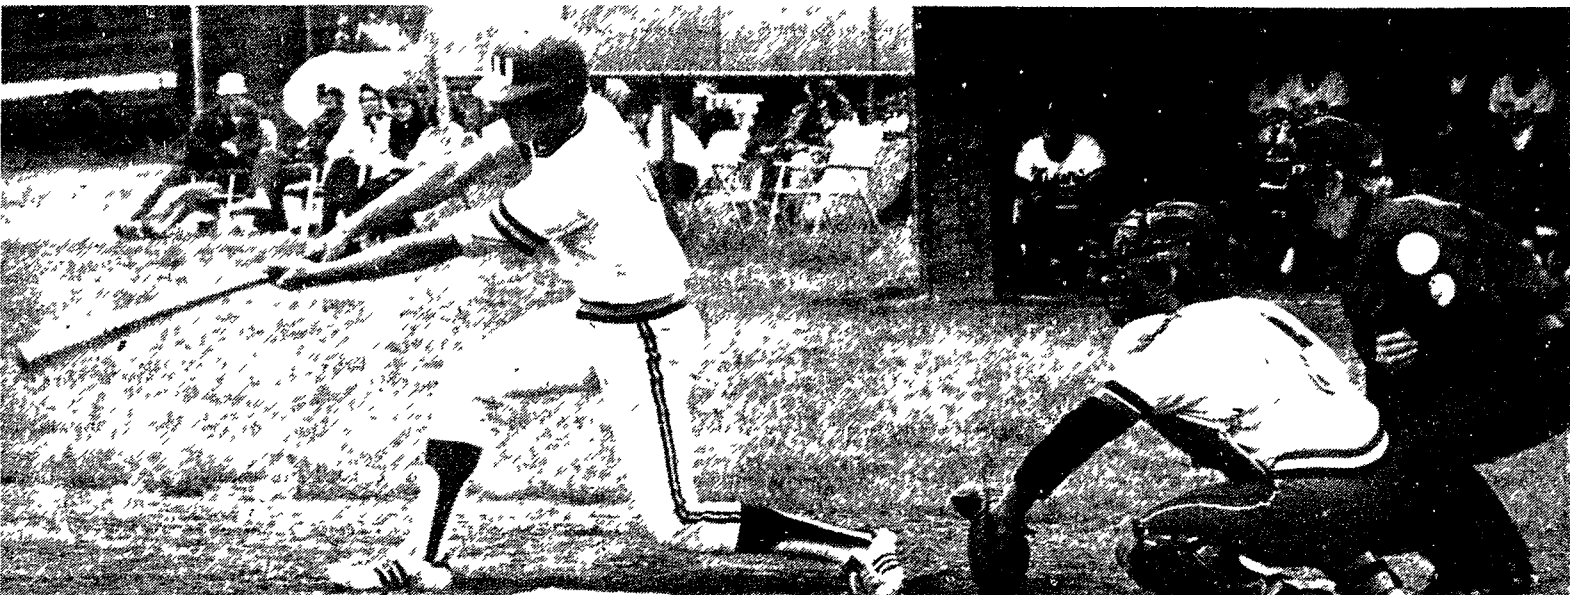

He suggested that part of the reason for the team's mediocre record was the absence of a junior varsity program last year, resulting in inexperience at the start of this year. Northville finished with six victories in its last nine games.

The Mustangs' brightest spot was pitcher Dave Austin, who compiled a 5-2 record and 1.36 E.R.A. to go along with his team-leading .420 batting average. Other impressive hitters included Paul LaVoie (.375), Jeff Norton (.333) and Mike McClure (.300).

What a leap!

Andy Raddant's leap of 22'1" in the long jump earned the Novi senior a fourth-place finish in the Class B state finals June 4.

Raddant, who holds the SEC league record of 21'11 1/2" in his specialty, was in first place until the final jump of the state meet, when three others bettered his mark.

Sheehan hits, runs and pitches

Danny Sheehan, of 45820 Bloomcrest Dr. in Northville, was a winner June 4 in the local Major League Pitch, Hit and Run Competition at Westland Center.

Sheehan, competing in the 10-year-old class, collected 210 points with a first-place in pitching, second-place in hitting and third-place in base running.

A pair of aces

Brooklane Golf Course was the site of two holes-in-one last week.

Lori Stanford, 23, of Northville aced the 150-yard 14th hole with a five-iron June 3, her first hole-in-one in two years of golfing.

Five days later Bill Boon, 62, of Plymouth used a seven-iron on the 144-yard fourth hole for his first ace in 48 years of golfing.

Police Blotter

Link maintenance man to B&E's

In Wixom . . .

A sharp-eyed resident of the Village Apartments may have enabled Wixom Police to clear up a number of breaking and enterings that have plagued the area over the past several months.

Police were notified Wednesday night by the resident of suspicious activities in the area of his building. The witness was able to supply investigating officers with a good description of two men believed to be involved in a possible B & E and the license number and description of a pickup truck used.

Through a registration check, it was found the truck was owned by Personnel Management of Southfield, managers of the apartment complex. The local manager verified the vehicle ownership and told police it was in the possession of a maintenance man.

On checking with him, police learned he had been in the area in question but he said it was only to check water sprinklers.

Further police investigation of the initial complaint showed signs of forced entry under the door to an apartment but the door was found locked. In order to lock the doors, Police learned, a key was needed.

The apartment resident was notified and on returning to his unit, found that it had been burglarized. Listed as missing valuables were three shotguns, one of which was a collector's item, worth $5000.

The witness again described the suspects and vehicle after which police arrested Richard West, the maintenance man who matched the description given. West was in possession of keys to all the apartments in the complex.

A search warrant was obtained by police who then located two stereo speakers, a kangaroo skin rug, a sheep skin throw and three shotguns in West's apartment.

Meanwhile, police were advised of a second non-forced entry B & E at the Village. That owner told police he found lights on in his apartment when he returned home.

On checking the rooms, he found his kangaroo skin rug and a sheep skin throw missing. Officers investigating that incident suggested a check of the refrigerator since in similar cases, beer was found missing. Two cans of beer were added to the list.

A third incident in the area believed to have occurred in the late afternoon or early evening found an apartment entered but the owners found nothing missing.

A police officer checking the fence line on the western boundary of the complex located a stereo receiver hidden behind a small group of trees.

At 2 p.m., a resident returning home found her apartment door kicked in. The report of missing items matched those found earlier by the searching officer.

Reports and complaints continued to pour into the station with two apartment residents supplying police with identical information. Both residents reportedly heard knocks on their doors late in the evening but on answering found no one in the hallway.

Minutes later both said they heard keys fitted into the door lock and the door being opened. A chain lock on one door prevented further entry.

The second report indicated there was a knock on the door followed by the rattling of keys and the door being opened. On confronting the man, the woman was told he was the maintenance man checking a leak. No water problems had been reported by the woman.

West was arrested by Wixom Police and lodged at the Walled Lake jail. At 3 a.m. Walled Lake requested the man be moved to the Oakland County jail after West set fire to his cell.

West was released Thursday on a $3,000 cash bond pending examination. That date has not yet been set.

In Township . . .

A fire broke out in the living room of a small frame house on Seven Mile Road Thursday afternoon totally gutting its interior. Exterior portions of the house rented by Ms. Virginia Coleman also, suffered extensive damage.

Flames and smoke were seen belching from the doors and windows of the house when Township Police and Northville firefighters reached the scene.

John Sunal, a Detroit Edison employee at the address on a service call, said he heard a loud pop just before the blaze broke out. Both Sunal and Ms. Coleman, entered the front door and saw the curtains behind the TV set in flames.

Sunal attempted to extinguish the fire using water from a garden hose while a neighbor called police. Sunal was unsuccessful in his attempts to save the home.

Cause of the fire is said to be an apparent short circuit in the TV set.

Two Northville men, injured in a motorcycle collision on Clement June 7, required hospitalization for both drivers. Robert Fittery of 19203 Clement and Dennis Clarke of 19410 Clement were taken by ambulance to St. Mary Hospital following the accident.

The mishap occurred as the two cyclists were driving northbound on Clement near Seven Mile Road. According to police reports, Fittery made a lefthand turn in front of Clarke causing Clarke to smash into him.

A 1968 car reported stolen sometime June 6 from a parking lot at the Innsbrook Apartment complex was located three days later by members of the Detroit Police Auto Recovery team.

Northville Township Police were informed that the stolen car had been located in Detroit minus all four wheels and its ignition switch. The trunk lock was also punched out.

A brand new power lawnmower valued at $140 was taken from a patio area behind a home on Ironwood Court.

The incident reportedly occurred between 11:30 Friday night and 8 a.m. Saturday morning.

Michigan State Police are continuing to search for a female prisoner who escaped from the women's section of the Detroit House of Correction June 6.

The prisoner was found missing from her quarters at a 6:15 a.m. bed check.

In Novi . . .

Novi Police arrested a 17-year-old Novi man after travelers along Grand River Road west of Novi Road reported June 6 that windows in their vehicles had been shot out.

According to police reports, all four of the complainants indicated that the shots had come from north of Grand River and east of Novi Road.

Officers investigating noticed glass on the road in front of a home which had its second story windows standing open.

Officers learned from the owner that he had sold a pellet gun to the person residing in an upper apartment. Officers were initially refused access to that apartment but when they indicated they would get a search warrant, were allowed admission. A pellet gun was found.

Arrested was Bruce Allen, 17, of 43270 Grand River. He was arraigned in 52nd District Court and released on $1,100 personal bond after being charged with two counts of malicious destruction of property.

A warrant has been received charging Michael Baldwin of Highland with two counts of breaking and entering vehicles to steal property over $5.

He is charged in the B&E of two vans at Novi Plastic April 27. Baldwin was arraigned June 9 and held on $500 cash bond on each count.

A baggie of white powder, a syringe and marijuana seeds were found under the front seat of a vehicle stopped June 7 for a traffic violation. Two men in the vehicle were arrested for possession of narcotics and conveyed to the Novi Police station where they were booked and released.

One was from Detroit and a second was from Novi. The Detroit man was also bonded out for $100 for driving on a revoked drivers license.

A home at 1651 West Lake Drive received $20,000 damage when a fire broke out at 12:50 p.m. June 7 and destroyed the kitchen and a shed attached to the house. Smoke damage was also extensive. The origin of the fire remains unknown.

In Northville . . .

Northville City Police are continuing their investigation into 13 cases of malicious destruction of property reported by both businessmen and residents of the city during the past week.

The cases ranged from battered mailboxes and damaged lawns to broken gaslights and smashed windows.

Of the complaints, nine dealt with broken windows. Police suspect the use of wrist rockets armed with BBs as the weapon used by the vandals.

According to Sergeant Allen Cox, a wrist rocket is a weapon resembling a slingshot used in hunting. "Unfortunately," Cox said, "it's a situation where the weapon is a legitimate one but being used for other purposes."

The bulk of the window episodes occurred Friday night when vandals cruising the downtown area broke windows at Bruce Roy Realty, The Old Mill Restaurant, Del's Shoes, Long's Plumbing, and Freydl's.

In addition, a front window at a residence on Randolph Street and the rear window of a car parked in a driveway two doors down were smashed.

Total estimated damages in the cases was $1465.

A breaking and entering at a residence on Linden was discovered at approximately 1 p.m. June 3, with owners of the home notifying police.

Entry was gained through a west-side window allowing access to the house. The entire home showed signs of being searched before burglars made off with an antique watch and mantel clock, portable color TV and a reciprocating saw.

A Northville youth and his companion, on their way to graduation exercises at the high school Thursday night, found themselves going to Botsford Hospital instead following a three-car pile-up at Eight Mile and Novi Street.

Michael Youngquist, 18, of Malvern Court and Vicki Witek of Allen Drive were taken to the hospital for treatment of their injuries after Youngquist struck the rear of the last vehicle in a string of cars waiting for a turning vehicle.

The chain reaction involved cars driven by Judith Lakin of Northville and Leroy Hittinger of Southfield.

Pleading guilty Thursday in Oakland County Circuit Court before Judge John O'Brien on charges of uttering and publishing was former Northville resident Patricia Walker.

Miss Walker was arrested by Northville City Police in April after she had forged signatures on two stolen payroll checks at the Hamlet Food Mart.

The guilty plea was accepted by the court with sentencing scheduled for July 7. Miss Walker could receive up to 14 years on the charges.

Novi Friends of the Library

The summer reading program will include the "Read to Me" program designed for preschool and kindergarten children and a program for first through fifth grades. Registration will be June 15-17, at the Novi Library located at 45245 West 10 Mile Road. The program will run from June 20-July 29, and will conclude with a party and film on August 1.

A reminder of the new summer hours now in effect at the library. New officers have been selected for the coming year and include President Marian Pickl, Vice President Millie Fakker, Secretary Stacy Chaudoin and Treasurer Clare Ronk. Those in charge of the reading program are Stacy Chaudoin and Karen Carter. The June luncheon and election will be the last meeting until fall.

Novi Jaycees

Plans are continuing to be made under the leadership of Steve Dulac for the annual Gala Days June 22-26 at 10 Mile and Haggerty Road area, opening at 10 a.m. each day. Anyone having questions can reach him at 478-0436. This year there will be 10 major rides and six mini-rides. Pony rides will be available from representatives of Copp's Riding Stables. A very popular feature from last year will be the free community breakfast to be served on Sunday morning from 10 a.m.-noon. Last year more than 1000 persons were served. Fireworks on Saturday evening will be co-sponsored by the Novi Fire Department and the Novi Jaycees. A reminder of the Community Auction. Call Tom Sumiec at 349-5350.

Area News

Mrs. Alvin Killeen on Beck-Road attended a baby shower for her daughter, Mrs. Ted (Kristie) Hansen in South Lyon last week. Hostesses were Lynette Williamson and Kathy Tatro. This week Mrs. Killeen, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Harold Hatchett of Northville, will be attending a baby shower in Kalamazoo for Mrs. Killeen's other daughter, Mrs. Larry (Laurie)

Hewitt of Hopkins, Michigan. This shower is being given by Laurie's mother-in-law, Mrs. Flora Hewett.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Race of 12 Mile Road attended the wedding of their nephew, Paul Schleicher, to Barbara Brumby on Saturday at the First Baptist Church in Walled Lake with reception at the bride's home on Pontiac Trail.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cook of 12 Mile Road attended the graduation at Milford of their granddaughters, Dawn and Debbie Cook, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Cook of Highland.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Callan have returned from Rockford, Illinois with their son, Harold, who has been teaching in that area. Harold will be married in July to Jackie Weber of Ottawa, Kansas and will be attending Detroit Divinity Seminary in the fall.

Mrs. Glen Salow of Taft Road had a graduation party and open house honoring her granddaughter, DeeDee Proffitt, daughter of Paul Proffitt, at her home on Sunday. Many family members and friends were present for the picnic lunch and afternoon activities.

Several people in the area have been in the Pontiac Hospital recently, including Eral Wilson of South Lake Drive, Bill Wagesnicki of Maudlin, and Mr. William Moody who is now recuperating at the home of his sister, Mrs. Margaret Casell of Owenton.

Ada Brown was the guest of honor last Tuesday at a dinner held at the "Ground Round." She is moving from the area and also from the membership of the "Birthday Club." This is a group of women who have been meeting monthly for 24 years. Local residents who are members include Audrey Ortwine, Millie McHale and Christine Watson.

Peggy Skeltis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Skeltis was guest of honor at an open house last Sunday. Approximately 125 guests were present from Detroit, Howell and Brighton.

Novi Chamber of Commerce

The next meeting will be June 21 at Saratoga Trunk with special guest Harry Mosher, engineer from Johnson and Anderson, city engineers, and Charles Cairns representing Vilcan-Leman and Associates, planning consultants for the City of Novi. They will be updating the businessmen of the community planning and receiving input from the business community regarding plans for the future commercial properties. The Chamber will be having a booth at Gala Days and will have on display products from the businesses, and this will be under the direction of Byron Schimp. Anyone in the business community wishing more information on membership can contact President Don Greengood at 478-4000.

Jaycee Auxiliary

June activities of the Auxiliary include the trip to the zoo for the "Jaycee Kids" and will include wives and children on Friday, June 17. There is a committee assisting the Jaycees on the Gala Days June 22-26 and on the Sunday morning breakfast. On Thursday, June 22 the auxiliary will be taking the young adults from the Northville State Hospital for an outing to the Gala Days. The next general meeting will be Tuesday, June 28 with a representative of the Michigan Citizens Lobby as speaker.

Novi Welcome Wagon

Help is needed in decorating the booth for Gala Days. Call Betty at 476-5326; and standby names are still needed for the manning of the booth. Call Doris, 349-5329. The birthday parties for Whitehall will continue through the summer months on the third Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. If you can bake a cake or help, contact Susan Patton at 349-1161. Prizes are needed for both Whitehall and Beverly Manor bingo. Some of the items needed are notepaper, scarfs, hankies, jewelry, Avon cologne, etc. Call if you have any item. On Tuesday, June 21 at 7:30 p.m. the Evening Creativity group will be meeting with Mary Wilcox to make decoupage purses. If you are planning to attend, call 348-2584.

Novi Little League

Senior League team pictures will be taken on June 20 and 21 at Bosco Field at 5 p.m. Information on makeup pictures which can also be taken at this time either singly or as a team can be obtained by calling Jim Clancy, 349-0545.

Novi Athletic Booster Club

At their last meeting until fall, this group made several upcoming plans including participation at the high school open house. President Bill Longhurst will be heading those working on a booth for that occasion. Materials to explain the Booster Club aims and goals for the coming year will be available and members will be present to answer questions and recruit new members. Jackets will be sold at their booth also. Other plans they worked on are sponsoring the concession stand at the girls softball tournament in August, and the Halloween dance set for October 15 preceding their annual Millionaires Party. Discussion of participation at the Novi Gala Days was also held.

Novi Heights Association

Their regular meeting was held last week at the Novi Middle School. Special guest speaker was Novi City Manager Ed Kriewall who discussed the sewer issue with residents. Reports were heard regarding the annual subdivision cleanup and the picnic lunch following at the George Dingman home on 11 Mile Road.

Novi Business and Professional Women

At their last meeting they made plans for the installation of new officers to be held at the home of member Nellie Parsons June 23. They also made plans to participate in the Novi Gala Days. Other summer plans include a breakfast and fashion show to be held Saturday, August 13, at the Twelve Oaks Mall. Again, any woman who is gainfully employed is eligible for membership. For information call Ruth George at 476-8834. Meetings are usually the fourth Thursday in the month.

VOICE

This group held its last meeting until fall on June 7. At that time the following officers were elected: president, Bruce Abbott; vice president, Connie Manning; secretary, Wanda Meach; treasurer, Paulette Donaldson; and board of directors, Jeane Franks, Lou Ann Drew and Connie Webster. Plans were made regarding the proceeds from the Spring Fling. They will include purchasing Laidlow reading material and playground equipment for the kindergarten class.

Novi Senior Citizens

The rainy weather on June 8 did not cooperate with the senior citizens for their scheduled picnic at Multi Lakes so instead, they will be having one on July 13 at the same place and will give the weather man a second chance. Multi Lakes is located at 3860 Newton Road and just in case of rain, the picnic will be held at the local United Methodist Church. Get well cards and wishes are in order for Mrs. Wallace Cheney and Mrs. Madelyn Butler. Members planning to attend Pennsylvania Dutch tour September 27-October 1 should turn in their $50 deposit by the end of June. Checks may be made payable to Novi Senior Citizens and turned in at the June business meeting scheduled for Tuesday, June 28, or mailed to Leonard Butler, president. The business meeting will be held at the Novi Community Building and will be the last one until September 27.

Parents Without Partners

A reminder of the Metro Dance being sponsored by the Livonia PWP at the Airport Hilton on Saturday, June 18. This weekend also includes the "Camp-in" at Portage Lake. Car pools are necessary so reservations must be made by calling 478-4345. This is for the family and will include swimming, boating, cookouts and lots of fun. Sunday, Fathers Day, there will be a baseball game at noon at the Training Center on Sheldon Road. On June 21 an outing has been planned to see the Detroit Tigers play the Yankees. Car pool starts at Northville Square at 7 p.m. Make early reservations by calling Jim, 349-0295. On Thursday, June 23, there is an invitation to visit Farmington-Southfield meeting at the K of C Hall on Middlebelt starting at 8:30 p.m.

Novi School Reunion

All former students and faculty of the following schools are invited to the 37th annual reunion on Saturday, June 25, at the Novi High School, 25549 Taft Road: Novi, East Novi, West Novi, Bassett, Chapman, Griswold, Putman, Shirriff, Stone, Novi Middle High, Novi Senior High, Novi Woods, Orchard Hills and Village Oaks.

The doors will open at 1 p.m. with a potluck lunch at 2 p.m. The meat, tea and coffee will be furnished, but everyone attending is asked to bring their own table service and a passing dish. The committee is especially interested in hearing from the earliest student and faculty member, latest student and faculty member, the longest distance traveled and the shortest distance traveled. For further information contact Irene Maltby, secretary, at 453-5445 or William MacDermaid, president, at 349-2205.

AARP, Chapter No. 2088

This Chapter of the AARP is open to residents of Novi, Wixom and Farmington, and at the recent election of officers several Novi residents were elected to offices in the organization. They include Berniece Frederick, president, Eleanor Vokes, second vice president, and Dale Gorman, nominating committee chairman.

At the last meeting, the immediate past president, Al Hahn, was presented a past president's pin and certificate by the board of directors, both past and present. The next meeting will be June 17 at 1:30 p.m. at the Farmington Community Library on 12 Mile when attorney John Ogurek and will talk about trusts and wills. Mr. Ogurek is giving his time to help members to understand the complexities of preparing for the future.

I-275 noise pollution called real headache

Noise along newly opened stretches of I-275 has become a real pain for many nearby residents.

And many of those residents made it clear at a public hearing last week that they weren't happy about the problem.

More than 60 of them attended the public hearing of the House Roads and Bridges Committee at Schoolcraft College and voiced their opinions on the recently opened sections of I-275.

Laura Cottrell, a Novi resident, asked the five-man panel of state legislators if it would be worthwhile to enlist the aid of an attorney to speed up the construction of noise barriers along the interstate route.

Meanwhile Steven Foley, who lives in a mobile home park bordering I-275, revealed that he would file a suit against the State of Michigan later in the week.

Foley said his trailer was only 65 feet from the freeway and that noise levels "were just too high". He said he had asked that a study of noise levels be conducted in the area and the studies proved his point.

Paul Milliman, a research engineer for the state who was described as "the noise expert in the department" said that two sections of I-275 are slated for construction of noise barriers. A section from Ford Road to Six Mile Road had been recently approved by the Federal Highway Administration. Another section to the south was approved earlier.

Milliman said sites along I-275 are still eligible as projects which could receive funding. However, many of the 1,011 sites throughout the state which exceed federal noise level standards are worse than areas bordering I-275, he said.

"We have no plans for areas north of Six Mile," he said. He added that "hopefully we can make submissions to take care of the whole route."

Milliman explained that noise barriers are designed to meet federal noise standards of 70 decibels or less in "Human activity areas." He indicated that quieting the noise of vehicles has to be the goal rather than putting up noise barriers which can cost $1 million over a mile stretch of road.

State Representative John Bennett of Redford cautioned local officials to refrain from approving residential areas close to proposed freeway sites.

Driver's ed classes begin

Four driver education classes have been set at Novi High School.

The classes are as follows: June 28-July 23, Russ Gardner; June 28-July 29, John Osborne; August 1-29, Rich Elie; four hours of range instruction and three hours and 20 minutes on the road. Students must be 16 to enroll.

Instructors will work from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will have a total of 120 students in the four classes. Each student receives 30 hours of classroom instruction, four hours of range instruction and three hours and 20 minutes on the road. Students must be 16 to enroll.

Superintendent Dr. Gerald Kratz quipped to the school board last week that when it comes to showing up for class, "There's no greater motivating course than driver's ed."

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

Although most Rhine wines use the same variety of grape, their taste can be vastly different. Both mild and powerful wines use the same grape. There is a way of telling the difference though. Most Rhine wines are grown in three different areas, and the wines from each area have a distinct taste all their own. The vineyards of Rheingau are known as the best in the world for their white wine. Their wines are known particularly for their crispness. Another area is called the Rheinhessen. The wine from this region is usually softer and richer than the Rheingau wines. The last well-known region is the Rheinpfalz where the wine is sweet and rich. So, when you are ordering or buying a Rhine wine, look for the region it came from to get what you want.

Let us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477 help you get what you want for your next party or larger function. We have a large selection of liquor in popular sizes like pints, fifths, full quarts, half gallons and gallons. Inexpensive but good half gallon and gallon table wines are also stocked. Open: 9 a.m. - 10 p.m. Mon. thru Sat., Noon-6 p.m. Sun. As a treat for Dad on Father's Day pick live lobsters from our tank and have them for dinner. We'll explain how to cook and serve them.

WINE WISDOM:
Generally speaking, wine is not served with soups.

James Hunt head of training center

James K. Hunt, MSW, of Williamston, has been named director of Northville Residential Training Center.

His appointment was announced today by Don K. Worden, Ph.D., metropolitan regional director, Michigan Department of Mental Health.

Hunt assumed responsibility this week for overall operation of the center's programs including budgeting, staffing and business management.

Dr. Worden had served as director of the center since July, 1972. He was named a regional director of the Department of Mental Health in September, 1976 but continued his assignment as center director pending appointment of his successor.

Hunt, prior to accepting the Northville post, was chief of the Licensing, Accreditation and Certification Division for the Department of Mental Health in Lansing. In this position he was responsible for licensing all private psychiatric facilities in Michigan and for coordinating activities regarding accreditation of all state facilities for the mentally ill and mentally retarded.

From September 1972 to November 1974, he was special assistant to the director of the state mental health department.

From 1970 to 1972 he was a regional mental health executive for the Department. In this position he served as liaison between the Department and the Detroit-Wayne Community Mental Health Services Board. He was also responsible for coordinating services of state mental health agencies in Wayne County.

Prior to coming to Michigan in 1970, Hunt was executive director of the Loraine County (Ohio) Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board.

"Mr. Hunt brings to this position extensive experience in mental health administration as well as a personal familiarity with services in Wayne County," said Dr. Worden. "I am pleased that we have been able to recruit someone with this broad background for the director's position at the Center."

Hunt, 45, holds a bachelor's degree and a master's degree in health administration from Wayne State University. He earned his master's degree in social work at the University of Michigan, 1969.

The Northville Residential Training Center, with a current population of about 200, serves mentally retarded persons from Wayne County. In addition, the center operates a special 40-bed unit for emotionally disturbed children.

The center is located on Seven Mile Road in Northville.

Award scholarship to Sonya Prystash

A Northville graduate, Sonya Prystash, has been awarded an $8,000 scholarship to attend Oakland University this coming fall.

She was one of six high school students awarded such a scholarship as part of the Mary Fogarty Anibal and Eleanor Anibal Burgum Memorial Scholarships, OU's most prestigious series of awards.

All winners were selected on the basis of academic achievement, test scores, and counselors' recommendations, and without regard to family income.

Sidewalk repairs to cost $72,400

Cost of repairing downtown curbs and sidewalks won't be inexpensive.

A report to council by City Engineer Harold Penn pegs the estimated cost at $72,400.

Of this amount, $18,140 would be paid by the city and $54,260 by affected downtown property owners.

Council ordered the survey of needed repairs and cost estimates following reports of business people relative to downtown problem areas.

Analysis by Penn

shows that replacement of curbs where needed would cost $23,880. Other costs include:

4-inch thick sidewalks, $18,269; 6-inch sidewalks, $4,356; 6-inch approaches, $5,716; replacement of gutters, $60; sidewalk, gutter and approaches to be removed, $5,074; saw cuts, $3,600; and asphalt replacement, $2,000.

Steps for setting up assessment procedures for this project are under way.

Cost of inspection and administration is put at $9,445.

Mr. and Mrs. John Teeter inspect a loom in their new shop located at 154 Alexander Court

Handcraft shop opens

A NEW handcrafts shop has opened in Northville under the name, Traditional Handcrafts.

Located at 154 Mary Alexander Court, the shop is owned and operated by John, Gloria, Sandy and Vikki Teeter, all Northville residents at 571 Randolph Street.

The shop is offering a complete line of spinning, weaving, and natural dyeing supplies and equipment. The operators also will be conducting lessons and workshops.

Its stock will include raw wool and other fibers such as flax, cotton, cashmere, silk and even reindeer hair, and Traditional Handcrafts will feature a comprehensive line of spinning wheels, yarns, looms and shuttles, macrame supplies, various plant and animal materials used for natural dyeing, and a wide selection of textile craft books.

The business is a true family enterprise with all members being spinners and weavers who will take an active part in operation of the shop.

The shop is an outgrowth of the family's interest in antique textiles. Members have lectured on the historical tradition of spinning and weaving in America, and they've demonstrated these crafts throughout the state at various weavers guilds and historical societies.

A few examples of antique textiles and textile tools are displayed in the shop.

The Teeters studied with a former Northville resident, Kate Edgerton.

Traditional Handcrafts is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Monday through Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday.

OBITUARIES

PAUL WILLIAM BUTZ

Paul William Butz, 69, a Northville resident for the past 10 years, died June 10 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Funeral service was held at 10 a.m. Monday at the Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville with Mrs. Pamela K. Stopper officiating. Interment was in Glen Eden Cemetery.

A steel products manufacturer's agent for Huron Steel of Cleveland and Chicago, Mr. Butz was a member of Meadowbrook Country Club. He was born March 23, 1908, in Ohio to George and Gertrude (Pfull) Butz.

He leaves his widow, Ruthella, a son Paul, Jr., of Westland, and two grandchildren.

Interment was in Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville.

In addition to his parents, survivors include a sister, Sherrie; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Olszewski of Westland; and a great-grandmother, Mrs. Jean Wiley of Detroit.

WALTER R. BROWN

Walter Royal Brown, 72, a former Northville resident and retired institutional chef, died June 6 in Boynton Beach, Florida, where he had been living for the past five years.

A memorial service at 2 p.m. last Saturday in Fowlerville Baptist Church followed a service June 8 at the Mizell-Faville-Zern National Chapel at Lantana, Florida.

Mr. Brown was born May 7, 1905, in Fowlerville to Royal G. and Luella (Haller) Brown and was married to the former Marie Schultz, who survives. He had been a member of Northville Masonic Lodge No. 186 and was a chef for 38 years.

In addition to his widow, he leaves a son, Gerald of Fowlerville; a daughter, Dolores McClelland of St. Cloud, Minnesota; three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Warren of Lyons, Mrs. Gladys Warner of Palm Beach and Mrs. Emily Mellett of West Palm Beach; 13 grandchildren and 7 great-grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers the family suggests a contribution in Mr. Brown's name to a favorite charity.

JAMES OLSZEWSKI

Funeral services for James Daniel Olszewski, 7080 Dixboro, Ann Arbor, Salem Township, were held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, in Northville.

The two-year-old son of Jimmy J. and Jean Olszewski died June 10 unexpectedly by drowning. He was taken to the Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Father Kevin O'Brien of Novi Church of the Holy Family officiated at the service at which Robert White, Raymond Dalcherone, Carl Olszewski and Henry Olszewski were pallbearers.

Northville library grant still possible say officials

Northville lost out on its bid for federal library monies but there's a good chance it could receive aid in the new $4 billion federal jobs program. That's the word from U.S. Representative Carl Pursell and Mayor A.M. Allen, who visited Washington, D.C. recently.

Applicants who missed out on grants in the first program when monies ran out reportedly will be among the first to be considered in the new program.

According to Pursell, those communities who applied for grants prior to December 1 will be first on the list in the new program—provided their applications are updated and resubmitted.

Guidelines for updating of such applications are expected to be released soon.

Early this year, the city-township application for a federal grant to build a new library was rejected even though applications submitted later by the Northville School District for remodeling of Main Street Elementary School and by Northville Township for construction of a new township hall complex were approved.

Construction of the latter two projects is underway.

City officials are anxious to resubmit the library grant application, but a hitch may be developing.

Township Supervisor Wilson Grier has warned the city that before an application is resubmitted it must first be reconsidered and approved by the township board.

City officials are wondering why, suddenly, the supervisor is insisting upon reconsideration when the board earlier jointly endorsed and applied for federal monies with city council.

Some officials suspect privately that the supervisor may be attempting to thwart reapplication. And joint reapplication by the city and township is seen as a necessity since the library services both city and township residents.

Last September the township board gave the library application top billing by 4-2 vote. Those casting "no" votes were Clerk Clarice Sass and former township trustee, Richard Mitchell.

One of the reasons for less than unanimous approval by the township was that members preferred an application for township hall monies instead.

Subsequently, the application for township hall monies was also made.

After the township was notified that it would be awarded more than $750,000 for construction of a new township hall complex on Six Mile Road, Supervisor Grier pushed for construction of a library.

Specifically the application was for $140,000 for a 6,000 square foot library building adjacent to the new township hall.

Library officials see such a facility as being inadequate and inappropriately located. Some believe it is back-door attempt to establish a separate township library. They note that the township is about to establish its own fire department, and may be now planning its own library.

The library building for which the city and township initially sought federal funding and for which reapplication is planned—at least by the city—is to be located on what is now the southeast corner of the school's board office parking lot.

The school board has deeded the property to the city for this specific purpose.

Proposed is a split level building that would include a 10,500 square-foot upper level where the library proper would be located and a 6,500 lower level for auxiliary services.

When first proposed, the library's cost was estimated at between $500,000 to $600,000.

Application for federal monies, which was denied, would have provided all of the construction costs. Presumably, those costs have since been inflated and this increase would be reflected in the new application.

The fact that Northville's application was among the first to be presented to the government initially, the fact that more jobs producing monies are available in the new federal program ($4 billion versus $2 billion), and the fact that applications denied in the first round will receive top billing in new program, "makes it look like we could very well get our library yet," said Mayor Allen last week.

But that was before Supervisor Grier's letter about board reconsideration and approval was received by the city.

Dumas says sale delay could stop prison

"I think we have a good chance of delaying an immediate sale and possibly preventing it from becoming a prison."

That was the prediction of Wayne County Commissioner Mary Dumas in the wake of the recent decision of the board of commissioner not to give "emergency" consideration of a public works committee recommendation.

It was the emergency labeling that was defeated — not the recommendation itself, emphasized Mrs. Dumas.

"I'm confident the recommendation will be approved when it comes up for a vote on June 16," she said.

That recommendation suggests a 45-day delay in sale of the Child Development Center pending receipt of other purchase offers.

"When it comes up on June 16 I'm going to offer an amendment that the 45-day period begins as of that date — not at the point when the committee made its recommendation.

"That should give those groups who are proposing purchase of the property time to get their ducks in order."

The commissioner said she believes the delay would be a blow for the state corrections officials who have been emphasizing the importance of an early decision on its offer to purchase the property for $9 million.

"They don't want it (Child Development Center) placed on the open market. I'm told the state will not enter the bidding picture."

Mrs. Dumas said the county's appraised value of the property ($14 million) is just one of the factors that may force the state to back off its proposal to develop a prison on the Child Development Center.

Besides the delay represented by the public works committee and the county's suggestion that the property is worth considerably more than is being offered by the state, "the state's got to consider the fact that farmers who are growing crops on the property must either be paid damages or given time to harvest their crops.

"There's still another factor. We've (county commissioners) learned that Consumers Power Company has an old lease for storage on the property. That's a complication I'm sure the state had not considered. I'm told it may have been one of the reasons the (federal) government did not pick Northville for its solar energy center.

"Perhaps more important, the legislature has to appropriate money if the state's going to buy the property and that's far from settled."

According to State Senator R. Robert Geake, committee members are still divided over whether or not to appropriate money for the Child Development Center purchase.

A purchase proposal in the Holland area for a new state prison has been given greater priority by the governor than the Northville site and it hasn't been decided yet, Geake said, indicating that the decision on the Northville property won't come before one on the Holland site.

CETA to paint school

Novi School district received a $50,000 windfall when the allocation for Comprehensive Employment and Training Act funds (CETA) were announced.

The district will be receiving $50,000 to employ six persons to paint the interior of the existing high school.

The project monies were applied for, according to the administration, when the school district was pressured for a quick application. Because the current high school is being renovated to a middle school, the painting is necessary.

The school district had also submitted applications for funds for the following projects but did not receive approval: hiring of educational and library aides; renovation of school district's open space; renovating building roofs; hiring of community ed school coordinators; increasing insulation of existing buildings.

Approximately 15 percent of the $50,000 can be used to buy materials such as paint.

The school district will also be increasing its maintenance staff by two as a result of $75,000 in CETA funds which the school district will be receiving under Title VI. That money will pay for the wages of three employees already under CETA, as well as the two new employees.

In addition, CETA, Title III is allocating the school district $13,000 for continuation of the youth employment program. That money will provide for 10 work experience positions.

At Novi co-op

It's an 'unbirthday'

An "unbirthday party"? That's exactly what several children at the Novi Cooperative Nursery School had recently on the last day of nursery school. Since there was no way to celebrate the birthdays of youngsters having them during the summer, the nursery held an "unbirthday party".

Besides the unbirthday party, all of the children received diplomas from their teacher, Lane Norton. The celebration completed seven years of operation for the nursery, which is located at 21633 Beck Road.

New officers, who were recently elected were: President Trish Swanson; vice presidents Sue Asselin, Elaine Gutierrez, and Joyce Brady; secretary Judy Bloomquist; treasurer Linda Crawford; delegates Linda Deakins and Ruth Alexander; and membership chairperson Stephanie Koehn.

There are still a few openings for classes starting in September. Persons interested should contact Stephanie Koehn at 349-0092. Novi Cooperative Nursery is non-profit.

Blatt criticizes no-fault insurance

"No-Fault Auto Insurance in Michigan needs major change."

So says Nancie Blatt, Democratic candidate for State Representative in the 35th District (most of Livonia, Northville Township and the Wayne County portion of the City of Northville).

In a talk recently, Mrs. Blatt traced the most severe increases in auto insurance premiums directly to the advent of Michigan's No-Fault Auto Insurance Statute in October, 1973.

"Everyone who drives an automobile must now carry auto insurance in Michigan and yet the premiums are becoming so high that many people can not afford to pay the high costs," said Mrs. Blatt.

"While the intent of the Legislature was to reduce or maintain relatively low premium rates for the driving public, the law has accomplished just the opposite. The law has become discriminatory and almost impossible for the insurance companies to administer.

The safe driver and his insurance company is the one to suffer. We must change the law to make the driver who causes the accidents responsible at least for the damage to the innocent victim's vehicle. Why should my insurance company be responsible for the damage to my car when a drunk driver runs into me?"

Admitting that inflation has had a great deal to do with the rapid increases in insurance premiums, Mrs. Blatt insisted that if the law were changed, premiums would not rise nearly as fast and that premiums may even be reduced for certain classes of safe drivers.

Marksman kills cat

In the time it took for a shot to be fired, a Novi woman's backyard ceased to be a haven.

Now, Valerie Hambleton feels "vulnerable" in her Galway Drive home.

Shortly after 9 p.m. last Tuesday, someone shot and killed Mrs. Hambleton's four year old cat. She says a .22 caliber bullet was found in the body of her white and beige pet, one of eight cats she owns.

"There it was in its death throes, about 10 feet from the family room window," she recalls.

Since she did not see who did the shooting, there is little that police can do.

The fact that someone would so freely use a gun in a residential neighborhood has Mrs. Hambleton, who has two small children, very concerned.

"This is an example of a problem in America," says Mrs. Hambleton, who moved to this country from England seven years ago.

"If somebody decides they are going to do something, then 'bang' they do it and it's decided.

She says guns aren't used to settle disputes in England for a very simple reason.

"You can't buy firearms in England."

Mrs. Hambleton says she has kept close tabs on her cats since a neighbor complained about their roaming a year ago.

They spend all but an hour or two each day in her basement and she never lets them all outside at once, she says. And, she notes, her cat was in her own backyard when it was killed "obviously by some sort of marksman."

This isn't the first time a cat has been injured. Previously, a BB pellet was removed from another pet.

"I feel very vulnerable," she says. "I feel like I'm a target."

Seek marked horse trails

A resolution urging the state department of natural resources to provide marked horse trails in the Proud Lake Recreation Area and other state-owned lands has been adopted by the Northville City Council.

The measure was written by Mayor pro tem Paul Vernon in support of a recommendation by State Representative Richard D. Fessler.

It cites the popularity of horseback riding in this area, noting that Northville is located in an area recognized as the "horse capital" of Michigan, and it points out that trails for riding of horses can be accomplished "at very minimal cost."

Such trails already have been established in Maybury Park here.

John Regenhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Regenhart, 44428 Cottisford, was, graduated magna cum laude at Kalamazoo College on June 11.

He was cited for outstanding achievement in music both in performance and conducting.

Commencement speaker was Joseph Papp, New York theatre producer and director.

Lenheiser was awarded a law degree at Ohio Northern University at the university's 106th commencement exercises recently.

He was one of 97 students in the Pettit College of Law to receive the degree.

John L. Clark of Novi has been awarded a degree at Hillsdale College. Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark of 24670 Bashian has been awarded a B.A. degree in economics and business administration-accounting.

Clark is a graduate of Harrison High School.

Diane Rixie of Novi will be among the record number of graduates to receive diplomas from Patricia Stevens Career College of Milwaukee in commencement exercises to be held on Saturday, June 11.

The commencement address will be delivered by prominent Milwaukee business executive, Clifford A. Robedeaux, director and past vice president of the National Association of Realtors and nationally known speaker.

Miss Rixie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rixie, 23148 Heatherwoode, Novi. She will be graduating from a nine-month public relations course.

Barbara Campbell, assistant principal, in calling attention to the imaginative work by senior students, says she "hopes it's part of a turnaround" in attitude at the high school.

10-4 on Bible School

"10-4: God's Message Received and Understood."

That's the theme of vacation Bible school next week at First Baptist Church, Northville, according to the Reverend Ralph Palmer, pastor.

Classes will be held each day, Monday through Friday, June 20-24, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. There are classes for boys and girls from two years old up through grade six.

A junior high VBS will meet in the evenings at the church from 7 to 9 p.m.

The Bible school will consist of Bible stories, songs, crafts, contests and missionary stories. A special project for the week is a missionary offering for Jan Nyquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Nyquist, Jeffrey avenue, Northville, who will be leaving July 1 on a six-week missionary trip to Scotland.

All children in the community are invited to attend the vacation Bible school. Transportation can be arranged by calling the church, 348-1020.

Graham film Sunday

The Billy Graham film, "For Pete's Sake!" will be shown at the Orchard

in Novi, beginning at 7:00 p.m. this Sunday, June 19.

Filmed entirely on location in Denver and the Colorado Rockies, "For Pete's Sake!" is the story of Pete Harper, a family man and service station owner, who is knocked flat by unexpected problems but finds the courage and strength to stand up again and face life anew.

"For Pete's Sake!" has been seen nationwide by over three million people and has been rated by one film critic as "the perfect mixture — it is drama at its boldest, comedy at its lightest, and action at its liveliest. "For Pete's Sake!" is a family film, not only because it is good family entertainment, but because through its storyline, families can see and feel exactly what is needed to develop deeper understanding and build stronger ties," Pastor Tom Martin said.

A cordial invitation is extended to all families of the area by the pastor, who made arrangements for this special showing of "For Pete's Sake!" There is no admission charge for the film; however, an offering for the Billy Graham film ministry will be taken during the showing.

Church members vote on proposal

Members of Epiphany Lutheran Church, located on Five Mile Road in Northville Township, will vote to approve a special program proposal for their ministry on Sunday immediately following the morning worship hour.

The proposal culminates three months of planning which included a congregation-wide planning workshop and visits to all the families on the active membership rolls.

Specific projects now being completed include the addition of new pews in the sanctuary, the painting and redecorating of the all-purpose room and the carpeting of the worship area.

Stated the Reverend Fred Prezioso, pastor of the church:

"The commitment shown by so many of our members during the planning and implementation of this Every Member Response program has been truly an inspiration to me. I feel privileged to serve as their pastor."

Epiphany is located at 41390 Five Mile Road.

Church school plans set

A GONER—Northville firefighters train their hoses on a small frame home on Seven Mile Road Thursday afternoon as smoke and flames belch from inside the building. The fire, which totally consumed the interior and extensively damaged the exterior of the home, was believed to have started when a TV set shorted out. There were no injuries reported at the scene.

Frankenmuth trip planned for senior citizens

Plans for a trip to Frankenmuth for a chicken dinner are in store for Northville senior citizens next month. That's the word from Hans Lahr, Wayne County coordinator for the senior citizen program here. The bus trip to the Bavarian Inn will take place on July 22. According to Lahr, bus or buses will leave Northville at 9:15 a.m. after loading at the Northville Square parking lot. Dinner will be served at the Bavarian Inn at 11:45 a.m., and buses will depart Frankenmuth at 2:30 p.m., arriving back in Northville at 4:45 p.m. Deadline for reservations is Friday, July 15. Senior citizens wishing to make reservations may do so sending or delivering their checks or money to either Lahr or Mary Schnell, nutrition representative, on any day between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the lower level of the Northville City Hall by calling Lahr at 349-1300. Lahr lauded the Out Wayne County, Title VII Nutrition program "for their cooperation and many fine services Title VII is providing for the benefit of our senior citizens." These programs include, among others, the hot meals served five times weekly between 11:45 a.m. and 12:15 p.m.

CITY OF NOVI OAKLAND COUNTY, MICHIGAN SUMMARY OF CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

The Council of the City of Novi met in regular session at the Novi School Administration Building on Monday, June 6, 1977, at 8:00 P.M. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Henderson. All members of the Council were present with the exception of Councilman Schmid who was excused. Also present were: Edward Kriewall, City Manager, David M. Fried, City Attorney, Fred Todd, Finance Director, Harry Mosher, City Engineer and Geraldine Stipp, City Clerk.

No bids were received for insurance for the City. Another notice will be placed in the Novi News to secure bids for opening on June 27th. There was discussion regarding securing an agent of record to secure insurance for use and possibly getting something started on a statewide basis. The City Manager will write to our Senator and Representative expressing our concern and also the State Insurance Bureau and Municipal League.

A public hearing was held on the 1977 Budget. The budget was adopted without change. The Finance Director was directed to bring back a recommendation for a budget adjustment for the hiring of a grantsman in light of $150,000 extra CETA dollars we will receive. Two graphs will be published in the Novi News entitled "Where Your Tax Dollars Went" and "General Fund Expenditures".

A resolution was adopted indicating there will be no collection fee added to county and school taxes.

Mr. Heller, resident of Meadowbrook Glens Subdivision was present, and stated that he has a drainage problem. Mr. Mosher will review the situation, as the problem appears to be a grade problem rather than a sump problem, and will come back to Council with a possible solution and cost estimate.

A letter was submitted to Council from the Pioneer Meadows Homeowners Association requesting that the speed limit on Beck Road be reduced from 40 mph to 25 mph. The letter was referred to the Police Department for a report and recommendation.

A letter was received from K. Fred Ajluni, Attorney, regarding rezoning of Lot 22 in Sawtooth Walnut Hills Subdivision. Mr. Fried will reply to the letter. A letter was also received from Robert Parivka, regarding several problems in Willowbrook Subdivision. The problems are being taken care of and the City Manager will write a letter to the Willowbrook Association. The final approval of the preliminary plat for Turtle Creek Subdivision was set for the Council Meeting on June 20th.

Regarding clean up from the 14 Mile Water Line Extension, Mr. Mosher has given the M&B Company two days to commence clean up. He will notify them in writing.

The Novi Heights Subdivision Association will conduct a poll of the residents as to whether they wish to proceed immediately with the sewer project or wait as there may be possible sewer sewer funding. The Association will supply information on septic failures and present their response to the Council by July 1st.

Resolutions were adopted whereby an Advisory Question, a Special Assessment Bonding Proposition, 1/2 Mill for Parks & Recreation Commission, a Library completion proposal, and land acquisition and police facility proposal will appear on the November ballot for a vote of the community.

Final preliminary plat approval was granted for Whispering Meadows No. 1 Subdivision. The developer shall agree in the R.U.D. contract to carry out the obligations contained in the letters dated May 4, 1977 and June 3, 1977, from Burton A. Binder, Kaufman & Broad Homes, Inc. to George Mitchell, President of the Village Oaks Common Areas Association in regard to maintenance of the retention basins and the water flowing into the Village Oaks Lakes. Further, the developer shall provide in his Covenants and Restrictions the same conditions.

A variance was granted in connection with the street right of way between lots 238 and 240 in Meadowbrook Glens no. 1 as requested for the reasons stated by Mr. Art Shepard, indicating a practical difficulty and hardship.

ESY teachers file grievance on calendar

Northville teachers have filed a grievance with the school because year-round school will not be offered next year.

The grievance was filed because "no conditions have changed" since the board ratified a contract in November that allows for an extended school year (ESY) calendar, according to Northville Education Association President Barbara LeBoeuf.

Northville Superintendent Raymond Spear said the contract provides an ESY calendar that must be followed if there is year-round school, but he said it does not mandate an ESY program.

Last month — after considerable debate and several mind changes — the school board voted to drop the voluntary year-round program at all grades and place all Northville students in the traditional year calendar, which begins on September 6.

"They (the school board) had the opportunity to do this (change the calendar) in November," said Ms. LeBoeuf.

She said she could understand the decision to drop ESY if it is impossible to offer it, but noted that about half of the elementary students go to school year-round.

"The contract in several places speaks to ESY," she said. "It says, in effect, that ESY and TSY teachers will be treated equally."

Teachers are completing the first year of a three-year contract that provides TSY and ESY calendars for each year.

Earlier this year, the school board moved to create a single calendar because it was inefficient, expensive and morale damaging to run two calendars.

When attempts at a compromise "modified" calendar failed because teachers and the school board could not agree on a new calendar, the board voted to return to the traditional school year.

Ms. LeBoeuf says the union is waiting for Spear's written response to the grievance.

Operating farm's a costly, tough business

By DENNIS KEENON

Bill Armstrong and Gerald White, partners in a dairy farm operation in Brighton Township, Livingston County, toil from 14 to 15 hours a day trying to get ahead in a business that requires an enormous investment with no promise of similar monetary return.

The partners work 13 days straight and take one day off. Last year, their "vacations" amounted to three or four days apiece. Their farm at 1222 Maxfield Road is their life.

"We're just makin' a living," Armstrong said, "but we're proud of what we do and what we've accomplished."

Armstrong and White run one of just 200 full-time farms left in Livingston County.

The farmer is a vanishing species across the United States. In Livingston County, for example, there were a total of 2,228 farms (full-time and part-time) in 1944. That dipped to 1,829 in 1954, 1,335 in 1964 and only 872 in 1974, the last agricultural census.

And one of the primary reasons for the large decrease in farms, according to Duane Girbach, Livingston County Cooperative Extension Service Director, is the large monetary investment required to operate a farm.

"The necessary investment is so tremendous that it does limit people from getting into farming," Girbach said. "In fact, I would say, unless you had a farm background, it would almost be impossible to start in farming from scratch."

Girbach provides some figures on the kind of capital required to operate different kinds of farms.

A cattle feeding farm with 753 acres would require a total investment of some $804,000, including land, machinery and livestock. A cash grain operation with 615 acres would require an investment of $554,000. And a dairy farm, with 369 acres, would require a $366,000 investment.

Land and machinery consume a large portion of the investment.

"The farmer who owns his land and real estate has a big advantage," Girbach said. "A tenant farmer is just like a renter. Machinery is extremely expensive. You can pay $40,000 for a four-wheel tractor or a big combine."

Unless you're fortunate enough to have inherited the family farm or have large amounts of money to invest, there are three steps in establishing yourself as a farmer, Girbach said.

"The first step is usually working as a hired man to get experience," he said. "The next step is to cash rent a farm, buy used machinery and some livestock, and convince the credit people that you know what you're doing. That stage can last 10 years. You gradually upgrade your machinery, increase the size of your herds and get your machinery and cattle paid off. Then you've got enough equity to purchase your own farm on land contract."

Armstrong and White are dairy farmers because, they say, it's profitable and because it brings in a regular monthly income.

"With beef, you're not sure what the price will be," Armstrong said. "Dairy farming is a little safer."

The partners are renting their 400-acre farm and already have a large investment in machinery, including five tractors worth some $50,000 among other machinery. Last year, they erected a $14,500 silo.

"In 1972, I paid $10,000 for a 100-horsepower tractor," Armstrong said. "That same tractor costs $16,000 today."

Overall operational costs are up 40 percent across-the-board, Armstrong said. In addition, the partners shell out from $20,000 to $25,000 a year on maintenance alone.

"In 1972, the price for milk was $8 to $9 per hundred weight (100 pounds)," White said. "We're getting a little over $10 now but it should be $15 or better because our costs have gone up so much."

They talk about the day when big business will take over farming.

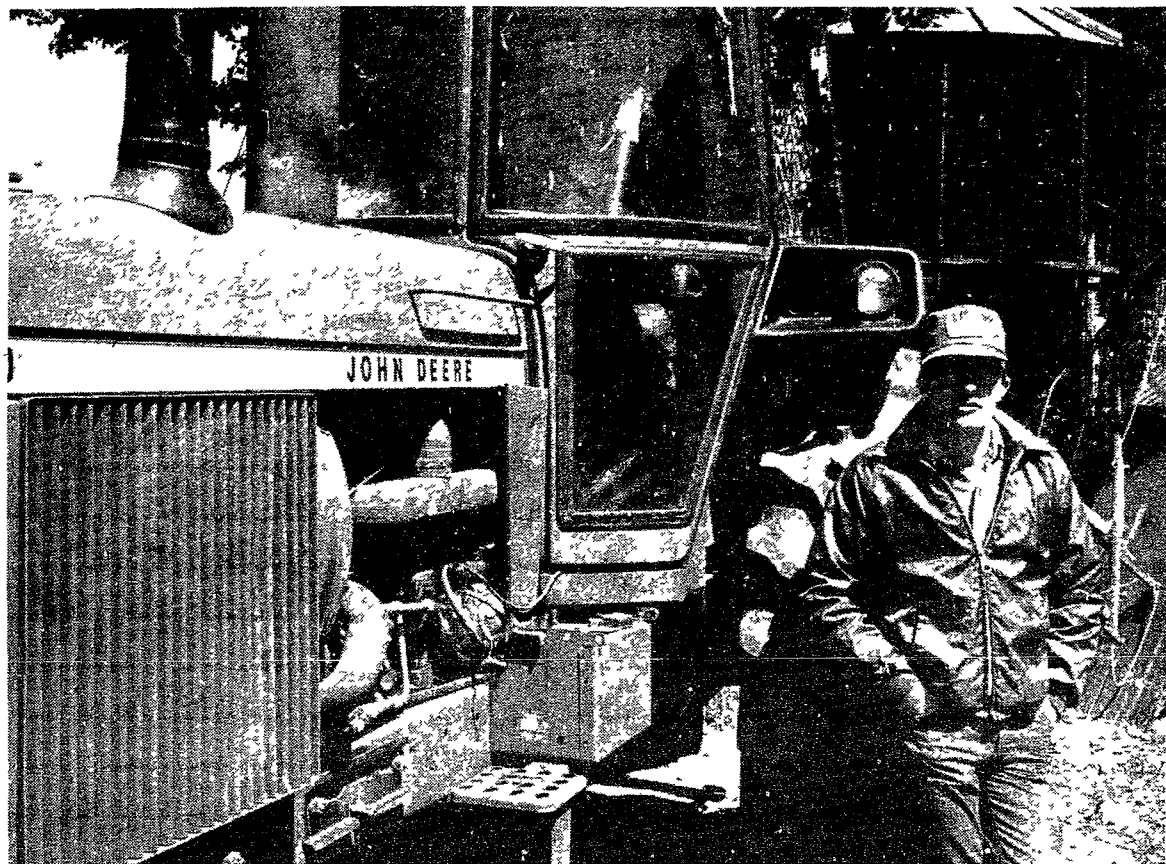

"Farms will be owned by Ford and GM and they'll be telling you how much you're going to pay," Armstrong said. "As it is, when we market our product, we don't ask, 'what will you give us?' — they tell us what we're going to get."

Then why stick with a business in which some years it's a struggle just to break even?

"There's prestige in what we're doing and how we're getting ahead," Armstrong said. "The farmer runs his own show. There's freedom and independence in this job. We're making our own decisions. In farming, you have to be optimistic and look six months ahead or you'll be on the road."

Bill Armstrong: $10,000 1972 tractor costs $16,000 today

The Light Touch
by ANN L. ROY

Did you hear about the Ethnic gentleman that went out on a limb—he wanted to be a branch manager.

Stinky & Pinky reeled out of a London pub and climbed on a double decker bus. Stinky insisted on going topside—after a short time upstairs he came running down to his pal, white as a sheet. "What's wrong?" asked Pinky. "Don't go upstairs!" cried Stinky "There's no driver!"

Little Britches

The Washtenaw County 4-H Spring Round-up was a vast success for members of the Little Britches Club as they "rounded up" a large number of awards.

Taking two firsts — in Western horsemanship and Western riding — was Kim Lloyd who also took a third in western fitting and showing and a sixth in Baby Green Hunter.

Beth Wilson won two-thirds — in novice English pleasure and Western horsemanship — a fourth in Western fitting and showing and a sixth in novice English equitation.

A first in saddle seat equitation, a second in English pony equitation and a fifth in English pony pleasure went to Lisa Wilson.

Johnny Wilson earned two sixths — pony English pleasure and western pony horsemanship.

English equitation and English equitation novice were Diane Song's forte as she claimed first in both events.

It was a fourth in English fitting and showing and a fifth in Western fitting and showing for Cynthia Cox.

Joey Rochel achieved a fourth in Western fitting and showing and a fourth in Western horsemanship.

A second in Western horsemanship went to Pam Sherrill and Laura Burrell and Gail Smith won a second in the pairs class.

It was a third in pony Western horsemanship for Mary Cergol and a fourth in pony Western pleasure.

Celeste Cergol took a third in Western pleasure and a fourth in Western horsemanship.

The concession stand operated by the Little Britches as a fund raising project was also a success.

Wednesday, June 15, 1977—THE NORTHVILLE RECORD—NOVI NEWS—SOUTH LYON HERALD—BRIGHTON ARGUS—9-C

GERALD HAYNES, owner of Gerald's of Northville beauty salon at 41012 Five Mile in Northville Township, shows off his family and his newest salon, a former YWCA at 1034 Monroe in Dearborn. Son Dane, at left, has been trained in New York, London, Cleveland and Detroit and will begin working for his father in the Dearborn salon. Colby, still in high school, is contemplating future career choices while acting as hostess at her father's formal opening of the newest branch of Gerald's salons June 6. Instead of the usual champagne opening, the 130 guests toured Gerald's newest salon as they munched on hearty Greek foods. Gerald who headquarters in his Franklin salon spends part of each week in the Northville shop. Almost a year and $150,000 was spent remaking the one-time YWCA into a salon. Models showed longer, fuller, more romantic fall styles at the opening. Gerald explained that fall fashions, which he saw in Paris, will require hair of more adaptable length which can be curled into disco-proof free falls, swept into a chignon or loose bun and often permanented in under-layers to provide fullness and body for new clothes balance.

PATRICIA L. KNAPP of the Bogan Agency, Inc., Brighton, recently attended the Meridian Insurance Company's annual awards meeting at French Lick, Indiana.

The event was held to honor more than 100 independent agencies which met established production and profit goals for 1976 and were named Pacemaker 500 agencies.

The Meridian Insurance Group writes automobile, home, farm, business, life and health coverages in Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan and Ohio.

TERRY FRASER, Realtor Associate of Rymal Symes Realtors of Novi, has been appointed Director of the Livonia Community Concert Band.

Fraser, a native of Northville, is a graduate of Northville High School and Eastern Michigan University with a degree in Instrumental Music Education. He and his wife, Phyllis, now reside in Novi.

Fraser indicated that the Livonia Community Concert Band will provide free "Music Under the Stars" throughout the summer with a variety of music that will provide enjoyable entertainment for everyone.

NATIONAL DETROIT Corporation and The Brighton State Bank, after careful study, today jointly announced they have determined not to seek reconsideration or further review of the order of the Federal Reserve Board of May 12, 1977, denying them permission to affiliate.

The two institutions had sought the Federal Reserve Board's approval of a plan under which National Detroit Corporation offered each shareholder of The Brighton State Bank 1.7 shares of National Detroit stock for each share of the Bank's stock.

The plan also included an offer by National Detroit to the holders of the convertible debentures of the Bank to purchase each $1,000 debenture for $1,200. All of the debentures and over 95 percent of the stock of the Bank had been tendered to National Detroit. These securities will now be returned to their owners.

If the plan had been approved by the Federal Reserve Board, The Brighton State Bank would have become a subsidiary of National Detroit Corporation, holding company parent of National Bank of Detroit and several other banks in Michigan, and the state's largest banking organization.

Federal Reserve Board approval of transactions of this kind is required under the Federal Bank Holding Company Law. While the Board found all banking factors favorable to the plan, its order indicated that approval would have had adverse competitive effects in the Federal Reserve Board's newly defined and expanded Detroit banking market, which now includes all or parts of eight counties.

Officers of the two banking organizations expressed regret that they would not be able to combine their organizations, but expressed confidence that each institution would continue its tradition of excellent banking services to its customers.

THE NEWEST BRANCH office of First Federal Savings of Detroit was officially opened today at Six Mile and Newburgh Roads in Livonia.

Livonia City Council President Robert E. McCann joined with First Federal President James A. Aliber and First Federal Livonia Branch Manager James Watters in cutting the ribbon to formally mark the grand opening of the new office.

"We at First Federal are not only please to be a part of the active business community here in Livonia, but we also are proud to have the chance to share in the growth of the community," said Aliber.

The new branch facility, which is adjacent to the Newburgh Plaza, offers customers approximately 4,700 square feet of service area, drive-in service and plenty of free parking.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS of The Brighton State Bank on May 10 declared a 35 cent per share quarterly dividend to be paid June 20 to shareholders of record June 1. This second quarter dividend is 5 cents greater than the 1976 second quarter dividend and represents a 10 cent increase over the first half of last year.

In his comments to the press, Whitney R. Kimble, president of The Brighton State Bank, attributed this increase to continuing bank growth, particularly in the area of personal savings. He also stressed the continuing population and economic growth in the area as prime movers in this trend.

In conclusion, Kimble expressed appreciation to the stockholders and customers of the bank for their continuing support.

FRANKLIN C. PINKELMAN, 44942 Byrne Drive, Northville, was elected as the new president of the Detroit Chapter of The Institute of Internal Auditors, Inc. He was elected at the dinner meeting on June 2, and will take office on July 1.

Pinkelman, deputy auditor general of Michigan, is a certified internal auditor and a certified public accountant. He has held several other offices in the Detroit chapter, is a member of the International Government and Public Affairs Committee of the Institute, and is active in governmental accounting and auditing and internal auditing on a national level.

The Institute of Internal Auditors is a professional organization serving business, industry, government and educational institutions through 13,000 members in 22 countries. The Detroit chapter, consisting of 175 members from many Detroit area businesses including automotive, public utilities and insurance, holds monthly seminars and professional meetings at the Raleigh House in Southfield.

Here's 70 miles of biking fun

Rolling countryside, steep hills, winding roads and the meandering Muskegon River make a 70-mile route through western Mecosta and Newaygo counties one of Michigan's most interesting bicycle trips, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

From Big Rapids' Ferris State College, the circle tour climbs, winds and dips along M-20 through open and heavily treed areas before connecting with M-37 and taking pedal pushers to the cities of White Cloud and Newaygo.

The terrain changes abruptly to include the Muskegon River, which traces the 16-mile southern part of the journey. Bicyclists are taken over the river's widest stretches at Croton and Newaygo dams.

The final portion is as interesting as the beginning and cyclists requiring a night's sleep can stop at one of the area's state or private campgrounds. Motels also are available at Newaygo, White Cloud and Big Rapids.

White Cloud has a well-kept city park on M-37 with picnic tables, charcoal grills and shuffleboard courts. For those wishing to camp, White Cloud State park is located on M-20, just outside the city limits. After browsing through the downtown sections, bikers can begin the 12-mile trip to Newaygo on rolling M-37.

To enter the Newaygo area, bikers cross a narrow two-lane bridge spanning Penoyer Creek and continue straight on Croton Road. To visit Newaygo, bikers must turn right and cross the Muskegon River bridge.

Along Croton Road, cyclists pedal uphill one-quarter-mile. After conquering the trip's steepest grade, bikers can enjoy a magnificent view of the Muskegon River while resting.

Two parks are located here. Shaw Park has picnic tables for lunch breaks while the adjacent Henning County Park has space for camping, with a boat launching ramp, baseball fields, tennis courts and rest rooms nearby.

Riders must pedal eight miles over gentle to steep terrain before reaching Croton Dam, where the Muskegon widens. Croton Township Park offers overnight camping facilities.

The eight-mile stretch from Croton Dam to Hardy Dam is fairly hilly. Unlike Croton Dam, which must be viewed from a distance, bicyclists go over Hardy Dam. The view here is panoramic as the river widens to a mile across.

There is a roadside park immediately after crossing the dam. Campers will find 99 wooded campsites at Newaygo State Park, located about three miles from Hardy Dam on 38th and 32nd streets.

Bicyclists should pace themselves according to their ability.

Reading H. Read

For a love of a gal
Who has written quite aptly
Of first travels by plane,
I'll tell you quite happily

Though I have spanned most of the world—
With your eyes of seventy-three,
In that mighty giant bird you
Told the story better than me.

For this, the Poet's Corner
Gave 'First Flight' full birth
As only befitting, it's Fine-combed, descriptive worth.

Echoes of Spring

in its friendly grasp... speaking to me of springtime . . . where all things become so new and fresh.
It told me of new beginnings, where one is able to start all over again.

It would be another season to blossom forth and become one with the grounds, the earth, and the people...

and in this realization, I felt once again the sense, there within, and it was with the sun—when the power of renewal was released.

Reflections

If I could put in words
The thoughts I'd like to say,
I'd speak of folk I know
And of their destinies.

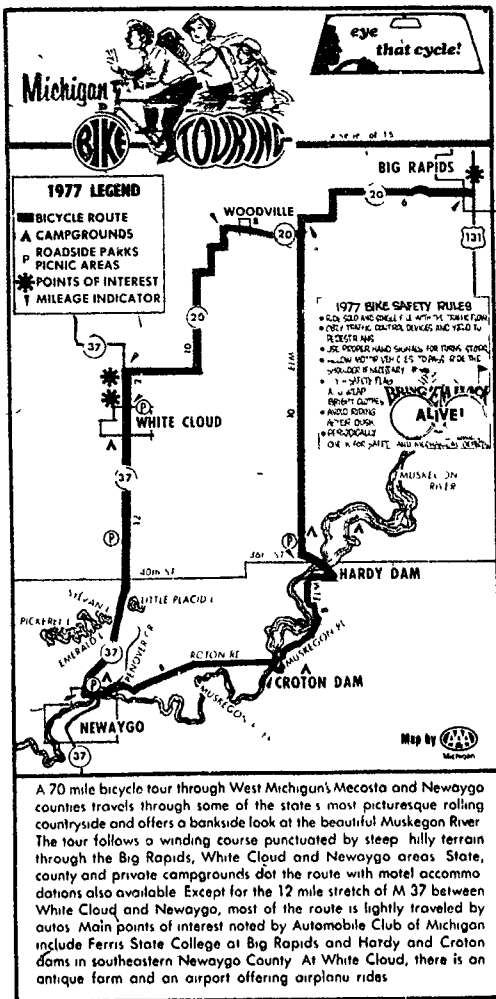

I'd speak of the poet, whose mystical themes
Look to the future of man;
Of the writer of music who interprets our dreams
As only a master can.

I would speak in awe of the artist's grace
Who sees dimensions beyond—
I'd lift my eyes in time and space
With the scientist, searching alone.

I'd go afield with the wanderer,
Looking for life of the past;
I'd walk and dig with the gardener
If I thought I could meet the test.

I would sit by the side of the road with man
To learn of his purpose there
In fulfilling his part in the ultimate plan
To achieve an answer to prayer.

Planted in intervals

Corn's good, season-long crop

By KATHY COPLEY

Tomatoes and corn most effectively bring to mind the fresh, succulent flavors of fresh vegetables. And there is no good reason — short of space problems — which prevent you from enjoying both. Tomatoes you already know about: find out something about corn now.

Corn yields about 30 ears per 25-foot row. To have corn throughout the summer, either plant some of three varieties which mature early in the season, at mid-season, and late season. Another method is to make successive plantings of the same variety at 2-week intervals.

The Indians pioneered corn cultivation. They planted it in hills or five plants placed about six feet apart. (They also planted a fish or two beneath the corn kernels to act as fertilizer and let squash-melon-pumpkin vines carpet the ground and discourage raccoons.) The more common — but not necessarily better method — is to plant corn in rows, with plants thinned to stand 12-14 inches apart, in rows 36 inches apart.

Several short rows are more effective and produce higher yields than a single long row. Unlike most vegetables, corn is not pollinated by bees; it is pollinated by wind. Naturally, the wind has a better chance of circulating pollen in several short rows.

Popcorn and sweet corn will cross-pollinate, so it is best not to plant the two varieties in the same area. You will end up with very hard, tough sweet corn, and mushy popcorn.

Corn needs plenty of fertilizer. At planting time, a band of fertilizer should be dug into a furrow 2 inches from the seeds. Use a 5-10-10 or 10-10-10 at the rate of 30 pounds per 100-feet of row.

When corn is 8 inches high, side dress it with the same amount of fertilizer as was used at planting time. Repeat when the corn is 18 inches high and when tassels appear.

The best corn is produced on plants which do not suffer the strains of drought. Especially from the time between tasseling and picking, corn needs one inch of water per week. The roots are shallow and are especially susceptible to lack of water.

The most common test of corn's ripeness is the fingernail test. Cut into a kernel with your nail. If milky liquid squirts out, it is ripe. The kernels at the top should be filled in and the silk will probably be brown.

Sweet corn is at its best for a period of 7-10 days. The top ears mature one or two days later than the lower ears. To be at its sweet and juicy best, sweet corn should be cooked within minutes of picking. Whatever method you choose — steaming, roasting, boiling, etc. — don't salt corn prior to cooking. It is said to make the kernels tough.

There are a few members of Nature's family which interfere with the smooth operation of the corn patch. Raccoons smell the ripening corn and slip in under the cover of darkness to sample the ears. Discourage them the way the Indians did, by planting squash-melons-pumpkins between the rows. Rumor has it that the varmints don't like the rattle and scratch of the leaves and stems.

Birds enjoy a little fresh corn, too. They peel back the top of the husk and enjoy a lot more of each cob than they deserve. Slip a paper bag over each ear once it has been pollinated, and especially after the silk turns brown.

The corn earworm and borer are the major pests. If you are of an organic bent, dust the tassels with red pepper or with rotenone. Once the tassels appear, Sevin is effective when used at regular intervals. (It is normally harmful to bees, but corn is wind, not bee, pollinated.)

If a black, powdery fungus called smut appears, remove and burn the affected plants.

'Experiment first'

It's hard to move a tree after you've planted it or change the location of a walkway after the concrete is poured. So cure these landscape mistakes with prevention.

"Before you make a permanent change in your landscape, try it out in some way to be sure it's what you want," suggests Joe Cox, Extension landscape architecture specialist at Michigan State University.

Mark proposed changes with stakes and string or a length of garden hose, he says. Or take a picture of your home, blow it up to an 8 x 10 and draw proposed changes on a clear plastic overlay. You can also project a slide of the property onto a blackboard or large sheet of paper and sketch in changes you think you'd like.

"All this calls for a little imagination, of course," Cox notes.

"After all, a row of stakes and string doesn't look a lot like a patio or a hedge."

Plan to visit Mill Race Village on the Fourth to see progress since this composite was made by Fran Gazlay

Mill Race gardens to bloom for July 4

Marigolds and pansy faces are brightening the gardens of Northville's Mill Race Historic Village off Griswold. But there also are onion shoots and basil plants, and the fragrance of rosemary and lavender herbs should be noticed soon. They're in the newest garden in the

The little geometric garden outlined with bricks was planned by Barbara Scantlin, new vice president of Northville Historical Society and an herb grower.

This garden, she explains, is a special one as it was planted by children in the plant class sponsored by the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

The class of special children was the inspiration of Marilyn Donovan who recruited Mrs. Scantlin to lay out the plot. Plans call for it to be enlarged later after village wiring is completed. For the second year a Westland volunteer has planted a garden by the Yerkes house.

Gardeners are hopeful that the plantings will be at their prime for the sesquicentennial July 4th celebration. Mrs. Scantlin is chairman for the Northville Historical Society's part in the festivities at the Mill Race and is anxious to have it looking as pretty as any Victorian village of the past.

Right now Barbara Scantlin's concern is the society's fund-raising white elephant booth that should be an attraction for antiquers. She's seeking donations which may be left at the Yerkes House in the Mill Race any Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m.

As she inspects the herb garden, she explains that it's really a culinary garden — "the kind that would be located behind a house."

"Those are green beans," she confirms, pointing to leafy plants, "and they're there because they would have been in a kitchen garden. Children in the class helped plant them and outlined the boundaries with marigolds."

"Marigolds are supposed to keep the animals out as their oils go into the soil and are thought to be offensive to animals, but it takes a couple of years."

"The row of onions is supposed to do the same thing," the herb gardener adds.

Clinton Valley Center gave the Northville students the herbs through the Herb Society of Southeastern Michigan.

"We kept it simple for the children to tend and because Victorian gardens are mostly geometric anyway. We don't have enough room now for everything, but there's marjoram, thyme, basil and that's dill."

"We have promises of plants from both the herb society and the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association."

In addition to the new starts of the fragrant herbs, rosemary and lavender, Mrs. Scantlin points to Roman wormwood, mint and tarragon, all neatly marked with identifying Popsicle-type sticks.

"This is comphry," she says, mentioning that visitors may be interested to look for this unusual herb plant.

"It's a very unusual herb and was called the 'Bible leaf' in days past because people used to put it in their Bibles, first as a bookmark and then later during long services they nibbled on it."

"This tansy," she continues, "was considered a moth preventive and its flowers were used in dry arrangements. The garden also has mint, sweet cicely and burnet used in cooking."

"It's the most fun to study culinary herbs," says the Northville gardener who also is known for her herb wreaths.

Her wreaths were in demand in Williamsburg when she made them for the gift shop of the Williamsburg Inn where she worked last year.

"I grew the herbs in my own bicentennial garden, a 30 by 30-foot plot in Jamestown," she recalls.

Barb Scantlin's interest in herbs began only about four years ago as she took courses from Mary Gerathy, the "herb lady" at Greenfield Village. Through her, she joined the Southeastern Michigan Herb Society and attends meetings with Pat Kitchen, also of Northville, in members' homes. Members are located from Brighton to Grosse Pointe, she notes.

Mrs. Scantlin also is a member of the herb study group at University of Michigan Botanical Gardens.

Mrs. Scantlin was elected vice president of the Northville Historical Society at the annual meeting May 26. She will be working with William Stockhausen who assumes presidency from Raymond Riddell. Stephen Lawrence is treasurer and Joan Hoffman, secretary.

Miss Cummings receives honor at graduation

Wendy Cummings was graduated June 4 as a registered nurse by Brackenridge Hospital School of Nursing in Austin, Texas.

She plans to remain at the hospital as a nurse in the operating room where she has been employed for 15 months as a part-time student technician.

She also was awarded a special citation by the faculty and her classmates as one of the two outstanding students of the 1977 class, based upon scholastic achievement, extra-curricular activities and relationships with faculty and fellow students.

Wendy was a 1971 graduate of Northville High School and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn H. Cummings of West Six Mile Road, who traveled to Austin to attend her graduation.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Cummings are former Northville residents who now live in Texas.

Engaged couples set wedding dates

Earehart - Dresselhouse

The engagement of Cheryl Lynn Earehart to Robert J. Dresselhouse is announced.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Nola M. Earehart of Farmington and a graduate of Northville High School Class of 1976. Her fiancé is the son of Mrs. Dorothy M. Dresselhouse of 705 Randolph in Northville.

He is a 1974 graduate of Northville High School and is employed with Wayne County.

Miss Earehart is employed with Dyna Trend of Southfield. They have set an October 29 wedding date.

Kujala - Aro

The May, 1978, wedding plans of Karl Lynn Kujala to Delle Aro will unite two Wixom Finnish families. The engagement of the couple was announced last week by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kujala of Euna Road.

Parents of the prospective groom are Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Aro of Fairbury Road.

Kari is a 1975 graduate of Walled Lake Western High School while Delle graduated from the same school in 1973.

Weber - Callan

A July 9 wedding date has been set by Jacquelyn J. Weber and Harold Lee Callan, whose engagement is being announced.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. William R. Weber of Ottawa, Kansas. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Callan of Meadowbrook Road in Novi.

She received BA and MA degrees in piano and music theory from Bob Jones University in Greenville, South Carolina, and currently is teaching piano and music theory at Maranatha Baptist Bible College in Watertown, Wisconsin.

Her fiancé's BA degree in Bible, pastoral studies and speech is from Maranatha Bible College. He now is teaching at Rockford Baptist Schools in Rockford, Illinois, and plans in the fall to attend Detroit Baptist Divinity School in Allen Park.

John Pacific takes bride in Washington, D.C., rites

The Mormon Temple in Washington, D.C., was the setting for the marriage May 7 of Jane Marie Threlkeld and John Hiram Pacific.

Seek actors for variety

"Just in Time", a spectacular variety show of semi-professional acts, is being prepared by the South Lyon Area Players as their fall production. Dates for performances will be September 23 and 24 with a matinee scheduled for September 25.

The players are inviting all theatrical enthusiasts in the four city area — South Lyon, Northville, Brighton and Novi — to participate. Auditions will be held June 22, 23, 24, 27, 28 and 29 from 7 to 10 p.m. at Pontrail Apartments Clubhouse, 549 Lakewoods Drive in South Lyon.

Further information may be obtained by calling Kevin Fox, 437-3303 or 437-8392.

Those planning to audition for the "time machine" program are asked to bring their own music.

A&P Day aids fountain project

Next Wednesday, June 22, will be a benefit day at the A & P in Northville Mall to help the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association purchase a planned decorative water fountain for Allen Terrace.

Ruth Klein, branch ways and means chairman, announced that she and all branch members as well as sales clerks will have cards that shoppers turn in to have a percentage of their purchases credited to the branch that day. "Shop next Wednesday and ask for a card," she pleads.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Threlkeld of Portage, Michigan. Her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram R. Pacific of 46959 Grasmere in Northville.

As she was given in marriage by her father in the 9 a.m. ceremony, she wore a white chiffon gown adorned with seed pearls at the neckline and wrists. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow daisies with orchids.

Her sister, Jill Threlkeld, was honor maid in the double-ring service.

The couple had met at the Church of the Latter Day Saints in Kalamazoo. Their reception was held at the Candlewyck Hall in Kalamazoo with 200 guests attending from California, Michigan, New York, Utah and Rochester, Minnesota, where the bridegroom is beginning work with the Hormel Food Company as a sales trainee. He was graduated from Western Michigan University in April.

The bride is a graduate of Merced (California) Junior College.

They presently are making their home in Austin, Minnesota.

Barnums name son Gregory

Birth of their first child, Gregory David, on June 1 at Providence Hospital is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Barnum of 515 Reed in Northville. Mrs. Barnum is the former Martha Veresh.

Their son's birth weight was nine pounds.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barnum of Plymouth, formerly of Northville, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Veresh of Roscommon.

Gregory also has three great-grandmothers, Mrs. Julie King of Detroit, Mrs. Mary Veresh of Taylor and Mrs. Gertrude Barnum of Escondido, California.

Gala benefit to open Twelve Oaks Mall

By JEAN DAY

The news is out this week that the official opening of Dayton-Hudson Twelve Oaks Mall on Novi at 12 Mile Road is August 2 with a gala benefit preview on Monday night, August 1.

The preview evening, "This Classic Night," will be a champagne benefit for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, which will be playing. It is a joint effort of the Women's Association and the Junior Women's Association of the Detroit Symphony Area residents are invited to buy tickets at $10 each.

Mrs. Jerry Powledge, a Northville resident of Shadbrook, is helping with arrangements. An active member of the women's association, she two years ago initiated bus trips from Northville to symphony coffee concerts.

Monday she was attending a luncheon given by Mrs. Paul Mirabito in Birmingham to help Chairman Marcia Wiltshire with arrangements.

Special invitations picture the symbolic stage coach indicative of the long-told but not substantiated story that Nov gained its name as the sixth stop on the route to Chicago, Mrs. Powledge reveals. They're being sent to state dignitaries including Governor Milliken.

Tickets, she announced, are available by writing the Detroit Symphony at Ford Auditorium, and at Hudson's. She may be contacted for them locally at 348-2498.

Neighbors fete McSevenys

Fourteen couples, all neighbors and friends of the Samuel McSevenys, played "Scotch golf" at Brooklane Golf Course June 4 and then returned to the Whipple Drive home of Angie and Paul Baetz for a buffet dinner to honor the McSevenys. Co-hosts were Bill and Betty Conrick, other neighbors. Mrs. Baetz explains that "Scotch golf" is played with one ball with couples alternating in play.

They are next-door neighbors of the McSevenys who are in the process of selling their home and retiring.

Pacifics moving to Port Austin

Since attending the wedding reception for their son, John and his bride, the former Jane Threlkeld, in Kalamazoo, the Hiram Pacifics have been in the process of selling their home at 46959 Grasmere. After 20 years as Northville residents, they are retiring to the home they have had for many years at Port Austin.

He was honored at a retirement dinner for 275 at the Dearborn Holiday Inn May 26 after 36 years with Ford Motor Company. Last week the Pacifics returned from New York. They were visiting their older son, Gary, and his wife, Karen and daughter, who now are living in Princeton while Gary works in New York City. They had been living in Mexico until six months ago. The Pacifics also have a daughter, Gloria (Mrs. Wesley Wright) and two grandchildren in Dearborn.

Art auction raises $400

A generous volunteer with her time, Ruth Klein was first chairman of the successful Northville Historical Society dinner dances, now an annual event. She planned the Alpha Tau Beta art auction held April 29 in the Mill Race and reports "well over" $400 was raised for the Michigan League for Crippled Children.

Forrer to head Miami chorale after backpacking trip

Bruce Matthews, left, and Michal Howenstine on plans for the Miami University Collegiate Chorale. He is new president of the group.

When John J. Forrer returns from a summer of backpacking through Europe with Scott Slocum, he will be assuming special duties as president of the Miami University Collegiate Chorale on the Miami campus at Oxford, Ohio.

He is a dean's list student and will be a senior at Miami University in the fall. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Forrer of West Main in Northville while his summer companion, Slocum, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Tom Slocum of Jamestown Circle. He is a senior at University of Michigan.

They flew to Europe May 20, landing in Luxembourg and going on to East and West Germany and France.

They've already sent home an enthusiastic report of attending the comic opera, "Barber of Seville," in Hamburg where, as students, they had great seats at a bargain $3.

The Miami senior has had a long-time interest in music. Prior to joining the Miami Collegiate Chorale, a select mixed-voice chorus, this past school year, he previously had sung with the A Cappella Singers at Miami.

With Bruce B. Matthews of Ashtabula, Ohio, chorale vice president, and Michal Howenstine of Alliance, Ohio, secretary, he will head the Miami group through its second performance year in the fall. It was organized at the start of the 1976-77 academic year as a replacement for the former mixed-voice A Cappella Choir.

In its first year, under the direction of Dr. John C. Wabrick, associate professor of music, the chorale appeared in a variety of campus and off-campus events, including on-campus concerts, performance at the June, 1977 commencement exercises and, with other university musical groups in major performances locally, made a spring tour to central and northeastern Ohio.

Members of the chorale are selected through annual auditions. It numbers between 50 and 60 student members who are representative of all of Miami's academic divisions and a variety of study majors.

John Forrer's major is political science and public administration in arts and science. His dean's list student rating is indicative of a one-term grade point average of between a 3.5 and 3.99 on the 4.0 scale. He is a graduate of Northville High School.

The travelers are expected back just in time to begin their senior year studies. They plan to visit Italy, Spain and England before flying home.

and Northville Business and Professional Women; Joey Spiers, Vicete Engineering; and Patty Pohlman, chairman of the project for the post auxiliary. Not pictured but attending are Shanna Kissel, Northville AAUW; Carol McLaughlin, North Central Engineering; Ricci Mulligan, Novi High School Student Government; Marti DeWaard, City of Novi; and Debbie Eager, Novi Ski Club.

Novi garden club opens membership

Announcement was made at the club's installation of officers June 8 at Village Oaks Clubhouse.

Estelle Bradford is new president of the club, succeeding Jomarie Soszynski.

Other new officers are Beverly McCarter, vice president; Irma Bruning, recording secretary; Kay Wrublewski, corresponding secretary; and Carol Bauer, re-elected treasurer.

Other outgoing officers are Judy Gardner, vice president; Dorothy Peterson, recording secretary; and Ellen Kepner, corresponding secretary. Founded in 1973, the club became part of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan in 1974. It was chartered with 50 members.

First fall meeting is scheduled to be held in the new Novi library with regular meetings later to be held in the new Church of the Holy Family.

While the club meets only September through June, one of its programs is a summer one. Members are assisting residents of Beverly Manor Convalescent Center at Meadowbrook and 10 Mile in planting and caring for a vegetable garden.

Mrs. McCarter reports that a special fall event is being scheduled for women interested in the club. Specific date will be announced later in the summer.

AARP to end year June 22

June meeting of the American Association of Retired Persons, Inc. (AARP) is scheduled Wednesday, June 22 at the Plymouth Presbyterian Church.

Members of this Plymouth-Northville organization are asked to bring along a sack lunch.

Besides a sing-along and a business meeting, the meeting will include an explanation by L.P. McCarthy, in charge of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program for this area, of functions of the program.

McCarthy also will answer questions.

In addition, Kathy Schmidt will talk about the new Grandpersons Program now in progress at the Gallimore Elementary School.

This will be the last meeting of the summer. Scheduled meetings will resume in September, according to AARP spokeswoman, Harriet Gibson of Northville.

It's under stars for Novi bands

Two Novi bands will be featured at Livonia's "Music Under the Stars" concert program scheduled for Thursday, June 30.

The Novi High School Jazz Rock ensemble will share the bill with the Novi Community Concert Band to present a variety of musical offerings ranging from Bach to Bacharach.

The Livonia Concert Series is presented annually during the summer months by the Livonia Arts Commission. Performances are held in the park behind Livonia City Hall, at the southeast corner of Five Mile and Farmington Roads. Concerts begin at 8:30 p.m. with free admission.

The June 30 performance marks the first time Novi High School's new Jazz-Rock ensemble will have appeared in conjunction with the Novi Community Concert band. This performance also is the first time the "Music Under the Stars" program has been devoted entirely to showcasing Novi talent. It is recommended that persons attending bring a lawn chair or blanket.

We pick the best meat and poultry

All A&P beef is federally inspected. It comes from the West and the cattle have been grain-fed. Our young fryers are raised where the climate is ideal for meaty tender birds. In fact, our experienced staff of buyers look for the best quality — and the best buys — in every kind of meat and poultry.

And we always package meat "best side down." That means the side you don't see is as good or better than the side you do see.

The final quality check is done by our butchers in the store. They cut and trim for best value, easy cook-ability and flavor.

We pick the best. So you can, too.

We pick the best fruit and vegetables

A&P has 119 fruit and vegetable buyers — searching out top quality produce in all 50 states. We even have a special import buyer to check out the produce shipped from other countries.

And we ship on the double, from the farm to your local A&P. We want everything to reach you at the peak of flavor.

To keep it that way in the store, we tell our people to patrol the counters, to make sure everything stays fresh and crisp.

We back it up with a money back guarantee

Our standards are very high. But we don't stop there. The A&P guarantee backs every purchase you make. It's simple. If it doesn't meet your standards, you get your money back.

Of course, we'd much prefer your complete satisfaction. And every A&P employee is working for it. Both the people you see in the stores, and the ones you never see — the produce buyers, the meat buyers, the shippers and the thousand and one other hard-working folks who are pledged to bring the best to your A&P. So you can bring the best to your table.

We pick the best. So you can, too.

We pick the best. So you can, too.

Distinguished Service Award

Romaine Roethel cited

Mrs. John J. (Romaine) Roethel of Novi was in Indianapolis in May to accept a special award on behalf of the American Legion Auxiliary.

The Auxiliary was presented the Distinguished Service Award from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge for its contribution to American Citizenship in 1976 in ceremonies in Indianapolis May 12.

The American Legion Auxiliary was cited for its contribution to citizenship education through the Boys-Girls Nation program held in Washington, D.C., July 21 through August 7, 1976.

The Freedoms Foundation announced the award on George Washington's birthday at Valley Forge and followed with regional presentations in the winner's home state. The National Headquarters of the American Legion Auxiliary is in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Roethel accepted the award on behalf of the Auxiliary. She was co-director of the special program in Washington last summer.

Mrs. Roethel is currently serving as National Americanism Chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary.

She was appointed following the organization's national convention in Seattle, Washington, in August, 1976.

Romaine Roethel has served the American Legion Auxiliary at all levels. A member of Northwest Detroit Unit 190, she has been unit treasurer, secretary and president. At state level she has held various offices and was elected Michigan Department (State) President in 1969.

At the national level she has served as legislative committee chairman, poppy committee chairman and chairman of the communications and leadership development committees.

She has served two terms as chairman for Girls State. She became co-director of a special Bicentennial Boys and Girls Nation program in Washington, one of the most ambitious citizenship training efforts in United States History. It brought together 297 young people to study federal governmental processes firsthand.

Mrs. Roethel is active in community and civic affairs. She is currently

Legion honors Ms. Collins

Mrs. Isabel C. Collins, 24614 Old Orchard, Novi, has been sent a letter of commendation from the national headquarters of the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary for her part in winning a National Freedoms Foundation Award for these organizations.

They were specifically cited for their contribution to citizenship education through the Boys-Girls Nation Program held in Washington, D.C., July 21-August 7, 1976.

A youth group of 297 representing every state learned the processes of our government by enacting procedures performed by various branches and departments of the federal government.

Mrs. Collins was a member of the staff at the special program last summer and was cited for her work as staff nurse during the three-week long session. Mrs. Collins, a registered nurse, has been active in programs of the American Legion Auxiliary in Michigan.

Wixom Newsbeat

To the victors . .

By NANCY DINGELDEY

They finally did it!

Always in search of the "gold cup" at the end of the treasure hunt trail and winding up many times the bridesmaid instead of the bride, the intrepid crew of Morehead, Vangieson and Paisley finally did it.

They won the Burrough's treasure hunt...with no assists and a good 45 minutes ahead of the pack.

Gloating in their victory, the stars must have been in favor of a win for the crew who have tried so hard so many times. Of course I've tried too but always managed to blow it.

But six pairs of sharp eyes, quick minds and the ability to sniff out the sometimes elusive code discs brought a victory to the team. They were joined by the rest of the field at the final destination... the Highland House, for a scrumptious repast of spaghetti, garlic rolls and all the Greek salad anyone could eat. Top prize money... $40.

And with the victory comes the sheer pleasure of putting on the hunt next year... and that takes clever, creative and sometimes devious minds.

Hosting the hunt were past winners Jeanne and Dennie Andrews, Joan and Howard Hollister and friends Betty and Bob Awrey of Livonia.

Back in the Wixom area for a couple of days were former Wixom Police Chief George VonBehren and wife Gerri, now of Portage where George heads their police department. They attended a party at the University of Detroit for the retiring director of the criminal justice department.

Also at the party were Rose and John Victory. John currently teaches in the criminal justice program.

The VonBehrens then were on hand for a going-away party hosted by Arlene and Rolf Munk for Laurel and Dennis Cavanaugh Saturday night. The Cavanaugh's have been transferred to Washington, D.C. and will take residence in the surrounding countryside within a few weeks.

The party, attended by some 30 couples, was a great affair. Highgate John Thomas handled master of ceremony duties with great aplomb... much to the delight of the crowd.

Of the many mementos presented to the couple, one carried a great deal of laughter... and imagination. The story is that Laurel is one of those people who trips and stumbles frequently. Her ability to do so branded her a "klutz" in a kidding sort of way.

Free EKG and blood pressure testing will be available to the community Saturday at Fire Station No. 1 on North Wixom Road. Hosted by the Wixom Fire Department, refreshments will also be served during the day.

Hours for the free tests are from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. Everyone is urged to stop in, visit with the firemen and take advantage of a very convenient health check offered by the department.

Beginning band ok'd for Novi sixth grade

A summer band for students going into the sixth grade has been approved by the Novi School Board.

The program is to be taught by Gordon Seiler and will be held June 20 through July 22. Classes will meet one hour daily from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at Novi Middle School and will not meet the week of July 4. Cost of the four-week session will be $20 per student. At least 30 students will have to be registered before the course will be offered.

Library slates film

Two of America's best-loved artists, Grandma Moses and Norman Rockwell, will be the subject of a film program for senior citizens on Thursday, June 23, presented by the Northville Public Library.

The two short films, each about a half-hour long, will deal with the lives and work of the artists. The program will begin at 2 p.m. at a room in Northville Square Mall.

Those who wish to attend should register at the library or by calling 349-3020. All age groups are welcome to attend the program.
