A 9,800-pound fuel tank was lowered into the ground at the new township hall construction site last Friday. The tank, which will hold 12,000 gallons of fuel, was lifted by a hydraulic crane, according to James Long, president of Long's Plumbing Company. The tank rests on a concrete pad at the bottom of the hole and is held down by steel straps to prevent it from floating up to the surface, he said.

Planners reject zoning for shopping center on Eight Mile Road

"It's superfluous."
"We don't need or want another shopping center."

That was the message Northville city planners received at a public hearing September 6 on a petition to rezone property on the north side of Eight Mile east of Joe's Pantry to commercial.

Before unanimously recommending denial of a petition from Folmer-Stone-Associates to rezone from R-3 (third density residential) to LCD (local commercial development), the planners heard objections from many area residents in the audience of about 30.

The planning commission also received a recommendation to deny the request from Ronald Nino, city planning consultant, on the basis that it presently is "zoned for a reasonable marketable use in accordance with the master plan...and it is not desirable to have commercial on a steep hill or grading."

"I haven't heard anybody say they need or want a center in the neighborhood," Jerome Mittman of 997 Springfield Court told the planners, pointing out that: "It's ironic that there's not enough business for the Square to exist and the Plaza is not full. Why do we need another?"

"There's everything we could possibly want within five minutes. We have more (space) than we're using. I don't see any need for this," declared Judy Suchy of 890 Yorktown.

Shirley Davis of 534 Morgan Circle agreed, saying she didn't see a need and "would much rather go downtown."

Her comment that she liked to shop downtown was echoed by other residents as safety for school children at Cooke Junior High and problems of entering such a center from Eight Mile also were cited.

The petitioner, Carl Folmer, stated that he was seeking "a nice, small shopping center with five or six stores to serve the local community, not a Twelve Oaks Mall."

"It would be for people who now have to cross Eight Mile and come into town."

Such a center, under the local commercial zoning, could contain businesses like a bakery, liquor store, professional offices and service stores, such as a dry cleaner.

Residents questioned who would pay for widening of the road at the entrance and a traffic light at the intersection if needed. The client said he would take care of widening the road. Commission Chairman Burton DeRusha said the county normally pays for lights.

Carolann Ayers of 518 Morgan Circle suggested that rezoning of the property would be starting "strip zoning" and did not think this would be good. She also asked whether, if rezoned, the developer's plan would have to be followed.

DeRusha replied that the "appearance still is in the architect's hands, but the ultimate developer can do pretty much what he wants."

William Herzog of 1038 Bristol Court expressed concern that a commercial area at the intersection would be "a great place for high school kids to hang out, and if the stores fail and are boarded up there would be a terrible eyesore. I can't see what this adds to the neighborhood."

Ronald Brasgalla of 630 Randolph said he finds "right now that traffic is so heavy that cars can't turn into the driveway," adding that he could not see the need for a center.

Herzog disputed the comment of Folmer that the developer is "not doing this on whim," saying, "the only guy who'll make money on this is the guy who builds it."

Lloyd Moore, who operates Joe's Pantry, pointed out that the intersection has the only gas station and party store between Farmington and South Lyon on Eight Mile.

"There must be a need," he said, telling the audience and commission that "it's a quick stop. There are some people you never see until Chatham and A & P close on Sunday."

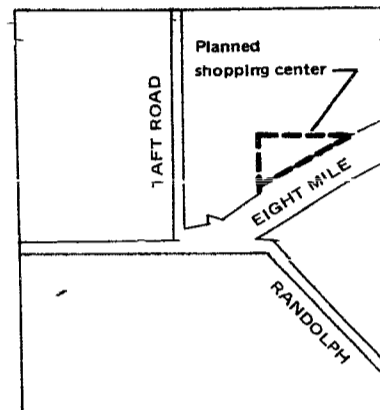

Norman Moss, an attorney representing the possible purchaser, said the area would still have traffic problems if apartments were built on the site.

He questioned whether other shopping centers which have been failing were properly located with store fronts providing space. He also asked if a center wouldn't be convenient in the area after residents were "stuck in a snowstorm?"

Commission member Thomas Wheaton replied that he has been "a (Northville) resident since 1940 and there has been no time we couldn't drive on our streets. This problem doesn't exist in our community."

Sylvia DaLoisio, who said she and her husband were sellers of the property, said she "always automatically slows

North-south road

City council weighs alternates, asks cost

A variety of alternative routes for a new north-south highway through the City of Northville were presented to an unexcited council last week.

Having disclosed the results of his alternative routes study, William Mosher of Mosher Associates, Inc. is now to develop cost estimates for the route proposals.

Generally, it is estimated that construction of a new four-lane north-south route highway might approximate $1.5 to $3 million, according to City Manager Steven Walters who said that even if such a highway becomes a reality it is still five or more years in the future.

Meanwhile, county plans for paving of Beck Road from Eight Mile Road south to at least the new M-14 freeway could possibly minimize the importance of a proposed new route in the city, admitted Walters.

"It's my understanding that the county (Wayne County) has scheduled paving of Beck within the next year or two," Walters said, noting that such a road improvement probably would reduce potential future traffic through the city.

Basic purpose of a north-south route is to divert through-traffic from the center of the city (along Center Street) by developing a direct extension of Novi Road to the southern boundary.

All of the alternatives are depended on which road — Sheldon or Northville — that Wayne County decides ultimately should become the main route through the township south of Seven Mile Road.

Presently, SEMCOG's highway projection plans show both routes as being under study.

Most of the north-south alternatives inside the city would utilize at least a portion of the existing Griswold Street.

Here are the alternatives getting traffic from Seven Mile Road north to Griswold:

Township board action

Recreation budget cut

An $8,000 budget cut for the jointly-operated city-township recreation budget has been approved by the Northville Township Board.

And in the wake of its decision last week, the board sent the city a letter informing it of the budget cut. Council has not yet formally responded to the township's action.

The township cut, if agreed to by the city, reduces the overall recreation department budget to approximately $125,000.

In discussing the budget last week, township trustees Richard Henningsen and Mark Lysinger took the position that the money could be saved in the administrative area of the recreation budget.

Both noted that the estimated administrative costs represent about 40 percent of the budget.

Concerning the budget, Supervisor Wilson Grier argued that the township should have more input into budget decisions, such as salary increases, throughout the year even after the total budget is approved.

But Trustee James Nowka contended the recreation commission should earmark monies within the approved total budget.

"Barbs go back and forth," Nowka said. "The recreation department now seems to be the punching bag."

He said continual squabbles between the city and township could "diminish the useful life" and "lead to destruction and dismemberment" of the recreation commission.

The commission is made up of city and township residents appointed by the township board and the city council.

That commission presently is engaged in interviewing and selection of a new director to replace the director who has resigned.

Although the board voted to cut the recreation budget, it left intact the budget for jointly operated library services.

In another matter also involving the city, the board voted to purchase, instead of renting, on a 50-50 basis with the city, the temporary water line on the township.

It was indicated at last week's board meeting that the line would be rented until November when a permanent line is expected to be installed. Rental costs, it was noted, would approximate the cost of jointly owning it with the city.

The approximate $1100 cost to the township will come from water and sewer department funds.

The board also approved a preliminary water agreement with the city to have the city supply water to the township, which in turn would bill Hillcrest residents. Heretofore, the city has both supplied and billed Hillcrest water customers.

The board also approved the appointment of James Schrot as coordinator of the Northville Township Emergency Preparedness Department.

Schrot is a reserve police officer and a volunteer fireman in the township.

The coordinator, with the approval of the township supervisor and the board, will have the power to appropriate and expend funds, provide emergency assistance to disaster victims, direct and coordinate development of disaster plans and programs, and provide rescue teams, fire and police personnel

New architect named for Annex renovation

A longstanding relationship between the Northville school district and Ralls-Hammill-Becker-Carne Architects of Livonia came to at least a temporary end Monday night when the board of education chose a different firm for the renovation of the Main Street Annex.

Joseph St. Cyr Architects and Associates of Livonia was chosen as the "architect of record" for the remodeling of the 60-year-old former high school which is now used for special education classes.

St. Cyr, which has been the architect for a massive building program in Utica school system, was picked over three others, including Ralls-Hammill, in secret balloting by seven school board members.

Exact voting tabulation was not announced, but St. Cyr received at least four of seven votes on the first and only ballot.

Ralls-Hammill has been the school district's architects for additions to and construction of school buildings since 1969.

During that time, the firm has overseen additions at Amerman, Cooke, Moraine and the high school, construction of Winchester, Meads Mill and Silver Spring schools, and improvements at the now unused Main Street Elementary.

Lately, Ralls-Hammill prepared specification for bids on the federally funded renovation of the Main Street Elementary. Bids for the project came

NEWS BRIEFS

DR. GEORGE AUNE, new principal of Northville High School, will be introduced to the community at the first general PTSO meeting at 8 p.m. next Thursday, September 22, in the high school cafeteria. He will be available for comments and questions later when refreshments are served after the meeting, Libby Lockwood, new PTSO president, reports.

COUNCIL MEMBERS unanimously agreed to have the city pay up to $1,500 of a proposed business district survey. Local businessmen will be asked to donate the balance, estimated at $1,000. The survey is part of the activities being conducted by a business district improvement committee appointed recently by the council.

NORTHVILLE SQUARE will get a Center Street sign and it will be donated by Elias Brothers Restaurant. Council gave approval to erection of the sign in the parking lot along Center Street just south of the Square. It will be the first off-site sign, which many have thought necessary to attract north and southbound traffic.

ANOTHER citizen has taken out election petitions for Northville City Council — the fourth person to do so. He is John Stilson, an active member of the Northville Jaycees. Others who have taken out petitions for council are Louise Cutler, J. Burton DeRusha, Dewey Gardner and Wallace Nichols. Nichols, however, also has taken out a petition for mayor and has not yet decided which post he will seek. Also running for mayor are Paul Vernon and Paul Polino.

THE NORTHVILLE RECORD—Wednesday, September 14, 1977

Work begins on Highland Lakes Shopping Center

Although two less-than-full shopping centers already exist in Northville, promoters of another center remain confident of success as construction is about to begin on Seven Mile Road.

The new center — Highland Lakes Shopping Center — is to be located on the south side of Seven Mile, east of the C&O railroad crossing and west of the National Bank of Detroit.

Developed by William Autry and Stewart Oldford, the project will ultimately cost $2 million and contain 75,000 square feet of rental space. First phase — containing 15,000 square feet of space — should be completed by December, according to Oldford.

Oldford said he expects to attract general merchandisers who would each rent from 1600 to 10,000 square feet of space.

There is a need for a strip shopping center rather than a mall (such as the nearby Northville Plaza and Northville Square) in the Northville area, contends Oldford. A strip shopping center is defined as one in which all the stores face the outside parking lot instead of facing toward an enclosed mall area.

The center, which will sit on 11 acres of land, should have six stores by the opening with eight to 10 more added by spring, Autry said.

Northville Plaza, located just east of the Highland Lakes Shopping Center, has 108,000 square feet of space with approximately 14 percent vacancy rate, according to Louis Siegel, spokesman for Showstack Management Company. He said the three major stores — A&P, TG&Y and Perry Drugs — rent 30,000 square feet, 30,000 square feet and 8,000 square feet respectively.

He said of the smaller stores in the mall, 25,000 square feet of space is rented out of 40,000 square feet available. Out of 25 stores, Siegel estimated 60 percent of them are leased.

Arthur Radford, manager of Northville Square — which is approximately 50 percent vacant — said, "There are too many centers now, including Northville Square."

"It's foolish for them to open it (the new center)," Radford said, "but it's their problem, not mine."

"Too many centers are not good for the community," said John Dugan, chairman of the township planning commission. But he said that the land along Seven Mile Road is zoned commercial and he has no objection to a developer coming in and using it for a shopping center.

While he does not object to a shopping center like Highland Lakes he said he does object to "spot zoning" or "centers scattered every other block."

Dugan cautioned he would "rather proceed slowly with placement of shopping centers" and establish a market concentration and growth pattern" in the township.

He said as chairman of the commission his job is to "try and contain and interpret ordinances to benefit all the citizens of Northville Township."

George Vilican, township planning consultant, said that although the center "might be there a bit early" it is a "square foot area that can be supported."

He termed the development a "convenience center" which may be needed more in the township at a later date.

down" when she goes by the area now. She denied that the steep hill was a deterrent.

Nino in his assessment of the request stated that, in relation to the master plan of the city, optimum use of the property would be for public purposes, but the schools had been approached and "could not afford it."

"It is presently zoned for a highly desirable use and marketable at reasonable value," he said.

In recommending denial to the city council of the request the commission motion stated: "It is inconsistent with the master plan, and we ought not to deprive the central business district of its market. People expressed the feeling that Northville wanted a vital, vibrant downtown area. The property is highly marketable (in present zoning) and the steep hill is unsuitable for commercial use."

As the commission prepared to vote upon the motion, Moss indicated the petitioner would like to withdraw his petition.

Minor changes involving removal of the green facade at Black's hardware at 117 East Main and covering the front of a garage at Wes Henrikson's, 311 East Main, with cedar shakes were approved with provision that details would be discussed with commission member James Cutler and the historical commission.

NEW CENTER—Grading for the Highland Lakes Shopping Center, located on Seven Mile Road, just east of Northville Road, has begun. The center is expected to open in December, according to one of the developers, Stewart Oldford.

Hearing set Monday on 'estates assessments

A public hearing on the proposed assessment for resurfacing most streets in Northville Estates subdivision will be held next Monday evening at city hall.

After brief discussion the council adopted the 75 percent assessment package (25 percent to be paid by city) as proposed by City Manager Steven Walters at the council's September 6 meeting.

The improvement program, which is favored by a majority of the property owners in the West Eight Mile Road subdivision, will cost an estimated $102,800. The at-large general fund portion would be $25,700 with 128 lots being assessed $77,100, an average $603 per lot. The assessments would be paid over a 10-year period making annual payments about $60 plus interest.

Councilman Wallace Nichols suggested a "more equitable" assessment ratio would be 90 and 10 percent, rather than 75 and 25. He said the streets were more "neighborhood" rather than public travel streets. "Actually, I think assessments should be 100 percent against the property owner because we won't always have enough money to carry out paving programs," Nichols stated.

He didn't receive any support for his position. Councilman Stanley Johnston said he did not agree with Nichols' 90 and 10 percent argument. "On the basis of how much public use of roads is involved, we'd be changing the assessment ration all the time," Johnston retorted.

Mrs. Gerald Sledz, 47016 Elmsmere, asked why the improvement package did not include Elmsmere. She also wondered whether or not the property would be assessed if the street is not paved.

Mayor A. M. Allen explained the northern lots of the subdivision were not being paved because of severe drainage problems. He said completion of the proposed Randolph drain serving northwestern Northville and Novi will alleviate the problem. And City Manager Walters assured Mrs. Sledz that only properties on the assessment roll will be assessed for the subdivision improvement.

Bids for the paving project will be received at city hall on September 23. The improvement will be completed this year if possible.

In other council business last week the council approved purchase of a new dump truck chassis, half-ton pick-up, dump box and refuse packer body. The pick-up ($4,997) and dump truck chassis ($14,349.52) were purchased from John Mach Ford Sales, while the dump box was purchased at a price of $2,317 from GarWood Detroit and the packer body from Pezzani & Reid Equipment at $13,589.

State awaits M-14 bids

Bids will be taken September 21 for paving of the new M-14 freeway near here.

The state on that date will accept bids for paving of 5.1 miles of freeway from east of Napier Road (at the county line) and the C&O Railroad and between Sheldon and Schoolcraft roads in Plymouth Township.

The project includes four and six-lane divided sections of the freeway.

Cost of the project is pegged at $5 million, with completion of the work scheduled for October of 1978.

School gets A-plus grade from annual fiscal check

The Northville school system received a report on its annual fiscal check-up Monday night. It was a clean bill of health.

Certified public accountants Plante and Moran's audit of the school's financial records confirmed what financial director Thomas Goulding had predicted earlier this year.

The $154,000 deficit of three years ago has been wiped out.

Northville's revenues exceeded expenditures during the 1976-77 fiscal year by some $58,000. That was more than enough to cover the $45,000 still remaining as a "fund deficit" when the fiscal year began last July.

Furthermore, Plante and Moran accountants gave "an unqualified or a clean" opinion of the school's record keeping, stressing that they did not "take exception" to anything when they examined the balance sheets of Northville's many funds.

School board members appeared pleased at hearing the report Monday night and several complimented administrators for erasing the deficit.

Plante and Moran auditors made several observations about school financing in general and Northville's situation in particular during their report.

First, they noted that 70 percent of Northville's general fund revenue comes from local property taxes. About 23 percent is state aid and the remainder comes from other sources including federal grants.

They also noted that the SEV per pupil in Northville has grown from $23,000 in 1972 to $33,000 in 1977. This is significant because it indicates that the district is getting a smaller proportion of state aid even though property owners are paying higher taxes.

Northville's total revenues for the past school year were about $6.83 million, according to the audit, and expenses were $6.77 million.

That left an excess of $58,000 which wiped out the $45,000 deficit.

The $6.77 million budget adopted last summer provided for a $45,000 excess. Revenues, however, were $56,000 more than expected and expenses were up $43,000 which accounts for the fund equity of more than $12,000.

Direct classroom instruction accounted for 64.1 percent of the expenditures, down slightly from the 64.8 percent of 1975-76.

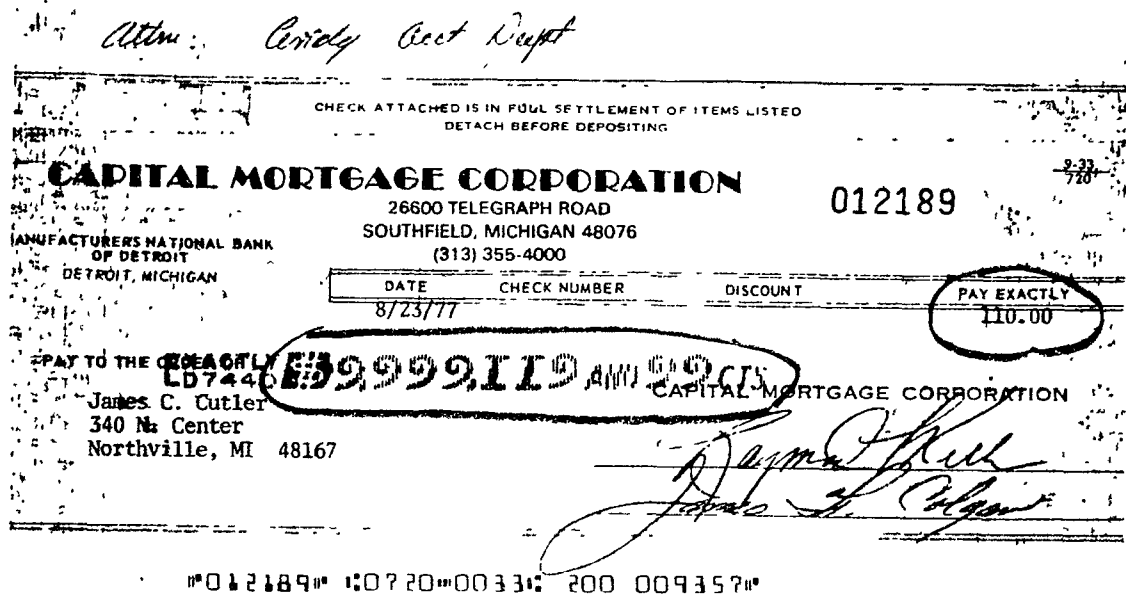

School administrators (up from 5.8 to 6.4 percent), capital outlay (up from .1 to .6 percent), fringe benefits for support staff (up from 1.6 to 2.1 percent) and "other" (up from .3 to .8 percent) were the major increases. General administrators (.19 percent), Business service, which includes custodial and bus salaries, utilities and transportation costs (23.6 percent), central staff (.8 percent) and outgoing transfers (.3 percent) all used relatively the same share of the budget that they did a year ago.

PWP plans Saturday sale

The Northville-Novi Chapter of Parents Without Partners is having a rummage sale Saturday at 10 a.m. on the south-west corner of Northville Square parking lot. The purpose of the sale is to raise money for the club's Children's Activity Fund, according to Kaye Bortnem.

SOME FEE!—Northville realtor-appraiser James Cutler received a check from Capital Mortgage Corporation last week for appraisal services. The fee was $110, as shown in upper right corner of check. But the "check protector" payment came out $9,999.119.00. Needless to say, a new check was issued and Cutler has only the above copy to prove he was a millionaire.

Board finding it difficult to evaluate superintendent

Like the weather, the evaluation of the Northville school superintendent is something that just about everybody talks about.

Doing something about it is another matter, though.

The Northville school board is trying, but it has discovered that finding a place to start can be as difficult as producing a finished evaluation product.

Is it the board's job, for instance, to develop a document that can be used to evaluate any superintendent in the foreseeable future? Or, should the board be developing specific goals that Raymond Spear must accomplish if his contract is going to be renewed in March.

Spear, in the second year of a three-year pact, has been criticized by at least the two new board members, Charles Peltz and James Lewis. In their campaigns, both said Spear must be removed before the school district can get back on its feet.

Yet, who can make a decision to dismiss—or keep—an institution's top administrator without some sort of definite guidelines?

"If you're not going to make an evaluation process, if you're just going to say 'in or out,' then why are we going through this whole process?" asked Treasurer Karen Wilkinson during a two-hour study session last week.

The session was called to further develop a new evaluation checklist. The present one has been criticized as vague and ineffective.

A new format should be devised so that "neatness and personal appearance don't carry the same significance as improvement of curriculum and staff morale," said Lewis.

But the board is still less than in agreement about how those goals should be defined.

"The superintendent is a creature of the board," said Chris Johnson. Thus, he said, the goals of each should be the same.

No one, however, seemed sure of how to keep a scorecard on the number of general goals achieved during a school year and grading the superintendent on the results.

Giving the superintendent "99 different marks" is unwieldy, said Mrs. Wilkinson. Besides, she added, everybody grades in different ways.

Lewis agreed and suggested "three or four broad-based" goals that should be used to judge Spear's effectiveness.

He suggested four areas—quality of education, physical appearance of buildings (and general atmosphere), financial forecasting and long-range planning.

President John Hobart noted problems with listing as an objective an obviously desirable goal such as improving the quality of education.

"How are you going to put that into a specific goal?" he asked.

Johnson also saw problems with tying desired objectives into specific goals.

"There are day-to-day things that I have to see such as clean floors and better relations with the teaching staff," he said.

"Ray's going to have to be the person who starts getting the morale back where it should be," he said.

But, said Johnson, an objective that requires the superintendent to spend "X amount of time visiting teachers" is "too measurable and too specific. It really won't do us a lot of good to assign a lot of activities."

Whatever the final decision on evaluation methods, Spear asked the board to "hold me responsible for the things I can do."

When the board sets an objective, Spear said, it is his job to see that the necessary things "either are done or see that the person (responsible) is replaced."

"That type of action took place last spring" when Michael Tarpinin was removed as high school principal, according to Spear. "The job wasn't getting done in my judgment."

However, he said, if the high school problems don't clear up, the board has a right to assume "that it can't be the principal because that's the second one."

He also said it was virtually impossible to satisfy all board objectives because some were contradictory.

If he implements a board ban on busing in a subdivision or enforces language in the teachers' contract, Spear said he would be doing a good job of upholding board policy, but his public relations with some segments of the community and faculty would suffer.

When all was said and done, Spear listed his top 10 objectives for the coming year. Two more were added by the board.

In no particular order, the objectives named were: upgrading facilities, improving evaluation procedures, improving curriculum planning, expanding language programs, informing the public, improving the public's confidence in the schools, planning financially for 1977-78, improving high school operations, boosting staff morale, and working on a modified calendar plan.

Added to this list were pursuing a summer tax collection in Northville City and Township and improving student discipline.

In addition, there are another dozen or so objectives that may be placed in a "secondary" class.

The board will further discuss goals in a study session Monday night. There, they hope to decide if it wishes to maintain the above list as the "primary" 12 objectives and, if so, to list the objectives in order of their priority.

features corn roast

Tradition lived on for Northville Commons residents Sunday but with a new twist.

The Commons homeowners association's seventh annual picnic focused on a corn roast instead of the regular summer picnic foods.

And everyone agreed the change was a tasteful departure.

The fun-filled event was staged at Waterford Bend in Edward Hines park. Corn was steamed on the grill throughout the day under the watchful eyes of Bernie Reigner and Al Spigarelli and served up with hotdogs. Some Commons residents came back for five and six helpings, the chefs reported.

But food wasn't the only treat of the day. Games were played and entertainment provided for all ages.

Toddlers and young children participated in races and candy hunts, and young adults and their parents enjoyed various other activities.

Highlight of the afternoon was the appearance of Ricky the Clown, who was applauded by all children — from eight to eighty.

Children were eager participants as the clown included selected individuals in his magic tricks that included finding a rabbit in a hat, twirling lassos and picture drawing.

"The magic of the afternoon lasted long after Ricky was gone," said Mrs. Donna Nawrot.

Top winners in both of the teen events (egg throwing and three-legged races) were Steve Havalala and Chris Spigarelli.

James Nawrot and Jackie Spigarelli were first place winners in the adult water balloon throw.

Most memorable event was the tug-of-war, reported Mrs. Nawrot. Young adults teamed up against the fathers.

"The fathers proved who were the muscles of the families in a hard fought victory. Fathers left the field smiling but rubbing their backs. This event surely will become an annual challenge just as the picnic itself has become an annual summer event."

Schoolcraft will help with career planning

Persons interested in career planning have two opportunities open to them at Schoolcraft College during September.

The Women's Resource Center will offer a short course for persons who are seriously planning to enter or re-enter the work world. Called the "self-directed career seminar", daytime and evening sections will begin September 20.

The seminar carries a one-hour credit and requires a $15.50 registration fee for district residents. Information is available at 591-6400, extension 370.

The second opportunity is a ten-week program called "college-career counseling for adults". It is based on the human potential seminar, offering men and women of all ages opportunity to develop positive personal growth.

Counseling for adults will cover topics such as developing career choices, interest and aptitude test taking, developing self-awareness and program planning for college courses.

Two sections are available. One meets from 7 to 10:15 Monday evenings and the other from 9 a.m. to 12:15 on Wednesdays.

For information telephone 591-6400, Ext. 264.

Adult ed may flunk
for lack of interest

Northville's first-ever adult education classes apparently won't get off the ground.

The school district had planned to start night classes next week provided enough students signed up for the free courses to justify expenses.

"It doesn't look like we have that amount of interest," Curriculum Coordinator Michael Burley told the school board Monday night.

Using a complicated formula, the state reimburses school districts that offer adult education classes.

Burley estimated that it would take an enrollment of about 60 people to pay for the costs of teachers for a minimum program. About 16 students were needed for a single class.

With registration deadline this Friday, Burley said there were still too few applicants to pay for the courses.

If the program doesn't go, people who have signed up will still have time to register for adult education classes in neighboring school districts.

The adult education courses represented Northville's first step into what school officials hope will be an expanded community schools program.

All of the classes offered "were directly related to a high school graduation," said Burley. Completing these courses in English, math and history could be combined with previously earned credits to earn a diploma.

Anyone interested in adult education should call Burley at 349-3400.

Hearing and speech

Schools to screen

Northville Public Schools consultants will be screening children during the second and third weeks of September for potential speech and language problems.

Every fall, the consultants screen all first graders, children who are new to the district, and all students referred by teachers or parents who suspect a problem.

If screening shows there is need for more extensive formal evaluation, parents will be contacted before any testing is done.

Parents who have a preschool child exhibiting speech and language habits which differ significantly from his or her peers are urged to contact their local school office to have their children included in this screening process.

Fall speech and language classes begin once screening is completed.

Sgt. Kenneth Hardesty and Patrolman John Sherman help pull another car out of gravel pit graveyard

2 pulled out Thursday

Gravel pit is graveyard for auto

Talk about your flooded engines. A gravel pit in Northville Township has more than its share of flooded engines — and flooded trunks and flooded glove compartments. The pit, located off Griswold Road, has become a watery resting place for an increasingly large number of stolen and abandoned autos. Last week, two cars were hauled out of about 25 feet of water. It was the third time this summer, that one or more cars have been pulled from the gravel pit, according to township police.

"It's gotten to be a good dropping point," said Chief Ronald Nisun. "I don't know what they get out of it — seeing them go over the cliff, I guess." Nisun said some of the cars are stolen from other areas — perhaps for joy rides — and then pushed over the 50-foot dropoff. There's also a suspicion that some of the cars may have been dumped by the owners for insurance purposes. Earlier this year, township officers dove in the pit to record the license plate numbers for a stolen car check. Several of the cars were not listed as stolen. "If we had pulled them out we would have given them a ticket for abandoning an auto," said Nisun. County deputies have been hauling the cars out.

Last Thursday's "Seahunt" was sparked by a Northville resident whose car was stolen over the Labor Day weekend and later spotted in the gravel pit. While pulling that car out, officers found a Honda Civic about 500 feet away. It turned out to have been stolen in 1976. Once, said Nisun, a car used in a Demolition Derby was dumped in the pit because "it was closer than going to the junkyard." Water is not the only way that people get rid of cars. Nisun said drivers have brought cars from Detroit to Northville where they have doused them with gas and torched them. Township police almost nabbed two young men suspected of driving a car into the gravel pit following a tip from a person who saw the car take the plunge. An officer happened to be in the area and began chasing the pair on foot along nearby railroad tracks. The chase came to a quick end when a skunk sprayed the officer. "We eventually had to scrap the uniform," said Nisun. "I'll be glad when they get that gravel pit fenced."

Solving math fears

Schoolcraft College is offering a new program designed especially for people who encounter blocks in mathematics. Through a combination of course work and supportive services, Eliminating Math Anxiety 40 can help students overcome their fear of mathematics and master the level of mathematics they want or need. According to instructor Barbra Reihl, it helps students deal with their attitudes and feelings about math while they are working on their math skills.

The course will start September 27, meeting in the daytime on Tuesday and Thursday for a total of four hours per week; it is a three credit, non-transferable course. For more information, contact Shirley Emerson, counselor, 591-6400, Ext. 235.

For Novi mayor

Councilwoman to run

Novi Councilmember Romaine has announced her candidacy for mayor of Novi in the November 8 general election.

Mrs. Roethel, a resident of Novi since 1970, told The News "I'm going to take a whirl at it. I really had not made up my mind before I went away."

Mrs. Roethel was on vacation in Williamsburg, Virginia, for several days early last week, and it was during that period she made her decision. "I've been thinking about it and just wanted to put my thoughts together and, if I could be a winner."

"I feel we're in a boom in the community. I think the benefit of knowing personally and being close to the direction we're going in should be of benefit to the city as far as leadership."

Mrs. Roethel was appointed to Novi City Council in April of 1973 replacing Ray Evans. In November of 1973 she ran for a four-year council seat and was successful in reaching office.

During her four years on council,

Mrs. Roethel served on many committees. She was on the Council on Regional Development, an arm of SEMCOG. She was also a delegate to SEMCOG.

She has been representing the City of Novi on the Michigan Municipal League and has been a member of the Urban Affairs Committee on the Michigan Municipal League. She has also been the city's representative on the National League of Cities and she has in the past handled coordination of legislative activity for the American Legion Auxiliary on a national level.

For the past two years Mrs. Roethel has served as director of the American Legion and Auxiliary Boys and Girls National Organization.

Mrs. Roethel's announcement rounds out the intentions of the four councilmembers whose terms are expiring. Mayor Gilbert Henderson announced that he would not be seeking re-election as did councilman Philip Goodman. Meanwhile, Patricia Karevich will seek a return to office.

Septemberfest fun is planned for Sept. 23, 24

What better way to welcome in a glorious Michigan autumn than with the rollicking good fun of an Oktoberfest?

How about a Septemberfest? That's the way that Northville Area Jaycees feel as they ready for the upcoming weekend's Septemberfest beer tent in the Northville Plaza parking lot.

The German-style evenings of fun and festivities will be held from 5 p.m. until 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday, September 23 and 24. The Plaza is located south of Seven Mile Road and east of Northville Road.

There will be all of the beer and German food expected at an event of this sort, said Jaycee external director Greg Dawson. There will also be a five-piece German-style band for dancing both nights.

A pitcher of beer will cost $1.50, he said.

The Jaycees are attempting to revive a similar event that was tried a few years ago. They hope the Septemberfest will become an annual occurrence in Northville.

John Wortman (left) and Robert Reed will hold art show this weekend at Mill Race

At Mill Race

2 'traditionalists' star in art show

An art show that has been in the making for many years will be unveiled this weekend in Northville.

Robert Reed and John Wortman, two longtime Northville area artists, will display more than 100 paintings and drawings at the old library in the Mill Race Historical Village.

Display times are from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Both have painted for years and profess art to be their first love. Other jobs, however, became financially necessary.

"Art paid off, but it didn't pay off at first," says Reed, who worked 35 years at Ford, many as an engineering illustrator.

Retirement has afforded the chance for more concentration on painting. "In the last eight years, I've painted more than the rest of my life," says Reed.

Reed is the Northville artist of the pair. Many of his paintings, and drawings that will hang at Mill Race depict Northville scenes (including buildings which no longer stand) and old-time Northville characters.

"He is the true illustrator," Workman says of Reed who, in turn, credits Northville artist George Harper for his early inspiration.

Workman, on the other hand, studied art at Michigan State College in the 1930's where he was influenced by professor Arnold G. Scheele.

After college, Wortman went into the hardware business with his father. That took him to Ionia and eventually to Northville where he bought a hardware at Sheldon and Main (in the ground floor of The Record building).

When Reed noticed one of Wortman's paintings on the hardware wall, a long-standing friendship was underway. Reed eventually helped Wortman get a job at Ford where he worked for 22 years.

During that time, they painted when they could and steadily fed the idea of holding their own show.

"I've painted all these years," says Reed in way of an explanation. "I think anyone who considers himself an artist should put on an exhibition."

Thus, the show is designed "for a little exposure" rather than sales, says Reed. "We're putting it on to get it out of our system."

Wortman gives a second reason for the exhibition.

"It's a show where we're not running for prizes and we can run it our own way," he says. "So much of today is abstract. Ours is something you can see."

Wortman, for instance, has done many landscapes.

"College-trained judges reject anything that resembles a recognized object," agrees Reed. "We're a couple of traditionalists, really."

Accurately preserving scenes for posterity plays a big part in the artists' philosophy. The painting can do this better than a photograph, they say, because of the involvement of the artist.

"A photographer and a painter are like a person who plays a record and another who plays the piano," says Reed. "One is a performer and the other is an observer."

Besides, he chuckled while pointing to a Northville home included in one of his recent paintings, "how could a photographer take that picture today?"

The house was torn down many years ago.

The public is welcome at their exhibition and there is no admission fee.

Cinderella's mall treat

"Cinderella," adapted for the stage, will be presented in six free performances for area children at Twelve Oaks mall this Thursday through Sunday.

The theatre classic for children will be presented by the Actor's Trunk Company composed of five talented actors who will bring to children a trunk full of songs, games, mimes and the fairy tale.

Directed by Henry K. Martin,

"Cinderella" will be presented at the following times:

Thursday, September 15, at 7 p.m.;
Friday, September 16, 1 and 7 p.m.;
Saturday, September 17, 1 and 3 p.m.;
Sunday, September 18, at 2 p.m.

In announcing the program being presented at no charge, the Twelve Oaks mall in Novi stresses that it is designed to "delight, entertain and stimulate the imagination of children."

EMU parents council includes Paul Folinos

Paul and Mamie Folino of Northville have accepted an appointment to the Eastern Michigan University Parents Council.

The council, which will serve as an advisory body for the EMU Parents Association, was created in January to promote understanding of the university among parents.

The Folinos, whose daughter Teresa attends EMU, were appointed by Dean Ralph Gilden.

The council will channel parents' ideas, questions and concerns to university officials, said Mrs. Folino. Council members often will be able to help parents and students cut through red tape, she added.

The university hopes that the parents association and council will promote family involvement in EMU, she said.

"Members of the EMU Parents Council want to invite parents to write or call if they have a problem," said Mrs. Folino. Their number is 349-1473.

Of the 12 couples on the council, two others live in this area.

They are Joseph and Cecile Rey of Plymouth and John and Delores Shuster of Spth Lyon.

High school optimistic about attendance

One of the most frustrating topics for many high school administrators and teachers is the attendance policy.

Theoretically — and, ideally — the classroom would so enthrall the student that attendance would not be a problem.

"I wish we had them standing at the door," says high school Principal George Aune. But he concedes it is impossible to gain and hold the interest of each student in a building of 1100 youngsters.

Thus, teachers and administrators who would rather be concentrating on the curriculum find themselves spending time developing an effective attendance policy.

It's not as easy as it sounds.

What, for instance, should be the penalty for truancy? In most districts, the answer, paradoxically, is suspension.

The chronic skipper may be sent home until the school and parents can reach a "more successful avenue" to encourage his attendance, explains Assistant Principal Barbara Campbell.

Like it or not, attendance is on the minds of a lot of parents. One survey reported that, nationwide, it is the number one problem facing high school principals.

This is part of the reason that the Northville school system had adopted a new attendance policy for the high school.

One of the biggest changes is the reduction from 15 to 10 of the number of days a student can miss in a semester.

After 10 absences — excused or unexcused — "the student will be dropped from the class, subject to a conference with the parent, student, administrator, and counselor," according to the new policy.

The conference is a vital part of the policy because it solves the problem of those who miss school for legitimate reasons, such as illness.

"There has to be teacher and administrative discretion," explained Assistant Principal Eddy McLoud. He said there is no reason to discipline "the All-A student who gets laid up with a broken leg."

But, he added, an ironclad policy is necessary "to eliminate haphazard skipping."

When a child is sick, the parent or guardian must call the attendance office (349-2050) before noon of that day.

A problem arises, though, when students miss school without their parents' knowledge. For this reason, the school will notify parents by post card after their child's third absence.

After six absences, a conference may be arranged "where the absences are deemed to be endangering the student's class standing, or when all six absences are established as unexcused."

The conference is mandatory after 10 absences if the student is not going to drop the class.

Aune admits that the power of discretion leaves administrators open to second-guessing and criticism, but says, "That's why we are hired, to make professional judgments."

The new policy is similar to one used at Imley City where he was formerly high school principal and Aune says it can work as long as "we are holding fast and firm."

With school less than a week old, it's too early for conclusions, but McLoud suspects that — based on less traffic in the halls — attendance is generally better.

First day enrollment's low

Northville Superintendent Raymond Spear says he's "a little bit" concerned about opening day enrollment figures that were lower than school officials had predicted.

"It was a little bit softer than what we had talked about," said Spear Thursday, the day after school started in Northville. "We had looked at 16 over our projection last Friday."

Instead, the first day count of 4257 students was 16 under the 4273 figure that had been predicted.

The number is significant because the state does out its school aid payments in proportion to the number of students in a school system.

This year, the formula is such that each student is worth about $1300. That means the school would receive about $20,000 less than it had counted on.

The state bases its enrollment payments on a Fourth Friday count which is taken later this month.

Unfortunately, said Spear, the Fourth Friday — or D-Day — counts have traditionally been lower than the opening day enrollment.

"I haven't researched the exact number, but generally the best number is the first day's" when students who have moved without informing the district are counted as enrolled but absent, he said.

"The thing that scares me is that it might go lower."

A drop of another 10 students, for instance, would mean the loss of another $13,000 in state aid. Presently, the district expects about $7 million in total revenue, which is nearly $500,000 less than it would like.

The biggest enrollment surprise was in the high school where "we were talking about 1180" students but where there were only 1150.

Enrollment drops have been a serious financial problem for the Northville system where growth was rapid for the first part of the 1970's but then stopped dead in its tracks when home construction dwindled because of the recession.

Northville enrollment grew from 3231 to 4266 between 1970 and 1973, slowed to 4380 in 1974 and a high of 4475 in 1975 and then dropped to 4410 at the start of last year and below 4300 this year.

In 1973, when the growth rate was at its greatest, the district passed a bond issue to build three new schools — Winchester and Silver Springs elementaries and Meads Mill Junior High.

That brought the district's capacity to nearly 6000 students, far greater than the 4257 that were counted Wednesday.

Order chief's car

A new 1978 lime yellow Dodge Monaco is, on order for Township Fire Chief Robert Toms after economic priorities for the newly-formed fire department were debated at last week's township board meeting.

The $5,120 car, purchased from G.E. Miller Dodge dealership in Northville, is in addition to Tom's salary of $14,500. The car will be equipped with a reinforced roof, a heavy duty battery and alternator, and special wiring, lights, and mirrors, according to Toms.

Fire department expenditures are creeping close to the $50,000 ceiling set for starting up costs by the board it was announced at the meeting. So far, approximately $44,000 has been spent minus credits the township anticipates receiving from final money resolutions between the city and the township.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen questioned whether the need for new equipment of a fire chief's car was more important. Toms assured the board the cost of extra equipment that may be needed in the next few months would be minimal.

"Do we need that car?" Henningsen asked. "You're not a policeman going over hill and dale." "He needs a response vehicle," Township Supervisor Wilson Grier responded.

The board also approved the volunteers firefighters wages at $6 per hour fighting fires, $3.50 stand-by time and $10 per training session. Officers will receive 20 percent above this rate. Toms also pointed out the men are volunteering time at night and on weekends maintaining the equipment for no monetary benefit.

Grier said for the period between April-July of this year when joint services were intact, the township spent $5,294 a month on fire services.

Fires end long wait

The new township fire department has responded to two fire calls since the split between city and township fire services September 1.

Monday night fire broke out in the building at 1927 Gerald that was previously owned by Levitt Construction Company. According to Richard Messick, 2112 Woodfarm, the present owner of the building, the cause and cost of the damage has not yet been determined.

Fifteen township firefighter were on the scene for approximately one hour, said Fire Chief Robert Toms.

A grass fire, covering about one acre, broke out Sunday afternoon at Dun Roven Golf Course on Haggerty Road also. The call came at 3:36 p.m., ending the almost-11 day wait for the department.

Police funds sought

Northville Township Police Chief Ronald Nisun has received the go ahead to apply for federal funds for new police equipment from the board of trustees.

Nisun is asking for three mobile and four prep radios, one two-frequency base station with antenna and cable and one four-channel console with a total price tag of approximately $20,000. The grant, if approved, will pay for 50 percent of the proposed equipment and the township will be committed to provide the other half.

The new communications set-up is needed because of the expansion of the township police department according to Nisun. Presently, the police department shares a local government frequency with the water and sewer department, the building department as well as other water and sewer departments in the area.

"It's like a party line," Nisun said. "Sometimes it gets cluttered up."

With the proposed base station the township police department will be licensed on a joint-frequency with the city police department and the Plymouth police department. Nisun said the new system will provide a "better working relationship" with the other departments.

The added equipment will also "free up" the frequencies now in use for non-emergency calls, Nisun said. Police and fire calls will be "joined together into a single console," as well, according to Nisun.

The board expressed concern at last week's meeting on whether the equipment would be delivered in this fiscal year or the next.

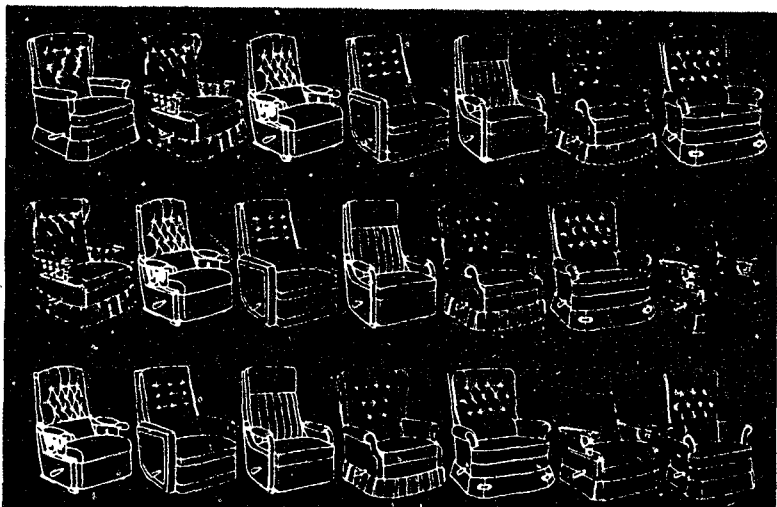

"It depends on the grant requirement," Nisun said.

He added if the grant is approved the township would probably be lucky if they received it by July. The new fiscal year begins for the township April 15, 1978.

Nisun said there "is a very good chance of getting the grant."

The new equipment would be adequate for the next two or three years until the department outgrew the inventory, Nisun said.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

Burgundy, the heavy red or white wine from the golden slopes of Burgundy, has inspired many stories and references in literature. It has also been rather expensive and often hard to obtain. It wasn't until the sixteenth century, when Charles V of Spain and the Holy Roman Empire handed the Duchy of Burgundy to the King of France, that Parisians had a chance to really taste the wine at their leisure. Shakespeare mentions it in King Lear, describing it as waterish. It is doubtful he was talking about the real thing. In the 18th century, the Crown put prohibitively high tariffs on French wines, and the colonies and England had to smuggle in all that they could drink, and that wasn't easy.

You'll find it easy to locate the wines, beer and liquor you want by coming to us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. We are a complete party shoppe with a fine assortment of wine, beer, crackers, pretzels and potato chips including the full line of Charles Chips. We also have Hawaiian drinks like Blue Hawaii and Coconut milk for Pina Colodas. Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m. - 10 p.m., Sun. Noon-6 p.m.

'Getting to know you'

Getting together to start the new school year by getting better acquainted drew more than 150 teachers, administrators, building staffers and board members to the party hosted by the board last Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. in Northville Downs clubhouse.

Board members like Vice President Douglas Whitaker tended bar, pouring pitchers of beer from a keg, at bottom, center.

It was school-wide with teachers in grades kindergarten through 12th mingling with other personnel and board members. A similar event is planned for those in the ISEP program later.

All expenses of the party were footed by the board members. John Carlo and Margaret Zayti donated use of the Downs clubhouse.

Northville Township Annual Audit Report

Township Board
Township of Northville
Wayne County, Michigan

We have examined the accompanying balance sheets of the various funds and balanced account groups of the Township of Northville, Wayne County, Michigan as of March 31, 1977, and the related statements of fund equities and revenues and expenditures for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures, including those prescribed by the State Treasurer, as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We have previously made an examination similar in scope for the year ended March 31, 1976.

In our opinion, the financial statements included in this report present fairly the financial position of the various funds of the Township of Northville, Wayne County, Michigan, as of March 31, 1977, and the results of their activities for the year then ended, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, applied on a consistent basis. A separate audit report has been submitted for the Water and Sewer Department operated by the Township.

The financial statements referred to in the foregoing opinion are identified in the contents of this report. Our examination was made primarily for the purpose of rendering an opinion on these basic statements, taken as a whole. The supplementary financial data identified in the contents, although not considered necessary for a fair presentation of financial position and results of operations, are presented primarily for supplemental analysis purposes. This additional information has been subjected to the audit procedures applied in the examination of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Our report of comments and recommendations dated May 17, 1977, has been submitted under separate cover.

GENERAL FUND COMMITMENTS
On May 22, 1974, the Township entered into a five-year lease agreement commencing June 1, 1974, to rent office space from the County of Wayne. The agreement calls for rental payments of $12,000 per year.

The Township has a pension plan for all those employees who meet the eligibility requirements and wish to participate. The plan calls for a contribution by the Township of 5 percent of each participant's yearly earnings. The Township of Northville has a contingent liability against its full faith and credit of $290,000 of special assessment bonds recorded in the Water and Sewer Special Assessment Fund. The general credit of the municipality is obligated only to the extent that liens foreclosed against properties involved in the special assessment district are insufficient to retire outstanding bonds.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION

APPROVAL ORDINANCE

An ordinance approving the Articles of Incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville pursuant to Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974; advising the public that pursuant to Section 31 of Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974 that there exists the right to question the incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville in a court of competent jurisdiction within the time limits as therein set forth; and providing an effective date for this ordinance and directing that the Articles of Incorporation be executed in duplicate and delivered to the Wayne County Clerk and further directing the Northville Township Clerk to cause a copy of these Articles of Incorporation to be published once in the newspaper so designated for that purpose in the Articles of Incorporation and to provide for conflicts with other ordinances and to repeal any ordinance to the extent of any such conflict.

ACT 338 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1974 GRANTS THE RIGHT TO QUESTION THE VALIDITY OF THIS INCORPORATION IN A COURT OF COMPETENT JURISDICTION WITHIN SIXTY (60) DAYS AFTER FILING WITH THE SECRETARY OF STATE AND THE COUNTY CLERK. AFTER SUCH TIME SUCH INCORPORATION WILL BE CONCLUSIVELY PRESUMED TO BE VALID. FURTHER INFORMATION MAY BE OBTAINED FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWNSHIP CLERK.

CLARICE SASS TOWNSHIP CLERK THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE HEREBY ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. TITLE. This ordinance shall be known as the "Economic Development Corporation Articles of Incorporation Approval Ordinance."

SECTION 2. PURPOSE. The Township of Northville, Wayne County, Michigan, by and through its Board of Trustees, enacts this ordinance for the purpose of approving the Articles of Incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville pursuant to Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, being Sections 125.1601 through 125.1636 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan, and to notify the general public that pursuant to Section 31 of Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, being Section 125.1631 of Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan that there exists the right to question the incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville in a court of competent jurisdiction within 60 days after the filing of the certified copies with the secretary of state and the county clerk and to provide an effective date for this ordinance and to direct that the Articles of Incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville be executed in duplicate and thereafter delivered to the Wayne County Clerk for filing as provided in Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974 and to direct the Northville Township Clerk to cause a copy of the Articles of Incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville to be published once in the newspaper, designated for such purpose. In the Articles of Incorporation and to provide for conflicts with other ordinances and to repeal any ordinance to the extent of any such conflict or inconsistency and to provide means and methods for encouraging and assisting industrial and commercial enterprises in locating, purchasing, constructing, reconstructing, modernizing, improving, maintaining, repairing, furnishing, equipping, and expanding in the Township of Northville and to encourage the location and expansion of commercial enterprises to more conveniently provide needed services and facilities to the Township of Northville and the citizens thereof in strengthening their industrial, commercial, and residential base.

SECTION 3. APPROVAL OF THE ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION OF THE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE. The matter of the approval of the Articles of Incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville having been brought on for public hearing on September 8, 1977, after notice of the time and place of the hearing was published in the Plymouth Observer on August 29, 1977, being not less than ten (10) days before the date set for the hearing, and the Board of Trustees having held said public hearing and well and truly considered the matter, now therefore, the Board of Trustees of the Township of Northville hereby approves, adopts and ratifies the Articles of Incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville in the form and substance as hereafter set forth:

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION OF THE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE

These Articles of Incorporation are signed by the incorporators for the purpose of forming an Economic Development Corporation pursuant to the provision of Act 338, Public Acts of 1974, as amended, as follows:

ARTICLE I The name of the corporation is the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville.

ARTICLE II This Corporation is organized pursuant to Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, as amended, to perform essential public purposes and functions of the Township of Northville. Its purposes will be to alleviate and prevent conditions of unemployment, to assist and retain local industries and commercial enterprises in order to strengthen and revitalize the economy of the Township and the State of Michigan, to provide means and methods for the encouragement and assistance of industrial and commercial enterprises in locating and expanding in the Township, to encourage the location and expansion of commercial enterprises to provide needed services and facilities to the Township and the residents thereof.

ARTICLE III The name of the governmental unit which shall approve these Articles of Incorporation by ordinance, pursuant to Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, as amended, being Sections 125.1601 through 125.1636 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan, is the Township of Northville, situated in Wayne County, Michigan.

ARTICLE IV A. The Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville shall be directed and governed by a Board of Directors consisting of nine (9) persons, not more than three (3) of whom shall be an officer or employee of the Township of Northville. The Township Supervisor and any members of the Township Board of Trustees may serve on the Board of Directors. The Northville Township Supervisor shall appoint with the advice and consent of the Northville Township Board of Trustees, said Directors for terms of six (6) years, except of the Directors first appointed, four (4) shall be appointed for six (6) years, one for five (5) years, one for four (4) years, one for three (3) years, one for two (2) years, and one for one (1) year. The corporation shall notify the Northville Township Supervisor in writing of its intention to commence preparation of any project plan and there shall be appointed promptly after such notice by said Northville Township Supervisor two (2) additional Directors of the corporation who shall be representative of neighborhood residents likely to be affected by each such project proposed by the corporation and who shall cease to serve when the project for which they are appointed is either abandoned or, if undertaken, is completed in accordance with the project plan. The Directors shall serve without salary, but may be reimbursed for their actual expenses incurred. In performance of their official duties, and may receive a per diem of not more than Fifty ($50.00) Dollars. The Board of Directors of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville shall adopt bylaws. Bylaws and amendments thereto shall be passed by a majority vote of the existing constituted Board of Directors and a copy thereof filed with the Northville Township Clerk. The meetings of the Board of Directors shall be public and notice of such meetings will be posted in the office of the Northville Township Clerk once at least seventy-two hours prior to the date of such meeting. Subsequent Directors shall be appointed in the same manner as original appointments at the expiration of each Director's term of office. A Director whose term of office has expired shall continue to hold office until his successor has been appointed. A Director may be re-appointed to serve additional terms. If a vacancy is created by death or resignation or removal by operation of a law, a successor shall be appointed within thirty (30) days to hold office for the remainder of the term so vacated. A Director may be removed from office for cause by a majority vote of the Northville Township Board of Trustees. A Director who has a direct interest in any matter before the corporation shall disclose his interest prior to the corporation taking any action with respect to the matter, which disclosure shall become a part of the record of the corporation's official proceedings and the interested Director shall further refrain from participation in the corporation's proceedings relating to this matter.

B (1) The Board of Directors shall designate one of its members as Chairman, one of its members as Secretary, and a Treasurer who need not be a member of the Board of Directors, each to be designated for such term for a period of one (1) year. Such officers may succeed themselves in office.

(2) The Chairman shall preside at meetings of the Board of Directors and may sign and execute all authorized bonds, contracts, checks and other obligations and execute interest coupons with his facsimile signature in the name of the Corporation when so authorized by the Board of Directors. He shall do and perform such other duties as may be fixed by the bylaws and from time to time assigned to him by the Board of Directors.

(3) The Secretary shall keep the minutes of all meetings of the Board of Directors, and of all committees thereof, in books provided for that purpose. He shall attend to the giving, serving and receiving of all notices or process of or against the Corporation. He may sign with the Chairman in the name of the Corporation all bonds, contracts and other obligations authorized by the Board of Directors, and when so ordered, he shall affix the seal of the Corporation thereto. He shall have charge of all books and records which shall at all reasonable times be open to inspection and examination of the Board of Directors or any member thereof, and Township Board of the Township of Northville, and, in general, perform all the duties incident to his office. The Secretary shall preside at meetings of the Board of Directors in the absence of the Chairman.

(4) The Treasurer shall have custody of all the funds and securities of the Corporation which may come into his hands or possession. When necessary or proper, he shall endorse in behalf of the Corporation for collection, checks, notes, and other obligations, and shall deposit them to the credit of the Corporation in a designated bank or depository. He shall sign all receipts and vouchers for payment made to the Corporation. He shall jointly with such other officer as may be designated by the Board of Directors sign all checks, promissory notes and other obligations of the Corporation when so ordered by the Board of Directors. He shall render a statement of his cash accounts when required by the Board of Directors. He shall enter regularly in the books of the Corporation to be kept by him for the purpose full and accurate accounts of all moneys received and paid by him on account of the Corporation, and shall, at all reasonable times, exhibit his books and accounts to the Board of Directors or any member thereof when so required. He shall perform all acts incidental to the position of Treasurer fixed by the bylaws and as assigned to him from time to time by the Board of Directors. He shall be bonded for the faithful discharge of his duties as Treasurer, the bond to be of such character, form and in such amount as the Board of Directors may require.

ARTICLE V The Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville shall be a body corporate with power to sue and be sued in any court of the State of Michigan. The corporation shall possess all powers necessary to carry out the purposes of its incorporation and those incident thereto. In order to accomplish the purposes set forth in the Article II, the Corporation may:

- a) Construct, acquire by gift or purchase, reconstruct, improve, maintain, or repair projects and acquire the necessary lands for the site therefore.
- b) Acquire by gift or purchase the necessary machinery, furnishings, and equipment for a project.
- c) Borrow money and issue its revenue bonds or revenue notes to finance all or part of the cost of the acquisition, purchase, construction, reconstruction, or improvement of a project or any part thereof, the cost of the acquisition and improvement of the necessary sites therefore, the acquisition of machinery, furnishings, and equipment therefore, and the costs necessary and incidental to borrowing of money and issuing bonds or notes for such purpose.
- d) Enter into leases, lease purchase agreements, or installment sales contracts with any person, firm or corporation for the use or sale of the project.
- e) Mortgage the project in favor of any lender of money to the corporation.
- f) Sell and convey the project or any part thereof for a price and at a time as the corporation determines.
- g) Lend, grant, transfer, or convey funds as described in Section 27 of Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, as amended, being Section 125.1627 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan, as permitted by law, but subject to applicable restrictions affecting the use of those funds.

The Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville for its purpose may issue, pay and retire bonds pursuant to the provisions of Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, as amended, being Section 125.1601 through 125.1636 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan. The Township of Northville shall not be liable on notes or bonds of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville, and the notes and bonds shall not be a debt of the Township of Northville. The notes and bonds shall contain on their face a statement to this effect. The enumeration of any powers provided herein shall not be construed as a limitation on any general powers delegated to or vested in the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville pursuant to Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, as amended, or any other statute of the State of Michigan pertaining to the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville as herein created, empowered and established.

ARTICLE VI The Board of Directors of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville shall have all the powers and duties granted, delegated or imposed pursuant to Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, as amended, being Sections 125.1601 through 125.1636 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan.

ARTICLE VII These Articles shall become effective and the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville shall exist upon and after the approval of these Articles by appropriate action of the Board of Trustees of the Township of Northville, and the publication of these Articles as provided in Article VIII hereof.

ARTICLE VIII These Articles of Incorporation shall be published in the Northville Record pursuant to the provisions of ACT 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, as amended, being Sections 125.1601 through 125.1636 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan.

ARTICLE IX The term of the corporate existence of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville is perpetual.

ARTICLE X The regulation of the internal affairs of the Corporation, including the distribution of assets on dissolution or final liquidation is placed entirely with the Board of Directors or their successors, as provided in the bylaws of this Corporation subject, however, to the provisions of Act No. 338.

ARTICLE XI No part of the net earnings of the Corporation shall inure to the benefit of any member, trustee, officer or director of the Corporation, or any private individual (except that in the case of private individuals reasonable compensation may be paid for services rendered to or for the Corporation affecting one or more of its purposes) and no member, trustee, officer or director of the Corporation or any private individual shall be entitled to share in the distribution of any of the corporate assets on dissolution of the Corporation. No substantial part of the activities of the Corporation shall be the carrying on of propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, and the Corporation shall not participate in or intervene in (including the publication or distribution of statements) any political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office.

Upon the dissolution of the Corporation or the winding up of its affairs, all property and assets of the Corporation shall be distributed exclusively to the Township or its successor.

ARTICLE XII The Board of Directors shall adopt a Corporate Seal.

ARTICLE XIII These Articles of Incorporation and the bylaws of the Corporation may be amended by ordinance of the Township of Northville pursuant to the provisions of Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, as amended, being Section 125.1601 through 125.1636 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan.

- 2) Ross B. Northrup, 19091 Northville Road, Northville, Michigan (Business).
- 3) John Dugan, 14643 Sutters Lane Court, Northville, Michigan (Residence).

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned, the incorporators of the above-named corporation have hereunto signed these Articles of Incorporation on this 8th day of September 1977.

William Miron
Ross B. Northrup
John Dugan

SECTION 4. RIGHT TO QUESTION INCORPORATION IN COURT. Pursuant to Section 31 of Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, being Section 125.1631 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan, notice is hereby given that there exists the right to question the incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville in a court of competent jurisdiction. In default thereof, the validity of the incorporation shall be conclusively presumed unless so questioned in a court of competent jurisdiction within sixty (60) days after the filing of the certified copies of the Articles of Incorporation with the Michigan Secretary of State and the Wayne County Clerk as required by said Act.

SECTION 5. EFFECTIVE DATE. This ordinance is declared effective on September 14, 1977.

SECTION 6. DIRECTION TO EXECUTE AND FILE. It is hereby directed that the Articles of Incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville as approved herein shall be executed in duplicate and delivered to the Wayne County Clerk for filing in accordance with the requirements of Section 31 of Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, as amended, being Section 125.1631 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan.

SECTION 7. PUBLICATION. It is hereby directed that the Northville Township Clerk shall cause a copy of the Articles of Incorporation of the Economic Development Corporation of the Township of Northville as herein approved to be published once in the Northville Record, being the newspaper designated for that purpose in Article VIII of said Articles of Incorporation, together with the statement that the right exists to question said incorporation in court as provided in Section 31 of Act 338 of the Public Acts of 1974, as amended, being Section 125.1631 of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan.

SECTION 8. CONFLICTING PROVISIONS REPEALED. Any ordinance or parts of any ordinance in conflict herewith are hereby repealed to the extent of any such conflict or inconsistency.

This ordinance was duly adopted by the Township Board of Trustees of the Township of Northville at its regular meeting called and held on the 8th day of September, A.D., 1977, and was ordered to be given publication in the manner prescribed by law.

Speaking for The Record

N-S route's
a pipe dream

Although we agreed with council reasoning that gave rise to the proposal for a new north-south route through the city, we are now inclined to view the whole matter as a pipe dream.

When the proposal first surfaced a potential need clearly existed but over the years changes have occurred that today suggest the original need for the new route is no longer viable.

What's more, given the county's past cool reception of the idea, cost of the project appears more prohibitive than ever. And even if substantial federal aid becomes available we doubt the need warrants the cost.

In our opinion the study should be brought to a speedy conclusion with minimal additional investment of city money and council time.

Most recent impetus for reviving the decade-old proposal was the disclosure that the county and SEMCOG intended to designate Center Street as a major thoroughfare of five or six lanes in width.

Already concerned about traffic congestion along Center through the heart of the downtown area, city officials were understandably alarmed. Not only would widening encourage still greater traffic, it would also change the character of the street and very likely require the razing of a number of buildings.

Council moved quickly on three fronts to head off this thoroughfare idea: it requested SEMCOG to table that section of its highway master plan designating Sheldon Road rather than Northville Road as the major artery between Northville and Plymouth; it sought control of Center Street from Wayne County; and it revived its north-south route studies in hopes the county could be persuaded to accept an alternative to the Center Street thoroughfare idea.

The first two efforts proved successful. Council gained formal control over Center Street so that today the city, not the county, can decide the future of this street. And it persuaded SEMCOG to shelve for the time being the Sheldon Road thoroughfare question.

In a related move the city gained county approval of its plan for improvement of Eight Mile Road from Novi Road to Center Street and for improvement of the Eight Mile-Center intersection to produce a smoother flow of traffic and to eliminate or reduce the traffic bottleneck in the vicinity of the high school.

Oakland County has budgeted its share of this project, and although Wayne County has not yet done likewise it is expected to cough up its share within the next year or two.

Meanwhile, as predicted by state and county highway officials, the opening of the new I-275 freeway has substantially reduced the Novi Road traffic that formerly was funneled through the heart of Northville.

And now comes word that Wayne County plans soon to pave Beck Road from Eight Mile Road to Plymouth — an improvement that is certain to further reduce through traffic along Center Street.

In view of these changes, a multi-million dollar new north-south route through the city hardly seems necessary.

In our opinion council might better turn its attention to developing some imaginative, less expensive traffic controls to cope with problems that might arise should Sheldon Road become the major thoroughfare between Plymouth and Northville.

Get-together's morale booster

Northville teachers, administrators and boardmembers got together briefly last Friday afternoon at the bar, rather than the bargaining table.

It really wasn't a bar. It was the clubhouse of Northville Downs. And they really haven't been meeting at bargaining tables either.

Actually, they don't meet one another very often at all. And when they do, the circumstances are apt to be very formal, sometimes strained.

So for a couple of hours after school last Friday they talked, drank a few beers or a glass of punch, and ate popcorn and pretzels.

Boardmembers picked up the tab. Northville Downs donated the facilities.

And about 150 guys and gals named John, Mary, Jim and Jane found out that their common denominator is kids and schools.

Mostly, that's what they talked about. One wag even suggested the board might want to "roll out the barrel" every Friday afternoon.

Apprehensive boardmembers agreed the get-together was beneficial.

Speaking for Myself

Eating out better than home cooking?

YES . . .

To all of our mothers everywhere — there is no place like home and home cooking. It's dear to our hearts. And now I can hear mothers everywhere saying, "That's fine, but not every day. Get us out of the kitchen, will you?" And that's just what American families are doing.

One of every three meals is eaten away from home these days. One-fifth of the nation's food supplies are purchased and served by the professional food service industry. Americans must be finding good reasons to spend $70 billion eating out every year.

One reason is convenience. It's a lot easier to stop in for a hamburger and fries than to go home and heat up the skillet, not to mention wash it. But we like to think most of the reasons are built around the special treat that it is to dine out.

There are many worlds of dining adventure out there for those who want something different — Greek and French, soul and creole, Arabic and Italian — to excite their taste buds.

At home we can't be expert at everything, like wielding a wok for Chinese cooking, or coming up with crispy tortillas for Mexican dishes. If you attempt these exotic dishes, you have to find sources for ingredients.

Restaurants have sources and fresh supplies coming in every day for their specialties. Add a little pampering service from a friendly waiter or waitress who wants to make your day and a dash of music, with no dishes to wash. No wonder it's fun to eat out.

Henry A. Montague, president
Michigan Restaurant Association

NO . . .

There's no comparison between restaurant food and home cooking. The latter wins in the taste sweepstakes by a mile.

You see, I was brought up on good home cooking. And my wife has continued that tradition of feeding me delicious food at home. My wife is a terrific cook.

For one thing, restaurants cannot match the seasoning, that delicate pinch of something which gives home cooking a special taste.

Home cooking is always warm when you get it. And the aroma, ummm, ummm. It gets the salivary glands working and they don't stop flowing until the conclusion of a delightful meal.

Furthermore, home cooking offers a variety of fresh foods that no restaurant menu can match, surely not at the same cost.

And, as the final twist in favor of home cooking, the salads are always crisper.

Not that I don't occasionally like to eat out. Eating at a restaurant gives my wife a break. It gives me the opportunity to eat fish, which my wife doesn't like to prepare.

But given my choice, there is no question which is better. Home cooking just can't be beat — neither the taste, nor the cost.

Heart specialist lauds programs that stress emphasis on fitness

The allegations of unethical and perhaps illegal actions by Budget Director Bert Lance are serious. And for that very reason he should have a full, fair and open hearing with an opportunity to defend himself against the charges that have been raised.

This is a severe test for Mr. Lance, who holds one of the most powerful and influential positions in our government. But it is also shaping up as a severe test for President Carter, who may face a choice of protecting an old friend or upholding self-proclaimed standards for his administration.

As this was written, I had not seen the report that led Senators Ribicoff and Percy to suggest Mr. Lance's resignation, so I can't comment on the allegations they presented to President Carter.

The other charges made public before the Ribicoff-Percy announcement did not have the outward appearance of illegality, but certainly raised deep questions about the ethical standards employed by Mr. Lance.

Committees in both the Senate and House are conducting what I consider a very appropriate investigation of the Lance allegations. Their efforts are focused both on Mr. Lance's personal qualifications to continue in office, and on possible changes in banking laws. Even if Lance has not done anything to warrant removal from office, some of his practices are questionable enough to stimulate legislative action.

If the legislative schedule allows, I plan to personally attend one of the sessions where Mr. Lance testifies before drawing my own conclusion on whether he should resign.

It is very important to give Bert Lance a thorough and fair opportunity to answer all the charges that have been leveled against him. He asked for a few additional days to prepare his response to the charges, and I did not object to that extension.

The fact that he has retained Clark Clifford, former Defense Secretary and reputedly one of the highest-priced Washington lawyers, is clear evidence Mr. Lance understands the seriousness of the accusations.

It is equally clear that Mr. Lance has a tough job cut out for him this week in trying to answer those charges.

The only proper way to proceed is a completely open hearing, giving him a full opportunity to be heard. Then, if he is obviously still in trouble, he and Mr. Carter ought to consider resignation for the Budget Director.

Mr. Carter has pledged an unprecedented standard of ethical conduct for himself and his key advisors. The Lance case may prove to be a test of whether those high standards are really applied, and whether certain key advisors are exempt. The current congressional hearings may be crucial in answering those questions.

In the end, President Carter's action in this case may be even more important than Mr. Lance's.

The Navajo Indians say, "Run a little bit every day and have a long life."

Dr. Joseph Arends knows a man who lived that belief. At the age of 106, the man was running the 100-yard dash.

Arends, who preaches preventive health through running, was in Northville recently to advocate changes in public schools' health programs.

He recommends a switch from the emphasis on competitive sports where only a few benefit to life-long physical activities that promote good health.

Such a theory is stressed in a pilot program at Silver Spring Elementary School. It is called Movement Education.

Arends complains that most school physical education classes are neither physical or education. Instead, he says, they spend most of their efforts developing athletes for sports like football and basketball.

Not only does that practice ignore the majority of students who won't play interscholastic sports, but it also deprives youngsters of picking up habits to keep them physically fit for a lifetime, charges Arends.

"Once you get out of school, it's a little difficult to find 21 other people for a football game," he explains.

Since they seldom include daily exercise into their routine as children, adults balk at the idea of a physical training program when it becomes time to assess the roll around the middle.

"Gee, you want me to exercise the rest of my life," is a common reaction that Arends hears when he prescribes a fitness program to a patient.

However, he says, no one thinks it unusual to brush his teeth every day because the logic of that practice has been drilled into students' heads almost since birth.

If the same thing were done, with exercise, people might begin to view exertion as a logical way to a happy and healthier life rather than painful drudgery, he theorizes.

That's why he encourages students to get into the habit of running at a very early age. He scoffs at the idea that the young can't stand the rigors of long-distance running.

There is a five year old girl he knows who ran the grueling 26-mile, 385 yard marathon. He doesn't recommend that for youngsters, but he says a mile-and-a-half to two miles shouldn't be that demanding.

And it will be a lot more helpful than a softball throw or bowling which, he says scornfully, are included in state and federal guidelines for physical fitness.

He is astonished that emphasis would be put on such activities when, he says, only three percent of Michigan students aged 13 and older are active in sports.

(His figures seem extreme. If that rate held true for Northville High School, only 35 students would be active in sports. Far more than that went out for football alone.)

He says calisthenics are all right for building strength, but "you are not going to die from lack of bicep muscles."

Nevertheless, strength is one of three areas that he says a school's physical fitness program should cover. The others are flexibility (can you touch your toes?) and maintaining a sound cardiovascular system.

That last area is also known as preventing a heart attack and Arends suggests that running is the best way to do it. That might be expected from a man who runs 40 miles a week.

The idea of Movement Education and related courses is often criticized because it does not emphasize competition nor does it stress traditional sport such as baseball.

"Why can't a kid compete with himself?" asks Arends. "Why can't he say, 'My teacher gave me a goal for good health?'"

The problems with traditional sports — baseball, golf, bowling, archery — is that while they may be enjoyable and fine for socializing, they do little to improve one's health, claims Arends.

"You go to the golf course, ride in an electric cart and then stop at the clubhouse for a couple of beers and you are minus two," he says.

Ah, but running is another matter. It can be done cheaply, by yourself or with others — it's more fun that way, he says — it has many direct and several indirect benefits and it can be done by all ages.

Where's physical ed?

To the Editor:

At the August 29 board of education meeting, the director of instruction was asked by Mrs. Slinger what a creative expressions teacher taught. In describing the curriculum of the creative expressions teacher, Mrs. Soper said that among other things, this person taught some aspects of physical education. (A creative expressions teacher is hired at Silver Springs School in lieu of a physical education teacher).

Since my children participated in this class, I couldn't think of any activity they received in creative expression that would or could be considered physical education.

When I questioned the "director" about this, she stated that one wouldn't think of these activities in the traditional sense of physical education, namely, calisthenics.

Well, in my opinion, the "director" has much to learn about the physical education curriculum. The "director" may be surprised to learn that a well-balanced physical education program includes, team sports, individual sports, gymnastics, physical fitness, stunts and tumbling, large and small group games, skill development, skill analysis, social, square and creative dance, not to mention the activities that help to develop the social and emotional growth of the child.

Perhaps somewhere in Northville, there is a physical educator who can enlighten the "director"?

Sincerely,
Christina Petit

Says walking is no surprise

To the Editor:

Regarding Mr. Robinson's quote in The Record September 7, 1977 about bus routes, "We had to take $11,000 out of our transportation budget when the millage failed," said Robinson. "We had to cut some stops and consolidate others."

How can he explain why my 13-year-old daughter came home on one of the last school days in June and told me the bus driver told them "next fall, each of you will have to walk a half mile to get a bus?"

Since the millage failed in July, how could the bus drivers have known of this in June? It is a good excuse to blame it on millage failing.

Regarding the shortage of textbooks, I would prefer buying a book so that my child would have her own to go to class and bring home when it's needed, instead of hoping to be one of the first to get a textbook after school.

What happened to Used Bookstores schools had in the "old days?" Did passing the millage eliminate them? And if so, to whose benefit?

Sincerely
Helene Kamon

Here' July parade bouquets

To the Editor:

I want to take this opportunity to give recognition to the many Northville Jaycees, Jaycettes and friends who gave of their time and efforts to make the July 4th parade a huge success. The parade required over 500 person hours and the efforts of over 30 people.

I would also like to thank The Northville Record management for their fine editorial and support in expressing the gratitude of the community. When so many have given so much, it is important that they receive a resounding, "thank you, please do it again."

To the following Jaycees, I say thank you: Tom Barber, Ron Bodnar, Ron Barnum, John Buckland, Greg Dawson, John Dugan, Paul Dochety, Dan Hassell, Dave Llewellyn, Greg McManus, Howard Kern, Dennis Noel,

To the following Jaycettes, I say thank you: Chris Campbell, Sue McManus, Carol Northrup, Cathy Totzkay, and Rose Zapke.

To these people I send a special thank you: Joan Noel, Cathy Stilson, Michigan National Bank, Goodtime Party Store, Contact 10, Detroit Federation of Musicians, Hudson's, Black's Hardware, Northville Downs, Jan Reef, Sue and Jeanne Stilson and the Northville City Police.

To this I add the applause and gratitude of your fellow Northvillites who turned out en masse to enjoy our parade. Congratulations to all of you for a job well done.

More beds for Eloise?

Eloise, where psychiatric admissions often are halted when 124 of the presently available beds are taken, will have up to 350 psychiatric beds if a proposed county-state transaction clears the hurdles it faces.

John Barr, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, described that as the key point to emerge from a meeting at Wayne County Psychiatric Hospital, known popularly as Eloise. Barr explained: "Everyone at the meeting agreed there is a need for more psychiatric beds at Eloise, but the county cannot afford the cost of even a modest expansion," Barr explained.

"Here is an opportunity to nearly triple the number of beds available at Eloise when mental illness strikes. Even court-ordered patients are being turned away at the door at present."

Patients not admitted at Eloise are taken on to Northville State Hospital which is legally required to accept court-ordered admissions.

Barr pointed out that Northville is nearly 15 miles farther from the most populated areas of the county, intensifying any transportation problems faced by patients and their families. Eloise is located at Michigan Avenue and Merriman in Westland.

Another strong point in favor of the proposal, Barr said, is the fact that psychiatric patients would be housed in a modern building instead of the present 73 year old structure which

Barr described as "dingy and depressing."

The proposal aired at the Eloise meeting calls for the state to buy the Walter P. Reuther Memorial Building at Eloise, for use as a psychiatric hospital. The county would then be out of the business of operating a mental hospital.

The Reuther building presently houses some 240 long-term care patients who would be shifted to the modern Wayne County General Hospital building, thus eliminating a problem of under-utilized bed capacity at both the Reuther and General Hospital buildings.

THE ANTIDOTE FOR FEAR

"For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." (2 Tim. 1:7)

Fear is a common problem of our time. Multitudes frequently seek counsel in this area. We are afraid of many things. We are afraid of the future, disease, death, etc. Have I named your fear? My friend, take courage in the above Scripture. God has better things for you. They are power, love, and a sound mind. How do they become yours? David testified, "When I am afraid, I will trust in thee." (Psa. 56:3). If you need counsel in this area call us. Or better still meet us in Church Sunday.

City weighs alternatives

• If the county makes Northville Road the primary road through the township, the route inside the city would carry traffic along Main Street (Northville Road) to either Griswold at Main or to the Main Street curve at which point a new highway would be constructed between the Ford Valve plant and the railroad all the way north to connect with Novi Road near the existing Eight Mile Road railroad overpass.

• If the county makes Sheldon the primary road through the township, the new route through the southern portion of the city would either continue north on Center to about the race track parking lots where a new road would be constructed east across these lots to tie in with Griswold, or it would turn east at Seven Mile and Sheldon to either River Street or Northville Road.

Routing traffic east at Seven Mile and Sheldon, according to Walters, is seen as impractical because it probably would necessitate a very costly radius through the parkway hillside at this point.

The Main Street route north, between the Ford Valve plant and the railroad, also is seen as being impractical because it might be impossible to acquire needed railroad right-of-way and because it probably would necessitate a costly change in the Ford plant's millpond.

Utilizing at least a portion of existing Griswold Street, from either Beal Street or Main Street north to at least the point where Griswold turns east beyond the Mill Race Historical Village appears to be the most practical solution, officials believe.

It is at the Griswold Street curve, north of Main, where a couple other alternatives have been presented to council for getting traffic north to Novi Road. These include:

• Bridging Griswold Street directly north across the millpond to either Horton or Novi streets, with one of these streets becoming the route north to Eight Mile Road.

• Carrying traffic around the Griswold curve to a point where a new roadway would skirt the eastern edge of the millpond, possibly as a miniature causeway, and then head north in the Oakland Avenue vicinity, crossing Base Line at the east edge of the Northville Lumber Company to tie in with the existing Novi Road at the Eight Mile overpass.

Bridging the millpond to tie in with either Horton or Novi streets (especially Horton) is seen as impractical because of the residential nature of these streets, the cost, and because of the less than direct tie-in with Novi Road.

Skirting the eastern edge of the millpond would eliminate the necessity of a costly bridge and would encroach upon far fewer residential properties, officials have noted. Furthermore, the owner of the Northville Lumber Company already has pledged a free right-of-way for a road through his property at Base Line.

Assuming that skirting the east edge of the millpond proves to be the least costly of the alternatives, two proposals have been offered to get traffic down to the millpond level.

One of these would be to gradually slope Griswold, from about the Mill Race Historical Village, down to the bank of the millpond, curving along the shore to the east end of the millpond. The other would carry traffic east beyond the existing Griswold curve to a point just west of the railroad where the new roadway would curve north to the Oakland Avenue area.

The latter, said Walters, appears to be the less desirable, because of the steeper grade at this point down to the millpond level. Furthermore, a roadway along the bank of the millpond, at nearer water level, could make for a very pleasant, picturesque drive.

In either of these cases, it has been suggested that the existing Griswold Street railroad bridge might be eliminated. Thus, existing Griswold Street would deadend at the bridge.

A number of advantages have been offered for eliminating the bridge, according to the manager.

One of these is the fact that the bridge is deteriorating and in the next few years will require major reconstruction — cost of which could approximate $500,000. Also, with construction of the new north-south route the need for Griswold Street east of the railroad to the existing terminus with Eight Mile Road is virtually eliminated.

In the final analysis, whether or not a new north-south route through the city becomes a reality will depend on outside financial assistance.

"Obviously, the city cannot afford an expenditure of this kind," said the manager. "The only way it could be financed would be with federal assistance, and at the present time such a project would be far down the priority list for '90-10' federal funding."

Walters said the county task force committees already have committed these kinds of federal monies far into the future.

Nevertheless, he added, the city would be wise to have a definite plan on the books so that it can get on the federal fund waiting list and so that it can make a definite proposal when the (county) matter of deciding to make either Northville Road or Sheldon Road the primary route through the township comes up.

in at about $300,00 more than the firm's $600,000 estimate although no board member gave that as a reason for switching to St. Cyr.

In fact, the only mention of Ralls-Hammill during Monday nights meeting was when board members praised previous work.

Vice-President Douglas Whitaker said he thought all four competing firms could handle the job. He said the school district would be "wise" to try a different company, although he was impressed with Ralls-Hammill's work on area libraries.

St. Cyr apparently gained points with some board members because it has a history of involving a school's staff in the planning of construction.

The other two businesses in contention were Lindhout Associates of Livonia and Michael McKelvey Architects of Ann Arbor.

The Annex renovation stems from the discovery last fall that floors were sagging in several rooms because of defective wooden beams. Three rooms were subsequently closed.

and other disaster workers.

In other board action trustees voted to——Adopt the ordinance of the articles of incorporation of the Economic Development Commission.

—Adopt the articles of incorporation of the Huron Valley Authority for the "super sewer."

—Join the Wayne County Association of Local Governments.

The board also voted to hold special sessions every fourth Thursday of the month starting in October along with its regular meetings on the second Thursday of each month.

CBD sidewalk project delayed until spring

Northville central business district sidewalk and curb replacement has been postponed until spring in the wake of a scheduling snag.

Five bids were received last week, three of which were below engineer's estimate of $63,400, but council decided to rebid the project for spring construction when the two lowest bidders indicated they could not complete the project before the onset of freezing weather.

Late construction, council members concluded, would not allow for sufficient concrete curing before winter salting begins. Inadequate curing, they feared, might result in an inferior job.

The lower bidder, Daguanno & Son, Inc., submitted a price of $48,479 but later indicated two of his men had been injured and that he could no longer complete the job on schedule. The second low bidder, at $59,470, requires 100 days to complete the project, which council members noted would take the project into December even with good weather.

Council decided to rebid the project in January, with the expectation that good bids will be received between the first and second bidders' figures — thus, resulting in some reduction in the original estimated assessments.

In the meantime, explained City Manager Steven Walters, bond financing for the special assessment district will be completed.

Based on the new construction schedule, the first assessment installation will be due next summer upon completion of the project.

CBD loop unrelated

Neither the long range, still unapproved proposal for a looping road around the CBD nor the extension of Wing Street are related to alternative north-south route proposals in the city.

The "loop", which isn't even a formal proposal at this time, is strictly a business district matter, stressed City Manager Steven Walters this week.

And the planned extension of Wing Street south to Seven Mile Road, which may or may not be related to a loop around the core of the downtown area, has nothing to do with the north-south alternative proposals, he added.

The so-called loop is nothing more than an idea considered by planners when they were developing the city's master plan. That idea which was quickly shelved suggested that downtown Main Street be made into a pedestrian mall and that roadway be developed around the core — possibly involving Wing, Randolph, Hutton, and Cady streets.

Concerning the Wing Street extension, the project is expected to be put out for bids soon, with preliminary road preparation slated to take place late this year and paving scheduled for next spring.

Monies for the extension project have been budgeted. It involves a block-long section from Fairbrook to Seven Mile Road.

Senior' films start

This Thursday the Northville Public Library will resume its monthly programs for senior citizens with a film entitled "It Couldn't Be Done."

This hour-long color documentary shows the people who carved out Mount Rushmore, built the Empire State Building, the Panama Canal and a bridge over the Mississippi, although they were told "it couldn't be done."

The program will begin at 2 p.m. in the room next to the Vital Foods store in Northville Square.

Choose your dining room wallcovering with an eye to the proportions of your room and the size of your furniture. If you have a large room, you can use dark tones for a dramatic effect. In a small room, dark colors tend to close the walls in—a wallcovering with an open, light background can make a room seem airy and spacious. If you have an oversized table or breakfast, a medium large scale wall pattern will keep your furniture from taking over the room. Lighter pieces of furniture and smaller patterned wall coverings do well together. Or consider a textured wall for warmth and color in your room. Textures do make as strong a statement as patterns. Pay attention to your dining room walls for a room with a view to relax mealtime.

Choose your wallcovering at GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. We are wall covering specialists and we can help you select just the right pattern, material and colors of wall-covering to make your room a joy to behold. We can help you to color coordinate your room or entire house using our FULLER O'BRIEN PAINTS. We have a wide selection of FULLER O'BRIEN paints in popular colors for the interior and exterior of your home.

DECORATING TIP: When hanging wallpaper, tie a string across the top of the paste bucket so that you can rest your brush.

Mustangs make good on Novi mistakes

Taking advantage of an opponent's mistakes is crucial to any football team's success.

Northville coach Chuck Shonta knows it, and his varsity players proved it last week with an opening-game victory over their old rivals up the road, the Novi Wildcats.

On a cool, crisp evening befitting a high school football rivalry, the Mustangs took advantage of a plethora of Wildcat mistakes and added a strong passing attack of their own in posting their fourth straight triumph over their Class B neighbors, 21-6.

If there was a turning point in the game, it had to take place on Novi's first drive downfield following the opening kickoff.

Little more than two minutes into the clash the Wildcats had moved from their own 19-yard line to the Northville 41, thanks largely to a 17-yard jaunt by quarterback Steve Weber and a 13-yard swing pass from Weber to end Bob Blackmer.

And that's when tragedy struck — from Novi's standpoint, anyway.

Facing a crucial third-and-five situation, the Wildcats tried a little riddle dangle with their option attack and almost got away with a touchdown on it.

Almost. Jeff Laverty, a 5'9" junior whom coach John Osborne had planned to alternate at quarterback with Weber, stepped up to the line to call signals while Weber moved over to halfback. After receiving the snap from center Laverty flipped to Weber rolling right, and his bomb to Blackmer running free along the eastern sidelines had TD written all over it.

Blackmer's hands had other ideas, though. Despite being right on the money the ball plopped out of the senior's arms and rolled dead at the Northville five-yard line.

Twelve plays later the Mustangs scored the first of their three first-half touchdowns, and set the pace for yet another victory, their fourth in seven meetings between the two rivals.

"Hell, yes, it killed us," Osborne said of the play afterwards. "It took the wind right out of our sails."

The 38-year-old coaching veteran refused to fault Blackmer alone for the loss, though.

"We all had a lot of lapses," he said of his team's performance, "including the coach."

One of the Wildcats' biggest problems was their running attack, which Northville's huge defensive line shut off extremely effectively. In 28 rushing attempts Novi picked up a meager 69 yards, 28 of them by senior workhorse Tony McCarty.

The Mustangs, meanwhile, rolled up 180 yards on the ground, 85 of them by junior Don Borthwick. Borthwick, named the Mustangs' outstanding player for his efforts, scored all three Northville touchdowns, including one on a 50-yard pass reception.

His outstanding play on the first touchdown drive was in the realm of neither running nor pass receiving, though.

With just under five minutes left in the first quarter the 5'8", 150-pound speedster returned a Novi punt 54 yards to the Wildcat one-yard line, then dove over for the score on the following play. Matt Davis' extra-point kick split the uprights, and the Mustangs were up 7-0.

Davis' ensuing kickoff went out of bounds, giving Novi the ball at their own 40-yard line. Laverty then took over at quarterback but was unable to move the Wildcats, and four plays later Dave Pisha was back to punt again.

This time Jeff Norton received the kick and ran from his own 30 to Novi's 35-yard line, but a clipping penalty put the ball back at mid-field.

On Northville's first play from scrimmage quarterback Doug Marzonie hit flanker Pete Wright wide open at the 30, but Wright couldn't hang on.

Unruffled, Marzonie faded back on second-and-10 and hit Borthwick flying down the right sidelines. Borthwick easily outlegged his defenders for touchdown number two, and with 1:58 still left in the quarter it was 14-0.

Laverty completed his first pass as a varsity signal caller on Novi's next possession. Kevin Mills came out of the backfield to snatch a quick jump pass over the middle for 14 yards and a first down at the Wildcat 43, but a holding penalty and a dropped pass by Pisha snuffed any further hopes.

Northville threatened to make it 20-0 early in the second quarter when Borthwick broke two tackles and ran 27 yards to the Wildcat 15. Marzonie fumbled the snap from center one play later, though, and defensive tackle R. J. Bayne pounced on it for the home team.

After stopping Novi cold again the Mustangs got excellent field position on Norton's 14-yard punt return, putting the ball in enemy territory at the 46. Six plays later the visitors had moved down close to the 16-yard line, thanks to a 20-yard romp by Marzonie and halfback Dave Dugid's twisting, squirming 28-yard slash up the middle. The rally failed again, though, when Davis' 29-yard field goal attempt sailed wide to the right with 5:04 remaining in the half.

But the Mustangs weren't through yet.

Two plays after the missed field goal attempt John Horwath intercepted a Wildcat pass and rambled 40 yards to the Novi six. Borthwick — who else? — got the call on the next play and plowed his way off tackle and into the end zone to make it 20-0. Davis followed with his third straight conversion.

"I think we shut off their running attack real well," Shonta said later as he pondered the reasons for his team's impressive first-half performance. "We were better defensively."

In fact Northville's big defensive line limited the Wildcats to just 28 yards rushing in 17 attempts in the first two quarters, with 17 of those yards coming on Weber's romp in the opening drive of the game.

He also felt the Mustangs "were better balanced offensively; we could do more things than they could."

Noting the difficulties his team usually has when it travels to Novi for a football contest, Shonta acknowledged that last Friday's first half "was the best we've ever had against them. The second half was more typical of our games up there."

And indeed it was.

As the game referee blew his whistle to signal the start of the second half, the whole right side of Novi's kicking unit moved to the left of kicker Tom Michalak.

Michalak then booted a squiggler toward the left side of the mid-field stripe, where a Northville lineman bobbled the ball and Novi's Tom Yakei recovered.

"We saw UCLA do that last year against Southern Cal twice in a row successfully," Osborne explained, "so we figured we'd give it a try."

"We practiced it all week... and the kids liked it."

And, needless to say, it fired up the Wildcats.

Three plays later Laverty hit Mills with a bullet over the middle, and after bobbling it momentarily he raced 43 yards to the Mustang six before Norton tripped him up.

After McCarty, later named Novi's

Runners take third; it's not enough

Oh, what success can do to a team's expectations sometimes.

Northville's cross country squad, which enjoyed one of its finest seasons ever last year when it rolled to 13 wins in 15 dual meets, opened its 1977 campaign with its second consecutive third-place trophy at the West Bloomfield Invitational last Saturday. Only Portage Northern and defending champ Brighton finished ahead of the Mustangs in the small Class A portion of the invitational, which annually attracts top cross country schools from all over the state.

But was that good enough for coach Ralph Redmond and crew?

"I would have to go along with (my co-captains') assessment of our efforts," Redmond remarked after the meet. "They thought the team could have done much better, that we were very lucky to come away with a trophy."

Noting that his boys fell short of their West Bloomfield performance last fall (they finished third out of 26 teams with 127 points a year ago, third out of 24 teams with 144 points this year), Redmond admitted "it's kind of nice that we came out as high as we did."

Part of the reason for Redmond's dissatisfaction stemmed from the pre-race tactics he and his team had devised for contending for the championship Saturday. Led by co-captains Don Wilber and John Coram, the Mustangs had hoped to place "three runners in a block up front" among the top 20 finishers in the 160-man field.

Behind them the Mustangs had planned on forming a "four-man pack" that would place no lower than in the 30's.

As Redmond acknowledged later, though, that strategy "didn't quite work out like we'd hoped." Instead Northville's top seven runners finished in a widely strung-out group ranging from sixth to 69th place.

Junior Brian Turnbull had the Mustangs' top performance with a sixth-place finish made even more impressive by problems he'd encountered earlier in the week. Turnbull had missed two days of practice because of a sore knee, and as late as Thursday Redmond wasn't expecting him to run at West Bloomfield at all.

Doctor Robert Mandell, the team physician, found a new pair of training shoes to be his problem, though, and advised him to go back to his old shoes. The remedy apparently worked, and according to Redmond his junior speedster "came out of the race feeling great." Turnbull was clocked in 15:50. Coram was the only other Mustang to finish in the top 20. His 16:03 time

Defense leads junior varsity past Dearborn

Hard-nosed defense and a balanced offensive attack propelled Northville's junior varsity football squad to a 10-0 victory over Dearborn High in its season opener Saturday.

Coach Steve McDonald's crew held a thin 3-0 edge at halftime after Russ Gan's 34-yard field goal attempt split the uprights as the clock ran out in the second quarter.

Then, with four minutes left in the third quarter, halfback Ken Weber dashed 10 yards for a TD and Gans converted to give Northville its final points.

Quarterback Bob Crisan completed seven of 13 passes and Scott Millard rushed for 46 yards in 15 carries as the Mustangs piled up 171 yards on offense. But the real story of the game was defense.

Nose guard Norm Tiilikka with 14 tackles, including eight solos, and linebacker Dan Troher with 12 led a unit that limited its opponents to just one sustained drive all afternoon. Other defensive standouts included Bob Boshoven, Tim Marshall and Steve Penby. Crisan had an interception and Mark Harper a fumble recovery to aid the cause.

Dearborn's only scoring threat came late in the fourth quarter when they moved down inside Northville's 10-yard line, but Troher knocked down a key pass during the drive and the defensive line stiffened to preserve a shutout. The junior Mustangs, who would up 6-2 last season, next play tomorrow night when they host Milford. Game time is 7 p.m.

Football dates changed

Northville's football homecoming has been switched from October 7 to October 21, the high school athletic department has announced.

According to athletic director Ed McLoud the switch was made because there wasn't ample time to prepare for it by October 7. The change means the Mustangs will be playing Plymouth Canton rather than Livonia Churchill.

The Mustangs' high school football clash at Walled Lake Western, originally scheduled for Saturday, October 1, has been switched to Friday, September 30. Kickoff time will be at 3:30 p.m. instead of 8 p.m.

According to Northville athletic director Ed McLoud the change was made to accommodate Western's activities that weekend.

Golfers overcome jitters in victory

Northville's defending Western Six golf champs started their conference season in style Monday afternoon, but not before experiencing a case of the jitters in non-conference action last week.

Mike Seltz, Steve Pyett, Dennis Zinkon, Scott Denhof and John Pawlowski combined for a nine-hole total of 190 Monday and waltzed to its first Western Six win of the year by 16 strokes over Plymouth Canton.

Seltz, a junior transfer from Ohio, led the Mustang charge with a one-over par 36 despite shooting a double bogey on the third hole at Northville's home course, Brae-Burn Golf Club. He and Pyett, who finished with a 37, had both birdied the par-four second hole.

Behind the two leaders were Zinkon at 38, Denhof at 39 and Pawlowski at 40.

The Mustangs' performances Monday were a far cry from their efforts last Thursday, when they lost a 198-210 match to Redford Thurston at Idlewild in their season opener. In that meet Pyett was the only Northville golfer to clear 40. He shot a one-over par 37 and was followed by Seltz at 41, Pawlowski at 43, Zinkon at 44 and Denhof at 45.

"I think they were just getting over the first-match jitters," rookie coach Joe Blake said of his team's showing against Thurston.

"Certainly playing at home (on Monday) made a big difference," he explained. Noting that Brae-Burn is Canton's home course as well, though, he added that playing at home "wasn't a factor in the match itself. It just helped their overall performance."

Blake pointed out that the Mustangs had "some bad holes early" in their meet against Canton, but that "they settled down once they got going." Zinkon, for instance, triple bogeyed the first hole but came back to shoot even par over the last eight.

Northville's next match takes place this afternoon, when the Mustangs host Redford Union. The meet starts at 3 p.m. earned the senior letterman a 17th-place medal.

Sophomore Harry Couyoumjian turned in Northville's most promising performance with a 16:34 clocking, good for 36th place. "He ran a real nice race," Redmond said of his newest prospect, an Armenian transfer student from Southfield High.

Wilber came next in 16:39, good for 40th place. Rounding out the top seven were John Monagle (45th in 16:43), Jim Bedford (63rd in 17:01) and Tom Doyle (69th in 17:08).

Noting less-than-impressive showings by Wilber and Monagle, Redmond felt "we just weren't up for it (the meet); we did not run as well as we are capable of running."

"We were aiming a little bit higher than maybe we really expected, but to be honest with ourselves... we have to consider ourselves very, very fortunate to have finished third."

That doesn't mean the eight-year Mustang coaching veteran is any less optimistic about his squad's chances for another excellent season, though.

"I think we've got a lot of work ahead of us," he said, "but I think the one thing we learned is that we have a lot of talented kids, with some very fine leg (sprinting) speed."

"The biggest thing now is gaining confidence in these kids."

Portage Northern took home the West Bloomfield championship trophy with 102 points while Brighton, which won last year with 84 points, finished with 122. Waterford Mott, one of Northville's rivals in the Western Six conference, finished fourth with 181 points.

Four in running for top rec department position

The Northville City and Township Recreation Commission has narrowed its list of candidates for the recreation department's directorship down to four, according to commissioner Martin L. Rinehart.

The commission's personnel committee is in the process of interviewing those candidates now. Two of them, Connie Allen of Vandalia, Ohio, and Victor Chiasson of the Oakland County recreation department, were interviewed last night.

Tomorrow night the committee will talk to the other two applicant finalists, John Farland of the Farmington Hills rec department and Edward Krietz, presently Northville's assistant recreation director.

The interviews will take place at the Northville recreation office, 215 W. Cady Street, starting at 7:30 p.m., and are open to the public.

The commission initially received 99 applications for the job, which opened last July with the resignation of Charles Froberger. No definite date has been set for making a final decision on who the new director will be.

outstanding player, made two unsuccessful tries to hit paydirt, Weber squeezed through left tackle with 9:29 to go for the Wildcats' only score. Michalak's first extra-point attempt was good, but an illegal procedure call placed the ball back at the 15, where Michalak tried again and missed.

The Wildcats threatened once more at the start of the last quarter when Blackmer's 12-yard fourth-down reception and Yakel's 12-yard crack off tackle helped the hosts advance from their own 42 to Northville's 27. Yakel fumbled on a run up the middle, though, and the Mustangs recovered at the 18-yard line.

From there the visitors started their last sustained drive of the game, moving all the way to the Wildcat 15 before faltering. Borthwick carried twice for 20 yards and Mark Hooth caught a 38-yard pass from Marzonie to highlight the drive.

"It was like two different games," Shonta said of the contest afterwards. "We dominated the first half, but in the second half they were fired up and got that quick touchdown. After that things stayed pretty even."

Although the veteran Mustang coach was more than happy with the win, he expressed some reservations about his team's overall performance.

Shonta did seem satisfied with the Mustangs' passing attack, though. Behind Marzonie, who quarterbacked the entire game, Northville completed nine of 19 pass attempts for 198 yards. Borthwick had three receptions for 68 yards while Hooth had two for 73 yards and Horwath two for 46 yards.

Defensively Northville was led by Dave Boor, a senior defensive end, and defensive back Jeff Norton, who had 10 solo tackles.

Don Borthwick was just a junior starting his first game at halfback for the varsity football team last week, but he made the most of the opportunity. The 5' 8" 150-pound speedster rushed for 85 yards in 15 carries and caught three passes for 68 yards (including a 50-yard touchdown reception) to lead the Mustangs to a 21-6 victory over arch-rival Novi in last Friday's season opener. He also scored all three Northville touchdowns, setting up the first on a 54-yard punt return.

Lease renewed

The Northville Recreation Department has renewed its lease of Thomson Field with owner Helen Thomson DePoorter.

The new lease expires May 1, 1980.

Get that skateboard out

Don't put that skateboard away yet. With fall right around the corner, local Jaycees are sponsoring a skateboard contest in Redford this weekend that could land as many as eight area youths in the Pontiac Silverdome for the state skateboard championships next month.

The regional contest, run by Jaycees from Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Livonia, gets under way this Saturday at the Redford skateboard track on Beech Daly between Six and Seven Mile.

Participants will be able to compete in two areas of skateboarding: slalom, which takes place Saturday and will be judged on time only, and free style, which takes place Sunday and will be judged on style.

Competition will be broken down into four age categories, with the youngest group (ages 9 and under) starting at 10 a.m., both days. Action in the other age groups (10-12, 13-16, and 17 and over) begins afterwards.

Winners of the slalom and free style competition in all four groups qualify for a statewide contest that takes place at the Pontiac Silverdome in October.

Fee for the regional contest is $2, with all proceeds going to Muscular Dystrophy. Parental consent is required for anyone under 18 competing. Safety equipment will be supplied by contest officials.

For further information, contact Northville Jaycee Pete Winter at 349-5588 evenings after 6.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

Enter Today! You May Be A Winner!

HERE ARE THE RULES

Take a plain piece of paper and number down the left hand side from 1 to 16. You will notice that each square below is also numbered from 1 to 16 and each contains a football game to be staged this coming weekend. To complete your entry you must do the following:

- (1) after each number on your paper write the name of the sponsor of the corresponding square.
- (2) following the sponsor's name — write the name of the winning team.
- (3) in addition you must pick a score on the outcome of the game in square 16. This will be used in the case of a tie and then the contestant whose score is closest to the actual score will be declared the winner.

Be sure to write your name, address and phone number plainly on your piece of paper (your entry). In case of tie, prize money will be split.

NOTE: Only ONE entry per HOUSEHOLD family per week. Prize money paid only to name on entry. PLEASE do not enter several times using friends' names. Such entries will be disqualified if discovered.

Copies of the contest will be posted at the Northville Record office at 104 W. Main and at the Walled Lake News office, 1340 S. Commerce Road, each week. Entries should be addressed "Football Contest" Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville and must be postmarked or brought to our office no later than 5 p.m. each Friday.

Employees of The Northville Record and The Walled Lake-Nowi News or sponsoring merchants are not eligible.

Entry forms available without charge in our offices. Winners announced in paper and posted in offices.

Fall rec programs announced

The Northville Recreation Department will be distributing brochures to local schools this week for its new fall activities, most of which will be starting within the next four weeks.

This fall's agenda is one of the department's biggest ever, and covers a wide scope of activities ranging from basketball and bowling to belly dancing and yoga.

Among the activities getting under way in the weeks ahead are arts and crafts classes, instructional sports programs, Far Eastern arts, competitive recreation sports, and dancing.

Arts and crafts classes, which all start the first week in October, include macrame (plant hangers, jewelry, etc.), furniture upholstery, and still-life drawing for beginners. The drawing class, which begins October 5, will teach students to work with charcoal, watercolors, pencil and so forth.

Instructional programs for those interested in developing their sports skills will be offered in golf, tennis, skiing (there will be a ski club for youths aged 12 through 18 and a class in cross country skiing), gymnastics, ice skating, swimming and cheerleading.

As usual the swimming program is particularly extensive. It includes classes in beginning, intermediate, advanced and synchronized swim as well as courses in diving, lifesaving, and one for handicapped people interested in preparing for the Special Olympics. In addition a new class is being offered in competitive swimming. All courses, which begin on October 8, last 10 weeks and cost $15 per person.

Tennis is being offered in two different sessions, with the first starting this Saturday. Area residents interested in joining Session I, which lasts from September 17 through the end of October, can still sign up by filling out an application at the recreation office between now and Saturday.

Included in Far Eastern arts are sessions in hatha yoga, judo, and karate (beginning and advanced), which all begin the first week of October. There will also be two courses in transcendental meditation, taught by qualified TM instructors. The first session takes place on October 12 and 13.

All five competitive recreation sports return from last year's slate. They include men's and youth basketball, women's and co-ed volleyball, and youth bowling. Youth bowling starts October 6 and is open to any youngster six through 14 years old.

Two dance classes will be offered starting the first week of October. Belly dancing, which involves instructions in Mid-Eastern dancing is an eight-week program costing $16 while discotheque dance, which teaches styles like The Hustle, lasts seven weeks and costs $7 per person, $12 per couple.

Among the other recreation programs this fall are music lessons, an anti-rape class, and a course in first aid. The first aid and anti-rape courses are relatively new to the rec agenda. Both start in early October, with the first aid program lasting 10 weeks and the anti-rape class going 12 weeks.

Private music lessons will be given to anyone who already plays an instrument and would like the chance to study with an expert. Instruments include the flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, saxophone, cornet-trumpet, french horn, trombone, baritone, tuba and percussion.

Early registration for all fall activities begins next Monday and continues through Saturday, September 24, at the recreation office. The office, located at 215 W. Cady Street, is open from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

For further information contact the rec department at 349-0203.

Fall soccer under way

Northville's fall soccer program got off the ground last weekend as the Western Suburban Soccer League (WSSL) began competition at fields throughout the western metro area.

Northville's youths apparently couldn't keep up with their counterparts in Livonia, Farmington and the like, though. Only one Northville squad came out in the victory column over the weekend while two others tied and 19 suffered defeat.

In the 10-and-under boys' division Northville no. 4 dumped Livonia United 4-0. Other 10-and-under boys' action saw the Hot Spurs tie Livonia no. 7, 1-1.

Northville's only other tie came in the 14-and-under girls' bracket, where the Rovers fought Livonia Red to a 3-3 standoff.

HOLD IT!—Northville Hot Spurs player Cameron Watson seems ready to snap a shot of teammate Mike Fritz bouncing one off his head during WSSL action against Farmington last weekend. Actually he and a Farmington player (8) are trying to get out of the way. The Hot Spurs, competing in the 14-and-under age division, lost 9-1.

Boat class offered

The Dearborn Power Squadron is offering a free 10-week safe boating course for Western Wayne County residents beginning this month.

The classes start on Wednesday, September 28 at Plymouth Canton High School. Registration is at 7 p.m. and the class begins at 7:30 p.m.

The course is open to anyone 12 years or older. Completion of the class automatically qualifies youngsters for the sheriff's certificate that 12-to-16-year-olds must have to operate a boat.

Many facets of boating will be covered including seamanship, rules of the road, compass reading and Coast Guard regulations.

Interested persons need only show up at 7 p.m. on September 28. For more information, call Gene Becker at 534-2315.

NBD is lowering the rates on fuel-saving home improvement loans to help you meet the increase in heating costs.

Check this list, consult your contractor, then come to NBD

1. Insulation
2. More efficient furnace (old hot water heater can be replaced at the same time)
3. Storm doors and windows
4. New roofing
5. Insulated siding
6. Weather stripping and caulking
7. Double glazed windows
8. Automatic garage door opener to cut heat loss

If you'd like more information on our special house-warming loans, call NBD

If you own a home, you're certain to be concerned about the recent increase in heating costs. To help, National Bank of Detroit is reducing its rate on home improvement loans that will help you and your family make better use of your home heating fuel.

The eight home improvements listed in the box at the right will not only help to conserve fuel, but will keep your family more comfortable and lower your fuel bill at the same time.

Six inches of ceiling insulation, for example, may reduce the cost of heating the average home by about 17%.

Our special house-warming loans are now available at any NBD office.

If you've been putting off improvements to your home that will help conserve the nation's supply of fuel, and also save you money, now would be a prudent time to see your contractor about having them done with the help of an NBD house-warming loan.

It will help you and your family now, and in the years to come.

And help your country, too.

State's public hearing will cover tracks from Wixom to Plymouth

Novi's train derailments and the railroad tracks running through Novi will be the subject of a state called public meeting Thursday, October 6 at 8 p.m. in the Novi Middle School cafeteria.

The meeting was called after state and federal inspectors examined the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad's track from Wixom to Plymouth last Thursday and placed several "slow orders" including one at the site of a derailment August 12 which caused the evacuation of as many as 3,000 Novi residents.

The inspection followed pressure exerted by the City of Novi and state legislators following three derailments within a two-week period in Novi in early August.

Thursday's inspections consisted of two parts. During the morning, state and federal inspectors using a "high rail" traveled the tracks all the way from Wixom to Plymouth. In the afternoon they concentrated on the curve north of 10 Mile in Novi where the most dangerous of the derailments occurred.

According to Thomas Trimbach, Manager of the Transportation Regulation Section of the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation, several slow orders have been placed on the C&O tracks between Wixom and Plymouth. The "slow order" is at the site of the derailment and limits the speed of trains to 10 miles per hour. Prior to the derailment the speed had been 50 miles per hour in that stretch of tracks. After the derailment the speed had been decreased to approximately five miles per hour. According to workmen at the tracks, the speed was up to 25 miles per hour by Thursday's inspection.

Trimbach said that the C&O is co-operating in immediately repairing problems cited by the inspectors.

Trimbach told The News "We did find some parts of that track that are not as good as they should be."

Though hesitant to discuss the problems in detail, Trimbach said there are track defects, bad ties, and bolts that need to be tightened.

The state actually does not have jurisdiction to order compliance with its findings but a federal inspector from the Federal Railway Administration was present to enforce the findings of the inspection committee.

The federal inspector, Tom Paton, told The News Thursday that "Of the inspections we made, I've noted several locations where the track is not in compliance."

Orders to correct the areas of non-compliance have been given to the C&O, he pointed out. If those are not complied with, that will be noted during a follow up inspection which will be made in about a month.

If there is non-compliance, Paton said he can recommend prosecution or that fines be levied. Those fines can be levied as high as $250 to $500 per day, retroactive to the date of the initial inspection.

Trimbach told The News that further information from the C&O is necessary before the inspection and findings can be completed.

The October 6 meeting will be for the purpose of filling in the public on the situation surrounding the tracks.

"We'll tell what's been found and what's being done," explained Trimbach. Questions will be answered pertaining to the derailment.

Trimbach admitted that he is very concerned about derailments such as Novi experienced involving hazardous materials.

"I'm proposing a bill before the state legislature to cut the speed of trains transporting hazardous materials to half of the currently authorized speed," he said. "I think we should have some improved legislation."

Trimbach also noted that "There's going to be new national legislation on the handling of hazardous materials." He pointed to the problem of trains with several tankcars in a row and carrying hazardous materials, compounding the possibly disastrous results of a derailment.

The Novi derailment involved several tankcars in a row although the exact number is under investigation, Trimbach said.

Anyone with questions concerning any of the track from Wixom to Plymouth is invited to attend the meeting. Slow orders were placed in various areas throughout that stretch of track, although Trimbach said he could not be specific until those slow orders are laid out on a map so he can determine what communities each is in.

As reported in last week's Novi News, City Manager Edward Kriewall did recommend and was successful in getting passed a resolution by council seeking federal funds to pay for construction of bridges over the railroad tracks on Novi Road and 10 Mile.

"We feel that the Road Commission has not attempted to secure federal funds for projects such as these," said a letter containing the resolution which was sent to various legislators. "With the recent train derailments and mounting traffic on 10 Mile and Novi Road, it seems appropriate at this time to initiate whatever forays are possible to secure funding."

In other developments related to the derailments, tests completed by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources on wells in the Orchard Hills Subdivision have determined that there is no contamination as the result of the dangerous materials dumped into the Ingersoll Creek by the derailed tankers.

According to Water Quality Specialist James Miller, "There is no evidence of any contamination."

"We're real pleased on that," he said. "We haven't had a chance to tell the people."

The tests were completed on 15 wells within the sub. Approximately six more remain to be tested, Miller said.

"We're still not through with our investigation," added Miller. "By the time we're done, we ought to be able to say if it (a derailment with spillage of contaminants) happens again, we know what will happen (to the area) and what to do about it."

Miller said that the area of the spillage is still being examined on a daily basis and whenever contaminant is forced to the surface by rains, a contractor is called upon to pump it out.

"It's a matter for concern," said Miller. "We want to get as much out of the environment as we can. However, it isn't a cause for alarm."

Police Blotter

B&E's net large hauls

Thieves netted big profits in two separate breaking and entering cases last week. One was in the city and the other was in the township.

Last Tuesday evening, a couple returned to their Bristol Court home to find a screen torn off a sliding window on the west side of the home.

Inside, they found that the living room and the master bedroom had been ransacked and that about $865 worth of objects were missing.

Included among the stolen articles were two televisions and three watches. City police are investigating.

Saturday night, an apartment dweller on Innsbrook was cleaning his ring on a table in front of a locked screen door.

He told township police that he went to bed shortly after 11 p.m. At 11:40 p.m., his wife went to the living room and noticed the objects were gone but apparently thought her husband had taken them.

The next morning, the husband discovered the theft and a vertical slash in the screen door.

Stolen articles included $256 in cash, a diamond ring worth $350 and a $110 watch.

Car owners had a rough time in the township last week. A car parked at a Highland Lakes address Saturday night was missing four hubcaps when the owner looked at it Sunday morning.

Another motorist had a flat tire on Eight Mile Road on the way to work Saturday morning. When he returned to work, he found the trunk lock had been punched out.

Missing from his truck were two tires, and a tool box full of tools. Total value of the heist was estimated at $400.

There was a flurry of escapes from Northville State Hospital last week, according to Michigan State Police. Most of the walkaways had returned by Monday.

One woman walked out of the state hospital on Labor Day and stepped in front of an eastbound car on Seven Mile Road. From her bed in St. Mary Hospital, the woman told state troopers that she purposely stepped in front of the car but then changed her mind and tried unsuccessfully to get out of the way.

The driver, a 17 year old Livonia boy, said he slowed when he saw the woman, but started to resume speed when it appeared as though she would wait for him to pass.

He said he slammed on the brakes when she stepped from the curb and had slowed considerably before hitting her. State police tests indicated he was going slower than 50 miles per hour when he struck her.

The woman apparently suffered no serious injury.

A big dream for many youngsters is to own a bicycle, but it turned into sad memories for two Northville youths.

A family on Larry Street reported that a 10-speed bike was taken from their garage sometime Friday night.

A 12 year old boy said he parked his 10-speed south of Northville Square for a brief time shortly after noon on Saturday. When he returned, it was gone.

YOUR HOME IS YOUR BIGGEST INVESTMENT

don't gamble with cheap paint...

Your home is probably the biggest investment you'll ever make. And to protect that investment you should use a quality house paint or stain. We recommend Pittsburgh products...for several good reasons. Only the finest raw materials, the best workmanship and the very latest in paintmaking technology go into Pittsburgh products. They resist cracking, peeling, flaking colors are fade resistant so your house keeps that "new look" longer. If you have used, or are thinking about using, another brand of paint or stain, remember this...with long-lasting Pittsburgh products you'll save time and important money on future repainting in the long run. Pittsburgh is the least expensive Paint or Stain you can buy.

For Julie Guthrie

MD dance leads to Vegas trip

When she started signing up sponsors for a Muscular Dystrophy dance marathon last spring, little did Julie Guthrie know that her long hours of hard work would find her on nationwide television with Jerry Lewis in September.

Julie as well as other students from Novi and Northville High Schools joined together in May to sponsor the dance marathon with the sole purpose of earning money for MD.

From scouting neighborhoods and hitting up relatives to cornering people in the supermarket, Julie searched for people willing to pledge a small sum per hour payable for the number of hours of participation in the marathon. As was announced at the dance, the student collecting the highest number of pledges would be sent to Las Vegas to appear on television during the MD telethon if the dance earned at least $10,000.

With the blessings and encouragement of her parents, Patricia and Lester Guthrie of Village Wood Road, Julie found those sponsors and hit the dance floor. And there she stayed for 24 hours.

"It was hard work finding all the people to pledge to begin with," said Mrs. Guthrie, "but it was even harder to re-contact all the people after the dance to collect their pledges."

In all, Julie had $936 in actual pledges but turned in approximately $970 because of some very generous people. Then came the long wait through the summer. Pledges were slow coming in to the committee and although close, the magic number of $10,000 had not been reached.

It was not until mid-August that Julie was contacted by Novi High School officials verifying the fact that the dance had earned $10,000 and she, having turned in the greatest dollar amount, was named to represent the schools in Las Vegas.

With travel arrangements and hotel accommodations handled from Las Vegas, Julie, at 15, became one of "Jerry's Kids," the youngest member of the "campus representatives" see throughout the telethon.

Staying up throughout the entire 21-

Greg Glowacki, Julie Guthrie, Eileen Slattery glow at success of dance marathon for muscular dystrophy hour telecast, Julie said the feelings of everyone connected with the show were real and genuine. "You couldn't possibly be a disbeliever in what Jerry Lewis was doing after being there."

As the youngest "rep", Julie said the others really looked out for her and were just super. "Most of those kids were in college and they were the greatest people you'd ever want to meet."

During the telethon, Julie dressed, as all other reps did, in special T-Shirts, escorted some of the stars to the "Green Room" where they waited before going on stage.

She met and talked with Sally Struthers and David Hartmann as well as "Chips", Lewis' dog. "We saw Frank Sinatra and Dionne Warwick too but nobody could get close to them," laughed Julie.

"And we met Tony Bennett in the elevator. We knew he must have been one of the stars but none of us knew who he was. We're not too well acquainted with his style," she giggled.

Then, after a quick change of clothes, Julie was on live camera at 7:50 Monday morning, proudly presenting a check to Jerry Lewis on behalf of the two student bodies.

With a farewell party Monday night,

Julie was on her way home Tuesday after spending five "of the most wonderful days of my life", in Las Vegas.

"I'd love to do it again next year because I really believe in the Telethon. But then, maybe somebody else should go so they could see it all just like I did."

"I'm still so excited, there's so much to tell everybody," said Julie who has just begun her junior year at Novi High School.

Rod McKuen to star

Schoolcraft College cultural and public affairs series has announced eight programs for 1977-78, opening with an artist-in-residence and concluding with Rod McKuen next April.

The series is sponsored by the cultural and public affairs (C&PA) committee under the direction of Richard Saunders, an assistant dean of arts and sciences at the college. Three programs with no admission charge will lead off the series.

Full-time artist and resident of Northville,

Ms. Zotto-Beltz has gallery affiliations in several east coast states and has an excellent exhibition record in Michigan.

On September 28, author Robert A. Heinlein will be on campus and will help promote the fall blood drive. He plans personal autograph sessions for donors and a rap-session that evening at 8 p.m.

Further ticket information may be obtained by calling 591-6400.

'Kojak' is the star

School kids to see Wixom police film

By NANCY DINGELDEY

It's not a Hollywood stage set in the truest sense of the word but the cameraman does yell "action" and captures the movement on Super-8 color movie film.

Location? It spreads from the Wixom Police Department to a farm about four miles north of town known as "Buffalo Acres". And the action involves a canine about as well known in these parts as Lassie and his owner.

The canine is Kojak, trained German Shepherd, and his owner-trainer Officer Roger DeClercq, both members of the Wixom Police force.

Kojak is used in regular police work, sniffing tracks, trailing, and is an ace at going after fleeing felons. During such activities, the dog responds, only to DeClercq and only to commands in a foreign language.

Kojak and DeClercq have also been the center of attraction during open field demonstrations. Put through his paces, the dog scales walls, leaps from police patrol units and races to capture a "robber".

The idea for the film came after many trips to the Walled Lake School District's Outdoor Education Center on Sleeth Road.

Together with wife Mary, DeClercq, Kojak and Tara, another trained Shepherd, the foursome make the sometimes weekly trip to the Center. There they become a nighttime program for youngsters attending the week-long live-in camp as part of their sixth grade curriculum.

"But space was limited and so was the program. The kids always said they wanted to really see what Kojak could do," said DeClercq. "It was okay for the kids to come out to the farm during the good weather but then the kids at camp during the winter couldn't see him."

And so the idea of the movie was born.

"Cast" as the fleeing felon in the movie is Officer Bruce Kirby. Manning the camera is clerk Larry Rourke. Both are with the Wixom Department.

Kirby, his right arm protected by a heavy Kapock sleeve from the strong jaws of the dog, has worked with DeClercq and Kojak for several years. "There have been a couple of times when I didn't stop quite fast enough or didn't get my arm in position and I'd get it," said Kirby.

Many have seen the Kapock fly when the dog's jaw connects with it — often with an audible "crunch".

Donning his cap and sunglasses, Kirby enters the movie scene in a speeding car, with DeClercq and Kojak in a patrol unit in pursuit, lights flashing, sirens wailing. Suddenly Kirby screeches to a halt and runs from the car.

On command from DeClercq, Kojak leaps from the patrol car and speeds after Kirby. There's no doubt as to who wins the race.

On further command, Kojak stops, holds, and guards until the cuffed prisoner is placed in the patrol unit.

Also appearing in the movie is Cimmeron, proud and beautiful member of Wixom's mounted division. Cimmeron is a trained police horse purchased from the City of Detroit when it was announced their mounted patrol was to be disbanded.

Used in crowd control, the horse responds to voice commands as well as normal methods. And because he drew much attention on the street, especially from children, Cimmeron has an affinity for "Mounds" chocolate-coconut bars and bubble gum.

With head erect and hooves raised high, the huge horse can move a crowd simply by side-stepping. Push against the horse, Cimmeron automatically responds with an even greater surge of pressure. If DeClercq should dismount, the horse will stay or advance to the word "come".

Some segments of the film are yet to be shot. Kojak is laid up with a leg injury following a rather grueling session before the cameras.

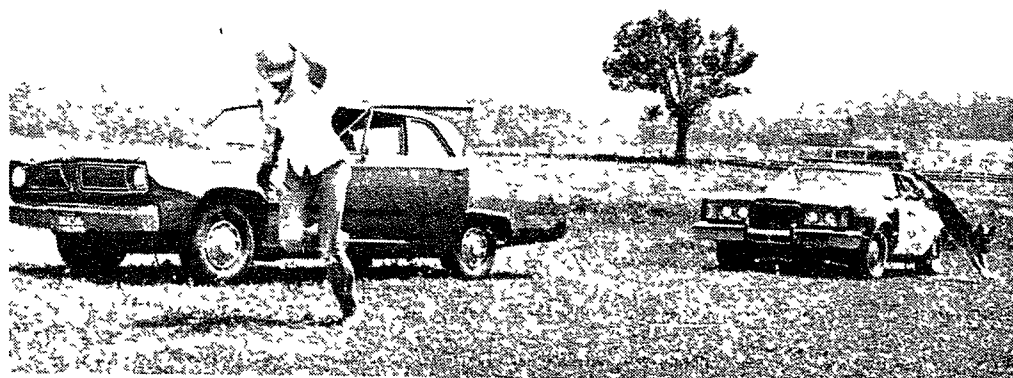

"We had him in and out of the patrol unit so many times, he pulled something in his leg that turned him lame. He should be back in action though in a couple of weeks," commented DeClercq.

After shooting is completed, the film will be edited, a script written and finally narrated on tape, probably by DeClercq himself.

And if the production schedule is right, the kids will see the "action" starting this fall and meet the "stars" in person.

With Kojak on guard, DeClercq circles the captured "crook" for the arrest

As the "crook" flees from his car, Kojak leaps into action

"Gotcha" says Kojak as "crook" Kirby assumes the position with the dog close behind

Cameraman Larry Rourke about to zoom in on a film segment

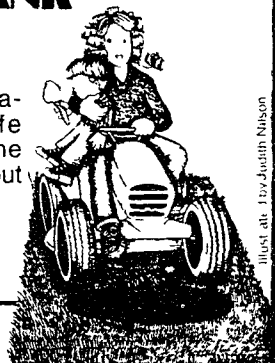

Cimmeron, retired Detroit horse and now a member of Wixom's mounted division, also appears in movie

The Light Touch

by ANN L. ROY

"I saw a big rat in my coal stove and when I went for my revolver, he ran out."
"Did you shoot him?"
"No, he was out of my range."

Don't worry if your job is small and your records few, Remember that the mighty oak was once a nut like you.

Girls when they went to swim, overdressed like Mother Hubbard.
Now, they have a bolder whim - they dress more like her cupboard

"I hear that you dropped some money in Wall Street. Were you a bull or a bear?"
"Neither, just a plain simple ass."

Now. Only 1 mg tar.

This is more than just low 'tar'. This is ultra-low 'tar'. This is Now, a cigarette with only 1 mg 'tar'. If you want to be sure you're getting ultra-low 'tar', count all the way down to Now's number 1.

The ultra-low tar cigarette.

'Enriched Flavor' Tobacco!

MERIT technology making "good taste" a reality for low tar smoking.

There is a way to pack flavor—extra flavor—into a low tar cigarette. MERIT proved it.

By cracking cigarette smoke down into separate elements, researchers were able to isolate certain "flavor-rich" ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

The result was 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco that delivers the kind of taste smokers can switch to. And stick with.

"Several months ago, I tried Merit, and have been smoking them ever since. They are the first low tar cigarette that actually tastes good!"

This kind of smoker enthusiasm is typical of what smokers are saying about the taste of MERIT.

"MERIT is the only brand in low tar to give me the flavor and satisfaction that I had been looking for."

Tivoli Fair beckons with tasty treats

This year, for the first time, Northville's own ethnic event, the Tivoli Fair, will coincide with the Northville Home Tour next Thursday, September 22.

Appropriately, both are sponsored by Northville Historical Society with the home tour co-sponsored by the Women's Association of Northville Presbyterian Church. The tour will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The fair, which will continue through Saturday, is to open with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 10 a.m. at Northville Downs. It will be attended by Marshall Fredericks, Danish consul of Detroit, who was honor guest at the first Tivoli Fair planned by Mrs. William Crump and Barbara Scantline.

Inspiration for that first arts and crafts fair came from a visit the Crumps made to the Tivoli Gardens in the heart of Copenhagen where, for more than 120 years, craft people have exhibited their talents and wares to those visiting the beautiful gardens and sampling Danish foods.

Marion Crump, who now lives in Petoskey, is planning to be on hand for the fair opening.

Others taking part in the official opening ceremonies will be Mrs. Scantlin, vice president of the historical society, William Stockhausen, president, and Mrs. Rigmor Cuolhan of Livonia, representative of the Scandinavian countries.

This year's fair chairman of decorations, Carole Pappas, has collected items from Scandinavian consulates, including flags, posters, Viking ships and soldiers. They will be used to give authentic atmosphere. Representatives of the Scandinavian countries will be wearing their colorful costumes as they sell their imports.

Danish items include a variety of dolls, Christmas decorations, and crystal. Norwegian booths will offer a wide choice of silver and pewter jewelry, while the Swedish imports include jewelry and crystal.

Food promises to be a top attraction as fair-goers will be able to munch on open face sandwiches, pancakes and meat balls just as visitors do at its counterpart in Denmark.

Tour to feature Cape Cod home

By JEANDAY

A house in Shadbrook subdivision off Seven Mile that has been admired ever since it was built as a present-day version of a classic Cape Cod, will be open on Northville's 11th annual home tour September 22.

The house was featured at the New York World's Fair as a contemporary Cape Cod design and reproduced by the subdivision developer here.

One of the first things the present owners, the Walter Rohdes, did after buying the home almost five years ago was to paint it with authentic colonial Williamsburg colors. The gray of the Payton-Randolph House in Williamsburg and Draper House green have been used effectively as trim colors. The Rohdes also installed a picket fence across the front and painted it to match.

As soon as tour visitors step into the entry that connects first-floor living areas they will see that the owners have combined Oriental, French, antique and contemporary pieces.

Naomi Rohde also has blended gold carpeting and beige tones in the living room and then contrasted with vibrant green, yellow and white in the kitchen-family room area.

"I think the word 'eclectic' is overused," she observes, "but it's probably descriptive."

Defined as "choosing the best from diverse sources," the word does fit this home, where a fine oriental screen backs the beige love seat and a corner table in the living room holds a collection of Canton pieces. Another end table is an antique washstand dating about 1840 with bamboo turnings.

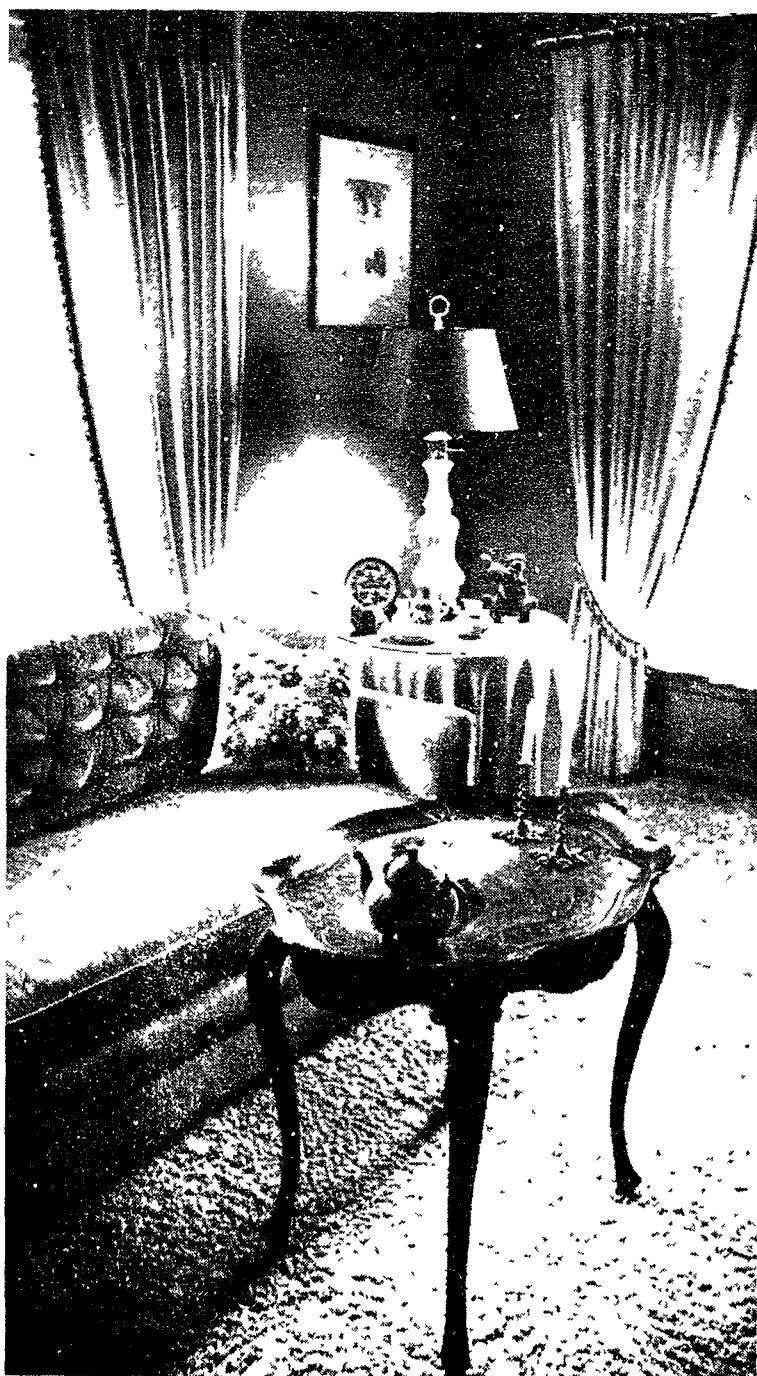

The parquet-floored entry also leads to a formal dining room and then to the open kitchen-family room area.

The Rohdes changed kitchen counter tops from turquoise to white to carry out the light-and-bright color scheme. A brick divider and fireplace wall are white. The carpet is the same lively green repeated in the bold plaid wallpaper that also picks up the yellow and beige colors used here.

An antique American armoire found in Ohio is in one corner. Baskets on top hold dried flower arrangements. A ceramic pineapple, old symbol of hospitality, decorates the kitchen table.

A feature of the house that makes Cape Cods popular is the first-floor master bedroom and bath. White carpeting and walls are background for a stylized large floral print bedspread on the king-size bed. Mrs. Rohde has

Patrick Murany born in Arizona

From Tucson, Arizona, comes announcement of the birth of Patrick Joseph Murany, first child of Mr. and Mrs. George Murany of that city. Their son weighed six pounds, fifteen ounces at birth September 3 in St. Joseph Hospital in Tucson.

"Most perfect baby ever born," reported his father, a former Northville resident. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Murany of Northville. Paternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Chester Adams of Green Valley, Arizona.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Fontana of Green Valley. The baby's mother is the former Kathleen (Kathy) Fontana. There also is a maternal great-grandmother in Illinois.

Reverend Holloman,
Barbara Lepri wed

Barbara Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lepri of East Detroit, became the bride of the Reverend Daryl P. Holloman in a 3 p.m. garden ceremony here August 28 for which they wrote their own vows.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Holloman of 320 Orchard.

The bride was given in marriage by her father in the double-ring service in the garden of the Daniel Beeler home in Northville. The Reverend Roger King performed the ceremony, taking his message from Psalm 133 on unity. He was assisted by the Reverend Timothy Paschke, who gave the Communion, and the Reverend Barry Egeler, who blessed the rings.

The bride's gown of organza over white satin featured lace embroidery on the cap sleeves and bodice. A beaded cap held her off-the-face veil.

Diane Lepri was honor maid for her sister. Bridesmaids were Sharlene Holloman, sister of the bridegroom, Chris Van Slumbrook and Donna Dalton. They wore apricot dotted Swiss-over-taffeta gowns and carnations in their hair. The bride and her attendants carried nosegays of baby roses, carnations, daisies, violets and dried flowers.

James McBride of Mt. Pleasant was best man. Ushers were Brian Holloman, brother of the bridegroom, Daniel Lepri, the bride's brother, and Benjamin Bennett of New York. They wore beige tuxedos with apricot shirts. The bridegroom's shirt was apricot-edged.

The bride's mother wore a long, green linen gown with lace trim while the bridegroom's mother was in peach chiffon over taffeta.

Guest soloists were Beverly Glenn, who sang, "Bless the Lord, Oh My Soul," Lucille and Mark Freer who sang, "We'll Climb the Hill Together" and "Without Faith It Is Impossible to Please Him." The bridal party came down the aisle to the accompaniment of Allen Knight singing "To God Be the Glory."

Immediately following their own marriage, the Reverend Holloman performed the marriage of Akpe Daniel Akpe of Nigeria to Carolyn Joyce English of Birmingham, Alabama.

Following both ceremonies a reception was given by women of the Open Door Church. Another reception for relatives followed at Althema Hall in Roseville.

After a month's honeymoon in Brighton and Tulsa, Oklahoma, the newlyweds are living in South Lyon where the bridegroom is an outreach minister for the Open Door Church.

Visnyak - Kleinfelt vows read at OLV

Cheryl Ann Visnyak wore her mother's wedding gown of imported French Alencon lace over satin as her marriage vows were solemnized with Lawrence Edward Kleinfelt August 17 at Our Lady of Victory Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zolzie Visnyak of 50855 West Nine Mile. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kleinfelt of 45115 Galway Drive.

Satin bows marked the pews. Baskets of snapdragons and white mums, banks of palms and candelabra decorated the altar for the 5 o'clock High Nuptial Mass performed by the Reverend Father Schaden. The altar bouquet was for the Blessed Mother.

The fitted bodice of the bride's gown featured a portrait neckline outlined with iridescents. The long sleeves tapered to points at the wrists. The front of the seven-gore bouffant skirt was cut in three tiers with scalloped edges embroidered with iridescents. The back extended into a four-and-a-half yard draped train. Her French illusion veil was appliqued with Alencon lace and brilliants.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Leonard Christoff of Detroit, had designed the wedding gown.

Cheryl carried a cascade bouquet of roses, stephanotis and carnations.

Joyce Regintek was maid of honor. Mrs. Gary Kleinfelt, sister-in-law of the bride, Ann Visnyak, sister of the bride, and Deanna Balko of South Lyon were bridesmaids. Junior bridesmaids were the bride's cousins, Michelle and Renee Trombley of Washington.

Their turquoise blue sheer gowns were fashioned with portrait necklines, and bouffant skirts. Dried flower hair arrangements matched the dresses. They carried colonial bouquets of multicolor summer flowers tied with ribbon streamers.

Brian Gawlas was best man.

Groomsmen were Gary Kleinfelt of Westland, Robb Gray of Livonia and Mark Comins of Drayton Plains. The bride's brothers, Jon and Joel were junior groomsmen.

Maris Long of the Detroit Symphony sang "Sunrise and Sunset" and "Sabbath Prayer."

The bride's mother wore a coral dress with chiffon capelet while the bridegroom's mother chose a jacket dress featuring eyelet embroidery.

Two hundred-fifty guests sat down to a wedding dinner reception at the Raleigh House in Southfield. Guests included the bride's cousin of Eferding, Austria, who flew here as a wedding surprise.

The newlyweds are Schoolcraft College students. The new Mrs. Kleinfelt is studying to be a nurse while her husband is in business administration. They are making their home in South Lyon.

In Our Town

College benefit's a gourmet treat

By JEAN DAY

If there's any doubt that the summer lull has ended, take a look at what's pending in the next two weeks. September never has been more activity-filled.

In the first week of autumn you can go dinner-dancing, get acquainted with other newcomers, have fun at a fair and make a day of it at the annual home tour with luncheons at the Mill Race and area churches.

A fall dinner dance is being held from 7 to 11 p.m. Saturday, September 24, in the Waterman Campus Center at Schoolcraft College by the Schoolcraft College Foundation to benefit the student loan fund and provide scholarships.

The college is known for its culinary events which seldom get publicized as tickets are sold as soon as available. The dinner dance is open to the public with tickets at $15 a person at tables for eight. The menu includes a "help yourself" salad bar with a sit-down dinner of roast prime rib of beef, oven-brown potatoes, fresh Brussel sprouts, rolls, choice of beverage and fresh strawberry shortcake.

At each table there will be a carafe of red wine and one of white as part of the dinner, reports Philip Ogilvie, a long-time Northville member on the foundation. Tickets may be obtained by calling him or the college.

Newcomers play games

"Games People Play" is the theme for the Northville Newcomers couples party from 9 a.m. to 12:30 a.m. Friday, September 23, at Our Lady of Victory Social Hall. "This party is one of the best ways for our new members to get acquainted," according to Beverly Walsh, new president of the group that welcomes newcomers to the community.

Reservations are limited to 35 couples and should be made with Linda Parker, 348-1093 or 569-3250, by this Saturday. Cost is $5 a couple with each couple attending bringing a passing dish.

Have a home tour lunch

"Join us for lunch" suggest women of Northville United Methodist and St. Paul's Lutheran churches to tour-goers next Thursday, September 22. With six homes to be open, the largest number in the 11-year history of the tour, visitors will want to take a luncheon intermission.

Both church groups will offer maurice salad, roll and butter, coffee or tea and a choice of homemade pie from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. for $2.50. Because tickets are limited, it may be wise to call either church ahead of time for reservations. Claire Kelly and Paper 'n' Spice also have Methodist luncheon tickets as well as home tour tickets, which are $3.50.

Northville Historical Society members will sell box lunches at $2.50 at the Mill Race Village the day of the tour.

Northville Handweavers' Guild will hold demonstrations and have items for sale in the weaver's cottage now painted rust-brown and tan in the village.

Questers meet this week

Both No. VI Station and Base Line Questers have scheduled first fall meetings of the antiques groups this week. They're salad luncheons.

No. VI Station Questers will meet at 11:30 a.m. today at the home of president Carolyn Kleinsmith in Plymouth. Recipes from the salads served will be exchanged and an antique auction will be held from collectibles donated by members.

Base Line Questers will meet at 12:30 p.m. this Thursday at the Old Base Line home of Mrs. John Burkman.

Designer Diane Von Furstenberg at Twelve Oaks:

'Women feel different in a dress'

A roomful of area women, most of whom wore pants, waited up to an hour and 40 minutes last Thursday to see the European-born designer credited with putting women back into dresses, and her new fall clothes and cosmetics.

Many arrived an hour before the announced 3 p.m. starting time for the Diane Von Furstenberg appearance and show in the Woodward Shop of Hudson's at Twelve Oaks Mall.

When the designer who made it to fashion fame on the strength of a simple jersey wrap dress was delayed at a radio station, few left.

While new, softened versions of her famous wrap dress and newer two-piece blouson designs were on display, audience interest focused on the dark Belgian-born designer who arrived in her hollow-heart print design in vivid purple — size 6.

"Basically, I'm very much of a dress person," she told her audience of women, augmented by a few men who paused in passing.

"In a dress a woman walks differently and feels different."

But the first question from her suburban audience was, "Do you design any pants?"

"Occasionally," was the answer, "but there are no pants at all in this fall collection."

She explained later that the pants she has done were in cotton in resort collections and pointed out that the jersey used in the dresses shown does not lend itself to pant designs.

The fabric of all the dresses was the same acrylic jersey, which, the designer mentioned several times, is washable.

The patterns were new, and the designs were softer.

"My dresses fit everybody," the designer commented, as models displayed her now-classic wrap dress with collar and cuffs and then the softened version with wrist-gathered sleeves and no collar.

Perched on a high stool, Ms. Von Furstenberg described each dress briefly in a low voice with only a slight accent. She also plugged her sunglasses, scarves, jewelry and cosmetics, including her fragrance, Tatiana, named for her six year old daughter.

Her labels do not carry the title from her marriage to Prince Egon Von Furstenberg she first used as she entered the garment business. She's now separated and living with her young children on a farm in Connecticut.

In person she's thinner than many pictures of the 30 year-old designer would indicate. But the high cheekbones, black eyes and dark hair parted in the center and hanging long and full were familiar. The hair is definitely kinky-curly now.

She's bone-thin with long legs shown to advantage in dark hose and high, high-heeled sandals.

"This is a very good dress for all kinds of bodies," she observed as a model twirled in a blouson-top dress with flare skirt in black with rose print. The same prints are used on different designs.

The open-heart design about the size of a quarter is done in red and blue as well as purple, although Diane Von Furstenberg commented, "We're going into purple. I believe very much in vibrant, beautiful purple."

She acknowledged the popularity of the cowl neckline with one dress and gave the peasant look to a draw-string neck style.

"Take the belt off," she instructed a model wearing a loose-line jersey that flared slightly from the bosom.

"Somehow," she told her audience, "I prefer it without the belt although it can be worn with or without. It hides what it's supposed to hide and shows what it should."

Most of the Von Furstenberg dresses, as the designer claims, are "very good for all kinds of bodies."

It's the feminine look, sometimes called sexy by fashion writers, of clingy, soft fabric in simple uncluttered lines that brought the designer the title Princess of Fashion. Her rags and riches story put her on the cover of Newsweek in March, 1976.

Last year Vogue also told the story of the pretty Jewish daughter of a Belgian businessman who eventually married the Austrian prince and lived in New York. She took her dress designs to a Vogue editor and was encouraged to go into business.

Because the dresses were wearable and well priced, success came fast. The dresses shown last week still were in the $76 to $105 range, well below most designer fashions.

A new challis-look print with gathered cuffs was $90 while a two-piece blouson was $76.

As soon as the models finished showing off her dresses, she slid off the high stool, signed some autographs and moved to Hudson's Aisles of Beauty where she and an assistant demonstrated on willing members of the audience, mostly in their twenties, how to apply the make-up that accents both eyes and mouth.

If you don't think you can invest in a Von Furstenberg dress, there's the floral-scent Tatiana perfume that hints of gardenia, jasmine and honeysuckle for $14 in purse size. Everyone in the audience last week received a free sample of the perfume that's already a big success.

Then, at rock bottom, there's the new deep lipsticks, like Japanese red berry for $3.75. On Diane Von Furstenberg it looked great.

"We're Still The One— And Having Fun!"

Here comes another year for the Home Tour and we at McAllister's are still number one in assisting with the decor for the charmers on visitation this year.

Lady Liz has most of the "honey-do" items completed to freshen her "Victorian Charming". Take note of the imported lace curtains. We had the fabric shipped from Germany & Lady Liz pushed the treadle well into the wee hours to stitch and sew them together. Take note also of the charming floral prints from "Waverly" used on her porches for summer entertaining. The Victorian stripe used on the chair in the parlor was also imported from France, arrived stateside just in time.

Midge Karrer has another "winner" this year. Each home they move to—and they have been around—is nicer than the last one. We particularly had fun pushing furniture around in the living room—great sport. Midge did the Kittinger Secretary alone. What a gal! Our reward—a dinner at the "Round Table" in Plymouth—with their good company! The hanging lamp in the living room—a Frederick Cooper original—only took 3½ months to get here! Then it came with no chain for the swag. Last reports had it, husband Gene was having chain forged and hammered at Ford Motor Co. (joke, Henry!).

Here's a tip for the committee: one of our design consultants, Bobbie O'Dell, lives out West Main in a home that was also on tour previously. However, since she has been living there, the house has finally come into its own with a complete interior re-vamping. It is now one-of-a-kind and our daughters Dawn and Diann are trying to have her put it on tour next year. Get on it, committee!

Another tip for the committee: you have heard of Mr. "C" on television—well, Mrs. "C" of Northville is completing the re-doing of that cute little place on the corner with the little white picket fence around it. Do you know the one we mean? Well, she lived in a Carriage House in the Irish Hills of Northville and that home was also on tour—two times. Diann and Mrs. "C" really got that little place together fast, but then she deserves the best of service for such a grand lady. You may call us at 349-0127 if you are having problems figuring this one out. We really do not expect any calls.

So, if you need any help in securing merchandise which catches your eye on the tour—we at McAllister's know all the designer lines and will be glad to assist you—for a fee—like a dinner at the "Round Table" or any other little place you might have in mind.

Have a ball, but don't steal too many ideas!

bordered the white draperies with matching print fabric from Nettle Creek.

Home tour visitors will be invited to view the upstairs rooms. The rooms, thanks to four skylights, are delightfully bright.

Daughter Amy's bedroom boasts an antique iron bed with brass trim. It is painted white with coverlet and dust ruffle, as well as table skirt and draperies, of long-stemmed rose print on white.

The wallpaper is a green-and-white trellis pattern. Amy, 20, now is away at Western Michigan University and has taken some of her things with her, but there's still a pillow from the 1920's atop a trunk at the foot of the bed.

The guest room is done in pale celadon green as a background for the family's collection of botanical prints that date about 1830. There are 12 in this room.

The upstairs bath is decorated with an unusual Oriental monotone print. Rohde's study also is upstairs. Since their son, Mark, is entering graduate school at Harvard and daughter, Melissa, is married and living in New York, they do not need as much bedroom space.

Tour visitors will exit from the rear of the family room to the deck the Rohdes have built to take advantage of the hillside view. It's decorated with clusters of flower pots filled with green plants like those used in almost every room to add to the light, airy look of this home.

This home, along with five others, will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday, September 22, on the tour co-sponsored by the Northville Historical Society and the Women's Association of Northville Presbyterian Church.

Tickets are $3.50 and will be sold the day of the tour at the Mill Race Village, (also to be open), the church and Northville Downs where the Tivoli Fair is being held September 22 through 24.

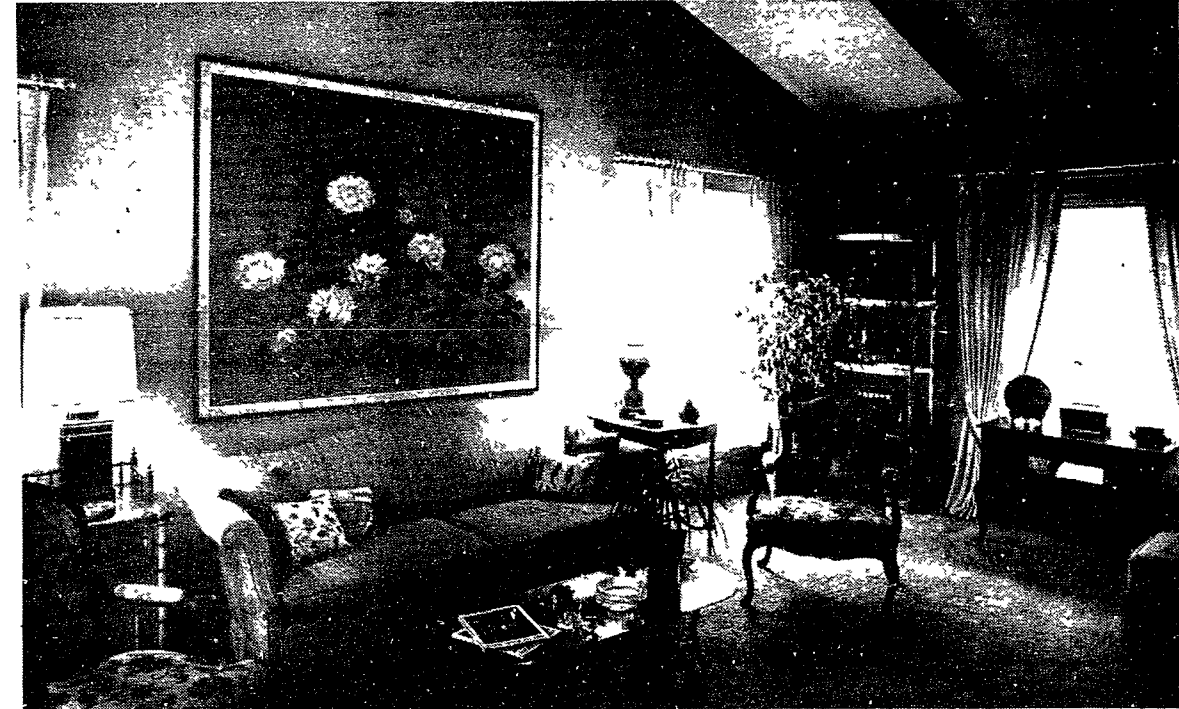

Tickets area available now at the following Northville locations: Paper 'n' Spice, Needlepoint by Donna, Et Cetera Shop, and Clair Kelly, and at the Mill Race Village Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m.

Philip Kennedy takes bride in Kentucky

Philip VanPelt Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Kennedy, former Northville residents of Fonner Court West now living in Prospect, Kentucky, claimed Eleanor Elaine James as his bride in a summer ceremony in Glasgow, Kentucky.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. James of Glasgow.

They exchanged vows in a 3 p.m. service in Glasgow First United Methodist Church and greeted friends afterward at a reception at the Holiday Inn.

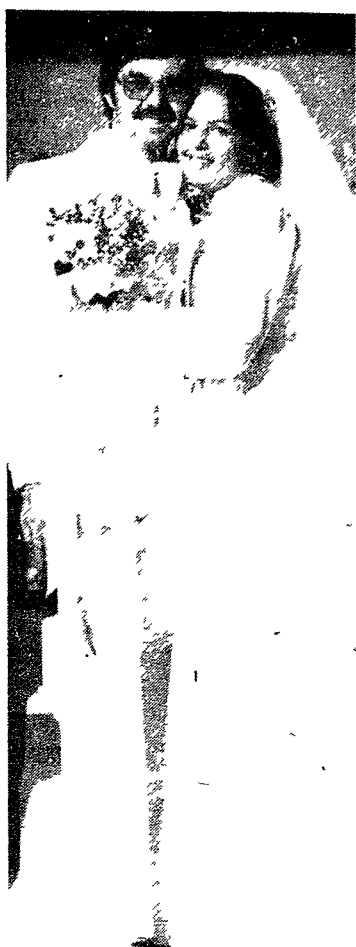

The bride's floor-length gown of chiffon over crepe featured sheer chiffon sleeves with venise lace motifs. The cathedral veil also was adorned with the silk embroidery. Spring flowers formed her colonial bouquet.

Attending the bride were Jean Reynolds Leech, Rita Young, Carole Dawn Holmes, Susie Laichas and Judy Bryant. Mike Brandenburg was best man. Ushers were Harold James, Cliff Anderson, Michael Weller and Mark Valle.

The bride's mother wore a pastel yellow polyester dress while Mrs. Kennedy wore a light blue polyester knit. The bridesmaid's sister, Mrs. Kennedy Dill, of Louisville, Kentucky, assisted at the reception, which featured a five-tier cake.

After a 10-day honeymoon to San Francisco and Hawaii, the newlyweds are living in Miamisburg, Ohio.

The bride was graduated from Western Kentucky University in May and was affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi. Her husband was graduated from Central Michigan University where he affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Small Swedish meatballs, call "SMA Kottbullar", are a typical treat.

Mrs. Cuolahan was in Northville last week to help plan the fun ethnic event. She shares her meatball recipe:

SMA KOTTBULLAR (Small Swedish Meatballs)

- 1 Tbsp. butter
- 4 Tbsp. finely chopped onion
- 1 large boiled potato, mashed (1 cup)
- 3 Tbsp. fine dry bread crumbs
- 1 egg
- 1 Tbsp. finely chopped parsley
- 2 Tbsp. butter

- 1 lb. ground beef, lean
- one-third C. heavy cream
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 Tbsp. vegetable oil
- 1 Tbsp. flour
- 3/4 C. light or heavy cream

In a small frying pan, melt the butter. Add the onions and cook for about 5 minutes.

In a large bowl, combine the onions, mashed potato, bread crumbs, meat, cream, salt, eggs and parsley. Knead vigorously until all the ingredients are well blended. Shape into small balls about 1 inch in diameter.

Arrange the meatballs in one layer on a baking sheet, cover them with plastic wrap and chill for at least one hour before cooking.

Over high heat, melt the 2 Tbsps. of butter and 2 Tbsps. of oil in a heavy skillet.

Add the meatballs, 8 to 10 at a time. Reduce heat and fry the balls on all sides. In 8 to 10 minutes the meatballs should be brown.

Transfer all the finished batch to a casserole or baking dish and keep warm in a 200 degrees oven.

To make the sauce:
Remove from the heat, pour off all of the fat from the pan, and stir in 1 Tbsp. flour.
Quickly stir in 3/4 cup of light cream, or the heavy cream, and boil the sauce over moderate heat for 2 to 3 minutes, stirring constantly, until it is thick and smooth.

Carrying along the tradition of the fair, the historical society will have a wide variety of exhibitors.

Fair hours will be noon to 9 p.m. next Thursday; 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, September 23; and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, September 24.

Admission will be $1.50 for adults. Children alone will be 50 cents. Ample parking will be available as will baby-sitting.

Groups slate fall programs

Judith Kay McNea, known as an outstanding Michigan transparent watercolorist, will open the fall season of Three Cities Art Club at 8 p.m. today with a demonstration at Plymouth Community Credit Union at 550 South Harvey in Plymouth.

Members also are to bring a piece of their own work based "summer inspiration."

Ms. McNea is to demonstrate her techniques and complete a floral still life during the program. She is a many-time exhibitor and winner in juried art shows throughout the state.

Presently she lives in Southfield. Her background has been varied. She has studied often at the Cleveland Institute of Arts with Henry Henche, noted watercolor artist. She became a greeting card designer in Cleveland. She also held the position of Ceraphic design consultant in Melbourne, Australia. She conducts art courses in Southfield currently and works in her studio.

The program and meeting are open to interested area residents at no charge. Club meetings are held monthly at the credit union by area artists.

Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will have a sandwich luncheon at 1 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Robert Rosbalt, 1441 Linden in Plymouth. "Indian Baskets" will be the program topic.

Northville Mothers' Club will open its new year with a business meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the home of Claire Lincoln, 18910 Beck Road.

Orient Chapter, Past Matrons, will meet at 12:30 p.m. next Wednesday, September 21, for dessert and business. Acting as hostess will be Mrs. Fred Bonjour, the former Evelyn Patterson, at her home in Chesaning.

Library features needlework show

"Fabric Fantasy," a collection of wall-hangings by The Needlethreaders, now is on display at the Northville Public Library.

All 32 designs in this exhibit are based on illustrations from children's books.

The Needlethreaders are a group of women from Oakland County who select the designs and fabrics, then piece them together by hand to make these colorful decorations.

Many of the wall-hangings are for sale. The exhibit, which will be there through September, was paid for by the Friends of the Library.

Proclaim week honoring LWV

Governor William Milliken has proclaimed September 18 through 24 as League of Women Voters Week in Michigan in appreciation of the league's continuing concern for good government and service to the community.

Nationally, the league was able to present the presidential candidate debates to the public due to its long history of providing non-partisan and unbiased information on candidates and issues.

Locally, the league sought to fulfill its purpose to encourage the informed and active participation of citizens in the government process by presenting candidate nights and information on issues to the public before each election.

Also the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi collected primary election results for ABC and NBC.

The league seeks to bring about improvements in such areas as energy, problems of large cities, land use, the United Nations, education, election laws, and juvenile courts.

Seeking legislative action in these areas is the last step in the league process which begins with a thorough study and evaluation by the members of specific concerns at all levels of government.

The League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi in the past year actively supported Proposal A banning disposable glass bottles, the Equal Rights Amendment, and opposed Proposal C to limit all state taxes to 8.3 percent.

Anyone interested in joining the league may contact Lesa Buckland, 449 Hill, 349-0773.
