Here's cinders in your eye

Nostalgia is dirty. Black, gritty dirt that settles on your lap, in your hair and even in the frames of your eyeglasses.

But it's a beautiful dirt that spews from the nostril of the iron horse that snorts and whizzes as you are whisked back to the romantic sounds and smells of the past.

For the nearly 3,000 people who rode behind the Chessie Steam Special during the last two weeks as it steamed through Northville, Novi and Wixom on its northern run and through Salem, South Lyon, Green Oak and Brighton on its western run it was a romantic adventure perhaps never to be repeated.

For the estimated one million others who watched this old steam engine from the edge of the tracks it was a short-lived delight.

The smoke-belching engine and her 18 cars arrived in Detroit July 2 and last Sunday it made its last trip out of the Motor City.

Now temporarily stationed in Grand Rapids in its tour across the country, the Chessie Special will make just one more trip through this area on Saturday. It will pass through Brighton Saturday about noon, turn around at Plymouth and head back to Grand Rapids before heading out of the state.

Officials expected all of the tickets would be sold by mid-week, so it appears area residents' remaining chance will be to watch it from track side Saturday. It is to be "watered" at

Assessment for sidewalks draws fire

Cracks developed in the city's plan to repair sidewalks and curbs in the central business district this week.

Nevertheless, council declared a need for those repairs and it ordered the city manager to prepare specifications and bids for the work.

Nearly 20 persons turned out for Monday's hearing on necessity, several of them raising objections to specific estimated property assessments.

Ann Roy, president of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, emphasized that in recommending repair of downtown sidewalks and curbs the chamber did so with the impression the cost of these repairs would be largely financed by city funds.

And in the case of the $400 assessment against her Center Street property, Mrs. Roy took the position that not all of the sidewalk needed repair as suggested by the assessment.

In response to this latter criticism and those similar objections raised by others, City Manager Steven Walters pointed out that city officials are prepared to examine the sidewalks with property owners to determine the validity of their objections.

In response to this latter criticism and those similar objections raised by others, City Manager Steven Walters pointed out that city officials are prepared to examine the sidewalks with property owners to determine the validity of their objections.

Also, in response to a point that some of the sidewalk conditions were caused by excavation by the city or utility companies — a point raised by Larry Sheehan, owner of the Sheehan's Little Caesar pizza takeout — Walters said adjustments of assessments in these cases will be made by the city.

If property owners fear such adjustments might not automatically be made, they may take specific cases up with himself to make sure that they are made, the city manager said.

When pressed by council about whether or not the city intended to subsidize any of the repair work, council said sidewalks and curbs directly in front of businesses will not be paid for by the city.

The city's financial involvement, it was explained, will cover only those public areas, such as sidewalks and curbs at intersections and adjacent to public parking lots.

Of the total estimated cost of $72,400 for the project, the city's share has been pegged at $18,073 while the property owners' share is estimated at $54,327.

These costs are estimates only, emphasized Walters. Actual costs will not be known until after bids have been received. Meanwhile, adjustments will be made in individual estimated assessments where calculations are proven to be inaccurate, he said.

Monday's hearing, said Walters, does not solidify the individual estimated assessments.

"Does that mean you could possibly bill us more later?" asked Dorothy Baker of Doris Beauty Salon.

"Yes," answered Walters, "if bids come in higher than our estimate or if in calculating needed sidewalks our footage figures are too low."

By the same token, assessment bills could be smaller, he added.

Mrs. June Mainville and Robert Freydl asked questions about measurements and formulas used in calculating costs, and Charles Freydl, Jr. asked if the city plans to install access walks as required by the new barrier free law affecting handicapped people.

According to Walters, ramp-like sidewalks for handicapped will be installed at intersections at city expense. None are presently planned at mid-block on Main between Center and Hutton, however.

Dr. Victoria Lovewell commented that not all of the work planned in front of her home and office is needed, and she requested that if the work is done — and even if it isn't — the drive in front of her home be painted with a yellow stripe to prevent motorists from blocking the drive.

Concerning the curb on the south side of Main Street, from Center to Church Street, James Penn of Penn Engineering which examined the walks and calculated costs for the city, said it

Sewer rate hike alternative

Fear county building moratorium

Mayor A. M. Allen's scared and he doesn't mind telling others.

For months he's been telling council that a county-wide construction moratorium is a possibility, and now after returning from Detroit where Northville and other suburban communities are being sued by the federal government he's more convinced than ever that a financially devastating moratorium is looming closer.

He's so convinced of it that he advised council this week to waive a 90-day notice to permit Detroit to raise suburban sewer costs on September 1. And council agreed.

Fighting the sewer rate increase may be justified, but if it strangles construction that rate increase will be miniscule in comparison with the loss in residential, industrial and commercial development, Allen contends.

Meanwhile, so many political and legal balls are being juggled in the on-going struggle between Detroit and the suburbs, local council members are having a hard time keeping them straight.

Here's a sample:

● Still unresolved is the court suit over last year's water rate increase ordered by Detroit.

● Detroit has been ordered by the federal government to clean up its sewer treatment plant, used by the suburbs, or face loss of a $300 million federal grant.

● Suburban communities have been enjoined in that lawsuit.

● The county is pressing suburban communities to come up with good faith monies to get the long-stalled super sewer project off the ground.

● Suburban communities, including Northville and Novi, are so distrustful of the county over those super sewer plans that they've formed their own super sewer agency to take over the project.

Of all of these issues, the federal government's lawsuit takes the spotlight, says Allen.

The other issues are meaningless until this one is solved.

Here, briefly, is what that lawsuit is all about.

Detroit sewer treatment plant, through which Northville and Novi's effluent passes, has been deemed a pollution menace by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and by the state's Department of Natural Resources. The government ordered Detroit to clean up the plant or else.

As a club, it has threatened to withhold $300 million in federal aid to help do the job.

Faced with this threat, a tentative out-of-court settlement was reached between the government and Detroit. That settlement means suburban sewer rates, as well as those charged in Detroit, are to be increased by increments, beginning September 1, to assure adequate financing for the treatment plant improvement.

The rate increase would more than double what suburbs are now paying, and the suburbs don't like it. They contend the treatment plant is Detroit's problem not theirs.

But the government, said Allen, doesn't see it that way. "That's why we're being sued, too."

And according to the mayor, the government has made it clear that if the suburbs don't go along with the

NEWS BRIEFS

A TAXICAB service by Linda S. Turner of South Lyon and Mitchel C. Roberts of Novi has been approved for the city by the city council of Northville, subject to submission of a rate schedule and meeting of administrative requirements.

CITY COUNCIL has agreed to increase its Fourth of July contribution to the Northville Jaycees from $500 to $750, thus matching the contribution made by the township.

STUDENTS who have not yet picked up their Northville High School year books may do so the first week of the new school year in September.

VACATION of the Church Street right-of-way, from Cady to Beal Street, has been proposed by the city council and will be taken up at a public hearing on August 1.

A RESOLUTION honoring Marion LeFevre, long-time city employee, was adopted by council Monday. Mrs. LeFevre is retiring soon.

Survey shows grads find education lacking

Northville graduates are not as impressed with their high school education as are their statewide counterparts.

But, school officials say, this disenchantment may be because more Northville students go on to college where their high school days are judged by more strenuous standards.

That's the initial interpretation of a Michigan Department of Education survey of 1976 state graduates which was presented to the school board last week.

The survey revealed about 40 percent of Northville's 1976 graduates thought their education was adequate compared to a 60 percent statewide figure. About half of Northville's graduates completed the questionnaire.

Nearly three of four Northville graduates were continuing their education after high school compared with 40 percent across the state.

Outdoor treat

If you missed it last week you still have other opportunities later this summer to enjoy the sweet sounds of Northville's high school band. Meanwhile, tonight's concert sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce will feature the Novi High School band under the direction of Craig Strain. The 7:30 p.m. concerts are held in the Northville city hall park, located at the northwest corner of Wing and Cady streets. Above, Robert Williams directs the Northville band in last week's opening outdoor concert.

Millage promises from past return to haunt election

One of the biggest roadblocks standing in the way of Northville Schools' millage attempt later this month is the ghost of millage past.

Northville will be asking for a 2.8-mill tax hike on July 30 to keep pace with rising costs.

But many school district voters believe they have been hoodwinked. They say they were told that a 3.9-mill increase approved in April of 1976 would last the district for several years.

A spokesman for the Citizens Advisory Committee, which played a big part in the millage's success, said this week that voters have good reason to think that there would be no tax request this year.

"When we sold the 3.9 mills, I don't think any of us anticipated more millage next year," said David Heinzman, a CAC member who served as publicity director. "We assured them (the voters) that it should be adequate for three to five years."

Heinzman, who said the committee was working with board of education information, said the millage was presented as "adequate for three to five years of a sound program."

"It was a compromise proposal, it wasn't the optimum. But it was something more than stop-gap."

Only one member of the CAC, which had conducted a study of school district needs, did not endorse the 3.9-mill request. That was Charles Peltz who favored a 5.2-mill request.

But Peltz, who was elected to the school board in June, said Monday night that he, too, was under the impression that additional millage would not be needed this year.

Peltz was not a member of the school board when the decision to try for an additional 2.8 mills this year was made.

School officials, who say all 1976 millage campaign promises were kept, deny that they told the public that a 1977 millage election would not be necessary.

School Board President John Hobart, who is one of only two current board members serving at the time of the 1976 election, said no attempts were made to project revenue needs beyond the 1976-77 school year.

He suggested that the confusion stems from the "complex financing of schools" which is often "dependent on the whims of the state legislature."

Most people, he said, don't understand that changes in the state school aid formula and drops in enrollment can have a "dramatic effect on us in Northville."

Indeed, one CAC member questioned why more taxes were needed when the school's enrollment is dropping.

School officials reply that, because of the state aid formula, the projected drop in enrollment from this year to next will cost the district more than $150,000 in state funds.

Superintendent Raymond Spear puts the financial picture in a dollars-and-cents light.

The cost of running the district will continue a five-year trend of increasing annually by $700,000, he said. Expected revenues for next year will increase by less than $300,000. Hence, a need for more money.

As far as definite promises made concerning what would be done with money generated from the 1976 millage increase, it appears that the district has kept its word.

Seven schools were operating full days this year with class sizes in the 28-30 range as promised by a CAC brochure. A teaching staff of 205 was employed which exceeded the "up to 200" mentioned in the brochure. A curriculum council was established.

Whether there was an "adequate budget" for instructional equipment depends on the definition of "adequate," but Spear said a "dent" is being made into the textbook shortage.

Extracurricular programs (including sports) were reinstated and middle and high school course offerings were expanded, school officials said.

One of the controversial promises was the assurance of "full elementary art, music and physical education programs." Many band supporters felt cheated this year when there was no band in the elementary grades.

Hobart said that an elementary band was never intended to be part of that promise.

He agreed that part of the dissatisfaction may stem from the transfer of sixth graders from the junior high school, where there is a band, to the elementary school.

An elementary band will be provided if the July 30 millage passes.

Readers finish magic summer

6 classes, new books vowed if vote passes

"Magic in Books," the summer reading program at the Northville Public Library, will conclude Friday, July 29, with a party and magic show.

Over 200 youngsters currently are registered for the program and are busily reading in order to reach the goal of 10 books each, the library reports.

Reading certificates will be passed out at the party to all those who have reached this goal.

The summer readers will be entertained by the magical feats of the Great Wintini. The Friends of the Library are providing refreshments.

The party will take place in the library at 10 a.m. and will last about an hour and a half.

Six classes a day in the high school and textbooks for all students are two important reasons why voters should approve a 2.8-mill tax hike later this month, according to Northville school officials.

The six-hour day can be accomplished and giant strides can be taken to close the textbook gap if the millage election is successful, according to press release issued by the school district's administration office Tuesday morning.

"The six classes at the high school will provide each student the opportunity to gain the requirements for graduation while exploring course of interest and enriching their education before graduation," said the release.

If the millage fails, the release said, most students will be limited to the state minimum of five classes a day.

"Business, vocational education, performing arts, and other electives would, for all practical purposes, be unavailable to a college-bound student taking the required courses.

"Most important is that students at the high school are requesting the sixth class. They do not want to waste the unscheduled class hour and would prefer to do their homework at school."

About 60 percent of next year's high school students have indicated they wish to take six classes.

There are six hours in a school day. If the millage fails, most students would have five class hours, one hour for lunch and an additional free hour.

The schoolbook shortage is partially due to a "multi-text" approach for several years, according to the release.

Recently, however, there has been a "back-to-basics" movement which contributed to a Citizens Curriculum Committee recommendation of a textbook for every child, said the release.

"The administration has tried to make this need a focus for the 1977-78

Township names Toms fire chief

Robert H. Toms, a Northville Township resident of 42251 Sunnydale Lane, was appointed Northville Township Fire Chief by unanimous action of the township board Thursday.

The board acted after interviewing Toms and Norman W. Maddison, 30, a Farmington Public Safety officer-fire marshal and a volunteer in the Farmington Hills Fire Department.

Toms, 50, retired from the Detroit Fire Department in 1975 with 27 years' service. During his last five years he held the rank of captain-instructor at the Detroit Fire Department Training Academy.

He previously headed a township fire department feasibility study.

Action to appoint Toms was taken on recommendation of Supervisor Wilson Grier. The motion included stipulation that his salary was to be negotiated by the supervisor but was not to exceed $15,000.

In the interview Toms had indicated the figure was acceptable but that he would need a vehicle. The board instructed Grier to discuss this and to report back. Maddison had said he would need a salary in his present $17,500 range and a vehicle.

Grier also was instructed to provide a short- and long-range organizational chart for the new fire department. As the board projected one-time purchases, Treasurer Richard Henningsen asked for long-range planning for equipment.

Toms told the board that he felt he could have qualified volunteers ready to work after a minimum of 25 hours of training, saying he feels "leadership" is the key to the new department's functioning.

His target immediately is 20 volunteers; he said, mentioning that another Detroit Fire Department retiree living in the township had volunteered as had Constable James Schrot and two water department members.

In his resume Toms stated that he had helped extinguish between 15,000 and 25,000 fires in "everything from automobiles to factories."

His experience, he stated, has included work on rescue squads, ladder trucks and engines.

Toms holds a class A, highest, rating as a fire training instructor issued by the Fire Fighters Training Council, State of Michigan.

He also has a certificate in firemanship training from the University of Michigan Extension Service in 1972. In 1973 he completed the Industrial Fire Protection Training Course of the National Fire Protection Association. In 1971 he completed a 16-week course in basic police training conducted in Novi under sponsorship of the Interlakes Police Chiefs Association.

Grossmann resigns

Name new appointees

The resignation of Armin J. Grossmann, chairman of Northville Township Sewer and Water Commission, for health reasons was accepted with regret at last Thursday's board meeting.

In doing so the board praised Grossmann's eight years of service on the commission, crediting him with being one of the reasons that department is in its present fine condition.

Supervisor Wilson Grier appointed Harold W. Schmidt, 20117 Woodhill, to fill the vacancy with his term to expire July 4, 1978.

He reappointed Robert Terwin to a term to run until July 5, 1980, and James Pasco to the same term.

Nathan P. Weiner of 18515 Jamestown Circle was named to the unexpired term of Lawrence Wright to serve until July 5, 1979.

Schmidt, who has been spokesman for Bloomcrest area residents with water problems on the old city line connection, has a BS degree from Wayne State University.

Weiner is serving his third term as president of King's Mill cooperatives and is area supervisor with Sibley's Florsheim Shoe Company.

New pump — Rotary keeps well flowing

Water from the historic Northville Spring is flowing again following a temporary halt last week.

Although the flow of water had been dwindling steadily for some time, it wasn't until last Thursday, with some 17 people lined up to get water, that the water stopped flowing entirely.

Inspection by Assistant DPW Superintendent Ted Mapes and Rotary Club representative, Jan Reef, disclosed that the pump installed by the Rotary Club had burned out probably because of overwork when the water table for one reason or another began fluctuating.

Ray Harrison of Novi was called in to install a larger replacement pump to be financed by the Rotary club, which has made the historic spring a regular project of the club.

With its installation, water began flowing immediately, said Reef.

Plans are now underway to install a second spigot, the two men said.

The Northville Spring reportedly has existed since long before the turn of the century. It was a naturally flowing spring. Years ago, the spring went dry and it was temporarily hooked into the Detroit water system serving the city.

Because people from throughout Michigan continued to come to Northville for spring water, plans were launched by the Rotary Club to sink a new well. Meanwhile, the city erected signs to explain to people that water coming from the spring was actually Detroit water.

Despite the signs, however, many people insisted they were still getting "good old Northville water."

The new well was dug about 100 feet south of the spring. Although many people still believe the spring water flows naturally, it is in fact supplied by an underground pump that runs 24 hours a day.

"Ted and I think the larger pump will solve the problem," said Reef. "The water flow is a good one, and the water is as cold and sweet as ever."

School hiring eyed

Attitudes must change before women move up

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in series about Northville's efforts to comply with Title IX.

Northville Public Schools will be hiring both a high school and a junior high school principal this summer.

In each case, the man hired should be a good educator, an able administrator and a proven leader. He should have ample experience and subscribe to accepted educational methods. He should also be able to get along with people.

By now, you should have noticed that there is something wrong with the above job description. It assumes that the principal will be a man.

If that didn't strike you as odd, you are not alone. Even though women make up half or more of most teaching staffs, administrators are generally men. It's always been that way, thus, that's the way it's supposed to be.

Title IX, a federal law that makes it illegal for schools to discriminate because of a person's sex, is trying to change all that. But the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is discovering that writing laws is one thing, enforcing them is another.

"If all it takes is following a law, fine and dandy. But we're talking about changing people's attitudes and I don't think there is anything harder than that," said Chris Johnson, a school board member who chairs Northville's Title IX subcommittee on hiring.

The attitudes have been deeply ingrained by years of elementary schools staffed by women teachers and male principals; of only women being hired as kindergarten teachers; of only men being hired as band directors.

"There are lies, damn lies and statistics," so the saying goes, but the fact remains that women administrators are as rare as smogless days in Los Angeles.

And the higher the job, the fewer the women. Fewer than one percent of Michigan superintendents are females.

Part of the reason, of course, is that until recently relatively few women applied for top administrative positions. Women, seldom encouraged to try for the top, often either accepted the idea that being principal was a man's job or realized their chances of being hired were slim.

Today, even though all hirings are supposedly decided without regard to sex, women are finding that job descriptions can be subtly discriminatory.

If applicants are required to have five years' experience as an administrator, most women are effectively eliminated from consideration.

It's vital to insure that there is a correlation between the requirements for a job and the skills needed to perform that job adequately, says Johnson.

"Is there a guarantee that someone who has held an administrative position will be a better principal, or is that just a reason to hire men rather than women?" he asks.

Superintendent Raymond Spear says he won't necessarily be looking for a woman to fill either of the vacant principal jobs.

"We want the best person available, male or female," he explains. "I think our record of hiring women administrators is pretty good."

Three of Northville's 16 administrators are women. They are Director of Instruction Nancy Soper, high school Assistant Principal Barbara Campbell and Silver Springs Elementary School Principal Nancy Fieldman.

Although Johnson might favor the hiring of a woman if two candidates were otherwise equal, he thinks it is reverse discrimination to hire a woman at all costs.

"To go out specifically and take a lesser candidate, that's not a smart idea," he says.

"First, we've got to find qualified women interested in getting training for that job."

There are others, though, who think the only sure way to break the male-dominated administrative ranks is through a process called "remedial hiring". That's when districts are ordered by the government to begin balancing the male-female ratio by filling job openings with women.

HEW's power to enforce such extreme tactics has been at least temporarily limited by a federal court ruling in a case involving the Romulus school district.

Although Johnson sympathized with the decision, he was dismayed by the reaction by the state's school board association whose publication hailed the ruling as a victory.

"To some people, that means they can put Title IX on the shelf and ignore it without penalty," he says. "Even to get people thinking about this kind of thing, you need a law."

The hiring study is not limited to improving women's chances of getting administrative positions. The committee is also trying to see why certain jobs are almost invariably filled by women and others go exclusively to men.

Women greatly outnumber men on elementary teaching staffs, for instance, and Northville — like virtually every other school district in Michigan — has no male kindergarten teachers.

Those people who do the hiring are being surveyed by the committee in an attempt to better understand such trends.

"It gets them to think about it, to question why they hired this person for this job," says Johnson. "Was there any motive such as what sex the person is?"

Teachers and other school employees are also being randomly surveyed to see what examples of sex discrimination they may have encountered.

Still, Johnson says, the bottom line is people's attitudes — and not just in the educational world.

"For some reason, society has frowned on male teachers in kindergarten or first grade and maybe it's okay for a man in the second grade," says Johnson. "But there seems to be a premium on men in high school."

The biggest reason that people might think it odd for a man to be a kindergarten teacher is because they've never seen one, says Johnson. If efforts were made to hire men as kindergarten teachers, "young students could relate to a male in that role and they would grow up and accept it."

Township's in super sewer

Approval was given for Northville Township to join the Huron Valley Super Sewer Authority by the township board Thursday inasmuch as the township already has paid $200 into the project.

Supervisor Wilson Grier in recommending the action pointed out that if the township doesn't like financing arrangements "we can step out next month."

Ceiling teaser

"It won't be long and we'll have to cut a hole in the ceiling," laugh Mr. and Mrs. Gordon B. Libby as their indoor geranium "keeps right on growing." The plant was taken indoors last fall and now it's becoming the conversation piece in the neighborhood. The Libbys, who live at 18564 Jamestown Circle, aren't feeding the flowering plant anything but water. But to keep the branches from breaking off, Libby stuck a curtain rod up the center of the plant and has tied up larger stems with nylon string. No sooner does one spray of flowers fall off and another takes its place. Right now the plant is just 12 inches from the ceiling.

From 1973 bond issue

School plans $400,000 facelift

Capital improvements, one of the most neglected areas in the Northville school systems, may be getting a shot in the arm before summer's end.

Ironically, if all goes as planned, the four oldest schools in the district will benefit from money raised to construct the three newest buildings.

The school board is optimistic that the state will allow it to use $400,000 left over from a 1973 bond issue to make about 25 capital improvements at the high school, Cooke Junior High School and Moraine and Amerman Elementary schools.

The proposed tasks range from upgrading heating systems to purchasing folding classroom walls.

In 1973, voters approved a $10 million bond issue to build and equip Meads Mill Junior High School and Silver Springs Elementary School and to purchase land for a future high school.

Following standard practice, the borrowed money was invested until various payments became due. Because the money was invested longer than anticipated and because of higher than expected interest rates, the money earned about triple what was predicted, "to the tune of approximately one million dollars," Superintendent Raymond Spear said.

Thus, the district was able to spend more than planned on the new buildings and future school site and still have $400,000 in the bank account.

Last week, the school board passed resolutions that said the original intent of the bond money had been completed and paid for. Now, all that's needed is state approval for transferring the money to the general budget to take care of long-term problems at the older schools.

Northville school officials are confident that the permission will be granted. Some of that $400,000 would also be used for improvements at the newer schools.

The money cannot be used for general maintenance or operational purposes — such as hiring teachers, buying textbooks or purchasing cleaning supplies — but it can be used for a variety of other purposes.

One of the most important uses of the money will be upgrading the heating systems at Amerman, Cooke and the high school. School maintenance officials have warned repeatedly that these systems have been too long neglected.

The boiler at Moraine is being replaced with 1972 bond issue money.

About a third of the projects deal with the high school which has come under heavy criticism because of its dreary appearance and deteriorating facilities.

Part of the problem in recent years has been a lack of funds. Capital outlay has been under-budgeted for several years and will have no money at all next year unless a July 30 millage issue passes.

Also, past school boards often levied less taxes than voters approved to give property owners a break. School officials now believe it would have been wiser to collect those taxes and spend the money on a sound maintenance program.

Building administrators and Director of Operations Michael Jan-chick have prepared a list of priority projects should the bond money become available.

Board members seem to approve of the list in general although some had a few objections.

Douglas Whitaker, for instance, wondered why the high school office should be upgraded before new tables and chairs were purchased for the cafeteria or before a plumbing problem was corrected in Cooke science rooms.

A proposed track at Meads Mill also seemed likely to be scuttled although resurfacing the high school track was given a high priority.

And some items — such as installing emergency lighting to meet MIOSHA requirements — are required by law.

One of the casualties from the list appears to be a nature center at the new high school site on Six Mile Road which was to be named after Florence Panatoni, a former assistant superintendent.

Some board members said the center may have been a good idea when first proposed, but that there are now more pressing needs for the $100,000 needed to carry out the plan.

Deal decides Schoolcraft leadership

Against a backdrop of backroom "political" dealing, Paul Kadish was re-elected as chairman of the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees and Ronald Cowden was elected vice chairman.

Rosina Raymond, who had served as vice chairman and was recently re-elected to a six-year board term, was dumped from any leadership position. Also elected at the Monday night meeting were Trustee Harry Greeleaf as treasurer and Trustee Nancie Blatt as secretary. Mrs. Blatt replaces Clara Rousseau, who had served as secretary of the board for the past four years.

Kadish did not deny that any deals had been made to assure his re-election to the chairmanship. "If you want to call it a deal, call it a deal. We need five votes to do anything, even to adjourn," He explained, "There was something I wanted. He (Cowden) didn't want to be chairman, he wanted to be vice chairman. There were certain votes he could influence and there were certain votes I could influence."

The deals were apparently made necessary by an equal partisan split in the eight-person board.

Cowden nominated Kadish, the only person put forth for the position, saying, "He has done a very able job and has shown he has been able to serve this very unique group." He said Kadish's leadership abilities would be needed in the "tough times coming up."

In a roll-call vote, Kadish got the support of six trustees with Mrs. Raymond abstaining and Mrs. Blatt absent.

Kadish then nominated Cowden for the vice-chairman's position saying, "Ron has been on the board for four years and has served very ably." Later, he added that Cowden had never served in a leadership role, even though, he was a very popular candidate at the polls.

Once again, there were no other nominations. In the roll call, Cowden also got the support of six trustees with Mrs. Raymond abstaining and Mrs. Blatt absent.

Mrs. Raymond, who has served as chairman and vice-chairman for previous boards, found herself out of the leadership ranks. She had been nominated for the position of representative of the board to the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG). She was defeated by Mark McQuesten, however. Mrs. Raymond was nominated by Gerald Cox, who was the only person to vote for Mrs. Raymond, besides herself.

She denied a nomination for alternate delegate to SEMCOG. She said, "Apparently, you do not have the confidence in my abilities to appoint me as your delegate. I won't force myself on you." She had represented the board before SEMCOG over the past board term in the place of former-trustee Arch Vallier, who rarely attended the meetings.

Several college officials and trustees had said Mrs. Raymond had irritated too many people with her behavior before the board. Trustees and school officials cited "personal attacks" on board members as examples.

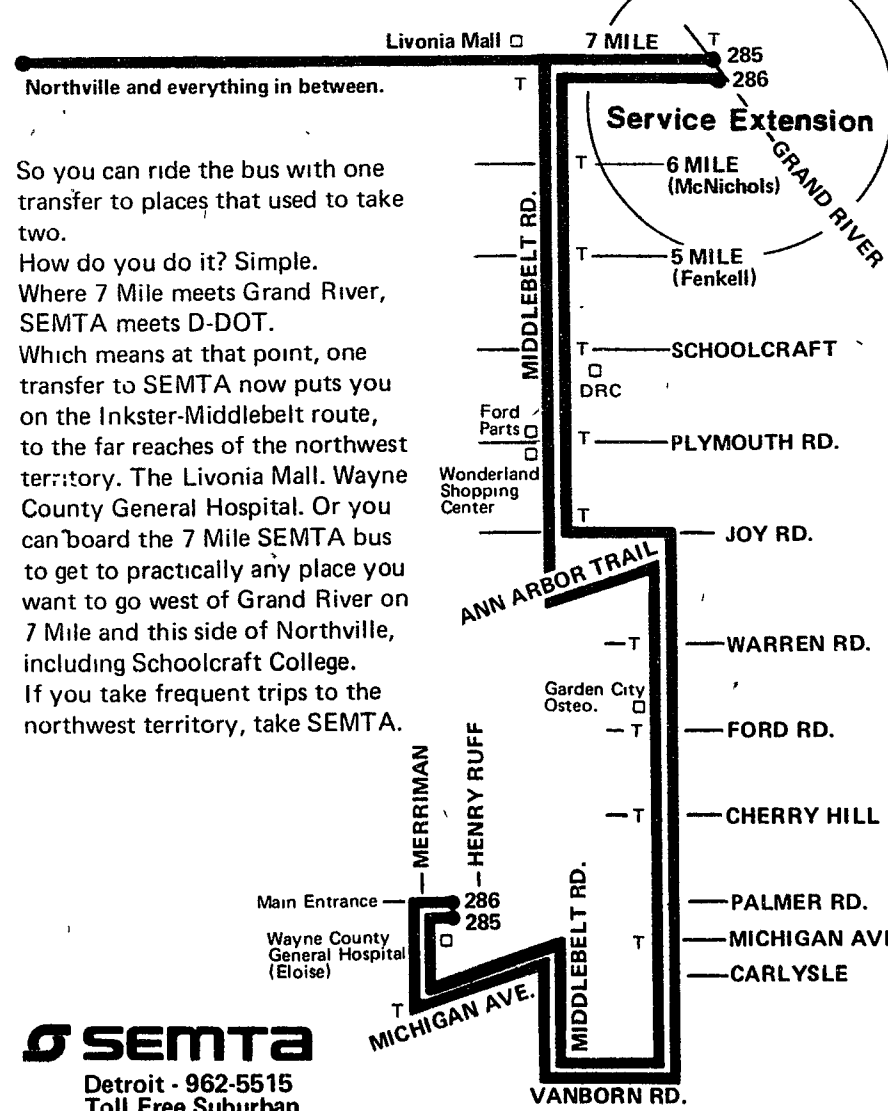

Kadish said, "If there's one person who hasn't crossed a 't' or dotted an 'i' without political motives it's Mrs. Raymond."

In another move, Mrs. Rousseau was replaced as secretary of the board in favor of Mrs. Blatt. She was absent from the meeting, but relayed her intentions to accept the nomination through Kadish, who also nominated Mrs. Blatt.

Mrs. Blatt got the necessary five votes, with Mrs. Raymond and Cox voting against her. Mrs. Raymond called the move "just rotten."

Police Blotter

Thieves thriving on parked cars

A man's home may be his castle, but when he leaves his car out in the moat—or the driveway—he had better be cautious.

Four Northville area residents learned that lesson in the past week as thieves made off with more than $1000 of stolen goods lifted from parked cars.

The first victim was an 18 year old who lives at a Bryn Mawr Court address in Northville Township. He told township police that someone swiped a tape deck, 20 tapes and a tape case from his car.

Time of the theft was between 11 p.m. and 10 a.m. on July 11 and 12. Value of the goods taken in the heist was estimated at $250.

Wednesday morning, someone broke into a leased station wagon parked outside a Walnut Street residence in Northville City.

The thieves got away with a $150 camera, a $200 suit, three shirts valued at $40 and a spare tire. Northville City police have pegged the time of the crime between 2:30 and 11:30 a.m.

Later that afternoon, a Livonia woman returned to her car at Brooklane Golf Course and discovered that her purse had been snatched. She told Michigan State Police that the purse contained three $75 Series E Savings Bonds, about $75 in uncashed checks, her savings book, eight credit cards and more than $10 in cash.

A C.B. radio, however, was untouched. Time of the crime was between 5:40 and 8:15 p.m.

Early Thursday morning, someone pried open the trunk of a car parked in a Northville City driveway and walked off with a $245 slide projector.

Northville police said the theft occurred between 3 and 7 a.m. at the Yorktown address.

IN THE TOWNSHIP

Homes were not immune from theft, either. A man at a Timberlane address told township police that someone pried off his kitchen window, entered his home and made off with nearly $300 worth of goods.

Taken during the early July 12 burglary were a 35 mm Canon camera, an electric calculator, a weather alarm and $115 in cash. A ladder was believed used to gain entry.

A 76 year old woman who lives in an apartment on Forest Drive told township police that $500 had been taken from a metal box in her home.

Lake Success residents saw an unusual sight Wednesday night when a stolen automobile was pulled out of 30 feet of water by township police.

Witnesses saw the car dumped the night before and told police that two men were seen fleeing the area.

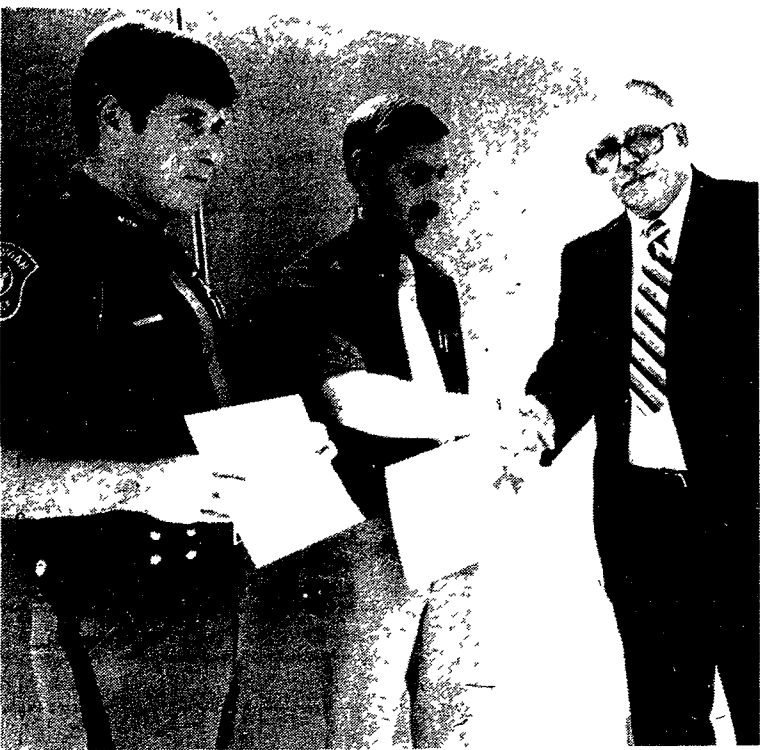

Sergeant Kenneth Hardesty and Patrolman John Sherman dove into the lake Wednesday and found the car about 50 feet from shore. It had been stolen in Dearborn. No arrests have been made.

Township police are also investigating the possible suicide of an elderly Livonia woman last Tuesday.

Elizabeth MacGowan, 68, was found dead in her car around 2:15 in the afternoon on Six Mile Road, a mile west of Sheldon.

The car had been spotted there about

Troopers cited

Honorable mention citations were awarded to Detective Sergeant James Collins (center) and Trooper Norman Maxwell, Jr. (left) for their investigation of a series of burglaries that followed the arrest of two subjects who had been seen breaking into a home in Plymouth last August. The assistance from two civilians enabled Collins and Maxwell to solve nearly 50 breaking and entering cases in the area. Presenting the citations is Captain Walter Anderson, 2nd District Commander.

John G. Hulsing, 40, has been promoted to detective sergeant and transferred to the polygraph unit of the State Police satellite laboratory here.

Formerly with the Grand Haven post, Hulsing enlisted in 1963, serving first at the Gaylord post until his transfer to Grand Haven in 1965.

Born in Wyoming Township in Kent County, he was graduated from high school in Wyoming and later attended Ferris State College at Big Rapids for a year.

Prior to joining the state police, he served with the Wyoming police department for four years.

Leaving the polygraph unit at Northville is Detective Sergeant Robert J. Crider, who is being assigned to the new polygraph unit established at Madison Heights. He was assigned last year to the polygraph unit in Northville.

New detective mans lie detector

Cyclist is sought as attack suspect

Police are looking for a member of a motorcycle gang believed to be the missing assailant of a conservation officer who was stabbed and then held at gunpoint in the Highland Lakes area last month.

One man has already been arrested by Northville Township Police and has been bound over to circuit court on three felony charges related to the incident.

But a second man, who police believe was wearing a motorcycle jacket with a "Road Agents" emblem on the back at the time of the assault, is still at large. He is also believed to ride a Harley-Davidson Sportster motorcycle.

Police are hoping to obtain additional information through the Silent Observer program which offers rewards of up to $1000 for tips that lead to arrests and convictions in certain cases.

(The identity of the tipster remains anonymous. The procedure to use is detailed in an article on this page.)

Conservation officer Michael Hanson was walking his dog shortly after 10 p.m. on Saturday, June 25, when he spotted a group of four young people—two men and two women—throwing empty wine and liquor bottles along the west side of Lake Success.

While issuing a littering ticket, Hanson said he was jumped by the two men who, he said, punched him, stabbed him with a large pin-like object, took his handcuffs and .38 snub-nosed revolver, and held him at gunpoint before fleeing.

Hanson then flagged down a Northville Township Police car.

One arrest was made after Hanson recalled the name of one of the two men who had given him his driver's license before the attack.

The man, Thomas Slusarczyk, was arraigned in Plymouth's district court Thursday where he was bound over to circuit court on charges of assault with intent to commit murder, unarmed robbery and possession of a firearm during the commission of a robbery.

Bond was continued at $7000 for Slusarczyk who faces a possible life sentence if convicted. The littering citation carries a maximum 90-day sentence and $100 fine.

Hanson, who suffered cuts and bruises, was not hospitalized.

UP TO
$1,000
REWARD

The Silent Observer program will pay cash rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons committing serious crimes in the City and Township of Northville. You can give your information anonymously, and still be eligible for a reward.

The program is financed jointly by the City and Township of Northville and the Northville Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with The Northville Record.

How to report information

To report crime information anonymously by telephone, call either police department and give them your information. Then give them a code number which you will be able to recall, such as your social security number forward or backward. The police officer will give you the Silent Observer report number. Your code number is recorded separately from the report number. Your code number is recorded separately from the report and sealed in an envelope and locked in a secure place. It is kept strictly confidential.

Allen Terrace takes shape

For city's seniors

In case you haven't noticed, construction of Allen Terrace — Northville's apartment complex for senior citizens — is now well under way after lengthy delays resulting primarily because of preventive erosion controls ordered by the county. Much of the ground floor foundation and concrete wall construction has been completed and Architect Donald DiComo predicts pre-cast work will begin by August 1. Wood trusses are already being constructed prior to movement onto the property. Allen Terrace, named in honor of retiring Mayor A. M. Allen, is located on what once was the site of Eastlawn Convalescent Center south of the high school. The apartment complex is to include 101 units, with one of them to be occupied by a live-in manager. Applications from senior citizens have been screened and the Northville Housing Commission has begun interviews of prospective occupants to determine how many will require rent subsidies. First priority for occupancy is city residency, since it is the taxpayers of Northville who pledged their full faith and credit for bonding of the $2.5 million complex. Officials remain hopeful the building will be ready for occupancy before the end of the year.

After 11-week study

Few complete Regenesiis survey

Earlier this year, the Northville school board spent countless hours of time during an 11-week investigation of the funding and operation of an alternative education class called "Regenesiis."

Last week, they discovered that not many people were interested in their efforts.

So few people answered an Alternative Education survey prepared by a citizens committee that Director of Education Nancy Soper warned the school board that the results may not be valid.

"The results of these surveys should be carefully interpreted in light of the nature of the survey, the population surveyed and the response rates," she said.

All 44 Regenesiis students and 180 other students were mailed surveys, but only 26—including six Regenesiis students responded.

Of randomly selected parents, only 6 of 180 responded. Of the group that pushed most heavily for the investigation—parents with children in Regenesiis—nine of 42 participated in the survey.

Only among teachers, where the response rate was slightly above 50 percent, was the participation adequate.

For what it's worth, those responding generally thought the alternative programs should be part of the curriculum.

The low response may be partially explained by the relatively short time allowed for the survey.

There's also the possibility that a large number of people either do not understand the term "alternative education" or were simply not interested in the Regenesiis controversy that erupted at the school board level in January.

Regenesiis started about three years ago as an alternative form of education for students who were not motivated by traditional classroom methods.

Students met at locations other than the high school and, within certain guidelines, were given freedom to determine their classroom structure—both in terms of physical appearance and course outline.

The controversy started late last year when parents discovered that a successful application for state funds had described the Regenesiis students as either having frequent contacts with the police or being "potential dropouts and high-risk juveniles."

The parents argued that Regenesiis was a voluntary program and that there were no criteria such as those implied by the application.

They demanded the school explain why it had "unfairly labeled" their children and charged that administrators had harassed Regenesiis teacher Kathleen Densmore when she tried to bring the situation to parents' attention.

After compiling stacks of documents and hearing lengthy testimony—including that of a intermediate school district official who said fudging on grant applications is accepted practice—the school board ruled that administrators were wrong to apply for the state money. Letters of apology were mailed to Regenesiis students.

The board did not substantiate the harassment charges, however.

In the meantime, the Regenesiis class came to an abrupt halt when students boycotted it for the second semester. After being assigned numerous jobs and complaining of further harassment, Ms. Densmore resigned.

As an aftermath of the investigation,

Private First Class Samuel R. Hollis, son of Mary E. Hollis of 114 Walnut Street, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

A 1976 graduate of Northville High School, he joined the Marine Corps in December 1976.

PFC Hollis has returned to duty after spending leave with his family and friends in Northville and Wisconsin. His new duty station is the Marine Corps Base at Oahu, Hawaii.

Vandals caused about $400 worth of damage Sunday when they threw two rocks through windows at Papa Geppeto's restaurant in the Northville Plaza. Police are investigating.

Four people escaped from the Northville State Hospital, three of whom were considered dangerous.

One, a 32 year old woman who was committed by the court, failed to return from a home leave. Two men considered dangerous escaped on Friday and another man considered dangerous only to himself, escaped Monday.

A woman serving 7½ to 15 years for second degree murder escaped from DeHoCo Friday, but has since been apprehended. Witnesses said she escaped by going over the fence at about 7 p.m.

A Troy resident left the Palace Restaurant in Northville to find that someone had damaged his Triumph while it was in the parking lot early Sunday morning. Police say the windshield was broken by rocks and damage was done to the hood and right front fender. There are no suspects.

Rocks also found their way through a large window on the north side of the high school boiler room Thursday morning at 2:25. Police have been unable to find witnesses.

Speaking for The Record

Here's choice facing voters

Many people, perhaps a majority, are predicting the upcoming school millage increase will go down to defeat. Many of these same people will put some muscle into their prediction by casting 'no' votes themselves.

That many share this negative feeling is not surprising. After all, no one likes to pay additional taxes. And now, barely a year after the school district approved a tax hike and just two months after the city council gave its stamp of approval to a millage increase, taxpayers are hardly in the mood for still another hike in their tax bills.

What we do find surprising and disturbing, however, is that a significant number of these people are opposing the school proposition for altogether wrong reasons. Not the least of these is discontent with the superintendent of schools.

In our opinion, the 2.8 mill increase should be judged on its merit — not one's personal opinion of an individual.

It's imperative, we believe, that the voter who intends to cast a negative vote should fully understand the implications of that vote.

Voters should understand that they cannot expect the school system to improve over what many now claim is inadequate. But if they are satisfied with the present level of education and they are willing to chance greater deterioration of school buildings, then at least they will be casting their 'no' votes knowing full well what they can expect.

No additional noticeable cutbacks in the program are likely to occur without the millage increase, although a slightly higher pupil-teacher ratio and a reduction in the outlay for maintenance will take place.

Presently, there are 205 teachers in the district. If the millage fails, the number of staffers will be decreased to 195, and if it passes this number will be increased to 209.

As for maintenance, given the public clamor for an improvement in the present condition of the schools, especially at the high school, we find it hard to believe that citizens will accept a worsening of school maintenance.

Here is what voters can expect will happen if the millage increase is approved July 30:

1. Six-hour class days will be returned to the high school.
2. Course expansion, already approved by the board, will be offered at the junior high school level. This expansion will restore some options that were available to freshmen when the ninth grade was part of the high school. It could also eliminate the necessity of freshmen having to choose either band or foreign language. They could take both.
3. Instructional music (band) will be offered in the elementary grades. One of the additional teachers that would be hired would be a band teacher. Reading and library facilities also would be improved.
4. It will provide for two additional custodians, and it would provide $18,500 in additional monies for general maintenance.
5. Some $88,000 will be set aside for capital outlay. Twice this amount could be used. This year $40,000 was budgeted, most of it being used to fix the Amerman Elementary School roof. None will be budgeted if the millage fails.
6. A junior high school principal will be hired. Principals David Longridge and Ronald Horwath contend this addition is a necessity to provide more time to deal with curriculum matters.
7. Coaches will be provided for girl's basketball and volleyball programs at the junior high school level. Currently, there are no junior high school sports exclusively for girls. There are two co-ed teams and three boys' teams.

8. An additional $57,000 will be used for instructional supplies. However, even if the millage passes, administrators point out that the problem of not having enough books for students to take home at the end of the day would not be solved.

This, then, outlines what Northville school district taxpayers can expect in the event of passage or defeat of the July 30 millage proposal.

It is not necessary to invent excuses for casting a negative ballot. Practically speaking, the election provides an opportunity for the voter to make a choice knowing the consequences of defeat and the advantages of approval.

YES . . .

The men and women of the Navy are truly professionals, trained to ensure the ships, aircraft and equipment function satisfactorily to protect the nation should the need arise.

As women have ventured out of their stereotyped roles, both in civilian and military environments, they have proven they can function as adeptly as men.

Women in the Navy have become aviators, have withstood the rigors of the Naval Academy, so why shouldn't they be able to withstand the pressures and hardships of a seagoing life?

Many of you will agree that women in the Navy can do the job, but yet have reservations about sending them to sea. Are you afraid of what might go on during at-sea periods?

I believe your fears are groundless as each navy man and woman is mentally, physically and morally screened prior to enlistment. Only those meeting the high qualification standards of the Navy are enlisted.

A naval vessel is a complex piece of equipment, needing the dedicated efforts of each person to keep it in fighting shape. From experience, I find there would be little time for midnight rendezvous or daytime affairs as the next day comes only too soon.

I say give the gals a chance to show they are the professionals they are trained to be both ashore and afloat and you'll see that the finest traditions of the U.S. Navy will be upheld.

Male, female sailors on boat?

NO . . .

The United States has given women a place of honor and status unequalled in the history of the world. Without the patience, love and courage of women you do not have a country.

Still, men and women have their separate and definite responsibilities. It has been proven over the centuries we cannot legislate biological entities.

Duty aboard a combat ship recognizes the possibility of exposure to the awful carnage of war.

There have been some experiments conducted with women aboard operational ships. Certain groups of well-intentioned ultra-liberal, do-gooders, have pressured and harassed Congress and the Navy.

Unfortunately "good old horse sense" was never the forte of this conglomeration of super-intelligentia.

In this experiment, loneliness from days away produced situations embarrassing to the wearers of the uniform. "They ceased to fit."

Picture if you will this mismatch of the elements during a time of war. Consider this idea, in its embryo state now, developing to full scale.

Russian dandelions are tough

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

Squeezed into a New York elevator crowded with tourists from Germany, I shouted over the din in my best brand of English, "Anyone here named Hoffman?"

Silence, icy stares. My embarrassed wife poked me in the ribs, Herr Whatshisname muttered something unintelligible to a companion, the elevator stopped, the door slid open and they all fled what they probably thought was another typically insane American.

It's been like this ever since I began the search for my roots — long before Kunte Kinte smiled at me from book and television screen.

Everywhere I go I'm begging for clues, for information that will lead to the post Adam and Eve couple who begat so many Hoffmans.

Frustration is the name of the game. Dig up a dandelion and you never quite get all the roots, and before you know it another flower springs up to tease another round of digging.

I envy those who can trace their families to the Mayflower. So nice and simple and romantic.

Mine goes back to a broken-down freighter that didn't even have the courtesy to land at Ellis Island. Instead it steamed around the tip of Florida and dumped its cargo of German immigrants at the docks of Galveston, Texas less than 80 years ago.

Worse, from the point of view of today's amateur detective, these frightened Germans, who included my grandparents, came not from Germany but from Russia. And if you think it's tough digging genealogical dandelions in America try it on the banks of the Volga River without setting foot in the country, without knowing how to speak or write either Russian or German.

The Soviet Entourist Agency won't say anything, the Russian embassy referred me to the American Red Cross, and the Red Cross directed me to its international agency, which understandably figures it has better things to do with its time.

The biggest break came a couple years ago when the local postmaster came up with a dandy piece of advice: "If anybody knows anything about somebody, it's the postmaster," he said, suggesting I write to a postmaster in Russia.

So off went a letter addressed to the postmaster of Seratov, together with a couple bucks for return postage. Within three months, I received an encouraging reply from the English interpreter for the Seratov postmaster. He said he would be delighted to assist me. But he

There's one nice thing about being a freshman Congressman: not many people in Washington recognize you. Especially in the federal bureaucracy. I've just introduced a bill to reduce the size of the bureaucracy by 10 percent over a five-year period. It would be accomplished through attrition — the process of not hiring new people to replace those who retire or leave.

As part of the research for this legislation, my first major bill in my first year in Congress, I dropped in on some of our federal agencies here in Washington. Unannounced. Unknown. Just another face in the hall. I talked to some of the people and observed the activity. As an infantry officer, one of my prime responsibilities was evaluation of programs and budgets. I found one of the most valuable techniques to be unannounced inspection of sites, personnel, maintenance operations and the like. That method has been equally valuable for me in evaluating the effectiveness of government operations.

This experience, plus my official contacts with various federal agencies throughout my years in state, local and federal government, have convinced me of two things: we have many fine, hard-working civil servants in these agencies; we also have room for improvement in productivity.

It is for the second of these two convictions that I have introduced my bill to reduce the bureaucracy by 10 percent.

It is certainly an achievable goal. In 1976 there was a 22 percent turnover. That certainly allows sufficient flexibility for a carefully-phased attrition program averaging 2 percent per year for five years. Under the terms of my bill, the 2 percent would be an annual target, but each year must see at least one percent reduction, toward the 10 percent cut at the end of the five year period.

Surely the savings would be substantial, and I believe such a measure is essential to control the growth of the federal government.

Rec department under board fire

Northville Township trustees expressed disappointment in the denial of the state Department of Natural Resources of its application for funding for the Six Mile site recreation and also criticized salary level of the shared city-township recreation director at their July meeting last Thursday.

Under the Land and Water Conservation Fund assistance program the Northville Fish Hatchery site had been approved for recreation aid of $9,500.

Trustee Mark Lysinger questioned "how hard Charles A. Froberger, recreation director, had 'battled' for the Six Mile site request."

Trustee James Nowka, a member of the joint recreation commission, said "he put just as much effort into it as to any project." Clerk Clarice Sass agreed that "what could be done was" and noted that Department of Natural Resources people had visited the site. Because, under terms of the fund program applications do not stay in file, Dr. John Swienkowski requested that the application be returned to be submitted again in March of 1978.

Don Thomson, a member of the audience, pointed out to the board that the lease on Thomson field expires August 15.

In discussing a successor to Froberger, who has resigned, Thomson recommended Edward L. Kricitz, assistant director who has been appointed interim head, saying he "does a super job with kids."

Thomson also questioned the need for two directors during winter months.

Nowka responded that he felt Froberger had "gotten the department off the ground into a sound program—I think it's necessary to have a director to adopt new ideas and continue present ones."

He urged that the recreation commission be permitted to review candidates.

The commission presently is seeking applicants until August 18 and is advertising a salary in the $14,000 to $18,150 range.

Dr. John Swienkowski questioned the salaries now being paid, comparing them to those of township officials. He said Froberger had started at the $14,000 level but in two years had been raised to the $18,000 category. He cited the township clerk's salary, which is under $15,000.

Nowka was asked to take the board's thinking back to the recreation commission.

Richard Mitchell, a member of the audience, said he "firmly believes in a pay-as-you-go recreation program except for senior citizens."

needed to know how "Hoffman" is spelled in Russian.

For gosh sakes I can barely spell it in English.

Fortunately, the local high school Russian teacher came to my assistance. And back to Russia went another letter and some more bucks.

I've never received a reply. Either the interpreter just wanted some souvenir dollars like those his boss got or somebody put a stop to his assistance. After all, Germans in Russia are as popular as American newspaper correspondents. They were shuffled off to Siberia following the Revolution, and today Volga Germans are persona non-grata.

Because it was a German who lugged the Hoffman name to Russia back during the reign of Catherine the Great when Germans were enticed to settle the Volga River lands, I've also written blind letters to postmasters in Germany.

Their replies are friendly but fruitless.

Hoffmans in Germany, it seems, are rare as Smiths in America.

What's more they collect dollar bills, too. At this rate, it would be a whole lot cheaper and wiser to jump into a vat of newspaper ink, change my name to Haley and tack up an adopted family tree.

What 'Square' needs to attract shoppers

Dear Mr. Sliger:

I have just read that you are on a committee to promote business for downtown businesses and specifically, Northville Square.

I am in sales for an air freight company which causes me to call on all types of businesses.

Because of living in Northville I have a loyal interest in wanting to see our town do well, particularly local business. If business does well I benefit from an economic viewpoint as well as from a convenience standpoint.

However, local business has to earn the right to "my dollars" by competing with business located elsewhere.

I would like to offer a few comments for your consideration as to what is needed to help Northville Square prosper.

As a basis, I'd like to assume one point. That is the money needed to make a profit comes largely from the adults in the community. Largely the family "needs".

Briefly, the shops that have been in and out of the Square have been the specialty shops such as the store that sold goods from India. Stores of this nature certainly have a limited market.

The shops of a regular nature such as clothes or shoes have had limited inventories and have been priced far too high for what was, or is offered.

Finally, the arcade frightens many families away. I suppose a person could rationalize why the arcade should be there such as 1—Kids are a market 2—The arcade owners have a right to do business, etc., etc. I would say the arcade is the biggest deterrent to my family.

If there have been sales promotions or "sales", I'm not aware of any. Everything offered has to be marketed so people know what is available. There has to be a motivation for people to want to spend.

I hope this contributes in some way toward a more flourishing downtown Northville.

Float meant lots of help

To the Editor:

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank all the people who helped make the Tivoli Fair float for the 4th of July Parade possible.

The float, depicting the entrance to the Tivoli Gardens in Copenhagen won a 3rd prize and we are all very proud. It was put together and entered in the parade as a reminder of the Tivoli Fair, sponsored by the Historical Society, which will be held September 22, 23, & 24th at the Northville Downs Racetrack.

The float took a great deal of time, effort, patience, and cooperation from various people and I would like to show my appreciation:

To Jan Reef who donated the wagon, and to Green Ridge Nursery and Milo Hunt for the plants, bricks and grass. The geraniums were lovely and were there through the courtesy of Louise Whittington and the IV Seasons.

My thanks to the children who walked beside the float — George, Stephanie, and Elizabeth Pappas; and my own children, Christopher, John-Marc, and Carole Anderson. Carole also made the flowers for the float.

A special thanks to my husband, John Anderson, for the carpentry work.

Sincerely,
Nicole Anderson
Chairman-Tivoli Fair 1977

Eagles ask zoning

Request of the Northville Fraternal Order of Eagles for rezoning of a Levitt building located at the end of Gerald Avenue so that it might be purchased for a clubhouse was referred by Northville Township to the board of appeals for a variance.

The property presently is zoned industrial.

The Eagles' former building at Sheldon and Mary Alexander Court in downtown Northville had been gutted in a fire. The organization's club liquor license, the board was told, could be transferred unless objections were filed.

Sidewalk assessments draw fire at hearing

was determined that so much of this curb is in need of repair that it would be wiser to have it all replaced rather than leave small sections that soon would deteriorate.

Mrs. Lovewell noted that since the public uses the walks part of the cost should be borne by the city. If not, "what are we getting for our taxes?" she asked.

Homeowners, it was pointed out, must pay for repairs of sidewalks in front of their homes, and commercial property owners cannot expect to escape costs required of others, council members said.

Sheehan wondered if plans are still afoot to one day make downtown Main Street a pedestrian mall. If it is, he observed, replacement of curbing might be short-lived and therefore a needless expenditure.

Council said the plan, even if it should materialize, is so far off that curb replacement would not be a waste.

Furthermore, Councilman Stanley Johnston observed that if the mall concept was instituted and found to be the wrong move, the new curbing would permit easy return to motor traffic and street-side parking.

"When was the last time repairs were made?" asked Mrs. Roy.

Councilmen said repairs occurred four or five years ago, but that patchwork proved inadequate and soon deteriorated.

William Davis, representing the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, asked if any change in sidewalk elevation is planned. Penn responded by saying that some grade change is planned on the Church Street side of the church but not in front of the building.

To the question, "Will property owners have to pay again if the repairs proved to be faulty and have to be redone?", it was noted that work of this kind generally carries a one-year guarantee.

Mrs. Mainville wondered why railing had never been installed along the side of her drug store building at 134 East Main, particularly when holes for rail posts were installed at the time of the sidewalk. Mayor A. M. Allen said those plans were scuttled when objections were raised, namely that such rails would hamper snow removal.

Council members also told the audience that other property owners, outside of the central business district, who might want their sidewalks repaired could be included and thus take advantage of overall bid costs.

Mayor Allen said it is the city's intention of getting the repair work done far enough in advance of winter to allow ample time for concrete curing. It was estimated the work would be done within 60 days, and that it would be done in stages so as not to inconvenience downtown business.

Once bids have been received and a contractor selected, individual assessments will be adjusted to reflect the contract cost, said the city manager.

At that point a second public hearing will be held — this one a hearing on the assessments themselves.

Chessie steams through

Here's a cinder in your eye

Brighton during a two-hour pit stop from 3-5 p.m.

The train runs out of Detroit were sell-outs, too, except for Sunday's one-way trip to Grand Rapids. Those boarding at Detroit, Plymouth and Lansing Sunday were returned by chartered buses.

The six-month tour of the steam engine and cars is the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad's way of marking the sesquicentennial of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad — the nation's first railroad that is now part of Chessie System.

The B&O was chartered on February 28, 1827, in Maryland, and it made its first ventures into Michigan in the 1890's through connections with other rail lines.

The Chessie Special's passenger runs this month are over lines that have not carried passenger service for years. It was over a decade ago when the last passenger train barreled through Northville and Wixom, and nearly a decade since one headed west through South Lyon and Brighton.

And those frame stations that dotted the C&O lines in this area are gone or abandoned.

"I don't remember them (steam engines) being so noisy and so dirty," exclaimed people who rode the train or watched it roar past.

There's a reason.

The Chessie Special is a good deal bigger than the passenger steam engines that used to run here.

And if this particular engine seemed familiar, there's a reason for that, too. The Chessie Special is the same engine that pulled the American Freedom Train across the country last year.

Actually, neither it nor the old cars it is pulling today are owned by C&O. Most of them are privately owned or owned by other companies and leased by C&O for the B&O nationwide birthday party.

Take the engine, for example.

It's a pet of a millionaire commodities' broker out of New York, Ross Rowland.

A steam train buff, Rowland is so in love with his engine, No. 2101, the only way he would consent leasing her to C&O was to insist that he be permitted to take the throttle anytime he gets the urge.

And that urge is as strong as the iron horse herself. He jetted into Michigan twice over the past two weeks to stroke his pet up to Clio and over to Grand Rapids.

He wasn't at the throttles Sunday, and that's why the Chessie Special ran out of steam three miles from the Grand Rapids Wyoming yards.

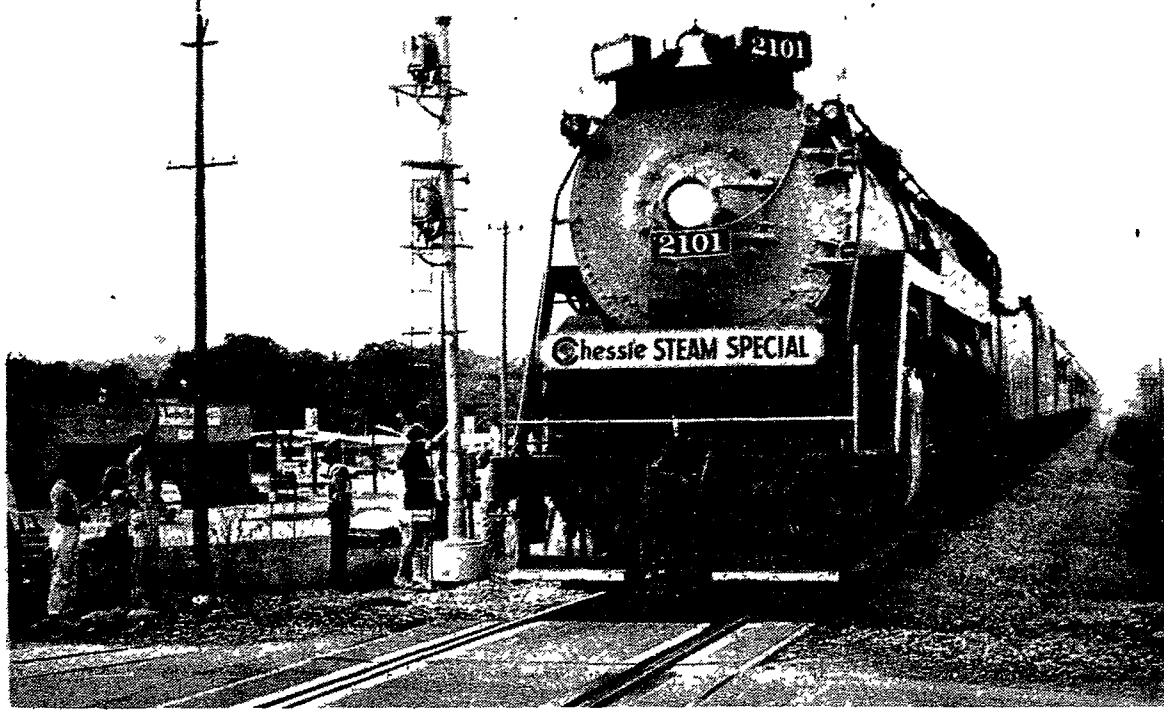

Rowland salvaged his engine from a Baltimore scrap yard especially for the nation's Bicentennial.

For the steam engine buffs, No. 2101 was built by the Reading Railroad in 1945 — a 4-8-4, class T1 steam locomotive designed for heavy duty freight and passenger service in the hills of Pennsylvania. The 900,000 pound giant was retired in 1967.

The 2101 with its tender is 110 feet, six inches long. Its auxiliary tender adds another 51 feet, eight and three-quarter inches. The first tender carries 26 tons of coal and 19,000 gallons of water; the auxiliary tender carries an additional 16,000 gallons of water.

Steam pressure of 240 pounds provides tractive effort of 68,000 pounds with an additional 11,100 pounds being added by the booster when cut in.

The engine produces more power than a 707 at takeoff and that's why so many people thought a jet was streaking overhead when the Chessie Special steamed through town.

Spectators greet Chessie Special at Seven Mile crossing

Its steady, whining roar muffles the chugging sounds of the past. Only when the engine huffed up the Salem hill grade Sunday — the highest grade between Detroit and Grand Rapids — did oldtimers hear that chug-chug-chug of another era.

Because of its size, the Chessie Special belches more smoke than the steam engines that used to run through this area.

But it may have been blacker and thicker than usual because Rowland wanted "to give the people a kick."

That black smoke and the cinders it carried filled the open cars, and by the time passengers in these cars arrived home they were nearly as sooty as the engineer. The tiny black cinders cover upholstered seats, worked their way into women's bras, and seasoned the hotdogs in the refreshment-souvenir car.

But no one complained.

Those who preferred not to inhale part of the past chose one of the air-conditioned cars.

Most opted for the open cars, hanging heads and arms out windows to get their hair whipped into knots, their faces pelted by cinders, and to wave at the countless numbers of people who waved back, aimed cameras and sound recording equipment at No. 2101.

Kodak made a fortune in the past two weeks.

Knots of people gathered at nearly every major street or road crossing. They hung from trees, dangled from overhead bridges, dented the tops of their cars, trampled cornfields, downed fences and scared the dickens out of police everywhere in their attempt to get a look at the steam engine passed.

Except for its last run out of Detroit, the Chessie Special pleased clock watchers.

The on-time train ran out of steam as it was coasting into Grand Rapids and had to stop a few miles from its destination to take on more water, resulting in a 45-minute delay.

Local grads consider education inadequate

"It appears that Northville High School graduates are more involved in continuing their education than the total state results indicate," said Michael Burley, Northville's curriculum coordinator.

"This would make the (Northville) respondents more aware of a higher quality of education than would be apparent to an individual not continuing his or her education."

For the most part, graduates in both Northville and elsewhere equated "adequacy of education" with "use of education of the job," according to Burley.

Those surveyed were broken down into two categories — vocational education graduates and non-vocational education graduates.

Fewer than half of Northville's vocational education students thought their education was adequate compared with slightly more than 60 percent of the state respondents.

Yet, about 60 percent of both the state and Northville vocational students said they were using their education on the job. Burley's contention comes from the fact that nearly twice as many Northville vocational education students continued their education than did the statewide average (60 percent to 30 percent).

From these figures, it can be hypothesized that Northville's vocational education students use their education on the job as much as others in the state, but demand more from their high school days because of their exposure to higher levels of learning.

Fewer than 40 percent of Northville's non-vocational students thought their education was adequate compared to half of the state's 1976 graduates.

Again, though, three-fourths of Northville's non-vocational education graduates are continuing their formal education compared to slightly more than half of their state counterparts.

Burley cautioned against making snap conclusions from the survey.

"For example, you may say that Northville High School graduates are more self-directed because there is a significantly higher percent of Northville graduates who stated, 'No one but myself,' was their source of help in finding a job.

"The other side of this is that the school district did not provide any formal placement service last year while other districts did."

communities using the Detroit treatment plant — would be even more costly than any rate increase, he warned.

For that reason, Allen suggested the council waive the 90-day notice to permit the rate increase to start September 1. Presently, sewer customer communities require a 90-day notice of any rate increase. But there are fewer than 90 days to go before the government's September 1 deadline.

After polling the council and gaining its support, Allen said he would return to court this week with the suggestion that Northville (city) would be willing to "go along" with the rate increase, provided an independent audit of Detroit's sewer account is authorized.

As for the super sewer plan, Allen said he doesn't believe there is any point in proceeding until after this federal government suit is resolved. Similarly, the mayor indicated that Northville's active involvement in the newly formed super sewer authority must necessarily be tabled "for the time-being."

"First things first. The existing treatment plant must be improved first," said Allen. "The government's told us that."

an alternative education committee was formed of parents, school board members, students, administrators and a teacher.

It was the committee's job to recommend if there was a need for starting a new alternative education class at Northville. The ill-fated survey was part of that effort.

Of those who did complete the survey, more than 80 percent thought an alternative program should be part of the Northville curriculum.

The next step is to determine what form that alternative program will take.

MBA honor roll again lists Wilson

John Wilson of Northville is one of 38 students named to the Master of Business Administration honor list, Yu Furuhashi, associate dean of graduate students in the College of Business Administration at the University of Notre Dame, has announced.

Students must earn a grade point average of 3.5 or better to be named to the list. Wilson made the honor roll both semesters this past school year and has a cumulative grade point average of 3.65.

He will be returning to Notre Dame in August for his second year as a Notre Dame scholar. He was an honor graduate of Northville High School in 1972 and was salutatorian of his class at Madonna College, graduating summa cum laude in 1976.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson of 418 Randolph in Northville.

Surprise! Giants win disputed thriller

Surprises never cease when Junior Baseball's top two F League clubs tangle. Surprise endings, in fact, are almost taken for granted when the Cardinals and Giants do battle.

Even a wizard couldn't have foreseen the unusual outcome of last Saturday's playoff championships at Thomson Field, though.

In two barnburners that went right down to the last nail-biting moment before being decided, the Giants twice nipped the Cardinals 6-5 to complete an amazing comeback from the losers' bracket and capture the F League's double-elimination playoff tournament.

The second contest ended in controversy and frustration for the Cards when the winning run came home on a disputed balk call with two outs in the bottom of the seventh and final inning. Coach Dave Mitchell of the Cards called it "a very, very unfortunate incident" and filed a protest with the Junior Baseball board of commissioners, but the ruling held and the Giants were champions.

Here's what happened.

With two outs and nobody on in the last inning of a 5-5 deadlock in the deciding game of the playoffs, Giant hitting ace Chris Dimitroff doubled and stole third base.

Then came the confusion.

Cardinal pitcher Dave Mitchell, standing on the pitching rubber, apparently tried holding Dimitroff close to the bag by faking a throw over to third. Third-base umpire Ray Tague immediately called a balk while Mitchell pulled his arm back and threw over to third anyway, and in came the winning run. A small argument between Tague and the Cards ensued, but the score counted and the Giants won.

The controversy overshadowed what Coach Mitchell termed "two dandy ball games." He'll certainly get no argument there.

The first one had all the action and excitement a championship could ask for, including extra innings.

Dimitroff laid a perfect sacrifice bunt down the third-base line in the top of the first inning to score Tim Borthwick from third and give the Giants an early 1-0 lead. Steve Wynn led off the Cards' first with a walk, stole second and third and came home on a passed ball to tie it up.

That's the way it stood until the Cardinal third. Wynn led off with a triple, then came home when Mitchell reached first on an error by the shortstop. Two walks later Mitchell scored when Neil Fitzpatrick hit a soft grounder back to the mound. Dimitroff, who pitched both games for the Giants, hesitated after fielding the ball, then threw home too late to get the force out on Mitchell, and the Cards were up 3-1.

The Giants bounced back to take the lead in the fourth, though, with three quick runs. Borthwick led off the inning with a walk, stole second and third and came home on Dimitroff's towering double off the center field fence.

Dimitroff's brother Andy then singled on a freak play that tied the game up. Wynn, catching for the Cards, reached out and poked Andy's bat as he tapped a grounder to the left of the infield.

Interference was immediately called, giving Andy a single that made it 3-3. One out later, after Andy had reached third on two stolen bases, Scott Layow squeezed home the go-ahead run on a bunt down the first base line.

The Cardinals knotted the game again in the fifth when Mitchell singled up the middle with two outs and came home on Mark Olgren's double to right. Dimitroff and Mitchell, who took over the Cards' pitching duties from Olgren in the sixth, then bore down and kept the game scoreless until the top of the eighth.

Terry Nadeau led off the Giants' eighth with a grounder to third baseman Olgren, whose throw to first skipped past the bag and let Nadeau reach second. Phil Lamb's single to right gave the Giants a 5-4 lead. Two outs later Borthwick singled to center to give the Giants a two-run edge.

Refusing to fold, though, the Cards led off their half of the eighth with a base hit by Wynn. He stole second and third, then came home when the Giants' catcher overthrew third trying to pick him off.

One out later Mitchell hit a drive to the center field fence for a double, and

Cards win, 11-10

Junior Baseball's hottest rivalry came to a close last night at Ford Field as the F League's Cardinals knocked off the Giants.

The victory officially gave the Cards this season's F League championship. During the regular season the two clubs tied for first place with identical 11-2 records, necessitating a post-season title game.

Giants' Chris Dimitroff dives back to second in playoff game against Cards

Rule causes conflict

The controversial balk call in the F League playoff final stemmed from section 8.05 of the official playing rules of baseball.

Specifically, the rule states that "it is a balk when the pitcher, while touching his plate, feints a throw to first base and fails to complete the throw."

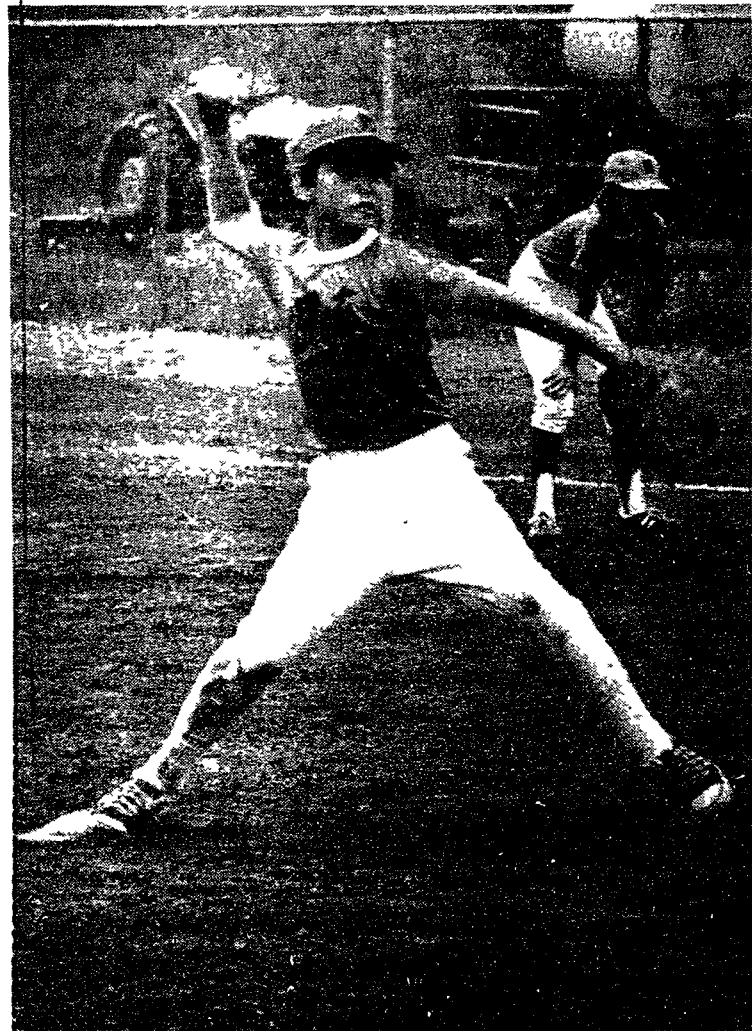

According to Cardinal Coach Dave Mitchell that means a pitcher "does not have to throw to any base but first" when starting a motion to a base from the pitching rubber.

Bill Bingley, who was in charge of the game's four-umpire crew, had a different version, however. According to him the rule applies to all bases, even though section 8.05 doesn't specifically state that.

"It was definitely a balk," said Bingley, a long-time umpire in Northville. Bingley said the three umpires on the field (excluding the home plate umpire) all concurred with the call, made by third-base ump Ray Tague.

"If Ray hadn't called it, I would have," said Bingley.

Pitcher Steve Demattos helped Mets win G League playoffs

It's Mets' day in G

Saturday just wasn't meant to be the Rangers' Day.

Four errors, a couple of breaks and Bob Pegrum's bat got the Mets off to a 7-0 lead over the Rangers in the first two innings of G League's playoff championship last weekend, and from there the Mets coasted to a 10-2 victory, their fourth without a loss during the double elimination tournament.

Three of the Rangers' errors came in the first inning as the Mets scored three times on only one hit. After Pegrum singled with one out, Tim Cotter reached second and Pegrum third when pitcher Doug Doyle fielded Cotter's ground ball but overthrew first base.

Doyle struck out the next batter, but failed to get out of the inning safely when another two-base error, this time by his second baseman, scored the Mets' first two runs. As if that wasn't enough, Doyle overthrew first again on a slow taper to the mound by Scott Thompson, giving the Mets a quick 3-0 lead.

Things didn't improve much for the Rangers in the second. Joel Grasley led off the inning for the Mets by beating out a dribbler down the third-base line, then went to second on Jeff Jamieson's Texas League single to right. Mark Wheeler walked to load the bases.

John Crampton followed with a liner to right that scored Grasley, but Crampton was thrown out at first on an alert play by the Rangers' right fielder. Pegrum then hit a solid double to right to make it 5-0.

Just when it appeared the Rangers were coming out of the woods Steve Demattos smashed a two-out grounder through the middle to score Crampton from third, and Pegrum came home

H League champs

Unpredictable Astros roll

Talk about a Jekyll and Hyde complex.

H League's Astros were about as consistent as the Detroit Tigers in three contests with the Cardinals during junior baseball's double elimination playoff tournament last week. In the end their good side showed, though, as they toppled the Cards 10-3 in Saturday afternoon's championship game at Thomson Field.

The day started off looking anything but good for the Astros, however. The Cardinals, who had to fight back from the losers' bracket to get another shot at the Astros after getting skunked 9-0 by them one week earlier, ran up an 11-0 count on the Astros in a morning game and went on to post an easy 11-7 triumph, forcing a second game that afternoon.

The Cards scored five of their runs off Astro started Dave Ferrick in the first two innings. A bases-loaded walk to Tony Craig forced home one run in the first.

Then, in the second, errors by the Astros' catcher and first baseman and a sacrifice fly by John Meadows led to four more tallies.

Russ Parker took over the pitching duties from Ferrick with one out in the second and held the Cards scoreless through the fourth inning.

The Cards greeted new pitcher Matt Peltz with four more runs in the fifth, though, one on Chris Dominique's leadoff homerun and two on Mike Hackworth's bases-loaded single. Dominique duplicated his leadoff homerun feat in the sixth, and by the time the Astros took their final turn at the plate it was 11-0.

The Astros staged a courageous two-out rally and scored seven times on six straight hits in the bottom of the sixth, but the rally fell short.

Apparently the late surge carried over into the second game, though, leading the Astros to a 10-3 win for the title.

They scored twice in the top of the first inning on consecutive singles by Doug Martin, Ferrick and Parker. Then, after the Cardinals had bounced back to tie it up in the bottom of the first, Tom Viel, Jeff Dalton, George Daraban and Martin clobbered four straight base hits with two outs in the third to put the Astros ahead for good, 5-2.

In the fifth they exploded for five more runs on four walks and three singles, and for all practical purposes the game was in the bag.

Daraban and Martin combined to pitch a four-hitter at the Cards, who had closed the regular H League season tied for first place with a 12-1 record.

State Farm bounces back

State Farm Insurance bounced back from an upset while Zayti Trucking upset a "bounce-back" in crucial men's softball match-ups last week.

State Farm, which suffered its first divisional loss of the season two weeks ago when cellar contender Henrikson-Good Time pulled a major 10-9 upset, came back with an easy 9-1 victory over a respectable Eagles club last Wednesday and crept a half-game ahead of Casterline-Carls in a tight battle for first place in the National Division of Men's Softball.

State Farm opened up the scoring with three runs in the first inning on Richard Roman's sacrifice fly, a run-scoring single by Mike Nave and fielder's choice ground out by Alex Parran. They added two more in the second on Mike Campbell's two-out, two-run base hit.

In the fifth Nave whacked a one-out home run to start another three-run rally. Ted Gores followed with a triple and came home when Parran was safe at first on an error by the first baseman. Charlie Burk then knocked in the third run with a double that brought Parran around.

Two innings later the National Division powerhouse added one more run on a leadoff single by Roman and an error by the Eagles' shortstop.

The Eagles scored their only run in the second when Ron Tobey singled, went to third on an error by the right fielder, and came home on Ken Lach's sacrifice fly.

Zayti Trucking, meanwhile, pulled the upset of the week in the American Division with a 10-6 win over Sheehan's-On-The-Green. Sheehan's had bounced back from a weak start this season with six straight victories before last Wednesday's contest.

Zayti, entering the game with a 4-6 record compared to Sheehan's 7-3 mark, led all the way. Ricky Bingley, the game's first batter, led off the Zayti charge with a home run.

Four base hits and an error by Sheehan's first baseman upped Zayti's lead to 4-0 in the second. After John Sherman brought Sheehan's back within two on a two-run base hit in the bottom of the second, Zayti scored three more in the third on consecutive RBI singles by Jim Long, Kenny Luedtke and Jim Worshley.

Sheehan's scored twice in their half of the fourth to make it 7-4, but Zayti kept right on pecking away with two more tallies in the fourth.

The loss dropped Sheehan's record to 7-4 and knocked them out of a tie for second place in the American Division.

Northville golf hits hot streak

Three outstanding individual performances made the Northville Golf League's 14th week of competition an unforgettable one last Tuesday.

First Al Horton birdied the 135-yard, par-three 14th hole after coming within 11 inches of the pin in his drive.

Then, on the par-five 18th hole, Charlie Huff reached the green in two shots and puffed only once for an eagle.

As if that wasn't enough, Ray Williams finished the back nine with a one-over par score of 37, matching the league's top performance of the year by Fumio Omura on June 7.

Title sweep is breeze for G League Mets

With the Mets' seventh run when Doyle's relay throw to the plate was wild.

Two innings later a pair of walks and two more errors helped the Mets to a 9-0 lead. The Rangers finally scored twice in the bottom of the fourth on two walks and singles by Doyle and Pat Campbell, but by then the game was out of reach.

Just for insurance, the Mets added one more run in the sixth on consecutive singles by Cotter, Demattos and Dave Bach.

Despite the Mets' high score, their strong suit Saturday had to be their pitching. Pegrum pitched the first two innings and limited the Rangers to just one base runner on a walk in the second.

Demattos took over the third and allowed two runs on four hits in his two innings, and Bach finished up by retiring the first five batters he faced before allowing a pair of two-out single in the sixth.

The Mets and Rangers both finished the regular season with 10-4 records good for second place in the G League behind the Dodgers.

Approve Colony sub 3

Fred E. Greenspan Building Company received approval from the Northville Township Board of Trustees last Thursday to proceed with installation of improvements in Northville Colony Subdivision No. 3 subject to acceptable easement agreements. Preliminary plat was approved in May.

The board also voted to waive water and sewer fees of between $12,000 and $15,000 for the new township hall as the payment would be "taking money from one township pocket to another."

Approval was given for the contract for Smock-Fairway Drive area sewers to Abbott-Peterson upon recommendation of engineer William Mosher.

A resolution was approved reaffirming permission to purchase township election equipment. The board previously had approved earmarking federal anti-recession funds for the purpose.

CITY OF NOVI
OAKLAND COUNTY, MICHIGAN
SUMMARY OF CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS
The Council of the City of Novi met in Regular session at the Novi Middle School Cafeteria on Tuesday, July 5, 1977, at 8:00 p.m. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Pro-Tem Hoyer. All members of the Council were present with the exception of Mayor Henderson. Also present were Edward F. Kriewall, City Manager, David F. Fried, City Attorney, Geraldine Stipp, City Clerk.
A letter was presented to Council from Janet Christensen and Marilyn Kreger charging discrimination in hiring practices in the Police Department. Police Chief BeGole will submit a written report on this matter.
Councilman Goodman was appointed as the City's representative on the County Hospital Committee.
Results of the Novi Heights Sewer Survey were presented to Council indicating 38 to 11 to "wait and see" with regard to Super Sewer funding. This matter to be placed on the Council agenda as soon as a report is received regarding the septic failures.
A determination has been made with regard to the use of the old Novi Elementary School Building whereby it will be feasible to close off the two wings and heat only the old portion of the building and the Community Building. The estimated utility cost for this would be $10,000.00. The senior citizens and other groups using the building could be moved into the old section. Mr. Kriewall obtained a breakdown from the senior citizen group of the number participating from the several different cities. Suggestion was made that since this is a regional group, that the other cities be approached to participate in the utility cost based on the percentage of participation from their city. The senior citizens will approach their various City governments. The City Manager is to look into obtaining the use of the old high school for the senior citizen group. The groups using old Novi Elementary are faced with an August 1st deadline for vacating the building. The senior citizens were guaranteed Council support. Council directed the City Manager to have the electric meter read as of August 1st and will underwrite the electricity cost thru October. This will give time to explore all other possibilities.
Certificates were presented to those firemen who have completed the 66 hour training course: John Chambers, Thomas Darga, Raymond C. Hoyer, Gordon Messer, Douglas Morrow, Steve Poling horn, Douglas Chisholm, Rick Dodson, and Larry Reiser.
The City Manager reported on a meeting with John Early, Duane Bell, Chief BeGole and representatives of the Firemen's Association. The interim policy to be reduced to writing by Police and Fire Chief and submitted to the City Manager for distribution to the Council. The City Attorney was directed to draft an ordinance regulating ambulance services for consideration by the Council at the July 18th meeting.
Mr. Kriewall indicated that the Patnales Drain project is moving along. The concerns of the Meadowbrook Lake Homeowners have been reduced to 3 or 4 items. They hope to meet again within the next month to work out these remaining items of concern.
A meeting was held with the homeowners regarding the Beck Road Paving project, and individual meetings are now being planned between each homeowner, Johnson and Anderson and the right of way agent. If the job is postponed until next year, a cost increase is expected which will have to be carried by the taxpayers.
A resolution was adopted accepting the offer from Holtzman & Silverman of the parcel for the purpose of constructing a fire station on Meadowbrook Road.
A resolution was adopted creating an Architectural Selection Committee for the new police building. Committee to consist of Police Chief, Finance Director, Needs & Priority Assessment Committee Chairman, Patrolman representative, Command Officer representative, representative of Clerks & Dispatchers.
Approval was given to enter into the contract with Johnson & Anderson for the sewer System Evaluation Survey. Mr. Fried was directed to prepare a letter to Johnson & Anderson indicating that no work is to proceed until the Super Sewer Construction Grant is received.
A resolution was adopted authorizing the Mayor and Clerk to sign the contract for the improvements to Becker Road. The City Manager is to explore obtaining this type of funding for Novi.
Resolution No. 1 was adopted to begin special assessment district No. 46 which authorizes preliminary plans and cost estimates.
The Council adopted a resolution urging the Michigan State Highway Department to retain excess property on the right of way line of I-96 and Hagerty Road and in the event the State does not act in the manner recommended by the City and the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, the City reserves the right to exercise acquisition.
James McLennan, Peter Romanow and Donald Smith were appointed for three year terms to the Planning Board.
The bid of Dun Rite Roofing was accepted, in the amount of $780.00, to repair the roof of the old library building.
The August 1st Council meeting was rescheduled to August 2nd due to the Twelve Oaks Grand Opening.
The Show Cause Hearing for Franchise Expositions Building, was scheduled for August 2, 1977. All July and August Council meetings are to be held in the Novi Middle School Cafeteria.
The problem of faulty alarm equipment causing fire runs was discussed by Council. Mr. Fried was directed to follow through on this to notify problem companies. There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 11:15 p.m.

Other means explored

Township ok's EDC formation

Approval to incorporate the Economic Development Corporation of Northville Township was given unanimously by the township board last Thursday to William Miron, John Dugan and Blake Northrop.

A public hearing previously was held on June 23 to consider applications to incorporate under the state's EDC Act of 1974. The application of Miron, Dugan and Northrop was the only one received.

Under terms of the act a corporation may be formed and have power to acquire, finance and lease commercial and industrial enterprises by several means, including the issuance of tax-exempt revenue bonds.

Such corporations may request the township to undertake eminent domain proceedings, and the property may be exempt from ad valorem taxation.

Under terms of the law only one such corporation may be incorporated by the township.

Impetus for forming the authority was possible acquisition of the Wayne County Child Development Center property on Sheldon Road to prevent state purchase for a prison.

As the board also explored other possible ways of the township acquiring the property, Township Supervisor Wilson Grier warned that Wayne County promised only to hold the disposition of the center in committee until July 19.

Formation of a township building authority was discussed but tabled. Township attorney Donald Morgan said that a building authority can acquire property and issue bonds to pay without a vote of the people but that use of such property then is restricted.

In his opinion, the property is strictly for governmental use then, including such possible uses as recreation, township offices or senior citizen housing. The township, he said, does not have the ability to sell it for private use.

Morgan stated that the principal problem with EDC acquisition is that "basically you need a principal tenant or purchaser, and you do not currently have a viable user; therefore, EDC is not a primary approach now."

Another approach, he said, would be for the township to buy the property outright, "but to do so you're talking additional millage." He added that a financial consultant had suggested the building authority approach.

Grier pressed for the outright purchase of the property, pointing out that it then could be sold to private industry.

He asked for permission to seek a millage election date, but did not receive it from the board. He estimated that it would take two years before the property would be ready to sell should the township acquire it and that a 9-10 mill levy would be needed for that time.

Trustee John Swienkowski in questioning the direct purchase approach noted, "It has been a yoke around Wayne County's neck. I don't want to see it transferred to the township's."

He said he would hesitate to "ask people for this kind of money with no firm commitment."

In response to Grier's statement that the township planner, George Vilcan, has said there is quite a long list of people who would be interested in buying the property, Dr. Swienkowski commented that "there may be wonderful music played in the fields but nobody there."

Trustee James Nowka agreed that the purchase "could snap back and bruise" (the township) but questioned whether Wayne County might sell the property piecemeal.

Morgan responded that it has always been talked about in its entirety. He pointed out also that the City of Detroit "long has tried to sell its Five Mile property without success."

Trustee Mark Lysinger asked if the property under building authority purchase would have education as a valid municipal purpose. The reference was to possible use by a college, previously sought for the property.

Morgan was of the opinion that it was not.

Grier said he would like to put the question of purchase on the ballot and "let the final decision rest with the people."

Ongoing cost of such an action was the concern of the board. Township engineer William Mosher was asked how long it would take to get sewer and water to the property to make it salable.

He estimated "three years minimum but more like four."

She was the great aunt of Mrs. Frederick (Phyllis) Davis of Northville, Mrs. Richard (Ruth) Lafin of Ypsilanti, Mrs. Robert (Elizabeth) Sasser of Norwich, Connecticut, and William Simonds.

She was born January 19, 1879, in Michigan to John C. and Elizabeth (Conrad) Romer.

Miss Romer was a member of Faith Lutheran Church. The Reverend Ronald W. Schmidt officiated at the service. Interment was in St. George Lutheran Cemetery in Brighton.

Bidding for CDC appears likely

A Wayne County Commissioner's committee was expected yesterday to return to the full board a resolution calling for the sale of proposed prison land in Northville Township to the highest bidder.

The resolution, if eventually passed, would allow the township or others to purchase the Wayne County Child Development Center property where state officials wish to place a medium-security prison.

The state has already assessed the land, which sprawls over 800 acres on both sides of Sheldon Road north of Five Mile, at $9 million. By law, the state cannot pay more than that price.

Last week, the township approved the formation of an economic development corporation whose purpose would be the purchase of the center property, thereby thwarting the state's prison plans.

The state department of corrections has proposed buying the entire 800 acres, using the vacant buildings on the 300 acres east of Sheldon as a temporary prison until a permanent facility can be built in four or five years on the 500 mostly empty acres across the road.

Local opposition to the plan has been vigorous because the center is in a residential area and because many feel the township is already overburdened with institutions.

Many county commissioners, however, have seen the sale as a way to eliminate an annual $160,000 budget drain for maintaining the vacant property.

The resolution that was considered yesterday by the Public Works committee would allow others to bid against the state price for the land.

The full board considered the motion earlier this year but returned it to committee with the recommendation that an outside sale be limited to those who would use the land for recreational or "human resources" purposes.

Royce Smith, a member of the Public Works Committee whose district includes part of the Northville area, predicted Monday that the resolution would be returned to the full board without the recreation revision.

That would please township officials who have argued that the land should be sold to private developers so it could be added to the tax rolls. The township also supports the recently revitalized idea of a joint Schoolcraft-Wayne college campus at the site.

The economic development corporation that was approved last week is seen as a vehicle for the township to purchase the property.

Judy Forester of South Lyon's House of Flavors scoops another treat

Licking the heat the tasty way

Americans have found a way to help lick these muggy, hot summer days — swirling their tongues around delicious ice cream whether it's in a cone, dish, on a stick, or part of a banana split, sundae, shake or malt.

People of all ages, from toddlers to senior citizens have found ice cream to be habit forming.

The people who chronicle these things trace ice cream back to Emperor Nero's days in 37-68 A.D. That first "ice cream" was a combination of snow and fruit juice.

Later a new ingredient, milk, was added to the basic recipe by Marco Polo upon his return to Europe from China. The recipe for ice cream was supposedly a closely guarded secret as it was a "dish fit for a king" only.

But good secrets are hard to keep and by the end of the 18th century, say the chroniclers, ice cream had become popular in the United States.

Marco Polo would probably turn somersaults if he could venture into an ice cream parlor today. Vanilla, chocolate and strawberry are still the favorites but the choices range from fruity flavors to nutty selections.

One thing's for sure. All across the Sliger Home Newspapers' coverage area, in Brighton, South Lyon, Northville, Novi and Walled Lake, folks are getting their "licks" in during these sultry summer months.

Widely Written

I thought I'd fly around the world and search
For happiness. But then to sail the seas
Might bring me to a port, a tiny church, Where I could stop and rest. The mind does tease

A haive heart. Thoughts soar so far away;
Perhaps — perhaps in some far galaxy
There's life that's more evolved. A heart astray
Can tread the earth until it breaks, you see.

I've seen some countries that I love so well
With mountains stretching to caress the clouds
That drift above. And sandy beaches tell Of warmth and peaceful days. But are these shrouds?

Why trudge around the world? My eyes now smart:

True happiness begins within one's heart.

MARKETING ONE, billed as the first marketing-advertising agency in the Lakes Area, has opened its doors at 325 North Pontiac Trail in Walled Lake.

James B. Tripp, president of the agency, said that the firm was established to provide the northwestern suburban communities with a solution to the high cost of advertising and to build local and community service.

"Our concept is to advertise ourselves on radio and in business publications and to stop by local businesses to offer a free ad 'make-up' for current ads," said Tripp.

"Our quest is to appeal to the business person who has had difficulty in selling his product or had lost steam in sales," he continued. Marketing One will attempt to help the businessman solve marketing problems at an affordable price.

Other members of the Marketing One staff are Larry Wendell, 30, marketing manager; Paula Henline, 28, production manager; Coni Heinmann, 27, account director; and Jack Kausch, 36, photographic director.

Tripp said that the firm's concept of making itself known through its own advertising and also working as an extension of a client's sales staff has made it an innovator in the advertising field.

Marketing One can be reached at 624-4300.

DR. JOHN R. SWANSON, optometrist, announces the opening of his practice at 435 Pontiac Trail, in Walled Lake.

Office hours will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday with night hour appointments available during the week.

Dr. Swanson is a graduate of Illinois College of Optometry in Chicago after growing up in Livonia and Northville. He was associated with Dr. Louis Warshaw of Walled Lake for nine months prior to opening his own practice. Call 669-9040.

GUARDIAN INDUSTRIES CORP. of Novi reported that sales and earnings for the second quarter and first half ended June 30, 1977, were the highest for any quarter or six months in the company's history, substantially ahead of prior record results for the same two periods a year ago.

Net income for the second quarter was a record $4,280,000, or 77 cents per share, up 18 percent over a net of $3,620,000, or 61 cents per share, reported in 1976. Second quarter sales reached a new high of $39,724,000, a gain of 13 percent over sales of $35,258,000 in the same three months last year.

For the first six months, Guardian earned a record $7,471,000, or $1.34 per share, 20 percent greater than the net of $6,239,000, or $1.04 per share, reported for the like period a year ago. Sales for the first six months were a record $74,064,000, 13 percent higher than sales of $65,454,000 for the first half of 1976.

William M. Davidson, president, said "increasingly stronger architectural glass sales and continuing gains in raw glass sales" were the "principal factors" that enabled Guardian to report record sales and earnings for the eighth consecutive quarter.

NORMAN T. FULTZ, 20, new co-owner of South Lyon Gulf, 302 South Lafayette, has been certified in several areas by the National Institute for Automobile Service Excellence, Washington, D.C.

The areas include engine repair, manual transmission and rear axle, front end, brakes, electrical systems and engine tune-up.

Fultz, who formerly worked at VanCamp Chevrolet in Milford, had to take classes and pass examinations to become certified.

South Lyon Gulf, which Fultz owns with Tom Crawford, is open Mondays through Saturdays from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sundays from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

COE'S MEN'S WEAR, 116 East Lake, South Lyon, is having its second huge "inventory adjustment sale" now through Saturday, July 23.

Every item in the store is on sale with discounts ranging from 20 to 60 percent on some items.

Coe's carries leading brand names, including Donegal, Farrah, Jantzen, Van Heusen, Levi, Cricketeer and Hanes and Jockey underwear.

Owner Don Coe emphasizes that his "inventory adjustment sale" isn't a "going out of business" sale. He said the sale's purpose is to clear all present stock, making room for fall arrivals.

The sale is being supervised by Pat Tibbets, president of Business Promotions, San Francisco.

Rural, urban scenery on bike tour

A 134-mile bicycle tour linking three college towns and a Lake Erie port city passes through rich farmland and along shady small town streets, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

The entire trip through Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor, Adrian and Monroe offers good roads, a variety of rural and urban scenery and interesting stops en route. There are city parks for rest stops along the way, plus motels and Sterling State Park near Monroe for camping.

Cyclists who head north on Huron Road at Michigan Avenue in Ypsilanti parallel the Huron River. Behind Ypsilanti's city hall and historical museum is Riverside Park, with restrooms and picnic tables. Eastern Michigan University and Rynearson Stadium are on the right a mile farther along North Huron Road.

Watch for Superior Street and turn right one mile to Geddes Road, which becomes Fuller Road after a three-mile stretch along the Huron River. City Park is on the right of Geddes, and Gallup Park and the Nichols Arboretum are across the river, south of Fuller. Cross the Huron River via the Huron Parkway bridge to reach them.

The tour continues west on Fuller and jogs north a block on Oakway to combined Glacier Way and Fuller. Take Glen and Catherine streets in to downtown Ann Arbor and past the University of Michigan campus. Turn left off Catherine onto Main Street to pass the world's largest stadium on the U-M campus. Ann Arbor-Saline Road angles off Main Street to the right a mile past the stadium and heads out of town.

Points of special interest in Ann Arbor are the Matthaei Botanical Gardens, north of Geddes on Dixboro Road, with an indoor garden and displays along outdoor nature trails and the University Exhibit Museum on Washtenaw at North University, where fossils, minerals and wildlife exhibits draw thousands of persons each year.

Adrian is 45 miles from Ann Arbor, via Ann Arbor-Saline Road to Wagner, then south a short distance to Pleasant Lake Road and west another 13 miles through verdant farmland to M-52.

The trip south on M-52 rolls along 23 miles of farms and fields and passes through Manchester. That picturesque town has shady streets, old homes and a downtown area with several pre-Civil War buildings. Carr Park, on the River Raisin, is a good spot for a rest or a picnic. Mann's Feed Mill, which still grinds grain using water power from the river, dates from 1832.

Adrian, 20 miles south on M-52, combines agriculture and industry. A General Motors Chevrolet Division plant, a facility of American Chain and Cable and several smaller plants contrast with well-kept farms producing corn and soybeans. Cyclists will find Island and Riverside parks convenient for rest stops.

Adrian College boasts a scenic mall, a 55-bell carillon tower and chapel and walkways to take cyclists on a tour of the campus.

A 36-mile bike ride from Adrian to Monroe leaves Adrian on Siena Heights Drive. Siena Heights College at the edge of town is a Liberal Arts school run by the Dominican Sisters. The Motherhouse of the Adrian Congregation, which is part of the complex, dates from 1886.

Following Oakwood and Laberde roads to Rogers Highway, jog left to Holloway, then right on Holloway to Ridge Road for a four-mile ride to join eastbound M-50.

M-50 leads into Monroe, a distance of 24 miles, passing through Dundee. At Dundee, a shady park on the River Raisin with picnic tables is a good place to stop for rest and a snack.

M-50 enters Monroe via Elm Street. Cyclists who follow M-50 and North Dixie Highway go to State Park Road and Sterling State Park, a 997-acre facility on Lake Erie at the north edge of Monroe, with beach, picnic and overnight camping accommodations.

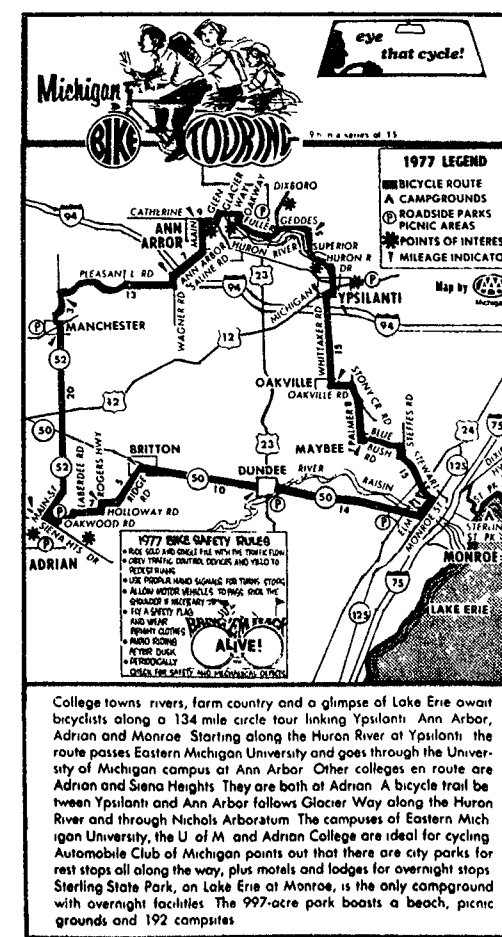

The Monroe County Historical Museum on South Monroe Street in Monroe contains displays of early Frenchtown days, the area's Indian heritage and an extensive exhibit concerning Gen. George Armstrong Custer, a one-time Monroe resident and famed Indian fighter who fought at the Battle of the Little Big Horn.

The cycle trip from Monroe back to Ypsilanti covers 38 miles of farm country and passes through the villages of Maybee and Oakville. Leave Monroe on M-125 (Monroe Street). Turn left on Stewart to Steffes, jogging right to Blue Bush Road.

Beyond Maybee, head north on Palmer Road to connect with Stony Creek Road and Oakville Road leading in Oakville. At Oakville, head north on Whittaker Road 15 miles to Ypsilanti, connecting with Huron Road there.

Bicyclists should pace themselves according to their ability. The League of American Wheelmen estimates the average bicyclist can cover 35 to 50 miles a day with ease.

Coe has been in business at the same location for the past 14 years. He said that many of the items that will be going at bargain prices are rarely found on sale, such as underwear and blue jeans.

BRIDAL SPECIALTIES—Mary Nowicki, new owner of Florals by Steven in South Lyon will feature bridal flowers and arrangements. Mrs. Nowicki has been associated with the shop since its opening in 1970 but took over as owner at the end of June when Al Paskovich went into a new florist business in Texas.

THE SECOND of several stores slated in the brand new Brookside Shopping Center at the southwest corner of Novi Road and Allen Drive in Northville is open for business.

It is Vac's and More, a shop featuring sales and service of major brands of vacuum cleaners. Owner and operator is John Ferguson, who has been active in the sales and service of vacuum cleaners for the past seven years.

Address of the business, which also carries parts, bags and accessories, and features Eureka and Hoover sweepers, is 1033 Novi Road.

First to open in the neighborhood center was Sentry Hardware. An office supplies store is about to open next door to Vac's and plans also include a new drugstore.

Hours of Vac's and More are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and when the other stores open in Brookside it also will have hours on Sundays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

E. L. "BUD" KUNZ was elected a Director of the Society of Manufacturer's Agents, Inc., at their annual election in May.

Mr. Kunz and his wife, Hazel, are the owners of Kasco Automotive Industrial Hardware, Inc. They reside at 45975 West Main Street, Northville, where they maintain a sales office.

The SMA is an organization of businessmen who represent a wide variety of manufacturers throughout the world. Working together as a group they share ideas in sales techniques, investigate legal aspects of sales contracts and act on legislation regarding the independent manufacturing agents.

ROBERT M. SURDAM, chairman and Charles T. Fisher III, president of National Detroit Corporation, the holding company parent of National Bank of Detroit, have reported that consolidated income before securities profits or losses for the second quarter of 1977 totaled $13,648,000, or $1.13 per share, a 10.8 per cent increase on a per share basis, from the $1.02 per share earned for the comparable 1976 period.

Net Income, after securities profits or losses was $14,235,000, or $1.18 per share, for the 1977 second quarter as compared with $.95 per share earned for the same 1976 period, a gain of 24.2 per cent. The results for 1976 have been restated to reflect the two-for-one stock split effective last September.

Are your vegetables starving for nutrients?

Soils are not always good enough to support healthy vegetables. "Frequently you have to build up the nutrient level before plants or seeds will produce healthy, abundant crops," says Darryl Warncke, Michigan State University soils specialist.

Organic fertilizers (grass clippings, plant residues, compost or animal manures), commercial fertilizer (pre-mixed) or a combination of both can be added to the soil to increase nutrient levels.

These materials should be worked into the soil, using a tiller, shovel or spade to turn the ground over and over.

Raising the nutrient level is a gradual process and may take several years. During that time, garden yields will get better as time goes on.

"When you begin sowing the seeds and transplanting, supplement with more fertilizer," advises the specialist. For seeds, add the fertilizer to the whole trench at one time, then cover with soil, add the seeds and cover with more soil.

Transplants should be fertilized individually. Also put soil between the fertilizer and the plant to protect the plant from exposure to too much fertilizer. Too much fertilizer will burn the roots.

Certain crops have high nitrogen requirements. Sweet corn and tomatoes may need extra nitrogen during the growing season.

Gardening must ## Vegetables need water

What's the difference between a successful vegetable garden and a disappointing one? This year, it's likely to be water.

Dry hot weather is rough on vegetable crops, points out Bob Herner, extension horticulturist at Michigan State University. Three stages of crop growth are especially critical.

"The first crucial time occurs when the seeds are germinating," Herner says. "Severe drouth just as the roots are forming or the first leaves are pushing up through the soil can kill the young plants."

The second critical stage is during flowering and fruit set in crops like beans, tomatoes and peppers. Drouth at this time will cause flowers and fruits to drop off.

Insufficient water when fruits are forming will cause deformed or undersized fruits, Herner says. Beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, peppers, eggplant and other such crops are particularly susceptible.

Though no vegetable crops withstand drouth well, some are more sensitive than others. Shallow-rooted crops like squash, cucumbers, melons and pumpkins need more frequent watering than deeper-rooted crops like tomatoes. Tomatoes can reach down into the soil for moisture; the shallow-rooted plants must rely on water nearer the surface.

Corn will also tolerate some drouth, Herner points out, except when the kernels are forming. The ears will not fill out if the corn is dry at that time.

"Even during the critical times for vegetable crops, watering once a week is enough if it's done properly," Herner advises. "Water with a fine spray for a couple of hours to get the soil wet down deep, and then don't water again for a week or so."

Mulching after the soil is thoroughly wet is a good idea, too. Covering the soil surface with black plastic or several inches of straw prevents the loss of moisture from the soil."

Symphonic sound to replace building din

Twelve Oaks Mall to open with August 1 benefit

By JEAN DAY

Not musicians, but carpenters, painters and construction workers were creating the sound last Friday at Twelve Oaks Mall as wives of local officials and of Dayton Hudson joined members of the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony and the Junior Women's Association for a preview tour of the new Novi mall.

About 80 women first gathered for tea at Botsford Inn and then were taken by bus to Twelve Oaks.

Women's Association members and Juniors will be hostesses at "This Classic Night," official opening for the mall and benefit for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, on Monday, August 1.

The visitors walked down escalators that weren't yet operating in the two-level mall and detoured around patches of freshly ground terrazzo flooring covered with plastic. Throughout the mall around the central court and its surrounding ones workmen were installing heating equipment, ceilings and partitions at individual stores.

Temporary paper signs indicated that there would be an Olga's Kitchen and a Bonanza restaurant at the entrance adjacent to the Hudson store. Only permanent sign noticed in place was that of Charles W. Warren jeweler.

As visitors walked around huge grids in the floor their escort, Pat Hobar of Dayton Hudson Properties, explained that this week ficus trees would be planted in them.

She assured the women that in two weeks the splashing fountains and modern sculptures would be in place in the courts while Sixteen Ehrling, former music director for the symphony, would conduct the symphony in an opening night program.

Aurelia Powledge of Northville, an active member of the Detroit Symphony Women's Association for four years, adds that besides music there will be a fall fashion show coordinated by Hudson's.

Mrs. Powledge attended a detail planning session last Tuesday at Northland and is most enthusiastic about the opening night arrangements.

From 7 to 9 p.m., she says, a Detroit Chamber group, percussion ensemble, string quartet, brass quintet and a woodwind quintet will be playing in each of the courts while visitors stroll through.

Judy Landau and partner Larry Chopp exhibit winning style

She's eyeing world competition

Judy Landau skates to new titles

When 18-year-old Judy Landau graduated last month from Northville High School, she wasn't looking forward to a summer job or further studies as were most of her classmates.

Ahead of Judy were weekly lessons and intensive daily practice in preparation for the 1977 Michigan State Roller Skating Championship, leading to regionals and then United States Championship competition.

Judy and her partner, Larry Chopp, 20, of Wayne, once again captured the state title at the Skate World Roller Rink in Troy in competition June 15-19. Judy now holds the Michigan State Championship in artistic dance for 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976 and 1977.

From this win, Judy and her partner skated to first place in the Great Lakes Regional Championship meet held at the Harps Roller Rink in Cincinnati July 2-6, winning gold medal honors. Judy also holds the regional championship for 1974 and 1975.

The talented skater is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Landau and the granddaughter of Mrs. Beatrice Carlson, all of Northville.

In 1974, at the age of 15, Judy passed the gold medal proficiency test for artistic dance in the United States Amateur Roller Skating Association.

At the close of the Great Lakes Regional meet July 6, she passed the gold medal proficiency test in artistic dance in the Roller Skating Rink Operators' Association, accomplishing the rare feat of holding gold medals in both associations.

Judy and her partner now will compete in the United States Roller Skating Championships to be held August 6-13 at the Will Rogers Coliseum in Fort Worth, Texas.

In the meantime, Judy skates daily at the Riverside Roller Rink in Livonia where she is trained by Mike Etue of Westland. She goes once a week to Akron for lessons from Jane Purachio, current world champion.

If Judy and Larry place first, second or third in the United States competition, they can look ahead to skating in world competition in Montreal in September.

Tot lot fun

While their mothers, Gwen Magnan, left, and Chris Campbell, display the sign for the new tot lot at the fish hatchery site on Seven Mile, Wes Magnan, Jenny and Michael Campbell and Wayne Magnan try out the geodesic dome, one of four pieces of climbing equipment installed at the sand-covered lot in a major project of the Northville Jaycettes. See In Our Town.

Hatchery tot lot's Jaycette donation

By JEAN DAY

"We've worked over 400 man hours," related Chris Campbell as she told how the Northville Jaycettes have just completed a tot lot at the fish hatchery site on Seven Mile where small children may play safely while their parents are at ball games there. It was more "woman" hours than "man" hours, however, as the Jaycee Auxiliary saw a need.

"There wasn't anything kids could do except fall in the pond," Mrs. Campbell, co-chairman of the project with Gwen Magnan, recalled as she told how the Jaycettes fenced the area and then "cushioned" it with 70 yards of dry sand so that little children pushing on the professional climbing equipment and the giant tires now "land softly." There's also a corner sandbox.

Jaycees joined their wives on three Sundays, working all day to help cement in the equipment and distribute the sand. Mrs. Campbell also thanks Northville Lumber for donating all the lumber needed, B-V Construction Company for the tractor tires and Town Hall for $100 to help purchase a piece of equipment. The Jaycettes used $1,500 for the project, exhausting their funds. They're hoping that someone now will donate trees so there may be shade in the future.

Pam's juggling dishes, internship duties

Pam Palarchio, who will be a senior when she returns to Michigan State University this fall, is holding down a part-time summer job as a waitress at Meadowbrook Country Club while serving a communications internship at station WXYZ.

She's been working on the Dennis Wholey's "A.M. Detroit" show, helping Helen Love, its producer. Recently she did the research for a show on immigration. Her parents, the Arthur Palarchios of Edenderry, went to the studio on 10 Mile at Evergreen in Southfield on the Fourth of July to see the show produced.

At MSU Pam sells advertising for the State News and last year was an award winner. Her twin, Phil, will be returning to MSU in the fall also. He's an accounting major.

Historical Society's on new schedule

Northville Historical Society, which has met faithfully throughout the year on the fourth Thursday of each month, is not going to hold general meetings in July, August or September.

"We're going to have four meetings after September with super programs," reports Virginia Hayward for the society. For anyone interested in working with the society, however, she points out that the board meetings are held on the third Thursday at 8 p.m. in the old library building in the Mill Race Village and are open to all.

Seniors off to Bob-Lo

Northville Senior Citizens Club members have an opportunity to cruise the Detroit River and visit Bob-Lo at the bargain fare of $2. They will leave on the 4 p.m. boat next Wednesday, July 27, and return on the 8 p.m. one. A bus will leave the Kerr House at 2 p.m. for the boat dock.

Reservations with payment are to be made with Mary in the Northville Recreation Office at city hall. It's on a first-come basis.

Newcomer tennis is for everyone

Northville Newcomers is opening its advanced beginning winter tennis league to anyone in the community. Newcomers will receive first priority, but those not now members of Newcomers or its alumnae may join for just a $1 charge. Beverly Walsh, who has assumed presidency of Newcomers from Claudia Berry, reports that lessons are included in the program which will begin Thursday, September 8, with sessions from 1:30 to 3 p.m. For reservations call Jane Litchfield, 349-9887.

Brandy Lee born to VanSickles

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth VanSickle of 15570 Bradner have named their new daughter Brandy Lee. She was born July 6 at the newly-opened St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor and weighed seven pounds, three ounces. Brandy joins a brother Kenny, 5. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph VanSickle, all of Northville. The baby also has great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Griswold of Salem.

Benefit opens Twelve Oaks

Everyone attending, she stresses, even officials, will have paid $10 each. Tickets, she adds are tax deductible as a symphony benefit.

"You'll be greeted with a champagne cocktail," she promises, "and be invited to sample hors d'oeuvres. Cash bars will be set up for additional cocktails."

About 9:15 p.m., everyone will gather in the central court to hear the symphony.

Mrs. Powledge has tickets for the benefit to which the entire community is invited. They may be purchased also from Hudson's or the Detroit Symphony.

There has been much interest locally in the benefit to open the new mall, located on Novi Road right at the I-96 expressway, Mrs. Powledge says.

Last Friday wives of Novi city officials — Mrs. Gilbert Henderson, wife of the mayor, Mrs. Edward Kriewall, the city manager's wife, and Mrs. Robert Schmid, Novi councilman's wife — good naturedly stepped around construction equipment and avoided hurrying workers to view the area.

They, and all the guests, were reassured that the stores and mall would be completed and stocked with merchandise by August 1 even though some 24-hour days would be spent.

It's all adding up to a gala evening ahead that Aurelia Powledge guarantees will be well worth dressing up in long skirts or dressy pants for a visual and audible treat.

This festival's for women

Plans are under way at Schoolcraft College for a September 29 Women's Festival in conjunction with the International Women's Decade (IWD). According to festival coordinator Donna Hamilton-Kurtz, the day-long event will include speakers, workshops, films, displays and exhibits of special interest to women.

Ms. Hamilton-Kurtz is a volunteer worker and peer counselor with Schoolcraft's Women's Resource Center (WRC). She said the festival's purpose will be to recognize the achievements and potential of all women, regardless of their current roles in life.

Two others with major responsibility for the festival are Jean Christensen, WRC director, and Joanne Hurley, volunteer supervisor at the center. Persons wishing to assist in the festival's planning, which Ms. Hamilton-Kurtz hopes to complete during July, may contact her at the WRC, 591-6400 ext. 369. She would also like to hear from those willing to work the day of the festival.

The International Women's Decade (1975-85) continues the efforts launched in the International Women's Year (IWY) proclaimed by the United Nations and observed in 1975. Its goals, like those of IWY, are Equality, Development, Peace.

The aim of IWD is not to tear down the situation of men but to raise women to a more equal partnership with men.

Stress is on greater freedom of choice for women in planning their lives, and on equality of opportunity, compensation and responsibility.

The festival will be without charge and open to the general public. Some of the topics tentatively scheduled include parenting, homemaking, health, education, help for abused women, help for displaced homemakers and legislation affecting women in jobs, schools and personal rights.

Ms. Hamilton-Kurtz said men will be welcome to attend and indicated some thought is being given to a program offering especially for men.

Schoolcraft College last hosted a similar festival in the fall of 1975 as a part of the IWY.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Prystash of 45320 Galway Drive in Novi announce the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Marie, to Brent Daniel Ashby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Daniel Ashby of 19476 Maxwell, Northville.

The bride-elect is a 1975 graduate of Northville High School and will be a Fall, 1977, graduate of Schoolcraft College where she will receive her associate degree in the medical secretarial curriculum.

She currently is employed at Botsford Osteopathic Hospital.

Her fiancé, a 1976 Northville High graduate, currently is employed with the Northville Township Water Department.

A May 13, 1978, wedding date has been set.

'You, too, can be slim'

If you've been refusing to struggle into a bathing suit or shorts, even in the current heat wave, because of excess pounds, here's an invitation from Charles Sena, manager of Innsbrook Apartments and lecturer of the Northville Weight Watchers.

The public is invited to attend without charge the meeting at 7:30 p.m. today (Wednesday) at the clubhouse, located off Seven Mile by the Northville Mall.

Guest speaker will be Donald R. Stewart who has lost 190 pounds in the past three years. Three years ago he weighed 340 pounds. Today, he weighs 150 and has maintained his loss for a year now.

"Not only have I changed my eating habits," says Stewart, "I've practically changed my entire way of life, and for the better, too."

Overweight for 25 years, he claims that he had tried just about every conceivable diet in an unsuccessful effort to keep off excess weight.

"I would lose weight and become bored with my diet," he says. "Then to add to my frustration, I would gain it all back—plus."

Stewart adds that the group therapy of a Weight Watchers class plus the liberal diet is what made it work for him. "I love to eat, and there is no reason to starve on this diet."

Sena, who is in charge of the Northville Weight Watchers class that meets at 7:30 p.m. every Wednesday, has a comparable weight loss story.

He confides that he lost 70 pounds and has kept it off for a year this month. "I lecture for Weight Watchers so I don't go back up," he admits.

During the winter as many as 85 area residents attend the supportive sessions. Vacations right now cut down attendance, Sena says, but many come all year as the classes are the "key" to keeping trim.

Soaring

The ridge beam is in place for the towering new sanctuary of First United Methodist Church of Northville. Scaffolding also is up as workmen brick the front of the contemporary structure. The Reverend Guenther Branstner reports that construction of the $326,000 church is "a couple of weeks ahead of schedule." The roof is to be put on this week, and the minister says the new building will be occupied "by Christmas for sure." The church has been meeting in the office, Sunday school, social hall area to the east of the new sanctuary. In the planning stages since 1965, the decision was made last fall to update architect's plans and obtain pledges. The Reverend Branstner says $200,000 was pledged without door-to-door solicitation, and the contract was let.

'76 housing starts

Construction trailing here

Housing construction in southeast Michigan significantly increased last year but not dramatically in Northville.

According to the just recently released residential construction tabulation by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, the SEMCOG region showed a 24.3 percent increase over those of 1975.

Here in Northville, the township showed the greatest increase in 1976 with 50 new homes. In the city, on the other hand, only one new home was built in the Wayne County section and 21 homes in the Oakland County section.

Here's the breakdown for the local housing units:

In the township, 50 single family houses were constructed and two homes were razed for a net total of 48 units.

In the Wayne County section of the city, one new single family house was built and two houses were demolished for a net loss of one.

In the Oakland County section of the city, one single family house was constructed and 20 multi-family units were built for a net gain of 21 units.

Throughout Wayne County, demolitions resulted in a net loss of 2,690 housing units. In Oakland County, on the other hand, there was a net gain of 6,026 housing units.

The 10 leading communities in housing starts, according to SEMCOG, were:

Sterling Heights, 1,886; Troy, 1,115; Canton Township, 1,051; Southfield, 875; Waterford Township, 748; Clinton Township, 592; Detroit, 588; Shelby Township, 544; Farmington Hills, 537; and West Bloomfield, 515.

These 10 communities represented 42.9 percent of the building activity throughout the SEMCOG region.

Neighboring Novi showed a gross increase of 317 new homes, Walled Lake eight, Wixom 46, South Lyon 42, Lyon Township 36, Wolverine Lake 25, Farmington 25, Farmington Hills 536, Livonia 281, Plymouth 11, Plymouth Township 336, Canton Township 1,051, and Salem Township 22.

Women's dinner slated

Galín and Eva Setser will be featured speakers at the Women's Aglow Fellowship dinner July 30 at the Plymouth-Hilton on Northville Road south of Five Mile Road.

The Setsters report they will share the "wonderful way Jesus Christ has set them free from years of sickness and suffering." There are affidavits from doctors, hospitals, pastors and friends to support their story. Mrs. Setser is the subject of a book, "Goodbye Doctor," by Ezra Coppin. Everyone is welcome to attend this meeting which is open to both men and women.

Dinner is at 7 p.m. and is $6.95 per person. Reservations are required. Please call Irene 349-6759 or Mary 455-6654 for reservations.

50 hear hospital plans of osteopathic group

Approximately 50 Northville residents attended a community meeting held last week Wednesday by the Detroit Osteopathic Hospital Corporation to discuss the building of health facilities in Western Oakland and Wayne Counties.

Executive Vice President, James P. Lane led the meeting at Park Haus restaurant with an explanation of DOHC and its future plans for construction in Western Oakland and Wayne Counties.

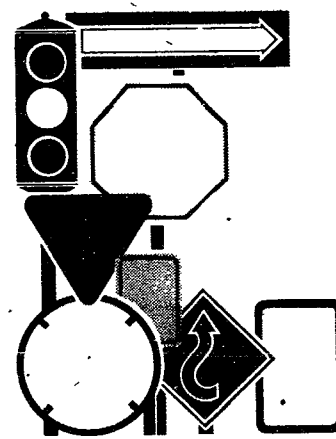

Lane said, "Our new facility will include an ambulatory care center, a senior citizens section, a medical village and a food service complex. If in the future we find a need for a hospital we have allowed for that also."

"Within the proposed complex we have recreation, transportation to outside places and a small lake of some sort. We have included in our plans an air transport system for patients and other necessary items like a drug store, barber shop, etc."

Many residents were concerned with the factors that influenced the site location and the priorities involved with

Softball's a serious game

"Play ball!"

With that cry ringing in the air, an enthusiastic group of retarded youngsters showed adults they take the game seriously.

They teamed up with Northville Rotarians in a slo-pitch softball game that generated so much excitement that the kids slept in their jerseys that night.

"It was meant to be a social therapy exercise for the youngsters and it was just that," enthused Rotarian Russell Clarke, who said the Sunday game at Thomson Field is to become an annual project of the club.

The project was the idea of Rotarian Bernie Miller, who worked with James Glick, program director for the Northville Residential Training Center, in developing it.

"It got off to a bad start when rain forced a postponement of the initially scheduled game," explained Clarke, who handled publicity for it. "Because it had to be rescheduled, we didn't have the turnout that we would have liked. But the interest was there and I'm confident this is a program that will grow over the years."

Monies raised at the game for admission is to be donated by the club to the training center.

Jerseys, refreshments and trophies for the participants were furnished by the club.

Initially, club members figured they would square off against the training center kids. "But it was apparent they were just too good for us," laughed Clarke.

Instead, Rotarians and children from the training center were mixed in making up two teams named Wolverines and Mustangs.

Judge Dunbar Davis served as umpire.

The Wolverines came out on top, 24-22.

Youngsters in the game come from the training center's, EPIC Center — named by residents themselves. It means "Every Day People in Control."

Located on the campus of Northville State Hospital, the Northville Residential Training Center is for severely and profoundly retarded ambulatory male and female youngsters who in terms of actual age may be young adults but in terms of mental capacity are much younger.

"We raised a little money," said Clarke, "but it wasn't meant to be a fund-raiser as much as giving the training center residents an opportunity to mix with outsiders and to have some fun at the same time."

To give participants center residents an even greater experience, child care worker Ms. Janine Micallef shot the pictures on page 7-D and children were given an opportunity in the darkroom to print them at the center.

County plan launched

Handcuffing epidemic

To protect against a possible epidemic and a disease that killed four people in Michigan in 1975, the development of a contingency plan involving local communities and neighboring counties has been authorized by the Wayne County Board of Health.

County Commissioners Royce E. Smith of Belleville also represents a portion of Northville, and Edgar L. Harris, from Taylor, said that the plan was conceived as a precaution against another outbreak of the disease called St. Louis Encephalitis (SLE). Both Smith and Harris are members of the 5-person health board.

In addition, in 1975, they said there were 90 other cases of human infection in the state, 36 of them in Wayne County. They explained that SLE is caused by a virus that is transmitted by mosquitoes among wild birds, and sometimes from the birds to humans.

Smith said that human infections occur in urban-suburban localities usually because of house sparrows and pigeons that are often in close proximity with humans.

Besides its threat of death, SLE in humans can severely disable the central nervous system, Harris pointed out.

The contingency idea was decided on the basis of reports from a bird surveillance program throughout the county last year in which many birds were trapped and their blood samples analyzed.

A contingency measure is needed, said Smith, partly because there is no well organized or adequately funded mosquito control program in southeastern Michigan. Also, he added, it is too late to kill mosquitoes or attempt to marshall enough people and money once an epidemic actually begins.

"It is important for community officials to begin now to develop contingency programs if they hope to be effective in preventing or minimizing future SLE cases," Harris declared.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE
by Jim Roth

The French government is concerned about the quality and legitimacy of its wine. It is aware that it is known as the country of high fashion, good dining, and especially fine wines. It does not want to lose its reputation by presenting to the world wines that are supposed to be one thing and turn out to be another. So there are a number of laws pertaining to the labelling of wines. These are especially concerned with making sure a wine grower does not say his wine is from one region that may be especially known for its fine wines, when it is really from a lesser known, and not as fine a region.

If you are concerned about the wines you buy and serve, our experienced staff at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477 will be happy to help you make your selections. Come in and browse around. We will be happy to answer any and all questions you may have about wine. Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 10 p.m., Sat. Noon-6 p.m.

Festival Features Many Events

The 13th Annual Farmington Founders Festival, running from July 20-24, 1977, will open with the crowning of Miss Farmington 1977 at 7 p.m., at Vladimirs on Grand River Avenue in Farmington. The new Miss Farmington will be crowned by last year's Queen, Holly Ann Schmidt, now Miss Michigan 1977.

The Festival will conclude on Sunday, July 24, 1977 with an old-fashioned picnic, Sunday-in-the-Park, an exciting opportunity for families to gather, picnic and enjoy a lovely day in City Park, at the corner of Powers and Shiawassee roads. Sunday-in-the-Park will include greased pig and bagel-eating contests, water balloon toss, relays and a Gong Show.

In between these two events the 13th Annual Farmington Founders Festival will feature the Jaycee's Rough and Ready Weekend, "Heels & Wheels" — three World Championship Rodeo performances (Friday and Saturday evenings and a Saturday matinee) and a Four Wheel Drive Weight Pull at 11 a.m. on Sunday. The Rodeo will star the J-Bar-J Rodeo Company and the Wolverine 4-Wheelers.

The Masonic Temple Association will sponsor several meals on the lawn of the historic Farmington Masonic Temple, Grand River and Farmington roads.

In addition to many food stands scattered throughout the area during the Festival, other gourmet specialties will include the First United Methodist Ice Cream Social and their Pie Baking Contest. Our Lady of Sorrows will also sponsor an Ice Cream Social. The Prince of Peace Lutheran Women's League will operate a Sauerkraut & Knackwurst stand.

Special events include the four day Kiwanis Carnival at Dunckel Junior High School on 12 Mile Road. The Kendallwood Shopping Center at 12 Mile and Farmington roads will be the scene of the Farmington Hills Police Department Display, while across the expressway at the Orchard Ridge Campus a gigantic fireworks display will brighten the Saturday evening sky on July 23, 1977. The Fireworks Display is sponsored by the Farmington Hills Police Department and the Metropolitan National Bank of Farmington.

Dedication of Historic Markers, Record Collectors Convention and an antique show as well as a wide variety of entertainment on mobile stages will be part of the Festival. A children's "Art-In", a bingo tent, an arts-and-crafts tent, a pet show, square dancing and an historic bus tour of the Farmington area sponsored by the West Bloomfield-Farmington area League of Women Voters will highlight the 13th annual Festival.

The Farmington Area Recreation Commission's Ninth Annual Founders Festival Softball Tournament, a tennis tournament, gymnastic demonstrations, a mini-marathon and a soccer spectacular are among the many sporting events in this year's Festival. The soccer spectacular will pit the Farmington Soccer Club against the U.S.A. Evanston-Illinois.

As with every Festival, the 13th Annual Farmington Founders Festival will dazzle viewers with a spectacular parade at 10 a.m. on Saturday, July 23, 1977. The parade will run along Grand River Avenue with Joe Kopez, Grand Potentate of the Shriners as Parade Grand Marshal.

Featured units in the parade include three Shriner Bands, the Scottish Bag Pipe Band, the Farmington Combined Elementary Summer School Band, the Tri-Club Lions Youth Band of Windsor and the Old-Fashioned Calliope from the Livonia Mall. The Farmington Elks Precision Mini-Bike Drill Team, floats, honor guards and color guards will highlight the parade as will many drum, bugle and baton corps.

Details of time and place for these and the many other Founders Festival events will be available in the Festival's Calendar of Events. Pick up a copy of this free, colorful brochure at the Festival and have a glorious summer weekend.

Holly Schmidt reigns as Michigan's queen

It is with a great deal of pride that the Farmington community presents Holly Ann Schmidt, 1977 Miss Michigan, to those of you visiting the Farmington Founders' Festival this year.

Last year, at this time, Holly was a competitor in the annual Miss Farmington contest. We hope you will join us in wishing her good luck this September when she competes in the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City.

The 18-year-old graduate of North Farmington High School is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schmidt, of Farmington Hills. She was an honor roll student and vice president of the student council.

Holly plans to enroll at Michigan State University in September. She will major in English and Communications. Her interests include writing poetry and prose. In addition to being an avid reader, her accomplishments extend to music. She plays piano and flute and impressed the Miss Michigan judges with her piano rendition of "Flying Leaves," by Carl Kolling.

Each year the Farmington Founders Festival begins its celebration by selecting Miss Farmington. The Festival's pageant is franchised by the Miss America Contest and each year's festival queen competes in the following year's Miss Michigan contest.

Holly's proud father is director of production for Vlasic Foods and her mother, Lorraine, is secretary of the city of Farmington Hills. Holly's family also includes two brothers and a sister.

Persons attending the Festival pageant will have a chance to see Holly on July 20 when the new Miss Farmington is tapped. The pageant will take place at Vladimir's restaurant on Grand River, north of Eight Mile.

With the ceremonies slated for 7:30 p.m., the contestants will appear at the downtown Shopping Center at 9:30 p.m.

This year's contestants and sponsors are: Suzanne Blake, Dante's Pizza; Dorothy Boltz, World Wide Association; Karen Dargusch, Realty-One; Donnell Gallagher, Merle Norman Cosmetics; Kristin Gunderson, Browns Drugs; Dorlisa Lamarra, Bob Saks Oldsmobile; Marilyn MacLennan, Elks Lodge No. 1986; Laura McGinnis, Farmington Towne Association; Susan McIntosh, Harvi's; Pamela Prichard, Hair Sanctuary; Barbara Rohr, Corvette Custom and Collision; Cheryl Scovel, Kendallwood Merchant Association and Gayna Willing, Danish Inn.

FARMINGTON HILLS' Holly Schmidt, the 1977 Miss Michigan, will oversee this year's festival pageant which will crown a new Miss Farmington.

Pressure-Treated Lumber

A wood deck is both versatile and beautiful; a valuable asset to your home. Wood decking blends with any architectural design. It can be a children's play area or a perfect setting for a cocktail party. With limited carpentry knowledge, you can change a monotonous backyard into a landscape showplace, highlighted by a wood deck or sun porch.

A wood deck will adapt to any terrain, with little or no ground preparation. A wood deck can be built on the same level as any floor of your home. Wood decking will remain beautiful and relatively dirt free for years, with limited maintenance.

Fireworks set for July 23

A spectacular fireworks display will be a featured part of the 13th Annual Farmington Founders Festival. The Fireworks Display will be held on Saturday, July 23rd at 10 p.m. in the Orchard Ridge Campus east parking lot. The sky will be ablaze with hundreds of rockets and sparkling fireworks.

The City of Farmington Hills Police Department and the Metropolitan National Bank of Farmington, who are sponsoring the fireworks program, indicate that should rain prevent the event from taking place on Saturday night, the display will be held at the same time and place Sunday, July 24, 1977.

Colorful figures pave our history

Farmington was founded 152 years ago by five members of the Society of Friends (Quakers), who journeyed here in the middle of winter from Farmington, New York.

It was probably the lure of inexpensive ($1.25 an acre) and the chance to build a legacy for his large family that brought Arthur Power, his sons John and Jared, and David Smith and Daniel Rush to this area in 1824.

This month, Farmington celebrates its founding 153 years ago.

This area today is very different from the area that Arthur Power found. Fortunately, many good historical accounts of Farmington's beginnings are available, including the Oakland County history published in 1970, the book by Lee Peel and the diary of Arthur Power's son, Nathan who joined his father in Farmington in 1826 at the age of 25.

These documents and many others give a remarkably clear account of Farmington's beginnings.

By 1820, the government had made large tracts available to settlers.

In 1823, Arthur Power came to the Farmington area and made arrangements to purchase large parcels of land in the area presently located between Eleven Mile and Nine Mile, along Power Road.

Power returned to Farmington, New York, and made arrangements for the trip west. He, his two sons and the two hired men, Smith and Rush, left New York about Feb. 1, 1824 and arrived in Windsor on Feb. 15. Their mode of travel was a sleigh drawn by horses.

After a stop in Detroit for supplies, they traveled along Saginaw Road to Royal Oak and then to the small settlements then called Jenks, Sly, Durkee and Baker. Just before sunset the five arrived at their destination, and in what may have been a gesture of relief or happiness, they cut down one of the giant oak trees in a clearing. The location was about where Power and Eleven Mile cross today. The date was March 8, 1824.

The settles immediately built a log cabin and began clearing land, including a plot for Nathan Power, who had remained in New York with the rest of the family.

Arthur Power and many other early Quaker settlers are buried in old Quaker cemetery, just south of Grand River. The two hired men went different ways. Rush apparently had an attack of plain homesickness and left a few weeks after he arrived.

However, David Smith completed a year's service to Power, bought some land and was still alive in 1877, when the Oakland County history book was first issued.

Power Road remains as a reminder of the founders of Farmington, as does Power Junior High School, named to honor the first teacher, Nathan Power. Among present descendants of Arthur Power are Eugene Power, former University of Michigan regent and his son Phil Power, chairman of the board of Observer & Eccentric newspapers.

Other settlers soon followed the Power footsteps.

About seven weeks after Power and his sons arrived here, George Collins and his wife located on a tract of land. Cynthia Collins was the first white female settler in the area and on Sept. 9, 1824, she gave birth to John W. Collins, the first white child born in Farmington.

Another settler was Dr. Ezekial Webb, a friend of Power and also a Quaker. He was the area's first physician and also its first postmaster. Among settlers the next year were Holland Mason, brother George and Rufus Thayer and Timothy Tolman, who, according to the records, built the first frame dwelling in Farmington, on Twelve Mile, near Middlebelt.

One of Farmington's best known families, the Warners, arrived in 1825. The Warner's son, P. Dean Warner, was three-years-old when they arrived in Farmington.

He left home at 14, returned to Farmington several years later and engaged in business ventures. He was elected to the Michigan House of Representatives and married Rhoda Botsford.

While they had no children of their own, they adopted a son and daughter. The son, Fred, later became a state representative, secretary of state for Michigan and in 1906 he was elected governor.

In May 1827, a little more than three years after Arthur Power and his group cut the first trees for the first Farmington home, the township government began, with the first meeting conducted at the home of Robert Wixom.

Earlier in the year, the state legislature had laid out the present boundaries for Farmington Township, thereby separating it from Bloomfield Township.

The little settlement had come to be known as Quakertown (not to be confused with the present Quakertown in this area) but both Power and Dr. Webb suggested Farmington as a name to honor the founders' former home in New York.

According to early records, the small village developed along

Warner is remembered

Shiawassee and centered at the road's intersection with Farmington Road. This "old city" area still exists today with several homes still standing, dating back to the 1840s.

After the 1840s, the village center shifted a bit south to Grand River and Farmington Road.

Grand River had become a main road between Detroit and the new state capital in Lansing.

The year 1850 brought the Fugitive Slave Act and Farmington's

Quaker population, led by Nathan Power, quickly became associated with the anti-slavery movement and the Underground Railroad. The extent of their involvement is disputed by Lee Peel in his book.

After the Civil War, the people living in the square mile of territory along Grand River and Farmington Road voted to become a village. The village common council held its first meeting on May 9, 1867.

The village became a city in 1926.

IN 1905 Fred Warner was Michigan's governor but he still maintained this general store on the north side of Grand River.

Botsford—Michigan's oldest country inn

Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills, has been a tradition of hospitality, having provided food and lodging to weary travelers for more than 140 years. It survives as Michigan's oldest country inn.

Originally built as a home in 1836 by Orrin Weston, it was converted into a tavern by Steven Jennings in 1841. The 16 Mile House, as it was known at the time, was the coach stop on Grand River, then a plank road built along an Indian trail to Lake Michigan and the juncture of the post road to Lansing.

The year 1860, just before the outbreak of the Civil War, saw the inn acquired by Milton C. Botsford, and it became a popular place for drivers and farmers traveling the route to the Detroit markets. What is now the entry of the inn originally served as a public bar, called a tap room. It was separated from other facilities because it attracted the rougher types.

Henry Ford bought the inn in 1924 and restored it in the manner for which he has become famous. Ford had taken a fancy to the place to some extent because it played a part in courting his wife, Clara.

A suite of rooms on the second floor was kept for his friend Thomas Edison for his use whenever he came to visit. The original beds and dresser, of gothic style in fumed white oak, used by Edison, are retained in the rooms. The suite is available for occupants as are almost all of the inn's 62 rooms.

The John Anhuts, father and son, bought the handsome structure in 1951. They have since managed, maintained, modernized and added to the Botsford Inn. The West Wing extension was done in the same architectural style as the old inn, a modern banquet hall was an ingenuous mix of old and new.

Enter the inn through the colonial doorway. The porch is lighted with an early lanthorn lamp. The door with its original brass locks and knobs is flanked on both sides by leaded glass panels.

In the tap room, now the entry hall, a collection of old machines and utensils is laid out on a table. Included are several types of coffee grinders, a cherry pitter, tobacco cutter, candle molds, iron trivet, bowls and even a collar crimper.

Hanging on the walls are a stage-coach jack for changing broken wheels, several early tin lanterns, a copperhunting horn and 50 antlered deer head. Two flintlock muskets are on display, one is dated 1864, from the Civil War era. Glass display cases are crammed with jewelry, decorated silverware, glassware and bottles, nicknacks and sundry memorabilia.

Furnishings in the inn are from many places. An old, heavy chattering piano belonged to the sister of ill-fated Gen. George Armstrong Custer. A buffet is from the home of Gen. Robert E. Lee. A writing desk in the entry hall is from the Springfield-Ill., home of Abraham Lincoln, and is dated from the time of his law studies.

Fascinating and beautiful objects abound in every room. Tables and sideboards of inlaid woods, a horse-hair sofa, four poster beds, mahogany dressers, mirrors with heavy, carved frames all add to an air of rare charm and bygone originality.

One of two beautiful grandfather clocks looks freshly made, though it is 18th century English. Another is a British-made 1875 clock from the hands of master Simon Willard, whose duplicated workshop is one of the feature buildings at Greenfield Village.

Willard was also the inventor of an ingenious rotisserie which can be seen in the tap room. The device was placed before a fireplace and the coals were put into the bottom so that the meat could be cooked from two sides. The meat hanging from a hook, could be turned slowly by a clock-spring mechanism for even roasting and then measured for shrinkage by a hand-held scale similar to the ones used by fishermen.

The original kitchen has a fireplace of handmade bricks and a pair of massive andirons. It is equipped with a small baking oven for bread and pies.

Wide wainscoting, pegged floor planks, hewn rafters complete the traditional kitchen's appearance. A small section of the plastered wall has been left exposed to show the hand-split lathing which is part of the old structure.

Behind the old structure, the stable was recently converted into a banquet room and reception hall for wedding parties and other large gatherings. The stable has actually been encased by the brick building in such a way as to preserve much of the atmosphere of the interior.

Tree trunk sized beams hold up the rafters. The beamed roof is fully visible through a plateglass ceiling running the length of the old barn. Mammoth doors at each end are as they were when the hall was used for horses.

Outside, a three-foot-high stone wall, built to last forever, encloses the Clara Ford formal rose garden. Beyond it, owner Anhut has added an outdoor swimming pool for guests. There is also a private club membership to community residents.

On the grounds is displayed a wooden stagecoach with leather side curtains and iron tires. A melodium (small, foot-pump organ) and a delicate 1801 Nunns harpsichord, a collection of old bottles and mugs, as well as a hand-carved alabaster lamp and china and porcelain dishes are among the interesting and unusual attractions for those who stay at Botsford Inn.

Wild West rodeo delights the fans

The Fifth Annual Farmington Area Jaycees World Championship Rodeo will highlight this year's Founders Festival with a Heels & Wheels Weekend beginning on Thursday, July 21, 1977 with the arrival of the Rodeo livestock on location at the Rodeo site, 12 Mile and Farmington Roads.

As in past years, Rodeo performances by the J-Bar-J Rodeo will be at 8 p.m. on Friday, July 22nd and Saturday, July 23rd at 2 & 8 p.m. while the new attraction, the Four Wheel Drive Weight Pull will be held at 11 a.m. on Sunday, July 24, 1977.

Tickets for the Rodeo are available in advance from any Farmington Area Jaycee, the Farmington Chamber of Commerce, The Mower Shop, Bosco's Wine & Deli, the Metropolitan National Bank of Farmington, T. L. Printing, Farmington Hardware, Kwikie Duplicating or Blakeney's Ranch House. Advance tickets are $2.75 for adults, $1.75 for ages 12-17 and $1.00 for children under 12. Tickets at the Gate are $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for ages 12-17 and $1.00 under 12.

Tickets for the Four Wheel Drive Weight Pull featuring the Wolverine 4-Wheelers may also be obtained in advance at any of the ticket locations. They are $2.00 for general admission and $1.50 for a Pit Pass. These tickets will sell for $2.50 and $1.50 at the Gate.

Through numerous projects the Farmington Area Jaycees annually raise large sums of money to benefit their community. Their International Rodeo Association sanctioned World Championship Rodeo held each year during the Farmington Founders Festival is one of the Jaycees major fund raising activities.

This year the Jaycees have expanded the Rodeo weekend with a new concept, Heels & Wheels. In addition to the three Rodeo performances by the J-Bar-J Rodeo, the Heels & Wheels Weekend will feature a Four Wheel Drive Weight Pull, a Raffle and Celebrity Events with local media personalities competing for the Farmington Cup. Jo-Jo Shutty, CKLW's Helicopter Traffic Girl will be the Honorary Rodeo Queen.

Four Wheel Drive Weight Pull events with trucks and tractors is a tradition in the south and midwest, in fact, the farmers' answer to Baja. The goal is to pull a sled loaded with lead weights from a standing start to the finish line 300 feet away. The trucks are in two classes: 5500 and 6500 pounds.

On Friday morning, July 22nd, at 10:30 a.m. at the Rodeo site, radio, television and newspaper personalities will compete in rodeo and weight pull events, including a modified Weight Transfer Pull with sleds loaded with watermelons. Other celebrity events include Barrel Racing, Heifer Hustle, Calf Roping and a Celebrity Tug-of-War. Prizes for the Celebrity Events in competition for the Farmington Cup are cash donations in the amount of $100, $50 and $25 to the First, Second and Third place Celebrity Team's favorite charity.

Among the well-loved traditional events in this year's Rodeo are Calf Roping, Bull Riding, Saddle Bronc, Barrel Racing and Bronc Riding. Entrants will be competing for International Rodeo Association points. The Rodeo livestock are from the J-Bar-J Rodeo.

The Heels & Wheels Raffle proceeds will be used for Senior Citizen and Physically Handicapped Facilities in the Farmington Area. The Donation is $1.00 for three chances. First Prize is a Jeep Renegade Go-Cart. Second prize is a $100 Gift Certificate from the Scott Colburn Saddlery. Third through Fifth Prizes are, respectively, $75, $50 and $25 Gift Certificates from the Scott Colburn Saddlery.

The Spectacular Farmington Area Jaycees Heels & Wheels Weekend will conclude on Sunday morning, July 24th at 11 a.m. with the Four Wheel Drive Weight Pull to be held at the Rodeo site, 12 Mile and Farmington Roads. For further information, contact Walt Koning of the Jaycees at 477-0606.

Much of Farmington's past still stands

Visitors to Farmington and Farmington Hills during the Founders Festival are in for some surprises. Those here for the first time may not be aware of the history, charm and heritage of the communities.

After the tents and ferris wheels have been packed away and the last notes of band music have faded, newcomers may want to return for another, quieter look at the area.

Our suggestions are for a walk-drive tour of the area with stops along the way for shopping and refreshment.

1) Park your car in the area directly behind the stores on the southeast corner of Farmington Road and Grand River. There's a Village Mall on the corner with a small restaurant, Cozy Cafe, if you need coffee and doughnuts to get you going.

2) Jerry's Bookstore directly across from the mall on Farmington has a collection of books, new and used, to delight bargain hunters. The bookstore is housed in the Enterprise building where once the old Farmington Enterprise Newspaper had its offices.

3) The Masonic Temple on the northwest corner of Farmington and Grand River was the early town hall. Built in 1876 at a cost of $4,300, it is considered one of the finest, most attractive and authentic landmarks in the county. Johnson S. Prall was builder-designer of the building which combines European-Victorian and French Renaissance influence.

4) It's a four-block hike westward along Grand River to the "Governor's Mansion." The graceful home set among tall trees was built in 1867 by the father of Frederick M. Warner, governor of Michigan from 1900-1906.

5) About a block east of the mansion on the north side of Grand River there's a small street, Grace. Follow Grace north to Shiawassee and stop for a moment at 23910 Grace, home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mahanney. Members of the same family have lived in the home ever since it was built in 1874.

6) A left turn at Shiawassee will take you past the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Jackson. Their home at 33629 Shiawassee is an example of early Greek Revival. It was built in the 1850s and has been maintained in original condition even to the siding.

7) A turn east and you're heading for the Wilbur Smedley home, 33613 Shiawassee. Very few alterations have been made to this farmhouse with Victorian and Colonial influences since it was built around 1880. Just east of the Smedley home, there are three more homes of historical interest.

8) The residence of Judge Max Hulett, 33601 Shiawassee was built in 1845 and is a good example of early American architecture. The second story is a later addition.

9) The Lee Peel home, 33646 Shiawassee, built in 1844, originally belonged to Dr. Alanson Hudson, a community physician. The Michigan Greek Revival architecture has been authentically restored by the present owner.

10) The oldest home in Farmington, 33430 Shiawassee, was built by one of the community's founding fathers, Percy Power, a Quaker settler in 1824.

11) The white First Baptist Church at the corner of Shiawassee and Farmington, is the second oldest Baptist church in the state. The congregation celebrated its 150th birthday last year.

12) Continuing east on Shiawassee, the next home of particular interest is the Arthur Leonard home, 33309. It was built in 1841 and the Greek Revival influence is evident.

Enjoy the past: tour Farmington

There are no nails in the rough hewn roof beams. They are supported by mortise. A well in the backyard, still useable, was a source of water for the early bucket brigades in the pre-fire hose days.

13) Shiawassee curves into Warner. Turn right at Warner and about a block down the street is the Roy Klepinger home at 23700. It was built about 1830 and remodeled in 1922.

14) Two blocks west on Oakland you're back in Farmington and within sight of the first post office. It is located at 23929 and 23927 Farmington Road. It is a mixture of farm Colonial and Classic design.

Time to pick up the car and start east down Grand River. The home of Dr. Ann Samborski, 32600 Grand River, features Greek Revival accents with an early Victorian-style mansard roof. The oldest part of the home was built in the 1840s. The living room floor is secured with wooden pegs.

16) Lunch time: Botsford Inn, 28000 Grand River, has been a mecca for travelers since 1836. It is the oldest operating inn in the state and was a stop on the stage coach route from Detroit to Lansing. A treasure house for those whose appetites are whetted by antiques, a lot of charm and good food.

The Farmington Historical Society has installed markers on many of the homes mentioned plus other sites of special significance.

The same types of projects are being carried out in Farmington Hills, although documentation is not as far along.

The drive through Farmington Hills is less rigid. There are two homes on Power which runs north from Grand River, between Orchard Lake and Farmington. It jogs to the right at Shiawassee.

The Robert Rowe home, 24770 Power, is between Ten and Eleven Mile. Built in the 1850s, it has some Greek Revival characteristics. It originally contained 22 rooms, but at some time in the past, a north wing burned and the basement foundation was rediscovered during evacuation for a home on the north lot. There is a full Michigan basement under the Rowe home and each stone is carefully split to provide a flat inside surface. The huge, hand hewn attic beams are pegged, cut and clipped through each other.

The Rowe home stands on land which was part of the original tract belonging to Farmington Founder Arthur Power. On the northwest corner of Power and Eleven Mile is a white columned home that once was the Philbrick Tavern. It is said the tavern, under Quaker ownership, was a stop on the Underground railroad.

Tourists can ride thanks to league

The West Bloomfield-Farmington Area League of Women Voters will sponsor an historic bus tour of the Farmington area as part of the Annual Farmington Founders Festival and as a fund-raising project.

The tours will be on Saturday, July 23, with buses leaving Nardin Park Methodist Church at 1:00 p.m. and 3:00 p.m.

The church is at 29887 Eleven Mile between Middlebelt and Orchard Lake roads.

Tickets are $2.50 and will be available at the bus, however, reservations are advised. Please call the League at 477-2795.

Tickets also may be purchased at the Farmington Community Center, 24705 Farmington Road, just north of Ten Mile.

Chairman of the tour, Donna Olson, stresses that although the tour will include a stop and visiting of at least one site, it is basically a bus tour and not a walking tour.

Among the many sites included in the tour are the first Quaker settlement in Farmington, an Underground Railway Stop, the Farmington Community Center, the city of Farmington Park, the Grand River Plan Road and the Detroit Urban Railway Power House.

Other sites on the tour are the first Post Office, Centennial Homes, Historic Cemeteries and Park Sites as well as the oldest church in Farmington and the Botsford Inn.

Art exhibit featured

The Farmington Artists Club will hold its annual Summer Art Exhibit and Sale during the 13th Annual Farmington Founders Festival which runs from Wednesday, July 20th through Sunday, July 24, 1977.

The Art Exhibit and Sale will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, July 23, 1977, on the grounds behind the Masonic Temple at Grand River Avenue and Liberty Street. The artists will be present to discuss their work in a variety of media which include oil, watercolor, drawings, acrylic and collage.

For further information on the Farmington Artists Club Summer Art Exhibit and Sale, contact Hilda Eckel at 476-0531.

Softball enthusiasts set for slow pitches

The Farmington Area Recreation Commission's Ninth Annual Founders Festival Softball Tournament will highlight this year's Festival, which runs from Wednesday, July 20, 1977 through Sunday, July 24, 1977.

Tournament games will be played Friday through Sunday of that weekend, July 22-24, 1977. Approximately twenty teams are expected to enter and will play at Drake Park, Knights of Columbus Field and Farmington High. There is an entry fee of $55 per team (plus game balls) but there is no charge for spectators.

The Tournament is open to all Farmington-based teams and will feature a Home Run Derby in addition to tournament play. Trophies will be awarded to the First and Second Place teams, the Most Valuable Player and, possibly, an All-Star Team.

For further information, contact Jeff Farland of the Recreation Commission at 474-6115.

PET SHOW

Friday, July 22 - 3 p.m.

Enter your pet for the Most Talent, Best Costume or Ugliest. It's your dog's time to shine! Entry forms must be turned in to Pets 'N' Particulars prior to entry deadline—Noon Friday, July 22. Contestants should be 14 & younger. Each contestant may enter only one category in the show; however, another member of the family may enter the same pet in a different category, using a separate entry blank. Contestants must keep their pets on leash or in proper containers at all times. Parents should not allow children to bring pets into the show ring that they cannot control since contestants are required to handle their own pets and parents are not allowed in the show ring.

Enterprise

Newspaper's founder sets proud tradition

It was Nov. 2, 1888 and Edgar Bloomer proudly sat back in his desk chair looking at the first edition of the Farmington Enterprise. He skimmed the pages looking at articles and advertisements, alike. It had been a struggle, but the first edition was out.

It has been nearly 89 years since Farmington's own paper hit the streets. Ever since then, it has been chronicling the history of a proud community.

Sitting in front of his electric typewriter, surrounded by 20th century technology, the modern journalist wonders how Bloomer would feel about today's newspaper.

Although the name has changed and format reworked to meet the needs of modern-age readers, the Farmington Observer is proud to identify its lineage to the Enterprise.

As a matter of fact, the Enterprise name had such an impact that many persons today still refer to the Observer as the Enterprise.

Bloomer was 33 at the time he rushed his first edition off the press and into the streets. He remained with the paper until 1898 when he moved to Sparta and consolidated the Sentinel and Leader newspapers. He died in 1909.

But Bloomer began a tradition of community journalism which still exists today. He believed in producing a newspaper which would serve the interests of the Farmington area while informing residents of matters in which they would be interested.

Much of what he wrote in that first edition is pertinent today.

"It is fair to judge the intelligence of a community by the character of the paper it supports... What we wish then is that each one, when anything new or interesting comes to his knowledge, should report it to the editor. We will seek to make this paper a permanent journal of progress."

Reading that first edition reveals

FARMINGTON'S FIRST newspaper editor, Edgar Bloomer, relaxes at his desk back in the 1880s after launching the Enterprise. That newspaper was the forerunner of today's Observer.

both the tenor and humor of the time.

A blank space reserved for an advertisement by Fred Warner is explained away when Bloomer says Warner was too busy to make up the copy.

The mind wanders. Was Warner even then out campaigning. His political efforts eventually took him to the governor's chair in Lansing.

He was the only Farmington resident to ever achieve such high political office.

Politics, indeed, was a topic of the day as revealed in another short article.

"The Farmington Democratic Club, headed by the Redford Band, attended the great Democratic meeting at Pontiac," it says.

Obviously, objectivity wasn't what it could be in those days.

For those who wanted to spend time in a more leisurely fashion, they could participate in a singing convention at Bell Branch being conducted by C. H. Smith. A concert would wrap up the event.

It also revealed that William Maiden sold his 109-acre farm in Southfield to Carl Roosow for $4,000.

Activities for young persons were in full bloom. The Young Peoples Circle was organized in the ME Church.

Although the world ran at a different pace, tragedy was still part of the scene.

Mrs. Anne Dewaters found the world situation to be unteneable enough to put a .38 caliber revolver to her chest and pull the trigger. At press time she was in critical condition.

W. R. Anderson broke his neck while pitching cornstalks and James Clark "while maddened by drink" cut his mother's throat. It took two officers to arrest him.

At the beginning of the century, Walter Richards took over as Enterprise editor. But the competition was stiff. He explains in his own words:

"It ended for me when I broke down from overwork and was so sick that I had to throw in the towel and call in my competitor to buy the Enterprise at his own price."

Today, shadows of the old Enterprise still exist. On Farmington Road south of Grand River stands the Enterprise building now occupied by a bookstore.

Children demonstrate their artistic talents

By LORAIN McCLISH

A big tent set on the front lawn of the Farmington Training Center invites children to paint and create with a host of materials while parents are invited to sit in the shade for a while during the Farmington Founders Day festivities.

"Children's Art-In" is a first time venture, created by the Farmington Area Arts Commission and headed up by Bev Ellis.

It is offered free on two fronts.

It is free of charge and the kids are free to do their own thing," Ms. Ellis said. "We aren't restricting the art-in to any specific age group, but we want it known it is definitely for kids only."

The tent will be open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. July 21-23 and will be manned by every available artist, art teacher and former art teacher Ms. Ellis was able to recruit.

"It has certainly turned into an all-out effort by the entire community," she said. "Nursery school teachers, church workers, the school system have all helped to donate materials or the space or people or anything we said we needed."

The nucleus of the Art-In committee includes Barb Adler, of Farmington Area Recreation Commission; Sue Ingram, of ArtStart; Monica Learning, from the Farmington Community Center; Ellen Wallis from the Farmington Elementary Art Counselors; Lois Carey, of St. John American Lutheran Church; and Anita Kurche and Nancy Bundorf, both teachers at Wooddale Elementary School.

The group has innovated a flexible format for children to come and go, using an easel and paints, or selecting from materials such as yarn, wood, pine cones, blocks of styro-foam, wallpaper scraps, straw or beads to put together their own creations.

Adults will be on hand for lending a hand where needed, only. The children will not be in a class situation where a given craft will be produced.

Kids show talents

The small fry visitors will be invited, however, to learn a few tricks of the craft trade by drop-in teachers and artists who will offer to share their expertise working with a given set of materials.

"These are all people who know what they are doing when they work with kids," Ms. Ellis said, "and they are also skilled artists who do macrame, or model printing, or have some specialty."

The whole idea is to let the youngsters go — just give them the materials and see what happens.

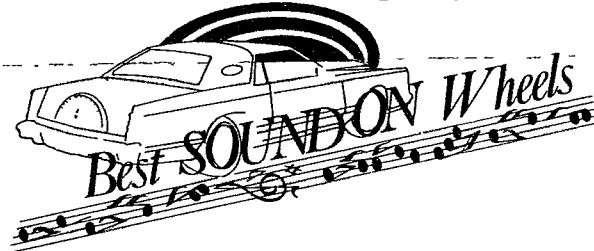

"It's never been done before so we have no idea what we'll encounter. We'll all learn along the way."

Ms. Ellis is a member of the Farmington Arts Commission and chairman of the Elementary Art Department for Farmington Public Schools.

The Farmington Training Center, site of the Art-In, is the old Farmington Junior High School, set on School Street and Grand River, in the midst of the Founders Day activities.

The Farmington Observer staff is proud to present the annual Farmington Founders Festival tab to aid you in enjoying this proud tradition in Farmington and Farmington Hills. Those responsible for this year's edition were Farmington Editor Steve Barnaby, Advertising Representative Shari Johnson and Farmington staff members Loraine McClish, Harry Marthe, Louise Okrutsky and Lynn Orr. We also thank the businessmen and residents of the Farmington area who have worked so hard to keep the festival a vibrant reflection of the community.
