TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

Chopped but balanced budget offered

*Format ok'd
for Spear's evaluation*

Countless hours of sometimes tedious work came to fruition Monday night as the Northville board of education unanimously adopted a new instrument for the evaluation of its superintendent of schools.

The new evaluation form — which is hoped to be more relevant and definitive than its predecessor — will be used for the first time next spring when the renewal of Superintendent Raymond Spear's contract is discussed.

The one-page grading sheet contains six "areas of performance" which each school board member will grade as either "commendable," "satisfactory," "needs improvement" or "unsatisfactory."

A seventh category will allow board members to judge how well the superintendent has met the primary goals set for the district each fall by the trustees.

The new evaluation format comes at one of the most crucial times for Spear in his 15 years at Northville.

Spear, under fire from some critics for what they claim is a steadily declining educational system, is in the second year of a three-year contract.

This March, Spear will discover if the board is willing to renew or extend that contract or if it will allow it to expire.

Two board members — James Lewis and Charles Peltz — said in their campaigns last summer that they favored his removal. But Spear also has strong support on the board, particularly among those who see the district's problems as the result of a financial crisis beyond his control.

The six "areas of performance" that the board will be scoring are administrative leadership, personal qualities, school and community relations, staff and personnel relations, educational leadership and business management.

Each of these areas has been divided into two to five subheads — or "specific performance levels" — which will also be graded.

To help the board members with their evaluation, 98 guidelines have been spelled out in back-up material.

Building a mountain

Northville, the hill country of Wayne County, has another mountain in the works as tons and tons of earth are moved from the Allen Terrace Senior Citizens site on historic Buchner Hill south of the high school to what will be the path of the extension of Wing Street to Seven Mile Road. Mrs. Beatrice Carlson, next door neighbor to the street extension project, is less than happy over the turn of events. Last week she evacuated her home when the bulldozer ruptured a gas line. To make matters worse, she said the earth is spilling over onto her property endangering a prize tree. The city purchased an easement for part of the roadway from Mrs. Carlson several years ago and a portion of her house was removed. Removal of the excess dirt from the Allen Terrace site represents excavation for the parking and drive areas at the housing complex slated for opening early in 1978. Fill dirt on the extension project will remain through the winter to allow for settling, with paving scheduled for next spring.

School proposal goes to hearing Monday

The Northville school district tightened its belt another notch Monday as an $80,000 gap between revenues and expenditures was at least temporarily eliminated.

A slightly adjusted, and now balanced, budget of $7,042,000 is now available at the central board offices for inspection prior to next Monday night's public hearing on the budget.

Only a week ago, the school board found itself about $80,000 shy of making ends meet, largely because actual enrollment turned out to be 53 less than projected.

The state school aid formula provides Northville with $1364 for each student enrolled on the fourth Friday of the school year.

School financial director Thomas Goulding, acting on board directives and further research, provided the trustees with a balanced budget Monday night.

Basically, Goulding increased revenue levels by $16,000 on the assumption that interest monies and funds from a one-mill special education levy will be higher than originally projected.

Then, he cut $52,000 out of proposed expenditures.

The largest slice — $24,000 — came from utilities where the school board hopes savings can be realized through increased conservation measures and the promise of a milder winter than last year's.

Other cuts were: replacing two teachers on maternity leave with lesser experienced teachers, $5500; cutting down on the use of substitutes, $4000; clerical adjustments, $4500; transfers, $6000; office supply, $1000; and athletics, $8000.

These changes bring the out-of-balance portion to $12,700 which is the amount of the fund equity obtained last year.

Such a tight budget leaves the district vulnerable to unexpected costs.

(For an idea of the varied ways school officials considered to chop the budget turn to Page 6-B).

No one is comfortable with these savings — or sure they can all be obtained — but the board has said it will do whatever possible to balance the budget without personnel cuts.

This can't be accomplished, warned the board, without cooperation and understanding from the community when unpopular steps are taken to save money.

This point was driven home during Monday night's board meeting when several people in the audience laughed at Superintendent Raymond Spear's announcement that boilers will be turned off "after taking off the morning chill," this winter.

President John Hobart rebuked the crowd and said the practice was often used in the business world.

Allen Terrace

Apartments going fast

Leases have been promised for nearly three-quarters of the apartments in Allen Terrace senior citizens development under construction south of the high school.

Tuesday morning City Manager said a total of 66 deposits of $100 each had been made, with deposit deadlines for the initial applicants now under consideration scheduled October 21.

Most of those who have made deposits, thus sewing up apartments for themselves, are city senior citizens, former city resident senior citizens or parents of city residents. A few are township residents. Many other applications are awaiting the outcome of first-priority applicants.

The 101 apartment unit (one apartment will be occupied by a building manager) is scheduled for opening in February.

Walters said letters to those who have made deposits will go out soon, inviting them to select color schemes and locations of their apartments. Four different color schemes will be offered.

Except for drapes and furniture, apartments will be fully equipped.

Board meets tomorrow

Fate of library up to township

Like the recent separation of fire protection service, a division of the jointly operated city-township library may be just over the horizon.

At least that's the opinion of Carolann Ayers, chairman of the Northville Library Commission who Friday warned both city and township residents that the demise of the library system, as it now exists, may hinge on the outcome of current township plans to construct a library building on the new Six Mile Road township hall site.

It appears, said Mrs. Ayers, that Township Supervisor Wilson Grier is insistent on using the proposed new building for a library.

Initially, "he told us (commission members) that it didn't matter what the building would be used for. In my latest conversations with him, though, he said the building would be a library and that he sees it as being jointly operated by the city and township."

What irks Mrs. Ayers and other commission members — but not all of them — is the fact that the library proposal, for which the township board is now considering "design and build" bids, "was never discussed with the commission until after the township went after a HUD grant to build it."

"It popped up at a late township board meeting without any previous consultation with the commission or with the county federated library system. It wasn't until after the township decided to apply for the grant that Mr. Grier came to us."

(The design-building bids were to be discussed last night by township board members at a study session called late last week. The library plans also are slated to come up for discussion and possible action at the regular township board meeting tomorrow night at 8 p.m.)

(Supervisor Grier told The Record the board would review the bid plans, possibly selecting one of them, or perhaps even deciding not to go ahead with the project. Bid costs for the building exceed the federal grant allocation with the apparent low bid at $165,000 and the grant at $137,900.)

It is highly unlikely, given recommendations of the county library system for best locations for library buildings, that city officials would permit the move of the existing library from the downtown area of the city, predicted the commission chairmen. "And to have two library buildings, jointly operated, will certainly cost more money. I just can't see it," she said.

That being the case, township board insistence that the library be located on Six Mile Road will force the city to decide whether or not to continue a jointly operated system, she warned.

Not all commission members agree. At least one member, Louis Hopping — township board appointee on the commission, told commission members at their last meeting that he sets the proposed new township library building as a "branch" of the existing library.

Hopping contended that changes in population centers, as reflected by new subdivisions and shopping centers in the southeast section of the township, may support the location of a branch library there.

Mrs. Ayers said the commission has requested the federated library system to review these population trends and to update its recommendations for library locations. However, she doubted the recommendation will be ready in time for tomorrow's township board meeting.

An attempt to hammer together a unanimous commission position on the township library plans failed because of Hopping's position. Nevertheless, she said a statement by "at least city representatives on the commission" is likely.

The commission presently is composed of three township residents, three city residents. A seventh commissioner, Harold Walton of the township, resigned September 28 and the filling of this vacancy probably will come up at tomorrow night's meeting.

Appointed to the commission by the city council are: Mrs. Ayers, Jane Wiegand and Jay Wendt. Appointed by the township board are: Hopping and Mrs. Frances Mattison. The third township resident, Dora Rubenstein, was appointed by the commission itself.

- 'M-275 just died'

COMMERCE—"There are those who have said M-275 or die. Well, they have just died." With that pronouncement from Chairman Peter B. Fletcher, the State Highway Commission apparently laid to permanent rest the much-discussed, controversial proposed M-275 freeway that would have extended the existing new I-275 freeway past Novi, through Commerce Township and other areas of Oakland County to tie in with the existing I-75 near Holly. The state's decision shocked and disappointed local governmental officials but met with applause from various citizens and environmental groups who have fought for cancellations of both a freeway and a parkway as well as an extension of Northwestern Highway.

WIXOM—By a split vote the city council here has done some horse trading — granting commercial zoning to a parcel of property on the northwest corner of Pontiac Trail and Beck Road in exchange for dedication of a portion of the land. The swap reflects the council's desire to acquire right-of-way to permit the straightening of Beck Road.

NOVI—The biggest line-up of candidates ever is promised here as 18 persons vie for three vacancies on the Novi City Council. In addition, two other candidates — Councilwoman Romaine Roethel and Vincent Williams — will be battling for the mayor's post currently held by Gilbert Henderson. The latter race may become a political battle, even though major parties may line up behind one or the other candidate. Mrs. Roethel is an active Democrat, Williams an active Republican.

NOVI—Charging that Country Cousin Mobile Home Village at Haggerty and 12 Mile roads is levying unreasonable rent hikes and improperly maintaining the park, homeowners began picketing the facility owned by former councilman, Russell Button, who is again a candidate for council.

SOUTH LYON—Request for a one-mill levy earmarked for preventative maintenance in the school system went down to defeat, 445 to 310. Out of a total of 7,300 registered voters only 769 made it to the polls. School Board President Lawson Letzring called the defeat "unfortunate," indicating the board will go after the mill again next June. The board wanted the money for repairs and improvement of school buildings and grounds.

WHITMORE LAKE—Michigan school administrators and school boards are regrouping their forces in their battle to continue denial of unemployment benefits to school employees during vacation periods. Whitmore Lake Superintendent Ed Heathcoat has joined South Lyon Superintendent Jack Meeder in opposing the movement that would give unemployment benefits to teachers during school vacation periods. Such benefits, estimates Heathcoat, would cost his district between $12,000 and $14,000 annually, while Meeder puts the cost to his district at $100,000.

NORTHFIELD—Almost one-and-a-half months after Dial-a-Ride bus service to Northfield Township was officially terminated by the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority, the situation remains at a stalemate. AATA, Northfield Township board members, convalescent home administrators and residents agree that the service is badly needed, but no one has been able to find the funds to finance it.

LYON—A new bar is going up on the site of a similar facility destroyed by fire on Pontiac Trail, north of South Lyon. The new owner, Dan Ors, bought the liquor license from now Livingston County Judge Mike Merritt.

SOUTH LYON—Sun Steel Treating, Inc., a national company presently located in Farmington Hills which treats high temperature specialty steels, broke ground in South Lyon Monday, October 3 for the construction of its new world headquarters. George E. Moore, chairman of the board, said the company's decision to relocate in South Lyon resulted from "the community's uniquely progressive action, forward thinking attitude and practical recognition of what it takes to create jobs."

SALEM—By a 5-0 vote on Tuesday, October 4, Salem Township Board members gave the go ahead for a Livonia architectural firm to develop cost estimates on a new fire hall that would be connected with a refurbished township hall. The firm of Ralls, Hamill, Becker and Carne will develop cost estimates based on plans and drawings presented to the township board. Under the plan, which architects call a "village green concept," the present fire hall would be demolished to allow for a setback of 90 feet from Six Mile Road.

HARTLAND—The "open classroom" concept is popular nowadays, but not so open restroom stalls — at least not here in Hartland where parents and students have been raising the roof instead of swinging doors. In the wake of complaints, the school board voted to give restroom stalls more privacy by installing doors in the district's two newest schools — at a cost of about $200 per door.

BRIGHTON—Like Northville's successful Farmers' Market, the market here is being hailed as a big success. "It's exceeded my expectations," said Brighton Chamber President Jenny Fredenburg. "We didn't expect it to be such a success the first year." The Northville market is two years old.

BRIGHTON—Owners of the Anchor Inn continue to fight attempts to close the facility near here as Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William Beer signed a preliminary restraining order which permits the bar to stay open. The Liquor Control Commission had lifted the bar's license because it allowed lewd and obscene dancing and after-hours business. The license revocation stemmed from last July's car crash which resulted in the deaths of one adult and five youths, most of whom were Plymouth residents who allegedly had been drinking at the bar.

BRIGHTON — Genoa Township apparently is without an assessor, following the verbal resignation of Frank Walsh in a dispute over mileage pay. Township Manager Phillip Sitter reports that Walsh said he was quitting after he had seen that the township board had declined to pay his mileage as vouchered. The board refused to pay mileage for Walsh's trips back and forth every day for lunch at his home.

BRIGHTON — Charles Frederick Hoffman, accused in the execution-type slaying of Charles Paddock, pleaded guilty to second degree murder last Thursday in Livingston County Circuit Court. Paddock's skeleton was discovered in a remote, wooded part of Hartland Township in 1973. He had been shot to death. Hoffman, currently in Jackson prison on a previous murder conviction, is scheduled to be sentenced on October 31.

BRIGHTON — Pinckney school district voters will be going to the polls next Tuesday, October 18, to decide the fate of a $10,950,000 bond issue, which provides for construction of a new elementary school, a swimming pool, an auditorium, an addition to the high school and renovation of three elementary schools.

Homecoming week salutes Disney

You won't have to go to Orlando, Florida or Anaheim, California to get a touch of the Disney magic next week. Northville High School will be a Disney World of its own next week as Homecoming activities swing into full gear.

This year's theme is "Salute to Walt Disney" and the list of events at the hilltop school could turn a person a bit goofy.

It all starts Monday and the fun and excitement continue through the pep assembly before the football game with Plymouth Canton and Saturday night's Homecoming dance.

Here are the daily events, most of which take place fourth and fifth hours or at night.

Monday — The "Nothing to do with the Theme" chess tournament which runs the entire week; sip honey through a straw (Winnie the Pooh); long liar story (Pinocchio).

Tuesday — Donald Duck talking contest; Peter Pan contest (convince the audience you can fly).

Wednesday — Dress Up Day, prize points for classes awarded to best costumes; Seaweed eating contest (as in "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea"); Mouseketeer skits; at night, girls football game.

Thursday — Hall decorating after school; spoonful of powdered sugar (Mary Poppins); apple bobbing with garlic apples (Snow White) elections for Homecoming reps and queen and king.

Friday — Outdoor day; judge hall decorating in the morning; Herbie pile-up; tug of war; pep assembly, sixth hour; football game at night.

Saturday — Homecoming dance.

To help set the stage, there is a drawing contest whose deadline is 3 p.m. this Friday. Entries are to be drawings of Walt Disney characters and winners will earn points for their class.

Entries will be on display in the library throughout Homecoming Week.

So no one forgets the theme, Walt Disney songs will be played over the public address system each morning before school starts.

Everything sounds just (Donald) ducky.

Assign four new troopers to post

Forty-five Michigan State Police officer candidates were sworn in as troopers Friday afternoon, September 30, in graduation ceremonies in Lansing.

They are members of the 91st recruit school conducted at the department's training academy.

Four of the new troopers were assigned to the Northville post. They are Harry Norman from Grand Rapids, Lawrence Pratt from Kalamazoo, Gail West from Adrian and Terrell Young from Rives Junction.

The oath of office was administered to the new officers by Colonel Gerald L. Hough, department director, who presented them with their badges.

Principal speaker for the graduation was Judge George Bashara, Jr., of the Michigan Court of Appeals, Grosse Pointe Woods.

One of the new Northville troopers, Terrell Young, won recruit class awards in both academic achievement and team building.

The graduating class of 45 troopers began on June 26 with 69 candidates. This was the second recruit school to graduate this year.

With the graduation, the department is still about 128 officers short of its current authorized complement of 2,148.

Class members included nine with four-year college degrees, 11 with two-year associate degrees, and 20 who have earned some college credit.

Class members with previous police experience numbered 14.

TIPS ON TREES

From Your Local Grower

—LARGE SHADE TREES—

For fuller, more beautiful large shade trees next summer . . .

1. BUY FROM AN EXPERIENCED GROWER
2. SCHEDULE PLANTING IN THE WINTER MONTHS

Here's why: Trees enter a state of dormancy in the winter season; their vascular systems are frozen and inactive. Careful hand-digging and moving at this time of year is much easier on the tree than when it has foliage and an active vascular system. In general, trees dug in the winter will produce more foliage the following summer.

See our wide selection of large, quality shade trees at our growing farm in South Lyon. Now is the time to choose your favorites for winter planting.

Benefit project depicts buildings

Sale of artistic stationery by the Northville Beautification Commission began this week with delivery of the note paper and envelopes by the printer.

According to spokesmen of the commission, proceeds from the sale will be used for community beautification projects.

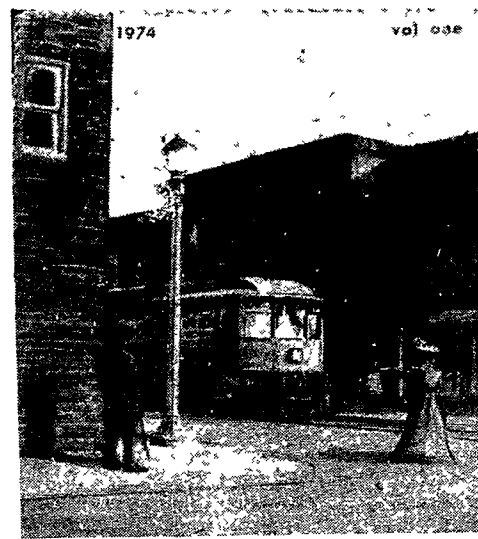

The note paper includes reproductions of Northville scenes as originally painted for covers of the annual progress scrapbooks of the commission. The scrapbooks are housed at the city hall.

A set of stationery and envelopes includes eight different paintings with three of each. The set of 24 notes and envelopes is selling for $4. They are available from any member of the commission, at the city hall or the Northville Record printing plant on South Main Street near Seven Mile Road. Retail stores in Northville also will be selling the stationery.

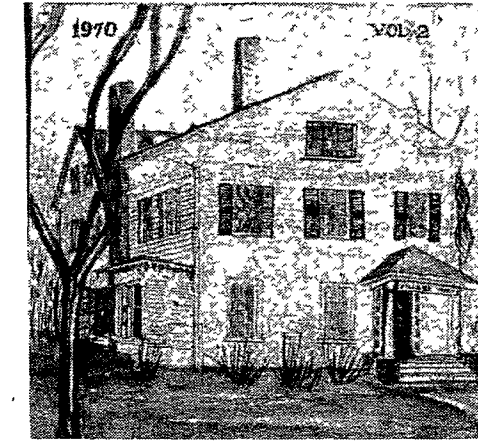

Four different artists are represented by the paintings — the late Mrs. Catherine Hartley, Clare Sutherland, John Wortman and Robert Reed.

The paintings range from early downtown Northville scenes to an old home on North Rogers Street.

Artists have been painting covers for commission scrapbooks since 1967. Commission scrapbooks, which have won numerous awards over the years, were begun in 1966 under the supervision of Commissioner Beatrice Carlson, former city councilwoman.

Neat thief picks 9 cars clean

Northville Township police are looking for leads that could identify the thief or thieves who neatly pilfered valuable items from nine cars parked in a subdivision early last week.

More than $1750 worth of merchandise was taken late Sunday night (October 2) or early Monday morning. Included among the stolen items were seven CB radios, two tape players, a toolbox and a camera.

Most of the cars were locked, but police found little damage to the exteriors or to the dashes where the CB's and the tape players were attached.

Four of the thefts were from cars parked at Old Bedford Street addresses and the majority of the rest were within a mile of that location.

All but one of the thefts apparently took place between 11:30 Sunday night and 7 a.m. Monday morning. One victim reported that his CB radio was stolen between 8 and 8:45 Sunday night.

The number of thefts and the closeness of the cars led police to believe that the robberies were well planned in advance.

There is also the fear that the items have been fenced far from Northville and will be difficult to track down.

A Winchester resident was the hardest hit as he lost two CB radios and a toolbox with a total estimated value of $620.

An Innsbrook apartment resident is having more than his fair share of trouble keeping track of his Corvette.

The red car, which has silver-grey interior and aluminum wheels, was stolen for the second time from his parking lot.

The theft occurred on Sunday between 12:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Northville Residential Training Center authorities are conducting their own investigation into cuts suffered by two young women patients, according to Michigan State Police.

A hospital official contacted police after he discovered the injuries.

Although both women are capable of self-inflicted injuries, the official suspected otherwise because the wounds were on the women's backs.

Police found that one of the women, a 19-year-old mute who has been at the center since 1972, had two one-inch cuts on the left side of her back.

A staff physician said the cut had been made 24 hours before discovery, according to police.

The second woman, 21, had a three-inch cut on her right, middle back that, according to the official, should have been reported earlier.

The wounds were such that investigating officers suspected there must have been profuse bleeding although no bloody clothes were found.

Training center officials told police it would be virtually impossible for a patient to wash without an employee's knowledge.

The state police investigation has halted pending the results of a study conducted by a training center committee.

One of two men who allegedly beat a conservation officer when he tried to give them a littering ticket will be in circuit court Monday.

Thomas Slusarczyk was arraigned on three felony charges last July in connection with the June 25 attack on Michael Hanson.

Hanson, out walking his dog, told police he spotted two men and two women throwing bottles in the Highland Lakes area. When he attempted to ticket them, he said, they jumped him, punched him and stabbed him with an unidentified object.

After he was overpowered, Hanson said the two men took his gun and pointed it at him.

Slusarczyk's arrest is based on a driver's license that Hanson inspected before the attack. The second suspect in the incident is yet to be found.

Slusarczyk faces charges of assault with intent to commit murder, unarmed robbery and possession of a firearm during the commission of a robbery.

Township police are investigating a mobile home fire that has been officially termed an arson.

Officials at the state police fire marshal's division in Northville have determined that the fire was set after an investigation failed to untarn any accidental cause of the blaze.

Three unoccupied mobile homes and a shed — all used for storage and owned by Leon Bonner of Northville — were destroyed.

There was no power to any of the structures, the investigator said.

Novi candidates speak tomorrow

A special "Meet the Candidates Night" is being held at the Novi High School auditorium Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

The night is being sponsored by the sixth hour government class of Del Munson. Each of the 18 city council candidates will be given two or three minutes to give a presentation and, after all the talks are over, a question and answer session will follow.

Mayoral candidate Romaine Roethel will be given five minutes to make a presentation and also a few minutes to answer questions.

Roethel is still technically opposed by Vince Williams, a Howell insurance man, although he plans to move to Ohio. Williams was transferred shortly after filing but could not take his name off the ballot.

The 18 council candidates are vying for three-four-year terms.

Munson, a government teacher at Novi High for ten years, says candidates night was completely the idea of his students.

"We came out with the idea Friday (September 30)," said Tina Casoglos, one of the main architects behind the night. "We talked to all the candidates, put posters in the stores and made flyers to send out."

Munson said the class originally

"We're trying to save our teachers," added trustee Marjorie Sliger. "If it means putting on a sweater or two, we have to do this."

"We're trying very desperately to save educational dollars. We need the backing of the community."

A big chunk of the $8,000 athletic cut is $4,500 for equipment — specifically, much-needed landing pads for high jump and pole vault pits.

Athletic Director Eddy McLoud — noting he could still cut $4,000, or 10 percent, from his budget — said it would be dangerous to use the present pads another year.

Secretary Chris Johnson, however, said the "nitty gritty" priorities may force the board to consider how few students participate in those events compared with the need to keep a teacher or buy books.

School administrators will be investigating other money-saving possibilities before the budget is adopted on October 24.

Among these is reducing the bus fleet by two — at a savings of $6500 — and either charging more for after-school use or shutting down the buildings on the weekends.

The consensus evaluation, reached after a meeting of the full board, will be released at the board's first regular meeting in March.

Contract renewal and salary will be decided two weeks later.

Before the evaluation, Spear is expected to provide the board with a copy of his annual physical examination, the results of his evaluation of administrative staff, and a report on the status of district goals.

Alsac gets CB student boost here

The combined efforts of some Northville students and CB'ers from Northville and Plymouth helped raise $3000 for Alsac last weekend.

Alsac, entertainer Danny Thomas' organization, gives money to St. Jude's Hospital for research in such children's diseases as cancer, leukemia, Hodgkin's disease and malnutrition.

Northville students said Monday that they especially appreciated the help of area CB'ers such as Papa Joe, Little Gem and Queen Bee who helped make the fund-raising march a success.

GOOD TIME FOR WINE

by Jim Roth

Most people do not buy a large supply of wine at one time. Rather, they buy wine for a specific occasion. There are advantages to buying wine ahead of time, though. For one thing, you can take advantage of sales and special bulk prices. Cases of wine are much cheaper than individual bottles. If you have a supply of different wines at home, you can experiment with trying different wines with different foods. You will also never have to worry about running out. With an extra bottle of wine around you always have an excellent gift to bring if you are invited out to dinner.

Wines, not only make excellent hostess gifts, but are also great for that person who has everything. For a full selection see us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. Wines, bought by the case, receive an extra 10% discount off of our already low prices, whether a mixed assortment or all of one kind. Hours: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m.-10 p.m., Sun. Noon-6 p.m.

Festival: 'fantastic success'

It's hard to tell who was more excited — those who attended last weekend's international festival at Northville Downs or those who put together the first of what is expected to become an annual extravaganza.

Calling the festival a "fantastic success," sponsoring Northville Community Chamber of Commerce spokesmen reported that approximately 5,000 people attended the three-day weekend show that closed Sunday.

Of those who attended, about 4,000 were paid customers — "not bad at all for a first time effort," said publicity chairman Bruce Roy. "For many of us it was a learning experience, and I think we have a lot of ideas of how to make it an even more successful festival the next time."

According to Roy, "we didn't hear a single unfavorable comment. And I think much of the festival's success is due to the tremendous volunteer help we received from Chamber members, citizens and service club members from the community."

Biggest hit of the show seemed to be the Old World Cafe room where heaping plates of Italian food were served up amid an array of continuous entertainment, ranging from a local student band to numerous ethnic musicians and dancers, and from appearance by TV and radio celebrities to impromptu performances by audience participants.

The Old World Cafe room was continually filled.

The "midway" of gift and craft booths, which featured fine and sometimes bizarre examples of art productions representing nearly two-dozen foreign countries, also drew large crowds.

Obituaries

William B. Walker dies here

WILLIAM B. WALKER, Jr.

Services for William B. Walker, Jr., 84, an area resident for more than 40 years and founder and president of Walkway Company in Southfield, will be held at 2 p.m. today (Wednesday) at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated.

The Reverend Guenther C. Branstner of First United Methodist Church in Northville, in which Mr. Walker and his family have been active members, is officiating. His grandsons will be serving as pallbearers. Interment is to be in Glen Eden Memorial Park in Livonia.

Mr. Walker died October 9 at his home at 3990 East Eight Mile. He had been ill for the past five months.

He was born April 22, 1893, in Detroit to William and Anne Walker. He was preceded in death by his wife, Nancy, June 26, 1975.

Survivors include daughters, Mrs. Paul (Peggy) Beard of Plymouth, Mrs. Louis (Ida) Eaton of Howell; a son, William Lee Walker of Northville; 13 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Walker was a life member of Meadowbrook Country Club and Plum Hollow Country Club.

HIRAM HOLMES

A link to early Northville history was broken October 2 with the death of Hiram Perry Holmes, 82, at a nursing home in Bloomfield Hills.

Born in Northville, he was the son of Hiram Rosecrans and Jane Isabella (Blackwood) Holmes, who figured prominently in the early development of the First Baptist Church of Northville. His grandparents, Rosecrans and Salome (Wakeman) Holmes were among the first settlers of Northville in 1827.

Owner of a real estate firm for many years, Mr. Holmes was president of several real estate organizations, including the Detroit Real Estate Board, the American Society of Real Estate Counselors and the Institute of Real Estate Management.

A 1917 graduate of the University of Michigan, he served as an Army captain during World War I. He was a member of the Detroit Athletic Club, the Bloomfield Hills Country Club and several Masonic organizations.

Surviving are his wife, Clara Jean; a daughter, Mrs. Nancy Gilbert; a son, James; a sister, Mary Helen Holmes; and a brother, Henry R. Holmes of Plymouth; and four grandchildren.

Mr. Holmes' grandfather (on his mother's side) Samuel Blackwood, was one of the first settlers of the Novi-South Lyon area. His mother's sister, Helen (Blackwood) Grawn was, incidentally, the grandmother of Governor William Milliken.

Mr. Holmes' sister, Mary Helen, told The Record that "we are closer to those early pioneering days than most because our father married late in life."

Grandfather Holmes and his family, which included five children, moved to Northville from Lockport, New York. After arriving in Detroit, they purchased a team of oxen and a wagon and headed inland. "We were told it took six days and nights to travel the 30 miles to the area on Eight Mile Road (in Northville Township, west of Beck)."

They purchased the land from the government for $1.50 an acre and erected a log cabin. The cabin was replaced in 1851 by a frame dwelling which stands today. Changed somewhat, however, it is the bungalow type house that sits today on Maybury State Park property, having served in years past as the residence of physicians at Maybury Sanatorium.

The house is registered with the federal government as a place of historical significance.

Hiram Rosecrans Holmes, is quoted in the Baptist Church chapter of the recently published history, Northville... The First Hundred Years, in describing early history of that church.

Hiram Rosecrans Holmes' sister, Sarah (Holmes) Yerkes, was the grandmother of Donald Yerkes and his sister, Ruth (Yerkes) Burkman of Northville.

HARRISON J. FULLER

Harrison J. Fuller, 57, of Plymouth died October 8 at St. Mary Hospital after an illness of seven months.

He was the father of Robert Prom and Kevin Ling, both of Northville. Survivors also include his widow, Catherine (Keller) Fuller; sister, Mrs. Dehla Agar of Farmington Hills; and brother, Alvin Fuller of Sparks, Nevada.

A life resident of the area, Mr. Fuller was employed at Foundry Flask and Equipment and was a member of VFW Post 4012 in Northville.

Service was held at 11 a.m. Tuesday at Casterline Funeral Home, Incorporated, with VFW Post 4012 officiating. Interment was in Rural Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Fuller was born April 26, 1920, in Dearborn to Isaac and Susan (Behringer) Fuller.

LELIA STEVENSON

Funeral services for Mrs. Lelia Mae Stevenson, 77, of Plymouth were held at 2:30 p.m. October 5 at Church of the Nazarene where she was a member with Pastor Carl R. Allen and Robert North officiating.

Interment was in Glen Eden Cemetery.

Mrs. Stevenson was the mother of Mrs. John (Dollie) Gotro, Mrs. Walter (Norma) Stobbe, Mrs. Harold (Marilyn) Hester, all of Northville, Mrs. Philip (Karen) Dingeldey of Ypsilanti, Ray of Ann Arbor, Bill of Livonia, Robert of Ann Arbor, Al of Charlotte, North Carolina, Dwight of Jasper, Alabama. Survivors also include two brothers-in-law, 30 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Stevenson died October 2 at Nightingale Nursing Home in Westland. She was born July 27, 1900, in Kentucky to James and Mollie (Sowers) Burgin. She was preceded in death by her husband, Robert.

DONNA C. WALKER

Donna C. Walker, 51, died October 10 following an accident in her home on Byrne Drive.

Scripture service will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville.

There will be a prayer service at 9:30 a.m. Friday with mass following at 10 a.m. at Our Lady of Victory Church where Mrs. Walker was a member. Interment is to be in Holy Sepulchre in Southfield.

Mrs. Walker was born April 17, 1926, in Monroe to Frank J. and Leona Louttit and married Kenneth Walker June 23, 1951.

The family moved to Byrne Drive, Northville (Novi) three years ago from Redford Township.

Survivors include her husband; children, Kenneth and Amanda, both at home; her father of Detroit; a sister, Mrs. Robert (Kathleen) Flanagan of Detroit.

MARIE STEWART

Services for Marie Stewart, 82, a former Northville resident, were held Monday in San Diego at St. Theresa Church. Interment was to be in Tucson, Arizona.

Mrs. Stewart died unexpectedly October 6.

She was the widow of Lewis C. Stewart who owned a drug store in Northville for many years. They moved from Northville to Florida and then to Arizona.

Mrs. Stewart had been active in King's Daughters and Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville.

She was born December 6, 1894, in Marquette, Michigan, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dion.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Lloyd (Barbara) McLain of San Diego and Mrs. Jack (Janet) Reynolds of Plymouth; and four grandchildren.

Novi candidates speak tomorrow

discussed city politics because of the relative dearth of candidates that filed for council during the first two weeks. The teacher told the students the lack of candidates hurt the election process.

Then, when the surge of candidates began as the filing deadline neared, Munson had to change his theme.

"I've been a government teacher for ten years and I thought I knew pretty well the politicians in the city, Munson said, "but I realized I didn't know many of the candidates."

"The kids asked me questions about them and I had to tell them I didn't know them, so they suggested we put on a night where they could meet them and find out what they stand for."

Munson said the kids immediately set about calling up candidates, reserving the auditorium, making posters until the whole thing was organized.

"They did a fantastic job," Munson said. "The kids are excited about it and I am, too, I think it will be worthwhile."

Munson said the presentation should give members of the community who missed the original opening of the high school a chance to see the fine auditorium and commons.

He hopes for a good turnout because it would add to the atmosphere.

After the presentations and question and answer session is over, cookies and coffee will be served in the cafeteria. Voters will be able to chat with the candidates in an informal atmosphere.

All 18 of the candidates are expected to attend. The candidates are:

—Mrs. Pat Karevich, the only candidate seeking re-election.

—Russell Button, a perennial candidate, currently the focus of picketing activity at a mobile home park he owns.

—Louis Campell, a former councilman and 1975 mayoral candidate.

—Doug Anglin, part-owner of the Anglin Excavating Company.

—Charles Bickes, a certified public accountant (CPA) with experience in municipal accounting.

—Charles Bietler, also a CPA, employed with the Gerald Schroeder Company of Southfield.

—David Collins, a pharmaceutical sales representative.

—Gary Gustafson, an accountant for Ford Motor Company in Detroit.

—Carol Merriman, a housewife.

—Phillip Manning, a field representative for Ohio Casualty Insurance.

—Guy Smith, an accountant with the Federal Mobile Corporation in Southfield. Smith has been campaign manager for the last two mayors.

—Thomas Sumiec, a local real estate agent.

—Gregory Synowiec, a resident of the mobile home park which Button owns, employed with the Ford plant in Wixom.

—Ron Watson, an attorney with an office in Northville.

—Vivian Vowell, business officer manager at Henry Ford Hospital and an Eastern Michigan University student.

—Ray Wiedenbach, active on a number of advisory committees to the city council.

—Eugene Yzquierdo, a teacher at Our Lady of Grace in Dearborn Heights.

—Kathleen Roman, a housewife and Eastern Michigan University pre-law student.

Garbage collectors know who the big spenders are

Fall is a favorite season for lots of people, but no more so than for Northville's garbage collectors. It's the time of the year when garbage cans and bags grow lighter — despite the mountains of leaves left at the curbside for the five department of public works employees who perform one of the toughest, most important jobs of city-provided services.

Heaving a bag of garbage into the rear of the big packer Thursday morning, Larry Saunders tossed a laugh over his shoulder and said, "You should have been here this past summer when the temperature climbed up around 100 degrees. Whew! Now there was some work."

Saunders was taking his two-hour turn in picking up the cans and bags, together with George Piedot. Inside at the steering wheel of the 25-yard giant was Parker Irey.

"We switch around," explained Saunders, "one hour driving and two hours picking up. It gives a guy a little rest and keeps us from getting on each other's nerves."

The two other DPW employees who also work the garbage run on other days are D. J. Lanning and Frank Fina. Unlike many other communities that provide garbage collection for citizens, Northville no longer contracts with private firms to do the work. It has its own equipment, operating the service with its own personnel.

Weekly residential pick-ups are provided weekly, commercial collections sometimes more often. In addition, the city provides a once-monthly "large trash" collection for residential areas. That's when anything from a water heater to a refrigerator is picked up.

"Hardest part of this job is in the spring when people begin housecleaning and spruce up their yards and gardens," the garbage collectors explained. "They (property owners) put out more, and it's heavier."

Summer collections taper off "a little".

Winter collection is horrendous, simply because of the weather. Hands freeze, garbage freezes, everything freezes.

But fall... that's different. Cooler, leaves are a nuisance but they're lighter, people don't cut their lawns as often.

Summer lawn cutting's a bugger for garbage collectors.

"Some people put as much grass into a bag as they can squeeze in. They'll cut grass when it's wet, making the bags even heavier. They figure two or three heavy bags at their place won't make much difference. But everyone's thinking the same thing.

"And if you don't think lifting those bags are tough, try it sometime. Then imagine what it would be like to pick up those kinds of bags street after street."

"It's no wonder we've got back problems. There's not a garbage collector around who hasn't been out with a back problem."

Plastic bags, the collectors explained, are convenient, but they often become problems "because when they're filled to the brim and it's wet inside, a guy will pick one up and the bottom falls out. And we just don't have the time to stop and pick up all the stuff scattered on the ground. Then there's the dogs who chew holes in the bags."

"Plastic bags are okay, but it would be better if they were inside a garbage can."

Dogs and small children chasing the trucks are minor problems. The bigger problem, said Saunders, is the motorist who speeds past the garbage truck without looking. Hardly a day goes by when a collector isn't almost knocked down "by those crazy people who zoom past our truck."

The garbage truck-packer holds 25 yards. A yard weighs a little over 1,000 pounds.

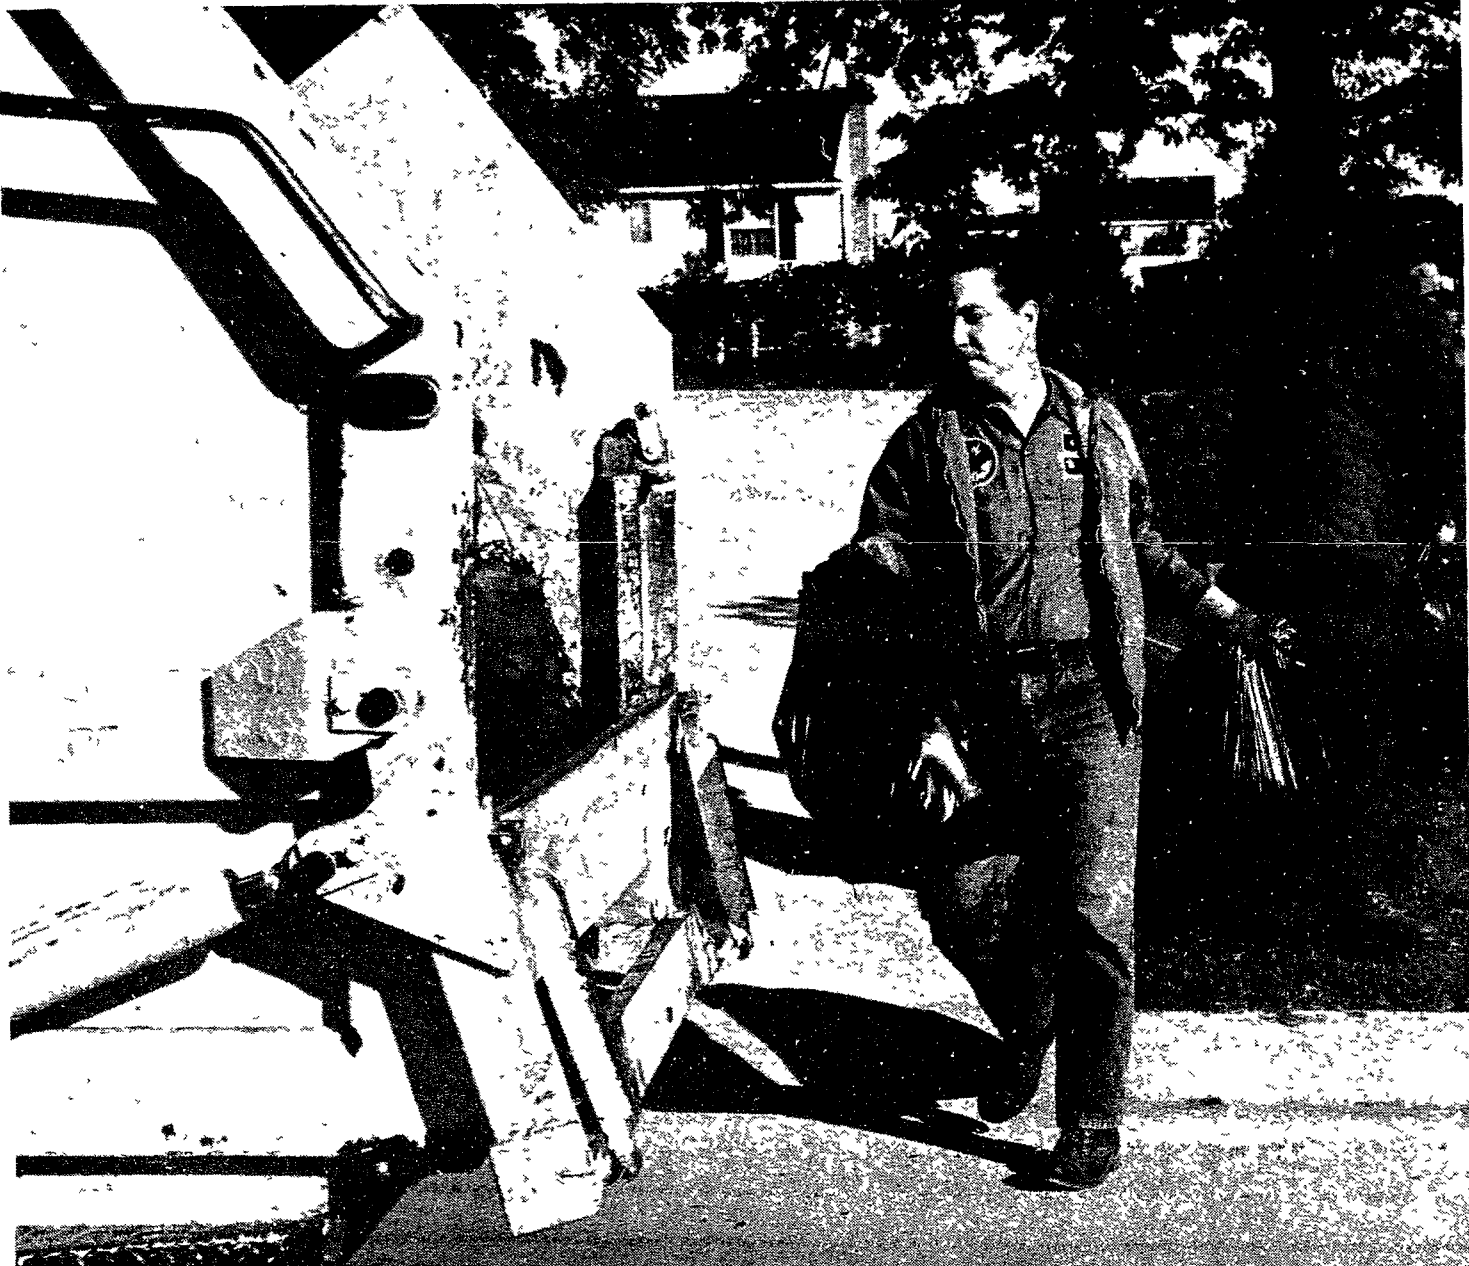

Each garbage collector lifts between eight to ten tons a day. The truck makes about 450 residential stops a day, plus six or seven commercial stops.

Twice a day the truck is emptied in the landfill at Six Mile and Napier roads.

As the packer shoved its load of compacted refuse out onto the ground, amid the din of similar unloading trucks at the landfill, Saunders observed, "One thing about this job, you sure learn about the economy."

"You know by the garbage you're picking up, what families are making the money and which ones are at the bottom of the economic ladder. Premium beer bottles at one place, local beer bottles at another."

"Northville? The garbage tells us most of the community is living pretty high up there."

Slinging garbage behind truck's no easy job—especially in summer

And it all ends up in Salem

YMCA has openings for 'Indian' program

There still are some openings in the Indian programs of the Canton, Northville, Plymouth YMCA, including tribes in Northville, Janet Luce, program director, announces this week.

The Indian programs of Guides, Maidens, Trailblazers and Princesses are designed to create a closer relationship between parent and child. Both participate together in activities, such as campouts and sporting events. Indian crafts and lore are emphasized as a base for activities.

The YMCA held its annual recruitment drive for the programs the week of September 28, and tribes presently are being formed. Parents interested should contact the Y office, 453-2904, or Stewart Kissinger, Northville Chief, at 348-2258.

In Indian-A-Rama, Guides programs are for boys, 5-9, and their fathers; Maidens are for girls, 5-9, and their mothers; Trailblazers are for boys, 10-15, and fathers; Princesses are for girls, 6-up, and their fathers.

A "Waterfowl Cruise" aboard the Island Queen excursion boat will be held at Kensington Metropark near New Hudson on Sunday, October 23 at 9:30 a.m.

Persons should meet at the Boat Rental dock and bring binoculars. Dress for the weather. Advance registration is required. The cost is $1.00 per person and vehicle entry permits (Daily — $1) are required.

Bike hike scheduled

"Explore Nature By Bike" at the Kensington Metropark near New Hudson on Sunday, October 16 at 9:30 a.m.

Bring your bike and join Naturalist Dave Moilanen for a scenic ride through the park. Several stops will be made to savor the panoramic vistas and to explain some interesting natural features encountered along the route.

Participants must provide a bike, and the 2-hour "free" tour will start at the Nature Center. A Metropark vehicle entry permit (Daily-$1) is required.

Speaking for The Record

Can we afford two libraries?

Will the library follow the fire department as the second city-township service to part ways?

That's the question some members of the Northville Library Commission are asking as Northville Township board members review plans for a new building on the Six Mile Road township hall site.

If construction of a new library is the objective, and if Northville library systems could result, citizens should be made well aware of the facts.

Tomorrow night the township board may decide whether or not to go ahead with the building project, based on "design-build" bids received two weeks ago. Those bids exceeded federal funds promised the township for the building.

Some library commission members doubt the economic feasibility of operating two library buildings. At least one, however, reportedly sees operation of the new building in the township as a natural branch of the existing facility located in the city.

We don't know if taxpayers are willing to finance the operation of two buildings, nor do we know if they would approve the closing of the city facility and the moving of all library services to the proposed new township building.

We do know, however, that some very important considerations must be given by the township board before it takes any action tomorrow. A decision made in haste Thursday could cast the future of the existing library system.

If division of the library system, creating two separate programs, is what township officials see in their crystal ball then they should so inform their constituents. Similarly, if they see two jointly-operated facilities that, too, should be disclosed in advance of their decision on the new building.

And if the latter represents their intentions, they must of necessity ascertain the willingness of city officials and taxpayers to cooperate in that venture; they must have a good handle on costs for operating two facilities; and they must consider the advice of the library experts.

In its determination to form its own fire department the township board made no effort to undertake a professional, impartial study of costs. And the first-year estimate of $30,500 would seem to be far below reality.

Before opening a new library, taxpayers deserve to know what they will be getting and exactly what it will cost.

Plan fire escapes!

Got a question for you people out there. If fire should hit your home tonight while you and your family are asleep, what would you do?

You'd get out of there in a hurry, you say. What about the kids or other relatives who might be sleeping in adjacent bedrooms, or worse yet, bedrooms on another floor?

Do you have an escape plan? If you don't, you are flirting with death.

The chances of fire in your home are increasing, whether you know it or not. Last year in Michigan there were 223 fires a day, an increase of 20 fires a day over 1975. 358 people lost their lives as a result of fire, up 40 from 1975. Seventy-four percent of all fatalities occurred in residential dwellings and nearly 34 percent of the victims were asleep at the time.

Seriously, what would you and your family do in case of a fire? Think about it as you read this. Maybe some of you do have an escape plan. But have you reviewed it recently with your wife and especially the kids?

Here are the before, during and after actions you can take to minimize the fire risk:

Before...

—Repair or replace faulty and defective wiring. Remove all piles of newspaper and oily rags.

—Keep the telephone number of the fire department next to your telephone.

—Have your furnace checked.

—Observe careful smoking habits if you have to smoke.

—Equip fireplaces with sturdy metal screens and be sure the fire has died down before retiring for the night.

—Work out a family escape plan and have an alternate. Practice these escape routes so everyone knows what to do in case of fire.

—Install a smoke detection system and keep it operating at night when most residential fires and deaths occur.

During...

—Avoid smoke asphyxiation

YES . . .

After two deaths, seven injuries and threats of similar fate being thrown at other Michigan citizens due to double bottom tanker accidents, it's time to re-evaluate state regulations on flammable transportation. Public safety must be our primary concern in this evaluation. I say public safety can be guaranteed only through an immediate ban on this vehicle design, with subsequent research being conducted where lives will not be at stake—in laboratories and on test tracks.

Admittedly, efficient fuel transportation is critical. However, the conclusion that double tankers are the only method to achieve this end does not follow. These vehicles are not permitted in 15 states where residents still manage to receive the fuel necessary to conduct the business of living.

Canadian researchers report that double tankers have a greater tendency to tip than singles when involved in accidents. Obviously, the fire damage and pollution from washing the fuel down the sewer system is greater with doubles, not to mention increased public expense in controlling any explosion by fire fighters.

Hazards associated with transporting flammables can be reduced. Stricter driver qualifications, lower speed limits, vehicle inspections, etc., will help. But if the basic design of the vehicle is defective and unstable, the resulting contribution to public safety will be minimal.

The double tanker has failed to prove itself safe on public roads—it's time to return to the drawing board for further tests.

NO . . .

The double bottom trailer is the workhorse of the trucking industry. It has been used in Michigan for over 50 years. Most high volume movements of bulk commodities are transported by these units—especially in older urban areas which by their size prohibit accessibility by other units.

The double bottom is safe. It is as safe as any truck trailer unit used on the road today. It moves the product to market in larger volume than single units and the relation of volume per mile moved is much greater than in any other type of truck transportation.

These units are controlled by three variables: (1) the operating people, (2) the safety and maintenance people, and (3) the drivers.

The operating people are responsible for the operation of these at all times. Safety and maintenance are the responsibility of the operating people. This group is comprised of the manufacturer, owners, lessors, and anyone operating these units on the highway.

The driver assumes the responsibility for running the vehicle. He depends on the operating people to load and route the equipment properly. He depends on the manufacture and maintenance people to produce and maintain road-ready vehicles.

Analyzing the past accidents, you will find one of these three main variables was at fault.

To operate a safe double bottom tanker on Michigan highways it takes complete communication and honesty between the three groups.

It is possible to run safe double bottoms without accidents on Michigan highways. With proper legislation to control certain rigid safety requirements, the double bottom will continue to give the good service which has made it indispensable.

This newspaper welcomes Letters to the Editor. We ask, however, that they be limited to 500 words and that they contain the signature, address and telephone number of the writer. Deadline for submission is 12 noon Monday. Names will be withheld upon request. We reserve the right to edit letters for brevity, clarity and libel.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

A gauge of a columnist's worth is the amount of mail his work generates. That being the case, I'll get in another two cents worth.

Recently I challenged would-be reporters and editors with a quiz. It proved so popular that I received a single letter. But having thrown out the gauntlet, I'm compelled to bore you with my answers.

1. "We're very close to settlement. If you publish the salaries of administrators at this point it may upset teachers and very possibly trigger a strike. Can't you at least wait until after the contract's ratified to publish the salaries story?"

A. You wait until after the settlement. B. You publish the story. C. You carry the story but omit salaries story?"

My Answer: B. There's nothing sacred about administrators' salaries. The request suggests the salaries are pretty high and properly ought to be embarrassing.

2. You're covering a public meeting in which officials have made statements about potential appointee that may be embarrassing to person they have been discussing. An official turns to you and says, "Please, you won't print that, will you?"

A. You print it. B. You don't print it. C. You print it but edit out those phrases that you think might be embarrassing.

MA: A. Officials were stupid in making the statements, even more stupid in asking the reporter to cover their blunder. A reporter who edits out what he "thinks" might be embarrassing should be digging ditches.

3. A woman calls a newspaper office: "My husband was arrested last night. There's no defense for his action, I know, but if you print it in the paper it will simply ruin our daughter who is a candidate for homecoming queen. Can't you just this once, leave it out of the paper?"

A. You print the story of the man's arrest. B. You do not print it. C. You print the story but omit the man's name.

MA: A. Oh, boy, how often have I heard that one! If anyone has ruined the daughter, it's the father, not the newspaper. "Just this once," once granted, destroys the newspaper's credibility. How many more cases is it covering up?

by crawling or crouching below the smoke.

—Check all doors before you open them. If one is hot, don't open it. Intense heat or poisonous fumes could kill you instantly.

—In a frying pan fire, smother the flames with the lid or Baking Soda. Don't use water or flour, which may cause the fire to explode.

—Never try to put out an electrical fire with water.

—If your clothes catch fire, don't run for help. Drop to the ground and roll around or wrap yourself in a blanket or rug to smother flames.

—Make sure everyone is aware that there is a fire. Scream, holler, bang on walls, etc.

—Never re-enter a burning building.

Don't jump from a window unless absolutely necessary.

—Don't panic, remain calm. Go to the pre-arranged meeting place outside and wait. That way you can tell firemen if anybody is still trapped inside.

—Call the fire department.

After...

—Contact your insurance agent immediately. He can assist in minimizing further damage, help you find temporary living quarters and can obtain an emergency cash advance for living expenses.

—Make any necessary temporary repairs to protect against further damage caused by weather. Save all receipts because these repairs are part of your claim.

—Be sure to choose a competent contractor to repair your home.

—Thank your lucky stars you got out alive.

Better to think ahead. Don't play with fire.

4. A published, unsigned letter to editor makes scathing accusations about public official. The official, a personal friend, calls and asks for the name of the letter writer.

A. You refuse to give it to him. B. You give him the name. C. You don't give him the name, but you tell him it's an employee in the DPW.

MA: A. For asking, scratch him from your list of friends.

5. A letter to the editor arrives in which a parent accuses a teacher of sexually molesting the letter writer's child.

A. You publish the letter. B. You don't publish it but advise the writer to contact the police. C. You confront the teacher with the accusation and ask his response for publication along with the letter.

MA: Until the suspect is formally charged with a crime, the newspaper that publishes such a letter is inviting a mighty big lawsuit.

6. The daughter of the mayor commits suicide.

A. You don't publish it. B. You publish it.

C. You carry it on the front page.

MA: C. No editor enjoys tragedy, especially this kind. In this business, journalistic responsibility and sympathy often conflict. However, since rumors and gossip often are more ugly than the tragedy itself, I believe the truth, laid out in the open, softens pain, dampens conjecture, and makes it easier for survivors to face friends and neighbors.

7. A prominent citizen is arrested for embezzling million dollars.

A. You include in the story the name of his wife, but not his children. B. You include nothing about the man's family. C. You include the name of the wife, his children, and their ages.

MA: C. For much the same reason as in number 6.

8. A high school student is found dead of drugs.

A. You publish the story. B. You publish the story, but omit the name of the student. C. You call the parents and include their comments in the story.

MA: C. I recall the comment of a distraught parent: "We can't bring back our daughter, but maybe we can help save someone else's child."

9. Good advertiser's store is robbed. Gunmen grab change from cash register, but owner tells police they failed to get $15,000 hidden under the cash register drawer. Owner calls: "Please don't write anything about it. It may encourage bandits to come back."

A. You write nothing about the robbery. B. You write about the robbery but omit reference to the missed $15,000. C. You write everything contained in the police report.

MA: C. Advertiser bit the dog.

10. You've got space for only one of three outstanding stories for front page. You pick:

A. Blind student completes school with the best academic record ever posted at high school. B. Four-year-old backs family car over his parents, killing them. C. All town's clergymen go out on strike.

MA: It's a journalistic nightmare! All three are obviously front-page material. My editorial judgment suggests "B," but I sure as the dickens would include something on the front page referring to inside stories on the other two.

From Lansing

By R. Robert Geake
State Senator

The controversy over whether state police or county sheriff patrols should cover the Detroit area freeways appears to have been settled in favor of the state police, but county sheriffs have not given up on their bid to receive state funds.

Last week members of a House-Senate conference committee working on the state police budget bill (HB 4157) voted to provide financial assistance to county sheriffs across the state to patrol secondary roads. The principal purpose of the bill is to provide some $96.8 million to fund law enforcement operations, primarily conducted by the State Police, during the fiscal year which began October 1, 1977.

In addition to providing more than $5 million to keep state troopers patrolling Detroit freeways, the measure contains about $2.6 million for State Police freeway patrol in Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing, and Saginaw, if those local governments request them.

The State House of Representatives gave its narrow vote of approval to the funding measure earlier this week, but the Senate decided to study the bill further before acting on it. The county sheriff funding provision has aroused a great deal of opposition from many legislators and the Governor.

Under the provision, about $4.5 million would be divided up among all 83 county sheriff departments according to population, at 50 cents per person living within each county. This would be extremely good for Wayne County, which has more population than any other county in the state. However, many of my senate colleagues who represent out-state districts, where counties have less population but more miles of secondary roads to patrol, oppose the per person formula bitterly. Under such a formula, Wayne County alone would get about one-third of the county sheriff funding money, while the other two-thirds would be split up among the remaining 82 counties!

The idea of funding all county sheriff departments arose after negotiations over whether the Wayne County Sheriffs' Department should receive special state funding broke down. In an effort to win votes from out-state legislators, it was suggested that all county sheriffs receive something in the funding measure.

Raps school taxing

To the Editor:

The operation of a school is big business. We appoint, elect and employ people to run our business with our money. These people have spent time and money in their chosen professions to learn the business of educating our young people: who all too soon will be in the driver's seat.

This beautiful morning I made my mark on the ballot regarding millage (South Lyon school district). I do not intend to elaborate on the issue of millage. I do feel it is getting out of hand holding such doings with such regularity. Many voters were totally unaware of such doings — especially those in the township without school age children and those who subscribe to the Northville edition of the newspaper. It does seem strange. It has been so evident in the past as we view other areas doing the same thing. I propose a definite time be made exclusively for school proposals. I am certain voters would take more interest in the educating of the young people.

Parents appear at the polls brainwashed by professional tactics to vote in favor of whatever the system wants. We are all familiar with the threats made in the past by our system and others.

"The taxpayers can no longer afford to pay for all the services the federal government wants to provide for them." That is quoted from the intelligent senator from Nebraska — Edward Zorinsky — who recently returned $313,016 to the Federal Treasury because he didn't need it to run his office. Money appropriated for job related expenses.

It would be a challenge for our administrators to prepare a budget without the knowledge of governmental funds availability. It seems simple enough when the government pays one third — the remaining two thirds will come from the taxpayers. Simple deduction — I can not longer afford this kind of bookkeeping because I know where the three thirds are coming from....

It is time to return to basics — forget about big business and get down to the professional business of teaching and sharing the load. We have some young people to learn and we must teach — with this task in mind I feel the attitude of taxpayers will improve, the morale of the staff and students will change and maybe the future will be a better place for all.

'Flag treated improperly'

To the Editor:

Three times in the past few months I have seen the American flag at Silver Spring School in Highland Lakes kept flying overnight and over entire weekends in all kinds of weather.

Each time I've made endless and unsuccessful calls in an effort to have the flag taken in out of the rain.

Does this mean that respect for our flag is as old-fashioned as, admittedly, I am.

Novi refuses bus change

A request to change bus routes for a woman whose boy had to walk a quarter-mile to the bus stop has been refused by the Novi Board of Education.

The woman, Mrs. Charles Lukkari, 26850 Wixom Road, said her boy had to walk the distance to the corner of Wixom and 11 Mile roads. She said there were a number of parked cars along the way with people doing she didn't know what.

Assistant Superintendent William Barr, in giving reasons for the denial of bus route change, said he had requested the police to patrol the area and noted it was a residential area — not one where crimes were likely to be committed.

"Naturally, she (Mrs. Lukkari) is not pleased with my decision," Barr said. "But I don't think a quarter-mile is too long for a 14-year-old boy to walk."

Board member John Milam expressed his concern that children should not be allowed to walk far alone to get to a bus route.

"In Oakland County, the 14-year-old age bracket is not where the problems have occurred," Milam said, referring to the child molesting incidents reported last winter, "but still I think we should look at it."

Museum has early washer

The rotary motion washing machine was patented long before such machines were electric. Hamilton Erastus Smith gained a patent on October 28, 1858 for a device which used a hand crank, causing a perforated cylinder within a wooden shell to revolve, turning and washing clothes at the same time.

The many fascinations of early domestic living are part of the lure at Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn which houses a wide array of domestic items in its collections.

Early rocket on view at museum

After a week of grueling trials ended on October 26, 1829, George Stephenson's rocket, became both a prize winner and a history maker.

As the first successful steam locomotive, the rocket earned a place in history and gained its builder a 500-pound prize offered by the directors of the Liverpool and Manchester Railroad.

Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn offers a replica of the rocket as part of its extensive transportation collection.

Northville's newest-school buildings are the worst contributors to the district's skyrocketing utility bills, according to a month-by-month analysis of last year's Detroit Edison and Consumer's Power costs.

Heating and electrical bills for Meads Mill Junior High and Silver Springs and Winchester elementary schools — all built within the last three years — run about twice as high per square foot as their older counterparts.

Part of the difference can be explained by the electrically powered air conditioned and air movement systems in the new schools.

The air condition, ironically, also explains for some of the higher heating bills because the boilers kick on in the summer to balance the cool air in the new buildings.

But the newer elementary schools are still apparently less heat efficient than the older buildings.

Winter heating bills at Silver Springs, for instance, run much higher than at the older Amerman school even though the buildings have similar square footage.

It cost $11,700 (24.5 cents a square foot) to heat Amerman through the coldest six months of last school year compared to $15,900 (31.7 cents a square foot) to heat Silver Springs during the same time.

It was even more costly to heat Winchester, the largest of the four elementaries. The heating bills for the 59,000 square foot building averaged 37 cents a square foot from November through April.

The cost differences have baffled school officials, who have to deal with a half-million utility bill this year.

"I knew the electrical bills would be way up because of the air conditioning," said Thomas Goulding, administrative assistant to the superintendent. "But I expected decreases in the heating bills."

Michael Janchick, director of operations, also thought the newer buildings, which have no outside windows, would cost less to heat.

Goulding and Janchick will be attending an energy seminar Thursday and they both hope to pick up some clues to the cost discrepancy.

The Livonia firm of Ralls-Hamill-Beker-Carne has been the architect for all the new buildings and for major revisions on all of the old buildings.

But officials there could offer no explanation for the higher cost of heating the new elementary schools.

"I could give you no logical explanation," said Gene Ralls Monday.

The heating difference is apparently limited to the elementary buildings.

The Consumers Power bill for Meads Mill Junior High School is $39,000 compared to $22,000 for the older Cooke school.

But the difference can be explained by Meads Mill's larger size (100,000 to 65,000 square feet) and by the summer heating bill to counteract air conditioning.

On a square foot basis, the cost of heating Meads Mill in the winter was slightly less than Cooke's bill.

All things considered, though, the cost of utilities is much higher at all of the new schools.

Combined Consumers and Edison bills for Silver Springs totaled $55,000 last year while the same bills for Amerman, which is only 2000 square feet smaller, came to $24,700.

Winchester, while only 40 percent larger than Moraine, had combined utility bills that were more than three times as large, $65,000 to $19,000.

And Meads Mill, which is about 50 percent larger than Cooke, also had nearly tripled the utility bill, $115,000 to $40,000.

In cents, here is last year's utility cost per square foot for each of the seven schools:

The older schools — high school, 62.5; Cooke, 62.8; Amerman, 51.5; Moraine, 46.2.

The newer schools — Meads Mill, $1.15; Silver Springs, $1.12; Winchester, $1.10.

If the newer schools had similar utility rates as the older schools, the district would have saved $115,000.

As mentioned, the electrical cost is higher in the new systems because of the air systems. But, for some reason, winter heating costs are higher in the new elementary schools.

The utility cost per square foot for each elementary from November through April:

Amerman, 24.5; Moraine, 21.6; Silver Springs, 31.7; Winchester, 37.

The elimination of year-round school rid the school district of an extremely wasteful habit.

Because heating and cooling systems in the new schools were not independent, boilers would automatically turn on when air-cooled temperatures dropped in the summer.

Last August, for instance, Consumers billed the school $3269 for Meads Mills, Silver Springs and Winchester and only $215 for Cooke, Amerman and Moraine.

Shutting down air conditioners this summer has saved the district thousands of dollars, said Janchick.

Nature's Prediction

Geese on the wing from out of the north
A month ahead of time,
While the squirrels are scrounging
For all they are worth,
For nuts even greener than prime.

The black birds have left the bays long ago;
The weather is cold around Hudson or James.
The natives predict we'll be heavy with snow,
And the wilds will be without names.

But the sun will shine where the weather is warm
In the south, where the blossoms are tall—
Where the "snow birds" will go to get out of the storm
While we head into the fall.

We will soon "hole in" like the squirrels and the bees,
When the blizzards start coming our way;
We'll "weather it out", be it thaw or deep freeze
As we wait for the coming of May!

Quiet Haven

This spring,
like many of those past,
I visited the lake where I grew up as a child.
As in many spring seasons,
the lake was much of the same picture...
still capturing me as it used to.

Sunlight glistened on water-soaked rushes nearing the edges of the small lake.
Water rippled softly as in the children's stories of magic.
Now and then a frog or lone fish would ripple
the surface...
and mysteriously enough, the lake always remained calm whenever I was there.
It seemed to forever offer me its quiet telling of solitude...
its story of silent peace.
In reasoning to myself, I found that the peace there was why I never stopped going there...
for there always was some new feeling acquired...
some new awakening on from the past...
and into the future.

Early spurt downs Churchill

Bring on Harrison! Mustangs roll on

It didn't take long for the Mustangs to figure out just how they might compensate for the loss of a top running back last week.

Under the careful guidance of Doug Marzoni's throwing arm and the magic hands of flanker Pete Wright Northville leaped out to a 14-0 lead in the first five minutes of a crucial Western Six football battle with Livonia Churchill last Friday and went on to post a 28-7 victory at Northville's home field. And they did it without the heart of their rushing attack, Don Borthwick, who sustained a broken collar bone two weeks ago and is out for the season.

The win sets up a showdown this Saturday between the Mustangs and Farmington Harrison, both 3-0 in conference play, a game that will probably determine who this season's outright Western Six champion is.

"Tremendous," coach Chuck Shonta said of last week's outcome. "I think we played a great game against Churchill. I was very happy with the result."

And well he should have been.

Led by junior quarterback Rick Coppola and a strong defensive line the Chargers posed a serious threat to Northville's hopes of picking up their third straight victory. After getting off to a slow start last month Churchill, a team dominated by juniors, had whitewashed Plymouth Canton 7-0 and put a scare into Harrison before falling 21-15 two weeks ago.

Thanks to a little bit of pre-game strategy and a pair of short punts, though, Northville had the Chargers in a hole before they could even get adjusted to their hosts' wide-open style of play.

Churchill let Matt Davis's opening kickoff sail into the end zone, then ran nine yards up the middle on a handoff to halfback Doran Mason on their first play from scrimmage.

Two quick penalties moved the Chargers back to their own 12, though, and on fourth down a kick off the side of their punter's foot gave Northville excellent field position at the Churchill 19.

Two plays later Wright made a spectacular leaping catch in the end zone and Davis booted the conversion to give the Mustangs a 7-0 lead with 9:22 still left in the first quarter.

Their next score was even easier.

Following another poor punt, this one straight up in the air, Northville took over at the Charger 33. On the first play from scrimmage Marzoni hit Wright again on a perfect play-action pass at the 10, and he outlegged his defenders to the goal line for touchdown number two and a 14-0 lead with 7:12 still remaining.

"That was the same play as our first touchdown," Shonta acknowledged. "We put it in special against Churchill."

"We saw a weakness in their defense in game films and figured we could catch them off guard on that play."

The score apparently woke the Chargers up because they moved from their own 47 to Northville's 15 in just two plays following the kickoff, but John Horwath snuffed the threat with an interception, his fifth in the last three games, at the 13-yard line.

Midway through the second quarter Horwath caught a 24-yard pass for another apparent touchdown, but a five-yard penalty brought the ball back to the 30 and four plays later the Mustangs were forced to punt.

They did manage to put seven more on the board later that quarter, though, when defensive end Doug Harding forced Churchill to fumble deep in the visitors' own territory.

The play occurred when Mason went two yards up the middle from his own 12. Harding popped the ball loose and Wright pounced on it in the Charger end zone for his third touchdown of the half. Davis's kick made it 21-0 with 1:11 to go.

Churchill finally got on the scoreboard early in the third quarter following a fumble recovery of their own. Northville's Mike McClure took the opening kickoff of the second half and ran back to the 19, but lost the ball there.

Six plays later, with the help of a face mask penalty, the Chargers scored on a one-yard plunge by Coppola and added the extra point to make it 21-7.

Within five minutes the visitors were threatening again, but defensive tackle Chris Friel recovered a second Churchill fumble at the Northville 29 to prevent any further damage.

The Mustangs added an insurance touchdown late in the game when Marzoni sprinted 42 yards through the middle of Livonia's secondary on a broken play and scored. Davis kicked his 11th extra point of the season without a miss, and with 3:53 remaining in the game Shonta's crew had things locked up.

Marzoni had another field day in the air, hitting eight of 19 passes for 151 yards. The senior quarterback has now thrown for over 100 yards in all four of his team's victories to date, and he's averaging over 150 yards per game.

"There were some beautifully thrown passes," Shonta commented later, but also credited his offensive line's pass blocking for much of Marzoni's success.

Besides Wright's two touchdown receptions Horwath caught four for 60 yards and Mark Hooth nabbed two for 29 yards.

Without Borthwick the Mustangs' running attack was somewhat weak, but Harding put in a fairly productive day's work in his first crack at fullback with 21 yards in three carries.

"Harding's gonna help us a lot,"

Shonta said, "but he just doesn't have the experience yet. He's big but he doesn't have the smoothness to run well yet. That'll come with experience."

Turnbull shines in bright season

Brian Turnbull is rapidly developing into one of the best distance runners in the state.

Northville's junior cross country sensation added three more victories in dual meet competition, finished a close second in an invitational over the weekend, and set a new school record as the Mustangs continued one of their brightest seasons ever last week. Only a non-conference loss to Dearborn Edsel Ford marred an otherwise very productive week for the Northville contingent.

Last Thursday coach Ralph Redmond's varsity seven, rated among the top 10 Class A squads in the state, picked up their third straight Western Six victory of the season with a surprisingly easy 23-38 triumph over Walled Lake Western.

Turnbull came through with his most impressive performance of the year at Western's home course when he passed up the Warriors' John Yuhn and Mike Mayes, considered two of the finest runners in the state, in the last 200 yards of the race and kept his unbeaten record in conference competition intact. His 15:01 clocking, the fastest time turned in by any Western Six runner thus far this season, set a new school record, eclipsing the old mark of 15:08 set by teammate Don Wilber last year.

"I still think they (Yuhn and Mayes) are among the top 10 runners in the state," Redmond remarked afterwards, "but we knew they (the Walled Lake squad) really didn't have the pack we do, and that's where the difference was."

While Redmond acknowledged he didn't expect Turnbull to finish ahead of both Walled Lake runners, he figured the rest of his team was strong enough to stay ahead of Western's number three man.

And that they did. After Yuhn and Mayes it was all Northville. John Coram finished fourth in 15:30, and he was followed in succession by John Monagle (15:40), Jim Bedford (15:44), Wilber (15:58).

Varsity Colts win 5th; late TD beats frosh

Northville's unbeaten Colts varsity football squad, made up of 13-year-old youngsters from both Novi and Northville, stormed to its fifth consecutive victory with a 19-0 romp over the Garden City Panthers Saturday night.

Dave Chicowski's 20-yard touchdown sprint early in the second quarter gave the hosts a 6-0 lead. Minutes later Todd Parsons dove over tackle for another score after the Colt defense forced Garden City to punt from deep in their own territory. Tim Borthwick's extra point made it 13-0 at halftime.

Northville's final tally came in the fourth quarter when Borthwick scored from five yards out.

Borthwick's 70 yards rushing was tops on a Cold offense that rolled up 243 total yards. Pete DeBrule added 50 yards on the ground and Chicowski had 36.

Todd Gross' and Andy Dimitroff's strong line play and interceptions by Dave Lennox, Vince Buzolits and Chicowski helped the Colts' defense rack up their fifth consecutive shutout while limiting Garden City to a meager seven yards total offense. Northville has now outscored its five opponents 108-0.

The Northville Colts freshman football squad suffered its first loss of the season last Saturday when Garden City turned a fourth-quarter touchdown into a 6-0 victory.

Northville drove down inside the Panther 20-yard line three times but failed to capitalize, losing the ball at the seven on a fumble once.

Linebacker Doug Hartman intercepted two passes, safety Michael Dewan picked off another and Daniel Brinker recovered a fumble to lead a strong defensive effort for the Colts. The loss dropped the freshman team's record to 3-1-1.

Tankers keep improving

Ben Lauber has plenty to smile about these days.

In his first year with the girls' swimming team at Northville High School this fall the 40-year-old coach has met with success after success, victory after victory.

More importantly his Mustang swimmers have been constantly improving throughout the season, and there's nothing more satisfying to Lauber than that.

Northville competed in the Redford Union Relays last Saturday and, as if their seven straight dual meet victories this season weren't enough, the Mustangs placed second in a group of 11 of the area's top swimming schools, setting two meet records in the process. Only Plymouth Salem finished ahead of Northville.

"I couldn't have asked for more," Lauber commented later. "Every girl improved in that meet."

The Mustangs qualified for the meet's finals in eight of the nine events they had representatives in. To qualify for the finals Northville had to place among the top six schools in preliminary competition on Saturday afternoon.

In addition to setting meet records in both the 200- and 400-yard medley relays the local girls placed second in the 400-yard free style relay, third in the 200-yard free style relay, fourth in the 200-yard butterfly relay, fifth in the 200-yard back stroke relay and sixth in diving.

The only events they didn't qualify for the finals in were the 200-yard breast stroke relay, where they finished eighth, and the 400-yard individual medley relay, in which they didn't compete. Their efforts gave them a total of 64 points, 36 points behind Salem.

Northville's most impressive showing came in the 200 medley relay, where Vida Mikalonis (29.0 in the back stroke), Janet Shaw (34.7 in the breast stroke), Sue Cahill (27.9 in the butterfly) and Kyle Roggenbuck (25.3 in the free style) combined to shatter the old school and Redford Union Relay records with a 1:56.9 clocking. That broke the old school record of 1:59.26, set by the same four just two weeks ago, by more than two seconds.

Leslie Farquhar replaced Janet Shaw in the 400 medley relay, and this time the Mustangs combined for a 4:16 clocking, another meet record.

Carolyn Schrot, Laurie Sellen, Kristy Iversen and Krystin Van Renterghem were the members of Northville's second-place 400 free style team, which was clocked in 4:19.1, 14 seconds behind a team from Salem.

In the 200 free style Carol McLaughlin, Mary Hartmann, Lori Herguth and Diane Townsend finished in third place with a combined time of 1:55.9, just three seconds behind Dearborn's winning team and .2 seconds behind runner-up Salem.

Those performances came on the heels of Northville's sixth and seventh straight dual meet victories earlier in the week.

On Tuesday the Mustangs won 10 of 11 events and rolled to an easy 55-28 victory over Plymouth Canton. Cahill, a sophomore, set her fourth individual school record in that meet with a 5:21.9 clocking in the 500-yard free style, shattering Roggenbuck's old mark by almost 30 seconds.

Cahill also holds individual records in the individual medley, 200-yard free style and 100-yard butterfly. She was also a member of the 200-yard medley and 400-yard free style teams that set records earlier this year.

Cross country season is bright

Harry Couyoumjian (16:03) and Ken Greene (16:19), who came up from the junior varsity squad to run for an ailing Tom Doyle.

The victory was particularly satisfying for the Mustangs because it came on the heels of one of their poorer performances of the season. Competing in a double dual race at Edsel Ford's home course on Tuesday Redmond's crew could do no better than split a pair of non-conference meets.

Turnbull, as usual, placed first with a 15:58 clocking. Edsel Ford, though, paced by Dennis Plucinski's second-place finish, packed its top three runners in right behind Turnbull and ended up with an easy 25-42 victory over the Mustangs. The loss broke a 13-meet winning streak for the local squad.

Westland John Glenn, the third school in the meet, suffered a 24-32 defeat to Northville.

Wilber came in second for the Mustangs in 16:22, but that was only good for eighth place overall. Monagle followed in 16:26 (ninth place overall), Coram in 16:28 (11th), Bedford in 16:38 (13th), Couyoumjian in 16:58 (16th) and Doyle in 17:28 (19th).

"We were flat, just flat," Redmond admitted, "and I don't know why. Edsel Ford managed to put three men behind us, and that spelled disaster."

"We knew they had a good pack, but we still should have won. We beat 'em

Other winners included Cahill, Roggenbuck, Shaw and both the medley and free style relay teams.

The Mustangs now have a 4-0 record in Western Six competition. Their next home meet takes place tomorrow night against Livonia Stevenson beginning at 7 p.m.

at Schoolcraft (the Schoolcraft Invitational three weeks ago, where Northville placed second overall).

It took only four days, for the Mustangs to redeem themselves, though. Running against some of the top schools in the area, Northville nabbed a runner-up trophy in the Wyne Invitational at Rouge Park last Saturday. Grosse Pointe North won the 11-team event with a point total of 19, while the Mustangs followed with 55.

Even more impressive, Turnbull placed second in a field of some 80 competitors. Flying past two other runners in the last 300 yards of the race, Turnbull finished with a time of 15:14, just one second behind winner Dave Dennis of Grosse Pointe North.

Tennis week starts sweet, ends sour

Northville started with two easy victories and wound up with two frustrating defeats last week as the girls tennis squad warmed up for this weekend's regional competition at Ann Arbor Pioneer.

On Monday all four singles players and all three doubles teams swept to short two-set victories as the Mustangs sailed to their second 7-0 shutout over Plymouth Canton this season. Number one singles Lorri Hopping (6-1, 6-1), number four singles Eve Englemeyer (6-0, 6-1), number one doubles Lisa Friel and Sue Pegrum (6-2, 6-2) and number two doubles Bev Kohl and Lynn Herald (6-1, 6-1) were particularly devastating. The junior varsity squad followed with a 5-0 shutout of its own.

A day later Northville walked away with a 6-1 triumph over Livonia Churchill. Friel and Pegrum, who lost 4-6 and 2-6 to Churchill's number one doubles team, were the Mustangs' only losers.

On Wednesday Northville had a rematch with Western Six arch-rival Farmington Harrison and, like the first meeting between the two schools this season, this one ended up 4-3 in Harrison's favor.

Hopping lost to Janice Lukasiewicz 2-6, 2-6 in number one singles; Pegrum, playing number two singles, fell 0-6, 0-6 to Nancy Green; Feiel, playing number three singles, was beaten 1-6, 2-6 by Emily Bowles; and Englemeyer, number four singles, lost 2-6, 0-6 to Rhonda Verona.

Maglia and Horst in number one doubles, Kohl and Herald in number two and Ade and Kaestner in number three doubles all won over their counterparts, however.

Northville's most frustrating defeat came Friday, when a powerful Livonia Stevenson contingent just managed to pull out a 4-3 thriller at Stevenson.

Hopping (6-4, 7-5) and Maglia (6-0, 6-2) were winners in number one and three singles while Horst, who played her first game at number two singles (2-6, 2-6) suffered losses.

"We had a very good dual meet against Stevenson," coach Uta Filkin said of Friday's loss, "but I think I have a team that plays better in warmer weather." Temperatures were in the lower 50's for the Stevenson meet.

The Mustangs' overall record now stands at 8-4, and their Western Six mark is 6-2.

Last week's results:
Brett Hornvec's throwing arm and fullback Fred Blackmer's running led FARMINGTON HARRISON to a 38-14 triumph over PLYMOUTH CANTON last Saturday. Hornvec completed nine of 14 passes for 195 yards, including touchdown strikes of 37 yards to Brad Bache and 30 yards to Bert Barsch, while Blackmer rushed for 88 yards in 20 carries and scored twice on short runs.

John Cooperider's eight yard touchdown run and two-point conversion in overtime carried WATERFORD MOTT to a 30-28 victory over WALLED LAKE WESTERN Friday. Western took a 14-8 half time lead on one yard plunges by Rance Hafner and quarterback Tony Swiatek while Cooperider, who had 140 yards rushing, ran three yards and added the two pointer for Mott's only score.

DENNIS ZINKON

BEV KOHL

LYNN HERALD

It's safe to say that without the services of Steve Pyett and Dennis Zinkon Northville's perennial golf powerhouse probably wouldn't have much of a chance at claiming their seventh straight Western Six championship this fall. As it is the two seniors have been a major factor in keeping the Mustangs in the thick of the conference race going into next week's league meet at Kensington Metro Park. Last Wednesday both shot incredible one-under par 34's in Northville's strongest showing of the season, a 188-208 victory over Livonia Franklin, and a day later Zinkon posted a 37 and Pyett a 38 to help the Mustangs win a crucial 191-200 match against Western Six title contender Livonia Churchill. Both are averaging nine-hole rounds of under 40 so far this season.

Before the season began coach Uta Filkin's biggest concern for her girls' tennis squad was whether or not she could replace her depleted doubles teams. Bev Kohl and Lynn Herald have helped make that worry a thing of the past this fall. In their first 11 games together the two sophomores have gone undefeated in number two doubles competition, and have an excellent shot at making All-Conference at next week's Western Six meet. Last week they rolled past Plymouth Canton and Livonia Churchill in easy two-set matches, then overcame some extremely stiff competition from area powers Livonia Stevenson and Farmington Harrison for a pair of three-set triumphs that kept their unbeaten string intact.

Consistency keys golfers' success

Thanks to some drastic improvement in recent days the prospects of Northville's perennial golf powerhouse are suddenly looking a whole lot brighter this season. And Joe Blake is convinced that a seventh straight conference title is still well within reach.

"The secret is consistency," the first-year Mustang coach noted as he glanced over his team's individual scores after an important victory over Western Six rival Livonia Churchill last Thursday. And consistency is what has his golfers dreaming of big things about next week's league meet at Kensington Metro Park.

Due to a well-balanced performance led by sophomore Bob Stevens' strongest effort of the season, a one-over par 36, Northville bounced back from an earlier defeat to Churchill and won going away at Brae-Burn Golf Club last week, 191-200. Combined with a 208-215 triumph over Walled Lake Western earlier in the week, that upped the Mustangs' conference record to 6-2 and lifted them into a tie for first with Waterford Mott and Farmington Harrison, which caused the three-way deadlock with a 207-208 upset over Mott the same day.

Behind Stevens, who was shooting one under entering the last three holes, came Dennis Zinkon with a 37, Steve Pyett with a 38, and John Pawlowski and Mike Seltz with 40 each. Incredibly enough Blake had to throw out a 41, shot by sixth man Scott Denhof, in order to trim his team's total down to the top five scores. The 191 total represented Northville's third best score of the season.

One day earlier the Mustangs had registered their lowest score of the year when Pyett and Zinkon each shot one-under par 34's at Brae-Burn to lead the team, to a 188-208 non-conference win over Livonia Franklin. Pawlowski added a 38, Denhof a 40 and Stevens a 42.

Before that the Mustangs hadn't shot under 199 in three full weeks, dating back to September 14.

"We'd been away for a while, and when we came back here (to Brae-Burn, Northville's home course) we started picking up," Blake said in explaining the reason for his team's sudden turnaround.

In the Western meet, which took place last Monday (October 3) at Bay Point Country Club in Walled Lake, Pawlowski topped all golfers with a nine-hole score of 40 to lead the Mustangs to a 208-215 victory.

'Can't win 'em all'

There's an old familiar saying that serves to ease the frustrations of a coach after a particularly tough defeat. "You can't win 'em all," it goes. Unfortunately the saying mentions nothing about the final score. But then there can't be much

O'Leary wins football prize

There was one game outcome last week that not a single entry in the weekly football contest failed to predict.

And that was the 17-17 tie between two of the top 20 teams in the nation — Pittsburgh and Florida. That plus Texas' 13-6 upset victory over second-ranked Oklahoma proved to be the downfall of nearly every contestant.

As it was, not a single contestant had fewer than three mistakes. And only two — Mickey O'Leary of Westland and Kris Baggett of Northville — came up with the three miscues.

O'Leary took first place by virtue of his closer prediction of the Michigan-Michigan State game. He was 11 points off the mark, having picked the Wolverines to win 28-7, while Baggett was 20 points off the mark.

Nine contestants submitted entries with four mistakes, but it was Jeff Lindemier of Northville who claimed the third place by very nearly guessing the correct score between Michigan and State. He had Michigan winning 27-13. The Wolverines won, of course, 24-14.

Others with four mistakes who finished out of the money were:

Ed Kritch and Tom Gates of Northville, who were six points off the tie-breaker; Finn O'Leary, Ron Barnum, Ron Pote, Donald Chamberlain, Tom Great, and Brian Odom, all of Northville.

Twelve contestants had five mistakes, 26 had six mistakes, 16 seven mistakes, six had eight mistakes and one remainder had nine mistakes or more.

Judges remind contestants that the tie-breaker rules require that a score of the game be included. Some contestants have been noting only a point spread.

consolation of any sort when a team loses 77-15. Northville's girls' basketball squad suffered that humiliation at the hands of powerful Plymouth Canton last Thursday, and coach Omar Harrison was at a loss for words to explain it.

"They (Canton) just had too much manpower, what can I say?" the first-year mentor commented. "We simply got outclassed from the start."

Thanks to a strong performance from Canton's Sue Rekuc the Chiefs built up a 42-8 bulge by halftime, and from there they coasted. Donna Korte had six points to lead the Mustangs, while five Plymouth players score in double figures. Rekuc led the 8-0 Chiefs with 11 points and eight rebounds.

Two days earlier Northville stayed close for one half, then fell apart in the second in a 50-41 loss to North Farmington. At one point early in the first half the Mustangs fought back from a big deficit to take a brief one-point lead, but then fell behind by 12 before putting together a late surge and cutting the margin to 22-16 by halftime.

Susie Heinzman topped the losers with 10 points while Korte pitched in nine and Lori Young eight. North Farmington's Mary Bates easily led all scorers with 29 points.

Northville's one moment of glory last week belonged to the junior varsity squad, which ran away with a 43-6 victory over North Farmington. The Mustangs held their opponents scoreless in both the first and fourth quarters and jumped out to a 25-4 lead by halftime. Kim Kurzawa led all scorers with 14 points while Karen Goxem and Kathy Phillips added nine each as the jayvee girls collected their second victory of the season.

Omar Harrison: 'What can I say?'

Canton handed them their sixth defeat, however, with a 39-24 drubbing two days later. Goxem had 10 points in a losing cause.

Ken Landstrom returns to job after 'heroic' Thursday

Student aids stricken man

Ken Landstrom had some Red Cross lifesaving training when he took a swimming course and his mother works at Wayne County General Hospital.

But the 19-year-old Northville Township resident didn't rely on that background when a customer suffered a seizure at a grocery store where he works.

"I just did what I saw them do on television," he said. "And I hoped to hell it worked."

Landstrom, who graduated from Northville High School last spring, had just begun a break from his bagboy's job at Chatham's, 415 N. Center Street, when the short drama unfolded at about 5 p.m. Thursday.

"This guy was sitting by our Halloween display, looking at a ghost and shaking," said Landstrom. "At first, I thought he was joking."

When he realized that the man was in trouble, Landstrom shouted for a co-worker to call an ambulance and then rushed to help.

With the aid of an unidentified woman, he got the man, "who looked to be in his mid-40's", onto the floor, turned his head and opened his mouth.

"That's when the blood came out and he started gagging. I tried to get to his tongue, but I couldn't," he said. "When he started to turn purple, I got kind of scared."

"But then he started to wake up. That's when a couple of policemen came."

The officers, from the Northville Police Department, asked Landstrom to continue his assistance "because he was used to me."

The man, who apparently lives in Detroit and shops regularly at the store with his mother, declined ambulance aid and left on his own.

Landstrom, who plans to enter Schoolcraft College in January and may pursue a law enforcement career, said he thinks a first aid course would be a good idea for most people.

"You think of it on a dummy and it's easy," he added, "but when you get down to the real thing... It happens so fast."

Going to Chamber dinner?

Reservations are still being accepted for the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce annual dinner meeting.

Coming up Thursday, October 20 at Meadowbrook Country Club, the annual event will feature dinner, live music, prizes and the jokes of Andy Bertoni, serving as master of ceremonies.

In addition the Chamber will present its annual "citizen of the year" award with last year's winner, Jan Reef, announcing the 1977 winner.

Activities get under way at 7 p.m. with dinner served at 8 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling Marge Cinader, 349-5560, or Essie Nirider, 349-7640. Persons wishing to attend are urged to call by Friday.

The only business to be considered at the annual dinner meeting will be election of officers.

Nominated for two three-year terms are Betty Allen, Robert Sellen and Gene Wagner.

Lioness Craft Show planned October 22

The fourth annual Lioness Club Craft Show set for Saturday, October 22 is expected to be the largest sale and display thus far planned by the Novi centered group.

Held in the new Novi High School Commons at Ten Mile and Taft Roads, the 22 women counterpart members of the Lions Club will have a host of exhibitors and craftspeople on hand selling a variety of items. Some of the exhibitors will feature articles geared to holiday gift giving.

Beginning at 9 a.m. and running until 4 p.m., luncheon will be served throughout the day. The Lioness Club will be offering a huge bake sale according to spokesperson Barbara Nanas.

"We've had several baking sessions at members homes already," said Mrs. Nanas, adding she was confident the sale would offer one of the largest selections of good things to eat ever presented at the show.

Proceeds earned from the craft show are donated directly to the Novi Lions Club for distribution to their several blind and community projects.

UF volunteers

Northville residents Jane Watts, left, and Amy Grieger review plans for the United Foundation's 1977 Torch Drive residential campaign as co-division chairmen for the west unit which includes all suburban communities of Western Wayne County. This year's torch drive runs from October 18 through November 10 to raise operating funds for nearly 140 health and community service agencies in the tri-counties. Campaign goal is $39,100,000, highest in the UF's 29-year history.

Tracing your ancestors?

Friends of the Northville Library will be presenting a program on genealogy, or the science of tracing one's ancestors, at 8 p.m. next Wednesday, October 19. Guest speaker Rosina Raymond will present an overview of the techniques involved, followed by a question and answer session. Ms. Raymond teaches a course in genealogy at Schoolcraft College. The program will take place in the library, located on the lower level of the Northville Square mall. Register in advance either at the library or by calling 349-3020. Anyone who wishes to find out more about the Friends organization is invited to attend the brief business meeting half an hour before the program begins. New members are always welcome.

Real West? on tap here

This month's feature in the "Specially for Senior Citizens" film series at the Northville Public Library will be "The Real West." It will be shown at 2 p.m. Thursday, October 20. This hour-long film recreates the American west as it really was when the pioneers moved westward to fill in the last frontiers, in the period 1849-1900.

All age groups are welcome and admission is free. Refreshments are served following the film. Those who wish to come should register at the library or by calling 349-3020.

Budget cutters considered coffee to layoffs

If the Northville board of education is having trouble cutting $80,000 out of a $7 million budget, it's not for lack of trying.

Stunned by an enrollment that is 50 lower than projected, the board is trying to compensate for a corresponding loss in state aid without reducing personnel, the area that takes up the largest share of the budget.

It hasn't been easy. Suggestions have ranged from lowering building temperatures for utility savings to drastically reduced busing.

No one has recommended a district-wide bake sale, but at least two board members think it would be a good idea to quit offering free coffee at the central administration offices.

The first draft of a balanced budget was released Monday (see story elsewhere) and it is open to alternations before its scheduled adoption on October 24.

Here's a look at some of the board's thinking process as it tries to slice 80 grand out of what was considered to be an underfunded budget.

Ice man cometh

The severest winter in recorded Michigan history left the school district feeling from skyrocketing utility bills as the seven K-12 buildings operated for the first time in history.

Based on advice from Detroit Edison and Consumers Power analysis, financial director Thomas Goulding has predicted a 10 percent hike in this year's energy costs.

Some board members think the fuel estimates can be reduced by anywhere from $24,000 to $50,000. They offer two reasons — this winter can't be as rugged as last year's and conservation measures can be implemented sooner and more rigidly.

But administrative budget watchers are wary. If the winter is as cold as last year and if fuel costs do increase, then the financial picture will be that much bleaker when January and February utility bills arrive.

Wind tunnel

To some, it seemed reasonable to uniformly keep all buildings at a temperature no higher than 64 degrees. Cooke Junior High School Principal David Londridge, however, noted that snowmobilers aren't the only ones who have to worry about the wind chill factor.

There is a "wind tunnel" effect in school corridors when outside doors are opened, he explained, which would bring frigid indoor temperatures if the thermometer were turned down too far.

Besides, heating is not that constant. A setting of 64 might mean the temperatures are several degrees colder in some rooms.

Moving idea

There are potential energy savings if the central administrative offices could be moved from its relatively inefficient location to the top floor of the neighboring — and unused — Main Street Elementary.

The move is planned, eventually, although board members aren't sure when, and if, school children will be returned to the first two floors.

A problem: The move couldn't take place until later in the school year and the district would be financially penalized for transferring phone and data processing systems before contracts expire.

The last drop

Trustee Marjorie Sliger renewed her plea from last summer to turn off the free coffee at the central administrative offices.

The $2000 price tag has enlisted the support of at least one other board member, Vice President Douglas Whitaker.

But the issue isn't cut and dried. Administrators think it would be chintzy to ask school district guests to shell out for coffee.

And, they fear, miffed secretaries might retaliate against the charge by taking two 15-minute coffee breaks a day rather than drinking the java at their desks as they do now.

Keep the books

Whitaker, who is deputy director of the Wayne Public Library System, showed he can be impartial by suggesting a year's moratorium on library book purchases.

His gallantry was appreciated by fellow board members, but most thought the action unnecessary or too severe.

Super subs

The board danced around a ticklish problem and came up with a solution that might not only save money but boost morale as well.

Not wanting to imply that any staff members were gold brickers, the board still cast an envious eye on the $57,000 allotted for substitute teachers.

Then, someone suggested that administrators — from principals on up to the superintendent — could put a dent in that cost by filling in for sick teachers five times a year.

Administrators seemed pleased with the idea and two, Director of Instruction Nancy Soper and Personnel Director Burton Knighton, said they had worked in school systems that had successfully done the same thing.

The practice would only save about $2000, but getting the administrators closer to the action could have morale-boosting fringe benefits.

Stop the buses

Secretary Chris Johnson, the University of Michigan student who is the board's youngest member, has argued that transportation is a luxury in a district that is laying off teachers and not buying necessary textbooks.

Although he voted for expanded busing to a Novi neighborhood, he would be willing to drastically cut the busing program.

There is some board agreement, but all are cognizant of the public reaction and several doubt that such a move is possible under anything but the most dire circumstances.

No one argued when Superintendent Raymond Spear said there would be more flack from eliminating two buses than from laying off two English teachers.

Baby breaks

Two teachers this year are scheduled to take maternity leaves in the second semester. If they were replaced by substitutes or teachers with less experience, the district could save $4000 to $5000.

But such a course of action would fly in the face of the district's policy to hire the best qualified person for the job, regardless of the applicant's position on the step level.

Saving brethren

Trustee Charles Peltz wondered aloud if the faculty would respond to a "Save your brethren" plea.

Would teachers, he asked, be willing to accept additional responsibilities — such as lunch room duty — if they knew the savings might prevent staff reductions?

Most administrators tended to doubt it.

Weekend halt

From the administration came the suggestion that utility bills could be lessened by closing the schools from Friday afternoon until Monday morning, thereby closing off school gyms and the swimming pool for weekend recreation programs.

Johnson, who has served as the board's representative on the Northville Recreation Commission, warned that such a move could cripple the township-city department.

He also said the recreation department offered youngsters an alternative to trouble, others said that was well and good, but the school's first objective is education.

People first

Salaries take up the bulk of the budget and so jobs are the most vulnerable when budget cuts are made. But it's also the area where the board is most reluctant to slash.

The teaching staff is down nearly 10 from last year, although most pink-slipped teachers have been hired by Northville or other districts. The custodial staff has also been reduced by three.

Now that school has started, the board fears that further lay offs could put a cloud over what so far has been a positive school year.

The problem, however, is that the $80,000 gap is not going to be bridged with what Trustee James Lewis called "nickel-and-dime" solutions.

"At some point," he said, "we are going to have to make massive cuts." Those are ominous words, but they appear to be facts that Northville school boards will have to live with for awhile.

EVERYDAY LOW PRICE!

We need today's energy to get us to tomorrow's energy

Our most plentiful energy sources for the future are the sun and the wind. To bring the future closer we are working to make the sun and the wind practical energy sources to one day light, heat, and cool our homes.

The Energy Research and Development Administration has selected us as a finalist for one of four wind-turbine projects to take place around the country. We are monitoring other solar installations around the state, and in the Flint area we are testing a solar heat collector.

While we search for tomorrow's energy needs we must rely on nuclear power today. It's proved itself here in Michigan. On July 5, 1977 the Big Rock Point Plant set a world operating record by generating electricity for 326 consecutive days. In 1976, the Palisades Plant generated 2.8 billion kilowatt hours of energy.

I'm excited thinking about what tomorrow's energy sources might be. But, I'm very grateful for what nuclear energy is providing us right now.

Garden giant

"We sure didn't expect anything like this," laughed Mrs. Marion Holcomb of Nine Mile Road as she showed off one of the giant carrots grown in the family garden. She's holding one that measures just under a foot long and 4½ inches in diameter. "There's lot of others nearly as big. And even though they're big they're really sweet," she said, explaining that many of them have been canned. The golden giants were grown from seed tapes.

Little hope seen for new road

After considering a variety of alternate routes for a new north-south bypass highway through Northville, including a suggestion of Mayor A. M. Allen of a Novi Road move to the east to connect directly to Griswold at Eight Mile, Northville City Planners at their October 4 meeting conceded that any change at present is "politically impossible."

William Mosher of Mosher Associates, Incorporated, presented to the planning commission the proposals he earlier had made to the city council. First plan utilized Horton, the second, which Mosher said has had greatest acceptance, utilizes railroad right of way and existing Seven Mile.

The new alternative would continue Griswold to River and use Seven Mile to South Main.

The awkward exit from Novi Road onto Eight Mile and then to Sheldon long has plagued the city. Mosher's firm was hired to propose solutions, he said, in the event that federal monies should become available.

Right now, he said, the city is at the mercy of the Wayne County Road Commission with any change to be expensive.

"I'm not sure it's possible at all," Mosher stated.

He also told the planners that he feels a five lane highway of Novi Road is "a dream at the present time."

City planner Ronald Nino stated he cannot foresee Wayne and Oakland counties supporting the change financially.

Chairman Burton DeRusha pointed out that with Beck Road earmarked as a major north-south route now he suspects that the plans being discussed will "never be in operation."

In a request added to the agenda the planners were asked about an added parking area for Earl Keim Real Estate on property owned north of the building at 330 North Center to be considered later.

A petition for a change of zoning signed by 13 owners in the area adjacent to the VFW hall was presented by William Riley. He said the VFW has purchased two lots zoned R-2 and wished for rezoning of the entire 47-lot area. Nino pointed out that rezoning should apply only to those represented and stated it now is zoned as related to the race track.

A preliminary discussion of site plan and change of use of the former Drawbridge restaurant (the old Methodist church) was on the agenda. Daniel Beutler, a treasurer and elder of the Open Door Christian Church, said, so that "if finances come together" the property could be removed from the tax roll by December 31 if the purchase is made.

Parking was the concern of the planners who were to have more information on allowances so that an opinion can be given at the next meeting October 18.

The church presently is meeting in the Northville High School and reports it has made an offer to purchase the building at Center and Dunlap.

Where'd it go?

Recently, upon delivery of the city's newest fire truck, Mrs. Dorothy VanAtta dug out a picture of the 1926 Ahrens-Fox fire engine upon its delivery to Northville 50 years earlier. It was Mrs. VanAtta's father, Reinhold Kiiken, who drove it to Northville from the factory and who trained local firemen in its use. Fire Chief Bud Hartner lamented the fact that the old engine is no longer around to remind area residents of early fire fighting. "I wonder where it is?" he asked. All of which prompted Francis Gazlay, local history buff, to dig out the picture (above) taken in 1926 at the time of the Ahrens-Fox's retirement from service. Gazlay and others remember that the engine was given to the Jaycees by the city, but no one seems to know what happened to it after that. Anyone have the answer? Incidentally, that's Chris, Martha, Julie and Mark Gazlay on the truck.

Hyperactive child topic of discussion

Activities to teach and guide the learning disabled and hyperactive child at home will be discussed at the second meeting of the new year of the Plymouth-Canton, Northville Chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday, October 19, at the Plymouth Pioneer Middle School cafeteria.

Kathy Erdlitz, guest speaker, will discuss "Learning Activities at Home." Guests are welcome.

Beginning Monday and running through Saturday of this week the chapter has a display in the foyer of the Dunning-Hough library in Plymouth explaining its programs and aims. Material is available at the book check-out counter.

Main conservatory is center of attraction at the U-M Botanical Gardens near Dixboro

At U-M Botanical Gardens

Nature paints year-round

By DENNIS KEENON

You don't have to wait until fall for color at the University of Michigan's Matthaei Botanical Gardens at 1800 Dixboro Road, Ann Arbor.

Flowers, plants and vegetation abound year-round in the botanical garden's greenhouses, located on a 200-acre site donated by the late Frederick Matthaei, a U of M benefactor.

An estimate 100,000 visitors tour the gardens every year, but serving the public's interest, while important, is only a secondary function, says Professor William Benninghoff, director of the Matthaei gardens.

The primary purpose of the gardens is to serve the teaching needs of the university and nearby institutions and to provide living collections and cultures of plant life needed for research, Dr. Benninghoff said.

"University botany classes are regularly held here," Dr. Benninghoff explained. "Their lab work is conducted both outside and in our greenhouses."

In addition, 40 adult education classes are conducted at the gardens in the fall, winter and spring.

Consisting of a main conservatory, plus three moderate size greenhouses for research and propagation and two smaller greenhouses for classes on 200 acres of mostly undeveloped land, the botanical gardens serve as an excellent teaching center, Dr. Benninghoff said.

The greenhouses have permanent plant collections from all parts of the world for teaching and research, he said.

There also are special collections being developed by researchers and graduate students.

In the research area, members of the university's School of Natural Resource and Department of Civil Engineering are studying the ability of wetland vegetations to absorb nutrients from wastewaters. The field work is being done near Houghton Lake, Dr. Benninghoff said, but the lab work is being conducted at the botanical gardens.

Another research program is designed to explore environmental influences on photosynthesis — the production of organic substances, especially sugars, from carbon dioxide and water by action of light on the chlorophyll in green plant cells. The program will explore such aspects as the quality of sunlight and temperature fluctuations, Dr. Benninghoff said.

Still another research project involves a study of a vine family which grows in southern Brazil. Research work also is being done to study the relationship between certain animals and plants, Dr. Benninghoff said.

From the public's standpoint, the main attraction of the botanical gardens is the large array plants and vegetation, the well-kept grounds and flower gardens and three nature trails, ranging in length from .6 miles to 1.6 miles, winding their way along Fleming Creek, through woods and near wetlands and marsh areas.

The U of M botanical gardens were created in the 1870's and were located on two different sites on the main campus. Continued on Page 10-C campus until 1924. Then the greenhouses and gardens were moved to a 40-acre site on the southwest corner of Parkard Road and Stadium Boulevard. "It eventually became crowded in the city with the gardens encircled by housing and small industry," Dr. Benninghoff said.

In 1959, Mr. Matthaei donated the 200-acre tract of rolling, diverse terrain on Dixboro Road for the new site of the botanical gardens.

In 1961, the first buildings were completed and the main collections were moved to the Dixboro site.

Today the gardens are used as a meeting place for many area horticultural groups, such as the Indoor Light Garden Society and Michigan Botany Club. Many of the groups keep their files at the gardens.

In addition, another group, Friends of Matthaei Botanical Gardens, hold weekend sales each month, selling such items as plants, books and botany prints "to advance the ability of the gardens to serve the public," Dr. Benninghoff said.

"With the money raised, they buy equipment for maintenance of the nature trails," Dr. Benninghoff said. "They purchase books for our in-house library. It's very useful to the staff and adult education classes. We appreciate their help."

Porcupines eyeing cabins

likely to destroy it."

Porcupines are attracted to wood or other porous materials that have soaked up salt from human hands. A newly built cabin, fresh from the hands of the builders, is a special treat to them. But they will also gnaw on boat oars, as handles, windowsills, door handles, doorknobs, siding, fenceposts — almost anything.

Squirrels are likely to get into a cabin and tear up pillows, tip things over and generally get into everything.

Porcupines pose a more difficult problem.

"If you know for sure that there is one crusty old porcupine that is singlehandedly eating your cabin away, trapping and disposing of him might take care of the problem," Dudderar says. "Chances are, though, that getting rid of one porcupine would only make room for another to move right in. So you're better off to try keeping the porcupines away from the structure."

He suggests fencing them out with chicken wire. To do an effective job may take a readjustment of your ideas of what makes a good fence, however.

"A tightly strung fence, with the wire stretched snugly between the posts, won't even slow the porcupines down," he points out. "They'll be up and over it with hardly a pause. But a loose, sagging fence will foil them."

Put the wire on posts in a C-shape, Dudderar advises, with both the bottom and the top of the C pointing away from the cabin.

Leaf sugars mixing Michigan landscape of colors

If you've planned this year's fall color tour for the same time as last year's, be prepared for a disappointment. Like summer, apple harvest and insect problems, fall leaf color should be earlier this year.

"Some parts of the western Upper Peninsula are already having good fall color displays," says Mel Koelling, Extension forestry specialist at Michigan State University.

The rest of the state can also look forward to early fall color and leaf drop, he predicts. He expects leaves to develop full color 10 to 14 days earlier than normal and the color to be somewhat less spectacular than last year's display.

The reason, he explains, is the dry weather Michigan has been having. "As long as trees get sufficient moisture, warm temperatures and sunlight, leaves manufacture the green pigments that are also present in the leaf all summer. When the leaves stop producing chlorophyll, the other pigments show through."

In some areas of the state, drought has already caused many trees to turn color, because lack of moisture interfered with chlorophyll production. Severely afflicted trees are suffering leaf browning around the edges and early leaf drop. When this occurs, the tree skips the fall color stage, going from green to brown to bare.

Contrary to popular belief, it is not Jack Frost and his paint brush that bring us spectacular autumn color displays. In fact, Koelling says, a hard frost will affect maples and other trees the same way it affects your tomato plants—it kills the leaves, which then turn blackish brown and fall off.

"We don't want a hard frost that would kill the foliage," he says, "but we do want cool night temperatures to promote red leaf color."

The red leaf color, like the green, is caused by a manufactured pigment, he points out. Whether trees develop a lot of red color depends on the past growing season and the fall weather.

The red pigment is manufactured from sugars in the leaf, he explains. If the growing season has promoted good growth and the manufacture of plenty of sugar, and if autumn provides plenty of cool night temperature of plenty of sugar, and if autumn provides plenty of cool night temperatures and bright, sunny days, the red color will appear. Cool weather at night prevents the movement of the sugar out of the leaves, he notes.

If fall weather is wet and cloudy, the fall color display will lack the brilliant reds, he says. Without lots of sunlight, the sugar in the tree leaves is not converted into the red pigment and only the yellows, oranges and browns are visible.

Because of the dry weather this year, the leaves of trees in much of the state are probably not rich in sugar, so the red leaf colors may be somewhat subdued.

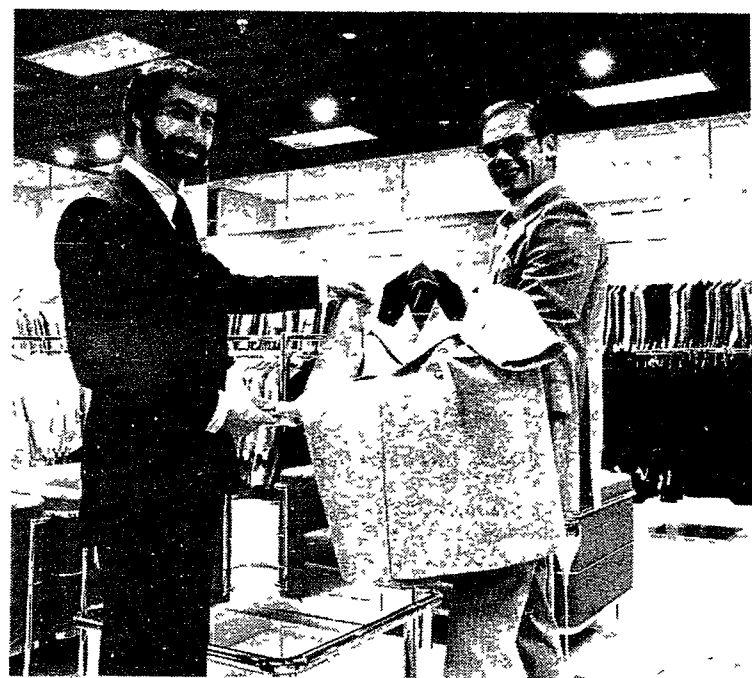

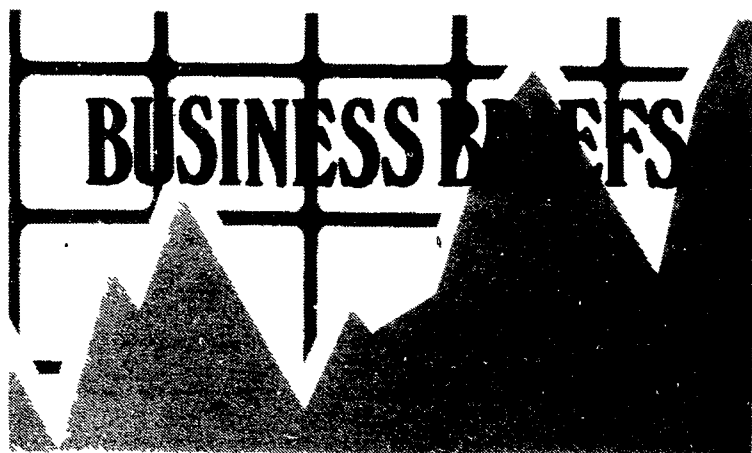

Other leaf colors, such as purple, represent combinations of the ever present yellow and orange pigments and the manufactured red and green ones, Koelling notes. They do not reflect the presence of a purple pigment.

"Whether we have great fall color or nothing to write home about may not seem very important at first glance," Koelling says, "but it does have its economic implications. Some parts of the state, like the Traverse City area, count heavily on fall color tours for a good share of their tourist trade."

Another economic aspect of fall color occurs in the maple syrup industry. Sugar maple growers use the redness of maple leaves in the fall as a rough index of the probable sugar content of the tree sap next spring. High sugar content means it takes fewer gallons of sap to make a gallon of syrup. That means fewer trees have to be tapped and less time has to be spent boiling down.

"In other words, there's more to fall color than meets the eye," Koelling sums up. "Whatever you're looking for in fall color, be prepared to look for it early this year. Otherwise you might just miss it."

Kaorie's a lively addition to flag corps

Japanese exchange student is first to join band unit

A dancing, black-haired dynamo is marching down Northville's football field this fall as the newest member of the marching band's flag corps.

For the first time an exchange student is part of the six-member flag unit encouraging the Mustangs and adding half-time color.

She's Kaorie Miyaoka. She's an 18-year-old senior from Matsuyama-ski, Japan, and the guest this year of the Milton Koenig family in Shadbrook.

The petite Japanese girl is having no trouble twirling the eight-foot flags. She had been a cheerleader for two years in Japan.

"She would hang around and watch us march," recalls Ann Youngquist, band parent president, praising the way Kaorie has "fallen in" with the American way of doing things.

"She's darling," she says of the enthusiastic youngster.

"She's an imp," laughs her host mother, Diana Koenig affectionately as she tells how Kaorie enters into activities quickly and with great enthusiasm.

She had been observing the marching band as Matthew Koenig, a 10th grader and band member, practiced. With encouragement from her locker partner she tried out and was accepted in the flag corps. Mrs. Youngquist mentions that it's not a flag girl corps. and that boys are welcome, but to date it's an all-girl unit.

With only a little urging from Mrs. Koenig and Kaorie's American "sister", Lesley Koenig, 14, the cheerleader demonstrates Japanese cheers.

"It go fast and increase (in volume) as go," she explains earnestly.

As with everything, Kaorie tries to communicate quickly, often searching for translation.

Then Mrs. Koenig suggests she get her dictionary and the student bounds up the stairs to the room she shares with Lesley.

Kaorie is here through the Japanese International Cultural Exchange (JICE) program, qualifying for it through tests last December. She is in the second group of girls to visit the United States in the program and is the only JICE student in Northville now.

Last year a friend, Masako Kono, was a JICE student staying with the Gordon Snyders. It was through them that Kaorie came.

She arrived before school started and in time to join the Koenig family, which includes Christopher, 12, as well as Matthew and Lesley, on a camping trip west.

They visited the Gateway to the West — St. Louis, the Black Hills, Yellowstone and Seattle. Highlight for Kaori was Mt. Rushmore.

"She's very bright," Mrs. Koenig says of the family's young guest who comes from a Japanese city of 200,000 population. She thinks the program has high qualifying standards.

In Northville Kaorie is taking calculus, chemistry, United States history and English composition. As might be expected, United States history is most difficult.

In Japan she was part of an active English club, Kaorie says, which put on such plays as "Romeo and Juliet" and "Alice in Wonderland."

She does not receive credit for her year here and will have another half-year of high school in Japan, preparing for entrance into a university. She hopes to go into medicine. Her sister, 19, now is a university student.

Kaorie's also a most accomplished pianist, having started playing when she was three. She taught herself how to play the flute.

Her father is a high school teacher and her mother works part-time in a sewing machine factory. Kaorie had to struggle through her English vocabulary to remember the word "sewing". But when it came, her face was one exuberant smile.

Her American host father is an engineering professor at Wayne State University, and Mrs. Koenig is an engineer at Ford Motor Company.

Diana Koenig points out one "plus" of having the exchange student in their home is that they're learning a lot about Japan.

Kaorie also is a folk dancer, and brought a costume for Lesley as well as her own. Her grandfather had hand-sewn the one for Lesley.

The clothes Kaorie brought with her are new and western style. At school in Japan she wore a uniform and changed into a kimono at home.

She's right at home here in the "jean's" uniform and the black pants, white shirt and bright red jacket worn by Northville "flags".

Look for her at the next home football game. She'll be twirling fast and wearing a bright smile.

Fashions at Meadowbrook

Planners of the fall fashion show at Meadowbrook Country Club last Thursday were as fashionable as the models in Jacobson's clothes. Members watching the show wore boots, gauchos, shawls and the blouson look, as did those asked to model.

Top above, Sharon Lineman, co-chairman, admires baskets which decorated tables held by Sharon DeAlexandris and Shirley Davis with Maureen Settles, co-chairman, and Cecyl Herguth. Mrs. DeAlexandris and Mrs. Davis headed the decorations committee.

Have your tintype taken at Mill Race

By JEAN DAY

This coming Sunday, October 16, and again on November 6 visitors to the Mill Race Village on Griswold will be able to see how tintypes were taken and even have their own likenesses preserved in this turn-of-the-century process.

As a special attraction, from 1 to 4 p.m. when the buildings are open to view, Nate Skipper, founder of the Centennial Ferrottype Company of Franklin, Michigan, will have available his 1910 vintage "Daydark" camera, a hand-painted backdrop of the period and materials for instant processing of an original tintype photograph for those who would like one.

The event is sponsored by the Mill Race Docents who hope residents will "think Christmas" and have tintypes done as original gifts. Skipper is to be in the old library building and will do a tintype on metal in a cardboard frame for $4. It will be ready within 15 minutes.

The tintype process dates back to 1856. It was very popular during the Civil War when soldiers, wives and girl friends posed for loved ones. Tintypes were able to withstand the rough handling of U.S. Army Mail Service better than any other form of photograph, Judy Kohl, Docent in charge of special projects for the Mill Race, explains.

Skipper, an attorney by profession, has done much research on the tintype process and the equipment and working methods used by the itinerant and street photographers. He makes his demonstrations for the nominal fee to cover costs only. His research is intended as a basis for a book he plans to write.

Chamber dinner upcoming

Tickets now are on sale for the annual dinner meeting of the Northville Chamber of Commerce, which has gained a reputation as one of fall's festive events. It will begin with cocktails at 7 p.m. Thursday, October 20 with dinner following at 8 p.m. at Meadowbrook Country Club. The program bills Andy Bertoni as "King of Laughs."

There will be election of three directors and presentation of the Citizen of the Year Award by Jan Reef, last year's winner. Tickets may be purchased and reservations made with Marge Cinader, chairman, at 349-5560, or Essie Nirider, 349-7640, by this Friday. Cost is $12.50.

A conflict with Northville High School's play, has necessitated change of date for the 10th Junior Miss competition. It will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, December 3, at Meads Mill Junior High. Chris Campbell reports for the sponsoring Northville Jaycees that they're already delighted with response and hope to have a large number of contestants, including four play participants. Applications may be picked up by any senior girl at the high school office or she may be contacted at 464-1154. Deadline for applying is October 21.

DAR to hear herb specialist

Barbara Scantlin of Northville, who is known for her herb lore, will present a program, "Colonial Way with Herbs," at the meeting of Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at noon Monday at the home of Mrs. Harold Stark, 5668 Geddes, Ann Arbor. Mrs. Scantlin lived and worked in Colonial Williamsburg, Virginia, last year. Her talk will follow a salad-sandwich lunch. Reports also will be given on the state conference held last month in Flint.

Fashions at Highland Lakes

Highland Lakes Women's Club will have a dessert-luncheon fashion show at Highland House, the condominium clubhouse, at 1 p.m. October 20 for Highland Lakes women and their guests. Fashions will be by Claire Kelly with hair styles by Fashion Cellar. Tickets are limited, reports President Phyllis Siegel; they're $2.50 and may be reserved with Jean VanDam, 349-5362.

Tour lunch postscript

A final note of the multi-event home tour day: Northville Methodist Women, who served lunch for the first time this year during the tour, report they made a profit and heard much favorable response. "Plenty of willing workers served 180 lunches and we'd be willing to repeat next year," says chairman Pat Eden.

Vows recited in OLV services

Margaret Bustamante marries Midland man

Margaret Mary Bustamante and Dee Francis Lamb of Midland wrote the vows they exchanged in a double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. September 9 in Our Lady of Victory Church.

They also chose and read two scripture verses.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents, Joseph and Rosemary Bustamante of 355 Orchard.

The bridegroom is the son of Roy and Marie Lamb of St. Clair.

Candelabra lined the aisle for the service at which Father Paul Fetting officiated. Field and dried flowers from Northville were arranged on the altar by Mrs. Diane Petro.

A mobile banner decorating the sanctuary was made by Mrs. Judy Krueger.

Guitar music during Mass was by the bride's brother, Vince Bustamante; another brother, Joe Bustamante, was string bass. Singing were Kathy Assenmacher and Roy Williams. Organist before the Mass and for the entrance procession was Mrs. Judy Archer with Dr. R. Keith Archer, tenor singer. The bride's godparents participated in the procession.

During the ceremony the bride's father played "Sunrise, Sunset" on the viola.

The bride's gown of white-tucked cotton was a Mexican peasant design with ruffled yoke, cuffed and gathered sleeves and a tie sash. A deep ruffled edged the hemline. Matching lace edged her mantilla veil.

Her flowers were a gathering of baby's breath centered with three white orchids.

Sue Wilkinson, maid of honor, and bridesmaids Mary K. Bustamante, sister of the bride, Jane Letarte and Jeannine Kundrick wore peasant skirts and blouses in white with small black flowers and red, white and black border print. The yoked dirndl skirts were ankle-length.

Each carried baby's breath with five red roses.

Mike Lamb was best man for his brother. Ushers were another brother, Jerry, Lee Trangow and Doug MacEachin.

A reception for 200 guests followed in the church social hall.

The bride-and-groom decoration had been used on the bride's grandparents' and parents' cakes as well as at the weddings of both her aunts.

A wedding trip to Toronto followed. The couple will live in Midland where they met when the bride attended school there.

Marcia Kelly wed to MTU classmate

After a wedding trip to San Francisco, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Scott Evett are living at Houghton, Michigan, on the campus of Michigan Technological University where they met. Mrs. Evett is the former Marcia Rose Kelly of Northville.

She is the daughter of Mrs. William H. Kelly and the late Mr. Kelly. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Evett of Munster, Indiana.

They were married in a 3 p.m. double-ring ceremony at Our Lady of Victory Church by Father Paul Fetting and the Reverend Lloyd Brasure of First Presbyterian Church in Northville. The altar was decorated with ferns, mums and gladioli.

Given in marriage by her brother, Russell M. Kelly, the bride wore a gown of English net with Alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls. Her illusion veil fell from her chignon of curls which was adorned with tiny flowers from the lace of her gown.

She carried a cascade of tiny white orchids and fern.

Maureen E. Kelly was her sister's honor maid. Bridesmaids were Cecily Hayward, Kathy Zabinski and Hillary Holdsworth. All bridal attendants wore light blue Qiana gowns with matching chiffon capes and carried cascades of the tiny pink-tinged orchids.

Steven Evett was best man for his brother. Ushers were Phil Hasiak, Dave Valencia, Bob Draime, Mark Snedden and Vern Fisher.

A reception followed at Meadowbrook Country Club for 250 guests, including out-of-town friends from Indiana and Illinois.

Both Marcia and her bridegroom are enrolled at Michigan Tech completing their studies.

Mothers' club plans talk by Dr. Aune

Dr. George Aune, new principal of Northville High School, will be guest speaker at the next meeting of Northville Mothers' Club at 8 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Richard Lyon, 710 West Main.

Co-hostesses will be Mrs. James McCurdy, Mrs. John Conder and Mrs. Charles Ayers.

Members are invited to bring guests to the meeting.

Plans are being made for the annual fall next-to-new sale October 22

Area residents can view and purchase original art, including watercolors, etchings and prints, at two events this coming Sunday and at the same time aid good causes.

Proceeds from the League of Women Voters' open house from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Art Gallery, Incorporated, at 459 South Main in Plymouth will go to help passage of the Equal Rights Amendment. Champagne, hors d'oeuvres and a chance on a piece of art are included in the $2 tickets, available at the door or from Sandra Walts.

Our Lady of Victory Lady's League is sponsoring an art auction starting at 8 p.m. in the church social hall at 770 Thayer. It is being conducted by the Fred Grossman Gallery Art Center of Berkley and features original oils, graphics, etchings.

Admission is $1 with those attending invited to come at 7 p.m. for champagne and a preview of sale items. There also is a door prize.

Displaying featured art for the OLV auction are Shari Zeleznik, right in picture at top, chairman of the event, and Marianne Hamill, head of Our Lady's League.

Extension Homemakers plan year

Open membership drive

With the installation of new officers recently, the Northville branch of the Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers has launched a membership drive here.

The Northville branch of M.A.E.H. meets every third Wednesday of the month in the homes of members.

According to Rosemarie DeLand, who succeeds Jo Machover as president, the purpose of the organization "is to educate today's woman to improve herself, family and community by providing her with the latest information about consumer buying, management, and personal and family relationships; foods and nutrition, clothing and textiles, home management and family finance, home furnishings and housing, child development and family life, safety, public affairs and human relations."

It participates in the educational program in family living offered by the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University, she explained.

Programs of local groups usually include:

1. Four or more economic lessons.
2. One or two meetings on related topics, such as health, safety, citizenship, and international affairs.
3. A workshop, a class or series of meetings for those who have a special interest in tackling a problem or acquiring a skill that cannot be taught in one meeting.
4. Special projects or lessons relating to community, county situations, or to public affairs.

"Study groups," stressed Mrs. DeLand, "give you the opportunity to meet new people and form lasting friendships, while improving yourself, your family and community."

M.A.E.H. is a nationwide organization with six million members. State membership approximates 15,000, and in Wayne County the membership currently stands at about 500.

Besides Mrs. DeLand, other newly elected officers of the local chapter for the 1977-78 year are: Doris Cross, vice-president; and Carol McCreadie, secretary.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Northville chapter or who may have questions about the organization and-or its activities is urged to call either Mrs. DeLand, 455-5181, or Mrs. Cross, 455-9006.

Newcomers plan Singles group Oktoberfest

A second annual Oktoberfest couples' party is planned by Northville Newcomers' Club from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday, October 28, at Our Lady of Victory Church social hall.

According to Angelo Lehmkuhl and Jacques Downs, this year's couples' coordinators, this party is back by popular demand with the committee promising to surpass the fun and surprises of the first.

Alumni are invited to join the Newcomers for an authentic German meal of Knockwurst steamed in beer, sauerkraut, German potato salad and more. There will be beer and dancing. Music will be by the "Princetons."

A few reservations still are available through chairman Sibrey Szalay, 348-1654, until October 20.

Singles, a non-denominational Christian fellowship for single people 18 to 40 years old, will be entertained by the singing group, "Blessed Hope," at its meeting this Friday.

The fellowship hour begins at 6:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church of Northville with dinner by reservation at $4 at 7:30 p.m.

Reservations should be made with Ann Jarir, 349-0604, or Pat Kuxhaus, 459-4825.

The "Blessed Hope" group has performed extensively in the Detroit area.

Aglow fellowship hears testimony at breakfast

Women's Aglow Fellowship will present Mary Kowalski as speaker at the October Breakfast meeting at 9 a.m. Saturday at Mayflower Hotel.

Depression and emotional disturbances had plagued the speaker from childhood to adulthood and on into marriage until, through the mercy of God's love, she experienced healing and restoration in every area of life, fellowship program planners report.

Everyone is welcome to attend.

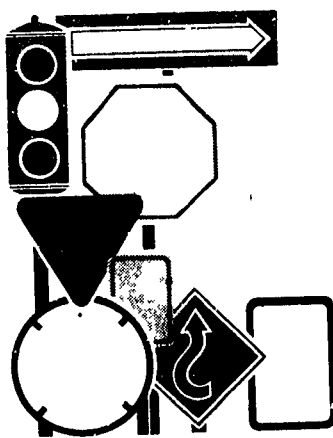

The meeting begins with breakfast at 9 a.m. in the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth. It is $4. Reservations are required. Please call Judy, 459-9720, or Lorraine, 455-5569.

Methodist women slate annual fall sale

Annual rummage sale of the Northville United Methodist Women will be held from 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Friday, October 21, at the church on Eight Mile at Taft. Anyone with articles to donate is asked to drop them off at the church Thursday morning, October 20. Clothing, baby items, knick-knacks are welcome, but large items, such as furniture, are to be saved until the men's sale in the spring.

Merit scholars include seven local semi-finalists

Seven Northville High School seniors have been named National Merit Scholarship semi-finalists, Principal George Aune announced last week.

The seven are among 15,000 students across the country who will be competing for Merit Scholarships which will be awarded next spring.

The semi-finalists, who earn that designation as the result of their scores on tests taken last year, represent fewer than one-half of one percent of all high school seniors.

About 90 percent of all semi-finalists become finalists and qualify for scholarships from the National Merit Scholarship Program, colleges and corporations.

Northville's semi-finalists are:

—David Bartula, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bartula, 1014 Fairfax Court.

—Richard Bookwalter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bookwalter, 844 Yorktown Court.

—Cindy Bull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bull, 18977 Beck Road.

—John Eltinge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lamont Eltinge, 45754 Fernanagh.

—Elaine Hinman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hinman, 916 Novi Avenue.

—Julie McDaniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McDaniel, 212 South Ely Drive.

—Tracy Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Webb, 43737 Doris Court.

Eight more Northville seniors achieved Commended student status on the basis of their high test scores. These students do not continue in Merit Scholarship competition, but their test results placed them among the top two percent of this year's graduating seniors.

A letter of commendation increases a student's opportunity for college admission and financial assistance.

The Commended students are:

—Jeffery Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hill, 15844 Robinwood Drive.

—Marc Hooth, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hooth, 574 Morgan Circle.

—Kurt Kastner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kastner, 18419 Donegal.

—Scott McMillin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McMillin, 218 Debra Lane.

—Kathleen Settles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Settles, 21742 Woodside Drive.

—Amy Vargo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Vargo, 118 Linden.

—William Winters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Winters, 1046 Bristol Court.

—Linda Winans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Winans, 21867 Bedford Drive.

To become finalists, the seven semi-finalists must meet further requirements established for the competition.

These include being fully endorsed and recommended by the high school principal, presenting school records that confirm high academic standing, and substantiating their National Merit test scores with equivalent performances on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

Finalist are eligible for scholarships from three sources. The National Merit Scholarship Program offers awards of up to $1000. Many corporations sponsor four-year scholarships. Often, the recipient must either be the child of an employee of the company, live in the company's community, or enroll in a course of study related to the firm's business. Finally, several colleges award four-year scholarships to finalists.

OF SOME MERIT — These are Northville's seven semi-finalists who are still in the running for a National Merit Scholarship. They are, from left, Julie McDaniel, Tracy Webb, Cindy Bull, Richard Bookwalter, John Eltinge, Dave Bartula and Elaine Hinman.

Commandery 'inspection' slated

Northville Commandery No. 39, Knights Templar will hold its annual inspection Saturday at the Northville Masonic Temple. Degree work will commence at 4:00 p.m. with a "short-form" opening, followed by the "Order of the Temple." Dinner, with the ladies invited, will be served at 6:30 p.m., to be followed by the introduction of grand officers and distinguished guests. Sir Knight P. Fred Lesley, eminent grand captain general of Grand Commandery, Knights Templar of Michigan, will be the inspecting officer.

Sir Knight Bethel S. Heugel, eminent commander of Northville Commandery, extends an invitation to all Knights Templar to attend.

National educator speaks here Thursday

Does a public school system have a special responsibility to the gifted and talented student? Or is the exceptional child handicapped in most school systems?

These questions and others will be discussed Thursday night in Northville during a talk by a nationally-known educator.

Dr. Roger Taylor, director of the Center for Creative Education in Chicago, will be at the central administration office, 303 West Main, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

The public is encouraged to attend, according to Nancy Soper, Northville's director of instruction.

Dr. Taylor's talk is being sponsored by the Northville Public Schools

Advisory Committee for Gifted and Talented Programs.

Dr. Taylor was in Northville last summer for a workshop with teachers that was funded by a state grant.

The same grant financed Northville's PLUS program for gifted and talented students in the district's four elementary schools.

Because the grant was not renewed this year, the PLUS program has been greatly reduced although it is still in operation thanks to volunteer help, said Mrs. Soper.

School officials are hopeful that some kind of grant can be obtained this year.

For more information about tomorrow night's session, call Mrs. Soper's office at 349-3400.

Aids in Bering Sea seizure

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Richard F. Endress, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Endress of 19550 Clement Road, participated in the seizure of a Taiwanese fishing vessel in the Bering Sea.

He was a member of a boarding party from the Coast Guard cutter Confidence, Homeported in Kodiak, Alaska.

While on a routine offshore fisheries patrol, he and his fellow crewmembers boarded the Taiwanese stern trawler "Highly 301," and discovered more than 50 tons of illegally-caught fish on board. The vessel was subsequently seized for violation of the Fisheries Conservation and Management Act. It was the first West Coast seizure of a foreign fishing vessel since the 200-mile limit became effective on March 1, 1977.

a 1969 graduate of Northville High school and a 1974 graduate of Rochester Institute of Technology, New York, with a bachelor of fine arts, he joined the Coast Guard in December 1976.

Plan transcendental talk

A free public lecture on transcendental meditation is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, October 19, at Northville

Apprentice theory proves popular in Northville

The apprenticeship theory is alive and well in Northville.

Learning a trade through on-the-job training is a daily fact of life for about 90 Northville students enrolled in the Co-op program — so named because of the cooperation between the school system and area businesses.

Co-op students — all juniors or seniors — go to the high school for the first four class hours of the day.

Class number five, however, may be at a restaurant, an insurance agency, a law office, an auto shop or any one of dozens of other businesses in the Northville area where students work as regular employees.

The program, now in its eleventh year, is a smashing success. A survey of last year's Northville graduates showed that Co-op rated the highest of all programs for providing classroom training that related to needed job skills.

In fact, if the Northville Co-op program has a drawback, it may be its popularity.

There are at least 30 students — and probably more — who would like to enter the program, but can't. What's even more frustrating is that the influx of businesses to the area — factories, Twelve Oaks Mall and the like — has created a demand for Co-op students that Northville is having a hard time meeting.

The problem is a staff shortage. The state department of education — which partially funds the program — limits the number of students that a Co-op teacher can supervise.

The restriction insures that teachers Wayne Saunders, Maureen Gorshak and Ron Spaniol will be able to keep track of the students' progress at work and make sure that employers are offering meaningful training.

There's also a voluminous amount of record keeping that keeps the trio busy. The success of the Co-op program seems easy to pinpoint.

First, Co-op students can both learn a trade and see first-hand how a business works while still going to high school.

Many students continue with the same profession — often, the same company — after they graduate.

Sometimes, the reverse is true and students discover "while they are still young," that they really don't like a particular line of work, according to Saunders.

Exposure to the working world also opens students' eyes to their own limitations and makes them think about career goals.

Students become aware that "with this much skill, this is the kind of job I can have," explains Mrs. Gorshak. If they like the job, fine. If they want something else, the Co-op experience may encourage them to pursue more training.

A second Co-op selling point is that school often becomes more interesting to students once they have an afternoon job.

"We find that Co-op is a real motivator for attendance and attitude for other classes," says counselor Alta Olson.

Not only must students keep their grades up to remain in Co-op, but they also find that their classes — some of which must relate to their job — are more interesting.

A third plus is that Co-op students "earn while they learn." Generally, a student puts in 15 to 25 hours a week and must earn at least the minimum wage.

That's a big help, particularly for those planning to work their way through college.

Finally, there are a number of invaluable skills that Co-op students pick up along the way.

They have to prepare a resume and participate in a job interview, experiences that will come in handy in the future.

Co-op jobs also expose students to a world other than the high school arena. Dealing with customers and employees of different ages and backgrounds helps students "develop desirable personal-social traits," according to the Co-op staff.

Co-op students must also accept the responsibility that goes with a job which includes dependability, a nice appearance and timeliness.

Judging by their demand for students, businesses are high on Co-op. In addition to providing training, employers are asked to evaluate the student's work as part of his or her grade.

cording to Mrs. Gorshak. Many stress both good and bad points and define the areas where they expect the student-employee to improve.

Right now, there are three different

Co-op areas. Saunders is in charge of distributive education (merchandising, sales), Mrs. Gorshak handles office related jobs (accounting, secretarial) and Spaniol's department is trade-

The three would like to expand the program so there could be more complete programs in areas such as food services, nursing and child care
