

Multi-event day Thursday will bring crowds here

Be prepared.

For about 12 hours tomorrow there will be traffic jams throughout the Northville community as one of the most event-filled days in local history dawns.

The congestion will be for good causes — to benefit Northville Historical Society and local churches.

If this Thursday is an autumn day with its fair share of sunshine, or at least no rain, as several hundred local women involved in projects hope fervently, there will be record crowds.

For the first time there will be six homes open on the 11th annual home tour from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets at $3.50 are being sold at the Presbyterian Church, Northville Downs and Mill Race Village. Tour is co-sponsored by the church women and the historical society.

Tivoli Fair, also a project of the historical society, will open at noon and run until 9 p.m. at Northville Downs after a ribbon-cutting ceremony with Danish Consul Marshall Fredericks at 10 a.m. Fair continues Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. with $1 admission, senior citizens half price.

Northville Handweavers' Guild will hold an exhibit and sale from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the weavers' cottage in Mill Race Village off Griswold. No admission. Continues with same hours Friday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Mill Race Village buildings will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday without charge.

Lunch at $2.50 will be served from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. at three different locations:

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 201 Elm, will serve up to 400 lunches with tickets sold at the Mill Race and at the door.

Northville Methodist Church, Eight Mile at Taft, will serve the same maurice salad lunch and is participating for the first time.

Mill Race docents will offer a box lunch to be eaten on the grounds, if pleasant, or in the old library.

With a little bit of sunshine and luck, records for attendance and profits will be broken. Last year's home tour netted $5,000.

Where else can you tour a half-dozen different homes, have lunch and visit a colorful crafts fair for only $7?

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Blacktopping approved by 3-1 vote

New picket fence is up at Mill Race Historical Village

Work slated this fall in Northville Estates

Bids will be taken Friday and if they are found acceptable, blacktopping of Northville Estates subdivision streets will be ordered immediately.

That's the word residents of the subdivision received Monday as a jammed-packed audience turned out for an assessment hearing on the proposed resurfacing work.

With all but one or two of the subdivision property owners expressing support for the project, council by a vote of 3-1 adopted a resolution of determination to get the paving underway.

The dissenting vote was cast by Paul Folino, who supported the paving but took the position that the entire project should be paid by the city.

Council, however, opted for a 75-25 split of the costs, with benefiting property owners paying 75 percent of the estimated $102,800 cost and the city the remainder.

The cost is to be assessed on a per-lot basis, approximating $600 each.

Unless a property owner chooses to pay the entire assessment immediately, it will be spread over a 10-year period at 6-percent interest.

In response to questioning from the audience, City Manager Steven Walters explained that "bids are due Friday, and if the right bidder comes in with the right price" it is the city's intention to have the work done yet this fall.

If a scheduling problem becomes evident, the work might be delayed until spring. "But we'd rather not do that," he said.

Major objection to the planned project came from Dennis Roux, who took the position that the city should "look at the big picture" including sewer and storm drains as well as paving.

He reminded council that in previous years it had argued that resurfacing of subdivision streets was inappropriate until after storm and sanitary sewers are installed so that underground water can be removed to insure a good road base.

However, City Attorney Harold Penn, who in years past had cautioned council about moving ahead on resurfacing because he suspected the road base was inadequate, admitted he had misjudged the adequacy of the base.

Penn said 26 test borings had been made within the past two weeks and that they showed that the base was adequate except in a relatively few places. Rebuilding of the road bed where needed is included in the bid specifications, he said.

Nevertheless, Roux stuck to his original premise, contending that the test borings were made during a relatively dry period and would not accurately gauge the seriousness of the water-drainage problem.

Councilman Stanley Johnston, who noted that Roux has a personal interest in seeing storm and sanitary sewers put Sewer rates to take leap

A proposed City of Northville sewer rate increase, reflecting an increase of a court-ordered Detroit increase, will go to public hearing October 3.

The rate, if approved, would approximate 71 percent for sewage service, and an increase in the overall sewer and water bill ranging from 18 percent for smaller users to 21 percent for large users.

More specifically, the average customer using 20,000 gallons of water bi-monthly (sewer rates are tied to water consumption) could expect his sewer bill to increase by more than $6.

Besides reflecting the increase passed on to the suburbs, as a result of a recent federal court order, the new rates also will provide repair and reconstruction revenues for the city.

The latter is expected to approximate 25 percent of the total overall increase. It would produce about $17,000 annually for repair and reconstruction.

Decision to establish a repair and reconstruction account was spurred by the city's experience this past year in facing an unexpected cost in rebuilding of a collapsed sewer at Seven Mile and Rogers Street.

Council hopes to build a reserve with the rate increase to deal with similar repairs in the future.

In explaining the rate increase, City Manager Steven Walters said the county increased its rates by 65.4

IT LOOKS like a two-man race for the office of mayor in Northville. Councilman Wallace Nichols, who had been considering running for the seat, announced Monday that he will seek election to the two-year council seat. That leaves Councilman Paul Folino and ex-councilman Paul Vernon vying for the seat. Three candidates — Burton DeRusha, Louise Cutler and Dewey Gardner — indicated they will seek a four-year council seat (two are up for election in November). John Stilson has not yet indicated if he will run for the single two-year council seat or a four-year seat. Deadline for filing is Monday, October 3 at 5 p.m. Nominating petitions are available at the city hall.

MARK Thursday, October 27 on your calendar, advises the League of Women Voters, which has set that date for its public forum involving candidates for the city council and mayor. Candidates will speak and answer questions at 8 p.m. in the school board meeting room on that date.

TRYOUTS FOR Northville High School's fall production of "Charley's Aunt" will be held next week at the high school auditorium, according to director Kurt Kinde. Times are Monday and Tuesday from 3-6 p.m. and Tuesday from 7-8 p.m. Other times can be arranged, said Kinde. The comedy has six male and four female roles available.

Downtown site slated for new Eagles aerie

Plans for construction of the Fraternal Order of Eagles lodge on its original South Center Street site have been revived.

Revised plans were recommended for approval by the Northville Historical Society last week. That recommendation goes now to the Northville Planning Commission.

City officials earlier had encouraged Eagles officials to locate outside the central business district and had joined with township official in attempting to locate a suitable site.

Attempts to secure the former Levitt office building on Gerald Avenue, however, fell through and the Eagles decided to build on the original site on South Center adjacent to Mary Alexander Court.

The lodge building that formerly stood on the site was destroyed by fire last December.

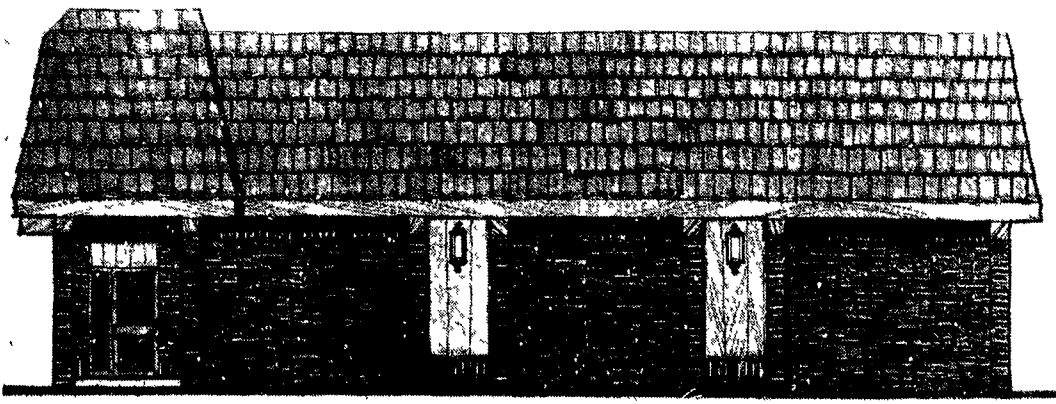

Revised plans for the new building call for a two-story brick structure, with 42 feet frontage on Center Street and 32 feet long Mary Alexander Court.

Part of the Eagles' land adjacent to Mary Alexander Court is being acquired by the city for widening of this street.

One of the matters to come before the planning commission as it takes up the plan at its next meeting will concern parking. Parking requirements will be contingent upon the use of the second floor.

As yet no decision as to its use has been disclosed, although it has been suggested that it might be used for office purpose or possibly an assembly room.

Northville principals still without contract

Northville school principals have a pretty good idea about what affect inflation is having on Americans.

That's because they are paying 1977 prices with money earned on two-year old wages.

Northville principals and assistant principals are members of the Northville Association of School Administrators which is still trying to ratify its initial contract with the school district.

Negotiating began in the 1976-77 school year but no contract agreement was reached. Now the 1977-78 school year has begun but the administrators are still receiving 1975-76 salaries.

"We sure are anxious to get a contract," said Amerman Elementary School Principal William Craft. "We think we are pretty close."

In addition to the building principals, NASA also represents six building supervisors for the Institution Special Education Program.

There have been no bargaining talks for about three weeks although the school's Director of Personnel Burton Knighton expected the next session to be sometime this week.

Knighton, starting his second year at Northville, had four contracts to negotiate this year. Two — with the teachers and with the custodians, bus drivers and cafeteria workers — were settled with three-year contracts.

Two others — first-time contracts with NASA and the ISEP aides — were still unsettled when school began.

Craft said that some of the main areas being debated are length of contract, evaluation procedures and number of working days.

Administrators would like to continue the annually-renewing two-year contracts. They would also like an evaluation procedure spelled out with specific steps followed before an administrator could be dismissed.

This issue came to a head last May when high school Principal Michael Tarpinian was reassigned to the classroom. NASA claimed that Tarpinian was not given sufficient notice that his job was in jeopardy.

Following a closed meeting with Superintendent Raymond Spear and Tarpinian, the school board upheld the reassignment.

The principals, who now work 220 days a year, would also like to have their work year reduced so that it more closely approximates the 197 to 205 days worked by most principals in neighboring districts, said Craft.

Craft indicated that the union was willing to exchange the extra days off in lieu of larger pay raises.

"We know the financial situation of the school district," said Craft. "We'll get the job done in fewer days."

A shed and three unoccupied trailers were destroyed by an early Sunday morning blaze

Gerald Avenue trailers destroyed

Victim, township firemen disagree on response time, performance

The newly-formed Northville Township Fire Department received its first criticism from an irate customer last Sunday.

Destroyed in an early morning (4 a.m.) blaze were three unoccupied mobile homes used for storage and a shed.

Leon Bonner, the owner of the property in a sunken area off Gerald Avenue, claimed that one or more of the trailers could have been saved if not for "the most disgraceful performance of a fire department I've ever seen."

Bonner, who lives at 547 Fairbrook, said the department was late and unorganized.

"The ineptness was incredible," he said. "It looks to me that if your house is on fire and you've called the township fire department, you'd better get your garden hose ready."

Northville city and township were served by the same fire department until September 1 when the township formed its own unit.

Township fire officials said the blaze went too long undiscovered for any of the structures to be saved and praised their men for their work.

"I am proud of my men," said Chief Robert Toms. "I think they did exactly what they were supposed to do."

Tuesday, Toms said the state fire marshal's arson team had been called in to investigate the fire.

Captain Donald Riffenburg, a 25-year veteran of fire fighting who was in charge that night, said all the mobile homes and shed were "completely involved" in flames "a hundred feet high" when the first truck arrived 11 minutes after the 3:44 a.m. alarm.

If the fire had stopped at that point, "he'd have the same damage he has now," he said.

A trailer about 20 feet from the blaze was protected from harm by a water wall, said Riffenburg.

"He (Bonner) should be thrilled" by the fire department's performance, added Toms.

Bonner, however, is not thrilled but angry and said he plans to take his complaint to the township board. He already expressed his displeasure to Supervisor Grier at the fire site on Sunday afternoon.

According to Bonner, he was notified of the fire by one of his tenants living nearby at 3:45 a.m., the same time that the fire department was notified.

He said he went directly to the scene, but that firemen did not arrive until "at least 20 minutes later."

He charged that the first pumper did not appear until 4:22 and said equipment was delayed because a truck waited for a train to cross Seven Mile Road rather than taking an alternate route under the viaduct on Wallis — the street leading to Gerald Avenue from Main Street.

Once at the site, he contended, firemen were unable to hook up hoses until 4:30 because of the wrong connections.

Fire department records do not agree with Bonner's account.

Official reports say that the call was logged at 3:44 a.m. and that the first fire engine left the department at 3:53 and arrived at the fire four minutes later. A second truck arrived at 3:59.

The two trucks carried a total of 1400 gallons of water which were immediately dumped on the blaze to bring it under control, according to Toms.

Firemen then decided to "relay" water by pumping it from a fire hydrant to the blaze via the two trucks.

Such a procedure should take "12 to 14 minutes, 20 at the outside," said Toms. It was made difficult Sunday, he said, because the fire was in a hard-to-reach location.

While the fire fighters were setting up the relay, the department's 3000-gallon pumper arrived at 4:20 a.m., five minutes after leaving the station, according to official reports.

Toms said that Bonner apparently thought the department should quit the fire and empty the tanker's contents on the fire.

But, said Toms, the departments hoses could have drained the 3000 gallon-tank in less than five minutes "without making a dent," on the fire.

"You can't put three trailers and a shed out with the water you are carrying," agreed Riffenburg. "You've got to have a hydrant."

Riffenburg said one of the trucks was held up by a train "for a couple of minutes" and he said there was no more than a "30 second" delay because of worn threads on one of the hoses.

Toms said the department did its job by preventing the fire from spreading. Both he and Riffenburg said the trailers and shed could not have been saved.

No damage estimate has been set for the articles that were stored in the structures. Riffenburg said there were propane gas tanks in the trailers but, other than shooting flames back at the fire fighters, they did no damage.

Bonner estimated his loss at $10,000, which he called "unrecoverable." He said that in addition to the trailers there were various building materials stored inside.

The sunken two-acre area used for storage purposes by Bonner is located behind mobile homes on Gerald Avenue and is adjacent to the railroad track. Supervisor Grier noted Sunday afternoon when he visited the site with Bonner that it is most difficult for fire equipment to reach the site.

Curriculum is school's first priority

Curriculum, facilities and morale will form the "Big Three" objectives for the Northville school district this year.

The Northville school board chose those three areas from a list of 12 "major" priorities during a study session held Monday night at the central administration building.

The board still has to rate the remaining nine major priorities in order to let Superintendent Raymond Spear know where he should be concentrating his efforts during the present school year.

Spear, who is in the second year of a three-year contract, will be judged partially in relation to these objectives when his performance is formally evaluated in March.

The board is also developing a new evaluation form for the superintendent which it will use for the first time this school year.

Emphasis on curriculum will combine ongoing studies by the school administration and faculty with reports from the North Central Evaluation team and the Citizens Curriculum Council.

Curriculum took up the bulk of Monday's discussion about goals and board members indicated that they considered this topic to head the list of objectives.

Running a strong second was school facilities, an area that ranges from budgeting enough money for sufficient capital purchases to insuring the proper day-to-day maintenance of the district's seven K-12 buildings.

Morale — a far-reaching topic that includes students, teachers, other employees, administrators and the public — was also given a high priority.

Other areas in the "primary" goals are evaluation procedures, language classes, public information, public confidence, financial planning, high school operations, calendar, summer tax collections and discipline.

Foundry Flask strike idles 85

A strike at Northville's Foundry Flask and Equipment Company will probably enter its fourth week on Friday.

About 85 members of the Mechanics Education Society of America struck the Cady Street plant on September 1, the expiration date of a three-year contract.

Company President, John Weber said he could not predict if there would be a quick settlement.

Robert Wynne, MESA's representative at the bargaining table, is in Ohio until the middle of this week. A union spokesman said talks would not resume until he returned.

Foundry Flask and Equipment Company, located at 456 East Cady, supplies foundry flasks to the automotive industry.

Count's in on survey of Napier

Results of a September 7 vehicle count and speed survey indicate 874 vehicles — or one approximately every two minutes — traveled Napier Road between Six and Seven Mile Roads during the 24-hour period.

The survey was taken as a result of complaints by Napier Road residents of heavy truck traffic going to and from the nearby landfill and gravel pit operated by Holloway Sand and Gravel Co.

These and other findings will be used in a future evaluation to be done by representatives from the Wayne County Road Commission and local and state police departments. The meeting should take place within the next month, said Russell Harrison, engineer of traffic safety for the road commission.

Harrison admitted survey results could be low because of the Detroit garbage strike during that week.

"The garbage strike could have been a factor," he said. But he added after studying the results, he may ask that another count and survey be done.

"If there is any question, we will repeat the survey," Harrison said.

Although the vehicle rate may seem high, it could actually be a low estimate for the daytime traffic rate when the landfill and gravel pit are open for business.

No breakdown between heavy trucks, light trucks and cars was apparently made, according to Harrison, although the truck traffic was the problem raised by the residents living in that area.

Traffic on Seven Mile Road, east of Napier Road, totaled 2902 vehicles and west of Napier the total was 2555 for the same time period.

The disparity in the figures between the Napier and Seven Mile count could be due to different routes taken by the trucks after leaving the landfill and gravel pit, said Ralph Pierce, a county traffic safety spokesman.

A speed survey was also done between 1-2 p.m. on September 7. However, according to Pierce, peak hours for that area are between 7-8 a.m. and 4-5 p.m.

The survey, taken on Napier Road halfway between Six and Seven Mile Roads, indicated one-half of the vehicles going northbound traveled 30 miles per hour with southbound traffic averaging 25 miles per hour.

Eighty-five per cent of the vehicles traveling north went 36 miles per hour or less and 85 percent of the traffic going south traveled 31 miles per hour or less, according to the survey.

The combined speed for both sides of the road traveled by 85 percent of the drivers was 35 miles per hour or less.

Thus, the recommended speed for that stretch of road may be 35 miles per hour, taking into consideration other factors such as road conditions and visibility, according to Harrison. Presently, the road has no posted speed limit, which allows vehicles to legally travel up to 55 miles per hour.

Northville Township Supervisor Wilson Grier has sent a letter to the road commission asking that the speeds on the gravelled portions of Beck, Ridge, Six Mile and Napier Roads be posted at 30 to 35 miles per hour also.

Bill's in hopper

He sees DeHoCo as state prison

House Judiciary Vice Chairman Richard Fessler Monday introduced legislation appropriating $6 million for the purchase and renovation of the Detroit House of Corrections in Wayne County for a medium security state penitentiary.

Fessler, who spearheaded the drive to convert Kenceloe Air Force Base into a prison, requested the legislation June 17 after meeting with representatives of Mayor Coleman Young's office and touring the DeHoCo facility.

The Fessler bill would appropriate $4.5 million to acquire the DeHoCo building and land and $1.5 million to complete plans and construction and cover the cost of furnishings and security measures.

"Mayor Young has assured me my bill has his complete support. It is an

Salem eyes future of landfill

Salem Township officials and owners of the Holloway Landfill in the Six Mile Napier roads area should be meeting shortly to discuss the future of operations. The conditional use permit under which Holloway has operated in Salem for more than 10 years expires at the end of September and according to Supervisor Philip Brandon, the Holloway property is nearly filled.

At the September 6 meeting of the Salem Township Board, Brandon promised that the subject of the permit as well as the possibility of a ski slope on some 155 acres within the township will be discussed at the October 4 meeting of the board.

Mrs. Ralph Dehnpostel, a resident of Chubb Road who attended the September board meeting, indicated her interest in attending the meeting.

She had asked, "When is Holloway supposed to be done filling?"

Brandon replied that the agreement as extended with Holloway some years ago would end later this year.

Mrs. Dehnpostel then asked the status of the ski slope which Holloway had first proposed as a reclamation project three years ago.

The Board of Appeals granted a conditional use permit for the slope in 1975, Brandon said Monday. But, he added, the permit has never been finalized as the first requirement is to reach an agreement between the township and Holloway on the terms under which a ski slope would be built.

The land would revert to the township when the fill is completed, according to terms of the proposal.

The township already has title to 77 acres which has been filled under terms of an agreement entered into with Holloway more than 10 years ago.

"It's a sort of quasi-league arrangement under which he gave the township title to the original 77 acres and we gave him the right to operate. Holloway later acquired 30 acres in the same area and three years ago we gave him an extension on the whole operation for three more years. That 30 acres was never deeded to the township and belongs to Holloway," Brandon explained.

Brandon added that the township board has the right to continue the agreement while the parties are finalizing terms of an extension.

The area where the ski slope has been proposed lies west of Napier and is bounded on the north by Six Mile and on the south by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. A total of 155 acres would be involved if an agreement is reached, including the original 77 acres, the 30 acres, and an additional 50 acres Holloway acquired, Brandon said.

If an agreement for ski slope development is reached, the company would have perhaps 10 more years in which to build it with the standard compaction of dirt and trash, Brandon has said. Issuance of a permit would be subject to state and county agencies as well as the township.

Mrs. Dehnpostel asked at the September meeting how much the township now gets from the landfill operation.

"The inspection fee is $10,400 yearly, plus the township residents have dumping privileges," Brandon replied. He added that he estimates total benefit is $22,000 to $25,000.

"Besides we already have gained 77 acres for the township which will revert to our use," Brandon added.

Mrs. Dehnpostel indicated that she did not feel the benefit was large enough and said she objected to Holloway being allowed perhaps another 10 years of operation within the township.

She also objected to a recent editorial in The South Lyon Herald which congratulated Lyon Township Trustee Sue Knapp for working out an agreement with Holloway to allow Lyon residents to dump at Salem should the current landfill operation in Lyon not be extended.

"If a landfill is dirty, noisy, messy and objectionable to them (Lyon residents), it's just as objectionable for us," Mrs. Dehnpostel said. She also asked if the Salem board could not prevent Holloway from allowing Lyon residents to dump in Salem.

Brandon replied that Holloway is a private contractor and that there is nothing in the agreement which gives the township the right to say who can or cannot use the landfill.

Brandon said Monday that he is "hopeful" that a "concrete" agreement with Holloway can be reached by the end of September so that it can be brought to the township board for discussion at the October 3 meeting.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE
by Jim Roth

Tequila, a Mexican drink, is rapidly becoming popular north of the border. The tequila is not made from cactus, as is popularly believed, but from a plant called maquey, which looks like a cactus and grows just as slowly. The traditional method of drinking tequila is to place some salt on the back of the hand, taste it, sip the tequila and then sink one's teeth into a lemon or lime. The tequila cocktail, the Margarita, combines two parts of lemon or lime juice to one part tequila and one part Cointreau.

Our staff at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477 will be happy to help you with your wine and liquor selections. They can also give advice on how much you need to buy and how to mix various drinks. You can save 10% on your wine by buying by the case, mixed assortment or all of one kind. Open: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m.- 10 p.m., Sun. Noon-6 p.m.

Different courses will range from roots to dreams

"Did you ever feel," comedian George Gobel once asked, "like the whole world was a tuxedo and you were a pair of brown shoes?"

You know the feeling. If your next-door neighbor isn't telling you about his Hindu snake charming skills then the office worker at the next desk is using her coffee breaks to practice her martial arts lesson.

Everybody, it seems — including your grandmother who is seriously into exotic macramé — is doing something exciting and interesting with his or her life.

Everybody, that is, except you whose last out-of-the-ordinary experience was ordering double cheese with an anchovy pizza.

But how do you get started in a new venture without investing a lot of time and money into something that may, in the final analysis, not hold your attention?

The answer may be a program called "Do Something Different", which is run by a private firm in Birmingham.

"Do Something Different" is a series of eight weekly courses, each an introductory session into many of the trendy ideas and activities that have captured the fancy of a large segment of Americans.

Several of these seminars will begin in Northville-area schools next week in places like Schoolcraft College, South Lyon Middle School, and Plymouth Canton High School.

Those taking the classes will sample a smorgasbord of ideas. A topic that whets the appetite can then be pursued more vigorously.

Subject matter varies from the mysterious world of psychic phenomena to the practical art of rapid reading; from self-help techniques such as transactional analysis to tried-and-true memory techniques.

"Armed with this preliminary sampling of ideas and concepts, students can more wisely decide which areas of study would benefit them most — and discard those which lack appeal," explains a program brochure.

A $24 fee allows a participant to attend any six of the eight classes offered at each site. By forcing people to choose their favorite six, organizers can determine which seminars should be dropped because of insufficient interest.

Those that fizzle are replaced with new fads. This year, for instance, a mini-course on genealogy has been added to capitalize on the "Roots" fascination.

Since many of the programs are repeated, people who have already taken a full eight-week course may pick and choose individual sessions for $3.50.

Registration information can be obtained by calling 642-4655. (Courses offered in Northville area are listed below.)

Promoters boast that the classes not only save time and money, but they also "give you a smattering of insight into each subject covered — enough to make you more knowledgeable, conversant and familiar with a wide variety of subjects."

In other words, you won't have to depend on a lampshade to gain attention at the next party.

"Do Something Different" studies are not intended to go into depth, according to promoters.

"Rather they simply open doorways of new adventure to the individual."

Classes at Schoolcraft will be held on Mondays beginning September 26. Scheduled courses are:

What's all this about Erroneous Zones (based on the book); An Evening with a Psychic Reader; The Other Side of the Law; Rapid Reading; Telepathy; Setting Goals and Getting There; Astrology; and Adventures in Awareness.

The South Lyon classes are on Tuesday nights beginning September 27 and include:

Setting Goals and Getting There; Psychic Phenomena; Hypnosis; Human Potential Workshop; Handwriting Analysis; The Games People Play; ESP Workshop; and Assertiveness Training.

The Plymouth Canton courses are on Thursdays beginning September 29 and include:

Setting Goals and Getting There; The Games People Play; The Other Side of the Law; What's This about Erroneous Zones; Digging for Roots; Psychic Phenomena; Asleep and Dreaming; Death and Dying.

Kiwanis prexy made prof Council gets request

Hugh E. Lockhart, Ph.D., a native of Northville who currently serves as president of the Northville Kiwanis Club, has been appointed professor of packaging at Michigan State University.

Having sold his home on West Main Street, Dr. Lockhart and his family will move to Holt near the East Lansing campus of MSU.

Dr. Lockhart was previously associated with MSU, but since 1970 has served with Parke, Davis and Company in Detroit as manager of packaging development technical services.

He has worked in packaging for 19 years in teaching, research and industrial activities. Most recently he has been active in the implementation of child resistant packaging under the Poison Prevention Packaging Act and in implementation of package specification-information systems at Parke, Davis.

Dr. Lockhart also developed measurements and data leading to more refined estimates of environmental hazards of shelf life. In his position at Parke, Davis, he had general responsibility for packaging test development, package testing and for documentation systems.

At the MSU School of Packaging, he will be involved in a leadership role in teaching responsibilities of both the undergraduate and graduate programs as well as in research areas in permeability and packaging shelf life.

Born in Northville, Dr. Lockhart was graduated from Northville High School.

later receiving a BS degree in packaging, an MS degree in packaging and a doctor of philosophy degree in forest products — all at MSU.

From 1965 to 1970 he was assistant professor in the school of packaging at MSU.

Several technical articles authored by Dr. Lockhart have been published by MSU.

He is a member of the Packaging Institute of New York, the Society of Packaging and Handling Engineers, the American Society for Testing and Materials, organizer and chairman of the sub-committee on Special Packaging for Poison Prevention, and he is president-elect of the Great Lakes Packaging Association.

Besides serving as president of the local Kiwanis Club (he will be replaced soon by President-Elect Thomas Sechler), Dr. Lockhart has served as scoutmaster for a boy-scout troop of retarded youngsters, and served in the 1972 campaign for Wayne County special education millage.

Married with three children, the 48 year old professor is the son of George Lockhart, who lives at 618 Orchard Drive.

Public hearing on proposed establishment of a new economic development corporation in the City of Northville will be held October 3.

Formally petitioning for establishment of the EDC are Paul Vernon, Dewey Gardner and Glenn Long.

Its purpose is to assist in CBD development, although specific proposals are to be made by the corporation following its establishment.

Recently, Northville Township established its own EDC.

According to Vernon, the new city-only corporation will be unlike the long established EDC co-sponsored by three units of government — city, township and school district — in that it will have greater bonding authority.

Also, it will deal with matters related entirely to the city, whereas the existing organization is concerned with economic development throughout the Northville city and township area.

Establishment of the corporation is a recommendation of the council appointed ad-hoc committee to look into ways to rejuvenate the central business district in general and the financially plagued Northville Square shopping center in particular.

Any proposal developed by the EDC for upgrading the CBD would have to be submitted to council for its approval before it could be implemented, Vernon explained.

Vernon said the new organization would supplement, not replace the existing jointly sponsored EDC.

Besides setting the hearing on this matter, council also adopted several bonding resolutions dealing with Main-Hutton parking lot improvements, with Hutton Street widening, and with installation of a sprinkler system in the Allen Terrace senior citizens apartment complex.

Specifically, the resolutions: —Call for Northville Building Authority to float $140,000 in bonds for effective, immediate solution to our overcrowded prison situation.

"It gets the city of Detroit out of the prison business, and resolves the controversy surrounding the Hudson's warehouse site and the Northville site," Fessler said.

Fessler disagreed with his Democratic colleagues that it will take three years to move prisoners to the DeHoCo site.

"I think it will be only a matter of months after the money is appropriated that we can begin to move inmates to the facility."

Fessler said that 400 beds were vacated last month when the women's division was moved to the new facility in Ypsilanti.

"The state of Michigan could immediately begin transferring prisoners there," Fessler said.

"The capacity of the men's division is 850, but can be increased to 1,000 if pressed," he continued. There are 850 men housed in the facility now.

The Detroit House of Corrections is located in Plymouth and covers approximately 1,100 acres, 1,000 of which are used as farmland.

"The prison has existed since 1928 and business and residential development has grown accordingly," Fessler continued.

"The site also fulfills Perry Johnson's requirement that prisons be in easy access of the families of the convicts."

Fessler also added that the large acreage surrounding the prison could support additional construction and complementary development.

Amerman hosts board on Monday

The Northville board of education will be holding a moving meeting next Monday.

It's not that any particularly emotional issues are expected to emerge. It's just that the school board is moving from its traditional meeting place to Amerman Elementary School.

Monday night will be the first meeting under an experimental plan to hold a board meeting a month in one of the district's seven school buildings.

There is a dual theory behind revolving the meeting sites.

First, it will allow board members a convenient way to get into the various school buildings. Second, it may encourage more people to attend the school board meetings if they are held in their neighborhood.

Board meets are usually held at the central administration building, 303 W. Main Street.

"I'm really looking forward to it," said Amerman Principal William Craft. "I think it's a good idea and I'm hoping for a good turnout."

Hosting the first meeting, however, has placed Craft in somewhat of a quandry.

"I don't know where to set up the meeting," he explained.

If no more people attend than come to a normal school board meeting, he could schedule the event in the library. If the meeting draws a big crowd, however, he'd be better off using the gymnasium.

"A number of teachers will probably be here," said Craft. "And Ray (Superintendent Raymond Spear) invited the parents at Tuesday night's open house."

The meeting will begin at the normal 7:30 p.m. starting time, but board members are hoping for a short session to allow them to tour the school and, if there is a good crowd, hold informal discussions with parents and teachers.

If the meeting is long, some board members have suggested calling an early-hour recess to allow those in attendance to ask questions of the board.

If past meetings are any indication, it will be an early recess rather than a short session that gets the audience into the act.

The last regular board meeting on September 12 went past midnight and board meetings regularly last beyond 11 p.m.

Spear has informed the board, however, that he will attempt to limit the agenda at meetings that take place at the various school buildings.

The traveling board meetings will be held on the fourth Monday of the month. Next month's meeting will be on October 24 at Moraine Elementary School.

The board will not meet at any of the schools during November and December because the fourth Monday falls during the Thanksgiving and Christmas times.

The board will again begin visiting schools in January and will have been at all seven schools by the end of May.

All other meetings will be held at the central administration building.

Funeral services for Mrs. Gladys A. Burgess, 76, of 25627 Glamorgan, Novi, were held at 1 p.m. Saturday at Casterline Funeral Home, incorporated, with the Reverend Lloyd Brasure officiating.

Mrs. Burgess was a member of First Presbyterian Church of Northville where Mr. Brasure is pastor and was a 45-year resident of the area.

Interment was in Oakland Cemetery in Stockbridge, Michigan.

Reading scores

when he learned that the rumor had been amended to say that 80 percent of all Northville students going to Schoolcraft read at or below eighth grade levels.

Neither rumor is true, according to the results of the reading tests.

The average vocabulary score for 59 Northville students taking the test was 12.2 which means a "grade equivalency" of twelfth grade, second month.

Northville students averaged 11.5 in comprehension and 11.7 in reading skills, according to Schoolcraft reading technologist Earl Menary.

Of 1362 Schoolcraft students from all high schools who took the test, the averages were 12.2 for vocabulary, 11.3 for comprehension and 11.9 for reading skills.

Only nine of the 59 Northville students (or 15 percent) were reading at or below the eighth grade level, said Menary.

"That isn't bad," he said, considering the college's "open door policy."

Menary said that he is unaware of anyone from his office releasing figures referred to in the rumors.

"We've got a good percentage below 10.5, but not necessarily at Northville," he said.

The Northville figures quoted above are only for those students enrolled at Schoolcraft. There is no comparable test given to all Northville High School seniors, said Superintendent Spear.

He said his staff is currently evaluating all of the testing vehicles in the district.

BECAUSE OF THE EXTENSIVE USE OF DE-ICING SALTS IN THE DETROIT AREA - THE FOLLOWING PROTECTION MUST BE GIVEN TO EXTERIOR CONCRETE:

- ☐ After drying, the concrete must receive a protective coating of clear, salt-resistant sealer. This must be done prior to the first frost.
- ☐ Concrete placed after the first frost must be protected against freezing and treated with a salt-resistant sealer. Hard steel trowling and slick surfaces add to the problem of salt attack. When placing exterior concrete use wood floats and do not use concrete that is too wet.
- ☐ It is impossible to guarantee the surface appearance of outside concrete when de-icing salts are used in the area. The concrete should meet the requirements of the builder and the city inspection department. This specified strength should be evident when the concrete is treated. Elementary leads way

Novi school enrollment climbing

The enrollment of the Novi School District has risen from 2,917 to 3,010 in the past year.

Novi's enrollment rise comes in the face of declining enrollments nationwide. But the rate of Novi's growth has slowed during the past five years. From 1970 to 1974, 904 students were added to the district. In the past four years, the enrollment rise has been only 315.

Superintendent Gerald Kratz says the slowed growth may have been caused by a lack of new housing in the area, unemployment and a trend toward smaller families.

Oddly enough, the largest growth rate the past year in the Novi schools has come in the kindergarten classes, despite the national trend toward declining childbirths. An additional 18 students were added to kindergarten classes.

The elementary school enrollment has also increased dramatically, boasting a jump of 75 students over last year, from 1425 to 1500. District officials must take this great growth into consideration when planning for future programs, Kratz noted.

The enrollment growth in secondary schools is considerably less than in the elementary schools. Enrollment has increased from 1492 to 1510, or 18 students. Kratz cautions, however, that this small rise might be caused by the increased difficulty in counting the older students.

The total kindergarten through senior high enrollment has increased by 93 students, for a 3.1 percent increase.

Kratz says the new figures show that the present school structures will be able to house Novi students for the next few years without rebuilding. He says the best estimate is that Novi schools will increase at the rate of five percent yearly.

Novi's enrollment has risen from 1569 in 1968 to 3010 in 1977.

Novi sets hearing on high-rise request

A sizable contingent of angry Walled Lake residents is expected to protest a rezoning request when it comes before the Novi City Council in a public hearing next Monday (September 26).

Specifically, the residents are opposed to a request from Home Health Care Services, a private non-profit agency from Warren, for the rezoning of a 5.87 acre parcel on the Novi-Walled Lake border from RM-1 (low density multiple family residential) to RM-2 (high density multiple family residential).

Gary Stern, an administrator with Home Health Care Services, has announced plans to construct two 10-story towers containing a total of 320 dwelling units on the parcel.

Stern indicated that at least one of the twin 160-unit towers is contemplated for senior citizen housing.

Approximately 50 Walled Lake residents showed up at the September 7 meeting of the Novi Planning Board to protest the rezoning request.

The planners voted 7-0 at that hearing to recommend denial of the rezoning, but since the board serves in an advisory capacity, final determination of all rezoning request rests with the city council.

The hearing on the high rise rezoning will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in the School Administration Building near the corner of 11 Mile and Taft roads.

Walled Lake residents indicated that they would turn out in force at the city council's public hearing to renew their opposition to the rezoning.

The tone for the citizens' opposition to the rezoning request was probably established by a similar issue in Walled Lake where Multi-Rise Associates has already begun construction of a $9 million project which includes 160 dwelling units in a six-story building and 100 cluster units.

Strong opposition to that development arose when it was discovered that the project was being financed through the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA). The MSHDA mortgage stipulates that rent subsidies must be provided and sets a $17,380 maximum limit for residents of the complex.

The real furor, however, was created by the revelation that MSHDA's affirmative action program requires that 15-20 percent of MSHDA-financed projects be occupied by members of minority groups.

Stern maintains that he has no plans to finance his project through MSHDA. Members of the planning board pointed out, however, that financing methods are not a proper matter for rezoning requests.

The only question involved in a rezoning request, they said, is whether or not the requested rezoning is proper land use.

In recommending denial of the rezoning request, the planning board pointed out that the RM-2 zoning conflicts with both the city's master plan and preliminary residential areas plan which shows a lower population density for the area.

Seek Citizen of year

Who is to be Northville's Citizen of the Year?

That's the question in the minds of Northville Community Chamber of Commerce members as they begin the search for the person who will succeed the 1976 award winner, Jan Reef.

As recipient of last year's coveted honor, Reef is chairman of the 1977 committee charged with the responsibility of reviewing nominations and selecting the new winner. Serving with him are James Roth and Aaron Gellerman.

Any organization or individual who has a candidate for this honor may pick up a nomination form at the Chamber office in the Northville City Hall.

To qualify, a citizen must be a resident of the city or the township, who has made an outstanding contribution to the community in service, dedication, and participation.

Deadline for receipt of applications for this Chamber-sponsored project is October 10.

The Citizen of the Year Award will be presented to the selected recipient at the annual dinner meeting of the Chamber on October 20 at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Colony Estates to hear chief

A talk on fire protection and organization of the new Northville Township Fire Department will be given by Chief Robert Toms at a general membership meeting of Northville Colony Estates Homeowners Association.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Monday, September 26, at Winchester Elementary.

Get your paper!

Subscriptions for Northville's award-winning high school newspaper, "The Mustang", are now being offered to parents and other members of the public.

The first seven editions, beginning with the Homecoming issue on October 23, cost $2.

Subscriptions may be obtained by calling the high school office (349-3400) and giving name and mailing address. Bills will be sent later.

There will also be door-to-door sales by journalism students.

Workshops bridge teen, parent gap

Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center is offering workshops for parents and teens who wish to improve communications and for women interested in starting a small business.

The communications workshop meets from 7 to 9:30 six Tuesday evenings beginning September 20. It is called "bridging the generation gap" and will be facilitated by Shirley Emerson, a Schoolcraft counselor.

Dr. Emerson said the workshop will offer techniques in listening, talking and understanding for both parents and teens. The registration fee is $26 for each family group and enrollment is limited to ten families.

"Women and Small Business" is a day-long workshop scheduled for Saturday, October 8.

Instructed by Robert Thompson and designed for today's woman interested in small business opportunities, participants can learn answers to questions like "what are my chances for success?" and "where can I find the money?"

A panel of successful businesswomen will answer questions during an afternoon session of the workshop. The registration fee is $25.

For registration or information about either workshop, telephone 591-6400, ext. 370.

'Youth pit' writer here

Author Kenneth Wooden will appear at Schoolcraft College at 8 p.m. on September 29.

Wooden is author of the book "Weeping in the Playtime of Others" which identifies individuals and documents the corruption and the deaths of youngsters in places he calls human pits — American youth jails and institutions.

It's the book about which Ralph Nader said, "you won't forget... it will sear your conscience."

A political activist, Wooden is challenging a corrupt $15 billion juvenile penal industry.

Through the National Coalition for Children's Justice, he hopes to bring the condition of these institutions to the attention of taxpayers and others who can help end imprisonment of non-criminal children, the use of solitary confinement and mislabeling of problem youth for fraudulent financial gains.

The presentation is scheduled in the Waterman Campus Center.

Hallways have split personalities - no wonder, since they are broken up with windows, doors, stairways and corners. They may even wander through your house, up the stairs to the second floor, connect your den and dining room or be the hub of your living space. As such, they require attention and may be difficult to decorate. First impressions count when guests enter your home so it is best to keep hallways calm and flowing with woodwork and doors painted in the same tones as the walls. If you decide to use a "drop dead" wall covering, carry the theme to the second floor for continuity. Make your hall say something about your home - it can be an informal or elegant statement - an introduction to your person world.

For more ideas on how to decorate your home, talk to us at GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. Bring in a piece of material from your home and we will custom-tint paint that will enhance the appearance of the other items in the room. Make us your do-it-yourself headquarters for paint and wallcovering—we feature FULLER O'BRIEN PAINTS and we discount wallpaper from 15% to 25%. BankAmericard and Master Charge welcome.

DECORATING TIP:

Houses get face lifts

Houses as well as gardens are "blooming" these days in Northville's historic district of well-kept vintage homes as owners who care lavish attention on them.

Change of ownership invariably has brought fresh color combinations, sparkling paint and decorative additions.

South of the post office at 350 South Wing passers-by are noticing the refurbishing of a home now painted a pink-beige with white trim. Large numerals and a lantern decorate the doorway of the front porch where an old-fashioned swing hangs.
Rock garden landscaping also enhances the scene.

New owners of a home at 536 West Main have trimmed overgrown shrubbery and used green shutters against white siding.

White trim contrasts effectively with wine-red siding of a home at 222 West Street. A railroad lantern is used as the porch light.

Black trim on the white house at 235
High Street offers a fresh, clean look.
Arrow openings on the front porch are decorated with hanging pots of flowers.

The homes pictured are only a few examples of pride-in-ownership seen throughout the community.

Northville City Council minutes

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES

Mayor Allen called the Regular Meeting to order at 8:10 p.m.

ROLL CALL: Present: Allen, Folino, Nichols, Absent: Johnston, excused, death in family.

MINUTES OF PREVIOUS MEETING: Minutes of August 1, 1977 meeting were approved with the following changes: Page 5, Paragraph 5, should read Councilman Vernon stated that he was resigning at this time, even though he did not have to resign.

MINUTES OF BOARDS & COMMISSIONS: Minutes of the Northville Library Advisory Commission, August 5, 1977, meeting was placed on file.

APPROVAL OF BILLS: Motion by Councilman Folino, support Councilman Nichols to approve bills as presented. Carried unanimously.

POLICE REPORT (July): No questions Councilman Folino asked the City Attorney, Mayor Allen opened the Public Hearing and noted the publication of same.

Councilman Folino asked the City Attorney if the Police Department told someone to move and the person moved around the corner of the building, under the new ordinance would they be considered as still loitering. The City Attorney stated the Ordinance says a person(s) can not "hang around," but they must be warned first.

Mayor Allen asked for any more comments, there being none he closed the Public Hearing.

Motion by Councilman Nichols, support Councilman Folino to adopt an Amendment to Offenses Ordinance Title 1 Chapter 1 — Code of Ordinance from the City of Northville. Carried unanimously.

TAXICAB ORDINANCE: INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS: Councilman Folino stated Ms. Turner representing Community Cab Co should take a copy of the City Ordinance on Licensing Taxicabs, which calls for the insurance requirement to their insurance agent, he will send it to the insurance carrier and the insurance company will have to provide the amount required by ordinance, according to Michigan Insurance regulations. The City Attorney commented as soon as Ms. Turner produces the policy the City will issue the license.

The rates were submitted for approval.

Motion by Councilman Folino, support Councilman Nichols to grant the Taxicab License subject to presentation of Insurance and approve the Rate Schedule subject to Council approval of future rate increases. Carried unanimously.

NORTHVILLE ESTATES: COUNCILMAN FOLINO: Communication from the Northville Estates Civic Association concerning the need for road improvements and asking what steps should be taken by them to get the improvement done. They also asked what percentage the City would participate in.

Also received was a letter from the City Engineer with a cost estimate of the project and what he thought would be involved.

Mr. Tucker, President of the Association, commented he had road engineers look at the area and brought Mr. Patrick Norton, of a Beverly Hills subdivision that had a similar problem

Mr. Norton, Valley Woods Subdivision, Beverly Hills, stated the bids for their road work was excessive and they contacted three different contractors. They put in deep strength asphalt seven years ago and have had no problems. He stated the subdivision paid approximately $100,000.

Mr. Tucker commented the roads were worn out and they were asking the Council to start the steps toward getting bids and holding public hearing.

Councilman Folino agreed the roads were bad, that something should be done and he leaned toward the City Engineer's suggestion to have test borings in different areas to make sure the road would not start breaking up in a few years after paving.

Motion by Councilman Nichols, support Councilman Folino to direct the City Manager to present a project report, assessment roll and bid asked the first step for an opinion as to whether the Township can require the City to sell the equipment for the first appraisal based on the language agreement.

The City Attorney stated under the agreement the City does not have any choice but to accept.

Motion by Councilman Nichols, support Councilman Folino to accept the appraisal of $15,512.50 for the City's share of the two fire vehicles.

NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP RECREATION: Communication from the Township to the Recreation Commission, stating their position on the following:

1. Endorsement of Edward Kriczko to be appointed as the new Director.

2. That wage perimeters be set at $12,000-$16,000 with a one-year period. However, Police and Fire wages should exceed Recreation.

3. Any candidate selected would have to be confirmed by Board and Council action.

4. Any wages offered and any subsequent raises be approved by Board and Council action.

The City Manager stated the Township was substantially modifying the bylaws established by the Commission. The Recreation Commission should have the responsibility to wages and manage operations within the approved budget.

Councilman Nichols suggested perhaps the Director's wage should be approved by the Council and Board.

The City Manager stated this should be a recommendation from the Township to the Commission to the Council and Board.

Councilman Nichols agreed the Recreation Commission should object to the letter.

Mayor Allen requested the City Manager send a letter to the Township Board stating that the City will not take any action until we hear from the Recreation Department and also point out the Bylaws of the Commission.

TOWNSHIP WATER CUSTOMERS: Memo from the City Manager concerning a resolution between the Township and the Township Water Customers approving proceeding with Township's construction of water improvements to Bloomcrest Subdivision. Councilman Folino asked how much longer the temporary lines would be left in.

The City Manager stated the DPW was taking it down at their convenience. He also commented on two areas for concern in selling water to the Township:

1. The City of Detroit water rates and

2. The burden on the water tower capacity.

Mayor Allen recommended that the City Manager and City Attorney review the contract and think about a new one. Matters that should be taken into consideration should be the water tower and prorated costs, also putting a limit on the number of customers handled by the line.

Also a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Letarte and Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell of 7 Mile Road concerning the water situation.

The City Manager explained that these customers had been notified of termination but the situation had not been pursued since.

Therefore, their water should not be cut off as of October 1, and as soon as the Bloomcrest Subdivision is resolved the City could get back to this case.

PURCHASE OF FIRE VAN: The City Manager recommended the purchase of a Fire Van $7,400 which had been discussed at previous meetings, and held for a deposit.

Motion by Councilman Nichols support Councilman Folino to waive going out for bids as stated in Section 2-202(d) Carried unanimously.

Motion by Councilman Folino, support Councilman Nichols to purchase the Fire Van from Ed Rinke Chevrolet for $7,400.00 Carried unanimously.

VOLUNTEER FIRE PAY: A recommendation from the City Manager to increase the Volunteer Fire Pay from:

	Day	Night
1st hour	$5.50	$6.00
Each add. hour	$3.50	$4.00
Training perm tg	$2.00

	Day	Night
1st hour	$7.00	$8.00
Each add. hour	$5.00	$6.00

Motion by Councilman Folino support Councilman Nichols to adopt the new pay scale for the Volunteer Fire Pay Carried unanimously.

Robert Pezanowski, 19555 Mariner Court, Northville, be asked to attend the next meeting and formally be presented with a citation.

REQUEST TO CLOSE CANTERBURY STREET FOR BLOCK PARTY: A letter asking for permission to close Canterbury Street from Langfield to Reed on Saturday, September 3, 1977 from 4:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. for the annual block party for the neighborhood.

Motion by Councilman Folino, support Councilman Nichols to approve the block party on Canterbury from Langfield to Reed on Saturday, September 3, 1977 from 4:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. subject to approval of the City Manager and Police Department. Carried unanimously.

GRISWOLD BY PASS STUDY: The City Manager commented he would be attending a meeting tomorrow, August 16, on this and would have more information for the next meeting.

HURON VALLEY SEWER PROJECT: Mayor Allen mentioned the Final Court Session would be next week. There would be more information at the next regular Council Meeting. DETROIT WATER RATES. Next Agenda.

WAYNE COUNTY CD APPROVAL: Communication from Wayne County CD approving improvements at Mill Race Historical Village in the amount of $20,000 and the contracts to be signed by the City and returned.

A communication from John Hochkins, 105 E. Baseline was received concerning this problem and stating his views.

MISCELLANEOUS: Councilman Folino mentioned that the cars with for sale signs were parked around the City and asked if anything could be done.

The City Attorney commented only the parking requirements could be enforced.

The next regular City Council Meeting will be on Tuesday, September 6, because of the Labor Day holiday.

Meeting adjourned at 10:05 p.m.

Respectfully submitted, Joan McAllister, City Clerk

Family Youth Anonymous

Parents share same problems

Johnny's dad doesn't think Johnny is very responsible. The kid seems to be drifting aimlessly and has been unemployed ever since he got out of school.

"Get a job," Johnny's dad tells Johnny.

Johnny, however, doesn't want to jump into a dead-end job that he doesn't like. He wants to look around until he finds something interesting.

"You are trying to push me into something I'll hate," he tells his dad.

This disagreement has been the focal point for many fierce arguments within the family and, the parents fear, may tear the household apart.

Unfortunately, the argument was unnecessary since both father and son were saying essentially the same thing: "Look, it's about time we start looking at your future."

"Somewhere along the line they must have said it, but they didn't hear it," says William Hayes.

Hayes is a counselor with Family Youth Anonymous, a group discussion program that hopes to open up the lines of communication between parents and children.

"Sometimes, someone from the outside looking in can see something you would normally see right away," explains Hayes.

In Johnny's case, a seemingly self-evident solution was discovered. Dad recognized his son's concerns and helped him set up appointments with various firms so he could better make a career choice.

"Misreading each other" is the common denominator in many communication roadblocks that come before Family Youth Anonymous Group discussions, says Hayes.

The free, eight-week program is run by three Detroit-area agencies—Boysville, Family Services of Detroit and Wayne County, and the Farmington Advisory Council.

This Sunday, FYA will be holding a public meeting for all interested parents (2 p.m. at the Superior Ballroom in Mercy College). The meeting precedes the next set of counseling sessions which begin in October.

Three earlier sessions have attracted several Northville families, said Hayes. Although FYA counseling deals with parents of court-adjudicated delinquents, much stress is placed on reaching the family before the court gets into the act.

"We separate groups by similar problems," explains Hayes.

Thus, one group may include parents whose children have been sent to institutions such as Children's Village in Pontiac or Maxey Training School for Boys south of Brighton.

Another group may bunch parents who, for example, can't make their kids obey household curfew rules and worry that the problem may worsen.

"Parents start feeling frustrated," says Hayes. "They don't know what to do and they hope the neighborhood doesn't find out. They don't know who to turn to."

Hayes and his fellow counselors hope they'll turn to FYA where they can meet parents with similar problems, share common concerns and, it is hoped, discover possible solutions.

To make things easier, meeting sites for the groups are determined after parents enroll so a central site can be found. (For more information on Sunday's meeting and the following sessions, call 935-7500).

The counseling groups are open to parents, sons and daughters but, so far, they have been dominated by the parents who are having trouble with their sons.

No magic solutions are promised and none, in fact, are available when the problems grow from drunk driving to repeated breaking and entering to a court-ordered confinement in an institution.

In fact, says Hayes, it's often a mistake to start with the big problem.

To direct pilot project

She gets college leave

A Livonia teacher has been granted leave of absence to direct a pilot project in vocational education articulation within the Schoolcraft Community College District.

She is Kathleen Dillenbeck who last year taught retailing at Churchill High School. Her appointment was announced by Schoolcraft's Dean Ted Diebel, effective September 1.

One of Ms. Dillenbeck's first objectives as project will be to conduct an orientation she has scheduled for September 20. Invitations have been extended to superintendents, vocational education coordinators and principals of the public high schools within the College District.

The College District is composed of five K-12 districts in northwestern Wayne County: Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth-Canton.

It is within these districts that the articulation project will attempt to develop coordinated programs for high school vocational students who want to continue their career development at the community college.

Ms. Dillenbeck said the project is designed to continue for three years and has been granted annual funding by the Michigan Department of Education.

The Schoolcraft District project, like others across the state, is being assisted by a resource team from Michigan State University.

"The articulation project has the potential for consolidating and streamlining the vocational-technical offerings throughout the College District," Ms. Dillenbeck said.

The articulation project office will be located in the new Livonia Career Center, formerly the Eisenhower Elementary School,

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

CITY OF NORTHVILLE

AMENDMENT TO SANITARY

SEWER RATES

Notice is hereby given that the Northville City Council will hold a public hearing on Monday, October 3, 1977, at 8:00 p.m. in the Council Room at the City Hall to consider adoption of the following ordinance: AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND SECTION 7-402 OF CHAPTER 4, SANITARY SEWERS, OF THE CODE OF ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF NORTHVILLE, FOR THE PURPOSE OF INCREASING SEWER RATES, TO REFLECT THE RATE OF INCREASE IMPLEMENTED BY WAYNE COUNTY IN AUGUST, 1977.

The City of Northville Ordains: Section 1. Section 7-402 of Chapter 4, Sanitary Sewers, of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Northville is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 7-402 APPLICATION FOR PERMIT, FEES: RATES, CHARGES — Application for a permit shall be made to the City in such form and detail as it may prescribe, accompanied with the payment of such charges as may be determined from time to time by the Council except that tapping charges shall be uniform to all property owners on the streets of equal width irrespective of the location of the lateral sewer in said streets.

Opening of Allen Terrace delayed until January

Allen Terrace — Northville's apartment complex for senior citizens — should be ready for occupancy by mid-January 1978, according to a letter sent by City Manager Steven Walters to 100 prospective residents.

He said last week, however, there is a possibility of only partial occupancy "depending on work being done" at that time.

Although the lower level on the $2.1 million dollar complex is "essentially complete", according to Richard Burton, field construction manager, wood framing on the other two levels, which may take up to three months to finish, will be started this week.

The brick veneer should follow the framing by two or three weeks with finishing work beginning as soon as each wing is ready, Burton said.

Rent in the apartment building, designed for persons 65 years or older will be $225, according to John Steimel of the housing commission. However, a rent subsidy program will be available for senior citizens with an annual income of less than $5,000.

For example, if a person has less than $3,000 annual income, the rent will be lowered by $75, with the city making up the difference, Steimel said.

Steimel terms the rent "inexpensive for what is around the area," particularly because of the extra features the complex will offer senior citizens.

One of these extra features is a built-in security system that includes a closed circuit television and intercom so residents can see and speak to visitors before they reach the apartment. One channel on each resident's television will be used solely for this purpose, Steimel said.

Other features include a library, an activities room, a laundry room and an arts and crafts room.

Many of the prospective residents own their own homes, can sell them and put the money in the bank, and pay their rent out of the interest, according to Steimel.

He also pointed out that many older persons do not know how to budget their limited incomes and once the commission has "shown them how to budget money" on paper, applicants find they can afford to live at Allen Terrace.

Although Walters has sent out letters to only 100 of the 400 who originally applied he emphasizes it is still "worthwhile" for city residents to apply because there "still may be a few openings." He indicated that many of the 400 applicants had no relationship to Northville at all.

He also said many of the people who applied may change their minds or the additional names may go on a waiting list. For both January occupancy or waiting list applicants, priorities for acceptance are: 1) city residents 2) former city residents 3) parents of city residents and 4) township residents.

Steimel estimates approximately 80 percent of the residents will be city residents with the remaining 20 percent coming from the other three groups.

He also predicts that nine out of ten apartments will be occupied by one

Wood framing's next

Wood framing for the upper two levels of Allen Terrace — Northville's senior citizen apartment complex — is scheduled to begin this week, according to Richard Burton, field construction manager. The lower level (pictured) is "essentially complete," he said.

Families sharing common problem

"Too many parents want to solve the big thing, when the problem has grown for a number of years," says Hayes.

A harassed father, whose son's vandalism and assaults eventually led to a stay in Children's Village, was convinced that his son was no good.

Yet, when the father visited his son at the Village, he learned that the boy was doing a fine job while working with the mentally retarded.

Another familiar example is the dynamic parent who overwhelms business foes and his son in much the same way.

"He's saying a lot of good stuff but he's not giving the kid a chance to breathe," says Hayes. "The boy says, 'let me take the responsibility for some of my own actions.'"

Encouraging people to discuss common problems sends parents home with "fresh ideal," adds Hayes.

"Our organization feels that this gives people an outlet before the problem is called to the attention of courts and law enforcement agencies."

The program has not existed long enough to complete studies to determine its effectiveness, but Hayes is hopeful.

"It's not like Boy Scouts or the PTA," he says. "We feel good about what's happening and we think we're getting something done."

Author to rap to get blood

Schoolcraft College will present author Robert A. Heinlein during its fall blood drive on September 28.

The author of "Stranger in a Strange Land," "I Will Fear No Evil," and "Glory Road," will be available for personal autograph sessions from 9:30 to noon and 2:30 to 5 p.m. Later, he will conduct a rap session at 8 p.m. All are scheduled in the Waterman Campus Center.

As a result of a medical crisis in his past, Heinlein credits his life to the availability of his rare blood type through blood banks. Since that time he has devoted countless hours of his precious time assisting blood drives throughout the country, accepting no fees for his services.

Heinlein invites donors to bring one of his books with them for an autograph which he gives each person who has donated blood, attempted to donate or signed a "future donor" pledge card.

Land zoned for multiples is up for sale at Novi Road curve

Speaking for The Record

Multiples here?

Some very complex and potentially explosive problems face Northville city officials concerning property development of vacant land on the Novi Road curve near Eight Mile Road.

Presently zoned for multiple housing, the 2.24 acres of land was recently posted for sale for this purpose. It is located just south of existing apartment units, and it abuts both sides of the stream.

Only that portion of the land east of the stream is buildable, however, since the land west of this branch of the Rouge River lies in the flood plain.

The Novi Road curve fronting the property already constitutes a serious traffic hazard, and in our opinion multiples development here could compound that problem. Cars have overturned on the curve, and not infrequently south-bound traffic is backed up to the curve while waiting to gain access to Eight Mile Road.

Aside from the traffic problem, we and others question the wisdom — from an aesthetic standpoint — of permitting any kind of private development at this park-like entrance to the city.

But obviously, the owner of the property has a right to build some kind of multiplex housing units on his land. To deny, out of hand, any plans for such units therefore would be neither legal nor fair.

But the fact remains: there is but one access to the property and that is off a dangerous curve.

This being the case, the traffic problem at the curve will necessitate some very serious attention should a multiple units plan be presented to the city. Resolving the traffic problem so the owner can develop his property will be no easy task.

Although specific plans for such a multiples development have not yet been presented to the city, we believe city officials should consider the possibility now before a formal plan does materialize.

Among the questions officials should consider are these:

- Is the land zoned properly? If not, what acceptable alternative zoning designations are preferable?
- If multiples development is permitted, how can the traffic problem be resolved?
- Is relocation of Novi Road to eliminate the curve feasible?
- Should the city purchase the land and preserve it as open space, and if so can it afford the price?

Parking lot abuse

Northville is fortunate to have sufficient municipal parking space in its central business district to permit unrestricted parking.

Unlike some communities, Northville's attractive downtown parking lots are not metered, allowing motorists free and easy accommodation. Our community can be proud of this special service.

But this free parking too frequently is being abused. And that abuse could one day force the city to abandon its free parking policy because of the thoughtlessness of a relatively few.

To illustrate this abuse, we note that for the past couple of weeks two automobiles — one with a flat tire — have occupied

Two-week parking

prime parking spaces in the lot near Main and Wing streets. Neither has been moved during this period.

Northville's municipal parking lots were not meant to be storage yards for vehicles, such as the two illustrated here.

The "free" parking is partly financed by assessments levied against business-district property owners. In theory, merchants would hope that their employees would use the outermost spaces and that customers would have the more choice spaces for their shopping trips. Under no circumstances should 24-hour (or two-week) parking be tolerated.

Equally disturbing is the trash dumped in parking lots each night. Hardly a day goes by when city workmen are not required to clean up the filth left by some using the lots. Unbelievably, many use the lots as dumping ground for their car ashtrays and litter bags.

Not only is this kind of abuse of parking lots an unsightly reflection of our town, it is a costly, needless expense that taxpayers must shoulder.

HERMAN COLEMAN

YES . . .

For the record, the Michigan Education Association supports Senate Bill 714 which would extend unemployment compensation to school services personnel during periods when the schools are not in session.

We find only thing to fault in this bill and that is that it does not include teachers who also face an unpaid layoff during such times. Teachers are, as other employees, forcibly unemployed during the summer weeks.

We are supporting the bill in spite of the omission because we recognize that the people who will be covered are those workers at the lowest end of the pay scale, many of them part-time, and we seek equity for them.

The concept of compensating employees who, through no fault or wish of their own, are unemployed during a portion of the year is accepted in some of the more important private industries in Michigan.

For example: the auto industry faces downtime each year in preparation for the model change. Workers are regularly laid off during this period and are able to draw unemployment compensation.

We seek no more and no less for school employees and only hope that in the near future they will also have financial support during those times when their place of business is closed.

Herman W. Coleman
Executive Director
Michigan Education Association

Speaking for Myself

Pay unemployment to school workers?

(during summer)

NO . . .

Senate Bill 714 is an unemployment compensation proposal designed to bring Michigan into compliance with new federal unemployment compensation standards.

Under current Michigan law, school employees are not entitled to collect unemployment compensation benefits during the summer months or during the vacation and holiday recesses that occur during the school year.

S.B. 714 was amended in the Senate Labor Committee to allow that practice to stand. Without those amendments, however, school employees who are not teachers or administrators will be eligible for benefits for the first time.

The new federal unemployment compensation standards do not require the state to extend eligibility to non-professional school employees for holiday and vacation periods that occur within the school year. The federal standards do make such legislation permissible. At least 16 states have already refused to grant these extra benefits.

It is difficult to understand why school employees should be paid during periods when students are not in school. Those who want full-year employment should seek other work.

It would be tragic to lay off needed teachers or other personnel to pay unemployment compensation to employees who never expected it and who, in many cases, do not want full-year employment.

Children reflect our changing society.

This observation, which nettled my recent vacation, was triggered by the voices that came drifting on the summer breeze through the shrubbery as I read the morning paper on the backyard patio.

Children's voices at play near the edge of the garage.

There's nothing quite as sweet and raucous as children at play, I thought, switching from the story on ex-banker Lance to the one about human-chewing bears in northern Ontario.

Then one of them was saying in a voice of anguish, "Aw, Becky, you don't do it right. You're supposed to put the apple on his head."

Suddenly, the bear story was unimportant. And an ever-suspicious parent conjured up an awful picture of one child with an apple on his head while another took aim with a bow and arrow.

"Hey, you kids, what are you doing?" shouted through the bushes. Silence. "What are you doing?" I insisted.

"Playing." More silence.

The papers scattered as I leaped up from the lounge, took the stairs two at a time and raced around the corner of the garage to reach them before one released the arrow.

But instead of a junior William Tell, three surprised youngsters looked up from their coloring book as I moved in to snatch their bow and arrow.

"Oh, that's nice," I said sheepishly, retreating to the patio to retrieve the paper.

Soon, kids' voices again.

"I'm tired of coloring," said one. "You don't do it right," admonished another. And the third suggested, "Let's play house."

Ah, now there's a familiar old game,

Picking up the paper in Washington the other day was like seeing an unscheduled, extra episode of "Washington, Behind Closed Doors".

The plot had the Presidential Press Secretary feeding to reporters apparently unfounded innuendoes about a Senator pursuing an investigation into the personal practices and ethics of a top Presidential appointee.

But this was no TV program, and it wasn't history about a past administration. It was President Carter's man, Jody Powell, trying to discredit Senator Charles Percy, the Ranking Republican member of the committee investigating Budget Director Bert Lance.

It was a transparent effort to deflect attention from Lance and his serious problems. It was also an example of the lowest form of political mentality, and sent another shudder through the Carter Administration's self-proclaimed position of moral rectitude and high ethical practice.

As far as I have been able to determine the rumors Powell aired about Percy were completely false, and the Senator was instantly able to produce documentation showing the shallow nature of the innuendoes.

Powell said Senator Percy had accepted flights on planes owned by Bell and Howell, which Percy used to head. It was quickly shown that Bell and Howell had never owned a plane and had never even leased one for the use of its former chief executive. Furthermore, Percy noted that he has always paid reimbursement for any private plane flight at the going commercial rate or more.

The second allegation floated for reporters by Powell was that Percy used facilities of a Chicago bank for which he did not pay. Percy promptly produced receipts and cancelled checks showing reimbursement, right down to the use of the phone and security services.

Senator Abraham Ribicoff, the Democratic Chairman of the committee probing the Lance allegations, called Powell's attempt to discredit Percy "stupid".

Both Ribicoff and Percy have suggested Lance resign as Budget Director.

Reader's Speak

Romantic walk through Northville

To the Editor:

Exercise is the name of the game. Based on the number of people I pass, while doing my daily stint, moving about via leg power is quite a popular activity.

At the beginning of my required recreation, the time passed very slowly. Frankly, I was bored and couldn't wait until I had completed my course.

After a time I began to contrive games which would mentally shorten the distance. I carefully scrutinized the forms of trees, bushes and flowers. Their myriad colors also became fascinating to me. As I passed streams I noticed the beauty of reflections in the quiet water. Now strolling became enjoyable and new objects of interest constantly appeared.

One day, while ambling down Main, Dunlap and Center Streets I was struck by the distinctive old homes lining each of these avenues. In almost every instance each one was different from the one on the adjoining lot. Each was unique and appeared to have been erected about a century ago. Many represented the "Victorian" period with the curlicues and swirls added to the structures roof line and door and window frames.

I have been advised that they are called "Gingerbread." Also, scattered here and there are "Greek Revival" type homes. They retain to a large degree the simple but very impressive classical lines of ancient Greek architecture. Most of these are painted white. They are magnificent structures. Regardless of their degree of preservation, I was enchanted by the individual beauty of each and every one. Most of the homes were well cared for.

As I slowly strolled by them I strongly felt each was our heritage out of the nineteenth century and each of us should be diligent in protecting them from the ravages of time.

Can mental impressions bring back memories of boys playing marbles, girls casting jacks and the sight of horse drawn buggies?

I think I have just about finished my walk through charming old Northville for today. What new enjoyment will the walker discover tomorrow?

I thank the Lord for this wonderful way He has provided for me to spend a portion of each day.

thought growing a little nostalgic.

"Okay, but only if I can be the mother," one of them said.

And then they were playing. But with a new twist.

"You're father is here to pick you up," the make-believe mother told her make-believe child. "Meet him on the porch; I don't want him in the house."

"Yes, mother, we will be home early."

The father arrived and took his daughter off on his bike, their make-believe car.

It was later, when the scene changed to the child's arrival home, that I realized how grown up children and their games have become.

"You haven't paid your alimony," the mother shouted at the father upon his return with their daughter.

Three children, none of them yet nine, were playing house... divorce house!

For goodness sakes, as kids few of us ever heard of the word, few if any knew what it meant, and even fewer had ever been touched by this kind of tragedy.

Not today. It's sad, but true. Next year there will be as many divorces in Michigan as weddings. Society has changed, and children are reflecting that change even in their games.

News

From Lansing

By R. Robert Geake
State Senator

Should children who are truant from school, run away from home, or who become chronic behavior problems be immune from interference from the courts and law enforcement agencies, and from their parents as well?

Several weeks ago the Michigan Juvenile Justice Services Advisory Commission, appointed by the governor, issued a 600-page document containing 123 recommendations for "reforming" our present system of dealing with youthful offenders. While many of these recommendations appear to be of value in streamlining the juvenile justice system, one in particular has evoked a great deal of concern among parents and lawmakers, including myself.

At issue is whether status offenses, such as running away from home, truancy from school, and chronic disobedience to parents, should be removed from the state's Juvenile Code. A "status" offense is an offense which is only illegal because of the status of being a juvenile. The same behavior on the part of an adult is not punishable by law.

Advocates of this change argue that juvenile courts have not been effective in dealing with the problems of runaways and truancy and that relying on voluntary services would be better. Strongly disagreeing with this argument, however, are many parents, lawmakers, county prosecutors, and juvenile court judges as well as educators who believe that such a change would undermine both the state's compulsory education law and parental authority over their children.

I am among those who believe strongly that government should not enact any new laws which would weaken family structure. Nor do I believe that the state should interfere with the duties and responsibilities of parents.

It would appear, however, that the recommendations to remove status offenses from the Juvenile Code would do just that. In essence, it would permit a child of any age to leave home or become truant and no one—not the child's parents, nor law enforcement agencies, nor school officials, would be able to legally compel the child to return home or attend school! Thus a mistake made as a child could go uncorrected and become a serious handicap in later life.

Public opposition at a recent hearing on the proposed Juvenile Code revisions has had an impact on the commission. The status offenses recommendation has been modified somewhat so that state juvenile courts would be able to retain limited jurisdiction over truants and runaways.

Specifically, the modified recommendation would give police the authority to pick up runaways and transport them to emergency shelters where their parents would be notified and where professional counseling and other services would be available. If these services were refused by either the parents or the child, then a police officer, social worker, or other concerned party could petition the court to require them to cooperate.

Band needs to hear the sounds of money

To the Editor:

No more half-time shows, no more parades, no pep band at sports events, no pit band at the musical plays, and no more award winning jazz and concert bands. This will be Northville's musicless future if immediate action is not taken.

This year for the second year in a row, there are no beginning band classes in the whole Northville public school system. This means that when this year's eighth graders have graduated, the Northville music program will be extinct.

On the scale of 5-1 (1 being the highest) Northville's bands generate spirit and pride, something we can't do without. Several band members have gone on into very successful music careers after graduation. All band members carry with them an appreciation and knowledge of music for the rest of their lives. With all these things going for it, why is the program subtly being wiped out?

For only $12,000, the school district could hire an experienced teacher to get the beginner program going again. Come on school board, if you have ever enjoyed one of the musicals at the high school, if you have ever brought your kids to one of the parades, if you have ever been fired up by the marching band, lulled by the classics played by the wind ensemble or snapped your fingers to the jazz band, then show your appreciation. Give these future musicians a chance and let a board member know how you feel. Call, write, dance in the streets—but don't sit back and let the music die.

So far a lease has not been drawn up, but Walters said it will probably be a contract on the basis of how the facility is to be used, rather than on a length of time. He said a lease would be automatically "renewed" upon payment of the monthly rent under this set-up.

An apartment manager has not yet been selected but the search should begin soon, according to Steimel.

Allen Terrace was originally scheduled to open in November but because of a delay due to a soil erosion order which required installation of a protective soil erosion device before construction could begin, the completion date was set back.

Located on the south hillside of the former Eastlawn Convalescent Center property, the apartment complex will be 84,000 square feet and three stories high. The complex is being built on a 12-acre site.

There will be 100 apartments available for senior citizens plus one apartment for the live-in manager.

Each apartment will have a living-dining room, 11 feet by 15 feet; a bedroom, 11 feet by 13 feet; a bedroom closet, bathroom, balcony, walk-in storage pantry, coat closet located in the entry, a kitchen and linen closet. Each apartment will be carpeted except for the kitchen and bathroom.

in so he can develop his presently unbuildable property in the subdivision, stressed that if a majority of subdivision homeowners requested these utilities the council "wouldn't drag its feet."

Mayor A. M. Allen added that until vacant lands are developed east of the subdivision, extension of sewers from Lexington Commons to Northville Estates would be economically percent, or $263.75 per million gallons compared to the old rate of $159.48 per million gallons.

Since the sewage disposal service cost amounts to 71 percent of the total sewage disposal operating cost, Walters said a 46 percent increase in the sewage disposal rate will be needed to cover the county cost increase.

Triggering the rate increases at the county and suburban levels was the order issued last week by Federal District Judge John Feikens in the lawsuit brought against Detroit and its customers (county and suburban communities) by the government for pollution.

Feikens ordered Detroit to raise its own rates and the rates of its suburban customers to generate monies to upgrade disposal plant facilities. The order also preserved a $347 million federal grant, which is to be used along with monies generated by the rate increase for reconstruction.

prohibitive for subdivision property owners.

Other citizens at the hearing pressed for immediate resurfacing, contending that to delay road improvement in anticipation of future installation of water and sewer lines would mean still greater break-up of streets and greater paving costs later.

It was a request of the subdivision association that triggered current resurfacing plans.

The only other major concern was voiced by C. J. Weathered, who wondered if the planned blacktopping would be adequate.

Noting that plans call for a 3½-inch coarse layer of blacktop, he asked if it wouldn't be wiser to install a 1½-inch "wear coat" at the same time. (Current plans call for the "wear coat" to be added later, after sewer and water lines have been installed.)

Penn admitted that if possible later installation of utility lines was not a question, he would recommend the "wear coat" now. However, he added that in his opinion the 3½-inch coarse layer is entirely adequate and he estimated it would "last 10 to 12 years" and that the streets could then be sealcoated to extend their life for another five or six years.

Present blacktop streets in the subdivision were installed some 20 years ago when the subdivision was still part of Novi.

According to city officials, it could be eight years or more before sewer and water gets to the subdivision. It could be less, however, dependent upon development to the east, they added.

Property owners were told that the project calls for no widening of the streets, nor does it include curbs or gutters. It will include dressing along the edges of the streets, with extension of the tapered blacktopping a couple feet into driveways to smooth approaches.

Subdivision residents also learned——That the resurfacing would have no direct effect on their tax assessments. —That there are no figures readily available to show how much money has been spent on street repairs in the subdivision over past years.

—That it was decided to base the assessments against front footage because most homes in the subdivision occupy approximately the same space. —That the city will maintain the new streets once they are installed.

—That the city will ask bidders for cost estimate of also blacktopping driveways where desired.

—That when Novi launches its paving of Beck Road, Northville will try to extend that paving on Beck to Eight Mile Road.

—If bids come in under estimated costs, the savings are to be passed on to property owners. However, if they exceed estimates that additional cost will be shared by those owners.

Following the hearing, Folino moved that 100-percent of the cost of the resurfacing be paid by the entire city.

But that motion died for lack of support, whereupon a motion including the 75-25 split was introduced.

Voting for the measure were Mayor A. M. Allen, Wallace Nichols and Johnston.

Western Six is next

Defense sparkles but Mustangs fade, 10-0

Bring on the Western Six. Northville is ready now.

Despite a 10-0 loss to Westland John Glenn in their final tune-up before conference competition gets under way, the Mustangs proved they can play football — at least defensively — with the best of 'em last Friday.

John Glenn, one of the state's top football schools with a 9-0 record last year, scored its only points on a fourth-down plunge near the end of the first half and a 26-yard field goal in the third quarter.

Northville, meanwhile, lost its few opportunities to get on the scoreboard on turnovers. In fact the Mustangs coughed up the ball on their first series of downs.

Don Borthwick, the team's offensive workhorse at 5'8" and 150 pounds, ran around end on the Mustangs' second play from scrimmage and fumbled, giving Westland the ball at the home squad's 23-yard line.

Northville's defensive line dug in and stiffened, though, forcing John Glenn into a field goal situation. Kal Deluca's 33-yard attempt sailed wide.

Taking over at their own 20 the Mustangs drove down inside the John Glenn 20 before losing a golden opportunity to score when a Westland player picked off quarterback Doug Marzoni's third-and-12 pass at the 15-yard line.

From there the visitors marched 85 yards in 18 plays, eating up most of the first-half clock in the process, and finally scored to go ahead 7-0. Punching the football across was hardly a cakewalk, though.

Flanker Jim Irwin raced 27 yards, from the Mustang 27 to the one-foot line, before John Horwath stopped him, setting up what appeared to be an easy touchdown.

Northville's defensive line had other ideas, though. In a classic goal-line stand the Mustangs held firm until fourth down, when halfback Tim Ruark finally dove far enough to crack the barrier, leaving 2:32 in the half.

That's the way it stayed until late in the third quarter, when the visitors started another long drive. Beginning at their own 10-yard line the Westland contingent moved 81 yards in nine plays, thanks largely to a 15-yard roughing the passer penalty that nullified a leaping interception by Marzoni near midfield.

Facing a fourth down at the Mustang nine-yard line, Deluca put one through the uprights from 26 yards out to make it 10-0 with less than a minute left in the third quarter.

Northville lost its last chance to ruin the shutout when Borthwick lost a fumble on a sweep around end inside John Glenn 40 late in the game.

Although coach Chuck Shonta acknowledged he was disappointed with the final score he noted improvement in the Mustangs' performance as compared to their opening-game victory over Novi.

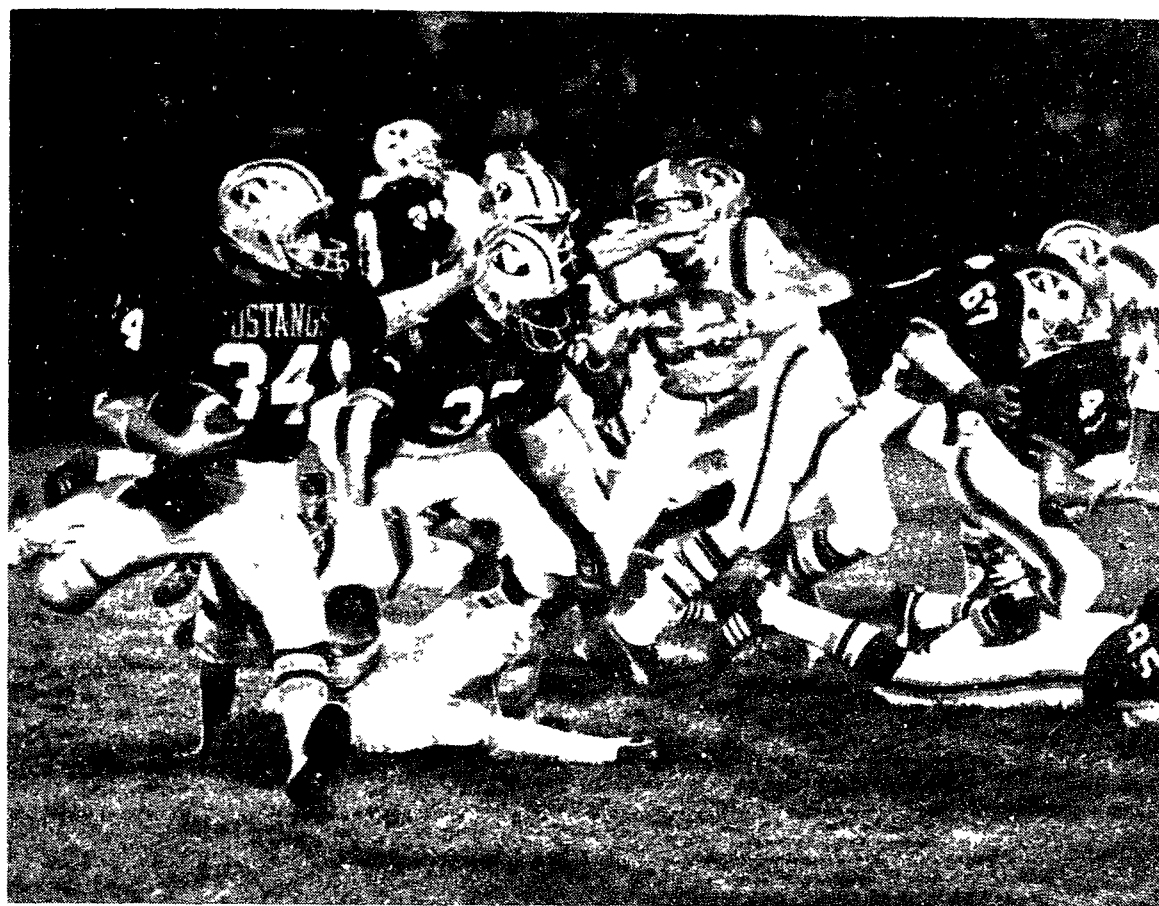

Northville's passing game was particularly effective. Marzoni completed seven of 12 attempts for 93 yards, although he was sacked four times for losses totalling 24 yards. Horwath snagged four receptions for 92 yards.

On the ground the Mustangs picked up only 52 yards. Borthwick carried the bulk of the running attack, getting 43 yards on 11 carries.

But the real strength was on defense, where the Mustangs limited John Glenn to just 194 total yards, including 163 on the ground, despite the fact that the visitors had the ball twice as many plays (56 to 28) as Northville.

"I think the team played one helluva team defense," Shonta said.

"They (John Glenn) picked up their only touchdown by the skin of their teeth, so basically it comes down to just two plays. Those (the two plays in which Westland scored) are what cost us the game."

Don Borthwick finds running room against stingy John Glenn defense

Golfers win again

Make that three in a row

Northville's golf squad made it three in a row with two more victories in dual competition last week.

Since losing their season opener to Redford Thurston two weeks ago the Mustangs have won their last three dual meets, including two in the Western Six.

Their most impressive performance last week, though, came in a non-conference clash Tuesday with Redford Union, which knocked off Thurston last week. Four Northville golfers shot under 40 for the nine-hole meet as the Mustangs squeaked to a 195-199 victory.

Steve Pyett, Scott Denhof and John Pawlowski all tied for individual medalist honors with scores of 38 while Dennis Zinkon followed with a 39 Mike Seltz rounded out the scoring for the winners with a 42.

Neither rain nor cold stopped the Mustangs from upping their Western Six record to 2-0 in a conference meet with Walled Lake Western on Thursday. In a match that took place during a driving rainstorm at Braeburn Golf Club, Northville's home course, Pyett and Zinkon shot 37's to lead the Mustangs to a 203-216 triumph.

Denhof came next with a 42, followed by Bob Stevens (43).

New dates set for games

Two dates in Northville's varsity football schedule have been switched, the high school athletic department has announced.

Homecoming, originally scheduled for October 7, has been changed to October 21. In addition the Mustangs' game at Walled Lake Western, originally slated to begin at 8 p.m. on October 1, has been switched to September 30 at 3:30 p.m.

Is CC team for real? Mustangs place again

Cross-country coach Ralph Redmond won't make any forecasts yet, but his Northville squad is looking more and more like a group of championship runners.

The Mustangs warmed up for tomorrow's crucial Western Six opener against Waterford Mott by nabbing their second trophy in the past two weeks at the annual Schoolcraft Invitational last weekend.

On the heels of a third-place finish at the West Bloomfield Invitational a week and a half ago, Northville claimed the runner-up spot with 101 points at Schoolcraft last Saturday morning, beating some stiff competition in the process.

Junior Brian Turnbull led the well-balanced Mustang contingent with a 16:17 clocking over the rough Hines Park course, good for eighth place in a field of 156 runners from 23 Class A schools. Four of those schools were among last year's Class A state finalists, including Wayne Memorial, which won the Schoolcraft race with 80 points.

"This was really a momentum builder for us," Redmond said of his team's performance, noting that Northville placed ahead of such cross-country powers as Farmington, Dearborn Edsel Ford and Garden City East, last year's Schoolcraft champ.

What particularly pleased the veteran coach was the fact that all seven of his varsity runners had strong showings.

"We did what we wanted to do tactically," Redmond said. "We wanted to try putting two (runners) up front (in the top 20) and cover them with three inside the 20's."

His last two runners, he added, needed strong showings as a "defense," in case one of his top five should falter. And the Mustangs followed those tactics right down to the last detail.

John Coram, a senior co-captain who's been steadily improving since the start of the season, finished 15th in the race, 21 seconds behind Turnbull. After Coram came John Monagle, who placed 23rd in 16:53, co-captain Don Wilber (26th in 17:01) and sophomore star Harry "the Hawk" Couyoumjian (29th in 17:09).

Northville's sixth and seventh runners, Jim Bedford and Tom Doyle, crossed the line together in 17:25. Bedford got the nod for 45th place and Doyle 46th.

"It didn't really surprise me that much," Redmond said of Northville's second-place finish. "These kids are just a bunch of gutsy performers."

The Mustangs' point total (101) was 50 better than third-place Farmington and over 100 ahead of 11th-place Livonia Churchill, the school that's won the past seven Western Six conference crowns. Still, Redmond wouldn't say what he thought Northville's chances are of breaking that string.

"It's still too early to say if we're going to have a great season or not," he warned, but pointed to the conference opener at Waterford Mott as a good indication. Mott finished fourth, right behind Northville, at the West Bloomfield Invitational.

Four days before the Schoolcraft race the Mustangs got their first taste of dual competition, beating North Farmington 21-39. Except for first place Redmond's crew dominated the meet, held at Northville's home course in Hines Park.

North Farmington's Paul Welch paced the three-mile run with a 16:21 clocking, but after that it was all Northville. Turnbull (16:39), Coram (16:45), Monagle (16:47) and Wilber (17:07) swept the second through fifth positions while Bedford (17:16), Couyoumjian (17:18) and Doyle (17:28) placed seventh through ninth.

"We knew they had a good number one runner, but we figured we could pack right behind them," Redmond said of the race, noting a healthy "intercompetition" among his top seven or eight runners. The victory was Northville's eighth straight in dual meets since last fall.

The Mustangs had their final tune-up before starting Western Six action with a meet against Plymouth Salem yesterday.

When Doug Harding (left) and Jeff Weber (right) teamed up on the Mustangs' offense, they were a formidable force. The two seniors, both stand about 6'3" and weigh in at around 200 pounds. They're also a key part of a defensive line that kept Westland John Glenn's powerful running attack in check for most of the game in Northville's 10-0 defeat last Friday.

At one point the Mustang line stopped Westland short of the goal line three times in a row when the visitors were inside the Northville one yard line. Harding, a defensive end, had eight first hits and four assists while Weber, a tackle, had 11 solos and one assist during the contest. Both players also play offensive tackle.

After qualifying for the national AAU swimming finals in California earlier this summer, there didn't seem much more Susan Cahill could do. In her first meet as a varsity swimmer at Northville High, though, the light-haired sophomore not only won all three events she competed in against Redford Thurston last week, but qualified for the state finals in all three as well. In addition to shattering a school record in the individual medley she swam away with the 100 yard butterfly and helped Northville's medley relay team to a near-record performance.

Any doubts Walled Lake Western and others may have had about Northville's swimming strength this fall were shattered in dramatic fashion last week.

The Mustang girls swept the top three positions in three of the meet's 13 events and took first place in nine others as they rolled to an easy 110-48 non-conference victory over Redford Thurston in their season opener Thursday.

Tomorrow they swim against Western in a meet that should determine the early-season choice for this year's Western Six crown. Walled Lake was last year's champ and the only conference school able to beat Northville.

Based on their times at the Redford meet, the Northville tankers have already qualified for the state finals in four events, including the 200-yard individual medley, where sophomore Susan Cahill swam to a school record in her first varsity meet ever.

Cahill's 2:21.2 clocking broke Vida

Mikalonis' year-old record by .2 seconds and led Northville to a 1-2-3 sweep in that event. Leslie Farquhar took second and Janet Shaw third. Cahill also qualified for the states in the 100-yard butterfly, where she easily outdistanced teammate Krysten Van Renterghem in 1:04.2.

Mikalonis, meanwhile, made some waves of her own with a 1:06.2 clocking in the 100-yard back stroke, good for another berth in the state meet. Once again the Mustangs finished 1-2-3, with Lori Sellen and Carol McLaughlin coming in second and third.

The other state qualifying time came in the 200-yard medley relay, where Mikalonis, Shaw, Cahill and Kyle Roggenbuck combined for a 2:00.5 clocking, just 1.2 seconds off the school record.

Coach Ben Lauber, in his first year as head of the girls' swimming program, couldn't have been happier with the results.

"I felt good," Lauber remarked afterwards. "I was excited about the kind of spirit the girls had. They showed a lot of enthusiasm."

The 40-year-old mentor, formerly a successful boys' swimming coach, seemed even more impressed with the girls than he had been with boys, whom he coached to four league titles and one state championship in his seven years at the Northville helm.

"It's exciting just to watch them (the girls)," he said, noting that the Mustangs cheered and sang as much as they swam and won.

Other impressive individual performances were turned in by Roggenbuck, who led a 1-2-3 sweep (ahead of Carolyn Schrot and Diane Townsend) in the 100-yard free style and a 1-2-4 finish (ahead of Sellen and Townsend) in the 50-yard free style, and Christie Iverson, who won the 500-yard free style and finished third in diving behind teammate Andy Conder.

Shaw's 1:6.6 clocking in the 100-yard breast stroke was good for another first place, just ahead of Farquhar.

Northville's other relay team, the 400-yard free stylers, also took a first with a time of 4:33.3. Members of that team included Iverson, Van Renterghem, McLaughlin and Townsend.

Hoopers open season; varsity, j.v. lose twice

Both the varsity and junior varsity girls' basketball squads opened their seasons with a pair of non-conference losses last week.

At Milford last Tuesday the varsity squad fell to a 21-9 halftime deficit, then played even up in the second half in the 44-29 defeat. Diane Perpich had six points and Lori Young five to lead the Mustangs.

Two days later the Brighton Bulldogs came to town and rolled to a 31-10 halftime lead on their way to a 57-22 triumph. Donna Korte topped the losers with seven points while Perpich pitched in five.

The j.v. team, meanwhile, dropped its opener to Milford 28-19, then fell to Brighton 48-24.

"We're a little disappointed," varsity coach Dave Schopp commented after the losses, which came on the heels of a winless 1976 season.

"We thought we'd be more competitive than we are at this point, but I'm afraid we have a long way to go yet."

Northville girls 'whoop' Warriors

A sign on the fence at the high school tennis courts said it all: "Girl's tennis is gonna whoop Walled Lake Warriors."

And "whoop" Northville did, opening its Western Six season with an impressive 7-0 victory over Western last Friday.

Led by an experienced group of singles players and a surprisingly strong trio of young doubles teams the Mustangs lost just one set all afternoon long in running their dual meet record to 2-0.

Lorri Hopping, Northville's number one singles player for the second year in a row, had little trouble disposing of Walled Lake's Kim Spencer, 6-3 and 6-2.

Marie Maglia, number two singles, knocked off Mary Jo Hayes 6-1, 6-4 while Eve Engelmeyer, number three singles, rolled past Paula Juszczuk 6-2, 6-1. Paula Horst, Northville's number four singles, recovered from a shaky start in her first set to overcome Karen Reeves 6-4, 6-1.

The team's most pleasant surprise, though, occurred in doubles competition, where coach Uta Filkin's girls easily swept past all three of the Warriors' teams. Mrs. Filkin had to replace all six girls from last year's starters.

In the first doubles match Lisa Friel and Sue Pegrum beat Terry Kalhorn and Sharon Wilson 6-0, 4-6, 6-0. The second doubles team of Lynn Herald and Bev Kohl made their match look easy with a 6-0, 6-1 sweep of Debby Salisz and Holley Spencer, while third doubles players Tracy Ade and Sue Kaestner had a slightly tougher time overcoming Allison Donigan and Beth Meade, 7-5, and 6-2.

Despite the impressive performance, though, Mrs. Filkin wasn't willing to label her squad ready for anything yet.

"We didn't get any competition here today," she said after the meet, and pointed to this week's matches against Livonia Churchill, Plymouth Canton, Farmington Harrison and Livonia Franklin as good indications of what to expect this season. Harrison is the defending Western Six champ.

Earlier in the week the Mustang girls had warmed up for their conference opener with a tight 4-3 win over Suburban Eight power Walled Lake Central. All four singles players swept to easy victories over their Viking counterparts, but the doubles competition was a far different story.

Playing against more experienced girls, though, the Mustangs dropped all three doubles matches Friel and Pegrum started off on the right foot but fell in number one doubles 6-4, 1-6, 3-6. Herald and Kohl in number two doubles and Ade and Kaestner in number three dropped their respective matches by identical 4-6, 6-7 scores.

Hopping, who had battled Livonia Ladywood's state-ranked Lisa Milkarski down to the wire before losing 8-6 in a scrimmage the week before (Northville won that meet 4-3), won her match 6-1, 6-0. Engelmeyer duplicated that score in her match, while Maglia reversed it with a 6-0, 6-1 win in number two singles. Horst made it a clean sweep with a 6-0, 6-3 triumph in number four singles.

Northville's non-conference meet with Brighton last Tuesday was rained out and hasn't been rescheduled yet.

Novi Parks and Recreation has moved from its Twelve Mile Road office to the site of the old elementary school on Novi Road. The new address is 26350 Novi Road, across from Big Boy's.

Junior gridgers win second straight, 27-6

Northville's junior Mustangs rolled to their second straight victory by downing Milford 27-6 in the j.v. football team's home opener last week.

With tackle Paul Luiki clearing the way, Scott Millard and Ken Weber led an offensive backfield that collected 112 of the Mustangs' 131 total yards. Millard collected 90 of those on just nine carries.

Weber scored two first-half touchdowns on one-yard plunges to get Northville off to an early 14-0 lead.

In the third quarter sophomore signal caller Bob Crisan threw a five-yard TD pass to Paul Cooper to make it 21-0, and soon afterwards linebacker Dan Troher returned an interception 38 yards for his team's final touchdown.

Defensively the Mustangs were led by Troher with nine solo tackles and Norm Tiilikka with eight. Bob Boshoven, Craig Cattano and Dan McMann also helped out as the defense held Milford scoreless until the dying minutes of the game.

Four runners missing, j.v. harriers take sixth anyway

Northville's junior varsity cross-country squad followed up the varsity's second-place finish with a strong showing of their own at last weekend's Schoolcraft Invitational.

The Mustangs finished in sixth place with 251 points despite competing without four of their runners.

Dan Whitaker paced the local squad in a time of 18:38, good for 16th place in the meet. Behind him were Steve Stewart (33rd in 19:19), Myles Couyoumjian (62nd in 19:41), Jim Weston (67th in 19:56), Steve Bourne (73rd in 20:00) and Todd Vincent (77th in 20:20).

Scott Dayton, an eighth grader from Northville who competed as an ineligible runner, ran the course in 18:37 and would have been 14th.

Rec committee meets Friday

The Northville City and Township Recreation Commission has scheduled a special meeting of its personnel committee this Friday.

Purpose of the meeting, which takes place at the Northville Recreation Department office starting at 7 p.m., is to discuss the section of a new recreation director. Following that there will be a meeting of the whole commission.

World is just a bike path for 67-year-old Finn

Early last Wednesday morning Mauno Wilkkinen left the Walled Lake area on his way to California.

Unlike most modern-day journeys, however, the 67-year-old grandfather's trip to the west coast may take as long as three months. That's because he's going there on a bicycle.

Wilkkinen is a spright old native of Finland who has made a living out of traveling the globe by bicycle the past five years, and if he has his way it'll be another three before he returns to his homeland again.

He calls himself "the old man of steel from Somero," a small city outside Helsinki, and it's a fitting description.

During a stopover at the home of Northville resident Jim Storm last Wednesday afternoon the rapid-talking Finn spoke for hours of his experiences all over the world. Earlier in the week he had made an appearance at an elementary school in Twin Beach, then headed south, passing through Novi and Northville on his way to Chicago and eventually San Francisco.

Since he knows little English his conversation was translated in spurts by Ruth Maki, Storm's aunt from Novi and a fluent speaker of both English and Finnish.

"Life is what you make it; what reason have I to be sorrowful?" is a rough translation of the philosophy that's led Wilkkinen through 20 countries and 32,000 miles, most of them by bicycle, in the past five years.

"I am what I am," he says. His motives have nothing to do with setting records or boosting Finland's name. He's simply out to have a good time, and for him the independence of cycling around the world is the way to live.

Wilkkinen first set out on his long journey in January of 1972, when he told his wife in Somero that he was going to Germany in search of work. Instead he came all the way over to Canada to visit a cousin in Vancouver, bringing his two-speed bicycle with him.

Since then he's traveled all the way up the Pacific coast from Mexico to Alaska, been held up in Bolivia by seven thieves, had one bike stolen in California, spent 16 months in Africa, and met literally thousands of people. Ironically his favorite country has been the United States because it's so advanced; everything is automatic, he says, and he likes that. He's also particularly fond of the waitresses. "In other countries they're lazy," he says, but here they're concerned and sociable.

Usually he stays with local townspeople in one area for a period of time, then moves to another location, although he notes times when he's spent weeks on end living in just a tent.

He keeps notebooks containing the names and addresses of people he's met in the hope of seeing them again someday, and carries over 100 clipping from newspaper articles done about him all over the world.

He says he wants to crown himself "the travelers' king," but stresses that he isn't stepping on anyone else's toes by doing so because nobody else has ever done what he has. In fact he seems particularly concerned that he doesn't step on toes in his dealings with other people.

"He doesn't mind anybody's business because he says that's the way to make friends" is the way Mrs. Maki explains it. "To him the rich and the poor, the educated and the uneducated, the young and old are the same, and he says hello to each one."

"He says if he keeps smiling and being happy he'll live longer and have a good time."

By the same token, though, he doesn't worry about what others may think of him, and he does what he feels. He doesn't have any opinions on political issues and he goes to church wherever he wants.

Asked whether or not his wife might be angry with him, he replied that it shouldn't be of concern to him; "if she's mad that's her business."

Last January, while down in Florida, he felt like throwing a party for his friends there. Untroubled by problems with money, he saved up three months worth of pension payments and rented a dance hall. Over 700 people showed up for the party.

Although he doesn't arrange his bicycle trips by any definite schedule, Wilkkinen's plans in the coming months call for reaching the west coast by December, then taking a boat to Hawaii. From there he'll head to Australia and New Zealand, then on to India and Japan before returning to his native Finland in 1980.

Despite his age and the enormous number of miles he's bicycled, his enthusiasm for travel seems undiminished. And his desire for meeting people apparently hasn't faded at all.

World touring grandfather gives his muscles and his bicycle a rest in Northville

Beware of salesmen here claiming police tie

Northville residents are warned to be wary of telephone sales pitches when the caller says he is representing a police agency

In such instances, the best bet is to call the local police department to see if the call is legitimate, says Northville Township Police Chief Ronald Nisun.

Nisun said a township woman was called Monday by a man who said he was selling magazines for the Policeman's Association of Metropolitan Detroit to raise money for needy children.

Nisun says he has "no knowledge" of the organization or the fund drive. "Most bona fide organizations would contact the local police," he adds.

"How can you tell if the person at your door is really a Michigan Bell Employee?"

As you may have noticed, our employees do not wear uniforms. They dress in the way they think is most appropriate to get their jobs done. While this permits them to look like the individuals they are, it really doesn't help you identify them as Bell employees. But, there is a way. Every Michigan Bell employee is required to carry a Michigan Bell identification card giving his or her name, photograph, and signature. For your protection, be sure to see this card before you admit them into your home. They'll be happy to show it to you.

UF to launch fall drive

Initial solicitation for the annual United Fund Torch Drive campaign is about to be launched in Northville, U-F officials announced in Birmingham.

The Torch Drive raised $37.8 million last year, providing funds for nearly 140 health and community services agencies in the tri-county metropolitan area.

Officials hope to raise more money this year.

Locally, the first stage of the campaign will involve solicitation of small businesses, followed closely by requests for aid from industry and professional businesses.

Some contacts already have been made, U-F spokesmen said, but the small business solicitation does not get under way officially until later this month.

This year's campaign runs from October 18 through November 10, highlighted by the door-to-door solicitation of residential areas.

Chairwomen of this year's house-to-house drive are two locally active women, Jane Watts and Amy Greiger.

Because of the difficulty of securing local volunteers for mounting the business drive, the United Foundation has tapped key industries for help.

Among these is the Ford Motor Company, which has designated key personnel to solicit in Northville. None of these, however, are local residents, said U-F spokeswoman Lynn Anderson. "So if any of your residents could volunteer some time we'd appreciate a call at 646-3096," she said.

Here are the names of those persons who will be calling on businesses here in the next few weeks:

Gordon Donaldson, Mike Bilinski, Paul Paquette, C. E. Franz, Bonnie Kohler, Joyce Szabo, W. L. Etienne, Brian Bax, J. N. Heinrich, Tom Love, Jessie Alvarado, Ted Fisher, R. W. Mitchell, R. J. Skupny, Robie Rushton, Paul Cumming, J. N. Tanasoff; Larry Floyd, K. R. Eaton, Gary Radzik, Nat Friedland, Bruce Bakian, Sam Rygell, Betty Merrill, Ron Greeson, Terry Johnson, Joe Merelli, David McCloud and Jean Moore.

General chairman for business solicitation in this area is Felix McDavid of Ford Motor.

Ms. Anderson emphasized that "only 5.2 percent of every dollar contributed to the Torch Drive is spent on campaign and year-round operating costs of the United Foundation."

"The rest goes directly to service," she said.

The nearly 140 agencies receiving money, she explained, submit annual budget requests for study and review by the United Foundation's volunteer goal and allocations committee, which then recommends allocations to the UF board approval.

A priorities system of budgeting adopted in 1971 and recently updated helps UF budgeting federations make the wisest possible decisions for spending the contributor's dollars, she said.

Ms. Anderson noted that a Torch Drive gift can provide, as examples, the following:

- $2 a month can provide free health tests for two people at a UF Healthoramax, or a Big Brother or Big Sister for a child for one month.

- $3.90 a month can provide summer camping activities for three Boy Scouts, or six and one-half hours of homemaker services to a disabled person.

- $7 a month can provide helpful, monthly informational materials for parents of 158 children with epilepsy, or four months of patient services to a teenager with cystic fibrosis.

- $15 a month can provide 20 days of foster care for a child needing a temporary, substitute home, or six hours of counseling to a family in need of treatment.

- $27 a month can provide one quarter of the cost of placing a multiple-handicapped child in an adoptive home, or examination and consultation by a visiting rheumatologist for two arthritis patients unable to afford a specialist.

Belly stars

Belly dancing will be one of the highlights of the upcoming International Festival, sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce. Arts, crafts, and the taste and music of nearly three dozen nations are planned in colorful settings throughout the three-day weekend program, October 7-9, at Northville Downs. Visitors will be able to watch ethnic craftsmen, purchase ethnic food specialties of many nations, buy gifts from around the world, relax with a cool drink while dining in an authentic "Old World Cafe" with a variety of international music, dancing and entertainment for their enjoyment. Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for children under 16. Proceeds will be used by the Chamber for the benefit of the community. Persons with questions may call the Chamber at 349-7640.

City waits on budget for Rec

Northville City Council has delayed acting on a proposed reduced recreation department budget, pending a recommendation from the recreation commission.

Earlier, the township board voted to reduce the township's share of the budget by $4,648, suggesting that the city also approve a reduction that would make a total overall cut of $8,000.

The board also recommended that the cut be made in the administrative area of the budget.

However, council echoed a concern of City Manager Steven Walters, who said the cut "seems to be rather large in terms of the recreation department fiscal year being half over."

In a letter to Supervisor Wilson Grier, Walters said, "The City is also concerned about the township's insistence that the cut of $8,000 be made entirely in the administrative section. Obviously, in terms of the formula of cost-sharing, the township's cut of $4,648 requires a proportionate reduction in the city's contribution." Nevertheless, the city manager said council "is willing to cooperate with the township on reducing the recreation budget, if the recreation commission can propose a source for this reduction which does not substantially impair the recreation program for the balance of the year."

Nab 3 for lawn, mail box damage

Picture this:

A Northville township resident walks out his door on a Saturday morning only to find that some young punk has decided to use his front lawn to make a few U-turns.

The man looks up from his newly planted — and now deeply rutted — yard to see his neighbor angrily stalking across the street.

Some vandals, probably the same ones in the car, have stolen his mailbox.

"Why," he asks, "haven't the police

"Doing something" about vandalism is one of the toughest demands on a police department. Unless they can station a policeman on everybody's corner — and no one can do that — it's very difficult to catch malicious mischief makers in the act.

One minute after a Northville Commons homeowner called police to complain of a car that had driven over his front lawn, officers nabbed three 20-year-olds trying to sneak out of the subdivision with their car lights off.

Inside the car — which matched the homeowner's description — police found two mailboxes and posts. "They had ripped them right out of their lawn," said spokesman Phil Presnell.

The incident occurred at about 12:30 a.m., Saturday, September 9.

All three young men have been charged with two counts of receiving and concealing stolen property in connection with the mailboxes and with violating the law prohibiting open intoxicants in a car.

The driver has also been charged with drunk driving and with malicious destruction of property for riding roughshod over the lawn.

The three are out on bond waiting for a court appointment.

Such vandalism is common in the township, according to Presnell. He said there have been more than 1000 complaints in the last few years and as many as "15 to 20" on a weekend.

Many of these occur in the Northville Commons-Northville Colony area which is south of Six Mile Road and east of Northville Road.

Because of the large number of complaints, township police have attempted to crack down on the vandals through the use of unmarked cars and special surveillance techniques.

"We're trying to meet the specific complaints in the township," explained Presnell.

They also hope that arrests such as last weekend's will hit the grapevine and possibly discourage potential vandals.

Police Blotter

Bombing investigated

Northville Township Police are investigating a pipe bomb explosion that ripped off the rear license plate of a car which was parked in front of a Northville Colony address early Sunday morning.

No one was injured in the blast which did minimal damage to the car. Police say there would have been more extensive damage had the gas cap behind the license plate been removed before the explosion.

The car's owner, Albert Schroder, 21, discovered the damage when he returned to his Ludlow Court address at about 2 a.m.

The car, which was parked next to the curb, apparently had been bombed about 90 minutes earlier. At that time, neighbors had called police after they heard what sounded like gunfire, according to Chief Ronald Nisun.

Officers answered that complaint, but did not discover the bombed car until Schroder called later. Officers then located pieces of a pipe bomb near the car.

Those remnants have been turned over to the Michigan State Police crime laboratory for analysis.

Someone apparently tried to torch an electrical van loaded with valuable equipment as it was parked behind the construction site of a Little Caesar's restaurant at the southeast corner of Seven Mile and Northville roads.

Township police found a spent flare propped up against the scorched left-front tire when informed of the damage on Thursday night.

The truck, owned by Highland Electric, Inc. of Sterling Heights, was storing about $3500 worth of assorted equipment.

The driver's front window was broken and fuel oil and kerosene were poured on the interior, according to police. A burnt match was found inside but it apparently failed to ignite the truck.

The department is still investigating.

A trucker-camper which had been stolen from a Jamestown address sometime on Tuesday night turned up in Farmington Hills early the next morning, according to police reports.

The vehicle's owner said the camper was stolen sometime after 8 p.m. on Tuesday night. A Farmington Hills resident noticed the camper parked outside of her home at 6 a.m. on Wednesday and, when it was still there a few hours later, she called the police who traced it to Northville.

The glass and handle of the driver's vent window had been broken, said police.

An Itham Court resident lost his car to thieves sometime early Friday morning, according to Michigan State Police.

The car, last seen at 2 a.m., was discovered missing by the owner at 8 a.m., said a police report.

A neighbor had seen three white males parked in a car with its lights out and had kept an eye on them from about 12:30 a.m. until 2 a.m. when they drove away.

At that time, he told police, the car that was stolen was still parked in front of his neighbor's home.

Wixom prayer tradition lives on alone

Opening municipal meetings with both a prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance is a tradition in Wixom that dates back nearly two decades.

And officials there contend both are proper and essential ingredients of their meetings.

Wixom stands alone in this matter, however, even though several other communities in the circulation area of Sliger Home Newspapers open their public meetings with the Pledge.

Patriotism but not religion apparently is the rule of thumb in most communities.

"I think it's important," said former Wixom Mayor Wesley McAtee, who takes pride in the Wixom tradition. "I found that it sets the proper stage for a meeting by opening with a prayer and the Pledge.

"It lets the people know that our democratic process is a respectful one. They know right off that it's going to be an orderly meeting, conducted in a formal way."

McAtee, who served as Wixom's third mayor and who was instrumental in his community's incorporation from township to village to city, said "so far as I know no one has ever complained about it. In fact, most comment favorably."

"I think prayer before meetings was set forth in the original charter of the city," he said.

According to June Buck, Wixom clerk, prayers selected for reading (by the clerk) at council meetings sometimes are volunteered by citizens, others are selected by herself. They need not necessarily deal with the role of government, she said.

Prayers also are said before Wixom Planning Commission meetings, followed by the Pledge as is the case at council meetings.

In the City of Brighton, however, the practice of prayer was abandoned years ago when a council member complained that religion had no place in a public meeting. He proposed that if council members felt it necessary to pray they should do it before the meeting starts.

Even so, praying at the outset of the Brighton meetings might have continued but it became growingly difficult to schedule clergymen in the community to offer the prayer as had been the practice.

Elsewhere in Livingston County, the Pledge is part of meetings of Green Oak and Hartland township boards and the county board of commissioners.

No public statutes, according to the Michigan Attorney General's office, prohibit prayer at public meeting — despite a widespread belief that the Supreme Court has banned them.

The Supreme Court did, however, rule in 1961 and subsequently that it is illegal to conduct prayers — even non-denominational prayers in public schools during classes. This being the case, school boards generally have extended this ruling to include their own bodies, an AG

In Novi where prayer was abandoned at school board meetings, former trustee Ray Warren still insists the practice was a good one.

"Some people thought prayer was illegal, but it's not. Even Congress opens its sessions with prayer," he noted, "and some judges convene their courts with prayer."

"I think most of us — although not all — believe in a Supreme Being. Since that's the case, I think it is proper to call upon that Supreme Being for guidance in deliberations of public business," said Warren.

Prayer and later a moment of meditation was dropped in Novi after "about three and a half years. I'm a little surprised and disappointed they've even discontinued a few seconds of silence for private prayer," added the former board member.

Neither the school board nor the Novi City Council open meetings with the Pledge.

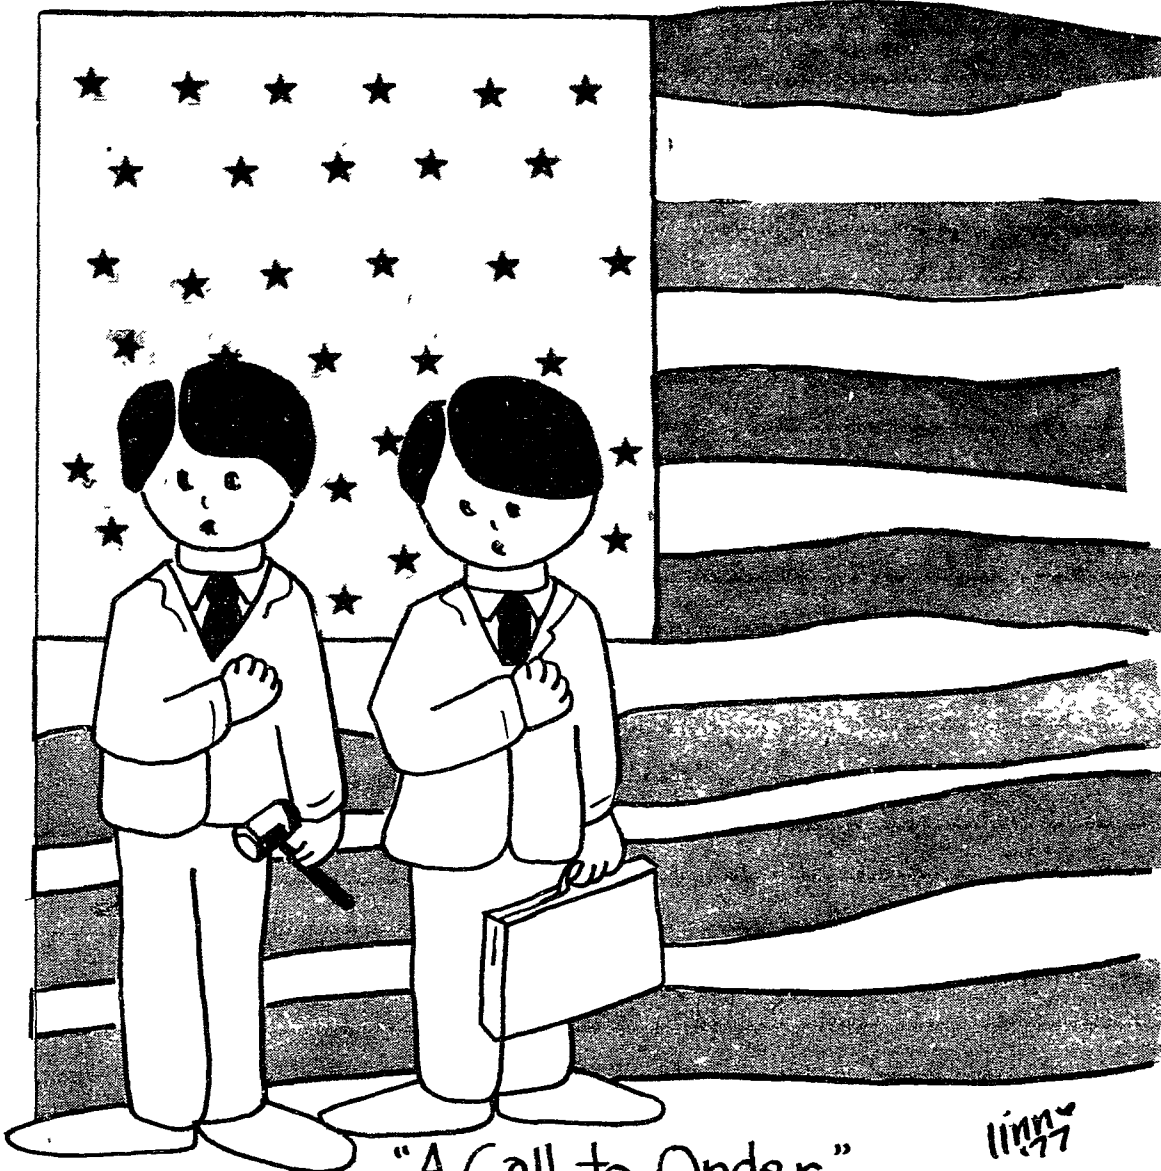

The Pledge is a requirement at both city council and township board meetings in Northville, but not at meetings of the board of education.

South Lyon's school board opens its meetings with the Pledge, however, as do the township boards of Northfield and Salem.

Similarly, Walled Lake and Commerce Township have the Pledge.

"These are public meetings of municipal governments and the Pledge is entirely proper," insists Northville Mayor A. M. Allen.

"After all, government in a free society is what it's all about."

Starts Thursday

Harvest moon signals fall

The official beginning of fall at 11:30 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) a "harvest moon" on September 27 and a "penumbral eclipse" on the same night are among astronomical highlights of September, according to University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

The beginning of fall on September 22 is marked by "the autumnal equinox, when the sun in its apparent yearly journey crosses the equator on its way south," says Losh.

During the autumnal equinox, "the day and night are said to be equal," according to Losh. But this is not strictly true, she notes, because, as a result of the earth's atmosphere refracting the sun's light, the day and night will really be equal on September 26.

"Although on the 22nd, the sun is really above the horizon for 12 hours it is visible for 11 minutes longer," notes Losh. "As the sunlight enters the atmosphere, it comes to a more dense region, and its light is bent or refracted, so that it appears lifted into view making the sun visible." This phenomenon occurs before the sun rises above the horizon and after it sets.

Losh notes that "the moon that comes to full phase on September 27 at 4:17 a.m. is designated as the harvest moon. The harvest moon is defined as the full moon that comes nearest the date of the autumnal equinox."

Losh says that in late September "the nearly full moon will rise at approximately the same hour for several nights in succession, and hence there will be an unusual amount of bright moonlight in the early evenings. The harvest moon is likely to appear larger than usual and take on quite a reddish appearance near the horizon."

Another highlight of the month, says Losh, is that the full moon of September 27 will enter "penumbral eclipse."

"In penumbral eclipses, the dimming of the moon is so slight that usually they go unnoticed, even by astronomers. The penumbra or partial shadow is where the light from the sun is partly but not wholly cut off by the earth," according to the U-M astronomer.

On September 27 the moon will reach the penumbra at 2:19 a.m., with this partial shadow remaining until 6:41 a.m. The "most pronounced dimming, or middle of the eclipse," will come at 4:30 a.m., says Losh.

Prominent constellations of the month include Pegasus and Andromeda in the eastern sky, with Cassiopeia, Cepheus and Perseus farther to the north, according to Losh.

"Again one has to turn to the eastern morning sky for the antics of the planets," continues Losh.

"Venus continues to be the bright one, rising about two hours before the sun. Mars and Jupiter — Jupiter the brighter of the two — are to the right of Venus, and on September 4 were only one-half degree apart. Saturn joined this morning group only one-half degree from Venus on September 18."

Solutions

The birds and the squirrels will first eat the corn That is shelled from the cob and lies free, Like a man who will walk full length of the burn To avoid climbing over the lea.

The higher we climb, the more can be seen; It's the challenge that tests our days; The greater our effort, the more we can glean To solve life's intricate ways.

Charles E. Hutton

Beach Fire

I was long at the beach that day; it was so hot that I almost thought the taste in my mouth was sun. In and out of the weeds, the colored butterflies played; their patterns also caught the sun... its fiery heat beating down on them, creating minute sparkles against the sky.

As I watched them playing, I felt as if I were witness to a playground too secret to be known to all... a faraway visitor known to a hidden place of privacy... almost an intruder. It was all so beautiful; even when the sun went down. Yet I took the sights and silence home with me to where memories are stored forever, especially those of wonder and beauty.

Love Reaches Out

Sometimes we are not sure... tides change and like the wind, we may wave goodbye to yesterdays... or have ourselves blown onward toward tomorrow too quickly... and yet we all know of human love. We may not always be sure of what we are... but there is always the beautiful truth found in what it is that we feel, whether in yesterday, today, or within hopes of tomorrow.

EILEEN M. MULLANY

EILEEN M. MULLANY of Northville has been appointed assistant manager of the Southfield-based Detroit General Motors major medical claim office of Connecticut General Insurance Company.

Mullany, a graduate of the College of Mount St. Vincent's, began her company career in 1973 at its Medicare claim office in Connecticut and has been serving as office supervisor of CG's Indianapolis dental claim office since 1976.

The Southfield office processes medical insurance claims for employees and retirees of General Motors throughout the country.

Connecticut General is one of the largest underwriters of group life, health, and dental insurance plans in the country.

MOST HOMEOWNER PACKAGE insurance policies provide off-premises coverage for personal property away from the family home, according to Denise Biegert of South Lyon, local agent for Farm Bureau Insurance Group. This includes clothing and other personal possessions taken along to college in most cases, however, expensive items such as costly stereo equipment or jewelry may not be covered unless special provisions are made. Total off-premises coverage is usually limited to 10 percent of the total amount of insurance on the homeowner's personal property, Biegert explained.

If the student will be driving a personal car while away at college, parents should inform their local insurance agent because some automobile policy adjustments may be necessary. On the other hand, if a young driver has been using the family car during high school years, but will not be going away to college without a car, the family may be entitled to some reduction in auto insurance rates.

LOWELL L. PEACOCK, president of Security Bancorp, Inc., and Daniel Mercure, president of The Newport State Bank, jointly announced that their boards of directors have signed an agreement for The Newport State Bank of Newport, Michigan, with its branch, to join Security Bank and Trust Company of Southgate and Security Bank of Novi as a subsidiary of Security Bancorp, Inc. of Southgate, Michigan, a bank holding company.

Peacock stated, "Monroe County has a very good future for population and business growth. We are pleased to be able to assist The Newport State Bank in providing the most modern and efficient service for all individual consumers and for all businesses."

Mercure added, "the agreement will permit The Newport State Bank to continue to operate with its present Board of Directors, officers and staff. However, it will have the backing and the support of a much larger organization, which will help The Newport State Bank to expand its loan services and provide additional services such as Trust to the Monroe County area."

'Ride for Research' slated

This column is open to news of all breeds of horses and ponies. Send your questions, comments, and horse show news to: "Sally Saddle," care of South Lyon Herald, South Lyon, MI 48178.

Ride for Research

A fund-raising "Ride for Research" has been slated for Saturday, October 1, beginning at noon in the Pinckney Recreation area sponsored by the Livingston County Horse Leaders Club.

The 15-mile trail ride will be a part of the third annual national Ride for Research, a project of the Denver-based Morris Animal Foundation. Proceeds will finance research at veterinary schools into health problems of horses.

In rides for research, horsemen obtain sponsors who pledge various amounts of money per mile ridden. A total of 150 groups throughout the United States organized rides in 1975 and '76, raising more than $75,000 to make possible studies of equine reproductive problems and colic, the number one killer of adult horses, at four veterinary schools.

Barn Busters 4-H Club, one of several clubs cooperating in the Livingston County Ride, took part in the Ride for Research each of the past two years, raising a total of $999.70.

The 1977 Livingston County Ride for Research will begin and end at Hell Creek Ranch, 10820 Cedar Lake Road, Pinckney. All participants in the ride will receive certificates while horsemen certifying $15 or more also will be awarded special Rider for Research shoulder patches.

Horsemen interested in joining the Ride for Research may contact

Doug Jones, 3015 Monks Road, Pinckney 48169, phone 313-878-6190.

Morris Animal Foundation, originator of the ride, is a public, non-profit foundation that has funded more than 200 studies to benefit horses and other companion animals. One of the research projects currently funded is a study of laminitis, the leading crippling of horses, at Michigan State University.

Owners of Hell Creek Ranch invite interested persons to come to the ranch on Friday, September 30, and camp over, participate in the ride on Saturday, stay for the campfire on Saturday night and ride the trails on their own on Sunday.

Camping is available in either the modern or rustic campgrounds and there are some box and tie stalls available.

For more information on the camping weekend, call the ranch at 313-878-3632.

THE ART GALLERY, Incorporated, a joint venture of three young Northville women, is presenting a show of marine paintings and collector prints of James Clary, along with scrimshaw and Marine artifacts, September 18 to 30 at the gallery at 459 South Main in Plymouth.

A champagne open house from noon to 5 p.m. last Sunday launched the show. Next Sunday, September 25, the artist will unveil his pen and ink drawing of "The Mayflower" (symbolic of Plymouth) which was commissioned for this show. He has contributed 100 prints of this piece to benefit Growth Works, a community youth service organization.

The highly respected marine artist has created two fascinating marine historical collections, sponsors report. These limited edition, signed and numbered art prints have been created with great respect for the sea, its ships and those who sailed them. The Great lakes series is based on those vessels whose legends have created the history of the lakes. The Feared Vessels series portrays compelling mysteries of the sea through imaginative paintings. A historical sketch is available with each piece, including a special release, "The Edmund Fitzgerald." A third series, Classics of the Sea, is in progress and will include famous clippers, battles, racing events and other major historical sea classics.

The artist developed his interest in nautical lore during his childhood spend along the Detroit and St. Clair rivers. He does much research for detail and accuracy, according to the gallery owners, Carol Swienckowski, Jane Dugan and Kay Westling.

NATIONAL BANK of Detroit has announced the appointment of Arthur C. Miles of Northville as assistant vice president in its regional banking division.

An NBD employee for 30 years, Miles is manager of the bank's Quinder-Eight Mile branch in Detroit.

He holds a bachelor of business administration degree from the University of Detroit. He is past president of the Motor City Lions Club and a member of St. Kenneth Parish in Plymouth.

DARLING Mobile Home Sales, Inc., Novi, was recently named a Million Dollar Dealer by the Elkhart, Indiana, Division of Skyline Corporation. Owners Tom and Judy Darling (left) received their award for this achievement during dealer days hosted by Skyline at Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort, Lincolnshire, Illinois. "A GOOD TURNOUT" was on hand this past weekend for the formal grand opening of Brookside Hardware, located in Northville's newest shopping center at Novi Road and Allen Drive. Gifts, clowns, popcorn and an antique fire truck were among the attractions. The hardware is owned and operated by Roy Bushie & Sons.

DONNA'S NEEDLEPOINT shop at 150 Mary Alexander Court in Northville has changed ownership. Marjory Cinader, who lives in Highland Lakes subdivision and has been an area resident since 1951, has purchased the business. It now is Village Needlepoint Shop.

Needlepoint long has been a hobby of Mrs. Cinader's. She reports that the same lines will be carried at the shop with new ones to be added. Classes began this week with sessions scheduled all through the winter season. Salespersons Sue Lott and Carleen Harwick will continue. Added to the staff will be Mrs. Cinader's daughters, Jannel Cox and Linda Cinader.

Former owner Donna Poster and her husband are retiring to Dallas, Texas.

Nancy Dickerson, prominent national correspondent, reports for Detroit Edison:

"Before another cold winter, learn about the heat pump. It's one of the most energy-efficient ways to heat your home."

Today's heat pump is one of the most energy-efficient ways to heat your home, apartment, office or commercial building. It returns over 1½ units of heat for every unit of energy it uses.

Think what this can mean in conserving energy and helping to keep your heating and cooling costs down.

There's a unique reason why the heat pump is an outstandingly efficient heating system.

It makes good use of outdoor heat.

Yes. Even in winter there's heat in the outdoor air that can help keep you warm. The trick is to move that heat inside where you can use it. That's what the heat pump does. Only during very low temperatures is supplementary heat needed.

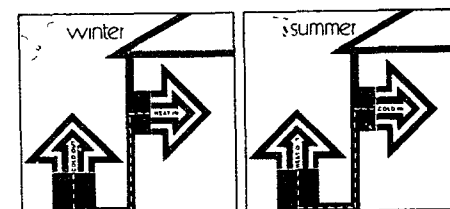

In summer, the heat pump moves heat out of your home for energy-efficient cooling. It's an all-year comfort system that also filters and dehumidifies. And it's clean because no fossil fuel is burned in your home.

The heat pump works something like your refrigerator.

A heat pump is more sophisticated, but it works in much the same way. Imagine the cold air in your refrigerator as the cold winter air outside your home. The hot air that you sometimes feel being blown into your kitchen is actually being extracted from the cold air inside the unit. This is how the heat pump warms your home. In summer, the process is reversed to cool your home: the heat in the inside air is extracted by the heat pump and moved outdoors.

Here's how the heat pump works.

See for yourself.

You can see heat pumps in the new homes displaying the Detroit Edison EEE Award. This Award is presented to builders who incorporate energy-efficient excellence standards into their homes—including proper insulation, energy-efficient appliances and lighting, as well as electric heat pump heating and cooling. Ask Detroit Edison for names and locations of builders who have EEE Award homes on display.

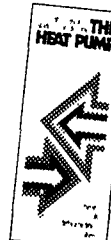

Conserving with comfort.

Detroit Edison wants you to know about the heat pump because it generally is the most energy-efficient way to provide homes and buildings with year-round comfort.

The heat pump can also be an important answer to conservation because the natural heat it uses helps save our non-renewable fossil fuels.

As a concerned participant in America's crusade for conservation, Detroit Edison is working hard to do its part. But it requires a working partnership between those who supply energy and those who use it. So if you're planning on buying, building or replacing your present heating system, consider a heat pump as part of your plans.

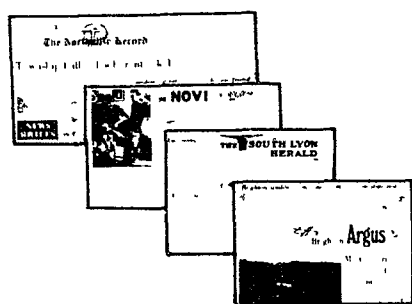

Detroit Edison has a folder, "Your all-season space conditioner, The Heat Pump." Pick one up at any Detroit Edison Customer Office and learn more about this energy-efficient way to heat and cool homes and buildings. Or write to: Customer Relations, Detroit Edison, 2000 Second, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Conserve for all it's worth. The power is in your hands.

Dugan home's a treasury of artistic ideas

BY JEAN DAY

"It's an art gallery."

That's the comment of many first-time visitors to the New England colonial on Sutters Lane Court which will be open on the Northville Home Tour this Thursday.

The John Dugan home, although only two years old has a warmth and individuality rare in a new house. This may be due in part to the fact that Jane Dugan, who was an art major at the University of New Mexico, is one of the owners of The Art Gallery, Incorporated, in Plymouth.

Pictures cover both walls of the stairway to the second floor. The family room also has a floor-to-ceiling arrangement, and prints, etchings, oils and sketches are used throughout the home.

"I do it by eye," Mrs. Dugan says when asked how she combines different subjects and periods. "If they're things you like, they tend to work."

Beneath the chair rail on the stairway and in the halls she has used a green stripe wallpaper.

This New England colonial in Northville Commons is a home rich with art

Mrs. Dugan also has blended colors as the green of the entrance is replaced by blue grasscloth walls in a small study to the right. It is furnished in Country French.

In the kitchen and family room at the rear a paisley-like wallpaper in pleasing pinks and greens covers the walls. The colors are repeated in the stained glass window over the sink. A specially designed floral stained glass window in the dining room sets the pastel color scheme for the dining-living areas.

One wall in the connecting kitchen-family area is decorated with early tools and kitchen implements. Mrs. Dugan explains that her husband's mother grew up on a ranch in Estes Park, Colorado, and had saved many of these things.

Under the arrangement is a dark walnut pew from a Northern Michigan church.

John Dugan did the molding trim in this area and the extensive wood embellishment through the home.

Not only has he installed shutters on many windows, but in an upstairs interior bath has created a trompe l'oeil window with shutters and framing.

Dugan, who is district manager for Santa Fe, calls the extensive work he has done on the home his "therapy," and often changes into work clothes for an hour or so before going off to township planning commission meetings. He is commission chairman.

In both the master bedroom and the guest room he has built fireplaces. While they are not operative, they provide room focal points.

In the bedroom of 12-year-old daughter Leslie, her father has built a canopy bed with wood frame covered with swags Mrs. Dugan sewed of fabric to match the predominantly blue patchwork wallpaper.

In this room antique lovers will appreciate the handsome Victorian cradle that rocked Leslie and her brother when they were babies and now holds her doll collection.

The bedroom of her brother, John, 8, contains a trundle bed, a space-saving idea that permits youngsters to have guests and yet leaves room for other

Three-day exhibit

Weavers show off cottage 'home'

Northville Handweavers Guild, a group of people brought together through their common interest in the fiber arts, is celebrating a move to its own "home" this week.

The three-year old guild in the past has been meeting in the old library building in the Mill Race Village but today will celebrate the first event in the red and tan Gothic cottage to be known as the weavers' cottage in the Mill Race.

While creating professional quality wall pieces, baskets and other weavings, the group also has been using hammers, saws and paintbrushes to restore and renovate the cottage.

The handweavers are celebrating the opening of their new home and holding a preview of their upcoming exhibit and sale with a "wine preview" today for members and invited guests.

This Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. the exhibit and sale will be held in the cottage in conjunction with the Northville Home Tour and the Tivoli Fair sponsored by the Northville Historical Society at Northville Downs.

The public is invited without charge to see the exhibit of many items, both traditional and contemporary, including wall hangings, pillows, linens, shawls, among other weavings. All were juried September 14 for design, creativity, color, technique, composition and concept.

The newly painted weavers' cottage sits next to the stream just over the bridge at the Mill Race Historical Village entrance off Griswold. Paul Folino donated the building to the Northville Historical Society who decided it should be used as a home for the Northville Handweavers Guild in return for the guild's restoring it for meetings, workshops and demonstrations.

The project is being led by Wanda Huber of the handweavers, who is working with Fran Gazlay of the Northville Historical Society. The cottage was built around 1891 and sat on Center Street until 1976 when it was moved to the Mill Race Village.

The guild is drawing its membership from many communities in Wayne and Oakland counties near Northville. President Martha Moses-Dollens lives in Plymouth. Vice President Jane Brown is from Northville.

Other officers are Eileen Cook, Plymouth, treasurer; Dianne Little, Livonia, recording secretary; Julie Stowe, Walled Lake, corresponding secretary. The membership also represents Novi, Orchard Lake, Royal Oak, Milford and Farmington.

Tivoli Fair stars local craftsmen

By JEAN DAY

Shopping for Christmas in September can be a very practical idea if you're looking for unusual craft gifts. Nicole Anderson, chairman for the Northville Historical-sponsored Tivoli Fair being held Thursday through Saturday at Northville Downs, is excited about the variety of craft booths at the fair which opens at noon tomorrow.

Mary Beth Baxter, whose personalized wood "welcome" signs decorate many Northville doorways, has been working on tin and wood items in her studio. The Donald Baxters, with daughters Heather and Amy, moved to the red home at 19061 Sheldon overlooking the racetrack the last day of June. Here Mrs. Baxter has her own studio where she decorates the one-of-a-kind tin and wood pieces. "My father does most of my purchasing," she confides, telling how he searches out garage sales wherever he travels.

"That's why I am able to have some rather unusual pieces," she mentions. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson of Naples, Florida, are visiting right now to help her get ready for the fair. Her father did his garage sale searching through the east on a reunion visit with her three sisters in Sturbridge.

Judy Berlinski, who moved to 22058 Cumberland with her husband Allen and three young children a year ago, has been preparing for the fair since February. "I went to the fair last year and knew I wanted to be in it this year," she explains, telling how she's been making tiny cookie dough ornaments as small as a thumb and up to two-to-three inches high.

"I work after the children go to bed and have about 225 of them," she says. There are skiers and little girls carrying baskets filled with apples in the collection, all coated and ready to hang on a tree or decorate a package. Part of their special charm is their small size.

John Zawadski and Joe DeLoye, partners who opened the Tiffany Art Glass shop on Main Street the beginning of June, will have a booth of art objects at the fair. Area residents who haven't yet climbed the stairs to their shop will see their stained glass lamps, chandeliers and windows at the fair.

Sandy Carrow of 42244 Ludlow Court is another local resident whose work will be displayed at the fair. "She is a painter who does ballet scenes in charcoal, chalk and water colors," Mrs. Anderson reports. It has been decided that the fair admission will be just $1 with senior citizens welcome at half price.

Blooms wed 50 years

Mr. and Mrs. C. Harold Bloom received congratulations on their 50th wedding anniversary from 130 friends at an open house given by their daughters and their husbands Sunday afternoon, September 11. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lyon and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams were hosts at the Lyon home on West Main. It had been the Blooms' home until they retired about seven years ago.

The Blooms had lived in Northville since their marriage September 8, 1927. He founded C. Harold Bloom Insurance Agency. After the open house they left for their summer home on St. Joseph Island in Canada. They now divide their time between it and a winter apartment in Sarasota, Florida.

Party marks Mrs. Cook's 95 birthday

Church friends and neighbors of Mrs. Ward A. (Jennie) Cook helped her celebrate her 95th birthday last Wednesday at her home at 242 South Center. A decorated cake marked the event for the long-time Northville resident who moved into her present home as a bride more than 50 years ago. It was her late husband's family home, and the couple lived there throughout their marriage except for a short time when they were in Duluth.

Ward Cook, who was 90 when he died, was an early superintendent of the Northville Fish Hatchery. Mrs. Cook is a member of First Presbyterian Church and of the Northville Order of Eastern Star.

They work for symphony

Active member of the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Mrs. Gerry Powledge of Northville last Monday recruited two friends, Mrs. Charles Fountain and Mrs. Robert Sellen, to help with a fourth annual "thank you" project for the orchestra. Following the orchestra's first rehearsal of the season, members of the women's association and the junior women's association hosted a picnic downtown. Volunteers like the local trio packed box lunches for the orchestra members to enjoy with Michigan wine.

Ann Robertson wed

Ann Louise Robertson wore a gown of ivory peau de sole with fitted bodice and capelet sleeves of Chantilly lace for her marriage to William Clifford Gourlay at 11 a.m. August 20 at Lake Pointe Bible Chapel.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. F. Edward Robertson of Lexington Commons in Northville and the late Dr. F. Edward Robertson.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Gourlay of Detroit. The Reverend Richard Sullivan officiated at the double-ring ceremony in which special vocal selections were sung by Hugh Gullede.

Given in marriage by her brother, Edward, the bride carried ivory-shaded roses, stephanotis and English ivy.

Insets of Chantilly lace embroidered with seed pearls were scattered over the full skirt of her gown. Her chapel train of illusion was edged with scalloping of the Chantilly lace.

Mrs. Ginny Gullede was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Caron Eddy and sisters of the bride and bridegroom, respectively, Mary Beth Robertson and Nancy Gourlay. They wore pale blue dresses styled with short capelet sleeves and carried small, crescent-shaped bouquets of blue flowers. Small floral headpieces were worn in their hair.

John Gourlay was best man for his brother. Ushers were Michael Melford, Richard Waskin and Algis Augustiniatis.

A reception at the Mayflower Meeting House followed the ceremony.

After a trip through the western states, the newlyweds will live in Northville where the bridegroom is a partner in the Weskonson Company Builders in the Northville Area.

See Quester antiques, Yerkes house wallpaper

Do-it-yourself wallpaper hangers afterward often relate that the experience was one that rocked the harmony of the household.

Anyone who ever has papered can appreciate the effort it took to apply strips as long as 17 feet to the handsome staircase of the Yerkes House in Mill Race Village.

Thanks to John Burkman, E. A. Chapman and Donald Soper who perched on high ladders, the job of applying the documentary floral stripe paper in the front hall has been completed in time for Northville Home Tour visitors to view this Thursday.

The beige background of the wine-stripe paper was chosen to blend with the butternut wood of the staircase.

For the first time visitors will see some of the furnishings that have been acquired for the Victorian home.

While many think of the Mill Race Historical Village as a community project, it in reality has received help from interested people in many parts of the country.

Mrs. John Burkman, who heads the furnishings committee for the house, reports that both state and national Questers have been major contributors to the home.

Through the efforts of John and Ruth Burkman the Questers antiques society became interested in the restoration project.

Michigan State Questers have just completed a two-year project to furnish the dining room while the National Questers furnished the living room and front hall.

Mrs. Edward K. Sampson and members of her Michigan Historical Preservation Committee composed of past state Quester presidents have completed final purchases of dining room furnishings for a total donation of $2,500.

The group attended auctions and searched for months for appropriate pieces for the home.

Last week Mrs. Sampson was in Northville to view the newly papered hallway and watch preparations for the tour Thursday.

Mrs. Sampson, a resident of Franklin, commented that the Northville project and its association with Mrs. Burkman and others involved at the Mill Race, including Mrs. Bruce Butske, education and research chairman, turned out to be "a most pleasant one."

They became friends, she mentioned, as they found and purchased four matching Victorian chairs with needlepoint seats and four other similar ones with needlepoint and velvet seats in crotched mahogany.

A mahogany frame American

Empire mirror, a Victorian walnut table 18 inches square with a grey marble top and two Victorian lamp bases were bought from the estate of Miss Geraldine Brasie.

Mrs. Sampson explained that she was a well-known scholar, historian and educator in the early 1900's in Detroit. A large round mahogany table with three leaves completes the setting for the chairs.

Another shopping trip by these Questers resulted in purchase of a 9 by 12-foot Oriental rug and a six-foot sideboard. The sideboard was from the Cudlip estate in Grosse Pointe.

The Questers then began a search for an elegant piece to decorate the dining room table as would have been appropriate when the house was first furnished. The result is a Waterford crystal epergne dating to 1840.

On Norma Sampson's committee have been Mrs. Fred J. Schumann and Mrs. E. A. Hahn, both of Grosse Pointe, Mrs. William Paratore of Roseville and Mrs. Charles O. Walker of Farmington, all past state presidents.

While area Questers have been visiting the Mill Race to see what's happened at the restorations, Questers from all over the country will see it on a special tour when the National Quester Convention is held in Dearborn in 1980.

New church gets official status October 2

An idea hatched in Northville a decade ago will become a reality next month when the Presbyterian mission church in Novi is formally organized.

A petition requesting official organization of Faith-Community United Presbyterian Church is presently before the metropolitan Detroit Presbytery, which will convey full-fledged church status to the Novi congregation on Sunday, October 2.

"It's really an exciting and historic moment for both of our congregations," said the two key clergymen instrumental in the establishment.

For the Reverend Lloyd Brasure, pastor of the Northville Church who conceived the idea of a church in Novi, it is a "beautiful dream come true," and for the Reverend Richard Henderson, former assistant of Mr. Brasure and now the organizing pastor of Faith Community, it is the culmination of a year of preparation.

"It's my personal philosophy that two smaller churches rather than a large, impersonal one is the best approach," explained Mr. Brasure, who noted that as an assistant pastor of a large church in Flint he found "mass production" ministering less than desirable.

For baptisms, he remembered, it was like an assembly line where meaningful attention to this important religious moment was missing.

Having this feeling, Mr. Brasure sent a letter to the Presbytery some years ago expressing an opinion that establishment of a Presbyterian Church in Novi should be considered. The letter sparked little interest, however, and apparently was shelved and later discarded.

Meanwhile, Henderson became Brasure's assistant.

Mr. Henderson liked his work in Northville, but candidly admitted that he would have preferred to be involved with church development.

So when about a year ago the Detroit Presbytery asked Northville if it thought Novi should have its own church, the two local clergymen had difficulty containing their enthusiasm.

With a new Presbytery staff on board in Detroit, nobody remembered that Mr. Brasure had years earlier proposed such a church.

"Naturally, there was some concern locally that establishment of a Novi church might hurt our membership in Northville since a number of our members lived there," said Mr. Brasure.

Then last September a house-to-house survey in Novi's two newest and largest subdivisions was launched to determine the religious affiliation or interest of the households.

"We found that about 55-percent were Catholics or interested in that church, four to five percent were Jewish, six percent were Presbyterian, and the remainder were associated with other Protestant denominations," said Mr. Henderson.

It was a "very positive" signal.

Thus, on November 21 the first worship service for the new church was held with the blessing of the Northville congregation.

Mr. Henderson became the organizing pastor, who retained his duties in Northville until August when his assistant pastorage officially dissolved and he took up full time Novi duties. He retains an office in the Northville church, however.

Beginning with between 30 and 40 persons, the membership has risen steadily. Today attendance is averaging about 100 at Sunday services.

Since that first service, members have been meeting for worship in the multi-purpose room of Village Oaks Elementary School. "The accommodations are excellent," said Mr. Henderson, who said that besides the multi-purpose room five classrooms also are being rented for Sunday School classes.

The mission church has a $36,000 operational budget, with about $12,000 coming from Novi members and the remainder from Northville, the Detroit Presbytery, the synod, and the national church organization.

At the point of becoming self-supporting and now about to become a full-fledged church, Faith Community has already begun planning for a church building.

Backed by a $75,000 loan from the synod, an attractive 20-acre site recently was purchased on 10-Mile Road, near Glenda — opposite of where the proposed Novi municipal complex would be located and very near the new Novi library.

The land includes 330 feet of frontage on 10 Mile Road.

"We think it is an ideal location," said Mr. Henderson. "We wanted a place west of Novi Road because it is there that future growth of the community will occur and because we didn't want to compete with existing churches east of Novi Road."

Mr. Henderson predicted the new church building will become a reality within two or three years.

Meanwhile, Mr. Brasure reports that establishment of the Novi church has not hurt Northville membership.

"We lost about 20 adults to Novi. About 18 of our families were Novi residents, and of these about 11 were active. We've found now that those who were previously inactive have revived their active participation in Novi. So our 'loss' is really a gain in the work of the Lord."

Northville's membership is at its highest level, approximating 1,000. Church facilities in Northville are designed to serve between 1,000 and 1500 persons.

"A surprisingly large number of the Northville members come from the center of the community," said Mr.

Brasure, reflecting in part the older sections of the town.

Northville is one of the oldest Presbyterian churches in the Midwest. It was founded in 1829.

Ironically, Northville finds itself sponsoring a Presbyterian church in Novi where its own beginning took root. Northville was sponsored by a small Farmington church, then located near the Novi home of Erastus Ingersoll — first settler in Novi and the man instrumental in organizing the Farmington church.

Thus, what pioneering Novi residents did for Northville 150 years ago, Northville does for Novi today.

PTSO meeting to introduce new principal

Dr. George Aune, new principal at Northville High School, will be introduced to the community at the first general PTSO meeting at 8 p.m. this Thursday in the high school cafeteria. It was pointed out at the first fall PTSO board meeting that Dr. Aune's main objective "will be to restore pride and spirit within the school."

He will be available for questions and comments later in the evening when refreshments are served.

PTSO board members and officers also will be present to answer questions and discuss ideas.

New officers are Libby Lockwood president, Paul Osborn, vice president; Elaine Hinman, treasurer; and Helen Schneider, secretary.

Board members include Margaret Renaud, Lorri Hopping, John Eltinge, Donald Lindemeir, Richard Bookwalter, Ben Lauber, Charles Apap and Jack Wickens.

PTSDO board meetings are the first Thursday of every month from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the library conference room. The public is encouraged to participate.

Still room to shape up, says YMCA

There is still room to get back into shape after the lazy days of summer — at least in the slim and trim exercise class offered at the First Presbyterian Church in Northville by the Canton, Northville, Plymouth YMCA.

Aerobics — a strenuous form of exercise done to music — will be taught, a YMCA spokesperson said. Calisthenics such as jumping jacks, push-ups, sit-ups and running are part of the exercise program.

There will be two sessions meeting from 10-11 a.m. on Monday and-or Friday for adults.

Session I begins September 26 and continues until November 4. Session II begins November 7 and ends December 16.

Fees for the one-day-a-week program are $9 for YMCA members and $12 for non-members. Costs for the two-day-per-week program are $11 for members and $14 for non-members.

Other programs are offered by the YMCA outside Northville. Youth programs include creative dance, tap dance, ballet, group piano, beginning croquet, group flute, and guitar. Children may also participate in classes such as football skills, tumbling, soccer skills, and tennis.

For more information contact the YMCA office at 292 South Main in Plymouth at 453-2904.

A special "Get Acquainted Week" during the third week of September will launch several important events for Schoolcraft College students this fall.

Details of the events, which have been announced by the student activities office, are contained in the college's student handbook, INFO 77, a tabloid newspaper distributed to students.

During the opening weeks of classes, the student activities office will be recruiting students for some 20 student organizations ranging from the student newspaper and student senate to various clubs and the All-Campus Student Programming Board (ACSPB), a group responsible for providing educational and entertaining events at a low cost to students.

Highlights of the office's fall plans include:
• A second season for Friday Night at the Center, a series of low cost programs which is set for each Friday of the term. Three current hit comedy movies are planned, as well as a return performance by psychic-hypnotist Gil Eagles. Dinner-theater, a folk contest, a classical music night, dances and two Schoolcraft College Gourmet Club dinners round out the Friday night series.

• The student newspaper, the Campus Globe, will publish weekly beginning Monday, September 19, with Dan White of Livonia as editor.

Singles club meets Friday

First fall meeting for Singles, a group for single adults from 18 to 40 years old, will begin with a fellowship hour at 6:30 p.m. this Friday at First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Dinner will be at 7:30 p.m. with reservations at $4 to be made with Ann Jarvi, 349-0064, or Pat Kuxhaus, 459-4825.

The Reverend Sam Dobrotka, leader of Detroit Teen Challenge who also has a radio ministry, will be the speaker.

Planners announce he will be "ministering to the unique needs of singles and drawing on his love for the Lord Jesus Christ and the many blessings and answers to needs in his life by God."

The new Singles group is non-denominational.

"Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted in me? . . ." (Psalm 42:5)

The Psalmist was going through a time of deep depression. A problem common of our time. Multitudes seek the counsel of psychologists for this problem. Many suicidal deaths are prompted because of extreme depression. To be sure the one in any state of depression needs help. Where did the Psalmist find help? In God! He hoped in Him, he remembered Him, and he praised Him! Depressed one, your help is in God! The Bible-believing Christian can guide you to the solution for your depression. Don't walk the road of sorrow when you can walk the road of joy.

activities. Ship-and-map print wallpaper is a foil for his model ship collection displayed on shelves on one wall.

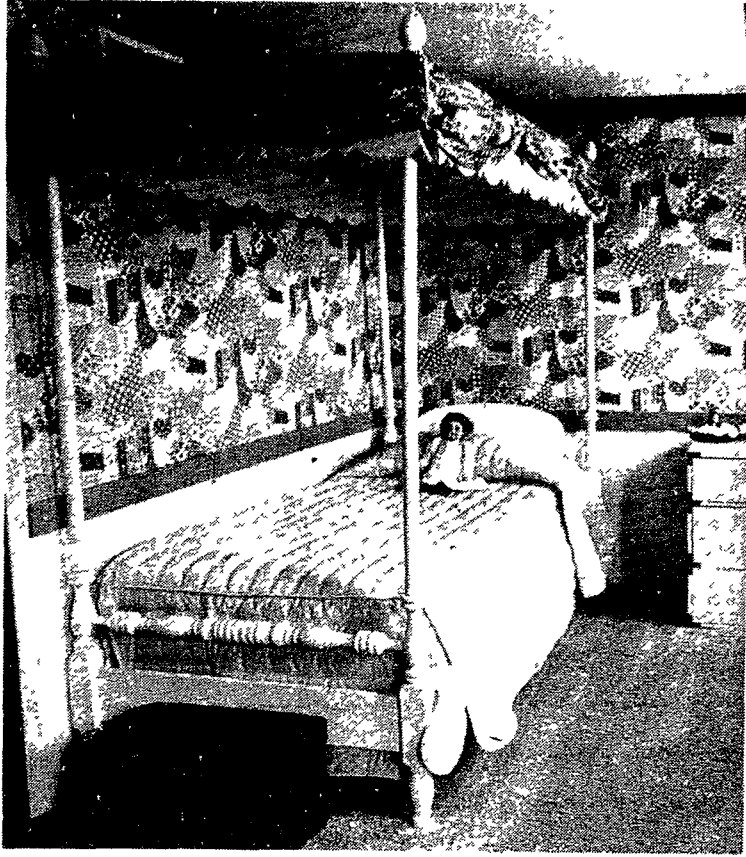

Among the many unusual items in this home that combines new-and-old is a pointalist picture at the top of the stairs over a desk.

"The eye connects the dots in the woody scene," explains Jane Dugan, inviting a close inspection that reveals red dots in the trees that aren't apparent in casual viewing of the striking scene.

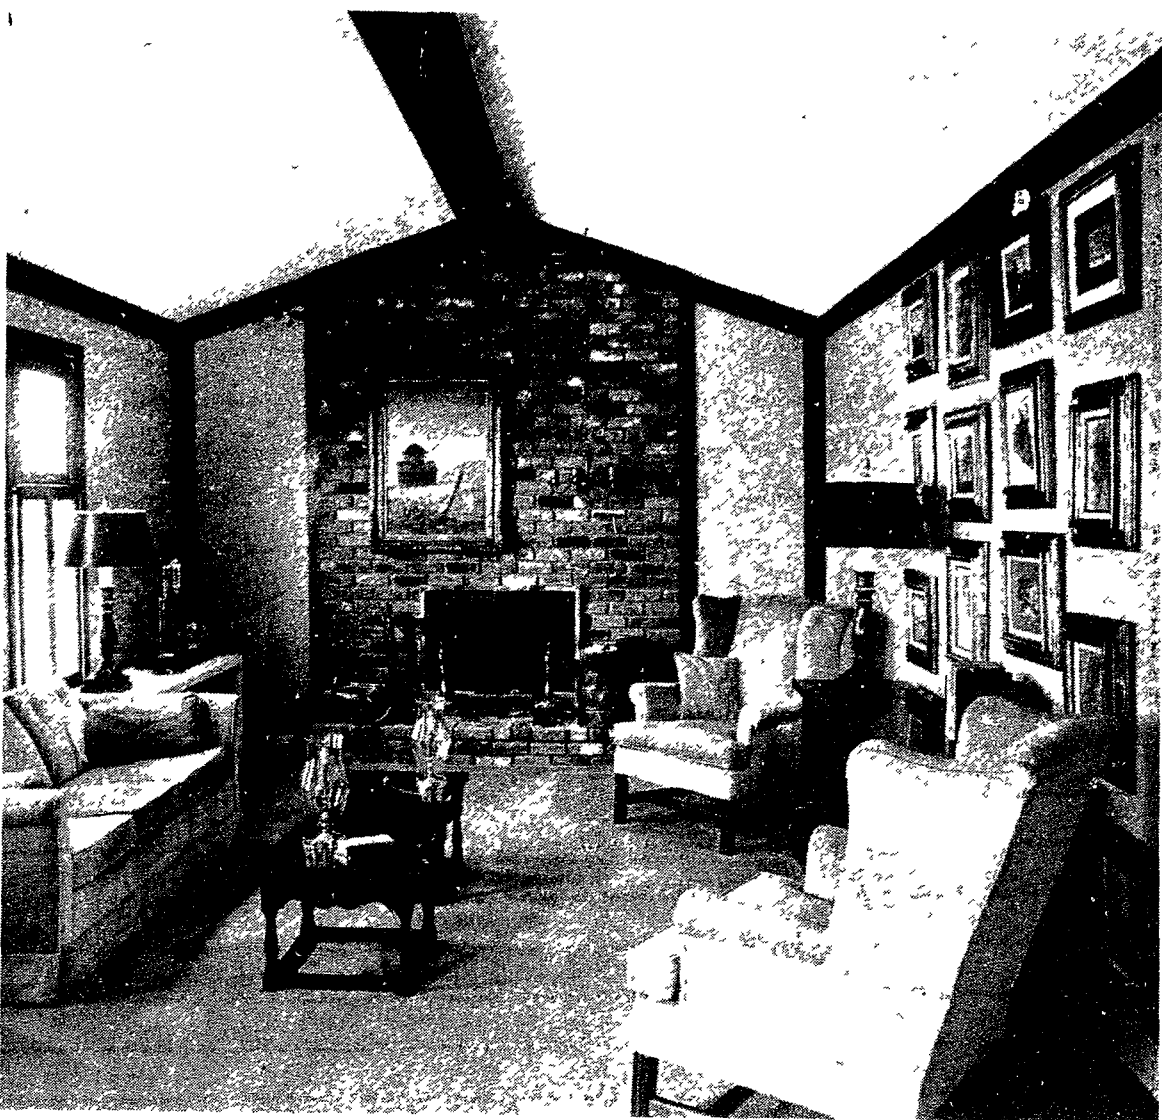

Only work on display in the house by Jane Dugan is an etching in the living room. But art and framing are big interests that Mrs. Dugan shares professionally in the gallery by the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth with co-owners Carol Swienkowski and Kay Westling.

Everyone taking the 11th annual home tour co-sponsored by the Northville Historical Society and the Women's Association of the Presbyterian Church from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow will find there's much to appreciate in this home.

Tour tickets will be available at the church, the Mill Race Village and Northville Downs for $3.50. They will entitle ticketholders to visit buildings in the Mill Race Historical Village and six homes, varying from the new home of the Dugans to others more than a century old.

from State Representative
JACK KIRKSEY

The Michigan State House of Representatives convenes September 19.

This newsletter also serves as a means for me to express my sincere appreciation to all of you for this opportunity to serve you. I will do my utmost to earn the trust and confidence reflected in the June election.

UPDATE

Northville Prison Site

The people of the 35th District have a large stake in the final outcome of our State's overcrowded prison problem. The Northville Child Development Center, a seminary in Holland, the Hudson warehouse in Detroit, and the Kincheloe Air Force Base in the upper peninsula continue to be proposed sites for new prison facilities.

Thus far the only site where plans are definite is the Kincheloe Air Force Base. The status of the Northville proposed prison site remains uncertain.

The problem of overcrowded conditions in our State prisons urgently demands a solution. As we seek a solution to this problem, there should be as little hardship as possible to the communities surrounding the sites that receive final approval.

As a potential site, Northville certainly does not logically meet the selection criteria. I believe that other possibilities, such as Detroit's Hudson warehouse or expansion of the Detroit House of Correction facilities, would be better solutions to our overcrowding problem.

Raising The Drinking Age

Bills have been introduced in both the House and the Senate to raise the legal drinking age in Michigan. The legal age is currently 18 and different bills propose different age levels, from 19 to 21. The new legislation is a direct result of traffic statistics linking alcohol consumption among younger people to increased traffic accidents. Another factor has been the growing concern among parents, teachers, and school administrators over the prevalence of alcohol in the high schools.

Since the legal age of majority in Michigan is 18, this naturally raises the question of whether or not it is constitutional to deny to some legal adults privileges which are accorded to others solely on the basis of age.

Senate Bills Nos. 31 and 32, which would raise the legal drinking age to 19, are now in the House Committee on Civil Rights.

State Police Appropriations

Approximately a year ago Governor Milliken ordered the State Police to patrol the Detroit freeways. This action was the result of the Detroit Police Department's difficulty in fighting crime on the expressways. Many feel that the State Police have brought the crime problem under control and restored public confidence for those traveling these thoroughfares within the city. A majority of my colleagues in the House of Representatives support the Governor's position in this matter and have voted to keep the State Police on the job.

The Senate members took a position of support for having the Wayne County Sheriff's Deputies patrol the freeways. The AFL/CIO, which represents the Wayne County Sheriff's Deputies, lobbied for this same position.

Presently the question remains unresolved. The Senate has refused to act upon the State Budget, and the House is powerless to act until it has done so. The Governor and Representatives from the major factions involved have created a compromise position which will be presented to the Senate and House members in September.

House Joint Resolution "Q" would provide for a public vote on the question of amending the Michigan Constitution to deny bail prior to trial for people charged with certain violent offenses, or who have a pattern of convictions involving violence, or who commit a violent act while on bail or parole. Right now, bail can only be denied in cases of murder or treason.

There are also proposals to repeal the ban on the death penalty in Michigan, to tighten parole requirements, and to set definite, minimum sentences for certain crimes. Other proposals would tighten our juvenile code to curb the alarming rise in juvenile crime.

On other legal questions, House Bill No. 4603 would decriminalize public possession of small amounts of marijuana; House Bill No. 4204 would revise the state's juvenile code.

Fighting Crime

The number of accidents involving gasoline tanker trailers has been growing at an alarming rate. After the rash of such accidents last winter, the Governor invoked an emergency set of rules for tankers which, among other things, included a 50-mile-an-hour speed limit. Those rules expired September 2nd. Unfortunately, the Legislature failed to do anything about establishing a strict new set of safety rules for tankers before it adjourned. I'll be working to make this a top priority item of business when we return in the fall.

Tanker Safety Rules

As Governor Milliken has proposed, there have been several bills introduced in the House to create a State Department of Energy. Such an agency would coordinate state policy and planning for our future energy needs. Right now, this authority is spread among several offices.

Energy

Also, there are several state proposals to provide some form of assistance to senior citizens in order to help those on limited incomes meet rising utility costs. This would probably take the form of either direct payments or "energy stamps." However, nothing would be enacted until the cost to the state can be determined, so any action would certainly not come until we are into the next fiscal year which begins October 1, 1977.
