New library proposal awaits study

Sweeping up a season

Shakespeare said it all when he wrote, "When the great leaves fall, the winter is at hand." Soon fall's color, too, will be gone, marking the last visible evidence of the growing season. Busy sweeping up the past season are Andy LeVan and Tim Hay (right) while Juliet Stockhausen cleans her rake for another swipe at the leaves that are rapidly covering the community's yards and streets. All of which means, observed Whittier, "Autumn in his leafless bowers is waiting for winter's snow."

Communities to confer here next Tuesday

"Let's review all of the available data before we make a decision."

That was the conclusion of the Northville Township Board Thursday as it temporarily set aside the proposal for a new township library building pending a joint meeting with city officials.

The special meeting is to be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Northville City Council Chambers.

Motion to hold the meeting was made by Dr. John Swienkowski, who specifically suggested that various proposals for use of the planned 6,000 square foot building to be located on Six Mile Road, together with costs, problems, comments and recommendations of the library commission and those of the federated library system be fully and publicly examined.

Supervisor Wilson Grier advised the early special meeting because bids for construction of the building will have expired by a later date. Presumably, the board will make its decision soon after the special meeting.

In addition to unanimously voting (Trustee James Nowka was absent) to hold the special meeting, the board also by unanimous action directed the supervisor to find out if it is possible to amend community development block grant application.

The latter proposal was made by Trustee Michael Wilson, who said he wanted to know if the township could amend its grant allocation of $137,900 to permit either a scaled down library building or a change in use and still save the grant for the township.

Specifically, Wilson wondered aloud if a smaller building might be permitted so that construction would not exceed the amount of the grant.

Supervisor Grier and Clerk Clarice Sass said they had already checked with federal representatives last year and had learned that amendment of an application is not permitted. Furthermore, Grier cautioned board members that by suggesting a change the township could jeopardize the township grant.

Nevertheless, Wilson persisted, saying that it was his understanding that amendments were still possible. Furthermore, he stressed that Grier need not formally suggest a change is in the making but rather simply ascertain if application amendments are possible.

According to Grier, as the application now stands the township must use the building primarily as a library with provision that it also be used at least one day a week for senior citizens activities.

It was Trustee Mark Lysinger who led off board discussion on the library, who said he was disturbed by "questioning, distortions and accusations" concerning the position of the board on the library proposal.

He backgrounded the township board's position in obtaining grant monies for construction of the new township hall facility, stressing that the board's position was consistent with public demand for beefed up public safety improvements, and he contended that the board's consideration of a library to be located in the township similarly represents the board's desire to plan ahead based on the township master plan, need for expansion and improvement of services, and the availability of revenues.

Lysinger said the library proposal should be discussed in a "positive" manner and not be couched in negatism.

Later, Lysinger took the chairman of the library commission, Mrs. Carolann Ayers, to task for her reported remarks in last week's issue of The Record.

Paraphrasing her quoted remarks, Lysinger suggested she was being unfairly negative because she was aware of the board's position having attended a special study meeting of the board earlier in the week.

Mrs. Ayers explained that she had made her remarks prior to the meeting without benefit of the board's thinking

Governor eyes DeHoCo alternative

Prison proposal dumped

A major victory appeared within grasp of Northville with yesterday's disclosure that the governor is dumping his proposal for converting the Wayne County Child Development Center here into a state prison.

In a surprise announcement Governor William Milliken said he is abandoning child development center plans and supporting instead the purchase of the Detroit House of Corrections facility for establishment of a permanent state prison on DeHoCo property.

The governor threw his support behind a bill in the State House of Representatives, suggesting that the DeHoCo property in Northville Township be purchased and that the existing buildings be used as a temporary prison facility with later construction of a new, permanent 600-inmate state prison on the DeHoCo land.

DeHoCo, located on Five Mile Road near Ridge Road, is owned by the City of Detroit. That portion of DeHoCo located in Northville Township on the north side of Five Mile housed women prisoners until this past summer when it was closed with the opening of the new state women's prison near Ypsilanti.

The Plymouth Township portion of DeHoCo continues to house non-felony male prisoners from Detroit and other Wayne County communities. It is not included in the governor's latest state prison proposal.

Recently, State Representative Richard Fessler, who represents the Oakland County section of Northville, introduced one of two House bills that would provide for the purchase of DeHoCo.

Governor Milliken's disclosure to The Record late Tuesday afternoon, channeled through State Senator R. Robert Geake of Northville, emphasized that the DeHoCo plan is favored locally over the child development plan.

It climaxes months of protests and political pressuring by Northville officials and citizens who began battling the governor's prison plans for the child development center even before the state formally offered Wayne County $9 million for the vacant facility located on both sides of Sheldon Road near Five Mile Road.

Specifically, the governor originally proposed using the child development center buildings as temporary quarters for a minimum security prison on the east side of Sheldon, with later development of a new, permanent facility on the west side of the road.

Local protests, however, helped persuade the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to temporarily shelve the proposal. Subsequently, the county announced plans to place the 728-acres of land and buildings up for sale to the highest bidder.

Meanwhile, Northville Township, through its newly-formed economic development corporation, has begun planning for development of the child development property within existing zoning restrictions.

Since first proposing the child development center as a state prison,

Public ignores budget

A $7 million budget for the Northville school district is signed, sealed and all but delivered after Monday night's sparsely attended public hearing on proposed expenditures.

A reason offered for the low attendance may be because the budget is a "fait accompli", according to Joseph Fiorilli, one of only three people to make any comments.

Fiorilli chided the board for always being on the defensive and said it needed to beef up its public relations. "I think you bit the bullet," he said of the budget. But, he added, "I really don't know what you cut back."

He asked the board to explain what was lost in the areas of the district's goals and objectives and in the quality of education as a result of last July's millage defeat.

"We have not decreased the quality of education," answered Treasurer Karen Wilkinson. "We have not made the strides we as a board have discussed."

As for goals and objectives, the board pointed to capital outlay — where no money is budgeted — and maintenance, where spending is sharply curtailed, as examples.

Ed Gabrys, Northville's track coach,

NEWS BRIEFS

HALLOWEEN will be officially celebrated in Northville on October 31 — not before or after, city and township officials announced jointly this week. Hours for trick-or-treaters will be from 6 to 8 p.m. on that date in both the city and township.

NORTHVILLE HIGH School's annual Homecoming parade starts Friday night at 7 from the Northville Downs parking lot behind Church Street. Five floats will lead the parade up Church, turn left on Main, north on Center to Eight Mile and then onto the football field. Floats should report to the Downs lot by 5 p.m., while the king, queen, class reps, their cars and the band should arrive between 6 and 6:30.

TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR Wilson Grier has been appointed chairman of the newly formed Rouge River Watershed Council whose primary purpose is to plan for ecological improvement of all branches of the Rouge River.

ALTHOUGH they have been advised that no specific law permits or prohibits the township from participating in the joint city-township Silent Observer program, township board members have unanimously agreed to continue township participation in the program started several years ago. Supervisor Wilson Grier recommended continuation in the program, despite lack of permissive legislation, because it represents another good way to combat crime. The program offers rewards to persons providing police with evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of criminals.

SATURDAY'S the day to buy those Halloween pumpkins you've been waiting for. That's when the Northville Kiwanis Club will be selling pumpkins throughout the residential areas of the city and township. Proceeds from the sale will go the children's hospital in Ann Arbor.

- County-wide teacher bargaining in works
- Novi mayoral candidate withdraws
- Walled Lake enrollment declines
- Wisconsin Badgers are winners
- Band classes draw cheers

BRIGHTON — Holloway Sand and Gravel Company, headquartered in Wixom and operator of a landfill-sand removal operation in Salem, is under fire here by Brighton Township residents who don't like its gravel mining operation in the township. Specifically, residents are complaining because the operation continues while the activity is being appealed in circuit court.

HARTLAND — Sixth graders are jubilant here with the restoration of band classes, which reflects approval of a millage issue last summer.

SOUTH LYON — The Badgers really took it on the chin at Michigan stadium Saturday, but the previous night they were winners in the minds of local citizens who enjoyed the University of Wisconsin's marching band performance at the high school here. The special performance, arranged by South Lyon Band Director Frank Kochalko, was the second time in recent years that South Lyon has hosted Badger bandmen.

WHITMORE LAKE — After months of adjusting, stretching and cutting, the Whitmore Lake Board of Education unanimously approved the final 1977-78 budget. The $1.6 million budget is based on a local tax levy of 27.92 mills.

NOVI — Mystery mayoral candidate Vince Williams shocked city political observers again by announcing his withdrawal from the mayor's race. But because of the law, his name will remain on the ballot. Williams had filed for the mayor's post just hours before the filing deadline. A few days later he was offered a job in Ohio and he decided to move. The candidacy of Williams was viewed by some observers as a move by the Republican party to prevent Roethel from taking the mayor's job. She's the only other candidate for the office now held by Gilbert Henderson.

NOVI — A move is afoot in Oakland County that would band together teachers throughout the county for 1979 negotiations. A Michigan Education Association spokesman believes county-wide bargaining will "be a very positive thing. It's not so difficult firing 120 to 150 teachers, but it's a much more difficult thing firing 5,000." Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Michigan Negotiators Association, an administration group, warned that county-wide bargaining will doom local school board control and give unions more power.

NOVI — A slightly irregular track alignment combined with a "minimal brake reduction" by the engineer led to the derailment of 23 freight cars — including nine tankers carrying powered and liquid chemicals — that caused more than 2,000 Novi residents to be evacuated from their homes and that compelled Northville to dam the Rouge River branch to prevent the killing of wildlife in that community on August 12. That was the explanation given by officials of the C&O railroad at a special public meeting here.

NOVI — Although a final decision on the application of Providence Hospital to locate an ambulatory care facility here is not expected until December, it appears hospital officials will proceed with plans to locate an "interim" facility on the southeast corner of Meadowbrook and Ten Mile roads in the near future.

WALLED LAKE — Northville isn't the only school district rocked by declining school enrollment. Now comes word that the Walled Lake School District probably will lose some $175,000 in state aid as a result of declining enrollment there. The fourth Friday count in the district showed a total enrollment for the district of 11,500 — a decline of 100 students from the official 1976-77 count. Earlier, Northville announced that it expects to lose about $70,000 because enrollment is 50 below the projected figure.

WALLED LAKE — Ground has been broken for a $250,000 education building at the Methodist church here. Meanwhile, Northville Methodists hope to be moving out of temporary quarters in its education wing and into a new sanctuary in December.

WALLED LAKE — The board of education here has voted 5-1 to give its members a $25 salary for every regular, special or study meeting they attend. That represents a pay hike from the previous scale — a flat fee of $200 per year for board members.

COMMERCE — A proposal to dredge a portion of Lower Straits Lake has raised the ire of citizens here. They're worried that the dredging by a residential development company with large land holdings at the southeast end of the lake will compound the already low lake level problems. Final decision on whether or not the dredging permit will be granted will be made by the Department of Natural Resources later this year.

Delinquent tax rate is high in Novi

Novi has one of the highest percentage of delinquent property taxes in the county, figures released by Oakland County Treasurer Hugh Dohaney show.

In 1976, Novi had a local delinquency rate of 11.48 percent, for a total of $32,000 in unpaid taxes. Novi's average delinquent property tax rate over the past four years is four percent.

More than half of the townships and cities in the county had delinquency rates of less than one percent.

The responsibility of collecting property taxes rests with local treasurers. In Novi, the treasurer is Fred Todd. Todd, however, has only been in the position for one year.

He says one reason the delinquency rate is so high this year is that, when Dohaney released the figures, a pair of large accounts since settled were still delinquent.

But Todd also feels the four percent is too high and has already instituted some changes in tax collection procedures.

"I think you'll begin to see some changes," Todd says. "I don't think 1977 will be anywhere near four percent."

Todd plans to collect more information about companies in the area than has been available in the past. The city must keep up on whether a company is about ready to fold, he says.

Many companies go out of business and then fail to pay their property taxes. Others spread equipment over several communities, hoping that no city will tax them.

Todd tells of a recent case where a business was liquidating its stock and had failed to pay its property taxes. A member of the city's finance department went down to the on-going auction and gave the city its share of the proceeds.

Another recent case involved a construction company also folding that had failed to meet its property tax obligations. The city confiscated a bulldozer and a backhoe tractor and held them until the taxes were paid.

"The rate is higher here than in other areas," Todd admits, "but people have to realize it will take some time to change."

A list of delinquent property tax individuals and companies was circulated at a special study session of the Novi school board September 29. Superintendent Gerald Kratz noted that over the past three years $64,000 in delinquent property taxes is owed the school.

The school system, however, has no power to collect taxes. But the school does have the option of writing off delinquent taxes more than three years old. The school system wrote off $13,000 worth of delinquent taxes in 1976.

Kratz said he wanted all the members of the school board "to look at the list carefully because you may be in one of these establishments sometime and you could say, 'Gee, it would be nice if you could pay those taxes.'"

Kratz, school board president Joel Coliau, and city manager Ed Kriewall have held meetings discussing how to solve the problem.

County treasurer Dohaney estimates the county has dropped $3.5 to delinquent taxes from 1972 to 1976.

Township backs foes of Fry Road thruway

A petition by Fry Road property owners off Five Mile Road to keep their street from becoming a through-way into the new subdivision to the north has been endorsed by the township board.

The board action represents a reaffirmation of an earlier township position.

Supervisor Wilson Grier reminded Fry Road residents that earlier the board had attempted to persuade the county to prohibit cutting the road through to the new subdivision.

Although the township had been unsuccessful, it did, however, aid in reaching a negotiated settlement between the county and the Fry Road area residents to provide that new streets would not flow in a straight line off the existing roads.

"You are asking the board to do the same thing it tried to do before," said Grier.

Nevertheless, at the direction of the board, the supervisor promised to forward the board's reaffirmation action statement to the property owners, together with previous documents concerning the issue, so that they could themselves carry their fight to the county road commission. Furthermore, Grier urged Fry Road residents to inform him whenever they spot subdivision construction vehicles using their road.

A "stop using order was previously issued, said Grier, and that order still stands.

Grier promised he personally would respond and stop any construction vehicle. "If I'm not here, tell the police chief. I'll leave instructions that (construction vehicles) are to be stopped."

Torch Drive gets approval

The planned Torch Drive here from October 18 to November 10 has been approved by the Northville Township Board.

Plans call for canvassing of township homes by Torch Drive volunteers later this month in an effort to raise monies for United Foundation.

In other action Thursday, the board also approved Northville Kiwanis Club plans to conduct a pumpkin sale on Saturday, October 22.

ISEP aide contract is ratified—almost

Classroom aides for Northville's Institution Special Education Program (ISEP) finally have a contract — almost.

The school board approved the three-year agreement Monday night, but there was one small hitch.

The approval is contingent on a letter from the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) that will clarify who represents the 165 aides.

Board secretary Chris Johnson was troubled by the wording in the tentative agreement, but Superintendent Raymond Spear said the MERC letter would solve the problem.

Earlier in the day, about 135 aides had "overwhelmingly" ratified the contract, according to school officials.

The aides organized in summer of 1976 but serious negotiations didn't begin until February. On September 31 — after 55 sessions, a work stoppage and picketing by aides to protest the lack of progress — a tentative agreement was reached.

Dr. Burton Knighton, Northville's director of personnel, said the wage portion of the contract was "one-year retroactive."

The rest of the package, he said, takes effect only after ratification, through the 1980 expiration date.

The board approved the pact, including Johnson's amendment, 5-0 with Vice President Douglas Whitaker and Marjorie Sliger abstaining.

Both said they had not had an opportunity to read the contract.

The aides are represented by the Northville local of the Federation of Aides which is affiliated with the Michigan Federation of Teachers.

KING FINALIST — Mike Uzela of Northville was among three finalists in a contest for Homecoming King this week at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. A sophomore majoring in health, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Uzela, 21431 Beauford Lane.

Paw Prints tour exhibits

Peggy McMullen, president of a Wayne County 4-H youth group headquartered in Plymouth, was one of several youths who participated in a 4-H exhibit at the City-County Building in downtown Detroit.

The exhibit, which featured award-winning 4-H projects, was open to the public from October 3-7 to salute National 4-H Week. It was sponsored by the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service which coordinates 4-H activities for nearly 8,000 youths throughout the county.

The downtown exhibit also gave the youth an opportunity to see county government in action. Ms. McMullen and Janice Hamil of Northville, her friend, toured county departments with Wayne County Commissioner Royce E. Smith, who represents Plymouth on the Board of Commissioners.

Ms. McMullen of Plymouth came to the exhibit to talk about Paw Prints, a 4-H club that is set up to help young people and adults train their dogs.

"You can do just about anything through 4-H," Ms. McMullen said. "I just happen to love working with dogs."

Ms. McMullen said the club has about 20 active members who meet every Wednesday night at the Plymouth Youth Center, near Main and Penniman, to put their dogs through new obedience routines and learn better grooming methods.

The club presently draws members from Plymouth, Northville, Livonia and Canton Township and would welcome newcomers. The age range is 10-18.

"We also are socially-oriented and think 4-H is a great way to meet other people," she stated.

The club is planning an Awards Banquet on October 26 which will have a Halloween theme.

For more information on Paw Prints, call Mrs. Edna Terry, Wayne County 4-H group leader, at 453-6070.

State orders new studies on M-275 alternatives

The State Highway Commission today ordered new studies that will enable it "to completely evaluate" the major highway alternatives to serve north-south traffic in western Oakland County.

The commission unanimously adopted the following statement setting forth its position on alternatives to the cancelled M-275 Freeway through the area:

The Michigan State Highway Commission has carefully reviewed every suggestion relating to the highway traffic problems in western Oakland County. As a result of this complete evaluation, the Commission concludes the following:

1. The Commission is still satisfied that its decision to cancel M-275 was a wise and prudent one.
2. The Commission recognizes the general community agreement that traffic problems do exist in the area and the Commission acknowledges that it has a role in solving these problems through Federal and State funding.
3. The Commission believes there still prevails a wide division of opinion within the affected region on exactly what will best solve the problems while maintaining the appropriate ecological, social, economic and financial considerations.
4. The Commission is not satisfied that all of the necessary review and study has been conducted for the alternatives to M-275.

Therefore, this Commission hereby direct the Department of State Highways and Transportation to do the following:

1. Begin the engineering and environmental studies needed to completely evaluate the major alternatives thus far proposed by the concerned communities and citizen groups insuring a high degree of local participation in the entire process.
2. Proceed with the origin and destination studies in the area as recently proposed to us by the Department.
3. Include in the study the widening of I-96 and US-23 to accommodate any projected increases in the interstate traffic in this corridor.
4. Specifically address the suggestions for local road improvements with emphasis on the grid pattern currently in place together with all the future plans of the Oakland County Road Commission in the area.
5. Enter into immediate negotiation with the Oakland County Road Commission for the cancellation of the contract for the construction of Northwestern Highway to remove this long-standing impediment to innovative,

Ray Casterline gets appointment

Ray Casterline, III, has been appointed to the Northville Housing Commission, filling the vacancy created by the resignation of Robert Gotts who has moved from the city.

The housing commission is responsible for the development, rental, and maintenance of the Allen Terrace senior citizens apartment complex slated to open in February.

Casterline, recommended by the commission, was appointed by unanimous action of the city council Monday night.

new thinking on solving area road problems.

6. To insure the minimum time delay in yet another study, the Commission directs that it be provided with reports each 90 days as to the status and progress of the study to aid in monitoring trouble spots while keeping citizens alerted to the issues at stake.

Chairman Peter B. Fletcher of Ypsilanti said he expected the commission would make a final decision on a total highway plan for the area "in less than two years."

"In the interim," he said, "I expect we will make a series of decisions affecting the need for improved traffic movement in that area. This, for example, could include the proposed widening of I-696 to six lanes between Telegraph Road and the interchange with I-275 and I-96 at Novi."

Class opens doors to world of business

Dee LeTarte finds that Office Practicum adds up

All during the interview, the young girl nervously folded and unfolded her arms. This annoyed the prospective employer. So did the fact that she failed to look him in the eye when she answered his questions.

Despite these drawbacks, the girl actually increased her chances of landing a job.

That's because the interview was, for practice only. And the interviewer — who deals in hiring in real life — went over the girl's pluses and minuses to help her for the real thing.

It's part of a Northville High School class called Office Practicum which deals with all phases of getting a job — from learning the skills to proper business wardrobes and everything between.

"It's not just learning the skills," says Maureen Gorshak who teaches 25 girls in the class for two hours each day.

"You are learning the skills but you're using them in a simulated situation."

The mock job interviews, for instance, alert students to nervous mannerisms and bad habits that they might otherwise not notice.

With the help of Marilyn Dwyer's Broadcast Writing and Production class, the interviews have been videotaped to further drive home the message.

The students are also well versed in preparing job applications, resumes and on finding job openings.

As a result, one area employer contacted Mrs. Gorshak to tell her that Office Practicum students were better prepared for interviews than any others she had encountered.

But it's a mistake to imply that the class is concerned only with job hunting techniques.

Office Practicum students have already taken typing and are expected to increase speed and accuracy in Mrs. Gorshak's class.

They are also taught the intricacies of dictaphones, calculators, duplicators, payroll systems and a number of other employment skills vital for the operation of a business office.

Beyond the nuts and bolts learning, students are also presented with real-life situations and asked to make logical choices.

A typical question: You're a secretary and when you arrive at work you find the morning mail, a note from your boss asking you to cancel an 11 a.m. appointment, and a memo which must be typed for a 10 a.m. meeting. Which task do you do first and why?

"A secretary is not just skills, but logic," says Mrs. Gorshak.

The course is not designed only for those who want to become secretaries. It's a good way to learn about office procedures and the course supplies the skills that can land a good job on campus for those working their way through college.

That's not to say that Mrs. Gorshak downgrades the secretary's role.

"Sometimes the secretary knows more about how the business runs than the boss," she says. "That's because she sees everything that is going on."

The class is open to boys but none applied this year. Mrs. Gorshak thinks they may be turned off by the word "office" in the class title.

It's too bad, she says. A lot of promising businesses have failed because the owner couldn't take care of the bookwork.

Class size is limited to 25 because of the individualized teaching that is required.

Students are pre-tested in areas such as spelling, typing and business math. Learning programs are then tailored to meet the student's needs.

Developing skills, finding employment opportunities and landing the job are all fine. But what about after you start work?

Office Practicum deals with that, too. Clothing and hair experts speak to the class with hints about daily appearance.

'Fun Run' to bring out area residents

No one will be stepping out in blue suede shoes, but the people of Highland Lakes will be pulling out their Adidas and Puma tennis shoes this weekend.

There might even be a P.F. Flyer or two. Tennis shoes, sweatsuits and rusty joints will be hauled out of the closets

Saturday morning to the first Family Fun Run sponsored by the teachers of Silver Springs Elementary School. From 9:30 until 11 a.m., weather permitting, perhaps as many as 500 people will be walking, jogging and running a two-mile course through Highland Lakes neighborhoods

"The only thing that will stop us is heavy rain," said Chris Modrack, one of the teachers organizing the event. If the weather is terrible, the run will be delayed a week.

The Fun Run is being pushed as a community event. Not only are students, parents and teachers going to participate, but all Highland Lakes residents — whether or not they have children attending Silver Springs — are encouraged to take part.

The Fun Run was triggered in August by a visit to the school from Troy heart specialist Dr. Joseph Arends, an avid jogger.

Thanks to an excited student body, interested parents and fliers passed out to all Highland Lakes homes, organizers are now hoping for at least 500 people to show up at the Silver Springs parking lot Saturday morning.

Those who show up can — for only a 25-cent registration fee — sign up to either walk, jog, or jog twice around the one-mile loop formed by Silver Springs and Crystal Lake drives. "The teachers came up with this idea because we're trying to become more fit," explained Ms. Modrack.

The Fun Run also ties into the Movement Education classes at Silver Springs which stress exercise programs that can be used for a lifetime of physical fitness.

Running is probably the best cardio-

Penn to be sent to Malaysia Corps

Stephen L. Penn, son of Harold and Enid Penn of 46150 West Main Street, has recently accepted a two-year assignment with the Peace Corps. Stephen, a 1977 graduate of Eastern Michigan University with a degree in public administration, is now attending a skill training for volunteers program at Sam Houston University in Huntsville, Texas. When the course is completed, he will leave for Malaysia where he will begin another phase of training in language and cross-cultural orientation before he begins his actual tour of duty as an irrigation technician.

The concept of the skill training for volunteers program is to prepare the volunteer to fill a specific position as closely related to his own field as possible, so that the needs of the country he serves are fully met.

Since 1963, more than 5,000 Peace Corps volunteers have responded to Malaysia's requests for assistance in the fields of education, agriculture, and technological skills.

Currently, there are about 6,200 Peace Corps volunteers

GOOD TIME WINE by Jim Roth

In the second half of the 19th century, almost all of the vineyards of Europe were destroyed by a vineyard disease called phylloxera. It was found that East coast American rootstocks were resistant to phylloxera and were used as the base for the new vineyards in Europe. To this day, all over the world, the vines in all vineyards are grafted onto this native American rootstock. Even California wines have a New England base.

Wines, from all over the world, are available from us at GOOD TIME PARTY STORE, 567 Seven Mile Road, 349-1477. We will be glad to discuss the proper selection, preparation and serving of wines with you. Cold wine, champagne and beer are available. Open: Mon. thru Sat. 9 a.m.-10 p.m., Sun. Noon-6 p.m.

vascular exercise," said Tom Pallas, a Movement Education facilitator. It's cheap, healthy, easy to do and can be done with as few or as many people as available, he added.

Silver Springs students have been "turned on" to jogging and many are now running one or two miles a day, three to four times a week, according to their teachers.

The staff, which helps run Movement Education classes, has also caught the spirit.

"Through teaching, we've all become involved, running on our own time," said Cathy Bloomfield, a K-1-2 teacher who began jogging the day after she heard Dr. Arends speak last August.

Many parents and other adults in Highland Lakes were already into jogging and have joined the Fun Run promotion with enthusiasm.

One of them, Mary Smolenski who has been jogging since March, said several of her neighbors will be running Saturday.

"The kids are really high," she said.

The Fun Run has been promoted at Silver Springs through pep assemblies, costume days, and mock radio broadcasts. Ms. Modrack predicted that as many as two-thirds of the school's 412 students will be at the starting line Saturday.

The teachers hope they will be joined by a wide array of experienced joggers, beginners, parents, and even senior citizens.

"This is not a competition," stressed Ms. Modrack. "If walking a mile is where you are at, that's fine."

National Jogging Day certificates from the National Jogging Association will be given to all who register. There will also be nutritional refreshments such as hot cider, apples, peanuts.

If Saturday's weather is poor, people may phone Silver Springs (348-9071) after 8 a.m. A recorded message will tell if the run is still on.

'Lakes requests traffic regulation

A request by Highland Lakes property owners that the township take over enforcement of traffic rules and regulations in the subdivision is being studied by the township attorney.

Meanwhile, the township board has requested the police chief to also study the request and report his recommendations to the board.

Presently, traffic matters within the subdivision are dealt with by the subdivision homeowners association.

According to Trustee Michael Wilson, who lives in the subdivision, the Highland Lakes board of directors stands ready to provide traffic signs needed for enforcement by the township police department.

Prison proposal dumped

back in April, Governor Milliken said the backlog of cases in Detroit Recorder's Court has been peeled back, making possible space elsewhere for female misdemeanants from Detroit and other Wayne County communities who were housed in the women's division of DeHoCo.

As a result, Milliken said, he now supports the purchase of the women's division of DeHoCo "along with the provision which has been added (to the bill) calling for construction of a much needed, 600-bed medium security facility on the site as well as remodeling the existing structure for use until the regional facility is completed."

"While the existing institution is not suitable for long-term occupancy, it will provide an interim solution to part of our prison housing crisis," he added.

The governor outlined five factors that persuaded him to abandon the child development proposal in favor of DeHoCo:

- The costs for purchase and renovation should be considerably less. Total cost for purchase and renovation of the DeHoCo facility would be in the neighborhood of $5 million, compared to a projected cost of $10.9 million for purchase and renovation of the child development center. The cost for the long term facility would be equal at either location.

- DeHoCo has individual rooms rather than dormitory spaces, meaning much safer and more adequate housing and a better corrections atmosphere.

- The DeHoCo facility is more remote from developed and residential areas and is, therefore, much more suitable in the view of local citizens. It was an option suggested by local residents at the time of public hearings on the child development center. This proposal has the backing of State Senator Geake, whose district includes the Northville area, and State Representatives Jack Kirksey and Fessler, whose districts cover the area.

It also has the backing of a number of local officials.

- The DeHoCo facility is, at least, as well suited a location for the permanent facility to hold 600 prisoners as the child development center property.

- The DeHoCo facility can be ready for use within six months whereas the time to renovate the child development center is estimated at 12 months.

The governor concluded by saying that DeHoCo "supplies a superior alternative to the child development center, now that it is available, and it represents an alternative that allows us to be responsive to the concerns of area residents while meeting our responsibility to provide adequate correctional facilities."

City approves water pact

Northville City Council has approved an amended preliminary agreement for the supply of water to Hillcrest Manor Subdivision.

Hillcrest is located in the township at the western edge of the city, north of Main Street.

Basically, the agreement means the township will take over the responsibility of water supply to Hillcrest, installing water mains, making a master metered connect with the city water system, and maintaining the lines.

The city, on the other hand, agrees to supply water to the township through its lines for this purpose.

The agreement was amended to provide future increased pumping capacity from the city's water tower at a shared expense. Specific cost is not to be determined until after engineering study of needed additional capacity.

Township Board members approved the agreement last week.

Before the agreement can be formalized, it requires approval of the Detroit Water Department since water is supplied to the suburbs by Detroit.

Low bidders get contracts

Low bidders for office supplies, road salt, and a truck scraper were awarded contracts Monday night by the Northville City Council.

Northville Stationers, a new business at 1027 Novi Road in the city, was awarded a contract for office supplies based on its low bid of $1,654.43.

Bids also were received from E. L. Fetter Company at $1,663.42 and from Audette Office Equipment at $1,765.86.

Morton Salt Company was awarded a contract for supplying the city with road salt based on its low bid of $13.40 per ton. The only other bidder was International Salt Company at $13.94 per ton.

Gar Wood Industries was awarded the contract for an underbody scraper based on its low bid of $3,388. Only other bidder was Schult Equipment at $3,886.

In each case, the low bidder was awarded a contract by unanimous council action.

To publish agendas

Following the lead of the Northville Board of Education, the Northville City Council has decided to publicize agendas for upcoming council meetings.

The suggestion that the agendas be made available to the public in advance of the meetings was made by John Stilson, council candidate.

In accepting Stilson's suggestion, however,

Mayor A. M. Allen emphasized that such agendas would not be complete because items often are added to the agenda after the Wednesday publication of The Record.

Allen cautioned citizens that once the publication of agendas begin they should understand that additional items could be scheduled later.

'I'm not satisfied'

Answer irks trustee

Asking the comptroller of the fox if any chickens are missing is using poor judgment.

That seemed to be the position of a township board member last week when he rebuked Township Attorney Donald C. Morgan for advising the board on a change order matter based on information he had secured from the architect for the township hall complex. "I'm not satisfied with the attorney's response," declared Trustee Mark Lysinger, who asked that his displeasure be forwarded to the attorney.

Lysinger didn't like the attorney using the defensive argument of the architect in concluding that negligence on the part of the engineer had not occurred and that therefore a change order increase appeared in order.

Nevertheless, the board authorized the change order, noting that it can still recoup its money at the time the final 10-percent payment on the project comes up.

Flu clinic is coming to Novi

Oakland County Division is announcing plans for a series of flu clinics for area elderly and for people with diabetes, heart, lung or kidney diseases.

The program is a local one, sponsored by the Oakland County Division of Health, and is not a part of a state or national effort. A limited supply of vaccine has been purchased with immunizations to be administered by public health nurses with syringe and needle technique.

Flu immunization will be held October 25 at the Lakes Area Multi-Purpose Center, Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency, Novi Elementary School, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Additional information will be available by calling 349-3780.

Immunizations will be available also for the elderly and chronically ill at the health division centers at 1200 North Telegraph in Pontiac, 858-1280 and at 27725 Greenfield, Southfield, 557-1400.

A voluntary consent form has been prepared with an opportunity provided for those taking the shots to ask questions before signing.

As with any drug, the possibility of reactions exists, it is pointed out. In some instances people receiving flu vaccine have had allergic reactions. People with known allergy to eggs should receive the vaccine only under special medical supervision. People with fever should delay getting vaccinated until the fever is gone.

Influenza occurs in the United States each year and efforts to prevent or control influenza are usually aimed at protecting those at the greatest risk of becoming seriously ill or dying.

Repeated observations during influenza epidemics have indicated that deaths occur primarily among chronically ill adults and in older persons, especially those over age 65.

These "high risk" persons should be vaccinated annually regardless of the amount of flu in their geographic areas, Oakland County Division of Health states.

The vaccine for 1977-78 contains inactivated A-Victoria and B-Hong Kong influenza virus. The vaccine will not give anyone flu because it is made from killed viruses.

One shot will protect most people from Hong Kong and Victoria flu during the next flu season, the division says.

Lower budget for recreation is approved

A revised Northville recreation budget was approved without dissent Thursday night by the Northville Township Board.

The revised $124,995 budget reflects a reduction of 8,000 as recommended by the township board.

As it now stands the budget calls for the township to contribute the lion's share of monies for department operations.

Northville Township's share is $35,415 (includes $10,000 township CETA funds), while the city's share is put at $25,526.

Township to help sub despite annexation bid

Playing the Good Samaritan and then getting slapped in the face by the recipient of your aid is a little grating.

That was the position of the Northville Township Board Thursday as it approved a revised preliminary water agreement for Hillcrest Manor subdivision where some of the township residents have petitioned for annexation to the city.

What irks board members is that, after having agreed to assist the township subdivision in resolving its water problems, nine property owners in Hillcrest have petitioned the state to have nine lots annexed to the city.

Supervisor Wilson Grier told fellow board members that he saw little good in scuttling the agreement because of the annexation issue. He noted that the water line installation probably will have occurred long before the annexation matter is resolved.

Under the agreement, the township is to share with the city cost of the temporary water line on Clement Road. Also, plans call for the installation of permanent lines, to be operated by the township, with the city furnishing water to the township for use by Hillcrest residents.

Detroit water supplied through city lines to the township area is to be metered. The township will be billed for the water and it in turn will bill the township users of that water.

Currently, the water is sold to Hillcrest residents who are billed directly by the city. Maintenance of the township lines is presently the responsibility of the city.

asked if new landing pads for high jump and pole vault pits were not going to be purchased because of budget cuts.

Last week, Athletic Director Eddy McCloud said the present pads are dangerous and should be replaced.

Superintendent Raymond Spear said new pads would be purchased by Spring although the money may not come from the general fund but from another source such as the Stadium Revenue Fund.

Virginia-Lewis, whose husband James is on the school board, asked trustees to put more emphasis on intramural sports.

Actually, there wasn't much more to say about the budget which has been rehearsed several times since early summer.

The projected $7,042,000 spending level is a record amount but financial director Thomas Goulding said 1977-78 will probably be the "tightest year" in his four years at Northville.

The district has had deficits in the past, but "we did have certain flexibilities," he said. This year, "I feel we've looked at every single source of revenue."

Spear said the "most gratifying part" of the budget is that it no longer has to "harbor or couch" a fund deficit.

"We do have a clean slate."

Because the budget is tight, the mid-year forecast will call for "close scrutiny" to insure that the budget remains balanced, he said.

The 1977-78 budget, which is scheduled for adoption Monday night, is $270,000 or four percent higher than last year's expenditures of $6,774,000.

Spear noted that the budget has increased an average of $500,000 annually for the past 10 years and $700,000 a year for the last five years.

The board had hoped to add about $450,000 to the treasury with a 2.8 mill hike in July, but the tax request was soundly defeated.

Another $70,000 had to be pared from the budget this month when enrollment came in 50 lower than expected. The state school aid formula pays Northville $1364 for each student.

Northville's enrollment this year is 4220, a drop of 190 from last year's figure of 4410.

10 A—THE NORTHVILLE RECORD—Wednesday, October 19, 1977

. . . A page for your expressions and ours

Speaking for The Record

Library study's excellent step

Northville Township Board's decision to delay construction of a library until full and open discussion of the proposal is held should be good news to all citizens of the township and city.

The fact that even Supervisor Wilson Grier, chief advocate of the new library project, is willing at long last to go public prior to decision-making is an encouraging sign.

Our hope now is that Trustee Dr. John Swienckowski's commendable proposal that all library-related data be thoroughly considered will indeed become a reality and that the board and the city council will sincerely listen to and consider each other's suggestions along with those of the library experts.

Going into last week's board meeting there was a very real possibility, the supervisor had stated, that the board might vote to build a new library building at a cost far greater than available federal funds. All of which worried many citizens and officials, particularly library commission members, who feared such a decision would spell the demise of the existing jointly-operated library system that has served admirably and successfully here for more years than most of us can remember.

Trustee Mark Lysinger's superfluous attempt to twist genuine concerns expressed by the library commission chairman into an attack on the Township Board is a typical Lysinger tactic. In his eagerness to show off his self-penned government wisdom the trustee ignores the role and responsibility of the library commission.

"It is an advisory body of volunteer, unpaid citizens appointed by the Township Board and City Council working in behalf of a community — not city or township — library system. Their comments should be sought, not criticized. Their concerns should be applauded as demonstrated interest in their assignment.

The fact of the matter is that some of the board's own members were concerned and attempted to rationalize the results of any action they might take.

Without all of the facts at hand, Dr. Swienckowski wisely called for a decision delay and involvement of the city in the deliberations.

That the city be permitted input into the township's library discussion is a must. After all, it is a partner in the library system and it, apparently, is to be asked to share the expense of operating the proposed new facility on Six Mile Road. To approve construction of the building without prior consultation would have been a potentially costly blunder.

More importantly, perhaps, the township board's own constituency would have been deprived of their right to know.

Even at this late date we suspect that many township citizens and quite possibly even more township officials may be unaware of the nature of the nearly $138,000 "library grant."

The board need not have earmarked the money for the library to receive it; it could have requested it for another purpose. And very possibly it could still do so.

Community block grants did not suddenly materialize for libraries, nor was Northville Township the only community to pick the federal plum.

Unlike the federal monies awarded the township for its new township hall, community block grants are regularly allocated to municipalities throughout the metropolitan area for a variety of different projects. Each was allocated a share of the money and each was given an opportunity to decide how it would be used.

The City of Northville, for example, will use some of the same kind of grant monies for the Mill Race Historical Village and for road improvement.

What's more it is currently petitioning for a different use than originally intended for me if its grant allocation... an action open to all public bodies.

A tribute to Mike

In about three weeks Mayor A. M. Allen will be presiding over his final council session. He's been mayor for nearly 20 years and involved in local government for more than a quarter of a century.

By the most conservative estimates Mike Allen has probably devoted about 18,000 working hours to community business during the past 25 years. Fortunately, minimum wage laws are not applicable to elective local government positions. Mike's average pay for being mayor is about 70 cents an hour.

But, of course, it isn't money that motivates the Mike Allens of our nation. It's the satisfaction of contributing to the general welfare of his community.

Thus we applaud the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce for its selection this week of Mayor A. M. Allen as Northville's "Citizen of the Year."

He's been that for a long time. And we suspect the recognition will be deeply appreciated by the mayor as he turns the reins of city government over to new hands.

MICHAEL A. BRABOY

YES . . .

The recent Supreme Court decision which opened the door for attorneys to advertise has occasioned much discussion, just as their opinion of two years ago banning minimum fee schedules. Both opinions have been criticized as fostering unprofessional conduct and compromising the ethical code of attorneys.

We all know how obnoxious and tasteless some advertising comes across and it would truly pain me to see an attorney doing an "Ollie Fretter". However, there is one basic function and service that advertising provides and that is in the dissemination of information to the public.

Every public opinion poll I have seen regarding the status of various occupations and the confidence felt by the public in a given occupation has rated the attorney poorly in the public eye.

I cannot help but feel this is due, at least in part, to the insistence of the legal profession on hiding behind a cloak of "professionalism".

The gap that exists between the public and the legal profession will only be cured by education and education is a by-product of access to information.

Advertising can provide the public with the information needed to make an intelligent decision.

Speaking for Myself

Should lawyers advertise prices?

NO . . .

When you buy a pound of Domino sugar from one market for $1.00 and another sells the same brand and weight for 75 cents you know you have overpaid.

The giving of legal services is subject to an innumerable number of variables which defy prediction at the inception of almost any case. The public ads for legal services do not and cannot adequately inform the public as to what services the client will receive and the quality of representation. The prospective client can and should discuss fee arrangements with the attorney before a retainer is paid.

The client who is seeking — cheap legal representation should ask himself this question: "Would I perform my job with the same dedication if I were required to cut my salary or hourly rate?"

Ads by attorneys claiming not to charge for any consultation are giving the client very dangerous advice because a free consultation cannot include the necessary legal research to support the attorney's advice.

The public must be aware of the fact that ultimately the cost of these ads will be borne by the client. I defy anyone to read today's ads and tell me which attorney he would employ and why he would employ that attorney. The attorney's best advertisement is a satisfied client.

JACK W. HOFFMAN'S COLUMN

If anyone's ears are blistered more than mine, it's got to be that of the principal.

At least that's what my brother, a principal in another school district, tells me. To make his point, he passed along the following two letters — written on successive days by the same parent.

First letter:

"PRINCIPAL!

"Whats the G... D.... deal on the bus? It came yesterday but not today. My nerves are messed up to put up with this crap. Get it together. Today!"

Second letter:

"OK Mr. Principal you have showed me nothing!

"The bus didn't come again this morning. My husband came up there yesterday and he talked to Charles's bus driver. She said she would start picking Charles up.

"What are you trying to do to me?

"He rode the bus home yesterday and didn't get home till 5:00 p.m. If Charles didn't need that special class I wouldn't even send him to your mixed up school.

"It's all your fault!

"If the bus doesn't come tomorrow Charles won't be in school."

After he climbed off the ceiling, we commiserated about those of us who are prone to receive written missives. That's when brother Dick gave me a tip on how he minimizes the pain.

He reminded me of an old TV skit that both of us had liked. Maybe you recall it: Steve Allen doing his readings of honest-to-goodness letters to the editor.

All of which suggests a new way of dealing with those scorchers you and I receive. It's guaranteed to work. Even that demanding "pay up or else" bill you received is good fodder.

News From Lansing

By R. Robert Geake
State Senator

The long and often emotional debate in the House over whether the penalties for marijuana use should be eased appears to have come to an end — for now, at least. The bill (HB 4603) that would have eliminated jail sentences for possession of small amounts of the drug was defeated for a second time by the House last week.

The measure would have made possession of less than one ounce of marijuana a $100 offense with no criminal record. Under current state law, a person arrested for possessing even that small amount faces up to one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The bill was passed by the House late last June, but the vote was reversed several days later, thus handing the bill its first defeat.

Then, when it appeared that not enough votes were available to pass the bill the second time, opponents forced a vote rather than allowing it to be delayed until November.

Although it appears unlikely that the measure will come up again for the rest of this year or next year prior to elections, supporters believe it's just a matter of time until Michigan joins with the nearly one dozen other states which have lowered penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana.

Warranty provisions for goods sold in Michigan would be broadened under two bills approved by the State Senate this week. I voted for both bills.

The first measure, Senate Bill 597, requires that any warranty on merchandise include service charges in addition to the cost of new parts. It would ban the use of the term warranty unless the sales agreement specifically covers both parts and service.

The second bill, Senate Bill 77, would extend warranties on all goods to include repair-shop time to insure that warranties do not lapse while the customer does not actually have use of the product. In essence, it would mean that warranties would cover the full period for which they are advertised, counting only the days that the product was in the customer's possession and in usable condition.

Although the bills won the support of a majority of the Senate's 38 members, some lawmakers expressed fears that their enactment would result, like so many other consumer protection measures, in increased costs for manufacturers which would likely be passed onto consumers.

County commissioner warns governor

DeHoCo prison fiscal nightmare?

Wayne County Commissioner Richard E. Manning has warned Governor Milliken that "incredible chaos" and multi-million dollar costs will result if DeHoCo House of Correction (DeHoCo) is sold for use as a state prison without careful planning.

As chairman of the jail construction subcommittee of the board of commissioners, Manning is responsible for planning the housing of jail prisoners.

Manning issued his warning in a letter to the governor following a meeting between Milliken and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young at which Young urged that the state buy DeHoCo as a state prison site.

"If the Detroit House of Correction closes precipitously, there will be incredible chaos in housing some 800-850 men and certainly a strong public reaction for failing to plan in advance for a change of this magnitude," Manning warned the governor.

His letter pointed out that the county would become responsible for housing some 850 men who are serving up to 90 days in DeHoCo for misdemeanor convictions. Closing of the DeHoCo women's division recently imposed the housing of female misdemeanors on the county. They are being housed in the jail annex in Westland.

Housing of male prisoners could cost the county some $13 million in the face of the worst county budget crisis in history, Manning said.

Manning noted that although the county has a major stake in the matter, county officials have not been included in the negotiations between city and state.

Manning told the governor that if DeHoCo, located in Plymouth Township, is to be sold to the state, the county should be a party to the negotiations and have "substantial lead time" to prepare prisoners' housing.

Manning said he recently asked Mayor Young if his administration planned to close out the men's division at DeHoCo and got "no definitive answer." Manning said he later learned about the meeting between Milliken and Young through news reports.

Manning said the complicated problems involved in a county takeover of male misdemeanor housing could take months to work out.

Not the least of these problems, he said, is the fact that the county does not have the legal power to acquire land through condemnation. This means a city or township would have to be willing to rezone property in order for the county to build a correctional facility.

"I have had no success to this date in finding any community that would accept a prison facility by itself," Manning told the governor. he added:

"I find that there is some possibility of locating a prison site if we were to construct a service center which would include court services as well as services of the county clerk, treasurer, register of deeds, prosecutor and sheriff."

But, he continued, "the Detroit Administration is strongly opposed to any service center complex outside of the City of Detroit."

Financing construction would also be a problem, Manning warned. He noted that the county cannot issue general obligation bonds without a vote of the people and already faces a $13.3 million budget deficit.

Variances from local building codes would have to be arranged and special state legislation would have to be passed to enable the county "to create a new prison system," Manning added.

Manning said he believes the solution to the problem is adoption of state legislation that would give the county the authority "to construct a service complex which would be acceptable to one of the other communities outside of the City of Detroit."

Failing that, he warned, it may be necessary for the county to ask the state to house the male misdemeanants.

That would be ironic because the state's interest in a prison in Wayne County stems from severe overcrowding in the state prisons.

Juniors sell bird seed

You might say Northville's class of '79 is for the birds. And that wouldn't be chicken seed, either.

Make that bird seed, to be more exact, which is what this year's juniors will be selling this weekend on a door-to-door basis.

Last year, when they were sophomores, the class staged its first bird seed sale and unloaded 3½ tons for a $350 profit.

That's not bad for an initial venture, especially when you consider that most of the sellers didn't have their drivers' licenses yet.

This year, however, they have more experience and wheels and they've set their sights on a hefty 10 tons, according to President Greg Bach.

Don't take their boast lightly. They've just completed a magazine sale that brought in $1200, nearly a school record.

Bach says the class treasury is practically bulging with $1900 which will be used next year for such activities as the senior prom and senior trip.

The bird seed sale is conducted a little differently than most projects.

On Thursday and Friday, juniors will saturate Northville with literature about the seed.

Saturday, Sunday and Monday, they'll retrace their steps to take orders. A week later, on October 29, they'll make deliveries

A 25-pound bag of mixed seed will cost $4.25. The big, 50-pound bag of pure sunflower seeds runs $15

Last year the class offered five pounds of free bird seed to anyone who could beat their price. They were serious. Competing prices were a nickel a pound more expensive, said Bach.

The class buys its seed from the Ypsilanti Farm Bureau and from a farmer in Saline

'Good things occur'

To the Editor:

After reading the Record for many months and feeling very depressed about matters such as the condition of our schools, the almost vendetta attack against one Raymond Spear (I wouldn't have his job for a million dollars a year), voter apathy, etc., I feel it is my obligation to members of this community to report some good things that are happening!

I think the Kiwanis should be commended for coming up with a super idea of selling pumpkins door to door.

And our Jaycees are always doing something to benefit the community. For nearly eight years I have been privileged to be a part of some loosely knit group of ladies who help those children at Hawthorn Center who have the forgotten illness — they are emotionally disturbed.

Anyway many of these ladies known amongst ourselves as The Emotionally Disturbed Mothers Club have been involved in rummage sales, etc.

Now the good news — after many months of getting together to exchange ideas and come up with some very original ones — they will present their Christmas trims — over 30 of them at a craft sale on Saturday, October 22 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at The Farmington Community Center (Farmington Road between 10 and 11 Mile Road).

Please mark this date on your calendar, invite some friends and come to do your Christmas shopping early — you'll find something for everyone on your list and you'll be helping our Hawthorn children too.

Please come and find the M.A.E.D.C. table and admire the neat things these ladies have spent months sewing.

Many thanks,
Shirley Matthews

Ratherts leave

Tomorrow morning we are leaving Northville to set up a new residence and engage in a new business venture in Winter Haven, Florida. Needless to say, we will miss the many people and the unique characteristics that make Northville one of the most ideal places to live and work.

Our four children finished high school here. It is the place where we were privileged to establish our Main Street insurance business. I was able to serve on a number of study groups for the City and the Northville School. A team on the City Council convinced me that Northville has a dedicated group of people constantly working to solve all of the municipal problems which at times seem insoluble.

Also, we found our place among the members at St. Paul's Lutheran Church where we were privileged to work with them in their particular section of God's vineyard.

Our friends at Rotary and other civic and social groups will be missed.

We thank all of you for making it such an interesting chapter in our lives. As we leave this area, we wish you all God's blessings for a happy future.

Best wishes,

Tip of the hat

To the Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to publicly express our thanks to the entire Northville Rotary for its generous support to us in helping send our daughter, Susan, to the AAU Senior Nationals Long Course swimming championships in California recently.

It is only with the help of organizations such as the Rotary that many young athletes are able to compete in their sport on a national level and thus develop their abilities.

So, once again, many thanks to all the members of the Northville Rotary for their generosity.

Sincerely,
Jean and Jim Cahill

Raps language

To the Editor:

When does an organized sport for youngsters cease to be the healthy activity it was intended to be? I found the answer last week at the Northville soccer tournament for 8 to 10 year old boys.

In the first game of the tournament one of the teams was quite good and had no difficulty in winning. Despite this fact, one of the players on the winning team used language that I will not repeat in this letter. The language was used on occasions when opponents would take the ball away from the boy in question.

Neither the referees nor the team's coach seemed to notice that this was going on.

I found it hard to believe and hope that our youth programs are generally a little better supervised about the proposed township library. (The front page story to which Lysinger referred and the related editorial concerning the library were printed prior to last week's study session of the board. Mrs. Ayers expressed her concerns on Friday — before she was informed that a special meeting of the board was to be held four days later. Until then Mrs. Ayers and other commission members were unaware of the board's posturing on the library proposal).

New library proposal awaits study by township

Trustee Michael Wilson defended Mrs. Ayers, charging that Lysinger was taking her comments "out of context." Whereupon, he read a paragraph in question: "... (She) warned both city and township residents that the demise of the library system, as it now exists, may hinge on the outcome of current township plans to construct a library building on the new Six Mile Road township hall site." What she was saying then, said Wilson, remains true today. A decision by the board to establish the library in the township, without consent of the city, could indeed spell the end of a jointly operated system.

Two other library commission members also commented.

Commissioner Frances Mattison said she supported the township library proposal, but she emphasized her primary desire that the library system continue as a joint city-township operation.

"For the first time we've learned today of your plans," said Mrs. Mattison, adding that in her opinion the proposed township building would make an ideal substitute for the existing facility in Northville Square shopping center. "I am for this (new) library building. "It would be within walking distance of two schools, and hopefully, with the opening of Allen Terrace (apartments), we could establish a vest pocket library there for senior citizens."

Commissioner Louis Hopping also expressed support for the library building in the township, pointing out that its location on Six Mile Road would put it in a township area that has a greater population than the entire City of Northville.

Mrs. Ayers admitted that presently the library commission has no viable alternatives for relocation of the library from its present temporary quarters in the Square to another location inside the city, and Mrs. Mattison observed that the present lease price of $18,000 per year could be increased, possibly to $50,000, if the space becomes needed for retail business.

Mrs. Mattison said there is a possibility that the present school board offices (formerly the community building) could be converted to a library, but she added that costs for remodeling and heating unit replacement would be excessive.

Trustee Wilson reminded board members that in addition to the cost over-run for the proposed library, the board must also consider the additional cost of operating a second library should establishment of a branch become a reality.

He urged that all costs be carefully weighed by the board before a decision is made on the library issue.

Grier said the present Square quarters are unsuitable for the library. He estimated that cost of operating the proposed township library would not exceed $12,000 annually, which would mean that $6,000 of the $18,000 currently paid for Square property could be used for other library purposes.

The township library "would not preclude building a major library building in the city at a later time," said the supervisor. "Our total drive is to provide the best program possible that would be jointly operated (by the city and township)."

"I have not heard one word tonight that would indicate a desire on the part of the board to split the library up," said Lysinger.

In response to a question from the audience as to how the proposed new library would affect township taxes, Grier said it would not mean an increase in taxes. As long as he remains supervisor, said Grier, he will continue to insist that the best services possible be provided by the township within the existing millage levy.

Dr. Swienkowski summed up what he said are the two options open to the township board: establishing the new library as a branch or annex of the existing library, or making it the only library serving the city and township until that time when a second library can be built in the city.

Pressed for her opinion, Mrs. Ayers said, "I think there would be some (library commissioners) who would not favor having the present library moved to the township."

"But none of us have had much knowledge about your proposal or the options," she added, pointing out that all commissioners welcome the opportunity to explore the board's ideas."

Township considers library loan

With bid costs substantially exceeding the township's grant allocation, Township Supervisor Wilson Grier has proposed that the township borrow money to make up the difference.

Amount of the grant is $137,900, whereas the low bid (including options) was submitted by Hillier Construction Company at $190,930.

Taking the position that the township would lose the grant monies if the library project is scuttled, Grier proposed at a study session of the board last week Tuesday that it borrow $53,030 with repayment over the next 10 years.

He suggested that a $5,000 annual repayment on that loan is well with in township capability and well worth saving of the grant.

"I believe," said Grier, "we can venture $5,000 (annually) so that grant isn't thrown out the window."

Trustee Dr. John Swienkowski agreed with Grier and others that the grant must be preserved, but he was not eager to accept the supervisor's financing proposal without fuller study of library construction ramifications.

For example, he said he doubted that the city would be willing to permit the move of the existing library to the township. The city, he said, sees the present library as an important drawing card for its central business district. He said he could appreciate the city's position and that if he were in the city council's position he might also take a similar position.

"What if the city says it is not interested (in sharing operation of a library in the township)?" asked Dr. Swienkowski. "Can we operate it?"

In defense of his proposal, Grier said the township could pay cash if it used contingency money in the budget but he advised against committing these funds.

Noting that presently "we are barely supporting" the existing library, she questioned the financial feasibility of a second facility without input from library experts. To run a functioning branch library, she guessed, would "almost double" the cost for operating the existing facility.

In defense of the township library proposal, Dr. Swienkowski said "we are rapidly passing the point" when, because of the township's rapidly growing population, the location of the library in the city may not be the most desirable. "There seems to be," he said, "some valid reasons for two buildings."

"Lots of libraries," said the trustee, "are successful that are not located in central business districts." He cited the Farmington Hills library as an example.

'Male Role' Jaycee topic

A proponent of "male liberation" will be a guest speaker at a meeting of the Northville Jaycees here October 26.

The 8 p.m. meeting, which will be open to the public, will be held at the Park Haus restaurant.

Speaking on "The Male Role in the Family" will be Leslie G. Zalewski, an associate certified social worker and marriage counselor.

Zalewski, who lives in Farmington where he has a business, has authored a number of papers on the subject, has appeared on television, and lectures at Schoolcraft and St. Mary colleges.

He is married and has two children.

"It should be a very interesting talk, one that the public should enjoy," said a Jaycee spokesman.

City invests funds

Ten separate depository funds have been established by the Northville City Council to facilitate additional interest revenues from banked funds.

Establishment of the funds, according to City Manager Steven Walters, will mean that all cash will earn daily interest until it is expended.

"Although the interest rate is a few points lower than might be obtained from certificates of deposit," explained the manager, "the total balances invested should produce a higher total interest earning... Furthermore, large amounts of money which may be known to be available for 30 days or more would still be invested in higher interest CD's."

Depositories were established for the general fund, sewer and water fund, major street fund, local street fund, equipment fund, public

Harrison spoils season, 19-0

Poof! Hawks' defense ends dreams again

Wouldn't it be nice if there were no Farmington Harrison?

It would certainly make autumn life a lot more pleasant for Chuck Shonta — not to mention his perennial Western Six football contenders.

Playing their strongest defense of the year and taking advantage of a series of early mistakes at their home field last Saturday, the Hawks once again spoiled an otherwise gratifying season for Shonta and his Northville contingent, 19-0.

The Mustangs have never beaten Harrison since joining the conference in 1971 and have suffered shutouts the past three years, during which time they've never finished with a record worse than 6-3. Their last touchdown against the Hawks came in 1974, when they lost a 9-6 heartbreaker in overtime on their way to a 7-2 season.

"I'm beginning to feel like (Bo) Schembechler," Shonta lamented, noting the similar problems he and the University of Michigan head coach have had winning the big games in recent years. In fact it sounds as if he's almost ready to believe there's some sort of hex working against him.

"To be honest I feel kind of paranoid when we play against them," he remarked, only half-jokingly. "I can't explain it."

Last Saturday's showdown is a perfect example of what's been happening to the Mustangs the past few years. Both teams entered the game with identical 4-1 records, 3-0 in the Western Six.

Both had outstanding throwing quarterbacks in Doug Marzonie and Brett Homovec. Marzonie, Northville's senior signal caller, had been passing at a 52 percent completion rate (50 of 97) and averaging over 150 yards per game while Homovec, who doubles as Harrison's placekicker, had thrown for six touchdowns and scored four more himself in his first five games.

And both were fairly good at avoiding costly turnovers.

So what characterized the first eight minutes of play? Running and turnovers, naturally.

After taking the opening kickoff and being forced to punt when they failed to go anywhere in three running plays the Mustangs got the first break of the game on an interception by John Horwath.

Horwath, who's had at least one interception in each of the last four games, picked off Homovec's first pass at the Northville 40 and rambled back to the Harrison 44. Two plays later flanker Pete Wright made a leaping one-handed catch appeared a certain score.

A 15-yard holding penalty pushed the ball back to the 22, but on third down Horwath gathered in a sideline pass and fell out of bounds three yards from paydirt. Shonta elected to go for six rather than settle for a field goal on fourth down, but the strategy backfired when Marzonie's pass to Wright was broken up in the end zone.

Looking back on the decision to go for the touchdown, Shonta refused to second-guess himself.

"I felt we had to go for the seven points (touch down plus extra point)," he said later. "They've got a very good kicker (in Homovec) and I just think three points wouldn't have made that much of a difference for us."

That failure to score, though, plus an incident that occurred soon afterwards turned the momentum in Farmington's favor.

Following an unsuccessful drive that ate up four minutes Harrison got a break of its own when Northville's John Millen dropped a punt at the Mustang 40 and the Hawks' Dave Dilley recovered. Five plays later fullback Fred Blackmer, who carried for all but five yards during the drive, skirted left end and scored from the eight as time ran out in the first quarter. Homovec's point-after boot made it 7-0.

From there on in the game belonged to Harrison, whose only loss this year was an opening game 20-19 thriller to cross-town rival Farmington. The Mustangs' farthest penetration after the first quarter was their own 44-yard line.

The Hawks, on the other hand, used a crunching ground game and a stifling defense to put 12 more points on the

FINAL TOUCH—As if the Mustangs haven't had enough, Harrison's Dave Dilley (89) tackles Doug Marzonie in end zone for the Hawks' final two points in a 19-0 victory. Doug Harding (75) tries leading Marzonie a hand.

Netters' fifth-place finish in regional is best ever

A team that wouldn't say die made Uta Filkin a proud coach last weekend.

Northville's talented girls' tennis squad, which has been pleasantly surprising Filkin all season long, finished a strong fifth in last Friday and Saturday's regionals at Eastern Michigan University.

"We did better than we ever have since I've been here," Filkin said after her girls had won eight matches and placed behind such Class A powerhouses as Ann Arbor Pioneer, Ann Arbor Huron and Jackson Parkside. "In fact, the whole team did well, and I've never said that before."

Before last year Filkin, who's headed the Mustangs for the past nine seasons, had never had a girl who made it as far as the semifinals, which take place on the second day of regional competition.

This year she had to bring three, and almost four, players back on Saturday.

Number one singles Lorr Hopping brushed past a Redford opponent 6-0, 6-0 and a girl from Milford Lakeland 7-6, 6-4 on Friday before bowing to Becky Crespo, the number two seed from Plymouth Salem, 6-7, 0-6, in the semis.

Bev Kohl and Lynn Herald, the second singles pair who never lost a dual meet match this season, crept by Flint Carman's girls 6-4, 2-6, 6-2 in their opening round, then qualified for Saturday's semis with a 6-2, 6-3 triumph over a Jackson Parkside duo. They were finally knocked out by the number one seed from Ann Arbor Pioneer, but not before putting up a fight in the second set, 0-6, 4-6.

By far the Mustangs' most interesting match, though, occurred in umber three singles, where Paula Horst battled Flint Carman's Pam Nevelle through a four-hour marathon in the quarterfinals before falling 6-7, 7-5, 5-7.

"Paula played the match of her life in that one," Filkin recalled. "Every game went to deuce at least once, and one went (to deuce) 15 times."

Horst, in fact, was so exhausted from the match that she had to be taken to a hospital afterwards, where it was discovered she had plurirosis of the lungs as a result of an infection that broke open. The light-haired senior had qualified for her dramatic showdown with Nevelle by knocking off a Jackson Parkside girl 6-4, 7-5 in the opening round.

Second singles player Marie Maglia was the only Mustang unable to advance beyond the first round. She lost a close 4-6, 2-6 match to a girl from Milford.

Sophomore Eve Engelmeyer, Northville's other singles player at number four, sailed past a Plymouth Canton girl 6-0, 6-2 in the first round before bowing 2-6, 4-6 to Ypsilanti's Bonny Kielwasser in the second.

First doubles players Sue Pegrum and Lisa Friel edged past a Brighton duo 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 in the opening round before going down fighting 2-6, 3-6 to the number one seed from Ann Arbor Huron.

Tracy Ade and Sue Kaestner, playing number three doubles, disposed of Milford's duo 6-4, 6-0 in the opening round, but fell out of contention with a 3-6, 1-6 loss to a Huron team in the quarter-finals.

Looking back on the meet, Filkin was particularly happy that all 10 girls had played well during the regionals. "I was very pleased that it was such a good team effort."

"You can't just have one outstanding player carry a school to a high finish in the regionals. It takes a team effort, and that's what we had."

Entering yesterday's Western Six meet, their last of the season, Northville's netters were holding down a strong second place in the conference race. Farmington Harrison had the inside edge on this year's Western Six title, determined by the combination of a team's finish in dual meet action and its placement at the league meet. The Mustangs finished their dual meet season with a 10-4 overall record, 8-2 in the Western Six, after breezing past their last two conference opponents last week.

Following cancellation of a scheduled non-conference meet on Monday when the team bus broke down on its way to Brighton, coach Filkin's squad knocked off Waterford Mott on Wednesday, 5-2.

All four singles players came out on top in their matches, with Hopping (6-1, 6-1), Maglia (7-6, 6-1), and Horst (6-2, 6-0) beating their opponents in straight sets and Engelmeyer (6-2, 4-6, 6-0) squeezing past hers in three.

Kohl and Herald were the team's only double winners, winning their second doubles match in two sets (6-1, 6-2). Friel and Pegrum (7-5, 6-7, 1-6) and Ade and Kaestner (6-7, 7-6, 2-6) lost close three-set matches.

Northville closed out its season with a 5-2 victory over Livonia Churchill on Monday.

Second doubles player Lynn Herald was a regional semifinalist

Turnovers kill hoopers

Turnovers and poor shooting cost Northville's girls' basketball squad two more games in Western Six competition last week.

On Tuesday the Mustangs scored just 10 points in the first half on their way to a 43-24 defeat at the hands of Farmington Harrison. Donna Korte led a losing effort with eight points while Diane Perpich chipped in seven.

Two days later Waterford Mott came to town and rolled to a 22-2 lead after one quarter and a 40-8 advantage at half time on its way to an easy 75-23 conquest.

"We can't seem to get the ball down court and get any kind of offense going," coach Dave Schopp lamented, noting that his team had 42 turnovers.

Lori Young was one of Northville's few bright spots with 10 points and five rebounds.

The junior Mustangs, now 3-7 on the season, opened up the week with a 32-25 victory over Harrison. Sue Townsend paced the winners with 11 points while Karen Goxem added 10.

Goxem had 10 more points against Mott on Thursday, but the Mustangs lost a 27-25 thriller.

board on a touchdown, a field goal and a safety.

Blackmer, who piled up 108 yards rushing in the game, bulled over from one yard out with 1:23 left in the second stanza to give the Hawks a 14-0 cushion.

Homovec added three more midway through the fourth quarter on a 32-yard field goal after a 55-yard pass play from Homovec to Bache had put Harrison inside the 15.

Northville's only real bright spot was its secondary, which picked off three of Homovec's aeriels (one each by Horwath, Wright and Marzonie) while limiting him to just four completions in 12 pass attempts.

But the Hawks more than made up for it with Blackmer, a 6'0" 190-pound senior who's galloped for nine touchdowns so far this season, including two in each of the last three games.

"We knew he was a good back," Shonta acknowledged, "and we were worried about him sweeping outside." Unfortunately the Mustangs over-pursued him on the ends, leaving gaping holes inside that Blackmer took advantage of by cutting back.

Defensively the Mustangs were led by Mark Van Ingen, a senior nose guard, who had 10 solo tackles and six assists.

Despite the loss Shonta hasn't counted his team out of the Western Six race yet.

"We still have a chance (for a co-championship)," he observed, noting that Harrison still has to beat Waterford Mott if Northville knocks off Plymouth Canton next weekend. "I know it's not much, but football's a funny game. I've seen stranger things happen."

Harriers rack up two more easy victories

Coach Ralph Redmond's league-leading cross country squad tacked two more victories onto an already impressive record last week.

Led by Brian Turnbull and John Monagle the Mustangs roared past Livonia Franklin in a non-conference meet at Cass Benton Park last Tuesday, 15-46. Northville placed its first six runners ahead of Franklin's number one man.

Meads wins

Halfback Tom Hanson's 10 yard touchdown run late in the fourth quarter gave Meads Mill's seventh-grade football squad a 12-3 come from behind victory over Milford Highland last Wednesday.

Northville jumped to a 6-0 lead early in the first half when starting quarterback Bob Townsend scored on a bootleg from five yards out.

Highland retaliated with a touchdown of its own in the second quarter, then went ahead 8-6 on a safety in the third stanza.

Under the direction of backup quarterback Bill Alberts and the running of Hanson and fullback Gerard Przekop, though, the Patriots made good on a late touchdown drive and recorded their first win three games this season.

Defensive standouts for each Eric Lampela's squad included Neil Fitzpatrick, Terry McMann and Dan Sackllah.

"It was a surprising meet for us," Redmond commented later. "We didn't expect too much trouble, but then again we didn't expect to do so well against them."

Monagle turned in his best performance of the season with a 16:38 clocking and finished second to Turnbull, who won the race in 16:27. After Monagle came Jim Bedford (16:44), Don Wilber (16:56), John Coram (17:00) and Harry Couyoumjian.

"What continues to amaze, but please us, is the interplay of our squad," Redmond said, noting Monagle's jump to the number two position and Bedford's third-place finish.

Two days later the Mustangs picked up their fourth straight Western Six dual meet victory with an easy 17-41 win over Plymouth Canton.

Running a junior varsity-dominated squad against the Chiefs, Northville took positions one through four in the meet.

Harry Couyoumjian finished first in a time of 16:43, and he was followed by Tom Doyle (17:08), Ken Greene (17:13), and Randy Tharp (17:42). Dave Massel (18:05) placed seventh overall in the race while Myles Couyoumjian (18:14) finished eighth.

"It's interesting to note that all those kids had their best times of the season," Redmond said in reference to the Canton meet. "I was really impressed by them."

Northville's last conference dual meet takes place at Cass Benton tomorrow, when the Mustangs run against Farmington Harrison.

Athletes of the week

JOHN MONAGLE

Not only has John Monagle been one of the cross country's most consistent runners since the start of the season, he's also been one of the most improved. The quiet senior has been among the Mustangs' top five finishers in each of their 11 meets this year, a major reason the team is enjoying one of its most successful years ever. Last Tuesday Monagle turned in his top performance of the fall with a second-place finish against Livonia Franklin. His 16:38 clocking over a difficult Cass Benton Park course, his best time ever, was just 11 seconds behind winning teammate Brian Turnbull.

PAULA HORST

If there's one trait that could be singled out to describe Paula Horst, it would have to be determination; After joining the girls' tennis squad late at the start of this season the senior netter battled her way from a fourth singles slot to the third singles position, and even played at second singles near the end of the year. Her only loss in dual meets this year has been in second singles. At least weekend's regionals in Ypsilanti Horst, competing in the quarterfinals of number three singles, played so hard she broke open an infection in her lungs and had to be taken to a hospital after losing a four-hour marathon that went to duce at least once in 37 consecutive games.

Downs loses race date

Not only didn't Northville Downs get the summer dates it hoped for, it received one day fewer winter harness racing dates for 1978.

That's the word from the Michigan racing commissioner, who announced Monday that Northville Downs will receive 84 nights of racing beginning January 2.

John Carlo, executive manager of the Downs, had fought for summer dates as he has since 1975 when the local track was squeezed out of the coveted summer schedule by former racing commissioner Leo Shirley.

The current commissioner, F. F. Fauri, held out little optimism for summer dates at the Downs going into a hearing on applications two weeks ago. He told The Record that since all the tracks wanted summer dates some of them most certainly would be disappointed with his decision.

The pared 84-night stand here reflects what appears to be a pattern of dwindling dates for the Downs.

Last year the local track was awarded 85 nights of racing, two less than it received the previous year.

In addition to the 84-night winter meet of the Downs, stretching from January 2 through April 8, the Jackson Trotting Association was awarded 60 nights of racing at the Downs, from October 23 through December 30 next year.

(The Jackson-at-Northville 1977 meet begins here October 24 and ends December 31).

Those 60 nights here by Jackson next year represent one more than it will have this year and two more than it received last year.

Jackson received the identical number of spring-summer-fall dates at its own track at Jackson as it received last year. The horses will be flying ahead of sulkies at that track in two separate meets—April 28 through June 10 (38 nights) and August 18 through October 21 (58) nights.

Wolverine Raceway, located in Livonia; and Hazel Park again claimed all of the summer dates in the metropolitan area.

They'll each receive the same number of dates. Wolverine will be racing April 10 through July 15 (84 nights) and Hazel Park will race 83 nights, July 18 through October 21.

Hazel Park could get a bonus, however. Fauri said that if Hazel Park does not conduct a thoroughbred program on Sunday, July 16, harness racing could be held on the next day, July 17—thus stretching the meeting into an 84-night stand.

Fauri also announced that Kelly Downs, a planned new track near Davison, was denied a race meeting license because it was unable to assure completion of the plant in time to fully utilize a 1978 harness race meeting license.

Issuance of a race meeting license for Saginaw Valley Trotting Association "was precluded by denial of the SVTS application for a pari-mutuel horse racing rack license," Fauri added.

Sulkies return

Harness racing returns to Northville Downs Monday night when Jackson Raceway Association moves here for the conclusion of its 1977 meet.

The Jackson-at-Northville Downs meet will run for 59 nights through December 31. Northville Downs then takes over for 84 nights from January 2 through April 8.

Last week's results

Halfback Doran Mason scored twice off short plunges and Chris Clegg returned an interception 15 yards for a touchdown to lead LIVONIA CHURCHILL to a 20-13 victory over WATERFORD MOTT last Friday. Mott's only touchdown came on a five yard romp by John Cooper and a 45 yard pass play from quarterback Chuck Simon to Ron Ferguson. Mott is now 3-3 overall, while Churchill is 2-4.

Lance Hamer scored twice on runs of two and four yards. Johnny Meyers once on a 10 yard scamper and Mike Bryant on a 15 yard sprint to help WALLED LAKE WESTERN to an easy 35-6 win over PLYMOUTH CANTON last Friday. The Warriors' first Western Six victory of the season. Western, now 3-3 overall, added another touchdown on a 30-yard pass reception by Joe Burke. The loss was Canton's sixth straight of the year.

Close finishes doom swim team

One-tenth of a second. For most people it's nothing more than a snap of one's fingers. But for Northville's powerful girls swimming squad it meant the difference between victory and defeat last Thursday as the Mustangs began their most competitive stretch of the season with two heartbreaking losses.

In a meet characterized by extremely close finishes Northville's Western Six powerhouse lost to Livonia Stevenson, last year's Class A state runner-up, by a score of 42-41 at Northville.

"I think the big factor statistically is that we had nine fourth places, and you just can't do that," coach Ben Lauber commented afterwards. But, oh, how close some of those fourth places were to being thirds.

Krystn Van Renterghem, for instance, had the same clocking (28.6) as Stevenson's number two swimmer in the 50-yard free style, but the Livonia girl was given the nod over Van Renterghem for third place.

Laurie Sellen's 1:03.2 time in the 100-yard free style was just 1.5 seconds shy of Stevenson's third-place girl.

And Kristy Ifversen, another fourth-place finisher, was just 6.3 seconds behind a Livonia girl with her 6:28.6

clocking in the 500-yard free style. Perhaps the Mustangs' most crushing loss, though, occurred in the 100-yard breast stroke, the meet's second-last event.

In an extremely close race among all four swimmers Janet Shaw broke a school record and finished first in 1:15.6, but Leslie Farquhar was edged out of second by a mere .2 seconds with 1:19.6 clocking.

The first and third places gave the Mustangs a slim 37-36 lead, the first time they'd been ahead since the first event, but the impact of Stevenson's second-place finish there became clear when Northville took a second and third in the 400-yard free style relay, the meet's final event.

With the four points they picked up from the relay the Mustangs totalled 41 points, but Livonia received six from its victory and won the meet by a single point. In other words had Northville finished one place higher in any of the meet's 11 events the result would have been reversed.

"Yes, that kind of hurt," Lauber acknowledged, "but you just have to hope things go in your favor in a situation like that, and they didn't for us."

"It's unfortunate that it (the result) fell that way, but the experience (of swimming against a team of Stevenson's caliber) was good for us and I'm sure we'll learn from it."

All told the Mustangs took seven firsts in the meet, but followed up with only four seconds and two thirds. Among the brighter spots were Sue Cahill, who broke her own school record in the 200-yard individual medley with a 2:12.55 clocking and just missed another in the 500-yard free style, which she swam in 5:22.1; Shaw, who set personal records in the breast stroke and individual medley (2:36.6); and Vida Mikalonis, who won the back stroke in a record 1:03.77 and placed second in the butterfly in a record-shattering 1:00.8.

Other personal bests were registered by Kyle Roggenbuck (56.0 in the 100-yard free style, a school record; and 2:03.34 in the 200-yard free style), Sellen (28.0 in the 50-yard free style), Ifversen (6:28.6 in the 500-yard free style) and Carol McLaughlin (1:16.7 in the back stroke).

Two days earlier Lauber's crew had gone against a powerful Ypsilanti squad and lost 89-82 despite winning all of the events except the 500-yard free style.

The 200-yard medley relay team of Mikalonis, Farquhar, Cahill and Roggenbuck set a school record with their 1:59.24 clocking. Cahill, Mikalonis and Roggenbuck were also double winners in individual events.

Last night the Mustangs met their stiffest of the year when they travelled to Plymouth Salem.

Sue Cahill just missed breaking her own 500-yd. free style record

Record list is growing

With the swimming season just halfway over, Northville's girls have compiled an impressive list of individual performances to go along with their 7-2 dual meet record.

As of last weekend at least one swimmer had qualified for December's Class A state meet in nine of the 10 swimming events held. Swimmers qualify for the states by bettering predetermined time limits during regular season meets, while divers qualify through regional competition to be held next month.

In addition this year's contingent has shattered school records in eight events, many of them more than once.

Following is a list of each event and the best times posted for those events this season. School records are indicated by the abbreviation sr, state qualifying times by the notation sq.

200-yard medley relay: Vida Mikalonis, Leslie Farquhar, Sue Cahill, Kyle Roggenbuck—1:59.24 (sr, sq)

200-yard free style: Sue Cahill—2:02.2 (sr, sq)

200-yard individual medley: Sue

Cahill—2:12.55 (sr, sq)

50-yard free style: Kyle Roggenbuck—25.7 (sq; sr is 24.9, set by Roggenbuck last year)

Diving: Andrea Conder—196.70 points (sr)

100-yard butterfly: Vida Mikalonis—1:00.8 (sr, sq)

100-yard free style: Kyle Roggenbuck—56.0 (sq; sr is 55.2, set by Roggenbuck last year)

500-yard free style: Sue Cahill—5:21.9 (sr, sq)

100-yard back stroke: Vida Mikalonis—1:03.8 (sq; sr is 1:02.8 set by Mikalonis last year)

100-yard breast stroke: Janet Shaw—1:15.6 (sr; sq is 1:15.3)

400-yard free style relay: Vida Mikalonis, Janet Shaw, Sue Cahill, Kyle Roggenbuck—3:56.9 (sr, sq)

Dyer wins tiebreaker

With two tie games assuring at least two mistakes, winners of last week's football contest could do no better than 12 of the 16-game line-up.

Grabbing first place money by nearly guessing the score of Texas' 13-9 triumph over Arkansas was Jeff Dyer of 21661 Connemara, Northville. Jeff figured Texas would win by a score of 14-7.

Second place went to Pat Hansen, 1895 Green Meadow, Walled Lake, who was 13 points off the tie-breaking score and Doug Schultz of 19667 Ironwood Court, Northville, placed third with 15 points off the Texas-Arkansas score.

Seven other contestants finished out of the money with five mistakes. They were:

Tim Kalota of Novi, Robert Brown of Ann Arbor, and Scott Anderson, John Huston, Bobby Bell, Kevin Bennett, and Pat Lewis, all of Northville.

An even 30 contestants missed six games, 25 others missed seven, 14 missed eight and the remainder missed nine or more games. One contestant game within one of missing all 16 games.

The two games all contestants missed, of course, were the ties: Michigan State and Indiana tied at 13, and Colorado and Kansas tied at 17.

Other tough ones for the football buffs included the Bronco's 30-7 victory over the Super Bowl champion Raiders, Milan's 31-28 triumph over Novi, and Illinois' 29-22 win over Purdue.

Westland stuns Colts

The Northville Colts' varsity team's perfect record came to a stunning end last Sunday.

After going through 23 quarters without allowing a point this season, the Colts gave up two fourth-quarter touchdowns and lost a 12-6 heartbreaker to the Westland Comets.

Northville jumped out to an early 6-0 lead when Tim Borthwick scored from inside the five following a 50-yard breakaway by halfback Dave Chicowski.

After that the game turned into a tight defensive struggle, though, until Westland began a methodical 80-yard drive late in the third quarter and scored early in the fourth to knot things up.

After forcing Northville to punt on its next series of downs the Comets drove 70 yards in just three plays for the winning score, capping the drive with a 25-yard touchdown pass.

The Colts outgained Westland on the ground 110-67, but two big pass plays that went for 35 yards made the difference in the game.

Chicowski led all rushers with 64 yards while Todd Parsons added 28. Defensively the Colts were led by Tim McLaughlin, who had 14 tackles, Dave Lennox and Todd Gross.

The loss was only the fourth setback in eight years for the varsity.

The Colts' junior varsity squad, meanwhile, extended its record to 4-2 with victories over Garden City (19-13) and Westland (19-12).

Northville's touchdowns against Garden City came on a 27-yard pass play from halfback Bob Pegrum to Chris Wagner, a 35-yard interception return by Wagner and a short quarterback sneak by Rod Wendle.

Steve Marrone, Steve O'Hare, Ernest Bock, Jeff Thomas and Martin Engle anchored a strong defensive effort.

In the Westland game Jeff Tomanek scampered 27 yards around left end and Ron Greer scored the extra point on a pass reception to give the Colts a 7-6 half time lead.

Westland returned the second-half opening kickoff all the way for a brief 12-7 lead, but Northville retaliated four minutes later on a seven-yard touchdown run by Pegrum.

J.V. tops Churchill

Northville's powerful junior varsity football squad continued its pursuit of a Western Six title with a 21-0 victory over Livonia Churchill last Thursday.

Dan Troher opened the Mustang scoring with a 34-yard touchdown sprint in the first quarter.

Scott Millard added a second in the next stanza on an 11-yard jaunt, and Ken Weber closed out the scoring with a 76-yard interception in the final quarter. Russ Gans, who kicked all three extra points for the winners, went all the way at quarterback in place of Bob Crisan, who cracked a rib in Northville's victory over Walled Lake Western two weeks ago.

Troher with 53 yards and Millard with 54 were the Mustangs' leading rushers while Bob Boshoven, Norm Tiliikka, Rob Marzonia, Tim Marshall and Troher anchored another strong defensive performance. Paul Cooper contributed an interception and a fumble recovery as Northville hiked its overall record to 5-1, including three games without a loss in the Western Six.

Retiring Mayor Allen's 'Citizen of the Year'

Northville Mayor A. Malcolm Allen, who will end a quarter century of public service here in three weeks, will be honored tomorrow night as Northville's Citizen of the Year.

Formal presentation of the award, sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, will take place at the chamber's annual dinner meeting at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Special guest for the occasion will be Congressman Carl Pursell, a personal friend of Allen, who will pay tribute to the retiring mayor. Allen also will receive a special citation from the Michigan Legislature.

Allen's selection for the coveted citizen of the year honor was made by a chamber committee, based on nominations, that included last year's winner, Jan Reef, and James Roth and Aaron Gellerman Reef will make the presentation.

This year's recipient of the award holds the distinction of having served longer as chief elected executive than any other city, township or school official in Northville's 150-year history.

Next to retiring Mayor Orville Hubbard of Dearborn, he is acknowledged as the dean of Michigan's municipal leaders.

Allen has been mayor of Northville since 1958 when he was appointed to the post upon the death of the city and village's first mayor and president, Claude N. Ely. He had been serving as mayor pro-tem at the time of his appointment.

Actually, his elected service in Northville goes back to 1952 when he ran for and won a seat on the village commission (Northville did not become a city until 1955. Prior to incorporation, the council was called a commission and the mayor a president). He was senior member of the commission upon becoming mayor at the age of 43, already having been elected three times to the commission.

In the span of those 25 years, Allen has never been seriously challenged for office. He has been consistently among the election favorites in the even dozen times he ran for office.

This past summer, as Northville was celebrating its 150th anniversary of its founding (as a township), Allen announced that he would not seek re-election. Paul Folino and Paul Vernon, two council veterans, currently are vying for the post. One of them will be elected November 8 — the day after Allen conducts his last council meeting as mayor.

As commissioner, councilman and mayor, Allen has served on every conceivable appointive committee in municipal government — from parks and health to employee personnel and street matters — and often as committee chairman.

He has signed hundreds of proclamations, made hundreds of appointments, and represented Northville at many hundreds of governmental, civic and religious functions.

Until reorganization of county government in recent years, he was a veteran member of the county board of supervisors. (Members are now elected to what now is called the Wayne County Board of Commissioners). And as a supervisor he also served in a wide number of capacities.

Throughout his 25 years service, both as a municipal official and as a businessman, the care and expansion of Northville's two cemeteries — Cady Street and Rural Hill — have been his responsibilities.

He has been the community's leader in the development and expansion of the city's boundaries, its streets and parks, municipal parking lots, its municipal buildings, business and industry.

He is a charter member of the original Northville Economic Development Corporation and its committee.

Allen takes special satisfaction in the fact that while many of the projects, such as parking lot development, have been controversial, most if not all of his opponents on these projects remain friends and respect him as a leader.

Those who have followed his political career point to his ability to mediate strongly conflicting viewpoints among council members as one of his greatest assets. His informal and sometimes unorthodox manner in conducting business (as mayor he is the chairman of proceedings) became a hallmark of regular and special council meetings.

Owner of Allen Monument Works here, one of the leading monument businesses in the entire Midwest, he started learning his trade in Flint in 1932. He launched his business in Northville in 1935, buying an interest in the Milford Granite Works the same year.

By 1958 he also owned Travers and Allen monument sales firm north of Flint, and today has sales offices in several communities.

His son, James, is associated with him in the business.

Both James and a daughter, Sharon, are residents of Northville.

His first wife, the former Inga Staman of Northville, died three years ago. He has since remarried. His wife, the former Betty Snow Hoffman, is the daughter of a long-time friend, Dr. Linwood Snow — a prominent medical and municipal leader in the community's past.

Allen has been a member of a score of professional, civic, and religious organizations over the years. Chief among those he remains associated with are the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, Northville Rotary Club, F&AM Masonic Lodge of Northville, Northville Republican Club, Northville Historical Society and the Northville Historical District Commission, the Northville Economic Development Corporation, and Monument Builders of Michigan (a past president).

Mayor A. M. Allen, who is ending 25 years of elected service, will be honored as Citizen of The Year

County 'crisis' meeting scheduled on budget

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners will hold a public hearing on the "crisis" budget recommended by the County Auditors at 9:30 a.m. Monday, in the City-County Building auditorium, Detroit.

The board of auditors has recommended that 13 county programs, including several in law enforcement, be dropped or sharply curtailed in order to balance the budget by saving $17.3 million.

Commissioner Samuel A. Turner (D-Detroit), who will conduct the hearing as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, urged public attendance. He declared:

"We face the worst budget crisis in county history. This hearing is an opportunity for us to find out what citizens are concerned about, and gives citizens a chance to gain a deeper understanding of the problem."

The county commissioners, meeting as the ways and means committee, will continue budget deliberations through October 24, with adoption of the Budget scheduled for October 31.

Township continues battle against illegal signs

Squeeze on township sign violators took a new twist this past week as the Northville Township Board turned to jawboning.

With some half-dozen businesses already cited for violations, the board Thursday directed the supervisor to try to persuade the owner of the A&W Root Beer drive-in restaurant to remove the portable, flashing sign from the front of the building.

The board's action puts Supervisor Wilson Grier in a sticky position of jawboning with the A&W owner, Arthur Jahn, with whom he is associated in ownership of the next door Park Haus restaurant.

Specifically, the board wants Grier to try to convince Jahn that in interest of public relations the sign ought to be removed and to review with him legal points involving such signs.

Meanwhile, Inspector Troy Milligan reminded board members that six businesses have been cited for sign violations. He predicted most of these cases may go to court.

Concerning the A&W sign, the township attorney, Donald C. Morgan, concluded that the sign appears to be legal in that it was erected prior to adoption of the township's sign ordinance.

However, Milligan reminded board members that even if permitted as a legal, non-conforming sign it cannot be moved from one location to another on the premises.

Furthermore, it was pointed out that such signs can advertise only the business on the premises—and not, as has been the case, unrelated matters. Jahn has used the sign from time to time as a bulletin board.

The sign issue has triggered a rift between the supervisor and the inspector, and it has angered some planning commissioners who have insisted that the ordinance be enforced throughout the township.

At an earlier meeting Grier had ripped Milligan for placing the board in the position of embarrassing Jahn over a sign which had specific authorization and which has been used to publicize civic events in the community.

Last week Milligan suggested that permitting the A&W sign to remain makes enforcement of sign violations elsewhere difficult. He predicted that other cited violators will point to the A&W sign as a reason why their own signs should be permitted.

Legal or not, said Treasurer Richard Henningsen, "I don't like the sign and people have come to me with the same opinion. I think we could try to persuade him to remove it or to establish a sign within the ordinance guidelines."

In his letter to the board, the attorney noted that "any verified movement of the sign or change in use would constitute grounds for removing the non-conforming status of the sign and prosecution."

However, the attorney said that he has been presented with no evidence "that the sign has been moved since the effective date of Zoning Ordinance 47."

The ordinance prohibits flashing signs, advised the attorney, but that the law allows such signs to exist if they were erected prior to adoption of the ordinance.

In a related matter, the board approved an ordinance change, as recommended by the planning commission, concerning wall signs.

The change provides this new text: "In those shopping centers where an enclosed pedestrian way, in the form of an interior mall, is provided so that a portion of the rented spaces can be entered only from the pedestrian way, all wall signs may be displayed on that exterior wall of the structure which faces a major thoroughfare. There shall be no more than one per rentable space placed on such wall. No other exterior wall shall be used for the displaying of signs. The maximum size of each of these signs shall not exceed 15 square feet."

Budget meeting set at Moraine

Moraine Elementary School will apparently be the scene for the adoption of the largest budget in the history of the Northville School District.

If all goes as planned, the board of education will approve a $7 million budget next Monday at the Eight Mile Road school on Northville's west side.

The budget, some $250,000 higher than last year's, was presented at a public hearing last Monday in the board's normal meeting spot at the central administration offices on Main Street.

Next week's meeting will be at Moraine as part of the board's experimental plan to hold one meeting a month at various school buildings.

The traveling board meetings — designed to encourage public attendance and get board members into various schools — began last month at Amerman Elementary.

About 35 attended that meeting including several Amerman parents and teachers.

Moraine Principal Donald Van Ingen said he doesn't plan anything special for the meeting other than a guided tour of the building for the board.

He said the size of the crowd will determine if the meeting will be in the gym or in another room.

The agenda at the Amerman meeting was kept deliberately short in order to allow members of the audience a chance to talk with individual board members.

At least one trustee, James Lewis, has suggested that some less than cut-and-dried items be included on the "traveling" agendas so that people attending meetings for the first time can see how the board operates.

Those who attend next Monday's meeting are likely to see the $7 million budget approved since there are no more formal board sessions scheduled before the state's November 1 deadline for adopting budgets.

Although it will be the most money ever spent by the Northville school district, the proposed 1977-78 budget is viewed with some trepidation by school officials.

School expenditures have risen by an annual average of $700,000 for the last five years, but money from local taxes and state aid allows for less than half that increase this year.

The school's coffers have suffered two blows in the past three months.

First, a July 30 request for 2.8 mills that would have raised about $440,000 was soundly defeated.

Then, the September 30 Fourth Friday student enrollment count, which determines a school's state aid payments, was 50 lower than projected.

That meant the district's revenue was $70,000 less than expected when the preliminary budget was first prepared.

The school board has spent most of this month trying to trim $80,000 from an already tight budget without cutting staff.

The official Fourth Friday count now stands at 4220, which is 53 lower than expected and 190 less than the 1976 Fourth Friday count.

The enrollment drop seems to be traceable to two things.

First, this year's kindergarten class is about 150 students smaller than last year's graduating class.

Second, there are an apparently increasing number of families who are keeping their children in private schools rather than enrolling them in the Northville system when they reach high school age.

'Parents could help make bus trips safer'

Recall, if you will, the last time you drove a carload of restless, energetic and, quite possibly, screaming kids. Those three or four little monsters drove you batty, didn't they? Imagine, now, what it would be like if you had to chauffeur 66 of the little darlings to and from school, five days a week.

Heaven forbid, right? That's a standard fare, however, for Northville's bus drivers who drive an average of 1000 miles a month with their precious cargo.

Those miles would be more bearable — and safer — if parents would stress common sense rules to their children before sending them out the door to the bus stop.

Northville's already good safety record could be improved if "we could get parents to sit down and talk to kids about school bus safety," said the school's director of operations, Michael Janchick.

It's distracting for a bus driver to have to cope with student horseplay, fights and misguided missiles, but disruption is not the biggest safety hazard.

The biggest threats to a child's safety are the drivers who ignore the flashing signal lights of a stopped bus, according to acting transportation supervisor Bob Sieting.

Even though the law requires drivers in both directions to stop when a bus is loading or unloading, the number of cars that zip by is cause for concern, he said.

Unless the road is clear in both directions, Northville bus drivers are instructed not to discharge passengers until the lead car in both directions has come to a halt.

The need for this type of policy was driven home a few years ago when a girl was hit — but not seriously injured — by a car as it passed a bus discharging students on Seven Mile Road. In the 1950's, a Northville student was killed by a car as he left his bus.

Since lives are at stake, bus drivers attempt to record the license plates of cars that fail to stop for possible prosecution.

Northville buses more than half of its 4200 students. Many of those are walking farther than ever before because the number of stops has been reduced in an economy move.

Janchick knew there would be some resentment to the new bus schedules, but he notes the district still complies with all state guidelines.

Whenever possible, Northville buses pick up and discharge students from the right side of the road to lessen the chance of an accident, added Sieting.

"I think we have an excellent safety record," said Janchick. He also praised bus drivers for doing a "tremendous job" of teaching safety habits to youngsters.

However, he repeated, parents could do a great service by stressing to their children the importance of boarding the bus properly, staying in their seat and obeying the bus driver.

"It's just like being a principal," said Janchick who was once a principal. "Some parents will back you all the way. Others say, 'My kid wouldn't do something like that.'"

The school district has a policy that allows a student to lose busing privileges after a couple of warnings.

Although there have been some short suspensions, neither Janchick nor Sieting could recall a student who had been kicked off permanently.

"We can't deny them their right to education," said Sieting.

Janchick suggested that parents should school their children on these tips for safe bus riding:

- Leave home early enough to arrive at the bus stop on time.
- Wait for the bus in a safe place, well off the road.
- Enter the bus in an orderly manner and sit down.
- Follow the driver's instruction.
- Stay seated while the bus is moving.
- Do not stick head or arms outside bus windows.
- Keep aisles clear at all times.
- Remain quiet and orderly.
- Be courteous to fellow passengers and the bus driver.
- Be alert to traffic when leaving the bus.

Police Blotter

Man loses bout with chain saw

A Northville man let a chain saw get away from him last Tuesday and now he has a face full of stitches for his trouble.

Brian Mathewson, 40 Woodland Place, received 268 stitches — count 'em, 268 — after he was rushed to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia by Michigan State Police.

Mathewson was cutting firewood in a vacant lot south of Highland Lakes condominiums at about 4 p.m. when the saw inexplicably flew up and sliced across his face.

Miraculously, the saw missed his teeth, gums, cheekbone and eyes.

Bleeding profusely from the massive gash across his nose, mouth and chin, Mathewson crossed Seven Mile Road to the state police post.

He was taken to the emergency room at St. Mary where he received the stitches and was released several hours later. The next day, he returned to the post to thank the troopers.

In the city

A young Northville man is facing a court date next month after police say he led them on a high-speed chase through city streets early Monday morning.

Bruce Keyes, 18, 43753 Westridge Lane, will appear in Plymouth district court on November 22 to face a charge of reckless driving.

A city patrolman said he began following Keyes after he saw him make a high speed turn onto Center Street from Randolph. When the Keyes car allegedly ran a flasher while turning onto eastbound Eight Mile, the policeman said he turned on his emergency light.

The Keyes car then made a left onto Grace Street where it reached a speed of 70 miles per hour and ran a stop sign at Hill, according to police.

With a dead-end approaching, the car tried to make a turn on Maplewood but lost control and hit a stop sign, police said.

Keyes was taken to police headquarters where he posted $100 bail. His companion was allowed to go home.

Police have no leads in the theft of $1000 worth of tools from an unlocked Allen Drive garage. The time of the theft can only be narrowed to between Monday and Wednesday.

A Carpenter Street resident also paid for leaving the garage door unlocked. Someone made off with a $250 chain saw sometime between Tuesday and Thursday.

In the township

An eight-track stereo and turntable, valued at $240, was taken from the bedroom of a home on Parkland last Tuesday.

Township police are looking for the owners of a van as suspects in the theft of a stereo stolen from a Six Mile Road residence last Monday afternoon.

Witnesses saw a van pull up the home shortly before the theft was discovered and the vehicle left tracks on the lawn.

The thieves also left a console television on the back lawn. The missing stereo has been sitting on the TV in the victim's living room.

Township eyes pension

A new pension plan for municipal township employees could be implemented soon.

The plan was approved by employees and concurrence by Clerk

Clarice Sass and Trustee Mark Lysinger.

According to Mrs. Sass, the new plan will not cost the township additional money.

—Provides employees with an opportunity to invest more of their money as they choose.

—Provides more shared interest.

—Permits transfer from the existing plan at no additional cost.

Community's to rate Wayne sheriff services

John Barr, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, has given the county's 44 mayors and township supervisors an opportunity to rate the value of several law enforcement programs threatened by the county's financial crisis.

Barr sent out a questionnaire asking the local leaders to rate each program in terms of its importance to public safety in their communities. He also asked how many times each program has assisted their local police.

The programs are the W.C. Organized Crime Task Force, the Prosecutor's Repeat Offenders Bureau and the following sheriff's units: helicopter patrol, metropolitan narcotics squad, township patrols, community relations section and special services bureau.

Barr pointed out that the county board of auditors has recommended cutbacks in numerous county functions in order to solve a "dire" budget crisis by saving $17.3 million.

The auditors recommended the dropping of programs which the county is not legally required to fund so that funding will be available for legally-mandated services. Most of the law enforcement programs facing curtailment were initiated in recent years with since-expired federal grants.

"We are making every effort to examine our services in human terms rather than simply on a financial basis," Barr said. "I am asking the people who literally live with these problems and live with our involvement in these services, what it will mean to them if these services are curtailed."

Some crimes up, says police tally

Increases in auto thefts, concealed weapons, violations and malicious destruction of property marked the Northville Township Police report for August.

Thirteen cars had been stolen from the township through August of this year, compared with nine for the same period in 1976.

Concealed weapons violations have nearly doubled—from six to 11—this year.

And malicious destruction of property, of which there were many instances in August, has had a more than 30 percent increase this year.

Twenty-one cases of vandalism in August of this year amounted to a total loss of $1,705. In August 1976, there were only eight reported MDOP's.

For the year, there have been 93 reported instances as compared with 70 through August last year.

The police force wrote 341 complaints in August bringing the year's total to 2437. That's a 15 percent increase from last year's figure of 2106 at the same time.

Five forcible burglaries were investigated in August with a total loss of $660.

Burglary investigations number 34 through August, an increase of 10 from last year.

The first area performance of Agatha Christie's "Murder at the Vicarage" will be presented at the Schoolcraft College dinner-theater, November 18-19 and December 2-3.

A mystery drama, the play originally appeared in London during 1949 and again in 1975. According to Schoolcraft theater instructor and play director Lawrence Rudick, the Schoolcraft performance is the first in the Detroit metropolitan area.

Members of the all-student cast include: Buzz Buzzell, Lisa Danke, Marc Harlow, Janine Hill, Steve Swanson, Anna Warmann and Karen Weinberg, all from Livonia; Michael Groves, Betty Hancock, Paige Lysinger and Steve Massel from Northville, and Kenneth Keating and Charles Montgomery from Plymouth.

Director Rudick is assisted by Bob Gregory, technical director, Alice Anderson, producer, from Livonia, and Dennis Smith, stage manager, from Westland.

BETTY HANCOCK

A popular mystery author, Agatha Christie wrote 87 books and plays which sold 400 million copies during her lifetime. One of her most successful 'whodunnits,' "Murder at the Vicarage" presents the solving of a murder mystery by female detective Jane Marple.

A theater-in-the-round will be created in the Waterman Campus Center where dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. Schoolcraft Chef Robert Breithaupt has announced a special menu of tossed salad, cornish game hen with colbert sauce, herbed rice with watercress, assorted rolls and breads, choice of beverage and dessert. The play will follow dinner at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $8 per person and are available in the Campus Bookstore and should be purchased in advance. Further information may be obtained by calling 591-6400, extension 280.

Going up

Construction of Allen Terrace senior citizens housing complex in Northville took another step upward as workmen began erection of the second story last week at the west wing of the 101 unit development south of the high school. "From now on you'll begin seeing some rapid progress," according to city spokesman, who noted that wood sections of top levels are being built elsewhere in advance of erection. Meanwhile, earth removal and leveling (as indicated below) of the parking area are nearing completion. City Manager Steven Walters remains hopeful that the facility will be ready for occupancy in February.

Ambulance, car drivers charged

In a rare move, negligent homicide charges have been made against both drivers in an ambulance-car collision that killed a young Plymouth girl last August in Northville Township.

Ambulance driver Toney Bennett, 26, Northville, and Maureen English, 19, Livonia, were both arraigned Thursday in Plymouth district court and will face a preliminary examination on Monday.

Negligent homicide carries a maximum two-year sentence.

Chris Rundio 19, Plymouth — a passenger in the English car — was killed in the August 4 accident at the intersection of Five Mile and Haggerty roads.

Robert Sage of the outcounty prosecutor's staff said that the double charge was unusual.

"Ordinarily, you can point to one driver or the other," he said But, he contended, "that girl would be alive today" if not for the actions of both drivers.

He said the charges were based on the township police investigation of the accident.

"It is our theory that the ambulance entered the intersection without due care and caution," said Sage.

The English girl, he said, failed to yield the right of way and "ignored the siren and lights of the ambulance."

Miss Rundio was killed instantly when the English car, northbound on Haggerty, collided with the ambulance which was westbound on Five Mile Road on an emergency run.

Spokespersons for both defendants were surprised at the double charges.

"I've never heard of it being done before," said Beverly Clark who is the attorney for Miss English. "I think it is a legal impossibility."

James Early, owner of the Novi Ambulance Company which employs Bennett, said he was "very upset" about the charges and suggested that the prosecutor's office was looking for a scapegoat.

He also said his company would hire attorneys for Bennett.

After the accident, Bennett told police that he was going between 35 and 40 miles per hour in the 45 mph speed zone.

Police believe that Miss English may have been going faster than the 40 mph limit on Haggerty.

There is some discrepancy about who had the green light at the intersection. Early said the light had just turned green for Bennett.

Witnesses, including a man who was waiting to make a left turn onto westbound Five Mile from northbound Haggerty, have told police that the girls had the green light.

The man, who has not been identified, had spotted the ambulance and was passed on his right by the girls an instant before impact.

Early disagreed with the township accident report that said the ambulance struck the car. He said pictures indicated that his rig reached the intersection first.

Ambulances, when on emergency runs, may proceed through red lights but only after taking "due care and caution," according to state law.

Miss English was hospitalized after the accident with serious lung, spleen, liver, rib and pelvis injuries. Bennett suffered broken ribs and a concussion and another attendant in the rig, which carried no patients, had minor injuries.

Political Columnist Jack Anderson: 'Bureaucrats forming a dangerous tyranny of the many'

Muckraker zeroes in on 2.8 million bureaucrats

By RICH PERLBERG

As one who has spent a quarter of a century raking the muck in Washington D.C., political columnist Jack Anderson is well aware of the routine corruption that permeates the national capital.

Exposing low doings in high places has become a lifetime mission for Anderson, a devout Mormon who writes the most widely syndicated political column in the world.

But it was not the vote seller nor the influence peddler who was on the receiving end of Anderson's wrath last Wednesday when he kicked off the 17th season of Northville Town Hall at the Plymouth Hilton.

Instead, Drew Pearson's protegee zeroed in on the 2.8 million federal bureaucrats who, he said, are forming a dangerous and arrogant "tyranny of the many."

Dressed in a flashy, striped sports coat and a neatly tailored cloak of self-righteousness, Anderson told a capacity crowd of more than 700 women and a handful of men that government employees have forgotten who they work for.

"Their oath of office is to you, not Jimmy Carter and not the Congress," he said.

From his own observations and from angry letters mailed by Americans, Anderson has witnessed a disturbing trend by bureaucrats to reverse the master-servant roles.

Federal agencies live to devise more restrictive rules and regulations, he charged. Worse, their employees — who, individually, may be intelligent and patriotic — are "operating out of cubicles, forgetting who the sovereign is."

In line with campaign promises to disentangle the bureaucracy, Jimmy Carter has "rearranged the furniture in the oval office" and is "otherwise behaving as if he were in charge."

But, said Anderson, the bureaucrats are like Washington's starlings who flap and flutter at each new attempt to thin their ranks and then settle back into their eaves as though nothing had happened.

The problem, he said, is that Carter's 1200 Georgia policy makers must depend on the entrenched bureaucracy for information.

Then, any new policies that may be born must be turned over for implementation to — you guessed it — the bureaucrats.

"And they've learned that an unwanted directive will go away if they study it long enough," said Anderson.

The "tyranny of the many" will thrive as long as the American people are "more interested in football and bridge than in their government," he said. "If that's the case, you'll get the government you'll deserve."

He encouraged his audience to write letters and get involved in the political process.

Otherwise, he warned, people will forfeit their power to men like Richard Nixon who has stated that the president is sovereign and therefore has the right to break the law in the public's interest.

Incredulously, Anderson said that when Nixon swore to uphold the Constitution, "he should have read it. The president is merely our employee." The founding fathers realized that those who govern will attempt to oppress which is why they selected the press for the watchdog's role, said Anderson.

His style of investigative reporting is "high risk journalism" because there are no press releases or news conferences for wrong doings or waste.

"I've never known a government spokesman to tell me anything that he doesn't want me to know," he said. "I want to know what President Carter is planning, not what Jody Powell says he is planning."

"They (the government) can cover up more than we can uncover. So, it is possible we don't get the whole story. I don't think that's reason enough to ignore the story."

He said investigative reporters may only see the tail of an elephant and mistakenly call it "rope." But, he said, once they have latched onto the tail, they will probably pull the elephant out into full view.

Dictators — whether communist or military — realize this which is why their first act is to seize the newspapers, he continued.

"Nobody has ever suppressed the government," he added.

It is difficult for a man who warrants the round-the-clock surveillance of the CIA to be humble, and Anderson is not.

He has led a squeaky clean life (he neither smokes nor drinks), he works hard (a Mormon in western U.S. learns "you get stronger legs climbing mountains than sitting on your duff") and he expects others to do likewise.

The son of a taxi driving mother and a government-employed father (he was a postal clerk), Anderson held a $7 a week job on a weekly newspaper by age 12 and was city editor of a Salt Lake City daily by the time he was 18.

Today, he and a staff of 10 reporters and six interns exposes inefficiency and corruption in 990 newspapers and on ABC television every morning. He lectures once a week, writes books and plans a TV series where guests will be required to take lie detector tests.

He has also found time to raise nine children, teach Sunday School and dodge the CIA. "It's nice to speak in front of microphones you can see," he joked Wednesday.

At heart, he's a muckraker and makes no apologies.

Although he dislikes welfare, he gets angry when the poor, aged and unemployed have to beg for handouts while huge corporations get "charity" in the form of tax incentives.

He bristles at the fact that Ford Motor Company paid no income tax on $800 million profit earned in 1974 and 1975.

He lays the blame for the energy crisis at the feet of the oil and gas industry who, he said, have been dictating policy.

Instead of merely pushing a conservation policy — so that the oil industry "can squeeze the last cent out of the last drop" — the government should be searching for an alternate fuel.

Anderson suggested alcohol made from garbage. He said such a fuel has already been proven more efficient and less of a pollutant than oil, but projects have been hampered because the oilmen still dominate the Federal Power Commission and the Federal Energy Commission.

The high price of oil — which has caused nations to borrow heavily rather than cut their standard of living — will be the cause of an economic bust in 1978, he predicted.

The United States already has $200 billion in outstanding overseas loans, and $45 billion to $100 billion of that is already bad, "burned up with oil," he said.

And the nation will be facing severe

Nature preparing

"Nature Prepares For Winter" is the title of a program dealing with winter survival of plants and animals to be held at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Saturday, October 29 at 9 a.m.

Both plants and animals have evolved interesting features which prepare them for the coming winter. Learn how "nature" survives through this most harsh season by joining Park Naturalists for this program.

The program is "free", but advance registration is required.

View scary plants

A program entitled "Supernatural Nature" will be held at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Sunday, October 30 at 9 a.m.

The Halloween season is a subtle reminder of a time when people believed in the supernatural. During this period, many superstitions were created about different plants and animals and the powers of good or evil that they held.

The 1½-hour "free" program is open to families and individuals, however advance registration is required. Vehicle entry permits (Daily - $1) are required.

For information-registration contact the Nature Center at Kensington Metropark - Phone: 685-1561 (Milford).

Swimsuits and binoculars will come in handy for bicyclists who tour Lake Huron's white sandy beaches and picturesque old lighthouses on a scenic 123-mile trip linking Alpena and Rogers City. Climbing the steps of an 1840 lighthouse at Presque Isle Harbor or diving into the cascading water of Ocqueoc Falls—Lower Michigan's only waterfall—are among adventures awaiting bikers who make the complete tour via US-23, M-68, M-65, M-32 and less-traveled roads in Presque Isle and Alpena counties. At Rogers City, the limestone quarry is the largest in the world and resembles craters on the moon. Alpena has the world's largest cement plant, and Automobile Club of Michigan also recommends stops at the city's wildfowl sanctuary and the Jesse Besser Museum. For a 75-mile trip covering just the eastern portion of the route, bikers can use M-65 to link up with US-23 and M-32 and stop at Posen, where a potato festival is held each fall. There are campgrounds, motels, restaurants and parks along the route, and both Rogers City and Alpena have municipal beaches.

You can send a postcard from Hell, "do time" at Jacktown (but at a safe distance from the world's largest walled prison) or visit the State Capitol on a 184-mile bicycle tour through some of southern Michigan's prettiest lake and farm country. The complete circle bike tour outlined by Automobile Club of Michigan connects Brighton in Livingston County with Jackson in Jackson County, Albion in Calhoun County and Lansing in Ingham County. For a 105-mile trip, bicyclists can head north after seeing what Hell looks like and pedal to Lansing before returning to Brighton via Grand River. Jackson's illuminated Cascades fountain and Ella Sharp Museum complex, restored Victorian mansions in Concord and Albion and the Michigan State University campus in East Lansing are highlights of the trip, which covers miles of corn fields dotted with oil rigs pumping rhythmically up and down. There are campgrounds and motels all along the route, and almost every town has a delightful community park.

House overrides veto despite Milliken's plea

By Warren M. Hoyt

A so-called nonpartisan bill became a bitter partisan issue during and following a legislative override of a governor's veto last week.

Governor William G. Milliken pulled out all stops and made party unity pleas with House Republicans in an effort to stop a veto override on a bill giving more power to the Legislature in promulgating rules drawn up by state agencies to implementing laws.

The override was the first in 28 years.

A comfortable, working relationship between the Republican executive office and the Democratic-controlled Legislature was at the very least bruised if not totally severed as a result.

The House vote of 74-5 — the exact number needed for a two-thirds majority — included six Republicans even after a personal appearance in the Republican caucus by the governor making a last ditch effort calling for solid party unity.

Following the vote, Milliken fumed and said the bill's constitutionality would be challenged. He asked for a Supreme Court advisory opinion claiming the act usurps judicial and executive power.

"The action is simply a power grab by the Legislature when it all too often has trouble facing up to some of the major responsibilities it already has," Milliken charged.

House Minority Floor Leader William Bryant of Grosse Pointe Farms shouted "petty politics" after the override and noted the governor had pledged an alternative change in the rules procedure.

Speaker Bobby Crim of Davison bounced the charge back to minority party members and reminded them of the original 97-5 vote on the bill. He declared the issue was really one of elected officials versus bureaucrats.

The governor continued to smolder as long as two days after the override noting he would not forget the names of the six Republicans who voted with Democratic majority.

He also lashed out at legislative leaders citing failure to pass budget bills as the new fiscal year begins calling the inaction just another example of the Legislature's irresponsibility.

Budgets for the Departments of Military Affairs, State Police and Highways and Transportation remain unsettled with the dawning of the new fiscal year.

Representative Robert Welborn (R-Kalamazoo), one of the six Republicans voting to override, brought to the attention of the House and governor a 1962 override attempt.

The vote notes then Senator William G. Milliken was one of 22 members who voted in favor of overriding a veto of a bill which also would have required affirmative legislative approval of administrative rules and regulations prior to becoming effective.

Language of former Governor John B. Swainson's veto message stated in part "...there is no damage of infringement upon the Legislature's exercise of the legislative powers. If the Legislature were allowed to establish itself as final arbiter on how the executive administers the law, a significant portion of executive powers would be assumed by the Legislature."

Legislative observers are split over what affect the override and the ensuing friction with the Legislatures will have on Milliken's decision to seek re-election as governor, run for the U.S. Senate or retire from public office.

Some believe the sting of the override will hasten retirement while others see it as a mandate to remain as the state's chief executive and provide tougher scrutiny on legislative actions.

Milliken continues to promise an announcement by Thanksgiving.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

DONNA O'HARA

EARL KEIM REALTY OF BRIGHTON is proud to announce that Donna O'Hara has accumulated sales in excess of $1,000,000 thus far in 1977 and is well on her way to $2,000,000.

Donna has been active in the real estate business since 1972 and with Earl Keim Realty since April, 1975. Her area of expertise is in residential and vacant land sales.

Donna resides with her husband, Terry, and two daughters in Greenfield Shores (Lake O'The Pines Subdivision), Brighton.

LICATA'S WOODBURNING HEATERS, 318 West Grant River, Brighton, began as a hobby for Frank and Pat Licata and became a business in June of this year. They were interested in using wood-burning heaters in their home and decided that the energy crunch would make a lot of other people interested too.

The Licatas heated their home last winter with a pot-bellied stove but this year switched to a more efficient, airtight, Morso wood heater, imported from Denmark. It stands in the kitchen but "radiantly" heats the entire 1200 square foot ranch house.

They say that burning wood is cheaper than a $1000 propane gas bill for their furnace.

The shop carries the Morso heaters, Franklin and parlor stoves as well as Efel and Preway cone fireplaces. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday; closed Monday.

TWELVE OAKS HUDSON'S, as well as the firm's other stores, is offering a chance to win one of three one-week trips for two to Acapulco, Mexico, via American Airlines. Entry blanks for the Discovery Days sale drawing will be available and must be received by October 24 at store closing. Three winners will be announced November 7. With the other Hudson stores, Twelve Oaks is introducing "Devin" from Aramis, called the "world's next great fragrance for men." The new scent will fill the air in the stores October 24 and customers will be offered complimentary gifts.

I could once buy a suit for twenty-five bucks;
Two pants and a vest to boot!
I could get a good shirt (long sleeves) for a song
And a one dollar tie was a beaut!

The same suit today is two-twenty-five;
The tie takes a ten-spot or more,
While the shirt costs as much as the erstwhile suit
That we bought in our country store.

Men have resorted to denims in slacks
To try to hold down the cost,
But like flitser-sized cars, they're now out of sight
And I look at my wardrobe aghast.

We might try canvas or burlap or duck
To cover the likes of our knees,
But as sure as we did, the price would go up—
And we'd be down to our B.V.D.'s!

The Seagull

A seagull glides above in heaven's blue:
It's free aloft to gaze below and see
The rocky shore and crashing waves. What do
You think about this world, O spirit free?
You're soaring high and breathing air so pure.
I wonder if you ever want to rest
A while and feast upon small fish that lure
The other birds to earth. They pause and nest
Along the winding shore, and make a home
Among the craggy rocks. But you, O gull, Must soar then glide as though you'd rather roam
The sky all day and never find flight dull.
Could you be flying toward your dreams? If true,
Dear bird, my heart's eternally with you.

threats from a hostile Latin America unless the Panama Canal is turned over to the Panamanians, he said.

The canal is too narrow for the large U.S. aircraft carriers and the issue is a "devisive one" among Latin American countries that could tilt to Castro and Communism.

But Anderson was not all gloom. He said his work has made him a staunch believer in his country.

"No one has more faith in America than an investigative reporter," he said. "We've learned that this country is strong enough to withstand the truth."

Besides, even though he makes his living by catching politicians with their hands in a bagful of bribe money, Anderson may be less cynical of the Washington scene than most of his readers.

"Nixon's worst crime was to say that all presidents were like him," said Anderson. "That's not so."

He implied that there are a lot of hardworking, basically honest people on Capitol Hill.

They just need to be reminded who the boss is.

Consistent temperature, humidity essential for proper food storage

By BRIAN DEMING

So you hoed in the spring, watered in the summer and harvested this fall and now you are up to your neck in fresh fruits and vegetables.

No one wants to buy them. The neighbors have enough of their own. The kids are sick of salads, and you are sick of canning tomatoes and making fruit pies.

As most gardeners know, storage is the solution to the surplus harvest dilemma.

Storing vegetables and fruits is probably the cheapest and easiest of all methods of food preservation.

The local authority on fruit and vegetable storage is Richard D. Miller of the Livingston County Extension Service.

His office at the Human Resources Center, 210 South Highlander Way in Howell, has many publications on this and other subjects related to agriculture. The Extension Service also offers advice by phone at 546-3850.

According to Miller, the most important consideration in storing food is maintaining a proper and consistent temperature and humidity.

The traditional place to store fruits and vegetables is, of course, the root cellar, usually an outdoor storage cellar constructed partly underground.

These are well suited for storage because their below ground construction allows the maintenance of uniform cool temperature and moderate humidity.

But fruits and vegetables can be stored in many other places besides conventional old-style root cellars.

Any place that can maintain the proper combination of humidity and temperature, and can be properly ventilated can serve as a root cellar.

Adequate ventilation and proper, stable temperature and humidity are necessary to preserve the flavor of the food as well as to slow the processes of decay.

Basements, outbuildings, areas beneath porches or bay windows, even simple outdoor pits can become root cellars if properly prepared and maintained.

Ideal storage conditions vary depending on the kind of fruit or vegetable being preserved. But in general the temperature should be maintained at no warmer than 50 degrees Fahrenheit and no cooler than 35 degrees Fahrenheit with 45 degrees being the ideal temperature.

The humidity should be maintained at a moist 50 to 65 percent.

Modern basements can be a poor storage area because central heating creates a dry and often too warm an atmosphere.

A solution to this problem is to construct a room in the north or east side of the basement with access to an outside window, and without any heating ducts or pipes running through it.

Removable slatted flooring should be installed to keep vegetable and fruit containers off the floors. Also, the humidity can be raised by putting wet sawdust or some other damp material beneath the flooring.

The use of outbuildings for storage can be a problem if outside temperatures get hot or well below freezing.

Supplemental heat may be necessary in very cold weather.

Very little heat is necessary to prevent subfreezing temperatures in the building but, in any case, such a building should be well insulated.

Cone-shaped outdoor pits are fairly common for the storage of potatoes, carrots, beets, turnips, salsify, and cabbage, and sometimes for apples and pears.

The pit may be built on the ground or in a hole six to eight inches deep in a well-drained location.

First spread a layer of straw, leaves or other bedding material on the ground.

Stack the vegetables or fruits on the bedding in a cone-shaped pile. Avoid storing vegetables and fruits in the same pit.

Cover the vegetables or fruits with more bedding and then cover the entire pile with three or four inches of soil.

Firm the soil with the back of a shovel to make the pit waterproof and dig a shallow drainage ditch around the pit.

Ventilation should be sufficient for small pits if one lets the bedding material at the top of the pile extend through the pile. Cover the top of the pile with a board or a piece of sheet metal to protect the stored produce from rain.

Because of difficulties in removing fruits and vegetables from pits in winter, and because the entire contents of a pit should be removed once a pit is opened, it is usually best to construct several small pits rather than one large one.

Some garden vegetables have a very short storage life and should be preserved in other ways.

Asparagus, snap beans, lima beans, sweet corn, green peas, and spinach should be frozen or canned. Broccoli, brussels sprouts, cantaloupe, cauliflower, eggplant, kale, kohlrabi, okra, parsley, peppers, and watermelon should just be frozen.

Horseradish should be canned, and cucumbers must be pickled.

Lettuce and radishes will not preserve and should be used fresh.

The most durable vegetables for storage are the root crops such as potatoes, carrots, turnips, rutabagas, and onions.

However, root crops tend to lose moisture readily and therefore are best stored in perforated polyethylene bags.

Cabbages should be trimmed and stored in a similar manner.

Celery can be stored by lifting the plants with the roots intact and set close together in boxes of moist soil.

Some vegetables are best preserved if stored in cool dry places, or even warm dry places.

Dried beans, peas or popcorn can be kept in a cool location as long as they are kept dry. Onions, after being cured for several weeks in a warm, dry, well-ventilated location can be stored several months in an attic or room where the temperature does not drop below freezing.

Tomatoes, pumpkins, and winter squash store best in warm, dry locations.

The length of time vegetables can be stored varies. Horseradish, if properly stored, can last up to a year while broccoli, even in the best conditions, should not be stored more than a week.

Most vegetables, stored in the fall, should be consumed by early January. Root crops can last through the summer.

Slayman Winesap, York Imperial, Northern Spy, Rome Beauty, Yellow Newton, and Winesap varieties store best, lasting from four to eight months.

Rhode Island Greening, Golden Delicious, and Delicious apples store at least three and as much as six months.

The poorest varieties for storage are the Gravenstein, Wealthy, Grimes Golden, Jonathon, McIntosh, and Cortland varieties.

Cranberries and pears can be stored up to three months but most other fruits cannot be stored more than a month.

The quality of the produce being stored is, of course, important. Crushed, cut or decaying fruits and vegetables should be removed. Apples that have dropped from the tree should not be stored. Bruises that may not be apparent may appear and spoil the fruit after storage.

A point to remember is that the quality of produce is seldom improved in storage. Carrots and apples may become sweeter after a short period of storage but for most foods the quality will gradually diminish.

It is difficult to estimate the popularity of this kind of food preservation but Miller estimates that perhaps ten percent of the households in Livingston County store their surplus harvests in root cellars or make-shift root cellars.

The ease and inexpensiveness of storing make it a foolish method to resist.

Acute insulation shortage may last through winter

Acute shortages of insulation which have been delaying completion of homes and causing widespread inconvenience for Detroit area home buyers may ease somewhat as building tapers off this fall, but substantial relief is a long way off.

That is the message given to members of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan at the September general meeting at the Troy Hilton Hotel. High and growing demand from both retrofit and new-home markets, heightened by increases in quantities of insulation in each home, are main reasons.

The crunch first hit July 1, when the principal insulation manufacturers established a new allocations system, based on "5 or 10 percent more than a supplier's purchases" last year, took effect, Hal Frantz of Whitson Insulation, told the builders. Under exceptionally high demand circumstances, he said, inventories were quickly exhausted.

Merit Solving Smoker Dilemma.

'Enriched Flavor'™ breakthrough ends search for "low tar, good taste" cigarette.

For years, smokers had to choose between real tobacco flavor or low tar. Until MERIT.

Until a breakthrough in tobacco science resulted in a way to boost natural tobacco flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The result was 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT and MERIT 100's were packed with this special tobacco. And taste-tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

The results proved conclusively that 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco does boost taste without the usual increase in tar.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. And you can taste it.

'Just being able to quote the law can get results'

By JEAN DAY

"It's small groups of articulate people who get things done," Esther Shapiro, director of the City of Detroit consumer affairs department, admitted to Northville Woman's Club members and their guests at the club's opening luncheon at Meadowbrook.

"Whatever it is that you're concerned about, get involved. Visit the person (who can do something about your case) in person on a persistent basis. You'll get taken care of to get you out of the office."

Mrs. Shapiro, who is past president of the Consumer Federation of America, stressed that it's a fact of life that it's the "most effective pressure that moves us."

She urged the women to learn what the new consumer laws are, noting that "truth in packaging, truth in lending and, hopefully, more in insurance" laws do exist.

"It's up to you to get information," she told the women, "for there are now very, very good laws ending discrimination."

Conceding that enforcing capacity is limited, Mrs. Shapiro said the Federal Trade Commission has only one attorney to handle complaints so that people often are advised to get an attorney.

This sometimes is not realistic for a routine complaint about goods, she said, suggesting that women with complaints about merchandise must "be aggressive."

"Being able to quote the law often gets results," she advised.

She illustrated an anti-discrimination point with the story of an older woman, a financially secure widow of five years, who was urged by her "liberated" daughter to get her credit cards in her own name.

"A Sears executive, probably really trying to be helpful, suggested that she leave them in her husband's name. Apparently he thought a dead male a better risk than a rich widow."

"The woman then went out to the store and made some really big purchases, a washer and dryer included. Then she sailed back to his office, dropped the charge slips on his desk and declared, 'Collect from him!'

The speaker said she sees women as having "only just begun" to get equal treatment as consumers.

Mrs. Shapiro touched on a local issue when she pointed out that there has been "a tremendous fight in the state to get gravel trucks covered — with 40,000 truckers telling how much it will cost."

She feels this issue has to be settled at state level with cities and townships not able to pass effective legislation alone.

"Whenever anybody questions what you are going to have to give up (for consumer legislation and rights) and what it's going to cost," she suggested, "be sure to realize in consumer reform that you have to look at what it's costing not to have it."

As an example, she pointed to care labeling instructions that became mandatory for clothing in 1970.

Experts on the producers' side testified in Washington before the Federal Trade Commission that it would be costly.

The cost per unit?

"It was estimated at five cents a garment," Mrs. Shapiro indignantly related, telling how she went to Washington to testify when she was a consumer specialist for the Michigan Credit Union League, facing a battery of arguments and representing a group without funds to refute them.

The law did pass, however, and it now costs only .002 per label for purchasers to know clothing materials and instructions for their care.

"The cost of not knowing is far greater," she reviewed, urging purchasers in any area to have all the facts.

This is more involved in the medical field, she noted, recalling facts about the advent of thalidomide, heralded in Europe as a "Sleep of the Gods," and widely used there for pregnant women.

"One stubborn chemist, a woman, held it up in the United States and was widely criticized until the most horribly malformed children with shortened limbs began being born of mothers who had taken it."

That's the kind of thing that's needed."

When you think of the cost of better tire inspections, the speaker continued, think of the cost of an accident because a tire was faulty.

A successful consumer protection law, she cited, was one requiring that the eyes in children's toys be sewn in and not inserted with a spike. Without it, it was predicted that some 3,000 children could have been blinded.

All through history there has been concern for consumer rights, Mrs. Shapiro told club members, quoting the Bible that "a just weight is his delight," mentioning that Martin Luther was "furious" about the use of food coloring and that in 1481 it was a pillory offense to put stones in butter sold by weight.

In days past, Mrs. Shapiro said, it was easier to pinpoint an offender in the marketplace. Today we may not have any idea who is responsible.

"We need someone to represent us,"

SHOCKING—Mrs. Christopher Gazlay, Northville Woman's Club program chairman, exaggerates her surprise in fun as Mrs. Esther Shapiro, City of Detroit

Consumer Affairs head, urges women to read labels. Mrs. John Brown, club vice-president, right, laughingly agrees.

Who will wear crowns?

Again this year a king as well as a queen will reign at Northville's homecoming festivities this weekend. King-candidates from left Mark Hooth, John Coram and Steve Laffler, pretend they're crowning queen-candidates Cher Bourne and Chris Freel. Also a candidate for queen but not pictured is Carrie Barron. The winning seniors who'll wear King and Queen crowns will be honored at Friday's game. This is the second year that Northville has a homecoming king with equal rights at festivities.

She'll serve third annual Italian dinner to 100

By JEAN DAY

One hundred people will be dining out in the old library in Mill Race Village Saturday evening, October 29, as Mary Ware prepares her once-a-year Italian dinner as a benefit for Northville Historical Society and its restoration work at the village.

For the third annual event given by Mrs. Ware with help from her husband, Donald, and her family. Mrs. Ware has arranged for special organ music to accompany the lasagna and wine. When she explained her project to officials at the Arnoldi Music Company store in Northville Plaza on Seven Mile, the firm offered to bring a $10,000 organ to the Mill Race and supply an organist for the evening.

It's $15 each for an evening of authentic Italian food with wine and music, and all profits go to the historical society, Mary Ware emphasizes. When she began the venture, she explained that she was using her talents (and her willingness to work hard for a cause) to raise a sum that she otherwise would not be able to contribute. Tickets are available from Virginia Hayward, 349-0408, or any other member of the historical society. Those who have attended the previous dinners report that a "fun evening with lots of conviviality" is in store. Anyone who likes homemade Italian food or who would like to help the Mill Race is invited to call for tickets.

Newcomers 'emphasize the positive'

"The Image Maker" is the name of the newest project of Northville Newcomers Club. It's billed as a ladies evening event with Julia Hubbuch, chairman, arranging for demonstrations on "how to emphasize our best features and camouflage flaws." They will be done by Affiliated Models, Incorporated, with complete make-overs being done on models. It is to be at 7:30 p.m. November 3 in Innsbrook Apartments community room.

Gerald Haynes of Gerald's of Northville beauty salon has promised to be on hand to show how to choose a special hair look and to answer questions. Newcomers, alumnae and guests are welcome, but reservations are limited to 75. Reservations are being taken by Pam Urban, 349-6733.

Woman's Club to hear Dr. Allen

"Getting back to the tradition of Northville Woman's Club" is the aim of the second program of the new year for the 85-year-old organization. Dr. Margaret Allen, a professor of English literature at University of Michigan and formerly a professor at Madonna College, will be guest speaker on "The Image of Women in Literature." The meeting will be at 1:30 p.m. this Friday at First Presbyterian Church.

At the club's opening luncheon October 7 Mrs. E. A. Chapman, a past president, pointed out that when the organization was formed fewer women went to college so that programs emphasized culture. In pre-baby sitter days, Mrs. Chapman remembered, she attended meetings with her mother and grandmother. She said she felt she was "representing also two past presidents" — her mother, Ethelwyn (Dubuar) Lapham, and grandmother, Camilla (Swift) Dubuar.

"We would call it adult education now," Mrs. Chapman observed, recalling that members were required to present two papers a year which were scholarly works researched in the library.

At Friday's meeting Dr. Allen is to trace the growth-development and response of women as reflected in literature, reports Mrs. Robert Stern, program chairman for the day. In addition to being known as an excellent speaker, Mrs. Stern adds, Dr. Allen has high instructional qualifications. She presently is initiating a program of professional writing for engineers at Ford Motor Company, a project she developed and "sold" to the company.

Town Hall season's soaring

As women who attend the celebrity luncheons following Northville Town Hall lectures already know, the speaker responds informally to questions, often making very timely comments. Columnist Jack Anderson last Thursday was no exception. He told those attending that they can influence those who direct events in Washington. "Twenty letters will influence him," Anderson said, telling women to write their congressman.

Last week's luncheon was a sell-out. Chairman Mrs. Richard Booms notes that it's none too early to send luncheon reservation checks for the next lecture, featuring Betty Jo Hawkins November 10. Cost is $5.25 with reservations to be sent to Northville Town Hall, Box 93.

John J. Connarn, executive assistant-public affairs, in public relations for Michigan Bell Telephone Company, introduced Anderson at the opening lecture. He had served as a special agent in the Counter Intelligence Corps before beginning his Michigan Bell career in 1954. It was a special delight for Mrs. Booms to have him introduce the speaker as he is her brother.

Mill Race had attractions—but no tintypes

To those who came to Northville's Mill Race Village last Sunday to see a tintype artist at work and perhaps have one made, the Docent organization, which is part of the Northville Historical Society and planner of the attraction, apologizes. Because of some confusion in arrangements he did not arrive.

Visitors to the Mill Race, however, did see the new wallpaper in the Yerkes House main floor rooms and furnishings of the 1850-60 period in Hunter House. Many items, including an Empire desk and pantry pie safe, are on loan from Detroit Historical Museum.

Society to open year with photography talk

Focus of the first fall meeting of Northville Historical Society at 8 p.m. next Thursday, October 27, will be on photography and the evolution of the photographic process.

The meeting in the old library building in Mill Race Village will have as guest speaker Leonard A. Walle of Northville.

Walle is past president of the Michigan Photographic Historical Society and a member of the Marine Historical Society of Detroit.

He also is a member of the Photographic Historical Society of America, the National Stereoscopic Society and the Michigan Photographic Historical Society.

Walle has a degree in chemistry from University of Michigan and a master's in business from Wayne State University. He is assistant to the technical director of Flint Ink Corporation.

A collector of photography as well as an amateur photographer, Walle will show slides and exhibits at the meeting.

He plans to cover historical significance of photography and birth of the process, including Daguerreotypes and the Calotype, in his talk.

He will continue with the evolution of other types and then discuss importance of photography today.

Anyone interested in attending or who wishes to know more about the program may call Jackie Daniel, 349-7818.

Carol Zeuner wed in fall ceremony

For her candlelight wedding to Paul Bottrell, Carol Zeuner wore a southern-belle styled gown of white nylon lace with tiers of lace forming the hooped skirt that extended into a full train.

The bodice featured a scalloped neckline and long, lace sleeves. Her illusion veil was fingertip length, and she carried an all-white cascade bouquet of stephanotis, carnations and baby's breath.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Zeuner of 19801 Marilyn Road while the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bottrell of Sault Ste. Marie.

Carol was given in marriage by her father in the 7 p.m. ceremony September 24 at Plymouth Wesleyan Church with Pastor Kenneth Hill officiating.

As honor maid, Barb Frader wore a long peach gown with cape. Bridesmaids Julie O'Brien, Jan Whitmyer and Cecilia Pond wore matching gowns in yellow, green and blue respectively. All the bridal attendants carried multi-floral nosegay bouquets with ribbon streamers to match their gowns and wore matching flowers in their hair.

Cindy Hicks, flower girl, in a pale orchid dress carried a basket of multi-colored flowers.

Mike Innis came from Kinchloe Air Base to be best man. Ushers were Tommy Polvich of Marquette, Ray Linn of Howell and Brad Sjolholm of South Lyon. Their shirts and boutonnieres were color keyed to the bridal attendants' dresses.

A reception for 175 guests followed at the Plymouth Cultural Center with out-of-town guests coming from Ohio, Indiana, Florida, Illinois and Michigan areas.

After a wedding trip sightseeing through the southern states, including Louisiana, Tennessee, Arkansas, Kentucky and Mississippi, the newlyweds are living in an apartment in South Lyon.

The bride is a graduate of Northville High School, Class of 1976. She attended Schoolcraft College this past year.

The bridegroom now is manager of the TG & Y Allen Park store. He is a graduate of Sault Ste. Marie High School and served in the U.S. Air Force.

The couple met while working together at the TG & Y store in Northville.

declared Mrs. Shapiro, adding that Sylvia Porter qualifies.

"I hope you read her every day."

The estimated $300 cost of air bags, in Mrs. Shapiro's opinion is an "inflated price."

She stated her personal preference for seat belts, relating the comment of a state trooper that he "has never removed a body from a seat belt."

But only an estimated 20 to 23 percent of the population wear them, she added.

"It's too bad," she said, looking back, that the first interlocks were so badly designed by auto barrons that people including the speaker had them disconnected." She mentioned that she understands the greatest protection with air bags in frontal.

She warned that some say the time has come for the consumer protection pendulum to "swing the other way" but urged the women not to be easily frightened.

Mrs. Shapiro is employed by the City of Detroit with Mayor Coleman A.

Young appointing her in 1974. She quoted him as being most willing to share the city's information with Detroit's suburbs.

She added that it was nice to come and find "that some things hold together as long as this club." Northville Woman's Club now is beginning its 85th year.

Library to show 'Cat in Hat'

"The Cat in the Hat", the classic Dr. Seuss film, will be presented at the Northville Public Library at 9:30 a.m. this Saturday.

This Thursday the Northville Public Library will be showing the film, "The Real West", as part of the monthly series for senior citizens.

The program begins at 2 p.m., and refreshments are served following the hour-long film.

Admission is free and all age groups are welcome.

League sponsors forum, Fermi power plant trip

The League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi will hold a public forum on the proposed charter for the City of Novi at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 1, at Orchard Hills Elementary School, 41900 Quince in Novi.

Members of the charter study commission, as well as David Fried, Novi city attorney, will be on hand to explain provisions of the charter and to answer questions from the audience.

The public is encouraged to attend.

The League has made arrangements for a two hour tour of the Enrico Fermi Nuclear Power Plant in Monroe on Wednesday, October 26.

Detroit Edison has resumed construction on the Fermi 2 nuclear power plant.

This is a unique opportunity to go inside what soon will be an operating nuclear power plant. Once it is in operation, federal government regulations will not allow visitors, the league points out.

After a brief introductory audio-visual presentation which explains how the plant will operate, visitors receive a guided tour inside the turbine and reactor buildings.

They will see some of the massive components which will eventually provide enough electricity to supply a city of one million people.

Those interested will meet at the home of Neva Carter, 42257 Ashbury Drive, Canton, off Lilley, south of Warren at 8:15 a.m.

Those in need of child care should call Ms. Carter at 459-0441. The public is invited.

Financial review buoys township

Township board members appeared buoyed last week by a review of the budget through the first six months of the fiscal year.

That review indicated that if the current rate of expenditure holds true through next March, the township's treasury will end up in the black.

"I feel pretty confident that unless things fall apart during the remainder of the year, we'll probably end the year with about the same surplus we had last year — about $50,000," Treasurer Richard Henningsen told The Record.

However, Henningsen added that proposed library building expenditures, beyond the federal grant allocation, "has got me a little concerned."

Most departmental expenditures appear to be in line with the budget allocations approved last spring, officials noted. The township's fiscal year runs from April through March.

Some of the areas where expenditures are running above those anticipated in the original budget are: Legal, up $3,000; consulting engineer, up $1,000; township hall and grounds expenditures, up $2,300; ambulance service, up $460; road maintenance, up $500; planning commission (includes salaries, planning consult), up $1,340; employee fringe benefits, up $3,064; and general administration, up $2,782.16.

In actuality, the departmental expenditures in the six months review budget may be greater in that they do not reflect grant (CETA) monies received, spent or anticipated to be spent. The budget lumps all CETA monies in a separate account. Thus, CETA monies being spent by the police department, for example, are not reflected in the police budget.

Officials explained that separation of CETA monies, to keep a more accurate account, is a recommended bookkeeping procedure.

Not included in the original budget was a $24,500 anticipated expenditure for operation of the township's new fire department. Thus, this figure appears as an additional expenditure.

Start-up costs for the fire department, involving purchase of equipment, is not reflected in the budget since the township secured a bank loan to cover this figure. The board authorized the borrowing of up to $50,000, with repayment slated later.

Included in the budget was an outlay of $30,500 for township share of the jointly operated fire department that was dissolved at the end of August. The actual expenditure, approximately $24,892.52, the budget review showed.

Based on this "five months" payment to the city, one board member suggested that the total cost to the township, had the joint fire department continued for the remaining seven months, would have approximated $60,000.

However, The Record learned that of the $24,892.52 outlay, $8,027.73 represents payment to the city for services rendered prior to the 1977-78 fiscal year — specifically for the months January through March. In reality, therefore, the township's share of joint fire service through the first five months of this fiscal year appears to be $16,864.79.

According to City Manager Steven Walters, had costs continued at the same rate for the last seven months of the township's fiscal year, the township's share for the full year would have approximated $39,700 — not $60,000.

The six-month budget review also showed that several departmental expenditures are running significantly below the budgeted figure. For example:

Clerical expenditures in the offices of clerk and treasurer, down $8,578; elections outlay, down $2,309.41; cemetery, down $100; police department, down $25,000; building department, down $10,185. Some of these decreases do not reflect CETA money expenditures, however.

The originally approved budget called for a total outlay of $689,239. Expenditures, if continued at the present rate, will total $699,216.59.

However, the township expects to receive and spend $71,760 in CETA funds which will boost its anticipated end-of-the-year budget to $770,976.59. The $770,976.59 includes a carry-over of $44,175.69 (involving general fund monies, federal revenue sharing and anti-recession funds) from the last fiscal year.

It appears also, based on a review of the township's contingency fund, that through the first six months of the fiscal year less than half of the $126,000 has been spent or encumbered, leaving a half-year balance of $75,000.

GOP freshman award goes to Carl Pursell

Congressman Carl D. Pursell (R-Mich.) has been selected as the first recipient of a new Republican Freshman of the Month Award.

Announcement of the selection by Representative Pursell's Republican House colleagues was made by Congressman Newton I. Steers, Jr. of Maryland, president of the GOP Freshman Class for the 95th Congress.

Representative Steers said Pursell was cited for his work in the Science and Technology Committee and on the House floor, to stimulate an intensified national effort in laser fusion energy research.

"It was largely through the efforts of Congressman Pursell that the House adopted a $9.2 million addition to the Energy Administration authorization budget for civil energy applications of laser fusion. Carl has generated a much wider awareness of the potential of fusion energy, and the important role private industry must play in making energy from laser fusion available to American citizens," Steers commented.

"This award was created to focus attention on such positive accomplishments by our newest members of Congress," Steers added. "We want to dispel any lingering myth of the docile freshman who has little impact on the legislative process. That's not true of the new breed of first-term congressman like Carl Pursell."

Pursell's efforts for development of the new energy source were also publically recognized by senior members of both parties in the House.

Representative Walter Flowers (D-AL), chairman of the Science and Technology subcommittee which first adopted the amendment, said during final debate on the fusion energy amendment: "I will say to the members that the gentleman from Michigan, Mr. Pursell, has certainly carried the ball for this technology in our subcommittee and called the attention of the members to the importance of it."

Congressman Pursell represents Michigan's 2nd Congressional District, encompassing major parts of Wayne, Washtenaw and Monroe counties in the southeast part of the state.

Holiday fare

While Christmas is 67 days away, women of St. Paul's Lutheran Church point out that it's only 16 days until their holiday bazaar. It will be held at the church from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, November 4, and will feature

EDC to prepare plan for center development

Two temporary appointments to the board of directors of the Northville Economic Development Corporation this past week signalled the start of planning for development of the Wayne County Development property.

Appointed by action of the board in compliance with EDC rules concerning membership during the period when a specific project is being proposed were Eunice Switzer and David Harris.

No specific details of the proposed development has been disclosed.

In a letter to the board requesting the appointments, John Dugan, William Miron and Ross B. Northrop, originators of the EDC, stated simply, "We intend to commence preparation of a project to develop the land known as the Wayne County Development Center in accordance with current zoning requirements."

The three men explained that Wayne County intends to place the land on public bid to the highest bid.

The state, they said, still remains hopeful of purchasing the property and constructing a prison on the site.

By planning for development of the property, the EDC is hopeful it can squeeze the state prison proposal out of contention.

"The state's proposal," they emphasized, "is not in keeping with current zoning and certainly not in the best interest of the continued development of Northville Township."

While Northville has thus far managed to toss cold water on the state's prison plan for the child development center, Saugatuck in Western Michigan lost in its battle to prevent establishment of a prison south of Holland.

Attendance boost hoped

First Baptist Church of Northville is engaged in a "Victory Sunday School Campaign."

The campaign began Sunday October 9 and will run through Sunday November 20.

The past Sunday, October 16, was "One Hundred Percent Class Day." Two classes boasted a 100-percent attendance. Each achieving the goal were Mary Lou Smith's class in the primary department and Gary Allison's class in the high school department.

This coming Sunday, October 23 is named "Do It Again Sunday." On Easter Sunday of this year the Sunday School reached a high attendance for the year of 178. The object of "Do It Again Sunday" is to reach that attendance again.

Sunday School time is at 9:45 a.m. each Sunday

"FREEDOM OF RELIGION"
"O Lord my God, in thee do I put my trust:
... (Psalm 7:1)"

A little more than 201 years ago our nation was founded by men with faith in God. On our monetary system is inscribed "in God we trust." The pledge allegiance to the flag says, "one nation under God." Suits are pending to have this recognition of God removed. We need to be mindful that our fore-fathers lived and died for freedom of religion not freedom from religion. Let us determine to be a people who will stand strong to preserve our freedoms as nation. It begins with trust in God!

Business women plan celebrations of national week

"It may be our last chance to have Mayor Allen honor us," explained Northville Business and Professional Women's Club representative Marlene Danol, as she called to say Northville's mayor was signing a National Business Women's Week proclamation.

The mayor is retiring at the end of his present term.

He long has supported the efforts of the business and professional women. The week, which runs October 15-22, is sponsored by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Incorporated.

Louise Cutler, new president of the Northville club, received the proclamation from Mayor Allen.

It states that, "whereas, working women constitute over 26 million of the nation's working force, and are constantly striving to serve their communities, there states and their nation in civic and cultural programs," the week is proclaimed as, Mayor Allen notes "all of us are proud of their leadership in these many fields of endeavor."

Major goals of the business and professional women are to help create better conditions for business women through the study of social, educational, economic and political problems; to help them be of greater service to their community; and to further friendship with women throughout the world.

Several members of the area clubs, including Northville, Novi and South Lyon attended a kick-off banquet in Grand Rapids last Saturday.

Marlene Danol, past president of the Northville club and now active as an officer in the state organization, will be attending a "finale" banquet in Marquette this coming Saturday.

Northville and the new Novi club will get together for a joint meeting and celebration October 27 at the Farmington Holiday Inn. Guest speaker is to be Richard Fessler, state representative, who will be speaking on legislation that will affect women.

New members are especially welcome to join during the observance with any interested women invited to contact Virginia Plunkett, membership chairman at 349-1435, after 6 p.m.

Mrs. Danol also mentions that Business Women's Week is nearly 50 years old, having been formed 49 years ago in 1928, to dramatize contribution of women to the business and professional life of the country.

BPW SALUTE—Northville Mayor A. M. Allen joins President Jimmy Carter and Governor William Milliken in proclaiming October 15-22 National Business Women's Week sponsored by the National Federation

Judy Landau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Landau of 201 Fairbrook, has roller skated to a world championship place in artistic dance competition at the 22nd World Championship Roller Skating Competition held in Montreal, Canada. She and partner Larry Chopp were second, coming within a point of being first. Judy, a June graduate of Northville High School, displays her medals. In addition to the official one, she received a commemorative from Canada as well as emblems of countries competing. "It's the first time in years that a team went to world for the first time and placed," her mother explains, telling how flowers were thrown at Judy's feet when she skated to second place in the contest held at the Olympic site. After exhibitions in Rockefeller Center in New York, the Northville skater will go into training to begin all over with state, regional, national and then world competitions next year.
